Schools slate June bond vote

By W. EDWARD WENDOVER

PLYMOUTH — The Plymouth school board would like the district's voters to get another try at passing a building bond issue on the June 11 ballot.

It voted Tuesday night to seek state approval to put a $9,975,000 bond proposal on the June ballot. State approval is considered likely.

A reduced version of two previously defeated bond issues, of this funding would be designed to construct three new elementary schools in the district and to complete Plymouth - Canton High School.

Voters defeated a $21 million bond issue in December 1972 and a $14 million proposal last June.

The bond issue, if passed, would mean an additional 1.29 mills debt retirement school taxes.

This would amount to $19.40 annually for the owner of a $30,000 home with a state equalized valuation of $15,000.

The bond issue would be carried for 30 years.

School officials said passage of this bond issue, which would mean a total debt retirement levy of about 7.064 mills would mean the district would qualify for the low - cost state bond loan program in the future.

That program, which is available to any district levying a minimum seven mills for debt retirement, allows a district to borrow up to 90 per cent of its additional bonding needs from the state at low cost.

The bond issue, which was unanimously supported by the seven school board members, was based in part upon a recommendation made in a study by Alden B. Dow Associates Inc.

That report was discussed by the board at a workshop Monday night.

It recommended basically what the board passed in its bond issue resolution, but also recommended building a 17 - classroom addition to Plymouth - Canton High School and suggested that the bond issue be proposed to raise $10,944,900 — about $1 million more than the the board voted to seek.

Supt. John M. Hoben, in explaining why the classroom addition to the high school was not approved by the board, said studies have shown more high school classrooms are going to be needed in the future and "why piecemeal construction?"

The Dow Report recommendations accepted in the bond proposal are the construction of the three elementaries at $1.9 million each and construction of Phase III of the new high school at a cost of $4 million. Each project is estimated to take two years to complete.

That phase of Plymouth - Canton will include music and physical education facilities.

The bond proposal will also include other items suggested by the Dow Report including: selling of some school sites and acquisition of other sites, site improvements and conducting a feasibility study on building a 900 - student elementary school in the future that could be converted to a middle school as the student population and district mature.

Also on the June ballot will be a 6.5 operating millage renewal for a five - year period.

Although the school administration has discussed putting a special safety issue on the ballot, the board has taken no action on it as yet. The schools' Safety Committee has recommended such an issue.

Last June voters defeated a half - mill safety levy.

Second fire station stalled for Canton

By MARIE MCGEE

CANTON — A question of procedure has momentarily stalled the selection of an architectural firm to prepare plans for a new Canton Township fire station and an addition to the present station.

It appears likely the township will engage the Livonia firm of Ralls - Hamill - Becker - Carne, Inc. if the township attorney rules that the township isn't legally obliged to solicit a contract from more than one firm.

The Livonia firm was the only one asked to submit a list of contract terms and fee schedules for the construction of a new fire station at Warren and Haggerty roads and to add an apparatus room and new living quarters for the present fire station at Canton Center and Cherry Hill roads.

The question of procedure arose when contract terms and fees were discussed. It was raised by Trustee James Poole.

Poole asked Township Clerk John Flodin if other firms had been asked to submit contracts and was told the Livonia firm was selected on the basis of workmanship displayed and the "good words we'd heard from other communities who were very satisfied with their work."

Flodin said the firm had constructed two fire stations in Livonia and had done considerable work at Schoolcraft College. He said he had personally visited the Livonia buildings and was very pleased with the work.

Urgency in getting the construction under way was another reason cited for not asking other firms to submit contracts.

The contract terms are standardized, Flodin said, and he doubted the township would find any lower fee schedules by shopping around.

Joining Poole in questioning the procedure was Trustee Brian Schwall.

Poole went on to sponsor the resolution granting the contract to the Livonia firm on the condition the attorney rules the township doesn't have to seek competitive prices.

The resolution passed with only Schwall voting against it.

The action stirred one person in the audience to comment on the chain of events.

That was Clarence Partin, president of the Northwest Homeowners Assn. At one point he called the action "ludicrous."

"Don't you know how to solicit architectural services in general?" he asked.

"A 'closed deal' like this may raise some questions," he continued.

"To have this happen at this time seems ludicrous to me," he said.

The discussion brought to mind a similar incident involving the granting of an exclusive cable television franchise to an Ohio firm over a year ago. At that time, Poole questioned granting the franchise to the lone bidder, but was voted down.

PLYMOUTH — Would-be butchers and bakers and marine biologists at Allen Elementary School came in from recess every Friday in March to make sausage, or decorate cakes, or see movies about what they want to be when they grow up.

For the past three Fridays all 600 of Allen's students have participated in the area's first elementary vocational interest classes. By the time the program ends this week each student will have had a chance to explore four different career choices.

Principal Tom Workman and his staff asked the students what jobs they would like to find out about. From the suggestions of the children they came up with 52 different careers that could be explored.

Twenty-four classes were held last Friday, many of them conducted by area residents who work in jobs about which the students were curious.

"At the elementary level kids usually know pretty well what their father does, but that's about all," Workman said. Not only does the program introduce children to a variety of ways to earn a living, it also brings students together for a day according to their interests rather than their ages.

In one room Judge Dunbar Davis told his audience about the work of a judge. In another, nurses from the University of Michigan demonstrated to a class how to apply splints and bandages.

The students were free to choose whatever class they wanted, but only boys wanted to be electricians and pilots and only girls came to classes for nurses and waitresses. "I guess we should have had a class for waitresses and waiters," Workman said. Future astronomers traveled to the planetarium at Crestwood High School. Tomorrow's computer programmers went to the computer center at Schoolcraft College.

Pharmacist Bob Beyer showed his students how to help their parents get the caps off kid - proof pill bottles. He lectured on the responsibilities of the pharmacists.

Student electricians learned how to make extension cords. By the time class was over they had made three of them for use around the school. "They worked, too," said fifth - grader Mike Megia.

Pilot Jack McDonald, former auto racer Scotty Edison, and credit union manager George Lawton spoke to students about flying, racing, and banking. "Everybody in this room wants to go fast, right?" McDonald asked. Every voice in the roomful of boys said "yes."

"schools without failure" seminar he and other staff members attended last year. Each Allen teacher volunteered to find a speaker or create a presentation in two different occupational fields. "You've got to have a staff that's supportive," he said.

Teachers and principals from other schools have expressed an interest in the Allen career program. "They're casing the joint," said Workman.

In one room a music teacher let future musicians create sounds on the violin. The smaller children had a little trouble fitting the instrument under their chins, but they were still pleased with the noises they made.

Some of the youngsters are already set to try new careers.

Asked what instrument he's going to play when he grows up, fifth grader Ron Guthrie said: "It's not going to be the violin, my hand is tired."

According to Workman, a surprising number of children signed up to hear the judge, lawyer, and architect who spoke. A fireman, an artist, teachers, and an Army recruiter also came to talk with students.

Workman said that the vocational mini-class idea evolved out of a

Rubber checks cost merchants $50 million

By HANK MEIJER

At an area gas station recently a driver handed the attendant a $10 bill to pay for a fill-up. When the day's receipts were added up the attendant discovered that it was actually a $1 bill with a zero clumsily added.

Like the near-sighted attendant with his costly dollar bill, Michigan merchants got taken for nearly $50 million last year alone by bad check passers.

According to Trooper Michael Garrison of the Plymouth Post of the Michigan State Police, merchants make crime easy for these check passers when they are careless and casual in cashing checks.

Check fraud "isn't an epidemic around here yet," Garrison said, but he cautioned merchants to be on their guard.

Garrison stressed that a driver's license is the best possible identification to accept. Essential information from the license — name, address, and license number — should be written down on the back of the check.

The driver's license can be a tip-off to a bad check passer. On a proper license the first letter of the number in the upper left corner should correspond to the driver's last name. None of the next three digits that follow it should exceed six.

One way to test a suspicious driver's license is to ask the customer his birth date. Also be alert to other discrepancies in identification — a young man who sports a card with an old birth date, for example.

On the check itself, make sure the signatures match. Make sure the amount in print and that shown in numbers corresponds. Don't accept erasures. If a signature is unreadable, make the customer print his name clearly somewhere on the check.

Beware of any alteration. Don't cash post-dated or out-of-date checks.

"Paperhangers," as bad check passers are called, often prefer to use payroll checks because of their apparent legitimacy. But Garrison notes that the incidents of stolen or faked payroll checks in Michigan is on the rise.

Checkwriter machine marks are no longer a guarantee of authenticity, as thieves often use the machine when they steal the checks or buy one on the black market. Certified checks, too, are not necessarily valid.

All personal checks issued in Michigan use a coding system. The first two numbers in the magnetic code along the lower left portion of the check correspond to two sets of digits printed in the upper right corner.

The first of a pair of numbers above the line in the upper right corner is coded to reveal the location of the bank the checks are from. A "9" indicates a Detroit bank, while a "74" means the check comes from an out-state bank.

Monday last day to buy license tab

All Michigan motorists must have 1974 license plate tabs displayed by Tuesday, April 2.

To get license tabs, motorists must either furnish the prepared renewal form mailed to most last fall, the 1973 registration or certificate of title, and proof of public liability and property damage insurance.

About 900,000 drivers are expected to wait until the last 10 days before the April 1 deadline to purchase tabs, or about one of every five car owners in Michigan. Normally, about one of every seven wait until the last minute before getting license plates.

Vehicle owners will receive one tab, which is to be affixed to the lower right corner of the rear license plate.

AllState promotes Livonia man

Harry Prevost of 9101 Brentwood, Livonia, has been promoted to district claim manager by the Allstate Insurance Companies.

Prevost will direct the office operations of some 75 employees handling all health, workmen's compensation and commercial claims filed with the company in Michigan. He will be located in the firm's regional office headquartered in Southfield.

Prevost joined the Sears insurance subsidiary in 1963 as an adjuster. Since then he has had four major promotions, serving as a casualty unit claim manager prior to his recent promotion.

On all checks the magnetic code begins 5 1/4 inches from the right side. One way to trip a forger on this point is to put a 5 1/4 inch strip of tape on your sales counter and set the check above it before you cash it.

Finally, make sure the check is really a check and not an ad voucher or subscription form. Garrison said that in one case a merchant accepted a check cut from a magazine with paper glued to the back so you couldn't see through it.

If you catch a bad check passer in the act, try to detain him. "But don't be a hero," Garrison said. "Regard the forger with the same caution as you would any criminal."

When a bad check has been passed, the police should be contacted immediately. The merchant must send a five-day notice out to the suspected forger, and wait that period before criminal action can be taken.

Garrison noted that merchants often decide not to prosecute in some cases, or back off when they have to go to court. He stressed that the deterrent of prosecution should be applied consistently.

"Everyday citizens are the ones you'll trip up, a professional is still hard to catch," Garrison said.

Among the preventive measures merchants can take is to have employees initial all checks they cash. "They'll be more careful then," Garrison said.

When you establish a check cashing policy, stick to it. Encourage customers to use your own courtesy cards.

Keep the bad check you've taken in good condition. It's an important piece of evidence.

Many of the same guidelines can help merchants to limit the growing practice of passing stolen credit cards.

Garrison told of one west suburban resident whose credit card was stolen from his sport coat when he took it off at work. "He didn't miss it for 10 days," Garrison said.

A woman used the card to run up $600 worth of purchases in that period. She purchased gas at three stations and not one even bothered to check the license plate. "Not until a sharp Kmart guard got suspicious was the card recovered," said Garrison. All the charge slips had been signed by a female, but the card hadn't been questioned.

"We've become too familiar with credit cards and checks," Garrison said. His motto is "know your endorser and check that check."

"CHECK THAT CHECK" before you cash it advises Trooper Michael Garrison of the Plymouth Post of the Michigan State Police. Careless Michigan merchants were taken for nearly $50 million by bad check passers last year alone. According to Garrison, by taking a moment to study the check and know the endorser many merchants could dramatically reduce their losses. (Staff photo by Harry Mauthe)

What's happening at Plymouth's Youth Inc.

By MARTHA MAHAN

PLYMOUTH — About 85 kids a day drop in at the Plymouth Youth, Inc., center on Main Street.

They go to play ping pong or chess or pool, make pottery, read, work in the photo darkroom, fiddle around repairing electronics equipment, read or just join together for a sip of pop and a chat.

The back room, with a door mercifully closed for rock non-fans, may contain a hard rock combo practicing.

Someone else may be hard at it completing painted murals. Others may be bricking off a corner for an inside garden.

An older youth may be showing a younger visitor how to go about the art of silk screening.

That's just the day-to-day, drop-in activity which goes on.

Then there are formal workshops to teach weaving, yoga, karate, painting and drawing, silk screening, photography, chess and other arts and crafts.

A food co-op gathers on alternate Saturdays and 4-H Club dog obedience classes meet Wednesdays and Thursdays.

There's the Midnight Sun coffee house Monday, Tuesday and Friday evenings where local musical groups play to gain exposure and experience.

A Saturday night film series has just ended and two fund raising projects lie ahead.

One is a door-to-door candy sale Saturday, March 30.

The other is farther on — a Farmers' Market where produce raised by the young people and others can be sold to the public.

Last year youths from the center planted eight gardens on a piece of land loaned to them off Northville Road. This year no land donor has turned up, but the center's director, Dale Yagiela, has scrounged up a few plots for those wanting to garden.

This coming spring the center hopes to join with the Our House Festival and to sponsor canoeing and camping trips.

Right now it could use additional art supplies and cars and controls for a slot car table which stands idle.

But all these activities and the numbers of people involved fail to show, Yagiela feels, the success of the program's primary intent: the ability to serve deep personal needs of youth which are not met anywhere else in the community.

And that's hard to gauge, he says. It's difficult to measure development of self-concept, ability to cooperate, clarification of values, acceptance of responsibility and the like.

Yagiela tries to explain it this way:

"Each of us have 'apparent needs' which are highly visible and easily serviced. These include recreation, education, fellowship and such things as employment and income production.

"We use activities which satisfy apparent needs to draw youth to the center in order to service their inherent needs. These latter involve factors of personal growth and development, the development of a good self-concept, self direction, responsible attitudes, cooperation and concern for others.

"It involves the understanding of ego states and controlling them, establishing and achieving reasonable goals and elimination of harmful 'games'."

The best measurement of how these inherent needs have been met, the youth director feels, is the number of hours put in by his young clients in activities which contribute to or result from personal growth.

One such activity is fund raising — organized, staffed and executed by the young people themselves. They raised close to $3,000 this year by selling doughnuts, holding concerts, organizing and operating car washes, joining Fall Festival activities and staffing all solicitation.

Another positive activity is organization involving the researching, staffing and executing of both large and small functions. Each activity at the center involves young people in all these capacities, Yagiela says.

Youngsters also are involved in building improvement: organizing, staffing, cleaning, painting, repair and decorating.

A steering group of 15 is assuming responsibility for the center's operation. Analysis, problem solving and long range development are targets.

Peer counseling involves learning effective communication and helping others confront personal concerns, both in formal and informal meetings.

Staff counseling is concerned with formal staff interaction with youth in personal problem solving.

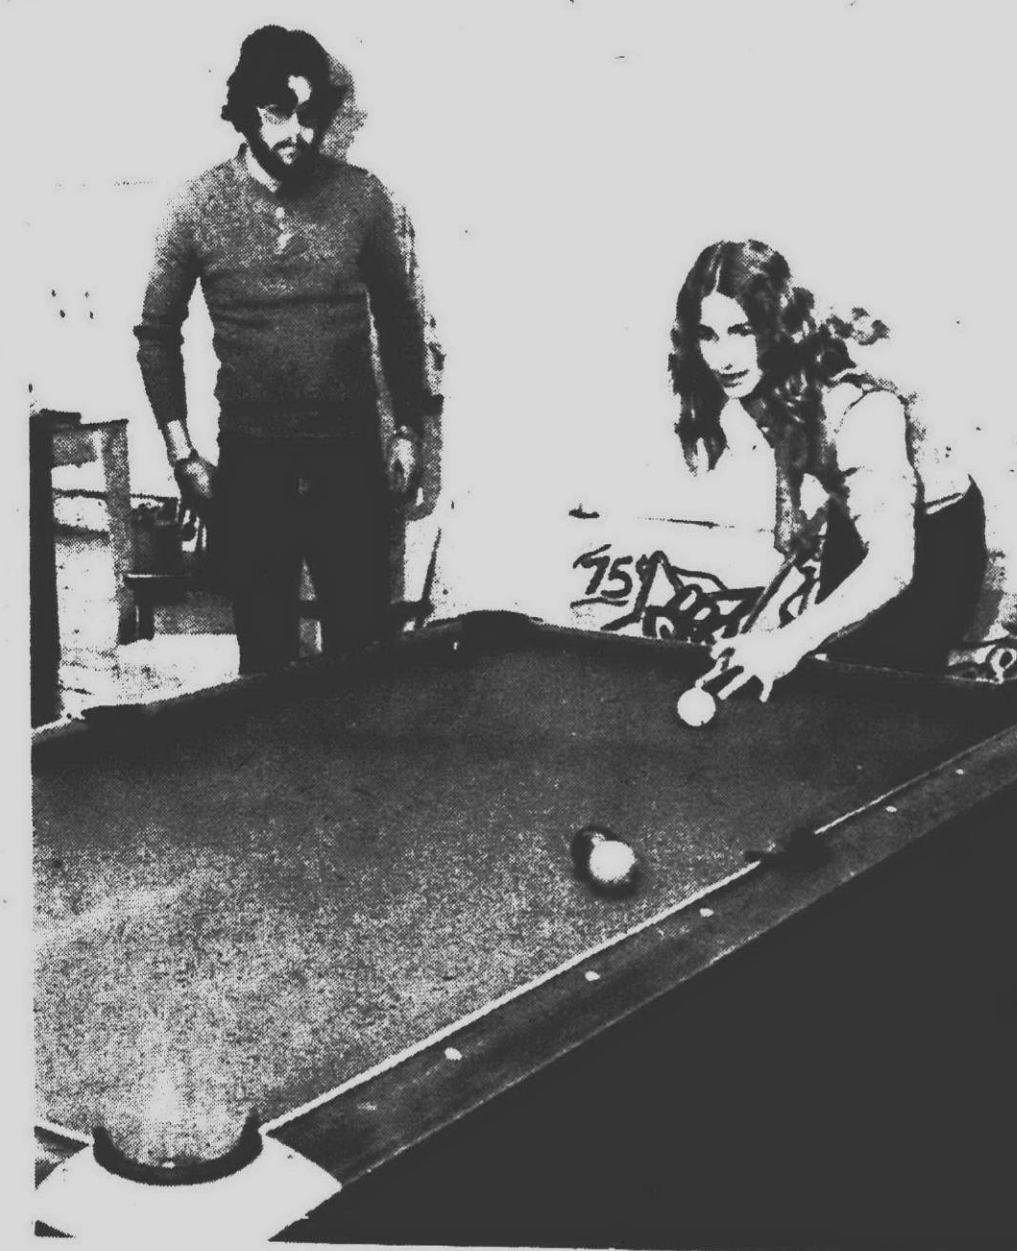

Lack of drug abuse at the center and the low frequency of vandalism, gambling, fighting and the like growth in self-concept and development of constructive indicates our success in achieving better understanding, growth in self-concept and development of constructive adult attitudes," Yagiela says.

"If you want to look at costs," he said, "look at it this way. We furnish about 300 activity hours a day for 300 days which pro-rates to about 25 cents an activity.

"If a kid gets in a jam and gets arrested, it costs about $3,500 and if he goes to jail about $7,500. It comes to about three times as much as our system which focuses on preventive activity."

GINA CARRINGTON introduces Joe Trierweiler to the muddy operation of a kick wheel in the first step of pottery making.

the Youth Center. The combo calls itself "Arza-chel" after one of the craters on the moon. "We're far out," they explained.

Community Band goes for broke

PLYMOUTH — The Plymouth Community Band will be literally "going for broke" this Sunday at 3:15 p.m. in the Plymouth - Salem High School auditorium.

The band, which has presented a summer concert series in Kellogg Park every year since 1958, will be opening its 16th season this Sunday by going broke.

The concert will expend the last of the band's finances for operational expenses in the hope that some patronage will be forthcoming that will allow the band to continue its service to the community.

Conductor Jim Griffith explains that the band's financial support has been withdrawn piece - by - piece as the Plymouth Community Fund has been affected by recent layoffs in the automotive industry, and since the City of Plymouth was informed by its attorney that its past contributions to the band's support were actually illegal.

Griffith says that unless adequate financing is forthcoming "in the immediate future," the summer band concerts in the park will be "a part of the past in Plymouth."

Nevertheless, this Sunday the show will go on as the Plymouth Brass Ensemble, a 15 - member group of present and former brass players of the Centennial Park Bands, will be the featured "soloists" on the program.

The band's hour - long program will conclude with the Norwegian concert march "Valdres." The number will feature eight trumpeters playing their antiphonal parts from each side of the auditorium balcony.

Griffith points out that casual dress, as for the summer concerts, will be a part of the informal atmosphere.

Canton fire study near completion

CANTON — The three-man committee appointed to study Canton's firefighting facilities after a tragic house fire in which four persons perished is nearly ready to make its report.

That was the statement by Fire Chief Mel Paulin to Canton trustees last week. He said the committee has finished its investigation and is compiling the facts for a report to the township board.

Moceri PUD public hearing is Tuesday

CANTON — The Canton Township Planning Commission will hold a public hearing on the planned unit development portion of the controversial "Moceri Project" at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

The hearing will be held in the fire hall at Canton Center and Cherry Hill roads.

The "Moceri Project" is a combined regional shopping center and multiple and single - family housing development proposed for the south-east corner of Joy and Sheldon roads.

Tuesday's hearing is on just the housing development portion of the project. The Canton Township Board has said it will vote April 9 on the commercial portion of the project for which rezoning would be necessary.

THESE TRUMPETERS will be featured at this Sunday's Plymouth Community band concert to be held in the Plymouth -Salem High School Auditorium. They are (from left) Ken

Musicians win honors

PLYMOUTH — Honors were won once again by Plymouth High School musicians at Saturday's regional State Solo and Ensemble Festival at Ferndale High School.

Musicians from several south-eastern Michigan high schools participated in the event.

Forty - seven separate events were instrumentalists from the Plymouth Centennial Park music department. Twenty-five of these entries received first division ratings of "Superior" performance. Fourteen won red ribbons symbolic of "Excellent" performance. Four were rated as "Good," three elected not to perform and one entered for "comments only." All of the participants were eligible as a result of their first division performances at the District Solo and Ensemble Festival held at Henry Ford Community College in late February.

The following Centennial Park students received first division ratings:

John Nichols, clarinet solo. Kris Sorenson and John Chiatlas, French horn duet. Dave Hough, snare drum solo. Mark Stephens, French horn solo. Sue Desch, Mark Stephens, Mary Kleam, Mary Schroeder, Barb Dusseau, woodwind quintet. Kitty Tillotson and Joy McClendon, woodwind duet. John Barnes, clarinet solo. Kitty Tillotson, flute solo. Faced with handicap, Tobatto changes destiny

By CORINNE ABATT

In 1968 doctors put a name to the symptoms which had driven Ed Tobatto of Livonia to medical specialists for several years.

Hundreds of tests and hospital days later he got his answer — multiple sclerosis, MS.

It changed the course of his life, or rather Tobatto himself did the changing. He is a person who rules his own destiny with a firm hand. He knows what he wants to do and he does it. MS be damned.

At the time he was told of the MS.

Tobatto was 27, married to Jennie and father of Dorene and Tony.

It was a shattering moment and he describes it vividly in the third chapter of a book he has been working on for almost a year. It will come out in soft cover sometime this summer. He is already in contact with the publisher.

"Maybe 150 pages, maybe more. I don't know I haven't finished it yet."

But, it will be finished. Tobatto is that kind of person with perseverance beyond anything he ever dreamed six years ago.

After the initial shock and the resultant emotional trauma, he read every book he could find, especially those dealing with motivation.

He changed careers gave up his position with an electronic firm because it required periods of time away from his family and went into real estate.

Now, six years later, he is president and broker of Norwood Realtors in Livonia, president and broker of I.C.E. International, a firm which sells land in the Bahamas, public relations manager of all Norwood companies and president and director of the Norwood School of Real Estate, a fully accredited private school.

He was recently appointed editor of "Branching Out," a newsletter for the metropolitan Detroit chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society.

He says, "I feel that if I'm gonna live, I'm gonna get everything I can out of each and every day. I never worry about tomorrow or yesterday because I can't do a thing about either one."

Although he doesn't particularly like to write, the book writing has already given him some special insights into himself. When this one is done there will be another with a philosophical and critical approach to sociological problems.

He comments on the one in process now. "The book is primarily based on how I accomplished my success in such a short period of time. It is a very emotional book. I have learned that I became successful unconsciously and I was not aware or conscious of what made me successful until I started to write the book."

"But, I have learned that success is predetermined if you condition your mind and body to react to the abnormalities of society's expectancies and demands."

He measures success in several ways. "I have an insatiable desire to work." This is one measure — he loves working at something he really enjoys and being able as a result to provide for his family.

Success, surely, for him, is being able to do something for and about the larger world — making it better, effecting changes.

"My playground is not just Livonia and metropolitan Detroit. I am looking at the whole world and it is just beyond my imagination that there could not be another world somewhere in space with intelligent beings."

He hopes to bring about some changes through his book. One is a better coordinated program for MS research.

"There is a doctor in Detroit working on MS research, another in Cleveland, one in Los Angeles," he lists other cities, "but there is no communication. The research is not coordinated. Their efforts are wasted because they are spending dollars to do the same thing. I feel I can promote the book when it comes out."

"If each MS patient would buy a book and sell two more, I would donate a dollar of each sale to set up an escrow fund for research."

Coordinated research, that is. He would like to see a major computer analysis of each MS victim's history — a search to find the one common factor in all MS patients. So far, none has been uncovered.

There are estimated to be about half a million people with MS. It is an estimate because Tobatto explains doctors do not have to report their MS cases. He would like to see legislation to make it a reportable disease.

There are 5,500 reported cases in Michigan, but the Health Dept. estimates the actual number at about 11,500.

Tobatto feels that finding a common denominator would be a major breakthrough.

Help is also coming from the federal government. In October 1972, the president signed the bill to create a National Advisory Committee on Multiple Sclerosis with an $18 million budget each year for three years.

From experience Tobatto has learned how to live with MS. He is diet and rest conscious. The diet is important because he is physically inactive compared to his pattern before 1968 when designing and driving race cars was one of his hobbies.

Now, to move more than 300 feet, he uses a wheel chair.

For shorter distances he says: "I do wall walking. I've got to have something to hang on to. Even with a cane, anymore than 300 feet and I'm in trouble."

He is not taking the commonly prescribed MS drugs because of the adverse side effect. He has had help from regular chiropractic treatments.

He says one thing that could apply as much to his book as to his business. "I like teaching and I like motivating people. Getting them to do things they didn't know they could do. I like that."

If the book reflects it's author, and most do, it will be the story of a man doing things he didn't dream he could... until he had to try.

Ravitz seeks more funds

Is mental health latest crisis?

The mental health of Americans is being attacked by the energy crisis, impact of high unemployment, inflation, pollution and political corruption.

That position was taken in one of the first public statements made by Mel Ravitz after being appointed staff director of the Detroit-Wayne County Community Mental Health Services (Act 54) Board.

The board, which develops and coordinates community mental health services in Wayne County, oversees an annual budget in excess of $18 million and currently funds some 37 mental health agencies.

On March 18, shortly after the appointment was announced, Ravitz commented that it is clear that large numbers of individuals are failing to cope with his or her world and are in trouble.

"It isn't hard to understand why so many more people are feeling frustrated, helpless and alienated," Ravitz added, when considering the emotional impact of the energy crisis, unemployment, rising family expenses, decay of housing, visible pollution, and high-level political corruption.

"When social, economic and political systems function harmoniously, productively, ethically, most persons feel unafraid, confident, even optimistic for their own and their country's future. That isn't the case these days — it's just the opposite.

"Given the fact, then, that more and more persons need help in the form of counseling, psychological support, even therapy," Ravitz continued, "it is ironic to find, at both federal and state levels, that the forthcoming fiscal year budget recommendations for mental health services have been cut from last year."

As an example, Ravitz points to the president's 1975 budget request to Congress for the National Institute for Mental Health which is down $34 million from last year. Drug abuse and alcoholism programs, he added, are reduced by about $20 million.

In Michigan, Ravitz says, the governor's 1975 budget recommends the same dollar amount as for 1974 but "assumes unrealistically" that for community mental health programs there will be more than $7 million more in federal reimbursements and more than $1.5 million more in increased local government support.

"There are additional cutbacks for the institutions. Besides, these state proposals seem to ignore the hard reality of inflation and the urgent need to strengthen rather than cut mental health services.

"If we are truly concerned about homicide rates, intensified, bizarre violence, a growing sense of apathy and 'what's the use,' we must act in two ways at one time: we must remove the basic social, economic and political sources of frustration and helplessness, and we must commit the resources necessary to help those who have become victims.

"To do less," Ravitz concluded, "is not only inhumane, it is self-destructive and dangerous for all of us."

Involved in human services problems for more than 20 years, Ravitz began his public service career in 1961 when elected to the Detroit Common Council. In that time, Ravitz has written more than 40 publications on human services problems and the local urban situation.

He has a PhD in sociology from the University of Michigan and is a part-time professor of sociology at Wayne State University. Ravitz was one of the founders of the Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Southeast Michigan.

In announcing the appointment, Act 54 Board Chairman Msgr. Clifford F. Sawyer said: "Dr. Ravitz brings an important combination to the Act 54 Board staff. His experience in government, and broad background of problem-solving in a variety of social service areas coupled with his academic training in urban affairs will be of inestimable value."

House approves prison furloughs

By Bob Erickson

Local state representatives joined with a majority of Michigan congressmen last week in the passage of a senate bill to allow "good risk" prison inmates furloughs from confinement in certain situations.

The passage of the bill gives official status to a program begun four years ago by the Department of Corrections when Michigan prisons began allowing inmates to leave the confines of the prison without a guard.

Local representatives voting for the measure, which passed 77 - 23, included representatives William Keith (D - Garden City), John Bennett (D - Redford Twp.), Robert Geake (R - Northville), John Markes (D - Westland), Thomas Brown (D - Westland) and Raymond Smit (R - Ann Arbor).

The program has been described by state officials as "very successful." In four years, only 92 of 13,000 prisoners furloughed failed to return.

The furlough program reportedly is aimed at enhancing the prisoner's feeling of self-confidence and responsibility, and, by allowing an inmate to work in the community while still in prison, makes the transition from prison to society easier and more successful.

Senators split on proposal to eliminate food sales tax

LANSING — State senators split almost along party lines in returning to committee a resolution aimed at eliminating the four per cent sales tax on food. The resolution would have submitted to voters in November a proposed amendment to the state constitution.

The vote was 13 - 12. All 13 voting to "recommit" were Republicans, including Sen. Carl Pursell of Plymouth, whose district includes Livonia and Redford Township.

Sen. William Faust (D - Westland) was absent for the vote but said he would have joined 11 Democrats and one Republican in attempting to keep the measure on the floor.

Usually, a motion to send a measure back to committee has the effect of killing it. In this case, however, informed legislative sources said there is a possibility the measure will be placed on the agenda again or that a citizen petition drive will put it on the ballot.

Arguments revolved around the cost of the plan, estimated at $150 million yearly in lost state revenue. Republicans are offering a $35 million tax credit as an alternative. It would amount to about $10 per person per family a year.

Pursell said, however, the substitute is also premature — that it is too early for even the governor and his staff to predict the budget accurately.

Pursell said he hoped the motion to recommit would convince legislators to be fiscally responsible, "though it might not be a popular position in an election year."

He added: "If you take a proposal like Resolution Q (the official designation of the sales tax relief resolution) and say you're going to reduce state revenue by $150 million, that may be popular, but it's not fiscally responsible. That money has to come from some place."

Faust, whose district includes Garden City and Canton Township, was absent but said he would have voted against sending the resolution back to committee. He said he was misinformed by his party leader as to when the vote would be taken.

April 15 is a good reason to ask us about an Installoan today.

At NBD, we have more ways to get you the money you need to pay your income taxes than any other bank in town.

First, if you're an NBD customer with a good credit rating, you can walk into any NBD office and walk out with an Installoan.

And if you can't get to one of our offices during regular business hours, we have 14 NBD Instant Loan Centers open from 9 to 5 Monday through Thursday, and 9:30 to 7:30 on Friday—separate, private loan offices inside our bank where you can get a loan quickly and confidentially.

Finally, if you have NBD's Checkmate, you can write yourself a loan—simply by writing a check.

If your taxes figure out to be more than you'd figured on, remember NBD. We make more loans to more people in more ways than any other bank in town.

Fiesta cleared of fraud

PLYMOUTH — Charges of auto repair fraud against Fiesta American Motors of Plymouth have been dropped by the state.

Fiesta was charged with deliberately falsifying auto repair descriptions in a consumer fraud survey run by the State Attorney General's office called "Project Diogenes."

After having a car with a defective spark plug wire taken to Fiesta for repairs, the state charged Fiesta billed them for replacing all the spark plug wires when it had actually only replaced the defective one.

Clarence Ducharme, president of Fiesta, told the Plymouth Observer & Eccentric after the state charges were publicized that his mechanics had replaced all the spark plug wires.

At a hearing before a referee for the Secretary of State, the attorney general's office could not produce the spark plug wires it had charged were not replaced. The state said it had secretly marked the wires and that it could tell the wires had been changed.

When it could not produce the wires, the state dropped the charges against Fiesta, which is located at 1205 W. Ann Arbor Rd., Plymouth.

A Fiesta spokesman said the firm was happy to be cleared of the charges and reiterated the fact that it had denied the charges all along.

Gignac gives tips on home fire safety

PLYMOUTH — Residential fires, 54 of which Plymouth Township reported last year, can, in many instances, be prevented according to Plymouth Township Fire Chief James Gignac.

To help reduce home fires, the chief has listed several safety tips.

"Fire hazards can be minimized by storing materials that are combustible in a orderly manner. Don't clutter the basement, attic, garage or workshop areas," the chief advises.

"Eliminate explosives and highly combustible materials from the home and don't overload electric circuits," he advises.

He suggests sleeping with the bedroom doors closed.

"When a fire is known to have started behind a closed door, don't, if at all possible, open that door.

"Unvented fires tend to build up considerable pressure. If a fire is suspected behind a closed door, feel the knob and door for heat. If relatively cool, brace a foot against the bottom of the door with hip against the side and one hand against the top of the door. Then open slightly. If a rush of hot air is felt, slam and bolt the door immediately."

Gignac advises to have and practice a family emergency exit and an escape plan.

"Make a floor plan of bedroom areas showing windows, doors, stairs and hall locations. Determine and mark alternate escape exits. If possible, all bedrooms should have two planned escape routes."

If in a smoke filled area, Gignac advises to keep low, cover the face with a wet cloth, take shallow breaths and don't panic.

He suggests designating an outside meeting place for all members of the family.

"It is extremely important that no one attempt to re-enter a burning building to rescue someone who has already escaped.

"Call the fire department. Township residents can pick up stickers from township hall or at either fire station.

"Conduct fire drills and practice escape plans regularly," he advises.

To provide even greater protection, the family should invest in an approved Underwriters' Laboratories and or Factory Mutual smoke detector that meets federal standards and National Fire Protection Assn. requirements.

"This information can be obtained from our headquarters," Gignac said.

"Of course I'm concerned about the future. Aren't you? That's why we put The Center in our plans."

A man has to think about the future. Not just inflation eating up your savings or the energy crisis. You have to consider your health and a lot of other things.

I feel good about our move to The Center. A Life Lease means that the apartment is ours for as long as we live...without worrying about the furnace giving out, the money to fix it or any of those other disasters that happen when you own a house.

We furnished the apartment with all the things we love, and only a few of the things I never could stand. I even kept my tools.

And our health? Well, everything ties together. First of all, we eat well...and properly. But Clara doesn't have to cook. And there's the Nursing Care Facility. There's always someone there in an emergency. That's security.

I still think about the future. I've got kids and grandchildren. But Clara and I moved to The Center, and I feel good about that.

The Lutheran Retirement Center

the interdenominational full-service retirement residence sponsored by Zion Lutheran Church Retirement Center, Inc., a nonprofit Michigan Corporation.

You are cordially invited to visit and tour The Center, 1200 Earhart Road, Ann Arbor, 48105, any weekday from 10 til 4, and on weekends from 1 til 5. Or you can obtain complete information by telephoning 769-6410 during these hours. Do come out and see The Center. You'll be happily surprised and thoroughly impressed.

'Murto' Memo slams everybody

There is an old adage that goes something like, "Let people say anything about me as long as they spell my name right."

That must be School Board Member Gary Mirto's philosophy.

You will perhaps recall last year when Mirto's Memos were flying everywhere kicking up dust. It seemed that every time the spirit moved him he'd crank up the mimeograph machine (at taxpayer expense, I might add) and send out memos to everybody he figured would read them.

Well, this time he's topped his previous efforts.

Singlehandedly this Knight Errant has taken on the student government at Centennial Education Park, the Plymouth City Commission and both the Plymouth and Canton township boards.

This time Mirto has found these other governmental bodies have shirked their responsibilities. He implies, by not mentioning his own track record, the school board -- and particularly Hizzoner -- have perfectly discharged their duties.

There is something to anybody running off 100 copies of a memo that sounds, in places, like a Daughter of the American Revolution essay. He must have an inflated ego to think 100 folks want to read that kind of drivel.

The battlefields of the world have spread out upon the human landscape littered with the dead of our men and women who have tasted of freedom and have paid the ultimate price in securing that freedom of democracy.

When? It sounds like Hizzoner is running for something doesn't it?

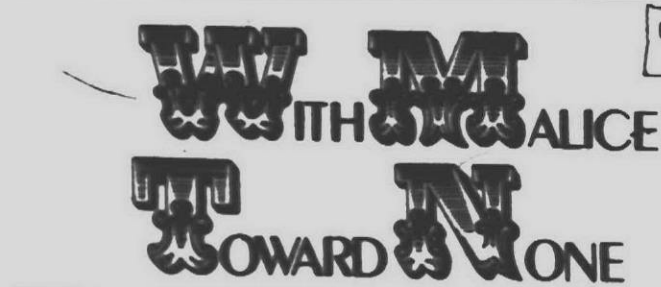

The point of Mirto's memo -- if you can pick it out of the three page essay on democratic government, is that he feels the student government has not seemed interested in having a couple students sit as advisors to the school board.

And why should they be interested? Why should they want to sit on a board where one of its members rakes its employees over the coals as though practicing for moot court appearances?

In concluding his memo, Mirto says, "I feel confident this board of education, despite the fact that it receives no cooperation from your (the student) government or from the city and township governments, will continue as best it can to meet its responsibilities."

"One thing I do know, ladies and gentlemen, while it may be a fact that you (the student government leaders) are prepared to sit on a new 'do nothing' government, I shall not sit upon a board that will, like the governments around it, breach its duty as a trustee of the people of this school district."

To say the least Mirto's shots at the townships and the city are cheap. Where was this Grand Judge Of All with his snow shovel when the city crews bailed out the schools during the big storm? And did he personally help pay for the Fiegel overpass?

And just what is Mirto going to say on April 4 at the schools' second governmental cooperation meeting?

The Mirto Memo led Brian Schwall, a Canton Township trustee and a teacher at the high school, to reply by censuring him and listing 18 specific items in which Canton has helped the schools. At least Schwall could give the specifics which Mirto chose to ignore.

Mirto replied to Schwall's blast by saying he was tried 'in absentia' by the Canton Township trustees who informally lent support to Schwall's letter.

Perhaps this is true, but Mirto also took the cowardly approach in attacking the Canton board (and other boards) from the safety of a mimeograph machine.

The school board, facing up to another try for the already twice-defeated bond issue and a big operating millage renewal, needs all the help it can get. Mirto should realize that a memo like his latest doesn't particularly endear the school board to anybody.

School Board President E. J. McClendon pointed this out in a memo he sent out saying that Mirto's memo represents Mirto's viewpoint only and not that of the Plymouth School Board. That was obvious anyway.

It seems Mirto feels he can make political hay by criticizing everybody else in government. What he has lost sight of, is that when he runs for office, the voters are going to look at his track record -- not at what he thinks of others' track records.

But I guess Mirto subscribes to the adage that getting any ink in the public press is good for him as long as they spell his name right.

Schools to host governmental get-together

PLYMOUTH — The Plymouth school board will host the second annual "governmental cooperation" meetings for area officials next Thursday.

The dinner meeting will be held at Plymouth - Salem High School and will include a discussion on "Effective Use of Quantity Buying" and "Where We Can Be of Use to Each Other."

Governmental leaders from Plymouth and Plymouth, Canton, Northville, Salem and Superior townships have been invited to the meeting. The school district includes at least part of each of those communities.

Sherry Elston on dean's list

PLYMOUTH — Sherry L. Elston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Elston of 45039 Gov. Bradford, Plymouth, earned a place on the dean's list at Anderson (Ind.) College for the first semester.

Miss Elston is a junior majoring in biology and preparing for a career as a doctor. She is a Plymouth High School graduate.

Anderson College is a Church of God liberal arts school.

Madonna students are learning while doing

BY MARGARET MILLER

Rosemary Pulick of Livonia is 39 years old, experienced in educational work with pre-schoolers and director of a gym-swim-art program for tots.

With that resume, she qualifies as a student in a Madonna College educational innovation, a Child Care Traineeship Program that leads to an associate degree in teaching pre-school children.

She's taking the course along with half a hundred others who have widely-assorted backgrounds but a common pervading interest — getting youngsters off to a good start during pre-school years.

Learning while doing is the major emphasis of the program headed by Lois Mendrygal, a Westland resident with a master's degree in family studies from Michigan State University.

Students spend their days in assorted employment dealing with small children. Then they come to late afternoon and evening classes to learn more about small children.

"It's a matter of integrating the basic approach to child care," Mrs. Mendrygal said. "Instead of just taking courses and passing exams, these students are working in the field too so they can apply what they learn and we can discuss what happens on the job."

The Madonna program, in the discussion stage for several months, began last September and will complete its first year in July. Mrs. Mendrygal and the Madonna College education faculty already have requested re-funding under Title I of the HEW.

As an important part of the course work, Mrs. Mendrygal and an assistant are visiting all the students in their on-the-job situations to evaluate their work in action as well as in the classroom.

That means visits to child care centers in Detroit, school-connected nurseries and cooperatives as well as Mercy Center in Farmington where Rosemary Pulick leads a program for tots and their mothers under auspices of the Farmington YMCA.

"I'm in the Madonna program because I was looking for depth studies — not nursery school in a baby-sitting situation," this mother of five said.

It's the same basic feeling that brings her to the work she does for the Farmington Y after setting up similar programs in the Livonia Family Y.

"I never involved myself in co-op nurseries," Mrs. Pulick said. "I guess because I felt there was a better way. Parents had to be involved, and some parents did not like it. If the parent isn't happy, the child feels it."

Add to that a "gut feeling" that parents can do the best job of teaching small children but a realization that working mothers and child-care centers are here to stay, and you get Rosemary Pulick's determination to work toward the most meaningful program possible for pre-school children.

That meant, in her work in the Livonia Family Y and now at Mercy Center, an emphasis on physical activity.

"With the world as it is, if you have a physical outlet you can handle everything better," she said.

Gym exercise and swimming for the little ones and yoga and fitness for their mothers are basic portions of the activities at Mercy Center. The children also have an outlet in art work.

"People tend to think of nursery school as fun and games," Mrs. Pulick added. "But it's training for later life."

It is the reinforcement of this feeling that makes the classes at Madonna so satisfying to her.

"They back up my feeling that genuine education should begin at the pre-school level," she said. "The child is seen as an individual with grey matter that begins growing from birth instead of starting on the day he walks into first grade."

She added that the opportunity to meet people of many different backgrounds and approaches to child care is an important part of the Madonna program's value.

"So is the enthusiasm of the instructors," she added. "Most of us work all day, and getting to class may be a bit of a drag, but they make it good."

Rosemary Pulick, with a suburban home and family and gym and swimming pool to use to give physical training to pre-schoolers, is not exactly typical of the students in the course, says Lois Mendrygal.

A lot of others are employed in day care centers in Detroit, she pointed out.

A student profile of the class, she added, shows an age range of 20 to 60, with the largest number between 31 and 50. More than half have only high school training, and of those with college work only eight have more than 30 credit hours. Sixty per cent live in Detroit and 40 per cent in the suburbs, and thirty per cent of the students are black.

Two men are enrolled currently, and Mrs. Mendrygal hopes more will join the program if it can be continued into another year.

"I'd definitely like to get more guys involved," she said. "Men could bring a great deal to this field."

Funding under the HEW was meant basically for persons over 35 who have had experience working with young children and are currently involved in such work, Mrs. Mendrygal added.

A few younger students and some without experience have been funded, she explained, and some class members are not receiving HEW assistance.

Various means of teaching are used in the program's classes, including aides from High — Scope, an educational research foundation that is co-operating closely with Mrs. Mendrygal and other instructors.

"We also are incorporating an element of group inter-action," Mrs. Mendrygal said. "People in the class learn a lot from each other, and they find that they can profit by each other's suggestions when on the job."

Classes involved include early childhood education, pre-school and kindergarten methods and materials, educating the culturally different, group dynamics, psychology of reading, educating the physically handicapped and behavior disorders in children.

Enthusiasm is high among the students. "The instruction is very helpful," said Mrs. Helen Geleenn, mother of 10, grandmother of 16 and program director of the Kandy Kastle nursery in Detroit. "The teachers help us in seeking out material helpful in our daily work."

She added that "we're learning what we can use — we're not young enough to research what we need for good practical application to day care work."

Lois Holmes of Detroit, teacher in the Storybook nursery in Detroit, agreed, but suggested it may be unrealistic to expect persons over 35 and with no recent schooling to complete the course in the single year covered in the federal grant.

She and Marcey Uday of Southfield, a teacher in the Brightmoor Day Care Center, agreed that it's imperative that funds be provided to continue the course.

If that is approved, Mrs. Mendrygal said, the group now in the program can complete work on an associate degree and a new group can be started in the child care training.

In evaluating the program and applying for renewed funds, she quoted a comment from Mrs. Sally Brown, executive director of the Wayne County Child Care Coordinating Council, who said "more programs such as Madonna's should be initiated."

The evaluation also included this summation:

"By being partially funded through Title I, the college is assisting 50 under-educated adults to avail themselves of continuing education opportunities in the area of child development."

"In turn, these adult citizens are providing a better quality education for pre-school children, thereby ameliorating the community problem of having unqualified persons caring for children."

"The program has a positive multiplier effect, because each of the 50 participants care for approximately 25 children; therefore 1,250 are actually benefiting from the project."

Rosemary Pulick thinks the benefits may be even more far-reaching.

"I've done probation work," she said, "and I think there are a lot of problems that could have been avoided if we had worked with the children in their younger years."

"When conflicts arise, you tend to zero in on the child, but it's important to see those in his world. I think if we have a good pre-school program the child will be able to go into school and life and be an individual but still know the rules of the game."

ROSEMARY PULICK thinks physical training is a vital part of work with small children. Here she helps young Mathew Fahrenkrug swim in the Mercy Center program sponsored by the Farmington YMCA.

CREATIVE ACTIVITY in art class means helping five-year-old Cheri Ludington make footprints with paint. (Evert photos)

"You certainly get a lot of mileage out of those black skirts and white blouses," a friend remarked after the junior high band concert as we greeted our performing daughters.

I check our youngest. She was indeed wearing a skirt and blouse combination that had been used before her by the next-oldest sister in previous concerts.

Yes, the hand-me-down record has been pretty good, but there sure has been a procession of black skirts and white blouses since that first directive from a band teacher came home.

It advised us that the proper garb for girls in the coming concert would be a black skirt (not too short, please) and a white tailored shirt.

I scurried then to procure same for our oldest, and since then I've bought and made a lot of skirts and shirts. The former in various lengths, because as the girls progressed to orchestra and advanced bands the word was that the skirt was to sweep the floor.

There was one interesting year when a single long skirt would, with a little adjusting, fit both our 12th grade clarinetist and her ninth grade French horn sister. That skirt saw a lot of my needle and sewing machine as I took the waist in and let it out and put the hem up and down.

We've gone the route of getting band uniforms together so often that this year we made the mistake of getting complacent.

On the day before a concert, our current ninth grader and her mother realized with horror that there wasn't a single black skirt in the house that would fit her.

She was equal to the challenge even though I had to work. She bought the material and pattern and spent the afternoon at the sewing machine, finishing, I was told later, with two minutes to spare before she had to leave for the concert.

But with only girls in the family, I understand we're missing one of the more interesting aspects of getting student musicians outfitted.

My friends with boys in the band tell me that in these days of colorful men's wear it's not all that easy to find a white shirt to cover lengthening arms.

Those that are located are passed around — not too difficult because the shirts are worn only for concerts, so they last pretty well.

Band directors, we parents know how hard you work on that music, so would you give us an A for effort on those uniforms?

Rotary celebrates 50th

By W. W. EDGAR

PLYMOUTH — Rotarians and Rotary Anns from many sections of the state and Canada gathered in the Mayflower Meeting House last Friday to help the Plymouth club celebrate its 50th birthday and start it on another half century of service.

More than 250 attended the golden jubilee dinner and praised the club as being one of the most active in the district and a pacemaker in community affairs.

It was an evening of nostalgia. It was the night of March 6, 1924 when Dr. Edward Lee, of the Wayne club met with a group of Plymouth businessmen to form the organization and dedicate it to the community.

Only two of those charter members, John S. Dayton and Carl Shear, are still living. Neither was able to attend the dinner.

Over the years the club has become greatly involved in the community and has made many contributions to the well being of the populace, the latest being the establishment of a kidney dialysis unit in St. Mary Hospital in Livonia.

Among the other major contributions were: furnishing the lighting system for the high school football field, beautifying Kellogg Park through the gift of the fountain, work with crippled children, funding various scholarships, and contributing $20,000 to the farm division of the high schools at Centennial Educational Park.

All of these were made possible by the success of the annual Fall Festival chicken barbecue which now has gained national acclaim by serving 13,000 dinners in a single afternoon.

Memories of the early days came rolling back when Frank Henderson, one of the oldest members in point of service, acting in behalf of the club, presented Mrs. George Smith, widow of the club's first president, with a Paul Harris medalion, one of the highest honors in Rotary International Foundation.

Chief tribute came from Larry Cerrino, vice president and general manager of Channel 2, who delivered the main address and referred to the club as one of the most noteworthy he ever had seen and wished it another half century of outstanding service to the community.

AS ONE OF the highlights of the Plymouth Rotary Club's Golden Jubilee dinner, toasts were given to the Queen as a tribute to the Canadian visitors and to the President of the United States. More than 250 persons attended and raised glasses in time honored tradition. (Photo by Randy Nichols)

Scouts set road rally

PLYMOUTH — A "Do It in the Road (Rally)" car rally will be held Saturday, April 6 by Explorer Post 910 of the Plymouth Boy Scouts.

The rally, open to anyone with a car and a valid driver's license, will begin at 10:30 a.m. at the Consumers Power south parking lot at 11801 Farmington Rd., just north of Plymouth Rd.

The time - speed - distance rally runs approximately 60 miles on a course laid out between Livonia and Ann Arbor. It is designed for drivers who have never been in a rally before and for Explorers who plan to enter the Detroit area council road rally May 4.

The two entry categories are class A1, driver and navigator; and class B1, driver, navigator and observer. Pre - registration entry fees are $2.50 for class A and $3 for class B. Fifty cents more will be charged to those who register on the day of the rally.

Trophies will be awarded to the winner and runners - up in both classes.

Participants may pre - register by contacting Jim Kloosterman of Murray Hill Drive or any Post 910 member.

Class of '72 makes donation for Mrs. Shier

PLYMOUTH — The Plymouth High School Class of 1972 is donating a dictionary of music to the school library in memory of Mrs. Evelyn Shier, late beloved library clerk.

Members of the '72 class may send their contributions toward purchase of the dictionary to either Tom Gotshall, 1116 Harding St., or Mark McKelvey, 44743 Brookside, both in Plymouth.

Mrs. Shier, who died recently of cancer, organized the school's Rockettes and was active in promoting musicals and talent shows.

MR. AND MRS. ALBERT BAMFORD, wed as senior citizens and celebrating their eighth anniversary. (Staff photo by Harry Mauthe)

Senior citizens mark anniversary

A marriage that made a bit of history in Livonia reaches anniversary No. 8 on Sunday, March 31.

Albert Bamford and Mrs. Dedia Lickliter, charter members of the Colonial Unit of the Livonia Senior Citizens' Club, were the first from the club to be married.

Their wedding took place in the community room of the Livonia Mall March 31, 1966, — after a "whirlwind" courtship that began Feb. 2, Mrs. Bamford remembers.

Both widowed, they met through the senior citizen organization. Bamford was a long-time resident of this area and his bride had been living in Livonia with a niece for about five years.

They have made their home on West Seven Mile and remained interested members of the Colonial Unit.

Their anniversary will be a quiet one because Mr. Bamford, after two strokes, is currently a resident of the Dorvin Convalescent Center in Livonia. He now is 83 and before his retirement was a metal pattern maker for Pontiac division of General Motors Corp.

Mrs. Bamford is 72.

Retirement talk at YMCA

"The age of 50 is not too soon to think about what you will do when you retire," pointed out Mrs. Betty White of Farmington, who will lead a one-day workshop on retirement planning Saturday, March 30, in Royal Oak.

A trained leader from Oakland University's Continuum Center, Mrs. White will deal with the retirement questions of individual participants from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. in the South Oakland YMCA, 1016 W. 11 Mile.

Those interested in this program may receive further information or register in advance by contacting the Continuum Center

China painters have speaker

Dorothy Frederick of Toledo, Ohio, will give a demonstration on applying luster to china at a meeting of the Northville Spring Chapter of China Painters Thursday, April 4.

To begin at 10 a.m., the meeting will be held at the Plymouth Council Credit Union, 150 Fairgrounds, Plymouth. It will be followed by a business meeting.

Israeli woman to speak to NOW

Marcia Freedman, a member of the parliament (Knesset) of Israel, will address a state council meeting of the National Organization of Women Saturday, March 30, in the home of Mrs. Donna Henkel, 11682 Spicer, Plymouth.

Joining her on the platform will be Patricia Burnett, founder of the Detroit chapter of NOW.

Mrs. Freedman was born in Newark, New Jersey, attended Bennington College, and received an MA degree at Brooklyn College where she later taught philosophy.

In 1969, with her husband and daughter, she emigrated to Israel, where both she and her husband taught at Haifa University. One of the founders of the feminist movement in Israel, she was elected to the Knesset this year. Currently she serves on its education and social services committee.

Recently returned from a three-month tour around the world with a delegation of feminists, Mrs. Burnett will discuss the condition of women in the Scandinavian countries, the Soviet Union, India, and other lands she visited.

An artist, she had an opportunity to paint a picture of Indira Gandhi, the prime minister of India, while in that country.

Mrs. Burnett, a member of the national board of NOW, is chairperson of its international division. It has 15 foreign affiliates. She also serves on a United Nations committee on the status of women.

Fashion show will highlight salad luncheon

A women's and children's fashion show will be the main feature of the sixth annual spring salad luncheon of the Lake Pointe Village Branch of the Women's National Farm and Garden Association.

Presented by Minerva's - Dunning's of Plymouth with hair fashions by Woods La Petite, the fashion show will follow a noon luncheon featuring over 100 different salads at East Middle School, Plymouth, on Saturday, March 30.

Members of the Garden club who will act as models are Mrs. Mary Breen, Mrs. Joanne Gray, Leann Howe, Mrs. Gerry McCrumb, Mrs. Avis McLachlan, Mrs. Polly Miller, Mrs. Judy Sharrar, and Mrs. Darlene Somerville.

Children who will be models are Carol Gray, Kathy Proctor, Lynn McAllister, Tommy Spade, Kathy Kornegay, and Sally Nitchman. Mrs. Bunny Hallway will be narrator.

Proceeds of the luncheon will be used to support places in which the association is interested.

Workshop set on terrariums

The Mayflower Garden Club of Plymouth will hold a terrarium workshop Thursday, March 28, at 10 a.m. in the home of Mrs. Evelyn Erdelyi, 9110 Rocker, Plymouth.

Mrs. Gretchen Tripp will be co-hostess.

You and your pet

Present pets carefully

What do you do if you find out that your husband-to-be plans on getting a dog to guard your new home, while you want to bring along your Siamese cat? Is it a terrible crisis if your roommate wants her own kitten while you already have a cat?

Despite what some people say, two or more animals can peacefully coexist in the same household, if a little care is taken in bringing them together.

First, if you have the opportunity to choose the two pets, remember that young animals get acquainted quicker than older animals. Kittens and puppies are accustomed to having littermates around and will readily accept other young animals as playmates. Just take care that a large, frisky puppy doesn't overwhelm a small kitten with its size.

THE MATCH works best where the new addition is the younger of the two pets. A kitten or puppy will not be as much a threat to the already established pet, since it will not immediately seek the top position in the pecking order. An older cat may hiss and shy away from a puppy but will not feel as threatened as by an older dog.

By

MINOR

If you have to mix two older pets, do so gradually. True affection may never bloom, but your household should not be an armed camp, either.

First, keep the two in separate rooms, so that the scent of the new pet will announce its presence to the older pet. Maintain this situation for two or three days, until the older pet feels secure that "nothing has changed" by the addition of the new animal.

NEXT, LET the two animals see each other, perhaps through a screen or gate. After several glimpses, your pets should tolerate one another and will be ready to meet in the same room, with you standing by.

When you acquire the second pet, make sure that you pay special attention to the first. One of the primary reasons animals in the same household do not get along is jealousy. Don't make your old pet feel that he is now a second-class citizen. Continue to take him for his own walks and pet him the same as before.

It's also a good idea for each pet to have its own supper bowl. Not only will you be able to insure that the new pet is eating well, but your old pet will maintain his sense of security. Probably after they have been together for a while, they will eat from each other's bowls, but it's not a good idea this soon.

IF POSSIBLE, let each pet have a private corner for a retreat. Nothing is more aggravating for a mature cat than to have a strange kitten or puppy constantly chasing and biting her tail or feet. She should have a spot where she can relax undisturbed. This will also help maintain your pet's sense of security.

One final step that should not be overlooked is a visit to the veterinarian for your new pet. Even if your first pet is vaccinated against the more serious diseases, it could still pick up a variety of skin infections or intestinal worms from a new animal that has not been cared for properly.

Labels aid care

Knowing the necessary care procedures for fabric can be one of the most important steps in home sewing, according to Bernette Kahabka, extension clothing specialist at Michigan State University.

"Much time and money can be wasted on a finished garment that's cleaned once and ruined forever," she said. "Permanent care labels are the sewer's guide to avoiding mishaps."

The care instructions or a code number representing a specific set of care instructions should be found on the end of the bolt on which fabric is wrapped. When fabric is bought, the salesperson should include a care label which has these same directions on it. Miss Kahabka suggested keeping track of the cleaning instructions by sewing the label right into a seam of the garment for a permanent reference.

"CARE LABELING can also be helpful in choosing lining and interfacing fabrics that require the same care as your outer garment fabric," the specialist explained. "You might also decide that a certain fabric requires care you don't want to bother with even though you like the fabric. And if you follow the care instructions and obtain unsatisfactory results, you have a better basis on which to lodge a complaint."

Care labeling was instituted by the federal government for the consumer's protection.

Sewing school sets workshop

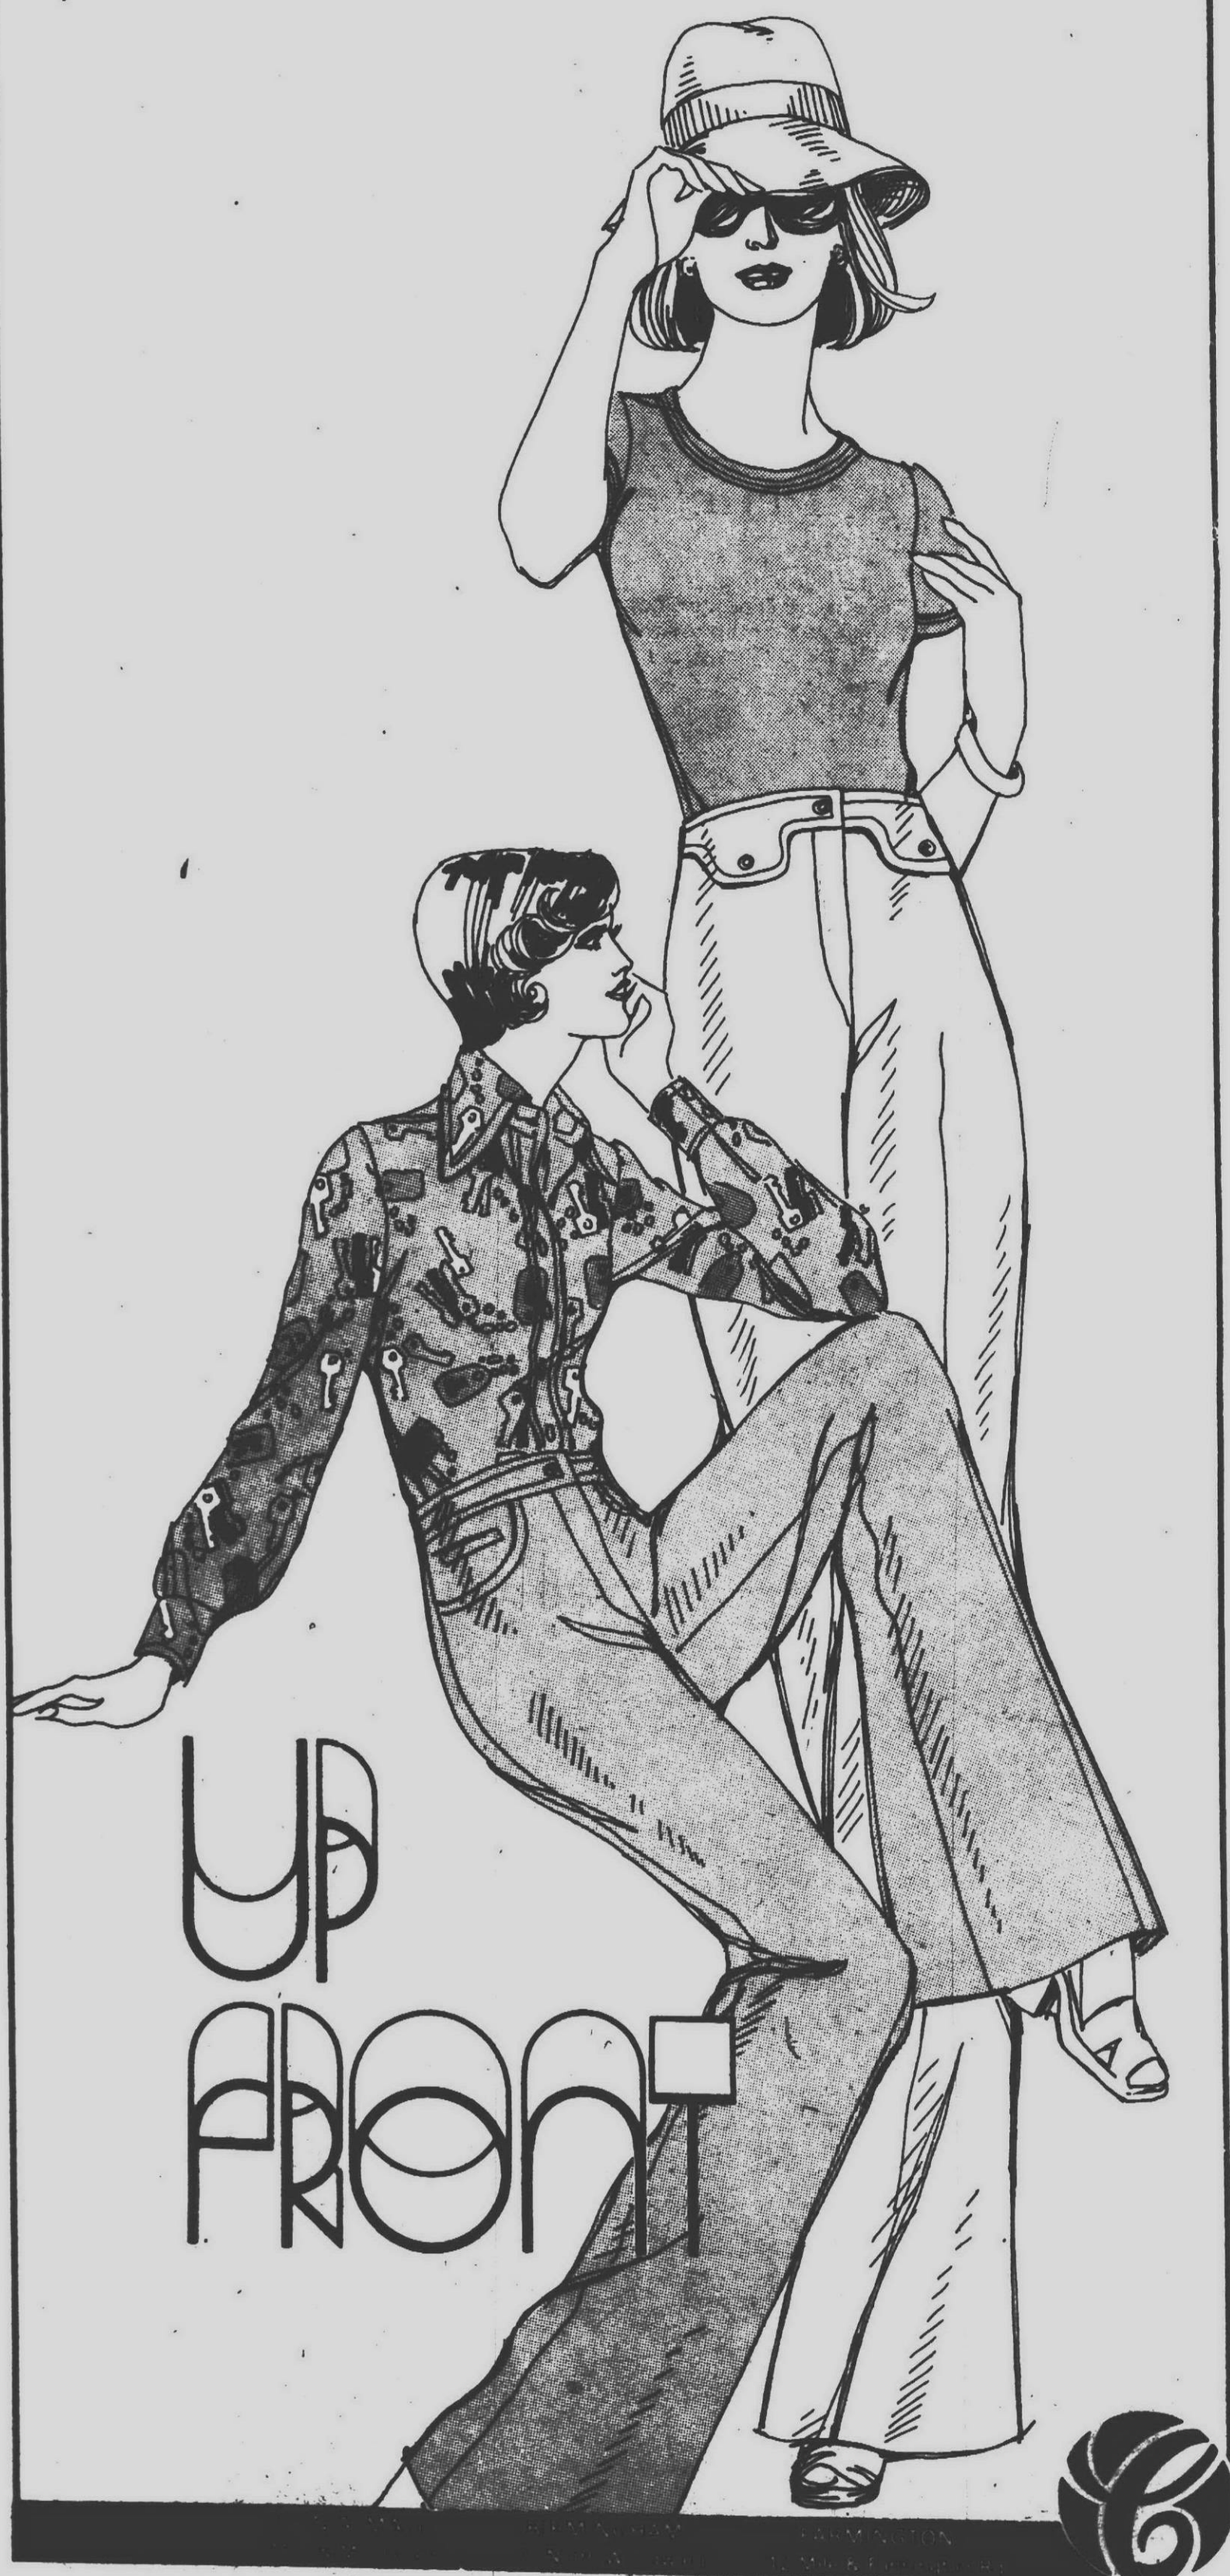

A free sewing machine workshop will be offered from 10 a.m. to noon April 6 at Evelyn K.'s Sewing School, 1553 N. Main, Clawson.

Information on the workshop and spring sewing classes is available from Evelyn Dowel at 435-0466 or 549-1568.

Crusade, church sales, concert coming

MAIN STREET BAPTIST CHURCH, 9451 S. Main, Plymouth, will feature Dr. Fred Hubbs in an evangelistic crusade Sunday, March 31, to Sunday, April 7.

He will speak at 7:30 p.m. each of the crusade evenings. Special music will be provided by the church choir, directed by C.B. Turner, and nursery care will be provided for each service. Nursery care and interpreters for the deaf will be provided for each service.

FIRST UNITED METHODIST CHURCH OF GARDEN CITY, 6443 Merriman, will be the location of a rummage sale sponsored by the Church Bulletin

United Methodist Women on Saturday, March 30, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Baked goods also will be offered and the church youth will serve a light lunch from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

ST. MAURICE CATHOLIC CHURCH, 32765 Lyndon, Livonia, will have a rummage sale sponsored by its ladies' altar society Saturday, March 30, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Rummage sale benefits home

Three branches of the Aid Association for Lutherans will sponsor a rummage sale Saturday, March 30, from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the Nightingale Nursing Home, 8315 Newburgh, Westland.

Proceeds will be used to purchase a 16mm sound and film projector, large print hymnals and other reading materials for the home.

WARD UNITED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, Six Mile and Farmington Road, Livonia, will present "It's Cool in the Furnace," a new musical based on the story of Daniel, Shadrach, Mesach and Abednego, on Sunday, March 31, at 7 p.m.

The contemporary musical will be performed by the church's Junior High Action Singers, with Scott Carlisle and Danny Meyer in leading roles. The junior high choir will be under the direction of Dr. Jerry J. Smith, assisted by Mrs. Sharon Friend and Mrs. Joelyn Rabias.

OUR LADY OF GOOD COUNSEL CATHOLIC CHURCH, 1160 Penniman, Plymouth, will present an organ recital by Thomas M. Marshall as part of its recital series Sunday, March 31, at 4 p.m.

Marshall, organist and youth choir director for the First Presbyterian Church of Northville, is working on a master's degree from the University of Michigan and during the last four summers has served as harpsichordist for the Music Teachers' Ensemble of colonial Williamsburg.

He will offer works of Couperin, Bach, Heiller, Alain and Vierne.

Church rift is aired

BY MARGARET MILLER

A rift that has cut deep into the Lutheran Church - Missouri Synod will be explored in a special gathering Friday, March 29, at 8 p.m. in the Birmingham Community House, Bessie and Townsend.

Sharing the platform will be Dr. John Tietjen, suspended president of the synod's Concordia Seminary in St. Louis, and the Rev. A. Karl Boehnke, well-known in this area because he was founding pastor of the Lutheran Church of Shepherd - King in West Bloomfield.

They are being brought here by the Michigan chapter of Evangelical Lutherans in Mission (ELIM), a nationwide organization of Lutherans protesting actions that included the suspension of Dr. Tietjen in January.

The Rev. Roger Schiefel, pastor of Faith Lutheran Church in Livonia and Michigan chairman of ELIM, said the rally meeting would be open to the public and is designed to give Lutherans in the Metropolitan Detroit - Southeastern Michigan areas a chance to hear the ELIM side of the controversy that has involved both educational and missionary work in the synod.

Dr. Tietjen will tell about his suspension, ordered by Dr. J. A. O. Preus and the seminary board of control, and the subsequent walkout by a majority of faculty and students.

He also will tell of the currently operating "Seminary in exile" and of the ELIM commitment to keep it going through this year by raising $50,000.

Rev. Boehnke, missionary to Hong Kong from 1967 to 1973, an assignment he accepted after serving the West Bloomfield church for nine years, will talk about the dispute in the Missouri Synod missions department that has led to a number of mission workers being removed from their jobs.

Rev. Schiefel, who works with Richard Feucht, parish education counselor for the church's English district, and Clinton Stroebel, Plymouth layman, in leading ELIM in this area, said the doctrinal dispute is "a long-standing problem, going back maybe 30 or 40 years."

"It involves essentially the keepers of tradition as opposed to the contemporary-minded in the church," he said. "The Lutheran Church is of Germanic background, and its earlier leaders came here for freedom, but over the years the church has been faced with conforming to a changing society.

"Those who have shown openness to new things are seen as destroyers of doctrine by those with the more conservative approach. And the way Biblical studies were being pursued in seminary was seen as eroding the Lutheran doctrine."

Rev. Schiefel said that when Dr. Preus was elected to a second four-year term by a 55-45 majority in the synod biennial convention in New Orleans last summer the conservative faction was in position to "hold all the cards."

"They have control of every committee and board," he added.

The dramatic events of January began when the board of control, charging Dr. Tietjen with "fostering false doctrine" suspended him.

"The case is supposed to be subject to review, but most of us feel we know how it will come out," Rev. Schiefel said.

The following day most seminarians on campus joined in a moratorium on classes and 43 of the 48-member faculty joined them.

Rev. Schiefel said the "seminary in exile" is being conducted on the campus of St. Louis University, a Jesuit institute, and Eden Seminary, operated by the United Church of Christ.

This is possible, he added, because for some time these two institutions, along with Concordia and Kendrick Seminary, have formed a theological consortium, sharing libraries and other resources.

The nationwide ELIM coalition of clergy and lay people was organized last summer, the Livonia pastor said, and has been gaining membership in the United States and Canada.

In addition to supporting the seminary in exile, it has established an independent mission society to counter actions by the synod's conservative board for missions.

That board, Rev. Schiefel said, has taken exception to the missionaries who have felt it important to fill physical needs in mission areas as well as teaching and preaching.

That controversy is due for full discussion in St. Louis this weekend, even as Rev. Boehnke reports on it here.

Rev. Schiefel said the two sides in the dispute have been close in numbers for years.

MRS. ELAINE LANGHAM of Westland unpacks boxes to stock the shelves of the new Christian Book Store she and her husband, Jeffrey, will operate at 33147 Ford Road, Garden City. (Staff photo by Bob Woodring)

Christian book store opens in GC

"It's the realization of a long-standing dream," said Jeffrey Langham of the new Christian Book Store to be located at 33147 Ford Road, Garden City.

The store will open officially Saturday, March 30, with Langham and his wife, Elaine, as proprietors.

The Rev. Moody B. W. Yap, Lake Erie Classis minister of evangelism for the Reformed Church in America, will preside over a dedication ceremony at 9 a.m.

The Langhams came to this country from England in 1953 and settled in Garden City, moving to Westland six years later. Langham has been an engineer for 34 years, and the two have been active members of Good Shepherd Reformed Church in Westland.

"We've felt a strong leaning in the direction of opening a store for Christian materials," said Langham.

"Our twin sons are 22 and on their own now, and this seemed to be the time. We know very well we won't make a fortune this way, but as you get older money becomes less important than the chance to do some work you can relate to." The shelves and counters of the rented store will hold Bibles, fiction and non-fiction books, gifts, cards, posters and some records.

Advertising director for the new venture is Keith Langham, one of the couple's sons and also a resident of Westland.

His father said there have been many offers of volunteer help from members of the congregation he serves as an elder.

"How much we'll need only the good lord knows," he added, "but the Good Shepherd family really has identified with this venture."

Progress toward opening day was slowed a bit because Mrs. Langham made a trip to England when her father died last week. She was back Sunday and the new proprietors put full effort into stocking shelves in preparation for the dedication and their first customers.

Unity plans Alpha training seminar

Unity of Livonia, 28660 Five Mile, will present Vrle Minto in an Alpha Awareness Seminar each evening from Sunday, March 31, through Friday, April 5.

The 7:30 p.m. sessions will begin Sunday with the showing of a film, "Psychics, Saints and Scientists." The course will cost $45.

Minto, who has appeared on a number of radio and television talk shows, claims his course aids relaxation and more effective living.

It includes memory techniques, sleeping without drugs, control of migraine and tension headaches, alertness and energy technique, mental anesthesia and pain control, name recall, ESP and human and plant aura.

A native of California and the father of five, he is a graduate of Utah State University and was engaged in construction, ranching and insurance selling before becoming an Alpha Awareness lecturer.

St. Innocent church will host deanery

St. Innocent Orthodox Church in Redford Township will be the site of the next meeting of the Central States Deanery beginning Friday, March 29, and ending Saturday, March 30.

The Rev. Vladimir Demshuk is the host pastor. Presiding will be the dean of the area, the Right Rev. Archpriest Photius Donahue. The Right Rev. Archpriest Feodor Kovalchuk of Youngstown, Ohio, will be deanery liturgist.

The meeting will be the second since St. Innocent parish was established seven years ago.

Prayers at 5 p.m. Friday in the parish hall will open the session. Following an all-lenten dinner, the Akathistos to the Most Holy Theotokos will be celebrated in the temple at 7:30 p.m.

The deanery session will continue until 10 p.m., after which confessions will be made.

A High Liturgy on Saturday at 9 a.m. will be in Saint Michael Orthodox Church, Detroit. The Holy Liturgy will be celebrated by the Deanery clergy. The St. Michael choir will sing the responses.

Following the Liturgy, a lenten breakfast will be served in the St. Innocent parish hall for clergy and guests. After the breakfast the Deanery will continue its sessions with reports and discussions until 2 p.m., when the meeting will conclude with an all-lenten lunch prepared and served by the ladies of the parish.

Catholic club meets April 5

The Separated and Divorced Catholics Club will hold an open board meeting and social evening, Friday, April 5. To begin at 8 p.m., it will be held in St. Clumban School, 1770 Melton, Birmingham.

The Central States Deanery publishes its own Deanery publications which are distributed in all Deanery parishes.

"HAVE WE NOT ALL ONE FATHER? HATH NOT ONE GOD CREATED US?"

Malachi 2:10

A lot of people acknowledge God as Father. But do they really understand the man He made?

As you get a deeper understanding of the Bible, the spiritual nature of man and of all creation appears. These Christian unity and the brotherhood of man appear in your life, too.

Selections from the Bible and Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, to be read in our church service this Sunday, will help you understand the Bible's message of brotherly love in a new light. We'd love to welcome you.

NO MORE JOLTING THAN SEMTA'S PLANS FOR US

School busing still a live issue

The eyes of the nation have been on us here in Michigan a good deal lately, what with the energy crisis whacking away at the auto industry and the voters in Grand Rapids and Saginaw taking out their anger at Watergate and inflation on the GOP.

Just wait.

Some fine day before long, the United States Supreme Court will rule on the Detroit cross-district school busing case. And then -- depending on what the court says -- the fur may really fly.

The lawyers had it out directly in front of the nine justices some weeks ago, and the court is now in the process of reaching a verdict. Although it's never safe to predict what or when the court will do, most knowledgeable lawyers agree that some kind of decision will be handed down before the November election, probably this spring or early summer.

THE CONSEQUENCES of the decision will have the deepest possible effect on the nation generally and on these suburbs in particular.

No one really knows what the court will decide, but the consensus is that two approaches are likely:

1. The court will remand the case back to Federal Judge Stephen Roth for more hearings here in Michigan. The suburban school districts affected by a cross-district busing plan were not fully in on the early hearings, and the situation in the Detroit school district itself has changed. More information may be required before the Supreme Court makes up its mind.

2. The court will rule that segregation does in fact exist in the Detroit school system and that busing students within the school system is an appropriate remedy; however, the court will add that while the suburban schools are overwhelmingly white, this is not the fault of the suburban school districts and accordingly busing is not an appropriate remedy for them.

by PHILIP H. POWER

I'm not ruling out a decision which would impose Judge Roth's cross-district busing remedy in the suburbs, but I do feel the court is very much aware of the intense turmoil and outright violation of the law that such a decision would produce in the suburbs. President Nixon, last Saturday in his radio address to the nation on education, made much the same point.

BUT EVEN A decision which remanded the case back for further hearings would have a considerable impact in these suburbs.

There would be lawyers' committees and testimony to prepare. School boards would find themselves in even greater trouble passing millage for education, as long as voters feel a vote

EDITORIAL OPINION

Transit plan leaves us out in the wilderness

Tim Richard writes

Well, fellow western Wayne Countians, how does it feel to be left out in the country?

That's about what happened when the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA) last week revealed its formal plan to build five rapid transit lines, none of which will touch Redford Township, Livonia, the Northvilles, the Plymouths, Garden City, Westland or Canton Township.

Southfield and the Birmingham area are in; so are St. Clair Shores, Metropolitan Airport and Ann Arbor. But there's a giant white space running through western Wayne County on the rapid transit map.

The map shows what could be completed by 1990 if construction begins promptly in 1976. What it means is that our neck of the woods won't see much rapid transit activity before the year 2000. A person born at the beginning of World War II will be near retirement by that time.

It doesn't follow, however, that we'll be totally without major public transportation connections to the rest of southeastern Michigan. The I-96 freeway (Schoolcraft corridor) will have a designated express bus lane. That's better than nothing.

Yet one can see the logic of not building rapid transit out here now. Our connections with downtown Detroit are weak. An editor can see that easily by comparing business stories and noting how few Livonians and Westlanders get major executive appointments in downtown jobs compared to persons from Farmington Hills and Bloomfield.

Auto transportation to the downtown is slow, even by the Eight Mile-Lodge and Hines Drive-Ford connections. That, of course, will change when and if the I-96 freeway is completed, but it will be years before its impact is felt sociologically.

There might even have been some sense from Detroit's point of view in building a rapid transit line here because of the many factory jobs Detroiters hold in suburban plants along the C&O Railroad line between Schoolcraft and Plymouth roads. An express bus on the Jeffries won't serve those workers properly.

No one here should have been surprised about the proposed routes. In mid-1972 this newspaper reported that a Southeast Michigan Council of Government staff report recommended no rail line to western Wayne County, reversing an earlier TALUS (Transportation and Land Use Study) recommendation. All SEMTA did last week was to adopt that two-year-old SEMCOG report.

On learning of the SEMTA plan last week, Detroit Council President Carl Levin and Livonia Mayor Edward McNamara reacted characteristically: "SEMTA never consulted us first," as if the board of that six-county agency could consult every politico in 400-plus units of local government before making a decision.

Actually, the members of SEMCOG had a shot at those proposed routes in July of '72, and they'll have two other shots at them when the SEMTA plan comes before SEMCOG's executive committee and general assembly, not to mention the public hearings after those.

As members of SEMCOG, Livonia, the two Plymouths, and Canton will have something to say about the SEMTA plan, but Redford Township, Garden City and Westland will have to stay home because their legislative bodies were unable to see any "advantage" in membership.

Well, fellow western Wayne Countians, how does it feel to be left out in the country?

'March Madness' under control in '74

The month of March has all but passed, but we in the circulation area of the Observer & Eccentric are still in the throes of "March Madness," and it won't leave until next Saturday afternoon.

"March Madness" is aptly defined as that period during which the state high school and national collegiate basketball tournaments are played, a time when all involved seem to forget everything except basketball. Especially is this true if your community happens to have one of the teams that keep winning and get closer and closer to the championship.

"March Madness" is also a time when partisan followers can become so involved they become wild men and women as their team advances and often break into wild disorder when it finally loses.

The Observer & Eccentric area has been blessed with better than average teams this season with the result that at this moment Brother Rice High from Birmingham is anxiously awaiting the finals of the class A tourney where its team is given better than an even chance of coming back with all the bacon.

Brother Rice, performing better than any squad from the area in more years than one cares to recall, will battle Cass Tech, of Detroit, Saturday afternoon in East Lansing, and the winner will be crowned state champion of 1974.

There are wild displays by fans during the football season when a team suddenly displays championship caliber, but none can match the fervor of basketball followers.

There are more games to watch, more places to go, more times to blow off steam that seems to generate twice as much during the time between games. There is plenty of time to get involved in arguments over the merits of the top contenders.

R. T. Thompson writes and then -- just when enthusiasm seems to have reached a high -- there comes the state tournament. What took place during the winter at the regular games is just a mild sample of tourney fever.

That's what we have been involved in since early March when the "Madness" started, and it has carried all across the Observer & Eccentric distribution area...from Rochester to the north to the southernmost boundary at Cherry Hill in Westland.

Originally there were such high school teams as Rochester Adams, Southfield High, Brother Rice, North Farmington, Livonia Churchill and Franklin, Westland John Glenn and Plymouth Salem.

Gradually the list dwindled to Brother Rice, Churchill, Franklin, Plymouth Salem and John Glenn.

Despite the fact that games became more important and more pressure-filled as the teams climbed the ladder toward the much desired state crown, there were no incidents of any kind at any of the games.

This speaks well for the school officials, for the coaches and the players and for the tournament management. A word here and there, a wild-eyed fan who felt his team had been given the worst of it from the officials, a fist uplifted and things could be out of control in a small riot.

It happened a year ago at Ann Arbor during the state finals, it could have occurred at any of the area tournament sites. But it didn't, and that's why we have such high praise for the teams and their followers.

Brother Rice is carrying the banner for all of us in the state tournament. It is an excellent team and has excellent support from a student body that can hardly believe it is one game away from being the magical "No. 1."

We believe Brother Rice will go on; we believe the school has the champion. We hope the followers, conduct themselves like champions regardless of the outcome of Saturday's contest.

They have all season; there isn't any reason to change that fine record.

Sense And Nonsense

Most political sarcasm is dull and cheap. An exception is the crack Ron Egnor, Ypsilanti attorney and contender for the Democratic 2nd Congressional District nomination, got off about John Reuther, who has announced for the post.

Noting that Reuther moved into the district just last year, Egnor said: "I'm glad to see John enter the race. It not only demonstrates that the Democratic Party remains a truly open political organization, but it also speaks well of John's courage that he has decided to wade into such a major undertaking after only being here a short time."

"I do urge John to use every available moment to try to learn the needs and concerns of the people of Monroe, Livonia, Plymouth, Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti. That knowledge is essential if he is to run a serious race," said Egnor, who boasts residency in the district since 1955.

"It is fortunate that John is in the financial position to be able to resign his executive position at the Ford Motor Co. and devote full time to campaigning," said Egnor without asking the crucial question: What will Reuther do for a living for 10 months while running for Congress?

The group of Livonia residents who sponsored the pamphlet urging support of the millage request should spend some money on themselves. There -- out in front for all to see -- was a glaring grammatical error. They called education our "communities" greatest resource. Any sixth grader can tell you that it should have read "community's."

Eccentricities

by HENRY M. HOGAN, JR.

You don't need to break a law to change one

When you look around the world, you realize how lucky you are to be in this country.

While it may not be perfect, if you don't like something, you can speak out without fear of being punished.

Because of this freedom, violent protests growing out of suppression were few and far between.

That is, until the dangerous decade of the '60s when the young activists, dissatisfied with government policies, set off a series of protests which got out of hand, burning ROTC headquarters and killing people in campus bomb explosions.

This form of protest came to an abrupt end at the Kent State University campus. College students all over the country mourned that so-called innocent bystanders had been killed by the National Guard during the demonstration, but it brought home to them the fact that they, too, could be killed in their activities.

THE PROBLEM with violent protest is that two wrongs don't make a right.

Protesters claim to break laws to bring attention to the alleged immorality of actions of those in authority, but they in turn are immoral in breaking the law.

Who has the right to say some laws can be broken but others be followed?

I could never understand how the Catholic priests, the Berrigan brothers, could justify breaking into government offices because they didn't like the Vietnam war. Yet at the same time, they were preaching to their followers that they must abide by certain rules and regulations that their faith had established.

Violent protest has a tendency to repel people and make them back off from progress.

Now we are falling back into an era of violent protest. The kidnappings and hijackings of late are supposedly done to bring attention to wrongs in society, but the tactics are more injurious to society than the supposed wrongs.

America as a nation cannot afford to let this disregard for law continue. It will lead to anarchy, and we will in the backlash lose our freedom to speak out.

94-H members win area awards

PLYMOUTH — A Plymouth couple, one adult, and six youngsters were honored recently at the annual Wayne County 4-H Club banquet in Westland Center's auditorium.

Winning a special award for distinguished service were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Root, of 4611 Joy Rd., for their work in 4-H.

Specifically, the Roots were honored for their work in the Plymouth Towne and Country 4-H Club, largest in the county, and their development of the Plymouth Rotary School - Farm.

The Roots were active in 4-H work since moving to Plymouth in the fall of 1972. They have two children.

Plymouth youngsters receiving awards at the banquet attended by an estimated 200 and the categories are:

Carol Terry, dog care and training; Carol Terry, Chris Burda, and Kim Anderson, horse and pony; Sandra Green and Bill Strautz, poultry; Kim Anderson, Jane Stuart, and Chris Burda, veterinary science.

Mrs. Mary Chiado, of 47293 Saltz Canyon Township, won a five year leader award from the county group.

Smittmobile to visit here

PLYMOUTH — State Rep. Raymond Smitt (R - Ann Arbor), whose district includes Plymouth and part of Plymouth Twp., has announced the return of his mobile office, the "Smittmobile," to this area Saturday at 9:30 a.m.

"My other tours of the district have been very successful," he said, "and I am hopeful that more citizens will bring their viewpoints and problems to me on this swing."

The "Smittmobile" will be parked on Main Street in front of the park.

Correction

PLYMOUTH — In the March 21 edition of the Plymouth Observer & Eccentric, the story on the "45 - 15" year round school plan contained an error.

It read that "801 elementary students" came from the Miller School area this year and that more growth was expected.

That figure actually represents the total growth in the entire school district this year which was 801 students.

In the March 25 edition of the paper, a story appeared saying the school board was selling its 16-acre site behind K-mart.

The board actually has not taken action to sell the property but is considering doing so.

Take papers to Gallimore this weekend

PLYMOUTH — The Gallimore Elementary School PTO will collect newspapers in a fund-raising effort set for Friday and Saturday, March 29 - 30.

Proceeds will be used to purchase audio - visual and playground equipment for the school. Donations should be tied or placed in bags and brought to the school on Sheldon Road south of Joy.

Franklin's Bob Visser No. 1 cage coach

"The good will always find its way to the top," was the praise Franklin basketball coach Bob Visser heaped upon his cagers after winning their way into the state quarterfinals.

This statement has also been found to fit the bill in the selection of the area's No. 1 coach.

The man who guided Franklin to the top has been chosen the basketball coach of the year. Congratulations Bob Visser.

The 41 year - old Patriot head mentor directed his cagers to a Northwest Suburban loop championship, a district crown at Stevenson High, a regional title at Franklin and into state quarterfinal play before bowing to Brother Rice, 59 - 53. Franklin finished at 22 wins and four losses and No. 1 in the 19 school area ratings.

"This has been just one fantastic season," said Visser. "I couldn't have put together a better group of kids if I had the opportunity to pick them myself."

Things haven't been all roses and victories for the Franklin coach who just completed his sixth season behind the main Patriot whistle.

In Visser's first season as Franklin head coach (1968-69), the Patriots finished at 8-10, then dipped to a 3-14 showing before battling back to a 9-8 mark in the '70-71 season. It was then 12-6, 15-9 last year and now a 22-4 showing for an overall Visser record at Franklin of 69 wins and 51 losses.

Bob's basketball career kicked off at Grand Rapids Central where as a player he received all-state acclaim in his senior year. Visser's team lost in the quarterfinals to Kalamazoo Central by 11 points.

"I guess one goal I have set for myself in coaching was to have a team go farther in the state tourney than I went as a player," said Visser.

Visser's 1973-74 team was within one game of getting that goal but wound up six points short of moving into semi-final action.

The Franklin coach's college years were spent at Hope College where he played four seasons of basketball, making all-league his junior and senior stints.

Bob married the day after graduating from Hope and he and his wife

Sue now sport Jane, an 11th grader at Plymouth Canton High, a 13 year - old Peggy and an 11 year - old son David.

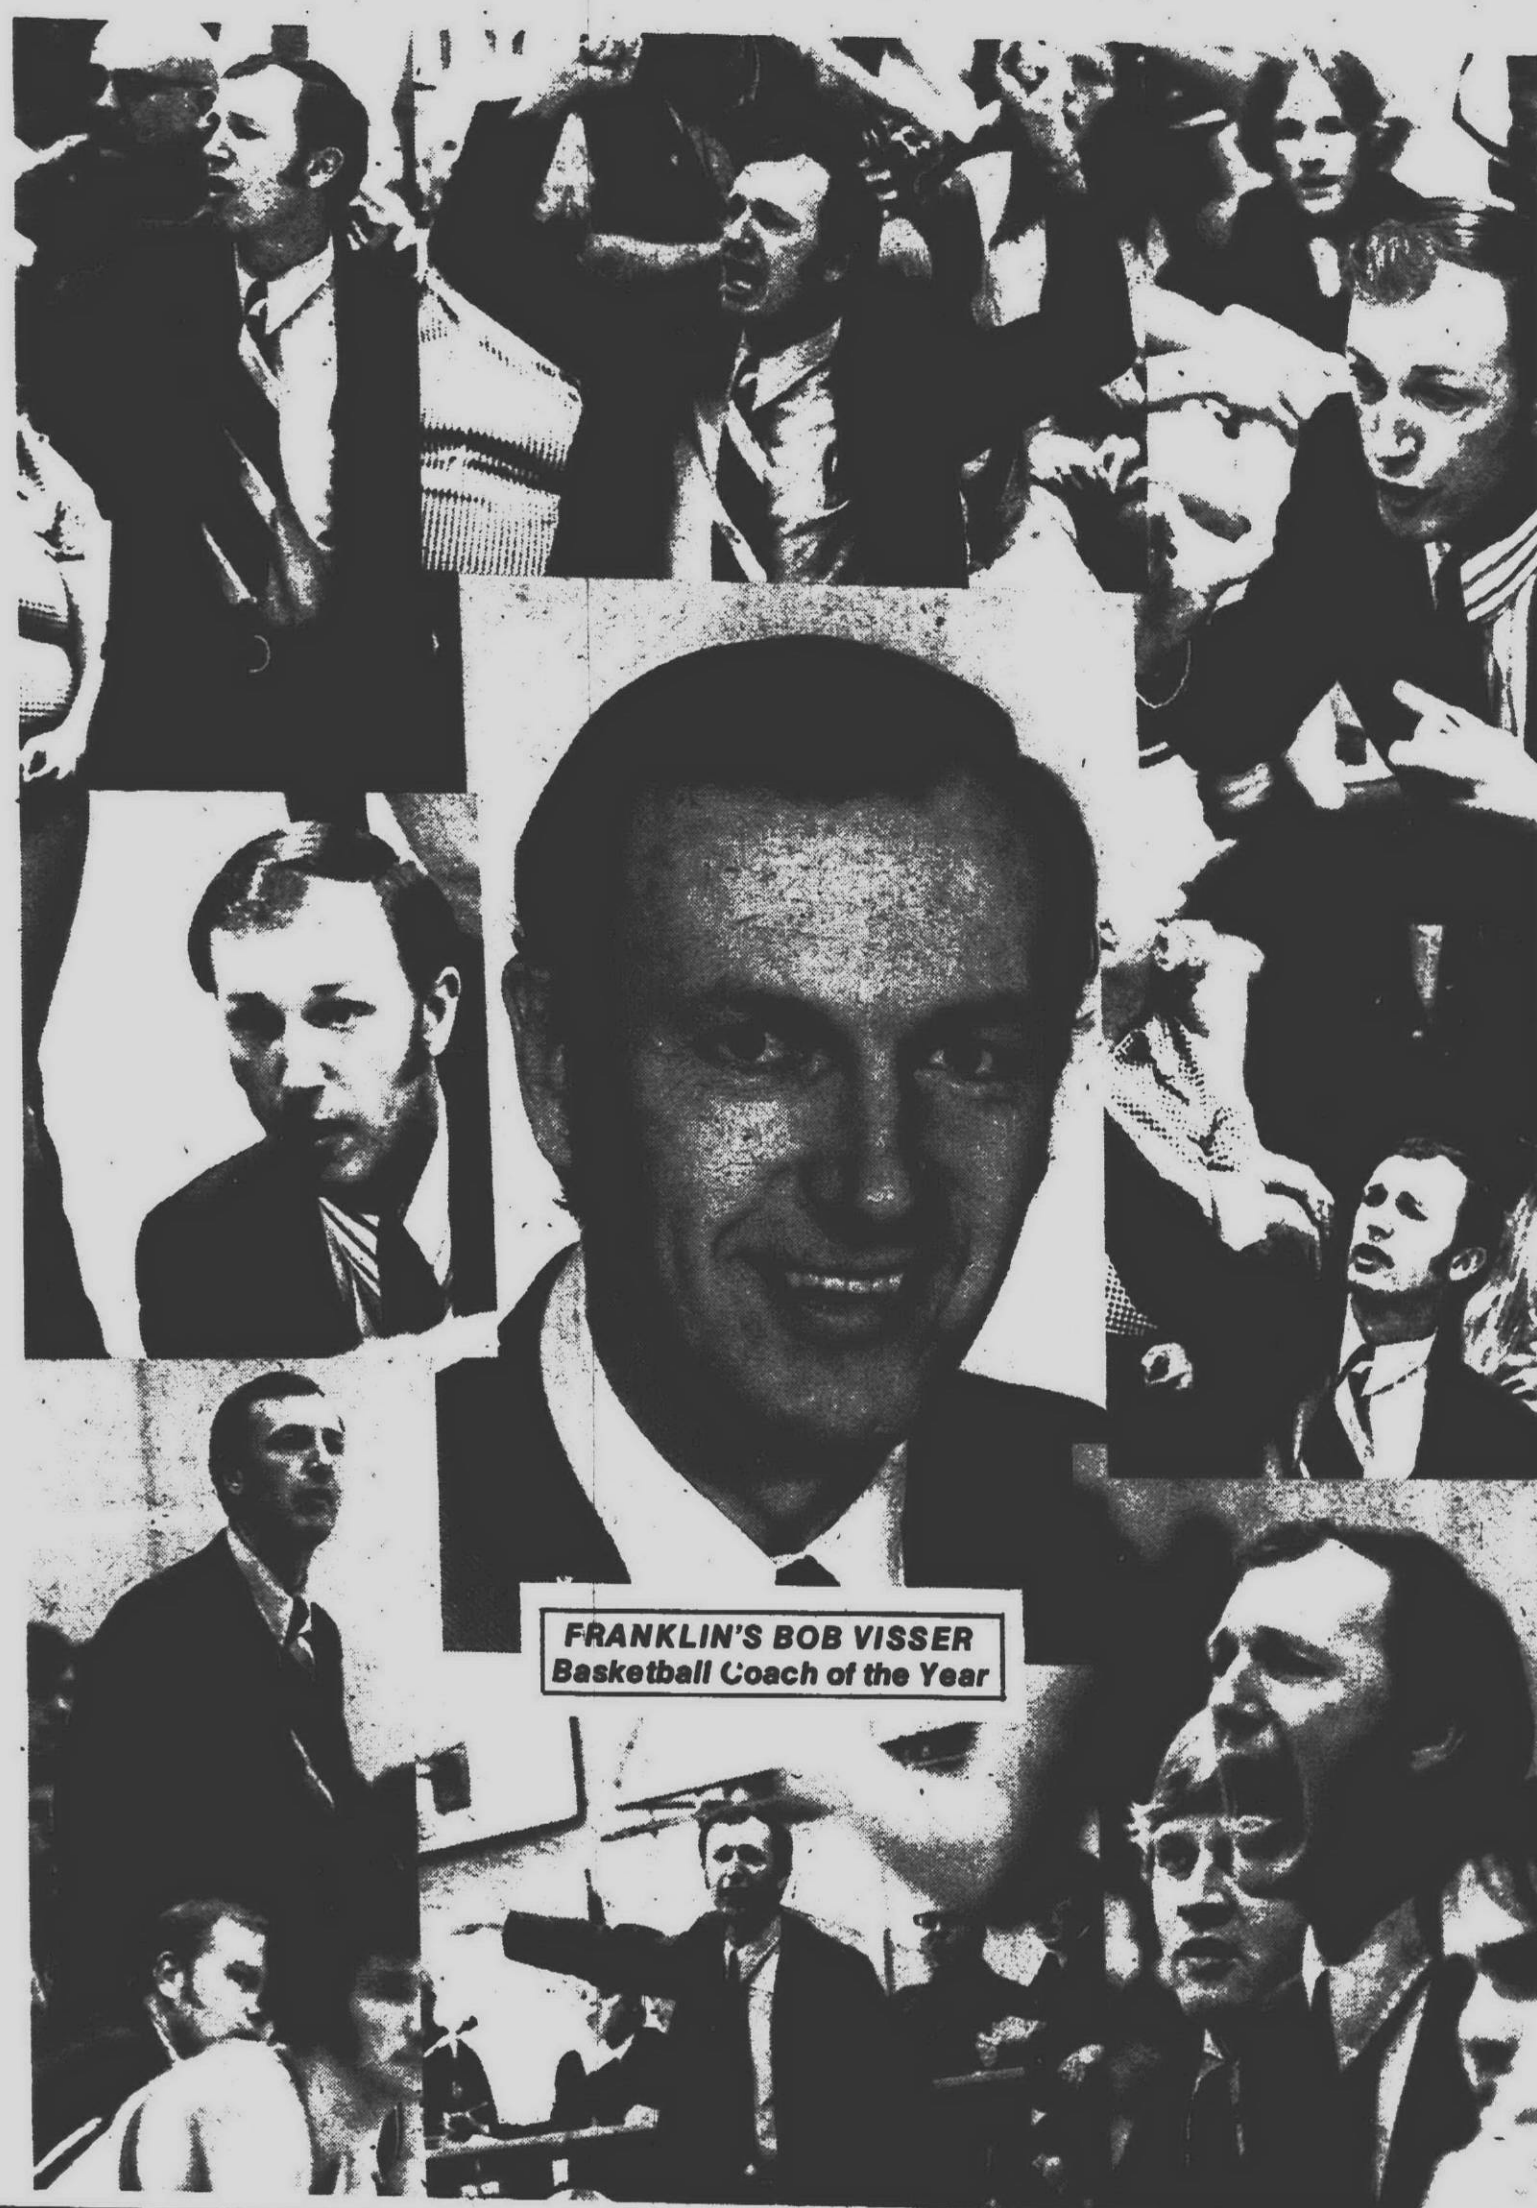

Visser's first venture into the teacher field was in Rockford, Ill., after graduating from Hope in 1954. It was then on to Aberdeen, Wash. where he taught physical education. The year 1957 saw Visser return to Michigan where he taught Latin at Northville High.

It was then on to Emerson Junior High in Livonia. Bob taught Latin and English and coached basketball. When Franklin High opened in 1962, Visser was ready to make the jump.

First came four years of junior varsity coaching in basketball and head coach of the golf team, defunct for two years.

Visser has also been Foreign Language Department chairman at Franklin but has now switched to just physical education.

And a good thing for Franklin High and Patriot basketball. Take a bow Bob Visser, No. 1 basketball coach-of-the-year.

Huron Relays luring area preps Saturday

BY TOM DONOGHUE
Sports Editor

Hey, it's that time of year again. Dust off the shot puts, shine up the batons, limber up the pole vaults, straighten up the hurdles and break in those running shoes...you might even check out a stopwatch.

The 1974 prep track season is upon us with the opening meet for most area schools set for this Saturday (March 30) at the Huron Relays at Eastern Michigan University's Bowen Field House.

Approximately 90 Class A schools will be in competition with the list including such area contenders as Farmington, Farmington Harrison, North Farmington, Redford Union, Bishop Borgess, Southfield, Southfield Lathrup, Garden City East and West, John Glenn and Plymouth Salem.

This will be the 20th running of the day long event which kicks off at 12:30 p.m. Saturday with pole vault, high jump and the running of the two mile relay. The final afternoon event is at 3:30 p.m. with action set to resume at 6 p.m.

The evening session kicks off with shot put and the two mile run with the final event, the mile relay set for 9:30 p.m.

Each participating school is allowed to enter one team or person in each event with heats seeded according to times sent in by the respective coaches.

The top time in each event will produce the winning time with the one exception the shuttle hurdle relay where the eight top times in the preliminaries are qualified for the two heat finals in the evening.

Farmington High's defending state champion in both track and cross country Mike McGuire has to be the favored area contender to watch in this indoor meet.

It was only two weeks ago that this Farmington Falcon senior stole the show in the State indoor championships at Michigan State University with an indoor prep record of 9:14.5 in the two mile run.

McGuire will be the one to beat in the two mile, which will be going off at 6 p.m. The Huron Relay record to date is 9:19.1 set by John Cross of Belleville in the '72 meeting.

There now exists a Huron Relay mark set by an area prep back in 1959. Farmington's Rex Cawley, who later went on to win an Olympic Gold Medal in Japan, clocked in at :07.8 in the 65 yard high hurdles. That time was matched by Pontiac Central's Bill Tipton in the '67 Huron Relays.

Redford Union's Scott O'Grady will also be another area prep to watch in both the high and long jump and North Farmington's shuttle hurdle relay squad of Brad Pease, Steve Barth, John Daubenmeyer and Dan Kramer could be a relay sleeper.

Meet No. 2 will be the following weekend when state preps meet for the Spartan Relays at Michigan State University's Jenison Field House on April 5 - 6.

It's then into outdoor dual meet season with one of the highlights in the Observerland Relays set for Saturday, May 4 at Redford Union High.

Co-champions of last year's Observer Relays were Livonia rivals Churchill and Stevenson.

Churchill is the defending Western Six loop champion for the past two seasons and is coming off a 7-1 dual season. Coach Fred Price has 16 lettermen returning.

Co-captain Bob Mendoza has taken over the high and low hurdles. Along with seniors Wally Bird and sophomore Mike Striecher, he will handle the sprinting chores.

Price has returning a 6-foot-2 high jumper in Jeff Young, junior shot-putter Bill Reardon and pole vaulters Rick Powers and Mike Fisher.

The Chargers are again sure to have a strong distance group as a result of Coach Dave Westover's cross country crew which won the league for the fourth consecutive year.

Heading the distance group is Glenn Parkinson, Don Shaw, George Wright, Todd White and Craig Gully.

Coach Price has commented that he and his team will have a few surprises before this season is over.

Ron Holland's North Farmington crew sports 13 returning lettermen with Brad Pease coming back in the sprints and hurdles and Steve Barth and John Daubenmeyer set to shine again in the high and low hurdles.

Dan Kramer will be coming back with a :10.0 clocking in the 100 and :22.8 in the 220.

Stevenson High will be out to defend its Inter-Lakes title and a share of the Observerland crown. Paul Holmberg has 18 returning lettermen.

The Spartan strong points have to be in the distance events with Ken Brown, Steve White, Rick Galindo and K.C. Stanger returning. The pole vault event also features three returnees in Bruce Temby, Fred O'Keefe and Tom LaChance.

Holmberg also has four returning long jumpers who went over 20 feet last year.

Over at Redford Union, John MacKenzie has 13 returning lettermen, with his strong men all-area vaulter Greg Broquet and all-league Tom Bogdonas and Scott O'Grady.

The RU head mentor should have balance in sprints in Bogdonas, Dave Esmacher and Mark Cigna and in the hurdles in Jack Helzer, Keith Schoof and Mike Esslinger.

Another Suburban Eight contender that should stand along with RU to give Dearborn a run for the title is Rod Fedraw's Bentley Bulldogs.

Captain of this year's squad is all-area Steve Spreitzer in the 440 and 880. Other lettermen that will push the Bulldogs to victory in the running events are Brian Murphy, Darrel Ditzhazy, Chuck Kovach and Tim Sobolak. Returning field men are Bill Brown in the long and high jump and Mike White in the long jump.

Bentley is coming off a nine win and two loss dual season.

Fedraw's list of hopefuls include Kevin Farr, Rich Hammill, Kevin Klimmek, Ray Nabozny, Dan Tabaczynski, Joe Marano and Bill Winiarski.

Rick Westphal, Don Woodruff, and Matt Whitehead are the keys to Ray Williams Thurston High. Westphal is a returning 220 all-area sprinter, Woodruff a returning league champion in the pole vault and Whitehead a top sprinter.

Thurston was 8-0 in dual meets last year and Williams sees this year's squad having more depth. Seniors Bob Wilson, Lou Torcolacci, Jerry Meredith and Dan Graustein head the distance list along with sophomore Lou Macerati.

Jeff Oviatt, Paul Benedict and Craig Reynolds top the 440 and 880 card with Gordon Elkins, Bob Lechi, Darryl Korgzm, Scott Horton, Erich Forbes and Khiris Agababian rounding out the list of hopefuls.

Over at Bishop Borgess High, Coach Steve Strauch has 14 returning letter winners back and is gearing towards a junior - sophomore year.

His key seniors back are Gary Cummings and Rick Lewandowski in the pole vault and Dave Salesky, Mark Oller, Steve Legel, Ken Yates and Devin McCarthy in the running events.

Top juniors should be Rich Turner in the pole vault, Steve Jaremski at shot put and Sam Caruana in the dashes. Sophomore Gary Hicks could be a real comer in the low and high hurdles and the 440.

DRC announces new 3:30 p.m. post-time

After trying for three years the Detroit Racing Association has given up on its experiment of an early post time for the first race. Vice President and General Manager Dick Wilson tossed his hands in the air Monday and announced to one and all the 2:30 p.m. post time had been dropped.

"We have tried for the better part of three seasons to convince folks the earlier post would be better...they have turned it down and now we're going to go back to the 3:30 p.m. starting time."

The later post becomes effective next Monday, April 1 and this isn't any joke. Beginning on April Fool's Day post time will be 3:30 p.m.

"We polled fans last fall and gain this spring as to whether they preferred the early post or the later time," said Wilson.

"The vote favored the earlier time and then it suddenly dawned on us that we were asking the people that liked the time, the others weren't around the track at all."

GC West All-Stater has some regrets

Remember that 6-foot-7, 185 pound all-State, all-American basketball player from Garden City West High four years back?

Just what happened to this youth who stole the hearts of the entire area.

Yes, it was Rick Drewitz who had it all after graduating from West in 1970 - a red carpet to Adolph Rupp's then No. 1 University of Kentucky team.

A few days ago, the same Rick came into the office - four years of college wiser, about 1/2-inch taller than when he left West and about 20 pounds heavier.

Rick is about to wrap up his degree in tele-communications and journalism at Kentucky this spring and is out job hunting with basketball just a bitter taste of the past now.

What just did happen to probably one of the finest athletes ever to have played on area basketball courts?

"You know, I never started one game for Kentucky - not one game," said Drewitz who married after his junior year.

RICK DREWITZ
Never started at U-K

"I chose to go to University of Kentucky for four reasons," he added. "First of all, I liked the school. Second, it was then the No. 1 team in the nation and third, nobody from Michigan had ever played basketball at Kentucky."

"My final reason was that I wanted to play under Adolf Rupp."

Drewitz's freshman season showed every sign of becoming just as an outstanding college player as he was in high school. The West grad averaged 20 points per game in a 12 win and seven loss freshman season.

Rick was then eligible for varsity competition his sophomore year and was the No. 6 man on Rupp's squad.

"I was very satisfied then," said Drewitz. "I averaged about six points a game and all indications pointed to me being a starter the next two years."

Kentucky lost to Florida State in the NCAA mid-east finals that year and Rupp called it quits. The frosh Coach Joe Hall moved up the ladder with a 22-0 frosh squad sparkling with him.

"I really didn't expect my status to change," said Rick. "It was always Rupp's feelings to stick with the older players. But now we started hearing rumblings of Hall and of him sticking with his frosh players."

There was a forward slot open for Rick his junior year and under Rupp it was his for the working.

"It just never happened that way," said Rick. "It was all downhill thereafter. I didn't play over five minutes in our opener at Michigan State that year and my old coach from West Chris Babler told me after the game that it didn't look good."

"I didn't want to, but I eventually had to agree with him."

"I finally went up to Hall and questioned my status with the team. He assured me of a role but I wound playing about only a third as much as I did my sophomore year."

"It was a definite letdown. Here I was ready for my senior season and I was just going through the motions. My heart just wasn't in it."

"I guess I was fussing and fuming a lot but again I think I had the right." Drewitz then made a move that had to hurt.

"At the close of my junior season, I sent out 'feelers' through Babler. To make things even worse, I didn't hear from a single college."

"I knew from high school that if you didn't make it your junior year - you don't make it," commented Drewitz. "Sure I was dealt a tough hand but I decided to stick it out my senior year."

"You know, as I look back on everything now, the whole thing was a gamble. I took on the challenge of playing away from home from the beginning and I don't regret staying with it."

"What has really developed into a bitter pill to swallow has been watching Campy Russell play for University of Michigan. In my senior year at West, I was matched with him in a state semifinal. Pontiac Central was No. 1 and we were No. 3."

"I got 42 points off Campy, he hit for 27 and here he is leading the Big Ten now."

"Oh well, hindsight is always better than foresight. And to think I had my college picks narrowed down to Kentucky and Michigan."

Rick's senior stint at Kentucky saw him spend more time than ever on the bench.

"I look back now on the number of people that tried to tell me not to go out of state. They tried to tell me that schools get the pressure to play to their own kids first and it would be rough. I wouldn't listen then but I learned."

"Through it all I did see what it was like on the other side," explained the U-K senior. "I have no complaints - just a few regrets."

"My most cherished dream in playing pro basketball is now lost - everything I thought was there is now gone and I am not really sure what happened."

Rick will graduate from the University of Kentucky in May, 1/2 inch taller, and 20 pounds heavier than when he left West. The body isn't that much different - it's the mind and personality that has taken the colossal and bitter disappointment.

Livonia Bantam Bears win state 'B' crown

The Livonia Bears almost made it a clean sweep.

The Bantam Bears, representing 13 and 14 year - olds from the Livonia Parks and Recreation Department, captured top honors in the State Bantam B hockey tourney.

Besides winning the state team crown, Coach Jerry Kestner's Livonia crew took the most valuable player award in Paul MacDonald and scored high scorer in Tom Bowie with 11 goals.

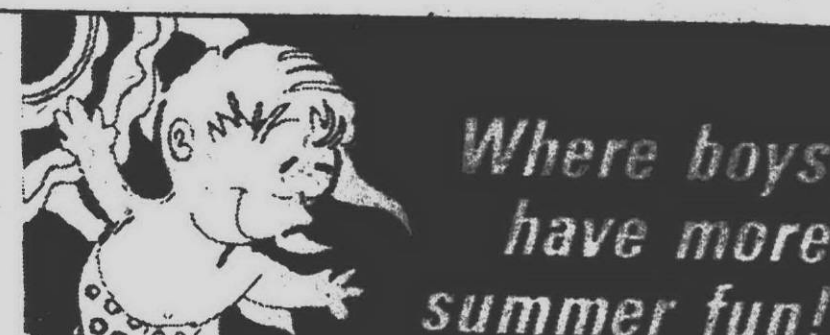

The three preliminary contests saw Livonia dump Sault St. Marie, 6-2, rout Trenton, 9-3, and topple Port Huron, 7-3.

It was then into semi-final action where Livonia whitewashed Jackson, 8-0, and Warren edged Sault St. Marie in four overtimes, 3-2.

The crown was then to be decided between Warren and Livonia with a goal by Bowie in 1:18 of the first overtime giving the Bears a 4-3 decision.

Livonia netminder Craig Williams went the five games, giving up just 11 goals.

Seniors dominate selections

By TOM DONOGHUE

The word is out...a 32-foot-1, 965 pound cager going by the name All-Area is on the loose.

Word has it that a countless number of college recruiters are on the hunt ready with any sort of net to capture its prey.

The 1973-74 prep basketball campaign is ready to turn over its final page in the area with the last chapter headed post-season honors, announcing the '73-74 all-area cage lineup.

The first team is composed of Churchill's Don Braun and Ken Landini, Franklin's Kevin Kaseta, North Farmington's Jim Fredericks and Brian Kaluzny of John Glenn make up that 32-foot-1, 965 pound team.

This elite five averages out to 6-foot-5 and 193 pounds a man. The five also average out with 91.5 points per game along with 61 rebounds.

Impressive basketball statistics is not the only department these five seniors excel in as they average out to boast a 3.4 grade point average. Kaseta is on top of that list with a 3.9 showing.

Kaseta, who captured an all-area first team berth last season, is the solo repeater in this year's honor card.

The 6-8 Franklin star who finished No. 5 on the scoring charts last season with a 19.2 points per game average took the honor this time around with 545 points in 24 games for a 22.7 point per game mark.

Topping the rebound charts was Churchill's 6-7 Braun who hauled in 372 grabs in 22 games for a 16.9 rebound per game mark. Kaseta was next in line with 361 rebounds in 24 contests for a 15 rebound per game average.

Franklin, the No. 1 club in the area with a 22-4 record, was the solo team to make it out of the districts and regionals only to tumble to Brother Rice in quarterfinal play.

The key behind Franklin's prowess was Kaseta who totaled 1,009 points in his two years of varsity ball.

Kaseta hit on 219 of 401 shots from the floor for a 54.6 per cent and converted on 107 of 144 from the line for a 74.3 per cent. Kevin was the leading scorer in the area and had a season game high of 40 points.

The 6-foot-8 Patriot star was all-northwest the last two years, and honorable mention all-state last season.

His senior stint honors have just started to pile up with a number that has now climbed over the 100 mark of interested colleges hoping for his signature of intent.

North Farmington's Jim Fredericks is another all-northwest loop performer on the No. 1 club. The Raider standout, who was also all-area on the 1973 gridiron squad, sports a 3.4 grade point average.

At 6-foot-3, Fredericks hauled in an average of 13 rebounds per game, hit on 169 of 300 shots from the floor in 20 games, and converted on 77 of 99 from the charity line.

Fredericks totaled 415 points this year to give him a three year total of 844 points and is the first North cager ever to finish with over a 20 point per game mark, at 20.8.

North Coach Ken Dean stated that Jim's only weakness was in that he didn't shoot enough, and passed off instead of taking a good shot.

"For a guy that shot 56 per cent from the floor, Jim only averaged about 15 shots per game," commented Dean.

Making the first team from a 15-6 Westland John Glenn team was senior Brian Kaluzny.

The 6-foot-4, 205 pounder had the highest field goal percentage in the area. Brian hit on 129 of 214 shots from the floor for a 60.2 per cent. He also made good 75 of 121 from the free throw line and totaled 333 points for a 15.1 point per game mark.

A knee injury hampered his play in the state tourney this season but Brian was picked all-northwest.

Kaluzny sports a 3.3 grade point average and back on the subject of his outstanding field goal mark, Brian hit 10 out of 10 from the floor in a 95-49 victory over Southgate.

The final two members of the first team come from Pat Montagano's Churchill squad which lost to only one club this season, city rival Franklin.

After winning the first six games, Churchill fell to Franklin, 65-59, and then proceeded to reel off 14 consecutive victories before falling again to Franklin in a district finale, 59-58.

The heart of the Churchill team was in the talent of Don Braun and Ken Landini.

The 6-foot-7 Braun, weighed in at 215 pounds, won the area rebound battle with a 16.9 grab s per contest mark and also sports a 3.2 grade point.

Braun is all western Six for the league champs and was the solo returning starter in Montagano's '73-'74 card which was coming off a 19-6 season.

Don hit 151 of 308 at the floor for 49 per cent and hit for 347 points total, finishing with a 15.8 points per game showing.

The other Charger to make the top squad and round out the card is Ken Landini, checking in at 6-foot-3 and 165 pounds, the lightest member of the first team by 20 pounds.

Ken was a two-year varsity performer for Churchill and like Braun, captured all-western six acclaim.

Landini started off his sophomore year around the 130 pound mark, upped it to 135 last season but put away alot of spaghetti last summer to up it to 165 this season.

"Ken knew he had to work on weight and strength for this season and he did," said Montagano. "He is also one of the few 6-foot-3 kids I know that can get his elbow above the rim."

Ken's grade point average is 3.0 and on the court he shot 151 of 311 for a 48.5 field goal percentage and delivered on 40 of 51 from the line for 78.4 per cent.

Landini finished with 342 points and ranked No. 7 on the area scoring charts with a 17.1 points per game showing.

The all-area second team checks in with an average weight of 187 pounds and height of 6-foot-6 with one junior breaking into the senior dominate squad.

Plymouth Salem headed the second crew as Fred Thomann's Rocks which wound up 21-3 for the year, sported two stars in 6-foot-9 Eric Agardy and 6-foot-5 Bruce Johnson.

Other members of the second team are 6-foot-5 Ken Kinsvater of Garden City West, 6-foot-8 Keith Blazaitis of Franklin High and John Glenn's 6-foot-2 Jim Kholman.

The third team saw No. 1 Franklin and Southfield Lathrup cop two slots apiece with Plymouth Salem's sophomore Jim Ellinghausen at 6-foot-7 the only non-senior.

Franklin's Jamie Knapp at 6-foot-1 and Matt DeMars, also at 6-foot-1, were selected to the third team as it was this guard combination that quarterbacked the Patriots to the quarter-finals.

Mystery bulb is a problem

"It grows about two inches a day and evidently lives on air. The mahogany-colored trunk and leaves give off a sickening odor and have the slimy feel of a snake."

"What is it?"

Mrs. Dennie Meffer of 14828 Yale, Livonia has been haunting the library in search of the name of the strange plant that is growing from a bulb she had stored away for the winter.

For six years the Meffers planted the bulbs every spring. During the summer they produced trunklike stalks which produced four palmish leaves at their tops.

Every fall they were dug up and stored away for their dormant period.

This is the first time one has shown any sign of life during the winter months. Like something out of science fiction it grew over 20 inches in two weeks. When photographed it has reached a height of 30 inches and heading upward.

Because of the unpleasant odor it was placed in the garage when the weather warmed up. When the temperature dropped the Meffers brought it back into the house.

To help dissipate the foul smell, they put it in front of the fireplace and left the draft open. And hoped it was not toxic.

Mrs. Meffer thought the bulbs were African snake trees. According to her research at the library, the gross "thing" does not fit into that category.

At publication time it was continuing its growth, unaided by soil or water.

Tips for painters

A top quality paint brush, regardless of size or style, is a good investment. It will last longer and produce superior painting results with less time and effort.

Brushes contain either natural bristles or synthetic filaments. The natural bristle brush is recommended for applying coatings with an oil base such as varnish, enamel and shellac. They should never be used in water-based paints. A polyester brush is especially suited for use in water based coatings because of its stiffness retention in water.

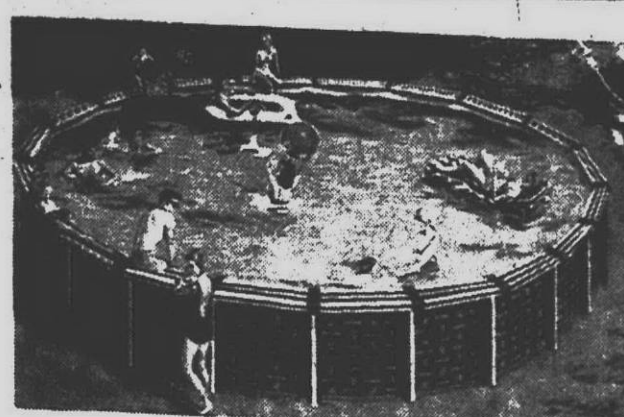

Make sure the brush you buy is "flagged" (split ends.) The more split ends the better as they help retain paint and spread it more uniformly.

A good brush contains four or more different lengths of bristles. Multiple lengths insure proper flexibility.

Here's how to test a brush before you buy it: Brush the bristles against the back of your hand. In a good brush, the bristles will feel springy and elastic. Next, press the brush gently on a firm surface. The bristles should not fan out excessively.

Petunias rated tops in beds or baskets

Did you know that there was no such flower as a red petunia until 1950 when an American breeder developed one?

Double petunias did not exist until Japanese breeders found the secret of creating them.

These breakthroughs in petunia breeding set off a furious activity among breeders to create new colors and forms so that today, the list of new petunia varieties far exceeds any other class of annual flowers.

Basically, petunias are classified under four main groups: single grandifloras (largest flowered), single multifloras (smaller flowered, but more of them), double grandifloras, and double multifloras.

Single multifloras are the most popular and White Cascade is perhaps the most spectacular example of this class. It creates a magnificent bedding effect and it is exceptional as a container planting as in hanging baskets.

Individual flowers measure up to more than four inches across. Apple blossom, an all-America winner, is another superb grandiflora.

Multifloras are small-flowered and not frilled, but their abundance of bloom gives a greater density of color than other petunias.

Outstanding varieties recognized by all-America selections are Comanche and Coral Satin. Many good mixtures are also available.

Double grandifloras include a spectacular red and white called Circus, which won an award. Among the multifloras, Sugar Plum is especially good.

Petunia seed is tiny and must be handled with care. Sowing seeds thinly in a seed starter six weeks before outdoor planting.

The double-flowered need extra care, and a good way to get them started is to sprinkle the seed sparingly on a wad of paper tissue. Make the tissue into a loose roll, and keep moist until the tiny seedlings germinate. Then you can carefully transfer them to the individual peat pots for transplanting outdoors.

Peat pellets are also an excellent way to get petunias started.

For instant color, petunias are also available as bedding plants.

PETUNIAS make excellent hanging baskets. Best for this purpose are the hybrid grandiflora single varieties, especially pink, red and white.

Tips on refinishing plywood are offered

Since surface appearance is the best guide for telling you when exterior plywood needs refinishing, you should periodically check the surface for signs of deterioration. Before refinishing, you must properly clean the surface. Here's how to do it.

Previously stained plywood, particularly textures surfaces - Wash with a mild detergent solution. Rinse with clear water. Allow the surface to dry thoroughly. In stubborn cases, scrubbing with a soft-bristle brush (non-metallic) may be necessary.

Previously painted plywood - Remove all loose paint, surface dirt and chalk. For textured plywood, loose paint usually can be satisfactorily removed with a stiff brush. For sanded plywood, remove loose paint by sanding.

If the surface is severely checked (slight breaks in the paint film), fill them with a pliable patching compound.

Mildew may also pose a problem. To remove mildew, scrub the area with this solution:

Two-thirds cup trisodium phosphate:

One-third cup powdered all-purpose laundry detergent:

One quart household bleach:

Three quarts warm water.

Rinse the area with clear water. The surface should be completely dry before refinishing.

Whispering Willows opens Saturday

Golf at Livonia's Whispering Willows municipal course will cost a bit more this year for all but senior citizens and juniors.

That was the announcement of Pro Gary Whitener and his chief assistant as they prepared to open the 18-hole layout Saturday.

The fee schedule, adopted by the Livonia Parks and Recreation Commission and approved by the city council, is as follows:

Livonia residents - Monday through Friday - $3 for nine hole and $4.50 for 18. Saturday, Sunday and holidays - $3.50 for nine and $5.50 for 18.

Livonia Masters set swim marks

Paul Reinke of the Livonia Blue Racers masters swim team set a national mark for his age group in the 100 yard breast stroke as the Blue Racers swamped teams from Birmingham and Oak Park last week at the Livonia Family Y.

Sixty-six men and women over 25 represented 11 teams from Michigan and the Midwest in the Amateur Athletic Union meet. Participants from 25 to 65 raced against other swimmers in their own five year age group.

Reinke, of Farmington Hills, swam the 100 yd. breast stroke in 1:10.2 for a new national record in the 35-39 bracket. Bill Burrell of Birmingham, swimming for the Oak Park Village A. C., raced to a national record in the 100 yard individual medley for 55-59 year olds with a time of 1:13.5. Forty-two Michigan records were also shattered.

Swimming for the Blue Racers beside Reinke were Barbara Boyle, Bob Bertoli, Dick Bishop, John Cluett, Jeff Sadowsky, Stu Vaughn, and Jim Whyatt, all of Livonia; and Jean Garbus and Jerry Garbus of Westland.

Master swim teams are scheduled to compete again April 27 in the Michigan Masters Championships at Grosse Pointe High School.

Ski Heil

By

BILL CAMERON

Once again we've come to the end of the line, or the season, to be more explicit. Although there are still a few resorts operating in Michigan and plenty of snow out west, the average skier has cleaned his boots and skis and stored them away for another season.

I haven't seen any final figures but I'd hazard a guess that attendance has fallen off almost everywhere in the U.S.

The energy crisis caused great confusion in the industry and lack of snow locally didn't inspire too many of us to venture out. It does appear that more and more people are taking ski-week vacations and heading out west and to the Canadian Rockies. Each year I like to "discover" a new area and this year it was Banff and Jasper in Alberta, Canada.

Air Canada does an excellent job in putting a package together called "Skifari," guaranteeing good snow, good food and fine lodging plus no lift lines. Or at least it appeared that way to me.

Another area highly spoken of by several of my friends was Snowbird in Utah. Here's an area only 36 miles from Salt Lake City which gives you an option of staying in the big city or at the area. In close proximity are the ski areas of Alta and Park City. For many, it was their first experience in powder the snow - enjoyable but frustrating.

We were saddened to hear of the death of Chet Huntley. I had just received several brochures from his "Big Sky." Montana Ski area and they had a big celebration planned for this past weekend. At least he lived long enough to see his dream come true. This is an area that should become one of the more popular once it becomes exposed to the skiing public.

What makes skiing so great is that I don't believe I heard one negative report from anyone that ventured out to an area, whether locally, nationally or internationally. Everyone seems to have a good time. Once in awhile you will find a lack of snow and sometimes too much snow. Generally the conditions are skiable and you adjust accordingly. I wish all you skiers a pleasant summer and please stay in condition - time does go by rather quickly.

Don't think you've heard the last of me. I'm jumping into the nearest phone booth and changing into my tennis clothes. Look for "The Court Jester" on these pages. I'll be writing about the tennis situation in our surrounding communities, both indoors and out, where to play, who's offering instruction, tournaments, etc. Until then - SKI HEIL!

Women cagers finish 4th

LIVONIA - The William Jewell Cardinal women's basketball team, one of whose coaches is Mark Middleton of Livonia, finished its season with a fourth place showing in the state tournament held at Central Methodist College in Fayette, Mo., last weekend.

Coaches Middleton and Vic Schultz and sponsor, Barbara Macke, assistant professor of physical education, all agreed it was a learning and building year.

GET DOUBLE EXPOSURE WITH DOUBLE ACTION FAMILY WANT ADS AND SAVE $2.00!!

A double exposure can ruin a photograph... but double exposure in The Observer & Eccentric Classified section can develop into a double quick response and a savings of $2.00.

Double Action Want Ads are family want ads placed in two consecutive issues - Monday and Thursday or Tuesday and Monday - with no changes in copy and no cancellations. When you place a Double Action Family Want Ad you save $2.00 off the regular cost of placing an ad in two issues.

The Observer & Eccentric Classified Want Ad section focuses on more than 155,000 families in Oakland and Wayne Counties. This includes households in Birmingham, Bloomfield, West Bloomfield, Canton Twp., Farmington, Farmington Hills, Garden City, Livonia, Plymouth, Redford Twp., Rochester, Avon Twp., Southfield, Troy, and Westland.

Put yourself in the happy picture of satisfied classified advertisers with a Double Action Family Want Ad.

Shoppers spark optimism

Recreational vehicle demand accelerating

By W.W. Edgar

LIVONIA — If medals ever were given for optimism one of the largest and brightest should be reserved for Robert L. Page, head of Wandering Wheels Inc. dealers in recreation vehicle, that just opened a new showroom and sales pavilion on Plymouth Road.

Despite the fuel shortage and the possibility of gasoline rationing, plus the fact that vacations may be cut short this summer, he sat at his desk and smiled.

"I don't think it was too much of a gamble to open our new outlet," he said. "under present conditions. Sure I'm concerned about the gasoline situation. But I am not worried. Couldn't be after the response we received at the campers show and the Outdoorama."

As he spoke his showroom was filled with young couples and several middle-aged persons casting longing eyes at the vehicles.

"These people are prospective buyers," he went on. "We had the curious at the various shows. Now, those who are in the market are coming back to make a purchase. So, I am looking forward to a fine spring and summer."

He did admit that December, January and February were slow but, with the coming of spring enthusiasm, for the camper style of living is surfacing again.

Originally located at Nine Mile and Telegraph, Page confided that the move to Livonia was a natural one because most of the customers were from the Livonia area.

"This is growing community," he explained, "and we just brought the business closer to our customers with a better chance of dealing successfully with the newcomers."

Another reason for his optimism is the fact that the prospective customers aren't focusing their major attention on the mini or low priced vehicles in the price range of $5,500 to $8,000. Most of the attention is centered on the middle price from $8,000 to $15,000. And some are showing interest in the top style that sell in the $21,000 to $30,000.

After watching the potential customers wander through the room Page added that the premier class vehicle is priced in a range starting at $46,000.

Another reason for his optimism, Page pointed, out is the trend to the four day week.

"You can't expect a man to work four days and then spend the next three sitting around the house. He'll want to get out and this type of living would be an outlet for him.

"And another good sign is the knowledge that all of his vehicles are driven to Livonia from factories in California, Texas, Florida and Maryland without a bit of a gasoline problem.

"When I see that I don't think there is much reason to worry about our business."

Then he repeated: "Sure we're concerned, but we're not worried."

Oakway sets season finale

The Oakway Symphony will wind up its 1973-74 season with a concert Sunday, March 31, at 4 p.m. in Churchill High School, 8900 Newburgh, Livonia.

The Kenneth Jewell Chorale will be featured in the concert which will include the Verdi Te Deum, Borodin Polovetsian Dances and selections from "Superstar."

Also included will be Glinka's "Russian and Ludmilla," Mozart's "Symphony No. 38," and Hovhanness' "Prelude and Fugue."

Francesco DiBlasi will be conducting the symphony orchestra, with Kenneth Jewell directing the chorale.

Tickets for the concert are available from Hudsons, Grinnells, Royal Music, Hammell Music and the Southfield Parks and Recreation department.

The Kenneth Jewell Chorale is a virtuoso ensemble of 40 vocal artists Leisure...

Thursday, March 28, 1974 THE OBSERVER & ECCENTRIC (LPWG) 1D who perform great choral works on an artistic level.

Director Kenneth Jewell's diversified background affords him the wide experience necessary to bring such a group to its maximum artistic achievement.

He has established a national reputation as adjudicator, clinician and conductor of choral festivals.

Dr. Jewell is an alumnus of Eastern Michigan University and The University of Michigan. Presently he is head of the voice department at the Interlochen Arts Academy.

The chorale has appeared with Detroit Symphony under Sixten Ehrling, Toledo Symphony under Serge Fournier, Interlochen Academy Orchestra under Thor Johnson and in numerous a capella concerts and the annual Bach Festival at Cranbrook.

The Kenneth Jewell Chorale is a touring attraction of the Michigan Council for the Arts. Recommended by Governor Romney, and created by the 1916 Michigan Legislature, the council provides a wide variety of programs and services in the performing and visual arts available to community groups and organizations throughout the state.

THE KENNETH JEWELL CHORALE rehearses for the Oakway Symphony's final concert of the season Sunday, March 31, at 4 p.m. in Churchill High School, 8900 Newburgh, Livonia.

U - M dancers plan 5 - concert series

The University Dancers of the University of Michigan will present a five-concert series, April 5-7, in the Power Center for the Performing Arts, Ann Arbor.

There will be an evening concert each day at 8 p.m. and two special matinees April 6, at 3 p.m. for young persons and April 7, at 3 p.m., featuring new works by student choreographers.

The weekend of dance will be a varied show ranging from the historical to the avant-garde to the ethnic, according to Elizabeth Bergmann who heads the U - M dance program. All five programs involve about 140 students as dancers and production crew members.

Opening the three evening programs will be "Asaka Celebration" choreographed by Vera Embree of the dance faculty. Asaka is the god of mountain and field, and the stylized African dance centers on the theme of planting. It employs 40 dancers, and live drummers, members of a local drum troupe. "Third Stone from the Sun."

Another highlight of the evening programs will be "Chaconne," choreographed originally as a solo in 1942 by Jose Limon, the work, with music by Bach, was reconstructed as a group work by visiting artist Suzanne Payton of the Resident Dance Company of Brockport, N.Y.

Also on the evening program will be: "Passacaglia and Fugue in C Minor" choreographed in 1938 by Doris Humphrey and reconstructed by teaching assistant Linda Levy from Labanotation (a system of analyzing and recording movement using a staff and symbols in various shapes and shadings); "Homage," choreographed by Ms. Bergmann and danced by a repertory class, music by Paul Hindemith; and "Bifrost," choreographed by Ms. Embree and danced by a repertory class.

Highlighting the weekend of dance will be "Amiboisme," choreographed by Martine Epoupe of Le Groupe Nouvelle-Aire in Montreal. The work, with music by Witold Lutoslawski, was reconstructed by Sylvie Pinard Lambert of the U - M dance faculty. Evoking cellular, pre-human images, the dance is done entirely on the floor.

The 3 p.m. program on April 7, includes new works by student choreographers, using new concepts in choreography, dance and theater, as well as differing levels of abstraction and realism. The music varies from rock to contemporary classics.

Tickets will be sold at the Michigan Union ticket desk from noon to 4 p.m. until March 31. Mail orders may be addressed to University Dancers, Barbour Gymnasium, Ann Arbor, 48104. The Power Center box office opens April 1, noon to 4 p.m.

PHILIP POWER, co-publisher of Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, and Mrs. Henry Ford II were among the black-tie crowd at the opening of the Detroit Institute of Arts' "Twilight of the Medici" exhibit, an exclusive collection of 300 pieces of late Florentine Baroque art (1670-1713) on display until June 2. Mrs. Ford organized the benefit.

KENNETH JEWELL (left) and Francesco DiBlasi, Oakway Symphony conductor, discuss the program for the symphony's last concert of the season Sunday, March 31, at 4 p.m. in Churchill High School, 8900 Newburgh, Livonia. The concert will feature the Kenneth Jewell Chorale.

Clark Terry brings big band to C'ville

Clark Terry, one of the contemporary jazz greats, will bring his trumpet and flugelhorn to Clarenceville's L.E. Schmidt Auditorium, 20155 Middle Belt, Livonia, on Tuesday, April 16, at 8 p.m.

Often seen on Johnny Carson's "Tonight Show" as a featured member of Doc Severinson's orchestra, Clark will make a short tour with his own 17-piece band, which regularly performs at the Club Baron in New York and at Carnegie Hall.

With his own band, he can best express his creativity and put his personal stamp on the band that brings out the talent of some of the finest musicians in America. Detroit's Jimmy Wilkins will take a leave of absence from his own big band to play in Clark's trombone section for this tour.

Other jazz greats scheduled to appear at Clarenceville are Don Ellis with Sid Blair and Visions, May 19; The Tommy Dorsey Orchestra, directed by Murray McEachern, June 2; Supersax, the great group (Med Flory, Warne Marsh, Conti Condoli, Jake Hanna, Buddy Clark, etc.) who orchestrated Charlie Parker's solos and recorded for Capitol Records "Supersax Plays Bird" (Grammy Award Winner) and newest release "Salt Peanuts," July 22, 23.

Tickets for all performances are $4 and may be purchased at the auditorium box office on Thursdays and Fridays from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. or by mail by sending check or money order made payable to "Clarenceville Entertainment Series," with a self-addressed stamped envelope to Mrs. Bonnie Garrison, 20135 Rensselaer, Livonia, 48152.

Choral concert features rare masterwork

The Detroit Lutheran Singers, under the direction of Eric Freudigman, will present a choral concert with orchestra Saturday, March 30, at 7 p.m. in Guardian Lutheran Church, 24544 Cherry Hill, Dearborn.

The concert will feature Handel's "Dixit Dominus." This rarely performed masterwork, based on Psalm 110, is believed to have been presented only twice in the Detroit area.

Additional selections will include compositions by Bach, Billings and Dawson.

JAZZ GREAT Clark Terry will play his trumpet and flugelhorn for the Clarenceville Entertainment Series April 16, at 8 p.m. in Schmidt Auditorium, 20155 Middle Belt, Livonia.

Area children will dance for medals

Several area residents will be participating in the 15th Annual Indoor Games Sunday, March 31, in St. Andrews Hall, 431 E. Congress, Detroit.

The competition, sponsored by the Detroit Highland Dancing Society, will run from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. The children who will be competing for medals and trophies, will dance the Highland Fling, Sword Dance, Seann Triubhas and Highland Reels.

Children participating from Livonia are Mary Rosbalt, Martha Rosbalt, Tom Weinfurter, Cheryl Weinfurter, Karen Trefney, Laurie Forbes, Heather Hardie, Sharon Lanzetta, Leslie Pons, Paul Pons, Kathleen Rozek, Janet and Mary Schellass.

Participating from Plymouth are Judy Adams, Paula Pons, Sharon Adams, Sue Buelow, and Barbara Casler.

Also participating are Laurie Barnes and Janet McPherson of Westland; Marcella Morrison, Matthew Turnbull and Heather Turnbull from Garden City; and Jane Plomer and J. Slowley from Redford.

Children participating from Southfield are Kim Van Cleaver D. Sippel, Michelle Granger, Rae Sloss, and Robyn Laird.

Participating from Farmington are Candace Bisschop, Amber Mathers, Cheryl Mathers, Jan McCrie, Jennifer McCrie, Kimberly Price, Anne Sonnenberg and Patty Taylor.

The public is invited to attend. Admission is $1.50 for adults and 50 cents for children. Refreshments will be available.

Realtor dispels myths

What makes land prices vary?

The major reason for expensive homestead costs isn't "high land prices" but off-site costs, increased local governmental controls, and costlier utility improvements.

This is the key point made by Robert H. Carey, president of the Michigan Assn. of Realtors and president of the Thompson-Brown Co., in his 12th annual presentation on "Current Homestead Development Costs" before a recent joint session of the Oakland County and Detroit chapters of the Society of Real Estate Appraisers.

"One of the myths that has prevailed over the years, in the minds of both the professional and the man-on-the-street, is that high land prices is one of the major factors in current expensive homestead costs."

In dispelling that myth, Carey points out that in 1968 land with adjacent or nearby available sewers sold for between $3,500 and $7,000 per acre. The next year, that upper limit was $8,000 an acre. "In the last 15 years, there hasn't been a significant change in the price of land. What has changed is the geographic location to which these prices apply."

Carey cautions that "to truly reflect the comparable costs of different parcels of land, all off-site costs should be considered as part of land costs."

He repeated a warning made in his 1968 report that: "Increased governmental controls, at the local, county and state levels, make the matter of off-site improvements more significant. With longer time requirements to plat land, and with the high costs of money, the 'actual' costs of off-site improvements can be staggering."

Carey illustrates his point with 130 acres purchased by Thompson-Brown in 1965 for $1,300 an acre. In 1967, the firm invested $1,085 an acre in off-site sewer improvements and, in 1968, $220 an acre in off-site water. In 1969, an additional $500 per acre was added for road improvements — for a 1969 total of $3,100 per acre.

"When cost of money is added for the money owed, or invested, another $475 is added, so that our original $1,300 per acre land was more than $3,500 in 1969 — more than 2.5 times the original price."

Another cost item of relevance is "tap fees" or use charges for capital improvements — primarily sewer, water or roads. The variance from one community to another, says Carey, or even from one area to another in the same community, is unbelievable.

SEWER AND WATER USE AND TAP FEES
	Sewer	Water	Total
Livonia	522	250	772
Plymouth Township	209	317	526
Novi	713	650	1363
AVERAGE Detroit Metro	622	464	1086

(A random sampling of communities in this area indicates the spread of "extra" tap or use charges for sewer and water improvements which are then added on to the "cost" of land. This is one factor which can be attributed to varying lot prices from one community to another).

other in the same community, is unbelievable.

In Livonia, for instance, total use charges for sewer is $322 compared to $209 in Plymouth Township. In Farmington Hills, the charges are $766 for the area of the 13 Mile Arm, $541 for the Tarabusi Arm area, and $1,371 for the 10 Mile Arm "sub-community."

"In summary as to land, in 1974, conditions are as they were in 1969. Land can be costly or cheap, not only because of the physical factors of terrain, soil and subsoil conditions, but also because of off-site improvements and 'extra' charges."

Land "worth" $8,000 an acre in 1974, Carey continues, is more likely to be sold for $7,200 an acre (excluding off-site improvement costs) because of supply and demand forces.

"The multitude of additional requirements imposed by local, county and state governmental units has reduced the supply of parcels of land that are suitable for immediate development. Hence, the law of supply and demand has decreased the amount of useable land."

When off-site improvements are made, of course, the cost per acre will rise. The projected cost increase for sanitary sewers, water, roads and storm drainage is 14 per cent, Carey says, compared to a six to seven per cent increase last year and four per cent the year before.

These increases are attributable to increased costs of labor and material, he says, but primarily in material — attributed in many cases to the "energy crisis."

Examples of material costs increases are: cast iron water main, up 15 per cent; transit mix concrete, up 9 to 12 per cent; reinforced steel, up 45 per cent; concrete curb and gutter, up 15 to 20 per cent; asphalt paving in place, up 25 per cent; liquid asphalt, up 65 per cent; and diesel fuel, up 60 per cent.

In September, 1973, a new labor contract covering underground work was negotiated for a seven per cent increase in labor rates. The labor contract with paving contractors has expired, Carey adds, and current thinking is the settlement will be for about 12 per cent.

With the impacts of labor and material costs considered, in-place costs of improvements are expected to increase as follows: sanitary sewer, seven per cent; water, 13 per cent; concrete roads, 24 per cent; and storm drainage, 1 per cent. Because of the energy shortage, and changes in refining, the price for asphalt pavement is expected this year to equal that of concrete pavement.

"While labor has gone up about seven per cent this year, it is the 60 per cent increase in fuel costs which has pushed the total land balance figure to 20 per cent above that of last year," said Carey, referring to higher cost of diesel fuel to operate heavy earthmoving equipment.

Another area of increased cost again this year is engineering, notes Carey. Cost of engineering design and stake out was about seven per cent of the improvement cost in 1973 but has been nine per cent for the most recent developments. "This is due, for the most part, to the increased bureaucracy that faces engineering consultants in processing plans through the required agencies."

Turning to cost of money, Carey comments: "The timing of development can substantially affect the length of time one is involved and this 'time span' of involvement can make tremendous changes in the dollars for this item."

The ideal time span, Carey says, is 18 months from land acquisition to lot sales and two years for a building operation to get under way with sales from model homes. For a typical 50-acre development, there would be a construction time of six months and a sales period of 18 months.

Land must be financed, therefore, in total for about three years and about half of this land investment for another year. Improvements will be financed in total for two years and half of the improvement investment for another year.

"With the prime rate remaining at a high level, land development money is still a very expensive commodity; and a rate of 10 per cent per year is a minimum on all money required to be borrowed or invested." Costs of money, sales costs, real estate taxes and overhead are expected to increase by 12.6 per cent in 1974, compared to an 11 per cent increase last year.

Carey has been with Thompson

Brown since 1964 when he joined the firm as a lot salesman. He was elected president in 1961.

Higher fuel costs are pushing up the price of electricity.

We produce most of our electricity by burning coal. The cost of coal is going up rapidly.

Oil and natural gas are even more expensive. And they are in critically short supply.

Almost 1/3 of our electric revenue is used to pay our fuel bill. So the rising cost of fuel is one more reason why the price of electricity is going up.

You can't take electricity for granted anymore, but we'll continue to do our best to provide reliable electric service now and in the future.

Concert planned at Beth Achim

Mischa Lefkowitz and his sister, Tanya Klemptner, both recently arrived from Riga, Latvia, will appear in concert at Congregation Beth Achim at 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

The concert will be under the joint auspices of the Cultural Commission, the Men's Club, the Sisterhood and the Mr. and Mrs. Club.

Admission will be by ticket only and tickets can be obtained at the synagogue office free of charge on a first come first serve basis, limited only by the 1,400 seat capacity of the auditorium.

LEFKOWITZ, A CONCERT violinist, started playing the violin at the age of seven. He graduated from the Specior Musical School in Riga, Latvia.

He made many solo appearances with the school symphony orchestra and won numerous awards. His first solo appearance was at the age of 13, playing Mozart Concerto No. 3.

He arrived in the United States in 1973 and is now a student of Mischa Mischakoff at Wayne University. His first appearance in Detroit was with the Jewish Center Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Julius Chajes.

TANYA KLEMPNER, concert pianist, was also born in Riga, Latvia. She started playing piano at the age of six and graduated from the Musical Academy and the Latvian Conservatory in Riga as a concert pianist.

She won numerous prizes while at the conservatory under the tutelage of Anna Class. She played Chopin No. 2 Concerto and the Grieg Concerto with the Riga Symphony during her last appearance in Latvia. Mrs. Klemptner also specializes in chamber music.

The concert program will include the Kreutzer Sonata in A Major by Ludwig von Beethoven, Kol Nidrei by Max Bruch, Mazurka by Henri Wienawski, Two Musical Moments by Sergei Rachmaninoff, Two Pieces from "Baal Shem" Suite by Ernst Bloch, Hungarian Folk Songs by Bela Bartok and Introduction and Rondo Capriccioso by Camille Saint-Saens.

Symphony campaign nets all-time high

Support for the Detroit Symphony Orchestra through its 1973 Quest for Excellence Fund campaign brought an all-time high of $1,350,142.90 from 2,310 contributors, according to Harold G. Warner of Bloomfield Hills, past executive vice-president of General Motors Corp. and general chairman of the 1973 campaign.

Numbers of contributions increased 63 percent as a result of an all-out effort to broaden the base of support, while the dollar amount increased about four percent in 1973, Warner noted.

Warner also announced that the results included the successful second matching of a three-year Kresge Foundation Challenge Grant. The foundation agreed in 1972 to establish a grant of $150,000 annually for each of the following three years, provided the orchestra would secure at least 150 gifts of $1,000 or more from individuals.

MORE than $300,000 of the total raised in 1973 is attributable to the Kresge Foundation grant program, which continues to help broaden the orchestra's support base.

Another successful matching grant program, inaugurated in 1973, came through an anonymous $25,000 grant to help the orchestra increase the numbers of contributions at the $150 basic contributing membership level. Almost $45,000 of the 1973 total and 185 new names in the basic contributing membership category are attributable to this grant.

WARNER EMPHASIZED the importance of understanding that no symphony orchestra can exist on income from ticket sales alone.

"The future of every major American orchestra is directly related to the willingness of the home community to share more widely the financial responsibility of maintaining such an organization," he said.

"Therefore," Warner said, "the fundamental objective of the Quest for Excellence campaign is to help cover the difference between the orchestra's earned income and expenses, a gap of some $1.5 million annually."

Total operating costs for the Detroit Symphony Orchestra last year were almost $3 million, although at least 10 other U.S. orchestras had higher expenses—six of these in excess of $4 million.

Arts council plans for U. S. bicentennial

The Michigan Council for the Arts is planning a program for its active participation in the celebration of the nation's bicentennial during 1975, 1976 and 1977.

According to Council Chairman Walter R. Boris, "The Michigan Council for the Arts recognizes that the arts will and should play an important role in our country's bicentennial."

"The council welcomes and encourages this involvement on the part of artists and cultural organizations throughout the state."

Grants-in-aid will be available on a matching basis for support of bicentennial projects through the council's existing programs of community arts assistance (up to $1,000) and community special projects (between $1,000 and $10,000).

The bicentennial celebration presents both an opportunity and challenge to the arts in the state of Michigan. This unique time of national celebration provides a rare occasion for all art disciplines to focus on programs giving visibility to the importance of the arts in our past, and our continuing cultural development as a nation and state," Boris said.

"Arts programs, projects and events are as varied as the people who design them. Bicentennial planners will look to the arts to express many of the complex themes that will reveal and express the various spirits of celebration in the bicentennial."

Accordingly, the Michigan Council for the Arts has made two important considerations for its bicentennial program. Firstly, bicentennial projects have been declared a council funding priority, and, secondly, the council has extended its special projects application deadline for bicentennial projects only from March 1, to June 1, 1974, for projects commencing during the ensuing fiscal year.

For program guidelines and application forms, contact Henry Moran, Bicentennial Coordinator, Michigan Council for the Arts, 10125 E. Jefferson, Detroit, 48214.

THE GLEEFUL FATHERS in the Continental Theater Company's production of "The Fantasticks" try out the philosophy on their children - "never say, no!" The play will be presented by the Plymouth Community Arts Council March 30, at 8 p.m. in Plymouth - Salem High School.

State fishermen unite to aid conservation

Whether you're a veteran steelhead fisherman, experienced lake trout fisherman, merely interested in Great Lakes fishing, or consider yourself just a plain ole fisherman, the Michigan Steelhead and Salmon Fisherman's Association has something of interest for you.

The association will present 20 admission free shows in 19 communities during the next three months.

The purpose of the shows are to acquaint sportsmen throughout the state with the organization and its conservation efforts, and to acquaint area sportsmen with new products, techniques and ideas related to fishing.

The shows will feature fishing tackle displays, exhibits, free literature, tackle catalogs, door prize fishing tackle and accessories, as well as other items related to salmon, steelhead and lake trout fishing.

In addition, the steelhead's staff of experienced anglers will be on hand to discuss fishing techniques on an individual basis.

The Michigan Steelhead and Salmon Fisherman's Association (MSSFA) is dedicated to the protection, preservation, and sport utilization of anadromous fish (fish which swim upstream to spawn).

The organization was created in 1967 by 300 ardent steelhead fisherman and conservationists who believed the sportfisherman should unite to provide a stronger influence in the conservation problems of water pollution, commercial fishing regulation and prevention of litter on Michigan streams. They now have a membership of more than 1,500.

During 1974 the association has pledged itself to greater control of commercial fishing, through political and legal actions, more directed effort to prevent stream littering, and an increased effort to educate and inform sportsmen through vehicles such as their telephone "hotline" and publications with techniques and ideas.

Ensembles plan EMU concert

The Eastern Michigan University Percussion and Brass Ensembles will present a concert Friday, March 29, at 8 p.m. in Pease Auditorium on the EMU campus.

Clifford K. Chapman of the EMU music faculty will direct the performance. Included in the program will be a marimba solo with percussion ensemble performed by Marilyn Wiltse of Ypsilanti.

The first performance of Chapman's "Introduction and Allegro" will be played by a percussion sextet. Other music includes Alfred Reed's "Symphony for Brass and Percussion" and selections by Gilbert and Sive.

Madonna festival is fun for all

By MARTHA MAHAN

Just about anybody who takes an interest in anything at all can have fun at a Madonna College festival over April's first weekend.

Officially, the college calls its all encompassing event a Fine Arts Festival.

But that's really just to have a name for a weekend that includes such diverse activities as a children's kite flying contest, staging of a lyric drama, a barber shop quartet, a string ensemble performance of a Haydn quartet, filmed cartoons and exhibits of art in all media.

Moreover, that's just a sample of the program's variety.

Most events are free and the cost is low for those charging a fee.

The art exhibit, featuring the works of graduating seniors, adult art students and faculty artists, will officially open the festival on Friday, April 5, at 6:30 p.m.

The art display will be shown intermittently throughout the weekend which ends at 8 p.m. Tuesday, April 9.

Friday and Saturday evenings will feature a presentation by theater students of Edna St. Vincent Millay's lyric drama, "Aria Da Capo." Curtain time both nights will be at 8 p.m.

Saturday afternoon will be given over to a children's fair. It will include a performance by ventriloquist Muriel Linton and her friends, Andy and Candy, at 2 p.m., a kite flying contest and children's cartoons.

An admission fee of five cents will be charged for 1 p.m. and 3 p.m. showings of "The Midnight Ride of Paul Revere," "Johnny Appleseed" and Mr. Magoo as "Rip Van Winkle."

Refreshments will be sold by campus clubs.

Two free films, "The Days of Dylan Thomas" and "In a Dark Time" will be shown Sunday at 3 p.m.

The first is an affectionate yet perceptive study of the poet's turbulent life. "In a Dark Time" features the poet Theodore Roethke reading his own verse in what is described as a "powerful voice attuned to dramatic rhythms."

Sunday evening, the Madonna Chorus will present its spring concert at 7:30 p.m. The program will include popular, patriotic and spiritual selections with special numbers by the Beauty Shop Quartet, the Barber Shop Quartet and the Triple Trio.

A special number will be "Fantasy on Greensleeves" by Vaughan Williams and a Haydn quartet by a string ensemble of Madonna students and guest performers from Ladywood High School and the Oakway Symphony.

Admission charge for "Aria Da Capo" will be 50 cents and for the spring concert $1 for adults and 75 cents for students. All other events are free.

All programs will be in the college Activities Center at Schoolcraft and Levan Roads.

Art exhibit visitors will have an opportunity to meet and chat with the artists at a public reception Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m.

Types of work on display will include oil painting, watercolors, pen and charcoal drawing, ceramics, wood sculpture relief, and fine lettering and printing.

The art exhibit schedule will be Friday, April 5, from 6:30 to 8 p.m.; Saturday, noon to 4 p.m. and 6:30 to 8 p.m.; Sunday, 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.; and Monday and Tuesday from 1 to 4 p.m. and 7 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Concert to feature 'Prince of Peace'

The premiere performance of Anthony Iannaccone's award-winning cantata, "The Prince of Peace," will be given at the 10th annual Eastern Michigan University spring concert Sunday, April 7, at 8 p.m. in Pease Auditorium.

The University Choir, four soloists and orchestra will be under the direction of Blaine Ballard.

Iannaccone, a member of the EMU department of music, was recently awarded $2,500 by the National Endowment for the Arts for the cantata dedicated to the memory of Martin Luther King, Jr.

"In the simplest sense, 'The Prince of Peace' is a personal protest against intolerance and war. It uses familiar Biblical passages from Isaiah and Jeremiah to symbolize oppression and finally, liberation through belief in the 'great man' who, whether in myth or flesh, is responsible for society's moral salvation," the composer says.

The composition was conceived in 1969 as a reaction to the violence at home and abroad which disfigured American life in the 1960s.

"The Prince of Peace could be a Christ-Gandhi-King hybrid. He has the ability to generate in people utopian qualities of universal tolerance and even love.

"Even the most idealistic observers of human behavior would have to admit to the fable-like prospects of such developments. However, this does not make the dream of wolf dwelling with lamb any less beautiful or desirable."

The annual spring concert is presented by the University Choir in conjunction with the Office of Religious Affairs and is open to the public.

How mini-classes bring maxi-rewards

By BOB ERICKSON

PLYMOUTH — Youngsters home from school for the weekend are often asked by mom and dad "what did you do in school today?"

When those youngsters are Starkweather Elementary School students, they don't answer "I dunno" or "oh, nothin'."

Friday afternoons, these past weeks at Starkweather, has made 350 kids excited about learning.

The five to 11-year-old students at the Plymouth school may well have spent the afternoon flying kites, cooking in the kitchen of a classmate's mother, roller skating, painting, learning Spanish, or building a set for a play — all of these and more are part of the school's new mini-class program designed by both parents and teachers to help "make learning fun."

For St. Pete's sake — burglar hits church

PLYMOUTH — St. Peter's Lutheran School, 1309 Penniman, was broken into Saturday night. Police say nothing was reported missing.

Entry was gained by removing a screen from the south side window of the school office. The window was unlocked.

Police said the desk and files had been tampered with and there is evidence several classrooms had been entered.

The case is still under investigation.

Cub Scouts sell geraniums for Mom's Day

PLYMOUTH — Boy Scout Cub Pack 293 will conduct its annual pre-Mother's Day geranium sale Saturday, May 11.

This will be the 10th year the boys have held the door-to-door sale. It is the pack's only fund raiser.

The pack also plans a tour of General Motors' Willow Run Nova plant.

According to Starkweather principal John Howe, the mini-course program was begun partially as a device to boost student interest in school during the long and dreary winter months.

On six consecutive Friday afternoons, which will continue through the end of this month, the special program offers more than 20 interest classes which allow each student to pick the kind of learning which he or she most enjoys.

At 1 p.m. Friday, Starkweather's halls briefly become filled with laughing children carrying ice skates or roller skates, pine cones and tin cans, swimming suits, knitting needles and yarn, books or bowling shoes.

Half the youngsters leave the building for outside activities at the YMCA, Plymouth bowling alleys, roller skating rinks and such while the rest scurry for classrooms so as not to miss the start of painting class, the drama group or ceramics instruction. By 1:15 p.m. the building is quiet and the students are intent.

Two Starkweather mothers, Marcia Borowski and Lore Watt, Third Grade Teacher Barbara Lockwood and Howe formed the committee that set up the program. They divided the program into halves: the seven major outdoor mini-courses which would accommodate half the school population, and the remaining craft and academic courses for the rest of the school's students who would remain in the building.

The program operates with 11 teachers and between 20 and 30 parents whose duties vary from driving or hiking with the students to actual instructional work.

Howe says that the committee has attempted to make sure that at least two adults supervise each mini-class. In some cases neither is a regular classroom teacher, but Howe says enthusiasm of the parent instructors has been a major factor in making the program "highly successful."

The program has worked so well, Howe says, that he hopes to build it into the ongoing curriculum. At the end of this series, he said, parents, instructors, staff and the students themselves will all be given a chance to evaluate the mini-class program.

It appears that the kids will give the new idea rave reviews. They love to talk about it.

As Howe says, "they come back and they're bursting at the seams to tell about what they did that day." They enjoy the sessions and, most interesting, they seem to enjoy the integration of the six grades — older children are willing, even enthusiastic, about helping their younger comrades, and the tiny kindergarten students keep up well with the older children.

Mini-classes, it seems, are bringing maxi-rewards at Starkweather.

Girl Scout workers meet

"Performance Planning and Your Job" will be the theme of the annual spring meeting of Section IV of the Association of Girl Scout Professional Workers March 28 - 30 at The University of Michigan.

To be held in the Michigan Union, the sessions will try to improve participants' understanding of how performance planning makes a job more satisfactory and organizations more efficient.

Practice in writing job performance standards and evaluating performance will be included.

Dr. Robert C. McCoy, associate professor of management at Eastern Michigan University, will be consultant for the meeting.

A former member of Ernst and Ernst Management Consulting Services who has served part-time on the Wayne State University faculty, he has been a seminar leader and conference speaker for the American Management Association and other organizations.

Further information may be obtained from the U-M Extension Service, Department of Conferences and Institutes, 350 S. Thayer, Ann Arbor.

Consolidation registration deadline nears

PLYMOUTH — The voter registration deadline for the May 7 consolidation election in Plymouth and Plymouth Township is Monday, April 8.

Both the city and township clerks' offices will be open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. April 8 for voter registration purposes.

'School bus safety is important'

EDITOR:
Your article on the school transportation study brought out some very interesting and startling points. The recommendation made by the pupil transportation services depts. of Eastern and Western Michigan Universities were good and should have been put into practice long before now.

The buses we are talking about carry our most precious commodity — our children — and to think that Raymond Hoedel, assistant superintendent in charge of financing, was working on a plan in which maintenance was his biggest concern. If the buses are not properly maintained and preventive maintenance performed at prescribed intervals the cost of maintenance must be horrendous. Anyone that operates a fleet such as this must know this. We cannot continue to let our children ride in buses that are not properly maintained.

In many other states, school buses must have a yearly inspection performed by the state police. I believe that all it takes to get this accomplished in Michigan is to place a call to the Michigan State Police.

This should be done immediately, and buses not found safe should be out of service immediately.

An over-the-road truck driver must take a physical at specified intervals and also pass numerous tests to become qualified as a truck driver. he could take some lessons from these people.

Remember, these buses are transporting our children. Let's do all we can to protect them.

R. A. VAN DER WEELE

We moved here to get away from a commercial area. We want to see sky and clouds and friendly, happy people.

If Mocerri wants a shopping center, as I do, let him be realistic and build it somewhere away from homes, especially mine.

LYNNE E. OTT

'Why start later now?'

EDITOR:
I recently raised a question to the school administration regarding starting time for the elementary schools. It had been my assumption that when it became light enough in the morning, elementary school starting schedules would revert to the "pre-energy conservation" time of 8:30 a.m.

However, I was just told that the current 9 a.m. schedules would continue until the end of this school year. The basis for this decision was (1) the need to make up lost time due to the 9 a.m. starting time, and (2) the desire of elementary school children parents for the later starting time.

It would seem to me, in order to make up lost time, one does not start later. The rationale escapes me.

I am not aware of a poll or vote was ever taken regarding liking the later starting time until the end of the school year. My wife and I are opposed to the later starting time now that daylight is beginning earlier.

I do agree with the concept that majority rules, but I am not aware any vote or poll was ever taken for this to continue indefinitely.

What is the feeling of the community?

B. DAVIS
Plymouth

'Consider Mocerri traffic'

EDITOR:
This is in reply to Mr. James Safford's letter on the Mocerri Project.

Mr. Safford must not live in Windsor Park or anywhere in close proximity to the proposed site or his views would be different. Would he like his children walking along and crossing Sheldon Road? I doubt it.

Drive by Livonia Mall and Wonderland during rush hour and weekends and see if you would like all that traffic so close to your home.

Would you be able to get in and out quickly in an emergency? I doubt it.

The construction of wider paved roads would cause traffic jams, very often at peak hours, along with the noise and nuisance of finding another way in and out.

Also, another hangout for teens is not needed. I believe young people should have a place to go but not just to walk around a shopping center. They have Junior Achievement and Youth, Inc., or they should be working or in sports or clubs, etc.

As I sit in my backyard this summer and in summers to come, the last thing I want to see is a high rise building. I could have had that and stayed in Detroit with lower taxes and house payments, etc.

'Fantastic Planet' has limited appeal

Reviewed by

"Fantastic Planet" is an interesting but not very enjoyable animated feature from France that will have some difficulty finding an audience.

It arrives at a time when things are finally stirring in the genre of the animated film. Two X-rated productions, "Fritz the Cat" and "Heavy Traffic," have challenged the sacred notion that only children could get turned on by full-length cartoons.

Yet "Fantastic Planet" doesn't fit in with most crowds. It is neither as wholesome as the usual animated film nor as bold as the X-rated productions. It is too serious and experimental for youngsters to appreciate, and too simple-minded for many adults.

IT WILL appeal to a rather select group of science fiction buffs and maybe adolescents. For the rest of us, it is a mixed experience.

Most intriguing is the film's look. It is a distant, antiseptic, almost soul-less one. It is about as far from the fluid Disney pictures as it can get. The warmth of rich colors is missing. The mood is chilling.

The animators have chosen their colors and effects with restraint. Graphic artists in the audience will be dazzled by the texture and mood and shadings. Those accustomed to more eye-popping effects in cartoons will wonder what went wrong with the color.

THE FILM takes place on the futuristic planet called Ygam. On this turf, only the Oms (the Ygam name for humans) are recognizable. Everything else springs from the imagination of the animators, Rene Laloux and Roland Tapor.

It is their planet; they define its topography, its animal life, its climate, its architecture, the way its inhabitants eat, sleep and talk.

Ygam is controlled by 30-foot creatures called Draags, whose red eyes fade to blue when they sleep and their legs curl up into tails. They eat by breathing in yellow fluff that looks like a cross between cotton candy and popcorn.

WHEN THEY meditate, they float away in bubble-like trances. Their destination? Another planet where they attach to headless bodies and dance with others as their method of reproduction.

When it rains on Ygam, diamond-like crystals fall. Any journey beyond the populated areas turns up a dazzling array of weird landscapes and exotic creatures.

"Fantastic Planet" is the most surprising and imaginative animated film since "The Yellow Submarine," the pioneer adult cartoon and still the best yet made.

UNFORTUNATELY, all its surface creativity is reduced by a standard science fiction plot.

This is the old story of a depersonalized planet where humans are kept as pets by those in control.

One house pet, who has managed to receive an education from his Draag master, escapes and discovers an underworld of other human refugees. From then on, the film describes a power struggle between the Draags and the Oms.

"FANTASTIC PLANET" goes the route of most of the silly American science fiction movies yet it has none of the humor or craziness.

Films like "Planet of the Apes" at least have the good humor to play their material somewhat tongue-in-cheek.

"Fantastic Planet" unfolds its tale in an eerie, serious way—sort of like the portentous beginning of "2001."

Unfortunately, little beyond its look justifies such heavy-handed reverence. It raises our expectations for no good reason.

Dr. Szabo to conduct

Dr. Edward Szabo, conductor and musical director of the Oak Park Symphony Orchestra, will appear as violoncello soloist with the orchestra in its final concert of the season at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The concert will be held in the Oak Park High School auditorium at Oak Park Blvd. and Coolidge. The orchestra will perform the "Elegy" of Faure and the "Concerto in A-minor" by Saint-Saens.

Richard Brown, principal violist of the orchestra and director of the Southfield Youth Orchestra, will conduct the orchestral accompaniments and the Overture to the "Secret of Suzanne" by Wolf-Ferrari. Dr. Szabo will return to the podium to conduct Tchaikovsky's "Symphony No. 5".

Dr. Szabo has appeared as conductor and soloist with various chamber music ensembles, including the Delphi Trio, Pro Arte Trio and the Montclair Quartet. He is a graduate of the Juilliard School of Music, where he studied violoncello with Leonard Rose. He received his doctorate degree from Columbia University.

For further information call 626-0238.

Cleo Laine to appear

Cleo Laine, the singer will return to the Music Hall Center for the Performing Arts, Detroit, April 5 and 6 at 8:30 p.m.

Cleo Laine will share the stage with a quartet headed by her husband, England's jazz saxophonist, John Dankworth.

Cleo Laine's career dates back to the early 50's and covers a myriad of talents. She played Titania in Frank Dunlop's much acclaimed production of "Midsummer Night's Dream," the title role in Ibsen's "Hedda Gabler," and scored a personal success in the 1971 London Revival of Jerome Kern's "Showboat."

SHE APPEARED in the film "The Roman Spring of Mrs. Stone" and her voice has been heard on the sound tracks of many movies.

Tickets are available at Hudson's, Grinnell's and the Music Hall box office, 350 Madison Avenue (Monday thru Saturday, 10 a.m.-6 p.m.), or call 963-7680.

Savings Accounts at Standard Federal Savings can provide Money Every Month

Check-A-Month Certificate Savings Accounts

With a Check-A-Month Certificate Savings Account you receive an interest check each and every month without disturbing the principal balance of your account.

You can open either a forty-eight month 7% Check-A-Month Certificate Savings Account or a thirty-month 6.75% Check-A-Month Certificate Savings Account with any deposit of $5,000 or more... no special even figure is needed.

As an example: if you deposit $20,000 in a forty-eight month 7% Check-A-Month Account you will get a check each and every month for $116.67 from Standard Federal Savings. If you choose to deposit $20,000 in a thirty-month 6.75% Check-A-Month Account, you will receive a check for $112.50 every month. The chart below shows what your monthly income will be for deposits from $5,000 to $50,000 or more. If you withdraw your money at any time prior to maturity a substantial interest penalty will be charged. In accordance with federal regulations, the interest on the withdrawn funds will be recalculated from the date the certificate was originally opened, or renewed, on the amount withdrawn down to the then current regular passbook interest rate, and in addition, there will be a loss of 90 days' interest on the funds withdrawn. The amount left on deposit, provided it is $5,000 or more, will continue to earn the higher 7% or 6.75% return.

As you can see, Check-A-Month pays a handsome return. And what could be more convenient than having your interest sent right to you through the mail every month!

Direct Depositing of Social Security Checks

Direct monthly deposits to a savings account at Standard Federal Savings can eliminate the possibility of having Social Security checks lost, mislaid, or stolen. Plus—your deposited check will start earning 5.25% daily interest immediately.

Additionally, you eliminate the need for cashing and depositing these checks yourself. (You can also arrange to have other U.S. Government, stock dividend, and pension checks deposited automatically to your account, if you so desire.)

The forms to be filled out in order to have your checks deposited in a savings account are available at all Standard Federal offices. Another example of Standard Federal Savings trying to make life a little easier for you. "People helping people"—that's Standard Federal Savings.

Standard Federal Savings pays 5¼% per year, daily interest on regular, insured passbook savings accounts. Nobody pays more. And that's day-in, day-out interest paid from date of deposit to date of withdrawal. Paid and compounded quarterly, it actually yields a full 5.35% annually!

Your savings will grow even faster in one of Standard Federal Savings certificate savings accounts. To qualify for a 6½% one-year certificate savings account, you simply keep $1,000 or more on deposit for 12 months. Interest is paid and compounded quarterly to yield 6.66% annually.

Similarly, you can earn a greater rate of return on your savings with this Standard Federal Savings Certificate Savings Account. To qualify, you keep $5,000 or more on deposit for 30 months. With interest paid and compounded quarterly, the yield is 6.92% annually. Or, interest can be paid monthly with a Check-A-Month Certificate Account.

To qualify for the high 7% Certificate Savings Account, you must deposit $5,000 or more in this account for 48 months. Interest is paid and compounded quarterly to earn 7.19% annually. You can also receive your interest monthly as described above.

*You can withdraw your money at any time. However, in accordance with federal regulations on all certificate accounts, a substantial interest penalty is required for early withdrawal. The withdrawn funds will lose 90 days' interest, and in addition, the interest on the withdrawn funds will be recalculated from the original term of the certificate at the then-current regular passbook interest rate.
