

Satirical PHS yearbook includes centerfold

By W. EDWARD WENDOVER

PLYMOUTH — A high school yearbook with a centerfold?

The centerfold and a "Playboy" like cover are two of the unusual traits of the 1974 Plymouth Centennial Education Park "Plythean," also known this year as "Birth of Age."

Satire is the overall theme for the yearbook which is being published in sections, each of which is a "Harvard Lampoon" style takeoff of a national magazine.

"Playboys of Plymouth," complete with a rabbit head on the cover and a foldout (of clothed Homecoming Queen Mary Covington), was the first section.

"Reader's Indigestion," a takeoff on America's most popular magazine for the bathroom library, is the second installment of the yearbook. Its index lists such sections as: "The Most Unforgettable Characters" (the educational park counseling staff); "I Found Jane's Kidneys" (9th science department staff); and "Humor in Uniforms" (the athletic department staff).

The third installment, "Madd Magazine," is sprinkled with cartoon characters and begins with a credit box that reads: "Modern Yearbook, publisher: Debbie Hatcher and Livi Way, advisors: the Usual Gang of Idiots, contributing artists and writers: Bill Brown and Kent Buikema, lawsuits." (Brown and Buikema are principals of Plymouth - Salem and Plymouth - Canton high schools.)

Throughout the first two sections of the yearbook, satire stands out.

"Students of Plymouth Canton and Salem High School can look to their area coordinators for anything from a lost book to a scheduling problem. Besides this great general responsibility the area coordinators have many specific duties," says one passage.

Next to a picture of Buikema sitting on Brown's lap (both laughing) is the outline, "Principals Bill Brown and Kent Buikema talk over serious school matters."

The section on the high school counselors begins. "Although appointments to see the counselors are usually sold out three months in advance..."

But despite the satirical approach to liven things up, the yearbook isn't doing well, admits Mrs. Hatcher. Thus far, she said, less than 1,400 copies have been sold to the 3,500 member student body.

"There's no student interest in it," she lamented. "It's a thankless job."

THE CENTER FOLDOUT of the 1974 Plymouth Centennial Education Park yearbook, "Birth of Age," is a clothed Mary Covington, the homecoming queen. The foldout is part of the first section of the yearbook which this year is being done in parodies of magazines in the style of "The Harvard Lampoon." The first section is called "Playboys of Plymouth."

Township, Heights to fight annexation

DESPITE OBJECTIONS from residents in the area, the overpass on Joy Road spanning the I-275 expressway now under construction, was opened to traffic last week. Residents in the area have maintained that the overpass is hazardous because of traffic turning into Holiday Park subdivision and Deer Creek Apartment complex entrances and have battled with the state and county highway departments. Although some changes in the bridge's construction were made, area residents still say it is unsafe. (Staff photo)

PLYMOUTH TOWNSHIP — The Plymouth Township Board voted unanimously Tuesday night to have its attorney fight annexation on behalf of the City of Plymouth Heights.

John McEwen, mayor defacto of Plymouth Heights, which has never received approval of a charter although its incorporation was approved, asked the township to authorize funds for a legal battle against the annexation move begun by the City of Plymouth last week.

Before the meeting, township officials requested a legal opinion on whether they could use township funds on a legal fight for Plymouth Heights.

Township Attorney Donald C. Morgan said in a letter the state law says, "the township of Plymouth may, but is not required to, pay the expenses of a charter commission before an affirmative vote is taken on the charter."

"There is no specific authorization... for a township to pay the legal fees, consultant fees, miscellaneous expenses or any other expenses in formulating a home rule charter for a home rule city incorporated out of all or a portion of a township."

"In the short space of time I have had to devote to this question, I can do no more than indicate that the 'expenses' of a 'charter commission' may be paid by the existent township..."

Township Clerk Helen Richardson moved to have the township pay for Plymouth Heights' attorney fees in fighting the annexation attempt.

Trustee Gene Overholt asked her whether "the township has already authorized its attorney to fight annexation on behalf of the township?"

Mrs. Richardson replied that it had. The township board has never voted formally to instruct its attorney to fight the annexation on behalf of the township.

Trustee Russell Ash "somewhat facetiously" proposed that the township look into petitioning for annexation of the property west of Sheldon Road which is within the city limits. (This would include Western Electric.)

"I think we have equal right to the determination of our boundaries (as the city does of its own boundaries)," Ash said, puffing violently on his cigar.

Overholt supported that claim. "The same reasons (the city gave in requesting the annexation of the Hillside Inn to the city) could be given by this township board to square off boundaries on the western side of the township."

Voting in favor of the motion to fund Plymouth Heights' fight against annexation were: Ash, Overholt, Trustee Frank Millington, Mrs. Richardson, and Township Supervisor J. D. McLaren.

Treasurer Elizabeth Holmes and Trustee Gerald Burke were absent.

School board race lures 17

PLYMOUTH — Seventeen candidates have qualified to run for the four Plymouth school board seats up for election June 10.

There are two four - year posts and two one - year posts to be filled in the election.

Running for the four - year seats are: Marcia Borowski of H - 1, 400 Plymouth Rd.; Joseph I. Gray (an incumbent), of 40228 Ivywood Lane; John R. Hibler, of 12240 Cherrywood Ct.; George Lawton (an incumbent), of 48101 Joy Rd.; and Dean R. Mullison, of 8856 Gregory Lane.

In last June's election, Gray beat Mrs. Borowski by only 18 votes.

A sixth hopeful for the four - year race, Waldo A. Schram Jr., of 1083 Canterbury Circle, was disqualified by school officials.

Schram's petitions were circulated and filed with the school board offices without designating whether he was seeking a four - year or a one - year term, school officials said.

In the race for the one - year terms, those candidates qualifying are: Woodrow Lee Barrie, of 44739 Twyckingham Lane; Carl F. Berry, of 40007 Cambridge; John Lee Blumenshine, of 43985 Arlington Rd.; Thomas H. Cape, of 46511 Betty Hill; Robert W. Hubbert, of 11637 Morgan St.; Richard A. Miller, of 1541 Lexington; Cyril F. Nichols, of 10478 Homestead Lane; James P. Somers, of 1261 Palmer; Thomas A. Turner (an incumbent), of 1300 Linden St.; Billie Whitely, of 44147 Leeann Lane; Thomas J. Yack, of 43850 Brandywyne; and Thomas Yanus Jr., of 7668 Provincial Rd.

Turner was appointed last fall to fill the unexpired term left by John Graves' resignation. This is the first time he has run for election.

Berry is a former member of the school board and Miller is a student at Plymouth - Salem High School.

Shirley Mack, who was appointed Monday night to fill the unexpired term left by Fred Penar's resignation, has not filed for election and thus will serve only until one of the one - year candidates fills that seat following the June 10 election.

Canton board approves Mocerri Project's PUD

By MARIE McGEE

CANTON — Over the lone objection of Trustee Brian Schwall, Canton trustees approved a planned unit development for the southerly portion of the controversial "Mocerri Project" site at Sheldon and Joy roads.

While approving the 112.9 acre housing development, the board several weeks ago denied a rezoning request that would have permitted the construction of a regional shopping center-office-entertainment complex on the northern portion of the site.

Schwall questioned Mocerri's spokesman, attorney Gil Franklin, about plans for the northern portion now that the rezoning request had been denied.

Franklin said a plan for the balance of the property would be brought in at some "future time." He indicated that his client, at the present time, was mainly interested in "proceeding with something" because of rising construction costs.

He added that it was his understanding of the ordinance that even if Mocerri wanted to, he could not file a rezoning request for at least a year.

On the approved PUD site, Franklin said that the single family home portion would be built before the multiples.

"As you know," Franklin added, "there is a good market for single family homes in Canton."

A question of the pedestrian overpass spanning what will become the juncture of Canton Center and Sheldon Roads was raised by Trustee James Poole.

Poole recommended that the overpass, primarily for school children to use to get to Gallimore School, be constructed "even if it's done on a three-way split between us, the developer and the school board."

Franklin reminded board members that the inclusion of the overpass was based on the passage of the shopping center plan. He reiterated statements he made at a previous meeting to the effect that Mocerri couldn't afford to build the skywalk unless the commercial development accompanied the housing development.

Franklin also questioned the need for the skywalk since the PUD had a school site of its own. He urged the trustees "to get the school board involved" to determine future school district building plans.

EDITH day set

PLYMOUTH — Saturday is "Operation EDITH" day.

"Operation EDITH (Exit Drills In The Home)" is a project sponsored by the Plymouth and Canton Jaycee Auxiliaries to foster fire safety.

In cooperation with the American Automobile Association and the Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Canton Township fire departments, the Jaycees' program hopes to make parents and children alike more aware of precautions they can take to avoid being trapped in their homes in the event of fire.

Students in the elementary and middle schools of the Plymouth School District have been given information on entering a contest stressing fire safety.

In conjunction with that, the students have been asked to have their families participate in mock fire drills starting at noon Saturday to make all family members aware of the emergency exit routes for their homes.

Following that, the three local fire departments will host open houses for their communities' residents from 3 to 5 p.m. Additional information on fire safety will be available then.

CARLA UPTON AND Cynthia Brown (from left) happily read the letter notifying them that they have attained the rating of finalist in the National Merit Scholarship program. The rank is an honor shared by fewer than one half of one per cent of the nation's graduating high school seniors.

Congress' 'head in sand'

Schools move ahead on metric conversion

By HANK MEIJER

Although Congress plunged some educators and planners into confusion last week when it killed a bill to adopt the metric system in the U. S., experts agree that the rising tide of conversion will soon make meters and liters irresistible.

By a vote of 240 to 153 the House of Representatives defeated a proposal recently which would have created a National Metric Conversion Board charged with recommending a timetable, probably for a 10-year period, for converting American industry to the international metric system.

"They've got their heads in the sand," said Tom Yack, director of Project Metric in the Wayne - Westland School District.

According to Yack, American industry will soon employ metrics regardless of congressional actions. "I'm sure Ford Motor Co. cares," he said. "The Pinto is already metric."

The Michigan Department of Education recently issued a suggestion that all schools in Michigan try to have the metric system as their dominant form of measurement by June, 1976.

AREA EDUCATORS, many of whom are in the process of putting more emphasis on metric education in their schools, expressed surprise at the federal government's action.

"We thought there was more support for adoption," said Dr. Kenneth Erickson, assistant superintendent for instruction in Redford Union schools.

Like most districts in the area, Redford Union has held teacher in-service training on metrics and is acquiring materials and planning adult education programs to increase awareness of the simpler, more universal system of measurement.

"It certainly doesn't provide any more impetus for what we're doing," Erickson said. "If the state turns around, we'll have to take another look at our program."

"We've been working under the assumption that whether it (congressional approval) happens next year or the year after, it will come," said Carroll Nichols, metric planner for the Plymouth Community School District.

"I THINK ALL they're doing is delaying the inevitable," said Dr. Donald Buckeye, an Eastern Michigan University math professor and metrics consultant for Plymouth and Northville schools.

"It's disastrous," he said of the bill's defeat. "It's almost worse than Watergate."

"Any company that does any selling abroad is going metric already. In a sense we've taught both systems for years. The longer they delay the conversion, the more costly it will be. The balance of payments makes it more important to us than ever."

"We've been proceeding on the assumption the bill would sail right through," said Dr. Richard Barnhart, director of general education services for the Michigan Department of Education.

He predicts that congressional approval of meters and liters as the official standards of American measurement is only a year or two off despite the recent setback.

Like some other educators, he is concerned that the decision will affect progress of metric programs in the schools.

"I have a feeling that in some cases it may be harder to convince people that it is important. There may be developing in this country an anti-metric lobby. I've heard the labor unions are opposed to it."

ALTHOUGH Barnhart believes that a 10-year span of conversion "shouldn't frighten anyone," he would prefer a swifter changeover.

"We're going to be giving adults a crutch for 10 years. We find kids have no problem dealing with the metric system. I personally would like to see us do it the way Australia did it: cold turkey."

"I would feel better if we had a systematic plan to change over," said Donald Beatty, director of curriculum for Garden City schools. "It would be in the children's interest."

"They (congressmen) are not dealing with the question. It's difficult to communicate the situation that society moves whether the movement is recognized legislatively or not," he said.

Henry McCurry, South Redford metric coordinator, agrees. "The feeling around the country is that school districts are going ahead," he said.

"I'm disappointed that our kids will have to continue to use the complicated English system."

Among one segment of society, the tooling industry, the metric system has already won widespread acceptance. Ned Stirten, director of the Detroit Tooling Association and a Plymouth resident, doesn't think congressional opposition will have much influence on the course of American business.

"It's immaterial," he said. "Conversion is inevitable for us."

"We'll change when our customers change. We don't have to make a decision, we're going along for the ride." He noted that the tooling association's apprentice program already employs the metric system.

"I don't really expect any traumatic changeover," he said.

STIRTEN'S chief concern is that the Internal Revenue Service grant accelerated depreciation schedules for equipment that will no longer be useful because of a conversion. "I've got to be able to write them off," he said.

"The bill's defeat is a bit of a let-down," said Ed Sawusch of Plymouth, president of EMS Oil and Sales Co., "but many firms are running dual systems of print-outs already."

According to Sawusch, Ford's Mustang II plant at Lima, Ohio operates on the metric system, and other firms will be following suit. "Our international systems are intertwined with the rest of the world, the metric countries," he said.

At the Department of State Highways in Lansing, plans are going ahead for increased metric usage.

"Our chairman (V. E. Erickson) has been a moving force behind conversion," said A. Van Kampen, chairman of the department's metric committee. "My understanding is that we will continue until we are told to slow down."

Van Kampen said he was "very disappointed" at the House of Representatives' decision.

He noted that the highway department is still planning to design a mile-long section of I-275 south of Pontiac according to metric specifications.

Asked if he thought metric conversion is inevitable, the Netherlands native said: "Now I have a little doubt, but I think it should be. I grew up in the metric system. I still have a hell of a time figuring out how many ounces are in a pound."

County tax base growth rate drops

The annual increase in the total tax base of Wayne County in 1974 didn't keep pace with last year because of a drop in construction, according to latest figures.

A total equalized value of $13.6 billion for taxable property for 1974 has been approved by the county board of commissioners. This represents an increase of $299 million over last year. But last year's total equalized value of $13.3 billion was an increase of $354.3 million over 1972.

Slightly more than 3,000 new buildings were built in the county within the last year, compared with more than 4,000 during the previous year, according to Clarence A. Hicks Jr., director of the Wayne County Bureau of Taxation.

"Construction is down this year, primarily because of higher interest rates, a lack of confidence on the part of the general public, inflation and uncertainty in the marketplace," he says.

THE BOARD of commissioners also approved the equalized property val-

Commissioners are honored as innovators

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners has received double honors from the National Association of Counties (NACo) for innovative governmental programs.

NACo "County Achievement Awards" will be presented for the Wayne County Juvenile Facilities Network (JFN) and for involving the community in the county planning process.

The JFN was established by commissioners two years ago and is the only county program of its kind in the nation. It consists of several multi-purpose neighborhood youth centers, plus some $2.5 million worth of support for 26 non-county programs ranging from anti-delinquency television commercials to citizen-operated neighborhood recreation centers.

The other award cites the county planning commission's efforts to involve residents in planning of a county development strategy or master plan. In preparing the plan, planners held meetings which were attended by officials, planners and residents from all 43 cities and townships in Wayne County.

The awards will be presented at NACo's annual convention in Dade County, Fla., July 14-17.

ations for the 43 cities and townships in Wayne County.

No objections were expressed by local representatives during a public hearing held by the general government committee of the board.

Tax base figures for local communities in western Wayne County included:

Canton Township, $142 million equalized value; Plymouth Township, $177 million equalized; Redford Township, $251 million assessed value, equalized at $440 million with a factor of 2.4;

Garden City, $143 million equalized; Livonia, $555 million assessed value, equalized at $907 million with a factor of 1.9; City of Plymouth, $81.4 million equalized; and Westland, assessed value of $242.4 million equalized at $351 million with a factor of 1.5.

The total equalized tax base for the 10 townships in Wayne County was almost $1.3 billion while the 33 cities had a total equalized tax base of $12.4 billion.

ACCORDING TO the figures assessments done locally at the township level countywide were stated 23 per cent below the county's determination of "true market value." The assessments by cities were 17 per cent below the computed true market value.

The state-imposed equalization process is designed to ensure that each local community has assessed its taxable property at the constitutionally required level of 50 per cent of its true cash value.

When analysis by the bureau of taxation appraisers shows property in a particular city or township is under-assessed, an equalization factor is multiplied against that community's total assessed valuation. Unless that is overturned by the state tax commission, the local assessor must increase assessments accordingly.

This doesn't necessarily, however, mean higher tax bills for property owners because a given community may have had at least as high an equalization factor for any number of previous years, Hicks points out.

The bureau of taxation actually perform the assessing function for 23 of the 43 local communities. Of the total 43 communities, only 15 were "under-assessed" in 1974 necessitating a factor above 1.00.

Most communities levy their property tax on the basis of equalized value rather than assessed value, as do school districts and the county.

Members of the general government committee which reviewed local assessments, and recommended approval to commissioners, include Richard Manning (D - Redford) and Brian Arrowsmith (R - Canton Township).

Plymouth Township crash kills Livonia athlete

By MAURIE WALKER AND HANK MEIJER

Ronnie W. Miller, 19, of 9282 Woodring, Livonia, was killed early Friday morning when the car in which he was riding went out of control, struck a dirt embankment and rolled over several times on Ann Arbor Road just west of Tavistock in Plymouth Township.

He was dead on arrival at Wayne County General Hospital.

The driver, Kevin A. Arnold, 18, of 9637 Westmore, Livonia, was reported in serious condition at Wayne County General.

A spokesman for the Wayne County Sheriff's Department said the accident is still under investigation. He said there were no other cars involved in the crash, which occurred at about 1:10 a.m. Friday.

MILLER WAS a 1973 graduate of Churchill High School, where he lettered in football and track.

"He had quickness, he was a very strong kid," said Fred Price, his track coach for three years. "The other kids used to call him 'The Mill.'"

He was a sprinter on Price's team, where he set school records in the 100-yard dash, 220, sprint medley relay, 440 relay and 880 relay. The three relay records still stand. Ron was all-league in track in both his junior and senior years.

The Churchill 440 relay team finished 10th in the state last year.

"He had as much raw natural speed as any athlete we've ever had," said Ken Kaestner, Churchill football coach and acting assistant principal.

Ron was a split end on the Charger football team. He holds the school's individual pass reception record with seven catches in a game against John Glenn in his senior year.

After he graduated, Ron attended Grand Valley State College for a short time, then dropped out.

"Ron wasn't really a drifter, but he didn't really know what he wanted," Price said.

After he left Grand Valley, he spent several months in Florida, where he made a decision to return to school.

"He bounced up against my life three times," Kaestner said. When the football coach was in Florida earlier this year he ran into Ron.

Kaestner was at a party, when, as he put it, "Ron walked in out of the night." The two spoke for a while, but the coach didn't hear from the youth again until a short while ago, when Ron sent him a letter.

THE LETTER arrived on Wednesday, Ron died on Friday. It was from a college in New York, where Ron was staying with friends. He said that he had decided to return to school in the fall at Western Michigan and asked Kaestner for his help.

"I always seemed to get by on my natural ability," Ron said in his letter. "When I went to Grand Valley I just wasn't ready. My desire has increased 120 per cent."

"He'd turned his life around," Kaestner said. "He raised a little cane, but he always seemed to right himself."

Mark Reid of Livonia was a classmate of Ron's and a close friend with whom the Churchill athlete had once lived. After graduation he didn't see much of his friend, but when Ron returned from Florida he stopped in at the store where Mark worked.

"When Ron came in he smiled and jumped over the counter and shook my hand. Nobody else would have done that," Mark said. "That was just the way he was."

"He'd just made up his mind to go back to school," he added. "That's what's really sad."

"He approached things with a lightness," Price said, "but he had a tremendous amount of talent. He kept everybody loose."

According to Kaestner, one of the things he remembers most about Ron was that he had "many, many friends."

Mark Reid agreed. "The church was full at the funeral," he said. "It was like Sunday mass, there were so many people."

Canton eyes millage vote for police, fire

By MARIE MCGEE

CANTON - A growing need for expanded police and fire protection may force Canton Township trustees to seek additional operating millage on the August ballot. It could be as much as three mills.

At the request Tuesday night of Township Clerk John Flodin, trustees were asked "to think about it" and be prepared to make a decision within the next few weeks.

To be on the August ballot, the information must be filed with the county clerk by June 6, Flodin told the board.

Flodin said he was not in a position that night to recommend how big a boost the township should seek, but noted that the five mills the township is currently levying is not adequate to take care of any expansion of the fire department or lend help for police protection in the event the threatened curtailment of service by the Sheriff's Road Patrol does occur in August.

He added that one mill would probably net the township about $141,000.

Flodin said several factors prompted him to broach the subject of higher taxes.

One was the recent report by a three-man committee investigating the tragic house fire that killed four members of the Burnham family.

Flodin said one of the committee's recommendations was that the township add six additional men to its department.

"A fireman -- with all the fringe benefits -- costs about $15,000 per man," Flodin told the board, putting the total cost of six additional men at $90,000.

This year's budget allocated $190,000 for fire department personnel. In two years, he said, the fire department budget projection would be nearer $490,000.

"We are further faced with the possibility of losing the Sheriff's Road Patrol service in August," he continued. The township would then have to either start its own police department or contract for police protection.

Flodin said he wasn't pressing for a decision that night, "just think about it," he told his colleagues. He also said he would welcome suggestions from residents who cared to comment on the proposed tax hike.

"Sounds like about three mills, John," commented Supervisor Philip Dingeldey.

Earlier in the evening, however, County Commissioner Brian Arrowsmith asked the board to delay making a decision for a millage request to cover police protection for at least two weeks.

Arrowsmith, whose district includes Canton, said he's "not so sure" that the threatened end of road patrols will come "this year either." Mainly because it's an election year, he added.

Arrowsmith hinted that he may have some good news -- in the form of an alternative plan -- very shortly. He alluded to negotiations that are now taking place in another community that could serve as a model for Canton to use in the event the sheriff's service is eliminated.

TWO STUDENTS, Joe Roose (left) and Bob DeLano (right), have been named co-drum majors for the 1974-75 Plymouth Centennial Education Park marching band. They were selected by Joe Brown, a national twirling competition judge. Both are currently members of the band; DeLano will be a senior and Roose a junior.

OLGC holding spring festival

PLYMOUTH — A "Spring Festival" this weekend in Plymouth will include carnival games, rides, prizes, a dance, bingo party and old-fashioned ice cream social.

The festival begins at 6 p.m. Friday (May 17), and concludes at 9 p.m. Sunday (May 19). The location is Our Lady of Good Counsel Catholic Church (OLGC) at Penniman and Arthur, west of downtown Plymouth.

All are invited to stop by for some carnival fun. Key elements of interest:

FRIDAY: 6 to 10 p.m. — carnival rides and games on the midway (church parking lot). From 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. — Spring dance in the parish hall... arrange tickets in advance.

SATURDAY: Noon to 10 p.m. — rides and games on the midway.

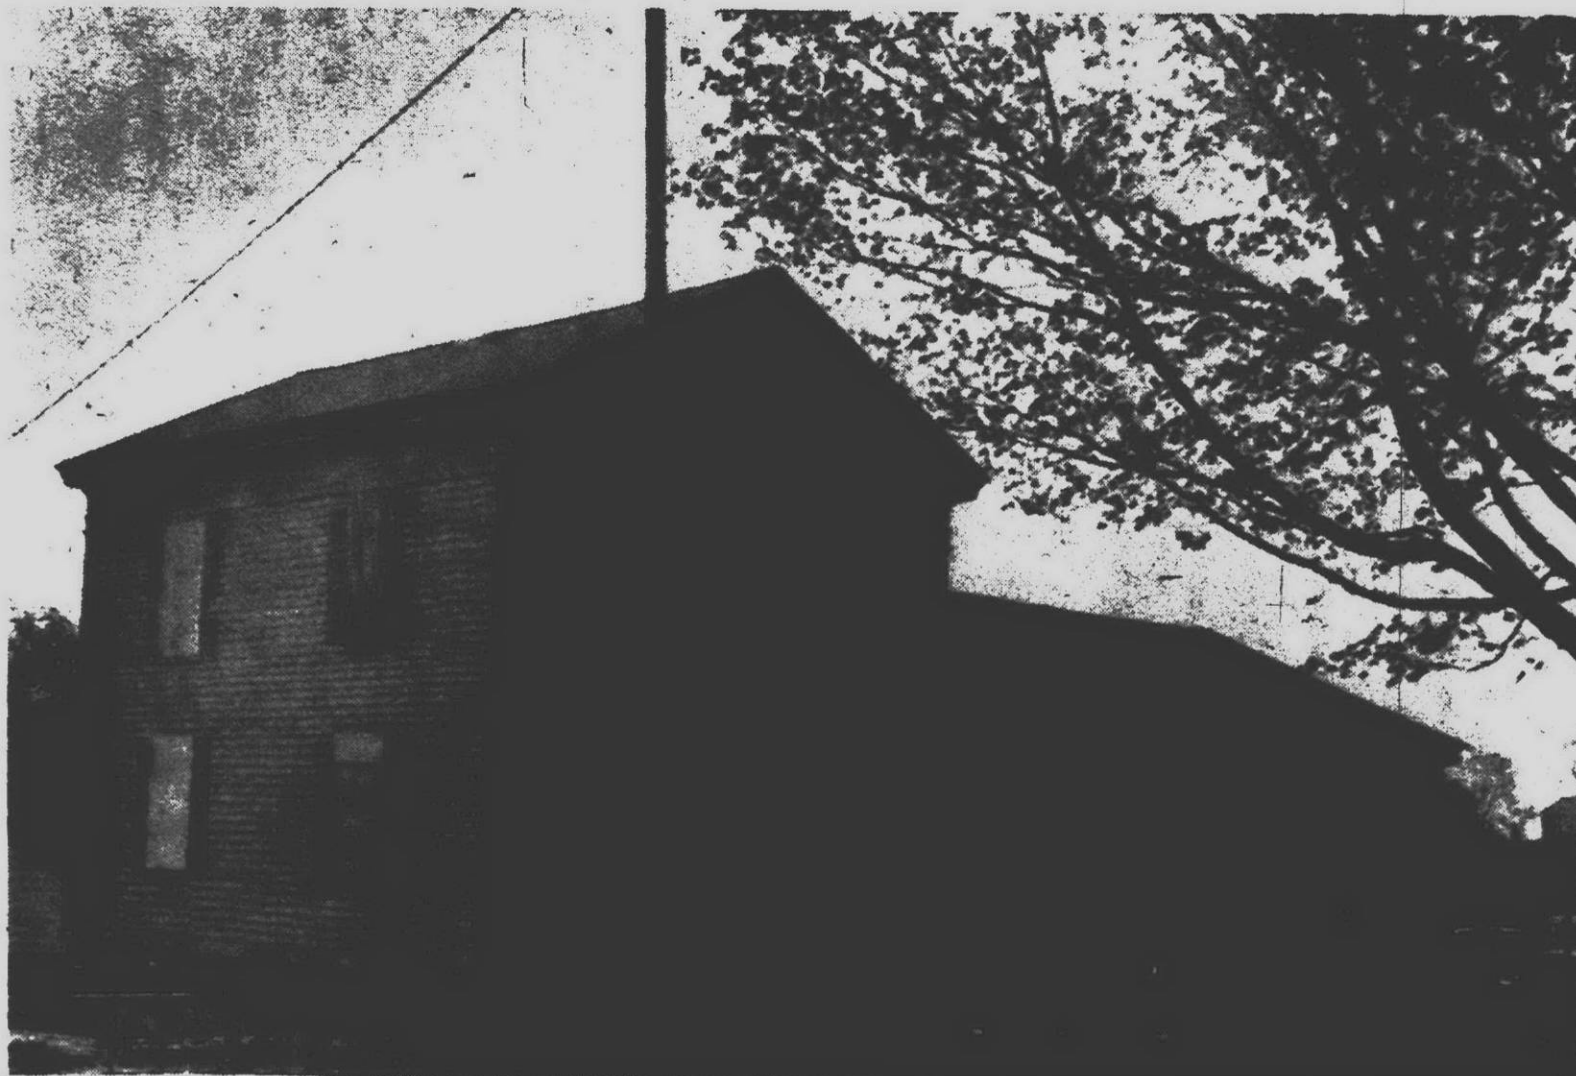

From 7:30 p.m. — Bingo party in the church hall.

SUNDAY: Noon to 9 p.m. — rides and games on the midway. From 1 to 5 p.m. — Ice cream social in the parish hall.

A highlight of the midway will be a game featuring the dunking of two Good Counsel teachers by students and other ball tossers wanting them to get into the swim of things.

Fifteen other midway games include some that adults as well as youngsters find especially challenging, like "Pool Shark," and "Cork Shoot." Prizes range from stuffed bears to tennis rackets, basketballs and smaller items.

Besides the ice cream social Sunday, a hot dog wagon will offer food and beverages for midway visitors throughout the weekend.

THIS HISTORIC HOUSE, formerly located on the Plymouth Township recreation site, is being moved across the road to a new location by township resident Douglas Cash who hopes to restore it. (Staff photo)

Community Chorus presenting concert

PLYMOUTH — The Plymouth Community Chorus will present music "to please every taste" at its free spring concert Sunday, May 19, at 3 p.m. in Central Middle School.

Chorus founder and conductor is William Grimmer, vocal music teacher at Plymouth Middle School East.

The program, which is divided into five sections, will be narrated by Peter Humphrey with Harriette Schneider as accompanist.

Opening number will be "Consider Yourself" from the musical, "Oliver."

Section one will be entitled "The Lord's Day - The Lord's People" and will include "Bless This House," the spiritual "Climbin' up the Mountain" and "He, Watching Over Israel" from Mendelssohn's "Elijah."

Section two, dubbed "To Have a Friend," will feature "As Long As He Needs Me" from "Oliver" and "Maria" from "The Sound of Music" performed by the women's double trio. "Curtains of Night" and "Moon River" will be sung by the entire chorus.

The spotlight will be on Jack Dean, Community Chorus president, in section three, called "Everybody Loves to Sing." He will lead a sing-a-long including "Charade," "Jennie Rebecca," "Puff," "Derby Ram" and "Drinking Gourd."

Section four will have as topic

"Death - A Door Through Which All Must Pass." Songs will include "Behold and See," "Madame Jeanette," "Into the Night" and "How Lovely Is Thy Dwelling Place" from Brahms' "Requiem."

Section five is entitled "From Crisis to Opportunity." It will offer "I'm Gonna Wash That Man Right Outa My Hair" from "South Pacific," "Tonight" from "West Side Story," "The Impossible Dream" from "Man of La Mancha," the spiritual "Jonah" and "Climb Every Mountain" from "The Sound of Music."

Schools' learning disabled efforts questioned

By CORINNE ABATT

PLYMOUTH — Do Plymouth schools offer a satisfactory program for children with learning disabilities? Superintendent John Hoben is mystified by a charge that the district is not complying with provisions of the state mandatory special education act dealing with learning disabilities.

Hoben stands at his desk with a letter in his hand. It is the formal complaint which didn't even come to him. He got a copy of a letter sent to Dr. William Simmons, superintendent of the Wayne County Intermediate school district, from Dr. John Porter, state school superintendent. Detroit, Dearborn, Dearborn Heights and South Redford were also cited.

The reasons are what still escape Hoben who says, "There were no specific charges."

Some of the mystery may be clarified next Monday evening, May 20. Starting at 7 p.m. members of the local chapter of the Michigan Association of Children with Learning Disabilities (MACLD) will make a presentation at a board of education workshop meeting, at the school board offices, 454 S. Harvey St.

Mrs. Barbara Leffler, chapter president, says she expects at least 50 interested persons to be present at the meeting. They intend to tell the board their complaints about the program for the learning disabled and make recommendations on how to improve the educational climate for these children. Along with the parents, there will be a number of presentations by professionals in the field.

Learning disability is characterized by a disorder which prevents or makes difficult the use of spoken or written language. The child's listening, speaking, thinking, reading, writing or spelling and number abilities may be damaged through brain injury or minimal brain dysfunction.

Using the Michigan mandatory special education act, passed last summer as a basis, the charge was made by the Parents Advisory Committee of the Wayne County Intermediate School District.

James Eubank of Detroit, co-chairman of the committee calls the charges against the five school districts "a test case."

He says, "We're the first parent advisory council in the state to do this. While we feel that none of the school districts in Wayne County is complying with the act, I named five that I thought I could prove."

As he speaks about Plymouth he says, "The parents made the original complaints. I don't know whether they will stand behind them or whether the problems have been resolved."

"If Plymouth's doing everything right, they'll be in the clear and we'll have egg on our face. If Plymouth is found to be in non-compliance, the Wayne County Intermediate Schools could set up a program and bill it back to Plymouth. The special education act gives the intermediate schools policing authority, but nobody knows what that authority is."

Investigation of the complaint is being carried on through the office of Dr. James Griner, Wayne County Intermediate Schools' director of special education.

Last week, Hoben and a group of staff which he says he pulled from other responsibilities, completed an extensive questionnaire.

A team from the intermediate district also visited the Plymouth schools. The results are not yet final.

Eubank says, "We don't know if they found anything."

Hoben, who labels the complaints, "very evasive, very general — no specific charges," says, "We don't feel we have shirked our duties under Public Act 198. We have 16½ reading specialists who work on reading problems. These people have been working with our learning disabled."

He continues, listing the staff people who give supportive services. "In a district of 12,000 students, we have two and a half psychologists which is more than most, four social workers, more than most, five speech correctionists. And we are doing more than most districts under this act."

Hoben said that while children with learning disabilities must be given attention, they are a small part of the total student population. The state estimates that 19 per cent of all children have a learning disability, Hoben said.

Pro-rated that means there are 22 such children in the Plymouth district and Hoben says he must consider the entire district as he looks at his tight budget.

He concedes there may be some changes by next year. "We are moving in the direction of establishing learning disability centers in our area."

After enumerating the many services which the district performs in the way of special education in general, he says, "Until I hear some definite charges on this, we are going to go ahead and do our job."

2 perform in opera

PLYMOUTH — Two Plymouthites performed with the orchestra in three stagings of Verdi's opera "Aida" at Bob Jones University, Greenville, S. C.

Among the performers were Charlotte J. and David O. Mc Guire, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ottis McGuire of 1481 Palmer.

Miss McGuire is a freshman majoring in biology at BJU. Her brother is a member of the university's history faculty.

Five guest artists from the Metropolitan and other leading opera companies sang the major roles. University students and faculty sang minor roles and chorus parts as well as performed in the orchestra.

It rained cats

PLYMOUTH TOWNSHIP — There's one Plymouth Township family that will describe Saturday night's storm by saying, "It rained cats and dogs — well, cats anyway."

It all started about 8 p.m. when Mrs. Joseph Neault thought she heard water dripping down the chimney into the fireplace of their home at 48100 Ann Arbor Rd.

She went to close the flue and heard a noise. "At first I thought it was maybe a bird," Mrs. Neault said.

But on closer inspection after her son John, got up on the roof and looked down the chimney with a flash light, they discovered the mysterious visitor was a frightened, long-haired, yellow cat.

After a call to the Plymouth Township Fire Department, which couldn't offer any ideas, and the Humane Society, which didn't answer, the Neaults decided to take matters into their own hands.

Neault took the fireplace damper apart and after two hours of coaxing (neither milk nor hot dogs seemed to tickle the feline's fancy) he was able to get the cat purring, grab it by the scruff of the neck and drag him out.

Schoolcraft College in Livonia will host its second annual "Fitness is Ageless" seminar May 18 for persons responsible for recreation and fitness programs for older adults.

The day-long seminar will feature a number of authorities in the field including keynote speaker Dr. Raymond Harris of New York who is president of the Center for the Study of Aging and chief director of cardiovascular medicine at St. Peter Hospital, Albany.

Registration fees, which include breakfast and lunch, are $5 for individuals, $4.50 for persons from the same organization, and $3.50 for students and retirees. Advance registrations may be phoned to Mrs. Betty Andrews at the college.

HARRIS' TOPIC is "Fitness for Aging," scheduled to begin at 9:20 a.m. in the classroom wing of the physical education building. The campus is located at 18600 Haggerty, north of Six Mile.

The seminar is sponsored by the college's senior adult affairs program and the department of physical education. Registration Saturday at 8 a.m. in the physical education building where a continental breakfast, films and exhibits comprise the first hour's activity.

Dr. C. Nelson Grote, president of Schoolcraft, will welcome participants at 9 a.m. and Community Services Director Ron Griffith will then open the seminar and introduce Dr. Harris.

A second speaker in the morning will be Mike Sharratt, exercise physiologist from the University of Windsor. He will talk on "Fitness Assessment, Monitoring and Exercise Prescription for the Older Adult."

IN THE afternoon, Loyd Morgan will discuss "The Role of Music and Rhythm in a program of Physical Fitness." Morgan is director of physical fitness of UAW Retired Workers. There will also be a demonstration involving UAW retirees.

Dr. Marvin Gans, director of physical education at Schoolcraft, and George Andrews, a registered physical therapist, will present a "Fitness after Fifty Program" in the afternoon.

A final presentation will involve square dancing for older adults with caller Helen Covietz and a demonstration group.

How Plymouth store makes its own candy the 'old way'

MERLE HAMLIN of Plymouth, starts the candy making process in the Kemnitz candy kitchen by adding the ingredients for peppermint patties. He carefully follows a recipe which tells the specific amount of each ingredient, the temperature it must be cooked and time it must be cooked.

A visit to a candy factory is sure to brighten any youngster's day, and it can be equally rewarding for adults, too.

This writer was recently granted the privilege of touring the "kitchens" of the Kemnitz Candy Store, 896 W. Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth.

Actually, the candy is made in a building located on Cherry Street, before being transferred to the store. The candy store was purchased by Mrs. Audrey Hamlin and Mrs. Marie Swain in 1969. But they retained the Kemnitz name for the store.

Mrs. Hamlin persuaded her husband, Merle, to help out real estate business.

Hamlin took time out to explain the candy making process and watching him make peppermint patties, from beginning to end, proved to be an interesting experience.

The first step is to mix the ingredients, as directed, heat it to a certain temperature, pour the mixture into a funnel, insert a stick to cover the hole - which can be lifted to let out as much as you want at one time to make a patty, cool them, and finally run them through a machine which coats them with chocolate.

That's an oversimplified account of the process, of course. Having 40 different things to do and remember at the same time isn't easy when you have only two hands.

The ingredients are all pre-mixed by hand in the candy kitchen. They must be added in exact amounts to ensure success.

"I always go by a recipe for all candy I make," Hamlin says. "When you try to make it by memory, that's when you get into trouble."

The room temperature and the double boiler must be kept at a constant temperature. Once the candy is dropped from the funnel onto parchment paper, it must be coated with chocolate within 30 minutes.

Hamlin says peppermint patties are one of the easiest candies to make. One of the hardest is nougats. About eight different kinds of candy are made in one day, and about 20 - 25 pounds of each.

Usually, there are four people working in the kitchen at one time, but there are five or six total employees.

A unique feature of this candy kitchen is that everything is made from scratch. Aside from making dozens of varieties of candy, they also make their own chocolate, make dietetic candy, roast their own nuts, make some of their own molds.

They use special molds for the Christmas and Easter seasons. Some of the molds are at least 20 years old and can only be used in cold weather. For instance, the large rabbit mold must be filled with chocolate, dumped out, cooled, filled again and dumped out to coat the inside. Then the mold is set in a pool of chocolate to seal the bottom. The mold is removed and you have a hollow chocolate rabbit.

This is a very sensitive process and can only be successfully done in temperatures 50 degrees or below. They also use tempered chocolate for these molds which means there's no wax added. It's 100 per cent chocolate.

"These are old fashioned molds, but they're the only ones you can use without getting into modern equipment."

Hamlin says Easter is their biggest season. This past Easter they used 3,000 pounds of chocolate. They also pack and mail candy from the store

MRS. MARIE SWAIN places the patties on a conveyor which takes them through a chocolate coating machine.

Story and photos by Jan Williams at the customers' request. The biggest season for this is usually Christmas, but it's an offer available all year. Special requests are also taken for certain kinds of candy, such as dietetic, and for certain decorations or molds.

All the pots, (stainless steel and copper) used in the candy making are washed with hot water only. A detergent might leave a film or taste in the candy. Smoking isn't allowed in the kitchen because chocolate will absorb the scent and make it taste old.

"Chocolate is very susceptible to odors and extreme care must be taken at all times while making it."

The chocolate coating machine resembles an assembly line. A piece of candy is run through on a conveyor type belt (actually plastic), is coated, and an identifying mark is placed on each piece by hand. It goes through a cooling part of the machine and finally comes out the finished product, ready to be boxed.

Hamlin, who admits he has a sweet tooth, says the work is very rewarding. Mrs. Hamlin and Mrs. Swain agree the work is very tiring, but fun and really quite a learning experience. It was a first experience for all of them.

They all take great care and pride in their work - a much more complicated process than one would imagine.

Hamlin says this is definitely the old fashioned way of doing things and most candy stores have abandoned this process for more modern ones.

But sometimes the old fashioned way is the best way, and the best way to find that out is to taste the candy.

Canton, Westland promoting National Airport development

By LEONARD POGER
National Airport, a commercial airfield straddling the Westland-Canton Township boundary, is being actively promoted for sale as an industrial park.

The 108 acres on the south side of Ford, just west of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad tracks, has an asking price of $1.25 million.

The real estate salesman handling the listing is working with several developers interested in the site.

Len Morgan of Hartman Group, metropolitan Detroit realtors, told The Observer & Eccentric that he will soon open a major promotional and advertising campaign to sell the site.

Of the 108 acres, 78 are in Westland and 30 in Canton. The three runways, hangars and office building are on the Westland side.

Morgan described the advantages of the site for a prospective industrial developer.

There are sanitary sewers and water lines on the site and the soon to open I-275 freeway ramp is just 1,200 feet away, Morgan said.

The freeway from Ford to I-96 will be open later this year, Morgan said in quoting state officials.

"It's an ideal spot for an industrial developer."

"The Hartman Group has several industrial parks in Plymouth and they are all sold out."

Morgan said a promotional brochure will be sent soon to the top 850 companies in the county with information to be sent to 3,000 other firms.

Newspaper advertising has already started for the site which has been on the open market since last fall.

Other advantages of the site are that it is already zoned for industrial use and there is an adjacent 27 acre site along the railroad track.

If the airport and adjacent parcel are developed together, it would give the developer 3,000 feet of frontage along the track.

Ernest Maddock, Westland's economic development director, said the airport is part of some 200 acres open for development on the city's western border.

He added a major hurdle recently cleared is the preliminary approval of natural gas supply from Michigan Consolidated Gas Co.

Westland is served by Consumers Power Co. which isn't issuing any new gas permits for non-residential uses.

But Canton is served by Michigan Consolidated which has given an unofficial approval to serve the entire 108 acre parcel.

The airport has been used since the early 1940s when military flight training sessions were held there.

Charles Spicer, National Airport co-owner, said the airport facilities could be used as part of an industrial park but that isn't a condition of the sale.

The marketing of the airport for industrial uses may close down commercial aviation in western Wayne County.

Canton officials have considered buying Mettetal Airport at Joy and Lilley, also up for sale.

Livonia discussed the purchase of it for an industrial park several years ago but apparently dropped the idea.

Canton officials, in considering the parcel's purchase, are looking for state money to buy the site. When sold, the National Airport site will be the second largest industrial park in Westland. The larger one is 120 acres on Newburgh, north of Palmer, which is partially developed for the Chevrolet parts warehouse and a smaller industrial building.

TOT FINDER decals, to be placed in windows of homes where a child sleeps, are being offered for the asking by the Plymouth Fire Department. Fire Chief George Schoenneman said the red, black and silver decals let firemen know in which room a child might be found should there be a house fire. Any Plymouth resident may pick up a decal at the Plymouth fire station from either the chief or any fireman. (Staff photo by Maurie Walker)

Canton interested in buying Mettetal

CANTON -- Canton trustees went on record this week as "definitely being interested" in purchasing Mettetal Airport.

A letter to this effect will be delivered to the airport's two owners, Bob and Marvin Mettetal, and hopefully will forestall negotiations that are currently under way to sell the site.

The verbal commitment is seen as the first step in the eventual acquisition of federal funds for the purchase of the facility on Joy Road at Canton's northeastern border. The airport has been for sale for the past year.

Township officials admitted they are still unsure what the actual procedure for acquiring federal funds entails, but do know that a state aeronautical board will conduct a $5,000 feasibility study. Federal funding allowing up to 75 per cent of the purchase price will hinge on the outcome of the study.

More than a year ago, Canton trustees were made aware of the possible sale of the airport and were told then by the Mettetal brothers that Canton would have the first chance to purchase the facility.

Inquiries sent to Lansing at that time on how to go about financing the project went unanswered, Supervisor Philip Dingeldey said Tuesday, so the township didn't pursue the question.

One of the first questions the board wants answered is how much Canton would be required to put up in "front money" -- or some kind of down payment -- and how long the money would be tied up in an option-type agreement.

Plymouth Schools celebrate Michigan Week

PLYMOUTH — Public school students will join the rest of the Plymouth community in the celebration of Michigan Week, May 18 - 26. Each school has special activities planned which will focus on the state, its background, culture and development.

CENTRAL ELEMENTARY SCHOOL — There will be a general assembly to kick off the Michigan Week celebration at 2:35 p.m., Friday, May 17. On Wednesday, May 22, parents and friends are invited to an evening musical program starting at 7:30 with the theme, "Pure Imagination." There will be a Michigan breakfast in Miss Overholt's second grade on Friday, May 24. All classes will focus on Michigan during the entire week.

FARRAND — There will be a display of Michigan books in the library all week long. All students will be learning Michigan songs in music classes. The selections will be from the collection, "I Sing of Michigan" by Lorna Dee Mistele. Third, fourth and fifth graders will see the movie, "Paddle to the Sea." First graders will be making Michigan booklets and a large picture map of the state. Third graders will have a Michigan Week breakfast.

FIEGEL — There will be a Michigan breakfast for all students. Activities in all classrooms will highlight the various kinds of industries located in the state. There will also be a teacher exchange program with the Miller Elementary School.

GALLIMORE — There will be an all school presentation celebrating Michigan Week. This will include an imaginary motor tour with stops at villages, towns and cities along the route. Stops will be made along the way and various classes will give facts about the location using pictures, poems, plays, dances and other activities.

GEER — The school will hold a special open house on Thursday, May 23 which is Education Day. This will mark the fact that Geer has been chosen by the American Association of University Women as the landmark building for this year.

The celebration will include a balloon launch, a Michigan breakfast prepared by the students and class displays. All students are studying the history pamphlet prepared by Mary Horwood. Michigan wildflowers and birds will be emphasized as the students prepare for hikes in Gallimore Woods.

ISBISTER — Primary classes will culminate their study of the state with a Michigan products breakfast. Many of the primary youngsters wrote letters to Gov. William Milliken and will bake cherry tarts. Fourth and fifth grades are completing a unit of study on the state and will hold a music program for parents on Education Day, Thursday, May 23.

MILLER — Students made an elaborate Michigan Week center focusing on the background and geography of the state. The school will hold a Michigan breakfast featuring products from all around the state and a Michigan luncheon. Several classes are writing stories about a trip to the Ann Arbor Museum which will be featured with displays in a large Michigan Center. There will also be a color slide journey through Michigan for all children to take an imaginary trip to interesting places in the state.

SMITH — Classes will be studying the various jobs, foods, and recreational activities of the people of Michigan. There will be a teacher exchange day within the school. Smith will celebrate the completion of the new "creek" bridge which has been a part of the Parent - Faculty Organization's playground improvement program.

STARKWEATHER — On Livelihood Day, parents will come to the school to talk about their jobs. There will be a Fine Arts Council program. "My World." First graders will go on the Gallimore nature train and later have a Michigan breakfast. Kindergartners will be drawing pictures of things in the state, talking about the Michigan bird and flower and discussing local industries and products. The third grade will make a bulletin board of Michigan.

TANGER — There will be open house all week at the school. There will be puppet shows for the children on Education Day and a special program for kindergartners on Tuesday, May 21.

TRUEDELL — Michigan Week at the school will be highlighted by a breakfast for the morning classes and a luncheon for the afternoon classes on Friday, May 24. All Michigan products will be used. During the week the children will learn about the state's shape, flower, bird and development.

CENTRAL MIDDLE SCHOOL — The big event will be a spaghetti dinner at 5 p.m. Thursday, May 23, followed by an open house until 8:30 p.m. On the same day the Plymouth fire department will have speakers at assemblies on fire safety and careers.

On Friday, May 24, State Rep. Raymond Smit will speak at two assemblies on state government.

EAST MIDDLE SCHOOL — All students will be studying various aspects of the state, its geography and development. There will be films, visits from resource people, maps of the state made by the students and bulletin boards highlighting Michigan places of interest. Seventh graders will give oral reports and the classes will see a series of filmstrips of the paintings of Michigan artist, Robert Thom, tracing the history of the state from 10,000 B.C. to 1966.

PIONEER MIDDLE SCHOOL — In addition to various displays, filmstrips and discussions, Pioneer has a week-long program of special events. On Thursday, May 16, there will be an ice cream social. A bicycle rodeo will be held on Saturday, May 18. On Thursday, May 23 a spring choral program will be given during the day and in the evening. On Friday, May 24, there will be a student council assembly. All week long parents are invited to the school for lunch.

WEST MIDDLE SCHOOL — Classes will all be doing in - depth studies of the state during Michigan Week. There will be oral reports, displays and a study of state maps. Along with the study of Michigan folklore, there will be discussions of Plymouth history.

CANTON AND SALEM HIGH SCHOOLS — There is so much going on at both high schools that the day - to - day events are going to be announced in advance over the public address system. Students can look forward to dress - up days, a flapjack eating contest, lumberjack dress - up day and a tug of war Friday, May 24.

Vocalists presenting songfest

PLYMOUTH — Plymouth - Salem High School's vocal music department will present "A May Festival of Song" Tuesday, May 21, at 8 p.m. Admission is free.

The school is at 46181 Joy Road just west of Canton Center.

The ninth grade chorus will sing "Carlos Dominguez," "The Way We Were" and "Top of the World."

The Triple Trios will offer selections from "Jesus Christ Superstar" and "And I Love You So."

The madrigal singers will perform several late 17th century vocal chamber works. The men's chorus will sing "Scarborough Fair" and a medley of Neil Diamond songs.

The mixed chorus will sing "Lord to Thee We Turn," "Summertime, Summertime" and "David's Song."

The girls glee club will sing "Lullaby for Titania" by Plymouth composer Robert W. Jones, "You've Got a Friend" and "Morning Has Broken."

The choir, accompanied by the orchestra, will sing Mozart's "Coronation Mass."

Carla Upton will be piano accompanist. H. Michael Endres prepared the orchestra and Fred C. Nelson is vocal music teacher.

City sets large item pickup dates

PLYMOUTH — In response to many residents' questions about the dates of large item rubbish pickup in the city of Plymouth, the city has posted the following dates for the remainder of the year:

JUNE — 3 through 7.
JULY — 1 through 5.
AUGUST — 5 through 9.
SEPTEMBER — 2 through 5.
OCTOBER — 7 through 11.
NOVEMBER — 4 through 8.
DECEMBER — 2 through 6.

The bulk item pickup is made the day of regular rubbish collections. Items such as bed springs, large appliances, sinks and bookcases will be accepted.

Items should be placed at the curb the night before their pickup day.

RECENTLY CROWNED Wolverine Pinto Queen, Lisa Mical, granddaughter of Mrs. Euroda Rutherford, of Maple Street, and William Mical, of Forest Avenue, will be among the leading contestants for the national championship at the major event at Des Moines, Iowa, in July.

American Legion plans annual Recognition Night

PLYMOUTH — The Plymouth American Legion Post and its Auxiliary will host their seventh annual Recognition Night (Law and Order) Saturday, (May 18).

Awards will be presented to outstanding individuals in five categories along with special Citizens Awards to others considered to have made significant contributions to the community.

The event coincides with the opening day of Michigan Week, Community Pride Day, Armed Forces Day and the close of Police Week and the post will salute these observances as well.

Passage - Gayde Post also will display American flags around the perimeter of Kellogg Park each day of Michigan Week, weather permitting.

Recognition Night festivities will begin with a buffet supper at 6:30 p.m. for invited guests at the Legion Hall, 888 Sheldon Road. The awards ceremony and program will follow at 7:30 p.m. with the community welcome to attend.

State Rep. Raymond J. Smit (R - Ann Arbor) whose district includes Plymouth and Plymouth Township, will be principal speaker.

Master of ceremonies will be Fred DeLano who is in charge of Wayne County news operations for the Observer and Eccentric newspapers.

Ernest Kol is program chairman.

Awards will be presented in the categories, Policeman of the Year, City Fireman of the Year, Township Fireman of the Year, Businessman of the Year and Industrialist of the year.

Citizens Awards, initiated three years ago, are made independently of the other categories.

Previous winners of the title Policeman of the Year have been: Roger Vandervan, Rodney Cannon, the entire department for two successive years, Robert Comire and William Guldner.

Past City Firemen of the Year have been: Paul Sanders, Gwynne Fulton, Dale Bowerman, Roger Norris, Charles Groth and Robert Fitzner.

Township Firemen of the Year have been: Martin Schomberger, C. L. Mass, Robert Perry, Larry Groth and the entire department for the past two years.

Businessman of the Year awards have gone to: William Saxton, Fred Hill, Joseph West, William Decker and James Thomas.

Named Industrialist of the year have been: Arnold Johanson, W. C. and W. P. Scott, James McKeon, Robert Hayman, Edward Sawusch and Frank Henderson.

Students competing in field day

PLYMOUTH — An estimated 500 fourth and fifth grade youngsters from Plymouth schools will participate Saturday in the annual elementary schools' field day at the Centennial Education Park athletic field.

(There will be seven events in both the boys' and girls' divisions: 50 - yard dash, 100 - yard dash, 440 - yard run, 440 - yard relay, softball throw, high jump and running long jump. First through fifth place winners in each event will be awarded ribbons.

Competition will start at 9 a.m. and probably end about noon. The field day is sponsored by the physical education department.

City OKs flats over businesses

PLYMOUTH — The Plymouth City Commission has agreed to alter the city code to permit apartments on the second floor of commercial buildings in the central business district.

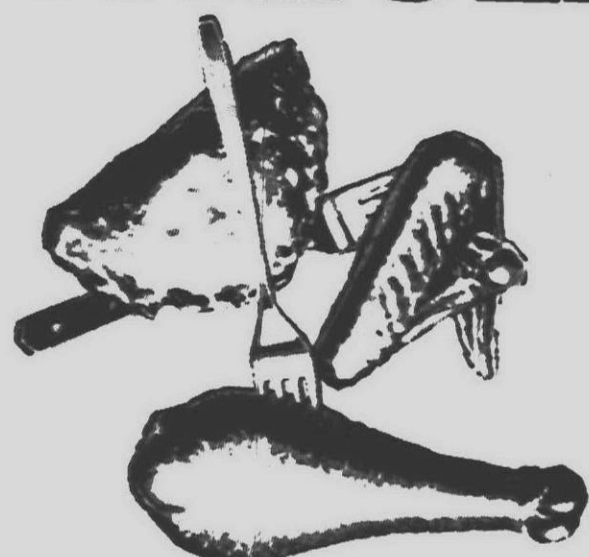

The measure, approved unanimously, amended the zoning ordinance which previously allowed residential apartments no lower than the fourth floor in commercial buildings.

The changed ordinance does not permit residential floors to be sandwiched between commercial floors, except in special cases, such as a high rise with a top - floor restaurant. The change applies only to buildings in the downtown area on land currently zoned B - 1 and B - 2.

Nicholas gets perfect grades

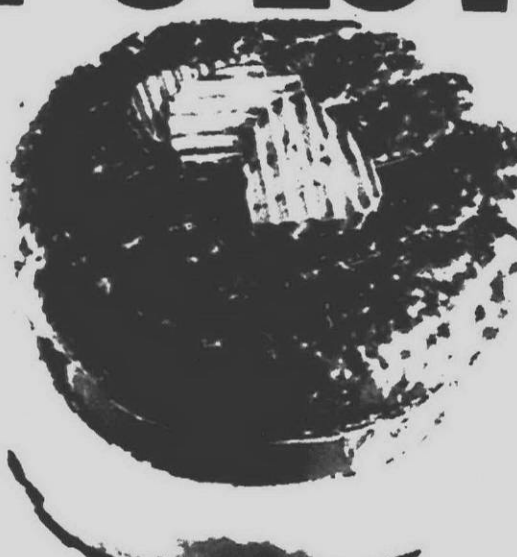

PLYMOUTH — Cheryl Kay Nicholas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene H. Nicholas of 565 Simpson, received recognition recently for achieving a perfect 4.0 average during her freshman year at the University of Michigan.

Schools Weigh Excess Building Alternatives

Renting Other Buildings Inside District

Renting or leasing available churches, public buildings and clubs is one possible alternative to some building construction.

The Plymouth community has approximately 30 such buildings which are presently being surveyed for the possibility of renting space for use as classrooms, offices or storage. The survey has indicated that a limited number of classrooms, storage and/or recreation spaces are available.

Among the factors which must be considered in renting such space are: (1) rental rates, (2) fire and health regulations, (3) adequate facilities for a learning environment, (4) teacher assignments and responsibilities and, (5) problems of administrative management and leadership.

Comments by community representatives:

ADVANTAGES

- A possible interim solution to an emergency space need.
- Would be more effective at elementary level than later.

- Would provide the opportunity to use the community as a learning laboratory.
- Would provide an opportunity for self-contained type curriculum.

DISADVANTAGES

- Not as feasible for use as high school due to needs for extracurricular activities and specialized facilities.
- Rental builds no school district equity.
- Selection would have to be made on availability.
- Students probably would not have library, gym, cafeteria or adequate recreational facilities.
- Teaching staff would be isolated from colleagues.
- Lack of aides such as audio-visual, secretarial, etc.

Rent Buildings Out Of District

outside of the school district is an alternative to building. Michigan school code permits a school district to rent or lease space from another district.

Several surrounding school districts indicate some available space. The reasons for such space abundance are declining student population, overprojection and classrooms which were built to house 25 students which are now housing as many as 35 students. By increasing the teacher-pupil ratio, a school district could save money by using fewer teachers and fewer classrooms.

In Plymouth, the possible cost savings could come from not constructing as many new buildings, since "surplus students" would be bused to available classroom space.

It is important to note that maintaining the same educational program would be more difficult, course selection would be limited and teacher-student attitude might deteriorate.

Comments by community representatives:

ADVANTAGES

- Could be acceptable if an entire building were available.
- Could be workable on a tuition basis for high school students.

DISADVANTAGES

- Transportation cost would be much higher.
- Available buildings might not meet the standards to which our students are accustomed or which our other students enjoy.
- The lengthy travel time could be especially hard on primary students.
- Very expensive on long term basis.
- Children might receive lesser quality education.
- Higher insurance rate would be required on bused children.
- Would cause additional costs for travel time and expense for special teachers (art, music, physical education).

Extended Day At High School

Extending the school day for the high school students is a means of housing more students in a building and, therefore, would reduce the need for constructing additional space.

The cost savings which could be made would accrue when new buildings were not built. Operational costs would generally remain the same as if the additional building space was provided.

There are at least four options in extending the school day.

The first would be to house two separate student bodies in one building. This would require elimination of study halls and reduction of unscheduled time for students so they could complete their day in less time in order that a second group could use the building. The modular scheduling program would probably have to be replaced by a more traditional schedule under this option.

The second option would have students arriving and leaving the high school site at different times. This reduces the total number of students in the school at any one time as well as giving most students a complete schedule. It would not be as difficult to run this program on a traditional schedule as it would be to operate the present modular program. It does not increase the capacity as much as the first option.

The third option would be to extend the school day into the evening and perhaps, Saturday. This would give more students an opportunity to work; therefore, leaving space for additional students during the day.

The fourth option would be to extend the present co-operative program to allow more students to spend as much as a half-day in community service, jobs, travel, assistance at home, etc. This would increase enrollment capacity of the building.

Research has not shown that students do less well academically in a shortened school day; although, modular scheduling, choice of courses and extra-curricular activities would probably be affected.

Comments from commu-

ADVANTAGES

- Save construction cost.
- Increase potential for use of teacher aides in some roles in the school.
- Gives community best possible education per tax dollar spent for building.
- Would provide more time for students to work in "real" world.

DISADVANTAGES

- Reduces option of modular scheduling.
- Student activities suffer or are eliminated.
- Staff meetings difficult to hold.
- Complex transportation problems arise.
- Control problems with non-students become more acute.
- Teacher-pupil contacts may be reduced and special help time is lost.
- Some students may develop a negative attitude, feeling they are being given a part-time education.
- Unemployed youth create community problems.

Elementary Split Sessions

Split sessions for elementary students is an alternative to building additional elementary buildings.

The cost savings would be new facilities which would not be constructed since twice as many students could be housed in one building. There are different options available here.

The state requires a minimum of 180 days with a total of 900 clock hours, excluding lunch time but Michigan has no specific requirements for the hours of a school day. For example, you could offer two, five-hour sessions over a 180 day period or you could extend the school year and limit sessions to two, four-hour periods per day.

Split sessions might be used to reduce class size and thus to reduce discipline problems as well as to provide additional space. There seems to be no definitive research to indicate that pupils achieve less in academic YEAR AROUND SCHOOL is one alternative to building schools in excess of need that is being studied by the Plymouth School District. Northville, which has implemented a year around program, reports that its efforts have been fairly successful and resulted in reduced costs.

skills when scheduled on split sessions, however, data on other kinds of learning is not available.

Some parents dislike split sessions because children spend more time at home and, therefore, need further supervision. In addition, an afternoon or morning session may be the opposite of what the parent or student may prefer.

Comments by community representatives:

ADVANTAGES

- It would work well in middle school with extended year.
- It would eliminate lunch hour discipline problems.
- Provides time to help remedial students when they are out of class.
- Prompts citizens to reconsider their thinking as to length of a school day.
- Provides time for in-service if double faculties are employed.
- Allows for individual differences in students who cannot tolerate a long school day.
- High school girls could babysit if they also were on split schedule.
- Eliminates need for food service.
- Gives better opportunity for use of community resources.
- Smaller class size is possible if teachers teach two sessions.

DISADVANTAGES

- Working parents object; unattended children at home.
- Extra-curricular activities may suffer with such heavy building use.
- Recreational activities would have to be rescheduled and expanded.

- Out of school children may get into trouble.
- Multiple bus schedules are required.
- Increases transportation costs.
- Discriminates against children coming in the afternoon because they would be tired and not as fresh for study as morning students.
- Families with more than one child may have their children going and coming at different times.

Extended School Year

The extended school year (ESY) is an alternative to some building. Student enrollment could be increased as much as one-third. The cost savings would result from up to one-third reduction in the need for building space.

There are many different ESY programs from which to choose. They include: trimester, split trimester, staggered or continuous trimester, quarter, consecutive quarter, voluntary attendance quarter, trimester, continuous school year, multiple trails, flexible all year and the "45-15."

Although there are many ESY plans, there is very little factual data on year round schools. This is due, partly, to the fact that most districts using it adopted ESY in a crisis situation and upon overcoming the crisis returned to the traditional school year.

Where there is evidence, it does not seem to prove conclusively what the failings or the merits are of year round operation; this is especially true in the area of costs. For example, Plymouth, Wis. Joint School District No. 8 could find no savings while Northville Public Schools, projects at least 5.1 per cent overall cost benefit savings.

ESY programs operated purely for reasons of monetary savings are not immediately successful and thus are not likely to be established on a permanent basis. This is often true because curriculum revision is a necessary part of a successful ESY program and the essential curriculum revision takes time, inservice training and money.

Of the many ESY plans, the most popular seems to be the "45-15" which is presently being pilot tested in Northville. The federal government has given Northville approximately $150,000 to develop its "45-15" plan in order that it might be considered by other school districts.

Many of the initial costs which Northville has faced might not have to be duplicated by other districts such as Plymouth.

Comments by community representatives:

ADVANTAGES

- Each pupil is guaranteed as much instruction time as traditionally given.
- Up to one-third more pupils are educated by same staff and school facilities.
- Full time employment for teachers is possible.
- Better utilization of school plant.
- Gives all students some time off in summer.
- Forces schools to review curriculum.

Children can be more flexibly grouped.

- Vocational possibilities are increased for older youth.

- Overcomes the start-stop concept.

- Increases opportunity for experimentation.

- More frequent evaluation of students.

- Less loss of skills due to shorter vacation.

- Air-conditioning makes a healthier learning environment.

- Would shorten our too long summer vacations.

- Could give students a variety of teachers.

- Might improve attendance.

- Family's group in school together.

- More individualization is provided.

- Gives a variety of vacation periods from which families could choose.

- Children would enjoy school more.

- If child fails, he can repeat 45 day period rather than full year.

- Four starting dates for kindergarten keeps them closer to the maturing rate and current age of the children.

DISADVANTAGES

- Potential problem of students in elementary or students having special problems getting a complete changeover of teachers every 45 days.

- Student-teacher relationship could become impersonal.

- Vacations are not the same as traditional school holidays.

- Poor attendance before and after traditional holiday periods.

- General opposition to change.

- No real research or statistics to show advantages to 45-15 approach.

- No real evidence or data to show savings.

- Problem of transfer to or from other districts who are not on same schedule.

- General misunderstanding of the concept and related opposition.

- Students might have different graduation dates.

- Present recreational programs based on traditional school year.

- Extra-curricular activities might be affected or eliminated.

- Start up costs and stopping costs would be continuous.

- Wear and tear on buildings would be much greater.

- Summer maintenance would have to be done evenings therefore at higher rate of pay.

- A student may not be placed on desired track.

- Everyone in neighborhood is on different tracks - friendships are broken.

- Disrupts working mothers' schedules.

- Teachers might have to move materials constantly.

- Entire system must adopt it to work effectively.

- Have to install and maintain air-conditioning in all buildings.

- Some teachers really need time to rest and recover.

Satellite Schools

Satellite schools are an alternative for housing students, not an alternative to building, since they must be built and paid for.

The term "satellite" as it is used in the Plymouth Community School District, refers to purchased houses and or lots in the area of existing or planned schools.

The houses while under construction are modified to meet educational needs and legal requirements for school buildings. In the future, when the school district has enough classroom space within buildings, these homes can be used as offices, school district storage or reconverted and sold.

Although the term "satellite" is new in education, the concept is not unique to Plymouth. Denver, Colorado operates these units and refers to them as "cottage schools." For the past 22 years, Flint Public Schools with Mott Foundation support has operated such schools and called these 144 neighborhood classrooms "primary units."

The satellite classrooms are usually located within walking distance of an elementary building in order that students may use other school facilities. Each unit usually blends in with the rest of the neighborhood and has a blacktopped and fenced area for recreation in the rear.

Comments by community representatives:

ADVANTAGES

- Resale of buildings when not needed.
- Strong possibilities for constructive curriculum change.
- Good facility for team teaching.
- Give a home-like educational environment.
- Promotes strong teacher-pupil relationship in each unit.
- Puts school closer to homes (neighborhood school).
- No bus rides.
- Could be combined with other building alternatives.

DISADVANTAGES

- Lack of administrative supervision in units.
- Political question as to location.
- Initial buying costs may be excessive.
- Costs of converting "buildings" back to use as houses.
- Meeting building regulations, i.e., fire marshal, health department.
- There might be a duplication of services.
- Time would be lost when special area teachers had to travel.
- Limited number of social contacts for students and teachers.
- Might overwork the facilities at the elementary building it was attached to.
- Too isolated from curriculum work in a building.
- Schools do not reconvert these to homes.

Note: The committee recognizes that the satellite school concept is not an alternative to building; but it is an alternate form of housing some elementary students.

Since the board of education has already made a decision to seek community support to set up some of these units the committee felt it should study satellites as a possible part of a long term solution to the school building problem.

The primary concern has been to advise the board of education on ways to avoid building school classrooms in excess of eventual community needs.

State raises its own spirits

Michigan Week will begin Saturday, May 18, and once again a full seven days of activities have been planned statewide accented by special happenings in local communities and school districts.

Throughout the week, promoters will be emphasizing positive thinking in an effort to get residents to think about the good things the state has going for it.

"This is the year for positive thinking," says Richard M. Gillett, general chairman of Michigan Week 1974.

"This year is reminiscent of the early 1960s, when Michigan Week first appeared on the scene.

"The energy crisis, and U.S. domestic and foreign problems have made for an uncertain economy. And nothing is better for the 'downs' than a stirring rendition of the 'ups.' That is Michigan Week all the way — a snow-balling, year-round program to boost our state, to lift the spirit, and encourage us all to forge ahead."

Gillett, chairman of the board of Old Kent Bank & Trust Co. in Grand Rapids, adds: "It isn't immodest for us residents to boast that Michigan is one of the leading states in the Union. Michigan is a great industrial state, a great agricultural state, a great vacation state."

As is traditional, Michigan Week will begin May 19 with the kickoff parade in Sturgis and will end May 26 with a parade at the Alma Highland Festival.

This year, the U.S. Army Ninth Infantry Division Kiltie Band from Fort Lewis, Wash., will appear in the May 19 and May 26 parades besides playing for other Michigan Week programs in cities throughout the state. The band will also make a pre-Michigan Week appearance at the Holland Tulip Festival.

Last year, the Michigan Bureau of State Lottery staged its first bonus lottery for Michigan Week and is again planning a month-long lottery bonus program for 1974.

The special days of Michigan Week are: Saturday, Community Pride

Day; Sunday, Spiritual Foundations Day; Monday, Government Day; Tuesday, Heritage Day; Wednesday, Livelihood Day; Thursday, Education Day; Friday, Hospitality Day; and Saturday, Youth Day.

"Earth Fest '74" is a village fair with an environmental theme which will kick off Community Pride Day and Michigan Week in the five Grosse Pointe communities. The educational and fund-raising fair is being held to promote greater awareness of ecological problems and stress that these problems require the united efforts of all residents.

The fair will feature exhibition booths from such groups as local Audubon chapters, ecology film clips, and an environmental puppet show for children.

The campus of Central Michigan University in Mount Pleasant will be the setting for the 12th annual Michigan Week Youth Arts Festival May 17-18. Escanaba High School will host the Upper Peninsula Youth Arts Festival on the same dates.

A visual art exhibit will begin today (Monday) and continue through May 18 in the CMU Creative Arts Gallery, with the addition of a creative writing exhibit and art media demonstration on May 18. Ballet groups, bands, choirs, orchestras, and soloists will perform throughout the festival.

State awards will be presented at various Michigan Week programs, such as product of the year, agricultural development of the year, community achievement of the year, and volunteer leadership.

The 1974 theme is "Michigan — a State for all Seasons." The theme heralds Michigan as a state well endowed with natural resources for all seasons. It lauds the state's versatility, its unique setting on two peninsulas nearly surrounded by the Great Lakes, and its four-season attractions for all age groups which annually draws 18 million tourists plus nine million Michigan residents who vacation in the state.

2 bands in concert at C'ville

Clarenceville's High School Concert and Symphony Bands will present their 12th annual spring concert Tuesday, May 21, with Vaclav Nelhybel as guest conductor. He will conduct his own "Yamaha Concerto" and "Introit for Solo Chimes."

The program will begin at 8 p.m. in the L.E. Schmidt Auditorium. Tickets are $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

Born in Czechoslovakia, Nelhybel studied composition and conducting at the Prague Conservatory of Music and musicology at the Universities of Prague and Fribourg, Switzerland. Since 1957 he has lived in New York, become a U.S. citizen and is now active as composer, conductor and lecturer. Since 1963 he has conducted his music and lectured at the invitation of universities of more than 30 states.

The program will begin with "Pentland Hills" by the Concert Band followed by "Niagara" and "Rhapsodic Episode."

The Symphony Band will perform "Centennial Fanfare-March," "American Plantation Dances" and the "Introit," a solo for chimes with Margie Prisk as soloist.

The program will end with "Introduction and Fantasia" by Mitchell. John Nezek will conduct both bands.

Esch attacked for anti-COG Huber venture

Ronald W. Egnor, an aspirant for the Democratic nomination in the 2nd Congressional District, says U.S. Rep. Marvin Esch (R - Ann Arbor) "showed his true colors" by joining an anti-SEMOG committee led by U.S. Rep. Robert Huber (R - Troy).

Describing Huber as an arch-conservative, Egnor said: "Huber is one of Richard Nixon's staunchest supporters in the U.S. House of Representatives and one of its most conservative members."

"Esch talks like a moderate and says he has put distance between himself and the Watergate administration in Washington, but his actions prove otherwise."

Egnor's remarks came during an informal meeting recently with merchants and city councilmen in Petersburg in Monroe County. He is seeking the Democratic nomination in the 2nd District which includes Livonia and Plymouth and parts of Washtenaw and Monroe counties.

Esch joined a committee recently formed by Huber that seeks to fight the threat of "regional takeover." The committee made up of "local representatives" of communities in the seven county SEMOG area, isn't connected with the Congress.

Officials of SEMOG, which works to coordinate joint programs for communities in Southeast Michigan, have denied any desire to form a "regional government," Egnor points out.

Egnor also took Esch to task for vacillating on his Huber committee membership by saying he was "both in favor of regional cooperation and strong local government."

"As usual, the incumbent Republican is trying to play both ends against the middle, while standing nowhere in particular."

"SEMOG — and there are arguments both pro and con — isn't the issue here," Egnor concludes. "What is at issue, is that Esch is once trying to come on like a moderate when, in fact, the very act of joining with Nixonite Huber betrays his true leanings."

Hearing slated on bike trail

A public hearing will be held May 23 on a proposal to designate a portion of Pontiac Lake Recreation Area for trail bike use.

The hearing will begin at 7 p.m. in the Waterford school board administrative office at the intersection of Pontiac Lake and Airport Roads in Waterford Township.

Arrowsmith named to Health Board

Brian G. Arrowsmith, county commissioner from Canton Township, has been reappointed to the Wayne County Board of Health for a five-year term.

Arrowsmith was elected by a unanimous vote of the board of commissioners after he served the last year of an unexpired term on the health board. He was chairman during that year.

ARROWSMITH represents District 27 which includes the cities of Plymouth, Belleville and Wayne, part of Westland, plus Canton, Plymouth, Van Buren and Sumpter townships.

The five-member board of health is the policy board for the county department of health which operates in all 43 cities and townships in Wayne County.

"We have made great progress in controlling air pollution under the air pollution regulations adopted by the board of health several years ago," Arrowsmith commented upon his reappointment.

"Now I think the rapid urbanization in western Wayne County is going to require increased activity in the areas of sewerage, refuse disposal and water pollution."

Group to hear labor director

Barry Brown, director of the Michigan Department of Labor, will address the Suburban Employers' Association May 21 in Mayflower Hotel, Plymouth.

The luncheon will begin at noon in the Miles Standish Room of the hotel at Main Street and Ann Arbor Trail in downtown Plymouth. Tickets at $4 each may be purchased at the front desk.

Brown, who has been labor director since 1969, will give a general updating of information on the department's activities and highlights of current labor related legislative developments, employer and employee practices.

Brown has experience as an attorney with Chrysler Corp. and the J.L. Hudson Co. and as an instructor at Wayne State University.

This is the last meeting of the 1973-74 season for the group. Details will be announced for the group's annual golf outing and officers will be elected for 1973-74.

TWO KEY matters to be dealt with in the months ahead, he added, are the monitoring of coal supplies to make sure enough clean coal is available for home heating, and recruitment of a top public health physician to direct the health department.

The board of health recently raised the permissible sulfur content of home heating coal from .75 per cent to one per cent after dealers said they couldn't get coal with the lower sulfur content. About 10,000 homes still rely on coal in Detroit alone.

The health department has been headed by an acting director, S. John Stock, since the resignation of its director in 1970.

"Stock is most capable and a respected administrator," says Arrowsmith, "but a state law requires that the permanent director be a medical doctor."

Arrowsmith, who has a BS degree and teaching certificate from Eastern Michigan University, is serving his first two-year term on the board. He was elected in 1972.

Others on the health board are commissioners James DeSana of Wyandotte and Conrad Mallett of Detroit, plus Dr. Max Gardner of Grosse Pointe and Mrs. Geraldine O'Loan of Detroit.

Esch bill approved

Congress has approved a bill, co-sponsored by U.S. Rep. Marvin L. Esch (R - Ann Arbor), aimed at reducing red tape encountered by government employees when applying for compensation because of on-the-job injuries.

"I am certain this legislation will receive speedy and favorable action in the Senate so that it can be signed into law by the president," predicts Esch, whose 2nd Congressional District includes Livonia and Plymouth.

The bill will rectify delays in compensation payments which result from the current application and review process. Esch says, "Some workers have had to take out loans or experience periods of no income during the application period while their cases were bogged down in the review process which could take up to two months."

Pierce to limit campaign gifts

Dr. Ed Pierce, Ann Arbor Democrat, announced at a party meeting in Plymouth recently maximum limits on contributions he will accept in his bid for Congress.

Pierce is seeking the Democratic nomination in the 2nd Congressional District which includes Livonia, Plymouth and parts of Washtenaw County.

AT A MEETING of the United Democratic Club of Plymouth and Northville, Pierce said he will accept no contributions from individuals exceeding $200 and will take no more than $500 from any group.

"I am confident that I can get enough small donations from average citizens to run the kind of campaign which will get the issues before the people," he said. "It will not be a lavishly funded campaign, but that's fine. I still don't think government must belong to big money."

Pierce promised full disclosure of funds he collects during the campaign. "We are going to report weekly throughout the campaign all money received from all sources and will do so in public print."

He emphasized, however, that he will be dependent in the campaign on donations rather than his own money. "I am not into a high priced, self-financed effort. My income from the Summit Medical Center for the last six years has averaged slightly more than $18,000 a year. Now that I am working on a part-time basis, it comes to a third of that."

PIERCE prefaced his announcement of the contribution limits with remarks critical of a $1,000 contribution listed to the 1972 campaign of incumbent Marvin Esch (R - Ann Arbor) from the dairy trust which also contributed the "infamous milk money" to the Committee to Re-Elect the President.

"It is for the Republican Congressman in this district to explain his share of the milk money," said Pierce. "It is quite interesting that Marvin's Missouri Milk Money seems to come from the same folks who promised the President $2 million."

"We don't need that kind of money in American politics, and there will be none of it in the Pierce campaign," he concluded, referring to the Agricultural and Dairy Educational Political Trust of Springfield Missouri.

Pierce extends campaign here

Dr. Ed Pierce, who is seeking the Democratic nomination to Congress in the 2nd District, will bring his campaign to Northville Sunday, May 19, with an appearance in the home of George and Florine Bettett, 4650 Six Mile just east of Beck.

The party is scheduled to begin at 6 p.m. Bennett is a past member of the Democratic State Central Committee and former dean of education at Wayne County Community College.

The public is welcome to attend without charge. Free coffee and beer will be served.

Pierce is a former member of the Ann Arbor City Council and founder of the Summit Street Medical Center in that city. The 2nd District includes Plymouth, Livonia and part of Washtenaw County.

Esch is praised for voting record

U.S. Rep. Marvin L. Esch (R - Ann Arbor) has been praised by House Republican Leader John Rhodes for his 90 per cent voting record on roll call votes in the second session of the 93rd Congress.

The score was based on an analysis by Congressional Quarterly, a non-partisan journal of public affairs, and covered the period from the start of the session until the Easter recess.

Esch is the incumbent in the 2nd District which includes Livonia, Plymouth and parts of Washtenaw County.

Esch bill asks for returnable bottles, cans

U.S. Rep. Marvin L. Esch (R - Ann Arbor) has proposed a three-year phase out of throwaway bottles and cans in an effort to conserve energy wasted each year in the production of billions of non-returnable beverage containers.

Esch, whose 2nd Congressional District includes Livonia and Plymouth, said enactment of his legislation "would not only assist us in saving energy, it would also be a major step in the battle against litter which imposes a considerable burden on states and local communities."

SOME 62 billion throwaway containers were used in 1972 alone to package beer and soft drinks, said Esch, resulting in a loss of $211.5 trillion British Thermal Units (BTUs) of energy.

"That amount of energy would be the equivalent of enough electricity to supply the electrical needs of 9.1 million Americans; enough energy to heat two million, three-bedroom homes with gas; and enough gasoline (1.7 billion gallons) to operate about 1.7 million automobiles averaging 14 miles per gallon for a driving year of 10,000 miles."

Under the Esch bill, shipment and sale of non-returnable containers in interstate commerce would be banned as would all flip-top cans. The ban would go into effect three years after enactment of the law.

WHILE OTHER bills have been proposed to enact the ban six months after enactment, Esch said he believes there should be a phase out period of three years to "ease the economic impact on the consumer, manufacturers and retailers."

He also noted that a federal law would resolve the problems of enforcement that could result from a patchwork of local or state ordinances which could be circumvented because of the highly mobile American society.

Sen. Mark Hatfield (R - Oregon), chief sponsor of a Senate measure to enact the ban in six months, recently said he would support the phased approach. The Nixon administration has also said it would support a federal ban if phased in over several years, Esch adds.

"The shift from refillable to throwaway containers has resulted in more litter in parks and urban areas," Esch concluded. "Increased the burden on solid waste facilities, increased the amount of energy used for container packaging and increased the costs of throwaway container products."

18 prisoners graduate as nursing assistants

By CORINNE ABATT

"You can lead the way... we need you...yes, we need you more than ever," Detroit Councilman Irma Henderson told 18 women prisoners at the Detroit House of Correction (DeHoCo) recently.

She saw tears in the eyes of her listeners at the graduation luncheon. Not many, if any of the 18, had ever been needed before. It was a new feeling - exciting and so moving that most were not prepared to deal with it.

So, they cried, the tears rolling quietly down their cheeks.

Mrs. Henderson spoke of the commitment the women had made giving their efforts and their hearts and called it, "the most exciting commitment I have ever heard."

She was speaking of the decision which the 18 inmates, ages 19 to 43, made about the first of this year to volunteer for a rehabilitation program that is unique in the nation, and completely new in the annals of penal reform.

In a cooperative venture, the Plymouth Center for Human Development, an institution for the severely retarded, Schoolcraft College and DeHoCo, carved a nurse assistant training program to prepare the women for jobs.

THE 22 WEEK college credit program was a combination of classroom and on - the - job experience on the wards of the Plymouth Center.

Applicants for the program were carefully screened both physically and psychologically. The program is supported with funds from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration through a grant from the State Office of Criminal Justice.

The college contracted with the City of Detroit which administers the prison to conduct the training.

As Don Laird, program director, a native of Birmingham and a graduate of Seaholm High School, put the program and staff together, he began to see a lifetime dream take shape. Laird has been active in penal reform in Detroit and at the state level for many years.

In the morning the trainees worked on the wards with the physically handicapped, ambulatory, infirm and blind. Mrs. Margie Patrick, supervisor of Carlson Hall which houses the physically handicapped was delighted for the help to expand the services to her young patients.

She said of the trainees: "To me, they are another pair of hands to help. With the trainees on a ward, our residents can have the attention they really need."

THE WOMEN spent five weeks on each ward, small teams of them rotating from one to the other. They helped feed, dress, bathe and entertain the youngsters, doing the thousand small things which make life more palatable for the severely handicapped.

In the afternoons they attended classes under a registered nurse and a psychologist. Subjects ranged from anatomy, physiology, and child psychology to techniques of behavior modification.

Before graduation each student took the Michigan and federal civil service tests for nurse assistants.

One of the trainees said of the tests: "They were so simple, it was almost insulting."

Because of their successful completion of the course, nine trainees have been granted special early paroles.

Peggy Bare, 19, youngest in the class, left DeHoCo this week.

She will start next fall as an assistant in her hometown school district program for the mentally retarded.

She sat at the luncheon table after receiving her diploma from Thad E. Diebel, dean of applied sciences, Schoolcraft College.

"I wish my mother could have been here. She'd be so proud," she said tearfully.

Ann Painter, another trainee, was elected by her fellow students to give the valedictorian address.

She stood tall and poised behind the lectern speaking without notes on the thoughts she put together over three weeks.

She spoke of desperation, of hearing the song with the words, "light just one little candle," of children who don't know what it is to be able to use a spoon...and of love.

"Love has no color. It knows no boundaries."

She paused for a slight moment before she concluded, "You see, we needed a little hope, too. This has been a blessing to all of us. Many thanks and God bless."

Myrna Fowler, 43, oldest of the trainees, hugged her friends looked at a visitor standing nearby and said, "You have no idea what it's like — you couldn't know. We've needed this for so long. If we had had it earlier, I never would have been back again."

With both hands she held the slim little diploma close to her heart. "It makes you feel so good inside."

Another program of the same kind is under way.

Bicycle path along Hines may be 3 years away

There are likely to be bicycle days on the Edward Hines drive for at least one more year. But after that, the special days may be eliminated.

Closure of Hines Drive for bicycle traffic would be unnecessary within the next two years because of plans by the state to pave a bicycle path along part of the drive in Wayne County.

Cyclists could then enjoy pedalling through the park any day of the year without interference from vehicular traffic — unless the path is located on the east side. If this is the case, the prevailing westerly winds will carry exhaust fumes past bicyclists.

Exact construction details for the path aren't finalized yet because the total project won't be built until some time in 1977-78.

The path through Edward Hines Park is among 10 projects costing $2.6 million which have been tentatively approved by the State Highway Commission.

The largest project, by far, is an eight-foot paved path for almost 60 miles to be built in Wayne, Oakland and Monroe counties.

The 60 mile stretch would begin south of Holly, just north of Highland State Recreation area at I-75, and continue south to M-75 at Monroe.

The two-way path would be located some distance from the motor vehicle traffic lanes, but inside the right-of-way fence. Cost of this project is $1.8 million with partial federal funding expected.

The I-275 freeway from Monroe to Holly, when finished, will provide a western bypass of Detroit. Construction of the bicycle path would be tied into construction of the freeway as it progresses northward. Some parts of I-275 are under construction in the three counties.

The bicycle path will run through Lower Huron Park south of I-94 and through Lower Rouge Park where it will connect with Edward Hines Park at Ford Road. The path will follow the route of I-275 (Haggerty Road) across Hines Park and continue just east of Maybury State Park, now under construction in Northville.

The link from Monroe to I-96 in Farmington Hills will be completed within two years with construction north of I-96 scheduled for the third year. The link north of I-96 will be financed with state funds.

E.V. Erickson, highway commission chairman, says the bicycle path will provide a unique benefit in connecting many existing recreational areas along the freeway corridor and could serve the state's most populous area with a continuous feeder to these recreation areas.

Nine other bicycle path projects are planned for Calhoun, Kalamazoo, Ingham, Mason, Benzie, Roscommon, Grand Traverse, Delta and Washtenaw counties.

The Washtenaw project is a proposed eight-foot paved path along sections of US-12 in Saline for $20,000.

Plymouth area's first residents-- the Indians

MORE ABOUT INDIANS

PLYMOUTH -- When Plymouth was settled in 1825, the number of Indians in the entire Michigan Territory was probably less than 8,000. Prior to that time, Territorial Governor Lewis Cass had negotiated several treaties with the Indians, moving them westward.

Cass believed Indians and whites could not live together. Liquor provided by whites prevented civilization of the red man. Moving the Indians west of the Mississippi was the only way to protect them from degradation caused by the white man's "fire-water."

The Potawatomi who frequented the Plymouth area were originally from Wisconsin. Potawatomi means "firemakers." It alludes to the tribe's establishment of a separate council fire after seceding from the Ojibway, also of Algonquin stock.

Although the Potawatomi fought against the Americans in the Revolutionary War and the War of 1812, there is no record of warfare between Plymouth settlers and Indians.

H.M. Utley reports, however, that the Black Hawk War in 1832 did create a great sensation locally. "All able bodied men were called out, leaving the women unprotected. The presence of Indians and animals made hazards. I often heard my mother tell how the women assembled one night with a kettle of scalding water to scald the first head that thrust itself in the house."

The Black Hawk War was fought in the upper Mississippi valley when the Sac and Fox Indians tried to reoccupy their ceded lands in Wisconsin and Illinois. Their defeat led to further Indian removals beyond the Mississippi.

One of the volunteers in the Black Hawk War was a young lawyer from Illinois, who was elected captain of his company, but saw no fighting. He became the 16th president of the United States -- Abraham Lincoln.

Although the Potawatomi often passed through Plymouth, no Indian village existed at or close to Plymouth when the settlers arrived in 1825. "Nor had there been any there within the memory of the Indians then living," wrote Henry Holbrook, who had the information from an old Ottawa chief named Sagonash. "They either lived several miles farther east toward the Detroit River or farther west nearer Orchard Lake and only passed up and down the Rouge, Raisin and Huron rivers."

Although the Indians had no permanent settlement here, they often visited a hill in Plymouth, apparently an ancient burial site, where they performed religious ceremonies. Holbrook, from whom we have the information, believed the spot had long been used as a sepulcher. Indian bones found on the spot in 1835 were old and crumbling.

In 1837, when he platted the village of Plymouth, Holbrook selected the site for use as a white cemetery, "believing that it should be kept for the future, as it had been in the past, sacred to the memory of those past."

Holbrook does not indicate where the hill was located, but "the Old Presbyterian Cemetery" was in existence in 1838, a year after Holbrook's plat was recorded. It may be that "the hill" is the spot where the First United Presbyterian Church of Plymouth is now located on Church street.

Trees more than 150 years old were on the site in 1835, Holbrook reported. "Arrow heads, flat stones resembling slate, and some clam shells containing red paint were found there. Some skeletons were found on the side of the hill in a sitting position."

"One day about 1835, Indians appeared on the hill -- some 30 or 40 in number -- before a square black stone three feet high, somewhat resembling an altar. This stone remained always on the hill and was called Bab-o-quah. They would recite very solemnly some verses or story, which appeared to be directed by one of their prophets, as though worshipping the Great Spirit."

"They would then smoke a pipe, after which they would proceed on their way. There was a semi-circular growth of huge pines there. I learned years afterward that this was a symbol of one of the Indian gods."

"I learned also that this ceremony took place at stated times of the year but never learned the exact dates nor would Indians talk to me about it. It is likely that the place held a religious meaning to them, and may have been the ossuary of some distinguished chief rather than a regular Indian cemetery, such as existed at Ypsilanti and about five miles west of the present site of Plymouth."

"About 1850, somebody removed the dark slate-like stone which the Indians had used and by that time most of the Indians had been removed to their respective reservations. The last positive memory I have concerning the Indian Memorial Service, or whatever it may have been, was about 1835. It occurred usually in the late afternoon about sun-down or else at sun-rise."

"From the fact that the altar or Stone God was placed within the semi-circular setting of huge pines and from the fact that I had seen bones of what appeared to be earlier Indian remains, it was easy to accept the tradition that this was the resting place of the bones of Old Chief Round Head and possibly his ancestors."

Holbrook said Old Chief Round Head died about 1760. "Chusco, the Ottawa prophet said the bones of Round Head were buried on the hill at Plymouth, but, owing to the fact that the French priests did not want Indians to bury bones in other than ground that they had consecrated, they refused to talk much for fear of the black robes (priests)."

The Indians in the area did not take readily to the customs and religion pressed on them by the white man. An Indian told A.B. Markham that the red men were not pleased with the white missionaries. "He said they were no benefit. It was not useful to learn English or Yankee tricks. He said the missionaries made the Indians clear their lands, make their buildings for them and till their corn, all entirely without pay."

The next column will be about an early settler who became famous in his field.

Mrs. Mack will fill school seat

PLYMOUTH -- Mrs. Shirley Mack, former co-chairman of the school district-wide safety committee, was appointed by the Plymouth Board of Education Monday night to fill the vacancy left by the April 30 resignation of its vice president, Fred Penar.

The board, obviously pleased, unanimously selected Mrs. Mack in a brief one-nomination formality about which Supt. John M. Hoben remarked, "If you think we talked about this in advance, well, you're right."

Mrs. Mack, however, has not filed for election to the board in the June 10 school elections and thereby will be serving only an interim term until she gives up her seat to a newly-elected board member.

NAMED AFTER A CHIEF of the Potawatomi Indians, Tonquish Creek now runs under the central business district of Plymouth. This is the way it looked in 1937 when it ran past the Mayflower Hotel and between the old Ford Motor dealership and today's Cloverdale Ice Cream Store. The creek was piped and covered in 1937.

Schools explain safety millage

By BOB ERICKSON

PLYMOUTH -- A recommended budget for the 4 mill safety program which will come before the voters in Plymouth Community School District June 10 was presented to the school board Monday night.

The budget, presented for the board's information but not yet approved lists four main categories of expenditures which would total $156,000. They include:

- SAFETY DEVICES including overpasses which might be constructed near Bird Elementary School at Ann Arbor Trail and Sheldon Road, Tanger Elementary on Five Mile Road, Gallimore Elementary at Sheldon Road, and Smith Elementary also at Sheldon.

Flashing speed limit signs would be erected near Miller, Bird, Farrand, Starkweather elementary schools and Pioneer Middle School. Flashing school crossing signs would be set up at nine separate locations.

The safety device portion of the package carries an estimated cost of $86,000.

- TWO-WAY BUS RADIOS recommended as of benefit in case of emergency help needed for handicapped students, bus accidents or breakdowns, student emergency illness, and as enabling the bus driver to stay with students in time of emergencies instead of leaving the bus and students to go for help or enabling an incapacitated driver to call for help.

The radio system would cost about $48,000, the report indicates.

- MISCELLANEOUS items totaling $12,000 and including sidewalks and asphalt paths at several schools, construction barriers to halt vehicle traffic near playgrounds at schools, and crossing guard equipment.

- CROSSING GUARD TRAINING PROGRAM to be administered by the police departments. That program would be a three-year program and would include all crossing guards in the district. Its estimated cost is $10,000.

In discussing the proposed safety measures it was noted by board members that, in fact, the improvements listed would cost more than the money which the millage would provide. The overpasses, it was learned, could cost as much as $35,000 each, leaving only $16,000 for the remaining projects.

ORDINANCE NO. 74-5

CITY OF PLYMOUTH MICHIGAN

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND SECTION 5.186, FOOTNOTE (o), ARTICLE XIV, OF CHAPTER 52, ZONING, OF THE CODE OF THE CITY OF PLYMOUTH.

THE CITY OF PLYMOUTH ORDAINS:

Section 1. Section 5.186, Footnote (o), Article XIV of Chapter 52, Zoning, of the Code of the City of Plymouth is hereby amended to read as follows:

5.186 FOOTNOTES.

- The side yard abutting upon a street shall not be less than eight (8) feet when there is a common rear yard. In case of a rear yard abutting a side yard of an adjacent lot, the side abutting a street shall not be less than the required front yard of that district.
- The height of any main building or accessory buildings may exceed the maximum permitted height by one (1) foot for each additional one (1) foot by which the width of each yard exceeds the minimum yard requirement.
- The total number of rooms in a multiple dwelling structure of two (2) stories or less shall not be more than the area of the parcel, in square feet, divided by nine hundred (900). The total number of rooms in a multiple dwelling of over two (2) stories shall not be more than the area of the parcel, in square feet, divided by five hundred (500). Not more than ten per cent (10%) of the units on any given parcel may be of an efficiency apartment type. For the purpose of computing rooms, the following shall control:

Efficiency Apartment Unit - 1 room
One-bedroom Unit - 2 rooms
Two-bedroom Unit - 3 rooms
Three-bedroom Unit - 4 rooms
Four-bedroom Unit - 5 rooms

Plans presented showing 1, 2, or 3 bedroom units and including a den, library, or other extra room shall count such extra rooms as a bedroom for the purpose of computing density.

The area used for computing density shall be the total site area exclusive of any dedicated public right-of-way of either interior or bordering streets.

- In RM Districts the minimum front and rear yards shall be equal to the height of the building, except that where a front lot line abuts a street, one-half the width of the right-of-way of said street may be considered as front yard setback, but in no instance shall any front or rear yard setback be less than twenty-five (25) feet. In all RM-1 and RM-2 Multiple-Family Residence Districts, the minimum amount of usable open space or recreation area per dwelling unit (exclusive of a required front yard, parking areas or driveways) shall be equal to 150 square feet of lot area per bedroom. A balcony or roof sundeck of 50 square feet or greater may be counted toward meeting the minimum amount of open space per dwelling unit. In all RM-1 and RM-2 Multiple Residence Districts, the minimum distance between any two (2) buildings, shall be regulated according to the length and height of such buildings; however, in no instance shall this distance be less than thirty (30) feet. The formula regulating the required minimum distance between two (2) buildings is as follows:

$$S = LA + LB + 2(HA + HHB), \text{ where}$$

S = Required minimum horizontal distance between any wall of building A and any wall of building B or the vertical prolongation of either.

LA = Total length of building A.

The total length of building A is the length of that portion or portions of a wall or walls of building A from which, when viewed directly from above, lines drawn perpendicular to building A will intersect any wall of building B.

LB = The total length of Building B.

The total length of building B is the length of that portion or portions of a wall or walls of building B from which, when viewed directly from above, lines drawn perpendicular to building B will intersect any wall of building A.

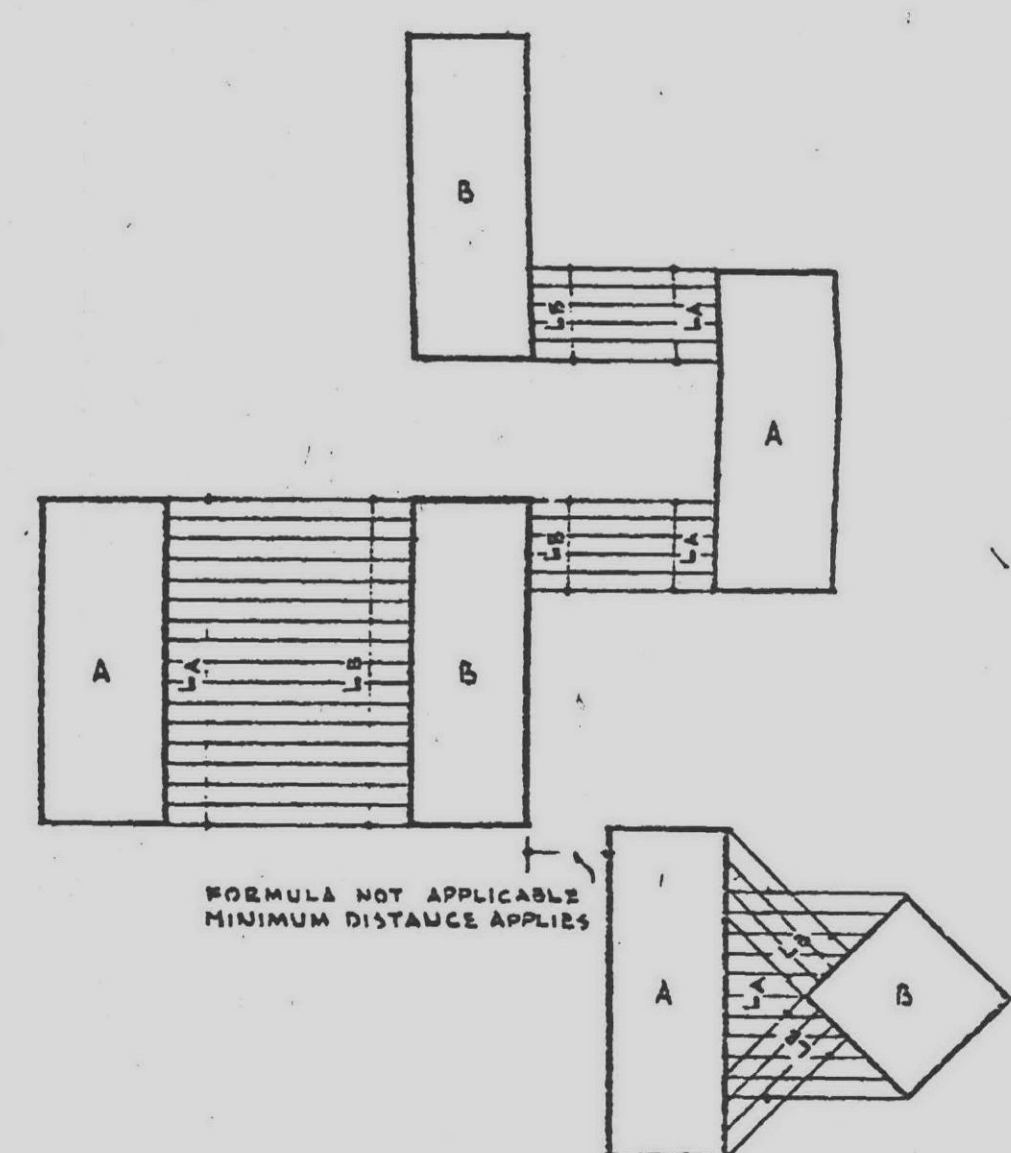

HA = Height of building A.

The height of building A at any given level is the height above natural grade level of any portion or portions of a wall or walls along the length of building A. Natural grade level shall be the mean level of the ground immediately adjoining the portion or portions of a wall or walls along the total length of the building.

HB = Height of building B.

The height of building B at any given level is the height above natural grade level of any portion or portions of a wall or walls along the length of building B. Natural grade level shall be the mean level of the ground immediately adjoining the portion or portions of the wall or walls along the total length of the building.

- Any side or rear yard for a principal use or a special use permitted in this district other than one-family, two-family and multiple-family dwellings, shall not be less than the height of the structure at the side or rear lot line.
- For each story in excess of two (2) stories, a side yard of 2 1/2 feet for each additional story shall be provided, in addition to the minimum ten foot requirement. The distance between buildings on the same lot shall be regulated by the building distance formula specified in paragraph (d) of this section.
- In a block on one side of a street thirty (30%) per cent or more occupied, the depth of the front yard shall not be less than, and need not be more than, the average depth of front yards of existing buildings.
- No side yards are required along the interior side-lot lines, except as otherwise specified in the Building Code. On the exterior side yard which borders on a Residential District, there shall be provided a setback of not less than ten (10) feet on the side or residential street. If walls of structures facing interior lot lines contain windows or other openings, side yards of not less than ten (10) feet shall be provided. The setback shall be measured from the nearest side of the existing and/or proposed right-of-way lines, whichever is greater.
- A four foot six inch (4'6") obscuring wall or fence, or a ten foot wide greenbelt, shall be provided on those sides of the property abutting land zoned for residential use. The greenbelt planting plan shall be reviewed and approved by the Building Inspector in conformity with the requirements of 5.201.

DISTANCE SPACING FOR MULTIPLE DWELLINGS

MIN. DISTANCE BETWEEN BUILDINGS =

$$\frac{LA + LB + 2(HA + HB)}{6}$$

- One-half (1/2) the width of alleys at the rear of the lot may be considered in computing rear yard setbacks.
- Parking shall be permitted in a required front yard.
- A four foot six inch (4'6") obscuring wall or fence and a twenty foot wide greenbelt shall be provided on those sides of the property abutting land zoned for residential use. The planting plan shall be reviewed and approved by the Building Inspector in conformity with 5.201.
- Off-street loading space shall be provided in the rear yard in the ratio of at least one space per each establishment and shall be provided in addition to any required off-street parking area. Off-street loading space shall further meet the requirements of section 5.198, Article XV, "General Provisions."
- The height of any point of structure in this use district when measured above mean street level shall not exceed 1.5 times the sum of the abutting street right-of-way width, plus the distance that the point sets back from the right of way. Street right of way is defined as the average street right-of-way width within the block. On corner properties, the wider of the two abutting street rights of way shall apply but shall not be applicable to abutting alleys. This provision shall not apply to that area classified as B-3-General Business District, which is not designated as a part of the Central Business District in the adopted Central Business District Plan. Structures erected in the Central Business District Area shall be of a commercial and/or professional office use, except that apartment uses shall be permitted above commercial or office uses and in no case shall apartment uses be permitted at grade or below commercial or office uses. Provided further that in certain limited instances (restaurants, etc.) commercial uses may be permitted above apartment uses only after the specific approval of the Planning Commission.
- Building heights permitted under Footnote "O" shall be further limited as follows: where property abuts residential or office districts, "Any side or rear-yard abutting a residential or office district shall be required on a ratio of 1:1 to the height of the structure. In the event that an alley is between this district and the abutting residential or office district, one-half of the width of the alley right of way may be considered in determining compliance with this requirement."

Section 2. This ordinance shall become operative and effective on the 28th day of May A.D. 1974.

Made, passed and adopted by the City Commission of the City of Plymouth, Michigan, this 6th day of May A.D. 1974.

Drivers advised to travel alternate I-75 routes

A 23-mile construction project on I-75 between Birch Run and US-10 near Bay City, which will narrow the freeway to one lane at various times through November, is not expected to seriously affect traffic, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

While some traffic congestion could occur this summer around Bay City and Saginaw, the massive jams which developed last year during the Flint phase of the construction program are not expected.

The construction project, which involves adding a third freeway lane in both directions, is part of a larger program designed to make I-75 three lanes each way from the Ohio line to north of Bay City.

COMPLETION of the entire project, including building a new bridge to carry the freeway over the Saginaw River near Zilwaukee, is set for 1978.

The Birch Run to Bay City widening work is scheduled to be finished late this November. A 21-mile section between Flint and Birch Run was widened to three lanes last year.

Excluded from the widening project is the six-mile section of I-75 between the I-675 freeway which services Saginaw. This portion will be reconstructed and widened when a new high level bridge is built across the Saginaw River at Zilwaukee to replace the existing bridge.

"Although we are not telling motorists to avoid I-75 between Birch Run and Bay City, we are advising them of alternate routes which are longer but free of construction work," explained Joseph Ratke, auto club touring manager.

"Travelers should consider using the alternate routes weekdays only since construction is suspended throughout weekends and from 3 to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday, beginning July 4 through Labor Day," he added.

Ratke pointed out an alternate route might be advisable weekdays only between Memorial Day and July 4 when the freeway begins carrying heavy vacation traffic. Construction continues through the rush hour prior to the Memorial Day weekend.

ALL FREEWAY lanes will be open from noon Friday until Monday morning for northbound traffic and from 6 p.m. Friday to Tuesday morning for southbound traffic.

Work will be suspended on all northbound lanes on days preceding major holiday weekends and on southbound lanes on days following major holiday weekends.

Accelerated work schedules and night work will be used to reduce the time required for completion.

Auto club's suggested I-75 alternate routes around the construction zone include:

- For Southeast Michigan motorists traveling to destinations north of Clare, take I-96 to I-496 at Lansing, connecting with US-27 north to Clare. This adds 11 miles and about 20 minutes traveling time compared with the I-75-US-10 route between Detroit and Clare.

- For motorists traveling between Southeast Michigan and Bay City, plus destinations farther north, exit I-75 at Birch Run (M-54-83), take M-83 north to its merger with M-15, then take M-25 east through Bay City to rejoin I-75 or US-10. This is seven miles longer and add 15 minutes to the normal I-75 route.

- For travelers between southeast

Michigan and Midland or Clare, exit I-75 at Clio-Montrose (M-57) west to M-13, north on M-13 to M-46 in Saginaw, west on M-46 to M-47 and north on M-47 to US-10 at Midland. This is less than one mile longer than the I-75 route but it adds 11 minutes driving time.

- For travelers between southeast Michigan and Saginaw exit I-75 (Genesee Street) at either Birch Run or Bridgeport and follow Dixie Highway (Genesee Street) north into Saginaw. This adds about one mile and five minutes to the normal I-75 route into Saginaw. This route is poorly marked and is difficult to follow. It is not recommended for continuing on to Midland via M-46 and M-47.

Court is asked to alter order upgrading jail

Wayne County Board of Commissioners has asked a three-judge circuit court panel to change three major aspects of its original order for improvements at the county jail.

The board is asking the judicial panel to amend its order requiring enlargement of jail cells, the furnishing of site and construction plans to the court, and the appointment and duties of a jail monitor.

Two of these three areas were appealed to the State Supreme Court which last month turned the case back to Wayne Circuit Court for possible revision of particulars in the plan. The court gave commissioners 30 days to protest details of the panel's order.

THE MAIN objection of the board is that the court was unfair in ordering the jail to meet state and City of Detroit housing codes to determine the number of square and cubic feet of space needed per inmate.

Commissioners argue the jail should be required only to meet the state department of corrections jail facilities code, which would eliminate the circuit court demand that cells be increased by four square feet. The state could allow variances in older jails.

Commissioners maintain existing cells and a recreational area called "the rock" provide each inmate with at least 108 square feet of space, "more than twice that required by any code," for at least 15 hours each day.

THE BOARD'S attorney has asked the corrections commission for waivers on the cell size. That request may be heard May 15.

The board's attorney also is authorized to object to the panel's order to provide site and construction plans to the circuit court because state statutes already require submission of such plans to the corrections commission.

Commissioners want changes in duties of the jail monitor appointed by the court to oversee progress of the board on the improvements. The judicial panel has been asked to require the jail monitor to file appropriate reports with the board, and allow commissioners the chance to dispute the monitor's fees which the court now requires the board to pay without question.

A progress report recently submitted to the supreme court listed some $3.5 million in jail improvements. Commissioners maintain that the improvements ordered by the judges have been 99 per cent completed.

The drivers who litter may have to clean up

A recent amendment to Michigan's anti-litter law is designed to deter litterbugs who dirty the state's landscape.

The new law raises the maximum fine for littering from $100 to $400. It retains the maximum 90-day jail sentence.

Another provision declares the driver of a vehicle or vessel responsible for litter which is thrown, dropped, dumped, deposited, placed or left from the vehicle on public or private property or waters.

In any proceeding for a littering violation, the registered owner of the vehicle or boat from which the littering is shown to have taken place is presumed to have been the driver.

The law still empowers judges to sentence litterers to a period of litter pick-up in lieu of a fine or jail sentence or both.

State police are now enforcing the new law which went into effect March 29 and expect to increase the number of arrests and convictions for littering.

Last year state troopers made 376 arrests for littering resulting in 236 convictions. Even when adding in the arrests by local lawmen, the total is small in comparison to the millions of unreported acts of littering, police report.

The state highway department expects to spend about $1.25 million for litter-gathering along the 9,250 miles of state highways this year. It is estimated that some 60 per cent of the total is spent on paper containers, bottles, cans and other trash tossed or dumped along state highways by litterbugs.

Esch encouraged by VP hearing

Rep. Marvin Esch (R-Ann Arbor) says he is encouraged by the initial response at a recent public hearing to his proposal to reform the vice presidential nomination process.

Esch, whose 2nd District includes Livonia and Plymouth, says he is optimistic about prospects for reform.

"When I formally unveiled the proposal at a public hearing, the members of the proceedings in the convention subcommittee of the Republican National Committee's Rule 29 Committee framed a number of very cogent questions.

Rehearing slated on gas rate hike

A hearing will be held in the Law Building, Lansing, beginning 9:30 a.m. May 17 by the Michigan Public Service Commission (MPSC) on requested rate hikes for the sale of gas by Consumers Power Company.

The MPSC had granted authority for the rate increase on Jan. 18 but is, on request, conducting a partial rehearing.

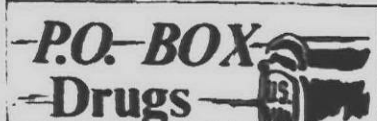

The commission has limited its rehearing to the following topics of consideration:

The most equitable distribution of gas costs among various classes of service in view of the costs of incremental gas supplies and limited availability of gas.

Availability of and price of alternative fuels and feasibility of conversion; and.

A determination whether Consumers Power Company's cost of gas adjustment clause should operate to pass through changes in the calculated cost of gas to various classes of customers as a result of any changes in the design of its rates.

The commission hopes to make a final decision on the rate increase by Sept. 1. The hearing is open to the public.

Bosche joined Ex-Cell-O in 1973 and before that was director of research and development for Cadillac Plastic & Chemical Co. He earned a BS in mechanical engineering from Washington University, St. Louis, and is a registered engineer.

Sr. Danatha is honored

Sister Mary Danatha, president of Madonna College, Livonia, was one of three presidents of independent colleges who were honored for outstanding service at the recent annual meeting of the Association of Independent Colleges and Universities of Michigan (AICUM).

AICUM's board adopted resolutions paying tribute to the trio for their "outstanding services in the interests of the association and of all independent higher education."

Madonna sets summer rates

High school students with high grade point averages may attend Madonna College this summer at reduced rates. Dual credit for college and high school will be granted for introductory college courses.

High school students could graduate early under this program, which is also open to college students for transfer credit to other schools.

American government, a state-required course for high school graduation, will be offered Mondays, Tuesdays and Thursdays, from June 3 to July 3, from 4 to 7 p.m. Other courses include introduction to chemistry, communication skills, metric system, social problems and individualized programmed French and Spanish.

Fee for high school students is $10 per credit hour, plus fees. Regular rate is $35 per credit hour. Most courses are four semester hours and will meet three times a week from mid-June through July.

Registrations will be accepted at Madonna through June 1.

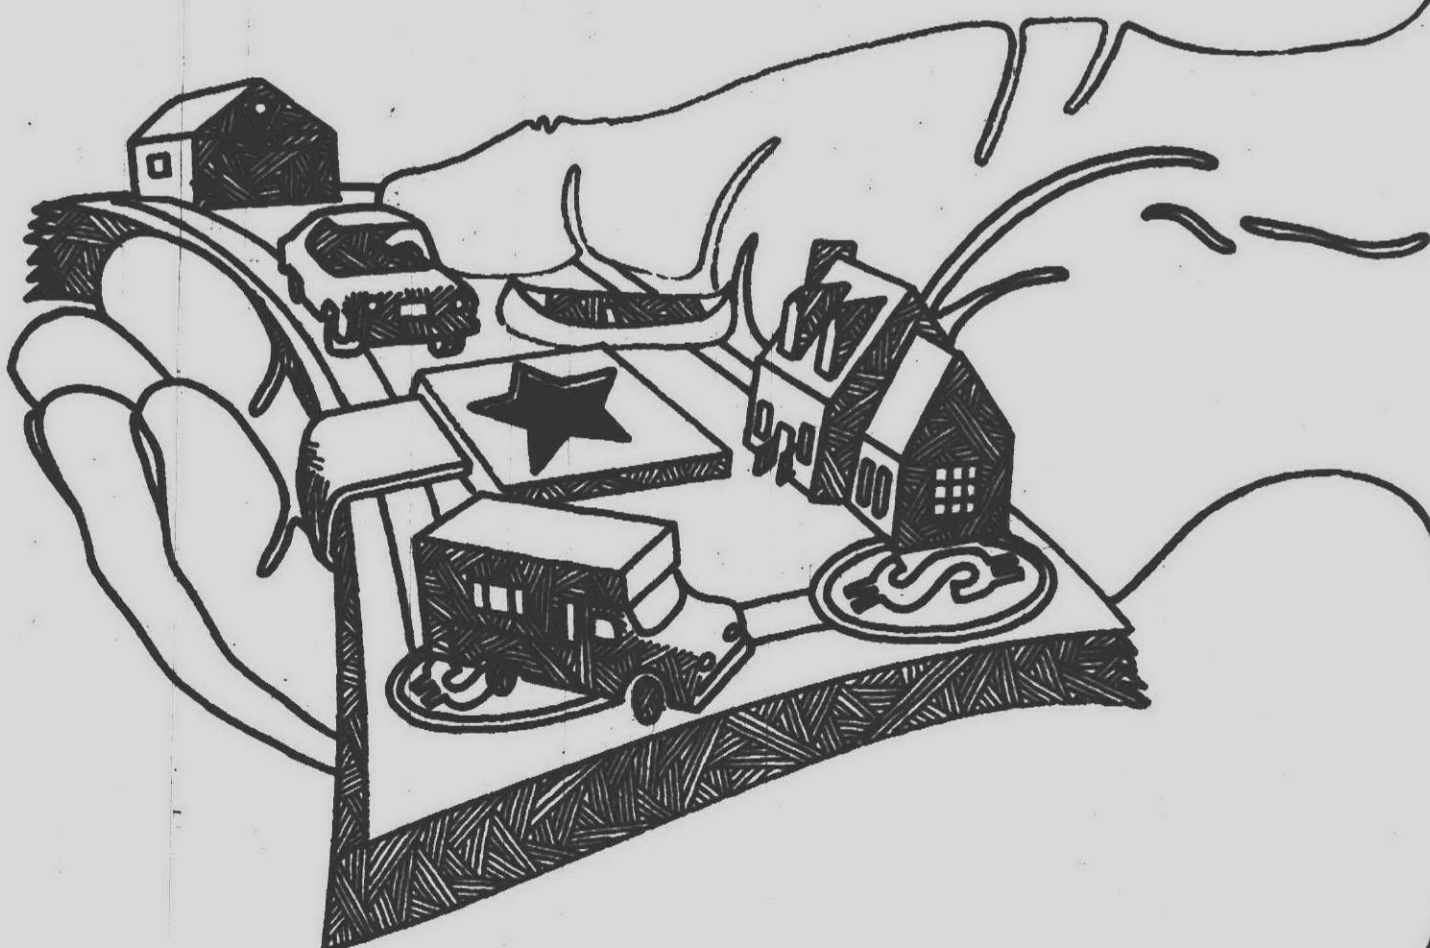

S.O. KEEL of Livonia has been appointed manager of national accounts for Rockwell-Standard Groub, Rockwell International in Troy. He will be responsible for communication with major customers in the trucking industry. Keel has a BA from Western Reserve University and joined Rockwell International in 1965 after eight years with Detroit Diesel Engine Division of General Motors where he had been zone sales manager, sales training manager, and general manager of branch and dealer administration in a tri-state area.

Sabin joins Holcroft Co.

Holcroft and Co. of Livonia has appointed Darrel B. Sabin as marketing representative for the company's aluminum processing furnaces in the U.S.

Sabin has served as project engineer for heat processing equipment for both Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical Corp. and Martin-Marietta Aluminum Corp. Sabin also held the position of special operations engineer for the surface combustion division of Midland-Ross Corp. for 11 years.

Memorial Day -- or a long weekend?

'Tis sad to think how much times have changed since the days of our childhood. Especially sad this particular month when plans are being made for the annual Memorial Day programs.

Back when we were youngsters, Memorial Day was one of the biggest celebrations of the entire year, a day when folks halted their daily chores and took time out to pay tribute to the dead heroes of past wars.

The theme then just as now was "Lest We Forget" and particular efforts were made to assure the graves of every soldier, sailor or marine hero of any war were marked with flags.

Coming from a small Ohio city, as we did, it was a tradition to have a lengthy parade from the downtown business section to the only cemetery where appropriate services were held. It was a solemn occasion in which the few survivors of the Civil War and the Spanish American War rode in

LEST WE FORGET...
TO REMEMBER!

R. T. Thompson writes cars and were saluted by the hundreds of Boy Scouts who stood at attention at the entrance to the cemetery.

Then followed hundreds of veterans from World War I, all dressed in their uniforms and anxious to pay tribute and honor to the military heroes of other wars.

Those of us who participated in the Memorial Day parades of that time never forget them; neither did any of the marchers.

NOW ANOTHER Memorial Day is ahead of us, but the celebration will be only a mere shadow of that of so many years ago. Even the day has been changed by the Congress to the last Monday in May, assuring all of a long holiday weekend but not assuring any community of a "Lest We Forget" parade and program.

The story is entirely different today. These are modern times, and the military heroes have been forgotten, forgotten by all but their buddies in the various veterans organizations, and many of them have reached an age where they no longer are able to march. But pride keeps them from admitting it.

Veterans from the great Civil War and the Spanish-American War have long since left these shores. We remember there were millions of veterans from World War I, a hilarious group for years after their return home, and they kept the Memorial Day tradition going at an extra high level.

But these WWI vets are rapidly fading from the scene. After all, the war ended in 1918 and that's something like 56 years ago. It means that all are well into their 70s and should be honored guests at the annual celebration since there aren't many years left for them.

Then there are the veterans from World War II who should have taken over the chores left by their buddies from WWI. However, the feeling of the WWII returnees was never the same as that of earlier wars, and as a result Memorial Day celebrations are gradually slipping aside.

Seems like there are always wars with returning veterans to keep traditions alive such as the Korean War and Vietnam, but Memorial Day doesn't have the feeling anymore. It is a long holiday and apparently not one for reviving sad memories of the past.

THAT'S WHY IT seems a shame to see such a once-revered national holiday fade, and fade it has. There was a time a few years back when Plymouth had one of the most colorful, yet solemn celebrations in the entire area. It was marked by Spanish-American War veterans, marchers from the Veterans of Foreign Wars with men's and women's drill units and a color guard, the American Legion, Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts, a couple of school bands with representatives from the Gold Star Mothers and similar groups.

There were ceremonies at Kellogg Park and a complete program which attracted a large crowd. It was a real honest-to-goodness Memorial Day celebration, one the city and community was proud of.

The years have taken their toll, and the current programs are a far cry from those of the not too distant past. The drill teams and the color guard have disbanded, the traditional ceremony of dropping wreaths into the Rouge River for the sailor dead has vanished, and the marching groups are getting smaller and smaller each year.

Livonia is making big plans for a major Memorial Day parade and celebration this year for the simple reason it will be dedicating the new Veterans Park at the intersection of Farmington and Five Mile Roads.

But despite the fact the Allied Veterans Council is behind the planning, there still is need for more marching units to make it a parade suitable for such an occasion. Two high school bands, from Bentley and Churchill, will participate.

All of which brings to mind the question: Why shouldn't all four Livonia high schools have their musicians in the procession? What's wrong with other civic and service groups joining in? After all, this is a program to pay honor and tribute to the men and women who lost their lives fighting to keep this country free. Is it asking too much to have communities give up a portion of one day each year to say to the long departed heroes, "No, we haven't forgotten"?

CELEBRATIONS ARE also being planned in Garden City, Westland and Redford Township, but none reaches the level of Livonia or Plymouth.

Why can't we all settle down on Memorial Day and reflect back over the years, think of the loved ones who didn't return from the various conflicts, think of the thousands of families across the land for which this day has a real meaning? ... Let's try to make that a meaning for all of us.

Upton: Full steam ahead with pioneer visions

Freeways and the automobile made the suburbs possible, but it was their educational systems which enabled them to grow and prosper. For if the car gave inner city families the mobility to live in one place and work in another, it was the excellence of the suburban system that gave them a powerful impetus to move.

And when the history of the suburbs in Detroit is finally written, I suspect that in addition to the anecdotes about the early city fathers and aggressive land developers, we will find the crucial influence of school people — subtle, shadowy, yet always pervasive. Indeed, I have a notion that one of the key factors in determining whether a particular suburb grew and prospered was the quality of the school system.

This column is about one of the schoolmen who made these suburbs: Rolland Upton, "Ron" to nearly everybody who has known him for more than five seconds, who retires at the end of June as superintendent of the Livonia School District.

BUT THIS is also about one of the most remarkable men I have ever met, so filled with wit and wisdom, so driven by good will and dedication to children, that when he walks into a room you get the feeling that the ceiling has risen about six inches.

Observation Point

by PHILIP H. POWER

He worked for Livonia School District for more than a decade, as a superintendent and business manager who ran a $40 million-plus operation with an iron hand, as a labor negotiator who could hang tough right down to the strike deadline and afterward retain the respect and even affection of the union leadership, as a politician who deployed teachers and parents in unceasing and Machiavellian maneuvers to get millages passed, as a visionary who urged building an auditorium in Livonia to make the city the national center for performing theater arts for children.

In the sea of gray, colorless school officials who inhabit our state, he was an outsize, blazing splash of color.

One day after the school rules on hair length were relaxed and he was getting much heat from one of the coaches, Upton bought a shoulder length black wig. He put it on, buzzed for the stubborn coach to come into his office, whirled around on his chair, and grinned "Get the point?" at the startled and crestfallen man.

He went to Chicago on a convention with some members of the school board. Standing high in the hotel with one of the members who had clashed with him repeatedly over the years, Upton turned innocently and remarked: "Please don't jump. They'd never believe me back home."

SUCH AN unchained wit, when coupled with a driving determination to make the school system the focal point of the community, made him enemies.

But I think it was his considerable intellectual honesty which made him charge full steam ahead in behalf of causes he believed in, rather than take what might have been the more effective, if less direct, more stealthy approach.

His challenge — and perhaps his greatest legacy — was to build the school system to meet the surging population growth of the district. Of the four high schools in Livonia, three were built under his direction; at one time, the school system was building an average of two classrooms per week, just to keep up with growth. He needed results, quickly, to meet the needs; his methods got the results.

"In the sea of gray, colorless school officials who inhabit our state, Ron Upton was an outsize, blazing splash of color."

But his contributions go farther. He was a prime mover in the capital fund campaign to build the Family Y. He was instrumental in getting the city's youth employment and drug commission programs into action.

He made his community sit up, take notice and get action. In so doing, he made liars out of those who claim that the suburbs are homogenized masses of mediocrity.

I'll miss him, and when I think of him in years to come I'll remember one of his lines: "He who laughs, lasts."

Sales: The forgotten career

and either solved his problem or coughed up a refund, you are never the same again.

A salesman is also more than a link in the productive chain. He is the company personified. Every bit of criticism (of, more rarely, praise) a customer has about the design, construction, decoration or servicing of a product gets dumped on the salesman.

WHAT MAKES a salesman good? Ability to get along with the public. Ability to inspire trust. Belief in the product he sells.

While it's true that a salesman can sell many types of products, it doesn't follow that he can sell everything. A good lumber salesman who doesn't believe in insurance will never be able to switch to insurance.

Or a salesman who can sell a fleet of trucks to a cement company may not be the type to sell a little old lady a sedan. Individuals' personalities are a factor.

Selling is like any other occupation. You meet a few bums — just as you might meet a few bums in TV repairs or broadcasting or interior decoration — and it tends to color your attitude toward all of them. You forget the genuinely good salesman who helped you select just the right product or who quit pressuring you when he could see you just weren't in the mood.

Myself, I can sell about as well as I can analyze the chemical content of plastics. Nevertheless, I think sales is a true career and ought to be recognized and honored as such.

Clip this column for your scrapbook, because it may be the last time I say something nice about salesmen.

Kelley picks on Michigan Bell

EDITOR:

I am an employee of Michigan Bell Telephone Co. and what I am going to say reflects not only my sentiments but those of other thousands of telephone workers, craft and management alike.

In Lansing we have an attorney general that is attempting through distorted and misleading statements to influence the Michigan Public Service Commission to either dismiss, or drastically reduce, Michigan Bell's recent request for a much-needed $111 million rate increase.

For reasons unknown to us telephone workers, Frank Kelley is carrying on a personal vendetta against all of the state's major utilities, and in so doing he is grossly affecting our personal lives. In his misguided campaign of recent years to force utility earnings to the lowest possible level, he has failed to visualize the long range consequences to the economy of this state. He is a major factor in the depressed earnings not only of Michigan Bell but of all other major utilities in the state.

Michigan Bell has reported that its profit level so far this year has dropped to 6.6 per cent compared with the 7.87 per cent return on net plant investment approved by the commission documents.

Interest charges on money it has borrowed to finance construction are higher than 6.6 per cent, thus making such a profit level clearly confiscatory. Michigan Bell has further pointed out that, despite three rate increases in the last four years, its return for 1973 was lower than in 1968 when the current found of rate requests started.

Michigan Bell, in its latest request April 23, supported its position with hundreds of pages of evidence, testimony and other documents. Yet within three hours of delivery of the copies of the documents to the attorney general's office, Kelley filed a 20-page motion to dismiss the company's application. Obviously the time interval permitted no consideration whatsoever of the merits of the company's case.

Michigan Bell has asked for an overall rate of return of 9.58 per cent, which includes a 12.4 per cent return on the equity (common stock) portion of its investment.

As a comparison, the commission granted General Telephone of Michigan, the state's second largest communications company, a 12.75 per cent equity return in 1971 and recently approved a return of 12.12 per cent for both Detroit Edison and Consumers Power.

Parents spoil their brats

EDITOR:

For days I have been asking myself why do adults have to be so inconsiderate of others. This question has plagued my mind ever since becoming a homeowner. I have also found from experience that these same adults raise inconsiderate, ill-mannered, spoiled brats, and that they consider themselves good neighbors.

Why don't these good neighbors try keeping their dogs from barking at night and in the early morning hours?

Why do they allow their children to own the loudest mini bikes or motorcycles in the area? After the purchase, why do they send the kids to vacant fields, away from their homes, to raise hell?

Why don't parents raise their children to respect other people and their property? Haven't they ever realized that people don't always like to have children continually cutting through their yard? Would you like your yard to look like old Indian trails?

Please don't say, "Ask the children not to cut through, ask them to go down to the end of the street and cut across." This has been done, but alas, to no avail. I don't think they understand English.

The ones that do understand — well, you should hear the language that comes from those little mouths. Signs have also been posted telling them to keep out. They were torn down the next day.

You can't say anything to these little angels for fear of retaliation. Believe me, they do retaliate.

Whatever happened to the rod across the backside or hand across the mouth? Whatever it is our children of today are being taught, it is not to be polite, courteous and considerate to and of other people and their property. I am not saying all children and teenagers are bad, but I certainly know very few good ones.

The blame, I feel, should be placed upon the parents. After all, if a child does not respect his parents, how can he respect himself or others? Children do, regardless of Dr. Spock's theory, need discipline. If you don't love your children enough to discipline them, whatever heartache they bring upon you is your own doing.

Money counts, morals don't

EDITOR:

"Eccentricities" eccentric Hank Hogan may think he struck a blow for "freedom of choice" in his column criticizing the Wayne Circuit Court, which ordered the closing and pad-locking for a year of several movie houses showing films which the court ruled pornographic.

Three cheers for the courageous judge who presided over that court, even though he invited insults and ridicule.

It seems that as long as anything makes money, it's a constitutional right and mustn't be interfered with, no matter how harmful it may be.

Mr. Hogan is defending these theaters simply because the court decided they were showing pornographic films and he "objects strenuously when other people tell me what is good or bad for me." That doesn't sound like mature reasoning to me. What about his conscience that is supposed to guide him to good, not away from it? Rights are not designed to allow immoralities, just as laws are not designed to take away your rights.

The interpretation of the law by any court should not further the destruction of the morals of the public, any more than it can prevent immorality.

As for "these little old ladies in tennis shoes" (over 40 I presume, as you state, many people over 40 have been brought up under a "puritanical, Victorian, prudish morality"), you warn us that if they set the standards the rest of us are deprived of free choice. Granted no one is forced to attend theaters that show dirty movies, you don't have to take poison either but if you choose to do so, beware the effect!

Don't insult the little old ladies or their little old men friends will write you letters, too!

I'd suggest Mr. Hogan replace the photo of himself. It makes him look dangerously "over 40"!

MRS. C.L. KOPS, Plymouth

Board declares intent for vote on executive

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners has officially declared its intention to place a proposal for an elected county executive on the ballot in the November general election.

Gribbs to run for judgeship

Roman S. Gribbs, former mayor of Detroit, has announced his candidacy for one of five new Wayne County Circuit Court judgeships to be filled in a fall election.

In making the announcement, Gribbs said he has enjoyed his return to law practice but misses the challenge of public service.

"Many of our society's most urgent problems are before the courts. I believe that my experience in government and as a trial attorney qualifies me to aid in their solution."

Before becoming Wayne County Sheriff and later Detroit Mayor, Gribbs was a practicing attorney for 19 years, including 12 years as a trial attorney. He served as an assistant prosecuting attorney in Wayne County for nine years and was a traffic court referee for two years.

Managers to hear equal opportunity director tonight

The deputy director of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) will speak to the Detroit Management Association tonight (Thursday) in the Engineering Society of Detroit, Woodward at Farnsworth, Detroit.

Alvin Golub will speak on "New EEOC Priorities."

Tickets to the 5:30 p.m. dinner meeting are $7 for members and $8 for non-members.

Golub, an economist and industrial relations specialist, became deputy director of the EEOC in 1972. He is in charge of the commission's 32 field offices.

Doll, pet parade will be Saturday

Wonderland Center will hold its annual doll and pet parade Saturday, May 18, beginning at noon. Youngsters are invited now to preregister their favorite dolls and pets.

Trophies and prizes will be awarded in 12 categories: dolls: most unusual and best dressed; cats: best of show; most unusual pet; best of show and most unusual pet; dogs 25 pounds and under: best of show; dogs 25 pounds and over: best of show; dogs: waggiest tail, best trained, saddest face, most spots, shaggiest; pets: best in costume, pet and owner or pet only; pedigree best groomed cat and pedigree best groomed dog.

Jeffrey Travis, manager of the Michigan Humane Society North, will emcee the event which features a panel of Livonia city officials as judges.

Commissioners recently voted 15-7 to declare that intention. The board later will adopt a resolution actually placing the matter on the ballot.

The motion of intent was adopted to satisfy proponents who were worried that delay until November was merely a stalling tactic to defeat the proposal entirely.

Mrs. Mary Dumas (R - Livonia) had asked for a vote in the August primary and was worried that between now and November opponents of an elected county executive might sway the board against holding a November vote. The declaration of intent apparently will satisfy proponents that the proposal will go on the ballot in 1974.

The general election was recommended by the general government committee of the board to give the Legislature time to amend portions of the pertinent state act.

The committee expressed belief that anticipated amendments to Act 139 of 1973 will result in a proposal which will meet objections raised previously by the UAW, AFL - CIO, and Wayne County elected officials.

State given changes asked by county for executive bill

A request for changes in state law to allow Wayne County to place on its November general election ballot the question of creating an elected county executive has been submitted to the legislature.

Proposed amendments were submitted jointly by State Sen. Carl Pursell (R - Plymouth) and Robert E. FitzPatrick, chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

THE BOARD earlier had voted to ask for changes in the legislation after spokesmen for the AFL - CIO, UAW and other county elected officials protested that the new enabling law (PA 139 of 1973) was "vague and confusing."

FitzPatrick's proposal to Pursell, whose district includes Livonia and Redford, included two changes in the law to meet objections of opponents.

One would safeguard powers of elected county officials and the other would enable county road commissioners to perform personnel and labor relations functions with employees in their jurisdiction rather than grant this power to a new department of personnel and employee relations.

The major change proposed by FitzPatrick would enable the county board of commissioners to place the question of whether to create the office of elected county executive on the general election ballot in November.

AS ENACTED, the law requires the issue be placed on a primary ballot and candidates for nomination to the office run concurrently with the vote on the issue. Special elections are also possible.

The change proposed would add a fourth option for counties to offer voters as a means of strengthening administrative procedures in county governments.

Initially, commissioners could submit for voter referendum either of Richard E. Manning (D - Redford), vice-chairman of the committee, says one pending amendment would permit the placing of the question of whether the executive office should be created on the ballot without a concurrent primary election for the post.

That would make it possible to create the post in 1974, then fill it in the next regular countywide election in 1976. This would eliminate the need for a later special election if the proposal were approved in November.

Another member of the committee, Brian Arrowsmith (R - Canton Township), expects the act will be amended to clearly establish the functions and powers of the elected officials, the board of commissioners, and the elected county executive.

The board's legal counsel has advised that another resolution actually placing the question on the ballot will have to be adopted within 90 days of the Nov. 5 election.

At the commissioners' recent meeting, Mrs. Dumas tried to amend the resolution to place the proposal on the August ballot, but her motion was defeated by a vote of 18-4.

two alternatives — a proposal for an elected county executive or one for a county manager appointed by the board of commissioners.

An amendment passed last month, and awaiting the governor's signature, would enable counties to submit simultaneously both alternatives for vote and to then initiate the alternative that receives the highest number of votes. Under this procedure, candidates elected for county executive would run for nomination concurrently with the vote on the issue.

Commissioners have expressed a desire for an election on the issue separate from the primary election of candidates and that this be on general election day because it would provide the largest voter turnout on the question.

Party planned by new group for children

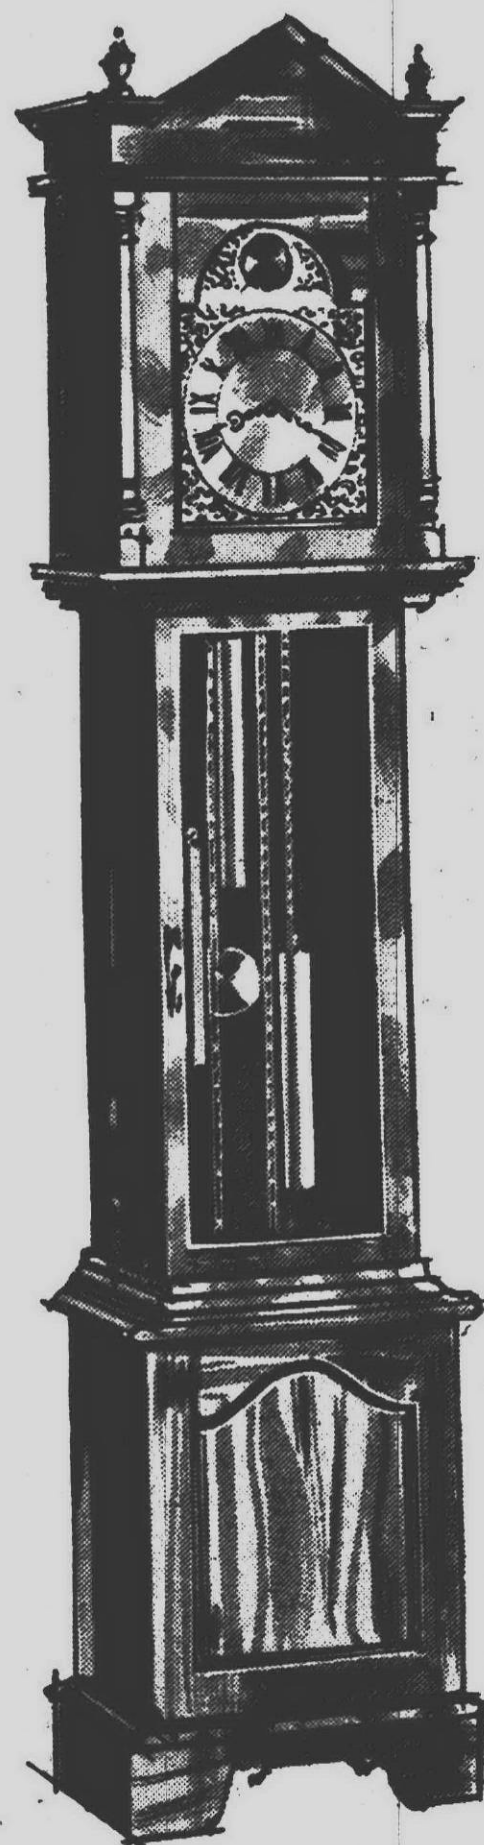

WESTLAND — The newly organized Michigan Humane Society for Children will hold a party Sunday evening to mark the formation of the group which has many western Wayne County persons.

The party, open to the public, will be at 6 p.m. in the home of Peter Narsisian of 6640 Farmington Road, Westland, a board member.

Narsisian said the society is working toward improving parents' awareness of meeting their children's emotional needs.

The society wants to initiate new laws giving children more rights for their emotional needs.

ERA facing different kind of opposition

BY MARGARET MILLER

The Equal Rights Amendment, duly ratified by Michigan and 32 other states, is the center of renewed controversy in this state.

Three questions are being debated, with those supporting the feminist movement taking both sides of each.

The first is whether the ERA will indeed do what it was designed to do — give women in the United States equal protection and equivalent treatment under the law — and do only that.

The second question is whether Michigan's 1972 ratification of the amendment should be rescinded.

The third is whether rescinding is possible.

REP. ROBERT GEAKE (R - Northville) said he expects the matter to come to the floor in the Michigan legislature during the next few legislative days.

And if it does, he's not sure what his action will be, he said.

"Since Michigan's ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment in 1972," Geake explained, "a number of constitutional authorities have stated they believe there will be unintended side effects of passage that would be detrimental to women."

"These include the draft and combat duty, compelling women to go to work to support lazy or indigent husbands, and integration of public toilet facilities."

GEAKE SAID that because of these expressed reservations, Rep. Josephine Hunsinger (D - Detroit) had inroduced Joint Resolution FF, calling for rescinding of the state's ratification.

"However, constitutional experts do not agree on whether a state can rescind ratification," he added.

The House committee on constitutional revision and women's rights voted last week, Geake said, not to report the bill out.

"That means it will remain bottled up in committee unless discharged by a two-thirds vote of the full House," he went on.

"Anti-ERA forces now are campaigning for such a vote, and I've received a lot of mail from Livonians, about equally divided on both sides of the question."

The legislator said he is not clear, at the present time, "how the majority of the people in my district want to be represented on this issue."

"UNTIL VERY recently I have been a supporter of ERA in the belief that its principal effect would be to provide equal job opportunity and equal pay for equal work for women," he stated.

"Now I am not sure sure what the eventual effect of passage of the amendment would be in our country."

Geake said opponents of ERA in the House of Representatives can move at any time during the current calendar year to bring about a vote forcing the resolution out of committee "and I expect such a move to be made in the next seven to 10 legislative days."

THE PROBLEM in determining the best course of action, Geake said, is that "everyone knows what he wants the amendment to do, but people can't agree as to what effect it will have."

He added Congresswoman Martha Griffiths (D - Detroit) is one of those who "does not believe the adverse consequences predicted by its opponents would occur."

He mentioned a Yale law professor and Michigan Attorney General Frank Kelley as being on opposite sides of the discussion as to whether rescinding is legal.

Prof. Charles L. Black was quoted as saying in the Congressional record May 8 of this year:

"I warmly favor ERA. I'm strongly for it. But I'm opposed to such 'micky mouse' tactics as claiming that, once a state has ratified the amendment, it's locked in forever as in a lobster trap."

"Clearly, a state can change its mind either way before the amendment is officially declared to be ratified."

Geake said Kelley "recently issued an opinion that called any effort to rescind the Michigan ratifying of ERA a 'futile gesture.'"

He said Kelly held that "the U.S. Constitution provided the process for ratifying amendments to the Constitution but does not provide for the process of rescinding ratification."

Ratification by five more states is needed to add to the 33 now on the books to make the Equal Rights Amendment part of the Constitution.

SURVIVAL SKILLS

They might involve learning about cars

"My car is less mysterious to me now — thanks for offering the course."

The comment came from one of more than 100 women who in the last couple of months have spent three evenings in a Livonia tire store learning a bit more about what goes on under the hood of their automobiles.

And, in varying phrase, practically all who have attended two car clinics sponsored by the Firestone store at Plymouth and Middle Belt roads, voiced like reactions.

THE STORE'S THIRD Car Care Clinic, with more than 90 women enrolled, began this week.

After its three Tuesday sessions, said store manager Coleman Allmond, the staff will be through with instruction in the spring, but more classes in the fall are a definite possibility if there are requests.

"Our idea is to make the information available to all who are interested," he said.

CAR CARE CLINICS began in the store early in March after Joe Wuersch, former manager, decided he wanted to offer women in the area a little more knowledge so they could understand what might go wrong with their cars and deal more effectively with service people.

Wuersch wasn't quite sure how much interest there would be in his offer of three evenings of free instruction.

He found out in a hurry after the plan was announced in this newspaper. By the dozens, women called or stopped in to say they would like to come.

By the time Wuersch had completed his first series in March, he had been promoted to another post in the Firestone and Allmond took over. He scheduled and has headed the April and May series.

THE COURSES, with three evenings each running from 7 to 9:30 or later, have fallen into a format now.

"The first evening we talk about suspension and front end systems and the care and maintenance of tires," Allmond said. "We have a film on the suspension system for that evening."

"The second session is devoted to shock absorbers, tire construction and brakes. The subjects for the third class are ignition, the electrical system, fuel and engines, and the cooling and exhaust systems."

Each evening, in perhaps the most popular part of the course, a couple of cars are volunteered for inspection, both to give them a safety check and to point out things mentioned in the films and lectures.

"We try to get different styles and makes of cars for that part," Allmond said.

"HOW CAN YOU TELL when your brakes are going bad" and "Do you increase tire pressure in the summer?" were a couple of the questions in one evening session.

They were answered completely and carefully.

Women attending voiced enthusiastic comments.

"The mechanics have been most helpful," said Mary Klebeck of Livonia. "They don't act as if our questions are foolish."

Millie Martin of Redford Township said she was taking the course in the interest of being a more informed consumer. "We should be doing that in all fields."

Lois Carmichael and Pat Beck, also of Redford Township, said they wanted to be better informed because now that there are few gasoline stations open at night, there's less chance for help then.

And Gretchen Barber of Livonia was pleased with the course because "my husband does a lot of work on cars and now I'm there with him and can talk more intelligently."

WOMEN WHO HAVE TAKEN the course were asked to make comments.

A few suggested exams each week "because then we would have to review and it would stick better in our minds."

They also indicated they would like more time in the shop.

The most frequently expressed wish, for more extensive training and a longer course, isn't within the capacity of the local store, Allmond said.

"I wish we could do that, but we'd just have to get too technical," he said.

Maybe the taste of car knowledge will send a few lady scholars to mechanics' school.

Or maybe simple home repairs

If you know a little about those absolutely essential gadgets in your home like faucets and sinks and electrical outlets, you may be able to save yourself both grief and money.

That's the theory of James Dalawarak, who is leading a seminar on simple home repairs for the Women's Continuum Program at Schoolcraft College.

A machine lab assistant in the college's technical building, Dalawarak is a good choice to lead the workshop on plumbing and electrical home-front knowhow.

He's done most of the work in building two houses, one of them his home in Farmington Hills, and at Schoolcraft, he says, "everybody comes to me with problems."

WOMEN SHOULDN'T BE AFRAID of tackling small repairs when something doesn't work at home, this handyman believes.

"There's nothing to be afraid of," he said. "If one guy can do it another one can."

"It doesn't require a lot of strength, and if it isn't working anyway you certainly can't do any harm by taking it apart and looking at it."

When taking apart something like a faucet, he pointed out, the big secret is to take each piece off and set it down, keeping the pieces in order and noting how they were assembled.

IN HIS WORKSHOP on plumbing, which was offered May 15 in the Schoolcraft tech building, Dalawarak said he was getting into annoyances like dripping faucets, slow drains and plugged toilets.

The electrical workshop May 22 will include information on how to replace a plug or outlet.

"I'll stress safety in that talk. The important thing is to be sure everything is turned off."

THIS HANDYMAN thinks it rather too bad that "nobody fixes things much anymore."

"They just want to replace anything that goes wrong," he added. "But a lot of times fixing is possible. I've learned by trial and error."

Dalawarak retired from his job at American Standard when the firm moved out of the Detroit area in 1969. After a year of retirement he noticed an ad from Schoolcraft and began his second career.

Spina Bifida symposium set

A day-long symposium including two workshops dealing with the development, handling and care of the Spina Bifida child and the effect and growing processes for the child and family will be offered Saturday, May 18 in Children's Hospital, Detroit.

To begin at 8 a.m., the symposium is co-sponsored by the Spina Bifida Association of Michigan and the Metropolitan Detroit Chapter March of Dimes.

Speakers will address themselves to the areas of care for the newborn and teenagers and the stresses on the families of handicapped children.

Those interested in attending may contact the March of Dimes office, 20100 Greenfield, Detroit.

It's another spring, and my annual battle with the dandelion is in full swing.

Two battles, really. One to convince the family that the dandelion is the enemy and the other to defeat said enemy.

I never win either.

"YOU MEAN YOU'RE GOING TO KILL those pretty yellow flowers?" the man of our house is likely to say as I arm myself with weed-killer.

"We like yellow," his daughters chorus.

"They look so pretty in the grass." Everyone joins in this time.

"I NEVER FEEL AT ALL SURE whether the objection to warfare against the dandelion is purely aesthetic or mainly functional.

Muscle and gardening functions, that is. But as I head out with the weed-killer I look around the yard and wonder whether they're beginning to brainwash me or whether the brainwashing really took place years ago when I grew up to recognize dandelions as blemishes in my parents' lawn.

THEY REALLY DO LOOK kind of pretty there, I actually find myself thinking. And I've always liked yellow. Green and gold even were my college colors.

But then years of conditioning win out and traditional reason returns and I jab viciously at the sturdy plants. Maybe this year is the one when I'll lick them.

That's an illusion, I realize. Nobody can lick those long roots and millions of seeds.

Maybe I'd better give up and become a card-carrying member of the We-Love-Dandelions club.

The widow 'has to fight whole world,' speaker says

BY SHERRY KAHAN

"The widows I've known have guts — they have to fight the whole world."

The speaker was Dr. Virginia VanCoeuvering, a widow who has earned a doctorate studying the problems of other widows, and she was talking about "The Grieving Process" to 30 women attending a seminar arranged by the Schoolcraft College Women's Continuum.

She said everyone should understand grieving to be prepared if it should hit personally, and she outlined the six stages of grief.

"A state of numbness and disbelief and the feeling that it couldn't happen to me characterizes the first stage," she said. "This is quickly followed by the urge to cry."

In this stage the widow may run the gamut of physical problems from shortage of breath and headaches to loss of energy and loss of interest in her appearance, she said, adding:

"She finds it difficult to finish anything. Her resistance to illness drops and occasionally she turns to drugs or alcohol."

In the third stage the woman may find herself in a stage of panic. "This is normal," she counseled. "You can't get your mind off your loss. You think you are losing your mind because you can't think of anything else."

An overwhelming feeling of guilt dominates the fourth stage. The woman wonders why she didn't do more for the deceased.

"In the fifth stage the individual becomes angry," said Dr. VanCoeuvering. "She is hostile because the deceased has left her alone. What have I done to deserve this, she asks herself."

She added, "This feeling may come out in the form of depression. It is especially hard for a woman to lose a husband because even if it is not a perfect marriage, her whole life has revolved around him."

Her hostility can focus on the doctor in charge of her husband's case, a nurse or someone else. "She has to blame somebody,"

"In the sixth stage the woman alters her customary patterns of sociability," Dr. VanCoeuvering said. She doesn't want to see her friends often or go to normal social engagements. She needs to be alone. When she feels well enough she will reach out again," she explained.

At this time the woman often feels the physical presence of her husband in the same room. "It is so realistic the woman again fears she is losing her mind," Dr. VanCoeuvering said.

An active participant in current moves to offer counseling to all widows, Dr. VanCoeuvering had specific advice for the women attending the seminar.

"Don't make any big decisions or moves for at least a year," she suggested. "You may make a poor decision, such as selling the house, before you are well enough to think right."

Your first task is to break the bonds to your husband that keep you from developing as a person. "For a long time you have thought of yourself as somebody's wife and not thought of yourself as a person," she stated. "You have to put your happy memories in a different perspective and then you will be free to live a life of your own."

Decide to live in the future and not in the past. Decide what you can do to make yourself worthwhile, help others and develop into a functioning human being.

Take the energy spent in loving someone and find something or somebody you can give it to. Your biggest tribute to your loved one would be to help make the world a better place.

"Take a job if you feel like it. 'A job is sometimes your salvation,'" she said. A woman in the audience added that "work gives you a sense of self-value."

To those who worry about what to do about a grieving person, how to deal with them, Dr. VanCoeuvering said, "I thought the way to be supportive was to give advice. That is wrong. The best thing you can do is just be there when the person needs somebody."

She continued, "Don't be alarmed if someone cuts you short when you are trying to help. Don't ever tell them to get hold of themselves. Let them cry. Let them talk."

In a study of women in the second and third year of widowhood, Dr. VanCoeuvering learned that one of four widows was emotionally ill by the third year. They stated in her survey that they had anxiety neurosis, depression, insomnia or indigestion.

Their problems cut across income lines and age levels. Younger women, she found have a more difficult time adjusting because few in their peer group are doing the same thing and they have few people with whom they can communicate.

While writing a book on self-help for widows, Dr. VanCoeuvering is also organizing groups of from eight to 15 widows to provide them a vehicle for communication with each other.

"A woman in this position should try to attend a seminar as soon as possible. Communities ought to be setting up such seminars for both widows and widowers as well as other grievers. Children also need some means to work through their grief," she said.

About three quarters of the way through her talk, Dr. VanCoeuvering divided her audience into buzz groups for the purpose of a brief discussion of various facets of the problem to grieving.

One woman used this opportunity to describe what coming to the meeting had meant to her.

"I learned I was not losing my mind when I was grieving," she said. "I always felt isolated in this. Now I know it was normal to go through the stages I went through. Now I know that everyone has her own way of dealing with grief."

Dr. VanCoeuvering will again address those attending the "Alone Again" seminar May 16 at 8 p.m. in the Liberal Arts building at Schoolcraft College. Her topic will be "Preparing For Those Years Alone."

"Raising Children As a Parent Alone" will be the subject of the concluding lecture of this series, May 30. Sally Holmes of Family Services of Metropolitan Detroit and Wayne County will be the speaker.

Armenian club to auction art

The Detroit Women's Metro Chapter of the Armenian General Benevolent Union of America will hold its first major fund raising event on Sunday, May 19.

Formed in 1973, it is the newest chapter of the organization and has a membership of 70 working women who will sponsor "A Most Exciting Art Happening" in the Kinsley Inn, Bloomfield Hills. A champagne preview will begin at 1:30 p.m. The preview of the various art items will enable guests to tag the objects or paintings that appear to them before the auction bidding starts at 2:30 p.m.

Donation is $1 and tickets may be purchased from members of the Metro Chapter or at the inn the day of the auction. Art prizes will be awarded to lucky ticket holders.

Nurses honor graduates

The classes of 1924 and 1949 will be honored Saturday, May 19 by the Providence Hospital Nurses Alumnae Association.

Following the celebration of an anniversary Mass at 10 a.m. in the chapel of Providence Hospital in Southfield, the nurses will meet for breakfast at 11:30 a.m. at the Mercy

College Student Center, 8200 W. Outer Drive.

Guest of honor will be Esther Bushy, former instructor of science, who is now retired in Shelby, Ohio.

Tickets are $4.50 and reservations may be sent to Joan Vanasee Geyer, 19254 Beaverland, Detroit.

Lobby for credit, Esch tells women

By SHERRY KAHAN

U.S. Rep. Marvin Esch (R-Ann Arbor) thinks members of the Livonia Schoolcraft Chapter of the National Organization of Women should pick up their pens and write to Washington on the subject of credit for women.

A bill introduced by Congresswoman Margaret Heckler of Massachusetts favoring equal treatment for women in regard to credit is now locked in the banking and currency committee, Esch explained.

WRIGHT PATMAN, chairman of this committee is not permitting the bill to be reported out.

"I think you gals ought to impact on Wright Patman," said Esch. "Then when I meet him in the hall I can ask him if he noticed all the letters from Livonia on the subject of women's credit."

"This might just pique his interest and cause him to investigate the situation. Something like this may help him get moving."

He also suggested to NOW members meeting for luncheon at Schoolcraft College that they start "nudging" along a bill on rape which is now pending in the house. The bill provides a program for the victims of rape.

"My own views on abortion are under review," reported Esch, suggesting the question ought to be the subject of open hearings in Congress. "I would be interested in hearing your opinions."

Sylvia Vukmirovich, president of the local NOW chapter, called abortion "a necessary evil. I hate to see it used as a birth control method, but am afraid it will be until birth control education is more widespread."

Others in the audience claimed that abortion permitted an individual to have a free choice in determining whether to have children.

TO A QUESTION concerning the extent women will participate in the next Republican convention, Esch said:

"I do not accept the idea of quotas for those participating. Every human being should be judged on his or her own merit."

"I support goals - with goals and affirmative action programs, we can move to reduce discrimination."

Asked about the possibilities of impeachment of President Nixon, Esch said he was "appalled at what the tape transcription revealed."

It is difficult for any of us to condone the attitude in the oval office.

"But I believe I have the responsibility not to prejudge the President. This is a constitutional responsibility. I will base my vote on the facts gathered by the House Judiciary Committee."

A month ago, Esch pointed out, he wrote to the President calling his attention to the fact that "if he didn't comply with the subpoena for the tapes, the committee could cite him for contempt."

Camp Fire Girls dig camp garden

A vegetable garden for and by campers will be begun Saturday, May 18 at Camp Wathana, a camp near Holly, owned and operated by the Camp Fire Girls, Detroit Area Council.

About 150 girls, ages eight through 14, will assemble at the camp to cultivate the ground for their new garden and to plant tomatoes, carrots, lettuce, onions and peppers. The vegetables will be tended by summer campers and the results enjoyed as part of their summer meals.

The garden will be launched at the annual spring cleaning of the camp called the Camp Fire "Mini Mix and Fix." Girls from Oakland, Wayne and Macomb counties will also carry out traditional spring projects such as correction of soil erosion and general tidying up.

They will plant and care for new seedling trees - blue spruce, walnut, tulip - as well as care for seedlings planted in previous years. They will also clear fire circles used for cooking, bonfires and special camp fire ceremonies.

Wayne State University recreation student Cherrie Anderson will present a program during the afternoon. The event will close with a ceremony during which a recognition bead will be awarded each participant. Beads are worn in individual designs on felt vests with Camp Fire service costumes.

Camp Fire families and friends will participate in mix and fix weekends May 24 - 26 and May 31 - June 2 re-

Church Bulletin

ROSEDALE GARDENS UNITED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH will honor members of its six choirs in a choir recognition service at 11 a.m. Sunday, May 19.

Special recognition will be given those graduating from one of the youth choirs and to those who have been members for five or 10 years.

The choirs will be combined into a large Festival Choir that will sing several anthems under the direction of Mrs. Shirley Harden.

WARD UNITED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, Six Mile and Farmington Road, Livonia, will present its six choirs in a gospel music concert Sunday, May 19 at 7 p.m.

Jerry J. Smith, Ward director of music, is in charge of the concert and instrumentalists will include staff musicians Jim Mitchell and Carole Halmekangas.

Joel Lynn Rabias, Ellie Down and Flossie Behler will direct the children's choirs in several songs in new arrangements. The youth choirs also will present new works, and the adult choirs will sing gospel hymns and popular sacred songs. All will join in the finale, Gaither's "The King is Coming."

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH OF LIVONIA, 17725 Inkster, will present the Capellaire Quartet from Lansing in a gospel concert Sunday, May 19, at 7 p.m. Nursery care will be provided during the service.

JOHN EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCH, 35320 Glenwood, Westland, will honor its pastor, Gerhard L. Press, with a reception in service of thanksgiving and reception Sunday, May 19 to mark the 50th anniversary of his ordination into the ministry.

The service will begin at 4 p.m. and the reception in the parish hall will follow.

ST. JOHN EPISCOPAL CHURCH, 574 S. Sheldon, Plymouth, will present the Plymouth High School choir and orchestra in a concert Sunday, May 19, at 4 p.m. Works by Mozart and Schwartz will be performed.

St. John of Redford notes 60th anniversary

St. John Lutheran Church, 13542 Mercedes, Redford Township, will celebrate its 60th anniversary Sunday, May 19, with a concert and program at 4 p.m.
The Rev. Matt K. Sallmen of Rockford, Ill., pastor of the congregation from 1949 to 1957, will be the speaker, and a special choir cantata titled "Come, Let Us Sing" will be offered.
Herbert Stierma, choir director and organist for more than 30 years, will direct the cantata. Carol Jouppi will be accompanist and the soloists will be Jack Nikkila, Eleanor Huhta and Mrs. Soine Torma.
Refreshments will be served following the program. Former members of the congregation and those in the community have been invited to share in the celebration.

St. John, affiliated with the Lutheran Church in America, was organized May 13, 1914 in Detroit. The present building was completed and the congregation made the move to Redford Township in 1961.

ST. JOHN LUTHERAN CHURCH of Redford Township is 60 years old this week.

St. Mary orthodox to break ground

St. Mary Antiochian Orthodox Church of Livonia will break ground Sunday, May 19 for the first church the congregation has had since the mid 1960s.
The new church for the predominantly Arab - speaking congregation will be located on a three - acre site at 18100 Merriman, south of Seven Mile in Livonia. The ground breaking will be at 2 p.m. with Archbishop Michael Shaheen officiating.
An evening of activities will follow the groundbreaking beginning with a cocktail hour at 6 p.m. in Mercy College Student Center, 8200 West Outer Drive, Detroit. Dinner will be served at 7 p.m. followed at 9 p.m. by Arabic entertainment and dancing featuring Shawgi Dougman and his orchestra.
A donation of $15 per person will be accepted for the evening activities.
Archbishop Shaheen, from the Toledo diocese, will officiate with Rev. George Shalhoub, pastor of the new church, at a liturgy at 11:30 a.m. Sunday in Mt. Hope Congregational Church, 30330 Schoolcraft, Livonia.
The congregation under Rev. Shalhoub's leadership has used Mt. Hope Congregational Church for services while preparing to build its own church. Previously the congregation used St. Innocent and St. Peter and Paul Orthodox Churches for services.
The congregation was established in the early 1950s in eastside Detroit where there was a population of Arab - speaking people. As members began moving from the area, the church membership dwindled until the church was sold in 1969.
A group of 15 families tried to reestablish the church in Southfield but membership "didn't flourish until the group hired a full time priest in 1972.
Rev. Shalhoub took over the leadership and the congregation has grown to about 200 families. Rev. Shalhoub was born in Hamah, Syria, and educated at Balamend Seminary in Tripoli, Lebanon.
The new church will cost about $500,000 and will include the church seating about 350, a fellowship hall and classrooms.

All Saints to offer parent training

Parent Effectiveness Training, a course designed to teach methods of resolving conflicts between parents and children in which both sides have their needs fulfilled, will begin Monday, May 20 in All Saints Lutheran Church, 8850 Newburgh, Livonia.
An eight - week course, it will be taught each Monday from 7 to 10 p.m. by Wayne Wiltse, who has been trained in its objectives in St. Louis by the Lutheran Church of the Missouri Synod, which is now subsidizing the program.
"They feel it is about the best thing around to help parents become effective," said the Rev. Fred Balke, pastor of Holy Trinity Lutheran Church of Livonia, who also teaches the course.
Originated by Dr. Thomas Gordon, a clinical psychologist, parent effectiveness training is based on what Dr. Gordon found to be the main problem in families.
He believed their troubles boiled down to the lack of skill in communicating with one another. Parents were not listening to their children and vice versa.
"Most parents tell us this is the best thing they have ever come in contact with," said Rev. Balke. "They say it succeeded in making them more effective parents."
Stressing human relationships between people, the program teaches skills that can be applied not only to children but to spouses and other people.
"We stress what could have been done right rather than what was done wrong," said Rev. Balke.
He added, "The reason the Lutherans are interested in this is because we feel this is a way to train people to do what the Bible tells — to love one another. We will be training them to be more effective Christians."
Cost for the eight classes is $36 for Lutherans and $65 for non - Lutherans.

RELIGION CALENDAR

ST. PAUL PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, Five Mile west of Inkster, Livonia, will offer a program on handgun control at the meeting of its Men's Breakfast Club Sunday, May 19, at 8 a.m. A speaker will come from the Grosse Pointe Speaker's Bureau and the church and society committee of St. Paul will distribute a list of pros and cons on the subject.

La Leche sets nursing series

The benefits of breastfeeding to mother and baby will be discussed Thursday, May 16 at 8 p.m. at a meeting sponsored by La Leche League of Plymouth - Northville at the home of Mrs. John Williams, 9437 Tavistock, Plymouth.

The meeting will inaugurate a new series on nursing by the league, a non-profit organization dedicated to helping interested mothers learn the medical and emotional advantages to breastfeeding.

Held in a series of four monthly sessions, the meetings are led by qualified league leaders. Telephone counseling is available to all mothers at any time.

Each league group is equipped with a lending library containing books and pamphlets on childbirth, breastfeeding and related subjects.

Anyone interested in further information about the upcoming series may contact Mrs. Robert Frellick, 20219 Woodhill, Novi Township, or Mrs. Thomas Nunez, 195 Garling, Plymouth.

SIDS chapter plans meeting

To give parents who have lost a child to crib death a chance to meet others similarly bereaved, the Michigan chapter of SIDS (Sudden Infant Death Syndrome) will hold its first parent meeting Thursday, May 23.

The meeting is planned in Children's Hospital in Detroit at 7:30 p.m. and will feature a brief presentation of the work of the national foundation and the Michigan chapter.

Present will be officers and representatives of a board of directors, as well as parents from this area interested in organizing a Western Wayne and Washtenaw chapter.

Sudden Infant Death Syndrome is a disease which strikes apparently healthy babies without warning, nearly always between the ages of one week and one year. With present knowledge, it cannot be predicted or prevented.

The organization has an office in Children's Hospital, located at 3901 Beaubien, and it is staffed by volunteers on Tuesdays and Wednesdays between the hours of 10 a.m. and 2 p.m.

Parents interested in information on a local chapter of SIDS may call Mrs. Gabriel Lopez, 44261 Village, Plymouth.

The Western Suburban Junior Woman's Club installed its new officers following the group's annual banquet tonight, Monday, May 13, in the Hillside Inn, Plymouth.

Carolyn Kleinsmith of Plymouth was installed as president and her first and second vice presidents were Ann Lindamood of Plymouth and Mary Beth Baxter of Northville.

Two secretaries, both from Livonia, are Kay Noren, corresponding secretary, and Fran Kretschmer, recording secretary.

Other officers include treasurer, Sandy King of Novi; ways and means, Carolyn Zecman of Plymouth; philanthropy, Rainey Kirchhoff of Plymouth; program, Carol Dunn of Plymouth; publicity, Pat Nixon of Northville, and social, Bonnie Shomo of Livonia and Judy Trexler of Plymouth.

The local club received five awards, including fine arts, home living and service awards, from the Michigan State Federation of Women's Clubs during the recent convention in Lansing.

Golf starting for AAUW

The Plymouth branch of the American Association of University Women is beginning a summer golf league that will play an 11-week season beginning June 17.

The group will play at Brookland Course, Six Mile and Sheldon Roads, at 9 a.m. Monday mornings.

Applications are being accepted through Friday, May 17 by Mrs. Robert Stone, 8425 Forrest, Canton Township.

Golfers must be members of the AAUW. The organization is open to women who have graduated from an accredited college or university.

Dixboro school has openings

Dixboro Cooperative Nursery School has openings for its fall term for three and four-year-olds. Classes meet Monday, Wednesday and Fridays from 9-11 a.m. in the school, which is located in Dixboro Methodist Church, 5221 Church, Dixboro.

The Green Thumb
 By GEORGE ABRAHAM

Onion sets and onion plants are high priced this year. If you can't get the sets or plants, start plants from seeds, which are available and which can produce edible plants by fall or late summer.

As you eat the young plants, you automatically thin them out so the remaining ones can grow larger and produce bulbs. If you want green onions, make monthly sowings from spring until late summer. We like to leave some plants in the ground over winter.

THESE SEND UP succulent leaves in early spring and are delicious, at a time when we're hankering for a touch of fresh vegetables. Most people don't know that onions are hardy and will live over winter.

Onions have many relatives such as leeks, sturdy biennial with flat foliage. These come up year after year once you get them started. Chives are hardy perennials producing many upright, hollow stems about a foot tall. These can be grown in a pot next to your kitchen. Shallots are a mild and flavorful member of the onion family.

Everyone should grow multiplier onions (Allium cepa multiplicans) which comes up year after year. Don't forget garlic. Cloves can be divided and planted.

IF YOU GROW or buy plants in peat pots, here's a hint for better growth. Peat pots, made from compressed peat, are popular for starting and growing plants, and the usual recommendation is to plant pot and all. However, when you buy the potted plants or grow them in peat, pressed paper, or manure pots, it's a good idea to gently tear off the bottom of the pot and release the roots.

Some growers take their thumb nails and break the side walls, so that the roots and soil are exposed.

Why? Although the roots will penetrate through the peat or paper walls, they may not always do that. During a dry period the peat walls are hard and tough, keeping the roots potbound and hindering good development.

We've seen some potted plants make little or no growth in dry seasons because the organic walls formed a barrier and kept the soil moisture from reaching the roots.

TO ENSURE a healthy plant, gently remove the bottom or sides of the peat pot before planting. Immediately after transplanting, give the plants a thorough watering.

If you use Jiffy pellets, take a sharp razor blade and slit the sides of the netting, before planting in the ground.

GREEN THUMB CLINIC: A reader writes: "We hear that charcoal is good for house plants. Would it be safe to crush up some briquettes and use them in a potting mixture?"

ANS: No. Charcoal briquettes are held together with coal tar derivatives, and these can be harmful to the plants. Use regular charcoal.

Pest of the week

DUTCH ELM DISEASE.

Benlate is now labeled for hydraulic spraying at the rate of two pounds 50 per cent WP per 100 gallons of water - use 10 to 20 gallons per tree - label says tree must be in full foliage.

Concentrated spraying remains the same at eight pounds 50 per cent WP per 100 gallons of water. Use three to four gallons per tree.

Injection system promoted by Elm Research is now legal. Use a slurry of two pounds 50 per cent WP per 100 gallons of water at 30-40 psi applied at one gallon per 10 inch diameter of tree. Holes should not be greater than 10 inches apart. Pressure should not be greater than 40 psi.

Mosquitoes spread dread heartworm

If you aren't protecting your dog from mosquitoes, you should be.

With mosquito populations reaching all-time highs in many part of the country, chances your dog will contract an often - fatal disease - dog heartworm, carried by the mosquito.

According to Daniel Jobbins, research specialist, Department of Entomology at Rutgers University, mosquitoes have become a critical problem, especially along the East coast, in the midwest, and Mississippi River Valley.

"In some parts of the country, mosquitoes are so thick, it's like sitting in the smoke path of a fire," Jobbins said.

The apparent increase in the mosquito population is due to a variety of circumstances.

Heavy rains early in the summer produce acres of stagnant water, an ideal breeding condition for mosquitoes.

Another cause for the rise, according to Jobbins and other entomologists, is the stringent regulation limiting the use of some hitherto effective pesticides because of their possible negative impact on the environment. This has frustrated control programs.

Another indirect but extremely important cause for the mosquito increase was explained by Jobbins this way:

"In some areas, pesticides used on farms provided a unique barrier system between people and mosquitoes. Since the use of these residual pesticides has been curtailed, this barrier no longer exists. We got a free ride in mosquito control with agricultural applications."

While these recent mosquito increases apparently pose no immediate threat to humans, the incidence of dog heartworm disease has jumped dramatically. In New Jersey, about 10 per cent of the dogs tested were shown to be infected with heartworm. In the Gulf states, as much as 50 per cent of the dog population is infected.

Heartworms are long, white worms that in adulthood, reach a length of six to 14 inches and attain the diameter of a pencil lead. They live in the right side of the heart and adjacent blood vessels.

As the heartworms grow, they build to a point where they hinder circulation of the blood by preventing the proper closure of the heart valves. In severe cases, the worms make their way up the pulmonary artery and clog the vessels of the lung.

At this point, the dog suffers blurred vision, muscular weakness, chronic heart failure, and eventually - death.

Adult worms give off microscopic larvae (or baby heartworms) which then circulate in the dog's blood stream.

When the mosquito bites an infected dog, the mosquito takes in some of the larvae which make their way to the mosquito's digestive tract. They remain there for two to three weeks, going through the transformation into infective adults.

When the mosquito then goes for its second meal, these tiny new adults leave the mosquito as it bites its next victim and burrow into the tissue below the skin where they remain for several months.

After they increase in size, they leave the tissue and enter the blood stream by going through the wall of a small vein, riding along to the right heart chamber where they mature to adulthood.

Like their parents, they too give off the microscopic larvae, and the cycle begins anew. However, as heartworms mature at different rates, and thus give off larvae at different times, the infected dog never loses its ability to infect other mosquitoes.

The best way to eliminate dog heartworm disease would be to eliminate the mosquito.

Jobbins suggests that the dog owner: spray his property with an approved insecticide; spray the dog with any of the commercially available insecticides to protect him when he is in the open; drain stagnant water, including puddles; remove cans or other er objects which might collect water; clean out stopped-up house gutters; and, empty small, plastic - type swimming pools when away from home for extended periods of time.

To be certain your dog is protected, Dr. Bernard G. Levine, administrator of the Toms River Veterinary Hospital in New Jersey, suggests your dog be checked by a blood test twice a year, even though he appears to be healthy. Preventative drugs are available, but only through veterinarians.

"If the dog owner waits until his pet exhibits the symptoms of heartworm, it is usually too late to restore the dog to normal health," says Dr. Levine.

Michigan morels rate ovation

"Then the 'piece de resistance,' was served: A slice of fresh Iowa milk-fed veal sirloin topped with famous Michigan morels in a rich cream sauce, served with Italian linguini and a small pastry boat filled with tiny Belgian carrots."

The site of this epicurean masterpiece was the Eldorado Country Club in Palm Springs, Calif.

Executive Chef Max Wuthrich, a native of Switzerland, discovered the morels when he visited Gaylord last year. In Europe, morels are a delicacy selling for between $4 and $6 per dozen.

"I can't believe," said the chef, "that you can get them by the dozen in Michigan, absolutely free of charge."

Wuthrich used the Michigan morels as a centerpiece in his seafood bar in the feast that drew "nothing but raves from all sides, plus a standing ovation."

He displayed a dozen frozen morels growing on a piece of bark and moss, with dry ice underneath to keep them frozen. The whole display was under a plexiglass bell to keep the coolness around the mushrooms.

Estimating the arrival time of the mushrooms each spring has become a science in the Gaylord area.

In normal years, the tasty morels usually pop out of the earth in early May, when the first wild flowers bloom. Sometimes they arrive in late April or in early June, but this seldom occurs.

The Gaylord Chamber of Commerce, in cooperation with the Department of Natural Resources, keeps a close watch on the wooded areas surrounding the city. Following day-to-day consultation, finally the "go" sign is given. When that happens, 3,000 post cards are sent out by the Chamber of Commerce to all parts of the midwest. They inform the mushroom hunters of the time morels will be at their peak.

The chamber has provided this service for several years. Initially, only a few persons requested the annual "mushroom message" but the list has grown each year.

Anyone wishing to get on the list may write to the Gaylord Area Chamber of Commerce at PO Box 513, Gaylord, Mich. 49735.

Generally speaking, mushrooms are found in stands of aspen, in young second growth hardwood, in old orchards, near a dead or dying elm, in the charred ashes of last year's forest fire, or among bracken fern.

How to select quality peat pot transplants

Young plants are more susceptible to harm in the first seven days after transplanting into the garden than at any other time of their development.

Tender plants such as tomatoes, peppers, petunias, impatiens and begonias should not be planted until all danger of frost is past, since planting too early is probably the largest cause of loss among bedding plants.

Just as there are good and poor quality seeds, it's possible to have good and poor quality transplants. Here are some ways to recognize top quality transplants.

Avoid long, lanky specimens that have had to stretch toward the light, or have produced spindly growth owing to overcrowding of roots. A dwarf, compact, bushy plant with some side shoots formed is better than a long thin straggly specimen.

Look for a healthy, dark green color in salvias, marigolds, petunias, tomatoes and most other popular bedding plants. Plants with shriveled, yellowed or wilted leaves should be avoided.

When you buy plants in peat pots, gently tear off the bottom of the pot and release the roots. Although roots will penetrate the peat, and the peat eventually decomposes, a dry period could keep the roots pot-bound and hinder good development. To ensure a healthy plant, gently remove bottom or sides without tearing roots.

Colorful combination

APPLE BLOSSOM pink grandiflora petunias and sky-blue dwarf ageratum make a colorful combination. Equally at home in container plantings and simple borders, petunias and ageratum go together like peaches and cream. Both can be bought as bedding plants with flowers already formed, or in bud, to give a long display of color from spring until fall frosts.

Plymouth house walk offered by league

Seven outstanding homes in Plymouth will be opened for tour in a luncheon and house walk scheduled Thursday, May 30 by the Plymouth Symphony League.

The homes selected offer features of particular interest, either architecturally or in decoration.

They will be listed on tickets for the event, on sale at $4. The price includes visits to the seven homes between the hours of 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. and a salad and dessert luncheon to be served in the First United Methodist Church of Plymouth from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The church is located on North Territorial west of Sheldon. Tickets are on sale at Beitner Jewelry, 904 W. Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth, and must be purchased by Friday, May 24.

Members of the Symphony League Nightengale group are working on the luncheon preparation under the chairmanship of Mrs. Joyce Kelly and Mrs. Judy Miller.

House walk preparations are in the hands of the Vivace group, headed by Mrs. Stephanie Miller and Mrs. Annette Heindryck.

Franklin class of '69 sets picnic reunion

Livonia's Franklin High School class of 1969 will meet for a picnic reunion on Saturday, May 18, at 10 a.m. in Cass Benton Park on Edward Hines Drive.

Interested graduates may contact Denise Theisen Fredrige, 14230 Ingram, Livonia.

Michigan members of the National Secretaries Association will hold their annual meeting May 17 - 19 at the Metropolitan Airport Hilton Inn.

The event will be hosted by the Town and Country Chapter, headquartered in Livonia. Coordinator for the meeting is Mrs. Doris A. Schmidtman of Southfield, Michigan division vice president. General chairman is Mrs. Eve Moulso of Ann Arbor, whose co-chairman is Mrs. Mae Andrews of Dearborn.

The weekend will include an open house Friday evening and business sessions Saturday morning and afternoon.

A luncheon and banquet will take place Saturday and a morning brunch and business meeting will be held Sunday.

The winner of the secretary of the year contest will be announced at the Saturday luncheon. Ron Griffith, director of community services at Schoolcraft College, will be one of the contest judges.

Principal speaker for the annual meeting will be Dr. Daniel Kruger, professor of industrial relations at Michigan State University.

Founded in 1942, the National Secretaries Association has chapters in each of the 50 states, Puerto Rico and Canada. Twenty-two chapters are located in Michigan with a membership of approximately 1,200.

MACLD gym class to register

Registration for the perceptual motor development gym program to be sponsored by the Livonia - Redford Chapter of the Michigan Association for Children with Learning Disabilities will take place Monday, May 20 from 6 - 9 p.m. in Room 31 of Bentley High School, Livonia.

The summer session, held from June 26 through Aug. 1, can accommodate 100 children from the age of five through 16. Residents of Livonia and Redford will be taken first. Non-residents can register and will be accepted if the classes are not filled. James Glasgow, director of physical education at the Glengarda School in Windsor, Ont., will be in charge of the program.

The program is designed for children who have perceptual motor difficulties.

Children entering the program may demonstrate a wide range of problems including hyperkinesis, low self-image, reversal of letters and numbers, poor coordination, short attention span or behavior problems.

The registration fee for members of MACLD will be $24, for non-members $34.

Inside Story of Timber Ridge or "Bye Bye Boredom"

Walking into a Timber Ridge home is like opening the pages of a fascinating book. Instead of the boxy, boring rooms you've seen elsewhere, there are novel dimensions, dramatic heights, excitement tucked into every scene. That's as it should be. After all, your home is where the story of your life unfolds, so why not have it as attractive and liveable as possible? We think you'll love the inside-story of Timber Ridge. Come see these three inviting models soon. And write your own happy ending.

Three exciting model homes... a 2-story, a colonial, and a great split-level ranch, South Redford Twp., between Inkster & Beech, just North of Plymouth Rd.

2 bedroom (could be 3) home in nice neighborhood, Close to schools, real handy to shopping and schools. We've installed a patio, fenced in yard, put in a nice big sandbox for the kids. There is a 10 x 10 storage facility in the backyard right next to the above-ground pool. The backyard is lighted with floods.

Inside this 5 year old home you'll find new deep shag carpeting in the living room, hallway and den. Newly decorated, and fully insulated. This is a beautiful starter home, we hate to leave, but we have just outgrown it. Good assumption.

Plymouth Canton Chiefs scalp Mott, 3-2

Plymouth Canton's sparkling duo did it again. Fred Crissey's one-two pitching combo of Chris Martucci and Bill Parson combined for a four-hitter to top Waterford Mott in a nine inning Western Six baseball clash, 3-2.

Martucci who is sporting a 5-2 mark started on the Canton mound and lasted the first four innings, gave up one run on two hits, walked none and struck out three.

Parson worked the final five innings, chalked up his fourth victory against two losses and allowed one run on two hits, walked two and struck out six.

Canton now stands at 5-2 in the Western Six behind Churchill at 6-1. Overall the Chiefs boast a 9-4 showing.

Taking the defeat for a now 3-4 Mott club was Bill Strader. Canton collected six hits, drew two base on balls and went down swinging 11 times.

Mott jumped off to a 1-0 lead in the first when Jeff Bromley was safe on an error and scored on a double by Mike Grace.

Canton notched it at one-all in the last of the second.

Mike Verduce singled, was sacrificed to second by Matt Wiley and scampered in on a throwing error.

The Chiefs slipped ahead in the last of the sixth through the efforts of Scott Dunagan. Parson led off the inning with a single and Coach Crissey replaced him on the basepaths with Dunagan. Dave Pink sacrificed him to second he went to third on a passed ball.

Verduce then went down on strikes and with pinchhitter Greg Barnes up with a 1-1 count, Dunagan stole home to make it 2-1 Canton.

It was down to the first of the seventh and after Parson had retired the first two batters, Matt Treias belted a four-bagger and it was into extra innings.

Mott gave the deadlock a serious run in the first of the ninth. Bruce Lovett and Bill Swindell singled. Stader followed with the third straight hit but Chief center fielder Paul Major rifled a throw to Tom Close at the plate and Lovett was cut down attempting to score. A popout and groundout got Canton out of the jam.

In the last of the ninth the Chiefs put it all away. With one out, Ray Mandle walked and Brian Stemberger batted out an infield single. The two pulled off a double steal and after Close struck out, Bob Ayotte was walked to fill the sacks. Parson lashed out his third hit to right and Mandle dashed in the deciding score.

Thurston batsmen rip dazed Stevenson, 12-5

Emil Majeski's Thurston Eagle bat crew exploded for 11 hits and ripped Livonia Stevenson, 12 - 5, in Les Anders Tourney baseball action.

It was game No. 2 for Thurston in the 18 - school Observer & Eccentric-sponsored event as the Trojans got by Clarenceville in the first round, 5 - 3.

The Stevenson pitching trio of Greg Sipus, Bob Heppner and Dave Palmason were touched for 11 hits with Thurston knocking starter Sipus in the first as it sent 14 hitters to the plate, scoring eight runs on seven hits.

Working the Eagle mound was Ken McLean with Ray Ivey providing relief help. For McLean it was win No. 2 in five decisions with Stevenson collecting six hits, three of those in the third.

Thurston's first inning all but wrapped things up for the now 13 - 6 team which is heading up the Northwest Suburban loop.

Gary D'Ascenzo greeted Sipus with a three bagger and McLean singled him home. John Roy then walked and Ray Ivey was safe on an error. Mike Donoghue doubled, Curt Beadle singled and Dennis Litwinczuk was safe on an error.

Then, with two out, D'Ascenzo walked and McLean, Roy and Ivey all singled to make it 8 - 0 Thurston.

Stevenson got one back in the second when Steve Brown was safe on an error at first and scampered around on Bob Hope's double.

The Stevenson Spartans wouldn't say die and touched McLean for four more runs in the third. Rob Rose started it when hit by a pitch. Mark Temby then singled up the middle and Steve Brown doubled the two home. Jim Snyder was safe on another error at first and Hope tripled to left center to slice it to 8 - 5.

But Majeski's crew was not to be caught as a walk to D'Ascenzo, coupled with a sacrifice by McLean and error, upped it to 9 - 5 in the third.

Thurston pushed it to 10 - 5 in the fourth on a walk to Beadle, sacrifice and single by Kyle Smith and scored two more times in the fifth to wrap things up.

Roy singled, Ivey walked and Beadle hit into a fielder's choice. Jeff Trachsel then delivered a single to score two and it will now be Thurston against Livonia Churchill Saturday at Henry Ford Field in a 3:45 p.m. clash in round three of the Les Anders.

Rain turns Les Anders tourney scheduling into juggling act

Of mother nature and the rains of May have been playing their tricks on the '74 prep baseball campaign with the Les Anders tourney forced to go into a reshuffling.

With all of last Saturday's eight game card rained out, tourney competition has been set for this week with quarterfinal play slated for Saturday at Livonia's Ford Field.

The only games played thus far have seen Thurston down Clarenceville, 5 - 3, and bounce Stevenson, 12 - 5; Churchill nip St. Agatha, 1 - 0; Garden City West crush Southfield, 7 - 1, and Bishop Borgess top Franklin, 6 - 5.

Tonight's make - up play (Thursday) has Bentley pitted with North Farmington at 6 p.m. and John Glenn against Garden City West at 8:30 p.m., all games at Ford Field.

The only other qualifying contest has tourney defending champ Southfield Lathrup against Redford Union in a 4 p.m. game on Saturday, May 18, at Livonia Franklin High. The winner of this contest will meet Borgess in the 8:30 contest that night at Ford.

Other Saturday quarterfinal play will have the winner of the Bentley - North clash pitted against the victor of the Plymouth - Salem - Wayne game at 1:30 p.m. at Ford.

It will be Churchill against Thurston in the 3:45 battle and the 6 p.m. game will feature the winner of the Glenn - West game against the victor of the Farmington - Harrison match.

Borgess Spartans top Franklin, 6-5

Bishop Borgess' bid for a Catholic Double A baseball title took one step backwards.

The club that Coach Jim Brisky knew he had to beat stuck it to his Spartan team, 2-1. It was Bishop Gallagher the victor and now holds a firm hand on that No. 1 Double A slot.

Gallagher has one game remaining in the loop and is sporting a 7-2 mark while Borgess which has two remaining stands at 5-3.

Borgess sputtered to a 1-0 lead in the third on a three-bagger by Mark Gergel, walk to Dan Kelly and wild pickoff attempt at first.

Both of Gallagher's scores came in the last of the third. George Brennan and Gary George drew walks, John Almar sacrificed and Jim Dedonaitis singled both home.

But Borgess bounced right back to grab a 5-1 lead against Livonia Franklin in the Les Anders only to have it tied at five-all in the top of the seventh and grab victory in the last half of the stanza for a 6-5 win.

Cliff Davidson got Franklin off to a 1-0 lead in the top of the first on three straight Borgess errors. Borgess got that one back and added another in its half of the stanza. Kelly walked, Kevin Killeen walked and the two moved up on a passed ball. Kelly scored on a wild pitch. Mike Milosch followed with a sacrifice to score Kelly.

The fourth saw Borgess push it to 4-1. Heimbuch was hit by a pitch. Maki was safe on a bunt single, and Kelly and Killeen walked with the later forcing in Heimbuch. Milosch delivered his second sacrifice to score Maki and make it 4-1.

A two out walk to Cliff Mauer, stolen base and single by Heimbuch upped it to 5-1 in the fifth.

Franklin woke up in the seventh to tally four times on only one hit with the Borgess mound stuck with four walks and a hit batsman.

Adams led off with the solo hit of the inning and Joe Pollard and Davidson drew walks. That's when Brisky replaced his starter Maki with Dobrick.

Dobrick came in and hit Tim Livesey to force in Adams, walked Dan Longway to force in Pollard and walked Mark Saia to force in Davidson. Jo Jo Scarpace then went down on strikes for the first out of the inning.

Next came about one of the weirdest double plays ever to take place in the area.

On a suicide squeeze play, pinch-hitter Larry Casey laid down a perfect bunt. Dobrick was off the mound and tossed to first with Livesey scoring.

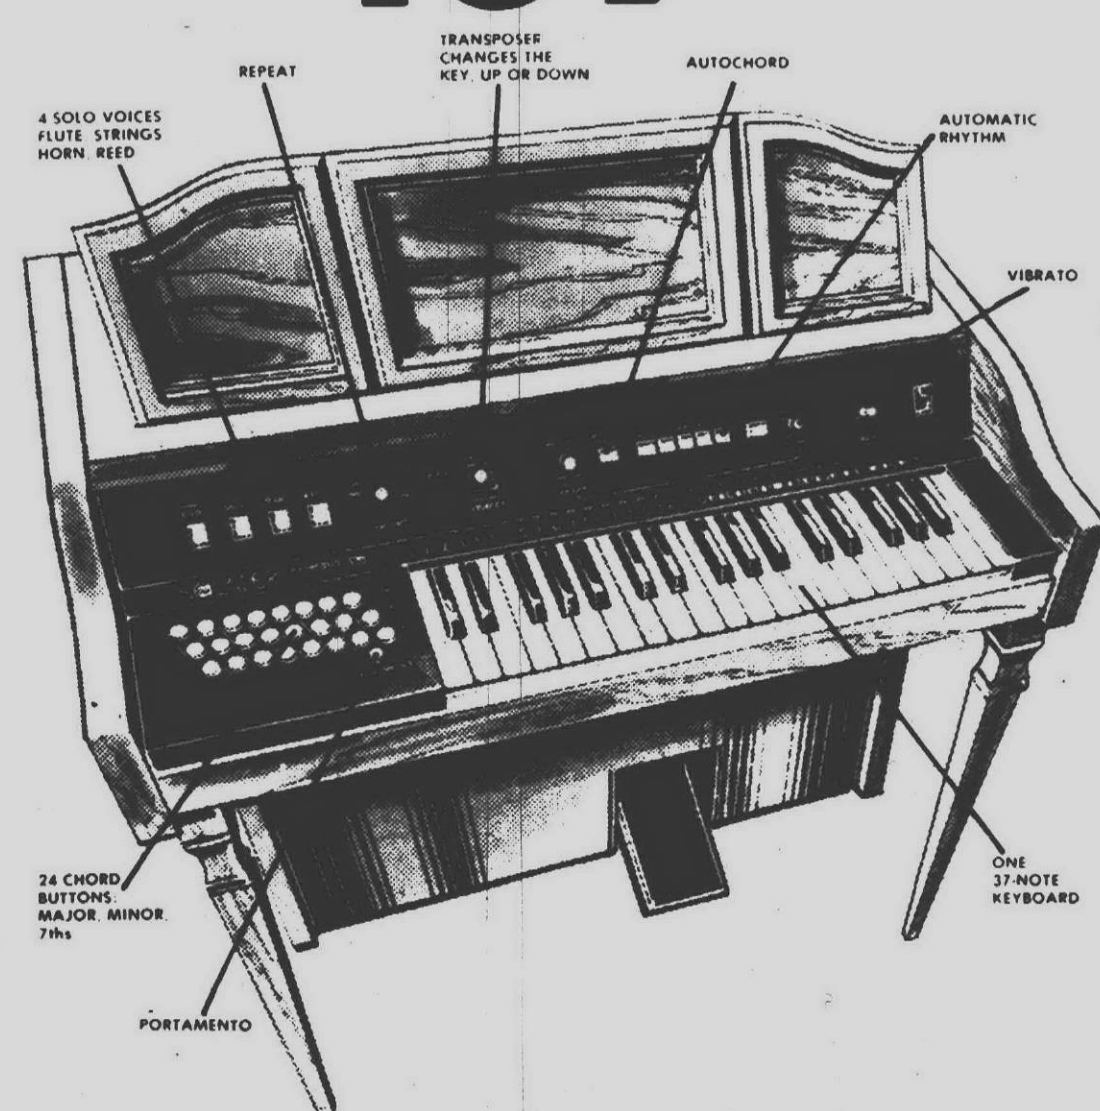

Longway who was moving from second to third kept right on going and was tossed out at the plate by first baseman Heimbuch who in the meantime had failed to tag first to get Casey.

Borgess catcher Milosch made the tag on Longway and saw that Casey who had started the play with his bunt was en route back to the dugout. The throw was made to first and Casey was ruled out and the double play complete with the score deadlocked at five-all.

Borgess tucked away victory and another step in the Les Anders in the last of the inning. Davis drew a walk and with two outs, Heimbuch doubled him home.

Dobrick picked up the win on the Borgess mound in relief of Makie with Franklin held to just three hits total.

Redskins scalp GC East, 1-0

Oak Park handed the Garden City East Panthers a 1-0 defeat in Northwest Suburban loop baseball action. East now stands at four - all in the league and 7-5 overall.

Taking the loss for East was Marty Hackman, now 3-3, as he gave up the one run on seven hits, walked three and struck out five. Gerry Baker chalked up the win, gave up four hits, walked five and struck out eight.

The solo score came in the fourth with one out. Roger Bartosh singled, was passed ball to second and wild pitched to third. Dave Burton walked and Harry Epstein singled in Bartosh.

East wasn't without its scoring chances as it had runners on second and third with one out in the first, the bases loaded in the sixth with two outs and a runner on second in the seventh with one out but failed to score.

You don't expect sports cars with worldwide reputations for performance, both on and off the track, to be economical. But it's true. The Porsche 911 (on the left), with a big 2.7-liter engine, delivers 24 mpg; uses regular gas, and has a 21-gallon tank that can take you some 500 miles roundtrip. And the 914 2.0 (on the right), a two-seater and the mid-engine Porsche of the family, offers an incredible 29 mpg; regular gas, and when you figure in the fuel capacity (16.4 gal.), it can take you over 470 miles. So on top of unique Porsche handling, precise engineering, and roomy comfort, now add economy. Porsche. It will always be more than you'll expect.

Churchill nips St. Agatha for 11th win, 1-0

By TOM DONOGHUE

Roger Frayer's Churchill baseballers just keep charging along.

The state's No. 7 ranked team, which has never won the Western Six title, is out to set a few things straight this campaign.

Churchill swept both ends of a Walled Lake Western twin - bill and blanked Farmington, 4 - 0, to stand 6 - 1 in the Western Six ahead of the one team that has beaten them, Plymouth - Canton.

Canton is next best behind Churchill at 5 - 2 and these two met at Canton on Monday, May 20, at 4 p.m.

Churchill is also showing it all outside the loop with Frayer's crew boasting an 11 - 1 mark after a 1 - 0 victory over St. Agatha in its opening round of the Les Anders tourney.

It was Churchill's Andy Coppola pitted against "no - hit" Ron Jess of St. Agatha in the tourney. The Chargers wasted no time in banging out a hit against Jess who had tossed two no - hit gems in 11 days.

Mike Gottshall opened with a single up the middle, went to second on an overthrow and was passed ball to third.

Then with one out, Larry Lipa lofted a fly to right. Gottshall tagged up at third but was tossed out at the plate.

The scoreless duel was broken in the last of the third. Jay Nelson and Gottshall lashed out hits. Gottshall's being his third and Brian Kelly walked to load the bases.

With two out, and a 2 - 0 pitch on the batter, Jess hit Rod Hawraney to force in Nelson with what proved to be the deciding tally.

Jess took the defeat for St. Agatha and allowed five hits, walking three and striking out three.

Coppola wound up tossing a one - hitter. The only hit came in the fifth with one out when Bob Robertson connected for an opposite field single to right.

The blanking of Harrison saw senior lefty Kevin Nelson hurl a four - hitter to up his season mark to 3 - 1. Nelson walked three and struck out six.

Mike Majeski and Tim Hammer worked the Hawk mound with starter Majeski suffering the loss and Churchill putting together a nine hit attack.

A walk to Gottshall, triple by Kelly and sacrifice by Rod Hawraney gave Churchill a first inning, 2 - 0 margin. Another two run assault wrapped things up for Churchill in the sixth.

With one out, Al Leirstein singled and was balked to second. Gary Condon unleashed his third hit to place runners on first and third. B.J. Lajoie came up with an RBI sacrifice and Jay Nelson singled to center for run No. 4.

The double sweep of Walled Lake Western saw Churchill take the opener, 8 - 0, behind the one - hit pitching of Dave Panzoff and the nightcap, 5 - 1.

Panzoff, who is now, 4 - 0, gave up just one infield single in the fifth while Churchill mustered eight hits off loser John Gabriele.

It was 2 - 0 after two innings. Hawraney was safe on an error and Leirstein singled. The two were sacrificed by Condon and Hawraney wound up scoring on a wild pickoff throw. Leirstein scored on an infield grounder.

The Chargers made it 5 - 0 in the fourth. Condon singled, Jay Nelson walked, Panzoff singled, Gottshall walked and Kelly singled to make it a 5 - 0 score.

The top of the sixth opened with Gottshall being hit by a pitch and Kelly followed with a single. The duo pulled off a double steal. Lipa sacrificed in one run, Hawraney singled and Dave Kuhn tripled to finish off the first game assault.

Game No. 2 pitted Kevin Nelson against Mike Lebby on the mound Churchill's Nelson went the first five innings and recorded the win with Dan Bobowski picking up the save.

The Nelson - Bobowski team gave up just four hits while the Chargers collected seven off the loser Lebby.

A two out walk to Gottshall started things off in the last of the first for Churchill. The Charger speedster stole second and scored on a hit by Hawraney.

A single by Kelly, bunt single by Lipa, sacrifice by Hawraney and double suicide squeeze by Leirstein upped the Charger margin to 3 - 0 in the third.

Churchill finished off in the fourth. After two were out, Nelson tripled, Gottshall doubled and scored himself on a wild pick - off play.

Harrison's lone score came in the top of the fifth.

GC West tumbles in loop race

Garden City West's baseball campaign has taken a turn to the sour side.

The state's No. 3 team last week with a 12 - 2 mark suffered two jolts in its bid to capture the Tri - River crown. After Bob Dropp's West Tigers handled the Blue Jays of Southfield in Les Anders Tourney action, West fell to Taylor Kennedy, 3 - 1.

The Tigers bounced back with a nine inning 3 - 2 win over Crestwood but slipped in the loop, dropping a 6 - 5 decision to Cherry Hill.

West is now 14 - 4 overall and 7 - 3 in the Tri - River while Taylor Kennedy has slipped into the No. 1 slot with a 7 - 2 mark. Behind West is Southgate at 6 - 2 and Melvindale with a 6 - 3 showing.

"Our pitching rotation has been upset," said Dropp. "One of my starters, Paul Tatro, sprained an ankle."

"This last loss to Cherry Hill really hurt," he added. "Be can't afford to make any mistakes now to stay in the league race. We have to hope and rely on others also and this isn't the way you are supposed to win."

The extra inning affair with Crestwood saw Mark Sutherland and Jerry Herbst work the Tiger mound with Herbst going the last five and picking up the win. Sutherland gave up four hits in the four innings he worked and Herbst just one in five innings along with 10 strikeouts.

Ted Marzec suffered the defeat for Crestwood as West banged out eight hits.

Crestwood scored once in the first on a walk and error but West bounced back in the last of the second. Terry Dobbs singled and Jeff Folding tripled him home and scored on an overthrow to make it 2 - 1 West.

A walk to Tom Miertale and hits by Gary Lis and Marzec in the third notched it at two - all and sent it into extra innings.

West took it all in the last of the ninth on a single by Dobbs, a passed ball and a two - out single by Folding.

The setback that really put a dent into West's title chances was suffered by Dobbs who gave up seven hits, walked none and struck out eight. Ken Wassus and Mark Lapinski hurled for Cherry Hill with reliever Lapinski getting credit for the victory as his teammates broke a five - all tie with a solo score in the sixth.

Cherry Hill got off to a 2 - 0 lead in the second but West tied it up in the third. Duane Wozniak belted a four - bagger, Bob Knuth tripled and Herbst doubled.

West again fell behind in the third as Cherry Hill tallied three times but again West fought back to tie it at five - all with three scores in the fifth.

Wozniak doubled, Herbst walked, Dobbs doubled and Folding singled.

A suicide squeeze spelled defeat for West in the sixth. Mike Harrison was safe on an error to start the inning, was sacrificed to second and singled to third by Cary Andytko. Ken Ellis then squeezed home Harrison and that proved enough to top the Tigers.

RU handles Belleville, 5-2

Bentley, Salem plunge in Sub 8

BY TOM DONOGHUE
Sports Editor

The Dearborn Pioneers survived a scare from Wayne Sparkman's Plymouth Salem Rocks to remain on top of the Suburban Eight baseball heap.

The loop front - runners nipped Salem, 3 - 2, and that makes it three straight one - run losses for Sparkman and Co. The Bentley Bulldogs also received a blow in their run at Dearborn as Edsel Ford handled the Livonia crew, 5 - 2, while Redford Union managed the lone area loop win in a 5 - 2 showing over the Belleville Tigers.

Dearborn stands on top of the loop with a 7 - 1 mark while Bentley has slipped to 5 - 4 and Salem to 4 - 4. Edsel Ford, in topping the Bulldogs jumped to a 6 - 3 record.

The loss to Ford also pushed Bentley back to an overall showing of 7 - 4 with Doug Murphy and Dan Vezina working the mound and Murphy taking the defeat. Jim Hoehner chalked up the win, handcuffing the Bulldogs with five hits.

Bentley fell behind by two in the fourth. Mike Burke singled, Tom Cameron walked, Tim Warcha sacrificed and with one out, Dave Bartlett singled in two.

The fifth saw Bentley get those two back. Dave Waldox was safe on an error at third and with one out, Russ Hodges walked and Bob Cross doubled the two home.

Suburban Eight

Ford jumped ahead for good in the sixth. Warcha and Bartlett drew walks and on a bunt by Hoehner, reliever Vezina threw wild past third base and two more Thunderbirds scored.

Salem's third consecutive one - run loss in the Sub Eight was a tough one for Coach Sparkman to swallow as the Pioneers beat his best in Tom Willette who has now gone from a 6 - 1 record to 6 - 3 the past week.

Willette gave up the three runs on seven hits, walked five and struck out eight. Bob Most held Salem to just five hits, walked one and struck out seven.

Salem did get off to a 1 - 0 advantage in the top of the first. Mark Stephens singled and was sacrificed to second by Don Bidwell. Jeff Waller then singled and Stephens dashed in.

It remained at 1 - 0 until the last of the fifth. Dusty Krause was safe on an error by Brian Wolcott at short and Most singled. Dearborn's Keith Begin then lined out to John Major in right who promptly tossed out Krause attempting to advance to third.

But Willette wasn't out of the jam with that doubleplay as Bob Knope singled and Dale Wimmir walked to load the bases and the stage was set for Dale Mason's single to make it 2 - 1 Dearborn.

An error, two stolen bases, a walk to Most and a wild pick - off toss upped the Dearborn margin to 3 - 1 in the sixth. Salem gave it a shot in the seventh. Willette and Chuck Thomas singled and pinch - hitter Tom Davison sacrificed the two along.

Wolcott then grounded out to score Willette and Most halted that threat, getting Stephens to ground to short.

Bob Atkins' RU Panthers were the solo area club to manage a win in the loop as they jumped to a 4 - 0 lead in the sixth and held on to top Belleville, 5 - 2.

For RU it was win No. 11 in 20 outings.

Dan Bushart went the distance for the Panthers and gave up just three hits, walked two and struck out nine. Dan Mattson and Kevin Kettlehut worked the Belleville mound with RU collecting seven hits.

RU jumped to a 2 - 0 lead in the first when Tom Miller and Curt Montney singled and Bill Campbell singled the two home. A walk to Bushart, an error and two passed balls in the fourth upped it to four runs in the fourth.

The fifth score came in the sixth on a double by Monteny and single by George Willard.

Stevenson cindermen unbeaten; crush WL Central, nip RU, 65 - 58

Livonia Stevenson remained untouchable in its dual track season by chalking up wins No. 6 and 7 in an overwhelming Inter - Lakes triumph over Walled Lake Central, 94 - 29, and a 65 - 58 squeaker over the highly touted Redford Union.

RU, which swept the field events, led at one time during 31 - 5. But the flying Spartans won the 880 relay, the 880 yard dash, the mile, the 100 yard, low hurdles, and the two mile and the margin was sliced to 58 - 55 RU with just the mile and 440 relays remaining.

Stevenson proceeded to win the mile relay in 3:35.2 ahead of RU which clocked in at 3:39.2 and the Spartans were up for the first time, 60 - 58.

It was then down to the final event and Stevenson clocked in at :45.3 with RU second best at :46.0 and the Spartans remained the lone unbeaten track squad in the area.

RU sported two double winners in Scott O'Grady with a winning long jump of 20 - feet - 3 1/2 and a winning high jump of six feet. Greg Broquet was also a double victor with a winning pole vault climb of 13-feet-3 and a time of :23.3 in the 220 yard dash.

The Inter - Lakes loop win over the Walled Lake club saw Stevenson win with 13 of 15 first places. Results:

Waterford handcuffs Stevenson

Al Bates gave up just five hits to score a 6 - 0 shutout over Stevenson in Inter - Lakes baseball play. The Waterford hurler got support in both the second and fourth innings.

Waterford scored one in the second on a walk, balk and a two - bagger and five times in the fourth on a walk, two errors by the pitcher, two more walks and a single.

Taking the loss for Stevenson was junior Bob Burrows in his first appearance with Dave Palmisano working in relief. Three Stevenson doubleplays were offset by three errors.

Stevenson is now 2 - 3 in the league and 3 - 5 overall.

GOING INTO A DANCE after being hit by a pitch is Churchill's Rod Hawraney. It was this play that won the Les Anders game for Churchill as Hawraney was hit with the bases loaded to force in a run that enabled the Chargers to tip St. Agatha, 1-0. (Staff photo by Tom Donoghue)

Clarenceville batsmen down Kettering, 4 - 3

Del Cory's Clarenceville Trojans evened their Wayne - Oakland loop baseball mark at three - all and their overall showing at six - all in a 4 - 3 tipping of Waterford Kettering.

Chalking up the victory for Clarenceville was Chris Curtis who gave up three runs on five hits, walked one and struck out four. Ron Halcrow went the distance for the loss, and was tapped for just four hits, walked three and struck out six.

Kettering got off to a 1 - 0 lead in the second when Halcrow walked, Marrin Epperson singled and Mark Collier doubled.

The Trojans struck back with three runs in their half of the inning. Brian Luka singled and scored on a three - bagger by Tim McCammon. Curtis then was safe on an error with McCammon scoring, stole second, was wild pitched to third and scored on a sacrifice by Tony Phillips.

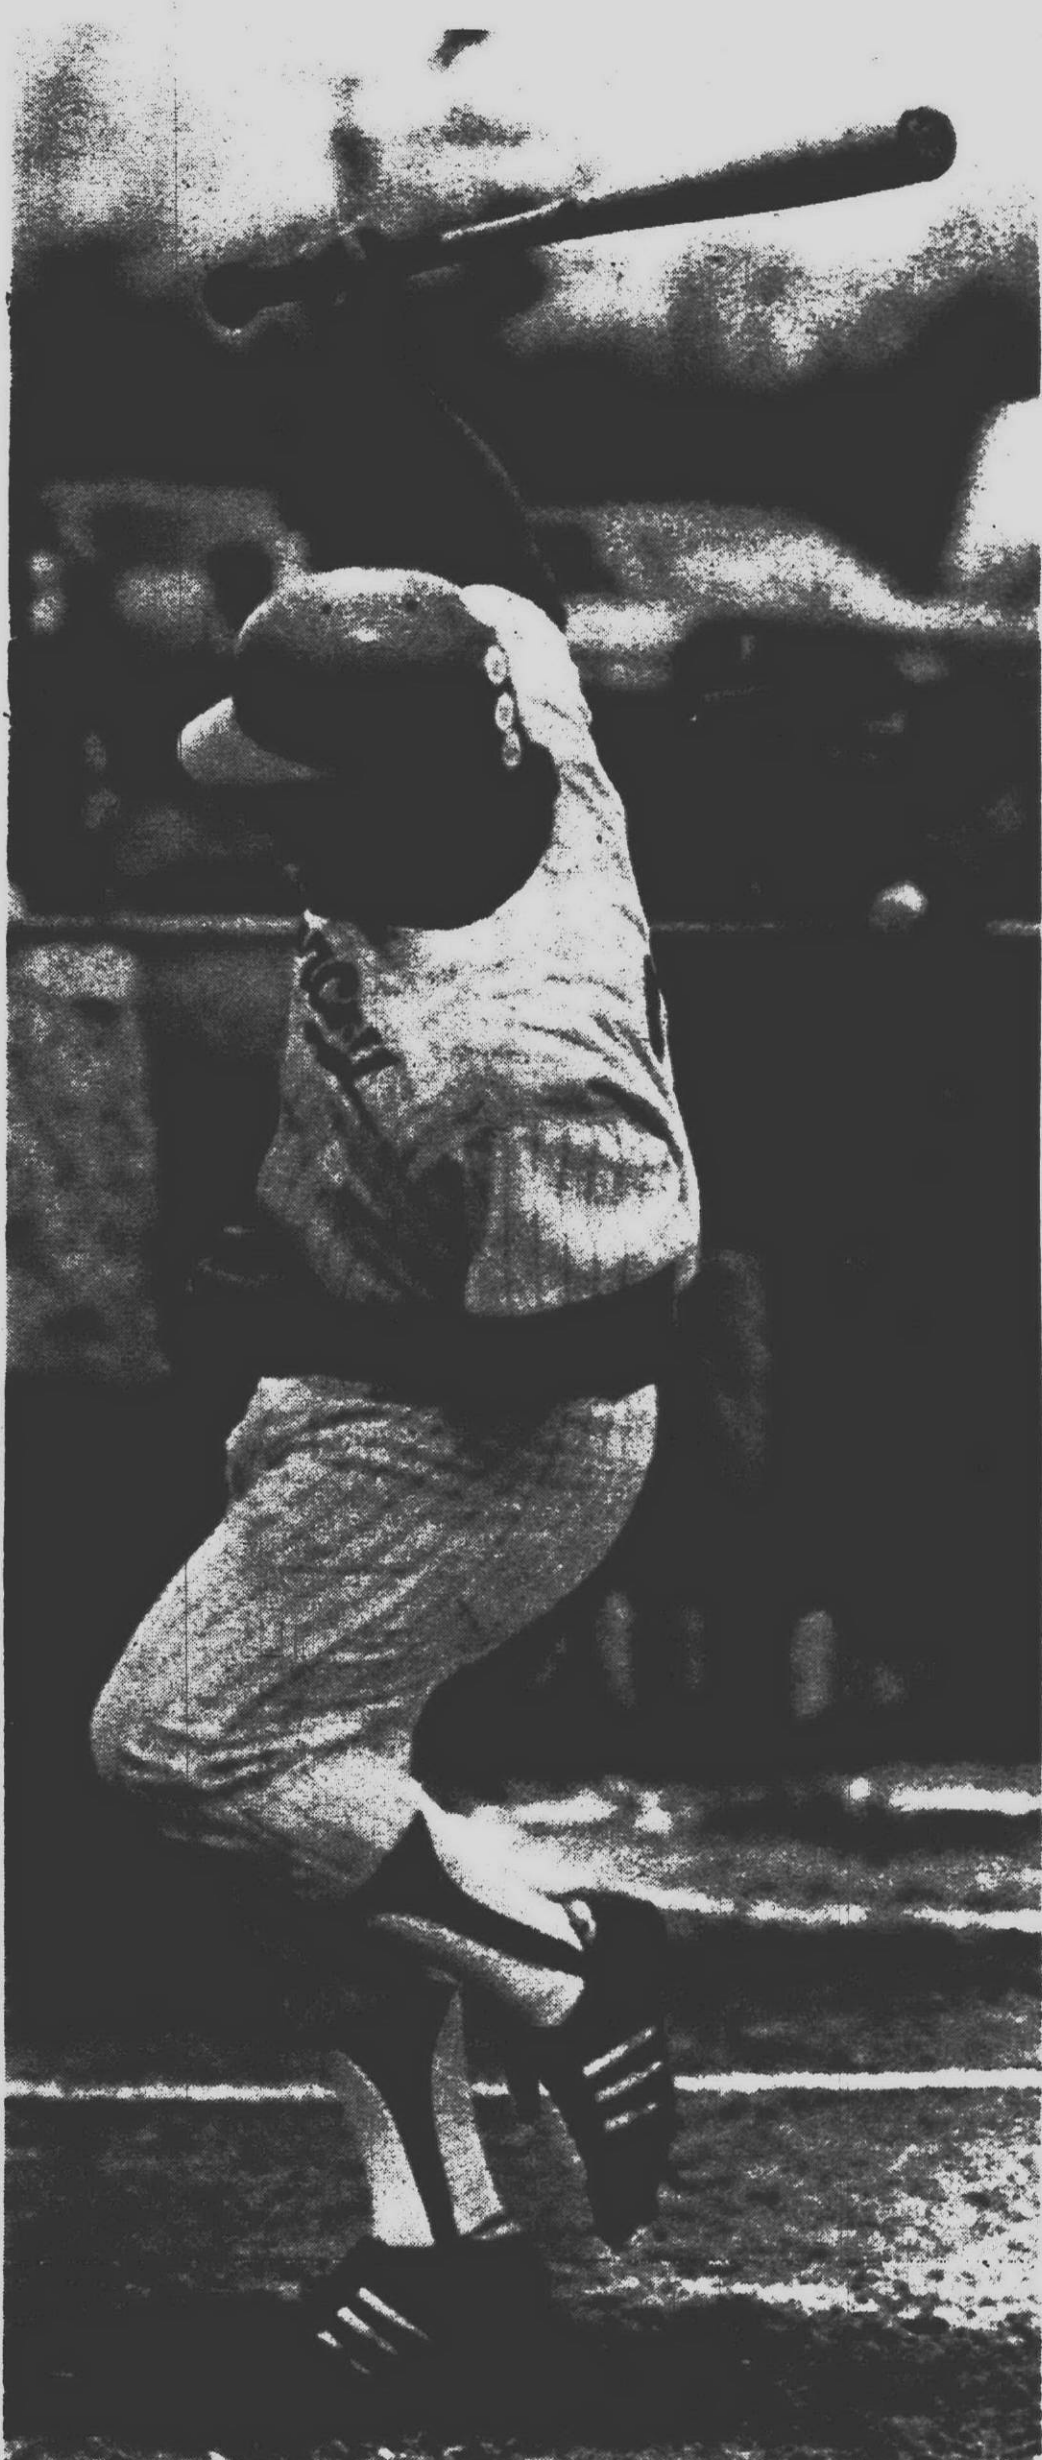

Clarenceville upped it to 4 - 1 in the third when Luka singled, stole second and scored on McCammon's hit.

Kettering made a run at it in the top of the seventh on hits by Halcrow and Curt Gibson and a wild pitch slicing the margin to one but Curtis bore down and salvaged the win.

Schoolcraft's 'best' not good enough in tourney

Two Schoolcraft College tennis players - Dave Newton and Jim Kobberstad - stroked their way into the finals of the doubles competition as Schoolcraft posted its "best ever" performance in the Michigan Community College Athletic Association's (MCCAA) "Singles and Doubles" Tournament.

"No team scores are tabulated, but I can tell you that it was our best ever performance in the tourney," reported Jack Washka, coach of the Schoolcraft netters.

According to MCAA rules, each of the state's 22 community colleges can enter one singles player and one doubles team in the single-elimination tournament.

Schoolcraft's Dale Miller, a Plymouth High product, defeated Highland Park's Howard Nance in the opening round of the singles competition, but was then eliminated 6-0, 6-4 by Jim Shay of Henry Ford who went on to claim the state singles championship.

Schoolcraft fared better in the doubles portion of the tourney. Newton, another Plymouth graduate, and Kobberstad, who played his high school tennis at Thurston, registered three straight victories before finally dropping a 6-4, 6-4 decision to Henry Ford's top doubles team in the finals.

John Glenn girls up track record to 3-1

Franklin's 6 - 8 Blazaitis signs college tenure

Franklin varsity basketball Coach Bob Visser has to be beaming these days.

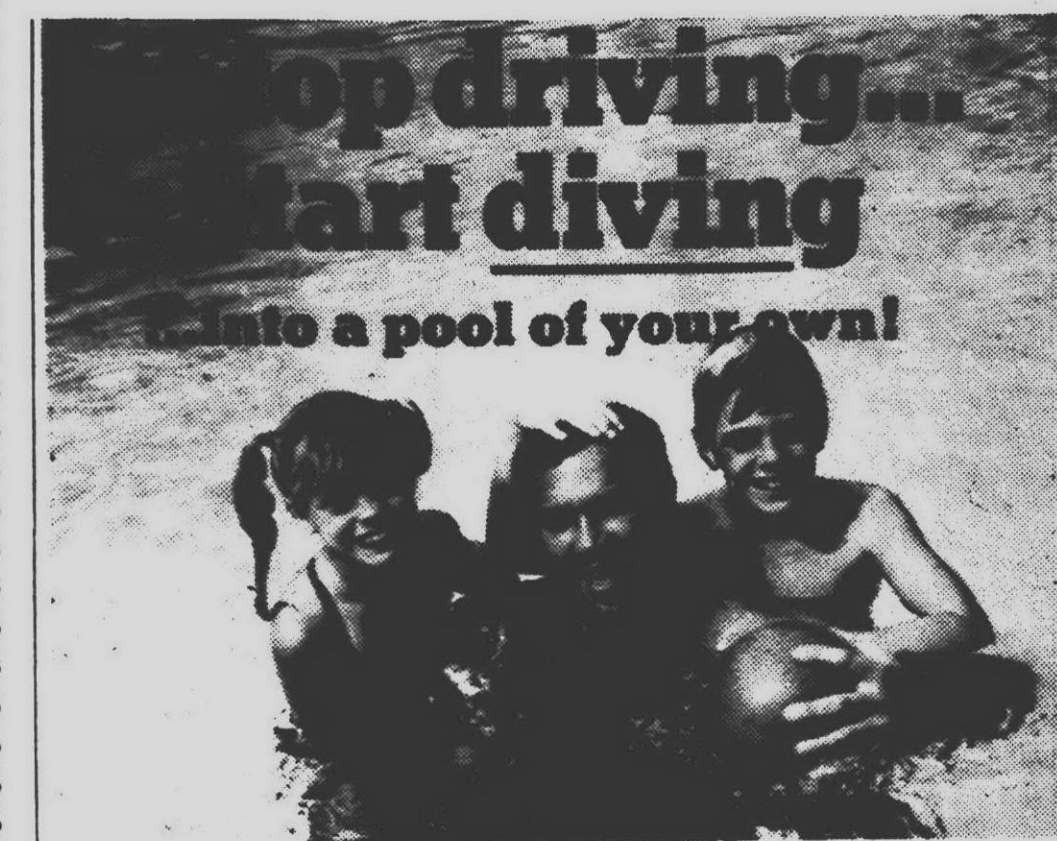

Coming off a 22 - 4 season with a team that made it as far as the state quarterfinals, Visser is now two into the college cage prospects.

Two weeks ago, All - Stater Kevin Kaseta signed his letter of intent for the University of Detroit and now his other big man 6 - foot - 8 Keith Blazaitis has signed with the Saginaw Valley College.

The 185 pound Franklin High senior was second team all - area and established a school blocked shot mark with 77. Blazaitis pumped in 262 points for a 10 point per game average, shot 46 per cent from the floor and 59 per cent from the free line.

In The Pocket

By W.W. EDGAR

Something new is happening along the bowling front.

For the first time in its long history spring leagues are being formed.

This is a strange twist as, in other years, the summer leagues followed right on the heels of the winter circuits. But with the fuel shortage curtail- ing plans for out of state vaca- tions, the people are planning to stay at home and split their schedule for recreation.

As a result they now have formed leagues to bowl a schedule of eight weeks - or until the golf season gets going in full force.

Meanwhile, the summer leagues also will have their regular place. From all reports the summer league schedule will be better than a year ago when it reached a new high.

The closest race of the winter sea- son ended last week at Bel-Aire Lanes when only one point separated the top three teams.

Mel Margosian's grinding team set the pace with 84 points, while the Poplar Binders finished with 83-4 and Laramie landed third with 83.

Dean Shifman had the only 700 on closing night. He posted a 705 to beat Fred Ringrose by 21 pins for top scor- ing honors. Other high scorers, in or- der, were Jim Lloyd 679; Joe Poplar 674; Bill Hosford 670; Irv Watson Sr., 661; Jay Robinson 660.

The spring weather was a real tonic to the girls at Farmington Lanes and two of them rolled the first double century games of their career.

In the Wednesday morning circuit Ann Lawrence had a 210 in 567 and Leah Glatfelter had a 200 in 464. In the Thursday league Leah Brancheau had a 257 in 517.

As the curtain rang down on the winter leagues at Bel-Aire, Bowling Electric won the title in the senior house league and the National Chile team captured the honors in the busi- nessmen's circuit.

Zig Margosian paced the senior house on the final night with a 646 while Andy De Camillo landed second with 636 and Alex Martin was third with 631.

In the businessmen's loop John Len- non was high with a 290 in 644. Ken March followed with 622 and Howard Davis placed third with 621.

Here are the leaders in the Detroit men's city tournament:

Team event (handicap) - Laramie (Bel-Aire) 2997-243-3240-3240

Team event (actual) Thunderbolw Lanes - 3019

Doubles (handicap) Rockey Gra- ziani - Bob Garrett 1377-36-1413.

Doubles (Actual) Graziani and Gar- rett - 1377

Singles - (handicap) Donald Warren 632-144-776

Singles (actual) Roger Helle - 718

All events (handicap) - William Cooper 1957-153-2110

All events (actual) Bob Chamber- lain 1981.

Speaking of close races Bob O'Brien earned the title as the most improved bowler of the year with less than a one pin margin over Bob Goike, Jr. in the Westland Classic. Each boosted his average 15 pins.

And "Doc" Reinsh's Wilson Dairy team won the title.

Scoring hit a high point for the spring loops when Bob Rose fired a 678 in the Thursday Trio at Westland, and Benny Cooney had a 278 in 652.

The girls had a tight race at May- flower to decide scoring honors. Deanna Martinez showed the way with 543 and Thelma Robbins was right behind with 539 while Audrey Hoornaert placed third with 537.

Mayflower bowlers also continued their record of piling up conversions. Faye Setlock topped the 7-8-10; Tim Lavelly made the 5-7-8-10; Ted Davey converted the 4-7-10 and Rita Virant knocked over the 4-5-7.

Edsel Ford routes RU, 8 - 2

Dearborn Edsel Ford moved into a tie for the No. 4 slot in the Suburban Eight baseball with Plymouth Salem in an 8 - 2 romp over Redford Union.

RU Coach Bob Atkins used four hurlers in attempting to stop the Ford attack. Dan Bushart started the con- test and lasted only the first three in- ings. He gave up five runs - all unearned on five hits, walked three and struck out five. It was Bushart's second loss in five outings. Mark Hill- er, Gregg Wood and Howard Copeland finished up with Edsel Ford collecting seven hits total.

Going the route for the victors was John Hoehner who hurled a six - hit- ter, walked one and struck out seven.

RU struck first in its half of the first when Ted Musto walked. Bill Campbell singled and George Willard singled in Musto.

Edsel Ford broke things open in the fourth. Mike Burke singled and after Tim Wancha struck out, Bushart walked Tom Cameron but got Al Johnson on strikes for out No. 2.

Don O'Dell was safe on an error at second which opened the gates for five unearned runs. Burke scored on that error. Dave Barlett followed with a walk and Dan Ballnik doubled to score two more and Jeff Fanto sin- gled in another two.

That's when Atkins brought in Hill- er and he got Mark Kibit on strikes to halt that rally.

Four walks paved the way for two more runs in the top of the sixth for Edsel Ford. With Wood on the RU mound, Don Lis walked, Ballnik was hit by a pitch. Fanto, Burke and Wan- cha all drew base on balls and it was 7 - 1 heading into the last of the sixth.

7th inning suicide squeeze conquers Stevenson, 4 - 3

Farmington High's suicide squeeze in the bottom of the seventh inning tipped Stevenson High in Inter - Lakes baseball action, 4 - 3.

It was Stevenson's second loss in the loop in four decisions and its fourth overall against only three wins.

Farmington hurler Don Hunt came close to a solo effort. Besides his ef- forts on the mound, the Falcon senior blasted a four - bagger in the sixth that notched the score at three - all and set the stage for the squeeze in the seventh.

Hunt gave up six hits, struck out six and walked six. Going the route and taking the defeat for Stevenson was John Kolis who now stands 1 - 3. Kolis allowed five hits, struck out three, walked two and hit three Falcon bat- smen.

Stevenson got off to a 1 - 0 lead in the top of the first when Kolis singled, stole second and scored on a double by Rob Rose.

The Spartans upped it to 2 - 0 in the third. After one out, Rose doubled and Tim Murphy and Steve Brown drew walks with Rose eventually scoring on a sacrifice off the bat of Jim Snyder.

Farmington bounced back in its half of the stanza. After one out, Ken Di- Rocco was hit by a pitch, Bob Holton singled and Mitch Thomas singled with two runs scoring on a throwing error.

The Spartans slipped ahead again in the sixth on a base on balls to Jim Treharne, a stolen base and single by Kolis. But the Farmington hurler did his thing with the bat and it was tied heading into the last inning.

After Stevenson failed to score in its half, Kolis hit Ed Paczos to open the inning. DiRocco was safe on an error at first and Holton sacrificed the runners along. Kolis hit another batsman Steve Koinis to fill the sacks and Thomas came up with a suicide squeeze to score Paczos with the de- ciding score.

The Court Jester

by BILL CAMERON

I was one of the "history making" crowd at Cobo Hall last week to wit- ness the Detroit Loves in their in- augural match in the World Team Tennis League. Much has been writ- ten about the reactions of the fans and the players.

A recent "survey" showed that over 60 per cent thought it was great. I un- derstand the owners are prepared to lose $100-200,000 the first year. I sin- cerely hope they have not mortgaged their homes and businesses.

I guess I'm too much of a purist to appreciate the format they're op- erating under. It left me with a feeling of nothing having been decided. The carnival atmosphere didn't turn me on either. There are too many good tennis matches on TV to make me want to see our home town players compete against the Boston Lobsters (and I'm a Bostonian!)

Maybe tennis is too much of an in- dividual sport for me to comprehend the team concept. If I felt like being entertained I might return again. I'm too attuned to tournament tennis where the players have an incentive to win.

If my mathematics are correct, the Loves may draw an average of 2500 for 22 home games which comes to 55,000. Wouldn't four top professional matches a year attract nearly that large an attendance?

A top tournament will get my dollar three days in a row. Does that make sense?

I'll be glad to eat my words in six months, but several people asked my opinion and it is my own personal opinion. There are many people. I am sure who would disagree with me. That's the nice thing about writing a column, it gives you an opportunity to voice your opinion, hopefully objec- tively. General Manager Bob Love and Rosie Casals may never talk to me again.

There is an important meeting com- ing up tonight. The Livonia Tennis Club is having its organizational meeting at Stevenson High School at 7:30 p.m. Anyone interested in joining whether you are a resident or not, may attend the meeting.

Regional crime commission requested by Wayne County

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners has asked the state to create a regional crime commission to combat organized crime in the tri-county area.

That request was made by commissioners recently when they approved the spending of $352,000 in county funds by the Wayne County Organized Crime Task Force through Nov. 30.

WHEN THE funding was approved, a resolution was introduced by Paul Silver (D - Detroit) asking the legislature to establish a state - financed crime commission with jurisdiction in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties.

Silver says he has doubts about the effectiveness of the task force but felt to dismantle it without substituting something better would be detrimental to citizens. "We are never going to solve the problem of organized crime unless we provide a mechanism that the public has faith in," he comments.

The proposal for a regional crime commission was passed by a 13 - 9 vote and the task force expenditure approval passed 20 - 1 with one abstention.

THE FUNDING was approved after the task force director, Roy C. Hayes, agreed to give confidential briefings on task force activities to Michael J. Reilly (D - Detroit), chairman of the board's public safety and judiciary committee.

Even with that compromise, a number of commissioners complained at the meeting that they hadn't received satisfactory answers to questions they raised.

Silver said the proposed regional crime commission should be independent of judges, prosecutors and police departments because "police and public officials have been involved in organized crime in various urban communities."

PHILIP D. GORDON of Livonia has been appointed manager of Ford Motor Company's Dearborn Engine Plant which is located in Ford's huge Rouge complex. The plant produces medium -duty eight cylinder truck engines, a four cylinder industrial engine, and fuel tanks. Gordon has a BS in business and engineering administration from Massachusetts Institute of Technology and a master degree in business administration from University of Michigan. He joined Ford in 1953 as a material quality supervisor.

County fights utility hikes

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners has directed its lawyers to intervene in opposition to multi-million rate increases being sought by Michigan Bell Telephone Co. and the Detroit Edison Co.

The county's corporation counsel will join Michigan Attorney General Frank J. Kelly in opposing the rate increase requests at hearings to be held by the Michigan Public Service Commission (MPSC). Both utilities submitted rate increase requests last month.

Michigan Bell has asked for increases amounting to $111 million per year. A MPSC hearing is scheduled for May 22. Detroit Edison has asked for rate hikes of about $93 million a year. A hearing date hasn't been set.

The resolution adopted by the board argues that "the current rate of return under the current rate structure is fully fair and reasonable, and possibly excessive."

The resolution said commissioners are concerned about the impact of rate increases on consumers and notes that the county government is an extensive user of electricity and phone service.

The Bell request would yield an increased profit of about $61 million, says Michael Murray (D - Detroit) who introduced the resolution. He quoted Kelly as saying this would amount to a 33 per cent profit increase and would be the highest profit level of any company in the Bell system.

Murray also noted that Bell was granted a $21.7 million rate increase last December. He charged the utility companies "have already viciously manipulated the rate payers."

Murray charged the utilities with promoting "unbridled consumption" when energy seemed plentiful and then, with consumption at a record high, obtained from the MPSC permission to automatically pass on to consumers increases in the costs of their raw materials.

Workshop plans summer session

Workshop in the Woods has announced its fourth annual summer session to be held at Duns Scotus College, Southfield.

Six weeks of classes (three days per week) devoted exclusively to the study of chamber music for advanced students begins June 23 and continues through Aug. 2.

Auditions for the workshop will be in the recreation room of Duns Scotus College June 9 and 16, at 2 p.m. Interested applicants should contact Cecilia Benner, 23220 Ithaca, Oak Park, 48237.

Headed by its founder and artistic director Raymond Benner, the workshop will include teaching staff members of the Detroit Symphony. Co-founder Shaul Ben-Meir, also of the symphony leads the woodwind department and is associate director of the workshop.

"The atmosphere of the Duns Scotus Seminary and its wooded campus is ideal for music making," Benner said. "With our music and the cloistered setting we become like a family each summer."

Once again this summer's workshop will include excursions by the student groups to provide free concerts for shut-ins. The students will play at convalescent homes, old age homes, mental institutions, hospitals and orphanages. Invitations are welcomed.

Two student-faculty concerts will be held on July 12 and Aug. 2. Admission is free and both concerts are co-sponsored by the Southfield Arts Council and Southfield Parks and Recreation.

New to the workshop and of special interest will be a three-week course for children from 7-12. "An Introduction to Music" employs the methods of composers Carl Orff and Zoltan Kodaly.

Mrs. Ann Thompson of Detroit Community Music Schools will give three one-hour classes per week.

LRTG musical breaks the barrier

By STEVE BARNABY

Whenever the prospect of doing a musical is brought up among community theater buffs, a shiver of terror is usually seen to ripple through the crowd. Fortunately for theatergoers, the Livonia Redford Theater Guild has taken the big step and produced one of the best plays performed this season on the community theater circuit.

Entitled "The Apple Tree," the production is actually three one act plays adapted from stories by Mark Twain, Frank Stockton and Jules Feiffer.

The first act revolves around the traditional story of Adam and Eve and the even more traditional battle of the sexes. Featuring David McIntosh as Adam, Ellen Carmer as Eve and David Tucker as the snake, the play is full of quips and one liners bound to make even the most pessimistic of audiences split with laughter.

Adam, used to his solitude before Eve appears on the scene, becomes disgruntled over the fair lady's seeming endless knowledge of the brand new world and her boundless energy. Content to sit by and let the world pass by, Adam is mystified at Eve's urging to redecorate the hut and, of all things, to cut the grass. He goes into a rage over her seemingly superior knowledge of being able to name all of the animals and objects.

The story ends on a tender note when Eve finally dies and leaves Adam alone to realize what a treasure she was to him.

The second act is taken from the story of the "Lady or the Tiger." You probably remember this plot from high school English classes. The tongue in cheek production admirably spoofs the plight of the prince, Sanjar. Larry Domine, who must either choose the door with the lion behind it and face death or the door with the beautiful girl. The princess, played by Mary Cione, must make the decision of whether to tip off the prince as to which door will yield the beautiful girl or the lion, losing him in either case.

"Passionella," the third play, is the story of a downtrodden chimney sweep who miraculously is transformed into a beautiful movie star between the six o'clock news and the late late show.

The intimate surrounding of the LRTG facilities lends itself well to producing such a musical. Every seat in the house is good. The musical numbers, although simple, are very well done.

Plaudits must be given to Ellen Carmer who tackles the roles of Eve and Passionella. Her ability to transform character is a Thespian's dream and an audience's delight.

Russian group tours America

Making a debut tour of America, direct from the Soviet Union, the famed String Ensemble of the Bolshoi Theater performs in Detroit at Masonic Auditorium Tuesday, May 28, at 8:30 p.m.

Stars of the Bolshoi Opera, soprano Tamara Sorokina and baritone Yuri Mazurok, will accompany the ensemble which is under the direction of Bolshoi concertmaster Julius Reentovich.

In addition to performing together for the opera and ballet productions at Moscow's Bolshoi Theater, the 17 violinists also appear as the String Ensemble whenever the theater is closed.

Youth discovers trumpet

By JAN WILLIAMS

Six years ago, Todd Hepler of Livonia didn't even want to play the trumpet and now he's thinking in terms of the Boston Symphony.

The 17-year-old Hepler started playing the trumpet six years ago because his mother wanted him to.

"Actually, I wanted to play the drums," Hepler says.

But after studying with professional trumpeter Irving Sarin of Westland, Hepler's interest and talent began to develop. He studied with Sarin for two years and is now studying with Frank Katerabek, principal trumpeter of the Detroit Symphony.

"Sarin was my first private instructor and I owe everything to him up to now."

Apparently, his dedication has paid off as he was recently accepted to attend Tanglewood in Boston this summer. Hepler was one of the few trumpeters across the country chosen to participate in the festival which will include concert performances and instruction.

Hepler will be studying with members of the Boston Symphony, and as he puts it "you can't get much better than the Boston Symphony."

He says he wants to make a career of playing the trumpet and would like to play professionally with the Boston Symphony someday.

Although Hepler was reluctant to study the trumpet at first, practically all of his activities now involve the instrument in one way or another.

Some of the groups of which he is a member include the Livonia Youth Symphony, Bentley High School band, orchestra and stage band, Scandinavian Symphony, and the Schoolcraft Jazz Ensemble. He also plays occasionally with the Detroit Youth Symphony.

During the summer of 1972, Hepler attended Interlochen for the all state high school orchestra session and in 1973, the Bervard Music Center in North Carolina.

He was accepted to attend Tanglewood this summer on the basis of an audition which included solos and orchestral excerpts.

Hepler hopes after graduation next year to study at the Curtis Conservatory in Philadelphia.

Aside from playing the trumpet, Hepler also sings in the Bentley Concert Choir, plays the piano (a little), takes private theory lessons and is interested in conducting.

Hepler spends a lot of time practicing the trumpet, when he isn't involved with homework, and likes conducting.

temporary orchestral music the best. Two of his favorite composers are Stravinsky and Bartok.

Club presents 'Kings Horses'

The Irish Social Club will present the Gael Players in "All the Kings Horses" Saturday, May 18, at 8 p.m. in the Bentley High School Auditorium, 15100 Hubbard, Livonia.

"All the King's Horses," a comedy by John McDonald, involves two constantly fighting nephews who must live together for one month in order to receive a large inheritance. They draw a line through the middle of the house and neither may cross the line.

Tickets are $2.50 each and may be purchased at the door or ordered in advance by contacting Jim Duggan, 16745 Inkster, Livonia, 48154.

DON ELLIS, jazz trumpeter, will perform with Sid Blair and Visions on May 19, at 8 p.m. in Clarenceville High's auditorium, 20155 Middle Belt, Livonia.

Turf Tips, Quips

By Doc Minard

During the past few days, we have often been asked what happened to the Sunday racing bill which was supposed to go to the House for a vote in Lansing last Tuesday after a conference with officials from the cities of Livonia, Hazel Park, Northville and Jackson a night earlier, according to our information.

Because of the press of numerous other bills, those in favor of Sunday racing decided to table the matter temporarily and bring it to the attention of the House this week for a final vote.

There isn't any question the bill has created a great deal of controversy in the Legislature as well as throughout the state. Needless to say, powerful church groups are against it and there was some indication Mayor Edward McNamara of Livonia wasn't too happy due to the traffic problems Sunday racing could create.

Of course, one could point out there are numerous bingo operations on Sunday afternoons and evenings in Livonia which could also bring traffic problems. We haven't heard a single word about those games, however.

The top brass in Michigan's thoroughbred racing picture believe Sunday racing will go far in reviving interest in a sport that generally has been taking a whipping attendance and business-wise throughout the land. Why, nobody knows, but it is happening just the same.

And while the runners are showing a decline, the opposite can be said for the pacers and trotters where business is at a record high for the night-time events. Strange how things have changed. It was only a few years ago when operators of the thoroughbred tracks looked down their noses at the trotters, and fans attending the afternoon running termed the standard-bred enthusiasts as "fresh from the farm."

But there appears to be a switch from afternoon to night programs, with the result that more folks are turning out for the trotters than for the afternoon runners. It would seem that there is more leisure time in the evenings than in the afternoons and this is one of the reasons for the decline in popularity of the thoroughbreds.

We might add a reason or two. We don't believe either the Detroit Race Course or Hazel Park did much to promote the afternoon races a few years back. They were content with the crowds and did nothing to start getting the younger groups to attend.

Thus, when the older folks pass on, there aren't the young ones stepping up to fill their places. Take a look at the crowds at both thoroughbred plants and you'll note the same faces day in and day out, year in and year out. The faces are getting older and then suddenly one begins to notice this one and that one aren't around. The only answer is they either have passed on or become too crippled to keep up the daily trips.

So, we might say the sins of past managements have come back to plague the present track operators. How they plan to solve the problem isn't entirely clear but they do believe Sunday racing will take up some of the slack.

When one considers that Canada, which was a Blue Law country on Sundays up to a few years back, now has Sunday races, then we wonder why all states licensing racing in the United States haven't followed suit.

There was a time when one could hardly move in Canada on a Sunday. It didn't make any difference if it was in Toronto or some smaller spot, you couldn't buy a newspaper, go to a movie, a baseball game or anything else. You were lucky that restaurants were allowed to stay open and then only without liquor.

Now there's racing, liquor in some places, and all of the freedoms one enjoys in the United States. What a pleasant difference to visit in Canada these days.

Perhaps that's why we can't see any reason why the House shouldn't give Sunday racing approval so that it can be adopted in Michigan within a month.

After all, Windsor Raceway will be open in another month and it has found Sunday racing very profitable. Just a few miles to the south in Ohio, Toledo Raceway has found Sunday harness racing a big boost and the same story comes from Cleveland where the thoroughbreds are going on Sundays.

Hemmed in as it is with Sunday racing in Ontario, in Ohio and Illinois, then Michigan should begin to take a good look at the situation. What's good for Ontario and Ohio should be equally as good for Michigan. After all, the prime reason for permitting Sunday racing is to get more money for the state in taxes.

Why allow that money to go to Ontario and Ohio, as it is at the present time?

THE TROTTERS outdid the runners Friday with a total handle of $1,030,000 against $663,000 but the thoroughbred took over again Saturday when 10,262 wagered $1,029,828 while Hazel Park reported 9,828 sent $1,019,554 through the mutual machines.

The DRC has an endurance series going on Saturdays with each successive race stretched a bit farther. A week ago Hawaii Boy from the Van Berg stable was much the best but last Saturday over a distance of a mile and a quarter it was invader Free Bid who had the most.

Free Bid opened up four lengths coming down the stretch and won handsily as the odds-on favorite.

La Song, without a victory in six previous 1974 starts, had the most in the stretch to nip Salty Law in a tight $10,000 Mother's Day Handicap. In fact, jockey Danny Scocca had to withstand a foul claim to get the victory, but the judges gave La Song the nod after studying the race films.

APPRENTICE JOCKEY Mike Morgan hit a hot streak at the DRC that netted four victories in a single day and a total of 13 for 14 days. But any hopes he may have had for making a bid for the riding championship vanished when his agent transferred Mike to Churchill Downs.

Herve Filion, the incredible French-Canadian driver, is running more than two months and 110 victories ahead of his pace in 1972 when he established a world record of 605 harness racing victories in a single season.

Latest statistics from the U.S. Trotting Association give Herve 243 victories. On May 3, 1972, the USTA showed Filion with 133 firsts.
