Dystrophy drive hits close to home

By CORINNE ABATT

A Canton Township couple, Rick and Cindy Yotti, will be knocking on doors Tuesday evening.

It will be their part in helping the annual muscular dystrophy campaign. was no group in the township working on the nationwide fund appeal, she got busy on the phone to find volunteers.

And with good reason. No one knows better how important the research and help from the Muscular Dystrophy Foundation can be to a stricken family

The Yottis have two sons, Matthew, six months, and Christopher, two years. Both have a rare form of spinal muscular atrophy. Chris's is diagnosed under the name of its discoverers, Werdnig- Hoffman. The disease is one of several neuro muscular diseases being researched and treated by the Muscular Dystrophy Foundation.

He wasn't crawling or rolling over. They had just moved to this area from Maryland although both are originally from Michigan. Their new pediatrician recommended a neurologist and the Detroit neurologist sent them to University Medical Center in Ann Arbor. Just in passing, a doctor at the center mentioned the Muscular Dystrophy Clinic at Martin Place East Hospital in Madison Heights.

The couple contacted the clinic and Chris was hospitalized there for three days of intensive tests and evaluations. On the fourth day, parents and child met with all of the doctors who had done the evaluation and a Chris's neurologist at the Muscular Dystrophy Clinic says we won't know the extent of Matthew's disease until they do a muscle biopsy. But, we already can tell that his condition is not as severe as Chris's."

Since the development of the muscles and the function is severely impaired because of the disease, the clinic prescribed a program of exercises for Chris to maintain muscle tone, to keep the muscles limber and prevent the certain "freezing up" if they were not flexed.

Chris spends about three hours a day standing in a body brace. His grandfather made a play table of maple and Formica with legs that can be adjusted for height.

The clinic also suggested Chris sit in a shallow cardboard box, open at one end and just about as wide as the trunk of his body. This guides his legs in a straight position and prevents the natural inclination to draw up to the body in a fetal position.

For about 15 or more minutes at a time about twice a day, his parents work at exercising Chris's legs. He also has a set of parallel bars in his

Gas and weight revenues are up despite shortage

Net receipts from the gas and of 1974 showed an increase of 6.8 per cent over the same quarter last year.

All state gasoline and diesel fuel taxes as well as license plate fees go to the Motor Vehicle Highway Fund. The fund reported to the state highway commission that gasoline receipts for this year were $85.6 million up from $79 million for the first three months of last year.

This was in spite of the fact that gallons of gas taxed this year declined from 1973.

JOHN P. WOODFORD, state highand transportation director, noted the state tax on gasoline increased from seven cents a gallon to nine cents effective Feb. 1, 1973.

Collections in March 1973 on February sales thus produced revenue from the increased tax-for only one month of the three - month quarter last year.

Revenue from diesel fuel taxes was down 3.5 per cent from that of the first three months of last year. This year's total was $4.4 million. The diesel fuel tax stayed at seven cents a gallon while the gas tax went up to

The number of auto license tabs in the quarter totaled 2.6 million up 4.8 per cent from the year before. Sales produced $51 million up 5.06 per cent. The number of commercial plates: 533,815, was up 15 per cent from 1973.

Sales yielded $36.7 million up 11 per cent. The increase was attributed in part to delays by trucking firms in purchasing new plates late last year while fuel supplies were uncertain and shortages severe.

PROCEEDS' IN the Motor Vehicle Fund are distributed at three levels of government after deduction of collection costs. The Waterways Commission gets 1.25 per cent of gas taxes. General Transportation is given one - increase ighteenth cent share of the gas tax year. for public transportation. The formula provides for 44.5 per cent to go to the state highway department, 35.7 to the state's 83 counties and 19.8 per cent to the $30 incorporated municipalities.

Under this formula the highway and transportation department will receive $75.6 million as its share of the quarterly collections. The counties will receive $60.6 million and the cities and villages $33.6 million.

LOCALLY THE revenues were up for the first quarter of this year.

Wayne County received $9,992,136 an increase of $717,664 over the previous

Gas and weight tax shares returned to the western Wayne Chunty communities for the first three months of this year were: Garden City, $197,912; Livenia, $572,081; Plymouth, $55, 312; and, Westland, $394,834.

The increase over the previous year for each community was: Garden City, $9,119; Livonia, $41,299; Plymouth, $3,083; and Westland

Most definitely and emphatically I support the bond issue for new schools and the millage renewal. Great pains have been taken to see that we do not overbuild. The new schools are desperately needed. The renewal represents almost 20 per cent of our operating budget and is just as important as the bond issue. I also support, with regrets, the safety millage. While it is the responsibility of the local units of government to provide for the safety of their citizens, they have been slow to do so. We cannot in good conscience ask our children to travel hazardous routes while we wait for the slow wheels of bureaucracy to recognize their urgent safety needs. However, the board must pursue vigorously all avenues to insure that local governments fulfill their responsibilities.

Year round school, though not without problems, looks promising for a number of reasons:

1. For the taxpayer, it is one method of insuring that we do not over-

2. While the savings may not be great, the possibility of realizing some savings of monies cannot be over-

3. Educationally, for the child, it seems to make sense. There will be more continuity, less time to forget, less time spent on reviewing, more frequent breaks, the flexibility of either frequent changes of teachers if necessary - continuity, if necessary. -

4. For families, more options in vacation times, less crowded vacations. However, more difficulties for families where both parents work.

5. For teachers, the option to work all year at their chosen profession. lity to take off one quarter or two for studies other than the summer when course offerings are not alat their best.

In short, year round school seems to present us with many opportunities and much flexibility. But we must see be and how it will actually work out before we commit the district entire-

We must find a way - whether it be separate schools, mini schools within schools, separate campuses, etc. - to encourage and allow many more children the opportunities to perform in

Long range goals I set for the schools are:

1. To insure that each individual child succeeds.

2. Offer parents and students options in types of educational programs to suit the needs of the individual.

3. Utilize the advantages of bigness, but create a small school atmosphere. with its personal closeness of faculty and closeness within the student body. No child or teacher must ever be treated as a number, but only as the individual he or she is.

4. More real opportunities for the gifted, those with learning handicaps of whatever type, girls, and those with special needs

5. Involve parents of pre-schoolers through outreach programs and encourage and invite more parent partic-. ipation over-all.

In short, we must do everything we can to make sure that each child can benefit to the highest degree from all that Plymouth has to offer.

1. Yes, all of the reports and surveys done by outside consultants and also citizen committees show the necessity for more buildings due to the population increase in Canton Townip and Plymouth Township. Unless the additional facilities are provided, we will have 2,600 children withou classrooms by 1977. In order to fulfill these obligations, we must act now be-cause it takes approximately two years to build these facilities.

These buildings are a better investment for taxpayers now than it will be a year from now because of spiraling costs and inflation. Bond Issue - Any parent aware of the growth predicted for the Plymouth schools could not help but support the bond issue. We definitely will not be over-building. New elementary schools should be built that can, when needed, be converted to middle schools. Even if all the schools were put on year-round programs we would not have room to house all the students by 1977. Year-round school has been tried since the early 1900s and never succeeded, but if parents want it in Plymouth it should be strictly voluntary. The 45-15 extended school year program being piloted at Miller Elementary School this coming year should be supported completely. We must give it every opportunity to from July 1972 to June 1973.

The millage and bond issues that will be on the June 10 ballot are to me considered critical issues. I am in favor of a 'yes' vote on all three issues.

The first issue is a 6.5 millage renewal. This millage is needed to continue the present programs without any change.

The bond issue is needed to build facilities that will house the increase in the growing student population. One thing should be kept in mind when building these facilities, is over building. We have to keep pace with the population, but at the same time keep a watchful eye out for a slow down in the growth factor.

and program...

The final issue is a safety millage and it's only for a one year period. This would bring in enough money to assist in the development of some safety factors. Remember, to educate the youth we have to get them to the facilities in a safe manner.

There has been much discussion about year around school in this district. I prefer to use the term 'facility utilization.' This is but one method of attempting to better utilize the present facilities to meet the population increase we are having in this district. I am in favor of this program, but. it does have its problems.

What other alternatives are available? There are two that have been looked at, satellite schools and half day sessions. This district should continue to search for alternatives for the future and at the same time continue to evaluate the present programs.

For the next year I would like to see several things take place. I would like to have better discipline at the high schools. This could be done in several methods, an increase in the present security staff, stricter guidelines for conduct in the commons area at the high schools, and/or more citizen involvement in controlling problems at the high schools.

I am in no way critizing the administration and teachers that are presently there. I just feel they could use more assistance. An evaluation needs to be done on all the curriculum presently being offered in the school district. What we need to find out, what is effective and what isn't. How effective is the Curriculum Coordinating Committee and if it isn't why not? With the amount of students being bused in the district we are having problems on the buses. This should be looked at and corrected as soon as possible. There are other issues that should be looked at and at least put on paper so they can be brought up at a later date so the school board isn't always reacting to a crisis situation.

Married - four Children - three in Plymouth schools: BS degree in education - Ohio State University: Member of the Windsor Park Civic Association: Treasurer of Canton Township Democratic Club: President Detroit Ohio State Alumni Club. 1. I am in favor of the proposed bond issue because it is necessary to prepare for additional students, immediately, for the very near future. Other plans must be made for the future of the system.

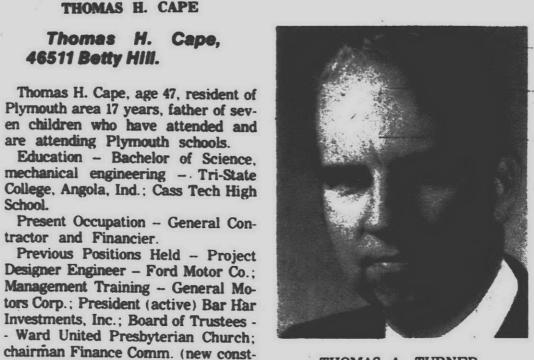

2. I support the safety millage. After all, we are talking about the safety of our children. This is too long pverdue and the communities should have realized this.

3. I'm in favor of a year around school, it should have been done years ago. Not only can it save the taxpayers money, but it can be ideally suited to family and community life. 4. The goals for the school district next year are the complete examination of the system, buildings, financing and education formulas. We must have a "master plan," perhaps copies of the best systems in the U.S. Also the year around use of our school buildings is very necessary to stop the waste of taxpayers' money.

Probably the most important duty is to evaluate the system and see if it is really educating the students, this includes open system and modular system. We must bring into the total picture leaders of both Plymouth and Canton .Township and get the correct direcportant is how will it affect the education of the child?

Specific goals for the next year are mainly related to finding solutions to the problems related to growth. How to provide adequate facilities and make the most efficient use of those facilities. Another area that needs attention is that of special education. But the main goal is to continue working together as a community that draws on the knowledge and experience of the teacher, the administrator the parents and other school districts to help in making decisions which will provide the maximum value for the taxpayer and at the same time keep in focus the number one goal of education, the welfare of the Bond issue - I strongly favor the proposed bond issue. Our elementary schools are already overcrowded and a large number of children are being bused to other schools within the district. By the time construction is completed, enrollment will exceed design capacities by 1,500 and the degree and expense of student displacement will be greatly increased. Without new schools, undesirable increases in class size and possibly even half-day sessions would be required. The completion of Plymouth-Canton High School is required to alleviate the serious overcrowding of the Plymouth-Salem music and physical education facilities which are now shared by all students at the Centennial Educational

Safety millage - I am in favor of the one-year safety millage levy to alleviate the most serious of the hazards facing our children on their way to and from school. Many of the problems relate to the location of the schools on busy thoroughfares, and ultimately a rearrangement of attendance areas can solve most of the problems. Until sufficient school buildings are constructed to permit such rearrangement, however, we should take the necessary actions to minimize student exposure to traffic

Year-round schools - Although I was first attracted to the 45-15 yearround school concept as a means of better utilizing our physical facilities, I am now convinced that it also represents a superior educational tool that should improve student achievement, attitudes and retention capabilities. Although there will be individual instances of incompatibility with family vacation and work schedules, in most cases vacation flexibility will be greatly enhanced and sufficient flexibility can be incorporated to accommodate most potential individual conflicts. Because the concept is relatively new, however, I believe we must gain experience with our Miller School "pilot" program before expanding the program to other schools. If the pilot program proves successful, I favor a gradual implementation and voluntary participation with a traditional

I have been a Plymouth School District resident for more than two years. During this time I have attended numerous school board meetings and workshops. I have three children attending Plymouth schools. Stephen, 12, is in Pioneer Middle School. Bryan, seven, and Kendra, six, are both attending Miller Elementary. My husband, Ron, is an employe of Ford Motor Company.

Our school district is 54 square miles in area and has a potential of becoming one of the largest districts in the state. The projected growth for the elementary schools is astounding and the shared facilities at Plymouth-Salem can no longer adequately serve both Plymouth-Canton and Plymouth-Salem high schools. We must prepare for future growth as well as provide an equal and quality education for those presently enrolled in our system. This can best be done by adequately housing our children and by seeing that they are not deprived because of numbers.

As a citizen of the Plymouth Community School District I see no alternative other than supporting the bond issues. A 'no' vote will only hurt our community and make it a less than desirable place for our children.

Safety of our children is a very critical issue. For the past two years I have been a member of the Plymouth Community School District Safety Committee. I am hopeful that in the future the school district and the local units of government will work more closely together to assure the safety of our children. Until this becomes a reality the school district will have to take the leadership as they have done by placing the safety millage on the ballot for community support.

'45-15' extended school year will be a pilot program at Miller Elementary next school year. I see this program as educationally sound and it provides for maximum utilization of building investment. 45-15 ESY will allow approximately 250 more children to be housed in an elementary school. Fewer buildings would need to be constructed if this plan were used on a district-wide basis.

Goals that I would like to see accomplished during the next school year are as follows: Implement further programs for sufficiently housing our increasing number of students, yet, ministration of the school being consida closer, working relationship with local units of government; provide services for those children with learning disabilities; establish closer community relations; establish procedures for monitoring existing programs.

Priorities have to be established to insure each child the best education the tax dollar can provide. Our children are our investment in the future - and well worth the time and tax dollars spent. I believe I have the time and qualifications to make a positive Beginning with the coming year and continuing into the future, the Board of Education, through the adminis- a good foundation for meeting the extration and with the assistance of all staff members, must devise a plan of action to foster community support. Recent bond and millage issue defeats are symptomatic of the absence of community support. A rapidly growing school district requires continued and uninterrupted support. Anything less places a district's program in jeopardy, just as it is here in Plymouth.

Second, the board of education, within the next year should initiate a comprehensive district needs assessment. The resultant study would be utilized by the board and administration to determine the direction of future curriculum and program. The board has spent a disproportionate amount of time on the district's future building program and too little time on what it is all about -- curriculum. Many items covered by the board could be facilited by the administration. Thus, allowing the board to deal with program development and implementa-

Third, the concepts of individualization and student options should be expanded upin in terms of inservice training, support staff, program planning and implementation, research, evaluation and a myriad of other actions. Each student should be offered the opportunity to be instructed at his or her appropriate level or offered programs based upon special circumstances. In the same vein a careful evaluation of the guidance and counseling department should be made to determine to what extent the department is meeting the needs of the student body.

A bond issue defeat on June 10 would spell certain disaster for all children of the Plymouth School District. Overcrowding, split sessions, reduced course offerings, excessive busing, and double sessions are all possibilities. The projection of 2,615 students over capacity by 1977 makes a 'yes' vote imperative. Even with full implementation of the year round concept the district still is in need of the new structures. By evaluating new student enrollments over the next few years the need for future bond issues can be determined.

I give qualified support to the safety millage. When a district buses as many students as does Plymouth and contains as many busy streets, the need for safety assurances is clear. However, prior to a safety improvement, extensive evaluation should be conducted to determine existing danger and future attendance patterns. The year round school concept (45-15) offers Plymouth Schools are alternative when dealing with the problem of overcrowding. However, before implementation takes place, the concept must be supported by the school community, the teaching staff and the admaintain quality education; establish ered. It is important that implementation be deliberate and that the program be evaluated extensively.

1. The problem of increasing enrellment can be solved by using a combination of existing classrooms used to their capacity, renting buildings and building new structures.

2. The whole Plymouth School District should not be forced to pay for schools required in new areas. Most of the burden of new elementary schools should be carried by the areas that need these schools. This can be accomplished by assessing the newer areas (areas which require new schools) a higher tax rate than the older more stable areas. I live in a new area and would accept a higher tax rate because it is the most just system. Why should an area that does not require new schools share equally in their cost. I do not favor the proposed safety millage because:

The Board of Education, along with its constituents, must force the townships and the city of Plymouth to provide pedestrian overpasses and walkways. I feel that a developer should be responsible for the safety of children in the communities which they build.

Year round school may save mondents an even break at the high I have served on the Windsor Park school level since they would be deprived to work full time during the summer. This would also deprive them of earning money for a college education and gaining valuable working experience.

The main goal for the Plymouth School District next year is to provide panding student enrollment. This must be accomplished by using a cost plus system along with ensuring a high quality education for all students present and in the future.

Man, 20, sentenced after chase

PLYMOUTH - A 20-year-old Plymouth man, who early Wednesday morning led police on a high-speed chase, has been sentenced by Judge Dunbar Davis to 15 days in the Detroit House of Correction, had his license suspended for two years, and

Kirk Edward Mucha of 11520 Haggerty was arrested by Plymouth police following a chase at 2:30 a.m. that ended when he lost control of the car in attempting to make a curve on Schoolcraft where it passes over the new freeway. Police say the car turned over two or three times, the driver regaining control, going over the curb in attempting to flee down the unfinished portion of I - 96.

The car's undercarriage and right front tire were torn off forcing Mucha to stop, and police then arrested him.

The chase began at Haggerty and Plymouth when Mucha sped by a police car and failed to heed warnings

Med students endangered by delay - Esch

U.S. Rep. Marvin Esch (R - Ann Arbor) has warned that more than 100 medical school students who expected Public Health Service scholarships may now be cut from the program because of "continued bureaucratic bungling.'

Esch, whose 2nd District includes Livonia and Plymouth, says he has written the director of the National Health Service Corps to reiterate his concern about the future of the program which was approved by Congress 19 months ago but not officially implemented, scholarship and stipend even before until May 22.

ESCH PROTESTED to Caspar W. Weinberger, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW), on April 1 that "inexcusable bureaucratic bungling" had delayed implementation and that HEW had misrepresented congressional intent in drafting its proposals to regulate the program.

"It now appears that the bungling in getting the program started has been compounded by the fact that too many students were accepted for scholarships and the stipend and that more than 100 applicants may now be eliminated from the program," reports Esch.

Weinberger signed the regulations and they were published in the Federal Register May 22. Esch said, however, that he has learned that some 500 applicants signed contracts for the the regulations were finalized and that program spokesmen are now claiming it is overscribed.

ESCH SAID STUDENTS at the University of Michigan who had applied for scholarships were being told no standards had been drafted for elimination of applicants and said he would seek a thorough explanation as to who was being cut and why.

It appears more than 2,000 applications have been filed by medical school students who, if accepted, are required to serve a minimum of two years working at facilities of the National Health Service Corps, Public Health Service hospitals, Indian Health Service, U.S. Coast Guard or federal prisons, Esch reports.

The reduction would have helped "cut the fat out of our military budget and improved hopes for a lasting peace," says Esch whose 2nd District includes Livonia, Plymouth, Monroe County and part of Washtenaw.

Despite House rejection May 22 of the amendment on a 240 - 163 roll call vote. Esch said he was hopeful the Senate would adopt the amendment when it considers the military authorization bill later this year.

He said it was the clear intention of the bill's sponsors, which included Esch, that the defense department would deactivate 100,000 troops.

"Domestically, this amendment conforms with the much needed reordering of national priorities with which so many have concerned themselves," Esch adds.

"It has been estimated by depart-of maintaining one uniformed soldier is $12,500. Using these figures, the savings under this amendment would be $1.2 billion annually."

THE CONGRESSMAN said Congress was faced with the largest peacetime military budget ever proposed. He said costs for overseas troops approach $30 billion annually. He also said the amendment was "fully in line with the policy this administration has embarked upon. "

Esch added that the amendment didn't dictate where troop cuts must be made. In Asia alone, he points out, troop levels of the U.S. are: 55,000 in Japan and the Ryukus Islands: 16,000 in the Philippines; 38,000 in South Korea; 36,000 in Thailand; and 6,000

Egnor blasts property

Ronald W. Egnor, candidate for the Egnor is seeking the Democratic nom-Democratic nomination in the 2nd Congressional District, has urged alternatives be found to property taxes for fi- Plymouth, part of Washtenaw County nancing public education.

Speaking before a meeting of the Ann Arbor Association for Gifted Chiland Means Committee for proposing "tax reform" that actually "further burdens the average wage earner.

"The changing nature of our society has rendered the local property tax a horse-and-buggy answer to space age needs."

ONE ANSWER may be a universal, graduated income tax, Egnor suggests, but the legislation must be drawn so it doesn't further burden the middle income wage earner.

"We cannot afford to repeat the error of the House Ways and Means Committee whose so - called 'tax reform' proposal hits not big corporations, but the average taxpayer once again."

Egnor urged Rep. Marvin Esch (R -Ann Arbor) to vote against the measure if it reaches the House floor.

ination for Esch's seat, the 2nd District which includes Livonia. and all of Monroe County.

THE WAYS AND MEANS Committee proposal, designed to close dren, Egnor assailed the House Ways some $2 billion in tax loopholes, would prohibit individual taxpayers who itemized their deductions from writing off such items as state gasoline taxes, medical insurance premiums and union dues.

"It is big business - the rich and powerful - who haven't been carrying their fair share of this nation's tax burden, and it is big business and the rich and powerful that the House Ways and Means Committee should be focusing on," Egnor concluded. Egnor believes true tax reform could lead to the type of quality education residents desire. The chief issues he is basing his campaign on are education, inflation, energy shortages, unemployment, crime, and honesty in government.

Dr. Edward Pierce, an MD seeking the Democratic nomination in the 2nd Congressional District, has made public his campaign finances to date.

Pierce, who is running what he describes as a "low - budget campaign," disclosed that he has received $5,060 in donations to date and has spent $4,898.

The accounting was given to a group of local supporters on May 23. Pierce emphasized that none of the donations he has accepted has been more than $200. Early in May, Pierce announced he wouldn't accept contributions from individuals more than $200, and none from groups of more than $500.

"I KNOW that this figure for expenditures will seem low to many people who are used to high - priced, professionally managed campaigns," said Pierce.

"And I have had to turn down offers of contributions because of my voluntarily set limitations. But I cannot feel more strongly that it is vital to the future of our democracy that we big money out of politics.

"And the only way this is going to happen is if candidates simply refuse large contributions which inevitably come with strings attached.

"I again strongly urge all the other candidates in this primary to set their own limits to what they will accept, and show the public that Democrats in this district aren't going to wed themselves to monied interests."

PIERCE SAID he realized he would be outspent by a very great margin in this campaign.

"I realize that other candidates are talking about spending $50,000 in this primary; that there are impressive surns of money coming into this district from out of state; and that other candidates are able to spend considerable amounts on paid professionals from outside the district.

"But I'm still confident that we can make this small contribution - type campaign work. There are a lot of middle and low - income people in this district who know me, and many of them have been willing to dig deep in their pockets and make a small donation. These small donations are adding up.

"And I also feel that I don't need to spend as much as some other candidates might have to. A long history of service to the district, my years treating people in the Summit Street Medical Center, and my record of participation as a Democrat are worth more than any amount of money I could

John Reuther discloses tax

John Reuther, candidate for the Democratic Congressional nomination in the 2nd District, made public his 1973 income tax return over the weekend revealing he paid $3,055.10 in federal taxes on an income of $16,215.89.

Reuther earned income during 1973 as a legislative researcher for Ford Motor Company and as a line worker at the Fisher Body Division in Livonia. He also received $230 in deferred pay from the 1972 Democratic presidential campaign. "It isn't required by law that I disclose my tax return, but I am asking the people of the 2nd District to give me their trust by electing me to Congress. I believe they have a right to know when and how I have earned my money.

'Unfortunately, public trust in elected officials is such that they must now prove they are not tied by special interests or personal influence.

"Full disclosure of personal and campaign finances isn't yet the law. I believe it should be and am therefore going to make mine public."

New education

If you haven't been a visitor at any of our modern high schools you'll be due for a surprise if you tour any of the facilities.

The surprise won't come in the classrooms, as you and I knew them in days of yore. Instead, you'll be knocked off your feet when you get to the vocational training centers.

At least, that's what happened to The Stroller the other day when he was taken to the welding department of one of our area schools and watched the lads at work learning a Shades of the past!

When The Stroller was a young lad, and vocational training was cutting its eye teeth in student training we had a room set aside for teaching us something that would be useful for the boys who weren't going to college.

Many were the days that he stood, as a kid, and watched the town blacksmith fitting new shoes on the horses. The manner in which he fitted the shoes always was fascinating - but it is a good thing The Stroller never went further than watching the blacksmith. It's an almost forgotten trade

On other occasions he would stand by the hour and watch the men at the blast furnances making ingots of cast iron and steel. He often dreamed that maybe some day, he'd be a big steel

That day never came, and the furnaces back home are now only a fond

None of these dreams would have taken place if we had had a vocational center at school.

CAME THE DAY when a great decision had to be made in The Stroller's life. His widowed mother needed there were so few building projects help to raise her family and the only

Had we find a vocational training center as they have today, there would have been no need of leaving school.

Teenagers need services

EDITOR:

I can hardly believe the Plymouth community's attitude on some very important problems involving our young people.

First of all, all this quibbling over money for Youth, Inc. Teenagers need services like this and in these stressful times we live in, the need is even Secondly, there's the matter of our academically talented children. It's interesting to note that in this affluent and well educated community, there are not programs for our highly superior students. They are slowly wasting away intellectually and many times suffering emotional problems.

Such a waste of great talent n the long run, the whole world will suffer at this loss.

These teachers wrap creativity in many packages

BY MARGARET MILLER

Creativity comes in many packages when a couple of pre-school teachers like Ellen Wahi and Ann Stasinos get

It started out as the major ingredient of a nursery school they have taught in Northville for six years now.

Named, not surprisingly, the Creative Day Nursery, it has slanted its activities especially to helping young children use their hands and imaginations in play and projects active rather than passive.

The approach was so successful that Mrs. Wahi, a Northville resident, and Mrs. Stasinos, who lives in Farmington Hills, decided parents could use a portion of creativity too. THUS CAME INTO BEING the creativity workshops, in Northville Presbyterian church, home of the nursery class, taught by the two teachers for mothers and children together and conducted outside nursery school Next, they decided to record their ideas. A spiral-bound handbook, "Creative Activities," was published last year and now is in its second printing. It contains a wealth of ideas for creative play and has sold several hundred copies.

AND IT HAS LED the teachers to their most recent creativity package a traveling creative activities workshop that they will take to any organization interested in education of young children.

Since launched in December, the workshops have been conducted for some 30 groups, including a preschool groub in Livonia, the paraprofessional in-service aides in the Farmington public schools, Plymouth Montessori pre-school, Family Life pre-school parent cooperative in Southfield and the Marquette School parent and pre-school groups in Garden City.

THESE ARE TRIED AND TEST ED ideas that have been especially popular and successful with children in our own school," Ann Stasinos said.

"We've tried to simplify the great number of ideas we've collected and get the demonstrations down to several basic activities.'

These include collages, magic clay, paper dying and making doughnuts from canned biscuits.

Groups that book the workshop-which costs $30-are asked to have a few supplies on hand, but Mrs. Wahi and Mrs. Stasinos carry along quite a few things they need for the 1

"ALL THESE THINGS are very simple, but enjoyable for all age groups," Mrs. Wahi said. "They all are things that can be done with materials available in a grocery or hard- creativity in young children-it everyone if it works out spontamodels, beads. EACH PRESENTATION, the teachers said, seems to bring with it ideas for other creative play.

"Every time we meet someone and get talking about creative ideas for little children we come out with new suggestions for activities," Mrs. Stasinos said.

"We figure by the time we finish many more of them we'll have enough ideas for a new book."

THE WORKSHOPS, like the book the pair compiled, also include "some of our philosophy on early childhood education," as Mrs. Stasinos put it.

"We hit other ideas besides just activities," she added. "It's so important for people to get some understanding of the great potential for creativity in cooking, sewing, other things that go on in a little child's life.

"If people understand how it is that a small child learns, his world can be expanded tremendously."

A good share of this philosophy can be summed up in a paragraph from the teachers' book.

"In today's highly-mechanized world," itreads, "it is refreshing and fun to return to using our imaginations and our hands; and it is still good for children to be actively involved with play materials rather than to be passively entertained by too much television and too many gad-

Little brother stars at wedding

Mrs. Margaret Hedger thought it was pretty funny last fall when Barbara, her nurse-in-training daughter, suggested her mother ought to have another baby because the tiny ones in the hospital nursery were so cute.

before Barbara's marriage to Gardell Blake in May.

Young Brian Charles Hedger was born April 8, less than a month

He was on hand for the wedding in the Seventh-day Adventist Church of Farmington.

"Slept right through it," his mother reported. "But he was quite an event-he got even more attention than the bride." Mrs. Hedger and her husband, Lee, who lived in Livonia until a recent move to Brighton, were dismayed when they first realized they'd be increasing a family that included a 17-year-old son and two older daughters.

"But we're sure now its a blessing to have him," she said. "The others will all be away next year, and we intend to enjoy him." Now that we're older, I think we'll appreciate him more."

Brian's maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Barber of Livonia.

Thurston wins Northwest crown shook off their Les Anders tourney loss to John Glenn the night before to bounce back with a twin-bill sweep over the same Glenn club and capture the Northwest Suburban title.

Thurston blanked Glenn in the opener, 6-0, to wrap up the race and came from behind in game No. 2 to top the Rockets, 2-1, and finish the '74 campaign at 21-9 overall.

The Eagles scored a pair of runs in the first and second innings and single tallies in the fifth and sixth.

The opening inning saw Gary D'Ascenzo safe on an error and wild pitched to second. Ken McLean walked with Mike Donoghue safe on another error to load the bases.

RU high jumper is a real point-getter

By HANK MEIJER

Redford Union senior Scott O'Grady is short for a high jumper.

Even though he holds the school record at RU, finished sixth in the state last year, and has the best leap in the area this year with a jump of 6 - 5, most of his competitors are taller.

He stands 5 feet 8 inches and has a different perspective on the bar. "I'm always looking up." he said, "while they can look straight at it. Being a little taller might make them a little more uncoordinated."

THE REDFORD co - captain has been jumping since the eighth grade. In most meets he also hurdles, long jumps and runs the 440 relay. His 393 career points place him second on the Panthers' all - time list. Thanks to an article RU coach John MacKenzie gave Scott, before the season, the high jumper decided to alter his approach. He used to come toward the bar on a semi - circular course, angling in toward it. Now he takes a straight eight steps and jumps higher than ever. "I'm going as fast as I can in those eight steps. Before I couldn't get up

One thing that hasn't changed is his style of going over the bar. He took after Olympic champion Dick Fosbury right from the start and is a believer in the backward, head - first

THE COMPETITION is not without its psychological aspects, however.

Scott doesn't go in for idle boasts to scare his opponents, but tries to impress them before they have a chance to get off the ground in the meet.

"I always jump six feet a couple of times for my practice," he said, "just to let everybody know I'm there. Then in case I don't jump it in the meet they'll know I can make it anyway."

In practice at Redford Union he jumped 6 - feet 51/2 earlier this year.

He attributes some of his improvement this year to his girlfriend. He doesn't really consider her a source of inspiration, but her company seems to be helpful.

"She gets a little mad because I'm always going to track practice. But since I've been going with her I've been jumping higher ."

trackmen often prefer rubberized, soft tracks which give them more bounce, Scott likes the hard asphalt surfaces.

"The softer ones you can't really dig into," he said. He wears a special jumping shoe on his left foot which features a pair of spikes in the heel. He uses them to dig in and push off

"All my forward movement has to go up if I'm going to clear the bar. If it's slippery you keep on going for-

That take - off motion of digging in with his heel is even more vital now that his approach brings him to the bar at full speed, but it's also the source of a high jumper's most annoying injury - the bruised heel. "It's be-

WHILE HURDLERS and other cause you stomp your foot down really hard when you take off.

He is also troubled occasionally by jumping at schools which don't have adequate cushions in their high jump pits. "All you're conscious of is your landing. You don't worry about your technique in the air." And technique in the air is what it's all about. "It's all timing. Everything's got to be just right. I don't think there's two jumpers with the same approach. It's just the feeling you get when you're jumping right."

How high can he go in the state meet! The Michigan high school record is 6 - 9, but it probably won't take that to win the meet.

"A 6 - 8 would place me up there," he said, "It just might do it for the

The Yottis can't imagine what they would have done without the clinic. Agreeing with his wife about the tremendous extent of the help they have received, Yotti says, "They've given us a feeling that we're the only patients they have. I've never known such individual care."

That's the reason Rick and Cindy Yotti will be out ringing doorbells for the march for muscular dystrophy. They know that much of the money they raise will go for research at the national level.

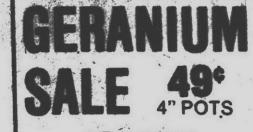

A good portion will go for treatment centers for young patients like Chris and Matthew. It will be used for wheelchairs and other appliances for older patients. And the couple are pleased to report that some of it will be used at Michigan State University to fund a research center for neuro muscular diseases.

Rich and Cindy Yotti feel fortunate that the hospitalization which he has through his job as a mathematician for Bendix Research laboratories in Southfield, covers the major portion of Chris's care.

They know that some of the money they collect will go toward giving financial assistance to families who don't happen to have hospitalization.

It's a strange set of circumstances which the couple had thrust upon them. It is a very rare disease and rarer still is the possibility of two people with the recessive genes mar-

Plymouth Township retires from Chevrolet

By HANK MELJER

PLYMOUTH - "In 1939 job offers were pretty scarce and you took the first one you got," said Melville Troyer of 41249 Ann Arbor Trail in Plymouth Township.

The mechanical engineer graduated from Purdue University that year and his only job offer was for a training position with Chevrolet at its Muncie, Ind. plant.

He took the job. Earlier this month, after 35 years with the General Mo-tors division, he retired from the Chevy Livonia plant.

Shortly before he left, the Livonia facility celebrated its 20th birthday. Melville Troyer was one of the men who made it possible.

Working out of offices of the Detroit Gear and Axle Co. in the early 1950s, Troyer and his colleagues took charge of designing tool, die and machinery departments for the proposed Livonia

Melville and his wife, Virginia, moved to Plymouth in 1953 on the recommendation of a GM associate. He bought the house on Ann Arbor Trail where they have lived ever since.

In April 1954 the new plant opened its doors. Troyer was named assistant superintendent - master mechanic.

Working in managerial roles throughout his tenure with the automaker, Troyer was promoted to general superintendent - master mechanic at the Livonia facility in 1966.

Virginia Troyer teaches fourth grade at Starkweather Elementary School in the Plymouth system. She will retire in June at the end of the school year.

The Troyers have one grandchild and a married daughter who lives near Flint.

They expect to spend more time with their family, but their most ambitious plans are for travel.

Troyer would like to drive to Alaska. But that would only be the beginning of global adventures for the

His dream is to go for an extended, cruise on a freighter. They have no particular destination and don't really care wnere they end up.

"We'll take it wherever it goes," the 57-year old engineer said.

He is a bowler and enjoys metal and woodworking crafts. "I have a few things in the basement," he said.

When the Troyers bought their house on Ann Arbor Trail an airport stood at the intersection of their street and Ann Arbor Road. Now there are stores and a subdivision on

His tenure has been a busy one. "You never have enough time to get the new model tooling in," he said.

He averaged nearly 50 hours a week. on the job, working Saturdays and putting in countless hours of what he describes as "casual overtime."

Now the job is behind him. He chose an early retirement arrangement and is looking forward to spending more time with his wife. "I've seen too many people go up to the wire and get sick and not be able to enjoy things," he said.

Does he miss not heading for work in Livonia every morning? "You have mixed emotions," he said. "You miss the excitement, the decision-making, being into things, but it's nice not having the pressure:"

Money goes to multiples

Housing starts decline continues in region

Residential building permits issued in Southeast Michigan declined in 1973, for the second consecutive year. with an even great drop in single family construction.

The 1973 residential construction report of the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) also reflects a continuing shift away from single - family buildings to multiple dwellings.

Only Oakland and Macomb counties showed an increase in the number of housing units authorized for construction in 1973 over 1972. Wayne County had a decline of almost 33 per cent in housing starts.

The top 10 growth communities, housing - wise, in the region during 1973 were: (in order of ranking) Troy, 2,061 residential units authorized: Sterling Heights, 1,992: Canton Township, 1.583: Clinton Township, 1.489; Waterford Township. 1.396; Ypsilanti Township, 1.344: Detroit, 1,019: Novi, 945; and Shelby Township, 899.

The fact that six of the top 10 communities are townships indicates the known fact that the lion's share of housing starts are going to the unincorporated, outlying areas with the greater amount of open space.

PERMITS WERE issued in 1973 for 35,752 new single - family, two - family, and multiple units in the seven county region.

This is a 10 per cent drop from the 1972 regionwide total of 39,836 new units authorized. In 1971, 43,865 new housing units in all categories were authorized through building permits.

The above figures are gross totals which don't include housing demolitions. Net totals also are included, however, in the SEMCOG report. The region includes the counties of Wayne. Uakiand, Livingston, Macomb, Monroe, St. Clair and Washtenaw SEMCOG officials explain that the increase in housing units in Oakland and Macomb is due mainly to increases in the construction of multi - fainilv structures.

In 1972, Oakland County's gross total of housing units authorized was 10.619, with permits issued for 5,106 multiples. In 1973, the county's gross total was 12,058 with 7,197 being multiples. A similar pattern held for Ma-

The report cites rising interest rates on FHA mortgages and a similar rise in the prime interest rates to banks (now at 11 per cent) as major reasons for the overall regional decline in housing construction during 1973.

"The energy crisis, a shortage of building materials, and rising unemployment are considered as other factors contributing to the decline in permits in 1973," the report

NOT ONLY DID residential construction decline by 10 per cent from 1973 to 1972, but the figures in all residential categories were the lowest reported since the low point reached in 1970. The ratio of multi - family permits to total units continued to rise in 1973. Since 1963, there has been a steady increase from 36.5 per cent for every year except 1969 when there was a rapid increase to the highest level recorded — 57.7 per cent. In 1973 the proportion stood at 54.1 per cent.

In 1973, Detroit continued to have the greatest proportion of demolitions in the region - numbering 7,397 which was 79 per cent of the regional total. At the same time, however, Detroit continued to be among the top 10 communities in total authorized units and in multi - family structures.

IN 1973, Oakland County authorized building permits for 4,827 detached one - family units, 34 two - family units, and 7.197 multi - family units for a gross total of 12,058. Subtract 853 demolitions, and the net total is 11,205.

Wayne County issued building permits for 3,451 detached one - family homes, 128 two - family homes and 5,188 multiples for a gross total of 8,767. Wayne County, however, must subtract a whopping 7.936 demolitions for a low net total of 831 new units.

The 1972 "net" totals were 10.153 for Oakland County and 5,664 for Wayne County. Of the demolitions in Wayne County, more than 90 per cent are in Detroit.

In 1968 multiples were 40.5 per cent of all Oakland construction, 57.9 per cent of Wayne county construction. and 49.7 per cent of the region's total. In 1972, multiples were 48.1 per cent of Oakland's total construction, 67.4 per cent of Wayne's, and 53.3 per cent of the region's total. In 1973, the multiple proportions were 59.7 for Oakland County, 59.1 for. Wayne County, and 54.1 for the region.

WHODUNIT?

The sofa, the stove, the bicycle, the dress . . . all sold in a day. Who could have done it? It really isn't a mystery at all. Every fact points to Observer & Eccentric Classified Ads: the quick response, the number of calls, and most important, the results-

Consider the opportunity . . . The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers are read twice each week by more than 155,500 families in Wayne and Oakland Counties. Families next door to you and in neighboring communities.

Consider the motive . . . The Observer & Eccentric Want Ad Department has a strong desire to satisfy your needs, whether you're selling a couch or looking for a job.

The modus operandi is well known and makes the solution to this case elementary. Whodunit?
