Fire razes building

THE ABANDONDED Speciality Feed building at Haggerty Road and the C&O Railroad tracks was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin Tuesday night. Fire units from Plymouth Township, Canton Township, Livonia and Northville battled the flames for several hours. The fire burned out all the C&O wiring, stopping train traffic more than two hours. Motor traffic on Haggerty was blocked for three hours. Fire units were delayed arriving at the fire by heavy traffic. The cinder block building was empty, but old, dry wood continued to burn, Fire Chief James Gignac said. The C&O last week had been ordered by the township to tear the building down. It had been condemmed previously, the chief said. Arson is being investigated. More pictures on Page 4D. (Staff photos by Doug Johnson)

Board denies school lunch price hike request - for now

By BOB ERICKSON

PLYMOUTH-The Plymouth Community Board of Education has refused, at least for the time being, to approve an increase in school lunch prices which administrators say is sary "to maintain the sch lunch program on a self- supporting

Citing the need for more information about the necessity for the increased lunch prices, the board rearmed the proposal to the administration for figures which would concretely show whether the cost boost is

The administration had proposed an increase of five cents per lunch in elementary, middle school and adult lunch programs currently subsidized by the federal government.

In the elementary schools, lunches would have been increased from 45 to so cents, in the middle schools from

Though administrators insisted that "anticipated increases in the cost of labor and food prices...and the need to replace old equipment" indicated the need for the lunch price hikes, Mrs. Benson told the board in her motion, "I don't want to raise the price of lunches unless we can determine that it is absolutely necessary."

Board member Shirley Mack questioned whether high school students would eat standard Type A lunches.

But Raymond Hoedel, assistant superintendent for business, noted that changes in federal lunch program regulations allow the cafeteria to offer "a la carte" lunches for students who desire them, in addition to the more formal "salad and dessert" Type A fare. Many a la carte menus would fit

Cable television stands a good chance of becoming a reality in Plymouth, but its future in Canton ownship is still shaky.

The Canton Township Board approved a 30-year cable television franchise with Canton Community Systems, Inc. (CCS) in April, 1973.

It gives CCS exclusive rights to operate and maintain a community cable television for an initial 30 year period and an option for 10 more.

The terms of the franchise are written into township ordinances but must approved by the electorate at a general election since it is exclusive.

In addition to support from the electorate, the franchise holder must secure a certificate of compliance from the Federal Communications Commission (FCC).

Efforts by the Plymouth Observer & Eccentric to contact Leonard Liss, local stockholder in CCS, proved fruitless. Liss who reputedly lives in Plymouth Township has an unlisted phone number.

He did not return messages left with his answering service.

Township clerk John Flodin didn't have a number for Liss and said he had not seen him for a month or

He added, "The franchise has to be submitted to the electorate. It could appear on the August ballot. I suspect that he (Liss) has been working with the FCC.'

Flodin suggested the township building department might have a phone number for Liss because he has been doing some building in the area.

This, however, proved futile and the companies that might know Liss' whereabouts didn't have phone listings in the Canton Township or Plymouth areas - including Canton Community Systems the official name of the cable television firm for Can-

Attempts to contact Liss were made to learn if he intends to have the franchise question on the August ballot, if he is seeking an FCC certificate and what progress is being made by CCS in acquiring sites and building

Township Trustee James Poole, a candidate for township supervisor, who abstained from voting on the franchise agreement with CCS, has been outspoken in his objections to the contract. One of his objections was that no other bids for a cable TV franchise were received.

Poole said last week that he was not aware of anything being done on the cable TV set-up. "I can't substantiate it," Poole said,

"but I understand he (Liss) is trying to sell it. I haven't seen him or any of those people in months." Poole reiterated his objection that the franchise like anything else should have been awarded from bids. Poole feared the same thing was happening in the township that happened in Muskegon several years ago. After a cable franchise was held with Muskegon developer sold it for more than $300,000.

Leonard Leggett of Wooster, Ohio, is CCS president. Leggett is also a board member of Clear Picture, Inc. which operates a cable TV company in the Wooster area.

Clear Picture's service in the Wooster area is considered very satisfactory. It was a visit to Wooster by Flodin, Canton Township Treasurer Grant Campbell and Earl Gibson that was the clincher for awarding the franchise to CCS.

There is a question, too, if a 30-year franchise would in effect, be legal. The FCC code states: "The initial franchise period shall not exceed fifteen (15) years, and any renewal franchise period shall be of reasonable duration:"

Franchise critics also object to the payment schedule which calls for one per cent to the township after three years of operation or "when 50 per cent of the potential subscribers passed by the service cable are connected to the system, which ever first occurs; two per cent the next year following the one per cent payment and three per cent in all subsequent years of the franchise."

Another outspoken critic of the franchise is Robert E. Greenstein, an attorney who is also a candidate for township supervisor.

He claims the 30-year franchise is improper insofar as federal law is concerned and that it is "sheer insanity to grant a firm with whom no one had done business previously in the township an exclusive right amounting to a monopoly . . ."

Township supervisor Philip Dingeldey says Liss is working with the federal government and financing

HOWEVER, A BILL to deal with Monday ends the State of Mich- that evertuality passed the Senate sevigan's fiscal year, and by that time eral weeks ago with minimal support, the State Legislature and the govercommittee, ready to make its stage

That emergency bill barely received the 20 votes necessary to send it to the house when State Sen. Carl Pursell (R-Plymouth), who is a member of the Senate appropriations committee, spoke against it.

Pursell noted that the legislature had had the governor's budget since Jan. 1, and said that he was "disappointed" with the leadership of both houses and with the governor for not dealing resolutely and efficiently with "Some members may want to go home to campaign," he said, "but I can't feel comfortable, as a member of the appropriations committee, in supporting that decision. How can we ask local government, local schools and other departmental agencies to respect budget deadlines when we cannot honor a budget deadline?"

PURSELL SAID that he thought the Senate was taking the "easy way out... during an election year," and he and eight other senators voted "no" on the bill to extend the budget deadline. Among those was State Sen. Willism Faust (D-Westland), whose district includes Westland and Garden City.

Sen. Charles Zollar (R-Benton Harbor), who sponsored the bill, insisted that regardless of the "ideological reasons" some senators might have for disapproving of the bill, they must pass the measure or face the possibility of government in the state coming to a virtual halt on July 1. "We either pass it," he said, "...or government will stop."

LIVONIA GM employes from Chevrolet Spring and Bumper, Fisher Body, General Motors Parts Division and Cadillac are eligible, except those directly connected with administration of the program.

"We're pleased to again offer this program to our employes," says Dauch. Many of our employes have devoted their time and energy toward making their community a better place in which to live and work.

"This program is our way of honoring such employes for their selfless and sincere work and to demonstrate our support in their endeavors." Nominations may be made by em-

How local governmental units are charged for legal services

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a three part series on what legal representation for local governments costs, how it's charged back and what role it plays - or should play - in the City of Plymouth, Plymouth and Canton townships and the Plymouth Community School District.

By HANK MEIJER

PLYMOUTH-Although their bills don't look alike, attorneys for Canton and Plymouth Townships and the Plymouth Community School District all charge by the hour for their services.

According to Plymouth Township Attorney Don Morgan, lawyers customarily bill clients one of two ways-by the specific tasks they perform or by the hours they spend working on the client's behalf.

Among the governmental units in the Plymouth-Canton area, all but the City of Plymouth pay their attorneys on an hourly fee schedule.

City Attorney Charles Lowe retains a position on the city payroll at an annual salary of $8,467.

NONE CHARFES according to the particular tasks they perform, which range from drawing up right-of-way agreements for utility companies seeking easements across public land to defending the governmental unit in the courtroom in a lawsuit.

"By and large it is fairer to charge on an hourly basis than by activities, regardless of the type of litigation involved," Morgan said.

The fees which attorneys charge governmental units tend to be lower than those received from private

"I don't know what a fair fee is," said Morgan, who bills Plymouth Township at an hourly rate of $40 and a monthly retainer of $50.

"It's a matter of honesty and a little bit of conscience." said Plymouth Township Supervisor J. D. McLaren of the legal fee structure in Plymouth Township.

"I LIKE TO think they're paying a fair price and I'm getting a fair salary," said City Attorney Lowe.

"It's by no means a lucrative field for attorneys," said John Thomas, a partner in the firm of Sempliner, Guth and Thomas (SG&T), which represents both Canton Township and the Plymouth Community School District at a flat rate of $45 per hour.

"WE GET OUR full measure dollar out of them, we're very satisfied with our counsel (SG&T)," said School Supt. John M. Hoben. "The contact I have with him (school attorney Thomas) is almost daily.

"We use our counsel very effectively. If I'm in doubt I'm going to check it through with him."

According to Hoben, the need for legal advice is growing. "I use general counsel a little more than my predecessors," he said. "I'd rather spend a few bucks more than end up with a law suit. All you have to have is one law suit and it can wipe out five years of legal fees."

The hourly rate means the school district and the townships can be charged for every phone call or brief conversation which relates to government business.

"I call them up (SG&T) many times, but if I call them now my name appears on a bill," Hoben said. He also noted, however, that "a lot of times we get free advice at breakfast," and through other informal encounters.

Although he is pleased with the district's association with SG&T, he has

So the entire project now is hung up on a series of "ifs" -- if the Pilgrim Towers group picks up the option - if the city will agree to assume additional interest - if the original group will purchase the adjoining piece of land on Ann Arbor Trail - and if the state can find a new funding program, the long cherished dream will become a reality, and Plymouth will have a senior citizens housing project where the rents will run from $125 to $150 per

The situation in Plymouth is much clearer.

Howard W. Sharpley, president of Alden CATV which holds the franchise for the city of Plymouth, reported that he has just recently received his certificate of compliance from the Federal Communications Commission. He is in the process of getting for a tower site.

He would like to broaden his area and says, "I would like to get Plymouth Township in on it."

He estimates that it will still be a year to a year and a half before programs will actually be going into Plymouth homes via cable television. In the meantime, the company will probably rent a small office and studio space in Plymouth.

Sharpley said his FCC certificate lists about eight metropolitan area bids to build the system and looking channels-WKAR WKAR in East Lansing, two from Chicago, WGN and WSNS, and those for local Plymouth meetings, council meetings and sports events. Starting Thursday, June 27 and running through Monday. July 1. Veit's ton of people will be joining some 1,200 volunteers working at the festival booths and rides just west of Cobo Veit became involved with Focus Hope several years ago when he was chairman of St. Maurice Catholic Cliurch Christian Service Committee. He organized fund raisers to help with Focus Hope's prescription food program which supplies 18,000 pregnant women, infants and pre-schoolers with mental foods.

This will be the third year that he has actively recruited volunteers for the summer brotherhood festival, and this year he has more than a hundred from this area.

SOME 70 FOLKS from Livonia are duled to man the game tent. Through the Livonia Citizens for Better Human Relations and the efforts of Dorothy Buckley, the volunteer list has grown. Many of the people represent local churches St. Edith, St. Michael, St. Genevieve, St. Priscilla Catholic churches and a group from Pilgrim United Church of Christ which Len and Bob Wright are organ-

Veit says of the festival, "I like to think of it as a grass roots promotion of brotherhood. If it doesn't happen on a one-to -one basis, it isn't going to happen at all.".

Not far away, Gary Walker of Plymouth has been busy recruiting in his church, Kirk of Our Savior Presbyterian of Westland.

Until Walker got his church interested in Focus Hope several years, only a handful were familiar with the Detroit based program.

Walker arranged for many of the Focus Hope people including The Rev. William Cunningham, director, to visit, talk and show films of the programs.

Now, Walker says, his church in very actively involved on a permanent basis. And the volunteer list Arrowsmith said, explaining his surprise move in switching parties while filing for reelection.

What it boils down to, he explained, is "I can better represent the district as a Democrat."

Arrowsmith said that since 24 of the 27 county commission seats are currently held by Democrats, "there are times it would help being with the majority."

HIS DEFECTION from the Republican Party, and the fact that no Republicans have filed for his seat, means the Democratic majority on the Wayne County Commission will become even more overwhelming after the Aug. 6 primary.

Three other candidates - who had planned to see Arrowsmith file again as a Republican - will oppose him in the August primary.

They are: Joseph C. Bonucci, of Apt. D5, 400 Plymouth Rd., Plymouth; Royce E. Smith, of 240 W. Columbia, Belleville, and Andrew J. Spisak, of 1857 Harvey, Westland.

The winner of that four - way race for the Democratic nomination to the 27th Wayne County Commission seat is virtually assured of election since no one has filed for the Republican nomination.

Despite the absence of Republican opponents in the race, Arrowsmith thinks the district is "becoming more Republican."

He said the partisan split should make little difference, and he'd like to see "the county elections on a non partisan basis.

"You see very few split votes at the county level," he explained, "and when there are, they're not along party lines."

Arrowamith said he didn't really consider himself strongly partisan and that he was raised as "a non-partisan person" by his father who is former city manager of Wayne. However he added, "I'll be a Democrat from now on.

I work for any party I belong to.
I worked to better the Republican Party and I'll work to better the Democratic Party," he said. Arrowsmith, 29, lives at 43114 Washston Way in Canton Township.

A credit measure for a Royal Oak company, Beautei added that he hopes to get greater attention of the suburban Wayne County communities from the county commission.

"I believe the City of Detroit should not hold all of the (county) for details.

not hold all of the (county) funds, when this district needs it more. "All of the money the county is allocating seems to be going into Detroit," he said. Bonucci has been active with Jaycees and the Knights of Columbus as well as with benefits for the mentally retarded and muscular dystrophy. SPISAK is a Westland police lieutenant who has 14 years of experience with police departments.

He promised the continuation of Sheriff's Department police protection for rural townships in the district which don't have local police Spisak, 39, said the township residents "deserve and need" the police protection. "They pay their taxes like everyone else.' The candidate said that police work is a public service and government work is merely a different type of public service. "Being a politician is like being a policeman-we must listen to the people," he continued.

to Alaska A work project that is soon to pull six Livonia women into the cool, crisp air of Palmer, Alaska will be the subject of a brief talk by Florence Vance at the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services Sunday, June 30 of the Ward United Presbyterian Church of Livonia. Scheduled to depart with Miss Vance on July 2 for the Arctic mission are Mrs. Virgie Cotner, Mrs. Jerry Kenny, Marion Mansfield, Kay Wallar, Donna Russell. All but Miss

Russell are members of the church. The idea for the Alaskan trip originated in a church circle of business and professional women. Ann Ryno, a missionary whom the group was helping, invited them to visit the mission

They learned they could be of help in cataloging books, cooking for young people there on work projects, painting and other activities.

Ranging in age from 30 to 70, the women will fly to Alaska, each paying her own fare. The mission will furnish board and room. At the end of the summer they will split up, each taking a week's vacation in her own way. Some will leave Alaska by the inland

Upon their return they plan to show slides and movies of their project to church groups and in school classrooms.

Black walnut roots a threat

Is there any truth to the idea that a black walnut tree near the vegetable garden will stunt or kill the plants? The answer is, yes.

Black walnut trees are highly prized for nuts and timber but are scorned near a vegetable garden.

Here are answers to some questions we have received about black wal-

Do the roots of the black walnut really secrete a poison?

Answer: Yes. The roots contain a pliytoxin (plant poison) called Jugone. This compound is not secreted into the soil, but when susceptible plants touch the roots, injury occurs. How far is the toxin zone?

Answer: The range is as far out as the spread of the root system, anywhere from 50 to 60 feet, and up to 80 feet.

What are the susceptible plants? Answer: As far as we know, no one has put out a list yet. Highly susceptible plants include many evergreens, azalaes, rhododendrons, and many vegetables such as tornatoes, corn, potatoes, plus dozens of others.

Answer: Yes. Only the roots can exude poison. Roots must be alive. After the tree has been cut down, is the soil poisonous to plants?

Answer: After the tree is killed or removed, no more Juglone is made. Would you recommend a black walnut tree on a small lot where vegetables are to be grown?

Answer: No, not if you're interested in raising vegetables. There are a few that tolerate Juglone poisoning, and if any reader knows what they are, please send your information along.

MANY HOME GARDENERS find they get sweeter melons if they use Epsom salts on the vines. Commercial melon growers have found that flat, tasteless meions can be prevented by sweetening them up with a

The ideal way to spray your melons is when the vines start to run, and again when the fruits are between one and two inches in diameter. Field recommendations are to add four pounds of magnesium sulphate (Epsom salts) and two pounds of borax to 100 gallons of water.

For the home garden, this figures out to 6½ tablespoons of Epsom salts and 3½ tablespoons of borax (house hold type) to five gallons of water.

GREEN THUMB CLINIC: "I planted a peach tree this spring and it leafed out nicely. Now I notice a sticky substance coming from the trunk. Is this harmful?"

Answer: Yes, it's a sign of peach tree borer. Scrape off the gum boil and poke a wire into the hole in hopes of stabbing the borer. Also spray the trunk with malathion.

Summer yard work for teens

For teenagers, the nation's energy crisis may seem remote. But chances are, they'll feel it in their own wallets

With job layoffs affecting a larger number of the adult population than usual, competition for summer and part-time jobs is stiffer than ever.

The average teenage boy needs a steady flow of cash to support his car, its insurance payments and gasoline. Money for dates is equally important. Probably the surest source of income for a teenager is in the area of cleaning up. Just because his own room is a disaster area doesn't mean he can't clean up a neighbor's entire yard in an hour and a half, if there's money in it. HE'LL NEED a rake, clippers, sho-

Another much-needed service is taking care of a house while the owners are away, to discourage breakins. Complete maintenance for an unoccupied house will include daily collection of mail and newspapers or circu-

Unexpected packages must be watched for and removed from the doorstep. Houseplants must be watered. (These can be left on the back porch or in some sheltered area).

The lawn and garden need to be watered regularly and mowed often enough to stay tidy.

FitzPatrick denies Silver's charges of county corruption.

Wayne County Commissioner Paul Silver's charges condemning adminis tration of county government were "irresponsible remarks from a merchant. of venom," according to Robert E. FitzPatrick, chairman of the board of commissioners.

"Silver should get his facts con rect," says FitzPatrick, who has been county board chairman since 1970. "He is, and always has been, a great agitator and as such has earned a reputation as a merchant of venom.

"His remarks about legislators, the prosecutor, the sheriff and his fellowcommissioners are completely irresponsible and should be refuted."

SILVER, in announcing his intentions not to seek re-election, called for a special citizens grand jury to investigate his "suspicions" of corruption, conflict-of-interest and general mismanagment in county government.

Among many allegations, Silver charged doctors at Wayne County General Hospital in Westland have formed a private corporation through which they refer patients to the hospital so they can visit and treat them sources committee of the board were while they are doing their regular hospital- paid work.

The county civil service system has resulted in discrimination based on race, sex and other facors, said Silver, "in the hideous system of the worst Tammany type of patronage

Silver charged FitzPatrick with failing to implement county programs, a failure which has led to loss of federal FITZPATRICK said that only a year ago Silver had commended the board of commissioners for its accomplishments.

"But because programs he favored weren't being implemented the way he wanted, he acted like a spoiled child and eventually called programs he had originally supported no good."

Neither FitzPatrick nor Silver is running for re-election. FitzPatrick, 40, is a candiate for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the 17th District.

FitzPatrick said Silver's acrimony began to mount after his proposals while chairman of the human reoften altered or rejected by other commissioners.

To Silver's charges that Wayne County government "tended to corrupt," FitzPatrick said:

He listed the prosecuting attorney and sheriff as examples of honest pub-lic elected officials who had been unjustly maligned by Silver.

FitzPatrick said he had not always agreed with Prosecutor William Cahalan or Sheriff William Lucas on best ways to manage programs, but was convinced both are capable and honest and don't deserve to be condemned by a broad brush accusation against all public officials in the coun-

FitzPatrick added that the board had implemented more programs in the past four years for the county than had been put into effect in the preceding 50 years.

In his farewell remarks, Silver commented: "Some decent citizens delude themselves into believing that we can sneak up with a county executive proposal on his hydra-headed faceless monster and tinker a little with it and somehow a reformed and restructured county government will emerge. They are wrong."

Designs assume variety of style

By PATRICIA BEACH SMITH CHICAGO—The home furnishings industry isn't too far behind the apparel industry in its ap-proach to fashion.

The looks are either classic, funky or pure and simple.

These styles pervade furniture, whose manufacturers are cleverly

PEGGED WOODEN FLOORS, a needlepoint throw rug and pewter with enamel accessories were used with Kroehler's classic collection at the recent home furnishings show in Chicago.

The classics run from elegant gearing up for the bicentennial more than ever, preparing fabrics for upholstery as well as window treatments to flooring and wall coverings.

Furniture manufacturers have apparently decided to choose sides.

Many are featuring contemporary bentwood numbers; others are sticking strictly to colonial styles.

LIKE MOST fads, the art deco mood has been distilled to include only the best examples in furniture, while the wall coverings and fabrics remain esoteric and have limited application in most furnishing situations.

The Oriental influence, to include the Near East more than ever, is about the strongest attitude in all phases of the market.

Jack Lenor Larsen's handsome afghan collection is expressed on fabrics and flooring. Its mood is that of a Persian rug.

Translated to flooring, many carpet companies, impressed with their new ability to print on carpets, have used these Persian ruglike patterns to excess.

CONSIDER THE colonial American home and you have the bulk of the fabrics and wall coverings on the middle of the scale.

They are charming crewels, large and tiny prints, stripes and plaids. The colonial colors like brick red, maroon, Delft blue and forest green are visual helpers, too. At the clean end of the scale are the geometrics and huge patterns of the Scandinavian looks. The colors are pure red, blue, yellow, green, black, white and brown with a little orange thrown in for amusement.

The bold window pane plaids are especially fresh looking, but definitely will not fit in a traditional American scheme-if you're working toward a period room, for instance.

THE THRUST of the summer Chicago market is aimed at the contract furnishings industry—furnishings which will be used in non-residential applications.

As such it must meet durability standards of rigid stature plus all the new flame retardant laws.

carpeting was featured at the furnishings show.

Basically, this causes a purity of form which is not as apparent in the residential market.

Hopefully, however (and one can see a slight trend that way), these clean looks will filter down in their best form to the residential mar-

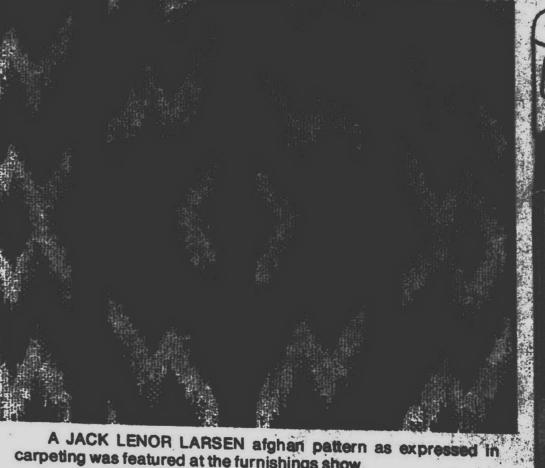

Several important flooring introductions are occurring at this end of the scale. One is the introduction of elegant carpet which is non-woven and non-tufted and re-sembles a ribbed sweater inside

The colors of this kind of flooring are neutral. Neutrality appears to be the way to go in coloration-either that, or monochromatic, in the contemporary market. And that's for walls, floors and furniture, too.

TO THE DELIGHT of the cotton and wool industries, no doubt, and probably to a lot of synthetic fiber haters, as well, many, new introductions are using pure natural fiber and natural fiber blends to achieve the still popular "natural" look.

There is no disputing the "hand" (feel to the touch) of 100 percent cotton, linen or wool.

Unfortunately the luxury of this fine hand and elegant look is expensive considering the world market price of most natural fibers. But most designers agree people are starting to expect more from their residential or contract furnishings and they're willing to pay for it.

Observation

by PHILIP H. POWER

Auto executives. UAW leaders. Small businessmen. Retailers. Even bankers and Realtors. They're all smiling a little more now than they have in months, because economically things look better today for the Detroit metropolitan area than they have in a long time.

With the (for now) end of the gas shortage, the consuming public seems again willing to think about buying new cars. The automobile industry has caught the swing in public taste to smaller yet more luxurious models and has a whole slew of new cars scheduled for introduction this fall.

Two straws of evidence: Late at night, drive by the tool and die shops in the suburbs, and you'll see a whole lot of overtime being worked. Talk to commercial printers about automotive business (usually a very good leading indicator of just how the wind is blowing) and they'll smile and say they see signs of life.

In short, 1975 looks as though it will be a very

WE SURE NEED one.

Although the rising prices of our inflationary times tend to mask it. the Detroit area has been through a pretty serious recession in the past year. Unemployment, even without counting the big auto industry layoffs. has been very high; with them, it's been at near-record levels. The housing industry has been in trouble, with money tight and interest rates out of sight. Retailers have experienced soft sales for nearly a year.

After all this, it's nice to contemplate the idea that times will get better later this year after the model changeover.

BUT THE RETURN of good times should not obscure the fact that one major problem we face in the Detroit area is the boom and bust quality of the economy in general and the auto industry in particular.

The pattern has existed for years, owing to the excessive reliance of the area on automobiles. Autos are a durable good whose purchase can be deferred by people when times are tough, unlike non-durable goods such as food, which must be purchased willy-nilly.

But the swings of the business cycle in Detroit seem to have been greater in the last seven years than since the war. There was the boom starting in 1968. followed by the bust of late 1969 and 1970. And there was the boom of 1972, followed by the most recent bust.

I suspect that this pattern of swings in the business cycle will get worse for the rest of this decade, not because of what's going on in Detroit but rather because our country is in the middle of a little-recognized revolution in economics.

WHEN THE GREAT economist John Maynard Keynes proposed his revolutionary theories, they seemed an amazing cure for the cycle of depressions that had plagued the western world for centuries and nearly brought it to grief in the

He pointed out that the two main methods of controlling an economy had been through varying the money supply (causing interest rates to move up or down) and allowing employment to shift. He noticed that reliance on these two factors inherently led to the boom and bust of the business

Keynes argued that there were two other ways of fine-tuning an economy which worked to even out the swings of the business cycle and

It could be our safest 4th

It's just a week away. The second major holiday of the year and for the first time in many years those close to the traffic picture believe it will be the safest July 4 in a long time.

These predictions are made despite a resurgence of summer tourist travel after the gasoline shortage that kept many motorists close to home over Memorial Day.

In the first place, the Fourth comes on a Thursday and there won't be that hustle and bustle to get places that marked travel in previous years. Naturally drivers will try to get to resorts and spend as much of the 24-hour period there as possible but then they'll be back at work on Friday morning.

Latest figures show Michigan traffic fatalities down 31 per cent for the first 51/2 months of 1974. This was due largely to the 27 per cent drop in highway deaths over the Memorial Day weekend.

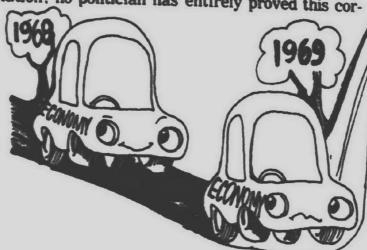

Motorists are urged to concentrate on safe driving every mile they travel over the Fourth holiday, which in some instances will extend from Wednesday to the following Monday.

IF YOU'RE SMART you'll wear your safety belt and stay away from alcohol. More than one traffic survey shows that highway travelers could help cut down fatal accidents by more than 50 per cent if they would follow the two precautions.

which could be used to keep employment high. (1) Tax rates could be increased or decreased to reduce or stimulate overall demand; and (2) the government budget could be increased or decreased to produce similar shifts in demand.

Keynes argued that these two new factors in economics could be used consciously to overcome recessions; President Kennedy proved him right when he cut taxes in the early 1960s and set off a period of unparalleled economic expansion that lasted for most of the decade.

Keynes also argued that increasing taxes and cutting the size of the budget could also reduce inflation; no politician has entirely proved this correct, although most economists think that's because they lack the guts to try it.

For political reasons, the two great devices for fine tuning the economy proposed by Keynes are no longer available to us. We are, in fact, back to a pre-Keynesian economy, with the only instruments of control being the interest rate and employment levels. And these lead inevitably to the swings of the business cycle.

Congress only last week passed landmark legislation establishing a coordinated joint committee to review budget proposals and a staff of experts to provide the kind of information needed to control the budget. But this legislation will not take effect until 1975, and probably it will not be until the 1980s for it to have much effect.

All of which means that the nation will go through the boom and bust cycles that characterized the pre-Keynesian economics for at least another four or five years.

And the Detroit area, plagued by its heavy concentration on durable goods, will have disproportionate swings: When times are good, they will be very good. When they are bad, they will be very bad.

Legislature tough on family life

Starry-eyed, hordes of candidates are seeking election to the Michigan Legislature, especially on the Democratic ticket, this presumably being a Democratic year. One can't fault them for being ambitious. Indeed, a person running for office deserves a certain amount of admiration for the abuse he's sure to take.

But a word of warning: Our state has created a socially difficult situation in Lansing that is tough on the lives of family persons and likely harmful to the quality of government.

Congress is a bad enough place when you consider the divorces of Michigan's Bill Ford, Jack McDonald, Donald Riegle, Charles Diggs and Garry Brown, all within the space of about three years. But at least a congressman can move his family to Washington.

City councils and school boards are tough, too, but they occupy just a couple of evenings a week (counting secret sessions).

Long legislative sessions don't bother one of the men most responsible for them - House Speaker Bill Ryan. He has no kids, and he brings his wife up to his Lansing apartment - so some legislators tell me - and Ryan doesn't mind if sessions last 10 or 11 months.

LEGISLATIVE sessions begin in the evening on Monday, in the early afternoon Tuesday through Thursday, and in the morning on Friday. Typically, a lawmaker shares an apartment in Lansing rather than trying to commute each night.

Many lobbyists hold what seems to be a perpetual open house, and it's tempting to drop in after work. The booze is all good quality. You can support the drinking habit of a $40,000 a year man on a legislator's salary of $17,500, if you so fancy.

Women? I know of no scandals involving our local lawmakers, but I've heard some hair-raising statistics on the divorce and adultery rate up there. You can see why.

When our state was formed back in the 1830s. the constitutional convention visualized sessions of a few weeks and only one session every two years. Today our Legislature is in session every year for at least nine months with several special sessions stretching the working year to nearly the full length of the calendar.

Most of the groaning and moaning from property owners comes annually when they receive their tax bills and find the increase includes a hike for the schools. There is much grinding of teeth, stamping of feet, tearing out hair and such, but it never makes any difference...there is the and you have to pay it.

Yet it appears those same persons, who make all of the noise are the silent and missing ones at election time for naming members to the school

THAT'S WHAT MAKES the recent elections so strange. There was barely enough interest in any district, with the exception of Livonia and Plymouth, to cause one to take a second look at Livonia had much needed millage on the ballot along with the selection of one board member and attracted something like 40 per cent of the voters. It was due principally to the great amount of work on the part of those favoring passage of the millage which they knew was a "must" or would involve drastic cuts in programs if de-

The story was similar in Plymouth where more than 25 per cent of the registered voters went to the polls to make decisions on millage, bond issues and to select four board members.

There again the administration had done an excellent job in passing the word around that the millage and bond issues were needed for the mushrooming school system. Then, too, there were some 17 candidates for school board and one has to admit that every single one has a group of supporters... thus boosting the total vote.

THEN BY CONTRAST, turn your attention to Redford Township with almost 40,000 registered voters where less than 1,300 cast ballots in the two school districts- Redford Union and South

Believe it or not, there were slightly more than 600 ballots counted in each district which must be an all-time low.

It's true that there wasn't much of a race in the RU district where a strong incumbent faced two challengers. But the story was slightly different in South Redford where one had reason to believe voters would come out in large numbers to make certain the same mistake wasn't made twice in a row. That referred to an incumbent who didn't exactly fit the electors' choice of a best man. More than that he didn't win.

But it's a shame that Redford Township's voters don't have the same interest in the school board on election day as some did a few days later. That's when a small group stated it was going to file recall petitions for the entire Redford Union board because the trustees instructed the school superintendent to notify more than 20 teachers they would not have contracts for the 1974-5

IT SEEMS THAT many of the favorite teachers from one school were in the group and the parents didn't like this one bit. They weren't buying the fact the school system faced a loss of funds due to decreasing enrollment and that the board must notify the teachers well in advance of the final day of classes. Otherwise, without notification, the teachers are considered under contract for the next year and the board can't do much about it.

It would seem, from this angle, the dissident group would have done much better to have elected a member to the board and then had more voice in the activities. If only 600 voted, the group would have needed only one more yote than that to elect their man. They could have rounded up that many votes by concerted action on a couple of streets in the neighborhood.

But that isn't the way folks operate these days. They have little, if any, interest in elections or school boards until it hits close to home, then they become fighting tigers for a lost cause.

APATHY IS AN excellent description for the way voters performed on last election day. They just don't seem to care one bit about what's hap-

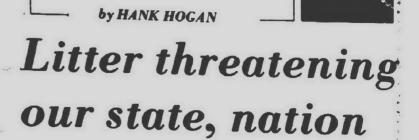

Otherwise, why were the totals so low in Gar-reached 15 per cent?

And it isn't necessarily true that Oakland people are any more interested than those in Wayne County. The percentage of eligible voters who cast ballots in school elections in the Oakland communities covered by the Observer & Eccentric newspapers were: Rochester 18, Troy 4.5, West Bloomfield 27, Birmingham 21, Bloomfield Hills 3, Southfield 11 and Farmington 15.

It seems that generally folks don't give a hoot who's on the school board or how the tax dollars are spent...until they get the tax bills.

In crossing this great nation of ours, you realize that within its borders we have all the natural beauty a human being can ask for.

We have mountains, canyons, oceans, the Great Lakes, deserts and tropics. Slowly but surely, this national beauty is being buried by mountains of litter. Alongside our great expressways, floating down our beautiful rivers, lying along our sandy beaches are broken bottles, discarded gum wrappers and other trash.

UNDER MICHIGAN LAW, if you are caught littering, you can be fined $100 or imprisoned for up to 90 days or both if you can be convicted. But littering is not the type of crime that is easily detected, and the fine doesn't seem to be much of a deterrent, considering the results.

Since it costs the nation millions of dollars each year to clean up this blight and still we are falling way behind, maybe we ought to do what California has done: It passed a law providing a $50 reward for anyone giving information leading to the arrest and conviction of a litterer. This means that instead of relying entirely upon their police departments to enforce the litter law, every citizen becomes a helper in keeping the state clean, and the added incentive of a reward makes it worth their while.

It does seem a shame to pit one citizen against another, but if everyone took it upon himself to make our country a better, cleaner place in which to live and play, we wouldn't have a

Since it is summertime and we are more likely to be using the great outdoor playgrounds our state and nation offer, we should pledge to ourselves that every place we visit will be left in better condition than when we first visited it.

IF EVERYONE not only made sure that he cleaned up any mess that he might have created but, on top of this, cleaned up a little of the mess someone else left, we would be progressing toward retaining our natural beauty.

And to take care of those who won't face up to their responsibility, if we could get the legislature to follow California's suit, we might be able to impress our citizens that while we do have a beautiful country it will only stay that way if all of us pitch in and contribute.

Let's work to preserve those beaches, rivers, mountains and canyons for our kids and our grandchildren.

It takes work, but anything worth preserving is worth a little effort on everyone's part.

Power criticized Pat McDonald for telling voters that Rep. William Brodhead's name was on a legal brief asking the State Supreme Court to "strike down Michigan's marijuana statute," so defendant appellant John Sinclair, leader of the radical Rainbow People's Party, could be released from prison. Power makes light of being "soft on grass."

I hope Power never has to deal with a child who is "high" on grass. The use of marijuana produces a breakdown of restraints that leads children out of school and to theft, so that it can be purchased. Marijuana leads to experimentation with sex, hallucinogens, drugs and narcotics.

The unspecified, socially unacceptable practices referred to were those of John Sinclair, not members of the Legislature. Th y include urging children to use marijuana, disregard for the law and contempt for the courts.

Brodhead's rebuttal — that the brief urged reducing criminal penalties rather than legalization - was strange, coming from a man who first denied knowledge of the brief, and then denied being associated with it.

Only when the brief was produced, Brodhead admitted he knew his name was on it. He said he didn't fulfill his obligation as an attorney and officer of the court to have his name removed because he "didn't think anyone would find out about it."

The brief, in fact, asks the State Supreme Court to "strike down Michigan's marijuana statute," not to amend it or reduce penalties. Rep. Brodhead was not being accused of being "soft on grass" as much as he was being accused of exercising plain bad judgment.

John Sinclair was hardly a charity case, as far as getting help was concerned. Beatle John Lennon was only one pop culture super-star working in his behalf. If Bill Brodhead's views are those contained in the legal brief, every right to know about them.

torney who filed the brief picked Rep. Brodhead at random from the phone book, the voters of the 17th District are entitled to know how his name got on the brief and why.

William Brodhead was listed not as an individual but as a state representative. In the absence of meaningful consumer protection, campaign re-form legislation, a method of pre-venting school strikes, help for senior citizens, welfare reform, progress in care of the mentally ill and retarded, curtailment of constant utility and health insurance increases, the voter may wonder how Bill Brodhead had time for John Sinclair. Hogan biased

EDITOR:

After reading Hank Hogan's editorial of June 17, I know how black people must have felt when George Wallace stood in the schoolhouse door. The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers are now complying with federal guidelines by no longer listing "help wanted" ads under male and female. This action has triggered a petualnt outburst by Hogan which exposes his bigotry toward women.

Traditionally, men have been paid more than women. Listing classified want ads according to sex has been a very effective way of saying, "No females need apply" for better paying feminists have opposed protective legislation for women only, because in many instances it has prohibited women from getting jobs.

If Hogan is truly concerned about readers' convenience, these ads would be listed under job classification such as clerical, medical, sales, etc. as categorized in the "Dictionary of Occupational Titles." This is the method employed by the two metropolitan papers. Both have been in compliance for several years.

Over and over, employers faced with providing special conditions for women but not for men have simply refused to hire women. Limiting the number of hours a woman can work also limits her earning power.

The male-dominated unions actively opposed the equal rights amendment for over 40 years on the grounds it would wipe out protective legislation. It was only after Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 made these laws moot that unions finally endorsed the

Women's issues need debating

EDITOR:

We, the members of the Schoolcraft-Livonia chapter of the National Organization for Women, are very pleased that all five Democratic candidates for the 2nd Congressional District and the incumbent, Rep. Marvin Esch, have supported the Supreme Court decision on abortion. We feel that this stand gives women the right to choose whether or not they desire an abortion.

Since they agree on this, we would like to hear some discussion and debate on other issues of interest. We are interested in how they feel about child care, more aid to education, reform of our tax laws, social security reforms for women, inflation, credit laws that discriminate against women, and so on.

We are looking forward to future debates on the above subjects.

Workmen littering

EDITOR:

The students and staff of Bird Elementary School, Plymouth, would like to make a complaint about the housing projects around our school.

It appears that the workers are littering our woods with trash from their building projects such as beer bottles, cement bags, boards, roofing materials and other building supplies.

We feel it is the responsibility of the builders to see that the trash resulting from the project should be disposed of properly and not left for the wind to carry all over.

For example I played school freshman Basball, and football and I never herd anything about are team. You always end up reading about Hang Chings chow-mein in some forend city. Big deal! I mean I'm not trying to get into the paper, it's just that I think you should just tell the people that live in plymouth about things that are happening in plymouth.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Little League's national rules prohibit publicity about individual players, so that newspapers are pretty much limited to running scores. Psychologists, too, warn against media publicity for persons of tender years. The news value of sports depends, in large degree, on their spectator interest; thus, recreation sports are inappropriate for expensive news coverage.

Canton needs better pay

EDITOR:

In the past four years, Canton Township has grown from an agricultural haven to a thriving, exciting, expanding "city" which must deal with large commercial interests bent on making as much profit as possible from the township and its people.

Decisions are being made which will affect people in this community for decades to come. These decisions are not entirely related to zoning and developments but also to such areas as police and fire protection, cable television, recreation, etc.

The time is almost upon us again to elect the persons largely responsible for running Canton — a supervisor, clerk and treasurer. These are responsible positions which will become ever more demanding with each

And yet the salaries offered for two of these positions are absolutely minimal: $15,300 for supervisor and $13,600 for clerk, while the treasurer is only part-time.
With these low salaries, we force qualified people to treat all of these jobs as part-time work or to look elsewhere for employment. These salaries have not been raised since 1972, and it is time to raise them again.

In addition, the township must seriously consider whether it is capable

We've added a new dimension to baby-sitting, and our youngest daughter figures it's the best one yet. Finally she's in the business. I've done a bit of muttering over the years of paying sitters that I'd sure be glad when the money started flowing the other way. That happened long ago, of course, but our No. 4 began to wonder if any of the jobs ever would come to her instead of to her sisters. She was the only one available, though, when last weekend there was a call for someone to take care of a four-month-old cutie home visiting in his grandparents' home while his parents attended a wedding in the family.

It's becoming an experienced sitter the hard way when you start with such a small squirmer, but she made it. At one point she telephoned me to say he'd only take his bottle if she was standing up. I told her I guessed she'd have to do her sitting standing up for a while. She did, and wound up on fine terms with her small charge.

But there were other aspects to this job that made it a definite addition to our saga of the baby-sitter. The mother of this young gentleman, you see, used to be our main baby-sitter when she was a high school student.

So, I told my daughter, if he gave her a hard time it was poetic justice—she wasn't always particularly cooperative for his mother.

And there was a final filip.

It turned out that two babies were involved in one of the two nights of sitting, because another relative arrived for the wedding.
So our daughter found a friend to help her and, you guessed it, she too had been baby-sat by the young mother visiting here.

I'd better figure out a moral. Maybe something like babies return to roost or the wails of the sons are visited upon the daughters.

Meet a family of good scouts

By JAN WILLIAMS

Two-year old Scott Bezrutch probably gets his share of aggravations growing up with four sisters and being the "one exception" in a scouting family.

But it's assumed in a few years Scottie will make his debut as a cub scout, also making the Bezrutchs' a 100 per cent scouting family.

The Bezrutch family of Westland, headed by Norman and Arlene, have pretty much accepted scouting as a permanent part of their lives.

"SCOUTING IS not a one or twoyear thing," Mrs. Bezrutch says. "It just seems to go on and on and every year you get more involved." Mrs. Bezrutch has been a troop leader for the past seven years and is currently leader of Cadette Troop 979. Her husband Norman, officially assurned duties this year as her assistant, although he has also been involved in scouting for the past seven

Their four daughters—one at each level of scouting—are Valerie, a mem-ber of Senior Troop 1061 and a tenyear veteran of scouting; Tammy, a Cadette in Troop 979 and a scout for eight years; Tracy, of Junior Troop 27, and Kelley, a member of Brownie Troop 2201.

Mrs. Bezrutch says she first became involved in scouting out of ne-

"If I hadn't agreed to become the leader, the troop would have been disbanded," she explained.

THEREAFTER, it just seemed natural for family members to follow suit and join a troop—even Dad, a pattern maker at Ford Motor Company. He finally decided to make it official after years of helping out in everything from cookie sales to camping trips.

All of the Bezrutch's agree that it's hectic having everyone involved in different phases of scouting. "It seems everyone always has something to do or somewhere to go and we look forward to that couple of months rest during the summer," Mrs. Bezrutch says. "But by fall weare ready to go again."

Aside from scouting activities, the Bezrutch's also find time to do things as a family, since being in different troops often separates them. This often includes summer vacations, hiking and other outdoor activities.

IN ORDER TO get things done, the family goes by a chart which determines whose turn it is to do the dishes, other household chores and feeding and caring for the two dogs, three cats, five chameleons, two gerbils, a rabbit, a dove, a rat, a guinea pig and various tropical fish.

Although Mr. and Mrs. Bezrutch feel scouting is a tremendous organization and a good way for the girls to grow up, they also encourage involvement in other activities.

"The girls are involved in so much more than scouting and I feel it has made them more well-rounded," Mrs. Bezrutch says. "Although scouting is a good part of our lives, it's not the only part."

VALERIE, 16, is a sophomore at Franklin High School. Besides being a first class senior scout and vice president of the Senior Planning Board, she is a pompon girl at Franklin and has been a candy-striper at St. Mary Hospital. She's also involved in basketball, softball and track and takes guitar lessons.

Tammy, 14, is an eighth-grader at Whittier Junior High School. She's involved in such school activities as track, softball and basketball. She also likes jazz and is an avid butterfly collector.

Tracy, 11, a fifth grader at Cooper

Elementary School, plays the clarinet in the school band, plays basketball and takes ballet lessons.

Kelley, a second grader at Cooper, also takes ballet lessons and has a passion for Sonny and Cher. The girls' parents also attest that all are good

Mr. and Mrs. Bezrutch also have other activities aside from scouting and running a family of seven plus.

MRS. BEZRUTCH is a book collector, while most of the things hanging on the walls, and the bookcases to hold Mrs. Bezrutch's books were made by Mr. Bezrutch. He also coaches a basketball team and is a member of the Board of Deacons at St. Paul Presbyterian Church in Li-

Another source of activity is their backyard which looks more like an enchanted garden and requires quite a bit of upkeep.

As for Scottie, the rest of the family says he doesn't do much, but he emphatically insists he plays cards. And although he's outnumbered by the girls, he at least has one thing to be thankful for-he won't have to wear hand-me-down uniforms when he joins the scouts.

Plymouth students read Bible in class

BY SHERRY KAHAN

In the opinion of Mrs. Cyndi Burnstein, church is not the only place to teach the Bible.

An English instructor at Plymouth-Salem High School, Mrs. Burnstein teaches the Bible as literature. In addition, she gives her students the opportunity to learn about the customs and history of biblical peoples.

Not content with merely lecturing her students, Mrs. Burnstein worked up her own approach to the Bible, making use of two modern media tools, the slide projector and the tape recorder.

"I went through libraries and picked out pictures of scenes and characters from the Creation to the time of King David." she said. "I selected gs, sculpture, tapestry and orital designs created by artists from the middle ages to the present."

"Then the librarians took photographs of them and had slides prepared," she said. To the slide presentation she added a tape recording of spirituals and biblically oriented folk music sung by Judy Collins and Peter, Paul and "There was quite a favorable reaction from the students to the whole thing," said Mrs. Burnstein. "It is good experience for them to have art, music and culture included in a class. It is often lacking in the regular curriculum."

"I have always been fascinated by religion and the Bible," she continued. "How anyone can overlook it is incomprehensible. It is the basis of our culture as far as art, literature and music is concerned."

She added: "My students have done papers on the influence of the Bible in all three of these cultural aspects." An outgrowth of the class was a request from a small group of students, thatMrs. Burnstein teach a class in the Hebrew language. "I had a small class for a year, mostly non-Jewish students," Mrs. Burnstein said. "I taught them conversation, reading and writing in Hebr. ew. Four students have asked for it next year."

One of the students pleased with the course is Jerry McKenny, a junior who is seriously thinking of becoming a Baptist minister.

"As a Christian I enjoy reading and studying the Bible," he said, "so this is an interesting class. I had never studied it as culture, literature or his-

"Yet if we only study it this way we miss the entire point, which is that it claims to be the word of God." he McKenny believed the course worthwhile from an educational standpoint, adding that "if the courts would allow us to study it as religion it would be improved.

He added: "It teaches kids to take a better look at history to see how it applies to Hebrew and Christian culture.

COMING JULY 15 TO CHURCH OF CHRIST, LIVONIA

Life is busy for BPW leader

By MARGARET MILLER

As director of District 9 for the Business and Professional Women's Club, Connie Fitzner of Plymouth figures she's had a busy year with maybe a busier one to come.

Mrs. Fitzner, a BPW stalwart since 1955 and holder of every office in the Plymouth club one year or another. now is at the half-way point of a twoyear term as top district officer. Her district includes clubs in Plymouth, Livonia, Northville, Farmington, Wayne, Westland, Garden City, South Redford and Lola Valley.

Projects for the year have been German-American night at the Plymouth Fall Festival, a fashion show and selection of a scholarship winner at the local level and several district meetings including the first legislative workshop.

Then, as chief liaison with the Michigan BPW, there have been work oh the organization's support of the Equal Rights Amendment and the recent state convention on Mackinac Is-

"AND THEN WE RECEIVED letters from the state officers," she said, "telling us that if we think we were busy this year just wait for the next

She's expecting, at a state board meeting in Grand Rapids the end of this month, to get an inkling of state BPW prospects for the coming year. CONNIE FITZNER, who has worked for the Michigan Bell Telephone Co. throughout her years as a businesswoman, also has had an especially busy time on the job during recent weeks.

A writer of training programs for use of new equipment, she has working on the Phase Two of Michigan Bell's Traffic Service Position System in the Plymouth office. "I've been five years on this particular job," she said. "One of the good things about working for the telephone company is that they move you around and you have a chance to do different work."

She started in the commercial division, later was an operator and, during the years when her two children were small, was employed in personnel in the Plymouth area.

"I was offered a different assignment then but turned it down because I wanted to stay close to home," she said.

Her present work includes a lot of traveling, helping to select new equipment for the company, and that fits well with her interests. She and her husband, Robert, also travel a lot as charter members of the Nomad Flying Club.

THE BEST PART of involvement in Business and Professional Women's clubs, Connie Fitzner believes, is "making friends around here and all over the state."

"Going to the state meetings," she said, "I have become acquainted with many businesswomen in other parts of Michigan, and sometimes I have reason to deal with them in business contacts.

"It was great to be able to ask Clair Daniels-she's out of office now and has just been elected to the Republican committee in Muskegon Countyto conduct our legislative workshop here this spring. It was very successful and the women here want another

Mrs. Fitzner makes it part of her district chairman responsibility to visit each of the nine clubs in her area at least once a year. She also makes extra visits for special occasions such as installations.

At home, this BPW leader finds time for assorted craft work and is an avid collector-of buttons, children's books, paintings and even rocking chairs.

"My husband has said he's going to have to build me another house to make room for the chairs," she laughed.

Only trouble is, when you're as involved as Connie Fitzneer in the BPW, you don't have much time to sit in them.

Musician en route to Australia

By JAN WILLIAMS

The trumpet might well be dubbed the horn of plenty for Stephen Pangrazzi of Westland.

As a trumpet player in Musical Youth International, Pangrazzi has traveled to such places as Mexico and Venezuela. This summer MYI will tour Australia for five weeks.

MYI is a chartered people to people youth group which annually visits a distant area of the world to experience interchange of living at the personal level

Each year 100 students are selected from high schools in the Great Lakes area to organize a concert band and chorus. Mrs. Lester McCoy of Saline is executive director. MYI was founded by her late husband in 1965.

THIS IS THE SECOND year Pangrazzi has been chosen to be a member of the concert band. Competition is stiff and auditions are tough. Only the best are chosen.

Pangrazzi first started playing the trumpet four years ago. He is a member of the John Glenn High School Band. As a senior next year at John Glenn he will have first chair in the trumpet section of the band.

Pangrazzi first auditioned for MYI at the urging of his high school band director. This year he tried again because he felt he gained so much from the previous year's involvement.

Auditions are held in December at White Acres in Saline. Following auditions, rehearsals are held at White Acres every other Saturday. The weekend before the group leaves on tour, all-day rehearsals are held.

This year's group will leave July 5 and return Aug. 13. While in Australia, Pangrazzi will be staying with about 11 different families. Although

Problems plague Noah but the ark is afloat

By CORINNE ABATT

A few years back dinner theater was practically unknown in this area. Dinner..what?

Now, with the success of "Jacque Brel" at Mercy College and the series of musicals at the Elmwood in Windsor, the concept is working its way into our leisure life.

Club Theaters of Michigan was organized as a corporation last year to get in on the fun-and possible profits.

The theater debuted its second dinner musical at the Ramada Inn. 12 Mile and Telegraph, Southfield, last weekend:

But, not without difficulty.

The performances of "Two By Two" will be given Thursday. Friday and Saturday evenings for the coming three weeks. Tickets are $12.50 each for the evening which includes a 6:30 cocktail hour. buffet supper starting at about 7 p.m. and the musical which gets underway at 8:30.

At the dress rehearsal last week the story of Noah, his skeptical family and the ark was not quite ship shape.

A series of miscues with the Ramada management who apparently don't have the concept clear in their minds, was causing minor snafus. The room designated dressing room for the eager cast had been swept clean and rented out and just before dress rehearsal there was a panic game called "find the costume."

The banquet room where the dinner theater is to be held had been booked during the day of the opening, allowing the theater people less than an hour to set up stage, lights, and rearrange for the opening night perform-

As often as not, a rehearsal hall was unavailable, so the cast became quite adept at practicing in one of the actor's basements.

Costume costs turned out to be exorbitant for the corporation which has a bank account slightly in excess of $2. Debbie DeCeco who plays Leah in the show got out her sewing machine and stitched together some Bibical looking robes.

But when this valiant troup gets on the low stage in the inn's banquet room and Joanne Schmidt of Birmingham seats herself at the piano, the lively Bibical tale really does go on.

Energetic, lithe David Calhoun of Detroit takes the Noah part which Danny Kaye made famous on Broad-

From a fumbling 600-year-old man whom his sons regard as more than slightly senile. after he reports a conversation with God to them, Noah gets the faith and becomes a stringbean like tower of determination.

As Noah's sometimes shrewish and later loving wife, Juliana Boleyn of Garden City is strong in both voice and character portrayal. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Boehnlein, and got involved in theater at Rosary High School of Detroit and later Michigan State University. Although her only voice lessons have been in speaking, she has a true, natural singing quality that considerably enhances the production.

Noah's three sons, Shem, Ham and Japheth, are played by Paul Kerr, Scott McCue and Douglas Barns. Barns is another with vocal talents.

Jeanette Senkowski, Kathy Beddow and Miss DeCeco take the roles of the daughters-in-laws.

It's a light, pleasant show that moves along at a good clip under the direction of Bonnie Mead and choreographer Dee Dee Johns of Birming-

Mrs. Mead is head of the drama department at Northwestern High School in Detroit and Mrs. Johns has long been affiliated with Birmingham's Village Players.

Along with Pietero Di Giorgio of Garden City, Jack Fisher, and Olivia Taylor Grey of Westland, the director and choreographer are members of the theater's corporate board.

The group works with the restauranteur on a percentage basis. So far the percentage has not been enough to pay the actors, but Mrs. Mead is hopeful that eventually it will.

The troup presented the "Fantastiks" at the Warren Valley Country Club earlier this spring and moved the production from there to the Shelby Hotel downtown.

They hold open auditions and all comers are welcome to tryout for the new productions or just to be on possible casting lists.

If the musical and the concept catch on in Southfield, it could mean a patch of clear blue sky and smooth sailing ahead for the young company.

Helping the elderly means loving and accepting them

By SHERRY KAHAN

"Helping the elderly must be based on love of the person and the love must be based on accepting them as they are."

This was the advice of Msgr. Clement Kern, who 31 years ago began houses for both elderly men and elderly women living in Detroit.

We always think we know what is best for the old lady living in her squalid old house." he said at the seminar on aging at Madonna College. "We know she would be better off in a tidy convalescent home. But she doesn't agree."

Senior citizens usually don't come flocking to a program someone may start, he explained, adding that "sometimes you have to dig them out to find out if what you are offering will fulfill their needs."

For 32 years pastor of Holy Trinity Church located at Sixth and Porter in Detroit's inner city, Msgr. Kern has started several other homes for the elderly in addition to St. Catherine House for elderly women and St. John Vianney House for men which he began in 1943.

He has also tried to meet their needs with St. Francis Cabrini Medical Clinic held at the church and staffed by doctors from Ford. Mount Carmel and Providence hospitals.

He has also established at the ing as acolytes and helping with the church a foot clinic for the elderly staffed by podiatrists from Kern Hospital on W. Grand Blvd., which last year was named in his honor.

"Spiritual Well-Being" was the title of Msgr. Kern's speech to an audience mostly of nurses and social workers at the seminar on aging directed by Martha Sleicher at Madonna College

Advocacy is the theme of the series, and Mrgr. Kern saw advocacy for the elderly in terms of giving them hope and giving them a chance to be

"They also should be involved in the decision-making process." he said. That is why the UAW program for their retirees is so successful and significant. They make their own choices about their activities and they know they have power which is vital to them. Eight thousand of them recently turned up for a rally in Cobo Hall."

Many trade unions have become more alert to the problems of the elderly because of their concern for their own retirees, he said. One has developed a retirees village made up of camping vehicles and brings in their retirees to find out what their

Another kind of participation the elderly can become involved in is servchurch service, he suggested, adding that this task "can give a person a sense of self relization."

"One way to help the elderly live with dignity is to start co-ops," said Msgr Kern. "In this kind of apartment they live with three or four others rather than being one of hundreds at a convalescent home."

How do you start a co-op house? "Start by renting a flat for two people, then add a third, fourth, and a fifth," he said, "Five in a flat works nicely.By pooling resources they will find they can manage and they'll quickly get over the idea they can't do a good job."

Under this plan the work has to be well planned and public pressure has to be brought if anyone is lazy, he

An organization sponsored by the United Community Services called Well-Being is another of the new groups working to help the senior citi-

"There are now two Well-Being agencies operating out of store front locations, one on the west and one on the east side of Detroit," said Msgr. Kern. "Each one has a professional nurse, a social worker, a secretary and a typist. They move as a team into the neighborhoods visiting the elderly and talking care of their health and social needs."

Food for Friendship is another move that Kern regards as very promising. Financed by federal money, it encourages organizations to set up programs for the daily feeding of older

He also mentioned the feeding project carried on Fridays at the Fort Street Presbyterian Church.

"All senior citizens are welcome and about 150 come," he explained. "If they are in need of clothing, they have a place there to find what they need. After they are dressed up there is entertainment, a lot of old songs are sung and then they eat.

"Father Mike O'Hara also has a senior citizen lunch program at St. Patrick's in Detroit," he added.

"Spiritual well-being begins with love and after you make people feel there is hope," he concluded. "Use your imagination to find ways elderly people can be needed. From this experience will blossom a faith in people that is gorgeous."

Talk about an interesting background. John Krejci of Redford Township is only 17 and already a ham radio operator. He earned his general license when in his first year at Thurston High School.

He caught the bug while listening to a short wave radio at the home of a friend. Being in contact with the BBC and the Spanish radio network caused thoughts about owning his own set to crackle in his head.

"That Christmas I got my own short wave set," he said. "But then another friend turned up with a ham radio outfit and that looked even more interesting."

Luxury Apartment Living In Livonia

We could have announced this Deerfield Woods debut as just another "Grand Opening"... with all the customary claptrap that goes with such an "event." But we feel that resorting to contrived gimmicks that smack of the commonplace would be cheapening the product. The quality of Deerfield Woods Apartments is so superb, we feel it appropriate to merely announce this premier showing of these beautiful 1 and 2 bedroom apartments...and let you be the judge.

We are convinced that those discriminating individuals, looking for living accommodations in the Farmington Road-Seven Mile area, will readily recognize this high-quality, 144 unit apartment development, featuring a private pool and patio, as the most luxurious approach to housing that has happened to Livonia in more than a decade.

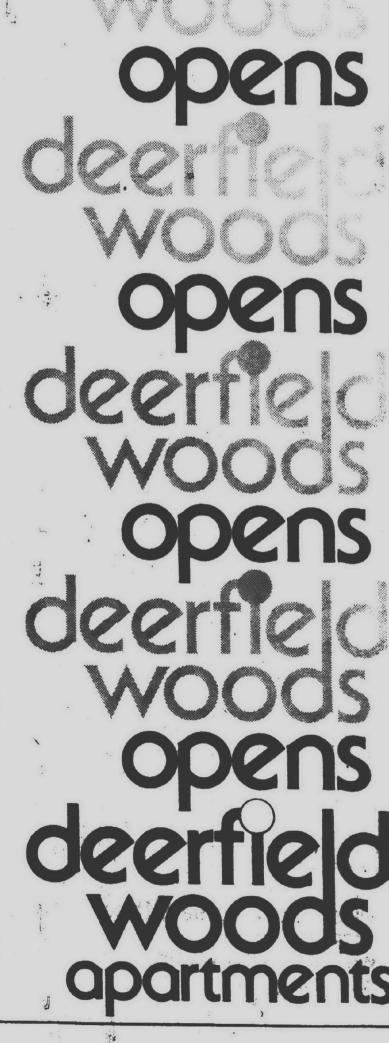

Come on out. See for yourself how we have combined modern luxury with old-fashioned quality, to bring you a genuinely elegant life-style that you can afford.

But do it this weekend...because we'd sooner have you for a satisfied tenant than an impatient member of our waiting list.

Peugeot, but seriously.

The beauty of the automobile (designed by engineers) may be subtle. The beauty of the automobile (designed by engineers) may be subtle, but there is nothing subtle about the economy of operation. In a September 1973 test by Popular Science Magazine, the Peugeot 504 Sedan got 24 miles per gallon at a constant speed of 45 miles per hour. The lund of fact that can ease the frustration of waiting in line at service stations. And this is the car that Road Test Magazine called "a paragon of dure-lifty." An outlook that matches what people need in an automobile todays Economy. A sturning practicality. And more than a few of the amenities. Pougeot. Consider the advantages. CHURCHILL'S BRIAN KELLY Signs With Detroit Tigers

BY TOM DONOGHUE Sports Editor

All-Area shortstop Brian Kelly. has made a quick change of uniforms from prep to pro in a matter of a contract, signing.

The six foot, 175 pound Kelly, who was drafted No. 13 by the Detroit Tigers, was the main figure in Churchill's drive to the Michigan High School Class A baseball championship.

And just a week after, the Tiger's Bill LaJoie signed Kelly who is already playing ball for the Detroit Bristol club in the Appalachian League.

In Churchill's 22-2 season, Kelly banged out 25 hits in 76 at bats and played 169 innings. He finished with a .329 batting mark, hit three doubles, three triples and three homeruns with two of those four-baggers coming in state regional play at Northville.

Kelly also scored 16 runs and batted in 21, walked 14 times, struck out 15 times and was 14 for 14 in the stolen base department.

In the field as a senior Kelly had % assists, made 33 putouts and only four

"Brian is good enough to play pro ball," commented Churchill Coach Roger.

"Brian's real challenge will come in being away from home for the first time. Besides battling other people on the ball diamond,

"But I will say that you couldn't find a kid more coachable than Brian," added Frayer. "I am sure he will fit in right away in Bristol." Detroit Tiger Coordinator of Scouting LaJoie commented, "This was my most enjoyable signing in my 10 years with baseball." "Brian can run, throw, field and hit and very few kids his age can do all four things. I am sure Brian will stay second" Kelly will now be under the direction of Coach Joe Lewis of Bristol which plays June, July and August.

Brian who hit a combined .359 in three years of prep ball at Churchill sported a 2.5 grade point average.

"Once I got drafted, the decision of signing was mine alone," commented Brian. "If I said no now and went on to college, I might never get this chance again."

Kelly went through the Livonia Parks and Recreation baseball programs starting off with T-ball at the age of eight. It was then on to the Rebels and Eagles in G-League; the Playboys in F Minor; the Angels in F Major and the Mustangs and Aces in Class E ball.

Then came three years at Churchill High where in the summer Brian played two years of Connie Mack ball and one stint at Adray.

"I am completly satisfied with he contract," added the prep standout who signed for a figure around the

Township board told recreation site damaged

By MARIE McGEE

PLYMOUTH TOWNSHIP—Declaring that the neighbors "will crucify us" if a fence is erected, the Plymouth Township Board of Trustees turned down a request to spend $3,000 to completely enclose the township's 60-acre recreational site at Ann Arbor and McClumpha roads.

The request came from Louis Norman, former township trustee who has voluntarily taken on the job of helping get the park site ready.

Accounts by Norman of dune buggies and motorcyclists ruining grade levels and causing extensive damage to newly graded baseball diamon failed to sway the board.

"Let's try signs first before we invest money in more fencing." said Township Clerk Helen Richardson.

NORMAN COUNTERED with, "Let them crucify us," as he continued his plea for fencing to deter the cyclists from entering the recreational area.

"I don't want to take the kids' fun away from them," he said, "but they've got to respect what we're trying to do out there."

He said cyclists and dune buggy operators-reportedly from neighboring Glenview subdivision—are "riding the banks" and ruining the special grades needed for baseball diamonds that are being readied for use next summer.

Norman said he had to repair the grades at least three times already

Asked by the Plymouth Observer & Eccentric for a dollar figure on how much it has cost the township to repair the damage, Trustee Gerry Burke shrugged his shoulders, shook his head and said: "I don't know exactly, but I hate to think about it."

In the meantime, the township is awaiting a delivery of signs, posting the area off-limits to motorized vehicles. They'll go up as soon as they arrive, DPW officials promised.

"But signs don't mean a thing," Norman added. His sentiments were echoed by several persons in the audience who told of similar experiences of using signs to keep cyclists off their property.

The plans call for six mini-buses accommodating 20 passengers to make the 60-mile loop. Each community will be asked to pick the best route through their community, the commissioner added. Arrowsmith made a similar presen-

After blanking Churchill, 1-0, in nine indings behind the three-hit pitching of Tom Willette, Plymouth fell victim to Franklin, 13-4.

Then came a passed ball and with the relay to third getting by the third baseman, Leirstein broke for the plate for what appeared to be the deciding score.

But Plymouth leftfielder Tom Davidison was backing up on the play and tossed a strike to the plate with catcher Vern Nagel making the tag on Plymouth broke the scoreless duel open in the top of the ninth, with one out, Willette singled off Nelson and after Jeff Waller popped out, Bill Den-Houter singled. Howard Inch came through with a key hit up the middle and Willette dashed in.

Churchill gave it one last shot in the last of the inning when Leirstein walked after two strikeouts and stole second but Willette bore down and struck out Gary Condon to get out of Sparkman took his Elk club up against the Franklin Berry's club with five unearned scores in the top of the seventh breaking things open to the tune of a 13-4 triumph.

It was victory No. 3 in three outings for s Franklin which advanced the farther than any other Mack club last year in the state playoffs.

Dave Watkins went the route on the Franklin mound and gave up eight hits, walked one and struck out five. Four hurlers made it to the Plymouth mound in Bill DenHouter, Chuck Thomas, Tim Dillon and Waller with starter DenHouter tagged for the loss and Franklin collecting 10 hits total. The starter DenHouter was touched for five runs on four hits, walked four and struck out none.

A walk to Jamie Knapp, stolen base and single by Tim Livesay got Franklin off to a 1-0 lead in the first. Hunt's crew opened to a 5-0 margin in the second. Jim Baigrie walked, Longeway singled and after two were out, DenHouter lost sight of home plate and walked Watkins and Knapp.

Tom Tresik and Ron VanDerLinden followed with singles.

A double by Waller and single by Nagel got Plymouth on the board in the last of the fourth, 4-1.

The fifth stanza saw Livesay get on via an error for Franklin, steel second and third. Joe Pollard then walked and stole second and Longeway singled to score both to up it to 7-1.

A double by Knapp and single by VanDerLinden increased it to 8-1 in the sixth but Plymouth didn't roll over and play dead. The Elks bounced back with three scores in the last of the inning to slice it to 8-4.

Inch singled, Dillon doubled and Nagel, who wound up three for three at the plate, doubled and scored on two wild pitches.

One error in the top of the seventh broke things wide open for Franklin Berry's with five unearned scores taking Plymouth right out of contention.

Pollard led off with a single and stole second and Baigrie drew a walk. Then with one out, Rich Gaber tapped a roller to Waller at third and the trouble started.

Waller scooped up the grounder and tagged Pollard out at third but his relay to first was over the head of everyone. Watkins and Knapp then followed with walks, Tresik doubled, VanDerLinden walked and Livesay doubled to finish off the assault.

More than that it added a big point in favor of back-to-back meetings for a winner and stayed one for the entire Hazel Park and Wolverine Raceway during the lucrative summer dates.

For instance the east side plant wound up with a remarkable average nightly mutuel handle of $814.183 up 24 per cent from the previous all-time high $656,031. The average attendance was 7,880, a little short of the record 8,186 set in 1970.

All of which clearly shows harness racing has finally started to hit its peak in the metropolitan Detroit area. For years it was known that Detroit could turn into a hotbed for the pacers and trotters but for some reason it never happened.

Then Wolverine started the climb when it had the first million dollar night, a figure few thought the sport would reach.

Wolverine reached the million dollar level six times last spring and those close to the harness racing scene knew the standardbreds were on their way. It shouldn't have come as that much of a surprise since the same thing happened in Chicago but only a few years earlier.

But even with the Wolverine re-

The skeptics didn't have to wait long this time. Hazel Park started out meeting setting records that were thought impossible a few years back.

Now the big question is what will happen during the 24 night meeting currently going at Northville Downs before Wolverine steps into the picture in late July.

it's certain Northville won't come close to the records of Hazel Park but the impetus has started and we wouldn't be surprised to see the suburban half-mile plant come up with the best meeting in its 32-year history.

Racing Commissioner Leo Shirley didn't help Northville at all by alloting only 24 nights. Sure he gave the Downs summer dates but four short weeks is hardly a meeting. Its more like filling in until Wolverine can take over the big mile track.

Tom Merriman, the Wayne, Mich. driver-trainer for owner Bob Kalish of Southfield, won the Universal Driver Rating System championship with a .337 winning percentage.

Northville will present its top feature of the summer on Friday night when the speedy entries in the Can-Am pacing series check in for the eighth qualifying leg. The stake has a value of $12,500 and matches many of the fastest four-year-olds in the all Smock needed for victory. United States and Canada.

It will be recalled that Hasty Ed, a four-year-old Michigan owned surprised all by coming from behind to upset the bigwigs.

Hasty Ed isn't eligible this year but there are some standout stars from the U.S. bidding for berths in the $50,000 finale in two weeks at Batavia Raceway near Buffalo.

Racing Secretary Harry Peterson anticipated a big entry for the Northville leg since the rules provide that a pacer must compete in no less than five of the nine qualifiers and must be among the top 10 in points to land a berth in the championship finale.

And that means Northville and Scioto Downs in Ohio are the only qualifiers left. The stake will probably be the eighth race on Friday's program which gets under way at 8:30
