Canton board to try for millage again

By MARIE McGEE

CANTON—Canton trustees will try again in November for a three-mill tax levy to help underwrite much needed firefighting facilities in the community.

A priority item is the construction of a new fire station and the staffing thereof in the Warren-Haggerty Road area.

A resolution by Trustee James Poole directs the millage proposal to be on the ballot in the November general election. This action is to be preceded by an intensive, community-wide educational campaign to inform residents of the need to expand firefighting facilities. The campaign will be conducted by a volunteer group of local citizens.

The proposal lost by a scant 25 votes in the Aug. 6 primary election. It stunned many of the sectors of the community who figured it to be a "sure thing" in light of Canton's recent tragic house fire that claimed the lives of a young family of four.

"The amazing thing of it is that 30 per cent of the 8,000 residents who did vote failed to even vote on it," Poole said in a statement explaining why he wanted the issue placed on the ballot.

HE SAID even more astounding to him was the fact that areas "that would have benefited the most" turned it down. Included in these, he said, were Canton Gardens and Deer Creek apartment complexes.

Several residents in the audience commented that they felt part of the reason for the defeat was residents failed to completely understand what the township intended to do with the millage.

Others criticized the wording of the proposition and its location on the ballot.

Ironically, plans for the new fire station at Haggerty and Warren were unveiled at the board's July 23 meeting. That session was well attended. Trustees made it clear that night to architect Desmond Hammill that the future of the project depended on the outcome of the election in the following week.

In other action this week, trustees approved a schematic floor plan for a McDonald's restaurant to be built in conjunction with the Kmart development at Ford and Sheldon Roads.

Trustees also gave site plan approval to a 108-unit Cherry Hill apartment project, located on a 13-acre site at Cherry Hill and Lotz Roads.

The 89 single-family development of Salem Manor subdivision in the Cherry Hill-Palmer area was granted final preliminary plat approval.

Trustees also directed the planning commission to hold a public hearing on a rezoning request involving two acres directly west of Canton Center and Ford Roads. Proposed is an auto care center. The planning commission in February had denied the request because it would be spot zoning. The area is currently R-1B (residential) and the requested change was to C-2 (commercial).

Disadvantaged pre-schoolers get special aid

By HANK MELJER

PLYMOUTH—A $100,000 counseling program for disadvantaged pre-schoolers and their parents has been approved by the Plymouth Community School District Board of Education and is scheduled to begin next month, serving students from three elementary schools.

Under the terms of the federal Title I grant, which is funding the project called PLUS (Pupils Learning Useful Skills), district officials selected the three elementary districts with the greatest percentage of disadvantaged children.

About 124 pre-schoolers from the Isbister, Starkweather and Central School areas will take part in the program, whose object will be to enable these youngsters to enter school with the ability to perform on a level with their classmates.

What sets this program apart from its predecessor, which offered youngsters counseling and camping opportunities, is a commitment to involving parents in work with their children.

Although PLUS borrows ideas from similar programs in Wayne-Westland and elsewhere, it is locally designed to meet the needs of Plymouth schoolchildren, school officials say.

"The earlier you get to the youngsters and their parents, the better chance you have of correcting problems in the home," said David Rodwell, district consultant for federal projects who engineered funding for PLUS.

The program will begin in September with a one-month "period of identification" in which the full-time counselor and four full and part-time teachers will invite pre-schoolers into the three target schools.

In the first two weeks they will be tested and screened to determine their individual learning problems. In the following two weeks, the teaching team will visit the homes of students, talking with parents and, according to Rodwell, "certifying the fact that they want to reach as many children as they possibly can."

After the month of getting to know the children, the staff will judge which youngsters should enroll in which of the PLUS program's two phases—the "home-school" or the more intensive "school center."

The school center, for children "who have scored at an extremely low level" on their preliminary tests, will be housed in two classrooms at Farrand School where a parents can come in and talk with one teacher while another teacher works with the child in the room next door.

"It's designed to get at a child with a greater need," said Rodwell. The school center will work with 60 children, who will each come in one day a week.

The home-school segment of the program, which will include monthly visits for both parent and child, will center largely on developing activities which parent and youngster can work on at home on their own time.

According to Mrs. Beverly Marshall, Isbister School principal and one of PLUS' planners, the home-school phase is "for parents who want their child to have more experience working with other children before he starts school."

"Helping teachers and the counselor will help organize parents into tutorial roles with children," Rodwell said. "They'll deal mostly with motivation and self-concept."

"Research has shown quite vividly that a more prolonged change is obtained when you work with parents to change parental behavior," said Mrs. Marshall. "It's a parental education program as well as a program for children."

Speech psychologists and social workers will also be called on by the staff as needed. The board is expected to approve a part-time PLUS director soon.

Principals of the three schools will participate in selecting children from their areas who will most benefit from the program, while students from elsewhere in the district may participate at the urging of their respective principals.

"We have opened the doors to recommendations by principals from other elementary districts," said Mrs. Marshall, "but if it's a decision between two children, we'll choose the one in the target district."

School officials emphasized that if a parent is unable to accompany the child to the counseling sessions, which will run 30 weeks for school center youngsters and 15 for home-schoolers, "any responsible adult" can substitute.

While some board members questioned the need to single out three schools whose areas boasted significant numbers of disadvantaged youngsters, administrators explained that the federal guidelines under which the funds of PLUS were approved dictate that it keep within such limits.

Deputy Supt. Dr. Earl Hogan noted that only four per cent of the district's school population will be in the target group from which PLUS participants will be chosen.

"I'm delighted that we're beginning with the pre-school child," said board vice-president Mrs. Marda Benson.

Starting times change for schools

PLYMOUTH—Members of the Plymouth Community School District board of education voted Monday to move up the starting time of district elementary schools in anticipation of the elimination of Daylight Savings Time.

The action sets 8:45 a.m. as the starting time, compared to the 9 a.m. and 9:15 times used last year. Middle and high school starting times will remain at 8 a.m. and 7:30.

"We're going to this time," said Deputy Supt. Dr. Earl Hogan of the elementary shift, "because the state legislature has passed legislation putting us back on regular time after the autumn equinox in October. Should there be a problem, we will review this time and make the appropriate adjustments so that we don't have elementary children going to school in the dark."

Happy birthday at 90

MacCrum prepared punch and cookies for the 60 guests, while Mrs. Ruth Strebbing baked birthday cakes. The pair, who received gifts of bed jackets and necklaces, are Tonquish Creek Manor's oldest residents.

Bonsai clubs are booming, says Plymouth physician

By MAURIE WALKER

PLYMOUTH—Back in the year 265 AD, the Chinese discovered a method of controlling the growth of trees so that they could bring some of the outdoors inside.

About 1300 AD, the idea was picked up in Japan. Eventually the "hobby" worked its way to the United States.

Known as bonsai, this form of gardening is arranging with live plants, tending young plants and trees over a period of years to produce miniature patterns.

A number of bonsai clubs have sprung up across the country, one of them formed in Plymouth about two years ago by Dr. Nick Sellas of 1697

Old Salem Road. Sellas is a doctor of osteopathy; he serves as a pathologist at Garden City Osteopathic Hospital.

SELLAS, who is president of the club, said there are about 20 persons in his group which meets in the Youth Center at 7:30 p.m. the second Wednesday of every month.

"Bonsai can be any tree or shrub which is potted and by careful pruning and snipping of leaves and branches, has its growth stunted," Dr. Sellas said.

"Small maple trees found growing wild, or any small tree can become a bonsai plant. You put the tree in a container and start by pinching the buds or cutting the branches."

He explains that in Japan and China, some of the miniature trees are over 100 years old.

"Bonsai is like looking at a tree or plant through the wrong end of a large telescope," Dr. Sellas said. The plants require careful trimming and shaping along with constant care.

"PATIENCE IS the key to bonsai. A person can't expect immediate results," the doctor added.

He became interested in bonsai while in Japan with the U.S. Army in 1956-57.

"I had read a lot about it prior to that time, but when I saw what could be done, I really got interested and decided to try my hand at it."

He said persons from "nine to 90" can enjoy the hobby. The doctor's nine-year-old son, Spencer, works on the plants with him.

Dr. Sellas has 30 different plants around his home, several of them with extremely artistic shapes.

"The hands are the prime tools in bonsai," he explained. "Small snipping tools are helpful in trimming the branches and roots."

Plymouth, which is part of the major metropolitan club in Detroit. The doctor has 30 of the trees which he has shaped and controlled to give them their stunted growth. (Staff photo by Maurie Walker)

GOP voters crossed, but what did they do?

By TIM RICHARD

That Republican voters' crossed over into the Democratic primary Aug. 6 is certain. Just what effect they had is less than certain. For the most part, Republican voters had few choices to make. No presidential or senatorial candidates were to be nominated this year. Gov. Miliken and most State Senate candidates were unopposed. GOP congressional contests were either non-existent or else academic in overwhelmingly Democratic districts.

Michigan voters need not register by party as in some other states. So a voter is free to go into the booth and vote in any party's primary. In 1970 Democrats crossed over to vote for conservative Robert Huber against Lenore Romney in the GOP Senate contest and almost upset Mrs. Romney; in 1972 Republicans helped George C. Wallace gain 51 per cent of the vote in the Democratic presidential primary.

IN ONLY ONE place — Redford Township — is there a charge of crossover. Township Supervisor Bill J. Robbins, upset in the Democratic primary by a 27-year-old novice who had lived in Redford only four months, contends Republicans deliberately voted for a weaker candidate so their own nominee would have a better crack at the job in November.

The 2nd Congressional District was the scene of another, almost certain crossover, although Wayne-2nd GOP Chairman Sylvia Skrel deplores and discourages crossovers.

This year 41,000 persons voted in the Democratic primary compared to 31,000 in 1972, a presidential year. But whom did the Republican crossovers back? John Reuther? One theory, backed by a poll, showed Reuther weak against GOP incumbent Marvin Esch. Marjorie Lansing, a 59-year-old woman? Dr. Ed Pierce, the political left's hero from Ann Arbor?

Without expensive, detailed polling, there's no way to tell.

The 35th State House District was another crossover point. The Livonia-Northville district drew 4,000 Democratic votes in 1972 and 4,750 this year; it drew 4,500 Republican votes in '72, when there was a primary contest, and only 1,500 this year, when incumbent Robert Geake was unopposed for the GOP nomination.

But whom did the crossover help? Establishment candidate William Joyner had no trouble winning by a 3-2 margin, despite newcomer Ernest Grant's vigorous campaign.

THE 37TH HOUSE District in Westland, Canton and a corner of Plymouth Township also had a certain crossover.

Rep. Thomas Brown (D-Westland) won renomination in 1972 when Democrats got a total of 3,900 votes and Republicans 1,423. This election the Republican vote fell by nearly 1,000 and the Democratic vote rose by 1,600. Brown still won renomination. There was no Republican contest.

Plymouth Township voters had plenty of Republican contests to keep them busy at the local level, and Democratic voters had state contests to attract them; no crossover was apparent.

Canton Township was difficult to assess because of the great number of new residents.

The 15th Congressional District saw little apparent crossover. In 1972, when incumbent Democrat William Ford had vigorous opposition, Democratic candidates got 85 per cent of the vote, the unopposed Republican 15 per cent. This year Ford, unopposed, got 86 per cent, the two Republicans a total of 14 per cent.

THE CONCLUSION seems to be that Republican crossovers, with the possible exception of Redford Township, didn't try to do any mischief as they did in 1972 and as Democrats did in 1970.

Nevertheless, the possibility of disruption is still there. But because there is no immediate crisis, it's unlikely the Legislature will act to prevent future crossovers.

Meanwhile, voters will be tempted to ignore Mrs. Skrel's advice: Vote in your own party's primary and don't cross over.

Music Hall elects Ruth R. Glancy

The Music Hall Center for the Performing Arts announces the election of Ruth R. Glancy (Mrs. Alfred R. Glancy III) as chairman of the 1974-75 board of directors.

Mrs. Glancy, immediate past president of the Junior League of Detroit, currently serves on the advisory boards of the United Foundation, Women for the United Foundation and the Detroit Orthopedic Clinic, the Board of the Friends of Belle Isle, and the Citizens Advisory Council, Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority. She is a graduate of the University of Michigan.

Newly elected board members include Thomas Adams, Mrs. Henry Ford II, Hans Gehrke Jr., Mrs. William Gershenson, Robert Semple, Mrs. Arthur F. F. Snyder and Robert VanderKloot.

Upon her election, Mrs. Glancy commented, "Music Hall is bringing Detroiters an exciting new theater experience. It is the kind of experience which adds strength and richness to the fabric of our urban lifestyle. The performing arts can add dimension to our lives by helping to make the increased leisure, with which our productivity has rewarded us, vitally fulfilling.

"Music Hall's series in dance, theater, jazz and special events offers something for each of us. I am honored to have the challenge of being part of the initial phase in the establishment of Detroit's own center for the performing arts."

The Music Hall Center for the Performing Arts is a non-profit corporation supported by individual and corporate contributions and ticket sales.

After a gift from the Kresge Foundation, the Detroit Institute of Technology purchased the Music Hall. A contribution came from Detroit Renaissance and from other interested individuals who realized what a superior showcase the Music Hall could provide for the performing arts in Detroit.

The Clam Lake station is on Chippewa Lake in the Chequamegon National Forest. The conference was under the direction of Phillip Makurat of the University of Wisconsin-Whitewater.

'Hot Fudge' is coming

Plymouthites help produce new children's TV show

BY ANITA CRONE

When WXYZ-TV's new children's program, "Hot Fudge" premieres this fall, a group of Plymouth residents, and some former teachers in the school district can begin to relax.

But they will continue working and editing segments of the children's show, which is designed through the use of humor to cover all the difficult situations children face when they're growing up.

Bonny Dore, a former Plymouth teacher and Troy resident, is the producer in charge of children's programming for the Detroit television station.

Along with Mary Phyl Godfrey and Mark Even, Ms. Dore puts in long hours both at the station and visiting the Detroit metropolitan area to give the children a view of their city.

"We've got a Greek youngster talking about his view of Detroit in Greek town, and a youngster whose parents work at Metropolitan Airport giving his view of the city through the airport.

In addition to the live people, the show will feature seven puppets, the mits—each with a distinct and separate personality as well as an individual outlook on life.

The puppets were created by Robert Elnicky.

Both Ms. Dore and Ms. Godfrey attended the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor and began teaching in the Plymouth School District.

Ms. Dore returned to Ann Arbor to get a masters degree in radio and television, and then went to work for WABC in New York.

When she was offered a chance to be in charge of children's programming for the Detroit station, she returned home.

"The Detroit area is my home," she said. "And I was given almost a completely free hand—something that is seldom done in this industry."

Ms. Godfrey had replaced Ms. Dore in her teaching position with the schools, and when she was contacted by Ms. Dore, joined the staff as a writer for the show.

Even, an amateur filmmaker from Plymouth, has already produced a documentary of the Plymouth school library and the Plymouth farm which was presented in Washington, D.C.

In addition, Even has prepared two films for Northville Downs and a film on the Au Sable river.

Even is the film production assistant for the show.

"It's a learning experience for me," Even said. This is the first time he has worked in commercial television.

The staff of the show has been working closely with the staff of the Problems of Daily Living Clinic at Sinai Hospital, Detroit, to give a preventative mental health bent to the show.

"We're trying to teach children about their emotions," Ms. Dore said, "both to identify what it is they're feeling, and to learn how to react to it."

But no matter what an individual or group is trying to accomplish, a lot of it has to do with getting and holding the viewer's attention.

"Hot Fudge" is geared to children ages five to nine. But Ms. Dore has hopes that it can teach some adults how to react to their emotions as well as the children.

No television show is complete without music, and for "Hot Fudge" another local group has gotten into the act.

Dan Yessian, a former teacher at Detroit Redford High School, has teamed up with Larry Santos to create five original songs for the show, as well as scoring the music for the program.

President of Danmark Productions, a Plymouth firm that creates music for radio and television commercials, Yessian also uses his own band to do the show's music.

Yessian's portion of the show took a month in WXYZ studio—all in the hope that the show may go network and as such become the "break" that show business people work toward.

In conjunction with Santos, Yessian has currently made two 45 rpm records and an album that will be released soon after the show airs in September.

Yessian was appointed the show's executive producer of music, and in addition to writing the music and lyrics, he was in charge of getting the musicians together for tapings.

"Writing music for a show like this takes a different kind of thinking than most of the other music I have written," Yessian said.

"Because the show is geared primarily to children, the writer must retain the more simplistic values—no Burt Bacharach rhythms or strong rhyme schemes," Yessian added.

Despite the strong emphasis on local talent, Ms. Dore said that the staff of the show owes a lot to the regulars at the station. "Without their dedication to the idea, the show couldn't have worked out as well as it is," Ms. Dore said.

But the untried talent does not by any means get a chance to relax while the taping process is going on.

"Working on something like 'Hot Fudge' has to be a labor of love," Ms. Godfrey said.

"The people on the show have given 400 per cent," Ms. Dore added.

On film days it is not unusual for the crew to put in a 12-hour day. But before the film crew gets to the location, Ms. Godfrey and Even have thoroughly checked out the site making sure the area is suitable for a film crew.

About two days a week are spent on the telephone—contacting the people who will be involved in the shooting. When the segment is actually filmed, a lot of time is spent having people who appear in the shot sign releases.

"Everyone and anyone who is recognizable on the screen has to sign a release," Ms. Dore said.

Arte Johnson, former star of 'Laugh-In' will host the show, and there will be guest appearances by celebrities who are in town.

Entitled "Hot Fudge Superstar," the learning vignettes will include guest stars like Sammy Davis Jr., Andy Williams, John Denver, and the Temptations.

The guest stars were recruited during their performances in the Detroit area.

But the real stars of the program are the Mits. And the people who decide what happens to the show are the viewers—in this case the youngsters.

According to Ms. Dore, "Hot Fudge" will be entertaining, and will carry the underlying message of getting along with the problems of life.

And Ms. Dore as well as her staff realizes that they have the toughest audience to catch.

"If a youngster doesn't like the program, he'll change the channel without thinking twice. He seldom turns back," Ms. Dore said. "But," she added, "If we can catch them during the first shows, then we have them as viewers for as long as the show runs."

Worse the crime, better the job at DeHoCo

By HANK MELJER

REDFORD—The more serious your crime is, the better your job will be when you go to jail, according to Pat McAlinden, director of treatment at the Detroit House of Correction.

That and other facts of prison life at DeHoCo were discussed last week in a speech by McAlinden before members of the Redford Township Chamber of Commerce at Huck's Bavarian Inn.

The Livonian supervises all rehabilitation and treatment programs at DeHoCo, the correctional facility which straddles Five Mile Road in Plymouth and Northville Townships.

The controversial institution is actually composed of two distinctly different facilities, McAlinden stressed—a women's prison for the state of Michigan and a male "misdemeanant prison" for Wayne County.

The women's side, north of Five Mile, houses 225 females, including 26 who are serving life terms. The men's has 600 prisoners, 95 per cent of whom were sent there by the county, while the other five per cent are violators of city ordinances.

The male inmates are short-termers, serving anywhere from a week-end to a year. Most have been sent up for misdemeanors, including such infractions as non-payment of alimony and traffic offenses.

Among the stranger crimes for which men have been sent to DeHoCo, McAlinden noted, have been a six-month sentence for attempted polygamy and 60 days for "attempting to seek an opportunity to commit a crime."

"It's a city-operated prison filled with state and county prisoners," McAlinden told the group. "That's a unique situation and nobody's too happy with it."

THE CRIMES can be confusing and the jurisdictions a headache, but McAlinden sees the facility as one committed to helping its inmates.

"Our philosophy is that the inmates aren't sent there to be punished," he said. "Rather, they're punished by being sent there. We ignore completely the crime that's been committed and treat the individual individually. The sentence is up to the judge."

"For a majority of the men, this is the best they've ever lived in their whole lives."

One fact of prison life which frustrates the director of treatment is that the real short-termers have a harder time during their stay behind bars than the inmates whose sentences run up to a year.

"We can't train you if we've only got you for 10 days," he said. "You'll have to shovel coal or pick corn, but if you're in for a year you may become head clerk. But the idea is that every man has a job. We've got to keep him busy."

According to McAlinden, DeHoCo's reputation seems to have deteriorated in recent years. "Five years ago federal inspectors ranked DeHoCo fourth in the nation," he said.

But in the last four years the facility has had four different superintendents. "Now we're no better or worse than any high school in the city of Detroit," he joked. "That's what we're getting, the products Detroit schools have to offer."

"WHEN A MAN first comes in we find out in the first three days where he tests out at. Most are at the eighth grade level even though they've graduated from high school."

McAlinden noted that two-thirds of the male inmates live in dormitories on the prison farm grounds with railroad tracks running directly behind them. There are no fences.

"Anybody who wants to can get on those tracks and walk," he said. "They don't even need a road map. But we've worked out a system where it behooves a man to stop and think before leaving. If he escapes it means a double sentence and no three days per month off his sentence for good behavior."

He discounted fears some area residents have that the escaped inmate poses a danger to surrounding communities. "What will he do when he does go away?" he asked. "Ninety-nine per cent of the time he goes straight home to see his wife or family. When they leave they want to get away as far and as fast as possible. In 10 years I can't recollect when any escapee has ever committed any mayhem. They zoom through Redford like it's going out of style."

McALINDEN supervises a variety of job training programs, 10 of which are federally-sponsored. DeHoCo instructors have also arranged classes with the Plymouth School District. "The Plymouth school system has been really wonderful," he said. "A full time teacher helps our inmates get their high school diplomas."

The Plymouth Community School District also offers four welding courses which enroll inmates who McAlinden calls "the best students I've ever seen." The inmates learn with enthusiasm and motivation and are guaranteed jobs when they complete the course. To insure that the inmates show up for their new jobs, the welding certificates are awarded when they come to work.

A program at Plymouth State Hospital teaches female inmates to be nurse's aides. "If these girls, who figure they've been picked on all their lives, can go out and have a little empathy for individuals much worse off than they've ever been," he said, "we figure it might change their attitudes and when they go back on the streets they won't be so hostile."

McAlinden emphasized that hostility is an almost-universal quality among the DeHoCo women. "When a judge finally sends a woman to prison," he said, "he's given up on her and she's a real menace to society."

McALINDEN SAID that despite the felons on the women's side, relatively few of the prisoners are repeaters. "Only 18 per cent of the girls have done time before, that's not bad," he said. The recidivism rate among the men has declined as narcotics-related deaths rise. "Our old repeaters are being killed off in drug wars," he said.

He explained that about 20 of the women are responsible for the bulk of female escapes. They are lifers who have little to lose when they try to run. "We farmed them out to other prisons for a month and a half and the escape rate dropped," McAlinden said.

This core of persistent escapees may force prison authorities to build a maximum security fence around one of the women's cottages.

"Anyone can escape," he admitted. He described how the women need only throw blankets on the barbed wire to climb over existing fences.

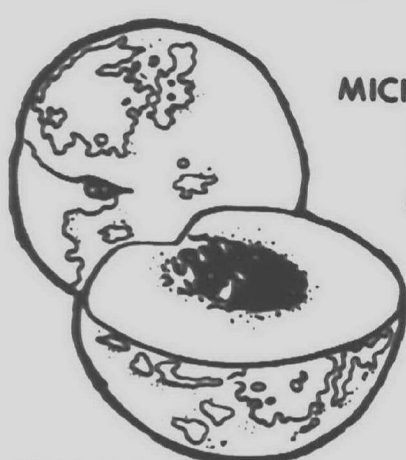

While McAlinden acknowledges that DeHoCo has its problems, he is encouraged by increasing federal support and the success of the training programs which provide many inmates with jobs upon their release.

"We do see some light at the end of the tunnel," he said. "If any of my four boys got in trouble I wouldn't be ashamed to have them come out and get straightened out."

Devastating fires mar Plymouth history

Thursday, August 15, 1974

THE OBSERVER & ECCENTRIC

(P)5A

PLYMOUTH—The two most devastating fires in Plymouth occurred in the 19th century, before the fire department was organized, and during a period when most buildings were constructed of wood. Each wiped out almost all of the city's central business block on Main Street, facing Kellogg Park.

FIRE OF 1856
The bursting of a whale oil lamp, shortly after midnight on May 5, triggered the disastrous fire of 1856. The flames originated in the ballroom of Root's Hotel at the corner of Ann Arbor and Main Streets. They spread rapidly.

There was little to impede the fire. Plymouth had no water mains nor fire department until 37 years later. All but two of the buildings in the block were wiped out.

Destroyed were the drug store owned by Collins Kellogg, J.W. Root's hotel, John Kynock's shoe store, the post office, Fralick and Crosby's general store, Josiah Scattergood's dry goods store, Josiah Butler's jewelry store, H. Fralick's dry goods store, G.

PLYMOUTH—PAST AND PRESENT by Sam Hudson

Lauffer's shoe store and H. Week's tailor shop.

Two brick buildings at the north end, housing Tom May's store and stock of goods, were saved by razing an adjacent wooden building before the flames reached it.

The loss was estimated at $60,000. Many of the merchants were not covered by insurance. Young George Starkweather, who was later to become prominent in local politics and business, lost his legal papers and law offices located over Scattergood's.

The block was rebuilt and named Phoenix because it had risen, like the fabulous bird in the Arabian desert, out of its own ashes—and, like the Phoenix, it was to be reduced to ashes again only 37 years later.

FIRE OF 1893
George Burr's aunt went to buy a railroad ticket from Detroit to Plymouth on an April day in 1893 and was told: "No use going to Plymouth. It burned down last night."

The report was exaggerated, but the fire of 1893, which engulfed the Main Street block facing Kellogg Park, was almost a replay of the 1856 conflagration.

The fire, which the Detroit Journal labeled, "the dastardly deed of an incendiary," was discovered just before midnight in a barber shop in the Lauffer building. At night, a telephone call was made to Detroit for help which did not arrive until 2:30 a.m.

Meanwhile, local residents dammed Tonquish Creek to provide water for the Detroit fire engine. By the time it arrived most of the block was a charred ruin. All of the buildings from Penniman to within three stores of Ann Arbor Street were destroyed.

One of the burned buildings had been the home of Amity Hall, built in 1869. The Hall was used for public meetings, dances, minstrel shows and home talent plays. Another burned structure had housed the Odd Fellows Lodge and the Masonic Temple. These organizations lost records dating back to their origins in 1847 and 1851 respectively.

Water mains had been installed in Plymouth in 1892, and fire hose had been purchased March 15, 1893, but the fire department was not organized until the year after the fire.

As might be expected, fires in recent years have been less disastrous than those of 1856 and 1893. The Judge Fuller residence, on the site of the present Mayflower Hotel, burned in 1910. The high school and the Methodist Church burned in 1916, as described in an earlier column. The Catholic Church, then located on Union Street behind City Hall, burned in 1932 when a Christmas tree caught fire.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH FIRE OF 1936

On a cold day in January, 1936, the Rev. Walter Nichol saw smoke seeping through the edges of the roof of the First Presbyterian Church. He raced to the boiler room, narrowly escaping injury when glass in the door to the room exploded. Two hours later, in spite of efforts of the Plymouth and the Northville Fire Departments, assisted by firemen from nearby Detroit House of Correction, the 89-year old building was in ruins.

Fortunately, historic records of the church were in the building; everything else was destroyed. Insurance covered only a small part of the loss of the church which had been built in 1847.

On Sunday following the fire, services were held in Fred D. Schrader's funeral chapel, and thereafter at the Masonic Temple. On Nov. 21, 1937, the congregation, 500 strong, marched en masse from the Masonic Temple to the new building erected on the site of the old.

After the fire, the city negotiated with the Presbyterians to exchange property which made possible the re-routing of Church Street away from the front of the high school for the greater safety of the students.

RECENT FIRES

On Jan. 7, 1968, fire destroyed the Penniman Building located on Penniman Avenue opposite the post office. Bode's Restaurant, Minerva's Dress Shop and other establishments were burned out. The adjacent Penniman-Allyn Theatre, a fixture in Plymouth since 1918, had a common wall with the burned structure. The theatre was so heavily damaged by the fire that it was ultimately torn down.

On Sept. 19, 1971, fire completely destroyed the night club which Detroit Entrepreneur Sam Hadous operated for a short time in the Robert Willoughby building at the corner of Ann Arbor Road and Mill Street. Prior to its use as a night club, the building was well known to local residents as the location of the late Norbert Lofy's Arbor-Lil Restaurant.

In the early morning hours of Dec. 16, 1972, the Packaging Corporation's building on North Sheldon Road, near the C & O Railroad tracks was destroyed by fire. A new building has since been erected on the same site.

East, Central, Miller boundaries change

PLYMOUTH—The Plymouth Community School District Board of Education approved boundary changes Monday night which will affect students from Miller, East and Central Elementary Schools.

According to Supt. John M. Hoben, those students moving into the Miller and Central attendance areas will be bussed to East Elementary when Miller and Central reach capacity.

The Miller School boundary runs east from the intersection of Canton Center and Warren Roads to Lilley, with all students south of Warren attending Miller. South from Warren Road to Ford Road, all students living west of Lilley will attend Miller.

Also included in the Miller boundary is Ford Road west to Canton Center. All students living north of Ford except those with addresses on Ford Road will attend Miller, as well as all students living east of Canton Center Road between Ford and Warren except those with addresses on Canton Center.

East boundaries begin at the intersection of Lilley and Joy and go along Joy to the C&O tracks. All students living south of Joy except those with Joy Road addresses, will attend East. Also attending East will be all those students living west of a line running southeast along the tracks to the I-275 Expressway and south along the expressway to Ford Road.

Other East students will be those living north of Ford between the expressway and Lilley, except those with addresses on Ford. From Ford to Joy, all students living east of Lilley will also attend East.

New Central boundaries begin at the intersection of Canton and Ford and go east to I-275, with all students on both sides of Ford and south attending Central. Also attending will be all students living east of I-275 between Ford and Koppernick. All students living south of Koppernick between I-275 and the district boundary except those with addresses on Koppernick are also included.

From the south boundary, turning north on Lilley to Cherry Hill, all students east of this line, including both sides of Lilley, will attend Central, as well as all students north of Cherry Hill to Canton Center except those with addresses on Cherry Hill. Turning north along Canton Center to Ford, all students except those with addresses on Canton Center who live east of this line will also attend Central.

KATHRYN RODGERS, of Plymouth is presently attending the Culver summer school for girls in Culver, Ind. The school offers a variety of activities in horsemanship, water sports, aviation, fine arts and academia.

Schools send bills for guards

PLYMOUTH—Portions of the cost of providing crossing guards for Plymouth district school children last year will be charged again to the city of Plymouth, Canton and Plymouth Townships, Supt. John M. Hoben told the board of education last night.

A year ago Plymouth Township declined to share the cost of the program.

The total cost of crossing guards during the 1973-74 school year was $26,531.46. The city will be charged $5,180, with Canton Township assessed $2,711 and Plymouth Township $5,373.

"This distribution makes it apparent that no unit of government is being excessively charged," said Board President Dr. E. J. McClendon. "Properly this is a policing function," he concluded, "and properly, policing functions belong to municipalities, not schools, particularly when the crossings are off school grounds."

School tax note sale OK'd by state

PLYMOUTH—The State Municipal Finance Commission has approved a request by the Plymouth Community School District to sell tax anticipation notes totaling $4.5 million.

Approval of the request was announced Monday by Supt. John M. Hoben at a meeting of the board of education. Proceeds from sale of the notes will be used to pay district operating expenses until current taxes are collected.

The notes, which will carry a maximum interest rate of seven per cent per annum, are dated Aug. 15, 1974 and fall due April 1, 1975.

Night Owl Window

WHEN OUR TELLERS ARE HOME ASLEEP, YOU CAN WAKE UP ONE OF OUR NIGHT OWLS.

Now you can find First Federal Savings of Detroit's new Night Owl Window waiting for you 24 hours a day. There's one in your neighborhood on Middlebelt Road, North of 7 Mile Road opposite the Livonia Shopping Mall.

NOW WE'RE NEVER REALLY CLOSED.

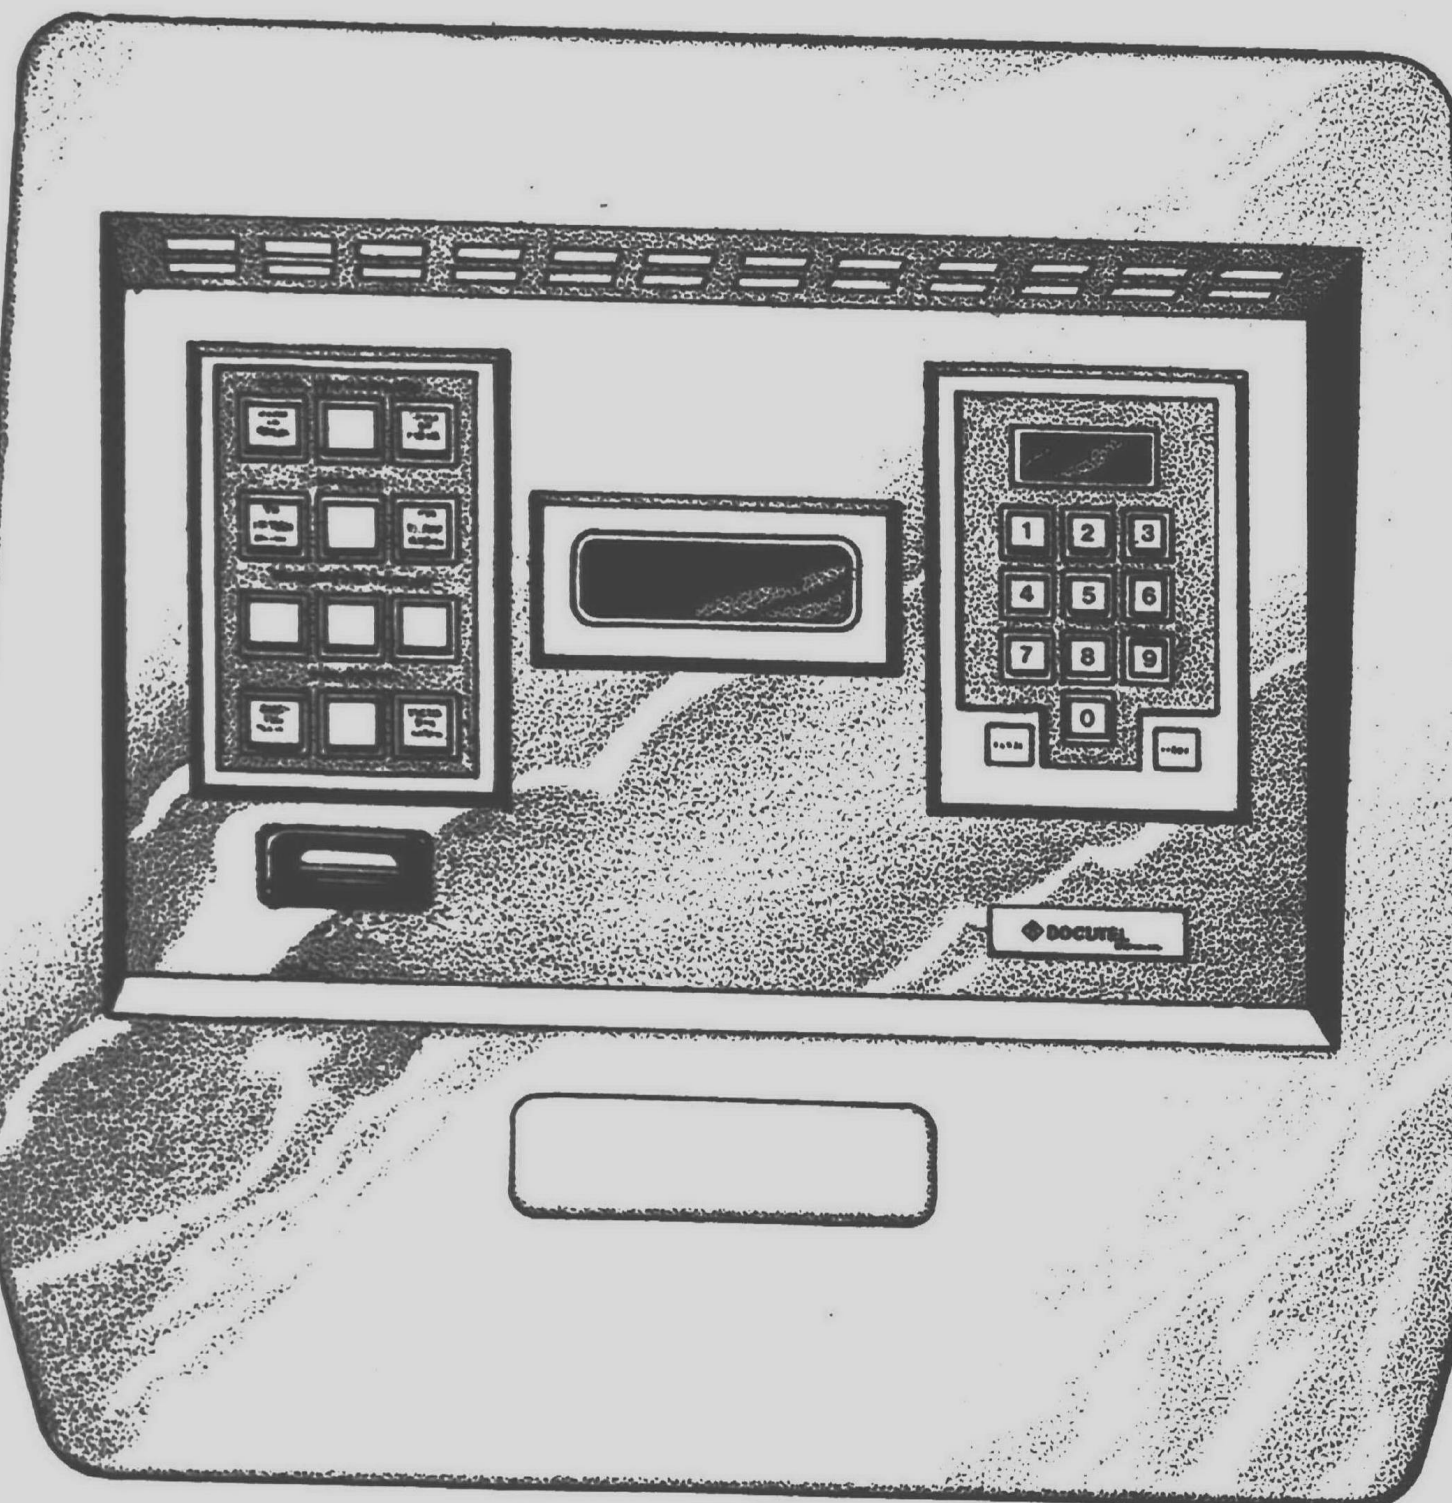

Our Night Owl Windows are 24-hour electronic tellers that allow you to do most of your First Federal business any time of night. Or day. Our Owls are among the most advanced 24-hour machines in town, and they've got plenty of time to help you since they nest in the sides of our local branch offices.

WHAT THE NIGHT OWL WINDOW CAN DO FOR YOU.

When you nudge a Night Owl, you'll see it go to work quietly and efficiently, processing your financial business. Nearly every transaction you might need, it can handle.

- Lets you cash personal checks up to $100 a day, in multiples of $25 or $50.
- Lets you withdraw up to $100 a day from your savings account, in multiples of $25 or $50.
- Lets you make deposits to your savings account in any amount.
- Lets you make First Federal loan payments by cash, check, or from your savings account.
- Lets you make Detroit Edison, Michigan Bell Telephone, or Michigan

Consolidated Gas bill payments by cash, check, or from your savings account.

- Lets you leave your First Federal passbook for interest posting when regular offices are closed.

And you can do any of these things 24 hours a day, seven days a week, at your convenience.

NOW, HERE'S HOW.

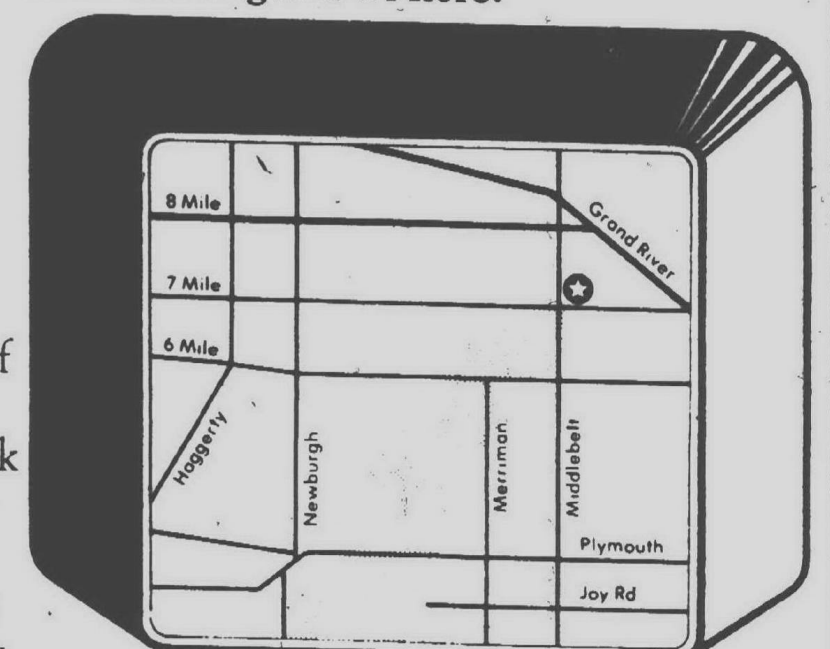

Simply fill out a brief NOW application. If you're a regular passbook savings account customer at First Federal and have a balance of $500 or more in your account, you qualify for this free service. If you're not a regular passbook savings customer, we'd like you to become one. And we'd like you to get acquainted with our Night Owl.

Once you qualify, you'll receive a First Federal Prestige Card and an exclusive Personal Identification Number that only you can use. Then if our offices are closed, or you don't have the time or inclination to see one of our tellers, just drop by one of our Night Owl Windows. Insert your First Federal Prestige Card and follow the illuminated step-by-step instructions. You'll soon realize how practical and convenient this new service is.

So next time you need money for any reason, just come by and wake up our Night Owl. It won't give a hoot, no matter what time it is.

County road patrol's extension supported

Canton and Plymouth Township residents may not lose the protection of the Wayne County Sheriff's road patrol after all if a committee of the County Board of Commissioners has its way.

The board's Public Safety and Judiciary Committee voted Monday to request the full commission Ways and Means Committee to allocate the $88,000 needed to continue road patrols in Canton, Plymouth and five other townships until the fiscal year ends Nov. 30.

The Public Safety Committee rejected a subcommittee report which recommended cutting off road patrol service as of Aug. 31, in line with a move by the full board earlier this year to cut service to the legal minimum by that date.

"We are not only legally, but morally bound to patrol township areas," said Undersheriff Loren Pittman. "As of the 31st there is no more money to run township patrols to the many thousands of people out there without police protection."

The Ways and Means Committee, which is comprised of the full board, is expected to meet next week to decide whether funding should be continued. Even if the Public Safety Committee request is approved, the commissioners have yet to consider placing an estimated $360,000 in the new budget for road patrol service in fiscal 1974-75.

Although the board has been threatening for three years to end road patrols, the townships' fight for continued protection received a boost from Monday's committee action.

"The climate is a little more favorable than it has been in the past," said Undersheriff Pittman.

Canton voters rejected by 25 votes a public safety millage on the Aug. 6 ballot which would have provided the township with funds to start its own police force should the Sheriff's Department stop patrolling.

"I'm very pleased," Clerk John Flodin said of the committee's action. "I guess we got support from people we couldn't have anticipated."

S'craft gets loan approval

Schoolcraft College has received state approval to issue $500,000 in tax anticipation notes. Approval came from the Municipal Finance Commission, state watchdog over local government borrowing.

The proceeds will help operate the college until property taxes are due in December. The notes are dated July 1 and will be due next April 1. They carry a maximum interest rate of eight per cent, according to Attorney General Frank Kelley, MFC chairman.

Kostelanetz to conduct

Andre Kostelanetz, conductor of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, will conduct the final week of concerts by the Detroit Symphony Orchestra this summer at Meadow Brook.

His guest for the Thursday and Saturday concerts, Aug. 15 and 17, at 8:30 p.m., will be Anna Moffo of the Metropolitan Opera.

On Sunday, Aug. 18, at 6:30 p.m., Kostelanetz has programmed "An Evening in Paris," a light-hearted and scintillating continental evening with pianist David Bar-Illan as guest artist.

A special pops show on Friday, Aug. 16, at 8:30 p.m. will star Count Basie and his Orchestra, with guest star Barbara McNair. The closing week of Meadow Brook Music Festival will be a series of four jazz nights.

All concerts will be in the Howard C. Baldwin Memorial Pavilion on the campus of Oakland University, Rochester. Tickets are available at Hudson's, Grinnell's, Wayne State University, Macomb County Community College and the festival box office.

Singles club plans dance

The Tuesday Nite Singles Club weekly dance will be Tuesday, Aug. 20, 9 p.m. to midnight in the Ann Arbor YM-YWCA.

Music will be provided by Betty Ann and Al Parko. All single persons 25 and up are invited to attend.

Schools agree to pay hikes for aides, guards, custodians

PLYMOUTH—The Plymouth Community School District Board of Education and district custodians, security personnel, crossing guards and nurses have reached tentative agreements on new contracts which include pay hikes ranging from 5.8 to 8.8 per cent of their previous salaries.

District custodians will receive a two-year contract which includes a flat 35 cents an hour increase the first year (about six to eight per cent) and 5.5 per cent the second. Also approved by the board was a cost of living increase of one cent for each four-tenths of one per cent by which the cost of living index exceeds seven per cent. Fringe benefits will remain the same.

District nurses will receive incremental pay hikes of 6.5 per cent the first year and 5.5 the second. Crossing guards and security guards will receive increases ranging from 5.8 to 8.8 per cent of their current salary, with the bulk of the raises in the seven to eight per cent range.

School board to sell two sites in townships

PLYMOUTH—Two parcels once considered as sites for new schools will be up for sale following action Monday night by the Plymouth Community School District Board of Education.

The school-owned properties include nearly 16 acres east of Haggerty Road behind the Kmart store in Plymouth Township and 9.6 acres west of Lilley and south of Warren Road.

"As we no longer require the sites for school purposes we can sell them to raise funds to use more advantageously to acquire other sites," said Board President E. J. McClendon.

Sale of the parcels was recommended in the recent Alden-Dow report on future needs for Plymouth schools.

Judy West honored

PLYMOUTH—Judy West of 42168 Lakeland, Plymouth, was named to the dean's list at Adrian College for spring semester 1973-74.

To achieve the honor of dean's list, a student must have earned and maintained a 3.25 (B-plus) grade point average on the basis of at least 14 credit hours.

She is a freshman majoring in Spanish.

Reports for Naval duty

PLYMOUTH—Navy Airman Apprentice Dennis J. Legowsky, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth R. Legowsky of 1300 Hartsough, Plymouth, has reported for duty at the Navy's Fleet Intelligence Center Pacific in Makalapa, Oahu, Hawaii.

Proskie, Krieg are EMU grads

PLYMOUTH—Kenneth G. Proskie and Dennis J. Krieg, both of Plymouth, were awarded bachelor of science degrees from the University of Michigan.

Proskie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerarfd Proskie, 46725 Ann Arbor Rd., received a BS in engineering. He is married and will return to U-M graduate school this fall.

Krieg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Krieg, 41851 River Oaks Drive, received a BS in mechanical engineering. He works at Garrett Tool and Engineering in Redford Township.

Both graduated from Plymouth High School in 1970.

THE UPPER AND LOWER TAHUQUAMENON FALLS

ARE THE MOST SPECTACULAR OF MICHIGAN'S 150 WATERFALLS. THEY ARE NEAR NEWBERRY, ABOUT 65 MILES WEST OF SAULT STE. MARIE. NEXT TO NIAGARA, THE UPPER TAHQUAMENON FALLS IS THE LARGEST EAST OF THE MISSISSIPPI RIVER WITH A DROP OF 40 FEET. DECAYING VEGETATION OF THE VAST TAHQUAMENON SWAMP GIVES THE WATER A GOLDEN CAST. YOU REACH THE UPPER FALLS BY AUTO OR BY ONE OF TWO PRIVATELY OPERATED RIVER BOATS WHICH START NEAR HULBERT OR AT SOO JUNCTION OFF M-28. THE LOWER FALLS, CONSIDERED BY SOME MORE BEAUTIFUL THAN THE UPPER, MAY BE REACHED BY ROWBOAT ACROSS A LAGOON TO A WOODED ISLAND IN MID-RIVER. THERE ARE FOOTPATHS TO THE SERIES OF RAPIDS, CASCADES AND TOP-SIDE VIEW OF THE LOWER FALLS, A PAIR OF FALLS IN STEPPED SUCCESSION.

DRIVER WEARINESS IS A MAJOR FACTOR IN MICHIGAN HIGHWAY DEATHS. NEVER TRAVEL MORE THAN TWO HOURS WITHOUT TAKING A REST BREAK TO HELP FIGHT HIGHWAY FATIGUE. ATTRACTIVE REST STOPS ARE LOCATED AT INTERVALS ALONG MICHIGAN'S HIGHWAY NETWORK. USE THEM TO RELAX, EXERCISE, FRESHEN UP AND HAVE A SOFT DRINK OR COFFEE.

Nature hikes

Individual and family groups are invited to take a guided nature hike along trails at Kensington Metropark near Milford or Stony Creek Metropark near Utica, Sunday, Aug. 18 starting at 8 a.m.

Park naturalists will explain various features of the nature study area, including birds, animals and plants. For details contact Kensington or Stony Creek parks.

Tahquamenon: Michigan's own big spectacle

Tourists in Michigan's Upper Peninsula should be sure to have the state's best-known waterfall high on their list of must-see attractions.

In fact, Tahquamenon Falls is the highest waterfall east of the Mississippi River except Niagara. It's located near Newberry, about 65 miles west of Sault Ste. Marie.

As if one weren't enough, nature provided two sets of Tahquamenon Falls — the Upper and Lower — about four miles apart on the Tahquamenon River. The most spectacular, the Upper, is 40 feet high and 200 feet across at the crest. The Lower Falls, considered by some more beautiful than the Upper, is divided by an island and is a series of rapids and cascades.

BOTH ARE within Tahquamenon Park's 18,906 acres, one of the most popular Upper Peninsula state parks.

"The Tahquamenon River runs through heavily wooded, partially swampy wilderness country which retains much of its natural beauty," said Joseph Ratke, Auto Club touring manager. "Decaying vegetation of the vast Tahquamenon swamp gives the water its unique golden cast."

The Upper and Lower Falls, the "rushing Tahquamenaw," are the setting of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow's epic poem, Hiawatha, legendary warrior-hero of the Chippewas.

Other than hiking, there are three ways to reach the Upper Falls. Private automobile and a short walk is one. The other two utilize privately operated riverboats.

One combination is called the Tom Sawyer Riverboat and Paul Bunyan Timber Train. It starts from Slater's Landing, 10 miles north of Hulbert off M-28, by riverboat and continues through the wilderness to the Falls by open air cars pulled by a huge tractor. Through Labor Day, there are two trips daily, at 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. After Labor Day through Oct. 10 there is one trip daily, at 10:30 a.m.

The other is the Toonerville Trolley and boat trip. Starting at Soo Junction, on M-28 east of Newberry, visitors ride a narrow-gauge railroad six miles through thick forest and then board a riverboat for the remainder of the trip.

Two trips daily are scheduled Monday through Friday during July and August, at 10 a.m. and 12 noon. On Saturday and Sunday during the same months there is one trip, at 10:30 a.m. From Sept. 1 through Oct. 5, one trip daily leaves at 10:30 a.m.

EITHER TRIP goes through wilderness country. Only from a boat do you get a real close-up of the trackless bush country — spots you couldn't reach except for three or four days of hard hiking. Both trips have excellent commentaries.

Deadly water

IGNORING DANGER, these young persons couldn't resist cooling off in Newburgh Lake on Newburgh Road between Ann Arbor Road and Ann Arbor Trail. With the water 18-feet deep near this dam, the potential for a serious situation is always there. The area is well posted with warning signs, but youths constantly flirt with danger by swimming here. already formed and planted, range up to $100, the doctor said.

Sellas suggests that once a person buys one, he should contact someone who knows about the method of caring for the plant.

"You can't buy one and then just let it sit there. Proper care is important," he added.

He said there are text books on raising the plants and persons are welcome to attend the club's meetings.

Bonsai is an interesting, and fairly inexpensive hobby that anyone interested in plants can enjoy.

All it takes is a small plant, a pot, some dirt, and, as Dr. Sellas said, lots of patience.

This is telephone trouble tracker

IF YOU SAW this instrument in use and wondered what was going on, you'll be happy to know it's not something sinister. It's only Michigan Bell Telephone workers tracking down problems in the phone lines. The workman with the machine on the ground pinpoints the interference spots in the wires while the man in the "cherry picker" tries to straighten out the difficulty. (Staff photo by Bob Woodring)

Northville annexation hearing set

NORTHVILLE—The State Boundary Commission has set Tuesday, Sept. 10 as the date for a public hearing on the proposed annexation of all of Northville Township to the city of Northville.

The commission recently approved annexation petitions filed by the city. Should annexation occur, Northville Township's government would be dissolved and Northville would become one city under a single council-manager form of government.

An attempt to annex the township two years ago fell 146 votes short. The public hearing will begin at 7:30 p.m. at Northville High School.

DEAN SCOTT'S BIG IDEA—HAPPY FEET FOR KIDS

Watch a child with a beautiful new pair of shoes. That's happiness. And you're going to see more of it than ever at Kinney's.

Dean Scott manages Kinney's, the children's shoe store downstairs in the Westland Shopping Center. He knows what children like. He knows what mothers want. And he's just re-decorated the store to make everybody happy.

Now Kinney's will feature many leading brands including Kinney's own Collection shoes, like Teen-A-Bouts and Roughhouse. The newest styles every season. Top quality hard wearing shoes for all ages and sizes, from infants to pre-teens, at popular prices. And every pair will be carefully, properly fitted by experts.

BECAUSE HAPPINESS IS ALSO GETTING A GIFT: Kinney's has gift for your child. A bright, bountiful back-to-school supplies kit, valued at $4.50, with each purchase of $8.99 or more. Kinney's is...a bigger selection, better value, more shoes, more styles and happier feet for kids. That's Dean Scott's big idea. And it's working.

Police work got impersonal, so he's now a private eye

It was a dark and stormy night. Suddenly there was a knock on the door. From within the one-room log cabin, a single shot roared out and reverberated through the forest. Two swift kicks from the burly, seasoned private detective reduced the pine board door to toothpicks. He entered to find the thinly clad blond lying facing him on the floor. Very beautiful—and very dead.

By TOM SCHRAM

Pretty exciting stuff, huh? "That's a lot of crap," says Lew Huddleston, burly, seasoned private detective.

"Anyone who thinks that waiting in a car for 20 hours to see if a motel door is going to open is exciting is out of his mind," Huddleston asserts. Huddleston worked for 17 years as a police officer prior to returning to the private detective business, the field in which he began his police career 20 years ago. He now operates his detective business and a budding guard service business out of offices in Belleville and Westland.

ACCORDING TO the 42-year-old Huddleston, the private detective business as portrayed by television and silver screen is a bit out of kilter.

"Things just don't happen that way. For the most part, this is a routine and somewhat boring business. There's always an element of potential danger, of course, but I've never seen things happen as they're portrayed on television," he said.

Huddleston was a controversial member of the Wayne County Sheriff's department, where he served as a detective for the five years prior to his February 1973 retirement.

His work for those five years concerned itself exclusively with narcotics and outlaw motorcycle gangs.

"I was in five car crashes, had my food poisoned three times (none by his wife who assists him in his work). I was run down once on Wayne Road, and I've received numerous threatening phone calls," he said.

But Huddleston said that it was not the element of danger that influenced his move into the private sector of police work.

"IT BECAME very impersonal the last few years I was in the department. I guess there's no particular reason that it did. Police work when I first started out was very personal. We were underpaid, but we were dedicated. I put a lot of people in jail in my career, but I kept as many out. Towards the end of my police career, the self-satisfaction was gone.

Vote reform bill has flaw declares Esch

Rep. Marvin L. Esch (R-Ann Arbor) recently said that campaign reform legislation being developed by the house administration committee contains serious flaws that must be eliminated if Congress is to pass a strong and meaningful bill.

Esch said he was pleased that near final approval has been given to the bill but there are a number of serious shortcomings that must be improved by floor amendments.

Esch said the bill follows many of the suggestions in a bill he introduced last November including limitations on contributions and strict reporting and disclosure requirement.

Provisions which Esch will support aimed at making the administration committee legislation a stronger reform law are:

• The Frenzel amendment to provide for an effective, truly independent federal elections commission.

• The Anderson-Udall amendment to extend limitations to congressional elections and provide for matching funds for congressional elections, and

• Amendments to correct the glaring loopholes in the committee bill regarding disclosure of contributions and expenditures.

CMU alumni set golf day

Alumni and friends of Central Michigan University living in the metropolitan area may participate in the university's southeast Michigan golf outing and buffet Saturday, Aug. 17.

The outing will be held at the Sylvan Glen Municipal Golf Course, 5725 Rochester Road, Troy.

Tee times will be scheduled between 12 noon and 2 p.m., with $7 green fees entitling players to 18 holes or more. Afternoon activities also are planned for non-golfers.

An evening buffet, at $7.25 per person, will begin at 7 p.m. Dinner reservations are limited to 130 persons. Advance reservations are requested. Orders and remittances should be sent to Cal Webster, 4474 Holmes, Warren, Mich., 48092.

"Things became too computerized and I don't know who was to blame for it. I guess it was society and police unions and the administration. My motivation was gone and I knew it was time to get out," he said.

Huddleston said many veteran officers feel the same.

"A lot of the older guys are getting out. You don't have the same breed of dedicated copper now. Too many are getting in the business for monetary reasons. I went in for constructive reasons—to help people—and toward the end, there was no more challenge. I became a computer and lost the personal contact," he said.

And so he went into the private detective agency business because, he said, there was a personal contact missing in the public sector.

"IN THIS BUSINESS, people come to me with their problems and I can develop a one-on-one relationship. People are not numbers here that I never meet and never even see," he said.

Huddleston employs a total of 12 detectives in his agency, both male and female. He sees the demand for his field increasing in coming years.

"With the increasing crime rate, employ theft and liberated lifestyles. I find that I have plenty of work," he said.

Huddleston has had to make the change from arresting officer to observing bystander, a change which he says was difficult at first.

"Most of our cases don't go to court. It doesn't bother me not to prosecute. If I see a crime, I call the police usually. Of course if someone is going to get killed or raped, I would intervene, but I would do that if I were a ditchdigger. Other than that, I feel no moral obligation to directly interfere. It was hard to do that at first after so many years in the police field, but now I find that it gets increasingly easier," he said.

IF HUDDLESTON has become cynical as he enters middle age, it is, perhaps, because he has little to show for his 17 years in police work. There will be no pension or future fringe benefits for himself, his wife or his six children.

"When I was a copper, I never took one bribe—not so much as a cup of coffee I didn't ask to pay for. I helped a lot of people during those 17 years. Now I want to help myself."

LEW HUDDLESTON performs one of the mundane tasks in the daily life of a private detective as he takes notes while interviewing a client.

Your Detroit Bank-er can show you why you might be better off saving at 5% instead of 7 1/4%.

Choose either or both at Detroit Bank & Trust, but get the facts before you choose. And you can count on your DETROIT BANK-er to give you all the facts to help you choose the savings plan that's really best for you.

For instance, did you know that if you put your money in a 7 1/4%, four-year savings plan at any bank, and happen to need the money before the four years are up, those savings will actually earn less than 5%?

That's right. Federal laws require banks to penalize 7 1/4% savers if they need to withdraw their savings early. In fact, the law says that the interest, on all time deposits and certificate savings withdrawn prior to maturity must be reduced to the current passbook rate (5%), and 90 days of even that interest must also be forfeited. Result—an actual return of less than the 5% regular passbook rates on any 7 1/4% four-year savings that you withdraw early.

That's why you might well be better off earning a full 5% annual rate on savings which are readily available to you—rather than starting out at a higher rate and ending up with less.

Naturally, the choice is yours at Detroit Bank & Trust. Your DETROIT

BANK-er can help you choose from five savings plans that pay the highest interest the law allows, from 5% annually on regular savings of any amount to 7 1/4% on four-year certificates of $1,000 or more. And there are three other savings plans in between—all designed to help you meet your saving needs and goals.

So talk to your DETROIT BANK-er before you start saving anywhere. Remember, we've been protecting our customers longer than any other bank around.

Remodeling costs not returned

For many years homeowners have been told that remodeling would greatly increase the value of their homes. Now comes a cautionary word from the real estate industry: It doesn't necessarily hold true.

You don't always get your money back. A modernized bath or kitchen will probably increase the value of the house from 75 to 100 per cent of the cost. Converting a garage, attic or porch brings somewhat less. Money spent on a basement recreation room or a small den or elaborate landscaping will not up the resale value to any great extent, according to realtors.

A REMODELING project may very well increase the "living value" of the house to you and your family but fail to raise its resale value. It is just not a good idea to do a lot of remodeling solely with the aim of upping its resale value.

The worth of a house seldom raises as much as the money spent on it and the dream of making a big profit is seldom fulfilled.

The Better Floors Council is interested in this matter because it has long encouraged homeowners to install vinyl asbestos tile as a means of upgrading a house. It sees no reason to alter that policy. The favorite flooring projects of do-it-yourselfers jibe with those that the real estate people consider worthwhile improvements.

AND NOW THERE is another place to install vinyl asbestos tile-on walls. This will, at the very least, save you the cost of repainting or repapering every few years.

The council has a one-page sheet of instructions on how to install tile on walls. Just send a stamped, self-addressed No. 10 envelope to Better Floors Council, 26 Washington St., East Orange, N.J. 07017.

The Green Thumb

Readers are asking us the difference between the golden rain and golden chain, both small trees for the home lawn.

Let's take Golden Chain first. This is Laburnum watereria (listed in catalogs as L. vossii). It grows about 15 feet high, has tri-foliolate, rather dull-green leaves, but bears in June, very showy, slender drooping clusters of yellow pea-like flowers which attract attention everywhere. It has good use in the small landscape because of its narrow form.

Golden chain likes full sun, isn't too fussy as to soil and is best planted in spring. Laburnum is rather short-lived and is not tolerant of sub-zero temperatures.

GOLDEN RAIN TREE is Koelreuteria paniculata and grows to a height of 15 to 20 feet. It prefers full sun, and in July and August it is covered with handsome, bright-green leaves a foot or more long and loose, branched end panicles of yellow flowers rising above the crown.

These flower clusters look something like the clusters of horse-chestnut. In fall—around September, the flowers become top-shaped papery capsules ranging from whitish to pinkish-brown. Also, the foliage turns bright-yellow in autumn, giving you an extra bonus.

Golden rain does best in a light, sandy soil, and is ideal for use in the small landscape. Some tree people consider it a coarse-wood tree, but we like it. Anyone who grows the tree is bothered by people who stop in and ask "What kind of a tree is that?"

SO YOU'VE GOT some bees boring holes in your garage siding?

These are the carpenter bees, and the adults look like bumblebees, having a black abdomen.

They bore into the wood, particularly porch and shed ceilings, railings, overhead trim, porch furniture, and dead tree limbs, leaving piles of sawdust around. Holes are about 1/2-inch across and are bored by the females to make nests for the young. The males cannot sting and the females rarely do.

CONTROL: Dwelling damage can be minimized by keeping wood surfaces painted. Sprays or dusts of Sevin or Malathion or chlordane directed into the holes in evening, give good control. Squirt some pesticide into the holes and seal off with putty.

Incidentally, if honeybees happen to swarm in large masses on shrubs and trees near you, don't panic. Keep away from the swarm and you'll find they soon move on.

If not, call a local bee man and he will be glad to remove the swarm.

GREEN THUMB CLINIC: "Our poinsettia plant is growing tall and wonder if we should cut it back. Is it too late?"

Answer: Yes, I'd cut it back to within four inches or so above the pot. It may be too tall to bring indoors, if you don't. Start new plants from the tops you cut back.

Wayne Jones says:

Use vines for color and screening in your garden. Vines can quickly cover objectionable views from the garden proper and add beauty to your home. Select the proper vine to grow on fences, trellises, posts or brick walls.

The hostess in the northern Michigan watering spot where we had sought an evening's diversion tickled the tiny black and white animal under the chin as if it were a kitten.

And indeed, the baby skunk is called a kitten. Actually, Charlie—that was this young fellow's name—is a member of the weasel family and relative of the otter.

Charlie, she explained, was purchased from a licensed animal breeder in Wisconsin and was about nine weeks old. In Michigan, it's illegal to possess a skunk taken from the wild, so Charlie was strictly as legal as he was cuddly.

WHAT MADE him cuddly was that his scent glands had been removed. These are two glands under the tail on either side of the anus which secrete a golden yellow fluid that can blind, nauseate or just plain disgust anyone who bothers a skunk.

Charlie's glands, as I say, were removed. The hostess contended, however, that skunks aren't nasty with their glands if you're nice to them.

Outdoors

"My father used to trap," she said, "and he'd occasionally get a skunk. He would talk nice and sweet to the animal, calm it down, then release it from the trap. He never got sprayed."

What do you feed Charlie? I asked. "Oh, dog food, worms and insects," she said. "You should see him when I get out the fly swatter. He perks right up. He knows he's going to have a meal pretty soon."

The book says she's right. Skunks are mice and insect eaters. It's a matter of controversy, however, whether they raid chicken houses. Our hostess contended skunks will eat a chicken killed and left by predatory animals, but that a skunk himself is too slow to make chicken killing a steady method of food hunting.

DON'T GET sick, but the book says skunks are good to eat.

Indians and trappers like skunk (provided the scent glands don't contaminate the meat) and say it tastes like fine grade pork: white flesh, tender, sweet, beautifully marked with fat and lean.

Skunks are more common today in civilized territory than they were in wilder days. Although they're slow and good-natured, their "ultimate weapon" has helped them survive. "Possums and coyotes are other critters that do better around civilization than they did in the wilds."

Charlie was born about mid-May, and the litters in his breeding farm range from four to 10. In winter his type will hibernate, but the tame Charlie will stay awake like any cat or dog.

A state park where we camped one summer had a family of skunks that would come out at dusk as brazenly as you please. Now I know why they insisted we keep our dog on a leash.

"WHY KEEP a skunk?" one of my fellow patrons wanted to know. "They can't hunt like a hound or even bark like a watchdog. What possible use is a skunk for a pet?"

Our hostess scratched Charlie's belly, turned to the customer and smiled sweetly.

"No, but you oughta see him clear the drunks out of here at 2:30 in the morning!"

Commissioners at Mackinac

Wayne County will join 80 of Michigan's other 82 counties at the annual meeting of the Michigan Association of Counties (MAC) this week on Mackinac Island.

Delegates from Wayne County will push for a more unified approach among all counties in seeking additional money from the state to fund local health measures, public safety and other social service programs.

MAC is the chief organization in Michigan which represents the counties before the State Legislature and the governor's office.

EXCLAIMING A need for strong unity among counties asking for relief shape? Then try biking, say Gary Watson and Larry Smith, who should know the advantages of riding two-wheelers.

Gary owns and Larry manages the recently-opened Raleigh Bicycle Shoppe on S. Hunter in Birmingham.

The secret of enjoyable riding, says Larry, is to use the correct bicycle for the particular activity you plan.

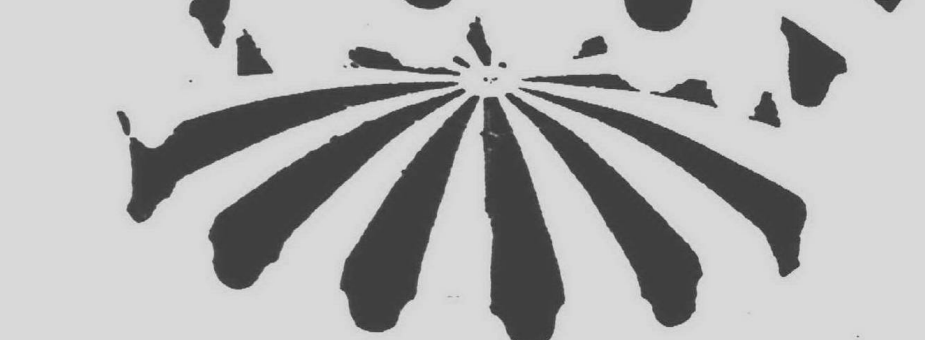

"You can enjoy a bike outing with the family and not have to spend the next day recuperating," says Larry.

Gary opened his first bicycle shop in Pontiac 3½ years ago, followed with a second shop there two years later. When he noticed many customers coming to the Pontiac shop from the Birmingham area, he decided to open a Birmingham outlet.

Only English-made Raleigh bicycles are sold at the new store, the owner feeling that Raleigh has a wide-enough selection for most cyclists. Having only one brand also increases service and repair efficiency because most parts are always at hand, although the shop does work on other brands.

He cited the five new Circuit Court judges that the county must provide for by Jan. 1, "although we have received no increase in state funds for this program. However, progress is being made toward acquiring more financing for county courts, and with continued effort, we can expect even further progress," FitzPatrick added.

August in the garden

Home & Garden

August is no time to rest on your laurels! Here are timely lawn and garden tips from Michigan State University specialists:

Establish a new lawn after Aug. 15. Fertilize established lawns in late August with six pounds of 16-8-8 fertilizer per 1,000 square feet.

Plant narrow-leaved evergreens. Ask your county extension office for bulletin E-426.

Order spring flowering bulbs for fall planting. Prepare bulb beds.

Dig and divide garden lilies if crowding has reduced the size and vigor of the blooms. Dig them after foliage and stems are dead and replant immediately in a well drained bed.

TO CONTROL the corn earworm and the European corn borer, spray sweet corn every three to five days with Sevin.

Continue to spray fruit trees, small fruit, vegetables, flowers and ornamentals to control disease and insect pests.

Dig and divide iris bulbs in late August if it hasn't been done in five years.

Thin plantings of cool season vegetables made in July.

Do not fertilize roses after Aug. 15. Wait until late October or early November.

Spray sycamores and other ornamentals with lindane, malathion or Sevin for lacebugs.

COLLECT AND DRY or press flowers for decorative arrangements.

Spray privet, lilac, broad-leaved evergreens and other ornamentals through Aug. 15 to control Japanese weevil.

Avoid fertilizing trees or shrubs now. The late new growth that resulted would probably be damaged by frost.

If azaleas are showing yellow leaves with green veins, apply iron chelates as a soil drench to counteract iron deficiency.

Continue to water lawns and gardens thoroughly once a week during dry periods.

KEEP TREES and shrubs adequately watered during dry, hot periods to prevent scorch.

Stay on the alert for white grubs and sod webworms.

Do not use herbicides on lawns when the temperature is higher than 80° F. This can damage ornamentals.

If your tomato plants have fallen victim to fusarium and verticillium wilt, make a note to yourself to use resistant varieties next season or plant in a different area.

Cut out raspberry and blackberry canes that have fruited this year. They will not bear again.

IF YOU LET July slip by without planting seeds of pansy, forget-me-not and English daisy, you can do it now.

Transplant perennials and biennials seeded in July to outdoor beds or cold frames.

Continue to remove old flowers from petunias, pansies and other flowering annuals so they will continue to bloom rather than go to seed. Pinch the tops of petunias to keep the plants short and bushy.

Check maples and weeping willow leaves for aphids. The leaves will have a mottled appearance. Spray with malathion every two weeks.

Bagworms are feeding actively now, but spraying will not control them effectively. Remove them by hand and destroy them.

BEANS, PEAS, beets, lettuce, spinach and endive can still be planted for a fall crop.

Large indentations in tomato leaves indicate tomato hornworms are feeding. Spray or pick them off by hand.

If your German iris have been damaged by borers, dig up the affected plants and discard them. Spraying next spring will protect the ones that remain.

Thin the side shoots of dahlias, remove some of the lateral buds for larger flowers from those that remain, and tie growing shoots as necessary.

TREAT POWDERY mildew on phlox, zinnias, roses and lilacs with benlate.

Pinch houseplants that you've set outside so they will be well branched when you bring them indoors.

Spot seed bare spots in your lawn between Aug. 15 and Sept. 15.

Remove the dead grass that has accumulated and become matted down in your lawn.

Do not cut back perennials until the foliage has started to die.

In late August, spray the trunks and branches of poplars and willows with lindane to control the mottled willow borer.

Treat powdery mildew in your lawn with Tersan 1991.

Transplant and divide peonies and phlox.

Take cuttings from coleus, geraniums, impatiens, wax begonias and fuchsia for growing indoors this winter.

STAKE TALL growing annuals and perennials.

Plant Madonna lily bulbs.

Dig potatoes when the tops die.

Pick lima beans.

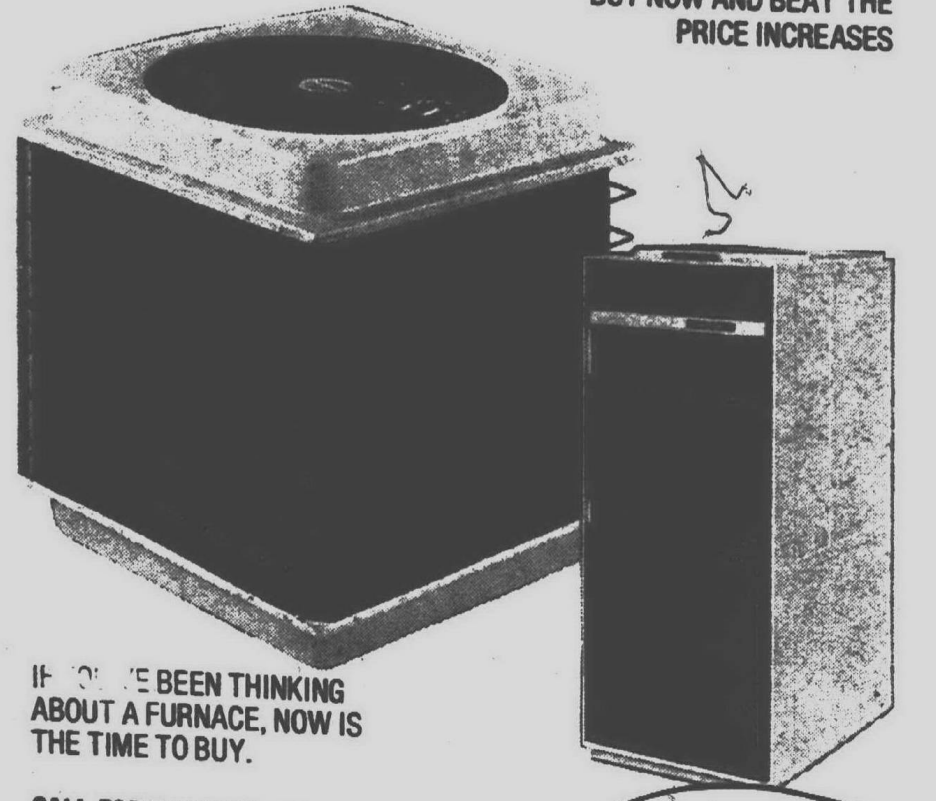

Start blanching celery. Cover for 12-15 days to keep light off plants to make them grow paler.

Harvest onions after their tops turn brown.

Buy colchicum, a fall flowering bulb, for planting.

What's cooking in Michigan

By LARRESTINE TRIMM
MDA

Homemakers can once again buy economical institutional size packages of frozen red tart cherries, according to Marketing officials of the Michigan Department of Agriculture. The state's red tart cherry crop for 1974 was forecast at 95,000 tons. That's about two-thirds larger than last year's freeze-damaged crop, but 11 per cent less than the record 1972 crop of 107,000 tons.

Michigan leads in red tart cherries, producing more than three-fourths of the total U.S. crop. New York and Pennsylvania are other leading tart cherry-producing states but their 1974 forecasts of 7,200 and 5,000 tons, respectively, are no match for Michigan's production.

CONVENIENT "slush packs" of red tart cherries are pre-sugared in 10 to 30-pound tins. To repack in smaller freezer containers for home use, cherries should be partially thawed until each cherry can be separated individually, but remain frozen.

To can, cherries must thaw completely and then be processed the same as fresh tart cherries.

Generally, 30-pound tins are packed in proportions of five parts cherries to one part sugar, but this may vary. Consumers are advised to read can labels carefully or check with store manager.

IN SOME AREAS a straight pack is available. This means no sugar has been added.

Cherries make superb desserts like tasty fruit crunch or cherry upside-down cake. Cherry shortcake is quick and easy. Just top biscuits with de-frosted tart cherries and whipped cream.

One cup of tart cherries mixed with a quart of chocolate sauce is a delicious topping for ice cream, cake or fruit.

Future rock?

New music emerges

By JAN WILLIAMS

If there's one thing that's the same about all rock groups, it's that they all want to be different.

The Beatles started it in the early '60s with what was then thought to be long hair. Now there's the Alice Cooper cult in which rock groups try to be different by painting themselves up like sideshow freaks.

The success of these gimmick-oriented groups seems to indicate that's what the public, or at least the rock fans, want. Success means money to agents and promoters, so as long as the group has a gimmick they've got a job.

THE EAR-PIERCING, mind-blowing sounds amplified umpteen times that's passed off as music is merely an added attraction.

With this image in mind, it's hard to imagine a rock group minus the gimmicks, playing real music and scoring high with the public.

There is a rock group in Livonia, however, that has chucked the use of gimmicks for a more sophisticated approach to being different.

The group is known (or more appropriately unknown at this point) as "Hadley Rille." The name originally belongs to a mountain range on the moon which a member of the group came across while studying a moon map—a rather startling revelation which indicates their minds do function.

THE LEADER of the group is Dominic Maceri, 21, who sings and plays the keyboards. Other members are Larry Smith, 24, lead singer; Tom Starr, 19, drums; Keith Lanski, 21, guitar and vocals; and Mike Magewick, 21, bass. All are Livonians, with the exception of Smith who is a Plymouth resident. All have also studied music and Maceri and Starr are now taking private music lessons.

Maceri says the group is different in that the music they play is a little more advanced and complex.

He describes it as a fusion of rock and jazz, but leaning more towards rock in a repertoire that includes King Crimson, Pink Floyd, Jeff Beck and Led Zeppelin.

Conversationally, it sounds like typical hard rock. How can you make Pink Floyd and Led Zeppelin sound pleasing to the ear?

MACERI EXPLAINS that standard rock tunes are necessary or the group would never find work.

"The difference is in how you play the music and not what you play. We strive for a clean sound and a balance of tone. We want to keep the music at the right level—not blast people out of the room."

After nine months together, the group apparently has accomplished its goal of making hard rock sound like music. An indication of that was high praise for the group from a straight member of the older generation.

Unfortunately, not everyone shares that fan's views. Maceri says the group is having trouble getting booked. At present they're settling for one-night stands here and there, but would like to get a steady engagement.

"MOST AGENTS tend to think we aren't commercial enough and they're afraid to book us in a big place. They don't care how we sound as long as we're a sure money-maker. They don't seem to realize they could make even more money if they would concentrate on quality."

Maceri says his group attracts more people who are really interested in music, young adults more than teenagers. He notes they've always had good responses every time they've played.

He says young people are more inclined to go for gimmicks now, but feels they will eventually tire of it.

WHEN ASKED how members of his group dress for a concert, he says "comfortably."

"Most groups you have to see because they're nothing to listen to. Young people may be more interested in a show than music now, but I think eventually they'll come back to music."

When they do, "Hadley Rille" will be ready for them.

WSU sponsors play lectures

A series of lectures and introductions to the Fisher Theater 1974-75 season will be sponsored by Wayne State University's College of Lifelong Learning.

The series, "Seven at Eleven," will consist of lectures on the season's seven plays and will be given on Wednesdays at 11 a.m. Each will be conducted by a member of the WSU English department who is a specialist in the field to be discussed.

Lectures will be given in the AMTC Building, 2978 W. Grand Boulevard, across from the Fisher Building, on Aug. 21, Oct. 9, Nov. 13, Jan. 8, Feb. 26, April 2 and May 7.

The cost for the seven-part series is $30 and $5 for individual sessions. Tickets will be available at the door.

Dolly Madison moves to the suburbs

By TIM RICHARD

Community theater groups looking for a theme during the American bicentennial should check out Bob Wall's "Liberty Belle" around October.

Wall is revising the admittedly weak first act of his musical about Dolly Madison and the war of 1812. It closed with good reviews recently at the Dearborn Summer Repertory Theater, and the original version was itself a prize-winner in the Community Theater Association of Michigan competition.

Wall is known in these parts as Wally Roberts, one-time drama writer for the old Observer Newspapers, as an official of the Wayne County Intermediate School District, as director of four dozen plays and as author of three others.

"Liberty Belle" is a light musical about the fourth president's first lady and her household, disrupted by the British invasion and burning of the capital.

In it we learn not only such historical points that Dolly inaugurated the inaugural ball, that she was the leader of Washington society and that "Jemmy Madison's Castle" had to be repainted white (hence, White House) after the British burned it; we also learn that mosquitoes were a menace on the Potomac, that Mrs. Madison was responsible for a serious cost overrun (from $14,000 to $31,000) for redecoration, that a "lip salve" (lipstick) recipe begins with hog lard, and that she did her own shopping in order to pick up the townfolks' gossip.

The playwright took one liberty with fact: Mrs. Madison and her sister did not stay behind in disguise when the British captured the capital.

The revised version's first act, when completed in October, will be less talky and have more action.

It's this attention to historical detail that made Wall's earlier work, "The Thin Line," about the insanity trial of Mary Todd Lincoln, so absorbing. This time, the treatment is lighter, but the historical fascination is still there.

One detail gave this history buff a cold chill. Most of "Liberty Belle" takes place in the East Room of the White House, and our party saw the performance the same day Gerald Ford took the presidential oath in the same room.

Wall says the new version will have three new songs, and they'll be dialogue songs, helping tell the story instead of merely setting a theme. He adds that a reference to Patrick Henry and the Belgian ambassador will be written into the action in his new version.

A COMMUNITY theater group considering "Liberty Belle" will need a roly-poly but exuberant Dolly, two other women for her sister and a maid, an elderly busybody for Mayor Blake, three British officer types (one young) and a couple of male servants, one French and one Irish.

Wall's office is in the Professional Research Annex of the Wayne County Intermediate School District office, 33030 Van Born Road, Wayne.

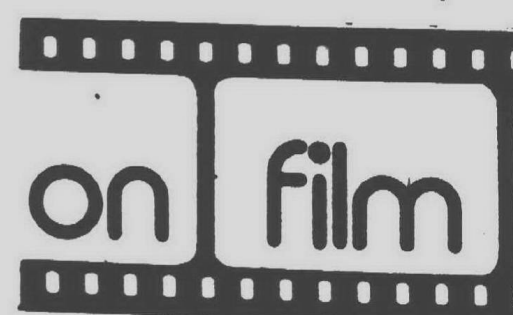

If you don't get a seat, don't stay for the film

By JAN WILLIAMS

Last week I reported on the circumstances which prevented me from reviewing the film "Buster and Billie."

I did try again the next Wednesday and I did get a seat, although the film is still drawing crowds like bees to honey (please excuse the cliché).

Before getting on with the review, however, I would like to make mention of the lady who badgered me out of a seat in the aisle, on the floor, since there was a full-house by the time I got into the theater.

I owe her a sincere apology and a note of thanks because "Buster and Billie" wasn't worth sitting on the floor for two hours.

To be more specific, "Buster and Billie" is a mediocre film attuned more specifically to the high school crowd than a broad spectrum of theatergoers.

Director Daniel Petrie gives viewers a somewhat realistic look at the time, locale and people. Some of the teenage antics are particularly well done. For the most part, the film is amusing and even touching at times.

However, the exploitation of sex, nudity and violence seems more to tarnish the film rather than polish it. As a result, it scores high in box office appeal and low in quality.

Oakway Symphony plans new season

The Oakway Symphony Orchestra has planned a 1974-75 season which will more than double the number of concerts held for its debut season last year.

Conductor Francesco DiBlasi says the orchestra will present at least 20 concerts, including a full ballet and a complete opera. Last year the orchestra presented nine concerts.

The subscription series for the 1974-75 season will begin Oct. 20, in Southfield Lathrup High School. It will feature pianist Flavio Verani.

On Dec. 8, in Farmington's Harrison High School, the Michigan Ballet Theater will perform highlights from Tchaikovsky's "Nutcracker Suite."

Violinist Ani Kavafian will perform Jan. 26, in Birmingham's Groves High School.

For the fourth concert, the Michigan Opera Theater will join forces with the Oakway Symphony in a complete opera production of Rossini's "Barber of Seville." It is set for March 23, in Churchill High School, Livonia. All four concerts begin at 4 p.m.

Single and season tickets may be ordered by writing the Oakway Symphony Society, P.O. Box 171, Farmington, 48024.

DiBlasi also says auditions for the orchestra will be held the last week of August or first week of September. Auditions are open to all qualified string players and there is one opening each in the woodwind, brass and percussion sections.

Musicians interested in auditioning for the orchestra or anyone who wishes to have his name put on the Gospel, rock group plays

A gospel and rock concert, featuring the Archers from California, will be presented Saturday, Aug. 17, at 8 p.m. in the Morrice football field, Morrice.

Admission to the concert will be free and the public is invited.

The Archers, one of the leading gospel-rock groups in the country, recently returned from touring Hawaii, and have performed at Carnegie Hall.

State Board makes a first-class choice

It was with a great deal of pleasure we read of the appointment of Mrs. Jane Moehle, of Plymouth, to the position of coordinator of community college affairs for Michigan. The appointment was made by the State Board of Education in Lansing.

We don't know of any single person in the entire state who more deserved, or was better qualified for, such a position. Mrs. Moehle has given hours and more hours of her time in the past 15 years to community affairs in the Plymouth-Livonia area, tiring work for which the only rewards were knowing personally she had done a good job. Thus her many friends in the area, and Mrs. Moehle has hundreds through her long years of service to Schoolcraft College, were delighted to learn her unselfish efforts were finally going to be rewarded.

MRS. MOEHLE served for years on the Schoolcraft College board of trustees, dating back to the long nights when the group met in the now abandoned Newburgh School.

She well remembers the hot nights when trustees were working on plans for a community college and didn't even have a site selected. Those were the days when the college district consisted of Livonia, Plymouth, Garden City and Clarenceville.

Those were the times when the board members were being pressured on all sides to locate the college in this community or that. Then they finally came up with the location in Livonia.

Mrs. Moehle wept, smiled and fought through the pioneer days when the board started to pick a college administration. They finally settled on Dr.

R. T. Thompson writes

Eric Bradner as president and it was a wise choice.

Mrs. Moehle was a board member during the chaotic period when the trustees had to approve plans for the first buildings and then approve the type of brick to be used.

IF YOU THINK that was an easy task you should talk to the members of the college board at that time. The design of the buildings meant trips to several parts of the United States to see what was happening in other places starting community colleges. From these trips came the design of the buildings.

Then the historic moment.... groundbreaking for the first building for the new community college.

Those were hectic times during the early days. Mrs. Moehle was vice chairman during the wild period, not so many years ago, when the incident of the four-letter word threatened to split the board, and immediately thereafter became chairman.

While all of these things had her attention at the college, she was equally as busy as a wife and mother of two youngsters, guiding them through the Plymouth school system. And at the same time, she was taking graduate work at Wayne State University working towards a doctorate.

THEN CAME the time when she had the doctorate, decided she had served Schoolcraft College

Nixon's demise shows the system still works

When it was all over, Chief Justice Warren Burger, his white hair blazing above black robes, turned to Sen. Hugh Scott and said, "Thank God. It works."

Thank God. It does. For America did not crack apart as its nightmare ended. The constitutional system which caused the resignation of a president who had ultimately lost the confidence of the people worked slowly, fairly, inexorably to its conclusion.

There were no coups, no riots. One president left office and another accepted the power in a style at once dignified and simple, in a way evoking the plain, hardworking heritage of our country.

WE CALL our head of state and chief executive "Mr. President." Not "Your Majesty" or "Your Excellency" or even "The Right Honorable."

And to contrast the plain, ordered coming to the presidency of the business-suited Jerry Ford with the elaborately uniformed White House guards promoted so long ago by Mr. Nixon is to understand something deeply important about the Constitution.

Observation Point

by PHILIP H. POWER

Our system consists in a government whose power is transferred from one administration to another, in accordance with the will of the people and under the procedures of the Constitution. It is a system that requires for its working that all participants respect, even honor, opposing views, since only that attitude makes possible the peaceful and orderly transfer of power from one administration to another.

Contrast our constitutional system with a regime which seeks total power and hence cannot respect views of opponents. And because this is so, power is transferred between regimes via coup, assassination, revolution.

And in a strange way, because regimes do not tolerate opposition and thereby are deeply insecure, they seek comfort in fancy uniforms, pampously, and vainglorious puffings-up. Governments which respect other views dress themselves simply.

IN THE LAST analysis, it was this lack of respect for honest disagreement and constructive criticism that led to Mr. Nixon's demise.

Congress disagreed, and he sneered at it. Cabinet officers brought controversy, and he kept them waiting for days just to answer a memorandum. Political opponents caused trouble, and they got put on an enemies list and exposed to IRS audit. Political dissenters and suspected leakers were bugged and wire-tapped.

These activities are not those of a constitutional government, fully respectful of the rights of opponents. They are the acts stemming from an unexpected radicalism in Mr. Nixon, so that the net effect of his activities was to seem to transform a constitutional government into a regime.

He failed, because our system is stronger than one aberrant occupant of the presidency. He was forced from office because constitutional process cannot tolerate regime-thinking.

And our country is immeasurably stronger for it.

to the point where others could take up the challenge and wanted to continue her professional career.

During all of this period, she still had time to devote to volunteer work with the Plymouth Symphony and the AAUW organizations as well as attend all of the functions a mother should to show her children she's interested in their schooling.

Now we feel Mrs. Moehle has reached the point where she wants to make use of the long years of study, the many years she devoted to community colleges and forge a new career. That's why we wish Jane, as we best know her, all the luck in the world in her new venture.

She deserves the job and we know she'll do her best to make it a success. She did in all of her other projects and she isn't about to change now.

Withholding tax costs us interest

In 1913 the Constitution of the United States was amended to provide for the levy of a tax on income.

At the time this amendment was circulated across the country for ratification, the people were assured that the tax would never amount to more than one per cent of their income.

Somewhere along the line, the expediency of funding governmental operations gave way to promises, and instead of a flat-rate income tax, some people in the highest brackets were taxed up to 92 per cent of their incomes.

Fortunately, this is not the case today. Under present laws, the working man is favored and he cannot be taxed more than 50 per cent on his earned income, and the highest anyone can be taxed is 70 per cent of his income.

BUT IT DOES seem to take the incentive out when people know that they are going to get only 30 per cent out of the last dollar earned if they work extra hard to provide jobs and products for the world.

Further, this taxation is certainly not voluntary. People are told that, by law, they must file their returns by a certain date or face going to jail. And if they don't pay their taxes, the government can immediately seize their property.

During the second world war, because the government was running out of money, the withholding tax from payroll was enacted into law. This meant that, instead of having to wait until the year ended to collect its taxes, the government was able to take a little bit each week.

The result is that there are now millions of persons in this country who have too much withheld from their paychecks and are entitled to refunds.

THE LAW specifically says that the government shall pay the refund within 45 days of the filing of the return, or pay interest. But the Internal Revenue Service apparently doesn't feel bound by the law - yet it is willing to bind everyone else by the other provisions of the statute.

This four months lag is from the filing date of April 15 on money that was actually withheld a year ago. The state government is just taking advantage of people by keeping and investing their funds at today's high interest rates, depriving the taxpayer of his rightful use of his money.

Where the income tax law will take us in the future is anyone's guess. But to allow the federal government and the state government to apply a double standard by which payments to them must be made on time or the individual will be punished, and then to turn around and blatantly ignore their own responsibilities, is a crime that must be corrected.

Power politics economics unfolded

Usually when you see Bill Rosenberg's name, he's getting cut up by Attorney General Frank Kelley for granting rate increases to those dirty robber barons, the giant, rich, utility corporations. You know, the old consumerism syndrome of an election year.

Because Rosenberg is chairman of the Public Service Commission, an arm of state government, his dealings are usually covered by a political reporter for a daily paper or broadcast medium. So it was a distinct difference to see Rosenberg discussing the economics of electricity, instead of its politics, in the July Michigan Business Review.

WHY ARE electricity costs rising? Why do Detroit Edison and Consumers Power, the two biggest electric firms in the state, keep coming back for more?

It isn't wage rates, because labor is a small part of the cost of running them. Fuel is about 35 per cent of the cost, says Rosenberg, and Michigan utilities "project a 50 per cent increase in fuel costs."

Construction costs are soaring, as any home buyer will tell you, and depreciation on plant and equipment, along with taxes, are another 20 per cent of the cost of electricity.

The most astounding thing, however, is the interest rates electric utilities pay for capital: 30 per cent of the firms' operating costs, Rosenberg says. It's because (a) electric generation is such a capital-intensive industry and (b) the cost of capital is rising faster than almost any other factor in the economy - something like 250 or 300 per cent.

Bonds that sold in 1944 for three per cent which expire this year must be refinanced at nine per cent. If a utility wants to peddle bonds, it must have good earnings. If it wants to peddle fresh stock, it must have good earnings. If it wants to finance capital expansion from retained profits, it must have good earnings. All this two-bit political garbage about "corporate greed" ignores the economic realities of life.

NOW, A PERSON seeking cheers would lambaste Consumers Power and Detroit Edison, but a newspaper editorial page isn't in the entertainment business, like TV, and so you may not like what you're going to read next.

Among the "weak sisters" of the American electric industry, says Rosenberg, are none other than Detroit Edison and Consumers Power. He quotes Argus Research Corp., a national financial analysis firm, that some utilities "bear close watching since their ability to maintain their dividends is less certain."

Rosenberg goes on: "On Jan. 1 of this year, Forbes Magazine, a national business publication, ranked Detroit Edison and Consumers Power in the bottom of 10 per cent of utility companies for financial performance over the past five years. It should be pointed out that the only utility company ranked lower than these two was Consolidated Edison," the New York firm that shocked Wall Street when recently it skipped its first quarterly dividend after paying 384 in succession!

THE POINT of all this, if anyone is still paying attention, is that "profit" is more than a synonym for dirty corporation rip-off. Profit is a method of guiding capital. And it takes plenty of capital to run a utility like an electric power firm.

"Public" ownership - which my radical friends now refer to honestly as socialism - doesn't solve the problem. The government still has to borrow money, too. And if we socialized the power companies, we'd all have to chip in to make up the lost taxes to pay our cops and teachers.

It doesn't follow that the Public Service Commission should blindly approve all rate hike requests from Edison and Consumers. Rosenberg says: "In regard to management effectiveness, we must hold the feet of the management team to the fire." He says the PSC is developing "performance goals which will offer rewards for good and reasonably price service and fix responsibility for poor management and decisions."

Rosenberg's approach is certainly more thoughtful and sophisticated than those of the political vote mongers.

Parents allow bike carelessness

EDITOR:

We have just taken our son's bicycle away for a couple of days because he has ridden his bike carelessly today — just like every other child in this area. This is not the first time he has had his bike taken away, nor will it be the last.

However, he sees it as very unfair because the other children and teenagers in the neighborhood break all the safety rules and it never seems to matter at all to their parents. We find this kind of parental neglect appalling!

We know that the boys and girls are taught bicycle safety each year in school, but it should not stop there. It is our responsibility as parents to help our children learn and respect these safety rules.

As a driver, I'm frightened by the careless bike riders I meet on the road every day. As a parent, I love my children and care for their well being too much to allow them to violate the basic rules of safety and courtesy on the road.

We urge other parents to please take the time and effort to notice how their children are using their bicycles. If we don't encourage bicycle safety now, how can we expect conscientious drivers in the future?

Deaf can be helped

EDITOR:

I recently read the feature article "She doesn't let deafness slow her down." I heartily congratulate Miss Lambert, her parents and her teachers for her recent recognition! Very few deaf youngsters attain what she has.

I was an oral teacher of the deaf some years ago, and in all my years of teaching and working with deaf youngsters and adults can honestly say I know only three others who have achieved what Sally Ann has (and my contact with the deaf numbers in the hundreds). I continue to work with deaf people in other capacities today.

Granted, Sally Ann is an inspiration, but frankly her adaptation to a hearing world can be lonely and frustrating and disappointing to the majority of deaf young people.

Success cannot always be measured in one's ability to live "like a hearing person." Rather, it must be measured not only in productivity and academic potential but in personal relationships, friends and social adjustments.

The kind of education and training Sally Ann received were excellent for her needs, but frankly unrealistic for the needs of the vast majority of deaf youngsters. It is for those youngsters and parents I write this letter.

It is my fervent prayer that the example they use will not be for their child to be necessarily like Sally Ann in her adaptation to a hearing world, but rather that their child be afforded the opportunity of the kinds of educational experiences that will benefit him the most. This could be accomplished in a combination of oral and sign language used together which we call the "total communication approach."

Most Michigan schools will not allow this in their schools, and that is a shame! God has given us a means of communication with our deaf population which is natural for them. To use only one method of education severely deprives these people from learning and developing as natural speech and language as possible.

UM-D is accredited, criticized

The North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools has granted a maximum 10-year accreditation to the University of Michigan-Dearborn.

The action, taken by the association's executive committee, completes a 1½-year re-accrediting process that included a three-day visit by a four member evaluating team last April.

In its 17-page report, the evaluating team takes note of several significant changes since its last visit in 1970, including "a clear, definitive and unequivocal statement of commitment, long-range goals, and support by the university and its Board of Regents." The association granted a three-year accreditation its last visit.

Generally the committee gave UM-D high marks for its faculty, administrative structure, good library collection and curriculum.

UNDER AREAS of concern the reviewing committee found that:

1. The campus should give greater attention to the problem of student attrition which is inordinately high. It is of particular concern that there is a lack of information as to the nature of the attrition.
 2. Library facilities are totally inadequate and the university should proceed with plans for a new library with all due dispatch.
 3. There is a critical need for more and better classrooms, laboratories and offices in some areas; others may have a superabundance of space. A total space analysis is overdue and the subsequent reallocation is required.
 4. Recreational facilities are totally lacking and badly needed.
 5. Serious budgetary implications lie ahead if adequate funding is to be provided for laboratories and equipment in science and engineering.
 6. There remains a lack of clarity in some areas of faculty governance.
 7. The faculty handbook is inadequate.
 8. A more complete campus bookstore should be developed.
- UM-D Chancellor Leonard E. Goodall terms the committee's report "positive in tone."

THE REPORT LISTS UM-D's strengths as:

1. A strong and well-qualified faculty with good morale. The faculty is beginning to assert a positive and responsible role in campus planning and governance.
2. The administrative organization, while still evolving, appears to be well-conceived; the administrative team works well as a group, and communicates effectively with faculty and faculty committees.
3. The commitment from the university is sound; the support provided by the Ann Arbor campus to library, computing center, and other facilities is invaluable.
4. The library collection is good, though badly housed.
5. The student personnel area is well organized and staffed.
6. The curriculum is generally good, although the team noted several concentrations are very narrowly staffed.

Administrative assistant course at OCC

FARMINGTON—Beginning with the fall term, the business education department of Orchard Ridge Campus, Oakland Community College, will offer a new associate degree: Administrative assistant.

According to Dr. Carol Stencel, "This program is designed to prepare students to assist key executives for office management positions of a supervisory nature. No shorthand is required."

The position of administrative assistant is being utilized more and more in the world of business. This position is conducive to promotions and managerial responsibilities. Also, there are four-year colleges with such programs in which students could continue, such as Michigan State University and Western Michigan University.

Registration for the program will coincide with campus registration dates of Sept. 3-12.

Freeway lights bids due soon

The State Highway Commission will take bids Aug. 21 for the installation of lighting facilities at the intersection of I-275 and I-96 which is presently under construction.

The bids will be for the erection of 100 towers with estimated costs standing at $400,000. Construction is scheduled to be completed in July 1976.

Older women -- and men -- represent an 'untapped resource' for colleges today.

Older, smarter? Colleges want YOU

BY MARGARET MILLER

The campus scene today shows a student group "older, smarter and more feminine."

The characterization comes from Dr. James Manilla, president of Oakland Community College Orchard Ridge campus, and it's echoed in varying ways all around the area.

Women make up a larger percentage of the student body on most campuses than they did 10 years ago. The average age is inching upward. And older students coming back to the study scene tend to be more motivated and thus make better grades.

A BIG FACTOR in all these changes is the fact that Mom is joining the kids in the college classroom. In many cases, for that matter, so is Dad.

The trend of more college for those past the traditional college age is not new, of course, and it's been on a steady upgrade as more women sought personal growth and recognized in their lives the "empty nest" syndrome as their children needed less attention.

WHAT DOES SEEM a relatively new development is an active recruitment of older students on the part of colleges which, for assorted reasons, have experienced a drop in enrollment of those just out of high school.

There is a national interest in tapping this formerly untapped resource, and special efforts are being made to attract older students," Dr. Manilla said.

"It's all tied to the decelerating rate of post-secondary education. Nationally, there are 500,000 vacancies in colleges."

A LOOK AT STATISTICS bears out his picture of college being something for people of all seasons.

At OCC, Dr. Manilla said, half of the incoming students are over 21, and he thinks that by the year 2000 over half will be over 30. From 1969 to 1974, the average age of the OCC student went from 19 to 24, and in the same time period the number of women on campus rose from one in four to a 50-50 ratio.

Oakland University notes an increasing number of students over 26 enrolling and has broken down its statistics to age groups from 26 to 29 and over 30.

Jean Dion, research assistant, said these figures show that in the younger of the two age groups only about a third are women, but among those over 30 women outnumber men by about four to one.

"This indicates that the big academic push for women comes after age 30," Ms. Dion said. "But that may change as more colleges offer day care centers and more women students use them."

"Now even mothers of pre-schoolers can hit the books."

SIMILAR TRENDS show up at Madonna College and Schoolcraft College in Livonia. Madonna's enrollment of about 1,000 now includes more than 50 women between 26 and 62 years of age.

At Schoolcraft, the student body still is more than 75 per cent younger than 25 and the men still outnumber women 57 to 43 per cent. But, says David Heinzman, office of college relations director, the percentages move slowly toward more women and older students.

Even Lawrence Institute of Technology, for so many years a male stronghold, has in the last few years increased the number of women in its day classes. And now more female students are showing up in night classes, said Richard Michel, dean of the LIT Technical Institute.

"We are strengthening our humanities program, and one of the reasons is that we want to attract more women students," he said.

WHAT THESE STATISTICS do is paint a total picture of college for everyone in the family, and you can find the families with an academic look.

Sister M. Lauriana, Madonna academic dean, could think of one clan in which mother just graduated in nursing, daughter is a senior in nursing "and the father has taken some courses here too."

Then there are the Lynches of Livonia, who have a family thing going at Schoolcraft.

Mrs. Mattie Lynch joined daughters Patricia and Mary Jane on campus after daughter Peggy, a former Schoolcraft student now finishing degree work at Eastern Michigan University, challenged her to do so.

"I'D BEEN ENCOURAGING the girls and telling them they could do college work if they tried and then Peggy asked why I didn't try it," Mrs. Lynch said. "So I did."

She is definitely planning to go for a degree, probably in history, but has no plans to go to work. "I'd just like to have more knowledge," she said.

"I've always liked to read and I find I enjoy studying."

Her husband, she said, doesn't take any classes, "but he does the dishes so I can go to class."

AN INCREASING TREND of parents going to college with the encouragement of their college-student sons and daughters was noted by both Patricia Wulp of the University of Michigan Center for Continuing Education for Women and Mrs. Claire Orians, counselor in the Wayne State University College of Lifelong Learning, with headquarters in Southfield.

"I talked to one woman recently who was going back for a degree because her daughter was urging her to do so," Ms. Wulp said. "The university certainly is moving in the direction to make it more possible for older women to obtain degrees, things like independent study and evening courses."

Ms. Orians said in recent weeks she has checked records of several women who last attended college 25 years ago, and "I've heard a lot of women say their kids are urging them to go back to school."

Definitely, the faces in the college scene are changing, and the family may well be coming into its own on campus.

Try the professor's handy study tips

BY LORAIN McCLISH

Thoughts can be learned only when they have meaning to you.

That sentence represents the theme, the philosophy and the summary of the course Prof. Howard Murdock is teaching on the Orchard Ridge Campus this month.

His 10-hour how-to-study instruction is drawing capacity crowds of high school graduates of all ages who soon will enter a college classroom for the first time.

INSISTING THAT USING the techniques he teaches can boost any student a full grade, he offers such precepts as:

"There is no substitute for daily preparation."

"Don't tell me you are going to be a nuclear physicist five years from now. Tell me you've got your math assignment done for tomorrow."

"Take your cloud trip, fella, but be back in a few seconds because there's a math text here to read today."

HERE ARE MORE study rules from Murdock.

"English is the scientific language of the world today. You'd better learn it, and learn it well."

"Don't allow distractions—from the TV, from the telephone, from the roommate. Be ruthless on this."

"Don't try to learn when you are ill or fatigued. Forget it, all it will do is make you frustrated."

"USE THE GESTALT pattern theory of learning—part-whole-part. Develop a picture, analyze it, put it back together. Most of your learning comes from this method."

"Recognize when you are in trouble. Don't wait four or five weeks until your problem is out of hand."

"In discussion groups, learn this—there is a definite inverse ratio working on the guy who does most of the talking between what he knows and what he says."

"MEMORIZE BY THE repeat and practice method. But nobody expects you to be a walking memory bank, so if you do forget anything you need to know make sure you know where you can find it."

"Organize. It's the only way you are going to be able to have some fun time, and if you don't have any fun in college go out and hang yourself."

"Learn correctly the first time. Un-learning and re-learning is the hardest thing in the world to do."

"Overlearn. Go beyond the basics. Every text should be read at least three times."

"NEVER STUDY SCIENCES back to back. The logic involved in different sciences is sometimes confusing."

"Get vocational counseling. Find out what you are good at and then pursue it because if you are good at it you will enjoy it."

"Learn self-discipline. Every time you cut a class it costs you $40."

"Take a shorthand or speed-writing course. You'll thank me for this every time you are taking notes in a lecture class."

"DO PRE-LECTURE reading. Read for total comprehension. Turn statements into questions."

And finally:

"Get used to the idea that you are going to be working a 54-hour-week. For every hour of class, and 18 per semester is average, you should spend two outside class in study. If you aren't committed to doing that, you are not doing the job."

Madonna degree involves on-the-job experience

On the eve of her 60th birthday, Norma Gleason of Lapeer has completed requirements for an associate of arts degree from Madonna College.

That in itself is not unusual. More and more adults are going back to college.

But Mrs. Gleason earned her degree spending only a few hours on campus, and both she and Madonna leaders think this may be a coming thing in educational circles.

A REPORTER and feature writer for the Lapeer County Press, Mrs. Gleason has pioneered a concept of individualized, off-campus college education.

"If colleges will get out of their stereotyped formats and make on-campus attendance an option, there will be lots of adults enrolling for college," she said.

Mrs. Gleason is married to a farmer who graduated from Eastern Michigan University. But, although she has been employed for several years by the newspaper, she never had the opportunity to go to college.

Then she heard of the CLEP-testing program offered by the Livonia school.

THOSE LETTERS STAND for College Level Examination Program, and the tests involved are on college level material created and controlled for national use by the College Entrance Examination Board of Princeton, N.J.

Madonna is one of 34 colleges in Michigan that participate in CLEP testing and grant credit on the basis of results from the tests.

FIRST, MRS. GLEASON tackled the general tests and passed them in English composition, humanities and mathematics. Subject tests in accounting, English literature and literature analysis and interpretation were the next hurdles.

At that point she had 32 credits toward an associate degree.

Sister Mary Lauriana, Madonna dean, and Sister Mary Fisher, head of the journalism department, then determined through evaluation of Mrs. Gleason's work that she was proficient in newspaper reporting, editorial writing, feature writing, editing and copyreading. Some of her photographs were checked for a press and society course.

That made 20 more credits.

FOR OTHER COURSES, Mrs. Gleason "bought piles of college textbooks—mostly paperbacks" and started a home study and reading program.

She corresponded with Sister Irene Louise, who outlined a required religion course. Assignments in writing and taped or typed lectures were sent to her, and Mrs. Gleason later was tested on the material.

A required course in psychology was taken at St. Clair Community College, and the credit was transferred to Madonna.

MRS. GLEASON ISN'T quite sure whether she'll go on to get a baccalaureate degree. She now knows of but two colleges, one a unit of the State University of New York and the other Thomas Edison College in New Jersey, that grant BAs for "external" students.

She is, however, keeping in close touch with her new "alma mater" which is considering such a program. In any event, Norma Gleason will keep on studying because "I'm a great reader and I like to keep up with things."

If colleges will provide the innovative means, she believes there are hundreds of adults out there who now have the time and interest to become college students. She's proved it can be done.

m.m.memos

"What time do you work tomorrow?" is an important question around our house this summer. It goes with the still more important query, "Who's driving?"

When the college student needs to drive to work to help pay school expenses, it's no time to be hard-nosed about the use of the family car.

But we've found that juggling two cars over three jobs requires planning, flexibility, luck and a lot of help from our friends.

WE KNOW OF COURSE that we're not alone. One family in the car pool with the man of our house has somehow been managing to get four gainfully-employed members to assorted jobs on two cars.

And recently, when I asked a fellow worker if I could hitch a ride, she said she was pretty sure she'd be driving that day unless it turned out that her son needed the car.

SO FAR WE'VE managed to get one waitress and two editors to their respective places of business every day for two summers.

But not without a few disquieting incidents. Like the evening this summer when I had invited friends to dinner at the restaurant where our waitress works. One car had gone downtown to the newspaper there, and she had driven the other, and it wasn't until I arrived home (courtesy of a co-worker) that I realized I had no wheels for getting myself and another daughter to that restaurant a couple of miles away.

The solution that time was to telephone a startled waitress and explain that no, I didn't want her to come and get us but would she please make the guests feel at home until I could get there by cab.

THEN THERE WAS a memorable evening last summer (when our car-owner daughter was home) and we had three sets of wheels in the family and still had problems.

On that occasion all three cars were off somewhere when suddenly I remembered one of the younger girls had a piano lesson.

I called a friend who, it turned out, didn't have a car either.

"How," she asked quite reasonably, "can you run out of cars when you have three?"

Really, it's easier than you'd think. Now, let's see. Who's driving where tomorrow and how do I get to work?

The garden at the Northville home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Millard, formerly of Redford Township, was the setting for the recent wedding of their son, Stanley L. Millard, to Marcie L. Reed.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nancy Reed of Farmington.

The Rev. Lloyd Brasure of the Northville Presbyterian Church officiated, and the bride was given in marriage by her uncle, James Reed of Union City, Ind.

Lavender and white petunias lined the aisle for the bridal couple, and they spoke their vows before an arbor covered with ivy and white mums.

The bride wore an ivory crepe dress made by her aunt, Mrs. William Chernenkov of Livonia, and carried orchids, stephanotis and ivy tied with lavender ribbons. A lace and pearl crown held her illusion veil.

Maid of honor Shelley Millard, sister of the bridegroom, wore a lavender voile dress with white lace trim and her flowers were yellow and white daisies and pink rosebuds in a nosegay arrangement.

The bridegroom and his best man, Michael Norgren of Plymouth, wore lavender tuxedo coats and black trousers.

Among the 75 guests at the wedding and reception was the bridegroom's 92-year-old great-grandfather, Russell W. Coon, of Redford Township.

The newlyweds honeymooned in Florida and will live in Plymouth. The new Mrs. Millard is a graduate of Clarenceville High School. Her husband graduated from Northville High School and works for Chatham in Northville.

FISH follows the tradition of Calcutta's Mother Teresa

In England she has been described poignantly as "something beautiful for God."

And this summer when she visited the U.S., a widely disillusioned nation appeared briefly sanctified by the visit of Mother Teresa, founder of the Missionaries of Charity.

Her devoted ministry to the dying in the horrifying slums of Calcutta has awed, and endeared her to, the world. One admirer sent her a check for $500,000, stipulating that it cannot be touched now, but must be used for security for the sisters. Mother Teresa returned the check, with thanks and the observation that God will provide and they must not be overly concerned for the future.

"Don't drift from humble works," she advised the recently founded Co-Workers of Mother Teresa. "Many people would like to do big things; few are willing to do small things."

THIS OBSERVATION is especially perceptive in view of the fact that the few persons like Mother Teresa can make the rest of us suffer by comparison, almost to the point of guilt.

This is, of course, the antithesis of what is desired by the genuine saint, who realizes that from the example of the founder of Christianity there is a wide variety of needs and opportunities of service.

Jesus spent nearly 10 times as much of his life in business - carpentry - as in the preaching ministry. And if all people were either ordained or monastic, who would then manufacture the medicine, food and blankets with which Mother Teresa is able to alleviate so much suffering?

YET THERE IS a problem in many denominations who do not lay claim on almost all of one's social life (like Mormons and Jehovah's Witnesses). All too often when a person has had a moving conversion experience and wants desperately to serve God, his ardor is absolutely quenched by such an offer as: "Fine! We can use you as an usher, or during the every member canvass."

While both functions can be important, there is a relatively new organization founded within the church which is proving to be wonderfully simple and simply wonderful.

It has no dues, no constitution, no

Rev. Lester Kinsolving's

Religion Update

national structure, and no politics. It also has an odd name: FISH. The Greek word for fish is ichthus, whose letters compile an abbreviation for: Jesus Christ, God's Son, Savior.

THE TELEPHONE NUMBER for FISH is listed in most city directories - because it has grown, just since 1961, to more than 1,000 chapters, in the U.S., Canada, Africa, Australia and New Zealand.

Most of FISH's services are on an emergency basis, such as transportation to hospitals, or baby-sitting, or overnight lodging.

But there are other invaluable services on a continuing basis, such as keeping contact with elderly persons who live alone, meals for shut-ins, reading to the blind, errands for invalids, food and clothing for disaster victims - and even pet care.

FOUNDED in Oxfordshire, England, FISH was brought to the U.S. by the Rev. Robert Howell of the Episcopal Church of the Good Shepherd in West Springfield, Mass. - who edits the international FISH newsletter. This priest had often asked himself:

"What action of the church will give credibility to its words of love for a world which has largely already discounted those words as inconsistent with what it has seen in us?"

What can be seen in the devoted labors of thousands of FISH members, as well as Mother Teresa, is a leading justification for organized religion: the miraculous ability, amidst the faults of all human organizations, to produce occasional saints.

Blow-ups for church school

Stories under tree highlight VBS

Bible stories under a shade tree will be the plan for one of four Vacation Bible Schools scheduled by area churches next week.

Lakepointe Community Chapel, 42150 Schoolcraft, Plymouth, is planning to conduct its school for children six to 12 beside a large tree on the church grounds if the weather permits.

From Aug. 19 to 23, between 10 and 11:15 a.m., there will be a program of missionary adventure stories, prizes from a treasure chest and visualized Bible stories. If it rains, the sessions will be held inside the chapel.

VACATION BIBLE SCHOOLS also are planned Aug. 19 to 23 by the First Baptist Church of Plymouth, 45000 N. Territorial; Livonia Wesleyan Church, 14560 Merriman, and Garden City

Free Methodist Church, 27415 Maplewood.

"Jesus Is the Way" is the theme in the Plymouth church, where children from kindergarten through sixth grade are invited to non-denominational classes each day from 9 to 11:30 a.m.

Singing, stories, crafts and games as well as a light snack are planned. Bus transportation is available, and those who need it may call the church.

EVENING VBS is planned by Livonia Wesleyan.

Classes will be held for children and young people, ages three through 18, from 7 to 9 p.m. "Good News Is Jesus" is the theme of the program that will include study, crafts and music.

Mrs. Freda Hayton is the director.

They offer Mrs. Ford's chicken

BY MARGARET MILLER

If you try out the cookbook that has just been compiled by Mrs. Gloria McClay and her committee, you may soon find yourself sampling the Ruby Red Grapefruit Chicken that the new First Lady serves to the new president of the United States.

Betty Ford's recipe is one of 500 in the book put together by the women of St. Matthew United Methodist Church in Livonia.

Also included are Bess Truman's Coconut Balls and Lady Bird Johnson's Chocolate Nut Drop Cookies, as well as Dinah Shore's Creole Jambalaya and Martha Griffiths' Apple Pudding.

There's even a Chilled Cucumber Soup, a recipe straight from the kitchens of the White House, whoever its occupants.

Mrs. McClay said her committee decided a cookbook with some recipes from celebrities as well as church members and friends might be an interesting venture.

SO SHE SENT OUT letters—to Betty Ford, whose husband then was vice president Gerald R. Ford, as well as to ladies like Mamie Eisenhower, Rose Kennedy, Jane Hart, Marge Griffin and Helen Milliken.

Back came replies and recipes from all of them. So the St. Matthew Women's Association Cookbook, due to come off the presses in November in time for Christmas giving, contains the offerings of some very well known as well as those of the dozens of good cooks in the congregation.

"IT'S ONE OF THE HAPPIEST things I've ever done," Gloria McClay said. "When I decided to go after the celebrity recipes, I thought they would add to the members' enjoyment of the finished book and also help a bit in selling it."

"But that has been a great deal of fun for me, too. Imagine going to your mailbox and finding a letter from Lady Bird Johnson!"

The letters Mrs. McClay received in her project she found especially enjoyable. Mrs. Robert Griffin, wife of Michigan's Republican senator, wrote that the St. Matthew women were welcome to any of the recipes in the Griffin family cookbook, already published.

"I picked Traverse City Cherry Pie," Mrs. McClay said, "because it had won a prize at the fair in the area where the senator makes his home."

The communication from the wife of Senator Philip Hart, Michigan's Democrat in the Senate, was through her secretary. Mrs. Hart was away, she wrote, so she was taking the liberty of sending on a recipe for cucumber soup. ("Different from the White House offering," Mrs. McClay said.)

NOT ONLY CELEBRITIES' recipes found their way into the book, of course.

Mrs. McClay said she also talked to a Scottish cook, Mrs. Flora McAustin of Livonia, who shared her secret for scrumptious Shortbread, and corresponded with an Ohio contributor who offered four different starters for bread.

"And we have a recipe for Oven Stew," she said, "that the contributor insists was responsible for winning her daughter her husband."

MOTHERS' DAY in St. Matthew marked the start of the recipe book.

First, there was a distribution by Mrs. McClay and her committee, including Evelyn Denton, Ruth Ramsden, Virginia McClung, Delphine Everett, Evelyn Esch, Olive Fisher, Nettie Frick, Hulda Shurtliff, Robin Galick, Vickie Wallace and Millicent Wisecup.

They gave to all the women of the church a greeting in keeping with the day, a recipe for Souffle Salad and a request for favorite recipes.

From there the project mushroomed, to name a favorite ingredient.

THE COOKBOOK is being published by the Bev-Ron Publishing Co. in Kansas City. It will be on glossy paper in a looseleaf binder and will cost $3.25.

"I've sent in the first order," she said, "but we will be able to order more copies if there are requests." These could be telephoned to Mrs. William McClay, 27963 Stanmoor, Livonia.

When the printed books arrive, the committee is planning a full-course church dinner, with all dishes served using recipes from the new collection.

"A most gratifying project," Gloria McClay says. A number of palates will agree.

New financing idea providing bus for church

By JO GALLI

A poster in the office of David Hubert, associate minister of the Memorial Church of Christ in Livonia, provides a clue to the thinking of the congregation. It reads, "The Bible says don't let the world around you squeeze you into its mold."

So when faced with the problem of financing the purchase of a new bus for the church, the parishioners came up with a most unusual idea, throwing off conventional means.

"Bill Howarth suggested the idea at an elders meeting," explained Hubert. "Everyone gives a loan of $100 or whatever amount he wishes. Then each month after the purchase of the bus, a name is drawn from a hat and the church pays back the money that the person loaned."

Howarth said the unusual method of financing was chosen because the elders and deacons of the church wanted to avoid the interest on payment which usually would accompany the purchase of a bus. In this way, he said, the bus would cost less and would not hurt the church budget.

Since the idea was first presented to the congregation on June 1, there has been good support.

"The response was great," Hubert said. "Over $4,000 has already been committed to the purchase of a 1974 Dodge Maxivan which we will buy in September." Any money left after the purchase will go toward the purchase of a second bus.

The idea is to get more people interested because the bus will be used primarily to bring people in the area to the church for Bible school. Hubert thinks that two buses would be ideal.

"I think that it would be great to have two buses. It would be kind of a competition thing for the parishioners driving. Whoever could fill his bus up first would win. It would be a kind of incentive to bring more people to the Bible school," he said.

Other plans for the bus are already being made. David hopes that the bus also can be used for church outings for the older members and to take people to the convention of Christian Churches that will take place next year in Detroit.

Will the successful plan be used again? "Not at least for a few years, until, perhaps, complete payment of the church is near," the minister said.

Rev. Keller joins OLGC

The Rev. Robert Keller has been assigned to Our Lady of Good Counsel Catholic Parish, Plymouth, as associate pastor. He will be joining the Rev. Kenneth MacKinnon, pastor, and the Rev. Francis Byrne, pastor emeritus, at the parish located at Penniman and Arthur.

Ordained on June 21 of this year at St. Veronica Parish, Detroit, Father Keller studied at Sacred Heart Seminary and College, Detroit, and St. John Provincial Seminary, Plymouth. His areas of special interest are liturgy and Christian Service.

Father Keller, 27, comes to Our Lady of Good Counsel from Our Lady Queen of Hope Parish, Detroit, where he served as a deacon for the past year and a half.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Keller, are members of St. Veronica Parish, Detroit.

Ministers to study at Adrian

Ministers serving United Methodist churches throughout Michigan will gather on the campus of Adrian College at Adrian Aug. 26-29 for the annual Michigan United Methodist Pastors School.

The program is provided by the church to encourage continuing education of ministers.

This year the format will follow that of last year's school, which was found to be effective. A brief dialogue will follow each lecture.

There will also be a series of dialogue groups with the lecturers as well as additional interest groups to provide a wide variety of learning experiences.

DESIGNATED as school preacher is the Rev. William B. McClain from Union United Methodist Church in Boston, who was the keynote speaker at the spring meeting of the board of Global Ministries.

One of the lecturers will be Dr. George E. Morris, director of the department of preaching ministry in the board of discipleship of the United Methodist Church.

His three lectures are titled "Essentials for Evangelism in the '70s," "The Situation of the Gospel Today" and "The Role of Preaching in Evangelism."

Dr. Rosemary Reuther, on the faculty of the school of religion at Howard University, and lecturer at Yale Divinity School, will address the ministers on three occasions.

She will speak on "Biblical Faith and the American Dream: the Role of the Church in the Contemporary Crisis of American Identity," "Women and Ministry: The Psychology and Structure of Ecclesiastical Sexism" and "Rich and Poor Nations and the Ecological Crisis."

DR. CHARLES BAUGHMAN and Dr. Eugene Lowry, colleagues on the faculty of St. Paul School of Theology of Kansas City, will be leaders in the area of celebration and worship.

Dr. Lowry will speak on "Differences Between Worship and Celebration" and "The Homiletical Bind."

Dr. Baughman has chosen as his theme "Drawing Water With Joy From the Wells of Salvation." He will give talks on "The Importance and Use of the Old Testament in Preaching" and "Pattern For Worship and Prayer in the Old Testament."

In addition to the dialogue discussions with the lecturers, small groups will focus on pastoral management, stewardship, a serendipity and a planning workshop, a beginning and advanced group in transactional analysis and the possibility of "theological diversity without polarization."

Mrs. Lindholm to be delegate

Mrs. Patricia Lindholm of Livonia has been selected as one of 362 delegates to the 1974 triennial convention of Lutheran Church Women in the Lutheran Church in America. The meeting will be held in Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 19 to 23.

Mrs. Lindholm, wife of Pastor William C. Lindholm of Holy Cross Lutheran Church in Livonia, will work with women from all over the United States, Canada and Puerto Rico in the convention that will include Bible study as well as business meetings.

"Loved, Empowered, Sent" is the theme. In business sessions the women will review the work of the auxiliary during the past three years, select aims and emphases for the next triennium, act on an auxiliary budget and elect officers and board members.

Berger-Denski rites held

MR. AND MRS. STEVEN BERGER
(Mary Denski)

Mary Denski and Steven Berger were united in marriage in a recent ceremony in St. Peter Lutheran Church of Plymouth, with the Rev. Leonard J. Koeninger officiating.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. John Denski of Lilley Road, Plymouth, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Berger of Cherry Hill Road, Plymouth.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white silk organza over taffeta with lace appliques. Her veil was cathedral length and her flowers white carnations, orchids, baby's breath and ivy.

Her sister, Jeanne Denski, was maid of honor. She wore a white tulle dress embroidered with red and pink flowers and a white picture hat. Her flowers were red roses and pink daisies in a nosegay arrangement.

The bridesmaids were Laurie Denski of Plymouth, the bride's cousin, and Linda and Carolyn Berger of Plymouth, sisters of the bridegroom.

Paul Paulun of Plymouth was best man. The ushers were John Denski III of Plymouth, brother of the bride, Rick Paulun and Don Adams of Plymouth, Mike Rorabacher of Belleville and Gary Sova of Westland.

A reception for 200 guests in the Plymouth Cultural Center followed the ceremony.

The couple had a Niagara Falls honeymoon and will live in Plymouth. The new Mrs. Berger is a 1973 graduate of Adelphi Academy. Her husband graduated from Plymouth High School in 1971 and is employed by the Canton Fire Department.

Fat a factor in elderly ills

"Obesity may be one of the major factors responsible for many of the medical problems of the elderly," Dr. Olaf Mickelsen said.

Mickelsen, a Michigan State University (MSU) food science and human nutrition professor, based his statement on recently completed studies in Tecumseh, Mich., Muscogee County, Ga., and Chicago.

The Tecumseh and Muscogee County studies indicated body fatness increased the incidence of diabetes in adults. Death among women with diabetes was three times greater for the obese than for the lean.

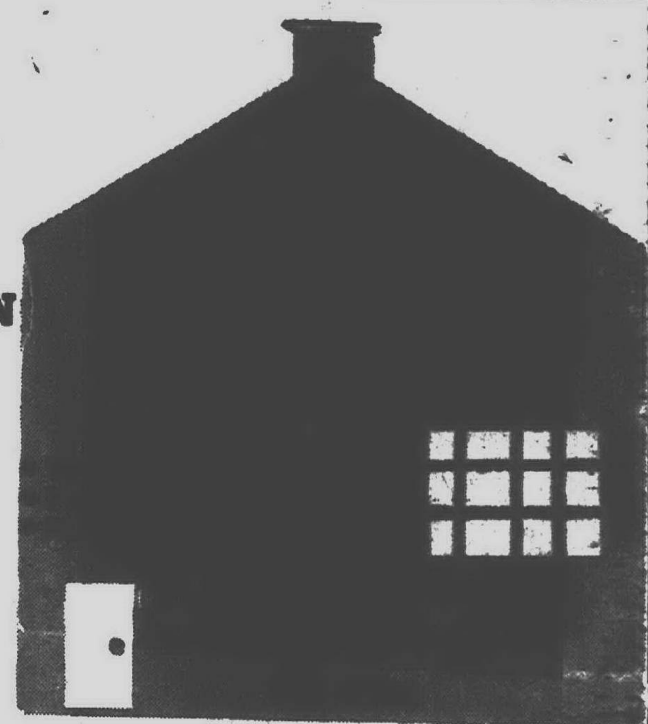

The Chicago clinic study indicated that 40 per cent of the patients with arthritis were obese. Of the arthritic obese patients, 30 per cent had gained 30 pounds before the disease appeared, while 60 per cent had gained 40 to 80 pounds.

Scout director Sinai Guild to leave area looks for new volunteers

Betty Hollenbaugh will leave her post as personnel services director for the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council to become executive director for the North Country Girl Scout Council in Plattsburgh, N.Y.

Starting Sept. 3, Miss Hollenbaugh will take over staff direction of the council in upstate New York which serves 2,200 girl scouts.

"We are proud that one of our staff has been chosen for this fine executive opportunity," said Mrs. Jo Stevens, executive director of the Huron Valley Council. "Miss Hollenbaugh has made an enormous contribution to our council which will enrich it for many years to come."

Historic home tour coming

The 11th annual Marshall Historic Home Tour has been scheduled for Sept. 7-8 this year. Started 26 years ago as a kitchen tour, the home tour last year brought more than 8,500 persons to the city.

Dance is set for Roostertail

The Detroit Metropolitan Dance Project announces "The Palm River Ball—Dance of the Decades," to benefit the Bicentennial Festival of Detroit Dance Companies, Monday, Oct.

21, at 8 p.m. in the Roostertail. The evening will include dinner, dancing to the music of the decades, plus cabaret type entertainment from the 1930s, '40s, '50s and '60s.

Stewart-Clemens

Mr. and Mrs. William Stewart of Ford Road, Plymouth, announce the engagement of their daughter, Cheryl L., to Robert L. Clemens of Ann Arbor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jake Clemens of Lansdale, Pa. The bride-elect is a 1971 graduate of Plymouth High School and a junior at Eastern Michigan University. Her fiancé graduated in 1971 from Goshen College in Indiana, where he majored in history. He is employed by Greene, Tweed & Co. A Nov. 9 wedding is planned.

At Kinder-Care smiles are our business.

At Kinder-Care Learning Centers in neighborhoods throughout the country, smiles are definitely our business.

Everyday, thousands of preschoolers, as well as school-age children up to 12 years old, come to Kinder-Care for smiles. All of our centers have the finest indoor and outdoor recreational equipment that will turn the biggest frown into a smile.

Parents smile too, because they know that at Kinder-Care their children are receiving the finest pre-school educational development program available including day care, hot nourishing meals, junior and senior kindergarten, recreational programs and buses that not only take children on field trips, but will pick up and drop off the older children from school. And yes, even our fees bring smiles.

Who me?

...Take the Dale Carnegie Course?

"What Can You Lose?"

Let's suppose your company asks you to enroll in the Dale Carnegie Course. What can you lose?

YOU COULD LOSE:

- a few evenings of TV, bridge or fly-tying
- any anxieties you might have about participation in discussions, seminars or executive meetings
- any doubts you may have about your own adequacy to face the pressures of modern living

YOU COULD ALSO LOSE:

- the habit of complacency about your personal goals and their attainment

YOU COULD ALSO LOSE:

- the doubtful privilege of being a good conformist and group-member-follower instead of gaining recognition as an independent, tough-minded individual
- any reluctance you have about making decisions, moving up, taking considered risks and facing the consequences.

AND YOU'LL CERTAINLY WANT TO LOSE:

- the prospect of becoming mired in your present income bracket
- the opportunity to stay safe and snug in your present job level

Our advice, sir? Get with it.

BMW The Luxury Sport Sedan

Obviously, not everyone can afford to enjoy one. But for those who can, no other automobile performs like a BMW.

The BMW is unique. The size and style command a sporting respect not frequently given to the luxury class. The brilliant inline-6 cylinder engine conquers any road with deft authority. The BMW is efficient. Without that insatiable thirst for fuel one so often finds in luxury automobiles.

The BMW is classic. Free of the capricious fashion trends that can so date an automobile. Thus the BMW depreciation rate is uncommonly low. The BMW is available for test drive at your BMW dealer.

Enjoy a demonstration drive today. Tomorrow could well be the day you purchase or lease a BMW.

Maryland stuns Atkins' crew, 7-2

Redford bounced in Johnstown opener

BY TOM DONOGHUE

JOHNSTOWN, PA. — One of the favorites to take it all in the Triple ABA Nationals fell into the losers bracket in game one.

Bob Atkins' Redford Adray crew, which met every challenge up to the trip to Johnstown, fell to Maryland State yesterday, 7-2.

The Redford crew now meets Mt. Pleasant this afternoon (Thursday) with the loser making the quick trip home. Mt. Pleasant lost to Detroit Adray Photo yesterday in another opening round contest, 13-1.

In what had to be a surprise move,

Atkins' went with Westland's Art Mach on the mound and Maryland pounded him for three runs in the opening inning to put Redford in the hole from the get-go.

John Broder, who clobbered a home-run against Buffalo, N.Y. in the regionals at Livonia's Ford Field accounted for both of Redford's scores with two solo four-baggers.

MARYLAND jumped on Mach in the last of the first. Joe Walter was hit by a pitch and Pete Beiden drew a walk. With two out, Mach walked Bob McKeever to load the sacks.

Then with a no-ball and two strike count on Bill Hemphill, Mach hung a curve and the Maryland State batsman laced a single up the middle to score two. Bill Olenik followed with an infield single and before Atkins could blink an eyelash, he found himself down, 3-0, in a tourney he was picked to win.

Maryland hurler, Bob Ferris, meanwhile had struck out the first five Redford hitters before Broder lashed out his first of two homers to slice it to 3-1 in the second.

But Maryland wasted no time in getting that tally back plus two more. In the third, Beiden led off with a homer off Mach. Britt Terrell beat out an infield single, McKeever singled and after a pop-out, Olenik ruined Mach with a two-run triple to up it to 6-1.

ATKINS HAD pulled Mach and brought in Ray Ivey.

Redford's second score came in the fifth when Broder again cleared the fences for the team's second hit.

Hemphill did the same off Redford's Ivey in the last of the inning to finish off the scoring at 7-2.

Redford attempted to put together an attack in the late stages when it got two runners on in the sixth and with Gary Fulk on the Redford mound in the final two innings. Maryland pulled off doubleplays in both the eighth and ninth to kill off any threat.

Redford wound up with just six hits off Ferris, who hurled for the University of Maryland. Ferris walked none and struck out nine.

Maryland collected 11 hits total off Mach, Ivey and Fulk with starter Mach tagged with the loss.

"We just didn't hit the ball," commented Atkins. "It was just a sad way to open the tournament. If we had played this way before, we never would have gotten this far."

Redford bats crush Buffalo, N.Y., twice

BY TOM DONOGHUE
Sports Editor

Add another feather to Bob Atkins' baseball hat.

His Redford Adray baseball squad made easy pickings of Birmingham, Ala., and Buffalo, N.Y. in the Triple ABA regionals this past weekend at Livonia's Ford Field and it is now on to the nationals.

A 39-3 Redford squad is now in Johnstown, Pa. along with 15 other teams contesting for the Triple ABA National Championships.

The path for Redford first saw the Adray team win the Livonia loop, sweep past Belleville at Eastern Michigan University and then top Woodhaven out of Alabama, 7-3, crush Buffalo, N.Y., 13-4, and come back to top the same Buffalo crew, 6-2.

"We have to be one of the favorites to win at Johnstown," commented Atkins. "We have met every challenge around here and let's face it, this is the best team to ever come out of this area."

Behind the pitching of Kevin Bara in the Friday night opener that drew a crowd of near 3,000 (largest ever to witness a game at Ford Field), Redford knocked down last year's runner-up in the nationals in Alabama, 7-3.

Then came the Saturday afternoon assault on Buffalo where Atkins used Art Mach and Jeff Moon on the mound while the New York squad went with four hurlers in failing to find a "stopper."

The contest saw Redford bang out a total of 15 hits while 11 hits were counted off the two Redford hurlers.

The game was marred by a barrage of Buffalo arguments which seemed to give the contest a twin bill effect with the end result being the Buffalo manager getting the "early exit."

Mach started on the Redford mound and Buffalo opened with two quick scores in the top of the first. Mark Scarello singled. After Mach walked Ron Blech, Mike VanRemman singled in one run and after a strikeout, Rick Wojick walked to load the bases.

Run No. 2 came across on a groundout and for the first time in any play-off contest, Redford was behind.

After going down, 1-2-3, in the first, Redford came alive in the second. With one out, Mach singled and John Broder lofted a towering fly to left that cleared the fence to tie it at two-all.

A one-out single by Bob Ganzak, walk to Steve Friedman and single by Mach gave Redford a 3-2 lead in the third off starter Bill Casbolt.

Buffalo threatened to jump back into contention in the top of the fourth.

With one out, Pat Schindler walked off Mach and Pete Fiore doubled. A Kevin Bara to Mark Yourchok to John Broder relay cut down Schindler at the plate on that double but Atkins had seen enough and in came Moon.

Moon got Scarello to pop to right to halt the threat.

Mach gave up two runs on four hits, and struckout four in the three innings worked. Moon went the rest of the way and was touched for two runs on seven hits, walked none and struckout one. It was the sixth victory for the lefty from Northville against no setbacks.

Redford gave Moon a big lead in the sixth. Broder and Bara singled and the two moved up on a sacrifice by Mike Kaili. Broder wound up scoring on a wild pitch and Bara dashed in on a hit off the bat of Gary D'Ascenzo. John Roy singled and Yourchok was safe on a fielders choice with D'Ascenzo safe at the plate.

Moon was walked to load the bases but Mach went down on strikes to leave them stranded.

The margin was pushed to 11-2 in the seventh when Redford jumped on three hits and three walks to score five times. Broder and Kaili drew base on balls and D'Ascenzo singled to load the sacks. Roy followed with a hit to score one. Yourchok walked to force in Kaili and Moon delivered an opposite field double to left to clear the bases and make it 11-2.

About this time, the Buffalo manager had seen enough of what he thought were calls going against him and said one word too many.

A walk to Dave Harding, single by Kaili, passed ball and two-run single by Roy increased it to 13-2 in the eighth for Redford.

Buffalo finally broke the "Moon barrier" in the ninth with two runs on four hits.

It was then Buffalo against Alabama in the loser bracket clash and the Buffalo bats pounded out to the tune of a 7-1 victory with Alabama caught leaving 14 runners on base.

The Sunday finale thus pitted Buffalo against Redford and Atkins went with his lefty Tommy Nippa who had gotten the final out in the Friday night opener against Birmingham.

Nippa went the full nine inning route and with the help of a second inning six-run explosion, kept Buffalo in check, 6-2.

It was Steve Friedman's bases loaded homer in the second inning that gave Redford and Nippa all it needed to work with.

The Redford lefty gave up five hits, walked three and struckout 12 in recording his eighth win against no losses this summer.

Dave Hein and Joe Monte worked the Buffalo mound with Redford collecting seven hits total and starter Hein taking the loss.

Redford opened the first inning with every indication of making game two against Buffalo a replay of the first. Roy led off with a base on balls, Bara hit into a fielder's choice with Roy out and Yourchok did the same with Bara out at second.

Friedman then singled and Tom McWilliams walked to load the sacks. Hein struckout Broder to get out of the jam.

Hein wasn't as lucky in the second.

Mike Kaili lined to second to open the inning but D'Ascenzo and Nippa were both hit by pitches and wild pitched to second and third.

Roy singled to score D'Ascenzo and Bara singled to bring in Nippa. That's when Monte took over the mound chores for Buffalo. Yourchok was safe at first on an error at second to load the bases and set the stage for Friedman's blast that carried Redford to a 6-0 lead.

Redford quieted down the remaining seven innings, collecting just three more hits, and fell back on its defense and pitching to earn the right for the trip to Johnstown, Pa.

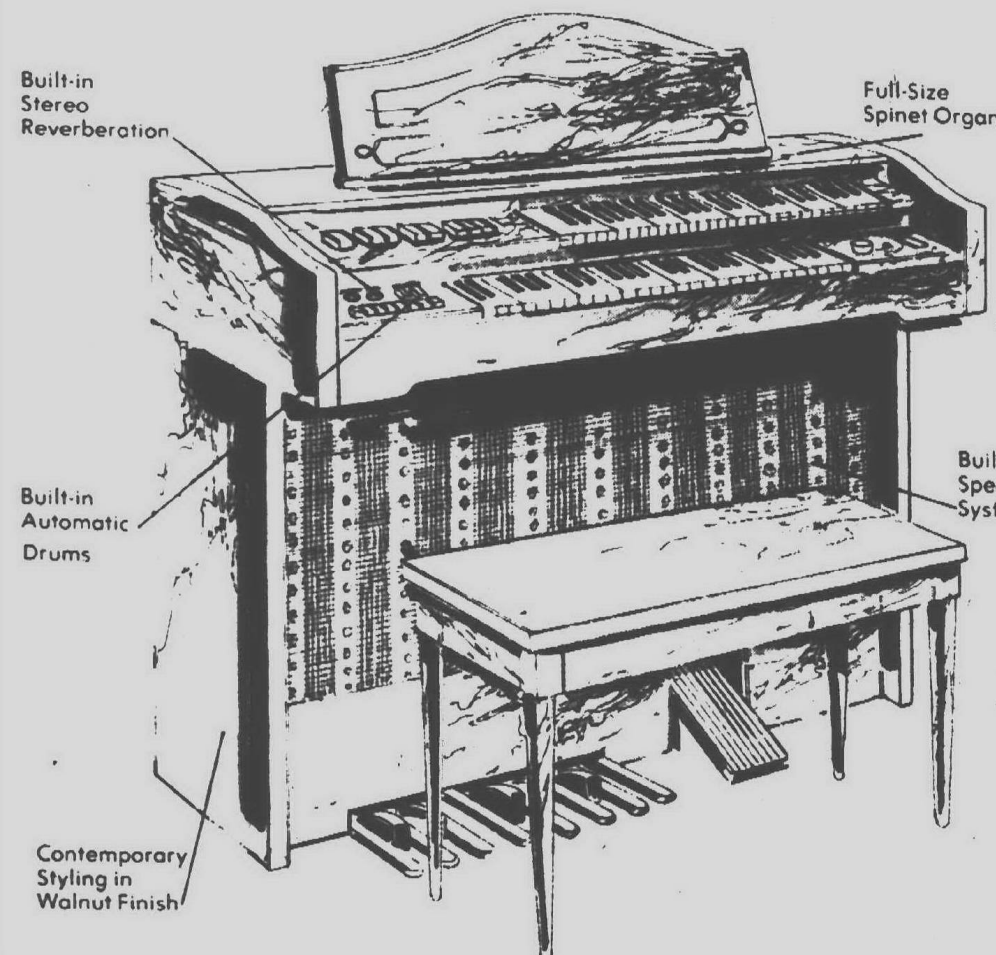

Buffalo came back with a solo score in the third on two doubles and another in the fourth on a single by Dixon, walk to Fiore and single by Schendler. But that was the extend of Buffalo's attack as Nippa set down the next 12 batsmen to snuff out any New York hopes.

RULED OUT at the plate is Mark Scarello of Buffalo, N.Y. with Redford Adray catcher John Broder holding onto the ball and the umpire about to make the call with a fan already giving

'George' takes him on 2:30 ride

Sports Editor tackles Wolverine Mile Track

BY TOM DONOGHUE
Sports Editor

"Come on George, let it out! Let's get it on!"

"Who-o-o-o-aa George, take it easy now - don't hurt yourself. Hey where are the brakes on this thing?"

This was the jest of my first meeting with "George."

"George" is a horse - a two year old trotter, weighing in at about 900 pounds and I was to be his driver, the man behind the wheel, the one that was to direct him around the Wolverine mile track at the Detroit Race Course.

Almost everyone has seen a race or two and this world of harness racing sure can appear easy from up in the cocktails of the dining room or from out in the grandstand with hot dog and beer in hand.

The "George Plimpton" side of this Sports Editor decided to shake out of the summer doldrums and attempt to get a taste of the harness racing world.

It was into the silks and helmet of owner-trainer and driver Joe Adamsky and into the barn area and onto the track.

When I first met "George", whose official racing title is "Somerset Knight", he didn't have a heck-of-a lot to say, just sort of grunted and gave me one of those who do you think you are made up to be glances.

After instilling all of my one minute horse sense confidence back into the eyes of "George" - it was on to the cart (known as the sulky in the racing world) and on to the mile track where "George" and I would become the best of friends.

It was sort of a give and take situation - "George" gave and took. I just hung on.

The very alert Adamsky was right beside "George" and myself, himself up on "Cookie Dough".

After a mile jog, which convinced me that hey, these guys really do move out, it was circle time back to the start and off around the track in typical race fashion - if there is such a style.

Before I get into this thing any farther, I should tell you a little about "George." He has never raced before in a real life race and should be making his debut in about a week at the DRC. So "George", like myself, was out on the track finding out what it was all about.

So he and I kinda felt we had something in common.

But one funny thing about horses - they don't really like to be passed by other horses and when one goes prancing by, to put it mildly, it's off to the races.

That first real zip around the mile track had to be one of the greatest thrills ever and the 2:45 official clocking didn't convince me that I didn't break two-minutes.

You know, even the slate off the track flying up with the dirt and hitting all over the body didn't feel all that bad - it sort of gives you that feeling of speed and movement.

And when you take that final turn into the home stretch you can't help but feel the excitement of the stretch drive. I felt it as a driver and you know the horse knows what it is all about by the way he reacts to your cat-calls and movements.

Maybe it was an early morning workout with just two painters in the enormous grandstands, but when I made that turn into the stretch with Adamsky on my outside on "Cookie Dough," there were 15,000 people in the stands yelling when we neared the finish.

It was then a slow jog back to the barn area where it was tender love and care time between "George" and myself. I washed him down - gave him a taste of water - a 15 minute cooling off period and it was back hooked to the sulky and to the track for another clocking.

This time "George" and I knew the track and each other and when Adamsky and "Cookie Dough" were ready, the timer was set and off we went.

This time I raced to the inside immediately - held back and made Adamsky make his move on the outside. I wanted to keep him right on my outside. "George" told me all his horse friends burn up quicker on the outside.

We stuck it out on the rail and when Joe came at us at the top of the stretch, "George" let out a little grunt and I knew that was my key to hold.

There was little doubt this time around - a 2:30 mile and a three length win over Joe and "Cookie Dough."

Back in the barn, "George" and I knew we gave them hell. He had one more workout set for the morning and I explained to him that I had to return to the typewriter but would be back to see him race in that No. 1.

George's owner and trainer, Adamsky, commented that it hadn't been that bad a race and that coming from one who has been in the profession the last 19 years made the slate wounds that much better.

Joe first raced a horse at the age of 13 in a country fair in Pittsburgh, Pa. and placed third on TangoFoot in 2:13, just a notch better than my 2:30. Maybe that Pittsburgh track was just a "fast track."

Joe is considered by many to be one of the best in arera harness racing. He raced in over 1200 races last year and he and his wife of one year, Lyn-del, have teamed up to make quite a pair.

Joe doesn't believe in using the whip on his horses except maybe in the stretch on occasions. "Some horses will stop on you cold when you use it. I like to get all I can out of my horses without it," he said.

A day at the track begins for Joe at 6:30 a.m. in the barn area where they work all his 20 horses at Wolverine. And up to about three-days prior to race time, each horse goes through a workout like that "George" and myself went through.

When asked if people can make it in the business just as a driver - Joe sort peered at me and explained that those that try usually last about two years.

"You really have to give it all in this business and know the work from every angle, from the barnwork to the horse itself," added Adamsky.

Joe hasn't bet on a race in 15 years, he said, his income comes from 10 per cent of the purses when he places first through fourth.

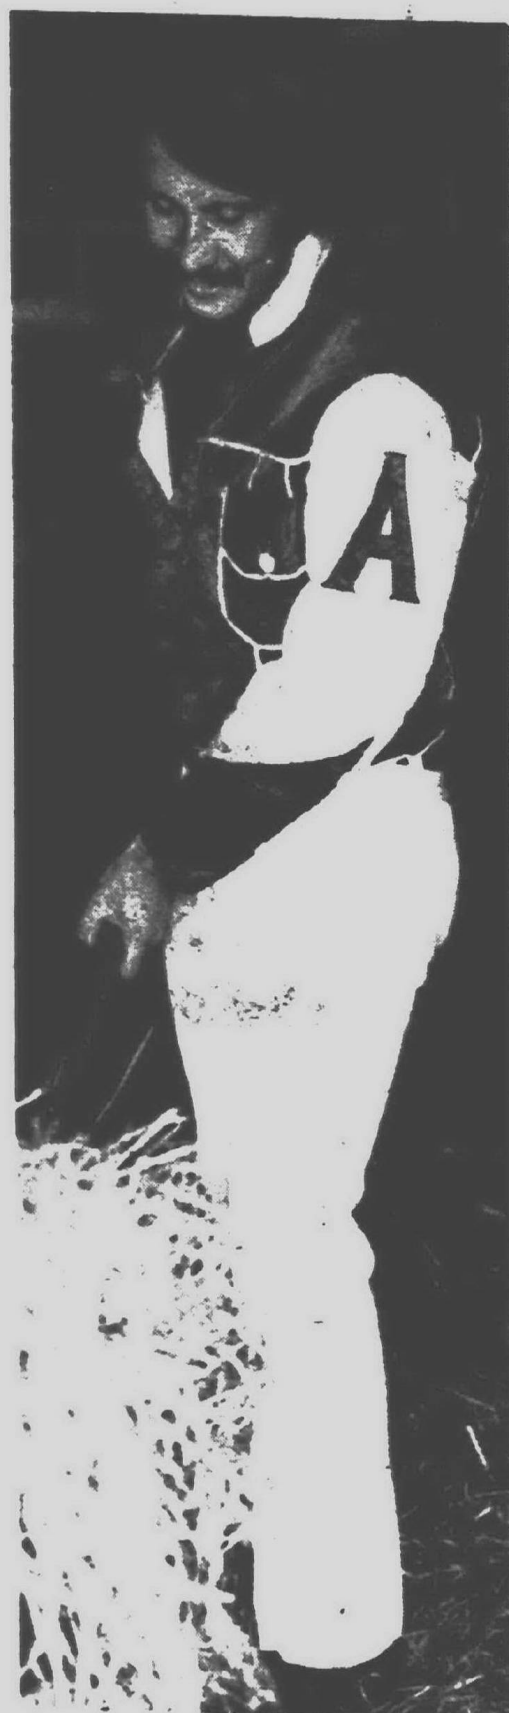

I guess the success of this business is knowing the basic roots of the harness world - the horse. There really has to be that communication between horse and man and man and horse.

Sitting in the sulky behind the power of a horse in a race has to be one of the greatest feelings of competitiveness, especially when it is "Ben-Hur" time with nine other hungry drivers and "Georges" out there on the slate.

Go get them "George!"

Business is booming at Wolverine Raceway in much the same manner as it did during the spring of 1973 when the big mile track shattered every record for wagering and attendance. Then all of those marks were bettered this spring at the unbelievable Hazel Park meeting.

Now it's Wolverine's turn again and the Livonia plant is bettering all of the records made by Hazel Park at its fall season of 1973.

Hazel Park was never able to hit the magic million dollar high for a single night even though it approached that figure several times.

Wolverine officials can boast they hit a million on the third weekend of the 82-night meeting. Matter of fact it was last Saturday when a crowd of 12,137 wagered $1,031,310. That has to be quite an achievement although the track only missed the million by $5,000 the Saturday before, the second one of the season.

HERE ARE A FEW figures that should make those who thought Wolverine couldn't do it, sit up and take notice. In the first place attendance after 16 nights was up 24.3 per cent with a nightly average of 7,795.

Wagering is averaging $715,359 nightly with a total of $11,445,743 in the bank already. Total handle for last week $4,517,626 for an average of $752,938. And that has to be the best start in Wolverine annals.

Just to make things a bit more interesting, Lightning Lobell, a four-year-old from Windsor, acted like it had been struck by a bolt of lightning Tuesday when it won a conditioned trot and paid $129 for a $2 win ticket.

It was the trotter's second win in 42 starts over a period of two years. Lightning Lobell lowered its mark to 2:06.2 in the victory by a half-length over Raoul Dussault's Big Event.

LIGHTNING DID strike Saturday night when Springs Pride, a six-year-old Bret Hanover pacer, shocked all by winning the $7,500 invitational and whipping the invincible Invincible Shadow in the process.

Invincible Shadow had been measuring top competition in every section of the land and was the 4-5 favorite to win this one in a romp. For three parts of the mile it appeared as if Invincible was but that's when Springs Pride, Grover C and Easy Irv took dead aim on the leader... and would you believe all three went past in the final 15 yards.

Spring's Pride, from the Hillbrook Farm in West Bloomfield, was fifth at the top of the long stretch. But driver Jim Merriman Jr. found room along the rail and roared through there for the victory by a lip over Grover C, the Toledo speedster, with Easy Irv, the Brighton star handled by Bea Farber, third by a nose. The winning time was 1:59.3, a career mark for the victor who stood with owner Richard Mealey in the winner's circle for the presentation.

Dick's father, Norm, has had a harness racing stable for years and it now appears as if he finally has the horse he always wanted... one capable of bettering 2:00 and of whipping the nation's best. Springs Pride accomplished both in the same race, thanks to some clever driving by Merriman.

Schoolcraft lists community classes

Schoolcraft College's fall community services schedule has been published and mailed to every home in the college district.

Complete schedule information and course descriptions for more than 130 classes are included in the green and white booklet. It also contains special information for women, senior adults and other programs offered by community services.

Director Ron Griffith said mail registrations will be accepted until Sept. 6. On-campus registrations are taken between 9 and 3:30 daily in the registrar's office.

Most classes begin Sept. 30, or during the first week in October which follows that Monday.

"We've done a number of things to make registration more convenient," Griffith said. "The schedule booklet contains handy mail-in forms, tuition and fees may now be paid by both MasterCard and BankAmericard, and there will be three evening registration periods on campus."

The evenings are the Wednesdays of Sept. 18 and 25, and Oct. 2, from 6:30 to 8:30.

The evenings are the Wednesdays of Sept. 18 and 25, and Oct. 2, from 6:30 to 8:30.

Among new classes this fall are "defensive driving" and "general educational development (GED) preparation" in math and reading to be offered at the college's center in Garden City. Also, "memory improvement" and "residential planning and design" are to be taught on campus.

Griffith noted that scheduling for community services had approached capacity levels. "Any further expansion in our program will necessitate our finding additional classroom space off-campus," he said.

Besides the center at Garden City, off-campus classes are currently being offered at Livonia Stevenson, Plymouth Canton, and at St. Mary Hospital. Further information about community services is available by calling the college at 18600 Haggerty, Livonia.

Ryan to decline WCCC board term

WESTLAND—John Ryan, charter member of the Wayne County Community College Board of Trustees and a past chairman, will not seek a second six-year term this fall.

Ryan, a Westland attorney who represented most of western Wayne County as one of seven board members, said that the boundaries of his district have been revised to reflect the population changes cited in the 1970 federal census.

He said that interested candidates may get nominating petitions from Mrs. Margaret Horn, secretary to the board, with the filing deadline being Sept. 18.

Ryan, in his "retirement" message, expressed his appreciation to local school boards and residents in his district for their support of the college "during difficult times."

He singled out George Schumm and Paul Lada, both of Wayne, for their work with the college's citizens' advisory committee, and the Wayne-Westland school board and administration for "extraordinary contributions."

The college was organized in 1968 and opened its first classrooms in rented public schools the following year.

The Wayne-Westland district was one of the first supporters in the college's organization and allowed John Glenn High School to be one its centers.

Atkins' Redford crew is ready for Johnstown, Pa.

"We have met every challenge around here and we have our work cut out now," commented Redford Adray baseball Coach Bob Atkins before leaving for the Triple ABA Nationals in Johnstown, Pa.

Atkins' Redford team did just that this summer - met and conquered every challenge and is one of the favored clubs in the 16 team nationals this week.

The trip isn't something new for Atkins or his Redford squad - they have been this route before, but never with such an impressive record.

After cleaning up in the nine team Livonia circuit, Redford crushed Belleville twice at Eastern Michigan University in the districts and knocked down Birmingham, Ala. and Buffalo, N.Y. twice in the regionals at Livonia's Ford Field.

A 39-3 Redford club is now in Johnstown with the finals in the two-game knockout tourney set for Monday, Aug. 19.

Atkins' first trip to Johnstown was '66 where Redford dropped two quick ones for a fast return home. Then came two straight losses in the regionals the following year in Altoona, Pa.

The year 1968 has to stand out in Atkins' mind as his Redford crew lost to New Orleans in the national finale, 2-0, on a bloop single down the right-field line.

The following two seasons, '69 and '70 saw Redford finish fifth in the nationals, the '69 trip seeing Atkins sport an overall mark of 30-12 - the best showing up to this summer.

Atkins bowed out of the Adray picture in '71 and '72 with Pat Sheridan taking over. Redford went to Johnstown both years but wound up making a return trip almost as quick as the ride down.

The Redford Union baseball and football coach jumped back into the Adray picture last year and his 28-7 crew finished sixth in the Triple ABA tourney.

Now comes a trip to Johnstown with a 39-3 showing.

"Hey, the Livonia Recreation Department did one heck of a job in running this regional," added Atkins. "The crowds were just great."

"This had to show the Livonia-Redford area is the hotbed of baseball in Michigan."

A crowd of near 3,000 witnessed the regional opener with Redford pounding Alabama, 7-3. The crowd never dropped below the 1,000 figure mark throughout the weekend which saw Redford dump Buffalo, N.Y. in the finale, 6-2.

"I really have to believe that people were deceived in this tourney," explained Atkins. "These were good teams that came in here but I am sure a lot of people thought we won this thing hands down."

"This Alabama club was runner up in the nationals last year and the pitcher that threw against us in the opener beat the champions last year."

"Let's face it, this is the best club to ever come out of this area. We were hitting .301 as a club going into this tournament and wound up with 26 runs and 33 hits in the three games."

"Hey, 22 of those hits came off college pitching."

"I feel that I have six kids in my lineup that have the potential to hit the ball out of the park at anytime. We have to be one of the favorites in Johnstown."

"The draw will be a key factor along with a certain amount of luck you have to pick up along the way."

The 15 other clubs in Johnstown, Pa. are last year's champion Johnnies of Baltimore; host Johnstown; Altoona, Pa.; Pittsburgh, Pa.; Youngstown, Ohio; Zanesville, Ohio; Maryland State; Washington, D.C.; Detroit Adray Photo; Mt. Pleasant, Mich.; Milford, Mass.; Brooklyn, N.Y.; Ft. Wayne, Ind.; New Orleans, La. and Philadelphia, Pa.

"Pitching and defense will be our key," added the Redford coach. "We also have perhaps our top double play combination ever in Mike Kalil at second and Gary D'Ascenzo at short."

The real key that will eventually tell the Redford story is the pitching staff. Righthander Kevin Bara heads it with an 11-0 mark but blisters on his throwing hand made him a question mark.

John Knox at 7-1, Ray Ivey at 3-0 and Tom Miller at 2-1 along with six saves make up the remaining right-handers along with a "pickup" from Westland Burger King in Art Mach.

The lefty hurlers have to be Redford's stronghold in Tom Nippa with an 8-0 showing and Jeff Moon of Northville with a 6-0 record.

"This team is not based on one or two kids," finished Atkins.

"We are a real team. Sure we have our outstanding performers that are being scouted by almost every big league team around, but we function as a team."

"I'll tell you, football camp is to open on Monday (Aug. 19) for Redford Union - I am not planning on being there. We should be in that national final."

2 top 1,000

The only players to top the 1000-yard total offense plateau in Wayne State University football annals have been A.J. Vaughn with 1866 in 1967 and current Tartar Ed Skowneski with 1557 in 1973.

Clarenceville no-hitter handcuffs Wayne, 5-0

Clarenceville of the Berry baseball loop in Livonia scored its third consecutive shutout in Michigan Recreation tourney play to move into the semifinals on the one-game knockout battle.

Clarenceville blanked Wayne, 5-0, with Chris Curtis tossing a no-hitter.

For the 5-foot-10, 160 pound senior to be at Clarenceville, it was his second win as he previously shutout Ann Arbor, 4-0, on a five-hitter.

And to make the no-hit day against Wayne even more complete, it was Curtis' 17th birthday. He walked only two and struck out five.

The Clarenceville Fischetti club now plays in the semifinals at Henry Ford Community College today (Thursday) at 4:30 p.m. with the winner advancing to the 7 p.m. finale tonight.

For Curtis, the no-hit victory was his third win of the summer behind two defeats.

Taking the loss for Wayne was Steve Rees with Clarenceville collecting eight hits.

Clarenceville scored one in the top of the first when Rick Beyer singled and Dino Mastropietro, Curtis and Jim Hill walked to force in one run.

The second stanza saw Clarenceville up it to 3-0 when Nil Sheena walked, Beyer singled and on the hit, Sheena scored when the centerfielder booted the ball. Luka singled to score Beyer.

A walk to Gary Juntunen, single by Tim McCammon and double by Tim Laird finished it off at 5-0 in the fourth.

Livonia gals halted in state finale, 4-3

The Livonia Cardinals fell out of the state championship nest with a bound.

After romping past Wurtsmith Air Force Base, 30-0, in the opening round of girls state softball, the Livonia team wound up on the short end of a 4-3 score in the finale with Sterling Heights.

Thus ends a 17-3 season for Coach Bob Hope's crew that oddly enough outhit Sterling Heights in the finale, 21-13, and wound up leaving stranded at least two runners per inning.

The Livonia Florist sponsored club collected 34 hits in the opening 30 run explosion, scoring seven times in the first, pumping in 12 in the second, eight in the fourth and three in the fifth.

Jeri Isanhart banged out five hits in five at bats for the Livonians including two doubles and two triples with Diane Petrocella going four for four with a two-run homer and two doubles for her efforts.

Working the mound for the Cardinals was Cathy Ludwig who tossed a four-hitter and allowed just one runner to get as far as third base.

Livonia took off to a 2-0 lead in the state final with Sterling Heights, saw it cut to 2-1 in the top of the third and upped it back to 3-1 before Sterling Heights rallied for three in the fifth with two hits and two errors opening the door.

Ex-Panther roars

Linebacker Keith Anleitner, Garden City East grad, led Wayne State University's tacklers in 1973 with 138 points. Anleitner, then a freshman, didn't even win a starting berth until the fourth game of the season.

Tartar QB wins

During Wayne State University's 10-game football season of 1973, quarterback Ed Skowneski, now a junior, had five 100-yard rushing days and seven 20-carry contests.
