City sets public hearing on loop road proposal

To build or not to build will be the question under consideration when the Plymouth city commissioners hold an open meeting on the subject of creating a loop road around the city's central business district.

To be held Monday, Sept. 30 at 7:30 p.m., the meeting will be in city hall.

City commissioners expressed hope at a recent meeting that members of the public would attend the hearing to air their feelings about the use of more than $500,000 in tax money for the loop road project.

"This would be a major capital investment affecting the entire community," said John Moehle. "I am anxious to encourage members of the general public to attend."

"We ought to send an explicit invitation to attend to the planning commission and other city resource people," added Harold Guenther.

The loop road, under consideration for about 15 years in Plymouth, was recently the subject of a detailed study by Vilcan-Leman Associates, the city's hired planners.

To be built along already existing city streets, the road is supposed to make it easier for the public to park near the central business district. The road will lead to parking structures close to the center of town.

Under the project, streets designated as part of the loop road would be widened and rounded at the corners to allow for a smooth flow of traffic.

Following the commission meeting Mayor Beverly McAninch further urged the public to be present at the open meeting.

"The city commissioners, the planning commissioners and the city's hired planners, Vilcan-Leman, will be on hand to discuss the proposed loop road, what its benefits are, as well as its location and its costs," she said.

"It seems to us that as many people should be concerned with this as are concerned with having to pay taxes," she continued. "If this road is completed, the funds used for it will be city tax funds, or our share of federal revenue sharing funds."

She added: "These are decisions we want help from the citizens in making. After all it is the concern of the city commissioners to set priorities for what the city's needs are and for that we need citizen input."

Court doesn't stop teachers' strike

PLYMOUTH—Negotiations between the Plymouth School District and its striking teachers are continuing at a stepped up pace as ordered Monday by Wayne County Circuit Court.

Judge Harry J. Dingeman Jr. ruled Monday that negotiations should continue "eight hours a day for whatever time it takes to resolve the matter."

But, the judge added, if bargaining between the district and the Plymouth Education Association (PEA, teachers' union) reaches an impasse, "the court will have no alternative but to grant" the injunction sought by the school board against the strike.

SOME 250 teachers jammed the hallways outside Dingeman's court before the show cause hearing Monday, but only 30 were allowed into the small courtroom.

Erwin Ellmann, attorney for the PEA, began his argument before Dingeman, by saying the court had no jurisdiction in the matter because the schools had not proven the PEA members were residents of Wayne County. (The judge later dismissed that argument saying that jurisdiction was proper since the district is located in the county.)

Ellmann also asked the court to dismiss the injunction request because the schools had not notified the PEA members individually of their inclusion in the suit and because the school board has "not acted in good faith" nor proved the strike was causing "irreparable harm."

John Thomas, attorney for the school board, said the board has acted in good faith and "can show there has been irreparable harm."

Dingeman recessed with both attorneys to his chambers before returning to order both sides to step up the negotiating pace.

"EVERYONE IS IN AGREEMENT that the principal thing we wish to accomplish is the return to work by teachers and the return to classrooms by students," Dingeman said.

Negotiating a settlement was the most equitable way of accomplishing this, the judge added.

"But it's going to take serious and good faith bargaining on the part of both sides," he cautioned in ordering the negotiating teams back to the bargaining table.

Dingeman asked attorneys for both sides to keep him apprised of the negotiations' progress and said an injunction would be ordered if an impasse were reached. "But I hope that isn't necessary," he concluded.

OVER THE WEEKEND, bargaining teams from the two sides met with a state factfinder who said in his report, "It appears that neither side is presently hurting enough to forego 'face' for the sake of moving realistically for a settlement."

7 PHS students named Merit semi-final winners

PLYMOUTH—Seven students at Plymouth Centennial Educational Park have been named semifinalists in the competition for 3,400 merit scholarships to be awarded in 1975, announced co-principals Bill J. Brown and Kent Buikema.

Joining approximately 15,000 semifinalists from across the nation are: Jeff Braunscheidel of Plymouth-Salem, Ted Burton of Plymouth-Salem, Wayne Heinmiller of Plymouth-Canton, Kathy O'Connell of Plymouth-Canton, Philip Schulte of Plymouth-Canton, James Shefferly of Plymouth-Salem and James Tschirhart of Plymouth-Salem.

The merit program semifinalists were the highest scorers in each state on the 1973 preliminary scholastic aptitude test-national merit scholarship qualifying test (PSAT-NMSQT), which was administered to more than one million students.

Through their performances on a second examination, the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT), the semifinalists may advance to merit program finalists and qualify for the scholarship competition.

About 90 per cent of the semifinalists are expected to become finalists and compete for 1,000 one-year $1,000 Scholarships and an estimated 2,400 four-year renewable Scholarships financed by sponsors representing corporations, foundations and colleges.

Winners will be announced in April. To this date, more than 38,000 students have won merit scholarships valued at more than $104 million.

Chamber, PCDC join in hiring co-director

By W. EDWARD WENDOVER

PLYMOUTH—In the hopes of fostering more economic development in the area, the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce and the Plymouth-Canton Development Commission (PCDC) have forged a new link.

The two groups have agreed to hire a co-director, James McCartney of Westland, to head up efforts at luring retail and industrial development to the City of Plymouth and Plymouth and Canton townships.

McCartney, 37, is a former Wayne County Commissioner and one of four certified industrial developers in the state of Michigan. He is currently the manager of economic development for the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce and will officially take office here on Oct. 1.

JAMES HOUK, current director of the PCDC, has announced his retirement effective that date to take "what I hope will be a long trip to the South."

McCartney's appointment came formally at a joint meeting of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce board and the PCDC Tuesday night. Fred Hill, president of the chamber, and Houk, jointly announced the appointment.

In the past, the chamber has not had a fulltime director but recently began searching for one to administer the chamber's business.

Hill said the chamber needs such a person because most chamber members are too busy looking after their own businesses and industries to devote themselves fulltime to the chamber.

"We sit here with a lot of good ideas, but there was nobody to implement them," Hill said.

The PCDC has had a fulltime director but has always shared offices with the Plymouth chamber and thus became involved in projects benefiting both groups.

So with Houk's retirement, the boards of both groups decided to officially link their development activities by jointly hiring the director.

JAMES MCCARTNEY

A total of $40,000 has been set aside—half paid by each group—to pay for the director's salary, office help and office services.

"THIS CAN BE one of the greatest moves the community has made," Houk said of McCartney's hiring. "We'll gain by having an experienced person on the job."

The PCDC is a semi-public agency supported equally by the Plymouth Community School District, the City of Plymouth and Plymouth and Canton townships. Its goal is to attract tax producing development to those communities as a benefit also to the school district.

Harold Guenther, Plymouth city commissioner and representative on the PCDC board, said, "Each of these governmental bodies (participating in the PCDC) will be looking to Jim (McCartney) for specific, different things."

McCartney described the Plymouth-Canton area as "one of the shining stars" in the rapidly developing southeastern Michigan area.

HE SAID the melding of the two groups into one concerted attempt to foster economic development represented "the business communities and the governments working out common problems together."

The new Chamber-PCDC director has a BA in business administration from Arizona State University and was formerly the director of economic development for Westland.

McCartney ran for mayor of Westland last year, but lost by 1,000 votes to incumbent Eugene McKinney. Part of his campaign stressed Westland's lack of commercial and industrial development.

He is married and has two children.

Pierce concedes; Reuther nominated

Dr. Edward Pierce, failing to close the gap in a recount of the 2nd Congressional District Democratic primary, conceded the Aug. 6 election to John Reuther, who will become the official winner by 81 votes.

A Reuther aide said the candidate's gap had actually widened to 131 votes as of Monday. Reuther, who has spent his adult life campaigning for other candidates and working as a congressional staff member, will campaign against four-term Republican incumbent Marvin Esch in the Nov. 5 election.

Announcing the concession Wednesday in Ypsilanti, Reuther recalled Esch had said "it would take at least two Democrats to beat him in November." Reuther jibed: "Well, I have news for my Republican opponent—he will have more than two Democrats to worry about this year." He said

Dr. Pierce and two other primary opponents, Marjorie Lansing and Ronald Egnor, had agreed to serve on his steering and finance committee.

Cantonites say zoning should limit development

By MARIE MCGEE

CANTON—As it turned out, Canton Township planning commissioners wouldn't have had to move the public hearing Tuesday night on the proposed land use plan to the roomier UAW Hall on Michigan Avenue.

The sparse crowd that showed up would have just about filled the usual meeting place in the township fire station at Canton Center and Cherry Hill.

The crowd was so small—about 60 persons—that the commission dispensed with a previously announced plan to have the audience use cards to submit questions in an effort to keep things moving in an orderly manner.

The audience, however, was restricted to one question at a time. After everyone was heard once, a second round began.

MOST OF THE AUDIENCE was made up of residents who have been attending township board meetings and planning sessions frequently. Except for a very few, most of the audience appeared to be familiar with the map and the text of the land use plan.

In general, the audience found fault with the proposed plan on three counts: Too much commercial zoning, too many multiples (44 per cent), and the lack of land left in its present agricultural zoning to discourage development.

On the latter point, the map shows all the land currently zoned agricultural envisioned as "moderate density" or 80 foot lots with 3.6 dwelling units per acre.

Robert Greenstein, a candidate for the township supervisor's post, led the opposition to the plan "with at least a dozen things wrong with it." However, by the time the 10 p.m. cutoff time for the hearing arrived, Greenstein was only on "round four."

He labeled as "utter absurdity" the number of multiples proposed by the land use plan and was critical of the plan's failure to recognize Canton's "unique" rural characteristics by protecting some areas for non-development.

Of the multiples, he said: "We don't want it and we don't need it. And an overwhelming number of township residents would agree."

He charged also that the percentage established for multiples in the plan "was never talked about at meetings of the citizens advisory council," whose input helped Planning Consultant Michael Manore with development of the plan.

The advisory council was made up of 25 members of the community. It met 20 times and issued its own report that was to be reflected in the land use plan.

At one point, Greenstein suggested that a certain amount of land west of Canton Center Road be zoned and kept agricultural, thereby keeping the price down to where the township could possibly afford to buy it at some future point in time.

"IT'S THIS (the map) that puts the land in the $6,000-an-acre bracket," he commented.

"As the price of food goes up, the value of farming will go up also," he added.

Commenting on the what he called the "proliferation of commercial zoning," he said the township has too much commercial zoning already.

Another resident, Mrs. Jack Marts, was also critical of the amount of commercial zoning, particularly at the corners of each main road. She called it "developing eyesores," especially if the soft economy continues.

On the point of two small sections north of Warren and west of Canton Center roads that are marked for moderate density, Greenstein claimed that the township "doesn't really have any true moderate zoning (80 foot lots) because the two areas have 80 foot lots on the one side only."

Commenting on the remainder of the land west of Canton Center that is zoned moderate density, Greenstein maintained that "even that area is not safe" from being "bastardized" by planned unit developments (PUD). This allows a mixture of densities in single family homes, multiples and some commercial in exchange for more open space than in conventional single family developments.

Two persons in the audience objected to the change from heavy industrial to light industrial zoning for land in the Michigan-Belleville Roads sector.

J.C. Clark, owner of an industrial plant in the area, said the change would be a "hardship."

"That land has been zoned heavy industrial for the past 25 years," he said.

THE PUBLIC HEARING dealt with only 32 of Canton's 36 square miles. Still under consideration are the four square miles in the northwest sector, presently zoned for one-acre lots.

Zoning for those four square miles will be discussed at a future date "because of the lack of agreement," explained Manore.

Another point that escaped serious discussion was that of shopping center locations. Two areas are proposed, Manore said in opening remarks. One is in the Michigan-Canton Center roads area and the other "is talked about in the text, but never identified on the map."

Planning commissioners will now take the citizen comments under advisement. Possible revision of the plan could result, Manore said. The plan will be re-submitted to the residents at a future public hearing before final adoption by the planning commission, the audience was assured.

Twp. awaits ruling on buying golf course

By W.W. EDGAR

PLYMOUTH TOWNSHIP—October 10 can't come too soon to suit the Plymouth Township officials.

That's the day Probate Judge Willis Ward will decide whether the Vollbrecht Estate will be granted a real estate license to sell the Hilltop Golf Course to the township.

For more than 18 months this possibility of the township obtaining the course and going into the golf business has been discussed. But, for some reason, both parties can't get together on terms.

Now it will be done by court action and the hope that Supervisor J.D. McLaren expressed shortly after taking office will be fulfilled.

The first real peak in the plan was reached last September when the voters went to the polls and approved the purchase plan.

This plan calls for a price of $6,000 per acre with the total cost not to exceed $390,000.

"If Judge Ward rules favorably for us it will be a grand thing," McLaren stated, "and it will give us a good start on development of the entire recreation project. (The township now owns the property adjoining the golf course.) There is only one little chance that—even if the judge ruled favorably—the deal would not go through—and that is the interest rate the Vollbrecht Estate might ask."

"In these days when everything is going up," he said, "there could be a chance that the interest rate we have agreed upon may be boosted.

"We don't have anyone down here around the office who knows a thing about golf," McLaren went on, "but the City of Livonia seems to be doing well with its course. And there's no reason why we can't do the same."

"We'll know more about it on Oct. 10."

McLaren also said that work on the larger recreation area is being held up because of the Edison company's decision to cut back on new installations.

"I don't expect anything much will be done there this year," he said. "That's why the purchase of the golf course would be a grand thing for us now."

Student tests registration set

PLYMOUTH—Students who will be juniors and seniors in high school this fall are reminded that many colleges and universities require entrance examinations from prospective freshmen.

Two such tests are offered, the SAT and the ACT. Both tests need not be taken unless one plans to attend a school that requires the SAT scores and also plans on participating in the Michigan Competitive Scholarship Program which requires the ACT scores.

Seniors are advised to take the ACT if they wish to be considered for financial aid. The ACT scores are only the initial screening criterion in determining financial aid awards. Financial need is another one.

Juniors are advised to participate in the testing programs in the spring of their junior year. This enables them to retake the test in their senior year, if desired.

Registration for the ACT scheduled for Oct. 19 ends Sept. 23. Registration for the SAT scheduled for Nov. 2 ends Sept. 30. Information concerning college requirements, registration materials and code numbers for the tests may be obtained at Plymouth-Salem or Plymouth-Canton guidance offices.

Community colleges do not require test scores.

CITY RESIDENTS have been complaining about a field just off Main Street at the C&O Railroad tracks being used as an open dumping ground. Household items, shopping carts and industrial waste have been dumped there. (Staff photo by Bob Woodring)

IN ADDITION TO the official redecoration of Truesdell School in Canton Township, three senior Plymouth high school art students donated their talents to spruce up the school. Jan

Township asks: Where has all the water gone?

By HANK MELJER

PLYMOUTH TOWNSHIP—Township Water and Sewer Department figures for July and August show the township lost more than 43 million gallons of water each month, or half of what it purchased in July and more than a quarter of what it bought for August.

But according to Web Kincade, township DPW superintendent, it's the billing procedures, not bursting water mains, that account for most of the missing millions of gallons.

The township buys its water each month from the Detroit Metropolitan Water Board, but it only bills its residents and customers quarterly. Each quarterly billing period includes three monthly billing sections, so that in a given month only one-third of the customers are billed, and their bills reflect water used over portions of the preceding quarter.

Thus in July and August, peak periods for water use, customers were still being billed for gallons they used in May and June, leaving the township with millions of extra unbilled gallons.

"WE PAY FOR the water quicker than we bill our customers for it," Kincade said. "If we were to procure the same amount each month that would give us a true figure."

That doesn't mean that great quantities of water aren't lost every month. Big breaks and small ones alike account for millions of gallons seeping or spraying away annually.

"Smaller leaks that don't show themselves contribute a lot to water loss. When the water gets away you never really know it."

Over the year, the billing discrepancies average themselves out, but in a report to township trustees, Kincade noted that during the past fiscal year real township water losses were valued at $39,466.70.

While calling the loss "not overly excessive," Kincade admitted that tighter water controls in the township can improve the situation.

SOME LOSSES have been stopped already.

Earlier this year Kincade discovered that in one year the Hillside Inn and the Burroughs Credit Union had used nearly 9 million gallons of township water while paying their bills to the city.

Despite the losses and seasonally exorbitant billing data, the township seems to be losing a smaller percentage of its water than it has in the past.

In 1972 the township lost 18 per cent of the water it bought, in 1973 the figure was 16 per cent and in fiscal 1973-74 a recent report from township auditors put the loss at 14.1 per cent.

"I hope to get it down to a lot less than that," said the DPW director, who took over the post last December. "I'd like to be able to get it down to 10 per cent. I think that would be a fair figure."

It's hard to tell how Plymouth Township's losses compare with those in other area communities. "Water loss percentages are difficult to get, as no one wants to admit them, much less publish them," Kincade said.

Figures that are available show the City of Plymouth recorded losses last year of 15 per cent, while Livonia lost nine per cent of the water it bought.

WATER MAINS suffer their most severe damage in the winter, when cold weather contracts the pipes, putting strain on joints. "That's when you get a pull on everything and a break occurs. The nuts and bolts just crack."

Other leaks are harder to predict, like the Gallimore School water main which burst over Labor Day prior to a water battle scheduled at the school by the fire departments from Canton and Plymouth townships.

The most serious leaks are those where the water seeps into the earth and doesn't readily show itself on the surface. Thousands of gallons can be lost before the leak appears.

Other problems which contribute to township water losses are a poor registration of meters, defective meters and unauthorized use of fire hydrants.

According to Kincade, during the summer construction season the Wayne County Road Commission has been known to use "quite a bit" of the township's water without the DPW's knowledge.

Several construction companies are authorized to use some township hydrants that are metered. These firms receive a monthly bill. But contractors who request water from unmetered hydrants are charged a flat rate for their water.

"IT'S REAL difficult to measure what's used," Kincade said. "In fact, you can't do it." Contractors who use great amounts of water on the flat rate may therefore be contributing to township water losses.

In an examination of DPW data, township auditors concluded the 14.1 per cent water loss figure of the past fiscal year was still too high.

In his report to trustees, Kincade outlined several approaches which he said his department would take to cut water losses.

Among these are double-checking questionable meter readings that may indicate defective meters, continual repair of meters that aren't registering properly, "watchful eye" by all township employees and interested citizens on hydrant use and hydrant, main and valve leaks, and notification of the Wayne County Road Commission regarding unauthorized use of hydrants.

He also called for "a continual look-out by all water department employees for structures or customers of any kind that may be hooked up to our services yet are not being billed properly," a running list of new water permits which should be checked monthly against new building permits to make sure each new building has a water meter, and a check of all condominiums and apartments to see if they have an effective water meter set-up.

"I think we're doing a good job," Kincade said, despite the past year's loss of more than $39,000 in unbilled water.

"The problem is that we all have to continually keep on our toes to keep on top of it."

Re-dedication set by 1st Presbyterian

PLYMOUTH—Re-dedication of a refurbished sanctuary and Christian education wing is planned by First Presbyterian Church of Plymouth, 701 Church, in services at 9:30 and 11 a.m. Sunday, Sept. 22.

Leading worship will be the Rev. Philip Rodgers Magee, senior minister, who will speak on "Bless this House." Dr. Henry J. Walch, minister emeritus, and the Rev. Theodore D. Taylor II, associate-elect.

Special music will be performed by the church choir under the direction of Fred Nelson, and Robert Jones, organist.

Tours of the education rooms will follow both services.

THE ALTERATIONS, financed through bequests of late members and gifts of present ones, were completed under direction of committees headed by Chester Haynes and Dr. Frederick Foust.

In the sanctuary, carpeting and upholstered pews were installed and the stone walls were processed to enhance acoustics.

The chancel was re-designed with a large, carved wooden cross and communion table, and movable chapel chairs are provided for the choir to make the chancel more adaptable for sacred drama and choral events.

Carpeting and chancel draperies are red and the pews and chancel furniture are oak.

The old pews were donated to St. Mary's Serbian Orthodox Church of Berkeley.

Sanctuary alterations were designed and executed by Studios of Potente, Kenosha, Wis. Refurbishing of the educational wing was headed by the Shield Construction Co., a Plymouth firm.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN Church of Plymouth was founded in 1833, four years before Michigan became a state. The first minister was the Rev. Alexander McJunkin, and the congregation, officially constituted July 14, 1835, constructed its first building at Spring and Starkweather, using lumber hauled from Detroit by oxen.

In 1847, the church moved to its present location at Main and Church. Remodeling was done in 1904 and 1916.

A fire in 1936 razed the building, and the present structure was erected after that. The educational facilities were added in 1955.

The congregation now numbers more than 1,200 members.

Too much industrial zoning in county

Wayne County's 43 cities and townships may be zoning too much land for industry and too little for agriculture and recreation.

That's one major conclusion in a "development strategy" proposed today by the County Planning Commission to the elected Board of Commissioners. The two-section report contains 100 pages. It will be recommended by the public works committee to the full board.

Planning Commission Chairman Donald Juchartz and Planning Director Francis Bennett cautioned:

"This is not a master plan. This is a development strategy. The county cannot impose a plan on 43 local units of government, including the City of Detroit."

"But the county can take a county-wide point of view and produce some proposals for the future for the county as a whole. That's what we have done."

CRITICIZING SOME local master plans, Bennett said: "The local master plans tend to assume high population figures because of the element of pride in bigness and on the assumed fiscal security a larger tax base will provide. They tend to assume the total area of the local jurisdiction should and will be solidly developed."

Juchartz said the strategy offered some other options to the public "on the assumption that the majority do not want this county built up solid with wall-to-wall concrete and housing." Juchartz made three points:

1. Of 43 local cities and townships, 37 have master plans which are not coordinated and "could lead to chaos." There is an excess of land zoned for industry and a lack of land preserved for agriculture and recreation.

2. Natural resources can be preserved rather than wasted if total county needs are considered and proper protection provided.

3. There will be plenty of opportunity for local officials to react to the strategy and participate in future changes.

OTHER RECOMMENDATIONS from the County Planning Commission:

Expanded county activity in providing recreational programs and facilities under the direction of a new county recreation commission. Parks in Wayne County are currently operated by the Road Commission.

A county solid waste (trash) disposal program that would separate and utilize acceptable refuse for building of hills. The hills could provide skiing, tobogganing and scenery. Such methods have been successful in the downriver city of Riverview as well as in Chicago, Virginia Beach, Va., and Burbank, Calif.

A transportation system that would provide public transportation to every area of the county.

A Wayne County Housing Commission (presently under consideration in the Board of Commissioners) that would have power to provide housing for the poor and elderly in suburban areas that lack such programs.

A mid-decade census in 1975 to get facts on population shifts.

A policy declaration to preserve agricultural lands both for scenery and to provide fresh produce for urban dwellers.

An Environmental Concerns Council to monitor a wide variety of inter-related problems for the Board of Commissioners.

A long term building program for county government. It would include construction of a new courthouse near Gratiot and Beaubien in downtown Detroit, other courts and jails in western Wayne County and branch offices for county services.

"THE POPULATION of Wayne County has remained relatively static since 1950," said Bennett. "There were 2,435,235 persons in 1950 and 2,686,751 in 1970," an increase of 9.5 per cent in 20 years or less than one-half of one per cent a year.

"The shifts, obviously, have been from the City of Detroit to suburban communities," said Bennett.

County sets meeting here

An initial "meeting-with-the-people" and members of the human resources committee of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners worked out so well there will be more in the future.

A second such session will be held in Livonia in October at a place to be determined soon. Others will follow on a once-a-month basis for at least six months, said Com. Tom F. Taylor (D-Westland), chairman of the committee.

The first session was held Sept. 10 on the site of a hot lunch for senior citizens—the Kirk of our Savior Presbyterian Church in Westland. Thirty of the 50 seniors who took lunch there that day stayed for the meeting that followed. Fourteen of those who stayed got on their feet and shared their ideas with the commissioners.

AT THE OUTSET, Taylor explained that the purpose of the meeting was for commissioners to listen to ideas about ways the county could improve services that are needed by the elderly.

The first suggestion was that something be done to improve transportation services for elderly—particularly those who are handicapped either physically or financially to the degree that they cannot get around.

Com. Robert Mahoney (D-Detroit), a member of the State of Michigan Commission on the Aging, said a $900,000 state program has been promised, but that details of how it will work are not yet settled.

EMMETT LEWIS

GM promotes Emmett Lewis

General Motors has promoted Emmett B. Lewis Jr. to the position of vice president and general manager of the Diesel Division of General Motors of Canada Limited in London, Ont.

Lewis moves up to the position after serving as general sales manager of the Detroit Diesel Allison Division headquartered in Redford Township.

The position became available following appointments of new general managers for three GM divisions. Lewis succeeds F.W. Walker Jr., who was moved up to general manager of the GM Transportation Systems Division in Warren.

Lewis was appointed general sales manager of the Detroit Diesel Allison Division in September 1970.

Born Oct. 7, 1915, in Rocky Mount, N.C., he graduated from high school in Wilmington, N.C., and studied industrial management at North Carolina State University.

Lewis joined GM in July 1946, as a parts and accessory representative for Chevrolet Motor Division, Charlotte, N.C., became district manager a year later and in 1950 was named zone distribution manager.

In 1953, Lewis became zone truck manager in Louisville and two years later was named regional truck manager in Atlanta. He joined Chevrolet's Central Office, Detroit, in 1957 as assistant manager of the division's commercial and truck department.

He was appointed director of the fleet section, GM sales section, in 1962 and general sales manager of the TEREX Division in 1963. He was named to his present position when the Detroit Diesel Engine and Allison divisions were merged. Lewis served in the U.S. Navy during WWII.

M. David Keefe, the fact finder, also said, "Each side should be required to make further concessions to the other in bridging the relatively narrow gap, which realistically, if not officially, now separates them."

"In as much as fact finding cannot compel this result, it is evident that attempts to induce settlement at this time are fruitless," Keefe concluded.

Fact finding is not binding to either side and was implemented at the request of the schools.

But administrators said Monday they were unhappy with the conduct of the fact finding.

Norm Kee, chief negotiator for the schools, said the report issued by Keefe showed he was not conducting "true factfinding."

"True factfinding," Kee said, "They make a suggestion as to where the settlement should be."

IN HIS REPORT, Keefe makes no mention of a suggested settlement but says the following:

The PEA position on raises for the first year of a two - year agreement came down from 12.25 per cent to 11 per cent while school's position remained at 6.5 per cent for new hires and 8.0 per cent for top level teachers and increased from 7.0 per cent to 7.1 per cent for one year teachers and from 7.5 per cent to 7.6 per cent for interim steps.

In the second year of the contract, the PEA position changed from a raise of 4.5 per cent plus unlimited cost of living adjustments to 4.0 per cent plus two-thirds of unlimited cost of living. The board's position went from 6.0 per cent or two thirds of unlimited cost of living to 6.25 per cent or two thirds of unlimited cost of living.

While most of the disagreement centers around economic issues, the teachers and the schools are still at odds over some fringe benefits (such as a dental plan) and planning time for elementary teachers.

Greenfield Village has new fall look

At Greenfield Village, the outdoor museum of Americana founded by auto pioneer Henry Ford, the days of yore live again throughout the year. But summer and early fall have a special appeal, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

The Old Time Summer Festival currently is the big attraction in the Village, while adjoining Henry Ford Museum offers Industrial Heritage U.S.A., a display of artifacts representing 200 years of our industrial progress contrasting products of the past with those of today. Both of these special events will continue through Labor Day.

"Either is worth a trip to the village or to the museum by itself and, if time permits, both should be seen," says Joseph Ratke, Auto Club touring manager. They are located west of the Southfield freeway in Dearborn.

"There are strolling minstrels, a musical revue called Town Hall Variety, a Punch and Judy show, a medicine show played from the back of a gaily painted wagon, stories drawn from the writings of Mark Twain, a dialogue with Benjamin Franklin and a reenactment of the famous debates between Stephen A. Douglas and Abraham Lincoln."

There's also a melodramatic skit called "The Trial," in which the audience acts as the jury in a case of women's rights. Entertainment and skits are presented by the Greenfield Village Players, a semi-professional group of actors who perform there throughout the year.

Summer visitors also have a chance to see Greenfield Village's "new look," part of a 10-year expansion plan costing $25 million that began in 1969.

Suwanee Park and Island, a new family entertainment center deep in the village, has been attracting crowds since it opened partially in early June. The park, with Suwanee Island surrounded by a lagoon, typifies an area where Americans spent their leisure time at the turn of the century. The colorful steamer Suwanee, a longtime favorite, still carries passengers around the island.

You get to Suwanee Island in the center of the lagoon by raft. The island is a wooded haven with scenic lookout points, nature trails and a visitor picnic area.

Other Suwanee Park attractions include a Victorian-style arcade building, a Riverfront Restaurant with open-hearth grill, and one you shouldn't miss—a century-old ice cream parlor which serves ice cream made from a specially developed old-fashioned formula.

S&H grant aids 'Futures Week'

Schoolcraft College has received a $1,915 grant to sponsor a series of lectures during its Oct. 7-11 "Futures Week" on campus.

The grant was made by the S&H Foundation, charitable arm of Sperry & Hutchinson Co., a diversified corporation best known for its green trading stamps.

The lectures are scheduled for the entire week, according to William J. Burke, a history instructor at the college and chairman of the ad hoc committee sponsoring the week. "Each of us has a vital stake in the future, and we will examine it with speakers who have a variety of viewpoints," said Burke.

Schoolcraft was one of 32 colleges and universities to win an S&H lectureship grant this year among 369 which entered. Since the program was begun in 1960, more than 460 grants have been made with total awards of $825,000.

The check was presented by Robert C. Ball, of the S&H subsidiary of Bayly, Martin & Fay.

"WE'RE ON THE ENERGY TEAM!"

At our plant we're saving energy several ways. A lot of us are car-pooling. We keep lights turned off when they're not really needed. We adjust the air conditioning and the heat a few degrees. And we're saving fuel oil with better insulation on the hot water pipes.

We're getting more customers lately for tuneup jobs. I think people are doing everything they can to use less gasoline. Most of them are driving less, driving slower, keeping engines tuned, buying smaller cars, using the air conditioning less. And oil companies are drilling hundreds more wells this year than last in an effort to close the gap between energy supplies and energy needs.

Meanwhile there's still a big job to do—let's keep working together

A final resting place for unwanted monuments?

By W.W. EDGAR

PLYMOUTH — Can you imagine anything like this — a final resting place for unwanted stone markers and monuments?

Sounds unusual, doesn't it? Well, Plymouth will boast the only one of its kind if the present plans of City Commissioner Harold Guenther are realized — and he's working on the project.

At the moment he has two stone markers in mind. The first is the old stone now resting, almost unnoticed, at the intersection of Main and Mill streets. It marked the end of the old plank road and was unveiled in the early 1920s.

The second is the monument erected to the memory of Charlie Dudley, one of the "fathers" of little league baseball in the Plymouth community. It is now standing in the weeds on the site of the old baseball diamond in front of Riverside cemetery on Plymouth Road. It has been abandoned since the little leagues moved to another location.

"What do you do with markers and monuments like these?" Commissioner Guenther asked. "They are unwanted in their present locations, yet they should never be destroyed or forgotten."

At the moment he is casting his eye on a piece of property now owned by the city on the bend of the road at the rear of the Dunning Memorial Building that houses the Historical Museum.

"This could be a fine location for the two stones and they actually would be part of the history of the city," he said, as he unfolded his latest plans.

Originally, he had a third stone in mind — the small monument dedicated to the nine men who made the supreme sacrifice in World War I. It is now resting under the bushes, almost forgotten in the triangle in front of the old high school building on Main Street.

This stone now is to be kept on the plot as the Kiwanians plan to make it one of the focal points in their development of a city park in that triangle.

For a time Guenther had hoped that the area to the rear of the Dunning Building could be used.

When it was learned that the Historical Society had other plans for that plot, he turned to the city-owned parcel on the bend.

"It seems a shame that these stones that once were hailed by the community now are in the way of progress," Guenther confided. "And they shouldn't be lost in the annals of the city."

The old stone marker at Main and Mill streets, ignored for years, now is in the path of the proposed widening project of the intersection. This work is expected to be started during the coming year and the stone will have to be moved.

The same is true with the Dudley monument on the old baseball diamonds. These playing areas were taken over as the cemetery needed space for expansion. Now, it is standing in the weeds — with no location in sight on which to relocate it.

"I don't want to see the monument destroyed," Mrs. Dudley said when told that the stone structure dedicated to the memory of her husband had to be moved.

"If they can't find a place for it, I'll have it moved into our back yard."

She won't have to worry about that now, if Guenther's dream is realized.

It will have a final resting place — right in the heart of the city.

THIS OLD STONE that once marked the end of the old plank road on Main Street, soon will need a new home and may be the first in the proposed memorial grounds for unwanted markers.

Hudson will open I-96 Novi store by 1977

J.L. Hudson Company plans to open its 14th store in Novi sometime in 1977 at 12 Mile and Novi Road just north of I-96.

The Novi center is one of three new stores announced recently by Joseph L. Hudson, chairman of the J.L. Hudson Company. The first expansion project in the suburban Detroit area will be the opening in Dearborn of Hudson's 13th major department store in mid-summer, 1976.

The store will be part of the Fairlane Town Center - to be located on a site bordered by Southfield Freeway (M-39), Hubbard Drive and Michigan Avenue.

THE LAST PHASE of the expansion plans will be in mid-summer, 1978, when Hudson's will open its 15th store at Hall (M-59) and Schoenherr in Sterling Heights.

"The particular period in which we're announcing our plans is of great significance," said Hudson.

"At a time when building costs are rising rapidly, this announcement conveys our long-term confidence in the growth and success of southeastern Michigan communities as retail merchandising markets."

The new stores, said Hudson, will feature the new design concept of flexibility, already being used in the Hudson's Briarwood store in Ann Arbor.

Hudson said the store's flexible design will allow departments to be quickly expanded or decreased, with special shops to be created during various seasons.

All three stores are being designed by Morgantelli-Heumann & Associates of San Francisco. A three-level, 240,000 square foot store is being planned for the Dearborn and Novi sites, with similar plans for the Sterling Heights store.

TOTAL COSTS for only the building and fixturing of the three new stores will be $42.1 million, said Hudson.

The shopping centers, added Hudson, "will be complete centers, anchored by other stores like Sears and J.C. Penney."

The shopping center developments will be a joint business venture of Dayton Hudson Properties, the Taubman Company, of Southfield, and Homart, a subsidiary of Sears.

Hudson also announced that the older stores in the Northland and Eastland shopping centers are "already very much along in intensive reconfigurations."

"Structurally, the two stores are sound, but merchandising-wise, they're a little out of date."

"We hope to give the Northland and Eastland stores the similar type of glamor that we're projecting for our new stores."

"Retailing today should be flexible," Hudson continued. "We want to create an exciting shopping environment, in contrast to the more sterile stores of the past."

The flexible designing has reaped quick rewards for Hudson's at the Briarwood store, where profits are reportedly averaging $100 per square foot in the store's first year of operation.

"Our newest store will always be your best store because it's the forerunner of all your future stores."

ROSEMARY MAYES (right) of Livonia is one of six recipients of federal trusteeships to complete BA degree work in nursing at Madonna. Noreen O'Neill (left), is chairman of the college's department of nursing.

6 at Madonna get HEW traineeships

Traineeships, underwritten by the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, will provide an opportunity for one male and five female registered nurses to earn baccalaureate degrees at Madonna College, Livonia.

The program was created by the bureau of Health resources development and will enable them to prepare for administrative leadership or teaching positions in their profession.

A grant, amounting to $27,000, provides tuition payments, allowances for books and supplies, monthly stipends to the students as well as dependency allowances.

The trainees, all of whom are enrolled full time this term in upper division courses in Madonna's department of nursing, should complete the program within a year.

TRAINEES SELECTED are Melvina Cochran of Detroit, Wanda Ellis of Rochester, Jeannette Forest of Lincoln Park, Rosemary Mayes of Livonia, Gloria Pummill of Garden City, and Allen Weinstein of Allen Park.

Miss Cochran, an inservice instructor at Kirwood Hospital, is a graduate of Lincoln Hospital School of Nursing, Durham, N.C. Mrs. Ellis, a charge nurse at Oakland County Hospital, Pontiac, is a graduate of Oakland Community College nursing department, as is Weinstein, a staff nurse at Allen Park's Veteran's Hospital.

Mrs. Forest and Mrs. Mayes are both mothers of six children. Mrs. Forest, a graduate of Harper Hospital School of Nursing, is supervisor of medical personnel at Associated Physicians, Allen Park. Mrs. Mayes who directed a YMCA camp in Jackson during the summer, is a graduate of St. Joseph Hospital School of Nursing, Detroit, and is a nurse-child care worker at Hawthorn Center, Northville.

Mrs. Pummill is head nurse in a psychiatric unit of Wayne County General Hospital and is a graduate of St. Lawrence Mercy School of Nursing, Lansing.

Madonna enrolls 1,417 in fall term

Madonna College enrollment for the current term has set a new all-time high, with 1,417 enrolled at the Livonia college this fall. This is 38 percent more than in the same term last year. Of the total, 588 are men and 829 are women. Full time students number 1,950.

"Flexibility in arranging class schedules accounts for the presence of many of our students," said Sr. M. Lauriana, dean. "A large number of the adults who are employed attend during the evening or on Saturday." Slightly fewer than 200 students live in the college residence hall and the remainder commute, some from as far away as Port Huron and Flat Rock.

EMU intramural athletic field on Huron River Drive will be the site for the festival which will feature free admission and such activities as rides, games, music, refreshments and displays by local artists and craftsmen, organizations and clubs.

Individuals or groups interested in obtaining display booths and participating in the festival should contact the student life office in room 303 in EMU McKenny Union.

Women may have $$ due

Women veterans who did not use their GI Bill after the Korean War now have a second chance at Veterans Administration financial help for college education or other training, under a new law.

When eligibility for this veteran's benefit was recently extended two more years for all veterans discharged after Jan. 31, 1955, it had a special significance for women veterans whose children are reaching ages that allow them more free time.

The deadline for completion of training is now May 31, 1976, or ten years from the veteran's date of discharge, whichever is later.

Teacher strikes turn out to be self-defeating

Ever since school was supposed to start over two weeks ago, the big story in the suburbs has been teacher strikes.

As of this writing, teachers have hit the bricks in Plymouth, Garden City, South Redford, and Wayne-Westland districts. They are working without a contract at Redford Union, and the faculty at Schoolcraft College is working under an extension of their old contract while bargaining is going on.

The concentration of teacher strikes in western Wayne County suburbs is worthy of note. Remember the ill-starred Michigan Education Association battle plan which got some ink around last summer? It consisted of a political and advertising strategy to convince the Legislature and the public that teachers needed a variety of benefits and that they'd better get them. Or else.

I wonder if a little part of that battle plan—or a new version— included making the school districts in suburban Wayne County the test cases

Observation Point

by PHILIP H. POWER

this year? Perhaps it's just paranoid musings, but I can't help wondering.

WHAT ISN'T PARANOID is the fact that at the heart of the teacher strikes this year is the drastic inflation that has affected our entire country. Our reporters who are covering the bargaining between teachers and school boards say that the big, big problem this year is money, with the teachers demanding pay increases to keep up with the cost of living and the boards refusing to go along because of tight finances.

Both sides have a point, which is why it's tough to take sides in such cases.

The teachers explain that they, as a group, have fallen behind the inflationary spiral more than virtually any other. School boards point out that much of their revenue comes from the local property tax, which does not increase much in inflationary times, and inquire just where the teachers expect them to get the money.

In this regard, it might well turn out in the fullness of time that the celebrated cost of living contract clauses introduced by former Livonia Supt. Rolland Upton will be a certain recipe for trouble. If the cost of living goes up next year by, say, 11 percent, but school district income goes up by only five per cent, and the contract requires payment of an 11 per cent increase to teachers ... well, then, there's gonna be trouble.

THE DIFFICULTY with teacher strikes, particularly during this period of taxpayer resistance to increased millage, is that they are ultimately self-defeating.

Even after teachers settle using the strike as a weapon, parents and property owners remain sore, and are hardly inclined to vote more tax millage to pay for the settlement.

Why? Because, quite simply, teachers are public employees who, in theory, are supposed to serve the public interest. They are, however, caught in the tendency today to turn every political and economic decision into an exercise of pressure group tactics, and hence they have little alternative except to bargain and strike.

But the public at large still holds the notion that as public employees, teachers should somehow not stoop to such tactics. And I'm inclined to agree.

Having benefited in the short run from the right to bargain and the weapon of the strike, teachers may find that in the long run such methods only contribute to a savagely reduced financial base, and hence not only penalize the kids but also hurt themselves.

editorial opinion

School notes: A board keeps losing credibility

Back to school notes:

Other school boards can learn a lesson from the horrible example set by the Farmington School District.

A few years ago, the Farmington board said it would have to cut varsity athletics from the program if a millage request failed. It failed, but the board didn't keep its word. It accepted private donations to keep the sports program alive, even while other valuable programs were being hurt.

Farmington voters learned not to believe the board during millage elections. A few weeks ago, they turned down another millage request.

This time the board seems keen on making a $20,000 cut in the number and hours of school lunchroom aides. The school day is being extended by 10 minutes to give a lunch period of a full hour, and vast numbers of children are being told to walk home for lunch.

Parents, naturally, are up in arms. Mothers of young tots say the kids can't walk home, eat and walk back in an hour. Working mothers, some the sole support of their families, say they can't be home to feed the kids.

There is wild talk of protests, recalls, lawsuits. That's for Farmington folks to argue about, and we won't intrude. But there is a moral for school board members elsewhere -- tell the public without threats what cuts you intend to make if a millage fails; then if the millage fails, make the cuts.

ing an apartment rezoning, the interview with the PhD in education.

The toughest of all, however, are labor negotiations and strikes. The subject is incredibly detailed, emotions are high, nerves are raw. You never have a settlement until the last clause is written and the last union member's ballot counted.

For that reason, it's unfortunate to see students getting into the act by picketing, as they have done in Wayne-Westland and Plymouth. Student pickets accomplish nothing. The school board is already painfully aware there are no classes, and the teachers are already painfully aware they're missing pay checks and next year's summer school.

The only thing kids can do with picket signs is harden the battle lines at a time when negotiators need to be softened.

THERE'S NO substitute for negotiation in a school strike. Not even "arbitration," a popular word when a strike has run for a couple of weeks.

A governmental agency such as a school board or city council surrenders its governmental powers conferred on it by the voters when it agrees to arbitration.

And there's a feeling among political pros that arbiters are too generous with public money in recommending wage settlements.

went up, it didn't always affect everyone because not all people were in the market for the items in those categories that went up. But this year, price raises for food have been leading the pack, and this affects every American household. Hence, inflation is felt by all families across the board, whereas in the past it has had a selective effect.

The Consumer Price Index is in the neighborhood of 150. It means that since 1967, which represented 100, prices have increased 50 percent and that in seven years the value of the dollar has declined by a third.

While this affects the wage earner, the persons who are being strangled are retired families on fixed incomes.

THERE ARE MANY reasons why we have seen price increases this year, but basically, we are paying the price of the deficit spending by the government over the last 10 years, which has forced the government to borrow. This, in turn, creates more money in the marketplace without an increase in the number of goods available. Hence, under the law of supply and demand, the prices go up.

There is going to be an economic summit meeting next week in Washington. Let's not kid ourselves. The most important way we can fight inflation is to cut federal spending. This is going to hurt the pet projects of many of our congressmen and is going to be politically difficult.

But if we don't want our dollar eroded any more, we must immediately make our feelings known in Washington.

Drive safely—school's out!

With pupils attending classes in only three of the seven school systems in the area covered by the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers in Wayne County, it almost seems like a waste of time to warn parents to stress safety to their children going to and from school.

However, we all realize that the teachers' strikes can't go on forever, and one of these fine days students will be returning to studies in the South Redford, Garden City, Wayne-Westland and Plymouth districts.

Only youngsters in the Livonia, Clarenceville and Redford Union systems started classes on time, and those in RU could be on borrowed time since the teachers voted to go back to work while negotiations continued. Just how long they'll hold to that agreement remains to be seen.

THAT'S WHY IT seems so strange to drive through Garden City, Westland, Wayne, South Redford and Plymouth and see school agers from five to 18 roaming the streets ... they don't have anything else to do and you'd have to bet that all are missing school even though they grumble like mad when they have to get up in the early mornings when schools are in session.

Just as warnings are issued in June to motorists when classes are out and the streets are filled with youngsters running in all directions, so similar warnings are being made now.

Parents should follow these tips in emphasizing safety while going to and returning from school:

Follow the safe route to and from school mapped out by school safety personnel.

Always obey directions of the safety patrol boys and girls and the civilian crossing guards.

Never run suddenly into the street, especially on mid-block or between parked cars. Don't play in the street or across the street.

Remember at all times to stop at the curb. Look both ways, wait until it is safe and then walk, don't run, across the street.

Any time any pedestrian crosses a street, he or she should follow the stop, look, wait and then walk rule.

Once again drivers are reminded that school is in session and youngsters are going to be crossing streets at times and places they haven't been using during the summer.

The new, young, schoolbound pedestrian is not the only one in danger. Sometimes the second and third graders get overconfident and lose respect for the hazards of traffic.

All festivals were a success

This has been an amazing year for the various celebrations and festivals held in area communities. Now that the last and biggest of the lot is over, we can sit down and hand out a few accolades for jobs well done.

During the summer we have seen celebrations at Farmington, Livonia, Westland, Garden City, Canton Township and then the granddaddy of all, the fall festival in Plymouth.

Every single one has been a tremendous success. Whether this is because of inflation, which means everyone has more money even though it doesn't go as far, or whether it's because folks are discovering there is plenty of entertainment in these affairs, 'tis hard to put a finger on any given reason.

FARMINGTON'S Founders Day Festival was a big success from the opening day to the closing event. The same could be said of the annual City of Livonia Spree, which is rapidly developing into one of the largest of the early summer events.

Canton Township went into a weekend festival for the first time this year and all reports were that it was a success considering the fact that Canton is very much involved in growing pains and still has a long way to go before maturing.

The Garden City Chamber of Commerce, fighting for survival, staged a successful three-day circus during the summer and is making plans now for bigger and better things in the future.

Westland, not to be left behind by any of the other communities, had a celebration that was well planned and came out a financial success.

BUT WHEN IT comes to success, one just has to tip his hat to those in charge of the Plymouth Festival, which started as a Sunday get-together of the Rotary Club back in 1958 and has grown into one of the largest single community efforts in the Midwest.

Where else can a city the size of Plymouth boast of serving 16,000 barbecue chicken and roast corn dinners on a Sunday afternoon in a period of six or seven hours? Where else can a community with that population attract more than 100,000 visitors in four days and sell out practically everything offered at the stands and the booths?

Take these figures for instance: 3,000 German dinners served on Thursday; 2,365 rib dinners or 500 more than a year ago; the fish dinners on Friday entirely sold out; 2,386 served pancakes and sausage on Saturday; and then the big day—Sunday—when the Rotarians, aided by members of many other civic and service clubs, put out 16,000 chicken dinners and sold every one.

Times surely have changed from 1958 when the Rotarians gathered in a small park just outside the downtown business section and had their first chicken barbecue with just about 100 members present.

A tip of the topper to Festival Manager Tony Flum and his assistant Pat Page, but a bigger tip to the men who planned this program on such a lavish scale some eight or 10 years ago. Men like Harold Guenther, George Lawton, Bob Sincok, Bud Gould and Al Glassford, had the foresight to see the possibilities of such a festival and started organization of a Festival Board years ago. That foresight is paying big dividends today.

UAW leader defends 'no vote' stand

EDITOR:

I read with some amazement the editorial of Sept. 3 relative to putting the county executive on the November Wayne County ballot.

It is sad that editorials are written by people who sound so positive and pragmatic but who know so little about the issues of which they write. This is inexcusable when a simple telephone call could set the record straight.

You say "the UAW politicians deserve their knocks," but you were unwilling to find out the facts before writing. So let's tell it like it is.

The UAW stands positively on the side of county reform. In addition, the UAW is for an elected county executive. I so testified publicly when hearings on this issue were held in the early part of the year.

I said then, as I say now, that there was a need for amendatory legislation on House Bill 139, which was the bill allowing counties to opt for an executive type of government. It was our position that the legislation in its present form was so contradictory that long and bitter litigation was a great probability and might make the county government a shambles.

It is my understanding that appropriate amendatory legislation has been introduced and is in committee. Upon favorable action by the House and Senate, we will not only seek to have it placed on the ballot, we will actively campaign for its passage.

We believe that even with an acceptable legislation in existence, the timing of the effort to place this on the November ballot was foolish, to say the least.

If your paper remembers anything, it should remember that the UAW stood four-square behind county home rule when that was placed on the ballot. In spite of our efforts, most newspapers were against home rule, and the result was that home rule was defeated on two separate occasions.

I believe that with the myriad of offices and issues on the November ballot and with such short period of campaigning, there was a good chance that the county executive would be defeated.

In spite of your foolish pronouncements, this concept deserves a better fate than defeat.

So in closing I want to paraphrase your editorial by saying: "Editorial writers who fail to check their facts deserve their knocks."

BARD YOUNG, Director
Region 1E, UAW and Vice Chairman for Wayne County, UAW-CAP

EDITOR'S NOTE: Without wishing to prolong the argument, we point out that while Mr. Young believes "most newspapers" were against home rule, these newspapers vigorously supported home rule in a national prize winning editorial.

Affluent don't go to jail

EDITOR:

Is it possible that the once gullible and stupidly contented portion of our country's population is beginning to get off their posteriors and fight for their inherent rights? No, not necessarily rights guaranteed by the Constitution but rights guaranteed because we are men, not animals.

It is now obvious that the Constitution has left loopholes which do indeed make it possible for one man to be above the law and justice. However, it now seems that a growing majority feels that equality for all men under the law is an inborn right that we should all share from time of conception until death.

Thus, they think that the punishment may be too hard or too light, but always the same for all.

Of course, up until now, this majority has often not practiced what it has preached. Evidence of this lies in the fact that a poor man still goes to jail because of his inability to pay for a legal representative.

I do feel, however, that the pardon of the ex-president, unjust as it may be, is perhaps the blow that was needed to jar the people and bring equality under law a little closer.

CARL WOODWARD, Livonia

his duties, some acutely controversial issues are threatening to divide our nation even more than it has been in the past few years.

Our president is considering an amnesty program for the deserters and draft dodgers which would allow "earned re-entry" into the United States.

Recently President Ford granted a full pardon to former President Richard Nixon for his crimes against our country, his disservice and disgrace to it.

Though all of this has transpired, we have yet to hear Mr. Ford say anything of a pardon for one who chose to serve his country rather than desert it; for one who fought for our country and its Constitution rather than go against it — Lt. William Calley, now imprisoned at Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas.

No one can question Mr. Ford's authority to grant a presidential pardon, and we certainly cannot compel him to use this pardoning authority. We cannot question Mr. Ford's intention of trying to bring our nation together. If it is indeed time to forget the past in seeking to unite our country, then we must ask President Ford not to forget Lt. Calley.

As President Ford drafts his amnesty program, we can only ask him to include a full pardon for Lt. Calley.

Negotiate, don't strike

EDITOR:

As the school strike in Plymouth drags into the third week, the concern of adults and school children in the community escalates rapidly.

The teachers and the school board two years ago demonstrated their good faith by opening school on time although negotiations were in progress and the final contract was not determined for a full two weeks after school began.

Why, then, isn't it possible for the teachers to return to their classrooms secure in the knowledge that any increase hammered out at the bargaining table will be retroactive?

Teachers stand to lose nothing by "withholding services" for they will teach a full school year following whatever the date of settlement is. They will suffer the same inconveniences of shortened vacations, altered schedules and disrupted family life that the rest of the community will.

Surely a great deal of good will for the school system would be generated if they could agree with the school board to return to their classrooms as negotiations continue.

JANE WATTS, President
Plymouth-Northville League of Women Voters

It takes 2 to negotiate

EDITOR:

I would like to take issue with W.W. Edgar's column of Sept. 3 concerning teachers, strikes and schools. He complains of teachers "extending their contract negotiations into the late summer months."

He ignores the fact that two parties are necessary to the process of negotiation. He does not indicate that teachers are usually ready to talk, with position papers on the table, in April. He neglects to mention that boards of education can stall through the spring and the summer, refusing to talk issues, confident that newspaper editorials will blame teachers for "waging their battles to the last minute."

I had thought Mr. Edgar and the Observer & Eccentric's fine staff both smarter than that and above being so used.

Cisler Building eyed by county

Reversing an earlier recommendation, a committee of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners wants to expand the search for space to house five new Circuit Court judges.

The commissioners' public works committee is considering purchase of the Walker L. Cisler Building and has decided upon a second look at other downtown Detroit office space.

Earlier the committee had recommended approval of a five-year lease for four floors of space in the Lafayette Building, a proposal negotiated by the county auditors, but it was referred back to the committee for more study by the full Board of Commissioners.

DURING FURTHER deliberation Sept. 10, committee members Edgar L. Harris (D-Taylor) and Ervin A. Steiner, Jr. (R-Grosse Pointe) instead proposed to buy the Cisler Building, on Second Avenue near Bagley, for between $20 and $25 million from its New York owners.

Under their plan, all county departments except the courts would be transferred to the 24-story Cisler Building, and the courts would be consolidated in the City-County Building.

Auditors Richard T. Kelly and Leonard D. Proctor reported that the Cisler Building has already been offered to the county for $27 million, but Steiner said he believes that he and Harris could negotiate a better price if authorized by the Board.

The committee also asked the auditors, the official custodians of county office space, to continue soliciting bids for lease arrangements, including the Gregory, Mayer and Thom Building, which was not previously solicited.

Kelly and Herbert D. Levitt, Deputy Supreme Court Administrator, said the building, at 41 Cadillac Square, was not considered for lease because it was judged unsuitable for court needs.

UNDER THE LEASE proposed by the auditors, the entire Common Pleas Court would be located in the Lafayette building, leaving space in the City-County Building for the five new judges and other circuit court judges now housed in the Old County Building.

Members of the Public Works Committee are, in addition to Harris and Steiner: John Lesinski (D-Dearborn), chairman; James DeSana (D-Wyandotte), vice-chairman; Michael E. Murray (D-Detroit); and Paul Silver (D-Detroit).

Borgess gridders destroy U-D, 20-0

BORGESS' JIM KOZLOWSKI
Paces Spartan Ground Game

The Observer & Eccentric SPORTS

September 19, 1974

BY TOM DONOGHUE

The "second best" last year in the Catholic Double A football race is making no qualms about it—they are out after that No. 1 seat this time around.

Fred Mushinski's Bishop Borgess Spartans were 4-1 in '73 behind Divine Child in the Double A and 5-3 overall.

Borgess has been picked by many to take it all this year and if the opening clash against U-D High where Borgess won, 20-0 is any indication, the pre-season predictors look right on target.

Behind the quarterbacking of junior Marty Boisture, son of the Detroit Wheels' mentor Dan Boisture, and the running of Jim Kozlowski and Steve Jaremski, Borgess tallied twice in the second quarter and once in the third.

Meanwhile, the Spartan defense kept U-D in-check, not allowing the Cubs inside the Borgess 39 the entire contest.

Borgess finished with 277 yards on the ground, 27 in the air and piled up 18 first downs, Kozlowski scoring two touchdowns and Boisture one.

Boisture was two for three in the passing game.

U-D was held to just seven first downs, rushed for 83 yards and picked up 29 yards in the air with QB Darryl Robinson hitting on two of seven.

Borgess' rushing game saw Kozlowski and Jaremski account for 249 of the 277 yards. Kozlowski ground out 168 yards in 26 carries and Jaremski, the Spartan shot-putter in the spring, picked up 81 yards in 12 carries.

The Spartan's solo journey into public school action this fall comes Friday as Garden City East, which also won its opener, 20-0, hosts Bishop Borgess.

After this clash, Mushinski has Redford St. Marys, Royal Oak Shrine, Divine Child, Servite and Bishop Gallagher in Double A play.

The opener with U-D saw Borgess take the opening kickoff and after two first downs, Boisture was stopped on a fourth down play on the U-D 27.

U-D came back with one first down but on a fourth and one-foot situation, the Spartan defense came to arms and held. Then came an exchange of punts with Borgess starting again on its 46.

A passing interference call on a Boisture to Kevin McGee pass gave Borgess a first down on the 43. Jaremski broke loose for another first down to the 18 and on a second and four play, Kozlowski broke loose around left end for 13 yards and six points.

A bad snap from center foiled the point after and with 6:23 remaining in the half it was Borgess 6, U-D 0.

U-D was stopped in its next series with Borgess taking over on the 50 after a 15 yard punt. Kozlowski picked up a first down to the 39 and pounded out another nine to the 28. After a short loss, Kozlowski picked up a first down on the 25 and Jaremski did the same to the 13 and then followed up with a plunge to the nine.

Kozlowski moved it to the five and carried it in with 29 seconds left in the second quarter. Bruce Berry's conversion was good and the Spartan lead was, 13-0.

Borgess' final drive saw the Spartans use up nine minutes on an 80 yard march. Jaremski picked up two first downs, and Boisture added one on the U-D 25.

A clipping call nullified a 25 yard TD burst by Kozlowski but Boisture got that one back with two seven yard bursts, the last one carrying him into the end zone. The point after was good by Berry and it was 20-0.

The final 12 minutes saw Borgess and U-D exchange control four times with the Spartan defense slamming the door and keeping the shutout in check.

FRED MUSHINSKI Eyes GC East Tomorrow

Glenn will defy strike in grid clash Friday

By TOM DONOGHUE
Sports Editor

A blinking yellow light is now on for football on Westland John Glenn.

With one game of the campaign already wiped off the books, Lloyd Carr's Glenn Rockets will take the field tomorrow (Friday) against Churchill.

The Glenn grid opener, scheduled for last Friday with Fordson, was cancelled because of the teachers' strike.

This time around there is no way Carr is going to let a season go down the drain via a teacher disturbance.

"We are going to play tomorrow and nothing is going to stop us," said Carr. "The teachers' union has been making all sorts of threats but we will play."

Glenn hosts Churchill, a club that bounced Thurston in its opener, 20-8, tomorrow at 8 p.m.

Even though Glenn's program has to be setback because of the strike and the first game cut, Coach Carr is far from getting ready for any sort of excuse.

"We have a saying around Glenn that excuses only satisfy those that make them," commented the Glenn head mentor whose Rockets were 2-6 in his rookie season.

"We are ready for Churchill, we are not looking for any alibis, just a good physical game."

"Our key will be to stop Churchill's running game and to come up with a respectable kicking game. I watched that Churchill-Thurston opener and seeing the two blocked punts reminded me of our Churchill game last year all over again," added Carr.

Glenn had two punts blocked in the Churchill clash in '73 and wound up losing, 26-0.

Besides the setback of game No. 1, Carr has had three problems mount in injuries to starters John Irwin, Don Luke and Chuck Squires and tri-captain Irwin with a broken jaw.

GLENN'S LLOYD CARR "We Are Ready For Churchill"

"We are very thin in depth and I am just hoping we can overcome these right away," said Carr. "If we can stay healthy we will be a factor in the Northwest race."

At the quarterback slot, Carr has two contenders in 6-foot-3, 180-pound Terry Johnson, a senior who started the first six games last year, and in 5-foot-9, 145-pound Todd Deluca.

Deluca is a junior and Carr will be counting on him for his running game while Johnson is the key to Glenn's passing attack.

In the backfield behind these two will be junior tailback Fred Shoemaker at 5-foot-5 and 140-pounds, senior fullback Bob Eisiminger at 6-foot and 200 pounds and junior slotback John Stafford at 5-foot-5 and 140 pounds.

"The loss of Irwin has made us the smallest backfield around," commented the Rocket coach.

Centering the ball will be junior George Roberts at 6-foot-3 and 180 pounds with Mike Moses and Rich Bonk his guards. Both are juniors with Moses checking in at 6-foot and 170 pounds and Bonk at 5-foot-9 and 160 pounds.

The tackles will be senior Keith Ostlund at 6-foot-1 and 180 pounds and junior Terry Butler at 6-foot-3 and 218 pounds. Tightend is senior Mark Flach at 6-foot-1 and 180 pounds with the splitend slot a contest between seniors Bob Sciborski and Mark Czajka.

"Our offensive line is the greenest part of our team," said Carr. "With four of five juniors on this line, their real test will come against Churchill."

Flach heads up the defense at nose-guard with Eisiminger at one tackle and junior Jeff Cuddeback at the other. Cuddeback in at 5-foot-10 and 175 pounds.

Mike Alimpich and Ben Grimbreg will be the ends. Both are seniors, Alimpich in at 6-foot-4 and 185 pounds and Grimbreg in at 6-foot and 175 pounds.

Linebackers will be Ostlund and Bonk with the secondary consisting of seniors Jim Hawkins, Jim Barnyak and Johnston and junior Mark Coulston at 5-foot-11 and 160 pounds.

Deluca will be handling the punting and placekicking chores.

GC West golfers stumble twice after Cherry Hill opener win

Garden City West's opponents on the links have been getting better with each match and after capturing their Tri-River loop opener over Cherry Hill, 175-177, Dick Kritzman's Tigers fell to Taylor Kennedy and Crestwood.

The first West defeat saw Taylor Kennedy romp to a 163-180 victory with Crestwood having just about the same margin of breathing room in a 150-173 West setback.

The two stroke win over Cherry Hill at Warren Valley's par 36 course saw Herb Berdard pace the Tigers with a 42. John Sydzik and Dan Calcaterra followed with 44s and Mario Resto with a 45.

Bob Jawor was low man for Cherry Hill with a 38.

The Kennedy match saw West on its home course Fellows Creek but you never would have known it by the Tiger scores. Berdard was low man for West with a six over par 42. He was followed by Frank Jakubiec with a 45, Resto with a 46 and Doug Plant with a 47.

The Taylor team was paced by Rob Lytkonen with a 38.

Then came a return trip to Warren Valley and West came up with its best showing of the '74 campaign but Crestwood made it "no contest" with a 14 stroke triumph.

Berdard was low man for the Tigers with a 41, Jakubiec and Resto sported 42s and Gary Jonika shot a 48. John Jawor was low man for Crestwood with a 37.

Bill Curtis comes in with 70-74 Hills golfer wins tourney

Bill Curtis of Farmington Hills swept to championship honors in the fifth annual Observer & Eccentric golf tourney at Livonia's Whispering Willows Golf Course.

The landscape designer came up with three birdies and three bogeys the first 18 for a two-under par 70 and birdied three holes and bogged six the second day for a 74 for a total of 144 in the championship flight.

Curtis' closest competition came from last year's champion Bud Stevens of Livonia who shot a 74-75 for 149.

A total of 127 golfers attacked the par 72 Whispering Willows course under the auspices of pro Gary White-ner and assistant Tom Sheldon with four flight champions and runners capturing trophy awards.

The championship flight victor Curtis was the state amateur champ in '64 and on the public honor roll in 1967. Runnerup Stevens has been the Michigan amateur champ three times, the last in '65, and has won the Michigan medal play twice.

Stevens has won the Observer & Eccentric tourney twice but lost this time around by five strokes to the Farmington Hills golfer.

Winning the first flight was Redford Township's Lee Rifenberg with a 78-80 for 158. Taking second was Franklin High School junior John Lyons with an 83-77 for 160.

The second flight was won by Livonia's Jim Mathews with an 82-88 for 170. The No. 2 slot saw a three way tie between Mark Agabashian, Rudy Sedlacek and Stanley Baldwin.

The trio found themselves in a play-off for the No. 2 slot and Agabashian of Livonia topped the two on the No.4 hole.

Also in the second flight came the best sport of the tourney in Jim Conners. The Livonia golfer lost six balls on the No. 3 311 yard par four hole in the day's first round for a score of 21. Conners came back the second day and took 16 strokes off that score with a five and shot 113-100 for the tourney for a 213.

"It was just one of those days," laughed Conners after all was over.

The final flight, No. 3, was won by S.L. Luvisch of Plymouth with a 94-86 for 180. Bentley High School senior Jim Mellas placed second with an 88-95 for 183.

Stags set junior program

A fund-raising program for all boys and junior hockey teams in Michigan was announced by the World Hockey Association Michigan Stags who will open their 1974-75 home season at Detroit's Cobo Arena on Oct. 29.

Business Manager Richard L. Cote said tickets for the Stags' pre-season training drills at the University of Michigan's Yost Arena will be distributed free to heads of all leagues involving boys age 18 and under.

The leagues in turn will be permitted to sell each ticket for 50 cents, the regular admission price, to each of the sessions which will begin on Sept. 24 and continue through Oct. 7 at the Yost Arena.

"Leagues can keep all the money they collect for the sale of the tickets to promote their own programs during the coming season," Cote said.

General Manager Coach John Wilson has scheduled two-a-day workouts at the Yost Arena. Leagues interested in participating in the Stags' special fund-raising program should contact the Stags by writing to 30100 Telegraph, Birmingham, Mich. 48010.

Thurston tops Canton, 22-39

The Eagles of Thurston High ran first, third, fifth, sixth and seventh to dash by the Chiefs of Plymouth Canton in a cross country match, 22-39.

Thurston's Craig Reynolds took first in 17:13 with Canton's Brian Bennett second in 17:45. Third for the Eagles was Lou Macerattini in 18:06 with Canton's Tom Kelly fourth in 18:24.

The next five places were topped by the Eagles with Paul Kline, Bruce Dickson, Dana Duryea, Don Salata and Jerry Thompson placing ahead of 10 Canton runners.

WAYNE JONES SAYS: Now is the time to plant a tree for color this fall and shade next summer. A tree cools your yard and home. It adds grace and beauty to your landscaping. A tree removes dirt from the air, and provides a home for birds.

Churchill golfers are unbeaten

Beware Western Six — the Churchill Chargers are back on the links. After three years of no golf because of the cutbacks, Pat Montagano's crew which finished at 11-3 and second to Waterford Mott in its last season (1971), is out after the Six title. Churchill won its opener in sudden death over Walled Lake Western, topped Plymouth Canton, 200-204 and nipped previously unbeaten Waterford Mott, 207-208, to stand at 3-0 in the Western Six. The opener against Western at the par 72 Meadowbrook course saw both clubs finish at 228 with the one extra hole showing the Chargers a two-stroke champ. Churchill's opening day scores were: Jeff Truax and Ben Zalupski with 45s, Bob Jamrog, Doug Russell and Murray Hole with 46s and Tom Bendig with a 48. The Chargers came in with four pars and two bogeys in the extra hole while Western was in with two pars and four bogeys. Plymouth Canton then fell to Churchill, 200-204, at the par 36 Brae Burn course.

Jamrog paced the Chargers with a 38 and was followed by Truax with a 39, Bendig with a 40, Steve Bashara in with a 41, Russell with a 42 and Bob Hughes was disqualified.

Mike Macocha led the Canton Chiefs with a 38, Marty Peck was next best with a 41 as Mark Nurmi and Lou Denski and Brady Nitchman shot 42 each and John Pearson came in with a 43.

The Chargers found themselves up against a 4-0 overall and 2-0 in the loop Waterford Mott club and Livonia's Whispering Willows par 36 course treated Montagano's crew right.

Russell came in with a one over par 37 to pace the Churchill squad with Zalupski scoring a 41, Hughes a 42, Truax a 43, Jamrog a 44 and Ray Glenn in with a 46.

Mark Alozi headed Mott with a 39. Churchill was down three strokes going into the final match but came in with a 41-42 while Mott struggled with a 42-45 to make it a one stroke victory for Churchill.

The Chargers meet Northville on Monday, Sept. 23, at Meadowbrook in their next loop meet.

Turf Tips, Quips

By Doc Minard

Harness racing in Michigan lost one of its biggest boosters Friday when Leon A. Slavin, president and general manager of Jackson Raceway, died of complications following open heart surgery at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor.

It was known for the better part of two weeks that he was in critical condition and his chances of recovery were just about nil but just the same the announcement of his death struck and struck hard.

Personally, we have lost a good friend, a person we could sit down with and talk about the harness racing picture in the state and get some honest answers. We met Slavin when he first took over the operation of Jackson Raceway some 26 years ago and saw him take the losses for year after year without raising an eyebrow.

He was always optimistic, feeling the pacers and trotters would catch on at his half-mile track in outstate Jackson and then he would have something worth talking about. Oldtimers recall he took over the Jackson operation after it had failed miserably and only the fact that he was a man of means enabled him to keep going until the track started to break even.

IT WAS A HARD fight trying to sell folks outstate that wagering on pacers and trotters and watching night racing could be fun. Most quickly realized that racing under the lights provided a lot of excitement but that was back in the days when the stands were filled with peanut and popcorn customers and not gamblers.

Matter of fact it has only been in the past seven or eight years that Jackson began to show a profit and that wasn't much. But never a world from Slavin who still believed, up to the moment of his death, that Jackson would soon become a track equal to Northville Downs.

Leon never lived to see that day but he did live to see the time when Jackson was operating at Northville Downs during the winter months and more than breaking even. That was one of the high spots of his long and successful career as a businessman and a promoter.

There isn't any question but that the Jackson races will continue even though Leon Slavin has checked out. He had a great many capable persons in his employment at the top executive positions and they'll be able to carry on. True enough that Slavin, a strange person to say the least, never allocated authority to any of his hired hands, preferring to handle things his own way, but the fact remains he did build a good team and now the team is ready to take over.

THINGS WON'T BE the same at the Jackson meetings without the affable Slavin around. He knew all of the drivers, trainers and owners, most of the grooms and just about everyone else around the track.

The little things he did without the knowledge of anyone will be missed. He somehow found out if someone was in trouble and more often than not was right there to offer assistance.

None will ever know how many folks he helped during his 26 years as chief at Jackson Raceway ... it would have to be in the hundreds. There always seemed to be some forlorn person in his office, morning, afternoon and night and he always was a soft touch for a handout.

Years ago, when Hazel Park Racing Association was in its infancy, Slavin, then owner of several paper mills in the vicinity of Kalamazoo, became a stockholder with the hope that he might sometime take over the track. It became apparent that would never take place and he sold his stock and got out of the thoroughbred racing business at the same time.

THERE WAS ANOTHER time when he thought of building a harness racing stable from scratch. He bought a couple of green trotters from a friend in Pennsylvania, discovered they were not going to become stars, disposed of them and that was the end of his activities in that branch of the sport.

Those in thoroughbred racing still talk about the way Slavin and his brother, William, took over the defunct River Downs track in Cincinnati and in a matter of a few years built it up to a point it had never reached before. But then there were always headaches and he sold out there to devote his time to making Jackson Raceway a paying business. He accomplished that goal and then was so engrossed with his achievements he decided to keep going and try to make it one of the best small track operations in the Midwest. We believe he would have attained that goal also if death hadn't stepped in.

His many friends, and they number thousands, will miss the friendly Jackson Raceway boss. He may have been born in wealth but he never forgot the not so wealthy who did so much to make a success of his race track. They won't soon forget him and neither will harness racing in Michigan.

ONCE AGAIN Michigan thoroughbred fans have learned you just can't trust those Canadian trainers when they bring horses to the United States. This was proven Saturday at Hazel Park when L. C. Cavalaris, one of the top trainers in the Toronto area, captured the $50,000 Hazel Park Stake with his Henry Tudor.

CADILLAC 1975

Then and Now...an American Standard for the World.

And what a standard it sets for 1975! There's the brilliant new six-window Sedan deVille, on the right. The bold new Eldorado Convertible, left, with that great profile. And seven other new models in the tradition of our 1931 Phaeton and other great Cadillacs of the past. Including a sleek new Coupe deVille. A magnificent new Fleetwood Brougham. Exciting new Calais with youthful plaid interiors. And new special edition cars for that special touch of elegance.

Efficient as it is elegant. The best overall operating economy in years is one of the benefits of a series of advancements we call The System. Included is the Catalytic Converter, a new device that does its job of emissions control outside the engine—rather than inside—making it possible to recalibrate the engine for smoother overall performance. Another vital link is our High Energy Ignition that delivers higher voltage to fire marginal fuel mixtures under adverse conditions.

Additional benefits. All this, combined with the use of unleaded gas, a "tighter" torque converter, steel-belted radial tires and other advancements adds up to the best Cadillac performance in years. As well as reduced maintenance and lower overall operating costs. Longer intervals between service. And cleaner air for everyone.

Our feature attraction. Consider that Cadillac 1975 has an array of standard features unsurpassed in Cadillac history. Including Automatic Climate Control, a six-way power seat, AM/FM radio with automatic power antenna (signal-seeking stereo on Brougham and Eldorado), lamp monitors, steel-belted radial tires, power door locks and tinted glass.

For your added pleasure... there is an inviting selection of other new features available. A glass dome Astrorooftop. An illuminated entry system for nighttime convenience and security. An air cushion restraint system. A reclining front passenger seat in Eldorado. And shortly after introduction, Electronic Fuel Injection will be available on all models.

This year, slip into something really comfortable...any 1975 Cadillac. The ride is smooth and quiet. Interiors comfortable and sumptuous.

When second best isn't good enough.

Franklin pummels GC West, 23-0

In what the '73 area Coach-of-the-Year George Lovich tabbed a "game of mistakes," his Franklin Patriots opened the '74 campaign in 23-0 style over the Tigers of Garden City West.

"West is a better team than it showed," explained Lovich whose Patriots are coming off an 8-1 season. "And for that matter, we are a lot better than we displayed."

Lovich's one comment of this being a game of "first game blues" took on a secondary meaning when his biggest lineman in 6-foot-1, 210-pound junior Bob Picard broke his leg in a pile-up during the third quarter.

"With Bob playing both ways, I now have to find two kids to replace him," added the Franklin coach. "We don't have depth and this is really going to hurt us."

That hurt could be felt quickly this Friday afternoon as the Patriots travel cross-town to the Stevenson High gridiron for a 3:30 p.m. clash.

This will mark only the second meeting ever between the two clubs with Franklin sporting a 7-0 victory over the Spartans last year.

But Lovich is well aware that this is a different sort of Spartan team this time around as Stevenson ripped Redford Union apart in its opener, 27-0.

"We are really worried about Stevenson," said Lovich. "They looked good against RU and are bigger than us in every aspect."

The "game of mistakes" saw both clubs get hit with nine penalties each. Franklin for 92 yards and West for 70.

Franklin dominated the rushing and first down game with its defense holding the Tigers to just nine first downs and 55 yards on the ground. Meanwhile the Patriot offense led by Dan Quinn chalked up 196 yards on the ground and collected 19 first downs.

Quinn accounted for 135 of those 196 yards in 25 carries.

In the passing department, Paul Downs hit for six of 14 for 61 yards for Franklin with teammate Jo Jo Scarpace hitting on two of 10 for 10 yards.

West's aerial attack netted 92 yards with Tom Poole connecting on nine of 21, two of those being intercepted - one for a 50 return touchdown by Franklin's Jerry Pollard.

Mike Zenko was West's leading ground gainer with 31 yards in 11 carries.

After Charley Elmquist's Tigers took the opening kickoff and failed to click, Franklin took over on the 50 after a punt. Nine plays and 50 yards later, the Patriots were on the board.

Quinn got the march going on the first play with a 15 yard burst and finished it off with a one-yard burst into the end zone. Quinn's point-after was blocked but with 7:38 remaining in the first quarter it was Franklin 6, West 0.

With 10 seconds left on the clock in the second quarter, Quinn got Franklin back on the board with a 31 field goal and it stood at 9-0 at the half.

Late in the third stanza, Franklin took over on its 40 and into the final quarter. 15 plays and seven first downs later, Jim Casey carried it in from one yard out. Quinn converted to up it to 16-0.

Franklin then kicked off and on West's second play from scrimmage, Pollard picked off a Poole to Bill Underwood pass and sprinted 50 yards to paydirt. Quinn made good his second conversion to finish off the scoreboard assault.

West's deepest penetration came in the opening quarter when Franklin lost a fumble on its 13. But the Patriot defense then came to arms and held the Tigers on downs with its offense taking over on the 10.

The only other time West crossed the midfield stripe was on the final drive of the game when its got as far as the Franklin 43.

Franklin is now pitted against Jack Reardon's Stevenson crew which is hungry for a winning season and West hosts Riverside tomorrow at 7:30 in its Tri-River opener.

Beware, cross country coaches

Slip on the spikes, tighten up the ol' swim suit, shine up the irons, get out the racket and pump up the basketball.

The 1974-75 prep sports scene is here - teacher strike or no teacher strike.

Early signs show Bishop Borgess and Livonia Stevenson the grid clubs to watch with Pat Montagano's Churchill Chargers a coming club on the golf links.

And into the cross country scene, well, an unsigned letter was found on my desk this week and since it was addressed to all cross country coaches in the area, here goes:

"WARNING TO ALL CROSS COUNTRY COACHES IN THE AREA.

Don't ever go to Waterford for a meet and expect an easy victory.

True, the running talent at Waterford has not been overpowering for the last few years, but the challenge there is not the Waterford team, but the course.

Last year Farmington had a dual meet there and All-Stater Mike McGuire finished ninth in the 14 man competition. What is it about this course that can turn one of the state's finest runners into an also ran?

Thursday the Livonia Stevenson team traveled to Waterford and found out.

The course which is entirely unmarked except for a few paper plates hanging from trees, consists of repetitious loops and sharp turns. There is only one small hill on the course but runners must traverse it 18 times.

The course goes across a parking lot twice and cars coming and going sometimes change the parking configuration between the first and second crossing and thus alter the path the runners must follow.

The only long straightaway on the course goes diagonally across a football field. This is repeated three times.

On the day Stevenson ran Waterford, there was a football game going on. They stopped the game and waited as the teams ran across the first time but on the second and third crossings, it was every man for himself.

Those who made it across had only a short distance more to go across an elementary school yard (those near the front made it before recess), up the hill three more times, around the trees and to the finish.

Ken Brown of Stevenson, who only got lost twice, would have been the first to cross the finish line - if there had been a finish line.

Ken was followed by teammates Bob Opsommer (second), Brent Bassett (third), Richard Hughes (fourth) and Mark Smith (fifth). The final score was 15-48.

It would have been closer but they missed the extra point."

Now this letter was unsigned and found on my desk but I have a notion that it was transcribed by a certain Stevenson coach with tongue in cheek but with a first rate objection in mind.

I don't think Paul Holmberg will ever take a team of his to Waterford again.

Kreuscher with a 39, Larry O'Neil with a 41, Dave Winkler 45 and Jeff Heinz 45.

The Panthers were headed by Terry Bielecki with a two over par 38. Wayne Corey was next for East with 39 and was followed by Jim Pawlak with a 40, Clint White 41 and Rick Harkness 45.

and Farmington; Edsel Ford and Dearborn; Garden City East and West; Plymouth Canton and Salem; Redford Union and Thurston; John Glenn and Wayne Memorial, Northville Bishop Borgess and Crestwood.

Senior Mike Watson from Edsel Ford and junior Frank Celeskey will be returning from the 1973 all-invitational team to compete for individual honors. They will attempt to better the three mile meet record of 16:01.3 set last year by Bill Donakowski of Dearborn Heights Riverside.

East Panthers win opener, 20-0

If anyone has any doubts or questions as to just how good this veteran 74 Garden City East football team is - a trip to the East gridiron tomorrow (Friday) should answer all.

Gary Humphrey's Panthers, who topped Riverside in their opener, 20-0, will go up against Catholic Double A powerhouse Bishop Borgess.

Borgess also won its opener, 20-0, over U-D High.

"Borgess will have to be the toughest team we will face all year," commented Humphrey. "Borgess just doesn't make mistakes."

"This first win was an important one for us," added the East coach whose Panthers were 5-4 last year. "This one had to instill confidence into the kids. Without school on now, its tough to get the kids together and functioning as a unit."

Riverside did wind up winning the firstdown department against East, 15-11, but lost the rushing game, 221 to 63. The passing contest saw East's Britt Ponte hit seven of 16 for 143 yards. Riverside connected on five of 19 for 89 with three of those intercepted by back Bill Nelson.

Two of those Nelson grabs led to Panther scores.

Lou Willoughby who paced the East offense with two touchdowns headed up the ground game with 138 yards in 22 carries with Steve Bentley next best with 69 yards in eight carries.

The scoreless first quarter saw East run 14 offensive plays and Riverside nine.

The first of three Riverside turnovers that wound up leading to Panther scores came early in the second quarter when Steve Spigarelli pounced on a fumble on the Riverside 40.

Lou Willoughby sparked the short drive with a 24 yard spurt and East quarterback Britt Ponte capped the six play march with a one yard burst into the end zone.

John Barnstable converted and with eight minutes remaining in the first half, East enjoyed a 7-0 lead.

Riverside came back with its deepest penetration of the night when it got as deep as the Panther 10 before East slammed the door to carry that 7-0 margin into the locker room.

A Nelson interception got East going in the third quarter. It was the third time the Panthers got their hands on the ball in the quarter and it started movement from midfield.

Six plays later, Willoughby danced in from 16 yards out but the kick after was blocked to make it, 13-0.

Another Nelson interception early in the fourth quarter paved the way for another Willoughby score. The drive started on the East 15 and eight plays later, Willoughby scored from 18 yards out. Barnstable converted and it stood at 20-0.

Now comes East's real test of '74, tomorrow starting at 8 p.m. against the Spartans of Bishop Borgess.

EAST'S LOU WILLOUGHBY Scores Two Touchdowns

So, the game with Colorado that was beaten in its opener, takes on a new meaning. It will prove whether the Wolverines have tightened the pass defense sufficiently to be a major title contender the rest of the way.

U-M game yields mixed feelings

By W.W. EDGAR

There were mixed feelings among the veteran followers of the Michigan football team last Saturday following the 24 to 7 victory over Iowa in the opener of the Big Ten season.

There was elation over the fact that the team could overcome the shock of losing Dennis Franklin, the country's outstanding quarterback, a few hours before the game and then win with Mark Elzinga, the Bay City junior who never had played a moment of college football at the controls.

But there also was considerable doubt of the team's real ability to move toward another title because of the almost total lack of a pass defense.

Over the route the Hawkeyes of Iowa amassed 138 yards through the air and toward the finish when they scored their lone touchdown they had the Wolverines badly disorganized.

By that time it didn't make much difference regarding the outcome, as Elzinga, who was "red-shirted" last year, had moved the Wolverines out in front with a margin safe enough to assure victory even though it wasn't by the margin that had been expected.

The loss of Franklin was reminiscent of the misfortune that struck the Wolverines in the Rose Bowl several years ago when Coach "Bo" Schembechler was stricken with a heart attack on the morning of the big game.

It was an hour before the opener the Wolverines were notified that Franklin had been laid low with a virus that would keep him out of the game.

This time, however, a player no one ever had heard about, stepped into the breach.

It was Elzinga and, while he was off target on several of his passes, he contributed heavily to the victory by scoring one touchdown himself, passing 10 yards for another and didn't give up a single interception while guiding the team to a net gain of 318 yards on the ground. What's more, under this intense pressure, he played the entire game without a fumble.

It was the absence of the pass defense, though, that has the veteran followers worried.

"We're in for trouble," Wally Weber, one of the games keenest analysts, remarked from his point high in the press box.

"When the other teams in the conference learn they can pass against us, look out."

The lack of a pass defense was all the more shocking to him because the Wolverines limited Iowa to 54 yards rushing.

"Any time you can stop a team on the ground, you have only the air attack to watch - and that should be easy. But it wasn't for our boys down there today."

"A lot of work will have to be done this week and we'll know more about the team next Saturday."

Franklin golfers bow to GC East

Bob Visser's Patriot golfers of Franklin High opened Northwest loop action with Garden City East scoring a 283-206 victory at the par 36 Warren Valley Course.

Medalist was Franklin's John Lyons.

Other Franklin scores were Dave

Bulldogs to defend Invitational title

Defending champion Livonia Bentley heads up a 21 school field in the ninth annual Schoolcraft College cross country invitational this Saturday, Sept. 21.

Race time for the varsity runners is 10:30 a.m., immediately followed by the junior varsity. The event will be in the Cass Benton Park in Northville.

Senior Mike Watson from Edsel Ford and junior Frank Celeskey will be returning from the 1973 all-invitational team to compete for individual honors. They will attempt to better the three mile meet record of 16:01.3 set last year by Bill Donakowski of Dearborn Heights Riverside.

Bentley announces varsity cage coach

There will be a new man behind the main whistle at Livonia Bentley High come the 1974-75 basketball campaign.

After three years of directing the Bulldogs to an overall mark of 33 wins and 30 losses, John Farrar resigned because of medical reasons and the man stepping into his shoes will be the Bulldog junior varsity cage coach the last two years, Larry Jackson.

The 27 year-old Jackson teaches Michigan History and physical education at Frost Junior High in Livonia and in the last five years has piled up a 51-19 basketball mark.

His Bulldog juniors racked up a 19-15 mark the past two seasons and in the three years before at the ninth grade level at Frost, Jackson's cagers were 32-4.

Jackson and his wife Sandy have two children in Tim, 4, and Carol, six months.

Larry graduated from Cody High School in Detroit in '65 where he lettered in both basketball and track. It was then on to Henry Ford Community College for two years where again he lettered in both basketball and track.

Jackson finished up his last two years at Eastern Michigan University where he graduated in '69 and quickly made the move to Frost Junior High.

LARRY JACKSON New Bentley Cage Coach

"I am really looking forward to this basketball season," commented Jackson.

GC West harriers dump East, 25-36

Bill Pinnell's Garden City West cross country runners dashed by Tri-River foe Southgate, 24-35, in their opener and topped city rival Garden City East, 25-36, to stand at 2-0 into the '74 campaign.

West captured first and second and sixth through 10th in the Southgate meet with Mike Cundiff taking first place honors in 16:46 with teammate Scott Kennedy second in 17:11.

Dan Belleville, Don Niner and Ken Franklin then placed for Southgate with Mark Sylvester of West breaking that string with a sixth place time of 17:47.

Sylvester was followed up by Tigers Jerry Zak (18:04), Don Frank (18:11), Al Gerrard (18:22) and Vic Janis (18:25).

In the cross-town rival match with East, West finished in the third through ninth slots. East's Art Kitz won individual honors in 15:35 and Doug Sweazey ran second in 16:02.

West was headed up by Kennedy in third with the rest of the Tigers right behind in Cundiff, Sylvester, Frank, Gerrard, Janis and Zak.

Safety standards sought

The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission soon will seek outside help in developing safety standards for power lawnmowers and lawn and garden tractors.

In a notice in the Federal Register, the commission will initiate proceedings for the development of mandatory federal safety regulations by inviting outside parties to offer to develop standards or to submit any existing standards for consideration.

According to commission injury reports, power lawnmowers and garden tractors were associated with an estimated 60,500 injuries requiring hospital emergency room care between July 1, 1972, and June 30, 1973.

IN-DEPTH investigations of accidents reveal that serious injuries have resulted from operator contact with the rotating blade, objects propelled by the mower blades, mower instability — rolling, slipping or overturning, failures of the power mower brakes or steering mechanisms, contact with exposed heated surfaces, and fires caused by spillage of liquid fuels used for mowers.

Other serious injuries have been associated with electric shock from electric mowers or electric power sources and from exposure to excessive noise.

The commission's decision that a standard was needed to reduce or eliminate injury came in response to the hazards revealed by injury data and to a petition requesting commission action.

In August of 1973 the Outdoor Power Equipment Institute (OPEI) petitioned the commission to develop consumer product safety rules for power mowers and to adopt a voluntary industry standard issued by the American National Standards Institute. The commission granted the first request but did not accept the voluntary standard as a proposed consumer product safety rule.

REGARDLESS of who is chosen, standards development activities must be open to the participation of interested parties, including consumers, consumer organizations, representatives of industry, government, and the scientific and academic communities.

Great decision: To share or not to share

By ANITA CRONE

Changing jobs can be a disruptive process by itself, but when it is coupled with finding a place to live closer to the new job, it can become a major headache which even Excedrin extra strength is hard pressed to cure.

Apartment hunting opens a new list of options as to whether you want to share your dwelling or find a place where you can be in charge.

There are advantages to each.

SHARING AN apartment means two chances that someone will forget to bring home the milk or toilet paper—both items being pressing concerns.

Sharing an apartment means two persons are paying almost the same amount of rent as for a single apartment, but it may be a smaller living area.

Sharing an apartment means sharing utility bills as well as sharing food costs and other incidentals.

But sharing an apartment may also mean sharing things that just aren't meant to be shared.

Living alone means that you don't have to get lost while your roommate is trying to entertain the latest swain.

It also means that you don't have to worry about coordinating moods. If you don't want to talk to people, you don't have to worry about a roommate that wants to tell you about the latest movie.

After you have decided which style of living (sharing or solo) appeals to you, it is time to decide how you are going to live.

APARTMENTS COME in all shapes and sizes, and all degrees of repair and disrepair. In addition, some apartments offer special features.

Apartment dwellers can either live in holes in the wall or lush mansions that should be in houses rather than multiple dwellings.

Apartments can have such luxuries as swimming pools, fireplaces and dishwashers, or have trouble getting water pressure enough for a shower.

The main buildings can be a tribute to modern technology or stand in danger of being condemned, and they are all for rent to those who can pay.

Apartments come in the furnished variety with a plethora of furnishings from shag carpeting to matching toilet seat covers, or unfurnished bare flooring.

Rental units can include whole houses or an eight by 10 room. It just depends on what you're looking for.

AFTER-YOU DECIDE what type of apartment you want, and how much you want to pay, you can begin looking at the restrictions that each apartment has.

Some apartments don't allow pets of any kind, and that includes a fish swimming in a bowl.

Children are a no-no at some apartments, while other buildings encourage occupancy by parents with small children.

Some apartments discriminate against smokers, men, women, and just about everyone else. If you fit one of the taboos and sign a lease for any of those apartments, you can find yourself out on the street and still paying rent on an apartment that you are not able to live in.

After you find an apartment that fits your needs, you may run into what is called the "waiting list." Almost all apartments have them, and you always move to the top of the list after you sign a lease in another building.

If all this seems disconcerting, take heart. Apartments are being built at a rapid rate, and somewhere, within 25 miles of where you want to live, there is an apartment that will fit your needs.

How to do professional paint job

To give a room a new decorating flair, there is nothing easier and less expensive than a fresh coat of paint.

To help you do a professional job, the following tips are offered on how to achieve the best results when painting ceiling and walls of a room.

Move all the furniture you can into another room. The heavy, awkward pieces which are left behind can be grouped in the middle of the room and covered.

Cover the floor with a drop cloth. Be sure to clean the surface well. Generally a vigorous wiping with a dry cloth will be adequate. While you're cleaning the surface look for and repair little cracks. Rub a stick of crack-filler compound over the hair-line cracks and fill large cracks with patching plaster.

Before painting the wall, remove the electrical switch and outlet plates and paint them separately on a piece of newspaper.

Provide yourself with enough light so that you will be able to spot any areas which you miss with paint. Touching up these areas before the paint is dry will produce neater results.

Time to check window frames

Winter calls for an indoor environment, so ensure yours is comfortable by tightly sealing the house against cold and moisture.

When correctly applied around construction joints and window frames, sealants will provide effective insulation.

The most important requirement for proper surface adhesion is good surface preparation, explained in the following tips:

Putty or caulk that has become dry or chipped must be removed. First scrape it out with a putty knife, then dust the area with a stiff bristle brush.

Moisture, dust and grease pose major menaces to adhesion and should be carefully cleaned up. Grease wipes up easily with rags soaked in mineral spirits.

All wood surfaces should be primed before applying the sealant. For steel and metal framed windows, use a rust-inhibitive primary material. Aluminum and other non-rusting metals must be thoroughly cleaned of grease and foreign matter.

Allowing a liberal amount of space for the sealing compound will help insure its longevity. All joints should be at least one-quarter inch wide and deep. Consult the manufacturer's label for instructions.

Swimming pool accidents on rise

Home & Garden

The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission warns that almost 30,000 persons will require hospital emergency room treatment this year in accidents associated with some of the nation's four million swimming pools.

Residential in-ground pools now number about one million and home above-ground pools are estimated at three million, according to the National Swimming Pool Institute.

The institute also states there are about 340,300 in-ground pools in hotels, motels, apartments, parks and public facilities, schools, clubs and camps.

INJURY STATISTICS indicate that 39,500 persons annually will seek hospital emergency room care for injuries involving below-ground pools; about 10,000 will need treatment for injuries related to above-ground pools. Seventy-five per cent of the injured will involve persons 19 and under, and almost twice as many boys as girls will be hurt.

The National Safety Council reports that 600 children and adults drown annually in swimming pools, 330 in home pools.

Swimming alone or without adult supervision leads to many drownings. Each year, headlines note the deaths of infants and children who tumble into pools and drown because a gate was left open or they otherwise were able to gain access to a pool when no one was around to save them.

Many severe injuries result from falling on slippery walkways and decks and falling from diving boards and ladders. Diving and jumping into shallow water also are major causes of serious injuries.

Although many pool accidents are related to running and roughhousing, numerous injuries also are attributed to the pool, its accessories and general environment.

The severity of injuries associated with swimming pool water slides — permanent disabilities for some adults and children who went head first down the slide and struck the bottom of the pool — led to a commission decision in June to commence a proceeding to develop a mandatory safety standard for slides.

THE COMMISSION also is considering a variety of approaches that could reduce injuries associated with other pool hazards such as sharp edges and protruding bolts, slippery ladders, decks and diving boards, lack of depth indicators, shock hazards from electrical wiring and problems of exploding filter tanks.

Commission staff recommend a number of precautionary measures consumers can take to reduce home pool hazards:

Check local ordinances and codes for safety requirements.

Use non-slip materials on the pool deck, diving board and ladders.

The steps of the pool ladder should be at least three inches wide, and the ladder should have handrails on both sides small enough for a child to grasp. There should be a ladder at both ends of the pool.

Electrical equipment should be installed by a licensed electrician in accordance with local safety codes. Ground-fault circuit interrupters are now recommended for pool area installations. Faulty electrical installations could cause serious or fatal electric shock.

CHECK WITH a reputable pool contractor to be sure the depth is sufficient for a diving board or slide. Always put a slide in a deep area of the pool — never in shallow water. There should be a fence at least six feet high around all sides of the pool with a locked gate to keep children out when there is no supervision and the fence should be constructed so it is difficult to climb.

Lawn furniture, trees and shrubs should not be close enough to provide an easy boost over the fence. Avoid using a side of the house as part of the fence; toddlers have wandered out through an open patio door or window and drowned.

Mark water depths conspicuously. Use a safety float line where the bottom slope deepens.

ABOVE - GROUND pools: Install sturdy guard rails around the pool deck. Look for rolled rims on the metal shell to be sure the rims do not present a sharp cutting edge if someone falls. The access ladder to the deck should be sturdy and without protruding bolts or other sharp edges. The access ladder should swing up to prevent children from unauthorized entry or should be easily removable for secure storage away from the pool area.

Check the pool and equipment periodically for cleanliness and good maintenance. Cover all sharp edges and protruding bolts; repair rickety or broken ladders and railings. Replace non-slip materials when they wear out.

Obviously teach children to float or swim as soon as possible.

Always provide competent adult supervision when the pool is in use. Even adults should never swim alone.

Caution children against showing off and playing rough and explain the dangers of running and diving recklessly. NEVER PUSH others into the pool.

When using water slides, always go feet first.

Before diving or sliding, check to be

Weeds outwitted

Before building a deck close to the ground, eliminate future bother with weeds.

Clear the space bare, then spread plastic sheeting and pin it down with a layer of fine gravel sure that other swimmers are out of the way.

Keep rescue devices and first aid supplies near the pool. A floating shepherd's crook is useful.

Teach children what to do in case of emergency. An alarm bell that could summon help would be a good idea.

Keep electrical appliances such as radios out of the pool area because of the hazard of electrical shock.

Never swim after drinking alcoholic beverages, eating or taking medications.

Leagues mark LWV week by looking ahead

BY SHERRY KAHAN

Instead of spending their time during the current League of Women Voters Week talking about past services to voters, area league members are stirring up plans for future activities.

The special league week was officially declared by Gov. William Milliken to run Sept. 16-21.

Both the Northville-Plymouth and the Livonia leagues have planned fall meetings for those interested in political issues.

The Northville-Plymouth organization has scheduled a showing of the film "The Flooding River" to highlight its concern about ecology. It will be shown at two different meetings on Oct. 10, one at 9 a.m., the other at 8 p.m.

A panel discussion about the environmental impact of rivers will also take place at this meeting, the location of which will be announced.

For its November meeting this group will have its audience play a simulation game about the housing situation in this country.

A MEETING on land use on Oct. 2 will underline the Livonia league's interest in planned development. The event will be at 8 p.m. in the home of Irene Carli, 15559 Liverpool.

The Livonia league also will hold a membership tea for prospective members on Oct. 17 in the home of Laura Callow, 15511 Oak. Mary Alice Casey, president of the state league, will speak at this time.

"The league continually studies the environment," said Jane Watts, president of the Northville-Plymouth league. "The film we will show demonstrate why a river should be allowed to flood. While it is about the Connecticut river, much of what it says can be applied to the Rouge River running through Novi, Northville, Plymouth and Canton."

"It will show our members and any member of the public who wishes to come what pre-planning should be done about rivers," she said. "It will emphasize that planning commissions should zone flood plains so that no structures can be built on them."

"Flooding is beneficial," she said. "It retains water in the local water table. It acts as a filtration system to catch the river sediment that would otherwise be carried away. Building levees only allows the river to carry away the flood waters and causes higher and higher crests down below."

THE GAMES-PLAYING session planned for November, at first glance, may not seem in the customary tradition of this serious minded organization.

But the game is a purposeful one designed to teach the audience about housing and its problems. Called WHIPP, Why Housing is a Problem and a Priority, the game will be led by an instructor from the University of Michigan gaming service.

Prior to League of Women Voters week, the Northville-Plymouth league registered voters at the Plymouth Fall Festival and at Northville High School.

It conducted candidates nights in Northville, Plymouth, Novi and Canton Township before the August elections. It also prepared and distributed impartial voters' guides on local candidates before that election.

The league has also presented the four high schools in its area with publications covering topics of local, state and national interest and dealing with human resources, environmental quality and land use.

THE ORGANIZATION is now planning candidates nights in October and will print voters' guides on local candidates before the November election.

With feeling running high in Livonia over several proposed land development schemes, the Livonia league will listen to Dan Andrew, chairman of the Livonia planning commission, discuss the new master land use plan in October.

"Future growth of Livonia must be well planned," said Roberta Young, chairman of the league committee on local land use. "We have to remember that even after growth is well planned that the city council has the final say. Voters should attend public hearings to see how their councilmen vote on land use matters."

Picasso student exhibits work in Livonia

By HANK MEIJER

The blue hues and some of the monsters are there, but the small treasures which highlight Francoise Gilot's art bear more the stamp of a conversation with Matisse than a decade-long love affair with Picasso.

The L. L. Cazan Gallery, 16705 Middle Belt between Five and Six Mile Roads, is exhibiting 41 of Mlle.

Gilot's oils, drawings and lithographs through Sept. 25.

The showing marks the first exhibition by an internationally-known artist in the pleasant shopping center gallery opened last March by Mrs. Lillian L. Fedorovici. If this is an indication of things to come, the Cazan Gallery stands to make a substantial contribution to the state of the arts in Livonia.

THE 41 handsomely-framed pieces are evidence of the artist's talent in a variety of media, but the show is dominated by her lithographs. Among these are my favorite works and the ones most difficult to like.

The range of Mlle. Gilot's talent is striking, although that very range sometimes makes her vulnerable. Inconsistencies show through, but we are able to forgive them.

The more disappointing works to me are those, such as "Two Glasses" and "Creativity in Crisis," where the artist carries through a motif of small squares, more a decorative element than anything cubist, that seems a contrived device spread over several works.

The colors here tend toward turquoise and blue blended in a relation that is unsatisfying and ineffective. Red or orange highlights serve to make the lithographs more gaudy than exciting and render them fit for waiting room walls.

Mlle. Gilot is at her best with blocks of color. "Red Sails in the Sunset" is a beguiling print where vivid orange-red sails—both upright and seemingly inverted—are set against a royal blue sea. A green horizontal layer sharing the background with the blue heightens the contrasting warmth of the sails without sacrificing strong colors to a tiresome blend.

PERHAPS THE FINEST work in the show is a powerful yet serene lithograph entitled "Japanese Harmony."

Red dominates here in a fashion that pays homage to what Matisse called "color structure," where blocks of color themselves, rather than the design, give movement and excitement.

The red background sets off a reclining white figure placed above an elegant and subdued, rug-like pattern of squares in the foreground.

The patterns here cause no clutter, but create a rich contrast to the great blocks of red. The harmony is delightful.

Also notable are several pairs of lithographs, where the design is constant while the artist plays with colors.

"Birds in the Forest" and "My Children in Brittany" are among the most pleasing of these. "My Children" portrays identical linear groupings of figures sitting and standing, but one lithograph sets the figures in red with a blue accent in the open window in the background, while the other sets off the figures in orange with a patch of turquoise showing through the window.

Light and quiet browns allow the bolder colors prominence. In both works a broadleaf plant arches over the figures. Its vines, which tie the elements of the composition together with a swirling, circular motion descended from Matisse, are a deep green in both prints.

Also characterized by vivid color contrasts and deft lines are the lithographs contained in "Sur la Pierre," a book of Mlle. Gilot's poems and lithographs.

MLLE. GILOT was born in France in 1921 and studied at the Sorbonne and with Picasso, with whom she lived for 10 years. Her works are in a number of major collections, including the Museum of Modern Art in New York. She has had more than 30 solo exhibitions in the United States and Europe. She is married to Dr. Jonas Salk and lives in California.

The L. L. Cazan Gallery is open Tuesday through Saturday from noon to 7 p.m. and Sunday from 4 p.m. to 8 p.m. The gallery is closed Mondays.

FRANCOISE GILOT, a French artist and student of Picasso whose works are currently shown at the L. L. Cazan Gallery in Livonia, prepares the stone from which an edition of the lithograph "Rainbow of Flowers" will be printed. The dartboard-size abstract is one of the most colorful of the 41 oils, drawings and lithographs on view here through Sept. 25.

Pheasant season looks promising

A good fall pheasant season is being predicted by wildlife biologists for the Michigan Department of Natural Resources. Statistics gathered by rural mail carriers on pheasant sightings this summer are the basis for the optimism.

Vic Janison, the DNR's southern game bird specialist, says the state's general pheasant population in the southern Lower Peninsula is up seven percent over last year and in the central area is up 33 percent.

In other areas of the state, pheasant populations for southwestern counties are up 16 per cent and those for Thumb area counties are up 26 per cent.

Dips in pheasant populations are noted in Ottawa and Allegan counties which experienced a 13 per cent drop and an 18 per cent drop in southeastern Michigan.

"Counties with most birds," Janison indicates, "are Ingham, Eaton, Van Buren, Shiawassee and St. Clair. Over the past three years, the number of pheasants have increased consistently: up 20 per cent in '72, 38 per cent in '73 and this year's seven per cent increase.

Approximately 600 rural mail carriers participated in the pheasant count program which was made between July 22 and Aug. 3.

Pheasant season begins Oct. 21 at 10 a.m. in Lower Michigan.

Prep star works on game at FCC

By KEN SCHIFF

Plymouth's Jeff Roth is a golfer with a one-handicap.

Normally, Roth would just be considered a good golfer at the Farmington Country Club. But being a senior at Plymouth Salem High School and a one-handicapper makes him extraordinary.

Roth, who led Salem's golf team to the state class A championship last season, has already established an impressive list of achievements.

The modest golfer recently won the Junior District Match Play Tournament, going 1 up on the runnerup at Barton Hills in Ann Arbor. He won the Golf Association of Michigan's junior championship last year at the Saginaw Country Club and finished second this year at the Monroe Country Club.

ROTH QUALIFIED for the final 36 holes of the Michigan Open and shot 306 for 72 holes. He had to miss his own club's junior tourney to play in the Open, giving someone else a chance to win that honor.

Roth qualified for the match play in the State Amateur held in Charlevoix, but lost in the quarterfinals to the tournament's eventual winner, Rod Sumter, who recently turned professional.

He won the Lake Isabella Junior Golf tournament in Mt. Pleasant in June and qualified for the Western Junior Open with a 36 hole total of 143.

With this long list of accomplishments and his room full of trophies, Roth still seems nonchalant. "Yes, I do have a lot of trophies," he said. "I don't know how many. I don't count them."

PLAYING ALMOST every day at the Farmington Country Club, Roth says he usually shoots 73-75 over the par 72 layout.

"I play with my dad a lot on week-ends and he usually helps me with my game rather than the pro," Roth said.

His talent must be inherent as Roth said he really hasn't taken any lessons except from his father.

"Dad's really brought my game around," he said.

Besides playing at the club, Roth plays at Braeburn with his fellow state champs on the Plymouth-Salem golf team.

"That championship last year was really nice," Roth said. "I get as much satisfaction from the school team as I do from the club. I like the competition."

How ex-dairyman runs historic cider mill

By W.W. EDGAR

It's a strange trail that would take a fellow from a modern dairy plant through the throes of organizing a suburban weekly newspaper and finally land him in the major domo's chair of a cider mill "out in the country."

That's the unusual trip Vern Bodker made during the last two decades and now, settled in the ever popular Parmenter's Northville Cider Mill, he's having the time of his life.

"It does seem odd," he said the other day while discussing the path he had travelled. "But selling cider is nothing new for me."

"When I was in the dairy business at Bodker's on Five Mile in Redford Township, I used to serve the Lawson stores and each Fall arranged for the cider deliveries."

"After a time I decided to sell the cider and that got me acquainted with Parmenter's — and here I am, having a great time and enjoying every minute of it."

AS HE SPOKE and confided that cider sales were about five per cent above last year, he chuckled and cut in with:

"You know I was one of the group that organized and started the Redford Observer that is now a part of your chain."

"At the time we weren't satisfied with the news coverage of the paper we had and decided to start our own. So, I know a bit about that end of the business world, too."

No business man is prouder of his activity than Bodker as he goes about producing the cider and caring for the other wants of the customers.

"Don't forget — this place celebrated its centennial a year ago," he said, "and it is one of the real historical sites in the entire area."

THE PARMENTER family started the old cider mill on Base-Line Road in 1873, when that section was really "out in the country." But each fall the people for miles around beat a path to the old mill and imbibed in the amber juice from apples.

Folks seemed to enjoy a ride — horse and buggy in those days — out to the old mill that is nestled in the winding section in the wooded area of Base-Line Road as it reaches Griswold Street.

Many families arranged Sunday afternoon get-togethers and enjoyed the cider along with homemade doughnuts and some of the jams that always have been available.

"They still come out," Bodker explained, "though the place no longer is called 'That mill away out in the country'."

People still come here from miles around and, though no attempt has been made to list the number of states represented, the lovers of cider come in large numbers from all parts of from all parts of southeastern Michigan and Ohio.

"We have quite a time here," Bodker went on, "and it sure is like old times to see the families enjoying the cider and the other things available while looking at the antiques hanging on the wall."

WHAT IS THERE about Parmenter's cider that has made it so popular through the years?

Well, it is clean and always fresh," Bodker answered, and then explained that the secret of the cider business is to keep the cider clean and cold and not use preservatives or sugar — just the plain apple juice.

Producing cider from apples is a very simple process according to Bodker.

Here is how it's done and Bodker has no qualms about releasing the various es during the process.

First, the apples are placed on a conveyor and run through a washer. This washer has 12 nylon revolving brushes with 12 high pressure jets of water.

The second step carries the apples to a grinder that crushes them to the consistency of apple sauce. They are then pumped into nylon bags with 2000 pounds of pressure. This separates the juice from the pulp.

When this stage is reached the juice is placed in stainless steel refrigerated tanks, and then passed on to the customer over the counter.

The entire procedure, requires about an hour.

THOUGH HE wouldn't reveal the number of apples used each season or the number of employees involved, "as they are trade secrets," he explained that apples are brought in from Benton Harbor.

All the apples from that area are taken to the receiving station and graded according to size.

"We don't get a uniform sized apple. They are reserved for the supermarkets. We get the larger and the smaller sizes."

"To assure that we get a proper blending," he went on, "we use about 25 per cent Delicious apples, 25 per cent McIntosh and 50 per cent Jonathan. We have found this is the best mixture for both color and flavor. And we never add preservatives or sugar, so that the cider can be a favorite drink of the diabetics."

While the former dairy man is proud of the cider, he also points out there are some good side bits including apple syrup, homemade jams and maple syrup.

With a broad grin he confided that they also make peanut butter which is a bit different. "We don't use preservatives or anything other than the crushed peanuts and that is real peanut butter."

Aside from all the products available at cider time Bodker is proud of the antiques that adorn the walls. Among them is a scorecard of a Tiger baseball game when Ty Cobb, Harry Heilmann and Bob Fothergill comprised the Tiger outfield in the 1920s.

Not many present day fans remember that the third baseman in those days was a fellow named Bobby Jones — and the mere mention of that name in connection with baseball stirs an argument.

"There's the name right on the scorecard," Bodker smiles. "And you can't beat that and you can't mistake him for the golfer."

Bodker admits he had a lot of enjoyable times in the dairy business until he decided to retire.

"But I'm also having a lot of fun now, and I'm enjoying every minute of keeping this historic site alive and establishing it as Parmenters Northville Cider Mill."

THIS ANTIQUE apple press was just as good at squeezing apples into good cider, but it was much slower and less efficient than the press used today by Vern Bodker at Parmenters — the nearest cider mill to this area.

ANTIQUES ADORN the walls of Parmenters Cider Mill, such as the "Snow Bird" wash board, wooden rolling pin and spoon, an old Coca-Cola advertisement, and a Tiger scorecard from the 1920s.

The history of Plymouth's hotels

"There is nothing contrived by man, by which so much happiness is produced as by a good tavern or inn." — Dr. Samuel Johnson

PLYMOUTH—PAST AND PRESENT by Sam Hudson

PLYMOUTH—As a stop on the Detroit to Ann Arbor stage route, Plymouth began to contribute its share to the happiness of territorial travelers early in its history.

The village had two hotels by 1832, a few years after it was founded. One of them, Peter Fralick's "Union Hall," was called "first class" by Henry Utley. It was headquarters for the eight stages per day which came through the town. The name of the other establishment has not come down to us.

Some time after John Kellogg came to Plymouth in 1832, he established the Plymouth Hotel at the corner of Main and Ann Arbor Trail, facing what was later to become Kellogg Park. By 1856, when fire destroyed the block, the hotel on the corner was owned by J. W. Root. Among its attractions was a ballroom, the place where the fire started.

In 1857, after the fire, a hotel called the Adams House was located in a brick building where Kresge's now stands. Run by Thomas Whipple, it was the site of the first village election in 1867, the year in which Plymouth was incorporated as a village.

Further to the east on Main Street was the Bode House, established as a hotel in 1868 by a German family of that name. The two-story brick building, located next to the C & O railroad tracks, is still in use as Bode's Restaurant.

In the 1890s, and until the Mayflower Hotel was established, the chief hostelry in the village was the Plymouth Hotel. It stood on the corner of Main and Ann Arbor Trail where John Kellogg had built the earlier hotel of the same name. The operator of the Plymouth Hotel in 1898 was J. G. Streng. He was a relative of Jacob Streng, who later founded Hillside Inn.

An 1898 brochure about business establishments in Plymouth describes the Plymouth Hotel. It was "a $2 a day house, and the leading hotel of Plymouth. The house is heated by hot air and lighted by the new light company of Detroit. There are 25 sleeping rooms and a large airy dining hall of 30x40 feet. Leading off to the north of the office is a door which will bring you into the fine sample room and pool and billiard hall."

At a later period, the Plymouth Hotel was run by Dewey Berdan, who also served, at one time, as Kate Allen's business manager. The last owner of the establishment was the late Ralph J. Lorenz, second cousin of Ralph G. Lorenz, who now owns and operates the Mayflower Hotel. Ralph J. bought the Hotel Plymouth from Grant Harriman in 1915.

By 1920, the old hotel was beginning to deteriorate. The late Sidney Strong, who came to Plymouth that year as the community's second village manager, told me he always feared the building would collapse.

David Galen, who operated a meat market in a corner of the building, told me he had to jack up one of the structure's uneven ceilings in order to move in a new freezer. Later, he discovered the maneuver had locked a hotel guest in his room above. The man was captive until the jack was removed and the floor of his room settled.

One day, as Galen sat in the hotel barber shop, he saw the wall begin to bulge, signaling the end. The building was condemned in 1927 and Lorenz had the structure razed. In its place he erected the building which housed the D & C Store for many years until Lou Goddard built the Mini-Mall there.

Early in the 1900s, the Hotel Andarine, which in its early days was called the Hotel Victor, was run by George Streng, a cousin of Jacob Streng. From about 1914 to 1923, the Andarine was operated by George Hemmingsway. Later it was run by Andy Sambrone. During the prime years of railroading, when Plymouth was an important rail center, with a busy round house and repair shops, the Andarine was popular with railroad men.

In recent years it has been called the Hotel Nelson and caters largely to permanent residents. It is located on Mill Street just south of the C & O railroad tracks.

The Hotel Mayflower, a prominent landmark in Plymouth, opened in November, 1927. It was the result of community effort, rising out of a Chamber of Commerce meeting in February, 1926. The Chamber committee, headed by E. C. Hough, brought in the Hockenbury System, Inc. of Harrisburg, Pa., to make a survey as to need and financing, and to assist in organizing the drive. By September, a sales organization of local citizens was assembled to sell stock to finance the project. The entire sum, $209,000, was raised in six hours, "establishing a world's record." Ground was broken April 25, 1927.

The building was erected on the corner of Main and Ann Arbor Trail on a vacant lot, the site of the Fuller residence which burned in 1910. The lot, used by Czar Penny as a cow pasture, had been a lively carnival ground every Fourth of July.

The hotel structure was three stories high, with plans provided for its expansion to five. The additional two stories have never been added. A local firm, General Machine and Iron Works, Inc., at that time one of Plymouth's most important industries, fabricated and erected the structural steel. Grenoble Hotels, Inc., which operated the establishment for a time, brought in S. W. Stearns from Macomb, Illinois, to be resident manager. Dr. Luther Peck was named house physician.

(To be continued. Part two will complete the story of the Mayflower Hotel and will discuss restaurants in Plymouth.)

THE OLD PLYMOUTH HOTEL stood at the corner of Main Street and Ann Arbor Trail where the Mini Mall is now located. The building was condemned and razed in 1927, the year in which the Mayflower Hotel first opened its doors.

NEW BUSINESS—Plymouth Township Planning Commission, Richard Gornick, Secretary. Re: Action taken at their August 21, 1974 meeting: (a) Elmer L. Totten, Application No. 265 Land Split-property at 13740 Ridgewood Drive. Mrs. Richardson stated that an agreement was filed with the Township Clerk to purchase said property and signed by Mr. Owen McKenny and does not have the church's name on it, and that she had received a letter from Mr. McKenny stating that he was not representing the church, but could consider a gift or sale of same to the Baptist Church. Mrs. Richardson commented that the planning Commission wanted some evidence from the church that this piece of property would be a part of the church's property, otherwise it would be land-locked. Mrs. Holmes moved that the Board approve the land split, application No. 265, property at 13740 Ridgewood Drive. Supported by Mr. Ash. Mr. Burke commented that he could not vote for a split of a parcel of property which is completely land-locked. Mr. Overholt stated that no one would benefit from a land-locked piece of property unless his intentions were real, and the property is of no use to anyone else. Mrs. Richardson replied that adjacent property owners could be and are reportedly interested in this property. The question was called and the following roll call vote was taken: Yes: E. Holmes, G. Overholt, R. Ash. No: F. Millington, G. Burke, H. Richardson, J.D. McLaren. The motion failed 3-4.

(b) William H. Anderson, Application No. 266-Re: Land Split-property on Powell Road between Beck and Ridge. (Planning Commission gave recommended approval, contingent upon a proper legal description and sketch of the remaining property as well as coordinating the moving of the garage on the lot line with the building inspector's approval.) Mr. Burke moved approval of the Planning Commission's recommendation to approve Application No. 266, Land Split-property on Powell Road between Beck and Ridge, contingent upon a proper legal description and sketch of the remaining property as well as coordinating the moving of the garage on the lot line with the building inspector's approval. Supported by Mrs. Richardson and carried unanimously.

Approval for wording of Police Millage Proposal on November 5, 1974 General Election—Mr. Overholt moved that the Township Board accept the recommendation of the Township Clerk in the wording of the Police Millage Proposal for the November 5, 1974 General Election. Supported by Mr. Burke and carried unanimously.

Liquor Control Commission—Re: Request from Pizza Hut of Kalamazoo, Inc., for a new full year Class "C" license to be located at 1425 Ann Arbor Road. Mrs. Richardson moved that Pizza Hut of Kalamazoo, Inc., be added to the existing list on file in the Township Clerk's Office and that the Board of Trustees will show no preference. Supported by Mr. Overholt and carried unanimously.

Breder-Hamill & Associates Inc.—Engineering for Ann Arbor Road and adjoining streets for sidewalk construction. Mr. Burke moved that the Engineering firm submit a proposal for establishment of minimum grades for sidewalk and road turns that would be required by the state for the State to set grades, from Sheldon Road to Lilley Road by the next meeting, September 24, 1974. OLD BUSINESS—L.&D. Service, 49429 Ann Arbor Road. Re: Report as to their intentions of complying with the grading of Land Fill at their site. Mrs. Holmes moved that the Board grant a 60 day extension of time on complying with the grading and L.&D. Service have their engineers prepare a site plan to present to the Planning Commission and that they be given the opportunity to discuss their site plan with the Planning Consultant. Supported by Mr. Millington, stating that improvement to the site is what is desired and the Township Planner should take a look at this and forward his recommendations. Mr. Overholt asked L.&D. how far they have gone with a site plan and when they would be able to submit a site plan to the Planning Commission? Mr. Hoffman replied that a site plan was not in the process at this time. Mr. Overholt suggested L.&D. inform the architect they will not get the information needed until the file with the Planning Commission and that time is against them and they should get a site plan submitted as quickly as possible. Mr. Ash asked if a site plan was for the erection of a new building or to make improvements on the existing one within six months. Mr. Hoffman replying that work would be done next spring or summer on a new building. The question was called and the following roll call vote was taken:

Yes: F. Millington, E. Holmes, G. Burke, H. Richardson.

No: G. Overholt, R. Ash, J.D. McLaren

The motion carried 4-3.

Mr. Ash commented that the reason for his "no" vote was because the petitioner could not give any assurance as to his intention to either build or make substantial alterations to the property in the foreseeable future.

People who buy and people who sell get together in the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers

Buyers and sellers are "strange" people. Strange to each other, that is. People with lots of different needs and wants, people who need to get together. They need to get together in the quickest, least expensive and most effective way possible—the Observer & Eccentric Want Ads.

Say you need a buyer for a bunch of baby basset hounds, or a really good home for a litter of antiques...How do you meet those unknown admirers with an eye for your special goods? How do you keep track of sellers with garage sales, and owners of autos and pets to trade? It's easy -- when you know where buyers and sellers get together best—the Observer & Eccentric Classifieds.

It's easy to get double buying and selling results, too. Double-Action Ads bring people together from all over Wayne and Oakland Counties. These suburban communities include: Birmingham, Bloomfield, West Bloomfield, Farmington, Farmington Hills, Rochester, Avon Twp., Southfield and Troy in Oakland County; Livonia, Garden City, Plymouth, Plymouth Twp., Canton Twp., Redford Twp., and Westland in Wayne County. Smart buyers and sellers place a Double Action Family Want Ad (non business) of 15 words or less in two consecutive issues, with no changes in copy and no cancellations -- and they pay only $6. That's a savings of $2.00 off the regular cost of placing an ad in two issues.

When you have something to sell...when you have something to buy...you've got a lot in common in the Observer & Eccentric Classified Want Ads.

New center joins battle against breast cancer

By ANITA CRONE

In the past 40 years, fatalities from uterine cancer have been drastically reduced. But breast cancer remains unchecked and is the number one killer of American women between the ages of 45 and 60.

One of the reasons for the reduction in uterine cancer deaths may be the universal availability of clinics which now give the pap smear as a matter of course.

In an attempt to develop a test or early warning examination for breast cancer, some 27 cancer detection centers have been created nationwide.

The center serving this area opened Monday, Sept. 16 in Ann Arbor.

Preliminary results have already shown the techniques used in the centers do work. One woman had a tumor, missed by her doctor during a recent checkup, detected at the center.

THE ANN ARBOR facility will examine 5,000 women this year, and an additional 5,000 women in the second year of the five-year program. It is under the direction of Dr. Barbara Threatt, a University of Michigan radiologist.

The center is supported by grants from the American Cancer Society and the National Cancer Institute, an unusual partnership of a private health organization and a federal agency.

Aimed primarily at women in the 35 to 74 age group, the primary goal of the center is to detect the presence of tumors early enough to provide an increased chance of survival to patients with the disease.

"THE NATIONAL program is looking for the equivalent of a pap test for breast cancer," Dr. Threatt said. The center's approach is not to examine cells on a microscope slide, but to combine the newest and most reliable methods of x-ray and physical examinations, and then to compare the results statistically, the director added.

The Ann Arbor center will screen 10,000 of the 270,000 women to be screened nationwide.

The clinic is located at 376 Washington Street in Ann Arbor.

Statistics from the screenings of the 27 national clinics will be tabulated at a Philadelphia, center, with the statistics being compiled by number rather than name.

"It is possible for the individual centers to keep track of the names of the women screened in the program," said Sandra Nelson, a nurse working on the project.

"But," she added, "the Philadelphia center will not have a listing by name."

ALTHOUGH THE CLINIC does not set up appointments directly, the American Cancer Society's Wayne-Detroit office has dates set aside at the center to handle women in this area who are interested in the free examination.

Women screened sign a contract in which they agree to participate in the program for five years.

During the five-year period, the participant undertakes three standard breast examinations in a visit once every year.

The three exams are a basic physical exam, an x-ray, or mammography, and a photograph of the skin temperature or thermography.

The mammography is not performed on women under the age of 35 or on pregnant women.

"We know that x-rays build up in the body," said Mrs. Louise Campbell, an American Cancer Society volunteer at the center. "If, however, the thermography examination or the physical examination lead us to suspect the presence of a tumor, then we will do the x ray."

THE ENTIRE PROCESS takes a little over an hour and is thorough. The center is equipped to handle 20 women a day.

The screening process begins with a complete eight-page physical history of the patient.

The history covers everything from demographic data to a family history of cancer and a general disease history.

The second step in the screening process is the thermography. The patient is taken to a waiting cubicle so that her skin temperature can be reduced to 68 degrees.

After a five-minute wait, six thermographic pictures are taken—three using a white-heat photograph, and three employing a black heat technique.

The pictures are harmless, if a little chilly, and are actually infrared photographs in order to detect "hot spots" of suspicious activity.

After the thermography, patients proceed to the mammography. The Ann Arbor center uses the lowest possible x-ray radiation level.

MS. NELSON is in charge of the physical examination, which includes a lesson in self-breast examination techniques.

Ms. Nelson explained that the self examination should be done once a month, and can help in the detection of lumps.

But while the self-exam is important, she urged women to see a doctor if a lump or thickening is discovered.

"Breast cancer can be successfully treated if found early enough," she said. "But home remedies will not cure the disease."

ALTHOUGH THERE ARE doctors who use mammography or thermography in the detection of cancer, the advantage of the Ann Arbor center is that it is free.

The same tests done at a hospital may cost up to $125. But in the detection of breast cancer, money is not the primary concern.

Breast cancer is a killer, and an hour of your time, may be worth years of your life.

Statistics currently available lead Dr. Threatt and other cancer researchers to conclude that a female child has a one in six chance of getting breast cancer before she reaches 60 years of age.

With the odds as high as they are, the tests the center offers are a good means of beating the odds.

IN A CONVENTIONAL breast x ray, a cancer mass shows up as a bright spot near the center of the breast profile.

THE CANCER is revealed as a dark mass when xerography is used in breast cancer detection. Xerograms are specially processed x rays.

THERMOGRAPHY uses heat in the detection of cancer. The light lines indicate hot spots or possible tumors.

Oral cancer unit opens

The Michigan Cancer Foundation has initiated a new oral cancer detection and diagnostic service, the first of its kind in Michigan.

It will be a primary referral center for dentists and oral surgeons in the four-county Detroit region who want expert diagnostic confirmation of possible cases of oral cancer.

The new service is part of the foundation's overall program of cancer detection, screening the diagnosis.

THE MCF, which gets the bulk of its local support from the United Foundation of Detroit and from other United Way agencies in Southeastern Michigan, also provides a comprehensive breast cancer detection and screening program and an area wide program of cervical cancer screening.

"These screening and diagnostic programs are just one way we try to directly serve our community," says Dr. Michael J. Brennan, MCF president, "which has for years provided us with one of the highest levels of local citizen support enjoyed by any cancer center in the country."

Although the new oral cancer facility will be used primarily as a referral center for dentists, any individual may make an appointment for a free oral examination at the clinic.

The clinic is located in the foundation's headquarters in the Meyer L. Prentis Cancer Center, 110 East Warren Avenue, Detroit.

ONE FEATURE of the program is availability of an immediate biopsy of suspicious tissues, when is judged necessary by the clinic's surgical director.

In a biopsy, a small piece of suspicious tissue is removed and examined under a microscope for abnormalities which might indicate cancer.

Biopsy specimens taken at the new clinic will be processed and interpreted at the University of Detroit Dental Center's pathology laboratory. The university is participating in the sponsorship of this program.

Dr. Herbert Bloom, chairman of MFC's head and neck cancer committee, is coordinator of the program. He is an oral surgeon with a PhD in pathology and a master's in surgery. Bloom has been active in coordinating the planning for the new program and will serve as its surgical director.

Our recent vacation brought us a new pastime—composing double-croctic puzzles.

Several members of our clan have been hooked for quite a while on these mind-twisters that require figuring out definitions and fitting their letters into a quotation spelled out in blanks.

I have to admit we're slightly at odds as to the honorable way to work such puzzles. The man of our house feels it borders on cheating to use a dictionary or atlas or reference book to get a definition, whereas I contend all's fair in love, war and especially double-croctics.

ANYWAY, WHILE enjoying the rare pleasure of having time to work some, I started wondering how you would put one together. My spouse announced he would make one.

He scribbled for a few hours and then handed us a paper complete with numbered squares and lettered blanks.

When the girls and I set out to solve it, we found it also was filled with pretty bad puns, a specialty in our family. But solve it we did, with just a bit of moaning and groaning.

MISS 15 AND MISS 12 and their mother decided it couldn't be all that hard and we'd make some too.

They labored for a while and finally found themselves bogged down in morasses of letters P, I, and C, with nary an N or G.

I struggled on and at length had a quotation, a set of definitions and nothing left over but an N, a W, an F, an O and a C. One more definition seemed in order—New Workers Fellowship of Canada.

When our double-croctic champ set out to solve the puzzle he wouldn't believe that one. How could I use an organization he'd never heard of?

A FEW OF THE DEFINITIONS from those puzzles are on their way to becoming conversational by-words.

Like "The mayor of Troutville" (official). And "What the man of our house won't tell his daughters (cantaloupe).

And "What the girls do when the music's right (undulate). A good word, that one. It used up two Us.

Another vacation's coming and we'll see quotations and definitions come out of this one. What I need is a word that uses D-P-P-R-R-R-R-J-U-I-I-T.

Women on the Go A farewell to printer's ink

BY MARGARET MILLER

Mrs. Dorothy Finney of Plymouth has been actively engaged in the printing and newspaper business for most of her 60-plus years.

That's a lot of handtype letters sorted out, galleys read and presses fed. And, because proofreading for this newspaper has been her job for the last several years, it's also an awful lot of red faces saved for editors because of the mistakes she has caught.

Dorothy is retiring to accept at last the urging of her four children to do more traveling and visiting their families.

And, as she has enjoyed the newspaper work, she also expects to have fun on the new projects she's planning.

SHE'LL BE GLAD to show a clipping she keeps, describing the happy person as one who works because he wants to rather than because he has to. "That's me," she says.

"I really grew up in a print shop," said this active Plymouth resident.

"We lived in South Bend, Ind., and my dad was a printer. I used to run around the shop and sometimes knocked things over and made the letters spill.

"So my dad had me sort them out. I literally was sorting type before I knew the alphabet."

Going to school and learning her letters didn't lessen her love of the print shop. She spent hours there, learning all the phases of her father's job printing business.

"That saying about printer's ink in your veins is true," she insists. "For me, anyway."

During those years Dorothy helped feed the press and print tickets and school programs and she particularly liked to read the law briefs the shop printed.

"I guess that's why recently I've always liked to proofread the legal ads," she said.

SHE STILL HELPED SOME in the shop after her marriage to Carl Finney. At least, she did until they moved to Plymouth in 1941.

"I guess he got tired of seeing me in a white printing apron that was dirty from the type," she said.

However, Mr. Finney made the mistake of mentioning, when he placed a classified ad in the local Plymouth Mail, that his wife was a print shop addict.

From then on there were requests that Dorothy come to work, "and I did in 1949," she said.

EVEN BEFORE THAT, while taking care of three sons and a daughter and engaging in community activities like Symphony League and Grange and Girl Scouts, she used to take occasional trips back to her father's print shop.

"I'd work there a few days and that would seem to satisfy me," she said.

It was after her husband's death 10 years ago that Dorothy joined the paper that now is the Plymouth Observer & Eccentric.

Since then, there's not a member of the editorial staff who hasn't felt gratitude to her for a word correctly spelled or a date corrected.

"I learned to check every date after we made a mistake once on a bunch of wedding invitations in my dad's shop," Dorothy said.

THE BUSINESS HAS CHANGED a lot, of course, and Dorothy Finney has grown with it. In the last year or so she learned to do corrections on the justawriters that were the main means of setting type before the most recent computer type change at this paper.

And before retiring, she sent a letter to the editor of a quarterly publication for employees of Suburban Communications Corp., of which the Observer & Eccentric is one division.

"After reading it, I've had to change my way of thinking," wrote this long-time lady of the print shop.

"For the last three years I've made it a point to say how glad I was to have been born at the right time to learn so many of the different crafts in the printing trade, from the hand-set type to the hand-fed press to hot type, justawriters and now computerized operations.

"And now I find myself wishing I were 20 years younger so as to be part of this new, exciting Communications Corp. for a while longer."

Northville tour includes 5 homes

Five homes, most of them featuring architecture and decorating of the past, will be the focal points of the eighth annual home tour of Northville, Thursday, Sept. 26.

Sponsored by the Northville Presbyterian Church Woman's Association and the Northville Historical Society, the tour will take place from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Among the homes which will open their doors in these hours will be that of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Riddell on Dunlap Street. Designed in a Queen Anne style, the home is painted in deep ivory and trimmed in Williamsburg blue.

The inside of the house features antiques from Iowa and New York, a fan window and a green marbleized fireplace with a warming oven. Once a Methodist parsonage, this home is believed to be of a 1900 vintage.

A blending of past and present will be seen in the Berry home on W. Main which was originally built in 1865. An old school house was added to the east end of the structure in 1838 and the home also features a gazebo in the backyard.

Lively wallpaper and vivid colors ranging from oranges to hot pinks and purple cause the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Halton on Randolph to resemble a home of the Gatsby era. Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Schubert of Beal have spent countless hours restoring their home to its original form. Fancy woodwork and trim accent the exterior. The Schuberts have used a red, white and blue theme in their decorating.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. John Burkan is in the Victorian style with furnishings passed down through their families. Burkan is the president of the Northville Historical Society.

Four of these five homes have been taken over by newcomer couples who have revitalized them. The $2 tickets for the tour may be purchased at three Northville stores, Banbury Cross, the Sunflower Shop and Et Cetera Shop. They may also be obtained at the First Presbyterian Church 200 E. Main, on the day of the tour.

The church will also be the location that day of a bake sale by Mizpah

Schoolcraft plans women's courses

Registration will take place between Sept. 16 and Oct. 3 at Schoolcraft College for the new fall programs and services offered to women of the area.

Two of the courses to be offered are "Alone Again: Focus Widowhood" and "Alone Again: Focus Divorce." Both are designed to help women cope with living alone after the death of a spouse, or after a divorce or separation.

A new class called "Understanding Changing Lifestyles" will give husbands or wives or dating partners an opportunity to examine the roles society expects men and women to play.

It will also consider the expectations men and women have of each other and the reasons that men and women are moving away from traditional roles and expectations. "Women's Auto Awareness" promises to include both theory and laboratory experiences toward developing a basic understanding of the modern automobile.

Another new course titled "Parent Experience Exchange" is designed to help parents look beyond the long hair, fading jeans and rebellion of their children to discover individual persons with individual needs.

Many popular courses will be continued. These include "Lifestyle Planning for Women," "Women and the Law" and "The Money-wise Woman." "Protection Against Rape" and "Reading and Study Skills Refresher" will also be offered.

Tuition for persons residing within the college district is $11 per course.

ALPHA BAPTIST CHURCH, celebrating its 20th anniversary this weekend.

Alpha Baptist is 20

Alpha Baptist Church, 28051 W. Chicago, Livonia, celebrates its 20th anniversary this weekend.

A dinner and family night in the church's fellowship hall is scheduled Saturday, Sept. 21, and there will be special note of the occasion during worship services Sunday, Sept. 22, at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

The Rev. W. Carlton Younge, pastor of the congregation even before it became Alpha Baptist, will speak at both services.

Alpha was known as Elm Baptist Church when it was located at Grantland and Arcola in Livonia from August 1939, until late in 1954.

Ground was broken for the present building on West Chicago in September 1953, and on Nov. 4, 1954, the congregation voted unanimously to change the name from Elm to Alpha while moving to the new site.

Rev. Younge, a graduate of Detroit Bible College and Eastern Michigan, became pastor in 1951. The original unit of the present building and an education wing built in 1964 came into being under his leadership.

At the dinner Saturday, the congregation will welcome back many former members, including two young men from the congregation now serving in school and church posts.

Robert Burkett, who graduated from Bentley High School and Central Michigan University, is registrar at Cedarville Baptist College in Ohio.

Richard Burkett, a graduate of Franklin High School and CMU, is youth pastor of the Timberlake Baptist Church in Lynchburg, Va.

Greetings also have come from former members around the world who will not be able to attend the anniversary celebration.

Among these are Richard A. Miller, a graduate of Franklin High and Moody Bible Institute in Chicago, now serving in New Guinea with his wife, Ruth Ann. He is an aviation missionary, flying to remote spots in the mission area.

REV. W. CARLTON YOUNGE

Death preparation topic for St. Matthew seminar

"Preparation for Death" is the topic of a Sunday evening seminar to be conducted for three weeks beginning Sept. 22 in St. Matthew United Methodist Church, 30900 W. Six Mile, Livonia.

The adult study groups will begin on Sept. 22 and Oct. 6 at 7 p.m. and on Sept. 29 at 6 p.m.

During all three seminar meetings there will be mission study for children from grades one to six and a sifter for younger children.

"The subject matter is something most people do not want to explore, but something we all must do at some time," said Mrs. Sarah Shoemaker, working with Mrs. Ellen Horie to direct the seminar.

"In this program we hope to help people answer some questions and maybe be better prepared."

The first meeting will be a question-and-answer session with Ronald Rice of the Fred Wood Funeral Home and attorney Fred Heath on hand to provide information.

On Sept. 29, the participants will view the hour-long television program "The Great American Funeral" over Channel 2 at 6 p.m. and then will discuss it.

On that Sunday there also will be a talk and answering of questions by a representative of the Greater Detroit Memorial Society.

"Morals and Christian Viewpoints" will be the topic of the final session. It will seek to establish the stand of the church on questions brought out in the previous sessions.

All programs are planned to be completed by 8:30 p.m., and the public is invited to all sessions.

St. John Bosco sets Holy Year celebration

St. John Bosco Catholic Church, 12170 Beech Daly, Redford Township, will host a Holy Year celebration Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 21 and 22.

A talk by Msgr. Hubert A. Maino, religion columnist, and several special presentations will be part of the celebration that runs from 12 noon to 9 p.m. Saturday and from 1 to 7 p.m. Sunday.

The Rev. Leo Sheltreau, pastor of St. John Bosco, said all are invited to join his congregation "in this great occasion of renewal and reconciliation."

"According to the age-old custom," Rev. Sheltreau said in a bulletin printed for the occasion, "the Holy Year has its focal point in Rome, and it will continue to do so."

"But the conditions prescribed for acquiring special spiritual benefits will this time be granted to local churches so that the whole church spread throughout the world may immediately be able to profit from this occasion."

"Indulgences for the Holy Year may be granted by making a special pilgrimage to the outdoor shrine on these days and by fulfilling certain other intentions. Bring the sick, elderly, shut-ins and invalids to the shrine for any of these devotions."

Msgr. Maino will be guest speaker for the opening ceremony, which will begin with a procession and noon mass at the church's outdoor shrine.

The closing mass at 7 p.m. Sunday will be concelebrated by Rev. Sheltreau, the Most Rev. Joseph L. Imesh, auxiliary bishop of Detroit, the Rev. M.J. Shuler and several other priests from many orders in the metropolitan area.

The homily on that occasion will be given by the Rev. Paul Desch, OFM, from Duns Scotus college and monastery.

Visitors offering special contributions to the celebration will include Louis Kaczmarek of Mt. Morris, well-known as an authority on Mary, the Grosse Pointe Children's Theater presenting "Story of Fatima" and the St. Theresa boys' chorale singing for the opening and closing masses.

Jewish students learn meaning of holidays

BY SHERRY KAHAN

The year 5755 on the Jewish calendar will be ushered in by the students of the Beth Yehudah afternoon school in the Livonia Jewish Congregation with knowledge and understanding thanks to the information they have picked up in their three-day a week school.

A ram's horn, or shofar, blown during the Rosh Hashanah services was recently brought around to all the classrooms so the students could look at it, touch it and learn the place it has in their religion.

They were also given a chance to blow it. However, it was doubtful that in one brief class period they would become proficient in its use, as blowing a shofar is considered a difficult art.

The player is supposed to produce only certain specified sounds during the services.

ROSH HASHANAH, which took place last Tuesday and Wednesday, is a time of judgment to Jews all over the world. It ushers in a period known as the 10 days of repentance with the 10th day being Yom Kippur, the day of atonement.

During this period, Jews are supposed to check out their lives and their goals so that by Yom Kippur they will have their sights set for the next year. On that day they pray for their future and for the future of the world.

Rosh Hashanah is a serious but festive holiday with each meal introduced by a kiddush, a prayer said over a cup of wine before the meal.

Yom Kippur is a fast day with no eating or drinking for 24 hours from sunset on Wednesday, Sept. 25 to darkness on the following day.

PRIOR TO ROSH Hashanah, the students of Beth Yehudah who range in age from eight to 13, learned in their classrooms of the laws of the holidays and the details of the services.

They learned that Tuesday, the night before Rosh Hashanah, they and their families would dip an apple into honey as they said a prayer for a sweet year to come.

They also learned of the symbolism of the second day. This revolves around a new fruit that had not been eaten yet this year, often a fig.

This would be eaten following a prayer of thankfulness to God that they have lived to reach a new season.

THE BETH YEHUDAH School has been in operation many years in Detroit and the suburbs. Invited to Livonia by the local congregation, the school is now in its second year at 31840 Seven Mile.

While the school offers training for youngsters preparing for a bar or bat mitzvah at 13, it also offers a general education in Judaism.

Students learn the history, laws and customs of this ancient religion. They also study Hebrew.

During the Sukkoth holiday in October, when many Jewish families construct small sukkoth huts in their backyard in memory of the Jews who departed from Egypt, members of the classes will visit various huts in the area.

Classes are held three times a week. On Tuesday and Thursday they meet from 4-6 p.m. On Sunday they take place from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Rabbi Jacob Levi is school administrator and teacher.

LEARNING TO BLOW THE SHOFAR, or ram's horn is Barry Offerman, a student of Rabbi Jacob Levi, who is trying to teach him the finer points. Waiting his turn is Ricky Weiner.

Good Counsel Clarenceville UMC begins program will host concert

Our Lady of Good Counsel Catholic parish in Plymouth has launched a new program titled Growing In Faith Together (GIFT) and involving survey, discussion and hopefully action plans.

The Rev. Kenneth MacKinnon and an OLCG committee started the program by mailing out some 3,000 computerized questionnaires on religious beliefs, prayer and the church to Catholics throughout the Plymouth area as well as clergy of other faiths.

Discussion of the questions raised began Sept. 8 in the church located at 1160 Penniman, and will continue Sundays for 13 weeks.

"The program is comprised of three phases, research, reflection and response," said Aidan M. Broderick, a committee member.

An outdoor concert of music from the cantata "Alleluia," sung by the chancel and youth choirs of Clarenceville United Methodist Church, is scheduled on the church grounds Sunday, Sept. 22 at 7 p.m.

All interested are invited to bring along folding chairs or sit on the grass to hear the performance. The church is located at 20300 Middle Belt, Livonia. No admission will be charged, but a free-will offering will be collected.

Besides the choral music by the church choirs, there will be selections by the Dearborn Heights Citadel Salvation Army band under Hannibal Orchard.

In case of rain, the concert will be held inside the church.

The cantata, composed by Gloria and Bill Gaither, has been performed earlier to sellout crowds by the Clarenceville choirs.

Mrs. Paul Arensman, minister of music, is directing the Sunday concert, and the soloists will be Mrs. Charles Davis, David Viers, Mrs. Neil Gerry, Gladys Lehotsky, Melvin Coffin and Mrs. Robert Lightfoot.

Speaking parts will be taken by Mr. and Mrs. William Weaver, Mrs. Dennis Noricks, Aronne Goldkette, Dwight Underhill, Thomas Harris, Mrs. Orca Ziemba, Jack Schumacher, Mrs. Lawrence Derocher, Everett Reese and the Rev. Gerald Fisher, pastor of Clarenceville UMC.

Ward church sets 'meninar'

Senior high boys of Ward United Presbyterian Church of Livonia will participate Sept. 20 and 21 in a "Meninar", a bike trip to Brighton with sports, fellowship and discussion of the meaning of being a man.

Dan Schar, director of youth ministries, will lead the outing.

Bar mitzvah

The bar mitzvah of Steven Krupp, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Krupp of Knolson Avenue, Livonia, will be observed at the 9 a.m. service of the Livonia Jewish Congregation, 31840 W. Seven Mile, on Saturday, Sept. 21.

Church Bulletin

WARD UNITED Presbyterian Church, Six Mile and Farmington Road, Livonia, will welcome Dr. Donald G. Lester, head of staff for the Presbytery of Detroit, to three services Sunday, Sept. 22.

Dr. Lester is author of several books and pamphlets as well as serving as chief administrator for the organization of 113 Presbyterian churches in southeast Michigan.

He will speak on "Something to be Excited About" during the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services and on "What Does It Really Mean to Believe" at the 7 p.m. vesper hour.

ST. KENNETH Catholic Church, 14951 Haggerty, Plymouth, will sponsor its first fall festival Sept. 20 to 22. Fun, food, rides, games, booths and prizes will be featured.

LAKE POINTE COMMUNITY Chapel, 42150 Schoolcraft, Plymouth, is beginning its Pioneer Girls program again Monday, Sept. 23 at 7 p.m. The program offers such activities as canoeing, hiking, field trips, roller skating and camping as well as weekly meetings for girls in the second through 12th grades.

ENERGY SAVER TIPS

The old adage "Waste not, want not," is very important in today's efforts to conserve energy. No one enjoys being cold. And no one enjoys having to pay unnecessary fuel bills. Here are some tips to help you keep warmer and at the same time cut down on fuel and power bills.

CHECK LIST FOR SAVING ENERGY.

1. Invest in storm doors and storm windows; they will pay for themselves in fuel savings.
2. Weatherstrip windows and doors.
3. Keep the thermostat under 68°.
4. Several layers of lightweight clothing will keep you warmer than one heavy item of clothing.
5. A thermo-type blanket between two sheets will keep you warm at night.
6. Insulate pipes to ensure efficient functioning of your heating system.
7. Put insulation in the attic floor; preventing heat loss through the ceiling.
8. Plan your cooking so that you don't have to keep things boiling, simmering, or "warming" for any length of time.
9. Don't let the water run when doing dishes, or any other type of clean up.
10. Turn radios and TV sets off when the audience leaves.
11. Keep the refrigerator light on when you open the door.
12. Don't run the dishwasher, if it isn't full.

In general, use appliances only when necessary, to ensure efficient use of power. Ask your Pro dealer if you have further questions about the installation and use of fuel saving materials.
