PLYMOUTH—The growing wave of unemployment is sweeping over the Plymouth-Canton area, with lines at the Plymouth office of the Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC) swelling with each passing week.

Claims for unemployment checks at the office, 987 S. Mill, serving the City of Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Canton Township, Northville and a portion of Livonia, have jumped 233 per cent for December of this year compared to last, according to office manager Louis Belanger.

About 5,000 persons, compared to about 1,500 last December, wait in long lines every other week to collect the green MESC checks, worth $16 to $106, Belanger said.

That's a lot for this office," he said.

"I don't know if we've ever had that many claims before. I imagine the increase in other areas is even greater. This is a small office with not too large a claim load."

Claims have surged 97 per cent since late October, when 2,540 area residents were collecting unemployment benefits, Belanger said. Although the number of claimants usually increases in November, when construction workers are idled for the winter, the nation's growing unemployment rate has played havoc with the local claims load.

Unemployment figures for individual municipalities were last compiled in October at the Detroit MESC office. Although those figures do not account for the latest rounds of lay offs, they show a greater percentage of local work forces unemployed in 1974 than in 1973.

The unemployment rate for the City of Plymouth, pegged at 6.9 per cent in October, shows 2.3 per cent more people out of work this October over October 1973, when 4.6 of the working force was unemployed. About 400 City of Plymouth residents were unemployed in October, as compared to 280 during the same month last year, while 5,300 residents were working in October, 100 fewer than the same time last year.

Plymouth Township's number of unemployed was up by 2.1 per cent from the October, 1973 figure of 4.1 per cent to the October, 1974 figure of 6.2 per cent. About 500 township residents were out of work this October, 175 more than in October 1973; and 7,425, or 100 fewer than last October remained employed.

SOME FANCY STRUTTIN' and five days in sunny Florida are awaiting these 180 members of the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park Marching Band. At 10 a.m. on Saturday they board a chartered plane for points south and along with 70 chaperones, will spend five days hopping from Orlando to Miami and Boca Raton, for performances at Disney World, the King Orange Jamboree Parade, and the Orange Bowl football game on New Year's Day. The bandmen can be seen on national television sometime between 8 p.m. and 9 p.m. on New Year's Eve (Channel 4) as they march in the New Year's Eve Orange Bowl parade. A segment of their performance will be repeated on the station's 11 p.m. news.

For Orange Bowl parade

CEP band prepares to go south

There always will be a special significance for a group of Plymouthites to the phrase "Delta Airlines Flight 8004," for this is the chartered 250-passenger DC-10 which will take the high school band and its chaperones to Florida Saturday on a five-day whirlwind of activities in connection with the 1975 Orange Bowl.

The 180 boys and girls from Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton High Schools who make up the nationally acclaimed Centennial Educational Park marching band, plus a sizable adult contingent, are scheduled to be airborne at 10 a.m. Saturday from Detroit Metropolitan Airport.

Two hours and 15 minutes later they will touch down at Orlando for the beginning of what for many may be a "once in a lifetime" experience.

They'll next see the snow, ice and slush of Plymouth at 4:15 a.m. Thursday, Jan. 2.

Highlights of their fast-moving schedule will include two performances at Disney World, participation in the King Orange Jamboree Parade in Miami on New Year's Eve and attendance at the Notre Dame-Alabama Orange Bowl football game on New Year's Day.

NBC will televise the New Year's Eve parade nationally, and it can be viewed in this area on Channel 4 (WWJ-TV).

As NBC's schedule currently stands, that portion of the parade which passes before the cameras between 8 and 9 p.m. Tuesday night, Dec. 31 will be beamed nationally. Plymouth's band is set up to step off from the starting line at 45 seconds after 8:35 and a repeat view is expected in Channel 4's 11 p.m. news.

BAND MASTER JAMES GRIFFITH has booked accommodations for the entire party until Monday morning at Orlando's Roadway Inn of America. This stay will be featured by the band's performances at nearby Disney World at 9 p.m. Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday.

On both days there will be several hours for bandmen to enjoy the many attractions at the world-famed park as guests of Disney World.

Departing Orlando after breakfast Monday, the group then will have a three-hour stop at the Kennedy Space Center for a comprehensive tour and lunch. The next stop, Mary Mount College at Boca Raton, will be the final "home away from home."

In addition to having access to the Atlantic Ocean beach, bandmen will have a swimming pool and tennis, basketball and volleyball courts at their disposal — as well as a rehearsal area.

In fact, Griffith has scheduled two full rehearsals Tuesday — at 8:30 and 1:30 — before the band dons its uniforms to depart for Miami late in the afternoon for the excitement of the climactic parade of several miles duration.

"Goal Line Blues," "Drums Right On," the triumphal march from the movie "Quo Vadis" and "Auld Lang Syne" will be among the numbers with which the Plymouth band will entertain the many thousands of viewers along the line of march.

EXPECTING TO RETURN to their Mary Mount College quarters by midnight, the bandmen will welcome in the new year with a pool party for which the college is providing hot dogs and soft drinks.

There will be a picnic lunch, also provided by the college, on the ocean beach early in the afternoon on New Year's Day, with dinner at the college at 5 p.m. Then the whole crowd will take off for the Orange Bowl and the Notre Dame-Alabama battle.

After that, it's on to Miami International Airport for the chartered flight home — trading a semi-tropical climate for Michigan winter and a chance to rest up before classes resume the morning of Monday, Jan. 6.

Not only will chaperones include a doctor and a registered nurse, but Plymouth may be the only visiting Orange Bowl delegation to bring along its own built-in security officer: Police Chief Timothy Ford who, with his wife, take pride in a sophomore clarinetist, Meaghan Ford, their daughter.

IN ADDITION TO Griffith and his family, as well as the Fords, other chaperones include:

Dr. and Mrs. Dan Chatterley, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Muenshow, Mr. and Mrs. Carleton Savage, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Owens, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Pietrzak.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Drifmeyer, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Scruggs, Mr. and Mrs. Russ Maxwell, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ardanowski, Mr. and Mrs. William Baxter.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Wandrey, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Bassett, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Peterson, Mrs. Jane Diekmann, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Krause.

Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Foster, Mr. and Mrs. David Millrose, Mr. and Mrs. William Abney, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Webber, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Heskett.

Miss Michelle Rick, Miss Mary Klearn, Miss Kitty Tillotson, Mr. and Mrs. Tim Ford, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Nichols, Mr. and Mrs. George Alver, Mr. and Mrs. Ian Gailbraith.

Mrs. Virginia Gibson, Mr. and Mrs. Gladden, Mr. and Mrs. Paul LaPlae, Dennis McVittie, Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt Mills, Mr. and Mrs. Mac Pierce.

Mrs. Josephine Reid, Mr. and Mrs. Bluford Sloan, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stone, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Monroe, Robert Burr, Joe Collins.

ADULTS ALL are paying their own expenses throughout the trip, including airline fare, meals, accommodations, inter-connecting transportation, Orange Bowl football tickets and all incidentals.

Student expenses of about $225 per person have been guaranteed by parents, and no portion of the trip will be paid for by tax funds — not even the cost of buses to take the bandmen to the airport and back.

Fund-raising activities by the students themselves through odd jobs and the sale of band decals, plus volunteer contributions from business and industrial firms interested in attracting attention to Plymouth, will offset part of that cost. Dennis Golbesky, controller of the Howmet Corp., 41605 Ann Arbor Rd., is chairman of that committee and is still accepting contributions.

Students might join board talks

PLYMOUTH—Students in the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park may soon find inroads to the Plymouth School Board table through which they can voice opinions and ideas.

The school board Monday unanimously approved the concept of student representation at school board meetings to receive student ideas on policies that will affect them.

Students and the district's administration will meet to form channels between the two groups. The plan will be subject to school board approval.

The board approved the concept in response to a Student Senate request to form a student advisory committee, composed of five students from the Centennial Educational Park. That committee, the students proposed, would voice opinions to the school board, and three members would hold non-voting seats at the school board table.

In adopting the concept, the board did not approve the student plan as submitted.

Crisis at St. Mary Hospital as malpractice premiums soar

By EMORY DANIELS

Rising premiums for medical malpractice insurance are nearing crisis proportions at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia.

Premiums charged to the hospital itself for malpractice insurance will be 300 per cent higher in 1975 than this year. Increases in insurance premiums charged to individual doctors, however, are an even more serious problem.

Anesthesiologists on the St. Mary staff are facing a premium increase of 120 per cent in February. In dollars, this means an annual premium paid personally by each anesthesiologist of $19,000 instead of the $13,000 paid this year.

Other doctors on the staff are being hit even harder. Some cannot get malpractice insurance at all while others are paying an annual premium of $40,000 to get a policy from Lloyd's of London.

DR. DIETER ROHL, head of the anesthesia department at St. Mary, says obtaining malpractice insurance is a "fantastic problem."

Doctors and anesthesiologists don't want to practice without malpractice insurance, he said. "That would be unfair to the patient who would be left with no protection in case of a mishap." At the same time, however, few can afford premiums skyrocketing to $20,000-$40,000 per year.

Rohl says Blue Cross has been asked to approve an increase in the fees it insures to absorb this added overhead of malpractice insurance. He believes Blue Cross approval is unlikely but is continuing to ask for this alternative.

Another option would be to pass the added cost directly to the patient. It would add an average of $30 to the bill of each person undergoing surgery. "This would be a burden on patients we don't want to impose. But it's a tremendous economic difficulty."

ANOTHER ALTERNATIVE the six anesthesiologists on St. Mary's staff are considering is to quit en masse and accept jobs in hospitals in the south where malpractice insurance rates are less expensive.

"We feel a deep obligation to the community. We don't want to quit and walk out on our patients and surgical colleagues. But we are definitely thinking of leaving if other alternatives don't work out."

A doctor at St. Mary told the Observer & Eccentric that contacts are now being made with hospitals in the south to see if jobs can be obtained.

DR. ROHL personally hopes another solution can be found so the anesthesiologists can remain in the Livonia hospital on Levan just south of Five Mile.

"We have contacted all insurance carriers trying to find a less expensive premium and are working with the malpractice crisis committee. We are also working with the Legislature. But these steps take time, and we are facing a 120 per cent increase in premiums within two months."

Although the hospital has malpractice insurance, each doctor must obtain his own policy because a plaintiff most often will sue both the hospital and the individual practitioner. Blue Cross will absorb the hospital's increased premium cost in its fees, Rohl explains, but so far is reluctant to do the same for practitioners.

The anesthesiologists will definitely stay on staff through January in hopes that a solution can be found. Although quitting has a low priority on the alternative list, it could happen if a solution isn't found.

ACCORDING TO the Physicians Crisis Committee, one-year premiums for some anesthesiologists have been increased to $28,500.

A growing number of neurosurgeons and orthopedic surgeons, the committee reports, are being denied professional insurance at any price because they practice in high risk specialties.

One reason the committee gives for the increase in malpractice insurance rates is that many negligence lawyers seeking to replace income for lost fees from no-fault auto insurance are shifting to the medical malpractice field for revenue.

The committee states doctors may soon face three choices, all of which are unacceptable: move their practice to a lower risk rural area; change their specialty to a lower risk sector of the profession; or subject their property — and the futures of their families — to the unpredictability of the judicial system.

National studies indicate that out of the premium dollar paid by doctors for malpractice insurance, the injured patient gets about 25 per cent, lawyers get about 50 per cent, and insurance companies capture the remainder.

The Physicians Crisis Committee, consisting of physicians in specialized fields of medicine, was organized in Michigan last July.

The highest risk categories in the medical field are: neurosurgeons, anesthesiologists, orthopedists, obstetricians-gynecologists, otolaryngologists-plastic surgery, and plastic surgeons.

Courses Free to seniors

Madonna College will offer three courses free to senior citizens during the winter term.

Persons, 65 and older, may enroll for nutrition, oil painting and lapidary which includes jewelry making, for the cost of the materials and the $2 parking fee. The courses are part of the college program to assist the aging.

Nutrition and lapidary are scheduled for Wednesdays beginning Jan. 8 at 7 p.m. Oil painting will meet Thursdays beginning Jan. 9 at 10 a.m. Registration will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Dec. 26, 27, 30, 31 and Jan. 1.

Water safety courses slated

Water safety instructor courses have been scheduled by the American Red Cross at high schools in Livonia and Westland.

The course conducted by Red Cross Safety Programs will be from 7-10 p.m. each Tuesday, beginning Jan. 28 and continuing to April 22, in John Glenn High at 36105 Marquette in Westland.

The same course will be from 7-10 p.m. each Monday, from Jan. 13 to March 17, in Livonia Bentley High at 15100 Hubbard.

To be eligible to enroll, persons must be at least 17 years old and hold a current Red Cross Senior Lifesaving Certificate. Upon completion of the course, newly certified instructors qualify as lifeguards and as teachers in the basics of water safety.

Registration is limited.

Holiday cheer is a hazard

One of the most hazardous times of the year for traffic accidents in the metropolitan Detroit area is the week between Christmas and New Years.

Garnet M. Griffin, president of the Traffic Safety Association of Detroit, says: "Almost every year our holiday season is spoiled by senseless accidents that take the lives of many of our residents. What would have been a happy time around the Christmas tree turns into a time of sorrow and remorse."

The chief reason for this, Griffin said, is too many persons don't use their heads while they drink.

"They drink too much and then try to drive. Perhaps, they are unaccustomed to drinking and, in the holiday mood, have one drink too many. Too often this leads to an accident."

Detroit Traffic Court judges and police have issued stern warnings against the driver who drinks too much and then drives. Police have been directed to be on the alert for such drivers.

Judges have stated they will give stiff sentences to drivers who are convicted of drinking and driving related offenses.

The Association's advice for all drivers is "Use your Head—Stay Sober."

Electronic music slips into the classroom

By DARLENE STINSON

grade classes who are studying electronic music, but the sixth graders, whose music class meets between the seventh grade classes, were offered the treat as well. (Staff photo by Bob Woodring)

PLYMOUTH—"Wow!" "Gosh!" "Cool!" "Oh, listen!" the students whispered and giggled during Laura Wallace's music class at Central Middle School.

"It sounds like a frog," one student said, and another added, "Boy, I'm going to buy one of those when I get older."

The oohs and aahs were directed toward an Arp synthesizer, producing a rainbow of electronic tones and sounds in the front of the room.

Ms. Wallace offered the sonic treat to her two seventh grade music classes as a finale to a unit on electronic music. The students had studied electronic music through tape recorders, and the synthesizer demonstration added a realistic, first-hand touch to the course.

JOHN WILLIAMS, a salesman at Arnold Williams Music Store in Canton Township who volunteered to present the demonstration, pulled a lever here, connected a wire there and hammered at the keyboard, bringing forth the woody sound of oboes, the reedy sound of clarinets and the rat-tat-tat of drums.

Williams pointed to the maze of levers and knobs located above the keyboard.

A synthesizer like this one is basically made up of a bunch of modules," Williams told the students. "Each one has its own purpose. Depending on how we hook up these different modules, we get different sounds."

A small electronic screen next to the synthesizer depicts sound waves in pictorial form, Williams explained as he transformed the green lines from waves to dashes to wiggly zig-zag figures. Different wave patterns are characteristic of various types of musical instruments and sounds.

"It's all these subtle differences that allow you to get any type of sound you want," said Williams as he produced the mellow sound of a "triangular" wave pattern.

THE ROAR of an ocean, the rustling of the wind and the surreal gonging of bells next filled the room.

"These things might sound stupid to you," Williams told the students, "but they're really very useful. There are a lot of songs being written that use them, because they don't have a melody line as such. Synthesizers were not really made to duplicate other sounds, but to create new sounds and tone colors."

Williams pulled out another electronic unit, hooked it to the synthesizer and hammered out a melody on the synthesizer's keyboard. The unit played back a modified version of the melody, as Williams pulled and adjusted levers.

"While that's going, you can go over to the piano or something and play along with it," he explained. "That's what performers do."

One student asked for the sound of a piano, another asked for an echo, and a third called for the sound of a motorcycle accident.

"YOU COULD get these sounds," Williams told the students, "but it would take a long time. It takes a long time to get certain sounds and other sounds are easy."

One student asked if the synthesizer could produce the sound of a human voice.

Williams swung around and began, tampering with the machine.

"I've had it say, 'oh, boy' and man," he said, "but it takes a long time to get it to say that. Once you know what the knobs do, then it's your own experimentation. You think of a sound, and you try to create it."

Ms. Wallace called the demonstration a success. The seventh graders, who are studying electronic music, were well prepared for the demonstration.

"I have one student in this last class who's not very motivated," Ms. Wallace said. "He insists he never learns anything. He was looking at the synthesizer after class, and I asked him if he learned anything today. He said yes."

Students said they were impressed.

"It's pretty peculiar," seventh grader Dwayne Bundy said of the synthesizer. "It can make pretty neat sounds. I wish I had one. I'd sit up in my room and make motorcycle sounds. I love motorcycles."

KATHY Davenport, another seventh grader, added, "I never really heard anything like it before. I'd like to get one sometime when I get older. I wasn't expecting it to be like that."

Seventh grader Debbie Thompson shook her head in agreement.

"I thought it looked like fun," she said. "Golly, I'd like to do it. I'd like it a lot."

Mom and Dad might turn down requests for synthesizers this Christmas, however. The price tag of the unit shown to the classes reads $3,000.

Board approves British program for teachers

PLYMOUTH—Teachers in Plymouth Community School District this June may have the opportunity to learn alternative teaching techniques, many of which are used in Europe, in an inservice teacher training center here.

Members of the Plymouth school board Monday unanimously gave their commitment to the program to the two English educators who will run the center.

The Novi and Northville school boards have voiced interest in the center but have not yet committed themselves to it.

School Supt. John Hoben said the English educators, who have successfully conducted a similar program in a North Dakota school district, will meet with school board members in February or March to iron out details of the program, scheduled to run from July 1974, to June 1975.

Under the program, teachers may attend sessions at a drop-in center, open from about 3 p.m. to 9 p.m. each weekday, where they will learn various teaching techniques. Hoben said teacher attendance at the sessions will be voluntary.

Cost of the program to the Plymouth School District will be about $40,000, if the Novi and Northville school districts fail to participate, Hoben said. To help defray costs of running the center and the salaries of the two educators and a secretary, Plymouth could sponsor teaching seminars and charge other districts for their teachers' attendance.

Total cost of the program, Hoben said, will hit close to the $70,000 mark. The Wayne County Intermediate School District, however, has volunteered to loan materials for the center, which account for about $8,000 of the total cost, and other Intermediate School District and federal funds are available.

Hoben told board members that a commitment to the program is needed in order that the English educators can commit themselves to the district for the upcoming year.

Before voting for commitment, board Treasurer Thomas Yack noted the Plymouth Education Association (PEA) has not firmly committed itself.

"I share your enthusiasm of the program," Yack told other board members. "However, a commitment tonight means we're taking on $40,000 without a real commitment from our teaching staff. I'm wondering why the hesitation of a firm commitment on the part of the PEA. I have a pet hang-up that educational associations lack commitments, and this is only another example."

Trustee George Lawton disagreed and moved that the board commit itself to the program.

"In every employer-employee relationship," he said, "there's always the hope that the employer will go along with the employee."

Norman Kee, administrative assistant for personnel, noted the program is not a negotiable item.

Canton loses in Washington

By RICHARD GOLD

CANTON—The township now has its own man in Washington, or at least it did two weeks ago. Trustee Robert Myers went to the nation's capital earlier this month and did some investigating, both for himself and the township.

Myers is president of the Michigan Mobile Homeowners Association, and he went to Washington to discuss the formation of a national mobile homeowners advisory council.

The purpose of the council will be to promulgate construction standards, implement those standards and provide for testing. They will supercede state standards.

"This has a great effect for Canton because there are more than 1600 mobile homes in the township. Right now they are firetraps."

MYERS ALSO WENT to Washington to find out about funding for several of the township administration's new projects. He brought back both good and bad news. He checked on several items, the most important being the Canton Consumer Protection Council, the township Bicentennial Commission, and the feasibility of getting funds from the Law Enforcement Assistance Agency.

He also checked the possibility of getting a post office for Canton residents. Canton mail is delivered from the Belleville post office for residents who live in the southern portion of the township, while those who live in the northern get the mail via Plymouth post office.

Myers said it's going to stay that way. "The post office is cutting back, not expanding. Even though we meet the criteria for having our own post office, funds just aren't available."

The bad news continues as far as the possibility of getting federal money for the Canton consumer agency. "There just aren't funds available," says the trustee, "but at least we'll have the cooperation of federal agencies."

Myers talked to Carol Tucker, head of the Consumers Federation of America, and her group is willing to lend support in the form of advice and publications. Even though money is not available at the federal level, Myers is nonetheless optimistic about the township's consumer agency.

"We should have the council operational by the end of January. Right now we have four volunteers and I think one more will do it." He sees several functions for the council including education, arbitration and, if necessary, to provide legal assistance if court action should be required.

"We'll try and arbitrate first," he says, "and if that doesn't work, we have an attorney who is willing to donate his services. Pete Budnik. But we'd like to avoid litigation if possible."

Myers is also pleased that several other agencies have offered a helping hand. "We'll have advice from Wayne County, Washtenaw County, the City of Detroit, the state, and the Michigan attorney general's office. I don't think we will have any problems getting professional input."

THE OUTLOOK for getting law enforcement funds is less rosy, according to the township trustee. "I went to the LEAA and found that they will only match funds with the local governmental unit. Not only that, but you have to have a police force to get any money at all. Right now Wayne County gets $7 million in LEAA funds and Canton has yet to see one penny."

The money is distributed by the state to the counties, who then distribute it to the local police agencies, correctional institutions and courts. Last year Michigan received $25 million of federal money.

Myers sees three options open to the township to get a piece of the LEAA pie. The township can: form its own police force; form a police force with several other nearby townships; or contract for more service from the county and ask for LEAA funds that way.

According to Myers, the last two alternatives are the most plausible. Robert Heck, divisional leader for police under the LEAA, says Canton should have at least 15 officers on the street. Now the township shares two cars from the county road patrol with six other townships.

THE BEST NEWS of Myers' trip concerned the township bicentennial committee, directed by Joseph De Lauro. "I found that each state gets $200,000 for bicentennial use. When I got back, I called Howard Lancore in Lansing who is director of Michigan's Bicentennial effort and found we are still eligible for funds. We'll have to match anything they give us on 50-50 basis, but at least we can get money from the state."

Any projects Canton's Bicentennial Committee undertakes will be the responsibility of De Lauro, explains Myers. "It's up to Joe and his committee to decide what to do and what direction they want to take the township in."

Temporary zoning measures adopted

By RICHARD GOLD

CANTON—"We're trying to make sure the boat doesn't sink before it's built," explains township Supervisor Robert Greenstein.

The "boat" is the new master land use plan currently being written, and the way to prevent it from sinking, says township planner Mike Manore, "is to implement interim zoning ordinance amendments that will uphold the intent of the new plan."

Although the master land use plan is not finished, the township board, the planner, and the planning commission have enough of a "feel" for what the final product will be that they have designed changes in the zoning ordinance that they want to institute immediately. "That way we will avoid any building or development that will contradict the new plan," says Manore.

On Jan. 21, there will be a public hearing on the proposed interim zoning changes, and in all likelihood, four areas will be open for discussion.

ACCORDING TO MANORE, the four areas will be: a sign section so that "Ford Road doesn't become a garrison strip;" a revision of the extensive business zone section (C-3); a section on multiple housing requirements; and a "schedule of regulations" that will effect changes in lot size, building height, placement of buildings etc.

The most significant proposed change is in the section entitled "schedule of regulations." According to the interim zoning ordinance, there will be a moratorium on planned unit developments (PUDs). PUDs have been central to several of the new housing developments in the township and Manore says the current administration's attitude toward multiples is responsible for the change.

"I don't think we will 'can' the PUDs entirely," says Manore, "but there will be several changes in the specifics that will alter their makeup in the future." He foresees fewer commercially zoned areas and a significant reduction in multiples in each PUD of the future.

The future of the PUD, however, will be entirely dependent on the final draft of the new master land use plan, and ordinances concerning PUDs will be fashioned from the land use document.

The other proposed zoning changes are not as important. One concerns the location, type, size, and number of signs on commercial property. It is intended to prevent Ford Road and other major commercial areas from becoming "a neon infested strip."

IN THE SECTION on extensive business zones, changes will deal with the placement of restaurants in shopping centers and office buildings.

"Presently, our ordinance is kind of hazy, and it's not clear what kind of restaurants can be placed where," says Manore. "We want to make sure that restaurants can be built in shopping centers. Under the old ordinance it was prohibited, and we want to change that."

The other ordinance change will concern multiple housing. "We want to provide some design criteria for the developers. They will be more restrictive in nature and will deal with dual access into the developments, apartment size, and distance from the roads," says Manore.

Manore explains that some changes will be for traffic and fire safety reasons while some alterations will provide grounds to reject multiples.

SIGNS LIKE these may no longer dot the side of the road throughout Canton Township if the proposed interim zoning

MANORE SAYS the interim measures should be "passed as soon as possible." He explains, "I've been working on the zoning ordinance for the new master land use plan for the last eight or nine months, but the new administration feels that some stop gap measures should be implemented immediately."

Some "interim measures" may become permanent features of the new zoning ordinance, according to the planner. He feels several immediate changes may suit the master land use plan closely enough to remain in the final draft of the overhauled document.

"The final draft of the complete zoning ordinance will have changes primarily in the areas of density, lot size, and multiple housing," says Manore.

measures are accepted by the people and the township board next month.

Canton Township, where the unemployment rate rose from 3.9 per cent in October 1973 to 5.8 per cent in October 1974. About 300 residents, 120 more than last year, were unemployed in October, and 4,700, about 80 less than last year, were working.

Although the Plymouth MESC office is issuing a record number of unemployment checks each week, the office, which combines the MESC claims and employment divisions under one roof, is finding fewer jobs for claimants, according to Belanger.

Over the last several years the office has found an average of 40 to 45 jobs each month for unemployed claimants, Belanger said. That figure dropped to 20 jobs in November and, up to last week, 10 in December.

The office has hired two additional employees since November because of the heavy claim load, Belanger said, and more employees are needed.

*Benefits for the unemployed range from $16 to $106 a week, Belanger said. Claimants with no dependents must have earned at least $25.01 per week on their jobs to receive an unemployment check of $16 each week.

Depending on salaries earned while working, claimants with no dependents earn a maximum unemployment check of $67 each week, claimants with one dependent receive $77, claimants with two dependents receive $89, claimants with three dependents receive $98, and claimants with four dependents receive $106.

"For those who have no SUB (supplemental unemployment) benefits, that's not very much," Belanger said. "There are a lot of SUB programs around though, not just from the Big 3."

cause there's a symbolism involved here," said school board trustee Gary Mirto. "There's a symbol of formal representation that people can point to and say student government is recognized. I think from an educational point of view, it invites student representatives and their constituents to take a closer look at the board."

Trustees Carl Berry and George Lawton feared approval of the concept would establish a precedent under which other organizations would desire representation at the board table.

"If we provide the students with seats," Lawton said, "it would seem to me that we'd have to grant any reasonable request for the same thing. My question would be on what grounds would you deny them, if you grant this precedent?"

Mirto answered, "We'll get requests, no doubt, but we can examine each one of them."

GM's economic impact still strong in suburbs

General Motors operations in Livonia had a $215.8 million impact on the local economy this year.

Plant managers have included in a year-end statement purchases of goods and services from local suppliers and employee payrolls.

Those reporting were: Bernard J. Kearney, manager of the Chevrolet plant and chairman of the GM Livonia Plant City committee; F. Harger Green, manager of the Fisher Body plant; Dick T. French, manager of the GM Parts Division Parts Distribution Center; and Roger J. Browne, superintendent of the Cadillac Machining Division plant.

They said purchases from 1,605 local suppliers amounted to more than $123 million this year. Employee earnings were $92.6 million compared to payrolls of $116.9 million in 1973. The lower payroll figure was primarily the result of reduced production schedules.

THE IMPACT of the lowered production schedules was cushioned by various benefits paid either directly or indirectly by the company.

Through November, an estimated $10 million was paid to affected Livonia GM employees as unemployment compensation and supplemental unemployment benefits.

Eligible employees affected by the layoffs continued to have GM life insurance, hospitalization and prescription drug expenses covered for up to one year.

GM employees in Livonia invested $3 million in U.S. Savings Bonds through payroll deduction, slightly less than the previous year.

THE MORE THAN 1,400 employees who offered ideas to improve products and operations during the past year were awarded a total of $196,755.

The Awards for Excellence in Community Activities were sponsored by all Livonia GM plants this year. Among the employees honored was Angela Corrieri, a five-year employee of Chevrolet who won the gold medal award for her work with the physically handicapped.

DURING 1974, the Chevrolet plant, 13000 Eckles, dedicated its new administration office, the 10th expansion of the original plant since construction in 1954. The plant produces springs and bumpers primarily for Chevrolet passenger cars and trucks as well as leaf springs and other parts for other GM divisions.

The Fisher Body plant, 28400 Plymouth Road, manufactured produced and shipped 45,355 tons of interior trim sets for GM passenger cars.

The GM Parts Division, 36667 Schoolcraft, distributes parts and accessories to GM car and truck dealers in parts of Ohio New York and Pennsylvania.

The Cadillac plant, 12200 Middle Belt machines engine components for assembly in Cadillac's Detroit plant and another in Linden, N.J.

Speaking on behalf of the local managers, Kearney, who became plant manager at the Chevrolet-Livonia plant Nov. 1, said: "I'm confident that the General Motors facilities will continue to emphasize quality in the manufacture of our various products and the facilities will maintain its position as a good industrial citizen in the community."

CONTINUING IN HER winning ways, Whit-morr Mademoisell, owned by Sid and Sahron Wells of Canton, has received two awards recently for her undefeated show record for 1974. The two-year-old Michigan-bred Morgan mare was named high point halter mare by the

New arrivals at the library

Frank G. Ashbrook, "BUTCHING, PROCESSING AND PRESERVATION OF MEAT." The author states in his preface that his book is intended for the family "to help solve the meat problem and augment the food supply." It is detailed and complete enough to be helpful to those who require in-depth information, also.

All phases of the preparation of meat and meat products, including slaughtering and dressing fresh and seasoned meat, cutting the carcass, refrigeration, curing, smoking (including specifications for building a smoke house) and canning, together with the home tanning of hides and pelts are discussed.

Len Deighton, "SPY STORY." A U.S. nuclear submarine returns from a 43-day cruise to eavesdrop on the Soviet Undersea Warfare Command. Trouble signs appear after disembarkation, when the unsuspecting ex-spy's car breaks down conveniently close to his old flat, which he breaks into to telephone for help.

He discovers himself duplicated there: the same clothes, china and glassware, the same record collection and photographs. And so he is propelled into a conspiracy of East-West power politics.

Marvin and Bernard Kalb, "KISSINGER." The Brothers Kalb have spent years studying and traveling with the "Secretary of the World." They know the public Kissinger and the private Kissinger. They look at the myth and the reality, they dig into his past to trace his history, examine the method and meaning of his foreign policy maneuvers.

They give intimate details of his one-to-one conferences with heads of state, skirmishes with his colleagues, and his unique linkage with Richard Nixon.

Adele Faber and Elaine Mazlish, "LIBERATED PARENTS LIBERATED CHILDREN." Guided by the late Dr. Haim Ginott, a group of parents use his method of communicating to improve relationships with their children. The authors describe how "a language of compassion" can be substituted effectively for "a language of rejection."

Ladislav Farago, "AFTERMATH - Martin Bormann and the Fourth Reich." The book reveals the author's hunt for Martin Bormann and recounts the documents, discoveries, adventures and revelations that led to his personal confrontation with Bormann himself.

Revealed are the facts of the conspiracy that led the Nazi fugitives to South America and still protects them there, and the incredible details of their life in the New World they have transformed into a "Fourth Reich."

Louis L'Amour, "SACKETT'S LAND." Author L'Amour has assigned himself a task. He decided to tell the story of the American frontier through the eyes of three families—fictional families, but with true and factual experiences.

Story by story, generation by generation, these families will move westward, and when their journeys are ended and his forty-odd books are completed, he hopes to have given the reader a true sense of what happened on the American frontier.

Nicotine, opium may affect unborn

Nicotine and opium could affect fetal development, says a Michigan State University pharmacologist.

Dr. Frank Welsch with support from the National Institute of Health, is studying acetylcholine (Ach.), a compound important for transmission of certain kinds of nervous impulses through the brain and body.

Without Ach., your mouth wouldn't water at the sight of a steak.

"Scientists have already shown that Ach. release in neural tissue can be affected by nicotine and opium," says Dr. Welsch.

The same may be true in the placenta, which may affect the weight of the newborn child.

Ach. is found in high concentrations in the human placenta, but nobody really knows what it is doing there. There are no nerves in the placenta.

Dr. Welsch believes that Ach. may be important for the transfer and active transport of food, waste products and ions across the walls of the placenta, between maternal and fetal blood streams.

Traditionally, scientists believe that most such movements were passive processes, materials simply diffusing across the membranes with no energy expenditure by the living tissue.

When Ach. functions as a neural transmitter, Dr. Welsch explained, it actively changes the properties of the membranes of nerve cells, increasing their permeability to sodium.

"Ach. may have a similar role in the placenta," he speculated.

His studies show that Ach. levels change with the growth stage of the fetus, peaking at about the end of the sixth month and then declining slowly until birth.

These changes may be somehow related to changing demands of the maturing fetus.

New field may open to upcoming educators

The answer to the nationwide teacher surplus may lie in a new and expanding field called "non-school education."

If the phrase seems to contradict itself, consider institutions conducting educational programs such as museums, corporations, social service agencies and public television.

Under a three-year grant from the Chicago-based Spencer Foundation, the University of Michigan School of Education has begun exploring ways to staff and service these programs, according to Larry C. Coppard, special assistant to the dean.

COPPARD foresees an increasing need for versatile, broadly trained educators who can work in a variety of educational settings. He has been conferring with representatives from recreation centers, voluntary organizations, health agencies and industrial firms.

"The response has been excellent," he said. "The groups have expressed considerable interest in making use of U-M's resources, particularly in technical areas."

"The person who is conducting a corporate training program, for example, or designing a participatory museum exhibit may have considerable expertise in his subject matter. But he would like to know more about how to teach it."

THUS COPPARD is concentrating on special educational methods better suited to non-school education and types of instruction which could be developed to support non-school educators. This could include educational application of cable television or urban gaming simulation for school and community programs.

Coppard stresses that his project is currently one of "market research"—to measure the need for trained non-school educators and the receptiveness of the institutions who use them.

But his efforts thus far indicate that "within this decade, the U-M may find it advantageous to offer such a program, and that its graduates will find a challenging and diversified career field awaiting them."

ACCORDING to the Commission on Non-Traditional Study, more than three-fourths of all American adults are interested in acquiring new learning.

"The increase in non-school educational programs suggests that many people are seeking learning opportunities without becoming 'students' in the conventional sense," adds Coppard.

"Schools of education throughout the country have been under attack for 'over-production' of teachers, and virtually all of them are facing the problem of declining enrollment. We see this period as an excellent opportunity to explore and develop new educational capacities."

Jan. 1 new deadline

A new registration cycle begins Jan. 1 for snowmobile operators in Michigan. All snowmobiles must be re-registered by this date.

Registration may be done by either taking the prepared form mailed by the Secretary of State to a local Secretary of State's office or by taking the old registration form and filling out a new one at the office.

Beginning Jan. 1, registration will be for a three-year period and will cost $9.

Following registration, the official number must be placed on the forward half of the machine followed by the issued decal. The certificate of registration must also accompany the snowmobile while being operated and be available for inspection by any peace officer.

The only snowmobiles not required to be registered are those which are operated exclusively on lands owned or under the control of the snowmobile owner, snowmobiles operated exclusively in a special event conducted under permit from a governmental unit, or those used entirely in a safety education and training program conducted by a certified snowmobile safety instructor.

1974 deer season safer than last year

Preliminary hunting accident figures for the 1974 firearm deer season indicate only six firearm fatalities and 44 non-fatal accidents occurred.

This is a reduction from the 1973 deer season when 12 fatal and 48 non-fatal firearm accidents occurred, according to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

DNR officials estimate 650,000 hunters were afield during the Nov. 15-30 season. The actual number won't be known until all license receipts are in from dealers.

"We are pleased to see a reduction in hunting accidents," says Frank Opolka, law enforcement division executive. "However, we are looking forward to a year when there are no fatal accidents."

Opolka feels the reduction of firearm accidents can be partially attributed to Michigan's mandatory hunter safety program, in effect since 1971.

The program has reached almost one-half million youngsters between age 12-16.

"This program will continually be updated and expanded to meet the needs of hunters," Opolka concluded. "We hope it will improve hunter ethics and relationships between hunters and private landowners."

What transit hearing may have accomplished

Did we accomplish anything?

Staff members from the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) said last week's meeting with local officials and people at Schoolcraft College was one of the two best they've held on their proposed 1990 public transportation plan.

That's pretty high praise, because they've been all over the six-county region except for Washtenaw County. They found folks from northwestern Wayne County knowledgeable about regional planning. The tone of the meeting was neighborly. SEMCOG staff people haven't always had neighborly treatment everywhere they've gone.

They got to see Schoolcraft College—a new experience for most, because few SEMCOG staffers live out this way—and were impressed by President C. Nelson Grote's operation.

Forty persons not directly connected with regional planning turned out. Sen. Carl Pursell, college Trustee Arch Vallier and I were a little disappointed, but that number was larger than some entire counties fielded.

Tim Richard writes

MOST IMPRESSIVE was the job figure presentation by Livonia's Mayor Ed McNamara, with the spade-work of industrial coordinator Dan Gil-martin.

They reported the job total in Livonia alone would soon push 40,000, with three-fourths of those coming from outside the city. They had it broken down by industrial jobs (mostly in the "golden mile" between Schoolcraft and Plymouth roads) and business-commercial jobs.

Most importantly, McNamara noted that three-fourths of the non-residents came from the east, 22 per cent from the south and just a relative handful from north and west of Livonia.

It was a powerful case for SEMCOG to re-designate the Schoolcraft Road corridor as a high-level rapid transit line in its 1990 plan.

As it is, we're scheduled for some sort of express bus service. It might be on an exclusive lane along the Jeffries Freeway—if the good ol' highway department decides to build such a lane.

THE CASE for rapid transit would have been stronger if Plymouth and Redford Townships had backed it to the hilt.

Beverly McAninch, mayor of the City of Plymouth, and Dick Wernette, a former mayor, with others, made good cases in logic, but the townships of Plymouth and Redford sent no official spokespersons.

That was indeed unfortunate. Those two townships have lots of factory jobs in the golden mile, but they never got up on their hind legs and spelled it out. That hurt.

Nor was there any participation from industry, chambers of commerce and organized labor. Those worthy institutions took part, albeit weakly, in the state transportation bond issue on the Nov. 5 ballot.

But at last week's hearing, local government—specifically cities—and interested citizens carried the ball.

WHAT WILL happen? It's hard to say. Certainly, if SEMCOG planners change their minds about the Schoolcraft corridor transit designation, they're not going to say so on the spot.

The plan must be approved by the Council on Regional Development (CORD) whose chairman, Mayor David Shepherd of Oak Park, was a highly interested spectator at the hearing. Other CORD members include the aforementioned Mayor McAninch and Mrs. Barbara LaRue of Livonia.

Other hurdles are SEMCOG's executive committee and general assembly.

Win or lose, northwestern Wayne County people got a fair hearing and put themselves on the map. And the regional planners really did listen, even if they didn't give us the satisfaction of a yes or no answer right away. It was a noble effort at two-way communication.

Some yule packages for all of us

This post-Christmas column is devoted to opening up a few goodies of local importance which might have been overlooked amid all of yesterday's presents.

The first package is labeled "Cheer Up Auto Industry," and the card on the box says "A Special Gift for Detroit Suburbs."

What's inside is a real silver lining for the dark cloud presently sitting over countless auto executives' homes in the suburbs.

Times may be lousy just now for the auto industry, but it is becoming increasingly clear that good times — real good times — sure are a-comin'.

CONSIDER. Almost certainly we're going to have a tax on gas pretty soon next year, and probably a separate tax on car weight and horsepower. In addition, the auto industry is just now in the middle of re-designing nearly everything to get improved gas mileage and other economies.

And further, Congress probably will take some of the environmental restrictions off the auto makers, thus simplifying design and eliminating expensive modifications.

All that means is that of the 90 million-odd cars that are presently on the road, nearly all will be obsolete by late 1975 or 1976. Which means that the auto industry will have a fantastic selling opportunity over the next couple of years.

THE SECOND package is flat and round, like a record. Indeed, it is a record — a broken one.

The label reads "We're All Working Hard To Diversify Michigan's Economy," a fox trot, originally cut in the 1950s, re-issued this year with Gov. Milliken on vibes.

The time has come for some real leadership in place of lip service from Lansing on diversification in our state.

Michigan's economy is very heavily involved in what the economists call durable goods — e.g., cars. The problem with durable goods is that their purchase can be postponed in ways which non-durable goods (food, soap, etc.) cannot. This means that when the nation's economy slips a bit, Michigan's goes into a full recession.

Maybe with our unemployment rate leading the nation and the state's economy tipping into a depression, there will be some stimulus on the Executive Office to get cracking on a diversification program.

THE LAST present is a square box. When opened, out snaps a boxing glove on a spring. On the glove are the words "Teacher Strikes."

Here, too, the absurd events of the past several months may have made enough parents sore enough to put adequate pressure on the Legislature to clean up a silly situation.

State law presently allows public employees collective bargaining rights, but outlaws strikes. It is logically absurd to allow collective bargaining without the right to strike, unless other provisions — such as last offer binding arbitration — are made for resolving impasses at the bargaining table.

Local state legislators, especially William Keith (a former school board member) who represents Garden City, should be in the vanguard pressing for reform in this area when the new Legislature meets next month.

If all these presents actually turn out to be there after the wrapping is taken off, it will have been a very Merry Christmas after all.

Eccentricities

by HANK HOGAN

A bad scheme

A few weeks ago, I wrote about the oil cargo hauling bill that has passed both houses of Congress, is now in conference committee and will shortly be sent to the president for his signature or veto.

This bill raises one of the most complex areas of government today because it involves conflicts of interest resulting from campaign contributions, inflationary pressure on oil prices, increased federal deficits due to the subsidizing of the construction of new ships, and an example of how federal regulations increase the cost of products to the American consumer.

THE BILL IS CALLED the Energy Transportation Security Act of 1974.

It would require that 20 per cent of all oil imported into the United States be hauled in United States — built tankers which have United States crews. The requirement would raise to 30 per cent by 1977. Currently only about six per cent of our imported oil is transported by United States vessels.

There aren't enough U.S. tankers around to meet the requirements so more ships will have to be built, and the federal government subsidizes 37 per cent of the cost of new construction of ships so that American shipyards can be competitive with foreign shipyards.

After the ships are built, U.S. crews to run them are paid about twice as much as foreign crews.

As a result, there will be higher prices for the transportation of gasoline and other petroleum products, which will raise the cost of a barrel of oil somewhere between 12.5 cents and 79 cents, depending on whom you are talking to.

The end result of the bill will be that the consumers and taxpayers will pay an additional $50 to $60 billion.

The Wall Street Journal says the main reason for the bill's success is the lobbying efforts of the maritime unions.

As much as $20,000 was contributed to each of the key congressional campaigns. When the final vote was taken, the bill passed the House 266 to 136 and the Senate 42 to 28.

In the past, the president has been a friend of the maritime union, so it will take a great effort on the part of the American Taxpayer to influence him to veto the bill.

If we are to fight inflation and recession at the same time, this type of bill must be vetoed.

Substitute teachers are recognized at last

Editor:

Many thanks to Denny Coffman for his fine article "These teachers seldom receive a pay raise." It was well done and long overdue.

Observer readers: This is a perfect example of what happens to workers when they cannot organize and participate in the collective bargaining process. It is unbelievable that a group of highly trained professional workers has not received a pay raise in 10 years, receive only $26 per day, do not have medical, life and (most important of all) liability insurance. Their yearly wage easily will place them in the poverty category with less than a $5,000 income.

School boards should hang their heads in shame for allowing this to happen. Even more shameful, however, is the lack of leadership on the part of local education associations which have failed to come to the aid of their colleagues.

Why aren't these leaders organizing the substitute teachers into their bargaining units and bargaining for them? I can't believe that the regular teachers are that selfish as to not want to share their piece of the financial pie with their colleagues.

May I suggest that these educational leaders follow the lead of Mrs. Dolan Carter, president of the Plymouth Education Association, who has been working very hard to have all instructional personnel in the same bargaining unit.

All it takes is an election, as provided by Public Act 379 and recommended by the Michigan Employment Relations Commission.

I realize that school boards have to work within budgets, but priorities within a budget can be changed and should be changed when there is such an injustice as this.

Next fall when your headlines read "Teachers strike," I hope all of your readers will remember what has happened to the substitute teachers because of no collective bargaining power. I know whose side I'll be cheering for.

Wake up, school boards and education association leaders, it's nearly 1975, and the word "fairness" is still in the dictionary.

What fun do vandals get?

Editor:

Somewhere in Livonia there is a person or persons living with the knowledge that he or they broke a car window Friday, Dec. 13, while it was parked in front of a house in the vicinity of Merriman and Schoolcraft roads. It was an act of vandalism perpetrated against a harmless, middle-aged widow who works for a living and who never harmed the perpetrators in any way — me.

Now I want to ask what possible pleasure, kick, thrill or high one gets from breaking a car window. When a nonsensical, destructive act takes place, I wonder what kind of mentality dictates this behavior. Have the parents ever tried to explain or teach them that the property of others should be respected?

Although vandalism in the form experienced by me is no major calamity, it sets off a chain reaction which is more irritating because it need not have happened.

First, there is the cleanup and cut, fingers trying to get the rest of the glass out, the walking to and from work, a day and a half trying to get the insurance company claims department on the phone, driving in a cold car to the auto service while getting a friend or relative to follow you for the return trip, missing work while taking in the car and picking it up and, finally, adding to the insurance costs.

These are not earth-shaking problems, it's true, but they need not happen if children are taught early in life that such behavior is not only wrong, it is stupid.

We have all read of the tremendous damage done in schools and private homes by vandals. These persons must have shown tendencies in their daily lives indicating their mental instability. There are usually signs pointing to the troubled minds of those who turn out to be vandals, if parents took the time and effort to observe. They might also try to find out what their children are doing when they are out on the streets at night.

Anyone smashing windows for no reason just has to be sick. Please, whoever you are, get help before your affliction gets you into real trouble. You might just get caught in the act next time.

Sense And Nonsense

Yellow Cab driver Bill Farwell is one guy who's never going to question the existence of Santa Claus. He knows the merry old gent really exists.

Last Saturday, he received instructions on his cab radio to go to Warren and Newburgh, "meet the helicopter and pick up Santa Claus."

Farwell, true to the cab driver code, reacted instantly and drove through the light snow to pick up his red-faced passenger. The whirlybird couldn't navigate the snow, but Farwell got his passenger to Novi on time for a Christmas celebration.

Indian aid drive yields 2,600 cans of food, clothes--and headdress

There's an Indian headdress with 27 feathers, each one dedicated to a group in Farmington and western Wayne County that helped send food, toys, clothing and household items to needy Michigan Indians this month. Proud owner of the headdress is Hank Chrucial, chairman of the Indian affairs committee of the Western Wayne County Conservation Association, the group that spearheaded the collection.

The headdress was presented to him by Indian Enterprises, which serves persons in the Muskegon area. Mrs. Chrucial received a beaded pouch purse which has a protective religious significance. She says each bead is a reminder of the individual businessmen, church-goers, students and scout groups who helped the effort.

FEATHERS in the headdress, which Chrucial is entitled to wear on all occasions, have been dedicated to these groups among others:

Salem United Church of Christ, Farmington; Sacred Heart Byzantine Church, Livonia; Trinity Church of the Brethren, Redford; Greenfield United Methodist Church, Redford; Christ the King Church, Taylor.

Bryant Junior High, Livonia; Bird Elementary, Plymouth; Webster Elementary, Livonia; Fordson High, Dearborn; Indian Maidens of Livonia Family Y; Cub Pack 142 of Sterling Heights.

And 24 apprentices in the Ironworkers union training center in Livonia, who drove truckloads of gifts.

Each feather in the headdress is black with a white base. It has a fluffed red feather at the tip and another fluffed blue feather at the base. Strips of white rabbit fur hang from the temples. It took about 35 hours of hand work to make.

INDIANS in seven areas received gifts during the Christmas season — Harbor Springs mission school, Muskegon, Cross Village, Manistee, Traverse City, Petoskey and even Detroit. Earlier shipments went to L'Anse, too.

Altogether, 2,647 food items were distributed, most by direct donations of canned goods, some purchased with a $36 gift. Other gifts included soaps, toiletries, toys and clothing.

Some 1,450 children received toys and Sanders candy at Christmas parties.

Another shipment is being arranged to the Traverse City area, where the number of children needing help is 300, compared to 200 a year ago.

Townships lose free services

Wayne County townships will lose free sheriff's road patrol services beginning Feb. 1. These include the townships of Plymouth and Canton.

As of that date, the services will be sharply curtailed if the townships do not agree to bear part of the cost.

The County Board of Commissioners voted Dec. 19 to cut $97,000 from last year's $476,000 level of services if the townships have not decided on a cost-sharing plan by Jan. 15.

CURRENTLY the sheriff provides 28 deputies and three squad cars to patrol unincorporated areas of the county on a 24-hour seven-day a week basis without charge.

The board decided at the December meeting that if negotiations with the townships fail, the board will consider appropriating the remaining budget on a "lump sum" basis which means the funds will not be earmarked for specific purposes.

The sheriff would then have authority to decide on the strength and duration of services, including whether to continue operating at present strength until funds are exhausted or reduce services and stretch the money for a full year.

BY FEBRUARY, this year's $350,000 budget will be depleted to $290,000 with 10 months left in the current fiscal year which ends Nov. 1975.

The commissioners authorized an additional $20,000 to maintain the patrols at last year's level through January while negotiations among the townships and the board public safety and judiciary committee are underway.

A subcommittee of the public safety committee has already asked eight of the townships to either contract for the sheriff's services, contribute matching funds for the services or turn over to the county funds collected from local traffic fines.

These include Northville, Plymouth, Brownstown, Canton, Huron, Van Buren and Sumpter.

Except for Redford, the townships in Wayne County have a lawsuit pending in Circuit Court charging the commissioners with a legal obligation to continue the free police service. The policy of eventually ending free township patrols was adopted by the county board in 1963.

Wayne County prisoners may be housed outstate

About $225,000 has been earmarked by the Wayne County Board of Commissioners to house prisoners in other counties "if there is no alternative" way of keeping the county jail population within a court-ordered limit.

The commissioners acted during a mid-December meeting at which a number of them described the transporting of prisoners to outstate jails as a "highly imperfect temporary measure" for dealing with overcrowding at the Wayne County Jail.

The board also declared its intent to "immediately proceed towards development of a permanent solution toward the overcrowding problem and develop a report thereon within 90 days," in line with a demand by a panel of judges.

The resolution was approved by a vote of 14-7, the bare minimum needed for passage. It authorizes the sheriff to seek use of available space in other counties and at the state prison in Jackson.

HOWEVER, both Robert E. FitzPatrick (D-Detroit), board chairman, and Commissioner John Lesinski (D-Dearborn), public works committee chairman, pointed out that no means of financing the estimated $29 million cost of new jail facilities has been found thus far.

FitzPatrick said his proposal, that the state lend the money to the county over an eight-year period at low interest, still appears to be the only alternative to approval of millage by voters. A millage proposal was defeated in 1972.

The three-judge circuit court panel, which set the legal population limit of the jail at 790 prisoners, recently directed county officials to explore housing of prisoners elsewhere.

Judge Victor J. Baum, a panel member, said the court's research indicated a number of outstate sheriffs had space available in their jails and were willing to take Wayne County prisoners. He specifically mentioned possible housing of 50 prisoners at the Kalamazoo County Jail.

In a response to a follow-up inquiry from Wayne County Sheriff William Lucas, however, Kalamazoo County Sheriff Ronald E. Keim wrote that an agreement would have to be negotiated between the two county boards of commissioners before he could take any Wayne County prisoners.

ON A MOTION BY Commissioner Jarrette Simmons (D-Detroit), the board also specified that the rights of due process are to be observed for all prisoners housed other than in the Wayne County Jail.

Commissioner Rosemary Robinson (D-Detroit), an attorney, warned this could cost $1 million "to do it properly" because it would involve transporting defendant's lawyers and families "all over the state to visit prisoners."

She described the plan as a "frivolous effort to divert a serious problem" and said the real problem is how to provide more jail capacity in Wayne County.

TOM F. TAYLOR (D-Westland), a commissioner whose district includes Garden City, charged the jail overcrowding to the slowness of the judicial process.

The jail houses prisoners before or during trial. Those sentenced to serve time are transferred to correctional facilities, such as DeHoCo or Jackson State Prison.

Taylor noted that the attorneys, who had asked the three-judge panel to hold the board of commissioners, Board of County Auditors, and the sheriff in contempt of court for allowing the jail population to exceed 799, had requested a contempt hearing scheduled for mid-December to be adjourned to Feb. 3.

He charged the adjournment was requested because the lower jail population wouldn't support their argument, and they were counting on a sharp increase during the holiday period when some judges would be vacationing and court hours would be curtailed.

MARY E. DUMAS (R-Livonia) also opposed transporting prisoners outstate if other means of controlling the jail population are available.

Mrs. Dumas said construction of additional jail facilities "is where we ought to put our money."

Robert Mahoney (D-Detroit) called the outstate plan "a sop to the courts."

Ervin A. Steiner, Jr. (R-Grosse Pointe Farms), however, argued in favor of the proposal and defended the commissioners. "The commissioners are getting the blame and can't do anything about the overcrowding. The judges can get the prisoners out, the lawyers can get them out, the bonding people can get them out. Can we go over and get one prisoner out?"

Paul Silver (D-Detroit) argued that the defendant's constitutional rights of due process should be observed. He said defendants have the right to consult with legal counsel regardless of distance.

Prep hockey clash face-offs Friday at Ford

It's hockey tourney time for area preps and with the holiday season upon us, comes the Observer & Eccentric meet.

The tourney has taken on a new look this 1974-75 campaign. With the kickoff of the first state hockey meeting, the area matchoff has been changed from a post-season tourney to one of a holiday tilt.

Six clubs find themselves in the 1974-75 battle in Southfield and Southfield Lathrup, and in Bentley, Churchill, Franklin and Stevenson.

Action kicks off this Friday (Dec. 27) with Southfield Lathrup pitted against Stevenson and Churchill against Southfield.

Ford Ice Rink in Livonia will be the site of all five tourney matches. The Lathrup-Stevenson game is at 7 p.m. and the Churchill-Southfield one at 9 p.m.

Play will pick up again on Monday (Dec. 30) with Bentley going up against the winner of the Lathrup-Stevenson game at 7 p.m. and Franklin matching talent with the victor of the Churchill-Southfield outing.

The two winners of Monday night will find themselves in the championship clash on Friday (Jan. 3), face-off slated for 8 p.m.

This will be the third annual tourney, and the Spartans of Stevenson High are defending champions of both seasons.

Stevenson dumped Churchill in the inaugural year, 4-2, and the Spartans dashed by Franklin, 5-3, last season.

Admission for all games is $1, and tickets may be purchased at Ford Ice Rink.

Bounce Thurston attack, 58-44

Plymouth Rocks win holiday cage tourney

By TOM DONOGHUE
Sports Editor

The "Year of the Rocks" received another pat on the back. Fred Thomann's Plymouth Salem cagers handily disposed of the Spartans of Stevenson and Thurston High to cop top honors in the Churchill Holiday Tourney.

It was the Salem Rocks, 67-61 over Stevenson in one semi-final clash and Thurston, 54-49 over host Churchill. In the finale, Salem shook off a 12-11 first quarter deficit to walk away from Thurston, 58-44.

Stevenson bounced Churchill in the consolation match, 66-53.

The Rocks are now 6-1 overall, that solo defeat an upset at Bentley High, 79-78. In the Suburban Eight, Salem sports a 2-1 mark.

"I really don't think we will lose another league game," said Thomann whose Rocks open '75 home against Edsel Ford on Jan. 7. "We can go all the way now and finish at 13-1 in the Sub Eight."

Bill Croteau's Thurston Eagles, who have built up the reputation as being the "sleeper" in the holiday tilt, gave Salem a decent shot in the first quarter but after that it was strictly no contest.

Before the finale at Churchill, Croteau commented, "Hey, the kids are starting to believe in themselves. We scrimmaged Bentley last week, and we blew them right off the court. We are coming and I really believe that we can take Plymouth."

Eric Agardy popped in the game's first bucket for Salem with just 10 seconds elapsed, but Thurston then took over. Working out of a semi-stall offense, Dave Polidori popped in two baskets and the Eagles were up, 8-5, midway in the quarter.

SPORTS

Thursday, December 26, 1974

After the lead was sliced to 10-9, Salem's 6-10 Agardy proceeded to block three straight Thurston shots, but Plymouth tossed away the ball each time.

In fact, Thurston kept the Salem crew on its half on the court for the last three minutes of the stanza, for all but the last seven seconds when Bill DenHouter hit a 19-footer to cut it to 12-11 after one quarter.

"I was concerned with our play up to this point," added Thomann. "but I can't say that I was really worried. I didn't see Thurston doing anything that we couldn't handle and I knew that once we started playing together as a team, they couldn't stop our inside game."

"Teams will attempt to use emotion against us and try to stay with us. I expect this with every team we play. There is just no way you can blow a team off the court right from the start."

"Emotion or no emotion, in the end we are going to get them."

And "get them" the Salem Rocks did.

With just 2:41 remaining in the first half, Brian Wolcott made good a three-point play to tie it at 19-19, and gone were the victory whoops from the Eagle side.

Wolcott made good another two at the charity line. In the last minute of the half, Agardy hit for four straight points, and Howard Inch popped in a 20 footer at the buzzer to give the Rocks a 27-20 margin.

The third stanza opened with Agardy snuffing a shot by Eagle Gary Bireta, and Jim Ellinghausen hit for nine of his 15 points and the lead was up to 16 after three quarters, 47-31, and pushed to 20 early in the fourth before Thomann emptied his bench and made room on the Salem trophy shelf for the holiday hardware.

"I was disappointed that first half in our offensive play, but at the same time we did not give up one offensive rebound," added the Salem coach.

"We still are not where I want to be," he commented.

Salem wound up 21 of 56 from the floor for a 38 shooting per cent and Thurston, 14 of 42 for 33 per cent. The rebound battle saw Salem a 38-20 victor, Ellinghausen tops with 13.

Turf Tips, Quips

By Doc Minard

Now that the first of the big holidays is over and we have a bit of relaxing until the second comes up next Wednesday, there is no time like now to discuss what's coming up in the remainder of the Michigan 1974 racing season.

Attention of most harness racing fans will be focused on Northville Downs Saturday when the championship finale of the $92,500 early winter pacing series will be presented.

The series, started a few years back by the late Leon A. Slavin and continued by his daughter, Nanette Slavin Rukstien, has climbed from a total of around $30,000 to the rich $92,500 this year.

From all indications, it will increase as the years go by since nomination and entry fees make up part of the total with the track management putting up the rest.

This year's list of nominees was the largest ever—so many, in fact, that Racing Secretary Tom Smith had to present three and sometimes four qualifying legs each weekend. Each of these went for $3,750 but the total amount was the most ever offered at the Jackson-Northville meeting.

Smith believes next Saturday's finale will be the best ever at a Jackson-Northville meeting.

ERLANA'S VALLEY, the six-year-old mare from the Bill Brown stable, won five of the qualifying legs and appears to be a standout candidate for the championship. But the speedy damsel has been bothered with a bit of lameness and may not be ready. That would be a big disappointment for Brown and Driver Mal Phillips.

Racing Secretary Smith has the following eligibles and the field of eight will be selected from them.

They are: J.M. Commander and Banner Ranger, both of which have been driven by Chris Boring in recent races on a catch-drive basis but Chris has taken off to Florida for the holidays and won't be available this time; Bob Kalish's Spanish Mac; Rainforest Prince, Charles Van Dorsen; Constance Comment, Jim Merriam Jr.; Kimber R. Range, John MacDonnell; Blazer Chip, Rex Putnam; Byrd Creed, Charley Smith; and Consuelo, Ted Smith.

The announcement that Charley Smith would drive Byrd Creed came as a bit of a surprise since he had said earlier he would enter the hospital after Christmas for the second operation on his legs.

Charley is a competitor of the highest type, and when he's in the sulky, you can be sure that horse will go for all it can. Charley hates to lose when he thinks he has a chance to win.

THEN WITH THE big finale out of the way, Tom Smith will have two more programs to fill before the end of the meeting.

Jackson-Northville will continue to present 11 race programs nightly on Friday, Saturday and Mondays for the remainder of the season with some possibility it will be the same on closing night next Tuesday.

It has been an interesting season and probably will end with both handle and attendance over 1973.

If so, then Michigan will close its finest harness racing year in history. Every single operation was better and bigger than a year ago, and each track is looking forward to even better things in 1975. That is, if the economy picks up.

WORD FROM HAZEL Park is that work has started on the project of enclosing the Roaring '30s and making it air-conditioned for the hot summer months and heated for the cold late fall and early winter days. That should be one of the best improvements made at the track in a long time.

With winter on us, we wonder what happened to the enclosed winter training quarters that were available to horsemen for so many years at Hazel Park. Seems a shame that facilities like that go unused while horsemen fight the wintry blasts at Detroit Race Course.

Of course, if one is a horseowner and wants to train his horses here in the north, then he has to go where facilities are available. With the opening scheduled for Feb. 21, the DRC management opened its facilities.

We want you to know it can be awful cold out there in the wide open spaces, but it's better than nothing.

Livonian named MVP in soccer

Bob Patterson of Livonia and Greg Pochmara of Dearborn have been named most valuable offensive and defensive players for the University of Michigan-Dearborn's 1974 soccer team.

Pochmara, with 14 goals for the season, was the offensive spark in the UM-D unit that posted a 10-5-3 record in its inaugural season. Patterson's defensive play contributed greatly to the team's five shutouts and 2.11 goals given up per game during the 18 game season.

Other players receiving special recognition were Pete Sapienza of Livonia as the most improved player and Zivorad Zivanovic of Ann Arbor for his season total of 13 goals.

Franklin shuts out Allen Park

Carrying a 1-0 lead into the final 15 minutes, the Patriots of Franklin High slapped in three goals to dump Allen Park in a non-league hockey clash, 4-0. Results:

PATTERN-DYED-CARPETS are the trend for 1975 with a return to understated elegance. The continuing popularity of traditional and the appeal of oriental have strongly influenced stylists for the coming year.

'75 floor trend: Pattern-dyed carpeting

Prints have not only revolutionized the fashion apparel world, but the floor covering industry as well. Pattern-dyed carpets in medallions, florals, and classic paisley prints lead style trends for new carpet lines in 1975.

The continuing popularity of traditional and the specialized decorating appeal of oriental have strongly influenced stylists for the coming year. Because of the wide range of these polychromatic patterns, there has been exciting design creativity in level-loop and Saxony-construction carpet.

Stylists predicted the move away from pattern-on-pattern (a look that began in early 1968 and lasted for about five years). There is now a strong return to understated elegance where pattern is coordinated with texture or plains.

THE DESIRE for a more secure, settled way of life is being reflected in a marked trend toward the "mature" plush look of the '20s and '30s with deep colors, smooth velvet-like surfaces, and striking designs.

Indicative of this trend is a heavy, dense nylon plush—featuring distinctive patterns with the look of woven "Belgian" plush. The fiber has excellent soil-hiding and static-reduction features.

After this nylon staple is spun into a tiny yarn, each end is heat-set and twisted into a three-ply yarn. When all these tiny yarns are tufted into a heavy, dense nylon plush, the carpeting takes on the unique look of a royal family of carpets.

HOW DO YOU decorate with patterned carpet?

Contrast is the secret. For ultimate drama and to make the carpet a room's focal-point-positive, here is some advice from the interior designers at Armstrong:

1. Stick to the major colors in your carpet when choosing fabrics for new upholstery and draperies. It's easy to decorate with patterned carpet because the color scheme "stems" from the floor.

2. Take a carpet sample along when you go shopping for coordinating and harmonizing colors.

3. Use different textures in your room for added drama. With the velvety plushness, it's smart to add sleek or shiny furniture and accessories.

In these inflationary days, here is a bright note:

YOU CAN HAVE a whole room carpeted wall-to-wall for what you would have paid for only a rug 25 years ago. New manufacturing techniques now make possible the production of truly lush and luxurious carpet at affordable prices.

Not only is carpet still your best home furnishings buy in 1975, it is also much easier to care for than ever before. New carpet collections require about 45 to 60 per cent less maintenance—the results of improved man-made fibers, major changes in construction and finishes, and new color treatment. Besides its high-fashion appeal, pattern-dyed carpet helps mask lint and fine dust ... makes daily care easier than ever.

A patterned carpet in a poetic print that is bright, clear, rich and resonant, offers endless decorating possibilities.

By GEORGE ABRAHAM

If you kept your hanging basket over, better trim it back now so it will send new growth out.

During the winter months the baskets can be kept in a cool (but heated) sun parlor, or porch and kept watered slightly until February or March. Remove any dead leaves and stalks whenever they show up. Move to a bright window and give a liquid feeding of a balanced plant food such as 23-19-17. Many hanging baskets can go two years without repotting, but after that it's a good idea to repot the plants, using a soil mixture of one part each of sand, peat and loam.

If you plan on selecting a container for a hanging basket this spring, make sure the pot has drainage holes, a good hook for hanging, enough space for roots and an attractive color. You can make your own hanging basket by starting some new plants now. Seeds and cuttings can be started in pots now, and will be ready by the time spring rolls around.

DO NOT CROWD your hanging basket. Small plants will grow and need ample room for stretching out. You have a good selection to use in your hanging basket. Some foliage plants to include are Asparagus sprengeri (asparagus fern). It has a few red berries to add a touch of color to the handsome green foliage. Bromeliads have handsome foliage and long-lasting flowers. Rosary vine or string of hearts, has small gray tubers hanging from vine-like stems.

Chlorophytum or spider plant is one of the best. Try the Variegatum, with light green and white. Grape Ivy, does well in shade or sun. Also Crassula or Weeping Jade (commonly called necklace vine. Creeping fig, or ficus pumila makes a good basket plant.

One of the best is fittonia, found in all flower shops. This item does not like to be over-watered. There are dozens of other foliage that can be used in a hanging basket.

GREEN THUMB CLINIC: "Last year we had poor luck with our corn. This year we hope to raise more and wonder if you could tell us which varieties are best."

Answer: you have a selection of many good varieties. Why not try an early, midseason and late type? A good early is Spring Gold, a good midseason is Northern Belle, and a good late is either Seneca Chief or Wonderful. Perhaps you didn't plant your corn in blocks. So seed at least four rows side by side for proper pollination. Try the new bi-colored corn such as Sprite, Butter and Sugar, and Sweet Sue.

The Stroller

Holiday tales remembered

By W. W. EDGAR

The Christmas holiday season has been a time for family reunions. Sons and daughters would come back home to enjoy the sumptuous meal mom would prepare, and then sit around the living room telling of their experiences.

It always was a joyful time and many a laugh we'd have about the odd things that happened or the many sights we enjoyed in our travels.

But this year it will be different for The Stroller. Many of the family circle are gone and others spread out across the nation. So, there'll be no family reunion, and the holiday period will be spent recalling some strange things that have happened.

Lady Luck has smiled upon The Stroller through the years, and he has traveled to many places and has seen many things—some laughable and others that would bring a flush of embarrassment.

ONE OF THE MOST embarrassing came one morning about five years ago when The Stroller was leading the delegation from Plymouth to England to help celebrate the 350th sailing of the Mayflower.

After five days on the shores from which the Pilgrims sailed, we returned to London for a tour of the city.

Finally, we came to famous Westminster Abbey, one of the most prestigious buildings in the world.

For years, The Stroller read about the crowning of the kings and queens and the famed speeches of Sir Winston Churchill, Prime Minister Chamberlain, and Stanley Baldwin in the Parliament buildings. He had seen coronations pictures of kings and queens and the solemn occasions when the bodies of the great were brought their for final services.

Now The Stroller was at the doorstep of a building he always had envisioned as a place of grandeur. Sure enough, he was thrilled as he walked along the aisles that were lined with tributes to the great.

Then the party came to the throne room, where through television, he had seen Queen Elizabeth crowned. Instead of the glamorous place he had expected, it proved a disappointment.

THOUGH STEEPED in historical prestige, the room seemed rather drab, and The Stroller was taken back a bit when he noticed the carpet was worn in places and in other areas there were bare spots.

"Can you imagine that," he said to a native standing nearby, "We read of all the glamour and then see old worn carpet on the floor."

The native snarled a bit and answered, "If we had anything else, it wouldn't carry the tradition the old carpet does. Don't forget, kings and queens for many years past have walked on this carpet. It has tradition that a rich, red rug could never replace."

You can imagine The Stroller's embarrassment.

He had spoken out of turn in a room steeped in history.

IT REMINDED him of another trip, this time to Bermuda, where he had taken every precaution to obtain reservations at the Castle Harbour Hotel.

On arrival at the large building set in the side of a hill, he noted the exterior had dabs of white paint on a gray background.

"If this was over in the states," The Stroller commented, "it would be painted a pure white with nice green shutters and be a beautiful building."

"Yes," came the answer from the doorman. "but it wouldn't be British."

Sorge more blushing.

THEN CAME a trip to Havana with another memorable moment. The first stop was the main government building where our guide made certain we saw a large diamond embedded in the middle of the main floor.

It was one of the largest diamonds The Stroller ever had seen. It was in the floor with an alarm system attached. The sight of the diamond was thrilling, but the one thing remembered is that all distances in Havana are measured from the diamond—much after the old fashion in Detroit where all distances were measured from Cadillac Square.

The oddest moment came on a tour of the large cigar factories. All the while we were walking through the aisles, The Stroller heard a voice—very plain—and he inquired.

"That's our reader," the guide said. "He sits in his office all day reading. First, he reads the paper, and then the books chosen by the employees. Over in America, you folks have music. Down here, we have reading and keep up with the events of the day while working."

It's too bad there won't be a family reunion in The Stroller's home, this holiday season. There'd be plenty of unusual moments brought to life again.

Art teacher hits the jackpot as exhibitor

KENNETH BRACKEN, art teacher at Redford Union High School and prize winner in the Michigan Focus art show. (Photo by Mitchell Booth)

Kenneth Bracken, art teacher at Redford Union High School, has spent the last four years developing his painting technique and letting his talent mature.

He recently entered the Michigan Focus art show, a biennial competition open to artists who live or were born in Michigan, and won $1,000 for his work.

It was Bracken's first show but says he wasn't surprised he won.

"Until now I didn't think my art was ready to show, so I waited. For this show I was confident my painting was ready and that it was good," explains Bracken.

His entry, an untitled oil, depicts urban survival connected with the way people exist around a city environment.

"Everybody has ways in which they insulate themselves against their environment. My painting deals with those defense mechanisms which people use to protect themselves from the world."

BRACKEN'S PAINTING is on exhibit in the Michigan Focus painting show in the Flint Institute of Arts through Feb. 9.

Other sections are exhibited in a sculpture display in the Detroit Institute of Arts and drawing and photography show in the Grand Rapids Art Museum.

Bracken is one of 12 prize winners. Almost 1,500 Michigan artists competed for $10,000 in prize money with nearly 3,400 entries in three categories. The art was juried from actual works by four art experts from across the nation.

Bracken estimates he worked on his entry for about three months. He considers himself primarily a painter but has experimented with other mediums.

HE IS in his eighth year as an art instructor at Redford Union and has worked as a free-lance commercial artist.

Bracken, a graduate of Redford Union High School, earned a BA in art at Western Michigan University and an MA in painting at Wayne State University.

He teaches a variety of art including commercial art, painting and a basic color and design class. Bracken's paintings will be on display in a show in the Detroit Artists Market in January.

How violinist switched to modern dance

By SUE ROSIEK

There's no place like home for the holidays! And for Peter Sparling, formerly of Plymouth now of New York City, visiting his family this holiday season is a welcome breather from his hectic and interesting, but often unpredictable, career as a professional dancer.

Sparling, 23, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sparling of Amherst Court, Plymouth, and a member of the Martha Graham Dance Company of New York City. He recently completed a tour of Southeast Asia and the Middle East, sponsored by the U.S. State Department. He'll return to New York later this month to start rehearsing for another dance season.

For a young man who originally wanted to master the violin his dance abilities have opened up a number of travel opportunities.

HE HAS VISITED the Soviet Union, Paris and a number of cities throughout the United States.

PETER SPARLING

Sparling attended Interlochen Arts Academy, where he was awarded a music scholarship. Instead, he changed his major the first semester after taking a dance class.

He had studied the violin for nine years and was planning a musical career. He also played with the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra for almost two years.

"The change was a little hard for my parents to accept," recalls Sparling. "After supporting a violinist for that long—lessons and instrument—it was a real surprise. But they wanted what I wanted."

After graduating from the arts academy in 1969, Sparling was awarded a partial scholarship to Juillard School of Dance. While going to school he danced professionally with the Jose Limon and Martha Graham companies.

SPARLING VIEWS Martha Graham as the "matriarch of modern dance."

"She has trained many dancers who are now forming their own companies," says Sparling. "It's almost like a family tree."

The Graham Company performs the dramatic theatrical type of dance, says Sparling. "Unlike ballet technique, which evolves from dancing, Ms. Graham takes phrases from various dramatic expressions and then choreographs a performance."

One of Sparling's favorite dances is "Orestes." "It's a high-energy, exciting and spontaneous number," explains Sparling. "And although it's exciting, it can be difficult because it is so energy-charged."

SPARLING SAYS an important part of any performance is the audience reaction. He says students are an enjoyable group because they're enthusiastic and alert.

He particularly enjoys staging lecture-demonstrations for school children.

"I think youngsters bring out the very elemental feeling for dance. They always want to know exactly what's happening, why it's being done, and how can they use it to relate to the world around them. It's a challenge because they can be very demanding."

In southeast Asia, Sparling visited Taiwan, Hong Kong, Singapore, Jakarta, Saigon and Bangkok. The Graham Company was the first large American group to tour Burma.

THE DANCE TROUPE included 24

performers and 12 crew members. Among the group was Ms. Graham, who is nearly 60 but according to Sparling "one of the liveliest members of the company."

Sparling says the dancers received a warm welcome throughout southeast Asia. "For the most part we felt like we were performing for the country people, not the critics or diplomats."

He says the only exception was Burma, where the dancers faced a very proper and subdued audience, what Sparling called "the up-percrust."

Sparling says a similar warm reception was afforded when the company visited the Soviet Union in February 1973.

"Dance is a tradition with the Soviet people, and they appreciate and acknowledge a fine performance."

Not so with the Parisians, adds Sparling. "The French were very reserved and felt they had a reason to be very critical."

Christmas celebrations far from home

By MARGARET MILLER

How do you celebrate Christmas when you're several thousand miles from home?

If you're one of the Madonna College students of foreign birth, you look for the best to enjoy in two worlds of Christmas.

That means, if you are Ewa Winiarska of Krakow, Poland, you participate in the traditional Christmas Eve supper, Polish style, and then take your visiting mother to midnight mass in the Felician Sisters' Motherhouse that neighbors your college.

If you're Perpetua Cercado, you're used to sharing with Christmas visitors in your Philippines homeland. So you still share, only you "pick from the refrigerator instead of from the back yard."

And if you're Hitomi Furuta of Japan, you savor an American Christmas, knowing it may be the last for a while.

THESE THREE STUDENTS and others studying in the Livonia college and representing such countries as Vietnam, Argentina and Nigeria are filling this vacation with a variety of activities.

For Ewa, it's an especially busy time because her mother, Mrs. Justyna Winiarska, arrived 10 days before Christmas to spend a few weeks.

A sophomore in Madonna's nursing program, Ewa lives with Mr. and Mrs. Stefan Sordyl of Plymouth, who immigrated to this country from Krakow 11 years ago. Mrs. Winiarski is staying with the Sordyls too during her visit.

They talked about Christmas in their native city and how its traditions are adapted in the Sordyls' Plymouth surroundings.

"In Poland," said Ewa, "a lot of things are different. We have the presents on St. Nicholas Day, Dec. 6, and then just a small present on the tree on Christmas."

"In most ways I like the Polish Christmas best, but I like the way Americans give lots of presents."

CHRISTMAS EVE in Poland includes a traditional supper, then lighting of the tree, and then the Christmas mass, the Pasterka, Ewa said.

"Our supper begins when the first star appears—if it is cloudy there is a problem, but we like to think the night will be clear," she went on.

The supper includes a variety of special dishes, herring and pickled mushrooms, clear borscht, mushroom uszka (something like ravioli), fried fish, pierogi, angel wings, noodles with ground poppy-seed and honey, gingerbread cakes, cauliflower with crumb topping, nut pudding, fish in aspic and potato salad.

"Here we have not quite so many," Stefan Sordyl put in.

"But there must be an odd number of dishes," Ewa said, "and no meat is served. You must taste all of them if you want to stay healthy for the next year."

THE CHRISTMAS SUPPER, called the Wigilia, begins with the breaking of a special wafer called Oplatek, Ewa said, and added:

"On the table we always have a figure of the Christ Child, the Szopka, and we always have an extra chair at the table and a candle in the window—this symbolizes the hope that Christ will come again as a stranger."

This Madonna student said there also is a saying that the animals talk on Christmas Eve "so my brother and I always used to wait for our dog to speak—we didn't hear him, but our father would say maybe next year."

In Krakow, Ewa and her mother said, they usually attend mass Christmas Eve in the Polish cathedral known as the King's Castle. The Sordyls, after supper with their guests, go to mass in Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church in Northville.

"I wanted to take my mother to the Felician motherhouse," Ewa said, "because it is so beautiful there and it is part of my school."

EWA CAME to Madonna after visiting the Sordyls one summer while she was still in high school. "I wanted to try something new and exciting," she explained.

She hopes to complete her four years of nursing study here in less than that time, and hasn't decided yet what she will do after graduation.

"If I could get a visa to work here, I might stay for a while," she said. "I like this country and the people here—but I am Polish."

Oplatek wafer which is broken to begin the Christmas Eve supper and Ewa the Szopka, or manger figure, that is placed on the table. (Staff photo by Mitchell Booth)

PERPETUA CERCADO came to this country from the Philippines to work as a nurse and then decided to join the degree program at Madonna.

While studying, she is living with two cousins, Miriam Harder and Freda Bernardo, who came here a few years ago. Both are employed by Metropolitan Hospital in Westland, Miss Harder as an emergency room nurse and Miss Bernardo in the accounting department. They purchased a home in Livonia in March.

For these people, a most important part of the celebration of Christmas is the Misa de Gallo, a special mass that involves prayer and Bible-reading from 4 to 5 every morning from Dec. 16 to Dec. 23.

"Then the final mass is at 12 midnight on the 24th of December," Perpetua said.

BUT THE CHRISTMAS season also means light-hearted things, like Christmas trees and lanterns on the houses and above all, visits from family and friends.

Sharing is part of these visits, Miriam Harder said. Some of the favorite foods the cousins serve, here as well as in their native land, are coconut cup cakes, sutanjon (a combination of beans, chicken and carrots), pan de sol (a Filipino bread), chicken adobo (cooked with vinegar and garlic) and sticky rice cakes.

In the Philippines, the women said, they made a practice each Christmas of preparing bags of candy for about 300 children in their area.

"We have a bonus from the government and we share with the poor," they explained. In this country, too, they like to share with neighborhood children.

HITOMI FURUTA, a senior in Madonna's liberal arts program, has been enjoying the American-style Christmas for four years now.

"Christmas this year means a great deal to me, because it may be the last in this country for while," she said. "I have not been back to Japan since I started school here. The trip is really too expensive."

Hitomi has majored in speech and English and has a minor in Spanish so she is hoping to work in some sort of diplomatic capacity after graduation in the spring.

This Christmas she is staying with friends in Romulus—"the wife is Japanese and the husband is American," she explained—so her holiday probably will be a combination of the cusoms of the two lands.

That's not too different from the past.

"IN JAPAN, the Christian families do a lot of the things you do in this country at Christmas time," she said.

"We sometimes have trees, not big evergreens but maybe a small artificial tree to decorate."

"And we enjoy exchanging gifts. After mass on Christmas Eve the Christian families get together in the Sunday School building for a special party. Each person brings a gift."

Japanese families of other religions also get into the spirit of Christmas celebration, Hitomi said. Christmas cakes, complete with decorations, are available in the stores.

OTHER MADONNA students who are spending the holidays far from home include Ngoc-Bich Tran of Vietnam, Maria Klug of Argentina and Rose Amanze of Nigeria.

The Vietnamese student, better known as Maria, flew to Boston to be with her sister over Christmas. The Tran family is Catholic, so marking Christmas is traditional.

Miss Klug is spending her holiday with her brother, a Dearborn Heights doctor, and his family.

TWO STUDENTS who are taking their break from Madonna classes with holiday celebrations a long way from home are Hitomi Furuta (left) and Perpetua Cercado. Hitomi is right at home with a small, artificial tree, the kind many Japanese use at Christmas. Perpetua, in this country as in her native Philippines, makes early morning prayer in the Misa de Gallo a prime part of Christmas celebration. (Staff photos)

'Public policy toward women needs new look'

A fresh look is needed with regard to public policy toward women at both federal and state levels, in the view of a political scientist who will join the faculty of Michigan State University in January.

Baby makes 2 sets of 5 generations

Christopher John Holt, six-week-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Holt of Merriman Avenue, Westland, represents the fifth generation on both sides of his family.

Young Christopher, born Oct. 31, is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Holt of Barton Avenue, Garden City. His great-grandmother is Mrs. Vivian Hess of Westland and his great-great-grandmother Mrs. Lily Snider of Dearborn Heights.

He also has a set of grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Jacobs, living in Dearborn, and a great-grandmother, Mrs. Wyatt Holt and great-great-grandmother, Mrs. M. Davis, living in Woodbury, Tenn.

Technology, said there are several reasons for this opinion and she will outline them in a seminar during the winter term.

For one thing, Ms. Corcoran said, the median earnings of women is less than 65 per cent that of male workers, despite equal pay laws.

She also pointed out that women are changing their lifestyles and pattern of employment, so they must allocate their time between paid employment and child rearing.

IN A RECENT VISIT to the MSU campus, Ms. Corcoran said women today are having fewer children and having them closer together in age.

"These changes result in a smaller part of women's time going to child-rearing," she said, "and there is a greater availability of time for paid employment, both continuous and in segments."

She said a lot of the pay differential between women and men can be attributed to the fact that many women work in jobs that are traditionally assigned to women and are traditionally lower-paid.

THE RESEARCH this educator did at MIT compares work histories of women and men and seeks to determine the degree to which such factors as education, job tenure and years of work experience are major influences in the male-female wage differential.

"The assumption always has been that men begin careers and stay on the job, while women move in and out of the job market," she said. "That assumption may be or may become less valid."

"Women's re-entry into the labor market should be made easier and public policy should help them better their lives as workers and as members of households."

MOST WOMEN, Ms. Corcoran said, take jobs out of economic necessity. Among black working women, 81 per cent are single, widowed, divorced or separated, or married to men making less than $7,000 a year, she added, and the percentage of white women in the same situations is 65 to 70 per cent.

The course Ms. Corcoran will teach focuses on equal employment, protective legislation, the role of court decisions, labor union functions, rape legislation, child care and day care, welfare and educational policies.

Senior ladies spoof 'Miss America'

By SHERRY KAHAN

The musician strikes up the familiar American anthem, "Here She Comes — Miss America," and all those at the banquet of Westland's 60 Plus senior citizens club start to applaud.

Out comes Mrs. Winifred Edwards in a long dress with a wide red ribbon across her chest. She's 85; she's beautiful, and she's just the beginning of a spoof by the senior group of the Miss America pageant.

Mrs. Edwards calls herself Miss International Misfit, and is followed by Mrs. Marge Nagel, whose title is Miss Corttown owing to her Irish ancestry.

THE WOMEN have adopted titles that usually indicate their native area of the country.

Mrs. Margaret King is Miss Windy City, Mrs. Rhett Boilore is Miss Dairy Queen of Wisconsin and Mrs. Mary Lee Borgdorf is Miss Oil Shortage of Oklahoma.

Still they come, all in long gowns and red ribbons bearing the dates 1921, 1918 or 1931, indicating dates that they could have become the real Miss America if someone had been alert.

Mrs. Pearl Sears is Miss Ski Queen of Manistee. Mrs. Inez Miron is Miss Stump Jumper of Marquette and Mrs. Mary Hatch has designated herself as Miss Over-the-Hill of Pennsylvania.

These are the ladies who danced the Charleston and the Black Bottom in their day. "I grew up in the roaring '20s," laughs Mrs. Boilore. I used to dance all those old dances. My husband and I used to win dancing prizes 50 years ago. Those were the days when a fellow put his arm around you good and led.

"But I'm having a ball here too. I was scared stiff to start the pageant but when I got going I enjoyed it. I have a lot of fun with this bunch."

THE PAGEANT was born of a friendly rivalry among club members to pull off the best stunt. Mrs. Edwards came up with the idea for the spoof.

Perhaps this kind of self-entertainment came about because these older citizens had different kinds of amusements in their day.

"I think we had more fun back in those days," said Mrs. Christina Cardno. "It was more simple and not like the artificial entertainment they have today."

"We had to make our own fun. Maybe that's why we've stood up so long."

Watch Night New Year services set

Special Watch Night services and serving of communion on New Year's morning mark the coming of 1975 in area churches.

First Baptist Church of Livonia, 1775 Inkster, will present the Capitalaires Quartet from Lansing in a gospel music concert at 7:30 p.m. New Year's Eve. All visitors will be welcomed.

Watch Night worship is planned in several other churches.

The Christian Community Assemblies of God Church will gather its members at 10 p.m. New Year's Eve for a service in Holmes Junior High School, 16200 Newburgh, Livonia.

Communion will be served at 7:30 p.m. New Year's Eve in All Saints Lutheran Church, 8850 Newburgh at Joy, Livonia, and the Lutheran Church of the Risen Christ plans a communion service at 7:30 p.m.

Holy communion also is planned for a service at 7:30 p.m. in Faith Lutheran Church, 30000 Five Mile, Livonia. Peace Lutheran Church, 9415 Merriam, Livonia, will have an 8 p.m. Dec. 31 service.

Members of St. Matthew Lutheran Church, 5885 Venoy, Livonia, will gather on New Year's Day at 10 a.m. to welcome 1975.

Church, 17000 Farmington Road, Livonia.

The family meal, to be served at 7:30 p.m. in the church hall, will be catered and reservations must be made by calling the church office.

After it has been served, there will be holy communion around the tables by candlelight, with scripture reading, music and narration to accompany the action that symbolizes the breaking of bread by the early Christians.

The communion is scheduled for 8:15 p.m., and all will be welcome whether or not they have attended the meal.

Dr. Bartlett L. Hess will speak on the theme "God's Appointed Time."

Special entertainment is planned at 8:15 for the children. Mrs. John Kosinski, a resident of Farmington and a member of Ward Church, will give a puppet presentation.

Following the communion service, activities will continue in the church until the midnight hour and the welcoming of 1975.

Two films will be shown simultaneously beginning at 8:15 p.m. "Thief in the Night," a dramatization of the second coming, is planned for adults, and "The Littlest Apostle" will be offered for children.

An informal time of fellowship and refreshments will begin at 10:20 p.m. Then, at 11:15 p.m., the congregation will begin its Watch Night service of praise and prayer by candlelight. The Rev. L. Edward Davis will speak, and his topic will be "Some Thoughts for a New Year."

On Sunday, Dec. 29, a missionary to South Africa will visit the 7 p.m. vesper hour with a slide-tape presentation.

The speaker, the Rev. Allen Lutz, did his mission work under the Africa Evangelical Fellowship.

He also served at one time with Dr. Hess at the Warren Park Presbyterian Church of Cicero, Ill. Dr. Hess was pastor and Rev. Lutz headed Christian education and youth work.

Horror films build religion interest

A Michigan State University professor believes that the horror and repulsiveness of such films as "The Exorcist" may have awakened a new interest in religion.

Professor of English Arthur Athanason noted that in many films and books that concern themselves with the supernatural, some such as "The Priest" and "The Jesuit" depict handsome and kindly young clerics in secular garb on their covers.

"They represent the priest as Big Brother — a broad-shouldered tower of strength to whom one can take his troubles," said Athanason.

In a course dealing with supernatural horror, he told his class that it is rumored that the producers of "The Exorcist" may re-release the film with a new and provocative ending — one that erases all doubt and makes it perfectly clear that "God won."

ATHANASON believes that horror films and literature provide "a psychological safety valve" for the insoluble fears mankind has lived with since time immemorial.

"There is nothing more frightening than fear of the unknown," Athanason said. "If we put in personified form our undefined fears — such as the fear of death and what lies beyond — then we have something concrete to put our wits against."

The young professor said he developed the course out of genuine concern that students gain an understanding of human nature and the courage to act against the ugly elements of human society.

Athanason said the insoluble fear treated in "The Exorcist" is that the Devil may be more powerful than God, and that man, who considers himself a sort of supercreature, has no ultimate power against evil.

"Frankenstein" deals with man's desire to "play God," the professor said. It is also the retelling of the Adam and Eve story, he added.

"In the movie version Boris Karloff plays the essentially innocent but corrupted being, and he's both appealing and repulsive."

"Rosemary's Baby" plays upon the fear every expectant mother has that her child will be born imperfect. "The Bad Seed" dares pose the possibility that criminal mentality is genetic not environmental.

"Interesting insights into mass culture are to be gained by closely examining popular artifacts, regardless of an individual's personal religious or moral convictions," Athanason said.

Sharing brightens institutional Christmases

BY SHERRY KAHAN

Parties, gifts and entertainment brightened the lives of residents of the Northville State Hospital and the Plymouth Center for Human Development during the yuletide season because individuals and organizations in the area cared enough to do their very best.

Seventy organizations and individuals contributed gifts to improve the holiday outlook of Northville hospital residents, and 30 additional individuals and groups donated cash.

Members of 25 groups, who have adopted special hospital wards and visit them once a month during the year, returned during the Christmas season.

They brought with them bundles of gifts and special refreshments, along with the most important present of all, the willingness to sit down and chat.

"ABOUT 600 PATIENTS who are without families received presents this year, thanks to donations from people in the area," said Mrs. Jean Bachelder, volunteer coordinator at the Northville facility.

"Some of these recipients live in the hospital," she said. "Others live in the community under our community living program."

"We can usually tell whether a patient is forgotten or not by noting his visiting pattern."

"We tried to decorate the wards, although we still need more decorations. Occasionally we have been given artificial trees."

A special treat came to Northville when the Farmington Musicals arrived to sing Christmas carols.

AT THE PLYMOUTH CENTER for Human Development, 15 or 20 persons a day arrived before Christmas bearing gifts for residents. Several staff members had to work full time cataloging them, and then making an effort to see that the Raggedy Ann doll, for example, wound up in the right pair of arms.

The Redford Suburban League, which sponsors a PAL program for forgotten children, sent presents for these youngsters.

"Usually residents receive more than one gift apiece," said Sam Cordaro, volunteer coordinator. "We always make sure that they all get at least one. We give them out Christmas day."

Among those who made sure the residents had a happy holiday were members of many auto company departments. Money which department members would usually spend on Christmas cards was collected and sent to the center.

OTHER ORGANIZATIONS preferred to give parties, with the result that 22 such social events were held in the institution, some for small groups, others for everyone.

Students from John Glenn High School in Westland talked and sang to about 40 children during a party they sponsored about eight days before Christmas.

The LTV Aerospace Corp. brought in a band for the shindig they gave for the whole institution. Santa Claus came too, along with aerospacers dressed as Sesame Street characters.

The Galacia Caravan of Alhambra gives a party every year and this year provided a band and clowns.

Other socials were arranged by Foster Grandparents, Livonia Lions Club, students from Plymouth's Pioneer Middle School, and the Rosedale Gardens Presbyterian Church.

The Motor City Chorus sang tradi-

FitzPatrick vacates County office

Chairman Robert E. FitzPatrick and five other members of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners recently participated in their last formal board meeting.

The commissioners held their last scheduled board meeting of the current two-year term of office on Dec. 19.

THE FIRST formal board meeting of the new term will begin at 2 p.m., Monday, Jan. 6, in the City-County Building auditorium. The first item of business will be election of the board's chairman and vice-chairman for the year.

FitzPatrick, a Detroit Democrat, has served on the elected board of commissioners since its inception in 1969. He has served an unprecedented four consecutive years as board chairman.

Instead of seeking re-election, FitzPatrick made an unsuccessful bid for election to Congress in the 17th District which includes Redford Township and northwest Detroit.

ALSO LEAVING the 27-seat county board are commissioners:

Paul Silver, District 14; Huey A. Ferguson, District 5; Catherine Shavers, District 11; Michael E. Murray, District 16; and Brian G. Arrowsmith, District 27.

All are Detroit Democrats except for Arrowsmith of Canton Township.

who originally was elected as a Republican, declared himself a Democrat on the filing deadline date for the August primary and then was defeated in the primary. All will be replaced by Democrats.

The new commissioner representing

Canton Township, Plymouth Township and the City of Plymouth will be Royce E. Smith (D-Belleville.)

Silver didn't run for re-election after serving on the elected board for all three terms and serving 10 years on the former county board of supervisors.

Mrs. Shavers also didn't seek re-election after two terms. The others lost to those who will take their seats in January.

IN A BRIEF farewell address, FitzPatrick declared that under the elected board "Wayne County government has made more progress in the last six years than in the preceding 50." But he also warned of great challenges ahead.

"Our proudest achievement may be the fact that, in this era of rampant inflation and escalating human needs, we have maintained a balanced budget while also improving public services."

Four major pieces of unfinished business cited by FitzPatrick were: modernization of the county structure through election of a county executive; improvement of the county civil service along the lines recommended by the National Civil Service League; construction of additional jail facilities; and implementation of a capital improvement program to meet the pressing facility needs of a number of vital public services.

SMART MONEY GOES TO COLLEGE

AND EARNS 9% ANNUAL INTEREST
ON $1000 MINIMUM INVESTMENT

John Wesley College at Owosso, Michigan, keeps on growing in many areas including student enrollment which this year hit its highest total in the 65-year history of the College. Greater increase is expected next year.

To accommodate this growth, John Wesley College will need at least 100 new beds. New classrooms, lecture halls, an audio-visual center, and a fine arts building are other important additions necessary for the unique English Learning Village.

To help finance its expansion program, John Wesley College has gone directly to investors instead of financial lending institutions and paid investors 9 per cent annual interest on $1,000 minimum investment.

When you invest in John Wesley College, growing right along with your invested dollars are the lives of hundreds of America's youth.

For complete information on the John Wesley College 9% investment program, please mail this coupon below to our representative, Atlantic Charter Corp., a firm licensed with the Security Exchange Commission.

Yes! Please provide complete information on how I can earn 9% annual interest, with a $1,000 minimum investment, investing in the students of John Wesley College.

LET'S GO
HYPERMARKETING

WE'RE PROUD to be among the forerunners of hypermarkets in the United States.

THIS NEW TYPE OF MER-CHANDISING can be seen at our Jenison Thrifty Acres, most evident in the Grocery Department, and throughout our new store, near Plymouth.

STACKED HIGH in bins, tubs, and original cartons, more merchandise is placed on the sales floor and less in the back room. It helps us utilize our space better and cuts down on unnecessary handling.

THIS EUROPEAN CONCEPT, that we've adopted at these two locations,
is a relatively new retailing innovation,
one we've studied carefully before implementing.

HYPERMARKETING is just one way we hope to earn your business. Come on down to a Meijer Supermarket, Thrifty Acres, or Hypermarket where we want to serve you better.

RAINCHECKS

IT IS OUR POLICY to try to have every advertised item available to you, the consumer, at all times during the duration of an ad. However, occasionally because of circumstances beyond our control, or because the demand for an item was greater than we expected, we do not always have enough product to last the duration of an ad.

WHEN THIS HAPPENS, we will gladly issue you a Raincheck for the merchandise at the advertised retail price.
However, if the item will not be available again we can not issue a Raincheck.

IF YOU EVER NEED A RAINCHECK,
just ask one of our clerks or managers;
they will be glad to help you. As in the past, we will continue to do our best at having every advertised item available for you - OUR CUSTOMERS.

PLEASE GOOD THURSDAY DECEMBER 26 THRU SATURDAY DECEMBER 28, 1974. MAKE SURE YOU GET THE BEST TO LAST SALES ACCORDING TO SPECIFIED LIMITS. NO CASH TO CASH, NO RETURNS OR EXCHANGES.
