Township joins in grant

PLYMOUTH TOWNSHHIP—The board of trustees overcame its fears of the federally funded block grant program Tuesday night, when it unanimously agreed to join other communities in Wayne County in applying for the funds.

The township expects to receive $32,951 from the program. Township officials have earmarked the money for recreation, improvement of two neighborhood playgrounds and the upgrading of traffic signals and cross-

Although the trustees recently empowered Supervisor J.D. McLaren to withdraw or remain in the program, McLaren said he felt obligated to bring the topic back to the board. "The board still had reservations about it," McLaren explained. Township officials had feared "strings" were attached to the federal brogram. James Curran, director of the Office of Program Development and Coordination; Francis Bennett. chairman of the Wayne County Planning Commission, and Roger Rossman, a member of the planning commission, agreed to attend Tuesday night's board meeting to dispel fears of board members.

"This community has spent a lot of time and money in planning," said Trustee Richard Gornick. "We would be very upset if this was a plan to arbitrarily superimpose another set of standards on our planning."

The township, Rossman assured board members, must use the federal funds only for activities specified in its one-year application.

To receive the federal funds, communities with populations of less than 50,000 must join together to reach the required 200,000 population count needed for eligibility.

"Whether Plymouth Township enters this or not, it will not break the program," McLaren told board members. "The question keeps being asked whether there are strings attached. But when you receive the first dollar of federal revenue sharing money, you're just as hung."

Trustee Russell Ash moved to enter into a one-year cooperative agreement with other communities for the funds and stipulated a reevaluation of the program for second-year funding.

That motion, seconded by Gornick, met unanimous approval. Trustee Gerald Burke was absent from Tuesday night's meeting.

Airport supporters join Mettetal discussion

By RICHARD GOLD

CANTON—The future of Mettetal Airport is more uncertain than ever. The owners, faced with rising taxes and subsidized competition from municipal facilities, say the airport is no longer a viable private enterprise.

The one solution—purchase of the property by Canton Township- is in doubt. Although a financial feasibility report indicated the township could purchase the airport, homeowner opposition to the venture has been

The issue will come to a head May 28 in the Plymouth Canton High School Auditorium at 7:30 p.m. when the township administration will conduct a public hearing on the matter.

But while homeowners are busy rallying support against the airport, pilots and businessmen, whose livelihood depends on continuance of the facility, will be marshalling forces.

The homeowners, led by residents in the Pickwick Farms and Pickwick Village subdivisions contend purchase of the airport will lead to expansion— a situation they find untenable. They say expansion will pose safety hazards and environmental problems.

They claim the airport is a bad financial risk with township tax dollars, and that the money could be better spent on municipal services. Businessmen and pilots, however, contend that the airport is a necessity tract industrial tax base and prevent businesses already in the area from

"You wouldn't believe how many times plants are kept open because of Mettetal," said Ken Spencer, an executive designer at Ford Motor Company. Spencer, an avid aviator, has used Mettetal for years. "People who are not flyers don't understand how important an airport is," he commented. "And once you lose it, it's gone for good. They don't have any idea how hard it is to zone land for an airport. There's no way they could get another airport if Mettetal goes

Tom Carmody, president of C.F. Sales Company in Canton uses the airport for business. He commented, "Very few people experience flight, but it affects each and every one of our lives daily. Consider the number of men who flew in the service who learned to fly at Mettetal, the men who fly our jet liners and who fly for our sheriff's department and other law enformcement agencies who learned here."

He added, "Consider the amount of Township. commerce in the automotive, food, computer, construction, and engineering fields that goes on every day at

on 1976 U.S. Senate contest By STEVE BARNABY

If Democratic Sen. Philip Hart decides to retire in 1976, the local political scene could be affected dramati-

Although the senatorial race still is more than a year away, political pundits are taking temperatures to see who wants to move where if U.S. Rep. William Ford (D-Taylor) decides to take the plunge for a seat in the upper house. Ford's district includes Westland, Garden City and Canton

Hart has expressed boredom, discontent and frustration to friends after serving 17 years in the Senate. Ford, who is aeting and dressing more and more like a senator every extremenly valuable in times of dis-day, still is dodging the question pubanalysis licly. But privately, his aides affirm that he is seriously thinking about entering the contest.

AFL-CIO, which has been a backer of Hart for years.

In Ford's favor is the support of the

IN WESTLAND, State Sen. William Faust (D-Westland) and Mayor Eugene McKinney would have a stake in Ford's decision to run.

Faust is one of those rare persons in the politically factionalized area who is loved by just about everybody. In past years he has threatened to challenge Ford, but has been fended off by party officials promising better things in the future. Again, Faust publicly laughs off the speculation, but he is looking for aides whose expertise deals in areas outside of state interests.

Rumblings around Westland City Hall are that McKinney is considering a shot at Faust's seat. Since becoming mayor, McKinney has surrounded himself with able young men, well-versed in a variety of areas.

Much of McKinney's decision depends on who will be his opponent in this year's mayoral race and who is elected city council president. To keep politically alive, McKinney must run for reelection, which means he would leave in the middle of a term if elected to the State Senate.

The city charter stipulates that the council president would then become mayor. If a political enemy, such as Glenn Shaw, is in that position, McKinney probably would think twice of running for state office.

Westland's chief executive is genuinely proud of what he has done while in the mayor's seat and would be reluctant to give the position up to what he refers to as the "old order." McKinney is a well-known political enemy of State Rep. Tom Brown (D-Westland), who was Westland's first Presently, a draft Brown for mayor campaign is rumbling through the area on the heels of the announcement by Councilman Henry Lundquist that he is withdrawing from politics completely. Lundquist was considering a race against McKinney.

Not to be forgotten is County Commissioner Tom Taylor (D-Westland), who wouldn't mind a chance at the mayoral position or a seat in either of the state houses. But it is rumored that Taylor has lost much of his political support in the area because of an unspecified incident.

IN GARDEN CITY, Councilman Tim Murphy is looking around for a full-time political job after the city's charter commission opted for a city manager instead of a full-time mayor. Murphy has had county and state aspirations. Ford's move could be encouragement enough for him to run for County Commission or State Senate. Although not as well liked as Faust, Murphy does have political connections in Westland which could prove beneficial.

On the Republican side of the roster, State Sen. Carl Pursell (R-Plymouth) could be encouraged to run for Congressional seat in the second district if Marv Esch (R-Ann Arbor) decides to run for Hart's position. Esch has a great deal of support among state Republicans and Pursell is looking around since losing out to James Damman for the lieutenant governor's position.

Daniel Ross, manager of the township-owned course, has agreed to purchase the prefabricated clubhouse with his own funds, according to township Supervisor J.D. McLaren. The clubhouse will become the property of the township after 42 months, under provisions of Ross's lease.

"It sure can't hurt business at the golf course," McLaren said of the new building. "It ought to help it a

Mary Dumas asks for more attention to juvenile crime

Wayne County Commissioner Mary E. Dumas wants the federal government to pay more heed to juvenile delinquency in mapping proposals for dealing with the crime problem.

"All too often, today's juvenile delinquent becomes tomorrow's adult offender because existing programs for dealing with their problems and too few and underfunded," she told two national crime study groups last

MRS. DUMAS (R-Livonia) joined fellow members of the National Association of Counties' crime and public safety steering committee in a Friday meeting at St. Louis, Mo., after testifying earlier before Sen. Birth Bayh's crime study committee hearing in Washington, D.C.

The steering committee will review the federal Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act in detail and develop recommendations for changes and improvements, she said.

Juveniles account for nearly half the arrests for serious crimes, Mrs. Dumas told the Bayh committee.

"In Wayne County last year there were 27,245 arrests for serious crimes. including murder, rape, robbery, assault, burglary, larceny and auto and financial or agency resources to deal with the problem and federal funding has been inadequate, she

"This year urban counties, and particularly Wayne County, face an even prepter problem," Mrs. Dumes told agte committee

"The combination of inflation and high unemployment is forcing state. county and local governments to cut back on their budgets for public and mental health and social services," she testified.

"High unemployment is creating severe economic distress and pressures within families. Not only are inner city kids faced with the inability to obtain summer jobs but youngsters from blue collar and middle income families are unable to find jobs and many are seeing their fathers standing in unemployment lines for the first time in their young lives."

MRS. DUMAS also recommended greater representation from major urban counties on the National Juvenife Justice and Delinquency Council. "Of 21 members appointed this year, only six live in counties of more than 100,000 population, and there is not a single member from Michigan or States, counties and cities do not Wayne County-the third largest counhave sufficient technical expertise ty in the country."

5 candidates seek county school seats

Mrs. Geraldine W. Joyner, a 10-year member of the Livonia Board of Education, will seek election to the balance of the term to which she was appointed earlier this year on the Board of Education of the Wayne County Intermediate School District.

She will be opposed by Gerald McGrath, a 12-year member and now president of the Wayne-Westland Board of Education. McGrath is a retired Detroit Edison Co. employe.

Mrs. Joyner was appointed to re-place Norman O. Stockmeyer who was named to the State Board of Education. Her appointment expires July 1. The candidate elected will serve the remaining four years of his testa.

Mrs. Joyner, a housewife, is vice ident of the Livenia board. Three candidates are in the race for six-year terms in the June 2 election.

They are incumbents Rev. Darriesu V. Stewart of Detroit, current presicent of the county board, and Carl W. Morris, current president of the Romulus Board of Education.

The third candidate is Dr. Cornelius L. Golightly, president of the Detroit Board of Education.

The election for the new terms, which begin July 1, will be held at 8 p.m. in the Wayne County Library, 80 Van Born at Venoy in Wayne.

Members of the intermediate district board, who are unpuid, oversee the district's $30 million annual opertion which includes a number of fedtefal and state programs. They also coordinate all special education in Wayne County and furnish consultative services on all phases of pub-lic education for the 36 local school districts in the county.

Local names tossed about as possible Hart successor

The names of a number of area politicians are being bandied about as possible U.S. Senate candidates as speculation mounts on whether Sen. Philip Hart (D-Mich.) will seek re-election Already, the name of U.S. Rep. Marvin L. Each (R-Ann Arbor), whose 2nd District includes Livonia and Plymouth, is being mentioned as a possible candidate on the Republican side of the ballot.

For some months now, the name of lor), whose 15th District includes Westland, Garden City and Canton Township, has been in the hopper as a possibility should Hart decide to step

Another local name in the mill is Dean Baker, University of Michigan regent and owner of the new Plymouth-Hilton Inn. Baker, active in GOP affairs, has been campaigning for the Republican nomination.

NAMES IN THE hopper include, of course, politicians with statewide recognition such as Democrats Frank Kelley, attorney general, and Richard Austin, secretary of state.

On the Republican side, the list includes Gov. William Milliken, U.S. Reps. Donald Riegle (R-Flint) and Philip Ruppe (R-Houghton), and L. Brooks Patterson, Oakland County prosecutor.

Ford was peppered with questions at a recent meeting with the press of western Wayne County about his intentions. He repeatedly claimed Hart was his man for the Senate, and care-

3 county Dems urge mid-decade census

Three western Wayne County Democratic commissioners have sponsored a resolution urging the Legislature to adopt pending bills which would allow a mid-decade census.

Wayne County commissioners Royce Smith (D-Belleville), whose district includes Plymouth and Canton Township, Tom F. Taylor (D-Westland) whose district includes Garden City, and Edgar L. Harris (D-Taylor) drafted the resolution which was adopted unanimously by the board in late March.

The census would aid those municipalities those population has increased since the last census to gain increased state funds distributed on a per capita basis.

fully refused to deny he would seek the seat if Hart stepped aside. The speculation in the 15th District is that Ford will run for the Senate with State Sen. William Faust (D-Westland) then running for Ford's congressional job.

ESCH MAY get the call for the GOP nomination if Milliken should decide to stay in Lansing.

In gaining re-election, Esch has always drawn strongly from the inde-U.S. Rep. William D. Ford (D-Tay- pendent voter. A candidate with similar bipartisan appeal would be sought by 2nd District GOP leaders.

The name which 2nd District Republicans are likely to consider first is State Sen. Carl Pursell (R-Plymouth), whose district includes Livonia, Redford Township and part of Westland.

Pursell, who had been considered for lieutenant governor in the 1974 state election, may also be tapped for an administrative post should Milliken be lured toward Washington, D.C. With both Faust and Pursell pegged for moves up the ladder, a chance for advancement becomes available to state representatives.

Among the forerunners would be Rep. John Markes (D-Westland), whose district also includes part of Livonia, who is apt to be approached by the party to seek a state senatorship. Markes though, may stay in the House to get a leadership position.

Rep. Robert Geake (R-Northville). whose district includes most of Livonia, is gaining seniority in the House and also is apt to be consid-

Rep. William Keith (D-Garden City) has gained some recognition for leadership in teacher strike legislation but, in the process, has not gained unanimous acclaim of Democratic labor leaders in Faust's district.

With speculation rampant in area party circles, it appears a foregone conclusion that Hart will step down. But that announcement has not vet been made.

PLYMOUTH—"I think a $100 fine is pretty ridicision." were the words of the railroad tie-ups filed his complaint or Dr. Raiph Atchiev last week as he in January of this year when he was won his case in 35th District Court for delayed for 40 minutes at the C&O a C&O railroad tie-up.

Atchiey, a Plymouth resident and Territorial.

the railroad tie-ups filed his complaint crossing at Sheldon Road, north of N.

Airport supporters join Mettetal discussion

airports, and here we are, willing to let this one go," he commented.

Spencer said, "Expansion and use of the airport would be governed by the people of the city or township. Look at Ann Arbor. They say nothing over 12,500 pounds can land there. That's not a federal regulation, that's one the city made.'

Both Spencer and Carmody said the petitions township residents are signing are misleading. "The facts the homeowners have gathered are wrong. It's one thing to be against the airport and it's another to create problems that don't exist."

Spencer said the figures homeowners are distributing on accidents are "1.000 per cent wrong."

Homeowners have been distributing a fact sheet which says that expansion of the airport would result in 11 deaths annually, according to national figures. "That's way off," said Spencer. "There have been only two deaths at Mettetal in the last 35 years and one of them was the result of somebody stealing an aircraft."

Added Carmody, "These so called civic leaders are 'mis-leaders'. An airport has been and always will be one of the biggest assets a community could hope for."

Carmody, who has been flying for 17 years, says his business is aided don't allow touch and go landings (which create noise) and our patterns purchased by the township, traffic and use of the facility would be stabilized. Right now the taxes are killing the airport. If the township owned it, the uncertainty would disappear. Three or four years ago it was a real going concern but the land value increase has really hurt it. If we lose it, it's gone. It's already tied into the air space regulations in the metro area. But if it went under, they couldn't get it back."

Residents get degrees from EMU

PLYMOUTH-Eastern Michigan University conferred advanced degrees upon 11 residents of the Plymouth area at the conclusion of its winter session.

Residents who received master of art degrees are Nancy Boeve, 41376 Brentwood; Sue Boucher, 11835 Riverside; Deborah Brown, 39866 Edmunton; Joyce Dropps, 1062 Church: Audrey Harrison, 1199 S. Sheldon; Robert Johns, 321 Adams; Patricia Johnson, 1697 Ranier; and Carol Lenic, 7243 Morton Taylor.

Pearl Lim, 42914 Lombardy, received a master of science degree. Kenneth Nelson, 11486 Haggerty, received a specialist in arts degree, and James Stroscheim, 8872 Briarwood, received a master of business administration degree.

greatly by Mettetal. "What the people don't realize, he said, "is that even if the airport was expanded, there's no way jets are going to use it. It would still be too small. As far as noise, we are such that we minimize noise." He added, "I would say at least 70 per cent of the use of the airport is for business, not for pleasure. I know have been governing ourselves. We

I depend on it." Spencer'said, "As far as property values, the homeowners claim expansion of the airport would decrease their property in value by 20 per cent. I don't know where they get their figures, but their homes have been there for three or four years and the values have increased by. 20 per cent just like the other new homes. If there were a big jet airport there it would decrease the value, but there won't be any jets landing at Mettetal."

Said Carmody, "If the airport was

District Court Judge Dunbar Davis accepted the railroad's plea of guilty and fined the railroad $100.

But Atchley wasn't pleased I took time off work and sat in the courtroom for two hours and then the railroad plead guilty. It's not worth it for me to complain.

"It's a futile effort for such a small fine and I can see why the individual citizen doesn't go very far with his complaint."

Atchley, a chemistry professor at Schoolcraft College, also complained of the lack of cooperation by law enforcement officials about the railroad tie-up situation.

"Even though the state law doesn't require it, the Wayne County Prosecutor insists on having the engine number in the complaint. You don't always get a chance to see the engine, especially at night, and that gives a break to the railroad."

Atchley also feels that a 1973 amendment to state law which allows a backup if there is mechanical failure is a step in the wrong direction. He points out that the law provides a maximum penalty of $500 and Atchley feels not enough of the $500 fines are being handed out.

He said he filed his complaint in January to see if things had changed since his last formal run-in with the railroad, but he concluded that they

"Seven years ago I filed a complaint for a 10-minute tie-up and the fine was $50. I thought I'd try it again, but the fine was only $100 this time. You'd think that inflation would have taken care of the increase in the last seven years. It looks like nothing's changed."

Manning joins court facility study group

Wayne County Commissioner Richard E. Manning (D-Redford) has been appointed by Roscoe Bobo, chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, as the county's representative on the state bar ad hoc committee on courtroom facilities.

The bar association committee will help formulate a unified plan for court facilities to serve all Wayne County residents.

Manning, an attorney, says: "I consider Wayne County representation on this committee to be most important because the committee was established due to problems arising from the housing of five new circuit court judges right here in Wayne County.

"Because the problem began here and is still being thrashed out in the courts, I believe it essential the committee have benefit of all the input Wayne County can provide. My appointment reflects my concern that the housing of judges, both temporarily and permanently, is a matter of pressing urgency."

The ad hoc committee will also consist of various judges, bar associations members, and perhaps one member of the State Supreme Court.

Primary vote bill blasted

WAYNE COUNTY-A proposal to shift primary elections in Michigan from August to September has drawn fire from Wayne County Clerk James

It might even delay the state's 1976 presidential election for a month, he declared, so that "Michigan could keep the nation holding its breath for perhaps a month before we would know who was elected President."

State Senate Bill No. 57 would move the primary from the Tuesday following the first Monday in August to the same day in September. The state constitution mandates that the final election be held on the first Tuesday following the first Monday in November, as is true nationally.

A SEPTEMBER primary would present virtually insurmountable technical problems with the present state of voting technology in Michigan, Killeen maintained.

One reason, he said, is the variety of voting systems being used. These include two kinds of punch card ballots, at least two types of voting machines, plus paper ballots in some places. Each requires a separate syst tem for canvassing and recounts.

There would not be enough time between elections for recounts, resolu-tion of court challenges, printing and distribution of ballots and the pre-jury, the subject of whose inquiry is protected by law, has been approved by the board of commissioners.

The board agreed May 1 to appropriate an additional $50,000 to the Circuit Court to fund a second grand jury.

The county already provides the Circuit Court with $84,000 for grand jury

The original request from Circuit Court administrator was for an additional $84,000, but the request was cut by the Public Safety and Judiciary Committee with the provision that should the court need more money it could request it.

paring of voting equipment, Killeen contended.

Moreover, a September primary could deprive "vast numbers" of absentee voters of their vote, he said, because there would not be enough time between elections to prepare, mail and receive back the absentee ballots. The law requires that absentee ballots be delivered at least 45 days prior to an election.

"I WILL SUPPORT changes in the election process that will shorten campaigns," Killeen said, "but this proposed legislation is not the vehicle to accomplish that goal."

Any new legislation should be directed toward increasing voter participation, Killeen asserted, and he urged instead that sweeping national changes in the timing of elections be considered to maximize voter turn-

He described as "stupidity" the present system of holding primary elections in August when many are vacationing away from home and final elections in November when "foul" weather reduces voter participation.

He suggested that elections be held in the Spring when weather is generally better and on national holidays when he said more voters would have time to vote.

The Legislature twice before has considered and rejected proposals for a September primary.

If you are one of the 40 million people who have no companysponsored pension program, now is the time to look into an Individual Retirement Account at NBD.

In 1974, new Federal legislation was passed to help millions of Americans provide for their retirement years.

National Bank of Detroit moved quickly to bring you the advantages of this new legislation through an approved Individual Retirement Account.

Here's how an IRA can help you multiply a surprisingly modest investment into a substantial retirement nestegg.

Double tax savings.

With an IRA, both the money you put into the account, and the interest your money earns while on deposit, are tax exempt until the time of withdrawal.

This means you can take a tax deduction on the amount deposited into your IRA each year, allow the earnings to accumulate tax-free, then withdraw your money when you retire

The new legislation allows you to deposit as much as 15% of your annual earned income—up to a maximum of $1500-into an IRA.

And while you may choose any NBD savings plan as your IRA, the chart shows how our new Investment Savings Certificates can multiply your IRA nestegg.

By taking advantage of our NBD Investment Savings Certificates that now pay 7-1/2% over six years on amounts of $1000 or more, for example, you would more than double your money in 20 years.

And all the while your money would be protected by both the federal government, and by the substantial capital of Michigan's biggest bank. There is, however, a substantial interest penalty for early withdrawal of Investment Savings Certificates.

Now's the time.

Anyone who is not now covered by an employersponsored retirement plan may open an Individual -Retirement Account at NBD.

And because our interest rates have never been higher, now is the time to begin putting tax-deferred dollars to work for you in an IRA.

Square dancing on Main Street

Caller Mike Trombly will have folks square dancing in the streets Saturday afternoon as Northville opens its celebration of Michigan Week.

Trombly, a Livonian, and his wife Ernie will begin two hours of square dancing at 2:30 p.m. right in the middle of Main Street.

Members of one of their classes will be there to help break the ice, but anyone who has a light heart will be able to join the festivities.

"MAIN STREET from Wing, which is a block west of Center Street, to Hutton will be closed for the pedestrian mall event," according to Larry Weiner, president of the Northville Merchants Association.

"At 10 in the morning, we'll have a arade with the Northville High School band to open the festivities," said Weiner.

Main Street has been closed off in the past for sidewalk sales, but this will be the town's first pedestrian mall event, according to the leader of the 40-member merchants group.

IN THE WORKADAY world, Mike, the square dance caller, is better known as Michael E. Trombly of 38258 Jamison. Livonia, vice president of manufacturing for Veritex Corp. of

Tornado procedures explained

Michigan has entered its peak season of tornado peril as the warmer temperatures of May and June move in with high humidity.

"When a tornado weather bulletin is issued, people should take it seriously," warned George Howe, Eastern Michigan University professor and climate expert.

"It is difficult to issue an effective tornado watch or warning because the whole thing is often over very quickly," Howe said. "This is why people who have heard a tornado bulletin should be alert to what's going on outside so they can evaluate conditions and take quick action."

Once a tornado is sighted, a person should move to the most protected part of a building, Howe said. In a house, this usually means the basement where the best shelter is under

If outdoors, one should look for the lowest part of the ground, possibly a ditch or culvert.

A motorist should drive at right angles away from the apparent path of the tornado in an attempt to out-drive its average 35 mph speed. Most tornado deaths are a result of debris hitting or falling on people, Howe said.

'911' system may go countywide

The "911" telephone number for dialing emergency calls may be adopted throughout Wayne County.

A meeting was held recently between representatives from most of the 43 communities in the county with a committee of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners and the Michigan Bell Telephone Company to discuss feasibility of the plan.

In Wayne County, the "911" system is in effect only in Detroit and the City of Wayne - although some adjacent communities benefit inadvertently because of overlapping telephone exchanges. An example is the area of Westland which has a Wayne phone exchange (PA).

Westland City Council is presently considering approving the "911" program for the entire city and has been in touch with telephone company offi-

WHERE THE 911 system operates. callers can dial just those three digits for aid for any fire, police or medical

Commissioner Edward Michalski, chairman of the board's public safety and judiciary committee, says the "911" system is being considered because "it seems logical and would contribute to the safety of the greatest number of residents in our county if shared financing can be arranged."

Michalski said most persons at the meeting, numbering about 50, were interested in the system but concerned about cost and wouldn't make commitments to the project without further evaluation within their own com-

He asked the group to poll residents and officials of their localities and return May 2, for another planning session. If interest prevails, says Michalski, the group will then appoint a task force to develop the system amongst participating communities.

THE THREE-DIGIT system provides faster response and is easier to remember in emergency situations when panic is often involved, said a phone company spokesman.

Genesee County has already adopted the system countywide, points out Michalski, and the entire state of California hopes to have such a system operating in the early 1980s.

Federal funding for equipment and operator training is available if enough communities join the program, says Michalski, and cost would be divided among participating com-

Phone company representatives explained that a "911" system must cover an entire phone exchange.

In some cases, one exchange may encompass several localities or, on the other hand, one community may be served by several exchanges. Westland, for example, has four telephone exchanges. The exchange for the City of Wayne also covers several other cities. Thus somebody dialing 911 on the PA exchange would have to be transferred to his home police depart-

The Romulus Fire Chief said the overlap of exchanges and community boundaries is the major barrier that must be solved in developing an area-

editorial opinion

Expressway building plans still in high gear

Things change, oh, so slowly. But they do

Take the idea of expressways, for example. Back in the 1950s, the big, multiple lane, limited access roads were judged to be all things to all people: the salvation of the cities, the creator of the suburbs, the ultimate solution to the country's traffic problems.

So expressways were built—thousands upon thousands of miles-pushing from the suburbs through the cities and back to the suburbs, linking one area of the country with any other.

BUT, SLOWLY, oh so slowly, the realization grew that expressways were hardly what they were supposed to be.

Instead of being the salvation of the cities. they gobbled land out of the tax base, hacked previously stable neighborhoods to bits, and provided the means for the middle class to flee.

While creating the suburbs, the expressways also insured decentralized, sprawling housing and business patterns of land use which could not be provided with city services and mass transit at an acceptable cost.

And rather than providing the ultimate solution to our traffic problems, the expressways merely called forth ever-increasing volumes of cars. which then came together regularly in everincreasing traffic jams.

If you want to learn, in vast and excruciating detail, just how over-reliance on expressways can ruin a great city and wreck a peaceful region, just look through Robert Caro's recent book, "The Power Broker." which describes the career of Robert Moses. New York's great public works boss. It's a terrifying story, and it applies with only a few changes right here in southeastern Michigan.

IN THIS connection, a news release that came across my desk this morning announced that SEMCOG's Council on Regional Development is expected this week to approve the regional 1990 Transportation Plan. If this happens, and if SEM-COG's executive committee OK's the plan, the whole thing will be up for approval at the general assembly meeting in June.

by PHILIP H. POWER .

The plan, which took over 10 years to produce, beginning with the Transportation and Land Use Study of the 1960s, is perhaps the single most important document produced in this decade in terms of its effect on the future growth and development of the region.

It would add 70 miles of expressway to the existing 670-mile system, together with another 120 miles of multiple lane, controlled speed "regional major" roads.

It would also provide high speed rail mass transit lines out Woodward, Grand River and Michigan Avenue, bus services along I-96, Telegraph, Eight Mile, Merriman and Inkster Roads, and a series of "people mover" systems around Northland.

THE 1990 plan has been carefully thought through, and it does not place total reliance on expressways. It assumes that the private automobile will continue to be the major mechanism of travel for many years—an assumption that probably will prove correct.

My only worry is that the revised view of the damaging effects of expressways is so new and has come so late in the development of the 1990 transportation plan that full force has not been paid to it.

I hope the SEMCOG people will make it possible to amend the plan as time goes along, so that the transportation needs of this region are not excessively cast in the concrete which has created so many of the expressways which are now giving us so many problems.

The feds interfere again with energy tax on autos

"Government that governs least, governs best," is a fine old quote that I use to attribute to Thomas Jefferson until I couldn't find it in any of his speeches.

The quote came to mind when I read that Congress is in the process of placing a graduated tax on automobiles manufactured in the future if they are unable to go 18 miles on a gallon of gasoline.

This is part of a new energy proposal that eventually will make this country self-sufficient in

This type of legislation rankles me.

A TAX IS supposed to be a method of raising

This type of tax is meant to coerce private industry into taking action where the federal government has no ordinary authority to regulate an industry practice.

What will be the result? The car companies will build smaller cars to meet the standard, will make less profit, will hire fewer people and Detroit will have another recession.

Once more the government will enter the marketplace and mess it up by using the wrong techniques to achieve its end.

Am I overstating the case?

THERE ISN'T an economist in this country who won't tell you that the present recession was caused in the main by the policies of the federal government.

In an attempt to ease inflationary pressures

by HANK HOGAN

the Federal Reserve over-reacted and strangled the economy.

The reason the Fed felt it had to act was to overcome the federal policies that caused the inflation in the first place-deficit spending. Detroit has been hit harder than any other city in the nation during this present recession. Why? Federal safety and pollution standards increased the price of cars at the same time the Fed was drying up credit in the country.

PEOPLE DIDN'T buy cars because they said the price was too high.

Isn't it about time the American people told their elected representatives to stay out of the marketplace unless there are demonstrated abuses.

This country was not built by governmental regulation. It was built by the freest enterprise system the world has ever seen.

Whoever said it, wasn't that far off base. Government that governs least, promotes individual liberties, as well as growth economies.

Suburbs need county jail branch, services

If a space visitor from a von Daniken book were to visit Wayne County and select a point for the seat of government, the last spot he would pick would be a far corner of the territory, along the Detroit River.

But that is exactly what human beings did, back in the days when people traveled by birch bark canoe and sailboat as well as oxcart, and some of the more rabid Detroit politicians want to keep it that way.

Specifically, the issue is whether Wayne County should build a jail annex and other county offices on the "Eloise" property in Westland. The plan has much merit.

DOWNTOWN DETROIT is an hour's drive for some of us in these suburbs -a two hour round trip. Parking fees are atrocious. Only in the upper peninsula counties of Menominee and Dickinson can you find county seats geographically more re-

In addition to the fact that a man and woman seeking a marriage license must take practically a half-day off work to get one, there are other excellent governmental reasons for locating some county offices on the Westland site.

Westland Mayor Eugene McKinney would prefer to see the site developed commercially but is civic-minded enough to agree to the jail plan IF a circuit court complex came with it.

Garden City Police Chief Robert Behrendt notes his town's little lockup is "definitely overcrowded now. We have no facilities for women prisoners, either. We either have to take them downtown. bond them out or let them loose. And often they're in no physical condition to be let go."

Ask Behrendt and he'll tell you the delicate problem he had with a man accused of murder who had a history of mental problems and care. A little jail like Garden City's couldn't provide the level of care a human is entitled to. A county jail nearby could.

Even the simplest court activity requires Behrendt's officers to make that two-hour trip downtown, through all that traffic. That's a poor way to use an officer's time.

"WE KEEP hearing that the rich Republicans

Tim Richard writes

in the western Wayne County suburbs don't need county services," says County Commissioner Mary Dumas, a Republican but not rich.

Mrs. Dumas reports great fear on the part of Detroit politicians that the central city's status will shrink, but adds that it's a weak reason for denying the western suburbs some convenience.

Calhoun County provides a good example of how it can be done. The county seat is Marshall. in the middle of the county, but there's a population concentration at Battle Creek on the west. So Calhoun County provides Battle Creek a twoperson clerk's office to issue marriage licenses. birth certificates and assumed names; a friend of the court office; a circuit court bench; a probation office, and mental health services.

Mrs. Dumas points out that there's no need to provide a full run of circuit court services for the suburbs. Even one judge could handle arraignments, a two-minute procedure; such cases as nofault divorce and friend of the court matters could conceivably require a referee instead of an ordained judge.

WAYNE COUNTY hasn't heard of it yet, but there are methods for transmitting documents over a telephone wire or retrieving a record from a computer.

Why couldn't that technology be employed in the suburbs so folks wouldn't have to go all the way downtown to get a copy of a legal paper or a

To give the county its due, one should point out that certain rural-type services have office locations in the suburbs: Cooperative Extension Service, drain commissioner, sheriff's road patrol and the like, to mention a few.

So there's no reason except politics not to provide jail, circuit court, probate court, clerk and other services to the western suburbs, too. After all, where do more than half the people of Wayne County live?

Why county board attendance is falling off

Taylor

By SHELLY GUGGENHEIM

If Wayne County gave a war, it's almost certain some generals would not show up. Attendance at county board meetings is a spotty thing-sometimes seeming to hinge on caprice, pork barreling and lobbyist pressure.

That is not to say there aren't some stalwarts who attend meetings as a badge of honor. It's just that after a roll call, the number of commissioners who stay through a meeting to the bitter end is a small band of the tried-and-true.

AT A MAY 2 meeting of the Special Ways and Means Committee dealing with the county's $8.8 million deficit, those who were present at the designated time had to wait more than an hour until 14 of the then-26 commissioners could be rounded up for a quorum.

With staff and labor leaders assembled, those present slogged through a complicated presentation by the head of Wayne County General Hospital only to come up with a vote indicating the quorum had dispersed.

Western Wayne County Commissioners Mary Durnas (R-Livonia) and Richard Manning (D-Redford Township) were absent. Commissioner 1-5/1974

At the next meeting, May 8, all area commissioners were present; in fact, 20 members were counted at one point.

There were no fireworks celebrating the quorum, perhaps indicating the most long-winded of the commissioners had run out of steam.

IN GENERAL the number of meetings attended this year by commissioners has dropped sub-stantially from the number last year.

- Last year, commissioners were paid a base most area commissioners are generally religious in their attendance with one exeption.

That exception is Richard Manning, whose disc. trict includes Redford Township and part of Liveryonia. For roughly comparable periods in 1974 (January-May) and 1975 (January-April) Manning holds the board record for missing meetings. (See Barr's district includes part of Westland; Mrs. Dumas', most of Livonia; Smith's, Plymouth-

Grandma Thornton's valentine forecasted landing on moon

One of my most treasured possessions is a Valentine my Grandma Thornton gave me in 1935. It pictures a crescent moon with two people climbing up a ladder to reach it.

Even then, my grandmother believed that man someday would reach the moon, and she always wanted to get there herself. We used to joke about moon men who ate green cheese and drank apple juice.

The moon has always held a fascination for man. Nothing is more romantic or enchanting than moonlight. All our ancestors, Greeks, Romans, Egyptians, Africans, and American Indians along with Western European witches, had countless myths and legends in which they personified the moon and called her, among other things, Luna, Diana, Artemis and Se-

The moon generally was referred to as a woman because of the mystery surrounding it.

NOW. THE FACT that man has visited the moon has not lessened but increased our fascination with this silvery ever-changing nightly visitor who winks at us from behind a cloud.

Sometimes it hangs so low you can really believe that a cow might conveivably jump over it. And, it takes very little imagination to see a man's laughing face on the surface of the full moon.

The Man in the Moon looked out of Looked out of the moon and said. "It's time for all children on the

To think about going to bed."

"My Sweetheart's the Man in the Moon," "Blue Moon," "Shine on Harvest Moon," "Moonlight Becomes You," "Fly Me to the Moon,"...the list of songs about the moon is endless, a constant source of inspiration for the poets of all eras.

Then there are those who view the moon not as romantic and poetic but as spooky - bringing to mind all those wonderful spine-chilling tales of horror about werewolves, vampires and the like.

THE MOON, like the sun, rises in the east and sets in the west, but there the similarity ends; for, unlike the sun, its size and shape are constantly changing.

There are four quarters in the moon's cycle. Following the dark of the moon, when it is completely hidden from us (May 11 this year was the dark of the moon), it soon reappears as a slender crescent commonly called the "new moon" (although the dark of the moon is also called the new moon).

For the next seven days it waxes (grows) and reaches its first quarter (May 18). Seven days later it is full, round and beautiful, as it will be on May 25 this year. From this point on it will begin to diminish in size (called waning) until June 1, when only half of it will be visible as it enters its fourth and last quarter. On June 9 it will again be dark and the hour. whole cycle will start anew.

In my grandmother's day no one (at knows.

least not in our household) ever did anything without first checking on the phase of the moon.

Grandma Thornton always said that if it was strong enough to pull the tides, it certainly had its effect upon everything else on this planet as well.

Crops were planted when the moon was waxing. This was also the time for casting spells for love, money and anything else you wanted to increase.

When the moon was waning it was a time to wind up one's business affairs. pull together loose ends, work spells to end romances, and whatever else vou wanted finished and over.

The full moon was a time for harvesting, rejoicing and great good magic; and the dark of the moon for secret deeds best hidden from the eyes of others.

THERE IS an easy way to tell at a glance whether the moon is waxing or waning. As it waxes, its horns point east, and when it is waning, the horns point west.

The following folk rhyme is a guide to the rising of the moon:

A new moon rises with the sun, Its waxing half at noon day shows; The full moon climbs at sunset

On May 25 this year, and again on November 15, there will be total eclipses. Witches regard these as good omens, indicating better times are in store. Since one of these. coupled with a full moon, falls on my birthday, I'm looking forward to an especially good summer. It should be generally good for everyone in this hemisphere.

When the moon wears a halo, or seems to have a circle around it, it is said a storm is coming and the number of days before the storm can be reckoned by counting the stars inside the circle.

My favorite lunar superstition is: When the new crescent appears in the sky, if you see it over your left shoulder you will have 30 days of misfortune. But, if you see it for the first time over your right shoulder, you will have 30 days of good luck. If you see it straight ahead, it means 30 days of hard work, which, in these days of unemployment, isn't so bad ei-

Also, remember you can always wish on the new moon no matter where you first see it. And if you gaze at the moon each night during the complete lunar cycle (30 days) and repeat your wish, it is almost certain to The waning half the midnight come true, especially if you have the right person gazing at it with you.

Glenn takes first Wayne track meet

Westland John Glenn standout Tom Jakuhowaki is usually content to win his two hurdle events at any given meet and allow his talented teammates to pick up enough additional points to get the win for the Rockets.

But last Saturday Jakubowski had to fill in for the absent Harry Polovino, anchoring two relays, and the Rockets won both events and held on to win the first annual Wayne Memorial Invitational track and field meet. Glenn won the event with 69 points over runner-up Ypsilanti's 67. Other area teams to score in the meet include Livonia Stevenson 730 points), Garden City East (20), Thurston (16), Livonia Bentley (15), Plymouth Salem (15), and Garden City West (12).

"I was a little concerned about Polovino's absence. But this team has run together before and it was really a pleasant headache to have Jakubowski anchor," said Glenn coach Barry Basel.

Jakubowski teamed with Frank De-Luca, Fred Shoemaker and Terry Bix-event by a whisker. Jakubowski picked up a second for the Rockets in the high hurdles with a personal best time of 14.2, two-tenths of a second off the winning time.

Although that was Jakuhowski's best clocking of the season, Basel said that he thought he could do better.

"He hit four hurdles in the race so I feel that he might have won it," Basel Surprising Garden City East picked up two firsts for the day.

Denny Volz, Keith Sieczowski, Brian Dominic and Doug Sweazey combined for a first in the medley relay event, winning with a 10.8 second margin.

Art Kitze became only the second area thinclad to break the nine and one-half minute barrier in the two mile run, going 9:29.9 to win the event easily. Teammate Sweazey broke that barrier last week.

"That first didn't really surprise e Panther assistant coach Terry Cherry said that he had confidence that Kitze could run the distance in

> "Art is an exceptional runner and a fine young man," Cherry said.

Livonia Stevenson, which finished fifth in the meet, was the only other area school to post a first, winning the pole vault relay. Greg Johnson. Bob Broeder and Bruce Temby combined to vault 35-6 as the Spartans won the event over Taylor Center on fewer misses.

Stevenson also took a second, two thirds and a fourth to complete its Thurston's Matt Whitehead just missed in the 100 yard dash, running a 10.1, for a second place, two-tenths of a second off the pace. Stevenson's Rick Hammell was third at 10.2 and Glenn's Terry Bixler was fifth in the same time.

Marathon bowler relieves backache

Some people bowl for fun. Others enjoy the competition for a share of the prize money. Still others get the rhost satisfaction out of being part of a winning team.

But Mrs. Marge Kropacek, 11351 Brownell, Plymouth, bowls for a much different reason. She finds that sliding to the foul line and releasing her 15-pound ball brings relief to an aching back.

"If it wasn't for my bowling," commented this housewife who bowls in four leagues a week, "I'd be a cripple

Somewhere along the line she twisted her body and the pain settled in her back. This forced her to turn elsewhere for activity to take her mind off the pain and agony. This is when she turned to bowling.

"I find that the steps I have to take and the swinging of my arm to re-lease the ball," she explained, "stretches the muscles in my back and brings me the only relief I get."

When she started she had a tendency to roll a 'back-up' ball when she substituted for a sister in the league at the old Northville Lanes. Then, she had the good fortune to catch the eye of the late Therman Gibson, one of the top all-stars of two decades ago.

"He taught me to roll a 'hook' and that was just the inspiration I needed," Mrs. Kropacek stated. "With my new found hook I joined my first league—the Northwestern Mixed League that bowled at Warren Bowl. I've been in league bowling ever

On Wednesday she took her turn in the Cadillac Classic at Satellite Bowl and on Friday she bowled in the Northwest mixed league at Brentwood Lanes.

Bowling in four leagues was a bit of a come down as she bowled in five the previous season and plans to bowl in at least three during the coming

"I'm not sure three leagues will bring me the relief I need," she commented, "so I am looking for another league that needs a bowler.'

While she attained a 178 average in the all-star Bowlerettes, rated one of the strongest women's leagues in the country, she recalls that her best game was a 275 and her highest series

Her 12-year-old daughter is the other bowling member of the family and competes regularly in the junior league at Plaza Lanes.

In the meantime, Marge, as she is familiarly known in bowling circles, is in a quandry. She isn't sure that bowling in three summer leagues will bring the relief she needs.

One of the nice things about buying a home is selling it.

A home is one of the few items you can buy that you can often sell for more than you paid for it—even though you've used it every day for years.

In fact, given the economic trend of recent years, almost any well-built, welllocated home is likely to increase in market value over the years.

And that's just one of the reasons people are looking at homes today.

Live in a tax shelter.

When you own a home, both your property taxes and your mortgage interest payments are tax deductible under current income tax law. These can add up to substantial savings, especially in the first few years that you own your home.

And that's in addition to the new tax credit of up to $2,000 which may be available to you under the Tax Reduction Act of 1975.

Interest rates are down.

Another reason for looking into a new home now is the fact that interest rates on home mortgages have gone down recently.

And don't overlook the advantage of being in a buyer's market. There are still more homes than buyers today.

See us for money.

We're making more home mortgage loans than any other bank in the area right now.

And not just because we have the most money to lend.

We also offer you an uncomplicated flat closing fee.

And the convenience of being able to apply for your mortgage at any NBD office, and have the closing set up in as little as two weeks after approval at an NBD office in your neighborhood.

Ask questions.

For most people, a home is the single largest purchase they'll ever make.

That's why we'll be happy to discuss the advantages of home ownership with you and answer your questions.

Why not visit your nearby office of National Bank of Detroit soon?

As bankers, we'll be happy to help you make what could be a very profitable investment.

all but four of the five losses have come in doubleheader play.

Last Friday the DH jinx hit again as Thurston split a Northwest Suburban pair with Livonia Franklin, winning the first game 9-3 and dropping the nightcap 7-4.

The split kept the Eagles atop the league with an 8-2 record, one game

THURSTON jumped to a 3-0 lead in the first game when Jeff Krzywada started the game with a walk, advanced on a Patriot error, took third on a fielder's choice and came home when Dennis Kuschel reached base on another error. Mitch Drozdowski then walked and Brian D'Ascenzo picked up two RBIs with a long triple to right-center field.

Franklin came back for two in the second when Mark Saia walked, was sacrificed to second and came home on Joe Polard's hit.

Pollard moved all the way to third on an errant pick-off attempt and came home on Bill Longeway's squeeze bunt.

Thurston got one back in its half of the second when Dave Beebe singled. moved up on Randy Kroll's sacrifice and scored on Krzywada's hit.

The Eagles picked up two runs without a hit in the fourth, scoring on three Franklin errors, a walk and a stolen base.

BOB BESSONEN reached first in the fifth on another Patriot error and scored on Kroll's single after he had stolen second.

Thurston wrapped things up with two runs in the sixth. Mark Purkiss singled. Randy Rodrigez walked and Kuschell hit an RBI double.

Rodriguez scored on a fielder's Franklin scored the final run of the game in the seventh when Sam Williams tripled and came home on JoJo Scarpace's single.

Rodriguez went the distance for Thurston, striking out six and walking two while picking up his fourth win in as many outings.

THURSTON played "instant replay" in the first inning of the second game, again scoring three times.

'Gunther started things for the Patriots with a single and Dave Tresik followed with a liner to left which bounced off Drzdowski's glove and rolled long enough to allow both runners to score, tying the game at 4-4.

Bob Bessonen came on for Thurston and was greeted by a single by Pederson. Bessonen then walked two before ahead of Garden City East and Oak Krzywada committed a fatal threerun error to wrap things up.

G.C. EAST — JOHN GLENN Garden City East stayed one game behind Thurston in the Northwest Suburban League race Friday, sweeping a tight double header from Westland

John Glenn, 3-1 and 2-1.

FRANKLIN

It was a pitchers' field day all the way as the two teams combined for a total of only 14 hits in the two games. Glenn jumped to an early lead in the first game when Steve Hodgkins doubled and scored on John Irwin's hit in the top of the first.

East immediately got that run back in the bottom of the inning when Jim Peter walked, stole second, moved to third on a ground out and scored on Wally Kroll's squeeze bunt.

East scored the winning runs in the fourth when Jeff Edgar singled, and stole second. Paul Schute walked and Britt Ponte delivered a hit which got beyond the Glenn outfield, scoring both Edgar and Schute.

It is not coincidence that two of the East runs were put into scoring position by stolen bases. The Panthers have made good on 49 of 56 thefts this

"WE HAVE six players who we will send if the situation warrants it," said East coach Billy Young.

Glenn again led early in the night-

The Rockets scored without a hit in the second when Irwin walked, was sacrificed to second, moved to third on an East error and scored on a ground out.

DRC thoroughbred owner Theresa Abahazy is a firm disciple of the old adage that music hath charms to soothe the savage beast. Several of her horses have had FM radios or stereos rigged in their stalls, including Azule Marino who kicked up his heels at her Bach and Mozart tapes but got that real contented look when she finally tried plain everyday jazz. It's also true that many grooms rely on pocket transistors when walking and settling down a horse after a hard workout on the track . . . Veteran DRC race announcer Jack Riggs, rated one of the

Top ranked Chiefs rally to oust Catholic Central

According to Fred Crissey, baseball coach at Plymouth Canton High School, when you're No. 1, you still have your problems.

'Our basic fault all year has been lack of concentration early," said the and man of the top rated Michigan Class A diamond squad.

And it was exactly that problem that put the Chiefs in a big hole in the first inning against Detroit Catholic Central Saturday before Canton fought back to take a 9-5 victory.

The Sharnrocks tallied all five of. their runs in the first inning on five hits, two walks and a Chief error. Mark Perkins took the shelling for the Canton took the lead for good in the fourth when Catholic Central balked in one run and another scored on a fielder's choice.

The Chiefs wrapped matters up in the fifth when Verduce, Major and Dave Pink all hit RBI singles.

The non-league victory gave the Chiefs a 13-2 record on the year. John Young recorded the victory in relief of Perkins with Canton ace Bill Parson working the final two innings.

Two year wait ends --Rocks take dual meet

The two year dual meet drouth for the Plymouth Salem track team ended last week when the Rocks bested Livonia Bentley 64-59 in Suburban Eight action.

"Of course I'm pleased. It's always a good feeling to win. But we don't let our losses in dual meets affect us that much so we aren't playing it up that much because we won," said Rock coach Gary Balconi.

The victory gives Salem a 1-4 record after a winless 1974 season. Mark DeMeritt continued his outstanding performances for the Rocks, winning the 220 and 440 vard runs.

Kim Woody went 13-4.5 in the pole vault to easily outdistance all com-

vie for DRC

With the absence this season of vet-Brogan, youth in the Detroit Race Course jockey colony is really having

A handsome color television set awaits the jockey who has won the most races when the DRC curtain comes down on Sunday, July 13, and 22-year-old Sam Maple and 21-yearold Mike Morgan are riding as though they want to use it to set up housekeeping.

So, too, is Cuban-born Ramon Perez. 27, who currently enjoys a slight lead over Maple and Morgan because he was on hand for the beginning of the DRC season and has ridden some 50 more horses. The younger jockeys had to finish racing assignments elsewhere before reporting to the big Livonia mile track.

It is not likely that any of the youth-ful horsemen will reach the North American record of 162 wins posted by Snyder at DRC in 1973, nor even the 102 victories logged by "Preacher" Brogan last year. But the current jockey crop will more than make up for that with their red hot race for the title. With all three contenders averaging five and six rides a day, the battle is expected to extend through the very last hours of the season.

AS THE DRC SUMMER meeting closed in on the halfway mark Tuesday, Perez led the chase with 34 riding triumphs. Maple, the best percentage rider in camp with 81 in-themoney finishes in 144 starts, had 25 victories, while Morgan showed 19.

Both Maple and Morgan, the latter an apprentice jockey, became famous for their hot streaks at DRC last year; track railbirds know the three man jockey race is even closer than it looks.

In addition to their much-appreciated winning habits, all three riders are also among the most colorful and the 1950's, the well educated Perez is voluntarily teaching some of the Puerto Rican and South American jockeys at DRC to speak better English. He's holding regular evening classes at his home in Detroit.

The handsome Maple, who lost a ride in the Preakness last year when his scheduled mount Friendly Bee died suddenly, is already being compared to his older brother Eddie by DRC tracksiders. Eddie Maple has enjoyed national riding stature for the after riding nothing more than plow horses and big draft horses at the family farm in Nebraska, Morgan has been quickly excellent enough to hook on as the No. 1 rider for Michigan's powerful Sandera Farm at Metamora.

"Mike is very young yet, and new at the game, but he can already make a horse talk," testifies Sandera proprietor J. V. Sanders.

Tryouts for the Redford Adray baseball team will begin this Sunday, May 18, and continue on the following Sundays at Redford Union High School.

usual mixed leagues of four-member teams, there is a trend toward couples bowling. This is especially true for weekends where some of the area establishments report more participation than in other years.

Most establishments are working on a schedule of at least one full league "across the house" during the week with the couples groups taking over on the weekends.

"From the many inquiries we have had," one of the proprietors stated, "the lag in the economy is helping us. It shows that more folks will be staying home this summer during vacation time and they'll be having their fun bowling."

This is a far cry from the old days-before the automatic pinsetter and air conditioning—when bowling was considered an eight month sport

IT'S TOO BAD the record books are limited to cold statistics and don't tell' the human interest stories behind the winning of championships.

For instance, there should be a note explaining the drama that marked the victory of the Amway team in the recently completed Detroit women's city tournament at Satellite Bowl.

The drama was provided by Donna Jo Kowalski, captain of the team, who lives on the far east side of the city. On the day the team bowled, she was half way to Satellite Bowl in Dearborn Heights when she discovered she had forgotten her bowling ball. There was nothing to do, but return home, get the ball and race for the lanes.

That's what she did, arriving just as the final notes of the Star Spangled Banner were sung. Then she led her team to handicap count of 3102 that eventually was good enough to win the title.

ANN SETLOCK, former "Queen" of the women bowlers, played a strange role this week when her teammates

ower mortgage interest rates may be short-lived

Realtors across the nation are conierned that the current dual attraction of plentiful mortgage funds and linwered interest rates in the housing market may be short-lived.

Reports already are filtering in more some areas that mortgage interrates have ended a three-month and are starting to edge upward ain. Indications from most other areas are that the rates have bottamed out with increases expected to be needed to meet competition from her borrowers before long.

The big worry appears to center on evernments' growing need to finance billion at the federal level alone.

"WE ARE HOPING that we don't run into a repeat of last year's situation that saw massive withdrawal of funds from mortgage financing institutions for investment in higheryield government securities," states Jerry J. Rozema, president of the United Northwestern Realty Association (UNRA).

"The real estate industry is showing signs of recovery from the 1974 tight money' market. But if it goes the same way again, we'll be hardpressed to find mortgage funds for qualified borrowers at affordable

Rozema said that, with the present economic crunch, house prices have remained fairly stable over the past three quarters. But a cycle of rising prices dictated by increased costs will likely emerge in the second half.

Buyers who have been following trends apparently have spotted this and are moving now to take advantage of the present "buyers market." Since mid-April, sales persons have recorded a substantial increase in sales and a sharp rise in the number of people looking to buy.

LOCALLY, lending institutions on large measure have rebuilt their depleted supplies of mortgage funds. Nearly everyone seems to feel that lending rates are about at the minimum that can be expected.

with the anthracnose in early spring. When the leaves are fully developed another phase of the disease appears, causing triangular brown areas in the leaves which eventually cause browning and death of the entire leaf.

Infected leaves fall throughout the summer.

(PART IV)

For three years-from 1957 through 1960—the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra performed a series of open air concerts during the summer months on the estate of the late Dr. Ralph Pino.

Pino, a patron of the arts and crafts, owned a farm west of Plymouth, near the junction of Ann Arbor Road and Ann Arbor Trail. He invited the orchestra to play by the side of the pond on his property.

Dr. Pino, whose practice was in Detroit, was one of the most famous eye surgeons in the United States. He had set up his "Plymouth Colony Farms" as a center for experiments in fruit growing, poultry raising and the propogation of various wool-producing sheep to supply the colony's weaving industry. The experiment, a minorscale Utopian enterprise of the Brook Farm variety, died with Dr. Pino several years ago. The property is now a condominium site.

TWENTY YEARS AGO, however, the terrain and atmosphere at the farm were ideal for open air concerts. Adjacent to the pond was a natural amphitheatre, formed by a grassy slope which ran down to the willow-bordered body of water, often frequented by a mother duck and her large brood of waddling offspring.

Not far away, in the corner of a wood, was a log cabin which Dr. Pino had named "Walden" in honor of Thoreau, the New England naturelover, who had made his pond in Massachusetts famous by his experiments in hermit-like living on its shores in the 1850s.

When Dr. Pino invited the orchestra to use the property, supporters of the orchestra immediately went to work to build a bandstand beside the pond. Volunteer workers gave up their weekends to drive piles, install floorings, and erect a canvas canopy to serve as a sound reflector.

THE VENTURE was an outstanding artistic and social success. Appreciative audiences enjoyed the pastoral scenery as well as the symphonic music. Some performances drew crowds as large as 2,000. Sixty per cent of the audience came from outside Plymouth. Eventually, however, the Colony Concerts came to an end when the Symphony Society, faced with a financial choice between chose the former. . .

The three-year summer interlude was enjoyed, and is fondly remembered, by those who were fortunate to have attended the outdoor performances. Those who made the experience possible have a right to be proud of their parts in the undertaking.

The Plymouth Symphony Orchestra is also proud of the accomplishments of many of its "alumni." Among the nity" or "civic" symphony orchestras. former members of the local orchestra who have made good in other pas- largely of music-loving amateur, nontures are: a member of the Metropolitan Orchestra, a singer with the Metropolitan company, a member of the Philadelphia Orchestra, and the dean of the school of music at the University of California.

HIGHLIGHTS IN the history of the Plymouth Symphony were noted in the "Plymouth Observer" in May 1970. They include:

1951: Family concerts inaugurated. 1955-56: Mozart's 200th anniversary observed, with probably the first complete performance in America of his "Coronation Mass," K. 317. In the same year, the Symphony presented performed in Plymouth. 1956-57: First "pops" concert pre-1957-58: The Michigan Orchestra Association held its first two-day convention in Plymouth. During that year, Emily Mutter Austin became concertmaster after the death of Josef Lazaroff.

"Hansel and Gretel," the first opera

1957-60: Summer "Colony Concerts" were presented, as referred to earlier. 1960-61: The orchestra presented the first Plymouth performance of Beethoven's ninth symphony.

1961-62: Grant Williams Chorale, now the Kenneth Jewell Chorale, was organized in Plymouth and first appeared with the orchestra.

1962-62: The Turnau Opera Company production of "Barber of Seville" was presented, followed by "LaBoheme" the next year. 1965-66: The 20th anniversary of the orchestra was highlighted by a performance of William Walton's "Belshazzar's Feast" by the Jewell Cho-1966-67: The orchestra performed in Beethoven's violin concerto and Paul Doktor played Berlioz's "Harold in 1968-69: "The Messiah" was performed by the Jewell Chorale and the Brahms violin concerto by Millard Taylor.

The Plymouth Symphony is said to be the largest community orchestra in Michigan. Plymouth is reputed to be regular season and summer concerts, the smallest city in the entire state to maintain a civic orchestra.

> OUTSIDERS have noted that the Plymouth Symphony is "able to perform the most elaborately-scored works ever composed - from Berloiz to Brahms to Hindemith." Music critics from Detroit and from other metropolitan cities have often commented on the high level of the orchestra's programs.

> Of the more than 1,200 "commuin the United States, composed professional performers, the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra undoubtedly is superior to most.

> For that the residents of Plymouth have to thank Paul Wagner, who organized the orchestra in 1946; Wayne Dunlap, who joined the group in 1951. and who brought it to its present state of excellence; the artistic skill the members have acquired by working together for almost three decades; and our fortunate proximity to several major universities, and to the Detroit Symphony, giving us access to some of the best amateur and professional talent in the midwest, and perhaps in the nation.

AAUW selects announcer for bicentennial tape

PLYMOUTH-Jay Cunningham has been selected to narrate the bicentennial tape "Heritage, Happenings, Hopes" presently being produced by the Plymouth Branch of the American Association of University Women.

He was selected from a field of 19 contestants during auditions held May 8 at Plymouth Salem High School. Currently serving as manager of education and training at Chrysler Corporation's General Manufacturing Division, Cunningham worked professionally as a radio and television announcer before joining the company 10 years ago. He has been a resident of Plymouth Township for a little more than a year.

Cunningham said he decided to audition for the program because, "It sounded like a way to become involved in my new community by doing something I really enjoy."

First alternate selected at the narration auditions was Mike Di Cuirci, a teacher at Central Middle School. The announcer for the Centennial Park Band, Salem High School senior Bob DeLano, was selected as second afternate. He is an announcer with student radio station WSDP-FM.

Shooting has already begun on the 30-minute bicentennial production and the narration will be recorded in June. The tape will be shown to the public in the Dunning-Hough Library during the Fall Festival in September and will be available for viewing by school and community groups throughout 1976.

The small Cadillac awaits first market test

By DAN McCOSH The miry world of the prestige car normally remains removed from the sales pitches aimed at the mass mar-

When an east coast banker remarked, "If you are worried about the price of gas, you can't afford a yacht," he also made the definitive statement about a luxury car.

Worry about the price of gas would probably mean you couldn't afford a Seville, either.

Introduced at a national press conference in Southfield last week, the new "international size" Cadillac is a step into deeper water for the only automotive division in the Big Three generally doing well in this year of the big sales slump.

The smallest car in the Cadillac lineup, at $12,500-olus it is one of the most expensive. It is 27 inches shorter, eight inches narrower and almost 1.000 pounds lighter than the 1975 Cadillac Sedan DeVille.

Although the projected mileage is approximately 19 miles per gallon, economy is not expected to be its strong selling point.

CADILLAC GENERAL Manager Edward C. Kennard mentioned "Mercedes" numerous times during the introduction ceremonies, including saying an abortive attempt had been made to furnish a Mercedes 450 SE as a comparison.

He also made a point to mention the car had been under development over four years, "long before the current energy and economic problems had become apparent."

The car is aimed at what appears to be a growing segment of the luxury car market-those looking for a compact, five-passenger, but obviously expensive automobile.

Imports such as the Mercedes sedans, the Jaguar sedan, BMW and The Observer Eccentric

Thursday, May 15, 1975-

Rolls Royce have been built with smaller wheelbases and significantly higher prices than American luxury

Marketing of some of these cars. particularly Mercedes and Jaguar, alludes to the good handling qualities of the cars.

A short film narrated by Kennard featured footage of the new Seville negotiating the turns at a race track in California.

Kennard mentioned some advance ads were "different" than the usual Cadillac presentation, but was no more specific.

A smaller car for more money? Kennard was confident the price was right. "The price reflects our normal practices of adding a reasonable profit to the cost of production and development." he said.

But later he mentioned some dealers had objected to the price, which was substantially less than the highest-price imports. Some buyers, apparently, wanted to be sure to drive the most expensive.

Kennard both raised and countered this argument by saying Cadillac wanted to be sure to maintain a high resale value on the used-car market. something the imports have not always been able to do.

IS THE CAR a trend setter? It features a 350 cubic inch electronically fuel injected engine, which may eventually drift down to the rest of the GM line, but "it's expensive," according to Kennard.

All Cadillacs will probably get smaller, "along with the rest of the fullsized cars," he added. Robert Templin, head of engineering for Cadillac, outlined a new testing system, which allowed the design to be tooled and the old El Dorado Assembly plant prepared for the new car in 16 months.

Testing and tuning the chassis was also done in a record time using a new method of computer analysis.

DRIVING THE CAR gives the impression of a solid, good-handling sedan, although it is not a sports car.

The engineering attention paid to noise suppression paid off with an extremely quiet- car. The interior appointments are luxurious, with a fine attention to detail, including a polite chime rather than the noisy seat-belt

Area dealers are enthusiastic. Chuck Audette, of Audette Cadillac in West Bloomfield, says he took his first order last October, from a buyer who had never seen the car. A limited run of 2,000 cars, all a silver-grey, is expected in dealerships by May 1, but most are already or-

Audetts says he has 18 ordered. "The availability of parts is one strong selling point...customers say they sometimes wait six months for delivery from overseas," Audette

Ray West, of Wilson-Crissman Cadillac in Birmingham, also had back orders. "A lot of people have been waiting for this car," he added. He felt the price was "competitive" with the market. "It's another Cadillac." he added when asked whether it felt different selling a small car.

Although the marketing plans include overseas sales, according to Kennard, "our dealers come first," and only about 15 have been designated for shipment abroad at the pre-

Seville hasn't hurt here

"The new Seville shouldn't effect the sale of any of our other models because we are aiming at the import market," says Bill Knight who is public relations director of the Cadillac

"As a matter of fact, we are looking upon it as the 10th model in our series. This is a different car for a different market and shouldn't hurt our sales a bit.

"We are aiming our sales promotion at the owners of such cars as the

Mercedes and hope to reduce the number of imports. ED PROBUR, head salesman in the Don Massey salesroom on Ann Arbor Road, Plymouth, commented, "We are not soliciting our regular customers," in discussing the role to be played by the Seville.

we are concentrating on the. owners of European luxury cars and the response is surprising. We even heard from a man in Newport News, Va., who always has been a luxury

"The Seville fits nicely into our program because it gives us an entry into a competitive class. More than that, we are attracting the type of purchaser who always wants one of the first of any model."

The only Cadillac dealer in the western Wayne County area, the Massey company officials, including Don Massey, explain that, sales are up almost 25 per cent over a year ago. Massey sees this as a sign the Seville will not cut into regular sales of other years.

Shouldn't they include a Travel Agent?

Sure they should. Because, like your doctor, lawyer and banker, Travel Agents are specialists. They help plan vacations that give you the most for your time and money...usually without charging you any money for their time and services.

Travel Agents have the inside story on moneysaving fares, group rates, offbeat and off-season places offering wonderful values for wonderful vacations. They know the sights, the bargains, the clothes to take. They know because they've been there. Best of all, they make all your travel arrangements for you...flights, rental cars, traveler's checks, even tickets to special events.

And in most cases, they do it all for free. You see, they get their commission from the sellers, not the buyers. In other words, from people like us. So when you plan your next vacation, include a Travel Agent. And tell her we sent you.

Throughout the present controversy over the water rates in the various communities one question has been running through The Stroller's mind;

"If you arose in the morning and turned the spigot in the bathroom or the kitchen and there was no water how much would you give to have the stream activated again?.

This question is running through the Stroller's mind, not because he has a desire to take sides in the debate between the City of Detroit and the suburbs, but because there have been times in his life in the suburbs when he turned the spigot and there was no water. And believe it, it is a sinking feeling.

The first such experience came some years ago when The Stroller and the little woman who runs our house, decided to build a home in the country-- at least that's how Livonia was referred to in those days.

We had some grand plans and were not a bit concerned when we were told that city water was not available.

"FINE," WE SAID, now we can have a well and a decorative wishing well in the yard just for atmosphere. In due course we located a well driller and he started work at a spot we selected. Each morning The Stroller, like a kid with a new toy, visited the site and asked how things were going. And each morning the driller replied that he was making progress.

Then came a surprise-and a shock. One morning as The Stroller pulled into the road, he met the well digger coming out with all of his equipment.

"How's the water?" The Stroller asked and was shocked when the driller answered, "There isn't any. I'm down more than 200 feet and no sign of it. I don't want to take your money,"

Stunned, The Stroller asked, "What will we do now?" "Well mister." the driller answered, "the next time you build a house get the water first. God you want it."

Then he advised to excavate for a cistern to catch rain water for household use and bottle water for drink-

That wasn't very encouraging to a fellow building a new home.

But the cistern was dug and on the way down the diggers struck three running springs. As luck would have it, we had the best water in the entire community.

luck has a way of running out and came the day when we got the real

It happened to be on a Labor Day and The Stroller and the lady of the house were hosting a party of friends in the vard.

Then, midway in the afternoon, came a plaintive cry from the kitchen, "There's no water. The well must have gone dry.'

Sure enough, that's what happened. You can imagine the sinking feeling. No city water available... the well dry.. and no place in the country to turn for relief.

There had to be some real adjusting. First, we had to get a large milk can like the farmers used to deliver the milk. We went to friends in the city and filled the can with water for drinking and household purposes.

For our baths we had to depend on the generosity of friends in the city for the use of their facilities. And on Monday mornings the Little Woman packed up the wash and took it to her mother's home. What a way of living! And without water!

At the depth of our despair, one of the neighbors had a great idea-why not rent a water wagon like they use to sprinkle streets, and then get permission to go to a fire hydrant. That way we can fill our cisterns each

That was fine, too, until winter came. If you've ever seen firemen fight a blaze, in icy weather you'll have an idea of what we looked like.

IT DIDN'T TAKE VERY long until the fun of these Sunday morning water trips ended and we tired of the drudgery.

At long last, we appealed to the township board and were told that the bond issue was exhausted. We also were told that if we wanted city water we would have to pay cash to run the water line almost a quarter mile and then also pay cash to run the lines into our homes.

It was quite a cash outlay, especially for young folks in a new home. But The Stroller never will forget the morning, after that long winter, when he turned the spigot and out came a stream of sparkling water.

As we stood there looking at it, there were tears of joy in the little woman's eyes. as she said, "It sure is worth the price we had to pay for it."

It proved the truth of the old saying, "You never miss the water till the well runs dry."

Some thought ought to be given to this when you argue over the proposed water rate raise. "That crystallike fluid is worth its weight in goldespecially when you don't have it."

'Equality....shall not be denied...on account of sex'

BY SHERRY KAHAN

"Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex.

to enforce by appropriate legislation, the provisions of this article.

"This amendment shall take effect two years after the date of ratification."

This is the proposed Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. These are the words that have stirred up so much anger among women, and so many claims and counter-claims as to their true meaning.

"I really believe that it's men who are supporting the women who are opposing the ERA," said the chairwoman of the Monroe County Republican Party at a meeting at Schoolcraft

"Men are giving them funds to operate with and travel with." was how Mrs. Audrey Perr put it.

"If they were really homemakers and practicing what they preach about letting men dominate their lives, they would not be able to afford this themselves.

"As long as men give women money and time to continue the fight against women, men will continue to dominate the country."

IN A SPEECH sponsored by women's programs and services, Mrs. Perry addressed mainly issues raised of children have provided the basis military draft. Social Security, homesexual marriages, child support.

privacy in public institutions," she child support as now apply." "The Congress shall have the power said. "This applies to such places as public toilets and military barracks."

The possibility that women may be drafted because of the ERA is not the issue it was before the voluntary army came into being, she said.

"However, in the case of dire emergency, I don't believe that men are beneath women and should be killed first," she added.

"Congress has the right today to draft men and women on an equal basis if such an emergency arises. It doesn't take ERA to have a draft, nor does the amendment state it wants women to be drafted."

Mrs. Perry said she thought a change ERA might make in Social Security would be to allow a man to draw on his wife's benefits.

"Today, if the wife should die, her husband could not get benefits from from her social security."

CONCERNING the possibility of the marriage of homosexuals, Mrs. Perry stated, "The ERA will have nothing to do with what determines the legality of a marriage: a state does.

'Social value systems are changing' but not because of ERA."

Alimony, child support and custody

by anti-ERA groups - restrooms, the for many an argument between ERA: opponants and supporters.

Mrs. Perry noted that "in a divorce "ERA will not interfere with the the same principles of need and abiliconstitutionally guaranteed right of ty to pay will apply to alimony and

> She added: "ERA will require that men be eligible for alimony under the same conditions as women. This will be more fair to men."

ERA will require both spouses in a divided family to contribute equally, within their means, to support their children. At present only 38 per cent of fathers make full child support payments one year after the decree, she said, quoting an ERA pamphlet.

THOSE AGAINST ERA claim that if it "becomes the 27th amendment to the U.S. Constitution, all laws which say the husband must support his wife and children could become unconstitutional."

This statement was made recently by Mrs. Jay Glover, president of Livonia Republican Women. It was included in a letter to state officials stating that her organization had voted overwhelmingly to request the Michigan Legislature to rescind its 1972 action supporting the Equal Rights Amendment.

"I was very upset by the action of the Republican women in voting to rescind the state's action in passing ERA," said Republican Mary Dumas, who attended the Schoolcraft meeting.

A member of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, Mrs. Dumas said board concerns had prevented her attending the meeting at which this action was taken.

Present, however, was Mrs. Elaine Donnelly, Michigan chairman of the National Stop ERA Committee, who spoke to the group.

"I think they waited until eve had gone and then took a vote," said Mrs. Dumas. "I'm going to tell them how I feel."

IN THE SAME letter to state officials, Mrs. Glover further attacked

"Equal rights for a Livonia WAC forced her to reside for two years in an all-male barracks - the subject of insults and derision," she wrote.

Confronted with that statement, Lt. Kathleen Metz, selection officer in the Detroit area for the Women's Army Corps said, "It sounds incredible and I find it hard to believe.

"Before last year all WAC companies were billeted together in WAC barracks. Lately the Army has begun to establish apartment-like quarters with women or groups of women having their own rooms. Men also live in these apartment buildings.

"But there is certainly no case where a woman would have to live with men in a big room in a World War II-type barracks.

"The Army has gone out of its way to be good to women in terms of accommodations. Any complaints about housing and other matters are carefully considered."

Woman's world used to be clearly defined. Now it has widened, but there are differences about the exact effect of a constitutional amendment designed to knock down old boundaries and limitations. A recent visitor to Schoolcraft sought to answer some of the questions.

Olga Madar speaks

Bias in hiring called worse threat than seniority

By MARGARET MILLER

Working women are threatened far more by time-rooted discriminatory practices than by organized labor's seniority system, says Olga Madar, a leading voice in both feminist and labor movements.

Ms. Madar, retired vice president of iority system," she told her student, the United Auto Workers and now chairperson of the Coalition of Union Women, was speaking at Henry Ford Community College as part of its International Women's Year series.

are being laid off because of the sen-faculty and community audience.

"I say those who talk that way have their facts mixed up," she declared.

"There are some 36 million women in the work force, and only about four "There are those who say women million of them are organized. So far more are being laid off out of line of

herself to the controversial questions of quotas-for women and minorities- and what she called "ficticius seniority," seniority rights for a worker who may have been discriminated against in the past.

"I have no hangups about quotas," she declared. "I come from the early fights against anti-semitism in hiring practices. Quotas have been used as a method of seeing to it that progress is

"I guess I take the position of Golda Meir, that in an equalitarian society the shame is not in using the quota system but in the fact that there is a need to do so."

IN SEEKING to correct injustice and move ahead, she said, "We should not move by taking anything from another individual whose fault it was not."

Instead, she insisted, "Those who perpetuated the system should be penalized." Thus there should be redress, she added, "when you can prove the seniority is less because there was an earlier discrimination."

"The real job we have to do." Mis. Madar stated, "is to take the seniority rystem, look at it and changes so that as people on a job and acquiry at the College Colleg

Committee to the speaker said increases awareness among government officials that in the matter of employment for women "we have a helluva long way to go."

"A speaker for the manpower department said there had been a good increase in female apprenticeships," Ms. Madar said. "The figure used was 3,800 more women receiving them. But when you look at the total number of apprenticeships, that comes to .008 per cent.

"So what looked like a tremendous amount of progress has to be reconsidered in the light of starting with zero achievement."

ADVANCEMENT OF WOMEN in the labor force, Ms. Madar said. means "we have to take a look back. to school and family."

"Many women fail in examinations that would lead into apprenticeships and thus higher paying jobs," she added.

"But then we must realize that they are not encouraged to take, at the grade school and high school level, the classes that would get them into these programs.

"We must now really do the basic job of changing bad attitudes about jobs for men and women,"

this long-time proponent said, will mean that 'at long last our government will give a definite committeent to participating democracy and a free society in far as half of its Olice State of the last of the with regard to housing and credit. health coverage and social security will have to be changed to be fair."

"But we must realize," she added, "that it's a matter of utilization of all our human power as well as equality of opportunity for all.

"The Women's movement is a civil rights issue."

THE SPEAKER conceded that some time ago unions were in the forefront of the battle for protective legislation to cover working women.

"But what happened," she stated. "is that these laws were used, not to protect women, but to eliminate them from nome jobs.

"Some of us saw what was happening and realized we should not oppose ERA.

"So the push now is for protection applicable to all workers, not just women. When there is a benefit in the protection, we say let it be extended. If it is against the worker, let it be rescinded.

Ms. Madar also insisted women must "continue to move forward in citizenship and political process."

Appointment of women to government posts, she said, must start at the top.

"There is a vacancy as under-secretary of labor;" she mid, "and I say it's time to appoint a female.

"I will say loudly and clearly to all concerned that if the president does not fellow through on what he is keying about the equality of weather he cannot expect lower officials to take action."

Food cooperative for unemployed planned by YWCA

Within a few weeks, 50 unemployed residents in the area around the Northwest Branch YWCA in Redford Township will find themselves in the grocery business.

The YWCA is founding a food co-op solely for the unemployed, with the first organizational meeting to take place Tuesday, May 20 at 1 p.m. at the YWCA, 25940 Grand River.

At the start only 50 families can be accepted. But names will be taken for a waiting list which will be used as the co-op is developed.

"THE PEOPLE who join will have to work," said Mrs. Ruth Duey, a YWCA staff member. "They will have to sign up as baggers, buyers, bookkeepers and baby sitters. Most of the work will be done on Monday morning when the weekly shipment comes in.

"The buyers, who will be specifically trained by us, will have to go down to the Eastern Market at 6 a.m. to buy fruit and produce and bring it back to a room in the Y.

"Then the baggers will place it in bags for the co-op members to pick

Each member will pay $4.25 a week in advance. The following week he will receive the fruit and produce selected by the co-op buyers. Because the co-op members will be doing all the work, prices will be considerably less than those in grocery stores.

MRS. DUEY noted that training for co-op members would begin with sessions about how it works and what jobs will have to be done.

"We'll be working on it all summer to train members to run it themselves," she said. "The co-op director will be Mrs. Bobbie Skovgard, who helped start a food co-op in Walled Lake."

Mrs. Skovgard is a former staff member of the Northwest Branch

She advises that members must plan to donate at least four to six hours a month to plan the food buying and bagging of food. The group will do their own truck driving and cleaning up as well as the jobs already

"Members have a ball," she said. "Besides saving money and becoming better organized in their food buying, they will learn to create new menus for unusual fruits and vegetables."

Having an unemployment card entitles a person to join. Registration fee is $1. Funds for co-op director will be supplied by the United Community Services, an arm of the United Foun-

Smoking clinic coming

WELDON O. YAEGER will lead a three-session Smokers Survival Clinic May 19, 20 and 22 in Redford Baptist Church, Grand River at Seven Mile, Redford Township. The Michigan Cancer Foundation, Detroit West Unit, is sponsoring the free clinic. Each session begins at 7:30 p.m. and lasts two hours.

Environmental film planned

Lynn Balman of the East Michigan Environmental Action Council will lead a program for the Livonia Family Y Women's Club Thursday, May 15, from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m. in the Y building, 14255 Stark.

Miss Balman, a Farmington resident, will show a film, "The Gift," narrated by Lorne Green and depicting problems involved in water pollution.

She also will offer environmental homemaking hints and will answer

Refreshments and coffee will be served.

The program is open to all women interested. Tickets, costing 50 cents for members and $1 for non-members, may be purchased at the door. Babysitting will be available.

Plant talk

Information on growing indoor plants will be offered in a plant demonstration sponsored by the Western YW Nursery School Thursday, May 15 at 7 p.m. in Good Shepherd Reformed Church, 6500 N. Wayne, Westland.

A plant store representative will do the demonstration and will have plants for sale.

The charm and elegance of a Viennese ballroom are right here in Plymouth at The Mayflower Meeting House, ready to be part of your wedding day. Your pleasure begins with the planning, as the Mayflower staff is able to provide every service for 100 to 450 persons, including excellent food and drink, creative flower decor and a delicious wedding cake. You'll greet your guests in an intimate reception lounge complete with beautiful fireplace and dine under the magic light of magnificent crystal chandeliers. And when you leave, even your exit will be memorable, as you throw your bouquet from the bridal balcony overlooking the entire room. 41 years of experience are at your service when you have your wedding reception or rehearsal dinner at the Mayflower.

When the experts compared supermarket prices Chatham was lowest!

And we have the figures to prove it!

THE TEST

An independent survey team compared prices for 8 weeks on over 150 items you buy most, such as: meat, eggs, milk, cheese, canned goods, fresh fruits and vegetables, cereal, detergents, juices, paper products, coffee, frozen foods and others.

the six major chains in Wayne, you'll discover what .Chatham Oakland and Macomb counties.

THE RESULTS

The survey proved that by shopping at Chatham your family could save significantly on their weekly food bill - and we have the figures to prove it.

THE MORAL

You don't have to run all over town to "Catch Advertised Each week, they shopped in Specials". If you shop Chatham shoppers already know. You average total weekly food bill will be less at Chatham. And that's what saving is all about. (SURVEY FACTS) Test conducted by National Marketing Surveys. Results reported April 10, 1975. All figures certified by NMS. For test Summary, write: National Marketi g Surveys, 127 Townsend Street Mifland, Michigan 48640.

Week-in and week-out your total food bill should be less at Chatham

WHODUNIT?

The sofa, the chair, the stove and the dresses ... all sold in a single day. Who could have gotten away with it? It's really not such a mystery. Every clue points to the Observer & Eccentric Classifieds: the quick response, the number of calls, and most important, the results-SALES. Consider the opportunity . . . the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers are read twice each week by more than 155,500 families in Wayne and Oakland Counties -- families next door to you and in neighboring communities. Consider the motive . . . the Observer & Eccentric Want Ad

Department has a strong desire to satisfy your needs, whether you're selling a couch or looking for a job. Consider the weapon . . . the Observer & Eccentric Family Want Ads have a double edge because they're placed in two consecutive issues (Monday/Thursday or Thursday/Monday) and are seen each time by more than 155,500 witnesses. And these Family Want Ads (no changes in copy, no cancellations) cost only $6 -- that's a savings to you placing an ad in two issues. It's a modus operandi that is well known and makes the solution to this case elementary.

Coach Lamp Hills

MANY OF THESE HOMES QUALIFY FOR THE UP TO $2000 TAX CREDIT*

*If you purchase a home currently under construction before March 26, the recent U.S. Tax Cut Bill will allow an actual credit off your TOTAL 1975 Federal Income Tax of 5% up to a maximum of $2,000. Subject to clarification by the I.R.S.

COACH LAMP HILLS is located on the Old Sargeant's apple orchard orginally settled in the early 1800's. The scenic, rolling countryside and farmland are reminiscent of northern Michigan. Two of Michigan's most popular cider mills are located nearby. Children attend the Rochester school system, long known for its excellence. Oakland Community College, Michigan

Christian College, and Oakland University provide an outstanding opportunity for continued education. The Meadow Brook Center, ingluding Meadow Brook Theatre, makes the community an admired cultural center. Several fine parks in the area offer year-round recrecational activity. Thompson-Brown, the marketing representatives in Coach Lamp Hills, is working with four builders there, each providing his own design and professional touch to the homes he is constructing, giving each one character and doing away with the "look-alike" community. Four new models are open for viewing including the 1975 Award Winning Idea Home, The Williamsburg, a four-bedroom, 21/2 bath American classic colonial, featuring a large foyer, and huge master bedroom suite with large walk-in closet, private bath with shower, separate dressing room, and twin-door entry. Three other four-bedroom, 21/2 bath colonial homes are featured on "model row" --The Portsmouth, The Georgetown, and the Madison: A variety of colonial elevations and ranch home are also available. Coach Lamp Hills is located two miles north of Rochester, off Rochester Road, near the 1-75 and M-59 expressways.

The Woods:

Rated Adult Only

Frankly, living in The Woods is not kid stuff. Oh, not that they wouldn't enjoy it - what with the magnificent clubhouse, year-round pool, landscaped walkways, and all. It's .

ust that many adults prefer to live around other adults.

Period. So we've planned a community for them - right in the heart of the most glorious natural stand of native woods in this area. It's a sophisticated community, with excitingly designed condominium homes that reflect a contemporary view of life. A community with social overtones . . . where adults can relax and enjoy life undisturbed by the patter of tiny feet. If that's what you've been looking for come to The Woods. And enjoy it.

...we're more than just a pretty face!

When you're condominium hunting you know how your heart beats just a trace faster when you drive into a community that looks good. "This may be it," you think. "The home we've been hoping to find." Then you walk in the front door and the letdown hearing. Just more bland asserting to the control of the control of the letdown hearing. and more, custom resures that we test belonged in such an atmosphere. Exceptional sound condition-ing, Walt-to-wall luxury carpating. Central air con-ditioning, Attached garage with private, enclosed entry and electronically opened door. A large, privete walled patio. This combination of outer aerenity and inner beauty, of comfort and value would be welcome anywhere. At these prices in this Bloomfield location it's a remarkable find! Find out for yourself. Sobn.

And that's where South Hills differs from the rest. Architecturally pleasing, with interesting planes and angles, lots of wood, brick, and handsomely used natural materials, its exterior beckons a warm welcome to owner and guest alitie. But underneath it all you'll find more than you could have hoped for, interiors that you didn't even know existed outside of glossy home magazines. Here a conversation pit surrounding a natural fireplace that looks like it was meant for coay evening teta-a-tetes. There a soaring, two-story livingroom with exotic beloony over-

Colorful daffodils brighten an otherwise bleak winter view. Keep flowering plants as cool as possible indoors and keep soil evenly moist. Keep sprouting bulbs cool and moist until time to bring indoors for forcing into bloom. These daffodils are ready to bring inside.

After flowers fade, put bulbs (with foliage still on) in an out of the way place so they can continue growing to store up energy in the bulb.

Garden color-mixed as you please has a special way of saying welcome.

Beyond the green of the lawn there's the summer color of roses—tree, bush and dwarf—and whatever pleases the eye of the gardener.

The blue spruce—the aristocrat of the needled evergreen—the bluer the foliage color, the higher the rank.

Ē, The Daylily—no plant is more willing to please, as a show-off the flower border or as a bank cover for evosion control.

The life of a commercial farmer revolves around the weather. When the farmer plants, when and how much he harvests, (or if he harvests at all) how much he irrigates, or whether or not he needs frost protection, all depend on the weather.

The home gardener confronts the weather on a smaller, more manageable scale. The small weathers clustered around every house and yard, technically called microclimates, will yield to a surprising number of modifications. And modifying the natural climate to protect or further the growth of vegetables is one of the most rewarding exercises in gardening.

On the next four pages we've taken a look at home gardeners and university researchers who are bent upon making plants grow; providing the best possible environment for the best possible results. If their climate is extreme or deficient in some way, these gardeners modify it to better suit the plants' needs. The ways in which they have modified their climates should interest any fellow gardener.

Mulching is one of gardenings oldest techniques. The English word was probably derived from the German vernacular molsch, meaning soft and rotten. It is probable then, that the ancient mulch must have been a litter of straw that gardeners found kept the soil cool and moist. From the very beginning gardeners have used mulches as a means of modifying the growing environment of plants.

Dr. J. W. Courter, an Extension Specialist in Small Fruit and Vegetable Crops at the University of Illinois, and secretary of the National Association of Plastics in Agriculture, describes a mulch as "any substance such as straw, sawdust, plastic or paper spread on the ground to protect the roots of plants from heat, cold, drought, or to keep the fruit clean. Specifically, mulch modifies the soil and air microclimate in which a plant is growing."

A mulch, then, can be either organic or a manufactured material such as polyethylene film (plastic), aluminum foil or

"To make maximum use of space, all carrots, radishes, beets, parsnips, onions and the like are planted in double rows within the 2-foot space. Crops that should be planted in rows 30 to 36 inches apart are spaced further apart within the row.

"In some cases I will try to get 3 crops out of the same piece of ground. For example, an early crop of spinach comes off in June. It is followed with potatoes. Before the potatoes are harvested, a planting of kale goes between the potatoes which are harvested before the kale is mature.

"This close spacing has more advantages than increasing production. With the foliage of all plants touching there's a canopy above the soil. The need for weeding and hoeing is lessened. The foliage of the plants acts as a mulch. The vegetable garden is a thing of beauty." Every gardener has his own idea of the best varieties. Sometimes it's based on production; sometimes on taste. On July 24 we finished picking our spring seeded crop. From a 200 foot row we harvested a total of 250 pounds. I always plant my main crop of beans on May 15 and harvest all the beans in 4 pickings, 4 days apart. This year the first harvest was July 12 and the last July 24. The kids have the most fun picking the last harvest. They can pull the plants out of the garden and sit on the picnic benches and pick the beans in the shade.

Carrots. I usually seed the main crop of carrots the first week of June. Even if you leave these in the ground all through fall into winter, they don't set seed and they stay sweet as honey. We prefer the 'Nantes' and 'Chantenay' types. We usually get about 300 to 350 pounds of carrots a year.

The space-saving vertical garden

As ground space for gardens gives way to the apartment balconies, decks, patios and roof tops, there's only one way to find growing space-go skyward, go vertical.

More than 10 years ago we began our search for more growing space in every square foot of ground space. Our starting point was a "Petunia Tree" we saw in Salt Lake City. All of our initial trials (see progress illustration in panel below) were with ver-tical gardens built in much the same manner as a wire hanging and light weight planter mix.

Growth of plants in these "trees" was better than expected. We grew all kinds of lettuce, tomatoes and cucumbers as "salad trees"; marigolds, alyssum, were wire mesh, sphagnum moss, and light weight planter mix. used. The column we found most useful was the half circle of wire nailed or stapled to a 1 by 12-In the early days we over-scaled the units; there was no need for the amount of planter mix we basket. Excellent tables and flowers occurred in growth of strawberries, vegeThe size of the wire mesh was important. All were planted with transplants. Although the root ball can be squeezed through a very small opening, we soon used only hog wire or welded wire with 2-inch mesh.

Make room for strawberries

The highlight of the delights of a home garden is the strawberry patch. And there is no need to take the word "patch" literally—the strawberry is a most accomodating plant.

As seen in these pictures, the strawberry can be grown successfully in a variety of situations—in containers of all kinds, in a vertical garden, in hanging baskets, with or without plastic or organic mulch, or used as an edible ornamental serving a wide variety of landscape uses. Whether growing strawberries in containers or in the garden, the soil you plant them in should be well drained. Do not set the plants too deep or too shallow. The bud should be set level with the surface of the soil. Gardeners who grow strawberries in containers in a disease-free soil mix don't have to worry about verticillium wilt and red stele (root rot). Both are caused by soil-borne fungus. To ensure success, start with plants certified to be disease free. If you have grown strawberries for several years, you know their performance is not exactly predictable. The quality of the same variety may differ from one year to the next due to differences in the weather pattern and soil conditions.

Also, if you have gardened in several locations, you have learned that what is the "best" variety in one location is only fair in another area. Varieties available at local garden stores are adapted to your area. In choosing adapted varieties, you can play it safe by checking with the office of your County.

shipping ability, and comparison taste tests. The supply at garden stores will be a mixture of the latest commercially recommended varieties and those with local appeal. Since firmness for shipping is not important in the home garden, you may not agree with taste tests of the commercial grower.

The following are some of the recommended varieties you may run into in your area:
'Earlidawn,' Widland,' Midway,' Redstar,' Surecrop, Everbearing: 'Ozark Beauty,' 'Ogallala,' 'Gem,' 'Geneva.'

If aphids, leafhoppers or mites attack, spray with ORTHO Fruit & Vegetable Insect Control.

Botrytis fruit rot may be serious in wet years and in beds that are too crowded. To prevent fruit rot, spray with ORTHOCIDE Garden Fungicide when new growth starts in spring and repeat Early crop of strawberries from a row covered with clear plastic.

In the spring you can use it to get an early start on garden vegetables. North windows are pretty much limited to the indoor foliage plants on a permanent basis, although lots of others will get along if given recovery periods in brighter light, for example, philodendron, diffenbachia, aspidistra, Chinese evergreen, and nepthytis. North light is uniform and dependable and supplemented with artificial sources it will do about anything you might want.

East and West windows may provide from 2 to 4 hours of direct sunlight, enough to get good color from coleus and bloom from impatiens and gloxinia. Croton, osmanthus, campanula should do well. Remember that there is a lot of difference between two hours of early morning sun and four hours of strong afternoon sun.

Light modification

If you want the kind of indoor/outdoor interchangeability that accommodates blooming plants inside and provides for shade loving plants outside, you may have to modulate the outdoor light and augment the indoor light.

To modify outdoor light, increase part-shade area with overhead trellis or awning over the patio, or build a raised wood deck under a high branching tree for pot display. To increase inside light, a simple outside tree pruning may work wonders. The addition of a circular fluorescent tube in a reflector suspended above a table plant may push it over the line, from existing to a really healthy growth. A pair of 40 watt fluorescents can supplement an inadequately lit window or provide a separate growing area independent of the outside light.

Double duty

The idea of potting up outdoor plants for a period of growth indoors is advised with great enthusiasm. However, if you are moving outdoor plants inside for the winter, and the indoor climate differs greatly from the outdoor environment, there may be a week or so in which the plant doesn't look like it's going to live. Don't despair, the plant is adjusting to its new environment. The plant may lose some of its leaves or flowers, but they will be replaced when the plant has adjusted to its indoor climate. Some candidates for double duty are: ageratum, fibrous begonias, balsam, coleus, geraniums and impatiens.

The use of decorative wall boxes, hanging pots and floor stands, can convert a well lit wall area into an instant jungle.

A light gardener's workshop with light from without and within.

A mulch of bark chunks modifies soil temperatures and dresses up the garden.

An illumination inventory of your house will probably reveal that there are many areas where you would like to have plants: that are at the low end of the light scale. In many houses the only areas with light intensity above 250 foot candles are the window sills themselves. Except, of course where the direct sun shines in and abruptly pushes it up to 8,000 or more. 250 foot candles is about the same as the illumination 1-foot away from a 100 watt bulb in a reflector and 8,000 foot candles is great for the eggplant in your vegetable garden, but likely to cook your asparagus fern.
