

Gray, Yack take Plymouth board spots

PLYMOUTH—Incumbent school board treasurer Thomas Yack and former school board member Joseph Gray have been elected to four-year terms on the Plymouth School Board.

Gray topped all candidates in the field of six by taking 1,885 votes. Yack followed closely behind with 1,814 to take the second spot.

Trailing by a little more than 300 votes was third place finisher Flossie Tonda with 1,571. She was followed by Leslie Cavell with 935 votes, Elden Thomas who captured 712 and Jack Wiegand who picked up 373.

Turnout was light as only 19 per cent of the district's registered voters made it to the polls. Those figures show that 1,700 less voters made it out this year than in last year's race in which four board seats were open.

Last year's turnout showed close to 25 per cent of the registered voters made it to the polls.

Gray, 42, a manufacturer's representative from Plymouth Township said he was pleased with his election after a one-year absence from the board. Gray was narrowly defeated in a re-election bid one year ago when he finished third to George Lawton and Marcia Borowski.

"I'M LOOKING forward to accomplishing some of the things I set out to do when I was on the board a year ago. I'd like to see the board sit down and work together on a list of main objectives during the coming year.

"It takes at least four votes to do anything and I'm hoping we can all work together to gain these accomplishments."

Joseph I. Gray

Thomas Yack

One of the crucial issues that Gray sees facing the board during the coming year is decisions on financing the staffing and opening of three new elementary schools in the fall of 1976. "We're going to have to get the people behind us and working with us on this to insure that these new schools meet the needs of the community."

Yack, a 28-year-old administrator in the Wayne Westland Schools, is a Canton Township resident. He said he saw his re-election as "sort of a vote of confidence. It affirms that I've been doing the right kinds of things on the board."

"I PRIDE myself on not being tied to one interest group and I appreciate the confidence those 1,800 people showed in me by voting for me."

Both winning candidates were also pleased with the results of the two millage issues on the Monday ballot. "The furthest thing from my mind for a while was not whether I'd be reelected, but whether the .46 mill levy would pass. All I could think of was the lengthy sessions with the board trying to trim more than $200,000 from the budget," Yack said.

Gray said he was happy that both millage issues passed but said, "A lot of times it seems the only time we go to the people is for a millage issue. Looking at the narrow victory for the .46 mill levy, we're going to have to do something to keep the board more in touch with the community."

PLAYOFF VETERANS abound on the Rock baseball team. The team is represented by players who either went undefeated in football, traveled to the Class A semi-finals in basketball or finished as regional champs in golf.

Rocks ready to battle for state baseball crown

By MARILYN FITCHETT

PLYMOUTH—"Out here we think of ourselves as state football champs, but I'm pretty sure that everyone in Detroit considers Brother Rice to be No. 1. We're out to prove that once and for all we're the number one school in the state."

That's the feeling of Tim Dillon, Plymouth Salem centerfielder, who also quarterbacked the football team and played guard on the basketball team.

Undefeated in football, a bridesmaid in the state semifinals in basketball and regional champs in golf, the Rocks are used to winning.

And although they will be facing an experienced team in Hazel Park High on Saturday as they enter the state class A baseball semifinals, the Rocks have an experience to boast of their own.

Unlike Hazel Park, which went to the semifinals last year, Salem does not have any baseball playoff veterans. But they have eight team members who sweated out playoffs this year.

"This is bound to help us," Coach Wayne Sparkman said. Our team should be less likely to clutch."

Football players who are swinging bats for Salem are Dillon, Charlie Johnson and Doug Tripp. Basketball players on the team include Dillon, Dan Moore, Brian Wolcott and Howard Inch. Golfers are David Pierce and Chuck Thomas.

Sparkman admitted that his baseball team has not prompted the "intensity" that the basketball and football teams generated.

"We've had a good following but we're competing with a lot of pretty significant events like graduation, honors day and the prom," Sparkman said.

If Salem wins its game against Hazel Park at Wyandotte Roosevelt, they will face the winner of the Flint Central-Bay City Handy game later in the afternoon.

With the championship on the line, Sparkman says he's preparing his team for just another game.

"I expect the first game to be a pitcher's duel," he said.

Salem Ace Tom Willette, with a 12-1 record, will be on the mound against Hazel Park. Another lefty, Chuck Thomas, will get the call for the second game, if the Rocks advance.

Willette shrugs the semifinal off as just another game.

"I've never been nervous before a game," he said. "I'll throw the ball just like I always do. After I've faced the hitters once I'll know how to pitch to them."

While any pitcher would be delighted with a dozen runs to back him, Willette believes two or three runs will be enough for him to win the game.

Thomas has the tough chore of sweating out a victory in the first game before he can step to the mound for the second.

But the wait shouldn't prove too nerve-racking.

"Why he won't even be awake until the second game," one of Thomas' teammates jokingly reported.

It was the same southpaw combination that put the Rocks into the semifinals as they beat Adrian and Dearborn in a regional doubleheader last weekend.

For the Rocks it will be more than a game. It will be a test of their dominance in the world of high school sports.

5.15 levy passes-- .46 added squeaks by

PLYMOUTH—Voters in the Plymouth Community Schools have approved two millage issues which will provide more than $15 million in operating funds for the district during the next six years.

More than two-thirds of the voters gave the nod to a 5.15 mill renewal, with 2,996 (71 per cent) voting in favor of the proposal and 1,243 voting no.

Results were much closer on the second proposal seeking an additional .46 mills for operations, as voters passed the measure with a two per cent margin. Unofficial results place the vote totals at 2,132 "yes" votes (51 per cent) to 1,988 "no" votes.

Supt. John M. Hoben said he was "very appreciative of the support the community has given to both millage proposals."

"We hope to honor that support by maintaining the quality they expect from the Plymouth Schools." The superintendent said he was particularly pleased that the millage issues had been passed despite the current economic climate.

For the upcoming 1975-76 school year, the combined total of 5.61 mills will produce more than $2.5 million for the day-to-day operations of the school district. With the recent reduction of the district's debt levy to 6.59 mills from 7.07 mills and the expiration of a .4 mill safety millage, taxpayers in the district will still experience a tax rate decrease of .41 mills during the 1975-76 school year.

The two millage proposals will provide approximately 16 per cent of the district's anticipated $17.4 million in revenue for 1975-76.

Despite threats by parents in the Miller School area that they would encourage defeat of the millage proposals because of the year-round 45-15 program which begins in July, voters at Miller approved both millage proposals by equal or larger margins than those reelected district-wide.

The vote at Miller on the 5.15 mill renewal showed 345 yes votes (70 per cent) to 158 no. On the .46 added levy 288 (56 per cent) voters said yes and 226 said no.

Voters in all nine precincts in the district recorded a 2-1 margin or better on the 5.15 mill renewal. The largest yes margin was recorded by voters at Fiegel School where the yes votes were 80 per cent of the total.

The .46 mill renewal was defeated in four precincts, including voters at Central Middle School, Isbister, Starkweather, and Allen, while the remaining precincts gave the yes votes a slight edge. Fiegel voters were also most enthusiastic on the operating millage increase with 60 per cent of the voters in favor of the increase.

Student voters differ from folks

The appearance of a "name candidate" at the top of the ballot apparently influenced Plymouth Educational Park students who cast votes in the schools' mock election last week.

Top vote-getter among school board candidates in the mock election was Leslie Cavell, who actually placed fourth in the regular election.

According to government teacher Audrey Etienne, who directed the election, students seemed to be swayed by Cavell's name.

"The basketball coach at Canton is Casey Cavell and I think a lot of students were voting for the name. It also seemed to help that Cavell's name headed the ballot."

With the exception of the Cavell "victory," students voted pretty much the same way as did their parents. Finishing second, third and fourth were Joseph Gray, Thomas Yack and Flossie Tonda. These candidates were the top vote-getters in Monday's election.

Students tended to be a bit more hesitant about spending money on a renewal millage. Sixty-six per cent of the students voted in favor of the millage, while 71 per cent of their parents agreed to the millage renewal.

Neither parents nor their children were overwhelmingly in favor of the .46 mill addition, but both agreed to it by a narrow 51 per cent margin.

In the Schoolcraft College trustee race, top student vote-getters were Harry Greenleaf, Mark McQuestion and Ron Cowden. Adults in the district voted for Cowden, Greenleaf and McQuestion. District-wide, however, Cowden and McQuestion were awarded trustees' seats.

Leary resigns from school post

PLYMOUTH—After only one year in the district, Plymouth Schools' Assistant Supt. for Instruction Dr. James Leary has resigned.

Leary will leave the district at the end of this month to take a position as associate superintendent for the Walled Lake School District.

After approval of Dr. Leary's resignation by the school board, President E. J. McClendon voiced the board's feelings: "We wish Dr. Leary every success in his new position and congratulate him on his promotion."

"Of course we regret the loss of an able person and are sorry events did not permit Dr. Leary to remain in Plymouth long enough to fulfill the great potential we think he showed for improving our instructional programs."

Leary said he was leaving with "mixed emotions."

"I am sad to be leaving Plymouth. I've put down some roots here and have established many close personal and working relationships. But it is an advancement that offers me an opportunity to affect even more of my educational goals."

"I felt that for my personal and professional growth and for my family's sake, it was a step I had to take," Leary said.

Leary began his career in the Clareenceville Schools as a math teacher in 1956. After a four-year leave ending in 1963, when he worked for the department of defense in Madrid, Spain, Leary returned to Clarenceville and rose to assistant superintendent.

Leary is a resident of Farmington where he lives with his wife and five children.

Cowden and McQuesten victorious

For the first time in the district's history, a Schoolcraft graduate will serve on the college's board of trustees.

That was one record set in Monday's balloting which saw Ronald Cowden and Mark McQuesten elected to six-year terms on the Schoolcraft Board of Trustees.

The second record was set by Cowden who became the all-time top vote-getter in college trustee races with 10,116 votes. Cowden broke his own record set in 1973 when he was first elected to the board with 6,506 votes.

McQUESTEN PLACED second behind Cowden with 7,064 votes and Harry Greenleaf ran third with a 6,488 total.

McQuesten won his seat by a 576-vote margin in his second try for Schoolcraft trustee. He was defeated by Cowden in 1973.

It was the Livonia vote which carried Cowden and McQuesten into office, aided by strong showings in Plymouth. Cowden ran first in Livonia, Plymouth and Northville and second in Garden City and Clarenceville school districts. McQuesten placed first in Garden City, second in Livonia, and third in Plymouth, Northville and Clarenceville.

MARK McQUESTEN

RONALD COWDEN

Greenleaf placed first in Clarenceville, second in Plymouth and Northville, third in Livonia and fourth in Garden City.

RICHARD HAYWARD placed fourth with 3,826 votes, followed by Jerome Harris with 3,137 and Robert Cadotte with 2,224 votes.

Hayward placed third in Garden

City and fourth in the other districts. Harris placed sixth in Northville and fifth in the other districts. Cadotte placed sixth in all districts but Northville where he finished fifth.

Livonia ballots were cast as follows: Cowden, 7,500, McQuesten, 5,065, Greenleaf, 4,197, Hayward, 2,508, Harris, 2,203, and Cadotte, 1,560.

Plymouth voter preference was: Cowden, 1,530, Greenleaf, 1,507, McQuesten, 1,135, Hayward, 628, Harris, 495, and Cadotte, 328. Northville votes were: Cowden, 567, Greenleaf, 342, McQuesten, 278, Hayward, 170, Cadotte, 98, and Harris, 91.

Garden City voter preference was: McQuesten, 490, Cowden, 425, Hayward, 368, Greenleaf, 332, Harris, 295, and Cadotte, 200. Clarenceville votes were: Greenleaf, 110, Cowden, 104, McQuesten, 96, Hayward, 62, Harris, 53, and Cadotte, 28.

THERE WERE millage questions on the ballot for voters in Livonia, Plymouth and Clarenceville school districts.

The money questions drew a good voter turnout in these areas and Garden City had a good turnout in a board of education contest which saw an incumbent being defeated.

There was signs of partisanship in the balloting with Republicans Cowden and Greenleaf doing well in Republican areas like Plymouth and Northville and Democrat McQuesten doing well in Garden City, heavily Democrat, and in Livonia which is politically split. The backing of the teachers' unions in Livonia and Plymouth was also an asset for McQuesten.

The six-year terms take effect July 1 and the two trustees will take office at the organization meeting July 7.

Both Cowden and McQuesten are Livonia residents. Other members of the Schoolcraft board are LeRoy Bennett of Plymouth Township, Arch Valier of Plymouth, Gerald Cox of Garden City, Rosina Raymond, Paul Kadish and Nancie Blatt of Livonia.

Urge state action

Suburbs meet on water rates

By CARL STODDARD

SOUTHFIELD—Although two-thirds of the money pouring into the Detroit Water Department is from communities outside Detroit, control of the water and sewer rates remains solidly in the hands of the Detroit bureaucracy—a fact that stirred a good deal of controversy at a meeting of suburban water users.

Representatives from most of the 96 municipalities which use Detroit's sewer and water attended a meeting in Southfield last week to decide what to do.

At the end of the hour-long meeting, the representatives voted to encourage state legislation governing control of the Detroit Water department.

LIVONIA MAYOR Edward McNamara, one of three suburban representatives on the seven-member water board, presented three objectives for possible adoption.

The objectives were prepared by a water rates study committee appointed at an earlier meeting of the water users.

McNamara, who chaired the Southfield meeting, offered the committee recommendations to the municipal leaders and asked for further suggestions.

The original recommendations, along with suggestions made during the meeting, will be forwarded to State Rep. John Bennet (D-Redford Township), chairman of the house special committee studying the Detroit Water Department. Bennet is expected to draft the recommendations into a bill and present it to the Michigan House for action.

THE RECOMMENDATIONS outlined at the meeting are:

- Guarantee suburban representation on the Detroit Water Board. Under the Detroit city charter, the seven-member board may have no more than three suburban representative. And the suburbs may be excluded entirely.

- Require the Detroit water department to be audited annually by an outside agency. The audit for 1973 has not yet been completed. Without a periodic independent audit, the committee said, it is impossible to judge the necessity of any rate change.

- Require the Board of Water Commissioners to hold public hearings before a proposed rate change. Such hearings are not now mandatory, nor is it possible to appeal rate changes. This is inconsistent when compared with regulations imposed on other public utilities, the committee members said.

ABOUT 60 PERSONS attended the meeting at the Southfield Civic Center, including representatives from Farmington, Lathrup Village, and as far away as Harper Woods and Flint.

The group met for a relatively short time, and only half a dozen comments were made on the committee's recommendations. The mood, however, appeared to be antagonistic toward the Detroit Water Board—an atmosphere heightened by McNamara's description of how the board approved a sewer rate increase.

McNamara said the four Detroit members met in the absence of the suburban members and approved an increase in sewage rates. The rate increase followed the adoption of a balanced budget, he said.

When he discovered the rate increase, McNamara said he "violently objected" but without success.

According to Farmington city manager Robert Deadman, the sewer rate increase will cost the average user $12 a year.

IF THE BOARD approves an increase in water rates, McNamara said, Livonia will sue Detroit in circuit court and federal District Court.

McNamara said he believes control of the water and sewer system eventually will be taken out of the hands of Detroit.

"It might be one year, two years or five years," he said, "but it's got to happen."

"A metropolitan water system has got to happen. It's bigger than the Detroit Water Commission."

He also warned that a rate increase could go into effect if a judgment is made against Detroit in connection with the Port Huron water tunnel suits.

A costly decision would be passed on to all water users, despite the fact that the Detroit—and not the suburbs—was responsible for digging the tunnel, he said.

SC clerks defeat UAW

Fulltime office clerical employees at Schoolcraft College in Livonia have voted against joining a UAW union and in favor of forming their own union—the Schoolcraft College Association of Office Personnel.

Losing the election by four votes was the International Union, United Automobile, Aerospace and Agricultural Implement Workers of America (UAW) in an election supervised by the Michigan Department of Labor.

The vote was 28 for the Schoolcraft organization, 24 for the UAW, one for neither, and one challenged ballot.

The SC Association of Office Personnel will represent all office clerical employees as sole bargaining agent.

Those excluded from belonging to the new union include: college nurses, bookstore manager, accounting supervisors, personnel technicians, assistant to the registrar, all supervisors, technical employees including computer programmers and systems analysts, professional employees, administrative employees.

Also: confidential employees such as secretary to the president, vice-president and personnel director, and temporary employees including clerical workers employed as a result of a federal or state grant, and student employees.

DEAN E. RICHARDSON has been named general chairman of the 17th annual Detroit-Windsor International Freedom Festival to be held June 28 through July 4. Richardson is chairman of the board of Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit. The festival, which attracts about one million participants, is the only festival of its type in the world and highlights the goodwill that exists between the peoples of Canada and the U.S.

Bicentennial licenses plates now on sale

LANSING—Michigan motorists have a once-in-a-lifetime chance this month to order a personalized bicentennial license plate different from any other in the state as a personal keepsake of the nation's 200th birthday.

June 30 is the deadline for ordering the 1976 three-color license plates. Thus far, 4,000 personalized license plates have been sold—3,000 were new applications. Some 5,000 were sold in 1975.

Cost of the plates is $26 plus the normal license fee. Applications are available at all field offices of the secretary of state. The plates will be sent out after Nov. 15 when 1976 passenger plates go on sale.

Canton says no to Mettetal purchase

By DARLENE STINSON

CANTON—Township officials heeded the voice of the people Tuesday night, when they unanimously agreed to forego the purchase and expansion of Mettetal Airport.

Although all seven board members spoke up against the township's purchase of the facility, the wording of a motion, introduced by Clerk John Flodin, caused some dissent.

Flodin, Treasurer Carl Parsell, and Trustees Gerald Cheske and Robert Myers moved to adopt Flodin's formal resolution, which declined to purchase the airport and pledged the township's support to any private organization which purchases the facility.

That motion, passed 5-2 with Trustees James Poole and Brian Schwall dissenting, was prompted by a suggestion from Supervisor Robert Greenstein at a recent public hearing concerning the township's proposal to purchase Mettetal.

Greenstein had asked businessmen, who benefit most from the airport, if they could purchase the facility as a group. The township, he told businessmen, could probably pledge some type of tax break or exemption.

Poole and Schwall declined to give their support to the latter part of Flodin's motion pledging their support to an unknown future owner of Mettetal. A future owner, both trustees feared, could interpret the township's support as expansion of the runway.

"I think the majority of anti-purchase people at the public hearing spoke against expansion," Schwall said. "There's nothing in the motion about expansion."

Added Poole, "We're in mass agreement on turning down the airport. But you're saying you're pledging support and cooperation to anyone who buys the airport. I think it's premature to support anyone who wants to buy it."

Other board members disagreed. The owner of Mettetal, Greenstein said, would have to appear before the planning commission and board of trustees before expanding the runway.

"We included that in the motion," the supervisor said, "because we feel the airport is an asset to the community. My suggestion was to support the owner of the airport in terms of a tax reduction. That is the express intent of this verbiage."

"I go on record that I interpret the position vote as having nothing to do with the extension of the runway," Greenstein added. "I further go on record against the expansion of the airport."

Flodin, Parsell, Cheske and Myers added their opposition to the runway's expansion to the record, but Poole and Schwall still were not satisfied.

To clarify the township's position,

Schwall moved against the future expansion of the airport. That motion, supported by Poole, was unanimously approved.

All township officials voiced opposition to the township's purchase of the airport because of overwhelming residential opposition and unanswered questions in a financial feasibility report, conducted by R. Dixon and Speas Associates.

"After reading the study, I was probably more negative than positive," said Poole. "He (a representative from R. Dixon and Speas) never said why Canton should buy it. My impression was that Canton would be supporting pilots and other communities."

Said Cheske, "I can't see spending money to buy it and operating at a loss for 10 or 15 years, especially when we need other things like better fire protection. I can't see the argument that industry would flock to us because of the airport. They haven't yet, and they could just as easily locate in a neighboring community."

Although opposed to the township's purchase of the airport, Greenstein voiced a desire to retain the airport in the community.

"Within a number of years or months, we might not have that facility available," he said. "That could prove to be a tragedy to the township. I personally feel that if private businesses won't take the chance, I'm not sure government should either. I think we are obligated to vote negative."

Referring to the public hearing and residential opposition to the township's purchase of Mettetal, Greenstein added, "This board religiously did not make its feelings public before the public hearing and kept its mind open. This board will continue to keep its mind open. I don't ever want to see the people in this township fighting their own board."

Local funding of LEIN program is considered by state officials

By MARILYN FITCETT

PLYMOUTH—The erosion of the police department as a community responsibility and its establishment as a member of a regional "superagency" are some of the fears expressed by Plymouth Police Chief Timothy Ford.

Ford, who doubles as president of the Wayne County Association of Chiefs of Police, reacted bitterly to news that the state is considering charging municipalities for the use of its Law Enforcement Information Network (LEIN). LEIN has been provided at no cost since its inception in 1967.

LEIN is a computerized system of running checks on citizen identity and automobile ownership. Within seconds after radioing police headquarters, the computer tells the police officer whether his suspect is wanted for a crime or has been reported missing.

ACCORDING TO Ford, the State Police have been ordered to cut $400,000 from their budgets. Police chiefs had been warned that the state would begin charging about $2,000 for terminal use of the system.

The latest word from the state, however, is that beginning Jan. 1 police department will have to pay $3,000 per year in terminal fees. But according to Henry Sedmak of LEIN, the item of charging police departments for the service is "still being negotiated."

"The whole issue is being reviewed," Sedmak said.

He added that if the legislature agrees to have departments pay the fee, the state will "have no choice" but to remove the terminals from departments who do not pay the fees.

Ford objects to the fee on two counts. He is upset that the subject was discussed in legislative committee without local representation, and he objects to smaller departments having the same fee assessed as large metropolitan departments.

"We question the necessity of this kind of fee," Ford said.

"Ever since the citizens voted down the sales tax on food, the state has been jamming all kinds of costs down the throats of local government."

"With all the money they've been assessing local governments you could put the money end to end and come up with a 300 per cent profit."

"I think it's kids' stuff on the part of Gov. Milliken. He's saying, 'we're really going to punish you now.'"

FORD SAID if the fees are agreed to, he is hoping they will be rated according to the size of the police department.

"I don't see why the City of Plymouth has to pay the same amount of money as a city the size of Detroit. We don't use it as frequently as the departments of Livonia, Westland or Dearborn Heights."

Ford noted that the actual cost of a computer terminal is $15,000.

"If they charge us $3,000 this year, what's to stop them from charging us $4,000 next year and $5,000 the year after until we're picking up the entire cost?"

"What I see coming is the loss of the individual department's ability to function within this system. We would be forced into a position of becoming a members of a regional superagency."

"It's uneconomical to even think Plymouth, as a single political entity, could afford $15,000."

Ford, however, left no doubt that police departments need LEIN. "We've become dependent on the system. We can't do without it. It's our connection with immediate justice."

"The system is also a safety precaution for our officers. LEIN is worth every penny, but you come to a point where you can't afford it."

At Rotary Farm

Fiegel students tend their garden

By DARLENE STINSON

CANTON—Fifth graders at Fiegel Elementary School plan to put food on their families' tables—even if it takes all summer.

The students are mixing a sprinkling of seed, a generous dash of hard work and the soil at the Plymouth School Farm to raise an acre of home-grown fruits, vegetables and flowers this summer.

"You name it, and we got it," said fifth grade teacher Fred McMaster, as he squinted across the field in the bright springtime sun. "We should have all kinds of tomatoes and corn. I hope there's enough of most vegetables to go around for a couple of meals."

THE PROJECT, begun about a month ago with seeds and hoes, is designed to give students a taste of the farmer's lifestyle and stretch the family's budget. The project will end next fall at harvest time, with weekly jaunts to the field in between.

"We thought we could maybe save families money and teach the kids a little of the rewards of farming—like blisters," McMaster laughed. "It's hard work—harder than we all expected. They're surprised at just how much time it takes to weed and everything."

Although many of the garden-tending chores will take place during summer vacation, McMaster expects the entire class to participate. The fifth graders, bound for East Middle School next fall, will meet at Fiegel School for the weekly gardening chores. McMaster and parents will transport students to the field.

But the fruits of their labor will be well worth the work, McMaster and the young workers unanimously agree. Even those who dislike vegetables are looking forward to harvest time.

"I hate vegetables," said fifth grader Missy Gortney, as she wrinkled her nose in distaste. "But the rest of my family likes them a lot. My mom and dad think this garden's a great idea. They didn't plant a garden this year."

WATERMELONS, cantaloupes, carrots and beets will grace students' tables come late summer and fall as well as cauliflower, corn, cabbage, green onions and peas.

Home-grown tomatoes, green peppers and cucumbers will spice up any salad, while carnations and sunflowers will splash bits of color and aroma on the table.

Pumpkins will find their way to Fiegel Elementary School for a pumpkin sale next fall and make smiling or evil jack-o-lanterns next Halloween.

"I think this is cool," said fifth grader Lisa Bryl, as she yanked up a clump of weeds. "We're the first ones from our school to do this."

Added her classmate, Sheila Stonik: "I think this is more educational than doing school work. My mom and dad really like it, because they don't have to buy stuff."

Tom Nowicki says he's going to plant a garden at home with the experience gained at the Plymouth School Farm.

"My mom said I could build a garden for her," Tom said. "This is real fun."

Township tables drain improvement

PLYMOUTH TOWNSHIP—The Plymouth Township Board of Trustees Tuesday tabled indefinitely a plan to build a $150,000 water main extension north of Schoolcraft Road and across the M-14 Expressway.

The board had tabled the item at its May 8 meeting, asking Herald Hamill, president of the consulting engineering firm of Brender-Hamill, to seek an alternate route for the drain.

Hamill reported to the board that he could find no alternate route. He added that, at worst, township refusal to put in the drain might result in low water pressure in the Five Mile-Haggerty area in 10 to 15 years.

"In my opinion, no alternate route that I can conceive is feasible," Hamill said. "We already have a 16 x 16 inch cross line at Haggerty and Schoolcraft so that a minimum of fittings would be required."

"This location would fit into the distribution system best, and would have much better flow characteristics than the suggested alternate."

under future pavement when Schoolcraft Road is relocated."

Board members questioned whether costs would rise if they decided to build the drain in two years.

"That would require boring the expressway 500 feet, but costs would be about the same," Hamill said.

Trustee Gerald Burke questioned if the township could float a bond issue to pay the cost of the water main.

Clerk Helen Richardson replied that she didn't think the cost of the project warranted bonding.

Trustee Richard Gornick added that the township was at the point "of diminishing returns" with its water rates and hinted at increased water rates for township residents without the added cost of putting in a water main.

After tabling the measure, the board asked Hamill to keep them informed on the feasibility of adding the water main.

Hamill noted that the Eucalyptus Pipe Line Co. is planning to relocate an oil line in the same area.

"The best solution would be for the same contractor to do both jobs," he said.

The project was originally researched as a method of equalizing water pressure throughout the township.

Symphony league celebrates 20th

PLYMOUTH—It was nostalgia time at the annual luncheon of the Plymouth Symphony League as former officers reminisced about the past 20 years of league activities.

Music was provided by the Resident String Ensemble. Plymouth high school musicians in the group were: Kathy Harrington and Marion Heindryckx, violins; Brian Lockhart, viola; Chris LeBeau, cello; and Bill Otto, bass.

After a salad bar luncheon, served by the ladies of the First Methodist Church of Plymouth, retiring league president Jan Gerish thanked her board and members for their contributions to a successful season.

She announced that she and Mary Smith will be co-chairmen of a "wine walk" in October. This is a new project for the league and one which has proved highly successful as a Dearborn Symphony League activity.

Plymouth Symphony Society and the orchestra, paid tribute to the league: "Without you there would be no orchestra or society."

Betsy Delaney, who will continue as treasurer, reported donations totaling $8,000 to the Plymouth Symphony Society and $100 to the Junior Symphony Orchestra.

The league's money-making projects included: Fall Festival antique mart, round robin bridge, symphony ball, art auction, pops concert, bake sale, home tour, fashion show and bowling league.

Doris Sleeth, president of the bowling league, said prizes had been awarded recently at their bowling banquet. Fourteen teams had bowled at the Plaza Lanes and with the "aid of amulets and Indian beads, we had a good season and a lot of fun."

MRS. GERISH turned the program over to the new president, Fran Lang. Stephanie Miller will serve as vice-president.

Vicki Ross will continue as secretary and Jan Quick as refreshment chairman. Diane Hubick is taking over as publicity chairman. She replaces Sue Bunch.

With some prompting from Mrs. Lang and Doris Zerby, who had waded through years of handwritten minutes, former officers recalled the early days of the "women's association."

Kathryn Huber Robinson told of the $100 profit realized from the 1958 symphony ball. Tickets were $3.50 a couple.

Those were the days of geranium sales (35 cents a pot, or three for $1). Mrs. Huber said the first pops concert was in 1957. The first cookbook was published in 1956. Symphony for Pots and Pans by Plymouth Cooks was illustrated by Marion Sober and Eleanor Warren did all the typing.

It took years to sell all 2,000 copies but as soon as they were finally disposed of there was talk of having a reprint.

About this time, Joanne Hulce suggested a rejuvenation of the organization with membership divided into 10 groups, each responsible for one major project and two smaller ones.

In April 1959, it was suggested the name be changed to the Plymouth Symphony League. Natalie Koch was the first chairman under the new format.

HIGHLIGHTS of that era were the summer concerts at Dr. Pino's farm and the theater parties. "The Visit," a final performance of the Lambs at the old Shubert Theater in Detroit, with Jo Hulce as chairman, netted an $800 profit.

This was followed by "The Music Man" and a "Night with Harry Bela-fonte," both financial and social successes.

"Amahl and the Night Visitors" performed by an NBC television troupe was a sellout at the Christmas concert. Prices were on the rise as symphony ball tickets went up to $4 per couple in 1959. Boxes of notepaper with a reproduction of Betty Hudson's sketch of the old city hall were sold.

BETTY CHILDS, Elinor Graham, Peg Jenkins, Lisa Murphy and Doris Zerby served terms as chairman of the league during the first decade. A junior symphony league was formed which served refreshments during rehearsals of the Junior Symphony Orchestra.

Harriet Randall organized the round robin bridge, which became a great money-maker with a fringe benefit. It was a wonderful opportunity for old-time Plymouth residents to meet newcomers and many lasting friendships were formed.

Mrs. Hulce and the Plymouth Antique Club were responsible for the first antique show during the 1962 fall festival. The club acted in an advisory capacity when the league took over.

Mrs. Zerby, who is historian of the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra, recalled the purchases of the tympani and the harpsicord kit, both major expenditures at the time. And over the years, the annual contributions to the Plymouth Symphony Society gradually rose from $1,000 to $2,000 to $2,200.

The early struggles drew many chuckles from the 75 women attending the luncheon. To the "old-timers," many of whom are still active in the league, this year's $6,600 donation to the society is an incredible accomplishment.

Livonia businessman donates $750,000 to schools

Gene Hirs, president of Hydromotion Filter Company in Livonia, is selling his business and wants to make sure he and several educational institutions receive "maximum benefits."

Hirs, who lives in Birmingham, recently donated $750,000 to be divided among 32 recipients, including Schoolcraft College and the Clarenceville, Garden City, Birmingham and Livonia school districts.

Schoolcraft and Garden City School District, and Birmingham School District, each received 4,000 shares of the company's common stock, worth nearly $20,000. The Clarenceville and Livonia districts each received 1,000 shares.

Hirs, a University of Michigan graduate, designated 6,000 shares, or $350,000, and the largest chunk of his tax-deductible donations, to his alma mater. He also gave stock to the Michigan State University learning disabilities center. "They can't say I'm prejudiced," quipped the U-M alumnus.

Hirs' sale of Hydromotion to Amsted Industries of Chicago, will be completed on June 30, at which time he and the educational institutions will experience the profit.

Hirs says the sale profit threw him into an unusual position.

"I always wanted to do something for education, and saw this as a good opportunity. This way I am channeling money into educational institutions that need it.

"Besides, I feel I am a better manager of my money than the government," he said laughing.

After he made the decision, Hirs says he drew up a list of schools and universities that would receive stock. He admits listening to suggestions from friends, including Ken Smith a counselor in Garden City, who pointed out that district's need for funds.

Hirs made the Schoolcraft donation, because "they have many fine programs."

Most of the school districts and colleges will be able to use the money as they see fit. "But strictly for education purposes, not construction avenues," adds Hirs.

In Livonia money from the 1,000 shares of stock has been earmarked for special education programs, and in Clarenceville the money will be placed in a scholarship fund.

Hirs says in the Birmingham district, where his three children attend school, the money will be used for scholarships.

Nonpublic schools relieved on free remedial services rule

Nonpublic schools of this area, many financially hard pressed, are expressing relief that Michigan will continue to supply certain auxiliary services recently outlawed for Pennsylvania by the U. S. Supreme Court.

The court ruled it is constitutionally permissible for the state to provide free textbooks to private school students but banned loans of instructional equipment and provision of remedial teachers to the same schools.

"I can't remember a time that we didn't have health services, with the school nurse giving eye and hearing checks," said Gerhardt Vurstaght, principal of Redford Lutheran School, "and we've appreciated the opportunity to have remedial reading and other such teachers. If the state decides they are available, we'll use them. If not, we'll get by."

"I don't see how the court can say the auxiliary services go to the school," commented Sr. Nunciata, principal of St. Dunstan Catholic School in Garden City.

"The remedial teachers go to the students, the instructional materials go to the students, not the school."

Sr. Nunciata believes there has been "a lot of misunderstanding" about the Pennsylvania ruling and it troubles her. "It could cause a lot of hard feeling."

DR. JOHN PORTER, state superintendent of public instruction, apparently agrees the decision needs clarification.

He has advised public school superintendents throughout the state that Michigan will continue its practice of providing auxiliary services to nonpublic schools. Michigan does not furnish free textbooks to such schools.

"We have been informed through the office of the Attorney General that the defendant in the Pennsylvania case intends to request a rehearing by the U. S. Supreme Court," Porter wrote the superintendents.

Consequently, he said, the decision is not final until the court either denies the request for a rehearing or grants it and confirms or modifies the original ruling.

"In the interim, you should continue to provide all services to nonpublic school children as set forth in current statutes and administrative rules," Dr. Porter instructed the superintendents. "Once the U. S. Supreme Court has acted on the requested rehearing, we will be reviewing with our legal counsel as to the implications for Michigan."

THE U. S. SUPREME Court decision appeared to conflict with two Michigan Supreme Court rulings.

The Michigan court, in a recent advisory opinion, found a 1974 law making textbooks and supplies available to nonpublic schools violates the state constitution. And in a 1971 ruling, the state court held that auxiliary services and such aids as shared time programs were allowable.

Spokesmen for the Michigan Association of Nonpublic Schools (MANS), reacting to the court rulings, decried the Michigan court's denial of free textbooks and speculated they may seek to make applicable to Michigan the U. S. Supreme Court ruling in the Pennsylvania case.

At the same time, they disputed the highest court's judgment that provision of auxiliary services violates the First Amendment prohibition against state involvement in religion.

"That amendment was to insure that no one religion would become the state religion," said Dr. Richard A. Schlegel, president of the Michigan Independent Schools Heads Association.

AT ISSUE in the Pennsylvania decision were two state laws passed by its legislature in 1972 and relating to nonpublic schools. Identical laws already were in effect for public school students.

One law provided "auxiliary services" including counseling, testing, psychological services, speech and hearing therapy, remedial teaching, and "such other secular, neutral, non-ideological services as are of benefit to all nonpublic school children" to all elementary and secondary nonpublic schools meeting Pennsylvania's compulsory attendance requirements.

The second law provided for the loan of textbooks to nonpublic school students as well as direct loan of instructional materials and equipment to the schools themselves.

In upholding the textbook segment, the court noted that the books were loaned to the students rather than to the schools. But the segment of the law providing for the loan of instructional equipment and material is differed in that the loan was made to the schools rather than to the students.

THE MICHIGAN COURT, in both of its opinions, was interpreting voter approval in 1970 of Proposal C amending the state constitution and barring state support of private schools.

In its recent advisory, the Michigan court said:

"Such programs as shared time and auxiliary services, to be sure, do help a private school compete in today's harsh economic climate; but they are not 'primary' elements necessary for the school's survival as an educational institution. These incidental services are useful only to an otherwise viable school and are not the type of services that flout the intent of the electorate expressed through Proposal C."

"When we speak of textbooks and supplies, we are no longer describing commodities 'incidental' to a school's maintenance and support."

It concluded: "However Proposal C is to be construed, if the will of the electorate is to be respected, it must be read to bar public funding for primary and essential elements of a private school's existence."

The opinion denying textbooks "erodes the basic rights of parents and students," said Ivan Zylstra, head of MANS which represents more than 170,000 students of Catholic, Lutheran and Christian schools.

"Parents have the right to a choice and that means a fair chance to choose. This decision refuses to recognize that."

THE ASSOCIATION'S board of directors plans to study alternatives open to nonpublic school parents, Zylstra said, and will determine a future course of action after "careful analysis and further legal counsel."

Fr. John Zwiers, superintendent of schools for the Archdiocese of Detroit and board chairman of MANS, said the U. S. Supreme Court's decision concerning textbooks has caused the association to "consider the possibility" of appealing to that court to make the ruling applicable to Michigan.

Zwiers also called "very unfortunate" the highest court's rejection of the loan to nonpublic schools of instructional equipment and materials. Concurring with Schlegel, Zwiers said the latter decision does not affect Michigan.

M-14 bids to be taken

LANSING—Bids will be taken in Lansing June 18 for extension of the M-14 freeway in Wayne and Washtenaw counties.

Three M-14 freeway projects, estimated at a total of $18 million, include 6.2 miles of freeway construction scheduled for completion in September 1977.

Plans call for bridges and interchanges between Joy Road northeast of Ann Arbor Road and east of Napier Road. Eventually M-14 will join I-96 (Jeffries, now Schoolcraft) and I-275 (Haggerty) freeways at an interchange northeast of Plymouth.

The M-14 project also includes an interchange at Gotfredson Road just west of the Wayne County line.

THE WORK is part of a $63 million road improvement package statewide to be let for bid June 18.

SEMOG 1990 plan ready for OK

SOUTHFIELD—The 1990 transportation plan, under study since 1968, received formal approval last week by the executive board of the Southeast Council of Michigan Governments (SEMOG).

The SEMOG board, comprised of 40 members of the 100-plus SEMOG general assembly, approved the plan following lengthy public hearings and revisions.

The plan calls for road and highway improvements, a regional bus system and development of a fixed rapid transit system for the region. The plan now moves to SEMOG's general assembly for final adoption June 26.

An adopted SEMOG regional transportation plan would become the major guideline for state and federal transportation agencies in their decisions as they fund local transportation projects in southeast Michigan over the next 20 years.

FINAL CHANGES to the plan, prior to adoption by the board, included for Oakland County:

- Changing the designation of Big Beaver Road from a major arterial to a regional arterial for the stretch between Woodward Avenue east to I-75.

- Reducing M-59 between US 23 and Pontiac to a road under study. This, in effect, means sufficient facts and opinions have not yet been gathered for a final judgment and removes the roadway from further plans.

- Changing Quarton Road from its designation as an intermediate road to a road under study, for the stretch between Telegraph Road and Woodward Avenue.

- Placing Northwestern Highway on study status, except for the section east of Inkster Road.

- Changing the designation of the Big Beaver Transit Corridor to an area under study, for the portion along Big Beaver between Woodward Avenue and Mound Road.

IN WAYNE COUNTY the following changes were made:

- Altering the designation of the Sheldon Road Corridor from Nine Mile Road to the M-14 Freeway with Sheldon Road in western Wayne County from an intermediate arterial to an area under study.

- Reducing the entire road system surrounding the airport along I-94 to an area under study.

Other plans, already presented by the SEMOG group studying the transit plans remained unchanged.

West Bloomfield Township supervisor John Doherty was the only member of the executive committee critical of the changes. He objected to placing Northwestern on study status.

In order that the facts be available for future review, he asked that his comments be included in the synopsis of the transportation plan.

First Federal showed Charlie Smith how the new retirement law lets him lower his taxes now and have $169,000 when he's 59½.

Come in now and open your own Individual Retirement Account.

HOW YOUR INDIVIDUAL RETIREMENT ACCOUNT GROWS

If you contributed $1,500 each year, you would have*

Per Year Interest Rate	20 YEARS		30 YEARS
	IRA Account	Taxable Savings Account	IRA Account	Taxable Savings Account
5¼ %	$51,474	$33,544	$105,860	$63,227
6½ % †	59,258	37,180	133,312	74,680
6¾ % †	60,959	37,955	139,668	77,229
7½ % †	66,477	40,429	161,145	85,808
7¾ % †	68,491	41,317	169,303	88,706

*The figures in the above chart assume that the total contribution of $1,500 is contributed on the final business day of each year, and that the taxpayer is in the 25% tax bracket. The figures represent the difference in accumulated savings between a tax-deferred IRA account and a taxable savings account. Amounts in the IRA tax-deferred column indicate the sums of the annual contributions plus the interest accumulated by those contributions. The taxable savings column shows an after-tax total of the annual contributions, plus the after-tax interest accumulated on those contributions. Interest rates shown are those currently paid on regular and certificate savings accounts offered by the Association. Interest is compounded quarterly.

†Federal regulations require a substantial interest penalty for early withdrawal from certificate savings accounts.

What we explained to Charlie, and would like to explain to you, is that a Federal law passed last year now allows you to set up your own retirement fund at First Federal Savings of Detroit as long as you're not already a participant in a qualified employer-sponsored plan.

Under this new law, you can save up to $1,500 or 15 per cent (whichever is less) of your compensation and not pay income taxes on it at the time. Nor is the interest earned in the Individual Retirement Account taxed while you're building the fund.

Now, in Charlie's case, the Individual Retirement Account would start at age 29. Withdrawals can begin at age 59½. So Charlie is going to have 30 years in which to shelter part of his income from taxes. When he begins using the money, Charlie is likely to be in a lower tax bracket and he may also be able to take advantage of income averaging procedures.

If Mrs. Smith were employed, she, too, could have her own Individual Retirement Account, and together they could build a fund of more than a third of a million dollars.

Fully approved by the Internal Revenue Service, First Federal's Individual Retirement Account (under the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974) has a number of other very helpful provisions.

For example, your employer or union might elect to make contributions to your Individual Retirement Account as a benefit to you.

There's also a plan that helps you in case you leave a job where you are participating in a pension fund. That entire amount can be transferred to an Individual Retirement Account, tax deferred.

Now, of course, there are other requirements and limitations that you should know about. But, frankly, they'll be much easier to explain in person. What we want you to know right now is that you can do this right now—you can reduce your taxes on present income and you can build a substantial retirement fund on your own.

And at First Federal, we have all the information necessary, including the Internal Revenue Service forms which must be completed. And, to make the plan work as hard as possible for you, we have savings accounts that pay you the highest interest rates allowed by law.

So come to any First Federal office and ask about an Individual Retirement Account. Or call 965-1400, Ext. 541. Remember, the only requirements are that you're earning an income, that you're not a participant in any other pension program, and that you have not reached age 70½. And that, like the Smiths, you're taking a good look at a good future.

We're First.
Put yourself in our place.

State Police post to go up in Northville

LANSING—An "appropriate compromise" on the location of the 2nd District State Police post has been made, and work on the Northville site will begin this month.

A heavy lobbying effort evidently paid off June 5 when the Joint Capital Outlay Committee met to consider whether the post should be built as planned on the Northville State Hospital site or on the Wayne State University campus, as urged by Detroit officials and some legislators.

"An appropriate compromise" was worked out, according to State Sen. Carl Pursell (R-Plymouth), allowing the $2.2 million post to be built in Northville this year and giving consideration to Detroit's needs for State Police services next year.

PURSELL had objected to the exclusionary politics practiced by some committee members and Democratic legislators who proposed the WSU site for the "benefits which would accrue to the City of Detroit."

The Plymouth Republican, whose district also includes Livonia and Redford Township, also objected to the Detroit site because it is not centrally located in the 2nd congressional district which includes Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, St. Clair, Washtenaw, and Monroe counties. The Northville site on I-275 is located geographically in the center, he said.

"Detroit may be in need of State Police services," Pursell said, "but they shouldn't use a suburban State Police location as a blackjack."

THE COMPROMISE will allow several areas of need in Detroit to be investigated and probably funded next year. They include: building a sub-post in Detroit; reimbursing Detroit for its crime lab services which are provided to other areas by the State Police; and patrolling Detroit expressways by State Police.

Tuesday Pursell said he supports more patrolling "in the whole metropolitan area as a deterrent to crime and to bolster the Detroit Police Department."

He added that State Police sub-posts in Wayne County would be justified because, while there is only one serving the county, there are 13 in the Upper Peninsula.

The suburban victory in the Joint Capital Outlay Committee still has to be approved by the House and Senate. Pursell said he expects bids will be taken by June 17.

Plenty of fish are available for derby

There will be plenty of fish available for youngsters to catch in the annual fishing derby Saturday, June 21, at Newburgh Lake.

That was borne out recently by a fish survey taken by Ron Spitzer, fish biologist for the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR), who netted 1,822 fish in two days — and released them for youngsters to try for June 21.

Of those netted, there were eight bass, five pike, many blue gills and sunfish four to six inches, suckers six to eight inches, and several other species.

THERE ARE 13 categories of competition in the fishing derby, for youth age 6 to 16, with first, second and third place prizes in each category. Sen. Carl Pursell (R-Plymouth) will present the prizes.

Sunday, June 15, is the last day to register by mail by writing Hank Chrusciel, 19345 Brentwood, Livonia 48152. Contestants may also register at 6:30 a.m. on June 21. There is no fee.

The competition will start at 7 a.m. and run to noon.

ADDITIONAL prizes added to the list already announced include a sleeping bag donated by Star Craft of Livonia for the largest calico bass, a Scout back pack donated by Michigan Firearms of Dearborn Heights for the largest rock bass, and a large Coleman jug for the largest goldfish carp. Other prizes include lots of rods, reels and fishing tackle.

The registration area will be along Edward Hines Drive west of Newburgh Road.

Sponsors of the derby include the Western Wayne County Conservation Association, and the cities of Livonia, Westland, Garden City, Plymouth, Farmington, Farmington Hills, Northville and Dearborn Heights.

HUD will require estimates on workers living elsewhere

By EMORY DANIELS

WASHINGTON, DC — A directive has been sent out by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) requiring local governments to make more accurate estimates of "persons expected to reside" before their applications for federal development funds will be approved.

The directive was sent to local and regional HUD offices by David O. Meeker, Jr., community planning and development director of HUD, who has national command responsibility for the processing and approving of Community Development Act (CDA) grants.

Meeker's memo on review of block grant applications was dated eight days before he gave assurances to U.S. Rep. Marvin L. Esch (R-Ann Arbor) that local governments would be given maximum leeway in local decision-making in planning housing needs.

THE ORDER states local offices must give careful attention careful attention to the "expected to reside" portion of the housing needs estimate in CDA applications.

The expected to reside language basically describes workers employed in a city but living elsewhere. In writing the bill, Congress expressed its intent that it is only natural to assume most workers would want to live in the municipality in which they are employed.

Meeker wrote that HUD cannot ignore data that does exist on workers living elsewhere, and neither can applicant municipalities. Data which must be used in an estimate of housing needs, he stated, is the "Journey to Work" statistics gathered by the U.S. Bureau of Census.

"Where an applicant makes no attempt to address itself to an estimate of the needs of those already employed within its boundaries but living elsewhere," stressed Meeker, "steps must be taken to strengthen that housing assistance plan in its needs assessment, provided that 'Journey to Work' statistics are available."

The directive directly answers the main objection to CDA applications of Detroit suburbs by the Coalition for Block Grant Compliance of Detroit.

The Coalition had gathered estimates of "expected to reside" from the Journey to Work report for Livonia, Westland, Southfield, Taylor, Warren, Dearborn, Dearborn Heights, Lincoln Park, Roseville, Royal Oak and St. Clair Shores. All are accused by the coalition of underestimating housing needs.

The Coalition had managed to obtain a freeze on approving applications in the Detroit suburbs, but that freeze is now lifted with Meeker's directive on how to measure "expected to reside." The Coalition has gone on record that it will file suit in federal court to stop funding for any suburb which doesn't adequately estimate housing needs for workers living elsewhere.

LOCAL HUD offices have been told by Meeker to develop their own figures on workers living elsewhere for each applicant not yet approved.

The HUD figure will be compared to the estimate in each suburb's application. If the reviewer feels "a significant portion of the potential need has not been included in the needs table" of the application, Meeker says approval must be withheld.

In such a case, to obtain approval, the applicant municipality must either adopt the HUD figures as a first year only estimate, adopt its own figure consistent with available data and not limited to short-term need, or give assurances to HUD on what steps it will take to identify a more appropriate needs figure before submitting an application for second year funding.

The approach does not demand adoption of a particular needs figure for the first year, as long as the applicant convinces HUD of its willingness to come up with a more accurate needs assessment before the second year application.

THE MEMO, distributed nationwide, included an illustration of how to compute the expected to reside estimate.

WSU honors Rep. Bill Ford

U.S. Rep. William D. Ford (D-Taylor) has received a special award from the Wayne State University Chapter of Phi Delta Kappa, national education honor society, for his 10-year contribution to American education.

Ford, whose 15th District includes Westland, Garden City and Canton Township, received the award from Dr. Richard E. Pretzlaff of the Taylor School District. He was guest speaker at the WSU chapter's annual initiation meeting.

A member of the House Education and Labor Committee since he was first elected in 1965, Ford has had an important voice in legislation which has sent millions of dollars in federal aid to school districts throughout the nation.

After being introduced by Dr. William Simmons, superintendent of the Wayne County Intermediate School District, Ford spoke on the prospect of continued federal funding for education.

Kids 'bubble' over new reading room

PLYMOUTH—What's it like inside a big, plastic bubble?

"Well, it's real peaceful," said second grader Kimberly Kaman as she lounged on the bubble's floor. "It's gigantic, and it's windy, and it has a lot of cushions in it."

To students at Allen Elementary School, the "bubble" is the biggest hit since cartoons and soda pop. What began as an astronomy project in Brian Foust's third grade classroom has mushroomed into a fun study and reading spot, demanded throughout the school.

Made from a single sheet of taped, folded plastic and inflated with a window fan, the bubble has taken turns pleasing kids in Foust's classroom, the school library and Marjane Baker's second grade classroom. A long list of other teachers and students are awaiting the bubble's visit to their classroom before the end of the school year.

"IT'S JUST a unique atmosphere, really," said Foust, who conceived the bubble concept with art teacher Ann Dempa. "We had been studying astronomy, and we decided to make a space bubble similar to ones you see at carnivals."

The bubble, Foust said, was an immediate hit. It served as a quiet reading and study spot and a place to show films.

"The kids just charged in the door the first couple of days and bickered about who could go inside," he chuckled. "But once the novelty wore off, the kids really settled down."

After a two-month stay in Foust's classroom, the bubble traveled to the library for the enjoyment of the entire school. Equipped with foam rubber pillows and inflated during certain hours, the bubble served as a comfortable reading spot where students could sprawl on the plastic floor.

"WHEN THE BUBBLE was in the library, my children wanted to go there all the time," said Mrs. Baker, whose classroom received the bubble next. "A lot of my children love to read, and they really do read inside."

Why has an inflated piece of plastic become such an enormous hit? "It's so big, and there's lots of room," said second grader Jeff Hancock, as he looked up from a book he was reading. "Sometimes it's real hot out there, and you come in here and it's cool. Besides, it's real loud out there, and you can't concentrate on your reading."

Added his classmate, Patrick Dugan, "Some people throw pillows, but I like to read. Out there, there's people talking, and we just can't concentrate."

PEEKING OUT from the breezy interior of Allen Elementary School's plastic bubble are (from left) second graders Jeff Hancock, Patrick Dugan and Kimberly Kaman. The bubble provides a quiet reading spot for Allen's pupils and a fun spot to sprawl. (Staff photo by Maurie Walker.)

Canton wants store prices to stick

By DARLENE STINSON

CANTON—A can of soup is a can of soup by any name.

But comparative shoppers need more than a name to determine which can to buy. They also need the price.

Township trustee Robert Myers believes in the shopper's right to select a product because of its price. He wants to insure that right to all persons who shop in Canton Township stores.

Myers, a member of Consumer Alliance of Michigan, fears a new computerized checkout system will eliminate the need for price markings on individual products.

TO PROTECT the rights of consumers, Myers plans to introduce a price-marking ordinance at Tuesday's board meeting.

The ordinance, borrowed from a proposed model of the Consumer Federation of America (CFA), would require the stamping of readable, price tags on all retail products.

"I'm just going to present this booklet from the CFA for the scrutiny of board members," Myers said. "CFA went on record against this type of thing in Michigan."

Myers' and the CFA's fears surround a new computerized, checkout system, known as Universal Product Code (UPC). Under the system, computers at checkout stands would scan small boxed-in areas of black lines and numbers.

The computer code, which manufacturers are already stamping on numerous products, would eliminate the need for price punching on cash registers and price markings on individual products.

The code would "tell" the computer the product's brand name and type, and the computer would automatically stamp the store's product price on the checkout tape.

According to Myers, the supermarket industry hails the UPC as a cost-cutting system, under which reduced costs would be passed on to the consumer. The computerized system would diminish supermarkets' labor costs by eliminating the price stamping of individual products and by speeding up the checkout line.

Under the system, Myers fears, supermarkets would eventually remove product prices even from the shelves.

"I think the housewife needs prices for comparative shopping. I hope this ordinance will allow the housewife to comparative shop and do away with the practice of taking the price off the product."

"I'm also trying to save jobs. If you do away with stamping products, you no longer need as many stockboys."

Myers questions the belief the computerized system will mean lower grocery prices.

"The supermarkets are saying they will save consumers money because it will do away with so much help. What it will do is eliminate competitive prices."

ALTHOUGH MYERS does not know of any store in Canton that is currently using the UPC system, Meijer's Thrifty Acres is using another system, known as Price Look-Up (PLU), on a pilot basis, according to Corky Mroczkowski, assistant service manager for the Canton store.

About 20 perishable food items are currently enrolled on the PLU system, Mroczkowski said. Under the system, a PLU number is marked on the product, while the product's price is marked on the shelf.

The checkout person punches the PLU number instead of the product's price. A computer automatically converts the PLU number to a price on the checkout tape.

The PLU system, Mroczkowski says, is used for items with continually changing prices.

"The amount of time in repricing those products is tremendous. The system gives us better control over our perishable items, and we know how to order them better."

Meijers, Mroczkowski said, would probably have to abandon the PLU system if Canton Township passes an ordinance requiring price markings on all products.

"We probably could not use it, and higher labor costs would be passed on to the consumer in higher prices."

Mroczkowski feels Myers' fears regarding the elimination of price tags is unfounded.

"I don't think that fear is justified at all. I don't see in the future that pricing would be eliminated because of competitive reasons."

The Stroller

As we sat in the rear lawn as the hot June sun was slowly sinking in the west, it was not surprising that the conversation turned to vacations and where they would be spent this year.

This was especially so when the next door neighbor dropped by to tell us he and his wife were leaving for Colorado and the beautiful country around Denver.

The mere mention of the state brought back many fond memories to The Stroller, for he and the lady who runs our house spent several glorious weeks in and around Denver—and especially on the beautiful byways leading into the city that is a mile high.

Our first venture in that direction came when we decided to follow Horace Greely's advice and went west following a bowling proprietors convention in Minneapolis some years ago.

It was a trip that carried lasting memories, for along the way we saw the famous Corn Palace in Mitchell, S.D. and then were awe-stricken at our first glimpse of Mt. Rushmore where the faces of Presidents Washington, Lincoln, Roosevelt and Jefferson are cut in the stone.

THE STROLLER sat there for several hours just staring at the sculpture and wondering how such a sculpture was possible. But there it was.

Then came Estes Park and the Thompson canyon, a silvery mountain stream that rippled along the big stone edges and finally we came face to face, with Long's Peak.

Many were the hours The Stroller sat there just looking at the grandeur of Nature.

Over the years there have been many other vacations that brought lasting memories. There was the first ocean flight—over the Pacific—to spend time in the Hawaiian Islands and drink in the sights of the Paradise of the Pacific.

Then the flight over the Atlantic to help the people of Plymouth, England, celebrate the 350th anniversary of the sailing of "The Mayflower." This was followed with a tour of the continent and a never-to-be-forgotten bus ride in the train through the Black Forest. Then into Switzerland where flowers graced every window in the homes from basement to attic.

As we sat talking the mental pictures of other vacation trips came moving alone. There was the grand sight of the Atlantic Ocean lapping the shore of the Maine coast and the sight of thousands of lobster pots along the way.

And who could forget the sight of fishing boats unloading their haul on the shore at Bridgeport, Conn. or the banana boats reaching dock at dawn in New Orleans? They were all highlights of grand vacations.

AFTER RECALLING many of these great sights the neighbor asked, "Which of the many places you've been, would you like to see again?" "There's no question about that choice," The Stroller answered. "I'd like nothing better than a return to my childhood and visit the old swimming hole, partake of the old-fashioned clamcakes and attend again, if just for a moment, one of the old time square dances."

That would be the greatest vacation a fellow could enjoy—even though it has to be spent in dreams.

W-W officials looking for career ed funding

By STEVE BARNABY

WESTLAND—School administrators are crossing their fingers in hopes the federal government will come through with the necessary funds to carry on the career education program integrated into the system last year.

Teaching students how to decide on a life-long career has been a major thrust in the Wayne-Westland School District since Gov. William Milliken signed Public Act 97 in May, 1974.

To be ready for the enactment, the district employed a fulltime elementary career education consultant and a half-time secondary career counselor. Six elementary and four secondary schools were chosen as target schools. The program was funded through Federal Title I funds.

Now, district administrators are unsure of how much money the federal government will cough up this year to keep the program rolling. If the money isn't supplied, the district will have to dip into its already overburdened coffers in an attempt to find the funds.

"This happens every year when dealing with the federal government funds. They always talk about cut-backs, but it is never as bad as they say, initially," says Deputy Supt. Dennis O'Neill.

Elementary schools involved last year in the program were Jefferson, Washington, Monroe, Stottlemeyer, Taft, and Lincoln. Secondary schools were Adams, Franklin, Stevenson junior highs and Wayne Memorial High.

FUNDS WERE USED to train 125 elementary and 75 secondary teachers, to supply teaching materials, to involve career education consultants and to hire a paraprofessional. It cost about $60,000 to get the program moving.

"Because the district's program has been so successful, the administration would like to spread it throughout the entire district. This, too, would cost extra money, according to Assistant Supt. Warren Spurlin.

The federal government only will pay for those programs where a portion of the students could use a financial boost, he says.

Last year it cost about $60,000 to run the program. Most of that went to salaries. If we expanded it to the entire district, it would cost about $100,000," Spurlin says.

Spurlin says the district never bows until "the last minute" on Title funding.

It's hard to plan ahead. We can't count on the federal funds, so we try to plan just in case the funds don't come through."

Besides career education, the district has five other major component programs funded through Title I.

William Murphy, vocational and career education director will plead the career education program's case before the board next month to explain funding needs. He says Wayne-Westland district's program has been one of the most successful in the state.

"What we've done in the district is to make career education a part of the curriculum, rather than an addition to it. We try to make the youth aware of career opportunities."

A problem facing students prior to career education was an awareness of "glamor" jobs, but a lack of knowledge in the real job market, says Murphy.

THE PROGRAM BEGINS in the lower grades by teaching students about the different types of jobs. Both the good and bad points to an occupation are taught. In advanced grades, students are taken on "structured" tours and encouraged to ask questions.

"We encourage the kids to ask penetrating questions. You'd be surprised. Some of these students develop a knack for interviewing persons about their occupations," says Murphy.

Murphy says vocational education must be a part of career education and not the other way around.

"It is unfair to offer vocational education without teaching students how to make valid choices," says Murphy. "We're trying to make it so students won't have to stumble along into a career and then discover they aren't satisfied. Too many times kids are given a public relations image of a job."

A goal of career education is to teach students all facets of an occupation. For instance, says Murphy, in history classes students are taught that historians can get jobs in museums, colleges, libraries and even in the military.

Besides the in-classroom experiences, some district teachers are involved in the Michigan Education Department Career Exploration Project, where they have been writing curriculum for junior and senior high schools of the state.

The project involves creating classroom experiences which reflect a real world in which students live. Simulations of on-the-job tasks which are performed by workers are used in the classroom to provide experiences rather than just knowledge about careers.

Bandits and prohibition kept police busy in '20s

(Part I)

Crime in Plymouth over the years has been relatively minor in nature. There have been a few murders, a few bank robberies, and a few disturbances involving juveniles. In general, however, the local policeman's lot hasn't been as unhappy as Gilbert and Sullivan would have one believe.

The first jail in the village was a wooden structure which measured 30 by 20 feet. It had two cells which Charlie Bennett said were "about the size of the elevator in our present Hotel Mayflower." The jail stood on Union Street, on the corner across from the Daisy factory.

Bennett's Uncle Henry let the village use the lot on which the jailhouse stood so that the community's first justice of peace, Charles W. Valentine, could have a place to lock up "out of town rowdies."

Today, the city hall houses the jail. It is used as a place of detention until the person arrested is arraigned by the court, usually no more than 12 to 14 days after the arrest.

THE FIRST constables in the community, Amnah Bradford and A. B. Markham, were elected at the initial meeting of the township in 1827.

When Plymouth became a home rule village in 1918, the chief of police was George Springer, the former cigar-maker who, for many years, was a one-man police force. When the village became a city in 1932, Springer was succeeded by Vaughan R. Smith, who was chief of police until 1941.

The outstanding achievement of the police department in 1929, said Chief Springer in his annual report, was the capture of two bandits within an hour after they attempted a holdup of the Liberty Street branch of the Plymouth United Savings Bank on Feb. 8. The men were convicted of armed robbery and sentenced to 15 to 30 years in prison.

In the same year, Springer reported that rigid enforcement of the dog ordinance, put into effect in 1929, resulted in the killing of 49 dogs and the virtual elimination of stray dogs from village streets by the close of the year. The number of dogs purposely killed each year thereafter continued to climb. It reached 134 in the 1943-44 fiscal year.

IN THE 1920s and early thirties, when Detroit was a center for the smuggling of liquor from Canada into the United States, Plymouth police were busy enforcing the unpopular Prohibition Law.

Chief Springer's report for 1930 refers to the confiscation of 153½ gallons of whiskey, 1,403 pints of beer, and two automobiles which were employed in the transportation of liquor.

The ineffectiveness of the Prohibition Law is apparent in Vaughan A. Smith's report for 1931-32. It shows 39 arrests for drunkenness, nine for drunken driving, and eight for violations of the Prohibition Law.

Fingerprinting received much attention in the police department in 1935-36, while Smith was chief of police. He reported that the department added many prints to its file that year. All vagrants, euphemistically referred to as "lodgers," were routinely fingerprinted. "We are glad to fingerprint any person who wishes to have this done," declared the report.

"In the very near future, we hope to take the prints of all school children." One can imagine what a storm of protest that announcement would make if made in today's individualistic milieu.

THE PERENNIAL problem of juvenile delinquency confronted Smith, in 1932, in the form of breaking and entering and car thefts. The police department tried to head off the problem by organizing a boy's club composed of "underprivileged or improperly supervised boys."

Chief Smith devoted much of his 1938-39 report to a discourse on curbing youth from crime. It reflects the modern tendency to blame forces outside of the child for his anti-social behavior.

"The guidance of youth from undesirable cesspools of crime to wholesome surroundings," Smith declared, "is one of the greatest opportunities that peace officers have to render."

"Criminals aren't born into this world as criminals, neither are they made over night, nor suddenly tossed into the surging flood of crime from respectability. On the contrary, they are developed step by step from childhood." Chief Smith noted that over-indulgent or neglectful parents were partly responsible for juvenile delinquency.

The police department report for 1936-37 indicated Plymouth had a series of "sit-down strikes" in local plants in 1937. The sit-down strike, a new technique in labor-management relations, was first used in 1934 at the Goodyear Plant in Akron, Ohio.

WORKERS BEGAN to sit down, rather than walk out, in an effort to prevent management from bringing in strike-breakers. Fisher Body plant workers in Flint staged a sit-down strike in 1936 which set the national pattern.

The idea caught on locally on Feb. 16, 1937, when Allen Industries was closed down three hours until a raise of five cents an hour was agreed to by the company. The next day, Plymouth Stamping Company had a one-hour sit-down strike which was settled by a wage hike of the same amount.

The most serious sit-down strike occurred at the Daisy Manufacturing Company, whose plant was shut down from Feb. 17 to March 1, when the employees returned to work "with a fair increase in wages."

Chief Smith reported that "every one concerned in all of these strikes was fortunate to escape without any injury and property damage."

(Part II will discuss the problems World War II created for the local police department).

Area royalty contest held

The Plymouth Jaycee Auxiliary is running its second annual prince and princess of Plymouth contest in conjunction with the Fourth of July festivities sponsored by the Plymouth Jaycees.

Canisters with applicants' picture will appear in the Forest Place Mall in downtown Plymouth beginning Friday, June 12.

Voting is done by casting coins for candidates. Finalists will be selected June 24 and judgments will be at 7:30 p.m. Friday, June 27 in Pioneer Middle School cafeteria.

Winners will receive prizes and will ride in the Fourth of July parade. Proceeds are earmarked for Plymouth Jaycee Auxiliary community service projects.

Board elects Mrs. Joyner

Mrs. Geraldine Joyner, a member of the Livonia Board of Education, has been elected to the four-year unexpired term of Norman O. Stockmeyer of Westland to the board of education of the Wayne County Intermediate District.

Mrs. Joyner had been appointed to Stockmeyer's seat in March when Gov. Milliken appointed him to fill a vacancy on the State Board of Education.

Mrs. Joyner was one of three persons elected to the county school board in balloting recently by the 36 school districts in Wayne County.

Others elected were the Rev. Darneau V. Stewart of Detroit, president of the county board, and Carl W. Morris of Romulus, a county board member for 10 years. Both were elected to six-year terms.

Unsuccessful candidates were Gerald McGrath, Wayne-Westland Board of Education president, and Dr. C.L. Golightly, Detroit Board of Education president.

Members of the intermediate district school board, who serve without pay, are elected by a majority vote of representatives of local boards of education. Each board has one vote.

The intermediate district furnishes consulting services to local districts and reviews and audits reports required by the State Department of Education. The intermediate district also must coordinate all special education services in the county.

GERALDINE JOYNER succeeds Stockmeyer

GM promotes Livonian

Thomas C. Woods of Livonia has been named a regional representative by General Motors.

Woods replaces Alfred (Bud) McMullen, who will be assistant regional manager in the New York region in Buffalo.

Woods joined GM in 1971 as a lecturer on Previews of Progress, GM's traveling science show. Later that year, he entered the Army to serve as a television producer-director. In 1974, Woods returned to GM as a staff assistant for field programs.

Woods has a bachelor's degree in television broadcasting from the University of Detroit and a master's in mass communication from Michigan State University.

Hamilton to purchase Pepsi plants

FARMINGTON HILLS—The board of directors of Hamilton International Corp. has approved an agreement for Hamilton to buy the bottling facilities of PepsiCo, Inc. in St. Louis, Mo., plus Flavette Corp. and Flavette Products Corp., which belong to PepsiCo.

Flavette Products, mainly flavor concentrates, are manufactured in Camden, Ark., and Montreal, Quebec, and are distributed by 200 bottling companies throughout the U.S. and Canada.

The transaction is subject to approval of PepsiCo's board of directors and the Federal Trade Commission. If the purchase is approved, all three enterprises would be operated as wholly-owned Hamilton International subsidiaries.

Hamilton International's principal stockholder, the MEI Corp. produces and distributes soft drinks—primarily Pepsi-Cola.

Rep. Esch backs funds

WASHINGTON, DC—U.S. Rep. Marvin L. Esch (R-Ann Arbor), whose district includes Livonia and Plymouth, has asked the house committee on appropriations to restore full funding for the Foster Grandparent Program for the upcoming year.

"The administration has proposed a $2.4 million cut in the budget for the program for fiscal year 1976. While it is not proposed that any individuals will be forced out of the program, nor will the weekly stipend be decreased, such a cut would mean that many of those who do drop out of the program on their own could not be replaced by new foster grandparents," Esch said.

It is estimated that, if the budget cut, the number of foster grandparents in the program would drop from 12,200 to 11,500 by the end of fiscal 1976.

Esch asked that the current financing level be maintained because the program assists children and gives senior citizens an opportunity to make a meaningful contribution.

Weisman gets railroad job

Michael H. Weisman of Livonia has been appointed director of corporate planning of the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton Railroad Co. in Dearborn.

Weisman, who has served on an advisory committee to the Livonia Board of Education, will coordinate overall planning activities of the company and be assigned interdepartmental responsibilities.

Hearthside employs Agree

Lawrence Agree has been appointed to the new post of sales and merchandise manager of Hearthside, Inc. of Livonia, announced Walter F. Emig, president.

Agree's responsibilities include control and purchasing of merchandise, advertising, display and operation of all retail stores.

Hearthside, Inc. operates Ethan Allen Galleries in Livonia and Utica with plans for a Southfield opening in early summer.

Agree, a Southfield resident, was formerly employed by Alex Furniture Co., Robinson Furniture, American of Martinsville and Burlington House Furniture.

Phil Hart-political standard-bearer

The only guys I know who ever call him Senator Philip A. Hart are on newspapers or the wire services, where the style rules require the full, formal title. To everyone else, he is decent, thoughtful, concerned Phil Hart—who happens to be a United States senator.

That's the real point behind the near-universal regret that greeted Phil Hart's announcement last week that he had decided not to run for another term in 1976. The stature and quality of Phil Hart the man never got lost behind the political needs accompanying his long office in the Senate.

In this respect, Phil Hart offered blazing contrast and soft-spoken indictment of nearly every other major politician in the land.

HE OFFERED something else too, to those who believe in the importance of the political process in the management of our affairs: Living proof that a politician can be overwhelmingly successful without copping out as a human being.

In this, Phil Hart gave cause for hope to countless men and women, of both political parties, who took his career and his personality as a role model and who concluded from inspecting his record that even in these times it was possible to be a good politician and a good man at the same time.

Observation Point

by PHILIP H. POWER

In evaluating his career, some newspapers in this area said Phil Hart was a nice guy and had been a good senator and all that, but that had he been a little tougher or a little more ambitious he could have made it to the vice presidency or even higher. This misses the point; Phil Hart has been a great senator precisely because he has been prepared to reject the notions that winning is the only thing and that the higher you go, the better you are.

WHEN THE history of the politics of the past decade is written, I suspect we will find that Phil Hart will have been a man in public life with a content and a style ahead of his time.

He was one of the first to get into consumer issues; I still remember the laughter he created when he counted the cherries inside the frozen pie and compared that with the lusciously inaccurate picture on the package. He was one of the earliest to point up the danger of our increasingly concentrated economy, in which fewer and fewer firms control more and more of the resources, and to then detail just how damaging a development this is for fair and full competition.

He was one of the first politicians to make public self-deprecation not merely a pose of humility but actually a method of helping educate the public into the realities of politics. He was one of the first to understand that political speeches are not just occasions to stir up the troops but, in fact, an opportunity to use quiet talk and good language in the service of inquiry.

PHIL HART talking with a small group of people is a remarkable experience, for it reveals so much about the man...and the senator.

Groping for just the right word, listening to others with his hands pyramided and then gently working up a point with long fingers, hesitating, making his case with care and precision, saying he doesn't know when he doesn't...Phil Hart is one of the few politicians with whom you can have a conversation rather than listen to a monolog.

He decided not to run in his own way, with care and honesty, and after considerable deliberation. The decision is in character with his career, and it leaves me with a mingled sensation of admiration and regret.

Phil Hart has served us all very, very well, as a senator and as a man.

No parking penalty needed

There is presently a dispute in some local courts about parking violations.

Usually, local law says that there is a presumption if a car is found illegally parked that it was parked there by the owner of the vehicle. Hence, if no one pays the parking fine the municipality seeks a warrant for the arrest of the owner of the car.

In the United States a man is presumed innocent until proven guilty in a court of law. This local type of law flies in the face of this presumption.

IN THE STATE of Michigan a person cannot be arrested by a peace officer for a misdemeanor (minor crime) unless the crime is committed in the presence of the officer.

Judge Carl Ingraham of the 48th District Court has refused to issue warrants for the arrest of owners of cars involved in parking violations unless the officer has personally seen the alleged criminal parking the car. This is a good law and the judge is correct.

The municipalities are up in arms because threat of arrest is the most effective way of coercing people to pay their fines.

THE RIDICULOUS part of the hubbub is that illegal parking shouldn't be a crime in the first place except possibly where traffic is impeded or near such things as fire hydrants where the rights of others are involved.

It is non-violent, doesn't effect the safety of others and is a waste of police time in enforcement.

Parking, especially metered parking, is the using of municipal space for a consideration. It is a type of space rental. We stopped throwing people in jail a long time ago when they didn't pay their other rents.

WE HAVE MANY such statutory crimes such as this that take up so much police time they don't have enough time to do their real job, which is protecting citizens from harm.

Some municipalities even have laws that make it a criminal offense not to return library books on time.

A recent presidential commission suggested that all non-violent acts that do not involve or harm other people be decriminalized so that effort could be mobilized against more serious crimes.

I think that we should certainly start decriminalizing purely commercial ventures such as not paying rent for parking spaces and library books.

County elections a joke

Tim Richard writes

Every time reformers get county government in their gunights, they inevitably wonder why it's necessary to elect so many functionaries.

The old guard, in return, shakes its cobwebs as it thunders back that the people have a "right" to vote on such officers as the sheriff, prosecutor, register of deeds, clerk, treasurer and drain commissioner.

The truth of the matter is that we don't really elect most of those county administrators. They are appointed by an almost invisible process, and the old guard wants to keep it that way.

In the real life of politics, it's next to impossible for a challenger to make issues about a functionary who files birth certificates or mortgages, and so the public simply reflects these functionaries on the bases of name recognition and never having heard of a scandal.

THESE REFLECTIONS occurred on the occasion of reading the drab news that Bernard J. Youngblood, 77, was retiring as Wayne County register of deeds in the middle of his term.

In case it escaped your notice, his son, who was appointed by his dad as deputy two years ago, was named to succeed him. The wise souls who decided Forest Youngblood was the best person of all three million residents in Wayne County to register our deeds were a panel of three other county officials—the presiding probate judge, the clerk and the prosecuting attorney.

The point is that the process is obscure; the public never gets to sit in on the selection process. And as I said, the old guard wants it that way.

IF THIS happened just once in a while, it wouldn't be so bad. But again, the simple truth is that most of our county administrators get into office through appointment by these obscure panels. Consider:

- Register of Deeds Forest Youngblood is an appointee, succeeding his father.

- The elder Youngblood was an appointee back in '42.

- Sheriff William Lucas was an appointee, succeeding Roman S. Gribbs.

- Gribbs was an appointee succeeding another appointee.

- Clerk James R. Killeen is an appointee succeeding one of the many Sullivans who infest county politics. Killeen's brother, George, is a county commissioner.

- Joseph B. Sullivan was an clerk appointee, succeeding the late Ed Branigan.

- Prosecutor William Cahalan was appointed in 1967 to succeed Sam Olson, who got a judgeship.

- Louis Funk, the gentleman who collects your county taxes, was appointed treasurer back in 1962.

Practically the only county administrator directly elected is Drain Commissioner Charles Youngblood. If you haven't guessed it, the answer is yes: he is related to Bernard and Forest Youngblood.

IT'S STUPID to appoint our county administrators through obscure panels of other county officials influenced heavily by nationality and nepotism.

We should eliminate those offices as elective posts and get ourselves a county manager or administrator who will appoint them, subject perhaps to the approval of the elected county board of commissioners.

And let's cut out this guff about taking away the people's "right" to elect paper-pushing functionaries.

2 marching bands necessary for 2 high schools

Editor:

We watched a beautiful parade Memorial Day in the City of Plymouth. To see all the children in the lower school bands play felt good, but it is very sad that only half of the children have a chance to play in the high school band, because we only have one high school band.

That means only about one-half from the lower schools can play in the marching band when they do arrive at Salem and Canton high schools. I understand at the present time about 75 high school students would love to play in a high school band but cannot because of having only one band. It is about time the school board make a move to have two high school bands. Forget about the Rose Bowl and Orange Bowl and trying to impress other communities.

We have two high schools and we have separate sports teams. Why not two bands? We don't care if our Johnnie or Sue miss a tune or miss a step once in a while. They are our kids, and we want them to have a fair chance.

KORRY HATLEN, Plymouth

Editor:

Maybe you can get to the Plymouth school board as no one else can. The big question around today is why do we have only one high school band.

We have two high schools and yet only one band. I understand many, many children who want to play in the band cannot because the school board wants the best band in the state and to travel to different bowl games.

The taxpayers pay a lot of money for our schools. Maybe the board of education is afraid of hurting someone if they decide to have two bands. What the problem is the parents sure don't know.

Maybe the newspaper can put some pressure on the board members to consider having two high school bands.

Smith corrects his record

Editor:

An article in the Observer & Eccentric recently reported that I have attended 41 of 43 scheduled meetings of official committees of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners on which I serve.

I can recall missing only one meeting—and that was when county business required my presence elsewhere.

Upon checking the record, I found that, as sometimes happens, clerical errors had occurred in both instances.

The only time I missed a meeting was while I was representing the county at a meeting in Lansing. The meeting with Natural Resources Department officials resulted in a $25,000 state increase in aid for the Wayne County sheriff's marine patrol. The record has been corrected to show I was officially excused in advance from the meeting here.

In the other instance, two meetings overlapped, and I arrived late for the second one. It was a crowded meeting and the committee clerk apparently did not notice my arrival. The record has been corrected.

I am proud of my attendance record, and I work full-time as a county commissioner in order to properly represent the people of the 27th District.

May I compliment your reporter. Without her article, I would not have known about the clerical errors.

Know where daughter is

Editor:

I just received a very frightening phone call and feel I should tell other people about it because one could easily be taken in by him.

He first asked me if I had a daughter. Yes, I said. Then he proceeded to tell me if I would help her because she was being held captive.

He wanted to know if I had money around the house, what time my husband went to work and if he was at home then. I asked how old this girl was and her name. He couldn't give me her name but said anywhere from 18 to 25. I called his bluff and said she was right here with me (she wasn't). Then he was upset and said some filthy words as I was hanging up.

But the whole idea scared me. What if I didn't know where my daughter was? What would some poor woman do if her husband was gone—give him money?

Please warn your readers. This man is sick and could cause a lot of heartache. He speaks slowly and in a monotone voice; probably in his 30s.

READERS' FORUM

ZPG alive, functioning

Editor:

Zero population growth is alive, well and functioning, along with other ecologically oriented organizations, in a more subdued, more sophisticated, more effective manner in accordance with the ecology movement's age and education.

Because the press has buried our activities in back pages and then been grossly inaccurate in quoting and interpreting activities, activity levels and statistics, don't you dare count us out. ZPG membership is on the rise, and people are coming to the ecology movement with more understanding and more dedication to obtaining long range, far reaching goals.

Before you count the ecology movement dead, talk to legislators in Lansing and Washington; talk to advertisers who use 12-children families; talk to the companies producing aerosol cans or the detergent manufacturers; talk to the children who remind their parents with disgust not to litter our cities and parks and to put out that cigarette.

Fight with Michigan citizens to ban non-returnable bottles, to limit usage of aerosol cans, to rescind a law so Michigan teachers can discuss birth control in our public school sex education classes.

Tell people that the birth rate is down but that it has to stay that way for a long time in order to achieve zero population growth, that the natural increase (births minus deaths) in the United States last year was over a million people.

Don't push us down. Use your hand to give us a lift.

Nation better with prayer

Editor:

Sunday we received a form to support religious program broadcasting. I am 64 and have been in and out of the hospital five or six times, and let me say that if a few more were down on their backs, maybe they would be looking up to God and all the wonderful things He does.

How is it that a person like Madeline Murray O'Hair can take prayer out of school? I'll bet anything when the astronauts put their feet on the moon, they must have had some great thoughts about this.

Maybe there's nothing to the great word of our God, but as for me, I don't think I have anything to lose and much more to look forward to in the new life with Him.

I don't see how one woman like O'Hair can change things that have been going on so many years. We had prayer in school—the Lord's Prayer. Sure can't hurt anyone. But maybe the Old Beast is working overtime.

If people don't go for it, let the rest of us believe as we do.

This country has always been a God-loving place, but if we keep taking God out of things, we may not be so great. So let's get with it and keep Christ alive and keep our country as great and strong as it always has been.

Top diamond stars mark O&E area team

By TOM SCHRAM
Sports Editor

QUESTION—If you were the coach of the 1975 Observer & Eccentric All-Area baseball team would you:

A: Be deliriously happy?
B: Have more talent on your hands than Ted Mack's original amateur hour?
C: Win the state championship? Or D: Not have to work very hard?

Answer — All of the above.

The '75 team is loaded from top to bottom with local Sultans of Swat and boasts more good arms than the octopus aquarium.

And the five juniors on the first team and the four on the second team will help insure the stability of the aspirin concession for opposing coaches for at least one more year.

The prime ingredient on any baseball team is the pitching and the All-Area first team boasts a pair as good as any two in the state.

Heading the mound choremen is O&E player of the year, Tom Willette of Plymouth Salem.

Willette has led the Rocks to the semifinals of the state tournament in Class A and has a variety of college scholarships to choose from as well as being picked in the fifth round of the professional draft.

His counterpart is Plymouth Canton's Bill Parson. Only a junior, Parson was the pitching key to a Chief club that was rated No.1 among Class A baseball powers for most of the season.

Parson recorded an earned run average of 0.37 while winning 12 of 14 games for Canton.

THE ALL-AREA BATTERYMATE for the two hurling stars is also from Canton. Tom Close was the top power hitter for the Les Anders tournament champion Chiefs.

With a solid .348 batting average and a major league arm, the Canton junior has a bright career ahead of him.

Another junior, Thurston's Randy Rodriguez, got the nod as the first team firstbaseman. Rodriguez struck out only five times this year while running up a .411 hitting mark.

Even more encouraging for Thurston coach Emil Majeski is the fact that his returning star can handle the mound duties as well. Rodriguez turned in a 1.10 ERA while winning five of seven decisions.

Canton's Brian Stemberger, Garden City East's Wally Krol and Livonia

Franklin's Jojo Scarpace round out the infield.

ALTHOUGH ALL THREE performed as shortstops for their respective teams, area coaches considered the trio the best of the area's infielders and voted them that way.

Krol batted .329 and accumulated 18 RBIs while anchoring the infield of an East team, which went 19-5.

Stemberger led the area in hitting for the entire year until a late season slump dropped his average to "only" .403.

Scarpace was voted most valuable player of the Patriots while hitting .337 and co-captaining the team.

The All-Area first team outfield is comprised of East's Tod Kleinbrook, Salem's Doug Tripp and Franklin's Darrell Gunter.

THE JUNIOR KLEINBROOK was a unanimous selection to the team.

His batting credentials are unquestionable. Kleinbrook was the area's top stick with a .436 average and also was East's top pitcher with a 1.34 earned run average and a 4-2 record.

Tripp was an all-Suburban Eight pick for two straight years and hit for a .368 average for Salem this year. A threat to run at any time, Tripp has been thrown out only once in the past two years and has 45 stolen bases during that time.

Darrell Gunter paced Franklin at the plate with a .351 average. The junior Gunter drove in 15 runs and had five extra-base hits to his credit.

Two juniors head up the second team All-Area pitching staff.

Greg Emery of Garden City East was 6-1 for the Panthers and hit .321. Emery was also an All-Area first team selection in basketball.

Livonia Stevenson ace John Kolis is one of a host of Spartans that will come back to make Stevenson the team to beat next year. This season, Kolis won eight of the Spartans' 13 games and worked for a 1.48 earned run average.

The second team firstbaseman's berth went to Redford Union's George Willard. Willard batted .352 for the Panthers and drove in 15 runs.

RON GRIFFIN WAS THE representative on the All-Area team from defending state champs Livonia Churchill. The junior Griffin was the key to the Chargers' infield and was the MVP for Roger Frayer's club.

Other infield spots went to John Glenn's John Irwin and Dave Pierce of Salem.

The senior Irwin handled third base for the Rockets and batted .307 while driving in 13. Pierce was a steady influence on the Rock infield and led the team in hitting with a .375 mark.

Junior Tim Murphy and seniors Greg Wood of Redford Union and Mike Verduce of Plymouth Canton comprise the second team outfield.

Murphy is a repeat selection from last year's all area team. The Livonia Stevenson standout batted .323 and had six extra base hits for the Spartans.

VERDUCE BATTED CLEANUP all year for the Chiefs and was among the top RBI men for Canton as well as a stalwart defensive player.

Wood broke the RU record for putouts by an outfielder with 43 and hit .271 with 12 RBIs.

The man behind the mask for the second team is Franklin's Jerry Pollard. Pollard drove in 14 while batting .346 for the Patriots.

HONORABLE MENTION:

Outfielders — Becszko, D'Ascenzo, Garden City East; Dinsmore, Robbins, Livonia Bentley; Moore, DenHouter, Dillon, Plymouth Salem; Ackerman, Bushart, Redford Union; Hill, Clarenceville; Major, Plymouth Canton; Jess, Redford St. Agatha; Kuschel, Thurston.

Infielders — Sutherland, Garden City West; Edgar, Garden City East; Rose, Stevenson; Wolcott, Johnson, Salem; Dunagan, Canton; Stevens, Gilcrest, Bentley; Shaheen, Bishop Borgess.

First Base — Cweik, Garden City West; Inch, Salem; Snyder, Stevenson; Wedesky, Bishop Borgess; Schultz, Bentley.

Catchers — Heimbuch, Bishop Borgess; Beyrand, St. Agatha; Pacion, Stevenson; Ponte, Garden City East; Hodges, Bentley; Nagel, Salem.

Pitchers — Ruvalo, St. Agatha; Paige, Gergel, Bishop Borgess; Hudson, Garden City East; Murphy, Nalepka, Bentley; Bushart, Redford Union; Curtis, Clarenceville; Thomas, Salem; Trachsel, Ribick, Thurston.

Inter-Lakes stars

FOUR LIVONIA Stevenson baseball players have been named to the Inter-Lakes League all-conference team. The four, all juniors are infielders Rob Rose, Jim Snyder and John Kolis and outfielder Tim Murphy.

Salem's Tom Willette is top prep player

The name of Tom Willette may never appear in Cooperstown, N.Y., but there's a good chance that it might someday appear in the pregame line-up of a major league baseball team.

Willette has led Plymouth Salem to the semifinals of the Michigan High School Athletic Association Class A baseball tournament and is in a class by himself among local high school baseball players.

A look at his credentials shows why he has been selected player of the year.

Willette was named all Suburban Eight for two straight years and All-Observer & Eccentric for the same time period.

HE WAS DRAFTED in the fifth round by the San Diego Padres of the National League.

He was a three year starter for the Rocks and was MVP last year and is a shoo-in for that title this year.

He has an incredible 305 strikeouts in his high school career including 142 in 74 and two-thirds innings this year.

He boasts an 11-1 record this season with a 1.22 ERA.

He hasn't allowed a home run this season and usually bats clean-up for Salem.

"I don't think that there's any doubt he should be player of the year. He's super," said Salem coach Wayne Sparkman of his ace left-hander.

Willette has been offered three athletic scholarships and is leaning toward North Carolina State where he has been offered a full ride.

"I actually haven't decided yet, but I like the people there (at NC State)," he said.

One thing the fireballing southpaw has decided is that he'd like to go to college before turning pro.

"I figure it this way. I can always turn professional after college if I'm good enough, so why give that up?" he said.

Willette, who has lived in Plymouth for nine years, will first play summer baseball for Plymouth Adray.

Then it's off to college or to professional baseball if the Padres come up with a monetary offer he can't refuse.

Willette is a one-sport man, preferring to concentrate on curve balls rather than divert his efforts toward other sports.

"I played junior varsity basketball but I realized that we had a great team and that I wasn't that good. I never went out for football. I was afraid I'd break my arm or something."

Willette plans to major in history and education in college and says that his biggest thrill in baseball came in the 1975 district finals when he threw a two-hitter at cross-town rival Plymouth Canton as the Rocks won 9-0.

"THERE'S A BIG rivalry between the schools and I was really up for that game," he said.

Willette has had constant companions in the form of major league and college scouts this season.

"I knew they were out there, but I didn't let it bother me. Once I got pitching, I got involved in the game," he said.

But the scouts have noticed Tom Willette. And while they haven't bothered to reserve a room in Cooperstown just yet, they'll keep taking notes throughout his college career just the same.

Willows sets sixth annual golf clinic

Whispering Willows golf course in Livonia will conduct its sixth annual junior golf clinic beginning next Monday, June 16.

Registration for the four week clinic is $10. One and one-half hour lessons on golf fundamentals and etiquette will be conducted for the first three weeks of the clinic and the fourth week will be used for a clinic tournament for which trophies and prizes will be awarded.

Foolish Pleasure tops nominations for 'Mile'

Kentucky Derby winner Foolish Pleasure; another Derby competitor, Honey Mark, and the 4-year-old colt which upset handicap champion Forego in May, Gold And Myrrh, head a list of 40 nominations to the $100,000 Michigan Mile and One Eighth at Detroit Race Course, Saturday, June 21.

In announcing the nominations for Michigan's richest horse race, DRC racing secretary Tom Dorsey said:

"We won't know for another few days whether Foolish Pleasure, Gold And Myrrh and Honey Mark will actually be here for the 'Mile,' but when their owners and trainers are interested enough to send us $200 nominations you feel you've got at least a 50-50 chance."

Dorsey said weights will be assigned the Mile nominees this weekend, and that supplementary nominations will close Saturday. A payment of $5,000 must accompany any supplementary.

Other Mile nominations include Golden Don, winner of the 1973 Michigan classic; Navajo, who raced in the '73 Kentucky Derby against Secretariat and winner of seven of nine starts this year; Rastafarian, runner-up to winner Tom Tulle in the 1974 Mile; Crimson Falcon, fourth place finisher in last year's event, and Group Plan, Proud And Bold and Zogr-afos, all outstanding handicap winners.

Ace Commander, winner of the $51,000 Frontier Handicap at DRC last Saturday, is one of a number of well known Detroit stars nominated. Others include Lone Bird, Spirit Son, Provante and Putt Putt. Lone Bird finished fourth in the 1973 Mile, while Putt Putt crossed the wire seventh in the 1974 field.

A MINI-PREVIEW of the Michigan Mile comes this Saturday at DRC with the $15,000 Mile Prep Handicap at a mile and 70 yards. Crimson King Farm says that it will use the Prep as a tune-up for Crimson Falcon, who invaded DRC a month ago and easily ran off with the $15,000 Armed Forces Day Handicap. Ohioan Leonard Polichena echoed the feeling with regard to his 7-year-old Michigan-bred Killfol, which finished second to Ace Commander in Saturday's Frontier but was set back to fifth because of interference in the stretch run.

Four or five other potential Michigan Mile starters are expected to line up for the Prep, mainly including Mile nominees already on the DRC grounds.

The popular Michigan quarter horse will find its place in the sun this Sunday at DRC as the $30,000 finals of the Great Lakes Quarter Horse Futurity are added to the regular 10 race thoroughbred program.

Feature of the regular DRC Sunday thoroughbred pari-mutuel card will be the $10,000 Father's Day Handicap. Fittingly enough the feature will be for fillies and mares, 3-years-old and up, with all male horses relaxing off the sidelines.

The quarter horse events will start Sunday at 1:30 p.m. and continue between thoroughbred races throughout the afternoon. Post time for the first thoroughbred race is 2 p.m.

Alsac tournament set for Tuesday

Outstanding Detroit-area athletes and radio and television stars will combine their efforts and their golf prowess on Tuesday, June 17, to play in a celebrity tournament to raise much-needed funds for the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital.

This year's goal is $20,000. Honorary Chairman Marc Avery, WJR radio personality, said he is hoping the drive will go over the top, just as last year's did.

Tee times at the Great Oaks Country Club in Rochester start at 7:30 a.m., with foursomes teeing off through mid-afternoon on the 6,900-yard, par 72 course.

Participants pay $125 each to compete in the tournament featuring, as in past years, the Texas Scramble. The Texas Scramble allows all members of a foursome to hit each shot along the fairway from the best lie achieved by any player in the group.

It allows duffers who get lucky to contribute to the team's efforts.

The St. Jude Children's Research Hospital in Memphis, Tenn., was founded by comedian Danny Thomas, a onetime Detroit.

"This is a wonderful opportunity for people to assist a deserving program of research into bringing children's diseases under control and at the same time have a day of fun," said Avery.

This year's field of golfers is already filled with 168 players, each of whom is paying the $125 entry fee, and 52 celebrities.

However, gallery tickets at $3 each are still available. So are tickets for dinner and an open bar at $35 apiece, for those who don't want to play golf, but would like to contribute and enjoy the company of stars from the worlds of sports and the media.

Another novel opportunity being offered allows men or women to donate $50 for the designation of "godmother" or "godfather." This entitles them to drive their favorite celebrity around the course in a golf cart. The price also includes continental breakfast, lunch, dinner, cocktails and entertainment.

Athletes signed up to compete include:

DETROIT LIONS—Herb Orris, Bob Kowalkowski, Larry Hand, Paul Naumoff, Dorne Dibble, Mike Lucci, Ron Kramer and Lem Barney.

DETROIT RED WINGS—Gary Bergman, Nick Libbitt, Marty Pavelich and Bill Gadsby;

DETROIT TIGERS—Al Kaline, Joe Ginsberg, Roy Cullenbine, Norm Cash, Bill Hoft, Earl Wilson and Hal Newhouse;

DETROIT PISTONS—Bob Lanier and Willie Norwood;

Detroiters Earl Morrall of the Miami Dolphins, Roy Gerela of the Pittsburgh Steelers, and Race Driver Marshall Robbins also will compete.

Further information and tickets are available from Edna Slavik at ALSAC, Michigan Area Office, St. Jude Children's Research Hospital, 22148 Michigan Avenue, Dearborn.

The Great Oaks Country Club is on Great Oaks Boulevard, north of Walton Road between Rochester Road and Livernois in Oakland County.

Salem set for Saturday finals

Wayne Sparkman, not a man prone to superlatives, said that he will be coaching in the biggest baseball game of his life Saturday when his Plymouth Salem team takes the field at 10 a.m. against Hazel Park with the winner advancing to the finals of the Michigan Class A high school baseball championship.

"I think that game will be won or lost on mental and physical errors," Sparkman said. "I don't think there will be a lot of hits."

If the pitching holds to form, Sparkman's last prediction should be true. Salem will start its ace left-hander, Tom Willette, in the key game against Hazel Park's standout hurler, Bud Yanus.

"There's no doubt about it, we have a big obstacle in our way," said Sparkman.

Hazel Park is a veteran team which knows what it means to be in the position of a semi-finalist.

The Vikings went all the way to the finals last year before falling to Livonia Churchill.

THE ROCKS WILL GO into the contest in good physical shape. Only outfielder John DenHouter is questionable at this point. DenHouter sat our last week's regional play with a pulled hamstring muscle.

"I think he'll be ready, though. He's had two weeks," said Sparkman.

At any rate, DenHouter will be available for pinch-hitting duty if necessary.

If the Rocks can get by Yanus and Hazel Park, they will play in the 3 p.m. finals against the winner of the Flint Central - Bay City Handy game which will be played at 12:30 p.m. Saturday.

All games are slated at Wyandotte-Roosevelt High School. (see directions below).

Here's the probable starting lineup for the Rocks' first game:

1. Dave Pierce, 2b; 2. Brian Wolcott, ss; 3. Doug Tripp, rf; 4. Tom Willette, p; 5. Charlie Johnson, 3b; 6. Howard Inch, 1b; 7. Tim Dillon, cf; 8. Dan Moore, lf; 9. Vern Nagel, c.

Sparkman indicated that should the Rocks advance to the finals he would probably start Chuck Thomas in the championship game with Willette available for relief duties. Michigan High School Athletic Association rules prohibit any pitcher from pitching more than 10 innings in one day of tournament play.

The semifinals and finals of the tournament will be played next Monday if they are rained out on Saturday.

"One player can't win it for us on Saturday. It will take a real team effort," Sparkman said.

TOURNAMENT SCHEDULE:

Semi-finals - at 10 a.m.: PLYMOUTH SALEM versus Hazel Park. At 12:30 p.m. Flint Central versus Bay City Handy. Winners advance to finals at 3 p.m.

All games at Wyandotte-Roosevelt High School. Take I-75 South to Fort Street. Go right on Fort Street to Grove in South Wyandotte. Go left on Grove to 20th Street. Take 20th Street right to diamond.

Dearborn out-runs Livonia trackmen

Dearborn high schools took 10 of 15 firsts and went on to dominate Livonia high schools last week in the second annual Dearborn-Livonia All-Star Track Meet at Edsel Ford High School.

Dearborn Edsel Ford's Dave Sikora put on a one-man show at the meet, taking firsts in the 100 and 220 yard dashes and in the high hurdles.

Livonia Churchill accounted for three of the five Livonia firsts.

Bill Reardon won the shot put with a heave of 56-7. Craig Gully won the mile with a time of 4:31.1 and Rick Powers took the pole vault, going 13 feet. Churchill's Paul Schulz was second in that event with a vault of 12 feet.

Reardon's put was a record as was Stevenson's Paul Lokar's long jump of 21-5.25.

The other Livonia first came in the 880 relay where the Franklin combination of Dave Smith, Jim Casey, Phil Yuhasz and Dan Quinn combined to win in 1:32.7.

The Dearborn win evened the series at one victory each.

Competing schools were: Livonia - Bentley (LB), Clarenceville (CV), Churchill (LC), Franklin (LF) and Stevenson (LS). Dearborn - Dearborn High (D), Divine Child (DC), Edsel Ford (EF), Fordson (DF), Sacred Heart (DSH) and St. Alphonsus (DSA).

Results:

LONG JUMP-1. P. Lokar (LS) 2. Stucky (D) 3. Cliff (D) Distance-21-5/4.

HCMA seeks grant for trails

The Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority is asking for a $50,000 grant to construct about 2.5 miles of a hiking-biking trail in Kensington Metropark near Milford.

The grant, sought from the grants-in-aid section of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources for Land and Water Funds, would cover half the expected cost of the project. The trail would be developed over a period of several years.

Persons may comment on the proposed project by writing to the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, 600 Woodward, Detroit 48226.

Canton, Plymouth Twp. figures show No slump in area building

Construction in Canton and Plymouth townships is surviving the recession and nationwide slump in the housing industry, if the number of building permits issued is any indication.

Chuck Thompson, Canton Township's building official, says building permits have "held their own" over the past few years.

Plymouth Township's chief building inspector, James R. Briggs, says the number of permits issued in May could indicate an upturn from a slump last spring and summer.

According to Plymouth Township's building reports, more permits were issued for the construction of new buildings and additions during May 1975, than for any other single month during 1974 or thus far in 1975.

"We're somewhat ahead on the number of permits," said Briggs, "but last year was really off. I have high hopes that we'll have a spurt this spring."

Despite the local sunny outlook for the construction industry in general, Briggs forecasts a dim immediate future for new industrial buildings in Plymouth Township.

On April 1, Consumer's Power Co. cut off gas permits for new industrial customers, Briggs explained. Consolidated Gas Co., which services customers south of Joy Road, has not followed Consumer's lead.

"We got a couple of last-minute permits," Briggs said, "but I just know we won't get any more. It hurts us when we sit on the border, and industry can go to Canton Township and get gas."

According to building reports of both communities, Canton's building activity is more lively than Plymouth Township's.

Last month, for example, Canton issued 99 permits for single family houses, seven for swimming pools and 19 for garages. During the same month, Plymouth Township issued 10 permits for single family houses, seven for pools and seven for garages.

WHILE CONSTRUCTION of new homes seems to be dropping off in other communities, Canton Township officials report that the level of activity by builders is "about the

According to Thompson, Canton issued about the same number of permits in May 1974, when 97 permits for single family houses were issued, eight for multiple family dwellings, nine for pools and seven for garages. "The slump hasn't affected us too much here," Thompson said. "It's just stayed about the same. That could be an indication that we're doing more business than other communities, but I really don't know."

Canton cleanup misses mark

CANTON—Township cleanup month recently ended as May gave way to June, with results falling below the hoped-for participation of residents and service clubs.

"We were pleased with the amount of refuse picked up," said Supervisor Robert Greenstein, "but I was hoping more organizations would take part." More help is needed to clean up portions of the township, said Greenstein, who hopes to enlist the help of 14 to 18 year olds through the federal Neighborhood Youth Corps or the Wayne County Office of Manpower. The youths would be paid hourly wages at no cost to the township.

"Their job would be primarily to clean up," said the supervisor. "The township would supply them with equipment and as many people as we're able to provide."

Some service organizations, including the Jaycees, the scouts and the Lions Club, have promised to tackle some cleanup projects during the summer months ahead, according to township office worker Pam Phillips.

Nine organizations participated in May cleanup projects. A 40-yard dumpster, set up near the township firehall, was filled and emptied eight times.

Groups which participated include the Camelot West Homeowners Association, the Girl Scouts, the Northwest Homeowners Association, the Pilgrim Garden Club, Bedford Villas, Fellows Creek Golf Course, Windsor Park Homeowners Association and students from Gallimore Elementary School.

Four Redford Township teens also cleaned up the cemetery at Michigan and Haggerty.

Area golfer qualifies for National Open

By W. W. EDGAR

The lessons he learned as a lad of 15 on the Hilltop Golf Course have enabled Gary Robinson, of Plymouth, to teach a goal he has dreamed of for a decade—the chance to compete in golf's National Open Championship with the great stars of the game.

Young Gary, now an assistant pro at the Oasis driving range on Five Mile Road in Livonia, qualified for his big chance a week ago by finishing second in the Open trials at Orchard Lake Country Club with a 70-72-142.

He's been walking on "cloud nine" ever since and now is looking forward to the big chance when the Open field tees off at the Medina Club in Chicago later in the month.

"It just seems hard to believe," he said with a smile as he watched the golfers on the range trying to improve their tee shots. "But it is the chance I always dreamed of and I hope to make the most of it."

IN THE LONG history of the National Open only one golfer, Lee Trevoni, ever made it from a driving range to the title. But if Gary's dreams come true Lee will have company in the record books.

Robinson didn't always have the dream of being a great golfer. He started in baseball as a member of the Little League in and around Plymouth.

He had the reputation of being a good player and pitched for the State Class D Champions. In fact he pitched and won the morning game of a doubleheader and played second base in the afternoon.

He had one bad fault. He couldn't run. And this lack of speed caused Gary's father, Gordon Robinson who had been quite a baseball himself, to talk him into taking up golf.

"You can play golf until you're 75 or 80," his dad told him. So he started at Hilltop.

HE PLAYED every day, all day, during the summer, and under the watchful eye of Chris Burghardt, then Hilltop owner, he progressed rapidly.

He earned a golf scholarship to Eastern Michigan University and was named to the All-American team. He earned top place in the Michigan Public Golf Association honor roll twice and finished sixth in the 1973 U.S. Public championship.

No one was more pleased than he when he walked off the final green at Orchard Lake in the trials, knowing that he had earned a chance at the National Open championship.

He is now going to follow in the paths traveled by such legends of the game as Walter Hagen, Bobby Jones, Ben Hogan, Byron Nelson and Jack Nicklaus, the current master of the fairways.

It's a big jump from Hilltop and the Oasis driving range to a place in the National Open field. But if hard work and determination pay off, Robinson may furnish one of the surprises in this year's battle at the Medina Club.

Westland Adray loses first 2

Westland Burger King opened its Adray League season on a dreary note Sunday, dropping a pair of games to Royal Oak, 6-4 and 8-2.

Ken Robinson went six for eight for the day but Royal Oak's 25 hits in the two games were too much.

Mark Walsh took the loss for Westland in the opening game as Royal Oak opened a quick 4-0 lead. Westland came back for a run in the fourth on Larry Clark's RBI single and three in the fifth to tie things but Royal Oak tallied a pair in the sixth to win it.

In the fifth, Robinson, Bruce Brewin and Larry Clark all singled.

Westland got four straight singles in the sixth.

Batteries: Royal Oak — STENNETT and McWilliams. Westland — WALSH and Brewin.

ROYAL OAK 120 102 0 - 6-14-2
WESTLAND 000 130 0 - 4-14-3

The Westland bats were stifled in second game and Royal Oak scored three times in the first to win going away.

Westland scored in the top of the first to take a temporary lead when Jojo Scarpace walked and Ken Robinson singled after Scarpace had stole second.

Westland's only other run came in the seven on Al Leirstein's triple to right-centerfield and Jeff Hodgkin's sacrifice.

Batteries: Westland — MORENCI and Brewin. Royal Oak — SMITH and McWilliams.

We Believe In You!

If a personal loan for any good reason can help you right now, come to the bank that believes you've earned your good credit's worth anytime you need it.

And we say that as bankers.

You see, we make more loans than any other bank in the Detroit area. And that's given us a unique opportunity to watch all kinds of people handle their financial affairs through good times and bad.

And through it all we've seen you manage your money, pay your bills and even save a little, too. And, these days, that's not the easiest thing to do.

So if it comes to needing a personal loan for any worthwhile reason, we hope you'll come to us. Perhaps you'd like the peace of mind of a new car for that trip this summer. Or maybe now's the time to protect the investment you have in your home with a new roof or other major repairs.

In fact, knowing you as we do, we think you probably already know what you need. And how much you can afford. And if you have a question about how much loan you can comfortably manage, remember that the experienced counsel and financial advice of the biggest bank in town is yours for the asking.

At National Bank of Detroit. The bank that believes in you.

The Green Thumb

By GEORGE ABRAHAM

You can't beat the taste of home grown carrots. We're getting letters asking us why it is that carrot seed is so difficult to germinate.

First of all, do not blame your seedsman for selling you poor seed. The seed is good. Carrot seed does not have much "pushing up" power and if the soil crusts over, you don't get any seed to sprout. There's still time to sow carrots (you can sow up to mid or late July and still get a good crop). We suggest making successive sowings every two or three weeks for a continuous supply of tender young carrots, throughout the season.

The secret: SOW SEED THINLY AND COVER LIGHTLY.

Instead of covering with soil, try covering with a light dusting of peat-moss. Carrot seed germinates slowly and it's a good idea to sow a little radish seed with the carrots to mark the rows for cultivating. If seeds are sowed thickly, better than the seedlings to one inch apart. If you don't thin out carrots you get all tops, or spindly bottoms. However, if you want carrots the size of your little finger (great to eat raw or cooked), then sow seed thinly and do NOT thin them out.

EVER EAT any carrot cake?

You can't beat carrots

Here's a dandy recipe passed along to us by a carrot lover:

3 cups shredded carrots;
4 eggs,
2 cups sugar, cream together.
1 1/4 cups oil;
3 cups flour,
2 tsp. baking powder;
1 tsp. salt,
2 tsp. soda;
2 tsp. cinnamon;
1 cup nuts.

Put in angel food pan and bake at 325 degrees for one hour. Cool one hour.

To make icing: 8 oz. cream cheese, softened, 1/4 lb. butter, softened. 1 lb. sugar (confectioner's); 2 tsp. vanilla. 1 cup nuts. Slice cake in half to frost.

RIEGER BEGONIAS: This is one of our showiest plants, but it's also one of our easiest to get powdery mildew on the leaves. Best bet is to put the plant in a room where it gets good air circulation. Also, when you water your plants, do not get any on the foliage.

A good potting soil consists of one part each of sand, peat and loam, and you can add little perlite or vermiculite to help loosen it.

Either a clay or plastic pot is suitable, but do not water them too heavily as they cannot take wet feet. Over-watering will cause root damage, yellowing or mottling of the leaves. Feed liquid plant food once every three or four weeks. They make a fine hanging basket item.

GREEN THUMB CLINIC: "Please tell us what causes the blossoms of our eggplants to drop off."

ANSWER: This can be due to low night temperatures, hot, dry winds, or a shortage of nitrogen, especially in a sandy soil.

Deep plowing unnecessary

Deep plowing does not necessarily contribute to greater crop yields and may waste energy.

"The idea that deeper plowing creates more topsoil, resulting in greater crop yields, is a myth. Research has proven this over and over," says Henry Foth, Michigan State University crop and soil scientist.

Test results do not justify plowing deeper than four to eight inches for the loamy soils typical to southern Michigan. Use caution when plowing deeper than eight inches. It could cause nutrient dilution and fixation, says Foth.

Corn brace roots grow only to about five or six inches in the soil. The plant is able to absorb more nutrients if the upper five or six inches of soil has a higher fertility level.

57 parasites attack horses

Parasites are the leading cause of death losses in horses.

All horses kept under ordinary conditions have parasites. "Internal parasites usually have biting or sucking mouth parts. When they feed they cause annoyance, irritation, loss of body fluids and tissue damage," says Dr. Oscar Swanstrom, Michigan State University equine specialist.

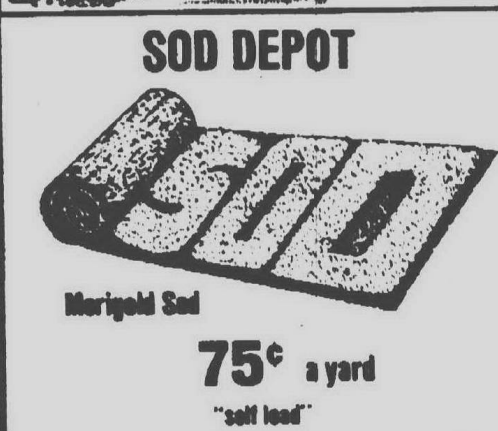

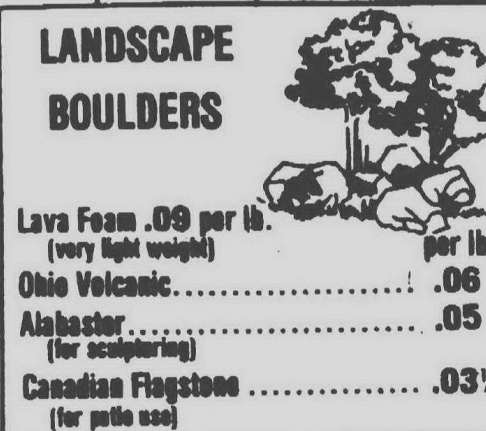

Of the 57 species listed for the horse, strongyles, ascarids and bots are the most harmful parasites. Practical prevention methods include daily stall cleaning. Keeping windows screened and manure pits covered. Parasite control is a continuous effort.

Most horses are wormed once or twice annually, but monthly or bi-monthly worming is necessary to control internal parasites. This type of care should begin when the colt is three weeks old and continue all his life, says Swanstrom.

Plymouth Fife & Drum Corps

Did you know that Plymouth has a very unique group of musicians? There is no other marching musical organization like them in the state of Michigan. This versatile group presenting patriotic American music depicting the Revolutionary and Civil wars is the Plymouth Fife and Drum Corps. Organized three years ago the corps is made up of young men and women from Plymouth, Livonia, West Bloomfield and Romulus. Wearing handmade uniforms, modeled after the War of 1812 sailor's uniform, the thirty fifers and ten drummers add a patriotic and historic touch to any event. In addition to parades the fifers and drummers now perform drill exhibitions. There is also a training group of drummers, called the Drum Band, who march with the Fife and Drum Corps. Directors for the Corps are Mr. and Mrs. Mark Petty, assisted by Ron Gill and Sharon Foster. Summer plans for the Corps include the Flag Day ceremonies at Wonderland Shopping Center, June 14; the Rose Festival in Jackson, June 15; the Muskegon Seaway Festival, June 28; the July 4 parades at Plymouth and Northville; the Cherry Festivals in Traverse City, Reed City and Bridgeport, July 10-13; the Great Lakes Drum and Bugle Association competition in Saginaw, July 26 and the Greenfield Village Revolutionary War Muster on August 23. The Plymouth Fife and Drum Corps, like many others, look forward to the Bicentennial Year. They hope to celebrate the nation's 200th birthday with increased bookings and in new colonial uniforms.

Muzzle Loaders Festival June 21-22

Muzzle-loading rifle buffs and sharpshooters from throughout the Midwest will be featured in the 21st annual Muzzle Loaders Festival June 21 and 22 at Greenfield Village.

Based on the turkey shoots popular in frontier America, the festival draws more than 600 shooters to compete in the largest event of its kind anywhere.

On Saturday, individual shooters toe the line 50 yards from the targets with their antique muzzle loaders. On Sunday, the military units—commemorative groups named after actual units in the Civil War, both Yankee and Rebel—take the field.

The noise of antique weaponry dies down for a host of special activities. Once each day, there's an "All Star" Musket Team competition between the Midwest and Northwest teams of the North-South Skirmish Association and a demonstration of the Gatling gun by members of the 4th Michigan Volunteer Infantry.

On Saturday, two firing teams will engage in a cannon competition using authentic Civil War weapons. The winner of the Civil cannon match meets a Revolutionary War cannon in competition on Sunday.

Near the viewing stand, a gunsmith, powder horn carver, bullet molder and knife maker demonstrate the weaponry skill once essential to the frontiersman and soldier. Village officials will judge the competitor's costumes for authenticity.

Throughout the festival, three costumed military bands will provide stirring sounds from long ago. The First Brigade Band of Milwaukee, Wis., the 44th Ohio Volunteer Band from Springfield and the 5th Michigan Regiment Band from Howell will perform.

There is no additional charge for the festival beyond the regular Village admission of $2.75 for adults and $1.25 for children six through 12. Children under six are admitted free.

Hilberry presents theater festival

Wayne State University's sixth Hilberry summer theater festival, featuring simultaneous performances in the main theater and the studio theater, will include five productions in repertory from July 2 to Aug. 16.

The Hilberry graduate repertory company will present evening performances of the musical "Man of La Mancha" under the direction of Russell Smith, with a July 10 opening, and Paddy Chayefsky's comedy-drama "The Tenth Man," directed by Richard Spear, opening July 23.

Afternoons the company will perform a mime play for children, "Johnny Moonbeam and the Silver Arrow," directed by Gary M. Witt and opening July 3.

Downstairs, in the studio theater, two other companies will alternate the musical "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown," opening July 2, and Jean Genet's "The Blacks," opening July 9.

"The Blacks" will be performed by the festival's Black Theater Company, under the direction of Martin Molson.

Brochures with information about the plays, the schedule and ticket prices are available from the WSU Hilberry box office, Cass and Hancock, Detroit, 48202.

Winners named in art exhibit

Artists from Livonia, Westland and Redford Township received honors in the Livonia Arts Commission first annual spring exhibition-sale held recently in Livonia City Hall.

Some 75 artists submitted works which were judged by Lorraine Chamber McCarty of Royal Oak.

Walter Heinz of Westland received best of show for his acrylic "Axle Housing."

Ribbons in the oil category went to Kathleen Puinti, "The Collector;" Marie Tuthill, "A Quiet Place," and Ken Vickery, "Shrimp Boat." All live in Livonia.

Honorable mention in oils went to Lillian Gunderson of Detroit, "Autumn," and Alice Wasik of Dearborn, "Rooftop."

AWARDS in the water color division went to Carol Hutchings of Livonia, "Lobster Shacks;" Ronald Hutchings of Livonia, "Ben's Wagon," and Clair Cosgrove of Farmington, "Blue Mountain."

Robert E. Smith of Livonia received an honorable mention for "Sentinels." Floral division winners included Kay Leman of Livonia, "Sunstkers;" Kathy Kujawski of Livonia, "Delphiniums," and Betty McCullough of Redford Township for "My Pink Roses." Honorable mention went to Rosemary Juracek of Redford Township.

In acrylics, Walter Heinz of Westland, "Interim;" Lillian Kortilla of Livonia, "Untitled Abstract." Special mention went to J.J. Michrins of Northville, Frieda Osborn of Livonia, Ralph Bulman of Livonia, Olive Harrington of Livonia, Ethel Freuchtel of Livonia, Ann Hearschen of Detroit, Jeanne Poulet Romos-Sainz of Livonia and Judy Gresser of Livonia.

MUZZLE LOADERS FESTIVAL

Sat.-Sun. 9:30-5:00

Old Village Gallery features area artists

By SUE ROSIEK but first they had to find the "perfect" spot. Pat and Erick Carne always dreamed of opening an art gallery. "We combed the real estate ads and looked at buildings for more than a year before we found the right spot, here on Starkweather in Plymouth," explains Mrs. Carne.

The refurbished turn-of-the-century home, in Plymouth's Old Village section, now houses paintings, pottery and weaving by artists from Rochester, Livonia, Birmingham, Bloomfield Hills and Troy.

The Carnes with the help of their children, who came from Montana, Kalamazoo, Flint, Ypsilanti and Livonia, made the change from house to art gallery a family affair. The state-ly structure was renamed the Old Village Gallery.

THE REMODELING, which started last February, included several coats of paint, patching walls, new light fixtures, and moving a few walls. Floors were sanded and restored to their natural finish. The upper level of the gallery now serves as the Carnes' home.

"We hope the open, warm feeling of the remodeling will be the atmosphere people find here," says Carne, an architect with the Livonia firm Ralls-Hamill-Becker-Carne, Inc., and supervisor of the family project.

The gallery's freshly painted exterior is accented by more than 70 red geraniums spread across the front yard at 383 Starkweather. The result is bright, pretty and inviting, just what the Carnes' had hoped for.

The art available inside is much the same—pretty.

"WE WANT art that portrays beauty and makes people feel good," explains Carne. "At the same time we'll try to reach a balance between realistic and abstract works. Our goal is a gallery featuring moderate priced art of young, fresh talent and established artists from this area."

The gallery now contains 100 pieces of art from 20 contributing artists, but the Carnes are always looking for more. Artists interested in displaying their work at Old Village Gallery should call Mrs. Carne.

Artists exhibited include Carolyn Dubin of Rochester, whose pottery hangs in the gallery's garden room. In the three larger rooms artists featured are Johnnie Crosby of Northville Township, watercolorist Victoria Cox of Troy and Shirlee Robinson of Livonia.

ALSO ON display is pottery by Ray Pedersen of Plymouth and metal sculptures by John Murowski, a former Plymouth resident who recently moved to Detroit.

A sampling of Carne's acylics and water colors also are exhibited.

What formerly was the kitchen is now the gallery office, where Mrs. Carne, manager, conducts business. Besides artwork, Old Village Gallery offers a custom framing service and art supplies.

The Carnes are excited about their new venture and the Plymouth area.

"We both grew up in communities where the market and drugstore were in walking distance," says Mrs. Carne. "Plymouth is that same type of downtown, friendly community, where you can ride a bike or walk to find anything you need—even art."

The Old Village Gallery is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesdays through Saturdays.

THE CARNES place pots and plants in the gallery's garden room.

Poe lives!

When Edgar Allan Poe's raven quoth "Nevermore," Poe didn't know about Jerry Rockwood and that in the 20th century he would live again through Rockwood's portrayal of his life and works.

"A Condition of Shadow," presented by Rockwood in Schoolcraft College's Waterman Center at 8 p.m. June 12, is not simply a reading of selections. Poe's writings, his tales, poems, essays and letters and even marginal notes are used to create an in-depth characterization of the poet, revealing the agonizing conflicts of his personality, egomania, frustrations, his sublimity as well as his tortured visions and his little known humor.

The presentation is sponsored by Schoolcraft's student activities office and is free and open to the public.

Michigan summer reflected on film

A variety of Michigan's summer pleasures and playgrounds are reflected in a new film "Michigan-Mirror of America," produced by the Michigan Tourist Council.

The 28-minute film glimpses popular vacation destinations and recreational pursuits, historical highlights, sports activities and the natural beauty and serenity of Michigan's woods and waters.

"Mirror of America" is sure to be a stimulus to many Michiganians to re-discover their state and an irresistible temptation to other vacation-bound Americans to visit Michigan," according to Jack S. Wilson, director of the Michigan Tourist Council.

The film is available for loan to schools, clubs, civic organizations and other groups through Modern Talking Pictures, Chicago, and the Film Service, Michigan Department of Natural Resources, Lansing, Michigan. 48926.

SC music school attracts expert staff

Richard T. Saunders, director of Schoolcraft College's summer music school attributes a major portion of the college's past successes to the high quality of its teaching staff.

He feels the real strength of the program is in having master musician-teachers: "Men and women who are outstanding performers in their own right, take the time and have an interest in providing a great deal of individual attention for their students."

The school will be held from June 30 through July 25 on the Schoolcraft campus, 18600 Haggerty Road, Livonia. A number of openings still remain. Students may contact Saunders at the college, extension 342.

Nine of the 12-member summer faculty are performing artists with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. Two others, Robert W. Jones and Donald Morelock, are full time music instructors at Schoolcraft.

Jones, who first joined the college as composer-in-residence, teaches a class for young composers. The class covers compositions from the 17th to the 20th centuries. Short compositions are written weekly in the style under study. The class is limited to 10 students.

The school for selected piano students, under Morelock, provides an opportunity for ensemble performance, two-piano, piano-duet and concerto playing.

Saunders says that one student will be selected by special audition to perform with the faculty as guest soloist in the final concert. "The student

OCC offers film course

Oakland Community College will offer an "Introduction to Film" course during the summer session at the Orchard Ridge campus, 27655 Orchard Lake Road in Farmington Hills. The session runs from Wednesday, June 25 through Tuesday, Aug. 12. Classes will meet on Monday and Wednesday evenings from 7 to 9 p.m.

"Introduction to Film" is a three-credit course. Students may audit the course.

Taught by Dr. Dan Greenberg, chairman of the theater department, the class will involve students in the history and a discussion of 31 feature and short films. Included among the films will be Marlene Dietrich in "The Blue Angel," Chaplin's "Gold Rush" and Danny Kaye in "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty."

Registration for the film course, which is offered under the dual designation of theater 190 or humanities 190, will be Monday and Tuesday, June 23 and 24 from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Buddy Rich at Clarenceville

Drummer Buddy Rich and his 16-piece band will appear in Clarenceville High School Auditorium, Sunday and Monday, June 15 and 16 at 8 p.m.

Rich was the first big band to perform in Clarenceville when the jazz series began in 1969. He has played there every year since, except last year. He opened Buddy's Place, a club in New York City a few years ago, reduced his band from 16 to seven and played only a few dates outside New York. Last spring, he teamed with organist Jimmy McGriff for a short while.

Rich is back with a big band and Clarenceville will be the first stop for the band's short tour before returning to New York.

Tickets are $5 and $4 and may be purchased in the Clarenceville box office Thursdays and Fridays from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. or during business hours at Hammell Music on Middle Belt Road, and at Grinnell's in the Livonia Mall. Clarenceville is at 20155 Middle Belt just north of Seven mile.

Chorale sings pre-tour concert

The Southern Michigan Youth Chorale pre-European tour concert will be Sunday, June 15 at 3 p.m. in the First United Methodist Church, 327 W. Seventh Street, Royal Oak.

Julie Milazzo of 16118 Southampton, Livonia, will join the 45-voice chorale under the direction of L. Vincent Kochenderfer, director of choral music at Lahser High School.

The chorale will be making its seventh annual tour which will include concerts and sightseeing in Holland, Germany, Austria, Switzerland, Liechtenstein, France, Belgium and England.

The concert is free and open to the public.

SPIDERS: creepy, crawly and lucky!

Whenever I lecture or appear on television around the country, the most frequently asked question is not about witchcraft at all, but about the jewelry I wear — two elaborate brass pieces designed and created by Bob Sharney.

One is a bracelet resembling a spider in the center of a web, the other a six-inch pendant in the shape of a giant spider, in the center of which is a very beautiful real spider encased in Lucite.

Some people have a deep loathing for spiders, and equate them with evil. I have never been able to understand this, because I find the germ-carrying fly on which the spider preys far more disagreeable.

MANY SOCIETIES throughout time have held spiders to be omens of good fortune. In West African and Indian folklore, there is a wealth of stories about a spider named Anansi, or Anasi, who appears in these fables as a hero.

The Greeks and Romans believed an engraving of a spider on a precious stone gave the wearer the power to see into the future.

Since I am of Scottish ancestry, my favorite spider legend is the one about Robert the Bruce. When he was king of Scotland in the very early 14th century, he had suffered defeat in battle with the English no less than six times. As he sat in the great hall of his castle, contemplating the future, he thought of going into voluntary exile and leaving Scotland to the English.

Then he noticed a spider on the cell-

ing. As he watched, it tried six times unsuccessfully to cast its web from one beam to another, but the seventh time it tried, it was successful.

Robert the Bruce took this as an omen. He went out to fight a seventh battle against his enemy and was victorious, thus saving Scotland.

From that time, Scottish people have thought favorably of spiders. Many believe to this day that if you carry a spider in your purse or money bag, great wealth will be yours.

FEW BRITONS will ever kill a spider. Instead, they recite the old couplet:

"If you wish to live and thrive,
Let the spider run alive."

Practitioners of folk medicine held spiders in great esteem, believing a spider held captive inside a walnut shell and carried around the neck would cure almost any illness.

In Garden City, there lives a man named George Bombyk, whose hobby is making good luck charms out of black widow spiders.

Do good luck charms really work? Of course they do — if you believe in them. That's the key to the whole thing.

Gundella will teach a weekend workshop June 21-22. For details, write to her at Box 434, Garden City, MI. 48135.

Father's Day shared by many

BY SHERRY KAHAN

Ron Mattson of Livonia married a woman who loves babies.

So this year on Father's Day he will be in his usual role as foster father to one or more children other than his own.

During the past nine years he and his wife, Sharon, have been foster parents to 25 children, most of them babies.

"You've got to stop your own family sometime," Mrs. Mattson explained.

Soft, rounded cheeks, a winning toothless smile and a talcum smell are not the only appeals these small people hold for Mrs. Mattson.

"I love babies because they need you the most," she said.

MATTSON UNDERSTOOD from the start that adding foster youngsters to a family which already had three natural children had to be acceptable to everyone.

"It has to be a family affair or it won't work," he said. "There are so many things to be done for them."

"If our kids didn't enjoy the babies, they'd be jealous and it wouldn't be fair to them," he said. "As long as they enjoy the experience, it works out fine. Otherwise, it would not be enjoyable for us."

Mrs. Mattson eyed her husband appreciatively and smiled. "He's one in a million," she said. "The babies often disturb him at night and at meals, but he never complains."

"He always liked children. As a teenager, he enjoyed the kids in his neighborhood."

His neighborhood was Redford Township where he attended Thurston High School. Mrs. Mattson lived in Livonia all her life, attending Bentley High School.

"SOMETIMES WHEN Ron and I are out with a foster child, someone will tell us that the baby looks just like his daddy," she laughed.

She enjoys the reaction of strangers who, when they see her with two of the babies, ask, "Twins?"

"No, they are six weeks apart," she answers, trying not to break up while the questioner tries to deal with this medical "miracle."

Mattson believes he has a vital part to play in the lives of his tiny, temporary visitors.

"THE ONE WE have now never became accustomed to men," he said. "It took about two weeks for her to warm up to me. But babies respond to love. It's been proven that babies most need loving in their earliest months."

"A foster home is better than an institution for them. In a family situation they can get cuddling and the individual loving care a child is entitled to," said his wife.

As the youngest in the family, the foster child is often the focal point of family interest. The Mattson children, Greg, Brian and Vicki, bring her toys, keep her from running into the coffee table and work hard to get a laugh.

Even though he has been father to 25 foster children, Ron Mattson still finds time to try to organize a game of baseball with his wife and their own children. From left are Mattson, his wife, Sharon, and Vicki, Brian and Greg. Greg is an Observer & Eccentric newspaper carrier. (Staff photo by Art Emanuel) day, for the most part, we have had few illnesses."

Mrs. Mattson added: "We haven't even had a baby with colic, although I suppose that one of these days our luck will run out."

CLEARLY, being family to a growing number of children is a rewarding for the Mattsons.

Mrs. Mattson can continue to snuggle baby who needs her while her own children grow toward adolescence.

Her husband can follow his fatherly instincts, and the kids can have someone to play with and look after.

But there is one bad, bad time. "It's very hard when they leave—very hard," said Mattson.

"And it is not as hard on me as it is on Sharon. I'm usually at work when they go."

"But she has to carry them out and put them in the car which has come for them."

"These babies are just like our own."

It is not long after the departure of one child until the Mattson brood is asking for another.

"Vicki thinks that to get one of these babies, all you have to do is phone a case worker," said Mrs. Mattson.

"Often, when we get them, we aren't able to keep them very long because the agency places them with a family. There is a baby shortage now. People are eager to adopt and often wait three to five years."

THE MATTSONS receive their foster children from Child and Family Services in Howell, a private agency supported by the United Foundation and private donations.

The agency is responsible for the foster child's medical and clothing expenses. They pay families $3 a day for expenses for each child.

"You don't go into this to make money," said Mrs. Mattson.

"We've been very lucky," Mattson said. "While we have had to take several children to the hospital the first

NOW speaker cites cases

'Beaten wives masochistic? I don't believe it'

By SHERRY KAHAN

Advertisements that state "Have some fun—beat your wife tonight," make Kathleen Fojtik furious.

She also fails to be amused by a plaque in an Indiana motel which reads, "A woman, a dog and a walnut tree—the more you beat, the better they be."

A member of the Washtenaw County Board of Commissioners, Mrs. Fojtik recently took her case against wife abuse to members of the Midwestern Wayne County Chapter of the National Organization for Women (NOW), which has members in Garden City, Westland, Wayne, Dearborn Heights and Dearborn.

"People like to think the woman who is beaten is passive or masochistic and enjoys it," said Mrs. Fojtik in an interview before her talk. "I don't believe it."

"If you would read the testimony of women who attempt to prosecute their husbands for beating them, you would find no indication that they enjoyed it or regarded it as an integral part of life."

"It was because of alcohol, or because the husband became suddenly mad with rage."

MRS. FOJTIC said it isn't the family fight that she's discussing. I'm talking about pathological anger taken out on the female, usually not for what she has done but for a deeper reason," she explained.

"The man experiences self-hatred, plus frustration with his life or his job."

"The woman is the victim of misplaced anger." "The husband can't take it out on his boss. She is the closest and the easiest to beat and batter."

THE WASHTENAW commissioner said her mother was involved in this kind of situation.

"My mother found her strength in religion," she said. "Her belief in the Catholic Church sustained her, but it was also the reason she couldn't get out."

"Women become physically weak after years of being battered. Their esteem becomes lower and lower, but I contend that they didn't start out that way."

THE TACIT approval of wife beating from society and its institutions particularly angers Mrs. Fojtik.

"A judge in Flint heard a case involving a man charged with assault to kill his wife," she said. "A policeman who had been on the scene testified against the husband. So did the wife."

The judge threw out the case on the basis that a man's house is his castle and the police were trespassing."

The second case occurred in Detroit circuit court, she said.

"A woman charged her husband with criminal assault," she said. "Later, she came in to withdraw the complaint, saying it was not bad enough. It turned out that the prosecutor had told her it was not a strong enough case."

What had the man done that was not strong enough for legal action?

"He tied his wife to a bed and slashed her genitals with a knife."

SHE REFERRED to recent research by University of Michigan law students Pat Micklow and Sue Eisenberg which underlined her contention that wife beating is not taken seriously by society.

"They document again and again the implied social approval of police, mental health and social service agencies," she said. "None of them do anything, even when they have direct knowledge that wife abuse is occurring."

Few statistics on wife beating have been assembled by these institutions. As a result, Mrs. Fojtik, social work graduate students and students from a U-M course on women and the law, have had to examine records to find the needed information.

"In the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department, records show that 50 per cent of all assault and battery complaints are filed by women against their husbands," she said.

"The sheriff will tell you that for every complaint filed, there are at least six that are not filed."

THE WOMEN INVESTIGATORS also found that, in 1974 of the 13 cases involving homicide in the county, six involved women charged with the murder of a husband or boyfriend.

"Preliminary investigations reveal that in at least five of the six cases, there had been years of wife beating prior to the murders," Mrs. Fojtik said.

"We are trying to offer alternatives to women in these situations—to prevent murder."

Usually, she explained, only two alternatives are open to women: divorce or criminal prosecution.

"Both are expensive, time-consuming and often not within the religious or ethnic background of the woman being abused," she said.

"A lot of beaten women continue to take it because society tells them to take it. Their families tell them to take it. Their religion reminds them it is for better or for worse, and other institutions offer no alternatives."

MRS. FOJTIC, who is president of the Ann Arbor NOW chapter, said her organization is creating in the homes of its members emergency housing for a woman who needs to escape temporarily from a violent situation.

"A beaten woman can now have an inexpensive place to go and take her children and not be followed. Five women over the last month have been housed."

"This is important because prosecutors ask again and again in wife beating cases 'Why didn't you leave?'"

NOW members are preparing a proposal to obtain money for more such emergency housing.

"Policemen agree with this," she said. "The officer on the street would like to have this resource available to tell women about."

Three major points will be included in the proposal.

"We want safety havens," said Mrs. Fojtik. "We want to re-educate police and the criminal justice system in better ways of dealing with domestic violence."

"We also want to re-educate social service agencies about wife beating and require them to expand their programs to meet this need."

MACLD has new officers

Alexandra Strzalka of Redford Township will assume the duties of president of the Livonia-Redford chapter of the Michigan Association for Children with Learning Disabilities following a recent election.

Taking office with her are Nancy Brown, vice president; Sue Laicu, secretary; and Louis Brown, treasurer, all from Livonia.

A non-profit organization of parents and professionals, the Livonia-Redford chapter holds programs related to children with learning disabilities the first Wednesday of each month of the school year in Franklin High School, Livonia.

5 area businesswomen offer advice

BY SHERRY KAHAN

Five women who are making it in the world of business and politics handed a barrelful of employment advice to women attending a recent seminar at Schoolcraft College.

Mary Dumas, a Wayne County commissioner, explained the reasons behind her entry into the political arena at the meeting sponsored by the department of women's services and programs.

Judy Berg passed on the story of her switch from teaching to counseling, a switch which led to a job in the Redford Township office of the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

How to turn a hobby into a successful handbag business was on the mind of Daren Otis of Livonia, while Peg Smith told of the culmination of a long ambition to run a crafts store.

Frieda Rutherford of Farmington wrapped it all up with hints on how to interest an employer in hiring you. She is a private employment service counselor.

THE WOMEN in the audience could easily identify with Mrs. Dumas as she walked them through the familiar steps that in her case led to a spot on the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

"I was a Girl Scout leader, a Sunday school teacher, and for the Livonia League of Women Voters, I studied local courts. Then I participated in a district court bond drive and organized a court watchers committee."

"While these held many gratifications, I eventually learned along the way that many things I wanted to accomplish couldn't always be done as a volunteer," said Mrs. Dumas.

"I decided that the only way I could make constructive changes in society was through politics."

While she did not win her first try for elective office, she eventually won an election that placed her on the board of trustees of Schoolcraft College, and later on the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

In her latest job, Mrs. Dumas works with a variety of urban problems, "which are important in your life and mine."

"Yet a few years ago when I applied for admission to the graduate school of urban studies at the University of Michigan, they said, sorry, they took very few women, that the waiting list was long, and that they would take recent graduates and men first," she said.

"They implied I was too old. Today they are required to take a quota of women into graduate school classes."

JUDY BERG STUDIED at the University of Detroit to be a teacher. But after getting a teaching job, she found it didn't work out.

"I didn't like the pressure of teaching," she said.

So she studied nights to earn guidance and counseling degrees, and is now happy with her work for the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

The message she brought to her audience as a result of this experience was to "explore job possibilities thoroughly."

"Plan now for future job opportunities," she advised. "Take courses at community colleges to prepare for a career."

There is lots of competition in the job market so it helps to know what you are looking for and which of your abilities to stress with employers, she said.

"Historically, this is a good time for women in the labor market," she added. "New laws have opened up things for women. Employers with government contracts have to have employees a certain percentage of women and minorities."

"This has opened up possibilities for women to get started."

Technical fields and service occupations are those showing the greatest opportunity today, she said.

DAREN'S BAGS in Livonia was started by a woman, who had no background in business and no familiarity with accounting.

"I wish schools would require accounting and bookkeeping," said Daren Otis. "It would help everyone."

Miss Otis could not paint a rosy picture about owning her own business.

"The bigger you get in any business the more you have to become involved and the more you have to know," she said. "You find your overhead expenses are always there whether you sell anything or not."

"You have to learn to look carefully at your competition. And since you are the boss, you have to get along with others."

Miss Otis observed that a social life was difficult because "I work six days a week, 12 hours a day, and who will put up with that."

She added: "I like what I'm doing and would like to stay with it."

As an employer of workers making purses she has found that persons with college degrees are the worst risks.

"They are unwilling to do anything they think is beneath them," she said. "I think employees ought to be willing to do things other than what is spelled out in their duties."

"Be willing to learn new things," she advised her listeners. "Open your mind."

PEG SMITH SOLD her first personally made craft items to J.L. Hudson when she was nine years old. But in order to support herself and her son she went into advertising and public relations instead of craft work.

However, she returned to her first love recently when she opened a crafts shop in Mackinaw City.

"If you want to go into business for yourself, don't believe people who say you can do it by investing only a few hundred dollars," she insisted.

"You have got to have enough money to provide a living for you the first five years while you get started."

"Don't go into it alone, either. Find a partner you can trust some one to help and give you feedback on the project."

FRIEDA RUTHERFORD is one of the people at Career Personnel, who helps match up jobs with job applicants. She suggested that the women in her audience study up a little on the company when applying for a job.

"Look them up in the Thomas Registry so you can ask intelligent questions. Interview aggressively. Lay your application in person on the desk of the man who might hire you."

"Follow this up with a letter and a phone call in order to keep your name fresh in his mind. Always ask the date on which the position is to be filled. It's better to know in advance."

Mrs. Rutherford stated that employers pay attention to an applicant's grade point average.

"They are interested in your involvement outside the home in such activities as PTA. They feel if you have been in a position of leadership it shows incentive. So be sure and include this information in your resume."

Pruntys celebrate 50th anniversary

MR. AND MRS. JOHN H. PRUNTY

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Prunty, who have lived on Farmington Road in Livonia for 15 years, marked their 50th wedding anniversary with a party at Mercy College June 7.

Their son and daughter and their families hosted the gathering for 200 guests, including relatives from Virginia, West Virginia and New Jersey.

The Pruntys were married June 6, 1925 in West Virginia and moved to Michigan the following year.

In 1947, Mr. Prunty established a lumber business, the Trio Lumber Co., in Taylor. Now semi-retired, he remains owner, president and active working head of the firm.

The Prunty's immediate family include a son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Prunty, and their sons, Richard and Ronald, of Taylor, and a daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Art Sorge, and their children, Donna, Jeffrey and Brian, of Dearborn Heights. A granddaughter, Mrs. Glen Morgia, lives in Virginia.

Day camp sets registration

A summer recreation program for children six to 12 years of age will be held in the form of a stay-at-home camp from 9:30 a.m. to noon Monday through Thursdays at the Northwest YMCA, 25940 Grand River, Redford Township.

The program will include crafts, sports, music, dramatics and swimming.

The first session will begin June 23 and run through July 21. Two session will follow, and children may register for any or all three session. For more information, contact the Y.

Free Pap tests available

Free Pap tests will be performed June 17 and 18 from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. in the Northwestern YMCA, 21755 W. Seven Mile, Detroit.

They are sponsored by Project CODAC (Community Outreach Detection and Care), the Michigan Cancer Foundation and the American Cancer Society.

Holy Cross project helps 'return to society'

By MARGARET MILLER

A yellow bus from the Northville State Hospital carries a load of NSH residents to Holy Cross Evangelical Lutheran Church in Livonia several times each year.

There the residents, all under treatment for mental illness in one of the hospital's wards, enjoy an evening of fellowship with the church people. They have a dinner served them, play some games, participate in a few rousing rounds of bingo and catch up on news with their hosts.

Sometimes, the people, from the church head out to the hospital for a visit, but the several visits a year to the church make up the major part of a program that's been going on for nearly a decade.

MEMBERS of the Lutheran Church Women (LCW), organizers of the project that takes in a good segment of the congregation, like the visits to the church, and so do authorities at the hospital.

"They get the atmosphere of the community, and we can do more to relate to them when we're welcoming them to our church," said Carol Zerga, LCW president, as she directed preparations for a recent indoor picnic at the church, at 30650 Six Mile.

Jean Bachelder of the NSH community relations office added her approval for the arrangement used by the Holy Cross group.

"When volunteers come to the hospital to visit, that's great," she said, "but when they can take the residents into the community, as some groups are doing now, it's a little more realistic."

"It helps more in the residents' socialization process, and of course our philosophy of treatment is getting these people prepared to return to society."

AN ADDED ADVANTAGE of the Holy Cross program, Mrs. Bachelder said, is the fact that the residents get out into a mixed group.

"Those who make the visits are from our C-South division," she said, "and that includes two wards of men and two of women."

"And church people participate mainly as couples, so it's a really good experience for our people."

ABOUT THIRTY Holy Cross people were on hand for the "picnic" in the church activities room. Various circles in the women's group had contributed to the fare that was served—fried chicken, ham, baked beans, salad, potatoes, rolls and homemade pie.

After dinner, there was bingo, with useful prizes provided for winners among the visitors.

"They always are so pleased to win," Mrs. Zerga said. "It's really a pleasure to see their faces as they go up to get their prizes."

Earlier in the church year, the church people had entertained the patients with parties for Halloween, Christmas and Valentine's Day, with appropriate presents and entertainment.

"The program is one of the church's big projects each year," Mrs. Zerga added.

MEMORIAL CHURCH OF CHRIST, 35475 Five Mile, Livonia, will stage a carnival Saturday, June 14 from 1 to 4 p.m. to launch its vacation Bible school, scheduled June 16 to 28.

Milky the Clown, a balloon man and calliope music will be featured at the carnival, free to all in the area. There will be games, cotton candy and popcorn and helium balloons for all who attend.

The two-week Bible school will be held from 9 a.m. to 12 noon, Monday through Friday.

ROSEDALE GARDENS PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, Hubbard and West Chicago, Livonia, will welcome Dr. Sam Park, a former staff member who will be visiting in the area as the church fills Sunday, June 15 with a communion service, family picnic and ice cream social and launches its Summer '75 program in Whitman Park.

Dr. Park, founder and director of Kwangjo Boystown of South Korea, recently received a doctorate in social work from the University of Southern California. While working with Rosedale Church during the past year, he played an important part in the church's initiation of the summer program.

Dr. Park, who also holds degrees from Seoul National University, Presbyterian Theological Seminary,

DR. SAM PARK Visiting Rosedale

Princeton Theological Seminary and Virginia Commonwealth University, will return to Korea after his Livonia visit, making a stop in Nebraska at Father Flanagan's Boystown.

WARD UNITED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, Six Mile and Farmington Road, Livonia, will honor high school and college graduates during its 7 p.m. vesper service Sunday, June 15.

The service will include a multimedia presentation of a film, "Mature in Christ," showing the work of InterVarsity in the United States among college and university students.

ALDRSGATE UNITED METHODIST CHURCH, 10000 Beech-Daly, Redford Township, will begin its summer schedule of a single service at 10 a.m. on Sunday, June 15. The church will return to the two-service schedule Sept. 10.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH OF PLYMOUTH, 701 W. Church, plans a Baccalaureate Service for 1975 graduates of area high schools Sunday, June 15 at 10 a.m.

Graduates of the parish will attend in caps and gowns, and several will participate in the service. The Rev. Philip Rodgers Magee, senior minister, will preach on "Values," and the choir, directed by Fred Nelson, will sing "The Road Not Taken."

LIVONIA BAPTIST CHURCH, 32940 Schoolcraft, will hold its vacation Bible school Monday, June 15 through Wednesday, June 25, from 9 a.m. to 12 noon each weekday. All children aged three through high school are invited.

Red Cross honors Frances Hensley

One of the first Red Cross volunteers in Livonia, Mrs. Frances Hensley, was honored recently at the annual Red Cross volunteer recognition ceremony held in St. Matthew United Methodist Church, Livonia.

Receiving the top award with her was Mrs. Homer Coolman of Brighton.

Mrs. Hensley, who received a 25-year pin, used her home as the first Red Cross office serving northwestern Wayne County.

"Over the years she has served in many ways; first in the disaster programs and later devoting years to the blood program," said Laurence Masten, Red Cross regional manager.

"For 15 years she has been staffing chairman and is also chairman of the Livonia community blood bank."

Trinity to build facility for aged

Trinity Baptist Church of Livonia is seeking state approval to build two new structures in a proposed residential and health care complex on Six Mile near Haggerty, adjacent to Schoolcraft College, Livonia.

The proposal calls for the construction of a 160-bed skilled care nursing facility and a 100-bed home for the aged. The two projects would cost an estimated $1.7 million.

The church operates the Middlebelt Nursing Centre, 14900 Middle Belt, Livonia.

A Luxurious Community of fine homes in the Northville/Novi Area

Take your pick of these new 3 and 4 bedroom colonial and ranch models designed and built in the true tradition of Greenpoint quality construction that has been the trademark of excellence for nearly half a century.

See all our furnished models now... Your next move will be to NORTH HILLS. Priced from $56,000.00

Models Located at 9 Mile and Center Street
Some models available in 30 to 60 days.

The early pioneer life around Northville and Novi is still a charming part of life. And you're also conveniently located... you're almost a neighbor of Ann Arbor, Birmingham and Detroit via I-96, I-696 and other freeways. And the new I-275 freeway is already under construction. Residents of NORTH HILLS can look ahead and be certain that this is a most desirable area; a secure, young and growing area to live. And the longer you live in this area, the more reasons you'll find not to leave it.

All homes in North Hills include underground wiring for all utilities, Detroit water, City sanitary and storm sewer system and are on curved paved streets.

'Mudholes' hold key to watery future

Don't be deceived by appearances. At first glance, the three lakes in northwestern Wayne County—Newburgh, Wilcox and Phoenix—look beautiful. But they are little more than glorified mudholes, and yet they hold the key to future expansion of the Wayne County park system.

For more than a decade, all sorts of plans have been discussed to make them a prominent part of the recreation programs of Livonia, Plymouth and Northville. In each case, the plans became mired in the mud or put aside for economic reasons.

Because of the dearth of parks in Wayne County, these three lakes have been considered prime areas for much-needed aquatic activities.

At present, the county can boast of the Hines Parkway--the 17-mile stretch from Dearborn to Northville along the Middle Rouge River--as its major park area. Hines, along with Belle Isle (owned by Detroit) and other parks at Belleville and the new Maybury State Park in Northville Township--comprise Wayne County residents' chief recreation.

Some of the plans have been on the fantastic side.

Picture, if you can, an old-fashioned side-wheeler traveling the length of Newburgh Lake in Livonia. This would be a treat for young and old. It would be a picture out of the past.

And the City of Livonia is ready to do it--if and when Wayne County gets around to extending the system.

Picture, too, hundreds of youngsters having fun in pedalboats. It would be a scene well worth the price of providing them. It has even been suggested the county sidestep its reported lack of recreation funds to approve a pedalboat concession.

Among other plans were boat landings for canoes and fishing docks extended over the lakes to provide pleasure for both young and old.

"It's just a shame that something isn't done to make the most of the recreational opportunities the lakes could provide," said John DuFour, superintendent of the Livonia Parks and Recreation department.

"Newburgh Lake could be one of the finest recreation centers we have.

"Yet nothing is being done, and it is just a shame to deny hundreds of youngsters that pleasure."

Plans for Wilcox Lake also have been out of the ordinary. Imagine riding along the newly constructed freeways at night and suddenly coming upon a multi-colored, lighted fountain spraying water into the air.

Don't laugh. This has been suggested as a means of identifying the Plymouth community from the forthcoming freeways, and the fountain could serve a twofold purpose:

First, circulating water would keep algae and other weeds to a minimum.

Secondly, the sight would lure people off the freeway to do business when the Plymouth area is apt to become lost in the corner of the Jeffries Freeway, M-14 and M-275.

Several members of the Rotary Club of Plymouth have approved the fountain plan, but they stumbled on an old bugaboo: the political battle between the township and the city in Plymouth.

Wilcox Lake, you see, is in the township or the major part of it rests there. But the pumps that are available to circulate the water are on the bank that is within the boundaries of the city. As usual, both factions are at loggerheads, even in the plans.

It has also been suggested that an old side-wheeler be obtained to travel the length and breadth of the lake. One version calls for naming it "Mayflower" in keeping with the city's colonial imagery.

And what could be more picturesque than a flock of white swans or geese leisurely floating on the surface as they do, to the delight of visitors, in Traverse City and other lake resorts?

That leaves us with Phoenix Lake. While no definite plans have been produced thus far, Northville is probably capable of joining forces to develop the area into a picturesque recreation center.

So, the three beautiful mudholes have a bright future when Wayne County gets around to developing the park system.

But how long will we wait?

The Olympic coastline is craggy with reminders of pre-historic eras

Nature's primeval beauty lures the tourist

Nature's mystical antediluvian moods excite me and my camera! It's a world of spectacular wonder, harmony, life and death. It's an isolated world where only the forces of nature rule.

As part of the Olympic National Park, Washington's coastline offers the experienced backpacker, photographer, or just the lazy beach stroller miles of primeval beauty, much as Juan de Fuca saw it in the 16th century; untouched by man.

Colorful tidal pools, mammoth sea caves and arches, even shipwrecks from the 1800s add to the excitement.

To sleep on these beaches at night under a sky full of stars, walk them at sunrise and watch a lone eagle soar in search of food; photograph nature's moods, her colors, her candid beauty exhilarates me. Somehow she seems a little bit closer, and a little easier to comprehend there.

Outdoor concerts, sports activities and a variety of craft classes will be offered in abundance this summer.

Beginning June 26 and continuing on consecutive Thursdays until July 31 the Plymouth Community Band will play at 8:15 p.m. in Kellogg Park. Concerts are free, but bring your own chair or blanket.

This season's schedule features two guest conductors. Ernest A. Jones of Bloomfield Hills will lead the band July 10, and Merle Evans, former director of the Ringling Brothers Barnum & Bailey Circus Band will conduct July 24.

The 70-member Plymouth band is composed of students and adults from the metropolitan area. It is under the direction of Jim Griffith, director of bands at Plymouth Centennial Educational Park.

Popcorn will be available across the park in the Penn Theater and program will feature show tunes, marches and other light music.

LIVONIA HAS opened its third season of free park concerts "Music Under the Stars." The program is a joint effort of the Livonia Arts Commission and the Department of Parks and Recreation. All concerts begin at 8:30 p.m. and are held in the southeast corner of Civic Center Park, Farmington and Five Mile roads.

Scheduled concerts include Garden City Adults Band June 3, Stevenson High School Band June 5, Franklin High School Band June 10, Suburban Chorale and Julian Fordan Quintet rock group June 12, Northville Large Jazz Ensemble June 17, Metro-West Big Band June 19, Plymouth Community Concert Band June 24, and Bob Williams Jazz Band June 26.

Also The Deuce a local rock group, July 2, Faye Kitts, singing and playing the ukelele, and Stan Skyles a one-man band, plus a rock group on July 9. Schoolcraft Symphony Orchestra July 16, 23-piece Big Band sound of the Legionnaires July 23, open July 30, Aug. 6 and 13, Oakway Symphony Orchestra Aug. 20, and Metro-West Big Band from Garden City Aug. 27.

Other groups are the Redford Civic Symphony Orchestra Sept. 3, open Sept. 10, and 17, and the Livonia Youth Choir Sept. 24.

Any music group interested in open dates may call Bob Christ, chairman of Music Under the Stars, Livonia Department of Parks and Recreation, Pierston Center, 32625 Seven Mile Road, Livonia.

Guests are advised to bring blankets or lawn chairs. Some bleacher

--SUE ROSIEK

There's lots to do around Rockefeller Center.

NEW YORK:

Depending on what streets you stroll and what corners you stand on, New York City is either a thrill or a flop. While it has its mediocrities, it isn't the kind of city you walk, fly or drive away from without developing definite feelings.

But part of your attitude about the Big Apple depends on approach. Without the right one you, too, may end up like Sandy Dennis and Jack Lemmon in the "Out-of-Towners," sleeping under a Central Park tree and getting mugged.

But Dennis and Lemmon didn't have their list of New York City do's and don'ts. Equipped with yours, a visit to the metropolis can be a success and different.

THE FIRST New York City law is never walk with your head up. While posted signs encourage residents to "Curb your dog" few do. Once you know where and on what your foot is going, glance up to see Manhattan's tallest buildings at the World Trade Center or even the Empire State Building.

The trade centers don't have much in them, but their height and architectural splendor is breathtaking enough. A tid bit for you might be knowing that the lighting system in the Center is all in one. Lights are either on or off, no individual switches, which is terrific if you work for a slave driving boss. After-hour work is either by candle-light or not at all.

Another "don't" is climbing into a cab without knowing where you are going. As a tourist, you may not know two beans about the city, but go into your Academy Award-winning act and pretend you do. Cabbies like to drive, with the meter running. If you're going a long way, say to the airport, get an advance price and make it stick.

Do remember that even-numbered crosstown streets run west and odd run east. Also, main avenues go in order...First, Second, Lexington, so forth. With those handy tips you shouldn't get lost, or if you do you can easily figure out where you're at.

DON'T GO to Coney Island in search of the famous hot dog, if you arrive at Nathan's, mouth watering for the original chili and onion combo, you'll only experience disappointment when the waiter slaps a rather dull dog in a bun, slams the mustard, ketchup and relish on the counter and walks away. Coney is-cher fishing derby sponsored by the Western Wayne County Conservation Association and the recreation departments of the cities bordering the river along with Farmington and Farmington Hills.

This year the contest is set for June 21, from 7 a.m. to 12 noon. It's open to youngsters from ages 6-16. Women's liberation is practiced: No separate contest for the girls.

Fishing only from shore and using only natural bait, 400 or more young anglers catch 3,000 or more fish.

Most will be five-inch sunfish and bluegill with a fair sample of bullhead, and occasionally a bass shows up. Pike are harder to come by because youngsters usually stick to worms, and pike prefer minnows or the (forbidden) artificial lures.

Newburgh is the easternmost and largest in the chain of three in western Wayne County. A mile long, it begins at about Haggerty Road and meanders to the dam on Newburgh Road in the southern part of Livonia.

In the late 1960s, the state Department of Natural Resources drained Newburgh, Wilcox and Phoenix lakes, poisoned them to kill off the existing populations that were dominated by the carp, and restocked them with gamefish.

Rainbow and brown trout were the first to be planted, but they never reproduced in the muddy-bottomed lakes although it's entirely possible that an old lunger is lurking in some unknown hole.

Crapple, pike and carp survived the kill. Later the DNR added bluegill, bass and the channel cats.

There are few tips anyone can use that can't be found in any standard fishing magazine or guidebook.

The biggest trouble youngsters seem to have is handling the cheap spinning equipment that is sold in cardboard-and-plastic packages. If a youngster isn't coordinated enough yet to handle an expensive adult reel, he's better off using a cane pole over which he'll have more control.

There are plenty of prizes for the anglers who catch the biggest and most fish, but one part of the contest is overlooked by all but a few kids. That is the costume contest for the boy and girl who look most like Tom Sawyer and Becky Thatcher.

An illustrated version of the Mark Twain novel or even the old Classic Comics offering should give any imaginative customer plenty of ideas.

For best fishing results, pray for a gentle southwest breeze, a steady or rising barometer and a slightly overcast sky. And have fun!

be walking tours; the streets are a maze and confusing at best. Getting to the village is easy if you start at Washington Square (located at the end of beginning off of Fifth Avenue, depending on what direction you're headed) and go west.

While in the Village, the "Fantasticks" is still playing nightly at the Sullivan Street theatre. It's a tiny, personal theatre and worth every dollar you spend to get in.

From Greenwich Village do a complete reversal and head north, taking the Eight Avenue subway (IND) A train to 190th street. Get off, walk a few steps and you're in the Cloisters, which houses one of the best collections of medieval art. Recluse from city noises and troubles it is a quiet spot, carved from ancient stones with walks opening to sunlit courtyards and darkened rooms filled with sculptures and carvings. It is probably the city's most beautiful and secluded spot and is part of Fort Tryon Park, where gardens are plentiful.

From there, go over and beyond the Bronx (hit the famous Bronx Zoo) to City Island. If you head there from Manhattan you'll be going north on a 20-minute train ride to Pelham Park. Where you will board a bus that takes you across a little bridge to the Island. It's a tiny suburb a stones throw from the city where boats are finely crafted, seafood restaurants abound and artists struggle to set up their own community.

Once the summer residence of New York's elite, spacious homes still line some of the two-block-wide island and boats are plentiful at docks. Today it is a quiet retreat for even the less than wealthy New Yorker. Beware though, some of it remains or has become, rather tacky.

RESPIRE OVER go back downtown, around 48th and 51st streets and between Fifth and Sixth avenues. Therein lies Rockefeller Center. The center houses 24 restaurants and draws at least 160,000 people daily. It's most famous attraction is the courtyard, in the winter filled with ice and skaters. In the summer there's still plenty to see, but even a quick look will be enough.

Now, simply cross the street and you're at St. Patrick's Cathedral. It's the touristy thing to do. Down the street and off Fifth Avenue on 53rd street there's a little park you can't miss. Paley Park lies crouched between two buildings and is filled with waterfall, trees, picnic tables and esting city with lots to do for all ages. It is easy for Michiganders to get to -- go straight down I-75.

Ohio is full of history and Dayton, in Montgomery County, has its fair share in the historical features of the state. The Montgomery County Historical Society lists 26 items of historical interest to visit in its guide.

They include the Art Museum, the Air Force Museum, Hawthorne Hill, the home of Orville Wright -- and the Greek revival architecture old Court House.

Also if you or the kids are air-age freaks, there is always Wright-Patterson Air Force Base and a new architecturally interesting Wright State University which is adjacent to this gigantic installation.

Several large companies have headquarters in this Ohio Town -- notably NCR, Brunswick and Detroit Diesel Allison. Tours can be arranged through the offices of these companies.

Dayton's downtown area has been refurbished by thoughtful businessmen and the city fathers so that it looks very respectable. You get a big city feeling in a friendly mood. Don't expect to find Spain in Ohio when you travel to Toledo--there is little, if any, resemblance, but it still provides an interesting day's tour for the hearty who are willing to ferret out the high spots.

The city is happily dotted with elegant parks. The rivers that flow through them garner perch for the many young fishermen and the rolling hills provide great hikes. Sports facilities abound and Toledoans appear to be as tennis crazy as the rest of the country.

Art-wise the city is a jewel. Its Toledo Art Museum is among the best small museums in the country. Its 20th century collection, as well as its old masters, is superb and the visiting shows are always of the highest calibre.

The Museum's glass collection is one of the most comprehensive and attractively displayed in the world. No kidding. (Being a city which glass built, via Libbey-Owens-Ford, helped).

Mosey down to northern Indiana and step back in time to when America was still growing into the agricultural leader status. Amish farmers abound in the Ft. Wayne area--their simple life is still evident in horse and buggy transportation and dress.

But Ft. Wayne has developed into a fair city with one particular attraction a history lover shouldn't miss. The restoration of the town's late 19th century downtown area has been accomplished and it is charming.

A culinary treat is Cafe Johnell--very expensive and excellent cuisine. Its chef is an ex-Marine mess hall expert who still eats ketchup on his mashed potatoes, but don't tell the gourmets.

Introducing MOUNTAIN LIGHT A Sleeping Bag of Fortrel Polarguard®
from SNOWLION

An exciting addition to our 1973 Polarguard® line, the MOUNTAIN LIGHT completely overcomes the most common criticism of synthetic bags -- weight and bulk. With an average total weight of only 3 lbs. 8 oz., the design and production of the MOUNTAIN LIGHT represent a major achievement in the construction of Fibrefill sleeping bags. Fortrel Polarguard® is rugged and durable because it is 100% Continuous Filament Polyester Fiberfill. An extremely fine, continuous, towered mummy shape, wide at the shoulders and tapering to the knees, is enhanced by 8 oz. Polarguard® Offset Double Quilted on top and bottom, a roomy foot section, and our exclusive Side Seam Overlap which make the MOUNTAIN LIGHT the first sophisticated Fibrefill bag light enough for the serious backpacker or climber.

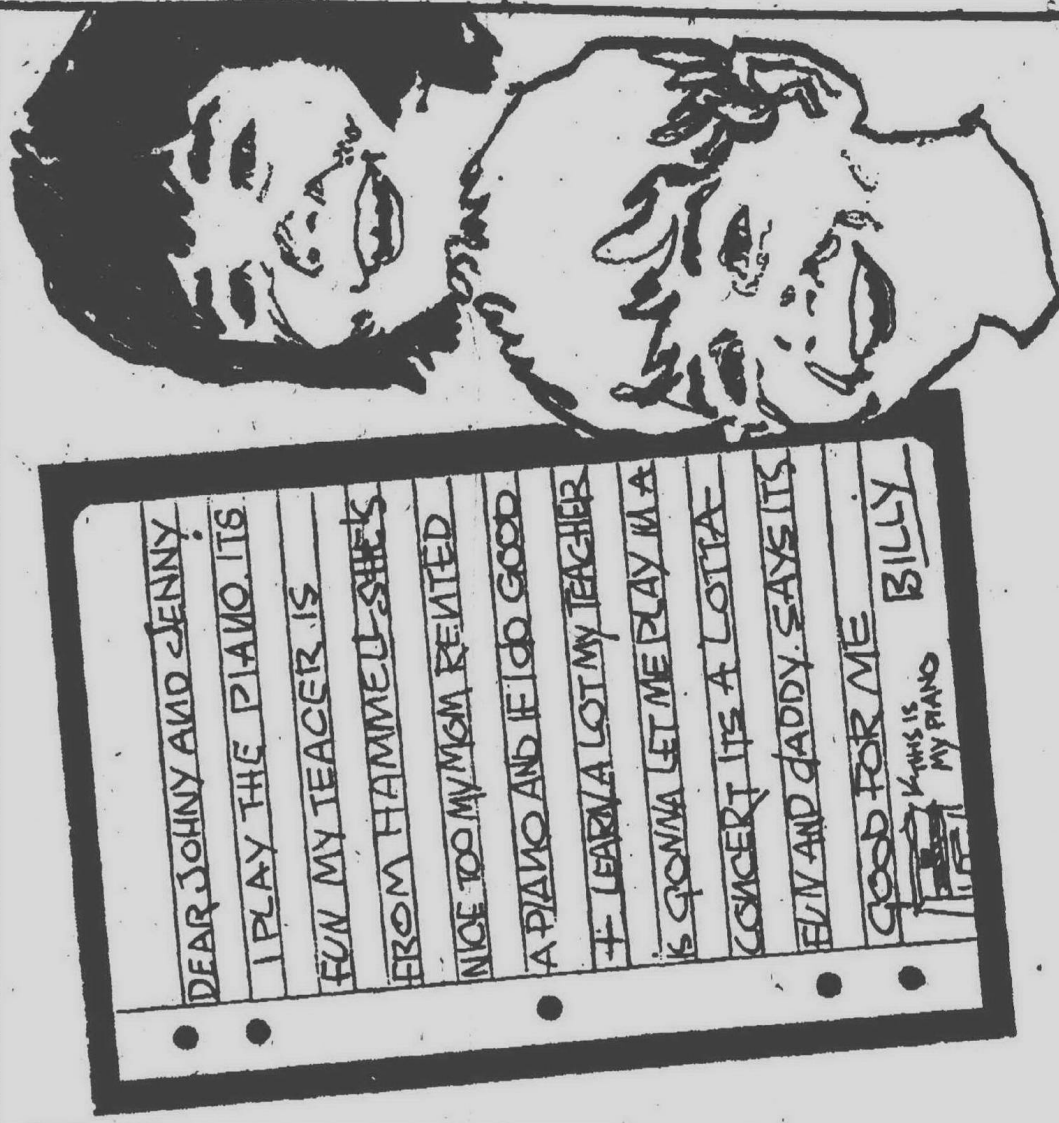

42 ounces Polarguard® Fill Average Min Temp. Conservatively Estimated: 20° F Total Weight: 3 lbs. 8 oz. Available in Navy Blue or Burnt Orange Stuff Sack Included

Fortrel® and Polarguard® are trademarks of Fiber Industries, a subsidiary of Celanese Corporation.

Small city charms

There are a few towns around that do not enjoy the sort of reputation as good tourist spots they deserve. Granted, Dayton and Kalamazoo, Fort Wayne, Ind. or Toledo, don't sound too romantic, but they do have their charms.

So don't think the weekend is down the tube if you happen to end up in one of these locations by chance--better yet, go there intentionally and be surprised.

When Glenn Miller made his bid for that freckle-faced kid he was hurryin' to, he did the same thing for Kalamazoo that Ruby Keeler did for Buffalo when she shuffled off there. But few people realize that there are things other than piparoots to be seen in Kalamazoo.

Believe it or not, Kalamazoo has been touted as the art center of the Midwest. And, as any Kalamazooan can tell you, it was chosen the All America city back in '70 or '71.

So you're in Kalamazoo for a weekend, what do you do?

If you are arts oriented there is the Kalamazoo Arts Center, the Civic Players and the New Vic in the small downtown area. Kalamazoo College and Western Michigan University have constant, high-quality offerings in music, drama, art and film.

For sports fans, Kalamazoo College is Michigan's tennis center. The National Boys Tennis Championships-- ships are held there for three weeks each summer. Past winners at this event include Arthur Ashe and Jimmy Connors.

The Kalamazoo College Hornets put on interesting spectacles in a number of sports. Do-ers rather than watchers can take advantage of the number of golf courses in the area, public beaches on the small area lakes and the tennis courts scattered around the city.

The nature-minded will enjoy the Kalamazoo Nature Center with its miles of paths and central museum. Shoppers should visit the downtown mall--one of the first constructed in the country.

Kalamazoo is a city with a high proportion of wealthy people (note the Frank Lloyd Wright subdivision off Oakland Ave.) due largely to the Doubleday paper company and Upjohn Pharmaceutical. For those interested in how all those Unicap Vitamins are made, tours can sometimes be arranged with the Upjohn people.

Kalamazoo has an active chamber of commerce which keeps tabs on community activities as well as the surprisingly varied night life. For those shoaled in Kalamazoo for a prolonged period, a visit to their offices may prove helpful.

Dayton is a surprisingly inter-

people. The waterfall makes escape complete and there's even a little vendor from which to buy food. It's a terrific native place to sit back, kick off your shoes and watch New Yorkers eat lunch and rest.

As long as you're in the area, and you are now about two blocks from Central Park South and the Grand Army Plaza walk over and hop into one of the many horse and buggies that tour Central Park. It costs about $10 and lasts between 45 minutes and one hour. If you're lucky you'll get a driver who likes to talk and will tell you all about the park...and himself.

Also on that corner is the famous toy store F.A.O. Schwartz where the window displays are always good for keeping the kids happy and the GM building, indeed gorgeous.

On the ground floor deck of the GM building is a courtyard, shops and a restaurant, the Auto Pub where bucket seats await hungry customers. It's expensive but interesting.

If your children are with you on the whirlwind tour, cut across Central Park South to Lincoln Center, where theatre productions for youngsters are ongoing. Call the center or check the papers to find out times.

Once on the West side, Central Park West precisely, travel down to 78th street and the American Museum of Natural History. Another natural for the youngsters it is complete with the Hayden Planetarium and gigantic mounted animals and history. It's cold, dark and relaxing.

Continue your zig-zag back across Central Park. You can walk almost fearlessly during the day, and get back over to Fifth Avenue between 84th streets for a tour of the Metropolitan Museum of Art. This one's a monster and you could spend weeks just touring through.

An easier museum, in fact a museum goers' dream is the Guggenheim on Fifth Avenue between 88th and 89th streets. Its spiral shape allows visitors to take the elevator up and twirl their way back down to the ground level, without missing a single exhibit.

There is, obviously tons more to New York City. A trip to the Steuban Glass company at Fifth Avenue and 57th street is a definite delight.

So is the United Nations at First Avenue between 48 and 42nd streets.

If you have time, stop and talk to a native, they do talk and they can tell you the interesting little tid bits that make doing touristy things different.

Near Belleville is the Lower Huron pool

Metroparks:

Kensington and Stony Creek, the big names in the Huron-Clinton Metropark system, are so popular and well known that western Wayne County outdoors lovers sometimes overlook the metroparks in their own back yards.

Lower Huron Metropark, in particular, is less than five miles south of the Westland and Canton Township borders. Time-wise, it will become even closer when the new M-275 freeway is completed.

Lower Huron, near Belleville, covers 1,000 acres along the Huron River. The park entrance is off Hannan Road and south of I-94.

Chief feature of Lower Huron is its outdoor swimming pool, which is open until Sept. 1. You can't beat the price: 25 cents for pool use, including heated showers and bathhouse. Coin-operated lockers are available for clothes-checking at 25 cents per locker, with individuals in the same family or group permitted to share a locker.

The pool has lifeguards, food service, a first aid station and restrooms.

Nearby are a paved parking lot, the Woods Creek picnic area, shuffleboard courts and a tot lot for youngsters from 2 to 6.

Besides the scenic parkway, Lower Huron boasts an 18-hole "par 3" golf course and plenty of picnic facilities.

Summer fun for all

A nature trail is available for self-guided hikes.

Picnic groups of 50 or more must register in advance at the park office near the entrance. Park hours are sunrise to 10 p.m.

Two other metroparks grace the banks of the Huron River southeast of Lower Huron.

Willow Metropark (1,500 acres) is next in line. Primarily a picnic-type park, Willow also has shore fishing, and under construction are an Olympic-sized pool with bathhouse and food service.

Oakwoods Metropark (1,700 acres) near Flat Rock is the 10th and newest project of the Huron-Clinton Metropark Authority. Chief feature is a recently opened Nature Center, which has seasonal exhibits and park naturalists on duty to explain plant and animal life of the area.

The Nature Center is open from 10 to 5 daily.

Oakwoods also has 3 1/2 miles of winding roadway, a picnic area, shore fishing, and a 350-acre nature interpretive area with nature trails open for self-guided hikes from 8 a.m. to dusk.

HURON-CLINTON metroparks charge $1 per carload, but you can save money by buying a $5 season pass for your car which will enable you to enter any of the parks in the system.

A good tip is to pick up the free map of the metropark system. Not only does it show park locations and detailed drawings of each metropark, but it is probably the finest road map of southeastern Michigan anywhere.

The parks authority also provides an excellent canoeing guide for both the Huron and Clinton rivers, showing landing spots, portages, stores, rapids and dams.

The Huron-Clinton Metropark Authority was sanctioned by the Michigan Legislature in 1939 and approved by voters in 1940 in five counties of southeastern Michigan. Its chief source of income is a quarter-mill, cut of the property tax in Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, Washtenaw and Livingston counties.

A recent survey showed that while the metroparks are not only well known but given superior ratings by the general public, the HCMA operating authority was virtually unrecognized. HCMA is governed by a board consisting of two gubernatorial appointees and one each from the member counties appointed by their boards of commissioners.
