Murder victim's brother testifies

The first degree murder trial of Barry Provow continued this week in Detroit before Wayne Circuit Court Judge Thomas J. Roumell. Witnesses continued to testify on events pertaining to the Jan. 28 death of Terry Buchman in Canton Township.

Cassandra Field was the the first to take the stand on Monday morning. She testified that she had been in the Canton Township apartment she shared with Lloyd Cash the night of Jan. 27 when Cash, Provow, Leslie Provow and Robert Umney were awaiting the arrival of Gwyn Kirley.

She said she knew the meeting had "something to do with a ring" and "Barry appeared nervous, but nothing

Miss Field said she knew they left the house to get beer and when Provow couldn't get his car started, he came back, pointed a rifle at her, and asked for her car keys. She brushed the gun aside and said she wouldn't give him the keys.

Music portraving a three-faceted celebration will whisper and blare from the woodwinds, brass, strings and percussion of Plymouth Symphony Orchestra this season and mark the Symphony Society's annual drive for membership and funds

Members of the Plymouth Symphony Society's Board of Directors have set a record $24,500 budget to provide an anniversary and bicentennial flavor to the orchestra's 1975-76 season—the 30th for the orchestra and the 25th under the direction of conductor Wayne Dunlap

ACCORDING TO Dr Ralph Atchlev, secretary of the Plymouth Symphony Society, the group hopes to reap a record $7,000-$1,200 more than last year—from this season's family membership drive

The society already has mailed its membership brochures to former members and other persons on its mailing list. Atchley said. Other persons wishing to obtain membership status should contact Annette Heindryckx, the society's family membership chairperson, at 46000 Ann Arbor Trail or P.O. Box 467. Plymouth

Robert Jones, a music instructor at Schoolcraft College, will write music for the ballet, if the Symphony Society receives a $4,800 grant from the Michigan Council for the Arts. Ralph Kelly, an English instructor at Schoolcraft College, will write the story for the ballet, based on the true story of a young couple in a Kentucky Shaker community.

PERSONS MAY view the orchestra's bicentennial and five other concerts at reduced rates through one of five family membership plans.

For $100 or more, persons may obtain patron status and four tickets to each of the orchestra's six concerts. Persons may obtain sustaining status and three season tickets for $50; supporting status and two season tickets for $25; and active status and one sea-

Freshmen will receive adjustment assistance

The first day of school at the Centennial Educational Park (CEP) can be a frightening experience for the uninitiated ninth grader who passes through a maze of unfamiliar corridors past waves of unfamiliar faces.

But this year's incoming class of 1,000 freshmen may view the halls of Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton high schools with a twinge of familiarity with the kickoff of the CEP's freshman orientation and advisor program.

THE PROGRAM, scheduled to begin on the first day of classes, will replace the CEP's former orientation program, conducted on a voluntary basis at the time students picked up their schedules.

The new program, according to the CEP staff members scheduled to conduct it, will better equip freshmen with knowledge of the buildings as well as the CEP's complicated modular scheduling.

The program, hopefully, will provide a personal touch to what could be a frightening experience.

"They really need some help," anthropology teacher Liz Carlson said of the CEP's incoming freshmen. "They're so confused when they come here. I think it's the size of the park and the fact that there are separate schools. We want to get away from the idea that they're one in 4,000."

The program will include 1,000 incoming freshmen at Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton high schools, 80 faculty members who will act as advisors as well as 400 sophomores at Plymouth Canton High.

FRESHMEN WILL walk into empty school buildings the morning of Sept. 4 for the start of the orientation pro-upper classmen return to their classrooms at 11 a.m.

The "advisor periods" are molded into students' schedules for the remainder of the school year to supplement the roles of counselors and add a personal touch to the sprawling twoschool park.

ADVISOR GROUPS will discuss projects that could fill students' unscheduled time and participate in a myriad of activities.

"We want to get these ninth graders off on a good step," explained Kris Darby, an art teacher at Salem. "We want to make the point that we're here to help them. We really think it will give some school spirit to the stu-

"It's just a pilot program, and we could use it through 12th grade," said Mrs. Carlson. "You look at the older students and the apathy about the school and think, 'I wish we could change it."

Centennial Park problems, modular scheduling debated

Plymouth Centennial Education Park after five years was the subject of a workshop session Monday night when the Plymouth Board of Education and Supt. John M. Hoben met with CEP principals and area coor-

"Is all rosy at the park?" was the question raised by Board Member Joe Trustee Tom Yack said he had picked up "vibrations from the community while on the campaign trail." He had read the North Central accreditation report and was concerned about the use of unscheduled time, the attendance policy and lack of preparation in the lower grades for modular scheduling.

"I can't get a handle on what's going on over there," was Marcia Borowski's complaint, and Trustee Gary Mirto said: "The Park and the board got off on the wrong foot." But he added: "There are more strengths than weaknesses."

PLYMOUTH SALEM PRINCIPAL Bill Brown said the revised attendance schedule was a marked improvement last year. There had been fewer parental complaints because the staff had been able to notify parents in time to do something about the prob-

Yack said that, although the policy states that after the fourth time a student misses a class a staff member initiates action, the North Central report says the staff doesn't always follow through.

Coordinator Fred Meier answered: One of the biggest gripes of staff members was the time wasted on telephone calls. Usually no one is home as 40 to 50 per cent of the mothers work." The mail-out notices had been more effective.

Mrs. Borowski wanted to know, 'Why are the kids cutting classes?" According to Ken Jacobs, coordinator for physical education, art and special education, "Lots of kids just don't want to be there. He conforms by going to school, but he doesn't go to

Jacobs said the policy states a student may be withdrawn from class after eight absences. "But he needs five credits to be a full-time student. When do we drop them?"

GRAY SUGGESTED that perhaps the "may" should be changed to "shall." "I think it is too lenient," said Mirto. "Nobody wants to be the bad guy. I'm willing to take the responsibility. Let the board be the bad

Dr. Jerry Morris, foreign language and social science coordinator, said, "We are still trying, after eight absences, to remove the problem, not

Plymouth Canton Principal Kent Buikema interjected that they were talking about just two or three per cent of the student population which drops below the five credits.

Hoben reminded the board that the North Central study had been made a year ago, after a one-month teacher strike. "By the end of the school year some criticism in the report was no longer valid."

USE OF THE coordinators' time was questioned.

The coordinators estimated they spend about one-third of their time in curriculum study. Each is responsible for the attendance and minor discipline problems of about 550 students.

Coordinators meet with teachers on a regular basis and work closely with the counselors assigned to their stu-Coordinators usually start with a will be initiated this fall at the Park is expected to aid the coordinators and ease the "big school, lost in the shuffle" feeling for freshmen. Brown referred to it as a "caring

The pellet taken from the heart of the victim was identified by David E. Balish of the Michigan State Police Detroit crime laboratory.

He said the pellet came from a Marlin rifle because no other gun, to his knowledge, "has 16 lands with a righthand twist."

He also said the pellet showed more than the normal distortion caused by hitting flesh-that it must have been deflected by a bone.

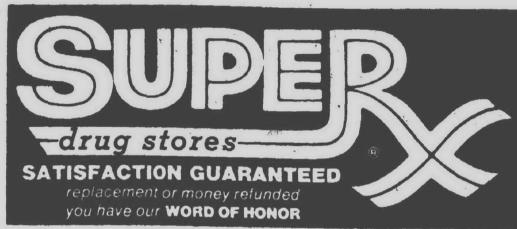

GWYN KIRLEY of Plymouth was called to the stand at 2:45 p.m. Tuesday. He said he knew both Umney and Barry Provow.

Kirley recalled that sometime in June 1974 he "met Barry in Kellogg Park." Provow asked to borrow money and gave Kirley a ring as security for a $50 loan. Kirley testified that a friend stole the ring and when Provow wanted either the ring or $350, Kirley didn't have either.

Cash suggested he meet Provow at Cash's apartment. After backing out of the first meeting, he decided to meet them at 1 a.m. Jan. 28. He said he called the apartment about midnight and told them he was going to bring his uncle, Benny Montgomery, with him. But when his uncle told him to "forget about it" and he was "afraid of trouble," he did not keep the appointment.

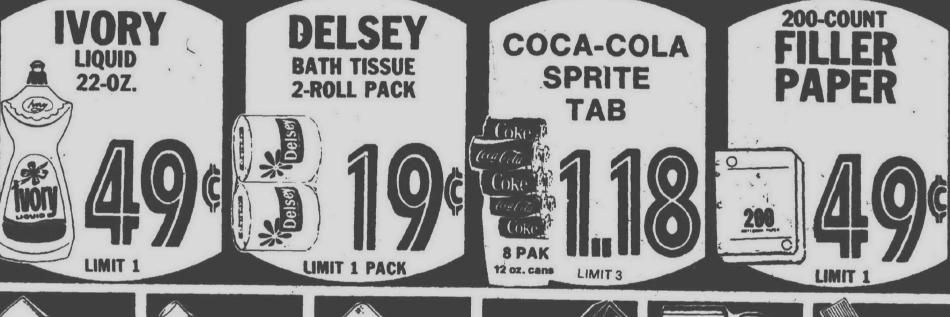

A Wayne County Sheriff's Department detective was on the stand Wednesday morning. He showed the leather jacket Buchman was wearing at the time of the shooting. There were two bullet holes-one through the chest pocket where a bullet had entered, and one in the right sleeve where a bullet had exited.

Plymouth ice coach gives up career to teach

By SUE ROSIEK

Valeri Chase of Livonia recently gave up the glitter and galmour of skating with a professional ice show to teach in Westland, and she's enjoying every minute of it.

"Teaching is a challenge. It's very rewarding to watch your students progress and know that you're helping someone else," says Miss Chase, a 1973 graduate of Stevenson High Formerly a member of the Shipstads & Johnson's Ice Follies chorus. Miss Chase is presently coaching youngsters from Westland, Livonia and Plymouth in the Westland Ice Arena, Cherry Hill and Newburgh, Westland.

MISS CHASE, 20, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Chase joined the follies in fall 1973 after a spur-of-the-moment audition at Detroit's Olympia Stadium. She spent two years travel-

"Two years is enough. It was a tremendous opportunity but I want to get into other things," says Miss Chase.

The skating teacher has been busy modeling. She will enter Schoolcraft College in the fall and plans to study marketing.

Miss Chase began "skating seriously" at eight. "Actually I started at six on my brother's old hockey skates. Two years later I graduated to figure skates."

She completed five of eight figure skating exams, and studied at the Detroit Skating Club under Don Stewart and former Olympic champion Gary

"I have never seen so many young children skating so well. The Detroit area continues to produce more fine skaters than many other parts of the country."

She feels her follies' training will benefit her class.

"I LEARNED a lot about stage lighting and choreography from ice show instructors and I hope to pass it along to my students," says Miss Chase.

She admits that many of her students are in awe of her skating accomplishments.

"These youngsters are fantastic.

When I left to join the follies, they preeven beginner skaters, have im- sented me with roses. When I returned many brought in their programs from the show and asked for my autograph."

Miss Chase currently teaches intermediate and advanced classes. The class material ranges from basic jumps, spins, edges and strokes to advanced jumps and sessions on style.

"I don't like to see sloppy skaters," says Miss Chase. She encourages skaters to think for themselves and stresses attitude.

"Attitude is important. I would rather see a young skater who has decided to skate, rather than one whose parents have forced her into it."

MISS CHASES' class includes Lori

Carlton, 10, of Livonia and Paige Neumann, 8, of Westland. Both are beginners and practicing to take their preliminary exams.

Brooke Fournier, 10, of Livonia, a former student of Miss Chase, is presently studying with Anne Seror of the Detroit Skating Club. Brooke has completed her preliminary first and second figures, and earned prebronze and presliver status in dance. Kim Murray, 12, of Plymouth is a private student and has completed her preliminary exam. "I like skating and I like Valeri, she's a good teacher aid

Hulce on Broadway

Understudy from Plymouth gets leading role

(The following story is a reprint from the New Jersey Herald-News. Writer Tom Sullivan wrote: "I had the pleasure this week of preparing the attached story about a young man from your area. If you wish to reprint it you are welcome to do so.") By TOM SULLIVAN

Herald-News Staff Writer

NEW YORK-It is rare on Broadway for understudies to take over permanently the top roles in lead productions but Thomas Hulce, 21, has done it in the psychological thriller "Equus" and audiences give him an ovation eight nights a week,

He understudied Peter Firth when the show moved into Plymouth Theater from London's West End last October, went on eight times when Firth was indisposed, and assumed the role after Firth and Anthony Hopkins returned to London, June 1.

There were some young actors with moderate name value who thought they ought to get a crack at the role, but in "Equus" the play is the thing and names on marquees don't mean a thing if the goods aren't delivered believably. So unknown Tom Hulce from Plymouth Mich. is now a Broadway chiatrist (now played by Anthony Perkins) is a tour de force and Hulce does it great justice.

IT MIGHT SEEM unlikely because of the distance from sleepy Plymouth, Mich., to Plymouth Theater on 45th Street, but in the five years it took him to make the trip, the youth devoted himself single-mindedly to learning theater craft.

He was the youngest of four children in a family with no theatrical antecedents. His father is a Ford Motor Co. executive and they lived on a gentleman's farm with a small assortment f livestock about 45 miles from Detroit.

Tom never did well in high school, being convinced by then that his future was in acting. He would hitchhike to Ann Arbor and badger people at the various theatrical enterprises for some kind of work-anything.

"I moved scenery, handled lights, and sometimes got a small role," he explained over lunch at Gallagher's. "I even landed the lead role in 'Oliver'-making me one of the better-fed Olivers,"

But he was convinced that continuing his high school with all the frustrations that involved was a waste, and he talked his parents into letting him spend his 11th grade year at Interlochen, a distinguished music and drama school financed by millionaire W. Clement Stone.

FROM THERE he went to North Carolina School of the Arts in Winston-Salem for his last year of high school and two college-level years, working with instructors of the highest professional standards.

In that period he put in a summer in London, working in a formal program arranged through NCSA and later worked a summer at the Asolo Theater in Sarasota.

"I played lots of soldiers in 'War and Peace' and a newsboy in 'Time o. Your Life' and I got to write a studio version of 'The Effect of Gamma Rays on Man in the Moon Marigolds,' and I fetched and carried," he said.

How do you like directing? "Fantastic. I was just a kid and

Bill Hall manager of Lent's

Wendell Lent has announced the appointment of Bill Hall as general manager of Lent's Custom Clothing in the Mayflower Hotel.

"Hall will be in charge of purchasing and will manage the business," haid Lent. "He has the personality and knowledge of the latest fashions to do a fine job. "He will probably make a lot of changes around here. Besides continuing with our present alientele, he will serve the younger deople with new, high-style fashions."
Lent said he plans to spend less time in the store but will be available for fittings for his old customers. Hall, who is in his early 30s, was' manager of Famous Men's Wear on Ann Arbor Trail for 15 years, Lent has been in the men's clothing busithess on Main Street, since 1943.

AFTER THAT came a period in stock at Booth Bay, Maine, with roles in "Three Sisters," "The Philanthropist," "School for Wives" and "The Play's the Thing."

And then Hulce thought he might be ready for an assault on Broadway. He had heard about a role suitable for his age and appearance in a

Chelsea Theater production of "Total Eclipse" but they turned him down, turne shopper for Joseph Papp's New York Shakespeare Festival.

"I had rent to pay and food to buy and a job is a job, but in any case, I don't think you can ever know too much about theater craft," he said.

He tried out for the understudy part in "Equus," which was to go into rehearsal in Setember for an October opening.

"I did four auditions and they were interested, but I never heard anything so I proceeded as if I didn't have it."

THAT INCLUDED accepting a role in David Rabe's revision of "The Orphan," which was to open in an off-Broadway equivalent of Philadelphia. While there, he got the call that he would be Firth's understudy and he returned to New York. He took over for Firth twice during previews and six times during the run, with audience reaction highly favorable. Along the way he had signed with an agent, Bret Adams, and offers for television work and other roles started coming in.

"I decided to stay with 'Equus' though and I didn't dream I would wind up with the lead," Hulce added. It turned out to be a wise choice and there have been some television roles in between Hulce admits to being in a trance the first time he had to go on in "Equus" and each night starts out with butterflies until he steps on "ONCE YOU GET into the play, it takes over. I love it," was his summa-

Because he has a nude scene, and generally has to have a frail, vulnerable look, anyway, the enjoyment of good food is one by-product of success that he must forego, watching very carefully what he eats. Once in a while someone will recognize him in a public place and stop him to talk about the show, which invariably sticks with those who see it. "I don't mind when that happens," he said. "Being in a play this good and pleasing audiences is a tremendous satisfaction."

Plymouth Hilton Inn will open in October

The new five-story, 195-room Plymouth Hilton Inn is expected to open in early October.

That announcement was made this week by Deane Baker, owner and developer of the Plymouth Hilton at 14707 Northville Road just south of Five Mile in Plymouth Township.

Baker's latest estimate is the total worth of the Plymouth Hilton will be at least $5.5 million and could reach $6 million.

supper club seating 140 with nightly entertainment, and nearby will be the Park Coffee Shop seating 120.

Other facilities incude a 12.000square-foot ballroom, banquet rooms to handle up to 1,000 persons, and 17 function rooms for groups of 10 to 1,100 persons for meetings, conferences, wedding receptions and other group activities.

The coffee shop is located adjacent to the Atrium - a three-story area with a 50-by-20-foot swimming pool. The entire area measures 80 by 110 feet with a park-like interior that features tall growing trees, flowers.

"We are going to try and make the Plymouth Hilton Inn one of the most complete hotel, convention, food, entertainment and recreational facilities available in the area," said Baker.

Baker, 50, is also president of The Deane Baker Co. with headquarters in Dearborn. He purchased the Inn, however, in his own name, without involvement by his company.

Smith's tax bill advances

LANSING-A bill to require the state to pay money to local governmental units in lieu of taxes on state land has advanced in the House of Representatives.

Representative Roy Smith (R-Ann Arbor), whose 52nd District includes part of Plymouth, introduced HB 4105 last January. The bill was then referred to the House Taxation Committee.

The bill was recently moved out of the taxation committee and moved to the House Appropriations Committee. Smith expects action on the bill on the floor this fall.

The bill provides that the state will pay an amount equal to 25 per cent of the money that would be due in taxes if the land weren't owned by the state. Recreational lands and facilities would be exempt from this requirement.

The bill also provides that the county treasurer shall apportion this payment to the various cities and townships within the county in proportion to the funds received for the state property located within a city or town ship.

SEMCOG bill poses the right questions

By TIM RICHARD

A father may dislike the idea, but he knows that one day his daughter will announce that she plans to enter wedlock, or some modified version thereof. The father knows he will have to accept it because his daughter is grown up.

State Rep. William Ryan has made such an announcement to the 4.8 million parents and nonparents of southeastern Michigan. Ryan (D-Detroit) has proposed a bill which would recognize that the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) has grown up and is ready to take on adult (governmental) responsibilities.

Ryan, a former House speaker, is chairman of that body's urban affairs committee. Even if his bill is scary to some folks. Ryan has the courage - and the clout - to get public hearings on it Ryan's idea is hardly original. It's based on proposals in the "Regionalist Papers," published by Metropolitan Fund, Inc., the fine research and education foundation which begat SEMCQG, New Detroit, the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA) and the Transportation and Land Use Study (TALUS).

OTHER STUDY GROUPS, task forces and just plain futurist citizens have come to similar conclusions. Those conclusions are complex and far-reaching, but here is a fair summary:

• SEMCOG's voluntary approach has attracted only about one-fourth of the eligible local governments in the seven-county region. The Metro Fund-Ryan approach would make membership automatic - just like Wayne and Oakland counties are part of the State of Michigan. No more hiding your head in the sand, like ponparticipating Macomb County does.

 No one has any real control over such truly regional governmental agencies as the Detroit Metropolitan Water Department and the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan (parks) Authority. The Ryan bill would allow SEMCOG to write a charter, subject to state approval, that would make those agencies accountable to someone or something probably to SEMCOG itself. The most probable form would be that SEMCOG would appoint their board members, review their budgets, perform their planning and coordinate their personnel policies. (No more arbitrary water price hikes.)

· SEMCOG itself doesn't answer to the citizenry. The Ryan bill would set up a 41-member governing body, much like SEMCOG's present executive committee, with 20 members elected by the voters - an eminently sensible idea. Twenty members would be elected from local governments, much the same way the current executive committee is picked. One member, the chairman. would be elected at large.

A SHAM ARGUMENT against the Metro Fund-Ryan approach is a vague, insecure notion that local home rule will somehow be eroded.

In fact, regional governmental agencies are already here and working. In fact, none of the 400plus local governments in southeast Michigan is running its own public transportation without regional government help. In fact, only Detroit and a handful of outlying governments have their own water and sewer systems. In fact, a regional agency is already coordinating hospital planning.

Some suburban politicos fear a restructured SEMCOG because direct election of SEMCOG's leadership would open up the "one man, one vote" can of worms. They say suburbs don't fear the present voluntary SEMCOG the way they would fear a more powerful agency.

The answers are plain. First, SEMCOG needs the assured kind of funding a mandatory agency would have (though Ryan's bill would give it no direct taxing authority). Second, the baby has grown up, and it's time she was treated like an adult.

Detroit Mayor Coleman Young is less than enthusiastic about a beefed up SEMCOG. Young's position is that he wants to deal with the governor and the federal administration directly; he alone wants to be Mr. Big in southeast Michigan.

The regional hodge-podge of governance in southeast Michigan has "muddled through," as the British would say, long enough. Ryan's bill, while it may not contain all the final answers, certainly poses the right questions. It deserves cool analysis, refined discussion - not the irrational fear of a daddy who won't let his little girl go out on her first date.

Car companies kill sales

Over the years, the automobile companies have been the marvel of the merchandising world. Through advertising they created a demand for their products far in excess of an individual's need to have four wheels to take him someplace. The industry built up snob appeal so that successful people wouldn't be caught dead driving the low-end of the line type of vehicle, even though it was adequate for one's needs. A successful man was marked by the larger automobile he

They built in planned obsolescence, not by making cars fall apart, but by demand. They made you feel guilty if your car was more than two years old because everybody else in the neighborhood was driving a new car

IN 1972 THEY sold about 101/2 million passenger vehicles, which is unheard of in any other nation in the world.

Unfortunately for Detroit, foreign cars entered the market. These cars were sold on reverse snobbism. They didn't change their models often. Their ads told people how economical they were and how you could drive one for years and years without having to replace it. The Volkswagen Beetle became the symbol of reverse snobbism.

The American automobile industry ignored foreign competition for a while, but the cars made greater and greater inroads until they were taking between 15 and 20 per cent of the market.

I THINK, at that point, the American automobile industry made a mistake and decided to try to meet competition.

People can blame 1974 and 1975 car sales on the energy crisis and the recession. But I think it goes deeper than that. When the American automobile industry decided to build smaller cars which didn't change radically as often, to save costs, and toned down the announcement hoopla by introducing the cars in the middle of the year, they told the American people they really didn't need to have a new car every year, and therefore they cut the demand they had been so successful in creating.

In the 1975 model year, sales will probably amount to 61/2 million passenger cars, a drop of some four million sales.

A GOOD PORTION of this drop in sales is because people have found they can drive their cars three, four and five years and still have a very serviceable product. If this trend continues, then the only way the four-million car loss can be recaptured is by the population increasing.

This does not bode well for the Detroit area's economy, since it is based on successful car

While 1976 will probably be a better car yearbecause the people who didn't buy in '74 and '75 eventually have to replace their automobiles—we really can't look for many years to come for great automobile sales years, as in the past.

Somehow, the great marvel of the merchandising world, by altering its methods and meeting competition, became its own worst enemy.

An instructive DDT tale

By WYLIE GERDES

Public television scrambled some myths about DDT in a recent broadcast.

DDT, an insecticide now banned from use in the U.S., has been criticized for being a possible cancer-causing agent and also for harming wildlife.

The program, produced in Boston, artfully examined facts of the DDT controversy. In doing so, it sidelighted a whole nest of issues associated with evironmentalism.

The short life of DDT began during World War II, when it was discovered in Switzerland. The chemical saved thousands of lives during the war, lives of both civilians and soldiers.

ITS FIRST use was in Naples, a city clutched by an epidemic of typhus. The use of DDT saved hundreds of thousands of lives and was the first defeat of the disease.

After the war, American farmers began using massive amounts of DDT to improve crop produc-

Scientists discovered that DDT takes decades to break down into other compounds. Studies showed the accumulation of DDT made birds lay thinshelled eggs. Wild bird populations decreased, Rachel Carson indicted DDT in her book "Silent Spring," the work which spawned the environmental movement.

Environmentalists began compiling evidence supporting banning of DDT. However, shortly before DDT was banned a few years ago, a government panel ruled that DDT could not be proven to be the cause of either human or animal health, problems.

The Environmental Protection Agency banned DDT anyway.

IT WAS a political decision; obviously, and in this case a harmless political decision. A spokesman for a chemical company, reportedly the only one in the country which still makes DDT, said other chemicals had already replaced it in use. By the time it was banned, DDT was used in disease prevention overseas.

The banning of DDT might be the first big victory for environmentalists. In cases where evidence is much more damning than in the DDT matter, however, environmentalists have had more trouble winning.

The Reserve Mining controversy is an example. A mining company, apparently polluting Lake Superior with possibly harmful mining wastes, continues to operate in the face of many lawsuits.

THE LEGITIMATE concerns of environmentalism ought not to be ignored, as they were during the first 180 or so years of this country's existence. However, environmental concerns also ought not to automatically overrule any other consideration—such as jobs or national needs for Environmental considerations can be balanced with other issues. One only need drive the John Lodge freeway toward downtown Detroit to see an example. Only a few years ago, a hazy brown fog would have hung over downtown. Now downtown MURC readings are often the same as those taken in the suburbs.

The reason is that automobile pollution has been curtailed. Automobile pollution controls probably have cost some jobs, but the auto industry has not been destroyed.

'Jaws'—a classic thriller

By CARL STODDARD

In the nearly two years I have written this column, I have never recommended a movie. I will now. Go see "Jaws."

The movie will grab you and shake you and pierce into primitive fears you didn't know you had. It will also keep you out of the ocean for at least three years, and even your swimming pool may seem ominous.

"Jaws" will slam you into your seat. The action is so fast-paced, the cinematography so stunningly real, I doubt that you will once even think of eating popcorn.

The movie is that good. I sat through it tightly wound, always expecting the unexpected and always startled when it hap-

"Jaws" is a classic thriller. with more power and pace than any movie I have ever seen. If your heart is in good condition, see the movie. It's worth the price of the ticket.

ON TO OTHER things. I think candy stores, bakeries and ice cream parlors could all increase business if they only hired skinny people. Nothing makes a person shy away from ordering a chocolate sundae faster than seeing a 300-pound man behind the counter. SO YOU WANT to join the military? Well, if that's your choice, no one is going to stop you. Especially the government. Just keep one thing in mind.

You see all the posters and hear all the promises the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marines make concerning career opportunities in the respective branches of the service. Be it pilot or radio repair person, the job opportunity is there. Benefits such as travel, pay, long vacations and educations also exist.

However, the key element that is seldom mentioned is that as a member of the armed forces, your first duty is to fight. When the balloon goes up, you won't necessarily be asked to repair a radar or drive a truck or complete your education. You may be asked to fight and possibly die for your country. To every seasoned military man, this goes without saying. To someone out of high school, heady with promises of a challenging military career, such a premise may not even enter into the picture.

It should. SPEAKING OF LAWMAKERS, did you ever stop to wonder why we are becoming more and more a country of laws? Well consider this: the primary function of every state and federal representative is to create laws. That's his job. Of course, he may also repeal laws, but that seldom happens. So out of our democratic system of government, the proliferation of laws seems nearly inevitable. ONE FINAL PROTEST. Have you seen the television ads for the new fall shows? Incredible. Some of the ads probably will take up more air time this summer than the show will this fall, if programs are cancelled at the same rate as last

What to do until the mechanic comes

In their march away from stove, washing machine and sink, many women are discovering that to be truly liberated they must master the secrets of the internal combustion en-

The fear that the motor of their car will die out on the highway, on a vacation trip, or even in their own driveways has driven substantial numbers of them into powderpuff mechanics courses offered by schools and Y's in the area.

Aware of the awakening interest on the part of women in such matters as oil pressure, generators and batteries. the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service have prepared a series of pamphlets on basic car care for the homemaker.

Designed to be read both before and after the car gives its last whimper and dies, the pamphlets can be regarded as a first step on the road to

The panel is usually located beneath the dashboard on the firewall near the steering column. You may need a

On some cars the fuse panel will have the amperage and the items the fuse services, stamped beside the fuse socket. If you need to replace a fuse be sure to turn off the ignition first.

Pry the burned-out fuse from the panel clips by using a fiber fuse puller or some non-metallic object like an ice cream stick. Replace the blown oil before proceeding. fuse with one of equal capacity (rated in amperes.)

Check your owner's manual to be sure your replacement fuse is the correct size for your particular vehicle.

Doss advises keeping a box of assorted fuses in the glove compartment. If a new fuse blows upon installation, have the electrical system checked by a mechanic.

OIL PRESSURE is another matter that Dudd feels women should understand. He wants them to learn what car instrument panel indicators - red lights, dial or gauges - mean from the standpoint of safety and potential

One of the first things to notice is that when the key is turned on, all the red lights illuminate, just as the engine starts. This indicates they are working and none of the warning lights are burned out. If one is burned out, have the bulb replaced.

If the red warning light marked "oil" goes on while you are on the highway, pull to the shoulder of the road as quick as possible. Turn off the

The red light comes on because several things could be wrong. There may not be enough oil in the motor. Or it may be a faulty oil pump or a malfunction by the oil indicator light.

Check the oil level in the engine by examining the dip-stick, which is usually found on the side of the engine. In some recreational vehicles the stick will be toward the front of the

Pull the oil dip-stick out (not to be confused with the automatic transmission dip-stick), wipe it clean and reinsert. Pull it back out and read the calibration at the end. If it is very low or no oil trace appears, put in more

Under no circumstances should the car be driven if the oil warning light stays on, or if no oil registers on the dip-stick. Without oil pressure, excessive friction and heat quickly builds and it will ruin the engine.

The cost may amount to several hundred dollars.

LOSS OF OIL may occur from the bottom of the engine (oil pan) being punctured by a rock or chunk of ice, or because it was driven over a barrier such as a curb.

It could also be due to leaking gaskets or a loose oil drain plug located at the bottom of the engine.

Possibly, too, the oil pump may be defective. It is the job of the pump to transport oil from the oil pan to the top of the engine where various parts need lubricating.

In some vehicles, the red light indicator has been replaced by an oil pressure gauge. You should get in the habit of checking it frequently as you

If the gauge goes out of the normal range, you could have trouble. Check the owner's manual to learn what the oil gauage calibrations mean.

DOSS ALSO HAS some suggestions about another red warning light.

DOSS NOTES that the malfunction may be caused by a broken or loose belt running to the alternator or generator from the engine. It may be owing to an electrical defect in the alternator or generator.

It could be because of defective wiring elsewhere in the car, or corrosion between the battery posts and cables. When the battery fails to receive an adequate charge, it will lose its power reserve rapidly when used, depending on outside temperatures. Batteries lose power much sooner in winter than summer. Headlights, heater fans, the radio and windshield wipers when run together draw heavily from the battery. If car electrical power failure occurs, conserve as much electrical "Work" encompasses homemaking and volunteerism as well as the entire spectrum of paid occupations, says Ms. Deming.

In paticular, the researchers will examine the changing roles of women working at various stages of life and the ways that such needs as education and childrearing can best be integrated with a career.

THE DISCUSSIONS will be triggered by two videotapes which are being produced by Kim Beaman, awardwinning free-lance video and film producer, and Lydia Kleiner, media consultant for the Women's Studies program and a doctoral student at the U-

"Tapes will be biographical portrayals of women in the context of their working lives," Ms. Kleiner said.

World's food shortage should be faced now

BY REV. JAMES W. SCHAEFER Pilgrim United Church of Christ

"When you woke up this morning, there were 210,000 new mouths waiting for breakfast. That's the daily increment of persons needing to be fed; 75 million new persons a year, a billion more by 1985."

These are words of David M. Stowe, executive vice-president of the United Church Board for World Ministries, at our recent conference annual meet-

"The most populous society on earth, the Chinese, with more than 800 million people on a land area comparable to the 48 United States, is now feeding itself with no visible difficulty." he said.

"Contrast that with India, the second most populous society, nearly 550 million people, with widespread malnutrition and many deaths by starvation year after year.

"And yet, India raises as much food per capita as China does. Obviously a major part of the food problem is distribution rather quan total supply."

To summarize, Dr. Stowe suggested four ways in which the food population crisis can be met. First, by much improved distribution of present food production. Second, by lowering waste and making more efficient use of present foodstuffs.

Third, by increased production, which is possible in many parts of the FAMILY PLANNING is one of four ways suggested to deal with long-range food shortages.

ECUMENICAL REFLECTIONS

turers in our own country and Europe."

Now I have a quarrel with David Stowe. Toward the end of his address he stated, "We can feed the present population of the world.

"We can probably feed double the present population of the world, but we certainly can't feed four times or eight times the population of the world today.

"The basic problem is that population grows not arithmetically but geometrically. It took two million years to get our first billion human beings; 80 years to get the next billion; only 30 to get the next billion; 15 to get the next billion- that's about where we are now. It will take only 12 years before another billion arrives, and before long it will be a billion new people every year"

I have no quarrel with the church doing everything it can to help people of the world gain adequate food.

Surely this is humanitarian work that we want to support.

But if we do not massively face the population problem right now, food for the world is a lost cause-and

DR. STOWE suggested two ways in which the population growth can be slowed.

He stated that people must have a good reason for not having so many children. In the third world there are compelling reasons for having large families.

Secondly women have to have good alternatives to child bearing as a means to achieve identity and find meaning for their existence. Women's Liberation, world-wide, is the need.

But how do we reach these two goals? Look at the struggle for the rights of women in our "advanced" society. There we are. Who will face these difficult problems and seek realistic solutions? Think about that one.

Church's expert says

Sewing is long-neglected craft

BY SHERRY KAHAN

"When I begin a sewing project, I aim to do it nicely and well," says Mrs. Evelyn Ankcorn of Livonia who will begin teaching a class in alteration techniques this fall at Grand River Baptist Church, Livonia.

"It's pleasant delightful work, and I have a picture in my mind of what I am working toward."

Mrs. Ankcorn's class will be one of three classes offered by the church during its regular Wednesday family evening program.

The activities include a family dinner at 6:15 p.m., then Bible study classes and later, such courses as knitting, car maintenance, and Mrs. Ankcorn's course in clothes alteration.

MRS. ANKCORN was a natural choice for the job. A member of the church for 47 years, she spent 40 years of her life working in garment alteration.

Do you want to know how much she enjoyed 'it? "I'll tell you how much I enjoyed it," she says. "I went to work at J.L. Hudson with the idea of spending three months there."

Somehow this extended itself to 40 challenging years, with Mrs. Ankcorn often being asked by wives of Hudson executives to work on their clothes. Frequently she was driven to their homes in chauffered limousines.

DESPITE the fact she loved her profession, it was not her first choice. She yearned to apprentice in a millinery shop.

"They were so attractive and elegant. They were lovely to go into and they made a profound impression on for girls. However, the fact that I was fitting clothing. directed into another channel proved to be the best thing after all. Millinery shops faded.

"Sewing is of extreme importance it today," she says. "Like many other crafts, it has been neglected. There has been stress on formal education, which is not for everyone. However, every woman should have enough knowledge to repair and maintain her own wardrobe.

"I've taken care of people who took pride in the fact that they didn't know how to sew on a button. They came all the way downtown to have a but-

"I told them it was their own making and needlepoint.

THE THINKING behind her class, she explains, is that since most women today buy ready-to-wear garments.

"At that time, decisions were made they ought to learn something about

"Clothing mustn't show strain in various parts," says Mrs. Ankcorn. "So we will discuss how best to alter

During the same three month session as Mrs. Alkcorn's class, courses in beginning and advanced knitting will be taught by Mrs. Merle Brimhall and Mrs. Pete Middleditch.

General car maintainence will be taught by Bill Dotson, an engineer for American Motors Corp.

It will be like old times when the league bowling season opens with the promise of three or four teams being in the battle for the championship.

In recent years the Stroh combination, paced by Mike Totsky, has dominated the scene. Long before a single ball was rolled, Stroh was considered the team to beat.

Things give promise of being different this year and at least three teams-Dale Sevoy's K&S squad, and the Goebel line-up out together by Tom Mc Kay, executive secretary of the Greater Detroit Bowling Association—are expected to fight it out all

In what we now refer to as the "old days", back in the 30s and 40s, there were several teams in the thick of it with Stroh and even personal rivalries held much of the attention.

This was especially true in the case of Joe Norris, the Stroh captain, and Johnny Crimmins, the anchor man on Bob Thyne's Paris Cleaners team. Others among the top challengers included the Fife Electric team captained by Louie Burr. Prior to bowling for Fife this combination won the state title under the banner of Deluxe Tool and Die.

In this group, too, was Ellis Walker's Wilson Dairy team and the Pepsi

Starting with the pro-am on Sept. 28, the pros will be at it until Sept. 1 when the finals are expected to be on another dramatic struggle.

Anthony is the west coast bowler who won more than $100,000 last year and is well on his way to reach that mark again this season.

TWO INTERESTING facts came to light in a survey taken in the past

Westland Bowl will boast the largest women's league in the area during the coming seson with 60 teams on Tuesday afternoons, and the Rosedale Civic League that bowls at Livonia Lanes is one of the oldest circuits in the entire metropolitan area. It was organized when Clarence Hoffman, a former grocery store owner, opened the lanes in 1940.

Some idea of the strength of the various all-star teams will be formed next Monday night when a full field of 24 teams competes in the Gavie Sweepstakes at Hollywood Lanes on

This is the final warm-up as Bonanza Classic opens at Eastland Bowl on Tuesday night and the home portion? of the schedule is set for Thursday at Orchard Lanes.

Meanwhile, the Ladies Major League, opens competition at Pine Tree Bowl on Wednesday. The Bowlerettes, the other strong women's circuit, will get under way the Monday following Labor Day.

Plymouth's Jeff Roth concludes jr. career

By CORINNE ABATT

Michigan lost one of its most promising young golfers last week when Jeff Roth left to begin his freshman year at the University of Arizona.

The loss may not be permanent. Roth, a 17-year-old Plymouth-Salem High School graduate who plays out of Farmington Country Club, may return to area links for tournaments during his summer vacations.

Roth will turn 18 next month, and that birthday will bring an end to a brilliant junior tournament career. Seventeen is the top age for junior that.

tournament players. tourney two days before leaving for Tuscon and the University of Arizona. That was the State Junior Tournament at Port Huron, and Roth was leading when it was called because of rain. Roth won the tourney in 1973 and finished second last year. In this year's tourney, he shot a disappointing 77, but then picked up four strokes to take the lead when play was called.

Two weeks ago Roth was in Nashville. Tenn. for the U.S. Junior championships. He qualified for match play, but was finally beaten by the tournament champion. He was the junior district champion this year and last. He also played in the 1974 Michigan Open and made the cut.

"I HAVEN'T PLAYED in as many national tournaments as I would have liked," Roth said. "I played in the North and South Amateur this spring at Pinehurst, N.C. I qualified for match play and felt pretty good about "The International Junior Tourna-Roth played in his last junior ment at Coral Gables, Fla. last December was a really good tournament for me. I had an 80 on the first round. but was low on the last three with a 72, 70 and 71. That brought me up to ninth place. The greens gave me trouble in the first round, but I had them figured out by the next day."

Roth has crammed a lot of golf into his summers since first playing on a par-three course at Wauwatosa, Wisc. at the age of eight.

"I didn't like golf that much when I was little," he said. "My dad watched it on TV, but I thought it was boring. Dad had a set of clubs and we went out to play. I think it cost 25 cents for nine holes.

"Then pretty soon we had about 20 kids who liked to play. We'd ride our bikes with our clubs on our shoulders. and we'd play before and after school every day. The kids, mostly fourth. fifth and sixth graders, came out in herds to play.

Roth's family moved to Plymouth six years ago, and Jeff continued to improve his game. He captained Plymouth-Salem's golf team for the past two years leading the Rocks to two regional and Suburban Eight league titles, as well as the State Class A championship in his junior Mental discipline is an important part of Roth's game. The ability to figure and think things through while playing is one of the qualities which separates the would-bes from the tournament champs, he said.

"SEE, GOLF IS more mental than physical. Anybody with a good build can hit the ball.

"But if a golfer doesn't have it upstairs-if he starts yelling, throws his clubs, .gets down on himself-then he's not going to score well."

Roth is a golf fan as well as a player. His favorite is Jack Nicklaus. During the recent Police Athletic League (PAL) Tournament at Wabeek, he followed Lee Trevino and Johnny Miller and caught J.C. Snead whenever pos-

"They were exciting players to watch." Roth said.

As he talked about his tournaments and his scores, Roth said that he must have sounded rather boastful. He said that he didn't want to leave that im-- pression. It's just that he likes to play and he likes to play well.

Roth plans to major in business administration while at the University of Arizona on a golf scholarship.

"If I'm good enough, I'd like to turn pro someday," he said. "But that's a long way away."

Detroit Little Caesar's bounces Redford Adray from tournament

Redford Adray made it all the way to the semi-finals of the Adray League National Championships this week before running into Detroit Little Caesar's Monday and losing 4-0.

Lary Sorenson, a Mt. Clemens L'Anse Creuse product who will be a junior at the University of Michigan next year, was too much for the Redford team to handle as he cuffed coach Bob Atkins' squad on two hits, striking out 13 and not allowing a runner past first.

A victory in that game would have put Redford into the finals of the tournament. But Sorenson, who was picked up by Little Caesar's from Adray Appliance, was virtually untouchable.

Only four runners reached base for Redford. With two outs in the first, Kevin Bara walked. With one out in the third, John Bolland singled to the opposite field. With one out in the fourth, Gary Wasilewski singled to left and with two out in the fifth, Jeff Hodgkins walked.

No Redford runner could advance any further, however, and Sorensen retired the final 13 batters in a row.

John Bolland started the final game for Redford and allowed two runs in the second and one in the fourth before giving way to Jeff Hodgkins in unearned run and four hits for the re- delphia second baseman. mainder of the game.

Redford won a pair of games Saturday to up its record to 4-1 in the double elimination tournament.

Redford squeaked by Philadelphia 3-2 in the first game and ousted Washington 4-0 in the nightcap.

John Bolland and Kevin Smith combined for the win in the Philadelphia game, limiting the Keystone State entrant to only four hits.

Redford picked up a run in the second inning of that game when Gary D'Ascenzo, who had walked, scored the fourth. Hodgkins allowed one on a throwing error by the Phila-

Redford added two in the third when Smith singled; Dan Burke, who went three-for-four, doubled; Mark Yourchock hit a sacrifice fly and Bob Wasilewski doubled to left.

Steve Hodgkins started for Redford in its 4-0 thumping of Washington but Tom Willette came on in the fourth to hold Washington to one hit the rest of the way and pick up the win.

Redford exploded for three runs in its fourth when Jeff Hodgkins walked with the bases loaded to force in one run and Dan Burke followed with a double to drive in another pair.

SHORTSTOP GARY D'ASCENZO walked and eventually scored on a throwing error in the second inning to put Redford on the board in its 3-2 victory over Philadelphia Saturday.

Redford was eliminated from competition at Johnstown Pa. Monday by Detroit Little Caesar's 4-0.

Redford Snyder's defends MMTL tournament title

Snyder's of Redford repeated as champion of the Major Metro Travel League Tournament of Champions, winning five straight games in the 18team tournament which was played last weekend in Southgate.

Coach Jim Snyder's team nailed down the $1,500 first prize by edging Major Metro rival Uniroyal of East Detroit in the championship game, 9-8. Snyder's broke a 5-5 tie in the fifth inning, scoring three times on a tworun homer by John Hinds and a solo shot by Jim Mitchell, added a run in

Rules meetings

Rules meetings for two fall high school sports will be held soon in the area for interested coaches, officials and spectators.

On Tuesday, Sept. 2, a rules meeting on girls' basketball will be held in Garden City East High School and on Wednesday, Sept. 3 a rules meeting on football will be held in Livonia

Bentley High School. Interested parties should contact the high schools for additional infor-

the seventh on an RBI double by Dave Rhodes, then stood off a lastditch Uniroyal rally in the bottom of the seventh that ended with the tying run on second base.

Earlier, Snyder's scored a big victory over one of the pre-tournament favorites. Copper Hearth, of Milwaukee, rallying for two runs in the bottom of the seventh to win, 10-9. The tying run scored on a sacrifice fly by Doug Gerdes and the winner on another fly ball by Rhodes. Gerdes also had three homes in that game-a three-run blast, a two-run shot and one with the bases empty-for a total of seven RBIs. Gerdes was voted the most valuable player of the tourna-

The loss dropped Copper Hearth into the loser's bracket, and the Milwaukee club then was eliminated by Uniroyal in a tight 2-1 contest.

In its other victories, Snyder's demolished HB Hideaway of Detroit, 20-5 as Matt Partridge blasted three homers and knocked in eight runs; defeated Transport Oil of Milwaukee, 14-9, wiping out an 8-2 deficit behind the home-run hitting of Gerdes, Mitchell and Larry Elkins; and took the measure of Jack's Tavern of Wyandotte. 14-5, as Mitchell banged two homers and a double and batted home five Gerdes, Mitchell, Partridge and Lonnie Parker were named to the tournament's all-star team.

Snyder's now moves on to the World Series sponsored by the United States Slowpitch Softball Association which will be played over the Labor Day weekend in New York.

Irony in new Wolverine mark

All's well that ends well, or what a stunt, obviously impeding the race difference a day makes, the latest example of those old truisms being Wolverine Raceway's newest driving ace Shelly Goudreau.

The 27-year-old Canadian teamster pulled the four-year-old pacer Baron Mave to the outside at the head of the stretch last Saturday and blazed to the finish wire in the new all-time track record time of 1:57.1. But for the young Goudreau it all wasn't as easy as it sounds.

Just the Saturday before Goudreau had also seemed to be heading down the home stretch to a new track mark. He was neck and neck with the Chicago invader Rambling Willie when suddenly his pacer. Grover C. veered sharply toward the rail and his opponent. Twice Grover C pulled the

Down the drain, too, went what would have been a Wolverine Mile record of 1:57.3. Even though he has already established himself as one of the finest young driving prospects in the country. Goudreau was clearly despondent over the incident.

Grover C has had a few aches and pains and I guess he just got to hurting," Shelly said. "I couldn't hold him and we blew the whole thing."

Actually this past Saturday night didn't seem to be starting out much better for Goudreau. It wasn't the Wolverine feature race, but Shelly found himself and the rather unheralded Baron Mave in with a real gang of pacing wildcats. There were Tiger Jet, Springs Pride, Dancing Knox. Peter Lobell and Ickawowie, and his was the only horse that had never won in 2-minutes or less.

The looks of things didn't improve much when the head check on Baron Mave's harness popped loose behind the starting gate and forced a recall of the race start.

"I simply coulnd't believe it, either, when he threw the shoe on his right front foot leaving the gate the second time." Goudreau relates. "There we were in last place and racing with three shoes.

The race became so hotly contested that Peter Lobell. Tiger Jet and Dancing Knox had all taken turns with the lead by the time the three-quarters mark was reached. A brand new track record was also obviously in store with the timer board flashing quarter mile fractions of :29.1, :59-flat and 1:27.4. And Goudreau and Baron Mave were still trailing the field.

Plymouth boosts 1st female justice of peace in Michigan

(Part I)

The best-known woman in Plymouth in the 1920s was a tall, majestic. white-haired housewife and mother of twins. Mrs. Phoebe Patterson.

Mrs. Patterson, the first woman justice of the peace in Michigan, received statewide notice in 1920. In that year, she was the key figure in a Detroit court case in which her right. as a woman, to hold office was chal-record was favorably noted in neighboring townships is evident from the many cases brought to her court from outside the community.

Richwine, who was beginning his practice as an attorney in Plymouth in the late 1920s, remembers that Judge Patterson was popular with everyone except defense lawyers. They claimed that no amount of evidence would sway her once she had made up her mind. Richwine, who tried several cases before her, says she was always good to him.

JUDGE PATTERSON'S reputation as an ardent member of the Women's Christian Temperance Union was well

During the prohibition era, state officials brought to her court offenders charged with bootlegging. Inebriated hoboes, picked up at the railroad junction by George Springer, the village's one-man police force, were also hailed before Mrs. Patterson. They received little sympathy. Her usual practice of giving them 30 days in jail earned her the nickname "Thirty-day Phoebe." On the other hand, two trouble-making boys brought before her were merely sentenced to attend church. Mrs. Patterson's courtroom was the front room of her house, built by her husband in 1882 with the assistance of his father. The house still stands at 207 Ann Arbor Trail, adjacent to the railroad tracks. It remained in the Patterson family for 78 years, being sold in 1960.

The court case, which made Mrs. Patterson well-known throughout the state, had its origin when the judge summoned William Leibnitz, a Detroit baker, to appear before her on Nov. 29, 1919. The charge was non-payment of a note on an automobile he had purchased. She found him guilty, much to the chagrin of his lawyer. James (Part II will describe the court case in which Judge Patterson was defended by Paul Voorhies, a native of Plymouth who later became wellknown on the state political level).
