Thursday night's closing came just weeks after Police Chief Carl Berry said his officers wouldn't be in Hines Park this year. Last year they regularly patrolled the park and once closed a section.

Hines Park is a 17-mile-long county park which runs through seven western Wayne County communities. In past years there has been considerable debate over which law enforcement agency should patrol the park.

Local departments argue the county sheriff's department should patrol because it's a county park. Former Wayne County Sheriff William Lucas refused to send his men into the park last year, leaving the local departments to handle problems.

The Plymouth officers closed Haggerty Circle Thursday night and wrote parking tickets along Haggerty Field in an attempt to avoid problems this year, Berry said.

LAST YEAR problems were experienced in the Haggerty area due to overcrowding and excessive drinking, Ber-

This year, the Wayne County Sheriff's Department is suppose to provide park patrol starting May 16.

"We couldn't wait until May 16. Park problems must be corrected early in the year," Berry said.

Westland Police took similar action Thursday in its section of the park

(from Inkster Road to Joy Road).

Westland has removed all its parallel parking signs along Edward Hines Drive, according to Inspector Fred Plymouth took similar action and will keep Haggerty Circle blocked off while enforcing parallel parking along Edward Hines Drive.

"We plan to maintain crowd control through strict parking enforcement," Berry said.

When the sheriff enters Hines Park on May 16, he will have a controllable problem and we will offer any assistance we can to his department," he

Scholarship fund established for Anton Marks

By Mary Klemic staff writer

Anton Marks of Plymouth attended Catholic Central High School only two years, but in that short time he made an enduring impression.

Marks, who would have graduated this spring, is remembered by family, classmates and faculty as an outgoing, intelligent, active young man with a bright smile who endeared himself to everyone who knew him. He died in June 1981 of heart disease at the age of

Marks will be remembered in special way this year. His parents, Plymouth residents Nadia and Jack Marks, have established a one-time only, $1,000 scholarship in his memory. The Anton Marks Memorial Scholarship will be given to the 1983 graduating senior who best demonstrates scholastic ability and financial need for college.

"It's for what we know our boy would have liked us to have done," Nadia Marks said. "We feel as though we could give it to someone else to pass on a memory of him.

"IT'S FOR someone who is needy and still working very hard to try and keep good grades. It's to encourage kids to study, that's the real reason."

The special scholarship is the second established by the Marks family in memory of their only child. The first award, the Anton Marks Scholarship Fund, worth $500, is given every fall to a needy student.

School officials will look at seniors' financial need forms, filled out for college, and their grade-point averages to determine who will receive the $1,000 scholarship, according to the Rev. John Whitley, Catholic Central assistant principal.

A plaque will be awarded to the scholarship winner. The plaque, a larger version of which will hang in the school, describes Anton as a "deeply loved friend, and a living incarnation of the Christian spirit," who "lived what he believed," Whitley said.

Born with a congenital, heart defect, Anton used a motorized scooter to get to and from classes. Despite his disability, he maintained a "tremendous" smile and friendly personality, accord-

The assistant principal recalled that students would carry Anton up and down stairs between periods, and said they turned out in force for Anton's funeral, even though it took place in the summer. The flag in front of Catholic Central flew at half-staff when the new semester started that year.

"HE WAS a very lovable kid, and I don't use that word very often," Whitley said. "He endeared himself to all the students in the school, including the big, tall seniors who towered over

"He was very, very special and very unique," Nadia Marks said. "He never acted as though he had anything wrong with him. He had a great deal of determination. There were so many creative things he wanted to achieve."

Anton's many activities at Catholic Central included the Chess Club and Whitley said Anton, wearing a tuxedo, would sing in school programs.

"His father is a music teacher and his mother is a music teacher and a harpist, so music was in his bones," Whitley said. "There were many things that he liked to do.'

"It's nice to think that you're going to do something for someone else," Nadia Marks said. "If we could have done more we would have done it."

Whitley said that anyone who would like to contribute to the Anton Marks Scholarship Fund, may call him at 534-

A 33-year-old former Dearborn policeman is expected to be charged with negligent homicide this week for a fatal one-car accident near I-275 and Ann Arbor Road early Friday morning.

Ground clearing begins for large office plaza

staff writer

Unless there is an unexpected dip in the economy, Plymouth Township will be able to boast one of the most modern office complexes in the state within the next year.

It will be a three-story building across the road from Hillside Inn and will be known as Plymouth Place with more than 7500 square feet of office space.

Spearheaded by Robert Stremich and designed by Eric Carne, the structure will be of the latest in office facilities. It will feature a skylight lobby. Stremich and Carne have been part of the a group that includes Leo Calhoun, former Ford Dealer who has been devoting his time to his oil wells in Illinois; Warren Bradburn, head of an insulating firm; and Davis and his son, Richard Jr, owners and operators of the Davis Engineering Company on Plymouth

The plan, approved by the Township Board at its last meeting, makes it possible that the project will be eligible for a 50 percent break in property taxes over the next 15 years.

The building will be in two sections linked by the skylight lobby.

In its five-acre setting, the building will offer a view of Hines Parkway on the west, and Burroughs plant on the east. The building will sit on a rise in the land, providing a good view of the area

Under the plans each of the floors will contain 2500 square feet of space with minimum lease space of 480 square feet.

Work on the project began last year when the work crew started removing the unwanted brush and clearing the entire five acres.

The city of Plymouth has agreed to provide a tie in with the city water system until the Township can provide the needed water supply.

Stremich stepped out of the management of the family-owned Hillside Inn to spend his time on the office project. Now that the Hillside Inn is being sold Stremich is working on the office project that will keep only a few yards away from the Inn that has been his family's livelihood since he was a child.

The world of video - once regarded as a futuristic playground for the wealthy - has mushroomed into a multi-million dollar industry that's enabling Americans to set up home entertainment centers affordably.

First on the video scene in 1975 was Sony, with its "Betamax" video recorder. The Japan Victor Company followed in 1977 with the "VHS" recorder, now the more popular of the two. Affordability is largely responsible for the record-breaking sales. 'There's been a dramatic price re-cost $1,500. Today a basic VTR costs $400. And I've seen them as low as $329," Fehlauer added.

When Sony introduced the Beta, it

Beta and VHS movies range in price between $39.95 and $100. They can be rented at most video stores for about $2 per night during the week and for about $3 for a weekend.

Blank Beta tapes (for recording) are $3 to $4 cheaper than VHS tapes.

Video discs, which cost between $15 and $50, can be rented for about one dollar more than tapes.

While the vast majority of people rent tapes and discs, industry observers say lower prices may see one third of the market buying films by 1984.

In an experimental effort to bolster sales, Paramount Home Video recently discounted two tapes — "Star Trek II-The Wrath of Kahn" and "An Officer and a Gentleman." Both sell for $39.95. Paramount also, for the first time, produced a Beta movie ("An Officer and a Gentleman") for $29.95

"It's not that our business is recession-proof, but because the economy is so bad, people are making their homes entertainment centers," Syerson said.

"They're buying Ataris, as opposed to sending their kids to arcades and they're renting tapes.

Agreed Paulson, "with the economy the way it is, people aren't taking vacations and buying cars like they used to. They're investing their money into vi-

Video tape

The most familiar of all video formats is videotape. Although in use by the major networks for a number of years, it didn't make its appearance in the consumer market until the mid-70s.

Two types of videotape formats are available, Beta and VHS. They are incompatible and substantial technological differences exist between them.

Despite the differences, basic similarites do exist. The video signal is recorded on magnetic tape. When the cassette is loaded into the machine the tape is fed past a videohead that is spinning at a rate of 1,800 revolutions per minute. The head picks up the information from the tape and it is then processed through the videotape recorder(VTR). The signal then is passed along to the TV where it is converted to pictures and sound.

Beta, first pioneered by Sony in the early 1970s, uses a cassette that is 30 per cent smaller than VHS. (The Beta cassette is on the right side of the photograph below). The first Beta tapes were capable of recording only one hour. That has now been extended to 5 ½ hours. Beta tape moves past the spinning videohead at a faster speed (the writing speed) producing a sharper picture. When a Beta tape is loaded into a VTR the tape unloads from the cassette around the videohead in a manner that produces less strain on the tape than does the VHS system. Blank Beta recording tapes sell for less money than blank VHS

VHS (Video Home System) was developed by Matsushita Electric, a Japanese firm that also owns JVC, Panasonic and Quasar. When VHS appeared on the market it offered two hours of recording time per tape. So began the long play wars between the two formats. It's now possible to record for eight hours on a T-160 VHS tape. Matsushita quickly licensed other companies to build the VHS system and these machines quickly flooded the Tape does have some disadvantages when compared to video discs. Movies on tape are expensive although predictions are that the price will drop in the next year. Rentals provide an inexpensive alternative to outright purchase. Tape also wears out. Because of the rapidly spinning videohead magnetic particles shred from the tape causing dropouts which degrade the picture quality. Still frame and pause, features found on some VTRs, also cause problems. When the tape stops moving in the machine that videohead is still spinning at 1800 rpm. If a tape is left on still frame or pause for too long the spinning videohead can burn a blank spot in the tape.

Laser disk

The optical pickup system or laser disk player is the most sophisticated of the three video formats available. Developed by the Phillips Co. of The Netherlands, the players are produced by Pioneer and Magnavox.

It is the only consumer product using a laser (laser, by the way, is an ancronym that means Light Amplification by Stimulated Emission of Radiation).

The player contains a low-power helium-neon laser that scans a 12-inch disk spinning at 1,800 rpm. For comparison, a record album rotates at 331/2 rpm. The disk is coated with a highly reflective material and has microscopic pits etched on its surface. One side of a half-hour disk can contain as many as 14 billion pits arranged in 54,000 circular tracks. Each track represents an individual video frame.

When the player is switched on, the laser slides underneath the rapidly spinning disk. A system of prisms and mirrors keeps the laser on the right track. The tiny pits interrupt the steady beam of laser light as it's reflected back into the player from the disk.

This flickering of the laser produces digital information that is converted into sound and video signals by the electronics inside the player and eventually displayed on your TV as a picture.

The sharpness of the laser disk image is almost double that of video tape and CED disk. The audio or sound information is also vastly improved over the other two formats. A stereo laser disk that has been encoded with the CX noise reduction system is capable of sounding much better than a FM stereo broadcast.

Unlike tape and CED disks, the laser disk will not wear - nothing comes in contact with it except a beam of light. A clear plastic coating covers the surface of the disk to prevent damage to the microscopic pits that lie below the plastic. Finger prints and minor scratches will not harm the image quality of the disk. Prices for the disks range from $25 to $60.

Despite all of these advantages, the laser system has been slow to catch on. The players are more expensive than a CED machine but are generally in the same price range as most VTRs that offer the same type of fea-

Also, no recording is possible. It is a playback-only system.

Having fewer selections available than competing systems and problems with quality control in producing the disks has lead to skepticism on the part of con-

Electronic disk

The CED (capacitence electronic disk system) was developed by RCA. Unlike the laser disk, this type of disk more closely resembles a conventional phonograph record. The surface is pressed with grooves which are 1/10,000 of an inch wide. These are much smaller than those on a stereo record.

Thirty eight grooves of a CED disk will fit into a single conventional record groove. All video and audio is stored within these cavities. The disks are made from a hard plastic material.

To track the grooves, the player uses a stylus that measures 2.5 microns in width. That's so small that 50 of them placed side by side would fit on the edge of a dollar bill, according to RCA publications. The stylus is housed in a tangital tracking arm. It moves straight across the disk instead of pivoting like your record player at home. This eliminates skating force and tracking error that could damage the disk. The disk rotates at 450 rpm and has a maximum playing time of 2 hours. The CED disk, unlike the laser system, is more likly to be damaged through normal use. Because of this, RCA has built several safeguards into their player.

Grads start video A couple of local graduates, Claud Brown and George Adler, are now partners in a video company in Ann Arbor.

In business since December 1981, the pair operate a televison production/post-production service firm in Ann Arbor.

Both Brown and Adler are graduates of Plymouth High School. Six years ago Brown presented a series of night classes on contemporary music at Plymouth Canton High School and for the past few years Adler and Brown have lectured on filmmaking, music and literature for Barbara Masters' humanities classes at Canton High.

The two became interested in video two years ago when they wrote and videotaped a short fictional piece about a group of Canton students for an American Film Institute grant.

THOUGH THEY did not get the grant, Adler and Brown decided then that they eventually wanted to buy their own videotaping equipment to do other artistic works and to provide equipment and expertise to local artists and filmmakers who otherwise couldn't afford access to quality broadcast

We also decided we'd work for local businesses taping guest speakers, seminars, and creating promotional and sales tapes," said Adler. "In this way, we would support our venture.'

The two talked with Mrs. Masters about the idea who agreed with the concept. In November 1981, Masters agreed to finance a complete videotaping outfit and became owner of the company, Ann Arbor Video.

Since then the company has given students and artists access to its equipment and services, and shared ideas.

"For example," said Adler, "a University of Michigan graduate student wanted to make a videotape about a local portrait painter as part of her dissertation.

"We taped interviews of several prominent people who had been painted, including ex-Governor George Romney, and edited the videotape at Ann Arbor Cablevision.

'We shot a 30-minute 'children's fantasy' for cable TV with two young filmmakers from Poland. The tape was about a group of boys who race BMX

ANN ARBOR Video occasionally donates its services to non-profit groups, such as last summer when it shot and edited a one-minute commercial for Muscular Dystrophy promoting backyard carni-

A more recent example, Adler said, is Ann Arbor Video's involvement with Michigan Video Writers, an Ann Arbor-based writers collective who are writing a series of screenplays on the effects of unemployment in Michigan.

The writers applied for funding from the Michigan Council for the Arts to videotape the screenplay, but to qualify for the grant the group needed matching funds or donated services worth at least the amount requested.

Project Director Scott Mann approached Ann Arbor Video which agreed to donate its equipment and services to videotape the first program. With that pledge given, the Michigan Council for the Arts awarded a $1,710 grant to produce "The End of the Small Town Diner" which now is nearing the end of

Most of Brown and Adler's work for business has been in association with other production companies hiring them as part of their crew.

Schoolcraft's satellite campus challenged in 1977

In August 1977 Schoolcraft trustee Mark McQuesten sided with The Campus Globe in its criticism of the college's Cultural and Public Affairs pro-

McQuesten, a student at Schoolcraft only a few years before his election to the board, said the student newspaper was right in claiming that the programs, underwritten by student fees, were being tailored for adults and that their caliber had deteriorated.

"We used to get people like Maxwell Taylor, Ralph Nader, Dick Gregory, and Vincent Price," he said. "But the big bands we're getting now don't belong in that program."

College officials defended the committee's selections, pointing out that the median age of students now as 18 and rising. It was not the 18-year-old, fresh out of high school, envisioned by McQuesten. The matter got a full airing at a "retreat" held by the trustees at the Plymouth Hilton Inn on Oct. 29.

During the discussion, McQuesten got little support from the other trustees. Among other rebuttals, it was pointed out that prices for speakers and entertainers had gone sky-high. In the early '70s, the college paid $500 to $1,000 to attract talent to the campus; now, in 1977, fees had risen to $3,500 to $5,000. Poet Rod McKuen, who was to appear later in the year, charged

Present at the retreat was Richard Saunders, director of fine arts and chairman of the Cultural and Public Affairs committee. At one point during the discussion, Saunder brought up a matter that had been considered by board after board since the institution opened in 1964. The college needed a 2,000-seat performing arts auditorium in conjunction with a fine arts instructional facility.

"We should have a facility so people don't have to go downtown," he told the trustees. "There's a cultural void between Detroit and Ann Arbor."

IN ADDITION to attacking the Cultural and Public Affairs program, McQuesten also questioned the existence of the college's satellite campus in Garden City.

"I would like to centralize," he said.

'Students should get all the benefits of the college experience, not just the

In December the Faculty Forum also questioned the continued growth of the Gardent City Center. Its leaders warned the administration that the satellite was turning into a main campus, and the faculty didn't like that trend.

Basic course at Garden City were acceptable, the faculty said, but it opposed placing entire programs there. "It is regressive to drain money away from the main campus to duplicate services at the Garden City Center," the faculty group said. "The quality of education at the main campus will decline to provide a less-than-adequate education at the Garden City Center."

During the retreat, McQuesten, the only Schoolcraft graduate on the eightmember board, said he was disturbed by the amount of emphasis on vocational-technical education which had occurred since Dr. Nelson Grote's arrival as president. "Is this going to be a training school for certain jobs? he said. "Or is it going to be a college?"

One of the trustees objected to McQuesten's "loose use of the phrase 'training school.' " Grote, whose background was in the vocational-technical field, noted that McQuesten was implying that the more general the education, the more the quality.

"We're doing an injustice if we require too much general education," he responded. "We live in a technological society. To say a person who is in technology is not well educated - I just

We have a primary responsibility to prepare a person for entry into the job

In October, Leroy Bennett was elected president of the board of governors of the Schoolcraft College Foundation. Bennett, who had served on the college board for 10 years, had been a member of the foundation since 1966.

IN DECEMBER, Schoolcraft got its first director of labor relations, John G.

Graves, who had been personnel director for the city of Saginaw, was employed to participate in negotiation and administering collective bargaining agreements with five groups at the college covering 350 employees.

The new year saw another attempt to get a millage approved. Millages had been rejected in June elections in 1976 and 1977. In February 1978 the college went back to the voters for another try. This time it asked for one mill. Once again, the proposal went down to de-leaders objected to the increasing num-ber of administrators and part-time instructors, while the number of fulltime faculty members at the college remained about the same.

Figures compiled by both the administration and the union showed that from 1971 to 1977 the number of fulltime faculty members had risen by only five (157 to 162) while the number of part-time faculty members had more than doubled (from 112 to 231).

Forum vice president William G. Nickles told Tim Richard of the Observer that the college probably doubled its part-time faculty because a part-timer wasn't entitled to insurance. pension, and vacation benefits, which amounted to one-third the value of the Trustees countered that the reason for hiring part-timers was the college's inability to win three straight millage elections. Said board chairman Paul Kadish: "There's no one who wouldn't like to have 95 percent of the faculty

Is any young man worth five million dollars over the course of four years for running with a football and through holes made by his linemen?

Is it fair to make these college football heroes contract breakers?

That's what they are if they have accepted football scholarships and then leave the campus and give up their studies or at least delay them. They accepted the scholarship on the promise playing out their four years of eligibility and then graduating.

These questions have been bothering The Stroller ever since the contracts were announced.

East Meets West: Chinese Cooking American Style

In China, where there are more people to feed than in any other country in the world, there has always been a respect for food. Good food symbolizes good luck and prosperity, a cure for ills and an omen of good things to come.

The Chinese make the very most of what food they have, even down to the smallest morsels of meat or poultry, sometimes combining them with fruits, vegetables, noodles and, of course, rice. They plan their combinations so that various foods exchange flavors and textures in appealing ways. When they prepare a roast duck or rack of ribs, they are careful to seal in juices and flavor.

Perhaps it is America's own growing awareness of the value of good food that has caused such an interest in oriental cooking. Chinese cooking classes have sprung up all over the country, and many American food products have made the Chinese connection. Among the American classic ingredients that have a happy place in Chinese cuisine is corn syrup. It adds body and a smooth consistency to sauces, helps to blend flavors and causes glazes to adhere better to meats, helping to seal in moisture and flavor.

The makers of Karo corn syrup have adapted a number of Chinese meat and poultry recipes for the American palate. They are all authentic in their origins, but have been developed to suit American kitchens and cooking traditions. They include oriental ingredients prepared American style as well as American ingredients given an oriental touch. East meets West.

You can solve the souffle mystery

There is a sense of mystery about the souffle. While the instructions at first glance appear complicated, there is an unencumbering flow to the actual preparation if certain sensible steps are fol-

Those steps include:

Refrigerating the prepared dish at least 30 minutes to help the hot souffle rise straight up.

Handling the egg whites very carefully. If overbeaten, they lose much of their air along with the glistening, firm peaks. When folding the warm souffle base into the beaten whites, avoid being too thorough because it's better to have a few unblended patches than a souffle that won't rise.

PLACING the souffle dish on a heated baking sheet so the souffle starts to cook at the bottom as well as the top. Remember the less time a souffle cooks, the more creamy the center.

Serving the souffle at once. The elegant dish waits for no one. Puncture the top with a serving spoon and fork, held back to back and straight up, gently spreading the souffle apart for each portion.

While Parmesan souffle goes well with onion sauce, it retains that distinctive flavor even when eaten cold the next day.

SOCIAL EVENT of the season — in some circles — will be the Men's 40 & Over Basketball banquet Tuesday evening. Dress for the annual event in the Box Bar will be "comfortable," according to members of the banquet committee. They suggested casual attire to Al Renfrew, guest lecturer.

The former University of Michigan hockey coach and now Atletics Department ticket manager needed no such admonition. He had no intention of wearing a tux to talk to that crew. Especially after they clued him in on the menu - beer, hamburgers and french fries.

Festivities will begin at 7:30 p.m. and between 50 and 60 of the over-40 athletes will be in attendance. Special awards will be presented and prizes given. Plans will be drawn up for next season's league

Participants must be at least 40 years of age to engage in the halfcourt games in the West Middle School gymnasium. They play threeon-three and each team has seven, eight or nine members. The season lasts 12 Wednesday nights with four games each night and more than 60 players involved.

There seems to be no age limit at the top of the scale. A player has admitted to 58

Among the first to make reservations for the banquet were Bob Holmes, Bob Gall, Dave McBride, Larry Masteller, Ken Merrill, Tony Aquino, Don Massey, Al Stokes, Joe Pasek, Chuck Strummell, Bill Emons, Jim Muneio and Dave Opple

THE ORAL Majority Toastmasters Club has designated March as debate month. The use of the polygraph by industry on employees and potential employees is the first topic. Phyllis Sullivan, the club's educational vice president, said winners of the first two debates will meet March 22.

The first debate, Tuesday night, will involve Anne Sullivan, Doug Michelson, Dennis Keshishian and Peter Czeck. The meeting will be open to the public. It begins at 5:30 p.m. in Denny's Restaurant, 39550 Ann Arbor Road, at I-275.

The club also is preparing for area speech contests. Phyllis Sullivan and Doug Michelson have been chosen to represent the club with club president, Pat Gresock, as alternate. International finals for the speech contest are scheduled for San Diego, Calif. in August.

Lussier to speak at GAIN meeting

Donald E. Lussier, career transition counselor, will be keynote speaker at the March 10 meeting of GAIN. Lus-sier's topic will be "Nuts and Bolts of Looking for Work" when he addresses the Plymouth Community Family Y network group.

The speaker is vice president and cofounder of Transition Team, a Troybased company which is a human resource consulting group providing corporate-sponsored training for employees who lose their jobs.

He has developed all the company's educational and promotional material and has written two publications, "The Complete Guide to Effective Job Change" and "The Homemaker's Complete Guide to Entering the Job Market." Lussier also is president of Lordon Associates Inc. which provides executive job search counseling for the general public.

LUSSIER will discuss an outline containing job search essentials with eight positive steps to dramatically increase job search effectiveness.

He also will adress specific problems posed by members of the audience.

GAIN was developed for men and women who wish to exchange resources and experience in order to support their career and their business.

Man in Orient returns to U.S.

By Elinor Graham staff writer

Jack Reynolds, NBC's "Man in the Orient," has returned to the United States for a new job in Washington.

He told the Plymouth Y Town Hall audience that moving to Washington is like going to China for the first time he may have difficulty with the language.

The topic for his lecture in the Penn Theater was "China: A Class by Itself." Later, at a celebrity luncheon in the Mayflower Meeting House, the humor and the personality of the correspondent emerged during an informal question and answer session.

Reynolds said, "There was not a boring moment in my 17 years in the Orient." He attributed his fascination with his work to a real desire to be where things are happening. He said getting some interviews required the combined skills of "a mafia, a Socrates and a P.T. Barnum."

HONG KONG was home for nine years and he leaves it with great reluctance.

He met his Chinese wife at the Press Club in Hong Kong when he was on R&R from Vietnam and she did public relations for a Hong Kong hotel. He commended her original steer-clear-of-a-newsman-on-R&R attitude. Their two children are anticipating the move to Washing-

"In fact, the kids already have names for their dogs,"

"Did you learn to speak Chinese?" he was asked. Reynods explained the many languages and dialects of China. "I've gone through six Mandarin teachers. I know enough not to be conned by an interpreter, to order food

"Can you buy a good hamburger in Peking?" was another query. He responded "No. But I can tell you where to buy good snake soup."

He said the average head of a household, living in the city, earns between $40 and $60 a month. His wife also works and the children stay in a day care center while she is at work. Living quarters usually are cramped as other members of the family may share them. More food and a 4 better variety of food now is available in the cities.

"After a family meal in the evening, they all watch television, their proudest possession."

SOME FARM families are getting enough money together to buy tractors and trucks, he said. Life still is grim for the farmers but much better than even in the

They work very long days, but because they are permitted to raise and sell produce beyond the required quota for the state, the quality of life is improving. "Some groups have pooled their resources to buy com-

THE RESULTS of the census in China, revealing a population of more than one billion, spurred a concentrated birth control program.

The recommended family is one child. Party members have one child or two at the most. A couple with three children loses government subsidies.

"For the first time, the Chinese are worrying about a generation of spoiled brats," Reynolds said. The pill, sterilization, the loop, and other birth control methods are used. The abortion rate is very high but vasectomies are

"Again, the male chauvinist attitude," said Reynolds. And again, he stressed that the city dwellers and the farmers are two very different entities.

The farmers want sons to help with the work and carry on the farms. He said that after two or three daughters and no sons, the new baby may be "Taken for a bath," an expression used for dropping her in a well.

Mrs. Ghandi has moved away from Russia and toward the United States, Reynolds said. Four years of good harvests have made the rural area less depressing. The situation between India and Pakistan is leveling off. The major problem still is birth control which has a very advanced program in New Delhi, but not in the country.

"The Vietnamese still have serious economic problems. Hanoi has discovered the South Vietnamese are tough to handle," Reynolds said. "The Russians are using the U.S.built air bases and deepwater ports."

Dudley Moore slows down his frantic onscreen pace in the role of a psychiatrist who falls in love with his patient in the satiric comedy "Lovesick."

the movies Louise

Snider

'Lovesick' laughs at mixed-up world 'shrinks' inhabit

For a professional physician who died in 1939, Sigmund Freud does seem to pop up in movies looking exceptionally dapper and at

In "The Seven Per Cent Solution," he treated Sherlock Holmes and helped him solve a mysterious disappearance. In "Lovesick" (PG), Freud's spirit materializes as the conscience and mentor of Dr. Saul Benjamin (Dudley Moore), a psychoanalyst who falls in love with his patient Benjamin is suffering from a case of the blahs. His wife, his patients, his life generally - everything is blah. When a beautiful new patient (Elizabeth McGovern) enters his office and reveals her anxieties and fantasies, he does some fantasizing of his own.

Freud steps in to chide him and guide him, but does Benjamin listen? No. He dumps his wife and shocks his colleagues by moving in with his patient.

WE NOTE THAT there is more fantasy in this set than in the amorous doctor's head. His patient, a young playwright newly arrived in New York, is living in a split-level apartment worthy of an Arab potentate.

"Lovasick was written by Marshall Brickman, who used to coauthor scripts with Woody Allen ("Manhattan," "Annie Hall," "Sleeper").

Brickman, however, has not been impressive as a solo writer. "Simon" was his previous film, and "Lovesick" limps along without any driving energy. This might be the fault of Brickman, the director, as much as Brickman, the writer.

Audiences looking for the charged-up Dudley Moore of "Arthur" or "10" won't find him here. "Lovesick" doesn't have the physical comedy and sight gags of these earlier films. Also, Moore is subdued to the point of being comatose.

The best lines in the movie go to Freud, played by Alec Guinness in a charming and witty manner. McGovern is lovely, bright and vulnerable-looking as the patient. It is not a very demanding role, but she does have one good, spunky scene in which she and Benjamin argue. All his male chauvinist attitudes emerge as he carries its shirts not being ironed.

More than anything else, one gets the impression that "Lovesick" is Brickman's vehicle for sticking it to the psychiatric profession. The story goes off in various directions. What remains constant is the satire directed against psychoanalysts.

BENJAMIN'S COLLEAGUES are upset about more than a violation of professional ethics. When he opens a free walk-in clinic in a poor neighborhood and returns $6,000 to a patient because he couldn't help her, they are really scandalized. None of these acts endears him to his peers. In fact, the presence of so many peers prompts Freud to remark that whenever intended psychoanalysis to be a profession.

Among the other psychiatrists, there are vivid individual characterizations created by Wallace Shawn, Alan King, John Huston and Selma Diamond. Each adds a different and interesting inflection to the humor. However, it is all rather sly, as if Brickman is writing for an "in" group. The result is discrete satire, with special but limited appeal.

Elizabeth McGovern plays the young playwright-patient to whom the married psychiatrist is instantly attracted.

District basket tourney presents perilous journey

I've heard it before by cohorts in the sports business about basketball in western Wayne

It's the "so-so Northwest Suburban League" or the "not-so-hot" Western Lakes Activities Associ-

But you heard it first: Some teams from this area are going to suprise a few people in the state basketball tournament. The Madness begins to-

There won't be any state champions from this group, but you can bet they'll be a few surprises. Remember 1980 when Livonia Stevenson upended 1979 state Class A champ Detroit Mackenzie in the regional? Or how about last season when Plymouth Salem took Detroit Southwestern

The basketball in this area, like Rodney Dangerfield, deserves some respect. It will earn it in the next two weeks.

Here is a rundown of every team in our coverage area and its chances of advancing (in order): • PLYMOUTH SALEM (17-2) - Coach Fred

Thomann has his team ready to go. They're doing exactly what he wants. This team will do some serious damage. • LIVONIA STEVENSON (17-2) — A good transition team with size and shooting that plays according to the competition. Coach George Van Wagoner is a pro and has been on the tourney trail before. • CATHOLIC CENTRAL (16-3) — Hosting your own district is a big help with likes of Redford Thurston, Detroit Henry Ford and Detroit Redford challenging. No weak links in the starting lineup and good sixth man.

 REDFORD THURSTON (18-2) — Big obstacle is district tourney with CC. Needs fan support and a healthy Jim Weiss. This team blew out Ecorse, which beat Highland Park. A formidable • LIVONIA FRANKLIN (11-9) — The Patriots are hot. They've won six straight and got a good draw in the Churchill district. Could pull an upset if they stay out of foul trouble - their bench is questionable.

• WESTLAND JOHN GLENN (13-7) - This team blew out Dearborn Fordson and is capable of winning the Salem district. The Rockets have size (6-foot-8 Paul Grazulis) and a good backcourt (Greg Gill and Mike Baydarian). They must play smart to win.

• GARDEN CITY (14-6) - Nobody should underestimate the Cougars and the job coach Bob Dropp has done. They scrap and never quit. They beat Stevenson early in the season.

• BISHOP BORGESS (11-9) — The Spartans are hosting their own district for the first time, and the field is murderous: Mackenzie, red-hot Fordson, Cody (with Vernon Carr) and Chadsey (with high-scoring junior Demetrious Gore). The Spartans lost by only two last week to highly regarded Detroit DePorres. Forward Lewis Scott is starting to get some help. Joe Gregory and Gary Dziekan have been improving.

• PLYMOUTH CANTON (10-10) - A small team with a lot of heart. But the Chiefs haven't played well of late and meet Glenn Wednesday night. Coach Dave Van Wagoner has been known to pull some suprises.

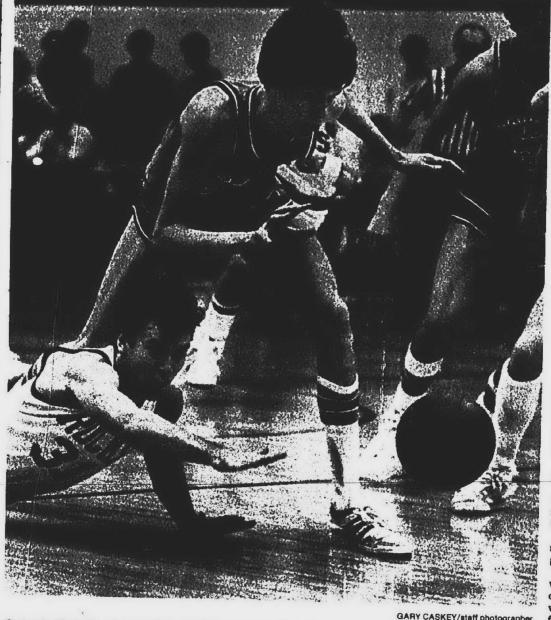

• LIVONIA BENTLEY (9-11) — A team with a front line averaging 6-feet-6 inches that hasn't really jelled this season. They could be a year away, but had Salem on the ropes earlier this season and let them off. Getting past Stevenson is a

• LIVONIA CHURCHILL (12-8) - The Chargers drew Stevenson in the first round of district (tonight) after losing to the Spartans twice already this season. The Chargers really haven't won a big game this season, although they won the Western Division of the WLAA.

• REDFORD ST. AGATHA (7-12) - How about Detroit Country Day in the first round of the district? The Aggies have some talent in 6foot-5 senior forward Joe White, but not enough to get by the swarming Yellow Jackets.

Bench power gives Salem cage crown

It wasn't a sparkling effort by a member of Plymouth Salem's starting five that enabled the Rocks to subdue Livonia Stevenson, 67-60, Saturday to capture the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) title at Salem.

Credit for this win can be found by looking to the left of Rock coach Fred Thomann, to the members of the bench.

As foul problems mounted on both sides in the early stages of the second half, it was apparent that the win would not be forthcoming from the starters of either team. This victory would have to come from somewhere down the benches of either Stevenson

Salem's bench won.

THE TRIUMPH made the Rocks the first-ever WLAA basketball champions. Both Stevenson and Salem came into the contest with 17-2 overall records and 14-1 league marks. The only WLAA losses on their records came in games against each other.

Salem won the rubber game of the

"What it came down to was our eight against their five," said Thomann. "It seems everyone we went to on the bench contributed.

"You can't lose your No. 1 and 2 scorers and win - unless you have good players to go to."

One good player to go to for Salem was John Cohen. The 6-foot-4 senior tricaptain was summoned from his seat when starter Dave Houle picked up his fourth personal with 6:06 left in the third quarter. Cohen responded with 16 points, all in the last two quarters. STEVENSON, MEANWHILE, did not fare as well. Starting forward Curt Ullstrom fouled out early in the third quarter and center Bob Sluka followed him to the sidelines less than two minutes later. Guard Pete Rose drew his fourth personal with 2:03 left in the third and coach George Van Wagoner sat him down until the fourth quarter.

"If I had to do it again, I might have gone with him all the way," said Van Wagoner about his decision to pull Rose. "But they hit the free throws (Salem was 23 of 28 from the line to 18 of 25 for Stevenson) and boarded well.

"And who hit for them? He (Cohen) probably hasn't had a game like this all

Glenn Medalle and Houle fouled out in the fourth quarter, but Thomann got solid performances from Rick Berberet, Erich Hartnett and Cohen.

THE GAME WAS a seesaw battle of scoring streaks, with Salem scoring six straight, then Stevenson answering with six in a row. A seven-point Rock streak gave them a 16-10 lead after one quarter, but the Spartans tied it up with an 8-2 skein in the second quarter. Tom Domako's shot at the buzzer enabled Stevenson to take a 28-27 halftime

Salem recaptured the lead with an 8-0 burst to end the third period (46-43) and held onto it the rest of the way. Stevenson had its chances, closing to within one twice in the last quarter and to within two once. But two Salem mini-streaks, one of five points and one of six, clinched it for the Rocks.

Domako topped Stevenson with 19 points. Gary Mexicotte finished with 13 and Rose tallied 11. Houle had 15 for Salem, Marvin Zurek scored 11 and Medalle and Matt Broderick netted 10

Rocks weather storm, win WLAA

By C.J. Risak staff writer

There was one conclusion Plymouth Salem swim coach Chuck Olson found easy to make after the Rocks sped to the first-ever Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) title

"It didn't come easy — this is a tough league."

Salem's perfect record in WLAA dual meet competition made the Rocks the favorite coming into the meet, but going out it was apparent they did anything but dominate.

Salem piled up 275 team points, outdistancing runner-up Farmington's 190 rather easily. Plymouth Canton was third swimming with 152, followed by Livonia Stevenson (141), Livonia Churchill (127), Northville (107), Farmington Harrison (86), Livonia Bentley (76), Walled Lake Central (10) and Walled Lake Western (0).

WHAT MADE SALEM'S task difficult were a pair of double winners and, as Olson put it, "Some awfully fast swims."

Harrison's Ted Rudel and Farmington's Alec Campbell each won a pair of individual races. Farmington collected four firsts to two for Salem. Depth proved invaluable for the Rocks. They garnered six seconds and a pair of thirds. Farmington had just one second in the meet.

"Everybody had to do it," Olson said after the victory. "Just Campbell's wins came the 200-yard individual medley (2:00.57) and the 100 butterfly (52.57).

Defense triggers Canton triumph For three-quarters of its basketball game Thursday, Livonia Bentley dominated.

The Bulldogs outrebounded, outshot and, most importantly, outscored Plymouth Canton on the Canton court.

But three-quarters does not a whole make, a lesson the Chiefs taught Bentley by overcoming a 12-point deficit in the last quarter to march to a 59-57

We played real fantastic defense in the last quarter," said Canton coach Dave Van Wagoner. "I could tell we were wearing them down. We were in better physical condition than they

What Canton did defensively was utilize a full-court man-to-man press for the whole game. That caused 25 Bulldog turnovers compared to 14 for Canton, which means, as Van Wagoner explained, "We had 11 more chances to score than they did.

basketball

STILL, IT WAS Bentley that had the lead throughout the first three quarters. The Bulldogs were up by three at the half (26-23) and increased it to 10 after three quarters (47-37). With six minutes left in the game, Bentley boasted a 12-point advantage. "They played inspired ball for three quarters, probably because they lost to us twice before," said Van Wagoner. The Chiefs beat Bentley, 52-36 on Jan. 7 and 61-56 on Feb. 11.

"By the fourth quarter, you could see they were worn out."

While the Bulldogs tired, Canton fired. Ron Rienas and Mark Bennett led the explosion, combining for 16 of the Chiefs' 22 points. Rienas dumped in nine of his 16 in the quarter and Bennett, bombing from long range, netted seven of his game-high 20.

CANTON CAUGHT Bentley with two minutes left and built a four-point edge on single free throws by Mike Scarpello and Bennett and a bucket by Rienas. The Chiefs' comeback was aided further by a costly travelling violation against Bentley with 32 seconds

Jim Schlicker pitched in 11 points for Canton. Jim Thorderson's 11 was high for Bentley, with Dan Rays 3 notching 12 and John Turner 11.

The win allowed Canton o finish the regular season at 10-1. Bentley's record dipped to 9-11.

Salem's firsts came in the diving, as Todd Riedel totaled 363.25 points, and in the 100 breaststroke, with Ashley Long splashing to top honors

FARMINGTON'S OTHER individual league champion was Chris Edwards in the 100 free (49.63).

Stevenson had a pair of individual winners - Kurt Hein in the 50 free (22.64) and Kevin Everhart in the 100 backstroke (57.56).

The Stevenson team of Hein, Mark Jubenville, Everhart and Greg Deska won the 200 medley relay (1:43.13), upsetting the top qualifying Salem team of Mike Harwood, Mark Roehrig, Long and Bob Bowling (1:43.79).

Farmington's Randy Gallinger, Fred Courville, Edwards and Campbell combined to take the 400 free relay (3:19.91), beating the Salem quartet of Erik Kleinsmith, Scott Anderson, Tim Harwood and Tom Shaw (3:21.11).*

Tim Harwood collected two seconds for the Rocks in the 200 IM (2:04.31) and 100 back (57.99). Kleinsmith outdueled Canton's John Simone for second in the 200 free by the narrowest of margins (1:49.10 to 1:49.11) and got another second in the 500 free (5:00.20).

Farmington's Edwards added a second in the 50 free (22.84) to go with his league championship in the 100 free, and Stevenson's Hein also had a second, in the 100 fly (54.70), to go with his 50 free win.

Other seconds went to Canton's Simone in the 100 free (49.92) and McBratnie in the 100 breast (1:04.12) and Churchill's Vic Valente in the diving (331.05 points).

The final event on the swim schedule is the Class A state finals Friday and Saturday at Michigan State University.

Women's pro tour gets double boost

Women's bowling took two giant steps forward last week.

The Women's International Bowling Congress announced that the prize fund for the annual tournament will exceed $1 million for the first time. The tournament will open next month in Las Vegas.

The congress also announced that the Ladies Pro Tour will be televised each week on cable television. The women's TV show will follow the men's pro program, which has been on the air for close to 20 years. All of the stars of the nation will be shown in the championship finals that start April 16.

THERE WAS A time when a 700 series was thought to a rarity. But no onger. For example, there were 11 barrier-breaking scores posted in the western suburbs last week. And five of them came at Wonderland Lanes Bowling in the classic Jerry Dunlap posted a 728. He was followed by Ron Sarah with 711, Ron Le Chevalier with 710, Chuck Sunseri with 701 and John Grandrod with 700.

To complete the list, Mike Rose had a 748 at Woodland Lanes, Paul Dorana 709 at Merri-Bowl, Dan Jacobs a 717 at Westland Bowl, Ralph Grigzadrozny a 739 at Bel-Aire, Don Bozdose at Garden Lanes, and Mike Hopper a 753 at Super Bowl.

THE ANNUAL WOMEN'S City Tournament opens Saturday afternoon at Yorba Linda Lanes on Woodward Avenue at 1:30 p.m.

The all-star leagues in the western suburbs never need worry about how they will be able to fill their ranks when the veterans call it quits. The juniors are coming on strong and furnish one of the best farm systems in any sport.

For instance, Westland Bowl has three 18-yearolds on the membership rolls of its 700 club. Heading this trio is Ryan Wilson, who bowls in the major division of the junior circuit. He posted a 705 one week ago and came right back as a substitute this
