Underpaid coaches appeal for pay equity

By Tom Henderson staff writer

Fred Thomann, the highly successful coach of the varnity girls and boys basketball teams at Plymouth Salem High School, is tired of being underpaid for his coaching services.

He hasn't threatened to quit but has notified his superiors that coaching from now on will not be viewed by him as a career, but as a year-to-year thing. He has the support of his superiors athletic director John Sandmann and superintendant John Hoben - who agree that Thomann and his fellow coaches are underpaid compared to coaches in neighboring school districts.

Dr. Hoben is attempting to get the school board to set up a workshop later this fall to air the coaches' grievances. Part of the problem, he says, and Tho-mann agrees, is that the teachers union has not given much attention to the matter of coaches pay. It comes under the heading of Appendix B, 55 pages into the teacher contract.

"Love should be involved in coaching, sure," said Thomann. "But if you're going to put that kind of time and effort into it, you want to be paid. It should be looked at as a second job. I'm not saying to pay us top of the line, just pay us in accordance with some of our fellow coaches.

"There's an assistant JV girls basketball coach at Walled Lake Central who made $150 more than me last year, and the head coach made twice as much as me. I've put in a fair amount of time," continued Thomann, who is in his 12th year of coaching and teaching physical education, "and to find someone making double for the same job, that's not THOMANN, WHO said he made $1,500 as boys coach last year, said he has never figured out what coaching pays in terms of dollars per hour. "If I did that," laughed Thomann, "I wouldn't be coaching.

"I didn't go in there (to Hoben's office) crying. I just went in to tell him of some of the problems and to tell him that I'd have to do my coaching on a year-to-year-basis from now on. I just don't know if I can continue to make the commitment

"Coaches have to coach, now, out of a love for the sport, not for monetary rewards," said Hoben. "I would guess that our coaches make from between $800 to $1,500 less than coaches in other districts. Consequently, that makes it tough to hire coaches and keep them.

"Our problem is that pay for extracurricular activities is a negotiated item. Unfortunately, the leadership in the union doesn't protect the people in those positions."

The union and school district currently are involved in negotiations for a pay increase for the second year of the current contract. Pay for extracurricular duties doesn't seem to be a high priority item. Part of the problem, say those close to the scene, was the willingness of the coaches several years ago to continue coaching during teacher strike.

"We absolutely have one of the low-est paid coaching staffs in the tri-county area," concurred Sandmann. "We're fortunate to have the dedication of the good people we have. Historically, nel-ther side (administrators and union) felt very strongly about it."

Schools get high grade in survey

Amid the gloom and the doom of the American education system — where commissions proclaim a generation of semi-illiterates, test scores decline and everyone seems to be in agreement that school isn't what it used to be - there is good news in Plymouth-Canton. Elsewhere, Johnny may not be able to write a decent paragraph, and Susie may have trouble coming up with a four when she puts two and two togeth-er, but in Plymouth-Canton Community er, but in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools learning access to be right on Scudents here score well compared to their counterparts across the cou-try, teachers provide an atmosphere where the children are comfortable with their progress in relation to the other students; and, for the most part, parents are satisfied with the instruction their children receive.

That the Plymouth-Canton students outscore their counterparts nationwide was shown in results recently released of comprehensive tests taken last spring. Those in grades three, five and seven took a standard battery of tests known as the Iowa Test of Basic Skills. Those in grade 11 took the Test of Achievement and Profiency. That their parents are relatively satlafied and their teachers supportive come from questionnaires administered last spring by the district's division of instruction and its office of research and data processing.

FIRST THE test results:

e The highest level of performance was achieved by the high school juniors on the mathematics portion of their Test of Achievement and Proficiency. On this test, the national average is 11.8, meaning that the average student tested across the nation was nearly at a 12th-grade proficiency level. Yet, the average Plymouth-Canton student registered an average of 13.1, nearly a year and a half better than normal.

· In reading, the average nationwide was also 11.8 while in Plymouth-Canton the average was 12.1

· The results were nearly as dramatic on the Iowa Test of Basic Skills. In third grade, where reading and mathematics averages are 3.8 nation-wide, the Plymouth-Canton stuents averaged 4.3 and 4.2, respectively.

e In fifth grade, where the nationwide averages are 5.8 in both reading and math, the Plymouth-Canton averages were 6.4 and 6.3, respectively.

 In grade seven, where the national averages are 7.8 for reading and math, the Plymouth-Canton students managed an 8.2 and an 8.5, respective-

The Iowa test broke reading down into subcategories of vocabulary, reading and spelling and broke mathematics into subcategories of concepts, problems and computation.

In each grade, in each subcategory, the Plymouth-Canton students topped the national average by at least a third

The average performance level for sindents in the Plymouth Canton Community Schools is well above the expected levels," said Dr. Miles Homes, essistant superintentiated for tastification. "Also the thats indicate that has sindents are well prepared for this school year."

THE QUESTIONNAIRES reinforce the idea that things are going well in

The majority of elementary and middle school parents surveyed feel that both the reading and math programs are effective. Since it has been shown that those who read well in school usually enjoy reading at home, it is good news that 80 percent of the parents of children in grades three and five re-ported that they read with their chilsaid their children read for fun at

About 94 percent of the students in grades three, five and seven reported that they enjoyed reading and 70 percent of the parents are of the opinion that their children feel "good"or "very good" about reading.

About 92 percent of the students say they feel "good" or "very good" about doing their math, and 60 percent of the parents think their children feel "good" or "very good" about math.

All is not perfect in the district,

While two-thirds of the parents of elementary children felt there was enough emphasis given to math, less than half of the middle school parents felt math got enough attention. Roughly the same figures applied to the parents' view of reading. When asked "Is reading homework given enough emphasis?," about 40 percent of the elementary parents said no, while more than 61 percent of the middle school parents said it was not.

When asked to assign a grade to the job the Plymouth-Canton schools did of educating their children, 10 percent gave them an A, 48 percent a B, 32 percent a C and six percent a D.

When asked to grade the jobs the teachers did, nearly 82 percent said well above average or above average, while just over five percent rated the teachers as below average.

Originator of Fall Fest returns to town Sunday

By W.W. Edgar staff writer

"I am the luckiest fellow in the world."

Thus spoke Don Lightfoot, the Rotarian who is the originator of the annual chicken barbecue that highlights the Fall Festival.

The former resident of Plymouth who now lives in Thompsonville, Mich., comes "back home" each year to attend the barbecuing of the chicken and meet with many of the friends he has known through the years.

He was chatting about how lucky he has been by listing the trips he has made to the hospital since he retired from the vegetable stand on S. Main Street in 1974.

"The first thing," he said, "was the discovery of a cancer in my kidney. That was followed by an ulcer. Then I broke my neck and spent seven months in a cast and wound up having both of my knees replaced.

"If you don't call that lucky," he went on, "just think, I now am playing golf (not too good) and dancing. How much luckier can a fellow be?"

The broken neck was the accident about which he spoke most. "I was sawing wood with a chain saw and leaned frontwards to pick up a piece of wood. I stumbled forward and fell. I knew I was hurt. But I didn't know how serious it was.

"I just lay there for a while. Then I felt a big lump on the back of my neck. It gave me the thing I needed to raise myself. Then I called and had Mrs. Lightfoot take me to the hospi-

The doctors hawled me out plenty for not calling an ambulance. But we made it to the hospital. Then for the next seven months I was in a cast at home. And if you think that's fun, you're all wrong. It was terrible just trying to maneuver and the days and wish such a thing on anyone."

TAKING TIME out for a moment in reciting his unfortunate happenings, he smiled and then spoke up

"Next came my knees. They had been troubling me and I was advised to have them taken care of. I had both done at the same time. But I never would do that again. Yet, if I had the first one done, I never would have had the other changed. It was terrible." Here he chuckled.

"When I was able to get around again Mrs. Lightfoot, in telling of the seige, said, 'And he isn't bow-legged any more'." Since then he has suffered nothing more than the usual ailments for a man 74 years old.

ASIDE FROM telling of his experi-ences in the hospital, he likes to explain that he was raised on a family farm on Haggerty Road. In tending the boilers on the farm machinery, he took to mechanical things. When he was old enough to seek another livelihood, he became a mechanical contractor. He had been firing boilers from the time he was 15 years old and then started his own business in

Substitutes given pay increases

Substitute teachers in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools will be getting a 20-percent pay raise this year.

The school board Monday night voted to increase the pay of its substitute faculty for the 1983-84 school year from the present per diem of $33 to $40.

After substituting for more than 16.

After substituting for more than 10 consecutive days the teacher will receive $45 a day instead of the current $47. If the sub works for $1 consecutive days in or the $10 km the first than the substitute that the same than realized that Pfymouth-Canton ranked low in substitute teacher may in ranked low in substitute teacher pay in comparision with other districts in Wayne County for the past three-four years. The increase will move the dis-trict close to the mid-point, he added.

TRUSTEE TOM Yack said that the sub pay had been low in recent years because Plymouth-Canton (then a growth district) was one of the few places where a person had some chance of being hired into a regular job off the sub roster. "Yes, that's true," added Kee. "Student teaching and substitute teaching are two cases where you can end being in the right place at the right

During the last school year the district spent about $120,000 in substitute teacher costs, Kee said, and so that agreed-upon increase will cost the district an estimated additional $25,000 for the current school year.

Ray Hoedel, assistant superintendent for instruction, said the administration had anticipated increasing sub's pay, and budgeted for that increase. "We have accounted for the increase in the budget. Hopefully there is chough there, if subs are used properly."

YACK ADDED that the board had hoped to increase pay for sube last year, but felt it couldn't when regular teach. ers were taking a wage freeze. The increase this year was delayed because many employee groups still are negotiating wage increases for this year, he

Earlier in the meeting (under citizens comments), Delores Musson, a: substitute teacher from Canton, talked of low pay received by subs and complained that personnel had denied her request for a list of subs. She said it was her intent to obtain a list of subs to begin an organizing drive so substitute teachers in the district would belong to the Michigan Education Association (MEA), the state union with which Plymouth-Canton faculty are affiliat-

unions request joint bargaining

The five unions representing support personnel in Plymouth-Canton Commusity Schools have set a Friday, Sept. 38; sedline for a negotiated settlement.
At the same time, the unions asked to bergain as a single team (instead of separately) with the hoard's bargaining tasm.

The request was made during the cities comments pertions of Monday night's school heard meeting by Carries "Trav" Griffin, chief regotiator for two or three of the unions.

Employees involved are caleforia, trassportation, maintenance/castodies, secretaria, and teacher aless.

GRIPPEN NOTED Monday night that the employees in the five union groups have been working the past 12-18 months without a contract, or have been trying that long unsuccessfully to negotiate a wage re-opener.

Only on Monday had one of the unions received a written salary proprosal from the administration, Griffin added, after waiting for 18

'This is creating a serious morale problem among employees and if al-lowed to continue could have a devas-tating affect on the work force and will interfere with the many things they do

"We seed to get the students to school, feed them, seelst the teacher and answer the phone in the office," added Griffin.

They have showed a great deal of trains, but working 13-15 months thout a contract makes it very difficult to continue.

We have taken a wage freeze this past year and did our share to belp the district maintain fiscal stability," said Griffin. "To ask us to tolerate another freeze is totally inappropriate and we won't do that."

AS AN ALTERNATIVE to the preent bargaining pace, Griffin proposed that the board direct its negotiators to go to the "single-table bargaining" effective 4:15 p.m. Wednesday (yesterday).

"We'll be prepared to bargain with the board with a single team containing one representative from each unit with a single spokesman, and we'll deal with wages only."
There are about three language issues to be settled yet, said Griffin, but those can be bargained individually with single unions after money is set-

"This is one way to get us off dead center." Griffin then said the unions have set a deadline of Sept. 36 to reach agree-ment on a contract."We won't tolerate going another year without a contract. We have done our share."

ON TUESDAY the school board released the following statement:

"The Plymouth-Canton Community
School District has presented a formal settlement offer of a 3 percent increase for 1968-64 and a 8 percent increase for 1964-86 to four of our five bargain-

Services held for Hrant Aginian, 66

Hrant Aginian, 66, of Royal Oak died Sunday, Sept. 11.

A self-employed shoe repairman who owned businesses in Detroit and Warren, Mr. Aginian was born in Istanbul, Turkey. His family fled to the United States in 1923 to escape the persecution of Armenians in Turkey.

He was the father of Richard Aginian of Birmingham, president of Suburban Communications Corp., the parent company of Observer & Eccentric in America and to provide support for Newspapers.

Mr. Aginlan operated Hoffman Valet in Detroit for 30 years and later owned Paul's Shoe Repair in Warren.

Although he grew up an American, his emotional ties to the Armenians in Turkey remained. He joined the Armenian Pan-Sepastia Rehabilitation Union — an organization designed to keep old friendships and customs going

"My father was a good provider who believed in a strong family," Richard Aginian said this week. "He took an active role in his family."

He was also associated with the Boy Scouts of America for 16 years and was active in Troop No. 1625 at Franklin School in Royal Oak. He was also active at St. John's Armenian Church in Southfield.

Survivors include his wife, Virginia; three sons, Richard, Michael and Robert; a sister, Anne Aginian; and two grandchildren.

Funeral services were Wednesday at St. John's Armenian Church. Interment is in Woodlawn Cemetery.

Memorial contributions may be made to St. John's church, 22001 Northwestern, Southfield, and/or to the Henry Ford Hospital Neurological Surgery Research Fund.

Three western Wayne County legisla-tors said they will fight a Blanckard Administration proposal to sisfit a pro-posed state prison site in Northville Township one mile eastward — even if the change appears to save the state $25 million.

"From my standpoint it's worse," naid state Sen. R. Robert Geake, R-Northville, "because it moves the location to the center of the township and nearer a proposed senior citizen housing development — almost across the street"

"We went through the planning pro-cess once," said state Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth. "This was public, hearinged to death five years ago. For the state to renege on its promise and pro-posal — it's unbelievably had public re-lations."

"What bothers me," added state Rep.
Jack Kirksey, R-Livonia, who represented Northville until last year's reapportionment, "is that this plan puts the prison in a more socially sensitive place.

TWO BLANCHARD Administration officials Tuesday said they will ask the Legislature to authorize the change in the site, recommending a $10 million remodeling project at the Plymouth Center for Human Development in-stead of $35 million in new coastruc-

The plan for new construction — worked out with local officials five years ago by the Milliken Administration — would have been at Five Mile and Beck roads. It would have been the first "regional" state facility, a prototype with maximum, medium and minimum security facilities and would have housed 500 prisoners.

The location was to be between the

THE NEW proposal calls for renovating the Plymouth Center for Human Development (PCHD), a mental health facility for the retarded which is scheduled to be closed under federal court

Roberts said it would become a 500 to 800 bed medium-security facility. He added remodeling could start in spring. It would take a year less to complete compared to constructing a new facili-

The PCHD site has about 175 acres and four bounding units, a recreation building, a maintenance building, food service facility and power plants. Roberts said a new fence would be built, but no new buildings are planned.

"I WANT to see an architect's study showing it's going to be $20 million cheaper to renovate." Law said.

The first-term legislator wondered alord if the renovation plan was "a stop-gap solution to alleviate a need for space" and if the Corrections Department of the Correctio

"Detroit objected, claiming it had no room, which I thought was ridiculous and said so at the time," Geake added.

KIRKSEY SAID, "What bothers me is the state's insistence on saturating that area (Northville Township) with institutions — state police headquarters, Hawthorn Center, Northville State Hospital.

lew retail, office complex is ready to open

After an extensive six-month remo-delling, the P.M.C. Center is opening its doors at 43333 Ann Arbor Road just east of Lilley.

The building, formerly known as Linwood Auto Parts, has been completely remodelled on the outside and given a new look by its operators, The Plymouth Mortgage Co.

The interior has been remodeled to bouse four retail stores on the first floor - A.R. Kramer Carpet, Carolina Lines, Strom Computer Discount and Nora Dale's Nail and Facial Spa.

Storefronts face the east side of the parking lot, adds account executive Eugene A. LeBlanc, which is newly asphalted and landscaped.

The second floor was added to house professional office space. Each office is being sized to meet its particular tenant's specifications. Office space still is available and can be seen by ap-pointment, added Jude Ann LaBlanc of Plymouth Mortgage Co.

An entry way was added in the rear of the building to serve as the entrance to the office area. The building also will be equipped with a handicapped

"It is beautifully decorated to match the building's entire new unique look," said LeBlanc. Office space will include spaces for the P.M.C. Center, State Farm Insurance, Environmental Resource Management, and Plymouth Mortgage Co.

"During the new few months you also will see new construction on the vacant land just east of this building." said LeBlanc, "which will have an additional 13,000 square feet of retail space and 13,000 square feet of office space. This construction will complete the P.M.C. Center with buildings east, west, and south "

A.R. KRAMER CO, is a third-generation business which began in Detroit 58 years ago, has moved to Livonia, and now is opening its second location at the PMC Center.

The business carries a line of residential and commercial carpet, linele-um, wood floors, ceramic tile and area

Recent jobs done by A.R. Kramer include the Hyatt Regency Hotel in Dear-born, Renaissance Center, Ford Motor Co. World Headquarters, Manufactur-er's Bank, Michigan Bell, University of Michigan, Church of the Risen Chirst in Plymouth, St. Damian's Catholic Church in Westland, the First United

Bad judges are the exception, not the norm

THE CONVICTIONS of District Judge Evan Callanan of Westland and his attorney son for fixing court cases and defrauding by mail was one of those cases which helps reinforce the suspicion in some people's minds that the legal system is rife with charlatans, schemers, profiteers and crooks.

I think that the case, because it is such an exception, demonstrates how well off the system of justice is in our particular corner of the globe.

Except for a few memorable failures — a federal bankruptcy judge who awarded excessive fees to a lawyer friend, another District Judge in Madison Heights and former high court judge (and former governor) John Swainson — it is difficult to recall an instance of proven impropriety or profiteering involving a state judge.

Ever since the state eliminated justices of the peace and converted the lower courts into district courts under the aegis of the state, our district courts have served the public exceedingly well.

AND CIRCUIT courts in Oakland and Wayne

County have operated well under the strain of an ever-increasing workload prompted by an explosion of lawyers, lawsuits and record judgments.

While critics may contend that there have been many instances of ineptness and poor legal reasoning, there seems to be little doubt that we generally have judges of high moral and intellectual principles. And generally the attorneys who aspire to be come judges are those who have a real love for the law and a desire to see that the legal system is run fairly, effectively and judiciously.

Those who want the big dollar and the fast track tend to avoid the bench, or resign if they become too dissatisfied comparing their salary with the fees of many of the sleek-suited attorneys who appear be

JUDGES now make in the neighborhood of $60,000, which is a reasonable sum but not in the same stratum of many attorneys.

It was suggested to me after Callanan's conviction that he was not guilty of some of the things he was convicted of — including giving a light sentences in return for bribes — but may have been guilty of taking advantage of his judgeship to pick up some sorely needed pocket money. His $60,000 salary was indadequate to maintain a judge in proper style, a man about town alleged to me.

"A judge has to have a certain standard of living, he has to spend the kind of money that is expected." the man explained.

His theory has it that Callanan meted out the same sentences he would have had he not received any money but took the cash under the presumption that the defendants didn't really need it.

IN THE END, it is the public which is most responsible for seeing to it that only the most qualified candidates seek and are elected to judicial office. The public's interest may well determine whether marginal candidates need apply.

Too often, voters shows little concern about judicial candidates and tend to vote for the "name" candidate - often a name that is familiar sounding, even if the candidate's credentials and reputation are unknown.

There is a suspicion that the people who put Callanan into office were more impressed with Callanan's name and campaign than with his record, which contains a previous indictment in the '60s for activities which allegedly took place while Callanan was serving as Garden City's city attorney.

'Cockeyed archer' hits bankers where it hurts

IN POLITICS there's a technique known as the "cockeyed archer." The activist appears to be aiming at one target while actually shooting at another.

Jeanne Paluzzi, Livonia businesswoman, demonstrated the technique marvelously when testifying to a state Senate committee in favor of Gov. James J. Blanchard's proposal for a "Michigan Strategic Fund" to aid fledgling firms.

Actually, Paluzzi, speaking for the Michigan chapter of the National Association of Women Business Owners, was shooting at the banking industry. She drew blood.

HER TESTIMONY contained five war stories, all gleaned from the women business operators' net-

• "We can't include your inventory in figuring out the loan package. Cosmetics are perishables," a banker told one applicant.

• "I got a loan for a 'vacation.' The bank wouldn't loan anything for purchasing the house for

• "The commercial loan officer just put my expensively and CPA-prepared package in a drawer and said he wouldn't look at it until I brought in my 'husband. He didn't even ask if I were married.'

 "My accountant was asked all the questions, as if I weren't there. My accountant would turn to me, ask the question, and I would answer looking at the bank manager. The 'interpretation' services continued until I terminated the interview - and the entire relationship."

 "Continuous remarks that were either snide or sexually provocative made me pull my personal and business accounts. My husband pulled his, too."

THERE WERE spokesmen for the Michigan Association of Bankers and a couple of the big bank holding companies at the hearing. I waited for them

Nothing. Not a word. Their competence to manage our money had been publicly challenged, and they didn't have a word of response.

The gist of the banking industry's testimony was that all the good loans are being made, and anything they turn down can't be wery good.

It reminded me of the 19th century Oriental potentate who was visited by an American trading ship. The Oriental potentate told them to go away, saying, "We already have every product useful to mankind, and anything you have can't be very use-

The bankers' attitude is kind of a financial version of the doctrine of papal infallibility, and a faithful believer will stay in her place.

WHAT CAUSES such an attitude? Let me tell you the story of the time I sought a response from a major bank to one of the attorney general's fulmi-nations against branch banking. Referred to the appropriate vice president, I set up an interview and drove out to Bloomfield Hills to talk to him.

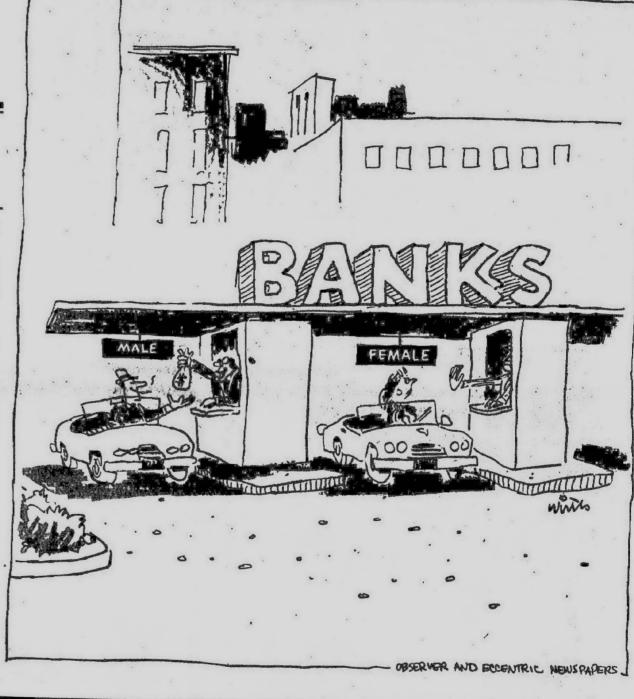

Asked the question, the VP stared blankly and intoned, "We will give the matter full considera-

What did that mean? "We will study all the options," he said with another blank stare. What are the options?

or four options? Who are "we"? How long will it take? Is a court case possible? The bank VP stared and intoned again, "We will give the matter full consideration."

And then it dawned on me: These chaps are neither conservative, sexist nor archaic in their views. They are just plain stupid. They don't respond simply because they don't know what to say.

Faced with challenges and opportunities, they stare dully ahead and wait for the husband to come

Flight from Detroit? It isn't true

PERHAPS IT always was a myth. But at one time an image existed of suburbanites running away from the city. They erected imaginary barriers at Eight Mile and Telegraph roads.

If that was ever true, it is not today. Suburbanites no longer confine their efforts to their hometowns.

An example is the "Keep the Doors Open" drive designed to head off the closing of 14 Detroit branch libraries. Two Birmingham couples, Alicia and Jere Gillette and Carrie and Ed Proctor, have launched a Campaign to raise money in the suburbs to keep Detroit libraries open.

"There should be a bind between city and the suburbs," Alicia Gillette said. "A library is just one of those wonderful things that shouldn't go down the

The Birmingham couples spent part of the Labor Day weekend addressing 600 letters to their suburban friends asking for their help.

In the letter they stated: "As metropolitan Detroiters, we are convinced that 'stacks' of suburban Sollars can have a great impact in restoring the Detroit Public Library system to its rightful place is the finest in the country."

THE STORY OF THE plight of the Detroit li-taries is well known. Basically, in June library of-icials decided to close 14 of the system's 21 ranches July 18. The move was required to make p a $1.07-million library deficit.

At that time the "Keep the Doors Open" commit-re was started. It consists of more than 20 Detroit-res commently organizations and volunteer water The California and Process have began the suburban chapter of the group.

Its goal is to raise $1 million by Saturday, Oct. 1.

Library officials have agreed to hold off on closing the libraries until that time.

Although the campaign is off to a slow start — only about $40,000 had been pledged earlier this week - the suburban couples collected $1,040 in the first three days of mail returns.

"I'm so proud of my friends and the way they have rallied behind this campaign," Alicia Gillette said earlier this week. "They really have shown that they care about people living in Detroit."

WHILE THIS campaign is going on, other suburbanites are working to save the annual Detroit

Thanksgiving Day parade.

Because of declining corporate involvement, a decision was made to cancel the parade last winter. In marched the wife of the governor, Paula Blanchard. Soon a board was formed with strong suburban participation.

ban participation.

"As far as I know the parade will be held," said the board's Carol Geis of Troy earlier this week.

Other suburbanites on the board are: Tom Adams (Bloomfield Hills), Jeanne Findlater (Southfield), Walter McCarthy (Bloomfield Hills), Sara Power (Ann Arbor), Alan Schwartz (Bloomfield Hills) and Roger Smith (Bloomfield Hills).

"As a mother, I stand with my children in the cold every Thanksgiving morning and watch the parade," Geis said. "As I look around I see other suburban friends all around me.

urban friends all around me.

"I'm a firm believer in city-suburb cooperation.
When you learn to work together, both benefit."
Alice Gillette explained the difference between city and suburbs. "The new addition to the Birmingham library brought many complaints about the design of new glass doors," Gillistic said.

"We should be thankful our library doors are open and many with these net as fortunate."

Why Tigers passed up Babe Ruth

NOW THAT the Tigers' baseball pennant hopes just about have been buried for at least another season, you'll soon be hearing the hue and cry of the fans that front office management is to blame.

They'll shout to high heaven that the owner and his lieutenants should bring in the talent that could do the job of putting Detroit in the World Series

This is not a new cry. It has been going on for years. In fact, it is how 15 years since they were in what often has been called the Fall Classic.

But in the midst of this shouting criticism, it may come as a surprise to learn that the Tigers once passed up Babe Ruth, the immortal home run king.

This shunning of the big, jovial fellow who was to become a legend in the national pastime was one of the favorite stories told by the late Frank Navin, who then was owner of the club. It happened before Ruth was signed by the New York Yankees — in fact, before Ruth became known as a slugger and outfielder.

"SURE, I PASSED up Ruth," he often told The Stroller when he was ambling along the sports trail. But I had a good reason not to take him when I had

At the time, the Tigers had a fine group of young pitchers, and Navin explained that he needed an old hand on the mound to help quick them. There was no such thing as the baseball draft is those days. Politics played a major role in patting the bushing stars. And Navin was a good pointwide.

the stroller Edgar

"I was told that the best pitchers were with the Providence team in the Eastern League," Navin said, "and I managed to get first choice. I got the advice of many fine baseball men and was told that I could have my pick."

"I picked Rube Oldham, a veteran with what appeared to be a few good years still ahead of him. And who do you think I shunned? Babe Ruth."

No doubt The Stroller was surprised, and Navin "DON'T FORGET Ruth was a rookie pitcher in those days, and we had enough young hurlers. It was the veteran I wanted."

The Tiger boss then explained it was a good break for Ruth, too. For Tiger manager Hughie Jennings may not have switched him to the outfield.

"And if that happened, there would be no legend today," Navin said.

"Boston finally took him and made an outfielder out of him, and baseball was the winner. The Babe became just what the doctor ordered after the White Sox scandal of 1919. And Oldharn did the Tigers a lot of good, too."

ON ANOTHER occasion, Navin came within a phone call of landing Ruth in later years.

At that time, Ruth was at the sed of his playing career, but was still as kiel of the fam. The Tigers needed a manager and offered the job to The Babe.

Day after day, Navin set in his office waiting for the phone call that would have closed the deal to put Ruth in a Tiger uniform.

On the day that was set for the deadline, Navin got a phone call, but it wast't wast his wanted. It was a only from one of fruits triangle telling the Tigers of the deal to a the bad and that it is a triangle to the fine had here to be a triangle to the fine had had the a triangle to the facility the results of the start of the bad had had the start of the start of sections.

The paperiose office is far from the stern, but greater numbers of offices are becoming more electronic and automated. A survey of the top 1,300 Fortune companies by Kelly Services, the Troy-based temporary office help supplier, found that 9a percent of the firms currently own some sort of word processing or data-process equipment.

At the heart of a "paperless office" is the "electric pencil," or word proces-sor. Word processing is a method of translating ideas into words. Word protranslating ideas into words. Word pro-cessors not only put words on paper but also can communicate the words by electronic equipment and sophisticated communications facilities. In essence, word processing equipment can "talk" to other similar text-editing units or large computer systems.

BASICALLY, a word processor is a computerized system programmed for rapid, efficient production and editing of letters, memos, reports, business re-cords or other documents. The hardware used at a word processing work station includes a keyboard, video display, memory storage on magnetic tapes or diskettes, and a high-speed printer.

Word processing systems are available in a wide variety of configurations

There comes a time in your life when you have to go out on your own. That's what Michigan Bell will be doing in January of next year, when we separate from AT&T and become a part of Ameritech, a new holding company for five midwest communications companies which include Illinois Bell, Indiana Bell, Michigan Bell, Ohio Bell and Wisconsin Telephone.

Frankly, a change like that could be unsettling, but we welcome the challenges it presents and the opportunities it provides to serve you even better. We've had time to think about it, to plan for it, to make sure that when you pick up your phone on January 1, 1984, you'll make those calls just as you always have. And you'll get the same reliable Michigan Bell service you've come to expect over the years.

Sure, there'll be some changes, but nothing we can't easily handle together. For instance, AT&T will be leasing you the phones Michigan Bell now provides you for a monthly fee. You may continue to lease them if you wish, or you may buy your own. The choice is yours.

There could be some changes in how your telephone repair needs are met...depending upon whether the problem is with the service or the equipment. Not a big thing for the most part, except for the possibility of new phone numbers to call if you need help.

You may notice one change right off... extra pages in your phone bill. That would be the result of your getting more billing information than you're used to seeing.

As we said, changes and choices...some now, some later... but nothing you can't take in stride with a little assistance. That's where we come in.

In the weeks ahead we'll be keeping you up to date with more detailed information on the changes as they take place. We mean to make this transition as easy for you as possible because we want to be on the best of terms. with you for a long, long time. After all...

IT'S AT&T WE'RE SEPARATING FROM... NOT YOU.

Facts down the line.

Because your telephone business office is busily engaged in normal, day-to-day telephone service matters, we are providing this toll-free number as a source for answers to the questions you may have about your changing telephone company. We also suggest that you watch for our informational messages in your newspapers and in your monthly telephone bills. 1800 555-5000

ERNIE KOI was guest of honor Friday night at a party arranged by the Passage-Gayde Post of the American Legion. The occasion was Ernie's retirement after 14 years with the American Legion Passage of Michigan. Legion Department of Michigar Veterans Affairs, Detroit office. About 100 people turned out for the dinner and presentations in Divine Savior Church Hall

Ernie joined Passage-Gayde post in 1953. He and his wife, Dottie, were in the service when they were married in Colorado Springs, Colo. during World War II. He is finance officer for the local post.

Bill Nicholas was master of ceremonies for the party. Bill prompted a good deal of reminiscing and introduced those who had come to honor Ernie. Milton Lobstein, state commander of the American Legion, made a presentation. State lawmakers on hand for event were Sen. Robert Geake and Reps. Jerry Law and Ed Mahalak.

The Veterans Administration was represented by the adjutant, chaplain, finance officer and a past state commander, all of whom wished Ernie well in his retirement.

JOHNNY Crosby and Jessie Hudson have works on display in the Ann Arbor Women Painters Association fall show. Another Plymouth artist, Betty Manthey, received an honorable mention for her "Primrose of Spring," in gouache. Gouache, I discovered, is an opaque watercolor medium.

All three are members of the Ann Arbor Women Painters Association. The paintings will be on display in the Rackham Galleries, E. Washington Street, Ann Arbor through Oct. 7. Gallery hours are 19 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Friday and 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

THE VILLAGE of Romeo will be the site of the 30th annual international tea of the Michigan Division Woman's National Farm & Garden Association. The actual tea, noon to 4 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 21, will be in the United Methodist Church dining hall.

Several historic homes, churches and other buildings of interest will visit. There will be a quilt show in the Masonic Temple, which is under Grey's Opera House, free rides in an antique carriage along Church Street, and music provided by Romeo shools choirs.

Branches in the state were given awards at the end of the 1982-83 season for achievements in various projects. Local clubs receiving awards were: Trailwood, firsts in civic improvement and international cooperation, seconds in borticulture and rural urban, and a third in horticultural therapy, for Group A.

In Group B, Tonquish Creek came in first for newsletter, second in civic improvement, horticulture. and yearbooks, and third in rural urban.

The Plymouth branch, which is in Group D, earned seconds in civic improvement and extension, and a third in horticulture and education.

The Lake Pointe Village branch received a second in rural urban and a third in conservation and ecology.

More than 2,000 people visited the museum Saturday and Sunday with 1,200 visitors on Sunday.

JOE BIDA, former mayor of the city of Plymouth, was in town for the Fall Festival. Jos said, "You don't really appreciate this town until you live somewhere else. Thousands flock to view artists', craftsmen's works

More than 8,000 people attended the two-day artist and craftsman show last weekend in Central Middle School. The Plymouth Community Arts Council's annual show traditionally attracts thou-sands of visitors on the Saturday and Sunday of Plymouth Fall Festival. Market master Doris Chatterly said that Sunday "was the best yet."

She said all the artists seemed pleased with the turnout. Many of the 80 artists in the show are regulars and attract their own fans. Among these is Mary Beth Baxter who does just two shows a year, the Plymouth show and the Tivoli in Northville. Customers literally beat a path to her booth to buy her tole painting. year and the three or four craftsman in the show did well.

Arts council members involved in the show noted that the toy people always attract customers and the photographer's work sold well at this show.

The public hospitality room, new this year, proved to be a popular spot for visitors to the show. They had a cool place to rest for awhile and enjoy a cold drink of McDonald's orange. The PCAC also had an opportunity to display the projects and the things it does in the commu-

Andrew Johnson Day proclaimed

Mionday, Sept. 12, was declared Andrew Johnson Day in Canton, in honor of the hirthday of one of Canton's old-

of the hirthday of one of Canton's oldest, yet nevest, residents. This was so declared because of our pride in the father of Barbara Fuerst, a Canton resident, and the reason the now-retired public servant lives here.

Actually, Andrew Johnson was born in Grand Rapids in 1888. That's not a misprint, folks; it should read a one, followed by three eights. Mr. Johnson was one of five children in his family and has become, a mere 95 years later, a matter of pride to all who know him. Thus our state Sen. Robert Gaske, along with our Supervisor James Poole, came to honor hir. Johnson at a special presentation in the Canton Historical hisseum last Thursday.

I'll fry to give you a brief rundown of some of his accomplishments. He was a some of his accomplishments. He was a newspaper publisher and editor in Beu-lah, Mich., of the Benzie Record, a posilah, Elch., of the Bennie Record, a position he held for a memorable 35 years.

That's not the reason they gave him the awards. For, in addition to this job, he served his community left and right. He was Benzie County Republican chairman for 18 years, a member of the State Fair Board for six years, appointed by former Governor Fitzgerald in the late '30s. And did I mention your usual this and that positions like councilman, village president, all the way to state representative in the early '40s for the Benzie-Wexford area near Traverse City? As a matter of fact, he Traverse City? As a matter of fact, be was state representative when our former Governor Milliken's father was a senator. He remembers sharing rides with Senator Milliken because, due to the war that was on at that time, we seemed to have a shortage of you know what - gasoline.

They tell me that one of the things he remembers most fondly was the time he decided to take a cruise around the world, and away he went for a four-month fantasy. Now sometimes, we may rush into taking that dream cruise before it's too late. But he waited and boarded the U.S.S. Oriskany after what would be retirement age for you and me. And that cruise happened 26 years

While on the cruise, he continued to write a blow-by-blow, or perhaps better put, a glow-by-glow report of his adventures for the Grand Rapids Herald. A travel piece, naturally.

Last but not least, on this very abbreviated list, are his five children who are now as big a source of pride to him as he has always been to them.

Barbara Fuerst, who lives in Canton with her husband, Rodger, is a teacher in Wayne-Westland Schools; her sister Bea Noye, now retired from Cadillac Michigan Channel 9 TV, lives in Traverse City. She still keeps her hand in writing for the Traverse City paper, (just like her father, she keeps on going). Son Loren, lives in Brea, Calif., and works for Xerox; David, or Dr. David Johnson, is superintendent of schools in Howell, Mich., and Irving,

And so they gathered in Canton to honor and praise him for all the things that make men great - and then some. that make men great — and then some. Senator Geake gave him a plaque from the state of Michigan in appreciation of service. Supervisor Poole gave him a plaque declaring his birthday — Monday, Sept. 12, — Andrew Johnson Day to acknowledge our pride in having him as a resident of Canton after a long history of past service to the people of Michigan.

Congratulations, Mr. Johnson, a very happy birthday and many more.

HAVE YOUR HEARD about the 1,794 people who entered the annual Detroit News "hole-in-one" contest?

Well, our very own Mike Lucas was one of them, and, to our pride, Mike came in fourth. Actually, Mike was in second place after the first day of competition, but got eased over on Thursday to finish a very respectable fourth.

To enter the contest, you must have shot a hole-in-one sometime, somewhere. It doesn't matter how long ago, or where, just so long as it is on record. Mike's shot was only 3 feet, 1 inch from the hole. This isn't too bad considering the winner made the first hole-in-one shot in the contest in the last 20 years. It was the fifth since the contest began

The winner, Jim Grams from our neighboring Livonia, was the second person to test his skill in this year's competition. The winning swing was on the 142-yard 15th hole at Rogell Golf Course, and a 5-iron did the magic. Mike tells me he kes been golfing since he was 25, but he's not going to say any more other than he is older now. Mike golfs every Sunday in a group of eight at our Canton golf course, Fellgws Creek. Now he doesn't want to mislead anyone, but Mike was born in Watersloo, lows, and soot his first hole in one in lows, and got his first hole in one in Waterloo, Mich.

Hmmmmm ... very interesting. Does anyone know where there is an-other Highland Park? Of course, there is still the matter of me learning to

Before I leave the Lucas family, may I add a big congratulations to Connie Lucas. The talented wife of Mike, after recently joining the Ann Arbor Wom-en's Painters Group, had three of her watercolors accepted for an exhibition at Rackham Galleries. She has just been notified that one of them has won been notified that one of them has won an honorable mention. Our warmest congratulations, Connie. This is not the first award for Connie in her 15 years as a painter. You can see her work at the Detroit Institute of Arts Rental Gallery, the Farmington Library Rent-al Gallery, or the exhibit at Rackham Galleries through Friday, Oct. 7.

THE CANTON Rotary Club promises a stimulating luncheon meeting Monday at the Roman Forum. Guest speaker will be William Lucas, Wayne County executive, who will discuss Wayne County General Hospital — and perhaps we can get facts instead of rumors. Rotary invites anyone interested to attend. Call Richard Thomas 453-9191 for information. Please don't sit and mumble when you have a chance to stand and be counted.

ntiquers gather for mart

Members of the Plymouth Symphony League wrapped up their 21st annual antique mart Sunday night as 22 dealers moved out of the Plymouth Cultural Center. The dealers did not have many massive pieces of furniture to take home - a sure sign of a success-

Gioria Siegert sold her old Hoosier kitchen cabinet. Another dealer sold one just 10 minutes before closing time Sunday. Dealers said they were impressed with the way co-chairwomen Carol Davis and Elaine Kirchgatter and their committees ran the show. They were impressed with the publicity the show received and said they loved the meals provided by Patricia Davenport, Rose Condit and their committee.

The pecan and fruit pies received rave reviews from the dealers.

Saturday was the big day attendance-wise and Sunday's was over last year's record.

BASKETS were a popular item this year. One unusual old basket sold for $250. A visitor from Arizona paid $500 for a paper weight.

There was general agreement that Avery's Quality Antiques of Jackson, with its Heisey glass, china and furni-ture, was a fine addition to the show.

Many visitors were looking for quilts. Carl Bishop, expert on quilts and author of books about quilts, attended the show. He was in the area for the big quilt show at Meadow Brook Hall."

Dealers noted that walnut and cherry seem to be coming into their own again, although oak still holds a facination for the younger generation.

Dealers remarked that they liked the people who came to the show. So the three-day mart ended on a note of mu-

Here's how the bonus interest plan works for you:

Assuming that the above rates remain in effect for a complete statement period, if your average daily balance during your monthly statement period is $35,750.00, you'll earn 9% per year on the first $25,000.00 and 9.25% per year on the additional $10,750.00.

If your average daily balance during your monthly statement period is $65,625.00, you'll earn 9% per year on the first $25,000.00, 9.25% per year on the next $25,000.00 and 9.50% on the last $15,625.00.

If the average daily balance (the sum of the daily balances divided by the number of days in the monthly statement period) goes below $2,500.00 during a monthly statement period, interest will be paid at the rate of 51/4% per year for that month.

When it came time for the Livonia Family Y to publicize its fell program for students in kindergarten to third grade, some unexpected help surfaced. It came from Kimcraft Printers of Livonia. The result was colorful as well as helpful. And it didn't look like your traditional fiyer either. instead, it was a card of colorful decals that peel off the back of an informational card describing all the programs the Y offers in strengthening family ties. One of the decais sake, "Have you hugged your per-ents today?" That gave Y indian guide Mark Weglenka (left) and Indian Guide maiden Susan Bons an idea on how to convey the Y's thanks to Kimcraft owners Evelyn and Athur Kletzka fon being heap good friends.

The fifth worst air tragedy in history in the destruction of a Korean airliner invites extended reflection. Sorrow over the lost of lives creates fear in renewed awareness that innocence doesn't give safety.

People have always been vulnerable to uncivilized behavior. Advanced technology exposes more of us to better equipped beastiality. Of course we are afraid.

We are horrified that 269 people can become simply a target. Soviets are ex-plained as going by the book — protec-tion, defense and security becoming an excuse for destroying any introder. The inhumanity of a government focused on violent power is exposed.

Fear and horror come from something much more profound than capi-talism in conflict with communism. Economic systems are merely economic systems.

BOTH HAVE been distorted for the gains of a few, and both have failed to meet the needs of masses of citizens. Either system can be a tool of military power. We have seen capitalism at its worst in Nazi Germany and commu-nism at its worst in Stalinist Russia. The laure is between humanc and in-heirarchical or pyramid structures.

Organizations are typically structured with power spreading down from a narrow tip in widening lines of authority. A pyramid of decreasing power means decreasing responsibility.

It is an efficient system saving time by unthinking obedience. It is an essential structure when the enemy is viewed as another pyramid. When violent power settles things we need to build strength.

It is sany to assume this is the way

It is easy to assume this is the way things have to be in government, daily work and even in family life. Calid abuse is one symptom of the disease characteristic of a pyramid.

SINCE THE time of Moses groups have offered an alternative. Justice makes democracy more into an image makes democracy more into an image of a circle than a pyramid. Top values are personal responsibility and fraction instead of violence and efficiency. Power is in beauty rather than precision. Truth displaces party like propagands. Dignity displaces obedience.

The best known literature describing the circle is Psalm 8. Humans are proclaimed partners and co-creators who like God are crowned with glory and bosov.

Dominios means special leman responsibility for the good of everything. The pyramid collapses into a cincia where each human bears responsibility for personal decisions.

Our challenge is to stop being beary and stop bearinans in others by no lenger deferring as if another is responsible for my actions. The power of persuation is the only finally lemants power.

We have dignity when we give dignity. We are noble when we assesse others are noble. We are free only when we help others be ise free. We have prever when we respect others by sharing power.

O&E Thursday, September 15, 1983 Formula plans help you buy low and sell high

Will Rogers once said: "Buy stocks. Sell them when they go up. If they don't go up, don't buy them."

Most of us would like to buy low and sell high. However, that's easier said than done. The next best thing to do is to adopt a Formula Plan, which has two variants.

DOLLAR-COST AVERAGING

This plan calls for you to invest a fixed amount in selected securities at regular intervals - monthly, quarterly or annually.

Fox example, instead of investing $5,000 in a mutual fund of your choice, you may invest in it $100 at the beginning of each month for 50 months and keep the rest of the money in a money market fund.

This approach would average out the fluctuations in the price of that mutual fund. You sacrifice the chance to get in when the shares hit their lows, but the whole idea is to cut the timing risks for a long-term investment program.

The principles of dollar-cost averaging are the same for individual stocks as for mutual funds; however, there are significant differences between them.

First, it is usually impossible to deal in round numbers for each of your purchases because you usually cannot buy fractional shares of individual stocks.

Second, small purchases can accumulate high commission costs and may be self defeating. So as a dollar-cost averaging investor in an individual stock, you should think in terms of larger purchases. Also, it is best to buy solid is-

finances and you

RATIO PLANS

Another popular formula plan entails maintaining a specified ratio among the different types of securities in your portfolio. For example, suppose you divide the value of your holdings 50-50 between growth stocks and high-rated bonds. If your stocks rise while the bonds hold steady or fall, the formula directs you to sell some stocks and buy some bonds in order to maintain the 50-

The objective of a ratio plan is to smooth results by capitalizing on the gains and minimizing the losses over the course of the market cycle. Ratio plans require orderly buying and sell-ing and periodic adjustments to main-tain the ratio.

Theoretically, if you manage your portfolio properly, you enhance your chances of buying low and selling high.

There are three basic ratio plans; namely, Constant Dollar Ratio, Constant Ratio and Variable Ratio.

· CONSTANT DOLLAR RATIO. This plan is designed to maintain a par-ticular dollar volume of a security in-stead of a proportion in the total port-

When the issue rises in price, as a constant-dollar investor you would take profits and invest them elsewhere. If the shares fall, you would buy more to bring the holding back to its original

· CONSTANT RATIO PLAN. In this plan, the main consideration is the reli-ative weight of the value of the security ties in your portfolio. For example, suppose you put $5,000 in a growth-oriented mutual fund and $2,500 in top grade bonds. Periodically you compare

If the funds have risen faster than the bonds, you sell some shares to hold the 2:1 ratio. If the funds have fallen you add to your position and await a

The idea is to regard a variable trend as a chance to buy, thus reducing your overall average cost per share in

Look to Huron for coho

Most improved cobo salmon fishing spot this year is Lake Huron along the Thumb, which is good news for fuel-conscious southeastern Michigan an-

The first mature schools of the large chinook salmon are returning to Port Sanilac and Port Aus-tin for fall spawning runs, according to the Auto-mobile Club of Michigan.

And there's good news for the future. This year's planting of 200,000 steelhead and brown trout, more than a million lake trout and 100,000 coho salmon will mean excellent fishing action in two or

Generally, 1983 could rank as one of the two best Great Lakes salmon fishing seasons during the next two months as two million coho and chinook salmon school for spawning runs up 44 rivers, bays and lakes, says the Auto club. Nearly 300,000 anglers will be out in boats, on piers, along shorelines or in streams in this, the 16th season of salmon fishing.

Jerry L. Lee of Livonia won $150 in the Reel People Salmon Derby with a salmon just an ounce under 29 pounds. Top fish of the week was a 32-pounder, according to the Ludington Chamber of

Salmon fishing started as a fall activity but has become a spring-to-fall sport as anglers take to large boats and deep-water trolling methods during spring and summer. Salmon are born in streams, migrate to the Great Lakes to grow to maturity, return to the stream to spawn once, age almost overnight, and then die. They're better tasting and take bait more readily in the open water, but they are more accessible to shore fishermen and those with small boats when they're on the spawning run.

Chinooks spend three to six years in the lakes, growing to 35 pounds. Coho stay in the lakes 1/4 years and can grow to 15 pounds.

Over Lake Michigan way, a better-than-normal salmon run is expected on the St. Joseph River up to Berrien Springs and on the Grand River up to

Among the more popular lures are Northport Nailers, Huron Herrings, J-Plugs, Canadian plugs, Squids, Sparkle Flies, dodgers, Flutter Churcks and

Warning: Although contaminants in the Great Lakes are declining, the state Public Health Department continues to advise eating no more than one-half pound of Lakes Huron and Michigan salmon per week. Children and women who are pregnant or nursing should not eat those salmon at all.

FAIR TO GOOD fishing is being reported on in-land waters of Oakland County after the heat of summer drove fish into deep water. The Detroit River and Lake Erie are producing little at the

On Union Lake, try using a lantern at night off the side of the boat and baiting with corn to lure trout. Some anglers are taking limit catches of trout from Maceday Lake in the northwest part of the county.

Good bass fishing is reported at Sylvan, Lakeville and Big Seven lakes.

Kent Lake is producing good crappie supplies. The small lakes in Bald Mountain Recreation Area are yielding panfish to anglers using grasshoppers. Nighttime anglers on Pontiac Lake are using crawlers to take good catches of catfish.

"EDIBLE WILD Plants, Plus" is a short workshop being offered four Wednesdays, starting Sept.

To the victors go the spoils

T'S ALWAYS the same. A scene forever described but never really changing only the characters are different.

Their looks aren't. Disappointed, angry, shellshocked faces in a locker room as quiet as a library. The only discernable conversation comes from players quietly asking a trainer for a towel as they emerge from steamy showers.

ACROSS THE TUNNEL a different scene unfolds. The coach explains his game plan, his views on several players' performances, the key part of the contest to a flock of reporters crammed into a small, stuffily hot equipment room transformed into an interview area.

While the coach describes his images of the just completed gridiron battle, a TV crew hustles the star quarterback into a corner for a quick word on his performance, key parts of the game, etc., etc.

The quarterback grins broadly while recounting the plays, both the ones that worked and the ones

GARY HUMPHREY had finished his shower and redressed in sportcoat and tie. Sweat still dripped from his face as he stood in the uncomfortably muggy locker room.

He didn't look happy. The losers never are. The team he coached, Colorado, just lost to Michigan State, 23-17, in temperatures ranging in the upper

"It was a tough game," the former Garden City football coach said after stepping out of Colorado's quarters into the breezy tunnel. "I thought we looked pretty good."

They did - for awhile. A 35-yard field goal in the third quarter put the Buffaloes ahead of the home team, 10-5. It was a lead they couldn't hold through the fourth quarter.

That was why Humphrey, the team's running backs coach, didn't look happy.

GEORGE PERLES didn't look happy, either, standing in front of the blaring TV lights, wiping his brow with a towel. The heat played no favorites, plaguing the winners and losers alike. But for Perles and his team, the discomfort was easier to

"We could have come apart at the seams there, but we held together," Perles said of a stretch during the third quarter when it seemed the Spartans were destined for doom.

Quarterback Dave Yarema's bobble of a snap at the Colorado two could have cost MSU. After the mistake, neither coach nor quarterba

"Man, that hurt, that really hurt," Perles said. "That's one thing about Dave. A lot of times, a player might blame it on someone else. He just said, 'Don't worry coach, we'll get it back.'

YAREMA COULDN'T hear what his coach was saying about him. But he mimmicked him closely when asked what Perles said after the fumble.

"He really didn't say anything," the Birmingham Brother Rice graduate said. "I just told him we'd get it back. Stuff like that, you can't let it get you down. You got to forget it. I just try to keep a smile on my face." He earned high marks for smile execution. It never left his face, that boyish victory grin. If he felt pressure as a sophomore starting at quarterback for a major college football team, be never showed it, on or off the field. A 15-for-23 passing performance on the field, and the way he handled questions off of it, confirmed that.

It wasn't an easy day, by any means. "Man, I was running for my life out there," he admitted, as Colorado's blitzing defense pressured. "You've got to be mentally prepared for everything.

"When they're after you, you got to make something happen."

Which he did, quite successfully. WHAT HAPPENED in that final quarter didn't please Humphrey. It was no way for him to start his collegiate coaching career, however long its Humphrey was recruited to coach Colorado's running backs by head coach Bill McCartney after Sam Sample resigned. McCartney, the former Michigan assistant, knew Humphrey from his coaching days at Dearborn Divine Child.

"It's a faster track," Humphrey said, comparing collegiate and prep coaching. "The kids are basically the same, just bigger and faster.
"It's really interesting — a lot of fun and a lot of

Humphrey took a one-year sabbatical after 23 years of teaching in Garden City because he wanted a change. I was getting a lot of heat at Garden City. "I just needed a change." The switch was prompted by the combining of Garden City's East and West high schools a year ago. Trying to blend two formerly rival teams into one proved a difficult task. That is why Humphrey headed west.

He'll be back, he says. "It would be hard to afford to stay," he admitted. His wife and family are still in Michigan.

THE CHALLENGE for this year remains intact for Humphrey; help mold the Buffaloss, now 1-1 for the season, into a winner. No easy job, considering it will last just one season. But that's the task, nonetheless.

Yaresta's position is much the seine. Paries' PS has MSU backers expecting hig things of the Spartans. But they'll go nowhere without a solid ecason from their quarterback.

Canton's Linda Sarafian hits a two-handed backhand at her opponent Monday. Despite a nasty cold, stiff wind and stiff competition, Sarafian won, 6-1, 6-4.

Salem cagers win third straight game

It was a close game for Salem. But, then again, it really wasn't.

Say what? Plymouth Salem won its third straight basketball game of the season Tuesday, downing a fiesty Redford Union team, 42-36, at RU.

"It was a hard-fought, rugged kind of game," said Salem coach Fred Thomann, "But, no, it wasn't really close."

The Rocks rolled to a 28-17 halftime advantage and maintained a nine-point margin most of the game. RU closed to within a half-dozen, thanks to some poor free throw shooting by Salem down the stretch.

Only six of 19 shots from the foul line fell through for the Rocks in the fourth quarter, as they suffered through a dismal nine-for-20 performance for the Terri Lesniak came off the bench to lead Salem's scorers with seven points. Fran Whittaker and Dawn Johnson each contributed six.

Salem's sharp perimeter shooting -13-for-25 in the 15-17 foot range helped the team take control in the

Some pressure defense in the third quarter went a long way for Plymouth

basketball

Canton Tuesday as the Chiefs won for the first time in three outings in a Western Lakes game played at Canton.
The contest was utill up for grabs at the half, with the Chiefs clinging to a 15-12 lead. Defense helped Canton outpoint Northville, 15-6, in the third quarter to ensure the victory.

In the third quarter, Canton committed "fewer turnovers," said coach Phyllis Cunningham-Mulroy, adding that it "was a real sloppy game on our part. We shot only 33 percent."

Sophomore forward Diana Knickerbocker poured in 14 points and grabbed 12 rebounds for the winners. Marie Krashovetz added eight points and five rebounds. Nancy Gray sparked the defense and contributed four points and nine rebounds.

Kathy Korowin led Northville scorers with seven points.

Mulroy got some good news to go with the win: Tammy Budiong has recovered from a sprained ankle and returned to the lineup. Guard Lou Ann Hamblin, however, has a chipped bone in her ankle. She is not expected back for one or two weeks.

Canton's 7-0 victory is not without drama

By Chris McCosky staff writer

The final score of the match was Plymouth Canton, 7, Farmington High School, 0. But that doesn't come close to telling the story.

To be sure, it was a one-sided affair for the most part. Some of the Canton victories were so one-sided that the winners felt as bad as the losers they felt guilty for beating them so badly.

Canton's third doubles team, seniors Renee Zens and Angela Kocik, didn't yield a game to their Farmington opponents, sophomores Colleen McKee and Liss Schwab, in two sets.

Nor did Canton's fourth singles player, Julie Sparks, yield a game to Farmington's Sandy Goerke Missy Lloyd, in number-three singles, overpowered her Farmington opponent, freshman Julie

IN NUMBER TWO doubles, Nancy Rinehardt and Ping Chau defeated Farmington's Nancy Penny and Marla Teichner, 6-1, 6-1. And Canton's number one doubles duo, Kristen Smith and Kelly Craig had a relatively easy time with Kathy Korybalski and Jenny Ferry.

Amazingly, despite the obvious route, the match between Canton and Farmington last Monday had moments of pure drama that can only be produced by athletic competiton.

The number one and two singles matches were both hard-fought and exciting contests. The players were battling, not only each other, but mother na-ture as well. A stiff autumnal breeze was blowing from the north, playing havoc with serves and volleys.

Linda Sarafian, Canton's number one singles player, playing with a nasty cold, whipped Farmington's Lealie Lawrence rather handily, 6-1, in the first set. Then Lawrence got tough.

She confused Sarafian with her aggressive net play. Sarafian would hit a deep volley, Lawrence would return it and charge the net. On several points, Safarian would try to lob volleys over Lawrence's head, each time Lawrence would smash overheads for winners.

POINTS WHICH LASTED maybe 14 second After long rallies or especially deft shots, the girls would congratulate each other. It was good tennis.

The score got to 4-4 in the second set. At that point, either Lawrence tired, or Sarafian grew stronger and Sarafian woo, 6-4.

The last varsity match, still in progress, was in number-two singles. Canton's sophomore sensation Lisa Hays and Farmington junior Karen McWilliam were having at it. McWilliam normally plays number-three singles, but she was pushed up by the absence of Jill Anderson.

Like in number-one singles, the Canton player d through the first set, this time 6-0, but the relentless Farmington player, this time it was McWilliam, came charging back.

With the rest of both teams watching, McWilliam forced Hays into a tie-breaker. It was a strange match. Until reaching the tie-breaker, both players were aggressive, charging the net and taking risks trying to score points.

THEIR TACTICS CHANGED dramatically when they reached 5-6 in the second set. Suddenly, they became cautious, standing at the baseline whacking deep volleys back and forth. Instead of trying to force mistakes, they waited for them to happen.

Hays evenually outlasted McWilliam, but not before they treated the onlookers to some suspenseful tennis. The score in the tie-breaker was 8-6.

"Karen got back into the match by taking the net away," said Harrison coach Ellen Zanke. "But, in the tie-breaker she was afraid to come to the net. She has never been in that situation before. There was a lot of pressure on her. She has been a very pleasant surprise for us."

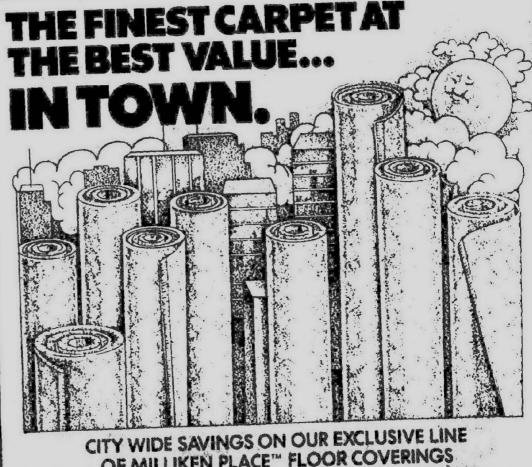

ZANKE SAID she was not upset by the 7-0 loss. We stress trying. We never condone giving up," said Zanke. "If our girls have done the best they can possibly do, then I can't ask for anything more.

There will be no tears. They are too young to get ulcers from tennis. What is important is to go out, play and have fun," she said.

Canton is out to shed its 'weak sister' image

By Chris McCoeky staff writer

The not fun being thought of as a weak sister. Just ask Plymouth Canton sootball coach Richard Barr.

Year after year, Plymouth Salem has had winning football tears while Canton has never won more than it has jost in a season. Last year, in fact, they equaled their best win-loss record ever, 4-5. Salem was 8-1.

Barr and his Chiefs will be out to shed their weak-sister image this Friday when they battle Salem for bragging rights in the city of Plymouth.

It's not going to be easy for them.

The Rocks are coming off an impressive, and most surprising, victory against a highly touted North Farmington team, 12-7.

"YOU WOULD HAVE to be crasy to pick us last week," Salem coach Tom Moshimer said, letting all the errant prognosticators off the book. "We weren't at all set. Our only experienced lineman (Chris Hymes) was hurt. I didn't know how good we were going to

They were plenty good, especially the offensive and defensive lines termed affectionately by Moshimer as

"Oh, they are huge, alright," said Moshimer, tongue implanted deeply in

Introducing, the Salem smarfs: Pat Walsh, 6-foot-1, 155 pounds; David Bunch, 8-10, 185; John Nichols, 5-9, 163; Paul Smallwood, 5-8, 155; George Kon-dash, 5-5, 145; Mark Stanton, 5-9, 170; Randy Blaylock, 5-9, 180; Kevin Rilley, 6-1, 185; and the giants, Scott Flynn, 6-0, 205; and Rusty Watson, 6-2, 210.

The reason for the smurfs' effectiveness last week, Moshimer said, was they were quicker and more aggressive than North.

"When you are as small as we are, you damned-well better be quick and aggressive," he said.

CANTON WILL HAVE a slight size advantage on the line with Paul Fletcher, Doug Chilcoff, Ryan Glass and Jim Malson all at or over 200 pounds. Malson, according to the Chiefs' program, is 6-5, 270. Both Malson and Glass only played part time last week.

Canton enters the game with an awful lot to prove. Many experts agree that the Chiefs are a better team than they showed last Friday in their 21-7 loss to Bentley. One of those experts is

"Hey, Canton is not as bad as they appeared. We saw them in the preseason scrimmage and they looked awfully tough. A lot of people tend to think of them as our little sister. Well, that's just not true. They have got something going for them. If they beat us, it will make their season," he said.

After last week's loss, Barr talked about how his team lacked intensity in the opener. That, he said, shouldn't be a problem Friday night.

"This game is slowly but surely becoming an arch rivalry," Barr said.
"We'll be up for it. It's a pride thing. They have always been on the top and we've been on the bottom. I know what that feeling is like, being over there (Salem) for so long. I want to win. I think it would be great."

BARR COACHED UNDER Moshimer at Salem from 1972 to 1978. Both coaches, however, play down the teacher-student aspect of the game. "I don't want to get into that. They do some things that we do, in fact, one of their most successful plays is one we used effectively here for a long time—the fullback off-tackle," Moshimer

The fullback off tackle play is one that Moshimer said his team must stop to control Canton. Canton's big fullback Rodney Williams, stopped on just 39 yards last week, is a key to the Chiefs'

On defense, Canton must contain Sa-lem's wishbone. Against North, quart-erback Mark Tindall and fullback Scott Jurek combined for 146 yards.

"We are going to have to stop the option," Barr said. "We have to make them do something they don't normally

Like pass the ball. Salem threw just eight passes last week.

"THEY'LL PROBABLY use an eight-man front against m. That'll be something we don't usually see. We're used to blocking against five-man fronts. That may be as advantage for them," Moshimer said.

He added that he wouldn't besitate to put the ball up. "Hey, we love to throw. Maybe against an eight-man front, we will throw," he said.

Technically, the game is just a non-league contest. But, to the players and the coaches, it's probably the game of the year.

Game time is 7:30, Friday night at Centennial Educational Park.

Harrison puts end to Novi domination

special writer

It took awhile - four years to be exact - but Farmington Harrison finally knocked off Novi, 6-2, in a soccer game Tuesday at Novi.

Wasim Bahoura paced the Hawk victory offensively, collecting two goals and two assists. John Sepetys added two goals and Mike Rosenthal and Paul Taylor contributed one Harrison, now 1-1 for the season, outshot Novi by a 28-7 margin.

> NORTHVILLE 2 CANTON 1

It was a tough way for Plymouth Canton to open its home season Tuesday, with a tight one-goal defeat that dropped the Chiefs to 1-1.

Tom Wright notched the only Canton goal on an assist from Steve Morell. Northville outshot Canton, 8-5. David Hawkins was in the net for the Chiefs

> STEVENSON 7 FARMINGTON 0

Livonia Stevenson cooled off the previously unbeaten Falcons Tuesday in a Western Lakes soccer match at Farmington.

The defending state Class A champs notched their 25th straight victory and third this season thanks to John Gelmisi's three goals and the ball control efforts of defenders Dan Divens and Chris Gembis.

The Spartans, who enjoyed a 5-0 halftime lead, also got two goals from Eric Pence, and one each from Chris Wiegel and Tom Strach.

Goalie Terry Harshfield turned in the shutout.

Farmington, now 2-1-1, played minus two starters. Mario Said sat out with an illness, while John Gregory was benched after receiving a red card for fighting in a previous game.

> LIVONIA BENTLEY 8 N.FARMINGTON 0

The Bulldogs (2-0-1) rolled to their second win Tuesday as Bill Rowan scored a pair of goals at Bentley.

Other Bentley goal scorers included Brian Schonfeld, Tony Pulice, Pete Lomas, Dennis Patchett, Torin Gniewak and Jim Radeback.

Goalie Jeff Wilkinson played 63 minutes and had to make just three saves. Richie Gregory finished up.

CATHOLIC CENTRAL 8 BISHOP GALLAGHER 1

Junior Andy Rama and senior Tom Cornille combined for four first-half goals as the Shamrocks romped to an easy win Tuesday at Redford's Bell Creek Park.

CC, now 3-0 overall, also got two goals from John Rehm and one each by Brian Raftery and Mark Helinski. C.J. Wendt also added two assists. Bob Sinnaeve, the winning goalie, assisted on the game's first goal. CC outshot the visitors, 38-6.

On Saturday, Rama scored four times and drew an assist in a 7-1 win over visiting Traverse City.

By Chris McCauky

T WAS A glorieus moment for friends and fame of Ptymouth football.

Less than two mis the game, down 15-12. Fourth down and seven at the 2-yard line. No time-

The quarterback drops back to pease, looks into the end sone and everyone is covered. He rolls right, Still nobody open and the defence closes is. The quarterback tacks the ball and terms up field. A crushing block by an interior lineman opens up a lane and the quart-erback sprints into the end some for the game-winning touchdown.

The crowd roars with delight.

THE QUARTERBACK, Plymouth Canton grad Rusty Mandle, is mobbed in the end zone. He slaps a high-five with the lineman who sprung him free, Plymouth-Salem grad, Marty Piper. Another Salem grad, Darrel Bart-kowiak, a starting linebacker, joins the end zone celebration.

A proud moment indeed for Plymouth football. And a proud moment in the annals of Saginaw Valley State College football. The Cardinals had beaten the NAIA's (National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics) 17th ranked team, Liberty Baptist.

Afterwards, everyone was praising Rusty Mandle. People Mandle never knew, or even saw before, were coming up, patting him on the back and telling, him how great he was. People he knew, but who had never spoken to him, were now singing his praises. People that flat-out didn't like him a year ago, were now treating him like their next

After one game - after gaining 93 yards rushing, completing seven of 19 passes for 100 yards and a touchdown, after engineering a 75-yard scoring drive in the final minutes of the game, capping it off with a 9-yard game-winning TD, and after being named the NAIA's District 23 Player of the week Rusty Mandle was a hero.

IF YOU DON'T see the irony there, you don't know about Rusty Mandle.

Mandle is probably the most gifted all-around athlete ever to come out of the Plymouth-Canton School District — a statement that will justifiably raise arguments from friends and farm of Rich Hewlett and others. Go ahead and Mandle starred in football, banket-hell and beachell at Canton. As a walkbell and baseball at Canton. As a walkon to the SVSC campus, he made the varsity bestethall team, but later quit.

He also became the starting catcher on the Cardinals' baseball team as a freshman. In his sophomore year, he walked onto the football team and became the starting quarterback. In two years he became the second leading passer in the school's history, throwing for more than 2,600 yards.

than 2,000 yards.

Mandle's athletic abilities are phenomenal. Unfortunately, his feads with coaches and his mannerisms on the field have managed to overshadow and cloud his accomplishments.

in high school, Mandle gained over 1,000 yards his senior year. He was an electrifying runner. When he got into the secondary, he was like a magician, deftly turning would-be tacklers into statues with his precision moves and cat-like quickness.

BUT, THE SCOUTS shied away from him. He was not humble. He wore a bandanna and yelled and screamed and taunted opponents. They called him a hot dog, a showboater. He wouldn't fit into their program, they said.

Mandle was no different than numerous other gifted high school athletes. Because he had the physique and talent of a 25-year-old, people forgot, or wouldn't excuse, that he was an immature 17-year-old. Had he been 25 years old, he would have been described as colorful or flamboyant, not as a hot Mandle will be the first to admit that he made some mistakes.

For example, he was offered a fullride scholarship to the University of Toledo, an institution he badly wanted to attend. He told them that he had agreed to visit Central Michigan's campus the next week, but was interested in U-T and would be back. When he came back he was told that his scholarship was given to someone else.

"I screwed up. I waited one week too long," Mandle said. "After that, I never wanted to play football again. I was sick of it all."

MANDLE THEN WALKED onto SVSC's baseball team. The coach there at the time had made promises of scholarship money to several players, but never delivered. Again, Mandle was out of lock.

"I needed money to go to school, so I played football. I got my money," he said.

erbeck for the Cardinals. The best however, lest geens after game. In 1980, the Cardinals were $4. In 1961, $2. Mandle couldn't stand it.

The bottom fell out on a cool Hallessen day, Oct. 31, 1981, in a game against Ferris State. Trailing by its points late in the game, Segimew Valley coach Jim Larkin called a series of quarterback meaks. Finally, on fourth and one, with less than a misses to play, Mandle disregarded the play sanother quarterback meak — that Larkin sent in. Mandle called for a passe play. It was the last time Mandle played quarterback for a Larkinkin sent in. Mandle called for a pass play. It was the last time Mandle played quarterback for a Larkin-coached team.

"He suspended me for the last two games and then he wouldn't let me play offense the next year. I think I was used as the scapegoat for the team. He made it look like I had a bad attitude, but when you lose, everybody has a had attitude," Mandle said.

MANDLE PLAYED defective end in 1982, leading the fearn in quarterbeck sacks and was third in faciles SVSC ended the season 1-9, and Larkin was replaced by George Ihler.

The first thing Ihler did was to reinstate Mandle as the team's quarter; back. It made all the difference in the world to both Mandle and the team.

"He's a far, far better coach," Mandle said of Ihler. "The players have respect for him. And when you have respect, the discipline goes along with it.
I've learned more this year than I did the last three years combined."

Some will say Mandle has cheated himself out of a shot at a career in pro-football. Mandle believes he was the one cheated.

"The seniors on the team this year kind of feel like we got screwed because of the kind of coaching we have had. To me, it's like three years have been wasted. Realistically, I can't go out and in one year expect to be draft-ed. You have to establish yourself in your junior year," Mandle said.

THINGS HAVE IMPROVED for Mandle. Not only is he back at quarter back, playing for a coach be respects and can learn from, but he has abrented his grade point average to 2.8 — a land he is most proud of.

"Hay, I'm in the 2.8 mans and a said.

Fearless forecasts

Battles between city rivals fill this week's high school gridiron schedule

By Bred Emona ed Chris McCooky Haff writers

Excuse the alliteration, but your peerless prognosticators were pathetic last week.

The veteran Emons, who should know better after six years on the job and more than 28 in the area, posted a rediction record of 8-5.

We'll have to excuse the rookie McCosky, who dipped below .500 at 6-7. The two obviously have learned their essons - we hope. So when you're No.

, you try barder. Here are this week's assessments:

WARREN TOWER at LIVONIA BENTLEY (7:30 p.m. Friday). The Bulldogs beat Canton in their season ppener, 21-7, while Tower opened with a 21-0 win over lowly Roseville.

Bentley's defense may be the key before a home crowd. Picks - Emons and McCosky like Bentley by seven and three, respectively.

ANN ARBOR HURON AT LIVONIA CHURCHILL (7:30 p.m. Friday). The River Rats have a new coach in Tom Wilson, but it wasn't enough last week as Lansing Sexton prevailed against the Ann Arborites, 20-0.

Churchill, meanwhile, is coming off a mistake-filled 15-12 loss to Franklin. Picks - The coin please, both prognosticators like the home field advantage - Churchill by three.

LIVONIA FRANKLIN at LIVONIA STEVENSON (7:38 p.m. Friday). The air should be filled with footballs in Stevenson QB Dan Gilmartin looked sharp in a 12-7 win over Redford Union, while passing preserved Franklin's victory over Churchill. The Spartan deiense is stronger, however. Picks -Emons and McCosky take Stevenson by 10 and four points, respectively.

BISHOP BORGESS at REDFORD UNION (7:30 p.m. Friday at Kraft Field). Borgess showed a balanced attack in beating Riverview 24-0 last Quarterback/receiver Chuck Gregory accounted for 94 yards total offense.

RU, meanwhile, showed it could run the ball against Stevenson, but not

Both teams match up well on the lines, but Borgess won this tight duel a year ago. Picks — Emons goes with Borgess by eight. McCosky likes Bor-

CATHOLIC CENTRAL at YPSILAN-TI (7:38 p.m. Friday). The injury-rid-dled Shamrocks, upset last week by Traverse City, must now contend with one of the top running backs in the state, Eric Ball, who rushed for 290 yards in 24 carries in a 33-27 Ypsi win over Lincoln Park.

CC quarterback Matt Wilczewski proved he can throw, but the CC running game must get into gear. Picks -CC rises to the challenge, both pick the Shamrocks by a touchdown.

WESTLAND JOHN GLENN at NORTHVILLE (7:30 p.m. Friday). Both teams are coming off shutout victories.

Northville, the home team, hasn't faired well in previous match-ups. The Rockets' quarterback Bob Hawley threw well against Belleville last week.

Picks — Glenn still has the edge. Emons goes with Glenn by six and McCosky likes Glenn by three.

PLYMOUTH CANTON W. PLYM-OUTH SALEM (7:30 p.m. Friday at CEP). Canton is coming off a lackluster performance against Bentley and has a lot to prove. The Chiefs are looking to shake their weak-sister image. Salem, meanwhile, is coming off an impressive 12-7 win at North Farmington thanks to the play of a small, but aggressive offensive line, affectionately called the "Smurfs" by coach Tom Moshimer.

This is only the second meeting between the two neighbors, who share the same field at Joy and Canton Center roads. Picks — McCosky likes Salem in a hard-fought game by three. Emons goes with Salem by 12.

WOODLAND LANES. Tom Nippa joined the ranks of sharpshooters in the Granddale Men's league when he posted a 737. He opened with a 270 and followed with games of 244 and 223. It was the first 700 of the season in the house.

BEL-AIRE. Tom Leonard had no trouble reaching the goal of membership in the 700 club, he used a 279 middle game for a 707 series. Gladys Siekas topped the women with 248 in 650.

MERRI-BOWL. Tom Pritchard won the year's first hard luck honors when he missed a perfect game after running up 11 strikes in a row. With a 300 in his vision he left up two pins in the final frame and his dream was ended.
In the men's doubles Jeff Colliab showed the way with 642 and Bettle Brusseault had a 284 as high game for the women. Her nearest rival was Sandy Paot with a 244.

WESTLAND BOWL. In the newly organized men's Monday night legue Bob Novak was high with 665 that included a 236 middle game. Bill Irwin was next in line with 626 and Mack Kotstowny was third with 624, in the Mond 6.30 league Pete Chantogne was tops with 642.

GARDEN LANES. Otis Lackey needed only a 601 to pace the Vinco league. This was three pins more than Ed Magalski who lost out in the final frame.

SUPER BOWL. In the junior trio league, Cheryl Newton had a 211 in 556 to lead the way. In the Cantonettes loop, Linda Uherek had 209 for high game one pin more than Jo Anne Zachinke.

Winners, losers

For this one Saturday, anyway, Yarema had the case end of it. He had won. Even the prospect of faining Netre Denne is the Spartane next game their tababe his confidence. "Go get 'em, man," he had of the speculing tunde.

Festivals spice state's September

Autumn's approach lends a merry air to Michigan

There is still time to take advantage of 1983 fairs and festivals in Michigan.

The Renaissance Festival will continue for the next two weekends, this Saturday and Sunday and Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 24-25, at the Colombiere Center in Clarkston. Today through Saturday there are harvest festivals in Marquette and Scott-

Festivities also go on through this weekend at the Mum Festival in Mt. Morris, the Harvest Festival in Vernon and Down Home Days in Mason. The Farm City Festival in Mt. Clemens continues through Saturday, Sept. 24.

Albion celebrates Festival of Forks this Saturday. You can join the Folk Life Festival in Hastings, the Historic Home Tour in Milford or the Festival of Pines in Lake City Saturday and Sunday. Cranbrook Institute of Science holds its Honey Harvest this Saturday and Sunday and Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 24-25. The Heritage Arts Festival, Big Rapids, is this Saturday through Sunday, Sept.

Ionia holds it Fall Festival Sunday. Centerville holds the St. Joseph County Grange Fair Sunday through Saturday, Sept. 24. Friday through Sunday, Sept. 23-25, are the weekend dates for Four Flags Apple Festival, Niles; Log-Jam-Boree, Ewen; and the Autumn Harvest Festival at Greenfield Village, Saturday, Sept. 24: Fall Festival, Homer, Historic Home Tour, Owosso; Indian Summer Festival, Saugatuck. Fallsburg Fall Festival Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 24-25. Hilldale County Fair Sunday through Friday, Sept. 25-30.

For information on any of these Michigan activities call toll-free 1-800-292-5404 or 1-800-292-2520. You also can contact the Michigan Travel Bureau at P.O. Box 30226, Lansing 48909 or any of the four regional tourist associations.

Travel information centers scattered on main roads throughout Michigan also can provide you with information, as can the chambers of commerce in the cities you wish to visit.

The first annual Grand Traverse Wine Festival will be Friday, Sept. 23, to Sunday, Sept. 25, on the grounds of the Chateau Grand Traverse Winery. The winery is an Old Mission Peninsula, near Trav-

The three-day event will run from noon to 3 p.m. each day. There is no admission fee to the festival. Tents will be set up for wine tasting and for the serving of ethnic foods, wine and beer.

The Northwestern Michigan Artists and Craftsmen Association will hold an art show from noon to 6 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday. Tours of the winery and vineyards will be held every hour during the

A foot race called the Vineyard Run will start at noon on Sunday from the Lighthouse at the northern end of the peninsula and finish at the vineyard. This is described, in runner's language, as a 15K race. Runners should contact Bill Skolnik at (616) 946-2600.

A bike tour will take place 1-3 p.m. Saturday. Call Maggie Quinn at (616) 947-0024. For further information on the festival, contact

Colleen or Ed O'Keefe, Chateau Grand Traverse

Winery at (616) 223-7355. The sectival is scheduled only a week or two before harvest, so it should be an interesting time to visit the rineyards.

TIGER FANS: Contact Pat Carrier at $52-8810 if you want to join her Tiger Travels, to see the Detroit Tigers in Boston this Friday through Sunday or in Baltimore Tuesday through Thursday, Sept. 27-29. She'll also take a $75 deposit from you, before Thursday, Oct. 20, to held space for her trips to Lakeland, Fla., during spring training March 11 through April 1. Pat also is planning the Enos Cabell-Lance Parrish First annual Golf Outing for Wolverine Golf Club on Mosday, call 552-9616.

'Barbary Coast'

Actress nurtures her 'new baby' at Fisher

staff writer

You might know Susan Elizabeth Scott from the TV commercial for Thomas' English Muffins in which she plays a mom.

But you wouldn't recongnize her in her role as Rita at the Fisher Theatre in the new musical "Barbary Coast." Scott described her character as a

"bumpsy-grindsy" dance hall girl. In costume a couple of hours before the opening night performance of preview week Tuesday, Scott sald of her appearance, 'This is not your Proctor and Gamble image.

"If they saw me like this, they wouldn't cast me as a mom."

Scott is certain, though, that her parenis, Mr. and Mrs. George Schubering of Birmingham, will approve of her role. Her mother, she said, ordered 50 tickets for opening night.

SCOTT SAID her parents have been very supportive of her career from the very beginning, and that goes back to when Scott was 8 years old and auditioning for a role opposite film great Pat O'Brien in a production in Traverse City.

"My parents gave me a lot of lessons," Scott said. "I had singing lessons and dance lessons; I took lessons in ballet, baton twirling, tennis, water skiing, ice skating and horseback riding.

"I guess they wanted to be sure that whatever I do, I be prepared to do it right."

Scott said she was pretty sure at 8 that she wanted to stay in show busi-college and acted like a normal person, belonging to a sorority and all. I got a teaching credential to fall back on, but teaching credential to fall back on, but when I graduated I found it easier to get a job acting than teaching."

That was the early 1970s, Scott said, adding she was being "only a bit flippant" in that, on the average, 95 percent of actors are unemployed. "But they weren't looking for teachers either." Scott said. ther," Scott said.

Scott, whose parents lived in Akron. Ohio, at the time, attended the University of Denver.

Why did I go there? Not because of its theater credentials or academics, but because it was 3,000 miles from home, and it sounded exciting," Scott

SHE MET HER husband, Stephen Scott, at school, and the first year they were married they played summer stock together back in Traverse City. The couple then moved to New York City, where they've lived and frequently worked ever since.

We've been real fortunate," Scott said. "I've never had to use my teaching degree, never waited on tables or anything like that.

"It's just been great to feel like you're doing what you should be doing." Incidentally, Scott's husband goes by the professional name Stephen McNaughton. When Scott's sister, Rebecca Schubering, married John McNaughton of Birmingham, Stephen liked the name and decided to use it as produced motion pictures in the past.

Another funny thing, Scott said, is that her sister once sold advertising for the Fisher Theatre program, and she now works as a saleswoman for Sports Illustrated and has an office in the Fisher Building. "That's really nice not that we've even had time to have lunch together," Scott said.

THE LIFE OF an actress is a Sectio

Scott said that after more than a month of rehearsals in Birmingham, Ala., and Los Angeles, cast and crew flew to Detroit last week. Since then they've been rehearing extensively. But with the preview-week opening day, the cast began a routine that includes daily rehearsals and an evening show, plus rehearsals even on days when matinees are scheduled.

On Tuesday, for instance, Scott put in a 12-hour day that included rehearsals, the opening night show and an interview that left her little time for a salad for dinner.

But it's worth it, a tireless Scott said. 'New projects are exciting, they're wonderful.

"Here I have an opportunity to cre-ate a role that will go down in theater history as my role. Of course others will perform it, but they'll do it differently. This will be my character, my person.'

Scott said she is a bit wary of critics, "who have the power to annihilate a

"I LOVE A critic who genuinely wants a show to succeed, who gives criticism that, if we take it, can make a show, better. But some critics only come down on a project," she said.

"You have to understand that a show is like having a new baby.

"Everyday when you look at it, it's different, it's growing, matering. It might be francy looking at first, but it can become a beautiful baby."

Scott said that "Barbary Coast" will make changes throughout its previous make changes throughout its preview week, which concludes Sunday. Tuesday, in effect, is another opening night, although the show may continue to make changes thereafter and in every city it plays along the road to Broadway.

"It all depends on reviews and audience reactions," Scott said.

THE BAND will play at Schoolcraft College in Livonia for the first time Saturday, Sept. 24, at a Mexican Fiesta Night. The event to benefit the Schoolcraft Foundation features the Fiesta Mexicana Dancers as well.

"Our band will do some Latin-American mesic with we play for dispoing that night," Lexand said. "We alid will do the mesic of the '40s, '50s and '50s." Besides the entertainment, there will be authentic Mexican cuisine prepared by the college's culinary arts department. For reservations or further information call 591-5400, ext. 213...

Members of Panchito's orchestra

Members of Panchiso's orchestra have been together for 25 years. For three years the band appeared on the locally produced "Arthur Murray Show," from Changel 4 and broadcast coast-to-coast.

Lorano said his group has been called "the critic's dence hand because it plays music for both professional and amateur dancers — the Fred Astaire belliroom type, because we play everything."

The band has played for the Don Derenosky International Ball at De-troit's Coho Hall for nearly 20 years. "It's the Olympics of dancers," Lozano said, "Seven thousand people come from all over the world to compete."

AS PANCHITO, Locado lando the band and plays trumpet. Others in the 13-member band include ex-members of name bands, such as these of Stan Kanton and Harry James. "We can go right down the list. They're not on the road anymore and all settled in Detroit," he said.

A Mexican-American born in Chicago, Lozano has lived in Detroit zince the age of 3. Like the other hand members, he started out as a musician, and be didn't go into teaching until later, 25

Today Lozano is principal of the Webster School, "in the heart of the Latin community," he said. He is a spe-cialist in bilingual education.

Lozano said be formed the band when he got out of service. He had been with the Air Force Band's Glenn Miller Unit in Reno. After service he played with Tex Beneke, Isham Jones, Lang Thompson, Russ Carlyle and Xavier Cugat. "I had my share of the big bands," he said.

"I wanted to go into teaching and left the road," he said. It was difficult to

Women painters show their work

Birmingham Society of Women Painters are combining art and community service this month.

The newly renovated gallery of the Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association is the setting for the group's annual exhibition. The Hospice of Southeastern Michigan is the beneficiary of a special project by the Women Painters. The opening reception for the exhibition will be 2-5 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 18. This year's juror was Gertrude Kasle, art dealer. The exhibit will continue through Oct. 18.

Jo Snyder, public relations coordinator for the Women Painters, said the group has donated a large work of art to the Hospice, a facility for the care of the terminally ill in Southfield.

Thirty separate works of art done by the members of the Birmingham Society of Women Painters were collaged onto a 6-by-6 foot canvas that was added to the art collection at the Hospice.

The works used in the collage vary widely in texture, medium and process used.

All of the women are serious artists. Some teach and many are consistent award winners who show their work both here and abroad.

Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association is at 1516 S. Cranbrook at 14 Mile, Birmingham.

Opera auditions held next month

The scholarship committee of the Detroit Grand Opera Association will hold its annual opera auditions Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 15 and 16, at the Music Hall of Detroit, 350 Madison Ave., Detroit. The awards are the Samuel J. Lang $3,000 scholarship award, the Elizabeth Hodges Donovan $1,000 memorial award, the Henry E. Wenger $1,000 me-morial award, and the $1,500 Francis Robinson professional engagement award.

This auditions program, sponsored by the Detroit Grand Opera Association under the auspices of the Metropolitan Opera National Council, is made possible in part by a generous grant from the Lucille Drazick Prepolec Foundation.

The preliminary competition will begin at 10 a.m. on Saturday, Oct. 15. Semifinals will start at 10 a.m. on Suday, Oct. 16. with final auditions be-

Artist's early etching propelled her to new career

By Mary Klemic staff writer

Jeanne Poulet is a women who decided early that she wanted to experience everything that she could in the field of art, and she has just about done it.

She has had her successes in such forms as ceramics, painting and photoengraving but her favorite is an etching process she developed

"I consider myself self-trained, in that I've always learned new skills all my life," she said.

"I don't compete with God or the camera," Poulet said. "My work is innovative and out of my own head. It's an image that hasn't been contrived, but is both an emotional and intellectual response to what I see."

ART EMANUELE/staff photographer

Artist Jean Poulet reflects on her works in front of one of her etchings. Her home abounds with examples of her work. The artist utilizes a process which she developed.

Now working from her Livonia studio/home, she said, "I like engraving and etching the best," Poulet said. "Sometimes I want to be chained to the bed and the desk, and have someone bring me my meals and just let me do nothing but etching. Maybe once in a while, let me go out in the woods."

SHE DESCRIBES her etching process as a series of "dots and scratches," compared to other artists' etchings which are more linear.

"It's dots and scratches that then become a composite," Poulet said. In this process, such tools as an engraver and stylus are used to imprint markings onto a metal etching plate that is treated with ashphalt and resistant to acid.

After the marks are made, the plate is given a bath in nitric acid. The acid bites into the markings, and when the plate is inked, the ink stays in the grooves. A hand press is used to help pull the ink out of the grooves onto the paper.

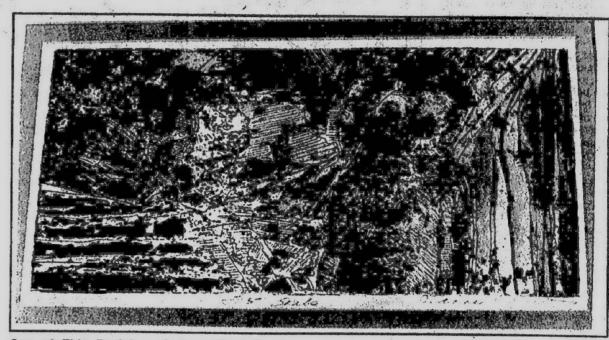

Poulet said her method, using the hand press, is similar to a method used by Rembrandt centuries ago. She calls it "a la main," meaning "by hand." When color is added, using fingers or cotton swabs, she calls the technique "a la poupee."

WALKING through Poulet's home is like walking through an art gallery. In every room, her works line the shelves and fill the walls. A downstairs room is where sales are transacted. A room on another floor features a large desk, at which much of her artwork is done.

Poulet was born and reared in Montreal. Her background was filled with the arts, as her mother was a pianist and her father was an opera singer and a photographer.

They were very much into literature and the arts as a lifestyle," Poulet recalled. "For example, we always had music. I remember my mother playing for me eight hours a

"I DID portraits, but they didn't give me enough," Poulet said.

Poulet started taking classes in ceramics, sculpture and welding at Schoolcraft College 12 years ago, and went on to study printmaking.

The curator at the Detroit Institute of Arts chose one of her early etchings - the fifth one she attempted - for a group showing of the Michigan Association of Printmakers. The work was later sold out of the London Arts Gallery in the Fisher Building.

"I had no idea I was ever going to make it," Poulet said. "That gave me the propulsion to keep working."

Poulet also studied at L'Ecole des Beaux-Arts in Montreal, the University of McGill and the University of shown at the 1982 Printmaking Exhibition at the Scarab Club and the Detroit Focus Gallery, both in Detroit, the Arts Association Annual '82 in Ann Arbor and the Paper Works Show at the Mill Gallery in Milford.

POULET decided to try to make a living at her art two years ago. Now she works with other engravers and artists, showing and selling their works as well as her own in her studio/home. A group of collectors has purchased her etchings.

"I have European tenacity, French savoir faire and American pizzazz," Poulet said with a smile.

Poulet credits others for being supportive of her, including her daughter and two sons. She is also grateful to Mary Ellen Croci, a fellow student at Schoolcraft who is an area painter and colorist; Richard Saunders, formerly of the music department at the college; and Bob Dufort, who taught her printmaking

"BOB Dufort was my mentor," Poulet said. "He allowed me to run, he never inhibited me. He allowed me to grow in a unique way. He saw my individuality, and I will be eternally grateful to him."

Poulet says she will retire at the age of 96. Her future plans include developing a book on children's rights that would feature photographic and etching essays.
"I admire illustrators, but I don't want to be one," she said. "An illustrator copies nature and things for the commercial world. It's good, but it's not what I do. I'd rather make something with social content and comment."

By David P. Messing staff writer

I don't know when felt tip pens were invented but I know when I first became aware of them. I was 9 or 10 and I had fallen in love with cartoons.

I used to draw them lightly in pencil, then I would go over those lines in charcoal pencil. One day I saw a felt

I wanted that pen as much as I wanted a mousketeer hat. It was then I learned that if a child really wants something, he simply has to pray for it - aloud at the table when he is asked to say grace. Parents can't resist.

Within minutes after getting my felt tip pen I discovered they write on anything. I wrote my name on almost everything I owned. After vandalizing everything in the house I decided it was time to do some serious cartooning. So I drew Don Martin cartoons till the sun

BACK THEN felt top pens came in an assortment of one width and one color - black. But I didn't care. I cherished my felt tip pen. I placed it in the most hallowed place in my room, which was also the only clean place in my room - a small spot on top of my dresser in the middle of all the debris. That was the place for my duncan yoyo and my felt tip pen.

The one gloomy day the ink started running out. My beautiful black lines were turning into shades of gray. I felt like I did when my dog was sick. Then it finally happened, the ink was gone. But the future looked bright because the talk was that felt tip pens were coming out with an assortment of four colors - red, yellow, blue and black.

Of course everyone at the dinner table knew how badly I wanted those felt tip pens.

Well now I am over 30 and I still cherish felt tip pens. Who could have guessed that they would be available in hundreds of colors. I have used most every brand name available and my favorite is the "Design" line of pens, By Eberhard Faber

They come in an assortment of regular, fine and extra fine nibs. The color selection is more than adequate with 96 colors to choose from. There might be manufacturers that offer more colors but this in not necessary. All felt tip pens issue tranparent ink which allows you to overlay color upon color. Den's best feature aside from the color assortment is the way it is packaged.

A SET of 12 markers, comes with a black plastic cube terraced to show the color and number of the markers. Each set costs around $20, which is not bad when you consider the cost of a couple tickets to an amusement park. These pens will entertain you long after your roller coaster stomach has settled.

My favorite sets are first the beginning assortment of 12 basic colors, then the pastel assortment. There are also a wood tone assortment and a grays assortment. With these four sets you can produce just about any color you de-

A 1977 graduate of Livonia Churchill High School, now concertmaster of the Knoxville Symphony Orchestra, she just returned from making her European debut in Vienna, Austria as soloist with the Philharmonia Hungarica where she received a standing ovation from a crowd of 4,000. Dreiling's talent was recognized early in the metropolitan Detroit area. She studied with Mischa Mischakoff and performed with many local orchestras such as the Oakway Symphony as well as the Detroit Symphony. She performed with the latter under conductor Paul Freeman when she was 15.

Dreiling said she feels certain that living, studying and performing in the Midwest, rather than New York City, has helped move her career along so rapidly. She has never had to wait in line for an audition or travel long distances to and from classes in less than ideal conditions. And most importantly, the opportunities to perform and be heard have been almost non-stop - a rare vation. He will say, 'Dave, this pen is laser corrected, it is color coded and has a comfort fitted design. It has a isiple seal cap with a multifaceted tip design made of, not felt, nor nylon, but a new blend of space age fibers which will never become soft nor break

And I just say to myself "Design, just stay the same."

WHEN I drew my first cartoons with my first felt tip pen the only paper I had was my spiral notebook paper. I soon learned that the ink bleeds through paper quite easily. Now, virtually every paper company makes pa-per for felt tip pens. These papers are light weight and do not allow the ink to bleed through.

The softer papers with less or no rag content allow bleeding which is not always bad. These papers absorb so much ink that it gives a velvety look to the color. This is the look I often prefer for my cartoons.

The permanent ink pens bleed on paper but the water base fine line markers do not. So I like to fine line water color marker my cartoon, then I erase any pencil lines and flood in rich colors with felt tip pens.

The permanent ink (which bleeds) has no effect on the fine line water color ink. Many people are turned off to markers because they bought water color markers and since they do not bleed they show every stroke. So when you try to fill an area with color it looks like your drawing is made up of multicolor pieces of corduroys.

If you would like to achieve realism, even photographic color drawings, here is what to do:

DRAW IN pencil carefully from your model. Erase your pencil lines so there is merely a ghost image. Remember this ink is transparent. If you leave wandering pencil lines they will actually become more noticable when you add your colors.

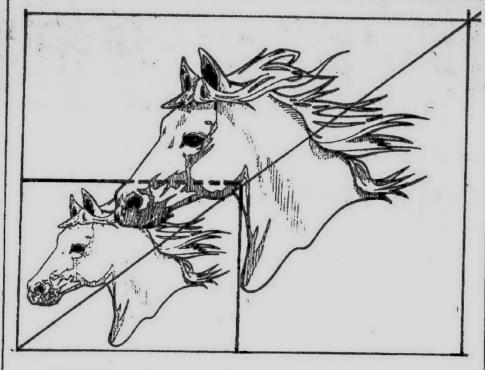

Many times I have my students ink in a fine felt tip pen (water base) right on their main pencil lines, then after the ink is dry erase all the pencil off the page.

Select the main colors for your subject. I call these main colors the base colors. For example: a green parakeet is many shades of green but pick only one shade, preferably light green.

When you have all your basic colors in your picture, it should look very washed out and two dimensional. Now, comes the colored pencils. With the base colors in marker you have, in effect, dyed the paper to the appropriate color. Then your color pencils do not appear grainy.

Without base colors anytime you lighten the pressure on your color pencil you see the grain or tooth

FOR A different effect you can go back over your color pencils with the markers.

Q. Lately I have been asked to do commercial art jobs that are very specific as to size. I have trouble blowing up the artwork large enough to draw and still be the right proportion.

A. Most of the time you can just double or triple the size of the art desired. For example: If the customer needs it to fit a three-inch by five-inch space than double it and work on an area that is six by ten or even triple that. If there is still a problem, then measure the finished size on the lower left hand corner of your illustration board. Draw a diagonial line thru the lower left and the upper right hand corner. Now you can simply choose any point on the diagonal and draw a line perpendicular to the horizontal and vertical line.

Should you invest in remodeling?

Is remodeling a home a good investment?

Sometimes. If you and your family want it badly enough, it's usually worth doing because you're investing in your family's comfort, convenience and enjoyment.

But remember that when it comes to sell your home, you may not recoup the cost of the investment. Not all alterations increase a home's market value; some may actually make the home more difficult to sell. Deciding to remodel should be a matter of carefully weighing the pros and the cons, according to Andersen Corp. consultants.

On the pro side is the fact that remodeling is often an attractive alternative to moving. That's because remodeling is usually cheaper than relocating and less disruptive to the family. An extra bath, another bedroom or an updated kitchen can transform an ordinary house into something special and raise its market value at the same time.

but some projects are more likely to attract prospective buyers than others. Specialized alterations may appeal only to a narrow group of prospective buyers. A swimming pool or a tennis court, for example, may be a selling point only to those who swim or play tennis.

Other improvements such as saunas and high-tech video rooms may be less desirable to the average buyer than a modernized kitchen or an extra bath.

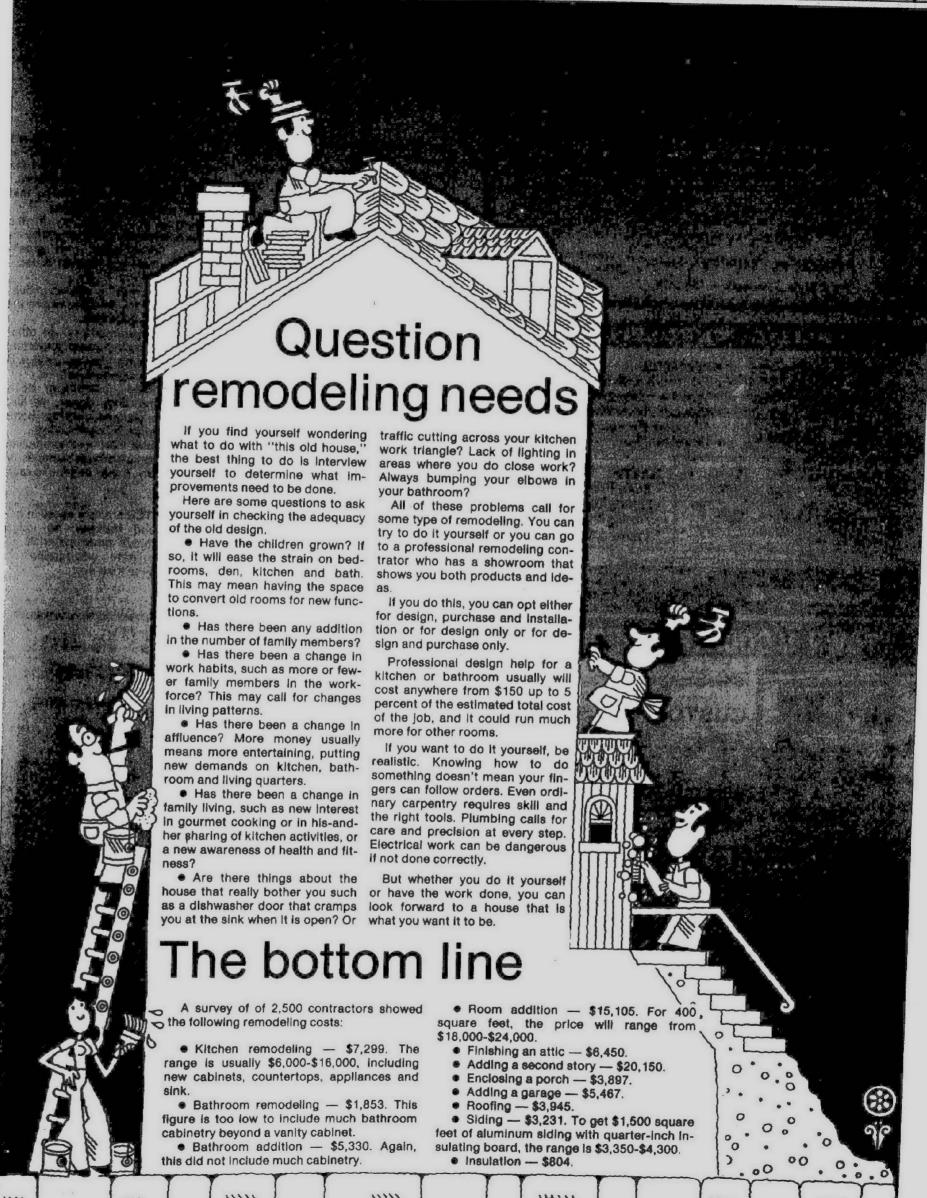

Energy-saving improvements are always a sound investment. That's because you and the next owner will reap the financial benefits of reduced energy costs.

Other remodeling suggestions by Andersen are:

- Before building an addition, consider putting unused space to work. Converting an attic, basement or porch into an extra room is usually less costly than building a new room.
- Try to tailor your project to complement the neighborhood's profile. If three-bedroom houses and moderate price tags are the norm, a four-bedroom house or one with costly improvements may be out of place and difficult to sell.
- Avoid spending too much to make a showcase out of a house in a deteriorating neighborhood. Despite your improvements, an area's decline is likely to cause a decline in your home's selling price. If the community seems ripe for revival, then renovating could be profitable.

Although you may not recoup the cost of home improvements when you sell your house, remodeling is an economic alternative to moving. And making your home more functional and more pleasant to be in can justify the cost of remodeling.

Cook up a kitchen that has versatility

A remodeled kitchen should be personal — a functional oasis in which it is pleasant to live and work. It should have esthetic appeal, and that is something that reflects your

It must function well, and that relates directly to your family, the personal habits of each person, your socializing and entertainment practices, your cooking needs and desires, family size and ages of family mem-its space must be planned, and this is as important in a large kitchen as in a small one.

In a large space the tendency is to sprawl, to waste space, and this results in miles of extra walking throughout the year.

In any kitchen of any size, the work triangle - the aggregate distances from the center of the sink to the center of the range to the center of the refrigerator - should be no more than 22 feet and no less than 12 feet, and no single leg of that triangle should be more than seven feet or less than 31/2 feet.

These are not arbitrary figures. They have been develped by professional space planners.

THE KITCHEN must be pleasant place to work. This is also a personal matter, and it involves more than the esthetics and efficiency of the room.

Here are some of the trends that kitchen decorators are seeing.

There is more greenery in the modern kitchen, helped largely by increasing use of grow lights, green-house windows and interest in deco-

There is increasing interest in hobby activity in the kitchen, where the hobby is adaptable to it.

A "home headquarters" or office area, is becoming more important and often the best placea for it is in the kitchen or adjacent to it.

This should include a desk, drawers and filing space. It also should be planned for the home computer which is in our future.

Framed

Use of mats makes for a professional look

Many people think that custom framing is too expensive so they just slap a print or photo in a storebought, ready-made frame.

But do-it-yourselfers can have the custom look without the custom cost by using mats when framing. A mat provides visual air for the art, setting it off from the surrounding wall.

HERE ARE some pointers on selecting a mat:

- . Try both a dark and light mat next to the artwork before choosing. How a mat looks by itself is no Indication of how it will appear next to the art or with a combination of mats. Be sure to check the visual effect at all four corners of the art.
- · Avoid making the mat and frame the same size. The similarity in width creates a distracting rhythm that will call attention to itself rather than the picture. The mat should be twice the width of the frame.

- · Brightly colored mats usually should be smaller than more neutral colored mats. Use a combination of mats if you want both a wide mat and a bright color accent. A bright mat, covered by a wider neutral mat, acts as a highlight or perspective line
- · A mild contrast between the colors of the art and the color(s) of the mat(s) can often make a picture
- · A mat is usually cut to the same width on top and sides with an added half-inch to inch on the bottom for visual balance. To accentuate a vertical feeling in the picture, make the side margins narrower and the top and bottom margins wider. Do the opposite for a horizontal effect.
- In framing a small piece that will hang on a busy wall, try a wider mat to separate and call attention to highly utilized rooms in the house and often one of the most poorly designed and least attractive.

Address those bathroom blahs

If you're thinking about remodeling a bathroom, start out by making a bathroom scrapbook. In it put notes of all deficiencies of your present bathroom. Here's some things to consider:

· Note if lighting is adequate or in the wrong places.

· Note if you tend to bump knees or elbows and in what area. Note if you would like some plants for decoration or a magazine rack for reading.

Note if the tub is too slippery and if it needs a shower or space for soaps, otions, etc.

· Make a list of what each family member wants in the bathroom. Write everything down. Don't worry initially if there isn't enough space in the bath-

· Visit bathroom showrooms. This does not mean boutiques where they specialize in towels and other soft

These showrooms usually will be those of the kitchen and bath professional remodelers who show several kitchen and bathroom displays. They are the only ones who really know the products available.

· Look for the space that isn't there. If there is a closet adjacent to the bath-room, is it available for conversion to bathroom space?

Closets often are unused or can be replaced with cabinetry elsewhere in the other room. Or if there is a bedroom adjacent, can you borrow space from it? Even one or two feet can make a world of difference.

• Draw a picture of your present bathroom, to scale, with 4-inch on your paper representing one foot of actual floor space.

INCLUDE THE doors, windows and radiators. Mark light locations and mark the location of the toilet drain. Other plumbing can be removed without big expense, but the toilet always will be expensive to remove.

• Draw a picture of your "expanded" bathroom, including any space you . can borrow.

• Then call a family meeting and go through the scrapbook. What does everyone really want? Talk it over and keep an open mind while being reasonable about costs.

In your showroom visit you found out what many of these things cost to buy, and you know installation will double any price if you have it done by a con-

• What can you do yourself? A basic bedroom remodeling job with new fixtures will cost $6,000 to buy and install, on the average, but many run from $8,000 to $10,000

Among the things you possibly can do will be tearing out old tile work, floor and walls, light plumbing and maybe the electrical. All of this can cut your costs by up to 60 percent.

• Visit a kitchen/bath professional in your area, one with a showroom displaying complete baths and discuss

You may not want to use his or her services, but you may want to hire a pro to go over your plan to be sure it will work. You may need the pro's help for professinal drawings for the plumb er and electrician.

There will be seven million bathrooms remodeled this year; will yours be one of them? Some tips from Yorktowne on saving space include installing a pair of tall accessory cabinets with adjustable shelves instead of a closet where shelves are fixed. Drawers or a hamper can be added to the cabinets to supplement the storage provided by a triple-drawer and double-door vanity bases and wall cabinets with adjustable shelves and brass gallery rail.

Little things add up to big energy savings

ing the thermostat down in the winter and up in the summer is an effective way to save energy. But did you know something as simple as covering foods and liquids in your refrigerator can also save energy dollars?

Uncovered Items give off moisture vapors, which makes your refrigerator's compressor work harder to obtain the same degree of cooling.

Wall outlets leak more air than closed exterior windows. Up to 20 percent of air leakage can come from wall outlets. Insulating those outlets will aid in cutting heating bills in winter and cooling bills in summer.

People give off heat. If you plan on entertaining a large group during the heating season, lower the thermostat a degree or two before the guests ar-

Do you heat or cool your home more? Whichever is greater, you might consider changing the color or your roof shingles. A light-colored roof reflects more of the sun's heat than a dark one. If you need more heat, use dark shingles; less heat requires lighter colored shingles.

IF YOU own a dishwasher, you can reduce the amount of energy it

It's common knowledge that turn- consumes from 30-50 percent. Simply set it to turn off after the final rinse and let the dishes air dry.

Using a shower head that restricts the amount of water can help save hot water and reduce costs. Studies indicate that bathing accounts for 40 percent of the hot water used in a household

A quick and easy way to cut light costs: Remove one out of every four light bulbs in your house. You'll probably not notice any change in illumination, but you might see a difference in you next electire bill

It is not true that a light bulb uses more energy in the first seconds after you turn it on. To save energy, turn lights off when you leave a room, even if you intend to return in a few minutes.

Did you know that an instant-on television is "on" all the time? It eats up electricity all the time. Unplugging it when not in use will save you money. You can also buy an inexpensive on-off switch that can save you about $1 per month in electric costs.

You can save lighting costs by painting your rooms a light color. Homes with white or pastel walls, ceilings and floors reflect light better and need less wattage.

Attic insulation can substantially reduce the amount of energy needed to heat and air condition the home.

Solar sunroom

Picture a window that brings outdoors inside

Think big — a big picture or bay window — if you're planning to replace drafty old windows.

You can have one if there's now a grouping of two or three small windows along the wall of the room that is a remodeling candidate. These, along with the supports between them, can be removed to accommodate a single large picture-type win-

Such a window will bring the outdoors inside, give you more light and improve the looks of the room and the exterior of the house.

Properly installed, with a thermalized frame and insulated glass, the new window will also help to conserve energy, and it will be virtually maintenance free.

If yours is a colonial-style house, you may want to duplicate the appearance of the original smaller panes of glass. You can do this by ordering a large window with grids set between the panes of double class. They'll match the new frame, and despite their visual authenticity, will leave you with only one glass surface to clean

Generally, a bay or bow window is also stationary, but it extends out from the sill at an angle. The angle of the bay window may range from 30 to 45 degrees, while the bow window has a less extreme angle of about 10

Within these limits, you may design a new-style window from a grouping of old ones, or if you already have a picture or bay/bow window that needs replacing, increase, decrease or change the angle from its original proportions.

But care must be taken in framing it and building sufficient support beneath it. The greater the angle, the more support the window needs, and the further the bay extends out from the house, the more its weight in-provide enough daylight, skylights may be the most efficient way to brighten the rooms and create a feeling of drama and excitement. They not only provide natural daylight from the celling area but visually enlarge small spaces.

Skylights have become increasingly popular just about everywhere in a house - hallways, dens, kitchens, bathrooms and even bedrooms. They are also being installed in additions to older houses where structural problems limit light from windows.

The most efficient skylights have double or triple glazing and thermalized frames. This means the frame has a built-in insulating barrier between the inside and outside surfaces. The break in the frame prevents the cold outside air from being conducted inside the house through the

Most skylights are prefabricated in a wide variety of sizes and shapes, but some are custom-formed. Flat tops seems to be preferred over domed units because they are unobtrusive and blend more easily into

Recent collections to the country look are collections featuring needle-work patterns and the motifs from patchwork quilts and Americana folk

Reflecting a trend toward romance and elegance are the watercolor look, the new wallcoverings with just a hint of glitter showing through, and the light-reflective moire, satin. damask and pearlescent looks.

In contemporary, the grids and small-scale geometrics and florals still are popular, giving an upbeat, airy look.

TEXTURES, both natural and vinyl, are being used to bring warmth and subtle interest to both traditional and contemporary furnishings. Included in the category are the look of grasscioth, basket weaves and corduroy, and handsome herringbone patterns, checks and stripes.

The luxurious look is found in the new textile wallcovering where thin or thick yarn is laminated to a paper pare with the tough vinyl wallcover-ings when it comes to durability.

An important consideration in selecting a wall covering which will require little maintenance is to choose one with an overall pattern or texture. A pattern with large white areas will show more soiling.

Here's some tips for selecting wallparer from the Wallcovering Information Bureau.

Time to tune up air conditioner Page 14*

With rising oil and gas prices, a lot of attention has been focused on the value of regularly servicing the home heating unit.

But don't overlook air conditioning maintenance lobs, because the cost of cooling a house can sometimes be more expensive than the cost of heating one.

Tuning up an air conditioner is an easy do-it-yourself job that pays dividends, according to Al Ubell, author of an energy-saving guide. Now that the weather has cooled down a bit and the air conditioner is not in constant use, It's a good time to servie your unit.

"The first thing to remember about air conditioners is that even the most efficient are relatively expensive to operate," Ubell said.

"All air conditioners should be serviced once a year. And that means motors should be lubricated, coils cleaned and filters changed.

AIR CONDITIONERS operate as heat and humidity extractors. They draw warm, moist air out of a room or house, remove the heat and the moisture and dissipate them outside the structure. Dirt will hinder the flow of hot air and make the unit work longer, thus increasing the energy

Air conditioner coils are heat exchangers. Interior coils absorb heat and exterior colls expel it.

"Dirt buildup on the coils hinders both functions," Ubell explained. You can clean the external colls with a damp rag or a soft brush and then vacuum. You can hose down the external coils while watering your lawn or washing your car."

Before anything is done with filters, Ubell cautioned it is important that the unit be turned off and unplugged. Running fan blades are dangerous. The filters in window units should be cleaned or replaced once a month during the cooling season. Foam filters should be tergent. The washed filter may be replaced while it's still damp. During the summer, filters in central air conditioners should be changed every month. Most units have a pair of filters that sell for hints on air conditioning.

Try to place the individual window unit on the north side of the home or in the shade. If that's impossible, place an awning over the unit. Less heat outside the house makes it easier for the unit to dissipate heat from the inside.

Take a look to see that no bugs or rodents have taken up residence.

· Keep furniture, drapes and shrubbery away from the unit and vents to assure proper air circula-

 Keep your home at 78 degrees. Not only will you help save energy, you'll save on your electric bill. For every degree you raise the temperature in an air conditioned room, you'll save 2 or 3 percent of your cooling costs.

· On very hot days, the air conditioner will perform most efficiently with the fan set on high. But in very humid weather, the opposite is true. A low fan speed allows more moisture to be removed.

• If your air conditioner is more than eight years old, you might consider buying a new high efficiency model. You could save as much as 30 percent in operating costs.

Be a fan of fans

In an era when technological advances seem to be announced nearly every day, it's interesting to note hat an invention that has been around for nearly a century is gaining ocreasing popularity today.

The invention is the fan, and hough it's by no means a recent inovation, its ability to economically and efficiently provide cooling comort makes it more valuable than ver today.

Manufacturers of fans, or powered intilating equipment, offer a variety of products to serve a number of purposes within the home. Foremost mong the energy-saving powered ntilators is the whole-house fan. Situated near the center of the nome, the fan can be used in sumner months to draw in cooler evening air through open windows, owering the temperature inside the louse. The fan also creates cooling preezes which can make the temperature seem two to eight degrees cooler than it actually is.

IN BOTH summer and winter, powered attic space ventilators can offer important advantages to the

In the summer, excessive heat can build up in the attic. This heat can penetrate to the house below, causing discomfort as it increases the temperature. And the heat can cause structural damage as it deteriorates building materials in the attic and

By installing a powered attic space entilator in the attic and equipping with a thermostatic control, the omeowner can expel the excessive neat before it spreads or causes damage. The fan automatically turns on when the termperature exceeds safe levels and shuts off once most of the moisture has been expelled.

The bathroom poses a threat to a the large amont of moisture it generates. Unchecked, this moisture can lead to costly damage in and around the bathroom as well as in other portions of the house.

Shower operation poses the greates danger in terms of the amount of airborne moisture it creates. An exhaust fan installed in the wall or ceiling can quickly and efficlently expel that moisture before it can cause problems. The exhaust fan gets rid of excessive heat, odors and aerosol pollutants before they can harm the indoor environment.

WHEN IT COMES to indoor pollution, the kitchen is unmatched by any other room in the house. It is estimated that the average kitchen produces nearly 200 pounds of airborne grease each year. Along with the grease, kitchens produce heat, smoke, moisture and odors, all of which can be rid of by installing a range hood over the stove.

The beauty of today's ceiling fans has made them an integral part of decorating schemes, but they are more than decorations. Ceiling fans are useful in increasing a home's energy efficiency throughout the year. During the warm summer months, the fans can be operated to create breezes which cool the occupants of the room below. In winter, the fan forces warm air which has risen to the celling back down to warm occupants, taking some of the burden off the hearing system.

The Home Ventilating Institute, a voluntary organization of manufacturers, offers simple formulas for use in determining the capacity of the fan needed to ventilate rooms. For Information, contact the Home Ventilating Institute, 4300-L Lincoln Avenue, Rolling Meadows, III. 60068.

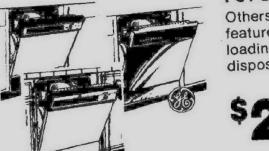

Ceiling fans can set the tone of a room in addition to cooling it in summer and forcing warm air down in the winter. Lighting fixtures can be added to many ceiling fans.
