Grant OK'd; library expansion decision due soon

Within two weeks a decision is expected to be made whether to expand Dunning-Hough Library to serve Plymouth Township and Plymouth residents or only the city.

The city of Plymouth this week received preliminary approval of a $200,000 federal grant for the renovation and expansion of the Plymouth Dunning-Hough Library. The present plans are to build a 7,500-square-foot addition to the library to serve the future needs of Plymouth Township as well as the city. That project would cost almost $600,000.

Based on current talks, the township would pay for $200,000, the city $200,000, and the remaining third would be covered by the Library Service and Construction Act (LSCA) grants funded by the 1983 Federal Jobs Bill.

City Manager Henry Graper told the Plymouth City Commission Monday night that he hasn't had the chance yet to talk with the township on its intentions for the library expansion.

Graper said he plans to wrap up discussions with the township and come back with a recommendation by the Oct. 17 commission meeting.

The city is asking the township to enter into a 20-year agreement to share in the debt retirement payments and operation expenses of the library.

If that agreement cannot be reached, said Graper, then construction plans will be scaled down to a 5,000-square-foot addition or less to cover the future needs of only the city.

THE GRANT funds are intended to upgrade public library buildings in the areas of energy conservation and barrier free access, said Graper, while providing construction jobs in areas of high unemployment.

In announcing the grant, Mayor Eldon W. Martin gave recognition to state Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, and state Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville, for their support in the effort to get approval for the library grant.

A study on library use in city and township, and the need to expand the facility, has been completed by Stanley Tkacz, an architect in Plymouth.

The proposal is for the Plymouth Building Authority to sell bonds to finance the $400,000 tab to be shared by township and city.

That likely will require additional millage to be levied by the township for debt retirement which may require a vote of the residents.

The city now allocates one mill toward the library and might have to levy a portion of a mill for debt retirement. If necessary, the fraction of the mill would be an additional tax and would not require a vote of the people as the city is levying less than the charter limit.

"WE NEED to get an answer from the township very quickly," Graper said Monday night. "We must be in a position to break ground within 45 days or risking losing the federal funds."

If the decision is made to go ahead with the expansion at the Oct. 17 meeting, Graper added, then the working drawings and other documents must be approved on a time schedule which will allow groundbreaking in that 45-day period.

Graper said he would make a full-blown presentation on the library project at the Oct. 17 meeting.

Right now the city owns the library building and the township pays for 50 percent of the operating cost. If bonds are sold by the city, the city manager said, the township will be asked to sign an agreement on sharing costs for the life of the bond issue.

Monday night's action by the Commission involved passage of a formal resolution of intent which provides that any resident who objects to the proposed project has 45 days in which to file for a referendum.

School talks resume

Board takes legal action against employees

By M.B. Dillon Ward
staff writer

Those hoping for an early end to the strike in the Plymouth-Canton Community School District were dealt a stinging blow as the school board took legal action against its employees, the Michigan Department of Labor and the Michigan Employment Relations Commission (MERC) Tuesday.

A sliver of optimism emerged yesterday, as full teams of bargainers for employees and the district went back to the table at 4 p.m. But by 11 p.m., when bargaining was adjourned until 2 p.m. today, no progress had been made.

No legal action by the board against the employees has been rescinded.

Nearly 16,000 students were idled Friday, Sept. 30, as 1,200 teachers,

'It is deplorable the district is not addressing the issue at hand but letting a whole battery of attorneys make as much money as possible. Filing suits against MERC doesn't address the crisis, nor... resolve it.'

—Tom Cotner

teacher aides, secretaries, custodians, cafeteria and transportation workers walked off the job after a breakdown in contract and wage re-opener talks.

The school board gave chief negotiator Thomas Schwarze, a Detroit attorney, several directives. Schwarze detailed the directives at a press conference Tuesday. They included:

- Securing a temporary restraining order barring MERC from engaging in fact-finding with union bargainers (thereby canceling a fact-finding session scheduled for 1 p.m. Tuesday).
- Suing MERC and the state labor department for "illegally" appointing a fact-finder in violation of the Open Meetings Act.

- Filing unfair labor practices with MERC charging the unions with "bad faith bargaining and illegal strikes."

- Requesting that MERC seek an injunction prohibiting the strikes.

- Threatening teachers and teacher aides with a suit seeking "considerable" financial damages should they refuse to return to work. (Unlike their fellow employees, the two groups have contracts and are negotiating wage re-opener clauses with the district. Both agreements contain no-strike clauses.) Schwarze said that teachers have "blatantly thumbed their noses" at the no-strike clause but he indicated no mass firing is in the offing.

The temporary restraining order issued by Ingham County Circuit Court Judge Robert Bell forbids fact-finding through October 26, the date scheduled for a show cause hearing. The Ingham court handles the bulk of state-related cases.

UNION representatives who tried to attend the board's press conference were refused entry. At their own Plymouth-Canton Education Association (PCEA) press conference later that day, chief negotiator Tom Cotner said, "It is deplorable that the district is not addressing the issue at hand, but letting a whole battery of attorneys make as much money as possible. Filing suits against MERC doesn't address the crisis in Plymouth-Canton schools, nor does it do anything to resolve it."

"Does the board not want a neutral third party to examine its books and tell the public how much money is available for bargaining?"

Schwarze — who is being paid about $3,000 per month during the work stoppage, according to district official Norm Kee — called Cotner's statements "absolutely false."

The board has attended mediation sessions, asked to address MERC, filed papers as requested and "cooperated fully," Schwarze said. "Moreover, our offer on the table is considerable." A 3 percent raise for this year increasing to 5 percent in 1984-85 has been proposed by board negotiators for all groups.

The district will spend a limitless amount on legal expenses incurred in the dispute. "We can't allow the district to become bankrupt," Kee said.

News of the board's actions shocked Cotner, who pleaded at Monday's school board meeting for the scheduling of a "marathon session" to resolve the labor dispute. Superintendent Dr. John Hoben said the board decided to pursue legal action in executive session following Monday's open meeting.

Counter-charges are being filed against the board with MERC, union negotiator Charles "Trav" Griffin said at the PCEA press conference. Both the board's unwillingness to bargain and its failure to notify employees of a year-old change regarding insurance coverage constitute unfair labor practices, he said.

Griffin, adding that administrators are "trying to win the strike by attrition," said the public "should be out-

Cook found guilty in fatal hotel fire

By Gary M. Cates
staff writer

Gary Lee Cook, accused in the Jan. 5 fatal arson at the Old Village Inn in Plymouth, was found guilty Tuesday of first-degree murder and arson.

Cook, 34, of Livonia was acquitted on a third charge of assault with the intent to commit murder and is scheduled for sentencing on Oct. 13 before Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Patrick Duggan.

The former hotel resident faces a mandatory life sentence on the murder conviction, as well as a 20-year sentence on the arson conviction.

Cook hasn't decided if he will appeal the decisions, according to defense attorney Robert Delaney of Plymouth.

Cook was arrested by Plymouth police one day after the Jan. 5 fire at the hotel, 886 N. Mill. The blaze resulted in the death of 61-year-old Clifford Bearden and extensive damages to the building.

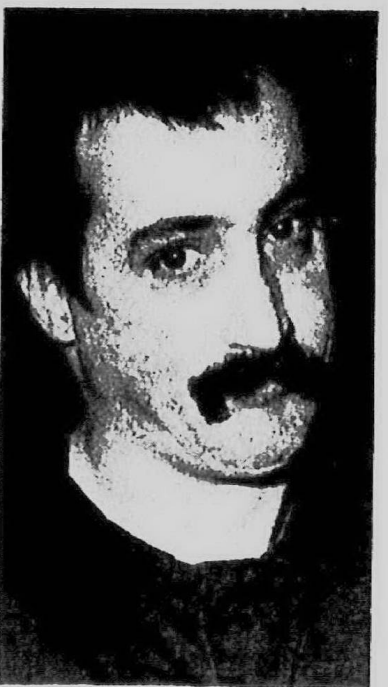

Cook's trial had been delayed due to forensic exams and the lack of a judge and jurors to hear the case earlier last month. The trial started last week before Judge Duggan.

A jury of seven women and five men returned the two guilty verdicts Tuesday afternoon, following some five hours of deliberation. The jurors listened to seven days of testimony from 24 witnesses, including four for the defense.

During the trial Cook took the stand to testify about his life at the hotel before being asked to leave in 1982, and to clarify statements he made to his brother on the night of the fire.

Cook's brother testified that Gary said he had "killed his friend" minutes before firefighters arrived at the hotel.

"We had no reasonable chance of winning the case with his brother and his brother's roommate saying Gary confessed to setting the fire — that's pretty strong," Delaney said.

According to Delaney, Cook learned on the day of the fire that his best friend, Hank Dunn, had died in December. Delaney said Cook feels responsible for anything that goes wrong.

Cook testified that his brother was confused about who had died.

The comments Cook made to his brother about a friend dying concerned Dunn, rather than Bearden, Delaney said.

The trial, as a whole, was "fair," Delaney said.

"I was really impressed with how the fire chief and captain testified. They did a very professional job," he said.

Slashes due Monday For SEMTA, it's cuts as usual

By Kathy Parrish
staff writer

Despite a last ditch effort to save bus and train service, the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA) is rolling along with planned cuts.

After a two-week delay, SEMTA's board of directors Tuesday merely received and filed a report from a subcommittee set up to find ways of reducing the impact on unhappy patrons.

So SEMTA staffers are proceeding to end the commuter rail, reduce buses and routes and raise youth fares. All changes, designed to eliminate a projected $16 million operating deficit, will take place next Monday.

"We reached the consensus that neither the governor nor the legislature is going to help us before Oct. 17. And the same for the federal government," explained director Thomas Fegan, who chaired the five-person subcommittee. "And there are no substantial dollars available from any other source."

THE GROUP agreed that bus priorities should be line haul, suburban cross-town routes and then small buses.

But it could not recommend action on the train, which runs from Pontiac to Detroit. "We could not reach a consensus on the issue," Fegan told the directors.

Outlining his own investigations, SEMTA General Manager Gary W. Krause said he contacted several cities about helping pay train costs.

He said Pontiac promised to aid in snow removal, Bloomfield Township and Royal Oak showed interest, and there was a possibility of using unpaid community service workers in Oakland County.

Detroit pledged to re-address the issue of increasing the speed limit for the train, he added.

BUT THE MAJOR consideration, Krause believes, is the cost of labor. He offered to talk with Grand Trunk and Western Railroad about union concessions on rules like crew size.

"The time for the pat on the back and psychological support is over," the general manager said.

"Either it's a commitment or no train."

SEMTA staffers said that even with help from communities, "very basic" train service would cost $1 million a year. But for several directors, there seemed to be no alternative.

"I regard train service as an Oakland County service," said Michael Einheuser of Detroit. "I'll agree only if that money comes out of linehaul and small buses slated for Oakland County."

For Macomb County's Diana Kolakowski, there are too few train riders to justify saving the service. "I'm concerned how I could justify that when we're eliminating bus service which costs less and serves that many people."

"I'm torn between my heart and mind," explained Oakland director R.J. Alexander of Birmingham. "It's a disaster to discontinue rail service and ever expect to have light rail. But I'm also concerned about the cost of keeping the train running for another six months."

Even in Plymouth-Canton

There's nothing like Sunday afternoon Lions football

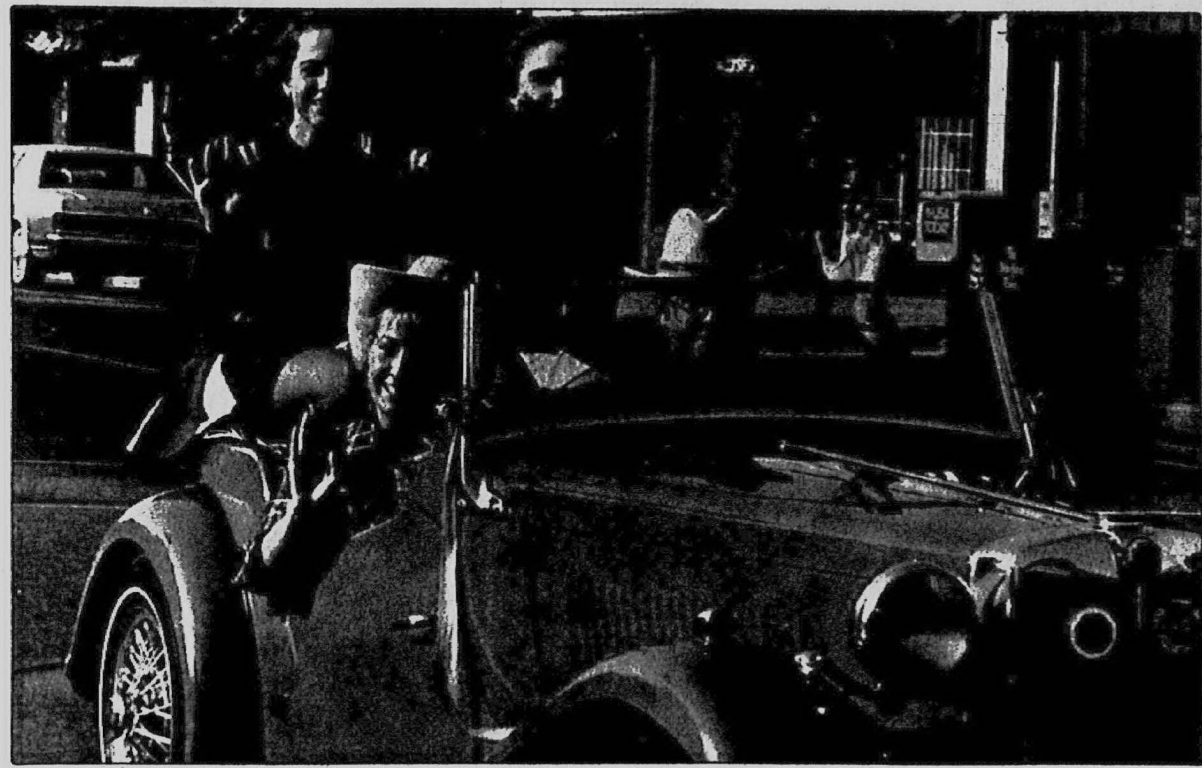

While Coach Monte Clark's Detroit Lions were losing Sunday to the Los Angeles Rams, folks in Canton and Plymouth had other Lion squads to cheer about.

The Plymouth-Canton Lions junior football teams celebrated homecoming with a parade Sunday morning in Canton, followed by freshman, junior varsity and varsity gridiron clashes on the Central Middle School field in Plymouth.

"Smokey and the Bandit" was the theme of the day, obvious to spectators who spotted a Burt Reynolds look-alike zig-zag along the parade route in a Trans-Am. The day's entertainment didn't end with the colorful motorcade. Performing dance routines and spirited cheers during all three games was a crowd-pleasing squad of pom-pom girls.

Parading down Main Street in Plymouth before the football games proved to be lots of fun for the kids as well as parents. Adding to the excitement was this convertible MG.

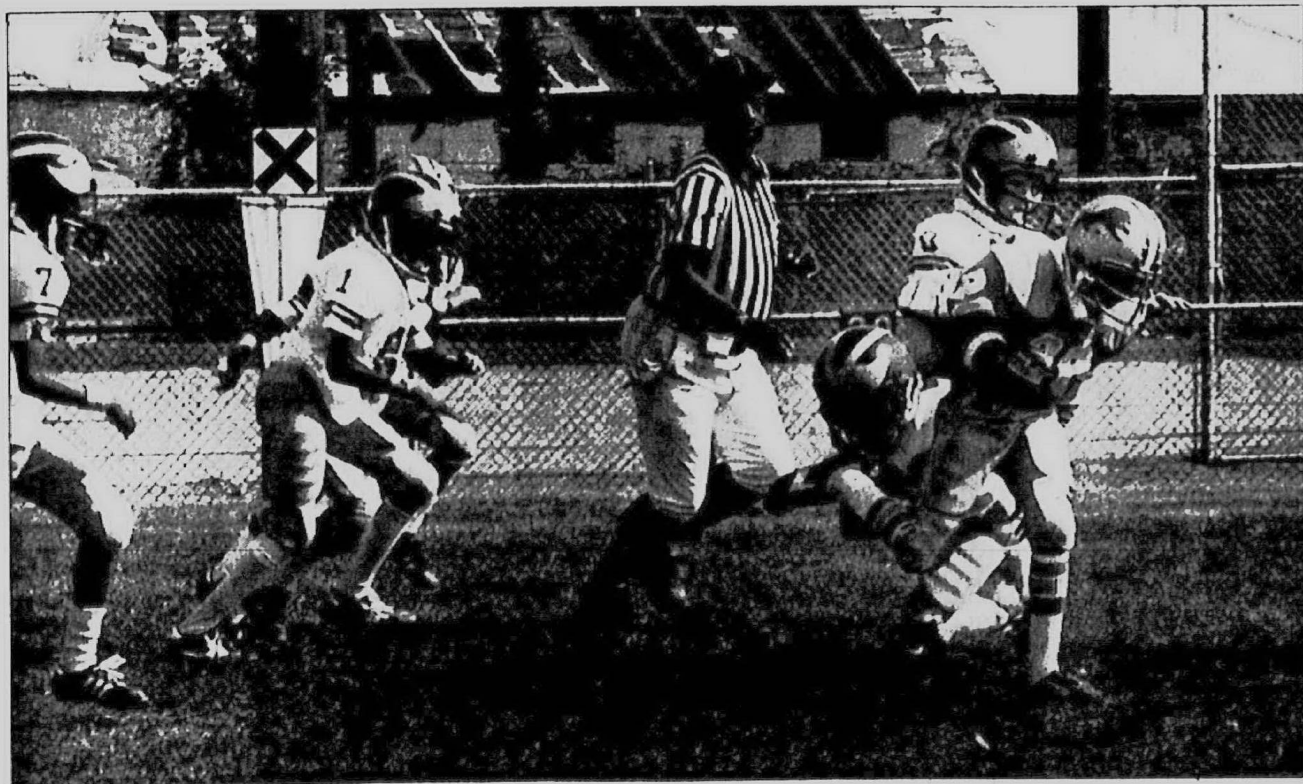

Scott Wilson, 8, an Allen Elementary School student, carries his older brother's football equipment to the game.

Up on the goal posts to tell everyone that they are number one are Brian Wuki (left), 12, a Lowell Middle School student, and Dan Strong, 11, a Smith Elementary School student.

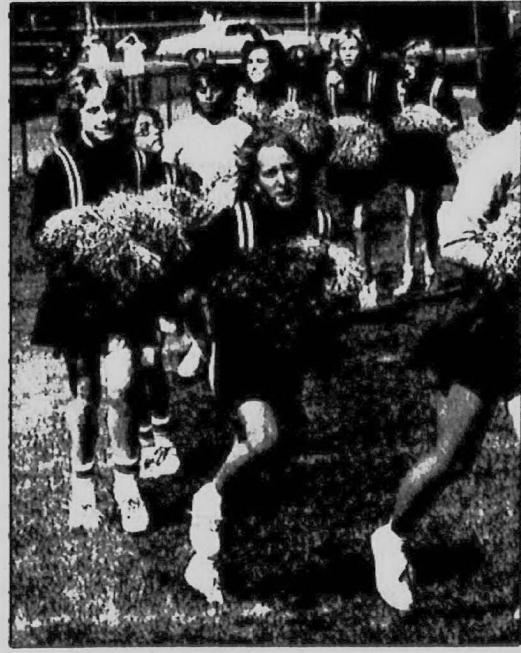

Smiling faces were all around the Central Middle School football field Sunday afternoon. Here Caroline Hart, 11, an East Middle School student, appears to be very happy as she participates in the pre-game festivities.

It was the Plymouth-Canton Lions against the Ann Arbor Wolverines in Sunday's games.

Sandy Wilson, a Canton "football mom," decorates her car.

Cheerleaders danced their way onto the field to perform for the fans.

Plymouth's Main Street undergoes some changes

By W.W. Edger
staff writer

Residents coming home from summer vacation won't recognize Main Street. The street is undergoing a dress-up, from Mill to Ann Arbor Road, and the dress-up includes everything from a new medical center to a florist shop.

The change all began with the rebuilding of the intersection of Main and Mill into a four-lane roadway, with a middle lane for left turns.

Then, across from Schrader Funeral Home, the Ford Hospital Medical Clinic gave a new touch to the area near Main and Penniman.

Some 2,200 yards of sod have been laid in Kellogg Park to repair the damage done to the grass from all the summer activity.

BUT THE REAL changes are taking place on S. Main, where a bank is opening, a print shop is taking form, a florist is taking over what use to be Hidden Treasures and H&R Block is being renovated to make it a three-office center.

To top it off, the Big Red Quick Print Shop is taking over a new building just south of Wing Street.

Along with these changes, the entire street is being topped with two inches of blacktop to cover all the chuck holes and other bumps that have been a bit dangerous to motorists throughout the summer.

One of the biggest changes is the opening of the Downriver Federal Savings and Loan branch, which has been operating out of a temporary office for several months.

The building is about ready to open and will give Plymouth additional banking facilities.

Next to the bank, where the old pizza place had stood, the Big Red Printing Shop will take over a new building. Owner Cale Schneider is planning a modern facility for the printing of all sorts of forms and letters.

"I have been in the business in this small place for five years and have just outgrown it. Now, I will be able to handle most any kind of printing work with the new equipment that is on the way."

THE REAL HUMAN interest story is Mr. and Mrs. Steve Ribar, who are working day and night to modernize the old home next to the print shop for their florist center.

"All my life I've dreamed someday of owning a modern shop," Mrs. Ribar said as she stood beside the pile of lumber her husband was fitting into a new cooler. "Now we are going to have it."

Both she and her husband are graduates of Plymouth High School's Class of '62. She went to Eastern Michigan University, but all through school dreamed of owning a flower shop.

She explained that the rear floor space will be devoted to special flowers and antique furniture. The front of the building will be for everyday floral work, featuring all the latest designs.

"And we are hoping to have it open for Oct. 15, Sweetest Day. If not, it won't be long after that."

The building for this new floral shop was built in the mid-1800s and is one of the oldest houses on Main Street. The building in which H&R Block is located has been taken over by Bob Laird, who plans a complete facelift.

The new version will feature special brick and a V-shaped roof, which will cover three offices. Laird will have his own office to handle shock absorbers, running gear and other running equipment.

"H&R Block will remain and I will have a new firm in the third office. And it should be ready before winter sets in."

Gas station leasee unhappy

Land talks continue for St. Joe clinic

By Gary M. Cates
staff writer

Progress apparently is being made toward the purchase of properties needed for the construction of St. Joseph Hospital's proposed clinic and municipal parking deck in downtown Plymouth.

The multi-million dollar complex is targeted for the Central Parking Lot area, including two Harvey Street parcels where existing businesses are located — the Gas & Go station on the corner of Ann Arbor Trail and the adjacent Plymouth Veterinary Hospital.

Although final settlements on purchase prices for those properties haven't been reached, city and hospital officials said the talks are "very active."

Additional land negotiations might be required before the project begins, however.

City Manager Henry Graper recently learned that the city isn't the sole owner of the parking lot. A 20-foot by 20-foot triangle of the lot is owned by the National Bank of Detroit office at Main and Penniman Avenue.

"WE'RE IN the process of looking into that right now. It's been turned over to our attorneys," Graper said.

"This has no effect on our plans. It wouldn't effect the project since it's so far up in the lot," Graper said. "I can build around it if I need to."

"We're in the process of formalizing an option on the gas station property with the Boron Oil Company. We are also preparing a formal offer to the veterinary clinic," he said.

Hospital Spokesman Bill Brauker said a closing date on the gas station property hasn't been set. Talks on the veterinary clinic property are "going back and forth," he said.

"Because of all the details and the different property owners, it's taken a lot of time and it's a slow process," Brauker said.

"If all these things work out, Plymouth is our primary site to build."

DESPITE the progress of the land negotiations, at least one Plymouth man isn't happy with the idea of a two-story medical clinic being built on the corner of Harvey and Ann Arbor Trail.

Paul Alberts, who operates the Gas & Go station for Boron while leasing the garage for his own repair service, said he is being put out of business by the project.

The owners of the veterinary clinic, Mary Beth and Steven Leininger, said talks concerning their property were "still pretty touchy." They declined further comment.

Alberts said some of his gas customers offered to start petitions to keep the station or make calls to the city on his behalf.

"I figured it wouldn't help — you can't fight city hall," he said.

"I haven't been notified by the oil company or the city that they plan to tear the station down," said Alberts, who has operated on the site for four years.

"I'm a little upset. I've lived in Plymouth all my life and it's kinda bad when your own city screws you out of your business."

WHILE ALBERTS blames the oil company for failing to notify him the property might be sold, he believes he's "getting the raw end of the deal from the city."

"I guess since I've been a resident of the city all my life, I figured that when the city heard I hadn't heard anything from the company, they would at least talk to me. I have no idea what's going on."

Alberts first got wind of the plans when he returned from a vacation in June.

"One of my employees told me that an appraiser had come out and looked at the property," he said.

"After that I went directly to the company here in Michigan. They couldn't really tell me anything about what was going on other than someone wanted to buy the property."

Even if the station is sold, Alberts said he wants to stay in Plymouth. He holds a contract with the Plymouth Post Office and has a regular clientele.

"It takes a long time to build up clientele. You have to start all over if you move."

Despite his desire to stay in Plymouth, Alberts said efforts to find a new location haven't been successful. Being a Vietnam War veteran, he hopes to finance a new station through the Veterans Administration.

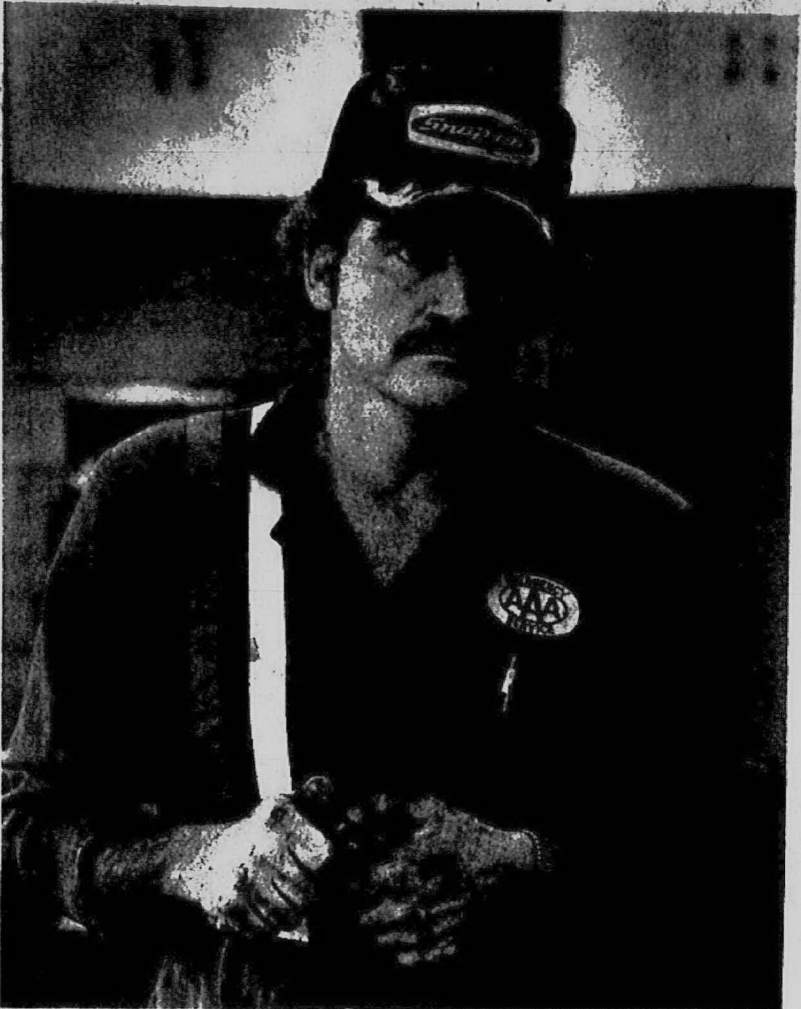

Because the city has helped the hospital in its efforts to locate in Plymouth, Alberts said "it would be nice" if the city helped him relocate.

Guide

An update of "A Working Woman's Guide to Her Job Rights" has been published by the U.S. Department of Labor.

A list of state and federal agencies enforcing employment laws is included in the 54-page book, as well as information about which agency to contact in case of rights' violations. Copies of the book may be ordered by sending $4.50 to the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 130L, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

aged at the board's behavior, as we are."

PCEA encourages residents to call its strike headquarters at 459-8101 for updated information. It also urges persons to express opinions to the board by calling 453-0200 or writing 454 Harvey, Plymouth, 48170.

The district's newsletter can be reached by calling 453-0271.

RICHARD STRICHARTZ, the MERC-appointed fact-finder, said he could not comment on the board's action against MERC.

"I haven't seen any of the papers involved. All I have is my appointment by the board."

"My role is to get the facts and get the matter solved (in a fact-finding session) so children can go back to school. I'm perfectly willing to sit down with whoever the judge is and act under his direction, assuring a speedy conclusion. However, if I can't meet, I can't find any facts," added Strichartz, a Wayne State University law professor.

Under fact-finding, a third party (MERC-appointed fact-finder) reviews the positions of both sides and recommends a non-binding solution.

THE BOARD, however, said it has "grave concerns about the fairness and outcome of the fact-finding process as a result of irregularities which have occurred thus far." The board's charges include the appointing of Strichartz in a closed rather than open meeting (an unresolved legal issue according to the Michigan Attorney General's office); premature filing dates for position papers mandated by MERC; the commission's failure to promptly read the papers, and improper notice of scheduled fact-finding sessions.

"I question how we can get fair and equitable treatment from an organization which shows so little regard for due legal process in its own actions," said Kee. The district is unwilling to place its financial fate in the hands of a fact-finder, "whose only interest is figuring out where the two sides are, and finding something in between. Police and fire departments have proven how foolhardy it is," Kee said last week.

Strichartz took umbrage at the remark. "I am a former city comptroller for the City of Detroit and have been involved over the years in a number of fact-finding sessions with police and fire departments and with MERC. I'm capable of understanding whatever facts the district wishes to put forward with regard to its financial situation."

No one involved in the labor conflict could offer any guesses as to when school might resume.

Pursell, Ford split on keeping troops in Lebanon

Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes Sept. 22-28.

HOUSE
LEBANON: By a vote of 270-161 against, the House gave President Reagan authority under the War Powers Act to keep up to 1,600 Marines in Lebanon for an additional 18 months.

He must get congressional approval before sending more Marines there. But the measure stopped short of requiring Reagan to explain in detail the military and foreign policy purposes of the deployment.

The Senate passed a companion measure. It marked the first application of the War Powers Act since Congress enacted it 10 years ago after being frozen out of early Vietnam War decision-making.

Supporter Raymond McGrath, R-N.Y., said "This nation cannot retreat into an isolationist shell whenever events become unpleasant."

Opponent Andrew Jacobs, D-Ind., called the resolution "a political figleaf" covering the "blunder" of sending Marines to Lebanon and added: "Pride goeth before the unnecessary fall of many more Marines."

Members voting yes supported keeping Marines in Lebanon until March, 1985 as part of a four-nation peacekeeping force.

Voting yes: Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, Sander Levin, D-Southfield, and William Broomfield, R-Birmingham.

Voting no: Dennis Hertel, D-Detroit, and William Ford, D-Taylor.

COAL: The House defeated, 182-235, a bill to spur construction of slurry

roll call report

pipelines, which would compete with the railroads for coal-hauling business.

The vote denied federal eminent domain powers essential to laying the cross-continental underground lines. It protected the railroads, which ship nearly all of the 800 million tons of coal produced annually in the U.S.

Supporters Morris Udall, D-Ariz., said eminent domain should be granted coal slurry pipelines just as Congress has given it to builders of railroads, gas pipelines and electrical transmission lines.

Opponent Bud Shuster, R-Pa., said "what we see here are big coal companies, big pipelines, big oil, big utilities attempting to get a stranglehold, a hammerlock on the movement" of coal.

Members voting no wanted railroads to continue to dominate coal-hauling.

Voting yes: Pursell.
 Voting no: Hertel, Ford, Levin and Broomfield.

ABORTION: The House adopted, 231-184, an amendment prohibiting the use of Medicare funds and other money in HR 3913 to be used for an abortion, even if the mother's life is at stake.

HR 3913 is the $96.5 billion fiscal 1984 appropriations bill for the departments of Labor, Education and Health and Human Services. It was sent to the Senate.

Although this was the strictest anti-abortion language ever approved by the House, it stood little chance of surviving the House-Senate conference on HR 3913.

Supporter William Dannemeyer, R-Calif., said the abortion issue had "fiscal consequences" in view of the nation's declining fertility rate and rising debt, because "if we are going to pay off this debt, somebody has got to be born to pay the taxes to pay it off."

Opponent Barbara Mikulski, D-Md., said she was "shocked to hear that American women are meant to be breeder reactors to sustain civilization and pay off the deficit."

Members voting yes opposed any federal funding of abortions.

Voting yes: Hertel, Broomfield.
 Voting no: Pursell, Ford, Levin.

SENATE

LEBANON: By a vote of 54-46, the Senate approved a resolution empowering President Reagan to keep U.S. Marines in Lebanon as part of a multi-national peacekeeping force for up to 18 additional months.

The House earlier granted the same authority under the War Powers Act (see above), and the measure was sent to Reagan for his signature.

Supporter Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., said giving the president a free hand with the Marines for 18 months is essential because "history shows that it is dangerous for Congress to intervene in military command decisions."

Telford responds on class sizes

To the editor:
In a Sept. 22 letter to your newspaper, a Plymouth-Canton teacher complained about class sizes.

I responded directly to him in writing, providing him some information I assume he hadn't been aware of and taking exception to his contacting the media before first checking his facts and then airing his concerns with his principal and me.

He did not contact me to acknowledge receipt of the letter, but I know he received it because I was informed that he read selectively from it to an assemblage of teachers. Since he apparently thus rendered excerpts of it public, I am now publicizing all of what I wrote to him.

His letter to the editor made reference to three "highly-paid curriculum administrators." His implication was based on a simplistic premise — that lower-paid (or fewer) administrators necessarily will equate to lower class sizes. It becomes taxing for some of us who have been career educators for 25 years or more to have to constantly define and explain our administrative tasks that are necessary to operate a school system. Our district has fewer administrators-per-teacher than most surrounding districts in the tri-county area, and administrative salaries here also are lower.

If the teacher who wrote the letter were to reflect, he might recall that I have been in his classroom (although not recently, due to the sheer size of the district and the level and scope of my job responsibilities). It is true that I have not visited any one of his individual classes to assess its specific class count. It also is true that our teacher-pupil ratios have been rising in recent years. However, this has not happened in 1983-84, as we were able to reduce the ratio slightly for this year. (I have learned, too, that in the past, his supervisor has been able to make some favorable adjustments for him on an individual basis). Still, we are not happy about the existing 180-student teacher loads at the CEP and the 190-student middle school teacher loads that we have been obliged, through recent economic necessity, to accept in order to preserve programs.

I taught at the secondary level for as long as the letter-writer has, and I frequently was assigned loads of over 20 students in five different English classes per semester in Detroit, as well as being solely responsible for a study hall of over 200 students in addition to my unpaid after-school coaching and other duties. I know firsthand how challenging the teacher's role can be when class sizes are high. Believe me, we do not "think we have something nice going on" when they become excessive, nor do we "join in the cry of teacher mediocrity," as he charges. There are hundreds of hard-working, talented teachers here, and within the purview of my designated responsibilities I try to make their teaching experience as positive and productive as possible and to solicit as much teacher input as I can in planning and decision-making.

Some time ago the teacher in question shared with me an article on democracy in education written by his graduate advisor, whose theme in the article he espoused. I sent him back a piece I had written which concurred totally with its essential position — that "until financial support for education becomes equitable, educators must strive more than ever to empathize with each other and help each other seek democratic solutions to the problems that plague our mission." In this vein, I offered to sit down with him and explore ways for all educators to work together toward those solutions. That offer was never taken. Instead, I open a community newspaper to find him fallaciously and unfairly accusing the Board of Education and the administration of contributing to the "decline of excellence in education."

This is just the kind of divisiveness that the Plymouth-Canton community doesn't need. There are no easy answers, and the difficult ones won't be found until all of us can quit our petty politicizing and finger-pointing long enough to join hands and seek the hard solutions that will best serve our children.

Misinformation flows freely

To the editor:
I think the parents of Plymouth-Canton school children should be told the whole truth regarding the teachers' strike. I have talked to three people at the board office, and also to the teachers' crisis center, and have gotten conflicting information from the two sides. It is very frustrating to me — I am trying not to blame any one group.

As an example, the board office has told me that the teachers were given a 3 percent increase for this year, and a 5 percent increase for next year "in return for their services." The teachers claim this increase is dependent on a shortened lunch period for all schools and a change in the middle school schedule.

The teachers claim the school board failed to send anyone with any authority to a preliminary hearing scheduled for 1 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 28. The board office claims a representative was sent, but that the board was notified only 1-2 hours before the meeting was to take place. This meeting, according to one person at the board office, was only to set up a schedule for factfinding. Another board office person told me the board did not have time to prepare for this "preliminary hearing." The teachers said this meeting was a preliminary hearing where both sides would be heard. Does anyone even know what the meeting was for?

The school board office assured me on Thursday, Sept. 29, that a schedule had been set up for negotiations — the teachers said no schedule had been made. What do I tell my children? They have said, "Mom, you've been on the phone all day. Why don't we have school?" I don't know what to tell them. Attempts to reach the board office Friday, Sept. 30, morning were futile — no one answered the phone. I did finally get through on a number given to me by the teachers' crisis center.

There seems to be a tremendous communication gap between the union and the board at the expense of our children. If half the energy spent in typing and mailing letters were spent in negotiating, this strike could be settled, and our children would be learning to read, instead of learning how childish adults can be.

Both the teachers and the board should be at the negotiating table talking; that is how we try to teach our children to settle arguments in an adult society. Please remember it is our children who are suffering the most in this strike. Thank you for allowing me to voice my feelings.

The school strike — it has but one certainty

THE PLYMOUTH-CANTON community once again finds itself in the midst of labor-management strife. Unions for teachers, custodians, clerical, aides and transportation employees have gone on strike against the school board.

The teachers and aides are discussing economics-only, which is allowed because of a wage reopener clause in their existing contracts. The other unions are bargaining for new contracts. Economics is the major stumbling block for all.

There is one thing about strikes in the public sector which we all should remember:

Eventually, all strikes come to an end. We cannot close down an entire school district, sell it or file for bankruptcy. Eventually, both sides must return to the bargaining table and make the best bargain they can. At some point the legal pads will be put away, the picket signs will come down and an effort will be made to return to "normal."

HOW SUCCESSFUL that return will be depends, in great part, on how everyone behaves now — when emotions are running high.

Remembering that eventually school will re-open ought to prompt us to "cool it" now. Both sides should be careful not to do anything or say anything which they later will regret. That caution also needs to be exercised by parents, students and taxpayers.

Unfortunately, there have been instances when otherwise normal, mature adults have behaved very poorly during a teachers' strike. About a decade ago, things got out of hand when Plymouth-Canton teachers hit the bricks here for the first time. (Have we learned anything since?) Serious damage of long duration resulted from strikes in 1974 when Garden City teachers were jailed and when Crestwood teachers were fired. Labor problems continue to cause problems in Taylor.

Crestwood and Garden City unions, administrators and parents all got in some good licks in the midst of conflict. But was it worth the price? Maybe — if those school doors remained closed forever. But schools still are operating there today — by people who are struggling to deal with former combatants when some of the wounds are still scabbed over.

The quality of education in Plymouth-Canton's future will depend on the quality of our behavior today. Let us avoid making enemies today out of yesterday's and tomorrow's partners.

Parents, especially, should be very careful about throwing their children into the arena, having them march for or against one side of the other. What kind of attitudes will these children have about education when the school doors re-open, as they most definitely will? Are we really doing our children a favor when we throw them into a labor dispute where they don't belong?

A FEW teachers also behaved badly the first day of the strike by rocking the cars and otherwise harassing employees who chose to go to work that day. Those actions also will be regretted when the schools re-open.

It's too bad such actions had to occur at all. Surely teachers are professionals and as professionals possess the right to think for themselves and behave accordingly. Among the reasonable options of professionals is to follow their conscience in trying to decide whether to cross a picket line or join one.

Likewise, there have been heated words from administrators and actions taken by board members and administrators, which will be regretted in the future.

OUR READERS also should recall that the last round of bargaining for teachers and other employee groups was quite different than the climate of this year's talks.

Regardless of the merits of present offers on the table, in the last round of talks employees did agree to wage freezes and other concessions to help the district weather the fiscal storm. Many will recognize that unions behaved very responsibly at that time. Today's disagreements at the table should not take away from that assessment. Unions which have behaved responsibly in the past can, and likely will, continue to bargain responsibly to best represent their members.

Today is short-lived. Education is too important a commodity to risk depreciation in value.

This strike will end. This moment also will pass.

Competition drives down local food prices — now

A SUBURBAN housewife has been buying a 12-ounce can of concentrated orange juice for 89 cents for three years. Last week, the price dropped to 79 cents a can.

Meanwhile, the U.S. Department of Labor reports food prices rose 0.2 percent in August. The Department of Agriculture predicts food prices will rise 6.5 percent during 1984.

What's going on?

FIERCE COMPETITION among metropolitan Detroit supermarkets is the answer. This area is out of step with the rest of the country. Prices are artificially low.

Nationally, food prices are linked to the drought in the spring and the summer of this year.

A&P touched off the Detroit supermarket battle about two months ago, said Tom Albus, owner of Stan's Market in Livonia. He added, "A&P is fighting for survival. It lowered prices on many items to lure new customers. The rest of us had to follow to keep our customers."

Ada Shinabarger of the Extension Food Marketing Department at Michigan State University (MSU) said what is happening in metro Detroit is not typical of the rest of the nation.

"Detroit is not a true economic market — that is, the price is not set by the supply and demand of food," Shinabarger said. "Most of it is a hype to attract new shoppers."

FOR EXAMPLE, take the price of a gallon of milk.

"Milk cannot be produced for what some Detroit supermarkets are charging," Shinabarger said. "That doesn't even include the cost of packaging and transportation."

This week, A&P priced milk at 99 cents a gallon, Stan's Market's at $1.69. Albus said $1.69 is the break-even (point where cost equals revenue) price for milk.

"Loss leaders," like the A&P price for milk, create confusion for consumers. "When the shopper comes back the next week and finds the price of an item has jumped from the week before, he gets mad," Shinabarger said. "It indirectly gives a bad image to all people in the food business. In reality, the price was artificially low the first week."

Nick Sharkey

IF YOU ASSUME the usual laws of economics will be in effect, Detroit area shoppers will see food prices rise in the coming months.

Here is a list of foods that will be going up and the reasons, according to MSU's Shinabarger:

Red meats: "Animals which produce red meat eat soy beans and corn. The drought has forced the price for beans and corn to rise. Thus, red meat charges will increase."

Eggs: "Demand is up. People aren't eating more for breakfast. But products which use eggs — like cakes — are made more often in a better economy."

French fries and doughnuts: "Any food product which uses cooking oils will go up in price. Oils are in great demand."

Potatoes: "Last year's prices were depressed. This year prices will return to normal levels."

On the other hand, some foods should stay at about the same price.

Broccoli: "Michigan now produces its own. It should be very cheap for the next week or two."

Apples: "The Michigan crop was not good. But we get ours from throughout the country, and the national market was excellent."

WHILE CONSUMERS can take satisfaction in knowing they will not feel the full effects of food price increases, consider the grocery store owner. He must cut prices while costs are increasing.

"In the best of times, grocers make less than a 1 per cent margin on sales," said Tom Albus. "It's miserable now."

In the long run some will have to close their businesses.

But at least for now, enjoy. While that food bill may seem high, it could be a lot worse.

Food: the national picture

OBSERVER AND ECCENTRIC VALUES

Campbell's smile belied the pressure

LOOKS OFTEN can be deceiving — especially in the world of sport.

Who would think that Jimmy Campbell, the round Irishman who was top man in the Detroit Tigers office, would be forced to give way to pressure?

Anyone one visited him, the Tigers general manager was always smiling, even when the papers and the baseball fans derided him. They called him "lightwad" because he wouldn't buy players as other clubs were doing. They faulted him, often unmercifully, because he insisted on the policy of developing your own players through the farm system.

And he always had the backing of John Fetzer, owner of the Tigers. So, smiling Jimmy would shake off all the criticism.

LOOKING AT him sitting behind his desk in the office of the stadium, one never would think he was under unbearable pressure. And if you chanced to dine with him in the press room under the stands, he was always a great companion.

Why, then, did Jim Campbell decide to step down, with the remark that his doctors told him to slow down?

Well, for those who have followed the Tigers through fat years and lean, the answer came when Jim chose the day the Tigers were counted out of the pennant race to announce his decision to turn the general management over to another.

It is no secret that smiling Jim fully expected to win the pennant this season. And his confidence came the day he obtained "Sparky" Anderson as manager. It was a move that shocked the baseball world.

the stroller
W.W. Edgar

The real shock came when he relieved the quiet, unassuming Les Moss as manager four years ago when the season was only a few weeks old.

There had been no warning — nothing that showed on the surface that Moss was to be relieved. But when asked to explain, portly Jim smiled and answered, very confidently, "I have been trying to get Sparky Anderson ever since he was relieved of his duties at Cincinnati after developing the 'Big Red' team."

THEN SPARKY came on the scene and, standing before the baseball writers, bravely said, "This isn't my team. Wait until after spring training next year, then I can tell you about things."

And Jim Campbell nodded his confidence that he, at last, had the right man.

Well, spring came and Sparky spoke again. This time he was more choosy with his words. He calmly told the writers that no pennant winner was developed in a year; it would take at least four — if you were lucky.

In the meantime, Campbell brought in all the players available and considered the parts needed for a pennant-winning team.

Few of the Les Moss team were retained. Now it was Sparky's team, and a confident Jimmy believed that his 1983 Tiger team would end the drought at Michigan and Trumbull.

His managerial change had failed. So there was little surprise when he chose the day the Tigers were eliminated from the pennant race to step down.

His Irish eyes and smile through the tough days were deceiving. He had been under more severe pressure than anyone had realized.

One is forced to wonder how Les Moss, the quiet, discarded manager, felt when he heard the news.

Depoliticize Supreme Court nominations

Bob Wisler

FORMER STATE Supreme Court Justice and Cooley Law School founder Thomas Brennan is a man of words and ideas, many of them good.

The other day he came up with an idea which, while not original, is one of his better ones.

He proposed that partisan political considerations should be eliminated from the process of electing state Supreme Court justices.

Brennan maintains that candidates for the state Supreme Court should run right from the start as non-partisan candidates.

UNDER THE present system, candidates for the high court are elected in November general elections as non-partisan candidates but are almost always nominated by their respective political party conventions during the summer.

Brennan said the result is that the partisan politics plays too strong a role in the determination of who will be a Supreme Court jurist.

The ex-jurist, it should be noted, is a partisan Republican who was his party's 1982 nominee for lieutenant governor and who, at one time, intended to be a Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate.

Brennan said GOP big-wigs told him that his intention to become a Republican candidate was ill-conceived in that he had displeased loyal Republicans by voting for a legislative reapportionment plan disfavored by the GOP.

Examples of partisan politics playing a part in high court decisions are admittedly few — most concern reapportionment battles. But they are disconcerting enough to make one wish to discard the present system of political parties choosing the candidates.

THE POLITICAL wrangling at the beginning of the year over the appointment and dumping of Justice Dorothy Comstock Riley was enough to make even the most loyal partisan shudder.

Riley, a respected Appeals Court judge, was appointed to the Supreme Court by lame-duck Gov. William Milliken to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Blair Moody Jr. Incoming Gov. James Blanchard protested that he, not Milliken, should be able to fill a vacancy which starts on the day that Blanchard takes over as governor.

Blanchard filed a lawsuit demanding the right of appointment. The high court first ruled that it did not have the authority to overturn Riley's appointment. Then after political wranglings and secret meetings, one jurist, Charles Levin, changed his vote to side with the Democratic majority.

IPSO FACTO, Riley was out on her ear, and Blanchard began making blandishments to find a qualified woman jurist. He finally enticed long-time Democrat and highly respected federal judge Patricia Boyle to give up her lifetime appointment and take him and the party off the hot seat by accepting a state Supreme Court appointment.

There are two seats to be filled in the state election next fall, and a quietly furious and determined Riley is after one of those seats.

She even claimed, speaking to a Republican leadership meeting on Mackinac Island recently, that the seat she was after is "our seat," meaning the Republican Party's.

Enough is enough. Even though politics plays no part in the vast majority of state Supreme Court cases and decisions, it should play no part at all.

We deserve to have a judicial system that at least appears free of partisan considerations.

Legislators split on troops in Lebanon

Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes Sept. 22-28.

HOUSE

LEBANON: By a vote of 270-161 against, the House gave President Reagan authority under the War Powers Act to keep up to 1,600 Marines in Lebanon for an additional 18 months.

He must get congressional approval before sending more Marines there. But the measure stopped short of requiring Reagan to explain in detail the military and foreign policy purposes of the deployment.

The Senate passed a companion measure. It marked the first application of the War Powers Act since Congress enacted it 10 years ago after being frozen out of early Vietnam War decision-making.

Supporter Raymond McGrath, R-N.Y., said "This nation cannot retreat into an isolationist shell whenever events become unpleasant."

Opponent Andrew Jacobs, D-Ind., called the resolution "a political figleaf" covering the "blunder" of sending Marines to Lebanon.

Members voting yes supported keeping Marines in Lebanon until March, 1985 as part of a four-nation peace-keeping force.

Voting yes: Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, Sander Levin, D-Southfield, and William Broomfield, R-Birmingham.

Voting no: Dennis Hertel, D-Detroit, and William Ford, D-Taylor.

COAL: The House defeated, 182-235, a bill to spur construction of slurry pipelines, which would compete with the railroads for coal-hauling business.

roll call report

The vote denied federal eminent domain powers essential to laying the cross-continental underground lines. It protected the railroads, which ship nearly all of the 600 million tons of coal produced annually in the U.S.

Members voting no wanted railroads to continue to dominate coal-hauling.

Voting yes: Pursell.

Voting no: Hertel, Ford, Levin and Broomfield.

ABORTION: The House adopted, 231-184, an amendment prohibiting the use of Medicare funds and other money in HR 3913 to be used for an abortion, even if the mother's life is at stake.

HR 3913 is the $96.5 billion fiscal 1984 appropriations bill for the departments of Labor, Education and Health and Human Services. It was sent to the Senate.

Although this was the strictest anti-abortion language ever approved by the House, it stood little chance of surviving the House-Senate conference on HR 3913.

Supporter William Dannemeyer, R-Calif., said the abortion issue had "fiscal consequences" in view of the nation's declining fertility rate and rising debt, because "if we are going to pay off this debt, somebody has got to be born to pay the taxes to pay it off."

Opponent Barbara Mikulski, D-Md., said she was "shocked to hear that American women are meant to be breeder reactors to sustain civilization and pay off the deficit."

Voting yes: Hertel, Broomfield.

SENATE

LEBANON: By a vote of 54-46, the Senate approved a resolution empowering President Reagan to keep U.S. Marines in Lebanon as part of a multi-national peacekeeping force for up to 18 additional months.

The House earlier granted the same authority under the War Powers Act (see above), and the measure was sent to Reagan for his signature.

Supporter Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., said giving the president a free hand with the Marines for 18 months is essential because "history shows that it is dangerous for Congress to intervene in military command decisions."

Opponent Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., said: "Some say that Lebanon is not another Vietnam. But I reply, we must not give the president the power to turn it into one."

Senators voting yes supported keeping Marines in Lebanon for as many as 18 more months.

Michigan's Democratic senators, Carl Levin and Donald Riegle voted no.

EXPLAIN: By a vote of 55-45, the Senate tabled (killed) an amendment to SJ Res 159 (see above) requiring President Reagan to explain to the satisfaction of Congress why U.S. Marines should remain in Lebanon for a lengthy period.

Drafted by Democrats as an alternative to an 18-month deployment, the amendment called for bringing the Marines home after 60 days unless the president had by then justified the military action to Congress.

Supporter Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., said it was necessary "to Congress."

Senators voting no wanted the president to justify his decision to keep Marines in Lebanon.

Levin voted no. Riegle voted no.

THE UNITED NATIONS: The Senate adopted, 66-23, an amendment to cut the U.S. contribution to the United Nations and some of its agencies by $500 million over the next four years.

In fiscal 1984, this would reduce American support by 21 percent below the administration's budget request. The cut would be softer but still deep between 1985-87.

The amendment was attached to the State Department authorization bill (S 1342), which later was sent to conference with the House.

Sponsor Nancy Kassebaum, R-Kans., said she was "a firm believer" in the UN but felt it would work better with a thinner staff that was less politicized and less bureaucratized.

Opponent Charles Percy, R-Ill., said the UN "is not run with the efficiency we would like to see, but neither is the Senate and neither is the House."

Senators voting yes wanted to significantly cut U.S. support of the UN budget.

Levin and Riegle voted no.

Laser: surgeon, tool and weapon

"Trust the Wonder of Laser." So reads an advertisement in the TV magazine of a major newspaper.

Another ad in the same issue announces, "Laser Beam Foot Surgery." Both ads proclaim that the laser has replaced conventional foot surgery for relief of ingrown toenails, warts, growths and fungus nails.

Laser surgery is bloodless and greatly reduces the danger of infection and scarring.

Foot surgery is only one of several hundred recently developed applications for the laser, which is an acronym for "light amplification by stimulated emission of radiation."

THE LASER was once described as "an invention in search of an application."

William M. Webster, vice president at RCA Laboratories, said, "The first widespread practical use of lasers was by science fiction writers."

Lasers today are more than fascinating devices appearing in science fiction novels. Lasers are being used extensively in science and industry.

Applications include medical treatments and diagnostics, materials processing, automatic supermarket checkouts communications, surveying, construction, military equipment and product testing, to name just a few.

SIMPLY EXPLAINED, a laser is a machine that shoots a very high powered, thin beam of light.

The laser beam differs from an ordinary beam of light in both character and effectiveness. Ordinary light waves are jumbled and spread out in all directions, but laser light waves are unjumbled and packed side by side. This enables the light to travel in a very straight line, without dissipation.

This makes for an intensive concentration of energy at a sharply defined point. It also greatly extends the range of a light source.

There are many spectacular achievements of the laser which demonstrate how the properties of coherent light can be put to work. Since the laser's light does not spread out, even at great distances, a laser can illuminate the surface of the moon with a two-mile wide circle of light.

Looking at tomorrow.

Rest assured. Just because Michigan Bell is separating from AT&T this January doesn't mean you'll be separated from good phone service... not for even a second. You can count on the same highly skilled people to watch over your service, as always. And when you pick up your phone on New Year's Day you'll hear the same reliable dial tone you've heard for years.

But we'll be bringing you a lot more than a dial tone. For one thing, we will continue to exercise our almost unlimited options for selecting and implementing the very latest technology from a wide variety of communications suppliers.

What that means to you, as we go down the line, is faster, more efficient and more flexible service with many interesting choices for you. One of the innovations we'll continue to adopt for the future is electronic switching service. This will give almost everyone in Michigan the chance to opt for Touch-Tone® Service, Custom Calling Services and other communication conveniences.

Lightwave cable is a recent transmission development that can carry as many as 96,000 simultaneous conversations. And soon it will send your voice and messages with the speed of light.

Before long, your telephone will be capable of performing surprising electronic tricks, such as ringing a certain way to let you know exactly who's calling. You'll have a new way to shop by phone in stores all over the country... to handle financial transactions by talking directly to your bank's computer. To receive electronic mail. To play bridge. And even to call your oven and tell it to start dinner.

These are just a sampling of the technological advancements you can expect to enjoy through Michigan Bell. The point is very simple: Next year we'll be bringing you the same good old dial tone, but we won't be the same old phone company. We'll be pulling out all the stops to bring you the last word in phone service. After all...

IT'S AT&T WE'RE SEPARATING FROM... NOT YOU.

Facts down the line. Because your telephone business office is busily engaged in normal, day to day telephone service matters, we are providing this toll-free number as a source for answers to the questions you may have about your changing telephone company. We also suggest that you watch for our informational messages in your newspapers and in your monthly telephone bills. 1 800 555-5000

In addition, because its energy is concentrated at a fine point, it can send a short, searing pinpoint of light into the human eyeball to weld a detached retina back into place and restore sight.

Lastly, since its radiation is so intense, it can burn holes in a steel plate at a distance of several feet.

THESE ABILITIES have given rise to a whole range of applications. Laser range finders are used both by artillery officers to sight their guns and by surveyors. Lasers can cut metal, and machine brittle materials such as diamonds.

More than 60 years ago, Albert Einstein showed the scientific world the process for developing a laser. However, it was not until 1960 that the first successful laser was built.

The future of the laser is even more exciting than the amazing accomplishments to date. It is hoped the laser will only be used for peaceful purposes.

However, some observers believe the laser may be used as a devastating anti-personnel weapon on the battlefield. Other military applications may include superpower lasers to shoot down ballistic missiles or destroy hostile space stations or satellites.

INDUSTRY IS already using lasers in machining and welding operations. Forecaster Marvin Cetron predicts "the laser will replace machine and foundry tools in every tool and die shop in the world." By using lasers, drilling can be made faster, scribing closer, and welding of dissimilar materials better.

Laser communication is already a reality, with the use of fiber optics to carry the laser light beam. Fiber optics have many advantages over copper wires currently used for telephone communication. The major advantage would be no crossed wires or unwanted pickup between adjacent optical fibers.

Medical uses of laser are increasing rapidly. Soon laser will become more important than the scalpel ever was for the eye, ear, nose and throat.

Besides reattaching retinas and removing warts, lasers also are used to burn out small tumors in the eye. This is possible since a laser beam can be made as narrow in diameter as that of a single human cell. Lasers also have been considered for suturing wounds through heat.

THE SCIENCE of holography also is dependent on lasers. A hologram, a true three-dimensional photograph, is recorded on film by a reflected laser beam of a subject illuminated by a portion of the same laser beam.

Future applications of the laser are unbounded.

WHEN THE NIGHTINGALES, a Symphony League group, decided to publish a cookbook as a fund-raiser, some of the oldtimers in the league weren't too enthusiastic. This would be the third league cookbook, and there were memories of the second book's sales going on for years.

Every time the league or the Symphony Society had a gathering, the cookbooks were hopefully displayed and a few more were sold. It was a good moneymaker, but it seemed to take forever to sell them. As it turned out, some never were sold as a box of them turned up recently, when Carole Brandt went on a cleaning and neatening-up spree in the league storage center.

The Nightingales turned out a 558-page cookbook with a stupendous collection of local recipes, many in each local contributor's handwriting or printing. They received them from the publisher about a month ago and set the price at $6.50.

Well, if you have one, it may already be a collector's item for they are almost sold out.

There may be a few left at one of stores that were handling them for the league, Bed n Stead, Wayside, Sideways, Minerva's, Dunning's, Wine & Cheese Barn and Beltner Jewelry. Those cookbooks sold like hot cakes and there will not be a second edition.

VICKY WHIPPLE had high score at last week's party bridge games at the Plymouth Cultural Center and Charles Swithers came in second.

THE BLUE chapter of the high school Athletic Boosters Club has started its Big 50-50 fund-raiser for the fall. The Blue chapter is the Plymouth Salem High School booster group. They sell tickets at $10 each and pick one at sports activities through the fall season. When a person's name is drawn, he or she wins $100. And hopefully, they sell enough tickets to give another $100 to the sports department.

The Blues hope to have them all sold by the Rocks Homecoming game Friday, Oct. 14. Members of the Boosters Club and the Salem coaches have some tickets left.

THE MICHIGAN Depression Glass Society will have its 11th annual all-depression-glass show and sale 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 15 and 16.

The collectors have moved their show this year to the Dearborn Civic Center, west of Greenfield in Dearborn. They formerly had the show at Schoolcraft College.

Members of the society loaned parts of their collections to the Plymouth Historical Museum last season for a special exhibit. Anyone looking for a rare or hard-to-find piece of Depression-era glass has a good chance of finding it at the show.

Admission is a donation of $1.50 and food will be available. Among the special guests at the show will be authors and experts on depression glass. Glass repairman Richard Heidenbrand will be there to talk to those who would like to have their antique or collectible glass restored.

A NOTE FROM Barbara Brown Allen, 271-8267, says the Chadsey High School class of 1955 is planning its 30-year reunion. She is looking for the 300 January and June graduates of '55 and would appreciate a call from any in this area.

GUESTS AT THE Smith-Moore wedding last Saturday said they had a wonderful time. Charles Smith, manager of John Smith Men's Wear, and Anita Moore were married by the fountain in Kellogg Park. The marriage ceremony was performed by Judge Dunbar Davis.

After the ceremony, they took all their guests on a champagne tour of Plymouth in the city's English double-decker bus. Russ of the Fenniman Deli had the champagne chilled and waiting for the tour. The wedding reception and dinner were later in the Sunflower Subdivision Clubhouse in Canton.

Old Village apple fest is Sunday

Old Village will celebrate the season Sunday afternoon with its annual apple festival. From 1-6 p.m. the streets of the Old Village area will salute autumn with apples, cider, entertainment and bargains.

Proceeds from the event planned by merchants in the Old Village Association will be used to continue their beautification plan for this old part of the city of Plymouth.

Activities have been arranged for the enjoyment of all ages. Pony and hay rides will be available on Liberty Street between Mill and Starkweather. The city's band shell will be set up on Farmer Street, between Mill and Starkweather, with continuous entertainment provided by musicians, singers and dancers.

An auction will begin at the bandshell at 3:30 p.m. All the items offered for bidding have been donated by the Old Village merchants.

ARTS AND CRAFTS booths will be set up throughout the village along with some specializing in antiques. These booths have been juried for participation in the apple festival.

The shops in the village will be open for the fest and the merchants welcome browsers.

Jude Ann Le Blanc, secretary of the Old Village Association, said, "The arts, crafts and antiques booths will be set up on Mill and Starkweather streets between Main and Division. We invite everyone to bring their family and celebrate fall with us."

She suggested that this was an opportunity to stock up on apples and cider. Fresh doughnuts and cider will be available for munching and drinking at the festival.

Janita Hauk hopes to fill the lack of a beginner's string program in the schools.

Youth Symphony gives orchestra experience

The Plymouth Youth Symphony will give young musicians, grades four to eight, an opportunity to perform with a full orchestra. H. Michael Endres will be director of the symphony for the 1983-84 season. He has been orchestra director for the Plymouth-Canton Schools for 19 years and was director of the Youth Symphony for seven years.

Janita Hauk, instructor of violin at Madonna College and string specialist at Ladywood High School, will work with Endres. She is a member of the American String Teachers Association and the Violin Society of America. Hauk is beginning her 13th season as first violin with the Plymouth Symphony and is a member of the Plymouth String Trio.

Under her direction, the Youth Symphony will sponsor a beginning string class for students in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades. The beginning string program, once a strong builder of the string section of the Plymouth Symphony, no longer is available in the Plymouth-Canton schools.

Hauk hopes to fill this lack with the PYS string classes.

ENDRES AND Hauk say the Youth Symphony will take on a new emphasis to serve and include all the middle school students in the local schools.

"This year's emphasis will be toward the middle school level, grades seven to nine, with a major thrust toward building a full orchestra ensemble including wind and percussion students," said Endres. "We hope to reach all middle school students who are currently in the school program as this will provide them with a truly full, large-orchestra experience."

Rehearsals will be 6:30-8:30 p.m. Tuesdays at Plymouth Salem High School. Because of the teachers' strike, first Tuesday rehearsal date is tentative.

Interested students and parents will meet in a room adjoining the orchestra room of Plymouth Salem High the next available Tuesday night. For information, they may call 455-8446.

Violin, viola, cello and bass players are needed and are welcome to become members of PYS. Wind and percussion players on all instruments also are encouraged to join the youth symphony.

THE FEE FOR beginning instruction in strings for the school year will be $50. Lessons will be group style and will be Tuesday nights at Plymouth Salem under the direction of Janita Hauk.

She says a few string instruments, belonging to the schools, are available.

Music performed by the PYS will include symphonic movements, overtures, solo concertos, Broadway musical selections, popular songs and novelty music.

Betty Pint named Woman of the Year

The Plymouth Business and Professional Women's Club has named Betty Pint its Woman of the Year for 1984. The club members voted on candidates at the BPW September meeting. Pint will represent the club at the District 9 meeting at the Holiday Inn in Livonia when a woman of the year will be selected to represent the 12 clubs in the district.

Plymouth, Canton, Detroit Business Women, Farmington, Garden City, Livonia, Northville, Novi, Northwest Detroit, Redford, Wayne and Westland clubs are in District 9.

Betty Pint has lived in the Plymouth community since she graduated from Plymouth High School. She has been an employee of the National Bank of Detroit since 1942. She is banking officer in charge of the Ann Arbor Road-Harvey Street branch of NBD.

IN ANNOUNCING the Woman of the Year, Marcie Greeley, who headed the committee, said, "Betty is an outstanding citizen of the Plymouth community, a special person and a lady in every way. She has always found time to help many people through her continuous kindnesses. The Plymouth BPW is proud to be able to honor Betty in this way."

She is treasurer of the Plymouth Historical Society and a member of the Chamber of Commerce, Fall Festival Board, City Parking Commission and the Advisory Board of the Salvation Army.

She also received a beautification award from the city of Plymouth for her efforts in improving the landscaping at her NBD branch.

Bazaar season coming

Carol Toth (left) and Marcia Gallerini are hard at work getting ready for the arts and crafts fair Saturday, Nov. 5 at the Plymouth Christian Academy on Joy Road. The Observer will run a

Speaking of pride — how about the Steelers?

Another Canton treasure to tell you about, Andy Hennika was awarded an honors plaque in academics recently at the honors convocation for the 1982-83 school year for St. Mary's Preparatory of Orchard Lake. However, academics is not the only field in which Andy excels. He also won a choral letter, and athletic awards in football, basketball and baseball. To top it all off, Andy has been selected to serve as a resident assistant for the 1983-84 academic year. For all this and whatever is still to come, Andy, we congratulate you. I hope you'll keep me posted on any, and all of the exciting things I know are ahead for you. Remember "We knew you when" and we were proud!

SPEAKING OF pride, how about some community pride?
It seems we have a real live winning team in our midst, and they are staring for attention. Winning their little hearts out every week, winning, winning and more winning — undefeated is the word.

If it's the Steelers football teams from the Plymouth Canton Junior Football League, I'm not talking about just one team of Steelers either, I am talking about the freshman, the junior and the varsity teams.

How about this? Here is a way to get some free entertainment. Get the whole family together and get behind your community team. These kids are playing all the surrounding communities and winning, but they are doing it to an empty stadium.

So how about it, Canton? If you can't find the time yourself, how about having your teen-ager take the younger ones in the family? They even have a great group of DYN-A-MITE cheerleaders to get things going. They play Saturday nights or Sunday afternoons. I have a number you can call to get the schedule. This week the game will be at 1 p.m. Sunday at Central Middle School. For future games call 455-4244 for the where, when, and whatfor. Let's get on our Black and Gold and see you next Sunday. (Providing you cleaned out the garage this past weekend).

I'M HAPPY to be able to report another Cantonite is about to enter the "Linda Evans" part of her life. Genny

Najmowitz, is now on her way to "gorgeous."

As we all know, life begins at a certain age, and just as we were cute at 20 as was Linda Evans when she played the cute young blond in "The Big Valley." So shall we be beautiful at 40, as is Linda Evans now when she plays the gorgeous older blond in "Dynasty." Genny now joins the ranks of all the many beautiful Cantonites who have passed over from cute little 20 to the beautiful you know what.

On hand to witness the transformation were some close friends and fellow pinochle players, Joan Brown, Jeri DeTada, Karen Lashbrooke, Mary Loneragan, Happi Merritt and Paula Morton. The whole affair was hosted by Lynn Coker as they munched on veggies and dip along with the happy birthday cake while listening to oldies but goodies and playing their regular pinochle game. For the record, Joan Brown won and Jeri DeTada took the booby.

So, happy birthday, Genny Najmowitz, and welcome to the "gorgeous" side of 40. I think we all could do well to remember a little story my terrific husband Ken keeps telling. When he was 19, he looked at a 35-year-old woman as an old lady. Now, he's on the other side of 40 and he looks at a 35-year-old woman as a "sweet young thing."

You see, it's all in where you're standing when the comparison is made.

MANY NEW CANTONITES originally were drawn to this area because of the peaceful, warm, community atmosphere of Plymouth. While on the other side of the coin, Canton, in return, has brought business. A new and growing community has many needs — literally from soup to nuts. For the most part, we have gravitated toward Plymouth for many years. This is particularly evident in all the "new" and beautiful shops in Plymouth built within the last 10 years alone, which have added even more charm to a community that abounds in just that!

In keeping with the community spirit, the Canton Newcomers joined an old Plymouth tradition and presented a plaque to the management of the Mayflower Hotel in Plymouth just this past Friday. On hand for this auspicious occasion were four officers from the Newcomers Club and their spouses. Magi Thomas, president of Canton Newcomers, and her husband Jack; Terry Strait, vice president, and husband Bill; Sharleen Imboden, special interest chairman, and husband Dale; and in charge of membership and welcoming Ann CoWell, and husband Bill. Because of all the time many Cantonites spend in the Crow's Nest, it seemed only fitting our Newcomers join the fine tradition enjoyed at the Crow's Nest — presentation of a matching plaque marking special occasions and groups.

The plaque was hand-engraved by club member Molly Pemberton. All in all, it was a wonderful evening as they were graciously treated to a complimentary cocktail by the Mayflower management and the group stayed for another memorable dinner in one of their favorite area spots. Don't forget to stop by and take a look at our plaque in the Crow's Nest.

A SHORT NOTE to the many area fans of Judi's "Bag Factory," her fall line is out. Give her a call 981-6986 or give me a call if you're not familiar with her work and I'll try to help you all I can.

See you next week. Keep Canton moving!

Bowersox-Haskell

Dawn Elizabeth Haskell and Jeffrey Robert Bowersox exchanged marriage vows Sept. 10 in First United Presbyterian Church of Plymouth. The Rev. Philip Rodgers Magee officiated. The bride carried the prayer book carried by her mother when she was married 26 years ago. The bride is the daughter of Frank and Gail Haskell of South Lyon, formerly of Plymouth. The bridegroom's parents are Charles and Arline Collins of South Lyon.

The bride's floor-length gown was trimmed with chantilly lace and had a chapel train. She wore a picture hat and carried orchids with the prayer book. The bride's sister, Cheryl Thompson of Howell, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Cathy Bowersox, Cheryl Collins and Sharron Bentley. The attendants wore long burgundy dresses with illusion net fronts trimmed with Schiffli embroidery. They wore picture hats and carried burgundy and white carnations.

Frankie Goodwin was best man. Ushers were Johnnie Thompson, Chris McLeod and Craig Lauber.

Three hundred guests attended the wedding reception at Romanoff's and South Lyon band, Airbourne, played for the reception.

The couple toured the Upper Peninsula on their wedding trip. They will live in South Lyon.

Both are 1970 graduates of South Lyon High School. The bride is employed at Dandy Acres First Veterinary Clinic and her husband is employed at Pierre's Vending Co. of Livonia.

What do you have in common with Susan B. Anthony, Whitney Young, Clara Barton and Thomas Jefferson? A lot — if you're the kind of person who feels deeply for all people; who thinks that social justice and equality aren't just words, but require action. A lot — if you think there are many paths to truth to explore. A lot — if you believe that what you think and feel, what you meditate and pray for, can be acted on daily. For those who share these beliefs, there is a faith that welcomes and supports free and independent-thinking people who have hope for the future. Unitarian Universalism — it's the faith that helped sustain Dr. Albert Schweitzer, Henry David Thoreau and Dorothea Dix. It's the faith of people down the street from you. Retired teachers entertained

Alpha Delta Kappa hosted a tea for former teachers Monday in the Plymouth Historical Museum. The annual autumn tea, traditionally held in the library of East Middle School, had to be switched to a new location because of the teachers' strike.

Members of the educational sorority provided beverages and an assortment of cookies, squares, tarts and other delectables for the event. Michael Endres collected as many members of the CEP Chamber Orchestra as he could contact to entertain the honored guests.

Guests were seated at long tables as the CEP Chamber Orchestra played for them.

Ring-Overholt

Jodi Overholt and Howard L. Ring were married June 24 in Our Lady of Good Counsel Catholic Church with the Rev. Kenneth MacKinnon officiating at the double-ring ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. George Overholt of Plymouth are the bride's parents. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard S. Ring of Bloomfield Hills.

The couple honeymooned in Hawaii and live in Plymouth.

The bride's floor-length gown of white chantilly lace over taffeta had a fitted bodice embroidered with pearls, and a high neckline. A matching camelot headpiece traced with seed pearls secured her lace-edged finger veil of illusion. Her attendants were Laurie Roy of San Francisco, matron of honor; Barbara Overholt, Carole Overholt Brooks, Florence Ring and Susan Seitz of Ann Arbor, bridesmaids. Kristin Brooks, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a mini rose print dress accented with lace and white satin ribbons. The honor attendants wore suede rose gowns with chantilly lace overblouses. They carried silk flower arrangements.

George Ring of Oklahoma was best man. Groomsmen were William Brooks, Martin Hess, David Ring and William Seitz. Jason Brooks, the bride's nephew, was ringbearer.

The bride is a graduate of Plymouth Canton High School and Michigan State University. She is a teacher in the Plymouth Canton Community Schools. Her husband graduated from Birmingham Seaholm High School and the University of Michigan. He is a systems analyst at Ford Motor Co. in Dearborn.

Speaking of pride — how about the Steelers?

Another Canton treasure to tell you about. Andy Hennika was awarded an honors plaque in academics recently at the honors convocation for the 1982-83 school year for St. Mary's Preparatory of Orchard Lake. However, academics is not the only field in which Andy excels. He also won a choral letter, and athletic awards in football, basketball and baseball. To top it all off, Andy has been selected to serve as a resident assistant for the 1983-84 academic year. For all this and whatever is still to come, Andy, we congratulate you. I hope you'll keep me posted on any, and all of the exciting things I know are ahead for you. Remember "We knew you when" and we were proud!

SPEAKING OF pride, how about some community pride?
It seems we have a real live winning team in our midst, and they are staring for attention. Winning their little hearts out every week, winning, winning and more winning — undefeated is the word.

It's the Steelers football teams from the Plymouth Canton Junior Football League. I'm not talking about just one team of Steelers either. I am talking about the freshman, the junior and the varsity teams.
How about this? Here is a way to get some free entertainment. Get the whole family together and get behind your community team. These kids are playing all the surrounding communities and winning, but they are doing it to an empty stadium.
So how about it, Canton? If you can't find the time yourself, how about having your teen-ager take the younger ones in the family? They even have a great group of DYN-A-MITE cheerleaders to get things going. They play Saturday nights or Sunday afternoons. I have a number you can call to get the schedule. This week the game will be at 1 p.m. Sunday at Central Middle School. For future games call 455-4244 for the where, when, and whatfor. Let's get on our Black and Gold and see you next Sunday. (Providing you cleaned out the garage this past weekend).

I'M HAPPY to be able to report another Cantonite is about to enter the "Linda Evans" part of her life. Genny

Najmowitz, is now on her way to "gorgeous."
As we all know, life begins at a certain age, and just as we were cute at 20 as was Linda Evans when she played the cute young blond in "The Big Valley." So shall we be beautiful at 40, as is Linda Evans now when she plays the gorgeous older blond in "Dynasty." Genny now joins the ranks of all the many beautiful Cantonites who have passed over from cute little 20 to the beautiful you know what.
On hand to witness the transformation were some close friends and fellow pinocle players, Joan Brown, Jeri DeTada, Karen Lashbrooke, Mary Loneragan, Happi Merritt and Paula Morton. The whole affair was hosted by Lynn Coker as they munched on veggies and dip along with the happy birthday cake while listening to oldies but goodies and playing their regular pinocle game. For the record, Joan Brown won and Jeri DeTada took the booby.
So, happy birthday, Genny Najmowitz, and welcome to the "gorgeous" side of 40. I think we all could do well to remember a little story my terrific husband Ken keeps telling. When he was 19, he looked at a 35-year-old woman as an old lady. Now, he's on the other side of 40 and he looks at a 35-year-old woman as a "sweet young thing."
You see, it's all in where you're standing when the comparison is made.

MANY NEW CANTONITES originally were drawn to this area because of the peaceful, warm, community atmosphere of Plymouth. While on the other side of the coin, Canton, in return, has brought business. A new and growing community has many needs — literally from soup to nuts. For the most part, we have gravitated toward Plymouth for many years. This is particularly evident in all the "new" and beautiful shops in Plymouth built within the last 10 years alone, which have added even more charm to a community that abounds in just that!

In keeping with the community spirit, the Canton Newcomers joined an old Plymouth tradition and presented a plaque to the management of the Mayflower Hotel in Plymouth just this past Friday. On hand for this auspicious occasion were four officers from the Newcomers Club and their spouses. Magi Thomas, president of Canton Newcomers, and her husband Jack; Terry Strait, vice president, and husband Bill; Sharleen Immonen, special interest chairman, and husband Dale; and in charge of membership and welcoming, Ann Colwell, and husband Bill. Because of all the time many Cantonites spend in the Crow's Nest, it seemed only fitting our Newcomers join the fine tradition enjoyed at the Crow's Nest — presentation of a matching plaque marking special occasions and groups.

The plaque was hand-engraved by club member Molly Pemberton.
All in all, it was a wonderful evening as they were graciously treated to a complimentary cocktail by the Mayflower management and the group stayed for another memorable dinner in one of their favorite area spots. Don't forget to stop by and take a look at our plaque in the Crow's Nest.
A SHORT NOTE to the many area fans of Judi's "Bag Factory," her fall line is out. Give her a call 981-6986 or give me a call if you're not familiar with her work and I'll try to help you all I can.
See you next week. Keep Canton moving!

Bowersox-Haskell

Dawn Elizabeth Haskell and Jeffrey Robert Bowersox exchanged marriage vows Sept. 10 in First United Presbyterian Church of Plymouth. The Rev. Phillip Rodgers Magee officiated. The bride carried the prayer book carried by her mother when she was married 26 years ago. The bride is the daughter of Frank and Gail Haskell of South Lyon, formerly of Plymouth. The bridegroom's parents are Charles and Arline Collins of South Lyon.
The bride's floor-length gown was trimmed with chantilly lace and had a chapel train. She wore a picture hat and carried orchids with the prayer book. The bride's sister, Cheryl Thompson of Howell, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Cathy Bowersox, Cheri Collins and Sharron Bentley. The attendants wore long burgundy dresses with illusion net fronts trimmed with Schiffli embroidery. They wore picture hats and carried burgundy and white carnations.

Frankie Goodwin was best man. Ushers were Johnnie Thompson, Chris McLeod and Craig Lauber.
Three hundred guests attended the wedding reception at Romanoff's and South Lyon band, Airbourne, played for the reception.
The couple toured the Upper Peninsula on their wedding trip. They will live in South Lyon.
Both are 1979 graduates of South Lyon High School. The bride is employed at Dandy Acres First Veterinary Clinic and her husband is employed at Pierre's Vending Co. of Livonia.

Retired teachers entertained

Alpha Delta Kappa hosted a tea for former teachers Monday in the Plymouth Historical Museum. The annual autumn tea, traditionally held in the library of East Middle School, had to be switched to a new location because of the teachers' strike. Members of the educational sorority provided beverages and an assortment of cookies, squares, tarts and other delectables for the event. Michael Endres collected as many members of the CEP Chamber Orchestra as he could contact to entertain the honored guests.

Guests were seated at long tables as the CEP Chamber Orchestra played for them.

Ring-Overholt

Jodi Overholt and Howard L. Ring were married June 24 in Our Lady of Good Counsel Catholic Church with the Rev. Kenneth MacKinnon officiating at the double-ring ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. George Overholt of Plymouth are the bride's parents. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard S. Ring of Bloomfield Hills.

The couple honeymooned in Hawaii and live in Plymouth.

The bride's floor-length gown of white chantilly lace over taffeta had a fitted bodice embroidered with pearls, and a high neckline. A matching camelot headpiece traced with seed pearls secured her lace-edged finger veil of illusion. Her attendants were Laurie Roy of San Francisco, matron of honor; Barbara Overholt, Carole Overholt Brooks, Florence Ring and Susan Seitz of Ann Arbor, bridesmaids. Kristin Brooks, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a mini rose print dress accented with lace and white satin ribbons. The honor attendants wore suede rose gowns with chantilly lace overblouses. They carried silk-flower arrangements.

George Ring of Oklahoma was best man. Groomsmen were William Brooks, Martin Hess, David Ring and William Seitz. Jason Brooks, the bride's nephew, was ringbearer.

The bride is a graduate of Plymouth Canton High School and Michigan State University. She is a teacher in the Plymouth Canton Community Schools. Her husband graduated from Birmingham Seaholm High School and the University of Michigan. He is a systems analyst at Ford Motor Co. in Dearborn.

WHERE FAMILIES OF ONE OR MORE ARE WELCOME

What picture comes to mind when you hear the word "family"? Do you see a mother, father, and 2-3 children? What does a family look like?
Every family is unique. There are families with children, some with no children, some are single-parent families, and there are "blended families" — where a new family is formed from former ones. "Part-time" families occur when a parent has custody on week-ends or during vacations. Families come in all sizes and in wide variation.
Your family — of one or more — is welcome with us. Though every family has its own specific set of problems and potentials, we all need Christ, His love, and His caring. Let us meet your family this week!

St. Genevieve Parish celebrates its 25th anniversary

Why were those children wearing silver aluminum foil as they marched down the sidewalk near Livonia's St. Genevieve School last week? And why did all those balloons float up into the sky at the end of the walk?

The reason for the parade was the silver anniversary of St. Genevieve Parish. About 240 elementary students participated, carrying pom poms, signs, tamborines and noise makers while they beat on pans. A silver hat was a must for all.

The Rev. Ferdinand Wolder, pastor of St. Genevieve, was grand marshal. Helium balloons were released at the end of the ceremony. They all carried a message about the parish's 25th anniversary, and a request to inform the school if they were found. One letter already has been received by the school. It was discovered on a balloon that went down in Saline.

St. Aidan pays tribute to pastor

Rev. Alex J. Brunett

The silver jubilee marking 25 years of service by the Rev. Alex J. Brunett to the Catholic Church was observed recently by church officials and members.

Participating in the Mass honoring him at St. Aidan Catholic Church were the Rev. John Dearden, former archbishop of Detroit, and Bishop Moses Anderson. A reception followed the mass. That evening a dinner was held in Roma Hall attended by more than 800.

A lively play called "Pastor and Parish" was presented. Adapted from the Broadway musical, "Guys and Dolls," it featured members of St. Aidan's choir. It dealt with the parish council, choir and parish life, and was in rehearsal for six months.

Don't give up on your problems

In C.S. Lewis' book, "The Screwtape Letters," the Devil, who is the personification of evil, finds that he can win over a good person simply by diverting the person's attention away from the issue at hand. The thought that the Devil places in his mind is simply that it is time to go to lunch.

How many times do people fail to seek good simply because they become diverted? It may not be that we fight directly with evil. Rather the temptation "to go out for lunch" defeats our search for a life which is true and good.

The most prevalent problems are those which we have simply ignored, either because we feel we are incapable of dealing with them, or we believe nothing will change. Recently I spent a long afternoon talking with two young adults.

A person of their own age in their family had just died. We puzzled over why one would fail to seek new direction in their life. Why wouldn't their relative reach out to the help that was available?

moral perspectives
Rev. David Strong

SOME WOULD suggest that life is simply a battle between good and evil; if a person turns to God, then the evil will be driven out of his life. Rather than this simple prescription, we observe people whose life is full of confusion.

When we trace back the most ancient idea of hell, Sheol, we find that it is a state of chaos rather than moral evil. Here life was described as one full of confusion, darkness and uncertainty. It was like the depths of the ocean for the one who was lost.

In the book of Jonah, the writer cries out to God as though he is drowning: "In the deep, the midst of the seas, the floods covered me." In this terrible experience he remembers God and reaches out for help.

Two truths need to be shared with such a person. First we need to help people believe that their problems are solvable. Too often such people tell themselves things like, "never," "I can't," "I'll always..." They tell themselves that conditions will not change and so their prediction becomes true.

We need to counteract this by telling them that they can change. They can work on their problems. If they are able to think, they need not continue to feel confused. If you can think, you do not have to give up.

THIS TEMPTATION is to lose faith in ourselves. It is then that people withdraw to suffer alone, without courage or hope.

We also need to communicate the fact that God believes in this person. Our faith and strength are nurtured in a relationship with one who will not stop believing in us. The scriptures are full of statements to this point: "I will not leave you comfortless." We can communicate this belief, we will never give up on the other person. We will continue to believe in him, or her, no matter what happens.

In doing this we reflect a persistence, a "hanging in there" which is a characteristic of the ultimate one who hangs in there with us, God. Ultimately believing in oneself requires a faith in God.

I meet increasing numbers of people who either live in a state of confusion or who are on the verge of giving up. Such a condition is often aggravated by social circumstances such as unemployment, illness, dislocation, a death or a divorce.

The problem remains, however, it is a problem of the spirit. Only when it is addressed as a problem of the human spirit will we adequately address its social dimension.

Nashville: strummin' 'n pickin' in U.S.A.'s music city

Grand Old Opry is king of the hills

Part two of a three-part series on Tennessee. The last installment will appear in next Thursday's edition.

NASHVILLE — You can watch them pickin' on the stage of "Nashville Now," where they tape cable television shows on the Nashville Network. You can stomp your feet at the Grand Old Opry or near the not-so-grand but great-sounding stage of the Station Inn. You can see them pickin' over breakfast at the Opryland Hotel or after dinner at the KOA campground.

They've been pickin' in the Tennessee hills ever since the first settlers brought English folk songs to America centuries ago, pickin' with the gospel singers in church and to liven a barn dance in places called Grinders Switch and Dale Hollow.

A picker is a musician who picks at the strings of a violin, guitar, banjo, bass fiddle, or any other stringed instrument; picks with a flat pick or with his fingers to make country music. That music rose out of these hills onto the airwaves of America, and it's now a multi-billion dollar business that echoes all over the world.

You can hear it in Los Angeles or Livonia or London, but if you want to experience it in all of its finger-picking goodness, you've got to go to Nashville, especially to Opryland, U.S.A., where they've made pickin' into a serious business.

MUSIC LOVERS have been listening to the pickers add singers of the Grand Old Opry ever since it started at the WSM Barn Dance in a one-room radio studio in Nashville in the mid-30's. The Opry kept moving to larger quarters as the crowds got bigger until they were forced to charge 25 cents just to keep the crowds down.

Tourists can still visit Ryman Auditorium, an old church with cracked pews where the Opry moved with its familiar red barn backdrop in 1943, but if you want to hear it now, you must go to the 4400-seat auditorium on the grounds of Opryland, U.S.A.

Local investors moved the Opry 20 minutes drive out of town in 1972 and planned to build a few gift shops around it. Instead, they built a theme park dedicated to music, called it Opryland, U.S.A., and started picking them in.

1-of-a-kind traveler
contributing travel editor

This year Opryland, USA, started a cable network called "Nashville Now," and some of the best pickin' in town can be heard week nights from 8-9:30 p.m., when the program is on the air live. When the park is open, "Nashville Now" is just one of the many musical adventures available with a park ticket.

NASHVILLE is music city, USA, so you are as likely to find pickers in the audience as on the stage. I was watching band member Larry Sasser run a metal bar up and down the strings of an electronic instrument called a 'steal pedal' when I met Ken Hutson, a dentist and bluegrass picker from Marietta, Georgia.

Ken used to punch holes in a lard can to make an instrument like that when he was growing up in the Tennessee mountains. Nowadays he plays with a group called The Brakemen, named after a famous band led by Jimmie Rodgers.

Sasser was warming us up for the Jordinares, who made the sound track for 28 movies and hundreds of records as backup singers for Elvis Presley.

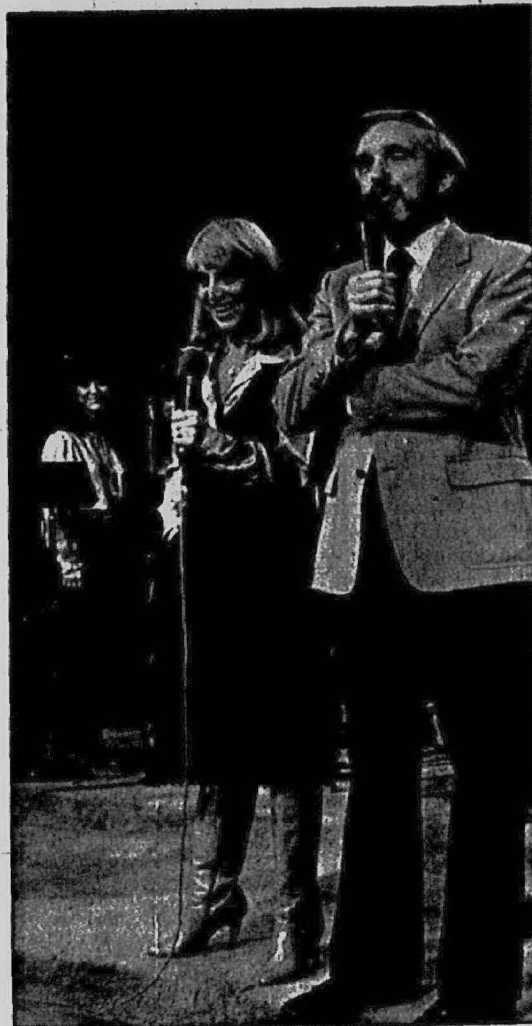

Jeannie Seeley, a member of the Grand Old Opry, follows, her blonde hair and black sequined gown glowing in the spotlight. Jeannie recently made an album with Willie Nelson and is typical of the caliber of performer found on this regular cable program.

Part of the folksy part of Nashville Now is when emcee Ralph Emery talks to members of the audience. Tonight he brings down the house bantering with tourists from Michigan, especially one from Royal Oak who proved to be a country-music-greenhorn.

"Here is the question that's going to win you a T-shirt," Emery says. Roy Acuff is the King of Country Music, but who is Johnny Cash?"

The perplexed lady stands still and Emery asks the question again as band members hooted. The visitor finally replied: "I don't know the answer to that question. I just started to be a hillbilly today."

For information, write to Opryland, USA, Information Center, 2802 Opryland Drive, Nashville, TN 37214.

The "Nashville Now" television show allows visitors to see Nashville music being made by experts. At left, the TV show's host, Ralph Emery, warms up the audience for the next singer, popular Jeannie Seeley. Above are band members doing what comes naturally — pickin'.

For real bluegrass, go to . . .

Visitors to the Opryland Hotel at Opryland, USA, can find a free live music show that runs from 7:30 to 9 a.m. in the Hotel's Stagedoor Lounge. The booths that were full of bourbon drinkers and hand-clappers the night before are now full of people eating sausage and biscuits as they watch The Waking Crew at work on WSM Radio 650.

This is the second oldest radio program in the country, right after the Grand Old Opry. The host chats away while Nashville musicians, guests for the day, lean against the stage, hamming it up between songs.

There are hundreds of disc jockeys in the U.S., but few have live country music behind them and guests who appear regularly on stage and television. Many of the singers will do the Waking Crew, the Grand Old Opry and "Nashville Now" on one run through town.

ANOTHER PLACE worth visiting is the Station Inn in downtown Nashville.

There aren't too many customers around the red and white checked tablecloths on a week night, but the little bar, its walls lined with beer signs and music posters, is wall to wall with foot-tapping blue grass lovers on a weekend. Tonight the Tennessee

Blues are on stage, two guitars, a banjo, a bass fiddle and a violin.

This is the kind of place you'd never find on your own, and you probably wouldn't go in if you did. . . a small dingy bar in a dimly lit part of the downtown, but blue grass lovers are a cult and all blue grass lovers come here.

Owner J.T. Gray was playing country music in Chicago when he met a bunch of bluegrass pickers, and decided to come to Nashville, where pickin' is serious business. Two years ago he bought the Station Inn. His stage has hosted names like The Whites, Bill Monroe, Ralph Stanley and the Bluegrass Cardinals.

One night Bill Monroe, Father of Bluegrass, rose up out of the audience and played a few bars. That's like Duke Ellington getting up out of the audience and playing a few bars at a local Detroit jazz joint.

Lack of letters ruffles resume writer

(P.C.118)

Dear Observer Readers:

Please continue to keep in touch with me by phone at 455-8892 or in writing at 41711 Joy Road, Canton, Mich., 48187.

40-PLUS RESUMES SENT - ONLY ONE RESPONSE Dear Letter Writer:

I have sent 40-plus resumes for employment all over the United States. I have only heard from one potential employer which means that I don't even know if my resume was received. Could you please help me write a "Letter to the Editor" of the Wall Street Journal? I know that many unemployed people must be having the same problem. I wait for my mail each day and each day I am disappointed. Please Help.

Sincerely
Mr. A

Dear Wall Street Journal Editor:

I feel compelled to write to express my dismay at the method by which your advertisers handle responses to "Ads for Employment." I am presently engaged in a massive career campaign and have responded to 40-plus advertisements in the National Business Weekly. I have received only one acknowledgement of receipt of my letter and resume. Common courtesy and good business practice would dictate that a company, even by way of a form letter, at least notify the respondent that his resume has been received. In addition, it would be helpful and appreciated if the employer would respond with at least a brief explanation as to where the respondent was deficient or perhaps even if he was overqualified; some reason why the company does not wish to hire him/her. I would sincerely appreciate your using this letter in your "Letters to the Editor" column. In today's economy, which unfortunately has put many highly-qualified individuals out of work, it seems to me that although the employer has the "pick of the litter," the "litter" ought to be treated respectfully. Sincerely
Mr. A

RESOLUTION: The Wall Street Journal printed Mr. A's letter on Aug. 30, 1983. Nothing substantially has changed for Mr. A, i.e. employers have not become more considerate, but Mr. A did exercise his right to freedom of speech and was able to get his feelings of frustration off his chest.

THIS FEMALE IS UNEMPLOYED, BUT VERY CREATIVE IN HER JOB SEARCHING APPROACH

Dear Letter Writer:
I have been a fan of the Statler Brothers for many years and have gone to every concert that I could possibly get to when they were performing in this area. I am a vivacious and outgoing gal and I don't exactly know how, but I bet I could work for them in some the letter writer by Ginny Eades job. The Statler Brothers know me because whenever I go to one of their concerts, I sit in the front row and give them freshly baked, chocolate chip cookies. Could you help me write a letter that would get their attention and not get buried in all their fan mail.

Sincerely,
Ms. M.

Dear Statler Brothers:

I am the lady in Detroit that brings you chocolate chip cookies and I am forwarding you my resume because I sincerely feel that I have professional and personal attributes that could be valuable to the Statler Brothers. As I presently view myself and my life and career expectations, I find that I am highly-skilled, flexible and in a position to be totally mobile. As I looked back over the last 10 to 15 years of my life, I discovered that I have amassed talents and expertise, particularly in dealing with people, either one to one or in groups. In addition, I now know that I can sell myself. I would be interested in speaking with you, or your representative, with regard to employment with your group. Thanks for your time and I look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,
Ms. M.

RESOLUTION: Ms. M had a meeting with a representative of the Statler Brothers in Ann Arbor on Saturday, Sept. 24, 1983.

4 YEARS IN THE SAME APARTMENT AND YOU HAVE TO MOVE BECAUSE THE RENT WENT UP

Dear Letter Writer:
My rent just went up and I would like to write a letter and try to convince my landlord not to raise it. If I can't, I'll have to move and I don't want to do that.

Sincerely,
Ms. C.

Dear Landlord:

As you know my lease is coming up for renewal at the end of June 1983 and I have recently been notified that my monthly rental payment has been increased. Because of this increase, I find myself in a position where I can no longer afford to live in the apartment. I regret this very much as I have been a tenant for four years. In an attempt to solve my housing problem, I began to apartment shop some six weeks ago. My intention was to attempt to secure a new apartment and move at the end of June 1983, so that my move would occur at the same time that my lease was to be renewed. Unfortunately, I was not able to time it perfectly and now find myself in the position of having to move one month short of the expiration of my lease. I am writing this letter because I do not want to have to give up my apartment. I am very comfortable here and have very much enjoyed my last four years of residency. I am a single tenant and, as I work full-time, six days a week, I suspect that my utility usage is lower than the average tenant. I would sincerely request that you give some consideration to leaving my rent at its present rate. In the event that you cannot see fit to accommodate me, I would ask that you use my security deposit as payment for my May 1983 rent and not enforce your contractual right to payment of the June rent. As you can see, it is my intention to provide you with as much honest information as possible in the hope that you will consider my requests.

Sincerely,
Ms. C.

RESOLUTION: The landlord applied Ms. C's security deposit against her June rent, but did raise her monthly payment. Ms. C. did move, but at least was able to use her June rental payment as a security deposit on her new place.

2 lawyers at assembly

Two Plymouth attorneys have returned home after participating in an assembly dealing with rules governing activities of the Judicial Tenure Commission.

John Vos III and Don Morgan attended a meeting last week of the Representative Assembly of the State Bar of Michigan which debated two proposed changes in Michigan Supreme Court rules governing the court tenure commission.

Assembly members were asked to consider placing a three-year statute of limitations on Tenure Commission investigations into alleged judicial misconduct. Under the proposed rule, complaints made more than three years after the event complained about could not be investigated by the Tenure Commission.

Another proposed change is that all files developed in an investigation of a judge which do not lead to formal charges against that judge be immediately destroyed.

The 150-member assembly, policy-making body of the state bar, met in Cobo Hall. It also discussed possible creation and funding of a pilot dispute resolution center in Washtenaw County. Such centers, which involve use of arbitrators, are alternative methods of settling civil matters without full court proceedings.

Save the gym: campus protest in modern times

By Tim Richard
staff writer

A bulging Schoolcraft College is pondering whether to convert its auxiliary gymnasium to a computer laboratory and business offices — but some students dislike the idea.

"I just don't want them even to consider the phys ed Building," said student Barbara Sergison, who with a friend has collected approximately 800 signatures on opposition petitions.

"Phys ed is an important part of education," said Sergison, a Canton resident whose five grown children have participated in athletics. She is in her second year as a business administration student at the community college.

DR. CONWAY JEFFRESS, vice president for instruction, confirmed that the auxiliary gym is "one of many alternatives" the college is considering for more space.

He will report to the board of trustees during a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 11, in the board room of the Administration Building on the campus at 18600 Haggerty, Livonia. Sole topic will be the campus master plan.

Jeffress will ask for a feasibility study, which he estimates will cost about $12,000 to $15,000.

Sergison and her friends also plan to have a delegation to present their point of view, too.

A college spokesman noted wryly that the board room couldn't have been used on Monday because a continuing education class will be meeting there the next eight weeks. Alex Krul-kowski's course in "Dimensioning and Tolerance Engineering Drawing" couldn't be scheduled anywhere else, the spokesman said.

COLLEGE ENROLLMENT topped 9,000 this fall for the first time in its 20-year history, Jeffress said.

The college is seeking more space for such programs as data processing, audio-visual, the learning assistance center and the computer applications lab, he said.

Unless space can be found on campus, the college spokesman said, Schoolcraft must either build or rent space elsewhere. During the 1970s, voters four times rejected tax and bond proposals for construction.

The auxiliary gym is located behind the main gym in the Phys Ed Building. The plan under discussion is to split it into two floors, using one for a computer applications lab (serving several programs) and business offices.

SERGISON WILL argue that the auxiliary gym is already being heavily used.

"The area is scheduled 40.5 hours a week out of a possible 70," she said. "That's not counting continuing education classes, the Sunday Health Club, the Wednesday night volleyball league, special events and its use by tennis and soccer classes during inclement weather."

The auxiliary gym will be used during the November "Futures Week" program, at which futurist Alvin Toeffler and a U.S. astronaut will speak.

She added the auxiliary gym is equipped with a backdrop curtain for golf, archery and tennis, ballet bars and fencing targets.

Save the gym: campus protest in modern times

By Tim Richard
staff writer

A bulging Schoolcraft College is pondering whether to convert its auxiliary gymnasium to a computer laboratory and business offices — but some students dislike the idea.

"I just don't want them even to consider the phys ed Building," said student Barbara Sergison, who with a friend has collected approximately 800 signatures on opposition petitions.

"Phys ed is an important part of education," said Sergison, a Canton resident whose five grown children have participated in athletics. She is in her second year as a business administration student at the community college.

DR. CONWAY JEFFRESS, vice president for instruction, confirmed that the auxiliary gym is "one of many alternatives" the college is considering for more space.

He will report to the board of trustees during a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 11, in the board room of the Administration Building on the campus at 18600 Haggerty, Livonia. Sole topic will be the campus master plan.

Jeffress will ask for a feasibility study, which he estimates will cost about $12,000 to $15,000.

Sergison and her friends also plan to have a delegation to present their point of view, too.

A college spokesman noted wryly that the board room couldn't have been used on Monday because a continuing education class will be meeting there the next eight weeks. Alex Krullkowski's course in "Dimensioning and Tolerance Engineering Drawing" couldn't be scheduled anywhere else, the spokesman said.

COLLEGE ENROLLMENT topped 8,000 this fall for the first time in its 20-year history, Jeffress said.

The college is seeking more space for such programs as data processing, audio-visual, the learning assistance center and the computer applications lab, he said.

Unless space can be found on campus, the college spokesman said, Schoolcraft must either build or rent space elsewhere. During the 1970s, voters four times rejected tax and bond proposals for construction.

The auxiliary gym is located behind the main gym in the Phys Ed Building. The plan under discussion is to split it into two floors, using one for a computer applications lab (serving several programs) and business offices.

SERGISON WILL argue that the auxiliary gym is already being heavily used.

"The area is scheduled 40.5 hours a week out of a possible 70," she said. "That's not counting continuing education classes, the Sunday Health Club, the Wednesday night volleyball league, special events and its use by tennis and soccer classes during inclement weather."

The auxiliary gym will be used during the November "Futures Week" program, at which futurist Alvin Toffler and a U.S. astronaut will speak.

She added the auxiliary gym is equipped with a backdrop curtain for golf, archery and tennis, ballet bars and fencing targets.

Schoolcraft enrollment tops 9,000 for first time

Schoolcraft College's enrollment reached an historic landmark, topping the 9,000 mark this fall for the first time in its 20-year history.

The enrollment report topped an agenda Wednesday which included reports on new programs, an audit report and several purchases.

A total of 9,008 persons enrolled at the two-year college, a 3.3 percent increase over 8,717 in the fall of 1982, according to registrar Russell S. Bogarin.

But average class load continued to slide. Current load is 7.67 credit hours compared to 7.69 in 1982. And the number of full-year equated students rose 3 percent to 2,229.

Women maintained their enrollment lead over men, 4,836 to 4,172.

THE ENROLLMENT increase appears to buck state trends. Typically, community college enrollments decline in periods of prosperity and increase during recessions.

Most community college enrollments in Michigan held steady this year, although neighboring Oakland Community College recorded a 5 percent increase, according to officials there.

Schoolcraft serves five K-12 school districts — Clarenceville, Livonia, Garden City, Northville and Plymouth-Canton, along with a slice of Novi.

Four new degree and certificate programs may have aided the increase, according to Conway Jeffress, vice-president for instruction. They include:

- Emergency medical technology, for first aid treatment and transportation of patients.

- Certified medical assistant, for aiding physicians and handling office work.

- Cardiovascular technology, a technical program for those who operate electronic devices for monitoring heart patients.

- Robotics, involving maintaining and servicing industrial robots.

IN ADDITION, Schoolcraft has several new services this year, Jeffress reported.

These are the career planning and placement office, which in its first year recorded 890 verified job placements; business and industry programs, which designed 12 customized programs for two auto companies, Krogers and several hospitals; the learning assistance center; and the Women's Resource Center, which last year expanded into the Livonia Whitman Center.

Auditor John Sirhal, of the firm of Plante & Moran, warmly praised college business operations for being "as good a job as I've seen" among the firm's clients. The auditors' list of recommendations is becoming shorter, "and they're not the same problems every year," he said.

The exception, Sirhal noted, was the college's food service operation, which continues to run at about a $21,000 loss.

IN OTHER business, the Schoolcraft board:

- Backed away from the proposal of trustee Laura Toy to spend $500 for a table for 10 at a banquet inaugurating the Michigan Women's Hall of Fame. The issue was defused when the board learned the college relations office had already bought a program advertisement. Male trustees saw "no professional development gain" in attending a $50-a-head banquet, and the board settled instead for a congratulatory resolution.

- Purchased four IBM personal computers and peripheral equipment for $10,242 through Wayne County Intermediate School District.

- Purchased an 18-hp Yanmar diesel tractor and Howard Rototiller for $7,726 from Theiser Equipment Co. of South Lyon, lowest of five bidders.

- Scheduled a special meeting for 7 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 18, in the Waterman Campus Center with the boards of five member K-12 school districts. Billed as an "educational leadership workshop," its purpose will be to learn about the report of the National Commission on Education, cooperative programming, teacher retraining and cable television.

- Accepted three gifts — a refrigerator to be used in the climate systems technology lab from trustee Paul Kadish; $40 cash from John Cruse of Livonia, to be matched by Michigan Bell Telephone Co.; and $110 for the Women's Resource Center from David L. Simmons of Livonia, in memory of Kathleen Simmons.

Tourney golf test of nerve

THREE FEET. My hands were numb. My feet were numb. My tongue was numb. The cup was the size of a pinhead. The stretch of green separating my ball from the hole looked as craggy as the Baja peninsula.

I missed that putt by eight yards. To the right. The only significance attributed to that was that the ball traveled six yards further than my first drive.

Straighter, too. That's tournament golf. That's what tournament golf does to your mind. It sinks your psyche. Crushes confidence. Overpowers optimism.

Last weekend's Observer & Eccentric golf outing was my first tournament ever. It may have been my last.

Did I choke? That putt just described came on the practice green. The drive was on the range. It was 10 minutes before I would tee off.

Does that answer your question? It should have told me something. I played backwards. I should have used my putter off the tee. And my driver on the green.

My results would probably have been better. They couldn't have been worse.

GOLF IS a game. A nice, relaxing, enjoyable game. Not meant to be strenuous.

Fun. That's golf, on normal days. Not on tournament days.

Then it's a crusade. A battle within yourself. Against yourself.

Gary Whitener, the Whispering Willows golf pro, explained it to me long before I stepped up to that first tee last Saturday.

"That adrenaline starts pumping and it makes different players out of most golfers," he said. "It's like going to the driving range. Guys can hit out there all day and smack drive after drive straight and long."

"But put a few trees, some traps and water out there and their shots start going all over the place."

FRUSTRATION. A word that could be used interchangeably with golf. "I'm frustrated." Or "I'm golfed." The meaning's the same.

That's the game's paradox. Try getting mad and playing harder and see what it does for you.

Get frustrated in football and you hit harder. In basketball you battle on the boards stronger. In soccer you dig for the ball faster.

In golf you swing harder — and hit your shot three fairways to the left.

If you hit it at all. Getting mad — losing that nice, easy, relaxed swing — will cost you as fast as a stroll through a pickpockets' convention.

That makes golf such a hair-tugger. There's no place to vent your frustration.

You've got to swallow it and try to maintain your poise. And you know what happens once you start swallowing a lot.

Your neck swells. And your collar tightens. It's a proven fact. You'll start choking.

I FOUND MYSELF counting how many times I swallowed while I waited to putt on my first green. In normal golf, putting takes five minutes, tops.

In tournament golf, it's 10 minutes. Minimum. That's mucho swallows.

Here's how I started in Saturday's first round:

- Tee shot — way right, into the driving range.
- Second shot — into a tree, traveled about 100 yards.
- Third shot — poorly hit seven iron landed 10 yards short of green.
- Fourth shot — bad chip goes over the green.
- Fifth shot — chip to within 35 feet of the cup.

Three putts later, I was on my way to the second green. The first hole, by the way, is a birdie hole.

Hah.

TELL ME HOW I am supposed to keep my poise after a start like that.

In normal golf you can shrug it off. "So what?" you can say to yourself. "Things can only get better from here on."

In tournament golf there's no room for quadruple bogies. They're embarrassing.

That's when the neck starts swelling. I was tugging at my shirt collar by the third hole. By the sixth it was stretched down near my belly-button.

Still felt tight, too.

Golf a mental game? No. It's a game of self control. "Patience" is what O&E champ John Van Vleck called the important factor in his victory.

It's a trait I do not possess.

A CLOSE FRIEND first got me interested in golf. He taught me the game's unwritten rules of etiquette.

How does the Streisand song go — "It was all so simple then".

- Rule No. 1: Warm up with a beer or two. That'll relax you.
- No. 2: Get off the first tee cleanly. 'Cause that's where everyone's watching.
- No. 3: Don't keep score.

Oh well. Maybe next year. By then I may have learned some patience. I won't let the game get my goat.

At least I'll know enough to wear a very loose-fitting shirt. With a big, stretchable collar.

Record falls in O&E tourney

Champion John Van Vleck of Farmington Hills shows the form which reaped the Observer and Eccentric Newspapers' men's golf title.

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

Kevin Ryan strolled slowly toward the Whispering Willows' clubhouse, poring over his scorecard. Ryan had just shot a 72 in Sunday's final round of the Observer & Eccentric Golf Tournament.

Combined with his near-record first round of 67, Ryan should have felt comfortably secure. His 139 total tied the tournament record.

But he wasn't. Because John Van Vleck was hot. And now the tournament was entirely in Van Vleck's hands.

Those hands proved able. Playing 90 minutes behind Ryan, Van Vleck strung together four consecutive birdies Sunday and then held on to claim his third O&E championship with a new O&E record 70-68/138.

VAN VLECK WON back-to-back titles in 1976-77, setting the single round mark of 66 in 1976. Sunday's win also gave him the best total score, beating Mike Kerr's 1978 record of 139.

Van Vleck did it by collecting birdies on holes nine through 12 and sandwiching some very consistent play around them. He parred the first eight holes and had just one bogey in his final round 68.

"That's what did it," the Farmington Hills native said of his winning birdie string. But there was more to it than that.

"Patience," Van Vleck said. "The first day, you try not to blow yourself out of it and stay in contention. Then you only have to play one good day of golf."

It was a game plan he stuck to. News of the leaders flew around the golf course as fast as errant drives disappeared into the woods. Even as Ryan, a Livonia resident who works at Fellows Creek Golf Course in Canton, finished his final round he knew Van Vleck had charged in front with five holes still to play.

"RIGHT NOW I'M the leader," Ryan acknowledged. "Hopefully I will be when it's over."

Van Vleck, too, knew the tournament was his for the taking by the time he approached the 15th tee. Ryan was in the clubhouse and Van Vleck had a two-stroke advantage. The tournament was his to win.

Or lose. Van Vleck got his only bogey of the day on the par-three 15, which tightened the collar a wee bit.

At par-five 16, he hit his drive through a row of trees onto the 11th fairway. But his second shot landed safely 50 yards in front of the green. He chipped to within 30 feet and narrowly missed a birdie putt, but his par was assured.

Van Vleck suffered one other tense moment: On

17, his downhill putt for birdie slithered four feet past the cup. His putt for par rolled up to the cup and hesitated before falling in the side.

Which left Van Vleck to scream gratefully, "Oh, thank you, thank you, thank you!"

HE PLAYED 18 safely for a par, then accepted congratulations from the onlookers — wife Ellen and Ryan, who watched Van Vleck convert his final winning putt.

If the champion felt the pressure, he kept it under control. His only bogey in his final round he called "a commercial bogey. You can get a five or six there real easy."

His record performance gave added incentive for celebration to an already special occasion. It was the young couple's first wedding anniversary.

"It was a good present for her," he said, grinning. "I haven't won anything since we've been married."

Van Vleck had lots of reasons to smile after the tournament. In addition to the winning plaque, he received a $120 gift certificate.

ANDREW HATTON of Farmington finished third in championship flite (147). Low net (handicapped included) honors went to Murray Brooks of Westland (137).

In first flite, Jerry Pankas of Livonia was low gross champ (152) with Bob Conklin, also of Livonia, second (154). Plymouth's Andy Hasley took low net honors (133).

Second flite low gross winner was Jim McVicar of Livonia (164), followed by Troy's Paul Shedlik (168). The low net prize went to John Garmager of Plymouth (135).

Topping third flite was Larry Shapiro of Birmingham (178), with Livonian Walter Kanzler second (184). Vern Swindler had best low net score (136).

McBride's hot but Rocks fall

Perhaps the best way to put it is, Plymouth Salem came up short against Walled Lake Central Tuesday night.

Salem lost its second game in a row, 47-36, despite an outstanding 24-point performance from Pam McBride. Central's size advantage keyed the win.

"They are a good basketball team," said Salem coach Fred Thomann. "They beat us on the glass, number one. They scored a couple of easy transition baskets. But, they jumped out early — they really put a crimp on us."

The Fitzgerald sisters, known affectionately as the twin towers, accounted for 30 of Central's 47 points. Pam, a 5-foot-11 freshman, scored 16 points, while her 6-foot sister Patty, a senior, scored 14.

Central put up a 12-6 advantage after one quarter and clung to that margin, 22-16, at the half. They iced the game in the third quarter with a 15-9 spurt.

The loss drops Salem to 6-3, 4-3 in the Western Lakes Athletic Association. Central is 7-2. Salem will take on Canton tonight.

W.L. WESTERN 46, CANTON 33: It was another loss for Phyllis Cunningham Mulroy's team, but the players left Walled Lake feeling a bit better about themselves.

They felt better because they played extremely hard against a very good basketball team. The trailed by just six points after three quarters, and were in the game up until the last few minutes.

The problem, as it generally is against Western, was containing 6-foot-2 center Val Hall. Hall, despite being hounded by Canton's Kathy Ross, dumped in 17 points to lead all scorers.

Ross scored 14 for Canton. Marie Krashevitz added seven.

"Everybody left feeling like, 'yes, we lost, but we're turning it around,'" Mulroy said. "Overall, I thought we played a super game. The aggressiveness and the intensity that had been lacking in the previous weeks came back tonight."

Another bright sign for Canton was the play of Lou Ann Hamblin. Injured for most of the season, Hamblin scored six points and made several key steals. Tami Budlong also looked strong, pulling down 10 rebounds.

"Still, we're lacking a spark offensively," Mulroy said. "We need a consistent scoring threat."

Canton's record is now 3-6, 3-4 in league play.

Spartans give Rocks first loss

By Paul King
special writer

Livonia Stevenson scored an impressive 5-0 boys' soccer win Tuesday at home against previously unbeaten and defending state Class B champion Hamtramck.

The Spartans (9-2), defending Class A champs, got three goals from John Gemisi, who raised his season total to 18.

But more importantly, the Spartans Dave Wlegel spearheaded a strong defensive effort against Hamtramck's All-American striker Kanto Lulaj, who was held scoreless. He came into the match with 35 goals this season and 191 career goals.

It was a bad night all the way around for the Cosmos, who had two players ejected and three others yellow carded. Stevenson, which outshot Hamtramck 29-7, also got goals from Dave Barnas and Chris Gembis.

Goalie Terry Harshfield, meanwhile, posted his fifth shutout of the year.

In a make-up game Saturday, Stevenson handed Plymouth Salem its first loss as Gemisi and Eric Pence each scored twice.

The Spartans, who led 3-0 at the half, also got a goal from Barnas. Ebon Nash scored for Salem, unassisted in the second half.

GARDEN CITY 4, EDSSEL FORD 1: The Cougars broke away from a 1-1 halftime deadlock to post their ninth straight win without a loss, Monday at home.

Andy Muglia, Ron Kasperek and Paul Pummill scored in the second half for GC. Bill Trombley scored the first Cougar goal.

Goalies Brian Hall, Jeff Guido and Mark Baker combined to make seven saves. GC, meanwhile, had 39 shots on goal.

BENTLEY 3, FARMINGTON 0: The Bulldogs rebounded from their 2-1 loss Monday to Troy with three second-half goals on Tuesday to beat the visiting Falcons (5-5-1).

Jim Raderbacker, Tony Pulice and Brad Michalik scored for the winners, now 6-2-2. Goalie Jeff Wilkinson, who made eight saves, posted his sixth shutout of the year. Although Bentley outshot speedy Troy, 21-11, the Bulldogs scored only once as Pulice broke up a Colt pass and scored unassisted in the first half.

Both Troy goals came during the first 15 minutes of play.

CRANBROOK 3, CATHOLIC CENTRAL 1: The Cranes jumped out to a 3-0 lead and never looked back as CC dropped to 6-2-1 in the Monday non-league match.

Ken Crespi scored the lone CC goal with an assist from Steve DeMattos.

NORTHVILLE 5, HARRISON 1: On Tuesday, the Western Division-leading Mustangs used four goals from Steve Starcevic to beat Harrison.

Doug May scored the other Northville goal, while Mike Rosenau averted the shutout for Harrison with a goal 13 minutes into the second half.

Northville is now 7-3-1 overall, while Harrison dipped to 2-5-1.

SALEM 11, N. FARMINGTON 1: Randy Johnson's five goals and three assists gave Salem the victory Tuesday afternoon.

The Rocks are now 6-1-1 overall, while North dipped to 0-8.

Kevin Sultana and Bob Bowling added two goals each for the winners, who outshot the visitors 30-8. Dan Delbeck and Ted Hanosh completed the Salem scoring.

North's lone goal came on a penalty kick.

CANTON 7, FRANKLIN 2: The Chiefs reached the .500 mark (4-4) for the first time this season with a big offensive day (Tuesday) against the Patriots (2-6).

Canton, which led 4-1 at halftime, got two goals each by Tim Mueller and Tom Wright. Other Canton goals were scored by Brad Neville, Dave Luzzo and Brian Yergen.

YPSILANTI 4, PLY. CHRISTIAN 3: The Class A Braves led 3-0 at half, but needed a late goal with 15 minutes to play from Brian Derringer to beat the Class D Eagles.

Derringer finished with three goals. Rob Winkle, a sophomore, scored twice for Plymouth (0-5-1). Brother Steve had the other goal.

Todd Gentry, Plymouth's goalie, stopped 21 of 25 Ypsi shots.

Slims duty helps Gilles'

Though Plymouth natives Chris and Wendy Gilles didn't survive the first round of the Virginia Slims qualifier tournament last weekend, the experience was far from a total loss, according to the girls' father Brian Gilles.

Australian Susan Leo defeated Wendy, 6-3, 6-0, last Friday, and Chris was ousted by Poland's Iwona Kuczynska, 6-4, 6-3, on Saturday.

Technically, Chris did advance into the second round of the qualifier, though she didn't win a match. Her opponent in the first round, Pilar Vasquez, defaulted.

tennis

"SHE WAS really nervous," said Brian Gilles. "Even when she had the lead."

Gilles said the Slims experience was good for his daughters.

"They need more experience at this level of play. Heck, I can remember when Lisa (Bonder) first played in this Ginny Circuit. She lost her first few matches just like the girls did. She was nervous. But, once she got a few matches under her belt she started winning.

"It's like starting all over," Gilles continued. "They are going to need to play in three or four tournaments like this, then they'll be O.K."

Gilles said they have enlisted the services of Trish Faulkner, the Women's Tennis Association's tour director, to help Chris and Wendy organize a schedule of tournaments.

"The girls learned something. They have the talent to play with a lot of these people. They just lack the experience. Wendy told me after her match that if she played Susan Leo again she'd beat her. She'd know what to expect. Same for Chris," Gilles said.

'I wasn't really nervous. I tried as hard as I possibly could.'
Al Iafrate

Beyond his years

Icer eyes gold with Team USA

By Brad Emons
staff writer

For a 17-year-old kid, it was not your typical week.

For Livonia's Al Iafrate, a defenseman on the U.S. Olympic Hockey Team, it started Tuesday in Pittsburgh with a game against the NHL Penguins. On Tuesday morning he was going through a tough two-hour practice in Oak Park. On Wednesday, a dream had come true. Iafrate was playing against the Red Wings at Joe Louis Arena.

Thursday it was lunch at Ronald Reagan's house followed by a game Friday against the Washington Capitals.

Since training began in early August, Iafrate has been to such places as Alaska and Finland.

Naturally, Iafrate admitted at times he is homesick.

"It was my last year, and I miss activities at school I guess," he said. "I call my family about twice a week and write letters to my friends."

INSTEAD OF walking daily through the halls of Bentley High School, Iafrate is finishing his senior year through correspondence courses.

When the Olympics are over in February, Iafrate will go to Belleville, Ontario and play Junior A hockey for the Bulls. He was a first-round draft pick last summer in the Ontario Hockey League draft.

After that he'll await the NHL pro draft where he'll be more than likely a No. 1 pick.

"I'd like to get drafted by any pro team," he said. "I'd really love Detroit."

Iafrate, a rugged-looking 6-foot-3, 200-pound 17-year-old, admitted he had a rough time during Team USA's 7-5 loss to the Red Wings.

Red Wing Dwight Foster sent him flying into the boards during the first period. Iafrate retaliated by taking a penalty; the Wings scored.

"THAT PENALTY wasn't really mine," Iafrate maintained. "They all hit tough, but they're not dirty."

"I have to get stronger. It's too bad I couldn't play better. The goal at the beginning of the third period was my fault. It was probably one of my bad games."

Managing to remain poised, you could see the pain on Iafrate's face after the loss.

"I made a couple bad mistakes," he said. "I wasn't really nervous. I tried as hard as I possibly could."

Iafrate's mother, Alice, still cannot believe her son is playing against the likes of the NHL and Soviets. She thought it would be too early to make the '84 team and too late to be on the '88 squad.

She looks at her son as "a boy playing in a man's body."

DESPITE HIS AGE, Iafrate impressed the Olympic coaches at June's National Sports Festival with his strength, speed and hockey sense.

"He was very impressive at the Festival," said USA Olympic coach Lou Vairo. "He earned a spot. He was a unanimous choice by the selection committee."

But Iafrate, a humble sort, reminds everybody that "I haven't made the team yet." Vairo still must make four cuts before taking the team to Sarajevo, Yugoslavia.

"The more confidence Al gets the farther he will go," said Vairo's assistant coach, Bob O'Connor. "He has overwhelming physical capabilities. He's a great skater with great flexibility. His first step is explosive."

"I feel he's done extremely well. Al's got to realize how good he can be and then he'll start to take command of the situation."

THROUGH NINE exhibition games, including games with a Soviet club team and the Finnish Nationals, Iafrate had scored twice and added three assists.

"When I'm playing with Al, I look and wish I had been that good when I was his age," said Gary Haight, a 22-year-old defenseman from MSU. "With a little more experience, he'll be a great hockey player."

"He's getting quicker and he's learning to use his size since we've played the pro teams."

Team captain Phil Verchota, the elder statesman on the team and member of the "Miracle on Ice" Olympic gold medalists of 1980, also appreciates Iafrate's value both on an off the ice.

"Al's a nice, quiet, hard-working guy," Verchota said. "As far as his playing skills, his best attributes are his quickness — from in front of the net to the corner. He has a long reach, too, which helps.

"HE'S YOUNG, but it seems to be a mature kind of young. I think all the young players are doing well."

Iafrate and Ed Olczyk of Palos Heights, Ill. are the two youngest players on the team — both still in high school. The two played against each other in the midget ranks.

"I really don't have a lot of time for thinking because it's mostly hockey," Iafrate said, "but the coaching staff has been behind me all the way. When I was playing against the Russians they told me to pretend I was playing with Compuware."

Iafrate and Olympic teammate Pat LaFontaine of Waterford have been reunited. The two played together on Compuware's national championship midget squad.

The change in the level of play has been an adjustment for Iafrate.

"I'm a defenseman, but I really never had to decipher the offensive play," he said. "It's mostly mental. I have to learn to read the defensive situations."

"THE FORECHECKING is different and I have to get accustomed to all the systems. The Soviets are so smart and they handle the puck so well."

But the more Iafrate plays, the more he fits in with Vairo's complicated system.

"I get kidded, but it's all in good meaning," Iafrate says. "Everybody encourages me, even when I make mistakes."

The 17-year-old kid seems to be handling the situation quite nicely.

Chiefs top Churchill

The Plymouth Canton tennis team bounced back from a 7-0 loss to Northville last week to whip Livonia Churchill, 6-1 Monday.

No. 1 singles player Linda Sarafian was the only Chief to lose. She was ousted by Sue Packer, 1-6, 1-6.

Lisa Hays defeated Sally Prange, 7-5, 6-3 in No. 2 singles, and Missy Lloyd won her match over Patti Roman, 6-0, 6-3. Julie Sparks completed Canton's singles sweep by pounding Brenda Carman, 6-3, 6-2.

In doubles, the No. 1 singles team of Kristen Smith and Nancy Rhinehart defeated Stacy Truax and Betsy Pollack, 6-2, 6-3. Kelly Craig and Ping Chau won easily over Lisa Carman and Carrie Whelan, 6-2, 6-2. The No.3 team of Renee Zens and Angie Kocik, who lost for the first time this year against Northville, won again 6-1, 6-1.

IT WAS A different story on Tuesday. Canton met up with league-leading Farmington Harrison and for the third time this season, lost 4-3.

Harrison's No. 1 singles star Kelly Davidson, one of the premier players in the state, defeated Sarafian, 6-0, 6-1. Hays could not win a game from Harrison's Joelle Lukasiewicz. Lloyd and Sparks didn't fair any better, though Sparks did take her opponent, Jill Birsa, to 12 games, 5-7.

All three doubles teams won for Canton, but it was too little too late.

Canton's record is now 4-5 overall, 3-4 in the Western Lakes Athletic Association.

Northville Twp. fights prison site

Thursday, October 6, 1983 O&E

(P.0)5C

Northville Township officials will go to court, if necessary, in an attempt to stop the state Department of Corrections from converting the Plymouth Center for Human Development into a medium-security prison.

State officials announced last month they want to abandon a construction site at Five Mile and Beck and move eastward a mile to buildings at Five Mile and Sheldon.

"I have been marketing to bring in high-tech industry and have nine firms at present," said Robert DeMattia, developer of an industrial park. He said foreign firms he is recruiting are uneasy at being adjacent to a prison.

He was part of an overflow crowd in the Northville Township hall during a recent two-hour public hearing. The township board resolved to oppose the action and authorized Supervisor John McDonald to take legal action.

"WHY WOULD the county want to lose tax base that would be utilized by smokeless, light industry and create 3,000 to 5,000 jobs?" DeMattia asked.

Also strongly opposed was Robert

FitzPatrick, executive director of the county Economic Development Corporation.

FitzPatrick, who has developed plans to convert an unused county facility on Sheldon Road into a senior citizens living center, said the prison plan change could disrupt his efforts.

"And now you're going to put the same people who have mugged senior citizens next to them," FitzPatrick told state officials at the meeting.

"I think we're going through an exercise, and Northville may very well become a convenient dumping center for all the institutions because we have no political club, considering the makeup of the legislature and the governor's office," he said.

FitzPatrick was the Republican nominee for county executive in 1982, and the township administration is solidly Republican. Gov. James J. Blanchard and the legislative majority are Democratic.

HERBERT DeJONGE, deputy director of the state Department of Management and Budget, said the recommendation to move the prison site must still be approved by the governor and legislature.

But state Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth Township, said he thinks the decision "has been made" in Lansing.

DeJonge said the state is under court order to alleviate prison overcrowding and that converting the former Plymouth Center for Human Development from a mental health institution to a prison would be $20 million cheaper than new construction.

Countered Law: "You're not going to save $20 million. You're just not going to spend it in Northville."

RESIDENT Les Menyhart asked state officials why there are no prisons in Detroit, where most prisoners come from.

William Kime, another deputy budget director, replied that news about a prison site would be forthcoming "within the next two weeks."

A residents group announced it had organized to fight the prison site. It calls itself Concerned Citizens for Western Wayne County, PO Box 708, Northville 48167. Leaders are M.K. Rhoades and Ross B. Northrop Jr.

Junior cage registration is Saturday

Registrations will be accepted Saturday for the cage program operated by the Plymouth-Canton Junior Basketball Association.

Sign up for boys and girls in grades 3-12 will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. in Phase III of Plymouth Canton High School on Canton Center Road just south of Joy.

Jim Gee, president of the junior basketball association, also urges any adults interested in volunteering to help as coaches or board members or in any area of the program or any high school youth interested in refereeing to come to Saturday's registration to sign up.

"We encourage young people who wish to referee this season to register," said Gee. "You need not be a member of a school basketball team to referee. We also are in need of a few recent high school graduates to referee in the AAA program. The referees will be trained by the league and paid for their service."

ALL PLAYERS who register are placed on a team, and do not have to make it on their ability. All players, by league rules, must play one-fourth of each game and not more than three-fourths. "C" leagues are instructional and require that each player must play one-half of each game.

The program accepts children from Plymouth-Canton Community Schools plus portions of Canton not in the school district.

The registration fees are: C, B & A leagues, $18; AA girls, $19; AA boys, $20; and AAA boys, $23. There is a maximum fee of $60 per family. A late registration fee of $5 will be charged.

Practice will be scheduled for one or two sessions of 1.5 hours each per week, during evening hours.

Fife & drum boosters form

A booster club is organizing for the Plymouth Fife & Drum Corps. The action is being taken following the end of the 1983 season (which ended Sept. 25) during which the corps paraded and performed in 26 cities throughout the U.S. and Canada.
"Many times during the season," said Colin Martin, corps president, "we have been approached by people interested in finding out more information about the corps, offering their comments, and giving us encouragement. We sincerely appreciate your interest." Sparked by that interest, the board of directors of the corps has decided to start a booster club.
"If you are a former corps member, a parent of a former member, or a fife and drumming enthusiast interested in preserving this part of our American heritage," added Martin, "please join us by becoming a part of this booster organization."
Those interested may send their name, address and phone number (optional) to: Plymouth Fife & Drum Corps Booster Club, 305 W. Spring Street, Plymouth MI 48170.

The corps also is looking for new members for its 1984 season and needs boys and girls, ages 12-18, with or without musical background to start rehearsing.
Anyone interested in joining the corps may attend a meeting for all recruits and parents beginning at 6:30 p.m. Monday, Oct. 10, in the music room of Plymouth Salem High School on Joy just west of Canton Center Road.
Anyone interested who cannot attend the meeting may call Martin at 348-3085, or Bill Phillips, business manager, at 420-0191.
"We would like to thank all of our friends in the Plymouth-Canton community for all your support during this past performance season," said Martin and Phillips.

YMCA thanks fest helpers

To the editor:
The Plymouth Community Family Y would like to take this opportunity to thank all the dedicated volunteers who helped work at the Y's Fall Festival booth. Over 250 people participated over the four-day span either working directly in the double-booth selling Italian sausage subs and pop or helping in the cutting of onions and green peppers.
The enthusiastic volunteer commitment, along with the team spirit of working cooperatively toward a common goal, was highly evident and made for our most successful endeavor to date.

We thank each and every one of you and truly appreciate your positive involvement in this community project.

Said bonds will mature serially in the years and in such principal amounts as shall be determined by the Building Authority and approved by the City, subject to the limitations imposed with respect thereto by Act No. 31, Public Acts of Michigan, 1948 (First Extra Session), as amended. Are junk bonds really junky?

The answer is: Not really. In fact, in Wall Street they are popularly known as "high-yield bonds." They derive their name from the fact that they are rated BB or lower by S & P's. However, after several years of subdued performance, they have regained their popularity because of the economic recovery and an improved business outlook. For instance, junk bonds now pay about 15 percent, while high-grade corporates yield around 13 percent and treasury bonds pay about 11.5 percent. That means that investors can enjoy an increase in income of up to 30 percent by accepting some additional risk.

WITH THE recovery well established, investors expect better business conditions and thus better chances that companies with lower-level credit ratings will be able to pay their debts. Junk-bond analysts argue that there never was much risk anyway. Even in bankruptcy-ridden 1982, only $630 million of $340 billion in corporate bonds defaulted.

Junk bonds now offer a better total return of current income and price appreciation than high-grade bonds. High-yields have given investors a total return of approximately 40 percent in the last 12 months, while the high-grade corporate bonds resulted in a 30-percent appreciation during the same period.

And since the beginning of 1983, the high-yields have returned 13.7 percent, while the high-grades ended up slightly in the red.

The reason is simple. The prices of finances and you

high-grade bonds react almost entirely to changes in general interest-rate level. But junk-bond prices — acting more like stock prices — often respond sharply to the changing fortunes of the companies behind them.

Junk bonds are not for everyone. Consult your banker, CPA, attorney, or financial planner before you invest in junk bonds.

Good for long term

Strong dollar hurts Kodak

I bought shares in Eastman Kodak about a year ago at $94 a share. Recently, it has been selling at $67-$80, and I wonder where I went wrong.

A friend tells me I made a big mistake. He says that Kodak is getting competition from Japan just like the auto industry, and that it has years of hard times ahead of it. Would you advise me to keep my Eastman shares?

My guess is that you will not do badly by hanging onto your Eastman Kodak shares. Eastman, in the recent past, has had its earnings reduced by two factors.

It does about 40 percent of its business overseas, and that business has been hurt by both the business recession, which was felt more overseas than in this country, and by the strength of the dollar, which further reduces the results of overseas business.

Up to the middle of the year, sales in the United States were about even with last year. Outside the United States, sales were down almost 8 percent.

Earnings in the first half of '83 are $1.32 a share, compared with $2.64 a year ago, but the second quarter was much better than the first.

The company has indicated that business in the United States seems to be picking up.

today's investor

Thomas E. O'Hara

of the National Association of Investment Clubs

The company had another major charge to earnings this year. It made a decision to substantially reduce its work force, and it did that not by terminating a number of people, but by offering early retirement to a large number of employees.

The cost of this action was $.53 a share in the first quarter. While this was an expensive move, and there will be some additional costs, the greatest cost has not been written off.

The over-all effect will be to reduce the corporation's operating costs, lower its break-even point and increase its profit margins in the future.

Eastman is a formidable competitor, and my guess is it will do a good job of meeting any competition that the Japanese throw at it. It has an excellent record for research and new product development, and is reputed to have a number of excellent products ready for introduction. Certainly, its marketing skills are excellent.

My guess is you will see both Eastman's earnings and stock price begin to advance within the next year.

Second runs Tom Panzenhagen

"High Noon" (1952), 9 p.m. Friday at Livonia City Hall Auditorium, $1.50, phone 421-3000, ext. 353. Running time 85 minutes.

Livonia's L.O.V.E. office kicks off its "All Time Film Classics" series with Fred Zinnemann's "High Noon," starring Gary Cooper and Grace Kelly. Coop's a retiring sheriff who single-handedly defends himself and ungrateful townfolk against the forces of evil (in the persons of revenge-seeking desperadoes) in this now-predictable forerunner to the spaghetti westerns of Clint Eastwood. Lloyd Bridges, Thomas Mitchell and Lon Chaney co-star. For a schedule of future films, call the number listed above.

Rating: $2.75.

"The Lords of Flatbush" (1974), 2:50 tonight on Ch. 7. Originally 88 minutes.

Sylvester Stallone and Henry Winkler honed their urban, tough-guy images in "Flatbush," one of the first films to jump on the '50s nostalgia bandwagon of the mid-1970s. Perry King and Susan Blakely co-star. Here's a trivia question, or perhaps a question for the FBI: Whatever happened to Stephen F. Verona and Martin Davidson, who produced and directed this enjoyable film?

Rating: $2.95.

"The Longest Yard" (1974), 8 p.m. Friday on Ch. 50. Originally 123 minutes.

One of Burt Reynolds' most enjoyable films features an abundance of stereotypical characters — a Reynolds trademark — but enough gusto and sympathy-inducing plot devices to keep even Reynolds foes in-olved. Co-stars Eddie Albert, Ed Lautner, Jim Hampton, Michael Conrad and Bernadette Peters help speed things along, too.

Rating: $2.90.

"Torn Curtain" (1966), 11:40 p.m. Friday on Ch. 9. Originally 128 minutes.

"Torn Curtain," which combines an implausible script with poor casting, is one of Alfred Hitchcock's least enjoyable films. Here Hitch abandons his traditional framework of extraordinary circumstances befalling an ordinary man and gives us, instead, an extraordinary man who performs even more extraordinary feats. This is, in effect, a mediocre spy film weighted down even more by the dreadful innervations of stars Paul Newman and Julie Andrews.

Rating: $2.40.

"Walking Tall" (1970), 11:45 p.m. Sunday on Ch. 4. Originally 125 minutes.

"Walking Tall," the supposedly true story of small-town sheriff Buford Pusser (Joe Don Baker), is by far the most manipulative of all the cop-revenge films of the early '70s. While Clint Eastwood's "Dirty Harry," for instance, presented a picture of a psychopathic cop who was to be feared as much as admired, director Phil Karlson in "Walking Tall" uses every cinematic ploy — in plot, action and musical score — to depict Pusser as a vengeful angel. Two wrongs make a right and Pusser's means justify the end are the messages of this film, and that's scary.

Students learn to sing, dance, be positive

By James Winson
special writer

ATTITUDE! SHOUTS Gene Grier in a warning to his singers. Thirty-six young people break into a smile during a sparkling, hand-clapping rendition of a song that exudes positivism.

For Gene and Audrey Grier, a husband-and-wife team known for their nationwide workshops in jazz and show choir styles, attitude is everything.

And their students, who come to the Academy of Popular Vocal Arts at Oakland University near Rochester every Saturday, soon learn this.

"We can help them sing correctly and dance well," says Gene Grier, a composer and choral arranger with national credits, "but more importantly we want to teach people to have positive attitudes and a good self-image."

FOR EIGHT hours every Saturday during the academic year, people between the ages of 14 and 22 attend the Griers' academy to learn professional performance styles and stage presence. In addition, the Griers stress poise, self-awareness, positive mental attitudes and responsible behavior.

Seventeen-year-old Jeff Zurkan, a senior at Livonia's Churchill High School, is a second-year member of the academy. "My first year was very important in terms of breaking down a lot of barriers about performing in front of others," Zurkan says.

"Getting up to sing in front of others is always difficult but at the academy it's different because you know everyone here is on your side. It makes you want to be as good as you can."

Kathy Ganaden of Troy, a voice major at Oakland University, is in her fourth year with the Griers. "I first came to the academy," says the vivacious OU junior, "because I really enjoyed music."

"But I think what the academy has done for me is help me get out of my shell and to act like a professional. I can see myself in the future doing recordings and singing in nightclubs."

"WE TAKE rosebuds and give them cultural juices and help them bloom," says Gene Grier, a successful writer who's published four books, several musicals and more than 100 songs. "We force our students to apply themselves in a non-competitive manner to reach their highest level of achievement." During a rehearsal, students are always supportive of one another. Something the Griers insist upon. "I've only been here a few weeks," says 18-year-old Maureen Jackson of Livonia, "but I see that this is more than a choir. It's family and a community."

"Already I've improved my singing, but more importantly," Jackson adds, "I've found a lot of friends who care deeply about me."

Jackson was one of 200 applicants for the 36 available spots in the academy this year. Sixty auditions were allowed from the original applicants and the final selections were made based on the auditions.

"We look for sound, appearance and attitude," Gene says about the selection process. "We want young people who have a positive attitude. We try to pick those people who have the kind of potential we can nurture."

WHILE LEARNING vocal and dance techniques in both solo and ensemble settings, students also learn professional concepts from the Griers. "One of the things we teach people," says Audrey, "is that if you want to be successful in show business, you have to be tenacious and stick to something."

Gene and Audrey Grier have practiced what they preach. Prior to moving to Drayton Plains and opening the Academy of Popular Vocal Arts six years ago, they had careers as solo performers with the famous Norman Luboff Choir.

Writer, singer and arranger Gene is considered one of the founders of the vocal jazz and show choir movement in the United States. While leading his own singing and recording group, he's taught widely at colleges and universities across the country and appeared frequently on television, radio and records.

Audrey's background includes dance, choreography and vocal jazz. On the adjunct faculty of the University of Michigan-Flint, she directs Rhapsodies in Blue, the jazz show choir of the U of M-Flint, and is currently writing a book on choreography.

The Griers, who celebrated their 10th anniversary this summer, have no children of their own but they clearly enjoy building the egos of their students. "We love you and we look forward to each and every Saturday we're with you," Gene tells his students in a post-rehearsal lecture.

AWAY FROM the kids, the effervescent and irrepressibly outspoken Grier says, "We love it because these kids are so great. These are kids who are secure within themselves and they've got such wonderful attitudes."

And even if they don't always come to him that way, it's evident in a public performance (which the academy has at least twice a year) that that's the way they leave the academy. First-year students often appear to be polished professionals when they solo, and the ensemble choreography is precise and resembles the work of older and more mature show-business performers.

Every student who has left the academy and gone on in music has won a scholarship. Most of the former students are in an aspect of show business or are pursuing a degree in music in a college.

Admitting they are frequently tough on their students, the Griers aim to teach young people how to perform in front of audiences with a look of complete professionalism.

"We're tough but honest," says Gene. "We won't accept anything but a best effort. Whatever they do on stage better be the best they can do."

"THEY WOULD rather flop on stage then have to face me afterwards if it wasn't their best effort. Most of them think after they left the stage. 'Wow! I didn't think I could do it.'"

"But I knew they could all the time or I wouldn't have made them do it. That's our teaching technique."

Besides weekly rehearsals and classes at Oakland University, the academy students often appear on television and occasionally do tours and out-of-state performances. The students performed in New York City two years ago for the American Choral Directors Association convention.

Because of the Griers' widespread contacts in the music world, the students frequently have special opportunities to study with such renowned choral directors and arrangers as Norman Luboff, John Rutter and Kirby Shaw.

Eighteen-year-old Inger Bouton of Birmingham, who is in her first year, thinks that the year at the academy will teach her to be a better singer and also provide less tangible rewards.

One of the things that attracted me to the academy was the way the Griers performed their music," the Madonna College freshman says. "But they seemed so together in their attitude."

"I think what I'll get most from them this year is a lot of good advice and a tremendous push to be positive about music."

Art of pantomime keeps him in action

By Victoria Diaz
special writer

When Scott McCue was a little kid, he spent much of his time making up and performing pantomimes. Now that he's grown up, he spends much of his time entertaining other little kids (and adults too) — making up and performing pantomimes.

A recent presentation, "The ABZ Show," will be performed at 7 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 13, at the Redford Township Library, 15150 Norborne, near Five Mile and Beech-Dor roads. Admission to the show is free. For further information, call 531-5960.

"For as long as I can remember, I've been making up mimes," he says, adding that his interest in mime seemed to be something which came to him naturally.

In 1969, when he was 14, he composed his first mime professionally and performed it for the Artrain Festival throughout Michigan. McCue spent much of his early life on a farm near Monroe. After graduating from Trenton High School, the aspiring entertainer traveled to New York to study with mime artist Michael Filisky.

Scott McCue spends his time making faces.

ON HIS RETURN to the Detroit area in 1978, McCue helped to found Detroit's only professional mime company, DETROUPE, and went on to serve as manager and director of the company for the next three years.

Since then, McCue has performed locally at such places as the Music Hall, the Wayne State University Theater, the Attic Theater and the Fourth Street Playhouse. He also has toured nationally with the Ford Motor Co. industrial show and has appeared as a mime on several television commercials.

Recently, he returned from New York, where he studied during the summer at the New York Pantomime Theatre with Moni Yakim, the original director of "Jacques Brel is Alive and Well and Living in Paris."

Future plans include appearances at Bloomfield Hills Andover High School and the Southfield Civic Center in December, where he will perform "The ABZ Show." In March, McCue will travel to Ottawa, where he will serve as guest artist-in-residence at a week-long event at the Centre Jules Leger.

When he's not performing, McCue devotes much of his time conducting mime workshops in the Detroit area. He recently taught such a workshop at Oakland Community College in Royal Oak. He leads an ongoing workshop with the Actors Alliance Theater Company in Southfield and is an instructor at the Farmington Community Center.

MCCUE ALSO has instructed children, senior citizens and the handicapped in the art of pantomime.

A professional actor, dancer and singer, he composes all the mime pieces in his shows. "The ABZ Show" he calls "unique," saying that it is made up of simple mime illusions come to life. "It's an informal introduction to the magical world of mime — fun for all ages."

Homearama '84

An energy-efficiency showcase

By Sandra Armbruster
editor

HOW MUCH did you pay to heat your home last winter? Despite the mild winter, did your bills total $500 or more?

Well, imagine paying just $512 a year for both heating and cooling a home with 2,350 square feet. That's the estimate energy experts predict the owner of the Ener-Tek I, featured in the Homearama '84, will pay.

This is the first year for the showcase of 12 homes, sponsored by the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan Inc. The homes are in Troy's Fox Hall subdivision at Square Lake Road and Crooks.

Builders were selected on the basis of plans submitted, and among the chosen was Professional Home Builder Group Inc.

Energy efficiency was the reason the Plymouth firm was among those selected to build the homes, according to Dennis Dickstein, president of Ralph Manuel Associates, Realtors. Dickstein was on the architectural control committee which evaluated builders and their plans.

"There aren't too many who are building energy-efficient homes. Yes, they're more energy-efficient than they were 15 years ago, but they went further. They built the home with energy in mind 100 percent," Dickstein said.

CO-OWNERS Alan Mead and Stephen Eicholtz of Plymouth used such features as quad-pane windows, extra insulation and a double entry air lock to minimize heating and cooling costs.

"This is the most energy-efficient home we've done," said Eicholtz, who, along with his partner, has built custom homes in Brighton, South Lyon and Orchard Lake.

"Actually, this home is a prototype in the area of super insulation. We've learned a lot doing it," added Eicholtz, who started out building homes with his father. In 1973 he went on his own.

His partner, Mead, said his experience was in commercial carpentry construction, which he could "see heat going out the window."

"From hands-on experience, you know what's wrong with construction methods," Mead said.

BEFORE BUILDING the home, Mead and Eicholtz consulted with Princeton Energy Partners of Troy, a group affiliated with Princeton University, and with Owens-Corning Energy Design Services. "We're really dedicated to what we do," Eicholtz added.

Princeton Energy Partners aided in the design and did a lot of the insulation work. Eicholtz said that after the home was built, the company inspected the home for heat loss with an infrared camera and tested for air infiltration by pressurizing the house.

Owens-Corning did a scientific study that came up with the $512 figure, Eicholtz said.

"If we followed the Michigan Energy Code, it would cost $2,300 for heat only," he said. "So I figure this house pays back $125 a month."

The three-bedroom house is priced at $157,000, but that's not the base price. That figure includes the lot, all options such as a fireplace, solid oak doors and trim and energy-efficient items.

To borrow a line from an old song, the 12 newly constructed and furnished houses in Homerama '84 make "a street of dreams."

All those people who've been waiting not too patiently for a break in the interest rates and an opportunity to buy a house may find this show a delight, a rich source of information and quite possibly an irresistible teaser.

In addition to the 12 very attractive houses, all of which incorporate the latest in floor plans, design and mechanics, there is a large area of new products and services and, about halfway along the street of new homes, refreshment stands.

Allow several hours to leisurely tour the exhibition area and houses. There's a lot to see and a refreshment break after about six house visits will be welcome. The entire area is landscaped, well-lighted and gives the impression of a well-established neighborhood.

Of special interest is the March of Dimes house, designed and built by Adams Associates. The difference between the builder's cost and the selling price will be given to the March of Dimes.

A "Visible House," transplanted from Washington, D.C., is divided into halves to illustrate two ways to build a home — one using modern building techniques and the other more costly, conventional ones.

All of the 12 houses will be for sale on the site or can be duplicated somewhere else.

Try an airbrush — it's almost like cheating

This is another in a series of lessons on art and drawing by special columnist David Messing. He has taught for eight years and operates an art store, Art Store and More, 18774 Middlebelt, Livonia. Messing encourages questions and comments from readers. You may write him at his store or c/o Observer Newspapers, 23352 Farmington Road, Farmington MI 48024.

By David Messing/special writer

The headline on this story is a sign I would like to do for my store. I thought of the wording four years ago and in that length of time I have painted many signs for many stores but have never painted my own sign.

Whenever I put off doing something I should do or want to do, I think of a small strip of moulding outside our bathroom door.

When you walk into our bathroom it is very important to drag one foot over the stone slab across the doorway. This pushes the moulding up against the stone slab.

Most of the time upon leaving the bathroom, one of your feet nudges this small piece of trim away from its rightful place. There it sits cockeyed until someone goes back into the bathroom.

One of my good friends always teases me about taking a few minutes to fix the moulding, and I always say, "yeah, I got to nail that down." This term is now used for my most neglected jobs.

Shortly after the invention of the wheel, Paasche invented the airbrush.

Really, I don't know who invented the airbrush, but I am sure that Paasche must be the oldest manufacturer. For years Paasche was the only airbrush I had even known about.

But now there are many companies making, promoting and selling airbrushes. There are now many designs as each company tries to catch the eye of the potential customer.

There are long airbrushes, short, light, and heavy airbrushes. Some come in wood boxes, plastic and cardboard boxes. Their names vary from hard to pronounce, to mysterious! But of them all I prefer Paasche.

Speaking of hard to pronounce, I have heard this called "Pash," "Pashe" and "Pak shoo" The Paasche line of airbrushes must have been designed by a nine-foot man because their size is quite large.

Compared to their new sleek competitors, the Paasche airbrush looks like a Nash Rambler or a Corvette swap meet. Despite it's 1950 design, it is still the best airbrush for the money. For one reason, if you need some little replacement part there is no wait for an order to arrive from Japan.

I appreciate this more than most, because I repair airbrushes. As a matter of fact we stock every part of the H & VL, most of the V and some of the AB models.

I'M NOT SAYING that the many other airbrushes are inferior to the Paasche line. I think that they are beautiful to look at and terrific to work with.

It is just that the newest design and latest style cost you money. I will make a comparison to prove my point. I carry at the Art Store, the Badger XF 100 which is a very nice airbrush. The "XF" means extra fine, the "100" means "99" people watched as "1" guy designed it. This airbrush comes with out the hose for $62.

The Paasche V set comes with a 6 foot hose, one extra multithread (about a $10 item) several extra needles, one color cup and a bottle for about $69.

The Badger "ILL" is also an excellent airbrush. I like the feel of it in my hand because it is small and lightweight. But when you compare its price as a set, to the Paasche VL set, you have to think "what's so bad about a fat airbrush?"

Most airbrush manufacturers make the same basic brushes and it is important to compare them accurately.

"Apples to apples and oranges to oranges," as the used car salesman say. Usually there is a bottom of the line brush which is an "external mix" design. In other words, the force of the air blowing out the tip causes a suction, which pulls the paint up from the bottle or color cup. Then the paint becomes atomized by the force of air.

This mixture of paint and air takes place outside of the airbrush so compare only external mix air brushes. The bigger manufacturers offer two lines. One is very cheap and cost around $15, but if you only want a craft airbrush it is a good deal.

If your needs are a little more critical, then try the better line which comes with an assortment of tips and bottles for around $25 to $30.

NOW WE take a giant step when we move to the "dual action internal mix" line of brushes. The internal mix means that the mixture of paint and air takes place within the airbrush.

The dual action means that you depress the button for air and pull the button back for paint. The less you pull back the less paint and the finer the line. The more you pull the button back the more paint and the wider the line.

So here, compare only the dual action internal mix airbrushes. I would like to point out, too, that there is one more feature to confuse the issue. You must compare "slow feed" to "slow feed" and "fast feed" to "fast feed."

"Slow feed" means that the supply of paint is slow, which allows you to get in close and paint tiny restricted areas which is often the case in photo retouching.

"Fast feed" is more the basic requirement for airbrushing which allows you the ability to do very small work and by merely pulling the button back, you can cover large areas.

There is one top of the line turbine airbrush which Paasche offers. It's basic operation is that the air pressure drives a small turbine causing a fine needle to go back and forth.

On the backward stroke it collects paint on the tip of the needle and on the forward stroke the paint is blown off the tip of the needle by the air tip. This of course, makes a tiny spray of paint

The problem is that they look and sound exactly like a dentist's drill and — oh, yes — it costs about $189. I always said if I had the $189, I would have a hard time spending it on an airbrush (but I did).

Here is a good way to look at buying an airbrush. If you are 10 to 15 years old and only like painting models and small items, you need only a $15 set by Badger.

If, however, you like to draw and feel the need to try an airbrush, look into Paasche's "H" set for about $39 to $49. This set is great for models, T-shirts, van's, back drops, drying leather, cake decorating and more. It is so versatile and so hardy, I always say you can almost spray cement out of it!

If you are 16 to 110 and loved your "H" set, then move up to the "VL" set which is $78. This set includes about $40 in extras that no other company offers. By the way, hold onto your "H" set. I thought I was so cool when I bought my "VL" that I sold my "H" to some kid. Well, one week later "cool Dave" had to go borrow the "H" back from the kid, to spray a heavy casien paint on a back drop.

The VL set allows you to do anything you want. You can spray thin watery dyes and inks and merely by changing tips and needles you can spray acrylics to heavy lacquers and enamels.

Now if you feel you can't get the detail you require with the VL, first you are not using it right, and second there is the finer "V" set.

An experienced artist can paint hairlines with VL, but the supply of paint is rapid. After you have tried or considered the "VL" look to the "V". Although it is less versatile, it is sure fun to paint with and because of it's slow feed qualities is usually easier to use. A "V" set cost about $69.

Next week, I will cover the care and uses of an airbrush. But I must close now for two reasons. One, I have run out of the room and two, I have to go nail that piece of molding down!

ARTFUL HINT: For a finer spray, when airbrushing a small area, get in close and loop the hose through your free hand. Then cut the air pressure by pinching the loop of the hose

Q: I can't get a satisfactory spray out of my airbrush, what is wrong?

A: Usually it is not the airbrush, if you have a dotted or stipple look spray. Your paint is too thick or the air pressure is too low or your tip is too dirty.

Prize etchings on auction block

From 1929-1939, during some of the best years of the J.L. Hudson Gallery, a young woman who had inherited some money from a relative got hooked on etchings.

She carefully selected her purchases, choosing works by Whistler, Hopper, Rembrandt, Sir William Russell Flint, Manet, Goya, Nolde, Rodin, Morris Henry Hobbs, John Sloan and many others — all names associated with fine art, even the less familiar ones easily verified in books on fine graphics.

All of them were mounted with acid-free mats. She meant to frame them, but until she did she kept her art from Hudsons in a brown paper bag in a closet.

The collection, to be sold this weekend at Frank Boos Gallery, Adams and Lincoln, Birmingham, is virtually untouched since the day each was bought. None of the images has been damaged by light. None has age marks made by the deterioration of the matting paper (a wonderful testimony to acid-free matting), all still bear the Hudson labels and code numbers and most have the prices still on them.

She paid $30 for one of the prizes of the collection, "Evening Wind" by Edward Hopper and $36 for "Hurlington," by James A. McNeil Whistler. Some she bought for as little as $15. For a very few, like John Sloan's "Fifth Avenue Critics," she paid as much as $85.

Finally, as Boos tells the story, a relative suggested she quit spending her money so frivolously, so she stopped, but not before she had acquired a collection destined to bring close to six figures.

This weekend's auction will be the sixth by Boos since he opened his own firm in the remodeled showroom with the fully computerized stage. He has been an appraiser and auctioneer in the metropolitan area for more than 20 years. He was formerly associated with David Stalker in the Great American Building or Birmingham.

The two-day sale of these and other works of art, antique furniture, silver, porcelain, clocks and more will start at 11 a.m. Saturday and noon Sunday. Exhibition hours are 3-8 p.m. today and 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Friday, 1137 S. Adams, Birmingham.

Venus, Mercury vie for attention in October sky

By Raymond E. Bullock
special writer

October will feature two special sky events unlike any others during the year. Venus will be its very brightest on the same day Mercury makes its best morning appearance.

On Oct. 1 Venus was high in the Eastern sky before sunrise at magnitude -4.3! The magnitude of an object is a measurement of its brightness. The brightest stars are 1st-magnitude, then come 2nd, 3rd and so on. The faintest stars the naked eye can see (in a dark, clear sky) are 6th-magnitude.

Since some objects are brighter than the brightest stars, they have been given negative magnitude numbers. The only objects brighter than Venus are the full moon (-12.5) and the sun (-26.5). Mercury reached its maximum elongation from the sun on Oct. 1. Maximum elongation (greatest distance an object appears to be from the sun) is measured in degrees. On that date Mercury was 18 degrees west (right) of the sun and was visible before sunrise. At magnitude -0.2, Mercury will look like a bright star near the horizon.

FINDING Mercury and other objects in the morning sky will be made easier by following the moon.

On the morning of Oct. 3 the waning crescent moon was north (left) of the bright 1st-magnitude star Regulus, the heart of Leo the lion.

To the south (left) of Regulus is brilliant Venus. East of (below) Regulus is the red planet Mars. Mars is only a 2nd-magnitude object at this time, much fainter than Mercury, which is close to the horizon.

tions change from week to week with respect to Regulus.

The moon stood directly above Mercury on Tuesday. Binoculars will not only help you spot Mercury, they will provide ample magnification for observing the thin crescent moon.

New moon today. It isn't visible in the sky.

On Friday evening, the waxing crescent moon will be only 1.4 degrees north (right) of Saturn. Both objects are low in the west-southwest and although Saturn is a 1st-magnitude object, its nearness to the horizon will make it very difficult to spot. Binoculars will be helpful.

For two nights in a row the moon, Jupiter and the star Antares will form a triangle. Bright Jupiter (magnitude -1.5) is the peak of the triangle, Antares, the heart of Scorpius the scorpion (magnitude 1), is to the lower left and the moon to the lower right.

The next night the moon has moved to the upper left of Antares and Jupiter.

By Oct. 12 Jupiter has moved to within 5 degrees of Antares as the planet slowly orbits the sun.

THE MOON is at first quarter phase on Oct. 13 and is full on the 21st. This is the Hunter's Moon, so named because its light aided hunters out after dark.

Unfortunately, the full moon hinders meteor "hunters" this year.

The Orionid meteor shower reaches its maximum on the night of the full moon. This meteor shower produces an average of only 25 meteors each hour, and the moon's light will make seeing those few meteors even more difficult.

If you have been keeping track of Mars and Venus in the morning sky, you will have noticed them drawing closer to each other all month. On the morning of Oct. 28 Venus is 1.7 degrees south (right) of Mars. These two planets will not have another conjunction (grouping) with each other until Feb. 7, 1985. Also on Oct. 28 the moon is at last quarter phase.

Daylight Saving Time ends Saturday night-Sunday morning of Oct. 29-30 as clocks are set back one hour. The length of the day has been decreasing this month by one hour 22 minutes. On Oct. 1 we had 11 hours 46 minutes of daylight, but by the end of the month it's down to 10 hours 24 minutes.

Setting our clocks back neither changes the amount of daylight we receive nor the rising position of the sun. It only changes the time we will see the sun rise and set.

On Oct. 29 sunrise is at 8:02 a.m. and sunset at 6:30 p.m. Eastern Daylight Time. On Oct. 31 sunrise is at 7:03 a.m. and sunset is at 5:27 p.m. Eastern Standard Time — same amount of daylight, just different time.

The telescope at Cranbrook Institute of Science is open every Saturday night from 8:30 to 10 p.m. for viewing the sky. For more information, please call 645-3200.

The author is coordinator of the planetarium and observatory at Cranbrook Institute of Science.

Interest in communication spurs poet

By Michael D. McIntosh
special writer

Margo La Gattuta.

Living in the countryside north of Rochester with her husband and three children, Margo La Gattuta actively pursues her love of communication through the art of poetry.

Along with the publication of her first book of poetry, "Diversion Road," she's just finishing another major project.

The radiant, energetic La Gattuta, a 1980 graduate of Oakland University with a degree in English, has almost completed a master's in fine arts from the Goddard Writing Program at the University of Vermont.

"We meet every six months for two weeks," she said, explaining the process by which she will receive her master's.

"We make a contract for the next six months. Reading 20 to 25 books and annotating them is part of the requirement. We write back and forth with our work and receiving criticism."

Poetry isn't new to La Gattuta. "I published some while at Western Michigan University in 1960 to 1962. I did not write from '62 until I went to Oakland in 1978."

"I didn't miss poetry until five years ago. After the children had grown I found something missing. I needed a career. Something for my own interests. I love to read books and stories," she said. "My desire for poetry had been dormant for a long time."

STUDYING with Faye Kicknosway, a poet and instructor, while attending Oakland, sparked her return to writing.

"For me, a wonderful mentor. Poetry had been dormant for a long time then I came alive," said La Gattuta.

Since that time La Gattuta has remained active with area writers.

"For three years I've been involved with the Cranbrook Writers Guild. I am assistant director for the Cranbrook Writers Conference coming up in August," she said explaining that she also was instrumental in the formation of Detroit Poets.

"My last meeting with Detroit Poets was approximately a year and a half ago. What happens after awhile, you become too familiar with each others work. I wanted to devote my energy to my own work," La Gattuta said.

"I love to communicate. I love communication. I love films. People need to find more ways to come together," she said when asked about the role of poetry in the '80s.

"Poetry puts us more in touch with ourselves. It helps us see things as they are, not like we'd like them to be."

"I think poetry, when honest, incorporates the world around us. Basically TV deadens the imagination. It's (TV) a separator. It's more noise saying nothing. Saying less bringing more loneliness," she said.

"DIVERSION ROAD," La Gattuta's first book, makes a direct effort to engender greater feeling among its readers. The book's cover illustration was done by her son, Erik, and published by State Press of Pittsford, N.Y. "Reading poetry aloud is an oral tradition. The sound is as important as the meanings. You want the richness on the page," said La Gattuta.

"It's not the finished product, degrees, awards, etc., that's important. The exciting thing is doing and sharing it with others. That high is very exciting."

Toward meeting this end La Gattuta maintains an active schedule. At 8 p.m. on Monday, Oct. 10, at the Guild House in Ann Arbor, and at 2 p.m., Sunday, Nov. 6, at the Avon Public Library, La Gattuta will give public readings from "Diversion Road" and other recently completed works.

"I'm going to go as far as I can with it," she said of her poetry. "I love it. The biggest thing that can happen is I'll fail. I can handle that."

With her radiant energy and the support of her husband, Steven, and their three children; Mark, 17, Erik, 15 and Adam 10, failure seems unlikely.

Gardeners: save a little summer

Gardeners hate to see the "curtain come down" on their choice flowers and foliage. But you can save a little of summer.

The microwave oven has become a way of life for many households and it is easy to preserve plant material for winter bouquets with its use.

There are three possible agents to use with the plant material for drying — silica gel, an equal amount of borax and corn meal, and cat litter (I was threatened once with a lawsuit for using the name of the four-legged animal who uses it).

Select flowers which have not begun to turn brown. Clip the stems until they are $\frac{1}{4}$ inch long. Select a glass or paper container deep enough so the drying agent covers the flower. Use a casserole for large flowers.

Spread a $\frac{1}{4}$ inch layer of the drying agent in the bottom of the container. Place flower "bloom up." With a spoon carefully cover the plant material with your mix. Be sure each petal is covered.

Place one cup of water in the microwave oven for moisture. Microwave from 1-3 minutes depending on the size of the flower. A large mum could take 5-6 minutes. Tap flower gently as you remove it. Let flower stand in the agent for at least 10 hours. Tape floral sticks to form a stem.

WHEN YOU dry leaves they will retain their beautiful color with this method. Select a branch with these leaves with the largest leaf around four inches wide. Clean the leaves. Invert a 12-by-8 inch baking dish on the oven floor. Cover with a layer of paper towel. Place the branch on the towel and cover with another towel. Microwave for 30 seconds on high.

Turn the branch over and cover with a towel, microwave for one minute and 30 seconds on high. For drying larger branches you need more oven time.

These directions are through the courtesy of a Magic Chef oven demonstration.

If you have green tomatoes on your vines you can save them for future eating. Before frost, gather all of the healthy fruit and wash.

WRAP with paper and store in shallow boxes in a cool place. At 55 degrees they will take about one month to ripen. Check the cache and toss out the ones which won't "play your game."

What do you do with animals who destroy your planted bulbs? I have heard that human hair will keep them away from scratching and eating your down to earth

Alice Burlingame

bulbs. I just hope that I can get to my hairdresser first before all of you do to save "cuttings." You can have the local barbers save their cuttings for you.

A book which came out this year and holds your attention due to its abundance of photography and writing by a knowledgeable person is "Pruning," HP Books, Box 5367, Tucson, Az. 85703, 160 pages, $7.95.

It is written by Dr. Robert L. Stebbins and there are three or four color photographs on each page, plus drawings by Michael MacCiskey. The latter was in town a few months ago to take pictures of trees and evergreens for a future book.

The training of fruit trees is well covered. The renewing of old plant material is an important part of the illustrations. The quality of the publication gives the reader a plus experience. It really teaches how you can give your plant material a rebirth.

WHAT YOU get for that price is an outside wall with double two-by-fours, 10 inches of fiberglass and one inch of Styrofoam insulation. The outside joints of Styrofoam are taped. The outside walls are wrapped with Tyvek, an air-infiltration barrier, on the outer side, and a plastic, polyethylene barrier is placed on the inner side.

The ceiling has 12 inches of insulation, and the basement has two inches of Styrofoam, keeping it at an even 60 degrees year-round.

Windows are "state-of-the-art," Eicholtz said, with four panes of glass measuring two inches thick.

Entry to the home is through double steel insulated doors into a double air lock that prevents the great room of the house from filling with cold air when the door is opened.

To prevent stale air from stagnating in the air-tight house, the builders have used vaulted ceilings in the open floor plan of the great room and dining room as well as the bedroom. The large volume of air from those rooms is circulated by a ceiling fan and highly placed furnace vents.

"The open living plan allows good cross ventilation," he said.

DOORS OPEN from the great room and the bedroom onto a backyard deck.

In the kitchen, matching ceramic tile is used on the floor and counters. Oak cabinets match doors and woodwork throughout the house, and inside provide drawers, cookie sheet storage areas and swivel shelves or lazy Susans for maximum efficiency.

Skylights in the two bathrooms are what Eicholtz calls they're "little sin."

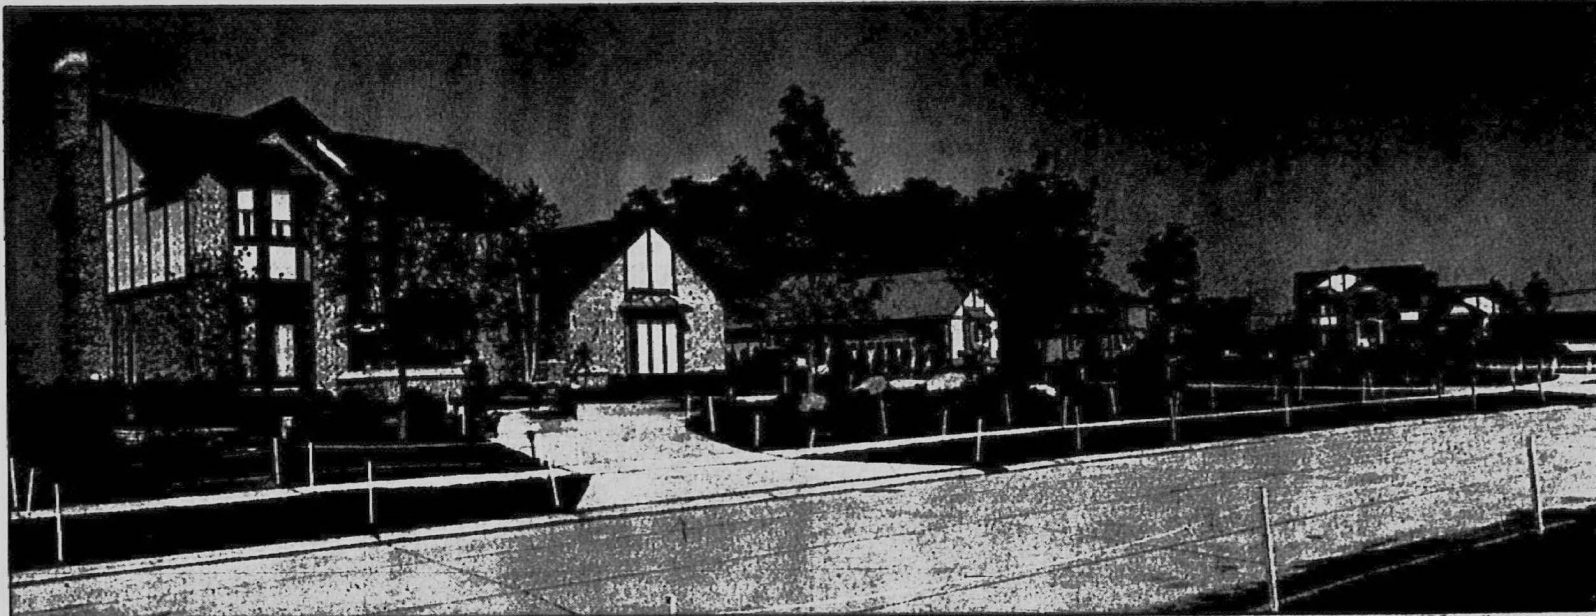

"We feel we had to sacrifice a little (heating energy) for light since there are no windows on the east side of the house," he explained.

Eicholtz said he thinks the building industry is "on the road to recovery, but builders will have to work harder."

"People are looking for quality and value," he explained.

Although the company is from Plymouth, Eicholtz said that the Ener-Tek 1 house, at 6391 Denton in Troy, will remain the company's model.

Homearama is open through Oct. 16. After that date, those interested in viewing the home can reach Eicholtz at the company's Plymouth phone number, 459-0763.

This view of a portion of the street on which a dozen homes were constructed specifically for Homearama '84 illustrates the care that characterizes the project. The Professional Home Builder Group of Plymouth is among the builders with homes on display Standard Federal Savings and Loan, one of the sponsoring organizations along with the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan, is offering a "below market rate" to those who buy the models or make arrangements during the show to have them duplicated.

"Homearama '84" continues through Oct. 16. Hours are 5-11 p.m. weekdays and 1-11 p.m. weekends.

It is in Fox Hills subdivision, on the west side of Crooks, just north of Square Lake, Troy. Admission charge. Children under 6, free.

To get there from the western suburbs, take Telegraph north to Square Lake Road, turn east and follow Square Lake to I-75, take I-75 south (actually the freeway runs east-west at this point, so you're continuing to travel east) to the Crooks exit, then drive north on Crooks.

Memory Lane is now a super highway.

This face could have graced a cough medicine bottle of yesteryear or could be hidden away in someone's attic at the bottom of a dusty trunk.

A face like this belongs to another less complicated time. A time of gas lights, shaded front porches, quiet evening strolls and hometown gatherings like band concerts and ice cream socials.

Although we've lost, perhaps forever, the innocence of this gentleman's era, we haven't lost the feeling of hometown neighborliness. We may have exchanged porches for patios, but our community spirit remains.

We still have hometown gatherings--there are just more of us to enjoy them now.

Every issue of your hometown newspaper is filled with what's happening in your community. Every issue keeps you informed about city hall and pressing issues facing your modern community today. There are also human interest stories of what your friends and neighbors are doing.

And in a decade faced with pollution, a fluctuating economy, the threat of nuclear war and any number of mind-bending problems (that our friend here, never dreamed about even in his wildest nightmares) we think we do a pretty positive job of bringing you the hometown news.
