Public safety idea one step closer

The Plymouth city administration could be one step closer to the implementation of a public safety depart-

City manager Henry Graper met with Plymouth Township supervisor Maurice Breen last week to discuss the effects of combining the city's police and fire departments. Currently, the township contracts police services from the city.

Tuesday night, Breen said Graper asked for the meeting to discuss whether a public safety department would affect the two communities' police contract. Because the public safety concept utilizes police and fire personnel to respond to fire calls, township officials have questioned what would happen in the event of a fire in the city. Based on the information he has received. Breen said such an operation wouldn't effect the contract as long as a police officer was available to answer calls in the township.

'MY UNDERSTANDING is that with the unions are planned

Breen stressed he has not received any official communication on the pub-

Apartment fire empties building

Investigators are probing the cause of a fire Monday which sent heavy black smoke billowing through a 16-unit building at Honeytree Apartments in Canton.

The blaze was reported shortly before 1 p.m. in a building at the rear of the sprawling Honeytree complex, located off Joy Road near

All the residents were evacuated, and none was injured, officials said. Three Honeytree maintenance employees - who helped fight the fire were treated for smoke inhalation at Oakwood Hospital Canton

"A MAINTENANCE man noticed smoke," said fire Lt. Bill Grady. "The fire was confined to one apartment. The (occupant) had just left."

The fire broke out in a groundlevel apartment, officials said. Heavy, dense smoke poured into the second and third floors, said Fire Chief Mel Paulun. The chief estimated damage at $45,000-$50,000.

Managers of the Honeytree complex called in volunteers from the American Red Cross, who arranged for some residents to be housed in empty units within the complex.

The Red Cross assisted nine families with food, clothing or shelter, said Lynn Lecours, a spokeswoman for Red Cross. Several residents received vouchers for temporary stay at the Mayflower Motel in Plymouth. One received assistance to purchase work supplies destroyed in the fire. Vouchers also were provided for families to be fed at a Clock restaurant in Plymouth.

According to Lecours, the residents were expected to return to their apartments by Wednesday. Honeytree personnel could not be reached for confirmation.

To assist in determining the cause of the blaze, samples of debris were sent for analysis to the Michigan State Police post at Northville, Pau-

Five off-duty firefighters were called in to help fight the fire, which was brought under control in a few minutes, Palun said.

According to fire officials, the units at Honeytree are not equipped with smoke detectors. The apartments were built prior to 1975, mandating the safety devices.

It calls for consplit of Supersewer. It calls for construction of additional sewage lines to the Detroit treatment plant, while correcting pollution problems with the existing Rouge Valley system.

The remaining construction costs will be allocated to communities, based on the calculated benefits each will Because cost estimates most likely are inaccurate, the communities are being asked to commit to a specified percent of the costs rather than an actual dollar figure.

"My personal opinion is that the cost estimates are low," said Supervisor Maurice Breen. "Every project they've put together has been low, and the costs have gone up." Plymouth Township will receive an additional sewage capacity of 15.96 cubic feet per second (cfs) in the system. The township currently has 9.6 cfs in existing sewage lines, and exceeds that amount during wet weather.

With the additional capacity, Plymouth Township's sewage needs would be met through the year 2025, according to Mike Bailey, township engineer.

Without the project, additional sewer capacity wouldn't be available for development in the township, Bailey said. "There is no more capacity available for future needs, or even current needs at some times," he said.

"Understanding that Plymouth Township will need additional wastewater disposal capacity even to allow development to occur at the modest rate now being experienced, I recommend participating in this project," he sewer extensions and/or sewer taps would be banned by either the Wayne County Board of Public Works or the Michigan Department of Natural Resources," he said.

IT WAS FOR this reason the two townships participated in the planning of Supersewer. However, when that project was split last July, the townships lost some $1 million pumped into the planning work.

Plymouth Township received a cash advance of $3.8 million for the design of the system last week. However, because the advance money will be deducted from the 75-percent federal grant funding of the construction, the townships are keeping the door open to file a lawsuit to recover the Supersewer planning money.

Assurances sought before pledging dollars suppose to be used for making the drawing for the project. In the project lost the project lost to Suppose to be used for making the drawing for the project. > Consequently, one of the conditions for committing to the project calls for reimbursement for contributions made under various agreements pertaining to preliminary studies for the Huron Valley Wastewater System."

All of the 17 communities involved in the project were asked to commit to it by Jan. 1. However, as of Jan. 1, less than half of the communities had signed agreements.

And, like Plymouth and Canton townships, most of the communities agreeing to the project granted conditional approval. The lack of signed commitments could jeopardize the 75percent grant funding because the planning needs to be completed by Oct. 1, 1984.

Reportedly, developers who have used the Wayne County EDC are unhappy with the administrative fees

"We're probably one of the last com-munities to establish an EDC. We've always figured why get involved in all the mish-mash of boards and paper-work when there is someone already set to do it. Now, it's just a matter that we can do it cheaper," Breen said.

"The EDC doesn't do anything until a request for funding comes in. Then it tacks on the charge for the operation."

The administrative fees for the EDC would be established by the township board.

An EDC can sell bonds for construction projects within its jurisdiction And, since the EDC is a branch of gov cally, mentally or emotionally handiernment, the bonds are tax-free and usually sell at a lower interest rate.

By financing through the EDC, a developer can reduce the debt costs of the capped persons for at least two years Anyone with questions may contact Robinson at Robinson Rental Co., 41220

Even if the township establishes its own EDC, developers still will have the option of using the county EDC.

A new kind of house buyer, with a pent-up demand, will force builders to put up smaller houses, many of them in "cluster" developments.

That forecast came from leaders of the Builders Association of Southeast-ern Michigan (BASM) this week. They cheerfully predicted building twice the number of units as in 1983 though only half as many as in the peak year of "New people demand a different kind of housing," said Paul Robertson Jr. of Robertson Brothers, headquartered in Bloomfield Township. "It's a matter of demographics. We have a new profile couple.

"IN 1950 something like 63 percent were the traditional Leave It to Beaver' families — father working, mother taking care of the kids.

"In 1984 only 16 percent are traditional families. The other 84 percent are different," said Robertson, first vice president of BASM. He finds more working couples and fewer children.
"Buyers" don't need the four-bedroom, 21/2-bath house with a den." "The five-bedroom house is almost unmarketable," added Dennis P. Dick-stein of Ralph Manuel Associates of Birmingham." Builders agreed the three-bedroom house will be most in demand and that the two-bedroom unit, once considered unmarketable, will be a safe buy.

A MAJOR complaint of past years — tight building restrictions, particularly in Canton Township — was voiced more softly this year.

BASM President Richard Roeser said the association would "continue to place increased emphasis on working with state and local legislative bodies to modify the various ordinances and statutes . . . which are restrictive and unreasonable and result in adding costs which do not make for better housing - only more expensive housing."

But when asked if they had made any progress in the last year, Rebertson re-ported "a dramatic change" in the atti-tude of local governments. "Our com-sant is in four different municipalities pany is in four different m everly Hills, Birm which allow higher densities.

"There has been an easing of zoning ordinances for single-family detached dwellings on 80-, 96- or 100-foot lots.

"West Bloomfield Township has a cluster ordinance, too. It's coming, and coming pretty rapidly," said Robertson, adding, "I can't speak for Canton Township."

OTHER PREDICTIONS and observations by the BASM's officers:

 Most popular price ranges will be "low" ($60,000 to $80,000) and high ($150,000 and up). Prices have been stable in the last year, although some drywall shortages could result in increases for that material.

Many of the older, more skilled building tradesmen stayed in the tricounty region through the recession.
"We see more personal and direct responsibility on the part of the worker. The general worker today cares," said Robert R. Jones of Robert R. Jones As-

• Nearly 10,000 building permits will be issued in the metropolitan area, double the nearly 5,000 in 1983 and far more than the bottom 1,742 permits in 1982. But they are "a long way from what is normal production," said Roeser, defining normal as the 20,000 units started during 1978.

• Consumer confidence is high. Many young couples have been doubling up with parents and want their own home. Apartment owners have low vacancy rates, a sign that many who have been renting will want to move to a house. The 40,000 "Homerama" show visitors have been visibly enthusiastic.

THE CLOUD hanging over the building industry, Roeser said, is the high interest rates caused by the nearly $200-billion federal deficit, which aks up credit that could otherwise go

"Unfortunately, during an election year, nobody in political office likes to talk about cutting spending or increas-ing taxes," Roese said.

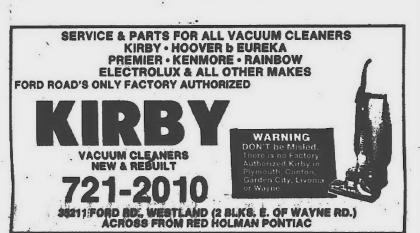

Economists seem split on whether interest rates will rise or fall during 1984, but Roeser said, "Personally, I think we have reached a plateau and that there will be no significant movement either up or down during 1984."

This 'doctor' makes house calls

By Penny Wright special writer

Most doctors treat patients with bandages, pills and hypodermic syr-

Dell Schott cures his ailing patients with shots of caulking compound, bands of weather-stripping, and selected doses of insulation.

Schott is a new breed of energy con-servation professional called a "house doctor." His mission is to go into a "sick," heat-leaking house, diagnose how the heat is escaping and administer on-the-spot cures.

The house doctor concept provides a new alternative to the widely available utility home energy audits.

"THE MAIN difference between the utility company energy audit and our visit is that we deal in remedies," said Schott, who is with Princeton Energy Partners in Troy.

Remedies may include sealing plumbing pipe penetrations, furnace tuneups, and installation of such energy and flue dampers.

"We want to avoid giving homeowners a list of things to do," Schott emphasized. "We do the work to assure the quality of repairs and the energy sav-

The house doctor approach to home energy conservation was hatched in the early '70s by a Princeton University research team. Its studies revealed a big difference between theoretical models of a home's heat loss and what actually was being wasted.

The solution: Send a specially trained team equipped with the latest heatsensing gear into a home and maximize energy savings.

"THE SPECIALIZED equipment allows me to find areas of heat loss overlooked by other audits," Schott said.

Typically, Schott will use a large fan, called a "blower door," to depressurize the house. Then, aided by an infrared viewer that senses surface temperatures, he will locate cracks and insulation bypasses which allow outside air to infiltrate the house.

"Due to the nature of the construction, houses in this area will lead threequarters to one air change per hour," he said. In layman's terms, it means nearly all the volume of air in a house would be exchanged with new air every

According to Schott, these air infil-tration losses account for 40 percent of the heating bill. His efforts are concentrated on plugging these air leaks or "shell tightening."

HOW EFFECTIVE is the visit in reducing energy bills?

"In most cases, we can save 15 to 25 percent of the total utility bill," said Schott. "Generally, the savings pay back the cost — $450 to $500 for an average size home - in two years or

A key element to the house doctor approach is completing the conserva-tion work during the visit.

Another version of this work-type home energy audit is offered by the Ecology Center in Ann Arbor. And the concept is spreading to county govern-

Funded by federal community development block grants, the Ecology Center conducts free home visits to qualifying low to moderate income people. The visit places high priority on training the homeowner to fix identified heat loss problems.

JIM FREY, Ecology Center staff coordinator, believes more energy savings occur when people are shown the techniques of making conservation modifications. "It's easy to say 'do it,' but we go in and say, "This is HOW you do it," said Frey.

Based on the Ann Arbor plan, Wayne County offers free home conservation workshops for low-income households. Workshop participants apply energy-saving cures to a selected home.

At the conclusion of the session, attendees are given a packet of materials to apply to their own heat loss problems. Information about this program can be obtained by calling the Wayne County Energy Service office at 843-

Breen reins in galloping bronco

You'll have to forgive Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen if he seems a little excited these days. To avoid being dramatic, I'll simply say he did the impossible last week by coralling the proposed multi-million dollar Supersewer spin-off project.

In five months, Breen has busted a wild bronco which has run rampant for more than 18 years. Now, with the bridle in place and the reins in his hand, Breen will attempt to ride that mischievous maverick.

For more than 18 years the bronco, known as Supersewer, has wreaked havoc throughout the western suburbs. Spurred on by the need for additional sewer capacity, the communities have planned and re-planned the project numerous times.

Communities which were afraid of being tossed for a financal loss, such as Plymouth and Canton townships, were forced to go along for the ride. The Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) threatened to cut off development in the communities if they didn't participate.

THAT RIDE was costly, Plymouth and Canton townships alone pumped some $1 million into the planning. And, the constant changing of the game plan took its toll on the communities' confidence that the project would become a reality.

Then, just when construction was coming into sight, a new cowboy came on the scene. James Blanchard was elected gov-

In what many consider a bow to political pressure from Detroit, the project was split in two last July. The south end (mostly downriver communities) is continuing with a down-sized version of Supersewer, while the north end is designing a parallel sewer system to Detroit's wastewater treatment plant.

The split left the north end out in the cold. All the monies the northern communities pumped into the Supersewer plans has been lost. And in July, they faced a bill for designing the plan.

It was at this point Breen decided to take the bull by the horns. He obtained verbal assurances from the DNR that a $3.8 million cash advance would pay for the new design work.

However, he knew it wouldn't be an easy battle for the money. ship didn't have the ability to administer into those battles.

the cash advance. The counties pleaded with the DNR for a "pass through" Plymouth Township would receive the money and then pass it directly to the

But, Breenisa tough hombre. He applied pressure on the DNR by filing notices of intent to sue for the lost Supersewer monies. Needless to say, the threatened litigation got everyone's attention. The counties and Detroit signed off on the money.

Friday Breen received a check for the $3.8 million. And, surprisingly enough, he never signed away his right to file the lawsuit for the Supersewer monies leaving his "ace in the hole" intact.

WITH THE money in his hands, Breen now is calling the shots. The western communities don't have to worry about the design money running out after Detroit's end of the project is drawn.

And because the $3.8 million will be deducted from construction grant money (thus raising the project costs to local communities), Breen isn't determined to spend the whole sum.

"If we don't have to eat it all up, it's to our benefit down the line," he says.

Besides that, Plymouth Township can keep the interest on the money while it sits in the bank - which could turn out to be a healthy sum. Not a bad move for a guy the counties said couldn't administer

But holding the purse strings isn't Breen's only hold on the reins. He's taking the whole project onto a turf where he's a expert - the courts.

BEFORE THE project can go forward, all the participating communities need to sign service agreements. Plymouth and Canton townships are withholding their signatures until Federal District Court Judge John Feikens reviews the plans (on behalf of the Detroit treatment plant).

As Breen puts it, without Feikens be-BASED ON the theory that whoever coming involved, there's no guarantee Deholds the purse strings calls the shots, troit can handle the increased sewage. Not Breen wanted control of the $3.8 million. to mention that federal court involvement will help insure the project's completion.

The project isn't history yet; there's still Wayne and Oakland counties, as well as some battles to be fought. But the good Detroit, had their eyes on the money. Ar- news for western Wayne County is that guments were made that Plymouth Town- Breen is riding high in the saddle going

Your town — tomorrow's core?

MOST OF US like to believe we live in a classless society, where every mother can hope that someday her child will grow up to be president.

That may be a myth, according to Robert Fish, a researcher at Wayne State University. Fish works in the Bureau of Business Research in the School of Business Administration.

He recently wrote an economic report entitled, "Detroit: Suburbs and City." Fish spent many hours studying the 1980 census - specifically, areas of population, housing, manufacturing and retail trade.

Using several economic indicators, he divided our part of suburban Detroit into class sectors:

• Upper class: Bloomfield Township, Farmington Hills, West Bloomfield Township, Birmingham, Troy, Avon Township, Canton Township and Plymouth Town-

• Upper middle class; Southfield, Livonia and Redford Township.

• Lower middle class: Garden City and FISH'S THEORY is that socioeconomic groups reside in distinct areas, which he calls sectors. Each sector consists of a collection of adjacent municipalities that share a major transportation corridor.

According to Fish, the key to knowing your place on the class scale is the value

"Value of residence is a direct and visible indication of family income," he said.

Thus, Fish determined a ratio for comparing the values of houses in metropolitan Detroit. He calculated the value of the average house and gave it a factor of 1.0. House value ratios in the Observer & Eccentric area range from 1.11 in Garden City and Westland to 2.93 for Bloomfield Township.

Fish used other information in the 1980 census data including the year a house was built and occupations of residents.

Guided by transportation corridors, sectors move continuously from the core of Detroit, he found. "High income families eventually desire new, improved housing, and these houses will be built on open land surrounding the urban area."

Houses vacated by high income families are acquired by middle income families, who want relatively newer housing. Low income families move into formerly middle income areas.

As an example, the 1980 census showed fewer suburbanites working in downtown Detroit than in 1970. Major corporations shifted their offices to places like Southfield and Troy.

Fish predicts that people working in Southfield and Troy will move north and commute via I-75 and M-24 (to Troy) and the proposed extension of M-275 and I-696 (to Southfield).

RUNNING AWAY to more remote suburban areas is no solution to urban ills. Problems will only follow. One suburb's growth comes at the expense of another suburb closer to Detroit.

A better response is to stay and solve the problems.

"Propaganda," Scott Widmeyer of the American Federation of Teachers scoffed at the Bell report. "I don't think the public will buy the Reagan line that money doesn't buy excellence.

Bell's report last week showed that American College Test (ACT) scores, used as college admissions tests, dropped in all 50 states between 1972 and 1982. In the same period, school dropout rates rose.

His department's numbers supported the "A Nation at Risk" contention that American education is suffering from "a rising tide of mediocrity."

FBCAN MORE MONEY solve educational problems? Consider three other states and Michigan:

Como — 718 in teacher salaries, como per ente percent on accesso, but

 Michigan — a soaring third in teach er salaries, 19th in per-pupil spending (due to large class sizes), and below Idaho, South Dakota and New Hampshire in ACT

One could build a case that reducing teacher salaries would lead to better student test scores, that Michigan's soaring property taxes have brought us only fat teacher salaries and no results.

BUT THAT wouldn't be true. High spending on schools will neither guarantee good test score nor fatten teachers into

That is because schools are only one instrument of education, and not necessarily

Back before 1970 when he was a presidential counselor, Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan of New York said, "Schools don't count; families do."

In 1984 school officials in Idaho, New Hampshire and South Dakots said much the same. They credited parent involvement, community involvement, discipline and a lack of "large industrial state" problems for their high sources.

Underline "parent involvement" about 19 times and circle it in red.

SCHOOLS TOOK too much credit when test scores were rising, dropout rates falling and increasing percentages of kids went to college.

Today, they are getting too much blame for poor performances.

But that was only the beginning of a friendship that lasted through the years.

Between the two of us, the strangest golf meet in Detroit and environs history was written into the records. We learned the toughest holes in the area and named them in order. Then we invited the pros to play them in order, too.

Only two responded: Jack Winney of Redford and Bob Sutherland of Sylvan Glen. The match covered several hundred miles back and forth across the district and didn't end until nightfall. Watrous always claimed it was the craziest event in which he ever took part.

each visit was a producer of laughs.

It was Watrous who attempted to make a golfer out of The Stroller. But after watching him with a club in his hands and in the middle of a lesson, Watrous stopped, walked over and told The Stroller he had one bad fault. Besides his smile, he was noted for always wearing a knitted tam. He never would tell where he got them.

One day The Stroller learned that Demaret's mother-in-law made them and forced him to wear them. The Stroller printed the story. Next time the golf scribes visited Plum Hollow for the monthly jamboree, Demaret stopped play at the first tee. He pulled a tam over The Stroller's head and announced:

The Stroller still has that tam among his treasures.

ONE OF THE nicest athletes a fellow could meet was Willis Ward when he earned his place on the Michigan football team in the years when Gerald Ford, later congressman and president, was captain of the Maize and Blue. .

Aside from being a legend in Michigan football, he also was a track star and once outran Jesse Owens, the all-time great.

The thing for which he is best remembered was his qualifying in 1936 for the United States Olympic team. Having satisfied himself that he had made the team, he refused to go to Germany for the games because of his dislike for Adolph Hitler.

The news of Ward's unexpected death was a complete shock, for The Stroller had the honor of inducting him into the Michigan Amateur Sports Hall of Faine. His acceptance speech was the finest ever delivered in Hall of Fame ceremonies. A. C. S. S. S. S. S. S.

SENATE REPUBLICAN Leader John Engler of Mt. Pleasant was on the campaign trail this week when he predicted the state Legislature will pass a bill to lower the state's personal income tax Engler based his prediction on Republicans winning two state Senate seats varecated by the recalls of Democrats Philip Mastin and David Serotikin.

His theory is that Republicans will control the Senate 20-18 and that the Democratic majority in the House won't matter because state representatives are up for re-election this year, and even Democrats can be expected to jump on a tax-cut bandwagon in order to assure re-election.

The Senate Republican leader assumes. probably accurately, that legislators believe there is no greater evil than not being re-elected.

IN FACT, IF legislators could have known what kind of uproar would-followtheir approving the state tax hike in March, Gov. James J. Blanchard probably would have failed to convince them to

But at this point, Engler's dangling the carrot of a tax cut before the voting public is little more than a calculated political manuever designed to improve GOP chances of victory in the two open Senate

His promise to lighten the load of taxpayers is not accompanied by any statement concerning how the Legislature, or the state government, can cut the budget to make up for a revenue decrease.

Engler claims that because of a surplus the state can cut a half-percent of the now 6.1-percent tax without any cut in services or expenditures. The surplus, however, can easily be used up making up the deficits incurred by previous administra-

Everything you need

What you should do and who you should call when your phone's in a fix.

It isn't very often that you need to deal with telephone repairs, but when you do, you want them taken care of as fast as possible. Now that Michigan Bell has separated from AT&T, there are some changes in the way repair problems are handled. We have some suggestions for you on how to identify your phone repair problems so that you can get them handled as quickly as possible. But first it's important to know who will make specific telephone repairs. For example, effective January 1, 1984:

1. AT&T assumed ownership of the phones Michigan Bell had been providing you for a monthly fee. AT&T will continue to lease those phones to you and will offer repair services. 2. AT&T will also offer repair service for phones that you purchased from Michigan Bell prior to January 1, 1984. 3. Michigan Bell will continue to service and repair the lines that lead to your home or business.

Now let's talk about how you can tell if it's your phone that needs repairing or your phone lines.

Here's how:

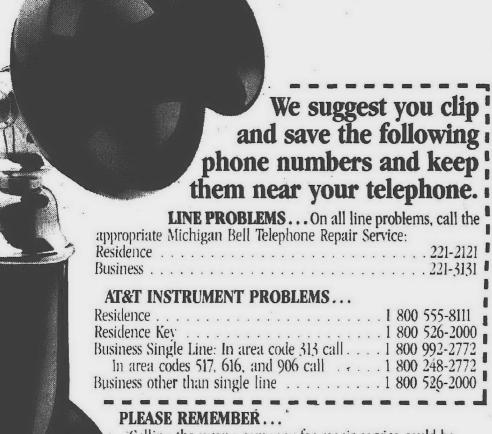

If you have plug-in or modular service, make sure all of your phones are properly plugged in.

Check all phones for physical damage or frayed cords. If you find damage, it's probably an instrument problem.

If you have more than one telephone, check them all for a dial tone. If you don't hear a dial tone on any of the phones, you may have a line problem. If you do hear a dial tone on at least one phone, the problem is probably in one of your other instruments.

If you determine that the trouble is isolated to one instrument at one location, and you have modular service, try that instrument at another outlet or possibly at a neighbor's (if both you and your neighbor have similar one-party service). If the instrument works at another location, the problem may be with a specific outlet. If the instrument does not work at another phone outlet, the problem is probably with the instrument.

If you have only one phone and it does not appear to be damaged, but cannot be moved to another outlet for testing, call Michigan Bell Repair Service. We will help you determine whether you have an equipment or line problem.

Calling the wrong company for repair service could be costly. For example, if you call Michigan Bell for repair service and the trouble turns out to be in a telephone instrument, you could be charged for a service call and still not have your problem corrected. That's why we've suggested the line and instrument checks before calling anvone.

Michigan Bell can't promise you that you'll never have a repair problem, but we can assure you that we're bringing the same skill and experience to your telephone service repair needs. We want, just as much as you, to keep your service working as it always has.

After all ... IT'S AT&T WE'VE SEPARATED FROM ... NOT YOU.

Facts down the line. Because your telephone business office is busily engaged in normal, day to day telephone service matters, we are providing this toll-free number as a source for answers to the questions you may have about your changing telephone company.

We also suggest that you watch for our informational messages in your newspapers and in your monthly telephone bills. 1 800 555-5000

THE TOWN WILL be hopping this weekend with the ice sculptures in Kellogg Park as the major attraction. Across the way, the Mayflower Hotel is preparing for visitors. As well as many of the ice carvers, they have four busloads of tourists coming in from Ontario and Ohio for the ice festival.

Those gleaming sculptures in ice hold a fascination for everyone even those who wouldn't walk across the street to the Prado.

Amateur and professional photographers have a field day. Asked our photographer, Bill Brester, if he had any tips for novices. For daytime shots, he suggested slow to medium speed film for better detail, and "get up close." Bill says having a post or a person in the shot gives a sense of scale - or size. He said you also can get some nice pictures at night and suggests bracing the camera on a park bench for a long exposure. The members of the Plymouth

I spoke to some of the Scouts about their trip, and they learned a lot during their visit. Becky Clark told me, "The children go to school there, and the honpital tries to make the day as much like normal as possible." Becky really en-joyed the experience, but said she wished she could have given the gifts to the children instead of just to a staff member. But she said she understood.

Chris Berns told me, "It was pretty fun." She, too, was disappointed that they didn't get to speak to the children. However, she enjoyed all the informa-tion provided on the tour. "I think this would be a fun project for other groups to do," says Chris. "I really liked going

During their tour, the girls got a peak at the new emergency helicopter provided at the hospital complex. The ervice, called Survivial Flight Helicopter Service, provides fast emergency transportation to the hospital. Chris remembers that the helicopter is very expensive to operate and even though they weren't allowed near it, she "got a pretty good look" and enjoyed the chance just to see it.

When the girls returned from their trip, they had the traditional Christmas treat of sloppy joes, chips, cole slaw — traditional for teens that is.

Congratulations, Junior Girl Scout Troop 333, on a job well done and a job worth doing. I once worked as a volunteer in a hospital, and I know they can use all the help the community can provide. I hope some groups take up your suggestions, Chris. Maybe your troup could show them the ropes.

Impressed that she needed an education, she left the farm and began the long climb from sixth grade to a bachelor of science degree, obtained at the expense of her health,

With growing appreciation of the needs of her body, she realized that on the farm she had gotten exercise as a way of life, but this was lost in her ambitious student years. She then evaluated her lifestyle and made some changes. One of the changes included becoming a vegetarian. She also set up an exercise program that was consistent. She began gardening again and started walking every-

The public is invited to hear Hulda Crooks speak at Plymouth Seventh-day Adventist church, 4295 Napier Road, Plymouth.

At the encouragement of her husband, Dr. Samuel Crooks, she began climbing the mountains near her home, although he could not accompany her because of a heart condition. After his death, she began exercising all the more and climbed Mt. Whitney at age 66 . She began to do this annually with a group. At 70 she began an intensive jogging program and by age 75 started backpack trips of a week or more. Two years later, she completed the 212-mile John Muir Trail.

Still not ready for the rocking chair, she worked on the Sierra Club's registry of 268 peaks in Southern Cal-

Her adventures "peaked" more or less when NBC filmed her 18th climb up Mt. Whitney and the show was shown on World News, "Today Show,"
"Johnny Carson Show" and the "Dinah Shore Show." In 1931, the 20th climb was filmed and shown on "Good Morning America" as part of a "Healthy Living" segment produced by Kettering Hospital.

Her talk is open to the public. The church is located at 4295 Napier Road, Plymouth, between Ann Arbor Road and Ford.

Still time to overthrow robotic status

At the time of its publication "1984" was considered to be fiction. The story does, however, come ominously close to describing the society we are coming to know. With the passage of time this Orwellian tale becomes more prophetic than fictional. Perhaps Orwell envisioned the inevitability of what others chose to deny.

To challenge a set pattern or suggest a change in direction seldom goes well with the home team. Only when it is targeted to another time or another place does it gain validity in the eyes of the skeptical. Orwell's first choice for a title to his book was "1948." In the author's mind the story was already in process. However, the immediacy frightened publishers and he was advised to change the title. By reversing the numbers he arrived at "1984". In the 30 some years since publication, the plot has continued to unfold in the real world. Big Brother has moved us from the first nuclear bomb to an unprecedented arms race. Come April 15 we will pay our annual premium to ensrue that it continues at an even faster clip. Just as the people of Orwellian fantasy, we will consider it our patriot-

Such interpretation of patriotism has also been effective in dictating the direction of the marektplace. Here we are told what we want to buy for our personal lives. "Real Americans buy American" is the way they put it. Whether it be on the pages of Orwell's book, in the computers of the IRS or the driveways of our nation, no one wants to be unpatriotic. As such we may even conclude that we do not have to trust Russian leaders to be against more missiles. We have time now to do some learning about issues and candidates. We have time to listen and time to think. We have time to become more concerned about something more than chuck holes in front of our own house.

In short, we have time to turn Orwell's story into fiction. But the time is now. It may be only January but it is

The 66-year-old West Bloomfield woman defended Japanese war criminals after World War II, became the first female attorney in Michigan to represent a defendant in a murder trial, and survived 30-odd years at several Detroit locations where bodies frequently turned up.
At the end of last month, Bliefield called

WHEN SHE graduated in 1941, Blie-field stayed with the state but found that her sex became a barrier for advancement. "I was the highest paid woman in Michigan and the state wouldn't give me a raise. They wouldn't promote me solely because I was a woman," she said.

What goes into a good rivalry

T THE SOUTH END of the bleachers a swarm of kids dressed predominantly in blue and white tauntingly pointed fingers toward the other end of the bleachers. The bunch at the north end of the bleache wearing mostly orange and black, responded with a threatening sea of fists. Both sides shook the tiny gymnasium with a nonstop chorus of cheers, rantings and ravings.

"Sit down, CC!" the Birmingham Brother Rice crowd screeched. "Get some class!" the Redford Catholic Central ection retorted. That, sports fans, is a rivalry.

AND THAT'S WHAT happens any time CC and Rice meet on the athletic field. The two schools have been at the top of the Catholic League's Central Division in both football and basketball for the past decade. And the Central Division is the cream of the Catholic League crop.

Meeting at the top of the heap has contributed to the intense rivalry. But that's not what makes it

Rivalries are created as much in the stands as on Example: Livonia Stevenson vs. Plymouth Salem boys' basketball is not a rivalry. Despite a trio of close, exciting games last season that culminated ir the league championship contest, few cared enough to witness them.

Plymouth Salem vs. Livonia Bentley girls' basketball is likewise not a rivalry, for the same

But Farmington Our Lady of Mercy vs. Livonia Ladywood girls' basketball is a different story. A pair of games matching these two state es drew capacity crowds at Schoolcraft

WHY IS THE CATHOLIC League able to draw such crowds while public schools with consistently strong basketball programs, like Stevenson and Salem, labor in near anonymity?

Perhaps because it's a matter of choice. Studen attending Catholic League schools are there because they want to be there, and they are paying to be there. Not so at a public school.

It's human nature that the more you pay, the more you want your money's worth. Many public school coaches will cite different reasons for such crowds. Talent, for instance, is greater at Catholic League schools because of the age-old recruiting claim. Better players make for better games, which draws better crowds.

But that doesn't explain the shortage of bodies at public schools where basketball thrives.

IT ALSO DOESN'T explain why such a large contingent of CC fans showed up Tuesday night at Brother Rice, traveling more than 20 miles for a game pitting a 3-4 team (CC) against a squad game pitting a 3-4 team (CC) against a squau sporting a 4-1 mark (Rice).

"It's been a rivalry from the late '60s through the '70s," said CC coach Bernie Holowicki.

Warrior coach Nick Conti, who served at Warrior coach Nick Conti, who served at Bloomfield Hills Lahser before coming to Rice, figured "the most glaring difference (at Catholic schools) is the almost fanatical involvement of the fans, and the competitiveness in which the games are played and coached."

So how can the Catholic League be so competitive without recruiting? That's like asking which came first, the chicken or the egg? Are players recruited to attract the crowds? Or is it the crowds that attract the players?

"It's a little bit like a Catch 22," Conti said. "One thing kind of leads to another. The players tend to play harder in front of a big crowd. Kids in the seventh or eighth grade are here, they see that and they want to be a part of it."

HOLOWICKI AGREED. "We tell them they're walking among kings," the CC coach said. "When people come out — that's the games kids love to play in. That's what they practice for, what they play for.

"That's what it's all about."

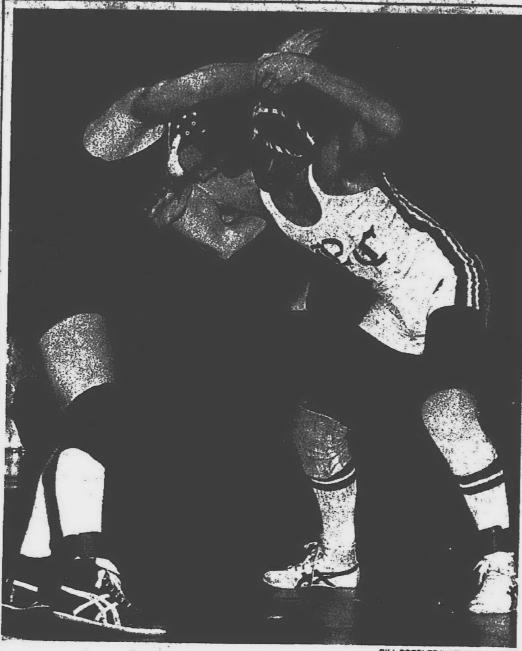

"That's what it's all about."
It's true. Imagine if you were a high school basketball prospect like the Lamier twins from the Troy district, who are already near 7-feet tall and rumored to be heading to Rice in the fall. After witnessing the Rice-CC game, wouldn't you like to play in front of that type of crowd?

Would it be against the rules to influence eighth grade kids in such a way? Not according to the MHBAA rules, which state it is perfectly legal for soaches to talk to pre-high school age youths. It is a violation if the coach offers the athlete something that is not available to all other students.

BOTH CC AND RICE have little to offer in term

BUTH CC AND RICE have little to offer in terms inducement. Both schools are small, with tiny puts and no swimming pools. Rice, which boasts is aste's best Class A football school, doesn't even was football stadium. Neither does CC.

(a) the talent still flocks to the two schools. And puts they're at each other's throats. Last had, CC lest just four basketball games. One was another Josephert and Detroit Southwestern, was in the state quarterfinals to Detroit

But, I'm sure that as the season goes along, Canton will get a lot stronger. They tried harder tricks than we did, but they were missing them. A lot of that has to do with first-game jitters."

When the going got tough, Livonia Churchill got it going inside.

That was the difference Tuesday in a Western Division basketball showdown as Churchill rallied for a 49-45 victory over visiting Plymouth Canton.

The win was the Chargers' sixth in seven games. Canton, meanwhile, had its five-game winning streak snapped. But more importantly, the two teams are now tied for first in the Western side of the Western Lakes Conference.

When Plymouth Salem's cagers came out in the first quarter against Farmington Tuesday night, they still had plenty of firepower left over from last Friday's impressive 66-57 win over Livonia Stevenson.

A PLYMOUTH HIGH SCHOOL FLASHBACK
In February of 1976, rated for just one week in most of the popularity polls as the No. 1 Class A basketball team in Michigati, the Rocks tasted defeat for the first time as Belleville's Tigers posted a 63-57 triumph. Nonetheless, Salem, which is how 16-1 overall, still leads the Suburban 8 in its drive toward a 3rd straight undisputed championship with a 10-1 mark. "They beat us square up," admitted coach Fred Thomann of the Rocks, as he avoided offering any form of alibi. Belleville astounded the packed house by racing to a 13-0 lead in the first 5 minutes and from then on it was all up hill for the Plymouth troops. "The difference in the ballgame was that we went to the boards in the second half," said Churchill coach Don Albertson. "I told them at halftime this is a game to test their attitude. Attitude ermines altitude and it was applicable to today's game."

CANTON seemed to have problems with Churchill's 2-3 zone in the second half. The Chiefs were plagued by costly turnovers in the final quarter.

a field of 15 teams to win the 10th an-

THE FIFTH and sixth places went to Plymouth Canton (118) and Salem (109). Of the other area teams that competed, North Farmington (79) was eighth and Garden City (55) was ninth.

"It was a very, very successful tournament," said Salem coach Ron Krueger. "It always seems like the best wrestlers get beat in our tournament. That was true again this year."

Krueger was referring to the stunning upset victory by John Glenn's Mike Rossi in the 121-pound class. Rossi went up against the No. 2 wrestler in the state last year, Clarkston's Greg Ellis, and pinned him in 3:45.

Rossi was named the tourney's most outstanding wrestler for his efforts.

Portage Northern placed eight wrestlers in the top four en route to the win. Dave Hatton (heavyweight), Bill McLaughlin (98 pounds), and Andy Latora (134 pounds), were the Huskies'

Glenn's champions were Rossi, 107pounder Rick Gillies, who pinned Portage's Chris Nohava in 2:21, and 157ounder Tom Forchione who won a 9-4 decision against Ypsilanti's Joe Foster.

CANTON MADE'a strong showing, placing six grapplers in the top four. At 114 pounds, Canton's Todd Gattoni edged Salem's Dave Dameron 4-3, avenging his loss to Dameron in the Canton meet two weeks ago. Canton's ace Tim Collins, wrestling at 140, was nipped 3-2 in the champion-ship match by Montrose's Mike Mur-doch, a defending state champion.

The Chiefs got third place finishes from Jeff Condit (98 pounds) and Heath wrestling

Smith (107 pounds), and fourth place finishes from Jim Malson (heav) weight) and Larry Janiga (147 pounds)

The host team, Salem, placed Dameron second at 114, Bruce Zak third at 157, John Jeannotte third at 134, Rich Vershave fourth at 121, and Eric Rett

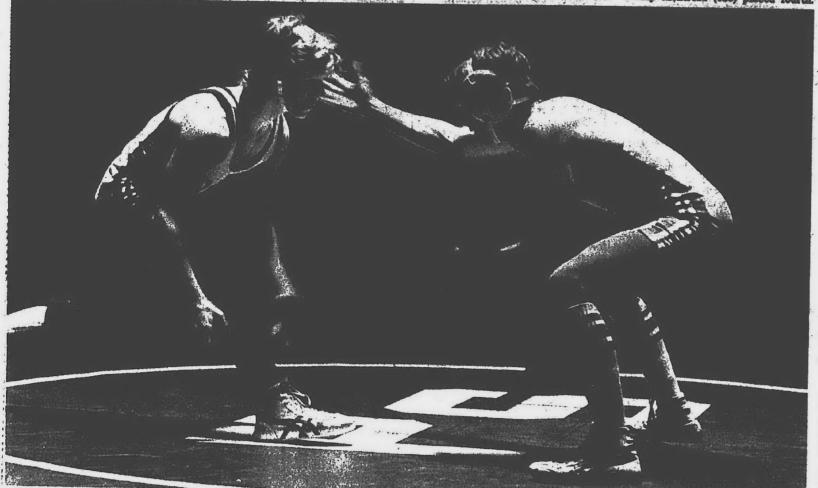

"I'm pretty pleased with my kids, said Krueger. "You can tell because my voice is hoarse. If my kids are doing well, I do a lot of yelling. If I'm no hoarse, we didn't do well."

NORTH FARMINGTON was paced by the Benda brothers. Jim Benda war the champion at 128 pounds, while brother Rob was third at 169. Brian Hood finished second at 187 pounds to another defending state champion Montrose's Dave Dean.

Garden City got a third place at 121 from Herbie Herge and a fourth from 128-pound Tom Mack.

The tournament was supposed to feat ture a 46-team field. Dearborn Heights Annapolis, however, could not attend because of a schedule conflict.

"There are a lot of people and groups who deserve a lot of credit for this tourney," Krueger said. "All the parents, Larry Phillips and Danny Rose (tournament directors), Bob Jeannotte LOC Performance (who supplied the awards), and the Plymouth Elks — the tournament could not have happened without the help and donations of all these people."

Round two went to Gattoni. Canton's Todd Gattoni (right) outpointed Salem's Dave Dameron to win the 114-pound class. Dameron defeated Gattoni in the Canton tourney.

WAYNE MEMORIAL and Walled Lake Western finished one-two, respectively, at the Schoolcraft Invitational last weekend. Farmington placed seventh.

Salem, Canton and North Farmington all took part in the Plymouth Salem Invitational. Canton placed fifth and Salem sixth. North was eighth.

The Raider tourney will feature some top rea wrestlers. From Walled Lake Western, Chris Thompson, Bryan Rich and Matt Turner, all champions at Schoolcraft, should be among the top seeds in their weight classes.

Canton is led by talented Tim Collins who is 22-2 this season and Todd Gattoni, who was the champion at 114 pounds last week-end. Salem is led by John Jeannotte, Rick Vershave, Dave Dameron, and Bruce Zak.

Ab Hazen has been a terror for Farmington. At Schoolcraft last weekend, he pinned all four of his opponents in the 167-pound class. Hazen is 15-1 this season.

And don't leave out the home team. O'Leary has some talented grapplers; namely, Brian Hood who is 13-2, and Jim Benda, who took first at 128 at Salem last weekend. Jim's brother, Rob, is also wrestling well for the Raiders.

The action begins at noon, with the finals beginning at 7 p.m. North Farmington is located on 13 Mile, just west of Orchard Lake in Farmington Hills.

They did, dropping a 106-90 men's basketball decision at Highland Park Saturday.

Losing to one of the Eastern Conference favorites certainly bothered Schoolcraft coach Rocky Watkins. But maybe not as much as the way his team lost.

Schoolcraft was called for 29 fouls in the game to 13 for Highland Park. Four starters - including high-scoring point guard Carlos Briggs — fouled out. Two others were saddled with four fouls.

Yet it was the fouls that weren't called on Highland Park that bothered Watkins more.

SCHOOLCRAFT, PLAYING without three starters and trailing by eight with three minutes left, saw its last chance for victory wiped out when Briggs was whistled for an offensive foul, his fifth personal. Briggs questioned the call and was ed a technical foul.

When Watkins asked what the technical foul was for, he, too, was hit with a technical. Highland Park increased its lead to 12 and got the ball, and Schoolcraft was never a threat afterwards.

"I know this probably sounds like I'm bellyaching," Watkins said of his complaints with the officials, "But I can tell you this: we're sending a letter of complaint to the superinten-dant of officiating, George Solo-

The loss overshadowed another superb performance by Briggs, who hit 13 of 26 from the floor and scored 28 points, dished out six assists, grabbed six rebounds and made two steals. All while committing just four turnovers.

Vince Merriweather and Eric Sink also had "outstanding games," according to Watkins. Merriweather hit 10 of 12 from the floor, scoring 21 points and nabbing seven rebounds. Sink was 10 of 14 from the field, netting 20 points and collecting 15 rebounds.

Merrifield adjusts to collegiate role

What awaited Katie Odena and Jacque Merrifield was nothing they were accustomed to.

Both came out of successful high achool athletic programs, looking for continued success when they enrolled at Hillsdale College. As they discovered, it doesn't always turn out that

When I came here, we weren't even in a league," Odena recalled. "I re-member when I was a sophomore, I asked myself, 'Why am I here, why am

For both Odena (a senior) and Merrifield (a freshman), the reasons were twofold: first, the school, and second,

And while both have enjoyed their stays at Hillsdale, they have not experienced the athletic success they did in high school:

ODENA GRADUATED from West Bloomfield in 1980. She starred in both softball and basketball for the Lakers. although she missed most of her senior basketball season with a variety of illnesses and injuries.

West Bloomfield's girls' baskethall team lost just once that season until the state quarterfinals.

Odena never enjoyed that type of winning at Hillsdale. Since she first started playing basketball for the Chargers ("I went from a winning program to a bunch of girls getting togethconstant building process under coach Phyllis Cupp.

She's recruited well," Odena said of Cupp. "This year we got a lot of talent, but we just haven't been able to put it

Hillsdale is 3-6 for the season matching the win total of last year's 3-18 team. There are just three seniors on the 12-person roster.

"We're competitive this year and will be contenders next year," Cupp said. "That's our goal. Cupp called Odena, a 5-foot-10 forward averaging 9.6 points and 8.6 re-bounds ner game, "consitent. She bounds per game, "consitent. She scores a lot underneath but she has a good outside shot, too."

ODENA'S REBOUNDING has improved this season, while her scoring has fallen off. But if there is a single quality she believes she can provide to the team, it's leadership.

"Because they are so young and we're trying to get everyone together," the senior said. "What we're really having the most problem with is our transition game, from offense to defense. It seems that in every game, one is going well and the other isn't. Maybe our communication could be better.

We work so hard, we should be winning a lot more."

Odena also plays catcher on the Charger softball squad. At most larger schools, athletes concentrate on one sport. Not at Hilladale.

FOR MERRIFIELD it's much the same. She starred for Plymouth Salem er to play for the fun of it") it's been a a year ago on the basketball court, leading the team to a Western Lakes Activities Association title and a 20-

In her four years at Salem, the girls' basketball team coached by Bob Blohm won more than 80 games.

Things are different at Hillsdale, alough Merrifield maintains, "I like it a lot." One reason she likes Hillsdale is that she can play volleyball as well as basketball; and she likes the coach—which is important, considering Cupp coaches volleyball, basketball and softball at Hillsdale.

But a "big" difference between college and high school is the size and level of talent. "There are more bigger, stronger players," she said. "There are more of them per team, whereas there were only one or two on a team in high Merrifield, too, was counted on to do a bit of everything at Salem: shoot, re-bound, pass, dribble, and play defense. Man-to-man defense.

AT HILLSDALE, she's the sixth man, filling in at both forward and guard. What she is expected to do is simple.

"Shoot," she defined her responsibility. She's filled that role reasonably well, averaging 6.4 points per game.

"She's an excellent shooter," Cupp said. "She's been improving right along. We want her to be more of a floor leader, but that's tough for a freshman."

Merrifield's no longer asked to guard the opposing team's toughest player. In fact, she has no one player to guard.

That's because Hillsdale runs a 2-3

Odena nor Merrifield were too ke

"It's hard to get used to," Merrifiel said. "At Salem, we always playe man-to-man and ran a motion offense

Here it's a zone defense and a set Defensively, it's been a big ch for me. Personally I like man-t better than zone."

Odena thought the limited number defenses might hurt Hillsdale.

"Sometimes it seems (coach Cupp doesn't have enough confidence to try different things," Odena said. THE TWO ATHLETES share another er similiarty: Both have been sidelined because of injury or illness.

Odena hurt a knee a year ago and had surgery. Her knee still bothers her and costs her playing time.

Metrifield had an emergency appendectomy after the conclusion of volleyball season and missed a month of basketball practice. She didn't return until after Thanksgiving.

What the pair don't share is the timing of their careers. A year from now, Odena will be working on her master degree in international business while Merrifield will be attempting to transform Hillsdale's program into a

"I want to be as big a contributor to the program as I can," Merrifield said?

"I want to help as much as I can." Odena's helping days are nearly over. And that, as she put it, "is something I don't even want to think about."

Chief netters fall

It's really tough to outscore your strong serves. Jennifer Gorecki (7) opponents if you fail to get your and Cindy Fisher (6) combined for 13 serves across the net. Just ask firstyear Plymouth Canton volleyball coach Peggy Moore.

Northville came into the Canton gym Monday and swept the Chiefs in two games, 15-10, 15-12 to give them their second loss in two matches.

"We missed a lot of serves," Moore said. "Basically, that's the story of the match. When we got our chance to serve, we missed them."

you to put up money for long periods of time, but there are places to keep cash that you may need quickly. The accompanying table summarizes the various returns available on these vehicles. Comments on several savings outlets

A number of instruments offer relatively high yields, while keeping money accessible. Some examples:

· Money-market mutual funds. MMFs have minimum-deposit requirements ranging from $100-1,000, and they pay yields now averaging 8.55 percent. You can withdraw money at any time, and checks can be written on your account, although many funds set a minimum of $250 or more for each check. These accounts carry no federal insurance as do the three types described below.

 Money-market deposit accounts. For a minimum deposit of $2,500, you can open an MMDA with a bank or savings institution. These accounts pay market rates - most recently averaging 8.47 percent. Unlike MMF's, whose rates change daily, MMDA rates can be guaranteed for up to a month. As many as six automatic or other withdrawals are allowed monthly. Three of these can be checks, but a minimum size of withdrawal may be required. Cash withdrawals are unlimited. Seven days notice before withdrawals can be ree Super NOW accounts. With a minimum balance of $2,500, this account - a type of negotiable order of with-drawal, or NOW - permits unlimited check-writing privileges. The latest average yield is 7.20 percent nationwide.

· Certificates of deposit. Short-term CDs - those with maturities of 32 days to one year - now can earn market rates of interest. Six-month CDs are paying 9.21 percent on average; oneimum deposits are required, although many are as low as $100.

• Treasury bills. If you had at least $10,000 to invest, new-issue T-bills are available. Three and six-month bills are auctioned weekly by the Federal Reserve or the U.S. Treasury; one-year bills are sold every four weeks. They are sold at less than face value (similar to savings bonds), so the coupon-equivalent rate is higher than the quoted rate. A recent six-month bill, for example, sold at a discount rate of 8.81 percent, equal to 9.38 percent at coupon

Which would you prefer... a higher stated interest rate or more money?

Michigan National compounds interest monthly to pay you more money for your money

Higher stated interest rates on Individual Retirement Accounts (IRA) may sound good initially. But, if you're interested in earning more money for your money, consider the effects of Michigan National's monthly compounding of interest versus other banks' simple interest method of payment.

Earn interest on your interest

A minimum deposit of only $50 at Michigan National earns interest each month. So, month by month, year after year you continually earn interest on your interest.

Most other banks, however, pay interest on a simple basis.

No compounding.

No payment of interest on your interest.

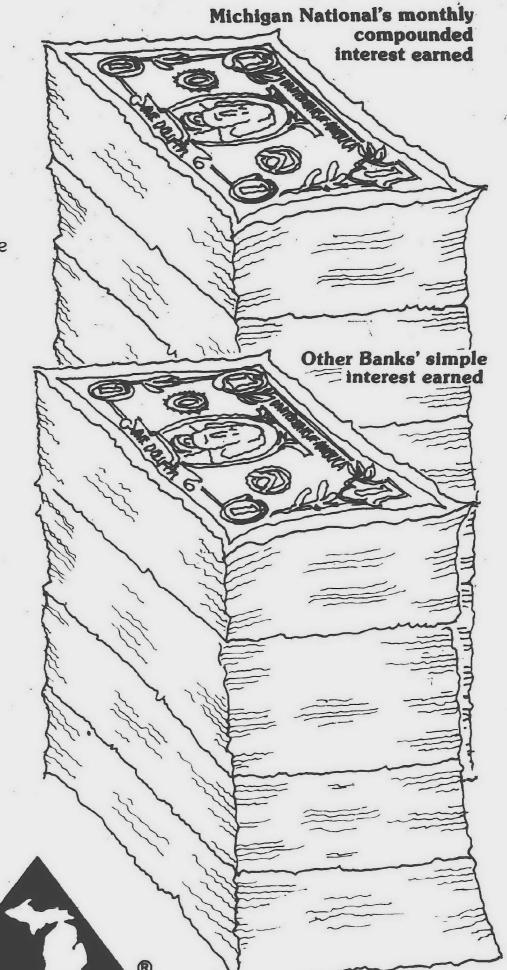

That's why other banks can quote a higher rate, and yet, pay less interest over the lifetime of your investment.

Don't be fooled by high interest IRA claims.

Invest your retirement savings with Michigan National where your IRA will earn more money for your money with monthly compounding.

Need a loan to fund your IRA?

Borrow up to your annual IRA contribution limit at preferred rates to take advantage of 1983 or 1984 tax deductions. Then write off interest payments for an additional tax savings. Ask for details on the advantages of an IRA loan at any branch office.

More particularly, they have adopted a set of words that they can use to de-scribe the various sensations attendant to their tasting. As with any specialty, use of these words seems somewhat esoteric to those who do not use them regularly.

The following words are used frequently to describe the tastes associated with wine drinking:

Dry - Wine with little or no risidual sugar. This results from the fermentation process when all the natural sugars in grape juice have been converted to carbon dioxide and alcohol, leaving a wine that will pucker the mouth. The unknowing will call this sensation "sour" but it is not. It is merely the absence of sugar.

with maturation (cabernet sauvignon).
Soft — Usually means a lack of tannin and acidity but does not refer to flavor intensity (pinot noir).

centrated flavors. This term has no reference to the complexity of a wine (zinfandel and barbera).

Complexity — A wine with different layers of sensation, changing as it lingers in the mouth. A complex wine will usually be considered to have great depth (cabernet sauvignon).

Europe always delights travelers

Switzerland for winter grandeur; Germany for carnival merriment

SWITZERLAND: Winter festivities of all kinds are going on for the next several weeks. They may be of special interest to travelers taking advantage of the ski packages offered at 23 Swiss resorts.

Balloonists are already in the air over the Alps in the Gstaad Open Balloon event, which goes on through Jan. 21. It's probably too late for you to plan that, or the horse races that go on this weekend on frozen lakes around St. Moritz, but mark them on your calendar for next year, along with the winter golf championships held on the same frozen lakes (this year Jan. 20-221.)

There's plenty of time to get ready for the Engadine Ski Marathon, in which 3,000 people from around the world test heir endurance March 11. You can also watch sled-dog racing at Andermatt, ice hockey at Arosa, spring ski-jumping on Mt. Titlis near Engelberg, ski aerobatics at Adelboden and the annual snow sculpture competition at Hoch-Ybrig in Central Switzerland. This year's snow sculpture theme is Olympic Games; it will be held Feb. 16 through 19.

The Swiss National Tourist Office, 608 Fifth Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10020, will send you information on any of these activities, as well as ski packages ranging from $150 per person for a seven-day stay in

Some tour operators offer apartment accommodations as low as $49 per person for seven-day land arrangement. Swissair's Alpine Experience offers ground arrangements with guaranteed dollar rates through April 8. Their Cross Country Ski Vacations include varying levels of accommodations in 44 hotels in Crans/Montana, Davos, Engelberg, Grindlewald, Gstaad

GERMANY: Carnival is in full swing in all its variations. The traditional celebrations, which end with Mardi Gras March 6, have been warming up since before Christmas and will get hotter and hotter during the next month.

Carnival is celebrated in hundreds of towns throughout Germany but it can be roughly divided into four kinds of madness. Munich has its "Fasching," celebrated with flamboyant costume balls. It climaxes with the Munich Crazy Party held March 4.

The Karneval of the Rhineland is held mainly in Cologne, Dusseldorf, Aachen, Bonn, Munster and Essen, with huge festival parades ending the merrymaking on Rose Monday, March 5. The Weiberfastnacht street carnival is held in Cologne

The Black Forest has Fasnet, which dates back to the Middle Ages. The same bell-jingling wooden masks and traditional costumes are used every year to terrify the evil spirits of winter. The Alemmanic Fastnet festivities climax March 1 through 6 in the Black Forest, Upper Swabia and Lake Constance areas.

Finally in Mainz, the capital city of the Rhineland Palatinate, the whole year is spent preparing programs of satire and burlesque for Fassenacht.

The Traditional Parade of the Guild of Fools is held March 5 and 6 in Rottweil. Carnival is such an important merrymaking activity in Germany, that private parties are held everywhere in the

Paris was made for women, and shoppers

By Shirley Dow Marthey

PARIS IS a woman's city. Its beauty, ambience and pre-eminence as a center of art, culture and fashion all appeal to the feminine gender. Much of this appeal is epitomized in the shops and stores of Paris - and what woman has not dreamed of a shopping spree in the French capital.

Today is a good time to make that dream a reality, what with the American dollar asserting itself against the French franc. Rarely has the exchange been as good; for some months, it has been in the neighborhood of seven francs to one dollar, and that is a very attractive neighborhood to visit when there are so many enticements in the marketplace.

To many fashion-minded women, Paris means haute couture: the designer houses of Chanel, Pierre Cardin, Christian Dior, Givenchy and Yves Saint-Laurent. Here, one ds a good deal of either francs or

The price of a gown or suit from the collection is prohibitive to many of us, but most of the houses also have tioutiques offering separates, accessories and other less expensive items from the pret-a-porter, or ready-towear, group.

If you are in the area and are interested in a gift for an infant or child, don't miss the delightful Petit Faune at 33 Rue Jacob.

FOR BOTH buyers and browsers, Paris has wonderful bookstores - librairies, they are called. Among the best of the English/American shops are Galignani and Smith & Son. The former was founded in 1800 and moved to its present location at 224 Rue de Rivoli 50 years later.

all the best and latest. Great place to browse. Near it, at 248 Rue de Rivoli, Smith & Son offers coffee-table beauties on Paris and France, bestsellers, paperbacks, tourist guides, magazines, greeting cards — all this, and a delightful scones-and-cucumber-sandwich English tearoom on the upper floor.

Your first purchase in Paris - at most any bookstore or news stand should be a map of the city. The best is the "Plan de Paris," which sells for about $1.50 and includes information on the Metro (subway), monuments and area. It's one of the real bargains in Paris, and invaluable to both the shopper and the sightseer.

TOP OF THE LINE: One of the bestkept secrets of Paris is that it is relatively easy to attend a showing of the haute couture collection at a major design house. When the semiannual collections are shown to the press and commercial buyers during two-week periods in the spring and fall, no one

State makes loan to research park

A $7.7 million financial pact will trigger business development in an $20-acre research park northeast of Am Arbor, according to private developers, government and University of Michigan officials.

The Ann Arbor Technology Park, on US-23 within two miles of the U-M North Campus, is the product of a two-year planning effore by Wood and Co., an Ann Arbor-based development firm, and the U-M.

When fully developed, at the end of 15 years, the park will have an estimated value of more than $250 million and employ more than 12,000 persons.

THE $7.7 MILLION line of credit is the first land development loan made by Michilandscaping.

"Fals massive undertaking will greatly expand the area's economy," said Rex E. Jensen, president of Wood and Co. "While this project is well-planned, it is the financing that makes it a reality."

FBSUCH REACTIONS are not surprising. Since most of us associate physical fitness with good health, the untimely death of an exercise enthusiast always seems particularly perplexing.

Previous scientific reports documenting the outstanding cardiovascular fitness of distance runners, have led to speculation that distance running may confer "absolute" reprection from heart disease.

confer "absolute" protection from heart disease. Marathon running, in particular, has achieved a cardiovascular mystique perpetuated by the pro-vocative statement of a California pathologist that? "no active marathoner has ever died of a heart at-

UNFORTUNATELY, the medical literature and reports in the lay press have demonstrated the "exercise and immunity" theory to be incorrect.

Researchers in South Africa have published unequivocal scientific evidence of heart disease in some marathon runners. Furthermore, recent reports indicate that heart disease appears to be the 'major killer of conditioned runners who die while Certainly these data do not discount the many benefits of exercise in the prevention and rehabilitation of patients with heart disease.

Although it is generally agreed that the marathoner's lifestyle is compatible with reduced coronary risk, it appears that even superb car-diovascular fitness cannot guarantee "immunity to heart disease"

Kelley hits La Prima for lack of prices

Attorney General Frank J. Kelley has asked Ingham Circuit Court to issue preliminary and permanent injunctions to stop La Prima Music Inc., an area piano and organ merchant, from selling unmarked items.

A spokesman for La Prima, headquartered in Southgate, would not comment on the charges when reached by phone. The firm operates eight stores in the suburbs, including ones in Livonia, Southfield

"La Prima has, for more than a year, consistently ignored legal assurances it signed with my office and submitted to the Ingham County Circuit Court," said Kelley. "I hope a judge can be more persuasive than I that the time has come for La Prima to stop its wholesale violations of the law."

According to Kelly, the company agreed in September of 1982 to post prices in the store or price tags on musical instruments for sale in its showrooms but "began immediately to violate the terms of the assurance of discontinuance."

Spot checks by attorney general investigators over the past year revealed continued wholesale violations of the agreement, making La Prima in violation of the Michigan Item Pricing and Deceptive Advertising Act, Kelley said.

Kelley also asked the court to assess civil penal-ties of $1,000 for the first violation and $5,000 for subsequent violations in addition to unspecified litigation and attorney costs.

They fight child abuse by training parents

"Parenting is a very difficult job, one we're all thrown into with little or no training," said Ruth Turner, parent education coordinator for Family Focus.

The Birmingham-based child abuse prevention and intervention agency spends the bulk of its time working

Once parents learn some family life skills, they can be more responsible and less prone to crisis, said founder-director Des Dise.

Turner and Disc oversee Family Focus, which will move into a new center in downtown Pontiac later this month.

"We will keep our office at Redeemer Lutheran Church at 1800 W. Maple Road," said Turner, "but will move our supplies and the most the family education classes to the (Pontiac) space we've been offered at the YMCA, at Wide Track and University."

Family Focus was founded 13 years ago on the premise that there isn't adequate help for parents.

The non-profit agency started with only a consciousness-raising pitch they gave to anyone who would listen. Today it provides a variety of services that have helped some 38,000 families in Oakland County, according

What keeps it going is a steady stream of volunteers, donations and an-nual reports of child abuse.

LAST YEAR in Oakland County there were were 2,981 reported incidents of child abuse and neglect, according to the Michigan Department of

"We see parents from all economic

"We see parents from all economic classes," Dise said. "We see an extreme range of problems as well — everything from neglect to parents who expect too inuch from their children."

"Parent education has grown in popularity over the past five years," Turner said. "Many middle class, average parents are seeking reaffirmation of their parenting skills. About 60 percent of the parents we see are not abusive. They have simply said, 'OK, I sive. They have simply said, 'OK, I know this is a hard job. What can I do to be a better parent?"

THROUGH ITS work, Family Focus has become well known in Oakland County's courts. County judges have ordered many parents to attend Family Focus family education classes.

"They try to heal families and refer many of them to us for help," said Dise, a grandworther four times.

a grandmother four times.
Last fall the Oakland probate judges, in a letter to the state DSS, endorsed Family Focus and its proposal for a new center. Similar letters of support were also written by the Oakland County Community Mental Health Services. a caseworker for the county juvenile-court, and a local psychologist. All have worked closely with the agency.

Family Focus also provides the services of a group of credentialed professionals called family aids. They meet and work with families in their home.

ANOTHER Family Focus service is the parent response phone, which provides an instant source of information and support for parents.

"We get calls from abusers, those afraid of abusing and those who suspect a neighbor is abusing. We answer questions and make a lot of referrals. Anyone who answers this line has had at least 25 hours of training by social workers, communication specialists and child development specialists," Turner said.

To get the new center in Pontiac under way, Family Focus is looking to-raise about $10,000, said Dise. The agency has received $3,000 in dona-tions from such groups as the Junior League of Birmingham, the Troy Jun-Women's Club and Church Women United. Another $3,000 of gifts have been in-kind services, furniture, curtains and paint.

tains and paint.

The agency is hoping to receive some money from the state's Child Abuse Trust Fund this year. The fund, established by the legislature almost two years ago, receives funds from a $2 check-off box on Michigan personal income tax forms. The fund helps private and non-profit agencies which work to strengthen families.

"Unfortunately the fund has received only a small amount of money." Turner only a small amount of money," Turner said.

Money is needed to get the primary program in place at the new center, Disc said. The agency's plans are to es-tablish what it calls a Parent-Child Center in Pontiae. There it will furnish child care for parents who are attending meetings and classes as well as provide information and reterrals.

The agency also needs money for such things as educational games and supplies, equipment for infants and toddlers' room, trained child care workers, and office supplies, Dise said.

And still there are plans for expanding the program, if possible.

THEY WOULD like to open up the parents response line 24 hours a day and provide drop-in child care service for parents who need emergency child care, Turner said.

care, Turner said.

In addition there are new skills that the agency would like to incorporate into family seducation classes.

Last year Family Focus was able to operated on a budget of $21,000, because of the number of volunteers who contribute their time, Dise said.

"If we have paid our volunteers $5 an hour, we would have needed a budget of $125,600," Dise said. "To continue to do the things we'd like, we will need the help volunteers and contributions."

Amtrak ends AA-Detroit run Friday

Several travel options are open for commuters riding the early morning Ann Arbor-Detroit Am-trak passenger train, scheduled to end service Fri-day, the Michigan Department of Transportation day, the Mich (MDOT) said.

"Every effort is being made to ensure that alternative forms of public transportation are available to those 50 to 55 passengers who use the train every day," said MDOT director James P. Pitz.

Travel options between the two cities, he said, include Greyhound intercity bus service, SEMTA-sponsored park-and-ride express bus service from the Plymouth and Canton township area, and a variety of carpooling and vanpooling programs coordinated by the Ann Arbor Transportation Authority.

A SHARP DECLINE in ridership on the stateassisted passenger train known as the "Michigan Executive," will force its termination Jan. 13.

Cancellation of the "commuter" run will save more than $200,000 a year in state operating assist-

Regular Amtrak passenger train service linking southeastern Michigan with New York City, Boston and other major points throughout the Northeast will continue, as will the six daily trains between Chicago and Detroit.

The state has supported the operation of the train since 1975. Running from Jackson to Detroit in 1979, it carried some 95,000 passengers. Service was cut back in 1982 to cover only the Ann Arbor-Detroit route.

Only about 25,000 riders used the train in the fiscal year that ended last Sept. 30.

How to make your pencils perform

This is another in a series of lessons on art and drawing by special columnist David Messing. He has taught for eight years and operates an art store, Art Store and More, 18774 Middlebelt, Livonia. Messing scourages questions and comments from readers. You may write him at his store or c/o Observe Newspapers, 23352 Farmington Road, Farmington MI 48024.

In an earlier installation of the Artifacts column I mentioned that before you begin any work of art you should: 1. consider or "take thought of" what you are about to draw; 2. appreciate or "become aware of the value" of your subject; 3. remember to ex-press your feelings; and, last but not least, 4. be sincere in your expression.

Today I would like to talk about execution.

The word execution in artistic terms means "to carry out" "to perform or deliver." So it is of little use to be fitted with the proper art materials, inspired by a particular subject and mentally prepared for expression, only to be unable to make a pleasing delivery. This is truely the most frustrating circumstance an attist or student of art can experience. Believe me I know!

the lime you have finally, worked out to the lime you have finally, worked out to the property of the subject, you are so frustration, you have the impiration, it is interesting to the impiration, it is interesting to the impiration of ability and obvious, the out, difference, however, is experienced artists know they will green.

If you then the bags to produce a while we are all the bags to produce a while we are actions the subject again, to the interest constant of the subject again, the subject again to the interest of the subject again, the subject again to the subject again to the subject again.

Artifacts

exclaim, "Oh, I'll never try to draw that

MY DAY begins like most people, except I can't imagine everyone having the same difficulty waking as I do. I mean I actually subvocalize instructions to my heart to keep beating, and speaking aloud is out of the question. Often I will stumble to my car and put it on automatic pilot which will deliver me to the doughnut shop. There Sophie has learned from my hand gestures and mum-bles, that I want a coffee and a peanut donut. Then I present a fist full of change from which she extracts the correct amount (I think), and then I return home for my morning ritual.

Here is where my mornings differ from most business men. After a little coffee and doughnut, Adam and I curl up to watch Bugs Bunny cartoons. One of my favorite scenes is where a man is trying to audition for an act with his talking dog. The man proudly places the little dog on the deak of the grouchy looking talent scout. The man asks the dog, "What's the opposite of smooth?" And the dog answers "Rrruff." He then asks, "What's on top of a building?" The dog answers, "Rruff" and the man says, "See, he said roof" Then the man asks the dog, "Who was the greatest baseball player of all time?" To this the dog again answers "Rruff," thrilled the man said, "See, he said Ruth!" The next scene shows both getting kicked out into the street. Here the dog turns to the owner and says, "Maybe I should have said Joe DiMaggio?"

The little dog possessed the ability to talk The little dog possessed the ability to talk yet his delivery was unconvincing. So it is with many artists and students of art. Not only must you be prepared mentally to do a work of art but likewise must your execution be a convining reflection of your ability and style. Wow! That sounds like a lot of work, and I would be lying if I said it wasn't.

But if ever there was a perfect phrase for this "work" it would be "a labor of love." Before you can easily use any media you must gain relative mastery of it. Mastery merely means control and control means practice and practice requires time and time requires commitment.

IF YOU don't set aside a few dollars for entertainment they won't be there when you want them. If you don't set aside time for your family and friends you won't find the time. And likewise if you don't set aside time for artwork, it will fall to the wayside in the press of busines

The term commitment means "no alternatives," "set aside" or "pledge." One night while driving home, after teaching one of my adult classes, I became upset because I couldn't recall saying anything to Betty. She is very talented and a pleasure to teach, but I or two pencils you must lightly stroke the pa-feit terrible that she paid for her lesson and I per to achieve a light gray. This however, couldn't remember teaching her anything in particular. But then I realized that if for nothing else, the "set aside" time out of her busy schedule to do artwork was worth the busy schedule to do artwork was worth the fee. So regardless of where you spend the time be sure you commit yourself to the time areas. With these you can achieve photorequired for your artwork.

Mastery or control of any medium can come about only through practice and instruction. Practice is primary and instruction is secondary. Mastery, however, without instruction requires a much greater amount of time. I feel the best media to begin to control is graphite or pencil. To master graphite I also feel you must use different hardnesses of pencil. The range of hardness in graphite is very useful to artists and yet it is so often neglected.

Graphite pencils range from 6B which is very black to 9H which makes a very light gray line. Many artists use just one or two soft pencils (6B and 2B) and obtain the required shades of gray by altering their pressure on the pencil. Even though this can produce a beautiful pencil rendering, the results are inferior to that obtained from the use of the full gamut of grays. When only using one shows the grain of the paper and tells the world that it is a pencil drawing. Use soft pencils (6B, 5B, 4B, 3B, 2B, B, HB) for black

I'm often asked by students and photography friends: "What makes a picture good? What separates the dynamic photograph from the hohum snapshot?"

There are a number of key ingredients that get a picture noticed and give it attention-getting power.

First is impact — difficult to describe, but so important in the formulation of a good photograph.

You might say that if a picture arouses feelings and emotions of joy, appreciation, or excitement, even anger or sorrow, then that photograph most assuredly will have impact.

How do you obtain impact in your shot? Begin by selecting subject matter that is either unusual or is treated in an unusual way.

USE A different camera angle or perhaps a different lens. Place the subject in an unusual environment or try special filtration for a unique effect.

Pay attention to good composition. Place the elements of your picture in the viewfinder in the strongest way possible.

Express on film what you see and feel when taking your shot. Fill the frame for added impact and watch backgrounds for distracting objects. A good picture will hold the viewer's attention and will keep him thinking about the image. It will also stir up his imagination.

A good photograph will often have a story to tell that will have meaning and substance. How best to

Not only should a photograph say something worthwhile, but it also should say it well. The pictures must be sharp (or unsharp as desired through selective focusing) and have proper exposure.

Color saturation and contrast should be technically correct and your pictures should be presented in a nest, professional fashion.

Also, sharpen your visual awareness and your perception of the world around you. If you do, your photographs will be remarkably improved.

Paper art show opens

By Corinne Abatt staff writer

The national invitational paper show, "Surfaces and Structures," which opens at Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association with a 2-5 p.m. reception Saturday, is certain to generate more than a rustle of interest.

Even the master paper maker himself, Ted Ramsay, exhibition curator, was astounded at the variety and quality of the works. And he invited the 38 artists whose things he was busy unpacking last

He didn't ask for slides ahead of time saying that the submissions were left to the discretion of each artist. "These people are all professionals. I thought it would be more interesting if we just gathered in the pieces."

AND AS he slowly unpacked the pieces (in many instances, the packing is almost as artful and intri-cate as the pieces themselves) his judgment was vindicated.

Leslie Masters, helping him, voiced her surprise at how far these artists were taking their medium into a personal art form.

Ramsay agreed, saying, "Everyone is pretty much doing paper in their own way, " adding, "we have some really strong people and they're all dif-ferent. Many are using the same tools (such as) the Hollander beater. Most are using cotton - some flax or Japanese papers which are mulberry. What you have here is classical material with very contemporary meanings."

EVEN THOUGH there were many still to be unpacked, Ramsay found much to admire in what he called "generations of paper artists."

There are the pioneers of the art in the United States, the group who learned from them and those who studied and learned from the second group. Ramsay is in the middle group.

He talked of some of the first: "Douglass Howell was one of the first to reactivate (the art) in this counry."

He continued as he unpacked two works by Garner Tullis of California, "He had the Institute of Experimental Printmaking. I first worked with him in 1976. It was the first time I had been involved in paper. Before that I had been doing paint-

Ramsay, who teaches art at University of Michigan and gives workshops on paper making, has a show of his Mnemonic Map Series at Ann Arbor Art Association through January. Three of the pieces from that series are in the show at Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association.

"Surfaces and Structures" is as much a show of strong contrasts as it is of the paper artist's art. 1

THE SHAPES, colors, quality of paper, design and treatment all cover the broad spectrum of what is possible. The works of Marcia Morse of Honolulu, done in a grid pattern, are as delicate and intricate as circuitry patterns.

The works of identical twins, Kathryn Clark and Margaret Prentice, are far from identical, but both show the fine workmanship and use of color that earned them Ramsay's praise, "two of the best paper makers in the country.'

Kenneth Noland's two pieces with soft colors and a painterly quality create a completely different mood from B.J. Bennett's brilliant red works which. seem to reflect the glowing, colorful skirts and shawls of the costumes she saw while living in

THE EXHIBIT will continue at the Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association through Feb. 11. It will open at the Slusser Gallery of the University of Michigan School of Art, Ann Arbor, on Feb. 15 and close there on March 7.

After that it will open at the Ella Sharp Museum in Jackson on March 14 and continue there through Hours at the Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday-Friday, 1516 S. Cranbrook, Birmingham.

How to master the pencil

graphic realism that requires viewers to ask "how was that done?"

HERE ARE two tips that will help you master the graphite pencil medi-

First, do your basic drawing on cheap layout paper. Here is where you do all the work and make all the mistakes. Remember, look at your drawing in the mirror. The reversed image will show up your mistakes faster than an art teacher. Then transfer your corrected and perfected drawing to a clean sheet of good, heavy drawing paper or to two-or-three ply bristol board. You transfer by rubbing graphite on the back of your first drawing. Then trace your original drawing to the clean sheet of bristol or drawing paper.

Now carefully trace over the corrected lines and shapes on your original drawing. Then lift the original to reveal clean paper with the best of your drawing transferred.

Here you will fully render in pencil to the best of your ability. Seek for deep and rich blacks, subtle highlights and all the shades of gray you can find.

The second tip is not to rely on an outline to establish a shape or form. In reality, there are no black outlines to define shapes and forms. You see objects because they are of a different color, shape or texture than their sur-

Now in graphite you are working only in shades of gray, so use shades of gray contrasting against each other rather than defining every shape with lines. If you do this you will be pleased at how realistic your work will be-

Last of all, clean up your paper with a kneaded eraser. Now, here is another secret so keep it to yourself . . .

I spray all pencil drawings with dulling spray. This takes the glare off the heavy dark areas, that is always a giveaway as to graphite.

More than in any other media, people will put their nose right to the artwork and look and ask, "What medium is this?" Dulling spray gives the artwork such a finished look that often people will mistake it for a print.

So everyone: Enjoy graphite, master it and never underestimate it. There is no better feeling of fulfillment than when you consider what you would like

Appreciate its value and express your personal feelings in its execution. Best of all is having total control over the medium, so that you can make it do what you want it to.

So if you are a Jack of all media, try being a master of one!

I am happy to report that the first 10 Artifacts installations have been reprinted into a booklet and are now available at the Art Store and More for $3.95 each. It is at Middlebelt Plaza, 18774 Middlebelt, Livonia. Phone number is 476-2296.

"Our theme expresses the strong feeling that 1984 will see the continuation of the turnaround in the auto industry," said William R. Ritchie, chairman of the Auto Show Committee of the Detroit Auto Dealers Association (DADA), sponsors of the show. "We're on a roll in the DADA and ready to put those hard times behind us. We are looking forward to 1984. And we hope that the '84 Detroit Auto Show will bring the dawn of a bright new era in the auto industry. ### Pontiac Fiero showcases innovation

The first American-produced, mid-engine sports car — the all-new, two-seat Pontiac Fiero — debuts in 1984 as a showcase of engineering innovation, manufacturing technology and design efficiency.

Built on a 93.4-inch wheelbase and powered by a 92 horsepower 2.5-liter engine, Fiero combines excellent traction with the stability and control of a midengine, rear-wheel drive vehicle.

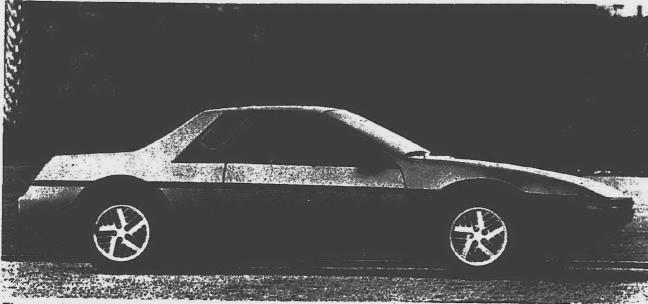

Three basic principles guided engineers' work on the Fiero project. First, Fiero is a driver's car, designed and engineered with the driver's needs a primary consideration throughout every phase of Fiero's development.

Second, using many proven mechanical components in new ways, Fiero is an innovative, revolutionary automobile. Third, during all elements of the Fiero program, customers' demand for the highest level of satisfaction were recognized.

THE FIERO is available in three models: an entry level coupe with four-speed transmission and 13-inch tires, a sport coupe offering performance and driving excitement with 4.10 axle ratio and the SE model which adds to the sports car flair with an up-level interior and the special WS6 performance handling package.

Beginning with the driver and continuing with shape, packaging and exterior skin, the logic of Fiero's design is a key to understanding the car.

The first goal of the Fiero project team was creating a spacious, open feeling with plenty of head-and-leg room and more shoulder room than most other small sports cars. To design function around the driver, a free-standing instrument cluster for easier service and cockpit-feel driving efficiency. Behind the cluster, a full-width ventilation duct replaces the traditional instrument panel.

Fiero's standard instrumentation includes an electric speedometer with trip odometer, tachometer, fuel level indicator, voltmeter and coolant temperature gauge. Functional tell-tales indicate door ajar, engine compartment lid ajar, high beam indicator, up-shift indicator, seat belt warning, oil pressure warning and check engine light.

dard in first level cloth trim or up-level cloth or a fleece and leather combination. An AM radio is standard in the console and optional AM/FM stereos feature two three-inch speakers in each headrest.

Fiero's aerodynamic wedge shape offered engineers the greatest benefits in design and performance in a two-seat, mid-engine package. Fiero, from the Italian word meaning "very proud," is aerodynamically efficient design.

Front-wheel drive, safer and sportier

There's a lot more to front-wheel drive in an automobile than most people think.

Just about every automaker agrees that front-wheel drive is the best way to maximize utility in an economy car or restore traditional comfort to a downsized family sedan. As a bonus, it also provides better traction on slippery roads. But that's only part of the story,

The Swedish automaker has been using front-wheel drive since 1949 not only for utility and comfort, but also for sportiness. That's why Saab engineers have a different light to shine on the subject Take for example drivetrain elasticity. This is not some thing that gets mentioned in automotive advertising. It should, because it's important.

SAAB ENGINEER Gunnar Larsson explains why, "One of the most important performance and handling characteristics of a car is the way it provides the driver with correct information. This is how he can determine his next action." On a front-wheel drive car the short distance between the engine and the driven wheels makes the transmission of power crisp and direct. There is no long propeller shaft, and drivetrain elasticity is minimal. As a result, the front assembly including the steering gear - creates a warning system for the driver. Because the front wheels are driven, the driver is immediately warned through the steering wheel when there is a loss of traction.

Larsson says. "He will perceive differences of one-hundredth of a degree."

This builds a confident relationship between the car, the driver and the road. The front-wheel drive Saab 900 has what is called "true steering wheel response." This means that the car quickly notifies the driver of how it has understood his Cellular technology, developed by AT&T, provides higher-quality mobile nications and makes the service available to millions of users nationwide, compared to only a few hundred thousand users with today's conventional mobile radio-telephone technology.

The system has been thoroughly tested and will be installed in a special seat-mounted console. The telephones will be first available in the Chicago area, where the commercial cellular system is slated to be introduced shortby of the cellular phone option into other cgr lines soon after introduction, and it is expected that cellular service will be available in a growing number of metropolitan areas within the next two years.

Buick takes lead in auto electronics

As the lead General Motors Division for applications of automotive electronics, Buick moves to 1984 with an impressive array of electronic engine, comfort and convenience controls.

Electronic powertrain control systems are more sophisticated, more efficient and more compact.

The Model T was the first car with mass appeal, its low cost and easy maintenance became instantly popular and set a standard for the auto industry.

Ford's Model T set the standard

The symbol of low-cost, reliable transportation, the Ford Model T first chugged into history 75 years ago on Oct. 1, 1908.

Designed to be simple to operate, easily repaired, inexpensive and durable, the Model T retired the horse to pasture. The first year's production reached 10,660 units, breaking all industry records.

Subsequent production records of the "Tin Lizzie" were made possible through Henry Ford's perfection of mass-production methods. In October of 1913, Ford Motor Company began assembling the chassis for the Model T on a moving assembly line. By 1914, completed Model T's were popping out of the door of Ford's Highland Park plant every 40 seconds.

The Model T was a car full of "firsts."

It was the first car to have its motor block and crankcase cast as a single unit; the first to popularize the steering wheel on the left-hand side; and the first to have a removable cylinder head for easy access to pistons and cylinders.

Butt of countless jokes, the Model T was without frills. Gas levels were measured with a stick, and standard equipment did not include spare tire, water or oil pump, horn, windhshield wipers, heater, radio, rear view mirror, trunk or bumpers.

THE STARK simplicity of the car became a challenge to inventors, basement tinkerers, and amateur mechanics who set about to come up with improvements. Long before the Model T era had passed, more than 5,000 different accessories were available that could be installed on, inserted in, attached to, or buckled, buttoned, bolted, screwed, welded, wired of hung on a Ford car.

While the official farewell to the Model T came on May 26, 1927, with the production of the 15-millionth car, many more were built in other plants during the summer of 1927 while Highland Park was being retooled to build the Model A. In all, 15,458,781 "flivvers" were built over that 19-year period when the only colored offered was black.

The new 2.2 turbocharged, fuel-injected engine is featured in the Dodge Daytona Turbo and Turbo Z and is an option on the Dodge 600 and 600 ES.

Designed to put the Daytona at the top of the field in acceleration, "high performance was our primary objective in developing the turbo engine," said Robert M. Sinclair, director of powertrain engineering for Chrysler Corp. "But we also wanted an economical engine, which may sound like a contradiction. We believe our approach let us achieve the right balance of power and economy to satisfy the demands of any driver, on any road."

TURBOCHARGING ALLOWS the driver to get more power from the car's engine when the driver needs it, for example, entering an expressway or passing another vehicle. If the need for added power "boost" isn't there, the turbocharged engine behaves in normal fash-

Turbochargers use waste exhaust gas energy to provide the extra power, according to Sinclair, who says the boost on the 2.2 engine brings it up to the power of a 6 or 8 cylinder engine. He cites a 45 percent increase in horsepower and a 35 percent increase in torque output, to rotate. The compressor's spin forces about 50 percent more air into the engine cylinders allowing more fuel to be burned and resulting in increased power.

A Chrysler-specified, water-cooled bearing housing for the turbo protects the precision bearings from high temperature oil problems, eliminating a need for a cool down idling period before shut-

A wastegate assembly on the turbo is a pressure control valve which limits the high pressures on the engine by bleeding off excess pressure.

An advanced electronic control unit, developed by Chrysler engineering and built by Chrysler's Huntsville electronics plant, is the brains behind the turbocharger, fuel-injected engine. Two modules, one logic and the other power, con-
