The mayors of Plymouth and Rochester exchanged places Monday, in annual rites known as Mayor's Exchange Day, to celebrate Michigan Week here. Accompanied by various city officials, Plymouth Mayor David Pugh visited Rochester's Leader Dogs for the Blind school and toured the Parke-Davis plant. Pugh also presented Rochester with a ginko tree, to be planted near the city's ice-skating pond. Rochester Mayor Julia Barrett and her entourage toured Plymouth's Historical Museum, the Packaging Corp. of America's plant on Sheldon Road and the city's Cultural Center. They also toured Old Village by bus and downtown Plymouth. In the photograph above, Sanford Burr, a member of the Plymouth Historical Society, and Barrett admire the Adler car in the Plymouth Historical Museum.

Soccer project

may be deeded

Plymouth City Manager Henry Graper revealed Tuesday that developers of the proposed recreational building have agreed to deed the land and building back to the city after the debt is paid, if that debt can be retired with revenues from the soccer use. Under the agreement reached with attorney John Thomas, the city can continue to use it as a soccer facility, sell it for industrial use, or do whatever Graper explained that the developers are lining up a commercial bank loan to build the $700,000-plus project. If revenues from the indoor soccer facility is sufficient to pay off that debt, when it is due in 12 to 15 years, the building will be turned back to the city. Thomas and his partners are buying two acres of city-owned land for $70,000. Once financing is completed, the investors will building a free-standing building of some 27,000 square-feet for indoor soccer.

TUESDAY NIGHT, after holding a public hearing, the Plymouth City Commission voted 7-0 to grant tax abatement to the project of 50 percent for 12 years. Presently the land is non-

Once finished, Graper estimates the project will generate a total tax revenue of $25,380 without abatement and $12,690 with abatement based on a total levy of 65.52 mills. The 50 percent abatement does not apply to the value of the land. The city manager pointed out that the $12,690 is new property tax income as the land is not on the tax

The city manager said he had visited three other indoor soccer facilities and each one has had increased usage since

Chuck Skene, director of parks and recreation, said there are about 2,800 youths playing soccer in the Plymouth-Canton community alone. Plymouth has about 20 soccer teams, he added, and Canton has more than 20 teams.

There should be little problem with the facility paying for itself, said Graper, as the facilities now are collecting a rental fee of $100 an hour. "That's not very expensive for the individual players," he added, "With two teams of 15 players on a team, the cost is a little more than $3 a player an

If the project does pay for itself, said Graper, the city will end up with a debt-free soccer facility worth about $1.5 million.

The project will create about 15 construction jobs and some 10 permanent

If the facility fails financially, the developers will be able to convert the free-standing building into use for a warehouse or for light manufacturing as the land is zoned industrial.

Traffic to and from the facility will be on Goldsmith from Sheldon Rolld, close to the entrance of Packaging Corp. Graper said a mound will be built alongside of the site with a factorial alongside of the site with a 5-6-foot fence and a tree line to screen the site so it won't be visible to nearby residences on Junction Street.

The developers hope to have the the cility in operation by Nov. 1, 1984.

The city declared the land excess property about 18 months ago and has since been trying to sell it. Thomas has an option to buy the acres, providing abatement is approved and financing goes through. The partnership will officially be formed once the deal is finalized, said Graper.

The Plymouth Township Board of Trustees turned down a parent's request Tuesday that the township help fund a three-day student trip to Akron,

The trip is being made by students from Steppingstone Center for the Potentially Gifted, the only Michigan school to be represented in the Moby Dick category of the "Olympics of the Mind" world competition to be held May 20-June 1 in Akron.

Steppingstone students took first place honors in both regional and state competition earlier this year and are facing world finals May 30-June 1.

The request for funds was made by Canton resident Barbara Beck, who has a child at Steppingstone.

"This is a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity for the students and they will be wearing shirts showing they are from Plymouth," Beck said. "We need help Plymouth," Beck said. "We need help sea chest, a harpoon and prepared s in sending eight families for three days cial lighting and sound effects.

TOWNSHIP Supervisor Maurice Breen told Beck that the township could not donate money to a private group. He suggested parents ask local service clubs to help pay the costs of going to the competition.

"Public monies can't be contributed to a private (cause)," Breen said. "It would be stretching things to give you money. We would be in deep trouble if we attempted to finance this. We have no magic words for you.

Steppingstone students are one of only 13 Michigan teams which advanced to the world competition level.

The students wrote, in story and stage form, a final chapter to "Moby Dick.";

Suburbs ask to join lawsuit in Vista disposal proceedings

The western Wayne County suburbs may become involved in the ongoing Vista Disposal proceedings in Detroit federal court.

The 16-member Conference of Western Wayne (CWW) has petitioned Wayne County Executive William Lucas to join a lawsuit filed against the Vista defendants, the city of Detroit and Detroit Mayor Coleman Young.

The petition came last week in the form of a resolution from the CWW, which includes the communities of Livonia, Plymouth, Westland, Garden City, Redford Township, Plymouth Township, Canton Township, Inkster, Wayne, Dearborn, Dearborn Heights, Northville, Northville Township, Van Buren Township, Sumpter Township and Huron Township.

The suit the CWW wants to join was filed in March by Oakland County Drain Commissioner George W. Kuhn. Kuhn's complaint alleges that the Detroit Water and Sewerage Department (DWSD) unlawfully inflated prices for transporting, treating and disposing of the district's sewage.

To be heard by Judge George E. Woods, it is based on the U.S. vs. Beckham, or Vista Disposal case. In it, the U.S. district attorney proved a conspiracy to bribe a DWSD employee to obtain sludge and scum hauling and disposal contracts.

Other defendants in Kuhn's suit include Young, who administers the Detroit Waste Water Treatment plant; former DWSD director Charles Beckham, disposal companies Vista, Michigan, Wayne, Wolverine and Wolverine Disposal-Detroit; and several individuals associated with those firms.

The suit alleges that Detroit unlawfully inflated prices for transporting, treating and disposing of the district's sewage.

The suit seeks damages under the Sherman Anti-Trust Act and the Racketeer Influenced Corrupt Organizations (RICO) Act.

CWW SECRETARY Maurice Breen, Plymouth Township Supervisor, said the group has requested action through Lucas' office because the communities actually contract with the county for wastewater disposal. The county, in turn, holds the contracts with Detroit.

As of Tuesday, Lucas had not decided if he would intervene on behalf of the communities, according to Bill

Johnson, Lucas' press spokesman. The county executive is waiting for the written CWW resolution, but talked with Livonia Mayor Edward McNamara — head of the group — about the request earlier this week. Johnson said.

"He (Lucas) will give it some thought and determine if he should get involved," Johnson said. Young was unavailable for comment on the suit Tuesday. Although a dollar amount hasn't been given in regard to the total al-leged damages, McNamara speculated the disposal cost could have been inflated as much as 50 cents per ton of

IN OTHER action against the DWSD, a leave of appeal to the Michigan Supreme Court has been granted to Detroit in a water-rate case filed by the Suburban Association of Detroit

Last October the Michigan Court of Appeals ruled that the city of Detroit was charging water rates that were unreasonable and were not based on the cost of providing water services to suburban communities.

The appeals court sent the case back to the circuit court to calculate the amount of credit that should be granted to the communities - the total of which is estimated at $37 million.

But Detroit petitioned for leave of appeal to the state's high court in late 1983 and the granting of that petition was announced this week.

The suit dates back to 1976 and the association has assessed five cent per capita contributions from members to fund the battle. Such an assessment again has been called for based on 1980 census data.

The cost of the fight for the communities already has exceeded $150,000. Staff writer Gary Cates wrote this story. Staff writer Kathy Parrish contributed to this report.

Trial team's 2nd in state

An eight-member team from Plymouth Canton High School placed second in the state last weekend at the Michigan Mock Trial Tournament sponsored by the University of Detroit.

The group bested 24 other teams which competed with them at the Murphy Hall of Justice in downtown Detroit. The mock trials used real judges and lawyers as jurors.

Prosecution for the eight-member team consisted of Tish Cozub, Jill Sturdy, Paul Fletcher and Carolyn Kinsler. defense consisted of Andrea Fechter, Bill Smola, Ken Schmidt and

The team emerged from 32 students who began preliminary selection procedures. The group was viewed by sponsoring teacher Audrey Etienne of Canton High and assisting teachers Bob Thams and Steve Williams.

Both the prosecution and defense teams were made up of four members, two acting as attorneys and two as witnesses for the attorneys. Each team tried the same case in the mock trials.

Assisting in preparation of the team were 35th District Judge James Garber, who picked the top teams and acted as adviser, and attorneys Robert Delaney, John Stewart, John Mac-Donald and Raymond Sturdy.

"Future scientists" from the Bird nd Allen School Talented and Gifted Centers got their chance to shine at a science fair last Thursday. The "Mind, Matter and Science" fair, staged at Plymouth Canton High School, drew dozens of families and friends who came to view student exhibits.

Fourth, fifth and sixth graders designed projects that were placed on dis-play and judged by selected members of the community. The hard work of several students paid off, as judges placed ribbons on their exhibits.

Woman gets probation in killing; MADD upset

A Plymouth Township woman has been sentenced to two years probation after entering a plea of guilty to involuntary manslaughter.

Wayne County Circuit Judge Joseph B. Sullivan sentenced Jeannette Koziarski April 25. She was assessed fines and costs amounting to about $330; or-dered to perform 200 hours community service, and to refrain from all driving Canton, killed in a collision on Ford rence Konkol expressed anger and and the drinking of alcohol.

Judge Sullivan stipulated that Koziarski enter a rehabilitation program as recommended by the court's probation department.

Koziarski was charged with manslaughter with a motor vehicle following the death of Lawrence Konkol of Road in January, 1983.

According to Canton police, Koziarski's blood registered an alcohol content of 0.19 at the time of the accident. A person with a reading of 0.10 is considered legally intoxicated.

In a letter sent to the Observer and to Judge Sullivan, the family of Law-

"There was no comment from the prosecutor or the police department because there was no one there," the

"THE FAMILY in the gallery had no one to talk to or ask questions of. We were powerless. No one mentioned Larry's widow, the son he never saw, or the family he left behind."

The Konkol family also said that Koziarski never publicly shed a tear or expressed any remorse whatsoever.

Such comments by bereaved family members are common after drunkdriving trials, said Ralph Shufeldt, Canton resident and member of the local chapter of Mothers against Drunk Driving (MADD).

"They (the Konkol family) are very justified in their reaction to the sentencing," Shufeldt said. "They have lost a loved one due to a careless act of negligence - due to murder, that is what I consider this to be. There's just no other name for it." According to Shufeldt, Judge Sullitough on drunk drivers." But because Koziarski is a working mother the judge evidently took this into consideration when sentencing her, he said. Shufeldt says MADD disagrees with the lenient sentence. 'It was an act of murder with a vehicle," Shufeldt said. "Anytime a murder charge is dealt with a probation it is a very lenient treatment. Although there is nothing to be done about the case once the sentence is handed down, Shufeldt says MADD will contact Judge Sullivan.

We will write Judge Sullivan expressing our view that the sentence was too lenient and press for him not to be so lenient in future cases," he said.

JUDGE SULLIVAN refused to comment on the case when contacted. "I never discuss sentences after I pass them," he said. "I don't think it is proper to do that." "We (judges) try to pass down a fair judgment, a fair sentence, and sometimes we are praised for what we do and other times we are criticized," Sullivan added.

According to Shufeldt, the Konkol case is part of the reason why the Western Wayne County chapter of MADD was formed in 1983.

"There were a number of drunk-driving deaths which occurred in the area in the first three or four months of last van up to this point had been "fairly year," Shufeldt said.

"People must understand we are strictly a voluntary organization, (which) tries to monitor the cases all the way through the courts. We are doing the best we can."

Shufeldt said approximately 110 traffic deaths in Wayne County resulted from accidents caused by drunk drivers in 1983.

The Konkols also have filed a civil suit against Koziarski in the case. The trial date is undetermined, as is the amount of damages being sought.

Horton files for township board

Smith Horton has filed for election to the Plymouth

Township Board of Trustees.

Horton is an incumbent, having been appointed to fill the unexpired term of Gerald Law who was elected to the Michigan House of Representatives two years

Horton, a resident of Plymouth Township for 21 years, said his primary concern as a trustee continues to be cost containment and holding the township millage rate to a minimum.

"The objective is to provide adequate services at a reasonable cost," said Horton who will run as a Republican in the Aug. 7 primary.

SINCE HIS appointment, Horton has served on the personnel committee and on a special cable-television

Before being appointed trustee, Horton served 13 years on the Plymouth Township Planning Commission and was its chairman for two years.

During his tenure on the planning commission, Horton worked on two major projects to completely rewrite the township's future land-use plan and zoning ordinance. He also served on the Zoning Board of Appeals for two years.

A graduate of Michigan State University with a bachelor's degree in business administration, he also holds a master's degree in governmental administra-tion from the Wharton Graduate School of Business and Finance, University of Pennsylvania. A 24-year employee of Ford Motor Co., Horton is a specialist in international transportation. He served two years in the U.S. Army during the Korean War as a first lieutenant in the Signal Corps.

HORTON AND wife Jeanne live at 44555 Governor Bradford.

Their sons, Steve and Paul, graduated from Plymouth Salem High School before going on to college. Steve is a graduate of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N.Y., while brother Paul is a mathematics major at Hillsdale College.

Horton is a board member and past president of the Plymouth Community Family YMCA, a former member and Federation officer of the "Y" Indian Guides, and has served on several citizen committees of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

He was chairman of a committee studying highschool scheduling and chairman of a districtwide school population projection committee.

Horton is past president of the M.B.A. Club of Michigan and served as co-founder and past president of the Riverside Neighborhood Association. He also has been active in Junior Achievement and in Big Brothers.

Aesthetic dump? It's possible with new law

By Penny Wright special writer

The immaculate, grass covered berms surrounding the site make a good impression. So does the winding tree-lined entrance.

To the unsuspecting, the property appears to be a park. It's really a sanitary landfill - a dump for residential and commercial trash Usually, a landfill operation is called an "eyesore." Woodland Meadows doesn't fit that description.

"OUR COMPANY pays a lot of at-tention to aesthetics," said Ray Kellas during a tour of the Michigan Waste System owned landfill. "We want to be a good neighbor."

Located in the southeast corner of Canton Township off Hannan Road, Woodland Meadows, a 102-acre site, can be classified as a state-of-the-art

Gone are many annoyances typically associated with landfill operations: Acres of exposed garbage laying unattended, mud and dust choked access roads, and a debris covered perimeter.

At Woodland Meadows, solid waste is accommodated with professional efficiency. A constant cycle of dumping, compacting and covering minimizes the size of the actual disposal work

It also reduces nuisance conditions. The cycle is repeated year-round, seven days a week, 24 hours a day.

KELLAS. WHO managers Woodland Meadows, acknowledges that some nuisance factors like birds and odors cannot be totally eliminated. "A landfill will never smell like a rose garden, but frequent pickups and rapid covering with topsoil help a lot."

A landfill like Woodland Meadows would not have existed before 1978. In that year, the Michigan Solid Waste Management Act (PA 641) was passed. This act put "teeth" into an earlier piece of solid waste legislation known as Act 87.

The intent of both acts is to protect public health and the surrounding environment by carefully controlling the disposal of solid waste. Results are just now being felt.

The solid waste disposal business has changed dramatically in the last 10 years," said Kellas. "In the past there were a lot of bad dumps. Act 641 provides for better facilities with new technology."

NOWADAYS, said Kellas, a landfill operation is big business. Lots of capital and effort are required to build, operate and maintain a disposal site.

"Fly-by-night operations wouldn't be in business now," Kellas said, adding that the parent company, Waste Management Inc., just reached $1 billion in sales last year

Besides dealing with nuisance prob-lems of landfills, current solid waste legislation tackles the more difficult task of protecting public health from the major landfill hazard — groundwater contamination

GROU. DWATER experts differ over the issue of landfill safety.

State official Larry Holcomb, executive secretary of the Toxic Substance Control Committee, doubts that any landfill can be environmentally safe or 'be a good neighbor."

"In a very unique site, a landfill can be environmentally safe," said Holcomb. "In Michigan, landfills generally will leak. And everywhere we've looked, the leachate has hazardous waste in the flow."

Groundwater consultant George Kunkle of Neyer, Tiseo, Hindo Limited of Farmington Hills has a different view. Kunkle believes each landfill site has its own risks, but changes in landfill management can make the environment safe for the short term.

The big problem, said Kunkle, is long term maintenance of a landfill. "Fifteen to 25 years after the construction of a landfill is the time when you will get maximum leachate collection," he said. "That is the time when the landfill is shut down and the leachate collection system is turned off."

KUNKLE BELIEVES passage of the new Wayne County Solid Waste Management Plan, with its tougher regulations, will correct the problem.

Under the new legislation, landfill operators would be responsible for maintaining and monitoring a site for 15 years after closure.

We must start thinking about perpetual care for these sites," he added. Kunkle hopes for passage of the plan which will soon be reviewed by all communities in Wayne County. Kunkle is not alone in his enthusiasm for the Wayne Plan. According to Kellas, the solid waste industry welcomes new legislation that would ensure better service. "We welcome anything that will improve things," said Kellas. "It's time to show we can operate successfully."

"I just decided I have had enough," he said, in letting his friends know that he no more will don the speedboat driver's uniform. "I have been at it 30 years, and have raced in many places. But the time has come when I think I will feel better just watching Mark, and the other young racers carry

As he spoke of his latest move his conversation turned to the first race in which he competed.

Michigan has a bright future in manufacturing

Here are excerpts from the address of publisher Philip H. Power to the 1984 graduating class of Schoolcraft College on May 12. Power, chairman of the board of Suburban Communications Corp., received an honorary associate in arts degree from the

10A(P)

A FEW YEARS ago, a young person coming right out of high school with essentially no skills could land a job paying 10 bucks an hour bolting right fenders on cars.

No longer. The day of counting on a good job without some form of post-high-school education is over.

The dominant part of Michigan's economy, the auto industry, is regaining profitability, but there is little prospect for growth in auto industry employment. Where can we look to for future growth?

Is the future in high tech, making the Livonia-Ann Arbor corridor a Silicon Valley of the Midwest? No. Even if we could double the number of "high tech" jobs in Michigan, they wouldn't add up to much more than 10,000. That doesn't make much of a dent on the 475,000 who are now unemployed.

OUR MAIN opportunity lies in our traditional economic base: manufacturing - but not repetitive, assembly line, low-automation metal

Our strategy must look for forms of manufacturing that require high labor skills and expertise, those in which high productivity levels will support the high wages that have made Michigan a good place to work for so many

In short, we need to move to the world frontier of manufacturing capabilities. You can see the beginnings of 21st century approaches in the new GM Lake Orion plant and at Buick City

As business and government work on strengthening Michigan's future, we can discard old plants and build new ones that meet future needs. We can discard obsolete equipment and buy anew to meet changing requirements.

But we cannot and will not discard our workers. Gov. James J. Blanchard has made a commitment: State government will do everything in its power to help those workers gain the skills, the knowledge and the resources they need to find new jobs, good jobs, lasting jobs for

TO FULFILL that commitment, the governor has established a Governor's Office for Job Training. So far, 19 widely differing programs have been set up in every corner of the state.

In the Pontiac area, laid-off auto workers are learning some of the 21st-century manufacturing skills I mentioned earlier.

Perry Drugs is taking out-of-work auto mechanics and training them to manage the new auto-parts departments in their stores.

This year more than 10,000 people will participate in these programs. Better, program operators have promised to place more than 65 percent of the participants in jobs.

AS CHAIR of the council that helped create that program, let me say what it isn't: We don't promise jobs. Government can only promise opportunity.

 We can't serve everyone who deserves and needs help now. We simply don't have enough Unlike the old CETA program, this is not a government-run, "make-work" scheme. The great majority of them are operated by business, by labor or by both.

Merely training people to make them employable doesn't, in itself, make them employed. We face an absolute lack of jobs in Michigan.

An intensive effort is being focused by Gov. Blanchard and his administration to encourage business to expand or locate in Michigan cutting red tape, reducing costs of doing business, helping find financing.

DURING THE conflict of World War II, Michigan was known as the "arsenal of democ-

Today, as America faces the conflict of a newly competitive world economy, we in Michigan can again become an arsenal for this nation - an "arsenal of productivity," the driving force for innovation and economic progress.

I look forward to continuing to fight to achieve that goal. I welcome each of you to join with me in making our Michigan an outstanding place to live and to work and a model for the

How Sparky jolted Gibson to stardom

WHILE THE nation's baseball fans have their eyes centered on the Detroit Tigers and their record-breaking start in the pennant race, one of the real dramas of the start has been overlooked or ignored.

It centers on Kirk Gibson, the former football hero at Michigan State who has been assigned a big role in the run for the pennant (and possible World Series).

It all happened in the upper dining room of Carl's Chop House where the baseball writers hold their annual meeting. Sparky Anderson, the white-haired pilot, makes his annual speech to the lads who occupy the press box during the season.

While a goodly gathering always is present and eager to hear the "boss man" deliver his forecasts, the gathering this past year was larger than usual, and his message much different from other years.

WHEN THE gathering was seated, Sparky invited Gibson to sit at the head table. No one paid any particular attention to this until it was Sparky's turn to

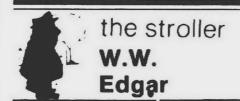

As he rose from his chair, he turned his head from the crowd and spoke directly to

At the time, the former Spartan star had been what is termed an "in-and-outer" and caused a lot of wondering: Could he make the grade in the major leagues?

As he sat there, The Stroller, who had been attending these meetings for years, figured something unusual was about to happen. And it did.

As he spoke, the Tiger manager turned very serious. In a sincere manner, he pointed out to Gibson, while looking at him face to face, that he had all the gifts that God could give him — a strong mind, a fine body and a chance.

"BUT IT IS going to be up to you," Sparky said. "If you want to fritter your life away, you can, and then pay the price. But if you show any appreciation for what God has given you, you'll change your

"You have all the assets needed to be a great baseball player - if you want to be. So it is going to be up to you. You'll have every chance in the world but you will have to develop the keen desire to use what God has given you."

Gibson looked out - motionless. But it could be seen that he was taking his boss seriously. He nodded his head a bit as Sparky sat down. The writers sat He received the message. Right there at that dining table, there appeared to be a new Kirk Gibson.

THEN CAME the training season, and Sparky placed him in right field - with a motive. It had been from that positioin that Al Kaline played his way into the National Baseball Hall of Fame. What's more. Kaline was invited to teach him the finer points in playing that difficult posi-

It was a much different Gibson who took the challenge seriously. You can notice that today in every move. But not too much attention is being paid to him at present. All the the writing and fan fodder are centered on the pitchers and the strength of the team "up the middle." The real drama of the record drive is overlooked most of the time.

But Gibson is making an effort to heed the advice his manager gave him the night of the baseball writers' dinner, when he was told he could fritter his life away or show appreciation for the gifts that God had given him and become a star.

His avocation was Michigan. "A few years ago, after writing some 1,500 radio scripts for Bud Guest on WJR, I realized that I had compiled a treasure house of information about Michigan," he wrote to us in 1979. Enclosed were 50 sample paragraphs.

In it we met some of the fascinating characters — the famed and the obscure — who made this state:

Charles Brady King, who drove the first horseless carriage out of a St. Antoine Street machine shop in 1896. George Booth, who ran a dairy on what is now the Cranbrook property. Mary Ann Chapple, an early tavern keeper and dispenser of

You never looked at the common cattail the same way again once you read this Bill Stockwell item: "From roots up to the tip of its stalk, it is good food for humans. Also milkweed is delicious when served with butter and salt."

Inventors, merchants, cranks, entrepreneurs, publishers - all showed up in his discoveries.

His last letter to me, with a batch of paragraphs to last for several more months, closed: "Thanks again for your kind words, and if you, too, continue to dig into Michigan lore, you will be surprised, as I have been, by the richness of the findings."

House backs Reagan on MX

Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes May

HOUSE

MX — The House rejected, 212 for and 218 against, an amendment to halt the MX missile program. If passed, the amendment would have deleted all money for the weapon's continued production from the fiscal 1985 military authorization bill.

Suburban representatives split along party lines, Democrats favoring the cut and Republicans opposing it.

Although the House later approved a compromise plan for MX production (below), this vote was a clear test of sentiment. Some members who voted to delete funding later supported continued produc-tion. This amendment sought to eliminate $2.7 billion in MX money form the $208billion defense bill (HR 5167), which was headed for passage and the Senate.

At a projected cost of $22 billion, the MX is to supplant the Minuteman as the most potent U.S. strategic missile. Carrying 10 to 12 nuclear warheads, it is designed to hit targets as distant as 6,000 miles. Present plans are to base it in hardened Minuteman silos in Wyoming. Supporter Nicholas Mavroules, D-Mass. said that by killing the MX "no longer will Congress support billion-dollar dinosaurs promoting deficits but not deterrence."

Opponent Hal Daub, R-Neb., said "our ability to deter Soviet forces is the most effective means of preserving freedom and independence in the Western world." Members voting yes wanted to halt the

MX missile program. Voting yes: Democrats Dennis Hertel of Detroit, William Ford of Taylor and Sander Levin of Southfield. Voting no: Republicans Carl Pursell of Plymouth and William Broomfield of Birmingham. COMPROMISE - By a vote of 229 for and 199 against, the House approved a compromise that President Reagan and his House allies accepted to save fiscal 1985 funding of the MX missile. Fifteen missiles would be funded, rather than the 40 advocated by the president and the 30 favored by the House Armed Services Committee. The plan addresses Reagan's argument that the MX is a necessary bargaining chip to induce the Soviets to resume arms-control talks. The 1985 money would remain unspent until at least next April, to see if the threat of MX deployment brings the Soviets back to the negotiations. If they return, the money could be withheld even longer to assess their mood. If they remain intransigent, the funds presumably would be released.

Supporter Robert Michel, R-Ill., said "the true test of the bargaining power of this missile can be discovered only when the Soviets are convinced we in Congress are going to fund the MX."

Opponent Edward Feighan, D-Ohio, said "the bargaining-chip theory has always given us more than we bargained for: More weapons, with more warheads, that add up Members voting yes supported continued MX production.

Voting yes: Pursell, Broomfield. Voting no: Hertel, Ford and Levin.

RELIGIOUS — By a vote of 270 for and 515 against, the House failed to achieve the two-thirds majority needed to pass a bill (HR 5354) opening the way for voluntary student religious meetings in high schools.

The Equal Access Act, also known as "son of school prayer," proposed withhold-ing federal education funds from any high school that denied student religious groups the same access that secular organizations have to its facilities. The groups were to have been able to pray or discuss religion without faculty interferen

Supporters viewed the bill as the best alternative to the school-prayer constitutional amendment, defeated earlier this year by the Senate. A two-thirds majority was required for passage under the short-cut parliamentary procedure — limited de-bate, no amendments — by which sponsors chose to bring the bill to the floor.

Supporter Steve Barteltt, R-Texas, said the bill was constitutional because it protected students from being "discriminated against because of the religious content of their speeches."

Opponent Don Edwards, D-Calif., said the Constitution "requires government neu-trality in religion."

Members voting yes wanted a federal law insuring that high-school religious groups could meet voluntarily in school fa-cilities.

SENATE

DOWN PAYMENT — By a vote of 74 for and 33 against, the Senate passed and sent to conference with the House a fiscal plan (HR 2163) to take a $142-billion bite out of the $600 billion or more in additional deficits projected over the next three years.

The House-Senate conference now be-comes the focal point for constituents, Wall Street, foreign governments and others who question Congress' ability to get a handle on runaway deficit spending. The House has targeted $182 billion in cuts between fiscal 1985-87. No other major legislation to slow the deficit growth will be passed in this election year.

The Senate's $142-billion figure was roughly the amount endorsed by President Reagan as a "down payment" on the deficit. Democratic plans sought upwards of $200 billion in reductions, chiefly through more ambitious defense cuts and tax hikes than Reagan wanted. But the GOP-controlled Senate rejected these efforts during five weeks of debate on the mea

Taxes would be raised by $48-$50 billion in both the House and Senate plans. The House would slow Reagan's military buildup by $96 billion over three years, compared to the Senate figure of $40 billion. Domestic spending increases would be slowed by $15 billion by the House and $36 billion by the Senate.

In an interesting application of political arithmetic, both chambers claim large "savings" in the billions of dollars of additional interest that will not have to be paid on the national debt as a result of the their proposed cuts in 1985-87 annual deficits.

Most senators voting no thought the $142 billion plan did not go far enough in slowing the growth of deficit spending.
Sen. Carl Levin, D-Mich., voted yes. Sen.

Donald Riegle, D-Mich., voted no.

Republicans talk a lot about efficient, low-cost government. But they've had to do some belt tightening of their own recently.

To eliminate a $450,000 deficit, Michigan's Republican Party cut back last year. Now it's in the black and determined to raise money more than

"It seems ironic that the party which says it will run government like a business doesn't run itself that way," state party Chairman Spencer Abraham told members of the Oakland County Republican Committee's prestigious 300 Club.

Kicking off the local group's first "Campaign 84" breakfast, Abraham filled in contributors on the state party's election-year plans.

Also scheduled for future early morning talks in Birmingham's Sly Fox restaurant are U.S. Senate candidates Jim Dunn and Jack Lousma.

IN OFFICE just 14 months, Abraham, 31, youngest state chairman of either major party in the country, was introduced as the "man who got this party out of debt."

As well as facing money problems, the lawyer and pollster for Richard Headlee's gubernatorial campaign explained that he walked into a state party fractured during the 1982 contest.

There also was tension between state and national headquarters. Other states

"There was a problem of unity and harmony between state and national especially the White House," Abraham said. Abraham assured his audience things have turned around in the Lansing headquarters. Michigan Republicans now owe just one creditor, who will be paid off by the end of the year.

Used to raising $750,000-$850,000 in a non-election year, fund-raisers brought in $1 million in 1983. They also signed up 2,500 new contributors and doubled the amount of "major donor money" pledged.

By this April, $750,000 had rolled into the state coffers.

"WE'RE GOING to donors and asking not for a gift but an investment in the future," said Abraham, proudly adding that people are contributing because we're doing things. It's not

THE STATE chairman's optimism stems largely from the improved national economy, which he credits to President Ronald Reagan's leadership. He said the Republican president is committed to "productivity and growth.

The environment has never been better for a Republican success. There's a clear contrast between what Republicans under Reagan have done and what Democrats under Blanchard have done," he explained.

People have seen just how different the two parties are."

That makes fall 1984 one of the most important elections in a long time, the party chairman believes.

community included the annual presentation Tuesday of Landmark Plagues by the Plymouth branch, American Association of University Women. The Durfee House on Penniman Avenue at Sheldon, Plymouth, and Cherry Hill United Methodist Church on Ridge Road south of Cherry Hill, Canton Township, received the 1984 Heritage Day plaques.

Months of research by members of the AAUW Landmark Committee precede the selection of buildings worthy of bearing a Landmark Plaque. Results of their findings are recorded in a history of each building.

Cherry Hill United Methodist Church

The annual presentation of a land-mark plaque is awarded to homes or buildings that have architectural or historical significance. The Cherry Hill Methodist Society is 150 years old this year. Early pioneer families met in homes and were served by a 10-point circuit rider minister.

In 1848 a parcel of land was donated to the church and a small frame build-

Michigan Week observance in the ing was constructed with $600 and volunteer labor. By 1880 the congregation decided to build a more permanent place for worship. The total cost of the new church was $2,500.

The exterior architecture is a classic example of Victorian Country Church influenced by the Gothic Revival style popular in the country in the 1880s. Over the door is a Victorian-patterned stained glass window. The church also has 10 gothic stained glass windows donated by founding members.

THE CHURCH HOUSE was built in 1929 by all the members of the community to serve as a community hall. It consisted of a kitchen and dining room. A basement below was used for varied activities. During World War II an adchurch house.

The church has a parlor which serves as a museum for the congregation. Original Psalm Books and Bibles along with other interesting memorabilia are displayed.

The church is constructed of red bricks with a white frame gothic belfry. it features delicate scalloped weather boards. The belfry is without a bell as it can no longer support the weight. The foundation for the church is laid of natural stone.

Bricks for the exterior wall came from a local brick yard owned by the Cobb family. In passing by this country church, the viewer is reminded of a scene on a Christmas card.

Gideon Durfee Home

Call it picturesque, Gothic revival or Early Victorian, the "farm house" at 1496 Penniman has intrigued many Plymouth "house-watchers" over the years. Built sometime between 1854 and 1865, its design and floor plan probably were selected from one of the carpenters' pattern books of the day inspired by Andrew Jackson Downing in his book, "Architecture of Country Houses," published in 1850.

Downing was a man in search of the ideal building — a house that perfectly suited the average man's needs on the inside yet fitted the landscape in a romantic way. Its gabled irregularity should appear picturesque when viewed from various angles and at the same time afford its residents attractive views from windows and porches.

Downing's designs, in fact, gave birth to the American front porch. He saw a roof over an entrance as a private place to sit and enjoy the outdoors while being protected from the hot sun and inclement weather.

E WEINT A step further to suggest that honeysuckle or some other flowering vine be planted to cover the porch and pleasantly scent warm summer

To be visually interesting from the outside, the house should stretch up into the sky. Its roofs should be steeply sloped projecting to cast deep shadows. With the invention of the power scroll saw, carpenters were able to interpret in wood what European builders worked in stone in Gothic churches tall, narrow pointed windows with carved diamond-shaped corbels and eared drip mouldings decorating their peaks. The porch had slender, graceful columns for the honeysuckle to cling to. It was to be the perfect home in which a woman could care for her family.

But what about the owners of this ideal house? Who were they?

FINDING THE answer to this was an adventure in historical research. It began with Barb Saunders at the Plymouth Historical Museum and ended at the Wayne County Registrar of Deeds office in the City-County Building in Detroit with a stop-over in the Burton Archive, Detroit Public Li-It was known that Gideon Durfree owned and lived in this house for 50 years or so until about 1910 when he fell from a ladder, hit his head and died. He was then in his 90s. Tracing back, it was found that as a very young boy, he had moved with his Quaker family from Palmyra, N.Y. and settled three miles east of Plymouth in 1827. His father's name was Ruben S.

Using Gideon's and Ruben's names, land records and tax assessment rolls were searched to identify the property on which the house stands as a part of the Northwest Territory, Section 27, the northeast corner.

BEGINNING IN 1844, this section was bought and sold by many familiar Plymouth names — Ira Bronson, E.J. Penniman, Thomas Merritt and his

In 1866, Ruben Durfee purchased 76 acres from the Merritts. From the tax records it appears that Thomas Merritt-already had built the house in question sometime before selling this land to

Soccer tournament opens Friday

This is it, folks . . . it's Canton's weekend to shine!

Soccer enthusiasts from near and far will be watching Canton as we host our Second Annual International Soccer Tournament. No less than 132 teams from Indiana, Michigan, Ohio and Canada will gather on our fine soccer fields this weekend. The visitors will soak up a lot of Canton hospitality and sunshine and generate an enormous amount of fun and memories, not only for the players, but each and every lucky individual who takes the time to go on over and take a peek.

The cost is FREE and it's something the whole family can enjoy. Just pack a picnic basket of cold chicken, some fruit and throw a couple of lawn chairs or a blanket into the trunk of your car. Mosey on over to the Phil Dingeldey Soccer Field behind our township hall on Canton Center Rd. Or, save yourself some work as they will be selling such gourmet delights as hot dogs, pizza, chips, french fries and pop. Or, you can always send Dad over to one of our local "fast food delights" for a take-out picnic. However you wish to do it . . . just DO It!

PHIL LA JOY once again has mounted a team of talented associates to assist him in presenting three days of more soccer than you ever dreamed possible. Soon the Memorial Day Weekend Soccer Tournament will be to soccer fans what Thanksgiving and New Year's Day are to football fans.

I know it is time for planting, and this three-day weekend is your big chance to get things done. But remember, you'll need a break. Instead of sitting in front of the T.V. this weekend for your break, why not do something different and sit in front of a live game? Give yourself a chance to experience some of the good things going on in your community.

Play begins at 6 p.m. Friday and continues through Sunday with Monday a rain day. Each team will play a minimum of three games, so prepare for game after game after game. When I say we bring you lots of soccer, we bring you lots of

NOT ONLY DO we have children talented on the soccer field, but did you take in our first science fair in I-don't-know-how-long?

That's right. Last week Bird and Allen schools resumed the lost art of the annual science fair. Students were given the opportunity to demonstrate, display, question or just discuss the things that fascinate them most about science

You may remember the fairs from your own school days. Perhaps you questioned, or at least wondered, why your children never plunged into the frantic frenzy commonly known as the "My-science-project-is-due-tomorrow" syndrome. Whether or not you have pondered the question, the answer is here. Sponsored by the T.A.G. Magnet Program, the fourth-, fifth- and sixth-grade students at Bird and Allen have just completed the science fair, and actually are looking forward to

If you didn't get a chance to view the entries on display at Plymouth Canton High School last Thursday, you missed quite a show. Our children rediscovered everything from electricity to motion while some are working on ideas of their own. But as necessary, they are experiencing step-by-step the problems of their predecessors in the fields of

Somehow it isn't enough for the beginning scientist to read it. These children must see it for themselves. Did you ever notice how an engineer or mechanic can't simply talk on the phone? They must play with something while they talk, or even reconstruct it entirely. Even secretaries and artists always doodle while on the phone. I wonder what athletes do? Oh well, it's good to know we have our

An added benefit of this entire undertaking was the emphasis put on parental involvement, an unusual but to my mind fantastic idea.

I know why I wasn't asked to be judge. I think it has something to do with the fact that I was swayed by the entry about baking cookies. There was this plate of cookies just for the judges. I think that would have bought my vote. I have no idea how those cookies stayed on the plate all night. However, an outstanding job was done by the real judges, Darlene Bublin, John Campbell, Ken Husling, Dale Knab and Nils Korsnes. Thank you all.

Wendlands 50th

Ernest and Hazel Wendland of Sheridan, Plymouth celebrated their golden wedding anniversary May 12. An open house and buffet dinner in their honor was arranged by their children at the home of their son, Ronald, on Napier Road.

Among the 90 relatives and friends who gathered for the occasion were their wedding attendants, Evelyn Le Fever, maid of honor, and Raymond Wendland, best man. Ernest Wendland and Hazel Beyer were married May 12, 1934, in St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Livonia. They have been members of St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran Church since 1940.

The guests included eight couples and two widows, all of whom had observed 50th anniversaries. Mrs. Wendland's sister, Alice Beyer Leader and husband, Walter Leader, attended the party. They have observed their 63rd wedding anniversary.

FRED BOLIN provided musical entertainment, playing his accordion for a sing-along of oldtime songs. After her graduation from Plymouth High School in one great-grandchild.

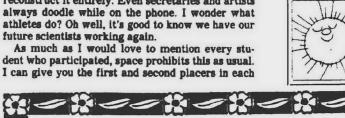

Hazel and Ernest Wendland

1929, Hazel Wendland was a bookkeeper and general office worker at Eckles Coal & Supply Co. Her husband worked for Ford Motor Co. for 40 and retired from the Ford Northville plant several years ago.

They have two children, son Ronald of Plymouth and daughter Patricia Wagenschutz of Britton. Mich., seven grandchildren, and

Audiences love chorus

Audiences gave the Plymouth Comhimity Chorus standing ovations after its concerts Saturday and Sunday evenings in Plymouth Salem High School auditorium."All Our Best" marked a hillestone for the chorus - its 10th anniversary concerts and the beginning of the group's scholarship program.

Director Mike Gross opened the show with "Alexander's Ragtime Band" and continued with "South Pacific," Gayle Lang singing "Out Here on My Own," an American Trilogy and "A Chorus Line" with dancers Vicki Morrissey and Tina Jones. Tenor Dennis Santillan sang "One Alone," and the chorus did "Number One," "Mood Indigo" and "Long Ago and Far away."The first half closed with "Don't Cry Out Loud" featuring alto Colleen Palmerie in the solo.

"New York, New York" followed intermission and Earl Downing was nar-rator for "Fiddler on the Roof."

SCHOLARSHIP winners were announced and awards presented by Barbara Frank, who chaired the scholarship committee.

Kenneth J. Fethke, Wayne Memorial High School senior, was awarded the $500 scholarship; Marlo M. Gates, junior at Livonia Stevenson, $250; and Jenny L. Kincer, eighth grader at Plymouth Central Middle School, the $250 William Grimmer Award. Shawn D. Bazzell, a Plymouth Canton High School senior, received a special award of $200 from an anonymous donor?

Grimmer, former director of the chorus, and Gross participated in the sentations. It was a special moment for the members of the chorus. Both the full chorus and the small ensemble, Choral Expression, had initiated special projects to finance the awards.

THE CONCERT resumed with Gayle Lang singing "Wing Beneath My Wings," her last solo performance with the chorus. As a thank you and a farewell, flowers were presented to the longtime chorus member who is moving to Pennsylvania in June with her ral Expression sang "Stay Tuned." On Sunday, the ensemble sang "My Wish for You."

Three years later, Gideon bought 23 acres and the house on Penniman from his father and moved in to farm the land with his second wife, Florence, and raise their three children.

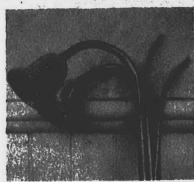

Various people owned and rented the house after Gideon's death. Time went by, more than 120 years, and Downey's ideal home looked shabby and dilapidated.

It took the vision in the mind's eye of Phil Haddad in 1982 to once again see the beauty of the house through its peeling paint and sagging porch. He lovingly restored it just two years ago for his new bride, Kim. Those who enjoy this period of architecture applaud Phil Haddad's efforts.

Once again we can enjoy A.J. Downing's concept of the ideal home and to appreciate our architectural heritage. Luan M. Brownlee, who compiled the above, acknowledges the following AAUW members in this research: Joyce Foust, AAUW past chairman, Landmarks, and co-researcher in this project; Barb Greenya, AAUW present Landmarks chair; Barb Saunders, Plymouth Historical Society; and Jeanine M. Head, historical researcher.

'Equal access' legislation poses dangers

A bill is being proposed by the U.S. House of Representatives which would circumvent current rulings on prayer in the public schools and would violate the principle of the separation of church and state.

This bill, Resolution No. 5345, is known as the "Equal Access" bill. Equal access is designed to provide school facilities on an equal basis for groups which wish to use public-school facilities at non-class time.

Specifically, it would bar public high schools from denying equal access to students or groups of students that sought "to engage in voluntary extracurricular activities that include prayer or religious speech" during non-instructional hours.

THE INTENT OF this bill is clearly to permit prayer meetings, religious discussions and revival meetings on school premises. It would also ber fed-eral funding of any school that "dis-

S'craft shaves resident tuition hike to $2.25

Under pressure from trustees, Schoolcraft College administrators have shaved a proposed tuition increase for district residents and increased it for non-residents.

The seven-member board is scheduled to vote Wednesday on the annual $17.7 million operating budget, 1.77 mill tax rate and tultion hike.

The tuition increase, effective in the fall semester, would be $2.25 a credit hour for district residents instead of the $2.50 proposed a week ago.

PRESIDENT Richard McDowell last week withdrew his May 9 proposal to raise in-district tuition from $26.50 to $29 a credit hour — a $2.50 increase or 9.4 percent. He substituted an increase of $2.25 or 8.49 percent.

For out-of-district residents, he proposed an increase of $3.50, or 9.7 percent, to $39.50 an hour.

For out-of-state students, he proposed a hike of $5 or 9.3 percent to $59 an hour. He had earlier proposed in-creases of $3 and $3.50, respectively. No one from the public spoke Wednesday during the board's public hearings on the tax rate and budget. Two staff persons and one reporter constituted the mute audience.

That didn't stop some board members from expressing dismay at any tu-ition hike, particularly since Wayne State University had announced it would hold the line on tuition for the second straight year.

As distasteful as tuition increases were to trustees, they saw no alterna-

"WHAT ALTERNATIVES to that dollar amount do we have?" asked trustee Laura Toy, the board's only Schoolcraft graduate. "I would like to see some more creative kinds of money-raising than hitting the students."

Trustee Paul Kadish answered, "We've been marketing to industry. The foundation has raised more in one year than in the previous 10. But those kinds of dollars are small compared to others (taxes and tuition)."

"We're not really out of line," said trustee Mary Breen, citing neighboring colleges' rates.

McDowell blamed the tuition increase on state aid, which reached a high of 42 percent of the budget in 1976-77, dipped to a low of 28 percent last year, and is recovering only to the Student tuition and fees are projected to raise $5.5 million, up 13 percent from the current year.

State aid is projected at $5.7 million, up 10.8 percent.

A major spending increase will be utilities — in part because of rate hikes, but also because more CAD/ CAM (computer aided design and manufacturing) will consume more elec-tricity. Utilities are projected to rise by $161,000, or more than 13 percent, to $1.34 million.

NEARLY HALF of all students enrolled in higher education in Michigan are in one of the 29 community colleges, McDowell said.

"There are many reasons, but of key importance are the factors of locations convenient to where students live and the diversity of programs which the colleges offer," McDowell said.

The Schoolcraft president told the group of a cross-registration program used by his college and neighboring Oakland Community College, "where students will have an opportunity to en-roll in courses at the other college at in-district rates.

Tying a shoe is a task most of us take for granted. But for some of us, it's much more. It's an achievement.

Three out of every 100 Americans are mentally retarded. That's six million people who need our help and encouragement. Not to tie their shoes for them, but to help them learn to do things for themselves.

Through the ARC—the Association for Retarded Citizens—America's retarded citizens are learning to be self-sufficient. ARC provides job training workshops, educational programs, sheltered workshops and neighborhood housing to help retarded people help themselves.

Over 85% of America's retarded citizens can lead productive lives. Even the most severely retarded people can learn to stand on their own . two feet.

it's a big job. But a rewarding one. ARC needs you to give whatever you can—time, money, jobs, housing opportunity, understanding.

Next time you bend over to tie your shoes, remember those who need a little more help—and remember that you can give it.

These 12 young people have won 10-speed bicycles. And, like the Tigers, they did it with a mixture of dedication and professionalism along with a dash of luck.

DEDICATION--Each of them has done an outstanding job of delivering your hometown news twice each week.

PROFESSIONALISM--Last February each of these carrriers exceeded their January collections. They've also kept accurate, neat records and paid attention to details.

LUCK-- All of this made them eligible to place their names in the drawing for a brand new 10-speed and they won!

Who knows? There could be a professional ball player here or a future computer whiz or a doctor, lawyer.....we can't see what's ahead for our winners but we know from past experience that being a carrier can give valuable lessons in responsibility, promptness, public relations, self reliance and courtesy.

Longtime Plymouth hair stylist to retire to Texas.

staff writer

For the past 10 years Fred Needham has been caring for the customers in Joseph's Couiffeur in downtown Plymouth and and now he is leaving to spend the rest of his years in retirement in

"I have seen all sorts of women's hairstyles in my many years in this business. And now I think I have seen enough and it is time to take things

He has been caring for the women's needs in Plymouth for a quarter of a century and at one time owned his own shop, known as Fred's on Harvey Street. But now he's eager to sit back known as Fred's on Harvey and wonder what the new styles will

When I started in Plymouth in 1958 it was at a time when I made one of the oddest decisions in my life. I had come up from Texas, my birthplace, to visit friend for three weeks. I stayed here 26 years. That's one of the unusual twists in my life and I never have re-

NOW 50 years old, he figures he has seen enough and now will spend his time with his ailing mother back in the Lone Star State, but he will always have a great feeling for Plymouth. While he admits this is an unusual way to enter into retirement, he also got started working with women's hair in a surprising way.

With a trace of nostalgia in his face he recalled that back home in Texas his aunt was an instuctor to those desiring to enter the hair-styling profession.

"Often as I watched her teach I got the feeling that hair styling among the women was something I would like to

"She allowed me to try. And I liked the work. So, it wasn't too strange when I came to Plymouth on that vacation that I opened my own shop.
"That was the beginning of an interesting career and I have seen many style changes. When I started the style was what was called 'bubble' and there was no back combing

THEN CAME bleaching in a solid color. That didn't stay very long and the new trend then became bleaching in multi-color.

"Next came soft, natural curly hair and then into the roller curls and drying life hair under a dryer.

"I don't know what it will be next but I will have nothing to do with it. I'll be relaxing down in Texas."

Looking back over his career he recalled that there were 33 beauty shops in Plymouth when he came here and he facile that there will not that there were still now that the still now the still is that there still-are that many, if

"The big change came in the prices. when I started we charged $2 for a shampoo and a curl. We also charged only $10 for a permanent. Now the price has skyrocketed to a low of $35 and goes as high as $65 if a woman gets the entire realizer." the entire package."

That is all behind him now. He feels that his ailing mother needs him and he

Old Detroit marked by many French characteristics

Across the years since 1701 there have been many changes in the city by the strait. Almost three centuries have ssed since Ville D'Etroit danced to Cadillac's tune, yet the melody lingers

Even today many areas of Detroit have a distinctly French charm and ambience. Read the bronze historical markers, the street names and the hone book, and you will perceive that this town from the sidwalk cafe at the Regent on the Boulevard to the Ponchartrain at the RenCen still has a French flavor.

November 29, 1760, Major Robert Rogers and his Rangers took over Detroit and hoisted the British flag from the flag-staff at Fort Ponchartrain. Does that mean that he had conquered the place? Not really. The town remained essentially French.

THE BRITISH, who wished to conduct a business or communicate with the people, soon discovered that they had to learn a second language. For many years Detroit was a bilingual

Even as late as the 1830s Father Gabriel Richard, the priest at Ste. Anne's, conducted services in French as well as Latin. Richard was Michigan's representative in Congress and had a bill passed for the construction of a road from Detroit to Chicago. This road now is Route 112 and follows the old Sauk-Pottowatomi Trail. All his life the good Richard spoke English with a French accent but he had the support of Protestant and Catholic alike.

The little ribbon farms on both sides of the river in Cadillac's domain gave street names to both Detroit and Windsor, and the descendants of these early French are, among some of the promi-nent residents today.

Among these distinguished names the genealogist may find descendants of: Baby, de Rainville, Barthe, of: Baby, de Rainville, Barthe, Beaufait, Campeau, Palms, Champoton, Piquette, DeQuindre, deBeaubien, St. Aubin, Robert, Catin, Chene, DeMerles, Riopelle, D'Armour, DeJoncaire, Godefroy, Moran, Cicotte, Navarre, Visger, Audrain, deStLeger, Barron, DeBondy, DesNoyers, D'Armous, Riopelle, Dubois, Brisbois, Gamelin, DeMontag, Reaume, Gouin, Morand, DeBurros, Valliller, Vissier, Lafole, DeBurros, Valliler, Vissier, Lafoie, Lefebre, St. Martin, Bourassa, Pelletier, St. Louis and many, many oth-

These people were, for the most part, charming, hospitable, intelligent, energetic and artistic. They had a special French flair for living. Today many of their descendants are among the m productive, cultured, knowledgeable citizens of this area.

OUR MAIN concern, however, is not an account of the present but to develop an understanding of the past. The real story of Detroit must begin with its founder, Antoine Cadillac.

So let us return once more to the vilminable quarrels with the Jesuits, and his endless arguments with the Company of the Colony, the governing body in Quebec. Nor will we pursue his tedious battles with some of the French colony at Ville d'Etroit.

Those who wish to pursue these quar-

the gruesome details in Volumes 33 and 34 of the "Michigan Pioneer and History Collection," and much more data may be found under Cadillac at the Burton Historical Library, and in the libraries of the University of Michigan.

I have gleaned many facts from these sources, and now I return to the picture as I have visualized it. TWO LARGE transport canoes silhouetted in the crisp autumn moonlight ripple the water with a moon-spattered wake. They slip into the watergate at Fort Ponchartrain.

It's a beautiful night. Except for the moon, the only light is from a fading campfire across the river at the Huron's place. They must all be asleep by now. As the big canoes approach the dock the voyageur pilots signal for a quiet landing. The paddles are dragged gently in the water to slow the momentum of the boats.

On the dock we see two shadowy figures who seem to be struggling with a lock. One of these men looks vaguely familiar. He moves with great energy and purpose. Is this the commandant? Why would he conceal two boatloads of furs? My lord, it's three o'clock in the

We make note of all this and add it to a small mountain of evidence we have rels in all their savage fury may find accumulated. At last we think we may know the truth. Our brief indicts Cadil-

The evidence indicates strongly that Cadillac's bete noire was greed — unholy greed. It detracted from his many good qualities and ultimately ru-ined his life. He was fired from his post at Detroit because of it, and later the same curse ruined his chances to leave a good record as Governor of Louisiana. When he died his life was embittered and sad.

But there was another side to Cadillac. He had many excellent qualities, superior ability, great energy and ambition. He achieved much in his long life, and although ruthless in business matters, he seemed religious in a conventional way.

First he built a warehouse, but within the week the foundations were laid for the church he called Ste. Anne's. And it stands today, a marvelous monument to the past - the oldest Catholic parish in the United States except one. That one is the cathedral in St. Augus-

Cadillac was a loving father and a good parent. He and his attractive wife had 13 children. The last six were all born in Detroit between 1702 and 1710.

The feeding and caring of this family was a heavy responsibility for the devoted parents. They had several Pani (Indian slaves) and one of them, an independent old fellow, may have been a spy for the British.

I have seen a copy of the Cadillacs' marriage and his bride, Marte Thereze Guyon, was a daughter of Denis Guyon and Elizabeth Boncher. The Bouchers were distantly related to royalty. Cadillac gave his age on June 25, 1627, as 26, and Thereze said she was 17. Other evidence indicates that he was somewhat older and she may have been only 16.

Her father was a relative of a prominent ship owner with whom Cadillac had once served as a ship's captain. Their ship was extensively used in privateering exploits along the coast, and with the profits from some of these forays Cadillac had acquired a plantation at Port Royal. The marriage certificate was signed LaMothe Launay. This is the name he used in his seagoing

A true Gascon, sharp-tongued and proud, quick to draw his sword, a great talker, a splendid writer, Cadillac was a remarkably clever man, However, I would not include straight dealing and generosity among his assets. Yet he seemed to be honest with the Indians. Was it because he was surrounded by them? At one time it was estimated that he had brought in more than 3,000 in the settlements around the fort.

When the French government refused to send him all the troops he eeded to face a probable attack by the English and the Iroquiois, Cadillac called a pow wow with his Indian friends. His method of dealing with them indicates a keen understanding of

One day he invited a group of chiefs to dine at his table and he proposed a ver langue, calleo for the square, and test of all loss of Process or such as enlistments in the surmy, and he received many fine ture from the chiefs. The picturesqua seems when has been cited in many old histories of the time went something like time. Cadillac addressed the chiefs as "sty Children, and they called him "Father." Sitting around the fire with them he smooted the calumet as it passed from hand is hand. Then he employed the figurative language which the Indians understook and expected in diplomatic negotiations. Cadillac said, "I had lighted a great fire here. I had planted four great trees near this beautiful fire, tup great trees near this beautiful fire, two on my right hand and two on my left. He is referring to the villages of the Ottowa, the Potowatomie, the Hurop and the Chippewa, which are near the

Then, when he has their rapt and friendly attention, he invites them to join the French Army. They honored this invitation and kept their word long after the British arrived. But that's affi-

Because Cadillac knew how to deal with the Indians, and respected their customs, they respected him. He and his family always were safe and cared for by the Algonquin of D'Etroit. (Tonquish Tales will conclude the

No use fighting Anti-sentiment

My aunt's in town. Auntie Anti we call her - with good reason. It's her She's lived up to that moniker. Anti - she always insisted we call her by her first name has just one consistency.

She's anti. Not just anti-life or anti-work — nothing sensible like that. Anti's anti-everything. She's anti-facism, anti-communism and anticonservatism. Anti's anti-politician ("They're just little people with big ideas, and mouths to

SHE'S ANTI-NUKES ("I've seen the movie and we're all going to die"), anti-cukes ("You see the stuff they spray all over those vegetables?") and anti-dukes ("Fighting's for those either too dumb to talk or too talkative to know when to be

She's got an opinion about everything, from the weather ("I'm against it") to the stars ("How do we know those aren't just little lights twinklin' up there?") and beyond. That includes the world of sports - and me.

Some local samples

• On Salem coach Fred Thomann's resignation: "Sure he deserves more money, more support. So do all coaches. So do all teachers. And let's not leave out the players, either." When told high school players aren't paid, she replies, "See what I mean?'

• On the soccer explosion in the metro-Detroit area: "It's not surprising. Give some kids a ball and they'll have a blast."

• On the growth of the MSAA, SMA and WLAA and the demise of the GOAL, WSL and (next) the

NSL: "What is this, alphabet soup?"

● On the MHSAA's rejection of the football playoff expansion plan: "What do you expect them to do - something radical like change?"

A FAVORITE Anti argument is boys vs. girls athletics. "It's a sad, sad state of affairs — a real travesty," is her typical opening into this debate. Understand, Anti's extra-ordinary use of anti-logic would bring tears to the eyes of the emotionless Mr. Spock. The only way to endure in such a fray is to battle her on uneven terms. Illogic to illogic, so to speak.

Round One.

"How come no one goes to see girls play softball, or soccer, or basketball? How come boys always get the igger crowds?" she opens I dance away warily, then release a quick jab. "The boys are better," I answer. 'People pay to see the best."

"The girls would be better if more people would be out there cheering for them," she retaliates. "Give them the same kind of opportunity and training and following and they'd be better than the boys."

SHE'S CLOSING for some heavy in-fighting. "If they're as good as the boys, mix the two together — one co-ed team," I suggest, landing a strong counter-punch. "Then we'll see whose

She backpedals for an instant, then closes in again, driving me into the ropes.

"That would never work, and you know it," she says. "At halftime the guys would go into one locker room and the girls would go into another. How could a coach plot strategy?"

She's measuring me for the KO. "So what's your suggestion?" I ask tenatively, trying to cover up and survive.

"SIMPLE," she answers. I stagger, awaiting the knockout punch. "For years, girls were forced to sit in the stands and watch the boys play their sports. I say cancel all boys sports and make them watch the girls play for a few years — five or 10 maybe. Then we'll see whose better."

"Makes sense," I agree, trying to escape. "I know I'd rather look at girls than boys."

The gleam in my eye doesn't meet with Anti's approval. "Except the boys couldn't come to the games unless their mothers brought them," she adds. "That would keep those rowdy laddies from yelling anything nacty."

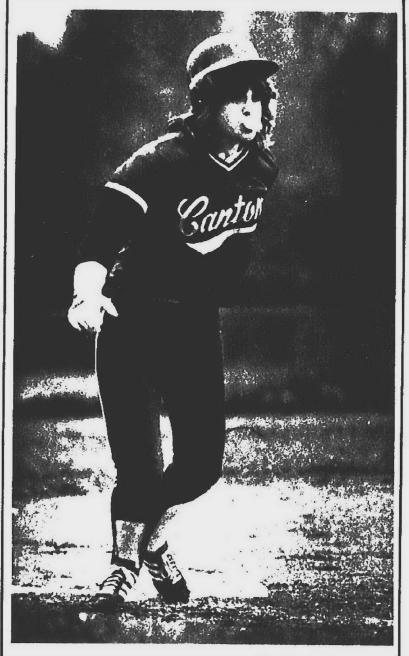

ANTI'S WINNING on all cards. "But Anti," I protest, sending a wild round-house high above the target. "What happens if the mothers don't come? Then the boys won't be there, either. Then what about the crowds?"

It's a fatal mistake. I've resorted to logic. "Oh, crowds — who needs them? They just make too much noise and distract the players. The beck with them."

TKO, Anti. She instinctively senses my weakened condition and refocuses her attack with the finesse of a Sumo wrestler.

"As for you, young man," she launches, "why don't you get a haircut? Maybe then you could find yourself a nice wife."

Just give me a chance, Anti. Give me a chance.

Tough regional limits qualifiers

The Plymouth-Canton Community School District will be represented at the state Class A track and field meet - barely.

The number of CEP qualifiers is smaller than in the past, though most coaches agree the talent isn't that much inferior.

"We have been just as good if not better than we have in the past," said Salem girls track coach Fred Thomann. "But, we don't have as much to show for

The reason: The regional meet that both Canton and Salem competed in last Friday, at Brighton, was loaded with talent.

In the boys meet were the likes of Ypsilanti, Ann Arbor Huron, Milford Lakeland, Ann Arbor Pioneer and Belleville - the top five finishers in the region. In the girls meet, the top five were Pioneer, Huron, Ypsi, Brighton and Walled Lake Western.

SALEM FINISHED a respectable seventh in the boys meet with 21 points. Canton's boys were tied for 11th with six points.

The Rocks' girls team placed 11th with seven points, the Chiefs 15th with two points. CEP will send two individuals and a relay team to the state meet Saturday, June 2 at Jackson - all Erich Hartnett qualified in the high jump by jumping a third-best 6-4 Friday. Dawn Johnson, a co-captain on the Rock girls team, qualified with a 16-7 third-place leap in the long jump.

The boys 400-meter relay team — Brian Neuhardt, Jeff Arnold, Marc Tindall, and Craig Morton qualified with a third-place clocking of 44.0. There were other fine performances Friday. For the Canton boys, shot putter Brian Bogden set a school record with a 46-21/2 heave. That broke the old mark of 45-9 set last year by Anton Ivezaj. Canton's Elijah Rogers ran a 10.2 in the 100-yard dash, tying the Canton record. He took fifth in the region-

For the Canton girls team, Hollie Ivey shattered the school's shot put record with a sixth-place 32-81/4 toss. The old mark, 31-11, was set in 1982 by Lisa Rundarin

Other scorers for Canton were the 440- and the 880-relay teams. Matt Flower, Pat McGow, Jin Kim and Rogers combined on a fifth-place 44.5 in the 440 and a sixth-place 1:34.4 in the 880.

FOR THE SALEM boys, Mike White took fourth in the 300-meter low hurdles with a 39.7. Doug Spencer got fifth in the discus, 134-1. Mike Harwood was sixth in the pole vault with a 12-1. Salem's 800-meter relay team - Neuhardt, Karl Gansler, Tindall and Morton — took fifth in 1:33.3. (Salem coach Gary Balconi converted his team's performances to the state-accepted metric system. The meet was not run on a metric track.)

For the Canton girls, Carolyn Nagy took home a sixth-place medal in the 440-yard dash (1:02.7). Salem's 880 relay team — Mary Zorney, Mary Beth Weast, Kelly Bemiss and Johnson — was erroneously given a sixth-place time of 1:52.3. Thomann, however, said the team went 1:49.7, good for a fifth. The sixth-place time, however, is official.

Rock women whip Vikings

Dawn Johnson won two events to lead the Plymouth Salem girls track team past Walled Lake Central Tuesday, 78-50.

Johnson won the long jump (16-7%) and the 220yard dash (28-5).

Other winners for the Rocks were: Marian Tauri-anan in the shot put (28-3), Karen Marciniak in the discus (94-4), Kristen Hostynski in the 110 hurdles (17.5), Amy Johnson in the 330 hurdles (53.9), Heidi Dupret in the 880 run (2:46.2), and Trish Donnelly in the 2 mile (12:56.46).

Park coach pool keeps Dick Scott on draining

The list of resigning coaches continues to grow within the Plymouth-Canton Community School

The current count is at nine.

Jeanne Martin, Plymouth Salem's volleyball coach the past four seasons, and Kenny Kaneko, assistant football coach at Salem, are the latest resignations to be confirmed. According to Martin, she submitted her letter of resignation earlier this month. Kaneko resigned this week. Martin has resigned for personal reasons, not because of her discontentment with the dwindling CEP athletic program. "I wish I could be a hero and say that's why I resigned," Martin said. "If it weren't for the fact that I have a better reason for resigning, that would have been it "

But Martin has recently adopted three young children, and will devote her time exclusively to their upbringing.

"MY CHILDREN need my time," she said. "I love each of them very much and feel I should spend my time with them instead of my high school team."

Kaneko, a hard-working, well-liked coach who helped out both the football and baseball programs during his tenure at Salem, quit to take an assistant coaching position at Allen Park High School. Kaneko will be making approximately $2,500 a year at Allen Park — about $700 more than Salem head coach Tom Moshimer earns.

Martin and Kaneko join Bob Blohm, Dan Chrenko, Fred Thomann, Tom Williams, Brian Gilles, David Greenwood and Dave Mineau on the list of the CEP coaches who have resigned this year.

Kaneko, Chrenko and Martin resigned for personal reasons. The others resigned out of frustration for what they call an "overall lack of support" from the school board and central administration to the athletic department.

A PLYMOUTH HIGH SCHOOL FLASHBACK

One year ago this week, Phymouth Salem built an early lead and fought off Livonia Bentley's comeback attempts to post a 7-4 baseball arctory Friday at Bentley.

The Rocks took the lead with two runs in the first and two more in the second. Dave Slavin, the Salem catcher who was betting over .600 for the season chased Buildog starter Mark Zlomek with his two-run double in the second. Bentley closed to within a run with a three-run rally in the third, two scoring on Jim Prokes' home run. But Salem pitcher Dave . Haut stymled the Buildogs the rest of the way, allowing just one other run in the sixth.

The Rocks' leading hitters were Slavin with two hits and three runs batted in, and Dan Carlson and Mike Cindrich, who had two hits anless hits apiece. Haut went the distance, striking out four and walking seven, to earn the victory.

Borgess boys 3rd in fast regional meet

The Redford Bishop Borgess boys and girls track teams found themselves among fast company last weekend in the Class A regional meet at Highland

In the boys meet, Detroit Cooley and Central finished one-two in the team standings with 111 and 95 points, respectively. Borgess, the Observerland Relay champions, took third with 77. Redford Catholic Central was eighth with 19 and Redford Union 15th with three.

"I was very pleased," said Borgess coach Gene Grewe. "We had only two disappointments, but an awful lot of good things happened.

In the 400-meter relay relay, Borgess captured first in a school record time of 42.5. That team consisted of Chuck Gregory, Marion Pittman, Marlon Montgomery and Fred Owens.

"That puts us right up there with some of the top times in the state," Grewe said.

The same quartet finished a respectable third in the 800 relay with a time of 1:29.6. Cooley, meanwhile, gained first in 1:28.6.

BORGESS boasted two regional champions -Jim Holdsclaw in the shot put (53 feet, 111/2 inches) and Ray Lark in the pole vault (12-1 on fewer

Other state qualifiers included Steve Staron, second, pole vault, 12-1; Tim Walton, second, shot put, 50-11; Chuck Albright, third, long jump, 21-31/2; Mongomery, third, 300 low hurdles, 38.3; and Owens, fourth, 100 dash, 10.9.

Steve Shaver was CC's only state qualifier. He finished third in the 1,600 run with a time of 4:23.3. The Borgess girls, meanwhile, will send six performers to the state meet.

The Spartans, fourth overall behind regional team champion Detroit Chadsey, will send regional high jump winner Emily Emerick, who cleared five feet; Lonnie Washington, third, 100 dash, 11.41; Nikki Wilson, second, long jump, 16-21/2; Cheri Johnson, second (tie), high jump, 4-10; Sue Naster, second, discus, 101-7; and Ruth Stoder, third, discus, 101-1.

enn sending large contingent to state

Westland John Glenn and Livonia Stevenson will be sending a majority of area runners to next week's Class A girls state meet in Jackson.

Glenn scored 51% points to place third behind team champion Pontiac Northern in a 17-team regional field Saturday at West Bloomfield.

Stevenson was eighth overall with 29 points followed by area schools Livonia Churchill, 11th, 221/2; Livonia Franklin, 13th, seven; and Garden City, 14th,

"We have some kids who have a good chance to place at the state," said Glenn coach Ernie Righetti, "especially our discus and shot put throwers.

Glenn's Anna Parish won the regional in the shot with a toss of 36 feet, 10 inches. Teammate Diane Cranston was third in the discus at 108-11.

That's the best way to describe the Plymouth Salem baseball team this season. They streaked to 7-2 start, then fell to 7-6. Now, after six straight wins, the Rocks are 13-7 and heading into the state tournament.

our own fate," said Canton mentor Fred Crissey.

After hammering Bentley 16-4 Friday, the Chiefs split a non-league pair at Clio over the weekend, losing the first 9-8, winning the nightcap 7-1.

On Monday, the Chiefs traveled to Farmington Harrison, a longtime Chief

Ex-Canton student Bob Wasczenski was on the mound for Harrison. He lasted one-third of an inning. Canton ripped him for four runs in the first.

Canton led 5-0 after two, but the Hawks came back with five off starter Bucky Blake to tie the game in the Harrison's Scott Glinski and Canton's Mike Clark kept the game even through the middle innings.

In the top of the seventh, the Chiefs rallied for two without the benefit of the hit. A bases-loaded walk to Jim Dillon scored one and John Longridge's sacrifice fly scored the second.

The Hawks got one back in the bottom of the seventh and had the tying run on second. Crissey summoned his ace, Mark Bennett, who promptly struck out the Hawk batter to end the game. It was Bennett's third save.

"We feel we haven't played the way we are capable of playing defensively, Crissey said. "We're scoring a ton of runs and we're playing a lot of really good teams — No. 2 Midland, No. 3 Clio. We've played good, but it's the intensity thing. We're getting ahead then sitting on a lead instead of going after things. Or, we're getting a lot of 'I'm tired today'. You can't have that."

Horton helps EMU build program

staff writer

There's a strong correlation between Kathy Horton's net career and Eastern Michigan University's tennis fortunes.

Horton started as a No. 2 singles player for the Hurons before moving up to No. 1 as a sophomore, where she remained for three years, earning All-Mid-American Conference honors each

Eastern's program followed a similiar path. The Hurons finished fourth last year, 10 points out of first, but challenged for first this season before settling for third, three points behind cowinners Western Michigan and Miami

"It was definitely a three-team race," said Eastern coach Claudia for the Huron's success this season. Freshman Amy Zeilinger's perform-

HORTON'S 16-6 overall record (6-1 in MAC dual meets) was enough to earn her All-Conference honors. But her performance in the MAC tournament May 10-12 at Bowling Green cast a bit of a shadow on the finish of her career; she lost in three sets to Toledo's Renu Dewan in the semifinals.

"I didn't have a real good tourna-ment," said the Plymouth Salem graduate. "I thought I could have played better. But I did have a really strong sea-

Horton missed two weeks of the season with an assortment of injuries and re-injuries. She hurt her back last summer, which limited her playing time in the fall. When she returned, she pulled muscles in her shoulder after a long weekend of playing. She also pulled a rib muscle during the spring season. Those injuries were still bothering her at the MAC meet, although Horton thinks it was more a mental problem than physical. "Maybe they hurt a lit-tle, but it hurt my confidence the most," she said.

WASIK DISAGREED. "(The injuries) really made a difference in her play. She missed two weeks during the season because of them."

Horton's game is aggression. "She plays a baseline-attacking game," said Wasik. "We worked very hard on her taking her approach shot and then charging the net.

"She has an attacking style of play." Horton's approach to tennis preparation off the court is similiar, acco to her coach. "She has a great deal of determination and drive and she really conditions," said Wasik. "We have a rigid conditioning program from September through the spring, but she does ex-extra weights. "I know if it comes down to a third tra running, extra rope jumping and set, she's not going to get tired."

Wasik called Horton as tough mentally as she was physically. "She has a lot of confidence in her ability, she knows what she can do and she analyzes her opponent well.

"She can really change the pace of the ball to keep her opponents off-bal-

ZEILINGER'S STYLE is a contradiction to her older, more experienced teammate. While Horton attacks, Zeilinger plays a baseline game, dictated by her lack of size. Zeilinger stands just 5-foot-2 and weighs 100 pounds.

A Westland John Glenn graduate,

Wasik recruited Zeilinger after watching her play summer tournaments last

"I was impressed with her intensity on the court," said Wasik of the freshman who won the No. 6 singles championship at the MAC meet with a comefrom-behind 6-3, 4-6, 6-4 victory over defending champion Sarah Barnes

"Pressure doesn't bother her," added Wasik. "She was down 1-4 in the final set (against Barnes) and came back to and Recreation Department, the Rotary Club of Canton and the Canton Chamber of Commerce.

The 134 teams will be divided into 20 age brackets. Trophies will be awarded to the top two teams in each division.

In addition, the Detroit Express soccer club will be playing an exhibition match at 4 p.m. Sunday. Express stars Billy Boljevic, Danny Vaughn, Ane Mihailovich and Steve Mihailovich will be among the participants.

THAT'S JUST part of the excitment. Here's some other happenings:

• The Rotary Club will host a pancake breakfast Saturday morning. Cost will be $2 for adults, $1.25 for children under 12.

• The chamber of commerce and the soccer club will have a raffle. First prize, $500; second prize, $300; third, $200; etc. The drawing will be Sunday at 2 p.m.

In case of rain, the soccer club has scheduled Monday as a rain day.

The Canton Recreation Complex is on Proctor Road at Canton Center, behind the Canton Township Building.

the Plymouth Salem soccer team.

Things started to go wrong even before the team played its first match. All-Stater Shelly Staszel went down with a knee injury during volleyball season — lost for the season. Try as they might, the Rock offense never has gotten untracked without her.

But, all the ill feelings could have been washed away last Monday. The Rocks built up a fast two-goal lead at Livonia Churchill and appeared on the verge of a major upset.

"It looked like we were going to get them," said coach Ken Johnson. Not this year.

THE CHARGERS scored twice before the end of the half to tie it. Then, with three minutes left in the match, Doreen Dudek made a perfect kick, in the top right corner of the goal, to the energy-saving

It hasn't been a very good year for beat goalie Sarah Wallman for the game-winner.

"It was a good game. We played well, very well," Johnson said.

Fran Whittaker, one of the more pleasant things to happen to the Salem soccer team this season, scored the first goal of the match. She banged home a pretty corner from Tracey Greenhalge.

Salem's second goal was actually scored by a Churchill defender. A Charger player booted the ball down the center of the field toward her own net. Salem's Julie Tortora chased two Chargers for the loose ball. The three players ended up chasing the ball into Churchill outshot Salem 15-11. The Rocks are 8-7-2 on the year with two make-up matches remaining. They will play host to Plymouth Canton this afternoon.

At Montreux-Detroit: jazz is the star Indoors and out,

Dizzy Gillespie, Art Blakey, Betty Carter, the Modern Jazz Quartet, Boss Brass and Marian McPartland are a few of the big names topping the list of jazz musicians who will headline this summer's Montreux Detroit Kool Jazz Festival.

Backing up the big names are other well-known jazz musicians, as well as the local acts, who will open for some of the headliners and also perform in 79 free concerts along the riverfront.

"Detroit will pulsate for six days with some of the most celebrated jazz artists in the world," said Robert E. McCabe, who made the announcement at a press conference last week in Detroit's State Theatre.

McCabe is president of Detroit Renaissance Foundation, the organization that produces the festival each year. He is certainly on target with his description of the jazz acts booked to perform in the ticketed events for the sixday festival opening Wednesday, Aug.

Included among plans for the fifth annual jazz extravaganza is a new gesture. "We're proud to be part of a new movement in Detroit to restore the great old theaters," said McCabe, who

Movie spotlights John Falstaff

Actor-director Orson Welles stars in his own film production "Chimes at Midnight," on the Afternoon Film Theatre series, at 1 p.m. daily through Sunday in the Detroit Institute of Arts re-

Tickets at $1 will be available at the door. The current series continues through July 13, with a different film each week. For further information, call the ticket office at $32-2730 during regular business hours.

"Chimes at Midnight" chronicles the minor character taken from three of William Shakespeare's plays. Director Welles has expanded Falstaff's role by portraying him as "the most completely good man in all drama," a tragicomic figure whose only flaws are his child-like candor and trust.

This film series is presented by the conduction of the candor and trust.

This film series is presented by the museum's Performing Arts Department as a companion activity during the museum's current major art-loan exhibition "The Age of Chivalry."

Warming a little to modern music

By Avigdor Zaromp special writer

The barriers between modern music and audiences are formidable even by the most optimistic

The series presented by the Detroit Contemporary Chamber Ensemble has gone a long way towards breaking down some of these barriers. On previous programs, local and other little known American composers have been featured. The latest program went to the roots of 20th century mu-

The name of Arnold Schoenberg is universally known today, even though his music is still not universally endorsed. This is also the case with his prominent disciples, Anton Webern and Alban Berg.

REGARDLESS OF one's taste, the position of these three important proponents of modernism and atonality is universally acknowledged. For the present day listener, it is difficult to grasp emotionally, even after the statement of the fact, that this music played an important role in Viennese life during the early decades of this century.

The performers were Detroit Symphony Orchestra musicians and other local performers, known to regular listeners of chamber music events as extremely talented. Major roles were played by pianist Robert Conway and soprano Edith Diggory.

Space precludes detailed mention of all the performers, and this is no reflection on their quality.

THE FIRST portion of the program consisted of mostly short selections of Webern and Berg. The opening four short pieces for violin and piano by Webern were an example of extremely compact, yet meaningful, statements.

While I wouldn't go as far as characterizing them as major masterpieces, they merit serious attention. These are followed by short pieces for clarinet and piano by Berg and a short quartet by Webern.

The largest scale piece in that part of the program was the adagio movement from the Chamber Concerto by Berg. This was also the most expressive and least academic of these pieces.

STYLISTICALLY, IT is similar to Berg's violin concerto and is very accessible and listenable. The second part of the program provided a unique opportunity to hear a live rendition of the Pierrot Lunaire song cycle by Schoenberg, set to poems by Albert Giraud. This work, composed in 1912, features an idea that is considered revolutionary even at present.

Movie spotlights John Falstaff

Actor-director Orson Welles stars in his own film production "Chimes at Midnight," on the Afternoon Film The-atre series, at 1 p.m. daily through Sun-day in the Detroit Institute of Arts re-cital hall.

Tickets at $1 will be available at the Tickets at $1 will be available at the door. The current series continues through July 15, with a different film each week. For further information, call the ticket office at $32-2730 during regular business hours.

"Chimes at Midnight" chronicles the life and times of Sir John Falstaff, a minor character taken from three of William Shakespeare's plays. Director Welles has expanded Falstaff's role by portraying him as "the most completely good man in all drama," a tragicomic figure whose only flaws are his child-like candor and trust.

This film series is presented by the museum's Performing Arts Department as a companion activity during the museum's current major art-loan exhibition "The Age of Chivalry."

James is currently on the Billboard Best Selling Jazz Album chart with his latest record called "Foxie." He also comoses serious music. His Work on Scales," which features the orchestra as well as soloists Donald Baker (oboe), Linda Snedden Smith (violin) and Alexander Zonjic (flute), is an intriguing piece that deserves to be heard again.

But then, so does the Southfield Symphony under the direction of DSO principal flutist Ervin Monroe.

ALSO WORTH A TRIP to hear is the Bob Fennell Trio, playing weekends at Beaugart's in Redford.

Bob Fennell is a warmtoned tenor-sax player who grew up in Detroit, knew Louis Armstrong and ran a music school in Ontario before coming home. In the new trio are pianist Professor Harisomo Cox (back in action with his Erroll Garner-inproblems) and drummer Ed Nelson (who heads the local Society for the Preservation of Jazz).

"Illinois Jacquet was my first idol," said Fen-nell after his set on a recent Friday night. He also related how he was impressed with a young saxophone player he met many years ago.

"I met Jug (Gene Ammons) when I was 15 and he was 17," said Fennell, "and I knew he was going to be a top player. I al-ways loved the way he sounded."

You could fall in love with the way Fennell sounds, too, on standards such as "Ghost of a Chance," "The Nearness of You" and "Misty." "I have a big sound," Fennell said, not bragging but stating a fact. "It just comes naturally."

The Bob Fennell Trio continues this weekend, starting at 8 p.m., at Beaugart's, 27331 Five Mile, Redford. You can call 537-5600 for other information.

Television treat: horror classics

"The Exercist" (1973), 8 p.m. today on Ch. 50. Originally 121 minutes. TV time slot: 150 min-

The compelling thing about director William Friedkin's "The Exorcist" is that it telegraphs every shock wave, and still it scares us out of our socks. There are no cheap tricks in this film from the William Peter Blatty bestseller, only upfront scenes of devilry that will horrify the most nonchalant movie viewer. "The Exorcist" was among the first entries in a new wave of horror films that has swept Hollywood in the last decade, and it's certainly among the best of that lot. Among the worst: "Exorcist II: The Heretic," which airs at 8 p.m. Friday on Ch. 50. Linda Blair, Ellen Burstyn, Jason Miller, Max Von Sydow, Lee J. Cobb and Mercedes McCambridge (as the voice of Satan) costar in "The Exorcist."

Rating: $3.10. "Frankenstein" (1931), 12:30 p.m. Saturday on Ch. 2. Originally 71 minutes. TV time slot: 70 years ago created the same panic as "The Exorcist" 10 years ago. Adults were terrified, and youngsters had nightmares about the ghoulish character created by novelist Mary Shelley and enhanced by director James Whale and actor Boris Karloff - menacingly billed only as Karloff in the film's credits. In fact, "Frankenstein" holds up pretty well after all these years, apart from the stylized performance of Colin Clive as the mad scientist, Victor Frankenstein. But Karloff is excellent, wonderfully blending menace with pathos; and Dwight Frye is the quintessential mad scientist's sidekick, Igor. "Dracula" (1931), 1:40 p.m. Saturday on Ch. 2.

Originally 75 minutes. TV time slot: 100 min-

"Dracula" suffers from the same culture shock as "Frankenstein," but with an additional drawback: as "Frankenstein," but with an additional drawback: It wasn't as good as "Frankenstein" in the first place. Bela Lugosi, of course, created the film's best-remembered Dracula — and lived the role off-camera, too, according to biographers, who point out that Lugosi was buried in his Dracula garb. But this film is simply sluggish, and not even Dwight Frye — co-starring this time as the maniacal (and humorous) Renfield — can breathe any life into it.

FORT WALTON BEACH, Fla. - 1 can see the whole world from here, flat on my back on a beach chair. It is in three stripes of color: a strip of white sand, a spread of blue-green sea and a curve of cobalt-blue sky, with a fishing pler walking across the water to my left and a beach umbrella just visible under the edge of my hat to the right.

The promenade of girls has gone by several times, long flowing hair, bikinis low on the hips and high on the haunches. The boys have made several invasions into the surf. Children scratch with their sand pails at the edge of the sea.

Grey heads lean over books in the sun or walk past, feet in the water, shoes in hand. A huge watermobile with paddy green plastic tires, paddles across the sea and settles like a great green bug on the sand.

This sand is, of course, what makes everything else happen here. It is not ordinary coarse golden sand but powder white, washed down from ancient rocks, forming the barrier islands that parallel the coast of the Gulf of Mexi-

They call this panhandle of Florida "undiscovered Florida" because so many sun-lovers have ignored it in their race for the concrete jungles of the south, but it was actually discovered long ago, long before a railway magnate turned the south Florida swamps into resort country.

The Spanish were here, building forts at the entrance to Pensacola Bay. Slaves were brought in along this coast; many escaped and earned the Spanish name Cimarron (wild). British, French and Portuguese sailing ships were here, sometimes leaving rebellious crew members to join the Cimarrons ashore. Thus did we add the word "marooned"

THESE FORMER slaves and abandoned sailors became pirates under Billy Bowlegs, whose attempts to form a nation of his own are celebrated every year in a June Festival here in Fort Walton.

When the United States bought Florida in 1821 they built forts along this panhandle coast. You can still see them on either side of the entrance to Pensacola Bay. The armed services have thus been here a very long time and are

Mums

Spring is the time to start planting

By Mary Klemic staff writer

Thoughts of chrysanthemums often come to mind in the fall, the time of year when they bloom. But if you want to plant the flowers in a garden or yard, the time to begin thinking of them is now, according to Edwin

The plants have been called "the flower of the East." They have been cultivated in Asian countries for more than 2,000 years. In the year 797, a Japanese ruler made the chrysanthemum his personal emblem. He decreed that only royalty could use it, and that only imperial gardeners and nobles could raise the flower. The Order of the Chrysanthemum was the highest honor the ruler could bestow.

State conference looks at arts funding

By Corinne Abatt staff writer

Another step in the understanding of the relationship between government and the arts was made at a recent statewide arts conference sponsored by U.S. Rep. Bob Carr, D-Okemos.

Congress, told the East Lansing gathering he hoped to generate feedback for National Endowment for the Arts himself and other lawmakers who have budget for 1984 for the entire country a role in arts appropriations.

The 6th District congressman, whose for military bands is $110 million. district extends to Pontiac, held the conference just as the Michigan Legislature and the U.S. Congress were taking up appropriations for the arts.

Sensitivity is an artist's inspiration

This is another in a series of lessons on art and drawing by special columnist

By David Messing special writer

I think most artists are very sensitive people. I know I am. Being sensitive, however, is an essential part of being an artist. The problem with sensitivity is that it often gives way to worry, and I am no excep-

I worry about dumb things. I worry about stray dogs finding their homes, and stray cats finding my garage. I worry about scientists discovering that the combination of diet pop and chocolate can be hazardous to your health. I worry about what it would be like to watch a rock 'n' roll video and understand it. My son's upstairs bedroom light is constantly on. We call it Livonia's eternal flame. I think his bedroom light is listed as a land mark for all incoming flights to Metro Airport. So now when he does turn it off . . .

artifacts

I worry. In the past I worried about burglars breaking into my home. But with our three-year remodeling and addition mess, a burglar would probably feel sorry for us and leave $20 on the kitchen table.

Sensitivity is the crucial part of an artist that causes him or her to look and study objects rather than to only "see" them.

SENSITIVITY IS our life's blood. It inspires us to look, study and express. Expression, however, is insincere if it is not initiated by the personal feelings of the artist. I was once washing my hands at one of those round wash basins in public rest rooms. Suddenly someone bumped into me. Startled, I turned to meet a blind man who was trying to find the wash basin. As he washed his hands next to me I became fascinated with his hands. They were dried, chapped and ruddy by reason of his dependence on touch for sight. I was so moved as I watched this wonderful old guy totter off drag-ging his hand against the wall that I had to express my feelings. Since I had no art materials with me, I pulled out a folded piece of paper and a pen and wrote a poem that started out as follows: "These cold and calloused hands of me are reaching out, that I might see. I wonder what the sighted see, when they turn to look at blind man, me Again I hurry to say I am no writer nor poet but sensitivity blessed the moment I washed my hands next to that old blind man. So sensitivity is great, worry is not. Sensitivity inspires, which by definition means, "to breathe life into" and worry knocks the breath out of you. Sensitivity spurns you on to expression and worry stifles you for fear of failure. I promise you that every picture you ever sketch, paint or render forces you through a hole gamut of emotions. First you are inspired, then you seek expres-

In artwork you next pick a medium that will best meet the demands of your ability and emotion. It is the execution that caused many a picture to end up in the bird cage. During the throes of expression an artist goes through many emotional 'highs' and 'lows." Throes is a good word to use, it means: "the act of struggling with a problem, task, etc." The "struggle" is to make visual on canvas or paper the emotion that initiated the "task." Sometimes my students will say, "Gee, I wouldn't worry over these pictures if I could draw like you." This is certainly not true because I sweat out every picture just like my students. As a matter of fact a teacher stands to lose face by a failure more than a student. Probably the difference in the teacher and student is that the teacher is sure that the task is worth whatever effort is required and the student is unsure that the outcome will reflect his emotion or ability. If your drawing or painting forces you to entertain thoughts of quitting and there isn't an art teacher in sight, here's what to do.

First: walk away, have a coffee, change the baby or watch something educational on TV like "Hollywood Squares" or "Green Acres" reruns. Second: when you go back to your artwork pick it up and show it into a mirror, this will reverse the image and 99 times out of 100 will graphically show your error in proportion, structure or placement of subjects. Third: squint your eyes, this will increase the contrast which is basic for all artwork. Contrast defines the shapes in black and white pictures and reduces the need for outlines. And in color, rendering contrast is essential for not only definition but balance. Remember contrast is the key to color. Fourth: to make necessary changes try placing tracing pa-per over your artwork and trace only the best of your work. Redraw the areas that gave you trouble then if everything looks good transfer to a new piece of paper or canvas.

If none of these tips help, then take a large marker and write across your drawing or painting,
"You can't enjoy winning unless you occasionally fail." Then pin it up on your wall and when you succeed on some future picture you will see how far you have progressed.
