After the polls closed Monday, Superintendent Dr. John Hoben helped log in votes as they were phoned in from the precincts.

Quinn, Walker win seats; millage increase fails

By Emory Daniels

The aborted recall attempt and anti-millage sentiment did not seem to have any impact on how Plymouth-Canton residents voted in Monday's school election.

The request for new millage failed by almost 500 votes but the sole candidate to come out squarely against the tax proposal (Richard Sumpter of Canton) ran eighth in a field of 11 candidates for the school board.

Likewise candidates in favor of the recall or who expressed neutral opinions on the issue placed in the middle of the pack or further back.

Incumbent Glenn Schroeder was defeated, finishing fourth. But his showing seemed more influenced by having to run against three strong challengers than by strong anti-board sentiment.

The request for 1.74 new mills was defeated by 2,722 "no" votes to 2,241 "yes" votes — a difference of 481.

The only place where a relationship existed was amongst absentee ballot voters who voted down the millage almost 3-1 and selected Sumpter as their favored candidate. In all regular voting precincts, Sumpter was not among the top three candidates.

an unofficial vote total of 1,726.

Placing second with 1,403 votes was Lester Walker of Plymouth.

Both Walker and Quinn will serve four-year terms on the school board.

Just missing a spot on the school board was Dean Swartzwelter of Plymouth who garnered 1,241 votes — 162 votes short. Schroeder has 1,194 votes, only 47 behind Swartzwelter.

The order of finish behind the top four were: Karen Murphy, 591; Carol Bollman, 530; Daniel O'Day, 520; Richard Sumpter, 516; Kay Coral, 206; Harvey Faylor, 201; and Chester Liana, 113.

As a result of Monday's vote for trustees, the new school board will have three Canton residents and four Plymouth residents (currently the board consists of four trustees from Canton and three from Plymouth). The new board will have five men and two women, the same ratio as the current board.

Incumbent Flossie Tonda of Canton did not seek re-election this year. Besides the two new faces on the board, the trustees also must elect a new president as Schroeder had held that position.

AS IN PAST elections, the millage was defeated in all voting precincts in the city of Plymouth and Plymouth Township.

Only three precincts (Miller, Hulsing, and Field) gave the request for 1.74 additional mills a majority of "yes" votes. All three are Canton precincts, located east of Sheldon and south of Joy.

Additionally, the two precincts (Gallimore and Eriksson) in which the millage was defeated by a very narrow margin also are in Canton.

This area of the township does have a heavy concentration of newer subdivisions, suggesting a heavy concentration of parents of elementary pupils forming a pocket of school supporters willing to vote in favor of millage.

With Miller being an exception, the more mature subdivisions without school-age students or with secondary students produced the "no" votes.

As in past elections, the rural areas of the school districts and areas with heavy concentrations of senior citizens voted strongly against the millage.

Monday night Superintendent John M. Hoben indicated he had just learned in recent days that the district will receive less in state aid than anticipated. With that news, and with the defeat of the millage, the district's potential shortfall in the budget could reach $4 million-plus in fiscal 1985-86.

One trustee suggested the board ask residents to vote again on a request for additional millage before Labor Day. That decision, though, will await the collective position of the new board as Quinn/Walker replace Schroeder/Tonda and will seek a consensus with incumbents Tom Yack, Elaine Kirchgatter, E.J. McClendon, Roland Thomas, and Dave Artley.

A TOTAL OF some 5,023 residents voted in Monday's election for a voter turnout of 11 percent. As of August 1983 the district has some 46,860 registered voters.

Quinn, the top vote-getter overall, finished first at precincts located in Isbister, Starkweather, Allen, Farrand, Fiegel, Miller, Hulsing (tied with Walker), Eriksson, Field, and Canton High. She placed second at Central, Gallimore, West and Bird, and amongst absentee voters.

Walker placed first at Central, Gallimore, Hulsing (tied with Quinn), and second at Isbister, Starkweather, Farrand, Field, and Canton High.

Swartzwelter carried West and Bird and placed second at Allen. He picked up enough votes for a third-place overall by finishing third at Central, Hulsing, Eriksson, and Canton High.

Schroeder did not place first in any precincts but did run second at Fiegel, Miller, Hulsing, Eriksson, and amongst absentee voters. He ran third at Gallimore, Isbister, Starkweather, Allen, Farrand and Field.

Retiree faces trial in 2 traffic deaths

A 51-year-old Plymouth Township man faces trial in Wayne County Circuit Court on two counts of manslaughter with a motor vehicle.

If convicted, Floyd Daugherty could be sentenced up to 15 years in prison.

The two felony charges stem from the May 27 traffic deaths of a Canton couple, Richard Cameron, 32, and his pregnant wife, Cynthia, 31.

Daugherty, a General Motors retiree, was bound over for trial on the charges Monday by 35th District Court Judge James Garber. Garber also continued Daugherty's $10,000 personal bond.

Earlier police reports that Daugherty had been drinking when he allegedly ran a red light in Plymouth and crashed into the Camerons' car were substantiated at Monday's pre-trial examination.

Thursday's exam had been recessed until Monday, pending testimony from the St. Mary Hospital medical technologist who performed a blood test on Daugherty at the hospital shortly after the accident.

The technologist, Lynn Wooten, testified that she ran a machine test on a sample of Daugherty's blood. The test, she said, showed Daugherty had an alcohol level of 0.16. A driver with a reading of 0.10 is considered legally drunk.

Clothier says no to new city store

Winkelman's will not be moving to downtown Plymouth after all.

Earlier the clothing store had been negotiating with a local Realtor to move into the Main Street space formerly occupied by Plymouth Furniture, and before that Kresge's.

But last Friday Winkelman's reversed its earlier decision and decided not to open a store in Plymouth.

In February, Winkelman's had made a verbal agreement to lease space in the Plymouth Park Center on Main, said Jim McKeon, leasing agent.

"Although an unusually long time transpired in developing all the provisions of the lease," added McKeon, a former Plymouth mayor, "I felt the delays were understandable."

Mike Pollard, an attorney with a practice in Plymouth who helped to draft the lease document, said he felt the negotiations were slow but productive. "At no time were there points of disagreement that indicated that a final lease would not be signed."

Winkelman's had agreed to present a signed lease last Friday (June 8), but

All eyes were on the tally sheet Monday night as Superintendent John Hoben logged in the votes. Watching the numbers go up on the board are: (from left) Nancy Quinn, Kay and Lester Walker, school trustee Dave Artley and candidate Daniel O'Day.

With Flag Day being celebrated today across the land and on all our ships at sea, it is interesting to note that the Stars and Stripes is one of the oldest of the nation's symbols and the only one in the world which depicts the growth of the country it represents.

The Stars and Stripes is allowed to be flown at night in only two places — over the grave of Francis Scott Key who wrote "The Star Spangled Banner" and over the Marine's Monument in Arlington, Va.

The American Flag, as we know it today, is a far different flag than the one that was approved by Congress June 14, 1776. At that time it was to contain 13 stripes, alternating in red and white with 13 white stars on a blue background.

The 13 stars were to represent the 13 original states with a new star to be added with the entrance of any new state that was to be formed.

Over the years since that concept was approved there are now 50 states. It was said to be against the original plan as the flag would look lopsided if all states were designated by stripes. So, the original stripes held but the blue square now contains 50 stars — showing just how much and how fast the country has grown.

Through the years the flag was used and honored in many ways. It wasn't until Aug. 13, 1949, that it was honored with a national holiday when President Harry S. Truman approved a resolution that June 14 be National Flag Day.

What stands out in the history of the Stars and Stripes is that it not only represents the growth of the land but is the symbol of a free and independent nation. It is one of the oldest and in age is right behind Denmark, Great Britain, the Netherlands, Sweden and Switzerland.

IT WAS FIRST FLOWN on a ship in 1793 when Admiral John Paul Jones had it unfurled on his ship, the Ranger, on a trip from Portsmouth, N.H.

In all the history of the flag that has been told in song and story, no official mention is made of the person who designed the first flag. It is presumed that it was designed by Betty Ross and approved by the Continental Congress. But no official mention is made of her, except to state that she made the first one.

The American flag is one of few national flags that is guarded in its use by a lengthy set of rules, both in display and in use.

REACT gets funds

Plymouth Area REACT recently received a $600 donation from the Plymouth Colonial Kiwanis as an initial donation toward the purchase of specialized radio equipment.

The equipment is aimed at increasing notice time to residents in REACT's function of tornado spotting for the Plymouth community.

The radio equipment also can be used for other REACT functions such as search and rescue operations and for crowd control.

REACT is restructuring its organization to accommodate more citizen service rather than fund-raising projects in hopes of increasing membership.

The Colonial Kiwanis encourages other service organizations to join them in helping raise the $10,000 needed for equipment.

Wow! A parade with panache

Despite the sweltering summer temperatures, nearly 3,000 of the township's young and old gathered along Canton Center, Ford and Sheldon Roads to view this year's Country Festival parade — "the largest crowd yet" by parade chairwoman Deborah O'Connor's standards.

"I've walked it every year, and this year I felt people were everywhere. The crowd was savvy enough to spread out more. There were deep crowds in some places, but there were always people," said O'Connor.

More than 1,000 marchers, musicians, clowns, float riders and politicians took part in the parade, which featured the biggest variety of entries (90) in four years. Debuting this year were the Shriners' drum and bugle corps, clowns, Lancers (miniature car drivers), American stagecoach and motorcycle unit.

The Shriners, a variety of floats, four clown units and a record number (seven) of bands made it the "nicest parade yet," added O'Connor.

Not all went well.

The library float, which ended up taking first place in the non-profit-organization category, fell apart after the judging. Sunday's winds were blamed for its demise.

Somehow, an Arabian horse got loose, temporarily creating some anxiety.

CANTON'S SENIOR Citizen's Kitchen Band took the honors in the clubs category. The musical seniors rode in a red, white and blue flower-covered wagon.

Plymouth Wildcat Pathfinders were winners in the youth-group float division, while Bart Berg's Rustic Cedar Lawn Furniture rode off with the business float title.

Canton's Historical Society went all out, entering an old-time Weber Wagon, Roy and Tillie Schultz' Contestoga Wagon, and a stagecoach currently on loan from the U.S. Department of the Interior.

Assisting O'Connor in organizing this year's parade — which cost about $3,000 to stage — were entry chair Sandy Gillig, line-up chairman Bill Simmerer, float chairman Leslie Swartz, police liaison Gary Griffin, transportation/volunteer chairman Mike Coughlin and numerous on-the-spot helpers.

By next month, the team will start from scratch investing the approximately 100 hours of effort it takes to line Canton streets on parade day.

Three-year-old Tiger fan Matthew Henneman gives Canton's parade a discerning once-over.

At attention is Greg Hayter of the First Marine Band, which performed at the New Towne Plaza shopping center after the parade. A summer rain kept the size of the crowd down, and the second performance was canceled.

Rod Hess and his sister Kalin grace an antique 1934 Case tractor in Canton's Country Festival Parade.

The Historical Society entered three old-fashioned wagons in the parade.

O'Hara running for township trustee

Patrick J. O'Hara has filed nominating petitions as a Republican candidate for Plymouth Township Board of Trustees.

A resident of Plymouth Township since 1966, he is a real estate broker, property manager and developer. O'Hara, who has lived in the Plymouth area since 1949, was an operating partner of O'Hara Catering Co. (a venture founded in Plymouth by his father in 1948) before becoming a Realtor.

His civic activities include past membership in the Plymouth Jaycees, a member of the Plymouth Colonial Kiwanis for the past six years, and a board member of Plymouth Area REACT.

A member of St. Kenneth Catholic Church in Plymouth, O'Hara sings in the choir, is on the worship commission, and has been on the parish council for the past five years.

He earned an associate degree in business administration from Cleary College where he was on the dean's list, and was a graduate of Sacred Heart Seminary High School. He is married with two children.

O'Hara explained that the goal of expanding his community service prompted him to become a candidate.

"In addition, my knowledge and background experience would be helpful in directing Plymouth Township's future to maintain its desirable image without losing its character and to continue to provide essential service in a most practical manner."

O'Hara feels the board needs new viewpoints and a better check-and-balance system within its membership, thus insuring that all factors be considered.

instead advised they would not open a store here.

"Naturally I am surprised at Winkelman's decision since their executives and employees freely discussed the future Plymouth store," said McKeon, "and it had been reported in both Detroit newspapers. In addition, Winkelman's reported that survey results on the Plymouth market were very favorable."

"Local merchants and shoppers also reacted favorably to Winkelman's plans to open a Plymouth store. I believe their store would have been very successful and a tremendous asset to the Plymouth business community."

"In the last four months," added McKeon, "I have declined to negotiate with other prospective tenants in view of the verbal agreement with Winkelman's. Some of these prospects have now made other arrangements, and I hope they realize I acted in good faith."

McKeon said he has received a number of inquiries for new business locations in the city and he expects to have the vacant space in Plymouth Park Center leased soon.

New job plan announced

A plan has been announced this week to hire and train 50 unemployed Plymouth area residents.

The announcement was made this week by A-Line Plastics, Wayne County Executive William Lucas, and Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen.

Workers will be employed at A-Line Plastics, a new facility in the township.

The agreement was arranged through the efforts of the Plymouth Township Economic Development Corp. (EDC).

The firm will train workers in skills and retain those completing the training as fulltime employees.

GROWTH WORKS Inc. of Plymouth will aid in the training effort which is funded by the Wayne County Private Industry Council (PIC).

A-Line, which now occupies the former Associated Spring Plant, is projecting a work force of 250 at the township site on Plymouth Road. Of its 250 employees, about 50 will be new hires.

As an element of the economic development incentive package extended to A-Line to locate in Plymouth Township, the township's EDC secured an agreement from A-Line and its parent company (Key International) to participate in an effort to train and hire local unemployed workers.

Preference will be given to unemployed residents, said Paul Chamberlain of Growth Works.

CRITICAL TO this endeavor are training subsidies provided through the Wayne County PIC, said Breen.

The council, using federal job training funds, considers this project as a pilot program — building links between employers, local governments, and the needs of the unemployed.

Breen, chairman of the program review committee of the county PIC, said some $90,000 will be committed to screening, pre-placement and training efforts tied to this project.

Growth Works, the youth service, employment and training agency in the city of Plymouth, will assist in the program's implementation.

Growth Works will pre-screen applicants for A-Line's selection prior to the skill training phase of the program, said Chamberlain, and administer the skill training contracts.

Applications for program entry and interviews will be conducted in Plymouth Township at 1333 Lilley Road. Office hours will be 9-11:30 a.m. and 1-4 p.m.

Applicants must apply in person, be age 18 or older, and live in Wayne County.

JCs seek funds

With Independence Day less than a month away, the Plymouth Jaycees still need financial donations from businesses and individuals to help underwrite the cost of this year's parade.

"Again this year, the Jaycees are appealing for your support," said co-chairman Steve Cox.

"With the support of the community, this year's parade will be the best ever," added co-chairman Fred Eagle.

Parade entry forms may be picked up at Plymouth City Hall or Plymouth Township Hall.

Donations may be mailed to Plymouth Jaycees 1984 Fourth of July Parade, P.O. Box 279, Plymouth 48170. For information, call Eagle at 464-6797 or Cox at work at 453-6320 or at home at 477-2346.

CPA announces bid for treasurer's job

Raymond A. Maycock of Plymouth Township has filed petitions seeking the Republican nomination for township treasurer in the August primary.

Maycock, a lifelong resident of the Plymouth community and 17-year resident of Plymouth Township, lives on Hackberry Street with his wife and four children.

"I feel my experience as a Certified Public Accountant (CPA) would ideally lend itself to the office of treasurer," said Maycock, "as the township moves forward in the 1980s."

"My professional engagements with governmental and 'not for profit' organizations would provide a valuable asset to the elected administration in the evaluation of financial proposals and in the day-to-day operation of township government."

The Plymouth Township Treasurer's job is being vacated by the retirement of Joseph West. Others filling for the job are Republicans Mary Brooks, deputy treasurer, and Trustee Barbara Lynch.

Maycock was employed as director of corporate taxation for Cunningham Drug Store, Inc., and by a local CPA firm for 15 years, specializing in tax and non-profit organizations. He earned his CPA certificate in 1978.

Maycock is past president of the supervisory committee of the Plymouth Council Credit Union, past treasurer of the Plymouth Knights of Columbus, and the Canton Kiwanis Club.

He presently is a member of the board of directors of Little Mary's Hospitality House, Ltd., a non-profit corporation which provides free vacations for terminally ill children and their parents.

Maycock's professional memberships include the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants and the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants.

Driver cited as drunk

Plymouth Police traffic officer Robert Henry said that results from a sample of Daugherty's blood taken three hours after the accident showed Daugherty had an alcohol blood level of 0.10. The test was conducted at the Michigan State Police laboratory in Lansing.

THE THREE-CAR broadside collision which killed the Camerons took place at 10:55 p.m. at the intersection of Sheldon Road and Ann Arbor Trail, just days before the expected arrival of the couple's first child.

Daugherty, westbound on Ann Arbor Trail, allegedly ran a red light at the intersection and crashed into the Cameron car, which was southbound on Sheldon.

Richard Cameron died almost instantly after the crash; his wife and the couple's unborn baby died enroute to St. Mary's.

Testimony at the exam showed there was no alcohol present in the bodies of either of the Camerons.

Both Plymouth resident Scott Wickens and St. Clair Shores resident Thomas Poremba testified they saw Daugherty run the red light. Poremba's car also was hit in the collision but he was not injured.

Police said Daugherty has a nearly perfect driving record, with no previous drunk driving arrests.

Telecommunicating in 1984

NOW YOUR TELECOMMUNICATIONS SERVICES COME FROM A NEW FAMILY OF COMPANIES.

As a Michigan Bell customer, you have been affected by recent changes in the telecommunications industry.

However—with few exceptions—the services previously available directly from Michigan Bell are still available to you... either from Michigan Bell or from one of our new Ameritech companies.

When federal action led to the reorganization of AT&T, Michigan Bell separated from AT&T and joined Ameritech, a new holding company headquartered in Chicago. Besides Michigan Bell, Ameritech's large family of companies includes a host of subsidiaries you may not have heard about, as well as the former Bell telephone companies in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Wisconsin.

How we and these other Ameritech companies may be of service in meeting your telecommunications needs is described in the following.

Basic Telecommunications Services: Residence and Business.

MICHIGAN BELL provides basic telecommunications services including dial tone, flat rate, or measured service, white pages telephone listings, line repair services, and disabled customer services. You can also get optional network services like Touch-Tone and Custom Calling services from Michigan Bell, and business network services such as Centrex and network transmission services for voice, data, and image. And we provide public telephone service as well as long distance service within Michigan Bell's service areas, including optional long distance calling plans.

Equipment: Business.

MICHIGAN BELL COMMUNICATIONS, INC., serves as Michigan Bell's sales arm for business network services, including Centrex. It provides complete business communications systems, offering products and equipment from a wide variety of telecommunications suppliers, including terminal equipment for The Centrex Universe™.

Equipment: Residence and Small Business.

The new CONSUMER PRODUCTS DIVISION of MICHIGAN BELL COMMUNICATIONS, INC., provides telephone equipment for residence and small business customers, with ordering by phone and delivery to your home or business.

Directory Advertising.

Michigan Bell Yellow Pages advertising is now handled by AMERITECH PUBLISHING, INC., the publisher and provider of Michigan Bell Yellow Pages directory advertising, including Neighborhood, Specialty, Business-to-Business, and Travelers' Directories.

Hospital showdown delayed

By Jim Ritz
staff writer

A show-cause hearing on a permanent injunction against closing down Wayne County General Hospital has been postponed to 9 a.m., Monday, June 18, before Circuit Judge Harold M. Ryan.

The hearing had originally been scheduled for June 11, but attorneys for groups fighting the closure asked for more time to take depositions from County Executive William Lucas and his staff on the bid to close the hospital, and obtain county records on hospital operating costs.

They also want Lucas to produce a plan on how the indigent will be cared for if the 132-year-old hospital in Westland is closed.

MEANWHILE, a temporary restraining order issued in mid-May by Circuit Judge Richard C. Kaufman barring further closure action by Lucas pending the outcome of the hearing before Judge Ryan remains in effect.

The restraining order was requested by the plaintiffs after Lucas, citing budgetary reasons, announced in early May plans to close the hospital by June 1 and another announcement that new patients would not be accepted.

Judge Kaufman ruled that Lucas had failed to show how he would provide indigent care if the hospital is closed. Judge Kaufman ruled that Lucas' duty to provide medical care for the needy takes precedence over one to balance the budget. He said it's spelled out specifically in statutory, county charter and ordinance provisions.

Judge Kaufman also said that a specific legal provision, such as the one to provide indigent care, takes precedence over a general one such as the duty to balance the budget.

JUDGE RYAN said the suit requesting an injunction against closing the hospital was originally filed by University Medical Affiliates, an association of doctors practicing at the hospital. It has been joined by the county board of commissioners, patients groups and Local 25 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME) which represents hospital workers.

Joseph A. Sullivan, an attorney for University Medical Affiliates, contends that Lucas doesn't have the authority to close the hospital and hasn't demonstrated that it would be cheaper to do so and send patients elsewhere. Even if it were cheaper, Sullivan said, a 30-day notice is too short a notice for shutting down such a facility.

THE ONE-WEEK postponement of the show-cause hearing was arranged at an emergency meeting between attorneys representing Lucas and groups opposing the closure in late afternoon on Friday, June 8, only three days before the scheduled date.

Representing Lucas, John O'Hair, county corporation counsel, wanted to go ahead with the original June 11 date.

"Obviously, they hadn't produced the records or the testimony we required," said Sullivan.

Sullivan said he was upset by the timing of the Lucas moves, saying the county executive reported having an alternate plan for indigent when he originally announced plans to close the hospital in early May, then admitted the plan wasn't ready at the hearing before Judge Kaufman. He also noted that attempt to end admission of new patients came with only several days notice.

"We want to know their plan (for indigent care)," said Sullivan. "When they announce a plan and two weeks later say it's not ready, all within a 30-day notification period, we want to know what's going on."

O'HAIR SAID an acceptable final hadn't been shaped by mid-May. "Definite arrangements hadn't been made with some (alternate) facilities, but there never was any doubt that no needy patient would go without treatment," said O'Hair. "Now a plan is nearly done that is for more specific than the first one was. In the weeks that have gone by since the hearing, we've come up with what we think will be an acceptable plan."

O'Hair acknowledged that some hospitals may be unwilling to admit the indigent and that others may do so only on a paying basis, but said meetings with the health care community indicate many others are "willing to cooperate fully to come up with an effective program" for the needy.

Lucas says the county is deep into the red on hospital operation. He says the budget is out of balance about $17 million a year, and reports that operating costs run at about $55,000 a day or $1.5 million a month.

The county executive has designated several hospitals as replacements to serve the indigent if Wayne County General is closed, but Sullivan says some of those hospitals have either refused to accept indigents or say they would charge them for services.

Starkweather became district's 1st ward school

(With the closing of Starkweather School as an elementary building, a Memories Day will be held 1-3 p.m. Sunday. Former staff, parents, students and friends are invited to mark the school's 57 years of service to elementary pupils. In keeping with those memories, the Observer reprints the following historical column by Dr. Sam Hudson, author of the column "Past & Present.")

In 1926, School District No. 1, Fractional, included the townships of Plymouth and Northville.

The five-member board of education included John W. Henderson, president, Frank J. Pierce, Ada Murray, Charles H. Bennett, and William Sutherland. The superintendent of schools was George A. Smith, and the principal of the high school was Edna Allen.

The high school graduating class in 1926 had only 32 students, but enrollment at elementary level was rapidly increasing. A census taken in the previous year by the Chamber of Commerce placed the population of the village at 3,877, up almost 1,000 from the 1920 figure of 2,857.

THE SCHOOL BOARD decided to meet the problem of rising enrollment by constructing an addition to the central school on Church Street.

The addition could be heated by the school's existing heating plant, saving the expense of a new heating system. That was the decision which brought a flood of protest from residents of what has been variously called over the years: Lower Town, Upper Village, Old Village, and the North Side.

The North Siders were led by Karl Starkweather, who worked for the Ford Motor Co., and Russell Wingard, who was in the insurance business. Starkweather, a local historian, was the great-grandson of the pioneers who built the first home in Plymouth. He declared that the Plymouth School Board was "unfaithful to the people." Its reason for not building a new elementary school was only an excuse to cover "a scheme to increase the size and capacity of the central school plant."

STARKWEATHER WROTE a series of handbills expressing the views of those who favored the establishment of Plymouth's first ward school.

Three of them were run as paid advertisements in the Plymouth Mail, then published by L.B. Samsen. The fourth was rejected by Samsen who eschewed controversy.

Starkweather and Wingard took the rejected material to a Farmington printer. Two thousand copies, in the form of handbills, were paid for by "thirty Plymouth taxpayers, residents of the North Side and elsewhere."

In the handbill, Starkweather made these points:

(1) The electors of Plymouth had twice defeated a proposition to buy more sites for centralized schools.

(2) The voters, by a margin of 4-1, had declared in favor of a ward school for the North Side.

(3) In not having a ward school system, Plymouth was far behind other communities in the state. Allegan, which had about the same population as Plymouth, had four ward schools.

(4) Midland, "a little up-state town some twenty miles west of Bay City," had six schools situated in four widely separated districts within the town limits, while Plymouth's two schools were situated in a single location.

Starkweather conceded that Midland's population was 50 percent greater than Plymouth, but, in a burst of parochialism, added, "Midland is not now, and never will be, in a position to grow as fast as Plymouth. Plymouth will have overtaken Midland in population within a year or so."

(5) It was not sound policy to spend $20,300 for an addition to the present site, rather than to buy a better site for $8,000, and only for the reason that purchase of the central site addition would save the cost of another boiler and a fireman's salary. The handbill made no reference to the estimated cost of constructing the new school which the North Siders advocated. (It was later built for $156,000).

AFTER THE handbills were received from the printers, it was discovered that the penciled note Samsen had scribbled in the margin ("We do not care to publish this article") had been inserted by the printer at the bottom of the page.

Starkweather told me it was not his intention to have Samsen's note printed, "but, after it was done, it was all right with us. The Plymouth publisher, it would seem, was pro-school board."

Across the bottom of the handbill, in bold-face, Starkweather had written, "Plymouth did not shoot off all her fireworks on the Fourth. There may be some left over for the annual school meeting."

Starkweather and Wingard began their battle with the board because they decided "it was time for Plymouth to have its first ward school, and that the new school should be erected in our end of town. We then looked the ground over, privately and by ourselves selected the site where we believed the new school should be located, obtained an option in the amount of $8,000, and started our campaign. We packed the annual school board meeting in July with citizens from our end of town, using our respective Model T's to do so."

"Finally," Starkweather wrote to past and present

me, "after the school board saw the handwriting on the wall and could perceive which way the wind was blowing. It came over 100 percent on our side. So did the Plymouth Mail. When it came time to name the new school, they named it the Starkweather School. That was in deference to my grandfather, but, secretly and under my hat, I took some of that deference in my own behalf."

ROBERT BEYER, born at the family homestead at 725 Mill, attended Starkweather School where his favorite subject was soccer.

Before Starkweather opened in 1927, Beyer and other north end children had to walk downtown to an elementary school then located in the building which housed the former Plymouth High School (now Central Middle).

Beyer remembers the fanfare which accompanied the opening of the new school. All the children and their teachers formed in front of the high school and paraded up Main Street to the new building on Holbrook Street.

Each child had been asked to write an essay about the new building. These, with other materials, were placed in a receptacle contained in the corner-stone. The plan was to have the corner-stone removed and the receptacle opened when 50 years had passed.

In 1977, when the 50th anniversary of the school was observed Beyer, a prominent local businessman by that time, was asked to speak at the ceremonies.

"They didn't remove the corner-stone," he recalled. "Maybe they thought the building would fall down if they took it out. At any rate I'm glad no one had a chance to see the essay I wrote."

SINCE STARKWEATHER School was built in 1927, the practice has been to disperse elementary and middle schools but to centralize at the high school level.

There was very little controversy when the Centennial Educational Park (CEP) was opened at Joy and Canton Center Roads in 1968, except for a bit of grumbling on the part of those who believed the high school should have remained near the city center.

In recent times some residents have wondered at the wisdom of putting all of the area's high schools at the one location.

Buckle up: Here's why

THE INDY 500 it wasn't. Michigan International Speedway it wasn't. It wasn't even a formula race car.

No matter, it still was enough to turn my skin pale white while my hands went clammy.

I have to admit, I was a bit nervous when they strapped me into a stock race car last Saturday at the Flat Rock Speedway. It was part of a media race event.

The featured guests were Detroit Tiger pitchers Milt Wilcox and Aurelio Lopez. Wilcox was a driver and Lopez the official race starter.

Gary M. Cates

Prior to the media race, the speedway featured its regular racing program. Although the track is small (1/4 mile around), the cars travel fast enough to generate lots of excitement — not to mention anxiety in the novice awaiting his chance on the track.

When the chance came, I was handed a pair of goggles and a helmet. Standing outside the yellow, reworked Chevrolet Monte Carlo, the professional driver told me how to climb into the doorless racer.

I was apprehensive. The car I was about to "prove" my driving prowess in was old and appeared unstable. Somehow I envisioned a better car — something like the one they put Wilcox in.

Nevertheless, I climbed into the one-seater. I was surrounded by metal bars forming a precarious cage — of which I was the prisoner. The dash was devoid of instruments and lights.

Painted on the dash was a message, "Think Finish." Oh great, I thought. Why didn't the message read, "Think Win?" Was there some reason the car wouldn't finish?

"YOU GOT to get strapped in," I was told. I looked down on the floor. Seatbelts came from all directions — like the arms of an octopus embracing it's prey.

All the belts came together into one buckle, about gut level. The helping hands of the professional gathered the ends for me.

"I'll never be able to get out if the car catches on fire," I said to him.

"Don't worry about that," he told me. "Just pull those straps tight so you don't go anywhere before it catches on fire."

I didn't understand what he meant until after the race, when I thought about it.

Now I was ready. My helmet was on, my goggles were in place, and I was belted down to the seat.

The driver reached in and pushed a rod forward. The car was in gear. The cloth net — where the side window should be — was buttoned.

WITH THE engine loudly idling, I looked to the stands. I waved to my wife — who I had just signed as beneficiary in the event I died on the track. The insurance forms were just a track formality, of course.

"Just don't go low on the track," the professional shouted to me, "the car won't take it — it will spin out."

Beautiful, I believe I will "Think Finish."

With that, the race started. The cars were fast. A slight touch of the gas pushed you firmly back into the seat. I tried to stay high on the track — fearing a terminal spin-out.

Close to the end of the eight-lap race, I watched Wilcox hit the wall. Sparks flew. I went low on the track — risking the spin-out — to avoid hitting Wilcox if he bounced off the wall.

When the race was over, I had finished in the middle. Not first, not last, just proud to have "finished."

After the race I thought about the professional's comment on seatbelts.

I used a common argument for not wanting to wear the belts — I wanted to get out after a crash. The professional used common sense to reply.

The first objective is to survive a crash, then exit the vehicle in the event of a fire. Statistics prove people who wear seatbelts have a better chance of retaining consciousness in a crash.

Unconscious motorists stand no chance of exiting a burning vehicle. Even if it takes an extra effort to release the seatbelt, a conscious person has a better chance of getting out.

I guess all motorists, racers and non-racers, should "Think Finish" and wear seatbelts — so they can "finish" rather than being "finished off."

Redistricting: 1 more buzzsaw

THE SQUEEZE is on Michigan Democrats in what looks like a long battle over control of state government.

Less than two years after Gov. James Blanchard took office as leader of the state party, the Democrats' longtime domination of both houses of the Legislature suffered a wrenching setback.

The recall elections saw two Democratic senators who supported Blanchard's temporary tax increase dumped and replaced by two Republicans.

The Republicans assumed numerical superiority in the Senate and that body hasn't been the same since.

THE DEBATE over tax-cutting measures promoted by the Senate Republicans has dominated the Lansing scene.

Republican majority leader John Engler of Mt. Pleasant has led a GOP demand for a dramatic tax cut, even though he and the other Republicans know that the Dem-controlled House wouldn't think of passing the Engler-proposed cut and the governor would veto it. Blanchard, under pressure to evade the tax-hiker image, offered a more modest tax cut.

The newest measure of controversy has been the proposal of Sen. R. Robert Geake, R-Northville, to cut funding of the program that provides welfare assistance to single able-bodied adults. The measure has inspired rhetoric from Republicans, Democrats, Detroiters and out-staters with cries of racism being injected once again by Detroit Mayor Coleman Young.

THE CHANCES of Geake's measure being passed by the Legislature and accepted by the governor are about the same as that of the Engler tax-cut proposal. One suspects that Geake's proposal is either 1) a measure designed to put the spotlight of publicity on the bill's sponsor, or 2) an effort to focus budget-trimming attention on the Department of Social Services spending programs.

Lately the Legislature has grown more fractious as members debate the amount of special aid that the city of Detroit should receive from state government.

So now there are demands on Blanchard to restore some sense of order and harmony in the Legislature.

While all this is going on a new assault has opened on Democratic dominance in the form of a law suit which claims that the 1983 reapportionment plan approved by the Democratic-dominated Legislature is unconstitutional. Oakland County Circuit Judge George LaPlata ruled that it is unconstitutional because it was tacked on to legislation dealing with another matter and thus deprived the public of an opportunity to scrutinize the plan.

THE STATE Supreme Court has agreed to review it in order to avoid chaos in the August primary and November general election. State Senate members are not up for re-election but House members are and their districts would be affected by a decision which would render the '83 reapportionment invalid.

Political experts feel that the '83 reapportionment helps Democrats more than Republicans and Republicans are anxious to see LaPlata's ruling stand.

Of course, the high court is theoretically non-partisan but human nature being what it is, it might be expected that the supremes — with Democrats of good standing in the majority — will overturn LaPlata's ruling and give the Democrats a little breathing room this fall.

The Supreme Court should at the least decline to rearrange district lines until after this election in the interest of electoral orderliness.

That means all the Democratic house members have to worry about this fall is running as members of a party which approved a state income tax increase and as a party in opposition to Ronald Reagan. Those problems might make the prospect of rearranged districts look welcome by comparison.

Betsy Ross and the great history lesson

EVERY YEAR when Flag Day rolls around The Stroller is reminded of the greatest history lesson he ever was taught — and it wasn't in schools.

It so happened that we youngsters had been spending a few days in Philadelphia with Aunt Fanny, our mother's sister.

Aunt Fanny was a history buff and on this bright morning she decided that we should learn more about our country so she planned an all-day trip to the historical sites.

She took great delight in taking us to Independence Hall and once inside that historic building we youngsters started to learn things about our country.

It was in this hall that the Continental Congress met and it was here that the Liberty Bell was located. Aunt Fanny made us place our hands over the big crack in the bell and pray for our country.

FROM THERE we visited Christ Church and she made us sit in the same seat in which George Washington sat when he came to worship on Sundays.

What a thrill that was. The Stroller, in his childish mind, couldn't get over that the worshippers had their names on gold plates at each pew.

But the big thrill was yet to come.

We started back up town and soon were in front of a cute little house and as we stood there Aunt Fanny told us that Betsy Ross lived there and that she was the lady who made the first American flag. The she showed us up the walk and into a tiny little hallway and finally to a room where there was a model, or mannikin, of an elderly lady sitting in an easy chair sewing on a flag.

"That's just what Betsy Ross looked like when she was making the first flag and the one that our country cherishes," Aunt Fanny said.

The lifeless model didn't seem lifelike

the stroller
W.W.
Edgar

to The Stroller's young eyes. It seemed more that she was a living woman and he just stood there in amazement as she was sewing one of the original 13 stars in the blue field. When time came to leave we kids didn't want to go. We were fascinated by the lady who appeared to be making the flag.

AFTER THAT visit we went to Valley Forge where the forces under George Washington spent such a hard winter. That was a sight, too. But somehow, the picture of Betsy Ross sewing the flag was always before our eyes.

The flag she made and the one that was accepted by the Continental Congress has undergone many changes since those days when we had only 13 colonies and there were only 13 stars in the blue field in the upper corner.

We now have 50 states and fifty stars, but the red, white and blue which now is referred to as the Star Spangled Banner, still honors those 13 original colonies by having 13 stripes.

The Stroller has looked at flags from most of the other countries in the world, but he likes the American flag the best. And, even today at the baseball games in Tiger Stadium or the football game at the University of Michigan stadium in Ann Arbor the sight of the flag brings to The Stroller's mind the image of Betsy Ross as she looked that morning in Philadelphia when he got the greatest history lesson of his life.

It's disturbing to regularly read and hear of the low esteem in which the press is held. Here are some recent examples:

● Newsmen were prevented from accompanying the U.S. troops during the invasion of Grenada last year. The general public seemed unaffected by the ensuing debate between government and press officials.

● Between 1980 and 1983 journalist defendants lost 83 percent of 120 libel trials judged by juries (although 70 percent of the verdicts ended up being reversed in the appeals process). Damages in 24 of those cases exceeded $1 million as compared to only one $1 million verdict prior to 1980.

● Public opinion surveys rate journalism as among the lowest regarded professions.

I WAS THINKING about this last week as the Observer & Eccentric prepared to make candidate endorsements before Monday's local school board elections.

Part of the low esteem comes because many persons believe newsmen are careless, sloppy and don't worry about others' reputations. What I observed was far different.

I watched as editors and reporters meticulously evaluated candidates for local school boards. They spent hours conducting interviews, attending candidates' nights, observing incumbents and consulting with community leaders.

Nick Sharkey

After they made their decisions, editors agonized over every word in the endorsement editorial. Was it fair? Did it accurately represent the candidate? Did all candidates have an equal chance to win the endorsement?

When the editorials were completed, they were carefully read by senior editors. Once again, many questions were asked. Was the reasoning sound? Were concrete reasons given for backing a candidate?

Finally, a careful check was made to ensure that the endorsements appeared in the newspaper correctly. Observer & Eccentric staffers checked and double-checked pages with the editorials.

WHY IS THERE a divergence between what journalists do and the public perception?

Those of us in this business don't talk enough about what we do and how we do it. We do an excellent job of describing the butcher, the baker and the candlestick maker. But we rarely discuss how newspapers are written and edited.

Also, few persons understand freedom of the press. A free press is an essential difference between our society and that of a totalitarian regime such as Russia. Freedom to know what is going on in our world is what living in a democratic society is about.

Some like to take advantage of the public's misconceptions about the press to serve their own purposes. They would prefer to operate in the shadows away from public scrutiny. Several proposals were recently considered by the Michigan Legislature which would limit the public's right to information. One would allow public meetings to be held in private homes and the second would keep the public out of meetings when a law suit is threatened.

Justice Patricia Boyle of the Michigan Supreme Court made an interesting comment in a recent interview published in several Observer & Eccentric newspapers.

"The first and most remarkable aspect of our legal system is the U.S. Constitution, and unfortunately surveys show many Americans don't understand the protection it guarantees us."

Amen. Those of us in my business must do a better job of explaining ourselves. But you must learn more about your rights preserved in that marvelous document, the U.S. Constitution.

Only when both are accomplished will the gap be closed between journalists and the public they serve.

House ups spending on staff

Here's how area House members were recorded on major roll call votes May 31 through June 6.

HOUSE

STAFF SPENDING. The House voted, 247 for and 138 against, to spend $1.27 billion in fiscal 1985 on itself and legislative agencies such as the Library of Congress. Separately, the Senate is expected to fund itself in the $300 million neighborhood, putting the total legislative branch budget at more than $1.5 billion.

This bill (HR 5753) raises legislative spending by five percent over 1984 levels. Since 1970, Congress has increased spending on itself by more than 400 percent. Among major 1985 outlays, the bill provides $164 million for members' personal staffs, $38 million for committee employees, $74 million for "official mail" and $308 million for the General Accounting Office.

Supporter Vic Fazio, D-Calif., said House members can assure constituents "that fiscal responsibility begins at home, here in the halls of Congress."

Opponent Dan Glickman, D-Kans., said the legislative branch budget has "immense symbolic importance" with respect to members' will to cut federal spending.

Member voting yes supported the bill. Voting yes: William Ford, D-Taylor; and Sander Levin, D-Southfield.

Voting no: Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, Dennis Hertel, D-Detroit and William Broomfield, R-Birmingham.

STAFF SPENDING. By a vote of 191 for and 201 against, the House rejected an amendment to cut $13 million out of the 1985 legislative branch budget for staff salaries in the House. The vote occurred during debate on HR 5753 (above).

Sponsor Bill Frenzel, R-Minn., called his amendment "a very tiny, tiny step toward fiscal sobriety."

Opponent William Ratchford, D-Conn., asked: "Is ($13 million) going to be cut out of the ability of a member of Congress to deal with his or her constituents?"

Member voting no were against a small percentage cut in speaking for House staff salaries.

Voting yes: Pursell and Broomfield. Voting no: Hertel, Ford and Levin.

MILITARY. By a vote of 298 for and 98 against, the House passed and sent to the Senate a $207 billion military authorization bill for fiscal 1985. This funds about 70 percent of the total military budget, which will account for nearly one-third of total federal spending in 1985.

The $207 billion figure represents an inflation-adjusted increase of about 6 percent in defense outlays over 1984, compared to President Reagan's initial 13 percent request and his fallback figure of nearly 8 percent. It covers spending for weapons procurement and research, civil defense, operations and maintenance and other programs. It does not cover military salaries or construction at bases which are separately funded.

Although the bill (HR 5167) largely satisfies Reagan's request, it delivers major weapons defeats by putting a hold on MX missile funding and omitting money for nerve gas.

Supporter William Dickinson, R-Ala., said the bill responds to a Soviet Military threat that is "greater now than at any point since World War II."

Opponent Ronald Dellums, D-Calif., said the bill goes "beyond deterrence" and has "enormous and frightening implications for human life on the planet."

Members voting yes favored the military authorization bill.

Voting yes: Pursell, Ford and Levin. Voting no: Hertel and Broomfield.

AGRICULTURE. By a vote of 232 for and 164 against, the House approved a one percent across the board cut in the agriculture appropriations bill for fiscal 1985. This sliced about $345 million from the original $34.5 billion pricetag. The bill (HR 5743) later was sent to the Senate.

Despite the cut, the bill increased spending over 1984 levels. And both sides agreed the total spending figure is misleading to taxpayers, because some programs are funded for less than 12 months and will need added funding later.

The bill funds the gamut of farm and food programs. Among major items are $10.9 billion for price supports, crop insurance and related programs, $822 million for housing, electrification and other rural development programs, and $14.7 billion for food stamps.

Supporter Robert Walker, R-Pa., said "this is another attempt to deal with deficits."

Opponent Jamie Whitten, D-Miss., said "I believe in working toward a balanced budget, but we have to be careful" where to cut.

Members voting no opposed a one percent cut in the 1985 agriculture budget.

Voting yes: Hertel and Broomfield. Voting no: Pursell, Ford and Levin.

OU to expand foreign studies, travel

Oakland University has established a Center for International Programs to expand study and travel opportunities. It will have two units:

- A Study Abroad Office to coordinate student and faculty exchanges.
- An Intercultural Communication Program to assist business executives in their foreign trade.

"LOTS OF energy and effort have gone into international studies since Oakland University opened in 1959, but those efforts need to be coordinated and brought to the attention of the public," Carlo Coppola said. Coppola will direct the new center.

The Rochester resident holds a Ph.D. in comparative literature from the University of Chicago, where he specialized in South Asian literature.

He is co-founder and editor of the Journal of South Asian Studies, established in 1963 and considered by many scholars to be the foremost journal in the field.

Coppola is also professor of Hindi-Urdu and linguistics, and chairman of the OU Area Studies Program.

OU HAS OFFERED a major with specializations in Africa, East Asia (China and Japan), South Asia, Eastern Europe and Latin America.

Coppola will seek money from outside the university to help introduce components to the program, which is now being retitled International Programs.

Center units will include the Study Abroad Office headed by Margaret Pigott, rhetoric, and the Intercultural Communication program headed by William Schwab, linguistics.

The Schwab program will assist business executives dealing with Japan, Germany, France, Latin America (both Spanish-speaking and Brazil), China and other countries as needed.

The department of modern languages and literatures will assist the center in offering language and translation services, the director said.

THE CENTER WILL seek outside money for another project: the introduction of non-language and non-literature small enrollments courses taught in French, Spanish and German, Coppola said. Such courses would not be feasible unless subsidized by outside aid.

CUSTOMER INFORMATION FROM GENERAL MOTORS

HOW TO INSURE THAT SEAT BELT USE WILL SAVE MORE LIVES.

START WITH $10,000 WORTH OF INSURANCE FOR SEAT BELT USERS.

Seat belts help save lives. They can reduce both the incidence and severity of injuries sustained in automobile accidents.

Yet in the United States rarely more than 15 percent of the people on the road use seat belts. General Motors has been trying to find ways to improve that percentage. One way is to provide a significant incentive for people to wear their seat belts.

Seat belt user insurance at no extra cost. Every new GM car or light truck equipped with GM seat belts and delivered by a GM dealer in the U.S. comes with a certificate of seat belt user insurance for the driver and any passengers.

For one full year after the first registration of the vehicle, any permissive occupant wearing a seat belt will be insured for $10,000 against sustaining fatal injuries in an accident. The protection is valid in any accident in the United States, its territories and possessions and Canada, as long as the seat belt or child restraint system involved is properly used.

This one-year, $10,000 coverage is being provided by MIC General, a subsidiary of Motors Insurance Corporation—the insurance people from GM. If any vehicle owner should want to purchase comparable insurance beyond the first year, MIC General will also provide

It's a new way of looking at seat belts. So from now on GM will be referring to these insurance-covered systems as "Life Belts."

If people who never thought to buckle up seat belts think to buckle their GM Life Belts, this insurance program will pay off by saving lives.

Buckle your seat belt Life Belt

GM seat belt user insurance could change the way people think about seat belts.

vide information about its availability, and about how much it might cost.

For years General Motors has been equipping its cars and light trucks with seat belt systems that are both comfortable to wear and easy to use. GM has made it company policy for GM employees in GM-owned vehicles to wear seat belts. And GM has promoted seat belt use to the general public in messages like this one.

GM is confident that seat belts help save driver and passenger lives in an accident. Confident enough to offer this $10,000 insurance for every new GM car or light truck.

OCENA AND KARL Johnson of Napier Road, Canton, were in Oklahoma last week to attend son Mark's graduation ceremony. Mark received his silver wings at Vance Air Force Base. A graduate of Plymouth Salem High School, he earned his bachelor of science degree in mechanical engineering at the University of Michigan.

He completed pilot training in the 71st Flying Training Wing of the United States Air Force.

He will go to the state of Washington for three weeks of survival training, then to Tucson for fighter training.

Mark learned to fly a Cessna 140 at Salem Airport while he was in high school. He got his pilot's license when he was 16. Later, he saved his corn-picking earnings and he and his dad bought an old Citabria.

Those silver wings have been a long-time goal for Mark.

HAS ANYONE in the community ever met Jacques Cousteau or been aboard the "Calypso"? If you have, please call Patrick Shipley, 459-4835. He would like to ask you a few questions for a final paper.

JACK WILCOX'S first reaction to his birthday party was, "I guess somebody's having a party at my place and they didn't invite me."

Buzz Ray had invented an excuse to take Jack out in the country to look at some property. As soon as they were out of sight, the lawns and gardens of the old Wilcox House on Penniman at the park were a beehive of activity. Additional folding chairs were put out, bar and buffet tables set up.

A television set was plugged in for fans to watch the Tiger double-header in Baltimore.

By the time Jack and Buzz returned, Al O'Dell, Fran and Doug Kerr, and Ruth Barney had everything ready for the surprise party. The buffet table was laden with food and a goodly number of guests had assembled under the shade trees. One of the first to greet Jack was Norma Cassady, who said she couldn't stay but wanted to wish him a happy birthday.

Friends, relatives, old Navy buddies continued to arrive during the afternoon. And the array of food on the buffet table continued to grow. Norma Ray, Buzz's wife, brought along an assortment of lacy straw hats, adding an old-fashioned garden party air to the gathering.

Norma also brought the special-order birthday cake with a perfect frosted reproduction of Jack's house. It had been on display Saturday in the Town and Country bakery on Penniman, and everyone was hoping Jack would not see it. The cake was photographed almost as often as the guest of honor.

LINDA ANDERSON, Margaret DeFino and Lark Samouellian of Plymouth, and Joy DeFranco of Canton will be aerobicing for muscular dystrophy Friday and Saturday at the Novi Jaycees' Novi Gala Days Festival. Participants will pay $1 for a 40-minute exercise session and there will be a $2 charge for watchers. All proceeds will go to the Multiple Sclerosis Society.

BOY SCOUT Troop 1539 has had a busy spring schedule of activities. This month they are camping and going on a canoe trip on the Rifle River. In May, it was a fishing and camping trip to D Bar A in Metamora. In April, the troop went on a campout and tour of the Wright-Patterson Air Force Base in Dayton, Ohio.

ARLENE WILTSE'S students at Gallimore Elementary School will have happy memories of first grade — especially of the night they slept over in their classroom.

It's a rare thing to have your teacher read you a bedtime story, tuck you in and give you a goodnight hug.

Desks were moved out of the classroom to make room for 27 sleeping bags. The children assembled at the school at 7 p.m. Friday. Six mothers and two fathers were there to lend a hand. There were more volunteers, but they had set a limit of eight parents.

It was an exciting evening. First, they gathered in the school library to see themselves on television. One of the mothers had videotaped their field trips and special activities throughout the school year.

Deadly headache

Aneurysm brings physical, emotional pain

By Diane Gale
staff writer

After a cerebral aneurysm, the victims who survive the war to live still have emotional battles to overcome.

Two Livonia women, Sharron Trembath and Regina Caprara, have joined with Marilyn Lighton of Grosse Pointe Farms to start a support group, Cerebral Aneurysm Association Inc., to give victims ammunition during their toughest times.

All three women have survived cerebral aneurysm operations.

"It's an opportunity to talk to someone else who has experienced what you have," Caprara said. "If (someone) hasn't gone through the surgery, they just don't know what it's like."

THE NON-PROFIT organization is designed to give victims an opportunity to talk about some of the common emotional traumas involved with aneurysms, such as loss of memory, extreme bouts of depression, speech impairments, vision and hearing losses, lack of motor coordination and personality changes.

"I think if I had a group like this, I could have improved a lot earlier," Trembath said. "We have had a problem, and we can help other people with the same problem. God gave us life on this earth for a reason, and this must be it."

Trembath and Caprara beat the odds when they survived cerebral aneurysm operations only days apart from each other in May 1980.

Dr. Saeed Farhat, head of neurosurgery at St. Joseph's Hospital in Ypsilanti, compares an aneurysm to a tire that bulges where it's worn out.

Technically, a cerebral aneurysm is an enlargement in the side of a blood vessel in the brain due to weakness in the wall of the vessel, said Farhat, who performed aneurysm surgery on Trembath.

One in 100 people have cerebral aneurysms, but in most cases there is no bleeding, and the person is unaware of the condition, Farhat said.

"If an aneurysm is found for any reason, you have an operation, even if it hasn't started to bleed," Farhat said.

Caprara's aneurysm never ruptured.

"My doctor said I was like a walking time bomb and that I had to have it done," Caprara said.

ONE-THIRD of the people with aneurysms that bleed don't survive and don't even make it to the hospital, Farhat said.

"The people that do survive the initial bleeding have problems that are stroke-like," Farhat said. "So this kind of organization is very helpful."

"A good number of patients who have had bleeding have many problems, and the organization brings the problems out in the open for the patient to deal with," he said.

At the meetings, aneurysm victims, and occasionally their friends and family members, take each other's telephone numbers in case they need someone to discuss their problems with between meetings.

"I want to help people, and I want them to know that there's someone there," Trembath said. "A lot of times friends are there when you're healthy, but when you're not, they're not there."

Neither woman outwardly appears to have any side effects from her aneurysm, but both say they had to overcome many hurdles, like speech and memory difficulties, to reach their present state.

Caprara, the mother of seven children, and Trembath, the mother of three, attribute a lot of their recovery to constant support from their husbands.

"There's nothing you can do to prevent cerebral aneurysms," Farhat said. "Frequently patients who have aneurysms have a warning bleeding that causes a headache that's not very severe, and people will wait until they have a severe headache."

"The public should be aware that a person who has a sudden headache

'I was looking for someone who had gone through the same thing. I thought I was the only one in the world, and I was thinking, 'Why me?'

— Sharron Trembath

should go to the doctor immediately. It could be a warning that the bleeding of the aneurysm started, and if they see a physician it could be found out and a life could be saved."

The initial headache has a sudden impact and shouldn't be confused with the chronic type of headaches or migraines, Farhat said.

Trembath describes her headache as feeling like someone hit her in the back of the head with a bat.

After her surgery, Trembath learned that Della Reese had aneurysm surgery and at one point hadn't been expected to live. Trembath decided she "had to contact" the actress and learn "more about her miraculous recovery." She flew to California, but the two never crossed paths. But when Trembath returned home, Reese called her, and they talked for 45 minutes long distance.

TREMBATH AND Caprara met each other in 1980 after their aneurysm operations.

"I was looking for someone who had gone through the same thing," Trembath said. "I thought I was the only one in the world, and I was thinking, 'Why me?'"

Trembath saw an article in a daily Detroit newspaper telling about Lighton's interest in helping others who faced what she had been through. Lighton is married to Dr. Jack Lighton, who is a vascular surgeon at Mt. Clemens General Hospital.

The three women met, and the outcome was the formation of the Cerebral Aneurysm Association Inc. The organization is local, but the women say they wouldn't be surprised if it mushroomed into a national group.

The organization meets monthly at different locations. In May, the second meeting, the attendance doubled to more than 50.

The next meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Saturday at St. Mary's Hospital. The guest speaker will be Dr. J.U. DeSousa, neurologist and assistant clinical professor at Wayne State University.

Column cleanup: What I really wrote was ... ?

Since it's spring cleaning time, I have decided to clean up my column and correct some of my past mistakes. So wish me luck, I hope I catch your favorite.

First my apology to the Bart Berg family. It must have been quite a shock as they read in my column that the clan has gathered together to (or so my column said) "re-ors, cabinets and a new paint job."

Needless to say the column got zapped by the "unknown zipper" and somehow was misprinted by no deliberate act, just a mistake. So here it is again, as intended:

I want to mention that Bart and Bonnie Berg are having a terrific time this week as the family has come home to roost. Son Barry, who has been living in Hawaii (poor baby) for 3 1/2 years is finally home for a visit. Barry, who has apparently lost weight (according to Mom) looked pretty good to me.

Visiting with him is Marie Muir, who is getting an opportunity to visit all of Barry's favorite landmarks, like his school they tore down. Sorry about that, Barry.

To add to the fun, daughter Karen Hertz, now living in Florida, came to visit with her long-lost brother Barry, whom she hasn't seen in 3 1/2 years. Karen brought the Bergs' only grandson, David, and their "live-in" summer resident, Theodora. Theo for short, is a rather LARGE Bouvier who summers in Michigan with the Bergs.

I understand that Bonnie got a real treat as visiting family got together and re-did Mom's entire kitchen from top to bottom. That includes new floors, cabinets and a new paint job. Now Bart, how about some new appliances? I mean the old ones just won't do in this brand new kitchen.

I ALSO OWE an apology to the Rotary Club and the Historical Society as a piece I promised on their rummage sale never made print. So here it is, folks, a little late, but sincere.

From the Historical Society and the Canton Rotary Club comes a report on their rummage and flower sale. They tell me they did better than they had hoped, and that's saying a lot considering the poor weather we had.

They did, however, have some big things left over that are kind of hard to store. Such as a 40,000 BTU oil furnace, a big gas oven and stove, some nice "like new" bucket seats for a van, and things like that, including a kitchen

Canton chatter

Sandy Preblich

sink. As this was fund-raiser for a couple of terrific community groups, I think we should try to find a home for the large leftovers. They will discuss price, they just don't have anywhere to store them until next year.

If you may need any of these items just call Bart, 495-0811, or Roy, 453-6084, and let's try and make this the best rummage sale ever.

By the way, if you're still looking for plants — like our Sesquicentennial Flower — they had lots of those left, too. Bart is going to handle those for the Society and Rotary at his place on Michigan Avenue again, offering a very good price for a community project.

TILLIE SCHULTZ tells me they found a wedding picture among some papers and they fear it was placed there by accident. It's a 5x7 photograph taken by "Fox" studios. It is covered in plastic wrap to keep it safe, but I fear this can't protect it from getting lost. So if you're missing such a photo, fear not! It is safe and well cared for. You can pick it up at the Museum. Just call Tillie for information, 453-6084.

BY THE WAY, did I ever plead with you down on my hands and knees (in print of course) to help me with the plans for the Sesquicentennial Picnic?

Well, we are getting close. I still need community involvement planning, donations, execution and participating.

The date is set for 1 p.m. July 14. So mark your calendars and get ready for fun. Even if you can't help out on the committee or any particular job, I need participants for the fun and this is the most important part. All the planning and all the work is useless if there isn't anyone to enjoy it. So spread the word!

AND HOW ABOUT a big boo-boo! A dear friend finally becomes a grandma. They bring me pictures of the baby all the way from Aurora, Ill. just two days after the baby is born. And when I type up my column, what do I do? I don't just misspell the long-awaited angel's name, I give her a new name entirely!

My apologies to Grandma and Grandpa Roberts, Uncle Joe, Mom and Dad Carroll and last, but by birth date only, to the brand new baby girl, Jessica Marie Carroll.

OUR SINCERE congratulations to all the high school seniors, who are beginning what adults like to refer to as "just the start of your life" and seniors like to call the "end of your problems." Give it some time, and then you be the judge. Then YOU try and convince ANYBODY of your decision.

In the meantime, I'd love to hear about your graduation, any parties you've had, and your plans for the future, immediate and otherwise.

A FOND farewell to my Uncle Bob and Aunt Pat Roberts, on their way back to Oregon. They came into town this time for our 25th annual family reunion, which I'll tell you about another time.

However, they are leaving soon and I wanted to say "Good-bye, we'll miss you."

FINALLY, drop everything and get out this week and party, party, party. If you haven't picked up a schedule, get one. The Canton Country Festival is in full swing and the good times are upon us.

How about a few firsts. The Canton Country Festival Rodeo, June 15, 16 and 17; the Bluegrass Festival, June 16 and 17.

We even have helicopter rides June 16 and 17. But that's not all folks, how about the special events for Saturday? Things like our famous five mile run 9 a.m.; pet show, 11 a.m. (register at 9:30 a.m.); watermelon eating, 1 p.m. or tug-of-war, 2 p.m.

Even the Canton Wheels will be there with lots of square-dancing at 5 p.m. And how about the community groups and their great meals, shishkabob at 5-8 p.m. June 15 or the barbecued chicken for our traditional Sunday dinner at 1 p.m. right on through to 6 p.m.? And they've even cut the price.

What more could you ask? So take some time out from the graduation parties all over town and treat dad to a Father's Day Sunday dinner.

See you there. Oh no! Did I forget the cow chip fling? Never!

Hotline set for cataract patients

The Cataract And Eye Care Institute announces a 24-hour Cataract Hotline available for persons seeking information about cataracts and their treatment.

Many cataract victims are elderly, alone and fearful. Often they have been misinformed about their condition because of the myths that penetrate society. Virtually anyone suffering from cataracts can be cured. Modern cataract surgery is safe, painless, takes approximately 20 minutes to perform and requires no overnight hospitalization.

The 24-hour Cataract Hotline is a free informational service of The Cataract And Eye Care Institute serving the public by reaching out to that segment of society suffering from restricted activity and limited mobility as a result of poor vision.

For free information concerning cataracts and their treatment, call 646-4184 or write The Cataract And Eye Care Institute, 18161 13 Mile, Suite D-1, Southfield 48076 for free brochures.

"No one is too old for cataract surgery or for the gift of sight," said Henry J. Spiro, director of the institute.

Hartmanns celebrate 60 years of marriage

William and Lillian Hartmann of Plymouth were honored on their 60th wedding anniversary at a Sunday afternoon open house. Their daughter and son-in-law, Beatrice and Graham Laible, hosted the celebration in their home on Penniman Avenue.

Close friends and relatives, some coming from Midland, Ann Arbor, Mt. Clemens, Lake City and San Diego, Calif., attended the party.

Their granddaughter, Mary Graham Mauro of Portage, Mich., surprised her grandmother by modeling her 60-year-old wedding gown and veil, made of crepe de chine. It was in almost perfect condition.

William C. Hartmann and Lillian T. Heft were married in Wyandotte June 5, 1924. He was born in New York City and she in Wyandotte. They are the parents of a son, William C. Hartmann III of Northville, and a daughter, Beatrice Laible of Plymouth. Another son, Henry John, died in infancy. There are five living grandchildren and one great-grandson.

MR. HARTMANN was mayor of Plymouth during 1948-49 and served on the city commission for eight years. He held several other municipal posts and now serves on the Municipal Building Authority.

He came to this area as a local manager of the Condensite Corp. of America, manufacturer of motor insulation. He served in World War I as a dispatch rider for the Army Motor Corps.

After his return to civilian life, he worked for General Motors, owned a hardware store in Trenton and while there served as a Justice of the Peace in Monguagon Township, south of Wyandotte. Later, he joined Sinclair Refining Co. as a commission representative and retired as general sales manager after 35 years with Sinclair.

Lillian and William Hartmann

HE IS A LIFE member of the Masonic Order and a member of the Kiwanis Club.

Before her marriage, Lillian Hartmann was secretary to the auditor of the Wyandotte Chemical firm. She was active in musical circles and for a time was pianist for the Wyandotte Concert Orchestra.

She is life member of the Order of the Eastern Star and served as its worthy matron in Plymouth in 1942 and 1943. She also held office in the Wayne County OES and served as organist for that organization.

Her affiliations include a life memberships in both the Woman's Club of Plymouth and the Plymouth branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association.

The Hartmanns are members of First United Presbyterian Church of Plymouth and have lived in their house on Blunk Street since 1939.

They went outside and played flashlight tag. A magician entertained them. They had snacks and more snacks provided by the room mothers. They had a treasure hunt with clues that took them all over the school. The final clue led them back to their home room where Mrs. Wiltsie had the treasure awaiting — push-up ice cream cones for everyone. The parents stayed out in the hall while their teacher settled them down for the night. By then, it was 11 p.m.

Breakfast for all was picked up at MacDonald's and delivered to the school by parents.

Rose growers exhibit blooms

The annual Huron Valley Rose Society rose show will be Sunday, June 17, in the auditorium of the Matthei Botanical Gardens. The exhibit is open to all local rose growers interested in entering their roses from 7-10 a.m. The show is open to the public for free viewing 2-7 p.m. The Botanical Gardens are at 1800 N. Dixboro Road, between Plymouth and Geddes roads, near Ann Arbor.

Exhibits in the show will include roses classified as hybrid teas, floribundas, grandifloras, polyanthas, climbers, old fashioned roses, modern shrub roses and miniatures.

Special sections of the show will feature only entries by novices, those who never before have entered an H.V.R.S. show, and by juniors, exhibitors 17 or younger.

Challenge classes are collections of roses of a specified type. Some are all one variety in different stages of bloom. Some are a varied color collection of the same type of rose. And some are a group of different types of blooms.

ARRANGEMENTS this year carry out the theme, 'Round the World with Roses.'

Classes will cover modern, abstract Oriental for March (Metallic Melody) and February (Valentine Vow); traditional for October (Harvest Home), July (Magic Meadows), and January (Swirling Snow); miniatures for November (Autumn Abundance), December (Crystal Chimes), and April (Forest Floor).

Arrangement classes for special groups of exhibitors are: August (Rocks and Roses), for men only; September (Fall Fantasy), for novices; and May (Merry Maytime), for juniors.

Detailed rules for entering The rose show and guide for visitors to the exhibit are available now at the reception desk of the botanical gardens.

The church is located at 6442 Pelham, between Ecorse and Van Born roads.

WARD PRESBYTERIAN

Seventy-five new members will be received at Ward Presbyterian Church in Livonia at 7 p.m. Sunday, June 17. Dr. Robert Woodburn, executive pastor at Ward, will speak on "Structuring Our Lives for Spirituality." Holy Communion also will be observed during the service. Ward offers eight-week membership/information classes four times a year.

'Rebel' with a cause retires

By Diane Gale
staff writer

This year the Rev. Ferdinand Wolber, pastor of St. Genevieve Catholic Church in Livonia, will celebrate two important milestones — his retirement and 25 years since he founded the Livonia church that is now one of the largest Catholic parishes in the area.

Wolber was described as "the young rebel" in his childhood, and according to the people he works with, he's kept some of the same strong-willed characteristics.

"He's known among priests as a man committed to his cause, and who's not afraid to stand up for them," said the Rev. Edward Perrone, associate pastor. "But that's not to say he's inflexible."

"I've learned from him that if you try to please everyone, you please no one, and you become unhappy with yourself," Perrone added.

WOLBER has made friends and foes since he was given the responsibility of building St. Genevieve by the Archdiocese of Detroit in June 1959.

"There's a real sense of satisfaction to meet the challenge given to me," Wolber, 70, said. "I can look back and say I did all right. It was a pleasure to see the parish grow from nothing, and it couldn't have been done without the cooperation of the people."

Wolber realized a difficult task lay before him when he saw the 11-acre plot of swampy, wooded land 25 years ago. The church was to be built between Schoolcraft and Five Mile on Jamison Street. Construction meant some changes in the neighborhood. It called for changing Jamison Street from a dead-end street to a through street and that brought opposition from residents who preferred that it remain a dead-end street.

"Because he is such a strong and able leader, he's had opposition," Perrone said. "He will not bend because of public opinion, but rather act on principle."

Over the years, Wolber has overseen the erection of a church, designed in the shape of a fish; a rectory; an elementary school, including a kindergarten; a convent; and most recently a shrine to the Blessed Virgin Mary.

WOLBER'S accomplishments haven't gone unnoticed. The church has been cited with awards from the city of Livonia's beautification committee for the landscaping and the upkeep of the buildings.

"He makes it a point to come to the school almost every day to see the children," said Sr. Joyce Marie Vandevyver, principal of the school, which is staffed by Felician Sisters.

"Fr. Wolber has had a tremendous effect on the parents, the school children and the Felician Sisters," Vandevyver said. "He is dedicated and sincerely interested in the people he served, and he shows this by the way he's always available for phone calls and conferences with people that are having problems."

Perrone tells a story that he says typifies Wolber's "insistence on quality." The bricks of the church weren't being set properly, and "with his tremendous eye, he spots everything."

Wolber commented about the work "to the right person," and it wasn't long before the bricks were torn down and relaid.

"He won't settle for negligence or second-rate workmanship, and when you demand more in excellence, the tendency is for people to go for those ideals," Perrone said. "Fr. Wolber is a very down-to-earth man who knows reality."

Wolber, who was born in Detroit of German stock, said his first recollection of wanting to become a priest was when he was in the second grade.

"I never had to look for an identity, because I knew what my purpose in life was," he said. "I would never give you an hour of my priesthood: I enjoyed every minute."

Wolber was ordained a priest in May 1940. His first parish assignment was with Nativity Parish in Detroit, where he stayed for five years. The young priest then was directed to enter the United States Army to work as a chaplain. The role took Wolber to the Philippines and various locations in Japan not long after the atomic bombing of Nagasaki. He climbed through the ranks and left as a captain.

AFTER RETURNING to Detroit he served in the National Guard for 14 years and was promoted to the rank of major. Wolber then served at St. Monica's parish on the west side of Detroit. St. Clement's in Center Line and St. Edward's in Detroit.

The experience was to prepare Wolber for the most important task during his priesthood — to found and pastor St. Genevieve.

In a letter that will be sent to parishioners, Wolber said: "Being the pastor of St. Genevieve Parish from the founding days has been the challenge of my life. For the successes, I thank you because all that we have accomplished is due to your charity, dedication and devotion."

"For the failures, I offer my apologies and express sorrow that we couldn't have done more," he added.

In retirement, Wolber plans to live in a Livonia condominium and devote more time to his favorite sports — fishing, hunting and golf. Wolber said he will be available to say Mass at various churches "that need help."

"I'll be on my own time then," Wolber said with a grin.

A joint celebration program for Wolber's retirement and the church's 25th anniversary is planned for Sunday, June 24. A musical presentation will begin at 2:15 p.m. at the church, a Mass at 3 p.m. and a party at 5 p.m. at Vladimir's in Farmington.

The fear of war unites all people

The President calls for officers who know how to deter war. The leaders of the ecumenical movement call for convergence. The rest of us need some help to understand what they mean. For all we know, they might be working against each other.

The president made his request in his address to the 1984 graduating class of the Air Force Academy. "And while you must know better than those before you how to fight a war, you must also know better than those before you how to deter a war, how to preserve peace."

The leaders of the ecumenical movement made their call for convergence with the document, "Baptism, Eucharist and Ministry", prepared in Lima, Peru by over 100 representative from the major Christian bodies of Christendom.

THEY ASKED for Christians throughout the world to engage in discussions on those very issues that separate one from another so that in mutual sharing of faith they might experience a convergence of response.

If the major bodies of Christendom are going to "converge", will that support or come in conflict with the effects of our nation's officers to "deter war"? It all depends.

It will depend on how the President interprets "deter war" and on how the bodies of Christendom interpret "convergence." If the President decides unilaterally on what means our nation ought to use to deter war, and if the individual bodies of Christendom decide unilaterally whether they should accept or reject the Lima, Peru document, then neither group will be threatened by the other.

If, however, the major bodies of Christendom throughout the world decide to sit down together and work through the major issues of division, and in the process, experience a convergence, then unilateral political decisions will turn out to be powerless.

moral perspectives Rev. Lloyd Buss

WHAT MAKES all of this confusing are the President's gestures toward the world community and the acclaimed commitment of world Christendom to mutual conversations of faith, without any continuing concerted effort by either to bring them about.

As in most affairs of life, the issues will finally be resolved by what you and I do. We can read about the need for military officers to "deter war" and the necessity for Christendom to "converge" and try to figure out what they mean.

Or, we can spend some time becoming better acquainted with the other peoples of the world and discover that we are bonded together by a fear of war, a commitment to truth and a love for life. When the peoples of the world learn that, then our leaders will have to spend some time figuring out what we mean.

Danger: shortage of youth job applicants

By Jim Ritz
staff writer

When job openings pop up, employers usually have little problem finding applicants these days.

But the highly successful Wayne County Summer Youth Employment Training Program — scheduled to start June 18 and run for eight weeks — has a different kind of problem.

Too many potential participants assume that they can't qualify for the jobs program for the "economically disadvantaged," and in many cases, it just isn't so, said program director Roger W. Lelek.

"What we really want out of the program is to get people who really need the jobs," Lelek said.

WITH THE JUNE 18 deadline for applications just a week away, Lelek is urging interested parties to call him as soon as possible at 337-4940. Applicants will be placed on a first-come, first-served basis.

The nearly $200,000-plus program, funded with a federal grant, will place 200 youths primarily in jobs with two county agencies — the road and drain commissions.

They will do such jobs as mowing lawns, maintaining the Warren Valley Golf Course in Dearborn Heights, cleaning parks, moving furniture and performing clerical work, Lelek said.

The 200 will come from areas stretching all the way from Hamtramck and Highland Park to the Downriver area, but last year it was strongly representative of youths from the Western Wayne County area.

Each of the 200 youths placed in the jobs will work at least a 32-hour week at $4.17 and can earn $1,067 or more with overtime during the eight weeks.

THE PROGRAM is open to Wayne County residents between 18 and 21 years old who meet federal guidelines for being "economically disadvantaged."

That can include those on welfare, college students on scholarships or supporting themselves with part-time jobs, and Social Security recipients and their survivors.

Lelek stressed that although there are clear federal guidelines on eligibility, categories aren't all-inclusive and leave room for judgments.

For instance, he said, a college student who is supported entirely by his family "might not qualify" if his father is in a high income, like $50,000 plus, Lelek said.

At the other extreme, a student who would be eligible would be on going to school on a scholarship, earning less than $200 a month, having a family on general assistance, and having a father who is disabled.

"Sometimes people assume there's no way they can qualify when there really are ways they can."

Lelek said he'd prefer to have the number of applicants exceed the number of available jobs than to have jobs go begging while people sit home assuming they aren't eligible.

LAST YEAR, the program, an outgrowth of the old federal Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) youth jobs program, put 170 youngsters to work. This year, it's funded for 200, said Lelek, a teacher in the Huron School District who runs the job program for the Wayne County Intermediate School District during the summer.

The program is funded through the Private Industry Council and is managed by the intermediate school district. It is one of nine such programs in Wayne and the only one run on a countywide basis. The others are handled by local school districts.

The program is primarily aimed at putting money into people's pockets, providing an initial work experience, developing job skills and teaching young people to be responsible and spend money wisely.

But it also has potential for permanent job placement. "If they exhibit job skills, our people try to place them in the private sector afterwards," Lelek said. "Our program has always ranked as one of the top ones in the country as far as job placement is concerned. Somewhere along the way, we must have been doing something right."

As a 10-year administrator of the program, Lelek has handled his share of red tape.

But he gets the most satisfaction from a personal touch. "When you see people come through the program, just seeing them turn out well makes you feel good about it," he said.

Three-car crash

A 17-year-old Plymouth male was ticketed Monday for running a red light and ramming a Livonia woman's car at the intersection of Wing and Main. An 88-year-old Ann Street resident, sitting in a third car involved in the accident, was treated at St. Mary Hospital for a head injury. Police said Robert Sadak of Ann Arbor Trail was southbound on Main when he ran a red light and struck a car driven by Monika Taylor, 46, of Livonia. Taylor's car was westbound on Wing. Taylor's car then spun around near the intersection and struck a car driven by a St. Lake City, Utah, woman, who was eastbound on Wing. Plymouth resident Hilda Barnes, 86, was a passenger in the Utah woman's car.

Sunshine expanding in township

Sunshine Honda is planning a major expansion and facelift for its auto dealership at 1205 Ann Arbor Road, Plymouth. The present facility is about 7,500 square feet and the addition will double the size to 15,000 square feet, according to owner Tom Bohlander. "It's going to double our service capacity and enable us to service our customers in a more efficient manner," Bohlander added that he expects to break ground the first of July and plans a completion date for the end of September. Total project cost is expected to be $300,000 and will result in 10 more people being employed. Business will continue as usual during the construction period.

What I foretold, what I mistold

SO I WENT out on a limb one time. Big deal. I had to go and make all those silly predictions at the beginning of the last school year. Well, school's out. It's report card time.

I know some of you have been keeping score, chortling whenever I made a goof. You didn't think I'd hear when you said: "That Risak — what a clown."

Well, let me just say this: Bozo couldn't have done that much better. Milky maybe, but not Bozo.

But no alibis allowed. No excuses. I'm going public with what I said for everyone to see. Here are the misses from that Sept. 8 column.

A Livonia-based team will win the Class A boys' soccer championship, again — Troy Athens dethroned defending champ Livonia Stevenson 3-0 in the state finals.

Redford Catholic Central will reign as Class A state football champs — Right league, wrong school. CC didn't even make it to the Catholic League playoffs, while Birmingham Brother Rice went all the way to the state title.

Farmington Harrison will continue winning in football until it meets North Farmington in the state playoffs — Neither team made the playoffs. Harrison was upset by Livonia Churchill 13-12 and finished 8-1; North ended at 6-3.

Troy Athens, behind Allana Cummings' defense, will reach the girls' basketball state semifinals — The Red Hawks won the Metro Suburban Activities Association championship but lost in the regionals.

First weekend elimination bouts (football): North over Salem, Harrison over West Bloomfield and Chicago Mt. Carmel over Brother Rice — Salem beat North 12-7 and Rice edged Mt. Carmel 14-7. I did get one right; Harrison routed West Bloomfield 39-6.

Harrison and Salem will meet for the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) football championship — Close, but not quite. Harrison made it to the finals, but Walled Lake Central edged Salem in the league semifinals 28-25. Harrison won its second-straight WLAA title 30-0.

The O&E men's golf tournament champion will not shoot under 145 — John Van Vleck of Farmington Hills set a tournament record, winning with a 138 total. Runner-up Kevin Ryan fired a 139.

Vince Bean will catch 40 passes but won't be able to make Michigan fans forget Anthony Carter — Bean, a Southfield grad, didn't catch 40 passes and Michigan's passing game made Wolverine fans wish Carter, Ron Kramer and Bennie Oosterbaan still were around.

Craig Payne will not lose to Tyrell Biggs again; the two won't fight each other again — Payne, from Livonia, has fought and lost to Biggs twice since. They'll battle at least one more time in the Olympic Box-offs July 6-7 at Las Vegas' Caesars Palace.

SO MUCH for misses. I did get some right, too.

I picked Rochester to win the MSA football title (actually, I said the Falcons would tie Royal Oak Dondero), which it did. And Mercy did capture the Catholic League girls' basketball championship, beating Livonia Ladywood 37-33.

Al Iafate made the Olympic hockey team (although the team itself flopped). Mercy didn't win the Class A state girls' basketball title, as I predicted, losing 44-41 to Flint Northwestern in the semifinals.

And Ladywood did win the Class B girls' hoop crown. Farmington and Redford Thurston did not suffer through winless football campaigns, either.

But those were the easy ones. There were two predictions that I'm scoring as right, in a cockeyed sort of fashion.

I FORESAW Fred Thomann's Salem girls' basketball squad making a long run in the state playoffs, which it did, losing to Mercy in the state quarterfinals. I added that it would hurt Thomann's boys' team, which it didn't — the Salem guys won a tough opener at Southfield 62-59 two nights before the girls lost to Mercy.

Still, Thomann's absence will hurt the Salem boys' team. The veteran coach, following a squabble with school district administrators, surrendered the boys' coaching post but will continue coaching the girls.

ANOTHER PREDICTION I score as right was that Farmington school district athletic director Ron Holland would renew the North Farmington-Farmington Harrison football rivalry. That came about, in an odd way, when North, Livonia Franklin and Westland John Glenn dropped out of the Northwest Suburban League to join the WLAA.

That means North and Harrison are bound to meet on the gridiron sometime (by the way, forget that Feb. 2 column in which I said the NSL would remain unchanged for at least two more years).

In summation, I'll make one last prediction: No more crystal ball stuff, tea leaves, horoscopes or glimpses into the future. I'll probably miss that one, too.

The legend of Al White

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

Tales of Al White are told throughout modified softball circles across the country, and with good reason. The knuckleballing Canton resident has a lifetime record of 600-75.

By Chris McCosky
staff writer

COMPUWARE, a Plymouth-based, modified fast-pitch softball team, was playing a team from Mount Hope, N.J., in the national tournament. The loser of the game would be eliminated from the tournament.

Compuware leads 9-8. It's the sixth inning. Up steps a mighty Mount Hope slugger with runners on second and third. The guy has already blasted two home runs. The catcher walks out to the mound to talk to his pitcher. The pitcher has given up one of the two homers.

"You want to walk this guy?"

The pitcher stares at his catcher half in disgust, half in disbelief.

"Hell no," says the pitcher. "I'm going to strike his bleep out."

The pitcher strikes the slugger's bleep out and Compuware wins the game and winds up finishing third in the nation.

The pitcher's name is Al White. He is a living softball legend.

TALES OF Al White are told throughout the Plymouth-Canton and Livonia areas where he plays. They are told in Port Huron, Lapeer and every other stop in Michigan that he's played. They are told down in Miami, in Georgia — any place where serious modified softball is played.

Al White has a national reputation. So valued is he, a team from Florida recently offered him a salary to move south and play for them. He turned the team down. "I appreciated the offer, but I've got my family to think of," he said.

Back at last year's national tournament White's Compuware team is playing a powerful hitting team from Louisiana called the Ragin' Cajuns. The Cajuns know all about this White guy. They know about the wicked hard knuckleball he throws.

"It's not moving. It's not moving," the leadoff hitter shouts ecstatically to his teammates as he watches White warm up.

He steps up to the plate and watches helplessly as a White knuckler dances over the plate.

"It's moving," he says dejectedly to his teammates.

White went on to no-hit the Cajuns.

"He's the best pitcher there is," said Compuware catcher Dave Brubaker, who has been playing modified ball for 10 years.

THE STATS will support that claim. In 17 years, the 36-year-old Canton resident has amassed an amazing 600-75 won-lost record. In three seasons with Compuware, his record is 98-11.

softball

"How did I lose 11 times?" White said, shaking his head.

He has 16 career no-hitters. And he has led two teams to third-place national rankings — in 1978 and again last year. In 1978, White's record was 74-4.

"Al is a team ballplayer," said Tim Hawkins, Compuware coach and longtime friend of White's. "He knows his baseball and he plays to win. He'll get real upset when he's behind."

Hawkins, who caught White for 11 years, is the man responsible for keeping track of White's feats. "He's been named to the All-American team five of the 10 years it's been around," Hawkins said. "One day, I'll never forget it, he pitched seven straight games in one day. Won them all."

White has a bit of Jekyll and Hyde in him.

There's the off-the-field Dr. Jekyll White: "I really enjoy this (playing softball). After the game, everybody's friends. We have a few beers. Everyone's happy."

THEN THERE'S the on-the-field Mr. Hyde White: "There are a lot of guys in the league that I have played with for many a year. But, when they step in the box against me, they're the enemy. If my mother came up, I'd have to strike her out."

Off the field, White is a soft-spoken, family man. He speaks fondly of his wife, Marilyn, and his kids Curtis and Shannon.

"Originally, I wanted to play until the day when my son could be my catcher," White said. "But, I don't think that's going to happen. He's too good a hardball player. I'd like to see him play college ball somewhere."

Curtis lettered in baseball as a sophomore at Plymouth Salem.

On the field, White is the fiercest of competitors. He'll scowl at his own players for making an error. He'll knock down a batter to move him off the plate. If the ump misses a call, he'll be sure to let him know about it.

Last Tuesday, Compuware (6-0 in the Plymouth League) hooked up with second place Total Foods (4-2). It was a bad night for White and his team.

Iafrate hopes to lift Leafs off bottom

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Al Iafrate's agent, Rick Curran, said Tuesday that he doesn't anticipate any problems in negotiating a contract with the Toronto Maple Leafs.

Iafrate, the 17-year-old Livonian and member of the U.S. Olympic hockey team, was selected fourth overall in the NHL draft Saturday by the Leafs.

Curran belongs to the Toronto-based Branada Sports Ltd. and has represented such clients as NHL Rookie-of-the-Year Tony Barasso of the Buffalo Sabres; Rick Vaive, the Leafs' leading scorer; John Barrett and Dwight Foster of the Red Wings.

"We'll be dealing with Jerry McNamara, the general manager," said Curran. "They feel Al is a hockey player with tremendous offensive talents."

"I'd like to think we have a good rapport with the Leafs. Things have worked out well in the past."

IAFRATE, in Montreal last weekend for the draft festivities, was pleased with being picked by the Leafs.

"I talked to them that (Saturday morning) and they showed me interest," said Iafrate, who graduated yesterday with his classmates at Bentley

hockey

High School. "I liked Toronto because they're rebuilding. They have a young team and they need defensemen."

Curran said he wouldn't talk dollars, regarding Iafrate's contract.

"I don't prefer to negotiate through the newspapers," he said. "Obviously, the fourth pick carries some distinction."

"But it's sometimes based on what the No. 1 and No. 2 pick goes for. Every year is different, but the we hope to command respect with the fourth position. And defensemen are very important to the Leafs."

Mario Lemieux, a center from Laval of the Quebec Major Junior A Hockey League was the first pick overall. He was taken by the Pittsburgh Penguins. Kirk Muller, a center from Guelph, Ont., was next pick, chosen by the New Jersey Devils. Iafrate's Olympic teammate, right winger Ed Olczyk, was the third choice overall by the Chicago Black Hawks.

"I CONSIDER Al as a brother and I want to see their family happy," added Curran.

Curran said he first met Iafrate and his family two years ago when Al was a member of the Computware Midgets.

"I had heard a lot about Al when I talked to the scouts," Curran said. "I went to see Pat LaFontaine (of the New York Islanders) play and Al really stood out. I introduced myself to his mother (Alice) and they invited me to come here and talk. I feel the relationship between us has grown."

Iafrate's immediate plans include playing twice a week in the Computware Summer League against college- and pro players, and working at hockey schools.

On Monday, he'll travel to Toronto to meet with Leaf management.

"I think it's nice (Toronto) and close," said Mrs. Alice Iafrate. "Toronto is one of the original six (NHL) teams."

Training camp begins Sept. 15 and Iafrate will be a welcome addition. The Leafs finished last in the Norris Division and failed to make the NHL playoffs.

HE'S AN ACE

Canton's Thomas Cole registered his first hole-in-one on the 125-yard 6th hole at Mission Hills Golf Course in Plymouth Saturday, June 10. Cole used a 9-iron.

EAGLES DUMPED

Coach Charlie Vella was encouraged despite his Plymouth-Canton Eagles soccer team's 5-1 loss to the Dearborn Kickers Sunday.

"It was the best game we've played," Vella said of his Great Lakes Soccer League team. "We're really getting better. We handling the ball better and getting more shots on the goal."

Gerd Looft scored the only Eagle goal. The Eagles are 2-4 and take on Brighton Bonanza Sunday.

NAGY MVP

Carolyn Nagy was named the Most Valuable Player of the Plymouth Canton girls track team at the team's banquet last week.

Jodi Bernd was named most improved, and Cheri Remer won the Coaches' Award. Coach Bob Richardson handed out 39 varsity letters.

ATTENTION KICKERS

Any Plymouth Canton High School boy (grades 9-12) interested in playing varsity soccer next fall should contact coach Mike Morgan at 420-0063.

CANTON 5-MILER

The Canton Parks and Recreation Department's annual Canton Country Festival Five-Mile Run is set for 9 a.m. Saturday, June 16.

The price is $5 for advanced registration, $8 after Thursday, June 14.

Special Canton Sesquicentennial gifts will be given to the first 300 participants. Plaques and medals will be awarded to the top three finishers in each age group. All participants will be eligible for the grand prize — a weekend trip to Toronto.

For more information, call 397-1000, Ext. 212.

ELKS JUNIOR GOLF

The first Plymouth Elks No. 1780 Junior Golf Outing is set for Friday, July 13, at Hilltop Golf Club in Plymouth.

The tournament, for golfers ages 12-17, costs $10 per entry. Register at Hilltop on the following dates: Fridays, June 22 and 29, 5-7 p.m.; Saturdays, June 23 and 30, 9-11 a.m. John Jawor, Hilltop owner, will take registrations.

For more information, call Alvin Tase, 477-4145, after Friday, June 15.

GIRLS HOOP CAMP

Larry Baker, the successful head coach of the Farmington Hills Our Lady of Mercy girls basketball program, will direct a series of girls basketball camps this summer at Oakland Community College's Orchard Ridge Campus.

The camps, sponsored by the Farmington Hills Parks and Recreation Department and OCC, will be broken into sessions for middle school players and high school player.

Two middle school camps will run from July 9-13 and July 20 to Aug. 3, both from 8:30 a.m. to noon each day.

The two high school camps will run the same two weeks, but will go from 1-4:30 p.m.

Baker, who has led the Mercy Marlinis to six Class A regional championships and two state titles, will direct the two middle school sessions emphasizing fundamentals, drills and team scrimmages.

For more information, call OCC at 471-7553.

LIONS FOOTBALL

The Plymouth-Canton Junior League Lions Football Organization will sponsor three teams this fall in the Western Suburban Football League. The Lions play an eight-game schedule.

More than 100 players and 30 cheerleaders between the ages of 9-14 participate in Lions football.

The registration fee is $40 per player and $25 per cheerleader — $100 per family. To become a member of the Lions, call 455-8306 or 397-0597.

Meet the king of the hill

Total Foods hammered Computware 11-4. Both the Jekyll and Hyde inside White were evident.

At times, his knuckler danced like Fred Astaire. At other times, it came in like a grapefruit. At times, White cracked jokes and smiled with his teammates and even with opposing pitcher Ken Casey. At other times he cursed his teammates' and his own mistakes and exchanged unpleasanties with the hitters.

WIN OR lose, White has the respect of everyone in the league.

"I'll tell you what," said Gary Gray a former teammate of White who now plays against him in Plymouth, "I'd much rather play with him than against him."

It wasn't always that way for White. He came to Michigan from West Virginia in 1966. He had been an all-state baseball player. He hadn't pitched softball since the fourth grade.

When he first joined up with Hawkins, he couldn't throw strikes and he had trouble with his delivery. To make it worse, he was given the jersey number of 0.

"The first year was terrible. I was this hillbilly who couldn't throw strikes and I think I was the first person ever to wear 0. I took a lot of ribbing," he said.

Times have indeed changed. Now, nearly every team sports a No. 0. Most times it's the pitcher who wears that number. White, once the most-hooted player in the league, is now the most-admired and imitated.

A befitting tribute to a living legend.

Champ at age 8

It's not easy to think of Jared Miller as an 8-year-old second grader at Farmington's Forest Hills Elementary School — especially when he's on the tennis court.

The Farmington Hills youth swept the Boys 10 division of the USTA-sanctioned Spring Open Tennis Tournament at the Farmington Tennis Club last weekend. Miller defeated Kevin Reid of Whittemore Lake 6-4, 6-2 in the finals.

Miller has been playing tennis since he was five. He plays out of Franklin Racquet Club.

Borgess junior paces area

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Gene Grewe is a modest, silent type of guy. The boys track coach at Redford Bishop Borgess did his job quietly and so did his team.

Loaded with speed, Borgess fulfilled its pre-season expectations by winning the Elks Relays, Observerland Relays and Catholic League title. Borgess also scored more points in the Class A regional than any Observerland team, finishing third at Highland Park.

Area coaches gathered recently to select the top performers in each event. As expected, Borgess took a large share of the spots — three relays and five individual events.

FIELD EVENTS

Jim Holdsclaw, Redford Bishop Borgess, shot put: The senior led all area competitors with a toss of 55 feet, 2 inches in capturing the Catholic League title.

He also won titles at the Class A regional, Oxford and Elks relays.

Although he weighs just 175 pounds, Hanks was extremely strong and quick. He ran the 100-meter dash in 11.2.

Dave Mize, Livonia Churchill, discus: Mize, a junior, was seventh at the Class A state meet and led the area with toss of 165-11.

Undeclared all season until the state meet, Mize won discus titles at Observerland, Livonia City, Hidenfelter, regional and Western Lakes.

He was equally adept in the shot put and was called "one of the hardest workers on the team" by coach Fred Price.

Jeff Felts, Garden City, high jump (tie): Felts, also a junior, leaped an area best of 6-8 in an early season dual meet.

He cleared 6-6 on six different occasions and was undefeated in dual meets.

The Garden City lad was first at Observerland and Hidenfelter, third in the regional and was Northwest Suburban League (NSL) champ.

Mike Meehan, Livonia Churchill, high jump (tie): Meehan finished eighth in Class A with a best effort of 6-6.

Also a junior, Meehan was the individual champ in the Western Lakes, regional and Hidenfelter Relays.

Meehan was also versatile athlete, competing in the hurdles, long jump, 3,200-meter relay and 1,600 relay for the Chargers.

Tim Hanks, Bishop Borgess, long jump: The senior standout recorded 15 jumps over 20 feet this season, including a 21-9 1/2 area best effort at the Oxford Relays.

He was second in the league, second at Spartan and second at Oxford.

Another versatile performer, Hanks also ran a 52.1 400 dash and was a member of Borgess' potent 1,600 relay team.

Jeff Lawton, Farmington, pole vault: Lawton, a senior, led the area with a season best of 13-4.

He was the Western Lakes champ, second in the regional, fifth at the Huron Relays and 10th in Class A.

"Jeff was a co-captain and spiritual leader of our team," said Farmington coach Dave Catherman. "His performances are remarkable considering he only vaulted for two years."

RUNNING EVENTS

Chuck Gregory, Bishop Borgess, 110 hurdles: Gregory, who will attend Boston College this fall on a football scholarship, came back to have a banner year in track after sitting out his junior year.

He was clocked in 14.6 at the Catholic League meet and was the Observerland champ at 15.2.

An exceptional all around athlete, Gregory had the area's second best clocking in the 400 dash (51.0).

Marlon Montgomery, Bishop Borgess, 300 hurdles: Montgomery, a junior, scored an area best of 38.3 in finishing second at the fast Highland Park regional.

He was second in the Catholic League and Oxford Relays. The school record holder was also a valuable relay performer along with Gregory.

Fred Owens, Bishop Borgess, 100 dash: Also a junior, Owens did it all for the Spartans. Area coaches agreed about his worth, voting him Observerland Trackman of the Year.

Besides anchoring the Spartans' successful 400- and 800 relay teams, Owens led the area with best times in the 100, and 200 dashes.

His 10.6 clocking at the Observerland Relays was one of the best times recorded in the state this year. He was seventh in the 100 at the state meet.

The Catholic League champ in the 100 and 200, Owens is also an outstanding leader, according to his coach, carrying a B-plus average in the classroom.

"Fred is a very competitive athlete," said Grewe. "He refuses to accept less than the best ever."

Owens was also a first-team All-Observer pick in football.

Brian Neuhardt, Plymouth Salem, 200 dash: The future appears bright for the talented freshman, whose best time was 23.1 en route to a Western Lakes title.

He also was member of three Salem relay teams, which were instrumental in giving the Rocks the Western Lakes title.

"Although Brian is a very young athlete," said Salem coach Gary Balconi, "he demonstrated a great deal of maturity, strength and willingness to work hard."

Ivan Cotman, Borgess
Doug Plachta, Churchill

Brian Looser, Farmington, 400 run: The junior whiz was undefeated in dual meets and recorded the area's best time of 50.9.

He was also the fastest leg on the Falcons' two speed relay teams and was voted the team's MVP.

The WLAA champion "performed beyond his own goals in the first meet and worked feverishly to become the best," said Catherman.

Looser usually ran four events per meet.

Rick Williams, Clarenceville, 800: A senior, Williams was consistent all season long.

He led the area with a best time of 1:59.2 en route to league and regional honors.

Williams was another versatile performer for the Trojans, running as many as four events in a dual meet.

Ken Dubois, Livonia Stevenson, 1,600: Dubois is an All-Observer pick for the second straight year. His value to the Spartans was enormous, often running three distance races per meet.

He was first in the regional and 10th in the Class A meet in Jackson. His best time in the 1,600 was 4:23.9. His best clocking in the 3,200 was 9:32.8, second best in the area.

Dubois won the Briske Award as Stevenson's most outstanding athlete. He will attend the University of Detroit this fall on a scholarship.

Dave Homann, Garden City, 3,200: A junior, Homann finished fourth in the state meet with an area best clocking of 9:31.5.

He won a number of big events including 1,600 and the 3,200 at the NSL meet, first in the 3,200 at the regional and first in the 1,600 at Observerland (4:24.3).

Homann is the school record holder in the 3,200 and 1,600.

"Dave works hard," said GC coach Clayton Kelley. "He asks for more than I demand. He's very coachable, a super person and a privilege to coach."

RELAY EVENTS

Bishop Borgess, 400 relay: Chuck Gregory, Marlon Pittman, Marlon Montgomery and Fred Owens were virtually unmatched.

They combined for a best clocking of 42.5, which gave them first seed in the Class A state meet. They ended up taking third.

The speedy quartet won titles at the Elks and Observerland relays. They finished first in the regional, second in the league and second in the Operation-Friendship meet.

Bishop Borgess, 800 relay: The same quartet formed a formidable 800 relay squad.

Gregory, Pittman, Montgomery and Owens finished first at Observerland and second in the Catholic League. Borgess was eighth in Class A with an area best clocking of 1:29.8.

Bishop Borgess, 1,600 relay: Ivan Cotman joined Hanks, Gregory and Montgomery to give Borgess a vaunted relay quartet.

The results speak for themselves: first in the Catholic League and first in Observerland; second at Elks.

The Spartans were 3.1 seconds better than the next area team with clocking of 3:26.8.

Livonia Churchill, 3,200 relay: The Chargers loaded up for the regional at West Bloomfield and the result was a second place finish and an area best time of 8:06.4. The team of Doug Plachta, Don Miller, Scott Sinclair and Paul Schwartz also finished second at Observerland and the Hidenfelter relays.

"This team carried us in all of the distance events," Price said. "Therefore, many times they were not put together as one relay team."

"When they were all together, they were outstanding."

Ex-Rock helps Calvin to MIAA crown

By C.J. Rieck
staff writer

Last fall, Calvin College baseball coach Jeff Pettinga was approached by one of the small school's students who said simply he could throw and would like a tryout.

"Our tryouts are open," Pettinga said in granting the student's wish.

Two things that Pettinga noticed about the newcomer, a Redford Union graduate named John Collier, were his experience — he had pitched for two years at St. Clair Junior College and another at Grand Valley State — and his senior status.

Pettinga had neither among his pitchers. Ken VerMeulen, a sophomore from Plymouth Salem, had won four games as a freshman and was the top pitching prospect.

"I DIDN'T know what to expect," Pettinga said of Collier. "I had a young staff, so I figured with his college experience he could come in in relief and help us."

"That was my original intention — that he might be able to fill a role for us in short relief. If we could get through five innings with the starters, he might be able to come in for the sixth and seventh."

Pettinga didn't know what he was getting — not until he added Collier to the squad for the 10-games-in-seven-days spring trip through Florida.

"Our entire pitching staff was going to get some work down there," the coach said.

COLLIER DID, starting twice. He hurled seven innings in his first game, which Calvin lost 4-2, then fired six shutout innings in his next start.

baseball

That was enough for Pettinga. Collier started six games in Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association (MIAA) play and won them all, only the fifth pitcher in league history to record such a feat. He compiled a 2.54 earned run average, striking out 34 in 43 innings to earn MIAA Most Valuable Player honors.

Collier's superb pitching helped Calvin win 11 of 12 MIAA contests, good enough to take the title by three-games over runner-up Alma. What Collier didn't win, VerMeulen did — the sophomore went 5-1 in MIAA play with a 2.33 ERA, good enough for second-team All-MIAA honors.

"Two factors led to his success," said Pettinga of Collier. "He understands the concept of keeping the ball down. He's not a strikeout pitcher and he knows it. He gets batters out by making them hit his pitch, which results in a lot of ground balls."

THE FORMER RU hurler relied on an outstanding slider and a strong defense for his success. "We had a good infield — we only made one error in conference play," said Pettinga.

Collier accepted and filled all the roles Pettinga wanted him to. His pitching prowess was valuable, but his leadership was just as important.

"Looking at all the honors he's had, I'd say the most important thing is the maturity he added to the pitching staff," said Pettinga. "His success at keeping the ball down was so evident, it was like me telling the rest of the staff 15 times, 'Keep the ball down.'"

VerMeulen was one player who benefited from that lesson. "He does not have an outstanding fastball," Pettinga said of VerMeulen. "And he's not a strikeout pitcher — he depends on batters hitting his pitch and a good defense behind him."

SOUND FAMILIAR? But there are differences between Collier and Ver-

Meulen. While Collier depended on his hard slider, Pettinga said VerMeulen possesses a "good curve — and a lot of maturity for a sophomore."

"Ken doesn't have John's slider, and I don't think he can throw the ball as hard. But he has excellent control and he keeps the ball down. He's always going to be around the plate."

With Collier's eligibility used up, Pettinga envisioned VerMeulen "as our No. 1 man next year, with his two years of experience."

In 1983, Calvin finished the MIAA season at 6-6. Neither hitting nor fielding were a problem — the team batted around .320 (it hit .323 this season) and had a solid defense. But in '83 the team ERA was "around 6.00," said Pettinga. This year it was 2.50.

Payne's Olympic hopes rest with knock-out punch

By C.J. Rieck
staff writer

The hammering could almost be heard with every punch Tyrell Biggs delivered against Craig Payne Sunday.

Biggs played gravedigger, nailing the lid down on Payne's hopes to make the U.S. Olympic team by outboxing the Livonia fighter in the super-heavyweight finals of the U.S. Trials in Fort Worth, Texas.

But hope is eternal, particularly in Payne's camp, where the belief survives that he can — and will — beat Biggs and go to the Olympic Games.

Biggs, who has decisioned Payne now four straight times, may have the local fighter laid out, but he's not buried yet.

"I THOUGHT it wasn't a bad fight, considering the injury he had," said Paul Soucy, Payne's coach and the manager of the Livonia Boxing Club.

Payne's injury was a cartilage tear between his ribs. It was the second rib injury he suffered in the past three months.

In March, a sparring session at the Livonia club resulted in cracked ribs. Payne recovered from that only to suffer the cartilage tear while sparring with Tony Tucker in Detroit six weeks ago.

"We were kind of hesitant about even taking him to the Trials," said Soucy. They consulted one specialist who said Payne wouldn't be able to fight for "three or four months," Soucy said.

But Payne told his coaches he felt good enough to go, and the injury did not bother him much during the Trials. He pounded out unanimous 5-0 decisions against Warren Thompson and Nathaniel Fitch in the first two rounds.

WHERE IT DID cost Payne was in training, said Soucy.

"We didn't want anyone to know (about the injury) because they might take advantage of it," he said.

"But it did affect his training. All he could do was road work. He did hit the heavy bag the last two weeks, but he couldn't do any sparring."

Soucy has no doubt about the decision rendered at the Trials, which went to Biggs 5-0. "I think Craig was not busy enough," said the coach. "He got caught in the corners. He needed to press Mr. Biggs and put pressure on him, and he did not do it."

What Soucy figured Payne had to do was knock Biggs out. That will be their aim when Payne and Biggs meet again, at the Olympic Box-offs July 6-7 at Las Vegas' Caesars Palace.

SHOULD PAYNE win by decision July 6, he would fight Biggs again the next day. But Soucy believes that will never happen: either Payne wins by knockout the first day or the Olympic team berth goes to Biggs.

"We'll never beat Mr. Biggs on a decision," said Soucy.

The reasons are threefold, according to Soucy:

• First, Biggs' best weapon is his jab, which does little physical damage but, in the world of amateur boxing, scores as much as a knockdown punch.

• Second, Biggs has a four-inch height and a superior reach advantage over Payne, making his jab that much more effective.

• And third, boxing politics favor Biggs, the heavy favorite and darling of the television networks.

Tax shelters: Buyer beware

Part IV

Tax shelters are not new. Individual Retirement Accounts, Keogh plans, pension plans and municipal bonds — all examples of tax shelters — have been around for a long time.

What is new, however, is that an ever-growing segment of the middle class is getting involved in tax shelters with the objective of reducing or escaping taxes. In fact, sales of limited-partnership tax shelters are expected to total $19 billion in 1984, more than double what they were just two years ago.

IN THE mid-1960s, promoters began pushing shelters, offering investors a chance to "invest" in everything from beef cattle to bad movies.

Many were little more than paper transactions entered for no reason other than to reduce taxes and with no regard for profits. But soon Congress stepped in, closing some of the most outrageous loopholes.

With successive laws beginning in 1969, it determined that shelters had to have "economic substance" or constitute good-faith efforts to make money over and above their well-publicized tax benefits.

IT ALSO declared that investors in most shelters had to be genuinely "at risk," committing their own money or being personally liable for debts instead of signing so-called "non-recourse" promissory notes agreeing to put up most of their money in the future.

The Reagan tax reforms were partly intended to reduce the incentives to shelter income. The 1981 ERTA cut personal tax rates across the board by 25 percent over three years and lowered the maximum marginal tax rate from 70 percent to 50 percent.

IT ALSO created shelters for the masses through expanded individual retirement accounts and Keogh plans. However, contrary to the belief held by many, it also stimulated the appeal of many tax shelters.

The result has been a boon for shelter promoters.

Increases in packaging and selling tax shelters have been accompanied by widespread abuses of these products.

In one shelter dealing with jobba beans, the IRS disallowed big tax deductions on the ground that it takes three years to determine whether a jobba plant is female and can bear beans.

IN ANOTHER situation, a company abandoned the main-frame computer it hoped to develop, leaving investors in the partnership with losses that could reach $25 million even after tax savings. Investors in tax shelters have other horror stories to tell.

One wealthy investor got it between the eyes when the IRS disallowed deductions and sent him a bill for back taxes after the careful deal in which he invested went bankrupt.

In another case, a number of celebrities and sophisticated investors went into a deal only to discover later that the scheme to trade in government securities was a sham.

THE 350,000 tax returns the IRS is auditing for questionable sheltered deductions is an index of the attendant risks of investing in bad tax shelters.

Basically, tax increases, inflation, bracket creep and the growth of two-income families have pushed people into high tax brackets, and they have fought back by investing in tax shelters.

While there are a lot of good shelters around, about the only way to avoid a disaster is to examine closely the performance records of the general partners who put together the deals and to select a sponsor with a proven successful history.

In the final analysis, it is the age-old maxim caveat emptor (let the buyer beware) that will count.

Educational Seminar: The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers and the Coordinated Financial Planning staff will conduct two seminars: 8-10 p.m. Tuesday, June 5, at the Kingsley Inn, 1475 N. Woodward, Bloomfield Hills, and 8-10 p.m. Wednesday, June 13, at the Bloomfield Township Library, 1099 Lone Pine Road, Bloomfield Hills. This seminar will address the following questions: Taxes — how to defer or eliminate them. Investments — how to invest in stocks for growth, income or stability. Real estate — how to find partnerships with excellent prospects. IRA's — where to invest now. Financial plan — for whom and what it offers. The seminar is free, but registration is required. For more details, call 643-8888.

Sid Mitra is president of Coordinated Financial Planning Inc. in Troy and a professor of economics and management at Oakland University, Rochester.

Special investment seminar June 19 and June 27.

Actors deftly perform in modern comedy

Performances of the Spotlight Players production of "A Company of Wayward Saints," a comedy by George Herman, continue at 8 p.m. Friday-Saturday at the John Glenn Auditorium, 36105 Marquette, west of Wayne Road in Westland. For ticket information call 595-6117 or 729-6453.

By Debi Barsamian
special writer

Debi Barsamian

Spotlight Players have done a fine job producing a difficult play.

In this modern comedy, playwright George Herman has isolated a company of improvisational actors from time and space. The actors soon learn that if they perform the scenario "The History of Man" to a rich duke's liking, the duke will pay for their trip home.

The misguided actors squabble among themselves but finally do manage to perform a few historical scenes. Unfortunately, pride and temperament get the best of all of them and the curtain falls with what appears to be the company's disbandment.

In the second act the remorseful actors regroup and try again to interpret the assigned scenario. The emotional fallout that ended the first act has obviously impacted them, so they take a more compassionate route. This time, they depict man's history through the events of one life - birth, adolescence, marriage and death.

DIRECTOR JACQUE Guernsey's interpretation of the comedy is exact. She has succeeded in communicating her understanding of the play to a first-rate cast that performs with warmth and humor.

The marked transition in the entire cast, from the arrogant buffoons of the first act to the caring, reticent individuals of the second act, is essential. Without it, the theme of the play is lost. But the cast responds perfectly, and as the actors learn and become wiser, so does the audience.

All the cast members are consistently good, but two scenes really stand out.

In the first act, Lorraine Parent and Bryan A. Cheever perform as Penelope and Odysseus. The scene is outstanding. The actors' comedic timing is excellent, and their characters are humorously well-defined. Parent and Cheever interact wonderfully in this funny, warm-hearted scene.

In the second act, Susan Reno and John R. Talaske IV perform as young Mississippi hillbillies just learning the rites of love.

EACH IS A mischievous imp that you'll just love. Reno and Talaske are perfectly believable as tentative lovers. They are genuinely funny and innocent.

Tobin Alan Hissong appears as Harlequin, the company's leader. He is a motivating force throughout the play, and Hissong is a consistently dependable Harlequin in a challenging role that he presents with intelligence and insight.

Costumes are great. The colors are striking and contribute to the overall impact of the play. The wardrobe is perfectly conducive to the image of a troupe of actors.

The set also is quite good. It is sparse but artistic. It lends itself well to the actions of a ramshackle company of actors. The use of a portable partition is really effective.

Henry Ford Museum presenting Gay Nineties drama

"Naughty Anthony," a Friday-Saturday, June 15 through July 21, at the Henry Ford Museum Theater at Greenfield Village in Dearborn.

Tickets at $5 are available daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Greenfield Village entrance or at the Museum Theater box office one hour before each performance. A combination package of candlelight dinner in the museum's American Cafe and theater tickets is available to both individuals and groups. For additional information call the Reservations Center at 271-1620.

The play tackles such modern problems as extra-marital dalliances, crimes of passion, bribery and growing up chaste in an unchaste world.

The setting is Chataqua, N.Y., "the only moral town in the United States." Helping to maintain that image is Professor Anthony DePew, who diligently instructs the ladies of the town in matters of moral culture.

'Queen of the Blues' to appear

Koko Taylor will appear at 10 p.m. Friday-Saturday, June 22-23, at Rick's American Cafe, 611 Church, Ann Arbor.

Taylor, who is internationally known as "Queen of the Blues," is touring with her Chicago band, the Blues Machine. She is back in the United States following a sold-out performance at Ontario Place in Toronto, where she co-headlined the bill with harpist James Cotton, and Albert Collins, "Master of the Telecaster."

A recent Chicago performance was filmed for broadcast on Dutch television.

The Grammy-nominated artist is a three-time winner of the title "Best Female Blues Artist," an award presented annually by the International Blues Foundation.

Taylor will be back in the studio this fall, recording her fourth album for Alligator.

Coconut Groove plays at 6 p.m. Friday, June 15, at the Summer Nights series at the Troy Hilton Inn's Outdoor Courtyard.

Musical 'Godspell' to be given

The Lincoln-Center Players will present a second weekend of the musical "Godspell" at 8 p.m. Friday-Saturday, June 15-16, at the Royal Oak Campus Auditorium of Oakland Community College.

Tickets are $4 at the door. Special rates are available for senior citizens and large groups. For more information, phone 967-5792 or 967-5741.

The musical features Gerald Fishanes of Detroit as Jesus and Stephen Ridella of Rochester as Judas. Betti D'Armond, a drama instructor at Warren's Cousino High School, will direct with Bob McKay as musical director. McKay is a former trumpet player with the Mayard Ferguson Orchestra.

With the permission of "Godspell" composer Steven Schwartz, a new song written for the film version of the musical will be presented. Entitled "Beautiful City," the song will open the second act.

Mime, games, children's charades, vaudeville, tap and soft shoe will accompany a variety of songs.

Mature winery sells 3 varietals

Most wineries, at least those of distinction, seem to evolve through time, developing and changing, almost seeming to establish a character of their own. There are those that do not seem to find one. Others do and are successful.

Now entering its 14th year, Burgess Cellars has become a mature, fully developed winery, it seems. Gone are the days when it reproduced a wide variety of wines. Green Hungarian, grenache, chenin blanc, johannisberg reisling, petite sirah and pinot noir — all of these are gone.

Owner Tom Burgess has settled on three varietals and they are the ones he has historically done the best: cabernet sauvignon, chardonnay and zinfandel. Beginning with the 1983 crush, these are now his only wines and, considering the sources of his grapes, it seems a wise choice.

Gone, too, are the class distinctions between his regular issues and his vintage reserves. He and winemaker Bill Sorenson will produce the best they can each year under the Burgess Cellars label.

BURGESS, HOWEVER, plans to continue releasing his second label, Bell Canyon, named after a land piece on the property. But that is another story.

The winery is on Howell Mountain on the "other side" of Napa Valley, to the east. From it, the view of the valley floor and over to the Mayacamas Mountains to the west is an awesome one. The property goes back to the early 1800s as a wine producer and has since changed hands and functions frequently.

Since 1945 it has been essentially in but two hands, those of the legendary Lee Stewart, who later founded Souverain and Rutherford Hill, and corporate pilot-turned-wineman Tom Burgess.

Surrounding the winery on terraced slopes of an extreme rarely seen in California (15 degrees) are more than 20 acres of cabernet sauvignon, cabernet franc (used for blending) and zinfandel. The steepness of the terrain demands some drip irrigation, but the reds are essentially mountain-stressed, producing small berries of intense flavors.

The chardonnay grapes come from the valley locations in the Yountville area, a region tempered to greater coolness by the breezes from nearby San Pablo Bay.

BURGESS WINES have never been inexpensive but are not unreasonable. A large producer by some standards, Burgess has worked so that his size would not mitigate against the quality of his products. Production is some 30,000 cases a year, 60 percent of that chardonnay, 25 percent cabernet and 15 percent zinfandel.

The cabernets tend to be opulent, full of fruit balanced with tannin and the French oak in which they are aged. They are designed for a long bottle life and should be held for several years for best enjoyment.

Because they are also mountain-grown, stressed wines, his zinfandels are of big proportions, too. These wines are rarely described as "class." Rather, "chewy" and "massive" come to mind, but they always carry good fruit character.

Modern jazz for Montreux Detroit

The Modern Jazz Quartet featuring Milt Jackson will appear in Detroit for the first time in 10 years as part of the fifth annual Montreux Detroit Kool Jazz Festival at 2 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 2, at the newly renovated State Theatre in downtown Detroit. In addition to MJQ, the evening will open with Detroit's Bess Bonnier Quartet. The program finale will star Rosemary Clooney with her group including Scott Hamilton and Warren Bashe. The jazz festival runs from Wednesday, Aug. 29, through Monday, Sept. 3.

The Tabernacle Choir is sponsored by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. It has won an international following with its weekly radio broadcasts, "Music and the Spoken Word" (now in its 55th year on the CBS Radio Network), weekly TV broadcasts, recordings, TV specials, earlier tours and command performances at three presidential inaugurations in the United States.

Concert to feature Mormon Tabernacle Choir

The Mormon Tabernacle Choir will make its third concert appearance in Detroit at 8 p.m. Tuesday, June 26, at Ford Auditorium.

Tickets at $6, $10 and $14 are available at Ford Auditorium and CTC/Ticket World outlets.

The Tabernacle Choir last performed in Detroit in 1967, and before that in 1911.

The Tabernacle Choir last performed in Detroit in 1967, and before that in 1911.

Dr. Jerold Ottley, Tabernacle Choir director, will be on the podium during the concert series. Associate director is Dr. Donald H. Ripplinger.

Organ and piano accompaniment will be provided by Dr. Robert Cundick and Dr. John Longhurst.

This weekend,
come see the Rebels, the Yankees and the whole shooting match.

At our Muzzle Loaders Festival, hundreds of Union and Confederate soldiers will be facing off once again. Muskets flashing and cannons roaring, crackshots from all parts of the country will recreate the Civil War in a blaze of historic pageantry. No matter which side you're on, you'll want to be on the front line.

Greenfield Village in Dearborn, Michigan, June 16 & 17.

Pianist performing at series

Kansas City pianist Jay McShann will perform at the Detroit Institute of Arts "Jazz at the Institute" series at 7 and 9:30 p.m. Friday at the indoor garden cafe, Kresge Court. Joining McShann will be drummer J.C. Heard whose past associations include bands led by Teddy Wilson and Cab Calloway. Tickets at $7 are available through the museum ticket office and at the door. For reservations, call 832-2730 during regular business hours.

Rating: $2.

"W.C. Fields and Me" (1976), 12:30 Wednesday night on Ch. 7. Originally 111 minutes. TV time slot: 140 minutes. Rod Steiger stars in "W.C. Fields and Me," a most heartfelt and original movie biography. Steiger vividly recreates the wit and sensitivity of tippler Fields, while Jack Cassidy and Valerie Perrine also bring John Barrymore and Carlotta Monti back to life. Billy Barty co-stars. Rating: $3.10.

ON THE TOWN

"Bedazzled" (1967), 8 tonight on Ch. 50. Originally 107 minutes. TV time slot: 120 minutes.

The highly original antics of comedians Dudley Moore and Peter Cook are, for the most part, lost on the cutting room floor in this overly plotted send-up of the Faust legend. Some wit prevails, though, and, with Raquel Welch also on hand, there are worse ways of spending a couple of hours. Rating: $2.75.

"Footsteps in the Dark" (1941), 1 p.m. Friday on Ch. 50. Originally 94 minutes. TV time slot: 120 minutes.

For a change of pace, try Errol Flynn as a wall-flowerish mystery writer who covertly solves crimes in his spare time. Flynn is marvelous in the unlikely role of an intellectual-turned man of action, and he is ably assisted by sidekick Allen Jenkins. Breathtaking Brenda Marshall co-stars with Ralph Bellamy and Alan Hale. Rating: $2.90.

"At the Earth's Core" (1975), 1:30 Friday night on Ch. 7. Originally 90 minutes. TV time slot: 115 minutes.

Peter Cushing and Doug McClure co-star with Caroline Munro in this delightfully old fashioned sci-fi movie. There are plenty of special effects featuring prehistoric monsters but little bloodshed and certainly no gore. It may not hold the interest of "Temple of Doom" fans for long but, then, it doesn't try to provide 50 thrills a minute. Rating: $2.85.

Glorious glass

Artist turns 'fire and gravity' into works of beauty

By Mary Klemic
staff writer

"People sometimes say, 'Glass is glorious,'" artist Dale Chihuly said. "I just love the material. I like the way it can be blown. No other (material) does that."

As one of the foremost American glass artists today, the 42-year-old Chihuly has reveled in the glory of glass. Some of his recent works will be on display through June at the University of Michigan-Dearborn library on Evergreen Road.

The pieces are on loan from private collections in Birmingham, Bloomfield Hills, Southfield, Grosse Pointe Shores, Dearborn Heights, Detroit and other neighboring communities.

Other recent works by Chihuly will be on display through July 7 at Habatat Galleries, 28235 Southfield in Lathrup Village.

WHILE ATTENDING the opening reception of the exhibit at U-M-Dearborn last week, Chihuly found it difficult to describe his work.

"All my glass is asymmetrical," he said. "I work with fire and gravity and centrifugal elements. I try to bring that out in the glass-blowing process."

Chihuly's art works are the result of a cooperative effort, he said. The artist works with fellow craftsmen who originally were his students.

"I sometimes compare it to film making, like a director to making a film," he said. "I don't make them by myself."

THE PIECES on exhibit in Dearborn are a variety of shapes and colors, from soft rose to vivid blue. One piece may combine turquoise and brown, rose and gray or pink and white. Others are described as red or purple "with enhancements." The largest work is approximately 23 inches wide. Some pieces are arranged in groupings.

Among those on display are samples from the "macchia" series. "Macchia" is Italian for "spotted," Chihuly explained. These colorful works almost resemble cloth with their folds and flowing lines.

Included are two works from Chihuly's "Indian blanket cylinder" series. These were inspired by Indian blankets, as his "basket" series were inspired by Indian baskets. In making the former, Chihuly rolled cylinders of blown glass over designs resembling miniature blankets that he had woven from glass filaments. Two in the exhibit are 5.5 and 18 inches high.

Chihuly's inspirations for art works come from other works and traveling, he said. The award-winning artist has traveled throughout Europe.

"YOU NEVER duplicate it," he said. "I rely a lot on circumstances. I would like to control them, but I can't. You don't know (how a work will turn out) until you're actually done."

"The process is very inspiring. We make them the same way they were made 2,000 years ago. It's exciting to see the glass in such an environment."

In earlier centuries, glass was so prized that rulers of countries went to extremes to try to keep its secrets, Chihuly said.

"No individual artist had the opportunity to work with glass," he said. "In Italy, artists who left were executed. In England, they were knighted. This studio glass movement didn't get started until 1962."

A NATIVE OF Tacoma, Wash., Chihuly graduated from the University of Washington with a degree in interior design. He worked as a designer for architects in Seattle, but concentrated on experiments and projects in stained glass. A year later, he abandoned his career as a designer and worked in Alaska as a commercial fisherman to earn money for graduate school.

At the age of 27, Chihuly had one-man shows in Washington and Wisconsin. He became the first American glassblower to work at the Venini Glass Factory on the island of Murano, Venice. Chihuly started the Pilchuck School on a tree farm north of Seattle with a $2,000 grant. The artist has taught around the country.

U-M-Dearborn Library hours are 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays, 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Fridays and 1:30 to 6 p.m. Sundays.

Putting life into nature art

This is another in a series of lessons on art and drawing by special columnist David Messing. He has taught for eight years and operates an art store, Art Store and More, 18774 Middlebelt, Livonia. Messing encourages questions and comments from readers. You may write him at his store or c/o Observer Newspapers, 23352 Farmington Road, Farmington MI 48024.

By David Messing
special writer

"Look at this, Dad," Adam's little voice rang out. I was turning over the dirt around the shrubs and Adam climbed up onto the porch to show me his treasure.

As fathers often do, I said, "in a minute... just a second, OK, hold on." With each delay Adam reached his hand out closer and closer to my face. Finally I turned to see this huge worm twisting about three inches from my face. Somewhat shocked, I jerked my head back about six inches to better see this trophy. "Boy, he's a beauty Adam," I said.

"Can I keep him?" Adam asked. So I simply told him the old story about him probably being a Daddy worm out looking for food to take back to the Mommy worm and all the worm babies.

With a hint of disbelief, Adam agreed to return him to the earth after he played with him for a while. After five minutes had passed I noticed the worm was looking a little dry, so I told Adam, "Hurry and let him go back into the dirt or he will die."

Adam has a real respect for anything living. So when I said the word "die," it must have upset him. A few more minutes had passed and the worm didn't go into the dirt. "He's just wiggle" on top of the dirt," Adam said.

While I was back working in the shrubs, I heard someone pounding in the dirt. After some time I looked over to see Adam pounding a hammer on the worm. "Adam! What are you doing?" I called in surprise.

With a look of fulfillment he said, "Well, Dad, I didn't want him to die and he wasn't diggin' a new hole so I pounded him back into the dirt, just to help him get started."

Poor worm. When he gets home he will be bruised from head to tail or is it head to head? But giving nature a little help is what I would like to discuss in the next couple of weeks.

AS YOU MAY KNOW by now, I truly love nature. I am fascinated by its simplicity and with closer observation in awe of its complexity. The general balance and beauty of nature calls to me like the spiritual call to a minister. Indeed my paintings of nature may at times cause people to think of the ultimate artist who wonderfully fashioned all that is in nature.

The representation of any living thing, be it a plant or animal, is above all subjects challenging to me. The little touch here and there in a sketch or painting that puts life into it. Perhaps the addition of a highlight that wasn't

artifacts

in the photo or apparent on the model or the elimination of a defect in the subjects skin, fur or color.

There are so many decisions, choices and possibilities that it is no wonder many artists paint only still life and barns.

Let's first look at any forest or group of trees to which there is an overall beauty. But a closer look reveals the complexity and beauty of the individual trees. Some outstanding because of color, texture, size or symmetry.

The symmetrical tree is beautiful in its balance and perfection. The asymmetrical tree is beautiful in its "felt" balance and individuality. One is bristly and short yet another catches our attention because of its smooth white bark and slender height.

Putting life into nature

How unlike the forest are the feathers of a bird? Not that much. There are downy fuzzy feathers, stubby, drab colored feathers and beautifully colored flight feather. The feathers around the head more closely resemble hair than feather.

And again, how unlike the feathers is the hair on a wild cougar? Downy soft fur and hair on his stomach, short tiny hair on his muzzle and around his eyes, long coarse hair on his back and tail. And so it goes on and on, bone structure, hair color and texture, size and life cycle, dividing each animal into their characteristic species.

Flower pedals, color size and texture, trees leaves, bark and height — all things characteristic, all things likewise beautiful.

The artist's responsibility is to faithfully and accurately represent the features that place their subject within its particular family, group, phylum or species according to the artist's level of ability to accentuate the feature or quality that first inspired them about the subject.

The artist should also abstract or select which details to render and which to leave out. Never be limited by the particular model. By that I mean if your particular model has a broken feather, tooth or tail, fix it.

As I have mentioned before, viewers rarely question a photograph, but if any feature seems inaccurate in art work, most viewers freely ask "what's wrong with this part?" So just as Adam "helped" that worm into the ground, we artists must often help nature a bit in our representations of life.

Next week I will offer many tips on wild life and nature drawing and painting. If you have any questions or problems concerning this subject, just call the Art Store, 476-2296, leave your question and first name with whomever (if I'm not there) and I will answer it in next week's Artifacts. I will also introduce you to a new wild life art magazine I bet you never heard of.

● CANTOR/LEMBERG GALLERY

Recent work on paper by D.K. Semivan continues through June 16. Semivan, a graduate of Cranbrook Academy of Art, is on the Wayne State art faculty. Hours are 11 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday, 538 N. Woodward, Birmingham.

● TROY MUSEUM

"Tools of the Trade" looks at the world of the 19th-century blacksmith and farrier, the carpenter, cobbler and shoe repairer, the tinsmith and the lumberman. Hours are 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday and 2-4 p.m. Sunday, 60 West Wattles, just west of Livorno, Troy.

● THE GALLERY . . . AT MAINSTREET PLACE

Watercolors by Linda Wagenberg of Birmingham are on display through June 17. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday-Sunday, 903 N. Main, Royal Oak.

● HILL GALLERY

"Painting and Sculpture" includes works by major, contemporary American artists — Gregory Amenoff, Lois Lane, Lee Krasner, David Humphrey, Katherine Porter, Mark diSuvero, Raoul Hague, Michael Hall, Tony Smith and Richard Stankiewicz. Hours are 11 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday, 163 Townsend, Birmingham.

● DONALD MORRIS GALLERY

Reliefs, sculpture and boxes by David Barr done over the past two years are on display through June 16. Illustrated catalogue available. Hours are 10:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday, 105 Townsend, Birmingham.

● ALAN DOHRMANN GALLERIES

New gallery in Birmingham deals in ancient artifacts, 135 East Maple, Birmingham.

● OWENS ILLINOIS WORLD HEADQUARTERS

Two touring exhibitions of contemporary art glass, organized by Habitat Galleries of Lathrup Village, will be on display through July 4 in the company's Fine Arts Gallery, Toledo, Ohio. The Fine Arts Gallery is open daily 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., no admission charge. A book on the National exhibit by Ferdinand Hampson will be available for purchase.

● I. IRVING FELDMAN GALLERIES

Print retrospective by James Rosenquist will continue through June. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday-Saturday, until 8 p.m. Thursday, 6917 Orchard Lake Road, West Bloomfield.

● SUSANNE HILBERRY GALLERY

One-man show by Italo Scanga should be a charmer. This internationally known artist works in both two and three dimensional art and tends to combine folk art qualities and a very sophisticated approach. Hours are 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday, 555 S. Woodward, Birmingham.

● PARK WEST GALLERIES

New acquisitions from Victor Vasarely along with works by Agam, Erte, Picasso, Altman and others are on display in these huge galleries. Hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday-Wednesday, until 9 p.m. Thursday and Friday, Saturday until 5 p.m., Sunday noon to 5 p.m., 29469 Northwestern, Southfield.

● MICHIGAN HISTORICAL MUSEUM

The show, "Images of Michigan's Heritage," is on display through Sept. 1. Exhibitors, accepted from the entire state, include Livonia resident Audrey DiMarco. Her pastel painting in the show, entitled "Thresher Section 411," was done at Greenmead in Livonia. The museum is at 208 N. Capitol Ave., Lansing.

Welcome to Canton's country-style sesquicentennial

BILL BRESLER staff photographer

Bart Berg brought a ballroom to its feet toasting to Canton Township's 150th birthday at the Sesquicentennial Ball.

The Truesdells, who homesteaded at a farm at Lilley and Ford Roads, were among Canton's prominent farming families.

Alice and Emil Izzo of Plymouth got first dibs on good, albeit sunny, seats at the Canton Country Festival parade.

John and Clara Bunyea, lifelong residents of western Wayne County, were married 50 years on June 4, 1945. Sixty people (including a Mr. Hameral, left, of Detroit) enjoyed that golden anniversary, recalls Plymouth Township's Margaret Bunyea, Clara's daughter-in-law.

For Harriet, Bud and Lester Corwin, childhood was simply swell. Having all the sweet corn you could eat was kind of nice.

Corn is the last thing on most Canton kids' minds these days. Left: Lester Corwin earned his keep on the farm and found out early how hungry hens get.

Shopping centers have sprouted up throughout eastern Canton, creating a contrast to the still-rural western half of the township.

While motorists may not realize it, I-275 at Warren Road is the former site of the Hough farm.

Lining up for a team photo is the knickerbockers-sporting student body of Truesdell School on Haggerty Road. Phil Dingeldey (second from right) was to become township supervisor. Another in the bunch was destined to be elected Canton Township clerk. Can you pick out John Flodin?

ON THE COVER: Observer photographer Bill Bresler froze a moment of Founder's Day in Canton Township with this shot of Scott Larson, 10-year-old son of Renie and Stephen Larson. Scott's dad is a township trustee.

COMPACT TILLER

Powered by a rugged 2 hp engine, the John Deere 216 tills, cultivates and breaks sod better than most tillers in its class. Double action tines till a 16-inch path to a maximum depth of 7½ inches. Unique rear wheel depth bar assembly swings down for transport, up for tilling with just slight foot pressure. Loop handle with full-width control bar lets you operate tiller from behind or either side. Optional tine kit lets you till a 12- or 26-inch swath.

Link to past

Canton is a unique community with its immaculate subdivisions and lush farms that produce melt-in-your-mouth sweet corn.

For most of the past 150 years, Canton was a sleepy farming community. Then, in the late 1960s, came thousands of people seeking a fresh start.

Acres and acres of prime farmland were sold, making way for brand new homes, businesses, churches, schools and roadways. Canton was the hub of growth in southeastern Michigan.

Fortunately, vestiges of Canton's long-

Once an agricultural mecca known as the "Sweet Corn Capital of Michigan," Canton's eastern end has become the site of subdivisions populated by young families. Observer photographer Bill Bresler took this photograph from a helicopter during the 1983 Canton Country Festival — a treat in store at this week's fest for those unafraid of heights.

standing agricultural base remain. Farmers still ply the fertile soil — particularly in western Canton — supplying markets near and far with vegetables and other crops.

Today, as the township celebrates its 150 years of existence, officials and residents are seeking to make Canton special — not just another bland bedroom community adjoining Detroit. Supervisor James Poole often speaks longingly of developing an "identity" for Canton.

What is an identity? Mention Plymouth, and immediately one thinks of cultural offerings and a snug downtown area, complete with dozens of unusual shops. Nearby Northville, with qualities similar to Plymouth's, has stately trees and traditional, often generations-old homes.

BUT EACH community is different, with its own special features; trying to be a clone doesn't work.

Canton's specialness flows from the ready access of both old and new. This mix can provide the foundation for projects which will enhance Canton's personality.

Success will depend on time, energy, money and a plan.

Canton is blessed with friendly, enthusiastic residents who take pride in their homes and an interest in their community. Officials should seek the involvement of garden clubs, civic and service organizations and the newly created beautification committee. Members of these groups have many good ideas and are committed to community improvement.

The township's historical groups are working hard to preserve artifacts from by-gone days. Some members of these groups are longtime Canton residents.

Currently, the historical groups are raising money and furnishing a museum housed in a 19th-century schoolhouse at Proctor and Canton Center Roads. In time, they hope to preserve as a historical area the remaining buildings from the old Cherry Hill community which flourished near Cherry Hill and Ridge.

MEANWHILE, other projects could preserve Canton's link to the past. For example, communitywide events, such as the Canton Country Festival, could feature displays or demonstrations from early farming life. Perhaps farm tours could be arranged, to give residents an idea of the agricultural lifestyle.

Canton's personality lies in its exciting blend of old and new. Both can, and should, flourish.

If it weren't for the wires and modern tractor in this photograph taken in front of the Cherry Hill Methodist Church, this could pass for a sight commonly seen by the likes of Henry Ford, who in the early 1900s built a plant nearby on Ridge Road in Canton.

From the gridiron and hatchery he came

the

W.W.
Edgar

From the depths of despair to the peak of success and contentment — that's the route John Flodin took on life's highway that eventually brought him to the township clerk's office in the big new township seat of government.

Sitting in his office, he smilingly recalls the quirks that marked his life, including his stint as an employee of a chicken hatchery.

"I have lived an odd sort of life before I landed here," he confided the other afternoon, "and I am content to remain here the rest of my working days if the people still want me."

From birth, his life has been unusual. While he was born in Providence Hospital 53 years ago, his home was in Canton.

"And would you believe," he said, "my one big ambition as a young fellow was to be a football star and possibly go to the pro leagues?"

He was graduated from Wayne High School in 1938 and with his diploma he had a football scholarship at the University of Detroit.

He was a center and played enough that the college scouts looked him over

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

Canton Clerk John Flodin is to Canton what apple pie is to America. The township's "father figure" now occupies a comfy chair at township hall — but he took some hard knocks getting there.

and Gus Dorais, the famed Notre Dame quarterback, who, with Knute Rockne, gave the forward pass its real start in college football, landed him.

"I was so proud," he went on, "first because I had the scholarship and then to think that I was going to play for so famous a coach as Gus Dorais."

"But all my dreams faded when I started practice. It was during the time that Vince Banonis, the star of Catholic Central High School, reported. He was a giant of a fellow and later became a member of the official All-America team, and then pro All-America."

"I was just unfortunate that I was a center and Banonis was the fellow I had to beat for the job.

"I didn't make it and when I failed, my scholarship also was lifted. Never was I so downcast and forlorn. My one big dream was broken and I was a broken-hearted young fellow," said the Canton clerk.

IT WAS in that frame of mind that he followed many others and landed a job with the Ford Motor Co. He remained there until 1946 and now laughingly recalls, "I worked for 35 cents an hour."

Feeling that he was not fitted for that sort of work any longer, Flodin accepted an invitation from his aunt and uncle to join them at the chicken hatchery. It turned out that he was proud of that position and still likes to emphasize "our hatchery had a capacity of 52,000 eggs and could produce 5,000 chicks twice a week."

It was considered quite a hatchery, but it still was not the type of work he wanted for the rest of his life. He admits he liked chickens — but not that much.

BY THE TIME 1953 rolled around, he got the idea that work in government would be more to his liking.

"I landed a job as a handyman around the township offices. I did most everything that had to be done and really the job was well-named when it was called a handy man's role," said Flodin, who became so well-acquainted with the work of the township government that he was elected township clerk and has been there ever since.

In 1942, with the security of a political position, he married his schooldays sweetheart. They have one daughter and three grandchildren.

Along with the love he has for the grandchildren he also has real hobby — collecting pictures of basketball stars. He proudly shows the pictures he has hung on the walls of his office to all visitors — and most of the present basketball heroes in full color.

HE HAS no plans to retire — even though he isn't far from the retirement age of 65.

"I am perfectly content here," he says, "and it sure is ample reward for the heartbreak I suffered when I didn't make the football team at the University of Detroit. And I was proud to see Banonis, the player I couldn't beat, make the All-American team. It isn't every young high school star who can boast that it took an All-American to beat him out of place on the varsity."

"I am perfectly contented and will remain here as long as the people of Canton want me."

A stadium in Canton by 2034?

Is there a sports stadium in Canton's future?

Could be.

That was the answer given by John Flodin, township clerk, as he peered out over the wide expanse of vacant property behind the township building.

"There is plenty of room," he said, "and it would be in a fine location to draw spectators from all parts of southeast Michigan. And we are not very far away from Ohio."

"In fact, we might draw many of the football and basketball fans who now patronize the Silverdome in Pontiac."

Flodin called attention to the fact that the township is not in the real-estate business and has no plans to cut up the vacant areas into small lots. So a stadium with a parking lot could be ideal.

There is a precedent for Canton as a sports center in that a "softball city" with multiple playing areas is only a short distance from town hall. It is over on Michigan Avenue and doing quite well.

So, it is possible that some day, maybe not in the immediate future, there will be a sports stadium on this property.

Congrats: they keep pouring in

Our customary displays of cards and gifts signal a recent, ongoing, or future celebration.

At Christmas we hang the season's greetings from red and green ribbon and leave our opened gifts for all to see under the tree.

As birthday cards arrive, we set them on the mantle or perhaps the bookshelf. And if we are lucky enough to receive any gifts we tend to remove the top and fold back the tissue so that other well-wishers see the sharp tie or chic sweater we have just gotten.

The many cards, gifts, and greetings the township has received, in honor of its 150th birthday, are on display at the township hall (1150 S. Canton Center Rd.) for Canton natives and visitors to view.

The salutations, displayed in a showcase donated to Canton Township by the Wayne Bank in honor of its sesquicentennial celebration, come from various sources. The majority come from other Cantons in the United States. A total of seventeen Cantons sent congratulations, historical facts and memorabilia in response to Sesquicentennial Chairman Mary Dingeldey's request for information about Canton's sister cities.

Among the gifts sent is a rather large gold, white, and purple flag that alludes to the agricultural background of Canton, Minn. and a commemorative plate that celebrates that town's 1979 centennial.

A NUMBER of the Cantons sent rather in-depth historical backgrounds.

The borough of Canton, Penn. has perhaps the most interesting one.

The town grew up around a spring with legendary curative powers. People with health afflictions sought out Minnequa Springs, named after an Indian chieftain's daughter, to heal their ailments.

Eventually a resort was built around the spring in the tradition of European spas. The resort attracted many people to vacation and eventually to permanently locate in Canton. One of the most noted vacationers at Minnequa Springs was Rev. Phillip Brooks whose hymn "Oh Little Town of Bethlehem" was believed to have been inspired by the lights of Canton he looked down upon from the resort's vantage point.

Some of the birthday messages:

• From Canton, Ga. which celebrated its sesquicentennial last September comes the message, "We rejoice with you in having reached this significant point in your history!"

• Canton, Mo. strongly recommends that Canton, Mich. "Go hog wild all of 1984!"

• From the Michigan State Legislature comes a House resolution that states Canton's sesquicentennial is a "civic milestone" and "an occasion to reflect upon and rejoice in 150 years of growth and prosperity."

We involve ourselves in the celebration of a friend or relative's birthday by admiring his gifts or reading his cards. The showcase in the Township Hall lobby presents an opportunity to join in Canton's 150th birthday in a similar way.

A Newcomer: The steamer Vermont. She has Ericson's propellers instead of the ordinary paddle wheel, and travels at the rate of 7 miles an hour.

Testimonials to the past still stand

For many of us, the word "history" brings to mind dry lectures endured throughout school. Endless names, dates and obscure battles often seemed to hold little relevance for young minds.

But when you stop to consider the history related to where we are living, it takes on a new dimension.

Doesn't it pique your interest to wonder how the roads you drive got their names? Wouldn't it be fascinating if you could take off in a time machine and go back 150 years to visit the first settlers in Canton? Those early farmers led lives so different from our own, and yet they laid the ground work for what our community is today.

TIME MACHINES, unfortunately, aren't available yet, but if you take the time to talk to a few of Canton's older residents, you may find our history is not a dry subject at all.

One need only stop in at the Dennis Market at 6104 Canton Center Road to rendezvous with the past. It's a quaint, comfortable old market that Colburn V. Dennis Jr. will tell you his father built in 1928.

At that time, Ford Road ended at Canton Center Road, putting the Dennis store in a prime location for traffic headed down Canton Center on the journey to Ann Arbor.

AS NEW businesses and modern houses go up around it, the Dennis Market still offers customers service and sincere friendliness often missing in their modern day counterparts.

Many of us who have lived in Canton for only a few years fail to realize that many families have been here for generations.

They have seen Canton change from a farming community that was once "The Sweet Corn Capital of Michigan" to a booming community of suburban commuters.

Tillie Schultz, who has lived on a Lilley Road farm with her husband Roy for 39 years, has taken a special interest in Canton's early history and its pioneer settlers.

SCHULTZ, ALONG with Joan Palmer, is compiling information for a book on Canton's early families. Schultz shows great enthusiasm about their project as she talks of the threshing bees that were a common practice until 1940 when the combine was introduced in Canton.

"All the neighbors would come to help thresh the grain with threshing machines owned by Roy Wilkie while the women would cook and bake," Schultz said.

"The main source of entertainment was community dances and playing euchre or pedro, two very popular early card games.

Schultz and Palmer are interviewing longtime Canton families in order to include their memories and histories in the book, which they hope to have written in approximately two years.

OUR SESQUICENTENNIAL celebration and its ongoing projects have revived an interest in Canton's history while also bringing together old and new residents. It gives one a sense of "community togetherness" as we review our township's past and look forward to a confident future.

Quaint and comfortable, the Dennis Market on Canton Center Road dates to 1928 when grocer Colburn V. Dennis' father constructed it.

This is the year that we can all reap the benefits of a positive community effort by becoming involved. Whether you volunteer for one of the many projects planned, or just attend a few of the many events with your family, you will find that the people of Canton are friendly. That is something we can all be proud of.

'A sacred duty which all men owe . . .'

In a community of modern houses and many new and thriving businesses, it is somewhat incongruous to find that within Canton there are at least four cemeteries that are well over 100 years old.

The oldest of these is the Downer Cemetery located just off Michigan Avenue, east of Haggerty. Sadly, the Downer Cemetery has fallen victim to the ravages of time and the elements. The survivors who once cared for these graves have died off or moved on, leaving behind a crumbling testimonial to early Canton settlers.

Although this particular cemetery has not had a burial in over 30 years, one can still feel moved reading the fading epitaphs that are so prevalent throughout the grounds.

FOR MATTIE Packard, who died at age 19 in 1875,

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

In Canton's early days, many children never saw their teen-age years. It wasn't uncommon for their parents to live only until their 20s or 30s.

it was written: "Loved one again we hope to meet thee; When the day of life is fled; Then in heaven with joy to greet thee; Where no farewell tear is shed."

Unfortunately, many of these lovely epitaphs are lost forever due to the softness of the stone often times used for headstones back in those early days.

The Sheldon Cemetery, located on Sheldon Road near Geddes, gives an altogether different impression as one walks through. It is still a lovely cemetery with recent graves along with the historically interesting old ones.

WILLIAM SMITH, who came from England in the early 1800's, built a log cabin west of Sheldon. The site of the Sheldon Cemetery was, at that time, William Smith's potato patch. In 1835 George Palmer asked if he could bury his infant son, Grant Palmer, in Smith's potato patch — thus converting it to a cemetery.

Smith's own 23-year-old son, John, was buried there in 1846. His tombstone reads: "This lasting monument declares: That a loved son lies buried here; And mourning friends may often repair; To ease their anguish with a tear."

Just three days later John's 2-year-old daughter also passed away.

It becomes quite evident as one walks through these memorials to Canton's history that the lifespan of the early Canton settlers was considerably shorter than ours today.

The mortality rate among the children was extremely high while the adults frequently passed away in their 20s or 30s.

An exceptionally interesting headstone at the Sheldon Cemetery is one that is carved to closely resemble a tree stump. In fact, unless you know that it is a headstone, you would surely assume that it was a tree.

KINYON CEMETERY located at Ridge Road and Gyde is another of Canton's cemeteries that is rich with history, yet slowly slipping into the realm of the forgotten.

In 1902 The Kinyon Cemetery Association was organized. In their handwritten charter, which can now be found at the Canton Historical Society Museum, they wrote: "Whereas a decent care of the burial place of the dead is a sacred duty which all men owe to the departed; and whereas the portion of land called the Kinyon Cemetery, where for a long time the remains of our relatives have been laid to rest and most of us expect to repose when our life is ended. . . this organization was started for the "enlargement, improvement and keeping in order of the grounds."

It is still a lovely cemetery, but perhaps it could use a touch of the care given it by that group back in 1902.

CANTON'S FOURTH historical burial place is the Cherry Hill Cemetery located at Cherry Hill and Ridge Roads.

There are so many interesting things to note while visiting these four sites. It makes one pause to consider the lives and deaths of those who lived here before us.

And, then, there was Rachael Smith, who is buried in the Downer Cemetery. Rachael died in December of 1904 at the age of 103 years, two months, and six days. May we all do as well as Rachael!

In Canton's Sheldon Cemetery rests Eliphalet Carlton, who died on July 17, 1863 "from wounds received at the Battle of Gettysburg" at the age of 19.

At the turn of the century, folks couldn't travel far before encountering one of the Knapps, among the first clans to farm Canton's fertile soil. Pictured are (front row, from left): Martha Knapp Westfall of Wayne, Elsie Hubbell Knapp of Van Buren Township, James Knapp, Ada Knapp Gayfield of Port Huron and Mary Knapp Mault of Golden Road (now Ann Arbor Road) in

What diners may not realize

By M.B. Dillon Ward

Wherever they are, members of the James and Elsie Knapp family perhaps are commemorating Canton's Sesquicentennial, remembering the days they lived and worked in a place with sheep in the clover and cows in the corn.

Today, that place is the site of Jim Mather's Mr. Steak restaurant on the southwest corner of Ford and Lilley roads. The land once was part of an 80-acre farm deeded in 1838 by George Page to David Cady, and from Cady to Peter Knapp in 1838.

In 1866 and 1869, Knapp heirs deeded the parcel to Peter's son, James. With Elsie J. Hubbell of Van Buren Township whom he took as his bride, Knapp raised 10 children.

The Knapp clan inter-married and fraternized with others among Canton's early settlers, including the Motta, Truesdells and Dingeldeys.

Home for Elsie and Jim, their six sons, and four daughters was a house that still stands on the west side of Lilley Road nearly a mile north of Ford Road.

One daughter, Ida, (whose picture hangs on the wall in the photo above) died at the age of 28, leaving five children to be raised by their grandmother.

Mary Knapp Mault (seated on the far right in the photo) was the mother of Margaret Bunyea — who with her husband Wilford and his family farmed in Canton.

The present site of Holiday Park subdivision, the Spartan Stores warehouse and the Stonybrooke, Honeytree and Bradbury apartments, the Bunyea farm ballooned from 60 to 345 and ultimately to 900 acres. Belleville's John and Clara Bunyea purchased the original parcel on the south side of Joy east of Haggerty Highway in 1908. As the Bunyeas acquired adjoining acreage, the farm yielded more garden produce and supported a dairy herd. The family later switched to general farming, raising oats, corn, wheat and rye.

MARGARET vividly remembers the World War II years when Mother Bunyea watched her toddler, Guy, enabling her to work the fields and milk 31 cows "right along with the men. It was the opening of the war and the hired men were all working in factories," recalls Bunyea.

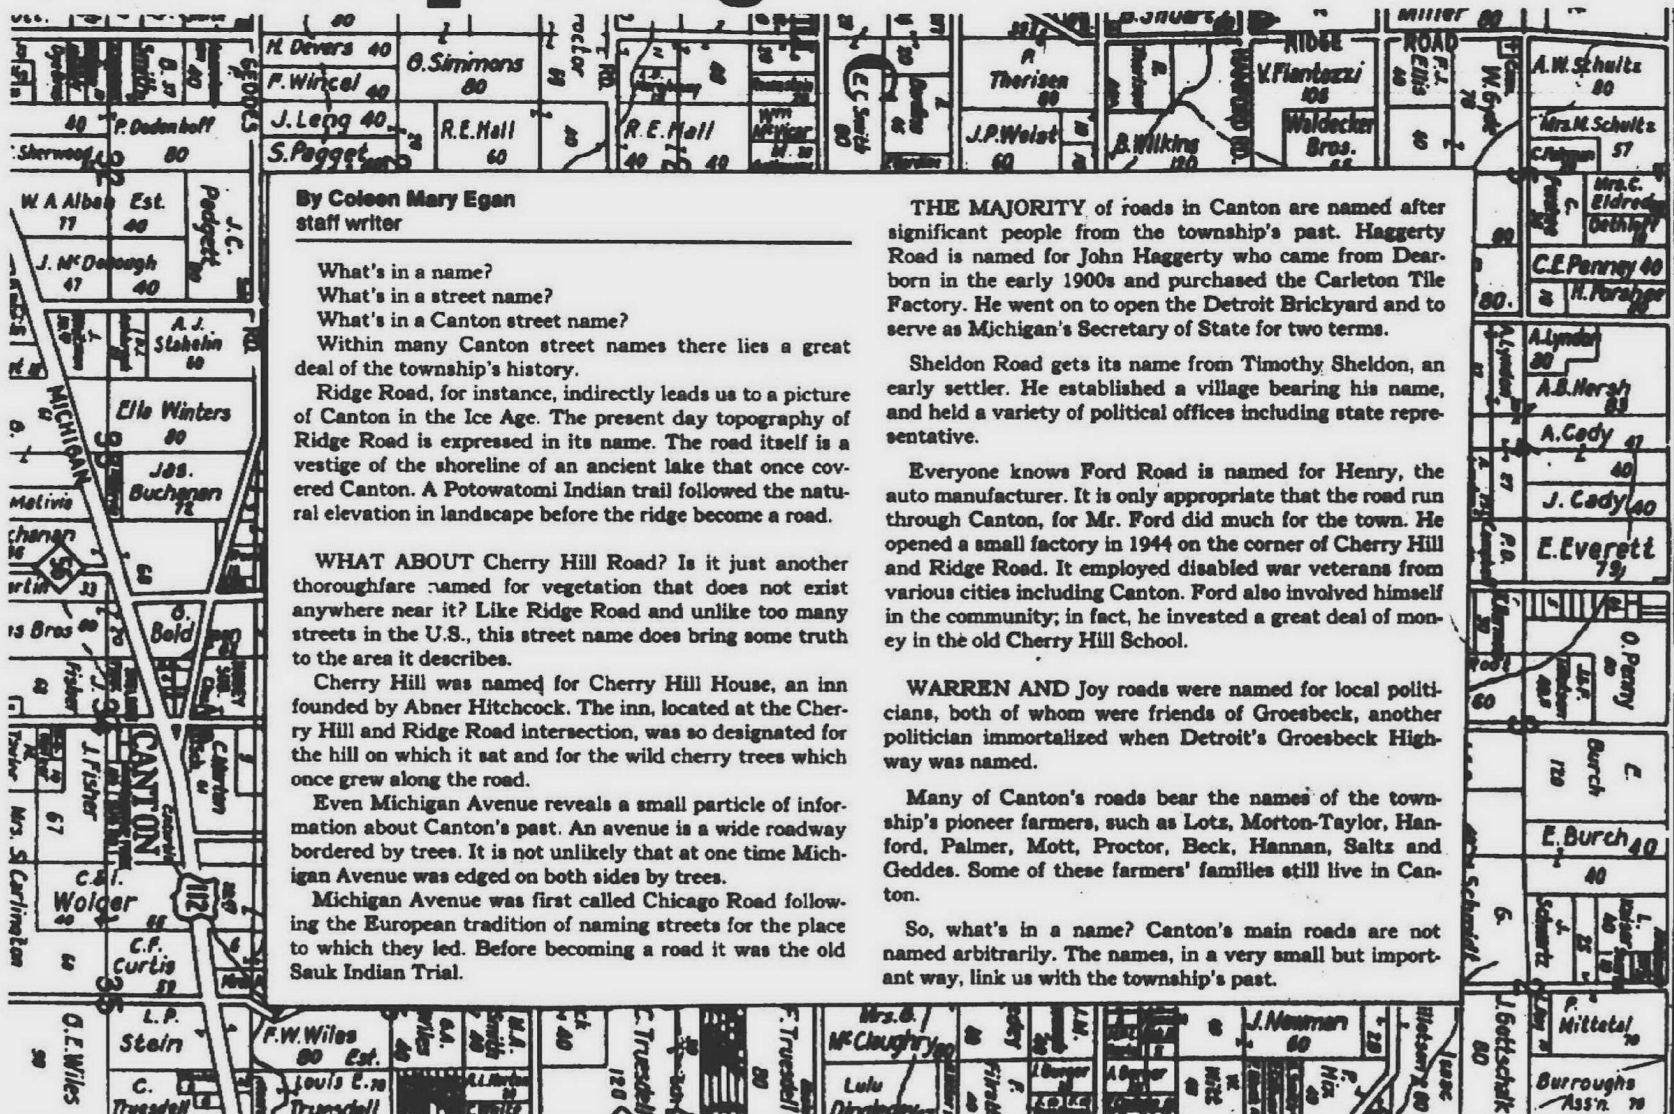

While high taxes forced the family to sell off much land, ("that's a sad story we won't get into," she said), a modern-day Bunyea farm thrives on Powell Road between Ridge and Napier roads in Plymouth Township. His toddler days long gone, Guy lives next door to mom and dad — and like his forbears finds general farming to his liking.

The 100 acres of pumpkins he harvests each autumn are shipped to Florida, Texas, Louisiana and Maryland — and closer to home, to A & P, Kroger's and Allied Grocery warehouses.

As he rises at dawn and toils under the skies till dusk, Bunyea no doubt senses a kinship with his great-grandfather, James Knapp, and his Canton contemporaries.

What's in a name?
What's in a street name?
What's in a Canton street name?

Within many Canton street names there lies a great deal of the township's history.

Ridge Road, for instance, indirectly leads us to a picture of Canton in the Ice Age. The present day topography of Ridge Road is expressed in its name. The road itself is a vestige of the shoreline of an ancient lake that once covered Canton. A Potawatomi Indian trail followed the natural elevation in landscape before the ridge became a road.

WHAT ABOUT Cherry Hill Road? Is it just another thoroughfare named for vegetation that does not exist anywhere near it? Like Ridge Road and unlike too many streets in the U.S., this street name does bring some truth to the area it describes.

Cherry Hill was named for Cherry Hill House, an inn founded by Abner Hitchcock. The inn, located at the Cherry Hill and Ridge Road intersection, was so designated for the hill on which it sat and for the wild cherry trees which once grew along the road.

Even Michigan Avenue reveals a small particle of information about Canton's past. An avenue is a wide roadway bordered by trees. It is not unlikely that at one time Michigan Avenue was edged on both sides by trees.

Michigan Avenue was first called Chicago Road following the European tradition of naming streets for the place to which they led. Before becoming a road it was the old Sauk Indian Trail.

THE MAJORITY of roads in Canton are named after significant people from the township's past. Haggerty Road is named for John Haggerty who came from Dearborn in the early 1900s and purchased the Carleton Tile Factory. He went on to open the Detroit Brickyard and to serve as Michigan's Secretary of State for two terms.

Sheldon Road gets its name from Timothy Sheldon, an early settler. He established a village bearing his name, and held a variety of political offices including state representative.

Everyone knows Ford Road is named for Henry, the auto manufacturer. It is only appropriate that the road run through Canton, for Mr. Ford did much for the town. He opened a small factory in 1944 on the corner of Cherry Hill and Ridge Road. It employed disabled war veterans from various cities including Canton. Ford also involved himself in the community; in fact, he invested a great deal of money in the old Cherry Hill School.

WARREN AND Joy roads were named for local politicians, both of whom were friends of Groesbeck, another politician immortalized when Detroit's Groesbeck Highway was named.

Many of Canton's roads bear the names of the township's pioneer farmers, such as Lots, Morton-Taylor, Hanford, Palmer, Mott, Proctor, Beck, Hannan, Saltz and Geddes. Some of these farmers' families still live in Canton.

So, what's in a name? Canton's main roads are not named arbitrarily. The names, in a very small but important way, link us with the township's past.
