How to be tapped for school board seat

The Plymouth-Canton Board of Education is encouraging persons interested in filling the vacancy created by Trustee Thomas Yack's resignation to submit letters of intent by 5 p.m. Mon-

Tiger fans roar, cops brought in

By Gary M. Cates staff writer

The Detroit Tigers victory in the World Series Sunday evening touched off a large celebration in downtown Plymouth

And the 1,000-member crowd's presence around the intersection of Main and Ann Arbor Trail touched off a call

The people there were in a happy mood; a partying mood. The law wasn't enforced, order was," Acting Police Chief Ralph White said.

Officers responded to the area about 9:30 p.m. and attempted to move the crowd out of the intersection and back into Kellogg Park.

"Officers attempted to contain the large group to no avail," officer Robert Scoggins wrote in a report on the inci-

"Units were then repositioned at intersections leading into the area to di vert traffic flow. The crowd began to disperse after continual rain and lack of traffic to the area," Scoggins wrote.

'No arrests were made due to the lack of officers to control the situation and the potential and likelihood of the situation turning into a riot," he wrote.

WHITE DISAGREED with Scoggins

comment "It wasn't really a manpower situation; it was a case of passive resistance," White said.

Plymouth Police Officers Association President Mike Gardner refused to comment on the report and the lack of manpower statement.

Initially the department had four men at the scene, White said. The Michigan State Police sent a two-man unit to assist.

"We had less than eight men there,"

"We didn't want to force a confrontation. We would have needed 60 cops to handle an ugly crowd. If we would have had 60 men available, we would have gone down there with a different game

Considering the number of officers available, White said the police went into the situation seeking to control the crowd, rather than confront it.

"The chances are if we would have made someone mad down there, we probably would have had damage. We probably would have had someone hurt," he said.

The people were out in the intersection pounding on cars that went by and mounting on station wagons and vans as they went by."

WHITE ESTIMATES that 90 percent of the people were intoxicated.

"They were drinking beer and whatever. They weren't belligerent - they just were feeling no pain," he said. "There was a lot of bottle breaking, a patrol car got hit several times by bottles, and a couple were thrown in my direction but didn't hit me."

According to White, only a few were throwing the bottles and creating the problems.

"We just herded them into the park to get them off the street to keep another drunk from driving into the crowd.

"We're not unique. Westland and Garden City had some problems Sunday night too," White said.

"I credit most of Sunday night's problem to the media coverage of the crowds in Detroit," he said.

Legislation pulls plug on cable price control

By Gary M. Cates staff writer

Deregulation of the cable-television industry likely will result in higher subscription rates, according to local government officials.

Last week the U.S. Congress approved legislation calling for a national cable-television policy which abolishes many of the controls originally granted to local governments. "I think the absence of rate regulation will not benefit all subscribers, said Terry Carroll, a Canton Township 'Until some of the federal regulatory language comes out we probably won't be able to gauge the full impact of the legislation on township sub-scribers," Carroll said. The House approved a compromise version of Senate Bill 66. President Reagan is expected to sign the legislation sometime this week. The most important part of the bill is a two-year phase out of local rate control. During that period cable operators can institute a 5-percent rate increase without local approval. After the two years, cable companies can set their own rates - in effect letting the market control rates.

The legislation also allows communities to receive 5 percent of a cable company's rate revenues without Federal Communications Commission (FCC) approval. Originally local governments were entitled to 3 percent and could request an additional 2 percent if they proved a need to the FCC.

Among the "federal regulatory language" Carroll mentioned are provi-

 Increased penalties for theft of cable and satellite services, including language calling for communities to participate in the prosecution. · Requiring cable operators to wire all parts of a community, regardless of the economic feasibility. Yet to be determined is whether this provision includes cable systems already intact.

• Requires lock-out devices for channels which may carry adult-oriented programming. The bill also strengthens court rulings which allow communities to decide what is pornographic or unacceptable.

 Establishes procedures to prevent unfair denials of franchise renewals by requiring such denials to be based on objective criteria.

"DURING THE two-year grace period, the 5-percent rate increase will be automatic," Carroll said. "Without direct competition, the market forces don't always act swiftly.'

what's inside

visor Maurice Breen has reservations about how well the market will dictate

"Cable rates were quite reasonable before," Breen said. "The key will be competition." Because of the large expense in setting up a cable system, both Carroll and Breen look to satellite television as the competition for cable. Some communities are limiting satellite through zoning restrictions on satellite dishes, Breen said. Livonia recently enacted restrictions on the placement of satellite receivers. 'Cable is a favored utility. It is questionable whether or not your rates will be reasonable, especially if local governments limit competition through zoning regulations," Breen said.

Even if competition does exist, Carroll points out another problem.

'The township board could have acted immediately. The market forces will take longer to take effect," he said.

"I think anytime the local people can have control over their own destiny, it's better than having the FCC or some other federal agency do it for us," said Plymouth City Manager Henry Graper.

DESPITE THE reservations of local officials, cable operators were able to convince federal lawmakers of the need for the legislation.

"The last few years have seen numerous changes in the rules which govern cable television," said John R. Liskey, executive director of the Michigan Cable Television Association.

Courts across the country have had difficulty applying the antiquated 1934 law to cable television.

"We believe the establishment of a national cable policy will stabilize the regulatory environment and therefore foster growth in the development of this young but fast-changing industry," Liskey said.

"This legislation carefuly balances marketplace forces with municipal and cable industry interests.

"The compromises represented by Senate Bill 66 should ease many of the tensions which have marked the past several years of the cable-television franchising process," he said.

Homecoming festivities began Sunday afternoon with the freshman game at Central Middle School in Plymouth. The two unbeaten teams clashed and the Steelers suffered a 21-7 loss.

Jase Nickerson scored on the first Steelers' possession with a 36-yard run. Jim Raglow added the extra point to put the Steelers ahead 7-0. The game was tied at the half and the Rams scored two touchdowns in the second half.

The freshman Steelers are now 5-1 for the season.

The junior varsity Steelers defeated the JV Rams by a score

Early in the second quarter, a Rams fumble was recovered by Mike Plunkett on their 35 yard line. Chris Decker made a 14yard run for the touchdown.

The Steeler defense continued to contain the Rams, and the final score of the game was made by Scott Swartzwelter with a quarterback sack for a two-point safety.

The unbeaten varsity team continued its winning streak by

New sound system: Music to inventor's ears

By Gary M. Cates staff writer

Thanks to some revolutionary hardware, the hard of hearing are listening to motion pictures in a new way.

"Traditionally, the problem is that people who are hearing impaired don't go to movies because they can't hear," said Kees Bakker, president of K Squared Associates in Plymouth.

We thought if we could come up with an idea to hook up the sound system with wireless units for the hearing impaired, they could start coming to movies," Bakker said.

Bakker's sound system for the hearing impaired is being tested at the Americana West in West Bloomfield.

"People with hearing problems are coming from cities all around to the theater," he said. "These people are telling us that for the first time in years they have been able to enjoy a movie, not just attend one."

The experiment has been so successful that Bakker hopes to market his system nationally in the near future.

"The price of the complete system is about $1,000 for a theater. They can make that up in a year with the increased business, plus the fact that the theater owner is providing a service for these people," he said.

"We are averaging 10 people a week using the units on a regular basis that would be more than 500 more cus-

THE SYSTEM works with a broadcast unit and portable receivers.

"A transmitter is connected to the sound system of each theater. The transmitter is connected to an antenna inside the theater and every theater has its own channel." Bakker said.

"What the hearing impaired patron receives is a transistor radio about the size of a pack of cigarettes.

"They can purchase an earphone at the theater and keep it and use it each time they come back or they can borrow, at no charge, a set of Walkmantype headphones," he said.

The portable unit has only an on-off switch and volume control, and uses rechargable batteries for efficiency. Because the FM frequency the transmitter puts out is low-powered, FCC licensing isn't required.

The sound is excellent for every seat in the theater. Because it's an FM system, rather than AM, it's like turning on WNIC on your radio," he said.

The systems at the Americana West have been operating 24-hours a day for 31/2 months without a failure."

AS A SOUND system design engineer, Bakker decided to work on theater sound systems because of "personal frustration" with the poor sound reproduction at cinemas.

The wireless system for hearing impaired patrons only is one of two projects K Squared is involved in. The other is an impressive 40,000-watt theater package for all viewers dubbed Cinem-

Based on reviews Bakker's system has received from industry critics, it is a spectacular improvement in theater

The Cinemagic system was intro-duced earlier this year at the Americana I in Southfield. Those gathered for the debut performance responded with a standing ovation, Bakker said.

'We think this is the major invention of the century," he said. "The sound has always been poor at theaters; even the new Dolby system is marginally acceptable.

"Considering that the average guy and considering the price for going to a movie, it's not acceptable," Bakker

"It's really poor because the quality of the sound is bad, the clarity of the sound is bad and the coverage of the auditorium is very poor. Depending on where you're seated, you may or may not hear clearly.

"It's mostly the fault of the speaker design, which hasn't changed since

THE CINEMAGIC system is a "total concept from the projector to the speakers behind the screen. It is a state of the art sound system."

Among the adaptations, Bakker has increased amplification from current less than 1,000 watt standards to a whopping 40,000 watts. Also, each speaker component is amplified indivi-dually — rather than utilizing a common amplifier for all sound ranges.

Cinemagic also boasts an onboard computer which monitors all system components seven times a second, and time alignment which makes sure sound waves hit the listener's ear at the same time.

Because different sounds have different wavelengths, they take different times to travel from the speaker to the ear. One way of accounting for this is to physically move the speakers forward and backward behind the screen.

"The other way is what we did - to delay certain sounds internally so that everything reaches the ear at the same time," he said.

The result?

"Sound which is reproduced at 98 percent of its original impact. It's as good as being right there.

This system can reproduce everything in the soundtrack without straining, from the lowest lows to the highest highs," he said.

Americana owners were so impressed they bought the experimental system, which costs about $50,000. It's a hefty pricetag, but with theaters competing more and more with cable television, Bakker's system offers something you can't get at home - "incredibally clear sound."

The clinic will be open from 10 a.m.

to 2 p.m., Saturday, Oct. 27, in the Plymouth Masonic Temple, 730 Penniman Ave. Crippled children or burn victims may come to the clinic to be examined by a medical doctor, and be screened to see if the family is eligible for help from the Shriners.

The mini clinic is being sponsored by Plymouth Rock No. 47, Livonia Shrine Club, William Perrett Lodge No. 524, and Tyrian 500.

The clinic is being held for any child age 1 month to 18 years who needs help with burns, bone or muscular problems such as: cerebral palsy, scoliosis, spina bifida, osteogenesis imperfecta (brittle bone disease), residuals of polio, juvenile arthritis, club feet, dwarfism, congenital anomalies, missing limbs, reconstructive burn work.

The Shriners Hospitals are open to any child, regardless of race or religion, under 18 years of age. There is no charge to the patient, parent or any third party for anything received at a Shriners Hospital as expenses are paid for by the Shriners of North America.

Friends recall Beyer

staff writer

Old Village in Plymouth lost one of its most unusual citizens with the death of Bob Beyer last week who, in turn, spent the last seven years of his life in a most unusual way.

Told in 1977 he was suffering from heart failure and had but five years to live, Beyer decided to keep a record of his life.

Each morning when he arose or each night before he retired he wrote the day's doings in a book. When he died, he had beaten his doctor's prediction

'I never saw him so interested in such a prediction," said his wife, Mickey Beyer, in the church last Tuesday after the funeral.

"He was always full of fun and eager to do something useful. But when it came to his life he was serious and not a day went by that he didn't enter

"There never was a more unusual and happy man than Bob," she said, in a serious vein. "I know I am going to miss him, but I will live with the many fond memories, especially his recording of his final days.'

AS SHE SPOKE several hundred of his friends gave their blessings to her, and paid tribute to Bob Beyer as one of the most unusual men they ever had met. One who voiced their respect was Margaret Dunning, who has lived in Plymouth all her life and who made possible the Historical Museum.

"I never saw a man who gave of himself so much," she said, "and always for a good cause. With him fun was fun and when it came to doing good for others, that was fun for him, too." The members of Plymouth Rotary Club who attended the funeral and the burial at Riverside Cemetery were generous in their tribute.

'He was a most unusual fellow," they voiced, "but fun was only part of his life. When he could do good for others he was always on the job - morn-

Former mayor Bill Hartman was among those who paid tribute when he said, "There are few men like Bob Beyer. He was most unusual but always with a smile and a willingness to help others. Plymouth will miss him in the years to come."

and later his, as the oldest in Plymouth. When he sold the last one a few years ago, he didn't ask that his name be retained. Instead he said, "I sold it to him. If he wants to change the name it's all right."

But it is understood now that the Beyer name will be retained in large letters on Main Street in tribute to the man who always was ready to smile and help others.

The other city officials and members of Rotary who attended the services were of one mind as they bid goodbye to this unusual man.

There never will be another like him," they voiced, "and Plymouth and Old Village will not be the same when he is not around to lend a hand -

They agreed he was an unusual man who spent the closing years of his life - knowing they were the last - in a most unusual way. He kept a record of every day until the end came and he died as the result of heart failure in St. Mary Hospital.

Township hires part-time cop

By Gary M. Cates staff writer

Plymouth Township's first patrol officer was sworn in Friday afternoon.

Trustees approved the creation of a part-time police position last week and Constable Frank Radwick was hired

Radwick is the first person to serve as a township "police officer." Currently police services are provided through a $460,000 a year contract with the city

Radwick also is one of two township constables elected to handle ordinance enforcement. As a part-time township police officer, he will be used for special assignments throughout the town-

The request for a part-time police position went to the trustees Tuesday night. Besides authorizing the position, Police Chief/Administrative Assistant Carl Berry asked for a budget of $7,860 for salary and equipment.

The part-time officer will be used for problem traffic areas, parking enforcement, special events, and other similar projects, Berry said.

Radwick also will be used to follow up citizen complaints which the Plymouth department can't handle.

The township attorney has been asked for a decision whether Radwick can hold both jobs - officer and con-

BEFORE APPROVING the position trustees asked several questions - especially with the township currently studying the police contract for possible change or non-renewal.

"Will he be public relations or will he write tickets," Trustee Andrew Pruner

The officer will be fully certified and will write tickets, according to Berry. "Currently we pass these things along to the contracted agency and ask that they handle them as best they can," Supervisor Maurice Breen said.

"The question of need is obviously a relative one. No one is saying we can't function without a part-time officer - it's not a crisis situation.

There is no way the hiring of a parttime police officer is a step toward starting our own department," he said.

"It is not the intent to abrogate the contract with the city of Plymouth. The problem is the union agreement in the city prohibits the hiring of part-time

The supervisor said there wouldn't be any requests for additional parttime officers.

Trustee Smith Horton authored the motion to approve the position, provided there wouldn't be future requests. Trustee Lee Fidge was the lone "no" vote, while Clerk Esther Hulsing was

Purchases OK'd for police station

Plymouth's police department is taking on a new look with a renovated dispatch area and the addition of a computer system.

City Commission approved the final round of purchases for the department Monday night: Among the items approved were access flooring, a computer service contract and software.

'That should do it for our department," Acting Police Chief Ralph

White said. The police dispatcher's area - at the front of the police station inside city hall - is slated for remodeling and the commission approved the purchase of access flooring for it. The $1,550 flooring provides space underneath for wiring electronic and communications equipment. The access flooring will be purchased from Data Supplies Inc.

COMMISSIONERS ALSO approved a service contract for the department's recently purchased Monroe computer equipment. Accepted was a bid of $1,454 from Monroe Systems.

A Monroe computer system was purchased for record- and file-keeping functions inside the department.

The service contract calls for preventive maintenance as well as the repair of non-functioning equipment. Because the first year of the service agreement takes into account a 90-day warranty, subsequent years on the contract will cost $1,939.

The third purchase approved was $5,684 for a police software system. Graper said the administration wants to activate the equipment as soon as possible.

'We visited two communities where this software is being used and we feel it is very adequate and will do an excellent job for the Police Department," Graper said.

THE SOFTWARE supplier is the Institute for Police Traffic Management (IPTM) at the University of North Florida. The IPTM software is in use in four states, including two cities in

This computer program will allow the department to use equipment for crime files, registrations and complaints, as well as vehicle maintenance records, personnel files, budgeting and recording individual officers' daily

Challenger says Rep. Pursell is a hindrance

Democratic congressional candidate Mike McCauley of Plymouth has called Republican Carl Pursell a "hindrance to the 2nd District's economic prosperity" because of his votes favoring governmental waste and his general ineffectivenss.

Pursell, R-Plymouth, represents the 2nd District, which includes Livonia, Plymouth and Northville in western watches them go to other areas." Since 1978, McCauley said, nearly $2 billion of new investments through the federal UDAG grants have come to more than 40 communities in Michigan but no money has come to the 2nd District. More than 54,000 jobs were created through the UDAG grants, he said.

Pursell's votes in favor of a massive military buildup and the MX missile have cost the 2nd District some $70 million in higher taxes, McCauley said.

"How can our economy every get going if Pursell isn't going to vote down wasteful government spending that, in the end, provides us with a hidden tax? We have to get a congressman who will act rationally and not hypocritically.

Riley stresses need for court reform, improvement

By Susan Roslek staff writer

Dorothy Comstock Riley and former U.S. Sen. Robert Griffin brought their campaigns for the Michigan Supreme Court to western Wayne County this week, stressing the need for an independent judiciary that will interpret, not rewrite, laws.

"We have a crisis on the Supreme Court," Riley told some 50 guests at a breakfast fund-raiser sponsored by the Livonia Chamber of Commerce Political Action Committee.

"The court desparately needs to regain and recapture the respect of the Riley criticized the partisanship she said exists among some current members of the high court. As evidence of that partisanship she pointed to her ouster from the Supreme Court in February 1983.

The first woman to serve on the Michigan Court of Appeals, Riley, who lives in Grosse Pointe, was re-elected to a six-year term in 1978. On Dec. 9, 1982, she was appointed to the Michigan Supreme Court by lameduck Gov. William Milliken. He named her to

Proposal B aims to stop 'raids' on land fund

By Tim Richard staff writer

It couldn't be done by law. So now the backers of the Kammer Land Trust Fund of 1976 want to elevate it into the Michigan Constitution.

"The concept is that the royalties from oil and gas taken from state-owned lands be pledged to a fund," said John F. Greenslit, one of its chief promoters."

The fund would accumulate until it reaches $200 million, he said. It would be invested, and earnings of $10-15 million a year would be used to pay for state, regional, county and local projects proposed to the land trust board.

'We would take the proceeds from non-renewable natural resources and reinvest them in the lands and waters of the state. No other state has done this," he said.

Greenslit is executive director of the Michigan Recreation and Park Association, a professional group of 2,500 parks and recreation professionals.

WHY CAN'T the Michigan Legislature just take those revenues and buy land? Why do the voters have to do it by a constitutional amendment?

'This idea was born during the 1976 Pigeon River crisis," Greenslit said.

It was a compromise between 1) those who wanted to make the U.S. energy self-sufficient by developing the nation's own oil and gas and 2) environmentalists who didn't want to lose parts of the Pigeon River State Forest, home of the Kirtland's Warbler and the elk herd.

The fund was named for then-state Sen. Kerry Kammer, D-Waterford, an avid conservationist.

"The Legislature pledged the first $150 million," Greenslit said. "After that, the money was to go into the general fund. The fund should have reached the $150 million mark in 1984. Actually, it's about $8 million because, unfortunately, it has been raided on five different occasions."

The Legislature's "raids" netted $142 million. Reasons: to make $6 million in loans to petroleum carriers to modify or replace double-bottom tankers; to get $26 million to balance the state's fiscal 1979 budget and $46 million for the fiscal '80 budget; to create a Heritage Trust Fund; and to provide $16 million for Gov. James Blanchard's Youth Job

THE LEGISLATURE itself admitted it couldn't keep its hands off the fund and placed Proposal B on the ballot itself. Opposition was scarce.

State Sen. Lana Pollack, D-Ann Arbor, lone senator to oppose it, did so for constitutional reasons. In a statement for the Senate Journal, she said:

"I am a consistent opponent of earmarking pub lic funds, no matter how worthy the cause. The ear-marking of public funds has several drawbacks:

• "It reduces the ability of the Legislature to respond to changing needs of the state.

• "It removes the Legislature from accountability to the public.

· "It reduces the overall bonding capacity of the state in direct proportion to the percentage of state funds that are earmarked.

• "And as 'good cause' issues become protected by earmarking, funding is reduced for other equally good causes that are less popular, such as mental health and social services.'

Pollack told this newspaper, however, that she would not actively fight against Proposal B.

CO-CHAIRS of a supporting group — Rep. Jerry Bartnik, D-Temperance, and Sen. Paul Henry, R-Grand Rapids — argue that lands will only increase in price and, once developed, can never be used for public recreation.

The creation of this fund will help promote Michigan tourism, now our third leading industry," they said.

Not only is Proposal B backed by environmentalists and the Michigan United Conservation Clubs, but by the State Chamber of Commerce, tourism groups and the retail hardware industry.

Greenslit said the Farm Bureau and Michigan Townships Associaton "took a walk" on the issue, neither supporting nor opposing it.

IS THERE a danger in some future year that the fund will have too much money - that, as Sen. Pollack said, the state will be pumping money into lands and recreation development and not into other needed programs?

"No," said Greenslit. "There are 11 requests for money for every one that is granted. Besides, southern Michigan lands are getting more and more ex-

"And the fund is 'capped.' If oil and gas revenues explode, the excess goes into the general fund. The legislative process can make appropriations.

'Again, the concept is that this money came from public lands, and it should be used to replace public lands."

Proposal B — land trust

Here is the actual ballot language of Proposal B on the Nov. 6 ballot:

A proposal to establish a natural resources trust fund and a board to administer it, to provide revenues for it from natural resource leases, and existing funds and to specify and limit the expenditures therefrom.

The proposed amendment would:

1. Establish a Michigan Natural Resources Trust Fund to be funded by certain royalties, bonuses and rentals collected by the state from the drilling of oil and gas or mining of minerals on

2. Require that earnings from the Trust Fund be used only for:
a) purchasing land or rights in land: (1) for public recreation; (2) of environmental importance; or (3) of particular scenic beauty; b) developing public recreation facilities;

c) administering the Natural Resources Trust Fund. 3. Require creation of a Natural Resources Trust Fund board to recommend projects to be approved by the legislature.

Should the proposed amendment be adopted?

During the peaceful silent "action," they will join hands at noon for eight minutes in a Survival Line along Eight Mile Road.

The display of "unity for peace and justice" will connect the Light Guard Armory on Detroit's east side with the Artillery Armory on the west side in Oak Park.

ORGANIZERS OF the Survival Line hope 10,000 residents will turn out for the event designed to encourage people to think about peace as the election approaches.

The event is calling for an imme-

Miller said it is not a protest against the Michigan National Guard. "The armories are just symbols for us. That's clear to them and, I hope, clear to everyone else."

While preparing for the Survival Line, organizers met with city councils of the neighboring cities of Detroit, Ferndale, Oak Park and Royal Oak Township. They also discussed their plans with police departments of those cities.

"Safety was on everyone's mind. They were concerned about traffic and access to area businesses," said Miller.

But we were able to work everything out."

C has savage fishhooks in its bait

ROPOSAL C on the Nov. 6 ballot contains tempting bait: the allure of rolling back the 1983 personal income tax hike and of sending a message to the Establishment in Lansing.

Never mind that we elected the Establishment. Never mind that voters sent shock waves through Lansing by recalling two state senators. Never mind that 60 percent of the tax increase already has been rolled back, and that the rest will be rolled back when our fiscal house is in or-

Backers of Proposal C obviously have touched a responsive chord by pointing to ineptness in the state capital. The question now becomes how much damage their medicine will do.

UNDERNEATH THE juicy bait, Proposal C has some savage fishhooks.

 Governing boards would need 80 percent "super majorities" to raise such fees as college tuitions, building permits, dog licenses, swimming pool admissions, library fines, registration charges.

On an eight-member board, seven votes would be needed for passage. With one member typically absent, one demagogic board member could hold up the entire

Yes, the plan could be put before the voters for approval — and can you imagine having a statewide referendum on lifting the physics lab fee for Northern Michigan University? Proposal C would make a farce of both republicanism and democ-

• Michigan's tradition of municipal home rule and local self-government would be grossly violated. Proposal C would amend city charters and arbitrarily change the rules for other units of government by freezing property tax rates even if charters and voters had authorized higher rates.

For example, if a city charter set a 10mill property tax limit- and the council levied only eight mills, Proposal C would amend the charter by freezing the rate at eight mills. About half of our suburban cities and charter townships and many school districts would have their business tampered with by Proposal C.

• Michigan's roads and bridges are just being put back in shape, after a decade of deterioration, thanks to a 1982 increase in gasoline and weight taxes. These increases were tolerable because our newer cars are lighter and burn less fuel and generate less revenue. Good roads are essential to industry, tourism, commerce, our own personal safety and comfort. Proposal C would halt this critically necessary program in its tracks.

· Proposal C probably would invalidate $357 million in unemployment compensation taxes which are needed to pay back funds advanced to Michigan by the federal government during the recession. Without a repayment plan, Michigan would be subject to federal penalties. So it's true - Proposal C would make Michigan "the credit deadbeat of America."

BACKERS OF Proposal C have pointed - correctly - to state spending on welfare and prisons. Their dream is that cutting taxes will reduce spending on welfare and prisons.

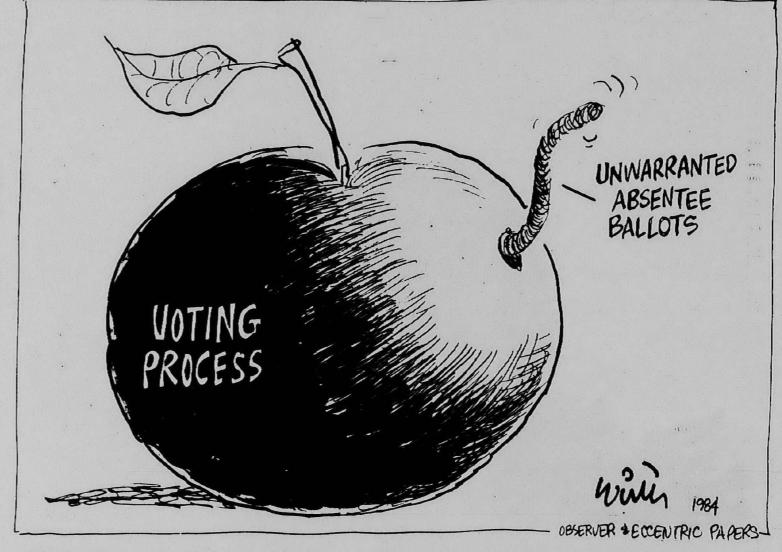

Their tactic will backfire. The budgeting process first takes care of social services (which are governed by the welfare caseload and medicaid prices charged by the health care industry), followed by prisons and the courts.

What will suffer? Aid to education first; school districts will bang on the door for more property taxes; colleges will raise tuitions - or try to. Cities next - and there goes some police protection and library hours.

Then property tax rebates, which return nearly $600 million to two-thirds of the state's households. State police - to the delight of speed demons and drunk drivers. Conservation officers — to the delight of deer poachers. The toxic waste cleanup program — to the delight of polluters.

Proposal C should be defeated.

State is ripe for vote fraud

To buy a $5 piece of merchandise with a plastic credit card, you frequently have to show a couple of pieces of identification, with a picture, and wait around while the clerk runs a check on your card.

But to vote - well, it's getting easier and easier in Michigan. We are used to laughing at Chicago and Cook County, Ill., where people listed on gravestones who gave addresses as empty lots cast ballots. My guess is that sooner, rather than later, the same thing will happen in Michigan.

It's significant that major portions of the political parties' campaign budgets are going not into advertising, pamphlets and travel expenses for candidates, but into voter registration drives. Clearly the politicians aren't waiting for dutiful citizens to stroll down to city or township hall to register. Voter registration in itself is a political tactic.

REPUBLICANS AND Democrats are distributing absentee ballot applications like crazy. One difference is that the Republican Party also plans to act as the collecting agent for AV applications — picking them up and returning them to the proper authorities.

That immediately creates the suspicion they will return only those of persons they know to be favorable to their cause and possibly lose certain other ones. They've been warned against this practice by the Secretary of State's office.

Detroit is using all kinds of unpaid deputy clerks to scour the town and register voters. Churches and self-styled "community group" activists have the power of government to enlist voters. The scary result is that, despite Michigan's declining population, a record voter turnout is predicted for Nov. 6, 1984.

SECRETARY OF State Richard Austin is registering voters at the time they obtain driver's licenses and forwarding the registrations to city and township clerks. Unfortunately, some addresses are box numbers and post office addresses. A single post office may serve four townships in three counties.

Which clerk gets the registration card? Often the wrong one. And while the clerks make corrections, they still have a mess to deal with.

Austin, a man who shamelessly uses his offices and mail to promote himself, is undaunted by the criticism. He likes the idea of registering voters through his de-

But one has to wonder how a voter feels when he has registered through the Department of State and shows up at the polls only to find the local clerk hasn't received the form from Lansing yet.

STATE ELECTIONS Director Chris Thomas warns that you are not entitled to an absentee ballot just for the asking. You must have a legal reason - age, health or being out of town on election day.

In practice, Thomas is dead wrong. To avoid three-hour waits in line on election day, many voters tell a little lie and say they're going to be out of town so they can qualify for an AV ballot. In some affluent suburbs, we have noted, the AV vote runs 30 to 35 percent.

One suspects that the issuance of AV ballots is so loose that a possibility for mischief exists.

Michigan law is so liberal that a voter can be "inactive" for 10 years and not be dropped from the registration rolls. Across the United States, the average length of time for canceling the registration of an inactive voter is two years.

A voter of our acquaintance decided to change her lifestyle and her signature. When she signs in to vote, no one compares her new signature to the signature on her voter registration card. She is appalled at the casual folksiness of it all.

This state is ripe for a major Chicagostyle voting scandal.

Land getting scarce; B would save it

RDINARILY, WE frown on earmarking taxes for a particular purpose. But when the Michigan Legislature itself frankly confesses it can't keep its hands off the state land trust fund, it is an extraordinary occasion which demands our atten-

The Legislature created the land trust fund in 1976 by law during the Pigeon River Country State Forest oil drilling controversy. Since then it has raided the fund five times for other purposes.

So repentant Legislature has placed Proposal B on the Nov. 6 ballot as a constitutional amendment to earmark revenues from oil and natural gas leases on state lands. These revenues will go into a Michigan Natural Resources Trust Fund which will be capped at $200 million.

Interest earned on the $200 million will be used to fund proposals by state, regional, county and local officials. A list of current proposals is in today's news columns. A board will administer the fund.

The Michigan Natural Resources Trust Fund would be used:

The Legislature already has that power.

No good case for 'A'

WE ENDORSE Proposal B, although we have no way of knowing whether the fund will be sufficient. It's clear that next to nothing will be done unless such a fund is created and constitutionally protected.

Land isn't getting any scarcer. And particularly in southern Michigan, it isn't getting any cheaper. Once land is privately "developed," it is gone from public usage, usually forever.

In many states, great tracts of natural beauty are fenced off and studded with "no trespassing" signs by owners who enjoy them only a few weeks of the year. Moreover, the so-called "sagebrush rebellion" has targeted much federal land in the west. If Michigan is to avoid a fencedin fate, we will have to do it by state action — the sooner, the better.

IN OUR travels throughout the state, the editors note, sadly, that many state parks and historic sites are looking a bit shabby. They need renovations. And we would have better access to them if the rutted interior roads were resurfaced.

Proposal B is good public policy, farsighted environmental thinking and this generation's obligation to the future. It should be adopted.

Club's walls fall for Moms

IN THE HISTORY of mankind, it will not merit a chapter, not even a sentence. But a few weeks ago, another discriminatory barrier fell when women were admitted to an all-male organization.

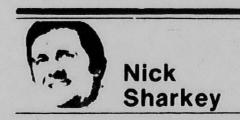

No, it was not the much-publicized Jaycees. I'm talking about the athletic boosters club of my children's suburban school. Boosters often run a school's sports program. They hire coaches, buy uniforms and hold numerous fund-raisers to pay the bills. Most of the Booster Clubs I've known have been all-male.

Women usually joined the Parent Teacher Organization (PTO), which is directed at the academic side of schools. It says something about sex stereotyping that adult women joined the PTO while adult men become Booters.

All-male school athletic clubs ignore the fact that there are just as many female as male athletes today. Girls' basketball, volleyball and softball attract as many participants as football, boys' basketball and baseball.

FATHERS OF girl athletes argue they can represent their daughters. But Father doesn't know what it's like to be a little girl. Only Mom knows that.

In my children's school, mothers have helped the Boosters for years. They've sold hot dogs and pop. They've cleaned up after parties. Sometimes, they've even been invited to attend a Booster meeting

- if they received an award or coached a team. But never have they been asked to join the club.

This seemed strange to me. So last spring I asked at a meeting, "Why don't we have any women members?" A club officer told me that women could become members, but none had ever asked to join (forget that men are usually recruited). A few men laughed.

In late September, one mother decided she would join the Boosters.

She called several other mothers. Many were too busy with their own careers or clubs. But two others agreed to go with

They were gathering in the parking lot before the meeting when I saw them. I said hello and started to walk in. The ringleader yelled, "What's the matter? You afraid to walk in with us?"

I TURNED on my heels and said, "No, I'm not afraid." All four of us walked into the meeting together.

The women walked over to a small card table and sat down. I resisted the impulse to sit down with a buddy and sat down with them. Quietly and without fanfare, they had broken a all-male barrier.

The meeting went smoothly. The women did come in for some good-natured teasing. At one point, the president asked if members had any questions on the budget. A hand shot up in the back of the room. "I'd like to know why the women are here," he asked. All the men laughed. The women had nervous grins.

One woman spoke several times during the meeting. The other two said nothing. One later confessed she had been too frightened to speak.

AFTER THE meeting, beer and pop were served, and everyone began to socialize. The three women remained. They talked to several men and seemed to enjoy themselves. They volunteered to work on several committees.

After a few minutes, it was time for me to go home. As I looked back, I could see the women continuing to talk to the men.

A few days later, I asked one of the women what she thought of the meeting. "I enjoyed it. I'll be back," she said with a adopting it.

First, the state constitution (Art. IV, Sec. 37) empowers "a joint committee of the Legislature, acting between sessions, to suspend any rule or regulation promulgated by an administrative agency . . .' Second, a state law gives the joint committee the same power during sessions of the Legislature.

Because of a federal court ruling affecting the U.S. Congress, Michigan lawmakers became nervous about their own powers to review rules. There is, however, no reason to fear that that precedent will apply to Michigan.

Moreover, Proposal A's backers have given us no solid evidence that a mere committee ought to be elevated to constitutional status.

Public broadcasting — By a vote of 167 for and 233 against, the House rejected an amendment to increase public broadcasting funding by 15 percent rather than 25 percent over three years

The vote cleared the way for House approval of the 25 percent hike. The bill (S 607) was sent to the White House.

It raises fiscal 1987-89 authorizations for the Corporation for Public Broadcasting to $675 million. This essentially restore a 40 percent cut inflicted by Congress in 1981 at the Reagan Administration's request.

Government funding - The Senate passed, 78 for and 11 against, a $370 billion appropriations measure to partially fund the federal government in fiscal 1985, which began Oct. 1.

This cleared the bill (HJ Res 648) for President Reagan's signature. The House failed to conduct a record vote when it approved the measure.

Enactment of a catchall funding approach was necessary because the 98th Congress during two years of work was unable to pass the full complement of individual appropriations bills.

Senators voting yes supported the bill. Sen. Don-ald Riegle, D-Mich., voted yes.

Carl Levin, D-Mich., was absent.

Nuclear freeze — By a vote of 55 for and 42 against, the Senate tabled (killed) a nuclear freeze proposal urging the Administration to negotiate with the Soviet Union a mutual halt in weapons production and a mutual reduction in arsenals.

"Sue's doctor came to Harper when he had cancer. I think that says a lot."

Some say there are no choices when it comes to cancer, fate deals all the cards. But that's not entirely true. Patients make choices every step of the way from prevention through recovery. Regular check-ups and frequent self-examinations are choices of prevention. Selection of a personal physician and electing timely treatment after diagnosis are recovery choices. And the correct choice regarding hospitalization may be a matter of life or death.

As a participating organization in America's program of twenty Comprehensive Cancer Centers, Harper Hospital provides scientific and clinical leadership in the organized fight against cancer. Cancer patients who choose to be treated at Harper are assured of receiving one of the most complete and scientifically aggressive cancer treatment programs available anywhere in the world. HAUNTED HOUSES

Canton Jaycee Haunted House will be open 7 to 10:30 p.m. weekdays and 7 p.m. to midnight weekends through Oct. 30. The haunted house will be in a ranch-type house on the south side of Ford Road about 100 yards east of I-275.

The Plymouth and Northville Jaycees are combining for a haunted house in the Wayne County Child Development Center on Sheldon north of Five Mile. The house will be open 8-10:30 p.m. Sunday-Thursday, and 9-11 p.m. Friday and Saturday through Oct. 31. Admission will be $2 for adults and $1 for children 10 and younger.

• FALL LEAF PICKUP

City of Plymouth will begin its annual pickup of leaves beginning the week of Oct. 22. Residents are asked to place their leaves at the curb as soon as possible so they can be removed before any accumulation of snow. There is no set schedule when trucks will be in any particular area, but the program will continue until all leaves are picked up, weather permitting.

SCOUT POPCORN SALE

The Cubs, Scouts and Explorers of the Gemini District (which includes Plymouth) of the Boy Scouts of America are having their annual unpopped popcorn sale through Nov. 15. The district hopes to raise $5,000 to help support district activities such as camping, sports and tours. A threepound bucket of popcorn may be purchased for $4 from any Cub, Scout or Explorer or by calling Steve Gierak at 533-0976.

• GARBAGE BAGS

Heavy-duty garbage bags are available at $11 for a box of 100 from the City of Plymouth at either the Fire Department or the DPW office.

• CO-ED VOLLYBALL

The City of Plymouth Parks and Recreation Department will again be offering a Co-Ed Vollyball League. The entry fee will be $120 for a 14-match schedule. The league will have no residency rule this year, but there will be a non-resident fee

Memorial Fund to honor Faber

School officials are expected to announce Monday the establishment of a memorial scholarship fund honoring the late Nancy Faber, a speech pathologist for 14 years with Plymouth Canton Community Schools

Faber, a mother of two, was robbed and killed last November by a Ypsilanti woman and an accomplice as she was leaving a grocery store in Ann Arbor where she lived.

The scholarship will be awarded to speech- and language-impaired students based on financial need, degree of impairment, and recommendations from staff speech pathologists.

Faber, who was highly regarded by her colleagues, taught at several schools including Field. A committee of special education teachers from seven schools worked together on the Faber tribute.

DNR has Wayne's solid waste plan

Wayne County's Solid Waste Man-agement Plan is awaiting approval of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources after three years of preparations and two lawsuits.

The plan was sidetracked temporarily last week when a landfill firm called Browning-Ferris Industries (BFI) obtained a circuit court order requiring an additional public hearing on its site in Van Buren Township.

A required two-thirds majority of the 43 cities and townships in the county has approved the Solid Waste Plan.

SOUTHWESTERN communities adamantly opposed the BFI site, near Metropolitan Airport, threatening to veto the plan if it were included.

After hold the court-requierd hearing last week, the Solid Waste Planning Committee voted 11-1 to exclude BFI. It listened to 18 witnesses, including pilots, airport managers and city offi-

"The fix wasoin," said BFI's attorney, James Collier, who obtained a second restraining order within hours of the vote. But after listening to arguments, Circuit Judge James Hathaway lifted the restraining order, allowing county officials to submit the plan to COUNTY COMMISSIONER Milton Mack, D-Wayne, a member of the planning committee, said DNR has six months to act, but he added that "it's imperative that they approve the plan by Dec. 1 or Detroit will lose its funding for a giant resource recovery plant to be built on the east side.

Mack, whose district includes much of the southwestern portion of the county, including Canton Township, had opposed BFI's inclusion.

Once DNR has approved the plan, it will be returned to the county for implementation. The Solid Waste Plan does not deal with hazardous or poisonous waste materials, which are governed by a separate state law.

Toymakers' preview of '84 collection

By Richard Lech staff writer

HE CABBAGE patch could be barren once again this Christmas.

But there'll be plenty of Care Bears, Rainbow Brites, GoBots, and other toys, new and old, to go around.

That's the word from Jake Hoogerwoerd, Sears national catalogue sales promotion manager. Hoogerwoerd was in Livonia recently to give the lowdown on kids' stuff - including the gloomy news that the catalogue department already is out of Cabbage Patch dolls.

'We bought almost eight times as much as last year's sales," he said. 'The catalogue came out Sept. 10, and three days later we were sold out.

"We just aren't accepting orders for them anymore. We don't want to disappoint anyone. We recommend that people who do want them shop for them as early as possible."

Other stores report similar prob-lems in keeping the so-ugly-they're cuddly-dolls in stock.

FOR ANY toy to be in such big demand two years running is very unusual, Hoogerwoerd said. But, then again, the Cabbage Patch youngsters, which retail for $26.99 when they're available, are very unusual to begin

"All the Cabbage Patch Kids are different," he said. "Each one has a birth certificate, so it has a lot of uniqueness to it. It's not a doll that you buy off the shelf with every doll looking the same.'

New this year are some chips off the old bulbous heads, Cabbage Patch babies called Preemies ($26.99), 14 inches tall, 2 inches shorter than their 'older" cousins. Also new from Coleco are Koosas ($24.99), Cabbage Patch stuffed animals.

Before the Cabbage Patch dolls were released, toy experts predicted they'd be big - but they had know idea they would be that big, Hoogerwoerd said. This year, toy prognosticators are expecting Rainbow Brite, by Hallmark Cards, to be a heavyweight in the hug-'em-andsqueeze-'em sweepstakes.

The gimmick here is color enough different colors on each doll to make Jesse Jackson green with envy. Rainbow Brite herself, a flashily dressed little girl doll, comes in an 18-inch size ($19.99) as well as the 9inch economy size ($9.99). Her wood sprite friends White Twink, Blue Champ, Green Lucky, Red Romero and Yellow Spark retail for $9.99 apiece, not to mention the color buggy ($10.99) and Color Cottage ($17.99).

ANOTHER NEW toy, the GoBot, is not what it seems. A GoBot starts out looking like a sportscar but transforms into menacing robot, and back again. GoBots, produced by Tonka, range in price from Terrifying Psycho, Enemy Robot Show Car ($9.99) to the GoBot Command Center ($21.99). They're for ages 5 and up.

Last year's favorites, such as Care Bears, Masters of the Universe, G.I. Joe, trivia games and others will be big again this year, Hoogerwoerd said. But he doesn't expect the Care Bears to be anywhere near as scarce as they were at times last Christmas.

Care Bears, a Kenner product, come in colors no real bear would consider wearing — pink, green and yellow — and sell for $14.99. And each one has a much better disposition than the grumpy bruins that invade your campsite. They're recommended for ages 4 and up.

While one fad toy of the past is fading fast, some old favorites are making a comeback.

The video-game craze is kind of diminished, because no new games have been issued," Hoogerwoerd said. "But old toys that are coming back are items such as telescopes, microscopes, sewing machines for the girls, and small furniture they can play with with their dolls.

Another old standby, Mattel's Barbie, is taking a ride on the wild side.

Where once America's favorite fashion doll would decline a ride in boyfriend Ken's sports car because it might mess her hair, she now can do wheelies on her own remote-controlled motorcycle ($9.99). But Babs hasn't gone completely punk. The cycle is colored shocking pink. This Mattel product is for ages 5 and up.

GROWNUPS aren't shut out on the toy market, either. Toys for big kids include 20 different kinds of trivia games and The Singing Machine for would-be Barbra Streisands or Frank

This device, already selling well in Japan, allows kitchen crooners to sing along to a music cartridge into a professional microphone, with the whole performance being picked up on cassette tape. The machine, which sells for $250, also has an echo chamber to Elvis-Presley-ize even the thinnest vocal talent.

More than 700 cartridges are available, with four songs to a tape, including standards such as "The Way We Were," "New York, New York," and "Oh, What A Feeling." The tapes retail for $6.99 each.

trivia market all to itself. There are trivia games from People Magazine, Time Magazine and TV Guide, Ripley's Believe It or Not, Isaac Asimov, Bible trivia, music trivia, rock trivia, entertainment trivia, M*A*S*H trivia, baseball trivia Trivial Pursuit itself has expanded to included specialized games Baby Boomer, Silver Screen and All-Star Sports, the last three selling for $24.99, $2 cheaper than the original version.

For toy lovers with champagne tastes, the catalogue also offers its 'When you think you've seen it all items. These include the "thousand-dollar" train, a Wild West era train set with 14-inch long cars, the whole set going for $1,000; an oldfashioned popcorn wagon ($1,500): an executive rocking horse, 51/2 feet of handcrafted pine ($1,000); and an au-

Christmas. These include Trivial Pursuit, GoBots, everything — there's a "thousand-dollar train."

Trivial Pursuit no longer has the Betty Niemer of Sears' Detroit office shows some Care Bears, Rainbow Brite dolls and Maxx Steele of the toys projected to be big favorites this robots. And just when you think you have seen > thentic replica of a Victorian-era there were some shortages on the brass bed from the 1897 catalogue ($1,100).

SEARS IS shipping 141/2 million of the catalogues, which feature items ranging in price from 69 cents for a Christmas tree replacement lightbulb to $2,499 for a Blackglama mink coat.

Customers can order as late as Tuesday, Dec. 18, and still get their orders in time for Christmas, Hoogerwoerd said. But it's better to order well before that to avoid any unexpected shortages, he said.

"We do urge customers to shop early so they are not disppointed. Order before Oct. 31," he said. "Last year, which has 516 retail outlets in the Care Bears, which we do not expect this year. Two years ago, it was the Star Wars figures.'

Local toy retailers pretty much echoed Hoogerwoerd's comments, but added a few toys to the list of hot items for 1984.

A spokeswoman for the Toys R Us store in Livonia said in addition to Cabbage Patch pets, Rainbow Brite and Transformers, another hot new item will be My Pretty Pony, which comes in pastel colors, such as a blue pony with purple hair.

Ken Coniff, director of advertising for Kay-Bee Toy and Hobby Shop,

United States, said Trivial Pursuit continues to sell well. "Trivial Pursuit is a phenomenon itself, especially with all its spin-offs Sports Edition, Baby Boomer, Silver Screen," Coniff said. "The fantasy area is doing well. For instance, Mattel's Masters of the Universe and accessory items."

Barbie and Transformers also are selling very well, Coniff said.

"Some of the toys I've already mentioned indicate a trend back to basics, like the dolls and board games," he said. "This is a strong year with more sales. All indications look like it's going to be a strong retail year for

T WAS THE acid test

After the word came down from the Adult World on what was big in Toyland, we decided to go right to the grass roots consumers - the kids - and see if they agreed with the projections.

A panel of small fry "experts" was selected at random from various schools in the areas. They were asked to go through the toy section of Sears' "Wish Book" and pick out five toys they would most like to

The results were not too surprising. For the most part, the kids echoed what Santaland's earthly representatives said.

> THE GIRLS, RANGING from preschoolers to sixth grade, agreed that Cabbage Patch dolls are still the big favorites and they were delighted to find out that now the Cabbage Patchers have new family members plus a bundle of accessories.

The male contingency were in agreement that GoBots were the runaway favorites Some interesting selections surfaced that could be attributable to a particular emphasis of the child's family background That was the case of eight-year-old Andy Raisanen of Westland, who picked a Quizatron over a GoBot "because it was real good for learning." Andy proudly pointed out that he was one of the smartest kids in his tary School in Westland. Sometimes the popular toy was rejected because of a particular experience the panelist had in the past with that type of toy. Many of those were "fake plastic" that didn't hold up under the wear and tear by its young owners or just "looked dumb."

Most of the panelists said they were not unduly influenced by TV commercials but agreed that they often first heard of the toy, through TV ads. Several said they make up their own mind either, after seeing it or playing with it at a friend's house HERE'S HOW OUR panel of judges made their selections - and some comments about their choices

Erin Trainor, 8, third grader from Livonia, picked Barbie Dream Cottage, Precious Loving Wonder, Cabbage Patch Kid, Cabbage Patch Musical Swing, Cabbage Patch Pet, Bald--Headed Cabbage Patch Kid (baby).

grader from Livonia, picked Cabbage Patch Zipper Summer Bag, Bald-Headed Cabbage Patch Kids, Cabbage Patch Musical Swing, and Precious Loving Wonder. Kelly and Erin explained that Precious

Loving Wonder is a doll that moves its arms and legs like a real baby, and can be fed a bottle and it wets its pants. 'It's cute and fun to play with," Erin

"It feels like a real baby, looks like a real baby," Kelly said.

ERIN SAID THE first time she ever saw it was in the catalogue, Kelly saw it on TV.

They both have at least one Cabbage Patch Kid. 'They're lovable, squeezable, fun to play with," Erin said.

"They feel like real babies. Come with shoes and socks. They've got a belly button. There's a signature on the bottom."

Kids talk about Christmas toys

When the Cabbage Patch Swing moves, it makes music.

"It keeps them off your back," Erin said. New items, Cabbage Patch pets, the Koosas, are cute, they both agreed. The animals come with their own leash, little cage and name tag.

Both admitted they were tempted to list Rainbow Brite dolls. They were asked if they thought Rainbow Brite would ever overshoot Cabbage Patch kids

"Noooooooo!!!" was their joint response

"Nothing is good as a Cabbage Patch well, maybe big babies that are real," Kelly said.

Then they gave an expert analysis of why Cabbage Patch is superior to Rain-

"Rainbow Brite has got a hard head." Kelly said.

"CABBAGE PATCH Kids have brains," Erin said.

"You can't take off their (Rainbow Brite's) shoes," Erin said.

"You can't take her hair out of a pony tail," Kelly said of R. Brite. They both like to improvise by adding yarn to their Cabbage Patch Kids' hair to make it longer, since the doll's hair is made of yarn. But Rainbow Brite's have string-type hair, and that takes away this creative option, the two youngsters said.

What didn't they like? "All the boy stuff. G.I. Joe and everything," Erin said. Kelly disliked play dishes, stuffed animals that get rips in them too easily, fake jewelry and makeup. They both said that collecting dolls is a good hobby because it's something that grownups do too.

When Kelly washes her Cabbage Patch, she likes to put it in a bathtub with a rubber duckie and bubble bath. How's that for reality, mom?

DAMIAN TAUCHER, 10, a fifth grader from Westland, picked radiocontrolled Corvette, Stomper Bigfoot, big race car track, Trans Am GoBot and Star Wars figures.

His friend Derek Pych, 11, also a fifth grader from Westland, picked Zod GoBot, Masters of the Universe Snake Mountain, Robotiz, Jabba the Hutt and Stomper Water Diver.

According to them, Stompers are big-wheeled toy vehicles that run on

> You'll find hundreds of AREA RUGS that you like and can afford at 543-5300

Their biggest appeal lies in the fact that, "You can play with them in the dirt and stuff," Damian said. "And you can put them in mud and water."

Derek particularly likes the Stomper Water Diver because it's a robot car that has jaws that can appear to be chewing up other toy cars. They both liked GoBots, too.

"They're like the shape of a car and like a robot, two things in one," Damian said. "It pops out and you can make

DEREK SAW THE Masters of the Universe Snake Mountain on TV, and he likes it.

"It's like a mountain, but it has trap doors in it and a microphone which you can make your own voices in it," Derek said. "And there's a whole bunch of other stuff."

Damian likes a remote-controlled Corvette that can be controlled by a switch without wires. He likes the Trans Am. too.

"It's just like a walkie talkie. There's an antenna on the handle to control it with." Damian said.

WHAT DOES he like about it? "The way it looks and you don't have to get on your knees and push it. You can turn it and reverse it."

Derek said he likes Robotix because you can move its arms and mouth and use it with Masters of the Universe figures. It can eat up the other figures. And it doesn't need batteries.

He also likes the Jabba the Hutt figure, which sits on a stand with a false bottom and you can send other Star Wars figures down it.

The stuff they didn't like? Damian didn't like the Gripper cycle

"THEY LOOK dumb," he said. "They've got fake plastic wheels, and the guys (on the cycles) are dumb.' "I wouldn't want to have that auto ferry." Derek said of a large plastic auto ferry. " 'Cause it would be kind of dumb to play outside and bring that lit-

Derek also disliked the Dukes of Hazzard car. He remembers his own unfortunate experience with one when he was younger. He pushed the car and its wheels came off.

ANDY RAISANEN and his brother, Chet, 5, were the toy panelist mavericks. In addition to a Quizatron, Andy wants an electronics experiments kit, a telescope, drums and a junior tennis set. Like his older brother, Chet shied away from any of the "in" toys, preferring some basebaall cards to add to his collection, Connect-Four and new video cartridges Pitfall and Donkey Kong Jr.

Ten-year-old pals Traci Hughes and Katie Merz, both students at Stuckey Elementary in Redford Township, chose dolls - but differed in the types.

TRACI, ALREADY a Barbi doll owner, wanted a carrying case, a Make-A-Care-Bear kit, a sewing machine and a My Little Pony.

But a freckle-faced Traci admitted that her all-time favorite toy is one she's had for a while - a typewriter.

Katie all but drooled over the doll houses but decided to stick with her own easily transportable cardboardboxes version.

Because she wants to be a doll collector, she chose instead a Betsy-Wetsy doll that would make a nice addition to her collection, as would a Cabbage Patch youngster. She also picked a Star Traveler Motor Home accessory for her Barbi doll and then picked a Unicorn sleeping bag to round out her choices - for over-nights at Traci's house, no doubt.

RAINBOW BRITES didn't make much of an impression on the two. "Cute" said Traci. "Ugly" said Katie. Cabbage Patch dolls are popular, they said, because "they're not as hard and feel more like real."

Nine-year-old Jeffrey Danner of Livonia favored action toys' - like a remote-control car and airplane. And of course, he favored "cool" GoBots and Transformers because "you can make different things."

Playing army with his neighborhood pals is still a lot of fun, and that's why he picked GI Joe with all its accesso-

JESSICA LAPRADD, 9, also of Livonia, admitted she's influenced by TV, but her choices didn't fall exactly in the range of what was "in."

She chose a Santaland make-yourown suncatcher kit, a back pack, a digital watch and a bike plus a Cabbage Patch travel bag because she needs "something to put her baby clothes in."

Preschoolers Andrea Chimiel, 4, and Jimmy Vergona, 4, who attend Good Hope Nursery School in Garden City, didn't waste any time picking out what Jimmy's dad is a firefighter, and he leaned toward toys of that nature, including a wooden fire truck and a play oxygen mask. But he also chose a Masters of the Universe play set and a Knight Rider dashboard.

Hi everyone. I'm sorry I haven't been real regular lately, but I'm happy to report that my daughter Tammi's knee surgery, and my surgery (not on my knee) both went very well. I do, however, owe some people some apologies for things I missed during my absence.

First, to Judy Thomas of Judi's Bag Factor, Judy, as many of you know, is a Cantonite with a better idea. She has a talent for creating unusual, high quality, personal items with her trusty sewing machine.

Judy sews everything from skirts, purses, blankets, to children's toys. I purchased a beautiful bag a couple of years ago and the only thing wrong with it is . . . there's nothing wrong with it! I can't justify purchasing a new one. Anyway, Judy was kind enough to notify me of her fall sale, during which she clears out all her stock in preparation for her heavy Christmas demand. She custom-makes anything, and when she has a sale - well, you can really

PRETTY SOON, we'll be into those wonderful "home Christmas craft shows" and I can't wait; however, Judi's sale was last week and I never got to mention it to you.

I received the information too late for my last column and I wasn't home from the hospital soon enough to write a column last week, so I am very sorry; my apologies to Judy and to all of you who may have missed it.

However, you can still give her a call. If she has any items left, she'll be happy to have you over and let you get a look at her merchandise. There is no pressure to purchase. It'll give you a chance to see some of the things she has in mind for Christmas!

Advance Notice . . . you won't read this until I have gotten over there myself and purchased an "un-neces-sary" purse! Just give her a call at 981-6986 and maybe you and a friend can take a run over there and get a bargain or place your first Christmas order.

I had a wonderful call from Pam Swiderek, a member of the Canton Beautification Committee, and they wanted everyone to know that the committee is in place and ready to roar.

They want us to know that the project on the corner of Sheldon Road and Joy Road was not the end of the committee! As a matter of fact, with the new Downtown Development Association and the planned apartments for Warren Road and Lilley Road, they plan to keep pretty busy!

The committee meets every first Thursday of the month at Township Hall at 7 p.m. and everyone is welcome. If you have any questions or comments, please feel free to call the new chairman, Arlene Woods, at 455-5915 or Pam at 453-1122.

Keeping in the holiday mood, the Zester Senior Citizens will be at the Westland Shopping Center this week-end from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., participat-ing in the Community Bazaar, selling a large variety of handicrafts and baked

They didn't invite me for an advance sale, so you can get in on the good stuff . . . but next year! The only thing about these sales that bothers me is that they come but once a year, and I could enjoy these things all year round.

When it comes to the seniors' crafts sales, I worry that the art they sell could be the last of its kind, because so many children today aren't learning the handicrafts of their parents or grandparents. I have cultivated my craft in my daughters the best way I know how . . . why, they can name every shopping center within three counties, and a few of the really big stores in New York!

I received a phone call from a very excited grandmother, Carol Alterman this evening. It just so happens she is not only a grandmother, but a very dear friend of mine and I am proud to announce that her daughter Debbie and Debbie's husband, Richey Vaughn, just became the proud parents of a little became the proud parents of a little lady, 6 pounds 6 ounces at 11:15 p.m.

Daddy is said to be in seventh heaven. After being with his wife all the way through, as many dads do today, he was able to see his little daughter come into this world kicking and screaming all the way!

THE PRELIMINARY name is Rachael Lee. Proud relatives are grandparents Richard and Shirley Vaughn of Plymouth; Al and Carol Alterman of Canton; and Michael and Todd Alterman. Todd was recently married to Gaynie Current of Malone, N.Y., where he now lives.

Cathy Alterman, now is to be known as Aunt Cathy to all her close friends at Pioneer Middle School and her second home, the Skatin' Station.

Our hats are off to one of the track coaches at Plymouth Canton High School, Michael Spitz, after his recent participation in the Ultimate Runner Oct. 6 in Jackson, Michigan.

Mike, who runs about 60 miles per week, is a veteran of the Boston Marathon, but in this competition he would need to draw on his past experience as a member of the varsity track and field and cross country teams at Eastern Michigan.

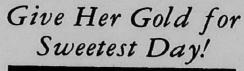

Mike was running about 16th going into the final event, the marathon. However, during the marathon he aggravated an old knee injury and instead of his anticipated two-hour, 40-minute time, he finished in a long, agonizing four hours.

As luck would have it, there were many dropouts during this event and he still finished-about 17th; I'm still trying to get that final number

The high number of dropouts was un-derstandable, though. You see, the name "Ultimate Runner" means exactly that, for the event started at 7:30 a.m. and before the 2 p.m. starting time for the marathon, each runner had already completed a 10 kilometer run. a 400 meter run, a 100 meter run, and a one mile run.

All in all, quite an accomplishment. However, Mike wants to give an enormous thank-you to his wife, family and friends, without whom he says he could

Conference makes pitch to promote women in sales

staff writer

FUNNY THING happened to Nancy Gilmore on the way to

She started an organization now known as Professional Women in

That was about three years ago and all Gilmore originally set out to do was to organize a chapter of the National Association for Professional Saleswom-

She began with a nucleus of 11 women. One of them was Lynn Evans, an energetic and promising student in one of the management training classes Gilmore was conducting in Detroit.

"HAVE YOU EVER heard of Professional Women in Sales?" she recalls asking Evans.

Evans replied that she hadn't but was interested. Gilmore said: "Well, we're going to start one." Therein began the only organization of its kind in the area for women in sales. In fact, it has no male counterpart in the area at the present time. Gilmore, of Livonia, became the current president. Gilmore said that as a sales person herself she found it was "an isolated group's first president. Evans is the profession" "There was nowhere to go to talk about the successes — the big sale you clinched. Or talk about the doors that were slammed in your face. There was no chance for networking - an invaluable way to meet and exchange ideas."

HER OWN EXPERIENCES convinced her that the Detroit area was ripe for such an organization. That she guessed right is evidenced by the fact that the chapter soon became the largest chapter in the country with over 200 active members representing Fortune 500 companies and other major businesses.

"At our first meeting we had 225 people," recalled Gilmore, who at one time operated her own management training company, Performance Training Associates, and frequently conducted seminars for the Livonia Chamber of Commerce.

"Even now, we have on an average of 100 members at our monthly meet-ing, she added." The current membership is about 165.

To better serve its members, the Detroit area chapter split from the national organization recently to become Professional Women in Sales, a nonprofit organization providing education information, networking, job bank, motivational speakers and sales train-ganization will come Saturday, Oct. 20, when the membership hosts an all-day sales conference at Mercy College featuring 34 workshops on various topics plus an address by Lt. Governor Martha Griffiths and keynote speeches by sales entrepreneurs Beverly Kiev-man and Carol Hyatt.

A subtitle for the seminar could very well be "Everything You Ever Wanted to Know about Sales but Didn't Know Who to Ask," commented Diane Dauble, another Livonia resident who is active in the organization.

Dauble is education chairman and played a key role in organizing the seminar by helping to arrange for the various workshops.

The workshops, she notes, cover all facets of successful sales techniques plus advice on how to dress, how to deal with differences in people and keeping it all together on the home-

THERE ARE SOME intriguing workshop titles, including: "Oh Lord, Please Don't Let me Be Misunderstood" and "Finding the Job You Want or Has Princess Diana Retired Yet?" All conference facilitators are experts in their particular field of discussion. Some of the speakers come from the organization's own membership.

While the conference is geared for professional saleswomen, any woman thinking of entering a sales career is

Price of the conference is $40 for early registration (up to Oct. 19) and $55 the day of event. The admission covers a coffee hour registration period in the morning, lunch with Griffiths as speaker, and a wine and cheese party at the conclusion of the day.

TO REGISTER or for further information, call 261-0410. Dauble, a former English teacher ir the Livonia public schools, fairly bub bles with enthusiasm for the group which she joined after she was pinkslipped and had to make a career sentative for Loomis Armored Inc. the only woman in this position in the state of Michigan. Matching her enthusiasm is another Livonia resident and ex-teacher whe switched to a sales career because itoffered more opportunity and greater time flexibility in combining the role of mother and career woman.

She is Cathy Bays, who is presently on maternity leave from her sales control systems job.

"There's a lot of money to be made out there in sales," the three women note. "Women make excellent sales people. We have definite advantages. We communicate with others easier. We come across as being more honest."

"WE DON'T HAVE that male huckster image," they continued. "Women are more perceptive in picking up any vibes that could help or hinder a sale." None of the three has encountered any great amount of harassment from male clients. Professionalism is the key, they added. "If you have product knowledge, you don't have a problem."

And the higher the corporate status of the person you're dealing with, the easier it is to receive fair treatment.

"You encounter more prejudice in a mom-and-pop operation than you do at the corporate level," said Dauble.

Women are returning in droves to the work force. Gilmore noted, but most are in lower paying jobs like fast food operations or getting stuck in "pink collar" secretarial jobs.

Sales careers, she feels, offer stronger economic power at a faster pace.

The outlook for women in sales is excellent, according to PWS vice president Mary Walsh, a recruiter for major Detroit area companies seeking professional salespeople.

"In my eight years as a recruiter, I have seen twice as many women enter the sales field and earn twice as much money as they did five years ago."

Gilmore, Dauble and Bays all add a resounding amen to that.

"Is it 1984 yet?" will be the question of the evening at 7 p.m. Thursday, Oct.18, at the Southfield Public Li-

Dr. Jerry Herron, assistant professor of English at Wayne State University, discusses the ideas of George Orwell as presented in the novel "1984".

"George Orwell from 1984" is the topic of the talk, part of the John Creecy Program Series. An animated film version of Orwell's "Animal Farm" will be shown at 7 p.m. Oct. 25.

Comments by Dr Michael Scribener, who teaches a course on Orwell at Wayne State University, will follow the Admission is $1 for adults for each program. Youngsters under age 18 and members of the Friends of the Library will be admitted free.

Sontegra's sun tanning systems utilize only "skin-friendly" UV-A-that's the part of the sunlight which pigments (tans) the skin but doesn't burn like UV-B can. In other words, you receive the benefits of the sun without the unpleasant side effects! Less time consuming too!!

Trinity observes 60th anniversary

LORD IS

Women in the Livonia church made this quilted banner in honor of Trinity's 60th anniversary observance. Quilters included Zoa

Redford, Jill Ball of Livonia and Delma Schwalm, also of Livonia.

Trinity Baptist Church, with locations in Livonia and Detroit, will mark the 60th anniversay of its founding with special services at both churches.

The opening service in the observance will be Sunday at the Detroit Church, 8738 Fenkell Ave., Detroit, with the tion.

closing service at the Livonia loca-14800 Middlebelt. Dr. Lyle M. Adams, pastor emeritus, who

Rev. Mathias present pastor

vice on Sunday

pastored the Trinity congregation for nearly 25 years, will speak at each location's morning worship ser-

A highlight of the observance will be "homecoming event" Friday, Oct. 26 with the presentation by the church's drama ministry, Trinity House Players, of "A Meeting in Kansas," written and directed by assistant pastor Paul Patton.

PRECEDING THE play will be an old-fashloned, home-cooked chicken dinner served by the women of the church in the historic farmhouse that serves as the parsonage.

After dinner, guests will be able to tour the 1849 Greek Revival-style building, adjacent to the equally historic Trinity House, once a Quaker Meeting House with community roots dating back to 1850. Special services at the Detroit location will include a potluck dinner and open house at 1:30 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 21, followed by a 60th anniversary celebration service at 3:30 p.m. with special music and an address by Rev. Bill

At the 9:30 a.m. service Sunday, Oct. 28, Pastor Norman Mathias will speak at the Livonia location. At the ll a.m. morning worship in Detroit, Pastor Hollis Evans will speak.

The church was first organized on

Aug. 27, 1924 under the name of Olivet Services will be followed by a 12:30 Baptist Church. Upon learning that p.m. buffet luncheon-open house in there was already a church organized under that name, the congregation chose the name of Trinity.

THE CHURCH HAS had only six pastors in its 60 years.

To meet the needs of young families who were settling in the Redford-Livonia area, the congregation in 1926 purchased a site on Middlebelt, south of Five Mile, Livonia and in October of that year, services were started in nearby Adams Elementary School.

Several years ago, additional acreage was purchased near Haggerty. Road on Six Mile, adjacent to Schoolcraft College. The site was eventually developed into a 99-bed residential home for the aged.

If was the second such development in Trinity's history. The first came in 1972 when the congregation completed Trinity Park, a 40-unit non-profit senior citizen center providing housing at a reasonable cost for retired persons. The development is adjacent to the Livonia chapel on Middlebelt Road.

History came into play in 1973 when the congregation voted to save the historic Luther Briggs house from the pathway of I-275 and moved it to the Six Mile property. The house was re-stored and serves as the parsonage.

AT ADJACENT Trinity House, sometimes referred to as Union Church - extension services were conducted until March 1983 when the small group of dedicated parishioners decided to join the Middlebelt church. The building is now used for the drama ministry.

As part of the 60th anniversary and homecoming, a group of women in the Livonia church completed a 12-square quilted wall hanging based on the theme selected for the anniversary, Psalm 90:1 "Lord, you have been our dwelling place throughout all generations." It will be on display in the Livonia church.

Norman Mathias is Trinity senior pastor. Patton is assistant pastor in Livonia and Rev. Hollis Evans is pastor in Detroit.

False prophets vs. true prophets

One of the greatest achievements of American democracy is our tradition of religious liberty.

Fr. Dustin and Elma perform at St. Robert Bellarmine

It is founded on the principle of the separation of church and state. This constitutional safeguard guarantees that the government, which represents all the people, has no business generating pressure of any religious belief on any individual citizen.

It guarantees that persons can conduct their religious practices and ex-press their religious beliefs free from the pressure of government.

This principle is now under chal-lenge. Organized religious groups have entered the political arena passing re-solutions or proposing actions that embody their request for governmental support of their religious viewpoint.

THESE GROUPS have demanded: some form of prayer in the public schools (non-denominational prayer, silent prayer, The Lord's Prayer, Bible reading); subsidies of one kind or another for religious education; the display of traditional symbols of religion; the requirement that public officials and/ or appointees to the Supreme Court pass "qualifying tests" with regard to their views on abortion and other mat-

moral perspectives

Rabbi Irwin Groner

Much of the support for this passionate involvement by religious institutions into the political process stems from the belief that an increased presence of religion in governmental activities could help restore traditional mo-

This assumes, first of all, that all religions share a common view of morality, which, of course, they do not. On the issue of abortion, significant differences can be found in the doctrines of diverse religions.

More important, the connection be-tween the presence of religion in gov-ernment and the preservation of moral values is more apparant than real.

TWENTY YEARS AGO, Rabbi Joachim Prinz, testifled against a proposed constitutional ammendment to permit school prayer. He said: "I question, whether 'public school and relig-ion' can or ever has had the effect of heightening and strengthening moral responsibility. Indeed, there is good evidence that state-sponsored religion does not increase the public morality of a country that endorses it.

When I was educated in German public schools, all children in public schools from the ages of 6 to 18 were required not merely to recite a prayer at the beginning of each school session, but to receive religious instruction twice a week.

"Did that program effectively teach morality to the German people? If it did, it would be difficult to explain the rise of Hitler and the total moral collapse and even depravity of the German people, which resulted in the torture and death of millions of Jews and Christians.

THE BIBLE DESCRIBES the "false prophets" who were on the payroll of the king, and who prophesied what the king wished to hear. The use of religion to further the interests of a political party or even the agenda of the government as a whole will deprive society of the benefit of religion's independent and often critical voice, and will result in the distortion of the message of rein the distortion of the message of religious institutions to make it conform to the interest of its patron, the state.

Religion, like the true prophets of ancient Israel, must be independent of officialdom and not subservient to the state financially or otherwise.

Surely, religion need not be an enemy of government, but it must be independent of it, so that it can criticize pendent of it, so that it can criticize government when it believes God demands such criticism. It is in the highest interest of religion to protect the integrity of its vision and the independence of its institutional life.

The method of religion is not coercion through political power, but rather the method of moral authority whose strength is in persuasion, witness, and strength is in persuasion, withe postitive example.

Proud Nederlander fears erosion at U-M

By Tim Richard staff writer

You could see what Robert E. Nederlander was up against when he spoke to the University of Michigan Club of De-

The all-male luncheon audience, meeting in the sanctuary of the University Club on E. Jefferson, allotted the U-M regent five minutes and asked no

Next speaker was the Wolverines' baseball coach, who was accorded 45 minutes for a speech and questions. The table conversation was largely about Bo Schembechler's sagging foothall fortune.

"I don't make many speeches," said Nederlander, 51, a Birmingham lawyer and president of a nationwide theater company, who is seeking his third eight-year term on the Board of Regents.

"Mostly I talk to newspaper editors and television stations outstate," he added. "I don't talk to coffees."

EIGHT EDUCATION posts are on the Michigan ballot Nov. 6 - the state Board of Education and the governing boards of the "big three" universities.

By and large, the education positions are won by the prevailing party in that year's election - but not always. Democrat Nederlander won his first eightyear term in 1968 when Nixon was elected president, his second term in 1976 when Carter won. This year he is on the ballot again.

Nederlander's talk to the University Club was hardly a candidate's campaign speech, although the club chairman gave a non-partisan pep talk on his behalf. Instead, Nederlander talked about his work on the presidential and the $160-million capital campaign he's heading up. He talks pridefully about the alma mater where he earned degrees in economics and law and was captain of the Big Ten championship tennis team.

"I WAS HEAD of the selection committee. We visited the presidents of Harvard, Princeton and Yale - not to interview them for the job but to find out what the job needed.

"They said it was 'the best job of all' in the United States. There is a small board - just eight - to work with compared to 26 in California. They pointed out we get $200 million from the state along with private contribu-

"They said, 'Don't experiment.' So we came back to our academic vice president, Harold Shapiro, for president. He was the best of all.

"THERE AREN"T a lot of great people out there. There are two great public universities - Michigan and (University of California at) Berkeley.

"As far as the world is concerned, Michigan is in the top five in the country. We don't realize the kind of institution we have," he said, building up the audience's pride.

If they had heard tales of declining numbers of college students, Nederlander said to forget them. "Applications are up 18 percent among in-state students and 35 percent for out-of-state students. To get into the University of Michigan today, you've got to be in the top 7 percent of your (high school)

"We couldn't get a chairman for the capital campaign," said Nederlander, confessing the job had fallen to him. President Gerald Ford and General Motors Chairman Roger Smith have been "great" and "terrific," and they've raised $65 million toward the $160 million, four-year goal.

"There isn't any way you've paid for your education," he said referring to the tuition they had paid. "You oughta pay it back now."

And that was the end of his speech.

WHEN DEMOCRATS nominated their 1984 ticket in August, Nederlander got none of the air time and ink accorded to his running mate of '68 and '84 - Gerald Dunn.

A lobbyist for school districts, Dunn on some items of legislation for his clients, earning the wrath of the United Auto Workers leaders. Dunn was dumped in favor of Marjorie Lansing, 68, and an Eastern Michigan University professor. Nederlander was renominated easily.

Among some Democrats, including Dunn, a popular issue is "divestment" - selling stocks of all companies doing business in racially segregated South Africa. Nederlander is cool to the idea,

The board voted a couple of times not to divest. The legislature passed a law that education institutions must divest. The dilemma is our (U-M's) constitutional autonomy versus dealing with the Legislature.

"We decided to sell a certain portion of our stock and keep the stock in cor-porations that did business in Michigan. We brought suit (against the state law) in Ingham Circuit Court." The suit is pending.

"It's a difficult question. There's no right answer. People argue both sides of it - very persuasively.

IN AN INTERVIEW after his University Club speech. Nederlander admitted some serious worries about U- "Tuition is now bringing in 43-per-cent of the operating budget ($345-mil-lion). It used to be 30-percent eight or nine years ago. The state is supplying less and less (percentage-wise).

"The state of Michigan has to and it self if they want to maintain a quality institution in Ann Arbor. We are out of reserves. We've not been able to replace equipment. We've got to make re-

U-M has the highest tuition of any public university in the U.S., and Michigan State and Wayne State rank second and fourth nationally. U-M raised tuition 7 percent last year.

Festival to help abused children

The city of Livonia is sponsoring its first Fall Fest on beginning at 9 a.m. Saturday at the Livonia Civic Center, Five Mile and Farmington roads.

THE AGONY — Columnist W.W. Edgar finds that the pain of raking leaves is modest when compared with the joy provided by the autumn colors:

Leaves: what pain, but what joy

FOR YEARS when The Stroller was a young lad going to school in the Pennsylvania Dutch Country, he was told all about the beauty of Michigan especially the Upper Peninsula — and the wonderful color scenes that could be viewed each fall.

The teacher kept reminding us that if we ever got the chance, never to miss a trip up there. She said it was a scene that never could be forgotten. She emphasized it, saying that in the fall of the year it is almost a miracle when the trees in the woods change and the stroller the leaves become the envy of W.W.

Little did The Stroller think in those days that he ever would see Michigan, let alone the socalled fabulous Upper Peninsula.

BUT LIFE sometimes can be puzzling, and the day came when he boarded the train for Michigan to continue his stroll along the river of printer's ink.

Edgar

As he stepped on the train that unforgettable night, one of the family's best friends reminded him, "Don't forget to go to the Upper Peninsula if you get the chance. They say there is nothing like it."

It was good advice. But it was years before the chance came to make the trip to the copper country in the fall. And it was a trip well worthwhile. The color was grand.

Then one day, after he had been a resident for years, came the chance to purchase a piece of property in the Detroit suburbs.

You'll like it," was the advice he was given, and the real estate broker added, "It is the wooded section of an old abandoned farm. It could be a most unusual place.'

WITH THOSE words ringing in his ears, a deal was made, and it wasn't very long until a home was being built in the heart of the woods.

This was like a miracle for The Stroller never expected to own his own home. Sure, it was a dream

Well, the home was built. The ground was prepared, and before he knew it the little white house with the green shutters was standing there in the middle of the trees.

It was a sight to behold — that is, until the first fall came along. Then his eyes were opened with one of the grandest scenes he could expect.

HE PEERED out the window and gasped. The leaves were changing, and there were all sorts of colors. It mattered little at the time that these same leaves would become a problem after they fell from the trees. It mattered little that morning, for the idaves as much as our columnist enjoys required before the snow fell. It so happened that a road had been built in the woods to give us an avenue into our home and garage. When the snow came, it was quite a job. It took days to rake the leaves.

But each day as he finished, The Stroller looked about, and again the view of the trees and the changing colors came to mind. Then he recalled the old saying that there is nothing free in this world, that you must pay for all you get.

Well, the scene was worth the effort, and when Mother Nature puts on her fall miracle, it is worth the price one has to pay - even if it is raking leaves

Crum named Eagle Scout

Brian R. Crum, 16, of Canton has earned the highest advancement award the Eagle rank - offered to scouts by the Boy Scouts of America.

Brian, son of Barbara and Russell Crum of Canton, is a member of Troop 743 which is sponsored by Plymouth Elks Lodge 1780

Scoutmaster Ken Kramer says Brian is one of about 2 percent of all Boy Scouts who attain Eagle rank.

Each candidate must earn 21 merit badges and complete a service project. Brian organized and conducted a clothing drive to benefit the Plymouth-Canton Clothing Bank which resulted in 1,640 pounds of clothing being donated for needy families of the community.

His leadership roles since joining the troop in 1979 include: assistant patrol leader, patrol leader, librarian, assistant senior patrol leader, senior patrol leader and currently junior assistant scoutmaster and instructor.

He also is active in the Order of the Arrow, an honorary scouting camping and service society.

What girls need is time, not rush

OW LET'S be fair about this. This is not to be misconstrued as a condemnation of high school girls' sports.

Since Title IX was enacted, those favoring female sports have waged a long and bitter battle against a stodgy, male-oriented state athletic association mired in an ancient belief that girls belong in Home Ec class, not on a basketball

I don't believe that. I believe every girl deserves her share of time on court. Sport is not sexual.

But I'll tell you what I do believe. I think sometimes we go too fast. We overreact. We try to correct a wrong as old as mankind with one quick decision, a wrong that has existed since the first Neanderthal went hunting with the boys, leaving the wife alone in the cave.

And I don't think that's the way to do things.

GIRLS CROSS COUNTRY is my example. I pick t because it is one sport in which females could, in the not-too-distant future, catch and perhaps surpass males. Articles written at the time of the Los Angeles Olympics pointed out that Joan Benoit's marathon times indicated faster improvement by women distance runners than

Women are said to possess a greater tolerance for the pain of distance running. This has been scientifically mapped out. There's only one problem: interest

Or lack thereof. The marathon runners of tomorrow should be training on the high school cross-country teams of today.

But they aren't. In fact, in some areas they're staying away in droves.

EXAMPLE: the Metro Suburban Activities Association (MSAA). The eight-team circuit will hold its league meet Saturday, and there will be a full contingent of boys teams.

But there could be as few as four girls squads. "West Bloomfield will probably have a team," predicted Southfield-Lathrup cross country coach Gerry Mineweaser. "And we'll have one, but our level of competitiveness won't be too much. We have six girls and, frankly, a couple are below the fitness level."

By that, Mineweaser means they have trouble breaking 28 minutes for 3.1 miles - about a nineminute-a-mile pace.

At the Oakland County meet, 37 schools entered in the girls race and 37 schools entered in the boys race. In the standings, 36 boys teams finished, but only 26 schools had enough girls finish to qualify in the team placing.

Bloomfield Hills Lahser, Rochester and Birmingham Groves have all enjoyed dual meet success in the MSAA this season. Yet, of Groves' five wins, at least three were by default. Royal Oak Dondero, Rochester Adams and Troy Athens never had enough girls for a team.

IN THE NORTHWEST Suburban League (NSL), girls cross country finally made it as a league sport. It made it because this year, for the first time, four schools have teams.

Part of the problem is choice. In the fall, girls can compete in basketball, tennis and swimming, as well as cross country.

We have an exceptional cross country team playing basketball," said Farmington coach Gerry Young. "They're great track performers and they'd be great in cross country, but they think basketball

Steve Dollaway, who rejuvenated Livonia Franklin's girls' cross country program, agreed. "The glamour sports are basketball and soccer," he

But another problem is coaching. Boys still run faster than girls, and if a school has just one coach for both teams, he goes with the frontrunners. The girls often get neglected.

"One coach for both boys and girls keeps girls away," Dollaway, who coaches just Franklin's girls, said. "They don't get the attention they need in workouts.'

BUT THERE is another more disturbing problem. As Young put it: "There's not as much interest as there are programs.'

Which means that, yes, we are developing the athletes. Several girls sports have made tremendous strides, like basketball and soccer. But are there enough good, or even decent, female athletes to populate all the sports? Not yet. Depth is a problem for nearly every girls team. Any girl wishing to compete at the varsity level has a solid chance of at least making the team, even though she may possess a minimum There's no easy answer to this, which is exactly my point. A dozen years ago, girls gave up sports before they reached high school. Now they're being pushed into them. Somewhere in there must be a

I figure it will take another generation - about 10 years - before the transformation is complete. It'll take that long for girls to receive the same encouragement and athletic training at the same early age boys do and carry that on to the high

They shouldn't be burdened with league championships in sports in which either interest or skill is lacking just because boys have them. They'll end up making comparisons, which could leave deep-rooted feelings of inferiority. And that could lead to another tragedy.

The slow start nearly earned Canton an early exit from the state playoffs Monday against lowly

The Chiefs sputtered and struggled for 80 minutes Monday. When the regulation clock expired, the game was still tied 1-1.

Then, for the second time in three days, Morgan gave his troops a loud piece of his mind.

"I gave them a lesson in what they should be doing out there," he said. And his team memorized

The Chiefs responded by scoring three goals in the first four minutes of the 10-minute overtime period to beat the Patriots 4-1.

'We didn't play soccer for the first 80 minutes, but we made up for it in the first four of OT," Mor-

Steve Morell, who's been on a torrid goal scoring spree of late, notched the first overtime goal. Then Tim Mueller scored. Then Bryan Whiteley, who scored the first Chief goal, got the finale.

The win raised Canton's record to 12-2-1 and earned them the right to meet Catholic Central at 7 p.m. Friday in the next round of state district tournament games. The game will be played at Redford's Bell Creek Park. CC, the champion of the Catholic League, is 17-2 and riding the crest of a 14-

THE CHIEFS got off to another slow start against Livonia Bentley Saturday. Before the first half was half over, Bentley had roared to a 3-0 lead a lead most teams don't overcome against powerful Bentley. Once again Morgan went into a tirade.

"I raised a little hell and did a little switching and we started to play like we can," he said. Morell scored three straight goals to earn Canton

"To be able to come back and gain a tie against a team like Bentley says a lot for the kind of team we have," Morgan said. Morgan also applauded the defensive play of Rob Opatrny.

The tie keeps Canton's hopes for a conference title share alive. The Chiefs, the champs of the Western Lakes Western Division, have a 9-1-1 conference record. Livonia Stevenson, undefeated in league play, still has a match to play with Bentley. If Bentley wins, Canton and Stevenson tie for the Western Lakes crown.

STEVENSON 2, PLY. SALEM 0: The soggy Livonia Stevenson field slowed both teams down Monday, but No. 1-ranked Spartans stayed a step ahead. John Gelmisi scored a goal in each half to lead

Stevenson to its 14th win of the season. "We played a great first half," said Salem coach Ken Johnson. "We're just not getting the first goal early that could lead an upset. You can't miss your opportunities against a good team like Stevenson.' Stevenson enjoyed a 15-8 edge in shots. Credit goalie Dan Millner with the shutout. Salem is 9-4-1.

Frigge leads Chiefs' back, Rojeski, Head save Rocks

staff writer

It started out Tuesday night like any other onesided romp and ended up a typical Canton-Salem battle for hometown bragging rights.

After a terrible first quarter, the visiting Plymouth Canton girls basketball team charged back and was denied a win by the Rocks, 41-35, in over-

The Rocks completely shut down the Chiefs in the first quarter, outscoring them 19-4. The Chiefs were only allowed five shots in the opening stanza and their defense looked like a Kung Fu class, sending Salem to the foul line nine times.

Salem's hot hand from the floor built up what looked like an insurmountable lead at the half, 25-11. Despite Canton's second quarter improvement, it looked like a lost cause for the Chiefs

CANTON APPLIED a tenacious full-court trap defense which led to Salem turnovers and the Chiefs took advantage of them. Junior point guard Beth Frigge began penetrating on offense and the Canton shots began to fall. By the start of the final period, the Chiefs trailed by six, 29-23.

With 5:05 remaining in the game, Frigge stole the ball, drove the length of the court and was fouled. The foul was ruled intentional and Frigge's layup was good. She converted both free throws and the score was tied for the first time, 31-31.

Both teams traded baskets for the final five minutes, Salem's points coming on long range jump shots by Reggie Rojeski.

With nine seconds remaining, Canton failed to take advantage of a Salem turnover and sent the game into overtime.

Salem clearly controlled the overtime, working the ball into freshman center Dena Head, who hit two clutch baskets.

Head led all scorers with 14 points and played well for Salem in the first half. But it was Head's tough inside play that kept the Rocks in the game in the second half. She scored all of Salem's points in the third quarter and six of the Rocks' 10 the entire half. She also pumped in four of Salem's six over-"(HEAD) PLAYED very well for us tonight," Salem coach Fred Thomann said, noting she is only 14-years-old. "Reggie Rojeski played well down the stretch for us. She hit some jumpers late in the fourth quarter that kept us in the game."

While Thomann wasn't happy to be in such a close game at the end, he said he was pleased his team kept its poise down the stretch.

"It's a credit to our team that they withstood the heat and took control in the overtime," he said. "But you know that when you're playing Canton, there is no easy ride. They are a very capable

Despite the first quarter deficit, the Chiefs were never out of it, according to coach John Mulroy.

"I expected us to be there at the end," he said. "If there's one thing about these girls it's that they nev-er quit. They play all-out until the final buzzer." Mulroy said he is worried, however, by his team's continued slow starts. "We've done this a lot," he said, about the poor opening quarter. "This is the fourth game in a row body else gets here in the first. These girls know they have the game in the bag if we play tough in the first quarter."

Laura Darby led Canton (5-6 overall, 4-4 in league play) with eight points and was instrumental in the comeback. Lisa Russell scored seven points and Kathy Ross and Frigge added six each. For Salem (11-2, 7-1), Fran Whittaker scored seven points and Rojeski added six.

SOUTHFIELD CHRISTIAN 48, PLYMOUTH CHRISTIAN 40: Plymouth Christian staged a late fourth quarter rally Tuesday, but ran out of steam against league rival Southfield Christian, 48-40.

The Eagles trailed by 11 at intermission, 25-14, but pulled to within three late in the final period only to fall short of victory. It was Plymouth's ninth loss in 10 games. The Eagles Michigan Independent Athletic Association league record fell to Debbie VanHoose tallied 10 fourth quarter points and finished with a game high 22 for the Eagles. Mychele Paul pumped in 16 for the winners.

Plymouth Christian lost another heartbreaker Thursday, this time to Oakland Christian, 45-44. The Eagles led by two at the half 23-21 but fell behind for good in the third period.

VanHoose took scoring honors with 15 points and Jill Schaufele added 11 for Plymouth Christian.

Diana Knickerbocker of the Chiefs tries to shake the sticky defense of Salem's Mary Beth Weast.

Dave Duelo: a 'reborn' marathon man

By Chris McCosky staff writer

AVE DUELO figured his life, as he had known it for 23

It had ended in 1980 on a stretch of 10 Mile Road, near the Godwin Glen Golf Course

He was driving a truck on his way home from a landscaping job he'd been working. Driving toward him was another car. The driver reached down to the floor apparently to adjust a portable radio. In so doing, the car swerved into Duelo's lane.

The car, going 60 mph, met Duelo's truck head on.

When Duelo regained consciousness, he found himself in an intensive care unit of Botsford Hospital. His right elbow had been shattered into 60 pieces. A large chunk of metal ripped through his right knee cap severing tendons and ligaments.

Because oil and grease had entered and infected the wound, doctors feared the leg would be lost. Dave Duelo, they said, was simply lucky to be alive.

"LAYING IN the hospital, I had more or less given up on everything," Duelo said. "I was really depressed."

His depression was certainly under standable. Duelo was a standout athlete at Farmington High School, graduating in 1975. He played baseball and ran cross country

He went on to pitch for two years at Jackson Community College. He eventually got his degree from Michigan State University in 1979.

He had just started working in his field of study, landscape design, when the accident occurred. He was still very much involved in athletics.

Now, as a result of the accident, he was facing perhaps the loss of a leg.

Even the news that his leg could be saved didn't do much to cheer him, initially. He was still facing at least six months confined to a wheelchair and nearly two years of rehabilitation.

"I was just completely out of it. I didn't want to do anything to help myself," he said.

Indeed, his life would never be as it was the first 23 years. But, thanks to a powerful lecture delivered by a Botsford nurse. Duelo's life was far from people in sports

AS DUELO, still moping about, was ready to be discharged from the hospital, he received a very stern lecture from his nurse.

"She took me aside and really set me straight." Duelo said. "She told me I was darn lucky to even be alive and that I should appreciate it. She told me to do as much as I can with my life."

Duelo took the nurse's advice to

After the six-month wheelchair sentence, he tore into his rehabilitation program with the zeal of a man possessed.

"Being in sports all my life really helped me," he said. "I knew what it would take to get me back."

While the prescribed program called for workouts two or three days per week, Duelo worked out five days a week, three hours a day.

"It was like learning to walk all over again," he said.

As a result, Duelo's leg is nearly 100 percent and his athletic career has taken on new heights. He is one the area's best marathon runners.

The shattered elbow, repaired thanks to the doctors taking a bone from his hip and grafting it to the elbow, cannot be totally extended. Yet, as an assistant baseball coach for Farmington's American Legion team, Duelo can still pitch a mean batting practice.

"People who knew me six years ago, and didn't know about the accident, can't tell it even happened," Duelo said.

Duelo said he took up marathon running soon after he completed his rehab program.

"God saved my leg," he said. "I didn't want to just sit around. It motivated me to use it and do as much as I can He completed the Detroit Free Pree Marathon in 3:01.00.

"The knee was just unbelievably good," he said. "No pain at all. The doctors were shocked when they found out I was running. They couldn't believe

The next year, after running some 94 miles a week in preparation, Duelo ran the Free Press race in 2:47.0 and qualified for the prestigious Boston Marathon - which he ran the following spring in the same 2:47.0.

"That was a great thrill," he said. "To run with the crowds and with the elite runners across the country was just great."

Last Sunday, Duelo ran his best time in the Free Press Marathon. He was the 70th runner to cross the finish line, the first from Farmington, in 2:43.03.

Not bad for someone who nearly lost his leg four years ago.

Now people approach Duelo with amazement, wondering how he managed to survive his ordeal. His answer is simple and from the heart:

doctors - and I thank God for saving my leg."

Golf pro John Miller eyes U.S. Open title

staff writer

If Johnny Miller ever writes an autobiography, he could title it, "One More Time.

Since the popular 37-year-old pro golfer charged from behind with a finat-round 63 to win the 1973 U.S. Open at Oakmont, he has seemed on the threshold of greatness. Knocking on the door, so to speak, but never gaining admittance. He seems forever plodding along the comeback trail, unable to match his early career exploits. Miller followed his U.S. Open performance with eight wins in 1974 and $353,000 in winnings. He has not won that many tournaments since. His career took a terrible slide, dipping to a low of only $17,000 won in 1979. MILLER REBOUNDED to win more than $200,000 a year ago, including the Chrysler Team Invitational last December. Miller was in Southfield Tuesday at Plum Hollow Country Club promoting this year's $450,000 Chrysler tournament, slated for Dec. 13-16 at Boca West Resort in Boca Raton, Fla. Miller's extracurricular activities have been to blame for some of his problems, including an assortment of injuries. Two weeks before this year's Master's, Miller was involved in an accident in his Jeep. He injured his wrist and was forced out of three of the 15 tournaments he had committed cle mishap that put him out of action. plays courses he likes."

"I've always enjoyed things that go fast," said Miller. "Old guys never grow up, their toys just get bigger."

Miller confirmed that he is healed completely and "right now I'm hitting the ball pretty good, for me. I wish the Chyrsler was next week."

MILLER DIDN'T win a tour event last year but had the odd distinction of being in the lead of the only two five-round tournaments - the Bob Hope and Las Vegas Open - after four rounds.

"Just my luck," he said. He's planning on better fortunes this season. He's worked on his putting, a problem in the past, and is ready to get the season started. He teammed with Jack Nicklaus to win the Chrysler tourney last year, and they'll team up again to defend their title.

Of course, Miller will be back in town next June, for the U.S. Open at Birmingham's Oakland Hills. Miller played at Oakland Hills twice before, at the 1972 and 1979 PGA Champion-

"I don't remember not doing well on the course," he said. "I always tell people it's a golf course where you have to hit it, then chase it. It's a long, tough, fine golf course. It doesn't dink you to death '

OAKLAND HILLS is one course Miller wouldn't pass up a chance to play. "One reason I play tournaments is the courses. I'll tell you, if Nicklaus doesn't play well at your tournament, you can offer him anything you want A few years ago, it was a motorcy- and he won't come back. He only

Andy Rama: CC's goal-scoring wizard

By Brad Emons staff writer

You'd think Andy Rama would have been somewhat upset.

The record-scoring forward from Redford Catholic Central, who entered Sunday's Catholic League boys soccer championship with 57 goals, was held

But that didn't bother Rama, who puts "the team" ahead of personal glory. The bottom line, as far as he was concerned, was the final score: CC 3, Warren DeLaSalle 1.

"You should have seen the jubilation in his face," said CC first-year coach Paul Scicluna. "He was the happiest guy out there."

On Sunday, Rama was marked frequently by three DeLaSalle players. And for the final 14 minutes, the CC star was moved to defense to protect the lead.

"I saw the other side of him in that game," said Scicluna. "I didn't start him because I wanted to see what kind of alignment DeLaSalle was in.

"Andy did his job. He took his three guys and opened it up."

Wilson to claim its first Catholic

League crown. Rob Tartaglia assisted on the first Niebrzydoski goal and Dan

Brian Young scored in the first half to give DeLaSalle a 1-1 tie.

CC then raised its record to 17-2 overall with a 5-1 pre-regional win to 61. Vitas Rugienius had the other goal for the Shamrocks and C.J. Wendt

Jakubowski the second.

THE 5-FOOT-8, 145-pound senior takes the double- and triple-teaming in

"I just try to move around and get free for the ball," he said. "When I get free, I'm able to get the ball to the other players. We do a pretty good job of that. Everybody tries to get the ball to each other.

It was only two weeks ago that Rama broke the Class A state record goals, shattering the mark of 48 set by Livonia Stevenson's Gary Mexicotte in

"He doesn't score if his teammates don't get him the ball," said Scicluna.

"But there's no animosity towards him.
It's a two-way street. He appreciates his teammates."

Rama is usually flanked on the forward line by Dave Niebrzydoski, who scored two goals againt DeLaSalle; Tim Cotter and John Rehm.

"Coach Scicluna stresses a lot of passing and ball control," said Rama, a 3.7 student. "We've worked a lot on the basics, on teamwork and the passing

SCICLUNA, however, knows that

Rama is something special, almost in the class by himself.

"The guy is a complete soccer play-," said the CC coach. "He has great field vision. He always knows what's going on.

"He's a lot like Gretzky. You don't know what he's going to do. He's a bonafide player. He's got side and lateral movement. He's an accurate shooter — the best.

"And he's very dedicated, a hard worker who takes practice seriously."

Although Rama was a unanimous All-State and All-Observer pick last year as a junior, some soccer observers say that he's piled up the goals against inferior competition. They say he wouldn't get as many if CC played against the Stevensons, Bentleys, Churchills, Cantons and Northvilles of the Western Lakes Soccer League.

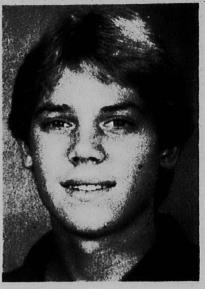

"I think there are three or four teams in the Catholic League that are very competitive - Brother Rice, De-LaSalle and Notre Dame - that could give the public schools all they want," said Rama, who is being courted by some 20 colleges."

CC WILL GET a chance to prove that its 17-2 record is not a fluke when they meet highly touted Plymouth Canton in a pre-regional game Friday at Redford's Bell Creek Park.

Some of Rama's childhood teammates from Plymouth, including Canton standout Brad Neville, will be on the other side of the field.

"Our first goal was to win the Catho-lic League," he said. "And I think we could get to the finals if we keep on playing the way we have."

Rama realizes that it takes more than one player to win a championship. Sunday's game proved that.

Harrison, North in playoff hunt and Chris McCosky staff writers

Believe it or not, a logjam still exists among six unbeaten football teams for two state playoff spots in Class A Region III.

And the way things are shaping up, all six could remain unbeaten by the end of the season. Two Observerland teams, Farmington Harrison and North Farmington, continued their drive toward a possible playoff berth with impressive wins last weekend. Both have 6-0 records.

The other four unbeaten teams in Region III are Warren DeLaSalle, Sterling Heights Stevenson, Birmingham Seaholm and Southfield-Lathrup.

A computer formula, based on opponents wins and losses, will determine the two playoff qualifiers.

Two unbeaten teams in Region III, however, fell by the wayside last weekend - Troy lost to Seaholm, 28-18, and Clintondale was blanked by Trenton, 20-0.

THE FEATURED games this week are North Farmington at Westland John Glenn (4-2) and DeLaSalle at Redford Bishop Borgess (4-2).

It appears that No. 1 ranked Harrison, Stevenson, Seaholm and Lathrup will have little trouble with their respective opponents this weekend. After last weekend's action, there's a new leader in the two-way battle among the expert pronosticators. McCosky, going 11-1 last week, takes the overall season lead with a 51-21 mark. Emons, meanwhile, fell to 7-5 and is one game behind at 50-22.

Here's what we think for Week No.

grid predictions

FARMINGTON at LIV. STEVEN-SON (7:30 p.m. Friday): The suprising Falcons (5-1) wrapped up the Lakes Division crown last week with a win over Plymouth Canton. Their reward is another rematch with Harrison, which destroyed them 42-0 earlier in the year. Stevenson (4-2) was "lucky" to beat Bentley last week, but the Spartans always have a knack of pulling close games out.

Pick - Emons and McCosky say Farmington's bubble bursts.

N. FARMINGTON at WSLD. JOHN GLENN (7:30 p.m. Friday): Glenn was the pre-season favorite, but now the Rockets are in a spoiler's role. Junior tailback Tony Boles, who scored three TDs in an easy win over Thurston to set a school record, is the man the Raiders have to contend with.

But North just seems to keep ge ting better and better each week. The Raiders handed Livonia Franklin one of its worst defeats ever last week,

Pick - North wins the Northwest Suburban League title outright, both

NORTHVILLE at PLY. SALEM (7:30 p.m. Friday): Northville (5-1) is driving for a playoff berth in Class A Region II, despite a 42-0 loss to Harrison two weeks ago. Meanwhile, Plymouth Salem (2-4) has the ability to be competitive if its wishbone attack is Pick - Northville stays on the playoff track, both agree.

LIV. BENTLEY at W.L. CENTRAL (7:30 p.m. Friday): These two teams, both 3-3, have battled each other down to the wire in recent years. Mistakes are killing Bentley. Walled Lake Central, meanwhile, has won two in a row.

Pick - Central to the core - two votes.

W.L. WESTERN at LIV. CHURCH-ILL (7:30 p.m. Friday): Churchill and Walled Lake Western are both 1-5 and haven't won since the second game of the year. Western is probably the Western Lakes Conference weakest Pick - Churchill wins No. 2, both

LUTHERAN EAST at LIV. CLARENCEVILLE (7:30 p.m. Friday): The Trojans (3-3) are back on track after pounding Harper Woods last week, 31-15. Lutheran East (4-2) has played a couple of "softies" in recent weeks. Pick - Clarenceville makes it two straight, the prognosticators say.

CATHOLIC CENTRAL vs. HARPER WDS. ND (7:30 p.m. Saturday at C'ville): CC (4-2) can't make the Catholic League playoffs after losing to Rice on Saturday. The Shamrocks, however, should have enough to beat Notre Dame (1-5).

Pick - CC's losing streak is short, both agree.

REDFORD UNION at LIV. FRANKLIN (1 p.m. Saturday): Both teams are doing some soul searching after last week's lopsided losses. RU (1-5) relies on running back Don Angel to score the points. Franklin (3-3), meanwhile, is suffering a bad case of offensive blues.

Pick - Emons goes with RU, but McCosky likes Franklin.

REDFORD THURSTON at GAR. DEN CITY (7:30 p.m. Friday): The Cougars (4-2), who played one of the state's toughest six-game stretches, finally get a breather this week against winless Thurston. GC is also hoping for a Glenn win over North to gain a share of the NSL title.

Pick - GC pleases the home fans in a big way, both agree.

ST. AGATHA at O.L. LAKE ST. MARY'S (2 p.m. Saturday): The Aggies (3-3) lost a tough ballgame last week to Waterford Our Lady of the Lakes. St. Mary's, once a powerhouse, is struggling with a 1-5 record.

Pick — Agatha stays above .500. Two votes for the Aggies.

BISHOP BORGESS VS. WARREN DeLaSALLE (2 p.m. Saturday at GC Jr. High): The Spartans have had little offense the past two weeks. They'll need the big play in order to upset DeLaSalle, a team led by 6-foot-2, 210-pound fullback Allen Jefferson. Pick - It's DeLaSalle Day in Garden City, both say.

PLY. CANTON at FARM. HARRI-SON (1 p.m. Saturday): Canton (2-4) is just hoping to make this contest respectable against the powerful Hawks, who seem at this time to only be worrying about the computer.

Pick — Harrison in another walk, both agree.

When Mary Rosowski makes her presence known, the opposing team-usually suffers the consequences. The 6-foot center tipped the scales in Farmington Hills Our Lady of Mercy's favor Tuesday night, sparking the Mar-lins to a 55-48 girls basketball win over previously unbeaten Livonia Ladywood before 1,000 screaming fans at Birmingham Brother Rice High School.

Relatively quiet for nearly 21/2 quarters, Rosowski suddenly took charge on the boards and in the open court when Mercy needed it the most.

With help from teammates Annette Ruggiero and Terri Ford, Mercy's vaunted full-court press doused the Blazers down the stretch.

Leading by only two points, 42-40, with just under three minutes to play, Rosowski went wild, scoring six straight points without a Ladywood answer to clinch the important win. Her final two baskets came as a result of FORD, a gazelle all night, led all scorers with 22 points, including six in the final 1:14. Ruggiero, who played another solid floor game, added 12 points as Mercy took sole possession of first place in the Catholic League's tough Central Division.

"I was waiting," said Mercy coach Larry Baker of Rosowski's awakening. "I don't why. I do know we've got to go Turnovers played a big part in the the Blazers were making a series of uncharacteristic mistakes. They made 12 turnovers alone in the fourth quarter

"I thought the game would be decided on opportunities," said Ladywood coach Ed Kavanaugh. "We did not get rebounds at the critical points and when we needed to score, we threw the ball away. We also missed a lot of easy

"And we didn't get performances out of a lot of people."

The Blazers, however, did get a sterling performance from 5-11 senior forward Char Govan, who scored a teamhigh 20 points.

The only other Ladywood player to score in double figures was Miss Basketball candidate Emily Wagner, who added 14. But it wasn't a typical Wag-

"I WAS UPSET at the half because Ladywood was the more poised team," said Baker. "In the second half we showed more composure. Ladywood didn't lose it, we won it because we played darn hard.

"With the turnovers we were creating off our press, I didn't expect that off the Class B state champions (Ladywood). I know we couldn't do that against the state Class A champions (Flint Northwestern)." Mercy, whose only loss is to Flint, increased its overall record to 9-1, 4-0 in the division. Ladywood, meanwhile, dropped to 9-1 and 3-1.

"It's a big, emotional game, but as far as it being in the significance of the season, it's not that big," Baker added. "It's not the World Series. We're not going to torch any cars tonight.

"We've got to go back to Schoolcraft remember, and it could easily turn on

The rematch between the two state powers is Friday, Nov. 2, at Schoolcraft College in Livonia.

Georgia blossoms with local stars

Georgia's volleyball team is caught in the mid-

The Bulldogs have quickly become a Southeastern Conference powerhouse and are serious contenders for the SEC championship.

But the SEC is not held in high esteem nationally when it comes to volleyball. That's why Georgia, despite a streak of 16 wins in its last 17 matches, remains on the fringe of national recognition, just shy of a top-20 ranking.

Still, it's a better team than the 1982 squad, which won 41 of 53 matches but played 18 (winning 17) against Division II and III schools. This year's team is 16-7, but it started with a vicious sixmatches-in-six-days road trip that included a trio of

TWO REASONS the Bulldogs have attained the prominent position they now possess is a pair of former Schoolcraft College volleyball players, Karen Kelley from Livonia and Nancy Hughes from Farmington Hills.

Before last season, Georgia was strictly a middle-of-the-road SEC squad. "We always split with Ole Miss," said coach Sid Feldman. "We never beat University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill. Two years ago we were humiliated by Memphis State."

That was before Kelley and Hughes arrived. Their ability, leadership and winning attitude — they helped Schoolcraft to the NJCAA finals in 1982 have made Georgia a Division I team to be reckoned with.

"We've never had the hitting power we have this year," said Feldman. Whereas the Bulldogs of previous seasons had to rely on defense and finesse, this year's squad "just hits the heck out of the ball,"

"And Karen Kelley is leading the pack."

IN HER first year at Georgia, Kelley, a Stevenson grad, set team records for most kills in a season (501), best kills average per match (15.60), best service aces average per match (1.99) and best block-assists average per match (2.66). She tied the mark for most block assists in a match (six).

"She's tearing the leather off the ball," said Feldman. "She's always been great, but she's really turned into a team player.'

Almost too much so, Feldman said. "She would do anything that would be best for the team," he explained - except when, as a senior, she faced the possibility of losing her starting spot to one of several promising newcomers.

"I think then she realized that when she gets old, she didn't want to have to explain to her grandchildren why she wasn't a starter," Feldman said. "She suddenly woke up and discovered she had only seven or eight weeks left in her volleyball career.

SO SHE began asserting herself — and came up with performances like last week's.

Kelley blistered three Georgia opponents with a 405 hitting percentage. "And these were top-notch teams," Feldman pointed out. The Bulldogs won all three matches handily, beating Mississippi and North Carolina-Chapel Hill in three games each and Memphis State in four.

"I really wanted that Ole Miss match," said the 6-foot senior middle hitter. "They beat us last year in the (SEC) tournament and I didn't play very well.

"I wanted to show them how I could play." Her performance will vault her to the top of the SEC charts for hitting percentage, Feldman predicted. Her current average is .310, which leads the team. She also leads the team in kills per game (3.58) and blocks per game (1.22).

FELDMAN DESCRIBES Hughes like this: "I never met a more mature and responsible kid. She really carried us to our 22-10 record (in 1982)." As Feldman continued his efforts to upgrade his program, Hughes found herself out of a job when freshman Jenny McDowell was recruited.

But the North Farmington grad "didn't cry about it," Feldman said. "She went out and worked even harder. She's taken the responsibility for her not playing."

Hughes' work has paid off. She is now the No. 1 substitute, and has played with such remarkable consistency and versatility that Feldman has her "subbing all over the place."

Against Memphis State, Hughes entered the game with the score tied. She went to the server's box and immediately responded by serving two

"SHE'S A VERY, very smart player," said Feld-man. After last weekend's matches, Hughes had a .290 kill percentage and 4.36 assists per game. Remarkably, she had recorded no errors.

Last season, Hughes set team records for most assists in a season and in a career by piling up 760.

"Nancy improved our setting immediately," Feldman acknowledged.

Improvement is still a major goal for Kelley, but the All-SEC selection from a season ago isn't concerned with personal accolades. "The only thing I want to do is win the SEC," she said.

Zero-coupon bonds are attractive to so and Dean Calvert special writers

Part I

In recent years, zero-coupon bonds have been attracting increasing attention among investors looking for high returns with safety.

A zero-coupon bond is one that is bought at a deep discount and increases in value at a compound rate. At matu- state and municpal units. rity, it is worth several times the initial terest along the way.

ZERO-COUPONS ARE thus well suited for building a retirement fund.

The UAW-Ford National Development and Training Center has launched a national preretirement program, "Successful Retirement Planning," as part of the "New Avenues for Employee Growth" program for active employees announced in December 1983.

A similar program for salaried employees has been designed by Ford's Personnel and Organization staff, executive director Craig Hausman said. "The program provides the necessary insights and tools to begin planning now for a successful and fulfilling re-

The galling thing about CG is that I had a chance to sell it for $37.50 last winter but didn't because I had substantial short-term capital gains al-ready, and also there were brief rumors about take-overs of other natural gas distributors, which helped CG's price. No such Juck.

I recently received the company's quarterly report and am concerned about the lawsuits against them on their "take or pay" contracts. Just for my peace of mind, would you advise that I sell a couple thousand shares, or more, to prevent an even larger loss, or should I hold for an ultimate favorable denouement of the situation, while collecting a relatively generous dividend?

If you really meant to settle down with a good safe dividend-paying stock, I don't think you need to make a change. You are still getting your dividend, which is what you said you want-

Business activity index drops after GM strike

In September, the Detroit Area Business Activity Index, depressed by a seven-day walkout at General Motors, fell to 126 from the August level of 139, according to Manufacturers Bank. August was revised downward from 140. Auto sales and motor vehicle output surged in August in anticipation of work stoppages. October is expected to represent fundamental operating levels of the local economy more accurately than either August or September.

The only index components showing gains in the latest reporting period were steel output and the average hourly workweek in manufacturing. Year-to-date, the Detroit economy, after removing inflation, is up 18.5 percent over three quarters of 1983. Inflation is up 3.4 percent.

N THE BANDSTAND, Mel Ball is the picture of contentment and composure but posing for a photo in the office of his entertainment agency in West Bloomfield, he's quite the opposite.

"I don't take a good picture," he said, suddenly looking not at all relaxed. Only after the photo session was over did he break into a big grin, as he talked about his dual career - as entertainer and as businessman who books top flight, sophisticated musical groups for hotels, clubs and private parties throughout metropolitan Detroit.

He's certainly no slouch as a performer himself. His slick vocal and instrumental group Colours, for which he plays vibes, is in the second year of its engagement at Detroit's poshest eatery, the London

Despite filling his evenings at the Chop, Ball puts in a full day's work at the agency. It's near his home, which is in West Bloomfield, but the business is expanding and will soon move to larger offices at 31800 Northwestern Highway in Farmington Hills.

"I LIKE TO keep busy," he said simply, when asked about his schedule that also includes songwriting and recording. Colours has just finished recording its first album, which includes his own song "We're With You America (the Time Is Here the Moment Is Now)," with Michelle Goulet on lead vocals.

"She's a very talented girl," he said of Goulet. Others who appear with Colours are Jose Carretero, keyboards and vocals; Dan Valeen, lead vocals and guitar; Dan Oestrike, lead vocals and bass, and George Bennett, drums.

"We're With You America" also will be released as a single and probably will be out within the next three-four weeks, Ball said. The song has already gotten some special treatment. He said last week, "We did it live for President Reagan yesterday at the Ukrainian Cultural Center in Warren.

Ball wrote the song "out of patriotic feelings it's the mood of the country." It was submitted to the Committee to Re-elect the President, which gave the go-ahead for the song to be performed at a luncheon during the President's recent visit to

While Ball didn't get to talk personally to Reagan, or find out exactly what the President thought of it, "He seemed very interested in it."

JUST TO QUOTE a bit of the lyrics, it begins:

We're with you America We'll never leave your side We need you America They have tried to hurt your pride

America, America Though you suffered much pain It's behind us now America And we'll never part again

A new, united day The world must realize You'll never back away

Ball looks sort of like a younger version of the pop/jazz singer Mel Torme. His dark hair is worn full around his face, and he's got large, sleepy eyes and sensuous lips. He doesn't have Torme's foghorn voice, although he apologized for his voice being somewhat restricted that day due to an allergy.

In the outer office at the agency, his associate Cheryl Vree was typing up a list of the many bands and engagements that the agency books. Before the interview was over, Ball's wife, Gail, arrived, to work at her own desk in the outer office.

A fresh-faced blond with delicate features, Gail is a photographic model as well as vice president of the agency headed by husband Mel as president. "She still models quite a bit," Ball said. "She's doing work with me on bands and clubs. She books all the one-nighters - the private parties."

THE COUPLE has two children, Jason, who was 5 in June, and Lauren, 3, who celebrated her birth-

Asked how he manages to do all that he does, between work and his family, Ball said, "My schedule lately has been just maddening but I enjoy keèping busy."

Set in Brooklyn in the 1930s, the play centers around the Brewster family, which is, to put it mildly, rather "unusual." There's Teddy, who thinks he's Teddy Roosevelt. There's Johnathan, a "bad dude" if ever there was one (the kind of person who, as a child, "liked to cut worms in two" — with his teeth). And there's Mortimer, who's a drama critic ("Don't think harshly of Mortimer because he's a drama critic," says his aunt. "Somebody has to do those things.").

MORTIMER IS also a little confused about his identity. He thinks he's a Brewster, but really he isn't.

And then there are Aunt Martha and Aunt Abby, two of the cutest, most lovable and endearing mass murderers you could ever hope to meet anywhere.

In the role of Teddy Brewster, big, mustachioed Bryan Cheever seems to be enjoying himself immensely. Bearing a remarkable physical resemblance to Roosevelt, he strikes just the right note of contented craxiness, and never fails to crack up the audience each time he ascends the stairs, shouting "Charge!" or blowing his bugle.

On the other hand, Russ Holderne as Teddy's brother, Johnathan, couldn't affair. Not so here. It's consistently be more sinister. His appearance, his well-done, one more facet of this pro-

Kathryn Hartmann and Isabel Barrett as Abby and Martha Brewster seem absolutely, positively perfectly cast. Both appear totally comfortable in their roles as the pixilated little old ladies who, in order to put them out of their misery, methodically poison "lonely old men" with their homemade elderberry wine ("One of our gentle-men found time to say 'How delicious!'," proclaims Abby). APPEARING TOTALLY rational one minute and totally crazy the next, the two rosy-cheeked, animated actresses are equally convincing and seem always to complement each other perfectly. They are a pleasure to watch and the true stars of the show.

David Rago, appropriately frenetic as Mortimer, and Lorraine Parent, as his bewildered but determined fiancee, also turn in generally commendable performances.

Unfortunately, Jeff Davison, cast as Johnathan's creepy-crawly sidekick, Einstein, looks much too young for the role of the 54-year-old doctor. Although the youthful actor struggles mightily throughout the evening, it's a handicap he never quite manages to overcome.

The well-constructed, imaginatively designed set contributes significantly to the overall effect, as do lighting and costuming — although some costumes now and then (or parts of costumes) would seem to belong more appropri-

Mel Ball Productions started nine years ago in the entertainer's home and for the last five years has been at the West Bloomfield office, on Maple Road near Orchard Lake Road.

"I've played professionally all my life," Ball said. going back to the beginning of his musical career.
"When the band Colours became so much in demand, I started to refer other bands (to club owners). Then I decided, 'I could be doing this.'

THAT'S HOW he got into the agency business. Starting by booking his own band, Colours, he now books about 16 bands and several piano players, singles and duos. Most of the bands are five- to seven-piece groups, he said.

He handles bookings exclusively for the Hyatt

Regency in Dearborn and Flint. He books all their entertainment. At the Dearborn hotel, for example, he has booked a piano player downstairs, a disc jockey in the Rotunda lounge and entertainment for functions in the ballroom.

Last New Year's Eve, Colours and Maynard Ferguson's band were among six bands he booked to play at a big New Year's Eve ballroom party. Colours, Ferguson and four other bands will play there again this New Year's.

Ball handles the Sheraton Oaks in Novi exclusively. Nouveaute, one of his bands, plays there, and for the hotel's exclusive restaurant, Raphael's, he booked a harp player and vibrist during the

His agency has booked entertainment for the Troy Hilton and Northfield Hilton, also in Troy. He booked Top 40 bands for the Sheraton Southfield before that hotel switched to oldies bands.

OTHER SPOTS he handles entertainment for exclusively include the London Chop House, Caucus Club and Hotel Pontchartrain, all in downtown Detroit; Confetti's in West Bloomfield; the Steak and Ale in Farmington and Plymouth; Holiday Inn-Farmington, Holiday Inn-Livonia West, Holiday Inn-Metro Airport in Romulus and Holiday Inn-West Bank in Ann Arbor, and Franceso's in Dear-

Besides Colours and Nouveaute, other acts Ball handles are Mystique, Secrets, Lyrico, Heartbeat, Rendez-vous, Virtue, Sa Shay, Prime Time, Expo Facto, Justin Paul & Trilogy, Pam Wallace, Pierre Fracalanza and Blonde Ambition.

"I basically work as agent-manager for all of them. I do a lot more than tell them where to show," he said.

Besides booking the local bands, Ball has gotten name entertainers — Maynard Ferguson and others such as Nancy Wilson, Woody Herman, the New Christie Minstrels, the Association and Herbie Mann & the Family of Mann — for special band dates and concerts.

Among Detroit-area jazz stars he has booked are the Matt Michael Duo, Jack Brokensha, Joe LoDuca Duo, Ursula Walker/Buddy Budson Duo, Bess Bonnier Duo and Kathleen Landis. He booked many of the groups for the P'Jazz series in 1984 including the Freddie Hubbard All Stars, Toshiko Akiyoshi/ Lew Tabackin Big Band, Brookside Jazz Band with Ursula Walker, Austin Mori Big Band, Katalenic/ Kwek Big Band, John Trudell Band, Stanley Turrentine and Pieces of a Dream.

"I still perform because I really have a love for it." Ball said.

"It keeps me current with the musical trends. If a club calls and has a problem with a group, I can go out and evaluate it on a one-to-one basis.

"It gives me a better ability to relate to musicians because I'm a musician myself and they re-

"The Longest Yard" (1974), 8 p.m. Thursday on Ch. 50. Originally 123 minutes. TV time slot: 135 minutes.

It's macho man week, featuring three of Hollywood's all-time box office kingpins. First there's Burt Reynolds, and let's give him credit for the one thing he's good at. It's not comedy. It's not tough-cop roles. It's not as a conventional leading man. It is as a thick-headed redneck who wins revenge over even thicker-headed rednecks who cross him. He is to retaliation what Cary Grant was to sophistication. And the retaliation - to Reynolds' cred-It or the credit of his pro-Hucers - rarely incorporates hideous violence a la Charles Bronson or Clint Eastwood. It is, instead, symbolic, as in "The Longest Yard," which culminates in a football game that deterwhines right and wrong. This is Reynolds at his best. Eddie Albert, Jim

nadette Peters co-star. Rating: $3.30.

And then there's Paul Newman, the quintessential leading man but an actor who has essayed offbeat roles in a couple of movies that are among the best works of his career. In "Buffalo Bill and the Indians" and "The Life and Times of Judge Roy Bean," he demonstrates great restraint in the portrayal of mythic, yet semi-comic, characters. Another actor without Newman's range likely would depict such figures in a one-dimensional, comic book form. Newman's Judge Roy Bean is both a singleminded and complicated individual. John Huston directs the film with plentiful gusto. The allstar cast includes Ava Gardner, Jacqueline Bisset, Anthony Perkins, Sta-cy Keach, Victoria Principal, Roddy McDowall, Ned Beatty, Tab Hunter and Huston in a cameo

"Bullitt" (1968), 8 p.m. Wednesday on Ch. 50. Originally 113 min-utes. TV time slot: 135 minutes. And finally there's Steve McQueen, who stars as "Bullitt," the movie that popularized car chases with the definitive chase sequence. McQueen may have been a better actor than Reyolds and Newman, but

Glass

Collectors prize '30s treasures

By Mary Klemic staff writer

At one time, it was given away in cereal boxes. Now it is worth hundreds Depression glass, the colorful, practical glasswork made during the time of the Great Depression, is still at home with many collectors.

"It's really very pretty. It's the beauty of it," said Dearborn resident Norma Godwin, vice president of the 200member Michigan Depression Glass Society. "And it's a nostalgia-type thing. I remember the Depression and the glass being given away."

GODWIN'S HUSBAND Ken is president of the society, which will present its 12th annual All Depression Glass Show and Sale this Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 20 and 21, in Dearborn. The show, featuring 30 exhibitors from several states, will take place from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Dearborn Civic Center, 15801 Michigan Ave., west of Greenfield. Some 2,000 people attended last year's show.

Donation is $1.50 per person. Food will be available. Guests will be authors Gene Florence of Lexington, Ky., and William Heacock of Columbus, Ohio. Richard Heldenbrand of Sterling Heights will be on hand to repair dam-

Era glass will be featured as well. This glass was of a better quality.

Depression glass was made from the 1920s to the end of the 1930s. Most of the glass was made from molds instead of by craftsmanship. It was clear or came in a variety of colors, including pink, green, amber, dark blue, light blue, ruby red and even black.

"IT WAS made in such a short span of time, not a whole lot was really created." said antique dealer Earlene Woodard, owner of Yesterday and To-day, 157 W. Liberty in Plymouth. "It was given away — at the theater, in sacks of flour.'

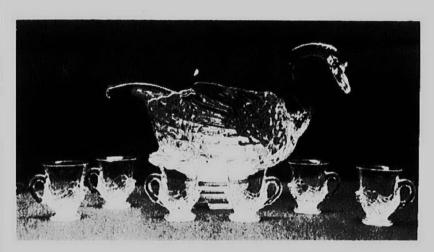

"You collected it," Godwin said. "They would have glass nights at the moviehouse. You could add to a set tumblers, everything."

There are complete table settings. We have a large collection of animals, a candelabra, everything for the home.

"I can serve 50 people, and everyone could have a different place setting," she said. "It's really very beautiful when you walk into a show. If you're a glass lover, it takes your breath away."

EXHIBITS OF the glass, arranged by Godwin, can now be seen at the Dearborn Civic Center and the neighboring Henry Ford Centennial Library, also on Michigan Avenue.

Some pieces may be worth $700 to $800 each. Woodard estimated

A swan punch bowl set was made by the Cambridge Glass Co.

Norma and Ken Godwin, vice president and president of the Michigan Depression Glass Society, display their collection in their basement.

"It's the collecting part of it as much as anything," said Wanda Britton of Westland, another representative of the Michigan Depression Glass Society. "It's fun to know you're buying something that's an investment.'

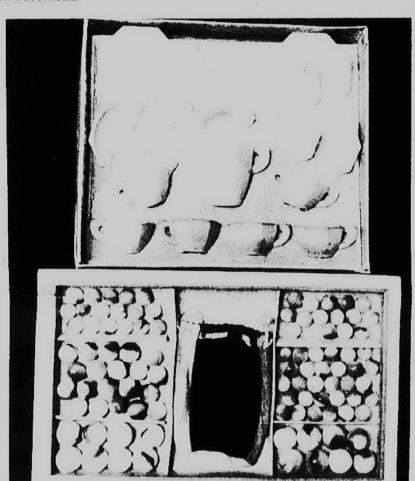

Godwin began collecting Depression glass some 10 years ago, when she found and purchased six divided plates made of the glass at a garage sale.

"I THOUGHT THEY were beautiful," she said. "That started it. I started looking for it at every garage sale and

"I'm sure my mother could have had some of the pieces," she said. "We did own most sets of this."

Depression glass can be recognized by its coloring and texture, according to Woodard. While it resembles other glass, Depression glass tends to be heavier and sometimes features such imperfections as bubbles or folds. Also, its patterns appear to be molded into it. More information can be found in books on the subject, she said.

Founded in 1972, the Michigan Depression Glass Society is dedicated solely to the preservation of Depression and era glass. It is one of many similar clubs throughout the country. Meetings are held on the first Monday of the month at the Senior Citizens Building at Five Mile and Farmington

Follow directions for that chrome look

The time is about 11:30 p.m., the year is 1972 and the date is Christmas eve. December 24. With a cool and confident tone Sandy says to me, "Honey, why don't you put little Scottie's Big Wheel together so it will be all ready for him in the morning." "Oh, sure," said, "no problem." I mean, hey, I got a degree and stuff, that's nothin', maybe a 20 minute job at the most. I am mechanically minded and I always read the directions before I try to put anything together.

So with the "Twelve Days of Christmas" playing on the radio, I sat down by the light of the Christmas tree, to read the directions. By the time I heard "six geese a laying," I knew my goose was cooked. This was 12 years ago and a Big Wheel was a whole new thing. The instructions were in about six different languages and the English was broken at best.

For example: "very carefully slip on cap nut like so," read: "velly carefully swip on cap nut, ah so!" With the cardboard fireplace flickering it's artificial blaze, I sunk into my chair wondering what the instructions were saying. How could this be, it was 1 a.m. in the morning, Sandy was asleep, Johnny Mathis was singing "Blue, Blue Christmas," and I was singing it too.

EVERYTIME I put it together there were parts left over. So I kept taking it apart and putting it together until the attaching parts were . . . attached. I am afraid that today's Artifacts may seem just as difficult to understand but the steps are very simple and the results very professional. Look at it this way, at least it's all in English.

To end this third article about commercial art, I would like to tell you how to do perhaps your best single commercial entry. This lesson is what we at the Art Store call the Logo lesson. What we have the student do is, first think up a word they would like to illustrate. The finished product will look like letters made of chrome on an even black background or a blend of dark colors.

Maybe you are thinking, "no, I can't do chrome because I haven't got an airbrush." Well, not to worry friend, this lesson is most often done in colored pencil. I will, however, tell you how to do this lesson in airbrush. First pick a style of letter that best suits the name or word you have chosen. To help in your search use the sample catalogs of dry transfer letters. These catalogs contain hundreds of complete alphabets in every style you could ever want. Best of all they are usually free. We sell Zipatone transfer letters and screens and the company goes out of its way to stress that their catalogs are smooth black mat board. Fat or thick hard to produce a strong white. So far stroked letters are best to show the reflections of light on chrome. Transfer your design to black mat board with a graphite stick. Now you can carefully outline your letters with a white prisma color pencil. For this lesson done in colored pencil you need only three pencils: white, non-photo blue and slate gray. Use the non-photo blue at the top of the letters. Push hard to produce a rich opaque blue and lighten up on your pressure as you move down to the half ine of the letter.

At the half line of the letter, rule a clean hard white line. Now again push you should have a bright blue at the top tinting all the way to pure white at the halfline. Now at the bottom of the letter begin with a rich opaque slate gray and as you move upwards fade quickly and evenly to the black of the board. What makes this lesson look "chromey" is to have the whitest white next to the blackest black. If you do this wrong, the "chromey" look becomes a "crumby" look. So be sure to leave the blackness of the board against the whiteness at the half line.

If you have an airbrush then here is your assignment. This is the fifth lesson in my airbrush class and I am proud to insert this beautiful job done by my son. Scott.

After developing your letters on white paper place a piece of frisket over it and carefully trace your design. Now peel the frisket and position it on a piece of cold press illustration board. Now with a sharp razor knife carefully cut out your letters. Remember, for the clean commercial look, always use a straight edge when possible. After cutting peel each letter completely off the illustration board. Your board should

Set a mood for artistry

Do you know what the two most important things in photography are? The first is you, and the second is your subject.

And there's no better area in photography to optimize this relationship than in making mood pictures. The scenic photographer will take a picture and say, "this is what I saw." The mood photographer, on the other hand, takes a photograph and says, "this is what I felt."

With a little practice, you can develop a sensitivi-ty for moods which will lead you to a new, almost intimate approach to your photography.

TO BEGIN with, take time to examine your environment, looking for the inherent beauty in the smallest of flowers as well as the magnificence of a towering forest. Search out beauty in ordinary things such as delicate weed or refection patterns in a puddle of mud.

Study your subjects carefully, getting to know them well, always keeping in mind that you're building that all-important relationship between you and your subject.

Never rush into snapping the shutter. Study how light affects form and texture. View your subject at different times of day and in different types of

Nature's elements are among the key ingrredients you can capture in making mood photographs. Fog, mist, water, clouds, and soft sunlight all present conditions suitable for obtaining mood in your

Early, morning or late afternoon light offers the best opportunity for capturing textures and shadows. Side or backlighting will add a certain sparkle to your shot and will help place emphasis on the main subject.

Fog and mist will subdue backgrounds and will produce soft, subtle tones and colors.

Water can give you many different moods. Reflections in a still lake will produce a feeling of seclusion and quietness. Splashing waves result in an exciting mood while flowing water captured during a long exposure (tripod is a must) gives a peaceful, serene mood.

As always, pay attention to depth-of-field. A wide aperture will produce shallow depth which will isolate your subject by throwing everything else out of focus. A small aperture, of course, will render sharp much of what you see through the viewfinder.

NO ONE film is best for capturing mood. Just make sure the ASA is satisfactory for the subject and weather conditions. In subdued light you may need a faster film so always keep a few rolls handy.

While we've been talking mainly about mood in scenic shots, don't overlook other areas such as people's faces. They are fertile fields for capturing moods such as joy, excitement, even pensiveness.

Old World Market opens today

The 58th Original Old World Market at the International Institute of Metropolitan Detroit will take place today through Sunday at the institute, 111 E. Kirby at John R in Detroit's Cultural Center. Hours will be 11 a.m. to 7 p.m.

The Old World Market began during the Depression as a way for new immigrants to make a little extra money selling their old world crafts. Today the market has grown to be a fullfledged international event, complete with entertainment, ethnic food, and import and craft booths from around the world.

Admission is $2 for adults, $1 for senior citizens and those age 12 to 16 and 50 cents for children age 6 to 11. Admission is free for children younger than 6. Tickets are available at the door. Call the institute at 871-8600 during business hours for information on advance group sales.

VISITORS TO the Center for Cre- woodburning and Ukrainian pysanki ative Studies open house on Sunday can receive one free admission, with one paid admission, to the market Sunday if they bring their open house invita-

Dr. Gabriella Meneghello Battistello, the Italian consul to Detroit, will join market chairman Dr. Eugene Strobel of Harper Woods and co-chairman Dr. Fran Eldis of Redford at the ribbon cutting ceremony 11 a.m. Thursday.

Import booths from many nations, a "used treasures" booth, ethnic books, a "for children only" booth and a fortune teller all will be in the upper level with demonstrations of ethnic cooking at 1:30 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. daily. There also will be Belgian, French and Polish lacemaking, American Indian beadegg decorating.

There will be Hmong stitchery, Indian sari wrapping, quilting and Polish wycinanki paper cutting in the Hall of Nations among import and craft booths and inernational performers.

A German beergarten complete with bratwurst and sauerkraut, an Italian wine cellar, and Greek, Arabic, Filipino and Mexican food booths will offer culinary delights for all.

VISITORS CAN stop at the famous International Pastry Shop, which features more than 50 varieties of ethnic baked goods from around the world. A returning attraction that is a treat to see and sample, the pastry shop sells out each day of the market.

A showing of nationality costumes work, German weaving, Estonian follows a Spanish flamenco dance audience workshop at 1:30 p.m. Thursday.

There will be a staging of a Greek Orthodox wedding ceremony, with the Rev. Kavadas from Assumption Greek Orthodox Church in St. Clair Shores at 5:30 p.m., followed by a program of Greek dance by the Hellenic Society for the Performing Arts.

Old World Market raffle tickets can be purchased before or during the market for the drawing at 4 p.m. Sunday. Raffle tickets are 50 cents each, three for $1 or 10 for $3.

Prizes include a weekend trip for two to Toronto; a Stroh-a-Party for 50 guests at the Strohaus; tickets to Masonic Temple, Music Hall, Fisher Theater and Birmingham Theater; and dinners for two at New Hellas in Greektown, Top of the Pontch, Little Cafe, Pegasus in Greektown, Pontchartrain Wine Cellars and the Danish Club.

IT'S APPEAL GOES FAR BEYOND IT'S PRICE.

Seldom has a new concept in luxury been so enthusiastically accepted even before its construction. Now, you are invited to view the completed models and judge
