City's rescue service comes under fire

By Gary M. Cates staff writer

The recent death of a C&O Railroad worker at the Plymouth yard has raised questions about ambulance responses in the city.

Daniel J. Borer, 53, of Canton was pronounced dead on arrival Oct. 22 at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia on after suffering a heart attack at work. Of concern is the 17-minute span from the time co-workers called police to the time emergency personnel transported Borer to the hospital.

The aftermath has left emergency medical officials pointing their fingers at each other. On the scene were Plymouth Police, Plymouth Township fire-fighters (through the mutual aid pact), and Community EMS (CEMS) personnel.

"Our men decided to wait for what they thought was an advance life support unit from CEMS. When it arrived, we learned it was a basic unit that could do no more than our men," said Plymouth Township Fire Chief Larry

"Had we known that, we would have transported earlier," Groth said.

"I don't know why they didn't transport. We advised the township that we could not send a truck," said Greg Beauchemin, CEMS director.

SINCE THE beginning of the year, CEMS has been responding to emergency medical calls in the City of Plymouth. Subsequently, the city sold one of its ambulances and no longer sends firefighters on medical calls.

CEMS, a subsidiary of Botsford Hospital in Farmington Hills, provides such service to 14 metropolitan communities and usually uses its own vehicles for backup.

When a CEMS vehicle can't respond to a call in Plymouth, the mutual aid agreement takes effect and Plymouth Township is called on. Such was the case Oct. 22.

According to police dispatch records (all 911 calls go through the police desk), an ambulance was requested at 12:25 p.m. CEMS and a police unit were notified immediately. The police unit was on the scene within a minute.

"On arrival, officers were directed toward an area north of the yard office . . . observed a man down and a subject over him administering CPR," the police report states.

At 12:32 p.m. CEMS notified Plymouth Township that it couldn't make contact with its vehicle, according to Groth. Police records show the township being called at 12:33 p.m.

The township ambulance was at the scene at 12:35 p.m.

"Our people were informed that a CEMS vehicle was on the way. At 12:42 a basic unit, not an advanced life support unit, arrived and they transported." Groth said.

CEMS NORMALLY responds to calls with an advanced unit operated by paramedics. Basic units, such as the township ambulance, are operated by emergency medical technicians.

CEMS records its dispatch and response time by computer, as well as audio tape, Beauchemin said. According to those records, CEMS averages a response of four minutes in Plymouth—as opposed to a company average of six minutes for all its communities.

call. The paramedics were out getting something to eat," Beauchemin said. "Our dispatcher contacted the res-

"Our unit was three miles from the

"Our dispatcher contacted the restaurant and they refused to give the message to our people," he said. "They were in a dead spot for the radio."

"The situation was uncontrollable. It's the same thing that would occur if the rig was in an accident — we called another vehicle. I don't know why the township didn't transport. There may have been a miscommunication with their dispatch," he said.

According to Beauchemin, the CEMS unit which responded came from Farmington Hills.

"WE'VE ALWAYS made back up runs into the city, but they're up since the city quit running its ambulance runs." Groth said.

"Since the third of July, we've made seven runs into the city to back up the ambulance."

Beauchemin and City Manager Henry Graper disagree.

"We have assisted Larry Groth more than he has backed us up," Graper said. According to Beauchemin's figures, Plymouth Township has backed up CEMS twice since April and CEMS has backed up the township three times.

"That is just upsetting that he would give such an erroneous statement to the press — he is completely off the line," Beauchemin said.

"Chief Groth should get his facts together before he starts mudslinging. We've been more than gracious to back up the township and this has been blown out of proportion. Every time we work with Plymouth Township it turns out to be something negative," he said.

But Beauchemin admits his figures are based on when CEMS calls the township. Groth said typically the police desk calls the township, but on Oct.

22 CEMS called.

"If that's the case, that the police desk is calling the township, then we never receive those calls in the first place," Beauchemin said. Graper said he reviewed the Oct. 22 incident with Beauchemin.

"I believe it was a basic mistake by the township firemen that they shouldn't wait to transport. That ambulance (CEMS) could have been in an accident or anything could have happened," Graper said.

"I guess they did whatever they thought was best in their mind," he said.

The City of Plymouth ambulance, although stationed less than a mile from the C&O Railroad yard, couldn't respond to the Oct. 22 call.

"We don't use the old ambulance unless it's an abolute emergency and we can't get a backup," Graper said.

As a result of the incident, Graper said CEMS has agreed to call the township any time their response will be more than three or four minutes.

Proposal C could spoil partial Supersewer settlement

By Gary M. Cates

An out-of-court settlement on Plymouth and Canton townships' Supersewer lawsuit could be scrapped if ballot Proposal C — the so-called Voter's Choice amendment — is approved Tuesday.

The eight South Huron Valley Wastewater project participants which offered the more-than-$600,000 settlement to the townships may not be able to pay after the election.

"Proposal C may screw everything up because they'll have to go back to the people to sell the bonds," Canton Supervisor James Poole said. Proposal C, if approved by Michigan voters, would require voter approval of any state or local tax increase. In July 1983, Plymouth and Canton townships filed the lawsuit against the eight South Huron communities (mostly downriver), the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR), the

City of Detroit and Wayne County after a governor's task force split Super-sewer into a north and south project.

The South Huron communities offered to pay the townships back for money spent on planning Supersewer — Final Interim Financing Agreement (FIFA) costs. The money, $142,000 to Plymouth Township and $475,000 to Canton, is scheduled to come from a bond issue for the South Huron project.

THE TOWNSHIPS and defendants were in Wayne County Circuit Court Tuesday to discuss the settlement, and are scheduled to return to court within two weeks, according to Poole.

The cities of Romulus and Flat Rock still need to approve the settlement, Poole said. Once that is done, all eight of the South Huron communities will be dropped from the lawsuit, although litigation will continue against the DNR and Detroit.

But if the communities can't make the payment for any reason, such as implementation of Proposal C, the settlement is voided.

The lawsuit seeks damages for the loss of the Supersewer project and asks why it was abandoned after more than 15 years of planning. Poole said the decision to split the project was the result of a conspiracy including officials in the state and federal governments.

The lawsuit most likely will be placed on hold until March to provide the South Huron communities time to sell their construction bonds.

AFTER SUPERSEWER was split, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) awarded 75 percent grant funding to the south project while denying funding to the north project

Added to the north project were middle Rouge Valley communities which are financially responsible for repairing pollution problems with the existing sewer lines to the Detroit treatment plant.

By including the repair work with the expansion project, officials hoped to reduce the repair costs thanks to parallel digging and 75 percent EPA funding. Even with that, the combined North Huron/Rouge Valley project is expected to cost $110 million. But the EPA's decision to deny funding this year may have killed the project. By law, all EPA funding has dropped to 55 percent after 1984. The result is increased costs to the local communities — possibily higher than some can afford.

In view of this, the DNR sent a letter to Wayne County late last month.

"Because of the major change in the grant eligibility of the proposed project, we are requesting that you consult with local government officials to confirm their intent to proceed under the new program requirements," wrote Richard Hinshon, chief of the DNR's Community Assistance Division.

Plymouth and Canton townships reportedly still want the project, but not under the same conditions.

"We're not going to be engaged in the same game they were in last time," said Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen.

Yet, both townships are awaiting the outcome of their lawsuit before committing to the project again.

A close call

Plymouth Township firefighter Sgt. Randy Naycock inspects an art supply room at Bird Elementary School following a small fire Monday morning. The fire was started by art projects cooling from the kiln, according to Fire Chief Larry Groth. The fire was contained to the storage room, and caused an estimated $250 worth of damages. Groth credits the quick action of a school janitor with a fire extingusher for preventing a major fire.

Awaiting the results of the judging following the Centennial Education Park Marching Band's performance Saturday evening is Kathy Morton.

CEP band captures state title

LL YEAR LONG the Centennial Educational Park (CEP) Marching Band showed signs that it was Number One. After Saturday night, no doubt remained.

The local marching band competed with 11 others in Flight I of the Michi-gan Competing Band Directors Association (MCBDA) state tournament and emerged with the first-place trophy.

To do so, the CEP musicians had to outmarch and outplay a top unit from Durand which finished second with a score of 84.5 out of a maximum 100 points. The Plymouth-Canton bandsters finished first with an 85.5 score. Wyo-ming Park finished third.

Saturday was the first time any band achieved a score of 84 or better from the MCBDA and the 84.5 was the highest in Durand's history. So the CEP musicians had to set some history of their own to earn first place in Flight I (bands with 111 members or more) competition and to capture the Best of Show trophy.

The CEP Marching Band won four of the six caption awards: Best Color Guard, best in Marching and Maneuvering, Best Winds and Best Visual Effects. This was the third year in a row the CEP Band won Best Color stadium. The home stands were packed Guard caption award in the MCBDA Saturday night with parents and specstate competition.

Some 30 bands and 3,000 musicians performed all day Saturday before a total of 10,000 spectators at the CEP

Saturday night with parents and spec-tators from throughout Michigan. This was the third consecutive state tourney of the MCBDA which Plymouth-Canton has hosted.

Silver

Beaver

By W.W. Edgar staff writer

Over the years Old Village has had many unusual events and odd business combinations. But few of them would equal the father and son combination of the Henry Family.

They are in the upholstery business - only two blocks apart - and yet they are not rivals. They work hand and glove to help each other and they are proud to be a part of the historical section of Plymouth.

The father, David, is the son of Ernie Henry who for years served on the office staff at the Plymouth Post Office and served two terms on the Plymouth City Commission.

THE elder Henry now is retired and seldom goes back to Old Village. But his thoughts and best wishes are for his son, David, and grandson Larry.

The upholstery business was started by David when he left the U.S. Air Force after 22 years service. "When I left I didn't want to work for anybody,' said Henry. "So, I studied a bit of upholstery work and finally opened a shop on Liberty Street in Old Villege.

He opened a place on Holbrook, specializes in office furniture, and handles most of the work for the major auto companies.

We are not rivals," the father said. We help each other and enjoy it."

The Plymouth community is noted for its strong feelings about old things. Antiques always are popular. So it is with furniture and the Henry combination is doing well.

As the father spoke he turned and pointed to the pile of work waiting in the backroom. There were chairs, tables and other pieces that make up today's household.

"We haven't wanted for customers, and we are glad to be part of Old Village. It is in this section of Plymouth where yesterday meets tomorrow in many instances, and the folks with the antique furniture are always in the market for work that would keep the pieces in good condition.'

Son Larry has found a business oasis in dealing with the major auto manufactuers who are always changing offices to keep up a modern front.

And like the elder Henry who worked so long in the post office and was active in civic affairs, they are glad to be in Plymouth and Old Village in particu-

Plymouth community braces for population growth

staff writer

In all sections of Plymouth Township there are signs of growth but at at the moment eyes are cast on the nine-acre plot on Wilcox Road next to the fire

If all goes well this plot will be ready to accept tenants in the 90 one and two bedroom apartments. This is the plot across Wilcox Road from the Lakepointe Apartments.

Work is about finished in clearing the nine acres and the buildings will be pre-fabs, which means they can be built and possibly ready for occupancy by the end of the year.

"There are a lot more," Joe West, the township treasurer said, "but they are waiting for interest rates to go down and it surely will in the next few months. In fact, it might happen right after election. And that will cause a boom all around.'

The same is true of the activity on N. Territorial Road where "cluster housing" units are under construction.

To date there is planned activity on both sides of the road. And much of the section is behind the old cemetery.

"I don't think we will see them build as far as Napier Road — our boundary," West added, "but if the interest goes down as expected, there is no telling how soon we will reach it."

Along with the residential buildings planned for N. Territorial Road, a church also is planned for the near fu-ture. This will be the new home of the United Assembly of God that is leaving the city of Plymouth on Ann Arbor Trail near Riverside.

On N. Territorial there also will be a cluster 25 units west of the First United Methodist Church of Plymouth. And the new project around the cemetery will surround the abandoned graves. This area is now listed with the state cemetery association as "unknown" and is kept on the records in that fash-

CLOSER TO the center of the township office there is being built a large medical center and medical office space. This is expected within the next

On Ann Arbor Road, near Denny's restaurant, two buildings are being built. One will be used as a restaurant and the other as office space.

Meanwhile several buildings are now under construction in the industrial zone at Five Mile and Sheldon. So things, according to township officials, are looking up and the population boom will be with us.

Meanwhile there also is action within the city limits where space is at a premium for residents. Where it is available the builders are constructing multiple houses in the new scheme of joining three residents in each cluster. This is being done on Ann Arbor Trail and south of Main Street and on Roe Street near its termination point.

Couple is seeking local retirees for house-sitters

By Diane Frea staff writer

Scenario: You're getting ready to go on a long-awaited 10-day vacation. But the thought of having to kennel the dog and the cat, stop the mail and newspaper, find someone to water your plants and garden, and clean out the refrigerator is enough to make you start unpack-

Home Sitting Services Inc. based in Denver, through which the Johnsons bought rights for their western Wayne, Oakland and Washtenaw counties operation, is a nationwide service which matches retired people with homeowners who wish to hire a house sitter while they are away.

The retired person occupies the home around the clock, feeds and cares for pets, waters plants, accepts mail, answers the phone and handles maintenance emergencies while the home-

Back-up sitters always are available if an emergency arises and the original sitter is not available.

SINCE ABOUT 90 percent of clients use the service for pets, retirees who do not like animals should not apply for the job, Mrs. Johnson said. The sitters also cannot take their own pets to clients' homes.

Mrs. Johnson said sitters receive no special training, "because it's just like going to your own home."

Clients fill out a two-page form before leaving, which lists details about the care of the home and pets, where the gas and water shutoffs are located, and who to call in an emergency.

The occupied home is a benefit for the homeowner, Sutherland said. There has never been a break-in or vandalism during any sitter's stay in the nearly 13 years the businesses have been operating nationwide.

In several cases, flooded basements and electrical fires have been averted because alert sitters were at the homes, Sutherland said.

Sutherland said the sitters are not hired hands but instead are guest-residents in the clients' homes. "It's just like Uncle Jim and Aunt Suzie coming to visit.

"We make it possible for the home-owner to pack their bags and go."

Because enrollment fell short of expectations, Schoolcraft College has pared its operating budget 1.1 percent.

The new budget, approved in a 6-0 vote of the board of trustees last week,

Tuition and fees revenue was $245,000 less than expected, causing the college to dip $50,000 into its cash carryover from last year and to cut $195,000 from expenses, President Richard McDowell said.

Expenses were cut by trimming $104,000 in jobs and $91,000 from fringe and contingency accounts.

GET READY for a big wad of computer contracts in November, Conway Jeffress, vice president for instruction, warned trustees.

Contracts totaling $573,000 must be awarded all at once, Jeffress said. Reason for the big crunch: The month of November is the only time when the equipment can be ordered.

The November date is quite critical because the federal vocational funds must be encumbered before the end of November, and Job Training Retraining Investment funds cannot be encumbered before the start of November. So essentially all purchases must be encumbered within that 30-day period to take advantage of the match between state, federal and local funds."

"Data processing and other computer-related courses are the fastest growing segment of our enrollment," Jeffress said. "We are discovering that people in technical areas will not choose alternative courses or programs if they are unable to get the courses

Strike hurt business

The Michigan economy as measured by the Michigan Business Activity Index contracted sharply in September, according to Manufacturer's Bank.

The index fell a whopping 14 points from August's level of 140 to a September reading of 126. Manufacturers Bank staff economist

Patrick L. Anderson explained:
"As we anticipated, Michigan enjoyed a prestrike mini-boom as Michigan automakers rushed to expand production before the auto strike occurred. Once the strike hit, auto production and sales fell off sharply and the Michigan economy contracted.

'The impact of the strike extended expansion of the past two years, the index still stands 9 percent ahead of its year-ago level. In fact, averaging the last three months to correct for both the prestrike boom and the strike itself indicate that the Michigan economy has been expanding at about the pace of the national economy.

"As long as the national economy keeps rolling, Michigan should recover rapidly from the strike."

State house hopefuls debate issues

the candidates for the Michigan Hosue of Representatives, the Observer asked five questions about issues facing the state legislature.

In the 36th House District, which includes all of Plymouth and half of Canton, incumbent Gerald H. Law, R-Plymouth, is being challenged by Democrat Lucian M. Cayce of Plymouth. The answers of each follows:

1. Do you favor a part-time or fulltime Legislature? Why?

Law: The problems and solutions confronting the environment, education and economic investment in the State of Michigan require full-time attention. Other states faced with similar problems are moving toward full-time legislatures. Electing independent, qualified representatives is still the most important factor in developing a good representative government.

Cayce: I favor a full-time legislature. Michigan's problems are much too complex for persons to be able to adequately address them on a part-time basis. If we elect effective legislators, a full-time legislature will be very "cost-effective."

2. Should the Voter's Choice Tax rollback be adopted? Why?

Cayce: I intend to vote "no" on Proposal C, and urge all of Michigan's residents to do the same. This does not represent a Voters' Choice but a perversion of our system of representative democracy. If Proposal C were to pass, the special elections which would result would have been extremely low turnouts. Thus an "unelected few" would be making decisions for everyone. If the people of Michigan desire fiscal responsibility in state government, they should participate in the process of electing those who represent them in Lansing. This is the intent of our form of government.

Law: The Voters' Choice Amendment is the only proposal to have been initiated by petitions this year. It has been pointed out that several key questions still remain regarding which taxes and/or changes in the state structure will be affected. Projections of state tax revenue reductions range from $870 million to $1.6 billion annually.

Local property tax reductions will occur, but are incalculable at this time. This proposal alters our form of representative government by limiting the ability of state and local legislative bodies to respond to change needs. Voters' Choice may have a detrimental effect on the state's credit rating and matching federal funds.

3. Should the Legislature pass bills to regionalize the Detroit Water and Sewerage Department under a customer-run regional authority?

Law: Yes because, from a point of good public policy, there is no reason why a city like Detroit alone should rule a water and sewer system that serves more than 100 communities which are paying more than their share of the cost. Such a system should be under regional control.

Cayce: All persons who are effected should have some control. Regional authorities for this and other services provided by large cities to suburebs are the wave of the future. I favor the con-

4. Should the Legislature appropriate $1.5 million for the Detroit Zoo, explore taking over the zoo operation, or create a multi-county regional authority to operate it?

Cayce: I would favor such an appropriaton only if there is a study to show that the state could recoup its investment in a reasonable period. I do not believe the state should operate the Detroit Zoo. Again, a regional authority is a good concept.

Law: Any state funds appropriated to the Detroit Zoo should be audited for accountability and effectiveness. A multi-county regional authority would probably cost more than the stated ap-

5. Should the Michigan Legislature allocate a greater portion of the state general fund for education? If so, what else should be cut?

Law: Yes, as only 38 percent of the cost of funding K-12 education is paid by the State of Michigan. Reductions should be made within the Social Services budget. Considerable savings can be realized in Medicaid through the use of competitive bidding for medical services provided welfare recipients. Additional savings can be achieved by increased computerizations and crosschecking to eliminate waste and fraud in the system. Removing all single, able-bodied adults from welfare over a period of time would benefit education by $75 million annually.

Cayce: Yes, more emphasis should be given to education but we do not necessarily have to cut elsewhere. Why not broaden our tax base in Michigan by attracting high tech and service businesses to our state? Why not retrain our workforce in marketable job skills, and start this process at a time when a worker goes on unemployment not after they have exhausted unemployment benefits and are on welfare. So the answer is to continue to expand Michigan's economy and bring full employment with meaningful jobs to our peo-

Band tourney a big success

It truly was a unique and exceptional event which took place at the Centennial Educational Park (CEP) this past Saturday, Oct. 27.

More than 3,000 bandspersons and 10,000 visitors came and watched and participated in the 1984 Michigan Competing Band Directors Association's State Championship Marching Band Competition. The show was a stunning success and a very enjoyable experience.

All of the kudos belong to this community which once again arose to the occassion. From the school personnel to the merchants and from the parents and boosters to the band members, no energy was spared. It was a superior effort by all those who were involved.

There will be tomorrows because so many of you cared today. On behalf of the participants, we offer our taking the time to share.

To the editor:

Due to a very disappointing turnout for the Quicksilver One Hour Photo benefit for the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools athletic programs, we have elected to turn over the entire proceeds from that day rather than the 50 percent promised to the schools.

Hopefully the bad weather was the cause of the lack of enthusiasm. A check for $326.77 is being given for the athletic programs.

We will try again in the future. Our thanks go out to all those who assisted in this endeavor.

Funds run out before insulation perfected

By Penny Wright special writer

Melvin H. Sachs' needs are simple: a well-heeled fairy godmother.

For the past two years, the state of Michigan has been his benefactor. It backed Sachs' development of a lightweight, non-toxic, fireproof insulation to the tune of $111,000. Now the funding has ended, and Sachs is left looking for more money.

"Our resources are totally tapped out. We went 'way beyond our contracted share," said Sachs as he discussed the Energy Technology Development Program which financed his work.

IN 1982 the Michigan Energy Administration initiated a $200,000 pilot grant program to provide financial support to local inventors for development and demonstration of new energy technology prototypes.

tion. It can be sprayed onto a surface.
"Our problem," Sachs said, "is to get
The state's goal was to move the products to the point of commercialization. Along the way, it also would create jobs and conserve energy within the Three individuals were awarded grants with the stipulation that each had to contribute at least 25 percent of the total cost of his project. One of the funded products was "Intech," an acronym for insulation technology. It is an insulating material developed by Mel-vin Sachs, who heads a Livonia-based construction firm.

Other grants went to a waste water heat recovery unit ($49,000) and a biomass burner for drying shelled corn

OVER THE PAST two years, Sachs has used his grant money to produce a demonstration application of Intech on our land Penny Wright an un-insulated concrete block build-

This involved development of a spraying machine which could effectively apply the insulation onto the interior wall of the building. "From the beginning, nothing went right. I mean nothing," the inventor said.

Intech, he explained, is a combination of inorganic materials such as perlite or vermiculite mixed with a specially developed inorganic binder. The substance becomes a fast-drying, strongly adhesive, fireproofing insulaeverything mixed up and then, bam! get it out of there in a hurry.'

HE RELATED a list of trial-and-error efforts which led to clogged machinery, destruction of dust-catching equipment and giant dust storms.

Finally, a spraying machine proto-type emerged that could apply the insulation onto the demonstration building in West Bloomfield Townshiip. The state plans to monitor the building for a two-year period to meaure the effectiveness of the insulation.

Now Sachs is at a standstill in his efforts to make his insulation commercially available.

"We still have work to do in order to get Intech into the marketplace," he said. "We know what has to be done to devleop a suitable spraying machine. We just need more money to get the show on the road."

STATE ENERGY Administration officials predict that raising the additional funds will be difficult.

Jeffrey Pillon, program manager of the Energy Technology Development Program, notes that no state money is currently pegged for energy technology due to the lack of legislative interest. The situation can hurt entrepreneurs like Sachs.

Pillon explained that the small prin: vate inventor has a hard time obtain capital for development work. The risks that the invention will not be commercially viable are too high for:

most private investors.

But Pillon hopes that energy technolis ogy will once again attract state funds, ing attention. "A lot of spin-offs can" come from supporting energy-saving products," he said.

MEANWHILE, Sachs hasn't given

Despite recent unsuccessful abtempts to attract other government; funding, the inventor is confident of the potential of his insulation to solve problems in both the insulating and fireproofing industries.

"I have no doubt that, one way or another, we will get Intech to market."

Student newspaper earns top honors

The CEP Perspective, the student newspaper of Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton high schools, earned a medalist rating and an All-Columbian Award from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association Contest for its 1983-84 publication year.

Tom Duval, staff assistant for the Columbia Scholastic Press Association, said medalist ratings are "... only given to the top 10 percent of the entries . . . " added, is " . . . a recognition of outstanding achievement and a mark of distinction."

The Perspective received 937 of a possible 1,000 points in the competition. The paper was judged on its content/coverage, writing/editing, design/display and creativity.

The Perspective was awarded an All-Columbian Award for its writing/editing for the '83-84 publication year. In this area the paper earned 420 of a possible 425 points.

According to Newspaper Fundamentals and Scorebook, edited by James F. Paschal, the ratings in the contest range from fourth place (the lowest possible) to first place.

"Medalist ranking is granted to publications selected from the first-place ratings. This honor, the association's highest ranking, is based on those intangible qualities evident to the judges which could be characterized as the 'personality' of the entry."

Proposal A revives old fight over new rules

By Tim Richard staff writer

"I don't care who makes the laws." a member of George Washington's cabinet is supposed to have said. "I want to be the one who enforces them."

That two-centuries-old tug of war between administration and lawmakers is at the heart of Proposal A on Michigan's Nov. 6 ballot.

The fact of modern life is that legislative bodies - the U.S. Congress and state legislatures - pass laws in general terms, then leave it to administrative agencies to write rules and regulations enforcing the laws. Sometimes, however, the legislative body doesn't like the way the law is being implemented and seeks to veto the rule.

And so Proposal A was placed on the ballot by the Michigan Legislature, specifically being pushed by Sen. Alan Cropsey, R-Dewitt, chairman of the Joint Committee on Administrative

Proposal A language

A proposal to allow the Legislature to approve or disapprove administrative rules.

The proposed amendment would: Provide for the legislature or a joint committee of the legislature to approve or disapprove administrative rules written by state agencies to implement state law before the rules may be formally adopted by the agency as law, in a manner now or at a later date provided by law.

Should the proposed amendment be adopted?

FAVORING Proposal A is the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce. Opposing it is the East Michigan Environmental Action Council (EMEAC).

Adopted in 1963, the Michigan Constitution permits the Legislature to "empower a joint commmittee of the Legislature, acting between sessions, to suspend any rule or regulation promulgated by an administrative agency subsequent to the adjournment of the last preceding regular legislative session."

Congress attempted by law to suspend an administrative rule, but its action was shot down in court as an intrusion by the legislative body into administration. As state chamber president James Barrett explained it:

"Last year the U.S. Supreme Court held that the 'congressional veto' of federal agency rules was unconstitutional. Although that decision applied only to the federal government, the reasoning underlying the decision is likely to be followed by state courts since state constitutions track closely with the language of the U.S. Constitu-

"Michigan may be just a lawsuit away from having the Legislature stripped of its power of oversight and review of administrative rules and regulations. Proposal A, if passed by the voters, maintains the status quo and protects legislative oversight from legal attack . . . It will continue bureaucratic accountability to elected offi-

The ballot proposal is being advocated by Citizens for Proposal A. Its office address and telephone number are the same as those of the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce in Lansing.

ENVIRONMENTALISTS tend to dislike the idea, especially because one key member of the Joint Administrative Rules committee is Sen. Joe Mack. D-Ironwood, a man considered an enemy of environmental legislation. Mack is not mentioned by name, however, in the EMEAC analysis.

Using the state Department of Natural Resources as an example, EMEAC's Libby Harris provided this rationale for opposing Proposal A:

"For example, the Legislature in Michigan passed a law that generally prohibits discharges of substances into the waters of the state without a state permit. The DNR has promulgated administrative rules that inform industrial plants, municipalities and others of the procedures that must be followed for obtaining a (discharge) permit."

She goes on: "By refusing to approve rules, the Joint Rules Committee can hold up implementation of a law and

OTHER OPPONENTS of Propsal A see the committee as rearguing the substance of laws which a more liberal majority of the Legislature has already passed. They charge that implementation of campaign laws has been held up by committee action delaying implementation of rules. Gov. James J. Blanchard was expected to oppose Propsal A but has not

So far, no court action has chal-lenged the Michigan Legislature's veto of an administrative rule. If passed, Propsal A would amend the state constitution to strengthen the Legislature's

Voodoo economics in Oakland County?

By Kathy Parrish

Oakland County taxpayers will pay the same millage rate this year as last.

Democrats - calling it a hidden tax hike tried hard to get the rate lowered.

But Republican members of the board of commissioners passed the tax 16 to 9. They praised the executive's proposed county budget, which proposes expenditures $5.4 million less than 1984.

"This budget is a voodoo-type budgeting," said Commissioner Dennis Aaron, D-Oak Park.

"If you take the action proposed today you will continue the policy of spending, spending, and not recognize the human needs of our overburdened taxpayers."

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS last week approved the 4.6391-mill property tax rate proposed by County Executive Daniel Murphy in his budget message Oct. 1.

Based on the 1984 equalized valuation of $14,408,866,141, the tax is expected to bring in $66,844,171 in property taxes.

While the rate is the same as last year's, it will net more revenue because the tax base has grown. Last year, assessments dropped because of depressed property values.

CONTENDING THIS year's tax is actually an increase, executive candidate Sheriff Johannes F. Spreen blasted it Oct. 5. He charged Murphy with recommending a "hidden tax increase" for county taxpayers.

During last week's meeting, Commissioner James Doyon asked to have the tax rate rolled back to 4.5997 mills.

Doyon, a Madison Heights Democrat whose district includes part of Troy, said the move would save taxpayers $500,000.

"A half million dollars is a lot of money. When assessments go up, we should lower the rate," said Doyon. "I think we should cut this $500,000 because it's the right thing to do."

THE AMENDMENT to reduce the tax rate failed by a vote of 15 to 10. It was supported by Democrats Aaron; Doyon; William J. Foley, Milford; Betty Fortino, Pontiac; Ruel McPherson, Hazel Park; Walter Moore, Pontiac; Alexander Perinoff, Southfield; Lawrence Pernick, Southfield; and Hubert Price Jr., Pontiac.

The only Republican favoring the amendment was Ralph Nelson, Rochester. The commissioner said he believes there will be a sufficient tax increase generated without the extra $500,000.

"I voted the way I felt I should vote," said Nelson, an attorney. "It just happened to be the way the Democrats voted."

Marching band earns top prize

The Centennial Educational Park (CEP) Marching Band represented well the Plymouth-Canton community Saturday night in state competition.

Coming off an undefeated season in marching band competitions, the young musicians faced some of the best corps bands in the state and finished with one of its best performances of the season. The band, directed by James Griffiths, finished first place in Flight I, took the Best of Show trophy and captured four of six caption awards.

In taking first place, the CEP musicians edged out Durand, which year after year produces one of the finest marching bands in Michigan. And this year's Durand band was even better than recent years. Durand Saturday achieved the highest score in its history - an impressive 84.5. That score was the highest ever achieved in the histo-IV of the Michigan Competiting Band Directors Association. But it was not enough to end the CEP's victory string as our musicians came through with a near flawless performance and a stunning score of 85.5,

The Observer congratulates James Griffiths and his assistants, and every single student in the band who learned that hours of practice, extra effort, hard work and striving for excellence in performance does have its reward. The band earned its rewards Saturday night and doesn't need any accolades from us as a reward. Our remarks are anticlimactic but we do want to recognize our champions - we are proud of all of you.

A final word of recognition is due the Plymouth-Canton Music Boosters who hosted the state competiton which brought in 3,000 bandsmen and some 10,000 spectators. The tournament was well organized and ran in a manner that reflects well on the Plymouth-Canton community.

The band now travels to Kalamazoo for the Calvacade of Bands at Western Michigan University for its final competition of the year. Good luck, enjoy, and congratulations on a great season.

Nov. 6: The end is in sight

for politicians, too VOTERS IN THIS area Tuesday will elect a U.S. Representative for a two-year term. Running are Republican incumbent Carl D. Pursell, Democratic challenger

Experience counts

Mike McCauley and two minor party candidates Pursell has served this area faithfully and well as a county commissioner, as a state senator and - since 1977 - as a U.S. Representative, and we urge that voters return him to Congress for another two-year term. The 2nd Congressional District which Pursell represents includes Livonia, Plymouth and Plymouth Township.

In previous years Pursell has been the target of intensive Democratic campaigns, but he has always emerged on top. This year, the drive by the Democratic Party pales in comparision with previous attempts. This well may be beca portionment of the district after the 1980 census saw large rural areas as far west as Hillsdale added to the district.

The district is now 70 percent Republican and Pursell seems almost assured of

THIS DOES NOT mean that Pursell has had a free ride, however. Democratic challenger Mike McCauley has conducted a spirited and aggressive campaign. The Democratic nominee has pointed out weaknesses in Pursell's voting record.

But McCauley does not present himself as a serious candidate. Active in high school affairs as a teacher and coach, McCauley nevertheless was not previously involved in the political arena. He has never Held elective office and has no experience as a lawmaker. Pursell rightly criticizes McCauley for having a poor voting record as a resident of Plymouth-Canton Community school district. A teacher at Plymouth Canton High, McCauley did not vote in a number of school elections in which millage proposals were on the ballot.

We commend McCauley for his work with young people, for the years he has invested in public education, for the spirit of volunteerism he has exhibited as a coach over the years, and for his efforts on behalf of Focus Hope. But these qualities are not sufficient to convince us that the challenger should receive serious consideration as a candidate for Congress.

PURSELL, 51, a former teacher, small business owner and community activist, has an outstanding record of public ser-

As a Wayne County Commissioner in 1969 and 1970, he was among the early voices to cry out for county reform. He served in the Michigan Senate from 1971 to 1976 where he amassed an amazing record of achievement and was recognized by his peers. He was named outstanding first-term senator and outstanding environmental legislator in Michigan by the Environmental Protection Agency.

In Washington, Pursell has continued to be effective, rising to a position of leadership among Northeast-Midwest congress-

A political moderate, Pursell is a member of the powerful Appropriations Committee, which handles all spending bills. He pushed through the federal program to aid talented and gifted students. He has been years ahead of others in recognizing the need to improve nursing education and the status of nurses in the health care delivery system, and he co-sponsored the new Equal Rights Amendment.

Pursell also has gained an international reputation for sponsoring a plan to expand the St. Lawrence Seaway to handle the new generation of ocean-going ships.

We have no qualms in endorsing Carl Pursell for another two-year term as our U.S. Representative and urge residents to give him their votes on Tuesday.

- Observer Newspapers

YOGI BERRA said it's never over until it's over. Well, it can't get over fast enough to suit me.

I have been bombarded with political literature in my mailbox and between my doors, and the TV seems to have no other kind of advertising than threats that doom and gloom will follow all the days of my life - and my children's - if I make the wrong choice Nov. 6.

Every newscast starts with the obligatory shots of President Ron and challenger Walter waving to cheering throngs and saying the same things they said weeks and months ago.

I have a hunch every voter of right mind has tired of listening to the Weeper vs. the Sleeper act long ago and is anxious to vote Nov. 6 just so that the great debate can finally draw to an ignominious close.

THE PRESIDENTIAL races drag on far too long. All this last-minute bombardment of TV advertising merely makes voters painfully aware of how shallow and inept political advertising is and how uninspiring our politicians are.

Of course, I am also in a downer because I am afraid that the great American electorate, the state voters and local voters are going to make choices which I consider unwise.

As far as the presidency goes, I feel that presidents don't run the country anyway, the political lifers who surround a president do. It probably is a good thing for my sanity that I place my trust in a higher power than the presidency. Whoever decided to put the phrase "In God We Trust" on American currency was a true visionary who must have forseen what this country was heading toward.

I HAVE A HUNCH the overabundance of political rhetoric and the inability of citizens overwhelmed by the choices and complexities of modern life may well decide that President Ron has done such a good job that anything which sounds like a Reagan idea will get a public blessing.

This, I fear, might mean that Proposal C will sneak by with disaffected and disenchanted citizens deciding to strike out against fat government and for fatter

The average citizen may well look at Proposal C and in the recesses of a mind overloaded with political disgust say to himself: "This is something Ron would like," and plunk a vote for Proposal C.

There is a hope that the establishment has done such a good job of educating the public to the true nature of C that it will sink like an overloaded barge. After all, The public was smart enought to realize that the Tisch proposal was a fraud trying to disguise itself as a friend.

Then there is also a bright spot in that lawyers must have written the proposal that appears on the ballot. They did their usual fine job of making the proposal unintelligible to the average voter, and there is an acknowledged tendency to vote no on anything that is not easily understood.

WHILE ALL the political primping and boasting goes on our local communities are concerned with such cosmic matters as 1) in Livonia, whether there should be a minimum number of firefighters from now to antiquity and whether residents should be allowed to veto a senior citizens project, 2) in Southfield, whether there is an excessive concentration of homes for the retarded (a few hundred poor souls trying to make there way in a town of

This in a world where nuclear extinction becomes a bigger threat each day and millions of people in African nations are starving to death without sufficient aid from the nation blessed with the greatest wealth the world has ever seen.

Proposal C — minority rule

BACKERS OF Proposal C are being less than honest when they say the "Voter's Choice" amendment wouldn't do permanent damage to state and local government. "All you'd have to do," they coo soothingly, "is place those taxes on the ballot and persuade voters to pass them."

That's nonsense, and they know it. In the first place, renewing any taxes rolled back by Proposal C would require special elections. Special elections typically draw turnouts of 5-15 percent. The backers of C are counting on such turnouts for minority rule.

In the second place, such a glut of state and local elections would be required that annoyed voters would be inclined to reject all. In their cunning, the backers of C are banking on that.

In the third place, special elections tend to attract negative voters — the kind who take out all their aggressions and indigestion by voting against whatever is on the ballot, facts be damned. Jim Demar, the chief spokesman for Proposal C, was a specimen in point when he announced, "If I could paralyze state government, I

And that is the kind of sick thinking which spawned Proposal C.

AS FOR THE other ballot proposals, we

• No on Proposal A. It would elevate into the state constitution a mere legislative committee on oversight of state administrative rules. On the theory that "if it ain't broke, don't fix it," we see no reason for this amendment.

• Yes on Proposal B. It would raise to constitutional status the state land trust fund and dedicate revenues from oil and natural gas leases on state lands to purchase and develop more recreational lands. Land isn't getting any scarcer. Once it is privately "developed," it's gone. The current state land trust, created by law, has been raided practically to oblivion by a revenue-hungry legislature. The land trust needs constitutional protection.

bserver endorsements

THE OBSERVER NEWSPAPERS in its Thursday, Oct. 18, edition has taken the following positions on the ballot proposals in the Nov. 6 election: Proposal A: Amend the state constitution to give a Joint Committee on Legislative Rules year-around power to review administrative rules and regulations. We urge a no vote.

Proposal B: A constitutional amendment to earmark revenues from oil and natural gas leases on state lands for a Michigan Natural Resources Trust Fund. We urge a yes vote.

Proposal C: Would forbid changes in the base or rate of any state or local tax without approval of voters; invalidate all state and local taxes levied since the end of 1981; void new state and local fees enacted since 1981; and limit non-resident city income taxes to 0.5 percent. The Observer urges a no vote as the proposal violates Michigan's tradition of home rule and local self-government, and is not in keeping with representative democracy.

CANDIDATES FOR various elected positions were evaluated by Observer editors based on either personal interviews or written questionnaires or, in some races, both. Our endorsements, expressed on our editorial page Thursday, Oct. 25, are: State House: For the 36th District, Gerald Law, R-Plymouth. Wayne County Commissioner: For the 10th District, which includes Plymouth and Plymouth Township, Mary Dumas, District Court: For the 35th District, which includes Plymouth and Plymouth Township, we endorse John MacDonald.

Trade benefits — By a vote of 174-233, the House rejected an amendment o end the preferential trade treatment the U.S. grants to South Korea, Taiwan and Hong Kong.

The vote occurred during debate on a catchall trade bill (HR 3398) that later became law.

To help "developing" countries, the U.S. waives duties on some 3,000 categories of products imported from about 140 countries and territories, including South Korea, Tawian and Hong Kong.

Of the $26.5 billion worth of goods the three exported last year to the U.S., about $5.6 billion arrived duty free.

Sponsor Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., oted that South Korea, Taiwan and Hong Kong have robust economies and register trade surpluses in dealing with Opponent Thomas Bliley, R-Va., said removal of the three from the preferential trade list will weaken the administration's power to negotiate issues such as dumping and the manufacture of counterfeit products.

Embassy Security - By a vote of 56-42, the Senate tabled (killed) an amendment requiring President Reagan to certify that Congress has appropriated enough money to secure U.S. embassies against terrorist attack.

This followed the recent bombing of the U.S. Embassy in Beirut. The certification was sought as a condition of Senate approval of a $336 million emergency appropriation for embassy se-

The vote occurred during debate on a fiscal 1985 appropriations bill that later became law.

Warren Rudman, R-N.H., called the amendment an attempt to fix blame on the president should another U.S. embassy be bombed.

Joseph Biden, D-Del., said the bomb-

he needed" for security.

Senators voting no favored the certification requirement.

Voting no: Carl Levin and Donald Reigle, both Michigan Democrats

Senate committee checks August voting

By Kathy Parrish staff writer

Voter registration isn't the hottest topic for a public hearing.

But there hasn't been a dull moment for the Senate committee looking into the subject statewide. A Saginaw Township hearing last week focused on a computer snafu there resulting in incorrect counting of Aug. 7 primary votes.

And a Detroit session Tuesday brought more - a printing error in absentee voter instructions for the Michigan Supreme Court race; charges that underage and mentally impaired voters are being registered; and a newspaper report that Detroit's list of active registered voters is at least 28 percent inac-

"IT IS IMPERATIVE that the citizens of Michigan be assured that the sanctity of the ballot box is secure," said Sen. John Engler, R-Mt. Pleasant. The Senate majority leader heads the bipartisan study of voter registration and election procedures around the state.

We cannot allow anything less. Every qualified citizen should have the right to vote. But it is their right to make sure that their vote is not cancelled out by someone who is not qualified to vote."

Originally intended as a look at voter registration and election procedures in general, the hearings so far have revolved around irregularities.

ENGLER SAID a "disturbing pattern of events" have surfaced in the media since the study started in October. He cited registration of underage voters at a Detroit high school, the instruction sheet error. questions about security of tabulation procedures for punch card ballots and concerns about methods of registering physically and mentally handicapped

He stressed the committee does not intend to 'raise the suspicion of or to uncover criminal traud." Instead, it wants to see if legislation is needed to prevent the possibility of fraud or intentional tampering with the election process in the

IN McGREGOR HALL at Wayne State University, the Detroit-area hearing focused mainly on printing errors in instructions to some absentee voters. On hand to discuss the issue were local and state elections officials.

As required by law, the names of candidates are rotated so they are not always in the same position on the ballot. Detroit has 10 separate ballot rotations for the Nov. 6 general election.

While the names of Supreme Court Justice James Brickley and challenger Wayne County Circuit Court Judge James Hathaway were rotated, their designations weren't. To make it clear to voters who is the incumbent and who is the challenger, 20,000 new instruction sheets and ballots were sent out in marked envelopes. The first ballots were to be discarded, although probably only 40 percent of those inaccurately described Hathaway as an incumbent Supreme Court justice.

"THIS IS THE first time since 1946 that there's been an error sent out to the voters," said Deputy Wayne County Clerk Orville Tungate, urging the committee to look into the issue of name rotation. Wayne County Clerk James Killeen asked the legislature to eliminate rotation this year because of time pressures on his office stemming from the Michigan Supreme Court decision to return house districts to 1982 boundaries.

"The final ballot was not certified until well into the first week of July," Tungate explained. The Plymouth Township resident said the clerk's office has worked seven days a week 14 hours daily June 19-Aug. 3.

"We feel those pressures contributed to errors we found on the Nov. ballot."

ROBERT HAMLIN of Plymouth has the lead in the Schoolcraft College Dinner Theater production of "The Haunting of Hill House." The suspense drama begins at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, Nov. 16 and 17, and at 2 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 18 in the Liberal Arts Theater.

A sit-down dinner will be served by the famous Schoolcraft Culinary Arts Department at 6:30 p.m.
Friday and Saturday in the Waterman Campus Center. A wine and cheese afterglow will be served in the lobby of the theater after the Sunday performance.

Robert plays Dr. Montague, an investigator of supernatural phenomena. He invites three people to Hill House, a brooding Victorian mansion which has remained empty except for the daily visits of Mrs. Dudley, the grumbling caretaker. The doctor's wife and a friend join the group.

The play is an adaptation from Shirley Jackson's novel on which the movie, "The Haunting," was based. Director James Hartmanhas changed the usual Schoolcraft dinner-theater format because of the special effects needed for the drama — breathing doors, strange lighting and fog. He had to have a permanent stage, thus the move to the theater.

Reservations at $12.50 per person for the dinner-theater performances and $8.50 for the Sunday show and afterglow, are available at the College Book Store, off the north parking lot. For information call 591-6400, Ext. 265.

AN OPEN HOUSE last month at the Ford Rouge Plant marked the dedication of the Dearborn Wastewater Treatment Facility to the memory of Clarence E. Atwater, a Plymouth resident who labored long and hard in the construction, but did not live to see its completion.

The honor was the result of a joint effort of UAW labor and Ford management. It reads: "This facility is dedicated in the memory of Clarence E. Atwater, manager of Rouge Construction

Clarence Atwater Services
Department from 1974 to 1984. n recognition of his instrumental role in the employee involvement effort that contributed to its construction.

It was the first time an employee had been so honored.
His wife, Donna, and six of their eight children attended the dedication. Mr. Atwater lived on Purcell Street, Plymouth. He had lived in the community for seven years before his death from cancer in June of this year.

BOB AND BETTY Webber are back in town, or, to be exact, back in Plymouth Township. They will be staying at Jim and Eleanor Warren's until April.

They'll be giving a series of slide shows of their summer travels at First Presbyterian Church beginning Nov. 13.

They left for England Sunday, June 3 and were met at Gatwick Airport by former Plymouth residents, Tom and Virginia Adams. The Adamses had rented a house in Gloucester for a year and the Webbers will have some shots of them and the country around Gloucester in their first slide presentation.

Tom and Virginia are now back and settled in Charlottesville, Va. Betty and Bob stopped in to see them on their way back from England.

LOCAL CRAFTERS will be showing and selling at the West Bloomfield Community Education holiday arts and crafts sale. The show will be 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 10 in West Bloomfield High School, 4925

Orchard Lake Road.

Debbie Hubbard, Jill Lazarus,
Judy Leone and Lillian Trieskey will have country crafts, teddy bears, baskets, Victorian lace accents, holiday centerpieces and decorator brooms at the show.

Bids will be flying Saturday night at the arts council's Unusual Auction in the Don Massey Cadillac Showroom. 40475 E. Ann Arbor Road, Plymouth. L. John Miller, auctioneer for the evening, and Teri John, who is co-chairing the "night on the town" with Rosemarie Kramer, take a test flight in a Piper Cub, one of the forms of transportation offered for a glamorous outing at the auction. There will be a light buffet and auctioneers Miller and Betty Stremickwill be selling everything from catered gourmet dinners for eight, a balloon ride and antiques to manure for a garden and art works. Fun begins at 7:30 p.m. and admission at the door is $15 per person, or, $12.50 in advance at Me and Mr. Jones.

Singers in concert

The Ann Arbor Cantata Singers will present a concert at 4 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 4, in First United Presbyterian Church of Plymouth, Church Street at Main.

Founded in 1960, Cantata Singers Inc. is a community non-profit organization devoted to the performance of fine choral music of all periods.

Sunday's concert will include the music of Palestrina, J.S. Bach, Brahms, Copland and Blow.

Wendy Gartner Bloom, mezzo-soprano, will be soloist for the Copland number. She has performance experience in the fields of opera, oratorio, early music, musical theater, jazz and recital singing. She gave a debut recital as guest artist with the Detroit Symphony at Meadow Brook Music Festival in June 1983.

Bloom has appeared as alto soloist with the Kenneth Jewell Chorale of Detroit, the Rackham Symphony Choir and Christ Church Chorale in Grosse Pointe.

One music critic wrote: "Graceful and beautiful Wendy Gartner Bloom, highlight of the evening, would certainly hold my attention were she the evening's sole entertainment."

DIRECTOR OF the Cantata Singers is Bradley Bloom, who also is director of choral activities at Schoolcraft College. He holds a master of music degree from the University of Michigan and a doctor of musical arts degree from the University of Iowa.

He has served on the faculties of the Aspen Music Festival and the University Division at Interlochen National Music Camp. His most recent accomplishments include performances of Britten's "War Requiem," Beethoven's "Missa Solemnis," and Orff's "Carmina Burana."

Mark Smith of Ann Arbor is accompanist for the singers.

MEMBERSHIP in the group is by audition and the Cantata Singers come from many communities and walks of life.

There are U-M prefessors, public and private school teachers, attorneys, accountants, housewives, business persons, computer programmers, psychologists, nurses, social workers, church music directors and radio personnel as well as a few university students.

Tickets for the Sunday afternoon concert are on sale in advance at the church. They also will be avialable at the door. Admission is $6 for adults. Students and senior citizens will be admitted for $4.

'Bus Stop' season opener for PTG

Plymouth Theatre Guild will open its 1984-85 season this weekend with a classic drama, "Bus Stop" by William Inge.

The set is the interior of a cheerful roadside diner as a howling snowstorm rages outside, blocking the roads. Several passengers from a bus out of Kansas City enter and before the refugees can resume their journey, their lives ondergo changes.

First to scurry into the diner is Cherie in spangled nightclub gown and seedy fur-trimmed jacket. Right behind her is a belligerent 21-year-old cowboy, Vergil, ready to sling her over his shoulder and carry her, alive and kicking, to his ranch in Montana.

Maggie Sergus of Canton Township, a newcomer to PTG, plays Cherie. She lists embroidery, doll-collecting and acting as her hobbies. Her credits include Mame Dennison in "Mame," Rosie in "Bye Bye Birdie," member of the chorus in "Hello Dolly" and one of Adelaide's girls in "Guys and Dolls."

DAVID IDE of Canton is Vergil. No stranger to the Plymouth stage, Ide has been active in all aspects of theatre acting, dancing, singing and directing.

He directed "Love " the Rails" and had major roles in Wait until Dark," "You're a Good Man Charlie Brown" and "Forty Carats."

Mark Willett, as Bo, has the male lead role. He has been involved in theater since his junior year in high school. He is majoring in theater and political science at the University of Michigan.

He played Merlin in "A Connectict Yankee in King Arthur's Court," Captain Keller in "The Miracle Worker," Dr. Joe Cardin in "The Children's Hour"at Cranbrook Theater School, and Tony in "Impromptu," for the Theater Guild of Livonia-Redford.

DANIEL ROBERT Taylor of Livonia has the role of Dr. Gerald Lyman. He has performed in community theater and Wayne State University productions. He says he would like to play Randall P. McMurphy in "One Flew Over the Cuckoo Nest."

Donna Eno, secretary of the Theater

Guild of Livonia-Redford, is doing her first PTG show as Grace, proprietor of the diner.

She had parts in "Buy God" and "Actor's Nightmare" for Livonia-Redford.

Jim Ingram of Redford Township plays Carl, the bus driver, who develops a friendship with Grace in the dra-

He also has worked with the Spotlight Players of Westland in several shows. Hissong is married and is a General Motors employee. He says that, someday, he would like to pursue acting as a full-time career.

Kathleen Lietz of Redford Township is Elma in "Bus Stop." She is a freshman at Wayne State University majoring in theater. This is her first PTG show. Her credits include roles in "Guys and Dolls," "The Lottery" and "Impromptu."

JOE MARSH of Northville is producer and stage manager.

Al LaCroix of Plymouth is director with Clemie Cyburt of Westland, assistant to the director. Jack Farrow and Dennis Schlicker are doing set construction and Jack

Montague is lights technician. Richard E. Brown is handling sound.

5-generation get-together worth the efforts

I think I may have found a way of clos-

You take one centenarian and one 3month-old, add all the love that every great-great-grandparent has to offer their offspring, and there you have it. A beautiful combination, a moment to remember, and perhaps one answer to the generation gap - love.

Well that's how it was one day in early September. Jack and Shirley Roberts of Canton, took daughter, Shelley Carrol, and granddaughter, Jessica Carrol, both of Minocqua, Wis., to Mars Hill, a little college town in the Blue Ridge Mountains of North Carolina.

They traveled all that way to be part of a picture-taking session of five generations. Shirley's parents, Fred and Myrtle Rice, and Shirley's Grandpa James Buckner, a full 103 years old completed the five generations.

There they were with Jessica, a mere 3 months old and ever so small and soft, sitting cradled in the arms of her great-great-grandpa James, 103 and ever so gentle. They met for the first time and immediately fell head over heels in love.

SOMEHOW, the years between them melted away into a clear and full understanding. With it was a willingness to completely overlook any short-comings either may have.

This was the first time Great-Grandma and Grandpa Rice had seen little Jessica in person. Add to this the photographs of the five generations, and you can easily see what made this event so exciting as well as special, not to mention the incredible remembrance for

The generation gap, is it real? If it is, Jessica to show her children in years to Shirley still smiles as she tells of how Grandpa Buckner just couldn't get over how very small Jessica was, as he held her tiny hand in his.

Although Shirley is officially residing in Canton, Mich., I am beginning to think she soon may have to take up voting privileges in Minocqua, Wis. Since daughter Shelley and son-in-law Mike moved there to take over a new business, Minocqua Moped and Sport Rentals, and had the nerve to take baby Jessica with them, it's been hard to keep Grandma Shirley at home! Thank heaven Grandpa Jack and Uncle Joe are able to cook for themselves, at least they know where the fast food restau-

COME TO THINK of it, maybe next time Grandma Shirley goes for a visit, maybe I'll tag along. Shirley loves that baby so much she'll believe I'm going up just to see her. Then I could spend endless hours on the mopeds, ski-jets, paddle boats, water sleds, ski tubes, maybe even get in a little snorkeling! I wonder what a Fiesta tube is? Oh well. Shirley will never miss me, and since Shelley and Mike own the business I could play all week for FREE! But the way my luck has been running this year, maybe I had better wait until 1985. On the other hand, maybe a week of snowmobiling is just what my family needs to break the tension and the string of bad luck. I saw a picture of their new business and do they ever have the "stuff." You could play all week and never use the same vehicle twice. Next time, maybe they should hold the reunion there. Can Canton chatter Sandy you imagine being Jessica? What a way to grow up, on a lake, in a beautiful, wooded, small town, having Shirley for a grandma, fussing over you every second. And a daddy who owns a great big toy store, all the toys most parents tell their kids "we just can't afford this

Oh boy, my luck is starting to change already! I've just figured out how to have an almost free vacation next year. I'll drive up to Minocqua, borrow a tent from baby Jessica's daddy, and some golf clubs, tennis rackets, roller skates. And I musn't forget the skiboat. What a ball!

Do you suppose they'll believe I'm Jessica's best friend?

Already I'm starting to forget my fall in September that landed me in the hospital. And my surgery in October. But I still feel the pain of my thumb which I zapped with the power hedge trimmers while I was trimming my shrubs today. Anyway, congratulations to my dear friends, the whole Roberts family, and their wonderful five-generation reunion. And a big hello to my best friend, Jessica! SPEAKING of Cantonites moving away, I received a message from an old friend of many of you, Kathy Freece Healey. Kathy keeps in touch with me and always sends her best to everyone. On this particular occasion, she wanted to let me know that a couple many of you know, or have benefited from, are moving to Chicago. Although we shall miss them, we naturally wish them all the best. I just wanted to take time out and say an official Canton Thank You to Carol and Mike

Many of you may remember Carol from Canton Newcomers where she served on the board. Perhaps you enjoyed the welcoming coffee at Canton Newcomers, an idea started by Carol. Or you may have joined one of the book discussion groups in the newcomers, another of Carol's contributions to Canton's personality.

Still in the book department, Carol was an original member of the Friends of the Canton Library, without whom we may never have had our library.

Even after it was opened, she and Mike continued to spend many hours developing new ideas for our libary.

While we're on the subject, Mike put in his two cents worth for Canton. He was very active in his homeowners group, (something more of us should take an active part in). And many children may or may not recognize him as bearing a close resemblance to that jolly old bearded man in the red suit hanging around Eriksson School each year at Christmas.

As a matter of fact, Kathy tells me he carried the spirit around the neighborhood for local children, keeping the fun alive and joyously, too.

All in all this couple will be missed by many, and by the township in general for all the good they have done for our little community. As Kathy put it, they not only were always having parties, and campaigning for local politicians, but "were always looking for Canton to grow strong."

It seems to me this couple did more than just "look for Canton to grow strong." I think they had a lot to do now, so long Carol and Mike. We'll miss you, and wherever you land, they don't know how lucky they are. As we have learned in this, our Sesquicentennial year, since you were a part of our past, you'll be a part of our future.

DON'T FORGET to Vote Tuesday Nov. 6. Do your part! Remember, if you don't show up on Tuesday at the polls, you'd better not complain on Wednesday. Everyone has an opinion, right or wrong. Let's hear yours at the polls.

Christian Hebel, 8, (left) and Jeff Noricks, 11, are learning to play their violins in the strings program offered by the Plymouth Junior Symphony. Students in grades 4-6 in the Plymouth-Canton area can take advantage of the special instruction by Janita Hauk. Younger children with some musical background may be accepted in the program. Registrations for the orchestra are being taken 6:30-8:30 p.m. Tuesday. Nov. 6, in the music room of Plymouth Salem High School, Joy Road west of Canton Center. Flute. French horn and string players are needed for the symphony. Christian is a third grader at Farrand Elementary School and Jeff is in sixth grade at Allen Elementary.

"It's very serious. But there's still hope."

"The Kresge Eye Institute at Harper Hospital has important research and eye surgery departments. There's no better place for your dad to be!"

Our story has been dramatized here, but the sorrow of blindness by accident, birth, disease and aging is very real. The work of treatment and cure is a journey of discovery into darkness; the joy of vision itself a miracle of infinite complexity. And hope springs from the research and clinical innovations of a few special facilities like the Kresge Eye Institute at Harper Hospital. Dedicated exclusively to the problems of vision, the Kresge Eye Institute treats thousands of patients each year. Its research programs develop new paths of understanding. Its clinical practice brings new technology to medicine and refines pioneering treatment techniques for others to follow. This important Medical Center resource gives present hope to millions with impaired vision throughout the world and promises better vision for future generations.

For an eye care brochure or more information about the Kresge Eye Institute, please phone the patient hot line number given below. The Kresge Eye Institute and Harper Hospital are affiliated with the School of Medicine, Wayne State University and the Medical Center in delivering world-class quality health care.

Northern England theme of Webbers' travel show

Betty Webber, will share their summer in Britain in a series of slide shows at First United Presbyterian Church of Plymouth. The first, at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 13, will focus on northern

The Webbers present not only a talk and slide travelogue with photographer Bob's professional pictures. They explain their travel budget to their audi-

"Like our 1982 and 1983 trips, we again stayed in bed and breakfasts and small guest houses making many new friends and keeping our costs at a low average," said Webber.

Expenses averaged $20.16 a day for room, including breakfast; $18.15 per day for noon and evening meals; and $22.21 per day for car rental and gas.

THEY BEGIN their slide show with their arrival in Cambridge, Monday, June 25.

They continue with a stop at Ely Cathedral, then traveling northeast with visits to the lavender fields at Norfolk, the red and white chalk buildings at Michael Whitaker, who rode in the Thornham and a little museum at Wolferton.

They were fascinated by the Wolferton Station Museum. Its recordsshow that between 1884 and 1911 more than 640 royal trains arrived there carrying royalty to visit Sandringham Estate, purchased originally in 1962 by the Prince of Wales (later King Edward VII. Among the royal travelers of the period were Queen Victoria, the King and Queen of Spain, Dowager Empress of Russia, and many others.

THE WEBBERS go on to Burton Lazar, the Peak District, a visit to the Wedgwood plant and Chatworth.

This beautiful building and grounds with 10 full-time gardners - are probably our favorite in England. We had a plus day as there was also an equestrian jumping competition and dog show. We saw and photographed

They were in Nottingham Sunday, July 1, then it was on to Lincoln. They were in York just a week before the big fire in the cathedral.

They consider their visit to the newly-opened Jorvik Viking Center a high point of their days in York. The center houses the diggings which revealed the Jorvik town of the 10th century.

'We took one day of our York stay to visit the ruins of Rievaulx Abbey and Castle Howard of television's 'Brideshead Revisited.' We left York Thursday, July 5, driving through the York Dales and stopping at Hadrian's Wall, built in 122AD,"Webber said.

The northern England slide presentation ends at this point. Scotland and the and southern England will be covered in later slide shows.

Meaning of 'good life' is lost

The letter said that "the good life Americans once enjoyed was threat-ened — for many, it seemed impossible to achieve.'

This was stated immediately following a paragraph describing the condition of the U.S. four years ago when annual inflation was running over 12 percent, prime rate climbing, unemployment rising and excessive taxation preventing "families from enjoying the fruits of their hard work."

To be sure, this is poltical rhetoric, and cannot be trusted for any length of time. Political interpretations and judgments change frequently.

The association of the "good life," however, with the experience of lower taxes, interest rates etc. has been an important ingredient in 1984s cam-paign rhetoric, and claimed often enough to make it something more than mere talk for show and effect.

The American public is quite pre-pared to believe that the "good life" comes through lower taxes, just as a number of politicians claim that it does. That is most regrettable.

moral perspectives Rev. Lloyd

Basing the "good life" on economic or material goods has been a common experience through history. Both the Old and New Testaments record the people of God desiring the accumulation of things instead of carrying out the will and commands of God.

And both Old and New Testaments are risecting and withering in their are piercing and withering in their denunciation of this consumption that destroys the community fabric. The Judeo-Christian heritage has clearly based the "good life" in the care of life and not its acquisition nor experience of material being.

The "good life" comes to those who care for others, who reach out in service, who share the gifts of providence and strive daily to effect justice throughout the land.

Political rhetoric is much like the morning fog. As more and more light penetrates the dense concentration of partisan notions the more one is able to see. Unfortunately, being able to see the needs of our society has not spurred to see the needs of our society has not spurred. us on to action.

We would rather not see or least what could be done with a people of our resources. We settle for rhetoric and close our eyes to the "good life" people have when they love God, their neigh-bors and themselves in equal measure.

Playoff pains: Damage is done

O WHO EVER said life was fair? I never did, and you can quote me on it. I'd be the first to tell you the only real thing to count on in the real world is how unreal it can be.

Unfairness is a superb example. For instance, who do you think causes most of the unfairness on this planet? Not grizzly bears. Not any animal. It takes the superior intellect of man to screw things up so badly.

Even sports, which are strictly defined and governed, and whose purpose is to teach proper conduct and "sportsmanship," are spoiled by man's inept bungling. God knows the people making the decisions try to avoid unfairness, but isn't it funny how they move to correct the problem when it's too late?

Like the prep football playoff system.

IN CLASS A Region Three, there are five unbeaten teams. If there were no regional set-up for the state playoffs, all five would qualify among the top eight in the state.

But there is a regional set-up. And only two will

So why is the state divided into four regions when state playoff participants are determined by computer points?

"That's the concept in all interscholastic competition," explains the man who should know, Vern Norris, Michigan High School Athletic Association (MHSAA) director. "It's consistent with all the other sports.'

Consistency - how nice. But in all other sports every team has a chance to compete in the state tournament, Mr. Norris. Not so in football.

'That's true," he answers. So, ah, why not a change? Why not take the best eight teams in the state as determined by your computer, instead of the best two from each of four contrived regions?

'You know, you can argue it both ways," says the MHSAA's boss, who is adept at doing just that. "The teams in the undefeated regions say, 'We're stronger,' while the other regions say, 'Our region is more balanced, we knock each other off.'

EXCEPT THAT the computer system, which awards points for toughness of schedule, should eliminate any such arguments.

There is no good, sound reason for the regional system other than the outstate athletic directors fear of a metro Detroit-dominated playoff. Sacrificed in all this nonsense are some very good football teams. In Class A Region Three, Sterling Heights Stevenson, Farmington Harrison, North Farmington, Birmingham Seaholm and Warren DeLaSalle are all 8-0.

If you're a North fan, forget it. Three of the other four teams would have to lose this weekend and that's an impossibility Harrison fans, too, are likely to suffer. That's a shame, because the Hawks have been rated as the best team in the state by just about everyone. Harrison coach John Herrington knew what might happen and tried to avoid it.

We really felt two years ago this could be our best team ever," said the guy who has won two state titles, "so we looked for the best non-league opponents we could find."

WEST BLOOMFIELD was one choice. The other was a toss-up between Monroe and Trenton. Herrington picked Monroe because of Kevin Oliver, a top-notch running back.

Unfortunately, Oliver transferred to Monroe Catholic Central last January. Monroe CC is 8-0; Monroe, which went 6-3 last year, is 2-6 this

'The only way we can make it is if two of three teams (Seaholm, DeLaSalle or Stevenson) lose," Herrington projected. "It's been very tough on us. It's hurt our concentration, but we're going into the Monroe game thinking we have a chance.

Which means Harrison is in the same pickle it was a year ago - cheering for Birmingham Groves to ambush Seaholm (Groves lost last year 7-6) and Dearborn Divine Child to upset DeLaSalle in the Prep Bowl. Neither is likely.

WHAT MAKES all this so sorrowful - make that sourful - is that it could have been avoided. Jim Ahern of the Michigan High School Football Coaches Association (MHSFCA) presented the MHSAA with an alternative plan that would have expanded the playoffs to 32 teams in each class.

Now a new plan is in the works, similiar to one that the Observer & Eccentric suggested last summer (a 16-team playoff format for each class, no regions, and an eight-game regular-season schedule).

Herrington said the MHSFCA's new plan is the same except that each team schedules nine games. Then should Harrison, for example, make the state playoffs, the Hawks' ninth opponent would play the ninth opponent of their playoff foe.

It would work. But it would need the support of the state's athletic directors. Norris likes to present himself as their tool, the instrument to carry out their whims, with little responsibility for policy-making. Changes, however small, are hard to extract from the MHSAA.

The state's ADs should realize the problem after this season, since those affected are Class A schools. Something will be done now, certainly. But try to explain that to this year's senior football players at Harrison, North and perhaps Seaholm. Tell them that maybe next year all will

Rock girls 2nd in region

Going into last Saturday's regional cross country meet at Royal Oak Kimball, Plymouth Salem coach Tom Truesdale had hoped to at least qualify a couple of his runners for the state meet.

He figured maybe two or three of his girls could make it, and perhaps Scott Steiner.

He got more than he bargained for. The Salem girls team qualified for Saturday's state meet, placing second among the 17 teams in Section I at Kimball. It marked the first time a Salem girls team has qualified for

"Yes, I really believe we are hitting our peak right now," Truesdale said. "The girls have never really been at their best. There cross country haven't been injuries, but illness has kept them down. They are starting to hit their stride now, everyone's healthy."

Northville won Section I with 115 points. Salem was second (125) and Berkley third (148). The top three teams qualify for Saturday's state meet at Dama Golf Course near Howell.

Of the other local teams competing, Farmington placed sixth (179), Farmington Hills Mercy took seventh (179), Farmington Harrison took ninth (202) and Plymouth Canton did DENISE DURRER led the Rocks Saturday. She placed seventh with a 20:28 time. Brenda Boyd placed 15th (21:06) and Trish Donnelly placed 17th (21:18).

Amy Miyazaki (22:01) placed 32nd and Heidi Dupret (23:01) was 54th.

"I knew we'd get a couple of girls in," said Truesdale, "but I didn't figure we'd be a finalist. Not that I'm a pessimist or anything, I knew the potential was there. It was just one day when they all ran together."

There was a down side to Saturday's meet. The Rock boys placed eighth with 226 points. And worse, Scott Steiner, who ran 17:16 and placed 28th, didn't make the cutoff for state.

Hazel Park (53), Brother Rice (56) and Farmington (66) were the three boys teams to qualify out of Section I.

Plymouth Canton placed ninth with 257

Plymouth Canton sent some shock waves through the Western Lakes girls basketball race Tuesday night upending Livonia Bentley 28-22.

"Psychologically, this game was a big plus for us. Now we can say, hey, in our conference we have a win, a draw and a close loss. They have to see themselves as being competitive in the tourney," Mulroy said.

In recent games, Canton has been beaten in overtime by Plymouth Sa-lem, lost a tight one to Stevenson and defeated both Churchill and Bentley.

An old, bitter grid rivalry comes to an end

Maybe they should bring Kenny Loggins in to sing "This is It" when Bentley takes to the gridiron for the final time against city rival Livonia Franklin.

"Ten of the games have been decided by six points or less," said Vigna, now in his 10th season.

Franklin won the first two meetings between the two schools. The 1964 meeting, which featured two league champions, was won by the Patriots' unbeaten squad.

Bentley, under the coaching of Larry Joiner, reeled off three straight wins from 1965 through 1968. In 1969, quarterback Frank Kasparek rallied the Patriots from a 26-0 deficit to give Franklin a dramatic 27-26 win.

Franklin, which featured the unbeaten 1974 team and the 1975 Class A state champions, won the next five meetings. In the 1978 game, won by Franklin, 31-26, Jerry Cifor broke a school rushing record with 225 yards.

BENTLEY BROKE the losing skid in 1979 and won again in '80. The next two years, '81 and '82, Franklin won each game by a point.

Although a state playoff berth is not on the line, the two teams should put on an exciting display of football.

Bentley relies on the strong arm of quarterback Pat Schneider, the running of Al Young, the tackling of Marty Altounian and the kicking of Chad Darke.

Franklin counters with hustle of Brad Norrid, the blocking and tackling of Doug Sutter and the pass catching of Dave Demay.

Running elite gear for 10K

By C.J. Risak

This could be the beginning of something big. At least that's what Mike Keeler is planning Keeler is serving as race director for the Michigan MDA 10K Run, scheduled for Nov 10 in Southfield.

What we want to do, and what we think we have the capability of doing, is to make this one of the top 10 races in the state." said Keeler, whose fulltime job is in 7-11's security department. "Two or three years from now I think we could be in the top five in the state.

The race, co-sponsored by 7-11 and the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers among others, is expected to draw about 1 200 runners. "It could go up to 1.500. as low as 1.000. Keeler said.

KEELER HAS been busy attracting some of the state's best runners. Racquets Unlimited (RU), a co-sponsor which fields its own run team, will have a healthy representation Included from the RU team are Paul Baldwin of Schwartz Creek, winner of this year's Dexter-Ann Arbor 10K and the Tuuri 10,000. Joe Caruso of Toledo, winner of this year's 20K Tulip Time Run, John Grabowski of Orchard Lake, and Cindy Barber, 1983 Michigan Runner of the Year and the 1983 Free Press Marathon women's champion.

Dave Olds of Bloomfield Hills, who won the 1983 Free Press Marathon men's title, also is expected

These are just the initial steps in establishing the Michigan MDA 10K run as a class event, according to Keeler Future possibilities include using the Michigan Inn. which has expressed sponsorship interest, as race headquarters and schedule running clinics there the night prior to the event.

NEXT SATURDAY'S race starts at 8:30 a.m. and will cover 6.2 miles, starting and finishing on Central Park Blvd in the shadows of the Travelers Towers II. across Evergreen from the Southfield

There will be seven age divisions for both men and women. Cost is $8 per entry before Nov. 4 (which includes a T-shirt) and $10 after (no T-shirt). Late registration and race packet pick-up will be from noon to 8 p.m. Friday, Nov. 9, at the Southfield Parks and Recreation Dept (in the Civic Center) and from 7-8.15 a.m. Saturday, Nov. 10 near the race's finish line.

All proceeds go to the Muscular Dystrophy Association, of which 7-11 is a major sponsor, raising approximately $5 million annually

Runners can win a trip for two to the Boston Marathon by collecting sponsorships. For each increment of $50 collected, the runner will have his name placed in a lottery for the drawing.

Refreshments will be provided after the race by Melody Farms and Gatorade.

Behind the offensive play of Rick LaBurn, University of Michigan-Dearborn's icers shocked Ferris State 5-2 Friday at Ferris.

LaBurn, a Livonia Stevenson grad, pumped in a short-handed goal in the second period that put the Wolves ahead 4-1. Jeff Magnell, from Farmington Hills, drew the assist.

LaBurn and David Kromm, also from Livonia.

On Saturday, the Wolves saw their hopes for a weekend sweep go awry as Ferris skated to an 8-1 win LaBurn provided Michigan-Dearborn with its only goal. The sophomore leads the team in goals scored with four. He also has two assists for six points, which ranks second on the squad.

Michigan-Dearborn is 2-4. The Wolves host Notre Dame at 7:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday, Nov. 9-10.

Morton shines in a dreary Rock season

Salem's Craig Morton has been an electric performer on the Rock gridiron this year and his act has drawn rave reviews.

MSU invades Bentley

The Michigan State women's basketball team, featuring former All-Observer standouts Kim Archer (Livonia Bentley) and Ronna Greenberg (Livonia Ladywood), will play in an intrasquad game Thursday night at Bentley

The Green-White scrimmage will follow the Bentley-Plymouth Salem high school game, which has been moved up to a 6:30 p.m. start.

Archer, a 5-foot-10 sophomore guard-forward, was instrumental in MSU's winning record of a year ago as a starter. Greenberg, a 5-9 junior guard, is one of the Spartans' key performers off the bench.

Sun. 12-4

By Chris McCosky staff writer

T'S NOT that Craig Morton's special talents haven't had an influence on the way Plymouth Salem plays football or anything, but, Morton has caught more passes in six games this season than Salem

Morton, a senior, has caught 34 passes this season for 664 yards and nine touchdowns. In addition, he has returned four kickoffs for 156 yards and a TD, and 11 punts for 514 yards and

To call him a game-breaker would be putting it mildly. Salem coach Tom Moshimer simply says, "Craig Morton is without a doubt the finest wide receiver I have ever coached."

In a normal Salem season, Morton's accomplishments would be acknowledged statewide.

But, 1984 has not been a normal Salem season. The Rocks are enduring a 2-6 season, their worst since 1967.

As a result, Morton's electric efforts have been performed in relative anonymity. And Moshimer is a bit worried that Morton won't get the accolades he

"I'M NOT sure how our season will affect his chances (for all-state awards and for college scholarships)," Moshimer said. "I'll put it this way, if he's not recruited it'll be a big mis-

He'll be recruited, that much is certain. Already Michigan and Michigan State have contacted him. But Morton's not keen on playing in the Big 10.

"I haven't thought about college much yet," he said. "I want to wait until the end of the year. I don't want to play in the Big 10, though. If I go there I'll probably have to wait two years to

Morton gained his reputation as a game-breaker last year. He caught 18 passes for 444 yards and five touchdowns as a junior. He also picked off six passes and brought one back for a

And, if there were any doubts, he erased them in the 1984 season-opener. With his team trailing North Farmington 13-0 in the second quarter, Morton, with his 4.5 speed, got behind the Raider secondary and hauled in an 80yard aerial from quarterback Steve

Then, before the half, Morton put on one of the finest displays of open-field running seen in these parts since Rich Hewlett. The play started at the Salem 36. Morton ran a curl pattern, catching the pass at about midfield. He spun away from one tackler at the point of reception and cut across the field toward the right sideline. At about the

up with 253 of Salem's 343 offensive

But on that night another trend was established by the Rocks. They lost the game 29-20.

The play Morton considers his most memorable came just three weeks ago against Walled Lake Central. With three seconds left, Salem trailed Central by seven. The ball was at the Viking 31. Morton was triple teamed in the end zone. Sobditch threw up a rainbow in his direction. Somehow, Morton came down with the pass.

"I just got open," he said. "Three guys surrounded me, but no one was close enough to tip it. It would probably have meant more if we won the game, but even without the win, it was great."

Salem wound up losing the game in overtime — one of three OT losses sustained by the Rocks.

Ironically, Morton is a threat even when Salem doesn't throw to him. Against rival Plymouth Canton, Salem didn't throw one pass in Morton's direction. Yet the speedster was one of Salem's prime weapons.

Because Canton was double-teaming him. Moshimer used him as a decoy. Morton would go deep, taking a cornerback and a linebacker, and sometimes a free safety, with him. That made Canton vulnerable against outside run-

Morton is to implement the passing phase of our offense," Moshimer said. "A defense can take away whatever phase of our offense (the wishbone) they want to. Sometimes they can take away two. But, it's difficult to take away all three and extremely difficult to take away the fourth."

Morton gives the Rocks' wishbone its

"HE IS a Division I receiver, no question." Moshimer said. "He can do all the things they need receivers to do. He's got great hands and great speed. And, he's got maneuverability - he can run with the ball after he catches

Morton has enjoyed his senior season, though not as much as he would-have liked.

"It's been fun, but not as much as it would have been if we had won," he said. "I didn't really set any goals for myself, but I wanted the team to win the division. We're far away from that. And the fact that we didn't win any home games — I feel bad for our fans."

There is one more thing Morton would like to accomplish before he ends his football career at Salem. He wants to help Moshimer win his 100th football game at Salem.

"We've got to win it for him," Morton said. "He's got 99 wins at Salem. He didn't tell anyone about it, and we've lost the last couple weeks. He's just kind of been waiting around to get it."

Morton and the Rocks will get their shot Friday at Redford Union.

On Saturday, a motto became reality for the Plymouth-Canton Steelers.

"Our time is now" was the rallying cry for the three Steeler junior football league units this season and Saturday was their time.

The Steelers wrapped up a combined 21-1-2 season and captured all three Western Suburban League titles by sweeping three from the Ann Ar-

"This is the finest year the Steelers have ever had," said the Steelers' unit director Tammy Brand. "For a unit to complete a season involving 24 games with one loss is unheard of in Western Suburban League junior football."

THE JUNIOR varsity Steelers survived a scare from the Packers. Chris Decker's third TD of the game, a 12-yard run with 36 seconds left, gave the JV an 18-12 win. The winning score had been set by Scott Swartzwelter's 20-yard pass to Brian Dobbs. Decker's other scores came on runs of 12 and 52 yards. The JV Steelers, coached by David Bryant, finished with a 7-0-1 record.

The varsity Steelers, perhaps the most mighty of the three, posted a convincing 41-12 win Saturday. It marked the third straight year the varsity has won the league title and it kept the team's fouryear unbeaten string intact.

Chris Johnston, son of coach Jim Johnston, led the Steeler attack with three TDs. He scored on runs of 12, 50 and 10 yards. Danny Boyle also had a big day kicking two two-point conversions and scoring on a 35-yard pass from Kevin Stackpoole. Linebacker Jim McKinnon fell on a Packer fumble in the end zone for a score and Scott Hauncher scored another on a 6-vard run.

This time the score was 5-0 over visiting Ferris State. Ferguson, the Farmington Hills scoring machine, tallied four times to increase her season total to 34. Cindy Gable got the other Schoolcraft goal and Amy McCauley added two assists. Goal-keeper Jenny Gans made just one

The win gave Schoolcraft a 14-3-2 record in its first-ever varsity season. Ocelot coach Ed Dudek moved a number of people around during the game, but it was more for safety's sake than anything else. The team has been beset by injuries throughout the season, forcing the coach to juggle the

"The key is to remain healthy and get ready for nationals," Dudek said. That's three weeks away, so Schoolcraft will have its chance to rest up. While several other teams are battling for regional titles and the right to advance to the NJCAA tournament, the Ocelots have already have a berth because they are the only community college with women's soccer in the region.

By Brad Emons and Chris McCosky staff writers

It's the final week of prep football for most, if not all Observerland

Undefeated and No. 1-ranked Farmington Harrison still has a shot at the Class A state playoffs. Three things, however, must happen. First, the Hawks must win their final regular season game at Monroe. Secondly, Utica Ford must upset Region III computer-points leader Sterling Heights Stevenson. And finally, Dearborn Divine Child must get past unbeaten Warren DeLaSalle, running second in Region II.

Observerland's other unbeaten team, North Farmington, is running fifth in Region III. The Raiders virtually need a miracle to qualify. They must beat city rival Farmington and hope that Stevenson, DeLaSalle and Birmingham Seaholm (Region III's other unbeaten team) all lose

Based on a computer formula, which gives points for opponents' victories, the top two teams from each of the four regions across the state qualify for post-season play.

SPEAKING OF city rivalries, a Harrison-North game would have done wonders for either teams' playoff chances. That series, however, was terminated in 1979.

Another longstanding series that will be terminated Friday night is the Livonia Bentley-Livonia Franklin duel. Bentley, closing its doors in June, will play its final home football game ever.

This is also the final week for the prep prognosticators. Last week, Emons nudged ahead with a 12-3 showing, raising his season record to 73-26. McCosky, however, is just two games off the pace (71-28) after going

LIV. FRANKLIN at LIV. BENT-LEY (7:30 p.m. Friday): Franklin coach Armand Vigna has been fearing this game ever since he saw it on the schedule. It's Bulldogs' last hurrah and they should be sky-high. Pick - Bentley makes it a 6-3 season -

LIV. STEVENSON at LIV. CHURCHILL (7:30 p.m. Friday): The Spartans (6-2) are enjoying a better season than expected. Much of the credit goes to coach Jack Reardon. Churchill (2-6) has improved defensively, but gone sour of late offensively.

WAYNE at WSLD. JOHN GLENN (7:30 p.m. Friday): The Rockets (5-3) haven't lost to Wayne (2-6) since Rick Rogers left for Michigan. The Zebras were beaten last week by Taylor Center, 10-7, while Glenn squeezed by Highland Park, 21-12. Picks - It's Glenn again, both say.

PLY. SALEM at REDFORD UN-ION (7:30 p.m. Friday at Kraft Field): This is the final meeting between a couple of friends — coach Tom Moshimer of Plymouth Salem and coach Harvey Heitman of Redford Union. Heitman is stepping down after the season. Neither team is enjoying a banner year. But, Moshimer could get his 100th career victory at Salem with a win.

Picks - Harvey gets the last laugh, says Emons. McCosky predicts the Rocks when one for the old coach.

BELLEVILLE at PLY. CANTON (7:30 p.m. Friday): Both teams are 3-5 overall. Canton finally put all the pieces together in a 28-0 win last week over Walled Lake Central. Picks - Canton ends its season on a happy

FARM. HARRISON at MONROE (7:30 p.m. Friday): This match-up has lost a lot of its luster because of Monroe's poor 2-6 record. Harrison is in enemy ter-

BISHOP BORGESS vs. RIVER-VIEW GAB. RICHARD (7:30 p.m. Friday at GC Junior High): The Spartans (4-4) gave Birmingham Brother Rice all it could handle last week in a 20-13 loss. Richard (1-7) won its first game last week over U-D High, a team that Borgess beat Picks - Borgess has a winning season, FARMINGTON at N. FARMING-TON (1 p.m. Saturday): The Falcons (5 3) proved they can hit with the best in a 31-3 loss to top-ranked Harrison last week. But North is gunning for its first undefeat-ed season since 1978 when Jeff Cohen, Mike Miller and Co. ruled the gridiron. Picks - The Raiders don't make the playoffs, but make it 9-0 — both agree.

SOUTH LYON at RED. THURS-TON (1 p.m. Saturday): John Switchenko returns to Thurston where he worked miracles as the head coach last year. South Lyon is 4-4, coming off a 34-24 win over Novi. Winless Thurston, meanwhile, is coming off an embarrassing 28-0 loss to Picks - Switchenko wins another game at Thurston - both say.

CATHOLIC CENTRAL vs. ROYAL OAK SHRINE (1:30 p.m. Sunday at Clarenceville): These two teams battled earlier in the year with CC coming out on top, 21-6. Hopefully a little more offense will be generated than the first meeting. Shrine is 4-4, while CC is 5-3.

Picks — Sunday is a day of rest, but not for CC, which wins impressively this time - a unanimous choice.

ST. AGATHA vs. ST. ALPHONSUS (2 p.m. Sunday at Dearborn): The Aggles (4-4) beat St. Al's 21-0 earlier in the year. Can't imagine will change against the 1-7 Arrows.

Picks - Agatha and coach John Goddard top the .500 mark for good in 1984, both

New business can take different legal forms

and Mariola A. Kulikowski special writers

It is estimated that more than 10,000 new companies are formed in the United States every week. In addition, untold numbers of individuals go into business for themselves as sole proprietors or as partners.

The question for every new business and many existing businesses is this: What is the best organizational form sole proprietorship, partnership, the usual corporate form known as the "C" corporation, or a relatively new form, and "S" (formerly Subchapter S) corpo-

Each has advantages and disadvantages relating to taxes, lability, flexibility and disposition of earnings and

Sole Proprietorship. This is the simplest form for an individual going into business. Net business income or loss is reflected on the proprietor's personal tax return.

The disadvantages are that (1) the proprietor assumes unlimited liability, (2) outside financing may be difficult and (3) tax-free fringe benefits and deferral of income cannot be used as effectively as in a C corporation.

Partnership. Like a sole proprietorship, a partnership is not a separate legal entity but is considered identical with its general or managing partners, who have unlimited liability, and its limited partners, if any, who are liable only for their contributions.

For tax purposes, all income and losses are passed through to the owners. General partners may be able to deduct losses in excess of their investment and loans to the partnership, to the extent of direct borrowings by the partnership itself. Limited partners have the same opportunity in real-estate partnerships.

An advantage of partnership is that the general and limited partners can receive different allocations of income and losses. In a tax shelter, for example, limited partners usually want losses while general partners want to

C Corporation. This is a separate legal and taxable entity that offers no personal liability to the owners. It has continuity of existence, ease of transferring ownership and the use of fringe benefits, such as group life and medical insurance.

A disadvantage is that profits are double taxed, first as corporate earnings, then as stockholders' dividends. That problem can be partly resolved if earnings are allowed to accumulate instead of being paid out as divends.

Income tax rates on the first $50,000 of corporate income are lower than on the same amount of income earned by most individuals. But retained earnings over $250,000 can be subject to an accumulated-earnings tax.

S Corporation. This is a regular corporation with limited stockholder liability but one that elects to be taxed similarly to a partnership.

The corporation generally pays no tax, but the stockholders pay individual tax rates on their pro-rated share of earnings whether distributed or not.

Losses also flow through to stockholders and can offset personal income. This feature makes S corporation an especially useful form for starting a new business that, in most cases, will show losses in its first few years.

IT SHOULD BE recognized, however, that pass-through losses to each stockholder are limited to his or her "basis." The basis is the amount invester has made to the corporation. Thus, an S corporation's basis for passing through losses is more restricted than a partnership's basis.

An S corporation can have no more than 35 stockholders. Tax-favored fringe benefits are not allowed, and there cannot be different allocations of income and loss among shareholders, since all must be treated equally. However, shares are more easily transferred than are partnership units.

ONE OF THE noted accounting firms, Coopers and Lybrand, has made an extensive study of business-organization forms. It notes that a business can start as an S corporation but change to a C corporation when the company turns profitable and the owners want to retain and reinvest earn-

Later, when earnings near the $250,000 ceiling, the stockholders can change back to an S corporation. Other changes also may be possible. For a complete discussion, write Coopers and Lybrand, National Tax, 1800 M Street N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036, or call (202) 822-4200, to get a free copy of "Choosing or Changing the Business Form."

Unemployment rates fell in all but two of Michigan's 13 major labor market areas during August, said Richard Simmons Jr., director of the Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC)

The release of labor force estimates for the state's major labor market areas follows the release of statewide estimates by several weeks. MESC reported earlier that Michigan's August jobless rate had dropped to 10.3 percent from 11.3 percent in July. The number of workers without jobs in August dropped by 50,000 to 456,000. Today's release breaks down the statewide estimates.

Unemployment dropped in most areas during August as seasonal jobseekers gave up their searches for summer jobs and left the labor force,

Simmons said A detailed breakout of the August labor force estimates for each of Michigan's 13 major labor market areas follows:

 Labor Force — August 1984: 4,418,000 July 1984: 4,480,000

August 1983: 4,386,000 • Total Employment: August 1984: 3,962,000 July 1984: 3,975,000

August 1983: 3,798,000 Unemployment — August 1984: 456,000 (10.3%)July 1984: 506,000 (11.3%)

August 1983: 588,000 (13.4%)

EADING BOOKS ABOUT Mozart, along with letters written by the famous composer, was one of the steps 29-yearold actor Tom Hulce took in preparing Hulce, who is originally from Plymouth, stars as Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart, in the film directed by Milos Forman, with screenplay by the stage play's author Peter Shaffer.

In an recent interview over the phone from Chicago, Hulce talked en-thusiastically about the filming of this production. Since September, the young performer has been touring to promote "Amadeus."

"I'm going to hop up to Milwaukee to visit my grandmother," he said. After that, he is on his way to Europe, for more promotions tied in with premieres of the film. "They've really scattered it," he said of the premieres, which have been taking place at different times and places all over the world.

"AMADEUS" (PG) has been playing an exclusive engagement in metropolitan Detroit and is going into its fifth big week at the Movies at Prudential, Prudential Town Center, Southfield.

Describing Mozart, Hulce said, "He was musically brilliant. Other times he was so infantile and vulgar and crazy. I explore all those directions and make them into one person."

Hulce hit the books to learn more about the composer. "I read every biography I could lay my hands on. They were useful up to a point. One of the things that was a great help was his

The letters were incredibly vulgar, Hulce said. Mozart's vulgarity is in the movie. "It's in there with a really light touch." As an example, Hulce cited the scene introducing Mozart, where Mozart and Constanze are rolling around under tables and he tricks her into using a vulgar play on words.

Tom Huice as the young genius, Amadeus Wolfgang Mozart, creates a musical score in "Amadeus," film version of the Broadway play.

"Hundreds and hundreds of hours were spent in preparation," Hulce said, telling how he took piano lessons daily and also learned how to conduct. There was no teacher for the conducting. "Conducting as we know if didn't exist. It was mostly keeping time. A composer would make up his own style. It's a matter of knowing the music inside and out," he explained

It wasn't until Hulce studied conducting that he recalled an incident back in grade school, where he briefly conducted a number with the school orchestra directed by Wayne Dunlop.
HULCE WENT to school through the 10th grade in Plymouth. Then he went to Interlochen, and after that finished his last year of high school in North Carolina where he attended "a real professional training school. I was in a big hurry," he said.

"My fantasies growing up were singing and that led to musicals locally, mostly in Ann Arbor," Hulce recalled. When his voice changed, he decided to pursue an acting career. He landed on Broadway in Peter Shaffer's "Equus," first as understudy, then in the starring role when the English cast was re"Nothing like starting at the top," he agreed, when asked about his good fortune in gaining such a plum role on the New York stage.

While he is delighted to be doing Amadeus," he points out that he has been working many years at his craft. He and his knowledgeable actor friends are amused by the overnight success label Hulce has done four movies, one of them the comedy smash "Animal House." He said, "People who only know me from 'Animal House' think its

THE MOVIE version of "Amadeus" differs quite a bit from the stage play. 'All the pieces were tossed up in the air and put together in a purely cinematic way. It's less an intellectual exercise," he said, contrasting the play and film.

"The film is a rich weave. The story exists on a lot of different levels. Among these are one man's (the mediocre composer Salieri's) jealousy of a genius, of Mozart's rebelling against what is expected of him, of Salieri and his relationship with God.

The film expands some of the stage action, with scenes of Mozart at home, with his wife and father. "It's much more complete," Hulce said.

After finishing "Amadeus," the actor has gone on to some other projects. He worked in Chekhov's play "The Seag-ull" in California last spring. He recent-ly finished the movie "Echo Park," made by an Austrian director and cine matographer. The company worked outside of Hollywood and in the Alps.

"The fantasy aspect of filmmaking is getting to go," Hulce declared. "Amadeus" was shot in Czechoslovakia, where scenes of Viennese court life were recreated. In filming, the relationship is between the director and the actor, Hulce said. "Milos (Forman) was just great for me. He had a specific vision. He's a very demanding director. It gave me the courage to take risks and really be cre-

The curious thing is that it's about a black man investigating a crime in dominantly white, Southern environs. Jewison's newest film, "A Soldier's Story," is about a black man investigating a crime in dominantly white, Southern environs. Establishment of that certain pattern is not meant to slight either film. It is curious, though, how successful directors frequently migrate to familiar territory. Steiger, Sidney Poitier, Warren Oates and Lee Grant star. Rating: $3.30.

"Alice Doesn't Live Herc Anymore" (1975), 2 p.m. Sunday on Ch. 7. Originally 113 minutes. TV time slot: 120

Women's liberationists a decade ago paled when this ostensibly liberationist film allowed its heroine's woes to be soothed by her relationship with - gasp! - a man at film's end. Nonetheless, "Alice Doesn't Live Here Any-more" is an insightful and entertaining film for independent-minded women and general moviegoers alike. And, yes, it was the basis for the popular TV sitcom "Alice." Ellen Burstyn, Kris Kristofferson, Jodie Foster and Harvey Keitel star, along with Vic Tayback as Mel, Diane Ladd as Flo, and Valerie Curtin as Vera. Martin Scorsese directs; incidentally, readers may want to tune in his very next film, "Taxi Driver," which airs at 8 p.m Wednesday on Ch. 50. Rating: $3.25.

"Tail Gunner Joe" (1976), Tuesday night on Ch. 7. Originally 144 min-utes. TV time slot: 185 minutes.

How ironic of Ch. 7 to run "Tail Gunner Joe," the rise and fall of U.S. Sen. Joe McCarthy, on election night. If only election winners would tune in. Peter Boyle is outstanding as McCarthy in this overly long film that's best when concerned with the maniacal senator's rise. Patricia Neal, John Forsythe, Burgess Meredith, Heather Menzies, Ned Beatty, Jean Stapleton and John Carradine co-star.

Rating: $3.05.

Home Fashions League sponsors studio tour

The Michigan chapter of the National Home Fashions League will host a Designers' Resource Tour 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 10.

By Barbara Michals special writer

Growing pains, the little triumphs and tragedies of childhood, are recalled with gentle good humor in "Do Black Patent Leather Shoes Really Reflect Up?" Playing a return engagement at the Birmingham Theatre, the Detroit area's longest-running musical is again delighting audiences.

Though the play is set in Catholic grammar and high schools, the pangs of childhood are quite universally recognizable to "publics" as well as parochial school alumni. There are common fears of tough teachers, divine retribution for misbehavior, and ridicule by classmates if one is considered "dif-

Act I follows eight boys and girls through grammar school and their worries about keeping the esteem of members of their own gender. Act II shifts to the teen years and the problems of adolescent

Some of the naive notions of childhood come from the nuns, such as the infamous warning that girls should not wear black patent leather shoes because they reflect up. Others come from older siblings, such as the amusing idea that a girl will do anything a boy asks if he massages her elbow. "Thank God, we'll never be that young again," cast members sing at the finale.

WHILE THE nuns and priests are gently satirized, the play makes it very clear that their warmth and understanding are always there when

The entire 12-member cast is excellent. Gene Weygandt as Eddie Ryan and Ann Arvia as Becky Bakowski get most of the good songs. Both have fine voices and winning personalities.

In grammar school Eddie offers his friendship to unhappy, overweight Becky. In high school, friendlossoms into romance until Becky decides to enter a convent and Eddie begins to question the tenets of his religion.

Scott Harlan is outstanding as Louis Schlang, the shy, overweight adolescent who fantasizes that he is a teen singing idol while he stammers out an invitation to dance at the freshman mixer.

Jeanine Morick is well-cast as tomboyish Virginia, and Julie Crisman is amusing as the not-too-bright Nancy Ralansky. Rebecca Shalk is most engaging as angelic Mary Kenny, the perennial teach-

CARL RADFORD is highly credible as Felix, the girl-crazy, bespectacled kid with an ever-present cowlick. Richard Roeder is fine as Mike, the resident skeptic.

Allison Giglio is a stand-out as Sister Lee, the tough old bird whose students estimate her age to be at least a thousand. "God's no fool. He doesn't want to meet Sister Lee either," Mike concludes. Despite her fierce demeanor, Sister Lee shows a soft side and even kicks up her heels in a few lively Rod MacDonald is very believable as Father O'Reilly and uses his expressive face and vocal inflections to give the character real dimension. Carrie Waller and Cheryl Coons are good as Sisters Helen and Monica.

While the musical numbers by James Quinn and Alaric Jans are all quite pleasant, with many echoing the '50s, nothing remains memorable past the final curtain.

What lingers instead are playwright John R. Powers' refreshing insights into the horrors and wonders of growing up, a new perspective on what Eddie ruefully calls "my fun years.

Mike Nussbaum's direction keeps the pace lively, and Roona Kaye's choreography is effective.

Cross-examination

Police witness (Gerald L'Heureux of Canton) is questioned by the district attorney (Henry Bennett) in the Henry Ford Museum The-atre production of the murder-mystery "The Night of January 16th." (Below) District attorney puts the questions to a principal witness (Jerome Snider of Livonia). The play continues Fridays-Saturdays through Nov. 10 at Greenfield Village in Dearborn. Tickets at $5 are available at the village entrance, or at the theater box office one hour before each performance. For dinner theater information, call 271-1620.

Youtheatre series accents art

"Ya Gotta Have Art," Detroit Youtheatre's new five-part "Something Every Saturday" series, will open Saturday, Nov. 3, with "Mirror in a Bamboo Basket" at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. in the Detroit Institute of Arts recital hall.

Season tickets are $15 for the fivepart series (five performances, five show-related arts excursions) with treasure maps and gallery discovery hunts. Individual tickets for the performance alone, without the gallery tour, are $3 for children and adults. For further information, call 832-2730 during regular business hours.

Against a background of oriental music, storyteller Margaret Wolfson will weave a collection of ancient tales to introduce the culture and traditions of the Far East to Youtheatre families.

Immediately following the performances, series ticket holders will be invited to a special visit at the art institute's newly installed Asian galleries for a discovery hunt. A treasure guide/ map, especially for the tour, will give clues to find selected works among the museum's permanent collection of ancient artworks.

To complete the Asian adventure, special Far Eastern luncheon menu favorites will be offered in the museum's indoor garden, Kresge Court.

WE'LL HELP GET YOU THE MONEY TO KEEP ON GROWING.

If you're finishing up your first two years of college and you've decided to go on, to complete your education, but you don't know where the money's going to come from, here's a possible solution.

The Army College Fund. Here's how it works. You qualify to train in a skill you'd like to learn, one that entitles you to the Army College Fund. Then each month you put aside some of your Army salary. Just like a savings account. Except the government matches your savings 5 for 1 or more In two years, you could have $15,200 for college. Your Army Recruiter has a booklet that explains all about Army College Fund. Pick 261-7380 ARMY. BE ALL YOU CAN BE.

Daniel Conway developed muscular dystrophy in 1974 but it hasn't kept him from leading an active life as an artist, political science teacher and harness racing enthusiast.

They're ordinary objects, but they become something special when Daniel Conway paints them.

Arrangements featuring such objects as oranges, teapots and glassware are among those the Livonia resident recreates in small oil paintings (measuring approximately 4-by-5 inches), many of which decorate the walls of his

"I like the process of doing it," he said. "Discussing it, I don't find it interesting after that. I like the process of working on them."

CONWAY'S PROCESS of painting involves taping a brush to his middle finger. Stricken with muscular dystrophy, he has used a wheelchair since

"It takes me 45 minutes to get ready," Conway said of his artwork. "It does take quite a lot of time.

"Looking down from the top, it's on an angle," he said. "Something 'straight' is not straight. You have to

'You have to compensate all the time. I have to paint going off in the other direction. At first I thought it was going good, and I saw everything (in the painting) was tilted off to one side. I never thought about that. It took a while to get that straight.

about that. It took a while to get that Conway's favorite subjects for his still life paintings are those found around the house. He especially likes to include glassware. Once he painted an arrangement of his sister's wedding

"I stick to the realistic kind of things," Conway said.

PAINTING ALWAYS has been a part of Conway's life. His uncle, John Gaule, is an artist in Detroit, and everyone in the Conway family can draw. Conway said that his nephews, ages 4 and 6, like to watch him paint and that one of them made a drawing of the recent "Survival Line" nuclear protest.

"When I was in high school, I would take lessons once in a while," Conway said. "I did it on the side."

Conway stopped painting for a while in 1978, when he had difficulty holding a brush. He designed an easel that moved up and down, which enabled him to paint larger pictures. Now he prefers the smaller canvases.

"You can control it," Conway said. "I stick to small things. You can straighten them up easier.

Conway may exhibit his work in a Livonia art show next year. He also is considering teaching painting at the Art Store and More shop in Livonia.

BUT PAINTING is just one of Conway's interests. He teaches political science at Wayne State University.

Conway is president of Michigan Sulky Productions, which is involved in horse breeding classes at Schoolcraft College, Oakland Community College and other schools. These classes feature trips to farms. A longtime fan of horse racing, Conway designed the Michigan Sulky Productions logo.

Horse racing holds a special interest for the handicapped, Conway said.

"You get tired of being an observer," he said. "At the track, you can participate. That's your horse for those two minutes (of the race)."

Conway earned a master's degree in political science from Wayne State University. He studied humanities and art history for a master's degree in

By David Messing special writer

A few days ago, I started listing all the art jobs that had to be done and found there wouldn't be enough hours in that particular day. My wife noticed I was a little panicked about falling behind and not being able to meet the promised deadlines. So she said, 'That's OK, honey, I'll go in and work for you today and you can stay home and do artwork all day."

There was a "catch" though. I had to have dinner ready when she got home (nothing is free in this world). Well, here is how the day

"Adam, honey . . . I can't watch cartoons with you today. Daddy does artwork for people and they pay Daddy money and then Daddy buys . . . OK . . . OK, but just for one hour." His little face beamed as once again my will melted by the purity of his munchkin

Well, "He-man" rescued "Tilla" and "Inspector Gadget" captured the criminals. What the end of the hour I said, "OK Adam this is when I have to do my artwork."

"BUT DADDY," Adam said, "Mommy usually fixes lunch now. 'You're kidding," I exclaimed. So with my eyes bugging out in disbelief I fixed Adam's peanut butter and jelly sandwich, as he looked on, giving instructions.

'Dad!" he yelled as I cut the sandwich in half. "You don't cut it up and down, didn't you know I like 'em cut sideways."

"Ummm . . . no, gee I didn't know that." So with Adam all set at the table I opened my briefcase and began to look at all I was to do before the days end. As I laid my work out on the table, I looked over at Adam and said,

'I'll never get this all done.' Unimpressed Adam said, with a Skippy peanut butter smile, "Hey Dad when the little hand is straight up 'n the big one's down I gotta go to 'Kiddy garden.'"

In disbelief I slowly turned to look at the clock and sure enough they were straight up and down. I take those Stress Tab vitamins, you know the ones with the extra vitamin B that keeps you cool. Well, I'll tell you at 12:30 that day I blew the fuse of my Stress Tab.

We flew out of the house and down the street all the while I was wiping peanu. butter off Adam's face and into the cuff of my jacket. So finally Adam was entertained, fed, cleaned, dressed, walked and happy in his "kiddy garden" class. And I? I was stress filled, stiff necked sore back and smelled like peanut butter.

HURRYING HOME, I walked through the park with my head down and visably muttering to myself. Fortunatly I looked up to see this huge tree ahead of me, ablaze with color. I stopped and marveled at the brightness and revealed. I further wondered why God would even bother to adorn an already beautiful tree with a crown of radiant color. Nearby a squirrel buried an acorn unconcerned about my occupation on his turf. The green of the grass semed intense as it reached up through the reds, browns and golds of the fallen leaves. The air was cool and clear and the scent of someone's fireplace hovered in the treetops. Then and there in a tiny park boardered by busy streets my stress left me. My neck and back loosened and I was myself again. All the deadlines were still there but somehow they didn't seem that bad. A mental and spiritual uplift from the beauty and purity of God's handiwork. All that I saw was always there and how often have I walked the same path and never even noticed?

Perhaps it is safe to say that in life you will find whatever you are looking for, positive or negative. For example, I could have looked past the trees in this little park and thought, look at all that traffic around here and some jerk threw a beer bottle on the sidewalk" and

Thank goodness, I love nature and looked more at the trees than at the traffic. So accentuate the positive and eliminate the negative. It doesn't require training to stand in a park or stop wherever you are and see color, shape, form or textures. Without a teacher in sight, you can feel the warmth of reds and the coolness of greens, and enjoy the contrast of a wrinkled leaf against a smooth rock. Or perhaps you might notice the living and free lines of a vine as it is contrasted in color and texture against the structure and regularity of the cyclone fence, to which it climbs. No, much of this sensitivity is not taught but is acquired by the individual who is open to it.

It is a special treat, as an art teacher to see my students grow not only in ability to draw but ability to see. It is the growing awareness of what surrounds a student that in fact increases their ability to draw.

Carol Porter is one of our teachers and also one of my students. I have truly enjoyed watching her ability to see. At the end of my adult classes, I occasionally stop everyone and hold up the varied artworks or say something to end the lesson. One particular day, (in fact what inspired this article) Carol mentioned to all, "since I have started looking at things as if I were to draw them I have noticed the beauty and color of everything, it's really an enjoyable way to look at life." That is you must look more closely, that you may better draw, paint or sculpt. The more you see, the easier it is to decide which colors, shapes and textures to use and which to leave out. How exciting life is when the beauty of the trees is not upset by the traffic that surrounds them. Indeed the beauty of the vine was enhanced by the regularity of the cyclone fence to which it clung.

So there is to an artist a beauty in everything. Perhaps in it's blends or contrasts of color, value or intensity. Maybe shape or form as lights and darks play across the mass of an object. It could be textures so contrasting that they caught your eye and challenged you to duplicate them. Whoever you are, wherever you are, you are surrounded by colors, shapes, and textures that are more often neglected because of their familiarity. But it is the true artist that seeks the uncommon beauty of the common place and forces his or her viewers to look at what was seen in the things that are most overlooked.

Well, because of that tree I came home with a different attitude, the press of business didn't seem as pressing. I did as much of my work as I could before it was time to pick Adam up. I didn't accomplish what I had planned, but all in all it was a "beautiful" day. Oh! by the way, the pizza I ordered for dinner was terrific.
