Voters will elect 2 school trustees today

Two persons will be elected today to the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education.

Between now and 8 p.m. Canton and Plymouth residents will be casting ballots to elect one trustee for a two-year term and another for a four-year term.

Running for the two-year spot are incumbent Dean Swartzwelder of Plymouth, George Johnson of Plymouth and Renee Vermeersch Casillas of Canton. Candidates for the four-year term are incumbent David Artley of Canton, Steve Harper of Plymouth and Richard Sumpter of Canton.

Also on the ballot will be the election of two candidates to six-year terms on the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees.

The candidates are incumbents Michael W. Burley of Canton and Sharon L. Sarris of Livonia and challenger Hussein Karzun of Garden City.

A small turnout of voters is expected as there is no millage or bond issue on the ballot.

Swartzwelder is seen as the favorite in the two-year race, having some experience as a trustee and the visibility that may bring. He was appointed to the board to fill the position caused by the resignation of Tom Yack of Canton.

A CLOSE race is expected between incumbent Artley and challenger Harper, a former school trustee. Artley has gained supporters during his two years on the board and Harper has kept in touch by serving on school committees since his last stint on the board about three years ago.

Harper had asked to be appointed to the board when Yack resigned, but Swartzwelder got the nod instead. When Nancy Quinn recently resigned from the board Harper decided to seek election to the board instead of being appointed. Marilyn Schwinn was named to replace Quinn.

Sumpter ran for the school board a year ago, as did Swartzwelder. Last June Les Walker and Quinn were elected to the board with Swartzwelder finishing in third place.

This is the first try for the school board for Casillas and Johnson.

Artley is vice president of the school board and has been active as president of the Plymouth-Canton Band Boosters. He is chairman of the board's staff morale committee and has 15 years experience as a business manager, including experience in labor negotiations and contract administration.

Harper has been employed with Ford Motor Co. 18 years in financial analysis and control, business planning and strategy development. A 12-year resident of the school district, he served on the school board for four years 1977-81 and has been active with Growth Works.

Sumpter, a resident of the district for eight years, has been active with the Lions Club and Boy Scouts. His wife is an educational aide with Plymouth-Canton Community Schools; they have four children attending school in the district.

CASILLAS, WHO has a master's in education degree from Wayne State University, has nine years teaching experience in public schools, Hawthorn Center and Lafayette Clinic, and was a teacher consultant for three years in Indiana. She has been active in PTO. Johnson is a supervisor for Michigan Delivery, a state liquor warehouse, and has been involved in PTO, Boy Scouts and church activities.

Swartzwelder, a resident for eight years, has a degree in accounting with experience in finance. He has been involved in school district affairs for the past eight years, including service as board liaison for the Plymouth-Canton Association for the Academically Talented (PCAAT).

Among the Schoolcraft hopefuls, Burley is a teacher for Northville Public Schools, Sarris is a communications manager for General Motors and a former teacher, and Karzun is a product design engineer in Ford Motor Co.'s light trucks division.

Townships collect long-awaited Supersewer funds

By Gary M. Cates
staff writer

After two years of squabbling, legal battles and negotiations, it boiled down to a question of who could hand over the checks.

Plymouth and Canton townships were expected to receive checks totaling more than $600,000 Friday as part of a settlement on their Supersewer lawsuit.

"We are attempting to expedite things and are trying to pick up the checks today," Plymouth Township Attorney Brian James said Friday.

"I guess the problem now is who in the county can physically hand me our check. I don't care if they want to take pictures or whatever, just as long as they give me the check."

The money, $141,888 for Plymouth Township and $476,219 for Canton, represents the amount both communities pumped into planning the ill-fated Supersewer project.

By paying the money to the townships, more than half of the defendants in the Supersewer litigation will be dropped.

IN THE summer of 1983 a governor's task force decided to split the project, which would have built a massive sewage line from northwestern Wayne County through the Downriver area to a treatment plant, with the recycled water emptying into the Detroit River.

The task force decided to let the southern communities proceed with a scaled-down version of Supersewer, while the northern communities were lumped together with Rouge Valley communities to form the NHV/RV I project (North Huron Valley/Rouge Valley Wastewater Control Project).

Following the split, the townships filed a lawsuit in Wayne Circuit Court to protest the decision and demanded repayment of their planning money because they weren't being allowed to take part in the project.

Included as defendants were all of the southern communities, Wayne County, the City of Detroit and State of Michigan. The lawsuit alleges, among other things, that the decision was the result of conspiracy and that the townships were forced to participate in the Supersewer planning against their will.

Last year the southern project was approved for 75 percent U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) funding, with the remaining 25 percent to come from the communities through a joint-obligation bond sale coordinated by the county.

Because of the pending litigation, the southern communities were forced to deal with the townships if they wanted to sell their bonds.

Plymouth and Canton townships subsequently agreed to drop the southern communities from the lawsuit if their planning money was repaid.

The bonds recently were sold for the southern project, with a portion of the proceeds going for the lawsuit settlement.

"WE HAVE had three settlement conferences and another one is scheduled for June 12," James said.

The conferences have been postponed to allow for the bond sale, so the southern communities could be dropped, he said.

"We have made a settlement offer to the county, state and city but we have not heard back from them."

"If it is not resolved at the June 12 meeting, then we will get a court date as soon as possible and proceed with the trial," James said.

The remaining defendants — the city, county and state — have been asked to agree to several things. Among the points are:

- Agreeing that the two townships are not required to send all their wastewater (sewage) to the Detroit treatment plant.

- Agreeing that a state sewer tap ban will not be imposed on the two townships.

- Agreeing that an alternate sewage project (NHV/RV II) be developed with fairly divided local costs not to exceed 65 percent of the total cost.

The NHV/RV I project was denied 55 percent EPA funding last year and plans are in the works for NHV/RV II. (Recent changes in EPA funding guidelines set the maximum federal share of a project at 55 percent — opposed to the 75 percent the southern project received.)

James said there are several reasons the townships believe NHV/RV II won't receive EPA approval, and that the proposed local share allocations are not fair.

Plymouth Township recently received a copy of an EPA letter posing many questions about the NHV/RV II plans.

"The EPA information basically says that there is no way under the sun they are going to approve the project for funding," he said.

Because they believe NHV/RV II will not become a reality, James said it is important to be free to seek alternate methods of increasing sewage capacity — hence the need for the agreement that Detroit doesn't have exclusive rights to their sewage.

Prohibiting state sewer tap bans also is needed to search for alternate projects. In the past the state has threatened such bans to force participation in Supersewer and in NHV/RV I and II.

A Chicago-based engineering firm has been retained by both townships and is exploring the idea of alternate sewage projects.

The NHV/RV II project, under the latest plans, would cost about $110 million with 50 percent being paid by the local communities. The EPA letter reportedly says another $160 million worth of work would be required.

"That would make it the most expensive sewer project ever in this state," James said. "We are approaching the demise of the project — it will never be built."

Suspect sought

Police and FBI agents are searching for the man (above) photographed by a surveillance camera during last Monday's robbery of the Comerica bank at 41486 Wilcox in Plymouth Township. The man was wearing a wig and is described as "armed and dangerous." A $1,000 reward has been offered for information leading to an arrest and indictment. Anyone with information should call Plymouth police, 453-8600, or the Detroit FBI office, 965-2323.

Petitions target on possible closing of Central

By Gary M. Cates
staff writer

Circulators of a petition opposing the closing of Central Middle School likely will run head first into a brick wall Tuesday night.

Supporters of the historic school building, who have heard rumors that a closing is in the works, are gathering signatures and plan to approach the school board at tomorrow night's meeting.

"As far as I'm concerned they can come up and beat their heads. They can come but it's going to be a waste of time," Superintendent John Hoben said Friday.

"There's been no discussion or intent by the board or administration to close Central. It's rather stupid when we're renting a building from Livonia. There's no foundation for it," Hoben said.

"There's nothing in the current plans of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools to use Central for anything other than a school."

"You can check with the board president, Roland Thomas, if you want but I am speaking for the board and administration when I say that."

"We feel we may be early jumping on the handwagon but we want to be included in the decision-making process. They got rid of Starkweather Elementary before anyone knew what was happening," said Rena Przytulski, one of Uhlmann's neighbors.

The two women, along with two N. Harvey residents, are the impetus behind the petition drive. The group is circulating two petitions — one asking that Central be renovated instead of replaced, and the other asking that if the property is sold it go to the city for recreational purposes.

The whole issue of middle school housing has surfaced recently because of discussions on a proposed bond issue.

"There absolutely are no discussions or plans to close Central. The only discussion in regard to Central came up in the bond committee," Hoben said.

"It was talk of how much or how little will be asked for in the bond issue to go for renovating Central."

"It was just some discussion the bond committee had and then Mayor David Pugh from the city made some grandiose statements about using it for apartments or senior housing or something," Hoben said.

"The bond committee discussed it because of the amount for renovation, they talked about the possibility of building. That would be nice but it is not possible."

Reportedly, the cost for Central's renovation ranges from $1.5 to $6 million, opposed to $7 million to build a new combination middle elementary school. Ideally, a new building would be in Canton to avoid transportation costs to the current middle schools which all are in Plymouth (except for Lowell which is leased from Livonia).

Site has rich educational heritage

Central Middle School, on Main at Church in Plymouth, is the oldest educational site in the district.

"On that site has existed the nucleus of the Plymouth school system since 1853," said Sam Hudson, a local historian.

In 1840 Ebenezer J. Penniman built a seminary in memory of his wife at the site. The seminary was built before the formation of public schools.

"In 1853 Penniman agreed to donate the property and building to the school system if they would consolidate all the area schools into it," Hudson said.

The agreement was made and the seminary was repaired and used. Shortly after that, building was undertaken and the seminary-turned-school was doubled in size, according to Hudson.

At that time, schools went from first grade to eighth and all were housed in the one school building.

In 1887 the high school was added to the building and four years later the first high school class graduated from Plymouth, having gone through all the grades at the Central site.

"THE REASON we got a high school was that a state law was passed which allowed school districts to collect some taxes to build high schools," Hudson said.

Before public funding of schools, all students were required to pay tuition for public and private schools.

In 1916 the school building and neighboring Methodist Church burned. Classes were moved to various places throughout the city while the school was rebuilt and the new building opened in 1918.

The 1918 building stands today as the oldest part of Central Middle School.

Until 1927, the main Central building housed all of the grades in Plymouth. Starkweather Elementary was built in 1927 as a "ward school," Hudson said.

There was much debate over building Starkweather as a branch school, which initially housed all grades — just as the Central building did.

In 1936, following a fire at the Presbyterian Church, the city acquired the property in front of Central. At the time Church Street ran directly in front of the school and was the dividing point for north and south Main.

For student safety reasons, as well as providing a better fire route, the city wanted to close that street and divert Church.

An agreement was reached with the Presbyterian Church to get the park land which now sits in front of Central, and Church Street was angled.

The site continued to serve as the high school until 1970 when Plymouth Educational Park (CEP) in Canton, Plymouth Canton was built and opened two years later at CEP.

The patches fill with busy pickers

WARM weather sparks activity in plants as well as in human beings. Seasoned berry pickers know that sunlight, warmth, rain, winds and other weather conditions control the ripening process and when Mother Nature ripens a berry there's not a whole lot of time left to pick. This year a relatively warm May has resulted in an early strawberry crop as the berries are in their prime the first week of June. The picking season normally lasts about two weeks. Things are pretty busy now at the Blessed Berry Farm on Powell Road in Plymouth Township as regular customers return to their favorite pickin' spot early in the morning on the days the fields are open.

LAST YEAR Bob and June Blessed took a break from the Pick-Your-Own strawberry business they have been engaged in in Plymouth Township for more than 20 years. The severe weather the winter before, and the age of their plants, gave them a summer break from the berry business. Instead of opening his fields for pickers, Blessed planted five acres with new plants which this year are producing mature fruit. To find out what picking conditions are, or to get specific directions, berry pickers are advised to call 453-6439 to get up-to-date information. Other strawberry picking farms in the Plymouth-Canton-Northville area include: Berri Hill Farm, 349-5457; Brainers Greenhouse, 349-9070; Canton Farms, 981-4713; Meyer Berry Farm, 349-0289; or Park-U-Pick, 437-1394, in South Lyon.

No plans to close Central

"I DON'T want my tax dollars to go to build any more new schools in this district," said Barb Pelkey of N. Harvey.

"I'd just as soon divide the school district if Canton needs more schools. We'll just put the high school back in Central," Pelkey said.

"If they build another middle school in Canton, that means our kids would be going to East and West and that would mean redistricting and all those problems," said Dorothy Crews, also of N. Harvey.

All of the women are concerned about two things — losing the school and losing the recreational facilities on the school grounds.

"That is our recreational facilities. If we don't have recreational facilities and we all go to Canton, their facilities are going to get a little crowded," Uhlmann said.

"My understanding is that the other middle schools don't have the recreational facilities that Central does and that the other middle schools come to Central. What will the other schools do if Central is sold?" Przytulski asked.

The women said their neighborhood doesn't have a park or playground and all the kids use the Central grounds.

THE OTHER factor they want stressed is the changing demographics of the community.

"Young couples are moving into Plymouth and there are more kids," Crews said.

"Plymouth is changing, so why take all our schools away?"

"There is pride in that school again," said Crews, who is involved with a parent patrol in the building.

"The kids aren't afraid to go to school there — it's a strict school."

The women claim they have tried to get answers about plans for Central.

"We are doing the petitions because we want the school board to know that it's more than just the people on Adams," said Przytulski. "The school board has been very closed-mouth."

"Everytime we ask questions we get a vague, run-around answer," said Uhlmann. "We want to find out what the facts are and what our options are."

"They're trying to tell us it's down the road but why are all the school board candidates being asked about the future of Central," she said.

Pelkey said she talked to Ray Hoedel, assistant superintendent for business. According to her, Hoedel said one of the problems is that Central costs so much for heating in the winter.

"My argument is that if we put the energy efficient systems in Central it would work better," Pelkey said.

"Mr. Hoedel works for me and if they want a straight answer they should contact me," Hoben said.

Governor expected to finalize DeHoCo deal

By Gary M. Cates
staff writer

With a stroke of Gov. James Blanchard's pen, the state is expected to complete the purchase of the Detroit House of Correction (DeHoCo) this week.

Bills authorizing the state to buy the Plymouth Township facility and cap the number of correctional institutions in the area are expected to be sent to Blanchard before the weekend.

As of Friday, the only bill not already on the Governor's desk is the so-called moratorium bill, according to Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth Township.

That bill, which caps the number of prisons and prisoners in Plymouth and Northville townships, was recalled by the Senate last week and likely will clear the House today or tomorrow.

"We should handle the moratorium bill next week without any problems," Law said Friday. "The governor is waiting to sign the other bills until our bill gets there."

The moratorium bill, which Law authored, was approved by the House and sent to the Senate. Before the bill cleared the House, Detroit representatives added a clause dealing with the remainder of the DeHoCo land.

The state plans to pay $6.7 million for 123 acres of the 1,100-acre facility, which stretches into both townships. The area being bought — all in Plymouth Township on Five Mile between Beck and Ridge — includes the prison building.

The Detroit clause would allow the city to do whatever it wished with the remaining property.

When the bill went to the upper chamber, Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville, successfully modified the clause to prohibit prison construction and subjected development to local zoning restrictions.

The Senate approved the bill last month with Geake's amendment, thus requiring it to return to the House for concurrence. However, some technical items required a Senate recall for minor revision.

"It's just technical stuff," Law said. "We should have the bill back next week, and I don't foresee any problems in the House. There may be some Detroit reps who don't vote for it but it should pass."

"ONCE THE Governor signs the bills and the deal is in place, the corrections department wants to move in as quickly as possible," Law said.

"Some $2 million already has been approved to build the fence around the place."

According to Law, state lawmakers have allocated $20 million for the purchase and renovation of DeHoCo. The majority of the $13.3 million renovation work will center on converting the prison wards into single cells.

"Originally they were going to use

250 minimum security prisoners to remodel the place but I don't know what their plans are now," he said.

Provisions also must be made for staffing the prison. Law said the purchase deal calls for the state to "pick up" the Detroit staff.

"About 100 to 110 Detroit employees need to be recertified to work for the state now. Although the deal provides for the state to retain all of the Detroit employees, some of them will decide to stay with the city."

"Through the civil service process, we have to recertify all of them as correctional workers. I don't believe any of that has been done yet."

LAW BELIEVES the DeHoCo operation, although less costly up front, will not be an efficient prison.

The $20 million purchase and renovation figure is below the cost for a new prison — pegged at $35 million.

"The problem, which we argued before, is the operational costs — and we don't know right now how many people it is going to require to staff. I haven't seen the layout they proposed."

"I guess you have to look at it that they are buying DeHoCo to solve overcrowding because it may not be wise for a 30- or 40-year deal."

Law believes DeHoCo, being renamed the Western Wayne County Correctional Facility, will require more personnel and cost more to heat in the winter.

"Like any other operation, it's the wages and benefits that eat you up — as well as the energy costs."

Most prisons are built for a 40-year life, according to Law.

"The capital outlay, or initial investment, typically is less than 10 percent of the total cost for the 40-year life of the facility. The operational cost is the bigger factor."

Law also said he was glad to have the moratorium bill in view of last week's disturbances at Jackson State Prison.

"In light of what happened at Jackson you can see why we were interested in capping DeHoCo at 500 prisoners."

Two Northville Township prisons, also on Five Mile across from DeHoCo, will be capped — Scott at 550 and Phoenix at 311.

"With the unrest they had at Jackson, we are glad our residents aren't going to have to sit here and worry. We believe that 500 is a number the state can control in one location," he said.

Salem student's gun seized

A gun was seized in the parking lot of Plymouth Salem High School from a 17-year-old senior last week.

A security guard spotted the .25-caliber automatic on the student as he was entering the parking lot area, according to school officials. The firearm was not discharged.

"He (the security guard) stopped him and asked for the gun, and it was turned over," said Dick Egli, Plymouth-Canton Community Schools' community relations director.

THE STUDENT has been suspended indefinitely pending further investigation. The suspension was moot, however, as Wednesday was the last day of class for seniors.

"I've removed him from the (senior graduation) ceremonies, and I have removed him from all senior activities," said Bill Brown, Salem principal.

Action by Canton police may be forthcoming pending further investigation. The department has the option of charging him with carrying a concealed weapon, said Canton police Lt. Alex Wilson.

"I don't think this (type of incident) will be repeated, because it was a unique situation that prompted the student to bring (the gun) to school," Egli said. "It was a specific situation involved here with the student and some students, and I don't think this will be repeated."

He declined to elaborate.

The incident occurred at 11:55 a.m.

Wednesday. A report was made to Canton police at approximately 8 a.m. Thursday. Police personnel have said they are concerned that too much time elapsed before the incident was reported.

Brown said he called to report the incident at 3:05 Wednesday and left a message for a specific officer — who often handles school-related situations — to return the call the next day.

Egli commended security personnel for their work on the incident: "This is an indication that security was working."

"If there is anything good that comes out of something like this, it is that our security force was doing their job very well," he said.

Gallimore janitor honored

How can you repay a person who, according to 430 people, "returns a hug, listens to our complaints and tries to help if he can, puts paper towels in right away, and cleans up an accident?"

Easy. Nearly 500 students along with parents, teachers and administrators honored Tom "Terrific" Bennett as Plymouth-Canton Community Schools' "Extra Miller" at a Board of Education meeting May 28.

Bennett, plant engineer at Gallimore Elementary School, is "more than an exemplary employee — a very special person," said E.J. McClendon, trustee, reading nominators' comments.

"He has demonstrated dedication above and beyond the call of duty... countless times. Mr. Bennett listens to people, prioritizes needs and corrects what he can immediately. He views himself as helping teachers and students and it shows in the way he does his job," he added.

Said students, who recently established and observed "Mr. Bennett Day" at Gallimore: "He really cares about us. He helps us dry wet clothes, cares about our safety and is always nice and helpful. He does favors for us like fixes broken zippers, gives us a pencil in an emergency, gets hats and balls off the building and fixes broken lunch boxes."

"He always has time for us like he unties stubborn knots, helps clean dirty shoes and never gets angry," students wrote.

"He makes our building a nice place to be in by decorating with flowers, keeping it clean, fixes broken hooks, unclogs the toilets and keeps the playground clean."

How's that for appreciation?

Orchestra will overcome 'conductor blues'

WHEN YOU'RE nominated to join a certain scout honor group, they tell you it's not because of what you've done but what you are expected to do in the future.

That is why this fan will be the first to send in his check when the Plymouth Symphony Society solicits family memberships for the 1985-86 season.

Despite the serious problems of the last season, the community is full of good musicians who want to perform, good board members who want to raise money for them and folks who enjoy good music close to home.

In other words, the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra will neither fold nor remain a political hotbed. My bet is that it will come back as strong as ever.

THERE WERE quality problems last season.

Conductor Johan van der Merwe, in his first four years, was getting one of the highest levels of performance I have heard from any of the community orchestras around the state.

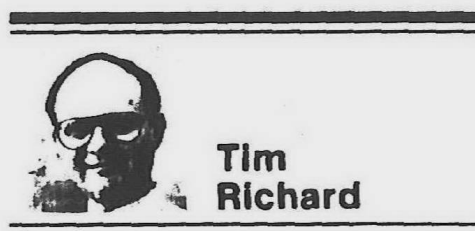

But 1984-85 was different. Take the strings. Numbers of players dwindled noticeably as the season went on.

Take the violins in particular. Feet wrapped around chair legs. Slouching postures. Elbows on ribs. Ragged attacks. Uncoordinated bowing. Good posture doesn't guarantee good sound, but bad posture guarantees bad sound. And there was no improvement as the season progressed.

There were other stories of lack of organization and inattention to details.

Now, if a few performers have a few problems in a few concerts, those are individual problems. But when a section has continuing problems, you look to lack of good rehearsals and dissolving discipline. In other words, you look to the conductor.

That was precisely the difficult and painful decision the Symphony Society board made when it concluded it no longer required van der Merwe's services. It wasn't to say he hadn't done excellent work in past seasons. It wasn't to say he wasn't doing good work elsewhere, or that he wasn't gracious and utterly charming.

Rather, he just wasn't giving adequate attention to the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra.

THE BOARD seems to sense that it could have done things a little more smoothly.

The decision to keep van der Merwe's termination a secret for a full month was unwise. When 20 or so board members and their contacts know about something, it can't be kept a secret — not in a town the size of Plymouth.

Board President Sanford Burr erred in failing to notify van der Merwe promptly by telephone of the decision. The conductor deserved to be the first to know, not the last.

The inevitable result was that retiring violinist Jean Braun, a van der Merwe partisan, kicked up a public fuss. The story became one of political controversy. There was no other way to treat it.

ONE BONE of contention is whether the board should have posted the newly created job of general manager, allowing interested persons to bid. I will not get into a spraying contest with anyone over that procedure.

But I know, from a series of scattered conversations with general manager Rex Hatt, that he saw his work as helping the conductor with his weak point, organizational details. Hatt's motivation was to save van der Merwe's neck, not chop it.

Finally, orchestra members complained they no longer had a voice on the board, or that the last players' representative was told her presence was no longer required. Whatever the case, clearly the situation needs to be remedied.

As it approaches the slow task of hiring a new permanent conductor, the board knows it must not only find someone the musicians can respect but also someone with good management skills and a bit of a flair for promotion.

WELL, JOHAN van der Merwe is gone. Jean Braun has moved to sunny California, and the rest of us are still here.

We cannot, as van der Merwe suggested, forget what has happened. We need to learn from it. My gut feeling, based on 17 years of being a PSO fan, is that everyone will learn.

And I, for one, am cheerfully looking forward to the 1985-86 season. Plymouth Symphony music is better for a fellow's frazzled nerves than any medicine or potion known to mankind.

Value of school centralization debated in 1876

(Part 7)

Organizers of the movement to consolidate Plymouth schools in 1853 had maintained that centralization would result in a higher grade of scholarship, availability of more facilities than possible in smaller districts, and operating expenses that would be no greater, and probably less, than incurred by the numerous small school districts.

By 1875, after more than two decades of experience with consolidation, some of the residents were beginning to wonder if it had been a mistake. None of the promised improvements were evident, many grumbled and expenses were getting out of hand.

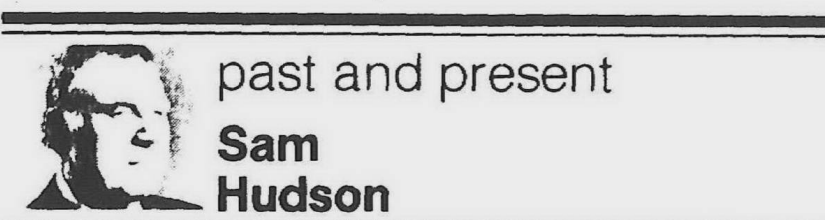

Later that year, at the request of five legal voters, the school board held a meeting to discuss the matter. It appointed a committee consisting of George A. Starkweather, a member of the board, and Abram Shear, Hial P. Sly, J.W. Humphrey, E.B. Bradner and W.S. Miller to investigate and report.

The report was presented at a special meeting on Jan. 22, 1876. The committee said it had canvassed people in the district (Union School Number One) and found that the majority wanted the school system placed back on its old footing — that is, restoration of the old districts as they existed before Union School was formed.

THE GRADE of scholarship was no higher than in the past, the facilities were no great improvement, and there was great dissatisfaction at the expense which was largely above the original estimate — "and gives promise of enlargement rather than reduction in the future." The report ended with a resolution that the school board take action to reorganize the district on the basis of restoring the old district schools.

A month later, at a meeting on Feb. 26, board member Starkweather's motion was carried to the effect that "consent is hereby given by the board of trustees of Union School District Number One, Plymouth, to such changes in the boundaries of said district and to such reorganization or reconstruction of said district as will be past and present

in conformity to the spirit of the resolution touching the matter as passed at the special meeting of said district held on the 22nd day of January, 1876."

This rambling, rather ambiguous resolution, produced little if any results. Although the board approved it, there is no evidence that the system was decentralized at this time. It was not until 1927 that a second school, Starkweather, was built in Plymouth.

IN THE DAYS when Plymouth's economy was largely agricultural, the school calendar considered the needs of farmers who wanted the assistance of their sons at certain stages during the growing season.

Older farm boys attended school only in the winter and the winter term was shorter than it is today. In October 1838, for example, the Kenyon School District was in session only four months in the winter — Nov. 15 to March 15.

Although there was usually nine months of school, including the summer term which commenced May 1, the Kenyon school board voted in 1873 to have "two months of school this fall and five months of summer school."

When the Union School district was formed, the first term commenced on Nov. 21, 1853, and ended on April 22, 1854. It was not until 1916 that the winter term began as early as Sept. 4.

The Kenyon School district was supported by residents of Plymouth and Canton. In 1841, there is a record of $9 income from Canton and $7 from Plymouth. In 1844, Canton contributed $25.75 to Plymouth's $14.80. By 1867, however, Plymouth was paying $43.10 to Canton's $39.06. In 1871, the ratio was $124 for Plymouth and $100 for Canton.

The school board at Kenyon apparently received a small remuneration for its work. In October 1857, $5 was raised to pay the board members. Most school expenses were similarly modest.

IN 1842, Kenyon voted to raise $56 to pay for winter school and $5 for wood. In 1869, it voted to raise $130 to pay the teachers, buy wood and repair the school house.

When Union School started, the principal teacher, Charles A. Frisbee, was paid $2 a day. Reuben J. Brown got $1.50. Edward Adams and D.L. Adams each got $1.25 a day. Sarah Shattuck, who had charge of the junior department, was paid $3.50 a week.

The school's teaching expenses for the November to April term amounted to $408. Total expenses of all kind for the first year were $803, with income of $815.

In October 1855, two years after Union School was established, the board accepted the offer of Theodatus T. Lyon to teach at $1.75 a day.

Lyon, who later became a nationally-known pomologist, was president of the Michigan Horticultural Society in 1876. He was the man who developed the card catalogue of fruits which became the basic fruit variety reference list of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Whiplash injuries can result from a sudden backward and forward whipping movement of the neck, caused by an auto collision, a fall, a powerful slap on the back, or even a violent sneeze. The ligaments and muscles controlling the spinal segments are stretched or sprained allowing the vertebrae to slip into abnormal positions. Nerves are then "pinched" or irritated, giving rise to headaches, nausea, dizziness and other pain.

Orchestra was misused

To the editor:
My wife and I have been members of the Plymouth Symphony Society for about 25 years.

Many said the orchestra was one of the best semi-professional orchestras in the midwest, and so I was honored when I was asked to serve on its board.

I had visions of sitting around the fire with other directors and Wayne Dunlap and helping select music to be played in upcoming concerts. I soon found that was not our charge as directors, as much as I would have enjoyed that idyllic pursuit.

In fact, I found the board's main task was to promote the orchestra and to do the many behind-the-scenes chores necessary to permit all those wonderful musicians to make all their wonderful music. We did everything we could to serve that orchestra. We encouraged and maintained a close liaison with the orchestra.

When Wayne retired, I was no longer on the board, but my wife was. I remember how carefully the board pursued the process of helping the orchestra select its new conductor. The orchestra had the opportunity to work with several prospects over a period of time. When the orchestra members did select their new conductor, it was a decision reached after careful deliberation.

I think the music improved. And I thought the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra continued to be one of the best semi-professional orchestras in the Midwest.

Therefore, I must say that the board's recent unilateral action in dismissing Johan van der Merwe from the conductorship of the orchestra strikes me as insensitive and ill-considered.

The orchestra members were never consulted, almost as if to avoid their interference. Instead of working with the orchestra, the board has apparently chosen to ignore it. Where are the ethics here?

Lore offered misinformation

To the editor:
The article concerning the firing of Johan van der Merwe by the Plymouth Symphony Board of Directors during its May 7 meeting was so full of inaccuracies I must respond.

I cannot believe a writer as fine as Tim Richard would print such an article without thoroughly researching the subject, but he did. It's unfortunate his main source was the one board member who was not at the meeting. If Richard had bothered to contact my husband or me, we could have corrected the misinformation he received from John Lore.

Inattention from Joahan? Never! This is the man who drove through blizzards to get to rehearsals and concerts, who led rehearsals in spite of illness, who had the entire next season planned by the end of the previous season.

Deteriorating quality? Those who have heard the PSO know it improved under van der Merwe's leadership. Newspaper reviews repeatedly complimented van der Merwe and the PSO on the excellence of their programming and performances, including your own reviewer, Neil Galanter, on our April 14 concert.

I don't understand how 18 board members can vote "19-0 with one abstention." According to the board president, there was one abstention and one no vote. How can 18 people cast 20 (or 21) votes? Does this mean there were ineligible people included in the vote?

The interim conductor may not have been waiting in the wings to take over, but the board had contacted him and one other person to be guest conductors for the next season without van der Merwe's or the orchestra's knowledge. Why?

Lore is sadly mistaken in believing that Johan, Bob Jones and I made the survey. The idea came from four orchestra members (I was one of the four). Bob was not present during the discussion. Of course, Lore didn't see the survey results until after the May 7 meeting. He wasn't even there.

I am distressed to leave Plymouth knowing the PSO is in the hands of a board that has so little regard for orchestra members' feelings and opinions. I only hope that the upset felt by the orchestra members and the community will open the board's eyes so it will realize its purpose is to serve, not control, the orchestra and once again will include the orchestra in its dealings.

Article dug up memories

To the editor:
Chris McCosky's article on Fred Crissey on May 30 dug up many memories about my 7th-grade coach and teacher in 1959 at Our Lady of Good Counsel in Plymouth.

Back then Mr. Crissey (I still can't bring myself to call him Fred) was fairly new in the coaching game, and we were very new at the game of baseball. But even though a few years have gone by the man I remember is the man McCosky described — someone who knows baseball and knows how to communicate with the boys in 7th grade and the young men of high school.

The rapport Mr. Crissey had with us as players and as our teacher never ceased to amaze me. The thick wooden ruler he used to punctuate his lessons always made his point but never found its mark, and we loved him for it.

He seemed to have a knack for getting to know each one of us and was always bestowing nicknames on us, but to this day I do not recall us calling him anything but "Mr. Crissey."

His skill and knowledge as a coach in this community is now well known, but I wanted you to hear about the man in 1959 who was just beginning to make his mark on the "boys of summer." As good a coach as he is I never made it to the big leagues but 26 years later I am still playing the game he taught me, only now it's softball and I don't run as fast or slide as often.

It has been many years since I played for him, and in that time I have occasionally run into him on the street, and he has always remembered my name, and I guess I will always remember his.

Some omitted from yearbook

To the editor:
This letter is a public complaint to the Canton-Salem Yearbook Staff.

Upon paying $22 at the beginning of the school year, I looked forward to a yearbook that, in 10 or more years from now, I could look into and see my old friends, and even myself, to see how we have changed.

And upon receiving my yearbook, I find that the above, to some extent, is impossible. The problem being that some of my friends, including myself, are not in the yearbook. Oh, sorry, I am in the yearbook on the vocal music department page, an unrecognizable figure with my name misspelled. I know of others who have similar problems or who were not in the yearbook at all.

Most of the people I have talked to, myself included, did have our pictures taken on the day we were supposed to. I was under the impression that not only did you get your own set of pictures, but that it was also put into the yearbook. According to the "Plythean 1985," some of us Canton and Salem students did not attend either school this year.

I realize that it is difficult to put together such a book, but could the yearbook staff please do a better job of it in the future?

The underclassmen of both Canton and Salem would appreciate it.

Toast Dad with His Favorite Foods

All Dads may not agree on how they want to spend Father's Day or on what gifts they would like to receive. But many agree on one thing — their special day wouldn't be complete without a hearty and satisfying beef dinner.

Sure to make Dad feel like "king for a day" is the king of steaks — the T-Bone. These man-sized steaks, cut from the prestigious short loin section of beef, are always tender, juicy and oh, so delicious. When the steaks are cooked on the grill over glowing coals, they make a flavor treat that Dad and the whole family will savor with enthusiasm.

To satisfy Dad's sweet tooth, present him with Golden Apple Cake. This moist, spicy cake is wonderfully flavored with shredded Golden Delicious apples, crushed pineapple and chopped walnuts. It's topped off with a maple-flavored cream cheese frosting and an eye-catching pinwheel of fresh apple slices. Golden apples are the preferred apple here because they resist darkening after being cut.

The perfect beverage to serve with this special meal? Iced tea, of course! Whether you choose to make this thirst-quenching favorite with loose tea, tea bags, instant tea or iced tea mix, you'll have delicious success every time when you follow the easy directions given here.

Broiled T-Bone Steaks

Beef T-Bone steaks, cut 1 to 2 inches thick
Salt and pepper

Place steaks on grill over ash-covered coals and broil at moderate temperature. Steaks cut 1 inch thick should be placed 2 to 3 inches from heat. Steaks cut 2 inches thick should be placed 3 to 5 inches from heat. When first sides are browned, turn and season with salt and pepper, and finish cooking second sides. Turn and season. Steaks cut 1 inch thick require 15 to 20 minutes for rare, 20 to 25 minutes for medium. Steaks cut 2 inches thick require 30 minutes for rare and 35 minutes for medium.

Note: Steaks can be cooked on rack in broiler pan. Turn steaks after seasoning browned sides.

Golden Apple Cake

2 cups shredded pineapple
1 1/2 cups sugar
1 1/2 cup oil
8 eggs
2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking soda, ground
1 teaspoon cinnamon and cardamom
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups shredded Golden Delicious apple
3/4 cup chopped walnuts
Maple-Flavored Frosting
1 Golden Delicious apple, cored and sliced

Preheat oven to 350°F. Combine pineapple, sugar and oil in mixer bowl; mix well. Pour into two greased and floured 9-inch round cake pans. Bake in preheated 350°F oven 35 minutes or until cake tests done with wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool in pan 5 minutes, turn out onto rack and cool completely. Frost between layers and on top with Maple-Flavored Frosting. Decorate top with apple slices before serving. Yield: one 9-inch round cake.

*Apple may be shredded by hand or food processor.

Maple-Flavored Frosting

Blend 1 package (8 ounces) softened cream cheese, 2 tablespoons softened butter or margarine and 1/4 cup maple-flavored syrup until fluffy. Add 2 tablespoons reserved pineapple syrup, 1/4 cup chopped walnuts, 1/4 teaspoon maple-flavored and dash salt; mix well. If necessary, add 1/4 to 1/2 cup additional powdered sugar to make frosting easy to spread. Yield: 1 1/3 cups.

More Dad-Pleasing Ideas

If it's roast beef that makes Dad all smiles, he'll be the happiest man in town when you honor him with Father's Day Beef Roast. He'll find the lean, flavorful beef eye round roast especially tantalizing for it is marinated in red wine flavored with onion, parsley and thyme. As a bonus, the marinade also acts as a tenderizer for the beef. Other tips for tenderness: slowly roast the beef only to rare and carve into thin slices.

For interesting color, texture and flavor contrasts, brighten the Father's Day menu with Delicious Apple Layered Salad, a fresh fruit version of the popular layered salad. Diced Red and/or Golden Delicious apples are layered with diced celery, orange pieces, grape halves and chopped pecans. All is crowned with a creamy blue cheese dressing and decorative apple wedges. It's a salad you can serve with confidence for Washington State Delicious apples are juicy, crisp and flavorful.

No matter what the weather this Father's Day, Dad will be cool and refreshed as he sips on Teaberry Punch. Iced tea, easily made with instant tea, is delightful flavored with cranberry juice cocktail and lemon juice. For an even easier version of the punch, lemon-flavored iced tea mix can be used.

Father's Day Beef Roast

3 1/2 to 4-pound beef eye round roast
1 cup red wine
2 tablespoons oil
1 medium onion, chopped
2 tablespoons snipped parsley
1/2 teaspoon thyme leaves
Dash freshly ground black pepper

Combine wine, oil, onion, parsley, thyme and pepper. Place roast in plastic bag; add marinade; turn to coat. Tie bag securely and marinate in refrigerator 24 hours, turning occasionally. Pour off marinade. Pat roast dry with absorbent paper; place on rack in open roasting pan. Insert roast meat thermometer so bulb is centered in the thickest part. Do not add water. Do not cover. Roast in a slow oven (325°F) until thermometer registers 135°F. Allow 20 to 22 minutes per pound. Let roast "stand" 15 minutes. (Roasts will usually rise 5°F in temperature to reach 140°F for rare). Carve into thin slices.

Delicious Apple Layered Salad

3 cups cored, diced Red or Golden Delicious apples
1 tablespoon lime juice
1 cup diced celery
1 orange, pared, sliced and halved
1 cup green grapes, halved and seeded if necessary
1/2 cup chopped pecans
1/2 cup Creamy Dressing
1 tablespoon crumbled blue cheese
1 Golden Delicious apple, cored and sliced

Toss diced apples with lime juice; place half in bottom of 3-inch deep, 2-quart glass bowl. Layer celery, orange, grapes, pecans and remaining diced apples in bowl. Spread Creamy Dressing over top. Garnish with blue cheese and apple slices. 6 servings.

Creamy Dressing

Combine 1/3 cup each mayonnaise and dairy sour cream with 2 tablespoons crumbled blue cheese; mix well. Yield: 2/3 cup.

Teaberry Punch

2 rounded tablespoons instant tea
1 quart cold water
2 cups cranberry juice cocktail
1/4 cup lemon juice
Sugar to taste

Combine instant tea and cold water in large pitcher. Add cranberry and lemon juice; stir well. Sweeten to taste. Pour into ice-filled glasses. Yield: 6 cups.

Note: Punch may be made using lemon-flavored iced tea mix. Follow directions on jar for making one quart; then add 2 cups cranberry juice.

Parsley brightens fridge and food

When I got out of my car at the neighborhood supermarket, I was surprised to find shopping carts in the parking lot.

Those waist-high bars had kept the carts in front of the store, leaving departing customers two options:

Carry the bags of groceries to the car.

Pull the car up to the traffic-jammed entrance.

"We had too many complaints," said a bag boy, who was gathering up the carts.

"I was told you can't have an obstruction in front of the door," said the store manager. "It's a new county ordinance."

No matter the reason, it was a relief to wheel the groceries to the car, parked several rows away from the entrance, also cluttered with delivery trucks.

EACH TIME a cart disappears, the store is out $100, the manager told me. And you know who will be paying the tab, I thought to myself.

During this particular trip, I picked up a bunch of fresh parsley, which had proved another nemesis over the years. I often throw away more parsley than I use.

I've tried various methods to prevent the parsley from wilting: leaving it in a cellophane bag, placing it in a damp brown bag or sealing it in a plastic container.

When I got back home, I didn't give the parsley much thought. My wife put away the groceries.

The next day when I searched the refrigerator for the parsley, which I planned to use in an Italian pesto sauce, I didn't find it in the crisper — it was standing in a little water in a glass beer stein.

"I heard it was the best way to keep parsley," Anita explained. "You just change the water every day."

Four days later, the parsley was still fresh. It also makes for an unusual refrigerator plant.

FETTUCINE PESTO

½ cup butter, softened

½ cup grated Parmesan cheese

½ cup finely chopped parsley

1 large garlic clove, crushed

1 ½ tsp. dried basil leaves

¼ tsp. dried marjoram leaves

½ cup olive oil

½ cup chopped walnuts

1 pkg. (12 oz.) fettuccine, cooked as directed

Cream butter in bowl, blend with cheese, parsley, garlic, basil and marjoram and gradually add oil, constantly beating. Add nuts and mix well. Yields 1 ½ cups pesto sauce. Drain fettuccine, return to warm pot and toss with sauce until well coated. Serves 5-6.

Grill a fresh ham for dad's day

There is a lot of argument on what barbecue is supposed to be. Since the word itself is both a noun and a verb (it refers to a popular outdoor cooking procedure as well as a food by the same name), and since the product varies according to differences in regions, probably no other kind of cooking causes so much disagreement.

How barbecue is served (it can be sliced, chopped or served in chunks), whether the accompanying marinade or sauce is tomato-based or vinegar with spices, and whether the meat is pork, beef or chicken or only a few of several touchy areas. If pork happens to be the favored meat, then the distinction must be made as to whether the whole pig is used or just certain parts of the animal, the shoulder and ham in particular.

Additionally, there is the subject of what to eat with barbecue. Coleslaw — either the mayonnaise or barbecue kind — is the traditional accompaniment. But baked beans hush puppies (cornbread-like nuggets fried in hot fat) and french fried potatoes may also be served. Again, it all depends on regional preferences.

A major force in the South, barbecue is famous in North Carolina and in cities such as Memphis, St. Louis and Kansas City. It generally takes two forms — chopped or sliced — but either way, the best way to eat barbecue is on a roll or bun as a sandwich.

Ribs are as commonplace as sandwiches in most barbecue establishments. And pork seems to win out as being the preferred ribs meat.

Barbecue is exceptionally tender as a result of long, slow cooking. For this, a rotisserie, a modern-day device on most home grills, is recommended. That way, the meat can be left unattended. It actually bastes itself while cooking. Sauces are not necessary, unlike most recipes where meats are basted frequently. For authentic barbecue, the sauce is applied either at the end of cooking by the cook, or by the diners themselves.

Drawing on recipes from across the country, Grilled Fresh Ham starts with a boneless pork leg, commonly known to consumers as ham, but that name is really a misnomer because the cut is not cured like ordinary hams.

Fresh ham or pork leg is of predictably high quality. And though it is not widely available in supermarkets, it can easily be ordered by a call to your meat department a day or two in advance.

There is no end to the number of ways fresh ham can be prepared. Cooked whole on the grill and served up as barbecue in a sandwich is but one way to enjoy it. Vinegar and lemon juice used in the following recipe leave a pleasing pungency typical of Southern-style barbecue. For those with an adventurous streak, a handful of herbs thrown on the fire can leave a lasting impression, too.

GRILLED FRESH HAM

1 4 to 5 pound boneless fresh ham (pork leg)

¾ cup chili sauce
¼ cup red wine vinegar
2 tbsp lemon juice
1 tsp dry mustard
1 clove garlic, minced

Place ham on rotisserie of grill. If desired, make a foil drip pan about 1 ½ inches deep and extending about 3 inches on each side of ham; place under rotisserie. Insert meat thermometer in thickest part of ham, not touching fat or rotisserie rod. Close grill hood. Grill over slow coals for 2 ½ to 3 ½ hours or till meat thermometer registers 165°F.

For sauce, in a small bowl combine chili sauce, vinegar, lemon juice, mustard, and garlic; mix well. Brush ham frequently with sauce during the last hour of grilling time. Let ham stand at least 10 minutes before carving to allow juices to set. (Temperature will continue to rise to reach the recommended 170 degrees internal temperature.) Makes 12 to 15 servings.

350 fancy cats coming to show

The cats are coming. Cats of all ages and breeds are coming to Plymouth this weekend for the Midwest Persian Tabby Fanciers 1985 Great Lakes Regional Show in the Plymouth Cultural Center. Show hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday. Admission will be $3 for adults, $2 for senior citizens, and $1 for children under 12.

Carefully groomed and manicured show cats of impeccable bloodlines from across the nation will compete for ribbons and glory. There are no cash prizes although entry fees run from $16 for regular, to $10 for the household pet category. Breeders can demand higher prices for offspring of their ribbon-winners.

Tom Bowling of Plymouth and Diane Crowe of Utica are co-managers of the show, which will be a first for Plymouth.

MIDWEST PERSIAN Tabby Fanciers Inc. is hosting the Great Lakes Regional show.

The Great Lakes Region includes 40 clubs encompassing all of Michigan and Ohio, parts of Kentucky, Pennsylvania and New York, and an area of Canada around Toronto. It is one of seven regions, or divisions, in Canada and United States, including Alaska.

Plans for the show have been a year in the making. Once the actual site of the show — the Plymouth Cultural Center — was reserved, accommodation suggestions for exhibitors had to be listed.

Banquet arrangements were made with the Mayflower Hotel for the Saturday evening of the show. The dinner menu of appetizer, salad, rice or potatoes, vegetable, stuffed boneless breast of chicken and dessert, was included in brochures. Gary Veach of New Hudson handled banquet reservations.

Rick and Lisa Floyd of Plymouth were named entry clerks.

JUDGES for the show had to be lined up with one coming from as far away as Oregon.

More than 350 felines have been registered for the show. They range in age from 4 months on up. Four to 8-month-old cats are shown in the kitten class. There is no age limit on the adults.

All cats and kittens should be inoculated in advance against Feline Enteritis, Rhinotracheitis and Calici Virus and tested for Felv. Their claws should be clipped prior to benching. Household pet entries must be altered and must not be declawed.

There is no veterinary inspection at the show.

THE MAJORITY of the breeders transport their cats in Sky Kettles, the type available at airports.

The host club is responsible for providing the 22-by-22-by-22-inch cages used during the show. These are rented for the occasion from an area source.

The hosts also provide litter for the cages. Estimate for a two-day show is two pounds per cat. Lowe's of Kalamazoo is donating 1,000 pounds of litter for the event.

The brochure mailed to exhibitors noted that the show hall is climate controlled.

Set-up in the Cultural Center, 525 Farmer Street, Plymouth, will be done Friday night. Many of the out-of-state exhibitors and their cats and kittens are expected to arrive Friday.

One of the "Tabby Fanciers" said, "This is not an inexpensive hobby."

Those pure breed show cats lead pampered lives. But come show time, the household pet entries feel no class distinction — they have combined the art of being pampered while maintaining their sense of freedom.

MEMBERS OF the Plymouth High School class of 1946 are planning a 40-year reunion in the summer of '86.

Several of the classmates met last week to start the ball rolling. Vincent Simonetti, Eleanor Hart Hitt, Jackie Dalton Troutman, Jean Murray Harsha, Bill Beitner, Lois Phillips Folsom, Helen Moore Hopkins and Dick Groth hope to get in touch with as many as possible of the 65 graduates in their class.

They have a date, a place, and a mailing address.

A dinner dance is planned for June 21, 1986, at the Plymouth Elks Lodge on Ann Arbor Road. Anyone interested in attending the reunion, or who has an up-dated address for a class member, is asked to write to: PO Box 836, Plymouth, MI 48170.

JULIA ANN Sparling graduated from Interlochen Arts Academy June 1 in ceremonies in Kresge Auditorium. Julia majored in drama at the academy. She performed in the November production of Moliere's "The Learned Ladies" and the academy's February show, "Berlin to Broadway with Kurt Weill."

She was named a merit scholar in the National Arts Recognition and Talent Search competition and received $500. She graduated as a senior honor student with a grade point average of more than 3.50. She will attend New York University in the fall.

She is the daughter of Emily Sparling and Robert Sparling, both of Plymouth.

Sister Judy is Christian service coordinator at St. John's. She was a junior high school math teacher and holds a bachelor of science degree from Eastern Michigan University.

She is the daughter of Audrey Blake of Sterling Heights.

ROSEMARY Clinton's 5,490 points was high score at Thursday's party bridge games at the Plymouth Cultural Center. Vicky Whipple came in second with 5,200.

There were nine full tables in play.

Harrison follows script to state finals

By Tom Panzenhagen
staff writer

"They couldn't write a script like that," Farmington Harrison second baseman Ken George said. If they did, no one would buy it. But it really happened. With two out in the seventh inning and Harrison trailing Livonia Stevenson — coached by Ken George's father, Jim — 2-1, the junior George doubled home three runs and the Hawks went on to win, 4-3.

Harrison then polished off Dearborn, 10-9, in Saturday's regional finals at Plymouth Canton High School. That win was no less dramatic as Harrison scored all its runs in one inning.

But it was their come-from-behind dramatics in game one that exemplified the spirit of these Cinderella Hawks, who finished seventh in league play but now have won 14 of their last 16 games. Overall they are 17-10.

STEVENSON twice was one strike away from clinching the opener. But in the seventh, with Brad Rounds on third, Vince Enright delivered a two-out, two-strike single off starter and losing pitcher Bob Ognian that narrowed the gap to 2-1.

Dan Murray then singled and Brian Smolinski walked, setting the stage for George, who took a ball and two strikes before bouncing one off the wall in left-center field.

"That's the most pressure you can have on a high school kid," Harrison coach John Herrington said of George's at bat.

Jim George — emotionally drained and near tears moments after the game ended — said, "I still don't believe it. I'm really proud of Ken, but I wish it wouldn't have come down to this. I didn't want him to strike out or embarrass himself. I wanted him to hit the ball right at somebody."

"I wish someone had hit one for us in the bottom of the seventh, then we would have won 5-4 and Ken would have done everything he could."

"But it wasn't in the script," Ken George — all smiles after the game — said. "That's the biggest thrill of my life." Asked whether his father said anything to him, he said, "Dad gave me a nice hug."

THE SECOND GAME featured another Harrison comeback.

Down 6-0, the Hawks sent 15 batters to the plate and tallied 10 runs on nine hits in the third inning.

Number nine hitter Murray started the rally with a single. Smolinski doubled him to third and both came home on the first of two John Miller RBI singles of the inning.

Mike Colovos then drove a high fast ball off losing pitcher Scott Mason over the center field fence, accounting for two more runs.

The next three hitters — Rounds, Shawn Brennan and Ken Rudberg — singled and Rounds scored on a wild pitch, tying the score. Enright then walked and Murray — batting for the second time in the inning — was hit by a pitch, forcing in the go-ahead run.

Murray was the 10th consecutive Hawk to reach base without an out.

The eighth run came home when Dearborn shortstop Brian Keating flagged down a George grounder up the

Two to go for Hawks

Harrison needs two more wins to claim the state Class A baseball championship.

With Saturday's wins over Livonia Stevenson and Dearborn, they advance to the state finals being hosted by Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo.

The Hawks will play Jenison High School — winners of the Lansing-Sex-ton regionals — at 3 p.m. Friday. The winner of that game plays for the championship at 5:30 p.m. Saturday.

Harrison's last appearance in the state tournament was as a Class B team in 1981. They lost in the semi-finals.

middle but couldn't make a play. Miller then delivered the last two runs of the inning with another single.

DEARBORN scored four in the first off starting pitcher Vince Enright, who faced only four batters and allowed three runs. Rudberg gave up the fourth run in the first, and two more runs in both the second and third innings.

Gary Schmidt took over for Rudberg in the third and finally settled things down, allowing only one run on one hit in 2½ innings of relief.

Mike Inch — who went the distance in game one, raising his record to 8-2 — collected the save, limiting Dearborn to one hit and no runs in the last 1½ innings.

Dearborn, which defeated Southgate Anderson, 6-0, earlier in the day to advance to the regional finals, finished the year 20-7.

For Livonia Stevenson in game one, Ognian pitched six strong innings — permitting no runs on four hits — before being roughed up by George and company in the seventh.

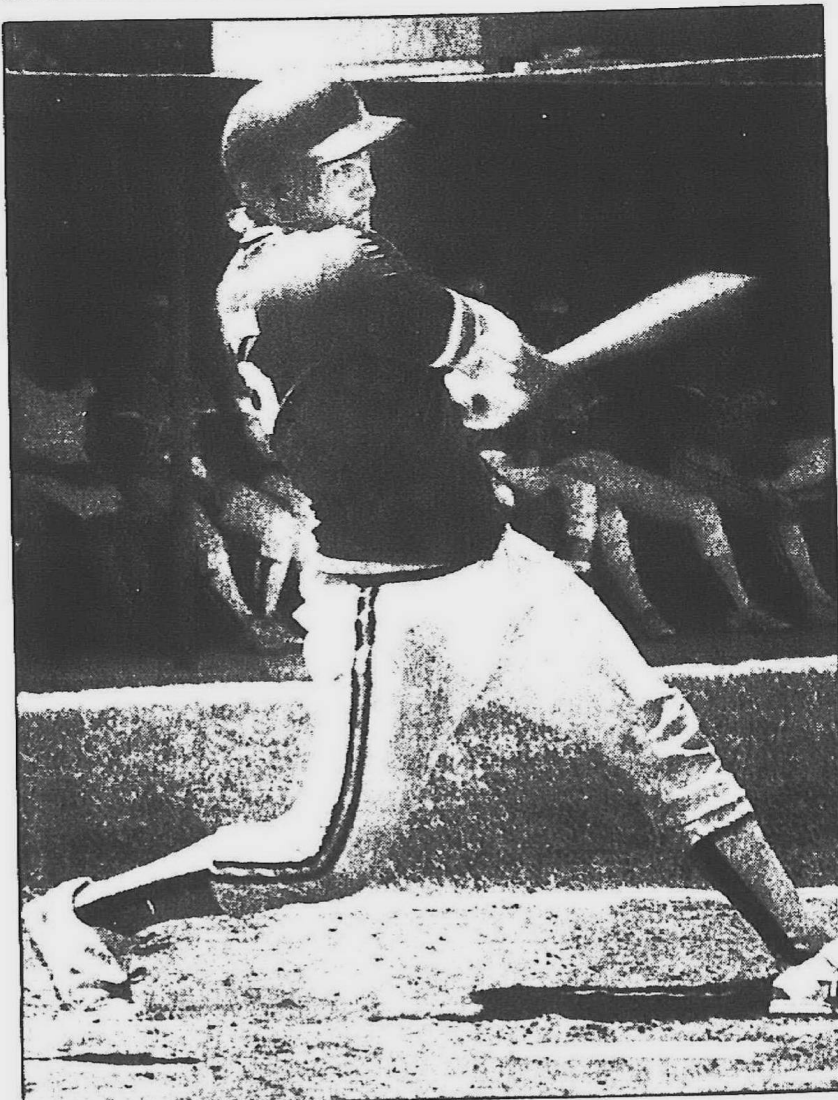

Spartan DH Joe Conway collected two RBIs on a sixth-inning double, and Chris Tancill hit a solo homer in the seventh.

Stevenson finished the year 15-11.

Farmington Harrison first baseman Vince Enright celebrates as he scores from third on Ken George's game-winning double in semi-final regional baseball action Saturday. The Hawks, who defeated Livonia Stevenson 4-3, scored all of their runs in their last at bats. They also beat Dearborn later in the day to win the regional title.

Hawk catcher Mike Colovos homers against Dearborn, driving in two runs during Harrison's 10-run third inning. The Hawks put the game away in the third when they sent 15 batters to the plate. John Miller also drove in four runs with two singles during the rally. Harrison now advances to the state baseball finals Friday in Kalamazoo.

THE 1985 Observerland girls track season was full of highlights. It started with the Observerland meet, where sprinter Terri Ford led Farmington Hills Mercy to the title.

It was also a big year for all-purpose runner Karen Opp and Westland John Glenn. Carrying just 12 girls on its roster, Glenn still managed to win several titles, including the Northwest Suburban League (NSL) for the second consecutive year.

Redford Bishop Borgess, Plymouth Salem, Plymouth Canton, Livonia Franklin and Livonia Ladywood also made strong showings during the course of the year.

Numerous school records were broken throughout the area.

Area coaches gathered recently to select the top individual performers and top relay squads. They also selected Opp as Observerland Trackwoman of the Year. Here are the final results of that meeting.

FIELD EVENTS

Anna Parish, shot put, Westland John Glenn: During the past two seasons Parish has led the area in both the discus and the shot put. She took fifth in the shot put and was seventh in discus at the state meet.

Headed next year for Eastern Michigan University, the Glenn senior holds school records in the shot put (41 feet) and the discus (117-10). "Anna is the hardest worker on the team — a great attitude," said Glenn coach Ernie Righetti.

Sue Naster, discus, Bishop Borgess: A junior, Naster ranked right behind Parish in both the shot put (37-¼) and discus (117-2).

She finished eighth in the state in the discus and was first in the Catholic League, regional and Operation-Friendship meets. Naster holds school records in both events.

"Not only does Sue do well in competition, but she's carrying a 3.6 GPA," said Borgess coach John McGreevy.

Sambia Shivers, high jump, Bishop Borgess: Shivers was the All-Area high jumper last year, competing for Farmington High.

After transferring to Borgess, Shivers enjoyed another big year with an area best leap of 5-5½.

The senior standout won the Catholic League, regional, Operation-Friendship and set an Observerland meet record.

"Sambia is a friendly person who is a great ambassador for our team," McGreevy said. "She always leaves a track meet having made one or two friends from the opposition."

Amy Rozman, long jump, Livonia Stevenson: A senior, Rozman is making her first appearance on the All-Area team with a season-best leap of 17 feet.

She recorded best jumps at the regional, Western Lakes Conference and Observerland meets.

Rozman also ran the 200- and 400-meter events, as well as legs on the 400, 800, 1,600 relays. She is the Spartans' two-time MVP.

RUNNING EVENTS

Terri Ford, Farmington Mercy, 100 dash: Just a junior, Ford was the Marlins' most valuable runner, scoring a majority of their points in big meets.

She finished first at Observerland and anchored two winning relay teams. Ford was first at the regional and first in the Catholic League. In the state meet she gained fourth.

The speedster clocked area bests in the 100 (11.9) and 200 (25.6). She also leaped 5.2 to set a school record in the high jump.

"As well as winning the open sprint races, Terri also anchored our sprint relay teams," said Mercy coach Bob Kirkland. "On most occasions she would receive the baton with a deficit, but quickly turn it into a lead."

Angela Dugas, Livonia Ladywood, 200: A four-year varsity performer, Dugas recorded the area's second best time in the 200 dash (26.1).

She placed second in the Catholic League and was a state (Class B) qualifier in the long jump and 1,600 relay.

"Angela is the kind of runner you just love to sit back and watch run," said Ladywood coach Bob Zimmerman. "She has great straightaway speed and is able to run anything from the 100 up to the 400."

Dugas is considering EMU, according to Zimmerman.

Karen Opp, Westland John Glenn, 400: Area coaches paid this junior their highest compliment, voting her Observerland Track-woman of the Year.

"Karen has great flexibility, running anything from the 100 to the two mile," said the Glenn coach. "She's a very hard worker."

Opp was undefeated during the regular season in the 400. She posted an area best time of 58.2 and won titles at East Detroit, Monroe, the regional and Northwest Suburban League meet.

She was also a member of Glenn's potent 3,200 relay squad, which finished second in Class A.

Joan Arndt, Livonia Ladywood, 800: Just a sophomore, Arndt recorded one of the area's most impressive times, clocking 2:15.4 in the 800-meter run.

She captured Catholic League and regional titles. She capped a fine season by finishing fourth at the state meet, and anchored the Blazers to a second place finish in the 1,600 relay and third-place finish in the 3,200 relay at the Class B finals.

"Joan is the best at chasing down a lead runner, or closing out a relay race," said the Ladywood coach. "She is strong enough to run back-to-back races like the 400 and 800 and still win both handsily, and then come back to anchor the 1,600 relay."

Denise Durrer, Plymouth Salem, 1,600: A transfer from Redford Union, Durrer moved to Salem and enjoyed a banner season.

She posted the area's best time in the 1,600 run with a time of 5:16.7.

Durrer won the Observerland meet's open mile and added titles in the 800 and 1,600 at the Western Lakes Conference meet. She also won 800 at the regional and placed third in the 1,600.

"Denise is an outstanding competitor with a tremendous conditioning base," said Salem coach Fred Thomann. "She loves the challenge of a big meet and is extremely coachable."

"Denise was the difference of Salem being an average track and field team to being one of the best in the area."

Karen Kantor, Livonia Churchill, 3,200: A freshman, Kantor recorded the area's best time in the 3,200 run (11:44.96) with a third-place finish at the regional meet.

In the Western Lakes Conference meet, Kantor finished first in the 3,200 and second in the 1,600. She has been clocked at 5:24.1 in the 1,600 and all-area girls track

2:28.56 in the 800.

"Karen has more ability as a freshman distance runner than any I have had the pleasure of coaching," said Churchill coach Audrey Kather.

HURDLES

Tracey Balog, Farmington Mercy, 100 highs: A senior, Balog led the area in the 100-meter hurdles with a time of 15.2.

She finished first in the Catholic League meet, took third at Operation-Friendship (Catholic League/Detroit Public Schools) meet and finished fourth at the regionals. Balog holds school records in the 100 highs and 300 lows.

She also is the track team's top scholar/athlete, sporting a 3.92 GPA.

"Tracey was always very willing to help coach the younger hurdlers," Kirkland said. "That's not surprising since her father Chuck is the former coach at Southfield. It seems to run in the family."

Jamie Holcomb, Farmington Harrison, 300 lows: Holcomb's time of 46.9 in the 300 low hurdles was an area best by nearly one second.

The junior was league and regional runner-up, as well as fourth in the Oakland County meet.

"I believe Jamie has yet to reach her full potential," said Harrison coach Mark Babcock. "If she continues to work hard, she may surprise a lot of people next year."

"She's very likeable and a personable young lady with a strong desire to improve. She's a team person."

RELAY EVENTS

Farmington Hills Mercy, 400: The team of Tonya Harbin, Michelle Smith, Tracey Balog and Terri Ford led the area with a time of 51.0.

They finished first at the Observerland and Stafford Relay meets, along with seconds at the Catholic League and Operation-Friendship meets.

The school record, however, still eludes them.

Farmington Hills Mercy, 800: Making up this winning quartet are Tanya Faison, Harbin, Balog and Ford.

Their time of 1:48.3 paced the area and reaped titles at the Catholic League meet, Stafford Relays and Observerland Relays. This quartet finished second in the regional and went undefeated in dual meets.

Livonia Ladywood, 1,600: This team — Sue Willey, Angela Dugas, Monica Gail and Joan Arndt — finished second in the state Class B meet with a time of 4:03.3, best in the area as well.

They recorded first-place finishes at the CMU Relays, RU/Observerland Relays, Catholic League, Chelsea Relays and regional.

"It was great comfort to a coach, to know that the last event is one of the team's strongest," said Ladywood's Bob Zimmerman. "It took a state record performance to beat us at the state finals. Whenever a meet was on the line, this relay came through."

Westland John Glenn, 3,200: Karen Opp, Michelle Sanchez, Pam Eldridge and Laura Grazulis broke the state record in the 3,200 relay with time of 9:35.1, but finished second time behind Dearborn Edsel Ford.

"They had a great week of training and they all worked very hard," said Glenn coach Ernie Righetti. "They all were at a disadvantage because they had to run different events all year."

This standout quartet, made up of three seniors and one junior (Opp), won several titles this season.

Walter's holds off Garden City

By Robert McElhaney
special writer

Chuck Morgan collected three hits and drove in two runs, and Leo Lanigan contributed a pair of doubles, leading Walter's Appliance to a 6-4 win over Garden City in a Livonia Collegiate Baseball League (LCBL) game Wednesday at Ford Field in Livonia.

Walter's wasted little time getting on the board, scoring three runs in the first inning. They added runs in the second, fifth and seventh innings, then survived a late Garden City rally.

"We got on top early and set the tempo," said Walter's manager Mike Keller. "We played a good, solid game."

Steve Frellick led off the first inning for Walter's with a triple to right center field, followed by John Stoitsiadis' triple which rolled to the left field fence, easily scoring Frellick.

Caesars romps in 5

Redford Little Caesars took only five innings Wednesday, removing the halos from the Livonia Angels, 16-0, in Livonia Collegiate Baseball League (LCBL) at Capitol Park.

Lead-off man Kevin Schwanz had a big day, going four-for-four with two RBI and four runs.

Gary Lizanich went three-for-three and drove in four runs. Mike Betz doubled twice and knocked in two runs, while Mike Hodge added two hits, including a three-run homer in the fifth inning.

John Rogers, who struck out eight and allowed only two hits in four innings, was the winning pitcher. Rob McCamant finished.

baseball

Then Morgan scored Stoitsiadis with a single to right field. Morgan advanced to second when Lanigan was safe at first on an error, then reached third on a wild pitch by GC's Mike Krauss, and scored Walter's third run on Scott Hille's groundout.

WALTER'S scored a run in the second inning when Frellick walked, moved to second after Stoitsiadis reached base on an error, and scored on Morgan's single up the middle.

In the fifth inning, Lanigan scored when he hit a ground-rule double, stole third and raced home when Dave Longridge was safe on an error. Lanigan scored again in the seventh after smacking a double down the left field line, moving to third on Hille's grounder, and crossing the plate on Drew Baird's ground out.

Trailing 6-1 into its half of the seventh, Garden City made a comeback attempt, scoring three runs.

Tom Kelly and Frank Vento each hit infield singles to get the rally going. A walk to Bob Milligan loaded the bases, bringing in reliever Dave Roberts for Walter's starter Chris Semik. Chris Malesev greeted Roberts with a two-run single, scoring Kelly and Vento. But Roberts got Mike Patton on a pop out to short and Joe Winnicki on a ground out to second, as Milligan scored.

Joe Weidenbach then struck out to end the game.

GARDEN CITY COACH Jeff Rutter, whose team stranded 10 runners, said the inability to bring them home coupled with Walter's three-run outburst in the first inning decided the game.

"We left too many runners on base," Rutter said. "When you're trailing by three runs in the first inning, you tend to get down."

Semik, who worked six innings, allowed seven hits to pick up the victory. Krauss, who yielded six hits and five runs in four innings, took the loss for Garden City (2-3).

WALTER'S 5, NORTHVILLE 0: Walter's Appliance completed its sweep of a Wednesday double-header at Ford Field (see related story) behind the 13-strikeout effort of pitcher John Fraser, who went the distance, scattering five hits.

John Stoitsiadis, Scott Hille and Scott Papich each collected two hits for the winners, now 3-1 in LCBL play.

Mark Persall suffered the loss.

Not enough rough for Open, bemoans pro

By Marty Budner
staff writer

IT WASN'T SUPPOSED to be this way.

Way back in February, United States Golf Association and Oakland Hills officials virtually promised scores at the 85th U.S. Open to be played at the majestic Oakland Hills South Course would be kept under control.

The golfers would not, they contended, again damage the 'Monster's' reputation with absurd low scores like they carded in the 1979 PGA. They were hoping for a return to the era when scores at Oakland Hills were disappointingly high, like the 1951 Open when the legendary Ben Hogan mustered one of just two sub-par rounds.

Why were they filled with such bold premonitions?

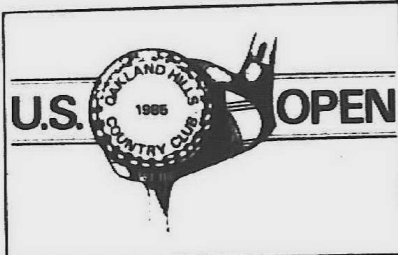

Simply because it was scheduled for mid June.

Everyone from USGA Executive Director of Rules and Competitions P.J. Boatwright Jr., to Oakland Hills greens superintendent Ted Woehle, to tournament director Bud Erickson figured the fairway rough would grow to at least four inches because of Mother Nature's normal rainy spring temperament.

But there has been little rain. The '79 PGA was held in August and the accompanying dry summer weather resulted in low roughs and fast greens.

THIS YEAR was to be different. The high rough and slower greens caused by the anticipated damp weather was to have hindered the world's greatest golfers.

The unusually dry weather has created a similar situation to that which existed in 1979.

When the 156 pros take to Oakland Hills starting with practice rounds today they will find a fast course. Consequently, Al Mengert, the host professional, reluctantly forecasts record-setting scores.

"Right now the rough is weak and there is no texture to it," said Mengert, who himself has participated in 29 major championships, including nine U.S. Opens.

"I was hoping the rough would have that fine texture to it by now to keep the golfers from reaching the greens," he said. "It just isn't up to what we had hoped because we've had July and August weather in April and May."

Consequently, Mengert has lowered his predicted winning score from 278-279 to 273-274.

"The course is in magnificent shape. It is set up for a possible record considering the abilities of the great players of today. I hope it doesn't become a putting contest."

"I hope they have to do something other than just putt. I would like them to show the accuracy of their irons. I would like them to show that this is a true championship."

"I've lowered my predictions," he said. "If the weather is calm and the greens will hold the second shots, there is a possibility a 72-hole record could be set. The course is primed."

FUZZY ZOELLER, the defending Open champion, and his PGA tour mates are now in town in quest of fame and glory which accompanies the Open winner.

Most of the tour's leading money winners this year will be present. Curtis Strange, Lanny Wadkins, Calvin Peete, Mark O'Meara, Corey Pavin and 1985 Masters champ Bernhard Langer will attempt to conquer the sprawling 6,996-yard, par-70 course in record fashion.

The key, according to Mengert, will be to play well on the front nine and be consistent on the back nine. David Graham, for instance, won the '79 PGA on holes 7 and 8.

"I really feel the championship is set up in the early going and the golfer protects himself on the back nine," said the 56-year-old Mengert. "You'll see the aggressive play on the front nine and defensive play on the back nine. The players will lose it on the back nine."

At any rate, Mengert is glad the tournament is finally here after months — even years — of preparation.

"It is a great thrill to play in the tournament, but it is also a great honor to be a host pro," he said. "It's a fulfillment of a club pro's dream. It's like being in charge of the President's Inaugural Ball. This is the Super Bowl of golf."

"It's something we've been pointing to for since 1980. Five years of preparation have gone into this. The Senior Open in 1981 was the preview to this. We held the '79 PGA and many other major tournaments so we're not maidens in it. We're experienced at hosting this type of tournament."

"This definitely ranks as the world's greatest tournament — ahead of them all," he said.

Practice begins today and continues through Wednesday. The four-day tournament begins Thursday and concludes Sunday. In the event of a tie, an 18-hole playoff will take place Monday.
