City election Tuesday

By Gary M. Cates
staff writer

Plymouth residents will narrow the field of City Commission candidates from 10 to eight at tomorrow's primary election.

The polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. and a light turnout is expected. Tomorrow's top eight vote-getters will compete for four commission seats during the Nov. 5 general election.

Seeking election are: Anthony Anason, William Bingley, Lloyd Duston, Karl Gansler II, Gregory Green, Robert Jones, Don Keller, Robert Kroeger, Jean Morrow and William Robinson.

Of the four seats up for grabs, only one is held by an incumbent — Robinson. Robinson, currently the Mayor Pro Tem, is expected to make a bid for mayor if voters return him to the commission.

The other three seats are held by commissioners who are barred from seeking re-election due to a city charter clause limiting them to two consecutive terms.

Those stepping down from the commission are Mayor David Pugh, Jack Kenyon and Ron Lolselle.

Three commission seats — held by Mary Ellen McKercher, Bud Martin and Mary Childs — are not up for election this year. But McKercher has resigned effective the middle of this month.

The commission is expected to appoint Dennis Billa to finish the remaining two years of McKercher's term.

THE FOLLOWING are the other candidates:

- Anason — hasn't served on any city body but speaks out on public safety and budget matters.

- Bingley — has served on various Northville boards, including being chairman of that community's Zoning Board of Appeals.

- Duston — Plymouth resident for five years, Duston wants to protect police and fire funding.

- Gansler — a former city commissioner.

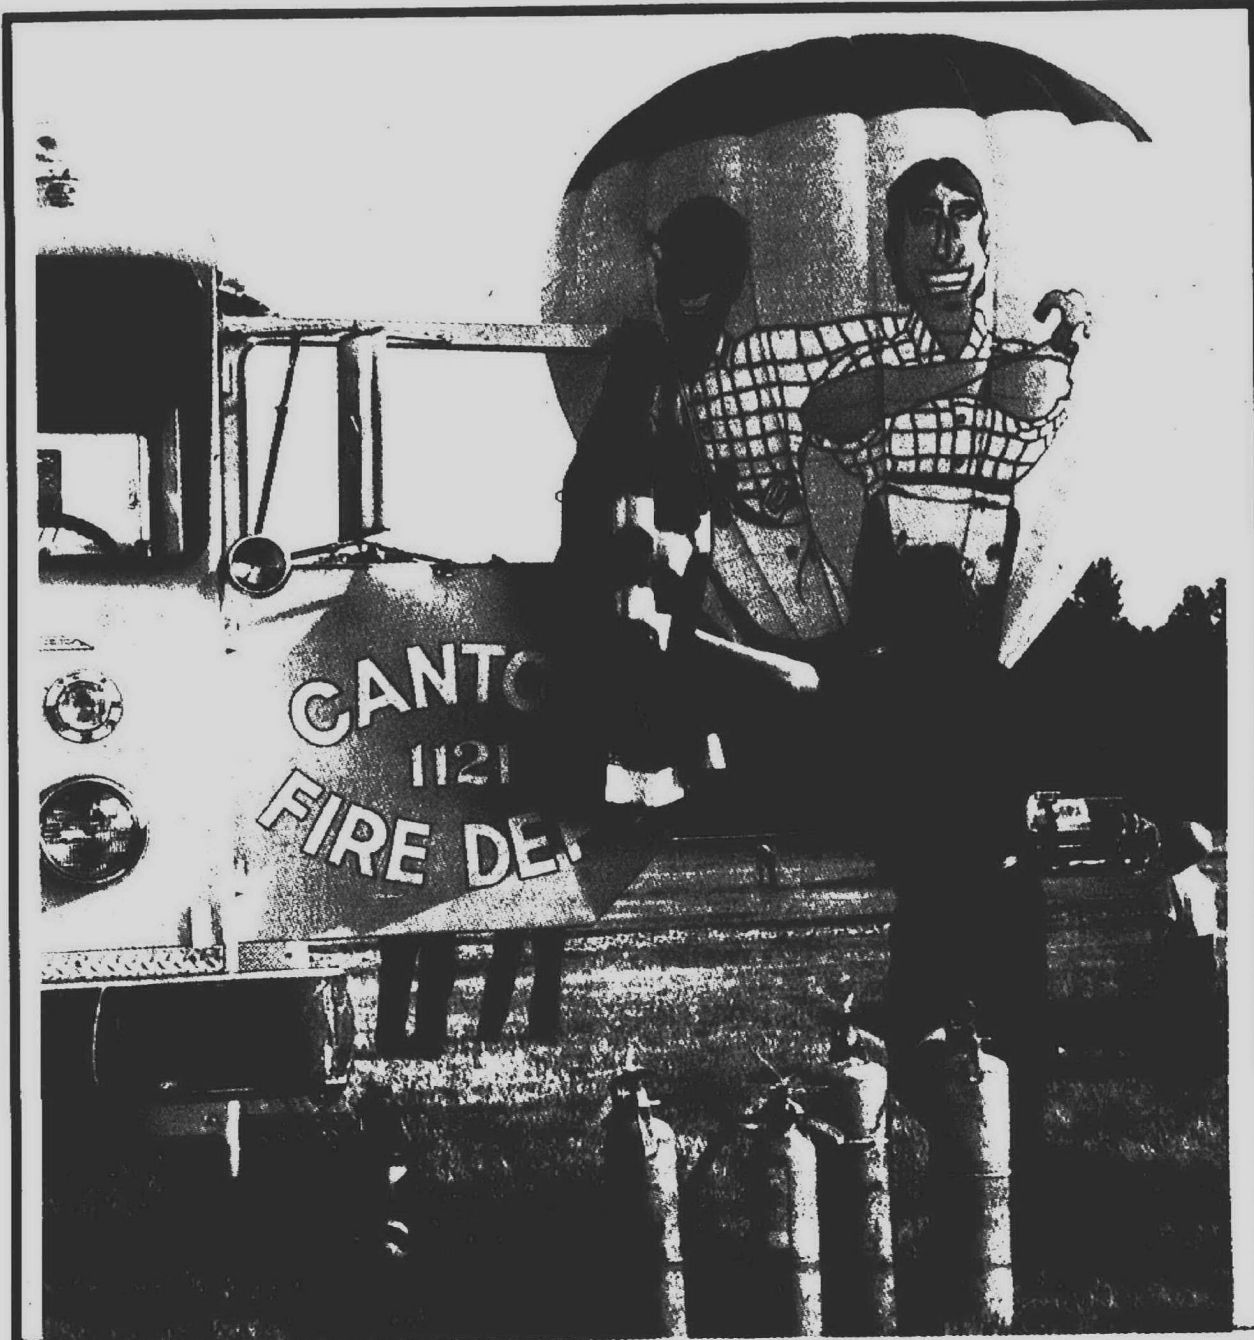

- Green — has sought election in the past and is viewed as a spokesman for the Old Village section of the city.

- Jones — a planning commissioner seeking office for the first time.

- Keller — chairman of the planning commission and past president of the Plymouth Jaycees.

- Kroeger — a strong advocate of the police and fire departments.

- Morrow — a strong advocate of the police and fire departments.

And the winner is . . .

Being in the right place at the right time earned Charles Madigan first place in the Observer Photo Contest, which was held during the 1985 Plymouth Hot Air Balloon Festival July 5-7.

The contest, also sponsored by the Mayflower Hotel and Quicksilver One Hour Photo, was judged by Observer photographer Bill Bresler and members of the Observer news staff.

Madigan, 44, of Roseville, won $50, a weekend for two at the Mayflower, a 16-by-20-inch framed copy of his entry, two rolls of film and free processing from Quicksilver.

He has been an amateur photographer for 20 years but never entered a contest. He heard about the balloon photo contest from a friend in Livonia.

HIS CHOICE of camera differed from that of the other contestants. They chose 35mm cameras, but Madigan used a Pentax with a six-inch-by-seven-inch negative and 90 mm lens.

His photo shows a Canton Fire Department firefighter viewing the launching of one of the festival's hot-air balloons. The fire department was prepared, with fire extinguishers, in case of emergency.

"I liked having the 'Canton' name in there," said Madigan. "There was good foreground and good background in the frame."

He set his lens aperture at f8 and exposure at one 250th of a second.

Commander quits township

By Gary M. Cates
staff writer

Plymouth Township's police commander resigned Thursday and returned to work for the city of Southgate.

Larry Hall, who was second-in-command of the new township department, resumed work as a Southgate patrolman Wednesday afternoon. He informed the township of his decision Thursday morning.

"I was not forced out, I was not asked to resign. I made the decision myself," Hall said Thursday afternoon during a telephone interview from his Southgate home.

The 31-year-old's decision appears to be based on several factors but boils down to a career choice. He resigned several days after a crucial township millage proposal was defeated.

"One gets to the point where one has to look out for one's self," he said. "It's the hardest decision I've ever had to make — I miss the people out there already."

PLYMOUTH TOWNSHIP trustees authorized Hall's employment in mid-

May and he started work in June. Because of an arrangement he had with Southgate, he was able to use accumulated vacation time to cover his stint in the township.

To keep his Southgate employment, Hall was required to return for duty Wednesday afternoon. Because of the time constraints, he said he was unable to give prior notification to the township.

"I wasn't playing a game. That was all approved through the Chief of Police in Southgate. Everyone in Southgate was aware of what I was doing and (Plymouth Township Police Chief) Carl Berry was aware of it," Hall said.

"I don't want to leave you with the impression that any of this was underhanded . . . it is all perfectly legal and perfectly OK to do," he said.

"Carl was aware of it — if he says he wasn't aware of it, then I have to differ with him on that. Nobody was ever lied to."

Berry and Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen denied earlier knowledge of Hall's Southgate status.

Troubled by 'rift'

By Gary M. Cates

In commenting on his decision to leave the Plymouth Township police department last week, Larry Hall cited a deep rift in the community.

"There are a lot of forces at work out there for a lot of reasons," he said. "There are fights going on between the various elements of the communities."

Hall, the former police commander, left the township after two months of work. Through an arrangement with the city of Southgate, he returned to work as a patrolman — having taken vacation time to cover his absence.

In his letter of resignation, the Southgate resident said his decision came after "extensive discussions with my wife, family, trusted friends and respected associates."

But in an interview Thursday from his home, Hall said he received unrelenting input in the form of anonymous phone calls.

"I LISTENED to it with a skeptical ear," he said but admitted the calls "obviously had some bearing on my decision."

"Every phone call I got was for a purpose — some to assist me, some to direct my decision."

The unidentified callers, according to Hall, gave him "a lot of the history of Plymouth Township" — in terms of the politics and the people involved.

"I got calls from someone who knew what was going on — someone who knew I was facing a decision and knew I had a deadline."

"They weren't threatening, just very matter of fact. The callers were sincere, they believed what they were saying, but I'm not so sure that all of it was factual," he said, adding some of the calls were placed to his home.

"THE FIGHT that is taking place there is no secret — it's known by people outside the area," he said.

"There are people there that hate (Police Chief) Carl Berry so much they would do anything to hurt him."

"The hatred there are so entrenched they probably are impossible to remove," he said, adding the feelings travel on a "two-way street."

Asked who he thought was placing the calls, Hall declined speculation.

Fast acting 5-year-old keeps cool in fire

By Dennis Coffman
staff writer

It was a textbook case of knowing what to do in an emergency that earned Bethany Lynn Wright, 5, a certificate of appreciation from the Plymouth Fire Department.

Bethany's quick thinking and positive action helped save her family from injury during a house fire that occurred June 10 at 12:30 p.m.

Bethany's mother, Joan, had just gone upstairs after placing a load of clothes in the basement dryer. She told Bethany to go to the car and prepare to go to McDonald's restaurant for lunch.

While the mother was on the second floor of the house, Bethany, in the driveway, saw smoke coming from the basement vent and yelled that there was a fire in the basement.

Bethany reported to a meeting place where her parents had trained her to go in case of fire.

Mrs. Wright saw the fire, called the Plymouth Fire Department and left the house.

She took her other child, Aimee, 2, and met Bethany in the assigned place, near the pen of their dog, Mut.

BETHANY'S WARNING to her mother turned out to be just in time.

When firefighters arrived at the Ross Street house, they found smoke and fire coming from the basement, and smoke accumulating on the first level of the two-story house.

"The fire had progressed with such rapidity, that upon ventilation by the fire department, it spread immediately to the first-floor kitchen," said Al Matthews, acting fire chief.

"The fire department made a quick attack and had the fire under control within 15-20 minutes."

"Because the fire spread so quickly and flashed over into the kitchen, family room and dining room only a minute and a half after it had been turned in, there is a strong possibility that Bethany's mother could have become trapped on the second floor — had it not been for the early detection of the fire by Bethany," said Matthews.

"Bethany did what she was taught at Hugs and Kisses (nursery school)," said Mrs. Wright. "They have visited the fire and police departments."

Bethany's instructions have even gone beyond the basics. "We have an escape ladder under her bed," said Mrs. Wright. "In the event of a fire, she has been taught to place it outside." The ladder provides a fire escape for second-floor residents.

Mrs. Wright said the drills are important, "so that kids are not frightened. But we would not have gotten through this, were it not for the help of our neighbors and friends, because we came to Plymouth from another state," she said.

James Wright, Bethany's father, a former Pennsylvania firefighter, apparently remembered EDITH, Exit Drills in the Home, according to Matthews.

The Wrights expect to move back into their home by the end of August. "But the kids are alive and that's what counts," said Mrs. Wright.

"It shows that a 5-year-old can be taught to respond. People are telling Bethany that she saved the day and she has been going around saying she saved the day."

"EVERYONE KNEW exactly what they should do," said Matthews. "It's important to meet outside so that it becomes known if anyone is missing."

Police arrest man in park assault

By Dennis Coffman
staff writer

Plymouth police have arrested a 29-year-old Plymouth Township man suspected of raping a 16-year-old Plymouth woman Tuesday in Hines Park.

Virgil Paul Daniels, a parolee, was being held in the Plymouth jail late Friday, after arraignment in 35th District Court.

Daniels was identified by the victim from a police photo lineup and arrested at his apartment in Plymouth Township Thursday by Plymouth and Plymouth Township police.

A plea of not guilty was entered for Daniels, who stood mute at his arraignment Friday afternoon. Pre-examination was set for Aug. 12. District Judge James Garber set bond at $50,000. But Daniels would have been held, even if he could have made bond, because he is on parole.

The incident took place Tuesday at about 7 p.m. in the southeast corner of Riverside Cemetery, in the Plymouth Road-Haggerty Road area of Hines Park, according to police reports.

The victim had been stopped earlier that evening by Wayne County Sheriff's deputies, who routinely asked the woman about her age, what she was doing in the area and other questions. The deputies left after obtaining the information.

The woman then was approached by a man who, she said, suggested that she walk into a wooded area where police would not "bother" or "hassle" her.

After she walked with him farther into the woods, she said he grabbed her, threw her to the ground and sexually assaulted her.

AFTER THE assault took place, and, as he was walking toward Plymouth Road, the man threatened her and told her to stay where she was, the victim told police.

She went back to the parkway and told sheriff's deputies what had happened. When the deputies found that the area shown to them by the victim was in Plymouth, they contacted city police about 7:30 p.m.

Plymouth police officers went to the area with the victim, notified her parents and took her to Oakwood Hospital.

Information about the incident was placed on the police teletype. Plymouth Township patrol officer Craig Schwartz thought he knew of a man who matched the description and contacted the Plymouth Police Department.

Plymouth police showed a photo of the suspect along with six others in a photo lineup to the victim, who positively identified him as her assailant.

The Wayne County Prosecutor's Office issued a warrant for Daniels' arrest on a charge of third degree criminal sexual conduct, a felony carrying a sentence of up to 15 years in prison.

Plymouth police also obtained a search warrant, in order to look for physical evidence such as items of clothing the suspect may have worn on the night of the incident.

Peace groups stitch an anti-bomb message

By Teri Sanas
staff writer

Local peace activist Joan Pence admits there have been times she has felt "nobody's listening... nobody gives a hoot for what we're doing."

Those feelings would wash over her as she manned her office in the Peace Resource Center near the Schoolcraft College campus.

"I'd sit in my office, and it felt like I was in a vacuum," said Pence, a 27-year-old high school biology teacher from Plymouth Township, who directs the local center.

So, to replace her nervous energy she took some colored threads and a swatch of muslin and began stitching a panel to illustrate her love of life and fear of nuclear disaster.

A SIMILAR sense of despair motivated a Denver grandmother to stitch the first panel that would connect into a 10-mile "ribbon" or collection of panels Sunday in Washington, D.C.

Called "the Ribbon Project," it was founded by Justine Merritt, a retired teacher, and some of her friends. It caught the attention of Joan Pence and peace groups across the country.

Last weekend thousands of Americans traveled to the nation's capital, and some participants were reported to have traveled from the Soviet Union, Japan, Germany and other countries to begin commemorating the 40th anniversary of the first use of the nuclear bomb.

On Aug. 8, 1945, the United States dropped atomic bombs on the Japanese cities of Hiroshima and later on Nagasaki.

The demonstrators' plan was to encircle the Pentagon building. But when they found they had so many panels, they included the Lincoln Memorial, the Washington Monument and the Capitol building, Pence said.

FROM MICHIGAN, some 100 participants left at midnight Friday on a 10-hour bus trip. On board were Pence and four cloth panels made by herself and others from the Schoolcraft center.

Each carried the same theme-message: What would you miss if the world were destroyed in a nuclear holocaust?

Merritt's original silk-embroidered panel carried the names of her family members and friends. Those made by local members included simple nature scenes and personal pleasures — birthday cakes and garden herbs.

AND IN the Detroit metropolitan area this week, other activities to commemorate the bombings are planned:

• In the early morning hours this Tuesday, peace activists here and across the country will take part in an art protest called the "Shadow

Project." Drawing shadows of human forms into city streets and sidewalks, they plan to recreate the images of victims vaporized by the intense heat of the bombs dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

A Farmington Hills mother of two who plans to take part said she will use chalk so not to permanently alter the landscape.

• In Detroit's Greektown, a rally will start at 7 p.m. Thursday featuring Georgia State Sen. Julian Bond, a civil rights leader, in Second Baptist Church on Monroe at Beaubien. The rally will be followed by a 9 p.m. candlelight march to Hart Plaza. Founder of a non-violent student protest movement against the Vietnam War in his youth, Bond hosts America's Black Forum, a syndicated television program.

ALL OF this comes, Pence said, at a time when daily newspaper headlines are declaring the nuclear freeze movement dead, and even peace organizers themselves are concerned with waning memberships.

Pence, who has been active in the movement for the past two years, said part of the problem lies in the inherent nature of grassroots movements; they eventually lose popular support.

In this case, she says, some fear bringing down the military build-up will hurt the economy and employment. Organizers argue, however, that more private-sector jobs would be created by non-defense spending than by military spending.

Another problem she cited was "we're fighting a tremendous infrastructure. We have no access to places (the Pentagon) where strategic decisions are being made." She disregarded contact through local congressmen, saying only a few sit on influential military-related committees.

OVERALL, she blames President Ronald Reagan for "stealing our rhetoric" through proposing his space-based "Star Wars" package, which she says is perceived as replacing strategic weapons.

"They (the public) think the people in Washington have the situation under control. After all, we're back to Geneva (the site of nuclear arms negotiations)."

What all of this means for the nuclear freeze movement is some serious regrouping.

According to Pence, the nation's 140 or so related nuclear disarmament groups are focusing on promoting a comprehensive test ban, "an important first step toward building trust between the United States and Soviet Union. Public education is another important component of that agenda."

"This November, when the freeze group meets again we'll be talking about this strategy."

U-M freezes tuition

University of Michigan regents last week approved an 8-percent tuition increase for out-of-state undergraduates and all graduate students for the 1985-86 academic year but froze tuition rates for all in-state undergraduates.

Tuition increases for graduate-professional students in medicine, law and the master of business administration program are higher than 8 percent.

"This action is a direct response to the ongoing improvement in state support for the university, with the expectation that public policy makers will maintain the high priority for higher education which has been evidenced recently," said academic Vice President Billy E. Frye, referring to Gov. James J. Blanchard's threatened veto of college appropriations for institutions who raise tuition.

All students enrolled in degree programs in the College of Engineering and School of Business Administration will pay an additional $150 per-term fee for the use of computer networks in their schools, a $50 per-term increase.

Judges selected Madigan's photo because of its clarity, use of color and content. Many of the judge's comments centered on the photographer's ability to tell the story of the balloon festival in the one shot.

This was the first year the event was held at the Centennial Education Park (CEP) in Canton Township and bad weather kept many of the balloons on the ground.

Madigan, who said photography is "a serious hobby" acquired from books and practice, is employed by Sunspot Products, a plastic molding company in Warren.

KENNETH HAUSER of Canton took second place in the photo contest with a closeup shot of a balloon on its side and its crew controlling it (see Page 3A for other winning photos).

"This is the first contest I ever entered," said Hauser, an amateur photographer for 28 years.

He also picked up the hobby on his own, mainly through reading about photography.

"I was looking for a story-telling type of picture," he said.

Hauser, an employee at Hydra-Matic, used a Nikonomat set at f8 and Fujichrome film exposed at one 125th of a second.

Hauser will receive a framed 11-by-14-inch enlargement of his entry, a roll of film and free processing from Quicksilver, $25 cash and free Sunday brunch for four at the Mayflower Meeting House.

Buck Wiley, the third-place winner, also has been an amateur photographer for several years.

The Garden City resident said his photo was "a chance shot. It was so beautiful I couldn't resist."

"When he sees something, he takes a picture," said his wife, Margaret. "He's taken several beautiful pictures."

THIS IS the first time Wiley, who uses a Nikon camera, has entered the Plymouth-Canton contest.

Wiley will receive an eight-by-10-inch framed enlargement of his work, a roll of film and free processing from Quicksilver and Sunday dinner for four at the Mayflower Hotel.

It was only fitting that John Zaretti, of Canton, one of two honorable mention winners in the contest, should take his prize-winning picture while in the air.

Zaretti, an amateur photographer, is district sales manager for Alitalia Airlines with offices in Detroit.

Zaretti was the first-place winner in the Observer Photo Contest three years ago, when he shot his balloon picture while suspended from a balloon himself.

He skipped the next two contests, because he was out of the country.

But this summer, he was able to convince a competitor — American Airlines — to allow him to take a ride in the airlines' balloon.

"The only contests I have ever entered have been with the Observer newspaper," he said. "When I won the Observer contest three years ago, it was the first contest I ever entered."

ZARETTI TOOK his photo from a hot-air balloon that was traveling over Canton Center Road from the high school. It showed another balloon at a lower altitude passing over the countryside.

He used a Nikon FTN camera set at f5.6 and ASA 400 film shot at one 500th of a second.

"When I get in a balloon, I feel like a pioneer," said Zaretti. "It's a great feeling, it's so beautiful. I love to be in the air. It's so peaceful and beautiful."

Zaretti not only is in the air, but he is also on the air.

He has his own radio program from 8-9 p.m. on WCAR, called "Opera on the Air."

Leonard Jacobs of Plymouth was the other winner of an honorable mention.

Jacobs, an amateur photographer, used a Nikon camera. He said he took the picture after he saw a balloon land near his house.

(Unfortunately, black and white reproduction of his picture, looking through trees at a balloon, was poor. Because of that, Jacobs' photograph doesn't appear on with the other winners.)

This is the second contest Jacobs has entered and the first time he has entered the Observer contest.

Jacobs and Zaretti will receive free processing of one roll of film from Quicksilver and a meal pass for two from the Mayflower Hotel.

Hall quits command

"We weren't aware of the fact he was on vacation and could return to work for Southgate," Breen said Thursday, adding that he was uncertain whether prior knowledge of Hall's status would have effected the decision to hire him.

IN HIS LETTER of resignation, Hall cites the millage defeat as the main reason for his departure.

"Despite reassurances to the contrary, it is my belief that the possibility of cutbacks in the police department now loom very real, and that in the event of same, irreparable harm may be done to my personal and professional lives," he wrote.

"When I came to the township," Hall said, "everybody told me the millage was in the bag. When it was defeated, that shook my feelings of security a lot — that the political people there misjudged the sentiments of the community that much."

"I just hope my resignation is symbolic to the people of Plymouth Township just how important the millage issue is. What is the commitment of the people out there toward the police department?"

Hall and Breen met following the millage defeat to discuss the commander's status, as well as the police operation. Hall was fearful the impending budget cuts might jeopardize his job.

"I was not satisfied with the answers I got in regard to my status following the millage election," he said. "He (Breen) couldn't give me a verbal commitment whether or not my position was safe."

"Mr. Breen's intention was not to bring up the millage again until 1986, and it wouldn't take effect until 1987," Hall said. "Since Mr. Breen was unable to give me any type of guarantee, I tried to do what was most prudent."

Breen has a different account of the conversation.

"The only non-assurance I gave him is that I wouldn't guarantee his job, but I won't do that for anyone," Breen said.

"I told him we didn't go through the exercise and expense of putting together a police department to abandon it now. I also told him that there's no question in my mind that the vote was not a referendum on the police."

"In fact, I told him that he and Carl would be the last two to leave if there were any layoffs," Breen said.

ASIDE FROM the millage issue, Hall indicated another factor which played in his decision.

"There are problems in that police department that need to be addressed that aren't going to be addressed," he said, adding that he didn't want to get into the specifics.

"I offered Carl an alternative condition under which I would stay, and it wasn't more money or anything like that. It was a conceptual change within the department."

Resignation went beyond millage

"Let me put it this way — there are people right now who are resentful of the fact Plymouth Township has started a police department."

(On July 1, the township ended a $467,000-a-year contract for shared services with the city of Plymouth and brought its own department on line.)

"If they don't resolve that fight, then you are jeopardizing the public safety of the entire community."

"It's time for everyone out there to walk forward with an olive branch in one hand and get rid of the knife in the other hand," he said.

"The one thing I knew was trouble was abrewing, and it was really getting to me being in the middle of it."

"Maybe, by resigning, this will allow Carl and Supervisor Maurice Breen to bring someone in who can deal with that situation. I've always had good cooperation with other communities — I can't work with things the way they are there."

"THEY'LL NEVER like Carl Berry in the city," Hall said.

Hall, who considered himself an objective outsider to the squabbles, said if everyone involved — including township people — put aside "the evil intentions" they would see they got one hell of a bargain.

"If people knew how much time and how many hours Carl put into that department and stopped to look at the job he has done, no one would have the guts to harass him anymore."

Plymouth Police Chief Richard Myers was surprised to hear anyone thought there were problems between the township and city. Myers and Berry both indicated the relationship between officers on the street was good.

Myers said the two departments have been backing each other up and offering assistance.

"The two departments are getting along 10 times better than I ever thought they would get along. Our people have gone out of their way to help their officers," Myers said.

"I can't say enough about how good things have been going on the street," he said.

"I don't know why there would be any friction, we back them up and they back us up," City Manager Henry Graper said.

"There's never been a police department that's been invented or started that doesn't run into some problems, and that's what's happened to the township — they've run into a problem," Graper said.

IN HIS LETTER of resignation, Hall said the major factor in his decision was last week's defeat of a crucial millage proposal. The township sought authorization to levy up to four mills.

Due to the defeat, the township faces budget cuts for all its departments — including the police department.

Also, because last Monday's millage election was the first since the police department started, many associated it with a vote on the police. Hall indicated the anonymous calls also touched on the millage.

"I know now that there were factors involved in this millage election that came from outside this jurisdiction," he said.

Breen, who discussed the phone calls with Hall, said "Whoever is doing it is doing it for their own selfish purposes."

"It's a hell of a thing when a community is trying to take care of itself and outside influences are trying to interfere and disrupt everything," Breen said.

As for the friction Hall described, Breen said he wasn't surprised.

"As for everything Larry Hall has mentioned, I thought we had made it plain going in that there would be a tremendous amount of pressure to unionize the Plymouth Township police," he said.

"I don't give much credence to people who don't identify themselves when they make calls like that."

BECAUSE THE suspect was a resident of Plymouth Township, the City of Plymouth police asked Schwartz, a former City of Plymouth police officer, to accompany them as they made the arrest Thursday about 4 p.m.

"Because it involved its jurisdiction, Plymouth Township was involved as a courtesy," said Plymouth Police Lt. Robert Commire. "We have good evidence and the victim appears able to follow through."

Plymouth Police Chief Richard Meyers commended the teamwork between the two departments.

"A Plymouth Township police officer provided us with good leads, which were a key element," said Meyers. "It was teamwork to a T."

"Commire and (Detective) Mike Gardner worked as a team and did a lot of hard work. We wanted to get the guy off the street."

Meyers said his department, under its new team concept, used individual specialties to compile evidence toward its goal. "We were careful to comply with constitutional requirements," he said.

Meyers said Hines Park has not been a problem this summer and has good "family usage."

"There is no cause for alarm. This is an isolated incident," said Meyers.

ARTHRITIS THAT TRAVELS
Certain types of arthritis don't move. Typically in osteoarthritis, if the knees are involved, then it is the knees that hurt day after day; once gout has selected a joint, that joint is subject to repeated attacks. In contrast, arthritis such as rheumatoid arthritis, palindromic arthritis, and fibromyalgia are characterized by attacks in which the arthritis "travels." One day the hands are painful, the next day it is the knees, then the pain shifts to the shoulders and neck.

Why this movement occurs is unknown. Physicians have observed that joints previously injured or currently under strain may have impaired resistance to stress and are likely to be targets for inflammation. Beyond this observation, no finding explains why arthritis travels.

Do not become discouraged if your arthritis takes an unexpected and prolonged course to a previously uninvolved joint. Certainly you should not feel that you "did something wrong." Rather, if you have "traveling arthritis," it is best to follow your treatment regimen carefully and accept the changing joint pain as part of your condition.

County wants to make waves

By Teri Barnes
staff writer

Plans for a water park — complete with wave pool and water slide — on a 30-acre site at Merriman and Michigan Ave. in Westland are being discussed seriously in the Wayne County Parks and Recreation Department.

"It's more than just the talking stages. We hope it'll become real," said R. Eric Reickel, who has been the county's parks and recreation director for a year. Reickel developed Michigan's first wave pool as head of Oakland County's parks program.

While Westland officials steam over the possible development of a state prison in the 160-acre complex, Reickel is bathing in the thoughts of water slides, wave pools and attendance proceeds.

"WE'VE SENT out some RFPs (requests for proposals) across the country, and four parties have responded," Reickel said.

"It's a $5-$20 million project, if we can get an interested party to do it."

According to the RFP, the developer would pay for the outdoor water park and turn over a percentage of the attendance proceeds to Wayne County for rental of the property.

Reickel said the county would benefit by $100,000-$200,000 a year — and could use the money for improvements in the parks system.

So far, the proposal has been advertised in general circulation newspapers and trade journals, such as Amusement Business magazine and News Splash.

BUT OUT of the four initial prospects, Reickel said, only one is still seriously considering the venture. (The developer, an Ann Arbor businessman, was unavailable for comment last week.)

The county will advertise again if there aren't any takers by the end of the summer.

According to Reickel, the property in Westland is a good site because of its proximity to such major thoroughfares as I-94.

The only other wave pools in Michigan are Oakland's, in Waterford Township west of Pontiac, and the "Big Wave" in Huron-Clinton's Lake Erie Metropark near Gibraltar.

The Wayne County site, however, is near a proposed state prison in the former hospital complex's Building. It is a matter of debate between Westland, Wayne County and the state Department of Corrections.

That doesn't dampen Reickel's interest, so long as there are the proper "buffers."

THIS ISN'T the first project considered by Wayne County officials. The site was unsuccessfully offered by County Executive William Lucas for the General Motors Saturn Plant. And before that, Lucas suggested it as a possible site for a combination food mall and boutique site.

According to the RFP, the executive considers the water theme park a "high priority."

Westland Mayor Charles Pickering is withholding judgment about the project until he knows more about it. A one-time local parks and recreation assistant director, Pickering said he likes the idea of providing additional recreation to neighborhood youth.

But he has reservations. The area is a "prime commercial and industrial site," he said, and Westland would like to consider developments that would put the land back on the property tax rolls and enhance development down the street.

"It's the county's land, but it's still the city of Westland. We have a home rule community and we ought to be involved in planning the facility," Pickering said.

The mayor said Westland officials haven't spoken with county officers over the development of the site since Lucas first took office 2½ years ago.

REICKEL developed the Waterford Oaks park wave pool in 1978.

He said he suggested building one in Wayne County by using private capital as a way to generate revenues to the county.

He said Wayne County's parks system is in dire need of "upgrading" to national standards. Currently, "the system is not at a level anyone should be proud of," he said.

Things are looking up, though. This year, Lucas increased the department's budget from less than $1 million to $2.5 million. Staff numbers are up to 55.

Parks have been getting greater county attention since their jurisdiction was shifted from the road commission to the executive.

"The Big Wave," the wave pool at Lake Erie Metropark near Gibraltar, is the only one of its type in Wayne County. It's the kind of facility county parks chief Eric Reickel visualizes for county property in Westland.

Seed caper sown

The Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce has planted a new idea in the minds of school children in the hope that it becomes a permanent part of the landscape.

The chamber hopes the "Pumpkin Caper" will give local children something to do on the traditional "Devil's Night" — the night before Halloween.

Tentative plans call for children to trick or treat the night before Halloween at downtown Plymouth stores and shops.

There also will be carving and growing events, planned for Oct. 27.

Saxton's Garden Center has donated small, medium and large pumpkin seeds to Plymouth-Canton Community School District classrooms, according to Charlene Miller, who is chairman of the Pumpkin Caper.

Miller said the project was made possible by the help received from people who packaged seeds, stamped envelopes, stapled and delivered completed packages to schools.

THE SEEDS will be germinated in the classrooms and the students will take their pumpkin plants home for summer gardens in order to find out who can grow the biggest pumpkin.

Seeds now are being distributed to the schools, according to Dick Egli, school district community relations director.

Seeds also can be obtained at the All by Hand Shop, Baskets N Bows, Dian's, the Mayflower Hotel and Plymouth Bookworld.

Students can enter the pumpkin-carving contest, to be held Oct. 27 in Kellogg Park and The Gathering.

Children ages six to 13 can participate in the carving contest. Pumpkins and tools will be provided.

Carving must be done within 45 minutes and will remain in the park until Oct. 30 for display and judging.

The pumpkin-carving judging will take place Oct. 30 at 7:30 p.m., based on originality, creativity and finished effect.

New Japanese 'Super Pill' Insures Rapid Weight-Loss

No Dieting — Eat All You Want, Pill Does All The Work

BEVERLY HILLS, CA — An exciting new "all natural" weight-loss "Super" Pill developed by the JMA (Japanese Medical Association) has just been approved for distribution in the United States. Reportedly, it can guarantee that you will lose more than a pound a day without dieting, from the very first day until you reach your ideal weight and figure. News of this "Super Pill" is literally sweeping the country. It's called Amitol and there has never been anything quite like it before.

"Flushes Calories Right Out Of Your Body"

What makes Amitol so thrilling and unique is its reported ability to flush calories right out of your body. Amitol is completely safe, it contains no drugs whatsoever. Its ingredients are derived solely from the Konjac root which grows primarily in Northern Japan.

Why the Konjac root? It has been used in Japan for over 1600 years to produce rapid and natural weight-loss!

Japanese studies verify that Konjac root actually prevents fat producing calories from being absorbed into your system. They say it does this by surrounding much of the fats, proteins and carbohydrates you have eaten with a protective viscous coating which is then gently flushed out of your system. And according to Japanese research this produces absolutely amazing results.

And who can disagree! Amitol (although brand new to this country) is already being called by many people, "the most exciting weight-loss breakthrough of the century." In fact, everywhere there are reports of easy and fast weight-loss from formerly overweight people (in all walks of life) who are now slim, trim, and attractive again.

Company Offers

Extraordinary Guarantee

You now can purchase Amitol direct from the North American distributor, and it comes with an extraordinary guarantee.

If you place your order now and then follow the simple instructions for a period of 30 days, you must be completely satisfied with the dramatic visible results or just return the empty container and Dyna Labs will immediately send back your entire purchase price. This guarantee applies regardless of your age or current weight level. What could be better than that! It's just that simple. If you've tried to lose weight before and failed you no longer have an excuse. Amitol is available, it's easy and it works without dieting!

Best of all, ordering Amitol is simple, fast, and reliable! Simply call Dyna Labs Toll Free: (1-800-441-5454) Ext. 911, and order with your credit card. If you don't have a credit card Dyna Labs will also accept C.O.D. orders right over the phone! All orders are shipped immediately by UPS, which means no delay and no orders lost in the mail!

$19.95—30 day supply, or $35.95—60 day supply. Operators are standing by and will be glad to take your order. You can order 24 hrs. a day, 7 days a week! Please don't wait to call. You really do deserve to be thin!

Dancing, movies frowned on by School Board in '20s

(Part 15)

After fire destroyed the Plymouth School in 1916, board of education minutes from the day Union School district was formed in November 1853, to Sept. 1, 1902, were found to be missing. It was believed they perished in the flames.

About 30 years later, Edward A. Carney, rummaging through the attic of his home at 238 S. Main, came upon an aged journal which turned out to contain the missing records. Carney promptly turned the book over to the school officials.

The mystery of why the missing minutes were in Carney's attic is unravelled when one learns that a previous owner of the house was John Henderson, a prominent citizen of the village until his death in the late 1930s.

Henderson was a member of the board of education for many years before and during the 1920s. He was continually elected president of the board every year from 1918 to 1927. He apparently had the old board minutes at his home, either for safe-keeping or for study, and they were probably put in the attic when he died in 1938.

In addition to being a longtime member of the school board, Henderson served his community in several other ways during his lifetime. At the time of his death, the city's annual report for the fiscal year 1937-38 had this to say in memorial to him:

"FOR MORE than 37 years, Henderson was a director of a local bank. He served well as a member of the board of education, a part of the time being president of the board. For over a period of 14 years, he was a member of the Village Council and the City Commission. At the untimely death of Mayor Mimmack, he was elected to the Mayorship. Many years he represented the City of Plymouth on the Wayne County Board of Supervisors. He was faithful in his work and always endeavored to give the best possible service."

John Henderson, along with Charley

past and present

Sam Hudson

Bennett, president of the Daisy Manufacturing Co., also were perennial members of the board of trustees of the First Presbyterian Church of Plymouth, of which Henderson was church treasurer for many years. (He might be a good man for the Kiwanis Club of Plymouth to consider when next going over candidates for their Plymouth Hall of Fame.)

Some of the Plymouth School Board's decisions during John Henderson's tenure as its president in the 1920s serve to demonstrate changes in society's attitudes on a variety of matters during the past 60 years.

In December 1917, for example, the board instructed children not to bring their lunches to school and not to remain in school during the lunch hour, unless specifically told to do so by their parents. In February 1918, the board dropped German from the school curriculum as a result of public antagonism to things Germanic during World War I.

In October 1918, the school board considered dancing as a school function but decided to prohibit it. Two years later, when board member Dr. Luther Peck, supported by board secretary Evered Jolliffe, tried to get the board to remove its prohibition against dancing in school, the motion went down to defeat.

THE SUBJECT of basketball came up in November 1918, and a committee was asked to determine the cost of equipping the auditorium for the game. When Superintendent George A. Smith reported the job could be done for $25 he was given authority to proceed to have the work done. Basketball for both boys and girls was started in the following year.

In March 1919, a teacher who asked to be released from her contract was told that permission would be granted only if she found a person to take her place. During the same month, the board decided to include a three-year course in agriculture in the high school.

In March 1921, the board decided to hire only those teachers "who can spend the weekends in Plymouth, and thus identify themselves more completely with the community during the school year."

In February 1922, the school board unanimously approved a resolution in opposition to Kate Penniman Allen's decision to show movies on Sunday at her Penniman-Allen Theatre. At the board's request, Secretary Evered Jolliffe inserted a notice in the February 17 issue of the Plymouth Mail, which declared, in part:

"Whereas, we as a board, feel that Sunday picture shows tend to give the boys and girls a wrong attitude toward those institutions which have always stood for the best things in every community; and because their running means public approval of open defiance of law; and because the influence of such approval is detrimental to the teaching of good citizenship in school, we are unanimously in favor of the pending ordinance."

At a referendum, held March 13, 1922, Sunday movies won out by a vote of 746 to 507. The school board which voted to oppose Sunday movies included president John W. Henderson, Charles H. Bennett, Evered Jolliffe, Ada Murray and William Sutherland.

When groceries were fresh and shopping was friendly

When he goes shopping in these so-called modern markets, The Stroller rushes for the express line in hopes that he can get out in a hurry.

But instead of making haste, he is held up while the older folks are fumbling with a check book, not knowing the price of some articles and then waiting to get their checks approved.

When this happens, The Stroller becomes a bit upset and wishes he could go shopping like we did in what is now called the good old days.

In our little town back home, where the population is only 3,500, we had what we called "the corner grocery store."

This was before the national chains came in and drove many of the natives out of business.

Going shopping in those days was a pleasure, because we went with horse and wagon.

IN OUR TOWN, we were very friendly with the Mason family that owned the corner store.

This was a great family store that specialized in fresh food — so fresh that they went to the country, about eight miles away, to gather the vegetables and other things that were available for the customers.

One day The Stroller, then a very young lad, was invited to join in the ride to the country.

the stroller

W.W. Edgar

What a day it was, and it has spoiled him as a shopper ever since.

The farm we visited was in a community called Bull Head and the community not only had some fine farms, but also a hotel noted for its chicken and waffle dinners. And it was the popular place for sleigh rides in the winter and hay rides in the summer.

ON THIS DAY, we visited several farms and gathered all sorts of fresh vegetables, then in season. We had pumpkins and many other tasty items.

Our family loved the large cucumbers and the yellow-skinned onions mother used so often in our little kitchen.

Going from farm to farm was always a delight. We picked what we wanted, then visited with the farmer and his wife for a while. Then, just before we left, old Mr. Mason paid the bill, which wasn't much.

But the trip was a real pleasure, especially when The Stroller was allowed to hold the reins on the horse and he thought he was steering it.

When we got back home, he had a flow of fond memories, not only in helping to select the vegetables, but the meal the farmer's wife served — gratis — because the Masons were good customers.

USUALLY when we returned late in the afternoon, the regular customers were waiting for the fresh vegetables.

They were sure of their choices and not taking a store manager's word for them.

It is with such memories that The Stroller stands and frets in the modern express lines at the market. Why don't they have lines, especially for those shopping with a check book? It would save the customers a lot of time and there would be no need for getting frustrated until the check payments are made.

And every time it happens, The Stroller stands there recalling the days when, as a mere lad, he rode with our grocery man into the country for fresh vegetables.

Oh, for those good old days.

AUGUST 5th to AUGUST 10th IS OUR HEADACHE CLINIC

In most all cases there is no need to suffer with any type of headache (migraine, cluster, menstrual related, sinus, etc.)

This is your opportunity to eliminate the cause of your headaches. Dr. Mashike has helped hundreds who thought there was no help.

If you want your headaches corrected for good without having to take medication call for an examination.

Nine Day Headache

For nine days straight I had a headache that wouldn't stop and nothing helped, not pills, hot packs, nothing. Friends and relatives had gone to Dr. Mashike, and my daughter Dolores, took me in. I was examined, x-rays were taken, and adjustments started.

I didn't think anything would help because the pain was so bad. At first nothing happened, but slowly after several adjustments the headaches disappeared and within a month I felt much better. It's been three months now and the headaches haven't returned.

If you have headaches, try chiropractic before pills get you down. I did and I'm better.

Anna Przybylo

Both of Us Had Headaches

My son David is 10 years old and has had severe headaches for 6 years. They sometimes made him sick to his stomach and put him out of commission.

My mother was going to Dr. Mashike and she thought he could help. David's upper neck was found to be out of place. After just a few adjustments the headaches were gone. A couple of weeks later David was playing soccer and he hit the ball with his head, the next day his headache was back. After an adjustment to put the vertebrae back in place, David's headache left again. (David's neck will be stronger in a few months, then he can resume normal activities).

When I saw David's results, I also started for my headaches and in one week they were gone. I have recommended this care to others because I generally feel better and don't have to take pills.

Carol and David Honeinger

There will be no charge for your initial examination consultation, and spinal adjustment. Dr. Mashike will see you and discuss the results of your tests without charge. If Dr. Mashike feels he can help correct the cause of your headaches (which is usually the case) he will give a low force adjustment which is very non traumatic, also at no charge. X-rays if needed will be billed directly to your insurance company.

LET US HELP

So many patients have stated that they wished they hadn't waited so long to come in because it was so wonderful to be without headaches.

Perfect Patio Entertaining

The barbecue has come a long way since its beginning in the Caribbean around 1610. At that time, Carib Indians taught people landing on their island how to cook meat on lattices of green wood built over a fire. Today, barbecues are more popular than ever and with the warm summer weather, backyards all across the nation are alive with the sounds and fun of outdoor get-togethers. Invite family and friends to enjoy the charm of an open-air cookout featuring genuine American lamb shoulder.

Boned, rolled and tied lamb shoulder is perfect for outdoor barbecuing. One of the more economical lamb cuts, lamb shoulder is tender, juicy and flavorful. And, because the bone is removed, carving at the picnic table is easy. Baste the lamb shoulder with a convenient commercially prepared barbecue sauce right from the bottle or combine it with Worcestershire sauce and soy sauce for a lively taste sensation. Try experimenting and creating an original flavor by blending "store bought" sauces with a variety of herbs and spices. Develop a unique flavor taste by adding lemon juice, mustard, a little wine or some other personal touch to the bottled dressing. Most pourable dressings make excellent marinades because of their acidity.

When cooking lamb, use a meat thermometer to insure perfect doneness. Cook lamb to an internal temperature of 140° F. for rare, 150-155° F. for medium and 160° F. for well-done. Nutritionally, lamb is also a smart choice. On the average, a three-ounce serving of lean lamb is only 176 calories and is a good source of iron, the B-vitamins, zinc and protein.

Enhance this delicious outdoor meal with a crisp salad of assorted vegetables lightly tossed with buttermilk dressing and served chilled. For dessert, offer a luscious, easy-to-prepare strawberry cheesecake. Using a pre-packaged graham cracker pie crust, this simple cheesecake gets its special flavor from mayonnaise, a dressing invented some 200 years ago.

When grilling, use proper equipment and follow a few smart safety tips for a safe and fun barbecue. Use long handled barbecue tools and wear barbecue mitts while cooking. Always use the kettle on a level surface and only outdoors. Kettle-type grills are a pleasure to use because they require little attention; they allow more time to be spent with guests and there is no need for a rotisserie.

For a flavorful lamb roast, use the indirect heat method. Place equal amounts of coals on each side of the lower grill with the drip pan in the middle. With the kettle top on securely, the heat rises and reflects off the surface, allowing the lamb roast to slowly cook from all sides and insures proper hot air circulation. For lamb steaks, chops and hamburgers, use a direct cooking method by grilling the meat directly over one layer of charcoal. For the distinctive flavor of smoked lamb, soak chunks of mesquite wood in water for one hour before cooking. When the charcoal has a thin gray coating of ash, place about 2-4 chunks of wood on the coals. Don't add too many wood chunks as only a few are needed to add a smoked flavor.

Enjoy the warm weather with a festive outdoor meal featuring delicious American lamb shoulder prepared in a kettle-type grill, a crispy salad with buttermilk dressing and a luscious cheesecake.

ZESTY BARBECUED LAMB SHOULDER

- 1 boned, rolled and tied lamb shoulder (4-6 pounds)
- 2/3 cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 1/2 cup red wine
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1 bottle (18 ounce) barbecue sauce with onion bits
- Dash of hot sauce

Combine all ingredients except lamb, salt and pepper. Stir well to blend. Sprinkle lamb with salt and pepper to taste and place in roast holder, position in center of cooking grill directly above drip pan. Cook lamb 2-2 1/2 hours or until meat thermometer inserted in center of roast reaches 140° F. for rare, 150-155° F. for medium or 160° F. for well done. Baste lamb with sauce frequently during last 20 minutes of cooking. Makes 6-8 servings.

LAMB SHOULDER CHOPS WITH PIQUANT BARBECUE SAUCE

- 4 round bone or blade shoulder chops
- 3 tablespoons spicy mustard
- 12 peppercorns
- Pinch of ground ginger
- 1 cup barbecue sauce

Combine all ingredients except lamb, salt and pepper. Stir well to blend and heat thoroughly. Sprinkle chops with salt and pepper to taste and baste with sauce. Cook directly above charcoal for 5-7 minutes per side or to desired degree of doneness. Baste lamb frequently during cooking. Makes 4 servings.

GARDEN SALAD

- 8 lettuce leaves
- 1 cup sliced mushrooms
- 2 cups cooked cauliflower flowerettes
- 1 cup diced celery
- 2 cups cooked broccoli flowerettes
- 1 cup (8 ounce) bottled buttermilk-based dressing
- 2 cups frozen, cooked French cut string beans
- 4-5 red radishes, sliced
- 1/4 cup sunflower seeds

Line salad bowl with lettuce leaves. Toss cauliflower, broccoli, string beans, mushrooms and celery with dressing. Place vegetables on lettuce. Garnish with radishes and sunflower seeds. Makes 6 servings.

TANGY LEMON LAMB KABOBS

- 1-1/2 to 2 pounds lamb shoulder, cut in 1 inch cubes
- 1/4 cup minced onion
- 2 small green peppers, halved and quartered
- 3/4 cup bottled Italian salad dressing
- 1 medium onion, cut into wedges
- 1/4 cup lemon juice
- 8 fresh mushrooms
- 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
- 8 cherry tomatoes

Combine dressing, lemon juice, Worcestershire and onion in glass casserole dish. Add meat, cover and marinate in refrigerator, turning meat occasionally 4 hours or overnight. On kabob skewer, thread bell pepper, lamb, onion, mushroom, lamb, bell pepper, onion and lamb. Brush with remaining marinade. Place kabobs on cooking grill directly over one layer of charcoal and cook approximately 10 minutes turning occasionally. Top with cherry tomato, turn kabob over, brush with marinade and cook additional 5 minutes or to desired degree of doneness. Makes 4 servings. (2 kabobs each)

EASY STRAWBERRY CHEESECAKE

- 1 package (8 ounce) cream cheese, softened
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 packaged graham cracker crust (about 9 inches)
- 1/2 cup mayonnaise
- 1 pint strawberries, sliced
- 2 eggs
- 1/4 cup red currant jelly, melted
- 2-3 teaspoons grated lemon rind

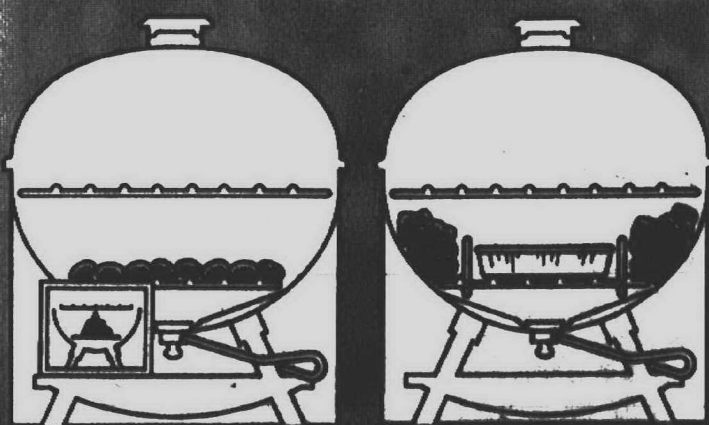

In large bowl with mixer at low speed, beat together first 6 ingredients just until mixed. Beat at high speed until smooth. Pour into crust. Bake in 350° F. oven 25-30 minutes or until set*. Cool. Arrange strawberries on cake; brush with melted jelly. Chill if desired. For year-round enjoyment, top with canned fruit instead of strawberries.

*Higher altitudes may necessitate longer cooking. Makes 8 servings.

HOW TO PREPARE COVERED KETTLE FOR INDIRECT COOKING

- Attach charcoal rails to first crosswire on outside edges of lower grill.
- Place equal amounts of charcoal briquets along each charcoal rail.
- Open all vents.
- Ignite briquets using starter of your choice.
- Leave cover off until coals are ash gray (about 30 minutes).
- Center a drip pan (slightly larger than the roast) between the charcoal rails.
- Place cooking grill in kettle; position roast in center directly above the drip pan.
- Cover kettle and consult recommended cooking time (in recipe).
- Add required number of briquets to each side after every hour of cooking.

Diameter of Grill	HOW MANY BRIQUETS TO USE
	18-1/2"	22-1/2"	26-3/4"

Chez Eddy's proves good nutrition tastes good

Americans are eating leaner meats, more fruits, vegetables and rice to keep up with the fast pace of the '80s.

In fact, four out of 10 adults have increased their consumption of fish, poultry, fruits, vegetables and whole grains, according to a recent Gallup poll survey on America's changing eating habits. The '80s also find more women entering the workforce, so there is less time devoted to preparing meals at home. Consequently, Americans are eating one in every three meals away from home.

Restaurants are reacting positively to these trends. Chefs have responded to the health craze with lighter, leaner menus featuring fresh ingredients and fewer calories. For example, the Chez Eddy restaurant in Houston caters to the leaner lifestyle of today's business executives at lunch time.

IN LESS than three years, Chez Eddy has successfully proven that lighter food doesn't mean sacrificing taste, presentation or satisfaction.

In fact, there is little that limits Chef Michael Nenes' creativity when it comes to using ingredients which are low in cholesterol and fat. Located in the Institute of Preventive Medicine at Houston's Methodist Hospital, Chez Eddy is always full at lunch.

The restaurant is dedicated to serving lean meals in elegant and contemporary surroundings. Menus are based on the dietary guidelines recommended by the American Heart Association (AHA): 30 percent of calories come from fat, 20 percent from protein and 50 percent from complex carbohydrates.

Restaurant Manager Lois Johnson, a registered dietitian, monitors the menus and enforces the AHA guidelines. A typical three-course meal at Chez Eddy provides between 650 to 700 calories, compared to 1,255 for a traditional lunch of rich cream sauces and sugar-laden desserts.

CHEF NENES uses local ingredients for his contemporary cuisine. All dishes are cooked to order for maximum taste and nutrient value; meats are broiled or poached to minimize the cholesterol content. Rice, fresh vegetables and herbs are some of the staples in the kitchen at Chez Eddy, replacing the old standbys, butter, heavy cream and salt.

"True flavor comes from unadulterated, natural food," said Chef Nenes, "all of it salt-free."

Rice is the perfect accompaniment to the delicate flavors and light sauces which Chef Nenes excels at creating. As Americans reduce their intake of fats, they are eating more carbohydrates, like rice, vegetables and fruits. Carbohydrates have less than half the calories of fat. A one-half cup serving of rice contains only 82 calories, is low in fat and is cholesterol free.

"Since we are dedicated to serving our health-minded diners with good, natural food, we make sure that rice is on the menu everyday," says Lois Johnson. Some of Chef Nenes' specialties served with rice at Chez Eddy are Breast of Chicken Gustof with Mango Rice, Veal Steaks with Spinach Herbed Rice and Rice and Walnut Stuffed Trout. These recipes featured here have been modified for use at home.

BREAST OF CHICKEN GUSTOF WITH MANGO RICE

6 chicken breast halves, skinned and boned
3 Tbsp. vegetable oil
2 cups sliced mushrooms
1 shallot, minced
2 Tbsp. margarine
½ cup dry wine
1 cup demi-glace*
¼ cup evaporated milk
2 tsp. lemon juice
½ tsp. ground black pepper
Mango rice

In a large skillet saute chicken in oil on both sides. Reduce heat, cover, and cook 15 minutes, or until tender. Pour off fat; keep warm. In medium saucepan cook mushrooms and shallot in margarine until tender. Add wine. Cook, stirring, until volume is reduced by two-thirds. Stir in demi-glace; cook 3 minutes. Add milk, lemon juice and pepper; heat through. Serve chicken and sauce with Mango Rice. Makes 6 servings.

*Well-flavored brown stock reduced by half.

MANGO RICE

1 cup uncooked rice
1½ cups broth
1 cup chopped fresh or canned mangoes*
½ cup pine nuts, toasted
2 Tbsp. honey

Combine rice and broth on large saucepan. Bring to a boil. Stir once or twice. Reduce heat, cover, and simmer 15 minutes, or until rice is tender and liquid is absorbed. Add mangoes, pine nuts and honey.
*Peaches may be substituted if mangoes are unavailable.

Each serving of Breast of Chicken Gustof with Mango Rice provides: 365 calories; 33.1 g. protein; 12.2 g. fat; 30.1 g. carbohydrate; 74 mg. cholesterol.

VEAL STEAKS WITH SPINACH HERBED RICE

1 cup chopped onions
2 shallots, chopped
4 Tbsp. margarine, divided
3 cups (about 6 oz.) fresh spinach, washed and cut into narrow strips
1 bay leaf
1 tsp. each fresh thyme, sage, and

oregano leaves, minced
1 cup uncooked rice
1½ cups chicken broth
3 medium tomatoes, peeled, seeded and chopped
4 veal leg round steaks (5 oz. each)
¾ cup demi-glace*

In large saucepan cook onions and shallots in 1 Tbsp. margarine until tender crisp. Add spinach and herbs; cook 1 minute. Stir in rice, broth and tomatoes. Bring to a boil. Stir once or twice. Reduce heat, cover and simmer 15 minutes, or until rice is tender and liquid is absorbed. Remove bay leaf. Meanwhile, pound steaks to ¼-inch thickness. In large skillet over medium-high heat saute steaks in remaining margarine, about 5 minutes per side. Drain well on paper towels; keep warm. Heat demi-glace in small saucepan. Spoon sauce over steaks and serve with mounds of Spinach Herbed Rice. Makes 4 servings.
*Well-flavored brown stock reduced by half.

Each serving of Veal with Spinach Herbed Rice provides: 481 calories; 35.8 g. protein; 15.21 g. fat; 49 g. carbohydrate; 104 mg. cholesterol.

RICE AND WALNUT STUFFED TROUT

2 lbs. fresh clams (in shells)
½ cup dry white wine

2 shallots, finely chopped
2 Tbsp. vegetable oil
1 cup uncooked rice
¼ cup ground black pepper
2 Tbsp. finely chopped cilantro
2 Tbsp. finely chopped parsley
¼ cup toasted walnuts, finely chopped
6 rainbow or salmon trout, about 12 oz. each.

Scrub clams; drain thoroughly. Place in large saucepan; add wine. Cover; cook over medium-high heat 7 minutes, or until clams open. Reserve ¼ cup cooking liquid. In large skillet cook shallots in oil until tender crisp. Add rice; stir to coat. Stir in 1 cup water, reserved liquid and pepper. Bring to a boil. Stir once or twice. Reduce heat, cover and simmer 15 minutes, or until rice is tender and liquid is absorbed. Shuck and chop all but 6 clams. Add chopped clams, cilantro, parsley and walnuts to rice. Dress trout, leaving tails on. Stuff each with ¼ cup rice mixture. Wrap individually in squares of oil parchment or foil. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 minutes, or until fish flakes easily with a fork. Garnish with whole clams. Makes 6 servings.

Each serving of Rice and Walnut Stuffed Trout provides: 296 calories; 15.5 g. protein; 12.1 g. fat; 30.7 g. carbohydrate; 36 mg. cholesterol.

This recipe for apple fritters is the real thing

If you're looking for good and wonderful varied food, look no further: The Pennsylvania Dutch have it all.

Their enduring respect for food has added many well-loved dishes to our national cuisine since well before the founding of the Republic, says Allison Pulver, researcher for Du Pont. (It's said that George Washington often stopped at a Moravian inn in Bethlehem, Pa., to feast on yellow and red-bellied trout, venison, asparagus and wild strawberries.)

The first contingent of Pennsylvania Dutch — not Dutch at all, actually, but Rhineland Germans — arrived in Germantown, Pa., in 1683.

They were well-equipped to cope with the hardships of the new world. The largest room in the sturdy houses they built was the kitchen, where their wives and daughters cooked up a storm, boiling and basting, braising and baking, mixing and mashing, chopping and slicing, pickling and preserving from dawn to dusk.

A typical farm breakfast might have included cornmeal mush, meat pudding, potatoes with sausage or bacon, fruit and cereal, corn or fruit fritters, a couple of crumb cakes and at least one pie.

The Pennsylvania Dutch have given us such delights as: Schnitz un Knepp, dried apple slices and dumplings; Philadelphia Pepper Pot, a combination of tripe, pepper and seasonings; Shoo-fly Pie; Scrapple, the sage-and-marjoram-scented loaf made of cornmeal and pork scraps; Chicken-and-Corn Soup; and many, many, more down-home treats.

Here's a recipe for one of them — Sweet Apple Fritters, an any-time-of-day staple among Pennsylvania Dutch families.

Apple fritters are best eaten warm, sprinkled with powdered sugar, cinnamon or kirsch.

You may find it easiest to prepare in an electric fry pan — a modern convenience eminently suited to this old recipe — so you can monitor the temperature of the oil.

You can make the batter ahead of time and store it in the refrigerator for several days.

SWEET APPLE FRITTERS

6 apples, pared, cored and cut into ½-inch rings
¼ cup sugar
¼ cup brandy
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
2 eggs separated
¾ cups milk
1 tablespoon butter, melted
1 cup flour

¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
Vegetable oil for frying
Confectioner's sugar
Kirsch

Place apple rings in a large bowl with ¼ cup sugar, brandy and cinnamon. Let marinate for at least one hour in refrigerator.

For batter, beat together 2 egg yolks, milk and melted butter. Add flour, salt and 1 tablespoon sugar and stir. Let stand 1 to 2 hours at room temperature. (NOTE: If you're in a hurry and don't have time to let batter sit, just stir it until ingredients are well-blended and proceed with the recipe.)

In a large conventional or electric skillet, heat 1 inch of oil to 375 degrees.

While oil is heating, beat until stiff 2 egg whites; fold into batter.

Drain apples and dip rings, one at a time, into the batter using a plastic fork or tongs.

Fry the coated apple rings in oil until golden brown, turning to brown both sides. Drain on paper towels.

Sprinkle with confectioner's sugar and kirsch, if desired.
Serve hot.

Tuna turnovers: Lo-cal dinner ready in less than 30 minutes

With a savory filling and a flaky wrapper of puff pastry, main dish turnovers easily turn tuna into a nutritious and low-calorie meal that can be prepared in less than 30 minutes.

Tuna Turnovers with Mustard Sauce, an updated version of traditional English meat-filled pastries, have less than 300 calories each and are convenient to make with frozen vegetables and frozen puff pastry.

Broccoli frozen in cheese sauce adds an accent of color and refreshing flavor to the filling of this meal-in-one dish, and does not even need to be cooked first. The broccoli and sauce are simply thawed in the cooking pouch, then combined with the other ingredients, including tuna, hard-cooked eggs and dry mustard. The cheese sauce from the broccoli flavors the filling and keeps it moist while baking.

The tuna-broccoli mixture is wrapped in puff pastry crust, which is simple to prepare with frozen puff pastry sheets. While the pastries are baking, a zesty mustard sauce is heated in a saucepan to serve with the warm turnovers.

TUNA TURNOVERS WITH MUSTARD SAUCE

10-oz. pkg. cut broccoli frozen in a cheese-flavored sauce
2 (7-oz.) cans water packed tuna, drained
2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
¼ cup chopped onion
2 tsp. pickle relish
¼ tsp. dry mustard
11 ¼-oz. pkg. frozen puff pastry, thawed
1 egg yolk plus 1 tablespoon water

MUSTARD SAUCE

2 Tbsp. margarine or butter
2 Tbsp. flour
¼ tsp. salt
Dash cayenne pepper
1 cup milk
1 Tbsp. prepared mustard

In bowl of hot water, thaw unopened broccoli pouch for 15 to 20 minutes.* Heat oven to 450 degrees. Grease 2 cookie sheets. In large bowl, combine tuna, eggs, onion, pickle relish and dry mustard; fold in thawed broccoli.

On floured board, roll out each pastry sheet to 12-inch square; cut each sheet into four squares. Spoon about ¼ cup tuna mixture evenly between squares. In small bowl, combine egg yolk and water; brush small amount on pastry edges to help seal. Fold pastry diagonally; crimp edges with fork to seal. Prick top of turnovers with fork; brush with remaining egg wash. Place on prepared cookie sheets. Place in oven and immediately reduce oven temperature to 400 degrees; bake for 20 minutes or until golden brown.

Meanwhile, in small saucepan, melt margarine. Stir in flour, salt and cayenne pepper; cook until mixture is smooth and bubbly. Gradually add milk; cook until mixture boils and thickens. Stir in mustard. Serve with warm turnovers. 8 turnovers.

TIP: *Broccoli pouch can be thawed in the microwave oven. Microwave on HIGH as directed on the package for 3 to 4 minutes.

SOME OF THE GREATEST THINGS IN AMERICA NEVER CHANGE.

SOME DO.

U.S. Savings Bonds.

Now Paying 9.49%.

In the 1800's, baseball was a child's sandlot game. Then came the curve ball, the slide, the crowds and the legends—like Babe Ruth. Baseball had become our national pastime.

Some things never change.

But one great American tradition has changed—U.S. Savings Bonds. Now Savings Bonds pay higher variable interest rates like money market accounts. Currently, Bonds are paying 9.49%.

Just hold Savings Bonds for five years and you get the new variable interest rates. Plus, you get a guaranteed return. That means you can earn a lot more, but never less than 7.5%.

You can purchase Bonds at almost any financial institution, or easier yet, through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work.

Buy U.S. Savings Bonds. Like baseball, they're another part of our proud heritage. For more information, call toll-free 1-800-US-BONDS.

U.S. SAVINGS BONDS
Paying Better Than Ever

Variable rates apply to Bonds purchased on and after 11/1/82 and held at least five years. Bonds purchased before 11/1/82 earn variable rates when held beyond 10/31/87. Bonds held less than five years earn lower interest.

DOWNTOWN Plymouth was buzzing with activity Friday and Saturday as bargain-hunters took advantage of the annual sidewalk sales.

The merchants maintained their reputations for honest-to-goodness markdowns of regular quality merchandise. That's what makes the sidewalk sales such a satisfying experience for the shoppers.

The item that seemed a frivolous expenditure a few weeks ago in the store, becomes a conscience-saving bargain on the sidewalk — at 50 percent off.

Sidewalk sales are a great place for meeting people and visiting. Met my neighbors who were raving about the wonderful new potatoes at the Mayflower Hotel. A few minutes later, I met some friends who were hungry and complaining because there wasn't a potato left at the Mayflower.

Right now I'm thinking about the things I wish I'd bought.

VERNITA WEIDMAN of Plymouth is the newest member of the Midwest Harmony Chapter, Sweet Adelines.

The group is keeping in good voice this summer with rehearsals at Kirk of Our Savior Church on Cherry Hill Road. Pat Evans reports they also are celebrating summer with some in-chorus events.

A salad supper is planned for Wednesday evening. At 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 15, the 40-voice chorus will resume rehearsals for a major September performance in Livonia.

Women interested in singing barbershop style are welcome to sit in on a rehearsal. They sound so good and enjoy themselves so much visitors feel they should have paid admission just to hear them.

For more information about the Midwest Harmony Chapter, call Marge Griep, 425-0017. Performance information for group entertainment is handled by Rosalie Dettloff of Westland, 421-9091.

CONGRATULATIONS to the Mayflower-Lt. Gamble Post Veterans of Foreign Wars Color Guard.

The color guard took first place at the Fourth of July Parade in Wyandotte, and first place and trophy at the Farmington Founder's Festival Parade, July 20.

Later this month they'll be in Toronto where they are entered in the Warrior's Day Parade.

THE PLYMOUTH High School Class of '35 will have its 50-year reunion Saturday, Sept. 7, at the Plymouth Elks, Plymouth Fall Festival weekend.

Advance reservations for the dinner are required by calling Eileen Archer Williams, 453-1680.

"BUCCANEERS and Books," the special summer program for 6- to 14-year-olds at Dunning Hough Library, wound up a highly successful run last week.

Children's librarian, Pam Rawlinson, and her assistant, Mary Lou Curtin, had 297 youngsters enrolled in the program.

The fun started in June and ran through July with Tuesday meetings at the library. And those 297 kids did a lot of reading. The black paper chain that goes 'round and 'round the children's room of the library is proof. Each link in the chain represents a book read by one of the participants.

Special events during the series included movies, a fencing demonstration, a treasure hunt, and a day when they all came dressed as pirates.

DON'T FORGET the ice cream social 2-5 p.m. Sunday at Tonquish Creek Manor on Sheridan. The social is a celebration of the manor's 15th birthday. Admission is 50 cents and guests must be accompanied by a senior.

Visiting with the 18-year residents of the manor last week was such a pleasure. They are a good group.

The dining room was all set up for the hot noon meal served Mondays through Fridays.

Sharon Thomas, housing director, gave me a copy of menus for the month of August and they sound very good.

For instance, today they had

... bargains gets the early birds out to Plymouth sidewalk sales. Traditionally, the Friday morning shoppers get the pick of the lot and this year, there were no worries of summer storms. Blue skies and sunshine smiled on merchants and their wares as the shoppers made the rounds.

Center serves women in transition

By Marilyn Morrison
special writer

There are many transitions to make in life, and not all of them are easy. Women who are considering further education or training,

Who are thinking about entering the work force,

Who are separated, divorced or considering either of these alternatives,

Who are feeling life has little or no direction, perhaps recently widowed or struggling with a personal problem, can find help at the Women's Resource Center (WRC), an extension of Schoolcraft College.

Established in 1974, the WRC has won national recognition as an exemplary program serving people in transition. Virginia Wilhelm, WRC coordinator, said 5,000 contacts are made each year.

MOST OF THE services available at the center are free or offered at low cost. And, in most cases, no appointment is necessary.

Some of the programs include: peer counseling, career information, child care referrals, financial aid, open forums, courses and workshops and academic or personal counseling by Schoolcraft counselors.

Although the WRC is dedicated to serving women, men are welcome to walk in for counseling.

THE CENTER was developed originally by several women on the Schoolcraft campus. They felt the community was not meeting the needs of some women.

Women from age 18 to 60 come to the WRC for help. However, Wilhelm said, the average ages of women served at the center are between 37 and 39.

"Most of the women (who come to the WRC) are from the community, and a majority of them are thinking about returning to school," said Wilhelm.

For the college-age student, going to school is routine. But for a woman or man who has been out of school for 20 years, going back can be a thrilling and chilling experience.

Seminars on positive self image and re-entering school are offered regularly at the resource center. In most cases, women and men who come to the center want to go back to school, but need that extra push to get them going, said Wilhelm. By coming to the WRC, their efforts are put in motion.

"Women are amazed at how well they are doing in school," Wilhelm said.

WOMEN COMPRISE 59 percent of the student population at Schoolcraft, she said.

To help cover the cost of returning to school, tuition assistance is available for single parents, homemakers, displaced homemakers and non-traditional job trainees. Displaced homemakers are those who must prepare for paid employment due to divorce or the death of a spouse.

Aside from educational and vocational counseling, the WRC also has volunteer peer counselors for women who are suffering a personal problem such as divorce, rape, spouse abuse, sexual harassment or the loss of a loved one.

The center is not qualified to give ongoing counseling but does have a very effective referral system and a wide range of sources for assistance.

The feedback from women who have worked with peer counselors has been very positive.

"They feel someone in here cares about them, and they know they are not judging them. The center is a place they can go for answers," Wilhelm said.

She added they didn't always have the answers but the counselors will listen and help women discover what they are feeling and how to deal with these feelings.

WHEN PEOPLE experience problems such as divorce and the death of a loved one, knowing that others share the same feelings can be comforting.

The center has support groups for widowers, single parents, divorced women or women thinking about separation, bereaved parents, and a Women's Sobriety group to help women to cover from problem drinking.

With the WRC programs, people realize they're not alone and that other people are suffering from the same problems, said Wilhelm. The programs also provide a relaxing atmosphere.

But, not everyone has to have a problem to come to the resource center.

The WRC also has a library with materials related to career planning, resume writing, employment and interviewing. If you want to match your career interests with the perfect job, the WRC has a Michigan Occupational Information System.

The WRC also works closely with the Career Planning and Placement Department at Schoolcraft College.

STEVE FRICHT/Observer

Virginia Wilhelm, director of the Women's Resource Center at Schoolcraft College, says women go to the center for answers because "someone in here cares about them."

The pulse of your community

Jones-Schipani

Pamela Kay Schipani and Keith Lindsey Jones exchanged marriage vows May 18 in Redford Church of Christ with the Rev. Winston Schlott officiating. The couple's parents are Frank and Lenita Schipani of Roberta, Plymouth, and Marjorie Kersey of Westland.

The bride's white chiffon over taffeta gown was trimmed with pearl-embroidered lace applique and had a chapel train. She wore a matching hat and carried a bouquet of white carnations, pink roses and baby's breath. Her sister, Sandy Latta, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Donna Repp, Sue Harner, Miria Schipani, Lisa Nieman, Sue Schweizer and Lee Drankiewicz. Katie Latta and Kelly Jones were flowergirls. They wore bustle-back taffeta gowns, the matron of honor in white, the bridesmaids in rose, and the flowergirls in pink. All carried long-stem pink and red roses and wore picture hats and lace gloves.

Bob Alexander was best man. Groomsmen were Bob Repp, Mark Jones, Chris Macklin, Wayne Latta, John Schipani and Butch Schipani. Nicholas Latta was ring bearer. The couple traveled to the Pocono Mountains after their wedding reception at the VFW Hall in Dearborn Heights. They will live in Redford Township.

If You Worry About What Your Child Is Learning In School, It's Time For A New School.

In many schools today, the things that children learn have nothing to do with reading, writing and arithmetic. Often, teachers are so occupied with maintaining order that they have little time to teach.

You don't allow your child to go unsupervised at home, and you shouldn't have to be concerned about what goes on at school. Perhaps, it's time for a change. Time for a school environment where your child can learn things like reading, writing and arithmetic.

Call Temple Christian School, for a change.

sweet and sour pork, rice, lima beans, tossed salad and dressing, orange sections, wheat bread, margarine and milk. Tomorrow it will be liver and onions with gravy, mashed potatoes, green beans, tropical fruit, rye bread, margarine and milk. Wednesday's menu is stuffed cabbage, oven brown potatoes, peas and carrots, oatmeal cookie, white bread, margarine and milk.

Roast turkey with gravy and dressing, brussels sprouts, apple-celery salad, prunes, corn muffin, margarine and milk will be served on Thursday.

All the residents have their own kitchens and can get their own meals. But when you're living alone, and most of them do, you don't roast turkey or stuff cabbage for just one person.

IT SEEMS those people, who tack yard and garage sale signs on utility poles, would take them down — as soon as their sale is over.

Mel Gibson is Mad Max in "Mad Max Beyond Thunderdome," third film in the adventure series that began with "Mad Max" and continued with "The Road Warrior."

the movies
Dan Greenberg

Mad Max returns in a tightly woven futuristic adventure

Thrills, spills and chills — that's Mel Gibson back as "Mad Max Beyond Thunderdome" — third in the series, this time in a world gone mad after nuclear holocaust.

Among the survivors are the primitive Children of the Crack in the Earth and the inhabitants of Bartertown, a sleazy collection of shanties built in an old strip mine.

Bartertown is aptly named. It's the local market town, looking (and presumably smelling) like a medieval junk heap where men in traditional armor trade for any and all remnants of what was, until recently, modern technology.

Bartertown is held together with baling wire and the willpower of Aunt Entity (Tina Turner) whose need to be somebody is indeed compelling. Turner plays it like an old-time gospel singer gone bad and provides a fair amount of pizzazz.

Bartertown's main energy source is methane gas generated from pig manure — and believe me, you don't want to be sentenced to work down there.

The methane works are run by Master Blaster, an unlikely duo: Master (Angelo Rossitto) is a brainy midget whose technological knowledge gives him a good deal of power as he rides around on Blaster's (Paul Larsson) shoulders. With a bodyguard like Blaster and his way with pig manure, Master is indeed the master of AUNT ENTITY DOESN'T like that competition and is out to master Master. Her armored guards and two nifty assistant villains, the Collector (Frank Thring) and Ironbar (Angry Anderson), are not equal to the task. The Collector has an amiable Sydney Greenstreet villainy about him while Ironbar likes to fight and takes an incredible amount of punishment. In spite of them, Aunt Entity needs help.

However, as luck will have it, along comes Mad Max, just the man for the job. Max is minding his own business, driving a truck pulled by a four-camel hitch, when the Flying Jalopy, piloted by Jedidiah (Bruce Spence) and Jedidiah Jr. (Adam Cockburn) robbed Max of all his possessions.

Fortunately, Max's pet monkey flipped a few supplies off the truck as Jedidiah Jr. drove off, leaving Max a nice long walk in the desert. The Jedidiahs are really quite charming thieves, a bit barmy and British Colonial of the old-school, but all right in the pinch.

Max chases them to Bartertown and that's when Aunt Entity makes her play for power. In the ensuing struggle most everything happens, including Max being saved from the Gulag by Savannah Nix (Helen Buday) and the Children of the Crack in the Earth.

To all but the hardest sci-fi and Road Warrior fans this may sound confusing and unpromising. True, there are a few spots where the dialogue is hard to decipher and a couple of points are not well explained.

Such faults as the film has are minor and its imaginative predication of a post-apocalyptic world, equal parts primitive, medieval and technological, makes it thoughtful as well as entertaining.

THE SET DECORATIONS, costumes, mechanical equipment and weapons are well-designed to catch the flavor of this strange world. The natural settings selected, as well, complement the film's inventive conceptualization of the world after nuclear war.

Gibson tops it all off with his contrasting rather plain, dry heroics, which punctuate this fast-paced adventure story populated by a lot of stylish characters. It adds up to a pretty exciting trip to the movies.

Tina Turner plays her first straight dramatic role as Aunt Entity, who rules Bartertown, a medieval bazaar in a city of the future.

Red grapes may make white wine

A friend was recently overjoyed to tell me about a most enjoyable bottle of wine he had the previous evening at a local restaurant.

When asked what it was, who made it and so on, he could not recall the winery, whether it had come from France or California, or anything else. But, he assured me, he knew I would know what it was because it had the word "white" in the name but the wine was not at all white. It was almost pink, a salmon color. Surely I would know.

The more perceptive among you now know that I do not choose my friends based on their knowledge of wine. I did my best with him in this situation.

But the point is clear. The names by which we call those wines that are neither red nor white are most varied. Ten years or so ago they were all called roses. It was quite simple in retrospect. And most of them were rather alike in most respects: sweet, heavy, lacking in acidity coming as they did from high-sugar valley grapes with a touch of red wine blended in for color. They generally appealed most to the non-wine drinker.

TODAY, A BOTTLE of "pink" wine (using that term generically) can legally carry any of several names (including pink). It can be, and is, as appropriate to call it a white, a blanc, a rose, a blush (though there are some legal restrictions on this), or whatever the winemaker wants to call it.

Whatever the name selected, they all mean essentially the same thing and only the law governing the name is the law of the marketplace.

There are actually only two grapes, white and red/black. All the color in a grape is in the skin. White-skinned grapes produce a white wine, red-skinned grapes produce a red wine, except when contact between the juice and the skin is prevented, disallowing the red from the skin to get into the juice. When this occurs, by chance or design, the juice from a red grape will be white or, depending on the amount of skin contact, varying shades of pink.

A "white zinfandel," then, is an off-white wine made from a red grape and is probably what my friend drank. Practically none of those in the market are pure white, but could be. The touch of color they have is most appealing and they are, accordingly, sold in white bottles.

While the making of a white wine from red grapes is only a scant 15 years old in California (it was done to consume the surplus of red wine grapes planted in the early 1970s as the wine boom was developing), it is an old and venerable practice in the champagne region of France.

There, the pinot noir, a black grape, is the principle ingredient in the making of most of France's champagnes and, note, these are usually devoid of any skin pigmentation traces. The sparkling roses from France, very popular in the United States, derive their color from brief contact between pinot noir skins and the juice, giving just a hint of color but not adding any undesirable color to the brew.

IT IS USUALLY agreed that the world's greatest roses come from France, especially from the Tavel region. Your local wine merchant should be able to help you select one or more from his stock. Alternative sources in France are wines from the Loire and from the lesser regions of Burgundy. They can, as well, be most pleasant though they tend to lack the intense character that Tavel wines have.

In California, the presently popular practice is the abundant making of white zinfandel. At the latest count there have been more than 25 white zinfandels released from California's 1984 crush alone. There is further a modest amount of "white," by whatever name, made from cabernet sauvignon and from pinot noir. The latter tends to produce the driest wine of the three red grape varieties, the cabernet the fullest. Again, your merchant can help you in your exploration.

From a marketing perspective it has been interesting to watch California wineries switch from use of the word "rose" to words like "blush," "blanc" or "white." Two of the more conservative, Concannon and Charles Krug, converted only with the 1984 crush. Previous issues had been "rose."

The few wines today marketed as rose continue the tradition of being rather sweet and rich, lacking in acidity. They tend to be sold in jugs, the classier varietal issues have more exotic names and considerably higher price tags. Most are worth the extra money. By whatever name, these tend to be light and most pleasant quaffing wines.

At bacchanal

Metropolitan-Detroit chefs will participate in the Midsummer Bacchanal, to be held from 2-8 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 11, at St. George's Cultural Center in Bloomfield Hills. Proceeds of the bacchanal will benefit the Actors Alliance Theatre Company of Southfield. For tickets at $25 per person, $40 per couple, call Actors Alliance at 642-1326.

Festival food

The options for food at Meadow Brook Music Festival range from bringing your own for picnicking before a concert to selecting from choices available at the site on the Oakland University campus near Rochester. A complete chicken dinner, called Bach's Box Lunch, may be ordered ahead for $5.75 by calling Bowman's Catering at 398-1030. Places serving food at Meadow Brook include the Cafe Promenade outdoor restaurant, with a $9.95 buffet dinner on selected concert dates (for reservations call the box office at 377-2010), and the Picnic Box, where concertgoers may stand in a snack line to order picnic-style fare.

Hall dining

Tourists visiting Meadow Brook Hall at Oakland University during August may have snacks or casual or elegant dining at the Summer Tea Room. There's an open-air porch, the informal Wilson Room and the Christopher Wren Room, all open from 11:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Mondays-Fridays. Sunday tour guests may choose a buffet dinner from 2-4 p.m. in the Wren Room. For more information call 370-3140.

Jim's Garage

A new lunch and dinner menu, described as Nouvelle American, is being offered at Jim's Garage in downtown Detroit. Chef Jim Maier, former sous chef at Bloomfield Hills Country Club, has put together the menu emphasizing fresh local fish, fowl and meat products, along with Michigan wild berries, cattail shoots, morel mushrooms, leeks and fiddlehead ferns. Shrimp Detroit is shrimp poached in Stroh's beer, garlic, shallots and rosemary. Veal Maier is medallions of veal sauteed in leeks, toasted pine nuts, and tomatoes sundried by Maier.

Breakfast chic

"Breakfasts on the Boulevard" are being offered at the Grand Cafe de Detroit, outdoors at the Hotel St.

Regis. English Layer (scrambled eggs with Stilton cheese and bacon), Eggs Benedict and a Three-Egg Omelette are among their menu selections. There's even a strolling violinist, Randy Bella, to accompany breakfast weekdays.

Italian touch

Sbarro, the Italian Eatery, has arrived at Lakeside Mall in Sterling Heights. The New-York-based restaurant chain serves pasta, pizza and parmigiana and other Italian dishes cafeteria-style. Hours are 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Mondays-Saturdays and noon to 5 p.m. Sundays.

Livonia Adray earns trip to Pennsylvania

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Livonia Adray, which wrapped up the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League (LCBL) playoff crown late Friday night with a 7-2 victory over Walter's Appliance at Ford Field, will be making its fourth straight appearance in Johnstown, Pa.

The Adray squad won't be there to commemorate the famous flood of 1889, but instead will be vying for a national championship in the prestigious All-American Amateur Baseball Association (AAABA) tournament, which begins Monday, Aug. 12.

"The team we had last year was more complacent because they had been there before," said veteran Adray manager Ron Hellier. "I think this team will have more intensity. They'll be up for the tournament."

Hellier has to feel confident about his pitching.

On Friday, right-hander Rick Rozman turned in a solid 8½ inning performance before giving way to reliever Jeff Price in the ninth.

Rozman scattered six hits, walked four and fanned six to pick up the victory.

ADRAY GAVE Rozman all the support he needed from reserves Jeff DePorter, two hits and two RBI; Mike Johnson, two hits and one run; and Tim Michalik, two hits and two RBI. Second baseman Pete Rose also contributed three hits.

DePorter, Johnson and Michalik got the call when starters Deron White and Jeff Kaiser were rested after each had played in a Connie Mack double-header earlier in the day. League MVP Todd Krumm also missed the game because he had to report for football orientation at Michigan State.

"I feel good about our bench, and they came through tonight," said Hellier after the three-hour, 20-minute game. "That was the key."

Adray found itself in the driver's seat for the start of Friday's third round of the double-elimination tournament at Ford Field.

On Wednesday, Adray hurler Mike Wilkins handed Walter's its first loss of the LCBL tourney, 7-2, tossing a two-hitter to go along with 12 strikeouts.

In the first game on Wednesday, Redford Little Caesars ousted Garden City in eight innings, 13-3, behind three hits each from Mike Hodge, Mike Betz and Don Taylor.

CAESARS' WIN on Wednesday coupled with Walter's loss to Livonia, set up Friday's first game in the loser's bracket as Livonia waited in the wings to meet the winner.

And for the fifth time this season, Walter's lefty Doug Doyle, with relief help from Dan Nielson in the eighth and ninth, beat Caesars, 6-4.

Walter's scored all six runs after two were out, the big blow coming in the top of the eighth on Drew Baird's bases loaded single, scoring two runs.

But in the finale, Adray built a 5-1 lead after five innings against Walter's and never looked back.

"We had a good season and made it to the finals for the first time," said Walter's manager Mike Keller, whose team has qualified for an NABF tourney Thursday in Pontiac. "We hung in there after getting beat by Livonia the first time (Wednesday)."

"And when Doyle was on the mound we always played good ball."

Hellier, meanwhile, indicated after the game that he would pick up Doyle for the tournament, giving him four solid starters to go along with Rozman, Wilkins and Krumm.

Livonia regional has different Sound

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Bob Atkins contends his Adray Appliance team is just as qualified as Adray Sound to compete in the four-team All-American Amateur Baseball Association (AAABA) regional, which begins Wednesday at Livonia's Ford Field.

Appliance wrapped up the double-elimination Detroit Adray playoffs Thursday afternoon with a 13-3 victory over Dearborn Vacuum at Eastern Michigan University's Briggs Field.

Appliance, 32-11-1 overall, takes on Pittsburgh at 8 p.m. Wednesday, while defending national champion New Orleans meets Columbus, Ohio in the first game at 5 p.m. The regional champion advances to the AAABA nationals (Aug. 12) in Johnstown, Pa.

But winning the Adray League playoffs was not without controversy.

Rival Adray Sound was leading the tournament with a 2-0 record, but was disqualified before Tuesday's third round after league director Tom Noland ruled the University of Michigan-based team had used an ineligible player.

"WINNING THIS (the playoffs) is really an accomplishment since we lost two of our top pitchers and our No. 1 shortstop early in the season," said Atkins, who is also the athletic director at Redford Union High School. "We were 4-1 against Sound during the regular season, and I was confident we had a chance to come back and beat them anyway."

The ineligible player was Cincinnati native James Willis of Triton Junior College (Ill.), who actually played in only two of four required regular season games.

Willis fell two short of the playoff requirement after league officials discovered he was absent when his name was entered in the Sound lineup two other times.

The outfielder, however, played in both of Sound's playoff wins, including a first round triumph over Appliance.

Sound manager Bud Middaugh, head coach at Michigan, and assistant Danny Hall, could not be reached for comment as of Friday, but league founder and team sponsor Mike Adray said he was backing up his league director 100 percent.

"BUD TRIED to contact me Tuesday," said Adray. "But I haven't talked to him because I was in the hospital taking some tests. We have not discussed it.

"I said at the winter meetings, and let it be known, that I don't want to get embroiled in the internal doings of the league. I'm just a sponsor."

"At one time I was very involved, but I keep my nose out of it. I'm sure Tom (Noland) acted in good faith. I know he was concerned about making the right decision. "Anything he does, I'm backing him 100 percent. I'll condone him right or wrong. I just told him to make sure he's making the right decision."

Appliance, meanwhile, features three local players, including University of Detroit lefty Joe Taraskavage of Garden City, who raised his record to 7-2 with the win in the playoff final over Dearborn Vacuum.

"Joe's been real workmanlike," Atkins said. "He's actually our ace."

"He's a very intelligent young man. When he throws a pitch, he has purpose behind it."

Summer basketball camps become coach's obsession

Larry Baker has been the head basketball coach at Farmington Hills Mercy High School for 10 years. He and several other area coaches have a unique way of spending their summer vacation. Baker has agreed to share the experience with us.

ARE YOU enjoying your summer vacation?" he or she asks me innocently enough, but as a high school teacher I always respond cautiously. It's like "Are you still beating your wife?" To respond positively or negatively to either question accepts the premise that I am actually engaged in the activity.

Is one really on vacation when he is not receiving a pay check for two months? Am I on vacation when I am caring full time for children ages 4 and 1? Was directing basketball camps for Farmington Hills Parks and Recreation part of my vacation? I stayed at a resort one weekend at Manistee, but when nine boy-crazy and pizza-craving teen-age girls travel with you does that still constitute "getting away from it all?"

Consequently, these thoughts of martyrdom faithfully bring a pained look to my face before I ever respond about my "vacation." But between you and me, I have enjoyed my vacation.

IT'S BECAUSE I love summer basketball. To some, summer basketball probably sounds like a contradiction of terms. Basketball is meant to be played in warm gyms on cold nights before rowdy crowds. Summer hoops are played in hot empty gyms on sticky nights. But I love it.

In my mind the camps I ran for parks and recreation were summer basketball. The pay was great, the staff at the Orchard Ridge Campus of Oakland Community College is always friendly and professional. Assistants like Mary Rosowski, Lisa Mummet and Annette Ruggiero are so good they could virtually run the camp without me.

My afternoon group was as cooperative and as enthusiastic as any I have worked with. Who wouldn't enjoy working with such great kids as Jenny Hyalop from Holly, Stacy Swanderaki from Farmington High and Ellen Austin from North Farmington.

But the key word is work. The camps were fun and fulfilling, but they also included the hard work and responsibility of lecturing, demonstrating and organizing.

ON THE OTHER hand, the summer league Ken Butler runs at Walled Lake Central is vintage summer basketball. Every time I drive to work in the fall, winter and spring I cross Haggerty Road. And every time, I wish I were turning north. On 11 nights in June and July, 12 teams labor in obscurity at Walled Lake Central for an hour and a half.

Ken has structured the league for the kids. No one fouls out and the score is erased at the end of every quarter. The officiating is terrible because we coaches do most of it. But year after year Ken provides a thoroughly positive environment for girls summer basketball.

The coaches nurture their fledgling teams in the summer. It is certainly a different atmosphere than the "real" season. No one is surprised when my 1-year-old, Andrea, joins our sideline buddies or when my son Christopher gallops up the sideline when the girls are playing.

The coaches give all their players equal time on the court. Though most mistakes get laughed off, the girls play hard.

Instead of a participation fee, Ken requires that the teams bring a full contingent of players each night. Though to my knowledge none of the coaches make participation mandatory, the girls who choose to play each evening have made a commitment to the league and their sport.

IS IT surprising that coaches like Ian Smith (Oxford) and Mike Green (West Bloomfield) are successful year in and year out in the fall season when their kids play so hard and with such enthusiasm in the summer?

The difference between Mercy kids playing Plymouth Salem kids this summer at Walled Lake and in the state Class A quarterfinals last fall was not the level of intensity or even the quality of play. The difference was that everyone played and both teams won.

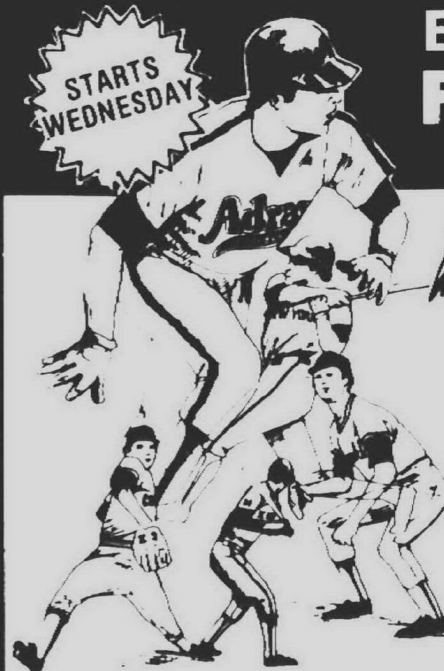

It's amazing how things change when you wipe away the score every 10 minutes. Less strategy but more coaching in terms of teaching the game to young people who only want to get better.

And no coach has summer basketball in better

WMGA's 50-year tradition

By C.J. Rieak
staff writer

Certain, specific qualities provide the foundation for the Women's Metro Golf Association (WMGA).

But perhaps the best insight into the WMGA's success could be found by meeting a single member — Agnes Larson.

For the past half-century, their histories have been intertwined and much alike. The WMGA has endured throughout the years with the same basic format: 26 weeks of golf, every week a different course. And Larson has been there, week after week, year after year.

The love of the game is the key ingredient in the WMGA's survival. That same love for the game is why Larson keeps returning.

MIND YOU, this affection is not for a social club atmosphere. None of the 80 members races through their 18 holes of golf so they can get a good seat at the banquet table.

Golf is No. 1. There's fun, there's camaraderie, but it's mixed with equal portions of competition.

As WMGA president Zoe Alpern of Troy defined it: "The purpose of our organization is to promote good golf and sportsmanship — not one over the other."

That's the way it was back in 1936, in the WMGA's first season, and that's the way it remains today.

"There's been very little (change)," said Larson, now 77 and living in Farmington, and the only remaining charter member. "We've always played USGA rules, and it's always been very strict."

"That's what's made the organization so great. It's what's kept the organization as good as it is."

THE IDEA for the WMGA was pieced together by Bob Sutherland, who served as the golf pro at Sylvan Glen in the '30s.

"There was a district association for private club (women) golfers," Larson recalled. "Mr. Sutherland's idea was to provide something for the public links players."

With Sutherland's help, the WMGA was formed in the fall of 1935, with play starting the following spring. The formula was simple: weekly tournaments at different public courses throughout the metro Detroit area, starting in early May and continuing through September.

Membership was originally limited to 100. It has since been reduced to 80, due more to the restraints of time available on certain courses than lack of members.

"We don't have a big turnover, really," said Alpern. Larson added, "We've always had a waiting list here."

golf

Members come from throughout the Detroit area. Recording secretary Kate Christy is from Rochester Hills, past president and current advisory board member Donna Fegley lives in Southfield; Ducky McEwen, another advisory board member, and treasurer Judy Muller are from Bloomfield Hills. Livonia, Plymouth and West Bloomfield are also represented.

THOSE WISHING to join the WMGA must be sponsored by two current members, then approved by the executive board. Many things are considered, Alpern said, including handicap. But it isn't the only thing.

"We try to keep a balanced number in each flight," Alpern said. The WMGA is divided into four flights. Handicaps, determined by USGA standards, are updated each month, with members changing flights according to performance.

"The competition is nice," said Alpern, a first-flight champion in the Observer & Eccentric Women's Golf Tournament in 1982 and 1983. "But winning isn't everything with them."

Strict adherence to the rules of the game is important, however. The association's rules committee plays each course on the schedule prior to the WMGA's appearance there to determine local rulings. Monthly meetings cover a variety of topics, and rules interpretation gets a fair amount of attention.

The WMGA will celebrate its 50th anniversary Aug. 14 at its Burroughs Farms tournament. Joining its current members will be more than 50 past members, invited back for the celebration.

LARSON WILL be there, just as she has for the past 49 years. She learned to play as a young girl at a course opened by her parents — Lancaster Hills, which occupied the northeast corner of Telegraph and 12 Mile in Southfield until the late '60s. Lancaster Hills was a regular stop on the WMGA tour.

"To tell the truth," Larson said of the upcoming anniversary, "I never really thought about it much until lately. I just kept showing up every year."

"I feel very fortunate to have had the good health to play all these years."

Playing and playing well. Now in third flight, Larson can still shoot around 100 for 18 holes, and she won the third-flight championship in the WMGA's match tournament at Hartland Glen July 22-24.

"I'll play golf as long as I can swing a club," Larson said.

Controversy stirs playoff

PLYMOUTH SALEM product Mickey Madsen, who dropped out of U-D last winter, is the team's starting second baseman.

"Mickey didn't play in the spring, but he's coming on and rounding into shape," Atkins said. "He runs well and turned the double play a few times during the playoffs."

One of the team's catchers is Catholic Central grad John Judge, now at Michigan State.

"He's our backup catcher and leader — just a heads-up kid," said Atkins, who guided Appliance to the 1978 national AAABA crown.

The team's top hitter is infielder Rich Maloney of Western Michigan, who "makes us go," said Atkins. Outfielder Rich Browne leads the team in run production (homers and RBI).

New Orleans, a collection of University of New Orleans players, is the regional favorite, but Atkins believes his team, along with Columbus (featuring 14 Ohio State players) and Pittsburgh can make a run.

"It's a tough regional," said the Appliance coach. "New Orleans is a good baseball team, but we've been competitive with them in the past."

Jockey DePass heads pack at DRC

By C.J. Rieak
staff writer

The description of a jockey's life, according to Richard DePass:
"My career has been up and down, up and down, up and down. I just try to go from day-to-day."

DePass intended no sarcasm. He's been thrown from his mount, and he's suffered his share of injuries. But while that's in the past, there was no hint of humor as he spoke of the sport that has been his livelihood since he was 17.

Now 32, DePass' life in the saddle has had its share of ups and downs, both of which have left their mark on him. He enjoys his current run of success at Livonia's Ladbroke DRC track, but tempers it with modesty and realism; he acknowledges the milestones of his 15-year career, but at the same time is saddened by those that have eluded him.

LAST THURSDAY DePass, a native of Kingston, Jamaica, who is living in Redford during the DRC season, rode to his 1,000th American victory. He tops the DRC victory list with 108 for the meet (through Thursday), more than 25 ahead of his nearest challenger.

In 1977, DePass won a total of 197 races at Churchill Downs, Tampa Bay Downs and Keeneland. He was Keeneland's leading jockey with 25 victories that year. At Tampa Bay Downs in 1980, DePass rode seven straight winners in a single day. Earlier this year, he tied a DRC record with six victories in eight mounts.

Such accomplishments should make DePass a giant in a sport of diminutive men. There's one person who wouldn't agree, however — DePass.

"My agent — Frank 'the Greek' (Garoufalis) — he's tough, boy," said DePass, adding that his success at DRC is "due to him. He could take any 10 riders in the room and make them the top winner."

Indeed, it was Garoufalis' willingness to represent DePass that lured the jockey to DRC from Maryland (last year) and Miami (in 1983).

DePass' CAREER as a jockey got its start when an uncle brought some horses from England to Jamaica. The teen-ager took an interest in working with the animals and, when a friend saw him riding, he commented that DePass looked like a natural jockey.

DePass raced in Jamaica for nearly three years, winning 178 races. In 1973 he left his homeland and came to Miami because "basically, the money (in Jamaica) wasn't as good."

After some early success, DePass experienced a streak of injuries that nearly ended his career. In 1978, he suffered a broken arm when he was kicked in the arm. The injury sidelined him for five months.

The following year he was bumped from his horse and broke his collarbone. But as soon as DePass recovered he was hurt again, this time suffering multiple injuries. Another horse cut into DePass' mount, forcing it into the rail. DePass fell onto the rail, breaking his leg in two places and his pelvis.

THE INJURY initially paralyzed his left leg, which would have ended his riding career. But the nerve damage healed and DePass returned a year later, in 1981.

"Since I've been in this country, I figure I've missed four years," said DePass. "The hard thing about getting hurt is that it's hard to get back into the groove. It takes five or six months to heal, then three or four months to get hot again."

At least part of the problem is finding good rides after a long layoff, DePass noted. "People don't ride you unless you're hot."

DePass is hot now, meaning he gets a good share of choice rides. But he remains steadfastly realistic, a product of his past years of misfortune.

"All the wins, that's something you can reflect on later on," he said. "Any 10 riders could have won on those horses. I'm glad I rode that many, but I look back over the years and wonder how many more I could have had."

As DePass has learned, what might have been is no easier to figure than what might be. Which is why he tackles life "day-to-day. I'll take what comes."

• A QUALITY EFFORT

Plymouth-Canton Quality Construction won its second straight Southgate Baseball Tournament for 11-12 year olds by defeating an all-star team from the Plymouth-Canton Junior Baseball League 14-12 in the final game.

Trailing 11-10 with two out in the final inning, Quality tied the game on a double by K.C. Kirkpatrick and won on Tom Noonan's dramatic three-run homer. Noonan was 4-for-4 on the day.

Quality, 4-1 in the tourney, defeated Southgate, Riverview and the Plymouth Americans twice. The one loss was inflicted by the PCJBL all-stars.

Team members include Andy Albus, Jake Baker, Tracey Ewald, Eric Galaradi, Jason McLennaghan, Pat Mosker, Jon Paupore, Jason Riggs, Scott Rodgers, Aaron Rumberger and Don Williams.

The team is managed by Jack Ewald and coached by Dave McLennaghan, Dan Noonan and Dale Rumberger.

• RED SOX WIN PCJBL SERIES

The Red Sox (18-1) won the best of three Plymouth-Canton Junior Baseball League A (12-under) World Series sweeping the Reds two straight.

Last Monday, the Red Sox outslugged the Reds 10-7 at McClumpha Park. On Tuesday, Scott Bright shut the Reds out for a 2-0 victory.

The Red Sox, coached by Paul Overs, are Paul Overs, Jr., Scott Bright, Eddie Gundry, John Knowlson, Kip Melson, Pat Melson, Al Hysko, Kevin DeMann, Scott McCreadie, Chris Bagozzi, Scott Dittmer, Chris Hromek and Bill Talbot.

The Reds (16-3) are coached by George Dingeldey.

• ELI ZARET HOSTS PLYMOUTH GOLF OUTING

WDIV-TV sportscaster Eli Zaret will host the first golf outing for the benefit of the American Diabetes Association of Michigan Monday, Aug. 19 at Dun Rovin Golf Club in Plymouth.

The outing will be a scrambles tournament with a guest celebrity accompanying each foursome.

A 1985 Chevy Celebrity will be given to the first hole-in-one recorded.

Tickets are $150 and include golf, cart, three meals an open bar and entertainment.

Proceeds go to American Diabetes Association of Michigan.

A summertime hoop obsession

perspective than Salem's Fred Thomann. I wonder if the people in Plymouth realize how much he has given their athletes this summer.

But Fred, like the rest of us, gets a little strange in the summer, too. Unless I was hallucinating (that's a possibility after a couple of days at team camp) I saw Fred's kids actually playing (or attempting to play) a zone defense. Maybe Fred had been hallucinating. In the fall no team in the area will be tougher than the Rocks, but don't count on seeing that zone again.

FRED IS A confirmed summer hoops junkie, and he is the one who got me turned on to team camp. I formerly resisted the notion of taking a group of players to a scrimmage camp for a week because most camp directors sell it as a coaches' opportunity to practice and play games before we are officially allowed to practice as a school-sanctioned team in August.

That seemed like a lousy idea to me — have your kids pay to practice. The real season is plenty long enough. Even the two seasons my teams won state championships the players and coaches were tired of each other and practice by the end of the season.

But Fred assured me that the camp run by Jim Anderson (Traverse City) and Larry Glass (Leland) was in line with my goals for the summer: building individual confidence and presenting the girls with chances to play and play, then play some more.

What he didn't tell me was how rewarding it would be to spend a week with other summer hoops junkies like myself. At the dorm the coaches share ideas, relive past victories, and commiserate about past defeats. The only disappointment was how much garbage I had to bring home as a consequence. When you jot down new plays on napkins, old envelopes and potato chip bags, you can't throw anything away.

THIS YEAR I preceded the team camp with a trip to Manistee where host Mike Munro, the most severely addicted girls basketball junkie I know, hooked up some of the best teams in the state for a weekend.

On the first day we scrimmaged last year's state Class A finalists Flint Northwestern and Benton Harbor. What an opportunity for the girls to measure themselves against some of the state's most talented players.

Those challenges are great for the girls to experience, but playing girls from such far-flung locations as DeTour and Sarnia at team camp was just as challenging when our feet got sore and our legs got tired. One player summed it up when she told me, "I love it here at camp because all you do is wake up and play basketball until you go to sleep."

Each summer, it seems through hard work an individual dramatically improves her overall playing level and steps forward to play with new confidence. This summer Missy Duczynski came into her own as a dominant post position player. In June I never dreamed that she would be drawing compliments from college coaches in July.

Watching someone like Missy improve her individual skills is pure joy if you are a teacher. But if you are a coach summer hoops is about becoming a team as well. In that light the evenings we spent building bonfires on the Lake Michigan beach (none of us will forget Maureen Scullen's discovery of the "burning bush") or riding in the bumper boats at Arnie's Fun Land were just as important as anything we did together in a gym this summer.

BASKETBALL OBSERVATIONS? Of course I have a few after another summer of hoops. Flint Northwestern is the Class A team to beat in the state just as Salem is in Observeland. You can look for Cass Tech and Benton Harbor to bounce back stronger than anyone expects. Waterford Kettering will reign supreme in their region.

Mercy? Since I'm only now beginning to believe Chris McCosky's springtime prediction that Michelle Fryatt will be one of the best point guards around, I think I'll leave the rest of the predictions about the Marlins to him as well.

Personal observations? I thank my cohort Mike King for sharing summer hoops adventures again, and thank my wife Barb and the kids for letting me indulge myself in games again. It was fun.

I also appreciate Chris letting me take his column around the block for a spin. But he can have the keys back now. After all, I'm on vacation. Ironically, now that summer basketball is past I am more nearly "vacationing" — but enjoying it less.
