Of those who noticed changes, the majority (23 percent) pointed to more police visibility. Other changes observed include less visibility (6 percent), friendlier officers (3 percent), more patrol (3 percent), more tickets and new patrol car markings (both at 2 percent).

'The 61 percent doesn't surprise me and it doesn't concern me either," said Police Chief Richard Myers. "The 23 percent at more visibility - I didn't think it would be that high.

"Most of the changes which we implemented are internal, and possibly cause some external indication such as more patrol and visibility," he said, adding the survey was conducted just one month after changes took effect.

Navy lovers spend day on the river

By Jean Adamczak staff writer

Usually we think of Michigan's Great Lakes as a splendid source of enjoyment and pleasure for boaters, swimmers and vactioneers.

But there are some people who see the Great Lakes as important assets which keep the country strong militarily and economically.

Ed Jacques of Farmington Hills is such a person. The retired Michigan Bell employee is a member of the Navy League. He sees his membership as helping promoted the use of the waterways for defense and for shipping. He joins 200 members in the metropolitan Detroit area in promoting these

THE LEAGUE numbers 45,000 nationally. It is comprised of all civilians, and works to support servicemen in the Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard and Merchant Marines.

"The members really enjoy the organization,"

"The thing I enjoy the most, without a doubt, is the quality of the military personnel I deal with. They're stimulating, intelligent and very cooperative. They appreciate us and we appreciate them."

One of the ways the Coast Guard showed its appreciation for the League was to invite members and their families aboard the Coast Guard cutter Mariposa for a cruise up and down the Detroit Riv-

"If the families of the servicemen need help in any way we help them out. We give them some kind of a social contact so they feel like a part of the community," Landes said. The Navy League's cruise on the Mariposa has been an annual event for the past 12 years and serves to heighten the awareness of League members as to what really happens on their adopted ship, Landes explained.

A RETIRED Navy Admiral, Landes said he realizes more than civilians the difficult task faced by the crew of the Mariposa.

Suzanne Skubick, community affairs and program director of Omnicom Cablevision, announces the programming facilities and operations will be shut down the entire week of Aug. 25 to conduct some much-needed maintenance and to allow for some in-house refresher training courses for the staff and interns.

"We hope our public access users and our viewing public will understand the need for this weeklong shut-down of our operations. Our closing of programmming does not affect the rest of Omnicom operations. All sales, customers service, and technicians will be working their usual schedule during that week - only programming will be 4 p.m. closed to the public.

Much of the equipment has not had a regular overhaul in the past 4:30 p.m. year and needs to be prepared for the fall season. The staff also will be preparing to televise the Plymouth Fall Festival. Last year Omnicom cablecast some 19 hours of live coverage of the Fall Festival and anticipate at least 22 hours this year.

The shut-down means there will be no airing of programs on Channel 15, or Channel 8 or Family Home Theater. Regular programming will resume the week of Sept.

A career with the United States Coast Guard is not all surf, sun and Just ask any one of the 51 crew members aboard the Coast Guard Cutter Mariposa.

"It's tough work, but it's rewarding," remarked one of the crew members during a recent cruise.

"It can be a lot of fun, but it also can get really cold out on the lakes in the winter months."

Stationed at the Coast Guard's Mt. Elliott Branch in downtown Detroit, the Mariposa is a 180-foot sea-going buoy tender. The primary mission of the Mariposa and her crew is to repair and maintain 177 navigational

The area covered by the ship extends from the lower Detroit River through Lake Erie and Lake Ontario to the western entrance of the St. Lawrence River.

The seven officers and 44 enlisted men who comprise the Mariposa's crew work year-round on the ship, sweating out the summer sun and shivering in the winter gales. But, as far as the ship's captain is concerned, it's all worth it.

"It's the only way to go," said Lt. Commander Charles Beck.

A PLYMOUTH resident, Beck has been captain of the Mariposa for two years and has been a commissioned officer with the Coast Guard for 14

A graduate of the U.S. Coast Guard Academy in New London, Conn., Beck said being commander of a ship, especially a buoy tender, has always been one of his goals.

'It's what we all aspire to," he

Ship handling and maneuvering the ship in tight situations is what Beck likes most about his job.

"I like the challenge of trying to park a 180-foot ship in a 181-foot slot," he said. Another aspect Beck likes about his job is meeting the different crew members assigned to his ship. "There is always a steady influx of eople, from ensigns to commanders. It certainly beats just shuffling papers at a desk," Beck said. And the captain certainly had his share of "shuffling papers." After graduating from the academy, Beck was stationed on the East Coast, stuck behind a desk for most of the time. This assignment in Michigan brought him further west than he had ever been, he said. A family man with a wife and two children ages 3 and 4, Beck said the temporariness of life in the Coast Guard (his assignments last three years), does not bother him. His wife has a Ph.D. in nursing and is teaching at the University of Michigan. Her degree enables ber to find work in most cities and they work to-gether on deciding where Beck should request his next assignment to be. We try to meld our two careers together," Beck said.

'I submit a 'dream sheet' to headquarters, requesting three places I would like to be placed next. My wife checks for hospitals or schools in that area where she may be able to find work, and we go from there."

When his assignment is finished in 1986, Beck may be going back to the to the Newport Naval War College. But for now he said he is content to be captain of the buoy tender Mariposa and happy with his career.

"I'm in this of my own volition and I'll stay in it until it ceases to be fun for me," he said.

What Beck calls "fun" is actually hard work, done regardless of the weather on the Lakes.

Due to the annual freezing of the Great Lakes, the Mariposa works two full bouy seasons. From October through December, all lighted navigational aids and many unlighted aids are withdrawn, to be set again following the spring thaw.

"We take all of the lighted aids out of the water so the ice doesn't break the lights during the winter months," said Ensign Chris Kmiecik.

About half of the lighted buoys are replaced with unlighted navigational aids for the winter.

The crew then takes the buoys apart, removing and replacing the lights and batteries, all on board the ship. Over the winter, the buoys are stored all over the lakes, usually at Coast Guard stations, said Kmiecik.

From January through March the Mariposa is on stand-by in port, breaking ice when called upon, helping to keep the shipping canals open throughout the winter.

AS A comparative measure, several questions from an earlier survey done by police consultant Rod Bartell were included. Bartell's survey was conducted prior to the township's decision to start its own police force.

In the Bartell survey, residents and business owners were asked how often they would like a patrol car to drive down their street. Respondents to the Bartell study strongly favored increased police visibility on their streets.

The Bartell answers, in order, were: a few times a day (50 percent), once a day (26 percent), several times each day (19 percent) and only when called (5 percent). With changes in place, and the patrol area decreased from 18 square miles to less than three, the city asked residents how often they think a car now passes by their house.

Answers were: only when called (31 percent), once a day (31 percent), a few times a day (24 percent) and several times a day (14 percent).

The city survey also repeated the Bartell question about how often residents would like a car to drive by. This time around the answers were a bit dif-daily (35 percent), daily (23 percent) and hourly (3 percent) - possibly indicating less of a demand for visibility.

A QUESTION Myers pointed to as showing officers are doing their job revealed that residents believe more officers are on duty than before the reconfiguration - an interesting response considering the department actually has reduced from 20 to 16 officers.

It's also interesting, considering the fact that 61 percent of the respondents claimed to have noticed no difference.

The number one answer to the city's question of how many officers usually are on duty was six to 10. Other responses (in order) were: four, five, fifth). three, two, one and more than 10.

When Bartell asked the same question last year, the number one response was four.

Besides increasing the number the majority of residents believe are on duty, Myers is happy that 79 percent of respondents to the city survey chose a number more than the actual.

The city usually has three officers on duty, he said.

When people believe more officers are on duty that's good, because the residents or good guys feel safer and the bad guys don't want to come here,"

THE OTHER question which appeared in both surveys dealt with the ferent: as needed (39 percent), twice allocation of police resources. The question asked residents to place an 'X" in front of the services they would like increased

The results from both surveys were very similar.

The service selected by more residents in the most recent survey was patrol, followed by crime prevention programs and then three items that all tied for third: follow up to complaints, traffic control, and juvenile services.

The top answers for the Bartell survey were: patrol, crime prevention, traffic control, enforcement of ordinance violations (not included in the city survey), juvenile services and follow-up to complaints (both tied for

The city survey also revealed that more residents are the most concerned about break-ins, followed by vandalism, drunk drivers and speeding.

Also, only 20 percent of the respondents said they have a concern about police service which isn't being han-

"I think 20 percent is pretty low," Myers said. "Most communities would have a majority saying yes."

Myers said many of the unaddressed concerns "are not areas where we are not doing a poor job, rather, areas people would like special attention."

Some of the unaddressed concerns, he said, already were being addressed and the residents weren't aware of it.

Strike slows car sales

don't need a strike to run out of them. 'The strike slowed the traffic down a bit, but just about the time it started to slow, they reached an agreement and GM started the 7.7," George said.

INCENTIVES CAN increase traffic, according to Pete Mitchell, general manager of Blackwell Ford at 41001 Plymouth Road.

'I don't think the customer traffic in the showroom was as strong during the strike, but I don't know if that was because of the strike or because we didn't have any incentives on," Mitchell said.

'We haven't had any incentives on from July until now. The buyers have been sitting back because they know something's going to happen.'

Mitchell said his dealership was "just starting to get low" on inventory late last week, but with a hauler's agreement in sight, he is expecting 100 cars this week.

"We've been doing fine, our inventory obviously is getting low, but it's a chance to even out your inventory - to balance it," said Brian Leon, general sales manager at Dick Scott Dodge, 684 W. Ann Arbor Road near Main.

"I think Chrysler, out of everybody, was the least affected by the strike. With the 'Thank You America' program, we've been selling cars in the process of being built," Leon said.

Gold treatment forarthritisrisky gold poses several risks, but these are far outweighed by the overall benefits, reports the Arthritis Foundation.

When successful, the use of gold treatment can dramatically relieve joint pain and stiffness, reduce swelling and prevent deformity and disability, said Gilbert B. Bluhm of Henry Ford Hospital and chairman of the board of the Arthritis Foundation-Michigan Chapter. "It enables people with rheumatoid arthritis to sometimes resume many or all normal activities. However, this method of treatment involves risks and precautions. If you have arthritis, it is in your best interest to be well informed regarding how gold is used and to know what results and possible difficulties to expect.

"The decision to recommend gold treatment and the timing of it depend on many factors," Bluhm said. "It appears to work best in the early stages of arthritis, after other medications have failed to work, but before damage to the joints and supportive tissues is too advanced. It is important to know that gold treatment is usually reserved for those people whose disease does not improve considerably after a suitable period of basic treatment."

WITH CAREFUL supervision, seven out of 10 people who are treated with gold early in the course of the disease can experience good or excellent results. However, in three out of 10 cases the treatment has to be stopped because of some side effect or because it is not beneficial. "Gold treatment will not repair or undo any joint damage or deformities which have already taken place," Bluhm said. "Only the pain and disabil- Dearborn 48124.

The effect of gold treatment on rheumatoid arthritis is slow and gradual. During the first three months of treatment, there is usually not much change. After that, a slow improvement begins which is usually not noticed day by day. By the time four or six months of treatment have gone by, morning stiffness, joint pain and swelling due to inflammation may be re-

Gold treatment does not cure rheumatoid arthritis; it only keeps the disease under control. There is a strong possibility that arthritis stiffness and pain will return if the gold injections are stopped.

The possibilities of kidney and bone marrow damage are major hazards associated with gold therapy. A skin rash may be severe enough, when associated with gold reaction, that the therapy may have to be interrupted and on occasion discontinued permanently. If any of these reactions develop the gold

NIGHT PAIN IN ARTHRITIS

Rest is considered excellent therapy for arthritis. Why is it that many people with arthritis have great discomfort after going to bed?

All pain is worse at night. The reason is that during the day your mind is taken up by an endless array of events, sounds, decisions, and activities. The pain you feel is only one of a number of stimuli that compete for attention in the brain. At night all such distractions are gone. You are left to concentrate on your personal concerns and body pain.

If you have arthritis, the rest that comes with night is helpful to the joints. The pain you feel when you are in bed comes from aching muscles that are reacting from the day's strain upon them. The ache is similar to what you experience following strenuous exercise - the muscles hurt after the activity stops.

Pain medicines taken at night are of little help; over time your body adjusts so that you need more medicine to stop less pain. The best way to limit night pain is to regulate your activity in a manner that minimizes daytime fatigue.

CHIROPRACTIC BACK INJURIES

The greatest percentage of all work related injuries pertain to the back. Millions of dollars and hundreds of thousands of hours are lost by workers because of back injuries.

A recent survey showed chiropractic care for back injuries was both safer and quicker.

WORKERS RIGHTS IMPROVED

On July 30th, Senate Bill 7 was signed into law greatly improving the rights of workers.

- 1. The right to receive care from any licensed doctor of your choice. (You no longer have to see a particular doctor or go to a specific clinic).
- 2. The right to receive care immediately after the reported injury. (No more ten day waiting period).
- 3. The protection of the law to have your bills paid at the office. (No more refusal to pay, leaving you stuck with the bill).

IF YOU NEED HELP BECAUSE OF BACK INJURIES

We are specialized in helping workers with back injuries for ten years under Dr. Mashike's care. Many workers return to their jobs quicker and with longer lasting results.

Chiropractic has helped millions safely and effectively by removing the cause of their problems without medication, drugs or surgery.

Dr. Mashike is a member of the National Association of Disability Evaluating Physicians, and is certified to establish disability ratings.

O&E Monday, August 19, 1985

Plymouth was a one-school town until 1927

In the early years it was the practice of the Plymouth Board of Education to ask for bids in appointing superintendents, janitors and teachers. Apparently people submitted propositions to the board each year indicating the rate at which they would work.

On Oct. 1, 1855, for example, the board accepted the offer of Theodatus T. Lyon to teach at $1.75 a day. In 1879, after a committee was appointed to receive bids for the position of janitor, four men applied. The job went to the lowest bidder, E. H. Briggs, who agreed to work for $73 a year.

C. A. Frisbee, "the grand old man of the Plymouth School," was in and out of the job as principal teacher (equivalent to superintendent today) on more than one occasion during the 19 years he served commencing in 1853. The board gave the job to someone else whenever it could find a qualified person who would work for less money.

Frisbee, who served on the board of education after he gave up teaching, was a large, strong man and a stern disciplinarian. Charley Bennett, born here in 1863, recalled seeing "Professor" Frisbee pick up two of the largest boys and crack their heads together for some infraction of the rules. Civil liberty and hair-trigger lawsuits were yet to be heard from.

When he left the school system, Frisbee became a partner of Michael Conner in a lumber and coal business. After separating from Conner, Frisbee ran a lumber yard at the spot by the railroad tracks on Main Street where Dave Mather had a similar business in

On the other hand, in 1900, when Superintendent Rogers told the school board that some of the rooms in the school were crowded and suggested advancing some of the pupils to higher grades to be able to get along that year, he was told to use his best judgment. There are times when principle takes second place to expediency.

Plymouth continued to send all of its children to one school house until 1927. As early as 1872, T. T. Lyon had moved at a board meeting that the board consider the practibility of building two ward school houses "at such points as would best accommodate the children of the district" but nothing was done about the matter for the next five dec-

FINALLY, in the fall of 1923, the board decided that over-crowding, and Plymouth's rapid growth, made it necessary to build a school.

During the same month options were secured on the Robert Walker and E. Foster properties in the north end of town and on the Eckman and Micol properties in the south end. In spite of the options, however, the board agreed that the building should be constructed adjacent to the existing school building on Church Street opposite Village Hall.

At the annual meeting, with board president John W. Henderson presiding, voters turned down the north-end option, approved the south-side option, and agreed, by a vote of 67 to 16, with the board's recommendation that a school be built on the existing school property in the center of town.

The board went on record again, in the minutes of Jan. 6, 1926, that it was tardy. Pierce, Ada Murray, Charles H. Bennett and William Sutherland) with a flood of handbills urging that the school be built at their end of town.

"We packed the annual school board meeting in July with citizens from our end of town," Starkweather told me in 1967. "We drove them to the meeting in our model T's."

Yost and Tyson would be shocked

The role of TV and salaries

WHAT A SHOCK the late Fielding H. (Hurry Up) Yost, the famous Michigan football coach, would get if he were alive today and were to read about the contract demands the baseball players were making.

First, he would be stunned that the average salary of the major league players was more than $200,000 a year. Then the price that television is paying for the right to televise the games would leave him speechless.

In the public prints during the past few weeks, one of the players' demands was reported to be a raise from $15 million to $60 million for the pension

Just imagine that. Yost possibly would have stared at those figures and possibly called to find out if it was a YOST COACHED the University of Michigan football team when radio was making its debut back in the 1920s. People were amazed that they could hear the play-by-play of a game while sitting in the living room.

Later on, television would be even more surprising for it was said that the new invention could make it possible for you to have the game played on a screen in your own home.

Radio sounded fantastic, and The Detroit News opened a station with the immortal Ty Tyson as the announcer.

When the Michigan football season opened, Ty decided that it would be fine to put the game on the air and headed for the stadium in Ann Arbor.

When he got there with his assistant, or what they call a "color" man today, he was denied admission and told there was no place for him and his equipment unless they paid to get in.

TYSON WAS shocked. Yost informed him that if the people could hear or see the game in their own homes, there was no need to go to the stadium and pay an admission.

So Ty and his partner paid for several seats and set up shop for a historymaking afternoon.

The admission charge in those days was far below the $14 asked today. But it was worth it to Tyson and his helper. Now can you imagine what a difference the passing years made? From the price of two tickets for admission, the television folks now are paying mil-

Children's World child care difference

Learning is a roomful of energetic preschoolers trying to sit quietly while a teacher recites a pre-planned lesson from a standardized manual.

Loving to learn is that same group of children exploring the wonders of the world with a teacher who makes the process of learning as fresh and exciting as the lesson itself.

That's the Children's World Concept. And the Children's World difference your child deserves.

Be creative, use refrigerated dough for pizza

American favorites as pizza and meat pies, the main dish crust has taken on a trendy new look, with many restaurateurs finding new ways to roll it, wrap it, fold it, stuff it and shape it.

Home cooks can follow the lead of innovative chefs and use crusts in creative ways to make their own interesting main dishes, like Antipasto Pizza and chicken Swiss Crisscross. Instead of a from-scratch crust, these recipes use refrigerated crescent roll dough for flaky, tender crusts that are quick and very easy to make.

Antipasto Pizza is a take-off on exotic pizzas appearing on many restaurant menus today. No longer heavy on the tomato sauce, these pizzas often use fresh tomato slices plus a variety of other toppings to create a whole new

To make the easy deep-dish crust, simply press the triangles of crescent dough into a pie pan and brown in the oven for just a few minutes. Then build the zesty pizza by topping with favorite antipasto ingredients: cheese, peppers, mushrooms, herbs, tomatoes, salami and olives. The recipe calls for pepperoncini peppers, which are readily available in jars, but you also could substitute another favorite pepper, if

Beer flavors almost anything

Beer just might be the second oldest drink. It dates back to the general region of Asia Minor known as Mesopotamia. One of the first products early man made from harvested grains was beer.

Beer is mentioned in pre-Biblical writings. Noah took some aboard his ark. Babylonians thought enough of the golden brew to name a goddess for it. The Egyptians elevated beer to the stature of a national drink and the Ramses dynasty had a royal brewery.

Beer traveled west, thanks to the civilizations of the Greeks and Romans. The beer produced in the United States evolved from the brew brought to the Colonies by the English and, later, the Germans, who have influenced American beer tastes no membership tea tomorrow revives memories of its beginnings in 1957.

Jack Wilcox was head of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce then. The C-C offices were tucked back under the stairs leading to the Mayflower Meeting House. The chamber and Vivian Champion cooperated in starting the Newcomers Club.

Vivian called on the new residents, and there weren't too many of them in those days. New families still were getting their pictures in the Plymouth Mail under the notation, "Who's new in Plymouth." Vivian gave gifts and welcomed them to the community. The club was formed when 16 couples attended a meeting at the old high school. They continued to meet in each other's homes. It became a women's club when luncheons replaced the evening gettogethers.

Bonnie Coons was the first president and Dorothy Becker was the second. They had spring and Christmas dinner dances and five special interest groups. Those new residents got right into community service. They sponsored a Girl Scout Troop and worked on the March of Dimes. They entered a float in the Fourth of July Parade.

Most important were the friendships formed that, in some cases, lasted a lifetime.

Newcomers went on to serve in the Symphony League, Woman's Club, the League of Women Voters, later, in the Plymouth Community Arts Council and other organizations.

The club has produced a wealth of talent, energy and ideas - and the community has been the benefactor.

Babe Zaharias golf tourney cancer benefit

By M.B. Dillon Ward staff writer

Babe Zaharias would have been proud. In honor of the late pro golfer and Olympic gold medal winner felled by cancer in the 1950s, nearly 300 golfers competed in the country's largest ladies single-day American Cancer Society event at Western Golf and Country Club in Redford.

Peggy Kirk Bell, Zaharias' former golf partner and good friend, flew from North Carolina to conduct clinics and autograph copies of her book, "A Women's Way to Better Golf." Seventy-two teams representing 19 area country clubs were on hand for two shotgun

By the close of the 18-hole event, Edgewood Country Club's Frankie Shore, Dottie Button, Wanda McPharlan and Barbara Brown had emerged as low gross winners with a score of 78. Linda Kemp, Fran Hilborn, Pan Pano-sian and Carole Walden of Great Oaks Country Club in Rochester captured low net honors with a 58. The travelling trophy winners advance to the state Babe Zaharias tournament in Boyne Highlands in September, where they'll vie for the chance to compete in the national finals at Miami, Fla.'s Doral Country Club.

Bennie Fritz of Detroit Golf Club won both the closest-to-the-pin and longest-drive contests in the morning tourney. Hope Straith of Pine Lake Country Club and Birmingham Country Club's Pat Kuhn won the same events, respectively, in the afternoon.

But the real victors were those who ive cancer and their families. The $100 entry fees chipped in by partici-pants and proceeds from an auction raised roughly $70,000 to fund the cancer society's research and educational efforts. Auction revenues of $23,000 ere the highest in the 10-year history the Zaharias tournament.

F CANCER'S shadow and threatening morning skies cast a somber mood, it was dispelled by the contagious good spirits and humor of Western's engagg special guest.

Golf professional Peggy Kirk Bell, named one of the sport's most influen-tial women by Golf Digest magazine, demonstrated before an attentive audience assembled on the driving range some of the techniques that propelled the Zaharias-Kirk Bell team to victory in the 1947 International Four-Ball Tournament.

"In my schools we encourage stu-dents to stand with their feet even with their shoulders when they address the ball," said Kirk Bell, explaining proper stance during the first of two clinics. "Some of 'em even end up wanting to play that way."

Arm-weary Livonia ousted in Johnstown

By Brad Emons staff writer

If pitching is 70 percent of the game, then it's apparent why Livonia Adray was knocked out Wednesday night in third round action of the All-American Amateur Baseball Association (AAA-BA) tournament in Johnstown, Pa.

Lansing ousted Livonia from the prestigious double-elimination event, 7-6, as reliever Kevin Harrah, the losing pitcher, failed to protect a 6-4 lead. He came on in the fifth inning when starter Doug Doyle (Hillsdale College) injured a back muscle. Harrah gave up three runs on five hits over the final 3% innings. The big blow came in the seventh when Doug Clouse, Lansing's ninth hitter, bashed a two-run homer off to put his team ahead for keeps.

Clouse was also the winning pitcher, coming on in relief for Lansing starter Bob Wasczenski in the third inning.

On Tuesday against Altoona (Pa.), Hellier sent No. 2 pitcher Todd Krumm (Michigan State) to the mound, but the results weren't much better as the right-hander was roughed up for eight runs in 61/2 innings. But Livonia rallied to win the game, scoring nine runs in the final two innings for a 12-11 triumph. Doyle, in relief of Krumm, picked up the win and Rick Rozman earned the save.

'MY ASSISTANT Stu Rose and I were talking on the way back home (from Johnstown) and we agreed that we played three average ball clubs and won only one game," Hellier said. "We were on the good half of the (16-team) draw and we thought we had a shot to get to the semifinals.

"But we didn't play good ball. We didn't hit well, pitch well or play good defense.

The Livonia Crusaders, representing the Great Lakes Women's Soccer League, captured the U.S. Soccer Federation's Region II Tournament of Champions last week in Louisville, Ky., with a 5-2 win over North Ohio.

The winners received superb goaltending from Doreen Beagle, along with excellent defensive play from Jennifer Wilcox, Kim Paterson and Chris Lussier.

MIAA opens up offensive throttle

staff writer

Administrators and football coaches within the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association (MIAA) are extremely proud that theirs is the oldest collegiate conference in the country.

The MIAA is proud of the fierce rivalries that have been fostered after 97 seasons of competition and equally proud of the close ties that bind the member schools off the field.

Most importantly, the MIAA is proud of the fact that more than 90 percent of its student athletes graduate from their respective colleges.

But lost in this prideful outburst - a certainly legitimate outburst - is the simple fact that there's some darn good football being played in the MIAA.

MIAA football is fast-paced and offense-oriented. Three MIAA teams were among the nation's top 10 Division III colleges in total offense last fall. Two teams, Hope and Alma, ranked 1-2 in the nation in scoring last

"IT USED to be that our league would be 50-50 mix of running and passing plays," said Adrian coach Ron Labadie. "Now, it's more like 60-40 or, in some cases, 70-30 pass vs. run."

A leading proponent of the new-style wide-open offense in the MIAA is Alma the team league coaches unanimously picked to win the conference this

The Scots, coached by Phil Brooks, led all Division III teams in total offense averaging 465 yards a game. It was the first time an MIAA team led the nation in an offensive category. Alma was second behind league champ Hope (40.3) in scoring averaging 39.1 points per game.

The top gun in Alma's attack last year was quarterback Dean Ulrich of ster. Ulrich, entering his junior season, with fifth among the nation's fense (237 yards per game) and 10th in passing efficiency (121 for 238 for 1,951 yards and 22 touchdowns).

"As a sophomore he was just like a baby colt," Brooks said. "We're expecting bigger things from him this year. He has big feet, long arms, he's 6-3, throws well and comes from a good football family (his father, Dick Ulrich, coached at Rochester High and is currently the athletic director)."

ULRICH, BEFORE he's finished, should rewrite the Alma and MIAA passing records. He already holds the MIAA modern day individual record for total offense and is second in most yards passing in a season.

MIAA coaches gathered Thursday at Albion College for the league's annual media day. They picked Alma to win the league and Hope, who has won the conference in six of the last 10 years, to place second. Rounding out the preseason forecast were Albion, Adrian, Olivet and Kalamazoo.

As always, players from the Observer & Eccentric coverage area play prominant roles on virtually every team in the MIAA. Here is a brief look at where the area players are in the

Adrian's deadly Smedley

By Brad Emons staff writer

> You don't need Scotland Yard to discover that Adrian's Bob Smedley is one of the top football players returning in the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association.

The 6-foot-3, 238-pound Smedley, a Redford Bishop Borgess product, is a versatile tight end who led the Bulldogs in pass receptions last year with 33 catches for 428 yards and five touchdowns en route to second team All-MIAA honors.

The senior criminal justice major has career totals of 52 catches for 597 yards and eight TDs. He also is a premier blocker in Adrian's running game.

After winning the MIAA title and qualifying for the NCAA Division III playoffs in 1983, Adrian slipped to fourth place last year with a 5-4 overall record.

Smedley, who would like a career in the secret service or FBI, is confident things will change for the better this

New dog learns old tricks from the master

By Jim Hughes staff writer

TT WAS JUST after 7:30 a.m. Monday when I got my first coaching tip at Avondale High School. The sand still occupied the corners of my eyes as I walked from the parking lot toward the school. A plethora of young football players, helmets in hand, were a mere blur in the distance.

Tom Conley, an assistant at Avondale, was loading some football gear into head coach Rick Brewer's Rhino Truck when he spotted the rookie coach stumbling toward him.

What gets you up so early?" he asked with a broad smile.

"Duty calls," I responded in a slumberous tone

"Well, it'll get you home early at night," Conley said. I made a note of that.

Tip No. 2 came in the coaches' office. While Brewer was taking care of the final paper work of the morning, I noticed a small sign on the wall, which read, "And remember that football develops individuality, initiative and leadership. Now get out there and do exactly as I tell you.'

I DID OBSERVE Tip No. 1 Sunday night. I was home and in the sack early, but I couldn't get to sleep. I was a little nervous, but more anxious than anything else. Coaching football, as I mentioned in my first article, was a dream for me. Ironically, I couldn't even close my eyes to dream anymore. It was becoming a reality.

I found out I wasn't alone in my restlessness. Brewer, who's been in this coaching business at Avondale for 16 years, says each first day of practice is as exciting as the first, first day.

"You can get so anxious you can't sleep," said the head Rhino. "I can remember 16 years ago I couldn't sleep (before the first day of practice). Me and Tom (Mindez) were assistant coaches, and we stayed up the whole night making sure we knew what we were doing.'

For those unfamiliar with first practices, they can be quite mundane. It's Repetition is the key word. The more the teaching phase of the season learning blocking schemes, pass routes, more fundamental it becomes. running directions and the mechanics of ball exchanges, just to name a few. Brewer said the early stage of practice

"THE THING you'll see, especially with the younger kids, is the progression they make in those drills. This is fun for me. This is when the fun starts."

Assistant coach Tony Messina, who took a year off last season after 12 years coaching at Avondale, explains his love for coaching: "That's why I'm back. It's still exciting. If you talk about the time and money you put in, it's not worth it, but that's not why you

"You take on a completely different perspective as a coach. The players talk about winning the league and the state, but as a coach, although you hope for all the best, there's still unknown quantities - you don't really know what you have until you get out there.

"Here, you get all the learning things out of the way, then you work to perfect everything, and that's the part I like. The games are the things I really like. It's like your report card. We referred to it (games) a few years ago as pay day. If you work hard, you'll be rewarded."

So this is the work that comes before pay day. And it's a long time before the first check - Sept. 6 to be exact.

In the interim, repetitious drills are the norm. Like it, or leave the program. Nobody left.

My assignment was to work with the receivers. It didn't take long before I felt part of the program. Coaches Brewer, Conley, Messina, Keith Gust, Marc Kuney and Mark Fisher helped, rub emanating from my body is proof.

They treated me with respect, listened to my instruction, and asked my advice on various aspects of their position.

Tip No. 2 worked.

AS WAS CUSTOMARY when I was a player, there're a few who need to be pushed. And there're a few who need some priorities straightened out.

I'm sure every coach has been approached by a player with some sort of excuse as to why the player can't make practice or why they are late for prac-

"Sure enough, he showed up late again, and I said, 'What happened, did your dog die?' He said, 'No, my cat.' "

It seems if it's not one thing, it's another. Case in point was Monday's practice. It's not surprising to lose a player with a groin pull, a turned ankle or blistered feet from new football shoes. Instead, we lost a coach.

Conley, instructing a player how to work out shin splints, turned his knee and was unable to straighten the lame limb. "It just went pop," he said.

Livonia cyclist wins Coors race

staff writer

When it comes to cycling, native Livonian Jeff Pierce isn't exactly a household name.

But on Monday, Pierce proved he at least belonged in somebody's household, winning the 10th stage of the Coors International Bicycle Classic.

Riding for the Schwinn Team, Pierce covered the 66-mile road race, which started in Vail, Colo., in 2:19:05. The course routed through three different mountain passes, the highest elevation being 11,316 feet at Fremont Pass, before descending toward Cooper Mountain, Colo. for the finish.

The 26-year-old Pierce, a Stevenson High School and Michigan State University graduate, beat some of the world's best racers, including Tour de France runner-up Greg LeMond, the overall Coors leader, and five-time Tour de France champion Bernard Hinault, who is running fifth.

"I was thinking that this was by far the biggest single day victory - considering the competition," Pierce said. "I won a stage once at the Tour of Berlin, but this is hard to compare. It was definitely a big thrill."

PIERCE'S VICTORY put him third overall, 6:14 behind LeMond, and nearly 4:19 behind second place Andrew Hampsten of Boulder, Colo.

More racing is yet to come, however, as Pierce rode yesterday in the 11th stage, which started in Estes Park at the base of Rocky Mountain National Park, a 47-mile circuit course.

Today, Pierce will tackle a 83-mile road course from Golden to Denver. Then he'll run in an individual time trial Friday morning and come back later in the evening for a criterion race in event near Mesa is considered the may become worldwide.

toughest of all stages, a gruelling 93mile race under usually windy, dry and 90-degree conditions.

The Coors Classic will end Sunday with a fast circuit race in North Boulder Park.

"The lead by LeMond is going to be tough to overcome, but I hope to make up some ground," Pierce said during a rare off day on Tuesday. "We've got quite a few hard stages to run, but I feel better now than when I started. I'll be going the distance. The last few stages won't be a problem."

THE COORS CLASSIC started Aug. 3 in San Francisco with stops along with way in Sonoma and Sacramento, Calif., Lake Tahoe and Reno, Nevada. The stage races then switched to the plains and mountains of Colorado.

"We're doing well as a team and team tactics are crucial," Pierce said. "You need a little luck and a lot of strategy to win."

Pierce, who just missed making last year's U.S. Olympic Cycling Team, remains an amateur, but may have ideas joining LeMond and Hinault in the professional ranks.

"To some degree the 1988 Olympics (in Seoul, Korea) is still in the back of my mind," Pierce said, "but it's a long ways off. "I've lost out on some prize money already this year, but I haven't made up my mind about turning pro."

AND HOW ABOUT a run in the prestigious Tour de France?

"That's been in the back of my mind," said Pierce, who now resides in San Diego. "It would be the next step in the progression. Right now I have to finish this and then I'll be going to the World Championships in Italy (later this month). I'll be back in Boulder the first week of September.

For nearly a hundred years, the Statue of Liberty has stood on the edge of the New World, America's most powerful symbol of freedom and hope. Today the ravages of almost a century of weather and pollution have left their marks. Corrosion has eaten away at the iron framework. New holes continue to appear in the copper sheets that

Less than a mile away, on Ellis Island where the ancestors of nearly half of all Americans first stepped onto American soil, the Great Hall of the Immigration Center is a hollow ruin. Rooms are vandalized, passageways overgrown with vegetation, walls crumbling in decay. Inspiring plans have been developed to restore the Statue and to create at Ellis Island a living monument to the ethnic diversity of this country of immigrants. But unless restoration is begun now, ceremonies marking the hundredth anniversaries of these two landmarks in America's heritage could be held in commemoration of national treasures that no longer exist. Sections of the statue have already been declared unsafe and closed to visitors. The 230 million dollars needed to carry out the work is needed now.

All of the money must come from private donations; the federal government is not raising the funds. This is consistent with the origins of the Statue. The French people themselves paid for its creation. And thousands of American school children contributed to its construction and to the pedestal. The Statue of Liberty-Ellis Island Centennial Commission appointed by President Reagan is asking every American business, every American citizen to join in raising these funds. The torch of liberty is everyones to cherish. Could we hold up our heads as Americans if we allowed the time to come when she can no longer hold up hers?

One hundred years ago school children gave their pennies to put her up. Your dollars can keep her from falling down.

John Candy is air controller Jack Chester, who takes his family on a vacation filled with mishaps in the comedy "Summer Rental."

the movies

Dan Greenberg

Taking a vacation is just ridiculous in 'Summer Rental'

August is the silly season so apparently that's why Paramount withheld release of "Summer Rental" until the summer's almost over. That makes about as much sense as the movie does so I guess

Jack Chester (John Candy) lives in the suburbs with his wife Sandy (Karen Austin) and three children, Jennifer (Kerri Green), Bobby (Joey Lawrence) and Laurie (Aubrey Jene). Naturally they have a dog and a station wagon.

Jack is an air controller at the local airport and a complete dunce who lives under the cloud of Murphy's Law: "If something can go wrong, it will!" That's OK, up to a point, but in Jack's case it gets silly pretty quick, and no one person could have so much go so wrong so fast and so often.

In any event, Jack is under such strain that he's trying to give flight instructions to flies and fly specks on his radar screen. His supervisor decides its time for a summer vacation, and what early on was described as a terrific deal to use a friend's summer place turns out to be a very expensive rental of a really crummy cot-

ALONG THE WAY to having a terrific summer vacation, everything goes wrong. The Chester family gets settled in the wrong cottage and has to move in the middle of the night. Jack gets badly sunburned and, after a long wait for a table in the local lobster palace, the Chester family gets elbowed aside by Al Pellet (Richard Crenna), the local yacht king and regular winner of the local Pellet gets the table and the last lobsters, inciting great animosity in Jack, who finally takes his family down to an old scow. This is the Barnacle Restaurant run by a Captain-Hook type, Scully (Rip Torn), whose sidekicks include Cortez the Cook (Santos Morales) and Angus MacLachlan (Richard Herd), a Scotsman whose brogue is so thick no one can understand him.

It's funny for a while. Scully is the only one with any character. one else is broadly overdrawn and just |

Well, you can probably see what's coming. Jack has to win the regatta in order to recapture his self-respect, which he didn't have in the first place. Since he doesn't know how to sail and has injured his leg to boot, this makes it all the more difficult.

But have no fear, faithful fans, the movies can do anything. Part of the difficulty with "Summer Rental" is just that. The movies can do anything and this time makes it too easy. Director Carl Reiner's sense of humor degenerates into simple-minded silliness SCULLY ALSO wants revenge because of Pellet's attitude, and he teaches .'ack how to sail. If the film had any credibility, making the decrepit old boat seaworthy, Jack's sailing lessons and the search for a new sail should have some tension, some excitement and a lot of humorous pizzazz.

All are lacking, and the film's pace is far too slow for the slambam kind of comedy "Summer Rental" ought to be. It's all too predictable so you don't have to guess who wins the regatta.

Another problem with "Summer Rental" is the continual disruption of the main course of events with unresolved sub-plots. Some of these are vaguely humorous as continually repeated sight-gags but mostly they go nowhere.

Sandy is a photographer, constantly snapping away. The intru-sion of her lens could have been funny at inappropriate moments but instead is just there clicking away.

One of the most annoying unresolved sub-plots has to do with Sandy and a handsome, wealthy divorced fellow, Don Moore (John Larroqueete), who has a boat and a son to engage the affections of the Chesters' teen-age daughter, Jennifer. When Jack injures his leg, Sandy and Don (with kids) wind up spending a lot of time together. The potential humor and resolution of that situation is annoying in its absence.

On the whole, "Summer Rental" is not a memorable trip.

Karen Austin is Chester's wife, Sandy, whose interest in photography keeps her busy with a camera.

'Hello, Dolly!' is fair attraction

Performances of the Summer-Stage production of the musical "Hello, Dolly!" continue through Sunday, Aug. 25, at the Birmingham Theatre. Tickets are available at Ticket World outlets, 423-6666, or the Birmingham Theatre box office,

Serving as a showcase for local talent, the current production of "Hello. Dolly!" for SummerStage at the Birmingham Theatre offers a pleasant rendition of this popular Jerry Herman

Aside from TV actress Patsy Garrett in the title role, nearly all the cast is from Michigan and the majority from the Birmingham area. The many young performers in the show are particularly fine, including a male chorus line that fairly dazzles

In casting Garrett as the mischievous matchmaker Dolly Gallagher Levi, the production returns to the original, pre-musical concept of Dolly as a pudgy, middle-aged matron determined to have one more fling in life "Before the Parade Passes By.

Garrett may be the antithesis of glamorous Carol Channing, the actress most associated with the role, but the plot actually makes more sense this way. Or at least it would if Garrett had a little more pizzazz and less deliberateness in her delivery. The heavy amplification of her voice only accentuates the negative.

HIRED BY wealthy Yonkers businessman Horace Vandergelder (Mike Evans) to find him a suitable second wife, Dolly decides to win Vandergelder for herself. Along the way, she assists Vandergelder's young clerks to find love and adventure in New York.

Evans is delightful as the crusty Vandergelder, known for being "hard as nails" but simply putty in Dolly's hands. Evans persuades that behind all the growl and bluster there lurks amiability waiting to be discovered.

As Vandergelder's overworked and underpaid clerks, Martin Flynn and David New are excellent, portraying Cornelius Hackl and Barnaby Tucker. Models of youthful innocence, they charm in lively numbers like "Put on Your Sunday Clothes," "Dancing" and Mary Callaghan Lynch is a fetching Irene Malloy, the milliner almost engaged to Vandergelder but now smitten by Cornelius. A vocal standout in any show in which she appears, Lynch has the lovely solo "Ribbons Down My Back" and the other half of "It Only Takes a Moment."

PAMELA MARTIN is sweetly ingenuous as the outspoken Minnie Fay, Irene's shop assistant, and holds her own in the song and dance department. Shirleyann Kaladjian does not make the most of her comic opportunities as High leaps and intricate spins earn the mingham.
