Trouble is brewing over witch's lecture

By Doug Funke
staff writer

A committee is expected to decide by early next week whether to cancel a lecture by a self-professed witch Oct. 30 to students at Plymouth Salem High School after a minister protested her scheduled appearance.

The five-person committee was appointed by school administrators per school policy when the Rev. Thomas Pals of the First Baptist Church of Plymouth formally objected to the appearance of Gundella.

Gundella, a teacher for 22 years and a former columnist for the Observer, now is a lecturer and writer. She lives in Garden City.

"The issue is academic excellence with the separation of church and state," Pals told the school board Monday.

"The definition of a witch is one who practices sorcery and has dealings with the devil," Pals said. "One is what one professes to be. Why else would one make a profession?"

The school district would demonstrate a non-neutrality posture in religious matters if it were to allow Gundella to speak, Pals told the board.

The minister also questioned Gundella's credentials to discuss witchcraft to psychology and literature students.

"ACADEMIC excellence, I feel, demands she not appear at all," Pals said, adding that scholarly resource materials by more credible sources are readily available.

More than two dozen persons packed the meeting room in the board offices in support of Pals' position. Many also voiced their objections.

"This person... wants curious minds," said Barbara Batsel, who identified herself as a concerned parent and a representative of Plymouth Women's Aglow, an interdenominational Christian fellowship group.

"They're going to be enticed by her," Batsel continued. "We have enough rebellion as it is. This will bring more rebellion."

"Witchcraft certainly is a religion," Shirley Roe told the board.

Alicia and Jeff Erion both said they've had personal experiences with cults and feared for what may result if children were to hear Gundella.

"I know the power they (cult leaders) have and can do," said Alicia Erion. "I know they say they don't recruit, but it's a very subtle way they do it."

Claudia Livernois suggested that school officials would be better advised to bring in as guest speakers law enforcement officers who work with youngsters in an anti-cult capacity.

"It's in a context not of religion, but a context of historical terms of witches and witchcraft, and in terms of a false science," Frazier said. "This is information only. It's part of our history in this country."

Students have the option not to attend Gundella's talk without having their grades affected, she said.

Frazier said she's surprised by the outcry against Gundella's appearance.

"We had her before and there was never a complaint," she said.

"TO BE EDUCATED, you have to be well-informed on issues. I hope people can understand the bigger issue here — that we should have freedom of information and basically we have to be informed on all sides of the issue," Frazier said.

"I believe people resources is one of the basic aspects of our library program here," she continued. "I think it's important to use real live resources. Students can learn by other than watching television or textbooks."

Names of committee members appointed to rule on Pals' request — one administrator, a teacher and a librarian not directly involved in the controversy plus two parents — won't be revealed until they reach a decision so as to shield them from lobbying efforts.

Persons dissatisfied with the decision of the committee may appeal to the superintendent, then the school board.

Pals said that if Gundella isn't canceled, he would like to personally participate in the discussion or have another Christian representative participate on Oct. 30.

Frazier said she would recommend appeal, citing academic freedom, if Gundella were to be canceled.

'The issue is academic excellence with the separation of church and state.'

— Rev. Thomas Pals
First Baptist Church of Plymouth

THE REV. Marshall Gentry, pastor of the Calvary Assembly of God, also questioned Gundella's academic qualifications.

"Is she a legitimate resource?" he asked. "I'm not sure her presentation is an unbiased one. Does this really complement the philosophy of education that this school district embraces?"

No one spoke at the meeting in favor of Gundella's appearance.

Sherry Frazier, a media specialist at Plymouth Salem High, said she scheduled Gundella to discuss parapsychology and the Salem witch trials at the request of psychology and literature teachers.

Activity nourishes woman, 90

By Alvia Lewis
staff writer

Her friends tell her that she doesn't look a day over 75, but when they "get it up to 39," that's when she'll be happy.

Such are the words of Mary Fillmore of Plymouth who celebrated her 90th birthday Oct. 2 with family and friends at First United Methodist Church of Plymouth. She has been a member for more than 60 years.

Fillmore joined the church in 1922.

She recalls fondly one of her first money-making efforts — a chicken and biscuit dinner when she, along with friend Pearl Grove, prepared 1,500 biscuits for 500 chicken pot pies (three biscuits to a plate).

"Let me tell you, we did it the hard way," Fillmore said. "We had one cooking range and in order to cook all the pies, we had to turn them down to Russell's Bakery, which no longer exists."

"Nearly took us all day to make those biscuits," Fillmore said. "When I look at what the gals have to work with

'Help others,' she advises in our kitchen today, I'm just amazed."

FILLMORE ALSO remembers the days of "penny suppers," back when the women prepared coffee in a copper boiler.

"These suppers were served in cafeteria style. We would charge a few pennies for the main dish, a few pennies for dessert, and a few pennies for the drinks. The entire meal came to just a few pennies. But you must remember, this was in the early '20s. There are no more penny suppers."

As far as Fillmore's philosophy of life is concerned, it is a simple one: "Follow the golden rule and always help others." It is a rule to which she firmly adheres.

When Fillmore's husband, Lloyd (to whom she was married for almost 65 years), was alive, they would spend Sunday afternoons visiting shut-ins at local nursing homes. "This was our entertainment," Fillmore said.

This is an activity she continued until her vehicle was totaled, through no fault of her own, a year ago in November. It is an activity she "misses greatly."

But on to bigger projects.

Fillmore recently spearheaded the drive that helped raise the $17,725 needed to purchase a new carillon, to be installed at the church by mid-December.

"The Presbyterian Church had a carillon where we used to live," said Fillmore, who raised the money in four weeks via a letter to church members requesting pledges. "My husband and I so enjoyed the music and missed it when we moved. You could hear those bells all over town. And we'll have this one installed by Christmas. Can't think of a better time."

AS FAR AS her birthday is concerned, Fillmore, who believes that "sitting down and twiddling your thumbs is for the birds," continues adding to her birthday card collection. She already has received 160.

And as far as daughter-in-law Nellie Fillmore and grandsons Gary and Rick are concerned, she thinks they're "wonderful" for planning the party which brought her together with 180 friends and family members.

"At first, I told them I didn't want a party, but they kept bugging me. I finally agreed. Decided that this way, I could stand up, give my opinion and argue with everyone. Certainly can't do that when they're coming to visit at my funeral!" Fillmore said with a hearty laugh.

Ninety years of living have provided plenty of memories for Mary Fillmore.

Pumpkins await your touch, kids

Young pumpkin carvers and costumed revelers have been invited to participate in the Great Pumpkin Caper, a pre-Halloween warm-up concocted by the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce.

Children's activities begin Sunday, Oct. 27, with a pumpkin-carving contest at the Gathering on the Penniman Avenue side of Kellogg Park in downtown Plymouth.

Youngsters ages 8-14 who live in Plymouth or Canton may participate at no charge by preregistering in their schools or at the Chamber office, 188 N. Main, Plymouth, by 4 p.m. Friday, Oct. 25.

Late entrants will be charged a $2 fee. Participants must be accompanied by a parent or adult guardian the day of the carving. The contest will run noon to 5 p.m. Pumpkins, grown at Bunnys Farms in Plymouth Township, and carving tools will be provided. Contestants also may bring their own pumpkins.

All pumpkins must have some carving to be eligible for prizes, rules specify, but extra features can be added to enhance entries.

Pumpkins must remain in the park until Wednesday, Oct. 30, to allow judges to get a good look at all entries. Judging will be based on originality, creativity and finished effect.

RIBBONS and prizes, which include clock radios, cassette players and badminton sets, will be awarded in each of three age categories — 6-8, 9-11 and 12-14.

A trip to Florida for four, compliments of Eastern Airlines, will be awarded as grand prize.

Carving pumpkins isn't the only fun slated for families on the 27th, said Charlene Miller, chairwoman of the event for the Chamber.

The Penn Theater will be showing free cartoons, Beautiful People Hair Forum will "paint" children's faces at no charge, and Plymouth Book World will put on free puppet shows every hour on the half hour.

The festivities continue Wednesday, Oct. 30 — devil's night in some communities — with trick-or-treating in downtown Plymouth stores 5-7 p.m.

A costume contest follows at 7:30 p.m. in Kellogg Park, at which time the pumpkin carving winners will be announced.

Judging also will take place then in the pumpkin growing contest which started last spring with seeds supplied by Saxton's Garden Center.

The entire Great Pumpkin Caper has been planned with the idea of providing a safe, fun experience for children, Miller said.

Knives with serrated edges will be provided so that children can't cut themselves while carving pumpkins. Crossing guards will be stationed along city streets on the 30th so trick-or-treaters can make their rounds with even a greater margin of safety.

Canton tips Salem

There's nothing like an intra-district rivalry to spice up an athletic event.

Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem, two of the better girls basketball teams in the Observer coverage area this season, went at each other Tuesday with all the intensity that could be expected in such a match up.

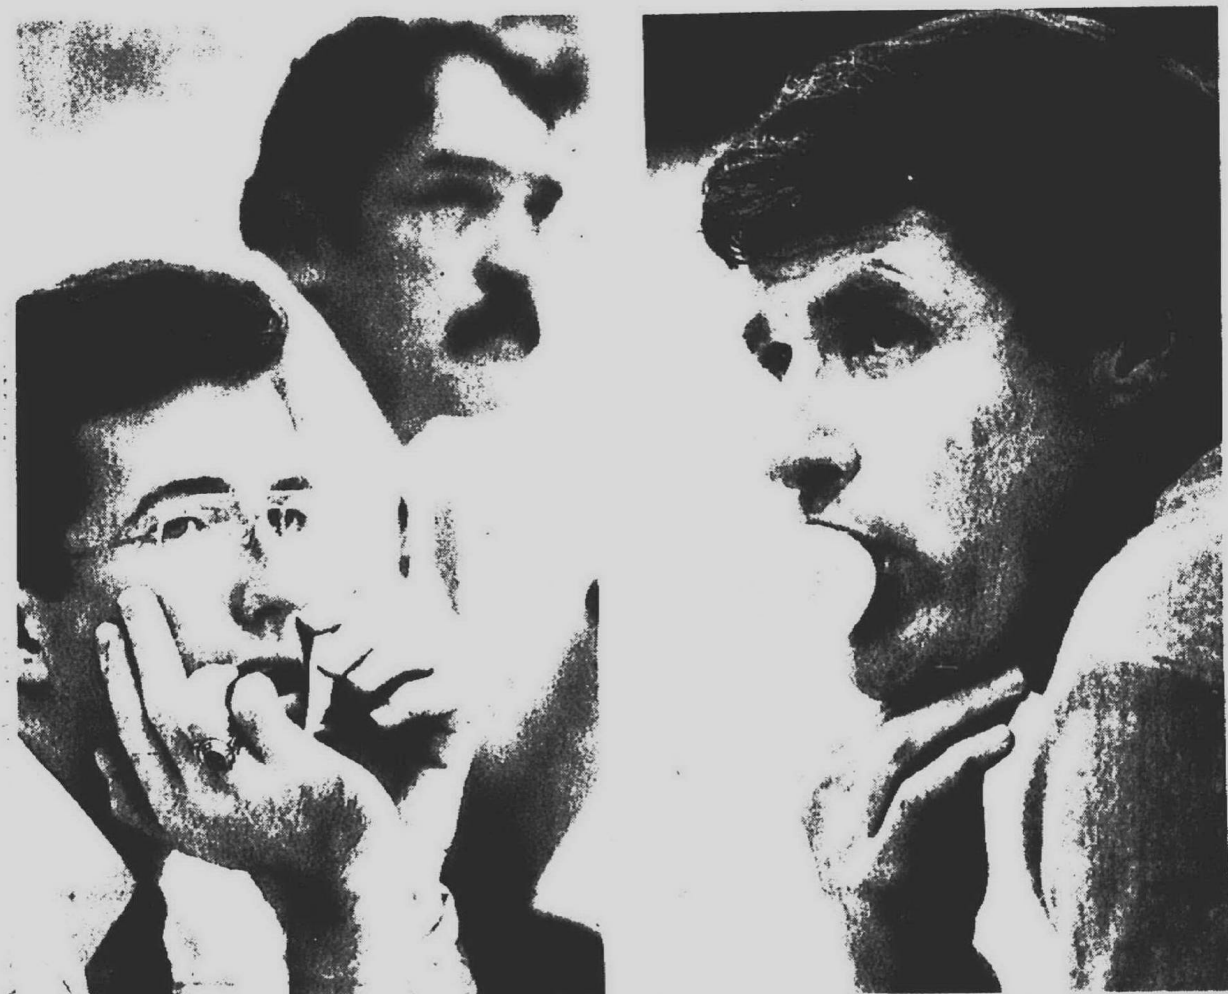

Beth Frigge, a tiny point guard, scored the winning point with a free throw in Canton's 25-24 victory. Chief supporters streamed onto the floor at the final buzzer in unrestrained joy.

As expected, it was a tough, defensive battle. Salem coach Fred Thomann and Canton mentor Rob Neu, who played for Thomann during his high school days, matched strategies to the delight of a large crowd.

Rematches loom on the horizon. The two teams lead their divisions in the Western Lakes Activities Association and could meet again in the league playoffs and the state tournament.

Who says boys aren't enthused at girls' athletic events? Just ask these Canton fans.

Salem coaches Andy Mellin (foreground) and Fred Thomann watch action unfolding on the court.

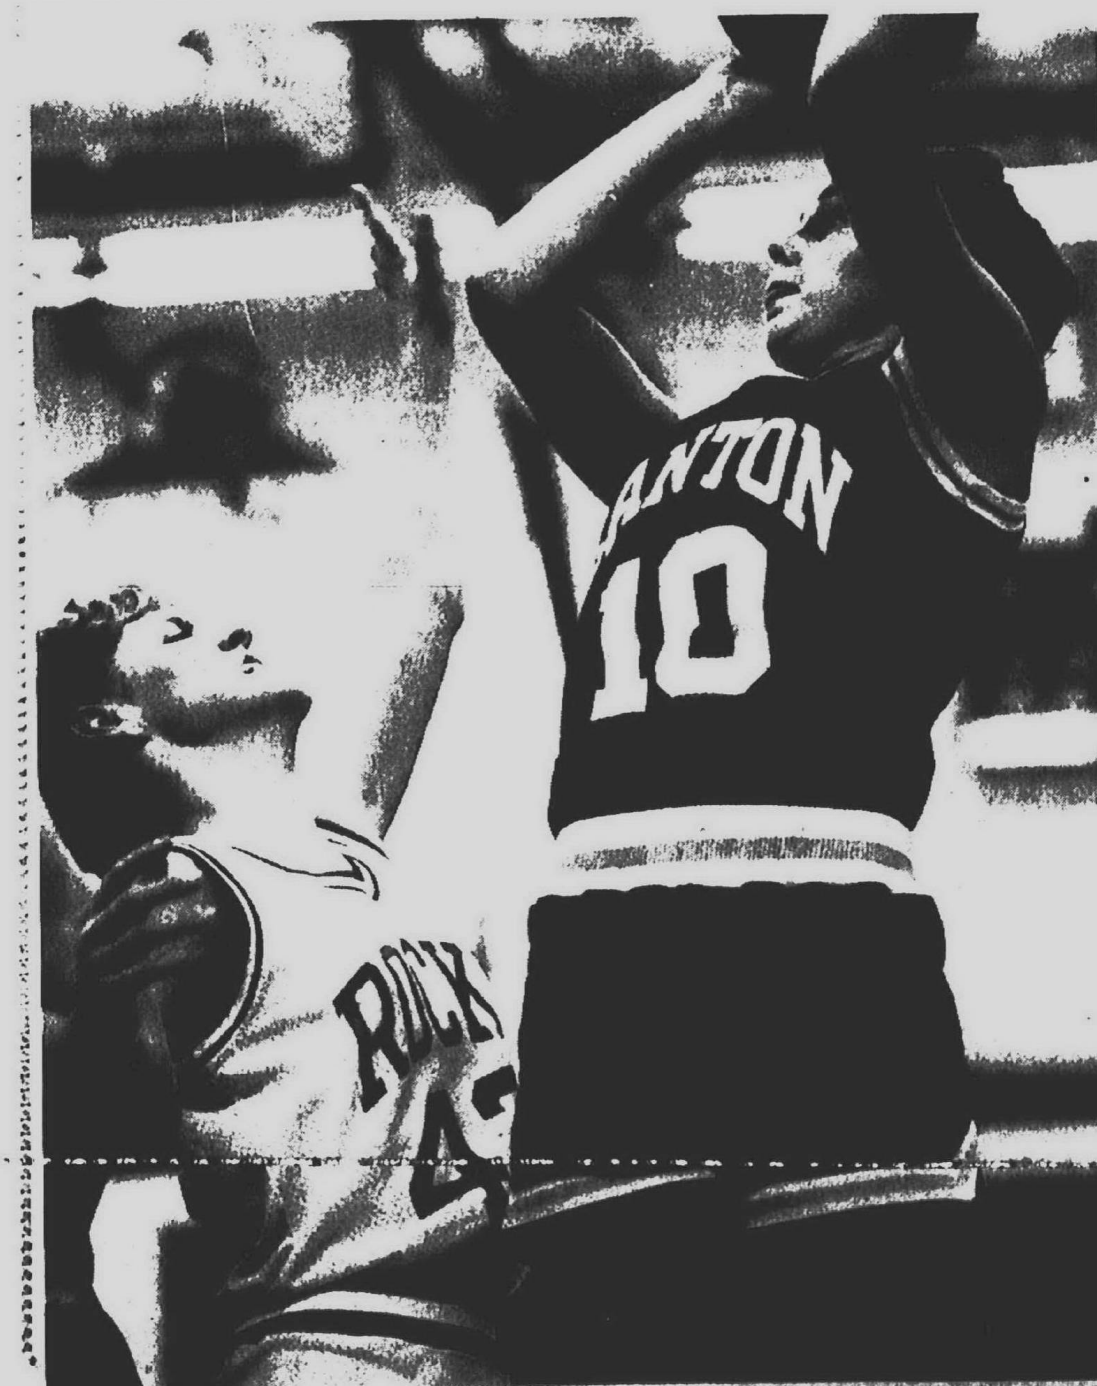

Bob Blohm, assistant Canton coach, seems to be a little less tense, but appearances can be deceiving.

Getting ready for the Great Pumpkin Caper are Pat Bunyea, Guy Bunyea Jr., Mike Ball, Dave Varga,

PARENTS, though, are asked to accompany their children at all events.

"We hope to cover every angle as far as safety," Miller said. "We want children and parents to know we're interested in safety."

Dave Varga, a local signmaker, provided the inspiration for the promotion, Miller said.

"He has a contest for some of his friends every year," Miller said. "He was talking to the Chamber and said how much older people enjoy it."

"As we were talking about promotions, we said let's do something different," she continued. "I've been promoting this since Easter. My help thinks I'm turning into a pumpkin."

While kids are the major focus of the promotion, Miller conceded that parents who bring their children into town for the carving and trick-or-treating may come across stores they never knew existed and file that information away for future reference.

The business community also will be involved in the Great Pumpkin Caper.

Pumpkins will be delivered tomorrow for Plymouth merchants to carve and decorate. Prizes also await the best of those efforts, with judging scheduled for Oct. 25.

Miller said she's optimistic the Great Pumpkin Caper will become an annual event. As many as 2,000 children are expected for the carving alone, the Chamber said.

New career focuses on beads and jewels

By W.W. Edgar
staff writer

It is quite a change from being a soda jerk in a drugstore, then turning to a medical profession, and winding up as a master in the art of working with beads and jewels.

But Helen Ferguson has made it successfully and enjoys it.

So much did she take to the new career that she has opened a business in Plymouth on Wing Street just north of Main and now conducts classes in the art.

"I have had a rather peculiar life," she said the other day in the jewelry store she opened only six weeks ago.

"I was born in a nice home next door to the prison in Jackson. My father was a pharmacist and I spent a lot of time in the drug store. So it was only natural, as I grew up, that I was close to the soda fountain. And being this close gave me the opportunity to learn how to mix the sodas. And it was only natural that I enjoyed that, too, and I didn't mind being referred to as a soda jerk."

All her life, she admitted she had a fondness for beads and necklaces and, like learning how to make sodas in a drug store, she soon mastered the knack of working with beads and shells. Most of her work is necklaces but she has on display many other ways of showing off the beads and shells.

SHE HAS mastered the methods of making the most of colors and she works with such items as glass-bottomed trays — with the glass covering the beads and shells.

After working around her home for months and realizing that she was 51 years of age she decided to share the joy with others. So, she took the gamble. She rented a business place on Wing, dressed it up, and now even has other renters are doing the same.

"I was a bit wearisome at home with not much to do and decided that I had to get busy and do something. I made up my mind that because I loved working with beads and shells that I could help others in much the same position as I had been."

Her classes are becoming popular and she has accepted an invitation from the Plymouth Rotary Annals to explain her work at their next meeting.

"I am really enjoying myself and working with beads and shells is not straining one's self. But when you have an article completed it brings a rather satisfying feeling to you. And I want to share that with others."

"For a girl born next to a state prison and trying the life of a soda jerk, I feel I have not done badly. At least I am paying my rent and really enjoying myself — even at 51 years of age."

A video cassette recorder and a snowblower were stolen last week from a house on Creekwood Circle, the resident reported to Plymouth Township police.

Entry apparently was gained through an unlocked sliding patio door, exit through the garage, police accounts indicated.

A resident reported hearing footsteps and the dog barking at about 4:30 a.m., but was unsure whether the noise was generated by family members or intruders.

Taken were a Quasar stereo VCR valued at $800 and a Toro snowblower worth $200.

Jewelry valued at $700-800 was taken during the burglary of an apartment at the Plymouth Manor on Lilley, the tenant reported last week.

Taken were two diamond rings, three gold necklaces, and a gold ring inscribed with the initials J.P.M., the victim reported. Also missing was a Sony portable stereo valued at $110 and $150 cash.

The tenant told police he discovered the front picture window open when he returned to his unit during the early-morning hours after being out for the evening.

A Delco AM/FM stereo cassette player and equalizer valued at $878 were reported stolen from a vehicle at Bob Jeanotte Pontiac on Sheldon. Police indicated there were no signs of forced entry.

SOME forms of wildlife adapt easily to the encroachment of man and the alteration of the environment.

Many species of birds still breed and remain in urban and suburban areas. In fact, the house sparrow, which was introduced to America from Europe, has proliferated in urban areas to the point of being a pest.

Fox, skunk, raccoon and opossum are able to survive in urban areas because of their generalized diet. Man, intentionally or unintentionally, provides adequate food for these animals to live on.

WILDLIFE has adapted well to many man-made objects too. Birds frequently use telephone lines, television antennas, bird feeders and even artificial nesting platforms. I recently became aware of an interesting adaptation to man-made devices that I found ingenious. In such western states as Montana and Utah, trains traverse the countryside, providing passage through undeveloped lands.

In these and other western states, the golden eagle, first cousin to the bald eagle, hunts for jackrabbits, squirrels and other medium-sized animals.

Normally, eagles soar high and search for unsuspecting prey below. When prey is located, they partially fold their wings and plummet to the ground to capture it. Some eagles, though, have discovered another efficient way of hunting. They ride the trains. Birds perch on top of moving trains and search for prey that is chased away from the tracks by the oncoming train.

When prey is spotted, the eagle simply spreads its wings, and the momentum of the moving train bullets the eagle toward its target.

MAN-MADE objects can be used effectively by wildlife at times, but there are also many things that interfere with natural processes. High transmission towers and their guide wires can be deadly to migrating birds.

On stormy nights with low cloud cover, migrating song birds like thrushes, warblers and flycatchers fly much lower in altitude than on clear nights. They fly at such low altitudes that they are more likely to be struck by the towers and their guide wires.

School bus crowding a local problem—Geake

By Tom Henderson
staff writer

State Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville, isn't in favor of bus overcrowding, he just thinks it is a problem that should be solved by local school boards, not by the state legislature.

Last week, Geake voted against SB 361, which stipulates that a school bus cannot transport more than 110 percent of its listed capacity. The bill passed in the Senate, 26-8, and is now in a House committee awaiting further action.

"I think it's a dumb bill," said Geake, who spoke against it on the floor. "It's a local-control issue in the first place. The state shouldn't be telling local authorities how to transport their children."

GEAKE ALSO said that while buses are rated with a flat maximum — say, of 65 — the size of the pupils determines the true capacity, how many ride and how many sit. "A bus is obviously going to seat more kindergartners and first graders than it will senior high school students," Geake said Tuesday.

Geake, who also represents Livonia, Redford, Plymouth and Canton, said he talked to school administrators in his home district before voting.

He said it's his impression that even when bus crowding is a problem it's usually only a problem for the last couple of stops on the way to school and the first couple on the way home. "Who are we to tell them to spend $30,000 on another bus so someone doesn't have to stand?" asked Geake.

HE SAID that depending on the number of absences, a bus that is normally not overcrowded may be overcrowded on a particular day.

"Do you tell a child at the last stop that he can't get on? Do you send him home? Do you tell him to walk or hitchhike? I think that presents a bigger problem than the one you're trying to correct," he said.

Sen. Patrick McCullough, D-Deerborn and Garden City, who sponsored the bill, said, "This is clearly a bill in the public interest. It's intent is to provide a safe seat for every child. In some areas, the buses are seriously overcrowded, thereby increasing the possibility that children will be hurt if they are pushed or if the bus had to make a sudden stop.

"BESIDES SAVING kids from serious injury, a safe seat for every child will actually lower costs by reducing a school district's liability-insurance costs."

According to state police, there were 1,478 school bus accidents in the 1983-84 school year. There were no figures on fatalities, if any.

The bill is now in house committee for scheduling. It must be enacted upon before the end of 1986 or it dies.

Voting in favor of the bill were Doug Cruce (R-Troy), William Faust (D-Westland), Jack Faxon (D-Farmington Hills), Richard Fessler (R-W. Bloomfield) and Rudy Nichols (R-Waterford).

The bill is supported by the state Department of Education and the Michigan Federation of Teachers.

Geake survey urges tougher crime stand

Geake's 4th District includes Plymouth and Plymouth Township, Canton, Northville and Northville Township, Livonia and Redford.

"Crime was a major focus in this year's questionnaire," said Geake, "and the response we got shows people want a tougher stand against criminals."

On the question of whether juvenile offenders should pay restitution to victims or perform community services, 96 percent supported the idea, 3 percent opposed it, and the remainder had no opinion.

Asked if a ban on capital punishment should be placed on the ballot, 80 percent were in favor, 14 against and the rest undecided.

The question of whether police officers should be authorized to immediately take a motorist's license if he fails a breath test or refuses to take one, received support from 61 percent, with 30 percent against and the remainder undecided.

Taxes are a hot topic, the survey showed, with 80 percent supporting a constitutional amendment restoring the right of voters to repeal tax increases through the referendum process. More than 14 percent opposed an amendment and 6 percent had no opinion.

On the question of whether teachers should be required to undergo stricter certification testing, 82 percent were in favor, 11 percent opposed and 7 percent undecided.

Seventy-five percent favored the private industry takeover of the Detroit People Mover project, with 11 percent opposed and 14 percent undecided.

On the question of whether people should be allowed to register to vote by mail, 21 percent agreed, 71 percent disagreed and 8 percent had no opinion.

Shari Rarick Gysel did a smart thing.

With help from Michigan National, she is building a new dance studio to replace the one destroyed by fire. Soon, Shari will be back in business, passing along her love of dance — just as she's been doing for the past twenty years.

Shari first danced when she was four — sent to classes as part of a program to improve her health. So, after years of dancing, there was no question in her mind that she'd find a way to continue.

At Michigan National, we think it's smart to help people like Shari. Smart for business. Smart for the communities we serve.

Make teaching attractive, better — AFT chief

By Teri Banas
staff writer

Progress in the quest for educational excellence can be made only if there are radical changes in the way school systems operate and if more is done to enhance the teaching profession, said the president of the 610,000-member American Federal of Teachers.

"If this wave of reform doesn't bring improvements, there's going to be a terrible public backlash," warned Albert Shanker, head of the country's largest teacher labor union, at a statewide gathering of Michigan school officials Monday in the Dearborn Hyatt Hotel.

"You can't do it by making incremental changes," he said. "Unless we start thinking of radical changes, we're doomed."

Among his suggestions were competency testing during hiring, employment standards, more professional contacts and shorter school semesters.

THE FORMER New York schoolteacher praised efforts to restore public confidence and legislative funding to education, but said more needed to be done to restore quality teaching.

His remarks were made to about 1,800 members of the Michigan Association of School Boards and Michigan Association of School Administrators during the opening session of the organizations' annual assembly.

Shanker said he favored testing for teachers. He cited recent testing in Florida where 35 percent of teacher applicants failed the multiple-choice portion of a sixth-grade-level test.

"Now I'm of the old school, I think teachers should know more than the kids they're teaching," he said.

Unfortunately, he said, many of those who failed in Florida went on to find teaching jobs in other states. In Baltimore, for instance, prospects who failed the exam once were hired because the school system was unable to find other applicants.

QUALITY TEACHING has become the central issue in the reform debate, he said, but the profession has serious trouble ahead.

The "baby bust" has decreased teaching-school enrollments, and the brightest prospects are turning to other fields. Years ago, women and minorities turned to teaching when discrimination shut the door on other possibilities.

Today, these people are attracted to other professions. The brightest minds are turning to fields like business and law, leaving schools with "an overwhelming majority who don't have the simple skills to do kids any good," he said.

THE ANSWER to making the teaching profession attractive again is found in basic "market mechanisms," he said.

"In the past two years I've probably gone to 200 conferences on how to attract and retain good teachers, and the answer is amazingly simple," he said. "Compensate education well and create an environment that is (professionally) satisfying."

Some of his suggestions:

- He encouraged school boards to develop a set of employment standards and then stick to them.

- Insure that teachers are allowed to do what they do best and teach in their fields of expertise.

- Teachers should be allowed time to exchange ideas with their peers. Today, they have little professional contact causing feelings of "isolation from other adults. Very few adults want to be locked up with a bunch of kids all the time," Shanker said.

CREATIVE APPROACHES will be needed to deal with upcoming shortages, he said.

Emphasis should be given to hiring temporary teachers, individuals diverted from other fields for stints in teaching. To attract these people, he suggested businesses and graduate schools offer incentives for time spent teaching.

Employment credits and college loan reduction are two examples.

He said there was precedent — for instance, the Peace Corps and the military — for businesses' offering credit for public service.

INSIDE THE classroom, the shortage should bring about greater use of technology, such as videotaping lectures, to allow the teacher time for individual student assistance.

Teachers should have greater involvement in managing their work place. Experienced or "master" teachers should help train new ones. And, he said, he suggested teachers panels called to decide names of teachers where you lost them," Shanker said. "The public school system is faced with extinction through vouchers and tax credits. It's a dangerous time, but a time of great opportunity to work changes. But you need a willingness to risk and make changes and you need cooperation and not confrontation," he told the audience.

He suggested altering the structure of the school year, carving it into four-week repeating blocks. This would allow teachers to travel more easily the nature of a student's problem if he ran into trouble.

"Right now when someone fails at the end of the year you don't know

More clutter than TV dishes

To the editor:

The article about the court case against the homeowner with the satellite dish antenna in her backyard compelled me to write this letter.

I am extremely disappointed that the township found it prudent to cite this homeowner for a structure violation when it is so arbitrary about established ordinances and violations in other areas.

Have members of our township board or ordinance department ever traveled Morrison between Ford Road and Saltz during the summer months? More driveways and front yards have campers, boats and motor homes in them than don't have them. Isn't there an ordinance against this? Or does the ordinance department arbitrarily decide not to enforce this violation?

What about the "used car lots" springing up at Ford and Lilley, and Morrison and Ford roads? I know that it is a violation to park on an easement and that the owner of the lot at the corner of Ford and Lilley has given permission for the cars "abandoned" there to be ticketed. Are these eyesores arbitrarily ignored?

I live in a subdivision in which there are four empty lots. It is my understanding that until these lots are developed we will have to wait for the sidewalks to be completed. As it is now, one side of the street does not have a complete sidewalk from end-to-end which is very unsightly. The township ordinance department says nothing can be done. Is this another arbitrary decision?

What about all the signs that are popping up along Ford Road? I know that our sign ordinance was relaxed. But I can't believe that our township government was foolish enough to allow it to be relaxed enough so that every contractor, business, or roadside stand could erect a "billboard" on our main thoroughfare on any vacant lot. (And I mean "billboard." Some are 10 feet across, 4-5 feet high or higher, and some even homemade.)

I have seen the satellite dish on Morrison. Although unusual in appearance, it is far from unsightly nor does it encroach on other homeowners' rights. I am disheartened that the township took this homeowner to court. The dwelling and yard where this dish is located is one of the finer-appearing homes in our area.

I am especially angered because the township does nothing to enhance our community by sticking to the business of improving our appearance. The township board will be reviewing a packet to add a new ordinance to those we already have — one on satellite dish antennas.

I would much rather see them put their energies into improving the way current ordinance violations are handled, and implementing ordinances that will increase the value of my home.

I have no objection to a satellite dish ordinance. But would it also be possible to add a few others that are sure to bring an air of prestige to our community?

I've seen our township board in action. I know that they love Canton and are concerned about our future. I hope that they can apply some pressure to see that present ordinances are enforced and hopefully they will develop ones to make our town a place that people are proud of.

Carole Jacobs
Canton

Is sports news pro-Salem?

To the editor:

Remember when Canton was a new "non-school" and deserved no better than second or third page coverage? Your answer involved, "winning teams on the front page and losers on the back" (carefully skirting the "real Plymouth High School" issue.)

Agreed, the Salem girl's basketball victory over Mercy was headline news and deserved the lead story. However, Canton girl's victory skein of eight straight games certainly didn't deserve fifth page coverage under the carry-over of Salem's front page story under a carry-over headline larger than the whole Canton article.

A community newspaper should concern itself with a shared limelight, since neither Canton or Salem is more or less a group of community students deserving of equal attention.

To diminish performance, motivation, positive attitude and school spirit with insensitive or poor press coverage undermines the whole teaching and coaching process. That process involves believing in yourself and knowing that winning is the goal, but learning (both victory and defeat) is why you play the game.

It's a shame on one hand to detract from the message of sports by shunting the "losers" into the "appropriate" place; it's even worse when a team is a winner, earns its headlines, and still doesn't get them. The irony is that when Canton finally "earns" its reputation by going 12-0, Salem will still be in the headline.

Thank you.

John Cunningham
Canton Gymnastics Coach

(As of Oct. 10, Observer sports writers have covered, in person, 10 girls basketball games involving Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton high schools: Salem five times, Canton five times.)

Bus problem is rowdy kids

To the editor:
You recently published a letter from the Plymouth Hills Mobile Home Park. The unfairness of this letter prompted my first letter to any publication. There were 16 signatures on the complaining letter so even though it doesn't represent all the parents of the bus riders, I felt it should be answered.
The driver of the bus they were complaining about and I were trained and hired together 10 years ago. We have been good friends since. In that time, she has never had an accident or a traffic ticket while driving either the school bus or her own personal car. She is a careful driver!
All school bus drivers have to be careful drivers or we would lose our jobs. We are not allowed 12 points on our driving record as other motorists. If we acquire more than 6 points, on or off the bus, we would be taken off the road. I'm sure that if the general public has as good driving records as school bus drivers, all our insurance premiums would be reduced.
One thing about the letter puzzles me. They complain that she was speeding on the way to school and yet their next complaint is that the bus arrived at the school late. Isn't this a contradiction?

tion? The fact is that the school reported no complaints on the bus arriving either too early or too late.
Also, if her speed was in question, why the elaborate production to determine it? Why not just call the police? Also, in the 3.6-mile area they used to determine her speed, there is a railroad track and a traffic signal. How do you determine a vehicle's speed when it has to stop twice in that distance?
There is a "transportation problem" on the bus and it is the rowdy, undisciplined children. The previous drivers and subs have had the same complaints about this group. They don't want to sit down, they fight among themselves, and some of the students' language is not what you would expect from elementary-age children. But it's alright they say because as one boy put it, "Why not? I talk like this at home."
When a driver attempts to maintain some kind of order and discipline or reprimands students, they will very often go home with stories about the driver. A popular one is that when a student is assigned a front seat, they will refuse to ride and then return home and tell their parents that the bus driver refused to let them ride.
It seems, in this case, some children went home and said the driver was speeding and the parents believed them without any accurate way of checking. "Visually observing" is not an accurate means of determining speed.
If these parents are still concerned about their children's bus ride, I would suggest they form car pools and drive them to school. I'm sure the bus driver would have no objections at all.

Wake up to witch danger

To the editor:
This is in response to the recent article in your newspaper regarding the Oct. 30 appearance of Gundella, the witch, at our high school.
Earlier this year, we saw a half-hour 20/20 segment entitled "The Devil-Worshippers," which dramatically detailed some of the practices of witchcraft.
Unfortunately, and to our horror, precious innocent children have become the prey and incredibly, the sacrifices involved in witchcraft's rites. The report revealed, as hard to believe as it is, that many children who are abducted actually become the victims of witches. This report, investigated and presented by Tom Jerrol, made no differentiation between so-called "good" witches and "bad."
For many years, although it is an ancient religion, we were ignorant of witchcraft, believing it to be harmless, if it even actually existed. Recently, though, we have learned there are covens even in our own Plymouth-Canton community, and they cannot be classified as social clubs.

Parents, please, for the sake of our impressionable children, investigate this matter and if you feel as we do that the practice of inviting witches to speak at our schools should be discontinued, make your voices heard to the Board of Education and the school staff.

Prizes ready for Jude bikers

To the editor:
Wheels For Life bike-a-thon participants raised $1,265.36 during their ride on Sunday, Sept. 15. We especially wish to thank all sponsors for our riders who made this possible.
Also, a big "thank you" is deserved for Andy Hoover, a Plymouth young man who participated in the ride and who also recorded six tapes to be played in the local schools over the PA system to encourage participation for our riders. Thank you, Andy.
All riders who have earned $25 or more are requested to meet at the Mayflower/Lt. Gamble VFW Post 6695 by the Ladies Auxiliary at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Oct. 29, to receive their prizes. A cash bar will be opened for our use after the presentations. We wish to also thank all merchants in the area who contributed to our success in our fight against cancer. The event is going to be scheduled again next year. See you then.

Bless you for bird ban

To the editor:
"Bless You Boys."
Thank you Detective Dave LeBlanc for answering my call to the Canton Police Department and being so helpful to a "senior citizen" with a heart condition, which I might add, became a bit worse when I encountered a bird in my basement.
Having a very deep fear of birds all my life, I needed help fast and called the Humane Society but "no help there." I was told to get a blanket or towel and throw it over the bird and catch him myself.
Desperate and home alone, I called our Canton Police Department which was my first experience with them. Two officers were here in no time, captured the bird unharmed, and released him to his flock.
Thank you from the bottom of my heart Officer John E. MacDiarmid and Officer Kevin Rize for being so kind, courteous and helpful to a "lady in distress."

I'm sure chasing birds is not in your line of duty but, believe me, you did save a life. Mine.
Thank you. Bless you boys for our Canton Police Department, a real friend when needed.

Don't promote 'bad' snacks

To the editor:
As a licensed dental hygienist I wish to address an article which appeared Monday, Sept. 30, 1985. The article discussed healthy midmorning snacks and was accompanied by their recipes.
The snacks listed are exactly those types which dental professionals discourage children from eating. I am concerned with the consistency and amount of sugar in these snacks. A sticky food attaches itself to the teeth, and since children typically do not brush after eating snacks, there is an increased risk of the sugar leading to dental decay.
Sugar is a major factor in dental decay whether it be in the form of honey, brown sugar, molasses or table sugar. Each of the sample snacks had moderate to large amounts of sugar.

Symphony season is off to fine start

My Sunday afternoon symphonic friend, whom I got to know rather well last year, is back with a brand-new season. The Plymouth Symphony Orchestra opened its 40th birthday season Sunday afternoon, interestingly enough with an all-Mozart program.

Memories:

Listen to Rock for a good cause

By Ethel Simmons
staff writer

IT WAS SIX YEARS AGO when radio personality Valerie Hilsen of Bloomfield Hills interviewed actor Rock Hudson backstage at Detroit's Fisher Theatre, but the tape she made then may help victims today of the dreaded disease AIDS.

She originally played the tape on her radio show when Hudson was in town starring in the musical "On the Twentieth Century." "It was the only interview he granted to radio or TV in Detroit," she remembers. She got the interview mainly because she has been for many years "Miss First Nighter at the Fisher," interviewing the stars of each show there.

Hudson, a very private person, gave interviews infrequently. "I never mentioned anything of his personal life," Hilsen said. During the brief, 12-15 minute interview, he was upbeat and friendly, though admitting to being tired, after the performance.

"YOU COULD tell he was kind and gracious," Hilsen said. The tape made in March 1979 is also special because the presence of the handsome Hollywood star is instantly brought to mind when you hear his recognizable, compelling, deep voice.

"So many fans loved him. We'd like to remember him as he was," Hilsen said.

She aired the interview again recently when Hudson was seriously ill with AIDS, and many fans of the Hollywood star expressed interest in having copies of the tape. Hilsen also got requests from radio and TV stations around the country who wanted to buy or borrow the tape.

Hilsen said she didn't do anything then. "I decided it was in bad taste," she declared, recalling her decision not to let others, particularly in the media, use the tape. But after Hudson's death, she decided to go ahead with a suggestion that had been made by one of her listeners.

"It was a doctor who called and said he was a fan and wanted to buy the tape. He said he and his wife got married because he proposed to her after they saw a Rock Hudson-Doris Day movie," Hilsen said.

The doctor suggested that Hilsen sell the tapes and donate some of the money to AIDS research.

"TWO DIFFERENT hospitals want me to meet with administrators regarding starting a foundation for the curing and research of AIDS," Hilsen said.

"I will donate one-third of the amount I raise," she said. Tapes will be sold for $10 each, and Hilsen anticipates that any personal profit to her after costs will be "very little."

To order a tape, send $10 to: AIDS Research, c/o Valerie Hilsen, P.O. Box 526, Bloomfield Hills 48013.

"People are coming up to me in restaurants and they're frightened," she said, of listeners who have wanted to talk to her about AIDS. Hilsen said one woman caller on the show said she got AIDS through a blood transfusion and that now her baby has it.

AIDS — Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome — is transmitted primarily through sexual contact. Homosexuals and intravenous drug abusers have been cited as high risk groups. The disease had also been transmitted through blood transfusions, but a new test is being used to screen blood used in transfusions.

Rock Hudson, as the actor appeared earlier this year on ABC-TV's "Dynasty." An interview by Valerie Hilsen with Hudson, made back in 1979 at the Fisher Theatre, is available on tape for $10. One-third of the $10 will be donated to help battle AIDS.

HILSEN SAID her guest on "Valerie's Showcase" on Thursday, Oct. 17, will be Dr. John Jovanovich of Ford Hospital in Detroit, who will discuss the subject of AIDS. The show is aired at 11 a.m. on radio station WPON (1460-AM), from studios in Bloomfield Hills.

Referring to her upcoming shows, she said, "We'll be having things on health problems." "Valerie's Showcase" has been a combination of music and interviews with celebrities and local business and entertainment personalities.

Hilsen said anyone who wants to get on the bandwagon, to help in the AIDS project, may write her, or phone her office at 642-2644.

She added, "If they have AIDS or their children have it, I would like the people to speak out on the show."

The new season also brings a new interim conductor, Charles Greenwell; and it was evident after the first few opening notes of the Overture to "Impresario" that Greenwell has been shaping up the orchestra considerably. The overture was a solid and colorful start for the afternoon, with plenty of rich and full musical timbre.

The orchestra's principal clarinetist, John Mohler, was the soloist in Mozart's Clarinet Concerto in A major. The concerto is among the peak points in difficulty of all the clarinet literature. It requires a firm and controlled embouchure from the clarinetist at all times as well as a playful sense of bounce with the many obstacles presented throughout the score. Mohler's performance had both.

His technique is smooth and masterful and he blows the black conical tube with reassuring decisiveness.

MOHLER ONLY played the concerto with a fair amount of rubbery bounce though, and at times his reading seemed to lack a real sense of sparkle and brightness. On the whole, however, his performance was adroit and full of great expertise.

After intermission, six instrumentalists from the orchestra stepped out to play the Divertimento in B flat major K270. It is scored for two each of the oboe, bassoon and french horn. If there was any bounce missing from the former piece, it was more than made up for in this performance. The oboe and bassoon blended marvelously well together, providing for some very striking musical moments. Especially nice were those sections which contrasted the high and low registers of the bassoon within a very short span of each other. It showed a real versatility of the instrument which is rarely evident in standard orchestral playing.

Kristy Meretta, who played the principal oboe part, demonstrated some very finely polished oboe work. Her tone was colorful, brisk and spirited, and her musical phrasing was of the highest caliber.

Without a doubt, the divertimento performance stole the show and the afternoon, making it the highlight of the concert. I would enjoy seeing other small ensemble works featured at Plymouth Symphony concerts. It is a good chance to showcase some of the fine musicians the symphony has among its members.

A PERFORMANCE of the Symphony No. 36 in C major, subtitled the "Linz" Symphony, closed the afternoon's jubilee of Mozart. It was a fairly adequate and just performance, with many things in good form and in their appropriate places.

The second (poco adagio) movement had room for much more lyricism than was actually present. The last movement (presto) was definitely the strongest part of the entire symphony. The ensemble seemed to ring with exultation, and Greenwell brought the piece to a rousing finish.

Next up at bat will be an all-orchestral program on Sunday, Nov. 17. This is a new twist for me in experiencing Plymouth Symphony concerts, and it should be most interesting to see what Greenwell and the ensemble can do with Mendelssohn, Haydn and Dvorak's orchestral literature.

Especially nice were those sections which contrasted the high and low registers of the bassoon within a very short span of each other.

"Time After Time" (1979), 11:30 p.m. Saturday on Ch. 50. Originally 112 minutes. TV time slot: 120 minutes.

Sci-fi purists may find holes aplenty in this fanciful adaptation of H.G. Wells' time machine theme. But Saturday night movie buffs will find the film kind-hearted and fun. Malcolm McDowell stars as Wells himself, the Victorian author/inventor, propelled by time machine into the future in pursuit of Jack the Ripper (David Warner). They somehow wind up in 1979 San Francisco, where H.G. encounters unforeseen contrivances while spewing pungent observations about contemporary society, and where Jack's idiosyncracies do not seem nearly so strange as they were adjudged in Victorian England. Mary Steenburgen co-stars as Wells' love interest and guide through Americana. The ending is particularly touching; stirring musical score is by Miklos Rozsa.

Rating: $3.20.

"Halloween II" (1981), 8 p.m. Monday on Ch. 50. Originally 92 minutes.

Billy Eckstine stars at fund-raising event

Billy Eckstine will be a headline for the cabaret-style fund-raiser "Return to Paradise Valley and Old Hastings Street" from 8 p.m. to 2 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 26, at the Riverfront Ballroom of Cobo Hall in Detroit.

The program also features the Jimmy Wilkins Orchestra, the dancing Sultans, and the Canadian Club "Tribute to Black Designers" fashion show.

Other activities include old-time black movie classics, dancing, and booths displaying a variety of artists' and vendors' crafts and wares.

Fund-raiser tickets are $20 for general admission, $30 for reserved seating. Tickets must be purchased in advance. For further information call Louise Burton, at 833-5004.

The event is sponsored and hosted by the Detroit-based Africana World Theme Park committee, working toward a future $55 million non-profit cultural complex and park designed to preserve, promote and enhance the history of black people.

Proceeds from the benefit will help build the life-size Hastings Street/Paradise Valley section of the park's Black Streets in America.

Raven hosts shows

Singer-songwriter Chuck Mitchell will perform at 8 p.m. Friday-Saturday, Oct. 18-19, at the Raven in the Northville Community Center in Northville.

Reserved seating is $6 per person. Doors will open for dining at 6 p.m. For reservations, call the Giftfiddler Music Store in Northville at 349-9420.

utes. TV time slot: 120 minutes.

The nightmare continues for movie viewers. "Halloween II" picks up where the original "Halloween" left off — literally. It's the same night, same story, same gory results. What's not the same is that the occasional ingenuity of the original is nowhere to be found in the sequel. The starts and chills of "Halloween" are repeated, and "repeated" is the key word. "Halloween II" is a relentlessly unimaginative, predictable picture. Jamie Lee Curtis and Donald Pleasance again co-star. What passes for the script was written, sad to say, by John Carpenter, who directed the original.

"Sherlock Holmes in New York" (1976), 2 Monday night on Ch. 4. Originally 100 minutes. TV time slot: 120 minutes.

"Sherlock Holmes in New York" has nothing in common with its namesake movies starring Basil Rathbone and Nigel Bruce, but it doesn't try to imitate those peerless adventures, either. Roger Moore stars this time out and the actor, best known as James Bond, makes for a surprisingly amiable Holmes. His portrayal is more choleric than Rathbone's interpretation of the English sleuth but, as such, all the more engaging. A fine supporting cast is headed by Patrick Macnee (of TV's "The Avengers"), John Huston, Charlotte Rampling, Gig Young and Jackie Coogan.

Rating: $3.25.

Show is a treat for senses

Performances of "Talking With" by Jane Martin continue Fridays-Saturdays through Saturday, Oct. 26, at the theater in Redford. For ticket information call 522-8057.

The Theatre Guild of Livonia-Redford has chosen a somewhat unconventional piece for its opening show, something called "Talking With" — and it's a treat for eyes, ears and mind.

In it, author, Jane Martin, serves up 11 monologues. Eleven slices of life. Eleven extraordinary stories of 11 ordinary women.

It's sort of like being "On the Road" with Charles Kuralt. Around each curve is another tale even more interesting than the one before. None will ever make the headlines, but they tell us more about the human condition than a month of TV news shows.

Elna Johnson gets the show off to a good start with some insightful views on acting, then tops that with an odd lady in love with the Land of Oz (in which her costume is outstanding).

STACY BOLEN is most believable as a woman in labor, and then even more so as a slightly kooky actress auditioning for a role.

Collene Hackney shows a nice range of ability as two very different women. First, she's a simple girl talking poignantly about baton twirling. In the second, she's a sophisticated woman who babbles pathetically about those who have marked her emotionally and physically (the tattoo effect is fantastic).

Mary Rychlewski gives two exceptional performances, first as a daughter coming to grips with the death of her mother, then as a snake handler who questions her beliefs.

Susan Suomi has the mannerisms and accent nearly perfect in her single role of a cowgirl wondering how changes in the rodeo will affect her future.

Maxine Parshall is an absolute delight as an eccentric lady who frequents McDonald's. Unfortunately, her second role, of an ethereal woman fascinated by the light from lamps, seems out of sync. Perhaps it will jell with later performances.

THE DIRECTOR of these 11 diverse tales is Laurie Johnson. And she is to be congratulated for a cast that seldom seems to be acting. For the most part, the performances are very natural. Very believable.

The setting is tastefully done with levels and triangular-shaped walls. Slides are projected on a center section. They effectively introduce each vignette and enhance the mood of each scene. The incidental music is also good. But the volume seems out of control at times.

"Talking With" ranges from funny to sad, from realistic to fantasy, from yesterday to tomorrow. It holds your attention from beginning to end. And leaves you wanting more. Good show.

State Fair Theatre offers classic drama

Carson McCullers' classic American drama, "The Member of the Wedding," opens the third season at the State Fair Theatre at the Community Arts Auditorium at the Michigan State Fairgrounds in Detroit.

Performances are at 8 p.m. Fridays-Saturdays through Nov. 9. Matinees at 2 p.m. will be given Oct. 20, 23, 26 and Nov. 2-3. Tickets for evening performances are $8, $9 and $10. Matinee tickets are $6. For reservations call 961-7908 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays, noon to 6 p.m. weekends.

Directed by Yolanda Fleischer, the play stars Burniece Avery and Shirleyann Kaledjian in the roles of the housekeeper-cook and young girl, roles made famous in the Broadway production by Ethel Waters and Julie Harris.

How useful are overcrowded jails?

LAST SUMMER when the prison "crisis" was at its peak and cell space at a premium, the state made some promises about security while bartering to convert the Detroit House of Corrections (DeHoCo) into a state prison.

Governmental leaders from the Plymouth-Northville community expressed concerns because of our experience with the corrections system.

The Plymouth-Northville community already has a prison (DeHoCo) and was slated to have two more — Scott and Phoenix. A second concern was the disproportionate share of the government-owned land removed from the community's tax rolls. A third was safety — what would be done to secure the DeHoCo buildings and grounds if it were to become a state prison?

The fact that Plymouth-Northville has its share of prisons fell on deaf ears. DeHoCo was available, Detroit was trying to unload it, and expedience won out. Detroit and the state worked out a deal, as quickly as possible.

The proponents argued that the prison already existed and did not represent an "additional" jail. Apparently ignored were the Scott and Phoenix prison plans and the fact that DeHoCo would be changed from a city jail to a state prison, which meant a change in the type of inmates to be housed.

PLYMOUTH TOWNSHIP pressed for Detroit to agree to sell the remaining acres on the DeHoCo site. Those acres are not needed by the state and could be developed for industry and put on the tax rolls.

To date this has not happened. The lure of extra jobs with the state prison being located here was dampened considerably when the state simply transferred existing DeHoCo employees to its payroll.

The state has appropriated a sum of money for security and built a fence around the site. But the recent rash of escapes clearly suggests more security is needed. It is also clear that prison officials must communicate with local police on a timely basis.

The Plymouth community became used to "walkways" when DeHoCo was in operation. But these were short-term inmates sentenced for less serious crimes. Now the "walkways" are felons.

NOW WE ARE told that the state corrections department will not send any more prisoners to the Western Wayne Correctional Facility until security is improved.

The moratorium, or limit on the maximum number of prisoners allowed, was put into effect by Bob Brown, state director of corrections, at the prison last week as he met with State Sen. Robert Geake, State Rep. Gerald Law, and Plymouth-Northville elected officials and local police officers.

The limit was a reasonable response. To those who suggest the trade-off is early release versus over-crowded prisons, The Observer joins in the position taken by our sister publication, the Northville Record, which last week stated on its editorial page:

"Given hindsight, it seems the result should have been predicted. Prison space created in haste is little better than no prison space at all. . . . One might just as well release prisoners in some orderly fashion as to create conditions that allow wholesale escapes or, worse, set the stage for riots. A prisoner who is released may feel lucky, while one who escapes can be nothing but desperate. Which one would you rather meet on the street?"

Plymouth Observer

Does pay depend on relative affluence?

WEST BLOOMFIELD'S clerk and treasurer are asking the township board for more money. Now paid about $33,700, they want more than the 5 percent raises slated for all township employees.

The clerk and treasurer claim that they should get more than all other department heads, some of whom make more money than they do.

The police chief, for example, gets $40,000 and the clerk and treasurer want more than he will receive, presumably because they are elected officials and because they, interestingly enough, also sit on the township board and decide what the township will pay employees — including board members.

The thought does occur that if they are always to be paid more money than department heads, then it is in their best interest to pay department heads as much as the township treasury, or public, can stand.

ALSO, INTERESTINGLY enough, the West Bloomfield officials use as one of their reasons for paying themselves more money, the fact that the Bloomfield Township board pays its member clerk and member treasurer $53,000 and $51,000 a year so that they will earn more than Bloomfield Township department heads.

Nobody seems willing, yet, to mention that no township clerk or treasurer has enough work to warrant such salaries. I suppose that this is forgotten in the era of relative affluence.

In the era of relative affluence a person's right to the pursuit of happiness entails making enough money so that the pursuer will feel that he is getting ahead.

GETTING AHEAD is a relative feeling and it depends on making as much or more money than people doing the same work, or people doing similar work or even people doing dissimilar work but working in the same building, or working for the same employer.

Notice, I didn't say earning. Earning is a passive term that has no real bearing in the era of relative affluence.

Making money goes beyond the old-fashioned notion of earning a fair day's pay for a fair day's work. The law of relative affluence states that a person should be paid not only what he is worth, but what he is worth in comparison to what he thinks someone else is worth.

The law of relative affluence explains why Chrysler employees being paid $13.11 per hour are willing to strike in order to be paid same $14.42 per hour that GM and Ford employees will be paid during 1987.

Compounding the Chrysler employees' problem, explains a UAW local official, is the fact that Chrysler chairman Lee Iacocca was paid a $1-million-plus bonus last year and stood to make more than $4 million from stock options as a reward for creating the New Chrysler Corp.

THE WORKERS, according to the union official, look at Iacocca's salary and then "feel they're not getting their share of the pie."

The law of relative affluence is such that Chrysler assemblers can decide that they should make more money because 1) other assemblers are making more, and because 2) Iacocca is making more than assemblers think he should be paid. From this they get the idea that they should make more money.

Perhaps assemblers ought to compare their wages with salaries paid college professors. According to a survey of the Carnegie Foundation for Advancement of Teaching, the average college teacher salary is $27,000, about the same as an assembler.

The survey says 60 percent of the college teachers feel their pay is fair, or poor, and 38 percent are thinking of quitting within the next five years.

Of course, we don't know who college professors are comparing themselves with. Maybe they feel they should make more money because they feel university presidents make too much.

The Senta Hot Potato

Fessler has traveled far

RICK FESSLER has come a long way since the days when he was a state representative from West Bloomfield, roaring with the lakes country rednecks about the M-275 freeway.

First, he was elected to the Senate. Second, Fessler's Republican Party took control of the Senate last year. Third, he found himself chairing the important Senate Transportation Committee.

In other words, he's in charge now. And with the power has come responsibility.

It has changed him. While it hasn't made him a flaming liberal, Fessler now is concerned about public transportation. And he demurs when others pop off about tearing down the downtown People Mover.

FESSLER WROTE legislation to reorganize the board of the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority.

The Big Four — Detroit Mayor Coleman Young, Oakland County Executive Daniel Murphy, Wayne County Executive William Lucas and Macomb County Chairman Walter Franchuk — thought they ought to be in charge of SEMTA.

Fessler tried to help but added a couple of excellent touches of his own: His bill added the state Transportation Department director to the SEMTA board, and it set up a suburban transit board with two members from each county.

Two members from each unit? Sure, a man and a woman — get it? Two-thirds of SEMTA's riders are women, and they deserve a bigger voice in the governing process than they've had.

The Senate duly passed the bill and sent it to the House.

THE ISSUE is stalled in a House committee, and the Big Four haven't been too helpful of late. Fessler is sore.

"The Big Four did not show or send anyone to the hearings they had in Detroit or Lansing," he wrote to Rep. Curtis Hertel, D-Detroit, an important figure in the House proceedings.

So Fessler is suggesting the House chuck the idea of letting the Big Four constitute the SEMTA board. He says let the voters elect their transportation commissioners instead — one from Detroit, one from suburban Wayne, one from Oakland and one from Macomb.

No need to worry about apportionment because each district would have about 1 million population.

MYSELF, I never was keen on having the Big Four become the transit governing body anyway.

Take Bill Lucas, the Wayne County exec. I hear he doesn't attend half the Big Four meetings now — too busy getting briefed in Florida on state issues, too busy making the Washington glamor circuit and never a vocal spokesman on substantive issues.

Moreover, Lucas is a Detroit resident. The Big Four plan could give Detroit two seats on the SEMTA board and suburban Wayne zero. Nuts to that.

Most importantly, though, none of the Big Four is a transit user.

Young and Lucas have been chauffeured around for years. Even Murphy has a driver now. Those good ol' boys don't even know what it's like to find parking, let alone what it's like to wait in rainy slush for a bus.

Meanwhile, Fessler is asking the attorney general to determine whether it's legal for the state and the existing SEMTA board to give away the assets of the People Mover to Detroit. He is wary of Detroit's constant effort to accumulate more money and power at suburban expense.

Rick Fessler has come a long way.

Class, glad to have known you

WE PAID tribute to our friends this weekend. My old friend Randy would have liked the party. I wish he could have been there.

You think of those things when you're having a good time and your buddy is missing.

Most of us have had that experience — losing a friend to the inevitable. My friend Randy fits into this story because he should have been at the big party at the Novi Hilton Saturday night.

The occasion — a reunion — of folks who once lived in the city of Detroit but now mostly have put down roots in the suburbs.

BUT THIS was more than a reunion, I thought to myself as I watched the more than 500 people crowd into the ballroom. This was the baby-boom generation gathered to celebrate its survival through two of the most turbulent decades this nation has known.

This was the generation that had suffered through the assassinations, the sometimes violent demonstrations and the wars that killed and maimed us. This was the generation that enthusiastically responded to one president's call to duty and whose faith in government was nearly crushed by another president's lies.

But we had survived to tell our stories and we were smiling as we did so.

Steve Barnaby

I often have wondered where Randy would have fit into this new and vibrant suburban scene. But he moved off to Arizona during one of Michigan's frequent recessions.

HE NEVER came back — he was killed while serving as a firefighter in Phoenix.

The last time I saw him was during the last reunion 11 years ago — a very different affair. Mostly the same people, but 10 years later they were different.

Not once during the evening was there heard an overinflated story of success or promises to keep in touch.

Time has a way of crushing pretense. We were simply glad to see one another. How we lived or what we did outside of that ballroom mattered little that evening.

Most of us would never see one another again — and we knew it. So we just enjoyed the hours for what they were worth.

Those hours, well, they lasted until 4 a.m. Sunday morning.

AND ALL of us smiled — a lot. And it really felt good.

Last weekend all of Randy's friends were there, and we thought about him and all the rest who have died since that long-ago day in 1964 when we graduated.

We joked about the year-late reunion and noted it was typical of our class — to be a little late. We called it a birthday party — "your absolutely final chance to celebrate a 21st birthday." We even had a three-dimensional cake that looked like the school.

Quips were exchanged — a receding hairline for a bulging waist. But soon, very soon, all that was forgotten.

"HEY, EVERYBODY looks pretty good," someone remarked after a couple of drinks. It was as if time had suspended its sentence for that evening's celebration.

For those quickly passing hours we really did look younger.

Some things never change. Diane Davis still was the best dancer; Betty Yendall and John Grand were still the tallest; and Debbie Dybas was still the most graceful. I know because after 21 years I finally worked up the courage to ask her to dance.

Randy would have been proud.

rollcall report

House keeps wheat supports

Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll-call votes conducted Sept. 26 through Oct. 3.

HOUSE

TARGET PRICES — By a vote of 93 for and 334 against, the House rejected a Reagan Administration-backed amendment to reduce federal income support payments to wheat farmers.

The wheat "target price" in the new farm bill (HR 2100) is frozen at $4.38 per bushel for the next five years.

It would have diminished under this amendment to $3.57 by the 1990 crop year, lowering farm income but saving the Treasury an estimated $5.5 billion.

Income supports are the "deficiency payments" the government provides to growers to close the gap between the market price of a crop and the higher target price set by Congress.

Sponsor Barney Frank, D-Mass., criticized the farm bill as "a massive effort to continue an industrial policy for agriculture, which says we will continue to subsidize people to grow, whether we need it or not."

Opponent Byron Dorgan, D-N.D., called the amendment "a death sentence for thousands and thousands of family farmers across the country."

Members voting yes wanted to gradually lower federal income supports for wheat farmers. Voting yes: William Broomfield, R-Birmingham.

Voting no: Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, Dennis Hertel, D-Harper Woods, William Ford, D-Taylor, Sander Levin, D-Southfield.

VOTE — By a vote of 251 for and 174 against, the House stripped the farm bill (HR 1200, above) of a section enabling wheat and feed grain producers to decide by referendum if they wanted severe production controls accompanied by higher price supports for domestic sales and export subsidies for sales abroad.

This was probably the most original and controversial section of HR 1200.

The vote was a rare victory for the Reagan Administration, which during several days of debate had lost most of its attempts to keep the new farm bill from increasing farm spending and enlarging the federal role in U.S. agriculture.

Edward Madigan, R-Ill., who led the fight to delete the section, said "a farmer who chose not to participate in the program would not be able to sell the commodity that he produced in the United States of America."

Timothy Penny, D-Minn., said the referendum "gives the farmers a chance to vote for themselves to improve the price for their commodities."

Members voting no favored the new program. Voting no: Hertel and Levin.

Voting yes: Pursell and Broomfield.

Not voting: Ford.

LABOR DEPT. — The House passed, 322 for and 107 against, and sent to the Senate a $104.9 billion fiscal 1986 appropriations bill (HR 3424) for the departments of Labor, Education, Health and Human Services and independent agencies.

The sum is $4.3 billion above the administration's budget request but $3.4 billion below 1985 outlays for the three departments and 10 federal agencies.

Among its multitude of provisions, the bill earmarks $189.7 million for research into the disease AIDS, and extends until Nov. 14 the deadline by which state and local government must comply with the U.S. Supreme Court's "Garcia" ruling on overtime pay policies.

That decision, which had been scheduled to take effect Oct. 15, requires state and municipal governments to provide employees with extra pay rather than compensatory time off ("comp time") for overtime work.

Members voting yes wanted to pass the appropriations bill. Voting yes: Pursell, Hertel, Ford and Levin.

Voting no: Broomfield.

AIDS — The House adopted, 417 for and 8 against, an amendment insuring that the U.S. Surgeon General can padlock "any bathhouse or massage parlor" that he finds is furthering the spread of AIDS (acquired immune deficiency syndrome).

This occurred during debate on HR 3424 (above). Sponsor Robert Dornan, R-Calif., called his amendment "a tiny, small step forward to do something to help people who in many cases seem unable or unwilling to help themselves as far as stopping the transmissions of this disease."

Opponent Bill Green, D-N.Y., said closing places "where some members of the at-risk population tend to gather" could hamper efforts "to reach out and educate" homosexuals and others about the disease.

Members voting yes supported the amendment. Broomfield, Ford, Hertel, Levin and Pursell all voted yes.

SENATE

BUDGET CUT — By a vote of 24 for and 72 against, the Senate rejected an amendment to increase fiscal 1986 spending for the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) by 5 percent, or $1.53 million, above the level set by the Appropriations Committee.

The vote occurred during debate on an appropriations bill (S 3036) that was sent to conference with the House.

Sponsor James Abdnor, R-S.D., said reducing the OMB's budget would impair its ability to cut spending elsewhere in the government.

Opponent Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., said the OMB should "set an example for all other agencies" by accepting the cut.

Senators voting yes wanted to increase spending for the OMB.

Voting no: Michigan Democrats Carl Levin and Donald Riegle.

TEXTILES — By a vote of 42 for and 53 against, the Senate refused to table (kill) legislation protecting the American textile and clothing industries against imports from Asia, Latin America and Africa.

The vote kept the textile bill as part of an unrelated foreign policy measure (SJ Res 77) that later was pulled off the floor.

Trading partners particularly hard hit by the proposed import barriers would be China, South Korea, Thailand and Taiwan. Southern textile workers and New York City apparel makers would be especially helped by the legislation, which President Reagan has threatened to veto.

John Danforth, R-Mo., who voted to kill the measure, called it "terrible legislation" that would "hurt many, many more Americans than it would help." Levin and Riegle joined him in voting against tabling.

Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., a sponsor of the legislation, said "a viable textile/apparel industry is absolutely essential to the economy and national security of this nation" and voted to table.

The new season also brings a new interim conductor, Charles Greenwell; and it was evident after the first few opening notes of the Overture to "Impresario" that Greenwell has been shaping up the orchestra considerably. The overture was a solid and colorful start for the afternoon, with plenty of rich and full musical timbre.

The orchestra's principal clarinetist, John Mohler, was the soloist in Mozart's Clarinet Concerto in A major. The concerto is among the peak points in difficulty of all the clarinet literature. It requires a firm and controlled embouchure from the clarinetist at all times as well as a playful sense of bounce with the many obstacles presented throughout the score. Mohler's performance had both.

His technique is smooth and masterful and he blows the black conical tube with reassuring decisiveness.

MOHLER ONLY played the concerto with a fair amount of rubbery bounce though, and at times his reading seemed to lack a real sense of sparkle and brightness. On the whole, however, his performance was adroit and full of great expertise.

After intermission, six instrumentalists from the orchestra stepped out to play the Divertimento in B flat major K270. It is scored for two each of the oboe, bassoon and french horn. If there was any bounce missing from the former piece, it was more than made up for in this performance. The oboe and bassoon blended marvelously well together, providing for some very striking musical moments.

Especially nice were those sections which contrasted the high and low registers of the bassoon within a very short span of each other. It showed a real versatility of the instrument which is rarely evident in standard orchestral playing.

Kristy Meretta, who played the principal oboe part, demonstrated some very finely polished oboe work. Her tone was colorful, brisk and spirited, and her musical phrasing was of the highest caliber.

Without a doubt, the divertimento performance stole the show and the afternoon, making it the highlight of the concert. I would enjoy seeing other small ensemble works featured at Plymouth Symphony concerts. It is a good chance to showcase some of the fine musicians the symphony has among its members.

A PERFORMANCE of the Symphony No. 36 in C major, subtitled the "Linz" Symphony, closed the afternoon's jubilee of Mozart. It was a fairly adequate and just performance, with many things in good form and in their appropriate places.

The second (poco adagio) movement had room for much more lyricism than was actually present. The last movement (presto) was definitely the strongest part of the entire symphony. The ensemble seemed to ring with exultation, and Greenwell brought the piece to a rousing finish.

Next up at bat will be an all-orchestral program on Sunday, Nov. 17. This is a new twist for me in experiencing Plymouth Symphony concerts, and it should be most interesting to see what Greenwell and the ensemble can do with Mendelssohn, Haydn and Dvorak's orchestral literature.

Especially nice were those sections which contrasted the high and low registers of the bassoon within a very short span of each other.

"Time After Time" (1979), 11:30 p.m. Saturday on Ch. 50. Originally 112 minutes. TV time slot: 120 minutes.

Sci-fi purists may find holes aplenty in this fanciful adaptation of H.G. Wells' time machine theme. But Saturday night movie buffs will find the film kind-hearted and fun. Malcolm McDowell stars as Wells himself, the Victorian author/inventor, propelled by time machine into the future in pursuit of Jack the Ripper (David Warner). They somehow wind up in 1979 San Francisco, where H.G. encounters unforeseen contrivances while spewing pungent observations about contemporary society, and where Jack's idiosyncracies do not seem nearly so strange as they were adjudged in Victorian England. Mary Steenburgen co-stars as Wells' love interest and utes. TV time slot: 120 minutes.

The nightmare continues for movie viewers. "Halloween II" picks up where the original "Halloween" left off — literally. It's the same night, same story, same gory results. What's not the same is that the occasional ingenuity of the original is nowhere to be found in the sequel. The starts and chills of "Halloween" are repeated, and "repeated" is the key word. "Halloween II" is a relentlessly unimaginative, predictable picture. Jamie Lee Curtis and Donald Pleasance again co-star. What passes for the script was written.

"Sherlock Holmes in New York" has nothing in common with its namesake movies starring Basil Rathbone and Nigel Bruce, but it doesn't try to imitate those peerless adventures, either. Roger Moore stars this time out and the actor, best known as James Bond, makes for a surprisingly amiable Holmes. His portrayal is more choleric than Rathbone's interpretation of the English sleuth but, as such, all the more engaging. A fine supporting cast is headed by Patrick Macnee (of TV's "The Avengers"), John Huston, Charlotte Rampling, Gig Young and Jackie Co-

Show is a treat for senses

Performances of "Talking With" by Jane Martin continue Fridays-Saturdays through Saturday, Oct. 26, at the theater in Redford. For ticket information call 522-8057.

The Theatre Guild of Livonia-Redford has chosen a somewhat unconventional piece for its opening show, something called "Talking With" — and it's a treat for eyes, ears and mind.

In it, author, Jane Martin, serves up 11 monologues. Eleven slices of life. Eleven extraordinary stories of 11 ordinary women.

It's sort of like being "On the Road" with Charles Kuralt. Around each curve is another tale even more interesting than the one before. None will ever make the headlines, but they tell us more about the human condition than a month of TV news shows.

Elna Johnson gets the show off to a good start with some insightful views on acting, then tops that with an odd lady in love with the Land of Oz (in which her costume is outstanding).

STACY BOLEN is most believable as a woman in labor, and then even more so as a slightly kooky actress auditioning for a role.

Collene Hackney shows a nice range of ability as two very different women. First, she's a simple girl talking poignantly about baton twirling. In the second, she's a sophisticated woman who babbles pathetically about those who have marked her emotionally and physically (the tattoo effect is fantastic).

Mary Rychlewski gives two exceptional performances, first as a daughter coming to grips with the death of her mother, then as a snake handler who questions her beliefs.

Susan Suomi has the mannerisms and accent nearly perfect in her single role of a cowgirl wondering how changes in the rodeo will affect her future.

Maxine Parshall is an absolute delight as an eccentric lady who frequents McDonald's. Unfortunately, her second role, of an ethereal woman fascinated by the light from lamps, seems out of sync. Perhaps it will jell with later performances.

THE DIRECTOR of these 11 diverse tales is Laurie Johnson. And she is to be congratulated for a cast that seldom seems to be acting. For the most part, the performances are very natural. Very believable.

The setting is tastefully done with levels and triangular-shaped walls. Slides are projected on a center section. They effectively introduce each vignette and enhance the mood of each scene. The incidental music is also good. But the volume seems out of control at times.

"Talking With" ranges from funny to sad, from realistic to fantasy, from yesterday to tomorrow. It holds your attention from beginning to end. And leaves you wanting more. Good show.

How useful are overcrowded jails?

LAST SUMMER when the prison "crisis" was at its peak and cell space at a premium, the state made some promises about security while bartering to convert the Detroit House of Corrections (DeHoCo) into a state prison.

Governmental leaders from the Plymouth-Northville community expressed concerns because of our experience with the corrections system.

The Plymouth-Northville community already has a prison (DeHoCo) and was slated to have two more — Scott and Phoenix. A second concern was the disproportionate share of the government-owned land removed from the community's tax rolls. A third was safety — what would be done to secure the DeHoCo buildings and grounds if it were to become a state prison?

The fact that Plymouth-Northville has its share of prisons fell on deaf ears. DeHoCo was available, Detroit was trying to unload it, and expedience won out. Detroit and the state worked out a deal, as quickly as possible.

The proponents argued that the prison already existed and did not represent an "additional" jail. Apparently ignored were the Scott and Phoenix prison plans and the fact that DeHoCo would be changed from a city jail to a state prison, which meant a change in the type of inmates to be housed.

PLYMOUTH TOWNSHIP pressed for Detroit to agree to sell the remaining acres on the DeHoCo site. Those acres are not needed by the state and could be developed for industry and put on the tax rolls.

To date this has not happened. The lure of extra jobs with the state prison being located here was dampened considerably when the state simply transferred existing DeHoCo employees to its payroll.

The state has appropriated a sum of money for security and built a fence around the site. But the recent rash of escapes clearly suggests more security is needed. It is also clear that prison officials must communicate with local police on a timely basis.

The Plymouth community became used to "walkways" when DeHoCo was in operation. But these were short-term inmates sentenced for less serious crimes. Now the "walkways" are felons.

NOW WE ARE told that the state corrections department will not send any more prisoners to the Western Wayne Correctional Facility until security is improved.

The moratorium, or limit on the maximum number of prisoners allowed, was put into effect by Bob Brown, state director of corrections, at the prison last week as he met with State Sen. Robert Geake, State Rep. Gerald Law, and Plymouth-Northville elected officials and local police officers.

The limit was a reasonable response. To those who suggest the trade-off is early release versus over-crowded prisons, The Observer joins in the position taken by our sister publication, the Northville Record, which last week stated on its editorial page:

"Given hindsight, it seems the result should have been predicted. Prison space created in haste is little better than no prison space at all. . . . One might just as well release prisoners in some orderly fashion as to create conditions that allow wholesale escapes or, worse, set the stage for riots. A prisoner who is released may feel lucky, while one who escapes can be nothing but desperate. Which one would you rather meet on the street?"

Plymouth Observer

The Senta Hot Potato

Fessler has traveled far

RICK FESSLER has come a long way since the days when he was a state representative from West Bloomfield, roaring with the lakes country rednecks about the M-275 freeway.

First, he was elected to the Senate. Second, Fessler's Republican Party took control of the Senate last year. Third, he found himself chairing the important Senate Transportation Committee.

In other words, he's in charge now. And with the power has come responsibility.

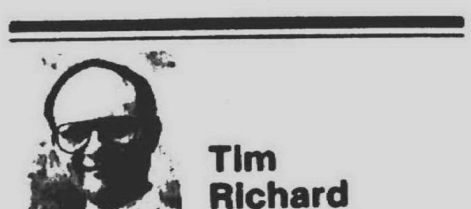

It has changed him. While it hasn't made him a flaming liberal, Fessler now is concerned about public transportation. And he demurs when others pop off about tearing down the downtown People Mover.

FESSLER WROTE legislation to reorganize the board of the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority.

The Big Four — Detroit Mayor Coleman Young, Oakland County Executive Daniel Murphy, Wayne County Executive William Lucas and Macomb County Chairman Walter Franchuk — thought they ought to be in charge of SEMTA.

Fessler tried to help but added a couple of excellent touches of his own: His bill added the state Transportation Department director to the SEMTA board, and it set up a suburban transit board with two members from each county.

Two members from each unit? Sure, a man and a woman — get it? Two-thirds of SEMTA's riders are women, and they deserve a bigger voice in the governing process than they've had.

The Senate duly passed the bill and sent it to the House.

THE ISSUE is stalled in a House committee, and the Big Four haven't been too helpful of late. Fessler is sore.

"The Big Four did not show or send anyone to the hearings they had in Detroit or Lansing," he wrote to Rep. Curtis Hertel, D-Detroit, an important figure in the House proceedings.

So Fessler is suggesting the House chuck the idea of letting the Big Four constitute the SEMTA board. He says let the voters elect their transportation commissioners instead — one from Detroit, one from suburban Wayne, one from Oakland and one from Macomb.

No need to worry about apportionment because each district would have about 1 million population.

MYSELF, I never was keen on having the Big Four become the transit governing body anyway.

Take Bill Lucas, the Wayne County exec. I hear he doesn't attend half the Big Four meetings now — too busy getting briefed in Florida on state issues, too busy making the Washington glamor circuit and never a vocal spokesman on substantive issues.

Moreover, Lucas is a Detroit resident. The Big Four plan could give Detroit two seats on the SEMTA board and suburban Wayne zero. Nuts to that.

Most importantly, though, none of the Big Four is a transit user.

Young and Lucas have been chauffeured around for years. Even Murphy has a driver now. Those good ol' boys don't even know what it's like to find parking, let alone what it's like to wait in rainy slush for a bus.

Meanwhile, Fessler is asking the attorney general to determine whether it's legal for the state and the existing SEMTA board to give away the assets of the People Mover to Detroit. He is wary of Detroit's constant effort to accumulate more money and power at suburban expense.

Rick Fessler has come a long way.

Does pay depend on relative affluence?

WEST BLOOMFIELD'S clerk and treasurer are asking the township board for more money. Now paid about $33,700, they want more than the 5 percent raises slated for all township employees.

The clerk and treasurer claim that they should get more than all other department heads, some of whom make more money than they do.

The police chief, for example, gets $40,000 and the clerk and treasurer want more than he will receive, presumably because they are elected officials and because they, interestingly enough, also sit on the township board and decide what the township will pay employees — including board members.

The thought does occur that if they are always to be paid more money than department heads, then it is in their best interest to pay department heads as much as the township treasury, or public, can stand.

ALSO, INTERESTINGLY enough, the West Bloomfield officials use as one of their reasons for paying themselves more money, the fact that the Bloomfield Township board pays its member clerk and member treasurer $53,000 and $51,000 a year so that they will earn more than Bloomfield Township department heads.

Nobody seems willing, yet, to mention that no township clerk or treasurer has enough work to warrant such salaries. I suppose that this is forgotten in the era of relative affluence.

In the era of relative affluence a person's right to the pursuit of happiness entails making enough money so that the pursuer will feel that he is getting ahead.

GETTING AHEAD is a relative feeling and it depends on making as much or more money than people doing the same work, or people doing similar work or even people doing dissimilar work but working in the same building, or working for the same employer.

Notice, I didn't say earning. Earning is a passe term that has no real bearing in the era of relative affluence.

Making money goes beyond the old-fashioned notion of earning a fair day's pay for a fair day's work. The law of relative affluence states that a person should be paid not only what he is worth, but what he is worth in comparison to what he thinks someone else is worth.

The law of relative affluence explains why Chrysler employees being paid $13.11 per hour are willing to strike in order to be paid same $14.42 per hour that GM and Ford employees will be paid during 1987.

Compounding the Chrysler employees' problem, explains a UAW local official, is the fact that Chrysler chairman Lee Iacocca was paid a $1-million-plus bonus last year and stood to make more than $4 million from stock options as a reward for creating the New Chrysler Corp.

THE WORKERS, according to the union official, look at Iacocca's salary and then "feel there's not getting their share of the pie."

The law of relative affluence is such that Chrysler assemblers can decide that they should make more money because 1) other assemblers are making more, and because 2) Iacocca is making more than assemblers think he should be paid. From this they get the idea that they should make more money.

Perhaps assemblers ought to compare their wages with salaries paid college professors. According to a survey of the Carnegie Foundation for Advancement of Teaching, the average college teacher salary is $27,000, about the same as an assembler.

The survey says 60 percent of the college teachers feel their pay is fair, or poor, and 30 percent are thinking of quitting within the next five years.

Of course, we don't know who college professors are comparing themselves with. Maybe they feel they should make more money because they feel university presidents make too much.

Class, glad to have known you

WE PAID tribute to our friends this weekend. My old friend Randy would have liked the party. I wish he could have been there.

You think of those things when you're having a good time and your buddy is missing.

Most of us have had that experience — losing a friend to the inevitable. My friend Randy fits into this story because he should have been at the big party at the Novi Hilton Saturday night.

The occasion — a reunion — of folks who once lived in the city of Detroit but now mostly have put down roots in the suburbs.

BUT THIS was more than a reunion, I thought to myself as I watched the more than 500 people crowd into the ballroom. This was the baby-boom generation gathered to celebrate its survival through two of the most turbulent decades this nation has known.

This was the generation that had suffered through the assassinations, the sometimes violent demonstrations and the wars that killed and maimed us. This was the generation that enthusiastically responded to one president's call to duty and whose faith in government was nearly crushed by another president's lies.

But we had survived to tell our stories and we were smiling as we did so.

Steve Barnaby

I often have wondered where Randy would have fit into this new and vibrant suburban scene. But he moved off to Arizona during one of Michigan's frequent recessions.

HE NEVER came back — he was killed while serving as a firefighter in Phoenix.

The last time I saw him was during the last reunion 11 years ago — a very different affair. Mostly the same people, but 10 years later they were different.

Not once during the evening was there heard an overinflated story of success or promises to keep in touch.

Time has a way of crushing pretense. We were simply glad to see one another. How we lived or what we did outside of that ballroom mattered little that evening.

Most of us would never see one another again — and we knew it. So we just enjoyed the hours for what they were worth.

Those hours, well, they lasted until 4 a.m. Sunday morning.

AND ALL of us smiled — a lot. And it really felt good.

Last weekend all of Randy's friends were there, and we thought about him and all the rest who have died since that long-ago day in 1964 when we graduated.

We joked about the year-late reunion and noted it was typical of our class — to be a little late. We called it a birthday party — "your absolutely final chance to celebrate a 21st birthday." We even had a three-dimensional cake that looked like the school.

Quips were exchanged — a receding hairline for a bulging waist. But soon, very soon, all that was forgotten.

"HEY, EVERYBODY looks pretty good," someone remarked after a couple of drinks. It was as if time had suspended its sentence for that evening's celebration.

For those quickly passing hours we really did look younger.

Some things never change. Diane Davis still was the best dancer; Betty Wendall and John Grand were still the tallest; and Debbie Dybas was still the most graceful. I know because after 21 years I finally worked up the courage to ask her to dance.

Randy would have been proud.

House keeps wheat supports

Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll-call votes conducted Sept. 26 through Oct. 3.

HOUSE

TARGET PRICES — By a vote of 93 for and 334 against, the House rejected a Reagan Administration-backed amendment to reduce federal income support payments to wheat farmers.

The wheat "target price" in the new farm bill (HR 2100) is frozen at $4.38 per bushel for the next five years.

It would have diminished under this amendment to $3.57 by the 1990 crop year, lowering farm income but saving the Treasury an estimated $5.5 billion.

Income supports are the "deficiency payments" the government provides to growers to close the gap between the market price of a crop and the higher target price set by Congress.

Sponsor Barney Frank, D-Mass., criticized the farm bill as "a massive effort to continue an industrial policy for agriculture, which says we will continue to subsidize people to grow, whether we need it or not."

Opponent Byron Dorgan, D-N.D., called the amendment "a death sentence for thousands and thousands of family farmers across the country."

Voting no: Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, Dennis Hertel, D-Harper Woods, William Ford, D-Taylor, Sander Levin, D-Southfield.

VOTE — By a vote of 251 for and 174 against, the House stripped the farm bill (HR 1200, above) of a section enabling wheat and feed grain producers to decide by referendum if they wanted severe production controls accompanied by higher price supports for domestic sales and export subsidies for sales abroad.

This was probably the most original and controversial section of HR 1200.

The vote was a rare victory for the Reagan Administration, which during several days of debate had lost most of its attempts to keep the new farm bill from increasing farm spending and enlarging the federal role in U.S. agriculture.

Edward Madigan, R-Ill., who led the fight to delete the section, said "a farmer who chose not to participate in the program would not be able to sell the commodity that he produced in the United States of America."

Timothy Penny, D-Minn., said the referendum "gives the farmers a chance to vote for themselves to improve the price for their commodities."

Members voting no favored the new program. Voting no: Hertel and Levin.

Voting yes: Pursell and Broomfield.

Not voting: Ford.

LABOR DEPT. — The House passed, 322 for and 107 against, and sent to the Senate a $104.9 billion fiscal 1986 appropriations bill (HR 3424) for the departments of Labor, Education, Health and Human Services and independent agencies.

The sum is $4.3 billion above the administration's budget request but $3.4 billion below 1985 outlays for the three departments and 10 federal agencies.

Among its multitude of provisions, the bill earmarks $189.7 million for research into the disease AIDS, and extends until Nov. 14 the deadline by which state and local government must comply with the U.S. Supreme Court's "Garcia" ruling on overtime pay policies.

That decision, which had been scheduled to take effect Oct. 15, requires state and municipal governments to provide employees with extra pay rather than compensatory time off ("comp time") for overtime work.

Members voting yes wanted to pass the appropriations bill. Voting yes: Pursell, Hertel, Ford and Levin.

Voting no: Broomfield.

AIDS — The House adopted, 417 for and 8 against, an amendment insuring that the U.S. Surgeon General can padlock "any bathroom or massage parlor" that he finds is furthering the spread of AIDS (acquired immune deficiency syndrome).

This occurred during debate on HR 3424 (above). Sponsor Robert Dornan, R-Calif., called his amendment "a tiny, small step forward to do something to help people who in many cases seem unable or unwilling to help themselves as far as stopping the transmissions of this disease."

Opponent Bill Green, D-N.Y., said closing places "where some members of the at-risk population tend to gather" could hamper efforts "to reach out and educate" homosexuals and others about the disease.

Members voting yes supported the amendment. Broomfield, Ford, Hertel, Levin and Pursell all voted yes.

SENATE

BUDGET CUT — By a vote of 24 for and 72 against, the Senate rejected an amendment to increase fiscal 1986 spending for the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) by 5 percent, or $1.53 million, above the level set by the Appropriations Committee.

The vote occurred during debate on an appropriations bill (S 3036) that was sent to conference with the House.

Sponsor James Abdnor, R-S.D., said reducing the OMB's budget would impair its ability to cut spending elsewhere in the government.

Opponent Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., said the OMB should "set an example for all other agencies" by accepting the cut.

Senators voting yes wanted to increase spending for the OMB.

Voting no: Michigan Democrats Carl Levin and Donald Riegle.

TEXTILES — By a vote of 42 for and 53 against, the Senate refused to table (kill) legislation protecting the American textile and clothing industries against imports from Asia, Latin America and Africa.

The vote kept the textile bill as part of an unrelated foreign policy measure (SJR Res 77) that later was pulled off the floor.

Trading partners particularly hard hit by the proposed import barriers would be China, South Korea, Thailand and Taiwan. Southern textile workers and New York City apparel makers would be especially helped by the legislation, which President Reagan has threatened to veto.

John Danforth, R-Mo., who voted to kill the measure, called it "terrible legislation" that would "hurt many, many more Americans than it would help." Levin and Riegle joined him in voting against tabling.

Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., a sponsor of the legislation, said "a viable textile/apparel industry is absolutely essential to the economy and national security of this nation" and voted to table.

Air class grounds fear of flying

Capt. Tom Petee, director of special projects for USAir, explains the principles of an air flight.

By Carolyn DeMarco
staff writer

ERICA JONG wrote about it, John Madden jokes about it, and one in six Americans suffer from it — the fear of flying.

For most the fear is vague. A combination of phobias may be present, among them claustrophobia, acrophobia and the fear of death. For many, the knowledge that they have no control over a situation is enough to trigger anxiety in what have come to be called "white knuckle flyers."

USAir is one airline that is attempting to bring white knuckle flyers out of the closet and into the air through its Fearful Flyers Program.

ALTHOUGH THE program has been in existence since 1975, only this past year has it been regularly scheduled. During the next 12 months, the seven-week class will be offered 10 times in cities serviced by USAir, among them Pittsburgh, Syracuse, Albany and Washington, D.C.

A Detroit session began Sept. 10 and continues through Oct. 22. Each Tuesday 7:30-10:30 p.m. classes are held in the Detroit Marriott Hotel/Airport for 28 persons from as far away as Ohio and East Lansing.

Alleviating the fear of flying is approached from two directions — aviation education and behavior modification.

Capt. Frank Petee, director of special projects for USAir and former director of flight training, is in charge of the education portion. Petee retired from flying in 1981 with 40 years of commercial flying experience behind him.

CAROL STAUFFER, a clinical social worker under contract with the airline, teaches stress management techniques. Stauffer has degrees in psychology and social work and teaches behavioral modification methods at the University of Pittsburgh.

Kathy Kocsis, of Garden City, is one of the white knuckle flyers enrolled in the class. A bookkeeper with a Livonia optical company, she and her husband, Sgt. Dave Kocsis of the Garden City Police Department, have flown "20-25 times in the past 14 years," but in an interview before the class began, she said, "the problem (the fear of flying) keeps getting worse."

In June, the couple flew to Texas with a stop in St. Louis.

"That meant four times up and four times down," she said. "When I landed back in Detroit, I said I'd never get back in a plane."

It was then that her husband reminded her of a planned Las Vegas trip. He told her, "If you're not going with me, you can drive me to the airport."

KATHY DECIDED then and there "I had to do something about it." She made six 45-minute visits to a psychiatrist at $61 per session. He told her it would take months to work out her problems, and by then "Blue Cross was running out."

When she learned of the Fearful Flyers class she considered it a "god-send" and enrolled the next day.

Ironically, it was a boating accident rather than an air-related incident that first instilled fear in Kathy. A boat in which she was a passenger flipped while traveling at a high rate of speed and put her in the hospital, unconscious with broken ribs.

Since then riding in both airplanes and boats rekindles her fears. The anxieties begin even before she enters the airplane, she said.

ONCE ABOARD, Kocsis explained, "I strap myself in the seat — never a window seat — and refuse to get up. I don't even want to visit the bathroom. I feel lightheaded . . . dizzy . . . my nerves feel 'crawly' . . . I'm white as a ghost. I can't eat and I don't even want to look at food. I just know the plane's going down."

"Once we're on the ground I start to relax," she added. "I try not to let it ruin my trip, but there's always the flight home."

During a class nearly halfway through the session, Kathy said she already felt a difference in her attitude.

"I didn't know anyone who had the same problems. It's good to know there are others like you out there. I know I'm going to be ready to go up in that plane."

"That plane," to which Kathy refers will be the one available Oct. 22 to take all class participants on a one-hour graduation flight.

The educational part of the program is based on the theory that people tend to fear those things they do not understand. The majority of class time is spent in the meeting room, where Capt. Petee discusses a variety of aviation topics — the mechanics of flight, pilot training, flight preparation, en route flight procedures, safety checks, turbulence, maintenance, take-offs and landings, etc.

UNFORTUNATELY, Petee said, because of the recent air tragedies, "too much time has been spent on explaining accidents."

In terms of safety, Petee said, "We're getting better and better. You wouldn't think it from the recent string of accidents, but that's just a temporary setback."

After a question and answer period, Stauffer steps in to conduct breathing and muscle relaxation exercises. It is physiologically impossible to be both tense and relaxed at the same time, Stauffer said. "If a person can learn to relax his body at will, he will be able to fly in comfort."

Several guest speakers are scheduled during the course. They include Jack O'Neill, USAir manager of development engineering, whose topic is aircraft design; an air traffic control representative from the FAA; and flight attendants.

Tours of a DC-9 cabin and cockpit, the terminal radar room and control tower are also on the itinerary.

Typically, Stauffer said, classes range from 20 to 50 persons from a wide variety of backgrounds and experiences.

Stauffer said a 1983 study showed that 97 per cent of those in the class have reported improvement in a questionnaire completed several months after graduation.

To make the class absolutely authentic, members were even walked through the security X-ray area. Here, Gerry Allen is on his way to board the USAir DC-9 where part of the class was held.

All classes meet six months after graduation to exchange success stories.

Although no date has been confirmed, USAir will repeat its Fearful Flyer course in the Detroit area within the next year. Cost of the seven-week session is $195, which includes a graduation flight. Interested persons can contact USAir Fearful Flyers Program, Box 100, Glenshaw, PA 15226. Telephone (313) 336-4539.

A 1983 study showed that 97 percent of those in the class reported improvement in a questionnaire completed several months after graduation. All classes meet six months after graduation to exchange success stories.

Gerry Allen of Canton asks for more information on recent crashes.

Virginia Duffo of Canton found the in-cabin relaxation exercises helpful.

Loreta Sager of Livonia, who attended with her brother, Gerry Allen of Canton, said, "I love to fly, but each time I do I say, 'I'll never do that again!'"

Barbara Turner of Birmingham promised herself a trip to Hawaii for her 40th birthday. First, however, she has to "get rid of her fears."

Capt. Frank Petee said that, unfortunately, because of recent air tragedies, too much classroom time is spent on explaining the accidents.

Senior clubs get a head start on Christmas plans

First and foremost I want to thank all those who called about last week's "missing column." It was very kind and thoughtful. Besides your concern for my health and whereabouts, it was very reassuring to know that you missed me.

Let me now apologize for my absence. I will try to keep that sort of thing from occurring again. It was not by choice. I wrote some preliminary but unacceptable material and then, as luck would have it, took ill before I could get out a decent column for your reading enjoyment. That is not to say that this column is doing much better, so on to some stuff.

It was during one of those phone calls that I learned that our local senior citizens are up to something very special this month. As you may know the senior citizen center serves all seniors of Canton, however the members are organized into three different groups. This allows them to participate in many more functions in a more manageable group size. However, if bulk is what you like, they can provide that too when all groups meet together.

BUT TODAY I have news from the Zesters. The word itself describes the group and their attitude and, as you might guess, this group has once again beat the younger set to the punch and is having a Christmas Bazaar this month.

Talk about drawing a crowd, the group will again join several other senior groups and meet in the Westland Mall to display and sell their Christmas treasures on Oct. 24, 25. I do apologize for mentioning the commercial aspect of "you know what" day at such an early date, and I realize I may lose some readers over this, but I can only report what the people report to me. Therefore, even though it is only October, we must face the ugly truth sometime, no matter how difficult. So, from a spiritual standpoint, I am pleased to announce this; however, from the more practical standpoint as a mother of four who has failed up to this date to secure a job which pays money, instead of the more spiritually gratifying satisfaction of having done good — well, from my deepest heart, I am sorry to remind all of you that just around the corner is . . . Christmas.

Canton chatter

Sandy Preblich

So, with that in mind, let's get out to the Westland Mall and pick up some of the treasures that the seniors have been creating all year long just for us. They tell me that the Zesters have keyed in on magnets this year since a lot of interest has been shown in that area recently. That is not to say they don't have many, many other items. For instance, decorations for the tree, or how about those dish towels with the crocheted tops. These are very handy for children to give to grandmas or teachers, or aunts, or hint, hint . . . mothers.

NEVER FEAR! Where there are Zesters there has got to be food. Ray Schultz, president of the Zesters, will be sure of that.

A Bake Sale will accompany the Christmas Sale and they promise me that this year I will be able to find them. Last year I walked all over Westland Mall looking for them and couldn't find their table.

Well, this year Helen Maloney . . . yes, indeed, this is the very same and very famous Helen Maloney you saw on the front page of last week's Canton Observer . . . well, this very famous zesty Zester, made a sign for the booth so we will be able to find them this year.

I don't want to forget to tell you that this year's bazaar is brought to you by the ladies of the Zester club under the joint chairmanship of Lillian Johnson, Pearl Photos and Katherine Schultz. I wish the Zesters loads of luck and I thank them for the call.

Speaking of Helen Maloney, my congratulations to her on the lovely article which naturally did little more than scratch the surface recounting this lady's experiences here in Canton. It surely did, however, whet the appetite. As I have said so many times in this column, there are certain people in this township that you see just everywhere, and when I think of that little instant camera that Helen carries and flashes at everyone — if she has developed half of those pictures she should own stock in Kodak. She must have pictures of almost everyone in the township. She surely is one of those people I can always turn to for a bit of history. Helen, Charles Zazula and Dorothy West are three that come to mind when I need information.

Charles is, of course, the same gentleman who submitted that poem honoring our newcomers and what a unique item it was, to have one who is so well-known for his historical value to be one to write a welcome to our newcomers. It sure adds to the warmth of a community.

The other person I mentioned I also have known for sometime, Dorothy West, a descendant of our founding fathers, she carries on tradition with great grace as she is past president and now hostess of the Canton Historical Society and museum respectively.

When my daughter was preparing a report about the history of this area, we counted extensively on information from Dorothy. She never ceased to amaze me, as I squirm to recall my address and phone number, in the same sentence, and she can recite the history of residents in any given location in Canton.

She can explain in great detail the history of Plymouth and Canton, and how the two started, grew together, relied on each other and became the Plymouth-Canton community today. But she can't tell me how P came before C in the alphabet. This is another one of the mysteries of life I keep accumulating which never will be solved.

Perhaps I shall never need to actually write that novel, I can just go over my past three years plus of columns and gather all my mysterious questions of life and print them in a book . . . "In Search of the Answers to the Mysteries of Life" as questioned by Sandy Preblich.

Then again, maybe I'd better try and get a real job like my family says.

Anyway, my thanks to Charles, Helen and Dorothy for the many enriching conversations I have had with each. I hope that many more Cantonites have the opportunity to meet these people — some of Canton's finest — and learn what we are really about. By the way, while I'm congratulating, how about Dorothy West and Ray Schultz for their well-deserved awards of "Winner of the Year." Many congratulations to you both but I have always known you were winners.

THE LIONS wish to thank everyone who donated blood in its first attempt at a blood drive. I issue my deep apology about the incorrect date that appeared in my column. I did send that date to the office and I did try to make the change, but apparently my message did not catch up with my column and the incorrect date appeared in the column. I am sorry for the inconvenience I caused any of you. Your hearts were in the right place, and it's not your fault your body was there on the wrong day. By the way, they made 84.6 per cent of their goal — not at all bad, especially for a first time out. For those of you who could have, but just didn't donate on either day, shame on you.

Finally, Wayne County Executive William Lucas is coming to the Sandy Show again. If you have any questions for him please give me a call, no name need be given. If you would like to be in the studio audience, please call now as seating is limited. Seating will be a first-come basis and reservations only. Let me know if your group would like a tour of the studio, and we will be happy to arrange that for you. The show will be taped on Oct. 21 and aired the week of Oct. 28 so you can walk home, run home, or roller skate home and see yourself on T.V.

Mercy offers weekend degree plan

Many professionals who deserve a career promotion may not get it because they lack a college degree, said Pat Gallagher, director of the Weekend College at Mercy College.

"Promote Your Future — Earn a Degree on Weekends" will be presented by Gallagher during the Weekend College Expo at the Mercy's Conference Center 5-8 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 24, and on Saturday, Oct. 26, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Mercy is at West Outer Drive and the Southfield Freeway, Detroit.

Information will be available on how the Weekend College works, career transitions, admissions procedures and financial aid. The Weekend College offers degree programs in business administration, health services, health care administration, legal assistant, medical record science and public administration.

Weekend College classes typically meet for four hours five Saturdays a semester.

Students complete independent assignments to cover the same course content as traditional college programs.

Outlet for artists

Trinity House Players move toward goal

By Marie McGee
staff writer

CHRISTIAN theater is alive and well in the picturesque playhouse on Six Mile Road, just west of I-275 in Livonia that is "home" to Trinity House Players.

One sign that the group is flourishing is the many physical improvements that the fledgling theater troupe have accomplished at the historic white clapboard playhouse that was built in 1850.

The oak floors have been refinished to their original luster, for instance. The stage has been raised. The seating has been elevated. There's a permanent backdrop and improved stage lighting. There's also honest-to-goodness dressing rooms now with makeup lighting and a counter. And there's even a new restroom and improved parking facilities.

Those are the exterior signs of the group's progress in the five years since its organization.

What matters more, however, to them is the inward progress that has been made in the group's long-range goal of becoming an outlet for the energies of Christian artists not only in Livonia, but in the entire Metropolitan area.

PROOF THAT they have made strides in this direction came recently by way of recognition in a national church magazine article that called attention to the growing number of Christian arts groups springing up throughout the country. A recent count of such groups showed there were at least 83 in existence.

Among them was Trinity House Players.

The article mentioned that the group "does original plays in what was once a small rural church that has been transformed into an intimate playhouse."

It wasn't much of a mention. What mattered was that they were included with such groups as the Lamb's Players on the West Coast, probably the best known in the country, and Chicago's New Light Theater, which played to full houses every weekend last summer after a Chicago Tribune theater critic favorably reviewed their production of "Cotton Patch Gospel."

IT WAS ENOUGH recognition to convince them that they were on the right track in what they have been trying to do from the very beginning — to provide Christian theater minus the obvious religious trappings and sermonizing.

Much of the credit for the group's steady progress belongs to Paul Patton, playwright-preacher-actor, who founded the group.

It was under Patton's direction that the group last year brought to Livonia Nigel Goodwin, a major figure in CIVA — an acronym for Christians in the Visual Arts. Goodwin developed the Arts Centre Group in London.

This year, in cooperation with Trinity Baptist Church where Patton is an associate pastor, the group has brought British philosopher/pastor John Peck to the area for a year of lectures and writing.

PATTON BECAME convinced that Peck could provide the stimulus the group needed to expand its efforts after reading an article Peck wrote titled, "Art and Evangelism."

Peck wrote: "Art is the means whereby the outsider can for himself, taste something of what life under God is like. He can enter into it precisely because he is not being cornered in a self-commitment, so he does not have to be on his guard."

"He can be tempted to enter into it because a work of art offers in the first place, a possible pleasure. And he can feel free to enter into it because the artist is simply inviting him to look, listen or whatever. He is not having ideas imposed upon him; he is left free to make the discovery in his own way."

The key to success, Peck believes, is artistic expertise. And that's what the Trinity Players will concentrate on — under Peck's eagle eye.

Up to now, the group has produced plays mainly written by Patton. This year, they will try some new things, including a melodrama which will be the next presentation when the group completes its current production of "Junior High," a musical look back to 1965.

The melodrama, "Beautiful Beulah Belle," and "A Glimpse at 1912," dramatic monologues, will be presented Oct. 25-26, Nov. 1-2, 8-9.

Other presentations will be:

• "Where Love Is," a dramatization from Tolstoy's "Where Love Is, There Is God Also" and "The Bishop's Candlesticks," based on an incident in Victor Hugo's "Les Misérables," slated for

'Art is the means whereby the outsider can, for himself, taste something of what life under God is like. He can enter into it precisely because he is not being cornered into a self-commitment, so he does not have to be on his guard.'

— John Peck
philosopher/pastor

Nov. 22-23, 29-30 and Dec. 6-7.

• "An Evening with Abe Lincoln," by Jack Bradford, Jan. 24-25, 31, Feb. 1, 7-8.

• "Starting Over Slowly," by Paul Patton, a comedy-drama about a family. They won't remind you at all of the Cleavers, especially after you meet their neighbors. It is scheduled for Feb. 14-15, 21-22, 28, March 1, 7-8.

• "The Slinger," Dean Nelson's stage adaptation of the Calvin Miller novel. It's the challenging tale of the Slinger, his song and its chorus, set for March 21-22, 28-29, April 4-5.

• "The Paradise," a new musical by Patton and Henry Woodworth. The setting is an old, wonderfully quaint hotel in the Caribbean. The endearing and sometimes wacky staff fight tooth and nail to keep their beloved Paradise away from the wrecking ball of so-called progress.

In addition to the dramatic presentations, the players will sponsor the fourth annual arts seminar with Peck and Nigel Goodwin teaming up with others in the field. That's set for Feb. 27-28 and March 1.

SUCCESS FOR the tightly knit group of actors has come in several areas. One of course, is sell-out audiences at most of their productions.

The other is the positive response from others in the drama community who have stepped forward and offered to help with productions.

An example of that came last year when several people affiliated with the Theatre Guild of Livonia-Redford acted as consultants as well as taking an active role in some of the Trinity House productions.

One of those was veteran community actress Colleen Hackney who served as director, choreographer, musical director as well as a consultant last season.

An international acquisition this year was Brian Heersink, a Canadian actor, who trained in New York City.

"He heard of us, came to see a play and believed so much in what we were doing that he moved to Windsor and took a job as painter so he could work with us," said Patton.

With the influx of new people into the group, Patton has given up the way he originally cast the plays. In the beginning, he singled out people he felt would fit the role.

"I've been convinced that we need to use more orthodox casting methods," he said with a smile.

Now the casting calls are publicized in hopes of attracting even more people who are interested in extending their Christian life through the arts.

An advertising slogan of a few years back offers the best advice regarding Trinity House shows: "Try it — you'll like it."

Tickets for "Junior High" are available by calling 464-6304 anytime. Tickets are $4. The playhouse is at 38840 Six Mile Road, Livonia. Curtain time is 8 p.m.

Brian Heersink comes from Canada to direct the Trinity House show, "Junior High." Susan VandenBrink is the show's choreographer. Both made extensive changes in the original show by adding more songs and dances.

Recital to dedicate new church organ

Dr. David O. Wagner will perform an organ recital at 3 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 27, at Salem United Church of Christ in Farmington.

The recital will dedicate the church's new Allen Organ, Model 3000, installed in the church last summer by Smiley Brothers Organ Co. of Detroit.

noon musical host at classical radio station WQRS-FM and the producer and host of the Quest for Excellence competition for young Michigan musicians.

He is adjunct assistant professor of music at Madonna College in Livonia and the director of music at St. Paul

Wins mean little to a coach's fate

GEORGE SOMMERMAN resigned from his position as Westland John Glenn varsity girls basketball coach last week, proving once again that there is no success in success.

Pardon the redundancy, but if you scan the sports pages you'll find that winning is not everything, particularly for coaches. Take a losing team, turn it into a winner and what happens? The next season people expect that team to battle for a championship.

So go ahead and win a league title — and people expect a long run in the state playoffs. Guide a team to a state championship, and people expect you to do it again and again.

Sooner or later the chain will be broken. That's when the doubters take center stage. "What's wrong with these guys?" or "They don't want it as much," or even "He can't coach. He just got lucky one year."

It happens constantly, with members of the media bearing a major portion of responsibility.

SUCCESS, YOU must understand, is relative. A 6-6 season for Michigan State in football is a good year; at University of Michigan it's a disaster.

Al Fracassa's Birmingham Brother Rice football squad is 1-5 and everyone is baffled. John Herrington's Farmington Harrison gridders lose to Livonia Franklin and people are astounded. Oakland University loses two straight soccer games and fans are scratching their heads.

Fans expect success, but in varying degrees. It depends on what the program has been like in the past.

Which brings us back to Sommerman. He resigned Oct. 7 following John Glenn's game with Northville.

His timing was puzzling. The Rockets had just beaten Northville in what Sommerman insisted was one of the team's better performances of the season. And Glenn had a 7-2 record at that point.

HAD THE ROCKETS been inconsistent — up one year, down the next — or were they consistently mediocre? Neither — the last time they had a losing record was 1978. They were 18-3 last year, and under Sommerman — the only man to coach Glenn's varsity (until last Thursday) — they won 120 of 201 games, about 60 percent.

In high school sports, with all its variables, seven straight winning seasons, a league title and a couple of second-place finishes is more than respectable. Sommerman should go out in glory, lauded for all he accomplished, with a testimonial dinner to boot.

Instead, he leaves in midseason because a handful of parents weren't happy with the way he did his job.

Maybe now you begin to understand. Winning and losing means little. A successful coach is not only someone who can establish goals and realize them, but who can deal with outside pressures and influences, as well as the multitude of frustrations inherent in the position.

All this, remember, for a paltry sum of money.

SOMMERMAN WAS a good coach. He drew criticism because of his team's poor post-season record (the Rockets won just one district title), his detractors questioning his ability to coach considering "all the talent he had to work with."

When players' parents confronted Sommerman after the Northville game, his will to coach was broken. "I was crushed, I was really crushed," Sommerman admitted.

Every coach experiences moments like these. They tell themselves to ignore it, that these parents don't know what they're talking about, that they don't understand.

Sommerman told himself the same things. But through the years the negatives kept mounting, like the ocean rising toward high tide. Soon it was so deep, the criticisms became so burdensome, even the victories could not buoy him.

As Sommerman said, "I tried to forgive and forget, but I kept remembering."

SO SOMMERMAN checked out, leaving with his head high, knowing what he accomplished few people could have. He built Glenn's girls basketball program, a task that should not be underestimated. Varsity sports for girls barely existed when he began. Great strides have been made in the last decade, but much work remains before female athletics can truly be called the equal of their male counterparts.

Girls still take a back seat to boys in sports. Sommerman can recall the indignities his team and others endured — practicing in a parking lot and playing in a gym while it was being painted — as they battled for position in this male-dominated world. Many still exist.

But Sommerman won't have to put up with them any longer. Nor will he have to swallow his pride like he did when angry parents berated him. At 49, he says he's "out of coaching, forever." He'll sit in the stands and watch his two daughters, Diana and Ruth, play for Glenn.

And in the days ahead, he'll be able to look back on his coaching record and know the only person he had to satisfy, he did — himself.

Gilles advances in regional nets

By Chris McCosky
staff writer

Observerland's No. 1 tennis team, Plymouth Salem, will not be playing in the state Class A meet at Midland Dow Friday.

Observerland's premier singles player, Salem's Wendy Gilles, will.

Salem, champions of the Western Lakes and unbeaten in dual matches, placed third in the tough Ann Arbor Pioneer regional Saturday. Ann Arbor Huron won the meet with 23 points and Pioneer placed second (22).

The top two finishers in each region advance into the state meet. The No. 1 singles champion also advances.

"WE HAD a nice season," said Salem coach Judy Braun. "We kind of felt we could have done a little better in the regional if we got any kind of break in the draw. We have one of the top teams in the state, and it's a shame we don't get a chance to go."

Gilles, a highly ranked junior amateur tennis player, won the No. 1 singles title, beating Huron's Wendy Straus, 6-3, 6-1. She has yet to drop a set this season.

Gilles is expected to draw the No. 1 or No. 2 seed at the state meet. She, in all probability, will face two-time high school singles champ Candy Kopetzki of Sterling Heights in the finals.

Salem's Anita Toth advanced to the regional finals at No. 2 singles before bowing to Huron's Michelle Hurrelbrink, 6-1, 6-3.

AT THE SCHOOLCRAFT College regional, hosted by Livonia Stevenson, Birmingham Marian (26 points) and Birmingham Seaholm (23) earned state meet berths.

Farmington Hills Mercy (13) placed third.

The regional finale was transformed into a dual meet between Marian and Seaholm — Marian won 5-3 (see statistical summary for complete results).

Observerland's best hope at a regional title was at No. 3 singles where Mercy's Becky Taskch was seeded No. 1. But she was unseeded in the semifinals by Seaholm's Debbie Michelson (6-3, 6-3).

'Each possession was a war'; Canton survives

By Chris McCosky
staff writer

First-year Plymouth Canton girls basketball coach Rob Neu looked like a young man who had been in a fight.

His blond hair was matted to the sides of his head with perspiration. His face was flushed, his blue eyes glazed and bloodshot.

But the smile on his face reached from one end of the Plymouth Salem gym to the other.

His underdog Chiefs knocked off Plymouth Salem, their neighboring rivals and one of the state's top-ranked teams, 25-24, Tuesday night before a large and charged up crowd.

One could excuse a little giddiness, a little delirium, on his part. After all, it was without a doubt the proudest moment of his young coaching career and one of the happier moments in the history of the Canton program.

But delirium and giddiness were hard to detect in Neu. Fatigue was obvious, but he was able to quickly and concisely put the game into perspective.

"EVERY POSSESSION was a war," he said.

It's no overstatement. You'd think, looking at the 25-24 score, that the game was sloppily played. Hardly. The low score was a result of two of the area's best defensive teams matching up head-to-head.

"Obviously, when you only score 24 or 25 points, every possession becomes critical," said Salem head coach Fred Thomann, who not too long ago coached a young point guard named Rob Neu at Salem. "And we had a lot of misplayed possessions. We talked earlier in the week about the team that made fewer mistakes would win this game. Canton made fewer mistakes than we did."

The game was dead-even for virtually all 32 minutes. The score after one quarter was 4-4. At the half, Salem led 9-8. After three quarters, Salem led 17-16.

In those three quarters, Salem took 27 shots and Canton 30. Salem hit six, Canton seven. Salem made five of 11 free throws, Canton two of three.

THE FOURTH quarter was rugged. Karen Boluch hit a jumper to put Canton up 18-17.

Dena Head, who was held in check by the unrelenting pressure of Diana Knickerbocker, hit a spectacular driving layup and the subsequent foul shot to put Salem up 20-18.

Knickerbocker countered with a half-hook shot to retie the score. After a Salem miss, Laura Darby rolled in a shot to put Canton up 22-20.

Kristen Hostynski scored on Salem's next possession: 22-22.

Who would have guessed that Salem would go without points for the next 4½ minutes?

The Rocks missed four field goals and four free throws in that span, and Canton limited its foe to just one offensive rebound.

Darby hit one of two free throws with 2:33 left to make it 23-22. Beth Frigge hit one of two free throws with 1:16 left, 24-22. Then Frigge again hit one of two with 39 seconds left, 25-22.

HOSTYNSKI, who missed a pair of free throws in the previous possession, broke the Rocks' drought with two free throws with 30 seconds left to make it 25-24.

Salem got the ball back with 23 seconds left but couldn't score.

When the gun sounded, the Canton fans (who outnumbered the home team's fans) streamed onto the court and embraced their team at center court.

"This feels awesome," said Frigge, who hadn't forgotten the pain of the

Ocelots 1 win shy of kick title

Great talent does not assure team greatness.

A proper blend is essential. Players must be willing to sacrifice for the good of the team. Schoolcraft College's men's soccer team is doing just that, which is why the Ocelots are two games ahead in Region XII standings.

Schoolcraft widened its lead with a 5-2 victory over Macomb Community College Saturday at Schoolcraft. Macomb is second in the region at 3-2; the Ocelots are 5-0 in region play and 7-1-1 overall.

"Just about every player who came off the bench did a great job for us," said Schoolcraft coach Van Dimitriou. "They all played like starters."

The Ocelots jumped out to a 3-0 first-half lead before Macomb struck back to close to within 3-2 at halftime. John Gelmisi (from Livonia Stevenson) scored Schoolcraft's first goal, putting in the rebound after his penalty kick was stopped. The kick was called after Randy Johnson (Plymouth Salem) was pulled down in the penalty area.

Dan Ortiz pumped in a rebound of a Matt Pace shot to make it 2-0 20 minutes into the game, and Rick Hamers made it 3-0 10 minutes later on a penalty shot after Dimitriou was illegally tackled.

AT THAT POINT Dimitriou began substituting heavily and momentum shifted. Macomb scored twice in a seven-minute span, with Dennis Crescent and Taras Wowk getting the goals.

Schoolcraft again took command of the game in the second half, with Pace filling a major role in the scoring. A Pace crossing pass to Jeff Neschich (Salem) put Schoolcraft up 4-2 15 minutes into the second half, and 13 minutes later Pace took a pass from Gelmisi and broke in on the Macomb goalie all alone.

A key element in the Ocelot win was the defensive work of Hamers, from Leek, the Netherlands. The midfielder effectively marked Macomb scoring sensation Dan Jovanovski and kept him from contributing offensively. In the first meeting between the two teams, Jovanovski had two goals and an assist in a 5-3 Schoolcraft win.

He "(Hamers) denied him the ball," said Dimitriou. "It was an outstanding job. He completely subdued him."

Dimitriou also lauded the play of Abe Yaffai (Livonia Bentley), who filled Hamers' midfield spot, fullbacks Scott Steiner (Salem), Todd Ericson (Stevenson) and Mark Konopatzki (Garden City), and goalkeeper Sam Matovski (Livonia Churchill).

The Ocelots play at region rival Lakeland CC Saturday.

Lady Ocelots put playoffs in sight

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

Time was quickly running out on Schoolcraft College's women's soccer team — and the season was going with it.

The Lady Ocelots were 2-3-4 prior to last weekend's trip to play a pair of formidable St. Louis-area community college teams. They knew what they had to do if they still entertained hopes for a post-season NJCAA playoff berth — win.

Playing well but losing, or even tying, would not be enough any longer. They needed victories.

WITH 10 MINUTES left in Friday's game at Florissant Valley CC, Schoolcraft had played well. They had controlled the game. But they trailed 1-0, the deficit the result of a Florissant Valley penalty kick 15 minutes earlier.

"I got a few more gray hairs in this one," admitted Schoolcraft coach Ed Dudek. Fortunately, the Lady Ocelots had Denise Piwko, who proved unstoppable. The forward from Fraser drilled in four goals in a 20-minute span to lead Schoolcraft to a 4-1 triumph.

Friday's win seemed to relax the Lady Ocelots. On Saturday they overcame a soggy field to blank Meramec 2-0 and improve their record to 4-3-4.

"This was a very important weekend for us," said Dudek. "We got two victories against teams looking for spots in the (NJCAA) playoffs. Now, before the committee considers those, we'll have to consider us."

FOR A LONG time against Florissant Valley, Dudek wasn't so optimistic. "We had trouble putting the ball in the net at first," he said, "but once we did we started playing differently. We played a much stronger game."

"In the first half, we missed a couple of breakaways, we hit the post, and we shot wide. We had the wind, but we didn't take advantage of it."

Piwko finally ignited the Lady Ocelots. Tina Bazur chipped the ball over the Florissant defenders and Piwko streaked in to knot the score with 10 minutes left in regulation.

Schoolcraft sports

Overtime consisted of two 10-minute periods, and Schoolcraft had the wind for the first 10 minutes. Piwko made the most of it, converting a long pass through the defense from Sheri Wolfe (from Livonia Bentley) to give Schoolcraft the lead.

Florissant Valley let up after that, and Piwko scored again, this time with the ball deflecting off a defender and into the net. Sue Caprara (Livonia Franklin) assisted.

Piwko's fourth goal came following a scramble in front of the Florissant net. Angie Butterfield got control of the ball and sent it to Mary Jo Taylor (Southfield), who got it to Piwko for the goal.

A MUDDY FIELD marred play at Meramec, but Schoolcraft was better able to adjust. Sue Bartrum (Farmington) drilled a direct kick into the net midway through the first half from 30 yards out to put the Lady Ocelots ahead 1-0.

Wendy Propp, who moved to forward from fullback because of injuries, finished a play started by Piwko and Lori Nicley (Troy Athens) with 28 minutes left to play.

Schoolcraft's defense sparked in both games, led by Wolfe, Shannon Bowler (Livonia Ladywood), Julie Nowka, Lisa Griffin (Franklin), Taylor and Jane Moylan (Ladywood). Against Meramec, Bartrum and regular goalkeeper Doreen Beagle (Livonia Stevenson) split time in the net because Beagle was suffering from shin splints.

Injuries are mounting for Schoolcraft. Dorene Dudek (Livonia Churchill) re-injured a knee and may be out for the season. Tamara Brown is also out with a knee injury, and several others are playing with minor hurts.

Schoolcraft plays at Kalamazoo College Saturday.

Glenn's Sommerman resigns

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

George Sommerman was the only girls varsity basketball coach in the history of Westland John Glenn high school — until Thursday.

In a sudden development, Sommerman ended his tenure as coach following Glenn's 47-36 triumph over Northville Tuesday.

"I guess I'd have to say yes," said John Glenn athletic director Gerald Szukaitus when asked if Sommerman's announcement caught him by surprise. "He just submitted a brief letter of resignation."

Pat Bennett, the Rockets junior varsity coach, assumed the varsity coaching duties on an interim basis, Szukaitus said. Bennett was on the Glenn bench Thursday when the Rockets fell to Plymouth Salem 35-24.

Sommerman coached Glenn since the varsity girls program's inception. During his more than a decade of coaching, the Rockets won 70 percent of their games, compiling an 18-3 record last season and a 7-2 mark this year.

"It's been a lot of things, piling up over the years," Sommerman said in explaining his sudden departure. "It was just a lot of little things. I've been shot at by parents a little bit, and it got kind of vicious."

"I tried to forgive and forget, but I kept remembering."

PARENTS OF SOME of the Glenn players apparently criticized Sommerman's coaching after the Northville game Tuesday. Sommerman would not elaborate except to say that it "revolved around their not agreeing with what I was trying to do with the team. They thought I was a lousy coach, and they didn't like the way I handled the team."

"Really, they're very nice people, all of them," Sommerman insisted. "Even the parents who were on me are very nice. It really surprised me."

Sommerman insisted that Tuesday's confrontation was not the sole reason for his retirement, saying that "the frustrations kept piling up, piling up over the years."

Szukaitus said he did not try to convince Sommerman to reconsider his decision. "We felt he'd definitely made up his mind, that this is what would be best for him."

"I know he was under pressure from parents, that sort of thing. Every coach goes through it."

Salem subdues Churchill in pool

Livonia Churchill captured seven of 11 first places, but Plymouth Salem won Tuesday's Western Lakes girls dual swim meet on depth, scoring a 92-79 triumph over the visiting Chargers.

Churchill's Kendra James and Audra Martin each won two individual events and teamed up with Angie Neville and Cathy Ankenbrandt to win the 200-yard medley relay (1:55.34).

James captured the 100 butterfly (1:03.5) and 100 backstroke (1:04.7), while Martin was victorious in the 200 individual medley (2:15.9) and 100 freestyle (55.2).

Other Churchill firsts were recorded by Erin Henry in the 500 freestyle (5:48.5) and Neville in the 100 breaststroke (1:15.0).

Salem firsts were recorded by Tracy Meszaros, 200 freestyle, 2:10.0; Kristal Taylor, 50 freestyle, 26.4; Tina Aquino, diving, 176.8 points; and Laura Shaffer, 4:03.3.

Churchill's dual record is 3-3, while Salem increased its mark to 6-1.

Chiefs' loss to Salem last year in the district finale. "I just knew we were going to win because we were so well prepared. We worked so hard. And we're going to play every one of our games as hard as we played this one tonight."

There were several keys to the Canton win. No. 1 was the decision to put sophomore Boluch, a wiry, 5-11 player on Salem's top outside shooter, Jessica Handley, who is 5-7.

The strategy paid off as Handley was rarely able to free herself for the uncontested jumper. She managed six points.

THE OTHER side of that matchup was Frigge (5-2) on Hostynski (5-9). "We tried to take advantage of that size situation," Thomann said. "We did a couple times, but not as many as we should have."

The other key for Canton was stopping Head, and Knickerbocker succeeded. Head scored five points on the night.

"Diana is a very intelligent player,"

Neu said. "She knew what it took to get the job done. She forced Dena to shoot from 17 feet. We didn't want her to beat us inside."

Neither team was able to gain an advantage on the boards. Darby, Knickerbocker, Boluch and Penny Piggott collected the big share for Canton, with Head (16 rebounds) doing most of the work for the Rocks.

Darby scored nine points to lead Canton. Frigge added seven points and made three steals.

HANDLEY and Hostynski led Salem with six each.

Both Canton (8-1 in the league and 11-1 overall) and Salem (8-1, 9-3) continue to lead their respective divisions.

It's kind of nice, after such an entertaining 32 minutes of basketball, to think that we could go through this again (if all goes well) in the Western Lakes championship game Nov. 14 and then again in the state district tournament.

Judging from Neu's post-game appearance, however, that might not be such great news.

S'craft spikers roll

Schoolcraft College's volleyball team ran its record to 22-5 with wins over Aquinas College (15-10, 15-12), Lake Superior State (15-12, 15-4) and Saginaw Valley State (15-2, 15-6) Saturday at SVSC.

Middle blocker/hitter Kim Relyea (from Livonia Stevenson) led the Ocelots with six kills in 22 attempts. Outside hitter Kathy McIntosh had four kills in 13 hits and Sue Cyrus (Garden City) made just one error in 32 passes. Linda Loeffler's (Stevenson) three serving aces were best for Schoolcraft. Patti Kozicki (North Farmington) added two aces.

Schoolcraft plays at SVSC again tonight before returning home to host the Schoolcraft Invitational. Six other community college teams and the University of Windsor will compete Saturday at Schoolcraft: Lansing, Delta, Henry Ford, Macomb, Kalamazoo Valley and Mott.

Play starts at 10 a.m. Admission is $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

Harrison's title reign on line

By Chris McCosky
staff writer

The champion of the Western Lakes Western Division, a subject of considerable debate the past three or four weeks, will be determined Friday night in Walled Lake.

Four teams have jockeyed all season for the crown. But in the end, the king of the Western Lakes will try to defend its reign against a team that has never before been in title contention.

Farmington Harrison vs. Walled Lake Central, 7:30 p.m. Friday night at Walled Lake Central — the Observerland Game of the Week.

For Western (3-1, 4-2), Friday's title game is merely a continuation of a Cinderella season. Western won only two games a year ago and lost its season-opener to Novi this year.

But, buoyed by the running of sophomore Mike Hall and a rugged, aggressive defense, the Warriors have gone on to knock off North Farmington, Plymouth Canton, Livonia Franklin and Livonia Churchill.

FOR HARRISON (3-1, 5-1), Friday night is another in a series of must-win games.

"This is exactly like its been the past two weeks for us," said Harrison coach John Herrington. His Hawks, since losing to Livonia Franklin early in the season, have had to win each week to stay in contention.

There has been only one Western Division champ in the history of the Western Lakes — Harrison. There has been only one Western Lakes champ — Harrison. Harrison has never lost to a Walled Lake school in football. Harrison has beaten Western 16 straight times.

Is victory in the bag for the Hawks Friday? Hardly.

"It doesn't really worry me that we're playing at Walled Lake because we've had good success there," Herrington said. "But it's their homecoming, and they ought to be juiced up for us. And they have never been this close to any kind of championship before. That ought to fire them up."

WHAT WORRIES Herrington the most is Western's defense.

"I expect a low-scoring game," he said. "They play a real aggressive, penetrating defense that'll cause you to make the bad play."

"Their offense, just like ours, has been inconsistent. If Hall's hot, they seem to be tough. But they powered the ball on Churchill, and that scares me. We thought Churchill was pretty tough defensively."

If it comes down to kicking, give Western the edge with Mike Henry. Harrison's Todd Marshke, a third-string kicker pressed into duty, has performed well for the Hawks. But Henry has accuracy from within 45 yards.

grid predictions

In any case, there's a rebel uprising within the Western Lakes power structure. Win or lose, Walled Lake Western's coup is making for an exciting finale to the league's divisional war.

PICKS — Sports editor Brad Emons sees an end to Harrison's title reign in the Western Lakes. Sports editor Chris McCosky says long live the king, Hawks win.

FRIDAY GAMES

W.L. CENTRAL at LIV. STEVENSON (7:30 p.m.) — Walled Lake Central (4-2 overall) was in the running for the Western Lakes Division crown until losing back-to-back games against Farmington and John Glenn. Stevenson (2-4) is coming off a nice win Saturday against Farmington.

PICKS — The trends continue, Stevenson wins.

PLYMOUTH SALEM at JOHN GLENN (7:30 p.m.) — Glenn may be undefeated and en route to the Lakes Division championship, but it best not take the Rocks for granted. Salem (2-4), coming off a 16-13 OT win against North Farmington, has a blue-chip player in Paul Makara. Glenn, though, let quarterback Steve Irwin throw the ball last week, and he responded with three TD passes.

PICKS — Glenn gets serious.

NORTHVILLE at PLYMOUTH CANTON (7:30 p.m.) — Northville has won three straight games, including last week's triumph against Franklin, since inserting Paul Newitt at quarterback. The question going around the league is, "Where was this guy during the first three games?"

PICKS — Northville keeps Canton winless in 1985.

CLARENCEVILLE at LUTHERAN EAST (8 p.m.) — It's been a rather hazardous season for Ralph Weddle's team (1-5). If injuries didn't bury them, turnovers did. This week...

PICKS — Lutheran East buries Cville.

GARDEN CITY at ROMULUS (7:30 p.m.) — The Cougars (1-5) have taken on some of the state's best football teams in recent weeks, including Jackson Lumen-Christ last week. This week's opponent, Romulus (2-4), isn't as tough, though certainly no pushover.

PICKS — Garden City proves it can take a lickin' and keep on tickin'.

REDFORD UNION at TRENTON (7:30 p.m.) — Two weeks ago RU coach Jim Gibbons dedicated his team's game against Garden City to Trenton head coach Jack Castignola, who is currently being treated for cancer.

This week, RU (4-2) gets to meet Castignola's team — the 6-0 Trojans — up close and personal.

PICKS — Trenton wins.

WYNADOTTE at WAYNE MEMORIAL (7:30 p.m.) — Wayne (2-4) gave Wolverine A Conference-leading Trenton a battle before losing last week. The Zebras shouldn't have any trouble with winless Wyandotte.

PICKS — Wayne whips Wyandotte.

SATURDAY GAMES

LIV. CHURCHILL at LIV. FRANKLIN (1 p.m.) — With both teams losing last week, much of the luster has been removed from this proud rivalry. The losses, Churchill's to Walled Lake Western and Franklin's to Northville, dampened the two teams' hopes for a Western Division title. Still, city bragging rights can be mighty inspirational.

PICKS — Emons goes with Franklin, McCosky says Churchill comes up big.

FARMINGTON at N. FARMINGTON (1 p.m.) — Both teams have fallen on hard times this season. Farmington (2-4) lost its first three, then had its two-game win streak snapped last week. North (2-4) has lost three straight overtime games. But the Raiders haven't forgotten last year when Farmington ruined their perfect season in the final week.

PICKS — McCosky says North is due to bust loose, Emons says Farmington puts the pieces back together.

SOUTHGATE at RED. THURSTON (1 p.m.) — Thurston (1-5) virtually cemented a last-place finish in the Tri-River League losing to Annapolis last week. Southgate (4-2) is coming off a stirring 20-19 win against Melvindale.

PICKS — Wins are an endangered species for Eagles, Southgate wins.

CATHOLIC CENTRAL at NOTRE DAME (1:30 p.m.) — The natural tendency would be to expect a down week for CC (6-0). The Shamrocks are coming off a huge win against Brother Rice last week and have their showdown with De La Salle set for next week. But Notre Dame (2-4) may not have enough muscle to beat even a down CC team.

PICKS — CC primes for De La Salle.

BISHOP BORGESS vs. DE LA SALLE (2 p.m. at Roseville Memorial Field) — Borgess played one of its best games of the season last week losing in OT to Bishop Gallagher. The Spartans will need a miracle performance to win this week.

PICKS — De La Salle primes for CC.

ST. AGATHA vs. O.L. ST. MARY (7:30 p.m. at RU's Kraft Field) — How about this for an unlikely matchup for the Catholic League's C Division. Pre-season favorites Pontiac Catholic and Gabriel Richard have been ousted. Expect a grueling defensive struggle. Both teams have excellent placekickers, and that could well decide the issue.

PICKS — Emons gives the title to the Aggies, McCosky concurs.

Last week, McCosky was 9-5, raising his seasonal record to 58-22. Emons, 8-6, is 51-29.

Canton kickers 'rise up from ashes'

For those of you who counted the Plymouth Canton soccer team among the dead and buried this season, read this:

The Chiefs, behind Steve Morell's goal in the sudden-death overtime period, knocked off Northville 3-2 Tuesday to advance to regional round of the state tournament.

Canton (12-5-1 overall) will host West Bloomfield at 4 p.m. Friday.

"We're like the Phoenix, rising from the ashes," said Canton coach Mike Morgan. "It's just been a gradual jelling process for us. The kids are starting to play together as a team. So much was expected of us early that we played really tight. We're starting to loosen up. We're playing with the same intensity but with more confidence."

NORTHVILLE JUMPED ahead of the Chiefs 2-0 in the second half. Steve Rudelic got Canton on the board finishing a play set up by Pat Frederick and Scott Morgan.

scored on an assist from Todd Nichols to tie it at 2-2.

The two teams struggled through two scoreless 10-minute overtime periods. In the second OT, Canton's Bryan Whiteley drew a red card from the officials. Canton played the remainder of the match down one player.

But, 3½ minutes into the sudden-death OT, Morell took a nice pass from Brad Neville and won the match for Canton.

Another key for Canton has been the goaltending of Dean Barbario. Filling in for injured All-Area performer Bryan Gavigan, Barbario has been virtually flawless.

ON MONDAY, Canton blasted Walled Lake

Western 16-0 in a non-league game. Dave Dahlberg scored five goals for the Chiefs and Morell added four.

Saturday, Canton played its rubber match with Western Lakes rival Plymouth Salem — Canton won 2-1 and thus won two of the three meetings between the schools.

Morell, who has 21 goals on the season, scored both Canton goals on assists from Neville. Ebon Nash scored the lone Salem goal.

It was the fourth straight loss for Salem, all by one-goal margins.

The Rocks (9-5-4 overall) got back on the winning track Tuesday with a 3-0 win against Western Lakes foe Farmington Harrison.

Messner's star rising at U-M

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

Factors that prognosticators utilize when determining how good a football player will be are all black and white: size, speed, experience.

By those standards, University of Michigan defensive tackle Mark Messner probably shouldn't be a starter. He stands 6-foot-3 and weighs in at a paltry 235. At Michigan State last Saturday, Messner faced behemoths like Tony Mandaric (6-6, 269) and Steve Bogdalek (6-4, 255).

And Messner is only a sophomore. He's starting on a team that was .500 a year ago, a team that, when pre-season predictors applied the above-mentioned factors to its players, figured to be no better this season.

What those predictors cannot measure is what really makes the difference in football: heart, desire, incentive, teamwork. That's why U-M is 5-0 this season, a shock to even the most loyal Wolverine fans.

EVEN THE U-M players are a bit surprised by their astounding success. The defense has been the reason, first and foremost — it has allowed just one touchdown this season while recording two shutouts, including a 31-0 win over MSU Saturday.

"It all depended on whether or not we could come together as a team," said Messner, a Redford Catholic Central graduate. "Eleven guys are awfully tough to beat."

Messner has contributed to the Wolverines' success. True, he has little experience and nearly all the offensive linemen he faces are bigger. But Messner provides U-M with something it had little of before — quickness and a pass rush.

His abilities shone brightly against MSU. Unofficially, he was in on six tackles, five for losses. He sacked Spartan quarterback Bobby McAllister twice, once in the opening quarter for a loss of eight and again in the second for a 12-yard loss.

Messner also nailed freshman split end Andre Rison for an 11-yard loss on an attempted reverse in the third quarter.

IN A BIG TEN loaded with strong-armed quarterbacks like Iowa's Chuck

Michigan State's Lorenzo White (with ball) found the going tough as he was constantly met Saturday by Michigan defenders like Mark Messner (No. 60), a Catholic Central High School product.

ART EMANUELE/staff photographer

Long, Illinois' Jack Trudeau and Purdue's Jim Everett, a pass rush is essential for success. The Wolverines and Messner have proved they can supply it.

"We're smaller and quicker, that's why," said Messner. "It's the way our defense is structured. We keep the offensive line off balance. They don't know what we're going to do."

Part of that strategy calls for Messner to move from the right side of the line to the left. Although he's listed as a defensive tackle, he often lines up like a defensive end.

Against MSU and the scrambling McAllister, his assignment was clear: "Contain. All we thought to do was contain him. We thought if we could do that we could stop him."

This week's assignment, against No.

1-ranked Iowa, will be more difficult. Long is considered by many to be the nation's top collegiate quarterback.

"It's the same principal," said Messner in looking ahead. "We've got to contain him. We have to pressure him because if he starts moving his feet, he's more dangerous."

WHEN YOU give away at least 20 pounds to your opponent, trying to muscle your way to the quarterback won't work too often. Messner is well aware of it.

"I can't tangle with the big guys," he admitted with a smile. "I've got to get around them."

That strategy has worked well. Messner is tied for the team lead in quarterback sacks with five. He has seven tackles for 71 yards in losses.

The jelling of the U-M defense into a cohesive unit, perhaps the most dominating in the nation, is based on what happened last year.

"We're playing as a team," he said. "When someone makes a big play, everyone congratulates him. Last year that didn't happen. A guy would make a big play and no one would come up to him, or he'd just turn his back on them."

Going 6-6 last season is the major reason for this season's success. The bitterness of the 1984 campaign and predictions of another dismal year in 1985 remain the driving forces behind the Wolverines.

Incentive and pride propel a defense. U-M has a lot of both going for it, which is why the Wolverines are again a top contender for the Big Ten title.

Local mechanic keeps Garlits car on right track

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

chargers, Phil Goulet, helped him on his way.

A baseball manager usually signals to the bullpen for his relief help. Championship drag racer Don Garlits calls to Farmington Hills for his.

And Joe Cameron doesn't even have to warm up, as the Farmington High alum already possesses a vast repertoire of mechanical skills. But the distance from the bullpen to the mound is considerably shorter than the trips Cameron makes as Garlits' fly-in mechanic.

This year, Cameron has been to Phoenix, Montreal and Denver, as Garlits recently clinched the National Hot Rod Association (NHRA) World Series Championship.

Garlits, the oldest racer on the NHRA circuit at 53, offered Cameron a shot in the starting rotation as a full-time member of his pit crew. But with a full-time managerial position at Ramchargers Performance Center in Livonia and commitments at home, he turned the offer down.

INSTEAD, GARLITS gladly pays for Cameron's air fare to come to his races on the weekends.

"It fits right in with the schedule I have at the store," Cameron said. "I don't have to drive on the road between races, and I still get to see the races in person. I have the best of both worlds."

What makes his unique position even more enticing is that Cameron is a longtime drag racing enthusiast. It took one look at a hot-rod magazine in the second grade to get him hooked.

"They're a scary looking kind of thing," said Cameron of drag cars. "Nothing is more exciting than the noise they make and the power they have."

Cameron plunged into auto mechanics at Farmington High and built a hemi engine (the same kind used in most drag cars) for a 1970 Cuda. After he graduated in 1977, he went to MoTech, a mechanics school owned by Chrysler. That, plus what he learned from his boss at Ramchargers, Phil Goulet, helped him on his way.

THEN AT MILAN dragway, he met up with his longtime idol who he used to watch on TV — Garlits.

"I was just in the right place at the right time," Cameron said. "I never had an idea then that I would be in the position that I'm in now."

Said Garlits: "A lot of guys come around because they just want to get involved. Joe came around and wanted to help, so we let him. It's worked out real well."

Being in Garlits' pit crew is not exactly like selling ice cream. It involves plenty of work in a stressful environment.

"It's just plain mechanic's work," Garlits said. "It's not real glamorous."

Between every race, Cameron and two others strip the engine down (including pistons and valves) to check for defects. They only have 90 minutes to do it.

If something major goes askew, like recently in Indianapolis when Garlits' clutch went out, the pressure intensifies.

GARLITS, WHO'S WON won six of 13 races on the NHRA tour, still managed to win in Indianapolis despite having his car's rear end, transmission and bell housing dismantled in addition to the regular engine breakdown.

"The whole thing had to come apart," recalled Cameron. "We really had to tear into it."

"When you work that hard and the car wins, you really feel like you've accomplished something."

Cameron admitted still being awestruck by Garlits, who's been racing for 30 years.

"He's a perfectionist," he said of Garlits. "He's kind of intense. Things are to be done a certain way, and you better pick up or you're not going to be around long."

It appears Cameron is going to be around Garlits for a while.

Engineers miss title in hockey tournament

Despite posting the best record, the Hennessey Engineers of Redford received only consolation for their efforts in last weekend's six-team Little Caesars International Hockey Tournament at St. Clair Shores.

Toronto-based Henry Carr won the championship with a 5-3 victory over the St. Clair Shores Falcons.

In the consolation game, Hennessey clipped the Oshawa Legionnaires, 6-3, behind James Ballantine's hat trick.

Redford finished pool play tied with Carr at 2-0-1, but failed to make the final in a tie-breaker ruling.

On Thursday, Hennessey opened with a 5-2 victory over Elliot Lake (Ontario) as Canton's Pete Podrasky was named game MVP.

On Friday, Ballantine scored three goals and Kevin Alexander scored two en route to game MVP honors as Redford ripped Oshawa, 10-3.

Hennessey then tied Carr, 2-2, as goalie Mike Williams took MVP honors.

Hennessey returns to action at 8 tonight at the Redford Arena against Compuware. At 8 p.m. Friday at the Arena, Redford tangles with the Buffalo (N.Y.) Junior Sabres.

The dreams live on at local boxing club

THE RING IS STILL INTACT, as well as the heavy bags and punching bags.

Paul Soucy, the man who created the Livonia Boxing Club, is still around, working up a sweat in the basement of the fire station, located off Middlebelt and Seven Mile roads. His sidekick, Dick Quilton, remains the technician, giving tips to aspiring young boxers.

Contrary to public opinion, the club wasn't TKO'd when Craig Payne lost in his bid to become the 1984 U.S. Olympic Team's super-heavyweight.

"The program is still going strong," said Soucy, wiping the perspiration from his brow. "The interest always drops off after an Olympic year."

It was only five years ago that Payne, an overweight construction worker with a penchant for food and nightlife, walked into the Jefferson Community Center looking to get into shape.

Payne eventually donned the gloves and took Soucy and Quilton for a magic carpet ride. He won the National Golden Gloves and U.S. Sports Festival. Later he handed Cuban Teofilo Stevenson, the three-time Olympic Gold medalist, one of his rare defeats.

PAYNE WAS one judge's decision away from a spot on the Olympic team, but it didn't quite work out. ABC-TV was attracted more to Gold Medalist Tyrell Biggs. Payne wasn't as marketable.

Without the Olympic glitter, Payne was forced to start a pro career from scratch. During the transition from amateur to pro, he let his weight balloon to 255 pounds.

He won his first professional fight last spring at Cobo Arena but hasn't been to the club or the ring since.

"We had a meeting with Craig last week, and there's still some interest," said Soucy. "We're still hoping for him to come back."

"He's not in shape. The ability's still there, but there's a lot of catching up to do."

Payne's success spurred interest in the club, but Quilton called it "curious interest."

"He brought in people, but not fighters," said Quilton.

During the eight years they have run the club, Soucy and Quilton have seen a lot of fighters come and go.

WHILE PAYNE CONTEMPLATES his future, Soucy and Quilton have turned their attention to some new talent.

This weekend Soucy will take three boxers to the state ABF tournament in Bay City.

One of the brightest prospects is 17-year-old Renaldo Carter, a junior at Detroit Northern High School. He came to the LBC with his coach Rengo Garth.

Carter, fighting at 106 pounds, recently won the Ohio State Fair, beating the eighth-ranked U.S. amateur.

"One of Renaldo's pluses is the way he works with his coach," said Soucy.

Brad Emons

"He has great faith in Rengo. There's great chemistry between them."

"If anybody could do it, he could. He's a prime prospect for the '88 Olympics."

"Another Soucy-Quilton project is a 22-year-old diesel truck driver from Inkster, Todd Vickers, who won the Open Division last year at the Detroit Golden Gloves."

"Todd's an aggressive fighter who was runner-up in the Diamond Gloves," Soucy said. "He's lost to some (Detroit) Kronk fighters but not by much. They know they've been the ring with the best."

Like Payne, Vickers got into boxing to get into shape. He began his career in his native Manistee and started getting serious again about 3½ months ago.

"I'm going to shoot for the best," Vickers said. "I want to be a national champ."

ANOTHER FIGHTER in the LBC's stable is ex-Marine Chris Shanholzer of Ecorse, a light-heavyweight.

The 25-year-old Shanholzer spent seven years in the Corps but got tired of his hitch in Japan.

"I was there for seven years and had over 30 fights," he said. "But I just wanted out because I got tired watching my buddies getting hit in Beirut and El Salvador."

Shanholzer arrived in Livonia only after sparring with numerous fighters at the Kronk, the Detroit gym which spawned Tommy Hearns and Milton McCrory.

"He was getting beat up down there, and they were using him as a punching bag," Soucy said. "We had more faith in Chris than Kronk."

Although he will not be in Bay City this weekend, Soucy has high hopes for Kevin Tripodi, a 15-year-old Livonian who owns a 7-3 amateur record and a Silver Gloves crown.

"KEVIN IS VERY DEDICATED," said Soucy of his young prodigy. "We run every morning at 5:30. He's going to be a good one."

With Payne's career on hold, Soucy and Quilton have regrouped, putting their spare time and energies into the likes of Carter, Vickers, Shanholzer and Tripodi.

"This is our eighth season," Soucy says proudly. "We want people to know we're still around. The gym is open from 7 to 9 p.m. Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays, and from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturdays."

Brothers form winning combo college sports

Hillsdale College football coach Dick Lowry characterizes his quarterback, Mike Gatt, as "the kind of person you'd want to go to war with."

The conditions for throwing and catching the football were certainly not the best Saturday afternoon at Tartar Stadium — grey skies, cold and gusty winds.

But despite the conditions, Gatt performed like a four-star general, leading Hillsdale to a 25-0 victory over Wayne State University in a Great Lakes Conference game.

The 6-foot, 180-pound Gatt, a Catholic Central graduate, showed the poise of a three-year starter, completing 12 of 21 passes for 184 yards and one touchdown.

His counterparts from WSU, Rich Popp (Livonia Franklin) and John Romano (Garden City), each had a miserable day throwing the football. And with little protection from their line, the two combined to connect on only 6 of 25 passes for 61 yards.

It was a big win for Hillsdale (3-1) since the Chargers were coming off a 28-17 loss the week before against Saginaw Valley.

"This is the kind of game we needed," said Gatt, a Livonia native. "We had fun out there today. We needed this. You have to feel good."

GATT WAS also quick to praise his coach who orchestrates a controlled passing game, as well as his teammates.

"I love our offense," said Gatt. "It puts less pressure on my personal play. You get more people involved and it's a great system."

"The wind hurt a little today, but our receivers did a great job of catching the ball. That was a great catch in the end zone by Tony Mifsud."

"But the offensive line was the key to win and our defense bounced back. They were awesome."

Lowry gives Gatt plenty of leverage when he's in the heat of battle.

"Mike's very intelligent," said the Hillsdale coach. "He runs our show. Eighty percent of the plays were called right on the line. We use a lot of automatics. That's a big part of our offense. This is Mike's last year. He's calling most of the offense and doing a great job."

ANOTHER INTREGAL PART of the Chargers' offense has been younger brother Jeff Gatt, a junior running back who is one of the team's top receivers.

And although Jeff missed the second half against WSU with a sprained ankle, Gatt's been more valuable as a pass catcher, where he ranks second on the team, than a ball carrier.

Jeff's best outing occurred in the opener against Wisconsin-Whitewater when he rushed for 98 yards in 19 carries to go along with five catches for 39 yards. He was named the team's offensive player of the week.

"It took me awhile to get used to it (Hillsdale's offense)," said Jeff. "At first Mike used to get made at me because I wouldn't work on it (pass catching)."

"But now I like catching the ball in the open field. We've worked a lot on it and now it seems to come natural."

LIKE LOWRY, Jeff has a lot of confidence in his brother's ability.

"I think the biggest improvement Mike's made is that he lost weight and he's that much much quicker," said Jeff. "He's not getting sacked and he's avoiding the hits. You have to give him credit."

Lowry is glad to have both in the backfield.

"The two Gatt brothers have performed pretty darn well," he said. "They've been a big part of our offense."

"They're both super kids and great student-athletes."

With Ferris State next on the agenda for homecoming, Mike Gatt called the win against WSU "a must."

"We've had a history of not playing well here at Wayne," he said. "Even when we were 10-0 in 1982, we had a lot of trouble here."

"It wasn't a grudge match or anything. The loss to Saginaw just devastated us. We came up with a great effort and everybody was prepared."

"WE NEEDED a win to regain our confidence," added Lowry. "The league is still up for grabs. This was a must for us. I still say one loss will win it."

When Mike Gatt hangs up his football cleats, he plans to pursue a career in medicine. And if he performs anything like he did at Hillsdale, they may be calling him Dr. Mike Gatt.

One of the most widely publicized — and often the least understood — topics in finance is the cost of borrowing money.

There are two major reasons for borrowing money:

- You may wish to spend it.
- You may be interested in investing it.

If you want to spend the money, you will want to borrow at the cheapest possible rate. If you want to invest that money, you will want to borrow the money at a rate lower than you expect to receive when you invest it.

IT PAYS TO shop around. The accompanying table gives an idea of what it costs these days to borrow from different financial institutions.

This table is most revealing. The table clearly demonstrates that it pays to shop around.

Rates on new auto loans at banks, savings and loans, and credit unions can run anywhere from 12.5 to 14 percent.

finances and you

Sid Mittra

If you go to your finance company for the same loan, you can pay as much as 30 percent.

SIMILARLY, THE rates on mortgage can vary by one or two percentage points. That can mean a substantial increase in borrowing costs.

For instance, an increase of 1 percent in the rate on a $100,000 loan can boost the monthly payment by $78 and cost you an extra $28,080 over the 30-year life of the mortgage.

If you are shopping for a loan, make sure you have determined its purpose and have found the best source for borrowing the money.

"WHAT CAN You Do Now To Benefit From The Proposed Tax Changes?" is the main topic for a seminar to be conducted by the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers and the Coordinated Financial Planning Staff. The seminar will be held 7-9:30 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 12, at the Kingsley Inn in Bloomfield Hills. The seminar is free, but registration is required. Call 643-8888 to register.

Sid Mittra is director, personal financial planning program at Oakland University and president of Coordinated Financial Planning, Inc. in Troy.

Fall's for fun

Now's best time for a multitude of things

WHEN OCTOBER begins to disappear under us, we get nervous. Winter is just around the corner. It is time to enjoy the last fall outings available to us and to begin thinking about warm weather getaways.

If you plan to stay in Michigan, you will probably be crazy enough to consider the first annual Goose Festival in Fennville next weekend, Oct. 18-20.

Amtrak's Chicago to Grand Rapids trains are scheduling a special stop, and serving a free glass of Goose Festival Wine in honor of the occasion.

The Goose Festival celebrates the annual migration of Canada geese, which start arriving in the Fennville area the first week in September. The flock peaks during the last week in October, so be prepared to see your share of the 300,000 geese that pass this way every year.

If you've ever watched them come in at Jack Miner's Bird Sanctuary in Kingston, Ontario, at this time of year, you know what a sight that is. If you haven't, and you don't have time to "get your goose in Fennville," drive across the border and down Highway 18 to Jack Miner's. It's a sight you'll never forget.

MINER'S IS a refuge. So is the Todd Farm a few miles south of Fennville on 118th Ave., where the geese can be seen feeding on their own 1,300-acre preserve. Three hundred hunters a day are allowed to hunt in managed areas.

The West Michigan Tourist Association also has a few other ideas for your fall pleasure. Saturday is the windup of the Viking Color Festival in Cadillac, the Fall Arts and Crafts Show Southland Mall in Portage and the Ciderfest at Crystal Lake.

A few things last until the 13th: the 24th annual Color Cruise around Lake Charlevoix, the color cruise and Island Fest at Grand Ledge, the annual Apple Festival in Charlevoix and the Autumn Festival at White Pine Village in Ludington. The Apple Festival in Bangor goes on through the 14th.

Kalamazoo brings in the harvest at Kalamazoo Nature Center Oct. 27 and White Pine Village celebrates Halloween in the Village Oct. 30.

THE EAST Michigan Tourist Association also has a lot of things going on as the leaves fly. There are color tours all month, but the color tour at the Craftsman's Cabins in Harrisville are over Oct. 13, as is the Annual Harvest Bazaar at the Farmers' Market in Standish.

Saturday, the 12th is a busy day: a Pretzel Bake in Frankenmuth, the fourth annual Kite Festival at Mackinaw City, the Capitol City Color Tour in Lansing.

Oct. 20 through Nov. 11 is pheasant season in eastern Michigan. And if nothing else turns you on, ride the Spook Train at the Junction Valley Railroad Station in Bridgeport.

FOR THOSE of you who would prefer to stay home, the World Adventure Series starts its new season next week, although the program has changed because of an unavoidable accident. Art Wilson, who was to present The Two Berlins on Thursday, Oct. 17, and Hudson Bay Company on Sunday Oct. 20, was hurt in an accident at the Frankfurt, Germany, airport.

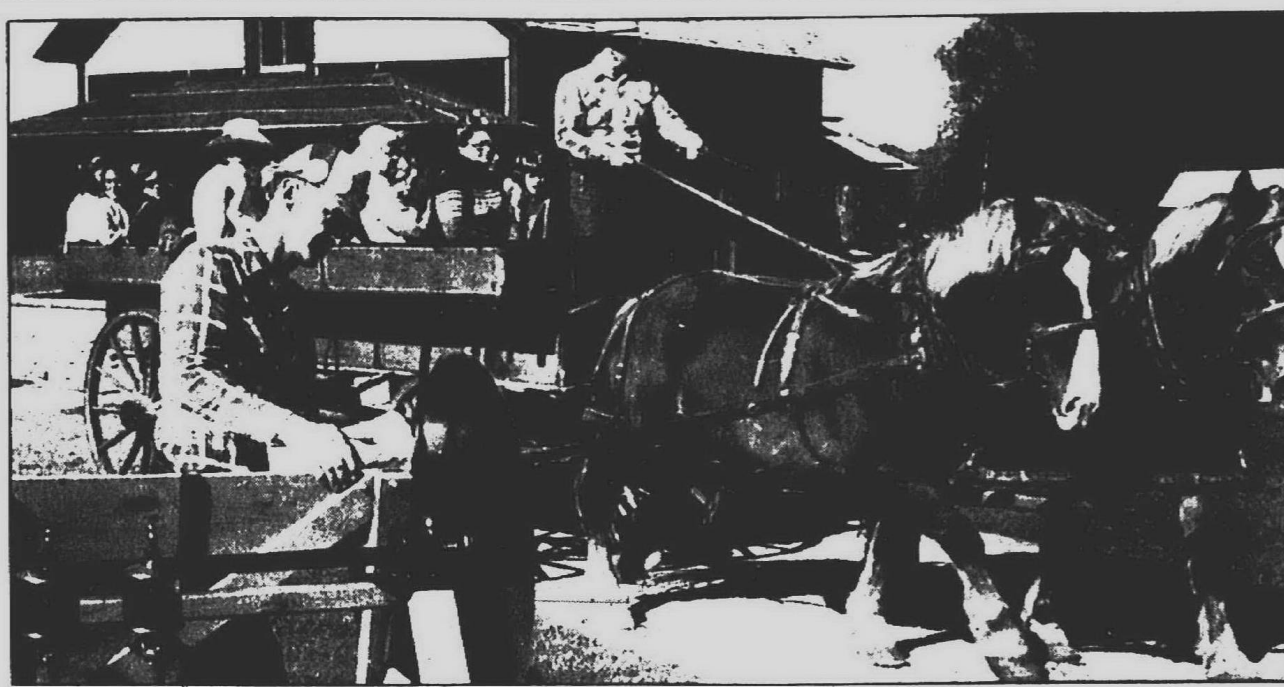

On Thursday, Oct. 17, the Great Capitals of Europe will be narrated by native Michigan filmmaker Howard Polard. On Sunday, Oct. 20, the Great Trans-Canada Train Ride will open the 1985-86 season; it's a vintage program by Dr. Charles Forbes Taylor.

For information contact the World Adventure Series at the Detroit Institute of Arts, 832-1730.

A new guidebook has been published by the Travel and Tourist Association of Southeast Michigan. "History in Southeast Michigan" is a listing of historic museums, sites and attractions. Write to the Association at 64 Park Street, P.O. Box 1590, Troy 48069 or call 313-585-8220.

The first listing is the Allen House, built in Birmingham in 1926 from bricks taken from an 1856 schoolhouse on the site. It is now rented to community members for parties, weddings and meetings. The final listing is the Ypsilanti Historical Society's Museum at 220 N. Huron Street, which houses archives and exhibits.

In between, the booklet is well-organized with sectional maps and is very readable. For the history buff and the interested passersby.

Fall is the time for apple festivals and hay rides. Wagon master Jim Allison will be guiding draft horses Molly and Dolly during the Autumn Festival at White Pine Village in Ludington. White Pine Village celebrates Halloween in the Village Oct. 30. A variety of festivals will be held throughout the state.

IF YOU'VE ever bought an antique and then found out later that it wasn't really as old as the dealer promised — this antique show is for you.

At the Chicago International Antiques Show, Oct. 17-21 at Chicago's Navy Pier, this year for the first time at any major American show, each item for sale will be authenticated by a committee. This procedure is common in Europe's premier shows.

The "vetting" committee is chosen from dealers exhibiting, and museum experts. Specialists in books, clocks, furniture, textiles, folk art, glass, painting and other areas will examine every piece offered for sale and verify its condition.

A feature of the show, with dealers attending from, among other places, London, Paris, New York and Boston, is the Republic of China's National Museum of History's jade collection. The gems have never before been seen outside of China.

THE COLLECTION includes more than 600 pieces of ancient jade. Once piece alone, a rare and important "pi," is valued at $1.6 million. The piece was previously removed from the U.S. tour, due to extremely high insurance costs, but will be flown from China to Chicago under tight security to be shown in the Antiques Show.

The collection includes both old jade that has been altered by burial beneath the earth, and polished jade, which has never been buried. Both types are extremely rare.

Tickets are $6 for general admission and will be available at the Navy Pier Box Office in Chicago or in advance by calling (312)787-6858.

The annual migration of Canadian Geese always provides opportunities for fall enjoyment. This is a scene from Jack Miner's Bird

Volunteer workers at the White Pine Festival enjoy making an entry for the annual scarecrow contest and pressing cider for the visitors this fall.

Dressed like a newsboy of New York City's lower east side, (above) Judy Goldstein does songs about life in the United States, a bit of comedy and patter. (Below) In her mass migration outfit, Goldstein sings songs of the era, 1880-1920.

Judy Goldstein conducts a little song session for a couple of ardent fans. From left they are Bessie Goodman, her grandmother, Rebecca Cohen Gendelman and her aunt, Norma Koropkin. She usually leaves with a container of what she calls "bubee" (grandmother) soup.

Preserving heritage in song

By Corinne Abatt
staff writer

DIVINE PROVIDENCE or lucky accident, Judy Goldstein, folk singer/guitarist, can't say. But, somehow, she knows that this second career was meant to be.

In just a few years, the 40-year-old former school teacher, mother and wife, has become a popular and much loved balladier of Yiddish, Hebrew, Russian and English folk songs.

Goldstein will give one of her most ambitious concerts at Temple Beth El of Bloomfield Township at 8 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 24. The free concert is being sponsored by the Keldan Lodge of B'nai B'rith.

Morry Drenfeld, a member of the lodge, heard her program at Congregation B'nai Moshe last month and asked the Keldan Lodge sponsor her at Temple Beth El.

"The Keldan Lodge has a history of always presenting things to the city that relate to Jewish culture," he said, adding, "and she's absolutely wonderful."

And while Goldstein generates lots of reaction from her audiences — tears, smiles, laughter — nothing pleases her more than that which comes from her 90-year old grandmother, Rebecca Cohen Gendelman of Oak Park.

"She came from Russia. She is always kvelling (Yiddish for taking pride) about my singing. She helps me with my Yiddish."

But, she isn't the only one who contributes to Goldstein's pronunciation and repertoire.

WHEN she took her guitar out of the closet after a 20-year hiatus, she joined the Detroit Folklore Society and taught herself one Yiddish song, "Tumba Lalika" (a triangular shaped Russian musical instrument) to sing for them. Someone in the audience came up to her afterward and said, "They need you at Prentis Manor."

Goldstein went to sing for the residents at that Southfield nursing home and was overwhelmed by the reception. She's been singing for them every Friday afternoon for two years.

She recalls one woman who called out right in the middle of a song to correct her pronunciation, "I said bubble and she yelled out 'it's bubeh'."

It was singing at Prentis Hall that motivated her to build a repertoire.

"I learn from records, from tapes, from friends. There's eight different ways to pronounce every Yiddish word. Theodore Blkel is a constant source for me. I work from transliterations because I don't speak any of the languages I sing in. I get help from a lot of 80-year-old friends."

She said when a song is requested that she doesn't know she asks the person to sing it so she can learn it.

As the repertoire grew, so did the reputation, "I started working professionally — I'm the only person doing this."

She was asked if she would do private functions — birthdays, anniversaries, bar mitzvahs — and public ones for churches, synagogues, clubs and religious organizations.

THE PACE of her life quickened. She listened to tapes and rehearsed as she drove to appointments, had business cards printed and kept a daily appointment calendar that was as full as many a recording star.

Between the volunteer work to which she is "very committed" and the private work, she was on the go many days from dawn to dusk.

She remembers when she was planning to cook for a family dinner party someone called in desperation. "How do you say no to a 60th wedding anniversary? I put my food in the oven and left to do the anniversary and it was wonderful. . . . It's like a career that has its own life that I'm running to catch up with. . . . Now, I perform in costume, so I started to collect vintage clothing. I'm acting out a childhood fantasy. I wear a costume of the mass migration years, 1880-1920."

She even found brown leather high button shoes that fit as if they were made for her. After intermission at the Temple Beth El program, she'll come out as a lower east side newsboy, wearing a cap, an old vest and plaid knickers.

"I'm coming out of a Pete Seeger tradition. I talk about who wrote the song, where it came from and what the song tells about the times."

"When European enlightenment spread to the shtetl (small towns), there were cultural conflicts. Finally during the 19th century it caused a huge upheaval. . . . here was science next to the Bible. Here was Jewish philosophy. The songs reflect that. Well, don't ask what happened."

She sees herself as part of a generation, born and raised in the United States, separated from the old world culture, seldom, if ever hearing a word of Yiddish.

She said she hopes her own children will have an appreciation of the language, the background, the songs and poetry of the Jewish people.

Her 8-year-old son Daniel sometimes asks her to sing, "Rozhinkes Mit Mandlen" (raisins and almonds) which she said, "is the best loved Yiddish lullaby — the second song I always do. It was written in 1880 and performed in the Yiddish theater."

She spoke (kvelling) of her daughter, Deborah, 14, "She's my wardrobe mistress. My son and daughter are quite supportive, they've always seen me with a guitar. And my husband, too, is enjoying it."

THE PROGRAM is being refined and perfected with each appearance. She's added English folk songs in Yiddish to her repertoire — "Home on the Range," "Clementine," "When Irish Eyes are Smiling," and "On Top of Old Smokey" — a nonsense rhyme, "which took me a month to learn," and shlik, Yiddish for a bit of comedy.

Goldstein is in demand for radio and cable TV appearances. Recordings may be in the future. To her, it's more than entertaining. As a trained social worker and teacher, she is aware of the importance of keeping history and tradition alive.

She recalled one woman who sat stone-faced through her performance. Goldstein told herself this was one person she couldn't reach. After the performance, the woman said to her, "I'm speechless. I haven't heard those songs for 60 years."

It started as a hobby with no plan. Now, she said, the plan seems to be taking shape on its own, as if by magic.

MOT shows new maturity in latest offering

Soprano Diana Soviero and tenor Maurice Stern sing the principal parts in Leoncavallo's "I Pagliacci." The Michigan Opera Theatre production of the melodrama shares the bill with Puccini's one-act comic opera, "Gianni Schicchi" at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

By Mary Jane Doerr
special writer

Since Michigan Opera Theatre began 15 years ago, the company has given its public a lot about which to laugh and applaud.

Now with a budget approaching $3 million, and $800,000 richer, the company opened its new season Friday evening at its new home, the Fisher Theatre, with a double bill.

"I Pagliacci" and "Gianni Schicchi" are not often paired together but humor works well with tragedy especially when well-timed acting is combined with dramatic voices.

In the audience was the executive board from OPERA America representing the Metropolitan Opera, Houston Grand Opera, the Lyric Opera of Chicago, the Dallas Opera, the Washington Opera, the Lake George Opera Festival, and the Greater Miami Opera Association.

What they saw was a well-executed production blending award-winning Albert Takaszyckas' smoothly worked stage direction with Peter Dean Beck's functional sets with Michael Baumgarten's subtle lighting effects, and Suzanne Acton's precise chorus with a relatively unknown but highly competent of singers.

PRINCIPAL GUEST conductor Mark D. Flint led a sluggish orchestra that made this critic wonder what happened to the official recommendation to the Detroit Symphony that they become a part of Michigan Opera Theatre productions.

Discovered by Toscanini in 1948,

Metropolitan Opera star Frank Guarrera has been on stage long enough to fine tune his acting and he has the skill mastered. His Gianni Schicchi, the rogue who swindles Buoso Donati's relatives out of their fortune, was delightful.

In his first American appearance as Canio, the Germany-based tenor, Maurice Stern lived up to his recent Puerto Rican reviews. His "Vesti la Giubba" was tastefully done without the sobbing.

Although her "O mio babbino caro" was outclassed in "Gianni Schicchi" by Saturday evening's soprano Pamela South, the ailing Diana Soviero was seductive as Canio's unfaithful wife, Nedda, and her dramatic voice in the second opera was brilliant. Her small stature is no indication of the power and depth of her voice. Last minute replacement John Brandstetter picked up on Soviero's passionate acting as her lover Silvio. Their performance was provocative.

Pamela South sang Lauretta exquisitely in "Gianni Schicchi" but she did not have the sensuality or the power to match Soviero as Nedda.

MOT's 1980 Rigoletto, Charles Long, (although he was ailing also) turned in an expected strong interpretation of Leoncavallo's twisted-body villain whose society-induced vengeance justified society's rejection of him. Long's baritone voice is as fine as his acting.

THE ENGLISH subtitles for "I Pagliacci" were made possible through a gift by ANR Pipeline Co. so Michigan Opera Theatre could purchase the equipment. We can expect to see more of these translations in the future.

Corporations such as this one and the eight others sponsoring this season's performances (Merrill Lynch, Cadillac Motor Car, Burroughs Corp., Macca-bees Mutual Life Insurance Co., the Detroit Free Press, Michigan Bell Telephone Co., and Ameritech Publishing) are making it possible to visualize MOT General Director David DiChiera's program book statement about "moving ahead at achieving a full international grand opera series at the Masonic Temple next spring." Who knows how many operas are in a full international grand opera series?

In its 15 years of existence, Michigan Opera Theatre has become the second youngest and third largest (by budget) local company of the eight cities formerly involved in the Metropolitan Opera tour. It represents a rapid growth compared with companies in Boston, Cleveland, and Washington D.C.

A new sense of prominence ended Friday evening in these two sophisticated productions of old favorites, "Gianni Schicchi" and "I Pagliacci." Clearly, for Michigan Opera Theatre, the comedy is over.

Careful cutting is key to linoleum prints

This is another lesson on art and drawing by special columnist David Messing. He has taught for ten years and operates an art store, Art Store and More, 16338 Middlebelt, Livonia, 522-6311, 265 N. Main Street, Plymouth, 455-1222. Messing encourages questions and comments from readers. You may write him at his store or c/o Observer Newspapers, 23352 Farmington Road, Farmington, MI 48024.

By David Messing
special writer

It was a blistering hot day in late August. I was working at the art store helping a woman decide on which easel to buy. Finally she made her decision and while I was ringing in the amount she said, "That's the last one."

"No, Mam," I replied, there are three more in the backroom." She laughed and said, "Oh, I was just talking to myself. This is the last gift... my Christmas shopping is all finished."

artifacts

Her purse snapped shut and my mouth dropped open. "Gee, can I have your autograph?" I joked. "I've never met anyone that organized." I don't even think about Christmas shopping 'til Thanksgiving. But hey, I was even born two weeks late and my astrological sign is probably aquarius rising late. With me, "late" is not that bad, "on time" is okay and "early" is out of the question.

When I punched a time card at Ford Motor Co. I was the leader of the 29ers. You see we were supposed to be in the building and at our work station at 6:30 a.m. bell. But members of the 29ers are usually seen running for the time clock about that time.

I guess I'm just that way. Maybe it's in my blood. Better yet, it was probably my childhood... so it's my mom's fault. Oh well, my wife says I'll never die of a heart attack. Maybe that's good, huh? Sometimes even procrastinators have to look ahead. Especially artist procrastinators.

MAKING YOUR OWN Christmas cards is fun and a special treat for those who receive them. In a few weeks I will announce our annual Christmas card contest, but today I would like to talk about printing cards on linoleum blocks. I feel the best approach to linoleum block cutting is to do the artwork on a piece of paper.

Then you can position and transfer the drawing with a graphite stick. Oh! As a warning, remember to do any lettering backwards. Unless you want to print yrrem samtsirhc!

Well, let's assume you have the block and on it is your finished drawing. So now what do you do? Would you believe put it in the oven? I don't know what ever possessed me to put a block of wood with linoleum stuck on it in the oven, but it works.

You see, cool linoleum is very brittle and when you try to cut or gouge it, the blade tends to slip. Everything the gouge slips on a linoleum block, you ruin the cut or line. Not to mention the fact that you can easily cut your fingers with the razor sharp gouge.

I found that with the block heated, the gouge cuts easily and affords much more control. After the block is heated I place it on a bun warmer and do all my gouging on the heated surface. Basically in linoleum cutting, you leave your pencil lines and cut everything else away. The high surfaces will print and the low surfaces will not print.

IF YOU GET confused when you are cutting, just place a piece of paper over the unfinished block. Then rub graphite over the block and your picture will appear on the rubbing. When you are finished cutting, squeeze out about an inch or two of linoleum/wood block printing ink onto a small piece of glass.

Roll the ink with a brayer. Then roll the brayer evenly over your block. The ink will only touch the high uncut areas and not the low cut away areas. Carefully place the paper or card on the inked block and burnish or rub it with your finger or brayer. Then slowly lift the paper and that's it.

Practice with different amounts of ink and different papers. Ink block ink that we carry in our store is water soluble so it cleans up very easy. Since the ink is opaque try white or silver on dark rice paper. It gives a night, wintery look to the artwork.

If your card has only lettering, I have found the metallic gold especially beautiful. Try it, you'll love the look and have fun printing your own cards. The materials are not very expensive. I know I am making my own cards this year. I already wrote it on my calendar, "December 23rd, start Christmas card ink block."

New council to help Meadow Brook Hall

One word, one phrase can change the meaning of a sentence, the gist of a story and the fate of a project.

For instance, in last week's story on Meadow Brook Hall and the Reader's Digest art collection, the phrase "provided for the preservation" was wrong.

We were discussing the many philanthropies of Lila Acheson Wallace who built the art collection which now belongs to Reader's Digest which she and her husband founded and Matilda Dodge Wilson who gave her home, Meadow Brook Hall, to Oakland University.

Mrs. Wilson didn't provide for the preservation of her beautiful home, Dean Lowell Eklund of Oakland University reminded us.

"It's kind of a common assumption that she did," Eklund said. "This was her earthly pride and joy, but she just assumed the bills would be paid."

AS A result, those who inherited the home with all its beauty and grandeur also inherited the upkeep problems.

"We do not have an endowment and we do not get any state support," Eklund said without even the vaguest trace of a "poor-us" tone in his voice. "We have to scramble and be ingenious."

Nobody's complaining, the treasure is too precious, the enjoyment too sweet for the thousands of people who attend conferences and events there.

The scrambling by an innovative, but sparse staff, has resulted in being able to cover the costs of running the house.

"We're generating revenue with programs in the house — tours, conference-es and special events — to pay bills... We can generate operating costs, but we need help with preservation costs," Eklund said.

These, he said, run from $75,000 and $100,000 a year. That's to keep the house in prime condition, structurally and visually.

Considering the size of the house — 410 feet long, 150 feet at its widest point, 100 rooms — those figures sound relatively modest. Downspouts alone for the brick and stone Tudor style mansion built in 1929 at a cost of $4 million, are mind-boggling to the average homeowner, likewise the vast stretches of roof, some 40 chimneys and seemingly endless numbers of windows.

JUST MAINTAINING the beauty of the richly carved ceiling of the huge Christopher Wren dining room would appear to be an overwhelming responsibility.

A Council for the Preservation of Meadow Brook Hall is just now being established to address the question of preservation.

Eklund and the university have invited a distinguished roster of women to serve on the Council.

They are: Barbara Smith, Barbara Day, Beverly Hoglund, Betsy McDonald, Maurine Reiss, Mary Duerr, Pat Hartmann, Mary Kehrl, Marian Mitchell and Jody Petersen.

Eklund said, "They are going to be advising us and the Meadow Brook Hall staff on priorities and means for the Hall's preservation."

Wouldn't Mrs. Wilson smile if she knew it took 10 outstanding community leaders to replace her?
