TAX $ WASTE: People have different ideas how taxpayers money is wasted. Right now tax funds are being unnecessarily invested in repairs and inspection because of pedestrians walking on freshly laid concrete as part of the city's sidewalk repair program.

The damage to wet cement causes the city to pay the contractor more for repairs and results in the contractor having to spend time standing guard while the cement dries which could better be spent laying new cement. While you might think it's kids involved, City Engineer Ken West says specific instances are known of adults who ignore barricades and walk across fresh cement. Watch where you step - it's your money you are walking over.

FIRE SAFETY: In an effort to reduce the number of fire-related deaths, the City of Plymouth and Plymouth Township Fire Departments and Catherine McAuley Health Center (CMHC) are presenting fire and burn prevention programs to school children in grades 3-6 this month, which is Michigan Burn Awareness Month, and in November.

Trained firefighters and educators from CMHC will show children how to "Stop, Drop and Roll" to smother flames should their clothing catch fire and how to "Get Low and Get Out" of a smoke-filled building and will discuss fire safety in the home and the need for home fire drills. The program also will feature a film produced by the Shriners Burn Institute starring Bugs Bunny.

HALLOWEEN SAFETY:

City of Plymouth Police recommend trick-or-treating be limited to 6-7 p.m. for all children with extended hours to 7:30 p.m. for children older than 12. All children should be accompanied by an adult. The Plymouth Department will be at McDonald's at 220 W. Ann Arbor Road, Plymouth, with a metal detector to scan the children's candy. The metal detector will be in operation 6:30-8:30 p.m. Thursday. Parents must accompany the child to have their candy inspected. All candy should be inspected by parents before it is HALLOWEEN TREATS: The Easter Seal Society of Wayne County, as it has for the past three years, is promoting tamper-proof treats with the sale of $1 coupon books. The promotion is being sponsored jointly by Burger King and WJBK-TV. The booklets, which contain coupons for free French fries are available at Bureger King restaurants. All proceeds will be used to benefit persons with disabilities.

Candidates discuss staffing levels

By Emory Daniels staff writer

The four candidates running as a slate for Plymouth City Commission continue to carry the banner of more manpower for the police and fire departments.

The slate consists of Robert Kroeger, a former volunteer firefighter, William Bingley, Jean Morrow, and Anthony

The other four candidates for four seats on the City Commission are incumbent William Robinson, former commissioner Karl Gansler Jr., Robert Jones and Donald Keller, planning commissioner.

The top three voter-getters in the Nov. 5 election will serve four-year terms while the fourth-place finisher will be elected to a two-year term.

Seven of the eight candidates (Jones was absent) participated in a Candidates Forum Wednesday night in Plymouth City Hall sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Northville, Plymouth, Canton, Novi.

As was true at the candidates forum for the August primary, the slate candidates primarily narrowed their discussions to public safety and to keeping Central Middle School in use as a school building.

IN HIS OPENING statement, Kroeger said his main goal was to reinstate "basic services" (which he defined as police and fire) and that he would fund that cost by making the Cultural Center self-sufficient.

Later in the evening Kroeger said the Cultural Center budget was twice the amount of the fire department budget and that he would cut the recreation funds to add to the police-fire funds. Kroeger specified he wanted to hire four additional police officers, two new firefighers, and make the fire chief post full time.

Morrow said Kroeger echoed his views and that safety was his primary concern. There has been an increase of robberies in the township, he said, and before things get too bad the city should improve police-fire services and the DPW

Bingley said he "definitely agreed" with Kroeger and Morrow that public safety was the top concern. He said five years ago the city had 20 police officers before contracting with the township, and now has 16.

Anason said the city was wrong five years ago when it made a decision to lay off three police officers, and that the emphasis should be on crime prevention. He said there should be more police in neighborhoods to prevent break-ins, more police downtown to prevent robberies, and more police on patrol to prevent accidents.

Three of the slate candidates said they would not levy the one-mill library tax if voters approve the 0.8 mills for the library on the Nov. 5 ballot and opt for a tax reduction of 0.2 mills. Morrow, however, indicated he would consider using the one mill for increase of 0.8 mills.

GANSLER DISASGREED with the slate's argument that four more policemen were needed.

The city had pink-slipped for pur-poses of laying off three police officers just before the contract with the township was negotiated. Those three were kept when the city increased its coverage area by taking on the township, he added. Now that the department is responsible for the city only, Gansler said, the manpower is back where it was five years ago.

Keller said part of the problem on the public safety issue may be caused by misunderstanding and could be improved if the city clarified exactly where it stood and why. Keller said the lay off of officers does not mean there automatically will be a loss of service and he believes the reconfiguration under the new chief has improved ser-

In his opening remarks Robinson said the police officers per square mile tripled after the contract with the township ex-

> If the city added police and fire manpower as the slate wants, said Gansler, the city would have to increase its property tax levy by up to six mills or drastically cut services.

Kroeger denied that, saying he believed there was enough money in the budget to raise police-fire manpower without increasing taxes and that there were areas in the budget which should

However, its owner and president, James D. Vogelsberg, said he plans to construct a 15,000-square-foot building in the Metro-West Industrial Park, then lease the structure to his company.

Tax breaks will be sought on the building, Vogelsberg said. He estimated construction costs at $650,000.

ABATEMENT, by state law, is up to one-half of taxes due for a maximum of 12 years.

American Glass and Metal's firstyear tax break would be about $8,600 on the building, Bra-Con's $1,426 on equipment.

Bra-Con could reap an additional abatement of about $14,100 if it follows through with plans to apply for tax breaks on real property — building and land - valued at $1.1 million.

Vogelsberg explained his reason for seeking tax abatement.

"Right now we're extending our-selves to build a facility, period," he said. "What I'm saying is every little bit helps. We can't predict the future. We have a community willing to help us grow. We're making a commitment to your community. We hope you do the

Up for grabs

Not to worry

While the critters may annoy, they won't hurt you, says a horticulturist with the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service.

"They're not a health hazard to humans or pets — that's the biggest thing I stress," said Lillian Chont-Win-

The red and black bug, about a halfinch long with a flat-topped body and red veins on the wings, reportedly has made an unwanted appearance in several parts of the township — much to the consternation of some residents.

The pests are searching for places to weather the cold winter.

"When found indoors, I suggest peo-ple use a vacuum cleaner, sweep them up and dispose of them," Chont-Win-chell said.

And, if you find 'em indoors, that means some caulking, weather-strip-ping or screening work lies ahead, she

Program seeks to retain business

The Plymouth community is getting ready to launch a campaign aimed at retaining and expanding business and industry in the city and township.

Plymouth Township, the City of Plymouth and the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce have joined in a campaign with Michigan Bell's economic development group.

Plans are under way to begin the program after the first of the year.

Under the company's industrial business retention and expansion program, volunteers will be trained to survey about 90 manufacturing companies in Plymouth and Plymouth Township. The volunteers will be trained by Steve Balasia, staff manager of Michi-gan Bell's economic development group.

The campaign, co-sponsored by the city, township, chamber and Bell, is designed to pinpoint concerns of local manufacturing companies from which action plans can be developed for bustness retention and expansion.

"Volunteers will be interviewing owners of the smallest to the largest businesses in the Plymouth area about sales, labor conditions, and community and governmental relations," said Mar-cia Buhl, Bell's local corporate affairs

Under the business retention pro gram, Bell trains survey volunteers and compiles a community profile which helps to pinpoint specific industry problems. Corrective action is up to the community, said Buhl.

'Camporee' a wet success scout's honor

OCAL BOY SCOUTS took part in the largest campout in Michigan scouting history last week to help celebrate scouting's 75th anniversary.

The event took place at Willow Metro Park, near Romulus, where approximately 11,000 campers partici-pated in the "Diamond Jubilee Camporce Extravanganza," sponsored by the Detroit Area Boy Scout Council. Campers included 225 Detroit-area Boy Scout troops, Varsity Scouts, 145 Cub Scout Packs and high school-age male and female Explorers, plus 3,000 adult volunteers who helped during the three day celebration.

"We've received tremendous support from the community," said Anthony M. Franco, president of the Detroit Area Council.

SOME OF THE highlights included a 75-gun salute, a Camporee Arena Stage Show Spectacular, a 50-piece marching band, fireworks, competi-tive events, sports events, a presentation by the Shriners Fife & Drum Corps, a submarine Simulator Van from the U.S. Navy, a hot air balloon, and the visistation of Thanksgiving Parade characters Smokey Bear and Tony Tiger.

In addition to the many activities, the area was constructed with all of the support systems of a real city: water, sanitation, fire protection, security, medical, communications and traffic control.

ON NUTRITION: Jennifer George, hygienist in the dental office of Dr. John Joboulian, recently visited the Red Bell Children's Nursery of Plymouth to discuss how oral health care is related to food and nutrition. If gums are not healthy, the children were told, it is difficult to eat. Chewing is one of the first steps in digesting food, and digestion is necessary to convert food to nutrients and so oral health has an impact on the vitamins and minerals needed for good health.

Jennifer showed the children how to brush and floss properly and talked about the importance of calcium in forming healthy teeth and bones. The children also learned which foods and snacks can help avoid decay. Jack Lewis, director of Red Bell, expresse appreciation for the visit. Anyone who would like to arrange for a presention may call Jennifer or Dr. Joboulian at the dental office at 453-

Most of the travel agencies in the area are reporting that it is possible that all records will be broken for these winter tours.

The Plymouth Travel Consultants downtown have been kept busy sending travelers to many of the warm climates and some even as far as the coasts of Japan.

It was the same report at Port to Port where the demand has been greater than other years for cruises in the Caribbean.

It was the same at Emily's World, where she hesitates to predict a record but said that the start has been better than the past few years. And she said that, at the present rate, all records for winter travel could be broken.

EMILY'S WORLD (it was then Kurt Thrun) arranged the trip for the party of 50 to visit Plymouth, England, in 1970 to help celebrate the 350th anniversary of the sailing of the Mayflower. Big groups were the specialty in those days but today the groups are smaller but travel more often.

Despite the rush for reservations for the winter months very few, according to the agencies, are for areas in the Middle East. They claim they read about that area and don't have a desire to see any of it.

While cruises in the Caribbean are popular, Hawaii are also popular. Some are satisfied with one or two of the islands but more and more are desirous of visiting all of them.

Florida, naturally, draws the most visitors from Plymouth, but the recent storms down there have caused a let down in the sunbelt.

In gouty arthritis the ounces of beer, wine, or whiskey consumed is critical. The reason is because of the effect of alcohol in decreasing the body's ability to rid itself of uric acid, the substance that causes gout. Taking "a water pill" is not helpful, as the development of joint inflammation is not dependent on the amount of water in the body. Therefore, medicines which result in water loss have never succeeded in stopping joint swelling. Furthermore, these medications influence kidney functions and have no ability to draw fluid from inflammed joints.

In sum, joint aspiration is the best way to rid a joint of extra fluid now, and usually a long term program of medication is needed to prevent a recurrence.

Wayne's early boundaries

At its conception, Wayne County consisted of all of Michigan as now defined (except the western end of the Upper Peninsula), plus the part of Wisconsin and Illinois drained by Lake Michigan and a strip of land across northern Indiana and northern Ohio.

Not much is known of the original officers of the county, but records show land being purchased in 1799 from Louis Bond, sheriff of Wayne County. On May 3, 1802, when Detroiters elected their town officers under United States rule for the first time, women as well as men were permitted to vote.

SOME OF THE GREATEST THINGS IN AMERI

In Ansel Adams' eyes, America's wilderness is its most precious national treasure. Through photography, he immortalized the unspoiled beauty of Mt. McKinley for all to see.

Some things never change. But one great American tradition has changed— U.S. Savings Bonds. Now Savings Bonds pay higher variable interest rates like money market accounts. That's the kind of change anyone can appreciate. Just hold Savings Bonds for five years and you get the new variable interest rates. Plus, you get a guaranteed return. That means you can earn a lot more, but never less than 71/2%.

But some of the best things about Bonds haven't changed. The interest earned is still exempt from state and local income taxes. Still cost as little as $25. And can be purchased at almost any financial institution. Or easier: vet, through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. Buy U.S. Savings Bonds. Like the wilderness, they're another part of our proud heritage. For the current interest rate and more

CHIROPRACTIC SPELLS RELIEF!

Headaches Gone, Eyesight Improved

I gradually developed some weakness in my eyes and many bad headaches over a three year period. I fatigued more than normal and seemed to lack energy. After receiving negative results from an opthamologist, a neurologist, and several hospital tests, I asked my doctor about Chiropractic care. He said it couldn't hurt.

After a Chase Chiropractic examination and x-rays were taken, a plan was developed for treatment. Some minor back aches developed from the regular adjustments. However, the change and improvement was very noticeable.

My headaches are now very few and far between. I very seldom feel fatigued. My energy is back to its normal level, and my eyes are much better. Overall I feel a considerable improvement, and recommend chiropractic care to all my

Larry Baker

I injured my back in early January. I was rushed to emergency, given a pain killer, told to stay off my feet and that I should see an orthopedic surgeon. I guess you could say that the possibilty of surgery scared me.

A dear friend of mine made an appointment and brought me to the Chase Chiropractic Office. I was x-rayed. I saw my x-rays and everything was thoroughly explained to me. I had my first adjustment and when I left Dr. Chase's office much of the pain was gone. I felt much

Pinched nerves caused the numnbess in my hands and to my surprise, I was three quarters of an inch shorter on my right side. That was causing most of my lower back

Now I'm in my seventh week of adjustments and I feel like a new person. My imbalance is almost corrected and it was done without surgery.

I am most grateful and appreciative to Dr. Chase and his staff for the kindness and understanding they have shown me, and especially for alleviating my pain.

Chiropractic Care, Don't Ever Underestimate It!

I had taken Darvon and Percadon for 2 months and was completely laid up prior to coming into the Chase Chiropractic Office.

I started at the Chase Chiropractic Office in Nov. of 1984. I had pain in my lower back and arthritis in both knees. After only two months, the pain in both of my knees had almost completely disappeared. I can do things I could not do for several years. All back pain had disappeared.

My medical doctor was surprised when I went back to him after my Chiropractic Adjustments, to see how healthy I was compared to previous visits.

I came in to a Chiropractor because I had friends and relatives that had been helped and they all recommended not only Chiropractic care, but Dr. Richard Chase. I'm so glad I listened to them.

Shouldn't Chiropractic Be Helping You, Too?

Asthma Relief After 40 Years of Suffering

In August, I took the flu. I went to our family doctor, he gave me a prescription for pills and liquid medicine. I took them and felt some better,

I worked all that winter and just got worse. On the 18th of March I went home and called our doctor for an appointment. He said I had pneumonia. I was shocked. I was told to stay home and rest. I did, but felt I had to get back to work. The doctor said if I felt like it, I could go back the 5th of April.

I went back but could not work, so back to the doctors again and more medicine. I felt some better so, April the 12th I went back to work and worked to April 16th.

Each day my boss said, "You don't look so well, why don't you go home." I told him I was trying to stay the week out, but if I was not better I would not be back Monday. In the meantime I received an advertisement letter in the mail from Dr. Richard Chase.

· I had taken so much medicine my stomach hurt if I ate or if I didn't eat and every pill I took make it worse. I wish I didn't have to take any more pills, so I said to my husband I am going to Dr. Chase the Chiropractor. I couldn't lose and at least I wouldn't have to take any more pills.

After three weeks, I was sorry I did not know about Dr. Chase a long time ago. I have all kinds of allergies, hayfever, sinus trouble and asthma. I can breathe better now than in years. I am sure if I keep up my Chiropractic adjustments I will be well. If I had known years ago, I would have saved myself a lot of suffering.

Helps Us Help Others

My name is Andy Orlando. I first started as a patient at the Chase Chiropractic Office approximately in March of 1980. I was referred by Mrs. Juhnke. My problem was a pinched nerve in the neck. I have received about 6 adjustments to date and feel GREAT. I first began feeling relief after my first adjustment. I would like to recommend the Chase Chiropractic Office and Dr. Chase to anyone with a health problem. Try them, you'll see!

Saxton opened feed-seed store 51 years ago

When Dean Saxton opened his feed store in Plymouth 51 years ago, the city was the center of an agricultural area. Raising of crops and farm animals still was an important part of the local economy

Even within the city limits, vegetable gardens were the rule rather than the exception, and many city residents raised chickens in their backyards.

"I sold a lot of feed and seed during the early days," Saxton recalls. "At that time, people still dreamed of retiring to a lifestyle that included the raising of 400 to 500 chickens as a source of income during retirement years."

In 1934, the year Saxton started the Plymouth Feed Store on Main Street in what now is the Mayflower Meeting House building, Plymouth had a population of barely more than 4,500. It had been a village only two years before and was still feeling its way as a home-

Other factories included those of the Dunn Steel Co., Plymouth Felt Products, Universal Power Sprayer Co., Plymouth Plating Works, Plymouth Screw Products Co., the National Window Shade Co., the New Rubber Process Co., the Plymouth Tube Co., and the village industry plants of the Ford Motor Co., which made precision tools and gauges.

The city had a high school and two grade schools with a total enrollment of 1,523 students. There were two banks, Plymouth United Savings and the First National Bank, as well as the

WE'VE LOWERED THE PRICE OF LOOKING GOOD

Jeff Bridges is Jack Forrester, a newspaper publisher and editor accused of murdering his wife, an heiress, in "Jagged Edge."

the movies Dan Greenberg

Fascinating people are the characters in 'Jagged Edge'

Critics usually consider themselves the ones to recommend films for others' viewing pleasure. If you happen to enjoy the film, ther you'll be convinced the critic is a good one.

Not so this time. Everyone's been telling me I just had to see "Jagged Edge" - so, despite the role reversal, I went to see it. While everyone was quite correct, it is entertaining and worth seeing, it doesn't hold up to the rave notices as much as one might

The "Jagged Edge" is the serrated blade of a hunting knife used to brutally slay wealthy San Francisco newspaper publisher Page Forrester (Maria Mayenzet), and her maid, as the film opens.

The "Jagged Edge" is also the psychological borderline that weaves and wanders between the interesting characters who populate the film. The politically ambitious district attorney, Thomas Krasny (Peter Coyote), sees the opportunity to grandstand a sensational case and run for the Senate.

SUSPICION FALLS on Page's husband and editor-in-chief, Jack (Jeff Bridges). For Krasny's political ambitions that is just perfect, particularly since Jack Forrester's editorials have been highly critical of Krasny's management and tactics in the District Attorney's Office.

The Krasny-Forrester borderline is complemented and triangulated when Forrester's law firm convinces one of its attorneys, a former Krasny assistant D.A., Teddy Barnes (Glenn Close), to return to criminal practice and defend Jack.

Barnes' complicated and jagged psychological reactions to the assignment involve her great distaste for Krasny and his questionable tactics, her guilt for the outcome of the last case she had tried with him and her own slightly disordered personal life.

That personal life includes two conventionally cute kids, played with satisfying restraint by Brandon Call as young son David and Christina Hutter as daughter Jenny. Teddy's divorce from hubby Matthew (Guy Boyd) is so amicable that one has to wonder if the only reason they divorced was to meet the needs of plot complica-

In any event, Teddy takes the case in spite of her avowed distaste for criminal practice. Her investigations convince her that that the D an enemy and advance his own career.

"JAGGED EDGE" has plenty of emotional tension, suspense and excitement induced through good use of film techniques — subjective cameras, darkly lit, shadowed images; appropriately creepy music; and too much gruesome gore. Those images, however, along with Matthew Leonetti's fine photography of San Francisco, make the film a worthwhile entertainment.

There are some excellent roles that flesh out this picture. John Dehner strikes just the right note as Judge Carrigan. His courtroom demeanor and his personal interaction is warm, human and just. Robert Loggia is Teddy Barnes' personal friend, confidant and private investigator. His tough, no-nonsense approach and brash, outspoken manner keep the film moving. His tag line, as the film closes, alone is worth the price of admission Unfortunately, Glenn Close mugs when she should be acting and neither Jeff Bridges nor Peter Coyote ring true. In that latter case, it's difficult to tell whether the acting or writing weakens the story and the role of D.A. Krasny.

No doubt such venal villains inhabit the halls of power, but I'll bet anything that such characters are much more devious than Krasny. His edges were obviously jagged. Not only didn't he do his homework, he didn't appear to try. There is also some question whether the circumstantial evidence he presented to the court was sufficient to have Forrester bound over for trial.

In spite of all that, San Francisco devotees will appreciate the scenery. Mystery/suspense fans and courtroom drama addicts, too, will enjoy the tension and suspense of the "Jagged Edge."

Ordinary family is good drama

Performances of the Actors Alliance Theatre Company production of "The Subject Was Roses" by Frank D. Gilroy continue through Saturday, Nov. 23, at 30800 Evergreen in Southfield. For ticket information call 642-1326.

By Cathie Breidenbach special writer

The Actor's Alliance Theatre Company's fine production of Frank Gilroy's "The Subject Was Roses" reminds us that a good play doesn't need an earthquake happening at its center.

"The Subject Was Roses" is a 20year-old play about nothing more spectacular than an ordinary middle-class family from the Bronx sorting through its troubles. The Clearys (father, mother and son just home from duty in World War II) lack the flamboyant glamour of the Ewing clan, and their problems don't blaze across headlines or head up chapters in sociology books about the latest form of domestic abuse or sexual deviation.

Yet "The Subject Was Roses" won drama's triple crown in 1965 - the Pulitzer Prize, the New York Drama Critics Award for the Best Play and the Tony Award.

Gilroy stakes out a narrow turf as his subject - the inept communication between three people in a family, and within the confines of that domestic circle he creates a tight play with masterful dialogue and subtle characters whose roots go deep.

TOLSTOY SAID, "All happy families resemble one another, but each unhappy family is unhappy in its own way. o it is with the unhappy Clearys, and Gilroy plumbs their inarticulate troubles to create three distinct and memorable characters

Director Jeff Nahan is up to the challenge of casting John, Nettie and Timmy Cleary

The play opens when the family is coming down from a party celebrating Timmy's safe return from the war. Before he's been home even a day, old tensions begin to surface. There's John and Nettie's wilted marriage, an arrangement riddled with suppressed anger and unsatisfying to both, but nevertheless bound to continue by genuine caring and by memories of how it once was between them.

Timmy takes up his old position in the family triangle as his parents jockey for his time and allegiance. Henry skill best when Timmy resorts to drink because he can't handle the tensions.

Nobody comes to a present moment without the baggage of the past passing judgment or making demands on the present. Part of what makes "Roses" a mature play is the expert way Gilroy gives each character a past that impinges on the present. Henrietta Hermelin turns in a solid, admirable performance as the ladylike Nettie who married John for his high Irish energy so unlike that of her refined father, then laments ever after that John isn't more like her father. Such are the convoluted ironies that have the ring of truth in

CARL KNISELY as the tempermental father, John Cleary, keeps tension on its toes and masters the dynamics of his character in an exceptional performance. John Cleary is a moody,

Falcons drop Chiefs, Aiken rebreaks leg

staff writer

ee Inculty, ges of Monday, October 28, 1985 O&E

Football can be a cruel game. Witness Farmington's 23-0 victory against Plymouth Canton Saturday.

On the Falcon sidelines stood senior Jim Laird, the unquestionable leader of the Farmington team. He was on crutches. His leg was broken last week against North Farmington. Saturday was his last chance to play football in front of the home crowd.

"Look at that, they are running right at my position," Laird said during the game. "I hate just standing here."

On the Canton side there was even more heartbreak. The Chiefs No. 1 quarterback, Tony Aiken, broke his leg in the season opener at North Farmington. He made his return Saturday.

On the Chiefs' fourth offensive series. Aiken rebroke his leg. While the doctors put his leg in an air cast, the years for his chance to run the Canton offense, broke down and cried.

football

"THE TEAM felt bad for Tony," said Canton coach Richard Barr. "He came back to us and really added a spark. He wanted to play so bad. We all feel terrible about what happened."

Aiken's injury hurt more than feel-ings — it hurt Canton's chances to win the football game.

The Chiefs trailed 3-0 by virtue of a 30-yard Bruce Kratt field goal at the time of the injury and had pushed the ball into Farmington territory.

The normal backup quarterback talented senior, who had waited three would have been Steve Genyk, but he left the team in mid-week. That left Todd Wood, a wide receiver who had never before taken a snap from center, to handle the quarterbacking chores.

The momentum in the game shifted

Wood came in there, he knew about three or four plays and we taught him a couple more," Barr said. "But, under the circumstances, I felt he did a nice job. He didn't fumble a snap."

WITH 4:06 left in the first half, Farmington quarterback Joe Bob Wenson, who played perhaps his best game ever, engineered a pretty 80-yard drive which culminated in a 14-yard touchdown pass to Jim Howell.

Wenson, who completed six of 11 passes for 70 and rushed for 30 more on the day, ran for 24 yards and passed for 43 in the scoring drive.

Kratt's point after kick was blocked. Once we scored that TD at the end of the half, Canton didn't seem to play too well," said Farmington coach Don Kuick. "But we played very well today. The kids gave us a real good effort."

The second half belonged exclusively to the Falcons. While Farmington rolled up 143 total yards in the half, Canton was checked on just 28. Canton earned two first downs in the half, one thanks to a Farmington penalty.

On the game, Farmington amassed 266 total yards to Canton's 108.

THE SCORE remained 9-0 until the first play of the fourth quarter. Canton (0-8), on a fourth-and-10 play from their own 48, attempted a fake punt. Dan Olszewski, the punter, threw a pass but the reception was made out

On the next play, Farmington's Eric Green darted through the Canton line for a 48-yard score. The blocking of Craig Petersmark and backs Ed Sudzina and Darrel Tharnish sprung Green.

"Petersmark has been outstanding all year," Kuick said. "He's had to play about everywhere for us. He's a tremendous player."

Farmington's final score came on a 10-yard run by John Buchanan.

The Falcons (3-3 in the Western kes, 3-5 overall) had another chance to score late in the game following a 45-yard interception return by Tharnish that put the ball on the Canton 24.

But the Canton defense, a proud unit led by Olszewski and Rich McConnell, stuffed the Falcons' final drive.

Canton will finish its season Friday against rival Plymouth Canton. Farmington will travel to Redford Union.

Another overpowering force for Franklin was back Brad Norrid, who carried 15 times for 155 yards and scored two touchdowns.

Chiefs inch closer to divisional crown

By Chris McCosky staff writer

It's just about time for Plymouth Canton to make room in its trophy case — the Chiefs are ready to clinch the Western Lakes Western Division girls basketball title.

The Chiefs, with their 43-38 victory against Livonia Churchill Thursday night, led the division by four games with four games left to play. But second-place Churchill didn't succumb without a spirited fight. The Chargers (7-5 in the league, 8-5 overall) trailed Canton 39-24 with four minutes left in the game when coach Roger Springsteen switched from zone defense to man-to-man.

The switch helped Churchill outscore Canton 14-4 down the stretch to make a ballgame out of what looked to be a rout. "WE PLAYED with good intensity at the end," Springsteen said. "If we had played that way throughout the game we might have won."

eople were getting in foul trouble, and we had to replace them with guards and that's really hard to do."

All three fouled-out Chiefs had been instrumental in building Canton's lead. Darby led the Chiefs in scoring with 11 points despite only playing half the game. Piggott was a force on defense blocking six shots. She also added eight points. Frigge scored eight points and spearheaded Canton's offense.

THE DIFFERENCE in the game, as it turned out, was the second quarter. The Chiefs outscored Churchill 16-3 and took a 23-10 lead into half-

"Regina came at us with relentless pressure," Baker said. "We earned our spurs. We showed a lot of character in the final 50 seconds. This could be a turning point in our season."

Western Lakes crowns new champ: John Glenn

staff writer

In the victorious Westland John Glenn locker room, sounds from a portable tape player blared out Bruce Springsteen's "Glory Days."

It was a song and a night of football that coach Chuck Gordon, his staff and players may remember for quite some

Glenn, taking advantage of 244-yard running performance by Tony Boles, captured its first Western Lakes Activities Association title with a stirring 28-7 victory Friday night over twotime defending champion Farmington

That was a good football team we beat," Gordon told his players after-

GORDON, WHOSE team is unbeaten in eight games, also emphasized the importance of this week's game against crosstown rival Wayne Memorial for the city title.

"This was a big victory because we won the league," Gordon said. "But the other thing it does is give us a chance to get into the (state) playoffs.

We're in control of our own desti-

Boles, the 6-foot-2, 194-pound senior was at his finest for the big league showdown.

He broke a school record with a 92yard TD run to give Glenn a 12-0 lead after one quarter and then help set up Glenn's final touchdown in the fourth quarter, carrying 10 times for 79 yards, capped by quarterback Steve Irwin's 2yard sneak.

"Somebody said that he (Boles) couldn't run inside, but that's bull," said Harrison coach John Herrington. "He's

football

ON GLENN'S final TD drive, Boles helped by his offensive line, carried tacklers and made moves that coaches just don't teach.

"Tony played his finest game at John Glenn," Gordon said. "I hear the talk about him not running inside, but I don't know where it comes from.

"He's had good speed since he got here and he's improved."

There were other Glenn heroes as

The Rockets' defense made a goal wards. "And they (Harrison) showed a line stand midway through the first quarter, stopping Harrison's all-purpose back Brian Smolinski on third down at the 1 and quarterback Mike Mack's sneak on fourth down.

'Smo' said he thought he was in, but our coaches said we didn't get in in on the fourth down," Herrington said. "It took our momentum away, but that sounds like sour grapes. But it didn't matter, Glenn was the better team."

GLENN'S FIRST TD came as a result of a Harrison miscue as defensive back Bill Grisamer picked off a pass and raced 80 yards (also a school record) at the 9:16 mark.

Glenn scored another TD at the outset of the second quarter when Irwin found Mike Hammontree wide open for a 28-yard scoring strike with 7:28 left in the half. Two plays earlier, Glenn picked up 27 yards when Irwin's pass, intended for Grisamer, was tipped by a Harrison defender and fell into the hands of Rick Hassen. (After the score, Boles ran for the two-pointer to make

"I thought it might not be our night when the tight end (Hassen) got that ball," said Herrington.

HARRISON, HOWEVER, marched down the field on its next series, only to have Hammontree recover Mack's fumble on the 3.

Glenn, leading 20-0, took the ball to open the second half, but Harrison's ean Norton picked off an Irwin flea flicker pass at the 50.

Seven plays later, Harrison got on the board when Mack hit Rod Sarcevich with a 12-yard TD pass and Todd Marshke added the extra point to make Irwin was then intercepted on Glenn's next series by linebacker Todd Gardner at the Rockets' 44.

But Harrison couldn't score as Glenn's Paul Pomerski sacked Mack for a 10-yard loss back to the 40.

HARRISON'S ONLY other real chance to score was dashed early in the final quarter when Grisamer made his second interception of the night at his own 11.

Harrison moved the ball effectively behind the running and pass catching of Smolinski, the 5-10, 155-pound senior. He rushed for 79 yards and made four acrobatic catches for 85 yards.

"Smolinski did what we thought," said Gordon. "You're not going to completely stop him. We knew he was good, but we didn't know he was great. And he's a class guy to boot."

With the dangerous Smolinski ever lurking, Gordon said "I never felt com-fortable until that last touchdown drive.

But Herrington couldn't feel comfortable either as long as Boles was on the field. His 244 yards brought his season total to 1,107, breaking Todd Jennings' school record of 1,071 set in 1982.

Harrison's Brian Smolinski had a big game Friday but he couldn't prevent his team from falling to Glenn in the Western Lakes championship.

WITH CANDY DECORATED COOKIES

As the end of October draws near, thoughts turn to pumpkins, black cats, ghosts and goblins. Halloween, that well-loved celebration that's pratically synonymous with candy and parties, gives children and adults alike carte blanche to dress in costume and have good old-fashioned fun.

Little do most people know that the light-hearted customs of feasting and visiting came from ancient New Year's festivals in Wales, Ireland, Scotland and Brittany. October 31st was the Celts' New Year's Eve. when evil spirits were supposed to wander back to their homes. To appease them, villagers would greet these spirits with a banquet. Afterwards, the villagers. disguised in costumes for protection, marched to the edge of town to lead the visiting spirits away.

Today, we present candy to friends and family as gestures of friendship at Halloween. One such fun project for adults and children is making Jumbo Halloween witches, cats and other holiday symbols out of stiff cardboard. These are then placed on sugar cookie dough to guide in cutting shapes. After baking and frosting with melted chocolate bars or ornamental icing, kids can decorate the cookies with an assortment of confections such as candy corn, licorice, gum drops and ielly beans.

While in days gone by people would use costumes and torches to remain safe from "evil spirits" on this special night, today parents and children are encouraged to observe safety rules from The National Safety Council and the National Confectioners Association to make sure Halloween is enjoyable for all.

It's best to put reflector tape on light-colored children's costumes and to keep clothes short enough to prevent tripping. Choose face masks that let kids see well. Young children need to have an adult with them when they go door-to-door, and older ones should be alerted to watch for cars, stay close to home and carry a flashlight in case it's dark when they return.

It's especially important to remind children to be careful about where they walk and how they cross streets. Excitement can lead to hasty darts between cars instead of crossing at street corners. Tell them to always stay on the sidewalk and to look in all directions before crossing an intersection. Remind them to walk-not run-and to watch for cars backing out of driveways.

Once back at home, adults should check candy and make sure it's properly wrapped before allowing children to eat it. Then it's time to decorate the Jumbo Halloween cookies, snack on collected treats and play games. Time-tested activities include pinning the tail on the donkey and bobbing for apples. Fruit juices or milk are welcome beverages to go with the food and festivities.

With plenty of candy, a few precautions and an evening of enjoyable activities, Halloween can be a wonderful time for togetherness, as well as safe and fun for all.

JUMBO HALLOWEEN COOKIES

- 6 cups all-purpose flour
- teaspoon baking powder 1/2 teaspoon salt
- cup butter or margarine, softened
- 2 cups sugar large egg
- 2 teaspoons vanilla
- 2/3 cup milk Milk chocolate candy bars Assorted candles for decoration

In a large bowl stir flour, baking powder and salt together. In another large bowl cream butter and sugar together; beat in egg until light and fluffy. Add vanilla. Add dry ingredients alternately with milk until combined. Cover dough and chill 2 hours. To make cookie patterns, cut Halloween shapes from light weight cardboard. Each shape should be between 5 and 7 inches tall.

Divide dough into four equal portions. On a lightly floured board with a lightly floured rolling pin, roll out one portion of the dough at a time to approximately 3/8-inch thickness. Using the cardboard patterns as guides, cut out cookies with the point of a sharp knife or use Halloween shaped cookie cutters. With a metal spatula, carefully transfer cookles to lightly greased baking sheets. Bake in a preheated 350 °F. oven 10 to 12 minutes or until cookies are lightly browned around the edges. Remove to wire racks to cool. When completely cool, frost with Decorator Frosting*. Melt milk chocolate candy bars (6 to 8 ounces) in the top of a double boiler over hot, not boiling, water. Apply chocolate to cookies using a small spatula. Decorate with assorted candles.

Yield: Approximately 3 dozen cookies.

*DECORATOR FROSTING

- 2 1/2 to 3 cups confectioners' sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon cream of tarter
 - egg whites
 - 1/2 teaspoon vanilla Assorted food colors

In a medium bowl stir together confectioners' sugar and cream of tartar; add egg whites and vanilla. Beat with a electric mixer or wooden spoon until frosting holds its shape. Cover surface of frosting with a damp cloth when not in use to prevent crusting. Divide frosting into small portions and tint with food coloring, as desired. Spread a thin layer of frosting on each cookie with a small flexible spatula. Decorate immediately with candles, pressing candles gently into the frosting. Allow cookies to dry on wire racks, Store in airtight containers at room temperature. Do not

The literary source is the description

The history of food is everywhere intertwined with the history of civilization. The foods that were eaten, the ways in which they were prepared, and how they were served are directly related to the social milieu from which they arose.

The decadence of ancient Rome expresses itself through the gross overindulgences of the Roman banquet, which featured extravagant amounts of food and almost unbelievable waste.

Ostrich brains, for instance, were considered a delicacy; however, they were the only part of the bird that was eaten. Peacocks were another Roman favorite; these ancient gastronomes had no compunction about killing a bird so beautiful to satisfy their palates.

Other ages were equally ostentatious in their own way. Medieval lords, eager to flaunt their wealth, would liberally flavor the meals they served to guests with doses of the many spices - all costly - which they had procured from the distant Orient.

A HARMONY of flavors was a distinctly secondary concern; of primary interest was making sure that those people who visited them recognized just now rich they were.

And the 19th-century Russian nobility — denying their provincialism — set themselves apart by affecting a French style: They spoke to each other in French, called each other by French names and served each other elaborate French dinners.

Their culinary preferences were a direct reflection of their social circumstances, and social circumstances are an important - though often unwritten - facet of history.

How then do we glean the sort of information that brings these ages to life far more surely and dramatically than details of battles, royal successions and scientific inventions?

Frequently, the medium is the literature of the period, and it is the consummate skill of the novelist that captures for future ages the mundane details of his time.

Often, these mundane details encompass the arena of the dining table. Our knowledge of Roman banquets derives largely from such works as the "Satyricon of Petronius Arbiter."

AND SHAKESPEARE is a source of information regarding herbs, spices and other culinary items popular during the Elizabethan period.

No one has painted the dining habits of the 19th-century French bourgeoisie with the care and exactitude of Gustave Flaubert, in "Madame Bovary."

And, of course, the most famous culinary event in literature occurs in "Swann's Way," the first volume of Marcel Proust's monumental achievement, "Remembrance of Things Past," when the young Marcel dips a ma- of many of the classics of literature. A deleine (a lemon-scented tea cake) into Roman banquet based on passages a cup of tea, tastes it, and is rewarded with a kaleidoscopic and overwhelming vision of events long past - a vision whose recounting occupies a sizable portion of the novel.

A fascination with the interplay between literature and food is the premise for an unusual cookbook entitled "The Literary Gourmet: Menus from Masterpieces" (Harmony Books) by Linda Wolfe, which was first published in 1962 and recently reissued.

IN IT. Wolfe combines history, literature and culinaria in an intricate and always interesting fashion, taking the reader on a Grand Tour of food through the realm of literature, from antiquity to the present.

Wolfe allows the great writers who have been her inspiration to speak for themselves quoting sizable portions from the appropriate works.

Her voice appears to introduce the works, the recipes and the periods, with lucid explanations, which always enhance, never detract.

Her guiding influence is also apparent in the menus that she has devised, using the literature as a guide.

Recipes for each dish of every menu are included. These were adapted in the kitchen of the world-renowned Four Seasons Restaurant in New York by the late Albert Stockli.

As a finishing touch, Mimi Sheraton, at that time an aspiring food writer, acted as consultant to The Four Seasons, and did much of the nuts-andbolts work of researching and testing that the recipes required.

The recipes themselves range from Red Pottage of Lentils, the food for which Esau sold his birthright in the Old Testament, to biscuits (Southern style), a recipe inspired by a John Steinbeck story entitled "Breakfast."

more than counterbalanced by the sensuous fare enjoyed by that unfortunate lady, Emma Bovary.

Flaubert has the lovely Emma dine upon such extravagant fare as Truffles and Quails, during her fairytale immersion in the world of wealth and glamour at a Marquis' ball.

Never again, he implies, will she be satisfied with the hearty bourgeois food onion soup and veal cooked with sorrel — she had previously enjoyed.

Wolfe offers us adaptations of some of the foods Emma feasted upon at the Marquis' chateau; recipes for truffles, compote of quails and other seductive dishes are updated from a pair of 19thcentury French cookbooks.

HENRY JAMES creates an American version and viewpoint of French ambiance in his classic novel, "The Ambassadors," in which the innocence and naivete of the new world is challenged by the sophistication and subtlety of the old. The result is that both are irrevocably changed, and preceptions are enriched.

How appropriate then, that the recipe for Omelette aux Tomatoes, a tomato omelette enjoyed by James' American protagonist, Lambert Strether, and the enchanting and ambiguous Frenchwoman, Madame de Vionnet, should be adapted from a 1901 cookbook entitled "French Cookery for

No book on food and literature would be complete without the Christmas dinner at Bob Cratchit's house, which is recounted in Dickens' immortal "A Christmas Carol."

Thus, the reader can join the Cratchit family and Ebenezer Scrooge, who has recognized the error of his miserly ways, for a meal of roast goose with sage and onion stuffing, gravy, applesauce and Christmas pudding.

PETITES MADELEINES (Adapted from "The Epicurean," 1894, ¼ pound butter Charles Ranhofer)

2 thep. brandy 2 pinches salt Grated lemon peel or ¼ tsp. lemon ex-

1 tsp. baking soda 1 % cups melted butter

2 cups sugar 4 % cups sifted flour 5 whole eggs

4 egg yolks

Melt the butter in a saucepan. Beat well together the remaining ingredients, then add the melted butter. Mix, and fill buttered madeleine molds twothirds full. Bake in a 350 degree oven for 20 minutes, until light brown. (Makes 5 dozen madeleines).

OMELETTE AUX TOMATES (From "French Cookery for American Homes," 1901)

4 ripe tomatoes 2 thsp. butter Pinch of salt and pepper Chopped chives Salt and pepper

Peel very ripe tomatoes (plunge them into boiling water for an instant; the peel will come off easily); cut them in halves; take out the pips; slice them.
Put 2 tablespoons of butter in a stewpan; place in the tomatoes with a pinch of salt and pepper, let them cook gently until all moisture has disappeared; add a little chopped chives.

Now, break the eggs; season with salt, pepper, and 1 tablespoon of melted butter, beat up for an instant. Dissolve in (a 12-inch) omelet pan 4 pound of butter; pour the eggs into this pan; tilt the pan toward yourself, keeping the omelet spread over only half of it, and taking an oval form (as edges set, pull them toward center of omelet and let raw egg run under); when it has taken color and substance on the one side, tilt the pan in the opposite direction; turn the omelet over with a palette knife (spatula); give it a nice color on the other side; turn into a hot dish; make an incision lengthwise in the omelet; pour into this opening the tomato mixture. (Serves 5)
