School officials pleased with test results

By Doug Funke
staff writer

Eight out of every 10 Plymouth-Canton students in fourth, seventh and 10th grade achieved at least 75 percent of reading objectives this year on the Michigan Education Assessment Program (MEAP).

Performance on the math portion varied. More than 87 percent of fourth graders achieved three quarters of the testing objectives compared with 76 percent of seventh graders and 75 percent of 10th graders.

"I think one could draw the conclusion teachers are doing a good job of teaching and students are doing a good job of learning," said Dr. Michael Homes, assistant superintendent of instruction for Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

The standardized MEAP test was given to fourth, seventh and 10th graders throughout the state earlier this school year. More than 3,500 local students were tested.

"What it's designed to do is take an individual student and measure accomplishments against a standard established for him," Homes said.

'... our instructional program is oriented toward students achieving well in basic skills areas.'

— Dr. Michael Homes
Assistant Superintendent Instruction

IN PLYMOUTH-CANTON, a slightly higher percentage of 10th graders and fourth graders met three quarters of both reading and math objectives this year than last.

On the other hand, a slightly smaller percentage of seventh graders achieved math and reading objectives this year.

More than 20 math and reading objectives were tested.

The math objectives ranged from whole number and fraction arithmetic through metric measurement to geometry. The reading test included vocabulary, comprehension and critical reading skills.

Mastery is defined as correctly answering two of three questions relating to an objective.

"We're certainly not disappointed with the performance of our kids," Homes said. "We're pleased. It tells us we have a large number not only measuring up to what the state expects, but exceeding through performance."

"It says our instructional program is oriented toward students achieving well in basic skill areas," he continued. "We're also pleased because performances of our kids have been consistently high."

ADMINISTRATORS will analyze the test scores in more detail to determine what, if any, instructional modifications should be made throughout the district or within individual school buildings. Homes said he doesn't expect major changes.

There would be no major cause for concern, he added, unless the number of students achieving objectives fell dramatically (8 to 15 percentage points) in a year or steadily over time.

"We tend to look at the pattern," Homes said. "A 2 or 3 percent difference may be attributed to different test-taking populations."

"They've been very consistent over time," he said of local achievement levels. "Overall, if anything has happened, they've improved a little bit."

Homes said he recalls that the math test has been revised since 1980, perhaps making some comparisons back to then less authoritative. The reading test will change next year and a science test will be added.

Educators say MEAP scores shouldn't really be compared between school districts, either.

"It would be a valid comparison if you could equate every single variable," Homes said. He identified important variables as socio-economic status, the tax base, instructional materials and curriculum.

Parents of students who took the MEAP have been or will be informed of their children's specific scores, Homes said.

Tom Dean tells why his broadcasting experience aids him in selling real estate.

Broadcaster wears another hat

By Alvia Lewis
staff writer

Trying to keep within the framework he established as a radio "communicator" over the past 20 years, Tom Dean (past WJBK, WDEE, WQMC and WXYX deejay) decided to do something new with his life, like selling real estate.

So, in 1981, after being plagued for many a year by the question, "What do you do with the other 21 hours in your day?" Dean enrolled in a six-week course at Sharp School of Real Estate in Westland to, as he said, "do something with the other 21 hours" in his day.

"Choosing real estate was not only a wise choice but an appropriate choice," said Dean, a graduate of Redford High School. "I'm a seller. I'm a promoter by nature. I've sold everything from water beds to Cadillacs to potato chips. Now I'm selling houses and condominiums."

But according to Dean, who is big on image, it's not how but with whom one associates, which is the reason he decided to associate himself with Schweitzer Real Estate Inc. — Better Homes and Gardens in Plymouth.

"I wanted to make sure Tom Dean made sure to associate himself with a reputable establishment," Dean said. "The organization is very protective of its image and better yet, it's backed by a national magazine."

OF HIS new line of work, Dean said that it is "pleasurable." He especially enjoys the opportunity to work with the public on a more personal note.

"Most people have heard my voice over the radio at some time or another. When they meet me and associate the name, we get all the formalities out of the way immediately," Dean said.

"The dealings start on a positive note and this helps, especially since I'm helping people to make one of the biggest investments of their lives."

And of radio broadcasting, Dean said that it "was always a hobby and still is a hobby," Dean said his voice continues to be "all over the place," including voice overs, television and radio commercials as well as being the master of ceremonies for the annual Addy presentations for commercials held in Lansing.

Sometime soon Dean plans to find another three-hour slot somewhere on the air waves. "It will have to be either an early morning or night slot, and as with all radio jobs, I'll have to wait until one opens up."

Dean has only one regret in life and that's never having been to college, which he said was a "terrible mistake."

"I've always had a curious mind," Dean said. "But my mind was never curious enough around the time I should have been attending college to go, and now I'm doing other things."

Those other things include reading, operating an amateur ham radio, piloting and being a member of the Wayne County Civil Defense.

Dean, a 15-year Plymouth-Canton resident, is looking for a home in Plymouth Township.

And yes, he will help himself find that home. "I'm armed with a vast array of knowledge about real estate and will be looking for my own home, can't think of a better person, can you?"

Police allege 3 LCC violations

By Doug Funke
staff writer

Employees at two party stores and a bar in Plymouth Township unlawfully sold alcoholic beverages to persons under 21 years of age Friday during an undercover operation orchestrated by township police, said Chief Carl Berry.

Plymouth Party Store at Ann Arbor Road near Sheldon, Hines Park Party Store at Ann Arbor Trail and Francis, and Plymouth Rock Saloon at Joy and General will be reported to the state Liquor Control Commission (LCC) for selling to minors, Berry said.

If found guilty during LCC hearings, owners of those establishments could be fined or their licenses to sell alcoholic beverages could be suspended. Maximum penalty is revocation of licenses.

"The objective is to make sure local liquor establishments serve only to those of the proper age for drinking," Berry said of Friday's operation.

"It's going to be done on a rotating basis," added Deputy Chief Marvin "Chip" Snider. "Some were randomly selected. Some more were brought to our attention and we were forced to act."

ONE COMPLAINT each had been received about the Plymouth Rock Saloon and the Plymouth Party Store before Friday's operation, Berry said.

Two men and a woman — all age 20 — were used as under-aged buyers, Berry said. "Instructions were if they were asked for ID, to produce it immediately." The three minors, sitting at two different tables, were served by two different waitresses at the Plymouth Rock Saloon, Berry said.

Clerks at both the Hines Park Party Store and Plymouth Party Store rang up a sale of a six-pack of beer to a 20-year-old male who had entered the establishment alone, he added.

"The ID wasn't checked, he looked 30 years old, and the police said he wasn't old enough," said Devyani Patel, manager of Plymouth Party Store.

A similar charge was dismissed by the LCC earlier this year due to no witnesses, she maintained.

"We don't sell to minors," Patel said.

Chuck Salah, owner of Hines Park Party Store, said last week's violation was his first in 23 years in the business.

"It was a hard day at work. I was tired," Salah said. "The guy looked old enough with a beard and mustache. He could fool anybody. The guy looked 27 or 28."

A spokesman for Plymouth Rock Saloon couldn't be reached for comment.

EMPLOYEES or management at Pressbox Tavern at Ann Arbor Road and Sheldon, Quik Pik at Lilley and Ann Arbor Road, and McAllister's at Northville Road and Five Mile checked identifications and refused to serve alcoholic beverages to the minors, Berry said.

Both Berry and Snider said all of the nearly 30 liquor license holders in the township will eventually be put to the sale-to-minor test.

"We are going to be selecting random locations on an on-going basis," Berry said of an overall alcohol enforcement program.

"It makes absolutely no difference who they are," Snider added. "The burden is on the seller, not the buyer. They don't seem to recognize that."

Tax rate rises Board receives new '86 budget proposal

By Doug Funke
staff writer

Plymouth Township property owners next year will be taxed at a rate of $5.36 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation (half of fair market value) for general operations and storm drain debt retirement.

The township board Tuesday established the tax rate — a 25 percent increase over the current rate of $4.28 per $1,000 SEV — as recommended by Supervisor Maurice Breen.

The millage rate when applied to the township's tax base is expected to provide just over $1.9 million in revenue.

Breen's revised budget anticipates operating revenues from all sources of just over $3.3 million, expenses of just under $3.2 million and an unallocated reserve and surplus at the end of the current budget year (Dec. 31) of $564,000.

If all goes as planned, according to Breen's spending blueprint, the township will have an unallocated fund balance of nearly $500,000 as of Dec. 31, 1986.

The township's budget year begins Jan. 1.

'The township is still the lowest-tax-rated government unit giving comparable services in Wayne County certainly and probably anywhere in southeast Michigan, I suspect.'

— Maurice Breen
Township Supervisor

"IT GETS the police force going to a two-three-two (cars on the road during day, afternoon and midnight shift) configuration," Breen said of his proposed budget.

"For fire, it guarantees operation of two EMS (emergency medical service) rigs and two stations," he added.

Township voters recently approved a tax hike for 20 years to fund police and fire operations. A tax for police operations in effect the past five years expires this year.

Breen's forecast includes spending:

- $1.3 million on general operations which includes all township departments except police, fire and the planning/building department; fringe benefits for all employees; maintenance of township buildings and grounds including utilities; and park operations.
- $680,000 for police operations.
- $664,000 for fire operations.
- $217,000 for trash collection and disposal.
- $185,000 for personnel, equipment and supplies in the planning/building department.
- $93,000 for capital purchases including computerized voting equipment and three police cars.

The major revenue sources projected by Breen for general operations include: $1.4 million from property taxes; $1.1 million from state revenue sharing; $350,000 from permit fees, penalties and fines; $240,000 from trash collection fees; $145,000 from the Hilltop Golf Course lease; and $100,000 in interest income.

THE TOWNSHIP board will conduct a public hearing on Breen's proposed budget Nov. 19. It could adopt the budget the same night.

While Breen said that no monies have been budgeted for pay raises for non-union employees, they can expect to receive at least a cost of living increase.

The firefighters' labor contract expires next March. They have agreed to a wage freeze until then.

The township employs 52 persons. Only the 12 firefighters — soon to be 15 — and a handful of public works employees are represented by unions, Breen said.

The number of full-time police officers is expected to increase from 12 to 15 next year. The four part-time positions are expected to be maintained.

Breen said the 25 percent increase in the township tax rate and the anticipated $500,000 unallocated fund/surplus balance at the end of 1986 aren't really what they seem.

"You can't deal with percentages when you come from a low base," he said. "Any increase is going to yield a high rate of increase."

"The township is still the lowest tax rated government unit giving comparable services in Wayne County certainly and probably anywhere in southeast Michigan, I suspect," Breen continued.

Of the nearly $500,000 unallocated balance, Breen estimates that only about $250,000 actually is available for emergency use. The rest is being held in reserve for specific liabilities, including settlement of a lawsuit, he said.

Fire kills school supervisor, 40

A memorial service will be conducted at 5 p.m. Saturday at Emerson Church in Troy for Richard A. LeBlanc, supervisor of maintenance and operations for Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

Mr. LeBlanc, 40, was killed last weekend in a fire at his home in New Boston.

He began working in the Plymouth-Canton school district in September 1983 and, in effect, served as a field supervisor responsible for keeping 19 school buildings comfortable and safe for students and staff.

Mr. LeBlanc was previously employed by the Westwood Community Schools. He also served in the U.S.

Navy from May 1962 to December 1965.

Mr. LeBlanc was born in Bay Shore, N.Y. He attended Schoolcraft College and completed a number of professional seminars and trade courses.

Survivors include a daughter, Suzanne, 17, and a son, Richard, 16. They weren't home when the fire occurred.

Because the house was destroyed and all belongings lost, contributions for the children are being coordinated by the buildings and grounds department, in care of: Dan Minghine, 987 S. Mill, Plymouth, 48170.

Emerson Church is at 4230 Livernois between Wattles (17 Mile) and Long Lake (18 Mile) roads.

School board nixes outdoor camp bid

A request for fifth graders at Fiegel Elementary to spend a week at camp during school time has been denied by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education.

The school board voted 5-2 Monday night to confirm the administration's recommendation to deny permission for the fifth graders at Fiegel to spend a week at the Storer Outdoor Education Center.

The classes attended the camp last year as a pilot project but this year the administration decided the experience should not be repeated.

Parents from Fiegel were upset with the decision because they had collected 62 percent of the cost with a private fund raiser and had signed up 97 percent of the eligible students.

Trustees Les Walker and Marilyn Schwinn were the two dissenting votes in denying the request. They felt the camp should be allowed as a one-time trip this year only because fund raising had started and because student expectations had been raised.

The administration pointed out that students were informed of the camp and fund raising started before approval was given.

Earlier the administration recommended denial of the camp trip this year. Two weeks ago parents appealed to the school board and Monday night the board voted 5-2 to uphold the denial.

The district used to have a sixth-grade camp program for all students, but that program was eliminated about five years ago as part of districtwide budget cuts.

"THE FEELING OF the principals and others was that we should not reinstitute sixth-grade camp at this time," Homes said.

"Although camp was a very positive program, we also lost a number of other fine programs such as the school farm, instrumental music at the elementary level, introduction of foreign language before high school and the humanities program in the elementary grades.

"There was real mixed feelings amongst principals, many of whom favored reinstating other programs lost before bringing back camp. There wasn't any consensus for the Fiegel fifth-grade camp or even for sixth-grade camp."

Hoben commented: "We recognize that camp is a different learning experience than what is learned in the classroom and it has value, but 180 days is just not enough time for our instructional goals. We feel camp would be a diversion from the classroom and the time is better spent on task."

Kevin McClure, an instructor at Storer camp, appeared before the board to describe the camp's program, learning goals, staff and advantages.

An appeal also was made by Sue Fannin on behalf of the Fiegel parents and staff involved.

Roland Thomas, board president, and trustee Dean Swartzwelder both said the community has asked for a return to the basics and a camp experience does not fit in with that priority.

Comet viewing on tap at OU

Oakland University is celebrating Comet Night on Nov. 20 and the program is open to all interested comet viewers at no charge.

There will be lectures on comets, tips on how to find and view Halley's Comet and free use of telescopes, weather permitting, to view Halley's Comet, the craters of the moon and more.

The 6 to 10 p.m. workshop will be in Room 203 of O'Dowd Hall under sponsorship of the OU Department of Physics.

Lecturers include Freeman Miller, professor emeritus of astronomy, University of Michigan, speaking on "Comets - predictable and unpredictable"; Brian Copenhaver, dean of the OU College of Arts and Sciences, "Comets - from portraits to scientific objects"; and amateur astronomer Dr. Brian Shumaker of Henry Ford Hospital speaking on "Halley's Comet - how to find it, how to observe it."

There will be films on comets, meteors and planetoids, and discussion of how modern computers are used to plot comet orbits.

Teacher shortage reaching crisis stage now

By Mary Rodrique
staff writer

A mini baby boom coupled with a teaching staff eligible for retirement has combined to make a critical shortage of teachers the latest education crisis in the state.

"We're on the threshold of a major crisis in education. This coming fall, there will be 12,000 more vacancies of teachers than graduates to move into those jobs," said George Garver, Livonia School Superintendent.

"At the current rate, by 1993 there will be 70,000 more vacancies than graduates who are qualified."

Garver's words were echoed by other educators during a panel discussion Monday sponsored by the University of Michigan-Dearborn's division of education alumni.

In a complete turnaround from just a decade ago when the supply of teachers far outweighed the demand, about 150 U-M education graduate alumni gathered on the U-M-D campus to hear superintendents from two of Michigan's largest school districts, Livonia and Warren, warn of the impending crisis — one that has grown acute already in many parts of the nation.

"ALMOST NO ONE has been hired in our district since 1980," Garver said. "One half of our current administrative staff is now eligible for retirement."

"There has been some influx of kindergarten and first-grade students into the district while the number of teachers on recall has dwindled considerably," he said. "One out of 10 students must pursue an education (degree) in college to fulfill the current needs. But only one in 20 is pursuing a career in education. That must change."

Panel moderator Richard Morshead, dean of U-M-D's division of education, emphasized that the public is unaware of the mounting problem, falsely believing there is still a teacher surplus.

"There is growing evidence of a serious shortage," said Morshead. "The problem requires public understanding."

John Pagan, superintendent of the Warren Consolidated Schools, said there is no simple solution.

"There is a slight baby boom now but that is not the only cause of the teacher shortage," Pagan said. "During the 1970s it was devastating for young people to work hard, study and earn good grades, and then not be able to find a job in the teaching field."

"Competent teachers with 10, 12, even 14 years experience were being laid off because of declining enrollment. They were devastated. Word spread. People backed off from the field. Experienced teachers joined private industry."

Adding to the problem, both Garver and Pagan cited the fact that women, who comprised the majority of teachers, have far greater career opportunities today than in the past.

"At one time a woman interested in pursuing a career could choose to be a secretary, nurse or teacher," Pagan said. "Today the options for women are endless."

Stating that the trend in education is cyclical, Garver recalled opening schools with empty classrooms because of lack of teachers and hiring any available applicant, regardless of qualifications.

"I DON'T WANT to revert to that time," he said. "I would like to look into the marketplace and find several qualified candidates from which to choose."

"I'm confident that significant opportunities are about to occur."

His remarks drew raves from the audience, many who identified themselves as frustrated teaching graduates (products of the glutted market of the '70s) who found occasional employment substitute teaching and then abandoned the field altogether for steady employment.

Garver said he hopes teachers who abandoned the field for lack of jobs will provide the pool to carry schools through the immediate shortage.

"There will be education classes on our own campuses to facilitate recertifying teachers," he said. "But we don't know how many will want to return."

Added Pagan: "Many teachers we assumed would be available for callback are doing so well in the private sector that they can't afford to come back."

Garver identified several things that need to be done over the next few years.

"We must get the cooperation of colleges and universities to push education as an alternative," he said. "We have to get the attention of the state Legislature, many who believe there is still a glut of teachers."

"We have to talk to high school seniors again. Education has to be seen as a viable career alternative," Garver said. "And we have to examine our own institutions: the salary, the structure and the support system in order to build a good teaching environment."

Pagan forces the need to increase the minimum salary of teachers from its current base in the low 20s to $25,000 — something that has not been a priority issue with unions since more than 90 percent of the membership is at the top of the pay scale in most districts, he said.

Penalize the unruly fans

WELL, THE spectators are at it again — trying to have a part in deciding the outcome of sports events.

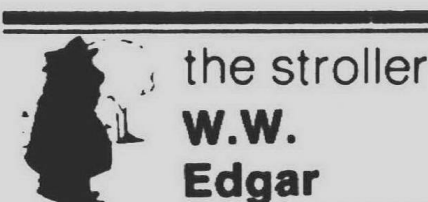

This time it is the college football crowds and, from all reports, they are playing a major hand.

The latest move came to light recently when University of Michigan football coach Bo Schembechler asked for a new hearing helmet that would reduce the effect of the crowd's yelling. He got it, and he claimed the new hearing aid was just the ticket as he heard only the voices from his assistants in the press box.

He let it be known that the spectators' noisemaking was disrupting play and even helping to decide the outcome of the game.

MEANWHILE, THE players were complaining they couldn't hear the quarterback's signals in the closing minutes of the Iowa game. Iowa won it, 12-10, with a last-second field goal.

Further concern came with word

W.W.
Edgar

from Champaign, Ill., that students had arranged for hundreds of noisemakers to help them while the game was being played.

This is truly unfair to the players. Something should be done about it.

But what? Well, it is about time the officials took a hand in it.

When these cheers and interruptions go on, it is an easy matter for the officials to call a halt and penalize the noisemakers' team. If that were done, it is more than possible the wild noisemaking would stop when the opposing team has possession of the ball.

THE NOISEMAKERS have been at it a long time, of course.

Only last year, the Tigers closed the bleachers in Tiger Stadium. They refused to admit the bleacherites who were causing the trouble. The plan worked after several weeks, and when the fans were allowed back into the sun section, things were a lot different.

The worst action of the spectators came some years ago when the Red Wings were still playing hockey in the Olympia Stadium.

The troublemakers came to the rink loaded down with dead fish. When something happened on the ice that they didn't like, they would toss fish out on the ice.

This was dangerous. A skater could strike one of the fish, tumble and break a bone or two.

When the fish were ruled out and the fans were inspected when they entered the stadium, they turned to tossing pennies onto the ice. Pennies were just as dangerous.

DEAD FISH and pennies now are missing from hockey, and the same reforms should take place in football.

There is a lot at stake on the gridiron, and even one defeat along the line could cause a good team to be denied a Rose Bowl trip or a chance at another post-season game.

Let's give the officials a hand. Let them penalize the noisemakers' team, and chances are that the home team followers will give the teams a fair chance.

Schoolcraft millage advice: 'Keep it simple'

By Tim Richard
staff writer

What do you do when your revenues are rising at less than 5 percent a year and costs at 6 percent-plus?

Schoolcraft College trustees will ask voters, probably next March, for an additional shot of revenue.

The only question, after last week-end's special board meeting, was whether to request a half-mill or a full mill of the property tax — "keep it simple," urged Trustee Rosina Raymond — and for how many years.

"If you keep the message simple, you have a better chance of its passing," Faculty Forum representative Lowell Cook told the board.

One mill would raise $1 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation. Cost on a home with a market value of $70,000 would be $35 a year, minus whatever one gets from the state's property tax rebate.

The school now levies a 1.77-mill operating levy and a fraction of a mill for debt retirement.

CHIEF SELLING points will be that the two-year community college never really finished building its 22-year-old campus and that the cramped facilities need high-tech-age renovations.

In the decade ahead, said President

Richard McDowell, operating fund needs — "just to do what we're doing now" — will outstrip revenues by a total of $12 million, or more than $1 million a year.

On the revenue side, property valuations are expected to grow 4.4 percent a year, tuition and fees 4 percent and state aid about 6 percent.

On the cost side, personnel services are expected to grow 5 percent, materials, supplies, utilities and insurance, all 8 percent.

The cost-revenue squeeze already has started. "When the 1985-86 budget was developed," McDowell said, "there was not enough revenue to even fund a budget at the same level as the year before. As a result, the board reluctantly agreed to reallocate money from the maintenance and equipment budgets."

McDOWELL TRACED this list of new needs for the next decade:

- Contractual commitments — final purchase of the Radcliff Center in Garden City, a new college computer, energy conservation projects — $1.6 million.

- Resource development, physical and human — faculty sabbaticals and seminars, computer software, local match for state-federal equipment grants, library materials — $3.3 million.

- Physical plant — roof repairs, parking lot repaving, recabling the campus for telephones and computers, overhaul of the heating-air conditioning system, security systems — $4 million.

- Equipment — nine new programs (including laser optic technician and cardio vascular technician) are in the planning stages, and there is a 15-year backlog of requests; other instructional equipment, including desks, needs replacing — $4.7 million.

A constant theme running through the "shopping list" is high-technology equipment, both for the vocational courses and the campus' business operations.

TRUSTEE Harry Greenleaf had reservations about the operating "needs."

Ten years ago, the Ford personnel engineer noted, the community college had nearly 4,800 full-time equated students, and now it has about 4,900. Full-time faculty number in the 150-160 range.

"What has changed?" he asked. "Not the student body. Not the staff. Why do you need more (revenue) than the growth in the state equalized valuation will provide?"

Greenleaf agreed, however, that the physical plant has aged, that it was never adequate in the first place, and that robotics equipment is essential.

Local karate class captures honors

The Plymouth class of the American Korean Tae Kwon Do Association swept intra-association honors at a karate tournament held recently in Farmington.

Plymouth edged the Van Buren class by a point, 16-15, in the four-hour event.

In semifinals Plymouth squeezed past Farmington by an identical 16-15 score in the round-robin competition.

In winning the first of four competitions to be held this year, the Plymouth class gains points toward the 1985-86 association trophy.

Matches between club members emphasize non-contact offensive and defensive martial arts techniques. Making contact with an opponent results in either loss of a point or disqualification.

The Plymouth YMCA club also dominated in the individual intra-club Kata, or forms competition. A Canton sister and brother took the top two places from more than 40 competitors.

Ann Kotcher, 15, a white belt, took the first-place trophy edging out brother David, a 9-year-old green belt, by a half point. Ann also received recognition for a first-place tie as high-scoring, senior-division student in recent promotion testing. They are the son and daughter of Joan and David Kotcher of Canton.

David was the high-scoring junior division student in last summer's testing. Paula Hendrickson of Plymouth was high scoring senior division student.

Other classes in the association are Redford, Royal Oak, St. Clair, St. Clair Shores and Wayne. The association has more than 150 students.

The Plymouth YMCA Club meets 7-9 p.m. Monday and Wednesday at Isbister gymnasium. Instructor is Richard Curp, second-degree black belt. The class is open to anyone age 8 or older.

Wayne — big county

Big is the word for Wayne County.

It is the third largest in the country, is the home of the world's largest industrial corporation (GM) and the largest industrial labor union (UAW), and is anchored by the country's sixth largest city (Detroit).

It is the builder of 160 miles of expressway, maintainer of 4,380 miles of county roads and creator of 4,450 acres of public parks.

It is bounded on the west by Washtenaw County at Napier and Rawsonville roads, on the north by Oakland and Macomb counties at Eight Mile Road, on the southeast by the Detroit River, and on the south by the Huron River and Monroe County. Several islands, including Belle Isle and Grosse Ile, are also part of the county.

for your Information

VOLUNTEER TRAINING

Growth Works Inc. is conducting volunteer recruitment and training to prepare volunteers for Crisis Phone Intervention and phone line counseling. The training covers communication, empathy listening, building and bonding relationships, brokerage skills, crisis intervention, depression management, loss and grief, alcohol and substance abuse, and problem-solving methods.

Training is open to any interested person; no previous experience is necessary. After the initial training program, it is required that volunteers make at least a six-month commitment to three nights per month. For further information and a training schedule, contact Sue Davis at 455-4902 from 9 a.m. to noon Monday through Friday.

BASKETS FILLED WITH LOVE

Omnicon Cablevision, in cooperation with the Plymouth Salvation Army, are making plans for the "Baskets Filled With Love" food drive/telethon. As a part of the telethon on Saturday, Nov. 9, there will be an all-day videotaping session for local talent who want to be an act in the telethon. If you are a Plymouth or Canton resident who sings, dances, performs mime or another special talent, schedule time for the Nov. 9 videotaping session by calling Pete Smith, associate producer and telethon chairman, at 459-7335 or Maria Holmes at 459-7321. Taping will begin at 10 a.m. and continue until 9:30 p.m.

PARENT/CHILD GUIDE PROGRAMS

If you like camping, canoeing, making crafts, and learning about American Indians, you will like the Y Indian Guide programs. The charge of $30 includes a family membership in the Plymouth Community Family YMCA. The programs include: Indian Guides, fathers and sons, ages 5 and older; Indian Maidens, mothers and daughters, ages 5 and older; Indian Princess, fathers and daughters, ages 5 and older; Indian Braves, mothers and sons, ages 5 and older. Interested parents may come to the YMCA office at 248 S. Union, Plymouth, to sign up between 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. For information, call 453-2904.

MILLER ELEMENTARY FUND-RAISER

At Miller Elementary School it is the Year of the Book. The school is beginning a Reader's Digest sales program as a fund-raiser. From Nov. 4-13, some 800 magazine and music selections will be available for new and renewal subscriptions. A 40 percent profit will be realized for Miller's library fund with all proceeds going directly for books.

FREE PRESCHOOL

Are you the parent of a 3- or 4-year-old? Are you in a low-income bracket? Are you a foster parent or do you have a handicapped child? If you can show proof of any of the above, you still have time to enroll for this excellent free program designed for the family. Plymouth-Canton Head Start needs 3-year-olds and your child may qualify for this free preschool experience. For information, call 451-6656.

BOY SCOUT ANNIVERSARY

Because the Boy Scouts of America is celebrating its 75th anniversary this year, Boy Scout Troop 743 invites any interested boy to join the troop in celebrating this special year. For more information, call Russ Crum at 981-3871.

FREE TOXIC TRASH DISPOSAL

Wayne County residents have a chance to rid their home of old pesticides, solvents, pool chemicals, hobby supplies, anti-freeze, paint thinner, wood preservatives and other toxic materials. Household products containing toxic chemicals will be accepted, free of charge, from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 16, at Livonia Bentley High School parking lot at Five Mile and Hubbard, a third of a mile east of Farmington Road. Do not bring waste motor oil but use recycling facilities instead. Do not bring latex paint or explosives. The disposal service is sponsored by the environmental health division of Wayne County Health Department. For information, call 326-4900.

LUMINARIES SALE

Trailwood Gardens Club will begin its seventh annual sale of Christmas Luminaries. The 15-hour candles and bags are available from any member or by calling 459-1999, 459-3797, or 455-9024. All profits are returned to the community.

County charter can't cut officers' terms — court

Wayne County Executive William Lucas has taken another defeat in his attempt to have Wayne county's elected officials all elected at the same time.

The state Court of Appeals last week upheld a Wayne County Circuit Court decision which allows separate elections of the county executive and the county's other elected officials.

As it now stands, the county executive election will be in November 1986 and the election of the other county officials — prosecutor, sheriff, clerk, treasurer, register of deeds and drain commissioner — will be in November 1988. All will be elected to four-year terms.

Under the present system, county officers such as Sheriff Robert Ficano or Prosecutor John O'Hair can run for the county's top job from a safe seat; they do not have to choose to run for one or other of the jobs.

LUCAS WAS elected the county's first executive in November 1982 following voter approval of the county's first charter.

The charter, which took effect in January 1983, provided that the county offices were to be filled for only two-year terms — January 1985 through December 1986. Thereafter those offices would be filled for four-year terms in the same general election at which the governor and county executive officer would be elected.

The incumbent officials, however, protested saying that they should receive four-year terms, as usual, under state law.

Lucas filed suit in February 1984 seeking to have the six offices elected for two-year terms in the 1984 general election.

TWO COURTS have now ruled against that position, however. "We find that each of the officials involved was properly elected to a four-year term of office," said the appeals court panel — Michael J. Kelley, Thomas M. Burns and Meyer Warshawsky — in last week's decision.

The executive elections will be held in 1986, 1990, etc., while the other officials will be elected in 1988, 1992, etc.

In his suit, Lucas held that the portions of the Michigan Constitution regarding length of the term of office do not apply to a home-rule county charter.

But the Circuit Court last September ruled in favor of the defendants — which included Wayne County elections director Lawrence Verbiest, the election commission, Wayne County Drain Commissioner Charles Youngblood and County Clerk James Killeen.

LUCAS APPEALED to the state Court of Appeals.

"The issue in this case," said the appeals court, "is whether the Wayne County Charter provisions providing for temporary two-year terms of office are invalid because they conflict with state statutes or the state constitution."

Lucas contends that the Legislature has permitted a different form of organization of county government — namely, the executive form — and that Wayne County has adopted that form through its county charter.

Therefore, Lucas argued, a portion of the constitution dealing with county elections simply doesn't apply to Wayne County.

THE COURT disagreed. It said the constitution "mandates four-year terms for the specified officials in organized counties."

Lucas' final step, if he chooses to take it, is to appeal to the Michigan Supreme Court.

Lucas' attorney, George Ward, who was chairman of the charter commission, is looking at the appeals court decision and will give his opinion soon as to whether Lucas should appeal to the Supreme Court, said Lucas' press secretary, Bill Johnson.

The decision will be made in the very near future, Johnson said.

A separate question was involved with the drain commissioner, a job which isn't mentioned in the constitution. The appeals court noted "the drain code provides a specific term of office. . . Thus, the drain commissioner is to be elected to a four-year term."

House fails to kill old Oregon flood project

Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll-call votes during the week ending Nov. 8.

HOUSE

OREGON DAM — By a vote of 200 for and 200 against, the House rejected an amendment to deauthorize, or kill, the Elk Creek Dam flood control project envisioned for the Rogue River Basin in Oregon.

This kept alive a 23-year-old public works authorization that critics say is outdated and unnecessary. Construction of the $120 million project has not begun.

The vote occurred during debate on a massive water resources bill (HR 6) that funds some 200 U.S. Army Corps of Engineers projects expected to cost at least $16 billion. The bill remained in debate.

The issue went beyond Oregon boundaries. It caused some members from other states to wonder if a vote against Elk Creek Dam might cause disputed public works projects in their own districts to be retaliated against.

Jim Weaver, D-Ore., who sponsored the amendment, called the Elk Creek Dam project "a monument to waste" that even the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers wants to scuttle.

Opponent Robert Smith, R-Ore., said "The Corps of Engineers' decision is not one that is final. It is this House of Representatives that directs what occurs in this nation."

Voting yes: Dennis Hertel, D-Harper Woods, Sander Levin, D-Southfield.

Members voting no wanted to keep the project alive. Voting no: Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, William Ford, D-Taylor, William Broomfield, R-Birmingham.

WATER POLICY — The House rejected, 124 for and 296 against, an amendment to include the Mississippi River Valley tributary system — but not the main stems of the Mississippi and Atchafalaya rivers — in a nationwide cost-sharing policy to be implemented by the new water resources bill (above).

The vote means all new Mississippi River basin water projects in Missouri, Louisiana, Kentucky, Mississippi, Arkansas and Tennessee will be exempted from the cost-sharing policy and thus receive virtually 100 percent federal funding.

Elsewhere, states and localities will have to pay 25 to 30 percent of the bill for new projects in behalf of flood control, navigation or other objectives. The rationale is to force local governments to weed out unnecessary projects, and to cut federal spending.

Berkley Bedell, D-Iowa, who supported the amendment, said no region should get preferential treatment in federal water policy because "if it is right for Iowa, it seems to me it should be right for Louisiana as well."

Opponent Bob Livingston, R-La., said "Fully two thirds of (America's) water flows through the Mississippi River system and the whole nation benefits from its smooth and efficient performance."

Members voting no wanted Mississippi River Valley water projects to remain exempt from cost-sharing requirements. Broomfield voted no.

Voting yes: Pursell, Hertel, Levin. Not voting: Ford.

TREASURY DEPT — By a vote of 237 for and 171 against, the House passed the conference report on a bill appropriating nearly $13.2 billion in fiscal 1986 for the Treasury Department, Postal Service, Internal Revenue Service and other agencies.

The bill (HR 3036) was headed for the White House, where it is seen as veto-bait because of its high spending for postal subsidies of non-profit mailers and for IRS and Customs Ser-vise operations.

It tops the Reagan Administration budget request by $951 million.

Supporter Edward Roybal, D-Calif., said the IRS needs more money to upgrade its tax-collection efforts, the Customs Service needs more personnel to combat drug smugglers, and that the bill will avert "exorbitant" rate increases for charities and other non-profit mailers.

Alluding to congressional debate over the Gramm-Rudman deficit-reduction legislation, opponent Robert Walker, R-Pa., said "at a time when we are posturing on questions of spending it is high time that we begin to rein ourselves in. Here is a good place to start."

Members voting yes favored the bill. Voting yes: Ford and Levin.

Voting no: Pursell, Hertel, Broomfield.

SENATE

JUDGE KOZINSKI — The Senate confirmed, 54 for and 43 against, the nomination of Alex Kozinski as judge on the 9th Circuit U.S. Court of Appeals.

Now on the U.S. Court of Claims, Kozinski, 35, will become the youngest jurist on the nation's second highest court.

His nomination was beset, in part, by charges that he lacked candor in dealing with the Senate Judiciary Committee and by complaints from those who worked under him at U.S. Merit Systems Protection Board in 1981-82 that he abused subordinates.

The ninth circuit covers Alaska, Arizona, California, Hawaii, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, Oregon, Washington, Guam and the Northern Mariana Islands.

Supporter Peter Wilson, R-Calif., said, "If there is a senator on this floor who has never been unkind, short of patience, overly painstaking with an employee, let him hold up in his hand."

Opponent Carl Levin, D-Mich., said Kozinski "has not been straight with the U.S. Senate" and "woefully lacks . . . the judicial temperament, the fairness, the sensitivity and the compassion" that federal judges should possess.

Senators voting yes wanted Kozinski to become a federal appeals judge.

Voting no: Michigan Democrats Carl Levin and Donald Riegle.

CHINA NOMINEE — By a vote of 87-7, the Senate confirmed the nomination of Winston Lord as U.S. ambassador to the People's Republic of China.

Anti-abortion conservatives had delayed the nomination to protest U.S. funding of United Nations organizations that aid family planning in China.

A former Foreign Service officer and special aide to Henry Kissinger at the White House, Lord leaves the chairmanship of the President's Council on Foreign Relations to assume the Chinese post.

Supporter Charles Mathias, R-Md., said "I cannot think of a more important person for such an important position in our Foreign Service, and I regret . . . that his nomination has been delayed."

Opponent Jesse Helms, R-N.C., said President Reagan had personally assured him "it will no longer be business as usual" with respect to U.S. foreign aid that ends up in China.

Senators voting yes supported the nomination. Michigan's Levin and Riegle voted yes.

ABORTION — By a vote of 54 for and 41 against, the Senate tabled (killed) an amendment to prohibit the District of Columbia from using its own money to pay for abortions, except when the mother's life is at stake.

This sought to go beyond existing policy that prohibits D.C. from using its federal payment for abortions, except when the mother's life is threatened.

The vote occurred during debate on the District's fiscal 1986 appropriations bill (HR 3087), which was sent to conference with the House.

The House version contains probably the strictest anti-abortion language ever approved by a chamber of Congress. It would ban government-funded abortions in the District, regardless of the source of the money and even if the mother's life was at risk and/or the pregnancy resulted from rape or incest.

Senators voting no wanted to make it more difficult for D.C. women to receive government-funded abortions.

Voting yes: Levin and Riegle.

Benefit donations set for dance fund

Friends of the O'Hare

School of Dance with members from the tri-county area are hosting a testimonial honoring the memory of Maureen O'Hare 3-10 p.m. Sunday, at Divine Providence Hall, 25335 Nine Mile east of Beech Daly in Southfield.

Proceeds from donations will fund a dance scholarship in the name of Mrs. O'Hare, who died last summer. A widow, Mrs. O'Hare was the mother of six children, two of whom teach Irish dance at schools in Michigan and Ohio.

Entertainers slated to perform Sunday include all-world step dancer Michael Flatley of Chicago, the Detroit Three Penny Opera and musicians and dancers from metropolitan Detroit, Ohio and Ontario.

For more information, call 278-2557 or 899-8537.

Refreshments, food and chances at a wide array of door prizes will be made available.

Mrs. O'Hare of Canton was the widow of Malachy O'Hare, who, with Judge George T. Martin, organized the Detroit community's first St. Patrick's Day parade. Mrs. O'Hare was named "Mother of the Year" by the 1983 St. Patrick's Day parade committee.

Sons Timothy and Michael O'Hare have step-dancing schools in Plymouth, Toledo, Cleveland, Akron, Warren, Jackson, Saginaw, Battle Creek and Lansing. Tim is a two-time, all-Ireland dance champion, capturing what amounts to world titles in 1976 and 1977.

Responds to Richard column from our readers

To the editor:

This is in response to Tim Richard's Nov. 7 column "Witches, Baptists and Scouts," referring to the Observer's coverage on witch Marion Kuclo's (a.k.a. Gundella) recent controversial lecture at Plymouth Salem High School.

Richard stated in his column that not all witches consort with Satan, and that what she is doing is harmless. But from past experiences and searching the scriptures in the Bible, I know that this is not correct.

The Bible clearly forbids consulting such people, as mentioned in Lev. 20:6 and Deut. 18:10-12, to name just a couple of references.

I don't know whether Ms. Kuclo is just lying for the devil's purpose, or if she's simply spiritually blinded to the truth. But I do know that Satan is using her for his purpose to cause souls to be lost, whether she realizes it or not.

Although what she is doing appears to be innocent and fun to many, and many view her as a nice person, "Satan himself is transformed into an angel of light" (II Cor. 11:14). I am aware that what she is doing causes negative results in many people's lives because I know about many cases where a lot of people's lives were messed up after dealing with such individuals.

Anything that is of the devil is eventually destructive. As Jesus said in John 10:10 "The thief cometh not, but for to steal, and to kill, and to destroy: I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly."

Young people, especially in high school, are very impressionable and lack wisdom in many areas. I believe that many are searching for the supernatural, but a lot of them are going to the wrong advisers.

A few years ago, before I became a born-again Christian, I experimented with what many call "white witchcraft," and it had a very negative impact on my life. (Ms. Kuclo, incidentally, was one of the persons who I consulted at that time). It brought bitterness, frustration, confusion, trouble, and practically made a mess out of my life.

When God dealt with me and saved me, I exchanged that life for salvation, happiness, success, guidance, prosperity, knowledge, and the Lord straightened out my life, and He meets my needs.

One of the key roles in this situation, however, was the fact that God guided me to a Holy Ghost-filled church that is true to the entire Bible, where the people love Jesus Christ and serve Him as Lord, where the power of God is present, and where the word of God is still in effect today.

Although many are concerned about the supernatural power of the devil, Christ hasn't changed either (Hebrews 13:8 "Jesus Christ the same yesterday, and today, and forever").

I recommend to parents who are concerned about their kids getting involved with such demonic practices to encourage them to attend a church that measures up to such positive standards as mentioned above. For the Bible commands you to turn away from such a church that denies God's powers (II Timothy 3:5).

Hopefully, they'll see the reality in the word and accept Christ as their savior.

Little vandalism in community

To the editor:

Devil's Night and Halloween has come and gone, and with it passed the season for potentially high levels of vandalism.

The City of Plymouth experienced the lowest level of malicious destruction of property and pranks in several years, and I'd like to give some praise to those who contributed to a safe week.

The organizers of the Great Pumpkin Caper must be recognized for two days of creative activity for youth in the community. A large gathering of kids enjoyed the "early" trick or treating in the downtown area.

The police department received assistance from the Plymouth Area Citizen's Team (PACT) and the Stu Rockafellow Amateur "Ham" Radio Club. These citizens gave of their own time and expense to help be "eyes and ears" for our police officers.

Finally, the Plymouth Police Auxiliary was out in force, and they provided excellent support for our uniformed officers.

I am proud of the achievements of your Plymouth Police officers and I hope you share that pride. I am also proud of the active interest the community shows in promoting the public's safety. Thank you one and all.

Thank you to millage helpers

To the editor:

I would like to take a moment to thank all the voters of Plymouth Township who supported our effort to continue basic services. I, as a trustee, pledge to keep the cost of our township services to a minimum.

I would like to thank the Plymouth Observer for providing good millage coverage to inform our township voters.

I also would like to take a moment to thank all members of the Decision '85 Committee and the Citizen Safety Committee for a job well done.

Schools no place for health danger

LAST SPRING a parent appeared before the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education to ask that smoking by students be better controlled in the schools. More specifically, she wanted the designated smoking areas eliminated at the high schools.

The board and administration's initial response was defensive. An explanation was given on why the smoking area was created, what life was like before that, and why tighter controls couldn't be enforced.

Then a decision was made to create a study committee to meet over the summer and report back in the fall.

It's probable the committee met and it's even possible its work was concluded and a report issued. But nothing public has been revealed. We do not know what recommendations, if any, the committee made.

THE PROPOSAL needs more serious consideration than it seems to have received to date.

Smoking is an individual and public health hazard, which requires as much attention as contamination of drinking water, asbestos, nutritious school lunches, acid rain, head lice, ringworm, AIDS, and substance abuse involving alcohol or drugs.

While some seniors may be old enough to legally buy and smoke cigarettes, the majority of students at the CEP cannot do so legally. The fact that sophomores and juniors have cigarettes in their possession to smoke does suggest that stores are lax in selling to anyone.

But the key issue is whether students should be allowed to smoke on school property — not where they got the cigarettes, or whether they are allowed to smoke at home, or where they would smoke if they couldn't smoke at school.

The issue could be argued from a legal or moral standpoint, but in this context is really a public health issue. If smoking, indeed, does cause cancer then we should not allow smokers in school any more than we do children with head lice. Enforcement should not be that great of a problem because it's easier to spot a kid with smoke coming out of his mouth than to identify lice crawling in his hair. While the comparison may be extreme, the fact is that both are public health problems and need to be treated that way.

Before smoking areas were created, students did sneak smokes in the restrooms and the johns reeked of stale tobacco. But the schools are capable of trying to keep tobacco smokers out of restrooms just as they now try to keep marijuana smokers and pill poppers out of restrooms.

DESIGNATED SMOKING areas are a product of the late '60s and early '70s and did make some sense then.

But we have learned a great deal more about smoking in the past 10 to 15 years and it makes far less sense in 1985 to allow students to smoke on school property than it did in the past.

The major reason is the change in public attitudes — most importantly, student attitudes. Today most students do not smoke and no longer think it's "cool" to light up. A smoking ban in 1985 would affect far fewer students than 10 years ago and there would be far fewer students sneaking a smoke in the johns than did a decade ago.

Because student attitudes toward smoking have changed, maybe it's time adult attitudes adjust and serious consideration be given to new controls on smoking at the CEP.

Livonia Schools presently is taking a new look at this issue. Right now in Livonia, freshmen students are not permitted to smoke in smoking areas. The board voted 4-3 against a proposal to eliminate smoking areas and is considering prohibiting sophomores from smoking areas beginning in the fall of 1986. The question of allowing sophomores to smoke will be reconsidered this February. The board is split on whether to allow sophomores to smoke on school property.

Adult people in 1985 are conducting very serious talks about banning smoking in the workplace. Adult people in the Legislature have enacted measures controlling smoking at public places such as hospitals and restaurants. Adult people in the administration and on the school board need to recognize that society's views on smoking have changed drastically in the past decade and seriously consider that it might be time to change direction on this problem.

In 1985, banning smoking on school property makes a whole lot more sense than it did in 1975. Let's take another look.

Defeat for secrecy

THERE'S GOOD news for common citizens, bad news for public officials who like to hold secret, closed-door meetings.

The state House of Representatives shot down House Bill 4871, which would have allowed local governing boards to slam the doors during legislative deliberations at the written threat of a lawsuit.

The House refused, 64-36, to advance the bill to third reading. Leading that fight were state Reps. David Hollister, D-Lansing, author of the Open Meetings Act, and freshman Rep. Jim Kosteva, D-Canton. (Kosteva, incidentally, seems to be a

"comer" in political circles and should advance up the ranks.)

Black marks go to the lawmakers who tried to introduce more secrecy into local government, including Gerald Law, R-Plymouth Township.

The bill's sponsor, Rep. Willis Bullard, R-Milford, may try to put together 56 votes to advance his regressive legislation. But we're hoping he will discontinue his annual game of trying to blow holes into the Open Meetings Act.

Long line ahead

EARLIER THIS year, we published a series of articles by free-lance writer Penny Wright about the inadequacy of women's rest rooms. She detailed how, in one place of public entertainment after another, women had to stand in long lines during intermission — while men didn't.

And with the help of dozens of area women who wrote to her, she demonstrated how suburban shopping malls are hiding their restrooms, on the penny-wise, pound-foolish theory that toilets don't make money.

Getting improvements will take years, and the process will have to start with new buildings rather than existing ones.

Wright presented her findings and recommendations recently to the State Plumbing Board, the agency which writes appropriate regulations. (The agency was enriched, incidentally, by Gov. Blanchard's appointment of its first female member in history last year.)

To their credit, Plumbing Board members seemed to appreciate the problem, though they dwelled long on how difficult it is to make changes — particularly since all changes in state rules and regulations must be scrutinized by the Legislature's Joint Administrative Rules Committee.

Thus, to the Women's Movement — if it still exists — a major priority should be to seek one or more seats on the Joint Rules Committee.

The entire process of rewriting the rules and getting them past the legislative panel will take literally years.

The goal is 2 1/2 to 1; that is, in places of public entertainment, it will require 2 1/2 times as many water closets in the women's room in order to keep the waiting lines roughly equal.

Restrooms are sources of obvious jokes. But all joking aside, "holding it" for long periods can cause women bladder infections. That is no joke.

The payoff: 'Solvency Day'

SOLVENCY DAY in Michigan — Nov. 8 — probably will be remembered as one of the high points of Gov. James J. Blanchard's administration. If his day didn't start with him hopping out of the shower singing "I'm sitting on top of the world, just rolling along," well, it should have.

Blanchard is heading for the last year of a four-year term at the helm of a stable state government that, for the first time in 10 years, does not have a deficit.

He has managed some impressive gains in bringing state government under better managerial control, and politically he is riding a crest.

Polls show that the state's residents give him one of the highest approval ratings enjoyed by a governor. His most probable Republican challengers — Dan ("I'm not dull") Murphy and Bill Lucas, the county executives of Oakland and Wayne — are not only not gaining any ground, they are probably losing.

IF THE election for governor were to be held today instead of in November 1986, Blanchard would be a shoo-in. Almost forgotten is the statewide recall drive in 1983 — started by those outraged by the Blanchard-engineered raise in the personal income tax, from 4.6 to 6.1 percent.

The tax increase was approved by the Legislature at some political cost — the recall ouster of two Democratic senators and loss of control of the Senate. But the tax raise, coupled with the fortunate improvement in the economy, has enabled the state to be labeled the "comeback state" by futurist authority John Naisbitt.

Bob Wisler

Whether the comeback really can be attributed to the Blanchard administration, the Reagan administration, Federal Reserve Board Chairman Paul Volcker, the occasional boom times enjoyed in a cyclical economy or the gods is debatable.

BUT MICHIGAN is enjoying the benefits of a recovered economy, and Blanchard and some of the architects of Michigan's effort to reduce the state deficit — particularly state Treasurer Bob Bowman — enjoyed their day in the sun, albeit it was raining.

The governor proclaimed Nov. 8 Solvency Day and noted that the economic recovery plan for Michigan "raised Michigan's credit rating from the worst to the best, saving millions of dollars in interest costs, making possible increased state investment in education, prisons, economic development and other vital service (while) paying off the deficit. . . ."

The deficit inherited from the previous Republican administration of Gov. William Milliken amounted to $1.7 billion — $800 million in accumulated debt and $900 million in operating funds.

OF COURSE, Blanchard noted, as he should have, that none of the progress would have been made had not the people of Michigan supported the state government's efforts to balance the budget.

The people, indeed, deserve credit for biting the bullet and for refusing to be shortsighted in dealing with a problem that had been mounting.

The public held out for fiscal sanity in state government even when it was possible to approve Proposal C last November, an approval that would have made the individual tax burden lighter but certainly would have postponed and made much more difficult state government stability.

Credit should be given to Blanchard for stepping forward early in his administration to deal strongly with the horrendous fiscal problem that he had inherited. He moved quickly and surely to wring the necessary votes out of the Legislature. Solvency Day was the payoff.

The investment bankers and experts are now looking favorably on Michigan and Michigan's governor and that should make Blanchard and treasurer Bowman feel that their efforts were justified.

Of course, there is also a demand by the Republican political maneuverers — Lucas and Murphy — that the governor cut the income tax rate from the present 5.35 to the 4.6 rate that we had three years ago. Perhaps the tax rate can be lowered further, and the governor has said he will consider an earlier tax cut, to 5.1 percent in December.

But such political demands are more opportunistic than substantive. What else can the Republican candidates talk about? Blanchard is on a roll.

'Buy American' isn't always best

You've heard all the talk. Buy American and save a job. Mmmm, sounds good all right. But I wonder . . .

A recent article in The Detroit magazine started me thinking about all this debate. Listening to those folks in Washington certainly doesn't shed light on the situation. But we know the D.C. bunch is in another world anyway — even those who pretend they are outsiders.

But let's look at some of the cold hard facts around suburban Detroit. A recent article in The Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce magazine makes a body sit up straight.

In truth, you could be cutting your own economic throat or that of one of your neighbors if you stick too closely with the buy American credo.

Another truth is that your community may very well be on an economic roll because of foreign investment. It's coming to the point that you've got to wonder what your town would be like without the foreign bucks that help to defer your property tax.

FOR many, that foreign company may even provide you with a paycheck. In the Observer & Eccentric circulation crackerbarrel debate

area, 154 foreign businesses from 19 countries have offices and provide residents with 14,641 jobs. That's a hunk of investment.

The big winners in the foreign investment sweepstakes are Southfield with 54 businesses, Troy with 38, Livonia with 20 and Farmington Hills with 17.

While Southfield got the jump on everyone else, Farmington Hills was late into the game and already is prospering. Fifteen years ago, Farmington Hills was a rural township, replete with farms. But the barns have been replaced with offices and light industrial complexes.

Other cities such as Rochester (four firms), Birmingham (six firms) and Bloomfield Hills (six firms) are starting to cash in on foreign investment.

Even Lathrup Village has one foreign investor.

AND IT'S TOUGH to tell the players without a program. Those militants who believe they're buying American may very well be doing the opposite.

Following is a list of a few of the businesses around these parts with all-American names but which are owned by foreign firms.

- Hygrade Food Products in Livonia, owned by Hanson Trust PLC, London.
- Detroit Race Course in Livonia, owned by Ladbroke Group PLC, London.
- Baskin Robbins in Ann Arbor, owned by Allied Breweries Ltd., London.
- Nestle Inc. Co. of Dearborn, owned by Nestle Alimentana, Switzerland.
- Great Lakes Steel of Ecorse, owned by Nippon Kokan, of Tokyo, Japan.
- The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. (A&P Supermarkets) in Southfield, owned by Tengelmann Group, Ruhr, Germany.

The list could go on, but you get the picture.

Oh, and for you folks who have a quarrel with Japan, that country has 85 firms that have invested in the metro-Detroit area.

GOP plan: Cut seniors' school property taxes

By Tim Richard
staff writer

State Senate Republicans want to cut school property taxes for senior citizens as an alternative to Gov. James J. Blanchard's "tax fairness" program.

Even a couple of Democratic members of the tax-writing Finance Committee confessed last week the GOP plan has merit. The probable outcome is a compromise.

Blanchard is seeking a general $150 million increase in income-tax rebates for any homeowner with high property taxes. But the Democratic governor would make up part of the revenue loss with higher taxes on banks, insurance companies, computer software and capital gains — and Republicans are balking at that.

"Those costs would be passed onto consumers. I'm not inclined to support the governor's plan," said Sen. Doug Cruce, R-Troy, as the GOP-controlled Senate Finance Committee met last week.

THE REPUBLICAN plan's centerpiece is a bill to have the state pay 50 percent of the school operating property taxes of senior citizens — persons age 65 or older, regardless of income — in 1986.

In following years, the state's proportion would rise in 10 percent increments — 60 percent in '87, then 70 percent in '88, and so on, until 1991 when the state would be reimbursing all seniors' school operating taxes.

Cost to the Treasury would be $10 million in fiscal 1986, $80 million in '87 and $130 million by 1991, according to GOP staff estimates.

Michigan property taxes — all to local governments — total about $5 billion a year, with roughly two-thirds going to K-12 schools.

"The governor's plan left out senior citizens," said Sen. Richard Posthumus, R-Lowell. "This bill deals with the fact that seniors are on fixed incomes."

SEN. LANA Pollack, D-Ann Arbor, called the GOP plan "very appealing," but said she was concerned that the elderly rich — like Henry Ford II and Max Fisher — would get breaks, too. "I'm also concerned that the local units have not had any input on this, that this hasn't been thought through," she said.

The GOP plan was born Nov. 6 behind the closed doors of the 20-member caucus. But it has not been the subject of hearings and got its first open debate last week.

What bothered the GOP was that Blanchard, in announcing his plan last May, publicly emphasized his proposed suburban property tax rebates, but played down new taxes he would impose on business.

"It would be irresponsible for me to vote for any tax increases after the hearings on the business climate we held last week," said Posthumus. "I won't vote for any increases on business, low-income and senior citizens."

WHILE THE Democratic-controlled House pushed through much of Blanchard's plan, senators found businesses opposed to certain tax increases. Examples:

• Michigan-based insurance companies, which would be called on to pay $45 million more through taxes on premiums, are adamantly opposed. Lansing continues to argue whether a U.S. Supreme Court ruling requiring equal treatment of "domestic" and "foreign" insurance companies in an Alabama case actually applies to Michigan, too.

• Banks' taxes would be increased. Republicans argue that taxes on transaction fees would hit lower incomes harder than higher ones. The GOP also contends it would reduce the availability of loans to riskier businesses, women and minorities.

The Republican caucus noted that such banks as Michigan National, Manufacturers, Comerica and NBD have moved part of their operations to Delaware and the Dakotas.

• Income from capital gains would be fully taxable by the state, resulting in an estimated $65 million more revenue under Blanchard's plan. The GOP opposed this, arguing it would hurt senior citizens and the availability of capital.

DEMOCRAT Pollack asked Republicans to report out one of the House-passed bills so that "senators would have a choice."

MICHIGAN DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION
NOTICE
PROPOSED IMPROVEMENTS TO US-12
CITY OF WAYNE AND CANTON TOWNSHIP

All interested parties are advised that the Michigan Department of Transportation is proposing to widen US-12 between Haggerty Road in Canton Township and the C & O railroad overpass in the city of Wayne, Wayne County. The existing two lanes in each direction would be replaced with four 12-foot lanes, except between Lots and Haggerty roads, where there would be only three through lanes in each direction. Most of the new pavement width would be added in the median; remaining median width will be approximately 60 feet. Some right-turn lanes and deceleration lanes for left turns would be added. Most of the existing two-way crossovers for left turns will be closed and replaced by eleven pairs of directional (one-way) crossovers at each of the major cross streets and traffic generators. The gravel shoulders will be replaced by curb and gutter and enclosed drainage. A combination sidewalk and bicycle path will be added on the north side of the road. The project will be constructed on existing right-of-way, except for small triangular parcels to be purchased for clear-vision areas and curve radii at four intersections: US-12 and Haggerty, Lots, Hannan, and John Hix roads. No relocation of homes or businesses will be required. Under Federal and State Policy, any citizens who would be affected by the proposed project may request in writing, that a formal public hearing be held concerning the social, environmental and economic effects of this proposal. As required by Federal regulations, an Environmental Assessment has been prepared. Studies and coordination for this project demonstrate that implementing the proposed action will not have a significant impact upon the quality of the environment. Copies of the Environmental Assessment for this project may be obtained from the addresses below. Those disagreeing with the determination set forth in the Environmental Assessment, or those requesting a public hearing are invited to furnish written comments summarizing the specific substantive and factual basis for such opposition. Please address these comments to: Philip J. Chabot, Public Hearings Officer, Hearings & Mitigation Section, Michigan Department of Transportation, P.O. Box 30040, Lansing, Michigan 48909. Such comments, or requests for a public hearing, must be received on or before December 16, 1985. To further assist you, information on this project or any Michigan Department of Transportation planning project may be obtained by calling (817) 373-0594.

Perfect fit

Design engineers tailor functional interiors

By Penny Wright
special writer

What's out: the "cookie cutter" approach to designing office and industrial buildings.

What's in: adaptable design, integrating an owner's current and future needs with the latest technology.

For building design engineers, the change is touching off new challenges and a need for new engineers with new skills.

"There was a time when our work was done by draftsmen who learned to design buildings by drawing the same design over and over again," said Ralph Steele. He is executive vice president of Giffels/Hoyem-Basso Associates Inc., a Troy architectural and engineering firm.

"TODAY OUR engineers design building systems under conditions where the 'state of the art' changes daily. Engineers have to be innovative and adaptable," Steele said.

Take, for example, the new $20 million CBS/Fox Video Operations Center at the northwest corner of the I-275-Seven Mile interchange in Livonia. The russet, brick-and-glass sheathed building still is a few months from completion, but Steele can't say enough good things about the 460,000-square-foot facility.

"It's a project where we really had a handle on what the owners needed and put our people in a position to give them what they wanted," Steele said.

CBS/Fox Video is a high-volume cassette manufacturer. It required specialized technical production areas along with work spaces suited to a professional staff.

STEELE'S FIRM answered those needs by designing a combination office-manufacturing-warehouse complex sited against a backdrop of ponds and woods.

The sprawling building combines advanced communication and laboratory systems with such employee amenities as a videotape library, exercise facility, and scenic jogging/nature path.

To accommodate future growth, there are open-office furniture and underderfloor duct systems.

That is the type of project which engineers and architects are increasingly apt to face in the future, said Steele, whose firm has extensive experience designing high-tech research and laboratory facilities.

"OWNERS ARE becoming more sophisticated and are demanding different building functions," he said.

"Our clients are becoming more informational. Along with computing facilities, the CBS/Fox building will have teleconferencing (video-telephone communications) capabilities."

Giffels/Hoyem-Basso has more recently designed communication systems for General Motors, Chrysler and the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce.

Steele believes his company must respond to such sophisticated needs or risk being passed by. "It's the job of our whole office to know what's happening and be up on the latest technological developments."

RAPID CHANGES in technology have influenced the kind of person his firm hires.

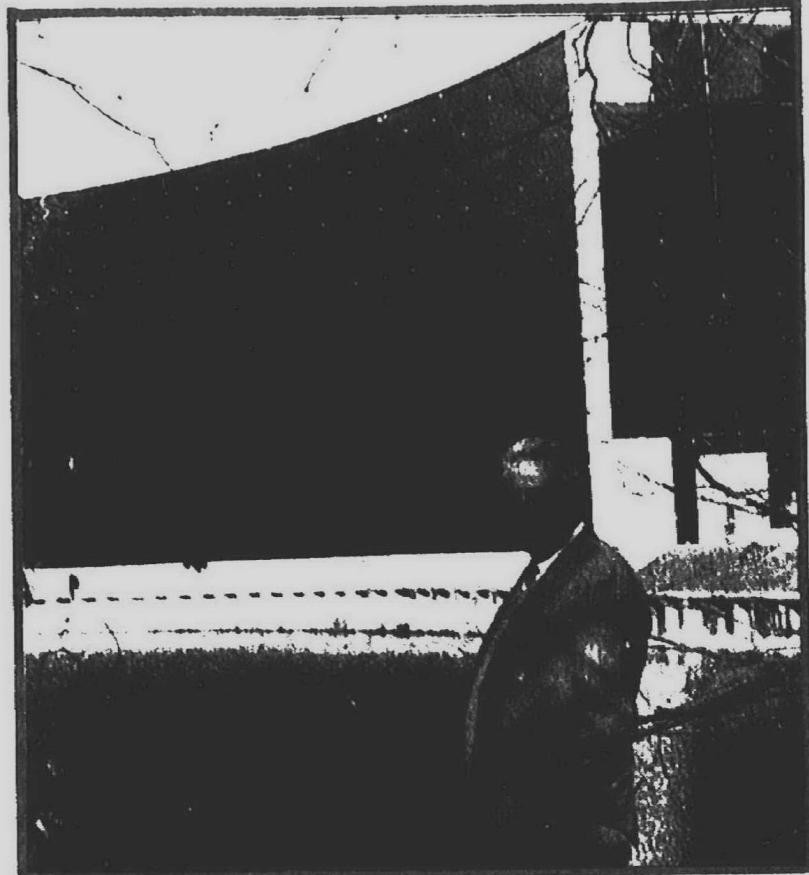

"We need highly technical people" — people who are able to apply updated technology to entire building systems, including communications, security, fire, heating-cooling, ventilating and energy-monitoring.

Steele maintains that advancement in the engineering profession still requires being a self-starter, doing what it takes to get the job done, doing more than you get paid for, striving for professional and personal growth and having a good attitude.

"Those particular requirements will probably only be around for the next three or four millennia," he laughed.

Steele is "bullish" about the current business climate in Michigan. "I have never known a time when we have had so much construction going on. Most of the architectural and engineering firms that survived the downswing in 1982 are doing great."

The outlook for engineering jobs in the building design and construction fields also is bright, according to Steele.

Going it alone with help from others

By Teri Banas
staff writer

Jan Zupick is not particularly commanding, but the head of the Cincinnati-based Entrepreneurship Institute does know how to get attention when he describes how a business person should phrase an answer to the question, "How's business?"

Speaking before a business conference recently, Zupick gave a big grin and, stretching out both arms, replied in a booming voice — "Unbelievable!"

Maybe it's a bit of an exaggeration, especially if you've just filed for Chapter 11 in bankruptcy court, but the message does leave you with a clear sense of optimism. And positive advice was the order of the day when nearly 55 business experts were drawn together for two days last month to share business tips for the aspiring entrepreneur.

AT THE ANNUAL Entrepreneurship Forum held in the Southfield Hilton Inn, local successful business people gave practical, first-hand advice to nearly 150 people on topics ranging from personnel matters and business promotions, to using professional resources and the role of the corporate chief executive officer.

Dwight Carlson, head of Farmington Hills-based Percepton Inc., knows something of what makes up a successful corporate officer. Since he founded an auto-emissions firm in his basement in 1968, he has brought it along and now employs 100 people.

In a small firm, he advised that a corporate executive officer should be willing to "take risks in order to lead change," but he or she must first understand what needs to be done, and then how to communicate that to others. As long as you clearly describe that corporate strategy to others who can implement it, it's not important that you're able to perform every function, yourself, he said.

Carlson said one of the biggest motivators that should be projected to employees is the perception of being part of a "winning team."

Strengthen business with a winning team

FRED COURIER, founder of Market Opinion Research in Detroit, said treating employees as valuable resources is a key to success and that means ensuring that the job helps an employee grow as a person. "If you help people to grow, your company will grow," Courier said. "That's one thing I know, and I didn't even realize it until I was 40."

Besides professional growth, which he listed second in a group of motivators, peer group approval is important. Money is important also but rates third.

Courier emphasized people skills, saying corporate officers should get to know their employees, even if casually over lunch, to learn what they need as professionals.

In evaluating employees, he stressed fairness and a 90-day trial period because everyone "makes mistakes."

And not to be overlooked was this tidbit: "When you hear gripes on housekeeping conditions, you act," he said, "even if you think you can't spend the money. Those are the kinds of things that screw up productivity."

A LIVONIA business owner, Carmen Munoz, broke gender barriers as a woman business chief in the auto industry. In the process, the owner of Munoz Machine Products learned not only how to sell herself as a tough business person but also how to promote her company. Since she started her business in March 1984, sales have risen to $1.3 million in 14 months.

Her message was simple: Promotion should never be undervalued. "The more time you devote to it (selling), the farther along you'll get."

Munoz' work in a highly competitive field taught her that problems, such as complaints from customers, need to be addressed immediately. "I had to provide a product that they never found a problem with or within two hours I had a quality man show up," she said.

"Mediocrity doesn't sell anything," she said. "You have to give service that's above the competition."

Above all, she stressed: "Know your product, and don't let anyone represent you who doesn't know your product."

FINDING PROFESSIONAL help also is important. Jon Greenawalt, senior consultant for Executive Consulting Services, warned against hiring a consultant "who has lived in an ivory tower. Get someone with experience and will deliver an agreed-upon result within budget and on time."

Greenawalt said that many business people make the mistake of waiting too long to seek outside assistance, thereby being left in a vulnerable position.

On the other end was James Lozelle, president of Edgewood Tood and Manufacturing, who said, "I always thought I could do it better myself." But he realized that as a company grows it is impractical to expect to be able to perform every job well.

He advised first looking within your own business for capable help before going outside the firm. He told of a personal experience that showed the error of simply "throwing a problem at an outside professional."

During one season's labor negotiations he decided to hire a labor attorney to handle negotiations, which had become increasingly complicated.

He found that the resulting contract didn't reflect his management style or personal feelings. Employee relations also became strained because workers felt "I didn't want to talk to them face to face."

Today, he still doesn't sit at the bargaining table but he does draft the contract and asks the attorney to review it and put it in proper legal terms.

In summary, he said: "Know your problems, plug in the right resource person, but stay involved."

Use business clubs as shortcut to success

By Marilyn Fitchett
staff writer

You've just started your own business and you're consumed with making a go of it. You've taken a leave of absence from anything that pulls you away from your venture. Invitations to join professional organizations are routinely ignored. After all, how can you afford the time?

Perhaps you can't afford not to make the time. At least that's the belief of Pam Kosteva, business owner and publicity chairwoman for the Michigan Chapter of the National Association of Women Business Owners (NAWBO).

"When you've started a new business, you're paddling as fast as you can. You don't have the time to attend organizations when you need them the most," Kosteva said.

Kosteva learned the hard way that a professional organization can be a business owner's best friend.

When she and husband Dave purchased the Cheese & Wine Barn in Plymouth, they planned to operate a local retail business. After the recession reduced their sales, Kosteva found herself wanting to expand into corporate sales. She made the rounds presenting her Cheese and Wine Barn business card, which described her company as the "specialty shop with cozy country charm." She was getting nowhere.

Then a client suggested that she change her marketing strategy. Kosteva's new business card introduces her as president of New Departure, which handles catering, business gift programs, promotional incentive awards and specialty food and wine baskets.

She's getting her message across but regrets the lost time and the lost sales.

"I did it myself, and it cost me in terms of time and development," Kosteva said.

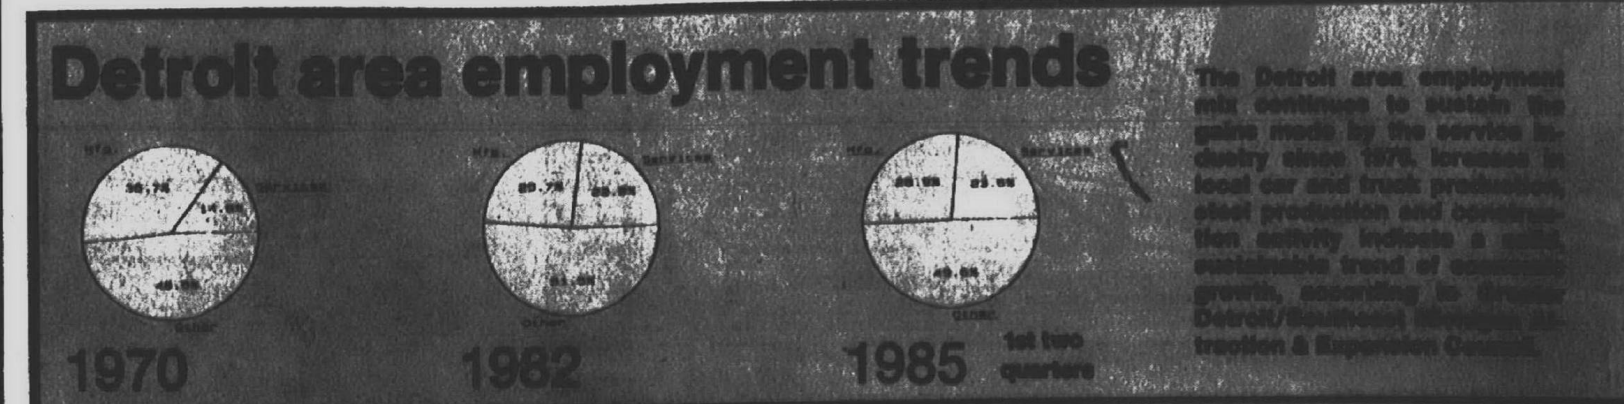

AFTER SHE joined NAWBO, she said she found herself picking up "the subtle things" of business ownership in conversations with members. The group "was helpful to me when I was having a difficult time and continues to be helpful in transitional periods."

"Joining this organization is a positive experience for the new, the middle and the settled-in business owner. There's a great commitment to pass on what you've learned. These women are willing to share. It sounds overused, but the 'good old boy network' is something we have not had. Women recognize how tough it was for them and are willing to pass on what they've learned."

NAWBO, whose members are primarily from the tri-county area, meets the third Thursday of each month. On Nov. 21, cocktails will be served at 5:30 p.m., dinner at 6:30, followed by speaker Jeanne Knopf-DeRoche of Plymouth, owner of her own consulting firm. She will speak on the development of corporate programs to help alcohol- and drug-dependent employees at the Mercy College Conference Center, Southfield at Outer Drive in Detroit. The group will move its meetings to the St. Regis hotel in the New Center, Detroit, beginning in December with a fund-raiser for the Michigan Hall of Fame for Women in Lansing.

Membership chairwoman is Shelia Kasselman. She can be reached at her Birmingham business, Net Worth, by calling 646-0633.

Builder's success is sweeter 2nd time around

By Corinne Abett
staff writer

Robert Blake, developer-entrepreneur, may have tripped a couple of times on his climb to the top, but it didn't slow him down for long.

Blake, 30, single, a graduate of West Bloomfield High School, president of Holly Development Corp. of Corona del Mar, Calif., lives in Newport Beach, Calif., but comes to Michigan at least 15 times a year.

Now that he's developing the 40-acre Bloomfield Ridge site at the corner of Middlebelt and Maple, he's here even more.

His first California contemporary home, priced in excess of $500,000 and built on the seven-acre site on that corner, is almost complete.

"We're looking diligently to buy maior office property here. The Michigan market is better than the Orange County market now. Michigan has really revived. We've done quite well in the past two years," he said with a smile in his voice.

"We have about 2-4 million square feet of office space going up in California."

He said he is also interested in acquiring industrial property in the Salt Lake City area on a sale-lease-back arrangement to become established in that marketplace.

Blake has been working in the building trades since he was 12. By 18, he was making real estate deals.

"I still occasionally put up dry wall or paint. I'm still a mud-on-the-boots builder."

HOLLY DEVELOPMENT, he said

I think you have to be willing to fail to be able to (be a) success. If you do fail, instead of letting it get you down, (look upon it) as part of the road to success. Anybody who tries to be successful because of money will never make it. Money is the way to keep score.

— Robert Blake

was started six years ago but wasn't very active until the last two years. "I'd say 99 percent of my success has been in the last two years. Three years ago I was broke in this area, working on real estate deals with my family. I've seen failure and I've seen success."

As he spoke about the turnaround from failure to success, he became philosophical, attributing it more to a change in his attitude than a lucky break.

One of his early mistakes, he said, "was not realizing the importance of the relationships, not (being) concerned with the people around you."

He paused to separate the past from the present and continued, "Every relationship in our company, from the secretaries to the executives and chairmen of the board are all important. Everybody in all the companies I deal with is important. Genuinely caring is really the secret."

Admitting that he might have been a little casual about costs, he said, "A deep understanding of the marketplace you're in is important — and figuring bottom line costs. . . . Perseverance is crucial. Billy Joel's song 'Second Wind' says it all. I never quit. I was never even pessimistic."

Before he returned to building and developing, Blake was an undergraduate in research psychology at Stanford. He was instrumental in the research and writing of a book, "Shyness and What To Do About It." He left college in his final year, not because he didn't like it, but because there was more money to be made elsewhere.

WRITING WILL always be a part of his life. He's going to self-publish his first book of poetry and he's working on his first novel.

The poet/writer pops out in his conversation. "You start out with this canvas and it's empty. You can paint as pretty a picture as you want. And there will be black marks. I'd like for the rest of my life to be bright, cheering, interesting and clear. The United States has opportunities that nowhere else has. It's not as easy in the rest of the world to do what we do here."

"You can fall flat on your face and get up and the next year be back on top. I started over three times. I went bankrupt once. Even developers I know who have been successful have gone through very hard times. I think you have to be willing to fail to be able to (be a) success. If you do fail, instead of letting it get you down, (look upon it) as part of the road to success."

"Anybody who tries to be successful because of money will never make it. Money is the way to keep score." And then as if talking to himself, he said slowly, "It is just a game. Sometimes I get upset, furious, pull my hair out, (I remind myself) it is just a game."

HE ALSO attributes his failures partly to his "earlier flamboyance," saying, "I've gone from flamboyant to low key. It's a lot more comfortable."

He still is a natty dresser, but on the conservative side of gray on gray and soft pastel accents. Instead of the flashy foreign cars of several years ago, he drives a black Trans Am convertible and tolerates the teasing of friends who accuse him of reliving his high school fantasy.

He counters by saying, "I like the car. I like driving American cars."

Blake said his parents, who still live in West Bloomfield, always had high expectations for his brother, Donald, sister, Susan, and himself.

"I remember I used to come home with a report card — an A was an A and a B was an E. Our parents always believed you could be the best. For us, it was beneficial. None of us did better than my sister. My brother, Dr. Donald Blake, is a nuclear radiologist at Beaumont Hospital, and my sister, who is brilliant, is in the MBA program at Tuck Business School (Princeton University)."

Robert Blake, entrepreneur, poet, philosopher, psychology student and novelist, stood in the almost completed house at Middlebelt and Maple in a well-tailored gray suit, pale red tie and lavender striped shirt.

He extended his arms wide, turned around once and said, "There is no greater feeling than looking at a building I built with pride."

Putting yourself to work at home

"Most people are undercapitalized. They don't realize what it takes to start a business — even one in the home. There's less cash needed if it's a service, but if you're making something, you need to buy materials."

"I take a wholistic approach to starting a business. It requires wholistic thinking because it involves your whole life," she added.

Fenster and Gash understand that all too well. "When you work at home it's difficult," Gash admitted. "People think you sit around twiddling your thumbs. You must take yourself seriously in a home-based business. You need to have some private space at home."

"When we contact wholesalers for supplies, because we're small and home-based, we've gotten some resistance. It takes persistence."

A supportive family and advice of other home-based entrepreneurs are other vital keys to success.

GASH'S HUSBAND, a physician, helps install, display on the pair's line of suede purses. Fenster's artist-husband has designed the firm's business stationery and cards. Daughters in both families test market the belts, purses, hats and sweatshirts that their mothers produce.

The pair met through a needlework association and toyed with the idea of starting a business for a few years before taking the plunge. With a $2,000 investment last year, they bought fabric, registered their business name — Personalities — and began sewing. They also took Brodsky's three-week seminar, which Gash said, "caused us to look inward and ask is this the right business and what are our long-term goals."

Both took a realistic approach to self-employment. They knew the business would demand long hours and that profits would be reinvested into materials. But they also enjoyed the flexibility of working at home and the satisfaction that came with the sale of their handmade creations.

Talking with other women who had successfully started their own businesses was an invaluable experience for the pair.

"Some kind souls told us what to do in the beginning," Gash recalled. "Friends would say, 'Why don't you talk to so-and-so.' Networking was extremely helpful."

Personalities markets its products through home parties, word-of-mouth and craft shows. The pair have avoided retail stores because the move would involve increased volume of sales — and the necessity of hiring more help.

"You have to be thick-skinned to take your products to stores," Gash added. "And you must expect to sell at wholesale prices. We have been disappointed because our wares have been turned away. You learn something every day in this business, even after this time. We're still getting burned in some situations. But we established good habits in the very beginning."

Added Fenster, "We've been lucky. We've had more ups than downs. For every three times we've been up, we've had one down."

Refinancing your house may save you money

For the 1.5 million homeowners with mortgage rates of 15 percent or more, now is the time to consider refinancing. Generally speaking, it makes sense to renegotiate your mortgage when rates are at least 2 percent below the rate of your existing loan.

Rates on 30-year fixed-rate mortgages have been consistently 13 percent or less for a number of months. But they may start inching upward before the end of the year.

PREPAYMENT PENALTY. The biggest cost of refinancing is often a prepayment penalty written into many mortgages, frequently six months' interest or a fixed percentage of the mortgage itself.

A $120,000 mortgage might carry a six-month penalty of 16 percent, or finances and you

Sid Mittra

$9,600. These penalties are legal in all but a few states, but many institutions will waive them when refinancing their own customers.

CLOSING COSTS. If your current lender still holds your mortgage, you may be able to modify the rate without rewriting the loan. But if your mortgage has been sold into secondary market, as often happens, you will have to go through another form of closing.

That means paying fees and processing costs — which average 2.5 percent of the loan — again.

HOW MUCH YOU SAVE. At 2.5 percent, closing costs for a $60,000 mortgage would be $1,500. With a mortgage rate of 12.5 percent, you could recover the refinancing charges in little more than a year.

The accompanying table shows the savings involved in refinancing a range of mortgages of $60,000 and $120,000 at 12.5 percent for 30 years.

The table assumes no prepayment penalty. If the penalty rate is 15 percent on a $60,000 mortgage, add six months' interest — $4,500 — to the refinancing charge. That quadruples the recovery time to 50 months.

"What Can You Do Now to Benefit from the Proposed Tax Changes?" is the main topic for a seminar to be conducted by the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers and the Coordinated Financial Planning staff. The seminar will be held 7-9:30 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 10, at the Bloomfield Township Library, 1099 Lone Pine, Bloomfield Hills. The seminar is free, but registration is required.

WAITING UNTIL NOW TO BUY A SOLAR HEATING SYSTEM WAS PRETTY SMART.

WAITING ANY LONGER COULD BE VERY STUPID.

When solar heating systems were first introduced for home and business use, everyone was excited over the prospect of reliable, maintenance free, "no cost" heat from the sun. The promise of inexpensive solar furnaces providing unlimited heat to an increasingly energy conscious society was a dream that brought scientists, engineers, manufacturers and the government together to develop solar energy as an economical alternative to conventional fuel furnaces.

Over the last twenty years, this dream of clean, efficient, inexpensive "no cost" solar heat has become a common, accepted reality in over 50,000 homes in Michigan alone. Best of all, even with years of solar furnace technological refinement, increased competition and government tax credits have brought the initial purchase price down to a more than affordable level. But an important part of this dream is about to end.

The huge state and federal tax credits initially granted by the government to stimulate purchase of solar heating systems will expire forever on December 31, 1985. Full dollar value tax credits that pay up to 70% of the initial purchase and installation cost of a new solar furnace will no longer be available bringing the most incredible energy deal of our time to an end. Very simply, the government will give you $1,875 in full value tax credits on your 1985 federal and state returns on the purchase of a typical $2,500 solar furnace, bringing down the net cost of the system to you to $625. And, with today's low-cost, high efficiency systems delivering up to a guaranteed 40% savings on your winter fuel bills, your investment will pay for itself completely a lot quicker than you think. But these enormous savings will disappear forever unless you act now.

The Energy People are specialists in solar heating systems and all forms of energy conservation technology. Their expert, free consultation will help you select a system that is right for both your needs and budget. And with their high volume, low overhead and low margins, The Energy People offer state of the art solar heating equipment at the guaranteed lowest prices available in Michigan. # Pacificorp offers income, security, growth

As an investor, I want three things. I want a good return on my money. I want to see my income and the value of my investment grow pretty steadily. And I want a good sense of security or assurance that both the income and the growth will continue for many years.

My friend says I want to eat my cake and keep it, too. Do you think I have a reasonable goal and would you suggest an investment that would meet my goal?

Your goal isn't much different from that of most investors. It is possible to combine both good income and growth, but it is important to recognize that usually the higher the income, the lower the rate of growth.

And the higher that both are, the more likely one or the other will not continue at that level for too long a period.

A COMPANY that seems to fit your need is Pacificorp. It formerly was called Pacific Power and Light. The shares currently are priced at $28.

The dividend is $2.40 a year, which is a yield of 8½ percent. That would seem to meet your desire for good income.

But the nice part is that for the last five years, revenues have averaged today's investor

of the National Association of Investors Corp.

growth at the rate of 18.1 percent, earnings have increased at 6.8 percent a year, and the dividend has been increased at 3.1 percent a year.

That would seem to suggest you could count on a growing income. Combine that with the stock's attractive yield, and it seems to meet your desire for a good rate of return.

IF YOU check back five years ago, the stock sold at a low of 16 and a high of 21. This year, it has sold at a low of 24 and a high of 28. Thus it would seem to meet your requirement that the price of the stock also increase.

No one knows or can guarantee what the future will bring, but a good past suggests that the future is also more likely to be good. The business of this company falls into two broad groups. One group provides electric and telecommunications services in several northwestern states. The other results from a 90-percent interest in NERCO, one of the nation's largest coal and mineral producers.

This company would seem ideal for the conservative investor seeking good income and, a likelihood of growing income and principal value.

It should appeal to retirees.

Laura Price of Plymouth showed one of several light-hearted and whimsical creations from Maggie and Me.

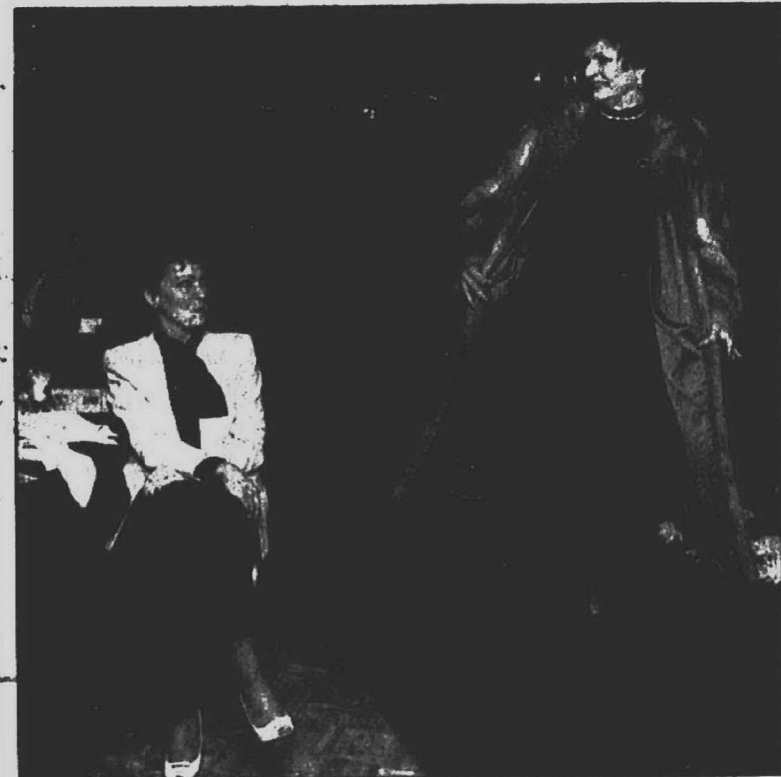

Jo Griffing has worked on every single project conceived by the Livonia Arts Commission and for this she was honored as Zonta's Woman of the Year, an award the club plans to make annually.

Fun clothes by Maggie and Me included this two-piece outfit modeled by Nina Messana.

Zonta Club blends fun, achievements

For the first time in the six years the shows have been staged, furs were part of the fashion attraction. Barbara Kelley, a Zontian from Birmingham, shows off a stunning full-length coat from Onyx Furs.

BUSINESS-oriented Zontians of the Northwest Wayne County area Zonta club capped a year of community service with a crowd-pleasing "Fashion Fantasy" in the swanky confines of Meadowbrook Country Club in Northville last week.

It was a classy event all the way — much to the credit of the hardworking Zonta Club members who are part of a worldwide classified service organization of executive women in business and the professions.

Highlight of the evening was the presentation of a check for $2,500 to First Step, the shelter for battered and abused families.

The contribution marks a four-year commitment by the Zonta club to the shelter.

IN LABELING THE club membership as "shakers and movers," Judy McDonald, First Step director, noted that the group has contributed approximately $9,500 to the facility since 1981. "They are probably our biggest contributor as far as civic organizations go," McDonald said.

"But they haven't stopped with just financial assistance," she said. "Whenever we've needed something for the center, they've been there." That also includes efforts on the part of individual club members who have donated hundreds of hours of service in working directly with First Step clients.

One member, she said, helps out by acting as the night manager and is there overnight at least one night a week or on the weekend. Another member, she said, co-facilitates a support group working with individual members.

In addition to the latest check, McDonald said she also was informed by several Zontians of their intention to take training to be able to staff a 24-hour crisis telephone line "which is Fashion commentators Lelsha Z, known as "Lady Z," and WJR traffic reporter Dennis Houbeker shared the mike. Z is recently from California and a recording artist for Sterling Records and a song writer. She turned a few heads herself with her coiffure of tightly braided blonde strands cascading down over her shoulders.

Sally Henning wore several pieces of jewelry all at the same time to show off part of the collection presented by Sydney Krandel and Sons. Furs valued at $40,000 and jewelry valued at $60,000 were included for the first time in the show.

Fashions from Designer Factory Outlet included this chic powder satin creation worn by Therese Pavone.

John Gibson of Plymouth was one of several male models who showed the latest in men's fashions.

Nancy Bellmore modeled a wedding gown from her own's shop, which sells and imports. Her escort was Tony Gossard of Livonia.

Sex and violence in record/video cassettes is essay contest topic

Plymouth-Canton Civitan Club has announced the topic for its Citizenship Essay Contest. All high school students in the Plymouth-Canton Schools area are invited to participate and give their views on the question, "Is There Too Much Sex and Violence in the Youth-Oriented Record/Video Cassette Market?"

Information about the contest is available at the general offices of Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem high schools. Entries should be in by March 15. Those with questions may contact Joe Henshaw of the Plymouth Canton High School Science Department, 451-6321, or 453-7569.

HENSHAW, a member of the Civitan Club and chairman of the contest, explained how the essay subject is selected.

"Topic possibilities are requested from students, parents and all other interested sectors of the community, including Civitan members. A Civitan panel then determines its topic with selection based on several points:

"Is the topic of general interest or relevance to high school students? Does the topic reflect upon citizenship or community values? What institutions (societal) does the topic examine, promote or criticize? Does the topic encourage the development of a positive self-image? Does the substance of the topic cut across social, racial, political and geographical barriers?"

THE CONTEST will be the seventh sponsored by the local Civitan Club. Once a national competition, the club decided it merited continuance at the local level after it had been dropped as a nationwide project.

"It is hoped this competition might improve the student's ability to develop and maintain an essay theme or premise," Henshaw said. Writing the essay also helped the student "understand and better appreciate citizenship, support or document a position, convince or persuade, utilize proper grammar and punctuation," he added.

The contest's prize structure has been improved this year, dependent upon degree of participation.

The traditional awards of $100 for first place, $50 for second and $25 for third will remain. However, the Civitans will add another $25 at each level for each block of five additional participants, beginning with entrants 15 to 19. Similarly, should 20-24 students enter the contest, an additional $25 will be added at each level, and so on.

ESSAYS ARE judged by an eight-member panel.

Six Centennial Educational Park teachers in the English and/or social science departments (three from each high school), and a representative from each of the two local newspapers serve as judges.

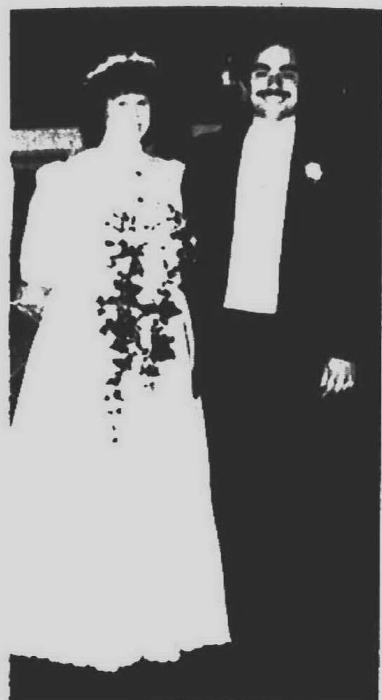

Contest winners will be identified and announced by April 1.

Aldini-Harris

Theresa Kay Harris of Canton and Lido Peter Aldini of Grosse Pointe Woods exchanged marriage vows Sept. 28 in the Mercy Conference Center, Farmington Hills, with the Rev. Tim Dombrowski officiating. The couple's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Mary Stella Aldini of Grosse Pointe Woods.

The bride's ivory satin gown had an Alencon lace bodice, sleeves and trim, and a chapel-length train. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses, stephanotis, pink sweetheart roses, baby's breath and English ivy. Linda Beck was matron of honor and bridesmaids were Madeline O'Brien, Monica Gurney and Brandy Feikema. They wore long-sleeved dusty rose tea gowns of chiffon over taffeta, trimmed with Alencon lace and sashed with satin ribbon. They carried round colonial bouquets of pink roses, baby's breath and English ivy. Thomas Aldini was best man and groomsmen were John Aldini, Timothy Aldini and Thomas Harris. Ushers were Steve McEwen and Scott McEwen. After a wedding dinner at the Mercy Center, the couple left on a Caribbean cruise. They are living in Canton Township.

The bride, a graduate of the University of Michigan, is employed at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Ann Arbor. Her husband graduated from the University of Detroit and is employed at Henry Ford Hospital, Detroit.

Large letters show a need for recognition

Dear Lorene:

I am fascinated by the study of graphology. I have attended one lecture on the subject and would like to learn more. At this stage of my life I have a great deal of interest in self-improvement and a quest for understanding myself. Discovering what "makes people tick" is fascinating.

On a personal level I am a third grade teacher, married and no children. Thanks for analyzing my handwriting through this newspaper.

M.B.
Farmington Hills

Dear M.B.:

Graphology is indeed a wonderful tool for helping one better understand herself. I am happy for your interest.

Your own handwriting, so dissimilar to copybook style, does not suggest a third grade teacher to me. I have to think you have another style which you use when teaching, right?

Life is to be lived! The large size and fullness of your handwriting tell me you are a woman who is ambitious for recognition and acceptance. A busy lifestyle with a wide variety of activities probably suits you to the proverbial "t." You really enjoy being part of the action. In fact, you may even be overly involved at this time.

Both mental and physical challenges are stimulating for you. Vitality and strong persistence are assets which help you accomplish all you wish to do.

(Tied t bars with good pressure and long lower loops).

You are a bright young woman. Keen comprehension allows you to grasp ideas and situation easily. Creativity is also part of the thinking. No one needs to draw pictures or provide lengthy explanations for you.

There is a dramatic flare about all you do. When this is coupled with your gift of words and fertile imagination, I can visualize your students sitting in rapt attention at storytime. This could probably be harnessed into creative writing also. Those g's that resemble figure 8's and stick t's in cursive writing strongly suggest literary aptitude. And the printed s's tell me of your interest in reading.

The vivid imagination makes life interesting not only for you, but for those around you as well. A tendency to get carried away without even realizing it may also be part of your style.

Money and the material things it provides to make daily living more enjoyable are high on your priority list. It seems quite possible an interest in possessions started very early in life. Were material things sometimes substituted for love?

People of all persuasions can find a friend in you. An open-mindedness does not permit you to condemn things which may not be in harmony with

Fingal's Cave Overture opens Sunday concert

The Plymouth Symphony Orchestra's Sunday concert will feature the favorite works of Charles Greenwell, interim conductor.

The opening number, "Fingal's Cave Overture" by Mendelssohn, was the first piece of music Greenwell conducted professionally. It has become a tradition for him to include this when he appears before a new audience.

The overture was inspired by a trip Mendelssohn took to Scotland in the 1820s. He visited Staffa Island on a stormy, windy day and the whistling sound made by the rock formation of Fingal's Cave gave him the idea for the theme.

The overture has become one of the composer's greatest orchestral works — one of the most memorable, pictorial and popular short works in the whole orchestral repertoire.

Mendelssohn was one of history's great child prodigies. In addition to his extraordinary gifts as a composer, superb pianist and organist, fine violinist and an inspiring conductor, he was a fine painter and a brilliant writer.

GREENWELL has chosen Haydn's Symphony No. 82 in C for the orchestra's second selection.

Haydn is often referred to as the "father of the symphony." A more accurate title might be that of "stepfather." Actually, he was preceded by several older contemporaries who did produce symphonies. What Haydn achieved was not the invention but the development of the structure of the symphony. He deepened its significance by changing the symphony from diversion to drama.

In 1785 Haydn was commissioned to write a set of six symphonies for a Paris organization, "The Concerts of the Olympic Lodge." The resulting symphonies are known as the Paris symphonies 82-87. "The Bear," which was the first of the set, is in many ways the most dramatic and striking.

It is one of the only four-movement symphonies he wrote that does not have a slow movement. It also has an unusually lengthy and substantial minuet or trio. The musical, textural and dynamic contrasts are remarkable and the whole symphony is possessed of a kind of driving, kinetic energy, remarkable even for Haydn.

The work gets its nickname from the fact that the opening of the last movement reminded some listeners of the type of music used to accompany a dancing circus bear.

DVORAK's eighth symphony closes the concert.

It is thought by many to be his finest. Composed in the fall of 1889, for a long time it was known as the English symphony, because it was published by a London firm.

Dvorak conducted the premier of the G Major symphony in Prague in February 1890. It has an irresistible Bohemian flavor and was written entirely to please Dvorak, himself.

Single concert tickets are $6 for adults and $3.50 for senior citizens and full-time college students. Students 12th grade and under are admitted free. Tickets will be available at the box office before the concert. They may be purchased in advance at Beitner Jewelry in Plymouth, Arnold Williams Music in Canton Township and Hammell Music in Livonia.

The concert will begin at 4 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 17, in the auditorium of Plymouth Salem High School, Joy Road west of Canton Center. Free transportation is provided to the concert from Tonguish Creek Manor for senior citizens. Free baby-sitting for preschoolers is available during the concert.

The concert is made possible by sponsorship from the Ford Motor Co., a grant from the state of Michigan through the Michigan Council for the Arts, and the Plymouth Symphony League.

Charles Greenwell has programmed three of his favorite works for Sunday's Plymouth Symphony Orchestra concert.

"Kathy's family needed hope."

A young mother with a serious illness. Her family in crisis. They came to Harper Hospital and found new hope. They learned that Harper is a university-based research and teaching hospital. A place where scientists work alongside physicians, transforming discovery into treatment. They found that Harper concentrates on the tough adult cases in cancer, heart disease and serious vision disorders.

Patients like Kathy come to Harper Hospital at the Medical Center with confidence. They come because Harper is a major participant, together with the Sloan-Kettering Institute in New York and the M.D. Anderson Tumor Institute in Houston, in America's network of only twenty Comprehensive Cancer Centers. Patients know that if the diagnosis is cancer, there is no better place to be than Harper Hospital. And they come with confidence because the Kresge Eye Institute is at Harper Hospital. This important Medical Center resource is devoted exclusively to the problems of vision. And through its research and clinical work, the Kresge Eye Institute gives new hope to millions with impaired vision throughout the world.

Harper is hope for heart patients, too. Its large scale, nationally recognized program brings together research, teaching, surgery and medicine. More open heart surgeries are performed each year at Harper than are performed at any other hospital in Michigan. But of more significance is the growing number of heart patients Harper is able to treat successfully each year without surgery. For Kathy and her family. For you and your family. Harper Hospital is Science. Research. Hope and Healing.

Senate OKs voter-registration reform bill

A bill that would both purge voter lists of inactive registrants and make registration drives more uniform has passed the Michigan Senate by more than a two-to-one margin.

The measure, sponsored by state Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville, moves to the state House and if passed, to Gov. Blanchard who has twice vetoed similar legislation.

"This bill addresses the latest concerns expressed by the administration. I would be very surprised if the governor chose to hold up such important voting reform again," said Geake, whose district includes Plymouth, Canton, Livonia and Redford.

IF IT BECOMES law, clerks could cancel the registration of voters who have been inactive for five years — instead of the current 10 — provided the clerks send written notice and allow a month for the person to reapply.

The legislation would also set training standards for deputy registrars — such as members of the League of Women Voters — appointed by local clerks. Deputy registrars would be prohibited from wearing buttons or campaigning while conducting registration drives.

Finally, local clerks could make agreements with other clerks to cross register residents. For example, the clerk of one town could appoint a deputy registrar to work the local shopping mall and register voters from that city if the local clerk is agreeable.

State Sen. Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills, was in the 11-member minority voting in opposition to the bill.

"Basically the idea in a free society is for the electoral process to be as open as possible, not subjected to impediments of any kind," Faxon said.

"We have had very honest elections in Michigan. There is no history of election frauds. In fact, the Michigan electoral process is well respected throughout the country. My opinion is, if it isn't broken, don't fix it."

"MY OBJECTION is that (the bill) gives the clerk's office the power to delete the names of people who haven't voted in five years. To exercise that right should be the voter's choice, not the clerk's choice. The objective is to have as many people as are qualified vote. We don't want to turn away qualified voters."

Sen. William Faust, D-Westland, also was among the local senators who voted against the bill.

In addition to Geake, support for the measure, which passed the senate 24 to 11, came from area senators Doug Cruce, R-Troy, Richard Fessler, R-West Bloomfield, Rudy Nichols, R-Waterford, and Patrick McCollough, D-Dearborn, whose district includes Garden City.

Secretary of State Richard Austin, election chief of Michigan, agrees in principle with Geake's bill to cut deadwood from voter rolls, but also wants to grant county clerks the power to appoint registrars to sign up voters, too.

"I think it's agreed that we have a problem with voter registration in Michigan," said Geake. "I have been disappointed in the past to see such critical reform in this important area delayed, but I'm also confident that this third version will earn strong bi-partisan support in the state House and ultimately be signed into law."

MINDY SAUNDERS/staff photographer

As a researcher, writer and collector of memorabilia, Wiley Sword of Bloomfield Township is committed to promoting an appreciation and understanding of history.

Author finds old scandal

By Corinne Abatt
staff writer

It was the late Gen. S.L.A. Marshall who put local writer Wiley Sword on to the material for his newest book, "President Washington's Indian War: The Struggle for the Old Northwest, 1790-1795."

Sword recalls Marshall telling him, "That war was important to the destiny of the nation and nobody's written about it."

Sword, author of "Shiloh, Bloody April," judged one of the 100 best books written on the Civil War, picked up the general's challenge. A dedicated historian, who works from primary materials — letters, records, diaries, personal papers, Sword uncovered a lot of information including "a major scandal that had never come to light until this book."

This was a land-speculation scheme involving Henry Knox, secretary of war (for whom Fort Knox is named), and William Duer, friend of President Washington and private contractor for the army.

Sword sensed something was wrong as he read about the lack of supplies for the armies fighting the Indians in the Old Northwest, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Wisconsin, Michigan. It was an unpopular cause, often tragic and bloody.

SWORD said the army had a contract system. The government relied on private contractors to supply the army and Knox was in charge of procurement. Duer, a speculator, wound up with the army contract.

But he and Knox had signed an agreement. Duer was to take the supply money and buy land at $.05 an acre and sell it to the French, who were reportedly eager to buy, at $1 an acre.

Sword found all of this documented, even to the agreement between the two in Knox's papers, on microfilm at the University of Michigan Library.

"History is nothing more than the lives of people," Sword said. "Circumstances may change, but human nature doesn't change. . . . Knox was a capable general and was looked upon as a good stalwart administration official."

Another scandal, which is part of the book, concerns James Wilkinson, a double agent who became commander in chief following the death of Mad Anthony Wayne.

Sword said Spain, a strong power in the south, wanted to get Kentucky settlers to come under Spanish allegiance. The Spanish recruited Wilkinson as a secret agent.

"When General (Arthur) St. Clair was deposed (following the tragic massacre at Fort Recovery, Ohio) Anthony Wayne replaced him and James Wilkinson was second in command. Wayne distrusted Wilkinson. Wilkinson had arranged to have Wayne killed by having a tree fall on his tent. Wayne was prepared to have Wilkinson court-martialed, but Wayne died and Wilkinson became commander in chief."

"The book talks a lot about the occupation of Detroit. It has a lot to do with the local region," Sword said.

Sword said he tried to be "as objective as possible" in telling the story of this conflict, which involved the British, the Indians and the Americans.

HE IS acutely aware of "the tragic story of how the Indians were treated. Tribes like the Miamis and the Shawnees were virtually wiped out."

Many times he said there was a notable lack of communications, treaties with the Indians were good only until the settlers moved in, there were misunderstandings on land ownership and the Indians were unable to organize a strong confederation.

Yet, the result was that "once the Indians were pushed West of the Mississippi, they couldn't be dominant. The Indian Wars of the 1800s were really anti-climatic."

Originally titled, "Wounded Earth," it was completed three years ago, but Sword said it needed three revisions "to get the bulk out of it," to the publisher's satisfaction.

"I don't expect it to be a best seller, but it's an important story," Sword said. "I enjoyed doing it. It was a labor of love. I hope it will be helpful to future generations. The idea is that we are responsible to understand what went before."

Sword, collector of weaponry, historic papers, diaries and letters, has an idea for another book simmering. He may soon move it up to the front burner.

He earns his living as a manufacturer's rep. He earns respect from his family, friends and readers as a dedicated historian.

The why-didn't-I-think-of-that syndrome may be sweeping through the local art community. If it is, blame Lois Pincus-Frank who recently opened Artspace, a resale gallery for fine art at 574 N. Woodward, Birmingham.

"I'm so pleased with the quality. I wasn't sure I could pull it off, but I've got wonderful stuff," said the attractive, brown-haired, first-time art entrepreneur.

At that time (there's a steady turnover) there were several works by Pearlstein, pieces by Nadler, Agam, Held, Sonia Delauney, Etrog, Johns, Calder, Chagall, Gottlieb, Anneskiewicz, Nesbitt, Steinberg, Picasso and two oils by Sarkis on the wall.

In the window was a painted, wooden circus wagon by Appel, built to hold his suite of lithographs. Along one wall was a beautiful inlaid, French, art-deco buffet. A metal horse weathervane and several African masks, although from different parts of the world, looked disarmingly compatible in the clean, well-lighted setting.

Saying that her inventory, all on consignment, comes from collectors who may be reducing or changing focus, galleries and museums, Pincus-Frank said brightly, "A gallery in New York is sending me a consignment of 19th-century architectural drawings."

SHE ADDED that she plans to have a large selection of relatively inexpensive prints, so there will be good art available starting at about $30 and running into the thousands.

"Organizing the secondary market gives people a chance to change their art. People have a lot of reasons for changing their art or changing directions — moving to Florida, needing money or they bought too much."

Certainly one of the gallery's claims to fame is Pincus-Frank's statement, "Everything is below established market value. We try to keep prices well below. The consignor sets the price with me."

She said the contract is for three months and at the end of that time the consignor is obligated to pick the art up. If there is a lot of interest in the work, she may ask to extend the time.

"I'm really careful about where things come from and making sure I have the real thing." Saying that there are only a few resale galleries of this quality around the country, she added, "The organization of the secondary art market along these lines is a new concept."

She said one of the early entrants in the field, her sister Claire Carlevaro, has been very successful at it in Berkeley, Calif., and urged Pincus-Frank to start a similar business in Birmingham.

"My background is communications. But I've been a collector for a long time. I found this space, and I knew it was right. I'd never had my own thing until now and I love it."

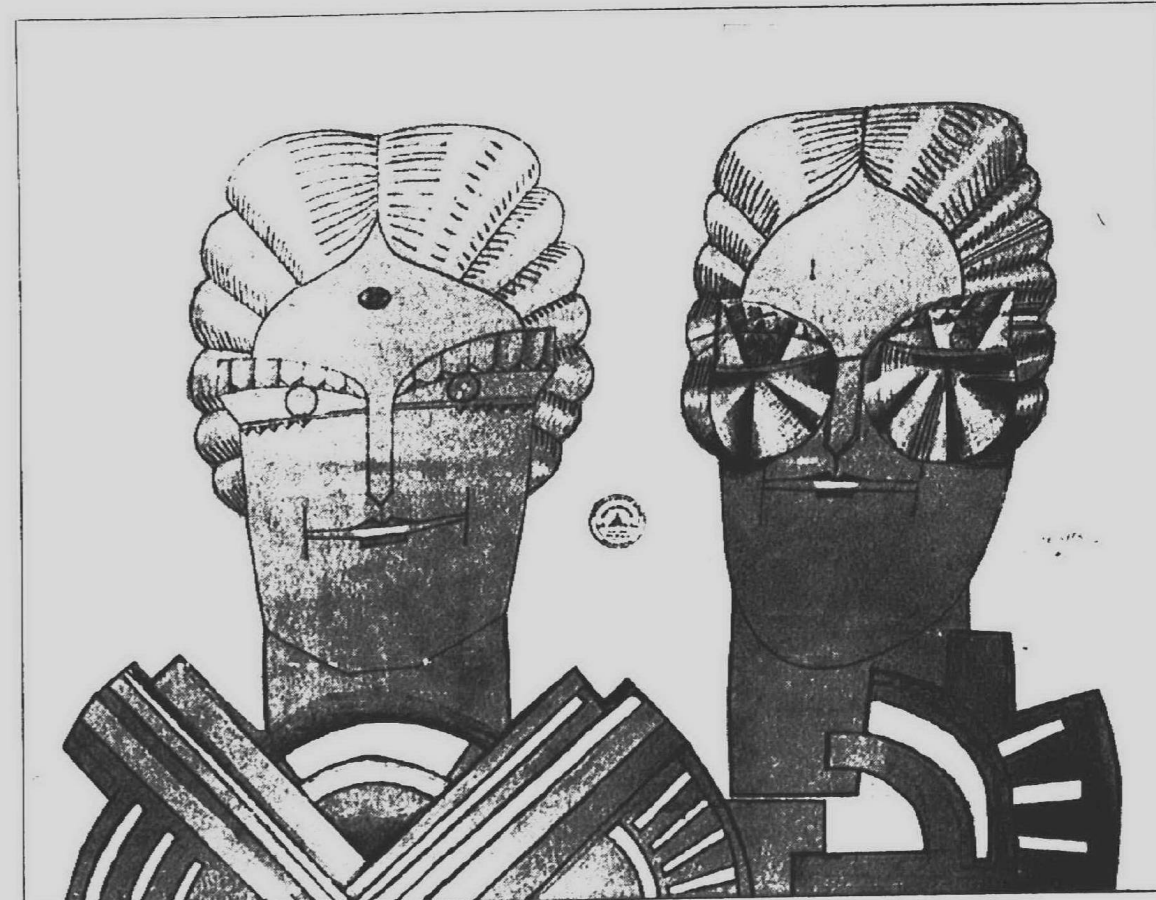

In keeping with the changing art, Pincus-Frank had all of the gallery fittings put on wheels, so she can change the configuration of exhibition spaces as easily as she changes her shoes.

"It's recyclable space for recyclable art," she said.

ALTHOUGH she's only been in business about a month, a search file is already heavy with names. "We're doing a networking thing for people," she said, flipping through the pages of a notebook with names followed by items they're interested in acquiring.

Lois Pincus-Frank is delighted with the response and positive feedback she's had so far concerning her gallery, "Artspace." Pictured below is Saul Steinberg's collage on canvas, "Two Sisters," 1967, one of the works in the gallery the owner is particularly enthusiastic about.

She'll follow up with a phone call as soon as she has something coming in they might like or at least has a photograph to show.

Pincus-Frank is on the road a lot, meeting collectors, looking at potential stock for the gallery.

She has already turned down a substantial amount because she knows it won't sell or isn't right for Artspace.

"Eventually I hope to get more 19th- and 20th-century oils and more 19th-century representative art," she said. So far the response from the local galleries, collectors and arts organizations has been positive and heartwarming. She provides options, which they appreciate.

Hours are 11 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday and by appointment. For information, call 258-1540.

Concert aids Parkinson's sufferers

David Hardy

The Lyric Chamber Ensemble's concert at 3:30 p.m. Sunday in Orchestra Hall will be a special occasion in several respects.

It is a benefit for the Michigan Parkinson Foundation (MPF). It will feature the music of esteemed French composer, Maurice Ravel, and soloist David Hardy, cellist, who was the top American prize winner in the International Tchaikovsky Competition in Moscow in 1982.

Hardy, born in 1958, assistant principal cello with the National Symphony, Washington, D.C., is a graduate of Peabody Conservatory. He made his solo debut with the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra at age 16.

Hardy will be joined by Lyric Chamber Ensemble members and Detroit Symphony Orchestra musicians Geoffrey Applegate, Stacey Woolley and Margurete Deslippe-Andrews, violinists; Vincent Leonti, violist; Haden McKay, cellist; Kerstin Allvin and Pat Terry-Ross, harpists; Shaul Ben-Meir, flute; Douglas Cornelsen, clarinet; Joseph Gurt and Fedora Horowitz, pianists; and Earnestine Nimmons, soprano.

Gurt has appeared as soloist for the Detroit Symphony and is professor of music at Eastern Michigan University. Horowitz is artistic director of the Lyric Chamber Ensemble and Nimmons is a member of the Braseal Dendard Chorus.

Ravel's famed choreographic poem for orchestra, "La Valse," as transcribed for duo-piano by Ravel, will be performed along with Introduction and Allegro for harp, flute, clarinet and string quartet; "Cinq Melodies Populaires Grecques," Sonata for Violin-Cello and Trio for Violin, Cello and Piano.

"This is a wonderful opportunity to hear an outstanding musical presentation and to assist MPF in developing support for groups for sufferers of Parkinson's Disease," said Betty Gerisch of Bloomfield Hills, chairwoman for the program.

According to Dr. Raymond Bauer, president of the MPF and professor of neurology at Wayne State University School of Medicine, nearly 30,000 persons in Michigan suffer from Parkinson's, a debilitating disease that causes tremors, weakness and muscle rigidity.

A portion of the seats for the Ravel Festival have been reserved for the benefit of the MPF. Box seats for four are $100. Logo seats are $20, main floor seats $17.50 and $10 and balcony, $2.50. For information, call 464-8816.

President Washington's Indian War: The Struggle for the Old Northwest, 1790-1795, by Wiley Sword is published by University of Oklahoma Press, $24.95 hardback. It is 201 pages, has 12 illustrations, 17 maps, a bibliography and an index.

Softworks draws out fantasy

By Loraine McClish
staff writer

One of the standouts in Birmingham Temple's Art Show this month is sure to be a display of life-sized soft sculptures set in unconventional poses created by Kathy Lathers.

The artist calls her picturesque figures "Softworks" and says they were all fashioned "to release the child inside in you and me — to bring out the dream and fantasy world."

By showtime she'll have about a half-dozen 5-6-foot tall exquisitely dressed imageries and another 20 smaller pieces ready for exhibit. But if tradition holds she'll be sold out before closing time.

"THE TEMPLE show has always been one of my favorites, but I never seem to be able to get far enough ahead of myself to be able to stay the whole three days," she said.

Lathers' softworks were a sellout on the first show she ever prepared for, about 10 years ago. The same has held true right up until the last time she showed her work late this summer during a benefit for Common Ground in Birmingham's Shain Park.

But the Farmington Hills resident and her fantasy figures will be among 80 artists at the show's preview to meet guests 8-11 p.m. Friday, Nov. 15, in the temple, 28611 12 Mile. Wine and cheese is included in the $3 admission.

The show continues from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday and from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday. Admission for these days is $1.

The event is the temple's 11th invitational art show, which includes the works of painters, sculptors, those who create jewelry, ceramics, glassworks, weaving, metal art and basketry.

THE MATERIALS Lathers uses to drape and dress her softworks are so unusual, so out-of-the-way, that one cannot help but ask where she finds them.

"I'm a scavenger. No matter what I'm doing at the time one eye is always on the search. Look at this," she said, pointing to fastidiously marked shelves in her home studio of handmade weavings, little-seen fabrics, crocheted pieces, unfamiliar jewelry and buttons.

"If I find a hat or a collar or a scarf in an antique shop I can use, it more than likely will go on some figure right away. Those things don't sit around here." Her sun-lit, shelf-lined studio is filled with a sewing machine and a dozen figures in various phases of completion.

ALL OF her fantasy figures are made with soft bodies with insertions that give them strength so they can stand, sit or be twisted into just about any human pose.

And all of them take on a character drawn from legend, from myth, from folk tales, a variation on one of these themes, maybe her own dreams, or someone else's dream or fantasy they have shared with the artist.

The figures are all given names, such as "The Mender of Broken Hearts" or "The Spirit of Laughter" or "The Sandwoman."

"But different people see them differently. When they find another home I know they take on different poses and different meanings so of course they get different names," she said.

LATHERS STUDIED art at Grand Valley State College, starting out as a ceramist "because I was lured only to the three dimensional," she said. "I think art should be touched."

Along the way she created clothing, now known as wearable art, learned and studied many forms of stitchery, and then turned to dollmaking. Many of her earlier dolls assume poses caught in mid-motion, much the same as her later works with names such as "Dream Sweeps" and "Spirit of Flight."

Her acrobatic jesters have given way to story people, each telling its own tale. A something-new for her is pyramids of mythical figures, animals and elves, who interact with one another.

ONE OF the pyramids that will be seen in the Birmingham Temple show is a group of three figures leap frogging. As creativity expands and the concepts become more complex, one of her aspirations is to create a configuration with as many as a dozen figures interacting.

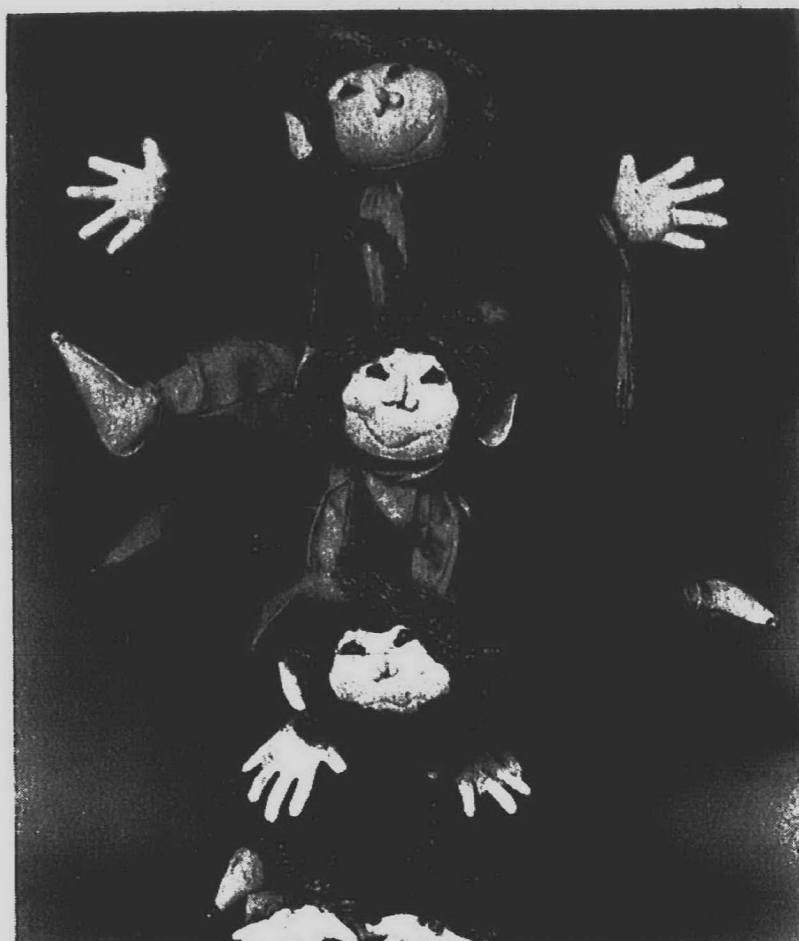

That will happen "whenever I can get the time," she said. "I'm booked through December now and have promised a half-dozen pieces for an exhibit in Chicago I'm not even going to be able to attend."

Carri Lathers, a fifth grader in Gill Elementary School, is her mother's basic seamstress and already a dollmaker in her own right.

Carri is unable to even guess how many cloth bodies she has sewn together following her mother's patterns that run from 12-inches to 6-feet long in preparation for her mother to fill, dress, decorate and turn them into fantasy characters.

THOUGH MOST of her characters come from her own imagination or her dreams, she singles out "The Wizard" to tell of a figure she created as a private commission. When her client came to share her story of "The Wizard" she brought with her sumptuous fabrics and accessories that had belonged to her grandmother.

"That was a neat kind of magic — when someone else sets you loose with her own thing," she said.

RANDY BORST/staff photographer

The pyramid of elves, each interacting with the others, is a relatively new concept for Softworks artist, Kathy Lathers. The 12-inch figures can stand alone or be stacked.

Christmas card judges note detail

By David Messing
special writer

Hey ... I wanna know why my dumb, stupid calendar doesn't have "Thanksgiving" printed in the box with the number 28. I am so embarrassed that I listed the 28th as the deadline for our Christmas card contest.

Not only that, but there was a slight error in the size of the artwork. So please let me back up a little. The deadline will be Dec. 5. So after you have eaten too much turkey and Uncle Henry is retelling the same story for the umpteenth time, you can just excuse yourself, steal away and work all weekend on your Christmas card entry.

So let me briefly relist the rules:
● Three age categories — 6-9 year, 10-13 year and 14-adult. There will be a first, second and third prize in each category. There will also be two honorable mention prizes in each category. This year will be a first for our "best entry" award and prize. In all, there will be 16 prizes totaling over $1,500.

● All artwork must be (or proportionate to) 4 1/4 by 5 1/2. No artwork should exceed 8 1/2 by 11.

artifacts

● All artwork must be black ink on white board or paper. You may use technical pens, felt-tip pens, brush and ink, scratch board or textured screens. Only line shading, stipple or cross hatching will be eligible.

● The deadline again is Dec. 5. All work must be sent or delivered to the Livonia Art Store and More by 8 p.m. All art work must have a name, address and phone number.

All artwork will be judged according to: thought, ability, originality and execution. You also may enter more than one design.

Gee, it's kind of humbling when I think that last Thursday 240,000 people learned that I didn't know the date of Thanksgiving. But it is good to be humble. As a matter of fact, with just a little more humility ... I'll be perfect.

Since it took one half of this article to correct my goofs in the last article I may as well give you some tips on how we judge the contest.

NUMBER ONE on the list is technical skill, which is, of course, relative to each age category. Detail and realism always has, and probably always will, at least catch the critical eye of any judge. So try to use a fine pen point, tech pens, or felt tip. For 79 cents you can buy a felt tip with a 0.3 tip, which is plenty fine. If the artwork is larger than 4 1/4 by 5 1/2 we view the work through a reducing lens, which shows us how it may appear as a printed Christmas card. Speaking for myself I first look for good structure, proportion and then plenty of detail.

Subject matter is also very important: with a topic as broad as Christmas you may enjoy a wide range of subjects or objects relating to the season.

Originality is a factor. Now for the sake of accuracy we encourage you to use photos in the rendering of objects or animals etc. But likewise we encourage you not to copy the design of any existing Christmas card.

Cleanliness counts. So it is OK if you like to draw with a cheek full of Milk-duds but just keep your artwork clean.

Last year we had hundreds of entries and 15 shocked and surprised winners, so get with it. Be sure to mark Dec. 5 on your calendar. Hey ... my calendar doesn't even have Christmas listed ... I hope I don't forget that too.

This is another in a series of lessons on art and drawing by special columnist David Messing. He has taught for 10 years and operates two art stores, Art Store and More, 18774 Middlebelt, Livonia, and 265 N. Main, Plymouth. Messing encourages questions and comments from his readers. You may write to him at his store or in care of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, 33203 Grand River, Farmington, Mich. 48024.

save energy

The hot-water heater is one of the big energy guzzlers, accounting for 15% of the fuel used in the home. A temperature setting of 120° compared to the usual setting of 150° — will cut your fuel bill by 9%.

Showdown

Community is winner in WLAA title clash

By Chris McCosky
staff writer

THE WESTERN Lakes girls basketball championship trophy will be housed within the Plymouth-Canton Community School District this year — that much is certain.

Whether it is housed in the Plymouth Canton trophy case or the Plymouth Salem trophy case will be decided Friday night as the two league powers clash for the crown at Canton's Phase III facility.

Adjectives like "classic" and "barn-burner" are too easily dispensed when previewing an important sporting event. But if ever those words were applicable, it's in connection with this game.

Not only are the two teams fierce neighborhood rivals, not only are the opposing coaching staffs former colleagues and close friends off the court, not only are the two teams talented and equally matched — but for crying out loud — the game is for the league championship.

Is it possible to pack more intrigue into one high school sporting event?

"THIS IS going to be so much fun," Canton coach Rob Neu said on Monday, the anxiety already starting to build. "I can't wait for Friday."

Even the old master of low-key himself, Salem coach Fred Thomann, seems to be more spirited in the prelude of Friday's contest.

"This is special because there's more at stake," Thomann said. "We're not only playing for park bragging rights now, we're playing for the conference championship. Both teams have done a nice job getting through the conference schedule with 15-1 records. It's always our goal to get in a position where every game means something, every game is do or die. We're there now."

The guaranteed winners Friday will be the Plymouth-Canton community. They have produced a pair of basketball units with a combined record of 34-4 this season and have completely dominated the Western Lakes.

CANTON ASSISTANT coach Bob Blohm put it into perspective: "Both schools have put together teams the community can be proud of. They can come Friday and cheer for whatever side they want and no matter which team comes out on top, the community has still won the game."

Said Neu: "The community takes a lot of pride in its programs. Not just sports, but its band, its drama club, everything. The Plymouth-Canton community likes winners. Now it has two on the basketball floor: Canton and Salem. That makes it that much sweeter. People will come to the game Friday and not know what side to sit on, and they won't really care."

Said Thomann: "We have a situation here where the players are willing to work hard, and the coaches feel the same way and are willing to put in the extra time to get the job done. We have talent here. You can't be successful without talent. We're not loaded with it at every position. But we have enough where we can go out and put a nice team game together."

"If we can sustain this (the Salem-Canton intensity) for two or three more years, then this game will become the type of rivalry we used to have with Bentley, or like the Mercy-Ladywood rivalry. I'd like to see that."

And if you're planning on getting a choice seat for Friday's battle, get there early.

Blohm: the man in the middle

By Chris McCosky
staff writer

The game was over. Plymouth Canton fans spilled onto the Salem basketball court from the stands in a

FILE PHOTO

Bob Blohm has been on both sides of the Canton-Salem basketball rivalry. The Canton assistant coach worked in the Salem program for nine years.

Their girls basketball team had just defeated rival Plymouth Salem for the first time since 1978.

Off to one side of the court, Bob Blohm stood watching the scene. He wore neither an expression of joy nor sorrow on his face. He gave the appearance of a completely objective spectator.

Strange behavior considering Blohm is the assistant basketball coach at Canton.

Not so strange, though, when you consider Blohm worked within the Salem program for nine years — five as Salem's head girls basketball coach.

In many respects, Bob Blohm is the man in the middle when it comes to Canton-Salem basketball games.

"IN THAT situation, I didn't want to show any emotion," Blohm said of his feelings after the Oct. 15 Canton-Salem game won by the Chiefs, 25-24. "I have to try and be positive to both sides. As a teacher, it's kind of my responsibility to act that way. I have both Canton and Salem kids in my class. I'm a teacher first and a coach second."

But Blohm makes it perfectly clear that when all is said and done he's as Canton red as a firetruck.

"When you work with a group of kids for a long period of time you develop an attachment to them," he said. "And I really do like these Canton kids. But I don't feel animosity towards Salem, and I don't think they feel any toward me."

Blohm has ridden somewhat of a rollercoaster path during his tenure at CEP. He won 100 games in his first five seasons at the helm of the Salem girls basketball program and quickly became one of the most respected basketball coaches in the area.

He abruptly resigned his Salem post after the 1982 season following a dispute with the district administration. He assisted Salem coach Fred Thomann for a couple of seasons, then dropped out of coaching completely last year.

"THE TIME off did me a lot of good," Blohm said. "It helped me figure out just what I wanted to be. Did I want to be a college coach, high school coach or what? The time away convinced me that I was a high school coach. This is where I belong."

The time off also seemed to mellow his feelings toward the district administration. After many years teaching at the middle school level, Blohm was hired at Canton. The coaching job fell into place after that.

"Athletically, I don't know what is going to happen in my future," Blohm said. "But I do know that I have no intention of going outside this district. Whatever coaching job opens up in this district — if Paul Cummings (athletic director) comes to me with a coaching job — I'll listen."

"This district pays me good money to teach here. I owe them my services in a coaching capacity if there's an opportunity for me."

FOR NOW Blohm seems quite content in his role as junior varsity coach and assistant to varsity coach Rob Neu.

"This has really been good. It has allowed me to be a resource for Rob and to coach at the same time. Also, I'm able to work with Nan Horwood (Canton freshman coach) and prepare her because I think she's going to be the next JV coach here at Canton."

Engineers manage Buffalo series split

The Junior A Hennessey Engineers came away with a split in its North American Hockey League (NAHL) weekend series at the Sabreland Ice Complex in Buffalo, N.Y.

Third-place Hennessey is now 4-4-2 in NAHL play, one point behind second place Compuware and seven behind the first place St. Clair Shores Saints.

On Sunday, the Redford-based Engineers edged the host Sabres, 8-7, as Joe Moenik and Mike Miller each scored two goals. Miller scored the game-winner with six minutes remaining.

Other Hennessey goal scorers included Paul Mitter, Kevin Miller, Ed Shepler and Paul MacDougall. It was Mitter's second short-handed goal of the year.

On Saturday, Buffalo came away with a 6-3 victory behind Dennis Jarosz's two goals.

Larry Piliut and Kevin Alexander accounted for the Redford scoring. Buffalo outshot the Engineers, 38-28.

hockey

ON THURSDAY, the first-place Falcons outshot Hennessey 42-23 en route to a 7-5 victory at the Redford Arena. St. Clair Shores led 4-1 after two periods, but Redford came storming back to within one, 6-5, before the Falcons scored an empty net goal in the final minute of play.

The game was marred by 107 minutes in penalties.

The two teams meet again at 8 p.m. Thursday at the Redford Arena.

CEP hoop shoot

Area heavyweights in ring for WLAA title

Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem will lock horns Friday night at Phase III for the 1985 girls basketball championship in the Western Lakes Activities Association. Observer sports editor Chris McCosky analyzes the CEP showdown.

THE GAME

When Canton and Salem play, regardless of records or league standing, it's war. Throw in such motivating factors as a league championship, area and state rankings and posturing for a possible district championship clash and you have the makings of a battle that transcends all other Canton-Salem battles.

Canton, the Western Division champion in the Western Lakes, enters the game with a 15-1 league record, 18-1 overall. The Chiefs are rated No. 2 in Observerland behind Livonia Ladywood and No. 7 in the Detroit Free Press state poll.

Salem, the Lakes Division champ, also posted a 15-1 league record. The Rocks are 16-3 overall and ranked No. 3 in Observerland and No. 6 in the Free Press.

Neither team has ever won the Western Lakes conference title. In fact, neither team has ever had the opportunity to play for the title.

Both teams will play in the Canton district tournament beginning next week and both are favored to advance into the final game. That means, in the total perspective, this game is the middle game of a three-game set. Canton won the first encounter 25-24 on Oct. 15.

THE HISTORY

This rivalry has a colorful and storied history. It dates back, for all intents and purposes, to the 1978 district tournament.

Back then, Canton, coached by Mike McCauley, was a powerhouse team in the old Western Six. Salem, coached by current Canton JV coach Bob Blohm, was a power in the Suburban 8.

Salem entered the 1978 district championship with a 20-0 record and was heavily favored to make it 21 straight. Canton had other designs. In a classic psych job, McCauley sent his team into the Salem gym wearing togas and reciting the famous Animal House cheer "Toga, Toga, Toga." The circus atmosphere seemed to rattle Salem, and Canton won the game 39-37.

It would be the last time Canton beat Salem until 1985.

The Rocks bumped Canton out of the district tournament in 1979, 1980, 1981 and 1982. It was during the 1979, 1980, 1981 years that Canton was rolling up its 51-game winning streak in the Western Six.

In 1983, the teams joined the Western Lakes. Salem beat the Chiefs twice in 1983 and twice more in 1984. The 1984 games were fiercely contested: Salem winning one in overtime and the other 43-41 in the district championship.

The 1982 and 1983 seasons were down time for the CEP rivalry. Last year, the spark was renewed. This year, there could be fire.

THE SEASON

Although both teams have blasted through their league schedules, each has experienced peaks and valleys.

Canton ran off 10 straight wins to begin the season.

"I think we began to feel the pressure when we were undefeated," Canton coach Rob Neu said. "We started to back off from the things we were trying to get down mentally and that affected us physically."

As it turned out, the best thing that happened for the Chiefs was a loss to Northville in game No. 11.

"When Northville kicked us, we got back to business," Neu said. "Everytime we had a lull, the kids thought back to the Northville game."

For Salem, the ups and downs were more subtle. The Rocks opened the season against the best competition in the state, losing to Livonia Ladywood and Detroit St. Martin DePorres. Then the Rocks ran off 10 straight wins before losing to Canton.

But toward the end of the Western Lakes schedule, Salem's wins became increasingly ugly.

"We had to make some adjustments," Salem coach Fred Thomann said. "The adjustments weren't because we couldn't play in our league. We were handling the teams in our league. The adjustments were to get ourselves to a higher level of play."

The adjustments seemed to pay off as Salem played to near perfection in its final two league games.

Both teams seemingly have peaked at the proper time.

THE MATCHUPS

The matchups played a key role in Canton's victory earlier this season.

Diana Knickerbocker did an outstanding job defensively on Salem star Dena Head.

Sophomore Karen Boluch, a 5-11 forward, was assigned to Salem's Jessica Handley, a 5-7 shooting guard. Boluch was able to silence Handley's dangerous perimeter shooting.

Beth Frigge, a 5-2 guard, was matched against Salem's 5-9 Kristen Hostynski. Salem was never able to take advantage of that size advantage.

Whether those same matchups will materialize Friday is unknown. Salem has made several adjustments to its lineup. The most noteworthy is Julie Tortora starting in place of Handley.

Tortora has helped get the oft-times sluggish Salem offense moving and Handley has responded extremely well coming off the bench. In the last two games, Handley has scored 21 points off the bench.

Salem's lineup adjustments have resulted in one major plus: Dena Head is getting the ball in a much better position to score.

Canton's lineup has been constant. The biggest change since Oct. 15 has been in the Chiefs' bench strength. Players like Tory Barger, Lori Schauder and Vicky Ferko are playing with much more confidence.

THE STRATEGY

While neither coach is willing to divulge their game plan, certain things are obvious.

Shot selection and offensive patience played a key role in Salem's loss to Canton on Oct. 15. The Rocks appeared frazzled on offense, making one pass and taking one shot. The Chiefs weren't a whole lot better, but they made the key plays down the stretch.

Canton and Salem are among the best man-to-man defensive teams in the state — that is not an exaggeration. Thus, Friday's game boils down to one basic basketball axiom: The team that takes the most high percentage shots will win the game.

"It really does come down to that," Thomann said. "The key is shot selection for both teams. The more good shots a team gets, the better shot they'll have at winning the game."

Another obvious point is, if Canton is to survive, it must contain Head. Knickerbocker was successful last time because she prevented Head from driving to the basket and forced her to shoot from 10 to 15 feet out.

Also, because Canton did a solid job on the boards, Head was limited in her ability to run the floor. She is a dangerous weapon when she starts going coast-to-coast with the basketball.

A repeat performance is mandatory for Canton.

THE INTANGIBLES

One of Canton's biggest assets is its senior leadership. Players like Frigge, Knickerbocker and Laura Darby have been through these Canton-Salem wars for three years now. They know exactly what it takes to perform under the pressure cooker this game creates.

"We have gotten quality senior leadership all year and a fantastic effort from the support players," Neu said. "This is a superior group. They are intelligent players and their work capacity is unbelievable. I'm not kidding when I say I love this team. I feel like I'm the luckiest person in the world having walked into this program."

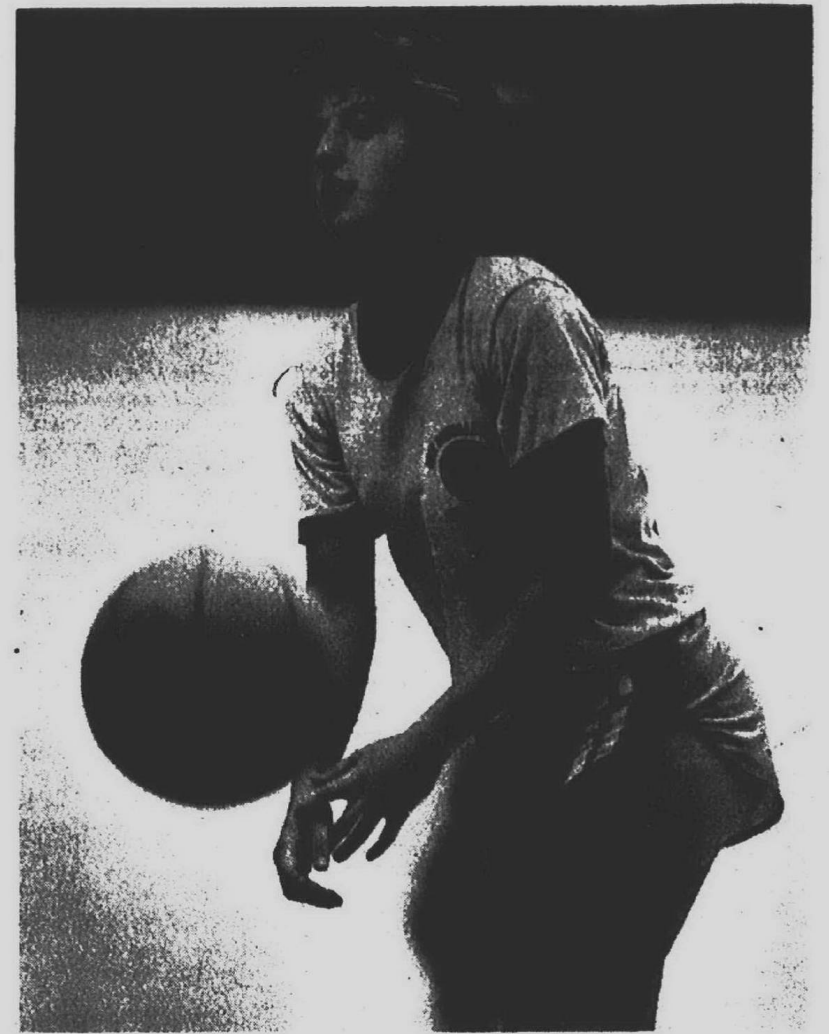

This Canton team demonstrates the same type of chemistry Dave VanWagoner's 1984 Canton boys team had when Mark Bennett and Gary Thomas led the Chiefs to a Western Lakes title.

Salem, by contrast, is a younger team comprised primarily of sophomores and juniors. But those sophomores and juniors are talented and they have perhaps the most respected coach in the state in Fred Thomann.

An area coach one time said of Thomann: "When Fred is on the bench, you figure the team starts the game leading by 10 points."

THE PREDICTION

As Bob Blohm said: Regardless of which team comes out ahead, the Plymouth-Canton community will be the winner.

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

Whether or not Jessica Handley starts for the Rocks Friday, she will play an important role in the WLAA championship match.

Hartnett hits 14 in defeat

Alliance College spoiled Orchard Lake St. Mary's college basketball opener Saturday, defeating the Eagles 90-80 at Dombrowski Fieldhouse.

The team from Cambridge, Pa., went ahead 48-40 at the half and OLSM was unable to catch up. Erich Hartnett, a Plymouth Salem grad, and Steve Kopicki each netted 14 points for the Eagles.

Alliance's Mike Masley led all scorers with 28 points.

Ocelots off to torrid start, 3-0

One thing about freshmen — they will surprise you.

Schoolcraft College men's basketball coach Rocky Watkins got a lot of surprises during the Ocelots' two games last weekend at the Macomb Community College Tip-off Classic. Not all were good, but there were enough to help Schoolcraft to victories over Lansing CC Friday and Kellogg CC Saturday.

Neither win was easy. The Ocelots blew a 16-point lead in the second half against LCC and had to rally from 12 points down in the final 2:52 to post an 89-88 triumph.

Against Kellogg, Schoolcraft trailed by four late in the game before mounting a 10-2 run that earned the Ocelots an 83-79 triumph.

ALTHOUGH THE TEAM was far from the model of consistency Watkins would like, he was pleased with the victories, which, he noted, "came against two pretty decent teams, too." With three players currently ineligible — one after transferring and two others for academic reasons — Watkins had to use his freshmen more than he wanted.

"What we hope to do is bring our freshmen along slowly and let them gain experience at their own pace," the Ocelot coach said. "Right now, we're working on the development of our freshmen. When the (Eastern) conference season starts we want to play 10 and keep the game going at a fast pace."

Spikers win region, eye nationals

Successes keep piling up for Schoolcraft College's volleyball team, but as high as they seem to mount the Ocelots still get little respect.

Take the Region XII tournament last weekend at Kalamazoo Valley Community College. Despite their unbeaten Eastern Conference season, despite their victory over highly regarded Lansing CC in the two team's only meeting, despite a bundle of wins over four-year colleges, the Ocelots were still seeded second.

No matter. Schoolcraft showed what true team play is, surviving an injury to a key performer, beating LCC twice in a row and going unbeaten in the double-elimination regional to win the Region XII title and earn a berth in the 16-team NJCAA championships at Miami Dade South CC Nov. 28-30.

"WE HAD the fewest amount of players, we had the shortest team, and we were definitely the youngest with only one sophomore," said Schoolcraft coach Tom Teeters, who was honored as region coach of the year.

Still, Teeters figured the Ocelots deserved the No. 1 seed going into the tournament instead of LCC, since they had beaten LCC earlier this season. But, as Teeters noted, defensive teams don't get the respect of power-hitting squads, and Schoolcraft definitely relies on defense.

"Our defense sets up our offense," he said. "It all starts there. We always play good team defense. Our shots do get blocked, but we just pick it up and go back up with it."

"And we set up a good block for a small team. Lansing tried to go around our blocks instead of

A JUMPER by Derrick Kearney, who finished with 28 points Saturday after bagging 29 Friday against LCC, tied it with less than two minutes left. After Jones fouled out, KCC's Ronnie Tompkins — who scored 30 points — had his shot blocked by Brad Turner. Turner got possession and went the length of the floor for a jam that put Schoolcraft ahead.

Kearney and Harold Martin added insurance points for the Ocelots before KCC scored a meaningless basket at the buzzer. Kearney also had five steals, four rebounds and four assists. Turner contributed 19 points, seven rebounds, six assists, six steals and two blocks, while Martin added 11 points and five assists.

Against LCC Friday, Watkins went to his freshmen in the second half and it nearly cost the Ocelots, but he was happy a certain freshman was in the lineup when it counted. Mike White, from Plymouth Salem, hit the game-winning jumper with 10 seconds left.

"WE TRIED to play too many freshmen," he said. "They're good, but they're still freshmen, and we had too many in at the same time."

"Mike White's a bit different. He played well for us both nights, and he was the only point guard we had behind Jones."

Schoolcraft led 53-49 at the half and built that into a 16-point bulge before LCC stormed back and eventually went ahead by 11 with 2:52 left.

"Our defense got us back in it," said Watkins, who utilized a full-court press and exceptional defensive play by Jones, Turner and Kearney.

Kearney's 29 topped Schoolcraft. "He's a blue-chipper, you can tell," Watkins said of the former all-stater from Detroit Kettering. Jones had 14 points and eight assists, Ernie Ziegler scored 11 points and Turner and Martin chipped in with eight points apiece. Turner was high rebounder with nine.

ON MONDAY, Schoolcraft had little trouble disposing of Orchard Lake St. Mary's 71-56 in the Ocelots' home-opener.

Schoolcraft jumped out quickly, building a 12-0 lead and maintaining that bulge throughout the first half. OLSM got back to within one in the second half, prompting Watkins to reinstate his starters back in the lineup.

Thirteen players made an appearance for Schoolcraft, and 10 scored. Martin led with 16 points. He also had eight rebounds, three assists and two steals. Jones scored 11 points, had three assists and two blocked shots and Kearney finished with 10 points, nine rebounds and three steals.

Bob Bringman led OLSM with 14 points. Amos Brown had 12 and Greg Washburn 10.

The Ocelots play Jamestown (N.Y.) CC Friday and Southwestern CC Saturday at Flint Mott CC.

hitting through them and ended up hitting a lot of balls out of bounds."

BEATING LCC was no easy task. In fact, it took an official's call against LCC coach Ellen Dempsey in the finals to give Schoolcraft the match-winning point.

The Ocelots defeated LCC in the semifinals 15-12, 15-13 behind the strong play of Kathy McIntosh (from Wayne Memorial), who picked up the slack when Sue Cyrus (Garden City) injured her knee late in the final game of the previous match, a 14-16, 15-5, 15-13 victory over Henry Ford CC.

Cyrus has torn cartilage and a stretched ligament. Her chances of playing in the NJCAA tournament are 50-50, according to Teeters.

"We played poorly in the first two matches and half of the Henry Ford match," Teeters said. "We started coming on in the second game (against HFCC). Sue was hot. She was our top hitter for the day."

Cyrus finished with 33 kills and a .305 attack average in an opening 15-7, 15-4 win over Cuyahoga Metro CC, a second-round 15-9, 14-16, 15-8 triumph over Macomb CC and the quarter-final victory over HFCC.

DESPITE THE ABSENCE of their outside hitter, Schoolcraft hardly missed a beat in its semifinal with LCC. The final, a best-of-five duel, was far more difficult. The Ocelots survived, 13-15, 15-12, 15-13, 7-15, 15-13.

The final point of the match was awarded to Schoolcraft when Dempsey called time out with the score 14-13, Schoolcraft. But LCC had no more time outs to call and the official gave Dempsey a yellow card, or warning. She ignored it and pulled her team off the court. The official then gave the Ocelots the point and the match.

It was a sour end to an otherwise superb match. Schoolcraft trailed 10-2 and 11-6 in the second game before rallying to win. The Ocelots were also down 13-11 in both the third and fifth games before storming back for victories.

LCC had its moments, too, trailing 7-0 before winning the fourth game and drawing 11-4 in the fifth.

"It was hard for us to take them, especially without Sue," admitted Teeters.

THE OCELOTS got excellent play from Ann Bennett, filling in for Cyrus as middle blocker and outside hitter. Bennett collected 36 kills in the tourney. Amy Lotero (Livonia Franklin) and Donna Konjarevich (North Farmington) came off the bench to turn in impressive performances.

Kim Relyea and Linda Loeffler, both from Livonia Stevenson, and McIntosh were named to the all-tournament team. Relyea had 64 kills and a .277 attack average, while Loeffler collected 65 assists and 17 serving aces. The 5-foot-4 McIntosh finished with 30 kills, including eight in the final.

How well Schoolcraft will do at nationals is difficult to predict, but as Teeters said, "I definitely know we're not going to be outclassed, but we will have to be at the top of our game."

Schoolcraft's successes have surprised more than one opponent. At nationals, the Ocelots could surprise some others.

Schoolcraft men fall in inter-region

A tired and bruised Schoolcraft College men's soccer team proved no match for a top-notch Lewis and Clark CC squad in Sunday's NJCAA Inter-regional finals at DuPage College in Chicago, Ill.

The Ocelots, playing with several key starters banged up from two previous tournament games, managed to keep pace with the No. 1 team in the country for the first half before falling 6-2. It was their third game in four days.

"We played a good first half," said Schoolcraft coach Van Dimitriou, whose team ended its season with a 12-2-1 record. "A combination of their ability and our fatigue and injuries did us in."

"Lewis and Clark really didn't pour it on in the second half, that's just the tempo they play. I said before I thought we were strong at every position. Well, Lewis and Clark is stronger."

L-C TWICE took first-half leads only to see Schoolcraft battle back to tie it. Jim Moreau (from Redford Catholic Central) got the Ocelots' first goal, hitting a hard drive that got over the L-C goalkeeper to tie it at 1.

At the 28-minute mark, Anwar Yaffai took a pass from his brother Abe (both from Livonia Bentley) and put the ball behind the goalie to make it 2-2.

Schoolcraft sports

L-C led 3-2 at the half; Schoolcraft ran out of gas in the final 45 minutes.

"We played two very physical teams in our first two games," said Dimitriou. "Our injuries kept us from keeping their tempo."

DEFENDER SCOTT STEINER (Plymouth Salem) and forward John Gelmsi (Livonia Stevenson) were both hurt against Hinds County (Miss.) CC in an opening round 6-1 Schoolcraft win. Both played the next two games, but neither was as effective.

Steiner was hurt again against Bethany (Minn.) CC, and his mobility was severely limited. The Ocelots defeated BCC 6-2 after a scoreless first half.

Matt Pace was the offensive show for Schoolcraft, scoring four times and assisting on another. Abe Yaffai and Gelmsi also notched goals, with Todd Ericson (Stevenson), Joe Novak (Stevenson), Mark Konopatzki (Garden City) and Steiner getting assists.

It was the second-straight year Schoolcraft has lost to L-C in the Inter-regional finals.

OFFICE OF THE CLERK STATE OF MICHIGAN IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR THE COUNTY OF WAYNE LEGAL NOTICE

RE: HELENA ADCOCK, et al. v. THRIFTY STATIONS, INC. et al.
CIVIL ACTION NO. 84-416901-NZ

TO ALL PERSONS WHO PURCHASED GASOLINE DURING MARCH 1984 FROM THRIFTY STATIONS, INC., STATION LOCATED AT PLYMOUTH AND LEVAN ROADS, LIVONIA, MICHIGAN AND WHOSE VEHICLES SUBSEQUENTLY SUSTAINED FUEL SYSTEM DAMAGE AND/OR INTERNAL ENGINE DAMAGE AS A RESULT OF TAINTED, ADULTERATED, IMPURE AND/OR CONTAMINATED GASOLINE.

Pursuant to MCR 3.501; this is to advise you that: There is now pending in this Court a class action for money damages for alleged violation of the Consumers Protection Act, negligence, willful, wanton and/or gross negligence, with respect to the purchases of gasoline at a Thrifty Gas Station, also known as a Union 76 Station, in March, 1984. This civil action is brought as a class action on behalf of the class as defined in bold type above and whose representatives are described in more detail below:

This notice is being sent and published in the belief that there are consumers who may be a member of the class whose rights may be affected by this litigation.

THIS NOTICE IS NOT TO BE UNDERSTOOD AS AN EXPRESSION OF ANY OPINION BY THIS COURT AS TO THE MERITS OF ANY OF THE CLAIMS OR DEFENSES ASSERTED BY EITHER SIDE OF THIS LITIGATION, but is being sent and published for the sole purpose of informing members of the general public of the pendency of this litigation so that any such member may make appropriate decisions as to what steps to take in relation to this litigation.

The Complaint filed in this action seeks money damages together with reimbursement of costs and award of attorneys' fees on behalf of the named Plaintiffs and the class of Plaintiffs respectively (described below), of whom they are representatives, for damage assertedly caused by sale of adulterated, contaminated and/or otherwise unpure gasoline during the period of March, 1984.

The Court has designated the Plaintiffs as class representatives and the class on whose behalf these actions are being maintained are as follows:

Plaintiffs HELENA ADCOCK and ROBERT SHERWOOD on behalf of themselves and all others buying and using gas from Defendant, THRIFTY STATION located at Levan and Plymouth Roads in Wayne County, Michigan, in March of 1984, whose vehicles subsequently sustained fuel system damage and/or internal engine damage as a result of tainted, adulterated, impure and/or contaminated gasoline.

The Defendants are: THRIFTY STATIONS, INC., and CORDER LEASING INC. The Defendants have denied the allegations of the Complaint and have denied all liability.

NOW, THEREFORE, TAKE NOTICE:

- If you bought and used gas from THRIFTY STATION located at Levan and Plymouth Roads in Wayne County, Michigan, in MARCH of 1984, and your vehicle subsequently sustained fuel system damage and/or internal engine damage as a result of tainted, adulterated, impure or contaminated gasoline, you will be included in the class, unless you request to be excluded from such class, on or before December 15, 1985, in the manner described below.
- If you remain a member of the class, you will be bound by the judgment whether favorable or unfavorable, but if there is a recovery, you will be entitled to share in the proceeds less Plaintiffs' costs, expenses and attorneys' fees which the Court may allow, to be reimbursed out of any such recovery, provided you file your claim (see information below), and it is approved. You will not be responsible for any Court costs to the Defendant.
- If you do not elect to be excluded from the Class of Plaintiff, as a class member you will be represented by the attorneys acting on behalf of the class. To obtain a proof of claim form, you must contact the attorneys for the Plaintiff class, as identified at the end of this Notice, by December 15, 1985. You may, but need not, enter an appearance through your own counsel if you desire, and you have all the rights set forth in MCR 3.501. Entry of appearance by your counsel must be made by December 15, 1985.

EXCLUSION FROM THE CLASS

- If you elect to be excluded from the Class of Plaintiffs, you will not be bound by any disposition of the class action and you will retain any claims you may have against the Defendants.
- To be excluded from membership in the class, you must complete and return the form headed "Request for Exclusion" attached to this Notice.
- If you elect to be excluded from the class, you should be aware that the law with respect to the Statute of Limitations states that you must bring a claim within three years from the date of your damages or you may be foreclosed from asserting any claims based on the allegations of the Complaint.
- Your "Request for Exclusion," appearance of counsel and any other documents to be filed or record in this case should be addressed to:

New arrival Scene is set for 'Baby' premiere

By Victoria Diaz
special writer

SCENE: A relatively small room — filled this bone-chilling November night with stacks of lumber, plastic chairs, some tables and a lot of people. A couple of tool boxes sit on the floor, holding a large assortment of screws, tape, glue, nails, pliers and various other hardware. Behind heavy, floor-length curtains, props and costumes in cardboard boxes line the walls of the room.

A stage projects out into the room. Bright lights hang from the ceiling, shining down on the stage — bare, except for a rather rumpled-looking bed.

Near the stage is an upright piano and, beside it, a card table with two of those plastic chairs — empty for the moment — pulled up to it.

Milling about are a motley crowd of polyester-clad middle-aged women, coffee-sipping young actresses, some men dressed in three-piece suits, others in jeans. One is wearing a baseball cap. It is an exuberant, noisy crowd, even a little rambunctious at times. There is much laughter and a lot of animated conversation.

In a few minutes, director Jim Posante and assistant Carol Loomis seat themselves at the card table.

"Places for Act I," Posante calls out. Quickly, the crowd at the Theatre Guild of Livonia-Redford playhouse falls quiet, and performers disperse to take their places for the evening's rehearsal.

THIS IS an odd sort of delivery room, but, in a sense, that's exactly what it will be when the musical, "Baby," co-produced on Broadway by James Freyberg and Birmingham's Ivan Bloch, arrives for its Michigan premiere at the theater guild on Friday, Nov. 22. This production will mark the first performance outside New York of the play, which received several Tony award nominations soon after it opened in 1983.

Written by Sybille Pearson, directed by Richard Maltby Jr., and with music by Maltby and David Shire, the musical was described by New York Times theater critic Frank Rich as an "entertainment that wows us with such basic commodities as warm feelings . . . and a lovely score."

The upbeat "Baby" revolves around three couples in a small, present-day college town. Two of the couples are expecting a baby; the third, so far, has been unable to conceive.

"Baby" is not simply about having babies, though. A small-scaled, even thoughtful musical (which seems particularly suited for the small stage and theater of the TGLR playhouse), it is, above all, a look at real people in love, and the disturbances, upheavals and changes which always accompany loving relationships.

FIRST, THERE'S Lizzie and Danny, a young, unmarried couple in their 20s, who wake up one morning in their newly acquired basement apartment to find themselves expecting a baby. Music student/father Danny, played by David Podulka of Dearborn, has always considered himself a rather avant garde, unconventional sort and is a little surprised at his reaction to this important bit of news: he wants to get married.

Lizzie, played by Livonian Nancy O'Keefe, wants the baby but is convinced marriage will wreak havoc onto their relationship. "Marriage turns talented men into husbands," she points out. "And brilliant women into wives!"

As the astonished 40-ish couple, Arlene and Alan, who thought their days of diapers and midnight feedings were definitely over, are Kay Grismer of Plymouth and Tony Matter of Bloomfield Hills. "We must have done more than just pass out that night," laments Arlene, looking back on the recent evening when the couple celebrated its 20th anniversary. Although Alan, the late-in-life prospective father is overjoyed, Arlene is not nearly so enthusiastic about the upcoming event.

In the roles of the 30-ish couple, Pam and Nick, who, so far, have not been able to have a child, are Susan Suomi of Redford and Jeff Adler of Detroit.

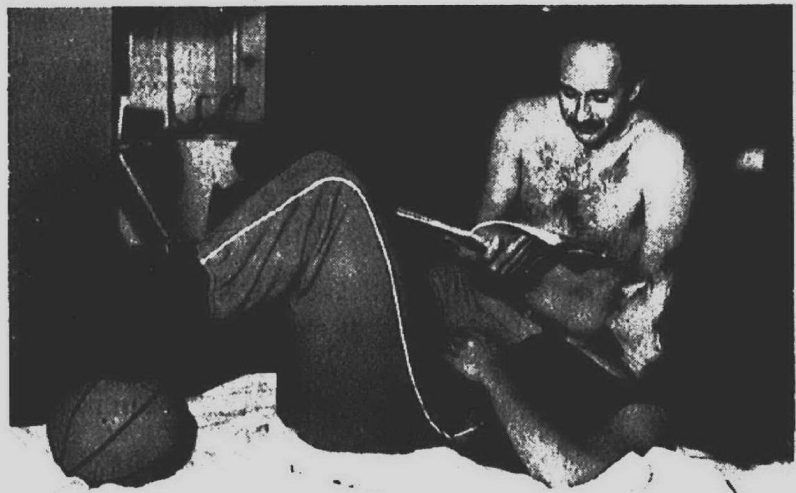

ART EMANUELE/staff photographer

Tony Matter of Bloomfield Hills, who plays Alan, gets a back rub from Kay Grismer of Plymouth, who is Arlene, in the Livonia-Redford Theatre Guild's Michigan premiere production of the musical hit "Baby."

Yearning for a child, Pam and Nick are radiant at the beginning of the play when, apparently all their efforts have finally paid off and Pam is pregnant. Later, they will learn that a mistake has been made at the lab and she is, after all, not pregnant. Once again, in an attempt to conceive, they resume their medically scheduled love life. Pam buys a filmy, feathery negligee in an effort to make their "dates" a bit more interesting. But, because of their problems, their relationship will soon begin to founder, and they will be faced with making a decision about their feelings for each other, child or no.

'Baby' arriving on scene

Although "Baby" is certainly no glittery musical, it is a musical simply packed with music. Described by "Broadway Musicals" author Martin Gottfried as "alternately rhapsodic and goofy," the contemporary-flavored songs of "Baby" make up most of the dialogue in the show.

Providing musical accompaniment for the TGLR production will be music director Jack Pierson at the piano, along with Craig McCardell (sax, flute, clarinet), Craig Foster (trumpet and flugelhorn), Rob McCallum (bass) and Steve Purvis-Smith (percussion).

All principal cast members have appeared in musical roles in previous community theater productions. David Podulka (Danny), in addition, has performed at Michigan Opera Theatre in recent productions, "Aida" and "Sweeney Todd."

SCENE:
 It is two nights later. In the same room, a somewhat more subdued crowd, mostly guild members, has turned out on another blustery November evening for a short meeting and a brief musical preview of "Baby." The room has been straightened up a bit and the red plastic chairs lined up in rows, pretty much the same way they will be arranged when the curtain rises on the first act of "Baby" in a little more than two weeks.

Shortly after the meeting, all cast members — including the nine-member chorus — take the stage and deliver a spirited rendition of the show-opener, "We Start Today." Some of them seem a little nervous, but only a little. Later, Kay Grismer does a plaintive song called "Patterns," and, still later, O'Keefe and Podulka, who appear always to be having a good time, close with "Two People in Love." All are accompanied by Pierson.

At show's end, there is more-than-polite applause from the audience of guild members. "We hope they'll like it enough to go out and tell their friends about it," Pierson had said earlier.

After the short performance, Pierson reminds the cast of the rehearsal schedules in the upcoming two weeks before the play opens — five nights a week and, during the final week, complete run-throughs, in costume, each night.

Later, there is news that a crew from Channel 7's "Good Afternoon De-tape the Monday, Nov. 18, dress rehearsal of "Baby." "Good Afternoon Detroit" is doing a segment on local community theater and has chosen to spotlight the upcoming musical as part of the segment, according to TGLR publicist Sarah Hope. The TV show is scheduled to air Friday, Nov. 29. "We've never done anything like that before," says Hope. "It's really exciting."

Time for the blessed event approaches. Meanwhile, labor continues — with all expectant godparents looking forward to the delivery of a very healthy "Baby" on Nov. 22.

upcoming things to do

COLLEGE CONCERT

The Schoolcraft College Community Wind Ensemble, conducted by Marc R. Dickey, will perform at 8 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 17, at St. John Seminary, 44011 Five Mile and Sheldon in Plymouth. Soprano Jill Pierce will be the soloist. Tickets at $3 are available at the Schoolcraft College bookstore and at the door.

'MUSIC MAN'

Nationally known singer-actor Chuck Mitchell plays Professor Harold Hill and Bloomfield Hills resident Bonnie Brooks is Marian the Librarian in the hit Broadway musical "The Music Man," continuing at 8 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 15, and 2 and 8 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 16, at the Macomb Center for the Performing Arts. Tickets at $7 for adults, $5 for students and senior citizens are available at the center's box office or reserved on credit card by calling 286-2222 from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Mondays-Fridays.

CAMPAIGN BE-GUN

The Spotlight Players, community theater group based in the Wayne-Westland area for the last 26 years, has begun a campaign to save and restore the historic Shafer-Wayne theater in the city of Wayne. The group hopes to raise $150,000 to purchase the building (which the owner was planning to tear down), or find a buyer who can utilize retail frontage while allowing the players use of the theater. Anyone who wants to help provide Spotlight Players with this permanent home may contact the players at 729-6453 or by mail at P.O. Box 396, Westland 48185.

TRYOUTS SLATED

Auditions for the Spotlight Players production, "Madwoman of Chailot," will be held at 7 p.m. Tuesday-Wednesday, Nov. 19-20, at John Glenn High School Auditorium in Westland. The play is being directed by Bob Weibel of Westland. A film crew from a major local TV station will be taping auditions for broadcast on a local program. For more information, call 729-6453.

COMEDY VER-SION

The Clark Family Players will present story-telling with puppets, balloons and audience participation and feature its comedy version of "Little Red Riding Hood" at 10:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 16, at the Livonia Mall. The free show is presented by the mall.

HUNTERS' RUN

The schedule for Larry Nozero and Friends includes Dennis Tini on piano, Ray Tini on bass, Thursday, Nov. 14; Dennis Tini on piano, Ray Tini on bass and Rich Mikels on drums, Friday, Nov. 15; and Dennis Tini on piano and Dan Pliskow on bass, Saturday, Nov. 16, at Hunters' Run in Livonia.

ELECTRONIC MUSIC

A special presentation of the latest in electronic musical instruments and computer-based music systems will be presented at 5 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 5, at Arnoldt Williams Music Inc. in Canton. Paul Youngblood, representing Roland Corp US, will give a presentation featuring synthesizers, rhythm machines and computer music systems. Reservations for free seating may be made by calling 453-6586.

Mary Jane Doerr

Longish concert has good variety

By Mary Jane Doerr
 special writer

A mixture of contemporary sounds, old favorites and classical music was the blend Sunday afternoon at the Oakway Symphony Orchestra concert. There were some wonderful offerings, although the concert was on the long side of two hours.

David Cerone, newly appointed president of the Cleveland Institute of Music and former chairman of the Violin Department at Curtis, was magnificent in his virtuoso performance of Saint-Saens' Introduction and Rondo Capriccioso. The piece is always a crowd pleaser and a perfect choice for the artist to show off his technique.

Earlier in the program Cerone joined Concertmaster Emily Mutter Austin in Vivaldi's Concerto Grosso in A minor for Two Violins. The two violinists did not match in the levels of their sound, especially in the first movement. This tended to be remedied by the third movement.

Austin, who usually has a very sweet sound from her violin, did not top the bold sound of Cerone.

CERONE'S performance was impressive enough and would have been enough for one concert. Conductor Francesco Di Biasi, 1985 winner of the Farmington Distinguished Service to the Arts Award, brought in the Larry Nozero Quartet for the second half.

Many musicians today, who like both jazz and classical music, are doing what is becoming known as crossing over, or playing works in both idioms. James Hartway, chairman of the division of composition and theory at Wayne State University, likes both jazz and classical music but he is not crossing over in his compositions. He is blending the two forms.

His "Cityscapes for Jazz Quartet and Symphony" was performed by the orchestra with the Larry Nozero Quartet. It is a difficult work for the orchestra members to follow, with the amount of extemporaneous sections of solos by the quartet members. Even if the music wasn't always accurate the performance was a delightful one.

This work is light and appealing, as Hartway's others works are. It describes city life, beginning with church bells on "Sunday Morning," and moves through the week with livelier sounds for "Weekdays" and "Saturday Night."

Larry Nozero, alto saxophone; James Hartway, piano; Peter Dominquez, bass; and James Ryan, drums, all followed the score, improvising during their own solo selections, which is where the work gets its greatest attraction.

THE ORCHESTRA sounded much better Sunday than it did in the spring. There were some pitch problems in the strings in Handel-Kindler's Prelude and Fugue in D minor and a few off pitch notes in Handel-Harty's "Water Music Suite." Overall, the strings have a very full sound, which is evenly blended with a much improved wind section.

The "Water Music Suite" was given a clean performance, especially by the strings, with concise exits and entrances. The winds, except for one or two sections, were exceptionally strong, giving quite a nice rendition of this lovely work.

The concert closed with a commendable interpretation of Rogers' "Victory at Sea," even though the musicians had a full concert of music before this final number.

Hey Parents!

Who was your favorite childhood pal? Tom Sawyer? Charlotte's Web? Old Yeller?

Well, Baskin-Robbins has gathered a list of 31 all-time favorite characters for your children to enjoy.

In Baskin-Robbins 31-derful Book Program we're encouraging youngsters to stop by their nearest Detroit area Baskin-Robbins Store - through December 7 - to pick up a listing of 31-derful books.

After reading one, or all, of these classics your youngster can visit your neighborhood library to take the quiz on the back of the list and the librarian will award your child a certificate of merit for the number of books read - indicated by the number of questions answered correctly.

So, visit Baskin-Robbins today to reacquaint yourself with some old friends...and introduce your children to some new ones.

COUPON

Fonte d'Amore is a happy Italian restaurant

Your traveling taster visits area eateries and rates them on a 100-point scale. Up to 30 points are awarded for ambiance, which includes general atmosphere and service; 55 points for food, and 15 points for price/value rating. A total count of 55 points or less indicates a restaurant is not recommended; 56-74 points signify from passing to good; 75-89 points designate very good with some extraordinary features, and 90-100 points show that a very special dining experience awaits you.

FRONTE D'AMORE, 32030 Plymouth Road, Livonia (422-0770), is a happy, homey taverna-type spot, featuring Italian dishes. The restaurant attracts many neighborhood regulars, and patrons are dressed accordingly — from jeans to suits. The tables have paper placemats on top of tablecloths. A peppy piano player performs on Friday and Saturday nights (and on some Thursdays); Wednesday is opera night. In keeping with its at-home atmosphere, the restaurant is sometimes rather noisy, and during our meal a busboy dumping clean silverware at his service station interrupted all conversation for a few minutes. Reservations are recommended, especially on week-ends. General Atmosphere — 15 points maximum. Points awarded — 11.

We visited Fonte d'Amore on a Friday night. Our reservations were honored immediately. Service was good, and the waitress was helpful in making meal suggestions. Water was refilled regularly, but there was some confusion by the busboy who cleared our table of everything, including silverware, after the appetizers. Later a different busboy forgot to clear our vegetables before dessert. Dinner took about an hour and a half. Service — 15 points maximum. Points awarded — 11.

Drinks were weak, but at $2 for premium brands, not overpriced. Our waitress suggested Mozzarella Al Forno (baked, breaded mozzarella cheese, in a tomato sauce) as an appetizer. It was adequate, but not special. More to our taste was the baked Italian bread with parmesan cheese, tomato and spices. The regular bread was also fresh and tasty. Drinks, Appetizers and Bread — 10 points maximum. Points awarded — 6.

A choice of soup or salad is included with most meals. The minestrone soup was thick and delicious, although it could have been a little hotter. The salad was fresh and the Italian dressing, pleasing but bland. Salad — 5 points maximum. Points awarded — 3.

The waitress recommended Linguine with White Clam Sauce, Italian style, at $8.50 as a pasta dish. If you enjoy this dish with a strong garlic flavor as it's intended to have, then this is for you. Not quite as successful was the Veal del Amore ($10.95), a concoction of tastes that didn't quite work. For some reason, the veal, artichokes, mushrooms and brown sauce did not blend together. The vegetables served with the veal had little taste. Entrée, Vegetables and Garnishes — 30 points maximum. Points awarded — 23.

Fonte d'Amore bakes its own desserts, according to the waitress, and we enjoyed both our fruit flan and our flan with chocolate mousse and Bailey's Cream. At $2.75 each, they were quite reasonably priced. Coffee was a bit weak and a little cool. Dessert and Coffee — 10 points maximum. Points awarded — 8.

Total cost of our meal was under $40 per couple, including tip. We enjoyed the overall feeling of the restaurant and with the amount of food served, you will not leave hungry. Price/Value — 15 points maximum. Points awarded — 13.

A COUNTING FOR TASTE — 100 points maximum. Total points awarded: 75. Fonte d'Amore offers good food, good fun and good feelings. If you're in the neighborhood, enjoy!

D. Gustibus welcomes your reactions, comments and suggestions of favorite restaurants in the Observer & Eccentric, Entertainment Department, P.O. Box 503, Birmingham 48012.

Audience joins in fun

Performances of the Plymouth Theatre Guild production of "For Her C-h-e-ild's Sake" by Paul Loomis continue at 8 p.m. Friday-Saturday at Central Middle School in Plymouth. For ticket information, call 455-5263.

It's audience participation time at the Plymouth Theatre Guild. It's time to boo and hiss the villain — and cheer for the heroine. Yes, it's time to escape reality and plunge gleefully into the fun of an old-fashioned melodrama. "For Her C-h-e-ild's Sake."

A small but enthusiastic opening night audience was into the spirit of things — thanks to a really marvelous performance by Tom Hinks as the villain, Gaylord Duckworth.

Our Mr. Duckworth is a devious and devilish attorney, who attempts to rewrite the will of Marmaduke Paine and claim the estate of the deceased for himself (along with a beautiful young damsel). In fact it seems that Gaylord is romantically linked with every woman on stage at one time or another. You see, the dastardly Duckworth believes everything is fair in love and finances.

And from beginning to end, it's obvious Tom Hinks understands that melodrama is rather like corny farce. And he has the panache and acting technique to exploit every scene to the maximum. Such as when his Gaylord syruply says, "Thank You" to the audience after especially strong boos and hisses.

THE SUPPORTING cast appear to be good performers. In terms of pure acting technique, however, cast members generally need improvement in the all-important style of melodrama — to let loose of reality and play the shallow characters to the hilt and get the most from the unreal and contrived situations.

Special mention goes to Sylvia Lanz for her strong role as Marcella Paine, the head of the household, and to Rachelle Roosa as Pansy Paine, the heroine with a child to support.

Gerry L'Heureux as the butler tells some great stories. Robert Regan is good in two roles, first as Hilary Paine, then as Basil Barrington.

Also appearing are Kathleen Lietz, Anne Marie Furie, Norma Kapell, Julie Heuser and Holly His-song.

Dennis Coleman designed an elegant and tasteful set. Excellent set decorations and props gives the feeling of wealth so vital to the play.

Sue Suchta's costumes and Mary Jo Cobello's makeup also contribute to the style of the show and are uniformly well done.

Festival features holiday trees

Thanksgiving Week marks the debut of the Festival of Trees, a new holiday event, to benefit the Children's Hospital of Michigan. The festival will be open to the public from Wednesday, Nov. 27, through Sunday, Dec. 1, in the Riverview Ballroom at Cobo Hall in Detroit.

A fantasyland will include more than 100 professionally decorated holiday trees and wreaths, a gingerbread village, a model train display, a historical doll display, Santa Claus and continuous entertainment.

Admission is $2 per adult, $1 per child. For pre-sale tickets at $1.50 for adults, 75 cents for children, call 494-5373.

The festival will open at a Preview Party 6:30-10 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 26. Tickets for the Preview Party are $50 per person. For more information, call 494-5373.

Highlighting the festival will be trees decorated by area designers who have donated their talents to trimming a tree according to a selected theme. In addition, the decorated trees will be sold at the Preview Party.

There's a vacation to suit every interest

THE SECRET of travel is knowing what pleases you. Some travelers like to stretch out in the sun by day and play the casinos by night. Others are only satisfied by exploring and studying the culture that surrounds them. If you like to really live the local life in an overseas setting, consider "Irish Studies in the West."

This six-week travel and study experience is offered jointly by the University of Detroit and Oakland University in combination with University College, Cork, and Trinity College, Dublin. It is open to graduate and undergraduate students as well as anyone who can demonstrate some academic proficiency and is willing to take the study portion of the trip seriously. Three to eight semester credits can be earned.

"Irish Studies in the West," which runs from May 10 through June 20, 1986, costs $1,950 plus air transportation. The group will spend one week in Dublin and five weeks in County Kerry, on the west coast of the Republic.

IT HAS been designed to give a rounded picture of Ireland, including its literature, history and people, from both a country and city environment.

The west-coast time will be spent in oceanfront cottages in Dingle Bay in the Ring of Kerry, an area where tiny villages are tucked into coves beside the sea or perched high on the cliffs that edge the Dingle Peninsula near Killarney.

The study sessions will be divided into three parts: medieval and modern Irish history, Gaelic and English language literature, and the geography, archeology, folklore and music of Irish culture.

The most important part of the experience, however, may be the exposure to everyday life in this ancient and still unspoiled area of rural Ireland. If

1-of-a-kind traveler
Iris Jones

you are pleased by exploring and studying the culture that surrounds you when you travel, contact co-directors Margaret Pigott at 370-4131 or Edward J. Wolff at 927-1082; in the evening call 652-3405.

You can also contact Study Abroad, 322 Wilson Hall, Oakland University, Rochester, MI 48063 or Study Abroad, Department of English, University of Detroit, MI 48221. The group has reserved a block of seats through Suburban Travel of Rochester on Northwest Airlines for $517 round-trip from Detroit; discount fares are also offered from some other American cities.

IF YOUR idea of adventure lies in other kinds of travel experiences, consider these possibilities:

• Perhaps your idea of adventure is no radio, no TV, no telephone, no road? Try a vacation at Shepp Ranch on the banks of one of America's wildest rivers, Salmon River, Idaho. Here the mail and any travelers are delivered by air or jet boat only. Once inside the 2-million-acre wilderness, you'll live in a log cabin with fireplace. Twenty-four guests can ride, fish, whitewater raft or soak in a hot tub after a meal of food grown on the ranch.

Contact: Shepp Ranch, Inc., P.O. Box 5446, Boise, Idaho 83750 or call (208-343-7729).

• Off the Deep End Travels at P.O. Box 1196m Gainesville, Fla. 32606-1196 offers what seems to be a real adventure for bicyclists: Bicycling Through Feudal Japan, where the route is arranged to help you explore Japanese history, culture and scenery. You will stay in minshukus, traditional Japanese inns and dine on Japanese cuisine.

Off the Deep End also offers a tour of French Polynesian Islands. From Papeete, Tahiti, bicyclists will island hop to see museums, grottoes, to swim on lovely Polynesian beaches.

• If one member of your family likes bicycle touring, and the other would rather stay in country inns, Bike Vermont has something for everyone. Write for their 1986 Inn to Inn Bicycle Touring Trips Schedule. P.O. Box 207, Woodstock, VT 05091. Call: 802-457-3553.

• For a varied selection of back country travel, American Wilderness Experience, a pioneer in the wilderness business, offers horseback trips to Superstition Mountains in Arizona; canoeing in Pennsylvania's Appalachian River system; whitewater rafting on the Colorado River; or houseboat/horseback combination air, land and water vacations on Lake Powell, Utah. Write for a 1986 schedule to A.W.E., P.O. Box 1486, Boulder, Colo. 80306. Call (303)444-2632.

• Combine rafting and horseback riding on an 11-day adventure trip. There is a four-day float on the scenic Salmon River and a five-day ride through high meadows, forests and craggy buttes as high as 9,000 feet. Or take the Snake River trip — three days rafting and seven days on horseback through Hell's Canyon, North America's deepest gorge.

To find out about these adventures in the spring and summer of 1986 contact: American Forestry Association Trail Riders of the Wilderness, 1319 18th St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036. You must join to qualify. They also have hiking and covered wagon trips.

• Adventure Bound Inc. offers river trips through the alpine canyons of the upper Colorado River beginning at Steamboat Springs, Colo., for one- or two-day adventures. This group also offers one-four-day journeys on the Green River in Utah, the lower Colorado and the North Platte. Write: P.O. Box 125, Mack, Colo. 81525. Call: 800-525-7084.

• You don't have to go west, young man, to find exciting whitewater rafting. After all, it was Huckleberry Finn on the Mississippi who said, "There warn't no place like a raft. You feel mighty free, easy and comfortable on a raft." In the east, it is the New and Gauley Rivers of West Virginia which give adventurers a run for their money.

Class VI River Runners offers several packages for one-, two- or three-day raft trips in addition to winter skiing, kayaking and rock climbing vacations. For the less adventuresome, they also offer canoe and raft rentals through the scenic Class I and II sections of the New River. (Whitewater rivers are classified from I to VI in order of difficulty.) The New River can be compared to the Colorado for difficulty.

It may be too late to reserve space on a raft trip to view West Virginia's "almost heaven" fall colors — the full color lasts until mid-November. But it is not too late to write or call and schedule a rafting trip on the "Grand Canyon of the East." No one under 14 will be permitted on a trip but anyone else "crazy enough to step into a raft" is welcome. Contact: Class VI River Runners, Ames Heights Road, P.O. Box 78, Lansing, W.Va. 25862-0078. Call 304-574-0704.

For those interested in Irish studies, there's added attractions, such as the Shannon Castle Entertainers, shown in 15th-century Bunratty Castle near Shannon International Airport.

Summit should look at needs of the poor

IT'S ENOUGH to make a grown person cry. We spend more money than we can comprehend to buy weapons that we already have enough of to kill every person 10 times. We have no money to help an older person who needs some help in her last days.

This person did everything we make people do before we accept them. She and her husband worked hard and long hours. They were frugal and industrious. They were active in public life. They shared with those who had less. They were good neighbors. They were a great asset to the community.

Retirement has not been the easy life for them. The company he worked for was sold and there was no pension. Health insurance is very expensive and takes a goodly portion of their Social Security income. They scrimped and scraped for their last days.

NOW SHE NEEDS custodial care. Professional nursing care in their home would wipe out their savings in two months. Full-time residential nursing care is out of the question. Their savings disqualify them from any governmental assistance.

She has a simple explanation for their plight. "Your man in Washington did this to us." She isn't attacking my political convictions. She knows that I share hers. She is charging our government with a flagrant disregard for the well-being of its less-than-rich elderly.

Our president is seeking an international plan for peace and well-being. In Geneva on Nov. 19-20, our president will discuss matters of national and international concern with Mikhail Gorbachev. They will discuss arms control, terrorism, regional political problems, human rights and more.

Perhaps the testimony of Isaiah and Jeremiah, Amos and Micah and other Old Testament prophets would be instructive to our president on his way to the summit. "Hear this, you who trample on the needy and destroy the poor of the land... the Lord has sworn by the pride of Jacob; never will I forget a thing you have done" Amos 8:4,7).

Heads of state have been going to summits for countless generations. The heritage of the Judeo-Christian faith is filled with summit negotiations between kings of Israel and kings of neighboring states. Only those summits that dealt seriously with the needs of the poor and the oppressed were ever successful. All the other summits were disasters waiting to be completed.

Ronald Reagan doesn't have to mention the name of my friend to Mikhail Gorbachev. But if he neglects to take up her cause, we can add one more summit to the list of failures through the centuries.

If international plans for peace and well-being do not include the well-being and decency of life for my friend, then that summit will have failed. That is, after all, the success of summits, isn't it... attention to the details of our life together?

Exhibit ready

Putting finishing touches on their paintings to be exhibited in the Adult Education Painting Exhibit at Madonna College are Juan Munoz (left) of Redford and Lillian Gunderson of Detroit. The paintings will be displayed Nov. 3-27 in the gallery adjacent to the college library. The exhibit gallery is open to the public weekdays until 10 p.m. as well on Saturday and Sunday from 1-4 p.m. For more information, call 591-5187. Madonna is at I-96 and Levan Road, Livonia.

church bulletin

● PLYMOUTH CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE

The Treble Clef Choir will appear in concert at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Nov. 15, at Plymouth Church of the Nazarene, 41550 Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth. The choir is from Olivet Nazarene College in Kankakee, Ill. The 43-voice choir will perform a program of anthems, hymn and gospel arrangements and spirituals. A 10-member handbell choir, The Master's Musicians, also will perform. The choir's conductor is Linda Dunbar. For more information, call the church at 453-1525.

● ROSEDALE GARDENS PRESBYTERIAN

The Rev. Ramon Cells from Cancun, Yucatan, Mexico, will deliver the sermon at 10:30 a.m. Sunday, Nov. 17, at Rosedale Gardens Presbyterian Church, Chicago and Hubbard roads, Livonia. Since last year, Cells has worked with an interdenominational missionary organization, LOGOI, which is committed to advancing the church through formal programs of Bible and leadership education for pastors and key leaders throughout Latin America. Cells is the director for Mexico.

● NEWBURG METHODIST

The Junior High Youth Fellowship from Newburg United Methodist Church in Livonia will be on a scavenger hunt 6-8 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 17. Instead of the usual scavenger-hunt items, however, they will be looking for canned goods to give to Cass Community United Methodist Church to support its ministry to the Cass Corridor community. For more information, call the church at 422-0149.

● ST. ANDREW EPISCOPAL

The videotape lecture "How to Raise a Family Without Regret" will be shown at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 20, at St. Andrew Episcopal Church, 16360 Hubbard, Livonia. The tape features the Rev. John MacArthur, pastor of the Word of Grace Ministry in Panorama City, Calif. A discussion will follow the showing of the tape. A donation will be taken.

● BETHEL BAPTIST TEMPLE

Bethel Baptist Temple will have a Families By Faith Revival with the Rev. Ed Holland from Sunday, Nov. 24, to Wednesday, Nov. 27. The services will be at 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. Sunday and at 7:30 p.m. Monday through Wednesday. Everyone attending will receive a free gift, and each family will receive free printed material. There will be special music at each service. Nursery and toddler care will be provided. The church is at 29475 W. Six Mile, Livonia. For more information, call the pastor, the Rev. H.L. Petty, at 525-3664 or 261-9276.

● LIVONIA ASSEMBLY

The film "Joni" will be shown at 6:30 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 24, at Livonia Assembly of God, 33015 W. Seven Mile, Livonia. The film is the story of a young woman's struggle to find a useful life in the wake of an accident that left her handicapped. Joni Eareckson portrays herself in the film.

● CHRISTIAN COMMUNITY

The film "The Prodigal" will be shown at 7 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 16, and 6 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 17, at Christian Community Church, 41355 W. Six Mile, just west of Haggerty, Northville. The film, which stars John Hammond, Hope Lange and John Cullum, examines the spiritual and emotional breakdown of a contemporary American family.

● UNITY OF LIVONIA

Unity of Livonia minister Gene Sorenson will lead a seminar of renewal called "Meditate in Depth" from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 16. He will offer a set of workable meditation techniques. The church is at 26405 Five Mile, Livonia. For more information, call the church at 421-1700.

● CHRIST THE GOOD SHEPHERD

Christ the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church in Canton will be hosting mil-

Dean and Mary Brown to sing at Fairlane

sonary Monthir Abdullatif and his family at a potluck dinner at 6:30 p.m. Friday, Nov. 15. Afterwards, Abdullatif will discuss his background and mission. Born to a Muslim family in Iraq in 1947, Abdullatif was converted to Christianity in 1970. Persecuted in his native land because of his Christian beliefs, he immigrated to the United States with the help of Christian friends.

He operates Light of Light Ministries, 435 W. Seven Mile, an evangelical mission to the Arabic-speaking people in the Detroit area. Those planning to attend the potluck dinner should call Gerri Foxworthy at 469-1900 or the church office at 981-0286. The church is at 42690 Cherry Hill.

● FAIRLANE ASSEMBLY

Dean and Mary Brown will bring their musical ministry to Fairlane Assembly of God in Dearborn Heights Sunday, Nov. 17. They will put on sacred music concerts at the 8, 9:45 and 11:30 a.m. worship services.

The Rev. John A. Booher, senior pastor of Fairlane Assembly, will be the guest speaker for the Senior Adult Fellowship at 7 p.m. Friday, Nov. 15. The group, for all singles, meets at 7 p.m. every Friday at the church, 32878 Ann Arbor Trail, one light east of Telegraph and one block south of Warren Avenue. For more information on the fellowship, call the church office at 261-3309.

● TRANSIDE UNITED METHODIST

The musical group Heartseong will appear at 11 a.m. Sunday, Nov. 17, at Transide United Methodist Church, 22555 W. Warren, Detroit. The group consists of two married couples, Harold and Chris Guttowsky and Gary and Margarite VanderVeen. The church is at the corner of W. Warren and Bramell, one block east of Ann Arbor Trail.

Peace group plans a summit-eve vigil

On eve of the upcoming U.S.-Soviet summit, the Peace Resource Center of Wayne County will have a candlelight vigil.

The vigil will be at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Nov. 18, at Plymouth Road and Middlebelt in Livonia. It will be part of a series of vigils taking place around the world on the eve of the summit, convened specifically to negotiate arms control agreements.

The summit will convene for three days, Tuesday through Thursday, Nov. 19-21. At that time, petitions asking for a Comprehensive Test Ban Treaty will be presented by representatives of the National Nuclear Weapons Freeze

The petition calls for the United States to resume negotiations on a ban to all nuclear weapons tests by all member states of the United Nations possessing nuclear weapons capability. The Peace Center itself has collected more than 5,000 signatures for the petition within three Michigan congressional districts.

Volunteers with high blood pressure sought

Sinai Hospital is looking for volunteers with high blood pressure to participate in a study to test the effectiveness of a new anti-hypertensive drug. Participation in the study requires a one-week stay in Sinai Hospital.

will receive $500, free hospital medical care, a complete medical history and physical, and health counseling in factors affecting blood pressure.
