FREEDOM SINGS: "Let Freedom Sing," a collection of patriotic music, will be presented by the Plymouth Community Chorus at 8 p.m. this Saturday and Sunday at Plymouth Salem High auditorium. The program includes: "Give Me Your Tired, Your Poor;" "The Pledge of Allegiance;" "When the Saints Go Marching In;" "Home on the Range;" "Sincerely;" "Last Words of David;" "America the Beautiful;" "Deep River;" "Camptown Races;" "Upon This Rock;" "Battle Hymn of the Republic;" "Danny Boy;" "How Majestic Is Your Name;" "You Send Me;" "God Bless America" and "Riders in the Sky."

Soloists include Barb Hamel, Dennis Santillan, Dick Schaw, Sherrie Northway and Leslie Morrison. There still are tickets left at $5 for adults and $3 for senior citizens and children at Book Break on Ford Road in Canton, or at Sideways on Forest in Plymouth.

NEW COLLECTION: Now you can catch up on your "reading" while jogging, gardening, cooking or driving to work. The Dunning-Hough Library in Plymouth has added a book tape collection, which features audio books or book cassettes of unabridged books. Many requests for book tapes have been received over the past year, said Mary Curtin, reference librarian, and so the Plymouth Lions Club donated the money for the initial collection. Patrons select the book's title and number from a list kept at the circulation desk and then ask the library staff for the book tape. The collection focuses on fiction but has a smattering of non-fiction. The tapes will circulate for a three-week loan period, with no renewals.

KIWANIS GIVE: The Plymouth Kiwanis Foundation recently donated two wheelchairs to Tonquish Manor for use by senior citizens living there and built a picnic shelter at Plymouth Township Park. The shelter was built mostly with labor by members of the two Kiwanis clubs in Plymouth but the Parish mourns death of priest

"Pastor to his parish — minister to his community."

Kenneth P. MacKinnon
Good Counsel pastor

For the Rev. Kenneth MacKinnon that's an apt description for his life which ended Tuesday morning when he died in St. Mary Hospital, Livonia, after being stricken with a heart attack.

Pastor of Our Lady of Good Counsel Catholic Parish in Plymouth since 1973, MacKinnon had been a priest for some 40 years.

In Plymouth MacKinnon, 67, was an active member of the Board of Directors of the Plymouth Community Fund-United Way and of the Rotary Club of Plymouth which he joined in 1979.

BORN OF Scottish descent in Detroit in 1919, MacKinnon earned a bachelor's in philosophy from Sacred Heart Seminary in Detroit, fulfilled his theological requirement at St. Mary's of the West in Norwood, Ohio, and earned a master's in history at University of Detroit in 1955.

Ordained on Feb. 24, 1945, he celebrated his first Mass at St. Charles Borromeo in Detroit.

A steam railroad and trolley buff, he liked to travel to historic places. He had seen the Battlefield at Gettysburg many times. When visitors would drop by, MacKinnon often would show souvenirs and photos of visits to Scotland — photos of Oban, the well-known port in Argyllshire on the west coast of Scotland, of Skye, the island of the Inner Hebrides long associated with Bonnie Prince Charlie, or of Iona Island, the center of Celtic Christianity where St. Columba landed in 563 to found the famous missionary monastery.

A baseball fan, he was an enthusiastic follower of the Detroit Tigers and enjoyed talking about the sport with informed listeners. An avid reader, MacKinnon enjoyed reading history, biographies, mysteries, and books about the sea. He also had an above-average command of the English language, and an appreciation for grammar, which was evidenced in his sermons.

MACKINNON BEGAN his ministry as associate pastor of St. Thomas Parish in Ann Arbor and associate pastor of St. Rita Parish in Detroit.

In 1950 he was appointed to the faculty of Sacred Heart Seminary in Detroit where he taught history for 15 years.

He then became pastor of Our Queen of Hope in Detroit and then pastor of St. Rita Parish.

MacKinnon came to Plymouth when the Rev. Francis C. Byrne became pastor emeritus in January 1973.

As pastor MacKinnon was responsible for the spiritual welfare of a congregation of about 2,500 families in the parish which includes Five Mile to Schoolcraft on the north, Napier on the west, Newburgh on the east, and Ann Arbor Road on the south.

The parish is one of the oldest in northwest Wayne County, second to St. Mary in Milford. Churches which have evolved from Our Lady of Good Counsel include St. Kenneth on Haggerty, St. John Neumann on Warren in Canton, Divine Savior on Joy east of Haggerty, and St. Thomas 'a Beckett at Lilley and Cherry Hill in Canton.

THE FUNERAL service will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday in Our Lady of Good Counsel with burial at Holy Sepulchre Cemetery in Southfield.

Visitation will be from noon to 9 p.m. today in Schrader Funeral Home and from noon to 9 p.m. with vespers at 8 p.m. Friday in the church.

Memorial contributions may be made in the form of Mass offerings or to the Norris-La Follette Mission in care of Our Lady of Good Counsel Church.

He is survived by cousins, Donald MacKinnon of Bradenton, Fla., Robert MacKinnon of Allen Park, and Veronica Wallace of Southfield.

Master stroke Watercolors make big splash

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

At one time, watercolor painting was considered a kid's art form — a medium a "serious" artist might use to sketch an idea before conveying it in oils on canvas.

But that's changed.

The number of artists choosing the medium has grown, along with the number of major watercolor exhibits. And featured at several local and even national exhibits in recent years is the work of a former Plymouth woman.

Of the 100 or so watercolors Johnnie Crosby creates each year in a basement studio, several have earned awards and critics' notice. Take Crosby's "Glass Shelf," currently featured in an Ann Arbor exhibit of women's art.

In the Ann Arbor News, critic John Carlos Cantu wrote, "Glass Shelf" lifts a cup, sunglasses and a pearl brooch out of their context into the realm of art. Crosby's talent is worth watching develop.

THAT TALENT began to develop when Crosby, 70, once a traditional oil painter, tried watercolors at a friend's suggestion. "The reason I have explored watercolors after painting in oils and acrylics as well as sculpture is that I enjoyed . . . the spontaneity and wonderful accidents that can occur with watercolor," she says.

Crosby has had solo shows at the University of Michigan, shown work at the American Watercolor Exhibit in New York City, sold watercolors to corporate clients, and has exhibited work on the Michigan Art Train and at several universities.

Now, Crosby works mainly in transparent watercolor.

"It's not opaque; you don't cover up with it," she explains. "The white of the paper comes through and gives a living feeling to it. That's why watercolors are more interesting than oils — that living quality."

That quality is well-suited to Crosby's usual subject matter — nature. A realistic watercolor study of pink tulips is the focal point of the living room of her Northville Township home. But she's also depicted nature in a more impressionistic manner, as in "Maple Seed," which portrays a dark tangle of branches.

ONE OF CROSBY'S favorites depicts two weathered, wooden fishing boats casting shadows spreading like murky puddles under an overcast sky.

Another, titled "Fragments," captures the earth colors and rectangular shape of an American Indian blanket. Grays in the collage suggest late fall or winter. "It's just the feeling of the life that they led — the cold."

Among several works commissioned by businesses is Crosby's "Corporation Puppet." Against a white background suggesting the company, workers appear as one-dimensional, floundering puppets, strings and all.

Crosby says her style has been influenced by some major American watercolor artists she's taken classes from. And membership in

Police, firefighters reap accolades

By Doug Funke
staff writer

So, you think firefighters spend all of their time sitting around the station shooting the breeze and playing cards? And the only time a cop happens upon the scene is to "unjustly" issue you a traffic ticket?

Well, ladies and gentlemen, you'd be wrong. Very wrong.

Just consider the accomplishments of local public safety officials who were chosen by their supervisors as police officers and firefighters of the year for 1985.

All were honored last weekend during a Recognition Night banquet sponsored by American Legion Passage-Gayde Post 391.

Three police officers — Richard

Webster, 38, Mel Meck, 35, and Craig Schwartz, 25 — were selected as a team by Richard Myers, police chief in the city of Plymouth.

The three work together from 7 p.m. to 7 a.m. seven out of every 14 days. Webster, the platoon leader, is a traffic specialist. Meck specializes in crime prevention and Schwartz as an evidence technician and investigator.

HIGH-VISIBILITY patrol and in-depth investigations are their trademarks, Myers said.

Since last June, the Webster-Meck-Schwartz team has accounted for 40 percent of all arrests made by the department and has issued 56 percent of all traffic violations, Myers said.

"They take a personal interest in the cases they handle and often provide the incentive or extra effort to conclude an investigation," he said.

Robert Antal, 25, was named Plymouth Township's first police officer of the year. His heroics during off-duty hours won him the nod.

Antal noticed smoke in the area of Ann Arbor Road and I-275 while on his way home from work last October. He elected to investigate and came upon a garage fire on Eckles Road.

Antal roused the family living there and summoned firefighters. The fire was confined to the attached garage.

"Your warnings have saved us countless hardship, and in fact our very lives," the residents subsequently wrote to him in appreciation.

"I BELIEVE that this unselfish act demonstrates Officer Antal's true dedication to his profession and to the citizens of the Plymouth Township community," said Fire Chief Larry Groth.

Antal joined the department when it was organized last June.

Paul Rainey, 25, was selected as Plymouth Township's firefighter of the year. Ironically, the act for which he was honored occurred in the city of Plymouth.

"I was inside the bank (at Penniman and Main), somebody came in and said a lady collapsed on the roadway," Rainey said. "I identified myself to the teller who was attending to me and said I was going to help her and to call an ambulance.

"The lady was unconscious and convulsing," he continued. "I grabbed my first aid box and rendered what aid I could until the ambulance arrived."

Rainey said he never did find out how her story ended at the hospital — one of the frustrating aspects of the job.

Rainey, a six-year veteran, joined the department soon after graduating from Plymouth Canton High School.

Richard Hill, 53, retired as a volunteer firefighter in the city of Plymouth last December with 20 years of service.

Board gives OK to sale of historic school

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

The sale of historic Cherry Hill School to Canton Township has been authorized by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education. But township officials differ on whether a plan to renovate the building will be completed in time to satisfy state grant requirements.

"I think it's going to be a problem," said James Poole, Canton Township Supervisor. "You have to get architects, you have to get bids, and you have to get the job done."

Poole said the township would likely request a time extension on the $99,500 grant awarded last December to rehabilitate the 110-year-old structure by the end of this year.

The Board of Education action clears the way for the former school to eventually function as a meeting place for various service groups, following rehabilitation.

THE SCHOOL board Monday directed Superintendent John Hoben to sell the school, at Cherry Hill and Ridge in Canton, to the township for $25,000 — the price agreed to by both the school district and the township.

"It's going to be open to all the service groups in Canton," explained Kim Scherschigt, Canton community and economic development research associate. Scherschigt wrote the application for the state grant awarded to the township to rehabilitate the structure.

"We'll really add nothing to it; we'll just improve what's basically there," Scherschigt said. While no timetable for rehabilitation has been set, she said work should be finished

"hopefully by the first of the year."

Built in 1876, the building served as a one-room school house until Henry Ford donated money for an addition. In 1945, Ford added the school to the Greenfield Village Edison School System. Cherry Hill School remained part of this system until Ford's death in 1947, when it was returned to the Plymouth School District.

BEFORE THE school district could sell the school, the Henry Ford Museum Edison Institute had to agree to remove a provision from its quit-claim deed on the property, which restricted use to school purposes.

By request of Canton Township, the institute removed the provision in March on the condition the building be used by the public.

School administrators say they plan to use money from the sale for school programming, as yet undetermined.

An earlier plan for Canton to build sidewalks along children's school routes in exchange for Cherry Hill School was scrapped when township and school district officials couldn't agree on a plan.

Survey uncovers growing companies

The Plymouth community received overall high marks from manufacturers here, according to the results of a Michigan Bell survey aimed at retaining and expanding business.

The study is designed to profile the manufacturing sector of the city of Plymouth and Plymouth Township and identify what the community offers its manufacturers.

In addition, the study attempts to pinpoint manufacturing concerns and recommend solutions.

"Overall, the Plymouth community received high marks because of its community support and pride and good location," said Marcia Buhl, local corporate affairs manager for Michigan Bell.

The Project Key task force, which directed the survey, chaired by Vic Wilkinson, consisted of representatives of the city, township, Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce, business and community leaders.

Among the survey findings Wilkinson pointed to was that 89 percent of the respondents rated the Plymouth area as "excellent" to "good" as a place to conduct business.

Also significant, he added, was that 27 percent of the respondents plan to expand existing facilities. The total of these expansions will result adding more than 230,000 square feet of building space.

Some 60 percent also indicated they plan some form of modernization to existing facilities.

The concerns manufacturers had primarily centered on high taxes.

The complete results of the study will be presented to the business community in June.

Involved in the business retention survey was a team of volunteers who contacted executives in 86 of the 100 participating manufacturing firms in the Plymouth area to get their views on sales, labor conditions, community and governmental relations.

Michigan Bell has completed similar studies in many communities, including Livonia, Westland, Southfield, Troy and Brighton and has a number of such studies in progress.

Art auction Special Olympians to benefit

A benefit art auction to raise funds for Special Olympics will be held this Saturday at Frameworks in Plymouth.

The fund-raiser for Special Olympics, a program for mentally impaired students, is sponsored by Frameworks, the Plymouth-Canton Civitans, and the Association for Retarded Citizens.

More than 120 framed pieces of artwork will be auctioned, including a wide range of original etchings and watercolors, limited edition reproductions from wildlife and marine artists, collector plates, and inexpensive posters and prints.

A special donation from Peter Rockwell, who is currently sculpting a play sculpture for Plymouth Township, to be auctioned will be a bronze sculpture entitled "Vicki's Partner."

Also up for auction will be merchandise and services including getaway weekends, dinners and gift certificates.

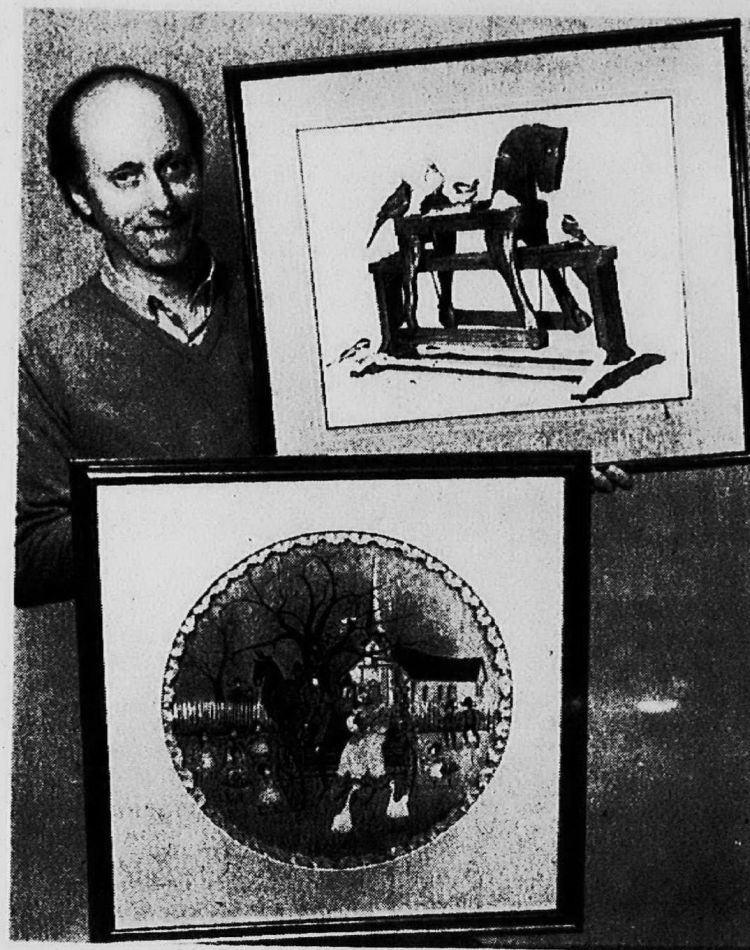

The auction will be from 7 to 9:30 p.m. Saturday, May 17, at Frameworks which is located at 833 Penniman Ave. in Plymouth, west of Main Street and across from the post office.

Al Larson, owner of Frameworks, says his frame shop and gallery has sponsored two auctions to benefit mentally impaired children — the first in 1982 and the most recent in 1984. In 1982, the auction raised $2,000 and in 1984 about $5,000.

All items to be auctioned are on display for those who may not be able to attend, but wish to enter a silent bid.

Among the 50 artists who have donated items for the auction are: P. Buckley Moss, nationally known for her depiction of the Amish of the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia; Cathy McClung, featured artist of next year's Wildlife Habitat Show; Russell Cobane, winner of this year's Michigan Duck Stamp contest; and Tom Hale, gold medal of honor award winner, American Watercolor Society.

Canton excels at trial

By Doug Funke
staff writer

You can add several more names to the champion "lawyer" roster that includes Perry Mason, Joyce Davenport and Marshall Owen.

How about Cathy Farrell and Evan Yeung? Not to mention James Farrell and Hugh Nelson.

Those four — along with four other Plymouth Canton High School students — were co-champions last weekend at the Michigan High School Mock Trial Tournament with students from Troy High School.

Thirty-nine teams participated in the competition sponsored by the University of Detroit Law School.

Each school's team was comprised of eight students — two prosecuting attorneys and two prosecution witnesses, two defense lawyers, the accused and a defense witness.

One school's prosecuting team went against another's defense team and vice versa.

ALL SCHOOLS were given the same basic facts and general witness statements about a shoplifting case. They then had to develop strategies to obtain a conviction or acquittal depending on their orientation. Practicing attorneys served as judges.

What made Canton's triumph even more exciting is that its entire prosecution team — Farrell, Yeung, Linda Tarhanich and David Harte — replaced a quartet originally selected to compete but instead opted to participate in a makeup track meet against arch-rival Plymouth Salem.

"It was a dilemma," said Audrey Etienne, a teacher at Canton and coach of the mock court team. "I understood. The track team has 50 kids. They've been practicing for years. They didn't wait until the last minute. They gave all their notes and encouragement to the juniors who went."

As things turned out, both of Canton's mock trial and track teams prevailed.

The veteran defense team — Farrell, Nelson, Ravinder Dhaliwal and Stacey Jasnowski — competed together last year when Canton placed second overall.

"They are just so high about this," Etienne said. "We spent 6-9 p.m. Saturday sitting around my house to unwind."

ALL CANTON students were invited to try out for the mock court team, Etienne said. "I didn't pick my four best government students and four best international relations students. Eight teams (32 students) followed through."

They spent many weeks preparing their cases.

"I called local lawyers and asked if they were willing to help," Etienne said. "They were wonderful. I called 14 lawyers and got 14 yeses."

Michael Pollard and Stephen Boak drew special praise, as did Judge James Garber of the 35th District Court.

"Every year, the reason we do well is Judge Garber comes out to our school on Law Day (May 1) and hears our cases. We go with whoever he says."

Two days before the competition at U-D, Garber gave some last-minute advice after hearing Canton's prosecution and defense cases, Etienne said.

ONE OF the most rewarding aspects of the entire program is getting students involved in the legal process, even those who just watch the intra-school competition, which results in the selection of Canton's team.

Those who actually participated learned more.

"We had 32 kids who got to meet with attorneys for hours and see how the law works," Etienne said. "These kids are so good, you can't help but be impressed with what they learn about law."

Not to mention logic, human interaction and competition.

"It's an opportunity for kids to really excel," Etienne said. And that they did.

"I DON'T believe in honoring someone posthumously," said Fire Chief Al Matthews, who selected Hill as Firefighter of the Year. "He had to retire for medical reasons. He's a dedicated firefighter. He's always gone out of his way to help us train additional men. A lot of this is unpaid. "He started off as a firefighter.

Now, he was classified as an engineer... which is a very vital role," Matthews added. Hill's responsibilities included regulating hose pressures at fire scenes. "He's a very conscientious worker. He goes beyond what is required," Matthews said. Three other persons were honored during Recognition Night.

Patti Lute, a Canton resident, was selected American Legion Post 391 citizen of the year. She was cited for her work with the YMCA Indian Guide program. Kristene Rautio of First of America and developer Robert DeMattia were named businessperson and industrialist of the year, respectively, by the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce.

local coordinators by the American Institute for Foreign Study Scholarship Foundation of Greenwich, Conn. The coordinators are now seeking area host families for English-speaking foreign students from all over the world who will arrive in the U.S. in August to stay for an academic year here. Griffing and Massey can match a student's interest to a host family and screen applications for a good match. For more information contact Massey at 451-2007 or Griffing at 459-8049.

Speaking of exchange students, word has been received that Timothy Stahl and Tanya Bomback, both from Plymouth, have been accepted by Youth For Understanding International Student Exchange to become American overseas students.

They are among some 2,000 high school students selected by Youth For Understanding to visit 24 different countries to live with selected host families.

GETS THE DEGREE: Three Plymouth residents are members of a class of 160 Masons from 11 southeastern Michigan counties who received Scottish Rite Freemasonry's 33rd Degree at the final session of the 300th Reunion held April 26 at Detroit's Masonic Temple. They were Christopher E. Strong of Greenview Place, Thomas C. Nichols of Marc Trail, and Frederick C. Eisenlord of Brownell. The class was named in memory of Dr. Howard P. Staub, medical director of the Lincoln-Mercury Division until retiring in 1966.

several Michigan artist groups has encouraged a sense of community. "You have to have a sounding board."

A watercolor begins with a paper background, the whiter the better. Crosby makes her own. "You take old sheets; you tear them up and beat it to a pulp. You take batches of it and put it on a screen... I use only the highest quality white paper and this is the brilliant, crisp contrast that I use for dramatic effects in my paintings."

THE PAPER is tacked to a plywood board. Earth pigments mixed with water are applied by hair or sable brushes of various widths.

"Some of the important considerations involved in organizing a painting are the visual impact upon the first impression of the painting," Crosby explains. Distribution of light and dark, originality, and personal expression also are important.

Watercolor painting, she says, is harder to control than oil painting, where mistakes are easily covered. Before starting a watercolor, she says "Sometimes, I do a thumbnail sketch; sometimes, I just go in and work."

Crosby says that through her art, she's learned patience. But when it comes to painting, she says too much patience can inhibit creativity.

"When I first started out, I was much freer," Crosby says, adding she's a very careful painter today. "I think the competition does it. When you have 3,000 artists trying to get into exhibitions, boy, that's competition."

This past winter, Crosby painted in Spain while staying with friends there. But she's painted in Europe before, as well as Alaska, Hawaii, and other parts of the United States.

In Plymouth, her works are currently displayed at Frameworks II, the Plymouth Arts Council, and the Bon Homme Restaurant

Feds can't pay for river cleanup — Rep. Ford

By Tedd Schneider
staff writer

Local governments can still seek help from the federal government on environmental projects such as the Rouge River cleanup but the government can't provide money, according to U.S. Rep. William D. Ford, D-Taylor.

Ford said Monday that funds traditionally earmarked for such projects have been disappearing under the defense-heavy budgets proposed by the Reagan Administration in recent years.

He suggested that the government can help, though, by passing legislation such as the Clean Water Act.

"Legislation that helps police industry" may be the only tactic left for those hoping to curb Rouge River and other environment abuses, he said.

MANY SEWAGE treatment systems "built only 20 years ago can't handle today's industrial waste,

much of which is non-biodegradable products," Ford said. "We need more sophisticated and extensive treatment programs."

Ford, who is seeking a 12th term in Congress, addressed a wide range of topics during an interview with editors and reporters from the Observer and Eccentric Newspapers.

His district includes Garden City, Westland, Canton Township and the southern part of Livonia. It also includes in Wayne County the cities of Belleville, Romulus, Taylor, Wayne, and parts of Dearborn Heights and Southgate as well as Huron, Sumpter and Van Buren townships. The district also takes in parts of Washtenaw County.

Ford, who serves as a ranking member of the House subcommittee on post secondary education and on elementary, secondary and vocational education, said priorities in the House may be shifting in favor of education funding for the first time since 1980.

HE SAID $1.2 billion for education programs was added to the 1986-1987 budget.

Ford, considered a Congressional expert on education, says his two biggest accomplishments in his 22 years in Congress were passage of the middle income student assistance act and the higher education amendments (both of which he authored) six years ago.

He cautioned that the way to ensure survival of vocational education programs is to use local and state funds in addition to federal money.

Ford said the Wayne-Westland Schools' vocational/technical center named after him, is a good example of a project realizing its goals through multi-level funding.

The congressman also commented on tax reform, federal revenue sharing and national health insurance during an hour-long interview.

FORD SAID he had mixed feelings about the tax reform proposal passed by the Senate Finance Committee last week (the Packwood proposal).

"Overall, it's a good direction to go," Ford said. But he said, "What's good for people (in Louisiana, Oklahoma and Texas) who are interested in oil wells, may not be good for blue collar-service industry families in the $20,000-$40,000 (annual income) range."

Families from the latter group make up a large portion of the 15th District.

WSU Press will reprint state's classics

Wayne State University Press has started "Great Lakes Books," a series devoted to Michigan and the Great Lakes region.

Dr. Robert Mandel, director of WSU Press, said the series will reissue out-of-print titles which can truly be called "Michigan classics" because of their historic, personal, or human interest value, and publish new titles which have a state or regional focus.

"We anticipate that the series will have great appeal for the general reader with an interest in books about the state. There is also a burgeoning enthusiasm for state and regional studies in our colleges and universities.

"In addition, local historians, preservation groups, and genealogists are always looking for materials for historical research and documentation. Our goal is to include titles in the series to satisfy the needs of this broad readership," he said.

PHILIP MASON, professor of history serves as the series editor. He is joined by 18 advisory editors from across the state.

Mason said, "There are firsthand accounts, some from the early nineteenth century, which give a picture of the life and customs of the time, Indian captivity narratives, scientific studies, travel narratives, and immigrant guides.

"We have also received a number of new manuscripts which the board must consider. In fact, the real challenge is to decide what to publish first."

Included among the first "classic" titles under consideration by the series editors are "Land of the Crooked Tree" by U.P. Hedrick, "Freshwater Fury" by Frank Barcus, and "Michigan Place Names" by Walter Romig.

Two new manuscripts are also being evaluated — "The Last Wilderness: Tales from the Upper Peninsula" by John Barlow Martin and "The Jewish Community of Detroit 1762-1914" by Robert A. Rockway.

In addition to the books scheduled for this fall, new titles will be added on a regular basis.

Davis and Henderson named to hall of fame

Dunbar Davis and Frank Henderson are the latest names to be added to the Plymouth Hall of Fame.

The Plymouth Kiwanis Club this week announced that for 1986 the two people to be added to the Hall of Fame, at the Plymouth Cultural Center, will be Judge Davis and the late Mr. Henderson.

The awards dinner will be 6:30 p.m. Thursday, June 3, at the Cultural Center. Tickets at $15 each can be obtained from Kiwanis Club members or by calling Eric Colthurst at 455-9000.

Henderson was founder of Plymouth Plating, a firm that operated in the city of Plymouth for many years and now is on Joy in Plymouth Township. He was active in Plymouth Rotary as a past president and district governor, and was active in several other organizations.

A former justice of the peace and municipal judge, Davis was the first 35th District Judge elected to serve Plymouth-Canton-Northville residents. Before that he had practiced law 30 years in Plymouth. He retired as district judge in 1984 after holding that position for 16 years.

The Plymouth Kiwanis Club has sponsored the Hall of Fame since 1980.

Oakwood-Canton offers speech workshop

A two-day workshop on cued speech is being offered by the speech pathology department of Oakwood Hospital/Canton Center.

The workshops will be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Friday through Saturday, May 30-31, at the Plymouth Hilton Inn. The workshop is $40 per person and pre-registration is required. Sign up by calling 459-7030.

Cued speech is a series of hand signals that clarifies lip reading and promotes the continued growth of lip-reading skills.

The workshop is designed for hearing-impaired children and adults, families of hearing-impaired people, audiologists and educators of the hearing-impaired.

The cued speech system, used in conjunction with conversational speech, involves using eight finger-hand signals to indicate specific speech sounds such as "ME," "B" and "P" which look identical when formed by the lips.

"It has been effective in helping the hearing-impaired individual to monitor articulation skills," says Lorraine Zaksek, Canton Center speech pathologist. "It is particularly effective in stimulating new vocabulary in hearing-impaired children."

The basic workshop provides participants with primary knowledge of the system and the ability to slowly cue anything said. It is designed to provide sufficient knowledge to allow participants to complete mastery of the system through self-instruction, practice, and usage.

The workshop instructor is Mary E. Sbaitte, executive director of the Cued Speech Center in Raleigh, N.C.

Adds specialist

Judith Darlington has been added to the staff of Plymouth Family Service as a substance abuse specialist. Darlington, who earned a bachelor's degree from MSU and her master's degree in social work from U-M, will expand the agency's substance abuse services. She particularly will be developing services for women with substance abuse problems.

Voters League tries to arrange debate in county exec race

By Teri Banas
staff writer

The Metropolitan Detroit League of Women Voters is drafting plans for a televised debate among candidates for the Wayne County executive.

League President Joann Roberts was optimistic about the group's plans, but said the final outcome rested on a number of factors, including whether negotiations with local television stations were successful.

Though the major stations have been contacted, none have responded as yet, she said this week.

A few outside sponsors, still unnamed, have expressed an interest and would assist the league, she said. "We're hoping we'll have everything in place around the June 3 (filing) deadline," she said.

THE PROJECT came in response to a request made last March by one of the candidates, county Commission Chairman John Hertel of Harper Woods. Hertel asked that the league sanction a series of debates among the candidates for public broadcast.

Making a "challenge" to the other candidates in the field, Hertel said the debates could heighten voter interest in the Aug. 5 primary while decreasing the "artificial effects of paid political advertising."

He had asked that the debates be held in four locations throughout the county for accessibility to all residents.

At that time, Roberts noted it was difficult to get cooperation from local stations. In Wayne County's first executive race four years ago, each of the area's major local stations turned them down, she said.

The last time a league forum in a local executive race was carried was in 1980 in Oakland County, she noted, though the same station, Channel 2, was uninterested four years later.

SHE EARLIER said there has been more success in convincing local cable television to carry the programs, though arrangements are complex. Because there are multiple cable TV firms within an area, the program tapes must be individually distributed to the various firms in the area. And most require long lead times.

Besides that, the forums are not well-attended. "People find all kinds of excuses (not to attend) unless there's something horribly controversial or some colorful slant," she said.

The league's Detroit area leadership discussed the project again at a meeting on Tuesday.

Two other candidates this week said they would be willing to accept a debate challenge.

Sheriff Robert Ficano said through Nancy Mouradian he would attend. Mouradian said a number of television stations already have contacted Ficano about that question this week.

Candidate Sam Turner, a Detroit county commissioner, said he had no reservations, adding "Where ever people want to talk about the campaign, I'll be there."

Livonia Mayor Edward H. McNamara and Assistant County Executive Frank Wilkerson could not be reached for comment.

UM-D adopts 6 goals in new 5-year plan

The University of Michigan-Dearborn has adopted a set of six campus-wide goals to guide it over the next five years.

The goals are outlined in a 29-page Campus Planning Statement developed by a committee of administrators, deans, faculty and students. It was chaired by UM-Dearborn Chancellor William A. Jenkins.

"This statement will serve as a guide to administrators and faculty as they make decisions affecting budgets, academic programs, facilities, organization and personnel," says Chancellor Jenkins.

The Planning Committee identified several factors that "profoundly affect the welfare of the Campus, but over which UM-D exerts little or no control."

THE SIX goals, by priority, are:

1. To maintain and enhance academic programs and research opportunities.
2. To continue the university's commitment to the principles of affirmative action.
3. To generate a steady increase in student headcount enrollment during the next five years, from the current 6,600 to approximately 6,900.
4. To improve the physical facilities and equipment on the campus.
5. To maintain and expand UM-D's involvement with business, civic and educational communities in the area.
6. To offer students an appropriate campus environment and support services for both co- and extra-curricular activities.

UM-Dearborn will "uphold the standards of excellence associated with the University of Michigan by attracting a highly qualified teaching and research faculty and a diversified, academically qualified undergraduate and graduate student body."

ADDITIONAL STATE and annual extramural funding will be required if UM-D is to increase faculty compensation to competitive levels, enlarge its scholarship funds, enhance research opportunities, and undertake facilities developments not specifically funded by the state, according to the statements.

UM-Dearborn will not lower standards for admission or graduation in its quest for modest enrollment growth, notes Chancellor Jenkins in a concluding statement.

Rouge Friends ask for helpers

The Livonia-based Rouge River Watershed Council is looking for people to answer phone lines and prepare mailings for the upcoming "Rouge Rescue '86."

The council's executive director, Bruce Monson, said volunteers are needed during weekday office hours between 8:30 a.m. and 6 p.m. The volunteers would be working with the project's special arm, the Friends of the Rouge.

Phone operators would be asked to pass along information about the group's 17 planned clean-up sites for the June 7 project.

The number to call is 42-ROUGE. The watershed office is located on Farmington Road, between Plymouth and Schoolcraft roads.

GOP blitz

Kemp leads attack on Democratic stronghold

By Diane Gale
staff writer

U.S. Congressman Jack Kemp, R-New York, in Canton last week to rally Republicans in the 15th Congressional District, called the GOP the party which best represents "growth, jobs, opportunity and the American dream."

Kemp delivered his comments to a crowd of mostly campaign volunteers and precinct delegate candidates.

He was among a host of national, state and local Republicans who stopped in to woo the 15th District, which includes in Wayne County Canton, Garden City, Westland and part of Livonia as well as Belleville, Romulus, Taylor, Wayne, part of Dearborn Heights and the townships of Huron, Sumpter and Van Buren.

In an interview, Kemp described the GOP as being making new appeals to traditional Democratic voters such as blacks, college students and young people and targeting the 15th District as a district which could swing into Republican ranks.

THE DISTRICT has been represented for 22 years by U.S. Rep. William D. Ford, D-Taylor.

'We feel Bill Ford (U.S. Rep. William Ford, D-Taylor) is not nearly as strong as he was in the past because there are more Republicans.'

— Spencer Abraham
state GOP chairman

"We have to show our young people the party of the future is the Republican Party and the party of the past is the Democratic Party," Kemp said.

Speaking about the GOP effort, he said: "In some areas change is rapid and in others it's like pulling teeth. We should be a people party. There are some people in our party who still want it to be an elitist party."

Kemp's remarks were supported by other GOP figures. U.S. Rep. Newt Gingrich of Georgia said: "It's important that the Republican party become the party of opportunity in the country — reaching out to new voters to the left wing Democratic party and saying 'you have a new home'."

JEB BUSH, pinch-hitting for his father, vice president George Bush, noted the turn-out at the picnic/rally organized by Terri Bennett, chairwoman of the 15th Republican District.

He said the attendance shows the growing enthusiasm for the Republican Party.

Bennett is concentrating on enlisting candidates to run for Republican precinct delegate in the 15th District. Filing deadline for delegate nominations is 4 p.m. May 27 at a city or county clerk's office. The filing deadline for candidates is June 3.

Working as a delegate is an "opportunity to get involved in grass root politics," Bennett said. There are about 430 delegate posts in the district. Precinct delegates will be elected in the primary, Aug. 5.

STATE GOP chairman E. Spencer Abraham claimed the 15th and 12th congressional districts — the eastern parts of Macomb and St. Clair counties — are two districts in Michigan where the voters are switching from the Democratic to Republican party.

State Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville, whose district includes Canton, Plymouth, Livonia and Redford Township, said Canton's growing population makes it one of the most important areas in the 15th.

State Rep. Lyn Banks, R-Livonia, said she believed the 15th district is the "one to watch."

"I think if the 15th changes then Michigan will change," Banks said. "It's a real indication of the future of Michigan."

Noting that Michigan will be the first state in the nation to hold its precinct delegate election, Kemp said:

"Every district is important but you can't win all the games unless you win the first one."

KEMP DECLINED to say who he supports in the Michigan gubernatorial race but he said he was "pleased to see" William Lucas running.

GOP gubernatorial candidates Lucas, Dick Chrysler and Dan Murphy briefly spoke to the crowd and cited a need to replace Gov. James Blanchard.

GOP speakers spoke at length about the need to elect a Republican to replace Rep. Ford.

Potential presidential candidate Jack Kemp drew a circle of admirers when he appeared in Canton last week.

Road improvements planned

Wayne County Executive William Lucas has announced an $8 million county road improvement program involving 33 separate projects.

Funded through a bond program, half of the project cost replaces $4 million worth of federal funds that have been cut.

Western Wayne County projects include:

- In Livonia — Joy, between Middlebelt and Inkster; and Joy, between Wayne and Hix.
- In Redford — Six Mile, between Beech Daly and Telegraph, and Joy, between Beech Daly and Telegraph.

- In Plymouth Township — Lilley, between Joy and Warren; and Ann Arbor Trail, between McClumpha and Sheldon.

- In Canton Township — Cherry Hill, between Beck and Canton Center.

- In Northville Township — Seven Mile, between Beck and Ridge.

In addition, grade work will be done on Beck, between Five Mile and Six Mile, and on Warren, between Canton Center and Beck.

Township may form violations bureau

Persons who want to plead guilty to parking tickets issued by Plymouth Township police officers and to other local ordinance citations soon may be able to pay fines at township hall.

Currently, all pleas are taken and fines paid at the 35th District Court building.

A violations bureau would enable the township to keep all the revenue collected from tickets paid there rather than split the money with the district court, said Supervisor Maurice Breen.

Also, he suggested, a local violations bureau would be a convenience to some township residents.

Lawyers will prepare an ordinance outlining the details of how such a bureau would work, then present it to the township board for adoption.

"I'd like to have it in operation by July 1," Breen said.

The violations bureau would accept payment only from persons who don't want to contest tickets. Anyone wishing to challenge a police officer or building official would take the matter to district court.

"We had this about four years ago. It got cumbersome," Breen said. The treasurer's office would be the most logical collection agency.

Breen said he doubts that township employees would be subject to any extra harassment or danger as collection agents when people come in to pay fines.

Employees sometimes already take heat when people pay their property taxes, he said.

"There's a possibility there may be more personnel, but we don't anticipate it," Breen said of staffing levels.

Firefighters investigate possible arsons in city

Fire and police investigators have a couple of leads on who may have touched off a small fire at a retail/residential building late Sunday night on Wing Street, said Plymouth Fire Chief Al Matthews.

He declined to elaborate.

A second fire reported less than a half hour later to a car on Evergreen has been classified as suspicious. Investigators are looking into the possibility that the two incidents are related.

The fires occurred about a quarter of a mile apart.

Tenants on Wing extinguished a fire in a box of Christmas ornaments near an exit door before firefighters arrived, Matthews said.

"If it hadn't been for smoke detectors alerting residents, the fire would have got way out of hand," he said. "There is no evidence of anything accidental."

No damage or injuries resulted. A tenant reported the fire at 11:05 p.m.

Twenty-three minutes later, firefighters were called to Evergreen and discovered the interior of a Toyota engulfed in flames. Damage was estimated at $2,000.

"We're classifying it as suspicious," the chief said.

It was just last week that Matthews accepted a resolution from the city commission declaring May 4-10 as Arson Awareness Week in Plymouth.

"It's been quiet up to now and suddenly, bam," he said. "The last arson we had was early last year."

Youth Injured pole vaulting

A 16-year-old Canton resident was slightly injured while trying to pole vault at a track meet last Thursday afternoon at Livonia Franklin High School.

A Livonia fire emergency rescue vehicle took the youth to St. Mary Hospital as a precautionary measure. The incident took place around 3:58 p.m.

Bystanders said the Plymouth-Canton High School student was making a pole vault attempt but couldn't get up enough speed to rise in the air, according to reports. He struck the ground and was knocked unconscious.

School officials kept the teen immobile. He was alert and responsive, wasn't bleeding and was breathing normally when the rescue vehicle arrived, reports said. He suffered a bruise to his head.

IF ONLY THE GOVERNMENT SPENT OUR TAX DOLLARS AS SCRUPULOUSLY AS THEY COLLECT THEM.

Last year, the federal government collected over $300 billion in personal income taxes.

Money that was used to take care of the needy. To run the country. And to protect it. But that's not all it was used for.

THE
SPENDERS.

Your taxes also went to pay $435 for a $7 hammer. $7,417 for a 1-cent pin. And $511 for a 60-cent light bulb.

In a single year, the government gives away over $5 billion in benefit payments. Totally by mistake.

And the government not managing its money properly costs taxpayers over $2 billion every year.

These incidents of inefficiency and mismanagement are so vast they could fill a book. (To be exact, they fill over 21,000 pages of documents in the President's Private Sector Survey on Cost Control.)

Yet as wasteful as they are, they're not the problem, just the symptoms.

The problem is a system of inefficient government procedures and practices that allows them to happen. Out-dated policies and controls that are out of control and threatening the interests of all Americans.

IS AMERICA
GOING TO WASTE AWAY?

America is staring straight down the barrel of a financial disaster. The federal deficit is closing in on $200 billion a year. The national debt has already reached an unimaginable $1.8 trillion.

One of our only chances to head off disaster is to stop wasting our tax dollars.

That's why we formed Citizens Against Government Waste.

GOVERNMENT WASTE?

Citizens Against Government Waste is a non-profit educational foundation made up of concerned citizens. Democrats, Republicans, Conservatives, Liberals.

Taxpayers just like you, who are extremely concerned with how their tax money is being mismanaged.

To that end, we've established a toll-free phone number: 1-800-USA-DEBT. By calling it, you can receive information that will give you a better understanding of the real magnitude and consequences of government waste. And what you can actually do about it.

So call, or write us at 1511 K Street, N.W., Suite 540, Washington, D.C. 20005. Please.

Because our country can't afford this. And neither can you.

A defense against cancer can be cooked up in your kitchen.

There is evidence that diet and cancer are related. Some foods may promote cancer, while others may protect you from it.

Foods related to lowering the risk of cancer of the larynx and esophagus all have high amounts of carotene, a form of Vitamin A which is in cantaloupes, peaches, broccoli, spinach, all dark green leafy vegetables, sweet potatoes, carrots, pumpkin, winter squash and tomatoes, citrus fruits and brussels sprouts.

Foods that may help reduce the risk of gastrointestinal and respiratory tract cancer are cabbage, broccoli, brussels sprouts, kohlrabi, cauliflower, fish and types of sausages smoked by traditional methods should be eaten in moderation.

Be moderate in consumption of alcohol also.

A good rule of thumb is cut down on fat and don't be fat. Weight reduction may lower cancer risk. Our 12-year study of nearly a million Americans uncovered high cancer risks particularly among people 40% or more overweight.

Now, more than ever, we know you can cook up your own defense against cancer. So eat healthy and be healthy.

No one faces cancer alone.

O&E Thursday, May 15, 1986

A standard set for our leaders

THIS NEWSPAPER long has maintained that voting in local, state and federal elections is a minimum requirement of citizenship. We extend that requirement as a minimum standard for public office seekers.

Anyone who wants to represent what is in the best interest of Plymouth-Canton residents ought to have enough credibility as a candidate to vote in local elections. People so apathetic about their civic responsibilities that they don't vote at all clearly have no moral right to seek public office.

Not voting shows a disregard for the best interest of the electorate — in fact, it shows such a general lack of interest in the community at-large that the Observer believes not voting is quite logical grounds for not voting for a particular candidate.

From a practical standpoint, we have to wonder about the commitment of anyone who seeks office but who has not, in the past, voted in local elections. Will that candidate be able to attend school board meetings once a week if they were unable to vote once or twice a year?

The issue involved is a simple matter of stewardship.

If you can not be trusted with the simple responsibility of voting at election time, how can you be trusted with a multimillion dollar budget or with decisions affecting thousands of students?

FOR NEXT MONTH'S election, at least seven of the 10 candidates have passed the minimum competency test — four with flying colors.

To check voting records, the Observer went back to June 10, 1974. Since that time there have been 21 regular and special elections in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

Judith Lore of Plymouth, a challenger, has a 100-percent performance record having voted in all of the nine school elections held since she registered to vote in June 1980.

The next highest performer is trustee E.J. McClendon of Plymouth who has voted in 20 of the 21 elections held since June 1974 for a 95-percent record. He has voted in 34 school elections since registering in May 1966.

Two other candidates with commendable records are incumbent Marilyn Schwinn of Plymouth, who has voted in 15 of the 17 elections held since she registered in September 1976 for an 88-percent mark, and challenger Jeanette Wines of Canton, who has voted in 18 of the 21 school elections held since she registered in September 1973 for 86 percent.

Joan Kotcher of Canton, a regular school board attendee, has cast ballots in 78 percent of the nine elections she was eligible to vote in. Patricia Zagorski, a newcomer in the field who has not been in the public eye, has amassed a respectable record of voting in 17 of the 22 school elections held since she registered in July 1973 for 77 percent.

Richard Sumpter of Canton has a disappointing record of 60 percent, having voted in nine of the 15 elections held since he registered in August 1977. While disappointing, Sumpter's record is not so bad that we should disqualify him as a candidate.

THOSE CANDIDATES who have failed the minimum competency test are Diane Daskalakis, Jerry Raymor and John Voymas, all of Plymouth.

Particularly disappointing is Daskalakis, who had the opportunity to vote in seven elections since she registered in June 1981 but who has never voted in a school election. Seven opportunities to vote and not once has she cast a school ballot. Having failed with the simple task of voting seven times, we cannot trust her with larger tasks.

Raymor has been registered since February 1985 and Voymas since October 1985. Voymas could have voted once but didn't; Raymor had two chances and missed twice. The record for Raymor and Voymas is too skimpy to draw any hard conclusions. Maybe they would have voted if they were able to register earlier and had more opportunities. But we do not need to play guessing games when there are other candidates who warrant consideration.

The Observer recommends that its readers narrow the list of viable school candidates from 10 to seven and devote their energies to weighing the relative merits of E.J. McClendon and Patricia Zagorski for the two-year term, and Jeanette Wines, Marilyn Schwinn, Judith Lore, Joan Kotcher and Richard Sumpter for the four-year term.

Prepare for the June 9 election. There will be a bond issue and school board candidates on the ballot. Get informed now. Most of all, vote June 9. Don't be irresponsible by not voting. Remember, every vote counts.

Reader suggests options to road

To the editor:

With all the controversy over the road construction at Sheldon Center Road I am compelled to write.

Why would anyone want to put a five-lane highway through two subdivisions of families? You can tell those on the planning commission must not live in either one. I'm sure if you "brainstormed" you could come up with some better alternative. My question is have they even tried?

Some alternatives might be to widen Sheldon Road by one lane only, for instance, and then traffic would have a left-turn lane. When everyone is coming home from work and trying to turn into their respective subdivision it wouldn't back up a line of traffic.

Also turn that useless blinking light at Warren and Canton Center into a traffic light. More people we know from conversation at local games, etc., don't go that way because it's too hard to cross there or turn left. The township board could put a regular street through, like Hanford at Sheldon Center. They could even try a light at Sheldon Center first before they put through the confusing road system they intend to.

Traffic wouldn't be so bad there now if the party store that all the residents opposed wasn't there. No wonder it's so confusing and hazardous and they plan to make it an island? Heaven help us then.

But we learned from the party store experience that it doesn't pay to get involved and actively oppose something the township planning board OK's. (Look at all the petitions that were signed to try to keep the store away from Gallimore and the church. Why couldn't they have put it at the corner of Joy and Sheldon?)

I do drive to the high school in the morning and have no problems with the intersection at Joy and Canton Center Road. Not ideal, but easily passed through. Every high school area is busy in the morning and those going to Salem will still go that way.

Is this new road something we have been allotted money for and just need to spend? Why not pave Warren to Haggerty to make it easier to get to the expressway? Ford and Sheldon roads get busy and backed up but in five years here I've never sat in traffic on Canton Center or Joy.

I ask you, do we want Canton to be someplace people just pass through on their way to somewhere else or do we want to make it comfortable and safe for the young families it has been attracting? Please plan wisely Canton Township, you're affecting all of us.

J.M. Jules,
Canton

Cooler deposits: up to us

WE CAN'T count on the Michigan Legislature to do it. We shouldn't sit back and assume the Michigan United Conservation Clubs can do it alone.

The job is to get wine cooler bottles out of our yards, parks, beaches, roadsides and farm fields.

It will take a petition drive which will force the Legislature either 1) to require a 10-cent deposit on wine coolers and the new canned mixed drinks, or 2) place such a proposal on the ballot.

Voters followed that route 10 years ago, passing a law requiring a 10-cent deposit on cans and 5-cent deposit on bottles of beer and soft drinks. The law took effect in 1978, and almost overnight the amount of litter was drastically reduced. And if there was litter, at least one had an economic incentive to pick it up.

BUT WINE coolers (mixtures of wine and fruit juices) and mixed drink (whiskey and pop) are new on the market. They aren't covered by our 1976 law.

Tim Richard

A new law is necessary. Either the Legislature or the voters must pass it.

A joint legislative rules committee shot down the state Liquor Control Commission's rule to require deposits on wine coolers. As the Litter Lobby (our term for those firms which fight deposits) chortled with glee, the legislators rejected the attorney general's advice that LCC really did have that power. Lawmakers, while professing to hate litter, repeatedly taunted backers of the deposit rule to add whiskey and catsup bottles to the list.

So we can't count on the Legislature.

A WORD ABOUT MUCC for those unfamiliar with this statewide collection of clubs.

It's more than a hunting-fishing group. It takes a strong interest in nature and the environment. With its camps and programs for kids, it has a strong family thrust.

Lots of groups worked on the 1976 deposit law campaign, but MUCC provided the leadership and coordination. It's ready to do the job again.

MUCC has petition forms ready to collect the 243,000 signatures of voters required to force action on an expanded deposit law.

Call MUCC in Lansing at 517/371-1041 and it will send you two forms.

Follow the simple instructions, and get your friends and neighbors to sign the petitions.

Then mail them back — pronto. Time is running out. There are legal deadlines to be met.

The Legislature is unlikely to act. MUCC can't do it alone. It's up to ordinary, busy citizens to complete the cleanup job which voters so nobly advanced in the 1970s.

Too worried or too short?

A NATIONAL ad agency conducted a survey of 2,000 citizens to measure their attitudes about themselves and their likes.

According to the agency's summary, what we have is "a split image. On one side a nation pined on the rack of worry and discontent; on the other a nation of optimists and dreamers."

My question is: Are we a schizophrenic nation because of our governmental leaders, or do our leaders merely reflect their constituencies?

Maybe it is significant that the ad agency survey was taken while political campaigns are going on in just about every state and many boroughs. Those seeking public office are busily fanning the flames of worry and discontent, while those struggling to hold onto office are warning us about the worry and discontent we will suffer if the outsiders become insiders.

At the center of power is the greatest optimist and dreamer to serve as president in modern times. Actually, he alternates between stirring up worry and discontent and soothing our brow with optimistic, pablumized television speeches.

HE KNOWS we love to be soothed by television because he reads the results of polls and surveys, such as the one taken by the advertising agency.

It claims, among other things, our greatest pleasure is watching TV. Some 68 percent of the respondents said so. Other pleasures: spending time with friends, 61 percent; helping others, 59 percent; and being on vacation, 58 percent.

You have to worry either about the state of the nation or the accuracy of the polls when something to do with sex doesn't even come up in the top four answers.

I have a hunch that people who are asked questions in surveys take the easy way out. They give the answer they think will make them sound good to the interviewer instead of giving the answer they know will make them sound like a bozo.

IF THE SURVEY were really accurate, you wouldn't have 59 percent of the people saying their greatest pleasure is helping someone else, which sounds good but doesn't play in Peoria.

What you would have is 88 percent saying their greatest pleasure is eating "good stuff" — steaks and baked potatoes overloaded with butter and sour cream, fried chicken, mashed potatoes and gravy, cream puff hot fudge, chocolate chip cookies, eclairs, well, you get the idea.

Eating good stuff has to be a top concern or you wouldn't have in the same poll 88 percent of the women wanting to lose weight.

Heck, it's hard telling from this poll whether we are a nation of worriers or people who are dissatisfied with the amount of space we occupy or fail to occupy.

WHILE 88 percent of women would like to lose weight almost half — 48 percent — of the men want to be taller.

There's something incongruous about this and the fact that most men asked who they would like to look like picked Robert Redford, who is probably about 5-foot-8. The reason I know he is only 5-foot-8 is that in "All the President's Men," Redford is a couple of inches higher than Dustin Hoffman, who has to be about 5-foot-5 since he played "Tootsie" in heels and still was shorter than the 5-foot-7 Jessica Lange.

As a matter of fact, the preponderance of evidence would indicate that most men should yearn to be shorter, not taller. Most big-money male movies stars are 5-foot-9 or under, Gov. Blanchard is only about 5-foot-8, and the vast majority of the world's geniuses were short.

It may have something to do with the fact that people of smaller stature try harder because they feel they have been shorted (eh) on natural attributes.

The only demonstrable place taller is better is pro basketball and since you have to be 6-foot-6 to even consider such a lofty aspiration, I suggest that such a life is beyond the reach of 99.9 percent of us.

We would be better off dreaming about winning the lottery, which is what 70 percent of the U.S. does each month by spending $1 or more on tickets. Who said we're dreamers?

Suburbanites fight for a bit of foreign turf

YOU LAND barons who sat on what used to be rural acreage for years while waiting for suburban sprawl to justify development of subdivisions, shopping centers, hotels, office buildings and recreation attractions can sympathize with my friend Eddie.

He and some uncles have a 15-acre site of rich farmland less than three miles from one of the greatest tourist lures in the world.

They hire others to work in the fields, while residing themselves in a four-story villa. There's a magnificent river only 12 miles away and the entire region is steeped in tradition.

When I asked why the family hadn't capitalized on the possibilities and gone into the tourist business, Eddie answered, "To be honest with you, we've been trying to do that or else sell it to someone who wants to build, which would be ideal."

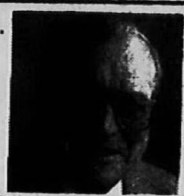

"Each year the land goes up in value. We're waiting until we get an ideal price. We're probably going to sell within the next five years; I can't say when. The area has several developments, but could use more when tourist traffic is normal."

In 1986, that traffic is anything but normal. You see, the property in question is on a tributary of the Nile River, practically within walking distance of Egypt's pyramids and the Great Sphinx just outside Giza, and only 20 miles from downtown Cairo. Current unrest in the Middle East has stifled international travel.

EDDIE IS an Americanized nickname identifying Adnan Hegazi, who will be making his eighth trip to Egypt about the time of his 32nd birthday next month. He was born in Michigan, at Kalkaska, but his father was born and raised in Egypt. Eddie has dual citizenship in that nation and this one. He has lived as your neighbor 24 years.

Trained in psychology and physical therapy at Eastern Michigan and

Fred DeLano

Wayne State universities, he switched to professional protection service. In lay language, that means bodyguard work.

It is not just to check this year's crops of beans, potatoes, corn, olives and dates that Eddie is flying back to the land of the pharaohs. If you think you've encountered some red tape in your life, listen to this:

"IN ORDER TO register the land in my name, I have to get my stamp from the Egyptian Army because of dual citizenship. I'm first generation and the only son. But they have to have evidence of that because I've been in this country all my life.

"You start out at one place, fill out papers, and then you're told that's not enough. I've gone back to Cairo each year spending two to three months on this. They figured they would wear me down and that I'd be like most Americans, get tired, and forget it. Then they would take the land away."

EDDIE IS determined not to let that happen. He takes pride in his heritage but it does not replace his American patriotism. He's fighting for a principle and perpetuation of an honest name, as well as land.

There may well be a summer night when this young Hegazi descendant may stroll through the moonlight (or perhaps ride on the back of a camel) to the neighboring pyramids and in a setting thousands of years old join others as they munch fruit even as you and I in one of our community parks.

But even as he does, he'll be wondering how the business is doing back home — and home is right here.

Liability crisis not easy issue

To the editor:

Lawyer-bashing is in vogue in the pages of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers and elsewhere these days. The insurance industry and its allies, including your Tim Richard, find attorneys to be the convenient culprits of "the liability crisis."

The latest in a long list of columns critical of plaintiffs' personal injury attorneys is Richard's "Lawyers cash in on roads" (April 24). He observes: "... the next time we damage a car wheel on an unrepaired pothole, maybe we ought to sue the lawyers."

His example reflects too narrow a view of the problem, and totally ignores the victims of defective roadways who are concerned not with damaged "wheels," but with permanent disability and suffering sustained in accidents.

Argument by example should include one from my law practice. In 1982, a beautiful 21-year-old co-ed at a small Michigan college was a passenger in a car being driven on a rural roadway. It was a dark night, there were no streetlights, no speed or warning signs along the road, and no barrier at a point where the road abruptly ended.

THE CAR was not being driven fast, but the driver was unable to stop when the road ended without warning. The car struck a tree and my client hit the windshield with her head.

She fought back from her injuries, but she was left with permanent facial paralysis, double vision and the loss of half her hearing, not to mention the pain and emotional loss associated with such disabling injuries.

The accident could have been prevented. The county road commission knew about the danger on this road; there had been previous accidents at the same site. But warning signs and other safety measures were not added until after this girl was hurt.

Such negligence resulted in a sizeable settlement against the road commission.

Who among us would take this money in exchange for the personal loss this girl has sustained? What motivation would the road commission have had to make this particular road safer and prevent future accidents had they not been sued?

THIS EXAMPLE is not unique. Each year in the United States, 3.5 million people are injured in traffic accidents, causing some 50,000 deaths and twice that number of permanent cripples.

According to the U.S. Department of Transportation in a 1967 report, defects in the design and maintenance of the road system was the largest single contributing cause of this highway slaughter.

Attorneys representing injured persons fight for improved safety on the highways. As a group they don't deserve to be singled out for blame because they make a living at the same time.

My friends in the liability insurance business who complain about increasing premiums for their clients because of the "liability crisis," at the same time quietly acknowledge that they've never made so much money themselves.

WHEN IS the last time anyone heard of an insurance company voluntarily opening up its financial records to disclose the true losses or profits that they're making during this "crisis"?

As with most complex social problems, simple solutions can be elusive. Across-the-board blame heaped on attorneys and the simplistic answers offered by the insurance industry and their apologists serve no useful purpose.

Reasonable and fair reforms in the tort liability system can be accomplished when all relevant facts are known, if the discussion and debate remains free of counter-productive prejudice and rhetoric.

Priest's loss will be felt

To the editor:

With the death of Father Kenneth MacKinnon, pastor of Our Lady of Good Counsel Roman Catholic Church, the congregation of the First Presbyterian Church of Plymouth and I, its Minister, have lost a valued Christian neighbor and friend.

As adjacent churches, we have cooperated in preaching exchanges, summer Bible schools for youngsters, Pentecost Parades and a host of other joint ventures... all with the enthusiastic support of Ken MacKinnon. And as neighboring pastors, he and I have been close friends and brothers in the faith since we both landed on the Plymouth scene some 14 years ago.

I feel a deep sense of personal loss, and so do my people. Our hearts go out in sympathy to the clergy and the faithful folk of Our Lady of Good Counsel. All of them and all of us have experienced a very big loss.

Philip Rodgers Magee,
Senior Minister,
First Presbyterian Church,

Fed up with do good groups

To the editor:

Thank you for your forum to express my views.

I am fed up with the citizens for decency and other do good groups along with freaks like Rev. Farwell and the political and financial support which he has given to the Nicaraguan Contras.

Just a great kid to have around

By Julie Brown
staff writer

WHEN JOEL Sonnenberg grows up, he'd like to own a pet store.

That pet store would house "a dog, cat, fish, turtles, everything," according to Joel, an 8-year-old second grader at Gallimore Elementary School in Canton Township.

It seems, however, that Joel, like most who are his age, doesn't quite understand the workaday realities of the business world. Not too long ago, he asked his mom, Janet Sonnenberg, just how pet shop owners get paid.

She explained that customers at the store would pay him for their purchases. Joel's response? "Doesn't the governor give you money?"

The youngster had originally planned on being a veterinarian, according to his mother. When he found out how much work school could be, however, he changed his career plans.

Joel does good work in school, Janet Sonnenberg said. "It's just getting him to that point of doing it."

Joel's love of pets is evident in the "About the Author" section of a book he recently wrote at school. It reads "Joel Sonnenberg was born in New York in 1977. He has a lot of fish, a guinea pig, and a hamster. He likes to play soccer. His friends are Claire, Kurt, Matt, and many more."

SOCCER ISN'T the only sport that Joel enjoys.

"I like to play all kinds of sports," he said. In school, math is his favorite subject.

"He really zooms along in math," said Norma Foster, Joel's teacher at Gallimore.

Although Joel's activities and interests parallel those of his fellow second graders at Gallimore, the road he and his family have traveled to reach this point has often been a rough one. The book he wrote in school, entitled "My Trip to the Hospital," describes one small part of that journey.

Joel and his family have come a long way since Sept. 15, 1979, when he almost died in a fiery crash.

Mike and Janet Sonnenberg, their daughter, Jami, and Joel were on their way to Maine for a short vacation. With them were Joel's and Jami's aunt and uncle, Kathy and Doug Rupp.

Mike, Doug and Joel, who was 22 months old at the time, were traveling in one car. The two women and Jami rode in a second car.

The Sonnenbergs and the Rups were stopped at a toll booth along Interstate 95, when a tractor-trailer rammed into the line of cars. The car the men and Joel were riding in burst into flame. The baby, who was trapped in his infant seat, was pulled from the car by Michael Saraceni.

ALTHOUGH MIKE Sonnenberg and Doug Rupp were hospitalized, young Joel's injuries were by far the most serious ones sustained in the multiple-car accident that September day in New Hampshire.

"Joel was caught, trapped in the car in his infant seat," said Janet Sonnenberg, who is a registered nurse. The youngster suffered third-degree burns over 85 percent of his body. Only the portion covered by his diaper was spared.

In addition to losing all of his fingers and toes and one hand, the youngster's face was severely disfigured.

Joel spent the next several months "fighting for his life in Boston where he was treated," his mother recalled. When he left the hospital, "we still had a struggle on our hands and we still do."

The Sonnenbergs moved to Canton Township last summer from Nyack, N.Y., just north of New York City. Both Mike and Janet Sonnenberg are Michigan natives.

Joel, who began preschool at age 3, attended a public elementary school in New York. Despite his severe injuries, he retained his vision and hearing and is able to speak.

"They had a wonderful elementary school," Mike Sonnenberg said of the New York community. "It was great."

When Joel was ready to enter kindergarten, his family showed videotapes at the school to help other families know what to expect.

"THAT HELPED the kindergarten parents to be prepared," Janet Sonnenberg said. She also wrote a book, "Race for Life" (Zondervan Publishing House, Grand Rapids, 1983), which

Joel ponders a math problem as he and his Gallimore classmates work on their assign-

book on magic; he will read the book before going to an upcoming magic show.

Hope for the future

describes the family's experiences during and after the accident.

When the Sonnenbergs moved to Canton Township, they agreed that Joel should attend a public school here. Janet Sonnenberg was impressed with Gallimore when she went to visit the school in the spring before the family's move.

"I was very impressed, just visually, by it," Artwork done by the schoolchildren covered the walls at the school.

Once again, videotapes and the "Race for Life" book — which includes photos of Joel — helped others to know what to expect.

Joyce Deren, principal at Gallimore, said the videotapes and other materials were helpful in preparing the other youngsters for Joel's arrival.

"All of our students saw the videotapes last spring. They were all excited about this special person coming."

The youngsters at Gallimore needed information, she said; they needed to know what had happened to Joel.

Only a couple of very young children at the school, both of them new, didn't react well, Deren said. Those children once again saw the videotapes and had Joel's situation explained to them.

IN ADDITION to preparing the youngsters, a program for their parents was also scheduled.

"We probably had 100 people here that night," Deren said. Joel is now a part of the school community, and is "doing very well, certainly within the average range." The other youngsters have also adjusted.

"Children are really amazing. They handle it well."

Joel is an active child, Deren said. "He's very active and has a good peer group that responds well. He does everything" at school, including the full range of gym class activities.

"There just aren't a lot of limitations," Young Joel's handwriting is among the best in the class, the principal said.

Norma Foster, Joel's second-grade teacher, agreed that his move into the classroom has gone smoothly.

"Mrs. Deren did a really good job preparing the student body. We tried to stress he's a person just like you are."

"He's doing fine," Foster said. "He's learned how to adapt. It's his personality that really makes it go. They find it a real neat experience having Joel in the classroom."

Mike and Janet Sonnenberg agreed that a public school would provide their son with greater exposure to a number of different people.

"BECAUSE HE'S not going to have people be kind to him all the time," Mike Sonnenberg said. "I think he needs all of the experiences, good and bad, that he can possibly handle. In the long run, it is much better."

In addition to Joel and Jami, who is now 10, the Sonnenbergs have another daughter, Sommer, who is 5. Jami, a student at Gallimore, will attend West Middle School next year. Sommer, who attends preschool at the Plymouth Christian Academy, will be a student at Gallimore next year.

"Anytime you have a handicapped child, you are spending more time with that child than you are with the other children," Mike Sonnenberg said. "That's the way it is. It's never just a handicapped person, it's a handicapped family."

The expenses involved in Joel's ongoing medical treatment haven't been as steep as they could have been. Crippled Children's Services of Michigan has provided for some of the treatment.

"Much of it is picked up by that organization, wherever they are hospitalized in Michigan," Janet Sonnenberg said.

The expenses involved in the medical treatment extend beyond hospitalization.

"The time you would be spending could be spent doing other things," Mike Sonnenberg said. A second job, for example, could provide additional income during those hours. Home repairs that could be done for free instead have to be taken care of by hiring someone to do them.

"We were fortunate in that we had so many people who cared for us," Janet Sonnenberg said. Through their church in New York, the family received checks and other assistance.

The Shriners organization has also been a big help.

"They are free," she said. "You never get a bill." Joel traveled most recently to the Shriners facility in Boston during a school break for treatment of his upper left eyelid.

The family's faith helped sustain them through difficult times. They now attend the Calvary Baptist Church of Canton.

"I THINK they've shown a genuine interest in what's going on," Janet Sonnenberg said. Church members send Joel cards when he's in the hospital.

"They've really been praying for us. They've been very supportive."

Mike Sonnenberg is in the insurance field, with Excellence Group of Michigan Ltd. His wife works as a registered nurse in the burn rehabilitation unit at the University of Michigan Medical Center.

Janet Sonnenberg decided to work in that aspect of nursing because of her own experiences.

"That's what really cinched it for me. That's why I hired in there, to be kind of the parent-professional, to kind of evolve a new role."

The truck driver involved in the accident that September day on the interstate in New Hampshire fled to Canada following the accident. He has never returned to face the charges against him.

"But we don't dwell on that," Janet Sonnenberg said. "We've got too many other things to dwell on."

Her husband agreed.

"Even if you did, how could you hurt a person or make him feel what Joel has gone through?"

Joel's future, like anyone else's, can't be predicted with absolute certainty. His having come this far, however, is an encouraging sign to those around him.

"FORTUNATELY, JOEL has had a lot of people interested in him," said Joyce Deren, the principal at Gallimore. "I can easily see Joel going through college, certainly becoming gainfully employed. I don't see that being a problem for Joel."

Joel's coming to the school has been an enriching experience at Gallimore, the principal said.

"I think he's brought so much to all of us," His arrival has helped the others "realize it's the spirit and the soul that draws you to someone, and not the way they look."

Joel's parents, wanting the best for him, would like to see their son grow and thrive.

"I'm sure there can be survivors and I'm sure Joel will probably be one of those survivors," Mike Sonnenberg said.

Although acceptance of some handicapped people is more common in many circles these days, the facially disfigured still have a difficult time of it, Joel's father said.

"They're down on the priority list. A lot of these people in the past have gone underground." As adults, the facially disfigured may have unlisted telephone numbers and often do their shopping in hours when few other people will be out and about.

"They are probably the least studied of any handicapped population, because nobody can track them," he said. For that reason, it's difficult to predict what the future holds for the facially disfigured.

"We have hope for the future, because we would like to see it change and we would like to see Joel make that change," Janet Sonnenberg said.

"At the end, you're just very grateful that he's around."

Plymouth teen wins honors

A Plymouth resident was the second runner-up in the Miss Michigan American Coed Pageant.

Wendy Kulczycki was the second runner-up in the pageant, which was held recently at the Plymouth Hilton Inn. Kulczycki, a junior at Plymouth Canton High School, is the daughter of Joseph and Patricia Kulczycki of Plymouth.

From among more than 10,000 applications, 124 girls were chosen as state finalists. State finalists were required to have a grade point average of 3.0 or better and to be involved in school/community activities.

Finalists were judged on the basis of achievement, poise, personality, appearance and a personal interview.

The winner, Tammy Trombly of Romulus, received a crown, banner and trophy. She also received an all-expenses paid trip to Hawaii to compete for the national title.

Kulczycki is president of the student council at her school. She is also involved in the school's Swing Ensemble (Show Choir), Drama Club and Concert Choir.

She does choreography for the Swing Ensemble and recently choreographed the school musical, "Hello, Dolly!"

In the pageant, the Plymouth resident was also one of five finalists in the talent competition, where she performed a jazz number. She won first place in the swimwear competition and also received a trophy for the best thank-you note to the sponsor.

First runner-up was Julie C. Sears of Grand Blanc. Sabreenalyn Copenlyn of Flint was third runner-up, and Pamela Ann Murphy of Saginaw was the fourth runner-up.

How to recognize a quack when you see one.

Quack medical products. They're everything from baldness remedies to cancer cures. All eventually prove to be a waste of money, many actually pose a serious threat to your health.

How do you distinguish a quack medical product from the real thing? For a start, if it sounds too good to be true, it probably is. Quack medical products usually claim simple solutions, miracle cures, or amazing scientific breakthroughs. Many flaunt testimonials from satisfied users. To be sure whether a medical product is a quack, check with your doctor or pharmacist first. Because the next dead duck could be you.

"FM" (1978), 8 p.m. Friday on Ch. 9. Originally 104 minutes. TV time slot: 120 minutes.

Yawn. This is a mildly amusing pre-WKRP comedy about a rock radio station and its various characters in conflict with the management. The ending is ludicrous, but the film was a wonderful excuse for a soundtrack. The music is varied and lively, a pleasant reminder of the period. Martin Mull does a nice bit as a disc jockey.

Rating: $2.

"Paradise Alley" (1978) 8 p.m. on Ch. 9. Originally 109 minutes. TV time slot: 120 minutes.

Sylvester Stallone uses his success on "Rocky" to make this film on which he served as writer-director-star. It is similar to the "Rocky" films, especially the last two, for its bigger-than-life comic book approach to melodrama. Three brothers become involved in wrestling in an attempt to break out of Hell's Kitchen in New York. Stallone had an opportunity to say something about urban life but he never does. The film lacks true heart or humor, qualities that the first "Rocky" had in plenty. Stallone has since degenerated into a living cartoon making one violent trashola movie after another and making tons of money doing it.

"Blues Brothers" (), 8 p.m. Monday on Ch. 50. Originally 130 minutes. TV time slot: 150 minutes.

Here is an idea in search of a movie. John Belushi and Dan Aykroyd created Jake and Elwood on "Saturday Night Live" as an affectionate parody of the blues singers that Belushi used to see in Chicago. The funny thing about the parody was that Belushi and Aykroyd made some good music along the way. Good music along the way also describes this movie. Anyone who loves rhythm and blues will be in hog heaven when Cab Calloway, Ray Charles, James Brown and, most especially, the First Lady of Soul Aretha Franklin cut loose. The comedy, however, is intermittent. Director John Landis has opted for a barrage of auto chase and crash scenes that quickly lose their punch. Belushi and Aykroyd are funny as the Blues Brothers, though, and the only problem with this film is that it could have been so much more.

WINNERS CIRCLE

BY LAURIE KIPP

THE MICHIGAN LOTTERY RECEIVES MANY QUESTIONS ON LOTTERY CLUBS. THE FOLLOWING SUMMARY PROVIDES MANY OF THE ANSWERS.

Q: What is a Lottery Club?

A: A Lottery Club is the only way more than one person can jointly file a claim for a Lottery prize.

Q: Must a Lottery Club be registered?

A: Absolutely. Unless a club is registered with the Internal Revenue Service, the Lottery can only accept a claim in the name and social security number of ONE person.

Q: How does a group register as a Lottery Club?

A: Simply obtain an SS-4 form, available from a local IRS office, or by calling the IRS at 1-800-424-3676. Once the form is completed with the names, addresses and social security numbers of the club members, as well as the club name, it should be sent back to the IRS. The club is then assigned a Federal Employer Identification Number by the IRS.

Q: What is that number needed for?

A: Any clubs winnings and tax liability will be registered using that number, just as an individual prize winner's social security number would be used.

Q: What happens when a club wins a Lottery prize?

A: It must file a claim with the Lottery using its identification number. In about three weeks, the club will receive a prize check, made payable to the club name. Or if the club wins a Lotto or Super Lotto Jackpot prize, a club representative must come to Lansing to claim it.

Q: What if the prize is over $5,000?

A: The Lottery will send a form to be completed by the club showing how much each member received. Later, the club members each will receive a W-2 form showing their portion of the prize and federal withholding, if any. Each member must include this form with his or her federal tax return for the year in which the prize was paid.

Q: Is there a tax advantage to a Lottery Club?

A: While there is no state or local income tax on Lottery winnings for Michigan residents, federal regulations require that Lottery withhold 20 percent on prizes in excess of $5,000. That tax liability is shared by a club's members rather than one person being responsible.

Because his Lottery Club question was first received and used, Arne W. Flones of Paris, Michigan will receive 50 "Michigan Payday" instant game tickets.

If you have a Lottery question you'd like answered, send it to:

Actors return in roles that made them popular

By Ethel Simmons
staff writer

Two young actors whose careers started in different countries, but both playing Shakespeare, have ended up with ties to the same Broadway musical show, "Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat."

Tall, curly-blond-haired, handsome and well-built — these are all adjectives that describe leading man Don Goodspeed, who is originally from Nova Scotia. He first played Joseph in the third national company of "Joseph."

Fat was once the word that came to mind for Timmy Fauvell, born and raised in New York City, who appeared as one of Joseph's brothers, Naphtali, on Broadway.

Goodspeed and Fauvell are repeating their roles in a new production of "Joseph" at the Birmingham Theatre.

Timmy Fauvell again plays Joseph's brother Naphtali.

ham Theatre. Besides a slightly different approach to the show taken by the current director, Edward Stone, the changes include Fauvell's appearance. The now-attractive performer is a slimmed-down version of his former self.

FAT WAS where it was at for Fauvell, who explained in a backstage interview last week that producers of the Broadway "Joseph" used to send him food after each show. At that time, "I had an approximately size 40 waist," he recalled, and the producers wanted to keep it that way.

Fauvell earlier had decided to lose weight during the run of "Do Black Patent Leather Shoes Really Reflect Up?" in which he had a near-show-stopping role, when it played the Birmingham Theatre back in 1981.

"My weight was 339 pounds. I started losing during 'Patent' here. I really had performed most of the fat roles I was interested in, at the ripe old age of 21. I got down to 170 pounds while doing 'Patent' in Birmingham."

When he got back to New York, he was called to audition for "Joseph." The thinner Fauvell arrived and was told, "Oh, Tim, we really wanted someone fat." So he put back the pounds again.

After appearing on Broadway in 1982-83, he did several companies of "Joseph" including a hand-picked company of some of the show's stars, at the Papermill Playhouse in New Jersey.

FAUVELL HAS also appeared in national touring companies of "Grease" and "Jesus Christ Superstar." The image of the character Nicely-Nicely (borne out by the song, "Sit Down, You're Rockin' the Boat," from "Guys and Dolls"), whom he played on a tour of the Poconos is no longer with us, however.

He started his weight-loss program all over again. When he was asked to play the role of Naphtali in the current production of "Joseph," he was also asked, "If I was willing to wear a fat suit or gain weight. I said no."

Fauvell got his first real break in the theater at the age of 16, after winning a national Young Actors of America competition. He was chosen for Joe Papp's Shakespearean company to play Starveling, "the wall," during the show within a show in "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

"I played that same role at Stratford," declared Don Goodspeed, who was interviewed along with Fauvell in Goodspeed's star dressing room at the Birmingham Theatre.

While still in high school in Canada, Goodspeed auditioned for his first professional show at the Neptune Theatre. His name was passed on by an associate of the Stratford Shakespearean Festival and he got a call from Robin Phillips.

"I LEFT in February of my last year of high school," Goodspeed said. "My teacher said, 'He's going to do Shakespeare!'"

He did two seasons at Stratford, around 1977-78. "I got to do great things, to work with incredible people, just watch and learn." Goodspeed did more classics at the National Arts Centre in Ottawa. "It was the first place I was offered a musical, a Gilbert & Sullivan revue."

After a lot of regional theater around Canada and lots of television based in Toronto, he made a film "like 'Porky' on skis." It kind of died, although the movie has been shown on cable in Canada and a few other places.

"I've been doing all stage," Goodspeed emphasized.

The New York Shakespeare Festival got his resume and called him to audition.

"They wanted someone who could sing a classical score without that trained tenor sound," he said. Goodspeed, who was doing a show at night at the Royal York, flew into New York and got the understudy role of Frederic in "The Pirates of Penzance."

After being understudy for Patrick Cassidy and Peter Noone who both appeared in the role on Broadway, Goodspeed went on national tour in the role of Frederic. "I played five weeks at the Fisher about three years ago," he said.

"Then some of the same producers asked me to play Joseph, just after the show closed on Broadway." Two other shows had gone out on tour during the Broadway run.

"I WAS ASKED to play Joseph all over the states and Canada, in 65 cities, from one-nighters to five-six week stops."

Goodspeed also has done shows in Canada and appeared in "Diamonds" off-Broadway for Harold Price. "It ran for six months. I was in it near the end," he said.

After his name came up for the current production of "Joseph," Goodspeed met Harry Nederlander and then landed the part. After the show closes in Birmingham, it will open two days later at the Drury Lane in Chicago for a 10-week run.

Goodspeed said the show is "very pop-rock oriented. It has many styles in it from country-western to calypso. It's done with a narrator. It's written to be fun, commercial and warm at the same time. Moments important in Joseph's life are still kept in the piece. It has visual excitement and a lot of fun."

While Fauvell has had his problems with up-and-down weight, Goodspeed hasn't had any difficulty maintaining his own weight (165 pounds on a 5-foot-11-inch frame). "I lift weights. I'm very physical in my lifestyle. I walk everywhere. I do a surge of exercising. It's just my metabolism," he said.

New production of musical 'Joseph' has it all together

Performances of the Birmingham Theatre production of "Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat" continue through Sunday, June 8. For ticket information, call 644-3533.

"Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat" is a bubbly, bouncy musical whose good spirits fairly leap from the stage of the Birmingham Theatre.

The cast is top-notch; the direction flawless, and the music, the first successful collaboration by composer Andrew Lloyd Webber and lyricist Tim Rice, upbeat and whimsical.

Setting the Old Testament story of Joseph entirely to music, the show has no spoken dialogue. The songs are as varied in style as the colors in Joseph's coat, ranging from country ("One More Angel in Heaven") to rock 'n' roll ("Song of the King") to calypso ("Benjamin Calypso") to French torch ("Those Canaan Days").

The youngest and favorite son of his aged father Jacob, Joseph (Don Goodspeed) is a dreamer. He inflames the natural jealousies of his 11 older brothers by predicting that his life will have a special significance and someday they will all be bowing to him. The brothers retaliate by selling Joseph into slavery.

WHILE IN servitude in Egypt, Joseph is imprisoned for catching the roving eye of the prime minister's wife. Still believing in his special destiny, Joseph never despairs. Called upon to interpret the Pharaoh's troubling dreams, Joseph's special insight saves Egypt from years of famine, and he is exalted to high rank. Dreams can come true if you believe hard enough, Joseph declares in "Any Dream Will Do."

Barbara Michals

Goodspeed sparkles as Joseph. His good looks, engaging smile and strong voice are combined with charming innocence.

Mark McGrath is fine as the troubled Pharaoh, decked out in a gold lame jumpsuit and long sideburns a la Elvis the King. Dressed in a vest and pin-stripes, James Harms is amusing as Potiphar, the prime minister who made a financial killing investing in pyramids. Carol Dilley is the vivacious narrator, a musical guide through the story. A swollen jaw from dental problems did not stem her ebullience last weekend or hamper her agreeable voice.

The chorus of 11 brothers is excellent, achieving sharp group enunciation of the lyrics and still projecting lots of individualized personality. Stephen Kane as Levi, David Dollase as Rueben and Timothy Fauvell as Naphtali get a chance to shine as lead singers.

EDWARD STONE'S choreography is as good as his direction. The show moves at an exhilarating pace right through to the curtain calls.

Barbara Michals teaches high school English and journalism in Southfield. A theater critic for the last 12 years, she is an inveterate playgoer who regularly catches up on all the New York productions.

A good choice for Italian food

Your traveling taster visits area eateries and rates them on a 100-point scale. Up to 30 points are awarded for ambience, which includes general atmosphere and service; 55 points for food, and 15 points for price/value rating. A total count of 59 points or less indicates a restaurant is not recommended, 60-74 points signify from passing to good, 75-89 points designate very good with some extraordinary features and 90-100 points show that a very special dining experience awaits you.

RISTORANTE DI MODESTA. 29410 Northwestern Highway, Southfield (358-0344), is a cheerful, modern restaurant with candles and flowers on the tables and a low, pleasant level of lighting. Seating is limited, and there is a feeling of closeness — both in the sense of physical proximity and of friendliness — that is appealing. Although everything else seemed clean, our tablecloth was dirty and had crumbs left from a plate or previous diner. Our Saturday night reservations were promptly and graciously honored, and we were very pleased by the courteous interest in our enjoyment of the meal when we left. Dinner took about an hour and a half. General Atmosphere — 15 points maximum. Points awarded — 12.

Our waiter was extremely knowledgeable about the dishes and their ingredients and preparation. He was, at times, too zealous in urging his recommendations in place of our choices. Service was sometimes overly prompt and — although this was caused by the kitchen — our entrees were served before we had finished our salads. To his credit, our waiter always replaced dirty silverware with clean and refilled our water regularly. Service — 15 points maximum. Points awarded — 12.

A complimentary dish of caponata — mixed vegetables including eggplant, onion, mushroom and pepper cooked in olive oil and served cold — started our meal on a very positive note. The zuppa dell giorno, minestrone ($1.95), was outstanding. It was thick and hearty with a rich flavor of blended vegetables and stock. The eggplant Modestina ($4.25) was nicely seasoned with tomato, ricotta cheese, tomatoes and spices. The bread was fresh and tasty. The restaurant does not yet have a liquor license. Drinks, Appetizers and Bread — 10 points maximum. Points awarded — 9.

A Counting for Taste — 100 points maximum. Total points awarded: 81. Ristorante Di Modesta is a good choice for a special date. The atmosphere is enticing and the feeling inviting.

Mystery weekends tell whodunit

By Carmina Brooks
special writer

MICKEY HEALD of Farmington produces horrible entertainment, and in four months without advertising, his new business is booming.

Last fall, Heald was teaching in Akron, Ohio, when a friend asked him to manage a Murder Mystery Weekend in the Aurora Sheraton Hotel.

"I had never heard of mystery weekends," he said. "It originated in England and came to the USA about seven years ago. Now it is big business."

The murder mystery game is a new, often unpredictable, form of entertainment. Players are participants in the plot. Improvisation is rampant and anything can happen.

Heald and assistant Ed Postif of Plymouth are so taken with this new form of entertainment they conduct a full-time business of writing, producing and managing mystery parties for hotels, corporations and private gatherings that can last three hours or three days. Guests may total 20 or 200.

HEALD IS A FORMER Ohio high school teacher of English literature and theatrical arts and a graduate of Kent State University.

He heads an acting crew of 20, including a woman who teaches gifted children, theatrical arts students who work for expenses, hired professionals and contributing writers.

"This is typical of theater. We have production aspects, but we play party host plus handle business arrangements for guests and actors. We act as an extension of the hotel," Heald explained.

Beginning price for a one-night party is $800. A weekend package costs hotels between $2,000 and $4,000.

"We create a scenario and plot around a special event — a wedding, a class reunion, a vacation weekend. People come dressed for a wedding and end up with a wake," he said.

Farmington resident Michel Heald (right) and assistant Ed Postif, who lives in Plymouth, show some of the tools of their trade as organizers of mystery weekends. Curious maps, tombstones, pistols, candles, notes written in blood, and severed hands are among the ghoulish props that may give clues to party guests, who track down an elusive killer.

Staff photo

SOME STORYLINES revolve around drug smuggling, a child's bid for attention, a kidnapping or a nightclub St. Valentine's Day massacre. And one or a dozen people die. One problem is how not to ruin the furniture with gore, Heald said.

Actors mix with guests and guests don't know who is lying. After a murder, interrogations are conducted, clues are left to cloud suspicions and sometimes arrests are made.

"We don't do anything dangerous. Only the actors come into conflict. Everything is carefully planned," said Heald.

Things do not always go according to script, however. During one of Heald's weekends an elderly woman faked a heart attack. Hotel clerks asked, "Didn't you just have another death? Shouldn't we call the ambulance?" When Heald answered no, he was told, "There's a lady on the floor. We didn't think it was for real."

A policeman-actor was sent to her. He stooped and whispered, "An ambulance is coming to administer real oxygen, give you a real intravenous and a real medical bill." She lifted an eyelid and announced, "I am playing the Game!"

"WE FIND supersleuths who get off the couch and attack the characters. Others just sit and laugh. It's an energetic and draining experience," Heald said.

Heald is booked at a birthday party Saturday, May 17, for a Birmingham man, to start in Detroit and move to the Holly Hotel. This horribly entertaining night of mystery is planned by his wife. But who will get killed?

Mickey Heald may be reached at Mystery for Hire, phone 474-4649.

STATE LAW PERMITS CORPORATE CHECKS

Michigan beyond 2000

Anti-cooperative attitude between Detroit, suburbs to haunt economy

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

Detroit area suburbs in the year 2000 will be languishing as their tax bases decline, populations age and racial compositions change.

That's the prediction of the Hudson Institute, an Indiana-based company commissioned by the Michigan Senate to predict state economic changes. The findings have been discussed in several economic forums around Michigan, including one Friday at Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti.

The report adds that the interdependency of city and suburbs, and of older and newer suburbs, must soon be recognized as more than a platitude if the state is to negotiate the difficult period of the next century.

State Senate Majority Leader John Engler outlined the Hudson report before area business leaders at EMU.

"It's fairly blunt in its observations," Engler said. "I commissioned it. I reviewed it. But I don't stand behind everything in it."

Among Hudson Institute predictions as highlighted by Engler:

- By 2005, service jobs will comprise more than three-fourths of jobs in Michigan. More people will work in finance, real estate and insurance than auto manufacturing.

- Auto production is not only shifting overseas, but also to lower cost out-of-state plants. The report said this is due in part to "an inflated wage structure" in the auto industry that has spilled over into most other state occupations and industries. This makes Michigan "less competitive with other regions of the country and the world," according to the report.

- Decades of boom and bust "have conditioned the state's residents to believe that better times are just ahead, making it harder to recognize when major changes or sacrifices are needed."

Engler said no senate action on the report is scheduled, other than a probable summit conference to discuss it.

Reduced factory employment in the future should spark 'a re-evaluation of the approach of vocational education.'

John Engler
R-Mount Pleasant

THE REPORT said that factionalism among state interest groups — including conflicts among metro Detroit suburbs — makes future planning difficult. Engler said the report predicts Michigan's economy will grow 2.5 percent annually, as the U.S. economy grows at 3 percent. As a result, the state will suffer more severe recessions than the rest of the country.

And while the state economy will continue to rely heavily on manufacturing, factory employment won't grow because highly automated auto plants mean "half as many workers will be needed to produce the same number of vehicles," the report states.

Engler said these factors should spark "a re-evaluation, I think, of the approach of vocational education."

In addition to the hard realities the Hudson report suggests the state will face, it also lists assets and suggests policy choices that could improve Michigan's economic outlook. (See related story.) The report encourages support of the growing robotics industry, saying growth is possible due to a large manufacturing capacity. Michigan also is home to 9.1 million people, "the eighth largest market in the country."

ENGLER HIGHLIGHTED a section of the report suggesting privatization of several state services.

"This would deliver government services more effectively," Engler said. "You have an opportunity in privatization to do away with the rigidities of the civil service system."

State treasurer Robert Bowman called the report "good, for the most part." Bowman recalled the Blanchard administration's effort to balance the state budget and extolled the benefits of state budget solvency.

"Solvency is important — it gives business, civic groups . . . and government time to plan," he said.

With six prisons currently under construction around the state, the number of early prison releases will drop, Bowman said, tying that construction to budget solvency, which improved Michigan's credit rating.

He also praised Republican lawmakers who have aided the state's economic comeback and entrepreneurs who showed confidence in the state's future by starting 23,000 businesses in 1985 — "the highest (number) ever in the state of Michigan."

Report blisters state's wage structure, social policies

The Hudson Institute recommends a number of policy choices. They include:

- The first and most important task for Michigan policy makers is to re-establish Michigan as the lowest-cost location for auto manufacturing in the United States.

- Michigan cannot expect food processing, forest products or any other non-automotive industry to have more than a trivial impact on the state's future over the next two decades.

- The four most important steps to regain the state's competitive position are: readjust the wage structure to reflect the competitive realities; continue the effort to reduce business costs; become a full partner with labor and management in the drive for competitiveness; increase state investments in advanced technologies and engineering education.

The development of a larger base of research and technology to support the auto industry is at least as important as the $600 million the state offered General Motors in incentives to build the Saturn plant here. Michigan should systematically seek to attract the leading educators and the most-talented students in these areas.

The goal now should be to insure that key Michigan universities offer not just equivalent but superior salaries, facilities, fellowships, equipment and consulting opportunities to outstanding professionals and students in the targeted fields.

Michigan should not accept the possibility of being second in this area. The state should concentrate on automotive-related technologies. It should not compete for scholars across the board.

- Short of a "withering away of government," the state must find a way to provide more with less.

- The state should experiment with privatization of public services. Virtually no system or program in the state should be immune from consideration. The results of these experiments have often been highly favorable, with typical savings reported as ranging from 10 percent to more than 50 percent. Despite the potential drawbacks, the benefits of contracting more than outweigh the costs.

- Michigan must adopt an investment strategy to reallocate state spending. Michigan's spending has been increasingly biased toward consumption rather than investment. Michigan spent 95 percent more per capita on welfare than the average for all other states in 1983, and its welfare spending has grown almost twice as fast since 1970 as the national average. By contrast, spending for education and highways has waned.

- Michigan's capital programs in the areas of higher education, transportation, economic development, advanced training and industry development deserve high priority, while those aimed at providing social and public services, and income transfers deserve more careful scrutiny.

- In order to better exploit its natural advantages, Michigan should more consciously seek to attract and hold those people with the greatest choice of where to live: college students, young professionals and retirees.

The state should focus more attention on developing the facilities needed to attract tourists to the state.

- More state resources should be devoted to the "Say Yes to Michigan" campaign, to highways and airports serving recreational areas, to parks and recreation, to low-interest mortgages for first-time buyers.

- The state's objective should be to see that Detroit and other Michigan cities — seen as metropolitan regions rather than as the currently defined jurisdictions — are self-sustaining, growing, urban centers. Rather than treating the cities as expensive problems, the state should design its policies to encourage regional decision makers to focus on shared opportunities and collective responsibilities. In some areas, it might mean action to promote annexation and mergers.

Ownership provides path to career goals

An incorrect version of this story appeared in last week's Business section. It is being rerun in its entirety.

By Susan Steinmueller
special writer

The ways women attempt to achieve career goals as business owners are as diverse as the businesses they run.

Joan E. Moore and E. Jill Pollock started the Arbor Consulting Group in Plymouth because they wanted to capitalize on their entrepreneurial skills involving risk taking. Both women were previously employed in fast track corporate positions at Ford Motor Co.

Their company is an example of the increasing number of businesses started by women in Michigan in the past five years. It has grown to a staff of 13 — with the Arbor Consulting Group setting its sights on becoming a big business.

Moore and Pollock founded the company with a silent partner, also a woman, in 1983.

Their aim was to create a "leading edge human resources" company.

As they enter their third year, success is evident. A long list of clients, including their old employer, Ford Motor Co., has subscribed for services that include helping companies revise their personnel departments using computer software as a tool, providing career transition assistance, and helping organizations collaborate with employers to achieve mutual goals.

Revenues doubled in 1984. This year, they expect to quadruple them. Recently they opened a one-person test market office in Washington, D.C.

MOORE, an Ann Arbor resident, holds a law degree from Case Western Reserve University. She worked in labor relations at Ford Motor Co. and then at James Lash and Co., a management consulting firm, before founding the Arbor Consulting Group.

Pollock, a West Bloomfield resident, earned a master's degree in business administration from the University of Detroit. She was a 12-year Ford employee. Her last position was as a personnel planning executive. She also served as "main-table" bargainer on the Ford national negotiation committee during the 1982 Ford-UAW contract talks, the first management woman in the auto industry to have been selected.

Both quickly climbed the corporate ladder.

"Our progress was quick, and we still had a great deal of room to grow and develop," said Pollock. "We were both labor relations people which was principally a male-dominated field — in moving up, we were always the first women in our positions."

"We weren't blocked," agreed Moore.

They continue to encounter few difficulties with being women in the world of business ownership, saying, "We assume affirmative action."

INGERSOLL-RAND DELVO DC ELECTRIC SCREWDRIVERS

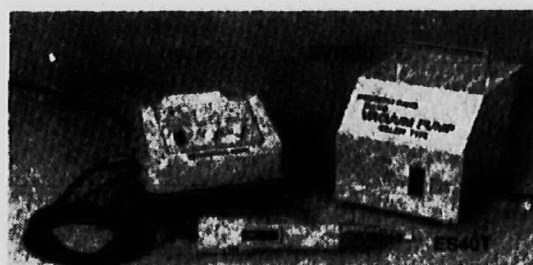

As computers and electronic equipment are designed to be more compact, the use of aluminum, plastic and other lightweight materials demand even lighter tolerances from production tools.

The Ingersoll-Rand Power Tool Division's family of assembly tools is strengthened with the introduction of the Delvo DC Electric Screwdrivers and Accessories. These new tools are designed to provide accurate torque for assembly requirements common in a variety of markets including the telecommunication equipment, office automation equipment and the computer and electronic industries. The eleven models of Ingersoll-Rand's new Delvo DC Electric Screwdriver family are capable of installing fasteners requiring as little as .04 inch pounds to as much as 40 inch pounds. Ingersoll-Rand Delvo Screwdrivers are powered with compact DC electric motors for precise control and can easily be set up in any location where 115 Volt AC is available. The screwdrivers are equipped with either a built-in or external controller which transforms alternating current to direct current, powers the motor, and controls the function of the automatic shutoff clutch. A special feature of the Delvo Screwdriver line is the vacuum pick-up system. Miniature screws such as those commonly used in eye-glass frames, micro-dictation equipment and computer disk drives are more easily handled with this simple and convenient system.

Long-term investors avoid market swings

I have been putting money in the dividend reinvestment plan of Chesebrough-Pond's for several years and have accumulated 156 shares.

I had planned to keep on building until I had 200 shares.

However, Chesebrough-Pond's recently bought the Stouffer Chemical Co., and there has been a lot of publicity in the paper with a number of financial writers saying that it wasn't a good move. Some are saying they would sell the stock.

Should I follow their advice and sell my shares.

ing these shares over the years on something similar to an installment plan suggests to me that you are a long-term investor and would probably be better off to continue adding to your shares rather than selling them.

If you are a short-term investor, you might be inclined to sell the stock and follow the recommendations of a number of financial analysts who have been quoted in recent newspaper articles.

THE REASON for their sell recommendation is not that the move is a bad one or that the company isn't a better one than it was before the acquisition.

in the 'white rhino' syndrome — rarer than rare — that you should be put in a cart and paraded through town."

They also struggle with the "superwoman" syndrome — as they balance work, career and personal lives.

"Support systems are incredibly important," said Moore. "Ranging from a family and friends to good child care arrangements, doctor services and stores that stay open for the hours that you need them. People still make assumptions that someone is at home. They are stereotypes of the American family that are not always true."

Both put in 10-hour days at work, which often includes weekends. Pollock says, "I think what we have said sometimes is that we need a wife."

"We're very sensitive to family needs here," said Moore. "We recognize that we need balance in our lives, and so does everyone else that works with us."

They would not give up their current positions.

"We've really enjoyed it," said Pollock. "You wouldn't possibly be doing this if you didn't enjoy it."

Some 'sell' signals perform better than others

Over the years, the pundits have developed many stock market sell signals, which have presumably worked for them.

Some of these signals are bizarre, like length of women's skirts, sun spots and abnormal temperature changes.

Others are more mundane and sensible. Today, we will discuss four signals that appeal to me.

Discount rate vis-a-vis Treasury Bill rate

One of the best-known sell signals is the crossing over of the 90-day Treasury Bill rate over the Federal Reserve's discount rate. Both rates are regularly published in the local newspapers.

The Treasury Bill rate is the best indicator of the tightness or easiness prevailing in the current market, whereas the discount rate is the rate the Fed charges on the loans it makes to its member banks.

Whenever the Treasury Bill rate has risen above the discount rate, stock prices have declined on a monthly basis about 75 percent of the time.

The reason is simple: An increase in the short-term rates signals a tightening of credit conditions which, in turn, harms the stock market.

Real corporate profits

Stock prices are a function of cor-finances and you

porate profits. The higher the corporate earnings, the higher the potential for an increase in the related stock prices.

Real corporate profits are easy to track, since they are published every quarter by the Department of Commerce in the Wall Street Journal and "Business Week."

Tightening action by Fed

We know that a tightening action by the Fed lowers stock prices. Three consecutive tightening actions generally signal the end of a bull market.

The tightening action may result from an increase in the discount rate, member bank reserve requirements, or stock market margin requirements. Whenever the Fed decides that inflation is too high or that the dollar needs strengthening, it takes tightening actions as a corrective measure.

Such a measure usually lowers corporate profits. Lower profits lead to lower stock prices.

Leading indicators

The Department of Commerce regularly publishes an Index of Leading Indicators. A fall in this index precedes a bear market.

Obviously, it is important to keep a close track of this index.

Personal taxes

An impending increase in personal taxes generally lowers stock prices. Personal taxes have not been raised in recent years, but a cut in taxes less than anticipated also could lower stock prices.

Next issue: the timing concept.

Educational seminar: Tax, investment and financial planning seminar sponsored by Observer & Eccentric Newspapers and Coordinated Financial Planning Inc. 7-9:30 p.m. Thursday, May 15. The seminar will be held at the Bloomfield Township Library, 1099 Lone Pine, Bloomfield Hills.

For registration, call 643-8888.

Sid Mittra is director of certificate program in personal finance at Oakland University and president of Coordinated Financial Planning Inc. in Troy.

Business owes 80 percent of uncollected taxes

More than 80 percent of Michigan's $400 million in uncollected taxes is owed by businesses.

According to the Michigan Tax Information Council, two of the most common causes of business delinquency are failures to turn over sales tax ($100 million outstanding) or employee withholding taxes (more than $75 million).

In contrast, individuals in arrears on their personal income tax account for about $55 million.

State Treasurer Robert Bowman expects Michigan's tax amnesty program, coupled with the stepped-up enforcement efforts recently approved by the Legislature, to enable the state to recover $50 million in lost tax revenue.

Bowman noted that included in the delinquent taxpayers are persons who made mistakes or didn't fully understand their obligations. Among businesses, many borrowed the tax money they collected when interest rates were much higher to help them get through recent hard times.

Through June 30, individuals and businesses can settle up on unpaid taxes, including 9 percent interest without criminal penalties or fines. On July 1, new penalties and enforcement efforts go into effect.

The council reports that amnesty programs have worked well in states with large populations and diversified economies. Massachusetts recovered $85 million (and almost $500 million more in unanticipated returns during the two years following the amnesty), California recovered $147 million, and New York more than $300 million in a three-month program that ended earlier this year.

Lessons behind headlines

EVERY NOW and again events happen that give us the opportunity to learn or to put our heads in the sand. Recent weeks have offered two such opportunities.

The nuclear accident at Chernobyl was an obvious disaster for those whose health was immediately affected. Its impact on others will only be revealed in time. But what of those who did not die or who were not wounded? Is there anything to be learned?

The Russians screamed that the West exaggerated the effects of the accident. And indeed it does appear that some of the reports were exaggerated.

However, that exaggeration can perhaps be laid at the feet of the reluctant Russians, reluctant to be more open about what did happen. Their hush-hush response to the event certainly spawned the many exaggerations that followed the melt-down.

UNFORTUNATELY the refusal to admit to human failing is not limited to those whose seat of power is in the Kremlin. Nor does it make any difference in the long run whether such close-mindedness is practiced by allies, enemies or ourselves. The effects are, more often than not, the same.

Only those who can see the error of their ways will be motivated to change. That is as true in families as it is among nations. It is just as true moral perspectives

with terrorists as it is with those who would use terrorism to combat the very thing they abhor. Such refusal to admit shortcoming becomes a self-issued license to continue on the same path.

Whether it is the Russians insisting that they have been candid, or the Americans justifying the slaughter of civilians in Khadafy's Libya, the result is the same — nothing changes.

ANOTHER TRUTH from both of these events continues to show itself. Our world is far too sophisticated for anyone to pretend to living in a vacuum. The mistakes we make, be they accidental or calculated, leave us accountable to a wider world. We are citizens of the world first and only incidentally of one or the other nation.

The radioactive cloud blowing out of the skies in Chernobyl affects farmers' cows in Sweden and even the skies above our own beloved land. The anger over the air strikes on Tripoli has left more fear for tourists the world over than it has for terrorists.

We may be content to condemn the Russians for not sharing essential knowledge with the rest of the world. Or we may cite righteous anger as a justification for our own actions in Libya. In neither case have we solved a thing. In both instances we thus pass up the opportunity to see beyond the headlines to the lessons available for those with eyes to see.

MAKE NO mistake about it, the Russians were wrong in their everlasting secretiveness. The terrorists are evil in their violence. But what can the Russian secrecy say to us who tend to be self-servingly selective in our own candor?

Can there be anything learned from the fall-out over our air strikes on Libya? Or are we content to read the headlines and line up behind Rambo without learning anything about how we might diminish the things we fear the most?

Hollywood errs on road rally

THE IMMEDIATE visualization of extended road rally racing is more cinematic than realistic.

Blame Hal Needham and Burt Reynolds. They're the ones who romanticized the concept on film. Crazy cars and characters racing cross-country for a pile of loot big enough to fill a swimming pool.

Sorry to burst the bubble, but that's not too accurate a picture. It's really not even close.

ASK ANY of the participants in last week's One Lap of America, the longest, most grueling road rally around. They'll tell you just how crazy things got.

"Any mishaps along the way?" was the question. "Out-of-the-ordinary type stuff, like hitchhiking Martians or a run-in with rampaging bikers?"

"No, not at all," was Janice Telega's answer. "Everything went very well, which is why we did so well."

Perhaps some people go on these things — an eight-day, 8,000-mile rally — searching for adventure. Those that do better take along a fair supply of Groucho glasses and exploding cigars, because if they plan on doing even reasonably well they won't have time for pranks.

The competitors that filled the 120-car field had the same attitude as Telega, from Rochester: stick to business and do as well as possible.

That goal does not include streaking through the countryside at 130-mph. As Jeff Simpson, a Rochester Hills resident, explained quite simply, "I have to quit calling this a race. It was a rally."

Simpson and his co-drivers — Paul Drzyzga and Jon Lowell — piloted their 1986 Toronado to an 80th-place finish in the One Lap. Not too good, really, but were it not for one missed direction.

"We made one mistake," explained Simpson Monday, a day after arriving back in Detroit, One Lap's start and finish line. "We made a wrong turn just before the Pennsylvania section and it cost us."

WHAT THAT MISJUE cost was time and points. Speed is not essential in the One Lap. The drivers must navigate a tricky course at the proper speeds. All along the route are checkpoints. Drivers must reach them in a specified time. For each second they are early or late, they are penalized a point.

The drivers don't know where the checkpoints will be, just like they don't know what roads they'll be turning on. The directions they receive say merely "Turn left at the stop sign" or "Go 10 miles and turn right."

Does that sound like fun? Adventurous? Loads of laughs?

Personally, I have enough problems with directions in my own neighborhood. Eight days of this stuff, and I'd probably end up somewhere near Chernobyl, glowing like a lightning bug.

Forget the romance of those lighthearted movies. What the One Lap is is both boring and tense, total fatigue tearing at minds that must stay alert.

Simpson's team found out after their wrong turn. "There's no way to catch up, to make up time," he said. "We were late getting to the Pennsylvania section, and we got penalized for that over and over and over."

"It's an unforgiving type of race — I mean, rally."

THE WRONG TURN cost the team about 2,000 points and ruined their chance to finish perhaps as high as 25th. Telega and her teammates — Louise Olson of Westland and Dennis Millinoff — didn't make a wrong turn. They didn't have a breakdown, either. That's why they placed 14th.

"We're novices at it, really," said Telega. "The first 12 to finish were almost all professional teams."

What's that adage about women drivers? Telega and Olson proved that to be hokey.

It's difficult to practice for something as enduring as the One Lap, but Millinoff, the experienced team member — he drove in last year's rally — entered the threesome in a few SCCA-sponsored road rallies.

"We always got lost," said Telega of the practice sessions. "We never did very well. But we got our act together for the One Lap."

Indeed they did. Their point total was a mere 138. Translated, that means they were within 138 seconds of the exact times they were supposed to check in throughout the eight-day event.

How far did they finish out of first? Quite a bit, surprisingly. The winners had just 34 points.

ALMOST EVERY car had computers to help in navigation and timing. Some had back-up computers, and back-ups to back-ups. Rand McNally sponsored a car with a navigation system that included a satellite dish on top of the car.

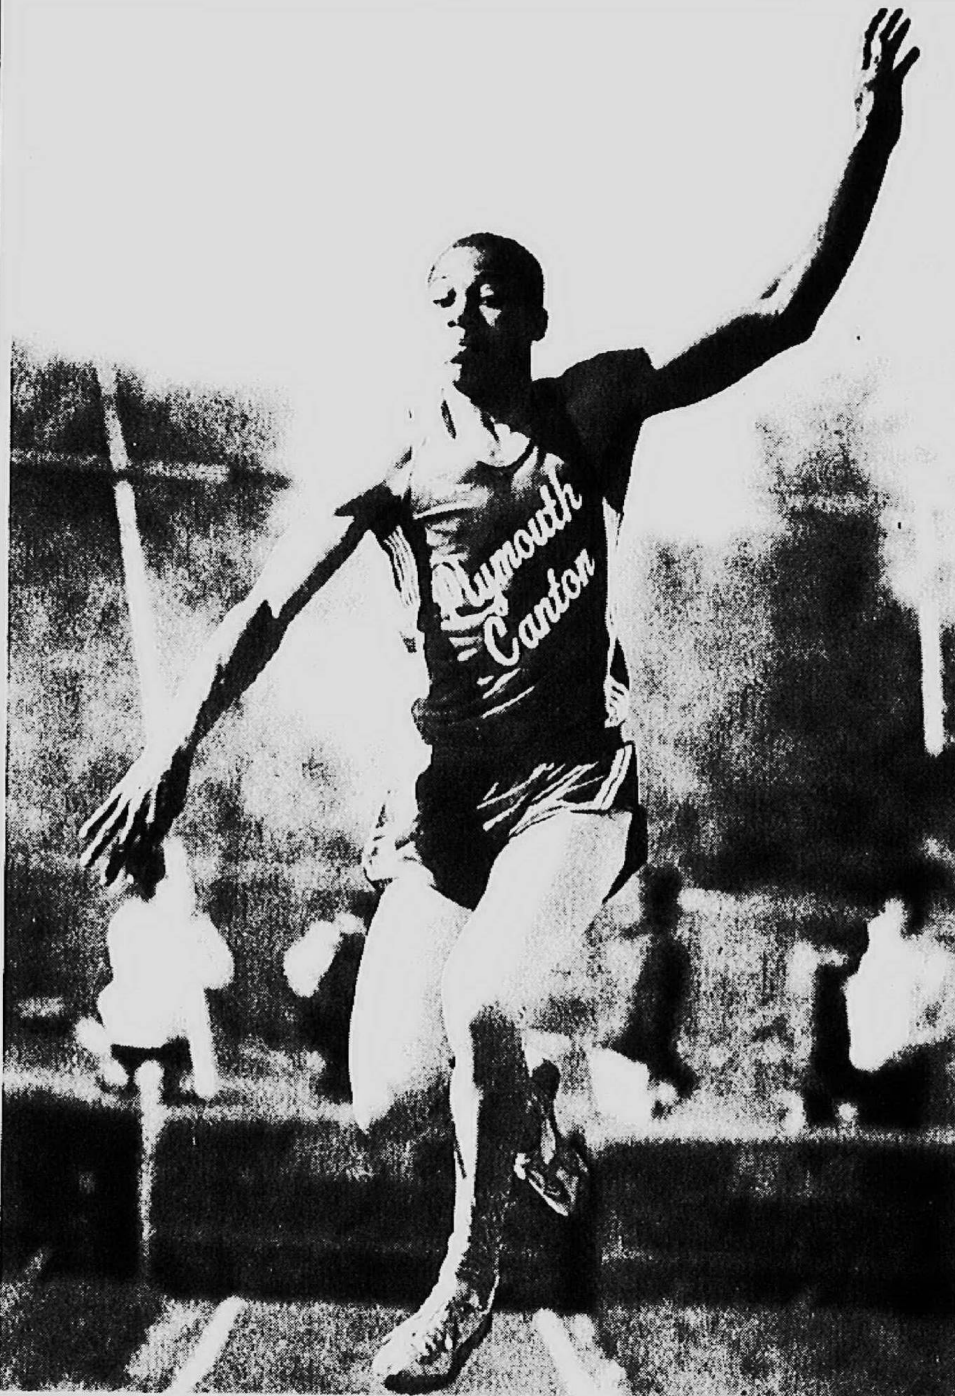

Such sophisticated devices didn't help much, though. As Telega astutely pointed out, "A satellite hook-up won't tell you where the picket fence you have to turn at is."

Like in the movies, there were some unusual vehicles among the 123 entries: a motorcycle, motor homes, a stretch limousine, even a turbo-powered Checker cab.

None of the specialties fared too well, which says something about the no-nonsense attitude common to One Lap participants: most importantly, to finish the race (120 of the 123 entries did just that), and secondly, to do as well as possible.

There were stories to tell, to be sure. Simpson's team had a buzzard hit the windshield. There was no damage, which means they fared better than the car that had a crow strike and shatter the driver's-side window.

If you think that sounds like a fun way to spend your vacation, then I know of a summer camp in Libya that might interest you. And yet, Simpson and Telega shared the same feeling for One Lap: They'd do it again, without hesitation.

State's top 2 play 0-0 draw

By Brad Emons
staff writer

A tie is like kissing your sister, but in Livonia Churchill's case it guaranteed the Chargers a Western Lakes Soccer League title.

The state's No. 1 and 2 ranked girls teams, Churchill and Livonia rival Stevenson, battled last night to a scoreless draw before a larger than normal crowd at Churchill.

It was the regular season finale for both teams. Churchill's finished with a 12-0-2 league record, while Stevenson, tied Monday 2-2 by Plymouth Salem, settled for second place, one point behind at 11-0-3.

Although Churchill succeeds Stevenson as Western Lakes champions, there was little jumping for joy by the Charger camp after the match.

"I'm very pleased we won the league championship and our division," said Churchill coach Ed Dudek, whose team is 17-0-2 overall. "This tie is going to get us more hungry the second time around. We didn't lose anything. I don't think our girls realize what they accomplished."

IT WAS A DEFENSIVE battle nearly all the way. Churchill, led by dangerous frontliners Jennifer Huegli and Amy Weber, made a number of dashes at Stevenson goalie Elaine Zager, but were turned back by the Spartans' defensive trio of Tina Gelmsi, Sue Zatorski and Marci Jamrog.

"A lot of people thought we'd get blown off the field," said Stevenson coach Norene Divens, whose team is 15-0-3 overall. "I'm so impressed with our girls. They all played their hearts out."

In the first half, Stevenson had its way territorially for the most part, but Churchill had the best scoring opportunity when Zager, using her left hand, punched away a low-hard drive by Huegli.

"Zager has just been fantastic this year and she has no high school experience," Divens said. "A lot of the credit should go to my assistant coach Rick Galindo. He spends all his time with her and he's the one totally responsible for her performance."

IN THE SECOND HALF, each team threatened on a couple of occasions, but to no avail. The game's only anxious moment came with only two seconds remaining when Stevenson's Lori Green was fouled by a Charger defender just 10 yards in front of the net.

The Spartans' Paula Divens tried the indirect free kick, but a Charger wall, led by Chris Paciero, stopped the last-gasp attempt.

"I felt coming in that they wouldn't score much against us," Dudek said. "Defensively we shut them down. I figured it would be a low scoring game because we've been winning a lot lately with defense."

Dudek admitted that he altered his strategy for Stevenson.

"We played more defense," he said. "We changed our formation and some of our kids were a little confused. We had trouble breaking out offensively. We were sending the ball in two against three."

Stevenson, meanwhile, travels tomorrow to Dearborn in another state tournament match. If both teams win their next two matches, they'll meet again at 2 p.m. Saturday at Plymouth Canton for the regional championship. The format is sudden death and there will be no ties.

Glenn ends Rocks' run

The best team in Observerland met up with the hottest team Monday, and the best won — barely.

Westland John Glenn (19-1), who has steamrolled through the Western Lakes this season, beat high-riding Plymouth Salem 2-1 behind the four-hit pitching of Steve Irwin.

Salem had won eight straight games prior to Monday.

Irwin walked six Rocks, an unusual statistic for the potential all-stater, and was in trouble throughout the game. But he never allowed the base hit that would break his back.

"We had bases loaded in the first, and we had a guy on second base in five of the seven innings," said Salem coach John Gravlin. "He's just so tough. His curve ball is the best I've seen thrown by a high school kid. If he just threw us his fastball, we'd hit him. But he keeps you off stride."

The Rocks had tied the game at 1-1 in the top of the seventh. Sean Worden led off with a pinch-hit single. Paul Makara, running for Worden, advanced to third on a pair of passed balls. He scored on a long sacrifice fly from Mike Kesson.

Craig Hawley, Salem's starter, allowed just four hits over 5 1/3.

PRIOR TO the loss, the Rocks had been on fire. After a 3-5 start, Salem beat Livonia Franklin, Hazel Park and Walled Lake Central twice, Farmington once and Northville twice.

The Rocks banged out 10 home runs in the sweep of Central.

"The turnabout happened partly because I finally settled on a pitching rotation," Gravlin said. "Shane Smith is working strictly out of the bullpen now, and he's been very effective. Hawley has given us a big lift."

'It's been fun to see everything kind of fall into place. It took a while, though.'

— John Gravlin
Salem coach

The win streak coincided with the return of senior catcher Steve Dawson. The Rocks are 8-1 since his return.

Other contributors have been Kesson (four homers over the eight games), Curt White (two homers) and Tim Dowd (two game-winning RBI, including a seventh-inning three-run double in a 5-2 win at Northville Friday).

"It's been fun to see everything kind of fall into place," Gravlin said. "It took a while, though."

The Rocks are 11-6 overall, 8-6 in the Western Lakes.

PLYM. CHRISTIAN 13, LUTHERAN NW 6: The Eagles belted out 21 hits to raise their record to 12-2 Monday.

Todd Gentry and Dave Cadaret each had three hits, Chris Kiser two.

Jeff Leach got the win with relief help from Jim McCarthy.

FRANKLIN 8, CANTON 3: Livonia Franklin (12-7) scored all eight runs in the first two innings to defeat the Chiefs.

Bob Solnikowski scattered seven hits. The Chiefs are 9-11 on the season.

Cerbes heads ice show cast

Midwestern and regional figure-skating champions will be featured in this weekend's "Celebration On Ice" show at the ice arena of the Plymouth Cultural Center.

One performer in the spotlight will be Grant Noroyan, midwestern and national competitor who won the Eastern Great Lakes Region title in 1985 and 1986. Noroyan will be skating in every show.

Another featured skater will be Gwen Cerbes, a 10th grader at Plymouth Salem High School who was the novice ladies champion at the 1985 Eastern Great Lakes Regional and at the 1985 Midwesterns.

The show will begin 7:30 p.m. tomorrow, 1:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. Saturday, and at 3 p.m. Sunday. Ticket prices are $3 for adults, $1.50 for senior citizens and youth 12 and younger. There will be a special $1 ticket at the Saturday afternoon performance for all students of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

The show is sponsored by Plymouth Parks and Recreation at the Cultural Center, 525 Farmer at Theodore.

BESIDES NOROYAN and Cerbes, the show will feature recreation department basic skills students in a variety of music numbers.

Cerbes, who entered the department's program at age 5, has been skating for 10 years. She trains at the Cultural Center four to five hours a day, six days a week.

She also competed in the U.S. Nationals last year. Thus year she moved up a division and now is competing as a junior lady. She finished fourth in the junior ladies competition this year at Eastern Great Lakes and competed in the 1986 Midwestern Championships.

Other local skaters performing will be Jenny Patero, 1986 Eastern Great Lakes Regional Champion in juvenile ladies; Brian Scherle, third in the same competition in pre-juvenile men's; Jenny DeJohn, first in pre-juvenile ladies at Eastern Great Lakes; and Christen Komlen, first in pre-juvenile ladies, Eastern Great Lakes, but in a different flight than DeJohn.

THE CO-DIRECTORS of this

year's Celebration On Ice are Theresa McKendry and Barb Miller.

"We start planning the show in January and things get busier and busier as we get closer to the show dates," says McKendry.

An important part of that planning is picking a theme for the show and selecting the music. "The music is a critical part of the show and takes a lot of careful thought," says Miller.

Tryouts for the solo numbers were held in February and then the skaters for the group numbers were selected.

And then the costumes were ordered. "Ordering the costumes might sound easy," said McKendry, "but ordering a variety of costumes in all different sizes, and then making sure every skater gets his or her costume, is no easy task."

McKendry and Miller have averaged about three to four hours a day working on the show since February. They have been assisted by the other skating pros at the Cultural Center who worked on at least three musical numbers each.

Rocks tie No. 2 Spartans

It's doubtful that Plymouth Salem has put together back-to-back soccer games as well played as the two last week.

On Saturday, the Rocks advanced in the state tournament with a 3-0 victory against Livonia Ladywood. The Rocks will host Livonia Churchill Friday in the pre-regional match.

Monday, the Rocks played No. 2 ranked Livonia Stevenson to a 2-2 tie. It was the first time since 1983 that Rocks came away from a Stevenson match without a loss.

Freshman Jill Estey has been the driving force behind the Salem success. She has 18 goals, four shy of Julie Tortora's single-season scoring record.

Against Ladywood, she scored two goals and assisted on the third. Jennifer Belhart got the third goal. Ellen Schnackel stopped 10 shots in that game to earn her seventh shutout of the season. That ties Sarah Wallman's record for most shutouts in a season.

IN THE Stevenson match, Estey set up Salem's first goal: her corner kick was banged in by Belhart. That goal evened the match at 1-1.

Before that goal, Salem had hit the crossbar behind Zager three times.

The shots on goal were even, 15 apiece.

CANTON 4, A.A. HURON 0: The Chiefs advanced to the pre-regional round of eight with this convincing win Tuesday night. Canton outshot Ann Arbor Huron 24-2.

Kendra Whiteley scored twice for Mike Morgan's team, Michelle Lonigro added a goal and an assist. Shannon Meath scored the final goal. Lori Stoecklein and Candi Jones earned assists.

The Chiefs (8-6-1) were defeated by Livonia Churchill 3-0 in a Western Lakes clash Monday.

Canton goalie Jenny Saul made 16 saves Monday but the effort couldn't prevent the Chiefs from bowing to the state's No. 1 team.

The Chiefs will host Northville at 4 p.m. Friday in the pre-regional. The Salem-Churchill match will follow at 7:30.

Falcon boys runner-up

Two points were all that separated the Farmington boys track team from the Bloomfield Hills Lahser Relays title last Saturday.

The Falcons registered 55 points, the same as Birmingham Brother Rice, which was two points shy of champion Southfield.

Ron Smedley, Bruce Kratt, Al Stebbins and Chris Inch won the distance medley in 10:46.1 — a new Falcon record.

Kratt, Inch, Matt Walter and Stebbins won the 4-mile relay in 18:15.8. Rob Huta, Darrell Tharnish and Andy Holliday won the pole vault (34-0) and Craig Petersmark, Ed Sudzina and Tom Stanek took the shot put (135-0).

North Farmington placed eighth overall in the meet, but earned a first in the 400-meter relay. Marc Brown, Mark Weintraub, Chris Christman and Scott Selzer were clocked in 43.9.

An out away from win, Rocks fall to GC

By Larry O'Connor
Staff writer

Garden City came back enough times to win three games Tuesday in a non-league softball game against Plymouth Salem.

And after the third time the Cougars finally got it right, winning 5-4 over the heavy-hitting Rocks in a nine-inning opener of a double-header. The Cougars then duplicated their first game feat by winning the nightcap of a double-header at Garden City Park, 5-4, in another nine-inning thriller.

It was unbeaten GC's 23rd and 24th wins this season.

"We've come back in three games this season," said GC coach Jim Lencic. "But we've never come back three times in one game."

Mary Hebert kept the No. 1-ranked Cougars perfect by slapping a base hit to right-center field to score Shelly Malone with the winning run in the bottom of the ninth.

Until that point, Salem (15-5 and ranked No. 4 in Observerland) was on a crusade to snap the Cougars' unbeaten string. Going into the seventh inning, the Rocks led 3-2.

THEN FUNNY stuff started happening.

With two outs in the seventh, Mikey Gorak lofted a soft fly ball in front of the pitcher's mound. Salem's Maggie Meissner moved under it and watched in horror as the ball bounced out of her mitt.

Karen Sandman was then safe on a fielder's choice, advancing Gorak to second. Malone then connected for a base hit, scoring Gorak to tie the game, 3-3.

After Salem took a 4-3 lead in eighth on a double by Meissner and an error, the Cougars had a little two-out magic in the bottom of the inning. Amy Thompson knocked in Tracy Rickards with an RBI single to knot the score 4-4.

Hebert's game-winning hit in the ninth came with one out.

The win preserved Malone's winning streak at 21 straight, but she was roughed up in the early going.

Bonnie Waller, the Rocks designated hitter, went 3-for-3. Her home run in the second inning gave Salem a 2-0 lead. Salem scored an unearned run in the first on after Jessica Handley got on with an error, stole two bases and came home on a ground out.

Salem tips Pats; Pats dump Chiefs

The Plymouth Salem softball team earned a measure of revenge against nemesis Livonia Franklin Saturday in the finals of the Walled Lake Invitational.

Salem and Franklin met in the finals, and for the first time in three years Salem beat Franklin and pitcher Tracy Lectka, 3-2.

Salem pitcher Maggie Meissner limited the Patriots to just three hits.

Leslie Plichta, one of the few hitters in the area to hit Lectka consistently well, drove home the tying and game-winning runs with a two-run single.

The Rocks had little trouble in their three preliminary contests. They whipped Waterford Our Lady of the Lakes 14-1, Walled Lake Western 8-1 and Lake Orion 18-8. Meissner picked up wins in the first two games. Kim Berrie was the winner against Lake Orion.

Meissner was named the tourney's MVP, with three pitching wins and a .375 batting average.

Jessica Handley carried the hottest bat throughout the tournament, batting .471 (8-for-17) with a home run and seven RBI. Denise Tackett had four hits and knocked in seven runs.

THE ROCKS were brought back to earth Monday by Westland John Glenn, losing a key 7-6 Western Lakes decision.

The victory draws Glenn within a half-game of Salem in the Lakes Division. Salem is 9-3, Glenn 9-4.

Wasted in the defeat was a mammoth home run by Tackett.

"It was the farthest ball I've seen hit in our ballpark," said Salem coach Rob Willette. "It was the only highlight of the game."

Tackett had two hits on the day, as did Darlene Gagleard.

Salem is 15-4 overall, Glenn is 12-5.

FRANKLIN 9, CANTON 0: Tracy Lectka allowed four hits and struck out 10 Monday as the Patriots lengthened their lead over Plymouth Canton in the Western Division.

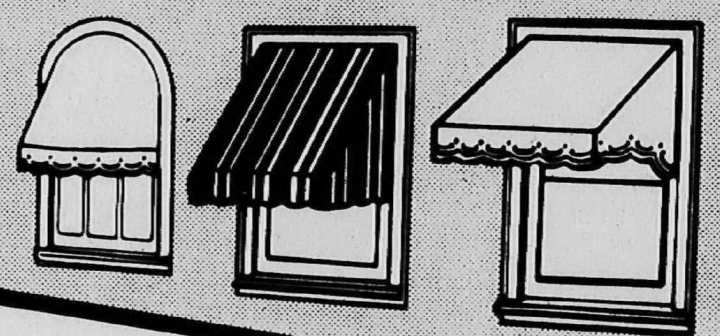

Laura Darby got two of the Canton hits, one of which was a double.

Kris Roman knocked in four runs for Franklin (19-4-1 overall).

At long last Chief boys grab Mangan title

The Plymouth Salem boys track team found that out Monday, as rival Plymouth Canton beat them 78-59 in the boys half of the Mangan Relays.

It was the first time Canton has won a dual track meet from the Rocks.

"I had a long talk with the kids after the meet," said Salem coach Gary Balconi. "I told them that, first of all, no one goes forever without getting beat. It's not that we are a bad team or anything like that. Canton was just better this day. I told them if they made their best efforts, then their biggest concern should be what's for lunch."

The turning point in the meet was the 440-yard dash. Salem has a good stock of sprinters, but on this day, Canton took 1-2-3.

"We didn't expect that," Balconi said. "That really hurt us."

DAVE WASKIN took first place with a 52.29. Jim Young was second (52.95) and Chris Hayosh third (53.16).

Canton also swept the long jump with Tyrone Reeves (20.7). Roger Trice (19.3½) and Geoff Estevez (18.2½).

Salem had the meet's lone double-winner. Brian Neuhardt won the 100 (no official time) and the 220 (22.65).

Other winners for the Rocks were Bill Campbell in the shot put (42-5), Ron Piwko in the pole vault (12-6), Eric Pahl in the 880 (2:09.4) and Bill Atwell in the 2-mile (10:26.46).

Salem won both the 880 relay (1:33.15) and mile relay (3:35.15).

THE CHIEFS took two of the first three places in both hurdle events. Bryan Whiteley (15.37) and Dan Houdek (15.58) went 1-2 in the 120-yard highs, while Houdek (40.73) and Whiteley (41.95) went 1-3 in the 330 lows.

Mike Luttrell earned the Chiefs an unexpected first in the discus with a 124-9. Steve Jenyk won the high jump with a 6-2. Jay Swiecki captured the mile run with a 4:39.93.

Canton claimed both the 440 relay (46.16) and the 2-mile relay (8:30.99).

It's been a big year for the Chiefs. They won the Observerland meet, have yet to lose a dual meet and now, for the first time, have their name on the Mangan trophy.

Hail to the Chiefs, indeed.

The girls half of the Mangan meet, rained out last Tuesday, has been reset for 3:30 p.m. Monday.

Pole vault decides it, Salem edges Raiders

Ron Piwko's 13-0 vault insured Plymouth Salem's 69-68 Western Lakes victory against North Farmington.

Salem also won the last track event of the day, edging North in the mile relay (3:35.76).

North had three double winners. Wes Pringle took both the shot put (46-4½) and the discus (133-4). Scott Selzer won the 100-yard dash (10.45) and the 220 (23.33). Kirk Armstrong won both the mile (4:32.45) and the 2-mile (10:22.69).

For Salem, Mike Albertson captured the high jump with a 6-½ and set a Salem freshman record. Chris Range won the 120 high hurdles (15.99) and Jeff Armstrong won the 330 low hurdles (41.16).

The Rocks are 3-2.

Beginning at 4:30 tonight, Salem is hosting an all-area junior varsity track and field meet. All Western Lakes schools will compete. Field events begin at 4:30, running events at 6 p.m.

Salem bowlers take area tourney

Plymouth Salem and Livonia Stevenson were the big winners at the fourth annual Western Lakes Bowling Tournament Monday at Country Lanes in Farmington.

The Salem boys team posted a three-game total 2,018 to edge Livonia Stevenson (2,001) and Farmington (1,918).

The Stevenson girls team nipped Farmington by one pin, 1,764 to 1,763. A Livonia team made up of girls from Churchill and Franklin

Other schools competing were Farmington Harrison, North Farmington, Northville, Walled Lake Central and Walled Lake Western.

Northern taps Pete Podrasky

By Chris McCosky
staff writer

As of two years ago, scouts from the Western Collegiate Hockey League avoided Michigan Junior A hockey rinks like Dracula avoids sunlight.

So pardon the smiles on the faces of A.J. Baker, Lyle Miller, Bobby Daniels and other Junior A coaches and administrators: Three players from the fledgling North American Junior Hockey League have signed college letters to play in the WCHL.

Mike Williams will attend Ferris State, Ron Ralston signed with Michigan Tech and Plymouth's Pete Podrasky will play at Northern Michigan.

"These guys have helped open the eyes of the WCHL scouts," said Baker, a coach with the Junior A Hennessy Engineers. "There's no doubt that the talent has been here for many years. But it hasn't been advertised or promoted. Therefore, it hasn't been seen by the people who make the decisions."

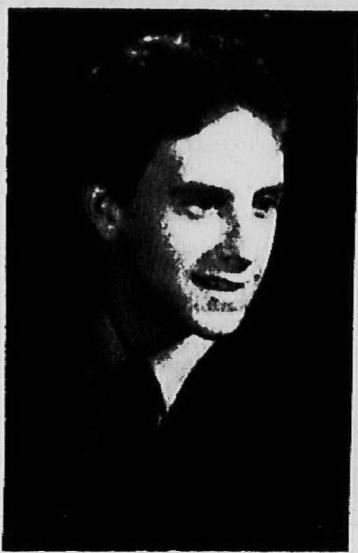

"But guys like Lyle Miller, Jeff Jackson, Bobby Daniels and Mark Kauffman (Junior A coaches and administrators) have made tremendous in-roads in putting Michigan Junior A hockey in the eyes of the coaches, scouts and bird-dogs of the Division I schools in the Midwest."

TWO YEARS ago, a player like Podrasky, a smallish (5-9, 165 pounds) defenseman, would have been overlooked by Division I scouts. His hopes of playing college hockey would rest upon a walk-on tryout with the school of his choice — very few walk-ons are given an opportunity to play.

"Pete makes his presence felt. People will notice him," said Baker, who coached Podrasky with the Engineers. "He's very impressive on the ice. He's a fluid skater and he handles the puck well. He takes control."

Baker thinks Podrasky will fit in nicely at Northern.

"Northern has had success in the past with defensemen like Don Waddell and Tom Laidlaw — smaller guys who are fast and can carry the puck," said Baker. "Pete is kind of along those lines."

Pete Podrasky heading north

But Podrasky knows he's got his work cut out for him.

"There's a big difference between junior hockey and college," the Catholic Central senior said. "The players have a lot more strength at the college level. The coaches told me that I have the speed and the moves with the puck, but I need to get stronger."

PODRASKY, WHO had 44 points in 47 games with Engineers last season, is being tabbed as one of the top six defensemen coming into camp at Northern next season. He is also slated for duty on power plays.

"To be considered among the top six defensemen in an established program like Northern, for a first-year player, it's got to be like a dream come true," said Baker.

In fact, it is. Podrasky has wanted to play college hockey since his mid-teen days. He shunned high school hockey in favor of juniors "because the scouts just aren't there," he said.

Two years ago, he played on Compuware's national champion Midget AAA team and last year traveled to Boston with the Team Michigan to compete in the U.S. Junior Olympics.

Pete Podrasky, like Michigan Junior A hockey, has come a long way.

Slavin makes most of his Big 8 chance

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

Dave Slavin almost made Matt Greer into a Pipp last season — that's Pipp as in Wally.

Wally Pipp was a New York Yankee first baseman who, before one game, told his manager that he didn't feel well.

So the manager, in a bind, stuck a still wet-behind-the-ears kid named Lou Gehrig at first on that day in 1923. Pipp never started at first again.

Last season when Greer, University of Missouri's No. 1 catcher, went down with an arm injury, Tigers coach Gene McArtor looked down the bench and put in freshman Slavin, the Plymouth Salem grad. Slavin hit .310 and drove in 11 runs in 24 games during Greer's absence.

As a result, Slavin came into fall practice as the Tigers' No. 1 catcher. It was understandable if Greer felt a bit Pipped.

"AT THE TIME when Greer was injured, Dave still was an unknown talent," said McArtor, whose team is in the Big Eight tournament this week. "He had sporadic playing time until then . . . We were definitely pleased with the way he stepped in for us."

But with Greer back to full health, McArtor had the choice between two catchers of virtually equal talent. The only difference between the two is that they batted from the opposite sides of the plate.

The use of two catchers in Big Eight baseball is almost a necessity, playing in such outposts as Oklahoma City, where temperatures can soar into the 100s.

"You couldn't catch every game, day in and day out," said Slavin. "I've caught back-to-back double-headers on weekends and it wears you down . . . You've got to have two catchers."

The platoon system hasn't detracted from Slavin's hitting. Going into this week, the 6-1 backstop sported a .370 average. Greer was hitting .271 after 52 games.

SLAVIN WOULDN'T mind a crack at some southpaw pitching on a regular basis, but he has resigned himself to his current role.

"I don't like not playing against left-handed pitching," said Slavin, "but there's not much I can do."

Slavin, though, is hardly upset. The fact that he's even playing Big Eight baseball, where Major Leaguers Pete Incaviglia and Bobby Whitt came from, is almost an accomplishment in itself.

But with the prep stats he accumulated at Salem, Slavin was pegged to go on to bigger and better things. He hit .544 in his senior year for the Rocks, clubbing eight home runs and driving in 45 runs.

Yet Slavin admittedly had one drawback in high school — his defense. It's improved considerably at Missouri, despite having four throwing errors this season.

McArtor doesn't see Slavin's arm as being a problem.

"Defensively, he does a good job of calling the games for us," said McArtor. "He does a good job of blocking (wild pitches) also. I think we have to work with all our catchers to make them better throwers."

"I'VE HAD a little tightness in my arm and in my shoulder," said Slavin. "It's not serious. I'm not receiving treatment for it or anything."

The treatment of opposing pitchers by Slavin has been rude, to say the least. In Big Eight play alone, he's hitting .333.

McArtor, though, still thinks Slavin could use some improvement at the plate.

"He has a tendency to jam himself," said McArtor. "He's trying to get away from pulling the ball and using more of the field. As he comes up against more sophisticated pitching, he'll have to give in a little."

Spraying the ball a little more is just one facet in the overall picture for Slavin, who hopes to get a shot at professional baseball. He already has an idea of what it will take to make it to big leagues.

"I think it's just consistency," said Slavin. "I have some good days when I'm really hitting well, and I have some days when I'm not hitting so well. The key is just doing well everyday."

Lang accepts Churchill cage post

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Tom Lang is back coaching girls basketball in the Western Lakes and that may be bad news for the rest of the league.

With a record that rivals Plymouth Salem's Fred Thomann, Lang has taken the reigns at Livonia Churchill, replacing Roger Springsteen, who resigned recently after posting a 28-34 record in three seasons.

Lang is best remembered for his coaching prowess at Livonia Bentley.

During an eight-year stint before the school closed its doors in 1985, Lang's overall record was 152-36. He guided the Bulldogs to four league championships, including the 1983 Western Lakes title, along with five district and two regional crowns.

Because of seniority rules in the Livonia Public Schools, Lang was forced to take a sabbatical, of sorts, last season.

"It was tough not coaching a varsity team, but I had the JV boys last year (at Churchill) to help alleviate that," Lang said. "And I coached the ninth-grade girls at Churchill so it helped me quite a bit."

SPRINGSTEEN stepped down after Churchill finished its most successful girls basketball campaign ever, posting a school record 14 wins in 21 games.

"I have two daughters, 11 and 8 years, and I needed to spend more time with them," said Springsteen, the departing coach. "I coached for 19 years (in Livonia) and I think I'll miss it, but I knew the day would come when I'd have to step aside."

"I'm sure Tom will do a great job. A lot of the kids he already knows."

Lang forsook an adjustment period at Churchill.

He said the team will be built around four senior returnees — Tracy Greenwald, Liz Monroe, Julie Scruggs and Nancy Call. Lang is familiar with Monroe and Scruggs. Both played for him as sophomores at Bentley.

"I'm going to have to gauge the type of material I have and see if I can do the same things I did at Bentley," he said. "I don't know if I can play the same way, but after the first year I'll train them for the type of ball I'm used to playing."

LANG'S BENTLEY TEAMS were noted for their aggressiveness, strength and fast-paced style. During Lang's coaching tenure, Bentley also developed a fierce rivalry with Salem for supremacy in the old Suburban Eight League, which carried on through to the new Western Lakes circuit.

Bentley produced several college basketball standouts including Kim Plachta and Ann Roy, Wayne State; Carla Campbell, Eastern Michigan; Krista Pray, Northern Michigan; Kim Archer, Michigan State; and Laurie Day, Lake Superior State.

Lang's most immediate concern is developing a cohesive coaching staff.

"One of the ingredients we had at Bentley is that our ninth grade and JV coach stayed with the program," he said. "Right now we have to find people at the ninth grade and JV level. That makes it tough to build."

Lang, a math teacher at Frost Junior High in Livonia, plans to open an eight- or nine-day clinic as soon as school lets out. He also plans to take his players to a team camp to either Michigan State or Western Michigan University.

Darnell survives knockdown in win

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Livonia middleweight Steve Darnell was down, but not out in his pro boxing match Friday night with Nathan Priestler of Philadelphia, Pa.

Surviving a rocky fourth round, Darnell rallied to score a six-round decision over Priestler in a bout at the Sands Hotel in Atlantic City, N.J.

The win kept Darnell's unbeaten record alive at 16-0-1 (includes nine knockouts). Priestler fell to 8-4-1.

"He (Priestler) just threw caution to the wind and unloaded some bombs at me," Darnell said. "He had me out and I was in serious trouble. I fought on instinct after that."

"I won the first three rounds, but then I got caught with a shot. I may have gotten a little careless. I was able to come back in the sixth round."

Darnell is scheduled to return to the ring Sunday, June 15, in Atlantic City as part of an undercard to the Livingstone Bramble-Terrance Ali championship fight, scheduled to be televised nationwide on ABC.

Vancouver's 100th sparks classy world fair

EXPO '86, and the area around the fair site in western Canada, are the big travel stories this summer. Photos of the exciting world's fair have been all over the television screen, and on magazine and newspaper pages, since Expo opened May 2 in Vancouver, British Columbia.

They will continue to tantalize us until the fair closes Oct. 13, but you will need a lot more than pretty pictures to help you plan a trip in that direction.

British Columbia is home country to me. I grew up there, went to university in Vancouver and had my first two newspaper jobs on weekly and daily newspapers in the Canadian west.

IT IS TRULY beautiful country, and I am eager to recommend it as a travel destination, but I am not happy about the limited information about Expo '86 that is available here in the Midwest.

There aren't enough toll-free numbers, or other sources of information, to make travel plans easy for the Midwestern traveler, so we literally have to go looking for it.

Everything that I have heard about EXPO '86 convinces me that this it is well worth the effort, so I plan a series of articles over the next few weeks to help you to find your way to and through that beautiful city by the Pacific.

Don't be diverted by unhappy memories of other world fairs, like those held recently in Knoxville and New Orleans. EXPO '86 is not a private fair, as those were, but a major event organized and funded by the government of Canada, the province of British Columbia and the city of Vancouver. The fair is Vancouver's 100th birthday party.

I VISITED the fair site last summer.

1-of-a-kind traveler Iris Jones contributing travel editor

mer. It is built along the edge of False Creek, an inlet in the downtown area. Thirty years ago False Creek was a warehouse wasteland, but it has been lovingly reclaimed as an area for residential and office life.

With or without a world class exposition, you will find tiny ferries running to the food markets, restaurants and tiny shops on nearby Granville Island.

What you will remember most about Vancouver, when the fair is long gone, is the beautiful setting, a huge harbour with the city set on various sea-washed peninsulas. Raise your eyes from the fair site and you will follow green treed mountains to the horizon.

This fair was so well planned that the fair buildings were mostly in place when I was there a year ago. The monorail which connects the site with other downtown areas, as well as the suburbs, was almost finished. (It's the same design as the Detroit monorail only it came under schedule and under budget).

YOU'VE READ some of the fair facts: 54 international pavilions in more than 80 pavilions; the first time that the United States, the Soviet Union and China have all had pavilions at the same fair; multiple variations on the theme of "World in Motion, World in Touch."

If you went to Expo '67 in Montreal you know what Canadian fair planners can do when they put their mind and money to it.

Until we visit the fair this month, I will concentrate on the logistics of travel.

I usually tell Canada travelers to call the local Office of Tourism Canada. It has been swamped with calls, and there really isn't the staff to handle them, so incoming calls (963-8686) are limited to between 2 and 4 p.m.

You may also write: Tourism Canada, 1900 First Federal Building, 1001 Woodward, Detroit 48226. In either case, you will get a package of information and a number for ResWest, the central accommodations reservation organization in Vancouver.

UNFORTUNATELY, ResWest does not have a toll-free number and you can wait up to half an hour at long distance rates to get through. The number is (604)662-3300.

It would be a miracle if you could get downtown accommodation for June/July/August but you can probably still get rooms in private homes in the suburbs. That's not bad because public transportation is excellent.

Most mid-summer travelers have made their plans already. If you haven't, think September and October when the kids are back at school. You will probably get reservations for those months.

THE BEST WAY to find space to such an event is usually by buying a package tour. Travel wholesalers buy blocks of rooms, so they can sell you air transportation, hotel rooms and fair tickets for a package price.

Your travel agent may have a good package to recommend. Michigan AAA has some tours. Many tour operators are selling tours of the northwest, the mountains or the inside passage, with stops at EXPO '86. Many cruise lines are also running to Alaska via Vancouver this year.

Explore them all, including UTL Holidays of Toronto, which has a toll free number: 1-800-387-2712. You can also call Tajair Vacations in Vancouver toll-free at 1-800-663-

A dazzling array of international talent is waiting to delight Expo visitors. More than 14,000 free on-site performances from around the world will be given through Oct. 13.

THE SEVEN major Expo theaters, three cabarets and two bandstands will emit a steady stream of pop, jazz, blues, rock, dance, comedy and musical revues. Artists scheduled to perform include Joan Rivers, Julio Iglesias, Mormon Tabernacle Choir and Canada's own Second City comedy troupe.

Polishing up their Polish heritage

By Marie McGee
staff writer

THERE WERE A couple of things that were different at the annual dance recital recently of the Polish Centennial Dancers of Plymouth.

It was larger and livelier than usual with the group dancing to a standing-room only audience.

"That hasn't happened since our first year," said a smiling Joanne Ygeal, director of the 100-member dance group that is based in Plymouth but draws members from many surrounding communities.

The reason for the overflow crowd was partly attributable to the efforts of the group's first male dancing teacher.

HE IS MARTY PACK, who holds a degree in ethnomusicology, the study of the music of a particular region and culture.

Pack happens to specialize in Polish dancing — and his expertise was visible in the more-ethnic-than-usual program the dance group performed this year.

For instance, there were nine old-world speciality dances — including Krakowskie Wesele, a Cracovian wedding dance, billed as the traditional Polish wedding ceremony. Part of the specialized dancing reflecting Polish heritage were several Tance Goralski, or dances of the mountaineers.

Pack also specializes in costuming which also aided in adding more color than usual to the spirited routines.

Of course, he didn't do that alone. A committee of mothers were at his beck and call.

In July, 42 of the dancers, accompanied by Pack, will journey to Krakow and Rzeszow in Poland where they will dance and have the opportunity to learn more about their Polish heritage.

Until then the group will practice its "Zatanczmy" — the Polish equivalent to "Let's dance."

Dancing is fun, but waiting has its drawbacks decides Theresia Radtke, 5, of Plymouth who waits with another performer for the recital to begin.

In a segment of the program called "Let's Polka Around the World," this couple did a Hop Scotch polka.

Holly Dale and David Gondoly dance the roles of bride and groom in the Cracovian wedding dance. The dance shows that during the celebrating, the village men try to steal the bride, but the groom comes to the rescue. The troupe will perform this dance in Poland in July.

Talk about living out of a suitcase, Heather Gentry, 9, of Plymouth is surrounded by them as she waits her turn to perform. She passes

I LOVE Hershey chocolate kisses, slightly chilled, of course.

One day Adam asked me, "What are those shiny things you're eating, dad?"

"Oh, Hershey kisses," I answered. "Here, take two, peel the foil off and then eat the chocolate."

So there we sat, peelin'-n'-eatin' and watching TV. Of course, I am a pro at peeling the foil off and one good pinch and the chocolate pops right out of the foil into my mouth.

Well, after a moment or two, I glanced down at Adam. He was sitting on the floor and all around him were about 300 tiny little pieces of aluminum foil wrappers. One kiss was still untouched and the heat from Adam's little hand was welding the foil to the chocolate treasure he was struggling to find.

I COULD SEE by his red face that Adam was thinking, "I don't care how good this stuff is, it can't be worth all this peeling."

So I gave him a tip.

"Here, just pull this little paper thing and it will open the foil for you." Needless to say, the tip worked and because of my big mouth, I can't keep a bag of kisses around the house for more than a few hours.

When it comes to art work, a tip is always a timesaver and sometimes a job saver. Here is a timesaver, often when airbrushing, an artist will use a template. If using a circle template, for example, the artist must tape over all the holes within range of the one he wishes to use. I have found that 3M "Post-it" pad paper masks areas quickly and is, of course, easily removed. It is also excellent for airbrushing straight lines.

HERE IS A job saver. While testing Canson's new coated airbrush paper, I accidentally discovered that a permanent black felt-tip pen produced a velvety black line. To my delight, I further discovered that it could easily and completely be scratched off with an Exacto knife.

The felt tip offers speed and ease of inking and the removability with a knife allows you to tighten up your design. Imagine inking in a border line or outline around a logo design.

'I have found that 3M "Post-it" pad paper masks area quickly and is, of course, easily removed. It is also excellent for airbrushing straight lines.'

If you cross the lines accidentally at the corners, all you have to do is scrape off your excess ink line.

Actually it is easier to purposely cross the lines and then scrape a perfectly square corner. It is so hard to outline around a letter. The slightest wiggle in your hand stands out terribly. With this technique, all you do is simply scrape off the wiggle and re-ink. I highly recommend that you experiment with this new technique.

ONE MORE QUICK tip. Often when doing a commercial job, your design requires you to screen an area to what is called a "ghost image." Well, it is hard to explain to your customer exactly what a "ghost image" is. On the other hand, it is too expensive to have an area screened just to show your customer a rough. So here's an idea sent in by Roy Meadows.

Do the design full black, then lay a sheet of tracing paper over the design. Next, lay the covered design down on a copier. The copy lens will only "see" what filters through the tracing paper. And what is printed often gives your customer a good idea what the finished screen will look like.

And one final tip: Never introduce your kids to your favorite candy.

● PIAZZAS HAVE PIAZZA

For the second year in a row, the Piazza Dance Co. of Northville won first-place trophies at the Dance Masters of Michigan statewide performing arts competition.

Each winning group was taught by one of the three sister-owners of the dance studio, in the Highland Lakes Shopping Plaza in Northville.

Gina Piazza of Livonia was instructor to "Six after Six," a senior variety jazz-tap group that danced to a medley of tunes from "The Cotton Club."

These girls included Michelle Esper, 18, of Farmington Hills; Krystan Lim, 14, of Westland; Kirstin Schmidt, 14, of West Bloomfield; Lisa Bonkowski, 21, of Novi.

Denise Sleete of Walled Lake taught a junior group of girls called "Bandstand Boppers," who performed a jazz routine to "Bandstand Boogie."

All three winning dances, plus others, will be featured in the studio's annual dance recital at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, June 19 at Walled Lake Western High School.

● CARVERS HONORED

Two Livonia artists, Bob Perrish and John Elliott, were named winners in the 1986 World Championship Wildfowl carving competition last month in Ocean City, Maryland.

Perrish won a first in species (gadwall), a second in species (scaup) and a second best for a marsh duck. Elliott won a first place in the Lem and Steve Ward shooting stool contest.

The annual event, which features competition between the leading wildfowl artists in the world, is sponsored by the Ward Foundation of Salisbury, Md., which operates the North American Wildfowl Art Museum on the campus of Salisbury State College.

'Fr. Koesler's' fate hinges on movie outcome

By Victoria Diaz

MYSTERY NOVELIST William X. Kienzle considers his return to Livonia recently a "triumph of hope over experience."

Speaking to an overflow audience of 200 at the Alfred Noble Library, Kienzle recalled his previous appearance in the city.

"I competed in a pancake-flipping contest (at Livonia Spree) with Miss Livonia," Kienzle said. "As I remember, the only people in attendance at that momentous event were a few maintenance men."

"By the way, I lost the contest."

While the silver-haired Kienzle may have lost an occasional pancake-flipping contest his eight mystery novels, beginning with "The Rosary Murders" in 1979 and continuing through his just-published "Deathbed," have sold pretty much like the proverbial hotcakes.

THE TALES of the fictional Detroit super-sleuth, Fr. Bob Koesler, have been translated into nine languages, and filming of "The Rosary Murders" (with actor Donald Sutherland in the role of Koesler) recently got under way at Detroit's Holy Redeemer Church.

Kienzle, whose appearance was sponsored by the Friends of the Library, had comments about writing, today's book business and the filming of his first novel.

The former priest said he has been more apprehensive than excited about the filming of the Rosary Murders. Kienzle, who did not write the screen play said, "I don't know what's going on out there. But I am somewhat concerned about what they are doing with the character of the priest."

He said referred to newspaper accounts that Holy Redeemer pastor Fr. Joseph Tobin had recently insisted the production company film elsewhere if it could not change a portion of the script in which Koesler threatens to break the seal of confession.

"ANY PRIEST I know would die rather than break the seal of confession," Kienzle told the audience. "And I went into considerable detail about it all in the book."

"When I sold the movie rights to 'Rosary,' a virtue clause was included in the contract which protected the character of Fr. Koesler," he added.

"We'll just have to see what happens."

(A few days after his visit to Livonia, Kienzle filed suit in Wayne County Circuit Court against producer Bobby Laurel and Take One Productions Inc. in order to obtain a copy of the script. A hearing is scheduled for tomorrow.)

"I really don't know if I'll continue with Fr. Koesler," he said, in answer to a question from the audience. "He's working now, of course. But my decision on whether or not to continue with him probably would be dependent on the movie treatment."

KIENZLE INSISTED he has no plans to attend the "Rosary" filming and was even more adamant that he has no plans to see the movie itself.

"The chances of the character being like the character I've conceived are infinitesimally small," he said. "Donald Sutherland is a wonderful actor, but seeing the movie would destroy the image I have of my character."

Describing today's book business as "not a nice place to be," he spoke of a particular concern, the "blockbuster syndrome," or the tendency on the part of a growing number of publishers to "go with" million sellers only.

His own experience with the blockbuster syndrome first occurred in 1978, he said, when "Rosary" was rejected by a publisher solely because it was not considered "blockbuster material."

"ONCE, THE publishing business really did consist of houses trying to put out good books," he commented. "Doesn't that sound ridiculous?"

Hand-in-hand with the blockbuster syndrome is something called the "celebrity writer syndrome," Kienzle added. That becomes very evident, he said, at events such as the upcoming American Booksellers convention this month in New Orleans.

Featured speakers will be newsmen Walter Cronkite and Ted Koppel, entertainer Carol Burnett, singer Beverly Sills, and David Stockman.

"These are nice people," he commented, "but are they writers?"

"BUT THAT'S ABOUT where we are in the book business today. What publishers want to do is make a profit — they're really not so much interested at all in good books. When they give a $3-million advance to someone like David Stockman, they want you to buy that book — not because it's a good book, but because of the large advance."

Kienzle emphasized his opinion, that among the books not receiving much attention from publishers, mysteries are some of the most neglected.

"At the very back of the bookstore, usually, are the good 'little' books, crying out for attention," he said. "And on that very last shelf at the very back of the store — that's where you'll usually find the mysteries."

An eager fan in the library audience spontaneously commented that loyal mystery buffs will find the books, anyway — wherever they are — and will always come back for more.

TO KEEP such faithful followers happy, Kienzle recently completed his ninth book in the Fr. Koesler series. Titled "Deadline for a Critic," it features the cultural side of Detroit as a background and is scheduled for publication early next year.

Since "Rosary" was written, he has managed to come out with one book a year.

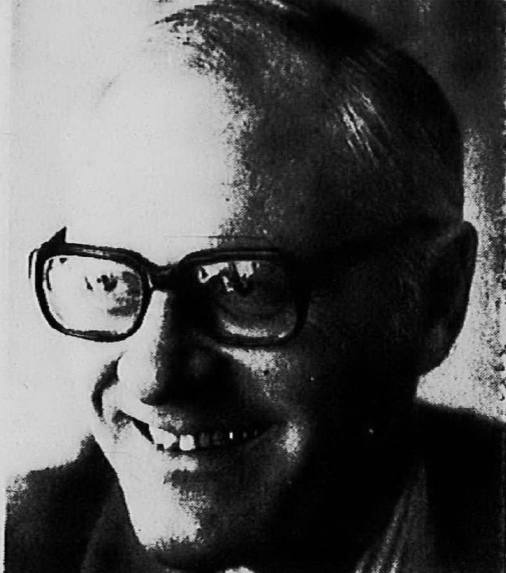

One day, feeling a little overwhelmed by the pace, he said he told his wife, Javan, that perhaps God didn't intend him to write a book every year.

"Maybe," she replied, "But He does intend for us to eat every year."

"So it's a living," Kienzle told the audience. "Not a fantastic living, but a living, and I'm thankful I'm able to do it."

'I really don't know if I'll continue with Fr. Koesler. He's working now, of course. But my decision on whether or not to continue with him probably would depend on the movie treatment.'
