Trustees call joint meeting productive

By Doug Funke
staff writer

Plymouth-Canton school trustees made it clear to Plymouth Township trustees Monday that they have no intention of giving up vacant school land sought by the township to expand a park.

Township Supervisor Maurice Breen told school officials that the township has no direct control over speed limits and signal devices on roads.

School officials also were told that developers must install sidewalks at new projects along major roads in the township.

However, the process of obtaining easements to build sidewalks in areas already built could be costly, time consuming and aggravating.

Those were the highlights of a joint workshop meeting, which lasted about two hours.

Participants later expressed satisfaction with the get-together.

"I THINK it's always good to exchange views and get to know people in the decision-making process," Breen said. "I would expect what would come out of it is a better planning process."

"I think the thing we accomplished most was clear the air a little on constraints under which we all operate," said E.J. McClendon, school board president. "What I liked most is everyone said we should all do this again."

The meeting resulted in great part from the township's desire to acquire a 17-acre parcel owned by the school district next to Township Park near McClumpha and Ann Arbor Trail.

"What the township has done is try to acquire pieces of land and keep them open space — reduce density of the community," Breen said. "The only thing we would do with that land is make sure someone doesn't develop it."

Township officials say that, from a planning standpoint, the property wouldn't be an ideal school site due to its relative inaccessibility and the number of buses that would roll through the subdivision.

School officials then brought up enrollment patterns.

"WE'RE VERY, very close to needing another school in the Plymouth Township area," McClendon said. "Does it have to be that site? Of course not, but it has to be as good a site."

"I think what we're saying is we need to reserve the ability to build a school on that site," said school trustee Roland Thomas.

As for transportation, the district already buses 12,000 of its 15,500 students, said Superintendent John M. Hoben.

School and township trustees also talked about working together to resolve, through the Wayne County Public Services Department, what some perceive is a dangerous safety situation on Ann Arbor Trail between McClumpha and Sheldon roads.

Reducing the speed limit and installing a flashing warning signal were mentioned as possibilities.

Better coordination of weather-related alerts between municipalities and schools also was discussed.

Winter soccer gains approval

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

Plans are in the works to make Plymouth-Canton a winter haven for soccer lovers.

With about 4,000 youth and adults participating in area soccer programs during warm weather, owners of the Canton Softball Center plan to build a soccer dome on the center's paved parking lot to allow winter play.

And by the terms of a tentative agreement, recreation departments for the city of Plymouth and Canton Township will provide leagues and referees for the center, with center staff to maintain the playing area.

THE PLYMOUTH City Commission approved an amended version of that agreement at its Monday meeting. Canton Township trustees also must approve the agreement for it to take effect.

"It's a very fast-growing sport," said Plymouth City Manager Henry Graper in support of the agreement. "There are 2,100-2,500 soccer players in our city alone."

Bob Dates, recreation supervisor with the Canton Recreation Department, said nearly 2,000 Cantonites participate in township soccer leagues, organized by the Canton Soccer Club and the recreation department.

Each Memorial Day weekend,

Canton also welcomes thousands of soccer enthusiasts to town for an annual tournament — an indication of area enthusiasm for the sport.

Graper said some city officials visited an indoor soccer complex in Farmington Hills three years ago, and considered building one in Plymouth. Through the city's participation in the privately owned complex, "We can make approximately $20,000 plus per year . . .," Graper said.

Plymouth City Attorney Ron Lowe said softball center management would assume the majority of insurance liability pertaining to soccer operations, adding the city would assume no financial losses by terms of the agreement.

According to Canton's Department of Community and Economic Development, there are two competing domes in Oakland County, none in Wayne County. The Canton dome would house a full-size soccer court and a mini court for pee-wees, and would be disassembled each spring before the softball season.

Pending final approval, indoor soccer would begin Nov. 3, said Charles Skene, director of Plymouth Parks and Recreation.

Teacher drawn to simple life

By Doug Funke
staff writer

Bob Kroeger, a history teacher at Centennial Educational Park, says he could very easily see himself living in the 1800s.

"To me, the perfect life would be medical science of this century but the simplicity of the last one."

Ah, simplicity.

The Plymouth resident who heats his home with a woodburning furnace also serves as a volunteer firefighter.

He, wife Mary Ann, and son Ben are four years into a 10-year plan to permanently move to the Leelanau Peninsula. They own some land and a trailer there now. And about 1,200 Christmas trees a couple of years away from harvesting.

"It's slower, simpler. I think the values are different. When we go to Empire, I never lock my car. I leave the keys in the car."

The past shapes an individual and serves as a bridge to the present and future.

KROEGER, always good with his hands, served a three-year tour with the Marine Corps.

He also worked as a welder and as a laborer on construction and railroad crews before graduating from college with a major in history in his late 20s.

"Actually, I was going into psychology first but I didn't like math and you needed a lot of it. I really liked history. I thought, gee, if your job involved talking all day about what you really liked, what a great job that would be."

Kroeger substitute taught for two years before landing a full-time job at CEP where he's taught for 12 years.

"I try to interest them in it as much as I can so . . . it's just not names and dates," he said of his approach. "I try to show them how an average day was for some people — here's how they ate, here's how they cooked it. I try to relate then to today to show them the similarities and differences."

IN KEEPING with his philosophy of simplicity and self-reliance, Kroeger believes that students could do well to learn a little more about responsibility.

"I try to tell 'em, 'You're 16 years old. Two years from now you'll be out on your own. It's time to start pulling yourself together.'"

"I think they've got to be shown or given more responsibility and let the chips fall where they may," he said. "In my opinion, discipline is a positive, not a negative."

Kroeger said he doesn't really know what prompted him to become a volunteer firefighter. He remembers being impressed by the number of firefighters in St. Louis who turned out for the funeral of an uncle, a firefighter.

"I was riding through town (Plymouth), and I found out they were part volunteer. I saw an engine out. I went down. You've got to have a little excitement in your life. I get to be right in a fire. How much more excitement can you get than that?"

Narcotics in workplace under fire from ex-user

By Diane Gale
staff writer

Jack Kurtz did drugs.

Now the Canton resident is selling a "positive approach" to promoting drug and alcohol awareness in the workplace.

"My rehabilitation was to put this together. I decided to utilize my marketing talents in an innovative way and for a good cause."

Beginning next week, the 29-year-old, who once used drugs recreationally "but not at work," will begin selling a "Because We Care" package — containing posters, brochures and a list of rehabilitation centers — to businesses with more than 10 employees in the Detroit area and, soon after, nationally.

A series of 25 posters show cartoon characters in every stage of drug abuse from the time the person considers using drugs to finally trying to get help.

"People can laugh at them at first but then they might see a bit of themselves in the different characters," Kurtz said.

THE POSTERS are to be hung for three months, two each week, in a place where employees would easily see them.

The goal, Kurtz said, is to tell employees not to be afraid to ask management for help.

"This is not necessarily a solution in battling or curbing drug abuse in the workplace but it's a way to educate employees and make them aware of alternative actions," said

Kurtz, president of Promark, a Southfield-based company.

The blond-haired, blue-eyed Western Michigan graduate admits "Because We Care" is only one of many programs out in a recent "national crusade" against drug abuse.

But the difference is that the package promotes a positive approach by targeting education and rehabilitation, he said.

And the rehabilitated employee can become an example for other employees in the company, Kurtz said.

Kurtz started researching "Because We Care" six months ago after his last employer fired a number of people believed to be using illegal drugs.

He resigned his top management position and started Promark in partnership with his brother, Scott Kurtz, a teacher for Plymouth-Canton Community Schools and Alan Martin, a Chicago certified public accountant.

"I resigned because of conflicts, defining what my job is, what I believed in and how the problem was handled in the company."

"Termination is no longer the way to go. It's bad for morale and it doesn't solve the drug problem. There was a pressure cooker atmosphere, a desire to succeed and an availability of drugs. The financial aspect became a liability because I could afford it. It could happen to anyone."

"Because We Care" will cost employers $225 for the first package of information and $175 for additional sets. Ten percent of revenue from the project will be donated to treatment centers, Kurtz said.

Along with the promotion, Promark is sponsoring two contests. One letter is hidden in each of the 24 posters that can be arranged into a slogan and a winner will be drawn from correct entries.

The second contest involves writing a verse about drug abuse and what the employee's company is doing about the problem. Winners of the two contests will receive $2,500 each.

Special Olympics run to blaze through town

The torch run for Special Olympics, part of which stretches from the tip of the Upper Peninsula to the Detroit suburb of Warren, will come through Plymouth tomorrow after noon.

The Michigan Law Enforcement Torch Run for Special Olympics will come through Plymouth at about 1:10 p.m. Friday. The torch run started Monday and will end tomorrow in Detroit.

The torch runners began in the Upper Peninsula with two separate teams in two locations, leaving Copper Harbor in the Keweenaw Peninsula at 12:15 p.m. Monday and leaving Ironwood near the Wisconsin border at 2 p.m. Monday.

The runners proceeded eastward across the U.P. and joined forces Wednesday at about 3:30 p.m. to cross the Mackinaw Bridge together. One group of runners then carried the torch south, while the second team traveled by car to Whitehall, north of Muskegon, and restarted the race at 3 a.m. Friday.

Both torch teams are to meet in Warren at 6 p.m. tomorrow.

The runners who will come through Plymouth will carry the torch which started in Ironwood and re-started in Whitehall.

Washtenaw County law officials will enter this area from Dexter to Ann Arbor via Ann Arbor Road and continue on Ann Arbor Road to Plymouth, continue east on Plymouth Road through Livonia to Beech Dailey, Beech Dailey south to Joy, Joy east to Greenfield, Greenfield north to 12 Mile, then east to Mound, north on Mound to 13 Mile and 13 Mile to the GM Tech Center in Warren.

The event is sponsored by the Michigan Law Enforcement Officers, the International Association of

gram which provides training and athletic opportunity for mentally impaired children and adults. Special Olympics does not receive any state or federal funding but is totally dependent upon the contributions from businesses, individuals and organizations.

Annually the Michigan Special Olympics helps more than 27,000 Special Olympians take part in sports tournaments and athletic clinics.

Rain go away

Canton farmers fearing losses

By Diane Gale
staff writer

There's not much you can do about the weather, so you sit back and wait and see what happens." — Donald Gill, Canton farmer.

Relentless rains haven't hurt three local farmers too much yet but the next month or so is the real test.

"If we had the next six weeks with no rain, I don't think the rain will have that bad of an effect," Bob Schultz said.

"But the chances of that happening are slim," said Schultz, a Canton farmer who grows sweet corn, field corn, soy beans and wheat on 1,535 acres on Proctor between Beck and Denton.

"I feel there will be substantial losses."

Luckily for Schultz, he finished harvesting his sweet corn just before the heavy rains began to fall Sept. 11. The National Weather Service recorded 7.52 inches of rain for September at Detroit's Metropolitan Airport and 1.65 inches of rain for Oct. 1-6.

He said he should start planting wheat for next year and cannot delay that beyond Nov. 1. But if the rain doesn't stop long enough for the ground to dry he'll miss that deadline.

ROSS HAUKE Sr., who was born 61 years ago on his family's farm, says so far the rain hasn't caused much damage.

Hauke harvests sweet corn, muskmelons, pumpkins, squash, soy beans, field corn and wheat on 1,200 acres on Ridge south of Cherry Hill. The farm was settled by his father in the 1920s.

"We were lucky that we were just about done with the sweet corn and melon — we lost some but not too much," Hauke said estimating the loss at between $3,000 and $4,000.

"The fields are full of mud."

Although most of the sweet corn had been picked before the rains, there was a small amount harvested after the downpours began and "it made it miserable."

If the fields dry, Hauke says, he'll be able to save most of his pumpkins, squash, soy beans, field corn and wheat. If he's unable to harvest these crops, Hauke will have lost the "hundreds and thousands of dollars that went into them."

FARMERS IN areas where flooding has been worse, and who have grown root crops like beets, are suffering the most, he said.

"The ones really hurting are the ones on low land where the rivers converge," said Hauke who predicted higher prices on some vegetables this winter.

"It won't do anything to grain prices because we just have so much. Cauliflower will probably be higher because it has to be shipped in from California. Probably Halloween pumpkins will cost more because it will be hard to get them out."

Gill, who runs a dairy farm and grows field corn on 1,300 to 1,400 acres of land on Ridge south of Cherry Hill, is in partnership with his brother, Stanley, son, Ronald, and nephew, Thomas.

Gill says he's "seen many wet falls in my lifetime, and this is probably as wet as any fall we've had."

Ironically, the fire department figured in Kroeger's decision to run for the City Commission last year, his first bid for public office. He said he was unhappy with personnel cutbacks in the fire and police departments and the brouhaha over private ambulance service getting involved in rescue runs.

"ANYBODY can bitch all their life. You have to have somebody say, 'Now I'm going to do something about it.' If all the colonists did was complain, we'd still belong to England."

Kroeger finished fifth in a race with four seats up for grabs. His taste for local politics soured when he wasn't appointed to fill a vacancy that arose shortly after the election. "I always had a dim view of politics. It got dimmer."

Still, Kroeger is happy as long as he can use his hands building something, or working the land, teaching, responding to an occasional fire alarm and pursuing that dream home up north.

And there's one more big piece to the puzzle. "To me, the most important thing in my life is family," he said. "It comes before anything — firefighting, my job, anything."

"We're going to Alaska next year. I'm afraid I might like it so much, we might not come back. I love the outdoors. I don't need a lot of people around."

• The cost of parking credits for downtown businesses will rise from $3,500 this year to $4,300 in 1987, as the commission approved the revision. It is the first hike in four years, sparked by the 1984 construction of the Central Lot Parking Deck.

A purse containing $115 was reported stolen from a car on Elmhurst during the early morning hours Sunday, according to a report filed with Plymouth Township police.

The car, parked in the driveway, wasn't locked, the victim told police. The theft occurred between 1-5 a.m. A credit card and identification also were taken.

A red helmet valued at $260 was reported stolen from a motorcycle at about 8 p.m. Friday in the city of Plymouth. The motorcycle was parked at Danny's supermarket on Main Street.

A red Schwinn 10-speed bicycle, valued at $60, was reported stolen last Wednesday afternoon from the west side parking area of Westchester Square on Forest.

Source: Highway Loss Data Institute. Body Styles: SW=Station Wagon; SS=Sport Specialty; 2D=Coupe; 4D=Sedan. Excludes Passenger Vans. All results are stated in relative frequency of injury claims. A relative injury claim frequency of 100 is average. Relative frequencies of less than 70 are defined by HLDI as "Substantially Better than Average." Some vehicles had overall claim frequencies of 63 or less, but did not meet other IIHS criteria for having the "best injury loss experience." *1984-85 models only.

The Highway Loss Data Institute (HLDI) is a non-profit public service organization associated with the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety. As it has done annually for the past ten years, HLDI has summarized and published its findings on the frequency of automotive insurance claims.

This year, HLDI finds that of the top nine models with "the best" overall injury claim experience, seven are General Motors cars.

We are pleased that GM cars are rated best again, as they have been each and every model year since 1977.

We believe this continued excellence reflects not only our cars—their quality, size, weight, and design—but also how and where they are driven.

In the past thirty years, GM's commitment to safety has added features throughout our cars. On the outside, we've added lights and improved mirrors for better visibility. We've strengthened the roof and the doors against impacts. Designed the hood and the front end to crush in a controlled manner. Improved the crashworthiness of the fuel system.

Added a back-up hydraulic system for the brakes, and introduced front disc brakes.

In the passenger compartment, GM has installed energy absorbing instrument panels, steering columns, and seat backs. We've lessened the risk of injury from the door locks, glove box latch, rear view mirror, and the windshield. We've increased the strength of the seats with improved anchorages. We've made safety belts standard equipment. And we're introducing passive front safety belts and lap/shoulder rear safety belts on some GM models, beginning in 1987.

The HLDI results show that our cars and our customers go well together. We trust that the closeness of this relationship will continue in the years ahead. We are doing our part at GM to see that it does, encouraging every employee to contribute to the effort.

That's the GM commitment to quality. And to our customers.

Lucas plans for more jail space

By Teri Banas
staff writer

County executive William Lucas has again called for converting the abandoned "N" Building in Westland's Eloise complex into a temporary housing unit for state prisoners, challenging Blanchard officials with "the need for putting politics aside."

It was Lucas' fourth such offer to state officials in more than a year and one not expected to be taken up by the Democratic incumbent.

Local leaders, such as Westland City Council president Ken Mehl, said: "We're not interested in having a prison there or anywhere in the city. It's our intention to hopefully develop the Eloise property into a viable (commercial) development."

Referring to a four-city task force currently working on that plan, he said: "It sounds like Lucas doesn't know what's going on on that property."

(See related story, Page 11A).

Lucas' remarks about "N" Building came in connection with his announcement Wednesday of a multi-point plan for fighting crime and adding prison space needed to solve the current overcrowding situation in the Wayne County Jail.

EARLIER THIS week, the jail population in the Andrew C. Baird Detention Facility reached 1,694 and Sheriff Robert Ficano ordered its doors closed to incoming prisoners.

In a barrage of attacks on Blanchard's record, Lucas said, "As public officials during this crisis, we must provide the leadership to protect the community and not release hundreds of prisoners as Governor Blanchard has done."

Lucas further blamed Blanchard and the state for contributing to Wayne County's inmate overload by not expediting the movement of up to 131 state parole violators housed in the county facility.

About "N" Building, Blanchard spokesman Larry Glazer said state officials had "seriously evaluated" the building once before and found it "unsuitable" because of the expense of securing it.

"If you want to spend enough money, you could turn it into a prison. But the state would have to spend a lot of money."

"If a citizen in the area is attacked or robbed by an inmate who escapes, how would you tell him, it was only temporary," Glazer said.

On Wednesday, Lucas said a conversion would cost about $7 million and could be accomplished within six months.

IN OTHER proposals: Lucas said he has negotiated a one-year contract with the Volunteers of America to convert a YWCA building in Highland Park into a halfway house for violations of DUIL (Driving Under the Influence of Liquor).

Officials with the organization, who were on hand at Lucas' press conference, said the building would house up to 150 prisoners on four floors, with YMCA operations located on the first two floors.

One Lucas official said the plan could be implemented within 90 days if the county board of commissioners approves the contract on an emergency appeal. The estimated $500,000 cost to the county would be paid out of its anticipated share of the Cobo Hall Liquor Tax, about $700,000, the spokesman said.

The group's director of rehabilitation services, Al Manfromi, said they would offer a "holistic program" that includes incarceration and rehabilitation.

Lucas called for the reinstitution of a "crash program" to move temporary inmates awaiting court hearings out of the Wayne County Jail. He said he would request that the Michigan Supreme Court assign special judges to expedite these cases. Lucas also called on the chief judge of the Wayne County Circuit Court to issue a court order requiring local police departments to house prisoners in local lock-ups until space is freed up in the county jail. He also called on the chief county prosecutor to appoint special prosecutors to handle caseloads.

He further announced he approved $100,000 in spending for expanding courtroom space in Detroit's Recorder's Court as part of ongoing plans to merge operations between that court and the Wayne County Circuit Court.

In action to crack down on school crime and juvenile delinquency, Lucas said he has asked Detroit Mayor Coleman Young to institute a dark-to-dawn curfew in Detroit for youngsters under 18. He said schools should "step up" weapons searches in school buildings and establish a truant officer system for those who skip school.

County commission chairman Richard Manning, D-Redford, listened to Lucas' remarks and said he would await Lucas' requests for commission action. But, he said, he found fault with the executive's urging more expediency in the circuit court, where he said it is the civil docket that backlogs the court operation and not the criminal one.

William Lucas

Ficano raps Lucas' crime-fighting plan

Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano said there is "a lot of puff" in the crime-fighting announcements made by County Executive William Lucas Wednesday.

"If he was really serious about fighting crime, why would he propose a budget that would eliminate the sheriff department's felony warrant squad, drunk driving squad and would in effect shut down two floors in the jail?" Ficano asked.

Ficano was referring to Lucas' recommended budget allowance of $54 million to run the sheriff's department in 1986-87. Ficano said the recommended allocation is $4 million less than what is needed to continue operations at the present level. County commissioners now are going over the executive's budget plan for the budget year beginning Dec. 1.

"IT'S EASY to fight crime in the newspapers, but you've got to commit the resources, money and personnel to doing it."

About Lucas' plans to house those convicted of drunk driving at a Highland Park halfway house, Ficano said those offenders are not causing the overcrowding at the county jail.

YOU SHOULD'VE SEEN THE ONES THAT GOT AWAY

We're proud of our latest catch, an original collection of fish ties by the exclusive Wisconsin designer, Ralph Marlin. Each is a colorful, and extremely accurate replica of a trophy size fish.

They're 100% polyester, but who cares? The quality craftsmanship and attention to detail are superb, right down to the tiny little teeth on the designer tuna. Notice that when you tie your best double Windsor, the knot forms a fish tail. It's a total look.

Bitt is modeling the rainbow trout. And if you think it's big, you should see the ones he threw back.

Choose from a walleye, northern pike, rainbow trout, muskie, designer tuna or king salmon. We recommend the king salmon with your conservative navy suit, the rainbow trout with your grey flannel, and the designer tuna with anything. All made in the U.S.A., of course. $18. Men's Neckwear.

Curtain goes up on 'Harvey'

Players do comedy about imaginary rabbit

By Leonard Poger
staff writer

A tall rabbit, a key element in the Spotlight Players' comedy, "Harvey," will not be seen by the audience.

That's because Elwood P. Dowd, the lead character, is the only one in the cast who can see the 6-foot-1 rabbit.

But the community theater group, which has a director, actors and actresses from Canton Township, Westland, Garden City, Livonia, and Redford Township, is ready to raise the curtain for the comedy which will be on the John Glenn High School stage at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday and the following weekend.

Tobin Alan Hissong of Canton is directing his second play, the first being with the Plymouth Theater Guild.

Besides picking the cast and leading rehearsals for the past six weeks, Hissong took time to paint a double portrait of Dowd, played by Lewis Sequin, and Harvey, who exists only in Dowd's mind.

But Hissong, a statistical data analyst with General Motors' Hydramatic plant in Ypsilanti, admitted that he isn't good at painting figures.

The director said the cast is making "super progress" although there was a small setback when the half-built set couldn't be moved onto the high school's stage on Monday as scheduled.

But he noted that the school principal gave permission to allow the theater group to move the set into place the next day.

"Harvey" was a popular Broadway show in the late 1940s and later a movie starring Jimmy Stewart and Josephine Hull.

THE COMEDY deals with Dowd and his rabbit-friend, and how his sister and niece relate to him and Harvey.

The cast includes persons from western Wayne County with a variety of backgrounds and theater skills.

Sequin, in the male lead, is a Henry Ford Community College instructor who has appeared in 30 productions in Garden City, Greenfield Village and Dearborn in the past nine years.

Playing the female lead of Veta Simmons is Diane Kremser, active in and a former president of the Garden City Civic Theatre, and a secretary in the Garden City School District's Adult Education Department.

She has performed with the Garden City and Dearborn community theater groups over the years.

PORTRAYING Dr. Chumley is Canton Township's Russ Holderness, a special education teacher, who is also a co-producer for the comedy.

Pam Fisher, a Westland woman who works as a receptionist for a civil engineering office in Livonia, will portray nurse Kelly.

She has performed in high school and with the Spotlight Players and Garden City Civic Theatre, as well as being an assistant director with the Oak Park-Ferdale Children's Theatre.

A brother-sister combination is Kevin Koslowski of Westland and Paula Koslowski of Garden City who will play Dr. Sanderson and Miss Johnson, respectively.

Kevin is a Holiday Inn guest service representative and performed in high school and college shows before appearing with the Spotlight Players last spring in "No Sex Please - We're British."

Tickets still may be purchased on a subscription basis for the remaining five programs for $13.50 per person or $23.50 per couple.

The school is in the Deiter Recreation Center building at 15525 Sheldon Road just north of Five Mile in Northville. For ticket information or a schedule of the complete series, call Morse at 459-7240.

The parent support group of the Steppingstone Center for Potentially Gifted Children is presenting the second program in a series of meetings/lectures featuring guest speakers who discuss education, behavior and development of the gifted child.

Steppingstone was founded in 1981, said director Kiyo Morse, in response to needs in the Plymouth-Canton area but currently is located in Northville near the Sheldon Road exit off M-14. The center serves families from Novi, Livonia, Westland and Southgate as well.

The parent support group was formed in the spring of 1986 to share ideas and experiences relating to the pleasures and problems of raising gifted children.

The support group's second meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 23, at the school. The guest speaker, Dr. Robert Fink, will speak on "Personality Profile of the Gifted Child."

She sets sight on the judiciary

By Teri Banas
staff writer

This is the third in a series of profiles on the candidates for the Wayne County Circuit Court. Three vacancies will be filled at the Nov. 4 general election.

Kathleen Macdonald says she has wanted to be a judge since attending law school at the University of Detroit.

And even though she was admitted to the State Bar of Michigan less than one year ago, she believes she's capable of assuming the job of a Wayne County Circuit Court judge.

"I don't need to practice law to be a judge," said the 40-year-old Grosse Pointe Park resident. "A judicial office is not a reward for a few, best advocates."

Macdonald, who was graduated from law school in May 1985, has been employed as a law clerk for Circuit Court Judge Michael Conneri. She is one of six finalists entering the general election. The position pays $74,888.

The mother of four children 17-21 years old, Macdonald returned to college in the late 1970s to complete a bachelor's degree in history/political science and then went to law school. Married to a lawyer, she worked in her husband Lawrence's

'There are a lot of ways to define expertise. There is a great deal to say of experience from life.'

— Kathleen Macdonald, court candidate law practice while her children were still young and realized she had an aptitude for the law, she said.

TODAY she maintains that being devoid of any affiliations with either plaintiff or defense lawyers or other "special interest groups" means she can be completely fair and impartial.

"There is a lot of ways to define expertise," she said.

"There is a great deal to say of experience from life."

"No one running has judicial experience except (Recorder's Court Judge John) Murphy. And that's a big jump from Recorder's Court."

In her work for Judge Conneri for the past year, Macdonald has prepared his memorandums and done research. As a result, she said she has had the opportunity to become familiar with complex legal questions in cases of product liability, negligence, no-fault insurance, for instance.

Macdonald said she has reached out to the public in shopping malls and at parades. She raised about $15,000 in her primary bid and is planning a fund-raiser tonight at the 1940's Chop House in Detroit.

"I have not gotten a lot of support from attorneys, but in a way that won't be bad," she said.

MACDONALD responded to questions about the merits of appointments versus elected judges, the operation of the Wayne County Circuit Court, the creation of a special family law court for divorce cases — suggested in the legal profession — and capital punishment.

"I have a great deal of confidence in the elected system. I don't know if there are any guarantees that you would get better qualified judges by appointing them," she said.

Noting there has been "quite a bit of support for a specialized divorce court, Macdonald said she thinks it's "a good idea." She said cases will "move along more quickly" if the judges hearing them have an "expertise" in that field.

On the operation of the circuit court, Macdonald said the conversion in July of seven courtrooms to an "individual docket" system shows promise for expediting cases. Criticized for its slow disposition of civil matters, in particular, the court is converting to the individual docket to allow judges to handle cases at each level before the court.

"It is working very well. We were all surprised to find about there are about 1,600 cases assigned to each judge," she said.

SC names new chief of business

By Teri Banas
staff writer

Schoolcraft College has hired a new chief of business operations following a national search that ended in the college's own backyard.

A college search team earlier this fall considered 26 applicants and nominated Adelard Raby III, Schoolcraft's comptroller of five years, as vice president of business affairs.

Raby, 45, replaces retiring chief Kenneth Lindner, who created the job at Schoolcraft in 1961, has announced he will retire in January after more than 25 years at the college.

"I hope in my tenure I'll be as productive and energetic. His are a big pair of shoes to step into," Raby said.

Raby will assume the job at a time when Schoolcraft's financial picture is bright. Last year, the college won a voter-approved millage hike after other unsuccessful tries. In another arena, it has established a private authority to develop for commercial use part of college-owned property along the I-275 Freeway in Livonia. Raby called the business development "one of the highlights at Schoolcraft in the 1980s."

Last week the college's development authority reviewed tentative outlines for the site. He predicted final designs should be completed within two months.

RABY'S APPOINTMENT was approved late last month by the college board of trustees.

The position's salary range is between $52,374 and $64,012. Besides handling all financial operations of the college, Raby will be responsible for supervising a staff of up to 80 people and the college's book store and food program operations.

Raby arrived at Schoolcraft in 1981 after working as the dean of business affairs and treasurer of Monroe Community College. He received a bachelor's of science in business and a master's degree in business administration from Wayne State University.

He has held most elective offices at the Michigan Community College Business Officials Association including secretary/treasurer, vice president and president.

No replacement has been named to the job of comptroller.

Besides that position, college officials will be filling sometime this year the job of labor relations director. The previous director, Michael Petrack, has resigned to accept a position at Oakland Community College.

Family fights for son kidnapped by Turks

By Mary Klemic
staff writer

Andrew Kassapis was 17 years old when he was taken away from his family at gunpoint, the prisoner of Turkish soldiers on the island of Cyprus.

That was 12 years ago. Since then the Kassapis family hasn't had any news about him. It hasn't been able to get more than promises from the U.S. and Turkish governments to resolve the matter. But the family hasn't given up hope.

"We're fighting for the fate of my son," said Andrew's father, Gus, a Livonia resident.

"It's not easy, believe me. But I fight. I'm fighting, myself, all the time. You can't give up. If I die, my daughters are going to take my place."

LOOKING FOR help, the family has contacted a number of officials, including U.S. Rep. William Ford, D-Taylor, U.S. Sen. Donald Riegle, D-Michigan, U.S. Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Massachusetts, and President Reagan.

Kassapis met with the leader of the Turkish Cypriots, Riegle and a State Department official 3 1/2 weeks ago in Washington, D.C. As of this week, he is still waiting for information from the Turkish Cypriote leader.

"What I'd like is the American government to find my boy," Kassapis said. "The agony and the suffering are too much. They have a responsibility to treat us the same way they treat any American. They have to help us out like anybody else. I'm not going to give up."

"It's been 12 years now and everybody's promising to do something about it, but it seems like a dead wall."

CYPRUS IS 1.5 times the size of Delaware. It is located off the southern coast of Turkey and the western shore of Syria. Greek, Turkish and English are spoken there.

Gus came to the United States from Cyprus in 1954, when he was 30 years old. He worked at various jobs and eventually was a partner in a Detroit restaurant. He became an American citizen, and all three of his children were born in this country.

Kassapis and his wife, Helen, daughters Irene and Fay (now 32 and 26, respectively, and living in Canton Township) and Andy moved to Cyprus in 1967 for Gus' health. The island's warm, dry climate can cure anything, Kassapis said, and he recovered.

The family didn't run into any strong anti-Americanism in Cyprus. Some Cypriots were opposed to the U.S. government policy regarding Turkey, but all of them apparently liked the Americans they knew and were friendly toward them.

THE FAMILY was going to return to the United States in October 1974. But Turkey, asserting its right to protect the Turkish Cypriote minority, invaded Cyprus by sea and air that July, and again in August. Low-flying planes alarmed Kassapis, and he called his embassy.

"I called the American embassy right away, and they told me not to worry about it. 'Just stay home and don't leave,'" Kassapis said.

On the afternoon of Aug. 14, 1974, a nightmare showed signs of coming to life.

"The army came to the town, they bashed in the door," Kassapis said. "About six Turkish soldiers broke ened. I showed them my American passport. They put us against the wall with the guns. I said, 'We are Americans.'"

The soldiers only searched the Kassapis' house that day. Over the next six days, they went through the same actions — searching the house, apparently only looking at the possessions, while holding the family at gunpoint.

ON AUG. 20, two Turkish Cypriots in uniform entered the house and took Andy away, even though the hostilities had ended.

"I said, 'You can't do it. We're Americans,'" Kassapis said. "They tore the (American) flag on the door to pieces. I said, 'You can't do it.' I gave my boy his passport. They hit me with a gun."

"I haven't seen him since then." The next day, soldiers took away the keys to the house and car. After three days, the family was taken to another part of the island with other residents, many of them Americans. The family was able to contact the American embassy several days later and report what had happened.

"They were shocked, of course," Kassapis said. "They promised me they would go to the Turkish side to check the matter."

NOTHING CAME of the embassy's first and subsequent investigations, even though Kassapis could provide the names of the soldiers involved as well as the exact time, day and place of the incident.

The family stayed in Cyprus for five years, waiting and searching. Kassapis said the rumors and misinformation were agonizing and frustrating. Andy was said to be in Turkey. His name was on a list of those to be released. But nothing could be learned.

The Kassapis family returned to the United States, and contacted members of Congress and the State Department. Most of these only update the family when they ask them for word. Riegle's office is one exception.

Even the meeting with the Turkish Cypriote leader wasn't satisfying to Kassapis.

"I spoke to him, father-to-father," he said. "He talked to me very well. He promised me to try to investigate. He didn't give me too much hope."

Kassapis can't understand the problem.

"I live in this country, the most powerful country in the world. I feel something proud," he said. "We are so powerful, and they can't find out in 12 years what happened to my boy. I think they know and don't want to say anything. Turkey is a very valuable ally to the United States."

"They haven't taken the case the way it should be. They discriminate. They don't treat all the Americans equally, like they do for Daniloff and for the Americans in Lebanon. My boy was born and raised over here like anybody else."

Kassapis believes that Andy is alive somewhere in Turkey, and that someday the family will see him again. He would have to have proof, not just word, that his son is dead.

"I believe in God, I pray all the time, and somebody's telling me my boy's alive, because he was a lovely boy," Kassapis said. "He has so many friends. They call him, 'American boy.'"

"He was tall, like my father — 6 foot 2. He could get along with anybody. How they could kill a kid like that."

The anguish is especially hard on Helen. More than once, Kassapis has entered a room and seen her doing nothing but looking at Andy's photograph.

"She's very much hurt, more than me, because myself, I go out and talk with people," said Kassapis, who describes himself as semi-retired. "She's home all the time. It's very tough."

THE ALL too common news in recent years about Americans in captivity somewhere overseas hasn't been easy for the family to hear.

"It was very, very hard, starting with the hostages in Iran," Kassapis said. "(The news) said, 'Day 1, Day 2, Day 3,' it went on and on. What about my boy? Nothing."

"And then the crisis came to Lebanon, all those hostages there. But I could see and understand the feelings of the families, how much they went through. At least they know they are alive and somehow, someday are going to get them back."

Band earns trophy

The Plymouth Centennial Educational Park Marching Band took first place and the governor's trophy at the 13th annual Michigan Invitational Marching Band Tournament held in Flint this past weekend.

Some 15 other bands from throughout Michigan competed for the trophy.

In addition to the governor's trophy the band also received trophies for best percussion, best brasswinds, best marching and maneuvering, best color guard, best drum major, and best general effect.

This was the third competition this year for the CEP Marching Band. The musicians opened the season with a first place and six other trophies at West Bloomfield, and followed up with a first place and five other trophies at the Eisenhower Invitational in Washington, Mich.

This weekend the band will travel to Montrose between Saginaw and Flint for the Montrose Invitational and then enter the Durand Invitational before competing in the state championships at the CEP Stadium on Saturday, Oct. 25.

What's a CEP?

Plymouth-Canton Community Schools has the only educational park in the state of Michigan.

The Centennial Educational Park (CEP) is a 305-acre site which is the home of two four-year comprehensive high schools — Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton high schools.

The buildings, which were completed in 1973, house more than 200 teachers, counselors and learning specialists with a student population of about 3,500 in grades 10-12.

Courses available to students, who can participate interchangeably at either of the two schools, range from auto mechanics through foreign languages to calculus, and cover all areas in between.

Athletic facilities at the CEP include swimming pools, gymnasiums and an 8,000-seat football stadium used jointly by both schools.

Man charged in card shop robbery

By Sue Mason
staff writer

Westland police charged an Ypsilanti Township man Thursday in an armed robbery of a card shop. They're also investigating his possible involvement in 24 other armed robberies in 10 other communities in the past six weeks.

Jerry Wayne Kennedy, 38, pleaded not guilty to an armed robbery charge at his arraignment Friday in Westland District Court before 18th District Court Magistrate Joseph Costanzo.

Kennedy is being held in Wayne County Jail after failing to post 10 percent of a $100,000 bond.

Canton Police Lt. Larry Stewart said Kennedy is the suspect in robberies of Arbor Drugs and BoRic beauty salon recently in Canton.

A preliminary examination is scheduled for Friday in Westland District Court. If convicted, Kennedy could face life imprisonment for the felony.

The arrest stemmed from the holdup of Lois' Hallmark Shop, 6603 N. Wayne Road, Thursday evening, police said.

A preliminary examination has been scheduled for Oct. 10 in 18th District Court. Kennedy was arrested by police a short time after the 7:55 p.m. holdup of Lois'. Officers had been alerted by Inkster police to watch for a rose-colored Ford Thunderbird that was reportedly involved in a similar robbery earlier in the evening.

Sgt. Robert Barthold, who worked on the investigation, praised officer Michael Gould for his work in making the arrest.

"He was in the right area at the right time, although I know the entire afternoon shift was stalking the bushes" looking for the suspect, Barthold said.

POLICE SAID they are investigating the possibility that Kennedy may be linked to 24 armed robberies in Westland, Garden City, Livonia, Canton, Farmington Hills, Taylor, Dearborn Heights, Wayne, Ypsilanti, Inkster and Ann Arbor, and an attempted robbery in Ann Arbor.

Five of the robberies took place in Westland, police said.

The robberies had occurred since Aug. 15, Barthold said.

Some businesses experienced multiple holdups and an estimated $6,000 in all was reported taken, he added.

In all of the holdups, the robber never produced a weapon, but reached into a bag he was carrying, convincing employees that he was armed. When Kennedy was stopped by Gould at the Fleetsa Bowl on Ford Road near Hix Road, two bags were found in the front seat of his car, police said.

One bag contained a sheet of paper with a list of businesses and dollar amounts after each. Gould recognized several of the names as businesses that had been recently robbed, Barthold said.

ANOTHER BAG, a tan leather purse bag with a shoulder strap, matched the description of one used in the card shop robbery and contained $135 in small bills and change. Card shop employees told police that the robber had taken some $100 in small bills.

Barthold said that Kennedy fitted the physical description of the card shop robber and was wearing clothing identical to what the employees had described to police.

Judicial candidates need experience, Faust says

By Teri Barnes
staff writer

Sen. William Faust, D-Westland, is planning to introduce an amendment to the state constitution that would require judicial candidates to have at least six years of experience in the law.

Faust said candidates for judicial posts should have "maturity" in the law and experience in its practice.

"We're finding that more and more candidates are emerging students from law schools. Michigan has an overabundance of attorneys and it seems to be one way to perhaps seek employment," said Faust.

In Wayne County, there are 35 circuit court positions that pay $74,888 a year. This year, six finalists are seeking three vacating positions on the Nov. 4 general election ballot. Of those, three have more than six years of experience but the rest have less than four years experience as lawyers. Candidate Kathleen MacDonald, who earned a law degree one year ago, has never argued a case in court.

The terms, lasting six years, are being vacated by retiring judges Richard Dunn, Thomas Roumell and Arthur Bowman.

"THE PUBLIC is ill served by the way the present law is structured," said Faust, whose district includes Garden City.

Currently, state law requires that candidates for the circuit court be residents of the county seeking office, be lawyers, and be under the age of 70. To place their name before voters, they must also gather several thousand signatures of supporters, depending on the size of their voting populations.

To become a lawyer in Michigan, one must pass the state bar exam, complete law school and never have been convicted of a felony. There are 24,000 lawyers now listed in Michigan.

"Certainly, there are instances, particularly in Wayne County, that new judicial posts are being sought by those who do not have practical experience," Faust said.

Faust said he has not yet drafted the resolution and is still considering its exact wording. He said he would ask that it apply to all "courts of record." Besides the circuit court, that would include the local district courts and the state court of appeals.

HE EXPECTS to introduce it when the state Legislature reconvenes in January.

According to former Michigan Bar President George Roumell, each state has different standards for judicial elections and there are a number of states that don't elect judges at all. In Massachusetts, Maine and Missouri, for instance, the state governor makes appointments to all local courts.

Roumell, who favors an appointment system for Michigan, said experience is critical in selecting judges, whether by appointment or election.

Roumell, who was admitted to the state bar 32 years ago, said: "As an individual, I felt that as I gained more experience I would have more qualifications."

"I've always been in favor of appointments," he added. "I find it's hard, particularly in a big area, for people to be familiar with the qualifications of a candidate."

In the Wayne County Circuit Court race last August, there were 17 candidates who were included in the primary ballot.

On Faust's plan, Roumell called it a "reasonable" one, adding he thought it would be met with favorable approval from the Legislature.

Faust, who said he is still researching other state practices in this field, said there are at least six states that call for minimum experience levels for attorneys seeking judicial posts.

Faust: The public is "ill served" by the present system of judicial contests.

State grants go to firms' research

Two Southfield companies are among eight sharing nearly $370,000 in state research funds, state Commerce Director Doug Ross announced.

The grants will assist research projects in Michigan involving such diverse subjects as holograms, ion-bombarded tools, cell cultures and robot-related math formulas.

"We are investing in ideas, hoping to stimulate the development of products of the future," Ross said, as he announced the awarding of eight state research fund grants at the Detroit Science Center.

COMPANIES INVOLVED in the grants are:

- Holo-Source Inc., Southfield, $49,264.
- HEM Data Corp., Southfield, $52,736.
- IonSurface Technology Inc., Clawson, $50,000.
- Covalent Technology Corp., Ann Arbor, $50,000.
- SoloHill Engineering Inc., Ann Arbor, $48,000.
- Nova Engineering Co., St. Joseph, $29,500.

Area reps oppose Reagan on S. Africa

Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll-call votes Sept. 25 through Oct. 1.

APPROPRIATIONS BILL — By a vote of 201 for and 200 against, the House passed and sent to the Senate a $562 billion appropriations bill to fund the government in fiscal 1987, which began Oct. 1.

The measure (HJ Res 738) provides a 3 percent pay increase for members of Congress and other federal employees, beginning next January. The salary of House members and senators will rise from $75,100 to $77,353.

This "continuing resolution," which funds thousands of government functions at home and abroad, is the largest spending bill ever approved by Congress. It is necessary because Congress has failed to clear any of the 13 regular appropriations bills to fund federal departments and agencies in fiscal 1987.

Members voting yes supported the $562 billion catchall spending bill.

Voting yes: William Ford, D-Taylor, Sander Levin, D-Southfield.

Voting no: Dennis Hertel, D-Harper Woods, William Broomfield, R-Birmingham.

Not voting: Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth.

VETO OVERRIDE — By a vote of 313 for and 83 against, the House overrode President Reagan's veto of a bill slapping tough economic sanctions on South Africa to penalize it for its apartheid policies.

The bill became law when the Senate also voted to negate the veto (below). In part, it bans new American investment in South Africa, prohibits South African airlines from landing in the United States, and outlaws imports of South African steel, iron, uranium, coal, textiles, fruits, vegetables and Kruggerand gold coins.

Sanctions backer Thomas Manton, D-N.Y., said, "America must be heard and heard loudly for what we believe is an inalienable right for justice and equality."

President Reagan said in his veto message, "Black workers, the first victims of apartheid, would become the first victims of American sanctions."

Members voting yes wanted the South African sanctions bill to become law.

Voting yes: Pursell, Hertel, Ford, Levin.

Voting no: Broomfield.

IMMIGRATION REFORM — By a vote of 180 for and 202 against, the House refused to debate a bill (HR 3810) to reform the nation's immigration laws.

This appeared to kill reform efforts for this year, underscoring once again the inability of Congress to slow the onrush of undocumented foreigners into America.

Roll Call Report

In part, the bill set penalties against growers who knowingly hire illegal aliens, and granted permanent resident status to foreigners who did farm work in America for at least 60 days during 12 months ending last May 31.

This vote rejected a rule that permitted more than four dozen amendments during floor debate but banned a "guest worker" amendment favored by western growers and opposed by organized labor.

Only 13 Republicans voted for the rule, prompting Democrats to blame the GOP for killing immigration reform. But Republicans said it was only fair for the Democratic majority to allow the amendment permitting 350,000 guest workers to stay temporarily in the United States to harvest crops.

Members voting yes wanted to debate the immigration reform bill.

Voting yes: Hertel, William Ford, Levin.

SENATE

SOUTH AFRICA — By a vote of 78 for and 21 against, the Senate joined the House (above) in overriding President Reagan's veto of a bill imposing economic sanctions against South Africa.

Senators voting yes disagreed with the president and supported tough economic sanctions against South Africa.

Voting yes: Carl Levin, Donald Riegle, Michigan Democrats.

The margin of passage was 11 votes more than the 67 votes that were needed to negate the veto.

PHILIPPINES AID — By a vote of 57 for and 41 against, the Senate tabled (killed) an amendment to go along with the House and provide an extra $200 million in economic aid to the Philippines in fiscal 1987.

Senators voting yes were opposed to extra Philippines aid.

Voting no: Riegle.

Not voting: Levin.

The Philippines will receive several hundred million dollars in 1987 aid in any event. But unless the $200 million special payment is approved, their payment will fall below the $553 million they received in fiscal 1986 U.S. aid.

Judicial candidates need experience, Faust says

By Teri Barnes
staff writer

Sen. William Faust, D-Westland, is planning to introduce an amendment to the state constitution that would require judicial candidates to have at least six years of experience in the law.

Faust said candidates for judicial posts should have "maturity" in the law and experience in its practice.

"We're finding that more and more candidates are emerging from law schools. Michigan has an overabundance of attorneys and it seems to be one way to perhaps seek employment," said Faust.

In Wayne County, there are 35 circuit court positions that pay $74,888 a year. This year, six finalists are seeking three vacating positions on the Nov. 4 general election ballot. Of those, three have more than six years of experience but the rest have less than four years experience as lawyers. Candidate Kathleen MacDonald, who earned a law degree one year ago, has never argued a case in court.

The terms, lasting six years, are being vacated by retiring judges Richard Dunn, Thomas Roumell and Arthur Bowman.

"THE PUBLIC is ill served by the way the present law is structured," said Faust, whose district includes Garden City.

Currently, state law requires that candidates for the circuit court be residents of the county seeking office, be lawyers, and be under the age of 70. To place their name before voters, they must also gather several thousand signatures of supporters, depending on the size of their voting populations.

To become a lawyer in Michigan, one must pass the state bar exam, complete law school and never have been convicted of a felony. There are 24,000 lawyers now listed in Michigan.

"Certainly, there are instances, particularly in Wayne County, that new judicial posts are being sought by those who do not have practical experience," Faust said.

Faust said he has not yet drafted the resolution and is still considering its exact wording. He said he would ask that it apply to all "courts of record." Besides the circuit court, that would include the local district courts and the state court of appeals.

HE EXPECTS to introduce it when the state Legislature reconvenes in January.

According to former Michigan Bar President George Roumell, each state has different standards for judicial elections and there are a number of states that don't elect judges at all. In Massachusetts, Maine and Missouri, for instance, the state governor makes appointments to all local courts.

Roumell, who favors an appointment system for Michigan, said experience to be critical in selecting judges, whether by appointment or election.

Roumell, who was admitted to the state bar 32 years ago, said: "As an individual, I felt that as I gained more experience I would have more qualifications."

"I've always been in favor of appointments," he added. "I find it's hard, particularly in a big area, for people to be familiar with the qualifications of a candidate."

In the Wayne County Circuit Court race last August, there were 17 candidates who were included in the primary ballot.

On Faust's plan, Roumell called it a "reasonable" one, adding he thought it would be met with favorable approval from the Legislature.

Faust, who said he is still researching other state practices in this field, said there are at least six states that call for minimum experience levels for attorneys seeking judicial posts.

Faust: The public is "ill served" by the present system of judicial contests.

State grants go to firms' research

Two Southfield companies are among eight sharing nearly $370,000 in state research funds, state Commerce Director Doug Ross announced.

The grants will assist research projects in Michigan involving such diverse subjects as holograms, ion-bombarded tools, cell cultures and robot-related math formulas.

"We are investing in ideas, hoping to stimulate the development of products of the future," Ross said, as he announced the awarding of eight state research fund grants at the Detroit Science Center.

COMPANIES INVOLVED in the grants are:

- Holo-Source Inc., Southfield, $49,364.
- HEM Data Corp., Southfield, $52,736.
- IonSurface Technology Inc., Clawson, $50,000.
- Covalent Technology Corp., Ann Arbor, $50,000.
- SoloHill Engineering Inc., Ann Arbor, $48,000.
- Nova Engineering Co., St. Joseph, $29,500.
- BioQuant of Ann Arbor Inc., $55,000.
- Universal Machine Intelligence Inc., Ann Arbor, $33,000.

Area reps oppose Reagan on S. Africa

Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll-call votes Sept. 25 through Oct. 1.

HOUSE

APPROPRIATIONS BILL — By a vote of 201 for and 200 against, the House passed and sent to the Senate a $543 billion appropriations bill to fund the government in fiscal 1987, which began Oct. 1.

The measure (HJ Res 738) provides a 3 percent pay increase for members of Congress and other federal employees, beginning next January. The salary of House members and senators will rise from $75,100 to $77,353.

This "continuing resolution," which funds thousands of government functions at home and abroad, is the largest spending bill ever approved by Congress. It is necessary because Congress has failed to clear any of the 13 regular appropriations bills to fund federal departments and agencies in fiscal 1987.

Members voting yes supported the $562 billion catchall spending bill.

Voting yes: William Ford, D-Taylor, Sander Levin, D-Southfield.

Voting no: Dennis Hertel, D-Harper Woods, William Broomfield, R-Birmingham.

Not voting: Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth.

VETO OVERRIDE — By a vote of 313 for and 83 against, the House overrode President Reagan's veto of a bill slapping tough economic sanctions on South Africa to penalize it for its apartheid policies.

The bill became law when the Senate also voted to negate the veto (below). In part, it bans new American investment in South Africa, prohibits South African airlines from landing in the United States, and outlaws imports of South African steel, iron, uranium, coal, textiles, fruits, vegetables and Kruggerand gold coins.

Sanctions backer Thomas Manton, D-N.Y., said, "America must be heard and heard loudly for what we believe is an inalienable right for justice and equality."

President Reagan said in his veto message, "Black workers, the first victims of apartheid, would become the first victims of American sanctions."

Members voting yes wanted the South African sanctions bill to become law.

Voting yes: Pursell, Hertel, Ford, Levin.

Voting no: Broomfield.

IMMIGRATION REFORM — By a vote of 180 for and 202 against, the House refused to debate a bill (HR 3810) to reform the nation's immigration laws.

This appeared to kill reform ef-

Roll Call Report

orts for this year, underscoring once again the inability of Congress to slow the onrush of undocumented foreigners into America.

In part, the bill set penalties for illegal growers who knowingly hire illegal aliens, and granted permanent resident status to foreigners who did farm work in America for at least 60 days during 12 months ending last May 31.

This vote rejected a rule that permitted more than four dozen amendments during floor debate but banned a "guest worker" amendment favored by western growers and opposed by organized labor.

Only 13 Republicans voted for the rule, prompting Democrats to blame the GOP for killing immigration reform. But Republicans said it was only fair for the Democratic majority to allow the amendment permitting 350,000 guest workers to stay temporarily in the United States to harvest crops.

Members voting yes wanted to debate the immigration reform bill.

Voting yes: Hertel, William Ford, Levin.

SENATE

SOUTH AFRICA — By a vote of 78 for and 21 against, the Senate joined the House (above) in overriding President Reagan's veto of a bill imposing economic sanctions against South Africa.

Senators voting yes disagreed with the president and supported tough economic sanctions against South Africa.

Voting yes: Carl Levin, Donald Riegle, Michigan Democrats.

The margin of passage was 11 votes more than the 67 votes that were needed to negate the veto.

PHILIPPINES AID — By a vote of 57 for and 41 against, the Senate tabled (killed) an amendment to go along with the House and provide an extra $200 million in economic aid to the Philippines in fiscal 1987.

Senators voting yes were opposed to extra Philippines aid.

Not voting: Riegle.

Voting no: Levin.

The Philippines will receive several hundred million dollars in 1987 aid in any event. But unless the $200 million special payment is approved, their payment will fall below the $553 million they received in fiscal 1986 U.S. aid.

Is it too early for title scent?

THE PLYMOUTH Centennial Educational Park Marching Band appears to be headed for another championship season.

Maybe that's not a good thing to say right now. Music directors, like football coaches, may not appreciate talk of titles mid-season but prefer to wait until season's end to eye the crown.

But the high school marching band appears ready to take its third consecutive state title the end of this month when the Plymouth-Canton community hosts the state marching band championship tourney Saturday, Oct. 25, at the CEP Stadium. Previously, the band has taken first place at tourneys in Washington, Mich., and West Bloomfield.

THE BAND has captured first place at all of its competitions to date, the latest jewel being the Governor's Trophy earned in competition against some 15 bands at the Flushing Invitational this past weekend. The Governor's Trophy was awarded for the first time in 1975 when the Flushing Invitational became a statewide competition. Besides taking the top trophy, the 154-member CEP Marching Band at Flushing also took trophies for best percussion, best brass winds, best marching and maneuvering, best color guard, best drum major and best general effect.

The band's numbers this year include "Spanish Dreams" and "Send in the Clowns" plus selections from "Carmina Burana."

While followers of the band may be starting to think about the state title, given the strength of the musicians' performances to date, the band still has two invitationals on its schedule — Montrose this Saturday and the Durand Invitational Oct. 18. That will be two good tune-ups against some fine marching bands throughout the state that also will be practicing and tuning up in hopes of wrestling the title from the Plymouth-Canton bandsters.

IT IS EASY to give credit for the excellence of the band to director James R. Griffith and certainly much credit should be bestowed in that direction. But excellence in bands, as for athletic squads, also is due to organization and the quality of assistants and the marching band is no exception.

Band Director Griffith has made note of the excellent instructional staff that assists him with the band. With one exception, all instructional staff members are graduates of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools and its music program. The percussion staff includes Jerry Hotchkin, Chris Johnson, Debbie Goodwin and Greg Collins. The color guard designer is Meg Johnson and instructors are Nancy Hofmann and Kris Sieppel. The drill instructors are Glen Adsit, Neil Goodwin, Chris Lore and Jay Koupel.

The field commander is Rhonda Sherman and field captains are Debbie Royston and Mary Beth O'Mara. Others working behind the scenes include Dean Elder on drill design and Tim Saltzman and Gordon Henderson on musical arrangements.

Title or not, the band and its leaders deserve recognition for a fine season. In representing the community, they already are champs.

Prosperity claim: Is it PR or genuine?

ONE SCHOOL of thought calls it the Reagan prosperity. Or, if you prefer, the Reagan-Murphy prosperity, letting the Oakland County executive's name stand in excelsis for all who have contributed to the high-tech and office boom.

The other school of thought says Michigan "led" the recovery of 1983-86, and that Gov. James Blanchard led Michigan, so it's the "Blanchard prosperity."

Whoa! It's the wrong year to append a label to the good times most of us are enjoying. Wait 'til the next recession.

FOR 30 YEARS the savants have been saying, "When the U.S. catches cold, Michigan gets pneumonia."

That phlegmatic analogy refers to the fact that Michigan is a manufacturer of durable consumer goods. When times are rough, folks put off buying autos from metro Detroit and Flint, home appliances from Benton Harbor-St. Joseph, castings from the southern foundry towns and metals from the Upper Peninsula mines.

Frequently in recessions, our unemployment rate is double the national average.

Every governor for a generation has been saying Michigan's economy needs to be diversified.

BLANCHARD HAS implemented a lot of programs aimed in that direction.

There's the strategic fund, to invest in the fledgling industries that provide most of our new job growth; there are the new franchising rules, to attract national companies and local investors toward enterprises that have a 90 percent success rate; there are the new university patent and license policies, to encourage professors to sell their research to entrepreneurs; there's the ombudsman; there's the budgetary favoritism shown to community colleges, which do much of the job training; there's the promotion of tourism ... and so on.

(By the way, if that isn't "supply-side economics," I don't know what is.)

To be historically accurate, we must give credit to the source from which Blanchard filched virtually all his ideas — the September 1981 economic message of Gov. William G. Milliken. But Blanchard deserves high marks for passing and starting to implement the Milliken program.

THE EVIDENCE that the Milliken-Blanchard program worked won't come, however, until the next downturn. If we get economic pneumonia, nothing has changed. But if Michigan's jobless rate is close to the national average rather than double it, we'll have an indication of success.

We may not have long to wait. Cloudy signs are everywhere.

When corporate reports show increased sales but decreased profits, it means trouble is not far off. In one August afternoon, I spotted three such reports on the PR Newswire.

A New York Stock Exchange dive usually precedes a recession by six months. It occurred in August.

Consumer credit has about peaked. The Manufacturers Bank business index has been wobbly for several months.

I look for the national downturn to start around the end of the first quarter of 1987. That's when we'll see whether the "Blanchard prosperity" is public relations hype or genuine.

Michigan 150 years old

THE AGE of electricity might have been slower in coming without wire made from Michigan copper mines. Some of the world's purest copper comes from pre-Cambrian rocks in the Keweenaw Peninsula.

During the Civil War, mining companies faced labor shortages and sent agents as far away as Sweden to recruit miners. The inducements included high wages and exemption from the military draft.

Judges: elected not made

KNOWLEDGEABLE speculators are advising that the best bet for election to the state Supreme Court this year are Dennis Archer and Robert Griffin.

I'll bet money on the first name simply because he is the only one of the 21 candidates for the state Supreme Court who is currently a Supreme Court judge and who will have the designation of "Justice of the Supreme Court" under his name. Incumbents with designations do not lose.

Griffin is likely to be right at the top because he has a name that is familiar to a lot of voters, having served many years as a U.S. senator from this state and because he also has the backing of the Republican Party.

Some thought is given to the idea that Traverse City lawyer Dean Robb will make it over Griffin because he has the support of the Democratic Party and the allegiance of organized labor. Robb's name will be on a lot of the suggested slates passed out at election time.

THE ONLY PROBLEM is that when it comes to electing judges, most voters don't know a Frank Kelley from a Mike Kelly and voters tend to vote for names they have heard before in connection with judicial endeavors.

More people probably have heard Griffin's name than Robb's, therefore Griffin.

To give you one small example of how the election process works in matters judicial, here's a tale passed on about Wayne Circuit Judge Charles Kaufman — the same judge who gained a ton of adverse publicity for not sentencing the Vincent Chin killers to jail. Kaufman once ordered the Van Buren Township board of trustees to jail for not following his order to give the developer of a Van Buren trailer park a sewer permit.

The board took the people's side in the matter and Kaufman's decisions were definitely unpopular. The next election, Kaufman led the field of judicial candidates in Van Buren Township. From such stuff came the maxim: I don't care what you say about me, just make sure you spell my name right.

IN ADDITION to Archer, Robb, Griffin and the Republican-party-nominated James Kallman, there are 17 other candidates running for the state's highest court, none of them very well-known. James Kelley, a Monroe County Circuit judge, has the advantage of having an "electable" name as well as judicial experience. Lansing attorney Zolton Ferency was well-known a few years ago. None of the others have as much to offer, either as a name candidate or a candidate with judicial experience.

Then why the stampede? Simply because the state does not have a good method for electing or judges to the Supreme Court. It doesn't have a good method for electing judges to other courts either, but that's another story.

Election laws say that Supreme Court candidates must be nominated by a political party. For years, the major candidates came from either the Democratic Party or the Republican Party. Even more curiously, the parties nominated candidates who run as non-partisan candidates.

EACH ELECTION year the state has tried to exclude candidates who were not nominated by parties, but lost so many lawsuits along the way that it gave up. The courts ruled the state must have a way for independents to get on the ballot.

The secretary of state's office turned the problem over to the Legislature to spell out a method for independents to get on the ballot. The Legislature, so far, has ducked the issue. As it now stands almost anyone can get on the ballot.

The only qualifications are: be a state attorney under 70 years old and have one person attest he or she supports you. That fits about 97 percent of the state's growing attorney population.

What a way to run a judicial system.

Reaffirming our mission

AMERICA THRIVES on change. And that's what we in the newspaper business are celebrating this week. We would like you to join us in this celebration.

No food, no drinks, no music to set the mood, thank you. We're just taking a few minutes this week to reaffirm our mission as a constitutional entity — your insurance policy for a free and open society.

We call this reaffirmation National Newspaper Week.

Many often ask why this business remains such a passion for those who are in it. The answer's easy — because those who read newspapers are just as passionate.

The trick to being a good journalist, of course, is always remaining an avid reader.

In truth, America is "the chosen home of newspapers." That's what English essayist and poet Matthew Arnold observed during the middle of the 19th century. And it's just as true, if not more so, as we look toward the 21st.

THE NEWSPAPER, that entity we love to hate and hate to be without, has been our partner in democracy since the very beginning of our country. It's very much different elsewhere.

Steve Barnaby

No other country provides newspapers with the same rights or expects the same obligations as does America and its readers.

The "right" is really an expectation that newspapers will keep the American public informed. The obligation is that we chronicle the changing face of America without fear of retribution.

The First Amendment, a much misunderstood article, arms newspapers with the right to represent the public when the public is unable to keep an eye on those forces that could harm or corrupt our Constitution. Given that protection, we are rightfully expected to operate in a forthright manner.

Anything less would be wrong — an abdication of our responsibility to the people of this country.

As a reader, you should always expect the maximum effort from your newspaper, whether it be the national newspaper, a metropolitan daily, a suburban publication, a country weekly or a high school newspaper.

WE'RE ALL doing the same job for the reader. We all must live up to the same standard.

America's newspaper history is a lesson in the fight for democracy. And not only is it instructional, it's colorful — full of heroes and villains.

As part of the celebration, both readers and journalists alike should take the time to read about the newspaper pioneers who helped to build this country. The list of names is diverse and nearly endless.

James Gordon Bennett, Margaret Bourke-White, Ralph McGill, Ernie Pyle, Marguerite Higgins, John Sengstacke, Nellie Bly — a good list with which to start. They all were very different types of people. Some you'll like, others you won't.

But they all contributed in one way or another in building a free press.

And behind each one of these people are hundreds of thousands of journalists who made the same kind of contribution and have gone unsung. But that's all right. They would want it that way.

The mission is, after all, to get the job done, to chronicle the change.

Hail to pageantry, lore of Big 10 battle

IT MAY COME as a surprise to some, but just as the sun will continue to rise in the east there will be classes as usual Monday both at Michigan State University and the University of Michigan.

Regardless of the outcome when their gladiators clash in a test of football skills Saturday in the big saucer at Ann Arbor, both institutions are dedicated to reopen for their principal purpose of dispensing education.

It is a false rumor that defeat will leave either university in shambles, vast resources as to human knowledge totally erased from the face of the earth.

It was well over a century ago when President White of Cornell University at Ithaca, N.Y., declined permission for a game between his students and those of Michigan with the classic statement, "I will not permit 30 men to travel 400 miles merely to agitate a bag of wind."

HE DIDN'T LIVE to see what an infectious disease football would become or how it would stir the emotions to the point that more than 100,000 otherwise reasonably sane individuals would pay more than they would for a good meal just to see some college lads bump heads. Yes, it's a disease, and I'll admit to being terminally infected.

In all truth, however, there's more to the spectacle than just the contest itself. This point was brought home recently during halftime of a game I attended when a woman seated not far distant cupped her hands megaphone style and shouted at some boorish males who were standing and thus blocking her view, "Down in front! I'm a band mother, and I want to see the show."

The sternness of her voice gave them no choice. To the applause of numerous folks nearby, they sat.

What I think she was telling us was that we should pay just as much tribute to the very special people who add significantly to the joys of autumn as we do to the headliners in the main ring.

That means the bands, their drum majors, the baton twirlers, the flag teams, the pompon girls, cheerleaders and all of Cecil B. Demille's proverbial "cast of thousands" who make football drama possible.

Even as devout a fan as myself will concede that many a ticket is sold more for the appeal of the sideshow than the main attraction. Those people are given too little credit for adding to football's national popularity.

THIS THING SATURDAY at Ann Arbor comes within one day of being exactly 88 years since Michigan and what then was Michigan Agricultural College met on the gridiron for the first time: Oct. 12, 1898. The verdict was Scholars 39, Farmers 0.

The road from East Lansing to the pinnacle of national acclaim wasn't easy. Three afternoons that helped were successive 16-0, 25-6 and 21-7 victories over U-M during my own campus days in trying to learn how to spell Go Blue.

Some of you younger constituents don't remember that Michigan was one of the original seven members of the Western Conference, an 1896 creation of their seven college presidents. Alphabetically the other six were Chicago, Illinois, Minnesota, Northwestern, Purdue and Wisconsin.

Indiana and Iowa were soon added, but when haughty Michigan withdrew in 1907 it left a gap that wasn't filled until the inclusion of Ohio State (ugh!) five years later.

Michigan returned in 1917, but 1939 was the University of Chicago's last year. A decade of politicking followed before Michigan State was allowed membership and, by golly, one of the very first things the Spartans did was go out and knock the socks off the Wolverines.

Lost in journalistic antiquity is the identity of the space-conscious newspaper copy editor who first reduced the name Western Conference to Big 10 so it would fit in a one-column headline.

Reviewer should show respect

To the editor:

I hope Dan Greenberg doesn't find himself the target of overripe fruit for his review Sept. 22 of the movie "Hardbodies 2." Although he admits it's a "pretty dumb skin flick," he certainly counteracted that with his statement that "Most movies have something good to be said for them. In the case of 'Hardbodies 2,' all one can say is it has a lot of naked ladies, to the point of boredom."

I didn't know whether to laugh or groan. Had a female writer written the equivalent of that by saying that (thankfully) a movie's one redeeming feature was a lot of muscular men in jockey shorts, her integrity and maturity would have been questioned (if such a piece indeed made it to final print).

Even tongue-in-cheek, remarks like this are in rather poor taste. The issues of female (and male) exploitation have been in the forefront too, too long — where has Mr. Greenberg been?

We'll forgive him this time, but from now on, a little more respect, please, for both genders.

Laurice M. Bray, Canton

State chamber applauds media

To the editor:

It is sometimes easy to overlook the obvious — especially when we enjoy the benefits everyday.

The obvious in this case is the annual observance of National Newspaper Week. It's a time to remind ourselves and each other of the importance of the free and uninhibited flow of news — one of the crucial needs our founding fathers foresaw as critical to the success of government "by the people."

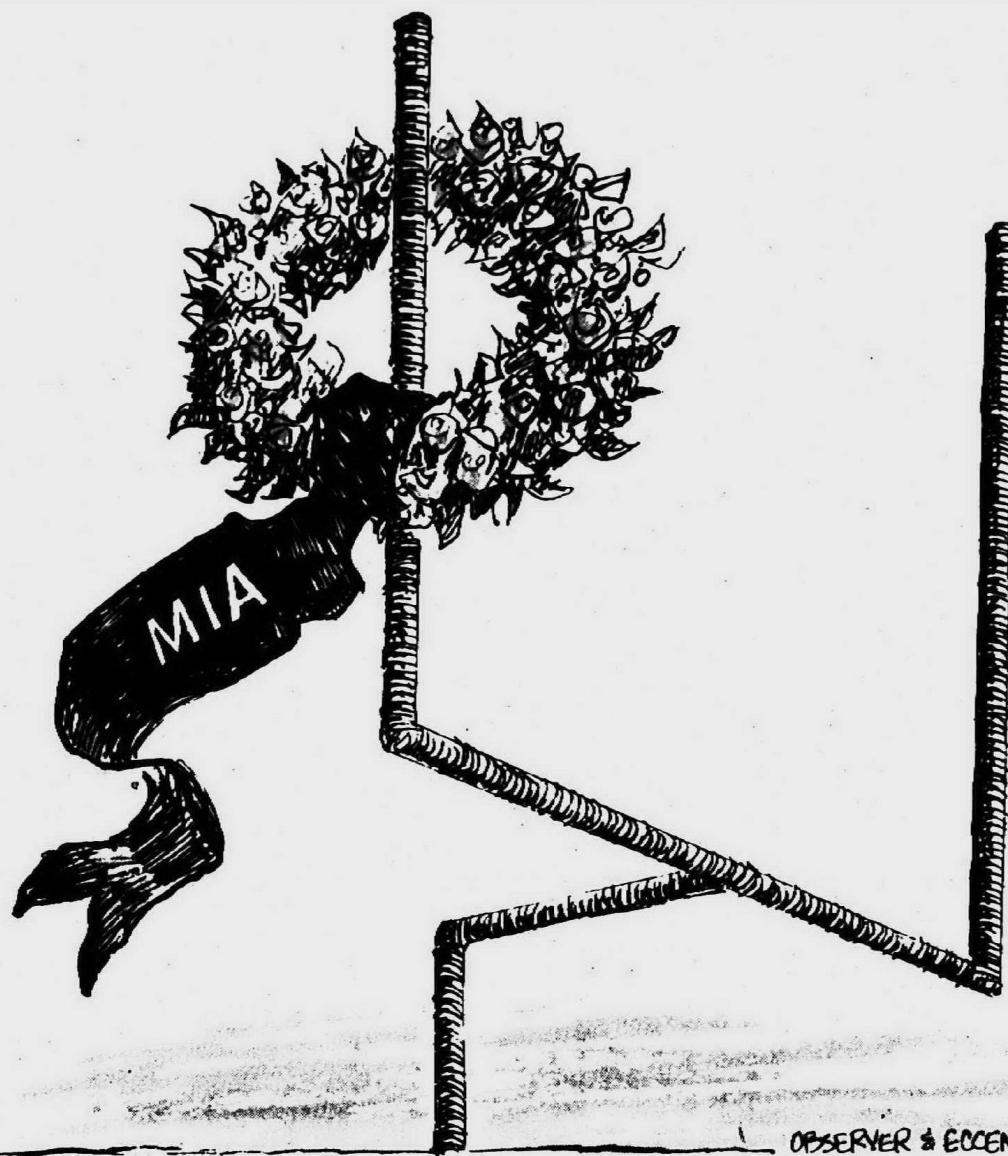

We at the Michigan Chamber of Commerce, like so many others who are interested in public affairs and reporting by the media — recognize that the democratic process gets better over the years.

This is particularly true as more and more of our citizens — constantly made aware by the media of our challenges and opportunities — become more involved in our democracy and work to improve the system.

In recognition of the efforts by newspapers, as well as radio and television, let me take this occasion to salute your efforts and urge you to keep up the good work of reporting, advising, educating and entertaining.

James Barrett, president Michigan State Chamber of Commerce

Student garb runs the gamut

CLOTHING THE student body is serious business for Plymouth-Canton Community Schools high school students.

A walk through the halls of Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem high schools reveals a variety of fashion styles. Some students could easily step into the filming of a rock video, others would make a modern-day Ozzie and Harriet proud.

For some students at Centennial Educational Park, comfort is a major consideration when choosing clothes.

"I like to wear my dad's old shirts," said Joe DiPonio, a 14-year-old ninth grader at Canton. "They're comfortable, they're loose, I like the way they look."

Leslie Burns, 16, recently wore a long black top paired with jeans to school.

"I guess sweaters and jeans mostly for school," said Burns, an 11th grader at Salem. "Out of school, it's different. I guess I'd get a little more wild out of school."

MARNIE SMITH, 15, likes to wear skirts to school and to "try to look a little bit different from everybody else."

That degree of difference, however, has its limits.

"Not unusual, not weird," said Smith, a 10th grader at Canton. She also wears dress pants, but doesn't make a habit of wearing jeans.

"I have one pair of jeans that I wear, my Coca-Cola jeans."

Melanie Cash, 16, has a pair of denim overalls she wore to school on a recent day. The Canton High School 11th grader's other clothing choices include "dress pants and shirts and stuff."

Ron Swanson, 16, and Larry Dudley, 17, wear black leather jackets to school. Swanson is a 10th grader at Canton and Dudley is a 12th grader at Salem.

They're sometimes labeled as "burnouts" by others at Centennial Educational Park, Swanson said.

"That's what we're considered." Students at Centennial Educaal Park don't have too many formal restrictions that apply to the clothes they wear. According to the district's student handbook, the primary responsibility for appearance and grooming rests with students and their parents.

ACCORDING TO the handbook, "dress should be such that it in no way interferes with the educational process."

"Students should avoid dress and grooming styles that can be hazardous to themselves or others in their school activities, such as shop, lab work, physical education and art," the dress code reads.

"Grooming and dress which prevent the student from doing his/her best work because of blocked vision or restricted movement should be

Mark Levesque, 15, and Beth DeBenedet, 14, chose this garb for a recent day at school. "This is it," DeBenedet said with a laugh. "This is as good as it gets." She is a ninth grader at Canton High School, where Levesque is a 10th grader.

Tragedy's devastation hits hard

By Richard Lech
staff writer

SOMETIMES a young life tragically ends before it has had a chance to begin.

Whether the cause is miscarriage, stillbirth or early-infant death, the effect is the same.

The parents feel a devastating sense of grief, as they would over the death of anyone they love, according to Gwendolyn Stellmach of Redford Township.

"Most people feel pregnancy loss is not the same type of grief you go through if you lose a parent or spouse, brother or sister," she said. "But it is. The grief process isn't any shorter."

Stellmach and her husband, David, know only too well the pain of losing a baby. They have lost three children before or at birth.

Stellmach suffered a miscarriage in the summer of 1981, had a stillborn daughter in June 1984 and a stillborn son 10 months later.

She recently formed HEART (Helping Empty Arms Reach for Tomorrow), a support group for families who have lost an infant through miscarriage, stillbirth or infant death.

STELLMACH SAID the longer the pregnancy, the more the parents become emotionally involved with the developing child.

"People assume there's no attachment, no feelings for that child. That is definitely not true."

The parents picture what the child will look like in their minds. They think about how they want to raise the child.

"A lot of love and energy goes into this beautiful baby they're expecting to have, and when they don't have it it's devastating. All those dreams come to a sudden end."

It is at that time that the mother especially needs the support of friends and relatives. But she doesn't always get it, Stellmach said.

Not knowing what to say, friends and relatives sometimes avoid her. Or they say things that come across as insensitive, such as "Oh, you're young yet, you have plenty of time" or "Oh, it wasn't meant to be."

IF THE CHILD had birth defects or other anomalies, as Stellmach's stillborn daughter did, some might even tell the mother, "It was for the best."

"It's easy to say that, but it's not that easy to hear," Stellmach said. "No matter what the baby was like, you wanted it and loved it."

Instead of saying such things, friends and relatives should just say they are sorry and be ready to listen, Stellmach said.

"The most important thing is for people not to shy away from the bereaved parent. They sometimes feel so isolated because people don't want to talk to them because they don't know what to say."

Holidays can be a particularly difficult time for someone who has lost an infant, she said.

"That's the time the family gets together, and if you have a large family there are a lot of children running around."

"It's very difficult to see this 2-year-old when you know the child is the same age as your child would have been."

"You love watching them, you love being there with them, but you

STEVE FECHT/staff photographer

Gwendolyn Stellmach of Redford Township knows only too well the pain that accompanies the loss of a baby.

also experience great suffering and loss because your child or children aren't there, and you feel they should be."

ANOTHER DIFFICULT time comes six months after the child would have been born. The mother, who may be coping better and better, suddenly receives another blow, Stellmach said.

Sales pitches come by mail and phone for everything from baby photos to children's books, all taking the approach of, "Now that your baby's 6 months old..."

"You think you're doing great, and all of a sudden you get all of this six-month literature. Every other day there's something in the mail."

"Some people are so rude as to call, and when you tell them what happened say, 'Oh, you'll have another baby, and would you like to order this?'"

Stellmach and her husband currently are in the process of adopting a child. Yet they will never forget the children who died in infancy.

The due date of the lost infant becomes a date you never forget, she said.

"It's just like a child's birthday; you remember."

Group helps those who grieve

By Richard Lech
staff writer

GWENDOLYN Stellmach's HEART is going out to those who, like her, have lost a baby.

HEART (Helping Empty Arms Reach for Tomorrow) is a support group Stellmach is forming to help parents cope with their grief after a miscarriage, stillbirth or infant death.

As Stellmach wrote in her HEART brochure, "After my miscarriage and the stillbirth of our daughter Anna, David (her husband) and I felt we had nowhere to turn for support and information. It is my hope that HEART will help other parents avoid the confusion and loneliness we experienced."

HEART will offer literature on infant death, referral to counselors and other support groups available, educational programs and other activities.

But one of its main purposes will be to give bereaved parents the chance, at monthly support group meetings, to meet other parents who have gone through the same thing — and who will be willing to listen.

"They need people to listen,"

Stellmach said. "Like any death, it needs to be talked about."

THE GROUP will meet at 7:30 p.m. the second Wednesday of every month at Stellmach's home in Redford Township. For more information, call Stellmach at 532-0712.

She patterned the group after other infant-loss groups in the Detroit area, such as the group she attended at William Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak. She said she feels there is a need for such a support group in western Wayne County.

HEART will work with hospitals to make sure that parents know such a service is available. Often women who suffer a miscarriage are treated only in the emergency room and don't get the kind of support available through the maternity ward, she said.

The support group also will help couples through another trying time: when the mother attempts to give birth again after losing an infant.

"It's a very high-anxiety situation. Once they get the word (that the wife is pregnant) rather than all joy and jubilation, there's a kind of anxiety that carries through the pregnancy."

HEART JOINED with other non-profit organizations to form a task force that initiated the Pregnancy and Infant Loss Awareness Month this month.

The month includes several special memorial services. One of these services will be at 11 a.m. Saturday at St. Gemma Catholic Church, 23450 W. Davison, Detroit.

The services will allow the parents to memorialize their dead infants. For some mothers, who were hospitalized during the baby's original funeral service, this will be a special occasion.

"I got a call from one mother whose baby died in 1976. She was sick and couldn't attend the funeral service then, so she's going to attend the memorial service."

"A lot of people didn't have the opportunity in the past to attend the service. They're finding this to be very helpful."

Other activities planned include:

• A six-part series on bereavement topics that will be offered at Schrader Funeral Home in Plymouth 7:30-9 p.m. Mondays, beginning

Oct. 20. For more information, call 453-3333.

The dress code also lists several items of clothing that are considered inappropriate for school: shirts or blouses the create a bare midriff, tank tops, tube tops, short shorts or "any clothing that might be provocative."

The dress code is a far cry from those that current students' parents may recall. Some school dress codes of years gone by had strict standards for such things as length of hair for boys or of skirts for girls.

"It's pretty much a common sense kind of thing," said Richard Egli, the Plymouth-Canton school system's administrative assistant for community relations.

THE SECTION of the dress code covering shop, lab work, physical education and art has a common sense basis, Egli said.

"It's really a safety factor as much as anything there." Clothing could, for example, become caught in machinery used in a shop class.

A variety of clothing styles are now considered acceptable in the schools, Egli said.

"We have a greater appreciation of freedom." The possibility of litigation arising in the area of freedom of expression is a factor, he said; excessive restrictions on students' clothing choices could lead to such lawsuits.

The influence of rock videos on student fashions is a strong one, Egli said.

"It reflects MTV."

A defense against cancer can be cooked up in your kitchen.

There is evidence that diet and cancer are related. Some foods may promote cancer while others may protect you from it.

Foods related to lowering the risk of cancer of the larynx and esophagus all have high amounts of carotene, a form of Vitamin A which is in cantaloupes, peaches, broccoli, spinach, all dark green leafy vegetables, sweet potatoes, carrots, pumpkin, winter squash, and tomatoes, citrus fruits and brussels sprouts.

Foods that may help reduce the risk of gastrointestinal and respiratory tract cancer are cabbage, broccoli, brussels sprouts, kohlrabi, cauliflower.

Fruits, vegetables and whole grain cereals such as oatmeal, bran and wheat may help lower the risk of colorectal cancer.

Foods high in fat, salt or nitrite-cured foods such as ham, and fish and types of sausages smoked by traditional methods should be eaten in moderation.

Be moderate in consumption of alcohol also.

A good rule of thumb is cut down on fat and don't be fat. Weight reduction may lower cancer risk. Our 12-year study of nearly a million Americans uncovered high cancer risks particularly among people 40% or more overweight.

Now, more than ever, we know you can cook up your own defense against cancer. So eat healthy and be healthy.

No one faces cancer alone.

moral perspectives
Rev. David StrongRoots of violence need to be examined

SUBURBAN LEADERS and Mayor Young of Detroit have joined in an emotional exchange regarding the origins of crime. The suburban leaders claim that much of their crime comes from Detroit. Mayor Young makes counter charges.

The sensational trial of Ronald Bailey of Livonia, accused of murdering a young boy, has led to a conviction. During the long trial the newspaper reports indicated that the defense tried to prove that he was insane at the time of the murder. People reacted to this suggestion. They wanted Bailey punished.

Violence is very much on our minds. Whether it is at a local level, or terrorism or the ultimate threat, nuclear war, violence is constantly before us.

Is it not strange? Most of us know very little about violence. We seldom think of the causes of violence. The drive for a death penalty across the country is a reaction to violence rather than an understanding of its causes. It is not unlike the current "rid America of drugs" drive that largely fails to address the causes of addiction.

VIOLENCE RESULTS from a belief that one's wants and needs cannot be met by effective personal action. Psychologically speaking, violence is a passive behavior. From a religious standpoint, violence is a failure to love. It is an unwillingness to acknowledge other people as beings equally loved by God.

Violent people must depersonalize others before they can hurt them. It comes out of frustration, which is often not openly acknowledged. Young people may have observed parents trying to solve problems by violent means.

Violence becomes an interplay between victims and persecutors. Those who perceive themselves as a victim often become the ones who themselves perpetuate violence. They have become a persecutor.

Violent people look out upon the world and believe that the problems and the answers lie outside themselves.

Such people fail to acknowledge their own sin, realizing "there but for the grace of God go I." Those who resort to violence believe that the solutions to problems can be social, outward, rather than through inner change.

THE IDEAL western hero of the 1800s was one who resorted to violence only when forced to do so. A few of these stories acknowledge that killing often leads to more killing. Entirely left out of such westerns is the reality of remorse and guilt. The stories fail to acknowledge the spiritual and moral harm that accompanies violent deeds.

It used to be said, "violence is as American as apple pie." Perhaps we can now say, "we have had enough." We do not have a stomach for more. Still we remain ignorant of the nature of violence and its causes. Underneath our civilized ways are we really animals? Are some groups and societies more violent than others?

The civil rights movement in America is one example of an attempt to bring about non-violent change. In the minds of many it was a successful effort. Currently the non-violent protest of our nuclear arms race appears to be a fringe, almost illegitimate action. The majority still believes that the only way to deal with the threat of ultimate annihilation is to produce more potential annihilation. It is an exact parallel to the idea that to oppose crime we should simply hire more police.

We need to study our religious documents. We need to collect stories of non-violent response to threat. We need to understand the belief structures of people who do violent deeds. We need to teach children about the nature of violence in our churches, synagogues and schools.

We distrust those who speak of peace for we fear weakness. We reject those who recommend violent solutions. We reject both extremes. We fail to propose an alternate solution.

How do we address violence? Only through research and education will we discover a middle road. The issue needs to be considered in forum, church and synagogue. All who seek a better future must address this issue.

Cities eye Eloise development

By Sue Mason
staff writer

Efforts by four western Wayne County communities to develop the former Wayne County General Hospital-Eloise property have attracted county and state attention.

As a result of discussions with commerce department site-analyst Linda Dankoff, at a meeting Friday of the Eloise Task Force, the state Department of Commerce will do a feasibility study on how the property can be developed.

Representatives from Westland, Wayne, Romulus and Inkster have been meeting since late July to draft plans for developing the more than 300 acres that straddle Michigan Avenue in Westland and border on the three other communities.

Those plans include a commercial and office development north of Michigan Avenue, with light and heavy industrial development on the southern portion of the property.

DANKOFF, ALONG with state Sen. William Faust and state Rep. Justine Barns, both Democrats from Westland, were invited to the meeting to find out what the state could do to help with the marketing of the property.

While Dankoff agreed with the plan that a multi-use development for the land is the course to pursue, she believes that light industrial may be more appropriate for the southern piece of property because of the residential areas bordering it.

"From an aesthetic standpoint, heavy industrial wouldn't suit it nor would it be desirable for an urbanized setting," she explained.

Dankoff added that the development will face stiff competition from other projects, including those proposed for I-94 and I-275, at Haggerty Road and Michigan Avenue and in the Michtech Industrial Park on Ford Road near I-275. But the property may be attractive for development because the land costs will be less than for the prime industrial developments, she said.

ONE ASPECT of the Eloise development the commerce department has been asked to look at is the use of the property for a water theme park. It was one of three sites a Wayne County parks department consultant picked as a site for such a park.

County recreation director Eric Reickel said the park proposal is based on the Rouge River flowing through the site north of Michigan Avenue and that while some interest has been expressed in the park, "no private partner has come forward."

"Wayne County is deficient in leisure-time opportunities and the recreation department is looking for private partnerships to provide recreational opportunities at no cost to the county," he said. "It was a concept that would have a positive impact on the area."

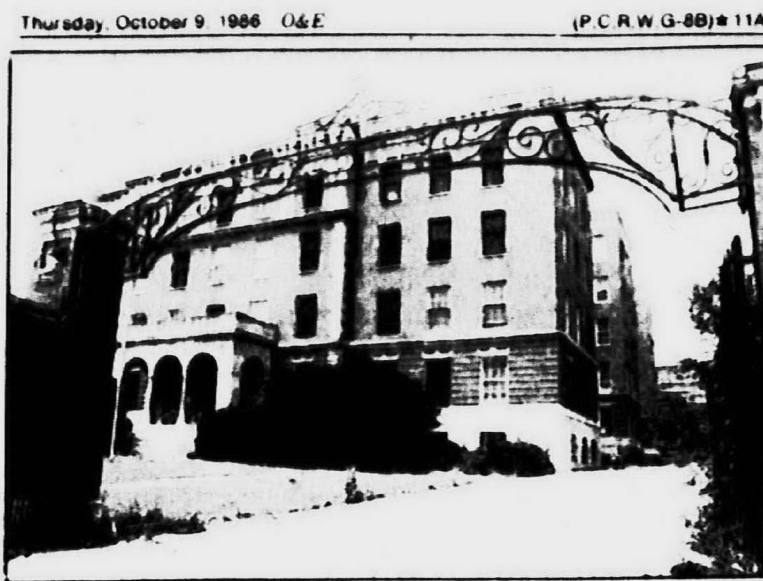

He added that the county feasibility study could be used as a tool in developing the property.

"WE WILL pursue some form of leisure development in western Wayne County," he added. "We're trying to enhance the quality of life, which, in turn, will improve the marketability of the area."

The task force, however, believes that a theme park would be a "total underuse" of the site and that the commerce department study will determine if such a development "will fly."

The task force has postponed its next meeting until after the November election to wait and see who will be at the helm of the state government. Republican gubernatorial candidate William Lucas has repeatedly expressed an interest in developing the site as a state prison, although his offer to the state has been turned down several times.

Merriman widening is key element of plan

By Sue Mason
staff writer

How quickly the former Wayne County General Hospital-Eloise property in Westland can be developed may be determined by how successful the Eloise Task Force is in getting Merriman Road widened from Detroit Metropolitan Airport in Romulus to the I-96 freeway in Livonia.

The task force, organized by the city of Westland in July, has been working on a multi-use development plan for the more than 300-acre site. The group says its marketability will hinge on an adequate road system to provide access not only to the airport, but the three major freeways that crisscross the area.

And while the task force has been assured that the widening of Merriman is a priority with Wayne County, it hasn't been able to pin down county officials on how soon the work can be done.

Wayne County, according to Alan Richardson, deputy director and assistant county highway engineer for the Department of Public Service, would like to see Merriman as a five-lane road stretching from the airport on the south to the Oakland County border on the north, but the drawback is the lack of money.

The county has $5 million that it spends on 700 miles of roads in 33 communities, leaving little for such a major undertaking, Richardson told the task force. He added that they would face a monumental task getting the necessary rights-of-way between Michigan Avenue and Corcoran Road, especially if "there are recalcitrant homeowners."

Richardson pointed out that road work already is on the drawing board for 1988 and that a Merriman project might not fit into the schedule until 1989.

The task force, however, believes the expansion and improvements being made at the airport must be tied into the widening of Merriman, since it is a major artery into the facility and proposed that the widening be broken down into two projects, the first being from the airport to I-96.

"It doesn't make sense to say we're going to bond for $140 million for airport improvements, when you can't get the people to it," task force chairman Joseph Benyo said. "It seems like a backward step to enlarge and expand the airport, but not do anything about its major artery."

Benyo said the widening is akin to preventive medicine because it would "head off something before it goes wrong." That something, he said, is the problem of getting people into the airport.

Kiwanians replacing flags in elementary classrooms

"I guess it all began when I realized my own daughter didn't have a flag in her classroom for pledging allegiance in the morning," said Gary Gaylord, in explaining the start of a project to provide flags to elementary schools in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

The absence of a flag in his daughter's classroom led Gaylord, a teacher at John Glenn High School in Westland and a member of the Plymouth Kiwanis Club, to become involved in a project of providing 2-by-3-foot nylon flags in all elementary classrooms of Plymouth-Canton school districts.

The flags, available with holders, are being put in classrooms where there are no flags or in classrooms where flags are in poor condition.

The first step in getting the flags came when Gaylord, who chairs the youth services committee, talked with fellow Kiwanian and Eriksson Elementary School principal Ron South. South volunteered to do a survey of the elementary schools to determine the number of flags needed.

The result of the survey was the recent purchase of 138 flags, which have been distributed to all elementary schools.

Money for the flags came from a variety of Kiwanis activities, including a Fall Festival pancake breakfast, a peanut sale, a travelogue, and a boat and camper show.

Long-range plans of the group include a flag in every middle school and high school classroom as well. "I felt the flags would provide a recognition of the need for allegiance and love of our country. We should permit our young people to have a chance to express themselves in a patriotic way."

Echoing that sentiment, South explained, "We have a class come to the main office area every morning to say the pledge of allegiance over the public address system. That way students in every classroom can pledge allegiance to the flag and start the day out in both a positive and patriotic way."

Gaylord adds: "This is only one of the needs the Plymouth Kiwanis Club seeks to fulfill. We have a number of ways of supporting young people — such items as the Boys and Girls State scholarships, the Isister Scholarship, and the State Troopers Leadership Camp. When we work with the schools in supporting and training our young people, the entire community benefits."

Help wanted: Teen workers elude business owners

By Carolyn Smith
special writer

Julie Hardesty, owner of a convenience store in Farmington Hills, shares a business problem with Robert Schaner, a service station owner in Birmingham.

Neither can find qualified teens and college students willing to work for them.

A drive anywhere in Wayne and Oakland counties will find bold "Help Wanted" signs posted in windows of fast-food and conventional restaurants, retail stores and service businesses ranging from dry cleaners to car washes.

Local newspaper ads show a large number of restaurant employers willing to pay more than the minimum wage of $3.35 an hour. McDonald's establishments in Farmington Hills and Novi offer $4 per hour and flexible hours. So does the Burger King in Farmington. The Mayflower Hotel in Plymouth has asked homemakers — "no experience necessary" — to apply for jobs as banquet waitresses.

Some jobs may go begging, but it's not a problem unique to this area. Part of it results from a national decline in available 16- to 19-year-olds.

The U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics reports a 37-percent drop in the teen work force between 1971 and 1985. That's because births averaged 3.6 million a year between 1967 and 1970. The baby boom hit a peak of 4.2 million in 1960, then continued a course of steady decline.

IN THE LAST decade, the number of 16- to 19-year-olds has dwindled from 9.4 to 6.8 percent of the population. That doesn't include the increasing number of high school dropouts, but it does count high school graduates having problems with basic reading, writing and mathematics.

Illiteracy — or signs of it — disturbs Hardesty, who owns a 7-Eleven store at Nine Mile and Middlebelt.

"I recently advertised and got 20 applications over a two-week period," she said. "Only two people could complete the application satisfactorily."

"Simple questions were misinterpreted, and 'yes' and 'no' check-box

'I know that only a sluggish economy will bring back the workers. But that's when business will be down, when we won't need our 35 to 40 part-time workers.'

— Robert Schaner service station owner

questions obviously showed a lack of reading comprehension."

Jobs at her store pay $3.50 to $4.50 an hour depending on experience.

"I've tried everything. I've put up signs in the window and notices in churches and done word-of-mouth advertising. I've attempted to work with Boys Republic (a home for boys 12-17 who are wards of the state) but only got a couple of responses. I don't know what more I can do."

Neither does Schaner, owner of the Tel-Maple Car Care at 15 Mile and Telegraph.

"I know that only a sluggish economy will bring back the workers. But that's when business will be down, when we won't need our 35 to 40 part-time workers."

SCHANER SAID he has advertised widely and tried to deal with people at the Orchard Ridge campus of Oakland Community College, Lawrence Institute of Technology and area high schools.

He thinks the lack of applicants is rooted in Oakland County's relative affluence, which "encourages youth to seek higher-paying positions."

Schaner also believes there are many service-type jobs with starting wages higher than his.

"Business is good right now but we still can't afford to start people at more than $4 an hour here."

Brian Bowman, store manager of Stan's Market on Ann Arbor Road — one of three in Livonia — believes competitively low wages pose a big problem in attracting young workers.

"The (Stan's Market) owners aren't paying enough," he said. "Employees under 18 start at $3.40 an hour; those 18 or older with experience earn $3.85."

"Really, I've been lucky here. They're having bigger problems at the other two stores," Bowman said.

BUT THE PICTURE isn't bleak for all employers with low starting wages, thanks to incentives.

The Gap, a retail clothing store in Westland, employs mainly high school seniors and college students, said Karen Kull, the store's assistant manager.

In her final undergraduate year at Traditional sexual stereotyping by profession is alive and well, if a poll taken of 400 youngsters ages 8 to 10 is an indication. Girls reported wanting to be nurses or teachers; boys named professional athletes or police work for their career choices. Among girls, medicine was the only traditionally male-dominated field cited as the career choice by a significant number. Thirteen percent said they would like to be doctors or dentists when they grow up. As for boys, they were almost twice as likely as girls to say they wanted to be president for a power motive (24 percent to 14 percent). The poll was conducted by Sesame Place, a play park in Langhorne, Pa.

State offers free help to small fleet owners

Small businesses with at least four vehicles can receive free help from the state to increase their fleets' efficiency and reduce operating costs.

The Fleet Efficiency Program, operated through the Energy Administration, Michigan Department of Commerce, is funded by overcharge fines collected from oil companies. The program was first offered to municipalities and has been expanded to small businesses statewide.

According to Loyal Huffman of Southfield, fleet analyst, specialists look at a company's purchasing, records, preventive maintenance and trip routing procedures before making recommendations.

"We're there to find ways to save money and make their operations more efficient. We've saved considerable amounts of money for municipalities," Huffman said.

Each of the four areas has a potential for savings.

"A lot of it is record keeping," Huffman said. "A lot of companies have automated their records but many computer programs are outdated at this point. We have a specialist who has developed a template for the Lotus 1-2-3 program that makes recordkeeping much easier."

With the rising cost of cars and trucks, some business owners have turned to leasing vehicles. But leasing options have complicated the decision.

"Leasing has become intricate," Huffman said. "There are many ways to lease such as leasing with a maintenance contract or doing the maintenance yourself."

FEP specialists often find that fleet maintenance is put on the back burner.

"Small businesses are not maintaining their vehicles economically," Huffman said. "They don't do anything until the vehicle quits and this is costing them money."

Business owners interested in the program can call Huffman at 357-0337.

"We'll dig as deep as we have to help these people," he said.

Builders show opens

SMART HOUSE, the house that "thinks," will make its first Michigan appearance at the Builders Fall Home, Energy and Remodelers Show Thursday through Sunday in Cobo Hall.

The show features 100 exhibitors, most of whom are specialists in some phase of residential building, heating and cooling, design, finance and products used in the home.

SMART HOUSE uses a system of home wiring that enables the house to take orders, such as turning on appliances at specified times, or telling a homeowner when the stove has been left on.

Showgoers will also learn how to convert the family car so it can be powered by natural gas at the Consumers Power exhibit.

This year's show offers more than 30 arts and crafts exhibits. Craftspeople will demonstrate how to hook rugs, weave baskets, make clocks and blow glass. Kits and many of the actual items will be on sale at the show.

Fat Bob Taylor, "the singing plumber," will perform 7-7:30 p.m. Thursday. Daily entertainment will also include live music and dance performances, lectures on remodeling and plant care and bridal shows.

Show hours are 3 to 10 p.m. Thursday and Friday, 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Saturday, and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday.

Friends, Fun & Flexible Hours.

People
Our Most Important Ingredient™ McDonald's

In addition to regular wage reviews, a meal package and free uniforms, McDonald's touts friendship in its bid for employees.

Eastern Michigan University, Kull said she worked herself up though the ranks beginning six years ago as a salesperson.

"It's a fun place to work," she said. "Our only problem has been keeping staff people during slow sales periods. Usually, they work 24 to 30 hours a week. We're slow now until Thanksgiving so several people are working only 10 hours a week. We also have trouble getting day-shift people."

The store pays minimum wage to start with salary increases after three months and each year of service. Commissions are not paid but in-store incentives are offered.

Little Caesar's pizza stations and restaurants apparently have few problems attracting teens. "Our turnover is lower than the industry average," said Sue Sherbow, assistant director of corporate communications. The company is headquartered in Farmington Hills.

Sherbow credits the company's attractiveness to possible "word of mouth" among teens, plus an offer to climb the corporate ladder at one's own speed.

"It's up to employees to learn set procedures of the business. When they do that, they qualify for raises and promotions based on performance," she said. "Workers watch others getting promoted and that's a great incentive."

Sherbow said the company pays the minimum wage to start butraise can come quickly.

"At least 75 percent of our vice presidents started out as hourly employees only a few years ago. The progression through management ranks can be very fast, but it all depends on the worker's own initiative."

AN INCREASING older population is taking up some of the slack resulting from fewer teens. The U.S. Department of Commerce reports that people over 55 represent 9 percent of all fast-food workers today. The agency also claims that most employers appreciate worker's expertise, work habits and attitudes.

Hardesty said she would welcome applications from older workers.

"I've never had a senior citizen apply, but getting one would be like gold," she said. "Senior citizens have such a different outlook than kids today who want to make instant big bucks. They (older workers) have a determination and sense of honesty about life and the value of a dollar. I would welcome them."

Amateurs can beat the pros

I have read reports that some groups of individual investors earn higher returns than groups of professionals. I see that you are connected with the National Association of Investment Clubs, and your group is shown as one where the members on the average earn a higher rate of return than mutual funds.

It doesn't seem logical to me that a bunch of amateurs could earn more money than a group of professionals who have years of experience and spend all of their time studying stocks.

How is it possible for individuals to earn more than the professionals?

It is a fact that investment club members have on the average outperformed the S&P 500 to a greater extent than professionals. In 1985 a Standard & Poor's survey showed 25 percent of professionals equalled or exceeded the earnings of the S&P 500. In NAIC's survey, 47 percent of investment club members exceeded the S&P 500.

We have tried very hard to find out the reasons why so many relatively inexperienced investors can earn a greater return than professionals, and through the years the answer has become pretty clear.

It is not because the professionals are not very bright and very capable people. They are. Rather, the reasons why many individuals are able to out-earn professional investors fall into three groups.

THE FIRST is a very simple matter of costs. The professional has to be paid for his services; the individual does not have these costs. When the professional manages your money, he is due payment for his services. That may run anywhere 1-3 percent of the value of money being managed. But a good manager will earn his fee.

A second set of reasons have to do with some of the constraints under which the professional operates. If he has a very large fund, he may limit his investments to fairly large companies and not invest in the smaller ones.

Smaller companies generally have the highest rate of growth, and individuals are aware of that. The mutual fund manager is deluged with money when the market is very active and at peak prices and consequently is forced to invest at high price levels.

When the market is low, people draw their money out of mutual funds, and the manager has less of an opportunity to invest at bargain-price levels. There is a lot of pressure on mutual fund managers to keep the prices of their shares from dropping as much as the general market when the market is moving downwards.

THIS CAUSES him to make conservative portfolio moves that over the longer term sacrifice possible appreciation.

A third set of reasons has to do with their investment philosophies. Big and large professionals believe in moving at least a part of their holdings out of stocks when they anticipate a change of direction in the market.

On the average, professionals make sales and purchases each year equal to 70 percent or more of their portfolio value, according to a Business Week article.

NAIC members have a much longer outlook. They invest regularly over their lifetime.

Buying treasury securities isn't complex

Although treasury securities have been around for a long time, I am frequently asked about them.

Here are answers to some key questions about treasury securities. See accompanying table for maturity and minimum purchase information.

How interest is paid

Bills — On the issue date, the federal reserve mails a refund check (discount) representing the difference between the amount you paid and the purchase price, as determined at the auction. The refunded amount is not considered interest income until the bill has matured.

Notes and bonds — Semiannually a check is mailed from the treasury, Washington, D.C.

Where interest is taxable.

Bills — Subject to federal income tax in the year of maturity. Exempt from state and local income taxes

Where to buy

At federal reserve banks, local depository institutions, and brokerage houses. Federal reserve banks do not charge for the service.

Buying at a federal reserve bank

Bills — Tenders (applications) and backup withholding information (9) must be received by the specified time on the date of auction. Every Monday for three and six month bills, every fourth Thursday for year bills.

Notes and Bonds — Sold at various times. There are usually four to six business days between announcement of the issue and the deadline for the purchase. All requests must include backup withholding information.

For the exact date and time of a treasury offering call (215) 574-6580.

How to pay at federal reserve banks

Bills — Cash, matured treasury securities/coupons, cashiers check, certified personal check, U.S. Savings bonds or a U.S. treasury check issued to you in payment for a matured security.

Notes and Bonds — Cash, check or draft drawn on a local depository institution, money market or mutual fund; matured treasury securities/coupons, U.S. savings bonds, or U.S. treasury check issued to you in payment for a matured security. Checks, for the full amount of the purchase, must be made payable to the federal reserve bank.

Method of redemption

Bills — The treasury department automatically sends a check on the day the bill matures unless reinvestment was requested.

Notes and Bonds — The security should be sent by registered insured mail to a federal reserve bank 10 days before the date of maturity. A check will then be mailed to the owner. Notes, bonds and coupons can be presented at a federal reserve bank 10 days before, on or after the date of maturity. Securities may maturity:	3 months, 6 months, or 1 year	2-10 years	more than 10 years

Minimum purchase	$10,000: multiples of $5,000 thereafter	$5,000 for notes with 2 and 3 years maturity; $1,000 for notes with 4-10 years maturity	$1,000 also be redeemed at some depository institutions.

U.S. treasury checks issued in payment for matured securities cannot be cashed at a federal reserve bank.

The new 15th Birthday Mickey Mouse Parade will take place daily for the next year in the Magic Kingdom at Disneyworld in Orlando, Fla.

Only in America! Disney, Daniloff and the Constitution

As I watched the scene develop last weekend in Orlando, Fla., I wondered if anyone from another part of Planet Earth would ever understand America.

Large silver stars decorated the stage of the Orange County Convention and Civic Center, ready for the Star Spangled Spectacular. Mickey Mouse stood silently at the back of the stage, the only sign of Walt Disney World, which brought the 7,000 press people in the room to this moment.

We had watched President Ronald Reagan give a welcoming speech from the large video screen above the stage, heard Walt Disney Co. President Frank Wells talk about the 1787 constitutional convention in Philadelphia and given a standing ovation to Warren E. Burger, retired Chief Justice of the United States.

Burger was the keynote speaker of the Walt Disney World Celebration Weekend, a media event commemorating the bicentennial of the constitution and the 15th birthday of Walt Disney World. Burger left the Supreme Court to chair the Commission on the Bicentennial of the United States Constitution and he was in Florida to launch year-long activities leading to the 200th birthday in September, 1987.

HE WAS talking about the founding fathers of the constitution and one-of-a-kind traveler

contributing travel editor

the division of authority between executive, judicial and legislative branches, but he was about to be upstaged. We leaned forward as he finished his speech and prepared to introduce a surprise guest.

No, surely not, it couldn't be, but there he was, only a few days from his Moscow imprisonment, Nicholas Daniloff. Disney executives had convinced him that his presence would be a living example of what the constitution really means.

It was an electrifying moment. Some big network people were in the room, but most of the press were from community newspapers and stations nationwide.

Newspaper, magazine and broadcast professionals are a tough but sentimental breed and we roared to our feet at the sight of the now familiar figure striding across the stage. Burger had given Daniloff a copy of the Constitution with this note scrawled across it: "You have seen and felt the difference."

"I'd just like to tell you factually a few things that did happen to me so that I could illustrate a little bit about that difference," Daniloff said. "When I was arrested on Aug. 30, for example, the arrest was totally silent. I was snapped off the street by six men. No arrest warrant was shown me. There was no explanation as I was taken by force to the prison."

"In the prison, I was held for three days before the authorities went to the Moscow procuracy to obtain permission for my arrest. By the way, that is legal under the Soviet system. When I was interrogated, beginning Aug. 30, my legal rights as a defendant were not explained to me in any kind of comprehensive way, although, to be fair, I would have to say that as we went along in those 13 days a few aspects of my rights were explained."

"A CURIOUS part about Soviet procedure is that everything begins with the investigation and, during that investigation, you have no right to have legal counsel or any kind of immediate support. So, in a sense, that investigation is really the beginning of the trial. What the investigator is attempting to do is to establish a question-and-answer transcript, which will then be available for the court, for the prosecution and for the defense."

Daniloff introduced his wife, son and daughter, waited through another foot-stomping standing ovation and was gone, back to his typewriter to finish a story for U.S. News and World Report.

What followed was the Star Spangled Spectacular, fireworks and all, the kind that you may have seen at Walt Disney World on the Fourth of July or on some other special occasion. Travel writer Doris Scharfberg of Farmington Hills was sitting beside me and I thought about the comment she had made when we received our invitations to this three-day media event.

The invitation read "Walt Disney World, in honor of the celebration of the bicentennial of the United States Constitution, cordially invites... as we begin the commemoration of the 15th birthday of Walt Disney World and the 200th anniversary of the United States Constitution..." A letter from Warren Burger was enclosed, under the letterhead of the Supreme Court of the United States.

"ONLY IN America," Doris said. "Only in America would the chief justice of the United States and Mickey Mouse invite you to a party!"

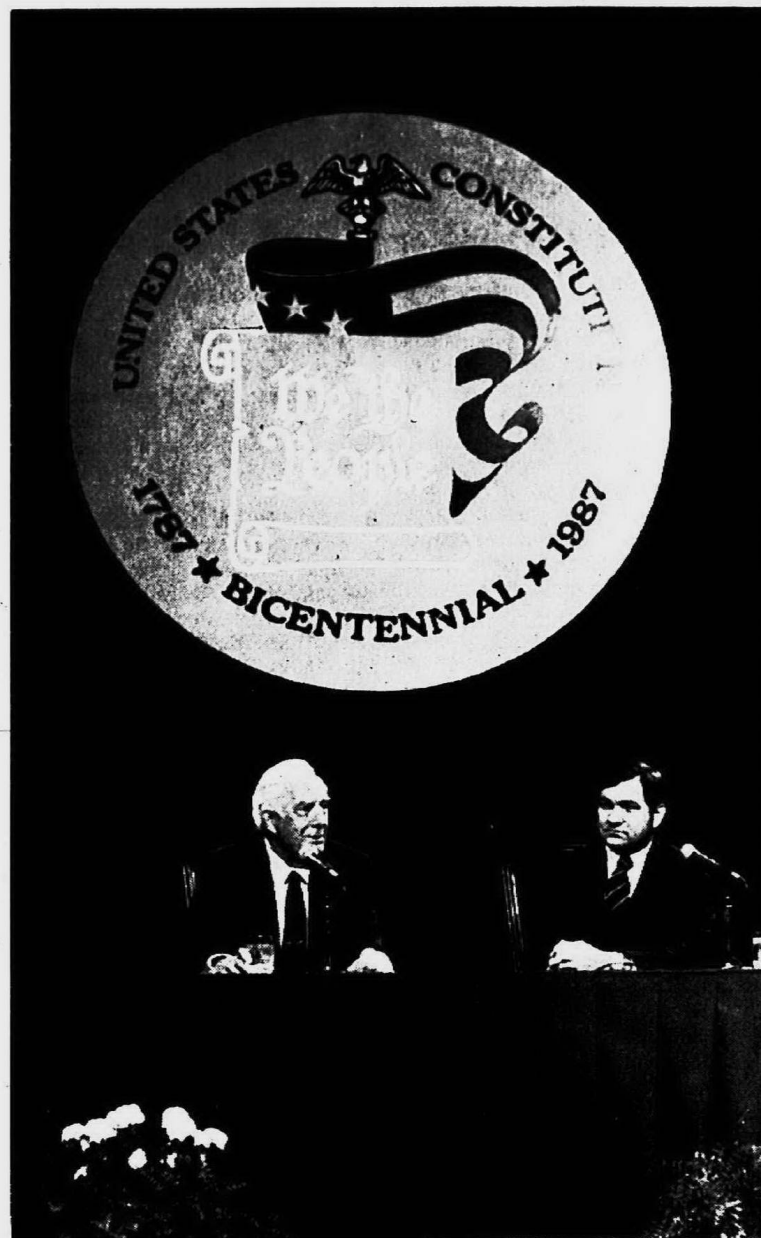

It was the biggest assemblage of press people ever gathered in one place, about 7,000 media professionals and about 5,000 guests. What made it all work was the very thing that would be hard to explain to people from another part of our planet — the Walt Disney Company.

Mickey Mouse is a cartoon character, a fantasy who lives on the streets of Disneyland in California and Walt Disney World in Florida, having his picture taken in front of the Cinderella Castle with grandma and the kids. Not to be taken seriously, surely.

But the Walt Disney Co. is taken very seriously indeed by the business world and by people like Chief Justice Warren Burger when their paths cross. It is more than the 230 million people from around the world who have visited the 'World' in 15 years, converting the central Florida economy from orange trees to hotels. It is more than a major corporation invested in motion pictures, theme parks, real estate, travel companies.

It has more to do with the place Disney earned as a model company in the book "In Search of Excellence."

This is a classy company. You see it on the streets of the Magic Kingdom and EPCOT Center where a young employee is always there to sweep up the merest gum wrapper tossed on the sidewalk. You see it in the people who fight for a chance to intern here, people like Bob Perry of the United States Air Force and student Joe Yanoseck of the University of Arkansas.

Warren Burger, retired chief justice of the Supreme Court, was on hand for the kickoff of bicentennial of the Constitution at Disneyworld. At right is John Spain, a Baton Rouge TV news director.

BUT MOST of all you see it in what is called the 'Disney philosophy' which makes it perfectly logical to use Mickey Mouse to promote the bicentennial of the United States Constitution while the U.S. Constitution is marketing Mickey Mouse. Perfectly logical to see reporters from Ohio and New Jersey and Michigan interviewing members of the bicentennial commission within sight of Cinderella's Castle.

There is one Michigan member of the Commission on the Bicentennial of the United States Constitution. When asked at a press conference to name black members of the commission, Chief Justice Burger began with "Well, there is Mr. Lucas, who is busy at this moment in Michigan."

Now, I don't want to kid you folks. We didn't spend the whole weekend in Orlando, Florida, in serious pursuits. The weekend was full of picnics and lights. The fireworks practically singed our hair at the picnic given the the city of Orlando at Lake Eola. There were fireworks over the Magic Kingdom and over the lake at EPCOT Center.

The same day that we heard Burger and Daniloff speak we stood on Main Street in the Magic Kingdom, lights blinking on our hats, while the new 15th birthday parade went by during the day and the Main Street Electrical Parade went by in a fantasy of lights at night.

They've already experienced the Walt Disney philosophy to Tokyo, where the Japanese have learned to love Walt Disney World. I asked Frank Wells, president and CEO of the company, where else in the world Mickey Mouse might go.

"Well," he said, "I got a visa today that reads People's Republic of China. This isn't an announcement but I wouldn't be surprised if Disney appeared on television there and, who knows..."

We couldn't talk longer because the retired chief justice of the United States was waiting, and the fireworks were about to begin.

Only in America.

Freeway travelers aid rest area maintenance

A toll-free telephone number is helping the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) do a better job of maintaining the 78 rest areas along Michigan's 1,800-mile freeway system.

Callers are reporting everything from abandoned cars to lack of restroom supplies to threatening situations where police help is requested.

Decals bearing the number 1-800-654-8787 have been posted since May 1 in lobbies, telephone booths and on restroom mirrors at roadside rest areas, including all 11 welcome centers on major state highways.

The toll-free number is hooked to a message center that logs calls and makes a daily report to MDOT, which then follows up each reported problem.

"Most calls are productive," said Robert A. Welke, MDOT's assistant deputy director for highway operations. "They identify a weakness in our system — maybe there's a

YOU CAN NOT ESCAPE THE EFFECT OF V.S.

V.S. stands for Vertebral Subluxation and V.S. kills more people than anything else in the world. Almost every disease starts with a V.S. which, if untreated, ends in death.

THIS IS WHAT V.S. IS;

The human spine has 24 movable bones called vertebrae. They are stacked on top of one another and collectively are called the spinal column. A vertebral subluxation is one or more of those vertebrae out of their normal position. Bumps, falls, lifting, pushing, slipping and auto accidents are just a few of the ways they get out of their normal positions.

THIS IS WHAT V.S. DOES;

Through the center of each vertebra runs the spinal cord. It is made of literally millions of nerve fibers running from the brain down to the spine and then exiting between the vertebrae. From there the nerves disperse into all tissues, organs and cells of the body. When a vertebra is subluxated, it distorts the opening where the nerves leave the cord. That distortion causes pressure on the nerves. This blocks and alters brain impulses into the tissue, organs and cells.

THIS IS WHAT V.S. CAUSES;

When tissues, organs or cells are deprived of brain impulses, they slowly begin to function abnormally. This leads to disfunction and disfunction is always the forerunner of disease, sickness, weakness and hundreds of symptoms. Symptoms such as: Allergies, Bronchitis, Gall Bladder Disorders, High Blood Pressure, Kidney Disorders, Liver Disorders, Menstrual Disorders, Sinusitis, Stomach Disorders.

THIS IS WHAT CAN BE DONE ABOUT V.S.;

Actually there are three choices, one - do nothing, letting the condition get worse until you succumb; two - take drugs which alleviate the pain, stimulate or depress the symptoms, but bring no real healing, or three - remove the original cause in this process of disease and sickness, that being the vertebral subluxation. They are removed in many ways, sometimes by bed rest, sometimes by changing work habits but mostly by chiropractic spinal adjustment. If you're still sick and full of symptoms, you need a spinal examination to see if you're subluxated and if you are, maybe you should have it corrected. Spinal adjustments aren't traumatic. We give them to children. There are many ways to adjust spines. See the pictures below.

THERE IS NO ESCAPING THE EFFECT OF A VERTEBRAL SUBLUXATION. THERE IS HOWEVER, THE OPPORTUNITY TO HAVE THE SUBLUXATION REMOVED. THE OPPORTUNITY IS NOW YOURS. YOU MAY WANT TO CALL 459-0200.

A defense against cancer can be cooked up in your kitchen.

Fruits, vegetables, and whole-grain cereals such as oatmeal, bran and wheat may help lower the risk of colorectal cancer.

Foods high in fats, salt- or nitrite-cured foods like ham, and fish and types of sausages smoked by traditional methods should be eaten in moderation.

Be moderate in consumption of alcohol also.

A good rule of thumb is cut down on fat and don't be fat.

Weight reduction may lower cancer risk. Our 12-year study of nearly a million Americans uncovered high cancer risks particularly among people 40% or more overweight.

Now, more than ever, we know you can cook up your own defense against cancer. So eat healthy and be healthy.

No one faces cancer alone.

Foods that may help reduce the risk of gastrointestinal and respiratory tract cancer are cabbage, broccoli, brussels sprouts, kohlrabi, cauliflower.

Just like I pictured it, area playoff hopes dim

NOT MANY people in as precarious position as my own would submit to this.

Making preseason predictions is fun. Owning up to them well, that's something else again.

People like my making predictions. They like it for two reasons because I display remarkable insight in selecting a team of their liking to do extremely well, or because I display remarkable stupidity in over-looking a team of their liking.

So you see, no one is disappointed. Either they bask in the glory of the written word, or they wallow in vengeful pleasure, gleefully letting me climb further out on that narrow limb of prognostication, waiting for their chance to snap it behind me.

Yes, people like predictions for an argument's sake if nothing else. And besides, two weeks after the season starts, who remembers? Who cares?

I'll tell you who. I remember. I care — well, sort of.

"DON'T EXPECT many (football) teams in the O&E coverage area to be masquerading as playoff hopefuls. That won't happen this season."

Yes, I said it. And I'm man enough to admit it. I'm also dumb enough to reprint it.

Five O&E teams made the playoffs in 1985. I predicted a much smaller representation in '86 because all the big names were gone.

Was I wrong? Maybe. I'm still not convinced five O&E teams can qualify for post-season play. And yet, even though the football season's five weeks old, the playoff picture remains as muddled as it was in preseason. Some of my predictions are looking good, anyway. I did say Farmington Harrison and Detroit Country Day were as close to sure bets as one could come. So far, the Hawks are 4-1 and DCDS is 5-0.

But I missed some, too. I didn't think John Glenn would be nearly as tough without speedster Tony Boles, but the Rockets are 4-1.

THEN THERE'S my lack of respect for the Troy football program, which is looking more and more solid under Jeff Keller's direction. No way did I figure the Colts to be undefeated after five games, not after losing several "franchise" players to graduation.

Auburn Hills Avondale also escaped my attention. Rhino coach Rick Brewer has guided his team to a 5-0 mark at the season's midpoint and has a couple of budding stars in Yusuf Thomas and David Hedrick.

Perhaps the biggest surprise in Observerland is Redford Bishop Burgess. The Spartans shocked Redford Catholic Central and are 4-1 this season under new coach Dan Henry, who previously worked at John Glenn — as the basketball coach.

OK, SO I missed a few. But, if you can reach deep into the crevices of your memory — five weeks back, say — you'll remember that I said no team appeared truly outstanding.

Well, last Friday Harrison knocked off Livonia Churchill. The significance of that game: Churchill

Chiefs outlast North

Plymouth Canton got its shots to fall just in time to win its third straight Western Lakes girls basketball game Tuesday night, besting North Farmington 39-30.

"Our offense was getting to the good open shooting areas, but we couldn't get it to go down," said Canton coach Rob Neu, whose team trailed 22-21 entering the final quarter. "We continued to play hard and the shots finally starting going down in the fourth quarter."

Canton outscored the Raiders 18-8 in the final eight minutes.

"I think we kind of ran out of gas," said North coach Greg Capling. "And they started to hit a few shots that they weren't hitting earlier."

Karen Boluch paced the Chiefs with 12 points. Michelle Fortier, Heather Miller, Tory Barger and Penny Piggott chipped in with six points each.

For North (2-5 in the Western Lakes, 3-7 overall), Suzi Butcher scored 12 points and grabbed eight rebounds. Freshman Jenny Basford added eight points.

The win leaves the Chiefs at 5-2 in the league, 6-4 overall.

SALEM 105, HARRISON 15: You have to go back a long time to find the last Observerland girls basketball team to top 100 points. No team has hit the magic number in the last 10 years, though several teams have reached 99.

Jessica Handley led Plymouth Salem Tuesday with 26 points. Dena Head scored 21, Kristen Hostynski 18 and Jill Estey 13.

Salem is 7-0 in the Western Lakes, 9-1 overall.

For Harrison, poor Harrison, it was consecutive loss No. 70. The Hawks are 0-9 this season.

A war Soccer powers fight to draw

By Brad Emons
staff writer

After 80 minutes of play, the issue apparently isn't settled.

It may take another week before we find out whether Livonia Churchill or Livonia Stevenson is the better boys soccer team.

A rematch is possible Saturday, Oct. 18, in the Northville District finals if the two teams get by their first two rounds in the state tournament.

Churchill certainly did little to harm its No. 1 state ranking after tying the Spartans Tuesday night, 1-1, before 1,000 fans at Stevenson's field.

And the Chargers are in the driver's seat to win the overall Western Lakes Soccer League crown. All they need is a victory or tie Friday at Plymouth Canton to win the title outright. Churchill, the Western Division champs, are 12-0-1 in league play for 25 points, while Stevenson, the Lakes Division winners, are 10-0-3 for 23.

But the tie also proved that a young Stevenson team is for real and could be a threat to repeat as state champions.

"STEVENSON IS A class outfit, well coached and they're always tough," said Churchill coach John Neff. "I thought there would be more scoring. I thought we'd score more than one goal."

But with only 1:32 left in the match, Lars Richters was awarded a penalty kick after teammate Ray Barnas was fouled in the box by a Churchill defender.

Richters' goal ended the scoring, but more importantly enabled Stevenson to come out with a tie.

Stevenson had the best of things in the opening 15 minutes of play as the speedy Richters missed high a pair of scoring chances. But in the second half, Churchill's frontline and mid-field came to life, putting the pressure on the Spartans for nearly 20 minutes.

The game also marked a contrast in styles.

Stevenson opted for long passes and tried to send the ball airborne as much as possible, while Churchill tried moving the ball on the ground.

"CHURCHILL is a solid No. 1," said Stevenson coach Pete Scerri. "They have experience, and we have a lot of young kids... a lot of sophomores. I want you to see them (sophomores) in two years."

"We came here to win and I thought we played solid defense — guys like (Kurt) Williford and (Brendan) Carney back there. I think we're in the same class. I don't think we're No. 4 (in the state). We deserve to be higher, that's all."

Churchill is 13-0-1 overall, while Stevenson 13-0-3.

There will be no ties in the districts. All games will be decided in sudden death overtime, and if still deadlocked, the teams will resort to a shootout.

As far as the next confrontation, the two coaches, Neff and Scerri, probably won't alter strategy much.

"I think a game like this can only help our kids grow a little more," Scerri said.

Added Neff: "We want to play our own game. I don't think we'll change. We didn't change anything tonight."

Steady Falcons stun Chargers, take WLAA title

The Falcons made amends for two one-stroke dual meet losses Tuesday, capturing the Western Lakes conference tournament at Kensington Golf Course — by one stroke.

Paced by the steady play of Bruce Sizemore, John Borbi and Bob Curtis, the Falcons scored 413 to nose out defending champion Livonia Churchill (414).

"The boys really worked hard," said Farmington coach Gene Schoeneich. "We lost a couple close matches. Now we've finally won one. This meet was really close."

Walled Lake Western finished third with 415. Plymouth Canton was fourth with 418.

Western's Jim Beshears was the meet medalist, shooting a 4-over par 75. Rounding out the all-Western Lakes team were Magnus Lundblad of Walled Lake Central (76), Mike Granger of Plymouth Salem (77), Dean Kobane of Churchill (77) and Sizemore of Farmington (78).

Borbi (79), Curtis (81), Brian Allen (87) and Jason Wright (88) were Farmington's other scorers.

"We were kind of the dark horse here, but I kept telling the kids we were strong and we could be right in there," Schoeneich said.

Plymouth Salem and North Farmington, who shared the Western Lakes Lakes Division title with Farmington, placed fifth and eighth in the conference tournament, respectively. Churchill was the Western Division champ.

Churchill, Salem, Canton, Farmington and Livonia Franklin will be among the teams competing in the Class A regional tournament Friday at Hill Top.

Mercy to share Catholic crown

By Chris McCoskey
staff writer

Farmington Hills Mercy tennis coach Jim Kerwin must be saying, "Me and my big mouth."

It was Kerwin's idea to allow a fourth doubles match to score at the Catholic League meet instead of the usual three. The Catholic League coaches liked the idea, instituted it for Sunday's Catholic League match and it cost Kerwin's Marlins a full share of the championship.

Mercy and Birmingham Marian will share the title, each scoring 56 points at the Varcus Tennis Center on the grounds of Farwell Field in Detroit. Livonia Ladywood was third (21) and Harper Woods Regina fourth (18).

"I guess I kind of stuck my foot in my mouth," Kerwin said with a laugh. "Not really, though. Having a fourth doubles allowed 18 players a chance to play who wouldn't have otherwise had the opportunity and I think that's more important. I think it's a good idea letting the fourth doubles teams play — even though we would have won after seven matches. I can't feel bad about this. We tied the No. 2-ranked team in the state."

AS HAS BEEN the case since Kerwin took over the Marlins program three years ago, the Catholic League meet turned into a rerun of the Mercy-Marian dual meet.

At No. 1 singles, Nicole Trassou made quick work of Marian's Jenny Catalano, 6-3, 6-1. Kathy Heimbuch defeated Patty Oxley at No. 2, 6-2, 6-2.

Mercy's Becky Tasich had an equally quick match at No. 3 disposing of Jodie Mabilia, 6-1, 6-1.

At No. 4, Carole Williams knocked off Allison Garcia, 7-5, 7-5.

THE TWO teams played two three-set doubles matches. Marian's Jenny Gage and Melanie DiLoretto survived Sue Kang and Shannon Fitzpatrick, 5-7, 6-3, 6-0 at No. 2. At No. 4, Lisa Egan and Jenny Jones tipped Jane Kang and Katrina Regan, 7-5, 4-6, 6-1.

At No. 1 doubles, Marian's Beth Gill and Jenny Graham beat Cindy Viall and Kristin Orlandoni, 6-4, 7-5. Carol McCarthy and Stephanie Stroutrougher knocked off Mercy's Kitty Pheneay and Kim Walker, 7-5, 7-5.

Mercy and Marian split their two dual matches this season.

And the good news is Marian and Mercy, along with state-ranked Birmingham Seaholm and others, will square off again this weekend in the Class A regional tournament at the Southfield Civic Center.

was the only remaining undefeated team in Observerland.

In the Eccentric area, Troy, Avondale and DCDS boast perfect records. My point is, we've just passed the halfway mark and there are only three unbeaten teams.

So much for powerhouses. And so much for past predictions.

Now that we're into the stretch run — coaches, players and fans will be filling computers with data, trying to figure playoff possibilities from here on in — who's going to make it? Who will still be playing in November?

I still like Harrison's chances, for basically the same reasons I gave back in September. The Hawks are a Class B school playing a Class A schedule. True, they've lost once, but they could probably afford to lose again and would still qualify.

DCDS is a lock, as long as quarterback Charles Johnson and running back Brian Stephens stay healthy. I like Troy's chances, too, but the Colts' schedule won't be easy. Three out of their final four games are on the road. They finish their season at Hazel Park Oct. 24 and at Troy Athens Oct. 31.

Athens, by the way, is 4-1. The Red Hawks play three of their final four games at home, so that crosstown showdown Halloween night could decide a playoff berth.

As for Avondale — ever stand in the way of a charging Rhino? None of the teams on their schedule figure to do it, either. Count on at least 10 games in their campaign.

Birmingham Brother Rice, a surprising loser in its season opener to Flint Powers, is back on track at 4-1. Don't count the Warriors out.

THE PICTURE in Observerland is less optimistic. Despite Borgess' early successes, I wouldn't bet on the Spartan's chances. The Catholic League's Central Division is full of pitfalls — one every weekend. On Oct. 25, they play Rice at Birmingham Groves. Again, a playoff ticket could go to the winner.

John Glenn? Well, maybe. The Rockets have a good passing combination featuring Steve Hawley to Mike Hammontree and a great kicker in Tony Svaluto. Still, let's just say the jury's still out. Same holds true for North Farmington (also 4-1), even with a sizzling Scott Selzer. Churchill? Don't count it out.

Everyone else has at least two losses, virtually ending their hopes. That leaves eight teams with legitimate playoff hopes. And with Troy playing Athens and the Catholic League and Western Lakes Activities Association playoffs still to come, that number is bound to be trimmed.

But I will creep a little further out on that already-buckling limb. Four teams will make it to the playoffs, but only one in Class A. My choices: either Brother Rice or Troy, and Harrison, DCDS and Avondale.

I could be wrong. And if I am, come Nov. 2 I'll owe someone an apology — a debt I'm certain to be reminded of again and again.

By Bill Parker
staff writer

I remember the first time I went camping. I was about 6 at the time and living on the northwest side of Detroit. We went way up north to a place called Bald Mountain Recreation Area in a little town called Lake Orion. I've subsequently moved from Detroit and now reside, ironically, in that same little town of Lake Orion. I realize now it isn't all that far up north, but at the time it seemed like we were in the wilderness.

Anyway, our family of five cuddled like nursing puppies in a small canvas tent for three days and two nights.

During the hot summer days we could have rented the tent out as a Finnish sauna, and during the nights we were so cramped I learned early in life the true meaning of being packed like sardines. There were mosquitos and ants in every campground, and we bathed in cold water which we retrieved from an old creek pump.

Granted, it doesn't sound like much fun, but despite all these hardships we had a blast.

TODAY, HOWEVER, with all the modern and advanced equipment and campgrounds available, campers don't even have to leave behind the luxuries of home.

There are campers and recreational vehicles available today that come equipped with everything from king-sized beds to electric entertainment centers finished in cherrywood cabinetry. There are microwave ovens, miniaturized bathtubs and even fold out walls.

Over $10 million worth of recreational vehicles and equipment will be displayed in Cobo Hall for the 20th anniversary edition of the Detroit Camper and Travel Trailer Show, Oct. 25 to Nov. 2.

This is the first year the annual show has been held in October, and Tim DeWitt, the executive director of the Michigan Association of Recreational Vehicles and Campgrounds (MARVAC), sponsors of the show, feels the October date will be an asset.

"Traditionally we've held the show in February," said DeWitt. "The last two shows were held in December. In October the weather is still nice, we're not fighting the holidays and (some) of the new models come out in October. It will be the first public showing of some of the new models."

BUT DON'T be intimidated by all this high-tech RV equipment. If your camping style is a bit simpler there will still be something for you. Pop-up tent trailers that sell for $2,000 and below will be on display as well everything up through the luxury custom built RV models which sell for nearly $200,000.

Show hours will be 2-10 p.m. Monday-Friday, noon to 10 p.m. Saturday, and noon to 8 p.m. Sunday. Admission is $4 for adults $2 for children under 12, and children under 5 will be admitted free. Phone 477-3434 for more information.

OPERATION BASS

How would you like to catch over 12 pounds of bass in one day out on the lake?

Garden City's Mike Czarnecki did just that and in the process won the Lake St. Clair Red Man Michigan Division qualifying tournament in August.

The win on Lake St. Clair, combined with his totals from four other Red Man-sponsored tournaments in Michigan, placed Czarnecki ninth in a 24-man qualifying field for the Operation Bass' Red Man Tournament Regional Classic, Oct. 10-12 on Patoka Lake, Indiana.

Czarnecki competed in five of six qualifiers and accumulated 150.50 points for catching 34 pounds, 13 ounces of bass. The winner had just over 41 pounds in six tournaments.

"I missed the first tournament and that really hurt," said Czarnecki. "I'm hoping for the best in the regional. The top 10 from there go to Lake Havasu, Ariz. for the Red Man All American in November. That's what I'm shooting for."

Loss grates on Houle

By C.J. Rieck
staff writer

It's not something Dave Houle will soon forget.

"Everybody just stood there for a second," said the Michigan State offensive tackle after a last-gasp drive ended at the Iowa 3-yard line with an interception, securing the Hawkeyes' 24-21 victory Saturday at MSU.

"That's the word for it — stunned."

Houle was still filled with disbelief an hour later. MSU had more than its share of chances to beat Iowa, right up until that final pass.

But the interception wasn't the cause of the Spartan defeat. Earlier mistakes that put them into a must-score situation were their downfall.

"Penalties. That's the only thing that stopped us," said Houle. "You try to put them out of your mind. You try not to think you have 20 yards to go."

"I don't think it's what they did (to stop us), it's what we did. Penalties just killed us."

FLAGS AGAINST MSU figured in 10 of the Hawkeye points. A personal foul call for 15 yards came during their first-quarter touchdown drive and a roughing-the-kicker penalty led to their winning field goal.

In addition, two critical offensive penalties ruined possible MSU drives in the third quarter. The Spartans' initial first down of the second half didn't come until the fourth quarter. That allowed the Hawkeyes to take control and eventually build a 24-14 lead.

Houle had his problems. He was caught holding once, which added to MSU's woes.

But otherwise he was fairly effective. He lined up all game across from Jeff Drost, a 6-foot-5, 286-pound giant of a defensive tackle.

"He's definitely the toughest player I've played against," said Houle. "I'd vote for him (for all-America) right now."

Considering Houle was a 220-pound tight end coming out of Plymouth Salem, such an assignment seems like a ludicrous mismatch. But Houle, a redshirt junior, has bulked up. He's listed in MSU's program at 6-5, 247, which prompted a chuckle. "I'm up to 285 now," he said.

SUCH SIZE is a necessity in the Big Ten, where Drost's bulk is commonplace. And the Spartans are counting on their offensive line to open holes for Heisman Trophy hopeful Lorenzo White.

Those holes never appeared against Iowa. White was limited to 41 yards rushing in 19 carries.

"They were keying on him," said

Houle. "I don't think they thought Dave (Yarema, the Spartan quarterback) could throw that well. After this game, I think other teams will play us for the pass more."

Yarema did counter Iowa's defensive efforts on White by passing for 271 yards and three touchdowns. And yet, if MSU is to succeed, much depends on how effective White is. Preseason publicity hyping the Spartan blockers — the "White Knights" — doesn't help at game time.

"Sometimes that stuff can backfire," said Houle. "Lorenzo deserves it, but other teams see it and get really fired up."

WHICH MAKES Houle's job that much harder. The Spartans do boast two great wide receivers in Mark Ingram and Andre Rison, who combined for 13 catches Saturday. Ingram caught all three TDs.

"I think as the season goes on, they won't be able to key on Lorenzo," said Houle. "The question is, can the Spartans win by depending on the pass instead of White's running?"

They haven't been able to so far. White has been shut down twice this year, by Arizona State and Iowa. MSU lost both times by a field goal.

Houle believes his team is on the verge of winning games like that.

Ocelot kickers perfect

The game that completed the first half of the Eastern Conference season for Schoolcraft College's men's soccer team delivered a message to the Ocelots: It won't get any easier.

SC won Saturday, beating Cuyahoga Metro Community College 3-1 at Schoolcraft. The victory kept the Ocelots unbeaten in conference play (4-0) and raised their overall record to 6-1-2.

But the win didn't come easily. SC trailed 1-0 at the half, despite peppering the CMCC net with 20 shots. For the game, the Ocelots outshot their opponents by a whopping 48-6 margin.

"It was kind of a tough game," said SC coach Van Dimitriou. "They came up with a tough goalie who made some great saves."

The CMCC keeper, Mohammed Zriken, frustrated the Ocelots until the second half, when John Gelmisi (from Livonia Stevenson) was knocked down in the penalty area. Rick Hamers punched in the penalty kick and the game was tied.

That first goal ignited SC. Mike Murphy took a pass from D.J. Ward (Stevenson) and drilled it past Zriken to put the Ocelots in front, 2-1. Bobby Neuman iced the victory with an insurance goal a few minutes later, with Jim Moreau assisting.

Last Wednesday at SC, the Ocelots blanked the Detroit College of Business 1-0. The game's only goal was scored by Murphy, who has now scored a goal in three straight games.

LADY OCELOTS SPLIT IN N.Y.

The long-awaited trip for SC's women's soccer team to Rochester, N.Y. for a two-game tournament last weekend ended as it began — with questions.

Coach Ed Dudek had eagerly awaited the trip. He saw it as a chance to evaluate his team against some of the best squads in the nation, a sort of NJCAA tournament preview.

If Saturday's contest was an indication of things to come, then the future isn't too bright for SC. Monroe CC shut out the Lady Ocelots 3-0.

"They controlled us right from the start," said Dudek. "They have a lot of depth and they played the right side of the field extremely well."

That wasn't anything new to Dudek. He had seen MCC do the same thing last year. But he opted not to make any adjustments for the tournament. "We didn't try anything special; we wanted to play them even-up," he said.

Dudek did make some adjustments for Sunday's game against Mercer CC, which, as host of the NJCAA tourney, is assured of an NJCAA berth. SC topped Mercer 3-1, scoring twice in the second half.

"Our offense — that's what we're going to work on," Dudek said. "That's what we worked on in the second game."

Dudek moved Sheri Wolfe (Livonia Bentley) from sweeperback to center forward and put Denise Plwko at left wing. The move paid off in the second half, with Plwko scoring the eventual game-winner and Wolfe adding an insurance tally on a breakaway. Elizabeth Peters assisted on Wolfe's goal.

Doreen Dudek scored SC's first goal, with Elayna Alabakoff assisting.

Engineers blast off

There aren't many coaches around who would complain about a 2-0 start. But A.J. Baker, whose Hennessey Engineers Junior A hockey team returned home from a weekend series in Chicago with a 2-0 record, is less than satisfied.

"It was terrible," Baker said. "We won the first game 19-0. The second game we won on a forfeit. We cancelled the third game. The Chicago team is completely disorganized right now. They had two coaches leave the team, and they lost a lot of their players to a new junior league out West. Just major political garbage."

Baker expects the third game with the Chicago Patriots to be rescheduled for later in the season, but the future of the Chicago team, the newest member of the four-team North American Junior Hockey League, is questionable.

"I had known for some time that their original coach was going to step down, but not in my wildest dreams did I expect them to be so loosely put together," Baker said. "Hugh Melvin (the league's secretary-treasurer) talked to the Chicago people at length, and he expects them to get their act together. I guess they plan on practicing four times this week, and they should be ready for the tournament."

Chicago is one of six teams expected to take part in the second Little Caesars Junior Invitational Hockey Tournament this weekend at the Oak Park Computware Arena (see related story).

REGARDLESS OF Chicago's problems, the Engineers are 2-0 in the NAJHL. In the 19-0 rout Friday, all but one Engineer contributed at least one point to the cause.

Bryan Kryger led the goal parade with four. He also notched two assists. Darrell Sattler scored two goals and added three assists. Lief Gustafson and Steve Ramberg each had a goal and four assists.

The team's Plymouth connection also chipped in. Chris Belhart scored two goals and had an assist. Eric Kapelanski tallied a goal and an assist.

After this weekend's tournament, the Engineers will open their home schedule at the Plymouth Cultural Center at 8:20 p.m. Friday, Oct. 17, against the NAJHL's defending champion Detroit Falcons.

The game will be a homecoming for six Falcon players: Tom Yawkey, Tony Esser, Billy Pye, Sean Wordon, Steve Dawson and Brian Dawson are also natives of the Plymouth-Canton community.

Oak Park hosts junior tourney

If you want to get a taste of Junior A hockey, plan on being at the Computware Arena in Oak Park Friday-Monday.

The North American Junior Hockey League will showcase its annual Little Caesars Junior Invitational Hockey Tournament beginning at 2 p.m. Friday.

Six teams will compete in a round-robin format. Each team is guaranteed a minimum of three games. Computware, Detroit Falcons and Plymouth-based Hennessey Engineers will battle in one division, while Oshawa of Ontario's Junior B League, a team of Junior B All-stars, and the Chicago Patriots will battle in the other division.

The Engineers, Computware, the Falcons and Chicago are members of the North American Junior A Hockey League.

The Computware Arena is at 13950 Oak Park Blvd., off Coolidge between Nine and 10 Mile roads. Tickets are $3 for adults and $2 for children and senior citizens each day.

Here is the schedule of games:

Friday, Oct. 10
Engineers vs. Junior B stars, 2 p.m.
Computware vs. Chicago, 5 p.m.
Falcons vs. Oshawa, 8 p.m.

Unblemished S'craft spikers take 10th straight

Tom Teeters knows the quality of his Schoolcraft College volleyball team, and he takes great delight in putting it on display — particularly against four-year schools.

The Lady Ocelots showed their stuff last Saturday at the Hillsdale College triangular. SC handled the two Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (GLIAC) members the same way it handled nine previous foes — with dominance.

The Lady Ocelots whipped Lake Superior State 15-7, 15-7, and followed that with a 15-8, 15-7 triumph over host Hillsdale. Combined with Tuesday's 15-2, 15-12, 15-10 win over Mott CC, SC is now unbeaten in 10-straight matches and 25-consecutive games. The Lady Ocelots are 17-2 overall.

"We shut them down pretty good," said Teeters. "We blocked (LSS) eight times. They blocked us seven times, too, but we picked every one up and we got the point on five of them."

Kim Relyea had a big day for SC. She collected nine kills in 34 attacks with four errors and did not miss on a serve, picking up four aces.

Diana Dietz also had nine kills in 31 attacks with four errors and, against HC, Jean Bass had four kills in six attacks without an error. Sue Cyrus had two aces in six errorless serves against LSS, and Patty Kozicki and Wendy Spencer both sparked with their sets.

But it was SC's defense, led by Jill Ehler, Dietz, Relyea, Bass and Kozicki, that really pleased Teeters.

"Our defensive blocking was really strong," he said.

Against Mott, SC battled back from a 7-0 third-game deficit to win in a sweep. Relyea was superb, collecting 13 kills in 27 attacks (two errors), 13 digs, three solo blocks, and two service aces.

Ehler contributed five kills in 22 attacks (one error), two solo blocks and 12 digs. Dietz had six kills in 24 attacks (two errors), and Bass had four kills in just five attacks (one error).

Amy Lotero had four aces in 22 serves (one error) and Kozicki had 20 assist kills in 66 sets without an error.

Dishes delight at New Peking

Your traveling taster visits area eateries and rates them on a 100-point scale. Up to 30 points are awarded for ambiance, which includes general atmosphere and service; 55 points for food, and 15 points for price/value rating. A total count of 59 points or less indicates a restaurant is not recommended; 60-74 points signify from passing to good; 75-89 points designate very good with some extraordinary features, and 90-100 points show that a very special dining experience awaits you.

NEW PEKING, 29105 Ford Road, Garden City (425-2230), is a long-established restaurant that changed hands more than four years ago and remains, today, one of the better Chinese eating places in the area. The dining room has a warm and cheerful feeling, with wood paneling and numerous Asian prints, artifacts and lantern-like lights. This clean and bustling place makes you feel welcome and comfortable. The patrons include numerous Asians who appreciate the quality of the cuisine, and the attire ranges from quite casual to business clothes. Cloth table-furnishings, covered with a plastic shield, give a more formal feeling than plastic tablecovers would. Dinner took an hour and a quarter and, although we did not have reservations, we were seated immediately at 7 p.m. General Atmosphere — 15 points maximum. Points awarded — 13.

The restaurant was quite crowded, but service was very prompt. There were times, in fact, that we felt rushed as, for example, when the waiter brought the check before asking whether we wanted any dessert in addition to the fortune cookies. We had to ask for more water each time that we needed it, and — no surprise — our dirty silver was carefully removed from our plates and returned, dirty, to the table for the next using. On the positive side, the employees of the restaurant were all extremely pleasant. Service — 15 points maximum. Points awarded — 10.

In order to try a good sampling of the available hors d'oeuvres, we ordered the Bo Bo appetizer platter ($3.75 per person). Each item was excellent. The fried wonton was crisp but not greasy. The shrimp toast had plenty of shrimp and was unusually good. The barbecue spareribs were exceptionally lean and had a subtle, pleasing flavor. The fried chicken was juicy but, again, not greasy. The egg roll had a tasty combination of vegetables, and the beef skewer was well flavored and not overcooked. In fact, this outstanding appetizer for two, when ordered by one, would make a delicious, filling and diverse main course. Diners at other tables were clearly enjoying the pot stickers and soups that are also on the menu. Drinks are available but are not a primary attraction. Drinks, Appetizers and Bread — 15 points maximum. Points awarded — 15.

The Mu Shu pork ($6.75), assembled at the table by the waiter, was fresh, sweet and spicy, and nicely presented. Although the pancakes themselves were a bit undercooked and a little tough, this was as good a preparation of this dish as we have had. The ingredients blended perfectly to provide a delicious meal. The Mongolian beef ($6.95) also excited our taste buds. The base sauce had a stronger beef flavor than usual, and this provided an unusually rich and hearty taste. This dish is spicy, with lots of green and yellow onions, and it also had plenty of meat that was tender and delicious. Both of the entrees we tried were excellent, and we were left very full — but wishing we had room to sample even more. Entree, Vegetables and Garnishes 35 points maximum. Points awarded — 33.

After asking our waiter to hold the check and bring us an almond cookie, we were able to try something other than fortune cookies. The almond cookie was thinner than usual but quite tasty. We were disappointed that not as much care was taken with dessert as with the rest of the meal. There are excellent Asian desserts, but not here. Dessert — 5 points maximum. Points awarded — 2.

What more can you ask than a filling and satisfying meal at the very reasonable cost of $30 per couple, including tip? And in spite of the old cliché, we did not feel hungry again until well into the following day. Price/Value — 15 points maximum. Points awarded — 14.

A Counting for Taste — 100 points maximum. Total points awarded: 87. New Peking is just the place if you are in the mood for Chinese cuisine. It was especially pleasing to D. Gustibus to begin my second year of writing and enjoying this column with such a nice restaurant.

She's dancin'

Show brings her to hometown

By Ethel Simmons
staff writer

SHE'S BEEN ON THE ROAD for six months with the Broadway musical hit, "Dancin'," but now Mary Terese is back home — and still performing in the show.

In the living room of her parents' home in West Bloomfield, Mary Terese talked about her career up to now, that includes the show's current run through Sunday, Oct. 26 at the Birmingham Theatre.

"I've always wanted to come home with a show, to make a homecoming," she said. "This is the last city. We've been on the road since April. I've lived in hotels all summer."

The personable, striking beauty, with streaked blond hair and eyes that change from blue to green, is tall (5 foot 9) and slimmer now than when she competed in beauty pageants. "Dancing does that to you," she said.

SHE'S A FORMER Miss Indiana, who vied for the Miss America title in 1983, "that was the year with Vanessa Williams." Terese graduated from the University of Bloomington in May, and participated in the pageant in June.

She was a dance major at the School of Music, and in the competition performed classical ballet. "I haven't had my pointe shoes on since," she said.

Asked what she liked, and what she didn't like about the pageant competition, Terese said, "Have you got about three days?"

"It's very competitive. I don't know if I'd want my daughter to go through it. It's a lot of hard work. It's political."

She said a dancer doesn't have a good chance of being named Miss America because many of the winner's personal appearances depend upon her performing and it's difficult for a dancer to perform, say, at lunch.

"Only one dancer has been Miss America," she said, "Pam Eldred of West Bloomfield, who lives here."

TERESE'S FIRST beauty pageant was in 1979, when she was the first Miss West Bloomfield. She went on to compete in the Miss Michigan contest and was named first runner-up.

She was able to compete for Miss Indiana, and then Miss America, in 1983 because the contest did not have a residency requirement, but enrollment requirement instead.

After the Miss America contest, Terese remained Miss Indiana throughout the year. She made some personal appearances, for which she was paid, but would have liked more. "Indiana didn't have the revenue like Texas or Florida. They didn't book me."

But she's grateful to the contest

DAN DEAN/staff photographer

Mary Terese is staying in her parents' home in West Bloomfield during the last stop on the tour for Bob Fosse's show "Dancin'" at the Birmingham Theatre. This "hometown girl" also has been acclaimed as a beauty queen — a Miss West Bloomfield, a first runner-up for Miss Michigan and a title as Miss Indiana in 1983. Terese, who was known as Teri Schuster when she lived in West Bloomfield, has just celebrated what she calls "the big Two-Five," her 25th birthday.

for helping to pay off her schooling. As an out-of-state student at Indiana University, her tuition was expensive and the scholarships from the pageant bridged the financial gap.

The day after she gave up her Miss Indiana crown in 1984, she left for a six-month tour of Europe as a featured dancer on the cruise ship SS Norway. Then she moved to Chicago, where she danced in "Salute to the Superstars" at Drury Lane South.

AFTER THAT, she got on the Chicago circuit doing industrials until she auditioned in Chicago for her first tour with "Dancin'," a five-month run last year. She readjusted for her second tour with the show this year.

Terese was in a high school when Bob Fosse's "Dancin'" first opened on Broadway, in 1977. It ran for two years.

"At that time I would have given my eye teeth to work for Bob Fosse," she said of the famed Broadway-show choreographer. "He's always been sort of an idol."

This year, Terese and other dancers in the current tour of "Dancin'" got a chance to work with Fosse. "This is the first cast since the Broadway touring company that got to work with him," she said. "And there have been zillions of casts."

She described Fosse as "a nice man. He's a perfectionist. We worked eight hours with a dance captain, then Bob came in and said, 'This is the way it's supposed to be.' And a light went on."

"I think that's why his choreography is so well known, there's a story behind it, there's always meaning for something. In the calypso number, where we do funny walks, we spent hours trying to stylize it. We had to do one walk in a circle for an hour."

SHE MARVELS at Fosse's determination and stamina. "He's a 65-year-old man!"

During the show's run in Birmingham, two other dancers in the show are staying with Terese in West Bloomfield. They are Sherry Zunker and Celeste Carlucci.

Terese said the most popular numbers in the show are "Sing, Sing, Sing," a salute to the 1940s and Benny Goodman, and "Fourteen Feet," where the dancers' feet are "nailed" to the floor.

She appears with the company in many numbers including "Sing, Sing, Sing" where she's the dancer in the steel-grey-blue dress. She's also featured in "American Women" and "Percussion I," with three girls on the floor.

Mary Terese's real name is Mary

Terese Schultz, nickname Teri. She was known as Teri Schultz before taking her stage name. Her parents, Frank and Christine Schultz, have two other children, her younger sister, Kris, 21, and younger brother, Eric, 22.

"TOMORROW IS the big Two-Five," Terese said last week, on the afternoon of the day before her 25th birthday on Oct. 3.

When "Dancin'" ends its run in Birmingham, Terese will enjoy a brief rest at home. Then, she will go back to Chicago, where she recently moved from a studio apartment into a larger one.

"I know I can't dance forever," she said. "I have to do some real soul-searching." Twenty-five is a turning point for a dancer. "I can tell the difference between this summer and last summer. We do eight shows a week."

Every dancer doesn't slow down at 25, she acknowledged. "One girl in the show is 31, one guy 36. It's individual." But she's making plans. "I may go back to school. I may study business, just to have something to fall back on."

Meanwhile, she's still dancin'. The show "Dancin'" has no plotline. "It's pure entertainment. Just sit back and enjoy," Terese said.

Somerset Inn offers elegance of West End

By Ethel Simmons
staff writer

A menu of gourmet dishes that changes monthly, combined with fine, attentive service, is what makes the West End at Troy's Somerset Inn a restaurant to remember.

Tuxedoed waiters serve the attractive dishes at tables set with vases, each holding a yellow rose. Dining room decor contrasts black upholstered chairs against a background of creamy walls and ceilings. Large, colorful paintings of female faces are a note of surprise.

To keep the surroundings impeccable, the menu requests that guests refrain from pipe or cigar smoking. Food choices are a la carte appetizers, soup, salad and entrees.

On a recent evening, Seafood Bisque ($5.50) arrived looking exquisite, the rich soup filled with tasty bits of seafood and adorned with a piece of shell.

The West End Salad had an ample supply of various greens, heightened by the Oriental Dressing selected. The entree, Roast Breast of Long Island Duckling with Lingonberry Sauce ($16.25), presented strips of duck breast accented by the harmonious sauce.

OTHER ENTREES on the menu for October include five seafood dishes, among them Poached Fillet of Salmon with Sauce Bernaise at $15.25 and Fillet of Dover Sole stuffed with Salmon Mousse with Peppercorn Sauce at $19.25.

Lamb, veal and steak are available, too, with Niselettes of Lamb Brittany at $17.25, Scallopini of Veal Sautéed à la Marsala at $13.25 and Broiled New York Sirloin Steak with Fried Onion Rings at $14.25.

The menu offers 11 entrees in all, each including fresh vegetables.

Besides various cocktails and wine, two Distinguished Wines of the Month are featured, currently a chardonnay, Rene Boulay, and a cabernet sauvignon, Robert Mondavi.

Somerset Inn has been extensively remodeled, and this refreshing new dining room (actually it's been open since January) provides a quiet, pleasant way to enjoy a special meal. There's seating for 70 at 20 tables. Private parties may be seated in an area divided by glass, looking into the central dining area.

Hostess Elizabeth reminds that gentlemen are requested to wear jackets. Hours at the West End, which is open only for dinner, are 6-11 p.m. Mondays-Saturdays.

Fish company

A new location for Superior Fish Company, combining all its several buildings into one, has opened across from the Royal Oak Farmer's Market. The company held an open house Sunday at its spacious quarters, 309 E. Eleven Mile.

The fish operation is both retail and wholesale. Jim Peabody, owner of Peabody's restaurant in Birmingham, was one of the guests at the opening. He buys all the fish for his restaurant at Superior. "They're the best in the country," he said.

Television chef

Chef Keith Famie of the top-rated Chef Raphael is starring in a television show being taped at his restaurant next to the Sheraton Oaks, Novi. Hopes are for the show to become a syndicated TV series.

For each program, Famie will have a celebrity guest, to chat with briefly and then take into the kitchen to help prepare some special dishes. At a recent taping at Raphael's, his guest was Broadway musical star and singer Melba Moore.

The live taping of "Cooking with Chef Famie" started an hour behind schedule but the specially invited guests sipped champagne while they waited. When Famie and Moore went into the kitchen, the audience saw the cooking segment on TV monitors in the dining room.

The chef and his guest returned to the dining room where Moore sampled the Dover sole with lobster mousse and a dessert of Michigan cherry apple cobbler prepared by Famie. Some of the audience got to try it, too.

A couple of the segments had to be reshot, a usual part of any taping, the producer explained. People in the small audience got sore hands from clapping loudly on cue.

The TV show is being put together by Victor-Forbes, Ltd., a Birmingham advertising agency. Another taping for Famie's show, with the host of TV's "Dance Fever" as guest, was done on an earlier occasion.

Hunger dinners

Six metropolitan-area restaurants will be the scenes of dinners to raise money for Detroit's hungry. The first dinner, with chef Keith Famie, will be held Tuesday, Oct. 14, at Chez Raphael in Novi.

Famie's theme is "Seven Small Feasts," offering seven different plates, each a complete dinner in miniature. Tickets are $125 per person, and proceeds benefit the Capuchin Soup Kitchen. For reservations, call 348-5555.

Treats in Orchard Lake, where chef Terrence Shuster presides, will be the scene of another dinner in May. For more information, call Treats at 851-0060.

Other restaurants participating in Chefs Against Hunger are the Money Tree and the Recess Club, both in Detroit; Darby's in Utica, and the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club.

New winery sparkles in Sonoma Valley

There is a stereotype about "the new kid on the block," that he or she will for a while be pushed around a bit by the established residents.

It will not be that way in the wine world of Sonoma, however, where a new "kid" was introduced to the world recently at a gala weekend bash at the Gloria Ferrar winery. The event signaled the arrival of a muscular, fully developed winery operation that will play no subsidiary role in the rapidly expanding world of California sparkling wine producers affiliated with European parentage.

In this case, the parentage is Freixinet, Spanish wine producer who today is the largest producer of sparkling wine in the world. The story is the 1986 production in total will be some 66,000,000 bottles!

Freixinet is known nationally for its black-bottled Cordon Negro and frosted-bottle Carta Nevada (both selling locally for about $6 most of the time). The producer's United States efforts with the new winery began back in 1982. By 1984 it had released its first effort, a brut, called Emera'd Cuvee and did so under its present American name of Gloria Ferrar (named for the wife of the founder of the multinational complex, Jose Ferrar).

THE EARLY release was made in rented facilities at Graton. But from now on Gloria Ferrar sparkling wines will all be made in the new facility in Sonoma Valley.

Its second release, unveiled during the eventful weekend, is primarily a pinot-noir-based wine. Early 1987 will see yet a third, a blend of pinot noir and chardonnay.

The winery, known officially as Gloria Ferrar Champagne Caves, is south of the city of Sonoma on Highway 121. It is the first major winery wine

tourists can visit readily as they drive from San Francisco into wine country. It is an $11-million effort, most attractive, whose heart is in its two enormous caves used for storing wines.

President is 28-year-old Pedro Ferrar (there's nepotism in the wine industry, too) who oversees the whole operation for the Barcelona-based parent company. Eileen Crane, well trained at UC Davis and Domaine Chandon, is the winemaker.

Two hundred and fifty acres of chardonnay and pinot noir will eventually surround the winery, whose projected production is to be in the 80,000-100,000-case range. Only a quarter of that is currently planted. Only estate-grown grapes will be used to produce brut and blanc de noir.

PRICED AT about $11 a bottle, the wines are targeted into a great void in the California sparkling wine market. There is today little or no competition at that level, no coincidence for master marketer Jose Ferrar. He not only knows how to make wine, he also knows how to sell it.

Enough numbers and pedigrees, Watson. What about the wine?

Delightful! This was the near-universal consensus of some 20 wine writers gathered, by invitation, from across the country (e.g. Atlanta, New York, New Orleans, Denver). A few reported hints of citrus, others said the fruit predominated. Whichever, this is not a yeasty, austere wine. Winemaker Crane wants fruit, strong hints of it, and has gotten it in this cuvee.

The wine should be available locally now, at better wine outlets. It also will be sold in some of our finer restaurants at an affordable price. I suspect it will go well with the public: It is fairly priced, it is most attractively packaged and, most important, it tastes good.

On the same day, only a couple of hours earlier, another imposing winery officially opened, over in Napa, to the press and a host of visitors from the area. It is called Chimney Rock, brainchild of "Hack" Wilson, former hotel and restaurant owner and beverage producer.

To secure a winery in the Stags Leap area, he bought Chimney Rock Golf Course on the Silverado Trail and the mountain behind it, moving nine holes of the course to plant his vineyards with 75 acres of sauvignon blanc, cabernet and chardonnay. When the winery is complete, Wilson plans to confine production to 20,000 cases. This seems to be, as its promotional literature suggests, "the newest jewel in the Stags Leap crown."

Author to visit bookstore

Best-selling author Joni Eareckson Tada will appear 2:30-4 p.m. Saturday at Waldenbooks in the Westland Shopping Center.

Joni has just written her third book, "Choices: Changes," published by Zondervan Publishing House. Her previous books are "Joni" and "A Step Together," which together have sold more than four million copies.

"Choices: Changes" recounts Joni's struggle with accepting her quadriplegia, her anxiety in establishing a national non-profit organization for the disabled and the limits her wheelchair placed on her romance with Ken Tada — and still places on their marriage.

Joni was left paralyzed from her shoulders down during a diving accident in 1967. Today she is a critically acclaimed mouth artist, speaker, singer and advocate of rights for the disabled.

In teaching people how to relate to the disabled, Joni says, "Pity sees a need at arm's length. Compassion reaches out to touch. Pity never becomes more than a feeling. Compassion compels us to act."

For more information, call Waldenbooks at 421-7724.

Businesses told to set smoke policy

Time is running out for Michigan's estimated 2.7 million smokers and many businesses which employ them. A state law that takes effect in 1987 says:

"Except as otherwise provided, a person shall not smoke in a public place or at a meeting of a public body, except in designated smoking areas."

"Businesses are facing a deadline," said Thomas K. Connellan, executive director of the National Center for Health Promotion in Ann Arbor.

"They can use the upcoming months to formulate comprehensive smoking policies. Or they can wait and try to force through a hastily written policy that may be doomed to failure," Connellan said.

TO HELP businesses develop smoking policies, the National Center for Health Promotion is holding a full-day seminar this week in an Ann Arbor hotel.

Keynote speaker is Sen. Jack Faxson, D-Farmington Hills, author of the law.

Connellan said smoking decreases mental efficiency by as much as 23 percent. Smoking depresses mental activity and reflex response. Other points:

- 77 million workdays are lost each year in this country because smokers have higher rates of illness than non-smokers.

- The mortality rate for men ages 45-54 (typically the age of most managers and upper-level supervisors) is three times higher than among non-smokers in the same age group.

- Each smoking employee adds a total cost of $600 to $4,500 more to the annual payroll.

- The cost of litigation for one smoking-related employee suit far exceeds the cost of developing and implementing a well-thought-out corporate smoking policy.

MORE THAN 100,000 individuals from across the nation have graduated from the Center's Smoke Stoppers program with a success rate almost three times greater than most other national programs, Connellan said.

Locally, Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit is a provider of the Smoke Stoppers program.

Jobless rates are dropping

Unemployment rates dropped in 11 of Michigan's 12 major labor market areas during August, according to Richard Simmons Jr., director of the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

Only the Battle Creek area had an unemployment rate increase as its rate rose from 8.2 percent in July to 8.5 percent in August. Simmons attributed the increase to seasonal layoffs in the area's agricultural and food processing industries.

Simmons said MESC reported in early September that the statewide jobless rate in August had fallen to 7.9 percent from 9.2 percent in July. The number of unemployed workers across the state dropped by 64,000 to 347,000 during the month. The new release breaks down the statewide numbers.

Most labor market areas reported seasonal hiring gains in their local service, retail trade and construction industries during August. In addition, young people who were unsuccessful in finding summer jobs began leaving most area labor forces.

Brazilian 'bombshell' with SSO

THE SCANDINAVIAN Symphony — formed in 1930 and Michigan's oldest civic orchestra — will have its premiere performance at 8 p.m. Saturday in Southfield High School with a brilliant young Brazilian pianist as guest artist.

She is Maria Meirelles playing Schumann's Piano Concerto in A minor.

Saturday's opening caps an illustrious history for the orchestra that includes European and Scandinavian tours, command performances for royalty and many gracious evenings at Detroit's Masonic Temple.

Now based in Southfield but encompassing surrounding communities, the symphony prides itself on maintaining an attention to excellence and musical standards still befitting royalty, while actively serving the community.

Maria Meirelles to play Schumann favorite

FREE CONCERTS and workshops, seminars, complimentary tickets for Detroit school children, and even a ballet workshop for Southfield dance students are among the numerous benefits this public-minded group has sponsored.

No longer an exclusively ethnic organization, the SSO has reached out to the general musical populace, although its concerts generally have at least one work by a Scandinavian composer.

Their dynamic young conductor, Douglas Morrison, has played a large part in the ever-expanding influence and appeal of this venerable group. With precise baton technique, demanding musical standards and charismatic good looks, members of the organization feel he has burst upon the scene "like a minor hurricane," whipping the orchestra into shape, adding players and injecting vitality into the programming.

One recent memorable success was Morrison's move to perform the Verdi Requiem. Although no one expected a civic orchestra and two community choirs (Dearborn Choral Art Society and Schoolcraft Choir) to be able to pull off this ambitious venture, it was regarded as an unqualified triumph. One Southfield critic favorably compared the performance with the massive DSO-Kenneth Jewell production.

OTHER COUPS include the hosting of several impressive guest artists: Eugene Drucker of the Emerson String Quartet, famous Scandinavian tenor Haken Haagegard, pianist Flavio Varani and now Meirelles.

Meirelles began piano lessons at the age of 3, studying with her mother, concert pianist Nicia Rougand. After graduating from the Brazilian Conservatoire, she studied at the University of Michigan, receiving her bachelor's, master's and doctorate degrees in piano performance.

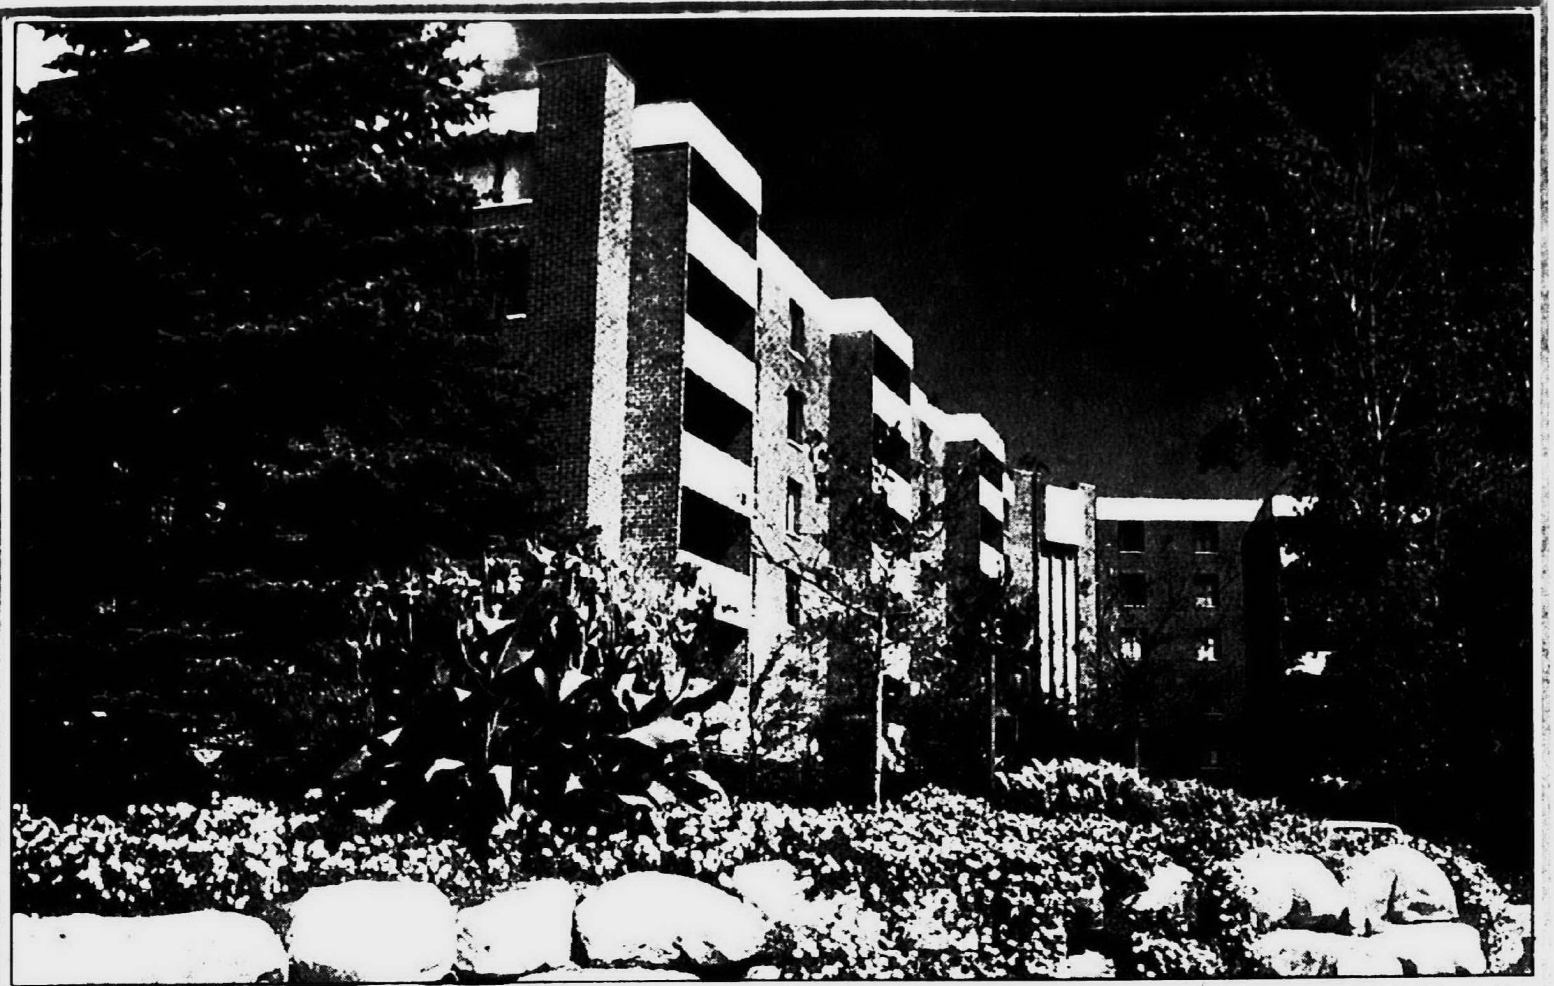

In addition to radio and television performances, she has been a featured soloist with most southeast Michigan orchestras, including the DSO. She has committed all 32 Beethoven Piano Sonatas to memory and has performed the cycle in recital series in Ann Arbor, Mexico City, at Detroit's Orchestra Hall and at Carnegie Hall.

Meirelles will play the Schumann concerto, which was originally written for Clara Wieck, Schumann's wife and a brilliant pianist. The work is delightful in its romanticism.

ALSO ON THE program is Stravinsky's well-known Firebird Suite. His first ballet, it was commissioned by the great impresario Diaghilev and became a huge success upon its debut at the Paris Opera in 1910.

An additional treat for the audience will be Wagner's prelude to the operetta "Die Meistersinger." This work is filled with the echoes of German folk tunes, chorales, lute songs, fugues and lewd street ditties.

Tickets for the Saturday night performance are $7 for adults and $5 for students and seniors. They will be available at the door. Southfield High School is on Lahser at 10 Mile Road in Southfield.

The new landscaping at the Claymore of Southfield has continuity, incorporating rocks, annuals and perennials in large islands throughout the complex.

Luxurious living

Leave life's petty details behind

By Corinne Abatt
staff writer

Some people yearn for their own little nest, complete with lawn to mow, garden to tend, aging furnace, erratic sump pump and peeling paint.

At the opposite end of the spectrum are those who want worry-free luxury, convenience and service. For a price, that's all available at the Claymore, nestled in a picturesque corner of Southfield's Silver Triangle.

To keep the 12-year-old, six-story apartment building in tune with the times, owners Harry and Gary Shapiro, father and son, and Mickey Shapiro, no relation, have just spent more than $500,000 to sharpen the image of what was, all along, an attractive structure. What that adds up to is improvements in landscaping, interior design and services.

GARY SHAPIRO said, "These people want all of the services of a condo without the obligation," paused and then added, "There is no condo project where they could get what is in this building."

That takes in such amenities as a 24-hour doorman, 24-hour security, housekeeping service — a tailor, dressmaker, manicure and makeup salon and travel agent in the building along with the more traditional services. There's very little a person could ask for that can't be found either in the building or less than a block or two away.

Gary Shapiro said there's a unique tenant profile, no problem with vacancies and quite often a waiting list for the apartments, which start at $850 a month for the smallest apartment and go to several thousand, depending on size.

Claymore residents range from those who have several residences around the country, to executives who travel extensively and married couples who are both professionals. Few, if any, have the time or the inclination to fuss over the nitty-gritty details of home ownership.

The mirrored dining area of the model, done by Harriet Brandt, interior designer, has a contemporary approach incorporating glamorous details.

Some of the tenants in the penthouses have put two large apartments together to create lavish dwellings on which they have spent many thousands of dollars on styling and interior design.

Sandy Sells a woman for all 'Seasons'

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

Sandy Sells adds her own twists to popular floral motifs. Often it's various size pine cones collected from every state Sells and her newscaster husband have lived in.

By Louise Okrutsky
special writer

A WOMAN working alone in her basement with a hot-glue gun and a sharp florist's knife isn't the picture that comes to mind when one thinks about a broadcaster's spouse.

But Sandra Sells gladly eschews a flashy manicure and a glamorous image to experiment with gluing brown bean pods and nut shells on the wreaths she designs.

"What makes a good arrangement is what makes a good piece of art, you like it," she said. Her work is on view in Pinewood Homes' Homearama model. The contemporary home is among 12 models packed with design and decorating ideas.

OPEN TO THE PUBLIC, Homearama runs through Sunday in the Deer Creek Subdivision, Eight Mile between Farmington and Newburgh roads, Livonia. A portion of the $4 ticket price will go toward support of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

As visitors can see in Sells' designs, she feels compelled to add her own twists to popular motifs. She adds dried flowers such as baby's breath and pine cones to wreaths. "I've taken pine cones from every state we've lived in," she said.

'What makes a good arrangement is what makes a good piece of art, you like it.'

— Sandy Sells
floral designer

As wife of local television newscaster George Sells, she's grown accustomed to a business in which frequent moves are the norm. Their 16-year-old son, George Sells IV, has attended 10 schools.

But it's a personal disadvantage that's become a professional advantage. Her wreaths can be decorated with large pine cones from Texas or smaller ones from Michigan. She adds shellac to highlight the arrangement's various textures.

Her business, Seasons, which she operates from her Bloomfield Hills home, began several years ago in Houston. When the family moved to Denver, she was forced to start all over again. Unfazed, she's stopped and started business through several moves. It helps pass the time during the evenings while her newscaster-husband is working. "It keeps me off the streets," she said jokingly.

She was looking for an activity to keep her interest and engage her abilities when she joined her first garden club in Scarsdale, N. Y. "I was the youngest member by 30-40 years," she smiled.

The group was involved in formal flower arranging, entering competitions in which the way an arrangement could be made was governed by specific rules. After winning her first ribbon in a flower show in 1976, Sells knew she was hooked. Branching out was the next step.

"I really enjoy doing it. It's lots of fun," she said. She enjoys the response her work evokes from clients. "Especially the look in their eyes when they see it."

Oakway opener quality performance on 2 fronts

By Mary Jane Doerr
special writer

There's an old saying that the way to a man's heart is through his stomach. Ditto for symphony audiences. At least that seems to be the strategy in some circles where concerts are made more palatable by serving a delicious meal, before, after or during the performance.

The Oakway Symphony did not have to make their concert more palatable Sunday afternoon at Madonna College in Livonia, but they did choose to combine their German Spectacular with a dinner carrying out that same ethnic theme and sold nearly all of the tickets.

Obviously, Madonna College offers benefits to the Oakway Symphony, such as food service facilities, even though comfortable seats and good acoustics for the concert are not part of the package.

FOR THE FIRST concert of the 1986-87 season, the Oakway Symphony sounded better than ever. The first violin was moved to a more prominent position on risers and placed where the second violin section is ordinarily located. The only reason for the move, this reviewer has theorized, was to give concertmistress Emily Mutter Austin a more prominent position in order to better feature the wonderful sound of her violin.

This worked, but it could not cover up the need for more than two violas. Like everywhere in the country, there is a shortage of string instrument players.

Conductor Francesco Di Blasi led the orchestra in a rousing "Academic Festival Overture" by Brahms. The interesting number of the afternoon, however, was a 1945 composition by the German composer Hindemith, "Sinfonische Metamorphosen" on a theme of Carl Maria von Weber. In the absence of program notes, Di Blasi gave a brief description of each selection. The Hindemith showed a more reliable wind section and certainly a nicer sounding string section than the Oakway has been known for.

For years now, Ernest Jones has conducted the Oakway Symphony several times during the season. Yet, never has this reviewer seen a "bio" (biographical sketch) in the program about him. Perhaps this is Jones' preference, but it certainly does him a great disservice and certainly is not this reviewer's preference.

The second half of the program included four singers from the four-year-old Michigan Lyric Opera Company: sopranos Julie Fentrup and Susan Paree; tenors David Reynolds and Karl Schmidt.

Fentrup sang two of the ensembles with Reynolds and Schmidt from the first act of the show. The solo she sang, Orlofsky's aria, is really too low for her voice. The top part suited her better.

Susan Paree has a master's degree in music from Oakland University and has sung in a number of shows around the Detroit area. Her high coloratura voice could comfortably handle Adele's technically showy aria, "Mein Herr Marquis," which is always a crowd pleaser.

The two tenors were both exceptionally strong and pleasing singers.

Musicale is family affair

The Wingerts:(seated) Paul and Karen; (standing)Charles, Marian, Beth and Stephen

Livonia residents Paul and Karen Wingert will join with other members of the Charles Wingert family to present a musicale at 3 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 12 in North Congregational Church in Southfield.

The event is sponsored by Detroit Alumni Chapter of Mu Phi Epsilon, international professional music fraternity, to raise money for music scholarships.

All contributions received from the musicale will be used for music scholarships for students at Wayne State and Eastern Michigan universities as well as Grand Valley State and Olivet colleges.

Paul Wingert has been a member of the cello section of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra for seven years.

His wife Karen, also a cellist, is a member of various chamber groups in the Detroit area. Both are members of the Dearborn Symphony and formerly played with the Toledo Symphony.

The program will combine their talents with those of Charles and Marian Wingert, parents of Paul, and their other two children, Stephen and Beth Wingert.

CHARLES HAS BEEN the tenor soloist at First Presbyterian Church in Dearborn for the past 20 years.

His wife Marian, who plays string bass, is a member of St. Paul Lutheran Church choir in Dearborn while also playing string bass in a number of community orchestras. Stephen has sung in church choirs in the Detroit area and the Detroit Symphony Chorus.
