Schools ban film on teen stereotypes

By Emory Daniels
staff writer

Superintendent John M. Hoben said that the movie "The Breakfast Club" is inappropriate material to be used in the classrooms of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

Dr. Hoben Monday night reaffirmed a decision made earlier that the movie could not be shown in English classes at the Centennial Educational Park.

Before making that decision, Hoben discussed the matter with the executive cabinet and informed the school board at a workshop session of the action he was taking.

Monday night some students appeared to protest the decision. The school trustees listened to the positions of the students but took no action on the matter.

THE SUPERINTENDENT acted on the matter when a resident, Diane Daskalakis, objected to plans to show the film to English classes.

The movie involves the interaction of a handful of high school students placed on an all-day detention on a Saturday. Each participant represents a stereotype of a type of student — cheerleader, athlete, a brain, a non-conformist and an outcast.

The movie also involves profane language and sexually explicit discussions, which resulted in it carrying an "R" rating.

Hoben said at Monday's board meeting that he reviewed a summary of the language used and determined it was inappropriate for use in the classroom. Executive cabinet members agreeing with him earlier were Dr. Michael Homes, Ray Hoedel and Norman Kee. At the workshop session, no trustee objected to Hoben's decision to "ban" the movie.

After reaching that decision, Hoben sent a memo on Oct. 7 to principals, area coordinators, assistant principals and instructional program administrators to issue guidelines on selection and use of educational resource materials.

"Because we are entrusted with the education of the community's youth we must, rightfully, take a leadership role in determining what is appropriate and acceptable," he wrote.

"Resources (i.e. R-rated films) which are obvious in their depiction of such factors as profanity, violence, nudity and promiscuous sexual conduct are clearly inappropriate and unacceptable for use as educational resources in the classrooms of this district."

"No standard of this school district provides for the acceptance of such behavior in our students. Similarly, there is no rationale for allowing such behavior at any level to be included within the overall program of instruction provided in district classrooms."

AN ENGLISH teacher at Plymouth Canton High, Dawn Soerries, described the action as "an overt act of censorship."

"Obviously, the censors equated the value of the film with the amount of 'offensive language' found within it. As a result of this decision, teachers no longer have the option of using this film in class, students of legal adult age are denied the right to view it as part of their education, and the decision of whether minor aged students should be allowed to view the film has been wrested from their parents."

At Monday night's board meeting, Ed Lee, a student at the CEP, asked what procedure was used to censor the film and whether more censorship could be expected.

Hoben said the decision was his alone after discussing the issue with the executive cabinet. He stressed he will not get involved in censorship of books but felt the "Breakfast Club" was inappropriate.

Scott Smith, a graduate of Plymouth Canton High, argued the film had important psychological and sociological content as it dealt with stereotyping. While it contained strong language, Smith said high school students hear that kind of language all the time and a high percentage of teens use profanity, so that should not be a factor in banning the film.

Smith noted that a petition bearing 700 signatures objecting to the film was presented by Daskalakis, an unsuccessful school board candidate last June who had objected to last October's appearance of Gundella the Witch as a speaker at the CEP. "There are thousands of people living in the community. How can you let 700 decide?"

Trustee David Artley said it was only "coincidental" that the decision to ban the film was made at the time the petitions were presented. Artley stressed the decision would have been made without the petitions. "I have seen the movie and find it offensive. I support the choice made." There was no cause-effect relationship between the petition and decision, Artley added.

IN A LETTER to the Observer, Soerries noted that "Intellectual freedom demands that no assumption or opinion be silenced, regardless of its controversial nature."

Our educational process should represent the democracy we espouse. The intolerance of a few should not dictate to and limit the choice of the many members of this

Tax rate set by township board

The Plymouth Township Board, as expected, has approved a property tax rate of $5.12 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation (half of market value).

The tax rate breaks down to $4 per thousand for general operations — the maximum allowed by township charter — and $1.20 per thousand to retire debt on sewer and drain construction.

That means a house with a market value of $80,000 would be taxed $204.80 for township services and debt retirement.

Most homeowners will pay only slightly more to the township next year than they did this year.

A small decrease in the tax rate — debt retirement was $1.37 per $1,000 last year — was offset by an increase in the value of properties based on sales figures.

No one other than township officials spoke during public hearings Tuesday on either the tax rate or the proposed 1987 budget.

Formal adoption of the budget, with projected operating revenues and expenses of $4.1 million, is expected at the board's Oct. 28 meeting.

Although another hearing won't be held on that date, interested persons may express opinions during the public comment portion of the agenda.

The proposed budget is available for inspection in the clerk's office 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays at township hall, 42350 Ann Arbor Road just east of Lilley.

The state's newest no-smoking law won't affect students at the Centennial Educational Park because their designated smoking areas are outdoors.

Butt out!

Local officials prepare for new no-smoking law

By Doug Funke
staff writer

Some smokers may have to adjust their habits beginning Jan. 1 when a state law that effectively bans smoking in publicly owned buildings takes effect.

Visitors will have to put out their cigarettes, pipes and cigars when they attend meetings of all public bodies including city commission, school boards and township boards.

It doesn't matter whether the visit is for a meeting or only for a couple of minutes to pay a water bill, property taxes, obtain a dog license, return a library book or file a police report.

Municipal and school employees and elected trustees would be affected, too, if they're used to smoking at their desks or during meetings.

The law essentially allows smoking only in an enclosed office occupied exclusively by a smoker.

"OVERALL, it's going to be a slow process but something we're going to have to comply with," said Paul Sincok, assistant to the city manager in Plymouth. "We're going to have to make necessary changes."

Smoking is allowed now at commission meetings and in the ice arena and meeting rooms at the Cultural Center — all unlawful in 2½ months.

(The law won't apply to private functions like wedding receptions in the Cultural Center when seating arrangements are outside of the control of city officials.)

"I think it's going to be an indoctrination process, but I don't anticipate any major problems with it," Sincok said.

Smoking won't be permitted in the Canton Township Hall once no-smoking signs on order arrive and can be posted, probably within a couple of weeks.

"Signs will be posted at doors and we'll have ashtrays for people to butt out," said Daniel Durack, personnel director.

The new law seems to allow little leeway for smokers, but does raise questions nonetheless.

FOR INSTANCE, designated smoking areas can be established

"except in a public place in which smoking is prohibited by law."

When that section is coupled with one allowing smoking in an enclosed office occupied "exclusively" by a non-smoker, the question arises — where exactly can employees smoke inside?

"Generally speaking, we'll expect people to respect it — as long as we can figure it out," Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen said of the new law.

The township board banned smoking at public meetings two years ago.

"We'll post the appropriate signs," Breen said. "If it looks like somebody is flagrantly violating the law, we'll ask the police to come over and enforce it. I think most of the time now, smokers look around and if there are no ashtrays around, they tend not to smoke."

A couple of township workers on the employee involvement committee have indicated the new law will provide the impetus to quit smoking, Breen added.

WHILE THE school board currently has "thank you for not smoking" signs posted in its meeting room, a policy has never been adopted, said Richard Egli, assistant to the superintendent for community relations.

"They may want to get something formal on the record. Obviously, we intend to comply," he said.

The outdoor designated smoking areas at the two high schools wouldn't be affected by the law.

Smoking isn't allowed now at the Plymouth District Library in Plymouth or in the Canton Public Library.

"We've never really had a problem," said Jean Sebestyn, Canton's library director.

"It would be a real fire hazard in a library," said Pat Thomas, director at Dunning-Hough Library in Plymouth. "We have large ashtrays as you come in the door. Over the years, I can only recall a handful of incidents."

Counselor fights alcohol, marijuana abuse battles

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

Is this cocaine epidemic all it's cracked up to be?

Dale Yagiela, who has more than 10 years experience fighting substance abuse among local teens, says alcohol and marijuana still pose a greater threat than cocaine.

Cocaine is not their drug of choice, says Yagiela, director of Growth Works in Plymouth, a social agency which serves the Canton, Northville, and Plymouth communities. But he cautions, "That's not saying it won't happen."

REGARDLESS of the relative contribution of cocaine to substance abuse problems among teens, alcohol and drug abuse contribute to a 35 percent drop-out rate from Wayne County high schools and to crime — which includes kids selling themselves on the streets, even in Plymouth, he said.

Yagiela, 37, joined Growth Works in 1971. "It was just a place for kids to recreate," he recalled, born in the wave of counterculture-influenced youth services of the time.

Mounted on a wall in his downtown Plymouth office is a photo of himself, taken in the early '70s when his hair was shoulder-length. Drafted as the Vietnam War wound down, the University of Michigan graduate sought work with a service agency to meet conscientious objector conditions. When the draft expired soon after, he elected to stay with the fledgling Plymouth Youth Inc.

"The more time I spent here the more I realized that we were concerned about kids that no one else was concerned about."

Now a married father — he earned a master's degree in community development from U-M in 1979 — Yagiela notes that unlike Growth Works, many alternative youth-oriented agencies folded in the late '70s.

"They didn't learn how to manage. We had a contract. We had to view ourselves as performing in a business-like manner."

IT WAS through Growth Works' schooling for problem kids that Yagiela saw a recurring contributor to those problems — drugs.

While Growth Works still provides services to kids having problems in school, the emphasis has shifted. The agency, funded by the Plymouth Community Fund/United Way and United Foundation, mainly assists teens with substance abuse problems — helping them find treatment or aiding their return to the community following inpatient detoxification.

Based on his experience and statistics on teen alcohol-drug abuse, Yagiela offers some views on the widely publicized problem and solutions.

"What happens is when these kids use a drug, it has an overwhelming effect. They get to really like feeling out of control. That feeling scares the social user."

Despite the publicity heaped on the "crack" cocaine problem, Yagiela says most teens with substance abuse problems choose alcohol or pot, adding that for most, the cost of cocaine is too high. "It still is expen-

Growth Works has survived as a help-agency over the years because it's run in a business-like manner, said Director Dale Yagiela.

Marching band takes 4th title

The Plymouth Centennial Educational Park Marching Band was selected best overall band for the fourth week in a row at the seventh annual Montrose Invitational Marching Band Tournament Saturday evening.

The band also received trophies in Flight I for best percussion, best color guard, best marching and maneuvering, and best winds.

Field Commander Rhonda Sherman and field captains Debbie Royston and Mary Beth O'Mara were awarded a trophy for best drum major in all flights.

in all flights

The percussion section is featured during the musical selection "Paradox." There are 28 members in the section which includes snare drums, quads, bass drums, cymbals, keyboards, and a bass guitar.

Trumpet soloists with the band are Kevin Hinks and Scott Dzumaryk while Karen Leuleman and Laura Dahlke are featured flutists.

The 154-member CEP Marching Band is directed by James R. Griffith also requires additional help with transporting the equipment to competitions. Two longtime band boosters and former band parents, Larry Bouman and Bob Stiffler, drive the equipment truck to each competition.

The group within the band which requires the most equipment during the show is the color guard. Flags must be changed and delivered to certain spots on the field. This year the young people dressed in black who are responsible for the efficient distribution and pickup of the flags are Amy Foxworthy and Rob Ramey, who both have sisters in the band, and Jim Jakas.

The next band competition will be the Durand Invitational at Durand, Mich., on Saturday evening, Oct. 18.

The Michigan Competing Band Directors Association state championship competition will be held at the CEP from 10 a.m. to 11 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 25. Presale tickets at $4 each are available at Sideways and The Trading Post. Tickets at the gate will be $6 each.

Hearns preps here for fight

THE "HIT MAN" is high on the Hilton. Thomas Hearns, World Boxing Council super welterweight champ and North American Boxing Federation middleweight champ, recently completed training at the Plymouth Hilton in preparation for his bout Friday in Cobo Arena with Doug DeWitt.

"It's great for me here in Plymouth," said Hearns, who has twice trained here. "The people have been very, very nice. I've really enjoyed being here and would have no problem coming to Plymouth and training for another fight."

Detroit Kronk boxing club head trainer Emanuel Steward explained, "We like an area that's a little bit out of the way, and there isn't too much activity like shopping malls and fast-food franchises.

"The general atmosphere here is conducive to relaxation and concentration," Steward added.

Hearns training included jogs through Hines Park and sparring sessions with Kronk stablemate Duane Thomas. He also staged a mock fight with Hilton manager Adel Abdo.

Trainer Emanuel Steward wraps Hearns' wrists.

Township will establish employee suggestion plan

Plymouth Township employees soon will get more than a pat on the back for suggestions that result in more efficient operations, a safer working environment or better service to the public.

The township board Tuesday endorsed an employee suggestion program recommended by the township's involvement committee. Specific details remain to be worked out.

A payoff of a U.S. Savings Bond or a selection valued at $20 from a gift guide has been proposed for employees whose suggestions are adopted.

The concept of longevity service awards also was approved by the board.

It was suggested that employees first be recognized after five years service, then in five-year increments with gift selections valued at $15 after five years to $75 with 30 or more years and $100 upon retirement.

"I think it's better to get something along the line rather than waiting for retirement," Clerk Esther Hulsing said of the recognition program.

"This is something developed by the employees, not coming from the top down," Supervisor Maurice Breen said of both programs.

sive but we're going to see more of it."

Teens who have a relative who abuses alcohol should be especially vigilant about their own potential for abusing alcohol.

"There's strong evidence that there's a real strong genetic trait" encouraging alcohol abuse, Yagiela said. "People who know they have a pre-disposition in their families need to know a lot about this."

TEENS WHO abuse drugs come from all social backgrounds.

"They don't have bad parents," Yagiela adds. Parents tend to be unaware of their kids' drinking problems because they drink in secret — not openly as adults do.

Indicators that a teen may be abusing alcohol or drugs include changes in appearance, weight loss, different friends or changes in school performance.

To prevent drug abuse, Yagiela suggests that society adopt a social policy that drugs "are not healthy" . . . When we approach things from a health standpoint, we have a large impact."

Yagiela favors periodic drug testing. "It's becoming another civil rights issue; it can be portrayed as a health issue."

Also, society should further restrict alcohol advertising, "and maybe be restrict where alcohol can be used," he said, in keeping with a consistent social policy.

Saying that outpatient treatment for substance abusing teens doesn't work, Yagiela favors inpatient treatment programs in Minnesota and Ohio to which Growth Works refers nearly 100 teens annually.

community."

In his memo reminding principals of their leadership role in selection of learning materials, Dr. Hoben specified that "profanity, violence, nudity, promiscuous sexual conduct, and similar sensitive subject matter is basically inappropriate in the classroom and must be strongly questioned by each of us."

Daskalakis was not at Monday's board meeting, and no teacher spoke on the issue before trustees. There was a contingent of students, with two who spoke.

Personal message left for victim of break-in Home entertainment equipment, jewelry and a rifle were stolen last weekend from a house on Judson, according to Plymouth Township police.

The intruder(s) entered the house through an open door after forcing open a garage window, police said. The break-in occurred between 10:30 p.m. Saturday and 5 p.m. Sunday.

The stolen items included a Sony color TV valued at $510, a Sony AM/FM receiver worth $150, a Zenith black and white TV worth $100, a .22 calibre Browning rifle valued at $311 and a gold necklace worth $300.

A personal message to the victim was left at the scene, apparently by the intruder(s).

A video cassette recorder was reported stolen from a house on South Drive while the resident walked to a mailbox, police said.

The theft occurred between 6 and 6:20 p.m. Oct. 9. The resident said he left a door open and unlocked while he went to the mailbox.

There were no signs of forced entry. The VCR was valued at $250.

Nine windows were broken at West Middle School on Sheldon Road between 11 p.m. Friday and 8 a.m. Saturday. Damage was estimated at $1,000.

A Bel radar detector valued at $145 was reported stolen Sunday night on Nantucket in the city of Plymouth. The car wasn't locked.

A scenic Rouge cruise in the city

By Teri Banas
staff writer

There was just enough sunlight in the air to warm the hardy explorers as they floated down the Rouge River in Southfield on this cooler fall Saturday.

As the canoes drifted past the tree-lined backlots of condominium projects, residential backyards and golf-course parkland, the explorers felt almost hidden from the city life all around, save for the sounds of afternoon traffic on Eight Mile, just a stone's throw away.

"One reason we're doing this is just to show people how scenic and pretty the river can be," said Jack Smiley, vice president of "Friends of the Rouge," the organizers of the 11-community, river cleanup in June.

"In the spring, it's really beautiful," added Southfield's Steve Marshall, in charge of local efforts there. "There are floss and wild iris all around. It's a typical, Michigan climate forest, everything from poplar and oak."

BUT BEYOND the natural wonders were the unnatural ones.

Saturday's canoe trip, originating at Beech Park (Beech Daly south of Nine Mile), had been organized in gratitude for the volunteer efforts of area residents during the summer cleanup.

It was also organized to give residents a sense of how the river could be used — if cleaned up — for recreation purposes, said Jim Murray, chairman of the state Water Resources Commission.

But at this point, it was clear that that use is years away.

The murky green water — short of inviting — still carried its share of urban debris — rusted-out, discarded auto parts, an old bicycle, two partly submerged oil drums. In addition, this one-mile stretch of the 126-mile waterway intersected with overflow sewage and storm sewer lines.

Trip planners from the "Friends" group were sent into the river with chain saws that morning to prepare for the travelers. As early as 7 a.m., they were breaking up a half-dozen fresh logjams caused by fallen trees during a heavy storm earlier this month.

In all, the day's event carried three casualties — canoes that overturned — including one that bore the mayor of Inkster, Betty Miller, and her husband, Ken. Dressed in the spirit of the day, Ken Miller came in the trappings of a true woodsman with a deer-skinned overshirt, floppy leather hat and seal-skinned hiking boots.

"It didn't look very clean," said Mayor Miller, a few days later. "My husband's an old fisherman, and we didn't see anything living or move along the banks. If there was, I'm sure he would have spotted it."

"THE STORY is that they plant trout in there, and it's one of the cleanest spots on the Rouge. Otherwise, I wouldn't have gone," she added.

The Millers' accident occurred when their canoe hit a submerged log, and they fell into water over their heads. After giving up on efforts to right the canoe, they climbed up the slippery banks and walked — canoe paddle in hand — to a gas station on Eight Mile. There, a motorist gave them a lift to their parked car.

One of the 45 who took part Saturday, Redford Township resident Marge Kluck, 62, found the trip was fun, if not hard work.

As she yanked at low-lying branches and helped pull her canoe through one particularly troublesome logjam, she exclaimed that it was "exciting."

AND WHEN securely footed on shore, she said: "I was just saying that we should come back and do this trip for a reunion. But I was surprised to hear it won't be done until (the year) 2005."

Kluck said she remembers the Rouge as a place she played near while growing up. Those memories fueled her interest in helping the cleanup.

Alice Stanley, a retired Southfield-Lathrup schoolteacher who lives along the river banks, said: "We've often wondered, wished, we could have lived here 20 years ago. It's just so nice. We're seeing animals like beaver, badgers and possum. But it's not as nice as it used to be. You can't have all this building and development..."

Tina McKeon, who owns a canoe livery stable in Columbiaville on the Flint River and donated the canoes for Saturday's trip, was asked about the Rouge's recreational possibilities.

"It's going to have to be cleaned up better than this. Just the thought of those barrels. Who knows what was in 'em," she said.

Vandals strike school grounds

Vandals caused more than $5,000 worth of damage with orange spray paint at Plymouth Salem High School last week.

A custodian saw three youth running away from the school at about 1 a.m. Friday, Oct. 10.

About one-third of the brick, sidewalk and glass at the back of the school was covered with comments written with paint, said Principal Gerald Ostoin.

He said spray paint vandalism happens occasionally but this incident caused the most damage he's seen at the school "as far as volume goes but not in vulgarly." Cleaning the paint was expected to be completed by Tuesday, he said.

In reaction to the incident, Ostoin said, the school may hire a security guard to watch the grounds "on an around the clock basis."

"This doesn't happen that often, and you have to weigh the cost value of doing that."

"A lot of time this reflects on the students who attend the school now, but we're relatively certain that's not the case."

No one has been arrested, said Canton Police Det. Robert Sidor.

Rick Wye of Corliss Brick Cleaners and Dan Peck, a Plymouth Salem student, removed graffiti at Salem High with paint remover and a power washer earlier this week.

Tough court battle awaits Rashid

By Teri Ganas
staff writer

This is the fifth in a series of profiles on candidates for the Wayne County Circuit Court. Voters will select three candidates in the general election on Nov. 4.

When James Rashid was a young boy he remembers traveling downtown to visit his father in the Wayne County Circuit Court.

Often accompanied by one or more of his eight brothers or sisters, he would spend afternoons amusing himself in Joe Rashid's office chamber, making chains out of paperclips.

Rashid, 32, is still asked about his father who died five years ago. "I can't tell you the number of people I run into who tell me stories about my father — that they respected him as honest and hardworking," Rashid said. He says one reason he wants to be elected a Circuit Judge is to continue that tradition.

A FORMER county commissioner, and one-time unsuccessful state senate candidate in the 10th District, Rashid said he developed his own sense of civic responsibility by watching his father through his years of public service.

"I really believe if you've got brains, and any desire to serve the public, you got an obligation," he said. "Otherwise, you leave government to some people who are just trying to make a living off it."

Rashid said he is seeking the court seat this year — even though his law practice is doing well and he could earn more than the $74,888 judicial salary — because of that civic purpose.

Voters will elect three judges to the circuit court on Nov. 4. The other candidates include John Murphy, a district court judge in Detroit; Gregory Stempien, a Livonia attorney; David Szymanski, an attorney from Harper Woods; Kathleen Macdonald, a judicial law clerk for Wayne County Circuit Judge Michael Conner and Sean Kavanagh, an attorney and part-time magistrate in Livonia's 16th District Court.

RASHID SAID his candidacy offers "a balance" in that he is an attorney who has represented clients before the court and one who has been a former clerical employee in the family support division of the Friend of the Court, where he worked while attending law school.

During his two terms (1979-82) as a Wayne County commissioner representing Dearborn, Allen Park and Melvindale, Rashid was vice chairman of the commission's court reorganization committee and as a member of its standing public safety and judiciary committee.

He was still in law school when he served on the commission and was considered outspoken and independent. Rashid described himself then as "unbending," though keeping an "open door" to opposing views.

Rashid opposed a proposed reorganization which would combine Recorder's Court and Wayne County Circuit Court because he believed that projected savings to the county of $11 million were exaggerated. "Eventually, it went up to costing the county $1.9 million."

HE SAID he favored the idea that Michigan would assume the operation of all state courts and unifying justice across the state. But he opposed plans that left Recorder's Court judges as elected officials of only Detroit residents while serving countywide.

Rashid earned his law degree six years ago after graduating with honors from the Detroit College of Law. He received an undergraduate government degree from Notre Dame College.

Today, he is a member in a 14-person law firm and works out of the firm's Detroit office. His cases involve municipal law, family matters (mostly divorces), worker's compensation and personal injuries. Besides working in local, district courts and the circuit court, he has handled cases in the federal district court and the court of appeals.

Referring to the circuit court, Rashid makes a charge frequently lodged by attorneys: that backlogs would significantly drop if judges "put in a full day and basically worked harder. Unfortunately, there are some who just don't carry their share of the load."

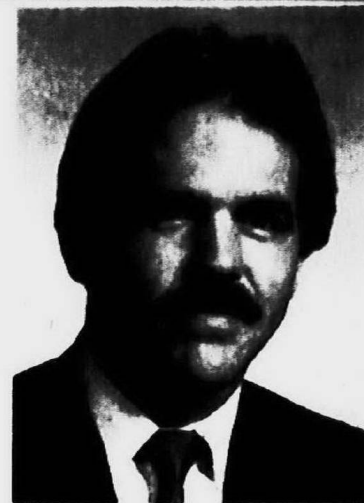

RASHID ALSO believes it would be beneficial to handle family law matters separately, though he says "realistically the funds aren't there" to establish a separate, specialized court.

"There's a tremendous volume in this law and it's much more specialized," he says. "But some judges aren't in a big hurry to hear these cases."

Rashid doesn't believe that capital punishment works as a deterrent to crime, "or the answer to the crime problem." He said he would enforce it if it became law, however.

Commenting on the difficulties of campaigning across such a large community and voter apathy, Rashid said he would favor the appointment of circuit judges by the governor, along with state senate confirmation and the involvement of a bi-partisan, evaluation panel of lawyers and lay people.

4 internists open Canton office

Four physicians have opened an office in Suite 201 of the new McAuley Health Building-Canton at 42180 Ford just west of Lilley in Canton.

The four internal medicine specialists — David M. Winston, Martha L. Gray, Lawrence D. Abramson, and Mark Oberdoerster, all medical doctors — are on staff at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor.

The doctors will continue to see patients at their other office locations at the Arbor Health Building, 990 W. Ann Arbor Trail at Harvey in Plymouth, and at 3250 Plymouth Road in Ann Arbor.

WINSTON is a clinical instructor in internal medicine at the University of Michigan Medical School and an instructor of internal medicine at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

Dr. Winston is chief of the department of medicine at Chelsea Community Hospital and holds a number of medical committee appointments at Chelsea and in the area.

Gray earned her degree from the University of Michigan Medical School.

Abramson is a clinical instructor at the University of Michigan where he earned his degree. His wife, Tracey, is a staff pathologist at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

OBERDOERSTER is a graduate of the Medical College of Ohio at Toledo.

He worked in the medical and emergency clinic of the Med Center in North Olmstead, Ohio. His wife, Dr. Deborah Oberdoerster, is a fellow at the University of Michigan.

In addition to physicians' offices, McAuley Health Building-Canton will house several medical support services including radiology, pharmacy, physical therapy, occupational therapy, speech therapy, clinical laboratories, and McAuley Urgent

Care for the treatment of minor emergencies.

The above services are expected to be in operation at the Canton center before the end of the year.

McAuley Health Building-Canton, Arbor Health Building in Plymouth, and St. Joseph Mercy Hospital are units of the Catherine McAuley Health Center in Ann Arbor.

Area reps back 5-year EPA Superfund

HOUSE

SUPERFUND — By a vote of 386 for and 27 against, the House passed and sent to the White House a bill extending for five years the Environmental Protection Agency's Superfund cleanup of the nation's hazardous wastes.

President Reagan has threatened to veto the legislation (HR 2005) because its $9-billion pricetag would be paid mostly by new taxes, including levies on the oil and petrochemical industries covering a large chunk of the five-year Superfund cost.

Of the nearly 900 toxic dumps nationwide targeted by the EPA during the six years of the Superfund program, fewer than two dozen have been cleaned up.

Members voting yes supported the proposed Superfund extension.

Voting yes: Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth; Dennis Hertel, D-Harper Woods; William Ford, D-Taylor; Sander Levin, D-Southfield; William Broomfield, R-Birmingham.

IMMIGRATION REFORM — By a vote of 230 for and 166 against, the House passed and sent to conference with the Senate a landmark bill (HR 3810) tightening federal immigration policies to combat the influx of illegal aliens into the United States.

The bill's primary mission is to enable America to regain control of its border with Mexico in a way that is reasonably fair to Western growers who depend on undocumented foreigners to pick their fruits and vegetables, illegal aliens who have put down roots in the United States, and domestic workers who compete with cheap foreign labor.

It imposes criminal penalties on growers who knowingly hire undocumented farm workers, contains an "amnesty" provision granting permanent resident status immediately to uncoun- ted millions of illegal aliens who entered the country before 1982, and phases in permanent residency for up to 350,000 foreigners who worked in American agriculture for specified periods in the last three years.

Roll Call Report

Members voting yes supported the immigration bill. Voting yes were Democrats Hertel, Ford and Levin. Voting no: Republicans Pursell and Broomfield.

EMPLOYER PENALTIES — By a vote of 137 for and 264 against, the House rejected an amendment to soften the immigration reform bill (above) by imposing civil rather than criminal penalties against Western growers and others who knowingly hire illegal aliens.

The vote preserved language subjecting employers to maximum penalties of $5,000 and six months in jail for each undocumented worker they hire.

Critics of the proposed criminal penalties said it was an impossible burden to require employers to verify the legal residency of all their workers.

Members voting against the amendment countered that illegal immigration will be checked only if tough means are used to stop employers from hiring undocumented workers.

Members voting no supported criminal penalties against those who knowingly hire illegal aliens. Voting no were Republicans Pursell and Broomfield.

Voting yes were Democrats Hertel, Ford and Levin.

SENATE

REMOVING JUDGE CLAIBORNE — The Senate removed U.S. District Judge Harry Claiborne from office by voting to convict him on three of four articles of impeachment brought against the 69-year-old Nevada jurist by the House.

This stripped Claiborne of his lifetime judicial appointment and $78,700 annual salary.

No: Carl Levin. Yes: Donald Riegle.

The House had impeached, or formally charged, Claiborne on grounds he is unfit for office because of his two felony convictions for evading federal taxes on $106,000 in 1979-80 income.

"Some windows are too cold."

North, south, winter, summer — windows made with Sunglas

Heat Reflective glass work like transparent insulation to save you valuable energy dollars year-round.

Sunglas HR also helps reduce condensation and drafts to keep you more comfortable day and night no matter what the weather.

Sunglas HR is the insulator that really is a window. A high-tech glass that looks like old-fashioned clear glass, but actually reduces both heat loss and heat gain 65%* by keeping radiant heat where you want it:

inside when it's cold — and outside when it's hot.

"Some windows are too hot."

In other words, with Sunglas HR your windows are never too hot, or too cold — but just right.

What's more, Sunglas HR also reduces the sun's harmful ultra-violet rays that cause premature fading of household fabrics.

*Versus single glazing. Based upon 1/4" air space. Performance will change with the width of the air space.

Sunglas HR is ideal for new homes and replacement windows, even for simple add-on storm windows.

Sunglas HR also makes great energy sense for sunspaces. In fact, the larger your glass area, the more you need Sunglas HR.

Ask for Sunglas Heat Reflective glass from Ford Glass by name, because when it comes to glass that works 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, every year — Nobody outglasses Ford.

For circuit court: Murphy, Stempien, Rashid

ON NOV. 4 voters in Wayne County will elect three judges to the circuit court bench.

The Wayne County Circuit Court is the state's highest trial court and has jurisdiction over equity cases, criminal cases involving felonies outside of Detroit, divorce cases and civil cases in which the amount in controversy exceeds $10,000. It also hears appeals from lower courts. Judges who serve in the Wayne Circuit Court are elected to six-year terms and are paid $74,888 annually.

The court race is as important as those at the top of ticket and we believe voters should take care to elect qualified, experienced people.

Of the six names on the ballot, we believe the three most qualified to serve are John A. Murphy, Gregory Stempien and James J. Rashid. They have the background in the law, trial court work and community experience to help them deal with the complex legal matters and human problems that face a circuit court judge. We don't feel that the other candidates have sufficient background or expertise for the job.

Murphy, 38, is presently a judge for the 36th District Court in Detroit. He has the background, sensitivity and experience needed to be a good judge of the circuit court. A graduate of the Wayne State University Law School and the University of Michigan, Murphy is a solid choice on Nov. 4.

Stempien, 45, is a Northville Township resident with a law practice in Livonia. He has practiced law for 16 years tackling a variety of cases — the kind he would hear as a circuit court judge.

He's knowledgeable, hardworking and has the experience and maturity needed to be a good judge. He has studied, practiced and taught the law. Now he wants to move on and we believe that he's prepared himself well.

In addition to his experience as an attorney, Rashid, 32, has worked for Wayne County Friend of the Court in the family support division. He also represented the Dearborn, Melvindale and Allen Park areas on the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

He knows Wayne County and its court, has a record of public service and if elected, we believe, would capably serve all the residents of this county.

Wayne County Circuit Court needs judges who have a broad-based background in the law and life.

After interviewing each of the candidates and reviewing their resumes, we believe Murphy, Stempien and Rashid merit voter support on Nov. 4.

What's the best bet for judicial picks?

Appointing

INHERENT IN a sound judicial system is a judiciary composed of qualified judges, independent of political pressure.

The League of Women Voters of Michigan believes a method of judicial selection combining original appointment to the bench and subsequent election frees qualified judges from outside pressure, helping them to maintain their essential independence.

Under such a method all vacancies on the bench would be filled by appointment. After serving a term on the bench, the incumbent judge, if wishing to continue, would face the voters.

At the next general election, a non-partisan ballot would carry the question: "Shall Judge (blank) of the (blank) Court be retained in office?" There would be no other candidates for the same office on the ballot. Voters would decide "yes" or "no" on the judge's record.

The present method of popular election of judges contains many obstructions to obtaining an independent, effective judiciary.

Nancy J. White, president of the League of Women Voters of Michigan, lives in Plymouth Township.

In 1981 the League of Women Voters of Michigan announced its position on the selection of judges, a position that has been reaffirmed at every state convention since that time.

The LWV is non-partisan. It never supports or endorses political parties or candidates.

political organization responsible for helping them win the election. Judges are subject to great and continuous political pressures.

Judges become responsible to constituents, when they should be responsible only to the law.

Under a system of appointment with subsequent election, the establishment of an independent, efficient judiciary is better assured.

The judicial, as contrasted with the legislative and executive branches of government, has no political purpose or political function to serve. Courts are responsible for upholding the law as it is written.

Political factors such as the will of the majority and the wishes and influence of the minority should and do operate on the legislative and executive branches of government. Such political factors have no place in a court of law, and the appointment method avoids these factors.

JUDGES WOULD come from the ranks of the most able and most talented people — from people chosen on the basis of personal integrity, impartiality, judicial temperament, ability, legal training and physical and mental vigor for the arduous work of the position — not on the basis of popularity or ability to win an election.

After selection, judges would be assured freedom from political influences and threat, and would be provided with reasonable security of tenure so long as they performed properly.

Judges would be free from having to conduct campaigns or engage in time-consuming activities for their retention, and would be left free to devote their full time to doing the work of a judge.

Opportunity for appointment to the bench would be greater for qualified people who lack the necessary money to finance a campaign.

An incumbent judge who wishes to remain in office would be subject to approval by the electorate on the basis of record, rather than having to compete against other candidates.

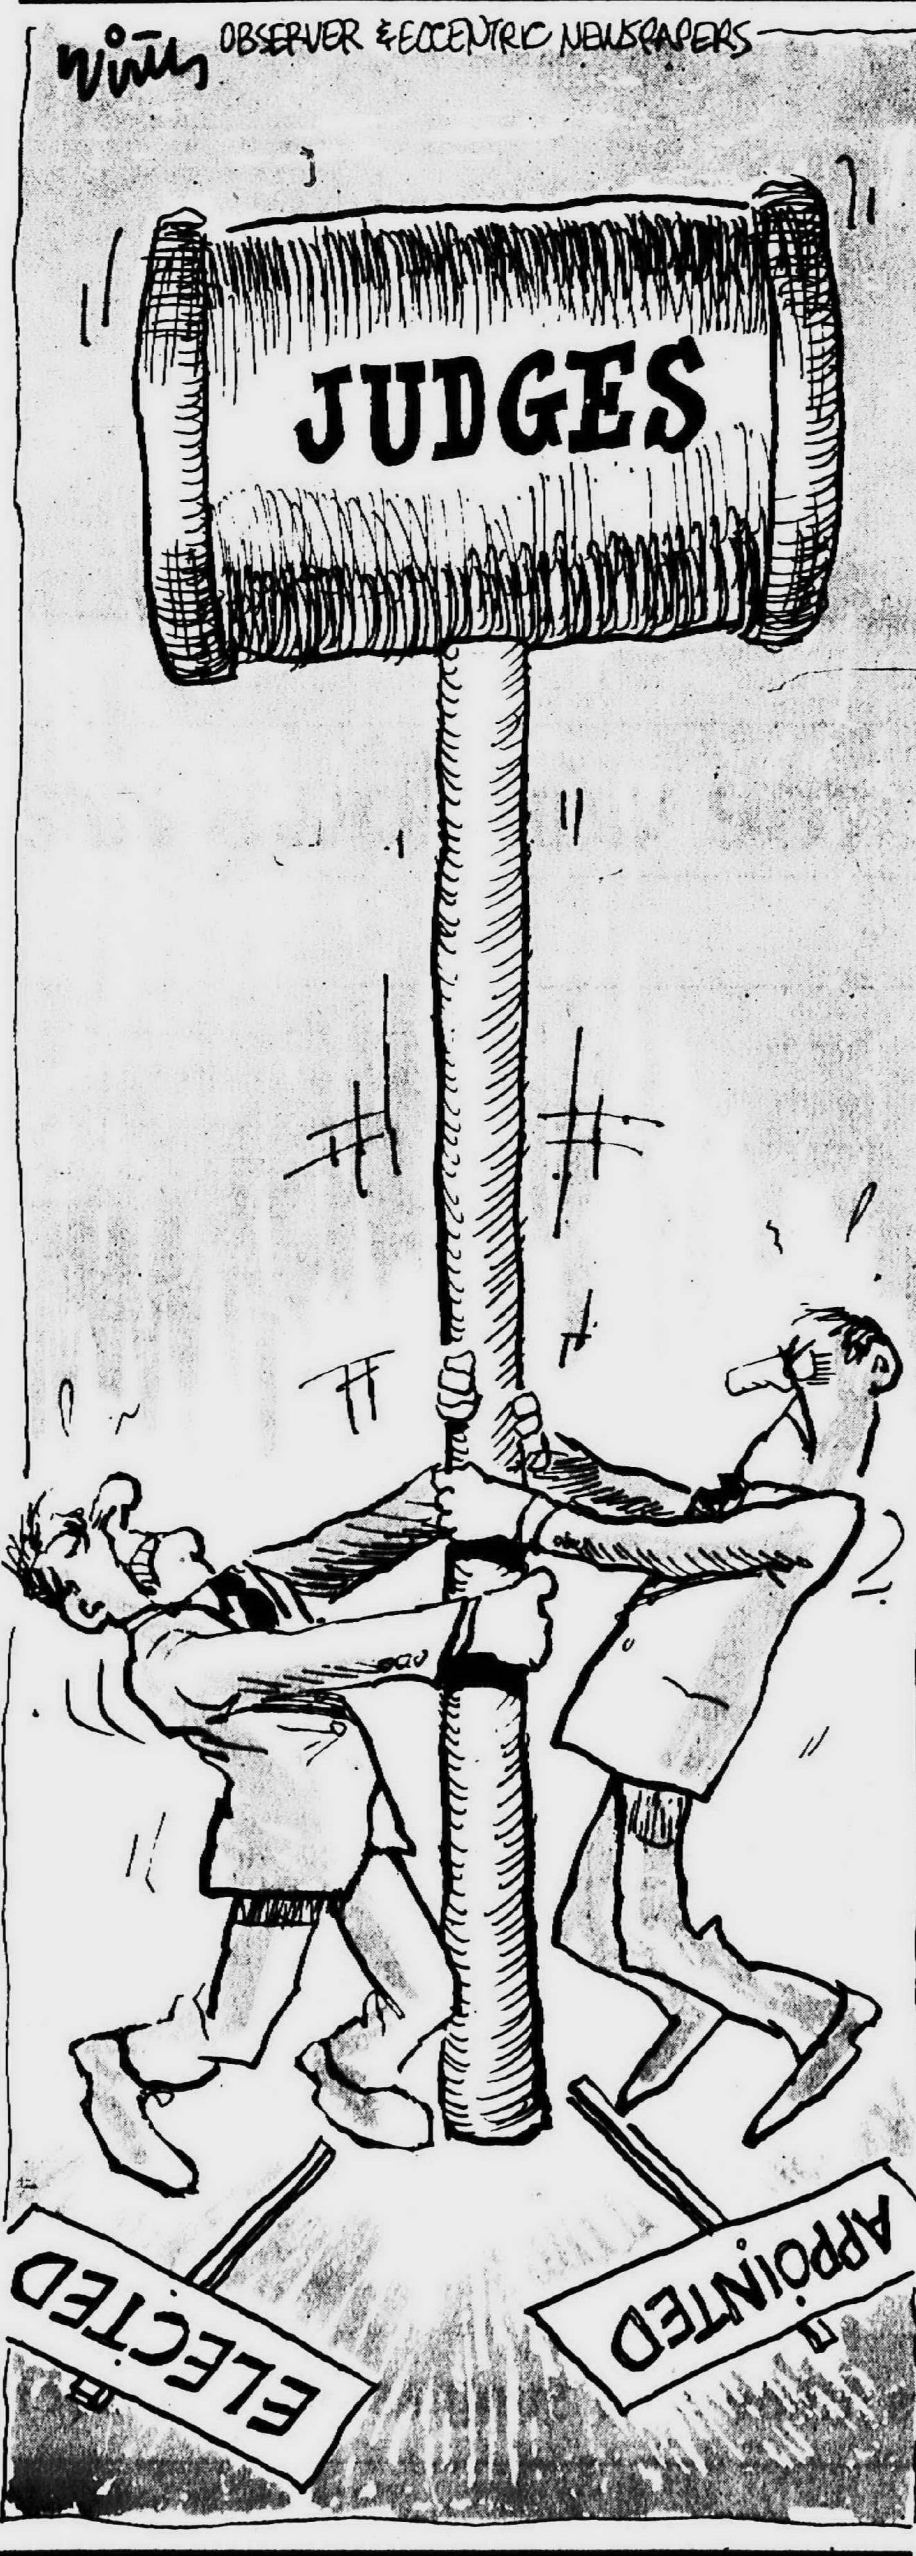

The intent of the founding fathers of this country could be better fulfilled. They did not provide for judges to be obtained at the polls by a partisan ballot.

It was not until 1846 that any state elected judges by political party ballot. The federal judiciary has always been obtained by appointment by the president with the consent of the Senate.

Guest Commentary

Electing

TO ELECT or to appoint, that is the question. While no one seems to argue strongly for a process other than election in the executive and legislative branches of government, many believe that judges should be appointed or selected in a manner other than by election.

The argument is made that the public does not really know or cannot learn enough about judicial candidates to intelligently select one judicial hopeful over another. The end result is often seen as a name game where votes are cast based on name recognition rather than the qualifications of the candidates.

As a recently elected district judge, I disagree with those who say judges cannot be prudently or knowingly selected by public vote. Moreover, the experience of running for election has an everlasting and invaluable impact on that elected judge.

Those who oppose the election of judges argue that the electorate is unwilling or unable to educate itself about judicial candidates.

BUT, GIVEN the importance of judicial actions in our everyday lives, I believe this problem can be corrected. Rather than taking away the people's voice in selecting their judges, let us use all the avenues the media provides us and print all the information the people need to make informed decisions.

Supporters of judicial appointment would have judges selected by a special panel whose job would be to evaluate qualified candidates and appoint those scoring highest on the evaluation.

I suggest these same panels convene for the purpose of providing the public with the necessary information upon which to make their own decision at election time. The Bench, Bar Association and public awareness groups such as Court Watchers should be involved in this process.

There is nothing mysterious about the operation of our courts. Yet people seem fearful or baffled about its workings. Much of this confusion would disappear with greater public education on the function of the courts and, in particular, its judges. Once again, the media provides a perfect forum for this educational process. We have the resources to make the name game the knowledge game.

THE CAMPAIGN PROCESS exposes a judicial candidate to the fears and concerns of the people he or she is to serve. For example, campaigning door to door in a neighborhood and waiting while several security locks are unbolted brings home the terror of crime.

Going through the rigors of an election forces a candidate to think through his positions and tests his or her temperament and patience, both of which are essential ingredients for a judge.

— Judge Edward Sosnick

Shaking hands with strangers at a shopping center and listening to their problems with courts serves to remind a judge that court proceedings should be conducted on time, in language all can understand and with the knowledge that the court exists for the people.

Going through the rigors of an election forces a candidate to think through his positions and tests his or her temperament and patience, both of which are essential ingredients for a judge. An elected judge never forgets that his authority or position came from the people who elected him.

It has been suggested that a citizen/attorney committee initially screen potential candidates to eliminate unqualified hopefuls (a process not unlike the primary election). That idea deserves further consideration.

However, in the general election, judicial candidates must learn the same lessons regarding their constituents that benefit legislative and executive candidates.

— Judge Edward Sosnick

Blessed be the trout that got away

THE CURRENTLY overworked phrase, "while there's a break in the action," means different things to different people.

For instance, to football telecaster John Madden it means there's been a change in possession of the hoghide and it's time for a commercial.

But if applied to 92-year-old Rt. Rev. Monsignor Edward J. Hickey, one of the metropolitan area's most renowned and beloved Catholic priests, it means a permanent farewell to the avocation that has engulfed him throughout his adult life.

"Yes, I'm getting out of the art business," he told me a few mornings ago when I waylaid the still jovial and dynamic 5-foot-8-inch priest. He was en route to a meeting with dispersal agents who own Schmidt's Antique Shop, 5138 W. Michigan Ave., Ypsilanti.

At one time the Hickey art treasure numbered more than 3,000 paintings and sculptures. Their dollar value was astronomical. Several hundred remain through bifocals

and are being moved from the Monsignor's Art Cloister — St. Mary's Gallery at East Grand Boulevard and Gratiot to Schmidt's.

BORN WITH a silver spoon in his mouth in 1893 to an affluent Grosse Pointe family, he once said, "I blew my entire inheritance on art."

A series of two-day sales is being scheduled for different sites to get rid of all but 12 to 15 items which he will keep in his quarters in the Hickey Tower in the St. Mary's of Redford parish.

Although the full calendar hadn't been announced yet, I did coax from the fascinating little Irishman the fact that one of the first sales will be from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., Friday and Saturday, Nov. 14 and 15 at Plymouth's Mayflower Hotel Meeting House. As always in his career, the profits will go to charity.

The oldest active priest in Michigan and the oldest living alumnus of the University of Detroit, Monsignor Hickey still maintains a brisk and enterprising pace.

SERVING as pastor emeritus of one of the state's largest parishes, he said, "I'll take the mass that no one else would take. I take the 6 a.m. mass but I get up at quarter to four. I open the church, turn on the heat, turn on the lights, open the doors, prepare the sanctuary and give a brief homily every morning."

"I do that seven days a week. I haven't been five minutes late in two years and I haven't taken a day off in two years. If I take day off after liquidating the art collection, I'll jump into a plane and go to Spain for a while."

He laughed with delight when I suggested that any man trained by the Jesuits at U-D who then went on to earn a degree in business administration at Harvard University, and who was raised by a father from the ranks of Detroit's most successful businessmen, simply had to have learned the value of a dollar.

IT LED TO asking him how he got into collecting art in the first place.

"It's a strange story. I was trout fishing as a teen-ager up at Higgins Lake. I couldn't land a trout even if someone put it on my line. I was with a friend from Port Huron whose father, a distinguished attorney, had taken us for three days in the woods."

"Coming back, he said, 'Ed, my son and I are going to leave the country for three months and tour Europe and the Mediterranean area. Why don't you come along?'"

"He devoted himself to us like a professional tutor. I was only 16 or 17. At Cairo, Egypt, we went to a reception for Teddy Roosevelt. Then we went to Rome and out of it all grew this interest in the great art of the world. Now I've been to Europe 23 times."

Even though he will be 93 on Dec. 13, it isn't old age that has led to closing the gallery. These are the reasons:

"THE AREA has become too dangerous. The authorities are tolerating the sale of drugs up and down the avenue and it drove all the customers away. Sometimes during one day there have been as many as eight different automobiles and probably 60 different people who would come peddling drugs, sometimes mothers with infants in their arms."

"There have been thefts, gaining entry through the roof. But the last straw was what they did to my security guard. I had given him the key so he could put some more paintings on the wall. Two fellows came over about 7 p.m. and sliced up his face, requiring 20 stitches but missing his throat."

I guess that even with a man of compassion and humor there comes a breaking point. It has cost Monsignor Hickey his gallery but not the undiluted kind of happy feeling he remembers seeking the elusive trout.

Fashions, traffic sometimes leave her in fog

Lately, I've come to realize that I'm really "out of it."

In fact, I'm so out of it that I don't even know what the current phrase is to indicate this particularly terrible social and mental status. (Is a nerd the same as what a square once was?)

This unsettling thought occurred to me the other day while my friend, Linda, and I were flipping through catalogs while sipping tea and flapping our jaws.

AFTER LISTENING to several of Linda's astute comments regarding the clothes in the new catalogs, I confessed to her, "You know, I don't think I've ever known what was in style — not in my whole life."

Linda looked at me as though I'd just confessed to a terrible character flaw. Perhaps I had. I'd always thought of it as selective perception.

As to those things which I have selected to perceive — well, I'm not too clear on those either.

I'm just one of those klutzy people who arrives home from an important interview, looks in the mirror and discovers a blatant smear of toothpaste on my neck.

I've left the house on more than one occasion with a piece of papertowel caught in the hinge of my glasses (I doubt that it's very "in" to clean one's glasses with papertowel in the first place). I usually don't discover this extra adornment until I've run several errands and arrived back home.

Yep, I'm a real trend-setter.

WHICH LEADS ME to why I would like to apologize to the dozen or so people who foolishly assumed that I knew what I was doing a few days ago.

To explain, I was driving north on Sheldon when I happened upon a fresh accident. No one was injured, but the entire road was blocked by a van and an extremely long flatbed truck. There was no way around it.

So, clever lady that I sometimes think I am, I decided to cut through an unfamiliar subdivision and come out on the other side of the accident.

Since I was the first car in a line of increasing traffic, everyone decided to follow me. I made a right turn into the sub and turned left as soon as possible which had me going parallel to Sheldon. My caravan was behind me. At the first cross street, I made another left heading towards Sheldon. So did everyone else.

UNFORTUNATELY, the street I had chosen ended in a dead-end. I wouldn't have minded had I been alone, but I was now responsible for an entire entourage that followed me as I circled the little island at the end of the street and headed back to where I had started.

The hardest part was looking into the faces of the drivers near the end of the line as I was going back up the street while they had yet to circle the island.

It's bad enough that I'm going through life in a fog — it's downright embarrassing when I take so many people with me!

Teacher upset by film ban

To the editor:

The teachers and administrators of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools have long recognized and treasured the value of diverse opinions in their classrooms to challenge students' knowledge and values.

Controversy has often been the byword and a staple of the classroom in order to anger, persuade, or motivate students. In short, the staff recognized the value of Andre Gide's assertion that "Learning only takes place from what runs counter to you," and that conversely, relatively little occurs when students are presented with information already familiar to them or values which mirror their own.

This week in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools an overt act of censorship occurred which threatens our school system's academic and intellectual freedom. A dictate was delivered from district administrators banning the use of the film "Breakfast Club" in classrooms due to "the blatant and gratuitous use of profanity." Obviously, the censors equated the value of the film with the amount of "offensive language" found within it.

As a result of this decision, teachers no longer have the option of using this film in class, students of legal adult age are denied the right to view it as part of their education, and the decision of whether minor-aged students should be allowed to view the film has been wrested from their parents.

Censorship assumes a kind of arrogance by certain individuals that they know with certainty that their values are correct and moral and that contrary expressions are immoral and must be banned. There is nothing wrong with making choices but censors assume that they have the right to make choices for everyone.

In essence, the others, who in this case represent the majority, are being denied the right to an option to decide for themselves or for their children whether "Breakfast Club" should be viewed as a class assignment. Could there be a more blatant denial of our intellectual and/or academic freedom? — a more derogatory and abusive action taken against our ideal of the pluralistic society in which every citizen has equal rights to inform himself on all subjects and to exercise his own powers of reason?

Are the students we educate in Plymouth-Canton so fragile that their instilled values run the risk of dissolution in the presence of counter opinions?

Intellectual freedom demands that no assumption or opinion be silenced, regardless of its controversial nature. It is, in fact, an essential condition to the very premise of academic freedom that teachers, students, and parents have the opportunity to choose between rival and even controversial propositions, films, or books to determine their own course of action.

Our educational process should represent the democracy we espouse. The intolerance of a few should not dictate to and limit the choice of the many members of this community.

Respite center opens for short-term care

By Sue Mason
staff writer

Gerry Rowden of Westland is happy. So is Rose Malesky of Garden City.

They're happy because the Rose P. Kennedy Respite Center in Westland is back to doing what it does best — providing short-term care of developmentally disabled children and adults.

The center reopened last month after a short hiatus, much to the delight of parents of developmentally disabled people, who had been using the facility during the six years was operated by the Wayne-Westland Community Schools.

The school district closed the center in June as the result of money problems, but is leasing the center to Family and Neighborhood Services for Wayne County, a non-profit organization that services families and individuals in distress.

The center, on Marquette between Wayne Road and Newburgh, is designed to provide respite — a break — for families who care for developmentally disabled relatives. Its reopening was good news for Rowden, who used the center on numerous occasions.

"I can't say enough nice things about it," she said. "I'm a single parent, so it's a real big help for me. I was devastated when I heard it was closing."

This is FNS' first venture into respite care, but Barry Jaffe believes it's a "natural extension of what we already do."

"THIS IS a very needed service," said Jaffe, FNS vice president for programs. "What we hear continuously is that respite care is an essential support system for families with developmentally disabled persons. Respite care many times can determine if the developmentally disabled individual will be placed outside the home or kept at home."

The center is the largest staffed program offered by FNS to Wayne County residents. In addition to the program director, Cheryl Betz, the staff includes a registered nurse, the full-time resident manager — Rick Naughton — a consulting physician and cooks.

The program is geared to serve the broadest range of developmentally disabled people, including those who are medically fragile, have multiple handicaps or are in need of clinical intervention, Jaffe explained.

Developmentally disabled includes mental retardation, cerebral palsy, epilepsy, autism or a combination of those. A majority of the center's clients are mentally retarded, Jaffe explained.

The center serves as one of several respite care options available to families. The Northwest Guidance Clinic serves as the intake agency for respite care, which includes such programs as in-home respite, foster care, family friend and foster grandparent.

Families can use 30 days of respite care a year and "most use it strategically throughout the year, so that it is of benefit to them," Jaffe said.

"RESPITE CARE is a tremendous shot in the arm for a fatigued family," he added.

The cost of the service is determined by the family's annual income and the number of people dependent on it. Families also will be able to use Medicare and Medicaid coverage for personal care services, such as administering injections, toileting and other services administered by the center's staff under a plan developed by the physician and nurse.

Betz, who was resident manager of the center when it was operated by the school district, pointed out that there will be a "tremendous effort to have a normalized environment for the clients."

Meals will be served family style and the day's activities will include physical activities, quiet times, field trips and in-center activities.

The center can accommodate eight adults and eight children, although FNS is looking at getting a state license to also offer day care services, Jaffe said.

He describes that staff as "very caring and very devoted," pointing to Naughton, who with the help of his family, "did all the little things that needed to be done at the center to get a state license."

Cheryl Betz, program director, says there will be a "tremendous effort" to create a normal living environment at the center.

Learning by doing

SERIALS FOR TV students are getting hard on experience in the art and craft of television production.

The class, which is a joint effort by Omnicom's television division and the University of Maryland, is the first time that students have been offered the opportunity to produce a service on the television network.

The students have, each week, at the University of Maryland, been working on a 20-minute video tape, which will be shown on the network.

They do this for the whole thing.

from the ground up," said Maria Holmes, Omnicom's television division and program director. "The students are enrolled in the class and will be producing the show."

This is the first time that a service has been produced by a group of students. Several Omnicom staff members are teaching the class.

Holmes hopes the students will be able to produce the show at the end of the semester with a good understanding of the workings of cable television.

I hope that they will have a working knowledge of television equipment in general. The students should learn the basics of what it's like to work in cable television," she said.

THE STUDENTS in the Omnicom Television class have been working on programs that will be aired.

They like that personal satisfaction of seeing that," Holmes said.

The class began the week of Sept. 14 with a session on the history of cable television, its production and technical aspects and then tape.

The next day, the students spent the morning looking at the television, including the studio and video production, and then they spent the afternoon looking at the production of a television program.

During the week, they worked on the production of a television program, including the production of a television program.

Pain can point the way to recovery

By Julie Brown
staff writer

DESPITE ITS bad public image, there are things to be said for pain.

"Pain has always gotten a lot of bad press," said Nancy Thompson-Britton of the community relations department at Annapolis Hospital in Wayne. When pain strikes, the first thought is often how to get rid of it.

Pain does, however, have its uses.

"It's a signal," said Thompson-Britton, who is a registered nurse. "It communicates to us that an injury has taken place."

Pain forces the sufferer to slow down or even to stop moving, and to avoid further injury.

"It's a great motivator," Thompson-Britton told those attending Monday night's meeting of the Canton Business and Professional Women. Whether it's on a global level or on a personal one, pain motivates people to change for the better.

Pain also helps teach empathy, allowing us to get inside the emotional skin of other people.

"By being able to do that, you help to lift her burden."

THOMPSON-BRITTON spoke on "Stress Overload: Recognition and Recovery" during the Monday night Canton BPW meeting, held at the Roman Forum Restaurant in Canton.

Women in particular can be victims of stress overload, Thompson-Britton told those at the meeting. In trying to live up to the myth of "superwoman," stress overload can be the result.

There are only so many things you can juggle at once. When that load becomes an overwhelming one, depression is the result.

Depression is actually a normal, healthy and predictable response to significant emotional stress or injury.

Thompson-Britton told those at the meeting. She herself experienced depression. Despite having studied it and having worked with depressed patients, she found it to be a whole new ballgame.

"Until you experience it, it's not the same."

Thompson-Britton said that during the counseling she went through, what she was experiencing wasn't identified as depression. "There was so much of a component of fear, not understanding what it was."

All of us experience day to day ups and downs, Thompson-Britton said. It's important, however, to be able to distinguish between those and the symptoms of ongoing depression.

THE SYMPTOMS of stress overload are varied and often subtle. A loss of self-esteem and a tendency to be overly self-critical are common.

"Almost invariably, they will berate themselves," Thompson-Britton said of depressed people.

"We kick ourselves when we're down. We need to learn to hug ourselves and to be kind."

Depressed people may also worry about their inability to "snap out of it," Thompson-Britton said.

"You don't just snap out of a depression, any more than you snap out of pneumonia."

Physical complaints without any diagnosable basis are another symptom of stress overload. Backaches, headaches and stomach problems are frequent sources of such trouble, she said. "Often, the symptoms are treated." The underlying cause of the problems, however, frequently remains untreated.

Other symptoms of stress overload include:

- Loss of interest in sex, aversion to intimacy.
- Disruption in sleep habits.
- Change in appetite.
- Chronic fatigue.
- Irritability, anger.
- A tendency to procrastinate.
- Difficulty making decisions.
- Avoiding going out and meeting people.
- Difficulty communicating.

Halloween fun at the library

THERE WON'T be any shortage of Halloween fun this year at the Canton Public Library and the Dunning-Hough Library in Plymouth.

Both libraries have planned special Halloween programs for local youngsters. At the Canton Public Library, the fun includes sessions of music and stories with Pamela Vander Ploeg.

Vander Ploeg is a storyteller from Grand Haven, Mich. She's also a librarian and musician who has worked with children throughout Michigan.

A session for preschool children ages 3 to 5 will be held 2-2:45 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 29, in the meeting room of Township Hall, 1150 S. Canton Center Road, Canton. Children must attend with an adult.

Those participating may want to bring a blanket to sit on, according to Sheryl Mase-Brookens, children's librarian for the Canton Public Library.

Registration for the session will begin 10 a.m. Thursday, Oct. 23, in person or by telephone.

"These things go really quickly," said Mase-Brookens, suggesting early registration for the storytelling session.

"Space is limited. Hopefully we won't have to turn anybody away."

VANDER PLOEG will also have a library program for school-age youngsters in kindergarten and above. That program will be held 4:30-5:30 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 29, in the meeting room of Township Hall.

Registration for the program for school-age children will begin 10 a.m. Friday, Oct. 24, in person or by telephone.

The Dunning-Hough Library in Plymouth will have two Halloween programs. The first will be for children ages 4 to 8 and older who do not like scary stories. The program will be held 10:30-11:30 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 25, at the library, 223 S. Main St. in Plymouth.

The program will feature funny stories, crafts, games and treats.

The second program at the Dunning-Hough Library is for 8- to 12-year-olds who enjoy scary stories. It will include scary tales, crafts, games and treats.

The program will be held 7:30-8:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 23, at the Dunning-Hough Library.

Those participating in the Plymouth programs may wear costumes if they wish. Registration for the programs in person or by phone is continuing, with Monday, Oct. 20, the registration deadline.

"We have to cut it off at a certain point," said Kathy Petlewski, children's librarian at the Dunning-Hough Library.

ALTHOUGH THE younger children enjoy wearing Halloween costumes, the older youngsters generally don't, Petlewski said. She wasn't positive that library staff members would wear costumes for the Halloween activities.

"The staff may or may not be. We will be in the spirit, let me put it that way," the librarian said with a laugh.

In addition to the Halloween programs, both libraries have appropriate books and decorations on display for young readers.

"It's incredible how much they circulate," the Canton Public Library's Mase-Brookens said. Children begin to check out the Halloween books in September, she said, and continue to look for them right up to the magical day.

The Halloween books and other materials are also popular at the Dunning-Hough Library, Petlewski said.

"They have been checking them out for weeks now," she said. "We have them for all ages."

In addition to Halloween fiction, "how-to" books with a Halloween theme are also found at the Dunning-Hough Library. Those books cover such things as decorating pumpkins, creating costumes and fixing Halloween treats, Petlewski said.

The Halloween season at the library in Plymouth will be the first one for Petlewski, who joined the staff in August.

"It's going to be a new experience for me, too."

(For additional information, call the Canton Public Library, 397-0999, or the Dunning-Hough Library, 453-0750.)

The students began by putting batteries and tapes into the decks. "You can see they're kind of beat up, but they're working great," Martin said of the equipment.

After checking to see if the batteries were charged, the students practiced working with the camera and other equipment.

Canton Township's Stan Socha is one of the students enrolled in the class at Omnicom. Socha works for Michigan Bell and is interested in getting into Bell's video department. "I've been having fun," he said of the television production class. "I enjoy working with cameras."

Socha does professional photography, including weddings, parties and portraits.

"If it can be shot, I'll shoot it," he said.

Omnicom regularly teaches a "portapak" workshop, which covers approximately one-third of the material in the Community Education class.

"It's a little different for us," said Holmes, the community affairs and program director. "We had to do a lot more preparation."

Student Chris Thomas watches the monitors in the control room at Omnicom.

Together, there's so much good we can do.

The first step in dealing with depression is recognizing the need for recovery, Thompson-Britton said. It's important to limit changes in life at that point, to keep decision-making to a minimum and to avoid taking on new responsibilities. "Our energy stores are limited," she said. Those who are depressed need to identify what drains the battery — and what recharges it.

REGULAR EXERCISE has the most dramatic and immediate effect on those who are depressed, she said. Vigorous exercise triggers the release of endorphins, which act as natural painkillers.

Depressed people also need to get adequate rest and to eat nutritious meals. It's best to limit consumption of alcohol, sugar and caffeine, she said.

"Alcohol is a depressant. It will only make it worse," Reliance on drugs should also be avoided.

Doing a "bug inventory" is a good way to identify sources of stress overload, Thompson-Britton said. Making a list of things that bug you — and then dividing those according to whether they can be changed — is a good idea.

"It's a good emotional housecleaning, and I would suggest you do it once a year."

Giving yourself something to anticipate is also helpful, she said. It's also a good idea to have a "comfort zone" at home.

"It's like a nest." The area should be physically comfortable, visually pleasing and as stress-free as possible.

Those who are depressed should know when to go for help. It's essential not to wait until you're half-dead, Thompson-Britton told those at the Canton BPW meeting.

"It's easily treatable," she said of depression.

Those who are abusing alcohol or drugs, or who have thoughts of suicide, need to get help promptly.

"You need to know that you don't have to feel that way."

Cast announced for Neil Simon comedy

The Plymouth Theatre Guild has announced the selection of cast members for the upcoming production of Neil Simon's "Plaza Suite."

The comedy in three acts will be presented Nov. 7, 8, 14 and 15, at Cental Middle School in Plymouth.

Cast members are: Cathy Fife of Canton as Karen Nash; Robert Regan of Westland as Sam Nash and as Borden Eisler; Elizabeth Martin of Farmington Hills as Jean McCormack, "the other woman"; Bill Regan of Ypsilanti, the bellhop; Tom Hinks as Jesse Kiplinger; Nancy Schuster of Livonia as Muriel Tate; Michael Gresock of Canton as Roy Hubley; Patti Jones of Westland as Norma Hubley; and Delaine Williams of Westland as Mimsey Hubley.

Directors for the PTG production of "Plaza Suite" are Gerald L'Heureux, Joan Washburn and Patricia Gresock.

The first act of "Plaza Suite" involves Karen and Sam Nash, a couple married 24 years, or perhaps 23 years, returning to their honeymoon suite. Cathy Fife, who will play Karen Nash, is remembered by American Association of University Women audiences for her title roles in "Peter Pan" and "Hansel and Gretel," as well as Dorothy in "The Wizard of Oz."

ROBERT REGAN, who will play Sam Nash, appeared most recently with the PTG as Basil Barrington in "For Her Che-I-Id's Sake." He has also appeared in a number of roles with the Schoolcraft Players and has appeared with the Theatre Guild of Livonia/Redford.

Elizabeth Martin will appear in the first act as "the other woman," Jean McCormack. She has worked with the Schoolcraft Players and the Henry Ford Players and originated the role of Sissy for the cable soap opera "Raine Daise."

In the second act, a famous Hollywood producer, Jesse Kiplinger, plans a rendezvous with Muriel Tate, his high school sweetheart. Tom Hinks, who will play Kiplinger, has been with the PTG for a number of years, most recently appearing as the villain Gaylord Duckworth in "For Her Che-I-Id's Sake."

Hinks has also appeared with the Theatre Guild of Livonia/Redford, Greenfield Village Players and Nancy Gerahwin productions.

Nancy Schuster brings an extensive background of screen and stage experience to the role of Muriel Tate. Her credits include feature films and commercials for Warner Brothers, MGM and Universal studios, among others. Her favorite stage role was that of Snow White in an Englewood, Calif., production.

THE THIRD act of "Plaza Suite" involves Norma and Roy Hubley, two anxious parents trying to coax their daughter, Mimsey, out of the bathroom on her wedding day. Michael Gresock, who will play Roy Hubley, has appeared in several area television commercials. He appeared as Howard in "Picnic" and as Solomon Bozo in "Everybody Loves Opal" with the Plymouth Theatre Guild.

Patti Jones, who will play Norma Hubley, has had roles with the Spotlight Players, Theatre Guild of Livonia/Redford, Oakland University and Wayne Summer Theatre.

Delaine Williams will make her PTG debut in the role of Mimsey Hubley, the shy bride.

Suburb-city rhetoric deadly

COLEMAN YOUNG and L. Brooks Patterson are at it again. Mayor Young said some things in a TV interview that L. Brooks Patterson didn't like. Then Oakland County Prosecutor Patterson said some things that Coleman Young didn't like. And so it goes.

We shouldn't be surprised at their latest exchange. Young and Patterson are so much alike they obviously get in each other's way. Young wants everyone in Detroit to keep their hands off for protection against the suburbs. Patterson wants to execute everyone committing a crime against suburbanites. Both want to protect themselves from the others' population. They claim handguns and capital punishment are their best tools.

Coleman Young and L. Brooks Patterson deserve each other. Their feud makes news. Two grown adults in responsible positions exchanging inflammatory rhetoric are always noteworthy. Unfortunately it is very deadly.

moral perspectives

WHETHER HANDGUNS should be allowed or not is hardly the issue. Whether the state has the right to take life or not is hardly the issue. The fact is that the use of both handguns and capital punishment has been so abused that the survival of the population is now a legitimate concern. If Young and Patterson have their way, they might just destroy the population to save it.

Young and Patterson are elected officials. Even more frightening than their feud is the possibility that they are representative of their constituency. Public officials out of synch with their populace do not last long in office.

For whatever reason, we have lost our way. We no longer know who we are and what we are to be about. The life we seek in community is disintegrating around us. One side wants to use handguns. The other side wants to use capital punishment. What possible role model is there for those who follow after?

Perhaps we should thank Young and Patterson for illustrating our deeper dilemma in community life. Perhaps they represent our loss of hope and patience. The disintegration we fear may have already come.

Services to welcome church's new minister

Special services at 4 p.m. Sunday will welcome the Rev. Carl E. Pagel as new minister to St. Paul Evangelical Lutheran Church, 17810 Farmington, Livonia.

The Rev. Daniel Gieschen, chairman of the Wisconsin Synod of Lutheran churches and pastor of St. Stephen Evangelical Lutheran Church in Adrian, Mich., will be guest speaker.

A native of Wisconsin, Pagel graduated from Wisconsin Lutheran Seminary in 1967.

He served as pastor of a Wisconsin Synod mission church in Baltimore for 11 years before serving as pastor of Bethlehem Lutheran Church in Hortonville, Wis., from 1978 until his present appointment at St. Paul. His vicar year during his theological training was spent at St. Peter Evangelical Lutheran Church in Plymouth.

He and his wife, Louise, have four children, Paul, 17, David, 15, Christine, 13, and Elizabeth, 11. They will reside in Livonia.

The Rev. Carl E. Pagel new minister

County considers residential recycling plan

By Teri B. Staff writer

Imagine having to become neater about your garbage. On pick-up day, there you'd be, hauling out separate containers for your collected cans, bottles and newspapers, set aside for curbside pick-up from the routine household trash.

Recycling programs operate in 340 communities across the country, as near as Ann Arbor.

A report, outlining a similar plan for several suburban communities, including Livonia and Plymouth and Canton townships, has been presented to a Wayne County solid waste committee, the county's approval body for refuse disposal plans.

A subcommittee of the 13-member group will study the report and make recommendations for its use, said county planning chief Maurice Roach, a liaison to the committee.

"The obvious problem is a question of volume and our ability to deal with the capacity to dispose of our waste," he said.

"This (report) now allows us to go to the municipalities and say if you're interested in doing this, this is what it's going to take and then decide at what level you're going to pay."

The report, prepared for the Michigan Department of Natural Resources by five private consultants at a cost of $30,000, outlined solutions to the county's solid waste problems. The state's Clean Michigan Fund paid for this and similar studies in 10 other counties.

Wayne County communities dispose of an estimated 3.3 million tons of garbage a year. Landfills in Wayne County are expected to be filled in five to seven years.

Besides a household recycling program, the report recommends that office workers in the City-County Building also recycle their office paper waste.

Chief consultant Jerry Powell, a trade publication editor from Oregon, said that papers, cans and bottles were found to have the best recycling opportunities in this area and that the program would work best in high density suburbs where interest for recycling has already been offered.

The report recommends that Livonia, Plymouth Township, Canton Township, Dearborn Heights, Allen Park, Romulus, Brownstown Township, the Grosse Pointe communities and Harper Woods begin such efforts.

LOCAL OFFICIALS say the real test will come in determining just how much it will cost to operate a local recycling service and whether market demands will be high enough to accommodate collected recyclables.

At least one public official attending a report briefing last week balked when Powell noted, "financing is a local government issue."

Said Plymouth Township supervisor Maurice Breen: "I don't think to the average homeowner it makes much difference. If you tell me I'm saving a little time down the road (on landfill capacities) to keep separating trash at the household and paying money to do it... and in return defray the cost to the trash hauler, then my answer is to develop a long-term solution now."

According to the report, up to eight percent of what's disposed of by local households would be diverted from a landfill based on a 70 percent participation rate. At the low end, with 30 percent participation, some 4 percent of the amount of trash would be diverted, the report estimates.

TO DETERMINE what it would cost a local community to run a recycling program, Powell said they examined Dearborn Heights and Brownstown Townships as case studies. In Dearborn Heights, for instance, a community of more than 23,000 housing units, costs would exceed the amount of revenues generated from the sale of recycled products by more than two-thirds.

Operating costs were projected from $152,000 to $237,500, depending on low and high participation, with $38,400 to $89,700 raised in recycled materials.

Even so, Powell said, the per household subsidy would be modest, or between $5.20 to $6.70 for a full year.

"Recycling in more and more communities is being seen as a service. It does cost money," Powell said. "But in many communities, it serves as a savings on landfill space."

Powell also disputed claims that residents would be unwilling to pay recycling costs. Noting a Market Opinion Research poll conducted in March 1984, he said that 80 percent of Michigan residents said they would fund a recycling program if the costs were around $5 a year, and that 65 percent agreed even if the per household cost jumped to $10 a year.

Those costs were in line with the Dearborn Heights findings, he said.

IN ANN ARBOR, home of the "Recycle Ann Arbor" program, the community provides curbside recycling largely because the city operates its own garbage pick-up and landfill operation. The incentive behind the program there is not just environmentally based, said Powell, but because the city dump is quickly running out of room.

In Ann Arbor, a government grant funds the program, which is operated with 300 volunteers.

According to "Recycle Ann Arbor" literature, last year the program collected 2,000 tons of recycled material, equating to a savings of 28,600 trees, 3,000 barrels of oil and 47 tons of "avoided air pollutants."

Starlings - a success story

By Timothy Nowicki
special writer

IN 1890 fewer than a dozen starlings were introduced to New York City's Central Park. It has taken less than 100 years for Sturnus vulgaris to move across the United States.

Although today they are one of the most common birds in the United States, starlings actually are native to Europe, Eurasia and Africa. There are approximately 107 different species of starling in the world.

Many species have bold color patterns that give them striking appearances. Supurb starlings that I saw in Kenya have an iridescent black chest, a chestnut belly and a white band between the chest and belly.

OUR STARLING is not as spectacular, but its plumage does exhibit some interesting characteristics.

When spring arrives in southeastern Michigan, starlings have a black iridescent plumage, red legs and a bright yellow bill. If you look closely, you'll see that females have a yellow ring around the iris of the eye. Otherwise males and females are identical.

nature notes

Contributing to the success of the starling around the U.S. is their ability to raise two broods of young per year.

Young starlings soon feeding with the adults are a dull gray and generally nondescript. They may be easily confused with young brown-headed cowbirds, which are similar in color.

AS SUMMER draws near, both the young and adults undergo a molt of their feathers. Molting of feathers in birds is a gradual process so that it doesn't affect the survival of the individual.

IT'S A BOY!

New drug can control psoriasis

A new drug tested at the University of Michigan is a major advance in the treatment of the skin disorder psoriasis.

The worse the patient's psoriasis, the more effective the drug appears to be," said Dr. Charles N. Ellis, co-principal investigator.

Testing by researchers at the U-M Medical Center has shown that the drug, etretinate (pronounced "e-TRE-tin-ate"), is a major advance in the treatment of severe psoriasis.

THE FEDERAL Food and Drug Administration recently approved the drug for use by physicians across the country.

Approval followed studies at the U-M Medical Center and other major tests by the University of Utah, Northwestern University and the University of California at Los Angeles.

Etretinate has undergone seven years of clinical research by faculty at the U-M Medical School.

"This is a powerful drug that represents a substantial advance in the treatment of our patients with severe, recalcitrant psoriasis," said Dr. John J. Voorhees, chairman of dermatology and co-principal investigator in the U-M Medical Center study.

PSORIASIS IS a disorder of the skin that causes scaly, red patches.

Severe psoriasis is a chronic skin disease that causes reddening, scabbing, itching, and pus formation all over the body and can be life-threatening.

Etretinate therapy is designed for patients with this type of the disease, who cannot be improved satisfactorily by standard therapies. However, until now, severe psoriasis has been extremely difficult to treat.

Severe psoriasis affects approximately 5 to 10 percent of persons with psoriasis in the United States. About 500,000 to one million individuals may be eligible for the new drug.

"SINCE ETRETINATE does not represent a cure for psoriasis," Dr. Voorhees said, "we will continue to use it in combination with other older forms of treatment."

Traditional treatments for severe psoriasis include coal tar products, steroid creams, ultra-violet light and methotrexate.

Etretinate, which will be available only by prescription, should be in pharmacies by December. It is manufactured by Hoffman-LaRoche Inc. of Nutley, N.J.

Patients wanting further information about etretinate should call the U-M at 764-2220 in Ann Arbor.

SIDE EFFECTS from the new drug, such as increased fats in the blood, can be controlled by diet.

"A young woman capable of bearing children may not take the drug unless she is practicing completely effective contraception," Dr. Voorhees said.

Of the more than 50 patients in the U-M study, all had been in the hospital at least twice each year for three and four weeks at a time for clearance of severe psoriasis using standard treatments.

Since using the drug, only one patient in the U-M study has been hospitalized for psoriasis.

Joe Blauvelt of Ypsilanti was told of the potential side effects when he went to the U-M Dermatology Department for treatment when the study began, but for him there was only one choice.

"They say psoriasis won't kill you, but if you have it, you wish you were dead," Blauvelt said. "That pretty much sums it up for me. I was one big sore from head to toe. At that point, I would try anything."

Seven years later, all that is left of Blauvelt's psoriasis are a few small painless spots on his arms. "Without this drug, I wouldn't have been able to work or do anything," Blauvelt said. "It has been very helpful."

'This is a powerful drug that represents a substantial advance in the treatment of our patients with severe, recalcitrant psoriasis.'

High wages translates to big spending

Business leaders predict continued growth, expansion

By Carolyn Smith
special writer

Business leaders should pay attention to the demands of consumers in southeastern Michigan because they have some of the strongest buying power in the nation.

That message came out loud and clear at an Oct. 7 business conference at the University of Detroit, which was co-sponsored by the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce and U-D's Kellstadt Consumer Research Center.

Laurence S. Rosen, state demographer for the Michigan Department of Management and Budget, said the eight-county southeastern Michigan area has 4.6 million people whose disposable income last year was about $52.5 billion. In addition to the tri-county area, his study includes Monroe, Washtenaw, Livingston, St. Clair and Lapeer counties.

Rosen said the area's heavy concentration of manufacturing and high-wage scales makes it "a substantially wealthier market area than the nation as a whole." Last year, southeastern Michigan was ranked as the country's sixth largest market.

BY THE YEAR 2000, the area will add 200,000 people, boosting buying power to $72.5 billion, Rosen said. There will be substantial growth in the number of people over 65 and single-mother households, as well as a significant decline in 15- to 24-year-olds.

Wayne County is expected to lose 6 percent of its population, mostly in Detroit. The other counties should grow in population, including a gain in Oakland County by 12.6 percent.

About 600 metro-Detroit businesses and consumers are generally positive about the area's future, according to Oswald Mascarenhas, a marketing professor at the University of Detroit.

IN A WRITTEN questionnaire measuring 56 predictions and conclusions, Mascarenhas said both segments were highly optimistic that metro Detroit over the next five years will:

- continue to be a better place to work and live;
- have more business expansions;
- have more discount and off-price stores; and
- offer retaining of more unskilled workers at area schools, colleges and universities.

But business leaders and consumers expressed concerns about other trends that may forecast that:

- increased automation will result in more unemployment of the unskilled;
- there could be more poverty and crime in metro Detroit;
- price may be a major deciding factor for major retail purchases; and

• suburban residents will not prefer to shop downtown.

Area business executives said they recognize the importance of matching supplies and services with demands in the marketplace.

FREDERICK MARX, president of Marx Management Co. in Birmingham, told conference participants that the consumer should be thought of as the "czar or czarina who can buy products elsewhere and (therefore) should be given the red-carpet treatment."

Frank Fraser Jr., senior vice president of automotive marketing for Campbell-Ewald, a Warren advertising firm, cautioned that car buyers will be looking at the "worth ethic," meaning "price is what you pay and value is what you get."

Praising the Japanese automakers for well-designed vehicles and sound marketing strategy, Fraser said, "I hope domestic managements can do as well as their Japanese counterparts. I hope they can do even better."

Thomas Adams, vice president of marketing for Taubman Co. in Bloomfield Hills, stressed that today's consumer is far more discriminating than in the past. He predicted that many retailers will have to redefine their marketplaces.

The banking industry will experience more consolidations and mergers, said John Barnard, vice president and director of business and banking analysis at National Bank of Detroit.

"We will identify new locations for banks, even in Detroit where we've closed a lot of offices. There is a lot more competition in banking today, and we're always looking at pockets of opportunity," Barnard said.

IN A NATIONAL outlook, Sandra Shaber, vice president of consumer economics of Chase Econometrics, said the shift from a manufacturing to a service economy is helping to create more two-income households and women in the labor force.

But incomes from lower paying service jobs are not replacing the higher wages many people used to earn in manufacturing.

"For every 25-year-old earning $250,000 on Wall Street, there are 100 flipping hamburgers," she said. Productivity is declining, while wages are not keeping pace with inflation.

Such trends have the effect of shrinking the middle class, Shaber said, suggesting "the rich may be getting richer and the poor, poorer."

Witness calls Stoddard expenses 'piddling'

By Tim Richard
special writer

A volunteer expert witness said entertainment and house repair expenses of the sort Stanford C. Stoddard charged to Michigan National Corp. were "normal, proper, prudent and necessary."

"They were not perquisites," Peter H. Burgher testified in Stoddard's trial before a federal administrative law judge.

"They were ordinary expenses to free his body to do what it does best," said Burgher, a retired certified public accountant from Utica.

IN AN OFF-STAND interview Burgher said he read news accounts of government allegations against Stoddard early in the two-month trial.

"I talked to heads of major banks, heads of law firms and some businessmen, who uniformly supported that I should testify... against irresponsible statements about unsafe and unsound banking practices," said Burgher. He then volunteered his testimony to Stoddard's attorneys.

Retired since 1979, Burgher is author of two books and testifies regularly as an expert witness. He considers executive compensation in his field of expertise. Under governmental cross-examination Burgher said he wasn't being paid in this case.

Government lawyers said afterwards that Burgher's testimony rebutted things they hadn't alleged. "There was nothing at odds" with the government's case, said federal attorney Ellen Broadman.

STODDARD, 55, of Birmingham, was a board chairman of the state's third largest bank holding company and two of its subsidiaries until mid-1984, when he was pressured to resign during a federal investigation.

The U.S. Comptroller of the Currency seeks to fine him $500,000 and bar him for life from working in federally-insured financial institutions.

His hearing in the Ann Arbor Federal Building is due to be wrapped up this week by exhibits and arguments.

Then Thomas Jones, an administrative law judge from Grand Rapids, is expected to take two months to decide whether to issue the comptroller's orders.

BURGHER SAID he was treasurer of the Founders Society of Detroit Institute of Arts in the '70s and early '80s when Stoddard was board chairman of that private group.

"I'm not a close acquaintance," he added.

Stoddard's attorneys asked Burgher a series of hypothetical questions about a bank holding company with assets of $6 billion which made contributions of building materials of up to $34,000 a year to churches. The description fitted Michigan National Corp. and its donations to several Mormon churches across the state.

Burgher called the gifts "not material, given the size of the institution." He defined a "material" expense as one affecting 10 percent of a bank's earnings.

"Piddling," Burgher said time after time as he was asked questions about the bank chief executive's expenditures on church gifts, his own two residences and business entertainment expenses at family weddings.

"A shareholder would not see the effect on his earnings per share," he said.

What kind of expense would be unreasonable? he was asked.

"A polo pony farm... $1 million a year," he explained.

CITING STATE law which says an employee cannot be forced to spend money to hold a job, Burgher said the hypothetical banker "did exactly what he should have done. He separated personal from business expenses."

Asked about spending corporate funds to entertain at a daughter's wedding, Burgher said, "People have gotta know they're coming (to the wedding) because they're an important customer — it's not love."

As for bank's employees doing work on an executive's house, Burgher likened it to a secretary who manages the executive's civic, personal and business schedule.

The CPA said that $31,000 of work on an executive's residence used for business entertaining shouldn't be viewed as accruing to his personal benefit, but should be "offset against other valid expenses of the bank" in wooing depositors and customers.

IN EARLIER testimony this week, a former MNC executive denied Stoddard had pressured him into changing an auditor's report to delete a key recommendation.

David Searles of Birmingham said he ordered deletion of a section labeled "lack of written policies and procedures" from a draft audit of MNC's buildings and properties division.

B&P, as it's called, is the division whose workers made the controversial modifications of Stoddard's homes in Birmingham and on Lake Michigan.

Searles, who was president of MNB-West Oakland in Novi in 1981-82, was a vice president of the holding company and head of its audit section when the audit of B&P was performed in 1983. He now is with Franklin Savings & Loan.

He said that when he and others discussed the audit with Howard Cochran, B&P head, in fall of 1983, "Cochran became somewhat agitated" and left the room for a time.

By the end of the 1½-hour meeting, however, Searles said they agreed that written policies and procedures would be developed.

ABOUT 9 that night, Searles said he got a call at home from Stoddard, who asked, "What was wrong with Howard?"

"Initially, I did not feel anybody had done anything to agitate Cochran, said Searles, who admitted he was "set back" by Stoddard's unusual late-hour call.

Searles said he eliminated the criticism of lack of written policies "thinking of the individual involved. I was giving him the benefit of the doubt. I thought it was more tactful to handle that way."

He added, "The audit objective had been achieved."

Stoddard's attorney, Richard Roberts, asked, "Did you say Stoddard compromised you by asking you to delete that material?"

"No," Searles answered.

Link between working teens, drug use disputed

By Carolyn Smith
special writer

Are teenagers who work more than 15 to 20 hours a week more inclined to spend their money on non-essential items, including drugs, than their peers working fewer hours or not at all?

A University of Michigan researcher claims that's a "reasonable assumption." But area high school and drug abuse counselors dispute the link between a working teen's income and purchase of illegal substances.

Dr. Gerald G. Bachman, project director of annual surveys of high school seniors at U-M's Institute for Social Research, said he has studied the buying habits of teens since the mid-1970s.

Three years ago, Bachman wrote in the ISR publication "Economic Outlook USA" that "premature affluence" of teens working long hours had negative effects, including "diminished involvement with school, family and peers, as well as increased use of cigarettes and marijuana... Drug use is positively associated with the number of hours worked in part-time jobs."

DOES FURTHER research point to different conclusions? Bachman said no.

"We never asked them (teens) about spending on drugs. We looked at hours worked, money earned and drug use. We concluded that the more hours worked, the more money spent on drugs. I think that's a reasonable assumption," Bachman said in a recent interview.

His studies since 1983 also show that most high school seniors working long (15-20) hours began using marijuana in the eighth grade.

AREA COUNSELORS didn't deny that a teen's working long hours means more income to buy non-essential things, but they disagreed that drugs are prevalent among them.

Janice Cotter, program manager for Maple Grove Youth Treatment Center, West Bloomfield, deals with many youths with chemical dependencies. Maple Grove is the only residential treatment center for teens in the tri-county area.

"When drugs or alcohol become problematic, among the first things to go are school and job performance," Cotter said. She added that those who want to use drugs or alcohol will always find the money.

"Having more money certainly increases the risks of buying more jeans, candy or even drugs."

Salem High School, agrees.

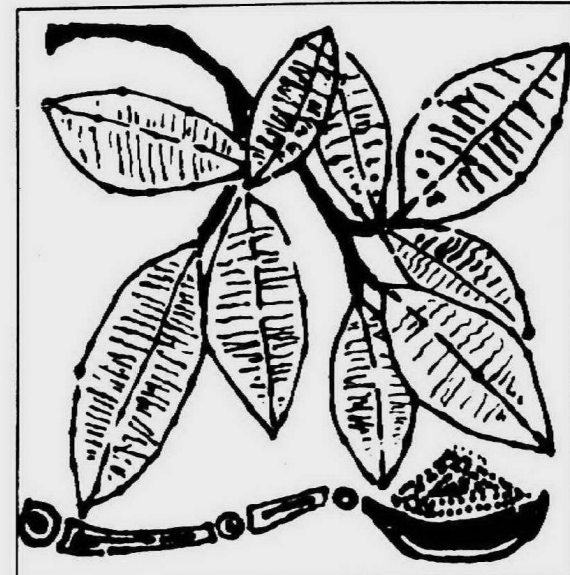

"If I'm chemically dependent, it doesn't matter whether I work 10 hours per week or 50. I'll always come up with the money. There's a million things kids can do to get drugs," she said.

"Teens are among the 10 percent of our nation's total population that has drug or alcohol addiction. A major symptom is inability to get and hold a job... (Bachman's study) seems to refute the fact that chemical dependency is a disease."

Louis Ruggirello, head counselor for 13 of his 17 years at Lahser High School in the Bloomfield Hills School District, said youngsters who work tend to get better grades than those who don't.

"His (Bachman's) slam is on the kid who has a hard-work ethic. His conclusions would seem to be self-defeating to the youngster with initiative, drive and motivation," Ruggirello said.

He also questioned the study's timeliness. "Social trends among teens change from year to year, and that's what I think the study fails to address. A good kid, no matter how many hours he's working, is fairly secure, has strong family ties and an ego strong enough to say no to drugs."

Are home equity loans worth the risk?

Each year homeowners tap more than $3.5 trillion in loans based on the equity in their homes. The money provides ready cash for a variety of uses, including home improvements, education, medical expenses, new cars and more. But these loans also put at risk what is probably their single most valuable asset — their homes.

Equity is the market value of your home after subtracting what you owe on any outstanding mortgages. Many homeowners are reluctant to borrow against this because it usually represents their largest financial cushion.

How do home equity loans work? Many have different names coined by the institution offering them, but these loans, as well as second mortgages, basically are backed by the value of the borrower's house.

Although the amount you can borrow is determined by the lender, some institutions will allow their customers to borrow up to 80 percent of their home's appraised value, less the amount owed on the home.

There are two basic types of home equity loans, open-end and closed-end. An open-end loan is actually a line of credit which can be drawn upon at any time by using checks and sometimes credit practically speaking cards up to the limit of the loan. With a closed-end loan, you borrow the entire amount all at once.

Before you commit to making an equity loan, you should ask these questions:

- What are the fees? An equity loan is similar to a second mortgage with many of the same fees. There are application fees, annual fees and the cost for the closing. Many lenders also charge up-front fees in the form of points. Find out how much these and other fees will add to the total cost of the loan.
- Is the interest rate fixed or variable? If you choose a variable rate, your payments will fluctuate to match the current interest rates that your lending institution charges. Make sure you know how often the rate can fluctuate and by how many interest points.
- How are payments applied against the loan?

Every time you make a payment, you are paying a portion to the principal, the actual loan amount, and a portion to pay the interest. Know what these portions are and ask if you can make early payments on the principal. This will help to shorten the loan's repayment schedule and save on the amount of interest you have to pay. Sometimes pre-payments are subject to penalties, so find out what they are.

• Can the loan be "called" if you sell your house? When you take out a loan to buy a house, the bank has some control over what you can do with it. If you decide to sell you might have to settle these obligations which might require paying off the entire loan.

HOW WILL THE new tax reform affect equity loans? Interest deductions will only be allowed under certain circumstances. If the loan or mortgage is greater than the purchase price of your house plus the cost of any improvements you have made, it will no longer be deductible unless the extra money is being used for improvements on the house itself and for other specific items.

ATTENTION: Real Estate Investors
REAL ESTATE AND THE NEW TAX LAWS

If you have questions about your present real estate holdings and how they fit into the new tax laws, you have approximately sixty days left in 1986 to reposition or restructure your investments.

PaineWebber invites you to attend a special real estate investment seminar designed specifically for the owner of real assets.

Seminar topics include:

- Repositioning or updating your current real estate holdings
- How to benefit from the new tax laws
- Developing a real estate portfolio for the future

Speaker: Sandra T. King
Investment Executive

Ms. King is an expert in the area of real estate investing. She is licensed in real estate by the State of Michigan, is a member of the National Board of Realtors and was a corporate relocation specialist. She has taught finance and real estate in addition to having extensive experience in mortgage banking and real estate finance.

Seminars must match your goal

By Sid Mittra
special writer

Recently, one of my seminar attendees, who had attended several other financial planning seminars, called me to share his frustration. "When I attended your seminar," John said, "I felt I was beginning to learn something. However, as I attended other seminars, I got progressively more confused."

"Now I feel I am back to square one."

This is sad, especially since you can attend a seminar almost every day of the week, most of which are offered either free or at a nominal cost.

However, you will undoubtedly be frustrated if you are not selective. Here is a case in point.

Recently I was invited to attend two seminars. The first one was organized by a limited partnership, which claimed to provide an objective overview of the impact of the new tax law on real estate limited partnerships.

Unfortunately, the speaker merely concentrated on why the attendees should buy their partnership units.

The second seminar, offered by a Big Eight CPA firm, was truly outstanding in its coverage of the new tax law.

Here are some pointers on how to select a good seminar.

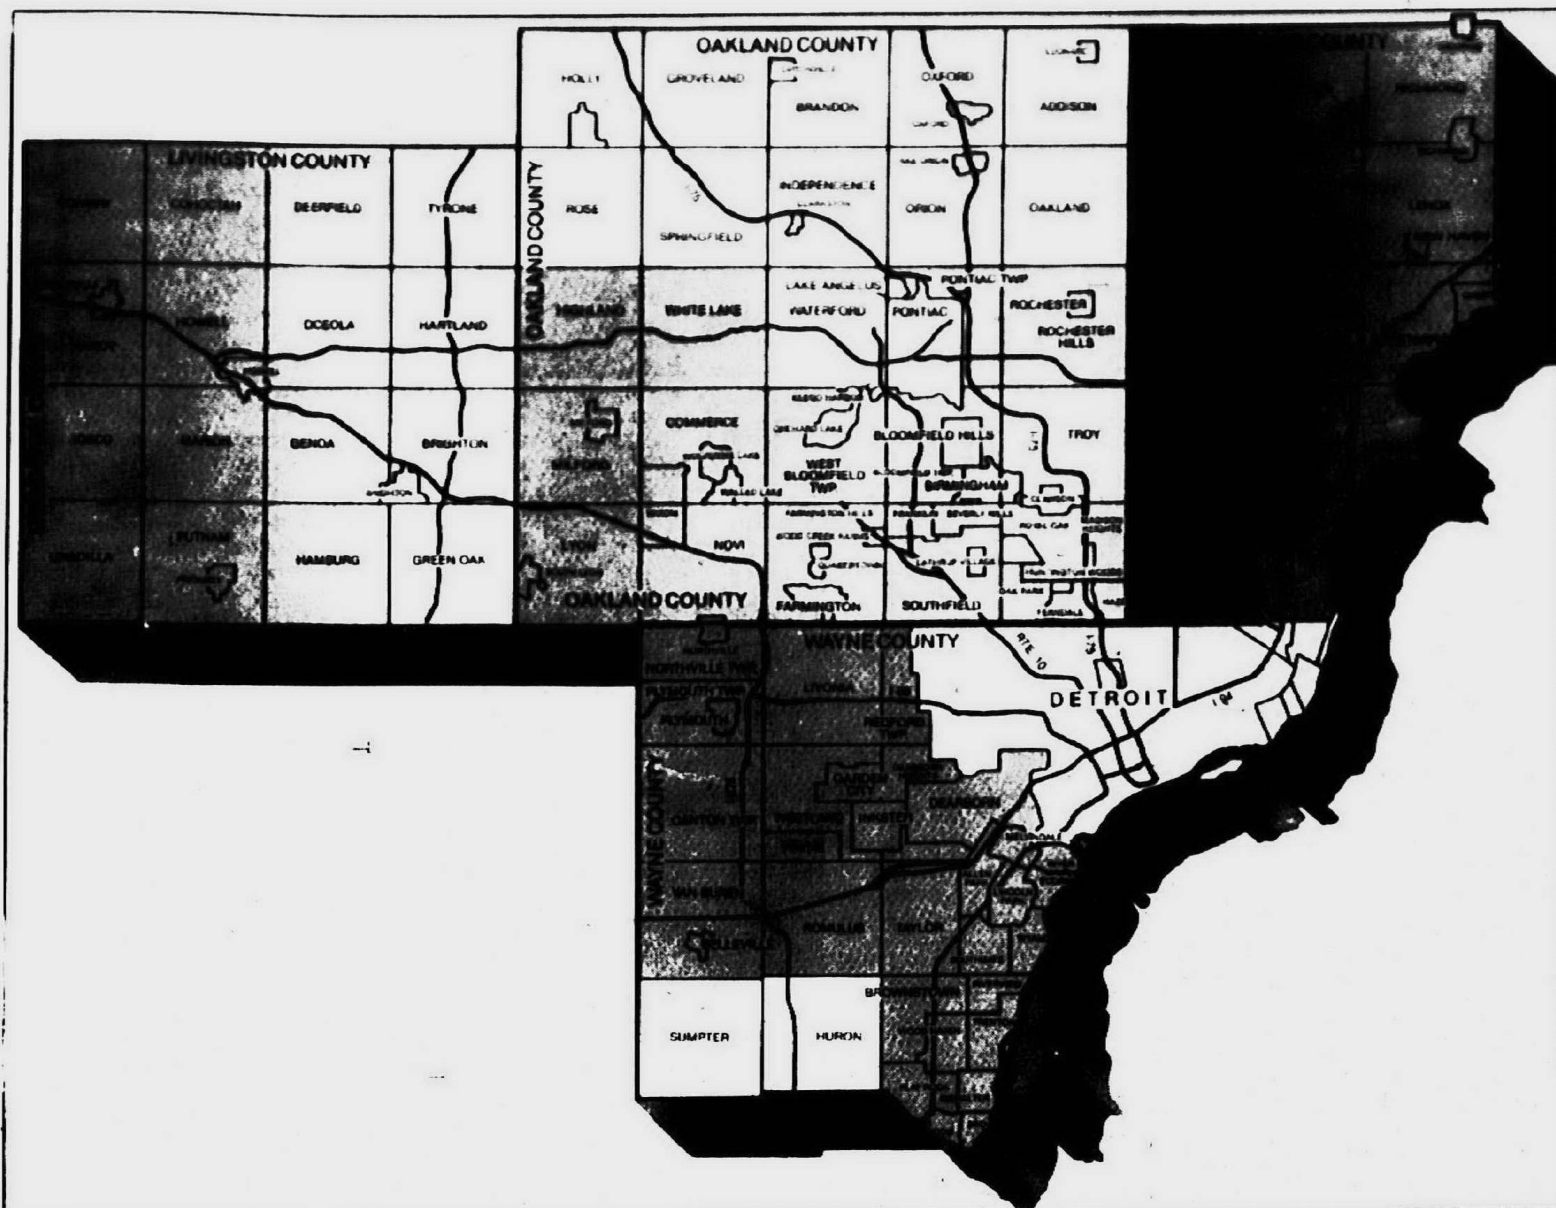

The stated objective. Make sure that the objective of the seminar coincides with what you are looking for. For instance, if you are looking for answers to your retirement problem and the seminar is on tax shelters, you should not attend.

Speaker's qualifications. Check out the qualifications of the speaker. A financial planner should be a CFP, an active member of the International Association for Financial Planning, (preferably) admitted to the Registry of Financial Planning Practitioners and an established financial planning practitioner.

Multipurpose seminar. If the seminar claims to offer a variety of choices, make sure these are clearly specified and are conducted with high levels of professionalism.

Post-seminar service. Inquire how much it costs to make a follow-up visit. Some charge for the first visit, some don't. Both policies are fine, provided you feel you have received value from the service.

The all-day seminar will be held Saturday, Oct. 25, at the Troy Hilton. You may obtain more information on this seminar by calling 524-9020 (if busy call 355-9017).

SPRING's 52-newspaper network is represented by the shaded areas on the map, covering almost every suburban community around Detroit.

O&E joins suburban press network

Publishers of 52 newspapers covering suburban communities around Detroit have formed a network to provide advertisers greater suburban circulation than The Detroit News or Free Press at a lower cost per thousand.

Called SPRING — an acronym for Suburban Press Ring — it claims market penetration of more than a half-million households with more than 1,250,000 readers. The network, which encompasses Wayne, Oakland, Macomb and Livingston counties, includes the Observer & Eccentric, Mellus/News-Herald, Associated and Advisor newspapers, the Dearborn Press and Guide group, Sliger/Livingston Publications, the Macomb Daily and The Daily Tribune.

According to audited circulation figures, SPRING holds an advantage over both the News and Free Press in almost all areas except for the city of Detroit. In the suburban areas, SPRING's circulation is 500,591, compared to 402,453 for the News and 318,958 for the Free Press.

Until now, the usual way to reach the Detroit suburban market through display advertising was to buy the metro Detroit dailies, which only cover a part of each area, according to Jerry W. Ballenger, director for SEM Newspaper Corp., a SPRING member. If an advertiser's readers live in the suburbs, work in the suburbs or shop in the suburbs, SPRING suburban newspapers will reach more of these people for less money, he said.

Slow but sure Salem walks past rival Chiefs

By Chris McCosky
staff writer

This could have made WNIC's Pil-low Talk program.

In a basketball game played at a heavily sedated pace, Plymouth Salem outlasted rival Plymouth Canton Tuesday night, 43-35.

It was very unlike some of the heated, race and chase Salem-Canton games of the past. The crowd was thinner. The noise level quieter. And the game, well, race and chase turned into snooze and lose.

But that was the way Plymouth Canton and coach Rob Neu preferred it. It was also the way Salem coach Fred Thomann expected it to be. No way did Canton want to run the court with the explosive Rocks.

"We knew coming in that they were going to want to make this a 30-30 game," Salem coach Fred Thomann said. "We tried to pick the tempo up with our press and fast-breaks. But we could never get Canton to go faster."

Said Neu: "We were really patient. We took care of the ball and we played under control."

But Salem never trailed after the first 1:30 of the game.

"We needed to challenge their defense with drives to the basket," Neu said. "We had to force them to play us. Then, either we score at the basket or we draw the foul."

Canton only took 17 shots in the first half. The Chiefs never took more than nine shots in any one quarter.

Still, Canton stayed in contention.

WITH DENA HEAD doing heavy damage, Salem kept several steps ahead of Canton without being able to finish the Chiefs off until the final three minutes.

Head lead all scorers with 21 points on the night. She had 13 in the first half and staked Salem to a 22-15 halftime lead. Head scored the first points of the third quarter to make it 24-15 then Canton answered back.

Tory Barger, Michelle Fortier and Jen Gansler scored three consecutive baskets and Canton was suddenly down by three.

That, however, was the Chiefs final rush.

Jessica Handley and sophomore Jill Estey took charge of the situation from that point.

Handley scored eight points in the final 8:01 of the game. She hit a shot at the third quarter buzzer to give the Rocks a six point lead. She finished with 14 on the night.

Estey, playing in her first Canton-Salem game, put Canton away in the final three minutes with a flurry of steals, assists and scores. In the final 3:33 she made three steals, scored two layups and set up two other scores.

"WE PLAYED at their tempo but we were still able to get some easy scores," Thomann said. "We weren't able to spread it until late, but Canton did a nice job. We had chances to open it up early, but we missed the layups. We like the layups and we're in our press. We missed and they are walking the ball back up the court."

For Salem (9-0 in the league, 12-1 overall), the win comes in the middle of a treacherous three-game stretch. The Rocks knocked off previously unbeaten John Glenn last Thursday. They travel to Lakes Division challenger Walled Lake Central Thursday.

Canton (5-4 in the Western Lakes, 6-6 overall) got 10 points from Tory Barger, seven from Penny Piggott and six from Karen Boluch. Canton, with only seven players dressed (Jennifer Griffith is injured), had some problems with depth. Gansler and Heather Miller both got into early foul trouble.

"I'm not interested in any moral victories," Neu said. "What I care about is improving our play. And I'm thrilled. We played a very good game tonight."

Too bad we couldn't have had Johnny Williams on hand to provide a sound track for this game.

Tory Barger led Canton Tuesday with 10 points.

Regional winners CEP netters qualify for state

By Chris McCosky
staff writer

The Michigan High School Athletic Association allows only the top two teams from each regional to compete in the state Class A girls tennis tournament. Not to be put out by a rule, however, the Observer & Eccentric area found a way to sneak two additional teams into Friday's state tournament at Midland.

Plymouth Salem, Plymouth Canton and Livonia Churchill all made it out of the Class A regional at Schoolcraft College. Farmington Hills Mercy, Birmingham Marian and Birmingham Seaholm each advanced from the Class A regional at Southfield's Civic Center.

How? By virtue of the tie. Marian, Seaholm and Mercy each scored 21 points at Southfield. Salem, 19 points, won the regional at Schoolcraft while Canton and Churchill both tied for second with 16.

Livonia Stevenson, which just missed with 15 points, will be represented by No. 1 singles player Kristine Bailey. Bailey was runner-up at the regional to Salem's Anita Toth.

High drama reigned at both regional sites.

FARMINGTON HILLS MERCY was in third place prior to the final three matches on Saturday. Mercy needed wins at Nos. 1-2-3 singles in order to gain a tie and a berth at the state tourney.

Nicole Transou obliged at No. 1 singles with a 6-0, 6-4 win against Marian's Jenny Catalano. Becky Tatch also came through with relative ease at No. 3 singles beating Seaholm's Sue Rifkin, 6-0, 6-2.

That left it up to Kathy Heimbuch. Heimbuch, who has won key matches for the Marlins all season, withstood Seaholm's Sue Fredericks, 6-3, 6-1.

"That match was a lot harder than the score might indicate," said Mercy coach Jim Kerwin, whose team is going to state for the second time in four years. "There were a lot of deuce games. It was an extremely hard-fought match. In a situation like that, character and attitude becomes more important than pure talent."

Kerwin was happy his team survived the regional, but he was less than pleased with the regional alignment.

"It's awfully difficult when you have three teams in the top 10 of the state playing at the same place," he said. "Maybe someone will look at this and make an adjustment in assigning the sites for next year."

Marian's Allison Garcia was the regional champion at No. 4, besting Mercy's Carole Williams 6-3, 6-7, 6-2.

Marian's Beth Gill and Jenny Graham won at No. 1 doubles. Seaholm swept Nos. 2 and 3 doubles with Meghan Taylor-Tracy Burgum and Abbie Olmstead-Elizabeth Anita Toth avenged her loss in last week's Western Lakes meet by winning the regional championship at No. 1 singles.

The highs, lows of college football

By Chris McCosky
staff writer

The reason clichés become clichés is because the overused word or phrase generally holds a good deal of truth.

Take, for example, the saying "offense sells tickets, defense wins football games." Never was that cliché more in focus than last Saturday in Ann Arbor.

The University of Michigan's defense didn't allow a touchdown. It allowed just 193 total yards and 13 first downs. The Michigan State defense allowed three touchdowns, 380 total yards (219 via the pass) and 22 first downs.

You might remember that U-M won the game, 27-6.

Ironically, it was Michigan's defense that was considered the team's soft spot coming into the game. Especially so, said the critics, was its pass rush.

That might come as a shock to harried MSU quarterback Dave Yarema, who was sacked six times for 63 yards in losses and was hurried on virtually every pass he threw.

At the eye of the Maize and Blue storm that hounded Yarema was Redford Catholic Central product and All-Area star Mark Messner. The pre-season all-America candidate and a 1985 first-team all-Big 10 choice made two solo sacks of Yarema and had six solo tackles.

"Mark played a terrific game," said Michigan defensive line coach Jerry Meyer. "We asked Mark to do some very demanding extra things out there and he performed very well. We put him in a position to make the plays. If he didn't perform, we weren't going to put pressure on the quarterback."

After a great season a year ago, and all the pre-season hype this season, Messner's name hadn't been mentioned much through the first four games of the season.

"MARK, TO some extent, hadn't been as productive as last year," Meyer said. "But we've been asking him to do different things. He's played well for us. It's just that last year, he was in a position to be seen easier."

In other words, Messner has been drawing a lot of double and triple teaming this year. Last year — playing alongside the likes of all-America Mike Hammerstein, now with the Cincinnati Bengals — Messner drew primarily single coverage on the line.

Messner, with the same youthful exuberance he flashed at CC and again last year, seemed to set the emotional pitch for the Wolverine defense Saturday. After every tackle, every key hit, Messner led the team in hugs and high-fives.

college sports

"Mark, like our entire defensive line, played with more confidence this week," Meyer said. "When you are a confident player, you tend to be more excitable. The unconfident player tends to be more contemplative on the field."

THE CONTEMPLATIVE figures on the field Saturday wore green and white.

There was Farmington Harrison product John Miller and Dean Altobelli on their knees in the end zone staring forlornly at each other while U-M players celebrated the clinching TD behind them.

It's perhaps unfair, but that one play seemed to symbolize the entire nightmarish day for the Spartan defense.

It was a close game at that point: 13-3 Michigan with 3:39 left in the third quarter. MSU had made a sterling goal-line stand right before the half. It was Miller who made the big play, stopping Michigan's Thomas Wilcher on a 3rd-and-1 play from the Spartans' 1. He ignored Michigan's deceptive misdirection fakes, burst through the line and stuck Wilcher back at the 2. Instead of a 17-3 Michigan halftime lead, it was 13-3 and MSU was charged up and still in contention.

Miller, in fact, played a strong game overall. He was in on five tackles, four solo.

Then came the cruncher. Michigan had been using primarily short, control passes. Only twice had the Wolverines thrown deep. Then quarterback Jim Harbaugh sent John Kolesar deep. Kolesar streaked past Miller. Altobelli was late coming over to help. The ball was underthrown. Miller leaped. Altobelli leaped. Kolesar caught the ball in the end zone, 42-yard TD. Ball game.

MICHIGAN'S THIRD TD came in the fourth quarter when Harbaugh drilled a 7-yard strike to Jeff Brown between Miller and several other Spartan defenders.

"It's not a situation where you can point the finger at one or two players," Michigan State coach George Perles said after the game. "The loss was a team effort."

He affixed no blame for the two TD passes either. "The long pass was just a great throw and a great catch," Perles said. "The other, we had a double zone. He just loaded it up and stuck it in."

Write it down: Offense sells tickets, defense wins games.

Logjam in Lakes

Potential 3-way tie has ADs scrambling

By Brad Emons
and Chris McCosky
staff writers

IT'S TIME to reveal the secret document.

Who will represent the Lakes Division in the Western Lakes Activities Association football championship (Oct. 25) if there's a three-way tie for first between North Farmington, Westland John Glenn and Livonia Stevenson? All three schools could very well wind up tied for the Lakes crown with 5-1 records each because they're all playing the lower division teams this weekend.

The winner will play Western Division champ Farmington Harrison, which has already locked up a spot in the final, even if it loses Saturday to Walled Lake Central.

A tie-breaker format will be used to determine which Lakes Division team will be awarded the chance to play for the title, contingent upon North getting by Farmington, Glenn over Plymouth Salem and Stevenson over Walled Lake Central.

HEAD-TO-HEAD competition can't be used because Stevenson beat North, North beat Glenn and Glenn beat Stevenson.

Confusing? Western Lakes athletic directors reportedly met Wednesday morning to clear up the matter. Rumor has it that state high school athletic association playoff point formula, based on opponents' wins and losses, will be used to break the tie.

grid predictions

es, will be used to break the tie. Last week, Emons went 11-3 to push his overall season record to 45-24, but McCosky maintains the overall lead at 48-21, even though he slipped to 9-5 in Week No. 6.

FRIDAY'S GAMES

(All games at 7:30 p.m.)

LIV. FRANKLIN at LIV. CHURCHILL: The Chargers (5-1) could be getting in position to make a run for the state playoffs, but a victory over Franklin (1-5) is not a cinch. After scouting Churchill last week, Patriot coach Armand Vigna calls the Chargers "the best team I've seen." Should be another defensive battle. Picks — Take the Chargers in a yawner.

LIV. STEVENSON at WALLED LK. CENTRAL: The Spartans (4-2) can clinch a tie for the Lakes Division title. Past history says they shouldn't worry over the worst team in the WLA. Picks — Stevenson topples the Vikings (1-5).

WESTLAND GLENN at PLYMOUTH SALEM: Could be the highest scoring game of the night. Last week, Salem (1-5) couldn't hold a 14-3 lead against North Farmington. The Rocks, however, can't match up well against Glenn (5-1), particularly on the line. Picks — Glenn makes its move.

PLYMOUTH CANTON at NORTHVILLE: This game, pitting a pair of 2-4 teams, hinges on defense. Don't expect many points to be scored, unless Jack Sylvestre is doing the kicking for Northville. Picks — Northville wins its third straight.

ROMULUS at GARDEN CITY: The Cougars (3-3) came to life last week downing Dearborn in a midweek upset. It's homecoming this week for GC, which meets an independent. Romulus (3-12) is a 12th year senior to Class C state-ranked Saginaw. Novel Picks — Cougars on the prowl once again.

DEARBORN at REDFORD UNION: RU (3-3) still has an outside chance to claim a share of the Northwest Suburban League crown. The Panthers edged Woodhaven last week 14-12. Picks — Emons says Dearborn runs the party. McCosky says coach Jim Gibbons lights an other fire under RU.

WAYNE MEMORIAL at WYANDOTTE: The only concern for Wayne (3-3) is Wyandotte's mucky held. The Bears (1-5) are still seeking their first Wolverine A Conference victory. Picks — Not this time. Wayne prevails.

SATURDAY'S GAMES

N. FARMINGTON at FARMINGTON (1 p.m.): Last week Salem made the dangerous Scott Selzer earn his yardage, but North quarterback Scott Simon burned the Rocks' secondary. The Raiders (5-1) will be tested by a Farmington team (2-4) with a better-than-average defense. Picks — North clinches a share of the Lakes Division crown.

WALLED LK. WESTERN at FARM. HARRISON (1 p.m.): Harrison (5-1) is getting ready for its fifth straight WLA championship game. Western (2-4) could put up a fight if junior Mike Hall gets loose. Unfortunately, Hall doesn't appear to have the supporting cast. Picks — Harrison wins the Western Division outright.

CLARENCEVILLE AT HARPER WOODS (1 p.m.): The Trojans (3-3) are hurting as quarterback Gregg Buell will sit out the game with bruised ribs. Joe Jentzer, a wide receiver, will take over. The host Eagles (0-6) are undoubtedly the worst team in the Metro Conference. Picks — The Trojans go back over 500.

ANNAPOLIS at REDFORD THURSTON (2 p.m.): The Eagles (1-5) are still eyeing their first Tri-River League win after falling in the final 55 seconds to Taylor Center last week 9-7. Annapolis (1-5) hasn't shown much of late. Picks — Emons says it's a happy Thurston homecoming. McCosky begrudgingly agrees.

REDFORD ST. AGATHA at ORCHARD LK. ST. MARY'S (2 p.m.): A win by the Aggies (4-2) could set up a showdown for the C-Section title on Oct. 25 with division leader Pontiac Catholic. Agatha coach John Goddard fears the Eagles (4-2), especially running back Marcus Reifford and lineman Scott Kowalkowski, son of former Detroit Lion Bob Kowalkowski. Picks — The Eagles set sail in Orchard Lake.

REDFORD BISHOP BORGESS vs. WARREN DeLaSALLE (7:30 p.m. at Garden City Junior High): The Spartans (4-2), who suffered a heart-breaking 6-0 overtime defeat last week to Harper Woods Bishop Gallagher, got a boost last week when Catholic Central upended Brother Rice, creating a four-way tie for first. DeLaSalle (4-2) is big and strong, but may not be able to match the Spartans' quickness. Picks — Emons says Borgess stays in the hunt. McCosky disagrees.

REDFORD CATHOLIC CENTRAL vs. HARPER WDS. NOTRE DAME (7:30 p.m. at Clarenceville): It's payback time for the Shamrocks (4-2), who remember last year's stinging 7-6 loss to the unheralded Fighting Irish. Notre Dame (2-4) simply can't match up with CC's stingy defense. Picks — CC runs its Central Division mark to 3-1.

CC turns Rice mistakes into win

By Brad Emons
staff writer

There's a logjam at the top of the Catholic League's Central Division.

Thanks to Redford Catholic Central's come-from-behind 7-3 football victory Sunday over Boys Bowl rival Birmingham Brother Rice before 6,000 fans at Pontiac's Wisner Stadium, four teams are tied for first place.

CC, Rice, Redford Bishop Borgess and Warren DeLaSalle are all 4-2 overall and 2-1 in the division.

"There's no puzzle involved in our league," said a happy CC coach Tom Mach. "Any team can beat anybody on a given afternoon. It just happens this year it has taken place."

The loss by Rice was damaging in more ways than one. The Warriors could have been sitting pretty, all alone in first, with only two games remaining. And Rice all but knocked ruined its chances for a post-season playoff berth.

As expected, it was a defensive battle all the way.

CC PROVED to be opportunistic in the final quarter, scoring on third down when Greg Haeger found tight end Pat McGrath in the corner of the end zone for a 5-yard TD pass with 2:43 remaining. (Bob Malleck added the extra point.)

"We ran a pass to wide side to give him (McGrath) to give him more room," explained Mach. "The tight end fakes into the line and runs wide."

But the break CC wanted came just minutes earlier when the Shamrocks' special teams man Mitch Quint jolted the ball loose from Rice punt returner Charlie Brennan. Ted Welling fell on the loose ball with 5:30 left to give CC great field position at the Rice 23-yard line.

It then took the Shamrocks six plays to punch the ball in.

"Rice took our passing (game) away most of the game," said the CC coach. "They're quick defensively. It was the type of game where you have athlete versus athlete."

The final statistics bear out the kind of job CC's defense turned in.

The Shamrocks held Rice to 135 yards total offense. Junior halfback Jason Wolf, who rushed for over 150 yards the previous week against DeLaSalle, was limited to 26 yards in 11 carries. (Tom Giroux was Rice's top rusher with 51 yards in 14 carries.)

"WE KNEW WOLF was their best runner, but they have others, too," Mach said. "We did key on him a little with our monster back in spots."

"But our defensive coordinator, Rick Coratti, deserves a lot of credit after we held them to three points."

CC defense, which yielded 14 points and 25 points, respectively, in losses to Ann Arbor Pioneer and Redford Bishop Borgess.

"Our defense wasn't what we thought it would be early in the part of the year," said the CC coach. "The last couple of games we've come on. We knew we had to make things happen defensively because they're a good football team."

"Things worked out well. We didn't give up at all. I'm proud of them and this is a tremendous victory for us. We had to believe in ourselves."

Rice took a 3-0 lead with only 15 seconds left in the half on a 39-yard field goal by Jim Nagy.

But that was the extent of the Warriors' offense, which stalled much of the second half.

Late in the third quarter, Rice's Paul Ferguson returned a punt 55 yards for an apparent touchdown, but the play was whistled back because of two illegal blocks.

CC'S OFFENSE was also stymied much of the afternoon. The Shamrocks had only 122 yards total, with exactly half recorded by junior running back Chris Kovath, who rushed 21 times for 61 yards.

If anybody has an advantage the next two weeks in the Central Division race, it's CC. The Shamrocks host last place Harper Woods Notre Dame and then travel the following week to play DeLaSalle.

Rice, meanwhile, must meet formidable challenges from Gallagher and Borgess.

DeLaSalle has Borgess and CC, while Borgess tackles DeLaSalle and Rice.

Ladywood runs by Mercy

The Livonia Ladywood cross country team defeated Catholic League Central Division rival Farmington Hills Mercy, 22-33.

Ladywood (4-2) was led by first place finisher Janine Kloc, who was clocked in 21:32.

Other Ladywood runners in the top 10 included Noel Dixon, second, 22:05; Nancy Soma, fourth, 22:31;

Daniel Dixon, seventh, 22:55; Maria Tandoc, 23:03.

Maria Cordel was Mercy's top finisher in third with a time of 22:20. Rounding out the top 10 for Mercy was Barb Cheaney, fifth, 22:39; Cheryl Madej, sixth, 22:43; Molly Tenbusch, ninth, 23:07; and Nancy Carbajo, 10th, 24:05.

Do sports belong in community college?

First of two parts

IS IT WORTH IT? How many times has that been asked, do you think? How often has a trustee at a community college wandered into the athletic building late on a Wednesday night, heard the echo of a bouncing basketball and gone into the gymnasium to investigate? He finds two uniformed teams with two coaches each and two stripe-shirted officials on display in front of fewer than a dozen spectators. What's he to think? If that trustee is fiscally aware, he's going to ask himself why his college, so painfully short of essentials like computer terminals and administrative help, is investing in varsity basketball players and coaches. "I mean, which would benefit a greater number of students," he would question himself, "a varsity basketball program that helps 12 kids or a half-dozen computers that could aid thousands of students?"

ESPECIALLY, THAT trustee will say to himself, a varsity basketball program that no one cares about. We could cancel it and no one on campus would notice, he'd figure after re-examining the size of the crowd.

He'd leave with the question pounding in his head: What good is it to have varsity sports in a community college?

Are they worth the expense? Does anyone care? Does anyone notice?

Money is a strong inducement for change. At present, community college sports are not threatened because funding is not endangered. It has been in the past, however. High schools are quick to cancel sports programs, calling them nonessential, when millages fail.

In 1980, financial woes led Oakland CC to slice its sports program from 14 to eight. It remains at that level.

THERE IS a difference here. High school sports programs are lopped because they are visible. Their cancellation is noticed by the community and can serve as inducement to get a millage approved.

Community college sports rarely draw as many fans as a Tuesday night high school basketball game between two mediocre squads. No millage failure would be needed as inducement to reallocate funds. The public wouldn't notice the cancellation of sports, anyhow.

So why keep them? To placate a few hot-shot jumpshooters who couldn't make it, athletically or academically, at a better school? Their only interest in schools like Schoolcraft College or OCC is shoo-in hoops. Their education is predicated on learning a left-handed hook.

SUCH FEELINGS exist. They are based in simple logic. But are they accurate? Are community college sports a waste?

"There are a lot of kids out there who find academics through athletics," argues Pin Ryan, athletic director at OCC. "A whole new world opens up for them. So many kids come in here and get adjusted and go on."

"Kids who either lack ability, grades or money — that's where we help."

Mary Gans, Schoolcraft's AD, agrees. "So many of these kids may not have gone on in school without athletics. And we are paid back. We're paid back in dollars — tuitions and state aid. We're paid back in salvaging students who might not have gone on (for an education) otherwise. And we're paid back in recognition for the school."

GANS SAID tuitions of incoming athletes help defray the cost of the program. Many of those athletes receive financial grants, but those come from fund-raisers, not from the school's general fund. In addition, any state aid the athletes qualify for brings more money into the school.

"Our athletic program is virtually self-supporting," estimated Gans.

Added Ryan, "One of the things I keep pointing out to the administration is that 95 percent of our athletes wouldn't be here if we didn't have sports."

But recognition? How can sports that attract such little attention provide any recognition for the school? Basketball players at the University of Michigan pay off their scholarships by attracting thousands to games. And U-M is constantly and extensively covered by the media.

Community colleges reap no such benefits. But...

"How much ink does OCC's athletics get compared to other programs?" queried Ryan.

And yet, neither the publicity nor the money an athletic program generates is the main purpose for community college sports, according to Gans and Ryan.

The student-athlete is.

Next: the community college athlete.

Engineers 3rd in tourney

By Chris McCosky
staff writer

The Little Caesars Junior Invitational Hockey Tournament served a dual purpose last weekend.

Not only did it showcase the state's Junior A-level hockey, it also served as a preview to the Plymouth-based Hennessey Engineers' North American Junior Hockey League home opener Friday against the Detroit Falcons.

Compware, one of the four teams in the NAJHL, won the Little Caesars tournament with a fight-filled 8-3 win Monday night against Oshawa, a Canadian Junior B team.

"There was a huge brawl," said Engineers' coach A.J. Baker. "I'll tell you, Compware won the game, but Oshawa won the fight."

Mike Bovack, who tallied six goals and four assists in four tournament games, led Compware in the finale with a pair of goals. Livonian Matt Wiljanan also scored.

Baker's Engineers took the tournament's bronze medal, beating the Falcons 5-2. The Falcons had defeated the Engineers earlier in the tournament 6-3.

"The difference was our goalie," Baker said of netminder Doug Brown. "The first night he was incredibly nervous. They scored a couple of weak goals early that were the difference in the game. He played extremely confident on Monday. He got in the way of a lot of shots and he was controlling the rebounds."

ON MONDAY, the Engineers got goals from Larry Pilut, Dan Frantti, Chris Belhart, Bryan Krygier and Mark Harmes.

"I really wanted to be in the finals," Baker said. "The Falcons were tied by the Senior Team (Mason) 7-7. We had to beat Oshawa and we would have been in."

But Oshawa hammered the Engineers 8-3. There were 63 penalties called in the game: the Engineers were assessed 72 minutes, Oshawa 88 minutes.

A pair of Engineers were named to the all-tournament team: J. Jewitt, who scored three goals in the tourney, and defenseman Todd Tamburino.

Plymouth native Steve Dawson of the Falcons, Brent Westfall of Oshawa, Bovack and Jim Dubke of Compware were also named to the all-tournament team.

Here are the tournament standings: Compware, 4-0; Oshawa, 1-2-1; Engineers, 2-2; Falcons, 1-2-1; Junior B All-Stars, 0-3; Mason Seniors, 1-0-2.

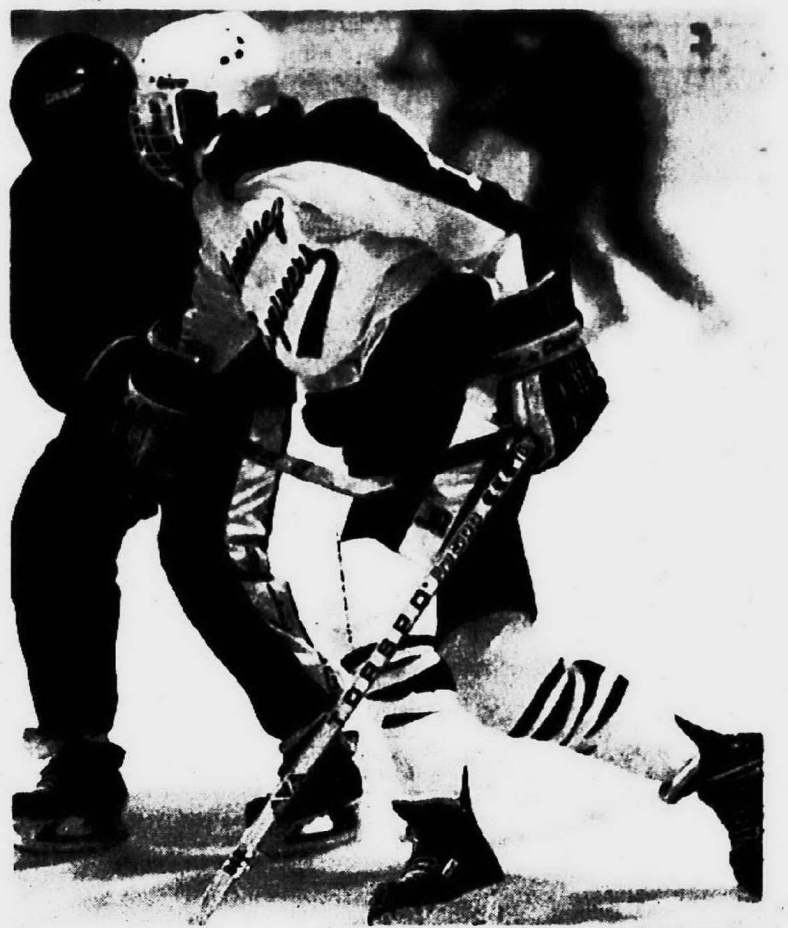

The Engineers are 4-2 on the season and 2-0 in the NAJHL.

ENGINEERS NOTES: They are expecting a big crowd at the Plymouth Cultural Center for Friday's opener (game time 8:20 p.m.). Not only is it the Hennessey Engineers' first appearance in their new arena, but they are playing the Detroit Falcons, a team with numerous local ties.

Six Falcons are from the Plymouth-Canton community: Steve and Brian Dawson, Tom Yawkey, Tony Esser, Billy Pye and Sean Wordon. The question is: Who'll have the largest contingent of fans at the game, the home team or the visitors?

"I think we'll have a strong following," Baker said. "I've been around here long enough where people know about us. I think it'll be a real good game, though. Of the four teams in the league, these two are the closest match."

Another reminder that the Engineers are featuring Score-O between the first and second periods. Prizes include Red Wing tickets, autographed sticks and dinners for two at area restaurants.

The NAJHL got some good news out of Chicago last week. The erstwhile Chicago Patriots, who were to be the league's fourth team, have been replaced by the Chicago Cougars. The Patriots lost two coaches within a week of the season opener with the Engineers. The Engineers won the first game 19-0, the second on a forfeit and the third was mercifully postponed. The Patriots were scheduled to play in the Little Caesars tournament. They were replaced by the Mason Senior team.

North, Salem kickers alive; Chiefs out

North Farmington romped to an easy Class A district boys soccer win Monday over visiting Monroe, 10-0.

The Raiders (11-4-2) met top-ranked Livonia Churchill last night in a district semifinal match. (Results will appear in Monday's Observer.)

In the win over Monroe, Monty Najjar led the way with two goals and three assists. Al Riddock added two goals and one assist, while Zac Beim contributed three assists.

Other North goal scorers included Pete Keller, Mark Leaning, Dave McGrath, Tim McMinn, Pat Ward and goalie Craig Nome, who scored on a penalty shot.

SALEM 9, BELLEVILLE 0: Plymouth Salem (12-3-1) opened district action Monday with an easy victory over visiting Northville.

Senior Ted Hanosh notched his third hat trick of the season, bring his season total to 16.

Dennis Reynolds and Joe Cosenza each added two goals. Randy Balconi and Jeff Gold rounded out the scoring, while Mike Zaretti collected three assists.

The Rocks' defense, which has allowed only one goal in the last seven games, made things easy for netminder Dave O'Malley.

Salem hosted Ypsilanti last night in the semifinals.

ANN ARBOR HURON 3, CANTON 0: You can forget about a Salem-Plymouth Canton rematch as Ann Arbor Huron posted a district-opening shutout Monday against the host Chiefs.

The loss drops Canton to 5-9-3 overall.

CATHOLIC CENTRAL 7, BISHOP BORGESS 0: In a district opener Monday at Redford's Mason Field, the Shamrocks of Redford CC (8-4-4) beat Redford Bishop Borgess (1-14) for the third time this season.

Craig Thiel led the winners with three goals and two assists. Aaron Brown also notched a hat trick. Joe Arndt tallied the other CC goal.

The Shamrocks outshot the Spartans, 26-4, and recorded 19 corner kicks.

Should they play or should they go?

IT'S TIME WE tackle the big question. Right away. I wanted to wait until the end of the season to do this, but I've been incited by some very disturbing, very aggravating occurrences.

Should the powers-that-be sack the Farmington Harrison girls basketball program?

No way.

Yes, the team has lost a state-record 72 consecutive games. A win this season does not appear likely. The team has lost by scores of 95-9, 64-2 and 105-15 this season. Coaches throughout the Western Lakes Activities Association feel playing Farmington Harrison is a complete waste of time. Others think it is dangerous and counterproductive.

Recently a columnist in a Northville newspaper made the following assumptions about the Harrison program:

● That the Hawks should be renamed the pigeons.

● That the Hawks are playing to lose so that they can own the national record for consecutive losses. "Why would anyone want to practice, and then play a game where the object is to lose?" the columnist asks. Later: "Any athlete worth her salt would be appalled that the Hawks are now playing to lose, rather than to win."

● That something called "the Western Lakes Activities Association director" should end the Hawks' season now, "before the record is set."

● That the Hawks are somehow damaging women's athletics on the whole.

THIS WAS THE single most uninformed, inaccurate, absurd piece of journalism I've seen since a local columnist berated the cheerleaders at a private Christian school for wearing below-the-knee-length skirts. The Hawks are playing to lose? Give me a break. That's like saying General Custer intentionally got massacred at Little Big Horn so he could get into the history books.

The person who wrote this column has never seen the Hawks play and never talked to anyone involved with the Hawks program.

I have seen the Hawks play. I have seen the Hawks' practices. I have talked on numerous occasions to the coach and the athletic director. Here, then, are some truths about the Harrison girls basketball program.

● There are 10 girls on the varsity team and 11 more on the freshman team. Those numbers are up considerably from past years. There is one senior and five juniors on the varsity. The other 15 players are underclassmen.

● All 21 players, not to mention the 50-plus players in the East Middle School basketball program that feeds into Harrison, have one singular goal: to turn the Harrison basketball program around.

● To achieve that goal, the current varsity team practices Monday through Friday 2:30-4:30 p.m. and 7-9 p.m. Monday and Wednesday nights.

● "It was the girls' idea to practice the two extra nights," said coach Jim Neve, who is equally committed to turning things around. "We work on our offense and defense and conditioning during the day, then we just work on individual skills at night."

Chris McCosky

● Fifteen of the players will attend a basketball camp next summer, and Neve is trying to organize a summer basketball league for the lower division teams in the area.

THESE ARE not the types of things associated with teams whose sole intent is to lose. But the Hawks still have much to overcome.

You think the team is maligned by the out-of-town media and league coaches? You should see how it is treated at Harrison. Neve says his girls basketball team is treated like a "second-class" citizen. He's being conservative. The team is treated like dirt. The Hawks must share their after-school practice time (and space) with the pom-pom squad, the cheerleaders, the soccer team, the boys basketball team and even the football team.

Then there is the abuse dished out by some of the students. "It's terrible," said team captain Maryann Cundy. "We get ripped on all the time from kids in class. They always ask why did we get beat so bad. What am I supposed to say? We want to make that work for us, though. That's part of the reason we want to win so bad."

ative forces serve only to bond the team to its goal.

CUNDY IS also a perfect example of the type of basketball player Harrison has had the past three seasons. She never even thought about playing basketball until her sophomore season. The first time she stepped onto a Western Lakes court, she was competing against players who had been playing since the fifth and sixth grade.

This year's Harrison team is the equivalent of a freshman team in terms of basketball experience. The two previous teams were worse.

That, happily, is starting to change. There are players in the program now with the potential to be outstanding basketball players. Laura Bisiolek, a 5-10 sophomore, and Lanelle Schumaker, a 5-11 ninth grader, could provide the Hawks with a formidable inside game in a couple of years. Darci Pazel is another promising 5-10 freshman. The freshman team is 3-2. The leaders of next year's team will be point guard Lesley Devine, Kris Waldmann, Bisiolek and Tracey Radke. Karen Najarian, a freshman, has played on the varsity all season.

These players are all raw and need a great deal of work. But they have proven that they are willing to do the work. And already there have been signs of improvement.

THESE GIRLS have learned so much. I wish people could be here and see it," Neve said. "Leslie Curtis came in here and could not shoot the ball to the basket from four feet away. Now, she can make four of 10 from the free throw line. Now that may sound dumb to some people, but to me and to Leslie Curtis it means a great deal. It makes her very happy that she can see that much improvement. It makes her work that much harder."

"I wish you could have been on the bus ride home with us last Thursday (after a 71-23 loss to Walled Lake Western). You would have thought we won the game. The girls were happy because we played with them, against their first team, for two solid quarters. The attitude here is great, and I know that we will win a game. Soon."

The bottom line is this: There are enough girls now to have a program. The girls in the program seem genuinely committed to playing basketball. They want to play basketball. And they have as much right to keep on playing basketball as any team in the country. People forget that North Farmington and Bishop Borgess recently had winless seasons, and both of those teams have managed to turn things around.

"When I heard they were going to cancel the program, I got really mad," said Cundy. "I was so excited to play my senior year, and I was really sad when they said they were going to cancel it. I felt like they gave up on us."

Hunters beware: waterfowl aplenty

By Bill Parker
staff writer

If your hunting partner suggests sloshing through his cousin's flooded-out farm — as opposed to wading through cattails and marshes — when trying to bag a couple ducks or geese this season, don't call him a quack and figure he's fallen out of the boat once too often. He just may have a little insight into the situation.

About the only good thing coming out of all the flood damage throughout Michigan is that avid duck and goose hunters may not have to travel as far as usual to fill their daily bag limits on waterfowl.

Duck and goose season was open — for the most part — throughout the state as of Oct. 11. (Limitations on hunting areas are defined in the DNR hunting guide.) Over the past few weeks ducks and geese have been spotted on farms throughout the state feeding in flooded-out fields, especially corn and soybean fields.

"THE SEASON should be as good or better than last year but the hunters will have to work a little harder," said Ed Mikula, assistant chief of wildlife for the Michigan Department of Natural Resources. "All this rain has scattered the waterfowl over much of the state. In areas with too much water the birds have moved on. They're spending a lot of time in the flooded-out farmlands. Southern Michigan has a lot of birds; the hunters will just have to find them."

The migratory diving ducks, which include scaup, bluebill, golden eye, ringneck, redhead and bufflehead, are beginning to move through the state and should continue this migration through mid-November. These birds congregate on large open stands of water. Traditional good hunting spots in southern Michigan include areas of Saginaw Bay, Lake St. Clair, the Detroit River and Lake Erie.

mallards, green winged and blue winged teal, black and pintail, inhabit areas with shallow water and are also abundant in the area this year. Traditional hot spots include Point Mouillee, Harsen's Island, Fish Point and the Shiawassee area.

MIKULA STATED that the local goose flock has increased in size to between 80,000 and 90,000 birds.

"Goose hunting has come in like a gang buster," said Mikula. "The flock is up and growing at an exponential rate, particularly in southeastern Michigan. The birds are growing very, very well."

Despite this good news on the local flock the popularity of waterfowl hunting has decreased dramatically since the late 1950s. Hunter population at that time was close to 100,000. It's down to about 65,000 hunters now.

Although there is no simple answer to the question why, it's speculated that the fall-off in the number of hunters can be attributed, at least partially, to the high cost of outfitting yourself to hunt. Guns, boats and blinds or camouflage are needed, and the cost, especially for a good boat, has turned some hunters toward less expensive avenues of hunting.

Another reason for the downslide is that the upswing in fall recreational boating has created a tremendous amount of activity on the lakes and subsequently the waterfowl haven't been coming into these areas as much as they used to.

"Overall I'd have to say that hunters will have a pretty darn good season," said Mikula. "It should be comparable to or slightly better than last year. In southeastern Michigan hunters should be a little innovative and try the farm areas."

Ineligibility hurts S'craft

Schoolcraft College's men's soccer team endured a couple of wins and a couple of losses last week, and the Ocelots only played a couple of games.

In on-field performances, SC looked good. The team bested University of Michigan's club team 1-0 last Wednesday, but it took overtime to do it. John Gelmini pumped in the game-winner, converting a pass from Mike Murphy. And on Saturday, the Ocelots scored four second-half goals and blanked Delta CC 4-0.

Now for the bad news. In the win over U-M, Murphy suffered a knee injury and will miss the remainder of the regular season, at least. SC coach Van Dimitriou was optimistic that Murphy — who has played exceedingly well lately — would be available for the playoffs.

Should the Ocelots make it that far. And that has become a question, because a game that had been safely tucked into the win column has now been removed and placed under the "Ls."

PETE LOMAS, a Livonia Bentley graduate and new addition to the roster this year, did not make grades and was an ineligible when he played against DCC Sept. 13, a game SC won 14-1. His academic status was discovered afterwards, which means the game must be forfeited.

That makes SC 4-1 in the Eastern Conference, 7-2-2 overall, and tied with Macomb CC for first. Those two teams meet for the second time Saturday at 1 p.m. at Macomb. SC won the first game, 6-1, turning a tight game into a rout with four second-half goals.

To make bad news worse, two more players were lost. Goalkeeper Sam Matovski, from Livonia Churchill, reinjured his knee during practice last week and is now lost for the season. Matovski, who split time with current starter Jeff Vakratsis last year, initially hurt his knee last summer and was just getting back into shape.

JOEL SKOLNICK has also been lost. A midfielder bothered by injuries who made only one appearance — a strong performance against Macomb — was hurt again. He has decided to leave school.

The Ocelots had trouble getting started in Saturday's win at Delta, which was played on a water-logged, muddy field. Joe Mase broke the scoreless tie with SC's first goal early in the second half, with Rick Hamers assisting.

Dimitriou moved sweeperback Scott Steiner up from the defense, which was hardly tested — SC outshot DCC 29-2 — to bolster the midfield, with midfielder Hamers moving up to aid the offense. The shuffle paid off when Steiner scored. Gene Pulice got the first of two assists.

Bobby Neuman made it 3-0 for the Ocelots, and Brian Schonfeld capped the scoring, with Pulice again assisting.

Teamwork key to Ocelot spike streak

By C.J. Riskak
staff writer

After each point of Saturday's match with Lansing Community College — whether it was won or lost by Schoolcraft College's volleyball team — the Lady Ocelots slapped hands.

The meaning behind that seemingly insignificant act is considerable. It demonstrated a deep-rooted sense of teamwork, a belief that each member of the team shared in its successes and its defeats.

In a game that is heavily psychological, knowing that the rest of the team is both depending upon you and supporting you can be a major advantage. Not that SC has had much need for positive reinforcement; the Lady Ocelots have not experienced much in the way of losing.

AGAINST LCC, they ran their unbeaten string to 11 and 28. That's 11 straight matches and 28 consecutive games. SC has not lost a game since the Eastern Kentucky tournament Sept. 20, which includes its 15-2, 15-8, 15-9 triumph over visiting LCC.

From the start of Saturday's match, it was clear SC would dominate. These were the same two teams that met for the NJCAA regional championship last year, a match that the Lady Ocelots narrowly won.

This time it was no contest. SC built an 8-0 lead in the first game and coasted to an easy win. The second game was more difficult until Amy Lotero started serving with the score knotted at 6-all. Lotero served six straight points and LCC never recovered.

Game No. 3 was very similar, but SC's net strength proved too strong for LCC. The Lady Ocelots pulled away from an 8-7 lead to the win, allowing LCC to score just two more points.

Lotero's serving played a key role in the first two wins. "She was serving it in the right area, and keeping the ball real low to the net," said SC coach Tom Teeters. "We were serving tough."

WHILE LOTERO'S serves gave LCC fits, the Lady Ocelots had few problems on service returns. Their passing excelled, and setter Patti Kozicki continually got the ball to hitters Kim Relyea (29 attacks, 18 kills, one error), Diana Dietz (25 attacks, 10 kills, two errors) and Jill Ehler (12 attacks, eight kills, two errors) in good position.

Teeters acknowledged that this was not the same LCC team the Lady Ocelots faced last November. "They lost their two main hitters, but they had their good setter (Gaido Cabral) back," he said. "I think we're just that much better."

SC travels to the Jefferson College Tournament this weekend in St. Louis, Mo., to play against some of the top junior college teams in the nation.

PLYMOUTH SALEM'S singles players paved the way at Schoolcraft. Toth, who was upset at the Western Lakes tournament last Tuesday, made short work of Bailey in the finals 6-0, 6-0.

Salem's Lisa Belsky was regional champ at No. 2 singles, beating Northville's Abby Edwards, 6-1, 6-0.

At No. 3, Northville's Leslie Oliver beat Salem's Missy Smith, 6-1, 7-5. And Canton's Pam Penland got even with Salem's Janet Turner at No. 4, winning 6-1, 6-1. Turner beat Penland in the WLA finals.

"I had picked Salem to win it," said Stevenson coach George Croll. "But there was going to be a dogfight for second."

Was there ever. Canton and Churchill survived. Stevenson was off by a point, Northville by two points.

Stevenson just missed making it a three-way tie for second. In the No. 3 doubles final, Stevenson's team of Renea Bonser and Jill Cote had match-point 5-4 in the third and deciding set. A victory would give Stevenson a tie for third. Northville's team of Laura Nance and Julie Millgard rallied, won the third-set tie-breaker 7-2, and won the match 7-5, 4-6, 7-6.

"You have to give Northville credit," Croll said. "They didn't buckle under the pressure. I'm very proud of our girls. It was a character builder."

Glenn golfer qualifies

Westland John Glenn's Lloyd Hall fired an 8-over-par 80 at the Temperance-Bedford boys golf regional last Friday at Giant Oaks Golf Course.

Hall's score was good enough for a second place finish in the event.

As a team John Glenn finished seventh in a field of 18 teams and earned a trip to the Class A state tournament Saturday at Royal Scot Country Club in Lansing.

Among the Observerland teams which have qualified for the state meet this weekend are Redford Catholic Central, Livonia Churchill and Plymouth Salem.

Good performances brighten one-acts

Performances of "Laundry and Bourbon" and "Lone Star" by James McLure continue through Saturday, Oct. 25, at the Theatre Guild of Livonia-Redford playhouse in Redford. For ticket information, call 522-8057.

Sooner or later we all must cross the line between the dreams and expectations of our youth and come to grips with the realities of adult life.

That's the subject of two one-acts by James McLure that make up the season's opener for the Theatre Guild of Livonia-Redford. Both feature illuminating performances and skillful direction by Laurie Johnson.

The setting is Maynard, Texas — one of those small, dusty towns of no particular importance. It seems to have more than its share of citizens living what Thoreau called "lives of quiet desperation."

In the first piece, "Laundry and Bourbon," we meet three young married women whose marriages are something less than what they once imagined. They fold laundry and swish down bourbon and water on a hot summer day as they reminisce of high school romances, gossip about each other and rationalize away their husbands' faults.

VICKI CRAVENS gives a sparkling performance as Hattie, a harried mother of three kids. Counterpoint to this situation is Elizabeth, played poignantly by Mary Rychlewski. Elaine Kaiser is very good as Amy Lee, who married a whimpier nerd.

In the second play, "Lone Star," we meet a triad of men in these women's lives. The setting is behind Angel's Bar, late one summer's night. It's strictly man talk. Tall tales of drinking, fighting, women and cars.

Mark Maccagnone turns in a very believable performance as Elizabeth's husband, Roy — a wild, boozing stud whose only sense of accomplishment is how many women he has seduced in his 1959 pink Thunderbird.

JOHN BATTLE plays Roy's younger brother, Ray. His performance is well-rounded and flavored with just the right touch of innocence.

John Eastman has perhaps the juiciest role, that of Amy Lee's nerdy husband, Cletis. And he plays it to the hilt. At times it's almost too broad, but it's consistent and well done.

Production of 'Harvey' has something missing

Performances of the Spotlight Players production of "Harvey" continue through Saturday, Oct. 18, at John Glenn High School Auditorium in Westland. For ticket information, call 729-6453.

To open its 1986-87 season, Wayne-Westland's Spotlight Players has chosen to do Mary Chase's "Harvey," a thoughtful little comedy (first performed in 1944) about an appealing fellow whose dearest friend is a towering, white rabbit.

Directed by Tobin Hissong, this version of "Harvey" works well enough now and then but ultimately fails to really satisfy.

As the play opens, the lovable Elwood P. Dowd, middle-aged and a bachelor, has begun to act "peculiar" — in the sense that the 6-foot-1½-inch Harvey has come into his life. Enter his widowed sister, Veta (played with appropriate hysteria by Diane Kremser), and her daughter, Myrtle Mae (Laurel Twichell), who have come to live with him at the family mansion.

No shy violets these, they're scrambling to make a name for themselves in their new social milieu, and Elmwood is no help at all. In fact, he (and Harvey) are a constant source of embarrassment. Therefore, Veta decides, the only thing to do is to get Elwood out of the way, and to commit him to Chumley's Rest Home. As she finds out, this isn't going to be easy.

LEW SEQUIN, with an ongoing smile in his voice and perpetual spring in his step, is an endearing Elwood. His Elwood, having finally "won out" over the reality after more than 40 years, beams with contentment. Sequin is on the mark throughout, never allowing his character's niceness to become saccharine, or his eccentricity to become clownish.

Moviemakers use woodsy setting

Camera crews returned several times recently to the Quarton-Lahser roads area in Bloomfield Hills to shoot scenes for the movie-in-the-making, "The Big Story."

An abandoned house and a woods effect were used to tell part of the story. The location was the setting for a big shoot-out sequence, originally scheduled for the first day there but moved back when the film crew got behind schedule.

The film is the first one for the Studio on Washington Avenue, a group formed by Brian W. Lawrence of Royal Oak. He is producer-director as well as writer of the original script for "The Big Story."

land, is executive producer; he also plays a role in the film, as the family's butler.

AIDA MUNOZ of Troy, associate producer, described the film as having "a very American format." She said, however, "We tried to include a European sense of classicism."

The plot is about an American sportswriter who accidentally witnesses a murder by a corrupt art dealer. The sportswriter and his girlfriend, a newspaper reporter, discover an art-forgery conspiracy.

Shooting on "The Big Story" began last year and is 75 percent done, Munoz said. "We expect to be done by the end of the year. All that's left is the interiors, to be shot in November and December."

Supporting players turn in generally commendable performances, although some come across as rather stiff, and, with others, opening night nerves seem to be working overtime, playing havoc with fluffed lines and timing.

Special plaudits should go to Russ Holderness as the delightfully prissy

Dr. Chumley and to Helen DeJulo, who plays the well-meaning but befuddled Mrs. Chumley. Two talented veterans of community theater, Holderness and DeJulo always seem to bring their best to any role they play.

Summit steakhouse has a view and more

By Ethel Simmons
staff writer

The Summit, rooftop revolving restaurant at Detroit's Westin Hotel, has taken a turn for the better.

Always popular because of its breathtaking view of downtown Detroit and neighboring Windsor, the restaurant wasn't known for out-of-the-ordinary food until it inaugurated a steakhouse concept last December.

The hefty portions, with delectable steaks done perfectly to order, has created good vibes for the Summit. The menu, a simple one-pager, lists 12-ounce filet mignon, 10-ounce tenderloin brochette, 16-ounce New York sirloin strip steak, 16-ounce club ribeye steak, 16-ounce hickory-smoked prime rib and 24-ounce T-bone steak.

These are among the char-broiled specialties, as well as lamb chops and smoked pork chops. Steaks range in price from $22.95-$28.95.

BUT EVERY dinner includes a bucket of shrimp for preliminaries, bread with special butters, a salad tossed tableside and a stuffed baked potato with the entrée.

The shrimp to peel and enjoy arrived in a bucket, serving for two — at least for these two diners. The entrée was eagerly awaited, the table having been set with big, wood-handled steak knives.

The filet mignon lived up to expectations. It was served directly on a skillet to keep it hot, the steak charred on the outside, juicy and tasty throughout.

The menu has remained basically the same ever since the Summit became a steakhouse. The success of a steakhouse at the hotel chain's revolving rooftop restaurant in Atlanta partly inspired this steakhouse, said Keith Schaffner, the Summit's food and beverage director. He said a market survey also indicated there was a "desire for a good piece of red meat" locally.

The Summit purposely serves what he calls "oversized portions" so the customer can say, "I got value for my money. The majority of the people eat the entire meal."

BESIDES THE char-broiled selections, there is mesquite grilled chicken kabob teriyaki, or veal chop — a whole rib. Norwegian salmon steak or swordfish may be ordered mesquite grilled or Cajun style. Only change in the menu since the steakhouse first opened is the addition of lobster tail. Twin lobster tails are offered or lobster tail and filet.

Featured wines by the glass, from the cruvinet installed a month ago, include a chardonnay, white zinfandel, riesling, chardonnay and claret.

Anyone who still has room after the big meal may go for the "Grand Finale." The separate dessert menu lists six heavenly choices, a la carte.

Wicker Works

Right restaurant — wrong hotel. The Oktoberfest Bavarian Buffet described at the Wicker Works is in Troy's Northfield Hilton, not in the Troy Hilton, as Monday's Table Talk column erroneously stated.

The lavish buffet continues from 6-10 p.m. Tuesdays during October. Prices are $10.95 for adults, $9.95 for seniors and $7.95 for children 4-12.

Waiting for films to descend from the wide screen to the video cassette must be the '80s version of waiting for a new book to come out in paperback. Couch slobs will agree, not only is it cheaper to rent, one needs a dress for the occasion.

Here are a few fall releases to take your mind off raking leaves and putting up the storm windows.

"Santa Claus: The Movie." This is the movie made for the sons and daughters of the TV Generation. An inside look at life at the top of the world, the North Pole, it would have been a better made-for-TV movie. It even has its own built-in commercials for McDonalds and Coca Cola when a little poor boy in the film is given a Christmas dinner consisting of those fast food staples.

Jeesh, even Scrooge managed to cough up roast duck with all the trimmings for Tiny Tim. The better for commercial tie-ins, my dear.

Last year Mickey D's handed out picture books based on the movie with its children's meals. Parents deserve a break today but this isn't it.

If you can really transcend your own disbelief and accept Dudley Moore as Patches, one of Santa's head elves, this is your movie. Young children of the TV Generation, say those under 6 years old, liked this movie. Why not? Santa looks like he stepped off of a 19th-century table decoration in this film. The sets of Santa's workshop at the North Pole are elaborate pieces of gingerbread construction — sort of reminiscent of the gone but still lamented Christmas displays at the old downtown Hudson's.

There's one problem. These are supposed to be actors, not puppets. Older children and adults will snore through this one. You'd be better off renting "Miracle on 34th Street." For those who insist on seeing this movie, it'll hit the cable pay stations later on this fall.

"The Music Man." A good family movie before that category turned into a dumping ground for the insipid. When it was first released, critics groaned that the movie based on Meredith Willson's successful musical was shot as if it were still on the Broadway stage. Maybe this isn't the movie for buffs to savor break-through camera angles but years later this chestnut still possesses exuberance.

Robert Preston remains wonderfully convincing as he convinces the parents of River City to spell trouble P-O-O-L. Of course, we all know they invest in his bogus band equipment to keep their youngsters off the streets and out of the pool halls, the video arcades of yesteryear. Shirley Jones writes the book on acting demure as Marion the Librarian. Oh, what the heck, any movie that features a song rhyming Marion with carrion can't be all bad. Throw a bag of popcorn in the microwave, sit back and enjoy.

"Agnes of God." The movie, too, made the transition from Broadway stage to the screen. Along the way, it picked up a few scenes taking place outside the convent grounds where Sister Agnes lives and a newborn baby dies.

Meg Tilly gives a nice low-key performance as the other-worldly Sister Agnes. Jane Fonda is the psychologist sent to investigate the incident who ends up tackling the sort of questions first raised by medieval theologians. Fonda never quite hits her stride in the role.

Generally the movie fails to sustain the tension between 20th-century values and those of a life devoted to religious seclusion. At times it just seems silly, like the conversation between Fonda's psychiatrist and the convent's superior about what brand of cigarettes different saints and ascetics would smoke.

The movie comes close to its mark, but it doesn't deserve a cigar.

It can also be seen this month on HBO.

Spackman luxuriates as villain

Performances of Shakespeare's "Richard III" continue through Sunday, Nov. 2, at Meadow Brook Theatre on the Oakland University campus in Rochester Hills. For ticket information call the box office at 377-3300.

By Cathie Breidenbach

Meadow Brook's innovative production of "Richard III" verges on melodrama. The hunchback king was as malicious, arrogant, and deceitful a character as ever walked the stage, and Shakespeare's awful but immature play about him almost makes an audience want to hiss and boo.

Tom Spackman masterfully portrays Richard as a witty, presumptuous scoundrel whose audacity is almost charming. That is until the trail of blood he leaves dispels the notion.

Richard smirks at the audience after he unveils his dastardly plans. If he'd had a mustache, he'd have twirled it. Tom Spackman's portrayal is almost gleefully villainous. It's fine, down to the lopsided gait of a man crippled both physically and psychologically.

The supporting cast in the Meadow Brook production is not uniformly strong. Thankfully "Richard III" is a tour de force for a strong lead and Tom Spackman is up to the task. Gregg Alquist who plays Buckingham, Richard's cohort in bloody political manipulations, is excellent. So is director Charles Nolte's decision to cast Joseph Reed as the weak and lascivious King Edward IV and to have Jeanne Arnold play Margaret, the deranged prophetess of doom.

THE MEADOW Brook production takes liberties with Shakespeare's script by preceding Richard's usual opening soliloquy "Now is the winter of our discontent..." with a wimpy presentation of the characters in the play.

Pigeon River Country is a Michigan gem

By Gordon Charles
special writer

Most Michigan maps don't show the Pigeon River Country. Adventurers who happen across it may not even suspect they have discovered something unusual unless they take the time to explore its depth. Then they know they have, indeed, found a gem of the highest quality.

Near the top-center of the "mitt," which makes up the state's Lower Peninsula, it consists of roughly 500 square miles of mostly wild lands. The interior portion of about 150 square miles is more than 95 percent state-owned and has been dedicated for use by the public under rules allowing as many non-conflicting uses as possible. Closest to the four corners are Gaylord, Indian River, Onaway and Atlanta, thus making it easy to reach.

Three lovely rivers — the Pigeon, Sturgeon and Black — originate and include nearly their entire upstream watersheds within this forest. Nearby are headwaters of the famed Au Sable and Manistee rivers. The Black is frequently called the finest brook trout river in the Lower Peninsula. The Pigeon and Sturgeon also contain these highly prized trout, along with browns and rainbows.

Young, vigorous hardwoods, well-mixed with coniferous swamps and sandy highlands, are found along the three main streams. All are vital areas to wildlife, especially during the severe, deep-snow winters so common to this region.

Perhaps highest on the PRC's list of fascination features are the wildlife. The largest herd of truly wild elk east of the Mississippi River lives in this forest. So do black bears, bobcats, bald eagles, ospreys, pileated woodpeckers and ravens, all considered fairly rare south of the Mackinac Bridge. Such species require large blocks of wild, quiet habitat, free from the harassments of "civilization."

At one time, this was land nobody wanted. Much of it was barren, stripped of lush white pine cover by uncaring loggers. Later it was burned repeatedly by wildfires, which swept across Michigan. Early visionary P.S. Lovejoy, a member of the old Department of Conservation, prevailed upon his superiors to begin acquiring land within the tract. Over 13,000 acres was bought with hunting license money, while another 6,000 acres was tax-reverted to the state by owners who felt the land would always be worthless.

THE PRESENT Department of Natural Resources has followed Lovejoy's lead in buying land as it becomes available in the PRC. Realizing that "people pressure" can also be a major factor in "loving a beautiful area to death," the DNR adopted a number of restrictions.

Some forest trails have been closed to motorized traffic, including noisy snowmobiles. Enough two-tracks remain open for the general public to enjoy drives through the forest and, for those who wish to explore farther, a number of hiking and cross-country ski trails are available for foot traffic.

It is thus possible for the lucky motorist to catch an occasional glimpse of an elk or other large wildlife, right from the comfort of a car. Best results, though, come from following one of the quiet foot trails, no matter what the season.

September is the prime month for elk watchers. The huge bulls are sounding their clarion calls as they attempt to round up their harems of cows. The sound is like none other and is guaranteed to make the hair stand up on your neck the first time the shrill call is heard.

Within the Pigeon River Country are seven state forest campgrounds with most located on unspoiled lakes or rivers. Several tiny, scenic sinkhole lakes are visible from some of the rustic trail roads. A motorist can drive 20 miles in any one direction without seeing a house, cottage, fence or anything else manmade. There is no other place in Michigan's Lower Peninsula where you can find that. It is a major part of this area's charm and fascination.

THE PRC IS LARGE enough to absorb a reasonable number of visitors seeking a variety of outdoor recreation. Many enjoy just driving the two-tracks to marvel at the scenery and to capture memories with a camera. Fishing, hunting, camping, swimming, boating, horseback riding on a fine trail system are all high priorities. Mushroom and berry picking, bird watching and many northern forest products are all yielded from this same area, usually with reasonably compatible use.

No story about this unique land could be written, however, without mentioning the highly controversial battle between environmentalists and the petroleum industry, beginning in the late 1970s. It was then that a rich oil and gas strike was made on state lands within the forest after they had been leased from the DNR.

A decade of court battles ensued. They were resolved only after oil and gas interests were forced to operate in just a small portion of the southern forest under the strictest rules in the United States. Work is permitted only during periods deemed least disruptive to wildlife breeding habits. New wells must be screened by natural barriers to maintain the forest in seeming-pristine condition. It appears to be working well, especially recently since oil work has nearly stopped in the forest, due to the worldwide oil glut.

EXTREMELY HEAVY snowfall in the PRC closes many of the trail roads in winter, although some are kept plowed. This can be a fine time to don cross-country skis for exploring a winter wonderland setting. For the camera enthusiast, elk, deer and other wildlife often offer ideal lens subjects in gorgeous white settings.

Whatever the season, a visit to the Pigeon River Country can provide a peaceful, quiet interlude from the demands of modern-day civilization. For this, you can thank P.S. Lovejoy and others of vision.

"Pigeon River Country: The Big Wild" is a new book by Gordon Charles, author of today's travel feature on this wild area in Michigan's northern Lower Peninsula.

It tells visitors what to see and do there, as well as containing a history of the 12-year struggle to save this special place from ruination by oil and gas drillers. Ford Kellum, former wildlife biologist,

Whether it be river viewing or nature hikes, PRC has a variety of appeals for the naturalist or the outdoor person. Many enjoy just driving around to marvel at the scenery. Fishing, hunting, camping, swimming, boating, horseback riding on a fine trail system are all high priorities.

felt so strongly about the impending tragedy that he took early retirement from the Department of Natural Resources in order to have more freedom to wage his battle.

His raw courage caused others to join and, together, these "little people" made history during their decade of legal battles that eventually reached the Supreme Court.

Printed by Wm. B. Eerdmans Publishing Co. of Grand Rapids, it clearly shows why this area is so vital to the future. A bull elk on the full-color cover, is symbolic of what interests visitors to the "Big Wild." The book is generously illustrated with photos taken in the PRC, along with drawings and maps.

Personally autographed copies of the book are available by writing to: Gordon Charles, P.O. Box 295, Honor, Mich. 49640, and enclosing a check for $8.95, which includes postage.

County pay flap

Salary hikes proposed for officials

By Teri Benas
staff writer

Wayne County commissioners are considering pay increases of 12 to 65 percent for county elected officials, many of whom have not seen a wage increase in four years.

All this comes at a time when the county faces a serious cash flow shortage, and looming deficit by year's end.

Proposed by commission chairman Richard Manning, D-Redford, the pay increase request would take effect on Jan. 1, 1987, for elected officials if adopted by the full board and County Executive William Lucas. Increases in salaries for county commissioners have also been proposed, but those have not been suggested to take effect until 1989.

Lucas, in a statement this week, sharply criticized the commission for proposing the salary hikes "at a time like this" and likened it to an April Fool's joke.

"IT'S TOO far away from April 1 to be an April Fool's joke, so it must be some kind of Halloween prank some of the commission is playing on Wayne County taxpayers," said Lucas.

A spokesman said Lucas would veto the measure if it reaches the county executive's office.

Based on the proposal, here's how the annual salaries of elected officials would rise:

- County executive: current wage ($72,150); proposed wage ($81,000)
- Prosecutor: current wage ($54,226); proposed wage ($72,900)
- Clerk: current wage ($44,866); proposed wage ($50,855)
- Treasurer: current wage ($41,686); proposed wage ($46,850)
- Sheriff: current wage ($45,866); proposed wage ($51,250)
- Register of Deeds: current wage ($41,686); proposed wage ($46,800)
- Drain commissioner: current wage ($41,686); proposed wage ($46,800)
- Commissioners: current wage ($26,426); proposed wage ($29,970)

COUNTY TREASURER Raymond Woytowicz defended the move as an attempt to address longstanding inequities between the salaries of elected officials and the department heads. He said that elected officials received their last pay hike in 1982, yet department heads and others have steadily seen rises in their salaries.

In some cases, he said, department heads earn $25,000-$30,000 more than the elected officials.

"It's my understanding the board of commissioners has entertained that thought a year and a half ago," he said. "They realize the inequity. For instance, it was recognized even when our CEO took a better than 77 percent increase."

About the county's financial difficulties, which Woytowicz has been particularly outspoken about in recent months, he said: "We've have financial troubles for the last four years and will have them in the future. These problems (pay inequities) will have to be addressed and will have to be resolved."

He called the total increase in elected officials' salaries "really, a fraction of the overall county's trouble."

Manning did not respond to inquiries yesterday about the proposal.

Commission action on Tuesday sent the proposal to the Administration and Rules Committee for a recommendation.

IN ALL, seven commissioners voted in favor of the plan, three voted against it, four were absent and one abstained.

Area representatives supporting the proposal were Manning and Kay Beard, D-Inkster. Milton Mack, D-Wayne, voted no, and Mary Dumas, R-Livonia, abstained.

Others voting in favor were Stanley Rozycki, Jackie Currie, Clarence Young, Bernard Kilpatrick and William Szore.

Those absent were Freddie Burton, Arthur Carter, John Hertel and Samuel Turner.

Dumas, afterward, said she cannot support the plan and abstained because she disagrees with tying elected officials' salaries to the salary of the chief executive officer. Under this proposal, most elected officials would earn a salary that ranges between 80 and 90 percent of the CEO's salary while commissioners would be tied into earning 37 percent of whatever the CEO's salary is at the time.

"I'm concerned with equating that," she said. "This is what happened with the pension system in Livonia."

Symphony leads with Votapek

The Plymouth Symphony opens its first season at 8 p.m. Friday in the Plymouth Salem High School auditorium under the baton of its new music director-conductor Leon Grigorian.

Guest artist will be pianist Ralph Votapek, the only American to have been awarded the grand prize for his performance in the Van Cliburn International Piano Competition. Votapek also has appeared with major orchestras of the United States, including the Chicago Symphony and the Boston Pops Orchestra.

Recently invited by the Soviet government to tour the Soviet Union, Votapek performed in recital and as soloist with orchestras in Leningrad and other major cities. Audiences there were tremendously responsive and his concerts were sell-outs.

THE FRIDAY NIGHT appearance is his first with the Plymouth Symphony. He has chosen to play Prokofiev's Concerto No. 2 in G minor for Piano and Orchestra, Op. 22.

The symphony will perform three excerpts from "The Damnation of Faust" by Berlioz and the Tchaikovsky Symphony No. 4 in F minor, Op. 36.

Following the first concert, a "gala afterglow" will be held at the Mayflower Meeting House during which time concert-goers will have the opportunity to meet Grigorian. Cost of the afterglow is separate from the concert admission and is $10. Hors d'oeuvres will be served and there will be a cash bar. Anyone wishing to make a reservation should call 451-2112. Tickets for the concert will be available at the box office at $6 for adults, $3.50 for senior citizens and full-time college students. Students, 12th grade and under, are admitted free.

In commemoration of United Nations Day, Friday, Oct. 24, the North-West YWCA will open an art exhibit titled "Nicaragua: A People in Search of Peace," featuring the work of two Detroit artists whose perceptions of their visits to Nicaragua are recorded in paintings, drawings and photographs.

Featured will be Lin Baum, a 1971 fine arts graduate of the University of Michigan, who sees her work as "an avenue for social political outreach."

In December 1985, after a crash course in Spanish, Baum went to Nicaragua where for eight weeks she gave herself the mission of capturing on canvas the faces of war. The result is a series of paintings and drawings which, she says, "the first step of my vision of bringing children, who are being forgotten while adults play their game of war, to you through my art."

The other artist is Bob Buchta, a Detroit-based freelance photographer, who was in Nicaragua in March and April of 1980, during the early days of the Sandinista regime. He shot 9,000 frames of both color and black and white photographs and thinks of them as a "protest of clichés."

BUCHTA HAS BEEN a teacher of photography at the University of Detroit and Marygrove College. He has worked as a freelance photographer for the past 10 years. With these photos from Nicaragua, he wants viewers to "meet the Nicaraguan people, see their children, their homes, their work and their play. Then decide if we should be burning their villages."

The Oct. 24 opening of the show at the Northwest YWCA, 25940 Grand River at Beech, 7-9 p.m., will feature guest speakers, a video presentation and a wine and cheese reception. It is open to the public. Call 537-8500 for more information.

'Wearables' show threaded with art

The Ann Arbor Art Association's fifth annual wearable art fashion show will feature the work of 29 Michigan artists — three of them from the Observerland area.

whose work is woven, handpainted, appliqued, stitched, knitted and some are a multimedia presentation.

Both clothing and accessories will be included in this year's show.

Highlighting the show will be the presentation of work by Matthew C. Hoffman, honorary chairman of this year's event.

Area artists who will be featured include former Livonia resident Harriet Kozyn, a Bentley High School graduate who will show fantasy creations, Cynthia Wayne Gaffield, a Livonia resident who has been in previous shows and who will show painted silks, and Farmington Hills resident Janice Haddad, also exhibiting painted silk.

POPULAR ARTISTS from previous shows will be returning with new works and the show has expanded from the previous year to show the work of many new artists.

Artists were selected for the show on the basis of originality of design and quality of workmanship by a statewide jurying process held in June.

To be accepted for the show, an artist must have either created the fabric or the design or both for the clothing. Some artists use commercially available fabrics, but to qualify for the show, they must have substantially altered the fabric to make a unique artistic statement. Artists are permitted to use fabric of their own design with commercially designed patterns.

Staging for the show will have a new dimension. All models will be dressed in black to provide a background for the artist-designed works. Cooperating with the art association in producing the show is the fashion board at Briarwood shopping center.

Tickets for the show must be purchased in advance. Dessert and coffee will be served following the show and are included in the ticket price of $12. Tickets are available at the Ann Arbor Art Association, 117 W. Liberty, Ann Arbor 48104. For more information, call 994-8004.

FinnFest plans announced

Next year will be year of double celebration for Detroit area Finns.

Not only will they be celebrating the 150th anniversary of Michigan's statehood, they will also have the opportunity to commemorate the 70th anniversary of Finland's independence — right in their own backyard.

That backyard is Schoolcraft College in Livonia, which happens to be located in the midst of the largest concentration of Finns in southern Michigan. For that reason, Schoolcraft will host FinnFest '87, a sporting and cultural festival, which will attract Finns from across the country.

As part of the cultural events, FinnFest committee members are planning an exhibition of Finnish art and crafts and are seeking exhibitors. If you are a Finnish-American, and are interested in displaying your art or would like to demonstrate a craft, write to FinnFest '87, Chairman Art and Crafts Committee, P.O. Box 169, Farmington 48024.

Take tea and see

By Arlene Funke
special writer

ALTHOUGH AFTERNOON tea is a cherished tradition in England, it is only now beginning to catch on in the United States.

And catching on it is — and in grand style in the posh surroundings of the St. Regis Hotel in Detroit's newly burgeoning New Center area.

Make no mistake about it, a proper afternoon tea is not simply a cup of tea downed on the run. That holds little appeal. Indeed, afternoon tea is a state of mind, in which you accept the inevitable: you will relax and you will be pampered.

Al and Ellen Sweet of Bloomfield Hills got hooked on this very British custom during a trip to England last year. Now, the couple slip away to the St. Regis to sip tea and nibble on dainty sandwiches in elegant surroundings that closely emulate the best London has to offer.

That's probably because the St. Regis is managed by the British-run Rank Organization. Tea, which is served in the late afternoon, has been a mainstay at the St. Regis since the early 1980s.

"SOME PEOPLE think it's hoity-toity," said Mrs. Sweet. "I like the atmosphere."

"A lot of people seem to enjoy it," said St. Regis hotelier (manager) Michale Kahler. "We serve afternoon tea in all our hotels."

Kahler is familiar with both British customs and American tastes. Kahler was born in London but has been an United States citizen for about 30 years.

Afternoon tea is a time to wind down. The atmosphere is tranquil and unhurried, relaxed but slightly formal. Show up in blue jeans and running shoes and you'll feel out of place. This is a business-suits-for-the-men and skirted-suits-for-the-women crowd.

At the St. Regis, tea is served in the hotel lounge where cocktails are also available (the bar is tucked unobtrusively in a corner). Each small, glass-topped table is adorned with a bud vase filled with a single fragrant fresh flower. Soft music plays in the background.

Diners sit on upholstered chairs or sofas usually found in a living room. If the weather is cooperating, late afternoon sun streams through the windows complementing the setting designed to create a homelike ambience.

"It's the hotel's living room," said Kahler. "Hopefully, you feel just at home having a cup of tea or a cocktail."

The St. Regis offers afternoon tea 3-5 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 4-5 p.m. on Sunday. Diners may choose from a selection of 10 teas including one herbal tea. The server brings each patron his or her own small, dainty china pot and a heavy linen napkin.

THE FULL TEA, at $6, includes finger sandwiches of cucumber, watercress, ham and crabmeat, along with warm scones served with whipped cream and strawberry jam. Scones, typical British fare, are small teacakes filled with nuts and dried fruit. Smaller versions of afternoon tea are also available. Tea, sandwiches and cookies cost $5, and tea with scones is $3. Tea only cost $2.

"We bring all of our out-of-town guests here," said Ellen Sweet.

Al Sweet, owner of a Southfield insurance agency, says the family's fondness for teatime is a bit of a joke.

Daughters Ellen, a student at Oakland University, and Suzanne, who attends Michigan State University, often accompany their parents to tea.

"Americans get away from the niceties," said Mary Ellen, who enjoys the teatime rituals.

According to Kahler, the traditional way of drinking tea in Britain is to drop a sugar cube in the cup, cover it with milk and then pour in the tea. Many people mistakenly call afternoon tea "high tea." Kahler said. In Britain, high tea is characterized by the inclusion of a hot entree, making it a meal. That is often served to children at the dinner hour.

ON A RECENT visit to the hotel, several groups of people were having small business meetings over afternoon tea.

Joseph Barrett of Detroit and Walton Cook of Fenton opted for tea instead of alcoholic beverages after a business meeting.

"It's like creating the occasion — anticipation," said Barrett, an industrial filmmaker. "We've lost a bit of that. Maybe this is a way of getting it back."

Currently, only a handful of local establishments have joined the St. Regis in serving afternoon tea. Two other hotels, the new Berkshire in Southfield, and the Ann Arbor Hilton, serve a limited, complimentary tea to hotel guests only.

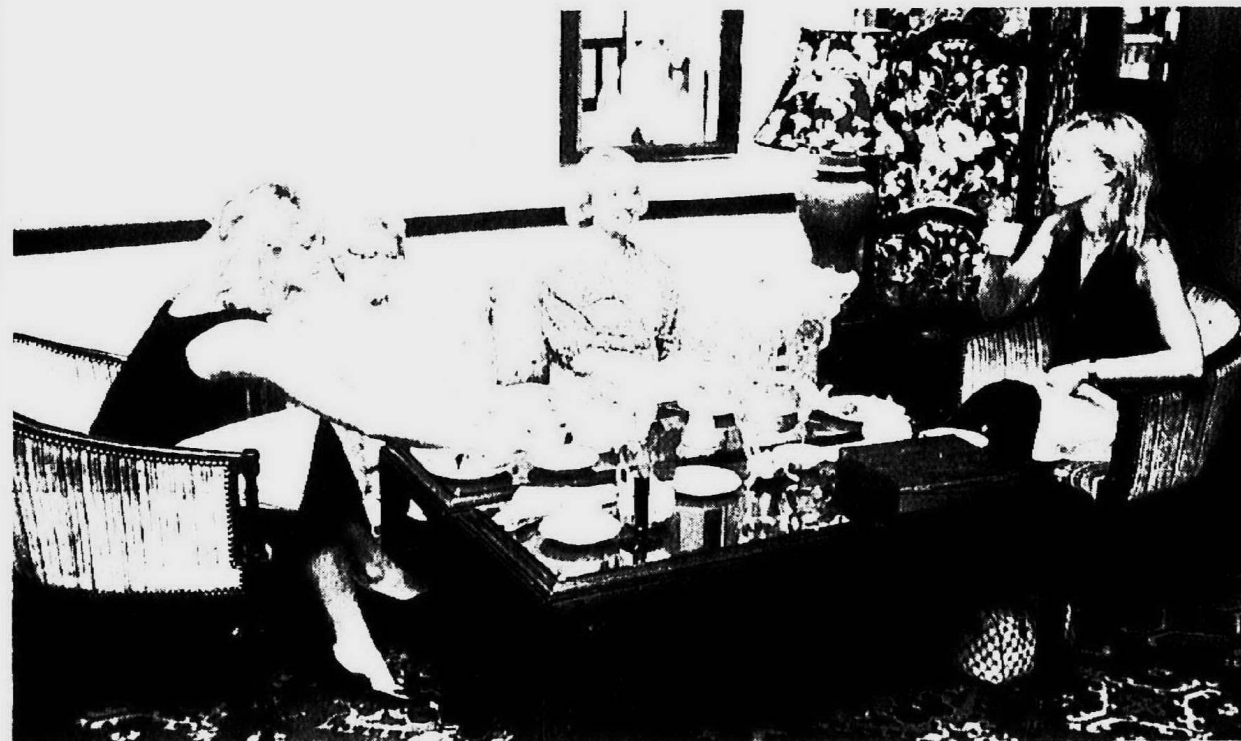

And in trend-setting San Francisco, the legendary Fairmont Hotel has been offering afternoon tea with all the trappings for ages.

Hotel St. Regis waitress Laurie LePain pours hot water into the tea pot as Mary Ellen Sweet watches.

Some people think it's hoity-toity. I like the atmosphere.

— Ellen Sweet

Q: How do you transfer a "rough" drawing to colored papers or art boards?

A: When transferring art to illustration board, paper or colored papers, you must first ask yourself what media you intend to use.

You should use graphite to transfer if your finished media is pencil, colored pencil, scratchboard, pen and ink and watercolor or oils. Beware of graphite transfer sheets. They are thin sheets of paper with a coating of graphite. The problem with them is that the transferred line does not completely erase. This can be a tragedy if you are doing a commercial piece or watercolor.

A simple and fast way to make an "erasable" transfer sheet is to first take a sheet of tracing paper and give it a heavy coat of graphite. Then use a 4B-6B graphite stick, and squirt lighter fluid onto the coated surface. Quickly rub the fluid with a paper towel. Continue rubbing until the fluid is dry and produces an even coating of graphite. Now, when you transfer with your homemade transfer sheet, your transferred line will erase completely from any surface.

When transferring onto dark boards, canvas or colored papers, try pastels as a coating on the back of the artwork. It is best to use a conte' crayon (a small waxy pastel). Be careful to put the conte' crayon only on the lines you wish to transfer and not on the complete backside of your rough.

After you have finished your transfer, you will notice your lines are fuzzy or dusty. Simply blow on them or lightly rub a paper towel over the transferred lines and start your finished drawing.

TIPS & HINTS:

• To clean mat board or to remove a surface scratch, simply moisten a paper towel and rub it gently over the entire area. The moisture causes the paper surface to swell and correct itself.

• A dent on unfinished wood can similarly be removed by placing water on the dent then place a hot iron onto the surface. The heat pulls the moisture up out of the wood and it is hoped the dent with it.

• If you are stenciling an object or material and you want to be sure that paint does not seep under the template, simply spray a light coat of spray adhesive on the back of the stencil. Let it dry until the adhesive has a light tacky feel then lace it on the object you wish to stencil.

• You can do an amazing amount of retouching on black and white prints with a stablilo all pencil or a gamma retouch pencil.

• Everytime you read an article about "Tips" or "Shortcuts" for artists, there will be this old favorite: to prevent ink from seeping under your template put several layers of tape or tape several dimes under your template. But do you know what? That tape gets so dirty so fast that within a few drawings your templates are smeared with graphite all over your paper. Here's a solution: simply buy little "Pro Tabs" or poster hangers. These are little plastic tabs one-by-three-inch or smaller. Cut these super sticky tabs into strips or whatever shape you need and place them on the back of the template. You will notice that your templates slide smoothly and cleanly across your artwork.

• When coloring tracing paper or layout papers with markers, try coloring both sides for a variety of colors. Also you can live up any pencil or colored pencil drawing by bleeding marker colors through from the back side of the paper. This allows you to add color without smearing your graphite or color pencil lines.

Meirelles' Schumann concerto 'incredible'

By Mary Jane Doerr
special writer

COMMUNITY symphonies are a cultural advantage to a city. Fortunately 57 years ago a group of Scandinavian immigrants in this area realized this advantage and formed a Scandinavian Symphony Society 1930, 10 years before Julius Chajes formed the Center Symphony. 17 years before the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra was begun, and 22 years before the Dearborn Symphony was started.

That makes the Scandinavian Symphony Orchestra of Southfield one of the oldest, if not the oldest, community symphony orchestra in the metropolitan Detroit area, instituted only about 17 years after the Detroit Symphony.

That distinct cultural advantage was realized Saturday evening at Southfield High School when the orchestra opened their season with a Traditional Flag Ceremony and the national anthems of Denmark, Finland, Faroe Islands, Iceland, Norway, Sweden and the United States, and particularly appropriate on the day of the Icelandic Summit.

PIANIST MARIA Meirelles soloed with the orchestra, bringing with her a superb musicianship she gained in her three degrees from the University of Michigan.

Meirelles is another in a line of fine pianists to come out of Brazil, the most famous of course, are Guiomar Novaes and Magda Tagliaferro. In Detroit, audiences are very familiar with Oakland University pianist Flavio Varani, also from Brazil.

Meirelles' A minor Piano Concerto by Schumann was incredible. The work, so closely associated with Clara Schumann and her virtuosity, is still a difficult work to perform. The endless cascades of chords in the first and third movements require tremendous strength which Meirelles did not seem to run out of.

Her technical skill seems to come easily, although her concentration is very focused. Her style of play with her arms and wrists, captivated attention because of the way she executed the difficulty of the piece.

Meirelles is a marvelous pianist and someone that we are going to hear more about. She studied with Dr. Charles Fisher, head of the piano department at the University of Michigan and Interlochen, and with Gyorgy Sandor. Her most recent feat was to perform all 32 of the Beethoven sonatas at Carnegie Recital Hall in New York City in a series of seven concerts.

DOUGLAS MORRISON is the conductor of the Scandinavian Symphony and is a musician who places great demands on his musicians. The accompaniment for the Schumann

review

was difficult and required absolute turning and exact entrances and exits. Meirelles' part on the piano was such that she could not make any allowances for any deviation in the orchestra parts.

While Morrison knows and understands his music thoroughly, the orchestra was not always able to follow him. The pitch problems in the lovely Swedish composition Pastoral Suite by Lars-Erik Larsson detracted from the effectiveness of the piece.

Particularly impressive though is the way Morrison drew his musicians out in their color and shading of each number, especially in the challenging Stravinsky's Suite from "The Firebird." It was nicely done with attention to detail. The concert's opener, Prelude to "Die Meistersinger," also was solidly performed.

Morrison knows exactly what he wants and, although he programmed an orchestral workout for his artists, the orchestra responds well to his leadership. He is a conductor whose directions from the podium are clear and decisive. It was especially evident in this concert.

The next concert is scheduled for 2 p.m. Dec. 6 in Southfield High School auditorium and will have a holiday theme.

Mary Jane Doerr, an area freelance writer, has been an Observer and Eccentric music reviewer for the past six years.

briefly speaking

● PALETTE GUILD

The Palette Guild fall art show is on exhibit in the Livonia City Hall through the end of October. A public reception honoring the exhibitors will be held 7-9 p.m. Friday in the City Hall lobby. Show juror is Vicki Brett, Schoolcraft College instructor.

● VAAL SHOW

Entries are being collected for the Visual Arts Association of Livonia's annual fall show. Those wishing to enter the show should drop off the entries at Room 52 in Jefferson Center, 9501 Henry Road, Livonia 5-6:45 p.m., before the group's general meeting, which will begin at 7 p.m. in Room 24.

The VAAL show will open with a public reception on Sunday, Nov. 16, and runs through Wednesday, Nov. 26.

● BALTIMORE CONSORT

At 7:30 p.m. Sunday in The Pool at Henry Ford Estate on the University of Michigan-Dearborn campus, the Fair Lane Music Guild presents a concert by the Baltimore Consort, five instrumentalists and a singer who perform on instruments from the Elizabethan period: fiddle, viol, flute, lute, bandora, and cittern. The program is entitled "The Ballad Monger: Ditties, Dances from 16th and 17th Century England and Scotland" and features popular and art music from the late Renaissance.

Admission is $8, $6 for senior citizens and $5 for students. For further information, call 563-4399. The UMD campus is west of Evergreen between Ford Road and Michigan Avenue.

● 'WOMEN LOOK AT WOMEN'

"Women Look at Women," a Library of Congress touring exhibit of works by American women photographers of the past century, will be the featured show for October in the Sarkis Galleries of the Center for Creative Studies-College of Art and Design, at 245 Kirby in the University Cultural Center area.

The exhibit includes more than 65 photographs depicting the American woman from the 1890s to the 1970s, as captured by such artists as Imogen Cunningham, Laura Gilpin and Frances Benjamin Johnston. Emma Farnsworth and portraitists Gertrude Kasebier and Doris Ulmann are the romantic-era photographers recalling the period from 1890 to 1920.

The Sarkis Galleries are open to the public Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

● DEPRESSION GLASS SHOW

Thirty dealers from several states will exhibit American-made glassware dating from the early 1900s through 1950 at the 14th annual show and sale of the Michigan Depression Glass Society from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday-Sunday, Oct. 18-19 in the Dearborn Civic Center.

In addition to colorful machine-made glassware manufactured during the Depression, finer hand-made glass by Fostoria, Cambridge, Heisey, Imperial, Fenton and Duncan Miller will also be featured.

A donation of $1.50 will provide admittance to both days of the show. Food service will also be available. For more information, call 477-5984.

● DANCE AUDITIONS

The Piazza Dance Company of Northville will hold auditions for competition classes at 4:30 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 18, in the dance company's studios in the Highland Lakes Shopping Center.

For more information, call 348-3720.

● HANDCRAFTERS SHOW

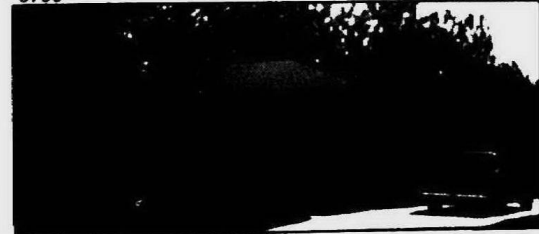

Over 65 artisans will participate in the arts and crafts show by Handcrafters Unlimited from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday-Sunday, Oct. 17-18, in the Northville Recreation Center, 303 W. Main. Admission is $1.

● JAPANESE INK PAINTINGS

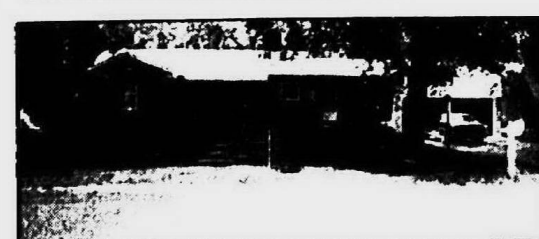

The Detroit Institute of Art announced that it will be only continental U.S. location for the major exhibition of "Water and Ink: Muromachi Period Paintings from Japan 1592-1568. It will premiere at the DIA from Oct. 16 through Dec. 14.

Artist balances 2 approaches to art

By Corinne Abett
staff writer

Marjorie Chellstorp moves with an easy grace from abstract to realism in her watercolors. She likes to work on them simultaneously saying, "I work on the abstract, and then I like to get back to realism."

Both kinds are in her one-artist show which opens today at Congregational Church of Birmingham, 1000 Cranbrook, Bloomfield Hills and continues through Wednesday.

She doesn't question why she thrives on this back and forth approach to her art. She just knows that for her it works. Maybe it's because she's a versatile person and changes of pace suit her.

She teaches art at Madonna College of Livonia and will have a design class there starting in January. She has taught at The Village Club of Bloomfield Hills, Visual Arts Association of Livonia and had work in a recent Fine Arts Instructors Showcase in Livonia.

With Edie Joppich, she owns Wall Art, a corporate art consulting firm and continues to give painting workshops.

ON TOP of that Chellstorp's work has been in many juried national and regional competitions. She recently was half of a two-artist show at The Creative Arts Gallery of Central Michigan University and her pen and ink and watercolor is being used for this year's Lutheran Child and Family Service of Michigan Christmas card.

While many of the about 20 paintings in the Congregational Church show are abstract, a major triptych, "Transitions," depicts the seasonal changes in a garden, from the lilacs and hyacinths of early spring to poppies and peonies and the lilies of late summer.

For the abstracts, often with a rectangle form, which for her is a symbol of God, she uses cold press paper and a lot of glazing to achieve a somewhat translucent effect.

Some of the abstracts in the exhibit, she de-

Marjorie Chellstorp shows how peanut butter jars and flowers go together with an "in-process" watercolor. At right is the first part of her triptych of the seasonal changes of a garden. Each of the three is an entity, but they are also related in theme and approach.

scribes as "sort of a star-gate series with rectangular shapes floating in space." She pointed out that painting an abstract "is not as spontaneous as it might look."

For realism, she works with hot press paper which absorbs the paint, producing a richer, deeper color.

She's also working on a series of flower paintings, with a JIFF peanut butter jar.

The label gives that graphic sparkle to the flowers," she said, adding that she also happens to likes peanut butter.

Even though Chellstorp, with an MFA from the State University of Iowa and other academic credentials, is a longtime teacher as well as studio artist, her work contains a pleasing freshness and vitality, conveying the excitement of seeing something beautiful for the first time. And that, in itself, is an art.

A reception for the artist will be at 12:30 p.m. Sunday. Regular hours are 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., 1000 Cranbrook at Woodward, Bloomfield Hills.

The TransDesigns accessory designer brings the products to the client's home for mix-and-match accuracy.

TransDesign: accessorizing tips on wheels

Remember when carpet was gold or grass green? Remember when picture and mirror frames were wood tones or brass? Remember when bedspreads were solid chenilles or floral patterns?

That's all changed. Today's society offers overwhelming choices and the color choices in decorating your home can sometimes be a confusing maze. It's no surprise then that trying to decide what goes with what can be a difficult task. Rushing from one place to another hoping to match pieces can be exhausting. And integrating the accessories into the overall design of your room can be a puzzle.

BUT THAT'S WHERE TransDesigns fits into the picture. Using an integrated color system, the design firm has put the pieces together through the use of a color computer, augmented by an accessory designer's training in color and design.

TransDesigns accessory designers use a color board when planning a total interior look for a client. After determining an initial color scheme with the customer, the designer pulls fabric swatches, rug samples and mat board pieces in complementary colors, attaches them to a color board, and keeps this in the customer's file for use in selecting appropriate accessories.

All of the TransDesigns accessories are integrated into this color system to allow the designer to provide a coordinated customized interior design in a room.

"It is this integrated color system, an extensive line of quality products brought to you at home and the professional design consultation by trained accessory designers that makes TransDesigns unique and one of the fastest growing decorating companies in the market today," said Phyllis Berg, TransDesigns' regional design director and a nine-year veteran with the Georgia-based company. For more information on the design service, call Berg at 335-2284.

Fair Lane youth guild auditions

Serious young musicians are invited to audition for the Fair Lane Youth Chamber Music Guild.

Fair Lane Youth provides an excellent opportunity for talented and highly motivated student musicians to participate in a professionally directed chamber music program. The guild includes a chamber orchestra and coaching in smaller ensembles.

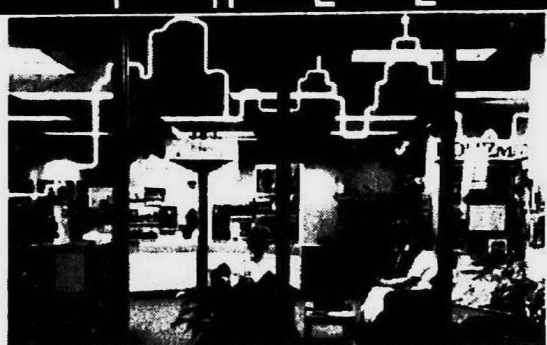

Beginning this month, Fair Lane youth's coaching sessions will be in Birmingham. Formerly coaching sessions were at the University of Michigan-Dearborn campus. This move offers local musicians the opportunity to participate in this intensive educational program, which is organized into two 12-week semesters.

MEMBERSHIP IN Fair Lane Youth includes opportunities for recitals and other public performances. The non-profit organization's students have performed both formally and informally, in a variety of settings. Most guild students have a minimum of four years instrumental experience and previous orchestral experience at the youth symphonic or concert orchestra level. There are low tuition fees.

Richard Pilippo, a popular performing cellist and faculty member of Wayne State University's School of Music, is music director of Fair Lane Youth.

The first coaching sessions will be held in Birmingham on Monday, Oct. 27, in the First United Methodist Church. For more information, call Linda Charbonneau, 353-9488.
