A WARM UP: Coffee, hot chocolate and cookies will be served throughout the Plymouth Ice Sculpture Spectacular by Detroit Edison at its local Customer Service Office at Ann Arbor Trail and Main conveniently located across the street from the Kellogg Park where most of the major works of art will be located. From 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays, Saturdays and Sundays now through Jan. 18, the office will be open to spectators who want to come in out of the cold and warm up at the Edison refreshment hut.

A COUPLE OF CHANGES: Joenne McCoy of Canton, president of the Personal Development Centers at 40400 Ann Arbor Road in Plymouth, has undergone some personal development herself. Just recently she was selected for inclusion in "Who's Who of Emerging Leaders in America," an honor that goes along with earlier selections to Who's Who of American Women, and Who's Who in the Midwest.

These are just a few of the recent personal development changes McCoy has undergone. One is passing the examination and earning the official certification as an ACSW (Academy of Certified Social Workers) social worker; another was being made a faculty member at University of Michigan, and a third has been marriage to Dr. Calvin H. Chen, formerly clinical associate professor of psychiatry at Wayne State University.

TENURED: Dr. Sally A. Childs, a native of Plymouth, recently was granted tenure by the Lake Superior State College Board of Control, Sault Ste. Marie, Mich. She joined the faculty in 1981 as an instructor in the physical education and recreation department and became assistant professor the next year. Before that she was an outdoor recreation specialist for Ohio University, a physical education instructor in Coldwater, Mich., and a resident unit director of a YMCA camp. She earned her bachelor of science degree in physical education from Eastern Michigan University in 1971, a master of science in recreation from Northern Michigan University in 1978, and a doctorate from Ohio State University this year.

OUTSTANDING: Four Plymouth residents were among those who recently were selected as Outstanding Young Men of America for 1986. They are: Timothy Sullivan, Thomas J. Gawlik, Ronald W. Lowe and Charles E. Lowe. The outstanding young Lowe brothers, both attorneys, are sons of the obviously outstanding old Lowe - Chuck Lowe, city attorney for many years and former mayor of Garden City.

ORATORIOS ORGANIZE: The Plymouth Oratorio Society, directed by Robert Pratt, is being organized and an invitation is extended to all who enjoy singing to join. Auditions will not be taken; all one needs to do to join is show up at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 28, at the First United Methodist Church in Plymouth. The society will sing the "Messiah" on April 5 at the church. For information, call 455-3365 or 459-8811.

Omnicom raises charges, quality

By Susan Buck staff writer

Omnicom Cablevision is improving quality programming in spite of rising rates. That's the message delivered recently by Frederick Collman, Omnicom general manager

Since Omnicom was granted its original franchises about six years ago, basic-only monthly rates have risen from the original $7.95 twoyear charter discount rate to the rates imposed New Year's Day of $10.95 in Plymouth Township. $11.99 in the city of Plymouth, and $11.99 in Canton Township.

Last Thursday, (Jan. 1) municipalities were stripped of their power to control cable television rates. This means that subscribers can expect a 5- to 6-percent annual increase, according to Collman.

However, Collman believes that the ever-improving cable TV serhigher rates.

Plymouth banks on finance/clerk choice

staff writer

A longtime Plymouth resident will give up a bank vice presidency to join the city of Plymouth as finance director/city clerk upon the retirement of Gordon Limburg in August.

William Graham, vice president of operations for First of America in Plymouth, is expected to start working in the public sector in late January or early February

"Bill has a good background in finance," said City Manager Henry Graper, who made the appointment. "He's a hometown boy who wanted to stay in the area and was willing to make a move.'

Graham, 43, has been involved in the banking business for 22 years. He's been responsible for branch operations and bookkeeping at First of

'I have no desire to leave Plymouth," Graham said. "To accomplish more as a banker, I'd have to move. The opportunity came up and I saw this as a chance to stay and make a contribution.

GRAHAM will spend the months leading up to replacing Limburg familiarizing himself with the city's budget process, departmental operations and annual audit, Graper said.

As finance director/clerk, Graham will be responsible for monitoring the budget, accounting operations, recordkeeping and running

Schools seek tax vote

By Doug Funke staff writer

Voters in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools will be asked to renew about 28 percent of the discrict's operating millage in a special election Feb. 17.

The 10.36 mill renewal isn't a tax increase and won't result in higher property taxes by itself, said Richard Egli, administrative assistant for community relations.

The 10.36 mills ($10.36 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation) amounts to $414.40 in taxes on a house with a market value of

School operating expenses include salaries, supplies and utilities. The renewal would be for 10 years. Previously, the millage had been levied for a six-year period. A desire to save the cost of special elections - about $6,000 - plus substantial approval margins in renewal elections apparently prompted the board to set a longer expiration period this time around.

THE COST of a special election "is not a real big amount but there is the idea there is a cost to it and people's time is involved," Egli said. "It seems to be passing fairly regular. My feeling is you don't have to have it every other year." Routine approval of the measure is expected. Voters have said yes to the last three operating renewals - 1,888-986 in 1985; 3,417-2,944 in 1982; and 2,463-2,058 in 1981

'I don't know of a straight renewal that's been defeated," Egli said.

The school board Monday, in addition to setting the date for the millage renewal election, authorized the purchase of computer equipment for elementary schools.

Ninety-three compurchased with $107,300 generated by the 1986 bond issue. Delivery is anticipated within a month, said Michael Homes, assistant superintendent for instruction.

Two computers will be going to Tanger, four each to Smith and Farrand, six to Gallimore, eight each to Miller, Field, Bird and Eriksson, nine to Isbister, 10 to Fiegel, 12 to Allen and 14 to Hulsing.

THE ALLOCATION was based on several factors including student population and availability of space.

Ultimately, we want to move to a laboratory setting at each elementary school where computers will be grouped together," Homes said. "Eventually, every kid will have the opportunity to get experience with the computer.

Almost $70,000 of bond money remains to bu, additional computers and software at the elementary level, Homes said.

Ice Spectacular times shifted

The unseasonably warm weather earlier this week has caused some shifts in scheduling for the Plymouth Ice Sculpture Spectacular that opens today.

Since the middle of last week, six Japanese chefs and other professionals have been carving at Midwest Ice Co. in Detroit, and keeping their creations stored in coolers.

The original plan, said Scott Lorenz, co-director of the Ice Spectacular, was to deliver the ice creations with a police escort from De troit to Plymouth Wednesday and set them up in Kellogg Park.

That plan also called for work to begin in Kellogg Park on some of the major pieces Wednesday. With warmer temperatures and expectations of rain. Lorenz and City Manager Henry Graper decided to take precautions to protect against

Chefs and sculptors also will begin carving some major pieces in the park today

Omnicom increases charges, quality

Collman, a Superior Township resident, expects that it will be years before the outskirts of Plymouth Township and Superior Township will be booked up.

"Cable TV is expensive to build. You need a certain number of homes to pay for that expense. Building a mile of cable costs the same whether there are 100 homes in front of it or ten homes in front of it. It doesn't pay to build cable if there are only 20 homes per mile. Our franchise requirement is 70 homes per mile but we go below that."

Omnicom also has franchises in Northville, Northville Township, Belleville and Hamtramck.

Ten percent of Omnicom's subscribers have basic-only channels. The average Omnicom customer has

1.4 pay services, said Collman. The company has 40 basic channels and six pay channels — Home Box Office (HBO), Cinemax, Showtime, The Movie Channel (TMC), PASS and Disney.

Since Omnicom's inception, the company has added 10-15 channels, some of which have passed into oblivion. Home Theater Network, which showed only G or PG-rated movies, recently was dropped because Omnicom could not get enough subscribers. Also dropped was the Entertainment Channel, a pay service, which ran about eight months three

"There has been a continual weeding out of these services,' said Collman.

KEEPING UP with competitors is important to keep abreast of current trends but cable companies must be watchful not to overdo it, explained Collman.

"The state-of-the-art is something that changes everyday. The latest technology in converter boxes is something called addressable which means that the cable operator can talk to the box and change the services just by pushing a button. We can't do that yet.

"Some of the systems that have tried to keep up with the state-of-the-art has shot themselves in the foot because they've got major technical problems because they're trying to be on the cutting edge."

Piracy (theft of service) is a con-tinual problem for cable companies. "If there's a will, there's a way," said Collman. "We've added five channels to our basic service and audited those lines and looked to see what the services are. We do things to protect our equipment. We've nabbed several people. State law imposes up to $5,000 and 30 days of jail for persons convicted of piracy.'

Going to court is "a pain in the neck," said Collman. "We may do a total amnesty program."

Omnicom will pull the plug on lax subscribers who do not pay their bills after 45 days, he said.

VCRs have impacted Omnicom also, said Collman. "Instead of having four pay services, a customer may go down to three because he can time shift his viewing. A VCR home is going to be a cable home."

If a cable customer has problems hooking his VCR to his cable system, Omnicom will assist in the hookup for $25, Collman said.

OMNICOM TELECASTS 35 hours of public access programming a

How can the company gauge the viewing audience for this kind of programming? "You don't really know, other than word-of-mouth, said Collman.

Two years ago, a Michigan State University graduate student polled Omnicom subscribers as part of her thesis by talking to 967 adults and 166 teenagers. "She found that 32 percent of the subscribers looked at access channels at least once a week which means 8,000 people. She said that 7,000 people tuned in to watch coverage of the Plymouth Fall Festival over a three-day period," said

He added that groups who use Omnicom's equipment to produce shows have won national awards. One is the Psychology Club at Plymouth Centennial Educational Park.

Omnicom also plans to put HBO, MTV, VH1, TMC and Showtime in stereo early this month. "That means if you have a stereo TV, these channels will come into your TV in

"Cable TV is not going to increase the amount of TV that a person watches. What it will do is give people the quality programs they want," said Collman.

Plymouth Township officials. wanting to avoid future hassles over flagpole heights, have proposed clarifying local law so that no flag may fly higher than 35 feet in residential or commercial neighborhoods.

Standards also have been proposed for billboards, which, up to now, have been allowed in the township only after court action.

The planning commission was expected to review both proposals last night, then make a recommendation to the township board. The board must approve all ordinance changes.

A three-year legal battle between Jerry Loiselle, the owner of Jerry's Bicycles shop on Ann Arbor Road, and the township sparked the move tó tighten language concerning flagpole heights.

The township maintained that flagpoles, by implication, were structures and subject to the 35-foot height limitation for buildings.

LOISELLE claimed that it was ridiculous to consider flagpoles structures and, absent any specific height limitations in the existing code, he could erect a 70-foot pole to demonstrate his patriotism.

Last fall, the two sides - prodded by a circuit court judge - compromised at 52 feet.

The proposed clarification spells out that a flagpole is a structure "and therefore is compelled to comply with the height restrictions of individual zoning districts," said Planning Director James Anulewicz.

That's 35 feet in residential and commercial districts.

Why a limit? Larger flags could cause noise problems snapping in the breeze and also could distract motorists, Anulewicz has argued.

Flagpoles already in place that exceed the limit probably could remain standing if the ordinance is revised BILLBOARDS, according to the proposed ordinance, would be restricted to industrial areas along I-275 or M-14 not to exceed 378 square feet. Anulewicz said.

Signs also could rise only 35 feet from the surface point of its pole. "We feel that that adequately services the objectives of outdoor advertising signs," Anulewicz said.

"We're hoping this is going to control it," he said. "We are proposing this as an . . . acceptable solution to outdoor advertising and billboards."

One billboard company has taken the township to court and obtained permission to erect nine signs, but with restrictions, Anulewicz said. The township is now in court with another billboard company, he add-

Anulewicz said he expects that the planning commission and the township board will look favorably upon both proposals.

Merit pay

Despite all the arguments WSU has system that works

By Tim Richard

Just say "merit pay for teachers" if you're looking for an argument. Educators resist the idea, though it's politically popular.

Wayne State University is in its third year with a merit pay system, and President David Adamany finds the old resistance is wearing down.

'Merit pay helps us head off the raiding," said Adamany, arguing that "colleges and universities are in a national market.'

The system gives monetary thanks to faculty and academic staff for doing good work, but more importantly it gives institutional recognition to the person, he said.

"AMONG UNIONIZED institutions, we're virtually alone,' Adamany said during an interview in his Mackenzie Hall office overlooking the Detroit campus. "But among research institutions, merit pay is the dominant mode."

He pointed to a survey of the 61 defined "research" universities. Of 51 which responded, almost half -25 - were using merit pay fully. Another 23 were partly on merit, partly on across-the-board systems.

Only three had no merit systems - a category that included WSU until three years ago. "Wayne State, in my view, was way out of kilter with the rest of the country," Adamany

"This is a unionized community," said the president of WSU, which has a center for labor studies named after the late UAW chieftain, Walter Reuther, "so merit pay is suspect. Traditional union opposition is based on the fear it's a tool to punish the union activists, a union-busting device.

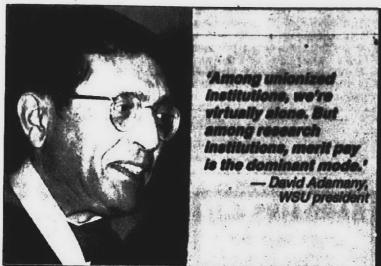

Adamany said some union leaders have done well under merit pay, and there's "no systematic evidence" of

In his fifth year as president, Adamany, a lawyer and political scientist, came here after a career in state government in highly unionized Wisconsin and work at universities in Wisconsin, California and Maryland. Despite its big-city image, much of the WSU faculty lives in the suburbs, particularly southeastern Oakland County, and WSU has launched a major student recruitment effort at satellite centers in Birmingham, Southfield, Livonia, the eastern and downriver suburbs.

WHILE ADAMANY and such leaders as U.S. Education Secretary William J. Bennett like merit pay, others resist:

· Officially, WSU's faculty union denounced it during a brief strike last fall. But the resulting contract

• "Teacher Evaluation: Five Keys to Growth" — a national guideline endorsed by education groups representing teachers, principals and administrators - took a dim view of merit pay, though not of evaluations. It argued that merit pay increases teacher anxiety.

· William Raspberry, a nationally syndicated columnist, opposes it because "The good teachers will go on being good, and the mediocre ones will continue in their mediocrity, with or without merit pay . . You cannot expect the prospect of extra money to improve the performance of mediocre civil servants or teachers - unless you believe they are deliberately mediocre."

• In 1984 Gov. Blanchard's Commission on the Future of Higher Education in Michigan pushed many "new directions" but shied away from mentioning merit pay.

THE WSU SYSTEM is mixed: 3 percent for traditional across-theboard pay hikes, 3.5 percent for merit pay and 0.2 percent for promotions

Of the merit percentage, 1 percent is distributed by departmental committees with what Adamany calls "modestly satisfactory results." That is, some departments just split the money evenly; others work to implement differential raises, he

Heart of the system is the 2.5 percent in the President's/Deans' Fund. He outlined the procedure for judging:

"I've requested the deans to set up committees of five or six members. The deans appoint three who have experience on the promotion-tenure committee and two or three others.

"One student nominated by the student council for each school is appointed. I wanted to get students into

"They make salary recommendations, but the dean has final authority. A merit pay decision can't be grieved," he said.

After ratings are completed, the panels assign "salary priorities" from A to E.

Top ratings don't necessarily assure a professor the A rating for salary increase, Adamany said, because it's sometimes necessary to bring able younger members up to what senior members are earning.

The dean's recommendation goes to the academic vice president who, in 90 percent of cases, upholds it. Where the VP disagrees, the pay adjustment may be either down or up.

IN PRACTICE, 80 percent of WSU's more than 1,100 faculty this year received some kind of merit increase, however small.

Most raises tend to be in the $500 to $1,500 cluster. Median increase was $1,305 - meaning half got more, half less.

The mean increase — total dollars divided by the number receiving them - was $1,889.

Five people got top increases $8,000 to $8,500.

"There's one scientist, maybe in his upper 30s, who was wooed by other (universities). He got 50 percent in three years. I think he'll stay at Wayne," Adamany smiled.

He predicts resistance will continue to soften as more people become familiar with the system. There are 14 committees with five to six members each - nearly 80 members in any one year.

(evaluating) the teaching side (as dispreserved the system. tinct from research). There has not been a single complaint about the students' serving. Most deans say students are a constructive force. "THE DEAN chairs the commitIn granting merit pay hikes from the President's/
Deans' Fund, WSU committees consider three factors:

• Teaching quality — classroom evaluation by the department head, quality of student research project,

 Scholarship — books, articles, chapters in volumes edited by scholars, recitals (for those in performing arts), book reviews, papers delivered to scholarly societies, prizes, successful competition for grants.

• Service - editorship of journals, community boards, consultancies, academic committees

Police recover tools

Canton Police recovered an estimated $45,000 worth of tools and equipment reportedly stolen from Mel's Auto Clinic Sunday, Jan. 4.

Micheal Allen, 28, and Johnnie MacGillivray, 32, both of Taylor, were arraigned Jan. 5 in 35th District Court before Judge John MacDonald. They were each charged with breaking and entering of a business, which is a felony charge carrying a maximum 10 years jail sen-

THE MEN WERE were released on a $5,000 personal bond each and were scheduled for a preliminary examination Jan. 19 in 35th District Court to determine if there is enough evidence to hold trials.

About 12:30 a.m. an employee of Mel's Auto Clinic was driving by the shop on Ford Road west of Canton Center and saw a door was slightly opened. On closer inspection he noticed tools and parts strewn about. He went home, called police and returned to the shop to wait for the officers.

Police officers took the report from the employee, investigated the scene and left.

About 2:15 a.m. Canton officer Dan Antieau drove by the auto clinic and noted a car was parked on the east bound shoulder of Ford Road not far from the shop.

THE OFFICER saw power tools in the back seat and noticed the car "was warm to the touch" - indicating it recently had been driven. Antieau later stopped the owner of the car who was walking on Ford Road toward the car.

The man admitted to involvement in the incident and told police "two other people were responsible for the break-in," according to a Canton Police report.

A description of a second suspect was dispatched over police radios, according to Canton police Lt. Alex Wilson. Canton officer Bill Keppen spotted a man fitting the description of the suspect at the Total gas station on Ford Road. Keppen made the arrest.

One of the subjects pointed out a home in Dearborn Heights where the tools and equipment were being

The stolen goods included three tool boxes valued at $10,000 each, a $6,000 emission tester, battery parts with an estimated value of $400 and tires reportedly

The case still is under investigation, according to Canton detectives.

Bar cited after crash

By M.B. Dillon staff writer

The Plymouth Rock Saloon could lose its liquor license as the result of an alcohol-related fatal car accident Dec. 13.

Plymouth Township Police have filed a violation report with the Michigan Liquor Control Commis-sion charging the bar with "serving liquor to minors on the premises, and with serving to a point of visible intoxication," said Plymouth Township Deputy Chief Chip

A hearing is expected to be held in about 60 days at LCC regional headquarters in Lincoln Park.

Penalties "could range from a $100 fine to license revocation, and anywhere in between," said Snider.

The action stems from the death of Dorcas R. Aumann, 67, of Canton, who was killed in a head-on collision on Joy Road at the I-275

Aumann and her husband were struck by a car driven by Yvonne M. Hillier, 20, of Westland. Hillier and a girifriend had just left the Plymouth Rock and allegedly were driving down the wrong side of Joy with no headlights on when the accident occurred.

Hillier was arraigned last month on manslaughter charges before 35th District Judge James Garber. said.

her, and a personal recognizance bond set at $15,000. A preliminary exam date was set for Jan. 16.

Police statements indicate that Hillier was asked at Plymouth Rock whether she was 21 but was not asked to furnish proof.

The Plymouth Rock, owned by Kenneth Vargo, was cited once be-fore by the LCC, said Verna Foote, supervisor of hearings and appeals

The bar was fined $100 for selling alcohol to an under-age person. Two other counts were dropped because of insufficient proof, Foote

Cocaine

Cocaine is a cunning and convincing drug. It promises good times and thrills but it doesn't warn you about the nightmare it brings.

Cocaine kills.

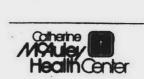

More dangerous and addictive than heroin, cocaine controls its users. Cocaine convinces you there isn't a problem. But if you use it, there is a problem. Learn the facts: From the classroom to the boardroom, lives are ruined everyday because of cocaine.

But there is hope. The Chemical Dependency Program at Catherine McAuley Health Center has a specialized Cocaine Treatment Ser-

Carter picked county chair

Wayne County Commissioner Arthur Carter of Detroit was elected commission chairman this week receiving 13 of 15 votes.

Redford Township Commissioner Richard Manning, who served as chairman for the past four months, recieved his vote and that of Commissioner Kay Beard, D-Inkster. whose district includes Garden City

Voting for Carter were western Wayne County commissioners Milton Mack, D-Wayne, whose district includes Canton Township, and new-comer Susan Heintz, R-Northville Township, whose district includes Livonia and Plymouth.

Carter, a counselor at Wayne County Community College, will serve as chairman for two years. His election was hailed by some county government watchers as a hopeful sign that Detroit and suburban interests are finally coalescing.

But with five new commissioners beginning new terms this week, a break in traditional voting patterns appeared possible.

ELECTED vice chairman on Monday was Commissioner Edward Plawecki, D-Dearborn Heights.

Plawecki and Carter were expected to meet on Thursday (today) to make selections for various committee assignments.

"We are going to have a number of battles in that area," said Carter, 46, who enters his seventh term.

But first, he said, he would work closely with the executive's office and the circuit court and sheriff's department in dealing with overcrowded conditions in the county jail.

About working with the new executive, McNamara, Carter said: 'I have a great deal of respect for him. I've known him for several years. He's done an excellent job for Livonia (as mayor)."

Heintz, an early Carter supporter, said she felt good about the 'new leadership' and hoped to secure a committee assignment in the area of public service. Because of the multimillion dollar upcoming expansion program at Detroit-metropolitan area, she said work in this related committee area should be beneficial to the 10th District, which is home to the Republic/Northwest Airline Reservations Center in Livonia.

Commissioner Mack said: "I know we'll have fair, even-handed, logical leadership (under Carter)."

Said Manning of the loss: "It became obvious (over time) that we couldn't keep our coalition together. It was either going to be one way or

While still expanding the metro Detroit area's economy showed a degree of softness in November, according to the lat-est survey of the Purchasing nt Association of Detroit (PMAD).

"The November report from local purchasing managers showed two areas of strength ance," said David L. Littmann, vice president and senior economist with Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit.

"However, these traditional indicators of increased activity were offset by a significant decline in new order activity and employment.

"Undoubtedly, the end of the ito finance incentive programs influenced the new orders por-tion of the survey, and the No-vember-December announceinfluenced the new orde ments of GM layoffs and plant closings affected the employ-

Curb on smoking can be extended

Emery Daniels editor/459-2700 Susan Roelek assistant managing editor

Now that it's past Jan. 1, most of us can breathe a little easier.

The reason is that a state law prohibiting smoking in virtually all areas of public and governmental buildings has taken effect.

The state Legislature approved the new rules last summer and local school boards, township boards, and city commissions are busy adopting policies and rules and designating a limited number of smoking areas to comply with the new state law.

We hope public leaders, smokers and non-smokers alike, will heed the U.S. surgeon general's recent advice and prohibit smoking everywhere but in private homes.

The benefits of such a move will help everyone.

Anyone who has been close to a smoker can vouch for the problems caused by cigarette smoke.

It permeates your skin, hair, clothing,

Most people can tell immediately when their high school son or daughter has returned from a teen-age nightclub - even if they don't smoke.

That's the immediate impact you can smell.

BUT THERE are more serious problems non-smokers have to face.

One is a recently released report from the U.S. Surgeon General that confirms what previous studies have said: that non-smokers are affected from a health viewpoint by cigarette smoke as are active smokers.

That puts to rest the argument that smokers have used for years: that smoking is their own private business and doesn't affect anyone else.

Not true, according to medical stud-

If someone wants to dig themselves an early grave by smoking and contracting lung cancer, so be it.

But the person sitting next to them shouldn't be dragged into the same grave against their will.

The smoking problem creates a multi-billion-dollar cost to the nation's health care bill because it forces doctors and hospitals to treat and care for patients with cigarette-related illnesses.

Many of those illnesses require extensive and expensive surgery, which we or our employers pay for through higher medical insurance premiums.

ON A PERSONAL level, it's a multiple tragedy to read the obituary of a person who died of lung cancer and whose survivors include a widow and dependent children.

We hope the law that now covers only governmental buildings can be extended to all private buildings where people work or congregrate, such as offices and restaurants.

It's irritating to ask a restaurant hostess for a non-smoking table or booth and then watch her remove an ashtray and replace it with a no-smoking sign.

The new state law has been a long time in coming and our local state senators and repesentatives deserve support for voting for the bill last June.

Local policies and rules seem to be a start in the right direction and we hope any potential loopholes are quickly closed off before someone finds a creative way to avoid using common sense and common courtesy.

Economic problems ahead

THE START of new year is a time of hope. We hope that things will be better in our personal lives. We hope that things will be better in our communities, our state and our nation. Often we even hope that things will be better in the world.

Yet as much as we want to have a new optimism and new hope, we can't help but feel that the year and years ahead will be difficult and challenging in our corner of the world.

In his inaugural address, Gov. James Blanchard spoke pointedly about the need to retrain and educate workers for new jobs as a keystone to any longterm state recovery.

In his inaugural talk, Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara spoke about the necessity of economic revitalization to provide the framework for continuing improvements in govern-

MICHIGAN HAS recovered significantly in the past few years at least partially because of a diversification that made the state somewhat less dependent on the automobile industry.

But still the auto industry is king in this state and will continue to be the mainstay of the state's economy for years to come.

In that industry, we see improvements in product, reliability and repu-

Wisler tation. And yet, there are still signs that the industry continues to slip. The leader, General Motors, loses money and continues to lay off workers. We are warned that automation and technology will continue to increase production capacity and continue to decrease job need. Japan's share of the auto market continues to climb upward.

AS UNEMPLOYMENT mounts it falls increasingly to government to handle the social problems involved.

Blanchard is well aware that many of the state's financial problems are caused by social problems brought about by failing businesses, job layoffs and dwindling opportunities for the less. skillfull to acquire meaningful work. His strong pitch for a well-coordinated job retraining program is an idea inspired, in strong part, by apprehension over what may happen if the state starts another economic slide.

The state's costliest programs are social welfare programs, which were put into place to help people who cannot find meaningful work and who do not have medical insurance. The next costliest are the criminal justice programs made necessary to a large degree, by our inability to make this something less than a have and have-not society.

Economic war won in schools

SIMILARLY, Wayne County's biggest expense is handling the medical costs of indigents who have no medical insurance, and the majority of these costs are to pay for treatment of a relatively small percentage of the population.

Any increases in the population that needs government assistance to survive will mean more burden and problems for government.

This explains why our governmental leaders are so intent on trying to help resolve the current social and economic problems before they get worse.

But, of course, to even approach a resolution, there is needed a strong concensus for action and a coordinated approach involving not only government efforts, but those of business and industry and society as a whole.

We need more of a realization that we move together up and down the economic ladder; and we need a commitment to resolve not only our problems but those of our unfortunate neighbors so that we may as a community avoid the problems of economic downturns.

Mother Nature gives lazy order

IT'S CHEMICAL. Don't panic. We all

It's that feeling of limpness, sleepiness, grogginess; those aches, pains, inability to concentrate.

It's nature at work. You're supposed to feel like that in this weather.

At this writing, the weather is gloomy and dreary. Most of September was like this. Virtually all of December was the same. More gloom is ahead.

Nothing we can do but understand it. .

OUR PSYCHOLOGY columnist a couple years back put his finger on it. As I remember Dennis Sugrue's opus, you tend to be this way on a gloomy day because the lack of sunlight causes a chemical reaction in your head that makes you sleepy. Day after day of gloom leaves you feeling like you've dug three miles of ditches and partied all night.

Sunlight cuts off the chemical reaction, and you feel chipper again.

It happens to deer, too. John Ozoga, writing in the November-December issue of Michigan Natural Resources magazine, said deer in winter have a decreased thyroid function and metabo-

"By midwinter the animals gear down to an almost semi-hibernating $tate, voluntarily reduce their food intake by about 30 percent, and decrease their activity level by at least 50 percent," he wrote. It helps deer conserve energy and fight the cold.

THE SWEDES, up near the Arctic Circle where days are short, have a high suicide rate. Before blaming it on the deleterious effects of Sweden's welfare state and dirty movies, remember that Alaska, too, has a high suicide rate when daylight lasts only two hours.

cember, I seriously considered giving up my life of dissipation. The articles on deer and the remembrance of Sugrue's column quickly brought me to my senses. No one has a cleaner lifestyle than Bambi, and if Bambi feels listless, reforming my dissipated ways won't make me feel any better.

We humans don't hibernate, like turtles and skunks, but in this dreary weather we lapse into a state resembling hibernation.

I IMPROVE my outlook by stretching out on my recliner chair and opening up "Roar of Thunder, Whisper of Wind," Chuck Elfont's excellent picture guide to northern Michigan waterfalls.

Actually, Edna Elfont wrote the delightful text, but I don't have enough energy to read it now; I just look at Chuck's pictures and study the map. I'll read Edna's text in May when I'm plotting out campgrounds for the July vaca-

When I tire of looking at the waterfalls book, I put on a stack of aged Mario Lanza and Enrico Caruso records, lazily admiring their sunny exuberance without feeling any desire to imitate it.

Other folks rejuvenate by opening seed catalogs, which arrive in the winter mail. It's a free country. To me, seed catalogs suggest work.

Listen to your body. If you don't feel like working, don't. If you feel like dozing, doze. Mother Nature commands it.

Feeling dreadful around mid-De-It says so right in the newspaper.

Michigan 150 years old

MICHIGAN was settled not from the east via Lake Erie and Detroit, as you might guess from the map, but via Georgian Bay and Lake Huron. The reason was that the fierce Iroquois ruled the lower Great Lakes.

OK, so the Japanese have done it again - taken one of our ideas and made it work for them. First it was economic development, now it's education.

The next time you drive by that local schoolyard, think about it.

Progress, any country's progress, all starts and stops in the same place — the Education is our biggest tool of defense against crime, disease, poverty and ignorance - the maladies that really hurt our nation, our communities, our neighborhoods. It is the firmest foundation on which we can build economic development.

Educators are our front-line soldiers in the battle. How well they are trained and maintained will determine whether

ROCKETS, MISSILES and tanks just don't compare.

Just ask the Japanese. From a wartorn nation, they have built one of the best primary and secondary education systems in the world. Not faultless: mind you, but one that produces results.

Japan also has risen from the ashes to become one of the strongest economic powers in the world.

Recently, U.S. and Japanese governments exchanged studies on each others' school systems. Both reports conclude that we've got a way to go in cleaning up our educational act.

The American study concludes that Japanese education has aided in creating "a powerfully competitive economy, a broadly literate population; a stable democratic government, a civilization in which there is relatively little crime or violence and a functional society."

The Japanese study tells us where we could improve. And we really might try and listen for once. After all, 90 percent of Japanese high students graduate. They must be doing something correct-

Their recommendations:

1 Make sure there are enough qualified teachers.

 Involve parents more in their children's education.

• Decide who will be responsible for academic content.

• Pay more attention to character formation of students.

 Find ways of educating gifted and disadvantaged students without neglecting one at the expense of the other.

WHILE THE U.S. will be short by about 30,000 teachers next year, teachers are considered a valuable commodity in Japan. While it spends less of its gross national product on education than the U.S., it spends a higher percentage of its educational budget on teachers. For instance, Japanese teachers are paid approximately 12 percent more than engineers.

That may make teacher union representatives happy, but U.S. Education secretary William Bennett notes that Japanese teachers also carry a heavier load, doing more counseling and curriculum duties as well as teaching larger classes than do American teachers.

Oh yes, you might also note that Japan spends only 1 percent of its gross national product on defense. It's the law of the land.

Under the just-announced Reagan budget, defense spending would increase 7.7 percent to $312 billion. Education will be cut 12.5 percent to $14.7

billion. Some defense.

What will be the sterling mark of 1987?

WILL ANYTHING occur in the next 51 weeks to distinguish the year 1987 from all the rest? Will there be a facsimile of Lee Iacocca to lead us into national ga-galand over the birthday of a statue?

Foretelling the unknown is not my bag, so we won't speculate on the hide-and-seek games of international warmongers, the political chess gambits of Washington and Lansing, or even where our beloved Detroit Tigers will finish in the American League pennant chase.

the American League pennant chase.
But in the Almighty's timetable for the United States of America we may well have another tribute through parades, fancy balls, fireworks and everything except tall ships to honor one of the greatest documents ever penned in mankind's quest for freedom: The bicentennial celebration of our Contitu-

But first, let's set the stage.

Eighteen days hence, Michigan will observe its 150th anniversary of state-hood. There'll be a $150-a-copy dinner-dance at the Detroit Institute of Arts, plus $65 and $25 cheapies at Lansing and Marquette.

PARTIES like that bring to mind this paragraph written by my favorite social columnist four weeks ago: "When car parkers couldn't find a black Cadillac one woman asked for — they first brought the wrong Cadillac — her husband reminded her they had arrived in a Mercedes."

If the guy on the assembly line thinks at all on Jan. 26 of Michigan history, it's more apt to be thankfulness for "30 and out" instead of asking his buddy over an after-work beer, "Who the hell was Lewis Cass?"

So be it.

Nonetheless, it may have seeped into our friend's conception that he lives in a land where he is free to worship as he pleases, speak his mind when he wants, send his children to public schools and, hopefully, be considered innocent of any wrongdoing until proven guilty by a jury of his peers.

A HISTORIAN I'm not, but a few days ago I asked myself:

If Cornwallis surrendered the British troops to Gen. George Washington on Oct. 19, 1781 at Yorktown . . . and if the Treaty of Paris formally ending our revolution against the mother country was not signed until Sept. 3, 1783 . . . and if Washington did not take his oath of office as the first president of the United States until April 30, 1789, who the hell was running the store?

It was well and good that we celebrated the 200th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence in 1976. That was the colonists' Declaration of freedom from the crown. It took war to prove the point and make it stick.

But then, you may recall from high school history, a wobbly government was formed under the Articles of Confederation by our forefathers (mothers couldn't vote). This conglomerate of Yankees, Quakers, Southerners et al tried to fashion a parlay on which God himself couldn't quote the odds. It didn't score.

OH, YES; there was one great accomplishment from that initial, interim government: Adoption in 1787 of the Northwest Ordinance governing the territory from which Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin have sprung. That's another 200th birthday worth noting this semester.

But dissatisfaction was rampant. In Virginia and other states, Washington and other leaders wondered whether the colonies had rebelled in vain. They led the movement to form a new government and on May 25, 1787, with delegates from a quorum of seven states present, a convention to draw plans for a new governmental form opened in Independence Hall at Philadelphia.

Their document, called the United States Constitution, was signed on Sept. 17, 1787. Delegates agreed that the new government could be organized after nine states had ratified. Delaware was the first and on June 21, 1788 New Hampshire was the ninth.

IT WAS on Feb. 4, 1789, that the electors named George Washington the first president of the United States of America under a Constitution whose opening preamble still reads:

"We the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect Union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America."

Two hundred years later, those three little words — "We the people" — are just as meaningful. Let's have a parade.

Days get longer as Earth rests closest to sun

special writer

The length of the day increases during this month, the first full month of winter In addition there is a meteor shower and Earth is the closest to the sun it will be all year.

The amount of sunlight we receive this month slowly increases by 48 minutes On Jan 1 sunrise was at 8:01 a.m. and sunset at 5:10 p.m. for a possible 9 hours and 9 minutes of sunshine. On the 31st the sun rises at 7:47 a.m. and sets at 5:44 p.m. for 9 hours and 57 minutes of sunlight.

There was a crescent moon, in the south southwest, on the evening of the 3rd. The two stars it appeared to be approaching are actually planets. The brightest of the two, and nearest to the moon, is the giant planet Jupiter. Above and to the left of Jupiter is the red planet Mars.

Jupiter is a treat to observe even if you only have binoculars. If held steadily enough binoculars can provide enough magnification to let you see as many as four of Jupiter's moons, which will look tiny stars stretched along the plane of Jupiter's equator. The position of these moons change from night to night. (In fact, very careful observers will note changes from hour to hour.

MARS. ON the other hand, will be a disappointment through binoculars While it is closer to us than Jupiter. Mars is many times smaller and will show no surface detail.

The Quadantid (Quad ran tid) Meteor Shower reached its peak on the morning of the 4th. This meteor shower is named for the obsolete constellation Quadrans Muralis, which was located between Draco, Hercules and Bootes. The radiant (point from which the meteors radiate) will be high in the east around dawn. You can expect to see an average of 40 meteors ("shooting stars") each hour. If you are in the countryside, away from large cities, the sky will be darker and it will be easier for you see the fainter meteors. The moon will not be up to scatter light across the sky

Earth was at perihelion (at its closest to the sun) on the evening of the 4th. The orbits of the planets are not perfect circles. They are ellipses (ovals). Each planet has two points in its orbit; one where it is at its closest point to the sun and the other at its farthest point

Since we were the closest to the sun that we will be for the entire year on the 4th (about 91,400,000 miles), you might wonder why we are having our coldest weather instead of the warmest.

Our temperature is not as affected by our distance to the sun as it is by the tilt of our planet's axis of rotaskywatch tion. Earth is tilted 23 1/4 degrees and in winter, when the northern hemisphere is tilted its most away from the sun (and the sun appears low in the sky even at "high" noon), we receive weak indirect light from the sun. Six months from now the northern hemisphere tilts its greatest toward the sun and the temperature begins to increase accordingly. It is the tilt, not the distance, that determines temperature and sea-

THE PLANETS Mars and Jupiter formed a nice grouping with the moon on the evening of the 4th. Jupiter is less than 2 degrees to the west (right) of the moon. Note how much the moon moved by the next night, the 5th, when it was past Mars.

The moon was at first quarter phase on the evening of the 6th. It was one-quarter of its way around

In the morning sky, the planets Venus and Saturn have been moving into a grouping with the star Antares that will soon form a right triangle.

In the southeast about 45 minutes before sunrise on the 7th Venus was very easy to identify; it's the brightest object in the southeastern sky and can be spotted rising 3 hours before the sun. Almost directly below Venus is Antares, the orange-red "heart" of Scorpius, and to the east (left) of Antares is Saturn.

Because Venus is closer to the sun than Saturn, it will move faster than the "ringed planet." Watch the two planets moving, with respect to Antares, during the next few months.

The moon is in the constellation of Taurus the bull on the evening of the 9th. The moon is above and to the right of a beautiful "tiny dipper" called the Pleiades (PLEE a dees). The Pleiades is an open star cluster, marking the shoulder of Taurus, that is especially attractive through binoculars or a low power telescope. It's best seen when the moon is not up, scattering bright light across the sky. Below the Pleiades is the orange-red star Aldebaran (Al DEB a ran), the bull's eye.

On the evening of the 10th the moon is below and to the left of the Pleiades

The planet Mercury is in superior conjunction with the sun on the 12th. Mercury is located behind the sun and can not be seen. By the end of the month it will become visible in the evening sky.

LOOK FOR the moon in Gemini on the evening of the 13th. The moon is approaching the twin stars Castor and Pollux. Which star is which?

Castor is above Pollux. On the oevening of the 14th the two stars from a line with the full moon.

Venus is at its maximum elongation (apparent distance) from the sun on the 15th. It is 47 degrees west (right) of the sun. It is now well up in the sky at sunrise but will slowly begin to draw closer to the sun during the next six months. Venus, Saturn and Antares have gone from forming a right triangle to nearly an equilateral triangle.

Look in the east northeast about three hours after sunset on the 16th. The star about 11 degrees directly below the moon is Regulus, the "heart" of Leo the lion. On the following night the moon is about 3 de-grees to the north (left) of Regulus. During the next five nights the moon continues moving through Leo and into Virgo. On the morning of the 21st the moon is approaching the star Spica (in Virgo) and on the 22nd the moon, now at last quarter phase, is about three degrees to the south (left) of Spica in the south southwest.

Venus will be 2 degrees above Saturn on the morning of the 24th and the crescent moon is approaching Antares in the south southwest. The following morning, the 25th, the moon is less than 1/2 degree from Antares. This is an exceptionally close grouping but for people living from California to northern South America it will be even closer; the moon will occult (eclipse or cover) Antares.

An excellent aid for learning constellations and keeping up to date with the sky is the monthly "Sky Calendar." A one year subscription is $5 and is available from Abrams Planetarium, Michigan State University, East Lansing 48824.

But don't get comfortable in her big office. not if you're planning on spending much time with her, because about as soon as you sit down, you'll be up and off as she scurries from one place to another on the Madonna grounds, her smile leading the way.

Smile? There are river valleys smaller than her smile. It's a smile that makes the Cheshire cat's look like a grimage, like maybe there's a car parked where his tail used to

> A RECENT planning session for next summer's 40th anniversary ball was typical. Its place on the afternoon's agenda came after quick visits to the library and to the computer lab to check on the status of used, donated computers. (The new library was a project particularly dear to Francilene. "1 spent a lot of time with the architects," she said.)

Francilene met to discuss the ball with Nodge, Larry Rzepka, the director of alumni and parent relations, and Sister Lauriana, the school's vice president for development. Francilene asked good questions, got good answers and made good decisions.

· At one point, she decided letters announcing the ball should go out in February. "I think February is too late," said Rzepka.

"No, it's not," said Francilene She said it with a smile but there was a steel edge to her voice. Not unfriendly, but exceedingly firm Next topic, please.

"I'm a good leader in a team approach," she acknowledged.

HERS IS a decisive style of leadership that those close to her say is quick, but fair. She is to the point in a meeting, and those with her are supposed to be to the point, too. No wasted time, motion or energy. The meeting begins, she conducts it like a maestro leading an ensemble, and as quickly as it starts, the meeting ends. And she's out the door and down the stairs to new business elsewhere on the campus or in the community.

Maybe it helps her in conducting her meetings that she conducts elsewhere, too as a regular guest conductor for the Oakway Symphony Orchestra. "I always direct marches, in keeping with my personality," she joked (Francilene will conduct Oakway's 14th annual Cabaret Concert at Madonna at 8 p.m. Saturday, March 28.)

Francilene was a musician and music teacher long before it was decided she would become Madon na's president. She used to teach the tune, now she calls it.

Francilene also sings in the Felician Sisters Choir, is a member of the board of directors of the Livonia Chamber of Commerce and for a long time served on the board of the Detroit Learning and Speech FRANCILENE WAS the first of six children born to Hector and Irene VandeVyver. Four of them are married. Two are Felician sis ters. Francilene and her younger sister by four years, Sister Joyce. who is the principal of St. Sabina School in Dearborn Heights.

Francilene is 45 and looks younger She was 34 when she became Madonna's president and didn't look much older than many of her students. Despite a tenderness in looks and years, she had no hesitations about assuming the presidency and has never looked back wistfully to her former duties of piano teacher at Ladywood.

"I am a person who enjoys what they're doing. When I was a music teacher I really enjoyed it, and I was good at it . . . When I have a new responsibility, I work at it very enthusiastically, 100 percent. I (don't) compare one job to another, one ministry to another.

MINISTRY IS the key word there Ministry and teamwork. Francilene didn't become a college president because she had a lifelong desire to be an administrator. She became one because she was asked by her superiors. As part of her vow of obedience, she accept-

So, in 1974 she became administrative assistant to Sister Danatha. the former president who is now director of computer services, and began course work toward her doctorate in administration, which she received three years later.

Under Francilene, Madonna's budget has grown from about $2.7 million to $11 million and the school has continued to expand its innovative programs.

For example, Madonna is the only college or university in the state with a full-support program for the deaf The school began its extensive adult education program well before it became a staple at other colleges. (Half of Madonna's enrollment comes from traditional. just out of high school ranks and the other half is adults attending part time.) And the school offered one of the first liberal arts majors in gerontology and now has programs in hospice education and emergency medical tech.

In the planning stages? An expansion of business administration and teacher education, a new program for licensed practical nurses to earn their bachelor's degrees, and a $1.3-million, 12,000-squarefoot Educational Development Center.

But the story of Madonna goes beyond facts and figures and new

"We're building a sense of community here," said Francilene. A community that includes everyone from students to faculty to administration to the lowliest janitor. "This isn't just a job, bringing people together for a paycheck.

Francilene has grown in and with the job. "I've developed a greater listening capacity," she said. "And because I have a fast metabolism - I speak fast and walk fast - I've had to slow down and give a presence of being with those people who want to talk to me."

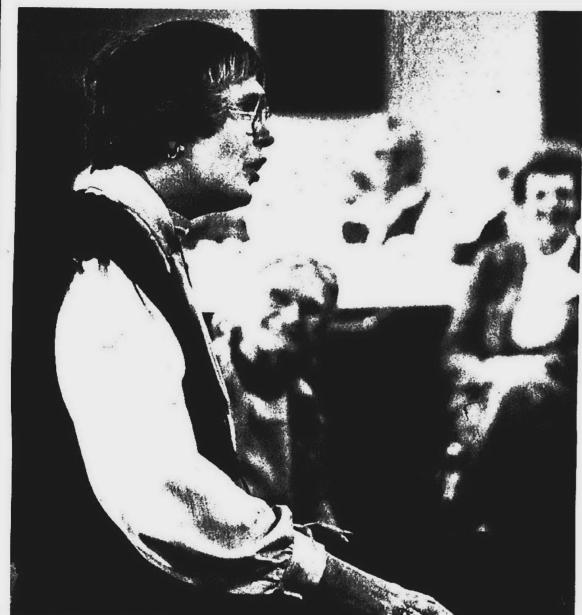

How else has she grown? "In my ability to write." And, with a chuckle, "my ability to answer newspaper reporters.

Joining the sisterhood was something she wanted to do, even as a child.

life-saving protection available in a home fire

But each family member should develop escape plans and practice them regularly.

That is part of the information included in AAA Michigan's new booklet, "Planning for Home Fire Emergencies."
Residential fires claim 6,000 lives each year nationally, and nearly 80 percent of all fires stem from carelessness due to smoking, heating elements, cooking and other appliances, matches, and open flames.

AAA Michigan safety and traffic manager Robert V. Cullen said that most fire deaths are due to smoke and poisonous gas inhalation. Smoke detectors are especially important because 83 percent of fatal residential fires occur between 8 p.m. and 8 a.m., when many people are sleeping.

"No home should be without at fire extinguisher per floor," Cullen

SMOKE DETECTORS should be installed outside bedroom doors and serviced on a regular basis. If a hallway near bedrooms is longer than 30 feet, it should have smoke detectors at each end.

Multi-purpose fire extinguishers should be kept near the doors of rooms with potential fire sources, such as furnaces or stoves. It also is important that a fire extinguisher be kept in the garage. Never spend more than a few seconds fighting a beginning fire.

All families should develop a fire escape plan and practice escape drills every six months. Cullen advised that families make a home floor plan with two escape routes from each room, primarily the door and a window. Stairways, porches and the porch roof should be included, and it is vital to make

If a window is high above the ground, a special fire escape ladder may be needed. A family should have a predetermined safe meeting place outside the house. The fire department's phone number should be memorized and the call made from a neighbor's house. No one should go back into a burning building.

SPECIAL ESCAPE plans are necessary for families with small children, elderly or disabled peo-

Infants and children should sleep in a bedroom next to their parents older youngsters. Children should be taught to call the fire department and how to stop, drop and roll and cover their face with their hands if clothing catches fire.

Elderly persons should sleep on the ground floor, if possible, with a smoke detector and telephone in their room. An escape plan should be developed and practiced.

A visual signal system can aid people unable to hear the alarm and a whistle or shout helps if a visually impaired person gets lost during an evacuation. A specially designed escape plan may be necessary for the physically handi-capped, and the mentally impaired must sleep near someone who can help in case of fire.

If trapped in a room, stay close to the floor if smoke is present. Hold your breath and close your eyes, if necessary. Feel the door, and if there is heat and smoke, do not open it. Seal off cracks around the doors and vents with cloth or rugs, soaked in water, if possible.

Before opening the door, face away, brace and open it slowly. To signal for help through an outside window, use a sheet or other lightcolored article but make sure the door behind you is closed before opening the window.

Prejudiced mind ignores the facts

"It's a junk place."
"They should have kept their money and used it for something worthwhile."

We had eaten in the small cafe several years before, and now were returning with another couple. The man did not realize we were going to eat in this "art center" and was expressing his comments as we drove down the street to a parking lot.

Our luncheon guests were critical of the efforts being made by the community to revive the area as a shopping center. They had seldomn used it in years past, and now they found it even less attractive. It was of no interest to them. They could see nothing worthwhile in the whole communitywide project.

We had a very fine lunch. The food was carefully prepared and served. The cost was very reasonable. It was exactly as we had remembered it, and we enjoyed it as much as we had the first time. We commended the waitress and proprietor for

OUR LUNCHEON guests did not enjoy the lunch. Their prejudgment of the art center did not allow them the opportunity to enjoy the deli-cious food and the pleasant sur-roundings. They were the victims of their own folly.

Prejudice is a common feature of our life. In its raw form, it simply means coming to a conclusive deci-sion without all the facts. Seldom will we have all the facts available to make a decision. Almost every decision made in life is followed by additional information useful to its na-do before we have all the facts is a process we have to learn how to use.

Prejudice becomes demonic when our process of decision making is self-centered. Prejudice becomes demonic when we forget or ignore our place in the community.

PREJUDICE is a common feature of our social fabric. We are seldom privileged with all the facts we need to make decisions. Prejudice becomes a social disease when we make up our minds without any regard for anyone else.

Prejudice can be controlled. De sions can be made without all the facts and yet include the right regard for others. Deliberately intending to live justly, do kindness and walk humbly with God is making a decision about life without all the facts, but it has the right regard for others.

Looking for the good because you know there is the potential for good is certainly a prejudgment of life.

It is also the way to bring the process of prejudgment under control. That is a prejudice we can live with.

Poultry's great for your New Year's diet

tion is to lose weight, get in shape and adopt healthier eating habits. Every year more Americans follow through on this resolution.

Twice as much chicken and twothirds more turkey are consumed annually than in 1965 For many, however, poultry is still served only on "special" occasions or holidays.

Here are the answers to some of the most frequently asked poultry

1. IS ALL poultry lower in fat than red meat - or is just chicken lower? Turkey has the least fat of all poultry products. Chicken has two to three times more fat than turkey or 2.8 teaspoons of fat for chicken with skin to 1.2 teaspoons for turkey with cent more fat than turkey In comparison, skinless duck or goose have about the same fat content as completely trimmed beef, lamb or pork. Skinless turkey breast is almost fat-

Poultry also contains lower amounts of saturated fat which raises blood cholesterol.

2. WHICH IS lower in calories and fat, white or dark meat?

Usually, white meat contains about one-half the calories of dark meat poultry. Breast meat is lowest in both fat and calories, back meat is ing turkeys?

The main ingredients in this basting are vegetable oil (usually soy, corn, or sometimes coconut), salt, artificial flavoring and coloring and sodium phosphate.

You're better off without these, but they don't add much fat or calories than the unbasted variety only about one-fourth to one-half teaspoon per four-ounce serving of

4. CAN GROUND turkey be substituted for ground beef in recipes?

Yes. But you might be surprised to know that store-ground turkey meat contains 24 times more fat that home ground turkey. This is because manufacturers leave on the skin when they grind up the poultry

Even with the skin, ground "turkey" burgers have only one-fourth the amount of fat of "lean" ground

Homemade fried chicken coated in seasoned flour has no more fat than roasted chicken with the skin. To cut fat consumption in half - remove the skin.

NOTHING IMPRESSES

After several years of intense study, a lot of college graduates finally learn something. They're not qualified for the job they want. Fact is, many graduates never find a career in their field of study. All their time spent in study. Not enough time in the field.

That's why there's a nationwide program for college students called Cooperative Education. It allows students to alternate studies at the college of their choice with paid, practical work experience in the career of their choice.

To participate in Co-op Education you don't need to fit into any particular socio-economic group. You don't need to be a straight "A" student either.

All you really need to be, is smart enough to leave school.

Single-family houses selling well into 1987 staff writer

There were 22 5 percent more single-family housing permits issued in southeastern Michigan in 1986 than

And this trend should continue throughout 1987, said Dennis P Dickstein, newly installed president of the Builders Association of Southeast Michigan, based in Farmington Hills.

"There were approximately 12,000 permits issued for single-family housing in 1986, and we should see an improvement on that number this year," Dickstein said Monday at the Michigan Inn in Southfield. "The calendar year 1987 will be marked by continual growth and stability."

HE ALSO believes interest rates will continue downward, although differences will be slight.

Lower mortgage interest rates seems to be a major factor in the resurgence of the two- and threebedroom houses, although the demographics of the country also plays a big role.

'The demand for the two- and three-bedroom home has always been there, but with the lower interest rates, the availability also exists now," Dickstein said.

In past years, the four-bedroom homes have been popular, but the two- and three-bedroom home is now increasing in popularity.

The five-bedroom house is almost never called for anymore. In fact, a let of the four-, five- and six-bedroom homes in the Birmingham/ Bloomfield area are being remodeled into two- and three-bedroom SENIQR CITIZENS make up a large part of the market on these smaller houses, said former association president Fred Greenspan.

"Sixty-seven percent of the senior citizens prefer the smaller, singlefamily, detached homes. With low interest rates on mortgages, these homes are now more available to the seniors," Greenspan said.

The biggest problems facing builders will be lack of skilled labor and lack of available lots.

Part of the problem with the lack of skilled labor began with the recent recession. When sales of new houses declined, many skilled tradesmen retired.

country that weren't hit quite as hard by the recession as southeastern Michigan

The big problem with lot shortage isn't due to lack of available land but rather lack of developed land, he

"The shortage of lots is mainly be cause there were no lots being developed in the recession period," Dick stein said "Most of the lots that were on the market have been used up, and new lots haven't been developed fast enough to keep up with the builders' demand.

The average price of a 22,000square-foot house in Southeastern Michigan is close to $100,000 The national average was more than $84,000 in 1985.

MUCH OF this higher average price was attributed to the use of better materials such as solar pane and triple-pane glass, more efficient insulation, roofing materials and heating systems.

Combining microcomputers and electrical wiring, as was on display in the "Smart House" at the Fall Builders Show at Cobo Hall, will be the most exciting trend, Dickstein said.

"Wiring in new homes will be radically changed over the next few

Are you ready to spend $84,300 for a new house?

That was the average price for the typical house built in 1985, up from $79,900 in 1984, according to the U.S.

At a price of $41.45 per square foot, the average house was a singlestory residence built on a slab with 1,605 square feet. It had three bedrooms, two baths, one fireplace. wood siding, electric heat and central air conditioning. Other findings:

• The largest percentage of houses completed last year (57 percent) had three bedrooms. That was about 1985 from 65 percent in 1981 the same proportion in 1984 but down from 60 percent in 1981.

- The percentage of houses with two or more stories has increased to 42 percent in 1985 from 40 percent in 1984 and 32 percent in 1981
- About half the new houses (48 percent: had two baths - the same as the year before
- Most houses (54 percent) now have one fireplace, up from 50 percent in 1981.

Marketing means more than promotion or selling products in this issue of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers. In her weekly column, consultant Mary Di-Paolo will discuss issues germane to the small-business owner.

"Focus: Small Business" debuts

For many consumer goods and service organizations, the term "marketing" has taken on as many definitions as there are owners or managers to provide them.

"Marketing is promotion, marketing means selling" and the interpretations go on.

ACTUALLY, THE marketing activities of a business are much more diverse than to be generally equated with promotion or "selling" - selling being only one of four possible types of promotional activities a business may choose to pursue.

In fact, the company that relies strictly on "promotion" in planning and developing its overall marketing program is ignoring some major areas of decision-making that affect the long-term success or failure of the whole business.

A well-planned marketing program specifies and makes clear the activities to be performed in each of four major areas of the operation. These areas include all product- or service-related issues, price, promotion, and place (or distribution).

ALL OF these activities must be planned and structured in such a way that they, in the aggregate, work to best satisfy the needs and wants of the various customer groups the business serves (or would like to serve) on a regular basis . . . at a profit to the enterprise.

Best satisfying the customer . . . a profit - that's what every entrepreneur wants to do. It isn't an easy task though, and requires much planning before making major decisions that directly affect the entire business operation - and its success or failure.

HOW DO you go about planning and developing an overall marketing plan for your business?

This issue and many others facing the independent consumer goods and services venture will be addressed in this weekly column from market planning to industry trends and fore-

Life insurance may be best investment choice

A decade ago, in my book, "Personal Finance Lifetime Management by Objectives," I vigorously argued that "buy term and invest the difference" constitutes a sound investment policy. Now, under the Tax Reform Act of 1986, that strategy is no longer universally applicable.

The reason are the emergence of universal life and the special treatment of life insurance under the

The Traditional Role

Traditionally, life insurance policies have been marketed under two icy names: term and whole life. The former provides pure life insurance and is comparable to buying casualty/ property insurance. Since the proba-bility of death increases with age, the term insurance premium goes up each year and at age 60 or 62, the cost of term insurance becomes prohibitive.

There is no investment value associated with term insurance, and the policy lapses as soon as the payment is terminated. Term insurance is a relatively inexpensive way of buying life insurance coverage. By contrast, whole life provides both life insurance and investment. Premiums are much higher for comparable amounts of insurance than would be associated with a term pol-interest, and at some point the owner can borrow or surrender a whole-life policy for its cash value. Even more important, cash value inside a whole life policy always grows tax-deferred. All this sounds good, but there is a catch. The traditional whole life policies paid an extremely low interest rate, frequently as low as 4 percent. It is this fact that led many investors to develop an alternative strategy, popularly known as "buy term and invest the difference.

Birth of Universal Life

The high interest rates of the 1970s combined with the creativity of the insurance industry gave birth

An UL policy may look like a whole life, but it is significantly different. In an UL, a small portion of each premium is used to pay for life insurance, the remainder is invested at competitive market rates, which currently range from 7 to 8.5 per-

But that's only part of the story. UL policies provide a high degree of safety, tax-free compounding of earnings inside a policy, tax-free loans from policy earnings, and taxfree transfer of policy proceeds to beneficiaries at death

Best of both worlds

Tennessee Potter turns art into a living

Nancy Patterson Lamb is an artist who wants the best of both worlds. She started out as an individual artist, the kind who makes one piece at a time and sells it through art galleries and shows.

A quarter of a century ago she decided that she could never make enough money that way to support herself as a potter. Somehow she had to find a way to mass-produce her handcrafted work so that she could make money and still be able to experiment as an artist.

You should see how now, at Iron Mountain Stoneware Inc., in the village of Laurel Bloomery, Tenn., her hand-made pottery coming off a production line of hands in the forested Appalachian

They use the same techniques an artist-potter uses in a studio, making good pottery the way it was made 100 years ago, but the result is several thousand pieces a week sold in hundreds of stores

HOW DID a dreamer like Nancy get to a place like Laurel Bloomery, population 90? She was born in Wisconsin, grew up in California, attended University of Southern California and later Art Center, in Los Angeles, and had worked for five years as a potter when the 'light went on.'

"I knew that I couldn't do things the way they were doing them, making your own clay, hand crafting at every step, and make enough money to go on being an artist-potter," she said. Nancy went on a pilgrimage that lasted several years, to learn how to mass-produce handmade

She spent part of that time in Scandinavia, at Royal Copenhagan in Denmark, and Arabia in Finland, and learned one of many lessons: You need somebody who is good at selling products to support your experience as an artist.

SHE SPENT another four years in Taiwan, learning how to create a production system for handmade ceramics. Peitou Ceramics of Taiwan sold the first handmade stoneware ever sold in the Nancy had never lived in Tennessee, but when it was time to make her dream come true, she moved to this tiny village in the crook of a Tennessee hill, partly because it was a central place among the clays of Tennessee, Kentucky and South Carolina.

Her husband, Joe Lamb, who calls himself 'the errand boy' but is really the vice president in charge of finances and mechanics of this business, has another explanation. "She likes it here."

Joe was an engineer making pottery machinery when they met and he makes that machinery work here among three dozen employees recruited from the local area. Every single one of the employees was trained here, up the hill from the main street, the only street in town. Many have been here since Iron Mountain Pottery opened more than 20 years ago.

Joe and Nancy buy their body clay in bags, but they make all their own glazes and molds. Any housewife watching David Phillippi fit the clay into a mold for a casserole lid would recognize the

HE TAKES a preformed "mud pie" and makes a "pie shell" out of it, poking a hole in the middle to let out the air. He puts the pie in a jiggering machine, exactly the way potters did a century

Lila Dunn is over by the window making handles for a three-quart casserole and Dora Adams is around the corner doing handles for coffee cups. They are "pulling the handles" like art potters do; Joe says this is the only place in the United States where it is done on a production-line

After a little smoothing, the newly formed piece goes through a first firing at 1,800 degrees. That takes the remaining free water out so it can absorb the paint and the glaze.

The ceramic pieces are beginning to look like recognizable products now, especially when you see Fern Street handpainting pitchers, brown plant on biscuit-colored clay. It will be a bluegray background with cobalt blue flowers when it is glazed, fired at 2,500 degrees and ready for the

It is hard to watch Fern and Mary Greel dip that beautiful design in a pot of grayish glaze even though you know that the glaze will be transparent after the firing, leaving the design to show

IN ONE FASCINATING little side demonstration, we watched Mary do something Nancy learned long ago at that Chinese pottery place in Taiwan: If you dip different parts of the plate several times in the same glaze, letting the dips overlap, you will get a pattern because the doubledipped areas come out lighter than the rest. There is iron in the clay and iron in the glaze; the further you get from the iron in the clay, the lighter it

Iron Mountain Stoneware uses the same techniques an artist-potter uses in a studio, making good pottery the way it was made 100 years ago.

That is all back room stuff, of course. If your eyes love good pottery, you have already sucked in your breath as you entered the showroom and saw the plates and bowls and tiles glowing on shelves and tables in every direction. There are dinner plates and fruit plates, Happy Birthday and Happy Anniversary plates, most of them bearing Nancy's own designs.

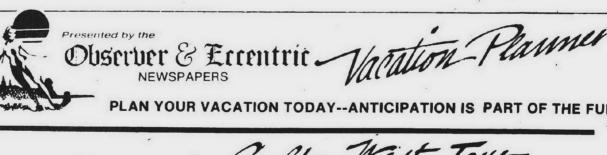

Nancy started out a long time ago trying to make a dream come true. Now she lives amid a glory of mountains, doing the things that every mother does - getting three teenagers off to school, attending ball games and band concerts and she is making her handcrafted pottery on a mass market scale.

The best of both worlds.

For more information, contact Nancy and Joe at Iron Mountain Stoneware Inc., Laurel Bloomery, TN 37680 or telephone (615) 727-8888.

P.S. WHILE you are appreciating what individual creative people can do in their own corner of Tennessee, go a few miles down Highway 19E to the Ridgewood Restaurant, just south of Bluff City, where Grace Profitt and her son Terry make barbecue lovers suck their teeth and say 'ah' with their pork and beef barbecue, served with porkand-beans and slaw.

Ridgewood Restaurant is not exactly a "diner," but it has the same ambience, two long rooms of booths and tables, set against the trees and hills of Tennessee. They smoke meat over green hickory wood and serve it wrapped in a spicy barbecue sauce. The beans come in a pot.

NOTHING IMPRESSES

After several years of intense study, a lot of college graduates finally learn something. They're not qualified for the job they want. Fact is, many graduates never find a career in their field of study. All their time spent in study. Not enough time in the field.

That's why there's a nationwide program for college students called Cooperative Education. It allows students to alternate studies at the college of their choice with paid, practical work experience in the career of their choice.

To participate in Co-op Education you don't need to fit into any particular socio-economic group. You don't need to be a straight "A"

All you really need to be, is smart enough to leave school.

Co:on Eaucai

You earn a future when you earn a degree.

Digger ponders the value of soil

By Timothy Nowicki special writer

ANY ASPECTS of the natural world are subtle and inconspicuous, but have enormous consequences. For example, bacteria are every-where, but because they are microscopic we seldom reflect on their importance - except when we consider infections and disease.

The very soil we walk on while hiking through the woods is a product of the natural world. It is the nurturing substance for all the food we eat, but we seldom think about it as we eat an eggplant.

Last summer I spread five yards of topsoil over our yard. Adding soil to our garden and filling depressions in our lawn, I had plenty of time to think about the importance of soil.

OUR GARDEN was in desperate need of soil because the Livonia area is very sandy. Livonia is located along the beach of an ancient lake that once covered Detroit and many suburbs thousands of years ago.

Its soil is markedly different from the clay soil found in Dearborn where my father lives. Dearborn is closer to the center of the lake where fine particles were laid down to form clay.

Glaciers that covered Michigan until about 10,000 years ago were responsible for the major features of the land we see today. Hills, valleys, lakes, bogs and plains are the result of these two-mile-thick masses of ice scouring the land.

Boulders, stones and small rock particles that lie beneath the top soil were deposited by the glacier. These particles were brought down from northern Canada and covered the bedrock; that formed Michigan before the glaciers arrived.

IT IS THE distribution of these glacial deposits that provide a substrata for plants to grow.

Hilly areas that are well drained provide habitat for certain plants like oak and beech trees. Wet lowland areas are better suited for red osier dogwood and cattail.

On top of the glacial deposit is the organic material from years of plant decay that is very important to today's farmer. It takes about 500 years to form one inch of topsoil, which harbors many of the nutrients for plant growth.

At 10 a.m. Saturday, Jan. 17, there will be a program discussing the "Lay of the Land" at Heritage Park in Farmington Hills. This program will point out the major features of the park and their importance. For reservations, call the Farmington Hills city offices.

Glenn drubs Canton

Thursday January 8 1987 1987

The holiday goodies and lack of court time didn't seem to slow the Westland John Glenn basketball team down at all as it blasted Plymouth Canton 72-50 Tuesday

It was the first game after the break for both teams, and John Glenn returned to action with the same gusto it ended 1986 with

The Rockets went to a zone defense in the third quarter and took advantage of an 0-for-7 shooting drought by the Chiefs as they outscored Canton 24-11 to take a 52-35

"We missed some shots at the beginning of the second half They started running and it really hurt us," said Canton coach Tom Niemi. "In the first half we executed with a lot of patience and were hitting our shots pretty well. Unfortunately we were cold at the start of the second half and it took its toll

Marcus Lowe led the Rockets' third quarter surge dumping in 10 of his 18 points Andy Grazulis led all scorers in the game with 20, six of which he scored in the decisive third

John Glenn took a 17-10 lead in the first quarter only to have the Chiefs pull to within four, 28-24, by the halftime break. But the third quarter chills iced the Chiefs

Sophomore forward Brian Paupore paced Canton with 12 points. Tyrone Reeves added eight for the Chiesf who fell to 2-4 with the loss, 2-2 in the Western Lakes Steve Hawley added 12 for the winners who improve to 5-0 on the season. 4-0 in the Western Lakes.

John Glenn is a very talented team," said Niemi. "They're good perimeter shooters and good inside shooters. They really hurt us when they were able to run off the SALEM 53, CHURCHILL 46: Rick Taylor scored a game-high 20 points in leading Plymouth Salem to a seven point victory at Livonia Churchill Tuesday.

Bryan Kearis dumped in 11 and teammate Jeff Justice added 10 for the Rocks who jumped out to a 12-6 first quarter lead and never looked back. Both teams scored 17 points in the second quarter and Salem outscored Churchill by one, 24-23, in the second half.

'They did a great job against us." said Salem coach Bob Brodie. "Our key was our strength inside. (Don) Albertson did a great job of preparing them for us. They really played a good game.

Senior center Brad Wylie paced the Chargers with 16 points while John Knittel added nine.

scored eight points in Canton's loss.

With the win Salem improves to 5-1 on the season, 4-1 in the league. Churchill falls to 1-5 on the season. 1-3 in the league.

BETHESDA 60: Plymouth Christian Academy outscored Detroit Bethesda in every quarter as it breezed to victory in this Michigan Independent Athletic Conference contest

Led by Pat McCarthy's game high PLYMOUTH CHRISTIAN 86, 29 points and 14 rebounds, the Fagles outscored Bethesda 14-9 in the first quarter, 25-15 in the second, 20-

18 in the third and 27-18 in the final eight minutes of play

Andy Stephens added 15 points and dished off nine assists for the winners Plymorth Christian improves to 5-0. 3-0 in the league while Bethesda drops to 3-1 on the season, 1-1 in the MIAC

Milwaukee. I don't know what made me do it. I was trying to concentrate on the on-court activities. But something came over me. My eyes started wandering, searching the crowd, wondering what they were thinking, what they were feeling, what they were doing here on a Monday outnumbered the audience.

Devious, demented ideas perforated my thought patterns. I could make up a score, make it as lopsided as I wanted, stick it in the paper, and who would argue? The dozen or so fans who braved the 40degree-and-clear weather to come support their team? What a story I could invent. Real National Enquirer-type stuff, with blaring headlines like: ALIENS IN-VADE OU SEARCHING FOR PIO-NEER SCALPS, over a story about a run on OU's souvenir coonskin

Risak

Will TV be the ruin of spectator sports?

ENT TO A basketball game Monday night. Surprised?

I know you aren't. Readers figure members of our weird little fraternity spend all of our waking hours perched in a gym somewhere - anywhere, really analyzing and dissecting a team, a team's chances, a team's person-

Well, here's a bit of news for you. We don't. We do get a night or two off every week. A night just for ourselves, to spend with our families and friends, just like normal

What's that you ask? What do we do with our nights off?

We're not so different. Like your average run-of-the-mill guy, we spend our free nights collapsed on a couch, watching basketball on

Or football. Or hockey. Or indoor soccer or big-time wrestling or America's Cup sailing.

AS A LOCAL radio personality who happens to love basketball would say, "Oooooh, that's scary!" Know what? Nothing could be Amazing what thoughts can suddenly strike you. Take Monday night, for instance. There I was, sitting just behind the scorer's table in Lepley Sports Center, a few minutes into a womens basketball game between Oakland University and University of Wisconsin-

It wasn't too long after those thoughts first struck me that I realized there weren't too many people to wonder about. No crowd. The people working the scorer's table sense took command. Who would believe such a tale, I figured Aliens coming millions of miles to see OU in action, when people a few blocks away wouldn't even

That's when an unreasoning fear took hold of me. What am I missing. I asked myself out loud My tone was soft enough that it wouldn't have distracted anyone in a library, but in an empty gym I got looks from people at the scorer's table, both coaches and the full attention of the players on the

Heck, one official thought I was trying to be a smart aleck and wanted to charge me with a techni-

Still, I was nearly in a panic. Somebody knew something I didn't. Make that lots of somebodies. They were at a tickét giveaway for a tractor pull. Or they found out bowling alleys all over town were sponsoring a 10-cents-a-line night.

Geez. I said strictly to myself. I'm missing all the fun But where

That's when my thought process circled back to TV. And that's when I suddenly realized what a devil's disciple the tube has be-

SEE, I ALWAYS believed sports to be a spectators' event. That's what made it fun. Getting out to a game to watch some talented youngsters work their tails off that's what athletics were all about.

Were. Now a guy can sit at home and watch as much of any kind of sport he wants. Heck, in the nine-day span from Dec. 27 to Jan. 4, there was at least one football game on a day - not counting ESPN re-telecasts.

That's just football. There are a minimum of a dozen basketball games a week on cable TV, with local airings of high school cames not included.

Get my drift? Why should anyone bother going to a high school or college game when they can sit on their duffs in front of a plastic screen and watch a game?

There's nothing quite like being there, in person. But the day is at hand when all the sports we see will be on a screen. Too bad. Because whatever technological advances are made in the next halfcentury, it will never be the same as a first-hand view.

Late goals buoy Engineers

By Chris McCosky

staff writer

Who said ties were boring? The Hennessey Engineers have opened 1987 with a pair of ties neither resembling a sisterly smooch.

In dramatic fashion, the Plymouth-based Junior A hockey team battled from behind to tie the Fraser Falcons on Friday and the North American Junior Hockey League leading Compuware team on Satur-

Both games ended 2-2. And in both games, the Engineers' newly acquired sharpshooter Bob Mlynarek scored the tying goal.

Since Mlynarek was called up from the St. Clair Shores Junior B team, the Engineers have won three games, lost one and tied two. He has scored in five of the six games.

MLYNAREK WASN'T the only hero for the Engineers against the Falcons Friday night. Before a large crowd at the Plymouth Cultural Center, Engineer goalie Dave Church put on a brilliant performance Church, who has missed a good portion of the season with a finger injury, stopped 26 of 28 shots. This was his first game against a top-level opponent since coming back from the injury," Engineers coach A.J. Baker said. "And he came up big. Eleven of their 28 shots came in the third period. He made some huge saves for us."

The Falcons dominated the action on the ice They outshot the Engineers 28-15

"They carried the play, no doubt about that," Baker said. But the shots we did have, we made them count. Canton resident Billy Pye was in goal for the Falcons and stoned the Engineers for nearly two periods. But late in the second period, Falcons ahead 2-0, Todd Tamburino scored a power play goal to get the Engineers on the board Midway through the final period. Mlynarek, set up nicely by linemates Bryan Krygier and J. Jewett, banged home the game-tying goal.

A SIMILIAR scene was played out Saturday at the Oak Park Compuware Arena. An injury-riddled Compuware team held a 2-0 advantage with five minutes left in the game

Leif Gustafson drew the Engineers within one with a pretty goal Then with under two minutes left Mlynarek, again set up by Krygier and Jewett, notched the tying goal.

Although Compuware was playing without two of the league's top scorers, Mike Boback and Dave Szymanski, Baker didn't downplay his team's effort.

'As much as gaining a tie the way we did holding that team to two goals was just a supreme effort on our part," he said

Doug Brown was in the nets for the Engineers and he kicked out 36

According to Brent Bachman, the NAJHL's director of statistics, the Engineers are at the bottom of the three-team league. As of Jan. 4, Compuware leads with a 16-3-4 record. The Falcons have a 12-7-4

hockey

mark and the Engineers are a point back with a 12-10-3 mark. The Engineers are 14-10-4 overall.

The Engineers will host the West Seneca Wings out of Buffalo at 8 20 p.m. Friday then travel to Fraser Saturday to play the Falcons. Gametime Saturday is 8-15 p.m.

LEAGUE ALIGNMENT: It's official Next season the North American Junior Hockey League will feature a 10-team, two-division alignment The Engineers, Falcons, Compuware, Buffalo and the Bloomfield Hills-based USA Jets will compete in Division I Division II will include five Jumor B-level teams Livonia, Woodhaven, Royal Oak, St. Clair Shores and Taylor

"It's definitely a move forward as far as expanding the league and trying to get some continuity into the league," Baker said. "We are trying to create some trust with the parents and players. We're tired of losing players to other leagues out west and in Canada because of the excuse that people don't know how many teams will be in the league from year to year.

The USA Jets, currently a Junior B team, skates out of the Detroit Skating Club arena in Bloomfield

The Buffalo team, currently a Midget Major team, will play a weekend series against NAJHL teams beginning Friday night at Plymouth, On Saturday, Buffalo will play Compuware in Oak Park at 7:15 p.m. On Sunday, the team will play the Falcons in Fraser at 2 p.m. Buffalo was a member of the NAJHL two years ago

COLLEGIATE INTEREST: One of the primary goals of the NAJHL is to showcase local bookey talent to collegiate scouts. Hockey scouts. from the following schools have shown up at recent games. Alabama-Huntsville, American International University in Massachusetts, St. Lawrence University in Wisconsin. Michigan Tech, Lake Superior State College, Illinois Chicago Circle and Ferris State

SCORING LEADERS: As of Jan. 3, the Engineers have three players among the league's top 10 scorers. Larry Pilut, with 13 goals and 21 assists, is third. Bryan Krygier, 14 goals and 18 assists, is fifth Leif Gustafson, 11 goals and 18 assists, is

Don Stone of the Falcons (27 goals and 11 assists) and Mike Boback of Compuware (17 goals and 19 assists) are 1-2 in the league scoring race.

Others in the top 10 are Jim Ballantine of Compuware (15 goals, 18 assists). Todd English of Compuware (14 goals, 17 assists), Don Barton of the Falcons (14 goals, 17 assists), Dave Szymanski of Compuware (15 goals, 13 assists) and Denny Felsner of the Falcons (12 goals, 16 assists)

State deer harvest up in 1986, hunter fatality numbers down ECENTLY RELEASED reports from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources indicate that an estimated 192,000 deer were taken in the Nov. 15-30, 1986, Michigan firearms deer season, making the hunt the most successful ever in the history of the state. Included in that total were 147,000 bucks, another state

The figure indicates a 3 percent increase over the old record of 186,840 deer taken in the 1985 firearm season.

There were an estimated 725,000 hunters taking part in the hunt, which equates to a 26 percent success rate, more than twice the rate of 20 years ago.

The DNR suggests many factors contributed to this record harvest including mild temperatures throughout the season, good tracking snow throughout much of the northern part of the state, the availability of a second firearm deer license, large amounts of standing corn left unharvested last year which provided food for deer through the winter months, and increased activity by the forest products industry, which also provided deer with additional food.

DNR statisticians predict that the combined total of firearms, archery and muzzleloader deer harvests will be near 250,000.

The pre-season herd was estimated at more than 1 million deer.

HAVE A WONDERFUL WINTER

FIVE DEATHS and 28 injuries were reported statewide over the 16day firearm deer season. These numbers are down from the 1985 totals of six deaths and 30 injuries.

Line-of-sight accidents, in other words, hunters being mistaken for game, hunters who are out of sight of the shooter or hunters swinging on game, accounted for 15'injuries and three deaths.

Two people died and six people were injured from self-inflicted wounds involving careless handling of firearms. There were also six injuries attributed to accidental discharge of a firearm between two parties

DNR officials stated that hunter orange was not worn or was not prominent in many of these cases. Careless handling of firearms, not looking beyond the target and not knowing the whereabouts of hunting companions also figured prominently in the accidents.

ICE FISHERMEN and snowmobilers should be cautious of thin ice resulting from deicing devices installed this winter at many Great Lakes harbors and marinas.

The Michigan DNR installed 172 propeller-like deicing devices at six state-operated harbors to help prevent ice damage to piers, catwalks and shoreline bulkheads caused by record water levels on the Great

The Michigan State Waterways Commission also urged each of the 55 municipal marinas along the Great Lakes to take similar action to avoid potential ice damage.

These devices have been installed at the harbors at Mackinac Island, St. Ignace, Hammond Bay, East Tawas, Port Austin and Lexington.

At the Plymouth Salem Invitational on Saturday, CC placed in all 13 weight classes, capturing six individual titles, to outdistance second place Eaton Rapids by 54 points. Host Salem was a distant third in the 16-team field with 145 (see statistical summary).

The Shamrocks, who apparently aren't satisfied with last year's fourth-place finish at the state Class A meet, pulled a few surprises on the day en route to their sixth straight tournament crown.

MATT HELM, the sophomore, pulled a slick move in the final seven seconds to break a 3-3 tie against Salem's previously unbeaten 126-pounder Dennis Dameron, winning the match 7-3.

Brother Jay, meanwhile, was seeded fifth at 112, but took the title against Salem's Sean May, 16-8. That came after May upset No. 2 seed Rob Eeles of Wayne in the semifinals by a point, 7-6.

Another CC standout was junior heavyweight Toby Heaton, who upended Salem's Richard Johnson in the semifinals before pinning No. 1 seed and previously unbeaten Larry Luce of Portage Northern for the championship. Heaton, who pinned Luce in 1:42, now sports a 26-4 and Mitch Quint (138). Gentile decisioned Farmington Harrison's Cliff Alcantara in the finals, 10-3, raising his personal record to 22-7. Rock, meanwhile, was impressive against Salem's Tim Ott, scoring a pin in 1:47, to go 23-3. Quint (25-4) had the toughest match, outlasting Scott Bolan of Eaton Rapids in overtime, 5-0.

Other CC winners included Mike Gentile (105), Brendan Rock (132)

CC COACH Mike Rodriguez calls his young and talented team "selfmotivated.

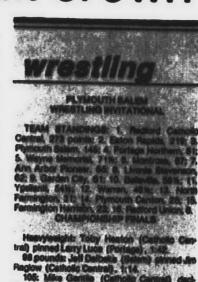

"So far it's been a good year, but we haven't reached our potential," he said. "We're not satisfied with fourth and I haven't cracked the Rodriguez says he just began stepping up his workouts, which include brisk five-mile early morning runs before school. He's making preparations for CC's own tourney, which will be held Saturday, Jan. 17. The meet will attract the state's top teams including defending state champion Temperance-Bedford, Lansing Eastern, Lansing Sexton, Davison, Salem and Hazel Park.

State deer harvest up in 1986, hunter fatality numbers down

Phil Bocketti (Salem)

State cut: 49.59

ports from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources indicate that an estimated 192,000 deer were taken in the Nov. 15-30, 1986, Michigan firearms deer season, making the hunt the most successful ever in the history of the state. Included in that total were 147,000 bucks, another state

The figure indicates a 3 percent increase over the old record of 186,840 deer taken in the 1985 firearm season.

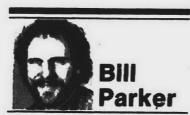

There were an estimated 725.000 hunters taking part in the hunt, which equates to a 26 percent success rate, more than twice the rate of 20 years ago.

The DNR suggests many factors contributed to this record harvest including mild temperatures throughout the season, good tracking snow throughout much of the northern part of the state, the availability of a second firearm deer license, large amounts of standing corn left unharvested last year which provided food for deer through the winter months, and increased activity by the forest products industry, which also provided deer with additional food.

DNR statisticians predict that the combined total of firearms, archery and muzzleloader deer harvests will be near 250,000.

The pre-season herd was estimated at more than 1 million deer.

FIVE DEATHS and 28 injuries were reported statewide over the 16day firearm deer season. These numbers are down from the 1985 totals of six deaths and 30 injuries.

Line-of-sight accidents, in other words, hunters being mistaken for game, hunters who are out of sight of the shooter or hunters swinging on game, accounted for 15 injuries and three deaths.

Two people died and six people were injured from self-inflicted wounds involving careless handling of firearms. There were also six injuries attributed to accidental discharge of a firearm between two parties

DNR officials stated that hunter orange was not worn or was not prominent in many of these cases. Careless handling of firearms, not looking beyond the target and not knowing the whereabouts of hunting companions also figured prominently in the accidents.

bilers should be cautious of thin ice resulting from deicing devices installed this winter at many Great Lakes harbors and marinas.

The Michigan DNR installed 172 propeller-like deicing devices at six state-operated harbors to help prevent ice damage to piers, catwalks and shoreline bulkheads caused by record water levels on the Great

The Michigan State Waterways Commission also urged each of the 55 municipal marinas along the Great Lakes to take similar action to avoid potential ice damage.

These devices have been installed at the harbors at Mackinac Island, St. Ignace, Hammond Bay, East Tawas, Port Austin and Lexington.

The Westland John Glenn gymnastic team blasted off to a mildly surprising 126.55-124.7 season opening victory over visiting Plymouth Salem Monday night.

The Rockets captured top honors in three of the four events to seal the victory.

"It's the beginning of the year and everyone is trying to adjust to the new regulations," said Salem coach Kathi Kinsella. "They changed the rules and maybe they're not familiar with the new ones. It may take a couple weeks. I thought we were close but I wasn't real happy with the judging."

The Michigan High School Athletic Association has enacted stricter judging standards for the 198? season.

Debbie Tomasko led the Rockets with wins in the vault (8.8) and on floor exercise (8.5). She also placed third on the balance beam (7.90). Teammate Debbie Williams added a first-place finish on the uneven parallel bars (8.4) and two secondplace finishes on both the balance beam (7.95) and the vault (8.6).

Angie Temelko picked up points for Glenn with a second-place finish on the uneven bars (8.35). She also placed fourth on both the balance beam (7.8) and the floor exercise (8.15). Glenn's Julie Fitch added to her team's total with 'a fourth-place finish in the vault (8.5).

Jackie Huff paced the Rocks winning the balance beam competition (8.1) and finishing second in the floor exercise (8.4).

Dana Holda finished third in the vault (8.4) and fourth on the uneven bars (7.6) while Becky Talbot placed third on the uneven bars (7.95) and third in the floor exercise (8.3). Jeannie Syria finished tied for fourth place with Glenn's Temelko on the balance beam (7.8).

FARMINGTON HARRISON knocked off Walled Lake Central Monday, 107.4-79.2.

Tracey Solomon dominated this meet winning all four events for

Solomon scored an 8.5 on the balance beam, and an 8.6 in the floor exercise. She won the allaround championship of the meet with a score of 33.85.

Jody Solomon picked up second-place points for the Hawks in the vault (7.6), uneven bars (6.55) and floor exercise (6.8). She also placed third on the balance beam (7.0).

Amy Solomon added a secondplace finish on the balance beam (7.4) while Jenny Rick took third in the vault (7.35).

The win improved Harrison's record to 1-1.

NORTH FARMINGTON coasted to a 129.9-101.4 win Monday against Northville.

Lucine Toroyan (33.95) and Kim Heller (33.65) placed first and second respectively in the all-abbund scoring to pace the Raider victory.

Toroyan won the uneven bars (8.45) and the balance beam (8.8) and placed second in the floor ex-

Heller took top honors in the floor exercise (9.05) and finished second in the vault (8.85), uneven bars (7.85) and balance beam (7.9).

Raider Kara Karhu added a first-place finish in the vault (8.6). North is now 3-0 on the season.

FARMINGTON edged Walled Lake Western Monday 96.1-90.6 in its season-opener despite a solid performance by Western's Wendy Reimer.

Reimer won three events: bars (7.65), balance beam (8.6) and floor exercise (7.5). She placed second in the vault (8.2).

Farmington was led by Amy Frontier. She took top honors in the vault (8.25), tied for second in the floor exercise with teammate Debbie Ford (7.1) and placed third on both the bars (6.45) and beam (6.15).

Ford added second-place finishes on the uneven bars (7.2) and the floor exercise (7.1) and a thirdplace finish in the vault (7.1).

Julie Lawton added a secondplace finish on the balance beam

John Glenn jolts No time to waste for Clor

Court time is precious to Mona Clor. When she gets some, which isn't very often, she doesn't like to waste it.

Mona Clor, the all-time leadi scorer in Redford St. Agatha basketball history, now in her fourth season with the Purdue women's basketball team, came home Friday night. Her Purdue team soundly waxed the University of Michigan 82-61.

Among the 325 people in atten-dance at Crisler Arena were a large group of Mona Clor's family and friends. Througout the second half they chanted, "We want Mona, we want Mona."

With 2:12 left in the game, firstyear Purdue coach Marsha Reall summoned Mona Clor. A loud cheer went out from the Mona Clor fan

And Clor didn't disappoint them. She packed a lot of action into those two minutes and 12 seconds. She picked up three personal fouls, grabbed a rebound, missed a shot, made a steal and hit two free throws.

The performance was typical for Clor. In 10 games (51 minutes) last year, she scored 20 points and grabbed 10 rebounds. If nothing else, Mona Clor is active when she gets on the court.

GETTING ON the court, however,

Clor had played in 36 of Purdue's 91 basketball games in 34 seasons. She has played a total of 195 minutes. That averages out to about five min-utes per each game she appears in and about two minutes per every Boilermaker game. That, folks, is a whole lot of bench warming. Especially when you consider Clor was one of the hottest recuits out of Michigan during the 1982-83 school year.

"I saw her play as a sophomore in high school and I thought she could have played for me right then," said Reall who at that time was building the Saginaw Valley basketball program into a perennial NAIA power-

Clor amassed 1,350 points in her prep career. She averaged 19.5 points and 19 rebounds per game in her senior season leading St. Agatha to a 21-1 record.

Unfortunately, neither St. Agatha nor Mona Clor have achieved such success on the basketball court

"YES, IT'S been hard. I haven't really played at all since high school.' Clor said after the game Friday, in between hugs and kisses from family members and old friends. "I'm disappointed. Anyone would be. Being a top player in high school and then not getting to play in college is disappointing. I guess I haven't played up to my potential. I don't know. I feel like I can play. I just haven't had the chance."

According to Reall, there's only one thing keeping her from more playing time. "Quickness. She just lacks quickness. But she works very hard and she is an important member of our team. She's very supportive of the team and she works hard on our scout team," said the Purdue

The question has to be asked: Did Mona Clor ever consider quitting or tranferring to a school where she could play more?

"As a sophomore I did. But I decided to stay with it. I like the school and I like the people," Clor said.

Clor was homesick and frustrated after her first two seasons. She chose Purdue because she was eager to be on her own. She never counted on the loneliness that accompanies breaking away from old friends and family. She never counted on basketball reducing her - a legitimate bluechip high school star - to a practice player, a virtual spectator.

"THE UPPER classmen on the team helped me out a lot," Clor said They talked to me and made me un derstand things better. Everything got better for me once I started to know more people."

One of the things Clor began to realize was that, regardless of playing time, basketball was paying for a nice education at a major university. She began pouring a lot of energy into her studies. As a result, a year from now Mona Clor will graduate with a valuable degree in visual communications design.

"I have worked real hard," Clor said. "I know all of this will help me in the future.'

As in the final two minutes and 12 seconds Friday night, Mona Clor certainly hasn't wasted her time at Pur-

Growing up on stage

Tyne Turner is home again, at Meadow Brook

staff writer

YNE TURNER doesn't have a big part in Meadow Brook Theatre's current production of "The Rose Tattoo." "I play a 35-year-old Italian mother, Giuseppina, one of the four neighbor women," said the young ac-

"The biggest thing I do in this play is sing backstage. I sing eight times. For this play I sing very subtly, two Italian songs. The voice has an Italian, sexy sound."

Turner has packed a lot of drama training and experience into her 23 years. One of four children of Celia Merrill Turner, the artistic director of Will-O-Way Playhouse, Tyne first appeared behind the footlights at the age of 6 months when she was carried onstage by her mother in the closing scene of a Will-O-Way pro-

Raised in Bloomfield Hills, where the popular repertory theater and acting school had its home for many years (Will-O-Way has since moved to Birmingham), Tyne made her second stage appearance at the family's theater when she was about 11/2 years old. "I remember being awakened, sleeping in a pink tutu, coming on at the end of 'Carnival,'" she

AS A 2-YEAR-OLD, she played her next stage role at Bloomfield Country Day School. "My two sisters went there for free," she recalled.
"My mother directed a Christmas pageant, and I was an angel. I walked up to members of the choir and pulled on their beards and returned to the crib. There are pictures of this in the 1966 school year-Tyne Alda Turner was named after her great-grandmother, Christine (pronounced Chris "tine," rhyming with "fine."

"She was small and they called her Tiny, for short," said great-grandmother's namesake. "They called me Tiny when I was little. When I was about 7, I weighed about 130 pounds. I used to get teased, so they called me Tine instead." She changed the spelling to Tyne, when her name was confused with Tina Turner instead of Tine Turner.

Because she has grown up with so many people knowing her family,

Turner affectionately thinks of lots of these folks almost as if they were relatives. To her, Terry Kilburn, Meadow Brook Theatre's artistic director, is "like my uncle. He's known me since I was very young."

When she was 11, Kilburn wanted her to play young Helen Keller in "The Miracle Worker" at Meadow Brook, but she declined because her father was ill, Turner said.

"I didn't come here (to Meadow Brook) until I was 16." she recalled. She played Bea Bates, a neighbor girl, in director-playwright Charles Nolte's "A Summer Remembered," which was having its world premiere. "I celebrated my 17th birthday in the green room," she said.

A LOT OF schooling and stage performances have happened between then and her return this season to Meadow Brook, on the Oakland University campus in Rochester Hills. She briefly returned to Detroit. then got a call to work for her second season with a dance-theater troupe going to Europe.

While she was in Detroit, Turner left a message for Kilburn with his secretary, saying she was available for work. Kilburn called her in Vermont, where the troupe had gone before leaving for overseas. He offered her two, maybe three roles, in the next three shows at Meadow Brook.

He invited her to be in "The Rose Tattoo," "A Flea in Her Ear" and possibly "A Pack of Lies," she said. 'He was really incredibly sweet. He gave me my (Equity) card."

She will play Antoinette, a French maid, in "A Flea in Her Ear." "Rehearsals start tomorrow," she said Monday, during an interview on the set of "The Rose Tattoo," which runs through Sunday, Jan. 25. Turner isn't perturbed about rehearsing one show while appearing in another. "I've

The producer was Michael Warren, who also lives in Warren. "I stayed there while I was directing. and six weeks later we were engaged," Turner said. "I got my father into a house and got a man to take care of him."

TURNER SAID her flance is "kind of like my manager." She continued, "We're Amway distributors." The couple plans to be wed on Feb. 13, 1988, waiting until they have same some money and also because, 'It's four days after my birthday. I will have turned 25." She said she didn't want to marry until she was at least

Turner plans to have a traditional wedding. "I'd like to give my parents a big froufrou," she said. One of the actress' responsibilities on the cruise ship Norway was putting on shows with celebrities, such as the Smothers Brothers, the Fifth Dimension, Phyllis Diller and Sergio Fran-

"I ran their show and hosted them for a week," she said. Some good friendships were formed. "Sergio Franchi and the Fifth Dimension are probably coming to my wedding."

Turner has been studying and teaching drama since she was a youngster. At the age of 13, she told George Roeper that she wanted to go to his school. He hired her as drama teacher for the lower school, and she taught drama in exchange for tuition. The third year, she got a free scholarship and graduated a year

An interesting sidelight: "My mother had started the theater department at Roeper but quit because she was pregnant with me."

After graduation, Tyne was acpted as a student by three drama schools in London and was planning to attend one on an overseas grant, when the school realized that she wasn't 18 yet and was underage for

SHE PUT HER studies on hold but eventually decided to study in the United States. She was accepted by Juilliard, the North Carolina School for the Arts and the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee.

"UWM was the school I really wanted to go to. It has emphasis on voice, speech and movement." She wanted to concentrate on an actor's technical abilities - with the same attention to technique as when she studied violin for 12 years.

She was 18 when she got in, the youngest student there at that time. The rest of the students were 25-35. (Her roommate was 19-year-old Lindsey Frost, who now plays Betsy on "As the World Turns.") She received her bachelor of fine arts and master of fine arts equivalent in

Turner said she still owes $22,000 for her schooling. She earned $6,000 in December working as a carriage driver in New York's Central Park but describes this as a harrowing experience she wouldn't want to con-

While at UWM, she worked as the speech teacher's assistant. The head of Juilliard contacted her school and she was recommended when the American Academy of Dramatic Arts was looking for a speech teacher. She taught at the academy for about nine months. "I discovered teaching wasn't what I want to do," she said.

But she does have a special interest in speech training. "It's the biggest key to doing what the playwright wrote," she said.

FROM THE YEARS up to when she first went away to college, Turner was definitely overweight. "I'm five foot three and I weighed 180 pounds in college," she said.

"They hired me with the idea of doing a lot of character roles." But during one summer at home, she decided to slim down and lost 60 pounds. When she went back to school, "it was quite a shock to She still played the character

'Book Break' column to debut

NEW YEAR will bring some changes in the Observer & Eccentric's Creative Living section - and if you're "bookish," you're bound to like them. Beginning Jan. 15, and appearing every other week, there will be a new column, "Book Break," written by Westland writer Mona Grigg.

"Book Break" will be a newsy column on what's happening in the world of authors, focusing mainly on established as well as would-be area

From time to time, Grigg also will do book reviews and feature stories on the "write stuff," including pers onality sketches.

Grigg is no stranger to O&E readers. In her free-lance career, she has done several stories that have appeared not only in the Creative Living section, but also in special sections. Recently she did several indepth stories in the O&E Life Goes On special section.

HER ARTICLES ALSO have appeared in Michigan Woman, Jewish News, American Way (Airlines) magazine and the Detroit Free Press. Her writing career also includes a stint with the Associated Newspapers where she was a weekly op-ed page columnist.

Grigg is vice president of the Detroit Women Writers and is a creative writing instructor in the Wayne-Westland Schools Community Education program and a workshop leader in Oakland University's Writer's Conference. She has been a featured speaker and lecturer at Schoolcraft College, Ridgewriters of Farmington and the Detroit Women Writers. She also served as co-chairman of the latter's Writer's Conference last fall at Oakland University.

She also is on the Creative Writers in Schools roster for the Michigan Council of the Arts.

Since 1975, she has been a member of the Westland Historical Commission, serving as chairman from

The new column will alternate with Artifacts by David Messing and a photography column by Monte

As she showed her portfolio of etchings, the most significant of than before. Her two years of study and work in Europe have led the past seven years, Lynn Shaler said she is using more color to a broader palette and wider subject matter.

'Side by Side at Marquis

TH ONE EYE literally focused on the weather and the other more or less on stage. David Pulice is a busy man these days.

Pulice is the artistic director for the Light Opera of Michigan which is scheduled to make its second appearance at the historic Marquis Theatre in Northville in a presentation of "Side by Side by Sondheim" opening this weekend.

He's hoping things roll more smoothly than they did for the group's first show, "Barber of Sev-ille" last September. Inclement weather spoiled several early performances of the production which only ran four nights. The result was smaller than anticipated audiences, which, nonetheless, thoroughly the quality production.

As with the first production, Pulice has put together an outstanding lineup of performers, all of whom are from the metropolitan Detroit

SINGING SUCH favorites as "Comedy Tonight" from "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," "Send in the Clowns" from "A Little Night Music" and "A Boy Like That" from "West Side Story," are Maria Cimarelli of Ann Arbor, Rochelle Rosenthal of Birmingham; Rosemary DiDomizio of Farmington Hills; Mark Vondrak of Ferndale; and Pulice, of Dearborn.

They will be accompanied on the piano by David Wilson of Pontiac and Beverly Labuta of Bloomfield

Light Opera of Michigan - which uses the acronym LOOM - was founded by Pulice in early 1986. Pulice received his musical training at Michigan State University. He also has a degree in architecture which comes in handy in designing sets, stage pieces and even costumes.

His credits include several productions by Michigan Lyric Opera Co., the Opera House Dinner Theatre, Dearb rn Civic Theatre and Dearborn Summer Repertory. He was also an assistant to the director the Nederlander production of "Oliver" at the Birmingham in which he also was the stand-by for Jack Carter who starred in the holiday production.

SOPRANO CIMARELLI is well known to local audiences. She has appeared on virtually every major concert and recital series in the metropolitan Detroit area including Brunch with Bach series at the Detroit Institure of Arts, Kirk in the Hills Recital Series and Bushnell Performing Arts Series.

She was a featured guest artist during the International Schubert Festival sponsored by the Detroit Symphony. She as invited to appear the following year at the Detroit Symphony Orchestra's International Brahms Festival. In 1980, she toured with the DSO to Washington, D. C. and New York concerts at the Kennedy Center and Carnegie Hall as a featured soloist for the opera "Die Aegyptische Helena" which was con-

Lynn Shaler brought a portfolio of her best etchings with her when she came from Paris to spend Christmas with her family in Birmingham. The quality of her new work coupled with her enthusiasm about her career and her growing recognition as an artist both here and in Europe 1973 graduate of Seaholm High School.

She has a bachelor's degree in fine arts from University of Michigan and a master's from Pratt Institute of Brooklyn.

Shaler has been in Paris on and off for the past two years, going initially on a Fulbright scholarship to study with Stanley Hayter, one of the world leaders in the field of viscosity etching.

"It's been great working over there," she said. "I dearly love France. I speak French, I studied the language for years.

HER WORK has been in about 40 national shows in the last 10 years. In Paris she is represented by Madalini Gallery where she will have a one-artist show in November. Her work has been accepted for the Yugoslavian Biennale, an international exhibition that runs from June to September and will be in a major show in Taipei, Taiwan.

Her etchings are in the collections of the Victoria and Albert Museum of London, the Biblioteque Nationale of Paris, the Library of Congress, the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Brooklyn Museum as well as others both public and private.

As she went through the portfolio, giving some ckground on each sons for the particular colors and description of the process, she said, "I was in Venice three times to do watercolors and drawings.'

She came to the profile of a woman. "I love Italian profiles. This took a year to do. The face is all dots. I used a sewing needle and a magnify-

The main difference in my work in the past two years is that I'm using much more color.

IN HER EARLY years as a printmaker, she had worked almost exclusively in black and white, achieving dramatic effects as she concentrated on architectual detail.

life of her favorite cafe in Paris, doorways, country scenes, sides of old buildings, stacks of plates and clocks.

There's often an element of mystery, a sureale image seemingly superimposed over another in her work. The stacks of plates, for instance, which she saw in a Chinese restaurant and sketched immediately, are at once abstract and realistic.

She used Hayter's viscosity technique for these and the mysterious shaded tones heighten the original concept.

She may work for months on a plate before she's ready to pull the first artist's proof. She does small editions and many have already sold

SHE SAID the viscosity etching process, done completely by hand with a 20 pound roller, is so difficult that one print is all she can make.

'My latest series," she said, "is based on an old warehouse in New York. I love buildings that are mysterious and old.

Color etching of Lynn Shaler's favorite cafe in the Latin Quarter of Paris is done in rich tones of russet brown, tan and ducted by Antal Dorati and recorded for London Records. Currently she is singing with the Overture to Opera program for Michigan Opera Theatre. Cimarelli is a featured performer in their Broadway '87 Revue.

Rochelle Rosenthal has received much praise for her performances as the Beggar Woman in Michigan Opera Theatre's "Sweeny Todd," Pitti-Sing in "The Mikado," and Gretchen in "The Student Prince." She appeared in lead roles in "Cinderella," "Guys and Dolls," the "Fantasticks," and "Hansel and Gretel," to name a few. She also has numerous club appearances in New York City to her credit.

ROSEMARY DIDOMIZIO is an acomplished musician/actress/comedienne. She is currently a member of a soloist with the Detroit Symphony Chorale (formerly the Kenneth Jewell Chorale); soloist at the Kirk in the Hills Church and leader performer in theater, Broadway revues and private "Theme" parties. As a pianist, she also arranges voal music and dabbles in songwriting.

Her leading theatrical roles include the Duchess in "The Gondoliers," Buttercup and Hebe in "H.M.S. Pinafore" and Helen in "Sweet Charity" She was also a featured soloist in "Die Fledermaus" with Michigan Lyric Opera Co. In addition to her performing talents, she has directed such productions as "Camelot," "Fiddler on the Roof," and "Sweet Charity"

Baritone Vondrak has sung frequently throughout Detroit in a variety of situations. He has performed roles with the Michigan Opera Theatre, "Faust" and "LaTraviata" and is currently a member of Overture to Opera, the community performance branch of Michigan Opera Theatre.

Vondrak has been a featured soloist with the DSO and several Detroit regional orchestras, including the Wairen Symphony where he performed an Operetta Revue, and the Birmingham-Bloomfield Symphony as soloist in "Carmina Burana" He has also sung in a number of Broadway revues, most recently the role of Sky Masterson in Macomb Centre's production of "Guys and Dolls."

Six performances of the show are scheduled on two separate weekends. Jan 9-11 and 16-18. Shows begin at 8 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays, 2:20 p.m. on Sundays. Tickets are $10 and will be available at the door or from the Marquis Stores, 135 E. Main St. Northville. For more information, call 349-8110 or 349-0868.

MOTHERWELL EXHIBIT

Robert Motherwell: Recent Prints opens with a preview reception at the Alice Simsar Gallery from 6-8 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 10. The gallery is located at 301 N. Main, Ann Arbor.

Born in Aberdeen, Wash., in 1915, Aberdeen is the youngest of the heroic generation of abstract expressionist artists who revolutionized painting in the 1940s and caused a shift in the focus of world art from Paris to New York.

Also on exhibit will be recent paintings of Don Wynn. The artist will be present at the reception. Both exhibits will continue through Feb. 11. Gallery hours are 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday.

BASKETRY SEMINAR

Char TerBeest will conduct a workshop on willow basketry at Tint and Splint Basketry, 30100 Ford Road in Sheridan Square. TerBeest is author of Wisconsin Willow-Adventures of a Basketmaker. A basketmaker for 10 years, she exhibits nationally in numerous shows, fairs, galleries and exhibitions. Her work has been pictured in such national publications as Better Homes and Gardens, Country Home and Fiberarts.

For more information on enrolling, call 522-7760.

• ESCHER PRINTS

"Life and Artwork of M. C. Escher" including materials from personal friends of the famous printmaker will be on display in the University of Michigan-Dearborn library from Friday, Jan. 30 through Monday, Feb. 23. An opening lecture by UM-D art lecturer Electra Stamelos is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Friday, Jan.

• CALL FOR ARTISTS

Michigan's professional performing artists, solos, duos and groups, professional visual artists, museums and galleries with exhibitions to travel, and filmmakers with films to rent or loan are all invited to submit an application for a listing in the "Directory of Michigan Touring Arts Attractions."

The directory is a booking guide for groups and individuals presenting performing arts entertainment and educational programs, exhibitions and films in their communities. There is no charge to artists for this listing.

The application deadline is April 1. Applications are available by writing: The Touring Arts Agency, Midland Center for the Arts, 1801 W. St. Andrews, Midland 48640-2695.

HANDS-ON MUSEUM RE-OPENS

Ann Arbor's popular Hands-On

Museum, containing dozens of participatory and scientific exhibits, has reopened to the public, following a period of major renovations.

The museum, located in the historic fire house in central Ann Arbor, contains two floors of museum space, now completely renovated and with several new exhibits. By February, the third and four floors will be opened for the first time, adding 4,500 square feet of space for new exhibit galleries, a darkened gallery for light and optics exhibit, a computer room, and a math, puzzle and logic game room.

The museum also will have a new entrance, lobby and gift shop area. For more information on visiting hours, call 995-5439. It is at 219 E.

ADDING CLASSES

Center for Creative Studies-Institute of Music and Dance will add to new music therapy offerings to its program at its Center School in Detroit. Beginning in January, the institute will offer Chime Choir as well as Orff Schulwerk for children with special needs.

These new programs will be added to the current private music therapy services provided by the school's registered, board certified thera-

Chime Choir will utilize modified English handbells to provide small group experiences for students between the ages of 7-15. Music therapy Orff Schulwek classes are designed for children 3-10 to attend with a parent. The course is based on activities enjoyed by every child—singing, clapping, chanting rhymes and keeping a beat on anything near at hand.

Tips for new vehicle buyers and owners fo, a source for information on buying, financing, leasing, maintaining, and servicing a car or truck, offers hints for buyers and owners of new vehicles

Here's what they advise to make a

- · Ask for help, if necessary, from a neighbor, relative or friend who knows a lot about cars.
- Read newspapers and car buff. sports and women's magazines for carbuying information.
- Get answers from the salesperson. If, for some reason, you are dissatisfied with the salesperson, ask to see the manager or owner of the dealership and request someone else. Walking out of a dealership is not the answer, unless you call or write to the dealer so that he/she understands you had a problem, which might be prevented in the future
- Understand thoroughly warranty

Do not pay any money until you have made up your mind. Leave nothing to chance or unspoken agreement between you and the salesperson.

Do not pay until you have made up your mind. There is no charge for catalogues, for looking at vehicles in the showroom or test driving vehicles, for a detailed discussion with a salesperson about the vehicle you want, or for a quote from the salesper-

SERVICE DEPARTMENT

· Ask to see the dealership's service department and to meet the service manager before you make your decision. This should have a big influence in your decision to buy. A dealership hopes you will return for your service needs. If you are not satisfied with the dealership's service department before you buy, consider going to a different dealership.

THE TEST DRIVE:

- Test drive a vehicle as similar to your choice as possible. If you plan to buy a stripped-down model, don't test drive a vehicle loaded with options. Suspension and weight could vary between such models and give you a totally different driving impression.
- · Test drive vehicles back to back so that you can make solid comparisons. If you let even a few days intervene, you might forget some of the features that could help you make a wellfounded decision

• Test drive a vehicle under conditions similar to where you usually drive. If you make frequent use of expressways, test drive on an express-

FINANCING:

- The traditional retail finance plan bases payments on the purchase price less the down payment. It has a constant predetermined interest rate for a fixed period, and equal installment payments can be arranged for terms from 12-60 months.
- A balloon note financing plan combines advantages of traditional financing and leasing in a flexible plan for 24 to 48 months. Its significantly lower monthly payments based on a lower financed principle balance enable a buyer to buy a more expensive vehicle and more options.

The balloon note offers several final payment choices such as returning the vehicle, refinancing the vehicle or paying off the note. Unlike lease regulation, a vehicle financed with a balloon note can be titled in the customer's

- A farm payment plan is tailored to correspond to seasonal farm income.
- A college graduate finance plan enables recent graduates with no credit to buy or lease a new vehicle. Eligi-

Saunter over for cider and songs

LYMOUTH ICE Festival visitors are invited to come in out of the cold for hot cider and folk music from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 10 and Sunday, Jan. 11 in Arbor Health Building, 990 W. Ann Arbor Trail.

Musicians Bill and Chris Barton of Ann Arbor will provide Irish and American traditional and contemporary folk music on a variety of instruments, including a hammered dulcimer, banjo, fiddle, recorder, lap dulcimer and guitar.

The Bartons are well-known musicians in the Ann Arbor area who have performed numerous times at The Ark. Bill is a member of Footloose and Chris is one of the SongSisters.

Shuttle service is available

The University of Michigan M-CARE Health Center in Plymouth will sponsor shuttle bus service for the Plymouth Ice Sculpture. Four buses will run continuously noon to 6 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 10-11 and

The bus service will make it easy for people to get to Kellogg Park from the pickup point at the Ford Motor Co. on Sheldon, just north of M-14. To reach the lot from M-14, take the Sheldon Road exit.

There is a 50-cent fee per person (maximum of $2 per family) for the round trip. Proceeds from the bus ser vice will be donated to a Culinary Arts School Scholarship Fund.

"The Plymouth Health Center opened this fall," said Peg Campbell director of public relations for the health centers, "and we felt sponsoring the shuttle bus service would be a good way to become involved with the community as well as provide a worthwhile public service.'

Ice-ing it all are big prizes

HE PLYMOUTH Ice Sculputre Spectacular will showcase the artistry of some of the finest art sculture in the world from Jan. 8 through Jan. 18, 1987. Some 300,000 to 500,000 spectators will view the 10-day event which will include the judging of ice sculptures of more than 100 professional and student chefs and carvers.

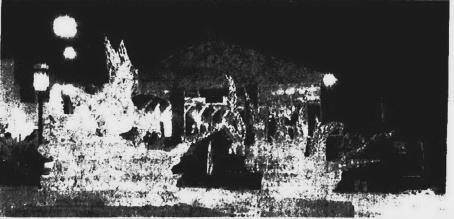

At stake for the professionals will be a free round trip aboard Northwest Airlines to Sapporo, Japan, to represent North America in the Sapporo Snow Festival in February 1987. The winner also will receive a round trip anywhere in the U.S. where Northwest Airlines flies. Second- through-sixth place winners will receive a round trip for two aboard Northwest to U.S.A. destinations. In all there will be more than $8,000 in prizes for the professional sculptors who will compete Saturday, Jan. 17.

The prizes, and honor of representing the U.S. at Sapporo, is enough incentive to lure some of the best, including: Milos Cihelka of the Golden Mushroon, Southfield; Ernesto Fadul, Chicago Hilton; Christopher Ford Detroit Athletic Club; Danieel Hugellieri, Amway Grand Plaza Hotel; Yoshizumi Kawanaka, Mid American Club, Palatine, Ill.; Jerry Krenz. Nice Ice, W. Palm Beach, Fla.; Yasuo Mizuuchi, La Bordeaux Restaurant, Chicago; James Nadeau, Willowbrook, Ill.; Maurie Pearson, Hyatt Regency, Elmhurst, Ill.; Thaworn Prasertsilapa, Forsyth Contry Club, Winston-Salom, N.C.; Steve Rose, Boston Park Plaza Hotel; Brian Tossell, Capitol Hilton, Washington, D.C.; Theodore Wakar, Ford Motor Co.; Thomas Barlow, Drake Hotel, Chicago; Naomi Hamamura, St. Louis, Mo.; and James Jozwik, Ice Is Nice, Matamoras, Pa.

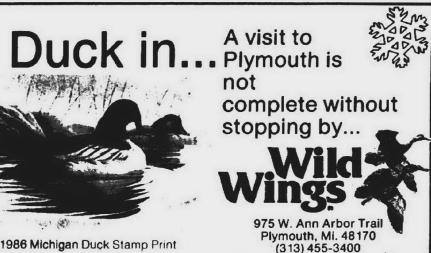

NORTHWEST AIRLINES is the official sponsor of the Ice Spectacular and one of the major sponsora along with Classic Containor Inc. of Plymouth and Miesel-Sysco. The ice festival is organized by the City of Plymouth and Mayflower Hotel through the Plymouth Ice Sculpture Spectacular corporation, a non-profit, private corporation.

This year Northwest Airlines Joined as a major sponsor because it has, since merging with Republic Airlines earlier this past year, became the dominant carrier at Detroit Metro Airport handling 70-75 per cent of all flights. By flying over the six Japanese sculptors and sending the winner here to Sapporo, the airlines also will be promoting the introduction in April of non-stop flights three times a week from Detroit to Tokyo - a service which will expand to daily flights this Northwest also is offering round trip tickets for two to any U.S.A. destination to the first through sixth place winners in the student competition on Saturday, Jan. 10. Students also will be eligible for cash scholarships and medals. Schools represented include Joliet Junior College, Livonia Public Schools, Macomb Community College, Monroe Community College, Oakland Community College, Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, Schoolcraft College, Washburne Trade School, And Washtenaw Community College.

The Gathering, across from Kellogg Park, will be the scene of the competition for the professional chefs from across the country from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 17.

Festival launches sesquicentennial

HE PLYMOUTH ICE Sculpture Spectacular has some far-reaching ramifications that extend beyond the boundaries of the city of Plymouth where the festival is held..

For one thing, it will be the first major event statewide to kick off the celebration of the State of Michigan Sesquicentennial.

The heart of downtown Plymouth will be transformed into an ice art gallery featuring some of the world's finest ice sculptors.

The fifth annual ice spectacular officially has been designated as a sesquicentennial happening by the Michigan Department of Commerce which awarded a $5,000 grant towards the cost of the 10-day winter extravagan-

Entitled "Symphony on Ice," the sesquicentennial centerpiece will feature carvings of 50 or more musical instruments on a stage, under colored lights, with taped music, including a composition written especially for Michigan's 150th anniversary.

Cash Bar

The fifth annual ice spectacular officially has been designated as a sesquicentennial happening by the Michigan Department of Commerce which awarded a $5,000 grant towards the cost of the 10-day winter extravaganza.

FOR THE SECOND YEAR, there will also be several major works done by six of world's best Japanese chefs, who have been flown in from Sapporo, Japan, compliments of Northwest Air-

They will add an international flavor to the ice show by carving sculptures using 20 blocks of ice or more. The chefs/ice carvers include: Keiichi Oshio, Toyoshi Yamguchi, Fumio Unio, Noboru Yamamoto, Kazuo Kobari and Mitsuyuki Koya. The chefs will not be competing.

Other major works of art carved in ice will be created by chefs throughout the U. S. who will be arriving for the professional competition Jan. 17. In the past, the professional competition has drawn top ice sculptors from such places as Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas, the Hyatt-Regency, Knickerbocker Chicago Hotel, Ford Motor World Headquarters, Westin Chicago, Sheraton Lakeview, Sheraton Oaks Hotel, Mayflower Hotel, Win Schulers, Miesel/Sysco, Southern Alberta Institute of Tehcnology, Chrysler, Machus Red Fox and other country hotels, country clubs and industrial caterers.

The Japanese chefs will conduct a seminar at Schoolcraft College while they are here. The session is set for Monday, Jan. 12. An interpreter will assist with instruction. Ice sculptors may request that an application be sent to them by calling Paul Sincock, 453-1234 or writing him at 201 S. Main, Plymouth.

The student competition on Jan. 10 will feature culinary art students competing for scholarship fund, with some earning college credits for their participation.

The midwinter ice festival has become so popular that at the end of the third annual event, attendance reached an estimated 300,000 spectators, attracted at least 400,000 persons last year. This year, crowds are guesstimated at a half-million during the 10-day period.

Animal lovers are in for a frosty treat at the Plymouth ice spectacular—thanks to the efforts of Livonia Public Schools culinary arts students who have created an ice zoo at the fifth annual festival. The students spent their Christmas vacation and a lot of their own free time recently creating the "zoo" in the back of Franklin High School. One such student was Kris Gutierrez of Churchill High School who "saw" her way to creating this icy alligator. Students competed for scholarships and college credits.

While the center of activity is the 15-some major works — measuring 15-by-10-by-five feet — under lights in Kellogg Park, spectators also can view hundreds of individual carvings by leisurely walking along the streets surrounding the commons area.

In all, (weather permitting) some 400,000 pounds of ice will be available to create 200 works of art.

For the second successive year, the spectacular was named to the list of "Top 100 Events in North America," by the American Bus Association, placing the festival in a list of special events such as the Super Bowl, the Rose Bowl and the Indianapolis 500 auto race.

The festival is sponsored by the Plymouth Ice Sculpture Spectacular Corp., a private, nonprofit organization, and is is organized by the City of Plymouth and Mayflower Hotel of Plymouth.

21 dealers to participate in symphony antiques show

HE CITY OF Plymouth Parks and Recreation Department and the Plymouth Symphony League will co-sponsor a winter antique show at the Plymouth Cultural Center in conjunction with the ice sculpture spectacular.

Dates for the show are Friday. Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 9, 10 and 11. Show hours are 1 1 a.m. to 3 p.m. Friday and Saturday, and noon to 8 p.m. on Sunday.

The show will feature 21 distinguished dealers from southeastern Michigan. Among them are several local dealers: Dorothy Engler of Redford, with a mixture of late 19th and early 20th century furniture; Mary Weed from the Plate Rail in Plymouth, showing her large collection of country accessories, including Doultons, Hummel plate, Hummels, Royal Copenhagen china.

Northville will be represented by two dealers: Judy Wilkerson from the Carriage Stop, with a variety of English and European antiques; and Cheryl Swayne, from Country Way

VIRGINIA CONNORS of Farmington Hills will show a selection of furniture from the golden oak era. Also with furniture from that era is Gloria Siegart of Livonia. Another Livonia residents in the show will be Ron Altaffer from the Chair Shop. He does chair caning and will have a collection of chair sets on display.

A "Fireside Deli," catered by Connie's of Old Village, will offer food and refreshments to visitors.

Mother Nature gets a lift

An attractive "High Country" package, featuring a gold lower paint color gradually blending into the black upper body, makes Chevrolet S-10 Blazer a real eye-catcher.

Dodge is producing 1,500 Rod Hall signature edition Power Ram 150 pickups. Developed by offroad rading champion Rod Hall, the trucks feature an off-road suspension package with two two shocks per wheel.

UNTERS, fishermen and other outdoor enthusiasts will find the 1987 Detroit Auto Show a good place to compare 4-by-4s, pickups and other vehicles designed with Mother Nature in

GMC has teamed up with Starcraft, a Lear Siegler Co., to produce the "Duck Truck," a specially designed Suburban that commemorates the 50th anniversary of Ducks Unlimited. Ducks Unlimited is a nationally recognized conservation organization supported largely by duck hunters

Because of their involvement with Ducks Unlimited, GMC and Starcraft were able to design a vehicle that has everything a duck hunter could want except ducks.

Standard features include camouflage interior, duck-call gearshift knobs, windshield-mounted compass, gun storage compartments, binocular storage compartments, fog lights, two 12-volt plug receptacles, map pockets, teak console with Thermos and holder, ice bucket, cigar lighter and cup holders, camouflage garment and duffel bag and AM/FM cassette.

THE OPTIONS ARE even more impressive. Available are: CB radio, winch, brush guard, remote start, alarm system, fiberglass roof storage compartment with cover and boat rack, rear ladder, Starcraft 12-foot Jon boat, 5-inch color TV and VCR in either Beta or VHS.

The unit is available in three colors: doeskin, bronze or camouflage. The camouflage exterior costs extra. The vehicle is powered by a V-8 engine in either gas or diesel and comes equipped with Goodyear Wrangler Allweather, All Terrain Radial tires. Four-wheel-drive is standard.

The "Duck Truck" can be seen in the GMC truck exhibit. Also on display:

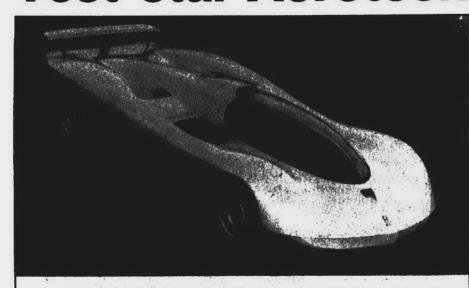

AMERICAN MOTORS CORP.: Premiere of the 1987 Jeep Cherokee Limited, a luxurous sport utility vehicle, as well as a range of other AMC Jeep products.

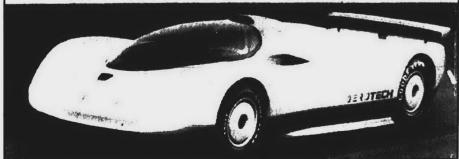

Ford Truck: Ford Bronco, F-Series pickups and Ranger. A Ford Ranger Supercab model was voted 4-by-4 Truck of the Year by 4-wheel & Off-Road Magazine.

DODGE TRUCK: Ram Tough pickups and the Dodge Dakota. The Dakota was introduced at the 1986 Auto Show. Production of the 4-wheel drive Dakota commenced in October.

CHEVY TRUCK: A wide range of pickups, Blazers and other Chevy truck products. Beginning in January, the S-10 pickup can be ordered with a "Back-Country" package that features a light bridge, brush guard and fog lamps.

Test-star Aerotech makes debut

Form follows function with Oldsmobile's sleek Aerotech, which will serve as a high-speed test bed for a special turbocharged version of the 2.3 liter engine.

HE AEROTECH, Oldsmobile's sleek, new high-performance test car, will make its public debut in Michigan at the Detroit Auto Show, Jan. 10-18.

The car, powered by a specially prepared turbocharged version of the Quad 4 engine, is being used for highspeed, closed-course testing.

This testing is being carried out over a carefully set schedule to determine the car's maximum capabilities. At it's first trial in mid-November, the Aerotech was piloted to a speed of 218 mph by A.J. Foyt at the GM Desert Proving Ground at Mesa, Ariz. Further testing will continue.

"THIS HAS BEEN an exciting project for Oldsmobile working with various GM staffs and divisions and outside suppliers," Theodore N. Louckes, Oldsmobile's chief engineer, points out.

"The car is a superb test vehicle with many new technical innovations, and the engine holds great promise for providing valuable information through high-speed performance tests. We're going to learn a lot from this effort," Louckes adds.

The Aerotech body was designed by GM Design Staff and is one of the sleekest vehicles yet developed for a GM car division. Low to the ground with a canopy-covered cockpit, the Aerotech has an approximate curb weight of 1,600 pounds and wheelbase of 111.3 inches.

The car's length is 192 inches and width is 86 inches. Its height is 40.1 inches and ground clearance ranges from .5 inch to 1 inch. Drag has been significantly reduced and downforce substantially increased when compared with current day high-speed car's.

THE DESIGN OF Aerotech includes the capability of adjusting underbody sections to control the distribution of downforce front to rear. The shape of the body also allows for self-aligning torque when the vehicle is in yaw.

Power for the Aerotech comes from a specially-prepared version of the new 2.3-liter Quad 4 engine, a four-cylinder, dual overhead cam, 16-valve, high output powerplant. The regular version Quad 4 is due to make its debut in GM passenger cars in the 1988 model year.

Humble origin for extravaganza

Beller's Beer Garden on East lefferson Avenue in 1907, the Detroit Auto Show has grown giant extravaganza featuring more than 500 vehicles and occupying 440,000 square-feet in Cobo Hall.

In the beginning, the newly-formed Detroit Auto Dealers Association held its 1907 show in an 11,376 square-foot hall at Beller's near the Belle Isle Bridge.

In the early show, 17 exhibitors displayed 33 makes of cars. The 1987 show will have more than 50 exhibitors and an almost limitless variety of vehicles, including many on display for the first time.

MANY OF THE CARS at the 1907 show have faded into oblivion, including the De Lux, Wayne, Detroit Electric, Maxwell, Brush Runabout, Waverly Electric and Thomas Flyer.

Other 1907 exhibitors thrived, becoming leaders of the auto industry. Some still hold these leadership positions today. Included in the 1907 show were such stalwarts as Ford, Oldsmobile. Buick and Cadillac.

Metzger sold his bicycle business and sailed to London in 1895 to attend the world's first auto show. He was so impressed by horseless-carriages that, upon returning to Detroit, he co-founded the Cadillac Motor Car Co. and took an active role in the development of the fledging auto industry.

He became the country's first auto dealer when he set up a dealership for steam-drive and electric autos on Woodward Avenue in Detroit in 1898.

In 1899, Metzger and Seneca G. Lewis, of the Fletcher Hardware Co., Detroit, organized the Tri-State Sportsman's and Automobile Association. Their show at the Light Guard Armory featured two steam-driven Mobiles and two Waverly Electrics on display with fishing rods and reels, hunting equipment and camping gear.

THE FIRST DETROITER to buy a car was Newton Annis, a furrier. He bought a Waverly Electric from Metzger in 1899.

From Metzger's humble beginnings almost 90 years ago, Detroit's auto Dealers Association represents more than four percent of auto and truck sales in the United States.
