STAN THE MAN: Three baseball greats from the past will be in Plymouth this weekend for the baseball card show at the Plymouth Hilton Inn, Northville Road at 5 Mile.

Among those appearing for autographs will be all-time great Stan "The Man" Musial who'll appear Sunday, Feb. 15; Hall of Famer Lou Boudreau, father-inlaw of former Tiger pitcher Denny McClain; and former Tiger starter Virgil Trucks. Trucks, known for his "no hit" performances with the Tigers, at the end of his career here was part of a rotation that included Jim Bunning, Frank Larry and Billy Hoeft. Both Trucks and Boudreau will be at the Hilton Saturday, Feb. 14.

More than 100 dealers from 20 states and Canada will be perticipating in the show. Autograph tickets now on sale at the Hilton.

ACTIVATING PARENTS: A free workshop to help parents participate effectively in the planning, development and decisionmaking of their handicapped child's education will be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 21, at West Middle School.

The workshop, "Activating Parents in the Special Education Process," is co-sponsored by the Plymouth-Canton Special Education Parent Advisory Committee and the Citizens Alliance to Uphold Special Education of Lansing. The workshop will help parents: understand the law and their rights: obtain information on available services, resources and programs; become an educational advocate for their child; and prepare for and participate in the Individual

"Realistically, I guess I'm saying we'll be in there in July. We hope to be in there sooner," said Ira Mondry, executive vice president.

The community could benefit by Highland's arrival in several ways. Renovations will be made to one of the higher-profile properties in

An expanded work force, nearly double from the last days of Ameritech ownership, could result in an economic fallout to area restaurants and business

Perhaps of a more intangible nature is an enhanced feeling of pride residents can take knowing that a corporation of Highland's reputation decided to move here.

Highland, a major appliance retailer, purchased the 535,000-squarefoot facility in Plymouth last year after Ameritech chose to build a warehouse in South Bend, Ind., to service its operations.

Specifically, this building was available and it really suited our needs quite well," he said. "It's really a superb building."

The acquisition will be financed from proceeds of $44 million in loans the corporation took out last year, Mondry said.

Highland had applied for government-backed Economic Development Corp. bonds to finance the purchase. Those plans were abandoned, Mondry said, when corporate officials determined they would need more than the $10 million cap per project allowed by law.

Now the EDC option isn't even His corporation paid $7.25 million available due to changes in the federal tax code, said a lawyer representing the corporation.

INFORMATION submitted in application for EDC financing by Highland projected 305 full-time jobs and 20 part-time positions at the headquarters/warehouse one year after renovations are completed.

Projections rise to 380 full-time and 30 part-time jobs in two years.

About half of the full-time jobs were classified as unskilled.

Highland was founded by Harry Mondry in 1933 and was incorporated in 1947, said Elaine Bernia, analyst for the brokerage firm of Roney & Co. in Detroit. The company went public in May 1985.

During the nine-month period Feb. 1-Oct. 31, 1986, Highland reported profits of $13.2 million on sales of $433.4 million, Bernia said.

That compares with profits of $12.4 million on sales of $320.3 million during the same period in 1985. Highland's budget year runs Feb. 1-Jan. 31.

The company now has 53 stores in Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Louisiana.

Winter taxes of $132,816 were paid on the Sheldon property last month. Summer property taxes totaled $155,765. Just more than 57 percent of the total amount -$165,399 - went to Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

Water act win seen as victory

By M.B. Dillon staff writer

Rouge River, 1. Reagan, 0. That's the score in the wake of Congress' override of the Clean Water Act vetoed by President Reagan.

Reauthorization of the act will bring $104 million to Michigan for each of the next five years to fight water pollution - $50 million of which will go toward cleaning up the Rouge, one of the country's dirtiest waterways, said Tom Kamppinen, chief of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources municipal facilities administration section.

Reagan's defeat is being hailed as a victory in the Plymouth-Canton community.

"It's good news, particularly for our area. Many of our neighbors are in the process of putting in new sewers, and this will help them a great deal," said Ken West, Plymouth city engineer suburban wastewater project 20 years in the making, "hopefully will proceed very quickly," said Kamppinen.

A PLAN to build Super Sewer, a

"The Clean Water Act definitely is critical in our efforts in the Rouge basin cleanup. And we'll be pretty substantially assisted through financing for Super Sewer, the Oakland County Evergreen-Farmington relief sewers, and some Detroit projects.'

U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, who voted for the override, said the funding will enable "a lot of older communities like the city of Plymouth to look at capital investments to modernize aging water facilities."

Residents expressed "overwhelming" support for the bill, he said. Pursell, instrumental in amending the act, was surprised by Reagan's veto. "It was my understanding that we had an agreement with the president's people NEED A RIDE?: Civic and community leaders concerned about transportation for senior citizens will meet at 2 p.m. Tuesday at the Plymouth Cultural Center, Farmer at Theodore.

The purpose of the gathering will be to determine existing senior transportation problems and possible cooperation among groups providing the service, said W. F. McNamara, president of the Plymouth Community Council on Aging.

Discussion participants will include: Clarence DuCharme, executive director, Plymouth Community Fund/United Way; Mary Childs, Plymouth city commissioner; Cathy Broadbent, representing Plymouth Township administration; Elizabeth Ramsey and George Hudson of FISH; Sharon Thomas, director, Tonquish Creek Manor; and representatives of Dial-a-ride and SEMTA.

The general public and senior citizens interested in this issue may attend.

PUD HEARING: The city of Plymouth Planning Commission will hold a public hearing at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in commission chambers, upstairs of Plymouth City Hall, on changes being considered in the Planned Unit Development ordinance. The changes formalize a two-step process to require two public hearings. The change is being looked at to allow the public the chance to provide suggestions and comments on specific PUD projects when they are before the planning commission.

Phony 911 calls alarm officers

By Doug Funke staff writer

The infrequency of the occurrence doesn't lessen the danger it presents.

One or more people dialed the city's emergency 911 number nearly simultaneously Friday afternoon on different telephones with the purpose of jamming the lines.

And it worked For five or 10 minutes, legitimate 911 calls couldn't get through. Anyone who tried to reach police on 911 while the three emergency lines were occupied received only a busy signal for his effort.

That bothers police - and dispatchers.

'It may mean someone's life," said Officer Robert Henry.

THE TELEPHONE company traced one of the phony calls Friday to the K mart store on Ann Arbor Road. No one was apprehended. At other times, calls have been traced to area roller skating rinks and schools. The junior high set seems especially prone to playing games, police said.

"Periodically, we complain to the schools. Usually it's East or West," Henry said. "When we start raising Cain, the school starts after the kids, warning the kids, a little more patrolling in the halls, and it tapers off.

But then it usually starts up again. "The phones are ringing constantly," said Shirley Miller, a dispatcher. "When 911 rings, your heart stops anyway. The ones I hate are the ones that scream at me."

It's unusual for all three 911 lines to be tied up with phony calls at the same time, not so rare for one or two lines

Company conducts oil, gas testing

Underground pockets of gas and oil waiting to be discovered in the Plymouth community? Maybe

A crew from Seiscom Delta United, based in Holt. Mich., was in the area last week taking tests for a client which a Seiscom spokesman declined to identify.

"We've been in and out a couple of months," said Doug Holmes, a manager.

Seiscom's work comes very early in the oil and gas exploration process.

Crews string cables with supersensitive sensing devices, then drive a heavy vehicle along the roadway to create vibrations.

A recorder in the vehicle logs seismographic data. "It doesn't say there's gas or oil," Holmes said. "It just shows substructures different formations of subsurface structures.

Clean Water override called victory

"The Clean Water bill is important not only to maintain health and safety but to allow reasonable growth.

"It directly affects our own district, as well as places throughout the country where projects are already in place but are not funded."

PASSED 401-26 by the House and 86-14 by the Senate last week, the Clean Water Act is designed to help states build and administer wastewater and sewage treatment plants.

U.S. Rep. William Broomfield, R-

Birmingham, was one of only two Michigan congressmen to vote against the override.

The bill is identical to that passed unanimously by Congress before last fall's recess. Reagan made history with his subsequent pocket veto.

It was one of the few times in history an American president has rejected legislation unanimously approved by both houses of Congress, according to Senate librarian Greg Harness

Reagan, terming the act a "budget-buster," accused Congress of lacking political courage and putting itself on a collision course with the White House over federal spending.

Michigan Sens. Donald Riegle and Carl Levin also voted for the override Riegle, who co-sponsored the Senate's version of the Clean Water Act, said it is "vital for continued progress toward cleaning our nation's water '

"Of particular importance to Michigan are the provisions in this bill which strengthen Great Lakes protection," said Riegle.

THE DNR was disappointed the president vetoed the act, said Kamppinen, but was pleased the Senate and House saw fit to override it so the department can continue its efforts in southeast Michigan.

"Critical efforts in the Rouge basin cleanup will be pretty substantially assisted. "The Rouge River is one of our less proud achievements at this point. It's a very high priority to the department to address pollution in the Rouge River.

"It's a long, painful process. It make take five, 10 or 20 years to upgrade it to the point where we're a little more proud of it. I don't know if it will ever be as pristine and pollution-free as a mountain stream. But as an urban stream we certainly could restore it to be much prettier.

"One of the good features of the bill is that it basically turns over the construction grants' program into a revolving loan fund for states," said Charles Moses of the State of Michigan office in Washington.

The Clean Water bill will fund states' water-quality programs for the next five years, but provides for a gradual phase-out of funding, said

By the end of the century, "states will be contributing to their own pro-grams," Moses said.

The intent is to make it more of a state-run operated program and to adequately give states enough time to get it set up."

The Associated Press contributed to this report.

Careers

Computer aids job quest

RYING OUT for a career through vocational technical courses in high school can avert job changes in the work world that can be extremely costly and stressful.

Ability alone does not guarantee success in the work world, said Harold Gartner, director of vocational education for Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

To market human resources in today's competitive job market students should be working in an area where their skills and interest are adaptable, he said.

Since fall, vocational technician Lisa Huth has been administering an interest and ability assessment with the use of Apticom — a computerized assessment system for students referred to her by counselors and consultants.

The one-on-one encounter offers an opportunity for the student to evaluate career plans. Students are delighted with the hands-on experience that produces an actual document or credenital of their ability and interest.

The assessment provides the students, teachers and counselors with information about a person's potential, interests and ability in a given occupational area. Often success in an occupation can be predicted by the results of the Apticom test. FOR HIGH school students interested in choosing an occupational area, early identification of interest and abiilty is important.

For those soon to graduate, the interest and aptitude assessment allows counselors an opportunity to match the student's career expectations with appropriate technical training and smooth t he transition from school to post-school employment.

The main purpose of the assessment information is to guide and direct learners in making intelligent career decisions.

Oftn students are not placed in a job because they are not able to present themselves confidently to employers, said Huth.

Prior to gradaution, vocational technical students will have a chance to attend job seminars to assist in building self-confidence, learn communication skills, prepare a good resume, complete job applications, meet job expectations, develop good attitudes, motivation, and how to keep a job.

The assessment is one of the many vocational education offerings being featured at Centennial Educational Park this week in connection with Vocational Education Week (Feb. 8-14).

The slogan of this week's observance is "A Good Eduction, A Good Job, A Good Life."

Stacy Zimmerman takes the computerized assessment test.

Haig to U.S.: Learn foreign languages

Gen. Alexander Haig fields a question during a news conference in Kingsley Inn, Bloomfield Hills.

By Tim Richard staff writer

English should be the official U.S. language, but presidential aspirant Alexander M. Haig Jr. said Americans need to learn more foreign languages for their own economic good.

'I'm a strong advocate for teaching foreign languages," the former secretary of state said in a news conference prior to his Saturday evening address to the Oakland County Republicans' Lincoln Day banquet.

There is a need for citizens, in an increasingly global economy, to be conversant in foreign languages, said Haig. He added he is "appalled" at declining academic achievement among American students compared to those in western Europe and Asia.

HAIG ENDORSED a constitutional amendment proposed by a man sitting at his left - U.S. Rep. William Broomfield, R-Birmingham, ranking Republican on the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

"It should be ratified," Haig said of the Broomfield amendment, which would "prohibit the United States, or any state, from requiring the use of a language other than English.'

Broomfield smiled.

Haig called for "a return to basics and family values," rather than federal aid, for accomplishing more foreign language instruction at grade school, high school and college levels. "Too many measure (educational quality) on the volume of taxpayer funds. That's a mistake.

"We are extremely generous in allocation of funds for education," said Haig, who spent two years at Notre Dame and three at West Point and earned a master's degree in international relations at Georgetown University.

THE VISIT provided many chanc-es for Oakland Republicans to look over Haig as both orator and handshaker, and Haig admitted he is "leaning in the direction" of entering the 1988 presidential sweepstakes He will announce in March.

"It's wide open, despite the early start in Michigan," he said.

GOP officials put ticket sales at 972, just a little under the 1,035 drawn by Vice President George Bush in the by-election year of 1986. In addition, there was a private reception for major contributors in the Kingsley Inn in Bloomfield Hills and a second reception prior to the banquet address in Roma's of Bloomfield

"It's very healthy for the electorate to have a choice," said Haig, saying the Republican nominee must have the ability to attract Democratic and independent voters or the campaign would be "an exercise in futility

Haig's biography was contained in a press kit from "Committee for America," the kind of committee candidates set up prior to their formal announcements.

ASKED HIS position on reinstituting the military draft - a subject on which he differed from Reagan, who was opposed - Haig said it isn't needed - "not at this moment."

By the mid-1990s, however, America's population demographics may be such that a draft is needed, he said, and it is becoming increasingly expensive to offer soldiers economic inducements to stay in uniform.

But Haig adamantly oppposes the kind of draft used in the Vietnam years of the '60s and '70s because 'the rich and influential" avoided it, and "the lads from the inner cities and farms" were left to do the fighting.

The 1988 race is 'wide open, despite the early start in Michigan. It's very healthy for the electorate to have a choice.'

- Alexander M. Haig Jr. White House hopeful

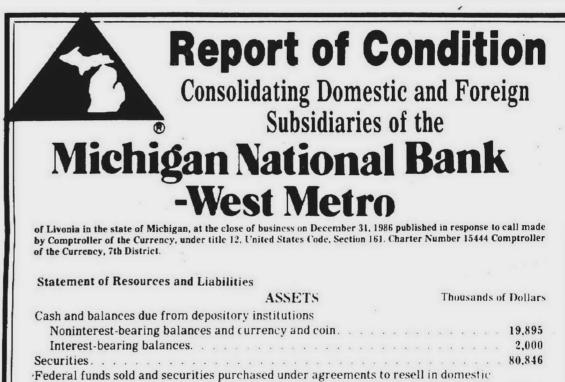

Today's armed services are forces in Europe, served as Nixon's manned largely by minorities," he presidential chief of staff in the final months and was President Ronald war and the casualty list showed Reagan's secretary of state for 18 "only minorities doing the bleeding months.

Despite his unwilling departure from the State Department, Haig, now 62, said he finds "a very deep wellspring of support for the president" among Americans in non-met-A CAREER MILITARY man, ropolitan areas.

Haig quit the cabinet in 1982 in a ranks to become military adviser to conflict with White House insiders, charging in his subsequent memoirs that "I was mortally handicapped by lack of access to President Reagan.

Bank robbers startled Old Village 57 years ago

10A(P.C)

The north end of Plymouth had plenty of excitement on Feb 8, 1929, when two robbers held up the branch of the Plymouth United Savings Bank at Liberty and Starkweather

When they fled, the bandits took branch manager Frank Pierce with them, leaving him in a barn in the vicinity of Five Mile and Middlebelt Loosely tied, Pierce managed to break away and phone the main office of the bank in Plymouth Both of the robbers were caught, one in the vicinity of Phoenix Lake

In his review of the incident of the village's 1929 Annual Report, Chief George Springer said the two culprits were captured within an hour of the hold-up. They were convicted of armed robbery and sentenced to 15 to 30 years in prison

AT THE TIME of the robbery, the president of the Plymouth United Savings Bank was Charles A. Fisher.

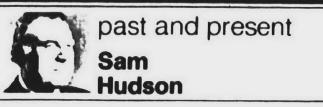

Fisher was president of the bank 13 years earlier on March 3, 1916. when the Plymouth Mail published its Booster Edition. The bank's ad in that issue noted that with a capital of $75,000, it was "the largest and strongest bank in Wayne County out-side of Detroit." The north-end branch had been established in 1915 with Rod Cassady as its first mana-

The victim of the bank hold-up in 1929 was running a restaurant and hotel in 1916. Frank Pierce's place was adjacent to and on the same side of the Pere Marquette railroad tracks as the depot. The building, which he built in 1910, had 32 beds on the second floor, for accommodation of lodgers, and a restaurant on the first floor.

As might be expected, much of his customers came from trainmen. Pierce's advertisement in the 1916 issue of the Mail showed a photo of his large two-story building directly east of the depot, with the message: "You can get a lunch or warm meal at any time day or night."

PIERCE WAS the maternal grandfather of Russell Kirk.

Kirk, who graduated from Plymouth High in 1936 and became a nationally known author and lecturer, described Pierce in one of his books: "A Village Hampden, the champion of the North End in the affairs of Plymouth, adviser to everyone in Lower Town who sought his counsel. a village commissioner, president of the school board, he was a wise man, much-read in books and life." The allusion is to John Hampden, the famous 17th century parliamentarian who defended the rights of the House of Commons against Charles I.

Kirk described Pierce as a rotund little man who loved to read. On his long walks with grandfather Pierce, the two talked of "the idea of progress, the character of Richard III, the nathre of immortality, the significance of dreams, the style of Poe, and why the sea is boiling hot, and whether pigs have wings."

Frank Pierce was serving on the school board in 1927 when Karl Starkweather and Russell Wingard mobilized north-end residents to pressure the school trustees to locate what became Starkweather School in their section of the community. Pierce died in 1931 while Kirk still was in grade school.

THE NORTH END had two restaurants near the depot in 1916.

In addition to Frank Pierce's, there was Streng's Restaurant on the opposite side of the tracks from the station. Prior to buying the restaurant from Dan Smith in 1914, Jacob Streng had run the Plymouth Hotel for four years and the Commercial Hotel for three years.

Like Pierce, Streng advertised a meal or a lunch at all hours. He made a specialty of Sunday dinners. Jake's daughter, the late Margaret Stremich, told me that people came from as far as Detroit to enjoy their famous chicken dinners. Some came from Ohio on the "Toledo Plug." "We served as many as 200 people on Sundays," she recalled Jake, who died at age 81 in 1939, was a brotherin-law of Carl Heide, the greenhouse man

Another north end firm that advertised in the Mail's Booster Edition in 1916 was the William Brothers Canning Factory. A branch of a Detroit firm, it was located along the Pere Marquette tracks in north village. The company contracted each year with local farmers for tomatoes for pulp used in the manu-facture of Williams Brothers ketchup.

Young Karl Starkweather agreed to grow five acres of tomatoes for Williams Brothers in 1908. The company paid the grower $6 a ton or approximately 15 cents a bushel. 'None of us grew rich growing tomatoes that year," Karl told me in the 1960s

ANOTHER enterprise in the north end in 1916 was the Plymouth and Northville Gas Co.

The firm's plant was located at the junction of the two lines of the Pere Marquette Railroad in the northwestern part of the village. It produced artificial gas at the rate of 140,000 feet per day, and had a tank

Seven miles of gas mains had been laid in Plymouth by 1916 and mains being built in Northville were expected to total eight miles more. The company had offices in the Conner Building on Main Street where it displayed a line of gas stoves and fixtures.

Its Acorn gas ranges had ovens at waist-high height and warming compartments at the top. The firm's ad in the Booster Edition declared, "No One denies today that gas is a more economical and easier method of cooking than wood, coal or gasoline." Electric cooking had not yet made its appearance.

Officers of the gas company, established in 1914, were Northville's Frank S. Harmon and Plymouth's C.A. Fisher, Coello Hamilton and C.A. Fox. Harmon was one of the incorporators of Meadowbrook Country Club in February 1916.

Fisher was president of the Plymouth United Savings Bank. Hamilton owned the Hamilton .22-calibre Rifle plant in Plymouth. Fox, the general manager of the firm, had secured the franchises in both villages.

Revenue sharing's loss squeezes locals

By Wayne Peal staff writer

All western Wayne County communities will lose federal revenue sharing dollars this year, but past spending practices could mean the difference between simple belttightening, governmental starvation or higher taxes.

In Plymouth and Plymouth Township, where revenue sharing dollars went toward one-time community betterment projects, the program's termination proved painful, but not dire.

"Our attitude all along was that it was too good to last," Plymouth Township Clerk Esther Hulsing said.

Plymouth Township had long budgeted its $80,000-$90,000 allotment toward projects ranging from a park pavillion to a new fire truck.

Likewise, Plymouth budgeted its lighting and other short-term projects.

"WE'VE NEVER used it to balance our budget," City Manager Henry Graper Jr. said.

But in Redford Township and Westland, which used the federal revenue to augment day-to-day public safety operations, revenue sharing's brought harsher consequences.

Redford, which stands to lose an estimated $620,000 in revenue sharing, is losing officers and fire fighters through attrition and hasn't been able to fund replacements, supervisor James Kelly said.

"We're short three fire fighters and a similar number of police officers now," Kelly said.

Beset by reduced revenue sharing and a Michigan Tax Tribunal ruling overturning a special assessment on Ford Motor Co. property, Redford turned to a 2.5-mill tax increase to make ends meet.

Last November's millage approv-$77,000 share toward road repairs, al - which followed an August rejection - helped keep the township's sanitation department operating, mill increase last November.

"One mill would have replaced revenue sharing; the other would have allowed for new hirings, but it went down," Gorman said.

Livonia also budgeted its estimated $700,000 revenue sharing alotment toward police and fire salaries but officials said they doubted whether their city will face similar problems.

'We budgeted for cutbacks, I would say we're in decent shape," Mayor Pro Tem Robert McCann said

While Livonia didn't implement layoffs, the city will continue what McCann termed a "semi-freeze" on hiring.

Former finance director Jack Dodge cautioned the money "would have to be made up somewhere."

The 14-year-old federal revenue sharing program expired Oct. 1. Less restricted than other federal programs, revenue sharing dollars were generally spent as locals saw fit.

Even though communities that used revenue sharing to augment general fund operations are in more serious financial binds, communities that used the federal dollars more cautiously still feel the pinch.

Though Canton had budgeted its $400,000-$500,000 allotments for police and fire equipment - rather than personnel - township officials note the money must be made up elsewhere.

"SOME OF these things are now going to have to be budgeted in future budgets," finance director John Spencer said. "There's a possibility millages could rise as a result." Garden City will lose up to $250,000 in additional revenue and city officials are concerned about continuation of a storm water management program. "We had used revenue sharing to help separate storm water from our sanitary sewers," Clerk/Treasurer Ronald Showalter said.

'We knew it (revenue sharing) could be taken away, so we didn't budget it for personnel or to pay our electric bills. But it still hurts." Showalter said.

In past years, Garden City had also budgeted revenue sharing dol-lars to rebuild local streets and rennovate the city's Maplewood Center, a former elementary school which serves as a community meeting place/senior citizens center.

Overall, Michigan communities will lose a combined $170 million in federal revenue sharing dollars. Detroit's $32 million allocation topped

TOTAL FOOT CARE IN-OFFICE LASER SURGERY

If there was good news for finan-cially strapped Wayne County in Gov. James Blanchard's State of the State message, county executive Edward McNamara couldn't find it.

"He out-Reaganed Reagan," McNamara said, referring to the governor's upbeat Wednesday night address. "There wasn't much in the way of specifics, but he was obviously under (television) time constraints."

But cooperation between the governor's and county executive's offices is sought to reduce what McNamara termed a $300 million county deficit.

In his Jan. 23 state of the county address, McNamara called upon the state to "take an active role" in assisting the county in providing health care for indigents.

McNamara also proposes transferring convicted felons out of the Wayne County Jail and into state prisons as a means off freeing up jail space.

McNamara said he was hopeful party and long-standing personal ties would help him succeed where his predecessor, Republican William Lucas, had failed.

"The governor and I go back to 1970," McNamara said. "He was my driver when I was running for lieutenant governor."

under a plan being recommended by newly elected Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara. A new minimum security jail and home incarceration are among McNamara's recommendations to expand county jail space. His plan calls for home incarceration for both felony suspects and misdemeanor offenders.

Selected felony suspects would be confined to their homes - but required to wear ankle bracelets and subjected to electronic surveillance - under a "restrictive bail tethering" program recommended by McNamara.

The program would reduce the number of felony suspects held in the jail awaiting trial, McNamara said.

Selected misdeameanor offenders particularly drunk drivers could also be incarcerated at home, McNamara added, but would be subjected to lower-level monitoring. The county prosecutor's office is examining the program's legality,

He also called for a new 400-500 bed facility Thursday to house mis-shals' prisoners in the county jail but only as a last resort. Such a move would cost the county an estimated $1.5 million federal contract, according to Sheriff Robert Ficano.

While stressing cooperation, Ficano suggested that triple bunking prisoners in the already filled new county jail is the best method to add prison space.

"Its the most cost effective method we have," Ficano said.

Acknowledging "new revenue" would be needed, McNamara suggested several cutbacks ranging from reducing jail staffing, to eliminating secondary road patrols, to privatizing the jail infirmary to reduce costs.

Ficano, however, criticzed all three proposals.

"WITH REGARD to stafffing, safety of the officers has to be a priority," Ficano said.

The sheriff also said communities are requesting secondary road patrols continue.

There are communities that desire these road patrols," he said.

"Plus, it's a state grant, there's a concern about whether you could use that money elsewhere. Third, there wouldn't be that great a savings."

You'd be taking senior road patrol officers - who earn higher pay -and transferring them to the jail."

Privatization also caused concern for the sheriff.

"Many times, a company will come in with a low bid for the first year only to hit you with an increase the second," he said.

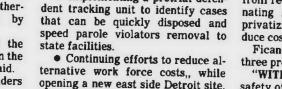

Other cost saving measures recommended by McNamara include eliminating universal prisoner Xraying, offering early retirement to 10 senior food service employees assigned to the jail, reducing the county executive's body guard force, cutting jail staffing, reducing the number of deputies assigned to courts and adding a surcharge on misdemeanor fines and tickets, as proposed by Ficano.

Combined, the cost-saving proposals could add $10 million in revenue annually, McNamara said.

McNamara's recommendations were made to a jail space committee headed by Chief circuit Judge Richard Kaufman.

Churchill creates a logjam in the West

By Chris McCosky staff writer

Look who has stuck its nose into the Western Lakes Western Division title chase.

Livonia Churchill, with a heartstopping 52-51 victory at home against Plymouth Canton Friday, is suddenly one game behind league-leaders Canton and Farmington Harrison. Harrison was upset at Northville Friday, 47-42. The Chargers will travel to Harrison Tuesday night. Harrison goes to Canton Friday night.

Chargers' coach Don Albertson succinctly summed up Friday's game this way: "We had it won, choked it up, gave it back to them, missed a bunch of free throws down the stretch and still came away with the 'W'. Hey, I've got to be happy." Oh, but his Chargers came dangerously close to reliving an ugly nightmare. Earlier this season at Canton, Churchill was beat at the buzzer by a Tyrone Reeves jumper after failing to connect on a pair of free throws with eight seconds left.

With six seconds left Friday night, and Canton behind 52-51, Churchill missed a free throw. Canton came down the court and Tyrone Reeves nailed one from 21 feet. This time, however, Reeves' shot came just a shade after time ran out.

"I really feel for this Plymouth Canton team," Albertson said. "That was a hard way to lose. I know. I've been there. We did it at their place and now the shoe's on the other foot.'

SPEAKING OF shoes on other feet: Churchill's nero was Brad Wylie, the same Brad Wylie that Canton head coach Tom Niemi tutored two years ago when both were at Livonia Bentley.

Wylie scored a game-high 16 points including a gamewinning three-point play with 34 seconds left.

The Chargers, down 51-49, forced a Canton turnover and called timeout with 46 seconds left. Off the inbounds pass, Steve Owens made a pinpoint cross court pass to Wylie, who scored the basket and was fouled. His subsequent free throw stood up as the game winner.

When asked if he was thinking about his former coach, Wylie said: "A little. I wanted to show him what I learned. He coached me and gave me my chance. He's an excellent coach and I wouldn't mind playing for him again. I hope he's proud of me."

NIEMI MAY have been proud of his former player but he was none-too-happy with the performance of his current team.

"This was a critical game and I'm very disappointed with the loss," he said. "But you can't take anything away from Churchill. They really played hard."

The Chargers have renewed their commitment to man-to-man defense. After faltering with a zone most of the season, Churchill switched to man last Tuesday and limited Walled Lake Central to just 15 second-half points. And the Chargers made scoring very difficult for Canton Friday

"You know, this group was 18-2 as a JV unit and they played man-to-man then," Albertson said. "I neglected that earlier. I wish I hadn't.'

THERE WERE two critical sequences in the second half that help set up the frantic finish

• A combination of John Knittel's offensive explosiveness and Churchill's pesky defense helped the Chargers open a 44-38 lead with six minutes to play in the game. Knittel scored six straight points to open the second half enabling the Chargers to jump ahead by five and control the tempo of the game. Then, in the last two minutes of the third quarter and first two of the fourth, Canton didn't score in eight consecutive possessions and missed nine straight shots from the floor and four straight free throws.

"(Early in the game) We just didn't play good defense," Niemi said. "Later we played excellent defense but the ball wouldn't drop.'

• With six minutes left in the game, Niemi called timeout. During the timeout he did two significant things: he lit a fire under his faltering troops and he inserted Matt Littleton into the game.

In the 5:09 that preceded the timeout, Canton erased Churchill's lead and built a four-point lead of its own. Littleton sparked the rush with six points and three steals.

Consecutive hoops by Brian O'Leary and Kyle Percin tied the game with 2:18 left. After another missed Charger free throw (they were 3-for-8 in the final quarter), Canton's David Foxworthy scored to put Canton. ahead for the last time.

Reeves led Canton with 11 points. Roger Trice, Brian Paupore and Mike LaSota scored eight each. Knittel added 14 to suppliment Wylie's 16 for Churchill.

Canton falls to 7-5 in the league, 8-7 overall. Churchill is 6-6 in the league, 6-9 overall.

SALEM 61, STEVENSON 45: There wasn't much Plymouth Salem allowed host Livonia Stevenson to do Thursday night.

The Rocks dominated the boards, refused to allow Stevenson inside their defense and denied any type of fastbreak

"We allowed only one fastbreak layup all night," said Salem coach Bob Brodie. "We stopped their transition. It was a physical game."

Mike Hale scored 18 points to pace Salem. Bryan Kearis added 14 and Rick Taylor 10.

Lars Richters scored 12, Eric Johnson 11 and Jeff Gibbons 10 for the Spartans.

Salem is 11-1 in Western Lakes play, 13-2 overall. Stevenson falls to 6-6, 7-7 on the season.

A never-say-die defense earned Redford Thurston a thrilling, comefrom-behind 66-64 victory over visiting Taylor Kennedy Friday.

"We had a real nice, aggressive fourth quarter," said Thurston coach Mike Schuette, whose team improved to 7-8 overall and 6-5 in the Tri-River League. "We forced some turnovers, and we capitalized on them.'

Schuette credited Frank Rochna, who came off the bench to snare six rebounds and put the defensive clamps on Kennedy's Steve Avery. Avery finished with 21 points, but 15 came in the first half.

Steve Ewing also contributed heavily. "He created a lot of problems for them," the Thurston coach said after Ewing scored 12 points and made nine steals.

Thurston trailed 52-44 entering the fourth quarter but battled back. Jim McEwen's two free throws with 18 seconds left put the Eagles ahead 66-64, but it wasn't over yet.

Kennedy's Brian Bishop got off a shot with three seconds to go, missed and was fouled. Bishop misfired on his first free throw, then missed his second deliberately. The strategy worked when Kennedy's Jim Megyesi rebounded and got off a lastsecond shot that circled the rim and fell out.

Kevin O'Connor poured in 19 points, seven coming in Thurston's 22-12 fourth-quarter surge. Bob Bertrand added 11 points and 10 rebounds and McEwen had 10 points nine in the fourth period, including five-for-five free throws. Art George hit two three-pointers, one in Thurston's comeback, and finished with nine points.

Tom Gray had 15 and Bishop finished with 14 for Kennedy (10-3 overall, 8-3 in the TRL).

scored so much. Or so often. After the first quarter, the Spartans (12-1 overall, 7-1 in the Catholic League's Central Division) led by sizable margins, scoring 26 points in the second period and 30 in both the third and fourth.

The game was close briefly. The Spartans had a slim 18-16 advantage after one quarter before blowing the game open with a 26-10 second-quarter surge. Five players reached double-figures in scoring for Borgess: Kevin Van Hook (15), Eric Emanuel (14), Cordell Robinson and Parrish Hickman (13 each), and DuJuan Smith (11). Emanuel and Robinson led the second-quarter rally with eight points apiece, and Hickman scored all 13 of his points in the third period. All 12 Spartans scored at least four points. Steve Liagre's 17 points paced Gal-lagher (2-6 in the division).

TON 42: This game was strictly no contest, as Westland John Glenn took control almost immediately against visiting North Farmington in rolling to its 14thconsecutive victory Friday.

Schoolcraft's chances for a victory against Delta CC were crippled when high-scoring guard Zollie Stevens sprained an ankle early in the first half.

Offense snoozes S'craft 5 loses

By C.J. Risak staff writer

This was not the way Schoolcraft College mens basketball coach Bob Wetzel wanted to start a very important stretch of games.

The Ocelots, a team without any kind of consistent inside scoring, lost their outside touch as well Wednesday against Delta CC, and with it went any hope of victory as the visiting Pioneers prevailed 90-

"This was our - I don't know how to describe it - weakest offensive output of the season," said Wetzel. "We weren't executing well. We took some good shots, they just didn't go down.

The defeat evened SC's Eastern Conference record at 6-6 and dropped its overall mark to 9-13. DCC is 9-3 in the conference.

half, the Ocelots trailed by just 20-18. A three-pointer by Pat Wagner put SC ahead 21-20, and after a Dellaino Harris basket regained the lead for DCC, Wagner struck again to make it 23-22.

Unfortunately, that was the last time SC led. DCC outscored the Ocelots 16-2 over the next seven minutes to claim a 38-25 lead, a cushion that SC never overcame. 'We really had a long dry spell," admitted Wetzel. "When Zollie got hurt, it really hurt us. He's our best perimeter shooter. It just shows how very fragile we are.

Stevens sprained his left ankle with 14:32 left in the opening half. He returned in the second half, but it was apparent the injury robbed him of his shooting touch. He finished with just six points. His status for Saturday was uncertain.

Colleges conflict on change

By C.J. Risah taff writer

A debate is simmering among the state's smaller colleges and universi-ties, one that could soon erupt and force a change of format in several athletic leagues.

The debate centers around an old argument: whether to go with the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) or the National Collegiate Athletic Assocation (NCAA) Division II. The two competing organizations each offer tournaments in most sports, including basketball and football.

"They each have their good points," explained Oakland University athletic director Paul Hartman. "The NCAA Division II has more money and prestige and is better organized. The NAIA offers more opportunity."

Each has its own set of rules, too. The NCAA II is stricter regarding academics, transfers and time span for eligibility. The state's largest Division II-NAIA league is the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, which includes OU. It is in the GLI-AC that the controversy is centered.

IN THE PAST year, league member Michigan Tech has ended competition in football, Northern Michigan has been added to the conference and, just last week, Northwood Institute announced it was ending its 15year affiliation with the GLIAC in September.

The reason for Northwood's dropping from the GLIAC, according to sources, was the passage of Proposition 64 at the NCAA meetings last month. Proposition 64 is identical to the NCAA Division I's Proposition 48, which requires incoming freshmen athletes to have a 2.0 high school grade point in a group of core on the SAT or 15 on the ACT tests While most of the GLIAC schools impose stricter academic require-ments, Northwood does not. "We believe that any student making nor-mal progress toward a degree should have the opportunity to participate in all college activities including ath-letics," said David E. Fry, Northwood president, in a press release.

NORTHWOOD'S ACTION was "kind of a shock to me," said Hart-man. "They talked about it at various times, but I thought it was a couple of years away."

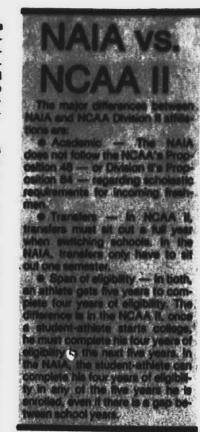

Proposition 64 spurred Northwood into action. Now the question is, who's next?

Athletic directors and coaches remain split on which organization the GLIAC should compete in. Currently all conference schools must be members of the NCAA II and abide by its stricter rules.

But several schools - Hillsdale. Grand Valley State, Saginaw Valley State and Lake Superior State - are members of both. They must decide before the fall sports seasons in which tournaments they will com-pete, NAIA or NCAA II. Hillsdale and Saginaw Valley are both major supporters of the NAIA; they are NCAA II members "only because it is a (GLIAC) requirement," Hartman said.

Either one might leave the GLI-AC, particularly if NCAA II proponents push to require all members compete solely in NCAA II tournaments. Hillsdale, which - now that Northwood has dropped out - is the only privately funded school in the GLIAC, could start divorce proceedings soon.

There is another factor to consider. St. Mary's of Orchard Lake is one of five state colleges seeking to form a new league with NAIA affiliation. The movement has been in the works classes and a minimum score of 700 for years, but Northwood's split with the GLIAC could provide new impetus.

THE COLLEGES involved in forming the new league are Concordia, Siena Heights, Spring Arbor and Grand Rapids Baptist. Aquinas and Nazareth are also interested.

"Northwood could be a possibility down the road," said St. Mary's athletic director Tim Domke. "I'm sure they'll take a wait-and-see attitude."

According to Domke, the NAIA schools are planning to meet after the basketball season to discuss the proposed league. Whether or not the new league reaches fruition could looming in the near future.

hinge on what Northwood, and per-haps Hillsdale and Saginaw Valley. decide to do.

There are other elements that could force a decision in the near future. The GLIAC currently does not get an automatic berth in the 32team NCAA II basketball tournament, although it boasts two or three teams worthy of bids. The reason is the dual affiliations.

The NCAA II committee does not want to guarantee a berth to a conference which could conceivably send its fourth- or fifth-place team to the tournament. (Example: If Hillsdale won the GLIAC, Saginaw Valley placed second and Grand Val-ley third, and each decided before the season to compete in the NAIA, the fourth-place team would go to the NCAA II tourney).

Schools like Wayne State would appreciate that guaranteed berth for the GLIAC champion, but that won't happen as long as there are dual affiliations. And the number of such schools isn't shrinking; prompted by his coaches, OU's Hartman proposed dual affiliation to his board of trustees, but the request was denied.

That's why two leagues - one of all NCAA II schools and ore of all NAIA schools - seems to make the most sense. But it would hardly end the problems. The NAIA schools would enjoy a great advantage in recruiting because of their less strict rules.

"It would be easier for all of (the GLIAC schools) to go NAIA," suggested Domke, who then proposed an eight-team NAIA state tournament in basketball.

Whether Domke's idea is ever realized remains to be seen. One thing is certain: The conflict is far from resolved, and more changes are

Delta overtakes Lady Ocelots

Schoolcraft College women's basketball coach Jack Grenan knew what was coming. Just 21 seconds remained and the game was tied. With 1:30 left, Delta CC had taken its first lead since early in the second half on a basket by Wendy Bell. Tracy Ladouceur had tied it for SC at 74-74, prompting the DCC timeout.

"We knew it was going to Bell," said Grenan. He assigned two play-ers to guard the DCC scorer, but a pick and missed assignment left her wide open at the top of the key. She buried a 19-footer, and that was the difference in DCC's 76-74 win Wednesday at DCC.

Nine seconds remained when Bell scored. The Lady Ocelots called timeout to set up a play, but they didn't have the same luck as their opponents. They got the ball inside to center Sharon Miller, who scored 10 but three DCC players converged on Miller and forced a jump ball.

The arrow pointed in DCC's direction. The game was over.

SC HAD led by seven with 12 minutes to play, but DCC started hitting from the perimeter and the Lady

Ocelots were missing. "We had plenty of opportunities down the stretch," said Grenan. "We just didn't convert."

Lori Abbas connected on 10-of-13 floor shots to score 23 points for SC. Ladouceur had 12 and Debbie Georgevich netted nine.

The Lady Ocelots dropped to 8-3 in the Eastern Conference and to 15-7 overall. DCC is 5-6 in the conference and 13-10 overall. SC hosts Highland Park CC in a game which could decide the conference title Wednesday.

The setback came at a bad time for the Ocelots. They played at Macomb CC Saturday and travel to league-leading Highland Park CC Wednesday. Saturday, they host Oakland CC, which is a game out of first, before finishing their regularseason conference schedule by visiting Mott CC Feb. 18.

That means one home game in the last four in a conference in which road victories are difficult to come by. If SC is to qualify for the state tournament, it will have to win at least one away from home.

TWO INCIDENTS affected Wednesday's outcome: a traffic jam, which supposedly delayed starting forward Derrick Kearney and subsequently led to his starting the game on the bench, and an ankle sprain suffered by Zollie Stevens

Because Kearney — SC's best re-bounder — was late, Wetzel let him sit out the game's first eight minutes. Still, when he entered the game with 11:52 left in the first

THE OCELOTS did not score a basket during their dry spell, their only points coming on two Kearney free throws. They missed two other free throws and committed three turnovers in the seven-minute span

They did make a run at the Pioneers before halftime, scoring eight straight points, six by Les English, to narrow the gap to 38-33. But Steve Bard sank a threepointer at the buzzer to up DCC's lead to 41-33.

SC got to within eight (58-50) with 11:21 left to play on a Kearney free throw, and Phil Weiss rebounded Kearney's missed foul shot and had two chances to score the put-back to pull SC to within six. He missed both, and DCC went on a 10-1 run that iced the victory.

English finished with 17 points to lead SC. Jeff Vakratsis had 12, Wagner scored 11 and Kearney and Desmond Steele added nine apiece. Bard's 20 points was best for the Pioneers; Mike Ody added 19, including five three-pointers.

Hassan Jihad of Redford, Allison Walkon, Brock Goff and Dean Pennala of Farmington, Dawn Warner of Livonia and Stephanie Dabao of Southfield won their respective age groups at the Elks Southeast District Hoop-Shoot competition Jan. 31 at Farmington High School.

The six will next compete at the state finals Saturday, Feb. 14, at the Silverdome. Winners from the state competition will advance to the national semifinals March 14 at U-M's Crisler Arena.

Dawn Warner of Livonia, who won the girls 12-13 division this year, made it to the national semifinal round last year.

Finishing second at the district competition were Christian Gilhuly of Southfield, Willie Peterson of Redford, George Charnley of Livonia, Kerri Finlayson of Farmington and Jamie Busha and Kim Jordan of Ann Arbor. The second-place finishers would compete in the semifinals if the district champs aren't able to.

Evans scholars picked

The Golf Association of Michigan has awarded Chick Evans college scholarships to 24 outstanding Michigan caddies, including six area residents.

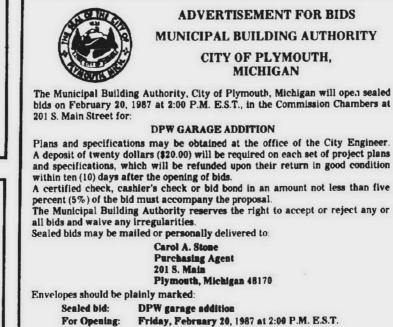

The awards, part of the national Evans Scholars program administered by Western Golf Association, were announced recently by GAM president Jere Gillette.

Thirteen of the new Evans Scholars will attend Michigan State University and the other 11 will enroll

Each Evans grant covers full tuition and housing in the Evans Chapter House on campus. If renewed for four years, the scholarship has a value in excess of $10,000.

The scholarships are awarded on a competitive basis considering caddie record, academic standing and need for financial aid. Support from the program comes from individual contributions of more than 100,00 golfers, including 15,000 in Michigan.

or romantics everywhere, Valentine's Day is their own. Even those who pretend not to notice are beguiled by the romantic flourishes one sees - a serious adult male walking briskly up the street with a heart-shaped package nestled under his arm, a young couple strolling hand in hand, or the flower cart on the street corner surrounded by lovers of all ages.

#58

Set the stage for romance at home with the elegant display of something sweet to eat. Here are four proven desserts guaranteed to raise the temperature to courtship level. Delicious to eat and elegant to serve, they're made with Florida oranges, now at their peak of flavor.

Cupid's Seduction is a variation of the classic dessert, Pavlova. A heart-shaped meringue crust holds succulent Florida orange sections and raspberries. A raspberry sauce adds luscious flavor. Meringue isvery easy to make and has a marvelous light-as-air texture that allows the fresh fruit taste to shine.

Special is the word for Oranges Rhumba. Here the orange is left whole and decorated with chocolate hearts, then placed in a puddle of vanilla sauce. The rum-scented sauce adds just the right fillip of flavor to the orange-chocolate combination. This says Happy Valentine's Day with pizzazz!

Crepes Valentino bring a touch of nostalgia to the chafing dish supper - a scene that bespeaks seduction. So, if you have a chafing dish, polish it up. A skillet does nicely, though, for these thin chocolate crepes in a sweetly satisfying sauce, made potent with orange liqueur and brandy.

Moon Over Miami has the insouciance of a tender but light-hearted lover. A Florida orange is hollowed out and the shell is frosted. Then, at serving time, it's filled with a pineapple-orange mixture and topped with a delicious ginger ice cream. The effect is magic!

Whatever your situation - whether family style or a seductive scene, try a sweet blandishment!

CUPID'S SEDUCTION

CREPES VALENTINO

Chocolate Crepes:

- 3/4 cup milk
- 3/4 cup cold water 3 large egg yolks
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 3 tablespoons Florida orange juice
- 11/2 cups all-purpose flour
- 1/4 cup unsweetened cocoa
- 5 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted

Combine all ingredients in the order listed, in container of blender or food processor. Blend 3 minutes, scraping down sides if necessary. Pour batter into bowl; chill at least 2 hours. Lightly brush a preheated 6 or 7-inch crepe pan or skillet with butter. Add about 3 tablespoons batter to skillet; tilt skillet so mixture covers bottom evenly. Cook over medium-high heat until bottom is lightly browned, 15 to 20 seconds. Loosen with spatula and flip over. Brown other side lightly. Turn crepe out onto wax paper; repeat with remaining batter. Yield: Twelve 6-inch crepes.

Orange Sauce:

- 1/2 cup (1 stick) butter or margarine
 - 1 tablespoon grated orange peel
- 1/2 cup confectioners' sugar
- 1/3 cup Florida orange juice
- 3 tablespoons orange-flavored liqueur
- 3 Florida oranges, peeled and sectioned
- 3 tablespoons brandy

In large chafing dish or skillet, melt butter over medium heat. Add orange peel; saute 1 minute. Stir in sugar, then orange juice; stir until sugar is dissolved. Simmer until slightly thickened, about 2 minutes. Fold crepes in half, then in half again to form triangles. Add to skillet with orange liqueur and orange sections; heat through. Warm brandy slightly over low heat; pour into skillet, ignite with long match. Shake skillet gently until flames die down. Yield: 4 to 6 servings.

ORANGES RHUMBA

11/4 cups milk

- 1/4 cup granulated sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
- 2 tablespoons rum
- 2 ounces semi-sweet chocolate
- 4 Florida oranges, peeled

Bring milk just to boiling in small saucepan. Meanwhile, in top of double boiler, beat yolks and sugar with a whisk until pale and slightly thickened, about 2 minutes. Gradually beat in hot milk. Place over gently simmering water; cook 3 to 5 minutes, stirring constantly, until sauce coats a metal spoon. (Do not overcook or sauce will lump.) Strain into a bowl, stir in vanilla and rum. Cool, stirring occasionally. Cover, chill. Melt chocolate in the top of a double boiler over simmering (not boiling) water. Or, place in a glass cup and melt in a microwave oven. Line a cookie sheet with wax paper; scrape melted chocolate onto wax paper. Spread evenly with metal spatula. Refrigerate until chocolate is just firm. Cut hearts with a small heart-shaped cookie cutter; chill until ready to use. Remove all white membrane from oranges. To serve, place an orange in center of large dessert plate. Spoon a pool of sauce around oranges. Stand chocolate hearts up around orange. Serve with dessert knife, fork and spoon. Yield: 4 servings.

Meringue Heart:

- 2 large egg whites, at room temperature
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/8 teaspoon cream of tartar Dash of salt

Raspberry-Orange Sauce:

- 1 package (10 ounces) frozen raspberries, thawed
- 3 tablespoons Florida orange juice

Filling:

- 1/2 cup sour cream
- tablespoons brown sugar
- Florida oranges, peeled and sectioned
- 1/2 cup fresh raspberries

Line a cookie sheet with foil, dull-side-up. Draw an outline of a 7-inch heart on the foil. In small bowl combine egg whites, vanilla, cream of tartar and salt. Beat until stiff. Add sugar 2 tablespoons at a time; beat until very stiff and glossy, 10 to 12 minutes. Spread meringue 1/2-inch thick over heart shape. Fit a decorating bag with large star tip; fill with remaining meringue. Build up border 1-inch high around heart. Place cookie sheet in center of preheated 225°F. oven. Bake 1 hour. Turn off oven; let heart cool in oven 2 hours. Carefully peel foil away from meringue; place heart on serving plate. In blender or food processor, puree raspberries until smooth. Strain through a sieve into small bowl: stir in orange juice. Chill until serving. Just before serving combine sour cream and brown sugar. Spread over bottom of heart. Arrange orange sections and fresh raspberries on top. Serve immediately with Raspberry-Orange Sauce. Yield: 2 servings.

MOON OVER MIAMI

- 2 tablespoons sugar
- pint vanilla ice cream, softened slightly
- Florida oranges
- cup canned crushed pineapple, welldrained
- 1 egg white
 - Granulated sugar
 - For garnish: fresh mint sprigs

In blender or food processor, combine ginger and sugar; process until a thin paste-like consistency. Place softened ice cream in bowl, blend in ginger mixture. Cover. Freeze until firm. Cut off top third of oranges. With sharp knife cut orange flesh out of shells; cut into bite-size pieces. In small bowl combine pineapple and orange pieces. Beat egg white until foamy. Brush over orange shell and lid; sprinkle with granulated sugar to create frosted look. Chill until ready to serve. To serve, place frosted shell on dessert plate; fill with orange-pineapple mixture. Top with scoop of ginger ice cream; rest orange lid up against orange shell. Garnish with mint. Serve immediately. Yield: 4 servings.

New-fashioned spinach stuffed turkey meatioal boasts a flavorful vegetable-cheese filling and the goodness of wholegrain oats.

Oats keep the meatloaf moist and juicy and contribute important dietary fiber.

Old standby

Spinach stuffed meatloaf uses ground turkey instead of bee

Ah, comfort foods! The bread pudding, chicken soup and other comfy, cozy foods of childhood are back but with a difference. While they're just as comforting, they can be used as part of a lighter, healthier diet.

Modifying old-time favorite foods to make them part of a healthy eating plan is easier than you might think. Almost any recipe can be changed to reduce fat, cholesterol, sugar and sodium or to add fiber.

Depending upon the recipe, an ingredient might be eliminated, reduced or replaced by a more wholesome ingredient. For example, adding oil and salt to the water to cook pasta is unnecessary of you stir the pasta occasionally to prevent sticking and season the sauce with extra herbs and spices.

Sugar often can be cut by onethird to one-half in dessert recipes. The oil or margarine used for sauteing vegetables in skillet dishes also can be reduced, especially if you use a non-stick pan.

Many ingredients have healthful substitutes. Plain low-fat yogurt can replace sour cream in dressings, dips and some baked products. Doing so will reduce fat and cholesterol as well as trim calories. Try substituting skim or low-fat milk for whole milk in sauces, puddings and beverages; low-moisture, part-skim mozzarella cheese can replace cheddar and other high-fat cheeses in casseroles and pasta dishes. Thicken soups and stews with ground oat flour rather than all-purpose flour. Ground oat flour can be made in the blender or food processor and stored tightly covered in the refrigerator for added convenience.

In recipes that call for ground beef, substitute ground turkey for all or part of the beef. Considerably lower in both fat and cholesterol, ground turkey is available in many supermarkets both fresh and frozen, usually in one-pound rolls. Because it is uncooked, it can be used just like ground beef in pizza toppings, spaghetti sauce, burgers, meatballs, even a new-fashioned meatloaf. Spinach Stuffed Turkey Meatloaf uas more than a reduced fat content going for it. Oats added to the meat mixture for easier shaping contribute the dietary fiber which was common in Grandma's day but often is lacking in today's diets.

Fiber has a number of health benefits. And, now the results of two studies conducted by Northwestern University Medical School indicate that oats, a source of water-soluble fiber, can actually help reduce blood cholesterol levels when eaten as part of a fat-modified diet. And lowering blood cholesterol levels potentially reduces the risk of heart attack.

SPINACH STUFFED TURKEY MEATLOAF

1 10-oz. pkg. frozen chopped spinad thawed, drained 1 cup coarsely chopped mushrooms ¼ cup chopped onion 1 tbsp. margarine 1/2 cup (2 oz.) shredded Swiss cheese ¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese 1 lb. ground turkey 15 lb. ground beef % cup oats (quick or old fashione uncooked) 16 cup milk 1 whole egg or egg white, beaten 1 tsp. Italian seasoning 1/2 tsp. salt (optional) 1/4 tsp. pepper Heat oven to 375°F. Saute spir ach, mushrooms and onion in marga rine over medium heat 3-4 minutes Stir in ¼ cup Swiss cheese and Par mesan cheese. Combine remaining ingredients reserving remaining 4 cup Swiss cheese; mix well. Spoon 3/ of meat mixture lengthwise down center of 11x7-inch glass baking dish. Make a deep indentation down center of meat; fill with spinach mixture. Top with remaining mean mixture to encase spinach filling Bake 50-55 minutes. Sprinkle with remaining Swiss cheese; return to oven 1-2 minutes or until cheese is melted. Let stand 5 minutes before slicing. Makes 8 servings.

(AP) - A marketing expert says who responded to the survey had the average American is eating 26 percent less fat per day from retail cuts of beef and pork than a decade ago.

John L. Stanton of St. Joseph's University in Philadelphia said recently his industry-sponsored re-search showed a decline in beef and pork fat consumption from 1977 of more than 70 calories daily for men and 52 calories for women.

A consumer group spokeswoman said she had not reviewed the study but cautioned that such a reduction in consumption still left meat as the leading source of fat in the average American's diet.

"The American public is eating less meat, and the meat industry seems to be doing everything in its ower to reverse that decline," said Bonnie Liebman, director of nutrition for the Washington-based Center for Science in the Public Interest.

switched from a half-inch trim of fat in their meat departments to a quarter-inch trim.

The new information collected by Stanton included changes in the fat content of pork and beef as reported by USDA, changes in the proportion of consumers who eat all the fat from meat cuts, and the changes in fat trim policies of grocery stores.

By inserting the new information into the USDA's 1977 survey, Stanton said he was able to simulate current individual fat consumption from fresh beef and pork.

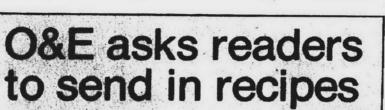

Stanton said it was important to note that the 26 percent reduction in fat consumption is an average figure and that there were wide variations. "That means some people had a average diet, accounting for 27.9 percent of the total fat intake. That included all meat, fresh and processed, not just fresh beef and pork covered by Stanton's research. Dairy products and eggs were second with 18.3 percent of the fat in diets.

Even if the 26 percent reduction were applied across the board to all meat fats, Liebman said, it still would leave meat at the top of the Stanton's study indicates, she said.

list as a source of fat in diets - accounting for about 20.7 percent of total fat consumed by the average American, down from 27.9 percent indicated by the HHS report.

High fat consumption can contribute to heart disease and certain kinds of cancer, particularly colon and breast cancer, and Americans need to cut back even further than Liebman added that both the beef and pork industries have earmarked millions of dollars to help increase meat consumption.

"It would clearly be detrimental to the public's health if those industries were to succeed in getting peo-ple to eat more red meat," she said.

The study was released as part of National Meat Week festivities organized by the American Meat Institute, which represents meat packers and processors, and other organizations representing industry, farm and livestock groups.

One of the goals of the study was to measure the impact of recent "quarter-inch trim" policies fol-lowed by some retailers who cut off excess fat from meat and the awareness of consumers about meat fat consumption.

Stanton said the Agriculture Department's 1977 Nationwide Food Consumption Survey, the most re-cent, was used in making the 10-year comparisons. He also conducted a national survey of food retailers to help determine current fat consumption from retail cuts of beef and pork.

very small reduction, but others experience dramatic changes," he said. "Twenty-seven percent of the individuals surveyed had more than a 40 percent reduction, 9 percent of the people were shown to have a 50 percent reduction."

Liebman said a survey by the De-partment of Health and Human Services showed that in 1976-80 meat was the largest source of fat in the

My love

Ah! could I win that "yes" of thine To what I wish most dearly -Before the sun began to shine To-morrow morning clearly Thy name would be no longer thine But that of yours sincerely Valentine verse, circa 1905

By Richard Lech

HE SENTIMENTS are of a bygone era. The artwork reflects the last giddy remnants of the Victorian Age.

Yes these valentines still have the ability to charm and delight.

The cards on this page date back to the years 1905-10. They belong to Farmington Hills resident Marian Lynch, who also is the village coordinator for Greenmead, Livonia's historical site.

Lynch has had the valentines - family heirlooms - for about 30 years. Except for a brief time when they were displayed at the Livonia Public Library Noble Branch, the valentines have just sat in a little box, protected from wear and tear - and the derisive humor of a more cynical age.

The cards originally were sent to Norma Waters, a cousin of Lynch's mother, by her schoolmates. Waters later became a nurse and died as a young woman during the influenza outbreaks around the time of the First World War.

Today the cards carry a certain poignancy. The signatures on the backs look as though they might have been written just vesterday.

An unanswerable question is: Did the sender really mean half of what their cards said?

Thou art a flower fair to me With richest fragranee laden; While L a dusty bumble bee The honey in my heart doth see And seeing, strive to capture thee Sweet rosebud of a maiden

- Leroy Fenton Reese

A verse I'd dearly love to send To tell you I am more than a friend. But that, I dare not, lady mine So sign myself your Valentine.

- Stuart

Valentines such as these probably sold for anywhere from 5 to 10 cents apiece, according to Ruth Webb Lee's "A History of Valentines." By that time, the turn of the century, the custom of sending valentines was nothing new.

As early as 1740 valentines were being distributed in colonial America. These were entirely handmade, and those that survive are museum pieces.

Eventually lithography made it possible for the average person to give valentines with delicate artwork and paper lace.

The valentines on this page show several examples of early-20th-century trends. The antique auto card is an example of the then-popular novelty cards, while wall hangings such as the three-part effort shown also had become common.

> Sentimental valentines are, of course, still with us. But it is doubtful any card company employee would get away with verses such as this today:

With love

Lawyers get a going-over

"From the Hip" (PG) treats the legal profession far more intelligently and with much greater respect than last year's dud, "Soul

It's also a lot funnier and manages to segue smoothly from courtroom slapstick through romance and legal adventure to serious discussion of legal ethics - all without batting an eye.

While it may not be as slick as the Robert Redford/Debra Winger piece, "Legal Eagles," it does have the youthful enthusiasm of tyro attorney Robin "Stormy" Weathers (Judd Nelson), who tires of legal research for a prestigious Boston law firm managed by Craig Duncan (Darren McGavin), Phil Ames (Alan Arbus) and Roberta Winnaker (Nancy Marchand).

Robin's name, and nickname, may be a bit too pat and cutesy but his unorthodox approach to obtaining a courtroom assignment is not. He pulls a fast one and Duncan is left with no alternative but to allow Robin to defend a major client on a minor, no-win assault case.

NEVER TELL "Stormy" Weathers he can't win, as Robin makes a major assault on the canons of courtroom propriety and legal ethics - but he wins.

In the process, Robin becomes the media event he staged to win the case, thus structuring the film's primary conflict: What is an attorney's responsibility? What may, or should, any attorney do to serve his client? Does the legal profession have ethics?

"No," the cynics among you may answer, but "From the Hip" an-swers, "Yes," in a satisfying, intelligent way. It's an entertaining, romantic comedy any way you look at it.

Robin's notoriety leads to his assignment to defend a wealthy, egomanical professor of English literature. Students probably will have fun with that, even though the accused's occupation is irrelevant to the scenario. Robin defends the unpleasant Professor Douglas Benoit (John Hurt) against charges he murdered a prostitute.

Throughout the film, Robin debates the issues with his girlfriend/ fiancee, Jo Ann (Elizabeth Perkins). The film is murky about their relationship, for early on it appears that they are married. This unnecessary confusion flaws a generally smooth screenplay, as does the last-minute, and unexplained, courtroom appearance of Professor Benoit's wife.

things to do

FROM ROBIN'S point of view, it all started out innocently enough. He just wanted to be a trial lawyer. But each minor indiscretion leads to a greater breach of legal ethics.

Ultimately, Robin has to deal with the issue of what an attorney must, can, should do in defending someone who may be guilty and who may be prepared to perjure himself.

Consideration of these issues strains Robin's relationship with Jo Ann, who has one of the film's best lines, summing up a sense of moderation: "I'd like to come down somewhere in the middle between Mother Teresa and Imelda Mar-COS.'

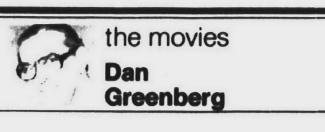

But how does one land on the middle ground? The film answers the question with considerable intelligence, although Robin's solution to his ethical dilemma may strike some as inappropriate as his earlier conduct.

"From the Hip" has its warm and intimate moments, as well as its brassy, comic ones, with convincing characterizations throughout.

"ALLAN QUATERMAIN and the Lost City of Gold" (PG), on the other hand, can make no such claim. What should have been a humorous, tongue-in-cheek romp at the expense of Harrison Ford and his successful adventure movies turns into a leaden vehicle that rumbles along carrying disinterested passengers whose performances fall far short of their reputations and credits.

Sharon Stone, in particular, is incredibly annoying as a blonde archeologist on a dangerous safari. "Let's go conquer East Africa," she declaims with a silly lilt in her voice, while Richard Chamberlain self-consciously grins off into the middle distance, apparently hoping no one will notice.

Supporting characterizations, special effects, monsters and scenery are the staples of such films.

Judd Nelson is Robin "Stormy" Weathers, who engages in courtroom theatrics, in the thought-provoking comedy "From the Hip."

While the Victoria Falls footage in Zimbabwe is attractive, it isn't spectacular enough to compensate for the film's mundane monsters or copy-cat special effects, such as a boat ride overly reminiscent of In-

Three excellent actors waste their talents in flat, poorly paced, uninspired supporting roles. James Earl Jones appears as a tough African warrior, Umslopogaas, who walks around with the phoniestlooking battle ax since the Vikings left kindergarten.

Robert Donner is the cowardly guru and Henry Silva is the villain. If they had given Henry something for the dyspepsia, it might have helped him, but nothing will help this film.

From the sea

Seafood specialties are being served every Friday at the Novi Hilton's Orchard Cafe. Fresh whole steamed lobster, iced shrimp, oysters on the half shell and scallops are some of the offerings. Besides seafood, there are pastas, BBQ chicken or ribs and steamship round of beef. The buffet is served from 6-11 p.m. Fridays and priced at $21.95 for adults, $14.95 for children.

New decor

Maxwell's Restaurant and Lounge has been redone, in a modified art-deco decor, at the Holiday Inn Farmington Hills. A one-of-a-kind, etched glass room divider adds distinction. Chef Dolph, a graduate of the Culinary Institute of America, has created a new, varied menu. In the lounge, Pam Wallace provides music while patrons converse. A trio plays on weekends.

Appraising eye

Registered gemologist Jim Krol appraises jewelry from noon to 2 p.m. the first and third Tuesday of the month at Restaurant Duglass in Southfield. Auctioneer Frank Boos provides free appraisals of antiques and art from noon to 2 p.m. the second and fourth Tuesday of the month.

Cafe Rio

Cafe Renaissance in the Renaissance Center's Westin Hotel in Detroit has been transformed into Cafe Rio, an American restaurant featuring Texan-Mexican fare. Amid a southwestern atmosphere, patrons dine on selections from an extensive menu. Among the entrees are salads, such as red chili pasta salads with mesquite chicken; beef or chicken fajitas; shrimp, chicken or beef burritos; catfish; barbeque ribs, and barbeque Texas steak sandwich. Piaella, a Mexican casserole, will be a house specialty.

For scholars

Applications are available for fall term scholarships, awarded by the Michigan Restaurant Association. Scholarships are open to students enrolled or planning to enroll in college foodservice programs. For an application, write the Educational Scholarship Committee, Michigan Restaurant Association, 690 E. Maple, Suite No. 205, Birmingham 48011.

Among MRA scholarship recipients for spring 1987 are two area students. Paula Deal of Southfield, who attends Michigan State University, and Anna Uscinowicz of Westland, a student at Eastern Michigan University.

Valentine's Day

Brunch for two and/or Valentine's Day breakfast for two is part of the St. Valentine's Day package offered by the Hotel St. Regis in Detroit. Also included is a deluxe room for two, freshly cut flowers, chilled half bottle of champagne and specialty chocolates. The package includes one overnight stay ($149 per couple) or two nights ($199 per couple). Call 873-300 for reservations.

Chefs to teach

Five chefs will teach individual classes in the Chefs of Michigan cooking series, offered by Kitchen Glamour on Sunday afternoons beginning March 1 at the store's West Bloomfield kitchen. They are Harlan (Pete) Peterson, chef and owner of Tapawingo's, March 1; Executive Chef Remy Berdy of the Sheraton Oaks, Novi, March 8; Chef Brian Polcyn, chef and proprietor of Austrian Pine Farms, March 15; Co-Chefs Elvin Greenwald and Mary Mandich of the Vay Dyke Place, March 22, and Chef Keith Famie, chef of Chez Raphael in Novi, March 29.

Classes are $30 each, or $135 for the series of five classes. For more information call 537-1300.
