"I'd sit here and look out into the dark thinking, 'What can be going through your head, Mary?' "

Frustrated with police inaction and searching incessantly for her daughter, Hulbert had no way of knowing her only child was dead.

It was an ugly contrast to some past nights when she'd tell Mary, "You're never too big to sleep with your mom," and Mary would crawl into her mother's bed.

"We were very tight. She talked to me about things I would have been embarrassed to talk to my mother about," said Hulbert, who is di-

Two 16-year-old Ypsilanti Township youths are charged with murdering Mary Anne Hulbert. Prosecutors are seeking to have them tried as adults.

Closing arguments in a preliminary hearing were scheduled for this week before Washtenaw Probate Judge Judith James Wood.

The case is being heard in Washtenaw County because Mary apparently was killed there. Hunters discovered her bullet-ridden body in a Superior Township field Jan. 7, about a week after her mother reported her missing.

According to testimony, the boys drove Mary to the rural area Dec. 30 after she informed them she was pregnant by one of them. The boys told police they intended to scare Mary into miscarrying by shooting a

A 17-year-old girlfriend, who since has disappeared, picked Mary up and drove her to a nearby intersection where the boys were waiting, Hulbert said. The friend, and police, figured Mary had run away.

'I knew she didn't run. She didn't take clothes or money with her," said Hulbert.

A Washtenaw County juvenile court hearing ended for one 16-yearold Ypsilanti Township youth and began for another this week in connection with the shooting death of a 13year-old Canton Township girl.

The hearings are being conducted to determine the admissibility of taped confessions in the juvenile murder case - the county's first in 20 years.

Mary Anne Hulbert's body was found Jan. 7 by hunters in a Superior Township field. Two former acquaintances of Hulbert's are charged with open murder and conspiracy in

In interviews with Washtenaw County sheriffs, the boys made taped statements that are the subject of the hearings. Each boy implicated the other in separate interviews.

Defense attorney Edward Schwartz contends sheriffs erred in not supplying his client with an attorney, and by illegally detaining him at the department Jan. 7. Public defender Ruth Ducmanis is arguing that her client's mother, not aunt, should have been present dur-

Tuesday's court proceedings brought out the fact that the aunt, although officially the youth's foster parent, is not his legal guardian.

Probate Judge Judith Wood, who in an unusual move has opened the courtroom to reporters, granted assistant prosecutor Elizabeth Pollard's motion to have finger and palm prints taken of both boys. Pollard is seeking to have both youths tried as adults.

"Our purpose is to compare the prints with evidence (a gun) at the crime lab," Pollard said.

Ypsilanti High School social worker Judy Dupuis testified that Schwartz's client, a special education student, reads at a third-grade level. Shown a written copy of Miranda rules outlining suspects' rights, Dupuis said the youth was capable of comprehending them.

She said he is of normal intelligence and is not learning disabled. The hearing for the second youth was to continue until 7 p.m. Wednesday, and will resume Tuesday. Attorneys will present arguments Wednesday and have about a week to submit briefs. Wood will make her ruling sometime after that.

Parents must set priorities for kids

staff writer

OK students - turn off that television and hit the books. And parents, keep your eyes on them and make sure they do their homework.

That extra effort and attention should translate into better classroom performance, needed to improve American brainpower and help the United States compete with Japan and other countries, said Dr. Janet Rosen.

Rosen is a Southfield resident and learning specialist at Detroit Country Day in Beverly Hills who recently wrote a "how-to" study guide for students.

Her message is clear: It's time for American schools to start producing smarter graduates, essential for the nation's re-emergence in world in-

To do so, she recommends improving student studying skills and making learning the top priority in the home. Also, teachers and school admistrators should keep a closer eye on student learning.

BETTER STUDY habits are needed for the United States to regain a to Rosen, a critic of current study-

Other countries are forging far ahead in the computer and high tech industries, she said.

Catching up in that arena depends on developing well-educated minds.
"It starts in the home, and starts in kindergarten," Rosen said.

"Children have to be trained to be good learners and good thinkers from early on. We have to take another look at how we're preparing our students. We can't be second best, we must be number one."

Research also links the nation's crime and substance abuse problems with poor education, she said. At least 23 million Americans are functional illiterates, unable to read or write beyond third or fourth-grade levels, she added.

"IT'S IMPORTANT that our kids are learning about logic, how to think, and not just learning to give the rote memory of text," said Rosen, who also directs Farmington's Learning Plus educational clin-

"They must learn how to think and apply that to making decisions."

Rosen said much of the responsi-"hard, competitive edge," according billty to improve studying skills lies

District pilots study program

By Wayne Peal staff writer

Local school districts have their own suggestions for improving student study skills and while many underscore Janet Rosen's recommendations, each district adds a few wrinkles of its own.

Students improve their study skills while learning traditional academic disciplines in a pilot program at a Plymouth-Canton Community School middle school.

Lowell Middle School students receive study skill pointers along with regular classroom education. "It becomes part of the everyday classroom routine," said Michael Holmes, assistant superintendent for instruction. "I think that's what makes it so effective."

In addition to the pilot program, which was created by Plymouth-Canton teachers, the district touts study techniques in newsletters sent home to parents.

We encourage parents to talk to their kids, to find out what's going on with their studies," Homes said. NEATNESS COUNTS, too, according to William Harvey, associate superintendent of Wayne-Westland Community Schools which includes part of Canton Township.

Please turn to Page 6

They must place a higher value on learning from when their children are young, actively seek out how their schools function and make daily studying an absolute must for their students.

Of course, increased commitment to learning must also be made by students themselves, administrators and teachers, Rosen said.

School administrators should regularly visit classrooms to monitor how well teachers are performing, and screen study plans. Also, teachers should be more available to help struggling students.

But students need to help themselves. Rosen said they should reduce time watching television and instead devote at least 30 minutes daily to each class.

In fact, Rosen suggested students implement a chart which shows how much study time is allotted for each class, and what corresponding results are.

"IF 20 MINUTES in history gets you a B fine, but if 20 minutes gets you a D, then you'd better double it."

Good intentions and planning, however, won't raise American IQs until television sets are clicked off and youngsters go to their books,

"Don't use TV as a baby sitter," Rosen warns parents. "It should be absolutely limited.

"I know of kids who watch TV from 3 to 6, eat dinner, and watch it again from 7 to 9," she explained. "So what you have is five hours of TV, with little communication or family interaction. The child becomes a non-thinking robot."

If youngsters insist on television, they should sit down and watch educational programs on public television channels with parents, then have discussions, Rosen said.

Solving this difficult, complex issue could be very simple.

The key could be making young students "feel they have what it takes to succeed in today's pressurized world," said Rosen.

"Give kids a lot of love and security," Rosen advises parents. "Tell them they're good and wonderful, without going overboard. It makes them more confident."

STATE TREASURER Robert Bowman, Wayne State University President David Adamany and Plymouth resident John Lore, former president of the Michigan (Private) Colleges Foundation, are among the other directors.

Numerous wrinkles need to be ironed out before the tuition-guarantee plan begins operating, McDowell

"The big thing is whether the Internal Revenue Service will aprove it as tax-free or tax-deferred," he McDowell believes the program can function successfully regardless of the IRS' decision.

Higher education is more necessary than ever, he added.

"Studies have shown us that 75 percent of the jobs in our new, technically oriented society are going to require some degree of education be-yond high school," he said. "But that doesn't necessarily mean a four-year college.'

WHILE THE tuition program may draw off young students who in the past might only have been able to afford a community college education, McDowell said Schoolcraft's enrollment should remain stable.

"It's my feeling we'll always have adequate enrollments," he said. "We offer what people need at a reduced cost, even with this program. Plus, we're there for the adult student who's just returning to class.'

McDowell has been Schoolcraft president since September 1981. Before that, he was a campus director at the four-campus Allegheny County Community College in suburban Pittsburgh.

Westland's sale proceeds, but questions linger

By Wayne Peal staff writer

Approval of Westland Medical Center's sale to a private consortium could come within the next two weeks, but one local county commissioner says numerous questions still need to be answered.

Administrators of the People's Community Hospital Authority (PCHA), one Westland Medical Center's four new managing partners, formally approved purchasing the hospital last week

We're working with all the groups to finalize the purchase agreement," said Vernice Davis-Anthony, assistant county executive for health and community services. "We're also working on the details of each indigent care contract. We hope to have the information to commissioners by next week."

People's in a coalition with Oakwood, Garden City Osteopathic and Southwest Detroit hospitals, is purchasing the medical center from the county.

But Commissioner Kay Beard, D-Inkster, an indigent-care advocate who walked an Jan. 19 employee picket line protesting the coalition's formation, said her concerns haven't yet been answered.

'I WON'T know what's what until I see an agreement in writing." Beard said. "An agreement in principle tells me nothing.'

Beard, whose district includes the hospital site, said she was preparing a position paper on the sale. The paper is expected to be released next week, she said.

Westland Health Network Inc., the multi-hospital consortium, would pay $7.56 million over the next three years to buy the hospital. The transaction is subject to county commission approval. A certificate of need must also be obtained from state health officials.

Health care for indigent county residents emerged as a major issue in the proposed sale.

For now, indigent care continues at the medical center, 2345 Merri-

Under the agreement, indigent care would be expanded to all member hospitals. The new management team, however, offered no guarantee Westland would continue as a full-fledged hospital.

Here's how state college fund works

These are Michigan Education Trust (MET) highlights:

• It will enable adults to "prepurchase" tuition in a child's name for a fixed, predetermined amount.

· Adults may make lump sum or periodic payments. Trust money would be pooled, invested and, eventually, paid to the college on the child's behalf.

The district makes published lists of good study skills available to parents and parent groups, Harvey said.

Reading should be stressed, according to Garden City Public Schools Superintendent Michael Wilmot. "It's paramount that there's some reading done at home, either silent or aloud. We know conclusively these students will become better readers and better students."

It's important that students start as early as possible, Wilomot added. Garden City schools offer remedial study skills classes for junior high students but Wilmot said many study problems could be nipped in the bud at home

"So often we attempt to remediate after it's become a problem but the goal should be to prevent problems."

SCHEDULING is important, according to South Redford Superinndent Jan Jacobs

"Students should try to set aside a normal time of the day to study and try to do it in a particular location,"

South Redford offers remedial study skills to seventh graders but is considering broadening its program next year.

"Next year, in looking at middle schools, we're thinking about adopting QUEST, a program that involves study skills and all kinds of other things," Jacobs said.

It's important that parents encourage their youngsters without be-coming too overbearing, Redferd Union director of instruction Kenneth Johnson said.

"Many parents have excellent intentions but if it becomes too task oriented — if they become a cop standing over their kids to make sure their homework is done - then it becomes painful for both the parents and students, and the students could actually develop an aversion to homework," Johnson said.

Parents provide more help if they work with their youngsters in pro-viding specific times and places in viding specific times which to study.

"It doesn't have to be the sam time for every student but it should be consistent," Johnson said. "We've also found that laying on the bed isn't as conducive to studying as working at the kitchen table. Ideally, we'd like to see students have a desk set in their bedrooms but that's not

STUDENTS IN the Clarenceville district receive specific instructions as to how much time they should spend with their homework.
"We've adopted a homework policy spelling out how much time stu-dents should spend studying a day," Superintendent Michael Shibler said.

Guidelines range from 30-45 min-utes per night for elementary schoolers to two hours or more for high schoolers.

'We've had complaints from parents that we've giving too much homework but I'd rather have that than complaints we're giving too little," Shibler said.

Officials seek grant opinions

If so, government officials in the township and city of Plymouth want to hear from you.

Public hearings have been scheduled later this month on how federal Community Development Block Grant funds should be spent locally.

Plymouth Township has been notified that it will receive between $66,482 and $75,000, said James Anulewicz, planning director. The township's hearing is set for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, March 10, at township hall, 42350 Ann Arbor Road.

The city of Plymouth will receive between $53,723 to $61,398, said Paul Sincock, assistant to the city

The city commission scheduled its hearing for 7:30 p.m. Monday, March 16, at city hall, 201 S. Main.

THE CHALLENGE, should you choose to accept, is to develop a spending plan that improves the physical environment or provides services to low or moderate income areas of the community.

That would include Old Village in the city, Sincock said, and an area in the northeast part of the township including Hammill and Garland streets, said Anulewicz.

Programming for senior citizens also would seem a good way to meet federal income qualifications.

Organizing the building department and tending to day-to-day planning matters including site plan re-views were determined to be higher priorities, Anulewicz said.

He suggested that the time may be drawing near - perhaps even this year - that the township decides to get out of the block grant program due to restrictions placed on spending.

"The original block grant program said, 'Spend it.' I think you had one or two categories you couldn't spend money on," Anulewicz said.

"Slowly but surely, they kept turning the program into one where it's fairly difficult to find an eligible program."

Funds not spent one year can be reallocated the next, Anulewicz said. After that, they're lost.

What is impact of nearby jails?

HIS WEEK, the Observer Newspapers of Plymouth and Canton introduced the first in a series of articles on the three state prisons in the community.

Located in the vicinity of Five Mile and Beck are Scott Regional Correctional Facilty, Phoenix Correctional Facilty and Western Wayne Correctional Facilty (formerly DeHoCo). While the community is accustomed to the prison facility that once was the Detroit House of Corrections, the other two are new. And DeHoCo is more than a name change - there's a new landlord and new terlants.

Three prisons within a mile radius the only situation of its kind in Michigan. What does that mean for the Northville-Plymouth-Canton community? What has been the effect of converting DeHoCo to a state-run prison? What's the impact on the community of adding two other state prisons?

THESE QUESTIONS turned our attention recently toward Five Mile and Beck, and we headed that way with a number of questions, with notebooks and pencils in hand.

Writers Doug Funke, M.B. Dillon, Diane Gale, Julie Brown and Carolyn Carman and photographer Bill Bresler received a great deal of cooperation from all three wardens. Questions were answered, doors opened, information supplied. We learned quite a bit.

We also talked with officials with the Michigan Department of Corrections, with state lawmakers, local leaders, and with residents living near the prisons. From these discussions, we not only gathered a volume of information but also had our perceptions changed in the

This week, and for the next three editions, we share that information with our readers. You also will find yourself better informed and possibly, too, find some perceptions changed.

FOR YEARS DeHoCo and the community co-existed quite well.

The prisoners were generally lowrisk people who served short-term sentences and were released to their families. Occasionally, a few would seek their own release and walk away from harm done anyone. The town became adjusted to walkaways just as local motorists are used to jaywalkers.

Some prisoners would enroll in adult education classes offered by Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, and all residents benefited from state aid payments based, in part, on the higher student headcount provided by adult ed

But that relationship has changed. Security has been increased, and we really don't have walkaways anymore. If a prisoner arranges a premature release, he/she cannot just walk out but must "escape." The education of prisoners now is handled by the state, and so that community tie no longer exists.

SO WHAT IS the current relationship between town and prisons? What are the advantages, disadvantages, the costs and the benefits?

Do residents living closest to the prisons feel insecure or safer? What, if any, are their fears? Do those feelings match the community at-large? You might be surprised.

What about the economic benefit? We know there are acres of prime industrial land off the tax rolls, but is there a corresponding benefit? How many jobs are held by local residents to soften the loss in potential property tax revenue? What's the extent of purchasing from local businesses? What's it mean in dollars and cents? Here, too, you might be surprised.

What is life like at the three prisons for inmates? Are they just biding time or is rehabilitation possible? Are they content with facilities or has prison life become unbearable? What's a typical day like for an inmate? What's a typical day like for a correctional officer?

And what's the future hold for us? Already an expansion is under way at Western Wayne; is expansion of the other prisons likely? Will there be a fourth prison here? Halfway houses? Centers for youthful offenders? What alternatives are there?

These are the questions being examined. Sometimes we have found answers; sometimes not. But we are better informed now than a couple weeks ago. the compound. But the "walkaways" We hope our readers find this effort would be picked up and returned - no worthwhile.

and lovely to look at. Her accompanist, pianist Martin Katz, is similarly skilled.

But it was disturbing during her recent concert in the University of Michigan's Hill Auditorium to note the badly chipped black finish on the piano behind Descending the staircase afterward, we noticed paint peeling off Hill's walls in giant flakes. I've seen more attractive Upper Peninsula mine shafts.

When, I wondered to myself, will colleges get off the "more revenue" kick and start attacking the source of the problem: the state's gradual, 22-year diversion of money from education into "social services" - welfare?

THEY MUST have read my mind. A week later, the U-M News Service sent out a story on Maris A. Vinovkis, a social historian.

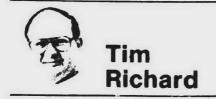

He's writing a book about the current problem, which political liberals and the cowardly call "teenage pregnancy." He points out, quite correctly, that teen pregnancy in America reached its peak

But he notes differences:

• In 1957 half the teens who found themselves pregnant got married. Their husbands supported them. Threefourths of those "shotgun" marriages lasted at least 10 years.

• By 1980 two-thirds of the young women were keeping the babies, placing "a real economic burden on society." An increasing percentage went on

That money, in case you haven't been following my researches over the past four years, has come out of education. In 1957 U-M tuition was about $200 a year. Now it's above $2,000, and the semesters are shorter. General taxpayers and those paying college tuition are picking up the welfare load.

IS CONTRACEPTIVE information the answer to out-of-wedlock births? Vinovskis gives a mixed answer.

One side: "Canadian and western European teenagers have about one-fifth the birth rate of American teens because they use contraceptives more effectively and regularly." He advocates teaching teens to say "no" but also giving them birth control advice.

The other side: "The sexual activity rate for teens escalated sharply in the '70s, but the birth rate dropped. Obviously, teens will use birth control if they

"If they can get it"? It's hard to imagine the ignorance among teens he im-

IRONICALLY, back in the dim, dark '50s, you couldn't advertise condoms in Michigan as birth control devices. The label said "for prevention of disease only."

But I digress.

The point is to praise Maris Vinovskis and the U-M for finally having the nerve to address America's 20-percent illegitimate birth rate, highest in the industrialized world. For years, academicians refused to admit that welfare is the enemy of education.

If we can reduce that illegitimacy/ welfare rate, maybe U-M can paint that wretched-looking piano so that it's worthy of Kiri Te Kanawa.

Security blanket

Haven in a changing suburbia

WHENEVER CHANGES occur, some folks get a little uneasy. Nothing unusual about that. Even the most liberal among us like the feeling of a warm security blanket.

Perhaps you've noticed some of the changes in your local edition of the Observer & Eccentric. If you haven't, take

The most noticeable additions are Monday's Street Scene and our improved food section called Taste. After just two weeks of our new Monday format, we're pleased to note that each one these sections has received overwhelming reader approval.

The staff has a lot of fun producing these sections, and now we know that you enjoy reading them.

To a lot of folks, including this editor, a big security blanket is represented by the newspapers we read - especially the ones that talk about our home

DESPITE THE importance of foreign trade and nuclear disarmament talks, the community in which we live holds a special place in our hearts. It, too, is another form of security, and we want to know more about that than anything else in the world.

Newspapers have gone through a lot of changes in the past decade. With the advent of the computer in the newsroom, color capability and a re-emphasis on design, new life has been breathed into the industry.

Readers and advertisers alike see that newspapers can generate more information with the same kind of excitement as the once-perceived arch-enemy - television.

It took a long time, but newspaper people are finally feeling secure once again. That's why you're getting a better newspaper.

We understand that the key to our success is giving you the information you need and want in a continually updated and well-designed package. In short, we change, because you, the reader and advertiser, are changing.

But like any institution, we also realize the importance of tradition. And, like you, we realize that some things in our newspaper we just don't want to

THAT'S WHY you can feel comfortable knowing that while you will see continual change, that which makes you feel comfortable about your newspaper will also be there for you.

We know that your community and the news of the community is most important. You want to know what is happening on main street, in city hall, at the community center and in the classrooms of the local school district.

Because we know these are the items that matter the most to you, we are doing some, perhaps less visible but just as important, updating of how we cover those areas.

Most importantly, if you've got any comments on your local newspaper, please give us a call or write us a letter. We always are anxious to hear from

AN UGLY RADIO broadcast at the University of Michigan last month — in which callers told racist jokes accompanied by a background of canned laughter — raised allegations that racism might be alive and well at the Harvard of the Midwest.

It's a groundless allegation. Everyone knows that U-M treasures black students - as long as they can carry a football, stop an end run or go hard to the basket. Otherwise, well, the U-M really would like to increase its black enrollment, but a prestigious university must have standards, after all.

In 1970, a student strike engineered by the Black Action Movement shut down many classes at Michigan for a few days. Black students were protesting what they saw as second-class status on the Ann Arbor campus. Afterward, the administration vowed to raise black enrollment to 10 percent of the student body.

Since then there have been black astronauts, black candidates for president and for governor, and a black Miss America. And the black students at Michigan equal about 5 percent of the student body.

THE PERCENTAGE of blacks on the starting basketball team, however, is often closer to 80 percent. At least half of the starting football team usual-

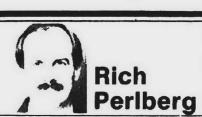

If the University of Michigan fails so miserably in attracting qualified black students, why do you suppose such a disproportionate number of studentathletes are black?

Some might suspect that the university is more willing to recruit black athletes, regardless of their grades, than low-achieving black students who don't have All-American potential.

IF SO, THE university is not alone. Southern schools, of course, prohibited blacks until the federal government intervened and until southern coaches noticed that northern schools were getting the good black athletes.

So a different form of exploitation evolved, best evidenced at the University of Georgia where an embarrassing lawsuit proved that the school advanced black football players who were failing remedial courses in order that they stay eligible for Saturday's gridiron wars. There are, or course, many athletes of all colors who are fine college stu dents.

BUT ASK YOURSELF the chances of being admitted to Michigan if your, combined SAT score was under 700. The university recently extended that honor to two young black students. They were also two of the best high school basketball players in the country.

If the university so blatantly sends a message that black youths are valuable only as an athletic commodity, then can it be very surprising that a white student felt comfortable in broadcasting racist jokes across a student radio net-

University officials say they were surprised and alarmed. But many black students have said they weren't surprised.

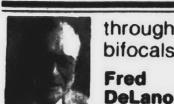

How could they be? They know the

THE WARMTH IN a letter that arrived recently from a lady in New Zealand who said she was "taking the liberty of writing to enquire after the welfare of my dear old friend, W.W. Edgar. The Stroller," was unmistakable. Christmas had passed, and there had been no greeting. She wondered why.

About the same time that Mrs. M.A. Mellor's letter from New Zealand was received in the Observer & Eccentric office, I was given the copy of a clipping of a sports column from The Gilman Star. published at Gilman, Ill., which included an Edgar anecdote printed in Bifocals shortly after Eddie's death.

Indeed, his memory does linger on, even in corners of the earth far removed from the backyard on Grove where he cared for those doggone tomato plants so lovingly every summer.

through bifocals Fred

"I have before me a cutting from your newspaper, dated Nov. 25, 1985," explained Mrs. Mellor in prefacing remarks on how she became acquainted with the O&E columnist and his wife, Leona. (It came about through the exchange trips held between dignitaries and prominent citizens of Plymouth, England and Plymouth, Mich., in the

"SINCE MEETING him in Plymouth, England, on occasion of the Mayflower celebrations, of which we have talked ever since, Eddie has kept up a regular correspondence with me . . . until now," she wrote.

"Every now and then he has sent clippings of his own, or about him, and it would seem that he is a greatly honored and revered person in your community, with every justification.

"He and Leona and I recalled so often the happy times we had together during their all-too-brief but memorable stay in Plymouth, and invariably their card at Christmas was one of the first to greet me, until this year. No card.

"I think perhaps it is significant and would much appreciate a word from you, if you wouldn't mind. His last letter did mention that he had had a heart problem, and I realized that neither he nor Leona were in the best of health."

Naturally, Eddie's letter-writing friend from Down Under has been fully informed that the man with the Santa Claus body reached the end of his rope last May at the age of 88, the last 20 of which were spent as an editor, feature writer and columnist for this family of

So, too, has she been informed of Leona's new address in Florida.

EDDIE TOUCHED so many lives starting with his growing up years in the Pennsylvania Dutch country that it's no wonder the name still is fresh in the minds of many who themselves never crossed paths. Universally the memories simply have to be warm.

One of them that's sure to be recalled in the month ahead will focus on the fact that when the Detroit Tigers open their home schedule against the New York Yankees on the afternoon of Monday, April 6, it will be the first time in 64 years that Eddie hasn't been in the press box for opening day.

He saw 63 of 'em, starting with a 4-3 victory over Cleveland in 1924 when "W.W." was a neophyte Free Press sports writer still finding his way after arrival from Allentown a few weeks earlier.

When the Tigers, with Jack Morris as winning pitcher, posted their 6-5 victory over the Boston Red Sox in launching the 1986 season, it boosted Eddie Edgar's personal home opener record for 63 years to 32 wins against 31 losses one game over .500.

Four weeks from Monday, greats like H.G. Salsinger, Sam Greene and son, Doc, E.A. Batchelor, Bob Murphy, Charles P. Ward, Dale Stafford, Hal Middlesworth and others will remind Eddie that once again he's the neophyte of the lodge. His initiation assignment will be beat the Yankees.

And by golly, he will!

Harleys are still made in America

To the editor:

Stop the presses! Something dreadful has happened!

Thanks to a reader's misapprehension, a terrible piece of misinformation has been spread by your normally competent newspaper. In your Feb. 5 edition — and a mighty interesting day of news reporting, I might add — you ran a letter that was contributed by reader Anthony Stofa of Plymouth.

Stofa was quite enthusiastic about communicating his opinions on the deterioration of American quality. And speaking of American quality, I applaud Stofa for speaking out because a free expression of opinion is an American quality that we at Harley-Davidson firmly believe in.

However, in his exuberance in making his point, Stofa did Harley-Davidson a gross misjustice by saying "The Japanese bought the company." No way! Harley-Davidson has always remained an American-owned company since it was founded in 1903.

I'd like to take this opportunity to set the record straight on one other point: at Harley-Davidson, quality has been on the rise at such progressive rates that we are now acknowledged as a quality leader in manufacturing in America. Many independent evaluators have gone on record as stating that Harley quality is "equal to or better than the competition.

Stofa's letter gave America's sole remaining producer of motorcycles an unfair treatment. That's regrettable, not only for us at Harley-Davidson, but for your readers. I hope I can count on you to help set the record straight.

Defending the right to learn

To the editor:

I am a junior at Plymouth Salem High School.

I attended a private Catholic school for five years. It was there that I first learned of Darwinism. I find it odd that an institution soley based on upholding my religion would fill my education with an undermining message that would in any way corrupt my faith. I am insulted by the whole concept of Di-

I am not trying to degrade Diane Daskalaskis. I understand her views. I am open to exposure to her ideas. And I can accept what she interprets as her truth and ideals. My education taught me that. But I do not believe in her cause because my own opinion of the education process is too strongly opposed to it.

The same holds true with my religion. If, as she stated, the majority of our school population is Christian, then that same majority involved in classroom discussion can be strong enough to hold true to the beliefs they have been committed to without having to shut out all other possibilities.

In making their recently distributed fund-raising brochure, did the Citizens for Better Education consider that in their fight for my rights at school, if I am an atheist, do I therefore have the power to ban all Christian materials?

There is obviously the question of the merican hope for freedom at stake. We are guaranteed liberty and justice for all; not just the majority. Aside from the "objectionable" materials, students are also exposed, in classes such as humanities, to the Christian Bible and Jewish rituals.

So what is Daskalaskis true cause? Whose name is she uplifting - mine in helping me to become ignorant to existent realities, or her own in being what she sees as a savior to the poor unknowing children of our community (while earning a suggested donation of $10)?

Am I one of these unknowing children who does not have enough sense to be educated by a teacher who will guide my knowledge? Rather, should I go out and discover foul language and other such evils on my own with no understanding of right and wrong?

The son of my Christian God, Jesus Christ, tells me that if I ignore everything else He teaches, above all I should love my neighbor as myself. In His example, my God loves me because of what I stand for and believe in. If I am only exposed to Christianity, how can I love my neighbor without the understanding of what he stands for and believes in as his truth?

There is a time and a place for everything. I go to church to share in my God. In school I do not forget or abandon my God. I am learning to use my education to expand my personal meaning of life. Who is to say that God did not create man through the evolution process? This is for me to decide on my own.

And I consider myself (for some insane reason) to be wise enough to judge the rights, wrongs, and reasons in my life without being spoon-fed it by someone who already has had her chance to decide.

I hope Daskalaskis can appreciate my ideas without preparing a defense. I believe that the role of the family in our community has not lost its influence on education to the point where I, as a student, need an outsider of another denomination to teach me only what she wants me to learn.

Reader backs R-movie removal

To the editor:

Following is my reply to Douglas McClennen's letter, "Is witchcraft a smokescreen?" of 2-26-87.

Regardless of Daskalakis's "real objective," many of us applaud her efforts to get "R" rated movies out of the classroom and to thereby begin to establish a reasonable level of accountability from school officials.

All this tomfoolery about teaching creation science in the schools (who could believe that anyway?) is a smokescreen to cover the real objective an attempt of school officials to preserve absolute power. Did you read Bill Lucas's comments during his campaign regarding the failure of the Detroit public schools because of their disregard for the preferences of the parents?

Cartoon movies and "The Breakfast Club" are not my idea of a "quality education for our children," as you put it.

As one of your "fellow citizens," I urge you to keep "wondering why some of the films she listed were being shown," to conclude that they shouldn't be shown, and to support Daskalakis's valiant attempt to make school officials accountable.

As printed in the paper, your letter refers to creation science as "mystical thinking forced on public school students in the name of education." I am confident that you meant to refer to witchcraft (which is being taught in the schools), not creation science (which isn't being taught in the schools), in these terms.

Word spread on vocations

I wish to express the appreciation of the department of vocational and technical education of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools for your recent outstanding articles regarding Vocational Educational Week.

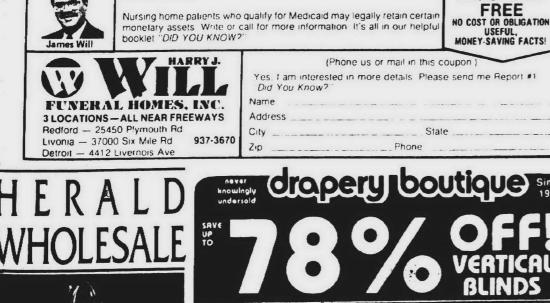

In particular, a special thanks to Bill Bresler for the fine photographs of our students at work in their career classes. I am pleased that you and the Observer Newspapers continue to report the wide variety of technical programs offered at Centennial Educational Park.

As you are aware, vocational technical programs are an important part of the total high school program that helps students to make appropriate course choices and prepare for realistic career opportunities. Your articles play an important role in sending this message to the community and the students' parents. This results in our students being better prepared to make more meaningful career choices.

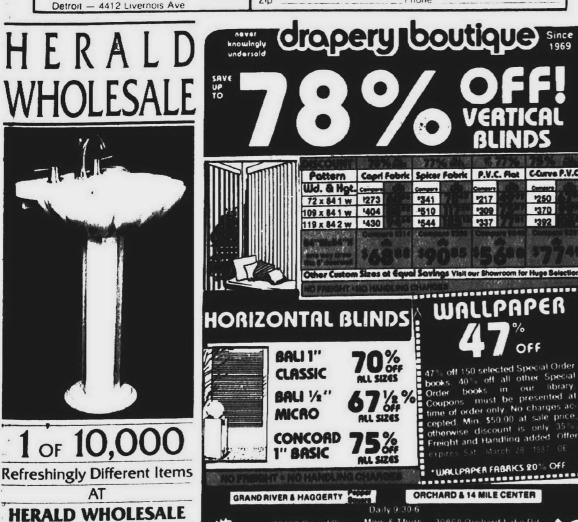

Again thank you for your interest and support.

Ford revives plant-closing legislation

AP - It was 1973 when Rep Wilham Ford of Michigan first introduced legislation to require that companies give their workers advance warning of massive layoffs or plant closings

More than a decade later, the Taylor Democrat, whose district includes Westland, Garden City and parts of Livonia, doggedly pursues the same goal and surprised workers continue to lose their jobs in abrupt shutdowns

The average blue-collar worker gets seven days' notice that his job is about to end, the average non-union employee receives two days' warning, the General Accounting Office reported last year

Ford maintains that early warning of plant closings is needed to mobilize the pre-layoff assistance that can help employees quickly find new jobs and keep them from joining the ranks of discouraged, dislocated

And while that view is shared by Labor Secretary William Brock and a task force he appointed to study plant closings, there is disagreement over whether the government should force companies to disclose their in-

Brock and the Reagan administration maintain that the best way to get companies to warn workers of impending layoffs is to offer incentives that encourage them to voluntarily give advance notice whenever feasible filling prophecy," Brock told a House committee last week

Brock and his aides were visiting Capitol Hill to tout President Reagan's new $980 million program to help about 700,000 dislocated workers a year, a package that contains no requirement for advance notice of plant closings.

Ford says the administration's proposal is a Band-Aid approach to the problem of frustrated, dislocated workers, adding: "This will not stop the people who lose their senses and shoot at Japanese cars in my district.

OVER THE years, the dispute over notification of plant closings frequently has been drawn along business-labor battle lines, with management thus far able to scuttle what it sees as an attempt to allow government intervention into private business decisions.

As soon as Ford introduced his bill last month and companion Senate legislation was offered by Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, the National Association of Manufacturers launched the opposition, labeling the proposal's plant-closing provisions unrealistic in today's competitive marketplace.

"The small manufacturer who loses a supplier or key customer is often unable to predict its business climate and cannot be bound by strict mandates when it is struggling to survive," said NAM vice president Randolph Hale.

Meanwhile, the United Auto Workers union, holding its legislative conference in Washington last month, sent its members forth with a mandate to lobby Congress in favor of the legislation.

UAW President Owen Bieber said that despite business' past success in scuttling Ford's legislation, "hopefully Congress will build on and strengthen the recommendations of the Labor Department task force that dealt with this issue and pass a bill including an advance notice requirement

"WE HAVE to fight, because plant closings and worker dislocation have reached epidemic proportions in this country," Bieber said.

Ford over the years has scaled back his expectations from his earliest proposals, which sought to require that companies give two years' notice of plant closings and provide a variety of services to laid-off workers.

His latest bill would require firms to give 90 days' notice if 50-100 jobs were to be eliminated, 120 days' notice for the loss of 101-500 jobs, and 180 days' warning for the loss of more than 500 workers.

For all employers, if the need for layoffs were unforeseen, the notice requirement would be reduced or eliminated.

Canham to testify Tuesday

Former Wayne County Circuit Judge James Canham is expected to testify when his disbarment hearing resumes Tuesday before the Michigan Attorney Discipline Board.

Canham, a Redford Township resident, could lose the right to practice law if found guilty of conspiring with former Michigan Appeals Judge S. Jerome Bronson to extort a bribe from attorney James Finn.

Finn, who alerted police to the bribe attempt, is also expected to testify before the three-attorney panel next week.

Bronson was charged with soliciting a $20,000 bribe in return for upholding a $3.2 million verdict won by Finn in a 1986 negligence suit against the Ford Motor Co. Bronson comitted suicide shortly after his Nov. 14 arraignment.

Though granted immunity from prosecution - in return for helping trap Bronson - Canham faces disbarment as an alleged co-conspira-

Rodney Copland said that if he had money, he wouldn't be in jail right now because he could have hired a motivated attorney. Court-appointed lawyers just "want you to plead so they can get the next guy in," Copland said.

Playing cards and writing letters are major pastimes at Scott. One prisoner said, "here, you have time to think and get your head together. I'm an only child, and I was in prison on Christmas. My mom worries about me. We wrote some heart-toheart letters, and now she's my best friend."

The last time the former career counselor saw his 3-year-old daughter Crystal was months ago. "Since I've been incarcerated the relationship has been damaged a little," said Copland who's single.

"I know for a fact I shouldn't be sitting in this prison," he added with fire in his eyes. "I don't feel my attorney looked out for my best interest. A number of things weren't brought out at my trial."

Copland said he's not the only one getting a raw deal.

'I'm not saying prisons should be here to pamper people. A man have to pay for crimes he did. But a guy has to be treated human.

'Someone should say, 'How did this young man get here? If you don't get people to help the guys here, you're just spinning your wheels in a fancy place. "True enough we're prisoners," the medium-security inmate said.

A PRISONER'S "credibility is shot dead," agreed Robert Waters, 34, of Detroit.

It's my higher power

"When you try to fight they bodyslams you. They try to get you to take a plea so they can get on to the next case."

Married and the father of three, Waters was unemployed and "more or less forced into dealing with narcotics rather than kill or rob someone. A job is real hard to find when you don't have any education," said Waters, serving 18 months to five years for selling cocaine with intent to deliver. "I feel that doing time is as hard as you make it for yourself.

"I was in Jackson and you can't compare it to this place. At Jack son you meet all the bad guys. Scott separates the good and bad guys. The only good ones at Jackson are the ones who make it to Scott. Some guys got career courses in criminology," said Waters who estimates that only two of 20 inmates at Scott won't be imprisoned a second time.

Fellow prisoner Russell Wajda, 29. of Taylor describes Scott as a 'country club.'

Convicted of armed robbery in Florida and dubbed an escape risk there in the 1970s, Wajda says Scott is "like kiddie camp, or the Boy Scouts, maybe, compared to other places."

razor-edged wire enclose the medium and soon-to-open maximum security facilities.

The prison's minimum-security area is unfenced.

Green-trimmed, tan brick buildings house bow-tie-shaped prisoner units anchored by offices, a laundry room and commissary. Prisoners live in private cells furnished with a cot, locker, desk, chair, and bulletin board.

In neighboring buildings are administrative headquarters, a gym, weight room, medical and dental offices, classrooms, library and dining hall.

"Being here does bother me. It's something I'm ashamed of."

The inmate, a Livonia Franklin High graduate who requested anonymity, says discrimination is a problem at Scott, a place he describes as "gladiator school.

"Being white is hard. It's about 80 percent black and 20 percent white here. There's a lot of name calling. Whites get called honkies. 'Cause of my size I can call 'em nigger back and get away with it."

Doing two years for receiving stolen property, the inmate is separated and has a 3-year-old son who lives with his mother.

As a young Girl Scout, Snyder sold Hershey bars for 5 cents each. The candy bars were larger than the more expensive ones sold today, she said.

"I can't remember that we ever did any other fund-raiser. Back in those days, you got along with very

THE GIRL Scout organization was different in those days. The military influence could be seen in the design of the uniforms.

"Very militaristic," she said. "My first uniform was a khaki one. You see, that was not too long after World War I."

The Girl Scouts also had a bugle and drum corps in those days. Snyder played the bugle.

At every meeting, the girls went through inspection, including a check of the cleanliness of their nails and proper wearing of their uniforms.

"Almost every meeting, we said our promise and laws, which is very different from today."

Snyder enjoyed her years as a young Girl Scout.

"I loved it. I happened to have a very supportive family." Her two glder sisters were Girl Scouts and her mother was also active with the organization.

My mother enjoyed it along with us. One summer, all four of us were at camp.

Program honors Michigan women

Michigan's first lady, Paula Blanchard, recently announced a sesquicentennial awards program to recognize outstanding women. The awards will honor 150 Michigan women for their contributions to the state and its communities.

"Michigan communities are filled with first ladies of their own women who quietly help others above and beyond the call of duty and without fanfare or recognition, Blanchard said.

This year's sesquicentennial "is a time to take pride in one's community and the contributions of individuals making up Michigan's diverse population," she said. "The Michigan 150 First Lady Award will highlight and recognize the contributions of women to their community and to our great state."

THE AWARDS program is a tribute to women who have performed a significant service for their community, state or nation, but whose efforts often go unnoticed.

Paula Blanchard is hosting four regional workshops for local com-munities to explain the nomination process and provide details on eligi-bility. One of the workshops will be held at 4 p.m. Tuesday, March 10, at the Solidarity House, 800 E. Jefferson Ave., Detroit.

All nominations are being coordinated by local sesquicentennial agencies and must be postmarked no later than June 10 of this year. At least one woman will be selected from each county.

In addition to Paula Blanchard, co-sponsors of the awards program include the Michigan Women's Commission and the Michigan Sesquicentennial Commission.

The 150 award winners will be honored at a luncheon in November. A book noting their accomplishments will be distributed to schools and libraries.

Nomination forms are available from local sesquicentennial agencies, the Michigan Women's Commission and the Michigan Sesquicentennial Commission. The telephone number for the Michigan Women's Commission is (517) 373-2884.

The Rev. Kenneth G. Davis,

moral perspectives

Rev. Lloyd Buss

Will this gamble pay off one day?

COMPARED TO Oral Roberts' need for $4.5 million, my $70 is not even a pittance. I feel embarrassed at bringing up the subject in my prayers.

I lost my $70 on a gamble. Two gambles, as a matter of fact. Both sounded so sure-fire. Of course, all gambles sound that way when you want them to sound that way. The first one was a $50 loss. He had called me once before, asking for help to become established . helping him pay a rent payment after he had been robbed on the way home from cashing his paycheck. He needed only part of it, but I asked him to call again to discuss it further, and when he did not, I just knew I had done the right thing.

I was very surprised to have him call six weeks later and ask for a specific amount to complete purchasing a set of tools needed to start a new job. When I asked about the rent payment, he said his landlord had extended the time. This time I asked him to stop by the church, and I gave him the $50. He promised to repay it after he received his first paycheck from the job he was starting the next day.

THE SECOND LOSS was for $20. Minutes before a meeting is to start, a man on crutches walked into church and asked to speak to me. He was stranded with his car out of gas, and he wanted to drive home to the Upper Peninsula. He had broken his ankle loading his truck and his partner was returning it from Ohio. He wanted $50 for three tanks full of gas. I gave him $20. It was all I had with me.

I've wondered how they actually used that money. I don't feel as badly as some might think I should, over having lost the money. I gave it to them because I wanted to help them purchase their tools and drive home. They needed particular things and I' was able to help them acquire them.

But now it appears that they lied to me. It doesn't surprise me. I had even suggested it as a possibility when I gave them the money. The money may not have been used either for tools or for gas. It might have been used for groceries, or clothes or even cigarettes or beer.

All of which means that I have to reconstruct my old "dole" system making arrangements with local merchants for sales on prearranged signals and signed cards. The gaps in our programs of care just never remain closed. As I said, I just don't consider my loss of $70 as a subject for prayer. But I do think about how people need money to live, and how some people do extreme things to get it. Praying for that order of life where human dignity and grace can be maintained and joy and love experienced is enough to keep one in constant prayer. I'm even willing to gamble $70 on making it happen.

The Rev. Lloyd D. Buss is the pastor of Abiding Presence Lutheran Church in Rochester

Prison Fellowship instructor to speak at women's retreat

A mini-retreat for women is becoming involved in the prison minplanned for Saturday, March 28, at Calvary Baptist Church in Canton Township.

fore having a change of heart and istry.

The mini-retreat will be 9:45 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. at the church, 43065 Joy. The speaker will be Mary Kay The cost is $7, which includes; lunch. Registration is required by Friday, March 20.

'Advertising is merely an economical way to sell. It's far cheaper than sending a salesperson to every home in America.'

- W.B. "Brod" Doner

Likeable advertising sells.

With that simple philosophy, W.B. "Brod" Doner has sustained an empire that stretches far beyond company headquarters in Southfield. As Doner, of Birmingham, marks his 50th anniversary in business this month, his agency - eight offices and 500 employees in the United States and Canada — is producing $275 million annually, hawking everything from pickles to beer.

When Doner moves his home base this summer - 275 employees occupying the sixth floor of an office building on Northwestern Highway it won't be far - just across the highway to the Maccabees building where floor space will be doubled.

It's then that Doner, 72, plans to celebrate his half century in the advertising business. Except for an Adcraft Club luncheon honoring him Friday, when he also received proclamations from the governor and mayors of Southfield and Detroit, it has been business as usual for Doner, who founded his agency March 1,

"I'm proudest of the high quality

CLIENTS INCLUDE Klondike ice cream bars, Chiquita bananas, Snack Time foods, TV Time popcorn, Fay-go pop, Little Caesar's pizza — what Doner calls non-serious foods.

"We do things that are fun," said Doner, an affable, low-key executive who still puts in 50-hour weeks and who enjoys the anonymity of advertising. "We get things done in a fun way. Likeable advertising sells."

The 100-plus client list also includes hospitals, supermarkets, appliance stores and the Department of Interior "Save Our Lands/Save Our Parks" campaign, wherein Clint Eastwood tersely tells viewers, "Don't mess with our parks."

Nationally, W.B. Doner & Co. is the 43rd largest advertising agency and the largest in the Detroit market without an automotive account. Doner would like an automotive account; he just hasn't been asked -

"Eliminate subsidiaries, and we'd probably be 30th in size," Doner said. "Campbell Ewald, for example,

Memories of hard times linger

Even though the state's unemployement rate has dropped from 17 percent in 1981 to 8 percent today, many Michigan residents believe that unemployment and other economic issues are the most important problems facing the state.

The lingering effect of economic hard times surfaced in a study called Michigan '87 released by Casey Communications Management of Southfield, following a poll of 500 Michigan adults. Interviewing and tabulation were conducted by Nordhaus Research of Southfield.

More than half (55 percent) of the state's residents agree with the statement that there are "hundreds of thousands of formerly employed people in Michigan who will never be employed again." Concern about this issue is particularly high among Democrats and residents of Wayne

"This is a stark appraisal of the state's current economic environment," said Jack Casey, president of Casey Communications. "Concern about the state's loss of jobs continues to be nearly as strong today as it was in the early '80s when Michigan was in deep recession.

Forty percent of those polled believe unemployment is the most important problem facing the state. Another 19 percent said that other economic issues - the loss of automotive jobs, a decrease in the state's industrial activity, a need to broaden Michigan's economic base and foreign competition - are the most important issues.

STILL, 38 percent who are employed outside the home are less concerned about their job security than they were a year ago. Thirty-two percent are more concerned and 28 percent say they are concerned "about the same" as they were a Concern about job security runs high among automotive households. Minorities, residents with income under $25,000 and Wayne County residents also show strong concern about job security. These same residents, as well as union members, express the greatest worry about being laid off or fired from their jobs.

About half of the respondents said they belived the nation's economy is better than five years ago, and 41 percent believe that the state economy is better than five years ago.

But they are somewhat pessimistic about the state's economy in the year ahead. One-fourth believe the state's economy will improve in the next year, one third said it will stay the same and one-third said things will get worse

In another issue, 90 percent believe there is a major drug problem among workers today. Forty-three percent favor drug testing for all industries or professions while 39 percent favored drug testing for at least certain industries or professions. Seventeen percent opposed mandatory drug testing altogether.

'Michigan residents see drug use as having a negative effect on the work force," said Dave White, Casey Communications vice president. "The numbers indicate that the public is beginning to accept the idea of drug testing of employ-

Heading the list of employees those interviewed thought should be tested were airline pilots with 99 percent in agreement. They were followed by paid drivers (96 percent), police officers (90 percent) and health care professionals (83

THE CASEY SURVEY also shows:

• That state residents are not expecting tax reform to result in easier tax preparation with 62 percent of those polled expecting to seek tax preparation help compared with 53 percent who said they sought it in the past.

• That state health care earns high marks but is too expensive with physicians and insurance companies responsible for the high cost.

The survey was designed under the supervision of Janet Weiss, director of research services.

Are you considering building your next home? Do you want to know more about the practical aspects of the residential construction project? If the answer is "yes," then this seminar series will prove to be invaluable. The topics are covered, step-by-step, in separate 3-hour seminars. Attend all sessions or just those of particular interest to you.

The primary reasons for small business failure include: (1) lack of management experience and capability, (2) lack of capital to support the business to the point of profitability, and (3) poor location.

This information comes from the Small Business Administration based on a study of small business failures nationwide. There is no greater tragedy than the business owner who realizes too late that major problems could (and would) have been avoided through proper preparation and planning.

There are a number of publications available to the individual interested in beginning his or her own business. Some of these publications take the form of "checklists' (such as the SBA's "Feasibility Checklist of Starting a Small Business") to assist the entrepreneur in evaluating his or her business idea. The SBA's Checklist (Management Aid Number 2,026) has been designed "to help screen out ideas that are likely to fail before you invest extensive time, monev. and effort in them.'

Presented in this publication are a series of questions with the purpose of answering the following: "Can I adapt to and enjoy small business sulting firm. She is also producer handle the physical, emotional and ries, "Focus: The Small Business financial strains of a new business?"

"Does my idea meet the basic requirements for a successful new project?" "What is my desired level of income and/or profitability?" This checklist is highly recommended and may be obtained free of charge by contacting any local office of the SBA.

The Michigan Department of Commerce also publishes and makes available free to the prospective business owner its "Guide to Starting a Business in Michigan." This is an excellent reference manual that presents in easy-to-undertstand terms all planning and development considerations affecting new business startups in this state. The guide has been designed "to ease a person's entry into the business world, outlining as clearly as possible many of the issues and questions facing prospective entrepreneurs." The guide may be obtained by calling toll-free in Michigan 1-800-232-2727

There is no substitute for being informed of what it takes to successfully start up and operate a new business venture. To overlook the abundance of resources providing this information could be both foolish and costly.

Although none of them was among the five national finalists, the three area residents - two men and one woman - had an opportunity to attend the "Late Night with Joan Rivers" show and strut their stuff looking like the brash, blonde comedi-

Two men and one woman? Robert Bruno, 33, of Southfield and Dennis Bykowski, 36, of Garden City were the males who happened to be selected in the competition sponsored by WKBD-TV, Channel 50, and Delta Airlines at Tel-Twelve Mall in Southfield the Friday before the showdate. Both have worked as female impersonators.

"A lot of us - the males - were professional entertainers," By-kowski said of the lookalikes' appearance on the show broadcast live from Hollywood. There were 150 clones on the air.

ADRIENNE RUBY, 33, of West Bloomfield was the other local finalist chosen from some 50 contestants at Tel-Twelve Mall.

"People have been telling me I looked like Joan Rivers since I was 18," she said. "My hair is not as white. It's blonde. I do wear my hair pulled back like she does. Since her (cosmetic) surgery, she looks younger, and we look more alike."

Speaking rapidly, Ruby said, "I speak fast and have a lot of her gestures naturally. Unfortunately, I don't have her personality. I don't have her talent and her personality."

"All my friends said, 'Go on and she said, explaining how she entered the contest. Ruby was a contestant in another competition once, for Miss Livonia (she is a graduate of Clarenceville High School), but her own looks didn't make her a winner.

Commenting on the show's five fi-nalists, she said, "The girl who won really deserved to win." Ruby wasn't as convinced about the other four. (One was a big black man wearing army boots, with a blonde wig plunked on his head.) "I think Bobby

DENNIS BYKOWSKI talked about Robert Bruno, who is working out of Bruno is now appearing at "A Night at the Le Cage" at the MGM Grand in Atlantic City and is on leave from the Premier Center in Sterling Heights, where he was appearing in the show "Mirage." Both productions have all-male casts, and in both he emcees in his guise as Joan Rivers.

Bruno also has done female-impersonator shows at Las Vegas, Miami Beach and Atlantic City.

"He also won Miss Gay America about six years ago," Bykowski said. "It's prestigious. I'm blowing his Speaking about himself, Bykowski said, "I've done female impersonations since I was 15 years old." He also bears some physical resemblance to Joan Rivers. "I'm tall, slim, with a long face - the whole Detroit contest.

"I HAVEN'T got into it as far as Bobby has. I've done everyone from Marilyn Monroe to Joan Rivers." His approach is basically comedy.

At present, Bykowski has two jobs, daytimes as a cook at Alex's Restaurant in Wayne and evenings as a bartender at Gigi's.

For his appearance on the live television show, "I was all silver sequins and black gloves," Bykowski

He described the visit to Hollywood, which started with a "Welcome Joan Clone" cocktail party in the ballroom of the Ambassador. All the contestants got up at 5:30. "It was a lot harder for the men. We had to shave, shower and put on a heck of a lot of makeup.'

After breakfast, they went to Fox Studios and Grauman's Chinese Theatre ("I put my hands in Marilyn Monroe's handprints and they fit."), then had lunch at the Beverly Wilshire Hotel

A scheduled shopping trip was rained out, and the bad weather problem

"It was hard to walk down the street with a wig and spiked heels in the rain," Bykowski said.

Asked if there were any hassles because of men vying with women, he said, "The women, they're our competitors. They accepted us. It was like a reunion, not a contest."

Both Bykowski and Ruby expressed disappointment at not getting to meet Joan Rivers. The raucous star was at home with the flu the night of the show, and a guest host filled in.

Bykowski also ran into a snag with the airlines on the return trip. "Delta lost my luggage. A lot of things I wore as Joan was in it," he said.

(Below) Adrienne Ruby, an interior decorator who lives in West Bloomfield, was the only woman among the Detroit-area finalists. She said people have been telling her since the age of 18 that she looks like Joan Rivers.

'Candle in the Wind' has flickering appeal

Performances of the Trinity House Theatre production of 'Candle in the Wind" by Alexander Solzhenitsyn continue through March 28 at Trinity House in Livonia For ticket information, call 464-6302

Alexandra Solzhenitsyn's "Candle in the Wind," the current dramatic offering at Trinity House Theatre, is long and wordy and, at the same time, oddly sketchy in places.

That is not to say it is a failure. Actually, as presented by the Trinity House group, it works rather well, helped along considerably by some strong performances and some astute direction by Collene Hackney. who is careful that it never falters under its own weight.

The rarely performed "Candle in the Wind" deals with some pretty heavy questions: Will rapid advances of modern science extinguish the human spirit? Are higher laws needed to govern scientific endeavor? When the meaning of life is based on personal pleasure and beauty alone, how does one fare? Ultimately, what is important?

To explore these matters, Solzhenitsyn has created a rather motley cast of characters and placed them in the closing days of the 20th century near an important scientific research laboratory, where some unusual research is going on. The central character is ex-prisoner Alex Coriel, played by Jeffery Hedeen. Imprisoned for a crime he didn't commit, Coriel considers his years in prison his most fruitful, contending that "suffering is the lever for the growth of the soul."

HEDEEN, WHO seems to possess an inborn naturalness onstage that borders on the artless, is just right as the unpretentious Coriel. He delivers an unfaltering performance in a role that is not unchallenging in its complexity but in its length

Hedeen, who seems to possess an inborn naturalness on stage that borders on the artless, is just right as the unpretentious Coriel.

In an equally strong performance, Brian Heersink is Coriel's self-absorbed, mercurial friend, Philip Radagise. The hearty, mustachioed Heersink is convincing throughout (and as disarming as the devil himself) in the role of the scientist with the warm smile and the cold, cold

In a minor role as Tillie, a kind of breathless Gracie Allen type, Mary Lewis is a delight. Also in a minor comic role, Gary Brda as the exotic Kabimba is a stand-out, as is Mark Barrera in the role of the cartoonish character called the General.

Jill Louise Vassallo as the tragic Alda Craig does a good job, although her crying spells begin to wear a little thin in the second act. A "death scene" near the conclusion of the play, in which she appears with Daniel Robert Taylor and Diane Manko, is one of the weakest points of the BLAME FOR this maudlin episode, which borders on the ludicrous, is best left with Solzhenitsyn, however, and not with the performers.

Robert Zahara's stark, but imaginative, sets work well, as do costumes by Terri Tower. A special commendation is due Toni-Ruth Shoemaker, makeup director. In the small Trinity House Theatre, subtlety is the greatest virtue.

terest in the consumption of quality wines. Sales of higher-order wines abound. People want to know more about the wines they drink and, when they do consume, they do so at selectively higher levels

The quest to learn more about wines and to drink better ones can be accommodated in several ways. Three of these readily fall into the domain of the serious wine merchant who is eager to support customers in their learning activities.

Pam Kosteva of the Cheese and Wine Barn in Plymouth is engaged in a program designed to help those interested in wine learn more about it and, consequently, spend their dollars as selectively as possible.

Kosteva recently held a program (one of three annually) for her customers, at Plymouth's Mayflower Hotel. It was designed to help customers select wines they most prefer from a vast array of styles.

THREE REGIONAL distributors (Paul Mann Co., Wine Warehouse and Viviano Importers) each selected a tasting program for her patrons and served the wines in a roundtable fashion. People were allowed to stroll freely about a large room ment. Questions could be asked of each distributor, information gleaned.

There were sparkling wines, Bordeaux, Burgundies, chardonnays, sauvignon blancs zinfandels, cabernets and more, covering red to white, semisweet to dry.

This is an excellent way for the interested wine buyer to broaden his or her knowledge of what wine is all about: to sample and compare. Too few wine dispensers take this extra effort.

The Cheese and Wine Barn (515 Forest Ave., across the back parking lot from the Mayflower) offers yet a second opportunity for learning. Shelves are stocked with a reasoned selection of wines for all needs, both domestic and imported. The key is inform customers. No supermarket concept operating, service of a personal nature is offered.

Besides wine and information, there's a large selection of food and beverages such as tea, coffee, seasonings, packaged goodies, ice cream, imported beers, accessories and a full deli center. This is a true oasis between the Merchant of Vino's three locations in the northern suburbs and the Big Ten and Village Corner wine shops, both in Ann Ar-

IN THE metropolitan area, we are indeed fortunate in having other stores that also provide wine tastings and sound advice, together with an excellent selection of foods to accompany the wine.

The Red Wagon Wine Shoppes (one at Maple Road and Main Street in Clawson and one at Rochester and Auburn roads in Rochester) offer a wide choice of cheeses, meats, coffees, candies, teas and more. The wine selection, especially at the Rochester outlet, is hands down the widest in the region, the counsel sound and accommodating.

While the Clawson store still carries too many elements of its origins as a beer dispensary/party store, efforts to rejuvenate it are paying off. It also offers walk-around tastings four times a year, twice each in the spring and fall. A call to either store will put you on the mailing list.

The three outlets of the Merchant of Vino also contain those three elements that Kosteva has captured in her smaller, more personal manner:

full wine selection with string staffs, and a wide food selection.

Indeed, in the food line, no other regional store touches the magic of Eddie Jonah. His splendid Northwestern store abounds in more food than can be reasonably comprehended by mere mortals, and now his newest place (opened in November) at Maple Road and Pierce Street in Birmingham is a joy of good taste and decor.

The oldest of the Merchant's stores, at Wattles and Rochester roads in Troy, is soon to be razed and replaced with yet another emporium. The Merchant seems to be reducing its efforts in tasting opportunities lately, but a call to any of the stores will advise you of its forthcoming intentions.

Master chefs

Chefs from two area restaurants are among six chefs selected by the Grand Master Chefs of America for its "Grand Master Chefs of Detroit" series. They are Milos Cihelka of the Golden Mushroom in Southfield and Keith Famie of Chez Rafael in Novi. The other chefs chosen are Jeff Baldwin of the Whitney Restaurant in Detroit, Elwin Greenwald and Mary Mandich, both of Van Dyke Place in Detroit, and Edward Janos of the Money Tree in Detroit. All will teach gourmet cooking in their restaurant's kitchen (except the Van Dyke chefs, who will teach at the Whitney), for small classes this spring. Each chef will be honored at an Awards Reception in June, when they will be presented with Grand Master Chef of America medallions.

Brandy's Cafe

A new menu is available at Brandy's Cafe, which opened in 1985 in the renovated Orpheum Theatre in Ann Arbor. Among the items featured are grilled chicken, fresh pasta, gourmet pizza and Italian specialties, burgers and croissant sandwiches. Some of the Mexican dishes on the earlier menu will be retained. The new offerings are those that are favorites at the Cottage Inn restaurants owned by John and Sam iving it up in Lynchburg — without ol' Jack

By William Schemmel special writer

Imagine if, by law's decree, champagne's effervescence was forbidden in Champagne, there was no cognac's warmth anywhere in Cognac, no wee drams of Highland dew against the chilling mists of the He-

Appalling, aye; a mortal sin, perhaps. Yet, given the South's flair for eccentricity, its delight in perversity, total joy in contradiction, it seems as natural as trout in a mountain stream that those who create Jack Daniel's Old No. 7 Brand Tennessee Sour Mash Whiskey for discriminating palates from Rio to Bombay may not legally know its ambrosial bliss when sipped neat or combined with a judicious splash of Jack Daniel's distinctive character is born of spring waters that flow pure and sweet from a Lourdes-like cave at Lynchburg, Tenn. Some of the real Jack Daniel's character is still blended into it as well. When he established the distillery just after the War Between the States, "Uncle Jack" was short several years of the legal age to enjoy his finished prod-

Legend says that upon his 21st birthday, the five-foot five-inch, 120pound actor disappeared for several days. He returned with a knowing smile under his luxurious mustache, wearing the knee-length frock coat, high-rolled planter's hat, vest, fine linen shirt and bow tie that became his signature, and the face he still

'Not a whole lot happens. There hasn't been a good scandal in years.'

> Marilyn Craig editor, Moore County News

presents on bottles of Jack Daniel's Green and Black Label.

WHEN DANDY Jack first set up shop, there was a saloon on every side of Lynchburg's town square. A wave of prohibitionist fervor that closed them all down at the turn of the century is fortified by a contemporary Tennessee law that prohibits the sale of so much as a glass of wine or beer. With only 3,568 inhabitants, Moore County — 94th in size among Tennessee's 95 — falls below the population level required even to call a referendum on the prickly subject of legalization.

So, life goes peacefully along, and if they have to drive over to Tullahoma to sample their handiwork, Moore Countians stoically accept it as God's will.

Lynchburg (pop. 538) is as sweet a small town as ever will charm your heart. It seems at first a bit lost in time among the Day-Glo green hills, red barns, fat dairy cows and Primitive Baptist churches of middle Tennessee. Elders spend their days on benches around the old red brick courthouse, whittling and swapping serves a Southern table I'm praying heaven itself can duplicate. "Miss Mary" was 101, and deserving of a rest, when she went on to see about things a couple of years ago. But her spirit's still in the kitchen, and the cherished tradition of family-style fried chicken, cornbread, vegetables and cobblers is ably carried on by Lynne Tolley, herself a fourth-generation Lynchburger.

OVER THE bar of the old White Rabbit Saloon, they serve a potent glass of iced tea to accompany a memorable plate of barbecue. In the adjoining Lynchburg Hardware & General Store ("All Goods Worth Price Charged"), you may savor one of earth's last 10-cent Cokes while browsing through kazoos, video tapes, horse collars, pickled zucchini, shot glasses, 24-karat putters, playing cards, clocks, directors' chairs, matches, napkins, lamps, caps, sport shirts, T-shirts, sunglasses, belts, buckles, key rings, snuff boxes, lighters, money clips and horseshoes with ol' Jack's name and

You can pick up most of these items at several other establishments around the square. But for all its catering to visitors, Lynchburg wards off the touristy stigma of Gatlinburg and Pigeon Forge. The Lord be praised, there's not a single wax museum or memorial to Elvis, who surely must have stopped by sometime or another.

A few outlanders come to tour the distillery and wind up staying. Marilyn Craig, editor and publisher of the Moore County News, came from Miami. Not directly, to be sure. She and her husband adjusted to the quiet side of life by publishing the paper in Tullahoma for 14 years before branching into Lynchburg.

"I set type, sell the ads, write an occasional story," Ms. Craig says, smiling from behind her busy desk on the square. "Not a whole lot happens. There hasn't been a good scandal in years. People hunt, fish, go to the high school games and church on Sunday. We like it that way."

THE DISTILLERY is more park than plant. Birds chirp in the trees, mallards laze in the grass around the spring, humans are scarce. Guides at champagne cellars and scotch distilleries tend to elevate their product to the level of the Holy Grail; here, the nuts-and-bolts is leavened by an overlay of standup comedy.

"Tennessee's called the Volunteer State because after a pint of Jack, you'll volunteer for anything," chortles veteran guide Clay Rogers. "What's the difference between Green Label and Black Label? Usually about two-three dollars. . . . How many people work here? Oh, about half of 'em." Between one-liners, visitors learn that Jack Daniel's is Tennessee sour mash whiskey, not . . . repeat, not . . . bourbon. Its crucial elements are pure, ironless spring water, blended into mash with 80 percent corn, 12 percent rye, 8 percent barley, slowly dripped over sugar maple charcoal and aged in oak barrels for five to six years.

Jack Daniel was 61 when he died in 1911. His life was guided by sage advice passed on to him by a favorite uncle. It still rings true today:

"Whiskey is like wind and water, fire and food. Wind can blow you away, or just cool you off. Water can drown you, or just quench your thirst. Fire can burn you, or keep you warm. Food can kill you, or keep you alive. Whiskey can hurt you, but it can also help you. Like most things in life, it all depends on how you use

LYNCHBURG IS on Tennessee Highway 55, about 50 miles west of Chattanooga. Distillery tours are conducted daily, free of charge.

While adventuring through these scenic parts, there's ample opportunity to admire the silken grace of the famed Tennessee walking horses. Check with the chamber of commerce in Shelbyville for horse farms open to visitors. The Walking Horse Hotel in Wartrace (615-389-6407) is one of Tennessee's most renowned country inns. Cabins, camping, picnicking and water sports are available on a large TVA lake at Tims Ford State Park, near Winchester (615-967-4457).

Are the elderly of today studied too much?

What do you think of all the research that is being done on the elderty? Frankly, I believe this (my) age group is being researched far too much, and I for one would like to see the time, money and effort spent more productively.

Western Reader

Dear Mr W

I rarely disagree with those who write me, but in this case I must. For years the elderly were practically ignored when it came to re-search. Then, when research was needed, it was sparse and incom-

Now, when it is required in order to improve the quality of life for your age group, many elderly (not only you) are objecting to it and are refusing to take part in surveys and relevant studies.

Input from the elderly is invaluable when it comes to setting up the necessary services. The need for more data is particularly pressing at this present time because of the infact this age group consumes a very large proportion of health care, social services and other resources.

One criticism I have of the current research is that most surveys and studies lump all older people into one age category — "65 and over." There are major differences among people who are 65, 75 and beyond. Information gathered from age groups 10 years apart would probably be more applicable.

We are living in a society that is oud of your age and interests. If the university is offering free tution ople over age 65, you're more welcome and will be treated just as the others are in the course.

A good role model for older students is Louis Altschuler — he's 100 and is enrolled in a current events course at Union County College in Elizabeth, N.J.

Two down, one big one to go.

Only one title stands in the way of the Redford Catholic Central wrestling team - the coveted Class A state championship.

The Shamrocks, sending a contingent of eight, will be the favorite to win it all Friday when the two-day tournament gets under way at Lansing Eastern High School.

Only Lansing Sexton, which will send six (including four regional champions), stands in the way of the

"Everybody is picking us, but Sexton is the team to beat," said CC veteran coach Mike Rodriguez. "It's going to be a dogfight up there (in Lansing). We're going to have to pin people and place everybody."

Best bets to come away with individual titles for the Shamrocks are heavyweight Toby Heaton, who won his weight class at the CC regional; 198-pounder Bob Yeager and 138pounder Mitch Quint. Both Yeager and Quint finished second at Saturday's regional meet.

Although CC is a young team (only one senior), the Shamrocks will be sending some veterans to the state meet including regional champion Chris Lemanski (155), third-place finisher Lee Krueger (167), Heaton and Quint.

"IT SPOOKS ME that we have all the occasion. But we're going to have some tough second-round matches."

To get eight wrestlers through to the state meet, CC had to place among the top four in each weight class at its own regional.

CC racked up 1241/2 points to win the team title with Gibraltar Carlson and defending state champion Temperance-Bedford finishing second and third with 821/2 and 711/4, respectively. (See statistical summa-

This weekend we were a little low," Rodriguez said. "We didn't blast anyone like we had in the past. We didn't come out ripping like we did at the (Plymouth Salem) district. That's why we have to get mentally ready this week."

One guy who was "mentally ready" at the regional was Lemanski, an unsung wrestler most of the year. He raised his personal record to 39-12 with an impressive 8-1 win over Dan Costell of Bedford in the finals at 155.

WE'VE HIT A LOT of major tournaments and Chris has placed in lot of them," said the CC coach. "He's doing very well, and this is his big time of the year.'

As if two meetings weren't enough, Salem and Canton will open up state district play facing each other, which means the Rocks Dave Collins (43) will once again get to

Weekend woes hit Engineers

The weekend started out poorly for the Hennessey Engineers. They allowed Compuware's Doug Collins to slip in the game-tying goal with 16 seconds left and had to settle for a 4-4 tie in a North American Junior Hockey League game at the Plymouth Cultural Center.

Tying a game they should have won was bad enough. But it seemed once the Engineers started heading in that downward direction, they kept on going.

mental block or we were just tired."

WHATEVER THE reason, Hennessey wasn't sharp. The Engineers led 4-2 against Compuware Friday, thanks to two goals and an assist from Leif Gustafson and two assists apiece by Tom Madden and Bryan Krygier, before letting Compuware come back to tie it.

Saturday's game at Compuware was tied 1-1 after one period before Jim Dubke's goaltending stopped Hennessey. Recently acquired Matt Wiljanen got a goal and two assists to lead the Engineers.

In the loss to Fraser, Hennessey got a goal and an assist from both Krygier and Gustafson. Steve Dawson had the same totals for Fraser (14-14-6).

Overtime free throws spoil Christian's upset chance

In a back-and-forth struggle Tuesday at Pioneer Middle School, Plymouth Christian couldn't quite manage to subdue once-beaten Jackson Baptist.

Mark Blackgrove dropped in two free throws with nine seconds remaining in overtime to give Baptist a 50-48 basketball triumph. The win lifted Baptist to 17-1 for the season, Christian fell to 16-3

The Eagles performed well in the first half, claiming a 12-4 advantage after one quarter and a 20-14 halftime edge. But Baptist kept chipping away, halving the deficit after three quarters (32-29) and taking a lead in the fourth period

Jim Stroh forced the overtime by sinking one-oftwo free throws for Christian with four seconds left in regulation.

Pat McCarthy's 20 points paced Christian. He also had seven rebounds and four blocked shots. Steve Windle contributed 12 points, Andy Stephens had eight points and eight rebounds, and Stroh dished out 12 assists.

David Bruce led Baptist with 17 points. Blackgrove had 16.

CC 66, DIVINE CHILD 44: A close game at halftime turned into a rout in the second half, as Redford Catholic Central outscored Dearborn Divine Child 41-20 over the last two quarters Tuesday at Bill Vitti's six third-quarter points sparked the Shamrock second-half surge. Vitti finished with a game-high 19 points. After leading by just one (25-24) at the half, CC poured it on with an 18-8 run in the third quarter and a 23-12 fourth-quarter burst.

Anthony Arrington finished with 16 points and Lance Vaccarelli had 11 for CC (12-6 overall). Divine Child got 10 from Kevin Yurkus.

OLSM 47, ST. AGATHA 44: Redford St. Agatha started woefully Tuesday at Orchard Lake St. Mary's before mounting a comeback, then let it fizzle short of target.

The Aggies (9-8 overall) trailed 13-8 after one quarter and 27-18 at the half before coming alive. They closed the gap to four (33-29) by the end of the third quarter and pulled to within a pair on several occasions in the last half.

But St. Agatha never tied it. The Aggies were within two with less than two minutes left, but the Eaglets quickly pushed their lead back to five and never let it fall to less than three after that.

Kevin Rich was one of the only Aggies to enjoy a solid game, scoring 18 points. Next highest scorer was Paul Gardner with eight. Matt Figurski's 14 points was best for OLSM, with Gary Stoneback

On Saturday, the Aggies had better success as they whipped Redford St. Mary's 58-45 at St. Aga-

Again, the Aggies performed better in the second half. They trailed 22-21 at the intermission, then outpointed St. Mary's 37-23 the rest of the way. Rich finished with 15 points, Mike Boyle had 14 and Matt Haran scored 12. Cedric Van Hook topped St. Mry's (8-10) with 14.

THURSTON 53, BAPTIST 50: Redford Thurston buttoned down the defensive hatches in the third quarter, and Dave Bulich and Steve Ewing canned key free throws to trigger the Eagles to victory over visiting Allen Park Inter, City Baptist Tuesday. Thurston finishes its regular season with a 9-11 mark. Inter-City Baptist is 9-9. The Eagles had to rebound after trailing 29-25 at halftime. They overtook the Chargers by limiting them to eight third-quarter points while scoring 13.

Still, the game was tight until the closing seconds. Bulich broke a 50-50 tie by sinking two free throws with 20 seconds left. Ewing then iced it by hitting one foul shot with two seconds remaining.

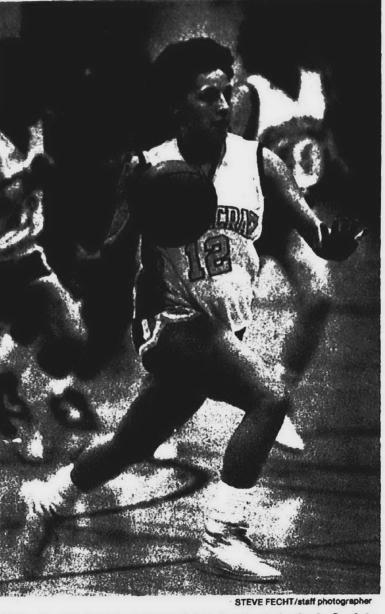

Dave Stroud's 10 points and 12 rebounds topped Thurston. Craig McMahon had 16 points for Inter-City Baptist.

MOTT 91, GARDEN CITY 71: Gene Seets poured in 20 second-half points for Waterford Mott - 10 each in the third and fourth quarters - to spark a 60-point outburst Tuesday at Mott.

Garden City fell behind quickly, trailing 16-1 in the game's early moments. But the Cougars rallied to cut the deficit to 18-10 after one period, then took a 34-31 halftime lead by outscoring Mott 24-13 in the second quarter.

But after that it was all Mott (13-6 overall), with Seets and Steve Amell (12 second-half points) doing the damage. Seets finished with 31 points; Amell had 18. Bill Schomberg contributed 13.

SC can't stop Muskegon

Schoolcraft's Debbie Georgevich helped get the Lady Ocelots rolling in the second half against Muskegon CC.

The first 25 seconds of Schoolcraft College's Michigan Community College Athletic Association womens basketball semifinal against Muskegon CC Friday set the tone for

In those early moments, the Lady Ocelots were whistled for three fouls. With their defensive aggressiveness stalled by foul troubles, SC fell behind quickly and never recovered in losing 87-74 Friday at Glen Oaks CC. "Everything that could go wrong for us, did," was SC coach Jack Grenan's description of the first half. "Our shots were bouncing out, we were missing free throws, and Muskegon hit everything. They shot 70 percent in the first half."

Which is why the Lady Ocelots trailed 44-22 at the intermission. Grenan switched defenses in the second half, going to a full-court man-to-man, and SC mounted a come-

THE LADY OCELOTS rally was going strong — until it got fouled up. With 3:48 to play and the Lady Ocelots with the ball trailing by eight, Debbie Georgevich was called for an offensive charge. SC stopped Muskegon on its next attempt and regained possession, but then Lori Abbas was called for a charge.

The offensive fouls cost the Lady Ocelots, who never got closer than that eight-point spread. MCC connected on nine-of-10 free throws down the stretch to ice the triumph.

Tracy Ladouceur's 18 points paced SC. Sue Lubbe had 17, Abbas scored 15 and Sharon Miller finished with

For her efforts, Lubbe was selected to the all-tournament team. She also joined forces with teammates Ladouceur and Abbas and other Eastern stars to take on the best from the Western Conference in an all-star game before Saturday's

Inspired Zebras jolt John Glenn, 65-61

By Brad Emons staff writer

Chuck Henry and his Wayne Memorial basketball team got a dose of inspiration earlier in the day that may have triggered a surprising 65-61 victory Tuesday over crosstown rival Westland John Glenn.

"We went to see the movie Hoosiers," said the Wayne coach, referring to the latest flick about a small town Indiana team and a down-andout coach that beats the odds to win a state title. "I guess we learned (from the movie) that it's more fun to win than to lose.

"It was just a fun day for everybody. We've tried to come together and build friendships. We're trying to become a closer team."

The Zebras, who just might be Observerland's hottest team of late, stuck together down the stretch to beat the state-ranked Rockets, who finished the regular season at 18-2. On Friday, Wayne won the Wolverine A League title with a 20-point win at Monroe. The Zebras then went on the road again and won before a near capacity crowd of 1,800 at Glenn.

"Earlier in the year we were rated too high and we weren't ready for that," said Henry, whose team is 15-4 overall. "But we had lost to some tough teams and we were really only out of one of them (a 17-point loss at Ann Arbor Huron)

THERE WERE MANY heroes for Wayne, but most instrumental was steady point-guard Mark Robinson, who led the Zebras with 22 points.

"He led us tempo-wise," Henry said. "And he made just one turnover playing point-guard. He's just a great player for us.'

Glenn coach Gordie Davis, whose team just couldn't quite get over the hump after falling behind 30-25 at halftime, agreed that Robinson "is so darn tough."

"I don't know if we could have guarded him any better," Davis said. 'He's the best we've faced all year. He just does it all for them."

Another thorn in Glenn's side was 5-8 forward Fred Horne, who drilled four critical shots in the fourth quarter and finished with 16 points.

"We really respected Glenn and we wanted to take good shots," said Henry. "We forced a few, but when we ran our offense, we got what we wanted. "Fred just did a fine job. He hit five key baskets for us."

Shawn Wemberly, whose two free throws with 16 seconds left iced it for Wayne, added 10 points. Teammate Mark Claiborne contributed Wayne took a nine-point lead midway through the third quarter on a basket by Lewis Davis, but the Rockets chipped away, tying the game at 49-all with 6:11 remaining on a basket by Anson Stroman.

Alcantara a perfect guide to success

staff writer

Describing what makes Cliff Alcantara successful is like listing the ingredients necessary to make an ideal

Physical ability, dedication, perspective, determination, drive, mental toughness - roll all those into the shape of a 105-pound male and it would probably look like Alcantara, the Farmington Harrison senior who will be shooting for a state title at the Class B championship wrestling meet this weekend at Grand Valley

Hawk coach Earl Hall had nothing but praise for his 105-pound phenom. "If anyone deserves to win a state title, it's this kid," said Hall.

Alcantara advances as one of the top four seeds in the state tournament, all regional champions. He earned his crown with a spectacular come-from-behind, overtime victory over Tom Alderman of Durand at Saturday's Flint Kearsley regional.

ALCANTARA BEGAN his trip through the region by first beating Tom Lamerc of Clio, 12-3. He followed that with a 6-5 triumph over Kirk Walrath of Lakeview.

That elevated him to the finals, where he faced Alderman. With 28 seconds remaining in the match, Alcantara trailed 6-4. But he pulled off a reversal and "almost put (Alderman) on his back," said his coach.

The match went into overtime, but after 30 seconds of the extra session there was little doubt who would win. Alcantara outpointed Alderman 7-1 in the period to add a regional crown to his district championship.

It was another success in what's becoming a long list. Alcantara is 40-2 this season and 77-9 in his last two. And, in Hall's estimation, he possesses all those ingredients listed for top-notch athletes.

• Physical ability: "He went to Clintondale for the district and didn't have a close match. He's best when he's on his feet. In the last two weeks, I don't think he's lost a takedown. And he can wrestle better, he can win easier, than he did at the regional. He can wrestle at a major college, at any MAC (Mid-American Conference)

 Dedication: "This is his sport. It's the only one he competes in. He runs three miles in the morning and 2½ at night, and he kept running and weight training during • Perspective: "I've worked with this kid for two years, and he's grown up a lot. He handles everything on an even keel. When he wins a tournament, he'll be very gracious and accept his award, but after that he's thinking about next week. He doesn't think too much of his accomplishments. I don't think he thinks he's as good as

 Determination: "When the going gets tough, he rises to the occasion. He has a helluva lot of heart. You can have all the technique, all the ability, but if you don't have heart you won't be there."

 Drive: "When things aren't going his way, he'll find a way to win.

 Mental toughness: "He's not in awe or anything (of going to state meet). He's been there before. The thing is, he didn't think he wrestled as well as he could at the

Of course, none of this means Alcantara is a lock for a state title. There are others who are also talented, determined, etc. One foe Alcantara wouldn't mind a rematch with is Dennis Rosales of Melvindale, the Tecumseh region champ. The two wrestled twice last year, splitting their matches.

Whomever he wrestles, Hall is sure Alcantara will be ready. "The right mental frame of mind will win it," the Hawk coach said. "What he has to do is win both his matches Friday. You don't want to get into that loser's bracket. Anytime there are that many wrestlers, you hate to battle back from that.

"If he can win Friday, he can come out Saturday with a fresh mind and go after it."

And if he succeeds this weekend, you can add another trait to Alcantara's list of qualities: goal accomplish-

Urso awaits his chance in Big Ten

"Joe's good on his feet," said Purdue assistant coach Mitch Hull. "A guy who's good on his feet can dictate the match. That's why I think Joe's got an advantage this weekend. He reacts fast and penetrates really Urso knows his abilities and his limitations.

"I'm not a pinner," he said, "but I know how to win. Basically, I'm going to be doing the same stuff I've been doing all season. I'm not going to change now. I'll go out and do what's been successful for me."

WHAT'S BEEN successful for Urso has been his mental toughness. He's needed it wrestling at 167 pounds, a division Hull called "an extremely tough weight in this conference. The top four seeds in the Big Ten meet are ranked in the top 10 in the country. Urso is seeded second.

"The biggest plus for anybody at this stage is mental preparation," said Urso. "You have to know you can do it. You aren't going to get into any better physical shape. You've got to have confidence."

And yet, too much of anything can be hazardous. But after last year's experience, perhaps the last thing Urso has to fear is overconfidence.

"If you fear defeat," he said, "then that's just what will happen to you.'

Laker, Pioneer hopes for playoffs are dashed

Sure, paybacks are hell they have to be immediate?

That's what Oakland University basketball followers are asking themselves after what happened Saturday at OU's Lepley Sports Center. No sooner had the Lady Pioneers knocked Lake Superior State out of contention for an NCAA Division II tournament berth with a 95-88 upset in overtime, than the Lakers' mens team returned the favor by upending OU 77-72, ruining the Pioneers NCAA II playoff hopes.

FIRST THE WOMEN. The game was a classic, with all sorts of added incentive. It matched OU coach Bob Taylor, who coached LSS last year, against his former assistant, current LSS coach Mike Geary. It was also a prime shot at revenge for OU, which dropped a heartbreaking 95-84 overtime decision at LSS Jan. 31 when the Lakers made 41-of-53 free throws to 10-of-17 for OU.

LSS had the early advantage, leading 38-32 at the half. But after a Sonja Pearson free throw tied it for OU at 47-47 with 14:54 left, neither team had leads bigger than three points through the remainder of regulation.

Two free throws by Lady Pioneer Sarah Knuth knotted the score at 73-73 with 56 seconds left and, although both teams had chances to score again before the buzzer, neither could. OU's Celeste Sartor and LSS's Gwen Wilkie traded baskets to start the overtime, but after that it was all Lady Pioneers.

WITH KNUTH and Leah Fenwick netting four points apiece, OU outscored LSS 10-0 over the next 2:58. And despite two three-pointers down the stretch, the Lady Lakers never got closer than five after that.

Knuth scored a career-high 25 points and grabbed 11 rebounds. Fenwick added 20 points, nine boards and five assists and Margaret Boyle collected 11 points and a school-record 17 assists, breaking her own single-game school record set last week

Pearson chipped in with nine points and Klein had eight, with 13 rebounds and five assists. Debbie Delie also got eight points. For LSS, Teresa Watwood had 27 points, Vicki Hill totaled 22 points and 10 rebounds, and Wilkie finished with 18 points and 11 rebounds.

OU sports

The loss dropped LSS to 22-5 over-all and a final mark of 12-4 in the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, good enough for second behind undefeated Saginaw Valley State (bound for the NAIA tourney) but not good enough to get a berth in the 24-team NCAA II field.

OU ends its season at 21-7 overall and 11-5 (third place) in the GLIAC.

NOW THE MEN. The loss put a terrible cap on an otherwise spectacular season, particularly after Ferris State was upset at Hillsdale Saturday. The Bulldogs finished with a 19-9 overall record; if OU had won, it would have been 21-7 overall and might have been selected ahead of Ferris, despite losing to the Bulldogs twice and finishing behind them in the GLIAC.

Defense has been the difference for OU all season, and it was again against LSS, only not in a positive manner. The Lakers built a 41-32 halftime lead, thanks to 20-of-30 floor shooting (67 percent). Most of the damage was done inside by 6foot-5 forward John Gilbert, who had 17 first-half points.

OU finally fought back to tie it at 66-66 on Mike McCan's free throw with 6:02 to play. The game remained knotted until three key plays in the final 1:47 — all favoring LSS. First, with the game tied at 72-72, the Pioneers forced an LSS miss, but when they got possession McCan threw the ball away.

The Lakers followed by working the shot clock down to six seconds, then getting the ball into Kevin Tucker, who scored and was fouled by Dave Hintz. Tucker canned the free throw and LSS was up 75-72 with 25 seconds to play.

OU CALLED consecutive timeouts to set up a try for a tying triple, but instead Scott Bittinger took an ill-advised shot with two Lakers on him that was short. Tucker rebounded, was fouled by Bittinger and hit two more free throws for the final

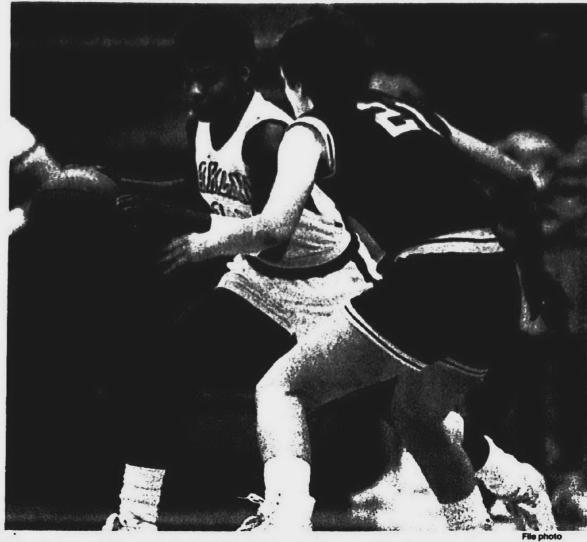

Other than their lapses down the stretch, both McCan and Bittinger played well. Bittinger sparked a second-half rally - OU trailed 43-32 shortly after intermission - by scoring 14 points (including nine straight) in a 34-23 run that ended with McCan's tying free throw. Bittinger finished with 20 points.

McCan, who rebounded well after a mid-season slump, collected 10 points, 18 boards and eight assists. But leading OU was John Henderson, who came off the bench to score 24 points. In the last two games, Henderson made 17-of-20 field goals.

Gilbert's 27 points topped LSS. Tucker had 19. Each grabbed nine rebounds.

The Lakers ended their season with an 18-9 overall mark and an 11-5 GLIAC record, in third place a game ahead of OU. The Pioneers were 20-8 overall and 10-6 in the conference

Wayne State and Ferris finished tied for the title at 13-3, and each qualified for the NCAA II tournament. They will oppose each other in a first-round game at 7:30 p.m. Friday in St. Cloud. Minn.

OU point guard Margaret Boyle (with ball) shattered GLIAC and team records for assists in a single season and game. Her accomplishments earned the junior a first-team all-GLI-

OU trio earn place on all-GLIAC team

Scott Bittinger and Sarah Knuth have made it a sweep of all-Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (GLIAC) basketball honors.

The Oakland University juniors were named to their respective all-GLIAC teams, it was announced Monday, A week earlier, both were selected to their all-GLIAC academic basketball teams.

Joining Knuth on the all-GLIAC womens team was OU point guard Margaret Boyle, who shattered every team and league assist record possible in a single season. In Saturday's 95-88 overtime upset of Lake Superior State in OU's season finale, Boyle dished out a GLIAC singlegame record 17 assists, eclipsing Tracy Byrd's (Grand Valley State) mark of 16 set last year.

Boyle, who averaged 10.4 points per game, totaled 212 assists for the season, 7.6 per game. She collected 143 in the conference (8.9 average), far better than the previous record of 114 set by Nancy Neaton of Saginaw Valley State last year.

BOYLE'S 90 steals (3.2 average) was another OU single-season record, and her career total of 382 assists has moved her into first in that category, ahead of Kelly Kenny (370 from 1980 to '83).

Knuth was chosen to the team after pacing the Lady Pioneers in scoring with 16.6 points per GLIAC game, fifth best in the conference. She also set a new team mark in free throw shooting, making 87.3 percent, and became the sixth female player to surpass the 1,000-point plateau. Knuth has 1,009.

Bittinger ended his GLIAC campaign with the third-best scoring average in the league (19.8 points per game). He was also third in the league in free throw shooting (82.2 percent) and was tied for second in three-point field goal accuracy (50

JOINING BITTINGER on the all-GLIAC team were Gerald Woodberry, who was selected conference player of the year, and Jarvis Walker of Ferris State; Rod Ruth of Michigan Tech; Grady Lowry of Wayne State: Mike West of Lake Superior State; Mike Davis of Grand Valley State: James Simmons and Kevin Brown of Northwood Institute; and Terry Sines of Hillsdale.

Davis, a junior from Bloomfield Hills Lahser, topped the circuit in assists (8.6 per game) while averaging 15.3 points. Davis was also named to the all-defensive team, joining Ferris' Woodberry and Walker, WSU's Mike Thornton and OU's

Dave Hintz. Wayne State's Charlie Parker and Ferris' Tom Ludwig shared coach of the year honors after their teams shared the GLIAC title, each with 13-3 records.

Other women selected to the all-GLIAC team were Lisa Masters, the player of the year, and Trena Sanders of Saginaw Valley; Rose Antrim of Grand Valley; Teresa Watwood and Gwen Wilkie of Lake Superior; Sandy Skaisgir of Hillsdale (the freshman of the year) and Roni Lloyd of Northwood.

Masters, Lloyd, Watwood, Sue Mayes-Scott of Saginaw Valley and OU's Kim Klein were picked to the all-defensive team. Hillsdale coach Phyllis Cupp was named coach of

5 Pioneers qualify

Five members of Oakland University's womens swim team have qualified for the NCAA Division II championships, including three divers.

Of the Lady Pioneers making the trip to Long Beach, Calif., for the March 11-14 meet, diver Lee Ann O'Neill has the best chance for success. A junior, she was an all-America on both the one and three-meter boards last year and this season has a solid shot at finishing first on both. O'Neill has qualified again on both boards, and at last week's Midwest Invitational at Notre Dame she beat two-time defending champion Doria Mamalo of Clarion in both events. It was the second time this season

O'Neill has bested Mamalo, who has won the one and three-meter titles in each of the past two seasons, on both boards in the same meet.

Also making the trip to Long Beach are divers Cathy Stafford (from Livonia Stevenson) and Nikki Kelsey, both freshmen.

Junior Nancy Schermer, a seventime all-America a year ago, returns to the NCAA II championships after qualifying in the 100-yard, 200-yard and 500-yard freestyle events. Joining her will be junior Kristi Spicer (from Southfield-Lathrup), who has qualified in the 100 backstroke. Spicer could also be added to the field in the 200 back

VanderMey anchors OU's title hopes

When Oakland University's male swimmers head west for the NCAA Division II championships (March 11-14 in Long Beach, Calif.), it will be with the knowledge that the per-formances of any — or every — one of the 17 team members could make the difference in what has boiled down to a three-team race.

Unfortunately, that race will probably be for second place.

Pioneer coach Pete Hovland knows it. So does his team.

When we had our first meeting this year, we set as our goal moving up one spot," said Hovland, who guided OU to a third-place finish in the NCAA II meet last year.

"I'm excited about our chances, but, being realistic, I always thought it would be a three-way battle for second between University of Tampa, Cal State-Northridge and our-

OU sports

The team picked as the overwhelming favorite is defending champion California State-Bakersfield, which won with a record number of points last season. Nearly everyone is back for Bakersfield, making OU's chances - and those of every other team - bleak

Still, as Hovland noted, "You never know. (Bakersfield) can falter a little bit . . . anything can happen."

IF THE DEFENDING champs do stumble, Hovland wants his Pioneers to be in position to take advantage. OU put its talent on display last weekend at the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference championship meet at Michigan

The Pioneers won handily jain. It was their 10th consecu again. It was their 10th consecutive GLIAC title (they've never lost), and they scored a league-record 952 points while winning 17 of 18 events. Only the one-meter diving escaped them, as Ferris State's Steve Jordan edged OU's Mark Duff, 409.85 to

The Pioneers set 10 new GLIAC marks, but that's nothing new. They own every GLIAC swimming record, with only the diving standards keeping them from a clean sweep. Those are held by former Wayne State diver Don Mason, who happens to coach the OU divers.

Junior Mark VanderMey remains the big gun for the Pioneers. The defending NCAA II 100-yard breaststroke champion won the 100yard (57.10) and 200-yard (2:04.31) breast and the 200 individual medley (1:53.51) at the GLIAC meet, all in record times. His performance earned him conference swimmer of the year honors.

He also swam on three first-place relays, which makes him a perfect 18-for-18 in the GLIAC meet: 18 events entered in three years, 18

AT THE NCAA II championships, VanderMey will meet his greatest challenge this season as he goes against the 1986 Division II swimmer of the year, Jeff Kubiak. Kubiak happens to swim for Northridge, one of OU's chief competitors.

Now a senior, Kubiak won the 200 breast and 200 IM last year, beating VanderMey in both, and captured the 400 IM as well. This time, Hovland said he thought Kubiak would swim both breast events and the 200 IM meaning he'll go head-to-head against VanderMey in all three. That could make for one of the better sideshows in the meet.

But if OU is to make a run for the title, it will have to get other top-notch performances, like that turned in by junior Jeff Cooper last weekend. Cooper won three events - the 500 (a record 4:38.25) and 1,650 (16:17.03) free and the 400 IM (4:10.38) - and qualified for the NCAA II meet in each.

Mike Nation, a sophomore, won the 100 (51.91) and 200 (1:53.62) butterfly in GLIAC records and has been "doing great - he's been a real surprise for us," said Hovland. The OU coach thinks Nation, who boasts the fastest times in Division II in both butterfly events, has "a legitimate shot" at a title.

OTHER DOUBLE winners in the GLIAC were senior Steve Larson in the 100 (a record 53.52) and 200 (1:58.01) backstroke and Dave Rogowski in the 50 (a record 21.81) and 100 (47.41) free. Bruce Verburg captured the 200 free (1:43.84) and Duff won the three-meter diving (466.25

Larson has the NCAA II's best time in the 100 back, is second in the 200 back and is third in the 50 free. Mike Koleber ranks No. 1 in the division in both the 50 and 100 free. Hovland figures Nation, Larson and Koleber all have a great chance to win individual titles next week.

Verburg, who was second in the 200 free at last year's NCAA II meet and has also qualified in the 500 free and 200 back this year, and Cooper should score among the top three. Indeed, if OU is to challenge, they'll

"All of our top swimmers have to swim well," Hovland said. "They have to score in the top six in all of their events. We also have to win one or two of the (three) relays. We can't finish any lower than second in any of them."

It's a tall order, but then again, that's what championship meets are

The remainder of the NCAA II qualifiers for OU were Rogowski (50 and 100 free); Steve Ramsey (50 free); Kirk Raddatz (1,650 free); Eric Dresback (100 fly and 200 IM); Mark McDowell (100 fly); Doug Cleland (100 back); Jim Surowiec (100 breast); Jeff Kuhn (100 breast); Rob Carman (100 breast); John Monroe (400 IM); and Duff (one and three-meter div-

Borgess has tough test

Coach Mike Fusco and his Redford Bishop Borgess basketball team, newly crowned Catholic League champions, have a monumental task.

The Spartans (17-2) will play No. ranked and unbeaten Detroit Southwestern (19-0), the Public School League champions, in the Operation-Friendship final beginning at 8 p.m. Friday at the University of Detroit's Calihan Hall. (Detroit Cooley and Center Line St. Clement meet in the consolation game at 6 p.m.).

Southwestern, which has been runner-up in the state Class A finals five straight years, may have its best team ever, led by senior veterans Anderson Hunt, Doyle Callahan and Derek Vinyard.

"Southwestern is a very good transition team and they press very well," said Fusco, the Spar-

Spring steelhead runs on the way

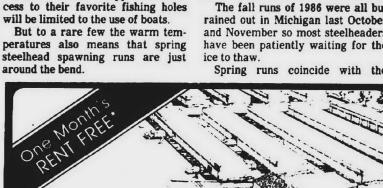

7 ARM TEMPERATURES in early March often send a wintery chill down the spines of avid ice fishermen. These unique outdoorsmen, who brave sub-zero temperatures and spend hours and hours sitting motionless in the cold, realize the ice will soon disappear and access to their favorite fishing holes will be limited to the use of boats.

But to a rare few the warm temperatures also means that spring steelhead spawning runs are just have yet to begin, anglers are having good success with winter steelhead fishing in the southwestern part of the state. Hot spots include the St. Joeseph River at Berrien Springs and the Black River at South Haven. Excellent reports are even coming in from as far north as the Pere Marquette River at Ludington.

"Winter fishing will continue pretty much until the runs start," said Dave Borgeson, assistant chief of the Fisheries Division of the Department of Natural Resources. "Right now the fishing is pretty good in the lower sections of some of the bigger rivers like the Muskegon, St. Joseph and Manistee. There's not much snow in the woods and the sportsmen want to get out. Right now there are fish in the streams to keep them interested."

When the spawning runs do begin, and the 3-6-year-old fish return to their parent streams, the mature fish should weigh between 8 and 15 will also appear in the rivers, however, and anglers should remember that the legal size limit is eight inches in the lower peninsula and seven inches in the U.P. The 1987-88 Michigan Fishing Guide should also be consulted to check daily limits and opening dates on specific streams. ALTHOUGH SPAWNING steel-pounds. Some of the younger fish head don't normally eat, best success in the lower parts of the rivers has been with natural bait such as night crawlers, wigglers and fresh spawn bags. When the fish move upstream you'll probably have better success with bright-colored spinners and spoons such as Little Cleos and Krocodiles. It sometimes helps to attach some orange sponge or yarn flies, which resemble spawn.

"When the fish are spawning they're not actually feeding," said Borgeson. "But if something appealing to their senses happens to come by they might take a whack at it. They still have the natural instinct to feed.

According to a report issued by AAA of Michigan, the most im-proved runs should be in Lake Huron tributaries from Au Gres to Rogers City, and in Lake Michigan tributaries from Benton Harbor to Muskegon.

The best runs in western rivers should be in the St. Joseph, Grand. Rouge, Muskegon, Little and Big Manistee, Betsie, Platte and Bear rivers.

Painter records alleys' aesthetics

By Corinne Abatt staff writer

Ross Arkell's portraits of garage in his new show at Schweyer Galdo Galleries of Pontiac seem like a complete turn around until you visit. fam in his home studio

Then it all begins to make sense. And the natural progression from his subdued quiet landscapes and often whim real still lifes to these large cut out garages, all oil on canvas, begins to

Until that point you keep wondering how a guy who loves to paint hills and streams, lakes and flowers could suddenly come up with these half of life size, shaped, fronts of old garages with broken, rusty hinges and peeling paint

Just as some painters head out to the woods and hills on a Sunday morning before the rest of the world is awake to look for inspiration and scenes to paint Arkell heads for the alleys of Detroit with cameral colored pencils and crayons, looking for old garages.

They are like folk art, he said, "people do things in their backyard they don't do in front

THE NEIGHBORHOOD and the front of the houses may be traditional, neat and precise, he said, but the garages are often painted pink or blue or a variety of colors

To Arkell, these subjects for his show, "Paradise Alley," which older Detroiters may recognize as a pun on an area that used to be called Paradise Valley, are simply another variation of land-

Building the stretchers in the actual shape of the front of the garage and adding a fanciful flourish along the botton makes each painting even more intense folk art than the original struc-

He said as he continued to innovate with his shapes he thought to himself. "This is kind of a funthing to do, so why not do them in the way I'd like to do them." He pointed to the embellishment along the bottom of one and said with a quick smile, "That's just nonsensical counterpoint to the

In the later works in the show, this counterpoint is more interesting and better integrated than in the earlier ones, where it occasionally seems a bit

ARKELL IS WORKING and growing at such a fast clip right now that an avalanche of ideas and plans for the future comes tumbling forth every time he opens his mouth

"I'm gonna finish up more garages. I like the paint to be thick and rich. You'll notice I use a lot of paint. I don't want you to see a particular type of brush stroke. My wife, Judith, (also an artist working in textiles as well as painting) has all this lace. I want to take the most bizarre stuff she has. cut it up and inbed it in the paint. I'd like to do a series with women. I still do my landscapes. I love to be outside. I've got a bunch of ideas I want to

The Arkell home is filled with antiques the couple have been collecting since before they were married. They met in a class at the Center for Creative Studies where he came after he got out of military service. One thing they particularly enjoy is antique doll houses. He has repaired several in their collection so skillfully that it's impossible to tell where the repairs were made. Like true collectors, they've made no attempt to restore them to prime condition, preferring to preserve them as they were found.

His interest in old things, in structural detail, in history and texture, in weathered beauty and patina, whether on an alley garage door or a maple rope bed all begins to seem natural.

In his paintings, surface is extremely important to him. "I use a round brush I want the brush to be a mystery, I want things to be separated, strong, identifiable The brushstroke has to have its own integrity and the colors subtle but

He concluded, "The pleasure is the pleasure of

He speaks quickly, moves tast, gives his wife a hug, says that she is really a better painter than he is, shuffles the oversize paintings around the antiques deftly and promises there will soon be

His show at Schweyer-Galdo opens with a 6 30-9 p.m. reception Friday, March 6, and continues through April 3. Hours are 11 a m. to 4 p m. Tues-

Colors such as purple, plum and aqua make the garages of Detroit almost an art unto themselves.

Arkell began to improvise with the detail at the base of the garage to add the finishing touch to what he considers an interesting aspect of folk art.

Hands are assortment of separate shapes

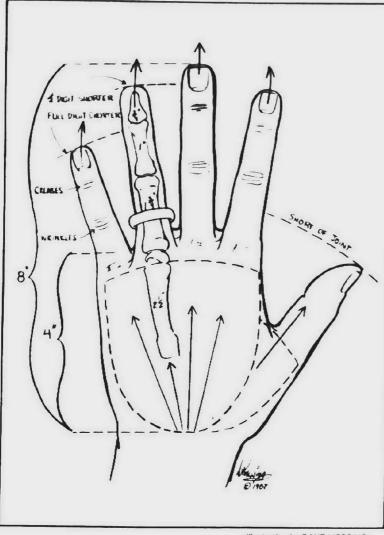

illustration by DAVE MESSING

The hand will be less difficult to draw when taken in its parts rather than as a whole. The above diagram should help artists master the technique.

"Hi," I said, as I walked in the door of the new United Health Spa "I'm new," I further stated, to Vince who greeted me

"I'm just going to look around today then swim and probably boil a little in the whirlpool," I confidently chirpped. Vince just kind of smiled and said, "No, I am your instructor and you are going to start with a light workout Feeling like a kid that just learned he had a dentist appointment, I hesitantly said, "um ok Vince.

After I "warmed up" on a computerized bike I climbed a computerized mountain (verticle climbing machine). Then struggling to act refreshed I followed Vince to ... (read this with an echo) "the workout room." I think that I recall seeing those nautilus machines in "Dante's Journey thru Hell." Then, machines later, I lost all pride.

With my hair plastered to my sweating brow and totally winded I gasped, "Can I be done, Vince?"

"Oh sure," he said, as I crawled to the whirlpool. . . "We only wanted a light workout today anyway. . . see

Many times, with that same innocence, an artist thinks, "I would like to draw a pair of hands." Even more shocking is when you do a portrait and everything is going fine until you get to (again read with an echo) "the

'Without a doubt I would say that hands are very difficult to draw. Perhaps I should say complex. If you consider anything it is much easier to understand. Consider means to take thought of. So if we consider the hand - we will soon see that it is only a busy assortment of very simple shapes.'

— David Messing

So, hold onto the newspaper with one hand and bring your other hand out in front of your face. . . I would like to introduce you to your hand. Once you notice some rather obvious characteristics you may find that rendering the hand is at worst a challenge and at best simple.

First, look at the back of your open hand. Notice how your ring, middle and index fingers are about the same width as your wrist. If you drew a line down from the width of these three fingers it would line up with the wrist.

Think of the thumb and little fingers as "add-ons". The thumb being very flat and angular and the little finger side of the hand being smooth and rounded. The middle finger is the longest and the ring finger is usually one half digit shorter and the baby finger is a full digit shorter.

Now look at your whole hand. Your knuckles are one half the distance from the finger tips to the wrist. The second row of joints are 35 the distance from your knuckles digits are % less. And finally the length of the finger tip is again % less than the preceeding digit. So each digit of the finger reduces by 1/2 as you move towards the finger tip. Now, look at the back of the first digit. This first joint is characterized by creases. The next row of joints are characterized by wrinkles. If you look at the side of your finger you will notice that the shape of the finger tip is tapered; the next segment is straight, and the next is rounded.

There are no muscles in the fingers. Each shape is established by pads of fat. Looking at your finger, from the side, curl it up as tight as you can. Notice how the first digit has little bend to it. The second bends more and the third digit has the most flexation (90 degrees).

Again look at the back of your hand and fan out your fingers. Notice that the webbing of your skin covers 1/2 the distance between the knuckles and the next row of joints. While you still have your hand fanned out notice how your four fingers radiate from a point in your wrist. The thumb is a "free spirit" and it has a whole other set of rules. But at least notice that the tip of the thumb falls just short of the second row of the knuckles.

Well, I have to close now and perhaps this chart will help simplify the very busy shapes on the hand. The real reason I have to close now is that I am so sore that I can't hold the pencil any more. I need to rest. After all I have to see Vince tomorrow!

Artrain scheduled for Plymouth stop

To honor the Sesquicentennial, Michigan Artrain's exhibition will share the collection of the Cranbrook Academy of Art Museum in Bloomfield Hills with people throughout the state.

The Cranbrook ideal of uniting beauty and function, art and environment, is traced in the show from the works of its founders to current artists-in-residence.

The exhibition, "The Cranbrook Vision: Past and Present," will travel to 25 communities in Michigan from March through October.

The Downriver Council for the Arts will sponsor Artrain's visit in Romulus on March 26-29. During the following two weeks, both Plymouth (April 2-5) and Walled Lake (April 9-15) will sponsor an Artrain visit

Included in the show are architectural designs and furniture for Cranbrook by Eliel Saarinen and his son, Eero. Eliel Saarinen designed many of the present Cranbrook buildings and their furnishings to create a harmonious environment for work and Eero Saarinen is best known as the architect of Dulles International Airport near Washington, D.C., and the famous St. Louis arch. Other works on display include sculpture by Carl Milles and Marshall Fredericks, ceramics by Maija Grotell and metalwork by Harry Bertoia. Other disciplines exhibited are painting, printmaking and textiles.

ARTRAIN'S EXTERIOR is a work of art as well. Colorful murals decorate each car. One of the cars, designed by Cranbrook Academy graduate, Susan Pitt, brings together familiar American characters from a rodeo cowboy to comic book superhero Flash Gordon. Another car, with portraits of the Statue of Liberty and Dr. Martin Luther King, expresses the American dream of freedom for all.

As the weather turns warm, other Artrain cars will be transformed into a salute to the Sesquicentennial with designs by Ypsilanti Tom Dodd and Carolyn McKeever. Dodd, who
