"Based on last year," said Groth, "a lot were on the expressway, probably more than on private property.

'When it's dry and we have a good wind, it doesn't take much. Even if you have a frost at night, the combination of the sun and breeze really dries it off." he said.

As alternatives to burning, residents can bag and dispose of natural clippings or build compost piles.

All outdoor burning is prohibited without a special permit from the county, Groth said. "Wayne County is very strict on open burning."

He said he knows of only two permits that have been issued to township residents in eight years.

Churches sidestep directive

Some area Catholic churches are finding ways to get around a directive from Rome they consider unrea-

The longstanding policy prohibits the use of altar girls - youngsters who assist priests during liturgies by carrying crosses in processions, lighting candles, reciting prayers and carrying articles to the altar, among other duties.

Historically, the auxiliary role has been reserved for boys.

CREATIVELY SKIRTING the matter are St. John Neumann and St. Thomas a' Becket - Canton parishes of 2,500 and 1,265 families respectively.

We're getting around the issue of altar boys and altar girls by involving the whole family so mom and dad, and the children . . . can serve the Mass," said the Rev. Ernest Porcari, pastor of St. Thomas.

"In that way we have whole families involved in the Mass," he said, adding that was appropriate because Mass is a celebration of a family meal, sacrifice and offering.

"The family is one of the most beautiful things, and there's no prescription against families serving Mass," added the Italian-born priest.

AT ST. JOHN the problem is solved with "Mass helpers," said Gene Kijek, who is pastoral minister best as opposed to special vestments. They sit with the community, not in the sanctuary, but so do all of our other lay ministers, Eucharistic ministers and choir members.

"In this way, we're not going against what the church has been teaching," said Kijek.

St. Thomas "in time will be exploring the possibility of altar girls," said Porcari. "A minority will be against it because there's no tradition in it, and also because the bishops in Detroit are against altar girls.

"Personally, I see no problem because it doesn't involve ordained ministry

"And if we're all believers, and if God has made us all, I think a little girl can serve at the altar just as well as a little boy, and a big girl just as well as a big boy. Do you think the world will come to an end if a girl carries water to the altar?"

IN A STILL-IN-EFFECT advisory to all archdiocesan parish priests, Cardinal John Dearden asked in 1980 that the use of altar girls "be brought to a close.'

"While this matter in itself is not of major consequence, it is a question of discipline in liturgical usage," wrote the former archbishop.

"To do so causes great confusion among the faithful and, in certain instances, becomes a cause of scandal and a weakening of faith."

The issue has come to a head in instances where bishops have visited suburban churches. Bishop Moses Anderson has bestowed the sacrament of Confirmation to youth in parishes including St. John Neumann. Anderson "requests that only males be there . . . when he confirms young people," said Kijek.

"Bishop Anderson allows girls to carry the cross and candles, but he prefers them not to be assisting him directly on the altar. There's not much we can do about that."

Anderson declined to discuss the issue with the Observer, referring inquiries to the archdiocese.

In the Vatican, "discussions are still going on concerning it. Much of this will have to do with the carrying through of the principle of cultural adaptation," he added.

Our Lady of Good Counsel, a Plymouth parish of 3,000 families, uses altar boys only. The Rev. John O'Callaghan, pastor of 1,900 families at St. Mary of the city of Wayne, said his church "follows archdiocesan policy." Pastors for both churches declined to elaborate.

A Canton man charged with driving with a suspended license and leaving the scene of a personal injury accident has waived his right to a preliminary examination in 35th District Court.

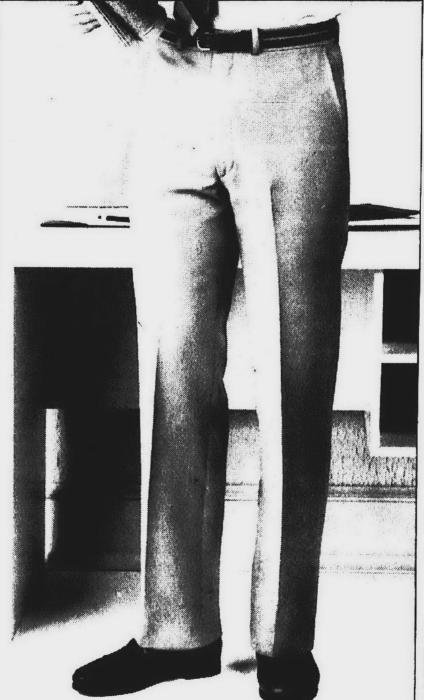

John E. Pary, 21, free on personal bond since he struck an 80-year-old Plymouth woman on Feb. 9, now will be formally charged in Wayne County Circuit Court.

The victim, Mary Froczila, subsequently died of multiple injuries. She was struck while attempting to cross Sheldon Road several hundred feet north of Ann Arbor Road at 6:30 p.m. Her death was accidental, maintained Pary's lawyer, Noel Keane, because no charges were brought against Pary relating to the accident

During a preliminary exam, a prosecutor must present evidence that a crime was committed and probable cause that the accused committed the crime. Charges must be dropped without those proofs.

Both sides await ruling in hearing on girl's death

By Diane Gale staff writer

Mary Anne Hulbert, 13, of Canton was brutally murdered Dec. 30,

January 7 - the same day her bullet-ridden body was found - two 16-year-old "best friends" told police the same gruesome story about how she was shot down.

But each of the boys accused the other of planning the ordeal and shooting at the seventh grader in a secluded Superior Township field.

On April 20 Juvenile Judge Judith Wood will rule on whether their statements should be held admissible in court.

During closing arguments Monday defense attorneys charged Washtenaw County sheriffs with making mistakes during the investigations. They said the boys were held much too long - more than six hours - for questioning. They also argued the boys were unaware that they could leave at anytime.

AFTER ONE of the youths heard his friend's accusations - taped earlier that evening - he became enraged and consented to a taped statement in which he named the other as the murderer.

Defense attorney Edward Schwartz said: "His statements were made out of fright and despair. I don't think his statement was made voluntarily for that reason."

Assistant prosecuting attorney Elizabeth Pollard said: "We've heard criticism for the past six weeks. Mis-find out who did this horrible crime. The focus has been taken away from the little girl who has been killed."

Pollard argued the youths' mannerisms and language during the interviews were confident. She said they initially managed to uphold "prearranged lies" and later "turned on each other."

"They're far from being fright-ened youth," said Pollard adding the way they recounted the murder was "bone chilling."
SCHWARTZ SAID police were without probable cause when they arrested his client and they waited during the interviews "until they implicated each other.'

Defense attorney Ruth Ducmanis said police used coercion to get her client to talk. One sheriff deputy told the boy he was in "the hot seat."

She also argued her client should have been accompanied by an attorney or his mother when the statement was made. In separate interviews the boys told deputies Hulbert thought she was pregnant and planned to keep the baby. They said they planned to shoot a 22-caliber rifle and scare her enough to cause a miscarriage. The boys - whose names are being withheld because they are juveniles - are charged with open murder and conspiracy. Wood ruled Monday they will continue to be held in separate juvenile detention centers on $500,000 bonds The two month evidentiary hear-takes were made but officers did than 20 witnesses. Attorneys are awaiting Wood's decision on whether the youths' statements should be admissible and whether there is probable enough cause to believe a crime was committed to warrant a trial. Pollard also is awaiting Wood's decision on her waiver request to have the boys tried as adults.

Power remembered as leader A life fulfilled dell H. Goddard; and sister Margery G. Whiteman.

Power was elected a University of Michigan trustee in 1974 and reelected in 1982.

A political liberal, Power devoted her adult life to advancing issues of women and minorities. In recent years, she expressed frustration with the "women's rights impasse" she said began with the Reagan Administration. Long involved in feminist and human rights issues, Power served on a variety of National Organization for Women-affiliated organizations.

Among her activities, Power served as an advisory board member of the Michigan Project on Equal Education Rights, a pilot NOW effort to monitor sex discrimination in public schools.

"She was a pioneer in the women's movement in Michigan," state Rep. Lyn Bankes, R-Livonia, said. "In the 1960s and early '70s it was hard to get people's attention. You knew you could call on Sarah and she would say yes. And you knew the name Sarah Goddard Power on a letterhead would get results."

We're still second-class citizens. We've come a long way, but we still have an enormously long way to go,' Power said during her honorary degree address in 1981 at Schoolcraft BUT HER DEVOTION apparently never waivered. Pollack recalled attending a Michigan Women's Foundation function with Power the day before her death.

'As always, she was very insightful and helpful," Pollack said.

Female politicians from all levels of government recalled Power's advice and encouragement.

We could always go to her and say, 'Sarah, what should we do about this or that,' and she would always respond with good, sound advice," Pollack said.

Involved as she was in state, national and international issues, she always made time to support friends and colleagues in these local communities.

Former Livonia councilwoman Alice Gundersen called Power a "men-

"She was a role model to me," Gundersen said. "She was someone I looked up to."

In addition to championing women's rights. Power advanced the Carter Administration's human rights policy while serving as a deputy assistant secretary of state in 1980 and 1981-82

INVOLVED WITH United Nations activities from her earliest days as a public servant, Power advocated continuing U.S. involvement in UNESCO, the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization. She was chairwoman of the U.S. National Commission for UNESCO and served as a presidentially appointed delegate to the 19th and 20th UNESCO general confer-

"I am convinced UNESCO could be the last best hope for peace, development and understanding throughout the world," she said in Citing UNESCO's alleged bias toward unfriendly Third World countries, the Reagan Adminstration withdrew U.S. support for the organization. Power was born in Detroit in 1935.

Her father, Wendell Converse Goddard, was a vice president of Detroit Bank and Trust Co. (Comerica). Power grew up in Grosse Pointe. Former Grosse Pointe Country Day classmate Jeanne Whittaker, Subur-

Eccentric, recalled Power as "an involved, rather serious girl." "She was very involved in the community and a very good stu-

POWER, a Democrat, was elected a University of Michigan trustee in 1974 and re-elected to a second eight-year term in 1982. Blanchard made no reference to appointing a succesor. A governor's office spokeswoman said a successor would be appointed "at an appropriate time."

'He's obviously not thinking about it today," the spokeswoman said.

Authorities and friends were at a loss to explain Power's action.

Two Canton Scouts have advanced to the rank of Eagle as members of Boy Scout Troop 854.

Chris Holmes, son of Donna and Miles Holmes, and Dan Baker, son of Sueli and Daniel Baker, were inducted as Eagle Scouts in the same ceremony

Chris, 15, entered Scouting in the third grade with a Cub Scout pack on a U.S. Army base in Darmstadt, Germany. During this time he completed all cub ranks, including the Webelos badge.

In June 1984 he transferred to Troop 854. During the past summer he completed a trek of more than 100 miles at Philmont National Scout Ranch in Cimarron, N. M.

His Eagle project was a clean-up of the Kinyon Cemetery at Ridge and Gyde in Canton, performed in cooperation with Canton Township.

A ninth grader at West Middle School, Chris will attend Plymouth Canton High next fall. He hopes to attend the Air Force Academy following graduation.

Dan joined Cub Scout Pack 854 in 1977 and completed all ranks including the Webelos badge. In June 1980 he joined Troop 854. He has served

County to computerize fingerprinting system

By Wayne Peal staff writer

Automated fingerprint identification, billed as "the crime fighter of the '80s," will be coming to Wayne County.

County officials are purchasing hardware for the computerized fingerprint identification system, which will be made available to all local police departments.

Known as AFIS, the system matches fingerprints found at crime scenes with as many as 3 million sets of prints on file with the Michigan State Police.

"This is one of the most advanced tools we have for fighting crimes," prosecutor John O'Hair said Tuesday at a press conference.

It would take 72 years to do by hand what AFIS is capable of doing in a matter of hours, O'Hair added.

AFIS ALLOWS for a "blind match" of prints to suspects, county officials said. With existing systems, law enforcement officers must already have a suspect in mind.

"Latent prints are (currently) of little use unless a suspect or a school of suspects are on file," McNamara said. The county has ecutive Edward McNamara jointly years to purchase terminals. announced the system's implementation.

With AFIS, fingerprints taken from crime scenes are entered into the computer, coded and compared with state police files. A list of five to 10 suspects is expected to be produced within minutes, county officials said.

The computer's selection for 'best match" has been found to be the suspect in 95 percent of crimes already solved through AFIS, John Sura said.

Arrests have increased 17 percent in California, where the system is already in use, Sura said.

County officials invited the press and public to keep tabs on AFIS' effectiveness.

"If you track us, we'll track the criminals," Principal Appellate Division attorney Andrea Solak said.

What county officials didn't announce was where they would house additional suspects arrested through use of AFIS.

"Our biggest problem will be to provide space for the bad guys we're going to apprehend," said Michigan State Police Captain state Rep. Jon Maynard, D-St. Clair Shores.

Males still have edge in SATs

Are high school achievement tests

male chauvinist pigs?
Probably not. But a survey conducted in New York State suggests male students tend to score higher on Scholastic Aptitude (SAT) and American College (ACT) tests, even though female students usually earn higher grades as high school seniors and college freshmen.

The difference riled a pair of New York-based public interest groups who charge SAT and ACT scores should be de-emphasized when it comes time to hand out scholarships or determine which high school seniors will be admitted to college.

But at least one local college official said the difference is nothing

"It's pretty much traditional," University of Michigan/Dearborn vice chancellor Edward Bagale said.

SPOKESMEN for the New York Public Interest Research Group and the National Center for Fair and Open Testing, which conducted the

In Michigan, where the ACT is more commonly used, boys also tend to outperform girls in achievement testing.

Among members of last year's western Wayne County graduating classes, average ACT scores were 19.6 for boys, 18.5 for girls. The score is a combination of student performance on verbal and mathmatical portions of the test.

"At that, girls tended to do better than boys on the verbal, but boys did better in math," said Bagale, who is a member of the regional ACT coun-

Overall, western Wayne students averaged 19.0 - matching the statewide average.

Achievement test scores frequently determine which students receive merit scholarships that aren't based upon financial need.

College policy and state scholar-ship programs determine whether a students chooses the SAT or ACT.

New York's Regents Scholarships rely upon SAT scores; the Michigan Competitive Scholarship program relies upon the ACT.

"That's the primary reason most Michigan students take the ACT," Bagale said.

Spokesmen for the New York agencies suggested "more sophisticated" evaluation methods, including a combination of high school averages, state aptitude tests and possibly other not-yet-determined factors should be substituted.

ACHIEVEMENT tests also help determine which students attend which colleges. U-M/Dearborn, Madonna and most Michigan colleges rely upon ACT scores in determining which students to accept.

Riley offers court funding compromise

By Tim Richard staff writer

Let's compromise, said Chief Justice Dorothy Comstock Riley. Well, maybe, answered key legislators.

Conceding the Michigan Supreme Court's position that state government should pay 100 percent of all state court costs "may not be feasible at this time," Riley last week offered an alternative.

Fund specific mandated services in all courts through the state," she suggested in her State of the Judiciary addresss. Riley suggested the state assume costs of:

- Juror fees.
- Witness fees
- the indigent.
- · Appeals lawyers for the indigent.
- Transcripts.

"THERE'S MORE unanimity on picking up juror fees and counsel," said Sen. Rudy Nichols, R-Waterford, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

But Nichols said circuit judges aren't 100 percent behind state funding of courts, despite the official position of the Michigan Judges Association. Judges fear losing control of their staff if circuit, probate and district court employees become employees of the state.

She's going to have to get with the governor and (budget director) Bob Naftaly," said Rep. Perry Bullard, D-Ann Arbor, House Judiciary noted tht Democratic Gov. James Blanchard proposed nothing in his 1978-88 budget for state funding of courts.

Like other legislators, Bullard

"We're going to have to increase juror fees," said Bullard in the State Capitol corridor following Riley's speech. "Jurors get a piddling $25 a day and mileage.

Bullard, unlike many area lawmakers, favors full state funding of trial and probate courts. He calls the present system, in which the state pays judges base salaries and local units supplement them, "a patchwork — a throwback to the 19th century."

REPUBLICAN CHIEFS said Court-appointed lawyers for Democratic Gov. Blanchard should take a leadership position on the is-

Plans to expand the funding across the state were put on the back burner during the economic recession, and Blanchard has failed to turn up the heat, Republicans said. "The governor didn't put it in his budget," said Sen. Doug Cruce, R-Troy. "It's a $225 million item."

We need some assistance from the administration," said Senate Majority Leader John Engler, R-Mount Pleasant. With Riley, he agreed that full state funding would end disputes between judges and local governing boards, but added, "it does us little good to proceed without a green light from the governor," Engler

EVEN BEFORE Riley spoke, Sen. Richard Fessler, R-West Bloomfield, was coming to the same conclusion as Riley.

"Using Wayne County as a model won't fly," said Fessler, citing the salaries of Wayne judges and court employees, highest in the state.

"The Legislature is not tuned in to assuming more court costs," said Fessler, vice chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Like Riley, he said a look should be taken at such services as assigned counsel, appellate counsel and juror fees - "and even those will be scrutinized."

"Maybe we'd consider capital grants for computer systems - onetime things. Those operating grants have a tendency to grow and grow," Fessler said.

RILEY PRESENTED the Legislature a book-sized report, but there were no budget numbers - no dollar amounts for what lower courts are receiving, what juror fees currently cost, or how much is spent on lawyers for the indigent.

Her pitch to lawmakers was that court costs are a burden to local government. "Resources available at the local level are still insufficient to fund your courts," she warned.

The chief justice's tone was conciliatory, in contrast to the battles lower courts have had with city councils, township boards and county boards of commissioners in recent

"We understand the need to communicate, accommodate and cooperate," she said.

A Republican by background, Riley was a surprise choice this year for chief justice in a court dominated 4 to 3 by Democrats.

Her half-hour address was preceded by a half-hour of marching-in ceremonies as senators, Appeals Court judges and Supreme Court justices were marched into the House cham-

Michigan man's death triggers French & Indian war

15, 1754, to be exact — Virginia's estimable Gov. Robert Dinwiddle ordered George Washington to "march what soldiers you have enlisted immediately to the Ohio." mediately to the Ohio."

The governor had learned that a huge French war party from d'Etroit and Montreal - perhaps as many as a thousand Frenchmen and Indians, were on their way down the river. No doubt these French intended to wipe out the new British fort at the forks. (Today as in 1754 "the Forks" means the juncture of the Ohio, the Monongahela, and the Allegheny rivers at Pittsburgh.)

Brave and bold, intelligent and determined, 22-year-old Lt. Col. George Washington of the Virginia Militia moved with dedicated dispatch to carry out his governor's orders. There was no delay, no hesitation; he knew his course and he embraced it wholeheartedly.

HOWEVER, it would be naive to assume that Washington's dedication was totally unselfish or entirely altruistic.

The facts clearly show that it was, indeed, America's good fortune that the private needs and desires of the Washington brothers happened to perfectly coincide with the ambitions of most of the American colonists.

Of course, the majority were devoted to their country; their homeland was all that they had. Their ties with England, the mother country, were sometimes strained. Some secret agitation for freedom from British control began in Boston about this time, but generally it was an era of good feeling toward the motherland

This good feeling did not extend to the Ohio Company of Virginia and their forthright plans to control all of the Ohio Valley. Both Lawrence and Augustine Washington, elder brothers of the young colonel's, were prime factors in the plans of the Ohio group. As were Thomas Lee, George Mason, Nathaniel Chapman, James Scott, and others.

New York and Pennsylvania had their own designs about control of the new territory as did Massachusetts and Maryland. In Williamsburg's House of Burgesses some old fellows were bold enough to openly accuse the Ohio Company of having only one end in view - their own, 'personal aggrandizement."

Clever management of their affairs here and abroad had endowed the Company with several grants from the royal crown of Britain. As early as July 20, 1749, they had received a royal grant of some wheeler-dealers of that time may be gleaned from Arthur Schlesinger's The Colonial Merchants and the 200,000 acres of "Western Lands."

Some of the group made plans to appropriate the best lands in the grant for themselves. It is a matter of recorded fact that the Washingtons reserved some 20,000 acres, or one-tenth of the whole, of the very best prime land

So it would seem that to George Washington and his friends the road from Wills Creek to Pittsburgh and beyond no matter how mountainous and difficult, was paved with golden dreams of vast power and wealth.

MEANWHILE, back in d'Etroit on this windy March day in 1754, many mothers and fathers must have been worrying about their sons who have been gone for months. It was generally understood that the purpose of their mission to the Ohio was to knock out the new British fort at the

Imagine a world where there is no telegraph or telephone, no televison or radar. We may assume that many an anxious parent was down at the docks when the big transport canoes came in from Montreal. "How is it going in Ohio?" they asked. (Today what they called the Ohio is the Allegheny River.)

There wasn't much the worried parents could do except pray, and the records show that every Sunday and most Holy Days found them on their knees at Ste. Anne's. (The second oldest church in North America. Ste. Anne's, was first established in Detroit by Cadillac in 1702. The oldest Catholic Church is in St. Augustine, Fla.) Ste. Anne's still is serving its parishioners and visitors to downtown Detroit.)

A man from Michigan, Lt. Joseph Coulon de Villiers (known as Jumonville), second in command to Sieur de Contrecoeur, helped direct the attack against the stockade the Virginians were trying to build.

Jumonville ordered his Michigan Indians to bring the howitzers from the batteau and push them up against the frail defenses. This was quickly done and then a messenger was sent inside with a note from Commandant Contracoeur demanding that the garrison surrender to the French or risk being blown to bits.

Lt. Trent, the commander of the fort, had gone back to Wills Creek leaving young Ensign Ward in charge of about 40 very shaky Virginians. When they peeked out from the portcullis they could see an army of 500 ready to pounce on them. Young Ensign Ward and his 44 troops were glad to get out of it alive. They quickly surrendered.

Allowing the British to go free would appear to be a very magnanimous gesture on the part of Sieur Contracoeur and de Villiers. Actually the officers must have realized an unequal contest would bring upon them the centempt of the civilized world. It would be better to send them back to Washington's camp at Great Meadows with a word of warning - "clear out or suffer the same fate," or words to that effect.

WHO IS THIS man from Michigan called Jumonville?

He moves with such force and authority. The men from d'Etroit jump to obey him, and even the indepen ent soldiers from Montreal and Quebec seem to bow to his will.

Jumonville is the son of the commandant of Fort St. Joseph near Niles, Mich. This fort was a vital cog in a series of control points from Fort Ponchartrain d'Etroit to Mackinac, to St. Joseph and on down the Mississippi to the French holdings in the New Orleans area.

The river St. Joseph afforded a portable link with the Kankakee which connected with the Missippi. At this early date there were only two ways to get from here to there - an Indian trail through the woods, or a canoe down the river.

St. Joseph also was at the juncture of two important, well-traveled trails followed by Indians and traders. They were the old Sauk-Pottowatomi Trail which began in that to slaughter the British in such downtown d'Etroit near the fort and Trail coming up from the South.

For about a hundred years Fort St.

Joseph was the center of civilization in that part of the world. And the area around it was a rich and charming farmland. As early as 1718 a French scout described to officials at Quebec this "Mishigum by the trails" as "the best adapated of any to be seen for purpose of living. . nthere are the finest vines in the world which produce a vast quantity of very excellent grapes." And this is still true today. We shall write more of St. Joseph and the de Villiers in the next edition of Tonquish Tales because it so happens that Jumonville's destiny was closely linked with that of Washington's, and his death at the hands of Washington's forces precipitated the French and Indian War.

Those who have requested copies of the new edition of the book Tonquish Tales will be happy to learn that the supply has been replenished at The Little Professor on-the-Park, Plymouth, Book Break in Canton. TV watching affects attitudes toward race, sex

Richard L. Allen, associate professor of communication in the U-M College of Literature, Science and the Arts, based his findings on a 1985 survey of 534 randomly selected households in a predominantly white suburban area northwest of Detroit. Since television's impact is general throughout the country, he believes that the same results would be found in similar suburban areas in other parts of the United States.

He found that people who watch more television, all other factors being equal, tended to disagree with the proposition: "It is better for the family if the husband is the principal breidwinner outside the home and the wife has primary responsibility for the home and children.

Television viewing was also found to result in a tendency to disagree with the statements: "There are enough women in responsible positions in government and private. business" and "There are enough the American creed, and television

Whitmore suggestion earns honor

Irene Whitmore, deputy treasurer, has become the first Plymouth Township employee to win a savings bond for a submission to an employee suggestion program.

A management committee recommended that Whitmore receive a $50 bond for a suggestion that the township buy a detacher/burster machine.

The machine, since acquired, automatically separates water bills and tax bills that come to township hall in strips before they're mailed to individual consumers and property owners.

Previously, 2,500 water bills per month and 16,000 tax statements annually had to be separated by hand, said Catherine Broadbent, administrative assistant to Supervisor Maurice Breen.

Non-management employees are eligible to receive bonds with a face value up to $100 for suggestions that streamline municipal operations, reduce costs and improve service to the public.

Shall Great Wall be dismantled?

Emory Daniels editor / 459-2700 Susan Roslek assistant managing editor

HE GREAT WALL along I-275 in Canton and Plymouth may be coming down - at least, partially.

The owner of property to be developed near I-275 and Ann Arbor Road has requested that the noise barrier be lowered from 11 to 4 feet to enhance the visibility of his site. That request was the subject of a public hearing Tuesday

"It is absolutely ridiculous," said developer Norm Newman. "It serves no constructive purpose whatsoever. It's ugly. It's a horrible eyesore." Newman maintains the wall does not do much to buffer sound.

Another resident, however, has inquired about whether the Great Wall can be extended to buffer more homes from freeway noise.

BOTH REQUESTS, hopefully, might serve as an incentive for state and federal transportation officials to examine the wisdom of building Great Walls along expressways.

When I-275 was first constructed, residential areas in Canton and Plymouth appealed to government for help in reducing the noise levels of passing traffic along the new north-south free-

The government, in an attempted creative burst, came up with the idea of building concrete walls as noise barriers. The notion was that the sound would travel up from the depressed freeway, bounce off the walls and careen off into the sky to disturb only the heavenly hosts.

Highway planners recognized the Great Wall would be unsightly so provision was made to plant ivy-type vegetation along the wall to mask the ugliness. And so the botanists were sent in to cover for the engineers.

UNFORTUNATELY, the whole scheme was ill-conceived.

Initially, the idea did seem to have merit. The concrete walls surely would pleaden the sounds and allow residents to sleep undisturbed by America's commerce. And multi-story structures earby would be protected from the threatening vibrations that volume of solved. Let's re-examine premise one.

noise might produce. But what seemed like a good idea on work?'

paper did not turn out that way.

From day one the wall has visually offended many. Ivy has not done the trick. A solid row of palm trees might be better, but there are limits. In any event, many are turned off by the massive miles of concrete.

Many residents have, over the years, reported that the freeway noise is far from muted. Some maintain the angles are such that not all the sound bounces off; some, instead, travels over the wall. Some feel that the sound does bounce over one wall but only to disturb residents living along the other wall as it ricochets over.

OBVIOUSLY, though, some residents feel the Great Wall is effective in lowering the noise level. Otherwise Plymouth Township would not be asked to extend the wall.

Deborah Mitchell, a representative of newly developed Hidden Heights subdivision between Ann Arbor Trail and Ann Arbor Road, notes that residents who back up to the expressway cannot hold conversations in their backyards because of the noise.

She offers additional arguments in favor of the wall. "We are also hoping that the barrier will deflect some of the salt spray from the freeway. The stains and residue that collect on the backs of our homes are difficult to remove and damaging to the siding and trim. Finally, we believe that the cement walls will act as a crime deterrent.'

What really happens to the sound is something the engineers can - and should - decipher.

If the Great Wall does not really mute sound then maybe the whole structure should come down. If it deadens vibrations, but not sound, are there better alternatives - like a row of white pines.

While deciding whether to dismantle a portion of the wall, maybe we ought to take a look at whether the Great Wall is really functional. Let's have a second study to see if it works.

We don't particularly want to discourage government from being creative in problem-solving approaches, but we do hope that problems are

Let's be daring and ask, "But does it

Sarah Goddard Power enjoyed a leadership role on the University of Michigan Board of Regents but she especially enjoyed the students. She's pictured here talking to students at the Ann Arbor campus during her campaign for the U-M board in August 1974.

A life devoted to others know.

But we are compelled to ask. Why?

The answer is not likely to be found in circumstances surrounding her premature death, but rather in an examination

It was characteristic of her that Sarah Power could subordinate her own need for recognition to the goals for which she made personal and professional commitments.

She believed in involvement. For her this involvement led to support for international understanding in key functions at the United Nations and the State Department and later through her work at the University of Michigan.

Her strength and influence were exercised through her ability to analyze issues and formulate strategies, exemplified by her push for increased opportunities in all phases of employment at the university.

HER STYLE dictated that she not dominate gatherings and parties she hosted. These were occasions in which her guests were given the opportunity to explore new acquaintances in whom were embodied different ideas, different perspectives.

Meaningful targets of Unicorn Hunters

ON THE BULLETIN board at the office where I work is a poster of words and phrases banished by the Unicorn Hunters, serious-minded people who are ever alert for spoken and written words that should bring frowns to those who speak English.

The chief Unicorn Hunter is William Rabe who doubles as college relations director at Lake Superior State college in Sault Ste. Marie.

The targets of the Hunters are often Munny, although it is uncomfortable to find a phrase you have often butchered For, worse, to study an example because tit isn't clear why it so affronts the hunt-

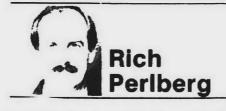

What atrocities do they find? They started with such buzzwords as "meaningful," "input" and "scenario." If you can imagine the scenario in which these words have meaningful input, then Unicorn Hunters have no reason to prioritize your parameters, at this particular point in time.

"It wasn't just that they were overused," Rabe says of these words in the March 30 issue of Insight, a magazine published by the Washington Times. "It was that they had come to mean nothing, if indeed they had ever meant anything.

"They were stuff that was being repeated simply because people were too lazy to invent phrases that meant

ARE SUCH language gaffes mere imperfections that are being exploited by the likes of Rabe? Hardly. The danger is that a language that becomes trivial becomes useless. It also becomes a tool for the powerful to say nothing or to lie — while sounding profound.

"If you don't nip bad language in the bud, it leads to something worse," said Rabe, who says he has seen a mortician's work described as "the final step in the health care delivery system.'

("Health care delivery" is on this year's list of banished words. It sounds, says one Unicorn Hunter, as though health care is delivered to your doorstep in the way milk no longer is.)

Rabe's example reminds me of the CIA's "health alteration committee," which was a nifty term for an assassin team. Other hunters of maimed language note that the nuclear power industry invented "energetic disassembly" so the less pleasant "explosion" could be avoided.

IT GETS worse. In 1975, according to the Insight article, Yasser Arafat of the Palestine Liberation Organization reportedly said, "We do not want to destroy any people. It is precisely because we have been advocating coexistence that we have shed so much blood."

That comment is so Orwellian that it won the annual Doublespeak Award, sponsored by that National Council of Teachers of English.

Unfortunately, the English language is also prey for terrorists who wish to coexist with the spoken and written word until it disappears from, um, meaningful dialogue.

Do you know where I'm coming

Important issues go wanting as governor narrows focus

WHERE'S JAMIE?

Gov. James J. Blanchard advertises he "has shovel, will travel" to any industrial groundbreaking there is. Happily, he has made economic diversification the top priority of his administration, followed closely by more bucks for education and attention to toxic wastes. The list ends there. On other major issues, a governor who won 69 percent of the vote in his re-election bid is hardly

EVEN REPUBLICANS are looking to him for leadership. Take the problem of roads, particularly in these suburbs, which have seen the bulk of Michigan's reindustrialization.

After weeks of work, meetings and negotiations, Sen. Richard Fessler, R-West Bloomfield, has almost thrown up his hands in despair and produced a package of bills that will yield the state road fund a bare $59 million more.

When you figure that the transportation fund is almost a $1 billion item, Fessler's bills — even if passed — will produce only 6 percent more for the

Clearly it will take an increase in the gasoline tax, which produces $40 million per penny per gallon, to generate the kind of megabucks our battered roads need. But Blanchard says no to Dorothy Comstock Riley and G. Mennen Williams, the current and past chief justices of the state Supreme Court, endorse it. Both parties are looking to Blanchard for leadership.

"It will take executive leadership," said Senate Judiciary chairman Rudy Nichols, R-Waterford.

'She'll have to get with the governor and (budget director) Bob Naftaly," said House Judiciary chairman Perry Bullard, D-Ann Arbor.

No endorsement from Blanchard. Nothing in his budget for it. This was the year it could have been done.

Price tags for full state funding of courts range from $150 million to $225 million. It so happens the state could get a $170 million windfall because of federal tax reform.

State income tax revenue will rise about that much because of the new federal definition of taxable income. That windfall could pay the court tab.

Nope, says the governor. Instead, he is out-Republicaning the Republicans by advocating lowering the income tax rate from 4.6 percent to 4.4.

Take the SEMTA reorganization and funding issue, where Blanchard has stood back and let others grapple with the problems.

ALTHOUGH VERY close in political ideology to his moderate Republican predecessor, William G. Milliken, Blanchard has been entirely different in Milliken was audible on a host of issues, including all of the above plus school tax reform and preservation of older downtowns. Blanchard's style has been to concentrate on two or three, and this year he's down to one - job re-

The sport of kings may regain its royalty

THE SPORT OF Kings, which declined in Michigan during the '70s and early '80s so far that it was barely the sport of serfs, starts another chapter back toward royal status tomorrow afternoon when the thoroughbreds break from the gate to open the Detroit Race Course season.

From abroad two years ago came a savior, the ultra-rich Ladbroke Group, PLC, (Publicly Licensed Corp.) which converted enough of the mother country's English pounds into about 13 million U.S. dollars to buy operational control of 218-acre Livonia facility at Schoolcraft and Middlebelt Roads.

Ladbroke is a name which bespeaks class. It is among the 100 largest conglomerates based in the United Kingdom and since its representatives took charge here nearly $5 million has been spent on capital improvements.

"If it's not moving, paint it," was the first command given and those words have become symbolic as refurbishing

through bifocals Fred

has been pursued from one end of the plant to the other.

IMPROVING CREATURE comforts has been only part of the approach. It was important to put cushions on the seats, so to speak, but the promotional pump also had to be primed, and always there must be continuing advancement in the quality and fitness of horses to lead to better racing.

A 250-seat auditorium for use as a sports teletheater on the first floor of the renovated clubhouse, more closed circuit televison monitors, extension of computerized facilities at the parimu-tuel windows, added wagering gimmicks, improvements in the racing surface, the richest stakes schedule in DRC history, and simulcasting of 25 major events across the nation — including the Triple Crown - all are part of Ladbroke's 1987 new look.

There was a time when the Dodge. Fisher and other great families of the Motor City raced their champion thoroughbreds here; Eddie Arcaro rode at Detroit; Calumet Farm, which produced such greats as Citation and Whirlaway, sent several challengers for the Michigan Mile trophy. Hopefully that class of racing will be brought back.

THE GREATEST place I've ever found for gaining a true sense of thoroughbred tradition is down in Kentucky's Blue Grass country around Lexington. It happens that 25 years ago last weekend a bunch of media types and their wives from the Detroit area, Mother Goose and the writer included, enjoyed exactly that exposure as DRC

This week darned if I didn't come across a memo in my files from Bruce Martyn, best known now as the Red Wings play-by-play announcer but in 1962 as sports director of WCAR. In his broadcast 25 years ago tomorrow this is part of what he said:

"I want you to know that you are listening right now to a Kentucky Colonel. Over the weekend it was my privilege to join a group of Detroit sports broadcasters and writers. Thanks to the Detroit Race Course, we were shuffled off to Lexington for a two-day course in the breeding, raising, praising and racing of thoroughbreds.

"With visits to places like Calumet Farm, Spendthrift and numerous others we watched stallions like Citation, Bull Lea, Nashua, Jet Pilot and others romp around their individual paddocks, treated like the heros they are.

"BESIDES THE awe inspiring presence of the many great names of horsedom, and the beauty of the Kentucky thoroughbred farms, one of the other things that will stay in mind is the intense pride that everyone from the owner to the last stable boy takes in a

"Let me tell you, I'm no more of an expert when it comes to picking a winner, but when the gates swing open at the DRC my appreciation of the sport itself will have grown a great deal after my weekend education in Lexington."

Martyn was right; it was educational The late Dale Shaffer, who owned DRC in those days and who himself was a past chairman of the Kentucky Racing Commission, spared no expense in going first cabin. If Ladbroke would like to host a reunion, I still have an itinerary and will be happy to share it.

Meanwhile, remember that a horse is of the same family as the ass and zebra. A day at the track can be fun, but when you place your wagers at the reborn DRC be sure you can distinguish one equine cousin from another.

Many appreciate flying of the flag

To the editor:

We would like to relay a story to you. One day as we were raising our flag, a gentleman driving by in his car noticed we were raising the American flag. The gentleman stopped his car, got out of his car, stood and saluted the flag in a military salute and began to weep in appreciation. This is the person our flag flies for.

We would like to thank all of the people who stop in our establishment daily for the sole purpose of saying how much they appreciate the flying of the American flag in front of the business. Many people are familiar with the difficulties it took us to be able to exercise our rights within the statutes and ordinances of our community.

Thank you to all who have supported us during the 31/2-year process of going through the court system to verify that the township did not have an ordinance pertaining to the structure and height of flag poles. Also special thanks to the neighbors who called to convey their appreciation of seeing the flag flown 24 hours a day and lighted at night (as prescribed in the American Flag Code) and their expression of the special feelings of patriotism deep within themselves that was stirred up by the sight of the

As many of these people have stated to us, they wished more people to do the same - fly the American flag and fly it flag to fly freely today.

Who can best interpret films?

To the editor:

I would first of all like to congratulate the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education on its decision concerning the banning of certain educational materials brought to its attention by Diane Daskalakis and the Citizens for Better Education.

Hopefully these people will realize that their complaints have been reviewed and considered by the board and it has decided these materials are not harmful to the students of the Plymouth-Canton school district but are, in fact, beneficial to their continuing edu-

I feel that the board has been more than fair in its evaluation of the questioned material and I only wish that Daskalakis would be as fair in her evalnation of our teachers.

More than once, she has referred to any teacher who would expose "impressionable" students to material such as "The Breakfast Club" as a "pervert." I wonder if she has ever spent a day in the classroom with any of these perverts, or if she even knows who they are. How does she come to this conclusion? What is a pervert?

According to The American Heritage Dictionary of the English Language, as high as you can - in appreciation for published 1969 by the American Herithose who fought and died to allow our tage Publishing Co. Inc., the word pervert means "to interpret incorrectly." I just want to thank you all, and re- Certainly Daskalakis is entitled to her opinion; yet, I ask you, who is more qualified to decide what is psychologically relevant - a person who has studied psychology at a qualified university or the proprietor of a local jewelry store? Certainly most people would vote for the former. So, again, I ask you, who is more likely to give us an "incorrect interpretation" of the truth as it pertains to psychology?

Now I am in no way intentionally calling Daskalakis any names but rather am questioning her logic in calling any of the CEP teachers perverts.

Although I am sure that Daskalakis has done everything with only the best intentions, I wish that she would attempt to educate people only on subjects about which she is knowledgeable. Anytime she wishes to speak at the Park about her religion, I am sure they would be more than happy to accommodate her as they have in the past.

Now that the Board of Education has made its decision, through fair and careful reasoning, I hope that we can judge each other the same way and stop this juvenile name calling. I also am looking forward to a day when we can leave education to those who are the most qualified, not the most vocal.

Reader questions tax value facts

Regarding "Equity needed for tax values," not only the facts reported but also your conclusions are wildly incorrect. You are entitled to wildly incorrect conclusions; you are not entitled to report wildly incorrect facts.

"Delta Supervisor Joe Drolet (charged with assessment responsibilities)" did not "set true cash value for the GM warehouse at $28.5 million in 1983, $29 million for 1984, and $30 million for 1985."

In fact, he set the true cash value at $38.7 million for each of the three years. Remember, Joe Drolet is charged with assessment responsibilities by law. The person who set the values you cite was the valuation expert hired by Delta Township to try to defend Joe's work.

Would you like to borrow my copy of the Michigan Tax Tribunal Opinion and Judgment? If you read this material, I think you will applaud GM's effort to avoid being cheated.

> J. Gutek, Plymouth

(The figures, attributed to the Michigan Tax Information Council, were correctly quoted from that source. If the reader's source is correct, it would not change the opinion expressed in the editorial. The editor would not applaud GM's effort when it appears the corporation overstated value when applying for tax abatement and then fought for a lower value when it came to paying. The alleged "wildly incorrect conclusion" merely called for a clear, single method in determining true cash value of industrial property. The GM/Delta Township case was cited because GM used three methods of determining value in its appeal.)

House OKs 9 percent hike for committee costs

gress were recorded on major roll call votes during the week ending March 20

HOUSE

COMMITTEE BUDGETS By a vote of 280 for and 117 against, the House authorized a $47.9 million budget (H Res 108) for some of its committee operations in 1987. This is an increase of nearly $4 million, or 9 percent, over the same authorization for 1986.

The $479 million will finance about half of the cost of the 27 House committees this year. This "investigations and studies" budget covers travel, consultants, investigations and miscellany, as well as salaries for nearly half of the approximately 2.000 committee employees. Supporter William Thomas, R-Calif., said the House has done "a remarkable job of trying to hold the line" in 1987 committee spending.

Opponent Robert Walker, R-Pa., said it will take "about 1,300 American working families paying every dime in taxes" to raise the $4 million in additional committee spending.

Members voting yes wanted to spend 9 percent more this year on certain House committee operations Voting yes: Dennis Hertel, D-Harper Woods. William Ford, D-Taylor. Sander Levin, D-Southfield, William Broomfield, R-Birmingham

Voting no: Carl Pursell, R-Plym-

COMMITTEE FREEZE - The House rejected, 127 for and 268 against, an attempt to freeze the 1987 authorization for certain committee operations at the 1986 level of $44 million.

This occurred as the House debated a measure (H Res 108, above) setting its committee "investigations and expenditures" budget at nearly $48 million, up 9 percent over 1986. The vote was on a motion to send the budget back to the Administration Committee for trimming.

Freeze supporter Joel Hefley, R-Colo., said it was wrong for the House to increase its committee rate of inflation.

Roll Call Report

Opponent Dan Rostenkowski, D-III said the resolution "strikes the proper balance" between fiscal restraint and meeting committee

Members voting yes favored a committee spending freeze Voting ves Pursell

Voting no Hertel, Ford, Levin, Broomfield.

65 MPH SPEED LIMIT - The House voted 217 for and 206 against, to enable states to raise the speed limit on rural interstates from 55 mph to 65 mph.

The resolution (H Con Res 77) was sent to the Senate. Although it potentially could legalize 65 mph driving on three-fourths of the 42,500-mile interstate system, its impact is uncertain because many states would retain the 55 mph limit.

Supporter Richard Stallings, D-Idaho, called the 55 mph mandate "an unnecessary and unreasonable intrusion into states' rights.'

Opponent William Lehman, D-Fla., said backing the faster speed "is like casting a vote in favor of crashing one or two Boeing 747s every year.

Opponent Carl Pursell, R-Mich., said, "I voted no to help save lives on Michigan highways. I could have considered 65 if it was coupled with a mandatory national seatbelt law."

Members voting yes wanted states to be able to permit 65 mph driving. Voting yes: Broomfield.

Voting no: Pursell, Hertel, Ford,

SENATE CONTRA AID — The Senate re-jected, 48 for and 52 against, an attempt to keep $40 million in U.S. military aid from flowing to American-backed Contras in Nicaragua.

The vote killed a resolution (SJ Res 81) to disapprove the aid, which is the final payment of $100 million spending by more than twice the that Congress appropriated last

It appeared to insure the release of the $40 million, even though the Senate also was weighing a Housepassed measure to block the payment by different means. The House would freeze the money until the Administra ion accounts for money already made available to the Contras Lowell Weicker, R-Conn, referred to the Contra policy and the Iran-Contra scandal and said American prestige "lies in the gutter because it is a gutter policy."

Pete Wilson, R-Calif, who voted to shake loose the aid, said communism must be checked in Central America because "I do not want merican boys to go (there) to fight war that they need not fight."

Senators voting yes wanted to block the Contra aid.

Voting yes: Carl Levin, Donald Riegle, both Michigan Democrats.

HIGHWAY BILL - By a vote of 79 for and 17 against, the Senate approved the conference report on a bill (HR 2) authorizing nearly $88 billion over the next five years for mass transit programs and highway construction, including the completion of the interstate system.

The bill also makes it possible for states to raise the speed on rurai interstates to 65 mph.

It was sent to President Rear, an. who threatened to veto it as pork barrel. He objected in part to i's $1.4 billion outlay for highway "Jemonstration projects" in 36 state.

Supporter Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., said that before Reagan vetoes the bill he should visit Massachusetts and experience the traffic congestion "that is turning Boston into gridlock city.

Opponent William Roth, R-Del., said that due to the high spending for demonstration projects sponsored by individual members, "the term 'highway robbery' was never so appropriate as in describing this bill." Senators voting yes supported the bill. Levin and Riegle voted yes.

Add a younger woman who's looking for a place to live but has trouble finding one in today's crowded housing market.

Mix them both together through SEMCOG's HomeShare, and it could be a recipe for success.

Since March 1985, the state and locally funded HomeShare program has been matching homeowners with extra space with potential tenants looking for a place to live.

There is a dramatic housing shortage in out-Wayne County," said Jan Habitz, HomeShare coordinator in out-Wayne County. "This isn't the answer, but this is one of the an-

Most senior citizens own their own homes, and most prefer to remain in that home," Habitz said.

This enables them to live there independently and get financial support, help with the utility payments and some care services."

The tenant, in exchange, gets & place to live, often at a rent much lower than he or she would have been able to find elsewhere.

Unlike for-profit home-sharing programs, HomeShare is offered free to participants.

The arrangements are tailored to the individuals participting, Habita said. A homeowner might need someone to cook for her, so the rent is reduced if the tenant does the cooking. Another homeowner might need someone to drive her around.

"One lady is very lonely and needs companionship very badly," Habitz said. "Evidently the finances are not

THE HOMESHARE program's role in all this is to carefully screen the candidates and try to make the perfect match between homeowner and tenant.

The screening includes an intensive five-page application for the homeowner and a reference check and interview with the prospective tenant. After the screening, the prospective tenant calls the homeowner to arrange a first meeting.

HomeShare coordinator Audrey

Rilski said it's this extensive screening that participants like most about the program.

"They just don't have people call-ing in from a blind ad," Bilski said. They expect a call and feel secure.' The HomeShare program advises both parties to meet first at a neutral site, such as a restaurant. It is not always love at first sight. 'Sometimes it's just intuition or a feeling that it's not going to work," Bilski said. "That's fine with us, we'll just go back to the drawing board and try again."

THREE OR FOUR introductions usually are required before a match is made, Habitz said. The HomeShare program encourages the participants to meet as often as they like before making a decision.

If the two decide they might like to become housemates, the HomeShare program suggests one more test

"We suggest a two-week trial-per riod where they don't burn any bridges and do away with their current living arrangement," Habitz

If they go through that without a snag, the two then draw up a sharing agreement, a contract spelling out each party's role in the home share. The HomeShare program also is available for followup counseling.

Besides the western Wayne County project, HomeShare also is operating in Detroit and Livingston, Oakland and Washtenaw counties. There had been 86 HomeSharers matched overall by January of this year.

The Plymouth Inn

The Gracious Alternative

Someone you love is growing older and needs just a bit more support than he or she can get in their current living situation. A nursing home isn't the answer. Normal activities like eating and dressing aren't a problem. But you would be happier knowing someone was there to provide gentle encouragement and firm support when needed, in a non-institutional atmosphere.

The answer is The Plymouth Inn, a magnificent residence for seniors who want their independence but need some supervision as well. Consider some of the many advantages:

- · Spacious mini-suites for those who desire extra comfort and privacy.
- Deluxe semi-private accommodations, richly appointed, with private lavatories and showers.

- · Conveniently located near Plymouth, Northville, and Livonia, with easy access to major highways.
- · Tranquil landscaped grounds and lovely common areas.
- · Three delicious meals served in our central dining room by a friendly, attentive staff of professionals.
- · Extensive, varied social programs and recreational opportunities.
- Game room, chapel, beauty parlor and lounges, all designed with the special needs of our residents in mind.

The Plymouth Inn welcomes your inspection visit. When you see what we have to offer we think you will agree that

The Plymouth Inn is a very special place where your loved one can feel secure, yet independent. We invite you to call today for an appointment.

moral perspectives

Rev. David Strong

Clergy isn't exempt from feeling stress

A MINISTER once confessed to me: "I have not liked to go and visit people in the hospital. I used to go and wonder why I was there."

Too often people have the impression that all clergy like every part of their job. There are many who do not like hospitals. People find it difficult to talk with a person who is dying. Yet the common feeling is that clergy are somehow beyond personal difficulties in every aspect of their work. We need to realize that clergy are human.

Too often clergy themselves have unrealistic expectations of themselves. I spoke with a young woman minister who said that she had been very busy during the past week. I commented on the fact that she had

"I hope you can get a day or two off," I remarked. She replied that she still had three more full days and nights of duties before she could take a break. I wondered why she did not admit she needed time off.

YEARS AGO I faced such a decision. I was sick, but I had promised a group of youths and their counselors that I would lead a retreat weekend. A friend said to me, "You can't go." "I have to." I replied. I didn't have to go. I stayed home and took care of myself.

In business, leaders are trained to adopt a team approach. Responsibilities are shared. Churches still focus too many of their expectations upon one or two persons. It doesn't make sense in today's world.

Clergy have problems and limitations just like everyone else. Many fine clergy have disappeared from their community because both they and their congregation expected too much from them.

We are just as vulnerable as anyone elser Because clergy are viewed as "care givers" and "moral examples," their congregations do not know what to do when they need help. The official approach is to send clergy to a psychologist.

We need to acknowledge the fact that expectations of clergy both by the clergy and by the congregations are often unrealistic. Some people jokingly call this a "savior com-LIKE ANYONE, ministers can improve their skills. They can learn, but no one can become perfect. We have crises. We get stuck, hung up in an area of life. Clergy need help, prayer and especially friends who will help them to recognize their limitations. The minister who talked to me about his difficulty in making hospital calls changed. Now he feels more comfortable and able in this area; We are all human, despite what people expect. I like the theology that states the most holy thing in the world is to be fully human. When anyone tries to become more than human, perfect or invulnerable, they are taking the wrong path. Once a person defines himself or herself by what someone else expects, he is bound to fail.

When we deny our humanity we split the spiritual from the physical. We then expect a moral and spiritual performance that denies the idea a person is accepted by God just as he or she is. In the guise of seeking perfect leaders, we judge them by their performance.

We need to recognize that our clergy are human. By doing so we will affirm the preciousness of our own human nature. We need to stop trying to put clergy on a pedestal. It does neither them nor us any good.

TORNADO FACTS:

Since 1950, Michigan has had 228 deaths due to tornadoes (3rd highest of all states in recent years) from 541 tornadoes that occurred. The majority of these tornadoes occurred in southern lower Michigan.

Most tornadoes occur in the months of April, May, June and July and in late afternoon or evening hours, usually 3 to 7 p.m. However tornadoes can occur at anytime of the day or night and in any month.

Tornadoes usually travel from the southwest at speeds between 20 and 45 mph. Tornadoes have reached speeds of 70 mph.

How to age gracefully

Dear Jo

I read your column and enjoy see-

Carol H., Toronto

Growing older gracefully isn't a matter of good luck nor is it simple. There are some excellent suggestions, 15 in all, put out by the National Institute on Aging that I, as a gerontologist, feel are excellent guidelines for growing older and staying healthy. They are:

1) Don't smoke. 2) Eat a balanced diet and maintain a desirable weight.

3) Exercise regularly.

The others said it was hopeless.

Untreatable blindness. That was the diagnosis at an important national eye clinic. Then the patient, suffering from advanced glaucoma and cataracts, came to the Kresge Eye Institute at Harper Hospital. In an exciting procedure, the doctors at Kresge inserted tiny plastic intraocular lenses in his eyes. Today, at age 70, his corrected vision is almost 20/20.

This is not an unusual case. The threat of vision impairment by accident, birth, disease and aging is very close to all of us. Yet, cures and treatments are slow to develop because the process of vision is so very complex. Unraveling the mysteries is the job of the Kresge Eye Institute at Harper Hospital. Dedicated exclusively to the problems of vision, the Institute treats fifty-thousand patients each year, and also performs threethousand operations. Its research programs develop new paths of understanding. Its clinical practice brings new technology to medicine and refines pioneering treatment techniques for others to follow. This important Detroit Medical Center resource gives present hope to millions with impaired vision.

For more information about the Kresge Eye Institute or to make an appointment, please phone the patient information line given below. Kresge Foundation a friend in deed

By Carolyn Smith

A new educational development center for Madonna College in Livonia and spruced-up buildings at Tamarack Camps in West Bloomfield are spun from big dreams and the hefty price of bricks and mortar

But they can become realities with financial support from the Kresge Foundation, a private, independent organization on Big Beaver near Coolidge in Troy.

Created in 1924 by Sebastian S Kresge on the 25th anniversary of the S.S. Kresge Co. he also founded, the foundation has provided grants for thousands of projects in this country and abroad. Last year alone, the organization offered 150 grants tetaling $45 million. Its assets stand at $1.1 billion.

Foundation president Alfred H. Taylor Jr. points out some of the features that distinguish Kresge from others. "The grant categories come in the fullest range imaginable, and grants are made on a challenge basis that requires each recipient to come up with the remainder of a project's cost," he said.

Grant beneficiaries include those in higher education, social services. health care, arts and humanities, public affairs, science, conservation and religion. Some recipients say the challenge of raising money for a project is boosted by the prestige of the foundation's backing. As Taylor explained, "We support only very good projects, and we say no to seven out of 10 applicants."

Sister Mary Lauriana, vice president for development at Madonna College, said the foundation has approved a $150,000 grant for addition to a campus building to house a children's learning center and facilities for science and mathematics teacher education, tutoring the deaf and hearing impaired and other personalized instruction.

"We've always had a balanced budget and strong programs, and we had raised more than half of the ($1.3 million) cost of the project," Sister Lauriana said. "You must assure the Kresge Foundation that you will use their funds as leverage for raising the additional money.

With a $50,000 grant from the foundation, plus another $150,000 donated by Esther and Nathan Silverman, the Jewish Welfare Federation and some private parties, workers moved cabins apart and sided them. 'Democratize the workplace' Doug Fraser

By Maria Gold

Businesses must learn to take risks and develop the courage to change with the times, said former UAW president Douglas Fraser who spoke recently on the future of organized labor and its changing role in meeting the needs of workers.

"Businesses that can change will survive and prosper." he told a packed audience last week at Madonna College in Livonia.

The speech was the last in a series of business forums at the college

Fraser cautioned that America is on the brink of economic disaster, but that no one is acknowledging the danger. Citing the $170 billion national debt, he reminded the audience that "a debt doesn't build a road, a debt doesn't build a school house.'

He partially blamed the debt on the administration's lax policy toward trade imports, specifically with Japan. That country has strict regulations concerning American imports, including high tariffs on products, limits on imports, and "outrageous" requirements for certain products, such as pharmaceuticals, which the U.S. government does not mimic. This unfair unfair trade policy hurts the economy, he said.

THROUGHOUT his speech, Fraser criticized the Reagan administration for allowing the national debt to spiral out of control. He attributes much of the present economic situation on the administration's policy of "no risk-taking."

"You have to take risks," he said. "This administration won't.

Fraser, who was UAW president from 1977 to 1983, was also on the board of directors at Chrysler Corporation in the early 1980s, when that company was near bankruptcy. He said that the only way Chrysler had a

The IRA crystal ball is cloudy, but this seems clear

Are you or aren't you? That is the question

The new tax law is quite clear on one point: If you make more than $35,000/$50,000 and are covered by a pension plan, you can't make a taxdeductible IRA contribution.

However, it's not clear just when you are covered on a new job or when your company starts a new plan Its plan year may differ from the calendar year, and contribution may have been deemed to have been made on the last day of the plan

So, if your plan begins on Aug. 1, 1987, and ends July 30, 1988, and if you joined the plan on Aug. 1 or later, then you can still take an IRA deduction for 1987. This presumes, of course, that you do not participate in another pension plan earlier in the

Incidentally, if you decide not to join a pension plan in which you are eligible to participate, that does not always get the IRS off your back. If 1987 IRA into a growth mutual fund

finances and you Sid Mittra

the company has a defined benefit plan, then for tax purposes you are a participant in it even if you do not contribute to it, so your IRA deduction is denied

However, if the company has a defined contribution plan and you don't join it, you may qualify for the IRA deduction.

Comingling of IRA contributions

Just because an IRA contribution is not deductible does not mean that there is no value to making this contribution with after-tax dollars.

Suppose you invest $2,000 of your

and it grows at 12 percent a year. Your money will then grow to $4,000 in six years.

However, if you are in a 33-percent tax bracket and invest in the same mutual fund outside of a IRA. your investment will grow to $4,000 in nine years. By that time, your IRA money would have grown to $5,600.

While the argument for investing non-deductible money into an IRA is powerful, the bookkeeping can be onerous. For one thing, you can't comingle your regular IRA account with the special IRA account opened with after-tax dollars.

For another, you must not only report to the IRS the non-deductible amount each year but also the cumulative non-deductible contributions and the balance of each IRA investment at the end of the year.

HERE IS an illustration developed by one of the big eight CPA firms.

Suppose you have made $5,400 in deductible IRA contributions over the years, and you make non-deductible contributions of $2,400 in 1987 and in 1988. In 1989, with a total of $9,000 in the account (including earnings), you want to take out $3,000.

Can you withdraw all of your $2,400 of non-deductible contribution and owe taxes on $600?

At first glance, it seems to be the plausible way to approach the problem. However, that is not the way the IRA looks at it.

Your $2,400 in non-deductible contributions are just 26.7 percent of your IRA total. Thus just 26.7 percent of your $3,000 withdrawal, or $800, is a return of your non-deductible contributions. The remaining $2,200 is fully taxable.

So, the Ley question is: If your 1987 IRA contribution is not deductible, should you still make it? The answer is: By all means, provided you have a stomach for tedious accounting and good record keeping.

Life in Vienna: wine gardens, parks, violins

Second in a two-part series.

Vienna, Austria: I looked down on the Ringstrassee from my window, savoring all the sensory impressions of Vienna. The music had not yet started in the Stadtpark to my left, where a statue of Johann Strauss plays a bronze violin, but the rest of the city was in action.

The red streetcars clanged up and down the Ringstrasse, which literally rings the Inner Stadt, or inner city, from the Donau canal back to the Donau canal. You may think the Danube runs through Vienna, but in Austria the river is called the Donau and the city is called Wien.

The stylishly dressed men and women sat in the sidewalk cafes below, moving back and forth from the offices and shops set among the carved fronts of historic buildings. The Fiakers, a term that describes both the horse and carriage and the bowler-hatted driver, clopped past, their red wheels spinning.

A HORSE AND carriage is a perfect way to see the city for the first time, the pair of horses pulling ahead and the outline of the driver, with his homberg and his whip, seated on the seat above you.

You may not be able to hear what he says from your open back seat, but you won't care. As we circled the Ringstrasse, faces turned up to the sun, we passed the opera house, the parliament buildings, the university, the great museums, all the impossible neo-classical buildings left behind by an emperor.

1-of-a-kind traveler Iris Jones contributing travel editor

The pigeons flew over us as we trotted under an ancient gate into the Hofburg, home of Austrian rulers since the 13th century and now the center of government. The Austrian president has his offices here. Swarms of people gather around the carriage stands or wander in and out of the buildings.

There are dozens of magnificent, historic things to see in the city: The baroque church pews of the Karlskirche, the great museums of both classical and modern art. Some say modern art was born here when the young Viennese artists rebelled against the carved and cluttered buildings of the empire at the turn of the century.

THE LAST thing that the fun-loving Viennese would want you to do, however, is bury yourself day and night in their historic buildings. Stop

THE REAL PROPERTY.

Grinzing, one of the wine villages in the Wienerwald — better known as the Vienna Woods — is dotted with wine gardens, such as these along the Heurigen.

Sit in a sidewalk cafe under an orange umbrella while you contemplate the beautiful shops, the street theater and the next historic building you may visit. Wander into the Cafe Central, once a famous coffee shop where Trotsky and Eisenberg and other famous men met downstairs

In late afternoon, when you have had enough of the Inner Stadt, take a No. 38 street car to Grinzing, one of the wine villages in the Wienerwald, better known as the Vienna Woods. You will get a quick tour through the suburbs and join the throngs swarming into the many wine gardens up and down the Grinzing village streets.

The vineyards are on the slopes of the Wienerwald behind and above the village. This year's fresh white wine, called Heuriger, is sold by the jug in the wine gardens, or Heurigen, where people eat and drink and sing.

DON'T MISS the opera, whatever else you miss in Vienna. This is the city of music, home of Mozart and Haydn and Strauss, a city where gossip and headlines are about new conductors, not new baseball players. The real music-social season is in the winter, but the opera is there for you in summer too.

Buy your tickets by mail ahead or face the fact that you may not get in, or that you must buy your ticket on the black market. The Viennese love the opera, and even they can't get in

If you don't reserve ahead, ask your hotel concierge to get you tickets for the Spanish Riding School, with its famous Lipizzaner horses; the Vienna Boys Choir; and the opera. Check the box office for last

EVERY SEAT in the beautiful Statsopera, or state opera house, was full, on the main floor and on the five balcony tiers above us, when we sat down to watch "Carmen." I've never seen anything like it and probably never will again, not just because it was a stunning performance, but also because of all those beautifully dressed, knowledgable and enthusiastic opera lovers.

I had been told that the Viennese are very critical, that they almost never give the standing ovation that is so common in our theaters. Imagine this moment:

The last curtain closed. There was a second of stillness, and then the theater erupted around us like a riot. They ran down the aisles to the stage, cheered from the balconies. threw flowers from the gold and white balconies onto the stage.

The Emperor Franz Josef hasn't been in his box for half a century, but he would probably be on his feet too, clapping and cheering for the cast. It's not always like this, but the performance was new and spectacu-

The woman sitting beside me was an opera lover from San Antonio.

"Did you say you have never seen Carmen before?" she said. I hadn't. 'Never see it again," she said. "You will never see another performance like this one."

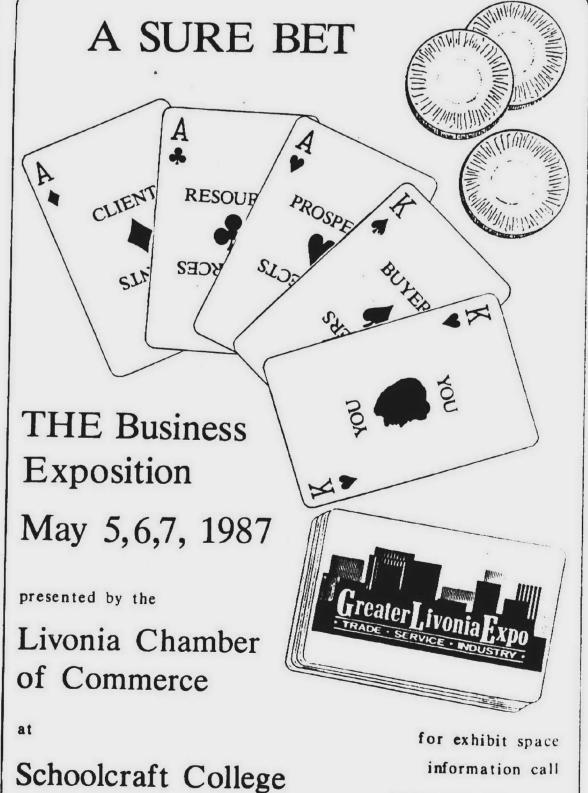

We had to leave, because we had reservations for a late supper across the street at the Bristol Hotel. By that time, 20 minutes or so after the performance ended, the cheering had stopped and the hand-clapping had begun, a rhythmic clapping that said "Come back, come back."

We could hear them as we crossed the street, pushing our way through the happy nighttime crowds, hear them above the clang-clang of the streetcar and the hoot of car horns. I can hear them in my mind now, and they will always be part of my memory of a day in the life of Vienna.

M A SOUND explorer," said Jerry LeDuff, who collects and plays ethnic percussion instruments from all over

He and his wife, Annette, live in Southfield and are part owners of the Ajour Jewelry store on Woodward in Birmingham. For the last 20 years LeDuff has been collecting and playing instruments. He insists that music is too serious a part of his life to call it anything as lightweight as hobby.

By profession he's a visual artist with a master's in fine arts from the Cranbrook Academy of Art in Bloomfield Hills. By avocation, he's an accomplished percussionist, who has played at the Montreux Jazz Festival and the Detroit Institute of Arts, in Young People's Concerts with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and with numerous performing groups.

The Detroit Percussive Arts Ensemble, which he founded, accompanies many local dance companies. The ensemble has created scores for documentary films, one for the Mexican Broadcasting Co. and another for the Canadian Broadcasting Co.

Currently, the ensemble is composing music for a dance choreographed by Harriet Berg.

TO JERRY LEDUFF, "Visual art and music are one. They're merely different ways to express the creative urge. And they use different vocabularies.

To demonstrate the articulate vocabulary of music, he uses sticks wrapped in raw rubber to beat complex rhythms on an African balophone, a wooden xylophonelike instrument with resonators made of gourds in graduated sizes. The gourds have been plugged with spider webs to create a more resonant sound.

Drums, shakers, bowed instruments, gongs, bells, temple blocks and marimbas round out his collection, which comes from Africa, South and Central America, India, Asia, Australia, Europe and the Middle East.

Rather than hopscotch around the world hunting ethnic instruments, the LeDuffs purchase instruments from dealers or from traders who come to Detroit and New York

When they first began collecting, dealers didn't take them seriously, so they had business cards made saying they collected instruments.

'In Africa, when people encounter something new, they touch it, smell it, then they hit it to see what sound it makes.'

Word got around. Now when a choice shipment comes in, the LeDuffs hear about it.

Prices on authentic ethnic instruments range from a few hundred dollars up to $10,000, depending on the age, workmanship and tone quality of an instrument, and

"THE INSTRUMENTS pay for themselves through lectures and performances," said LeDuff, who likes to demonstrate the unique sounds of his instruments.

'In Africa, when people encounter something new, they touch it, smell it, then they hit it to see what sound it makes," he said. "Sounds are an aspect of a physical property. I'm about using sound no matter what its origin — electronic, acoustic, vocal or kitchen pot."

His wife says he can't resist playing the showcases at the store.

The LeDuffs own several hundred ethnic instruments that he plays publicly.

"It would be no fun having the instruments and not showing them to people," he said. He plays with jazz and percussion ensembles in town and with Storytellers, a group that tours schools and colleges to present dramatic musical presentations using instruments from their collection.

The four-member group delights in mixing musical cultures. Storytellers often play steel drums from the Carribean with a Tabla from India and brass temple bells from

As part of every presentation, they introduce the instruments and give background information about their origins. The group mixes folklore and music in programs designed to build cultural bridges. Performances have been given in Detroit and throughout Michigan, as well as in Ohio and Ontario. The Michigan Council for the Arts, the Detroit Arts Council and Omni Arts in Education help bring the nonprofit group to schools and colleges

Two soloists were featured on the latest Detroit Symphony Orchestra

One was principal cellist Italo Babini, who played the Cello Concerto No. 1 by Kabalevsky. The other, pianist Horacio Gutierrez, performed Mozart's Piano Concerto No. 19 in F Major, K. 459. Guest conductor was Hiroshi Wakasugi.

There was something unusual about both solo works. In the Mozart, the work itself is performed occasionally, but normally would not be associated with a pianist like Gutierrez. The passages in the fast movements flowed effortlessly but not thoughtlessly. In particular, the meticulous coordination in the final movement with the appropriate level of left hand involvement was esthetically pleasing.

The Kabalevsky cello concerto received its first DSO performance on this occasion. Kabalevsky, who died recently in Moscow at the age of 83, was far less controversial to the authorities than some of his more prominent colleagues, such as Prokofiev and Shostakovich. In particular this is true with this cello concerto, whose classical tonalities are unlikely to be considered objectionable even among the most conservative.

BUT THIS WORK has its share of technical challenges in spite of its conservative style. Babini's performance was impressive in bringing out the work's charm. His rich,

Aristocrat open

Jack McCarthy may be leaving the Detroit area for Florida, but Jack McCarthy's Aristocrat in West Bloomfield isn't closing, said Avelina Laxa, owner of the restaurant. She said the Aristocrat is still serving McCarthy's Cajun cuisine.

Jack's wife is staying on as catering director, and two McCarthy sons also work at the restaurant - one as a bartender, the other in the kitchen. McCarthy's family will join him when he gets settled in Florida, Laxa said.

McCarthy plans to return to Detroit once a month, to continue the "Friday Feast" dining segment on WXYZ-TV, and he is still connected with the Aristocrat, she said.

THE ROMAN TAVERN, 50 W Tienken, Rochester (652-9002), provides a relaxed setting in which to enjoy a pleasant Italian meal. The restaurant, with its subdued lighting, is decorated to give a tavern-like feeling. The decor is very sparse, but the overall effect is one of warmth. There are booths and tables with clean tablecloths, and most of the diners are casually dressed. Our table was ready when we arrived, and dinner took an hour and 40 minutes. We have been disappointed so often by service that it was a special treat to find a young, very helpful staff that included high-quality waitressing and outstanding bussing. We received prompt, caring service, including extra soup plates, knives and many other attentions. Our only criticism was that occasionally the busmen were a little too fast, clearing some plates before one even finished. It was very nice to find an ample number of well-trained people who did their best to provide good, efficient and pleasing service. Service - 15 points maximum. Points Drinks were strong. Before the Entree - 15 points maximum. Points awarded - 12.

The pollo cacciatore ($11.50) had a good blend of tastes. The chicken was complemented, but not overpowered, by the fresh vegetables. Even the accompanying green beans were tasty and not overcooked. The cioppino ($15.95), a special of the evening, offered a wide variety of seafoods, served over spaghetti noodles. The noodles were fresh and prepared "al dente," and the dish had a full, rich flavor. The portion was quite large, with lots of seafood. The ravioli marinara ($13.95) was another special, and it contained shrimp, lobster and scallops with homemade spinach pasta and a white seafood sauce. Cote du Rhone deserves to become better known

The names of the great wine regions of France are legion: Champagne, Bordeaux, Burgundy, Chablis, Beaujolais. There are many more.

One, however, of considerable distinction, does not get the attention it deserves. That is the Cote du Rhone, a long finger of land in the southeast

Running as it does some 200 miles from just below Lyons, the gastronomic center of France, it follows the mighty Rhone to the sea near Marseille. In that space are included a great many viticultural sub-regions, this being the land of Hermitage. Chateauneuf-du-Pape and Tavel, to name some of the better known. This is a region of robust red wines and, in the case of the last, the finest roses in the world.

But there is yet another winegrowing region, the Cote Rotie, that has to date not received the attention it warrants. It is one that, according to Robert Parker, the hottest wine critic of our time, "can be among France's most magnificent"

Writing in his Wine Advocate and in Connoisseur, he recently began a campaign to awaken Americans to the quality as well as value to be found in these wines.

Rhone. The vineyards themselves are on steeply terraced hillsides that rise up from the river. Each year the precious soils must be returned to the vineyards after washing down in the winter rains. So steep are they that no mechanization is possible.

THESE SLOPES produce just 18,000 to 20,000 cases of wine each year. Only a modest trickle of it leaves the area for export, the Lyon- most favorably with the very sucnaise consuming great portions of it. That fact is perhaps the principal reason that Cote Rotie ("roasted slope") wines will never become world famous. There is too little available from the 150 acres under harvest.

To increase production would require planting the flatlands above the river and this they do not want to do, knowing that would produce a lesser wine. A centuries-old region, they are bound by practice, precedent and viticultural experience. This is all we are going to get from

There are two parts to the slope, the Cote Brune and the Cote Blande, the "brunette" and the "blonde." The former has the richer soils and produces a fuller, longer-lived wine that takes longer to develop, while the Blandes flash earlier and fade a bit sooner. Hennessey wins opener

By Marty Budner staff writer

The Hennessey Engineers are beginning to relish this underdog role. In a wild series that included three overtime games, coach A.J. Baker's Engineers surprised the Fraser Falcons four games to one in the North American Junior Hockey League's first-round playoffs last week. It was a series they weren't supposed to

Now the upset-minded Engineers are trying to buck the odds against Compuware in a series which ultimately will decide the mythical state championship. It boils down to a best-of-five battle for pride since both teams are qualified for the national tournament that Compuware will host later this month.

The Engineers, who finished third to league champion Compuware during the regular season, drew first blood in their opening game Tuesday at Compuware Arena in Oak Park, 43 The game-winning goal was supplied by Southfield's J. Jewett.

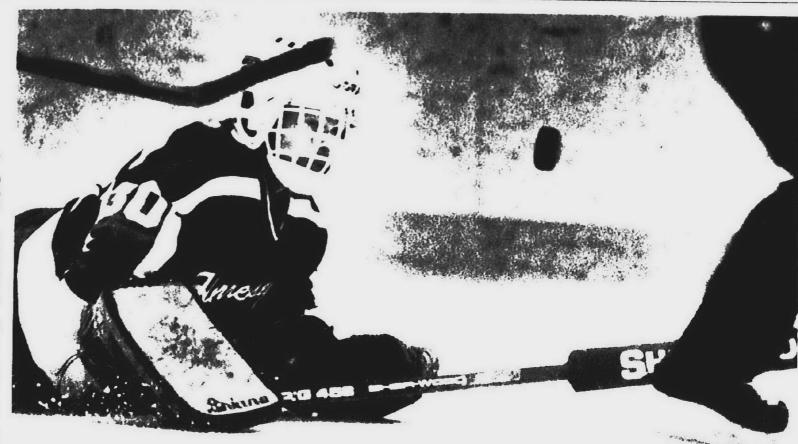

The next game will be played 7 30 pm Friday at Plymouth Arena, then moves back to Oak Park for a 3 15 p m. meeting Saturday

"WE WERE supposed to lose four straight in Fraser (to the Falcons) and we are the underdog again here," said Jewett, who played high school hockey last season at Southfield. "To come in here and beat them means a lot

We were all pumped up coming off that series against the Falcons. We know that the national tournament is important. But we want to win this too. It's always better to beat Compuware because they're kind of like the main rival.

"We've had some good games against them this year," he said.

After a scoreless first 20 minutes each team scored twice in the second

RIUMPH AND TRAGEDY. Crazy how those things are equated in the world of sports. I'm an observer (no newspaper pun intended) of sports, and I was told I should be impartial and objective. In pursuit of these objectives, I often witness emotional outbursts far too serious to be associated with a game.

There were dozens of examples last weekend of athletes weighing the seriousness of their sport too heavily. It's tournament time, both nationally and statewide, which partly explains the extreme impact games make. This is the sudden-death season.

But sports overemphasis goes beyond the time of year. What determines success and failure often has less to do with performance than it does expectation.

In other words, one individual's - or team's - failure is another's success

FINDING EXAMPLES isn't as difficult as limiting them. Watching Iowa's girls basketball team lying face down on the court and sobbing after just missing the game-winning shot on ESPN explains a lot

They were disappointed. That missed shot cost them a trip to the Final Four. Yet how many teams would have been delighted to finish their season among the top eight in the country'

Expectations make one person's victory another's de-

For example: It wasn't a great weekend for Iowa. The Hawkeyes were ousted from both NCAA basketball tournaments and came in second in the NCAA wrestling tournament. A second-place would delight most college wrestling teams, but Iowa had won nine straight titles and was gunning for an unprecedented 10th. Alas, disappointment

The Hawkeyes' men's basketball team also just missed upsetting No. 1-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas. However disheartening the 84-81 loss might seem, consider Iowa eked out an overtime win Friday against Oklahoma. And B.J. Armstrong, Iowa's sophomore point guard, had a superb regional tournament.

Armstrong, a Birmingham Brother Rice grad, scored 16 points and dished out 10 assists against Oklahoma. Among his points was a three-pointer that tied the game and forced overtime. In the loss to UNLV, Armstrong

It was a great individual performance for Armstrong. But it's a team sport, and Iowa - which led UNLV by 15 at halftime Sunday - lost a game it should have won. Again, disappointment.

Engineers keep flourishing in their role as underdogs

Compuware's goals came from left wing Brent Ketzenberger and center Mike Boback. Engineer goals were tallied by Eric Kapelanski and alternate captain Larry Pilut, who scored on a power play with just two seconds left in the period. Pilut tipped in Todd Tamburino's blast from the point and the goal seemed to spark the Engineers in the final period.

They came out and controlled the first 15 minutes of the last period and went ahead on Pilut's power play goal at the 11:16 mark. Jewett was alert around the net in giving his team a 4-2 lead at the 15:02 mark on assists from defenseman Kirk Prieskorn and forward Bob Mylfrom the point and got the rebound. I saw the upper corner of the net and just had to put it in.

"It's about time . . . I had a little dry spell there for a while," he said. "It felt good to get a goal."

A MINUTE later, however, Compuware's Mark Olson tipped in Southfield resident Joe Snover's shot to make it a one-goal game.

Sparked by Olson's goal, Compuware controlled the rest of the period. Coach Andy Weidenbach pulled goalie Mike Gilmore with less than a minute left and had a couple of good scoring chances but failed to click.

'You'd have to point to (Pilut's goal) as the turning point," said Baker. "He was our second-leading scorer this year, but he's by far the catalyst of our team.'

The win at Compuware now gives Hennessey Engineers the home ice advantage in the series. Hennessey can win the NAJHL's state title by merely winning its two home games in Plymouth.

'This win has to compare to our first win against the Falcons. That was a one-goal game at their place,' said Baker, whose team had a 2-7-4 overall record this year against Compuware. "We'd like to take this thing in three games. We're going to give it our absolute best shot on Friday and come back here and play

"They have to win three of the four games now," he said.

But the Raiders did not succeed on the strength of one outstanding gymnast. Indeed, Kim Heller's tie for third in the vault (a two-day total of 18.55) was the best individual effort for North BALANCE BUOYED the Raiders. They weren't the only team to suffer setbacks on the beam, but their four gymnasts each scored over 8.0. Behind Toroyan came Heller at 8.35 and Cindy Tijan and Nicki Yuskowatz at 8.05.

Those scores hardly instilled Dwyer with confidence regarding his team's chances.

We were in the same situation as at the regional," he said. "We bombed on beam there, but came back strong on the vault and floor exercise. The vault is where we improved most late in the season. That's what got us going."

Heller's vault, which included a 9.4 in Friday's team competition, gave North a lift. Toroyan scored 9.0, Kara Karhu had an 8.95 and Yuskowatz collected an 8.4.

The Raiders' best event was the floor exercise. Heller and Karhu each notched 9.05 in Friday's team eight and qualify for Saturday's indivioual meet. Heller finished fifth individually with a 18.30 total; Karhu was seventh at 18.0. Toroyan scored an 8.85 on Friday and Yuskowatz had an 8.3.

On the uneven parallel bars, Toroyan placed fifth in the individual standings with a 17.85, which included a 9.25, Saturday's best score. In the team competition, Heller had an 8.15, Marilyn Dunn scored 8.10 and Karhu got a 7.75.

The all-around standings reflected how much North's depth of talent meant to its final finish. The top North all-around gymnast was Heller, who placed 10th (out of 28) with 34.95 points. Toroyan was 11th at 34.9. Freeland's Jamie Nieman won the all-around title with

"Everyone hit for us after the beam," said Dwyer. "It wasn't one particular girl doing great, but four good scores. And in a meet like this where all four of your girls' scores count in your total, you can't afford

In baseball parlance, North didn't get a lot of big hits in the tournament, but the Raiders didn't

SALEM DID NOT do as well as its competitors in any respect. The Rocks finished last in the team standings and did not post a score in any event good enough to qualify someone for Saturday's individual competition.

The best for Salem came from Jackie Huff, who had team-high marks in three of four events. Huff recorded an 8.7 in the vault, an 8.5 in the beam and an 8.8 in the floor exercise. Her 7.95 on the bars was second-highest for the Rocks, behind Becky Talbot's 8.4.

Huff was the only Rock to compete in all four events and qualify for the all-around. Her 33.95 placed her 19th.

Talbot also had marks of 8.1 in the vault and 8.7 in the floor exercise. Other Salem scorers were Dana Holda, 8.5 on the vault and 7.85 on the bars; Sharon Way, 8.15 on the floor exercise and 6.75 on the beam; Amy Pastori, 8.1 in the floor exercise and 6.95 in the beam; Jenny Syria, 7.45 on the beam; Debbie Drabek, 6.95 on the bars; and Debbie Popp, 7.5 on the vault.

Gordie Davis is stepping down after 15 years at the helm of the Westland John Glenn basketball program. His career record

Glenn's Davis decides to ease into retirement

staff writer

Little did anyone know the final chapter in Gordie Davis's distinguished coaching career at Westland John Glenn was written last week when a last-second shot by Detroit Chadsey's Brian Dial in the second overtime knocked the host Rockets out of the Class A regional basketball tournament.

Davis told his team over the weekend that he was retiring from coaching after two successful stints at Glenn.

The easy-going Davis won quietly during his 15 years at Glenn, compiling a 213-118 record. He won seven league titles and three districts.

"I'm to the point where I'll be retiring from teaching in a couple of years and I just want to taper into it," Davis said. "I'll miss the association with the players and the competition. I had good kids to work with."

Ironically, Davis's most successful season, in terms of wins and losses, came this season when the Rockets won a school-record 21 games. Glenn tied Plymouth Salem for first place in the Lakes Division of the Western Lakes Activities Association with a 15-1 record, but missed playing Western Division champ Plymouth Canton for the WLAA title, losing a tiebreaker on an unsual coin flip to determine divisional champion.

We had a great season, but you still look back and maybe a break or two and it could have been a super season," said the retiring coach. But this was a special group with Andy (Grazulis) and Steve (Hawley). I had them as sophomores and I wanted to see them through."

Davis said he'll continue to work with the Glenn basketball program through the summer to help make the transition easier for the new

A native of Wayne, Davis played sports at Tarkio State (Mo.) and Albion College. He taught school two years in Cadillac, joined the military, worked in the personnel de-partment three years at General Motors before joining the Wayne-Westland School District as a physical education instructor.

"I had the urge to get back into teaching and I started coaching at the junior high level," Davis said. "I worked my way up and I also coached JV football at Glenn."

Davis spent two years as a JV coach under Chris Theodore at Glenn before becoming the varsity coach during the 1968-69 season.

DURING THE 1972-73 season Davis won his first Northwest Suburban League title, beating Livonia game on a three-point play by Dave Carlington in the final seconds.

"I'll always remember that first league championship — that always sticks out," Davis said, referring to the team made up of Carlington, Brian Kaluzny, Jim Khollman, J.P. Mc-Bride and the late Terry Johnson.

With guard Darin Armstrong leading the way, Glenn reached the regional final during the 1977-78 season before losing to Detroit Macken-

"That was another special group," Davis said.

Davis compiled a record of 153-91 when he retired in 1979, but he came back four years later, replacing Dan Henry, to compile a 60-27 record during his last four seasons. He won the Northwest Suburban League title in 1984, Western Lakes playoffs (1986) and district crown (1987).

"I've been in physical education and have had contact every day with kids in sports," Davis said. "That re-

DAVIS BELIEVES the winning tradition can continue at Glenn.

"We lose four starters, but our JV team went 17-3 and we have two kids coming back who played quite a bit this year," he said. "So I'm not leaving the cookie jar empty.

Gordie Davis never did. It's time to sit up and take notice.

KARA McGRATH is further example of expectation's pressure. McGrath, a Birmingham resident and a senior at the University of Texas, is one of the best swimmers in her specialty -- the butterfly -- in the world.

How many age-group swimmers wouldn't love to be in McGrath's situation? And yet, at last weekend's NCAA championship meet in Indianapolis, McGrath wasn't happy even though she finished second in the nation to world record-holder Mary T. Meagher in the 200 fly, and her team won the NCAA title.

McGrath, though, has been second before. But she's never beaten Meagher. No improvement, no suc-

Joe Urso, on the other hand, was ecstatic with his NCAA performance. He didn't win a title, but he advanced beyond expectations and earned himself All-America designa-

The Redford Catholic Central grad from Livonia finished fourth in the Big Ten wrestling meet March 5-7 to qualify for the NCAA championships last weekend. Urso was unseeded, but he had incentive; last year, he rushed back from a shoulder injury to compete in the Big Ten meet and ended up losing three straight matches.

Urso was determined to avenge that embarrassment. He did, winning his first three NCAA matches and eventually finishing sixth. Going beyond expectation made Urso a winner, but at the same time it created new expectations of him for next season

NORTH FARMINGTON'S gymnastics team won no titles, individual or team, at last week's state meet. So how did coach Jeff Dwyer feel about that?

Happy, thank you. Dwyer figured his team had a shot at first, but it was a slim one. When the Raiders finished second, Dwyer was a bit surprised and definitely pleased particularly considering no North team member placed higher than a tie for third in any individual event.

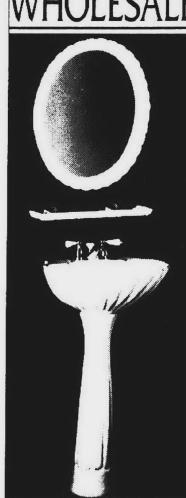

Of course, Dwyer's happiness was matched by Troy Athens coach Frank DiVito's. After all, the Red Hawks won the state championship.

Being No. 1 is always No. 1 on an athlete's list of goals. It's when emphasis on realizing that goal intensifies that the role of sports, and its importance, distorts. Climbing to the top is tremendous. It deserves recognition, particularly for the sacrifices endured along the way. But remember There's room for just one up there. And second or third isn't all that bad, if effort isn't lacking.

The important thing, athletes, is not to let others set your expectations. Make your own goals, and make them reasonable.

Last year was the first time in four years that Livonia Stevenson wasn't represented in the Class A state girls soccer championship.

Cross-town rival Churchill rose to the occasion, and behind a two-goal performance from All-State player Jamie Kubacki, the Chargers defeated Troy Athens 3-2 in overtime to claim the state title.

Churchill again looks like the team to beat, but the Western Lakes Activities Association should be much more balanced than in the past. The Chargers will get some strong competition from the likes of Stevenson and Plymouth Salem.

Farmington, North Farmington, Livonia Franklin and Plymouth Canton could also stir things up in the

WLAA as each team has improved

CHURCHILL COACH Nick O'Shea has inherited a strong team from retired coach Ed Dudek. Aside from Kubacki, who scored 13 goals and had 11 assists last year, the Chargers return 11 players from that championship team. Leading the way will be senior goalkeeper Liz Monroe; who recorded 13 shutouts last season and allowed just seven goals the en-

Stevenson should be a contender but will first have to overcome the loss of senior defender Becky Dimitriou, who was lost for the season with a severe knee injury. But the Spartans return 17 players and are coached by veteran Norene Divens who enters her 11th season at the helm of the Stevenson soccer pro-

Salem, which finished last season ranked fifth in the state, lost just two players to graduation and return a strong nucleus of players. All-Area second team goalie Ellen Schnackel (eight shutouts in '86) heads the list of returnees.

FRANKLIN ENTERS the season with perhaps its strongest team ever, returning 13 girls from last year's 7-7-3 squad. North will also add some excitement to the league race with the likes of Jean Anzlovar (20 goals and 20 assists in '86) leading the Raiders to battle.

The Farmington Falcons fly into the '86 campaign with a strong contingent of seniors including All-Area player Leslie Martin (seven goals, 24 assists). Canton returns after a 10-8-1 campaign last year with just two girls lost to graduation.

In the Catholic League, the Farmington Hills Mercy Marlins could pose a threat to the pack behind the efforts of All-Area player Margaret DaMattia. The senior defender led the Marlins last year with 12 goals and 18 assists. (See area round-up).

Kim Montgomery (dark jersey), shown here in last year's state championship game, is one of the mainstays in the Chargers'

DRC opens season Urso earns All-America with changes in staff

By Brad Emons staff writer

The Detroit Race Course in Livonia, in its third year of ownership by Ladbroke of Great Britain, has undergone another makeover in preparation for Friday's season opener, the first of 119 thoroughbred horse racing dates scheduled for spring and summer

When the gates open at noon and the first race kicks off at 2 p.m., there will be a lot of changes, some more noticeable than others:

 Bill Bork, 53, is the new track president, succeeding Donald Drew, who departed in January for Ak-Sar-Ben Race Track in Omaha, Bork left his job as executive vice president and general manager of operations for three tracks owned by the Ogden Corp.

From 1974 to 1984, Bork served as president and GM for the Penn National Race Track in Grantville, Pa., where he was responsible for establishing telephone account wagering via cable TV. He also was instrumental in a state tax reduction and passage of off-track betting in Illinois.

• DRC'S NEW racing secretary is Allan Plever, who succeeds Bennett Parke.

Plever has scheduled a total of nearly $2.3 million in stakes races for the two racing meets, March 27 through Sept. 7 (119 days) and Sept. 9 through Nov. 22 (56 days).

The highlight of the stakes program is the 39th running of the Grade II $250,000-added Michigan Mile handicap, slated for Saturday, July 11. Another attraction is the second running of the $75,000-added Michigan Budweiser Breeders' Handicap, Saturday, Aug. 22.

Among the major Michigan-bred races are the $50,000-added Michigan Breeders Governors Handicap (three-year-olds and up) on Saturday, June 27 and the $40,000-added Michigan Oaks (three-year-old fillies) on Saturday, June 6.

• Since 1985, when Ladbroke purchased the track, over $4 million in renovations have been made. Most recently, some $550,000 has been spent to reburbish the first floor clubhouse.

The new clubhouse includes the sports teletheater, sporting three giant screens and seating for 250 people. The track racing surface also has been upgraded along with the sound system and stable areas.

• THREE NEW WAGERS have been added to the betting format with the dawning of the "Super-Tri" and expansion of the "Twin-Trifecta" on the third and fifth races. The bettor much pick the first three finishers in correct order in the first half, then correctly choose the first four across the finish line in the second half in order to cash

The "Pick-3" is an expansion of the "Daily-Double." Bettors must correctly pick the winners of races No. 7, 8 and 9 to win 100 percent of the money pool.

The third new wager is called "Superfecta," where bettors have to correctly choose the first four horses in order to win.

• Opening day will feature a variety of promotions:

The first 8,000 paid patrons will receive a mini-vacuum cleaner. Also featured will be the debut of the "Spin and Win," a takeoff on the popular Wheel of Fortune TV program where patrons will have the opportunity to win cash or an AMC motor vehicle of their choice. And for the second straight year, the track will sponsor a Best Dressed Ladies contest, an extension of Ladbroke's weekly contest held each Sunday evening during last year's meeting. The Detroit Mounted Police will kick off the festivities at 1:15 p.m.

SATURDAY'S FAMILY DAY card (wife and children under 12 will be admitted free) begins at 1 p.m. (post time), featuring celebrity handicapper Peter Kules, who will talk at the Teletheater at 11:30 a.m. The opening of the new children's playground is also slated and a free silver-plated Thunder Key Ring will be given to patrons (with vouchers). Five key ring numbers will be chosen after the eighth race with $1,000 available to the lucky winners.

Sunday's card, beginning at 6 p.m. (post time) is ladies day. All ladies will be admitted free.

Admission prices are $1.50 (general admission), $1.25 (senior citizens) and $4 (clubhouse).

There's a lot to be said for determination, particularly Joe Urso's brand

Urso, a junior at Purdue University from Livonia and Redford Catholic Central, had goals clearly established entering this wrestling season. Most had been defined for him a season earlier, when Urso suffered a mid-season shoulder injury, tried to come back too quickly and ended up losing every match in the Big Ten tournament.

Urso was determined to make up for that failure. He did, winning his first three matches at last weekend's NCAA tournament in Landover, Md.. and eventually finishing sixth in the 167-pound weight division to earn All-America honors.

"It turned out to be a good tournastrong, but ended up on a sour note. Still, I'm happy with it."

URSO BARELY qualified for the NCAAs. At the Big Ten meet two weeks before, he opened with a 4-2 win over Northwestern's Chris Rozman in a preliminary match, but in the quarterfinals Urso — the tournament's second seed - was upset in overtime by Michigan's Mike Amin,

"I didn't do as well as I hoped," Urso admitted. "I didn't feel strong. I lost weight differently. All season long, I would eat real well all week long, dehydrate my body before the weigh-in, then rehydrate it. But the pinned me."

Tens and I wasn't sure I could do it that way.

Urso felt his lack of strength cost him against Amin. Still, he wasn't about to allow a repeat of his 1986 Big Ten tournament. In his next match, Urso edged Illinois' Alonzo Nalls 5-3 to assure himself at least a fourth-place finish in the conference and a berth in the NCAA tourney.

The victory did not come cheaply. Urso bruised his hip and pinched a nerve in his neck, leaving him in poor condition when he wrestled Rod Sande of Minnesota for third place. Sande won, 10-6.

BUT URSO HAD qualified for the NCAAs. And he had two weeks to recover and prepare.

"I did not wrestle the first week," he said. "I just worked out and let my body heal."

In his first NCAA match last ment," Urso said. "I started off real . Thursday, Urso avenged his Big Ten loss to Sande by beating him 5-3. The unseeded Urso followed that by upsetting fourth-seeded Jodie Karn of Lock Haven 11-7 Thursday, earning himself a berth in Friday's quarterfi-

The first minutes of the match did not bode well for Urso.

"I went for a takedown," he said. "and (Monaco) stepped over me and put me on my back. He nearly Urso trailed 5-0 before rallying. With 20 seconds left in the match the score was tied 6-6, and Urso decided to gamble.
"I had taken him down two or three times and I thought I could do it again," he said. So he let Monaco escape, a move which scored a point for his opponent, then attacked and got a takedown, scoring two points for himself and earning an 8-7 victo-

IT WAS A risky maneuver, particularly after Monaco had nearly pinned Urso on a takedown attempt early in the match.

"It was definitely a planned move," said Urso. "I thought he felt tired. I didn't think he was as strong as at the beginning of the match. My conditioning helped me a lot."

That proved to be the highlight of the tournament for Urso. In the semis, he faced eventual NCAA champion Royce Alger of Iowa. Alger took him down "maybe a dozen times," said Urso, recording a technical fall at 5:41.

"He's a machine," Urso said of Alger. "He is without a doubt the best I've wrestled this year. He is relentless."

Urso's next match, against Oklahoma State's Mike Farrell, was more painful. In the first minute both wrestlers went for a takedown and collided. Urso broke his nose and was forced to take a two-minute injury timeout. He continued the match, but "felt like I was in a daze." Farrell won 5-1.

Urso then forfeited his match for en this season, returns next year.

"I'M HAPPY I made All-America," said Urso. "Everything I'd worked for came true.

"I felt the same way this year as I felt going into my senior year (at CC). My junior year I had won the districts but wrestled horribly at the regionals and didn't even qualify for the state meet. I was determined to make it my senior year, and I ended up winning the state title. "That's what it was like this year. was obsessed with it. I couldn't sleep at night because it was always on my mind."

Some fetuses aborted for being 'wrong sex'

AP - A small minority of pregnant women use prenatal tests to determine the gender of their fetus, then have an abortion if the fetus is not the sex they wanted, officials

A 36-year-old woman who already had two sons underwent such a test and opted to have an abortion after finding out her fetus was male, said Marie Barr, coordinator of the prenatal diagnosis clinic at Thomas Jefferson University in Philadelphia.

Health care professionals say such abortions are rare. They also discourage the use of the tests, intended to uncover serious genetic delects, as unethical when used to ascertain the sex of the child

A woman in her 30s or 40s who already has three sons may want to continue an unwanted pregnancy only if she knows the fetus is a girl, Dr. Laird Jackson, director of the medical genetics division at Jefferson, said in a recent interview.

The tests are generally performed if a woman has a family history of genetic disease or is 35 or older, because maternal age increases the risk of genetic defects in the fetus. The sex of the fetus is routinely re-

THE STANDARD test, amniocentesis, is performed when the fetus is about 16 weeks old. A newer test not yet in wide use, chorionic villus sampling or CVS, can be performed as early as nine weeks, allowing the option of an earlier abortion.

Of 2,500 women who have had CVS tests at Jefferson during the past three years, Jackson said about 10 had abortions because of the sex of the fetus

Some women who had intended to use the test for sex selection had a change of heart when the gender of the fetus was revealed, he said.

The clinic discourages testing for sex selection, but Jackson said a woman old enough to qualify for testing cannot be refused, whatever her stated motives. Four of about 320 CVS cases in

Congregate living

Accommodating a growing age group

By Corinne Abatt

N 1978 BOB Gillette was looking for a retirement residence for his mother near his own home in Bloomfield Township. But there was nothing suitable. He decided to start his own and call it American House.

Now there are eight American Houses - in Royal Oak (2), Westland, Farmington Hills, Auburn Hills (2), Dearborn and Lincoln Park. Another, in Sterling Heights, will open in May and projects are under way in Livonia, Brighton, Toledo Sarasota, Fla., and Birmingham. So far, Bloomfield Township has eluded him, but he doesn't give up easily.

"I'm the dreamer and I'm the creator." he said, adding that the idea is to strategically place the houses about five miles from each other and to keep them modest in size, even through "other people are building

With the exception of the Livonia American House, which will be larger, the average number of residents Fresh fruit, cookies and beverages in these attractive congregate living centers is about 60. Each person or couple has a private room and bath with all meals served in the common

IN THE FARMINGTON HILLS American House, for example, the private rooms are about 450 square feet and residents bring their own furniture and accessories and have a small refrigerator for snacks and refreshments in their private bath-

Actually, these rooms are the size of a grade school classroom because building, one of four school conversions, was Middlebelt Elementary School before it was completely remodeled. A crisp white Georgian Colonial facade replaced the former angular, nondescript appearance of the one-story brick

Inside, there's a cheery fire in the fireplace in the large living room on cool days. The furnishings are mostly Chippendale and Queen Anne are on the buffet in the dining room for between-meal snacks and lots of smaller areas are ready for visiting, entertaining or playing cards.

One resident still goes to work everyday, others keep their cars in the parking lot, several have cats and one brought her dog with her.

Barbara Lipkowitz, manager of the Farmington Hills American House, said, "I've had some real positive response from people in the community.

A vivacious blond with a ready smile, she treats residents and their families who visit as close friends. Her office near the front door is always open and the traffic in and out is steady. She is like the favorite cousin or daughter who keeps the energy flow going.

I get a big kick out of the residents," she said, "they become real special. I never have a day when I don't want to come to work.

Diane Gillette, company director of operations, said, "Most developers can't conceive that they could effectively operate a building of this

It is the small size, she said, that allows the managers and staff to be totally aware of the individuality of each resident, to create an atmosphere for them that is pleasing and

BOB GILLETTE SAID, "We thoroughly enjoy what we're doing. My background is in nursing homes. I've made it my personal project in life to provide a service to the community in which I live."

It hasn't been easy, even when he wants to take over problem pieces of property such as vacant schools. One of the stumbling blocks is that there is seldom an ordinance covering this special use of congregate housing. Often, he said, "the issue is political and therein lies the key to all these with elevators in each of the two wings with a large courtyard in the middle. The complex will include barber and beauty shop, card, craft and multi-purpose rooms, central dining and living rooms, patios and even a gazebo.

Tailoring interior design to senior needs

Diane Gillette, director of operations for American House Retirement Residences, listed some of the things to be considered when choosing furnishings for a senior or senior residence.

"We look for something (style) most can relate to, but still not be so elegant that they don't feel comfortable," she said mentioning styles such as Chippendale and Queen Anne and wing chairs which work well and colors such as blues and tans.

to consider the physiological changes at that age and our furnishings reflect a lot of that. For instance, there should be contrast between the color of the walls and the carpet. The light should be bright enough so they can distinguish chairs and walls."

HERE ARE good writers in this town and then there are even better writers. All of them have at least one trait in common. They all think they're good some of the time, but not-so-good most of the time

Even when they agree they've written something good, the pats on the back come half-heartedly Even as their fans congratulate them, they're thinking, "Don't those fools know this is just a fluke? Don't they see I'm a fraud? Don't they realize I'll never be able to do it again?"

And, heaven forbid, if it does happen again, it makes life even worse now they have two successes to

Doesn't sound so bad, you say? Then consider this: What if you write your heart out - spend years at it and have no successes?

What if you never convince the publishing world that your stuff is fit to print? Talk about your insecurities then. So who would choose such a life? That's easy. We all would. Anyway, a whole lot of us would.

And a whole lot us spend our offhours talking about those very insecurities. "Are writers born or bred?" we ask over and over, and never come up with an answer.

And, we ask, why is it we can sweat and struggle and nothing comes; then something wonderful a keeper - seems to come right off the top of our heads? Where was it all that time? Can we tap that source again? And if not, why not?

Well, now comes new evidence suggesting that, beyond "born or bred," there might be a third possibility It helps to be a little crazy Constance Holden, a writer for Science Magazine, poses that theory in an article in the April issue of Psychology Today, entitled, "Creativity and the Troubled Mind"

She starts right off with. "A small handful of modern studies indicate there may be something to (a connection between art and madness).

'In particular, they indicate a striking association between creativity and manic depression, or bipolar illness. The phenomenon appears especially pronounced among writers. particularly poets."

And, to prove her point, she gives a description that could apply to nearly every writer and poet in the world today:

"Full-blown cases of manic depression are characterized by episodes of uncontrollable hyperactivitiy, often accompanied by grandiose delusions, and longer period of incapacitating and often suicidal depres-

In one study, University of Iowa psychiatrist Nancy C. Andreason compared the emotional makeup of 30 "topflight" writers from the Iowa Writers' Workshop with 30 "others" (non-writers, I'm assuming) over a 15-year period.

She found that 43 percent of the writers had some degree of manicdepressive illness, compared with 10 percent for the others. Also, alcoholism struck 30 percent of the writers and only 7 percent of the others.

In another study, UCLA psychologist Kay R. Jamison surveyed 47 of the top British artists and writers on this same subject in 1983 and found that, "One-third of the 47 reported that they suffered from severe mood swings, particularly the poets and novelists.

Although Holden allows that, 'Most investigators believe that creative achievement occurs despite, not because of, emotional illness," Jamison found that, "Intense creative episodes are, in many instances, indistinguishable from hy-

But now for the good news. Holden concludes that, "The similarities suggest that mild mania can supply intense energy as well as a way of seeing reality that, filtered through a creative mind and a discerning intellect, can be highly conducive to artistic productivity.

Well, that certain explains things. Now, back to the real world .

TIM HARRISON, poet and novelist from Michigan's north woods ("A Good to Die," "Warlock," "Sundog," "The Theory and the Practice of Rivers and Other Poems") and possessor of what Publisher's Weekly calls an "untrammeled, renegade genius" (hmmm), makes a rare visit to Detroit on Thursday, April 2.

April 1 concert is no joke Bassoon

The Detroit Symphony Bassoon Quartet will present the final musicale concert of the season at 8 p.m. Wednesday, April 1, in the Plymouth Canton High School Little Theater.

ACCORDING TO Williams, who is the group's spokesman, "The quartet is on a crusade to prove the bassoon is really the 'crown' of the orchestra, Quartet is the entire bassoon section instead of its label of 'clown.' So far, in all of their concerts throughout lower Michigan, they have failed miserably in this quest."

Talent abounds at Oakway's cabaret

Oakway Symphony's annual cabaret concert Saturday night in Madonna College's activitities building promises to have more than its share of talented performers.

For one thing, things should get off to a lively start the moment "Fat Bob" Taylor - also known as the "singing plumber" - steps to the microphone to emcee the event. Taylor will also perform several numformance by the Max Davey Singers. The group's jovial leader, Max Davey, will also conduct the symphony and choir in a medley of Broadway favorites. Included will be selections from "Hello, Dolly," and "Cabaret," and Leonard Bernstein's "Tonight" from "West Side Story."

THE SINGERS WILL also present their own stylized versions of "Easing Down the Road," and the Bea-Another highlight will be a per- tles' "Yesterday," as well as "When the Saints Go Marching In" and "As Time Goes By.

Oakway maestro Francesco Di-Blasi will conduct the orchestra but will relinquish the baton to two favorite guest conductors, Sister Francilene, president of Madonna College, and public relations exec Ernest Jones. Both have performed directing duties at other concerts.

Soprano Nancy O'Keefe, recently selected as Miss Livonia, will be featured in a singalong in musical highlights from "The Sound of Mu-Adding to the fun of the evening also will be several benefit drawings, one of which will allow the winner to lead the orchestra in John Philip Sousa's "Stars and Stripes Forever.

Refreshments will be served at 7 p.m., followed by the concert at 8 p.m. Tickets are $10. For information/reservations, call 353-9128 or 355-9280.

Spring art fair coming

The annual Ann Arbor Spring Art Fair will celebrate its ninth season Saturday, April 4, and Sunday, April 5, in the University of Michigan Track and Tennis Building on Ferry Field on State Street.

The fair, which drew 14,000 visitors last year, will include some 250 artists and craftsmen from 27 states, who work in a variety of media - paintings, jewelry, sculpture, glass and much more. Artwork will be available at prices ranging from $5 to $1,000 and may be purchased with cash, checks and credit cards

Admission is $2; children under 10 are admitted free with an adult. Chamber music, featuring the Renard Quartet, will be played throughout the fair. Sitting areas and concessions will be available. Hours are 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Saturday and 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday.

Show promoter is Audree Levy, one of the midwest's foremost promoters of art fairs. She got her start in Ann Arbor and that could be the reason she puts on several shows a year there. Both the winter and spring shows are popular

GRIEVING PROCESS

Challenge of living

When mourning requires some therapy

By Mona Grigg special writer

T'S BEEN suggested that there may be as many ways to grieve as there are ways to die. Grief comes unbidden, uninvited, a process both painful and necessary.

"Grief is a coping process as personal and unique to each person as life and death." says Dr. John Kanine, a psychotherapist and grief counselor at Maximum Living in Birmingham, "but sometimes it gets out of hand and needs to be brought under control. The more we understand abut the processes of grief, the more we are able to control it."

Kanine, a grief counselor for eight area funeral homes, stresses that grieving is a normal and necessary process, but too often feelings of guilt, hostility or abandonment get in the way, keeping the mourner from creating a healthy outlet.

AND, KANINE SAYS, bereavement (the period marking acute loss) knows no predictable time limits. After a violent or instant death, bereavement time is much longer.

"We don't have time to adjust to the death as we would with, say, a death from cancer. Things have been left unfinished. We need time to resolve them."

During a long-term illness leading to death, the grieving process often begins as the illness progresses. Kanine calls it "anticipatory grieving." But that's not to say it's the end of it. Grieving sometimes has a "wave effect," Kanine says. It eases and advances, eases and advances — and when the mourner understands that, the advances can be prepared for and accepted.

In private counseling and in his seminars, Kanine teaches that there are four stages to grief:

• Numbness — This sensation, where nothing seems real, can last from a few hours to a few days.

 Searching — The period for doubts, even anger, it is often accompanied by vivid dreams and halluci-natory images. This stage can last from several weeks to many months.

• Disorientation — Marks the beginning of the growth period. We know we have to move ahead, yet the only way to remember is to look back. We feel pulled in all directions. Feelings of worthlessness surface, insomnia occurs, we feel a bit off balance.

• Resolution — We create a niche for the person who has left, then go on with our lives.

KANINE, WHO WROTE his dissertation and later a book on the grieving process, knows whereof he speaks. In one terrible two-year period, he and his wife lost four family members, including their infant daughter.

"Learning to cope with those deaths, one right after another, was the catalyst for my work as a grief counselor," he says. "There seemed to be the right steps and wrong steps and when I figured out which steps were needed for growth, I realized those same applications could be used by others."

Kanine's book, "The Challenge of Living," outlines those steps in five chapters, with the tone of the book following the stages of grief. The first two chapters, on death awareness, are serious — almost somber. The later chapters, on the steps toward emotional growth, become livelier.

'Grief is a coping process as personal and unique to each person as life and death, but sometimes it gets out of hand and needs to be brought under control.

— John Canine, grief counselor

even light-hearted, as the mourner steps from the shadows into the light.

Kanine sometimes works with school systems, helping to teach children about death and grieving. He worked with a particular group of second graders recently only to be called in a few months later to help them cope, this time for real, when a favorite teacher died.

Though grief therapists sense a real need for early childhood education, the schools are uneasy about offering courses having to do with death, Kanine says. "They're not entirely convinced that it's a subject educators should be concerned with."

GRIEF THERAPY IS, in fact, a fairly recent concept, coming into its own only after publication in 1977 of Elisabeth Kubler-Ross' landmark book, "On Death and Dying."

Even the funeral directors had to be convinced that it was worthwhile program for their clients.

"When I first developed my own program, I was turned down by several funeral directors who thought the whole idea was frivolous," Kanine says, laughing. "Now I see those same directors doing a turnaround, offering grief counseling as an integral part of their packages."

New statutory will is easy to follow one? Surely the very rich should have one. And parents involved in second and third marriages should have one. And people with favorite charities and favorite dogs and cats should have a will

But what about a person with one spouse, a couple of kids, and not much more to claim than a car, a TV and houseful of financed furniture.?

State Rep. Perry Bullard (D-Ann Arbor) sponsor of Public Act 61 of 1986 creating the Michigan Statutory Will, believes the new, easy-to-follow form will appeal to those very families — mid-to-low income families and individuals with uncomplicated estates.

"WE ALL HAVE A right to decide who is to receive our property when we die," Bullard said, "... the benefits of a will are not limited to people who are wealthy."

Meeting to plan the hospice's growth following state licensure and medicare certification are members of Hospice Services of Wayne County: Benjamin Duckworth (left), president of the board of directors; Nora J. Anderson, executive director; Carol Munsell, R.N., volunteer coordinator; and Yvonne Zapert, R.N., patient care coordinator.

Help in drawing up a will

There are several things the Michigan Statutory Will will not do:

• It will not keep out of probate court, though it may make the appearance simpler. If there is a will, the initial purpose of probate is to prove the will is valid.

 You cannot leave more than two cash gifts to people or charities.

• You cannot use the statutory will to establish a trust fund for your children's education, if you have assets outside the state, or if you have a significant interest in a business partnership.

• You cannot use the will to transfer real estate or to reduce inheritance, federal or state taxes on your estate.

• If you have marriaged a second time, you cannnot use the statutory will to provide for children from a first marriage.

YOU CAN:

 Establish who is to receive your property. Personal and household items going to people other than a spouse or children must be listed on a separate sheet and attached to the will. If you are not married, or spouse and children are dead, all other assets can be distributed among your heirs or divided among your heirs and those of your spouse.

 Appoint a personal representative, guardian or conservator for yourself and for your under-age children.

• Fill out the will yourself without the aid of an attorney. (You could, even before the Michigan Statutory Will, write your own signed and dated will and it would be equally valid. You still can.)

BUT CAN IT really be that simple? Is the easy-to-read, easy-to-follow form really foolproof? No, says LaRue Davis, staff attorney at Wayne County Neighborhoodd Legal Services in Inkster.

"The beauty of the statutory will is that it's a prepackaged opportunity to kick out a will, but because it is designed for simplicity, it leaves out too many things."

Davis says one of the problems is in having to use a separate sheet to add instructions on distribution. "That leaves it wide open to fraud, ambiguity and ommission."

HE IS ALSO CONCERNED that people drafting the will on their own "won't realize that a simple erasure, a scratching out or writing over might make the will null and void. A will can be thrown out of probate for so many reasons."

Davis says low-income families have always been able to have a simple will drawn up through Legal Aid at no cost. And, he says, most attorneys can draw up a straightforward, uncomplicated will for $50 to $100.

"In both cases," he said, "you have more leeway about how you want your assets distributed — and you also have the advantage of legal counsel. People so often have trouble filling out even a simple form, and with the statutory will, if you don't do it right, it's like having no will at all."

More and more are preplanning

• Prearranging is a free service done as a courtesy by most funeral homes. A signed form containing biographical informatinn, funeral requests and possible a cost estimate remains at the funeral home, with a copy forwarded to the arranger. Items listed can be changed.

• Prefinancing a funeral means that all costs are paid in advance and held in a separate trust account at a bank or savings and loan. Money is released to the funeral home only on receipt of the death certificate, with costs held to the original agreement. If a client needs to withdraw the funds (they might be moving out of state or need the money for other things) by law the money, including any accrued interest, must be refunded.

• Families with a member about to enter a nursing home or similar Medicaid-paid facility can transfer up to $2,000 into an irrevocable trust account for funeral expenses. Administered through the funeral director by the Michigan Department of Social Services, the funds, once deposited, cannot be withdrawn. The Medicaid client can still hold up to $1,800 in assets in a personal savings account.

Hospice: A friend to the end

F THERE IS such a thing as dying a good death, the hospice movement, originated in England and spreading rapidly throughout the U.S., has, in large part, helped to bring it about.

"Hospice is not a place but a concept of care," said Nora Anderson, executive director of Hospice Services of Western Wayne County, "and the concept is, when all else fails, when there are no more cures, the dying have every right to spend their last days pain-free and in the company of family and friends."

The term "hospice" comes from the word meaning "a shelter for travelers on a long journey." When the prognosis for life expectancy is six months or less and the patient wants no more of heroic, often painful lifesaving efforts, the hospice team comes aboard.

Teams made up of doctors, nurses, psychologists, social workers and volunteer aides work first to bring pain medications under control. Often the hospice team works under the patient's own doctor. The next step is family education.

DR. PAUL WERNER, newly appointed executive director at Hospice of Southeastern Michigan, says the emphasis is on home care. The largest hospice care facility in the state (and one of the largest in the country), Southeastern is one of the few facilities with an inpatient unit.

'Long-term care is not what we're all about. We believe the dying patient should be at home, if at all possible. It is usually where they want to be, and if the family is hesitant at first, concerned with whether they can administer the proper care or can cope with watching someone they love die day by day, our staff can be available around the clock to alleviate their fears.'

Dr. Paul Werner
 executive director
Hospice of SE Michigan

At their headquarters, located on the second floor of the Southfield Rehabilitation Center, they can house 28 patients on a short-term basis. Patients stay just long enough to get their medications stabilized and their pain under control. Then they are able to go home or to a home-like setting.

"Long-term care is not what we're all about," Werner said. "We believe the dying patient should be at home, if at all possible.

"It is usually where they want to be, and if the family is hesitant at first, concerned with whether they can administer the proper care or can cope with watching someone they love die day by day, our staff can be available around the clock to alleviate their fears," he said.

ONE OR MORE members of the hospice staff visit home-care patients every day, and a crew of volunteers does everything from light house-keeping to giving baths to just sitting and talking.

Ninety-five percent of hospice patients have cancer, Werner said. "With cancer, we pretty well know when there is no longer hope for a cure. Then our only goal is to make the patient's last days as comfortable and enriching as possible."

Of the variety of pain medications available, morphine is most often the accepted drug used by hospice workers. It is a natural agent with few side effects, less apt to cause confusion or hallucinations. It can be administered in liquid form, making it easy for family members to give the proper dosage.

Still, there is a prejudice about morphine — a built-in worry about addiction.

"It constantly amazes me," Anderson said, "that there are still some in the medical profession who balk at it for fear of making addicts of their patients. Our question is, with a dying patient what possible difference could it make?"

IN FACT, BOTH Werner and Anderson agree, there is still plenty of prejudice about hospice in general. "There is a definite need to educate — or re-educate — the physicians," said Werner, who is also president of the International Hospice Institute, an organization set up to promote hospice among the professionals and to train hospice fellows.

"For some, it still goes against all we've been taught — that is to make an all-out effort to save lives. We have to learn that a dignified, peaceful death is often better than a prolonged, agonized life."

But things are turning around, Werner said. Southeastern, the first hospice to be licensed by the state (in November 1980), is already expanding by adding three inpatient satellite facilities.

The first, at Bon Secours Nursing

'For some, it still goes against all we've been taught — that is to make an all-out effort to save lives. We have to learn that a dignified, peaceful death is often better than a prolonged, agonized life."

— Dr. Paul Werner executive director Hospice of SE Michigan

Care Center in St. Clair Shores, opens in a few weeks. By early April, Seaway Hospital in Trenton will add a hospice unit, and in July the third unit will open at the Clara Ford Pavilion next to Henry Ford Hospital in Dearborn.

EACH WILL PHASE in from two to an eventual 14 to 20 short-term beds. At the Ford facility, plans are for some of the beds to be used by AIDS patients.

"Ford Hospital has one of the most respected AIDS programs in the country," Werner said, "so it's the appropriate place to begin hospice care for those patients. At this point, AIDS is 100 percent terminal and the numbers of victims are growing each year. Hospice might be a viable alternative for many of them."

Southeastern, owned by a consortium of 20 Detroit-area hospitals, was, until a month ago, the only JCAH-accredited, Medicare-approved inpatient hospice facility in the tri-county area. Since then, two additional facilities have been added: Cottage Hospice in Grosse Pointe and Nora Anderson's group, Hospice Services of Western Wayne County.

"We have a contractual arrangement with Garden City Hospital for six beds as needed, with nursing care and home health care available," Anderson said. "It's an important step for us, and I can see it happening before long for other hospices. There just aren't enough of us to go around, and we all live in dread of having to turn anyone down."

Hospice residents are often treated to outside entertainment. Here, a group of singers from the Up With People group performed when they were in the area.

DECISION-MARINGERS

Bioethical issues are challenge to us all

By Barbara Ziemba special writer

HE BIRTH WAS going to be difficult. Fetal monitors had detected the baby was in respiratory and cardiac distress. After delivery, the attending physician conducted a quick examination to determine causes and treatment. Outwardly, the child was perfectly formed. Internally, the baby had come to full term without ever developing a brain. Rather than put the newborn on life-support systems, which could sustain him for a few days or weeks at best, the doctor decided to withhold treatment. Three hours later, the child was dead.

Sadly, occurrences like this are not uncommon. Medical personnel and lay people alike are confronted with similar situations every day requiring life and death decision-making just as this physician faced.

Compounding the controversy of euthanasia are other pioneering developments in science and medicine. Genetic engineering, organ transplants, artificial insemination and surrogate motherhood are new options that inspire excitement and hope in some, fear and outrage in others. HAS MANKIND BEENable to keep pace with these new challenges? Will we create new legislation to deal with the ramifications of these new techniques? Should/could ethical principles and value judgments be made uniform to comply with each situation, or reflect the unique set of circumstances that each case will undoubtedly present?

The book, "Life Choices: Confronting the Life and Death Decisions Created by Modern Medicine" addresses these issues head-on. Authored by Howard Levine, a doctor of philosophy and the former director of the National Science Foundation's Public Understanding of Science Program, "Life Choices" was the subject of a recent book review and discussion sponsored by Livonia's Friends Of The Library.

LEADING THE DISCUSSION was Robert Skonieczny, a respiratory therapist and educational coordinator on the staff of Mount Clemens General Hospital.

Levine's book presents case histories of specific incidents that pose questions on bioethical or moral issues and how these cases were resolved — or not resolved — in the courts.

They key word here is bioethics — the melding of scientific fact, public policy, value judgments and ethical principles and their impact not only on human life but the quality of human life.

The focus of the book is not to inform the reader of what is right or wrong. The incidents Levine cites fall into a gray area between the two, creating dilemmas that individuals and society are hesitant to grapple with.

ONE OF THE CONCEPTS Sko-

ONE OF THE CONCEPTS Skonieczny addressed was the idea of informed consent, which is becoming a thorny issue within the medical community. It is a legal concept where the patient is informed of the following issues: a description of the procedure, any alternative methods of treatment, the risk of death or disability that may result from the procedure, the probable result of the proposed treatment, and any other items told to a patient before the procedure takes place.

"This is not an educated consent, rather an acknowledgement on the patient's part that he or she has been informed of these specific issues," Skonieczny explained. "The physician is not obliged to make the patient understand fully all the ramifications of a proposed method of treatment."

In this context, Skonieczny said, a patient should decide how much information he or she is comfortable with to arrive at a lucid decision. Also, the patient should allow enough time to consider all the possible outcomes and options, not wait until the last minute and end up feeling ignored in the decision-making process, Skonieczny advised advised.

THE "LIVING WILL" has become a popular concept in recent years. It is a statement whereby an individual specifies that "no extraordinary measures" are to be taken to keep them alive in case of an accident or illness. Unfortunately, they have often proven to be difficult to carry out.

Responding to a question from a member of the audience, Skonieczny said, "I may stipulate now that no heart/lung machine, no respirator or no dialysis machine are to be used to keep me alive. But there may be machines 20 years from now you and I may not know about. So, a living will is, by necessity, very vague. It would be nearly impossible to allow for every possible contingency.

"ALSO, 'NO extraordinary measures' is a phrase that means different things to different people. What someone may consider 'heroic' may, to me, be routine. I work with life-support machines every day. Exactly where do heroic measures take up and leave off?"

Finally, Skonieczny said there is no legal definition of a living will in the state of Michigan. While other states may have attempted to recognize such concepts on paper, in practice the legislation offers few guidelines.

In the same vein, when does "passive" euthanasia cross over into "active" euthanasia? How would a terminally ill person stipulate that they do not wish to follow or continue a prescribed course of treatment without appearing to be actively pursuing their own death?

Often, the physical state of the patient has deteriorated to a point where their mental competence is questioned, further complicating the issue.

In the case of Elizabeth Bouvier, the Seattle woman suffering from cerebral palsy who sought to force the hospital where she was a patient to discontinue feeding her, the court ruled against her because she stated that "she wanted to die."

Explained Skonieczny, "She could actively not want to be fed, but she could not verbalize 'I want to die.' As soon as she said that, the courts had to rule against her. Society maintains that suicide is legally and morally wrong."

IN THIS MATTER, Skonieczny could speak from personal experience. He found himself in the position of deciding whether or not to resuscitate his dying father. He also counseled his 87-year-old grandmother, who was dying of cancer, with her decision to discontinue chemotherapy and be discharged from the hospital.

"We had to make sure that it came across that she wanted to go home, period, not that she wanted to go home and die. Otherwise, the hospital had the right to keep her there and continue treating her."

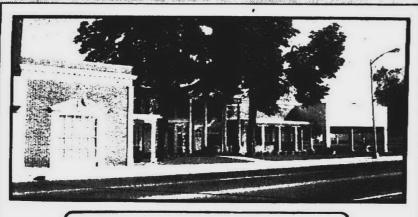

Another sensitive area is the allocation of medical resources for a growing population.

While diseases such as smallpox, polio and tuberculosis have diminshed greatly, more people are suffering from long-term, debilitating illnesses that require increasing amounts of medical care. Couple that with a population that is living longer and the increasing high cost of the latest medical technology, and the problem seems overwhelming.

ORGAN TRANSPLANTS cost approximately $100,000 to $200,000. Neither that fee nor insurance covers the cost of special rejection-fighting drugs an organ transplant patient must take every day for the rest of their life. These drugs can cost $20,000 a year.

Would society best be served if the money allocated to one organ recipient was channelled into wellness programs reaching a wider segment of the population? Or do individuals have the right to receive whatever treatment is necessary to alleviate their medical problems? Again, Levine provides his reader with no answers to these questions.

The benefits and problems advances in medical technology present to society can seem staggering. "Life Choices" emphasizes the importance of informed decision-making, letting these advances work for us, not against us.

PRE-PLANNING TOTAL

More and more are choosing to preplan final rites

By Mona Grigg special writer

ARLY LAST year a woman still young and full of zest but with a killer disease stalking her, sat down and wrote a letter to her minister. In it she described with much thought and humor the things she would like to see at her own funeral.

Within a matter of weeks the minister stood at his pulpit and read the letter to the attending mourners. All of the flowers should be a certain color, she wrote, as should the altar cloths and the minister's robe. She would like certain songs — happy, uplifting songs — to be sung, and could he please arrange for the sun to be shining? (He did — or Somebody did — it was.)

SHE HAD PREARRANGED her own funeral — her last gift to her grateful family — and while she did it in her own inimitable way what she did was not unique.

More and more, famlies are prearranging their own funerals. For most it is not so much to brand the proceedings with a lasting impression of one's own personality as it is to fill a religious or philosophical or, more often, a practical need.

Doris Gervais, a representative at R.G. & G.R. Harris Funeral Homes, says almost anybody benefits from funeral pre-planning.

"It's another loose end to tie up," she said. "Many of our clients are older couples in their second marriages with children from each marriage. If they say, in writing, 'Yes, we want to be buried together, and here is how we want things done,' it eliminates any and all arguments."

AL JACKMAN, a pre-need counselor for Harry J. Will Funeral Homes takes his message around to churches and senior citizens' groups, usually at their request.

"Pre-arranging makes sense in today's transient society. We have retirees who may spend their winters traveling all over the place. The sad truth is that many of them die away from home. If they've pre-arranged, when their families get the call, they know exactly what to do."

New service

Often it's the children who have moved away, Jackman says.

"So parents might pre-arrange to spare their children from having to come back into town and make decisions with a stranger at a moment's notice. Years down the road the children may decide they should have done things differently — but if it's down on paper, with every detail taken care of, mistakes can't be made."

Jackman says the majority of prearrangements are done by family members planning an ill or elderly person's funeral.

"I'd say only 25 percent of our preneed clients are here to arrange their own funerals; the remaining 75 percent arrange someone else's, often at their request. And in some pre-arrangements it's done at the recommendation of the family attorney."

THERE ARE OTHER things to consider besides just the funeral, says Leonard A. Turowski, from Turowski & Sons and Harvey A Neely Funeral Homes.

"We counsel our clients to consider everything from making a will to taking an inventory of what they own. Somebody should know where everything is — insurance policies, wills, titles to the house and the car. It's amazing how many people want to talk about funerals but haven't thought about a simple thing like letting a family member know where important papers are located."

Jackman agrees, and at the Wills Funeral Homes they offer a follow-up

"Our coordinator, Michelle Walsh, goes out to the family home if need be to look over important papers with them. She'll help them file for Social Security and veteran's death benefits — things a lot of people don't even know they're eligible for — and will even drive people to wherever they need to go to fill out forms."

But this is nothing new, Jackman says, they've been doing it for 25 years.

Here are some things you need to know about prearranging and prefinancing a funeral.

● Funeral homes are required by law to provide itemized price lists of all expenses, excluding cemetery costs. This can also be done by telephone. "Shopping around is getting fairly common," Gervais says. "We get at least two or three inquiries a week about funeral costs and services."

Talking about death right now can make your life a lot easier, right now.

Oakland Hills Memorial Gardens offers complete pre-arranged programs to accommodate any preference. Our new Chapel Mausoleum is priced comparably to conventional burial; From $2539 total cost including bronze inscription per crypt. Terms up to 60 months are arranged.
