Township in black by $1.7 million

By Doug Funke staff writer

What Plymouth Township officials estimated would be a 1986 general fund budget surplus of $115,100 turned out to be a windfall of $1 million, according to auditor Plante &

That surplus, added to a balance of $688,600 at the beginning of 1986, gave the township a fund balance of nearly $1.7 million entering the current budget year on Jan. 1.

All basic township operations except water and sewer service are financed through the general ment.

We've always been conservative in budget estimates," said Supervisor Maurice Breen. "When we're conservative and the economy goes bust, we're in great shape. When it booms, it looks like bad budgeting."

Last year, actual revenues of $4.3 million exceeded estimates of $3.4 million by almost $900,000, auditors indicated.

THE AMOUNT in major categories by which dollars collected exceeded budgeted figures were identified by Breen as:

• $448,000 in local tax revenue attributed to rising values of existing property and new development. $251,800 in state revenue shar-

• $176,700 in building permit and inspection fees.

General fund expenses incurred last year totalled $3.3 million, $20,900 less than budgeted, auditors indicated.

Breen said he doesn't consider a $1.7 surplus excessive considering that a three-month reserve - comparable to a household's emergency fund - would amount to $750,000.

"Our expense level will increase in 1987," he said.

The township board just approved the purchase of a street sweeper and the hiring of another full-time DPW employee. Those expenses, estimatbuilding department, under consideration, also would be charged to the fund balance, Breen said. Estimated cost: about $75,000. The installation of any sidewalks authorized this year by the township board with general fund money also would tap into the fund balance, the supervisor said. Rough estimates of four projects, excluding engineering plans, totaled $79.500.

A decrease in the township's tax rate for operations - currently at the charter maximum of $4 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation isn't likely, Breen said.

'We're only 8 percent of the total bill now. The last time we reduced, no one noticed. No one cared.

"Property taxes are not supporting the service level in this community," Breen said. The audit indicated $1.5 million in revenue last year from property taxes, $1.3 million from state shared revenues, he

'Connect'

Adult education has its day

staff writer

Local educators and adult educa tion students had a chance to flex their political muscles recently

Students and educators traveled to Lansing March 24, for the Wayne Monroe Association of Adult and Community Education's state government "Connect" program.

Seventeen school districts from best locations for classes. Wayne and Monroe counties were represented

The keynote speaker was Robert Bowman, state treasurer. Participants met with area legislators and attended issue sessions on jobs, senlor programs, adult education and substance abuse.

About 1,300 adult education students gathered for the program at tours of the state Capitol.

"All in all, it's an excellent educational opportunity," said Jack Kirksey, director of community education for the Livonia Public Schools.

KIRKSEY WAS co-chairman of the program, along with Stan Mazur of Southgate Community Schools. · The Livonia schools administrator served in the Michigan Legislature from 1977 to 1985, representing Livonia and the surrounding area.

Livonia sent about 100 students to The program was designed to help make adult education students aware of their state government and to make legislators more aware of the needs of adult students.

"Funding is always a problem," Kirksey said. The Livonia district tries to operate its adult education program on a self-supporting basis, volvement with Lansing, such as a

OTHER ISSUES facing adult education are recruiting and maintaining a quality staff and finding the Garden City Public Schools' Norm Stevens agreed that funding is a concern. Garden City sent 75 to 100 students and staff to the program.

"Funding is one, continuing funding for the programs. We service a lot of people.

There's never been an adult education day in Lansing, a student government day This is their constituency and they have a chance to see them first hand

The day's events can be incorporated into classroom discussions, Masteller said For many of the foreign-born students, the program was their first time seeing state government in action

Shirley Tarrant, adult education specialist with the Redford Union Schools, agreed the program was a good learning opportunity.

We just thought this would be a really good experience for our students." Redford Union sent some 40 students and staff to the program. Areas such as Michigan history and how a bill becomes law have been incorporated into classroom instruction, Tarrant said.

"I think we try to do that in adult education all the time, not just on one day like this."

AREA EDUCATORS agreed the four issue sessions on jobs, senior programs, adult education and substance abuse were timely, relevant

"I believe that was probably one of the biggest motivating factors," said Michael Holuta, location manager in adult/community education for the Wayne-Westland Community The Wayne-Westland district sent

Adult education classes have long history in state

Although the focus at the Tuesday, March 24, adult education program in Lansing was on current events, some history also was included.

Michigan has a rich history of providing adult education, according to Dr. Ronald Gillum, director of adult extended learning services for the Michigan Department of Education.

The first such program began in 1872 in Grand Rapids. Those classes met in the evening.

"The individuals in Detroit liked what they saw in Grand Rapids," Gillum told those attending one of the day's issue sessions. A few years later in 1875, Detroit educators decided to start an adult education program.

The 1875 report of Detroit's schools superintendent said the adult education classes were meeting "seriously felt needs."

THE CLASSES were helpful for students who couldn't go to school during the day because of work, the report said. No students in the city were more manageable, earnest and industrious.

'He said their grades were excellent, their attendance was excellent," Gillum said. The superintendent pleaded to have the adult education program expanded. Adult education programs soon began to appear throughout the state. In the early 1900s, the Detroit schools' Frank Cody outlined three goals for adult education programs. The first was to help immigrants in the best possible way as they adjusted to life in the United States.

"It happened in the 1900s and it's still going on today," Gillum said. Cody's second goal was for programs to help those whose education had been interrupted. His third goal was to help those who wanted to advance in their work or to change their vocation. "This has to remain one of our major goals."

Today, Michigan's adult education students account for an investment of some $200 million each year, generated from state and local levels. It's important for students and staff to show the investment is a wise one,

"If we can't say that, we're going to be in trouble over the next few years.'

STUDENTS WHO are unhappy about their adult education programs need to make those concerns known, Gillum said.

"You can't be shy about that." Some students enroll in adult education programs but don't finish those pro-

State goal:

By Tim Michard staff writter

To get more tourist dollars, Michigan will have to cut into other states' hare of the pie - particularly the Yuppie share.

"There will be a levelling off in the dollars spent on travel growth," state Commerce Director Doug Ross told a tourist industry conference in Detroit this week.

"If we want to grow, we have to take a larger market share," he said, targetting such "sunshine" states as Cillifornia and Florida.

ROSS, A former state senator from Oakland County, said people will take more short vacations rather than the two-week trips to a campground or resort. He cited three areas for business to achieve its goal of a $20 billion tourist industry in five years:

• Young urban professionals -So-called Yuppies will spend freely on "status vacations, upscale vaca-

• Michiganians - "Find out what vacation experiences are luring them out of the state. What do we have to keep them?"

• Handicappers - "We have some of the toughest laws" to give them access to public facilities.

He led off a panel of state officials in the fourth annual Governor's Conference on Tourism in the Renaissance Center in downtown Detroit.

IT WAS A bureaucratic love-in as

"We're compulsive about it. We're fanatical about it," Ross said.

They gave credit to John Savich, director of the Michigan Travel Bureau and the man designated by Blanchard to make tourism promo-tion a multi-departmental task.

The cooperative approach was Blanchard's answer to state Senate efforts to create a 20th administrative department devoted to tourism.

PAUL KINDINGER, director of the state Agriculture Department, had a goodie for southeastern Michigan. The Great Lakes International Draft Horse Show in October is scheduled for the State Fairgrounds Coliseum in Detroit, and it will be touted in color tour promotions throughout Indiana and Ohio, too.

The Agriculture Department's promotion of "U-pick" farms in southwestern Michigan the last two summers has resulted in "a noticeable increase in traffic," Kindinger

He said his department would work with Commerce and the others to make consumers more conscious of Michigan food products, including

"Michign consumers want to purchase Michigan-made and grown products but find it difficult to identify them," said Kindinger, promis-

California in the diversity of raw products grown within its borders."

NATURAL RESOURCES, a department known for protecting the environment and catering to hunters and fishermen, has a new outlook, said Mariene Fluharty, chairman of the Natural Resources Commission.

"Our top priority is to increase tourism," said the Midland environmentalist. She filled in for DNR director Gordon Guyer, who is in China obtaining a new batch of pheasant

Among DNR's efforts, Fluharty said, will be:

e Promotion of the Lake Huron fishery similar to the promotion of Lake Michigan. · A new DNR office of coordinator of economic development. . A Rails to Trails program, in which former railroad beds are converted to trails for snowmobiling. horseback riding, bicycling, hiking

"WELCOME CENTERS" on I-78 at Motroe and I-94 at New Buffalo will be expanded, said James Pits, director of the state Department of Transportation.

A multi-state promotion of driving tours around Lake Michigan will be undertaken with Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin, he said.

Drivers approaching the Mackinae Straits Bridge will be able to pick up informational radio messages.

Pitz said M-DOT is being made far more sensitive to "customers." It has engaged in a heavy media information campaign to ease traffic problems caused by reconstruction of the Lodge Freeway from downtown Detroit to Seven Mile. The "smile" signs at other construction sites around the state are an attempt to show motorists "we care," he

Two-year colleges seek state aid for job growth

On paper it looks good. State govt has a formula for con es that give them $212

In the final world it's different, the final world it's different, thousand College President Richard Richard I did a legislative panalistate did amounts to just $192 killion in Cov. James J. Blanchard's philosoft budget.

The sign more just to keep us there we are," McDowell said last took in a hearing of the House Ap-

River Actions subcommittee on community colleges.

THE MODEL FORMULA would give Schoolcraft $7.9 million in state aid, but Blanchard recommended an even $7 million for the fiscal year beginning next Oct. 1 - an increase of 4.8 percent from the current $6.7

"We hope the Senate whomps it up (the recommended aid figure), McDowell said in an interview.

'We are making progress. We particularly appreciate the job-retraining funds for high technology," McDowell told lawmakers during a two-hour hearing at Oakland Community College's Auburn Hills Cam-

"We continue to talk about roofs and parking lots, which aren't very sexy, but they absorb a lot of dollars.

Money is needed needed to improve libraries and computer systems, which support instructional effort, McDowell said.

But the college got just 34 percent from state aid, compared to an average of 41 percent for all two-year colleges,

Conversely, Schoolcraft relies more heavily on local property taxes
— 34 percent of its budget total compared to a state average of 25 percent.

Besides $192 million in general aid to community colleges, Blanchard's budget recommends $4 million for job training. Of that, each of the 29 community colleges would be allocated $50,000 — adding up to $1.45 million. The other $2.55 million is awarded on the basis of individual competitive grants.

McDowell said he would prefer to double the base grant to $100,000 per college. McDowell said industry looks to community colleges - particularly those like Schoolcraft in the high-tech belt - for hands-on job

A NEW APPROACH to giving money to two-year colleges needs to be worked out, said R. Stephen Nicholson, chancellor of Oakland Community College.

"State aid is based on formulas with full-time-equated students. We need formulas based on goals," Nicholson said.

OCC and eight other two-year public colleges argued that the sophistiive new equipment that "en-nt-driven" aid formulas fail to often fatal problem before. But because my column has not appeared in Quebec until recently, and the rest of us could do with a review, I will be pleased to comment on it again.

Hypothermia occurs when the body temperature falls below 35 de-grees C (95 F). The elderly are more vulnerable because of some physical changes that go along with growing older, i.e., a decrease in the amount of body-fat that is just below the skin, poor circulation and a loss of hair over the entire body.

Other contributing factors are poor diet, lark of exercise and refusal to wear warm clothing both indoors and out.

Some of the symptoms of hypothermia are feelings of fatigue, drowsiness, weathers, poor coordination, forgetfulness, confusion and even stupor Incidenced cases the slowed to such an extent that they are hard to detect.

With hypothermia the skin feels equi everywhere, even on the areas protected with clothing. The victims do not shiver and will often say that they do not even feel cold.

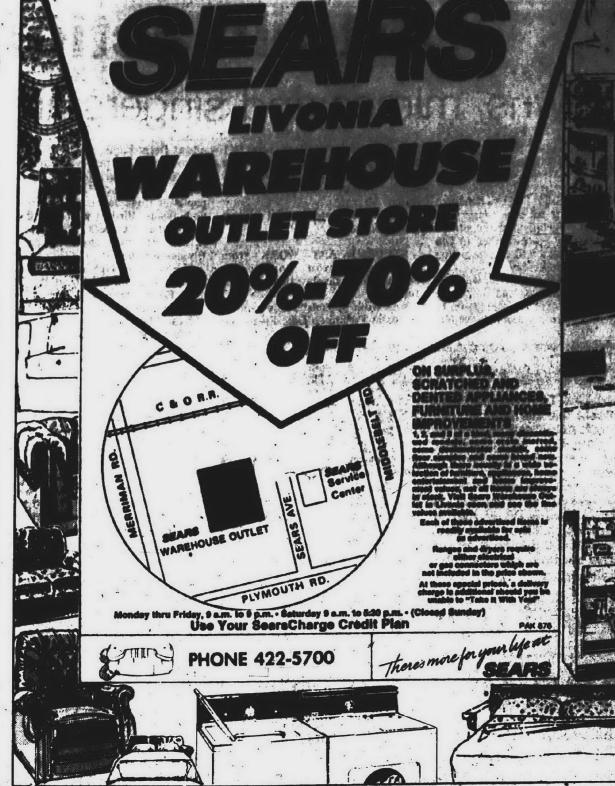

THE BEST place for hypothermia to be diagnosed and treated is in the hospital. So if this problem is sus-pected, medical advice should be sought at once.

It is not advisable to have the victim take a warm bath or be placed under an electric blanket. Such measures do more harm than good.

Hypothermia can be prevented by wearing warm clothing at all times, indoors and out, during cold winter months. Long underwear worn both day and night is very helpful. Other clothing, preferably made of wool, should be worn in layers. Wearing a hat indoors particularly during the night will prevent a high percentage of heat loss.

Other preventive measures include eating a well-balanced diet. avoiding alcohol, exercising daily and using an electric blanket on a low setting at night.

Rescue of truck driver

Plymouth Township firefighters and police officers use the jaws of life cutting tool to extract Ralph Hollis from the cab of his truck Monday night on the embankment of M-14 just west of Sheldon Road. Police said that Hollis's semi-tractor loaded with frozen poultry hit a patch of ice on the freeway, jack-kniled, hit a guard rail, became airborne, then came to rest on the embankment. Hollis, 58, of Northville, was wearing a seatbelt and driving at an estimated 40 to 45 miles per hour when he hit the ice at about 10 p.m., police said. Hollis sustained a broken arm, broken leg and head lacerations, police reported, and was listed Tuesday in serious condition at St. Joseph Hospital, Ypsijanti. He wasn't ticketed. Wayne County refused to respond to several requests to deal with the slippery freeway prior to the mishap, township police said. Five other motorists lost control of their vehicles there Monday night, but none was injured, police said. That section of M-14 subsequently was closed by police.

Children vital enough to require them schools — specifically in Shurch-operated schools — be certified by the state.

Last month, supporters of church-operated schools rallied in front of the state Capitol in Lansing to urge lawmakers to change the law requiring state certification of teachers for private schools.

Locally, Central Baptist School in Plymouth is positioning itself to possibly become a test case on that issue. The school has decided against compliance with the state law because it doesn't believe the state has any business requiring certification of teachers in Christian schools.

Other church-operated schools in Plymouth-Canton have hired certified staff and don't voice any particular ob-

AT ISSUE is the Michigan Constitution requirement that the Legislature maintain free public schools "as defined by law."

The state assumes a legal obligation for insuring all its residents have equal access to an education. The state maintains it has the right to establish minimal standards for those responsible for educating our people. Many parents in Plymouth-Canton feel the state has no business interfering with their family life, and that the decision to send children to a non-pubelic school is a private right that can be

NE ISSUE facing the Michigan freely exercised. Parents on both the liberal and conservative spectrums fear undue state intervention in influencing undue state intervention in influencing the minds of children.

Basically, certification requires that a teacher have a bachelor's degree with at least 40 credit hours in liberal arts, 20 hours in education and six hours in student teaching. Additionally, a secondary teacher must have three semester hours in the teaching of reading, 30 credit hours in a major field of study, 20 hours in a minor. The standard is adopted by the Michigan Board of Education.

THE MAIN arguments of those who support certification standards are:

· Private schools that accept taxsupported services (such as busing, vocational education or special education) should be willing to accept some state standards.

• Because the state has an obligation to fund unemployment payments, general assistance, jail space and other services necessitated in part by poor education, the state has a financial inits citizens.

The role of private education in society is generally accepted, even by pub- accountable. Until another yardstick lic educators who recognize public edu- can be implemented statewide, certification has a great challenge trying to be cation may be the best standard to use. everything to all people.

The issue, then, has nothing to do with the existence of private schools but whether the state should become involved in the quality of education offered at such schools.

THE WISE consumer shopping for education will examine, among other factors, the quality of instructors at a private school.

Certification is one way to measure quality as it relates to professional training a practitioner must possess. Another method, suggested by the Rev. Stanley Jenkins of Central Baptist, is to examine test scores of students enrolled there because output is what counts. In this other educators agree. Some argue that results of any educational system are much more important to examine and measure than "pedigree" qualifications of teachers.

There certainly is merit in challenging the validity of certification as an ultimate test of quality. But there should be a measure. Anyone involved in the education of children, whether in the public or private sector, should not shrink away from standards. There is a healthy level of accountability that comes with having to meet minimum standards.

While we may disagree with what those standards may be, hopefully we terest in assuring adequate education of can agree that the education of our children is too important not to be measured or not to have the deliverers held

Whether all private schools, regardless of the presence or lack of public funding, should meet minimum standards will be decided by the courts as legal authorities will be the ultimate

Prepare yourself for elderly years

FACE IT. Getting old scares the beck out of most everybody. We're a society that just doesn't handle it very well.

And not too many years ago, it seemed as if we would never have to face it. After all, we were the youth generation - eternally young, relentlessly naive and totally unprepared for what the future would bring.

But the baby-boomers, those brash young voices of the '60s, are now middle-aged and a little nervous.

My God, we're getting old.

Not only are we getting old, but our parents are, well, our parents are elderly — and they need special handling.

SURE, SURE, never seemed possible a few years back. But mom or dad just might need a nursing home soon. We've all got so many questions.

How expensive is nursing home care? And what's the difference between one nursing home and another, anyway? From whom can I get reliable information? What should I fook for in a facility, and what should I know before shopping around?

You really should sit down and spend some time reading the special all-news section "Nursing home care in the '80s."

WE BELIEVE that nursing homes are an issue of critical importance in today's society. Our team of reporters, photographers and editors worked for several months in putting together a report, which you will find educational and enlightening.

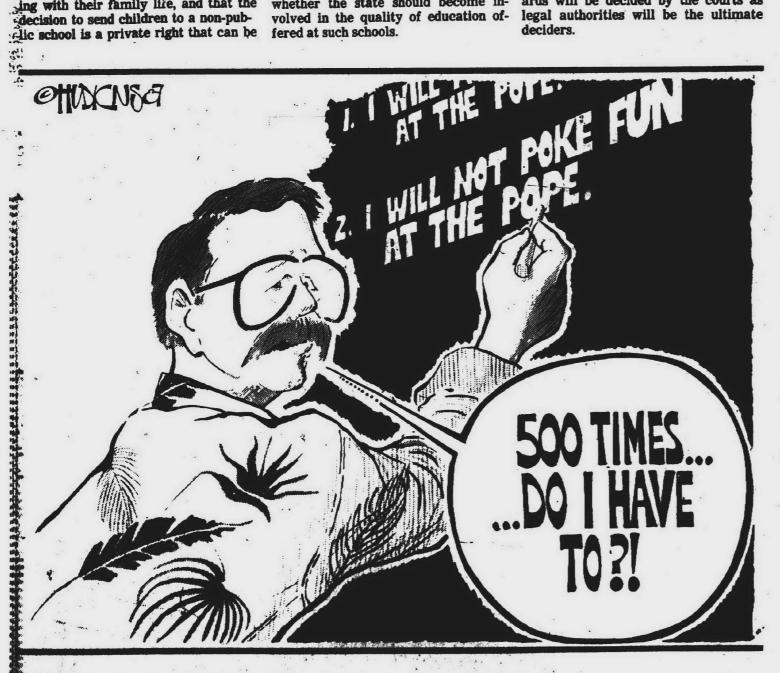

You'll read about how Michigan has implemented stricter guidelines for nursing homes and how they are monitored by the state.

You'll get a first-hand account of what it's like to go out and find a nursing home for a loved one.

Our newsroom team also clears up some of the confusion about Medicaid and how it fits into the nursing home reimbursement system. You'll read about good homes and bad and how one nursing home overcame its bad image.

My favorite bit of writing is on Jimmy Creighton, 86, who everyday visits his sister Cathy, 89, in a nursing home. It's a poignant report and, if nothing else, makes you feel like the whole world hasn't gone to hell in a hand bas-

School is the authority figure

I would like to reply to both sides of the Diane Daskalakis and the Plym-ath-Cartin school controversy.

If it is not OK to print quotations from the film in the paper, then why let them be blasted from the screen in the schools where the kids are that get the Observer in their home. The school is the authority figure and this makes it OK to use these words any place. Would you as a parent use these words in your home in front of your kids and your grandparents?

The present system is all stacked against the family who is trying to give their kids good guidelines with which to make judgments on their behaviors. It is the kids who make the judgments on their own behavior who have to suffer the consequences of that behavior; or do you as a parent enjoy balling them out of their consequences?

Why not give them a good start with-

Terror in the night "WHAT'S THAT NOISE?"

I didn't know. I didn't care. It was 3 in the morning, for cripe's sake. Besides, women are always hearing strange noises. So, I lied.

"It's the branches," I mumbled. "The wind is making them hit the house."

My wife did not believe that for a second. We had lived in the house for two years. Even during near-tornadoes, the branches had never brushed against the house. But she wanted to believe. So she let the ruse continue for about five minutes.

"Rich, that is not a branch," she then said, with an urgency that said sleep would not come until the noise was explained.

I did not want to know the origin. It could have been a squirrel in the attic. It could have been the plumbing problem was acting up. It could have been a prowler. I was ill-prepared to deal with

BUT I HAD to look. Faking bravado, I swaggered to the window and tugged open the drapes. And laughed. The noise was the lid of a garbage can, blown from a neighbor's yard and scraping across the crusty snow. It was nothing, of course. That's the way it usually is . . unless you lived in a peaceful Beverly Hills neighborhood last week. There, a couple was awakened at 2:30 a.m. by "one of those noises you know you have to check," according to the young husband, Instead of something to laugh about, he ran into three armed men robbing his house.

For 30 minutes, the intruders terrorized the couple, binding them, threatening them and making a mockery of both the security of the home and the belief that you can move away from crime.

Beverly Hills is as tranquil as they come. Well-kept homes. Responsible inhabitants. Unlike Southfield or Redford or Livonia, there is no major freeway serving as easy access and egress for criminal outsiders. The victim's home off Southfield Road is not difficult to reach, but there are many much easier. If their home was attacked randomly, as it appears, then any home can be attacked. If a deadbolt failed to pretect them, and it didn't, then is there any protection short of turning your home into a prison?

CRIME CANNOT be excused by social arguments. Not every crook was deprived and most youngsters from poor backgrounds do not grow up to be thugs. There is a standard of behavior that society can and must demand regardless of personal backgrounds.

But neither should the suburbs merely cluck their tongues at the poverty, poor educational opportunities and high unemployment of inner cities. Too many people make political hay by bashing Detroit or Coleman Young. It's a form of racism and, like most prejudice, it's a costly way of sticking one's head in the sand.

Instead of trying to put myself back to sleep by counting sheep, I chuldn't keep my mind from recounting the many employers I have had ing the many employers I have had — and their wives.

For instance, there was a publisher who never walked through the city moun without his police dog at his side. I wouldn't say he was exactly aloof, but the best we got from a "Good morning,

But there also have been some great tutors. Prits Crisler was one when he was the University of Michigan's affiliate director and I served as his sports information director in the era from Tom Harmon to Elroy Hirsch. Ulterior Motive: "Ulterior" comes from word "ultra," meaning "extra-better." "Motive" is shortness for "auto-motive," being explained above. So: "extra-better moving car." Sentence: Mr. Dealer, I not wanting Yugo. Are you having ulterior motive?

Recall: This word is much in news to explain how some high-quality automotives come from factory with parts missing or in backwards. When manager discover parts-missing cars gone from factory, he makes call to bring back automotives before they all lose "motives." If car not coming back right away, manager make call again, or "re-call." Manager sentence: Yesterday I asking second time some cars come tives. In ancient days, car not run with back factory, but there are so many I not remembering exactly what I recall.

Glove Compartment: If you wanting snap suspenders of Factory Manager with your much knowledge of automotives, then learn this car part. "Glove" meaning babushka for hands. In America is many kinds gloves. Is heavy glove to keep hands from freeze if wind from Siberia. Is fancy light glove for wear in evening for party (non-Communist) or Bolshoi Ballet. Is also boxing glove, put on if two auto-motives bump together and you wanting to settle argument.
Where keep such gloves is called "compartment," meaning getting together—not with "de" (like in "de-partment") which means falling apart. So, "Glove Compartment" meaning place for many hand-babushkas to get together. Sentence: Mr. Factory Manager, why you building Glove Compartment so tiny there being no room for gloves?

Crank Case: Like above, using this word show "swell" knowledge automo-

gas. It necessary driver "wind up" can before going. To do this, he carry iron "crank" which, he put in car front and "wind up." Then he drive car two blocks before "wind up" again. Place in chr where keep such crank is called "case." Today automotives have case in trunk but because all using gas to run car, no needing crank anymore. Sentence: Ha. Mr. Factory Manager, I know about tricky cars today. Have Crank Case, but no crank there. Same as Glove Compartment where no gloves. Is big joke

Court: Women first Locals debate affirmative action ruling

Supporters call it "a valid attempt to rectify past discrimination." Detractors say it is "a terrible mistake" that will usher in an era of reverse discrimination.

But last week's U.S. Supreme Court ruling on affirmative action allowing companies to voluntarily grant affirmative action job promotions to female employees at the expense of arguably better-qualified males - is now the law of the land.

The 6-3 high court decision allows employers to give preferential promotions to women even without evidence of past discrimination.

Its announcement March 25 was cause for celebration among local women's rights activists.

"I'm pleased to see the U.S. Supreme Court make sex a suspect classification and acknowledge a long history of discrimination against women," said Livonia resident Laura Callow, former co-chair of Michigan ERAmerica. "There is a time for the righting of past wrongs. It's a valid attempt toward rectifying past practices and bringing people into the system."

FORMER UAW president Douglas Fraser, a Northville resident, said he was "very supportive" of the

"No one denies that discrimination has taken place." Fraser said. "If you don't correct the sins of the past now, when do you do it? Do you let them go on in perpetuity?"

For conservatives, including President Reagan, the decision was a stinging defeat.

Elaine Donnelly, a Livonia resident and political activist who lobbied against the ERA, called the decision "regrettable."

"It says it's all right to discriminate," Donnelly said. "It gives benefits to people who weren't the victims of discrimination and creates a new class of victims. It's a terrible

State Sen. R. Robert Geake, R-Northville, said the ruling was a step backward for everyone.

"I was very surprised by the court's decision," said Geake, whose district includes Livonia, Plymouth, Canton and Redford. "I thought the court was carving out a policy of equal access to jobs and promotions regardless of race and sex. This appears to be a step backward to quo-

Representatives of General Motors Corp., Ford Motor Co. and Consumer's Power, three of Michigan's largest employers, say they give women equal opportunity for advancement but won't target specific groups for promotions.

Plymouth resident Dick Horner. formerly vice president of a major airline, said affirmative action should best be left in corporate

"If you look at corporations today, you'll see a lot of women in executive positions," -Horner said. "My feeling is that companies are getting the message without having a gun put to their backs."

Local job counselors cheered the ruling but said it probably wouldn't affect their programs.

'We've always worked on the assumption that you can do what you intend to do," said Liz Barker, coordinator of Plymouth-Canton Schools adult job placement services. "I grew up in a family that streesed idea, with the help of my staff."

VIRGINIA WILHELM, director of Schoolcraft College's Women's Resource Center, called the ruling "a great step," with one potential draw-

"I wouldn't like people to have the opinion that women are getting promotions just because they are women." Wilhelm said.

Supreme Court justices ruled in favor of a California county's affirmative action program. Road yard clerk Diane Joyce was promoted to road dispatcher in 1980 under the Santa Clara County affirmative action program, even though fellow clerk Paul Johnson scored two points higher on an oral jobscreening exam and was unanimously recommended for the job by examiners.

Basing their ruling upon 1964 civil rights law, the justices upheld affirmative action as a means of creating a more sexually balanced workplace. Previously affirmative action efforts were targeted toward creating a more racially balanced

"VOLUNTARY employer action can play a crucial role in . . . eliminating the effects of discrimination in the workplace . . ," wrote Justice William J. Brennan in the majority

"I'm delighted (Justice) Sandra Day O'Connor voted in favor, in a way she's a beneficiary of affirmative action regardless of President Reagan's position."

disagreed with the decision but wouldn't "quarrel with it" according to the Associated Press.

"All our position has been is that we shouldn't let affirmative action deteriorate into a quota system that would the be counter-discriminatory," Reagan said. "Obviously, I disagree with the decision, but the court made it, and I'm not going to quarrel with that."

Janet Cooper, director of the Michigan Civil Rights Department's legal bureau, said she doubted whether affirmative action programs would promote reverse dis-

"The employer or department or whatever looks at their workforce and decides whether there is significant underutilization in this area, that area or another area," Cooper told the Associated Press. "If there is, they set some kind of goal. Usually, the goal is to be reasonable and temporary and you never get into a situation where the only people who get promoted are minorities and Callow said affirmative action wouldn be necessary once there was an even balance of men and women in positions of authority.

"I would hope that's what we're working toward," she said. "But that's not the case now. At this point, women are still being left out because they are women.'

In a near-simultaneous ruling that may find its way before the Supreme Court, the U.S. Appeals Court found State Department discriminated against women in assigning and promoting foreign service officers.

Athletes keep things rolling

On Saturday, it was time to give the game their best.

Plymouth-Canton Special Olympics bowlers competed in the annual Wayne County bowling tourna-ment Saturday. The tournament for athletes from throughout Wayne County was held Friday and Saturday at Super Bowl in Canton.

This is the Plymouth-Canton group's third year in the event. Last year, the group practiced at Plymouth Bowl.

The bowlers from Plymouth-Canton ranged in age from 8 to 58. Most of the adults are from the Plymouth Opportunity House, said Barbara Witt, Plymouth-Canton's coach. Most of the youngsters attend Farrand Elementary School in Plymouth.

"They've really done a good job," Witt said of the athletes. "They're a riot to work with."

ON SATURDAY, lanes 29 through 36 at the Super Bowl were full of Plymouth-Canton athletes going after those strikes and spares. Athletes from other Wayne County communities also gave the game their best during the two-day

Other athletes have physical dif-ficulties that keep them from bowling without a ramp.

A number of local volunteers also helped out at the tournament. The 12 weeks of practice sessions for Plymouth-Canton athletes at Plaza Lanes were courtesy of the Plymouth-Canton Civitans.

"I have a lot of help," said Witt, a Canton resident whose 11-yearold son was among those participating in Saturday's competition.

The help from volunteers is important to the success of the event, Witt said. The assistance from the Plymouth-Canton Civitans makes the practice sessions possible.

Crafts show draws crowd

Wrestlemania wasn't, this , past weekend's only event.

The annual spring arts and crafts show of the city of Plymouth Parks and Recreation Department also attracted a crowd.

"We had good crowds," said Tom Willette, assistant recreation director. He estimated that at least 3,000 to 4,000 people attended the Friday through Sunday event, held at the Plymouth Cultural Center.

It's hard to know exactly how many people attend the arts and crafts show, Willette said.

"With free admission, they just come and go." Some people come to the show on one day and then return later on to make purchases.

Willette and Carol Donnelly were directors of the three-day show. On Sunday, Willette was gone for part of the day to attend Wrestlemania at the Silverdome; Donnelly ended up being stuck with the cleanup at the Plymouth Cultural Center.

"So I appreciate her doing that for me. It was fun to be there."

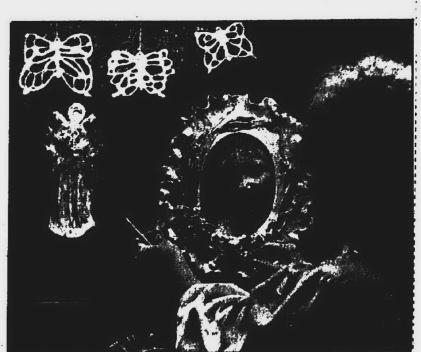

THE ANNUAL show featured more than 75 exhibitors from throughout the state. The crafters were pleased with the show's success, Willette said.

"They all did very well. I think they expect to do well when they come to the Plymouth show. As far as I know, no one was disappointed."

Those running the show ask the crafters to fill out evaluation forms. The arts and crafts show's regulars are particularly helpful in providing information on the event's success.

"Our regulars have told us they did very well. We didn't get any complaints as far as the show went."

Commute to UM-Dearborn and save thousands of dollars

A quality education doesn't have to be expensive

At nationally prominent private institutions, the cost of earning a four-year degree, including room and board, can exceed $12,000 a year.

At comparable public residential campuses in Michigan, the cost for one year of college averages $6.000.

The University of Michigan-Dearborn's total costs, including tuition, fees, transportation, and books, are $3,500 a year.

Students can commute to UM₂D, take advantage of high academic standards, and still participate in the numerous cultural, intellectual, athletic, and recreational opportunities on campus, in the metropolitan area, and at U-M Ann Arbor.

Money saved by living at home can provide the resources to pay for these enriching opportunities. These savings can also make the next step to graduate or professional study a lot easier.

To learn more about UM-D, call for a prospectus and an appointment for a confidential admissions evaluation.

TV ministry needs overall examination

IT'S A simple story. I think of it often, and use it almost as frequently. I even remember the first time I read it, where I was and what I was

The story comes from the pen of Dennis De Rougement and is about the devil and his confederate follow-ing a philanthropist on the streets of New York A poor man asked for a cigarette, and the philanthropist gave him money. The confederate asked the devil if he were not afraid of the philanthropist, who was intelligent, good and generous.

"I'll take care of him," the devil said, as the philanthropist gave a sum of money to a second beggar, "I'll organise his charity."

Fyodor Dostoevsky introduced the same theme with his famous Grand Inquisitor legend in his novel "The Brothers, Karamazov." Humanity cannot tolerate freedom. Humanity needs the realism and order of the life that only the church can provide.

The Grand Inquisitor asserts that few people could follow the way of Christ. He concludes that Christ hinders the work of the church, and therefore must die. He warns us that institutions have a way of replacing the purpose they were meant to serve with their own reasons for ex-

THE RECENT STORIES in print and picture of TV evangelists engaged in a multifarious variety of death-defying actions exhibit a fatal flaw in our lives. One evangelist calls on God to strike him down if he fails to raise $8 million.

Another dares to violate a sacred command protecting the sanctity of marriage. A third engages in acrimonious critique. To be human is to be rooted in self-deception franchemental to truth and integrity in the will of God. Our lives must be formed by what God wills and not what we will do with

Our moral task is always a constant viligance to seek out those places in our lives where God's will But isn't that exactly what TV watching the deeds of misconduct and ignoring the system wherein they were committed.

Our mietake is in a most serious effort in following the will of God.

Believing God will strike down those who fail to raise a certain, amount of money certainly sounds serious and intentional. Resigning from a public ministry for a compromised act of obedience is equally zealous. And who would question the shame brought upon their collective ministries?

In a very precise way, the TV evangelists in recent print and picture have identified specific problems and/or transgressions in their lives and have acceled forthrightly on them. Offering one's life as a sacri-fice, resigning from a successful post calling for integrity and moral-ity are all actions that will be claimed as positive in days to come.

OUR MISTAKE is in watching the deeds of misconduct and ignoring the system in which they were committed. It's not the rules that were broken that should be our primary concern. We need to review the system in which the rules were placed.

TV evangelists have constructed system that works well-for them They will resolve their problems and correct their errors. They will make their ministries grow and increase, They know how to work their systems.

to ask their intentions of purpose Organizing a system and operating is successfully is one thing: Being faithful to God's will in the care and love of life is quite another.

But the Michigan Commerce Department is hoping to capitalize on such opportunities by organizing trade missions to introduce local companies to federal contrac-

At a recent mission to Los Angeles, local firms were introduced to buyers from such giants as Lockheed, Hughes, Ford Aerospace, General Dynamics, McDonnel Douglas and Rockwell.

The companies included Advanced Technology and Testing of Livonia, the BCR Computing Corp. of Westland, St. Claire Inc. of Farmington Hills and Triple Tool Manufacturing of Trop.

John Chichester, procurement spe-cialist at Schoolcraft College's Busi-ness Development Center, said the California trip was designed to provide opportunities in subcontracting.

St. Claire owner Floyd White said his goals for the trip were a little different from those of others.

"I was not looking for prime contractors as much as I was looking for the subcontractors in this area that do work for them. That's a level that's invisible to me. I wanted to find out who the prime contractors were dealing with in the Michigan and Ohio areas that might have need for our services."

"I thought it was excellent," White said. "It enabled us to meet a lot of aerospace prime contractors in California. If we had to do it on our own, it probably would've taken us months or years to try and ferret out who to talk to and then get to see them.'

White was also pleased to learn of some possible prime contract opportunites in technical training for the Air Force, and he praised the commerce department program.

"I think they're doing an excellent job. I think they're doing more than piece of ground support equipment, 80 percent of the other states. It's a Cobo Hall April 7-9.

SAE, the Troy-based Engineering Society for Advancing Mobility -Land, Sea, Air and Space, and the Engineering Society of Detroit, or ESD, are sponsoring this three-day computer extravaganza, which will feature about 25 exhibits.

M.J. Asensio, staff engineer at SAE, said the conference will focus on "the role of computer graphics in different technical specialties." These specialties include engineering work stations, forensic engineering, artificial intelligence, CAD/ CAM displays and robotics.

"We're trying to cover not only highly technical computer graphics, but every function computer graphics interfaces with," Asensio said.

IN ADDITION to the displays, the three-day conference will include about 70 technical presentations by national experts in the computer industry.

Rebecca Evans, manager of conferences and expositions of ESD, said the event is aimed at high technology experts in the automotive industry, rather than the casual comfacturing representative with an office in Livonia, is setting up two work stations at the exposition featuring software from Futurenet, a California-based manufacturing company.

"We get good, qualified interest at these events," said sales engineer Bob Kokovich. He said the company displays systems from one or more of their 22 represented firms at about 20 shows each year.

Kokovich said that expositions present the opportunity for engineers and managers to see and experiment with his wares. Buyers are more likely to order from his display after sampling the software programs. The featured programs at the SAE/ESD exposition will be Computer Aided Engineering (CAE), which cost from about $6,000 to $30,000. He said the programs are valuable to anyone working professionally in electronics.

The cost for admittance to the exhibits is $10, and the full conference is $300 for an SAE or ESD member, and $365 for others. Daily rates are also available.

For more information, call Evans at ESD at 832-5400.

Write your own low-cost loans at Michigan National.

> Now you can be the banker. Let our Equi:Money credit line put your home equity to work for you!

Equi:Money is a credit line based upon 75% of your home's appraised value, less existing liens. Once the credit line is approved, you can write your own loans. from $5,000 to $100,000! This may well be the last loan application you'll ever have to sign.

Equi:Money access is easy - just write yourself a check, anytime for any reason. Rates are much lower than installment loans or credit cards; only 2% above prime as published in the Wall Street Journal, an independently established rate which may vary monthly. For example, based upon the current prime rate of 7.5%, your Equi:Money rate would be a low 9.5%. As an added bonus, the interest may be tax deductible under the Tax Reform Act of 1986. In addition, we'll waive the annual fee for the first year.

For more information, visit or call any Michigan National branch, or just phone 1-800-CALL-MNB.

The Dial Machine and Tool Company had packed its bags for Indiana. But after forty years in Michigan, it couldn't leave without taking one last look back. Stuart Levine, Vice President, Dial Machine and Tool Company: "I was convinced there was a better place to do business than Michigan. I was wrong. When we looked at the bottom line, it was obvious Michigan was the best place for us to be. That's why we decided to build our new plant in Jackson." These days a lot of companies are giving Michigan a second look...and they're seeing us in a whole new way. In April millions of Americans cheerfully indulge in their favorite pastime — paying taxes to the gov-ernment. We have therefore selected April as the Tax Awareness Month.

The Tax Reform Act (TRA) of 1986 made sweeping changes in our tax system. However, it did not take away the right of every taxpayer to convert earned income into tax-free money. Here are some examples of exclusions allowed by the TRA.

Bill Kux charms as nerdish hero

Performances of Woody Allen's "Play It Again, Sam" continue through Sunday, April 19, at Meddow Brook Theatre on the Oakland University campus in Rochester Hills. For ticket information, call the box office at 377-

The wonder of the variously named characters who play Woody Allen clones is that he can make women fall for a whiney neurotic with ordish exist on a cornway chief. with owlish eyes on a scrawny chicken body and make macho men almost sorry for a wimp who blathers in public about his sexual insecuri-

In Meadow Brook's funny "Play It Again, Sam," Bill Kux pulls off the tough job of playing the Woody Allen character. He's splendid. Maybe it's because he's better looking than Allen. The chicken chest has filled out and the peculiar charm of the Allen character is not so incomprehensible as it is with the pallid nebbish of Allen himself.

"Play It Again, Sam" is Woody Allen's 1960s commentary on the contemporary mating game. When the wife of Allan Felix, an intellectual urban nerd, walks out on him, his friends, Dick and Linda, step in to raise his spirits and find him some female companionship. Allan makes a fool of himself with a succession of Felix's hyperactive imagination provides the best comedy in "Play It Again, Sam." When his imagination kicks into high gear, the lighting dims and the audience gets to see the people in his fevered thought.

BECAUSE WOODY Allen/Allan Felix has a movie fetish, film characters come alive and kibbitz over hero, coaches Allan on how to make freelance writer.

Robert Grossman re-creates Bogart's voice and his nonchalant macho saunter. His fine acting brings the essence of Bogart to life on the Meadow Brook stage. With rever-ence and no apologies, Allen steals whole speeches as well as the title for "Play It Again, Sam" from the movie "Casablanca."

Peter Hicks cleverly designed the set with multiple hidden escapes to accommodate the sudden appearances and disappearances of the characters in Allan's imagination.

As Allan's friend, Dick, James Anthony has impeccable timing. He's a preoccupied businessman who doesn't give his wife, Linda, much attention. She spends more time with Allan because he's distraught over the loss of his wife. Their easy familiarity and shared neurosis turn into more than a friendship. Leslie Lynn Meeker is well cast in the Diane Keaton role of Linda, the tender, waifish-looking woman who wins Allan's heart.

Judi Mann is versatile in three busty roles of women passing through Allan's life. Loretta Higgins doubles in two roles, the best as a morbid hippie Allan tries to pick up at the art museum. As Allan's wife who left him to "live," Brigid Cleary shows her flair for revenge when she returns in his imagination to take pot shots at his ego.

For those who appreciate Woody Allen's witty way of turning himself inside out and exposing his neurotic preoccupations, director Carl Schurr has a hands-down winner in "Play It Again, Sam."

Cathie Breidenbach of West Bloomfield has always loved theater. A former high-school English teacher, she works in public his shoulder. Bogart, his ultimate relations, advertising and as a

STABLISHING ITS FIRST been easy for Nancy Gurwin Pro-

The first show. ("Funny Girl") was a hit, the second ("The Diary of Anne Frank") was a flop. The third — rescheduled from the musical "Anything Goes," which was to open in April — will be a familiar Gurwin vehicle, the musical "I Do! I Do!" for late summer.

Gurwin co-stars in the two-person play, about 50 years in the lives of a married couple.

GURWIN, a Southfield resident who is executive producer of Nancy Gurwin Productions, and Donna Zatkin, also of Southfield, who is producer of the theater company, talked about their upcoming plans over lunch last week at Machus Red Fox in Bloomfield Township.

Besides the upcoming show at the Jewish Community Center (community theater, not dinner theater productions) and the dinner theater at Mama Mia's, there is Gurwin's one-woman show to be considered, and the scheduling of the next season at the JCC.

Michael Goodman, a former associate, asked Gurwin to bring her shows to the JCC when Dr. Morton Plotnick, the JCC's executive director, asked Goodman to help in starting a theater season there.

The season opened with "Funny Girl," starring Gurwin as the comical Ziegfeld Follies star Fanny said producer Zatkin.

"But a financial disaster," finished Gurwin. The critics liked it, but the public, surprisingly, stayed away in droves.

Goodman, who also played a role in "Anne Frank," ended his participation with the new community theater after this show.

ALTHOUGH Gurwin has done "I Do! I Do!" before (as well as "Funny Girl"), Plotnick asked her to do the show again. Gurwin, who start-

One of the difficulties in presenting shows at the JCC, Gurwin and Zatkin agreed, is the scheduling, because there are so many other activities also being booked there.

Rehearsal time, in the Aaron DeRoy Studio Theatre where the shows are presented, often is not available, and actors have to prepare their parts in rooms other than those in which they will per-

Sets need to be uncomplicated because they can't be kept in the and run of the show because of competing events.

Gurwin is thinking of doing "I Do! I Do" at the JCC outdoors, "under the stars," as she did "South Pacific" at the Botsford Inn in the summer of 1983.

The show will probably not open until after she does "Fantasticks" with the actor who is the replacement for the role of El Gallo, at Mama Mia. The same actor might be considered to costar in "I Do! I 'Il just took off. Even Rich Fleming is advoit as older brother Alan Baker. Fleming is convincing in his move from swinger to responsible businessman and bridegroom. He's especially good at look-ing harried when Tim Mohan, as Buddy Baker, turns into a carbon copy of his brother.

MOHAN AND Fleming work well together. As the two characters around whom the action revolves, they're satisfying to watch. They move well, and Mohan is great at near-hysteria pitch. Mohan is very believable as the hesitant 21 year old who moves in with his brother and blossoms, in a mere three weeks, into a confident man-about-town.

Keith Wallace nearly steals the show as the father. Mr. Baker is obsessed with transparent grapes, the longevity of the waxed-fruit business and wanting to pass his hard-earned Cora Rector is a pretty, addled Mrs. Baker. As Mom, the complaining peacemaker who lives on Alka Seltzer, Rector has good lines, and she belts them out while rushing to and fro.

Colleen Kane as Connie Drayton, an "industrial singer," has a good voice and a quick way with a line. Kane is amusing describing a stint she spent as "Miss Toaster." Sue Clcerone is a good-looking neighbor, though a bit less of the "dumb blonde" would've helped. Wilma Nichols is hilarious in a final curtain

Hennessey settles for 2nd best again

By C.J. Risak staff writer

Nothing at stake? Don't tell that to Hennessey Engineers hockey coach A.J. Baker.

The Engineers could not solve the mystery of Compuware goalie Jim Dubke, and it cost them a shot at the North American Junior Hockey League playoff title as they fell 4-1 Tuesday at the Oak Park Ice Arena.

It was the second-straight runners-up finish for the Engineers, and it left Baker thinking about recarring nightmares.

"It was like deja vu," the Hennes-sey coach said. "We forced Compuware to a deciding game last year with an overtime win, just like this year. We even had the same referee as last year.

"Same result, too." That final similarity grated on Baker. "I hate these runners-up trophies," he said.

COMPUWARE'S 3-2 series victory means nothing in regards to the National Junior A Hockey Tournament, which starts Friday at the Oak Park Arena. Compuware will face Madison, Wis., at 7:30 p.m.; Hennessey still makes the tournament, playing the tourney's opening game at 4:30 p.m. against Rochester, Minn.

The Engineers then play Madison at 3:30 p.m. Saturday, with Compuware facing off against Rochester at 6:30 p.m. On Sunday, the Engineers and Compuware will have their rematch in this round-robin tournament at 5:30 p.m. Rochester and Madison, both members of the U.S. Junior Hockey League, will play in Sunday's first game at 2:30 p.m.

hockey

The tournament's top two teams after round-robin play will meet for the national championship at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Oak Park Arena. Tickets are $5 per day for adults and $2.50 for children and senior citi-

The Engineers forced the fifth game with a 5-4 overtime win Sunday at the Plymouth Cultural Center. Larry Pilut scored three goals for Hennessey, but Tom Madden supplied the game-winner on a rare penalty shot in overtime. The penalty shot was awarded when it was ruled a Compuware defenseman deliberately jarred his team's net off its mooring while the Engineers were threatening.

BRYAN KRIEGER also got a goal for Hennessey, and Matt Wiljanen and Leif Gustafson each picked up two assists. The Engineers led 4-2 with three minutes left in regulation, but Compuware rallied to tie it with two late goals.

Luck changed for Hennessey on Tuesday. The first period was played cautiously by both sides and ended up scoreless. Compuware took control in the second, going ahead 2-0 on goals by Dave Szymanski and Brant Ketzenberg. The Engineers cut that deficit in half with a power-play goal scored by Gustafson late in the period. Jeff Smith assisted.

Hennessey continued to apply the Dubke met every challenge. "We had our chances, but we couldn't get it by him," said Baker.

Then, with six minutes left to play, Mike Jorgensen took a pass out from the corner on a Compuware break and buried the puck behind Engineer goalie Dave Church to make it 3-1. Mike Boback scored into an empty net for the final margin.

It was a disappointing end to an otherwise solid tourney performance for Hennessey, which was given little chance to succeed after finishing third in the NAJHL in the regular

But the Engineers upset the Fraser Falcons 4-1 in their best-ofseven series, then opened their bestof-five series with Compuware with a 4-3 victory March 24. Compuware won the next two, however, 4-2 Friday in Plymouth and 2-1 in overtime Saturday in Oak Park.

BOTH WERE difficult losses to swallow. The Engineers had forged a 2-2 tie in Friday's game on Krygier's third-period goal and were working on a power play when Compuware's Todd English broke free to score a short-handed goal and turn the tide back in his team's favor.

English finished with two goals. Mark Olson and Doug Collins added one apiece for Compuware. Smith got the Engineers' first goal.

Saturday's game was another experience in frustration for Hennessey. "We entirely outplayed them," said Baker. "We outshot them (39-33), we outhit them - we did everything but outscore them."

Madden scored in the first period pressure in the third period, but to stake the Engineers to a 1-0 lead,

Eric Kapelanski tees up a shot for the Engineers in their series with Compuware. Kapelanski got a goal in the opening game of the series but was held scoreless in the next but that was the only score they would get. Still, Compuware was thwarted until Pat Moran poked in a goal with just three minutes left in regulation. Moran then notched the game-winner 1:40 into overtime. More frustration for Hennessey. And although Sunday's OT win relieved that frustration somewhat, also made Baker a little more determined.

"I will look forward to it, definitely," he said in reference to Sunday's Tuesday's loss brought it back. It meeting with Compuware.

Gunners, take aim! 3-point shot is here to Michigan high school basketball.

That's right, aspiring prep cage stars. No longer will you have to be overly concerned with mastering basic skills like dribbling in traffic. No more constant drilling on lob passes to big men posting up inside. Forget your growth (or lack of) problems. With the three-pointer, anyone can

If you can hit a shot from 19 feet, nine inches with semi-consistency say about 40 percent - any high school coach will want you, even if you can't do anything else.

And why not? Do you think Steve Alford's defense or ballhandling skills were the deciding factor for Indiana in Monday's NCAA title game? Or was it his seven-for-10 shooting from three-point land?

THE THREE-POINTER first came to high school in 1985, when grams would employ too.

ET OUT YOUR paint bucket the Michigan High School Athletic and tape measure. The Association (MHSAA) allowed three-point shot is coming leagues to decide whether they wanted to use it. Last week, the rule was adopted by the National High School Athletic Association.

And what the national association approves, the MHSAA approves.

"More than likely, we'll have it," said Jack Roberts, the MHSAA's executive director. "Our council would have to take specific action not to accept the change, and I don't believe they've ever done that before."

The rule will be identical to that adopted by the NCAA prior to this season. A semicircle measuring 19-9 from the center of the basket will be marked on all floors; any shot scored from outside that arc will count for three points, instead of two. The rule will be for both girls and boys basketball.

Roberts had not received the official wording on the three-point shot, so he couldn't be certain whether junior varsity and middle school pro-

Risak

THE ADOPTION of the rule did not surprise Roberts - "I thought it was coming; I think most observers felt it was inevitable it would come to high school after the colleges adopted it." But the timing did.

'It just surprised me that it was this year," admitted the MHSAA director. His reasoning is the controversy that greeted the three-point shot's adoption a year ago.

The majority of the NCAA's coaches either didn't want the shot at all, or they wanted it at a more challenging distance. But opinion has shifted after one year of use. Many college coaches would still like the line moved back, but it will remain where it is for now. Roberts had mixed feelings on the three-pointer. "My personal preference is that I'm mildly opposed to it," he said. "I'm most concerned that it puts another demand on the officials. Secondly, it puts another demand on the facility - another line on a floor already covered with lines for volleyball and whatever else. "Thirdly, I'm not convinced the high school game needed it as much as college. We don't have the packing in on defenses like they do in col-

YET COACHES whose leagues seasons favored it. In the Observer & Eccentric coverage area, two conferences - the Tri-River League, of which Redford Thurston is a member, and the Metro Conference, to which Bloomfield Hills Cranbrook, Avondale and Livonia Clarenceville are affiliated - employed the threepoint shot.

"It helps your team all the way around," said Cranbrook coach Robert Rogers. "It's great if you have inside players and it's good if you have shooters - it gets them involved in the game."

Rogers' feelings echoed those of any three-point shot supporter: "It forces defenses to play you honest. They have to develop their man-toman skills, or play a very good match-up zone.'

The Cranes' coach also saw the shot as a potential game-breaker. His fellow Metro Conference coach, Clarenceville's Paul Clough, did not

BERGSTROM'S FARMINGTON HILLS

"I LIKE IT," said Clough. "But I have used the rule for the past two haven't seen a team with good enough shooters to force (an oppo nent) to change. Most teams want to go inside still. Right now, it's just fun. In two seasons of play, it hasn't been the deciding factor in any game I've been in or scouted." The three-pointer will likely receive similar mixed feelings next season. But as exciting as it sounds, don't expect it to have the same effect as it had on college basketball. Clough is correct in saying few high school teams have shooters good enough to score from that distance. It'll add glamour and fun and will decide a few games. But my bet is that fewer than 25 percent of the winning teams next season will ettempt more than a half-dozen threepointers a game.

So, shooters, don't occupy your time firing 20-footers all summer. Best keep your other basketball skills sharp, too; they may come in

Fans flock to witness WWF's well-oiled machine in motion

COUPLE OF MONTHS ago when the World Wrestling Federation announced its annual extravaganza would be held at the Pontiac Silverdome, some friends told me I was insane to expect 90,000 people to attend.

They were right. I underestimated the metropolitan area and its love for professional wrestling. And don't let anybody kid you, it is profession-

It is professional, you see, because the combatants do get paid and a win requires a three count or a submission hold - not a simple one-second pin of the shoulders.

The geniuses behind the most successful wreatling organization in the world, the WWF, solidified their No. 1 ranking Sunday by luring 93,173 fanatics into the Silverdome to witness WrestleMania III.

No other indoor event in the history of the world ever attracted that many people. Not a Rolling Stones concert, not a Super Bowl and maybe not even the pope's visit later this year. That says something for the

The success of the WWF can be attributed to organization. From pro-moter Vince McMahon to the bouncno protecting the wrestlers, the

SUNDAY WAS NO different as ring announcer Howard Finkel grabbed everybody's attention at precisely 4 p.m. with a boisterous, "Good afternoon, ladies and gentlemen, and welcome to the Pontiac Silverdome. home of WrestleMania III."

For the next three hours and 15 minutes, 38 of the Federation's top wrestlers, four managers and celebrities Aretha Franklin, Bob Uecker, Mary Hart and Alice Cooper kept the 'Dome rocking.

There was a little something for everybody. Midgets being sandwiched by giants, rock stars battling snakes, a hair-cutting seminar. You name it, it probably happened.

I know the reality of all this at times is questionable, but the electricity generated by these heroes and villains was unbelievable. I don't know if I have ever heard more cheering than what the crowd let out for villain-turned-hero Rowdy Roddy Piper or the atomic leg drop unleashed in the main event by champion Hulk Hogan.

Hogan has developed a cult following and has become a role model for youngsters since gaining the championship in Januray 1984. His strenuous work ethic and fight against drugs and alcohol have become every bit a part of his repertoire as his powerful leg drops.

MANY PEOPLE question the validity of professional wrestling and its moral aspects.

The validity and reality tend to stir up interesting conversations. "Did you see him hit him with that table?" or, "That wasn't real blood, that was ketchup."

The moral aspect sometimes becomes more heated because those opposed argue about producing more violence in the world. Obviously, those opposed have been to very few wrestling matches because 99 percent of those in attendance hate the bad guys worse than the good guys do. Wrestling fans aren't all stupid, they can tell the difference between good and evil.

Hogan, along with fellow wrestlers Ricky "The Dragon" Steam-

HEN STARTING a college-level baseball program from scratch — with little 'scratch" for recruiting - a coach will take whatever ballplayers he can find, wherever he finds them.

Which is exactly what Rod Righter has done at Oak-jand University. The school approved bringing back var-sity baseball just last spring. The late approval and Righter's subsequent hiring curtailed recruiting, but the hew coach did find a few players, although not all were discovered through normal recruiting procedures. For example: Freshman lefthanded pitcher-first baseman Eric Jorgensen was enrolled at OU when Righter found out about him. It seems Jorgensen's mother called OU's athletic offices when she heard the mother called OU's athletic offices when she heard the school was bringing back baseball.

RIGHTER QUICKLY found out that Jorgensen was a Standout at Grand Rapids Forest Hills Northern and for the highly-respected Grand Rapids-based Sullivans' Juniors summer league team. It didn't take the OU coach long to decide whether or not to pursue Jorgen-en, and to sign him. While Jorgensen may have traveled a distance to play baseball for OU, Righter didn't have to go far to fill another hole in his pitching staff. In fact, he went no further than the Wendy's restaurant on University Drive, right across the street from the school.

That's where he found Chris Foster. Foster was a standout right-handed pitcher at Rochester Adams a year ago and wanted to go to Central Michigan. But his plans changed, and last fall Righter discovered he was managing the Wendy's.

AS SHORT a trip to sign a recruit as that was, there was another even shorter - Righter didn't have to leave the house. That's because the outfielder he was after had a familiar name - Don Righter, the OU coach's son who played at Birmingham Seaholm and was honorable mention all-Southeastern Michigan Asso-

But Righter, the coach, will take whatever players he can find, wherever he can find them, to help restart a program that's been in hibernation since 1980. The Pioneers play their first two games at Aquinas College

"Our starting nine are very good," said Righter, the coach. "I have a lot of hope for them. If there's an 'Achilles' heel on this team, it's a lack of pitching. If we stay healthy, we'll be in pretty good shape. If we don't, we'll be in trouble." Righter has coached in the Pontiac Class A summer league for several seasons, and that helped him find a few more players. His biggest addition from summer baseball is left-handed pitcher-first baseman Jim Kosnik, a Royal Oak Kimball grad.

KOSNIK ENROLLED at Eastern Michigan three years ago, but a sore arm forced him to quit the team and eventually drop out of school. He has sophomore status at OU, and will be the anchor of the staff.

When he's not pitching, Kosnik will be stationed at first. "His bat is just too good to keep him out of the lineup," said Righter. When Kosnik is pitching, Jorgensen will fill in at first.

Joining Kosnik, Foster and Jorgensen on the mound will be freshman lefthander David Waldis, from Ster-ling Heights. Righthander David Walczyk and lefthander Dan O'Brien, both freshmen from Harper Woods Notre Dame, will be part-time starters.

Walczyk will also spend time behind the plate. He'll share the catching duties with John Finley, a freshman from Berkley who played for Righter's summer league team. Mark Dishinger, a freshman from Memphis, Mich., also has experience as a catcher.

UNFORTUNATELY, BOTH Walczyk and Dishin will be called upon to fill in at third base for the first few weeks of the season. That's because the team's only senior, Garth Peterson (Bay City John Glenn), injured his knee when he tripped in a hole while jogging. He's expected to be lost at least three weeks.

In the middle of the infield, Righter will call on junior Tom Zerona (Wayne Memorial) at second base and freshman Bill Franzen (Sterling Heights) at shortstop.

Don Righter should see plenty of playing time in the outfield, together with freshman Keith Grant (Sterling Heights) and junior Rob Alvin (Birmingham Groves), a member of OU's basketball team. Freshman Randall Bailey (Clarkston) is the fourth outfielder and back-up shortstop, and Michael Hickey (Grayling) provides depth at several positions.

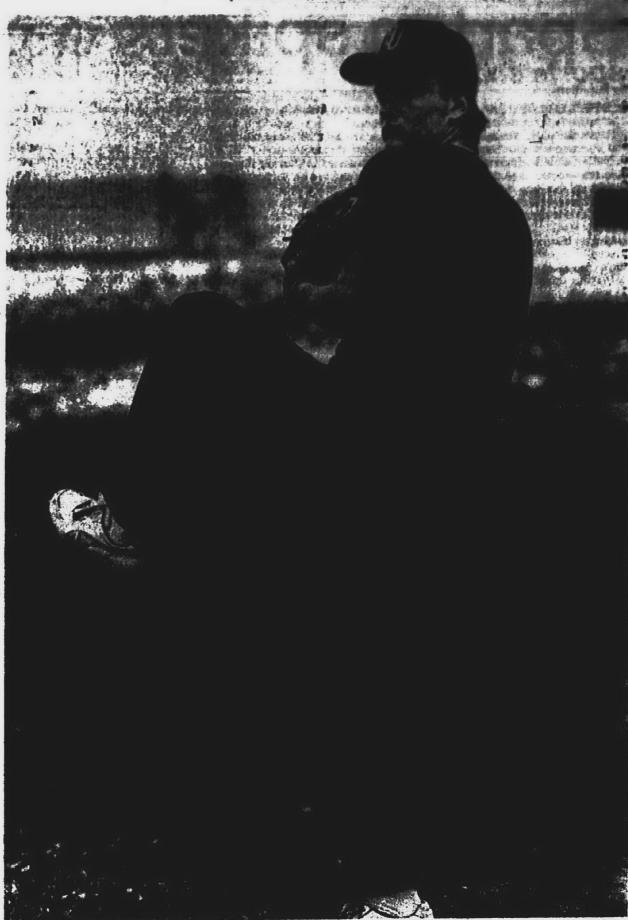

SO WHAT does Righter expect from his team, in its

"I guess I could go out on a limb and say we'll win 40 percent of our ballgames," he said. "I'd like to think we'll be .500. We have the talent, the offense. Pitching is the question."

OU will open its season at a disadvantage. While other teams have made spring trips and already played a dozen games, the Pioneers will have to open their Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (GLI-AC) season five days after their first game. Northwood Institute visits OU Wednesday.

The Pioneers are also limited to 16 playing dates (32 games), which could hamper their development when they go up against GLIAC rivals like Grand Valley State, Wayne State and Ferris State, the three teams Righter picked to challenge for the league title.

OU probably won't be among those in the title chase. Not yet, anyway. Righter just wants his team - there are only 18 on the roster, compared to 25-30 for other GLIAC squads — to survive the season without injury and with a few victories. That would be a significant step in the right direction.

Chris Foster will be one of the hopes looking to steady the Oakland University pitching staff ERTAIN SCHOOLS, year after year, dominate in certer year, dominate in certain sports. That's what's called building a program. And few schools have done a better job of constructing dominating volleyball programs than Livonia Stevenson and Redford Bishop Borgess.

So it should come as no turneline.

So it should come as no surprise that their players occupy five of nine berths on the Observer's all-area volleyball squad. The reason is clear: Stevenson marched to the final four in the Class A state tournament be-'fore stumbling, a year after Borgess 'reached the state finals before losing.

Borgess had a tough campaign by its standards. The Spartans were 28-8 during the regular season, but they failed to win Catholic League or 'state district tournament titles. It should be noted, however, that the teams that won those championships were Birmingham Marian (the league champ) and Stevenson (district champ) - two of the state's final four teams.

IT'S HARD to argue with the kind of success enjoyed by these two powerhouses, but several area coaches are building a case. Livonia Ladywood, Wayne Memorial, West-Ladywood, Wayte Memorial, West-land John Glenn and Garden City are all closing the gap on Stevenson and

With the increase in competitive rivalries, it's not hard to envision a shift in the power structure. But for shift if the power structure, But for this year at least, Stevenson and Borgess were tough to stop.

Stevenson's Lee Cagle was selected as coach of the year because of the success enjoyed by his squad. The Spartans went 45-5 and won Western Lakes Activities Association and Class A district and regional crowns before falling to eventual state champion Portage Northern in the state semifinals.

Here is a profile on each member of this season's all-area Observerland team.

Kristine Bailey, senior, Steven-son: Bailey is the latest in a long line of outstanding players to come out of Stevenson, and Cagle rates her second to none. "She's often compared with former Stevenson greats, but stands elette as a superior player in all the skills," said

Cagle.
Bailey, who Cagle called a "devastating Bailey, who Cagle called a "devastating had a hitter and outstanding defensively, had a 400 kill average (560 in 1,040 attacks) and 141 service ages. She was remed to three all-tournament interes, was all-WLAA, all-region and all-state, and was Stevenson's MVP. Bailey will attend Michigan State in the fall on a volleyball schol-

Sue Zatorski, junior, Stevenson: Zatorski's stats - a .350 kill average (373 in 754 attacks) and 68 aces in 300 serves - would make her the star of any other team, and despite Stevenson's overall talent opponents couldn't overlook

'Sue is recognized for her leadership on our team and throughout the league and our area," said Cagle of Zatorski, who made three all-tournament teams and was all-WLAA. "She was very difficult to stop at the net, and few did. You'd coach forever with a player like Sue."

Rocky Cibor, Junior, Stevenson: Cibor had more than 1,600 sets this season, 88 percent of which were good and 58 percent that registered as kill assists. Such prowess earned her all-WLAA honors — an amazing accomplishment, considering this was her first season as a

"As a first year setter, she grew into the Beth Zacharaki, senior, Bishop Borgess: Zacharaki made lew mistakes for Borgess, posting a 94 percent efficiency average on attacks with 25 percent going for aces and putting 98 percent of her serves in play. She was selected to the all-Catholic League and all-region teams and was picked to Borgess' alltournament team. She was also Borgess' CO-MVP

"She is probably one of the most intense players ever to play for Bishop Borgess," said coach Jerry Abraham. "She is a 'coaches dream' type of player, a leader on the court."

Zacharski will attend Eastern Michigan

Lisa Dreske, senior, Bishop Borgess: Dreske's .390 kill average and 89 percent serve efficiency will be difficult to replace, Abraham said. A three-year starter, Dreske's "defensive skills rank with the best in the area." according to her coach.

The hitter-blocker was all-Catholic League and named to the Borgess alltournament team. A team co-MVP, Dreske has a volleyball scholarship at the University of Toledo for the fall.

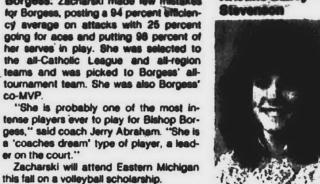

Jenny Beicher, junior, Ladywood: Belcher collected 138 kills in 580 attacks (.280 kill average), was named to alltournament teams at Bay City and Schoolcraft and was selected for the allregion and all-Catholic League teams. Ladywood was 31-8 for the year and finished first once, second three times and third once in tournaments.

"Much of Jenny's success can be attributed to her excellent jump reach - at 5-foot-9, she can touch 9-71/2 - and her strong arm," said Ladywond coach Tom Teeters. "Jenny's offense from the middle block position was, in part, a big contributor to Ladywood's success. With most of the 1986-87 team returning next year, Ladywood will be in a position to utilize Jenny's talents even more."

Nikki Stubbs, senior, Garden City: Stubbs' ability was evident when she switched from setter to hitter this season and made the move work, averaging seven kills per game and ranking as the Cougars' top defensive player. Stubbs was Garden City's captain and MVP. "She's a very smart and strong player." said GC coach Sue Cyrus. "She's improved a lot, and she's an all-around great athlete."

role and performed beyond all expecta-tions," said Cagle. "She'll be better next year. Watch for her."

Stubbs will play for Teeters at Schoolcraft College next fall.

Stacy Graham, senior, John Glenn: Graham averaged five kills and four blocks per game for the Rockets. who won their district title after compiling a 19-15 record. Graham had a .355 kill average and 88 percent serve efficiency, was named to all-tournament teams at Wayne State and Walled Lake, and was an all-Lakes Division choice.

"Stacy was a definite asset to our said Rocket coach Wendy Bostwick. "She had a fabulous season, leading us in hitting and blocking. Besides her great net play, she was very dedicated and a pleasure to coach."

Graham will attend EMU on a volleyball scholarship this fall.

Jo Ann Kolnitys, junior, Wayne Memorial: A 5-10 middle hitter-blocket, Kolnitys collected 268 kills in 662 attacks, earning team MVP honors and selection to the all-Wolverine A League first team and all-region second team. The Zebras were 28-9 overall and won the WAL with a 13-1 mark.

And yet, as strong as her hitting was = Kolnitys was ranked second offensively in the WAL - It was no better than her other skills. "Her passing, serve reception and attack reception were very good," said Wayne coach Doris Busuito. "She's a very aggressive player, very good defensively. Her defense helped her offense '

Kolnitys also played on the under-15 Junior Olympic team at University of Michigan last summer.

As a youngster Sprague dabbled in decoy carving, mostly so he and his dad would have a full line of decoys handy when duck season rolled

More recently Sprague began to take his carving seriously. He began to spend more time on his projects in an attempt to make some of them there lifelike.

"I used to make decoys with my dad when I was a young fellow back in the late '40s and early '50s," said Sprague. "About eight years ago my wife suggested I try it again, so I did. Now I'm hooked.

"I love the outdoors and I like to duck hunt. I always try to make the decorative ones look as real as possi-

DECOY CARVERS generally use one of three kinds of wood: basswood, jelutong (from a Malaysian rubber tree) or tupelu (from a Louisiana gum tree). Cedar is also used, especially for service, or hunting, decoys.

A Carvers spend eight to 10 hours working on a service decoy and anywhere from 120 to 200 hours on a decorative decoy.

But those long hours pay off, especially for Sprague who has won numerous awards for his carvings, including the Best of the Show Awards at Traverse City in 1985, Potters Lake in Flint in 1985, and a Virginia Beach show in March of this year.

Sprague's carvings, along with some of the best wildlife art in the country will be on display when 60 nationally known artists gather Thursday through Sunday at the Michigan Wildlife Art Festival at the Southfield Civic Center.

WEST BLOOMFIELD'S Heiner Hertling (the soccer coach at West Bloomfield High School) will also have some of his wildlife paintings on display at the show. He was last year's feature artist at the Michigan Wildlife Art Festival and 450 prints of his painting depicting a ruffed grouse walking in the snow were sold at the show, with the proceeds going to the Michigan Wildlife Habitat Foundation.

"I've been painting wildlife since 1981 when I started with water fowl. But lately I've been doing all types of wildlife," said Hertling. "I'm not a hunter but I do enjoy the outdoors. I do a lot of research with a camera. Often times I try to get a mounted and

cimen to have in front of me when I paint, so I can look more closely at the details."

Hertling, who works as a commercial artist doing 'automobile ads, is striving to become a full-time artist. He would like nothing better than to spend his time doing paintings of Midwestern art.

"THERE IS A LOT of work done on Western art but not too much Midwestern art," said Hertling.
"There were many, many tribes of indians in the Midwest along with beautiful scenery and a lot of ani-

Highlights of the Wildlife Art Festival include a series of wildlife workshops presented by several of the participating artists on Friday and Saturday, a decoy painting con-test, and a silent art auction.

On Saturday, 3-8 p.m., a live, full-grown, male peregrine falcon will be available for public viewing.

All of the artwork at the Festival will be for sale. Tax-deductible contributions at the Festival will be used by the Michigan Wildlife Habitat Foundation for the restoration of wildlife habitat in Michigan. IMPORTANT DATES

What will it take for the youth in America to wake up to the dangers of alcohol and drug abuse?

Will it take an overdose or an auomphile accident? The loss of a carier or the death or crippling of a friend? What will it take before we all wake up to the dangers involved in the misuse of drugs and alcohol?

Hopefully, it wou't take any of the above. But with graduation, the be-glaming of the unofficial "party sea-ph" right around the corner, many rents and school officials are worhad about their kids.

That's why Joe Francis, athletic director of the Troy School District, sponsored a seminar titled "Athes, Drugs and Alcohol." The two-, asked Dicken. ur program was held Monday night in the Performing Arts Center at Troy Athens High School. An estimated 200 parents, coaches and athletes turned out for the program, which featured Al Dicken health educator and coordinator of health education and director of Student Services Center for West Bloomfield Schools, and Ed Lynch, former all-state baseball and foot-ball player at Birmingham Brother DICKEN POINTED OUT the physical dangers of drug and alcohol abuse. He noted that the first area of the brain that alcohol influences is the area of judgment.

the week ahead

How can anyone who has been drinking make an accurate judgment of if they are able to drive a car?"

He also pointed out that marijuana kills motivation and that one joint does the same amount of damage to your lungs as a pack-and-a-half of cigarettes.

Dicken went on to explain that LSD, PCP and mescaline play with the chemical balance of your brain, and that these drugs have often sent users, even first-time users, into a drug-induced psychosis.

As far as athletes using steroids as a shortcut to bigger muscles, Dick-ens said that the only real shortcut is work and effort.

"You may see short-term effects through the use of steroids but the long-term effects are dangerous."

LYNCH, A 1979 graduate of Rice, told the audience a tragic story of how he lost his potential professional career in baseball due to drug and alcohol abuse.

Lynch also pointed out a frightening fact about high school drinkers.

"Most high school aged people don't drink socially," said Lynch. "They drink to get a buzz. Peer pressure often has a lot to do with people drinking in high school. You don't have to drink to be cool. I know it's going to be tough, but you have to hang together and look out for one

The program ended with a 25-minute film titled "Driving Under the Influence - It Could Never Happen

The film told a story of a high school boy who got drunk at a party and attempted to drive his best friend and their dates home. They got into an accident and his friend and girl friend were killed. The other girl was crippled for life.

The story didn't end there, however. It went on to show the damage done to the driver's family, the crippled girl and her family and the family of the girl who threw the party.

CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF PLYMOUTH

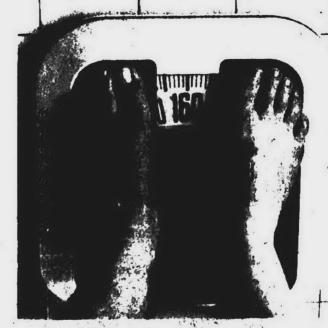

Obesity can start a chain reaction to poor health that can be devastating.

To begin with, most physicians and researchers consider obesity to be the major cause of diabetes in adults. Up to 90% of adults diagnosed as having diabetes, in fact, are overweight.

Of course, once you have diabetes your chances of developing heart disease, kidney disease, or going blind increase dramatically.

As a person with diabetes you'll be twice as prone to heart disease. 17 times as prone to kidney disease. And 25 times as prone to blindness, if you are insulin-dependent.

Diabetes, in fact, can shorten your life expectancy by one-third.

Fortunately, diabetes in adults, in most cases, can be prevented with careful weight control, healthy eating habits, and regular exercise.

So if you're overweight, doesn't it make sense to take off the extra weight? Instead of years off your life?

Support the American Diabetes Association.

Police ask court for permission to destroy pit bulls

By Bill Casper staff writer

Redford Township police are going to court for permission to destroy two pit bull terriers that attacked a 55-year-old man.

The victim, John Gehringer of Redford, is in Botsford General Hospital in Farmington Hills, where he has undergone three operations for treatment of severe dog bites over his face, arms and legs.

"We're going to request that the dogs be destroyed according to township ordinance," Redford police chief James Barclay said Tuesday.

"We've been advised by township attorney Jan Yarling that we shouldn't destroy the dogs before we go to court for a show cause hearing. I'm hoping that hearing can be scheduled by Thursday (today).

"The hearing will provide an opportunity for the dog owners or other interested parties to object to de-struction of the dogs," Barclay said. Yarling could not be reached

Tuesday for comment. The dogs have been designated as vicious and can be destroyed according to ordinance after being held for 10 days, according to Redford animal control warden Dennis Helferty. The 10-day quarantine period expired Saturday and the dogs are still being held at the Michigan Humane Society facility in Westland, Barclay said.

The dog owners, George Sayers, 24, and Barry Clark, 34, both of Redford, have refused to sign a voluntary release form that would give the township custody of the dogs, Barclay said.

The owners were each cited for three misdemeanor charges of violating the township animal ordinance, but have not yet been sched-uled to appear in local district court to answer the charges, he said.

Gehringer was attacked March 18 by the two dogs shortly before 11 a.m. outside of the vacuum repair shop he owns on Grand River west of Beech Daly as he was loading a chair into his pickup truck, Helferty said.

There is no indication that Gehringer provoked the dogs and no indication that the animals were trained attack dogs, he said.

An attorney representing Gehringer said last week that he is investigating the possibility of filing a lawsuit against the dog owners.

Unknowns present real challenge of revelation

HAD QUITE a revelation this week. My three sons have "trashophobia." That's the fear of opening the kitchen cabinet door and depositing trash in the container.

It was a Thursday, about 2:20 p.m. Everyone was gone and I had been on my diet for two weeks, three days, six hours and 20 minutes. I heard a small voice in the kitchen calling, "Dave, Dave . . . " I went into the kitchen, opened the cupboard door and it was the Pringles potato chip can!

"It's OK, Dave," it said, "Go ahead and have a few." In a moment of weakness, I opened the can and lo and behold all that was in there was Pringle dust. Somebody ate them all and just left the empty can in the cupboard..

Having made the decision to cheat, I was all the more desperate for indulgence. Opting for a Fudgesicle, I opened the freezer and found a very cold, empty Fudgesicle box. Placing it on the counter next to the Pringles can, I started to look for more goodies.

I FOUND a large plastic Coke bottle with a half-inch of twice dead Coke in it. A box of Cherrio. Yes, I mean that singularly because in the bottom of the box was one lonely Cherrio. Then I found an ounce of milk in a gallon container. Oh eves. there was, about a thousand Jolly Rancher and Tootsie Roll Pop wrappers in the kitchen snack Heaping all these various and sundry cans, boxes and wrappers onto the counter top, I stepped back to practice my lecture to the boys. So now I'm on the look out for an abandoned Popsicle stick in the family room, Fruit Roll-up plastic wraps, Ho-Ho foils on the couch and in cupboards full of empty containers.

So what's wife Sandy's comment to this new found revelation? "You're just finding this out? I've been throwing their empty boxes away for 16 years and your not exactly innocent yourself Mr. Messing."

EVERYDAY LIFE offers us revelations by circumstance, or by studying we become aware of things that were formerly unknown to us. I feel that artists not only happen unto revelations which usually are by circumstance, but they actually seek them out. Every time an artist attempts to draw something he or she searches for the lines, shapes and colors that were most likely unknown to them. The word "revelation" means: to become aware of the previously unknown, so artists not only happen upon revelations, they look for them.

Even someone as close to you as your own family members, offer fantastic revelations as you attempt to draw them. The subtle little bump that a three-year-old has for a nose, the strength in your father's furrowed brow or maybe you never noticed the beauty and look of concern in your mother's eyes.

A few months ago I thought it would be fun to have an "Artifacts" Art Club. You know, just a couple dozen artists that would meet and critique each others art works. I guess the idea was well received because by our fourth meeting we had to move our "little" club to a hall that could accommodate 100 artists. Our club assignment for the month was to do a portrait of a famous person. So all month long, club members have been making comments like; "Boy! Does Clark Gable ever have big ears; did you know Clint Eastwood's cheeks were so hollow?

Here's my favorite - Richard Kennedy said when showing me his picture of James Cagney, "Dave, this picture kind of looks like James Cagney but maybe it's of his brother - that is if he had a brother."

Over and over again, each member artist has forced himself or herself to become aware of features that were previously unknown to them. Sure, everyone knows what Charles Bronson looks like - but could you draw his every feature? Not without revelation.

How blue is your parakeet? What shade of green is your umbrella plant? How fascinating it is to be an artist. Some need to fly to far away

Here is a portrait of Stanley, who - by the way - breaks every rule of facial proportion known to man, says artist Messing.

Hillside art show benefits cancer group

Thread art seminar set

UNSHINE COMPANY of Livonia, in cooperation with the "Doves" chapter of the ThreadArtists International, will sponsor an informational workshop on bunks, the oriental art of thread painting 8-10 p.m.Tuesday, April 14.

Bunka thread art is a form of embroidery, using a punch needle and special rayon yarn, to create this unusual Japanese art form.

Many examples of the this needlework will be on display and experts will be on hand to answer questions.

The session will be held at Sunshine Picture Framing, 37279 Six Mile, in the Newburgh Plaza mini mall. Reservations are suggested and may be made by calling 591-7746.

beauty. But the watchbal eye of an artist finds beauty in the common place. Such as the folded and cracked leather of a high-top work boot. The free flowing lines of the untied laces and the shiny brass of the worn eyelets.

Now I am not saying that staring at an old boot could replace a Florida vacation. It is just that some need to "get away from it all" and the artist seeks to understand what was always there. To do so, llook at your surroundings wherever you are. Revelation will come to you as you look and study the lines, shapes and colors of all that you attempt to draw.

So instead of getting away from it all, try getting "into" it all. Find revelation in the common place and not forgetting to explore the uncommon. Along with exotic animals and far away scenes look for the beauty of those things readily available and often overlooked.

Once a year weark, because every day people need.

The following is a glossary of words you might come across, provided by Citizens for Better Care:

- Skilled care patients need extensive medical equipment and care.
- Basic care patients need help with activities and daily living tasks.
- Medicare is a federally funded health insurance program for people per-manently disabled or 65 and older. Medicare can pay for up to 100 days of skilled care in a nursing home. The first 20 days of skilled care are covered in full; there is a co-payment for days 21 through 100. Some Medicare Supplement Insurance (Medigap) policies will cover this co-pay-
- Medicaid is a state and federally funded assistance program for those unable to pay. Unlike Medicare, Medicaid will pay for basic and skilled care. It is important to find out whether a nursing home will provide the correct level of care. About 70 percent of Michigan's nursing home residents rely on Medicaid to help pay for their care.

 Senior citizens' housing or apart-ments offer independent living for those who prefer not to live in their own homes. Most have features to accommodate handicapped people; like handrails and wide doorways for wheelchairs.

· Homes for the aged are residential care facilities for 21 or more people 60 years and older. They provide room and board, recreation, supervision and person-al care assistance, like bathing, dressing and grooming.

• Adult foster care homes offer room and board as well as supervision and personal care to people over 18 years old.

Homes may specialize in providing care for the mentally retarded, chronically mentally ill or elderly.

Boarding homes are available for adults who want someone to prepare meals and take care of household tasks. They aren't supposed to provide supervision or personal care. If they do, they must be licensed as adult foster care

 Nursing homes provide medical su-pervision and nursing care to persons suffering or recovering from illness. Most nursing home residents are for the elderly, but some provide care for people of any age in need of 24-hour care.

Home chore programs, home health programs, meals-on-wheels, adult day care or other services also help some people to live independently.

Nursing homes face scrutiny

By Diane Gale staff writer

LOT OF changes are going on in nursing homes.

State and federal agencies are writing stricter rules because of growing public interest.

Some changes are the result of a national study — completed last year — by the Institute of Medicine, a private non-profit organization, which found the "quality of life in many nursing homes is poor."

Most nursing homes - even some of the best — took a blow in the public's eye as a

ANOTHER MAJOR change was the result of a lawsuit initiated by a Colorado nursing home resident 12 years ago.

The lawsuit has altered each state's health department survey procedures called patients' care and services (PACS).

As of Aug. 1, 1986, survey teams must have contact with residents. Previously the team was required to make sure the facility met paper work requirements, which may or may not include patient in-

"Under the old survey process, the survey team might never have looked at the patients and said: 'OK you're providing enough care,' said Hollis Turnham, of Citizens for Better Care, Michigan longterm care ombudsman.

This is not a revolutionary change in Michigan, but it's a change in other THE CHANGES include requiring survey teams to interview residents and observe dining periods and drug dispensing.

"We are seeing a lot more citations being given with the implementation of the (PACS) process," Turnham said.
"Overall we are very excited about the PACS program. We are 10 steps ahead of where we were."

The complaint was that the survey didn't evaluate the health care that was provided but evaluated the capacity of the facility to provide the health care.

"It has increased the number of citations that have been issued," said Evelyn Jones, a registered nurse with the Health Department deputy division chief.

"The (citations of) deficiencies have increased. They relate to direct patient care, like providing warm food, correct diets and treatment."

NURSING HOMES are much better today than even 10 years ago, said Celia Savonen, project director for Citizens for Better Care. "But in many cases it's still appalling," she said.

Some 440 nursing homes in Michigan house more than 45,000 residents.

Seven percent of all facilities + 29 homes — are responsible for 42 percent of all complaints, said the state attorney

U.S. recommends strict state control

The Institute of Medicine completed its massive report last year reviewing government regulation of nursing homes.

The private non-profit corporation recommended changes in regulatory policies and procedures. As a result, Michigan and other states have drawn stricter nursing home guidelines that have resulted in a more active approach to monitoring.

 Quality of care and quality of life in many nursing homes are satisfactory.

More effective government regula-tion can substantially improve quality in nursing homes. A stronger federal role is Specific improvements are needed in the regulatory system.

• There are opportunities to improve quality of care in nursing homes that are independent of changes in the Medicaid payment policies of bed supply.

• Regulation is necessary but not sufficient for high-quality care.

• A system to obtain standardized data on residents is essential.

The regulatory system should be dy-namic and evolutionary in outlook.

In 1985, 997 complaints were investigated by the health department, said James Buchanan, patient rights investigation and monitoring section chief.

IN MICHIGAN last year, Attorney General Frank Kelley issued more than 20 indictments in a crackdown on nursing home employees. State officials say abuse reports have fallen as a result.

A Health Department team — consist ing of a registered nurse, dietician and sanitarian - makes annual checks at nursing homes, hospitals and other health care facilities. These teams — a total of about 40 people — are responsible for monitoring more than 1,000 health care facilities.

Homes that have chronic health code violations involving patient care as well as facility structural problems are placed on the health department's "intent to deny license list."

The action which nursing home operators fear even more, however, is "decertification of Medicaid funding." That could mean a loss in all or most of the facility's financial resources, forcing closure.

THE HEALTH Department and advocacy groups prefer to see corrections made rather than the closing of a facility.

"Relocating causes trauma to patients," Jones said.

When there's immediate danger to residents, an emergency order can be issued and the facility immediately closed.

More often, after repeated state violations, nursing home owners succumb to state pressures and close the facilities on

The following are guidelines suggested by Citizens for Better Care:

Obtain a list of nursing homes in the geographical area you prefer from the Michigan Department of Public Health or the Citizens for Better Care office.

• Call the Health Department or the Department of Social Services and ask for inspection and licensing information on the home. Ask if an "intent to deny license list" was issued by the health departmen because of uncorrected problems.

• Contact Citizens for Better Care for information about licensing and certifica-tion. The advocacy group also has other information about some homes.

 Approach your doctor, social work agencies, clergymen, church organizations or retiree and other volunteer groups.

A 'horror story'

"IT'S BEEN trial by fire. I've seen bad hospital care, bad nursing home care and bad home health care," said Rita Burgess, a Livonia resident trying to find care for She is bitter about what she has found.

Her father adamantly resisted being placed in a nursing home. That made her "You just don't know where to turn.

Nursing homes are terrifying, because some just aren't nice places," she said. HER FATHER, George Burgess, 73, suffered a stroke May 10, 1985, and was taken to a hospital. He was released "prematurely 12 days later," Burgess said.

What she referred to as an early release was the result of Diagnostic Related Groups, known as DRGs. It is a system by which illnesses are assigned specific pay-

"He literally got dropped off on the doorstep," she said.

Burgess said the hospital didn't send paper work on what treatment had been provided and what she should do.

"It was holy hell having to keep him at

Burgess and her mother, Clara, cared for him for 24 hours with the help of a nurses' aide whom they hired.

George Burgess was readmitted the next day and transferred to St. Joseph Hospital in Ypsilanti.

MEANWHILE, Burgess, a Ford Motor Co. accountant, searched for a facility that would provide her father skilled nursing home care.

The smell sometimes is enough to knock you over when you walk into some of these places," Burgess said.
She reviewed Michigan Department of Public Health investigation reports to discover what violations had been cited in the facilities. She learned to observe the type of care patients received. She talked to nursing home adminstrators to get a feel for the type of care they promoted.

Burgess tells "horror stories." Once she was illegally asked to put down a deposit to cover what the facility called a lapse in Blue Cross/Blue Shield coverage.

Good nursing homes had long waiting lists, she said. She opted for a home in Washtenaw County despite the long trips she and her mother would have to make. Last year, she transferred him to a Dear-

It's 'Medicaid discrimination'

staff writer

"SHE TOLD us she didn't care if she lived anymore . . . In less than a year, she died of respiratory failure."

Jan Petrie was speaking of her motherin-law, who died in 1983 after being forced to move out of a nursing home in Livonia where she received quality care. She moved to an inferior facility in Detroit because it had the only bed immediately Petrie's mother-in-law needed financial assistance through the Medicaid program for her care. She was given 30 days to leave the Livonia nursing home after she was reclassified from needing skilled care to needing only basic care.

"SHE COULD have stayed if she'd been a private-pay patient," Petrie said, "but the home told us it was no longer going to accept basic Medicaid patients, and we had to move her out.

"Other nursing homes were doing the same thing at the time, and we got no help in finding her alternative housing.

"As a result, we had to put her into a nursing home that turned out to be very inferior. She went there after having been in a situation where she was happy and in relatively good health. It was the worst experience of our lives," Petrie said.

'MEDICAID discrimination" is the term commonly used to describe what

It means that when a nursing home has a choice of filling an empty bed with a) a private-pay patient who pays top rates, or b) a Medicaid-eligible patient whose rates are cost-controlled by the state, the facility will welcome the private-pay person. Medicaid is a state-federal program that pays for those lacking other resources.

People from all sides of this burgeoning industry - even the Health Care Association of Michigan that represents the nursing homes — agree that nursing homes do discriminate against applicants and patients who must rely on the Medicaid program in whole or part.

They disagree, however, on causes and

THE HEALTH care association lashed out at the Michigan health and welfare delivery system in a white paper presented Oct. 30 to the Intergovernmental Nursing Home Action Team, a group formed by Gov. James Blanchard to recommend so-lutions to problems in the industry.

"Nursing homes have been charged in varying ways with discrimination for their increasing reluctance to accept as pa-tients persons either eligible for Medicaid or presumed to be eligible," the white paper said. "In fact, more and more homes in recent years have found it necessary to ures of our state's health and welfare delivery system." The association maintains that the main reason Medicaid patients "get quality care in the majority of homes" is "because the cost of their care is supplemented by pay-ments from non-Medicaid patients." PRIVATE-PAY patients always pay more for the services at a nursing home than the state pays for Medicaid patients, said Celia Savonen, project coordinator with Citizens for Better Care, a consumer

Most nursing homes are certified to accept Medicaid patients. A few, by choice, do not. These are facilities that usually provide the most and best services to prirate-pay residents.

According to Citizens for Better Care, more than 65 percent of Michigan's nursing home residents use Medicaid to help pay for their care. More than 60 percent of those who enter a nursing home paying privately will eventually need the help of the Medicaid program.

HERE ARE some ways in which nursing homes discriminate against the Medicaid patients — some illegal, some proper.

• Illegal: Some facilities ask that Medicaid-eligible patients or their famililes sign private-pay duration of stay conagrees that the patient will stay a speci-fied length of time, before converting to

 Possibly illegal: The number of Medicaid patients who can be admitted to some nursing homes is limited by the facilities seeking Medicaid certification for only some of their licensed beds.

• Discriminatory, but not illegal: Maintaining dual waiting lists — one for private-pay patients and one for Medicaid

• Legal: Some facilities have a quota of beds for Medicaid patients.

 Some homes may ask for a deposit at the time of admission in addition to the patient-pay amount. There is no legal reason for a home to ask for this money if the patient already has a Medicaid card.

• Illegal: A facility requires continuation of a private-pay contract once the in-dividual becomes Medicaid eligible.

• Illegal: A facility asks for contributions, donations or gifts as a condition of admission or continued stay.

• Illegal: A nursing home that is certified for Medicald patients discharges patients as they exhaust their financial sources to the point of being eligible for e Illegal: Sometimes nursing homes charge Medicald patients or their families for goods and services that are part of the facility's payment from Medicald.

ANTON Care Nursing Home has been knocked for the care it gives residents, nearly all of whom are Medicaid patients.

But the director of nursing blames "the system" for failing to provide enough money to make life better for patients.

"The system stinks, as far as I'm con-cerned," said registered nurse Noreen

She said better conditions depend on whether Michigan legislators will allow higher Medicaid payments to nursing

"We have folks here without family, and we try to provide not only the necessities but niceties," she said. "If they could function on the outside, they would. Their physical condition is such that family can't care for them."

"We try to be as creative as we can with the little bit of money that we have," Acheson said. "We like families to see we're not a brand new fancy hotel, but we do keep it clean, and we try to provide for them as best we can."

FOR MORE than eight years, Canton Care, then known as Dion Memorial Nursing Home, fought Department of Public Health charges that it failed to comply with the health code.

Late in 1984 Brian Suter bought the facility on Michigan Avenue, and things seemed to turn around. Its name was changed to Canton Care. The state issued a short-term license.

Improvements were made, and the nursing home was taken off the state's "intent to deny ticemse" list.

BUT NOT ALL the problems disap-Last summer a resident who had wandered away from the facility was found dead in a field. Another resident wandered away later in the year.

Wandering is a patient rights issue, Acheson said, and the facility has alarms on the doors. Some residents are allowed to leave the facility on their own, but those who should be attended outdoors sometimes slip through unnoticed.

We don't restrain too much or tie peo ple down. They (patients) do have rights. I don't believe in chemical or physical re-straints unless it's for their own safety,"

"I would like to see the public understand that nursing homes aren't warehouses. People do go home once in a while."

ANNOUNCEMENTS blared over an intercom as residents walked freely in the hallways during a recent visit.

"I don't believe a nursing home should be a quiet, sedate place. I would rather have a lot of noise," said Acheson, who has worked at the facility for two years. "We let them do what they want is they're not hurting anyone."

It's hard to weed out poor workers who were fired at other nursing homes, she said, because administrators fail to pass along the information, fearing a lawsuit.

Hospitals are given incentive to release

In the past, hospitals were paid by the amount of time and care given to patients. They had an incentive to retain patients.

Under governmental insurance programs, hospitals today are encouraged to release patients as early as possible.

correct health code violations, hit them where it hurts - the wallet. That's the state Department of Public Health approach.

Facilities that fail to meet state and federal standards are decertified - they ose Medicare and Medicaid payments.

Nursing homes have a minimal number of private-pay patients, so when they're decertified, they usually must close.

DECERTIFICATION occurs after the Public Health Department cites the facility with continued uncorrected health code violations in patient care and structural problems with the building.

The Michigan Department of Social Services is responsible for Medicaid payments. Kevin Seitz, DSS director of medical services administration, said more facilities face decertification due to stricter policies by the federal government. When a home is decertified for Medicare, its Medicaid also is jeopardized.

Michigan has strict rules limiting the number of nursing facility beds, Seitz said. This encourages people to seek alternatives, such as remaining in their own

Another enforcement tool: lawsuit

NURSING home resident froze to death outside the home. A woman on a puree diet suffo-cated on solid food she was given by a facility. Another nursing home resident was supposed to receive daily enemas but hadn't received one for 17 days. Feces became impacted in her intestinal tract, and she was taken to a hospital where it was literally chipped away. The woman suffered a heart attack and died shortly thereafter.

These are just a few nursing home cases Detroit attorney Carole Chiamp has

ONE WAY to improve conditions, she said, is to sue facilities for poor care. It draws attention by making the facility's insurance company pay a settlement.

Nursing home operators, however, argue that increasing numbers of lawsuits have caused insurance rates to skyrocket. In turn, that reduces care.

"The bottom line is that you have to teach them by taking their money," Chiamp replied.

The amount of litigation brought against nursing homes is small compared to lawsuits filed against doctors and hospitals, said Chuck Chomet, who in 1969 helped found Citizens for Better Care, a 'If nursing homes wind up paying damages because of care in the past, maybe they will try to improve care in the future.'

Nursing home residents are afraid to act because every aspect of their life is dependent on the facilities, he said.

"A lot of nursing home patients see themselves as their total environment being in the nursing home, and they don't want to challenge that," Chomet said.

CHIAMP PROMOTES a different approach to ensure better nursing home care: Relatively young, healthy retirees would be assigned to visit nursing home patients on a regular basis, acting as watchdogs for the residents.

She said the program could be implemented through a grant system offered by the UAW or other groups.

Usually cases that involve the poor and those close to death aren't worth taking due to lengthy attorney investigations and the likelihood of a small settlement, she

WHEN FAMILY members visited, they were appalled by large bed sores on her tail bone, heels and left hip. They had her transferred from the Detroit nursing home to another facility.

The first facility's records, however, showed she had bed sores before she was admitted. But a social worker who visited there were no sores at that time.

The nurse at the Detroit home admitted to falsifying the records. The nurse quit the nursing home, and the facility now has a new administrator and owner, Garvey

"My purpose as a lawyer is, I can bring individual cases to the attention of the courts," Garvey said.

"WHAT IT really boils down to is that nursing homes are profit making institutions. In some nursing homes it means the bottom dollar, and in some it means care.

"Litigation changes conduct by hitting the pocket book so bad that they have to change. Possibly attorneys should have to report cases to the Health Department."

Chomet agrees. "Unfortunately, the way it works is the resident has already been injured or is dead because of poor care. If nursing homes wind up paying damages because of care in the past, maybe they will try to improve care in the future."

The number of lawsuits and statistics on violations against nursing homes are deceiving, Chomet said, because residents and family members are hesitant to report problems.

Low-paid aides do the job

Nurses' aides do 80 to 90 percent of the work in nursing homes - cleaning up af-

But many nursing home advocates say the aides are inadequately trained. State officials say it's tough to ensure that aides are trained.

And the job turnover is high. "They are paid minimum wage, which is less than what McDonald's pays," said Jeanette Beaupied, assistant project director for Citizens for Better Care, an advocacy group monitoring nursing homes.

"Would you rather clean (feces) and urine for eight hours a day, or would you rather go fling hamburgers?"

ABOUT 15 PERCENT of nursing staff in the nation's nursing homes are registered nurses, 14 percent are licensed practical nurses and 71 percent are nurses' aides. That's according to a 1986 landmark national study, commissioned by the Institute of Medicine affiliated with the National Academy of Science.

Is increased training in some cases the key to better care the federal government calls for?

"When I talk to people from unions representing nursing aide employees, they say there are incidents that people are hired and put on the floor with little or no training," said Hollis Turnham, long-term care ombudsman of Michigan Citizens for Better Care.

Michigan Department of Public Health rules require aides receive training at the nursing home. But the Health Department recognizes it's tough to ensure this train-

The turnover rate for nurses' aides is from 70 percent to more than 100 percent per year, which causes sress in residentstaff relations, the national study said. A high turnover rate is the result of difficult work, low wages and, often, minimal training, it said.

IF NURSING homes beefed up staff ratios "most of the problems would go away," Beaupied said.

Charges make staffs clean up act

TATE charges against nursing home workers have helped reduce the number of reported abuses, state officials say.

In 1986, state Attorney General Frank Kelley issued 28 criminal charges of patient abuse against nursing home workers.

"I certainly think they had an impact," said Hollis Turnham, Michigan long-term

"I think you would have to be under a rock somewhere not to realize that if you're abusive toward someone, you may be facing someone from the attorney general's office."

EMPLOYEES MORE often refuse to deal with a combative patient until other workers are available to help, said Joe Sutton, assistant state attorney general. This reduces the chances of a fight resulting and an abuse report being filed, he

"We, in effect, have put ourselves out of business," Sutton said. "We are not getting abuse to the patients, because they (workers) know we're out there. The indictments have fallen off. Sure, there will al-

In these cases the common sentence given has been community service, payment of court costs and one year probation, during which time the person is banned from working in a nursing home.

THE CHARGES drew a lot of attention to problems in nursing homes. So did Gov. James Blanchard's Nursing Home Action Team, which was initiated last year. The group includes representatives from state agencies, advocacy groups and nursing

AFTER THE first set of indictments was issued, Kelley said, the majority of facilities and employees provide quality care to their patients.

"Tragically, however, in some cases residents receive not treatment but mistreatment - physical assault, gross neglect or even injuries causing death," Kelley said. "We cannot ignore this or allow it to continue unpunished

Medicaid patients 'a different reward'

HERE ARE few frills at West Trail Nursing Home.

It's a small facility with 46 residents in a building on Ann Arbor Trail in Plymouth which staffers admit "doesn't look

Medicaid pays for 40 indigent patients. Less money comes in — especially compared to nursing homes where the majority of patients are

But the staff loves it and the patients.

LIZ CLOS, a registered nurse, took a $4.50 hourly pay cut from a hospital when she started at West Trail in 1986 because there are rewards, she said, that aren't gauged in money.

"The hospital was real rewarding, but there's a different kind of reward here. The people here are grateful for the crumbs."

Hospital patients think they're in a hotel and are less content, she said. In the nursing home, they don't expect a lot and appreciate even the smallest favor, endearment or token.

Hot properties in stock market

ORPORATIONS and hospitals are buying nursing homes at a rapid

Beverly Enterprises is the largest owner of nursing homes in the country, said Bess Bowman, executive assistant to the chairman of the firm. Beverly has 1,200 facilities in 47 states and District of Columbia. They house 128,000 beds and employ 120,000.

The company began buying nursing homes in 1963, but has experienced its largest growth during the last five years. It also is the biggest firm in Michigan, with 40 to 48 of the 440 facilities here.

Beverly Enterprises is involved in retirement living centers, durable medical equipment agencies, institutional pharmacy services and home health agencies.

THE COMPANY is expected to keep growing, because of an "active acquisition program," said Dave Harrison, director of mmunications for the Eastern Division of Beverly Enterprises.

Nursing home purchases by hospitals have increased during the past three years, and the trend is "escalating," said Donald Benson, Michigan Non-profit Homes Association executive director.
Nursing homes purchases are still a relatively new area for hospitals.

Only 3.6 percent of all community hospitals nationally are affiliated with free standing nursing homes that provide extensive medical attention. And 12 percent of community hospitals nationally are affiliated with basic care nursing homes, according to an American Hospitals Associa-tion study conducted in 1986.

Easy prey for organized crime

RGANIZED crime is targeting nursing homes in Michigan. The FBI Detroit office expects "to see significant devel-opment in the near future" involving organized criminals in nursing homes, said John Anthony, FBI special agent.

"We know they are involved in hidden ownership and the operation of nursing homes," Anthony said. "Nursing homes are very naturally targets identified by organized criminals because of the services provided to them."

Those services include medical, laundry, insurance, vending machines and lab-

The profits made in the scams cut the quality of care given to residents.

"They have to cut corners, and thos services are the patient care services." Anthony said. "There's no doubt that the quality of care suffers."

HOWEVER,"there are other areas in organized crime that could be more fruitful in a shorter amount of time," said Anthony, because nursing home organized
