A $150,000 expansion - two classrooms, a science lab and a music room - is under way at Plymouth Christian Academy. The addition, upwards of 3,600 square feet, should be finished this summer, said Roland DeRenzo, academy superintendent.

PLYMOUTH CHRISTIAN Academy, one of the larger private schools in the community, has 480 students in grades K-12, DeRenzo said. Enrollment is expected to rise to 500 next year and cap at 750 by

Commission OKs expansion of DDA

By Doug Funke staff writer

Plymouth's City Commission Monday overwhelmingly approved expansion of the downtown development authority district.

66 Pages

The approval, with only Donald Keller dissenting, came after several residents expressed fears about commercial encroachment into neighborhoods.

The addition of about 35 lots to the downtown development district will generate an estimated $175,000 annually in property tax revenue for the district by the 1988-89 budget year.

Initially, that money is expected to be spent burying all utilities at the Central Parking Lot deck off Main Street.

The pre-expanded district this year is expected to generate $106,000 to pay bonds used to finance a deck for the parking lot.

State law allows for establishment of special development authority districts to renovate or provide services in downtown areas.

THE PORTION of tax revenue that results from rising values of existing properties plus all revenue of new development within a downtown district stays in the district.

In Plymouth, properties within and outside the downtown development district are taxed at the same rate.

Most commissioners said their concerns about expansion of the district had been answered with information provided by the downtown development authority, an advisory group, and city administrators.

Warm weather spawns cruisers and tickets

Residents who spoke to the issue didn't seem nearly as convinced

Bob Mundt, who lives on Ann Arbor Trail, presented the commission with a petition he said contained 446 signatures.

The petition cited objection to expansion of the authority, possible diversion of general fund money to the district and increased property taxes.

"I do disagree with the current expansion of DDA into residential areas," Mundt said. "It subsequently invites development."

'We don't want Plymouth to be the commercial center for this area." said William McAninch.

HE SUGGESTED that property owners in the development district could request an additional tax of $2 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation allowed by state law if they wanted more money.

John Moehle maintained that the development district as constituted prior to the expansion could pay for additional improvements in the years ahead.

Larry Kuhns, who lives on Maple, presented the city commission with a survey that he said already indicated healthy downtown business district.

He said that taxpayers throughout the city lose a voice in how tax dollars are spent when money generated by downtown development districts stays downtown.

'Controversial items should go to a vote of the people," Kuhns said.

City Manager Henry Graper said he may send summaries of a report prepared by the downtown development authority to everyone who signed the petition presented by Mundt.

Fund-raising efforts already have netted 25 to 30 percent of anticipated construction costs, he said.

"We're not looking at a mortgage or working on a loan at this time," DeRenzo said. "This phase is basically underwritten by our constituency. It's not a full-blown capital funding drive, but similar to that.

"We expect a major push to be completed by August or September to make contacts and secure funds."

Pledges probably will be paid over a two or three-year period, he said.

imum we could handle," he said.

The academy, affiliated with Calvary Baptist Church in Canton, was established in 1976.

School buildings were rented in Northville and Westland before students began attending classes on the academy's own property six years ago.

Grades five through 12 currently are housed in a building containing 14 classrooms. The addition will be attached to the south side of that structure.

Grades K through four are housed in the former church building that has been renovated.

FURTHER improvements are planned to the academy and church property, although no timetable cialty rooms.

"Our education is a family process," DeRenzo said. "The difference here is involving mom and dad in the process. We emphasize the family and family unit."

Some public schools seek that goal, too, he added, but private schools can be more selective in staff they hire and students they admit. "Our population is much smaller," DeRenzo said.

Tuition, he said, won't be raised to pay for the capital improvements.

Tuition this year is $1,800 for high school students, $1,600 for pupils in grades seven and eight and $1,200 for children in grades K through six.

Family discounts are available.

Summerlike weather last weekend brought swarms of young people to downtown Plymouth and the issuance of more than 150 tickets for disorderly conduct, traffic offenses and parking violations, according to Police Chief Richard Myers.

"I'm not saying it was a record crowd, but it certainly was a record number of tickets we wrote," he said. "The word will get out."

Of the 147 non-parking tickets issued last weekend, 29 went to Livonians, 21 to Canton residents, 19 to Plymouth Township residents, 13 to Westlanders, 10 to Garden City residents and five to city of Plymouth residents, police reported.

Eleven officers worked Friday night, eight Saturday and six Sunday,

• 71 misdemeanor tickets for such offenses as trespassing, urinating in public and littering.

• 54 civil traffic violations, including speeding and most other moving violations.

• 22 misdemeanor traffic tickets for more serious offenses like reckless driving and open intoxicants in a motor vehicle.

• 13 parking tickets.

"Obviously from the judges' perspective, we have to evaluate each case on its merits, but I would say as a general rule we'll increase fines and costs," said John A. MacDonald, chief judge.

He and Judge James Garber will contemplate a fine of $100, court costs of $100 and a judgment fee of $5 for a total assessment of $205, MacDonald said.

Collector has reason for hobby: It's fun

By Julie Brown staff writer

When people ask Paul Stanton about his stamp collection, many want to know which stamp of his is the rarest or most expensive.

For Stanton, collecting stamps is a hobby.

"I like to downplay the monetary value of stamps," said the Plymouth Township resident, who works as a credit analyst for R.S. Electronics in Livonia.

"It's a hobby. You have fun at it. The main thing is just a relaxing, enjoyable hobby.'

Stanton, 29, began collecting stamps some 20 years ago. His father collected coins.

Stanton's mother had a box of stamps she'd saved for the church missionaries.

"I looked through those and said, 'I'm going to start collecting these,' " he said.

He convinced his mother to buy him a stamp album. The worldwide album had pictures of stamps, and Stanton tried to track down the stamps to match the pictures.

OVER THE years, Stanton's collection has grown.

Although he has a few good stamps "stashed away in the bank vault," Stanton still considers stamp collecting something to do primarily for fun. He has met people at stamp shows and also has corresponded with a number of stamp collectors.

"The biggest thing is I've met a lot of people," he said.

'I've broadened my horizons and been able to learn a lot.'

The 1975 Plymouth Canton High School graduate earned a bachelor's degree in business administration from Michigan's Spring Arbor College in 1978.

Last year, Stanton worked full time for a stamp dealer, fulfilling one of his dreams. Although he enjoyed that job, Stanton decided he didn't want to continue it.

"Then it became work instead of fun," he said.

While he worked for the stamp dealer. Stanton met people who would bring in sheets of stamps. They were disappointed to learn that often those stamps weren't even worth what they had paid for them in earlier years.

"They'd think we were crooks or something," Stanton said. "We can buy them for less than face value. We'd put them on our mail."

STANTON ENCOURAGES beginning stamp collectors to collect whatever it is they enjoy. The only requirements are having some leisure time and discretionary income.

pushed as an educational activity for children. Although that's true, a heavy-handed approach can leave youngsters not interested, Stanton said.

Stanton is a member of the Birmingham Stamp Club. That club and the Birmingham YMCA have started a youth club for stamp collectors, to get them interested in the hobby.

Stanton has stamps from Bhutan, a small country in the Himalayas. He's an officer in a club of people collecting Tin Can Island items. The island is in Tonga in the south Pacific.

"Many of our patrons are very concerned," she said. The Canton library began circuare associated with dyslexia, but few dyslexics exhibit all these characterisitcs. The presence of a good number of them may indicate formal testing is necessary.

As early as preschool or after school is under way some children may:

• Be slow in learning to talk. Not always understand what is said to them.

• Have problems in following directions.

· Have difficulty in remembering words, learning new words or expressing themselves.

· Be slow acquiring a vocabulary for verbalizing or may use too many words to make themselves understood by others. Mispronounce words.

· Be clumsy and awkward in large muscle activities; running, hopping, skipping, playing games, sports.

• Be uncertain of preferred handedness

· Avoid or have difficulty recognizing or recalling own names, letters of the alphabet, words that are taught.

• Show little desire or outright avoidance of learning to read or to write, or to listen to stories read to them

After entering school, children may:

· Be verbal and interested listeners but have difficulty learning to read.

· Have difficulty following spoken and/or written directions, or reading directions or after reading, fail to comprehend what was read. · Have confusion with sequenc-

• Verbalize clearly but without being able to spell the words for writing answers to questions.

• Write illegibly or with misformed letters.

2 youths face murder trial

Washtenew Juvenile Judge Judith Wood has ordered two boys to stand trial on one count each of open murler in the slaying of a 13-year-old Canton girl. The judge called the police inves-tigation the worst she's seen in her years in the Washtenaw County legal system. Wood ruled statemen given by one youth to sheriffs are inadmissible during trial because they were made after he was illegally arrested.

Wood admonished Washtenaw County sheriff Detective Lloyd Stamper for "compromising this case," which, she said, "wasn't the first time.'

Stamper's comment that the boy ## was on the "hot seat" and couldn't leave until he was cleared constituted an arrest before police actually had enough evidence to hold him, she said. Wood also criticized Stamper for trying to change transcripts of one of the boys' statements.

WOOD LATER added she was specifically referring to Stamper and not other detectives.

"Detective Stamper violated about every constitutional right that can be imagined," she said.

Disciplinary action has been taken against the detective, who is currently on leave from the department, said Michael Johnson, Washtenaw County undersheriff. Johnson declined to elaborate.

Wood ruled the statements made to police by the other youth may be used in court, because he was told more than once he could leave. His demeanor and comments also indicated he wasn't pressured or upset.

"(He) was calm, cocky and acting like he had no cares in the world as he was playing an air guitar," Wood said.

Each of the boys told police basically the same gruesome story about how Mary Anne Hulbert was shot in a secluded Washtenaw County field. Her body was found Jan. 7 - a coroner's report lists Dec. 30 as the date of her death.

The boys said Hulbert thought she was pregnant and that one of them was the father. An autopsy found she was not pregnant.

Each of the boys told police the other masterminded the plan and pulled the trigger eight times as Hulbert moaned and writhed on the ground.

Wood will decide next month if the boys - both 16 years old when the slaying happened - will be tried as adults.

She ruled there was insufficient evidence to try the youths on conspiracy charges. Both boys will con-tinue to be held in juvenile detention centers.

Plymouth Township's Paul Stanton and his fellow members of the West Suburban Stamp Club are looking forward to this weekend's stamp show.

The club has about 250 members primarily from western Wayne County with some from the downriver area and Washtenaw County. Club members will be among those attending this weekend's show.

The stamp show will be held from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday, April 25, and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday, April 26, in the gymnasium of Cen-tral Middle School, at Church and Main streets in Plymouth. Admission is free.

"It's become a national show," Stanton said of the Plymouth event, which has been held annually for more than 15 years. "It's something that almost all the collectors in the area look forward to."

But some of drug testing's limita tions are disturbl

A National Institute on Drug Abuse study found that inaccurate results are being reported by some laboratories used by large corpora-tions for employee drug testing programs. Twenty percent of labs in the test reported the presence of illegal drugs in drug-free urine specimens, according to the institute. The mistakes were made despite the fact the labs knew ahead of time that a competence evaluation was being done.

There are a lot of horror stories. A lot of them," said Phil Predmore, who as a toxicologist for the Oakland County Medical Examiner's Office, which deals with laboratories every day. "Technology is available today which can make drug testing an extremely accurate process. But just because you have the equipment in the room doesn't necessarily mean the production coming out is as de-sirable as it should be."

A lot depends on how much the person ordering the test wants to spend, said Predmore. An initial drug test can be performed for $3, $5 or $10.

For a screening and a confirma-tion, you're talking $100, but "that's $100 well-spent. If someone were denying me employment, or denying me my freedom, I would demand that it be done on me. The same op- ry test, will be positive.'

of control, but ercent. In this world, noth-percent," said Ken Stock-Michigan's largest independent labo-ratory, Mittrie hab service centers in Garden City, Phylosoth, Livenia, Ro-chester and elsewhere.

"No one prophises that drug test-ing is a panacea to solve this coun-try's drug problems. It's one element that can be used to control drug use, which in this country definitely is ep-idemic," added Stockton.

Metric is accurate 96-99 percent of the time, said Stockton. It's accredited by the State of Michigan, the Centers for Disease Control and the College of American Pathology, and employs numerous in-house quality control measures.

But it's not immune to industrywide problems.

A common one - drug interfer-ence - can result in a user of legitimate prescription or over-the-coun-ter drugs testing positive for amphetamines.

Athletes, employees and others have faced wrongful accusations of drug abuse and have lost the privilege to compete or work as a result. "Drug interference occurs for two reasons," explained John Watkins, Metric vice president of operations. "Some medications contain a quantity of the drug class being sought by the test, and secondly, some medications contain substances which are so similar to the drug class being sought that an initial screening test, without a confirmatotive results are non-pres "All since

"All sinus-medicine takers — a sizeable part of the population — will produce a false positive," said Predmore. "That's will yies have to confirm by a different type of tech-nology that the substance present is not really an amphotamine." PHILOSOPHICAL JUDGMENTS by lab personnel also play a part in drug testing, said Predmore. "You can take a specimen, divide it in half, and take the samples to two different labs. Lab One might report it as 'positive,' and Lab Two, 'negative.' Tve had that happen, and they both are doing the right thing," said Predmore. "Tt's a 'question of deciding at

"It's a question of deciding at what minimum level you want to see something. Different tests will see different levels of drugs. If you have a lab that cuts off the urine marijuana level at 100 units, that means my test won't see less than 100 units. If you have a lab with a cut-off of 50, or 20, they might report the same specimen as positive. Both are giv-ing you the correct answer within the rules of the game within each

ONLY CALIFORNIA, New York and Pennsylvania have proficiency testing programs for drug testing laboratories, according to the Na-tional Institute on Drug Abuse. Nor is there an official registry of approved or certified laboratories.

Stockton offers this advice to job applicants and employers pondering drug screening programs:

"The prospective employee should be made aware of what's going on.

"It's critical that the employer record what kind of prescriptions the ployee is on.

'It's key for employees to take it seriously. They can get in trouble if they're not up front about what they're taking.

We can't say how or when a person took drugs, or what the source of drugs was," added Stockton. "All we "We'd encourage employers to use reputable labs and to become educated about the strengths and limita-tions of drug testing."

Drug use costly to U.S. employers

Drug screening business has increased 300 percent in the last eight months at the Southfield-based Metiric Medical Labs - which doesn't surprise Ken Stockton, Metric's director of public affairs. Stockton points out that his industry is growing in part because:

The cost of drug abuse to American industry is $100 billion. Twe thirds of that is alcohol abuse. 4. 100 million Americans use alcohol regularly.

• 20 million regularly smoke marijuana.

 22 million have used cocaine. 5 million use cocaine regularly. Workers on drugs are:

• 3.6 times more likely than their drug-free colleagues to be hurt in a plant accident. • 2.5 times more likely to be absent. • 3 times more likely to use sick benefits.

• 5 times more likely to file worker's comp claims.

By Diane Gale staff writer

At first glance it looked like Ken Stockton made an about face when he changed jobs.

Look harder and you see the same Stockton hawking a cause with the conviction and passion of an evangelist.

During what he jokingly refers to as his "past life" he was director of public affairs for Wayne County Community Living Services, a division of the state Department of Mental Health. Stockton was an outspoken advocate of neighborhoods accepting group homes for mentally retarded adults.

About a year ago, Stockton shed what he called his "liberal coat" and stepped from the public sector to the private.

NOW HE'S director of public affairs for Metric Medical Labs, the largest independent medical laboratory in the state. The laboratories, based in Southfield, conduct company drug tests - a much debated subject Stockton, a Northville resident, recognizes the dramatic switch. But he also sees similarities between the jobs.

"It was difficult for me to decide not to be in that arena anymore," he said. He adds his new job is linked to health care and it's a "helping, serving company."

"Second, the people I work for are very liberal in terms of the way they handle the employees. I like to fight, and I like to think I'm not afraid to get engaged in controversy or conflicts. "When I was working with the community placement program it meant I would believe in the program fully and strongly. There were conflicts to be won.

"In my current job I also feel I work for a place where I can believe in what I'm doing. There's a pur-DOSÉ.

DRUG TESTING and AIDS testing recently have been a major area of expansion for the company. 'Coupled with the growth is a lot of confusion and controversy," he said.

attacks on the technology, and I've seen enough to have a high feeling of confidence in it. No medical test is 100 percent accurate.'

> - Ken Stockton, Metric labs

Drug testing technology, Stockton believes, has suffered unfair criticism.

"I've seen a lot of attacks on the technology, and I've seen enough to have a high feeling of confidence in it. No medical test is 100 percent accurate."

He said the real controversy is what to do with employees who test positive on the drug test: How do you interpret the results? And what do you do after they are interpreted?

"I see our job as counseling employers on the limitations and the legalities involved with the tests. And how to interpret the results."

Stockton also explains ramifications of drug testing to employees. "One of the things I try to do is provide information on the issues for the person getting the test."

County Commissioner Kay Beard and other western Wayne County residents say they'll continue fight-ing to block Westland Medical Cen-ter's sale to a private health care consorting.

Time, however, pay be short. "I keep hoping the public will raise enough of an outcry to make the county executive back off (from supporting the sale)," said Beard, an Inkster Democrat/whose district includes the Westland center. But the commission's health and human services committee is expected to recommend the sale today - possibly clearing the way for a final vote by the full commission as early as Thursday, April 30.

COUNTY EXECUTIVE Edward McNamara has long advocated the sale, saying it would expand health care for needy county residents while reducing the debt-ridden county's red ink.

Roughly two dozen western Wayne County residents disagreed with that assessment earlier this week during public hearings on the sale.

They said it was more important for the county to re-establish a trauma center + an emergency room designed to handle large-scale tragedies.

Attempting to dispel concerns, county executive's staffers said a triuma center hadn't been main-

"Emergency response is available Within four minutes in western Wayne," Health and Community Services Director Vernice Davis-Anthony said. "That's significantly better than in Detroit."

We know a few older people who are going to die whether or not someone is there to bring them peace.

All over the Archdiocese there are people who need a place to count their blessings and share their sorrows—people who heed a hand, or a shoulder to lean on, or sometimes just an ear. OAE, Thursday, April 23, 1987

It's the 1st step in solving crisis

ARLIER THIS month, a gathering of western Wayne and downriver municipal leaders Hall to discuss the problem of solid waste removal — garbage collection. Landfills in Wayne County have a projected life of five to six years or less. Already one landfill operation in Canton has filled up and closed down. Other landfills in the county also are — quite predictably — filling up. As trash is hauled out of the county, to Jackson or beyond, the costs to cities and townships will rise geometrically.

While the public at-large is not excitit will be when operating millage Trises to pay for higher and higher gar-bage collection costs. By the mid-1990s, the problem will "reach crisis proportions. Right now, though, not enough people are getting

19. THE GATHERING of municipal 8 Eleaders in Canton was held April 3 at 7 Fellows Creek golf course.

Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara, addressing a full-house ference of Western Wayne, stressed that where must be a place to dump waste if development is going to come to the -county.

Canton Supervisor James Poole stressed that a plan must be adopted now to get rid of garbage in the future. "What we need to do is to come up with an alternative" to landfills. Westland Mayor Tray Griffin also stressed that "Landfills won't be the answer in the future."

McNamara suggested that incineration was a better method of waste disposal than landfill. With incineration, he said, solid waste can be reduced by 90. percent. Landfills still would be needed, though, to bury the ash.

The common approach to operate an incinerator, because of the construction costs and financing constraints involved, is to form an authority between a cluster of communities. The group of municipalities in the authority would pool resources to build and operate the incinerator, and the burden is considerably lighter on each.

THERE WAS enough interest in exploring disposal options that a committee of interested governments was formed.

The committee will now bring interested parties together and serve as a networking agency to share ideas and goals on alternatives. Some 12-15 governments in the area agreed to become involved in that effort.

The Observer believes that is an important beginning.

We are not convinced the problem will be solved, or even adequately addressed, by waiting for the federal or state governments or regional agencies to come up with a plan.

Local government, through combined efforts, has a good opportunity to come up with a solution. We already have urged that a serious look be given towards establishing an incinerator authority involving Plymouth, Canton, Northville, Novi, Livonia and others. There may be better alternatives.

The gathering earlier this month is an important beginning toward what might be a creative solution generated locally for a complex, but serious problem. What is most important is that at least we have begun.

THE REVER ROUGE NEEDSWOTT Cleaning up — Part II

Volunteers needed for river rescue day

MENTION THE Rouge River and most people agree that something has to be done to clean it up. But most have the feeling that no matter what is done it won't be enough and it won't happen soon. So, they turn their attention to other problems.

Well, something is being done. But it's going to take time - 20 years -, money - about $1 billion - and continued public support to stay on track.

Certainly, residents must demand that government officials and industry leaders work toward a solution to clean up what is an environmental shame.

The group is aiming for a big turnout - 5,000 people.

"If the public doesn't show its support, then the politicians and bureaucrats won't be able to do what's necessary," says James Murray, president of the group.

Cleanup sites as of late last month included Birmingham, Farmington, Livonia, Plymouth, Southfield, and locations in Wayne and Oakland counties.

Although recruiting 5,000 volunteers appears to be an ambitious undertaking, consider that more than 1.5 million people live and work in the 467-s mile areas known as the Rouge River Basin. The 126-mile long river runs through 42 communities including all 12 in which the O&E serves. Last year, the O&E published a special all-news section on the Rouge River. Fond memories # of a political hero

SOMEWHERE tucked away in a closet or bottom drawer is a scrapbook full of newspaper clippings, collected somewhere between 1962 and 1967.

Dusty and yellowed now, the articles represent a street kid's transformation to adulthood. Maybe you've got a scrapbook that helped you out during those awful adolescent days.

If not a scrapbook, you'll find a memory or two tucked away which kind of guides you along, acts as a reminder of why you are the way you are today. I really haven't given my collection much thought lately - not until the other night, anyway.

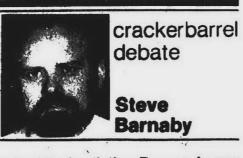

That's when I read that George Romney was being honored at some dinner in New York City. A quiet smile broke across my face as memories rushed in, reminding me of a kid I would hardly recognize today.

THE ARTICLES chronicle the political era of the silver-haired politician. Romney wouldn't recognize me from the next guy on the corner. But he changed my life. Although I often go to many more dinners than I care to remember, I truly wish I was in New York tonight. I'd really like to get up and say, "Thanks George. I couldn't have done it without

No rock and roll for this kid. It was all politics. And Romney was my star.

FLL BETCHA I shook that guy's hand 20 or 30 times in those five years. I even used to take teenage girlfriends on dates to see George Romney make speeches. Imagine what those 16 and 17 year-old girls must have thought. Sure, I laugh now, too.

But he made me see that it was important to use all my talents to their fullest and help make a better world.

Besides, he was about the most exciting speechmaker of our time.

I can still see him rolling up his sleeves, waving his fist, pointing his fin-ger, always challenging the establish-ment whether it be business or labor.

George made us all think again about the beliefs we took for granted. He also demonstrated the importance of leading a vigorous and vital life.

Library bills

One hard, fast law isn't the way to go

BEFORE WE bruise state Sen. Doug Cruce too seriously for his library bills, let's consider the good side of his message.

Government often does things private enterprise is doing. Sometimes that's good; sometimes bad.

Cruce, R-Troy, thinks it's bad that public libraries compete with commercial videocassette rental shops. His bills would prohibit libraries from charging rents.

The subject is far bigger than libraries.

GOVERNMENT was good the time I was hunting for a copy of "The Federalist Papers," those magnificent essays on the U.S. Constitution by Hamilton, Jay and Madison.

Commercial bookstores failed to carry one of the greatest documents in American history. The computers must have told the chain stores that Federalists wouldn't turn over often enough to well, that's business. And that's why we have government (i.e., public) li-braries.

OUR NEARBY public libraries also contain stacks of newsletters from our friendly local state representatives — regularly published by the thousands. Most of the stuff can be found in newspapers. These newsletters are what I call "socialized journalism." There is one significant difference: The newspaper tells you how your friendly state rep voted on a bill; the state rep's newsletter skips that, leading to the uncomfortable conclusion that our state reps are out to promote their images rather than to inform.

Now Oakland County commissioners are performing the same invaluable service. Cable TV has been a godsend to many politicians. Wayne County Executive William Lucas (1983-86) miraculously found money in red-inkstained budgets for a large TV crew and remarkably discovered an outlet across the state for his programs. What an enlightening supplement to commercial broadcasts!

And then Wayne County commissioners followed suit.

LEST YOU suspect I'm concerned only about socialism in communications, let me direct your attention to "Mapbook of Michigan Counties" published by the state Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and promoted in much state advertising. DNR's 11 by 17-inch book is directly competitive with "Guide to Fun in Michigan" pub-lished by the Michigan United Conser-vation Clubs (MUCC), a federation of outdoors persons clubs.

publication is doing well though it's far inferior to MUCC's book.

MUCC's Guide lists not only state campgrounds but county and National Forest Service campgrounds; major lake locations, acreages and public access sites; canoe and snowmobile trails - in short, it's double the value of DNR's book for about the same price.

ONE COULD GO on, but it's time to come to the point. The point is that it's unwise to say that private enterprise always is right or that government always is more trustworthy.

Let people in the market decide what they want to buy or rent, and vote with their dollars. Let local library boards decide how to manage their resources, and allow voters to pass judgment.

One hard and fast law for everyone isn't the way.

CORRECTION: This column erred April 16 in describing Rep. Jim Kosteva MUCC was in the field first. But as being from Lansing. He dwells in adging by bookstore displays, the DNR a Canton Township.

One of my aging friends, a golfer of sorts, has gone out of his way several times lately to caution me against my thoughtless tendency of spontaneously using terminology that others of our siderity golfing cotorie might consider offensive.

Does he have naughty four-letter words in mind? Oh, my no! He knows that as a coeducational group, we adhere in our jolly conversations at the 19th hole to a choice of language that is above reproach.

His new attention to a restrictive links lexicon gathered steam during the winter after I had remarked to the widow at final rites for another golfing buddy, "He finally found an unplayable lie even the rules committee can't change.

School board cheats parents

To the editor:

I feel the Plymouth Canton Board of Education is cheating the very people it is supposed to be serving by allowing "R" rated films to be shown in the schools.

The "R" rating indicates the movie is restricted to persons 18 or older and may be shown to persons younger than 18 only with parents permission. I am angry that the school, with the school board's permission, feels it has the right to exclude parents from making decisions for their own children. They steal the rights of the parents and further divide our family units.

"R" rated films have no place in school and no school or school board has the right to give parental permission. Nancy Dankert, Plymouth

To the editor:

I am 13 years old and into skateboards. I don't know much about this law or the reason for this law. I live in Canton and still get stopped by the Plymouth and Canton Police.

The kids around here have no place to do anything. How bad you you think skateboards are? I think you should make a skateboarding park. It costs lots of money, but after it's open you will make more money. Kids from all over would come to skate. I always drive by big places of open land that could fit lots of things for skating. Kids aren't listened to around here and so they can't express their opinions. There should be a kids' view for most laws concerning kids.

Extra milers are identified

To the editor:

There are parents and other people actively involved in making their schools a positive and exciting place. If there was an "extra miler" award for people outside the district, I have some wonderful candidates.

Robert Shelley truly cares about what kinds of experiences his child has in school. He took two days off work to become involved. Shelley took it one step further; he got his employers in-volved who sent speakers, microphones, spotlights, recorders, projectors — all the equipment needed for a quality show. All this for no charge.

When my classroom performed for their families at the 7 p.m. performance, school board members E.J. McClendon and Dean Swartzwelter were in attendance. The children put on another performance for the students at Fiegel the next morning and school board member Jeanette Wines and central office administrator Shirley Spaniel attended. Because of the acknowledge ments of these people, my liste graders felt their time and efforts by been well spent.

Phil Radant, a third-grade teacher at Flegel, stayed and assisted with the evening performance. It was through his skills we had both performances videotaped.

Jodi Ring, another teacher, volun-teered her time to do all the lighting for the program. She is not presently working at Fiegel, yet spent two days and an evening setting up and using the spot-lights and floodlights for both performances.

All of these people should be ap-plauded for taking the extra step.

king business is turbulen

The banking business is turbulent ind goting even more competitive. So Chairman Robert 4. Mylod is charding two new courses for Michi-gan National Corp. "Overdependence" on credit cards ind compareial banking, Mylod told the shareholders' annual meeting MNC will emphasize mortgage placement and investment banking. "We expect to rank among the top 19-15 percept of peer banks in profi-tability, at measured by return on equity by 1968," he told the gather-ing in the Birmingham Theatre. "we are by no means where we want to be yet. We were operating from a lower base. So, while that (performance) sounds good, we have a ways to go."

IN A LOOK at the five years ahead, Mylod saw gross national product growth of only 2-3 percent, peclining corporate profits at the end of the period, potential deflation and a potential recession, especially with debt increasing so heavily "imong nations, corporations and individuals.

For the industry, it will mean less regulation, more challenges from limited institutions called "nonbank banks," greater competition from foreign banks, and "stepped-up mergers and acquisitions."

MNC, based in Farmington Hills, will emphasize transaction and fee income, along with greater control over its relatively high operating costs, he said.

MNC acquired Morison International, Inc., a Minneapolis-based financial advisory firm, last December. Morison President David L. Printy told shareholders its performance exceeds all other asset management firms.

And Mylod looks for good things from Independence One, its mortrage-making subsidiary, which has "a great potential of managing a larger portfolio."

"All banks are subject to some kind of takeover," he told a news conference after the two-hour meeting. "The best defense against a hos-tile takeover is improved shareholder value. . . Our intent is to keep it

Mylod noted the stock was around $16 at the time of the Comerica bid, its book value is about $30, and its rus book value is about $30, and its current market price is $40. Indeed, "Building Shareholder Value" was the slogan printed doz-ens of times on the annual report cover and constantly emphasized in Malada and the statement of Mylod's remarks.

Chairman since 1985, Mylod himself benefits from increased share prices. Besides a $457,000 annual salary, his contract gives him the option to purchase 200,000 shares, worth about $8 million on the market, for $3.57 million ($17:865 a share), according to the proxy statement.

In 1986 MNC closed 29 of its 272 branches and fired many managers to reduce costs. In response to a shareholder question, Mylod hinted more might occur but refused to elaborate during the news confer-

Two shareholders asked hostile questions. Mylod said directors live in "a litigious society that puts them at unacceptable personal risk for any action." The children are off and running at the Plymouth Easter egg hunt, held in Plymouth Township Park.

Kids hunt for Easter treats

There was certainly no shortage of Easter candy in Plymouth-Can-ton last Saturday. Finding that candy, however, took some work.

Youngsters at the weekend's Easter egg hunts were up to the challenge. They took off running Saturday morning, eager to find those tempting goodies.

The Canton Parks and Recreation Department's annual Easter egg hunt was held at 10 a.m. Saturday in Griffin Park. The annual Easter egg hunt of the Plymouth Jaycees was held at 11 a.m. Saturday in Plymouth Township Park. Both events attracted plenty of people. "We had a great turnout," said Bob Dates, Canton Tow

Jim Pell and daughter Kristin leave Plymouth Township Park for home.

ation supervisor. "Everybody seemed to enjoy it. "The weather was beautiful. I think it was the best weather we've had in the eight years I've been here."

It's difficult to estimate the size of crowds at such hectic gatherings; Dates said at least 500 people came to the Easter egg hunt in Canton.

"We had quite a crowd."

THE PLYMOUTH Easter egg hunt also attracted approximately 500 people, said Jim Torok, chairman of the Plymouth Jaycees event for children age 12 and younger.

Children participating in the Plymouth event were divided into four age groups: 1 to 3, 4 to 6, 7 to 9 and 10 to 12.

The Canton event was for children age 10 and younger. The children were divided into three age groups: 4 and younger, 5 to 7 and 8 to 10. The youngest children were allowed to have an adult helper.

"It builds to a moment of excitement," Dates said of the annual event. "The kids just took off running." Some of the children run right past the goodies closest to the starting line.

Recreation staff members started hiding the goodies in Griffin Park at about 8:30 a.m.

"We always keep something back," the recreation . supervisor said. The extra candy is for children who don't find anything. The Canton event included four prize eggs for each of the three age groups. All of the prize eggs were found and were turned in for special prizes of large Easter baskets filled with goodies and games.

"They always make sure they find those," Dates said.

At Plymouth Township Park, hard-boiled eggs were hidden for the children. Prize items awarded for finding those eggs were written on the eggshells:

THOSE SPECIAL prizes included a puzzle, movie passes and ice cream certificates, Torok said. There were about five special prizes for each age group.

The Jaycees also hid candy at the park.

"Lots of candy," Torok said. "All the candy was picked up."

The Plymouth event included an appearance by the Easter bunny, played by a Jaycees member. The Hamburglar from McDonald's also put in an appearance.

Next year's Easter egg hunts most likely will also attract their share of eager youngsters.

"We think we've got it down to a science now," Canton Township's Dates said. "We're pretty well-organized."

The search for Easter treats brought these youngsters to Griffin Park in Canton.

If it's reading material you're after, the auditorium of Westland Center is the place to be on Friday and Saturday, May 1-2.

The Plymouth branch, American Association of University Women, will hold its annual used book sale Friday and Saturday, May 1-2, at Westland Center, on Warren Road in Westland. Sale hours are 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Local AAUW members have been hard at work since last September, sorting, pricing and marking books at St. John's Seminary in Plymouth. Members begin collecting material for each used book sale right after the previous year's sale ends.

The used book sale attracts a variety of readers each year. Some have very definite ideas about what they're after.

"Lots of book dealers," said AAUW member Carol Davis. Book dealers look for first editions, signed copies of books and almost-new books.

Some book dealers are only interested in specific areas, such as mysteries or science fiction books.

"It's hard to tell what they're looking for," Davis said. Book dealers are among the first people to show up at the AAUW book sale each year.

We can learn from sharing experiences

A CLOSE FRIEND, an engineer with General Motors, was just asked to retire. He shares his uncertainties about the future with me. Another friend just has had a personal experience with a suicide. She is now going through the disturbing feelings of that tragedy.

Today's events are always separate from us until they touch someone we know. In the 1960s the Vietnam War was only headlines until the men returned to tell their friends about their experiences. Then the war became real.

World events are affecting us as never before. Their impact upon us is more rapid than in recent memory. We need relationships with many different kinds of people in order to understand the personal impact of these changes. It is only through such personal contacts that we will grasp changes that are taking place.

I have been fortunate enough to travel in connection with my work. I have met many people who help me to understand the news. Haiti is not just a country but a number of faces and friendships. My son has just received a year's study scholarship in Europe. I am writing people throughout Europe to arrange contacts for him when he travels. My hope is that he will better understand the world through these personal contacts.

WE HEAR the news concerning European views about U.S. nuclear missile negotiations with the Russians. These items become more real when one knows persons in West Germany and Czechoslovakia whose lives are affected by these talks. The issues in Central America become more real after talking with persons who have returned from Costa Rica with a mission work team. The Christian tradition emphasizes the importance of incarnation. God comes to the world in a person. Ultimately the only things that have meaning come through persons we know. Unemployment is just numbers until we know the agony of a person who has been without a job for over a year. Drugs are someone else's problem until one's own child becomes involved. Cancer is a statistic until we know one who is fighting the disease.

The only life that truly counts in that which touches us personally. This may account for the popularity of the TV talk shows. We test our experience against what someone tells about their own life.

One of the richest rewards of being a clergy is the opportunity to know people and their experiences. When people deeply and truly sharp about their lives it is always a revelation. The worst thing that can happen in a religious community is for people to believe that they must high the truth of their lives. It is a trage-dy when people play a game, telling only the successful things about their lives.

We are persons full of hopes, fears, desires poured into an individ-ual body. Other persons are the means by which we are saved or damned. There is nothing more holy than being human and sharing with others. The opposite of the holy is to be isolated, withdrawn, uninvolved with others. The true mark of holiness is to accept others; forgive them and love them. As Jesus put It, the holiest persons are those who love the stranger and the enemy.

THE MOST outstanding scriptural statement of this tells us that if we love, we know God. If we love, God lives in us. Our task in this time is to apply this truth on a worldwide basis. Our challenge is to realize that personal care and concern for persons around the world is transforming the world. This is a new spiritual dimension we must begin to grasp.-This is the direction in which Gid is taking us. We are to come to know persons in all parts of the world per-sonally, and love them. We are to disconstrate in our lives the fact that the walls of hostility, indifference and misunderstanding are being broken down. God's purpose is simply to make us all his children.

The Rev. David Strong is the pastor of St. Matthew United Methodist Church in Livonia.

Zabavit hudbou Czech national band offers 'good time with music'

country

By Marie McGee staff writer

Normally, Sunday afternoon at the Grande Ballroom is reserved for slow dancing - couples waltzing about to music that befits that style of dancing.

Not this Sunday, however.

The facility at Warren and Merriman roads in Westland literally will be jumpin'. But not in the way you would expect. Grande owner Rob Cortis and his dad, Walter, have something else planned. They are hosting a concert featuring the noted Veselka Polka Brass Band from Czechoslovakia in one of its limited appearances in this

BUT MUSIC ISN'T all that will happen. Traditional Czech food including mouth watering pastries and Pilsener beer — will be offered and, of course, the type of dancing the Czechs are famous for.

Festivities will begin with the concert at 2 p.m., followed by dancing 3-6 p.m. Tickets are $12.50 and are available by calling the Grande at 591-9340 or 421-7630.

The Veselka band's U.S. tour, Walter Cortis explained, is sponsored by The Prague Polka Club of Minnesota. Their appearance here is a "rare opportunity," he said. "You don't often get a band from Czechoslovakia playing in this country."

The band was formed by a group-ing of outstanding players of leading Czech symphony orchestras. Ten of those professionals wanted to play popular songs in their leisure time. The ensemble shines especially in its instrumental excellence and is a big hit wherever it plays, Cortis noted.

Normally, the Grande is a non-alcoholic lounge, but a one-day liquor license has been obtained for Sunday. All proceeds from the sale of alcoholic beverages will be donated to the St. Cyril Methodius Slovak Church building fund, the Cortises said.

And one more thing - zabavit hudbou. Translated that means good time with music. Czech it out.

Small Business Expo

Vernon Buchanan, president and founder of American Speedy Printing: "Money's just a way to keep score. I enjoy what I'm doing."

Holistic belief guides Speedy printing chief

By Tom Henderson staff writer

When Vernon Buchanan, the president and founder of American Speedy Printing Centers, speaks Monday at the Michigan Small Business Expo in Lansing, those in attendance will get a mix of the expected and the unexpected.

They will hear of the sound business principals that have made a national success of his company and a millionaire of him. They will hear about the need to pare the corporate bureaucracy, to motivate their employees, to take care of the needs of franchisees.

But they will hear, too, of the Wheel of Life, and of the eastern way of thought that made Buchanan a black belt in Tae Kwon Do and to which he attributes much of his success.

To talk of his business practices without talking of his way of thinking, his way of life, would be like talking of lightning and ignoring the thunder.

BUCHANAN CREDITS studying Korean karate - Tae Kwon Do - with teaching him the discipline he needed to succeed in business. Korean karate was also directly linked financially to Buchanan's success: The money he earned from teaching karate paid his way through Cleary College (bachelor of science in business administration and industrial management).

Buchanan has printed up on a bright yellow background what he calls the Wheel of Life. The spokes are the realms of the physical, mental, financial, social, spiritual and family.

'I've seen people who were doing well financially, and their family life was a wreck or they were a wreck physically," said Buchanan. "All the spokes have to be strong."

It's a philosophy Buchanan doesn't just espouse; it's one he works vigorously at. Some would describe him as a health and fitness nut. He happens to think those who aren't so interested in their fitness are the nuts.

"I work out every day at 6:30 a.m.," he said. "It's like brushing your teeth. You just do it. And if I don't do it, my day just doesn't go right."

In addition to operating his own small business, Villa has devoted his energy to minority business development. He is active in the Hispanic Business Alliance, the Inner-City Business Development Forum and the Michigan Minority Business Development Council.

"I'm proud of this award," Villa said. "But it is really in recognition of things like this that are going on.'

Financial Affairs Month focuses on fiscal fitness

By Carolyn Carman special writer

Now that the tax deadline has passed, supporters of Financial Affairs Month (April) are hoping attention is turned to financial planning.

Promoted by the Maunders Co. of Birmingham, Financial Affairs Month is a public service to heighten the awareness of estate planning, wills or trusts, life insurance and IRAs. A new topic is financial planning for single women.

During the observance, now in its 28th year, Detroit area bankers, CPAs, lawyers and insurance executives cooperate to promote a heightened awareness of financial affairs. Professionals from the four fields volunteer to speak before service and church groups, PTAs and the news media.

BRENDA SCHNEIDER, vice president and director of community relations at Manufacturers Bank, says she encourages people to identify their financial goals.

"It is important that everyone develop a financial plan, but after it is developed, don't just put it in a drawer," she said. "Things change; you should have a financial plan but each year have it modified.

She has taped a half-hour radio show for station WOMC dealing with the financial affairs of women.

"We discussed how married women can obtain a copy of their credit history by contacting TRW, a local credit reporting agency, and for a small fee of $6 to $10 can set a copy of their credit rating," she said. "They can then determine whether creditors have been reporting credit transactions in both names, and if not, they can go back to creditors and ask that they do that."

She advises women to establish credit by opening a checking and savings accounts and then obtaining a line of credit at a small store.

'Once they have established that by showing they have the capacity to pay back, they can try to establish other larger lines like Visa MasterCard or a car loan."

JOHN PROST, president of the Detroit Chapter of the American Society of Certified Life Underwriters, has been actively promoting Financial Affairs Month by appearing on radio, cable and local television programs. One issue he has focused on concerns locating the proper professional to give advice about financial planning.

He suggests contacting various professional organizations to discover a person's area of specialty, degree or certification they may have.

For example, if you are going to talk with an attorney about financial affairs, Prost advises finding out if the attorney specializes in taxes or a financial area.

On his specialty area, Prost says people should determine if their life insurance coverage is adequate.

"I think I can safely say that few individuals own an adequate amount of life insurance because it is not the kind of product that is readily bought," he said.

He calls life insurance an economic device to replace income. One question to ask is if a policy approaches the economic loss of earning power.

He added that life insurance plans have changed dramatically and now are paying competitive, attractive rates of earnings.

Buchanan is able to afford a life-2 style to accommodate his fitness de-sires. He had a 9,000-square-foot fit-meas wing built onto his Bloomfield Hills home, complete with rowing machines, stationary bikes, Nautilus weight machines, computerized run-ning track, hot tub, sauna and indoor pool heated to 78 degrees.

At 35, Buchanan epitomizes the concept of Yuppie. "Money's just a way to keep score," he says. "I enjoy what I'm doing."

What Buchanan is doing is contin-ning the expansion of the business he 250 more centers. started 15 years ago with a small store in Livonia. BUCHANAN MAY may have grand plans and an eastern, holistic way of approaching life, but his business is rooted in many traditional ways, reflected in his office on Teleboard of trustees for Cleary College, the board of trustees for Children's Hospital of Michigan, and the board of directors for the Detroit area council of the Boy Scouts of Ameri-Ca.

Unplanned shopping centers represent one of two business-associat ed location groups to be considered when carrying out the site-type decision-making process for new or ezpanding retail operations. condary stores are callers located on a major intersection of a city. Highway district stores are strung out along major expressways to form an uplanned shopping area de-pendent on automobile traffic.

Making a decision between a planned vs. unplanned shopping cen-ter location isn't a matter of personal preference so much as weighing the advantages and disadvantages associated with each site-type. Planned shopping centers offer sev-eral advantages to include profes-sional management, balanced tenancy, constant customer traffic and image. But total cost of occupancy is very high, and often it isn't easy to distinguish a particular retailer (es-pecially a smaller one) from all others in a large center.

Most people know that Social Security income may be taxable. However, the mechanics of Social Security taxation may not be clear. In Table 1 the taxable income of John Jones is presented. John is 65, married and files a joint tax return. His income sources include pension, interest on certificate, interest on municipal bonds and Social Security income. His taxable income is $31,100.

Interestingly, John can lower his taxable income merely by switching his municipal bond investment into a tax-deferred annuity. The revised calculations are presented in Table

Note that by switching the money from municipal bonds to an annuity, John Jones was able to reduce his taxable income from $31,000 to $28,100, a reduction of more than 9 percent. The purpose of this article is merely to demonstrate that municipal bond interest is included in the Social Security test, whereas earn-ings from annuities are not. It should be clearly understood, however, that municipal bond investments are not always bad and annuity investments are not always good.

Educational Seminar: "Your In-vestments, Your Taxes and Tax Reform." The seminar, sponsored by the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers and Coordinated Financial Planning Inc., will be 7-9:30 p.m. Tuesday, May 19, at the Kingsley Inn, 1475 N. Woodward, Bloomfield Hills.

Salem dethrones Dearborn in Elk Relays

The annual Dearborn Elks Club Relays concluded with one of the most exciting finishes in the 22-year history of the event Saturday

Plymouth Salem came from behind in the final event - the mile relay - to overtake host and defending champion Dearborn on the Plymouth-Canton Centennial Educational Park track.

Both teams went into the last event tied for first place, but the Rocks' mile relay victory gave them 45 points and a two-point margin over runner-up Dearborn.

Dearborn had the lead for three quarters of the mile relay, but Salem's Brian Neuhardt brought the Rocks from behind on the Chris Hill, Shaun Simms and J.P. LaRoche combined with Neuhardt to post a 3:29.7 time, which was almost three seconds better than Dearborn's 3:32.4.

LIVONIA STEVENSON captured three events, including a record-setting performance in the shot put, to finish third in the 12team meet.

Westland John Glenn, with two firsts, was fourth, Redford Catholic Central seventh, Plymouth Canton eighth and Livonia Franklin ninth.

Neuhardt, along with Shawn Hunter and LaMar Crayton, helped Salem capture the long jump relay (60-6), and Hunter and Crayton teamed up with Garrett Bowie and Eric Paul to win the 440-yard relay (45.6). Hunter's leap of 21-3 was Salem's top individual effort in the long jump. The Rocks also won the high hurdle relay (66.33) in which Jeff Armstrong, Mike Park, Chris Hill and Keith Smith participated.

"It was an unusually hot day that made it even more difficult to double in events," Salem Coach Gary Balconi said. "It was certainly a team effort. Obviously, every point was important.

"This victory is a special tribute to the seniors," he added. "Their leadership and sacrifice were the reasons for the victory."

STEVENSON'S KEVIN BELYK, Don Gutekunst, Nick Petonhoff and Tom Shymanski combined to throw the shot put 186-7, breaking the record of 185-51/2 set by Catholic Central last year. Belyk also had the top individual toss at 52-11.

Gutekunst, Belyk and Petouhoff won the discus (383-11), and the foursome that won the shot put also was first in the heavy man's 440 relay (49.4).

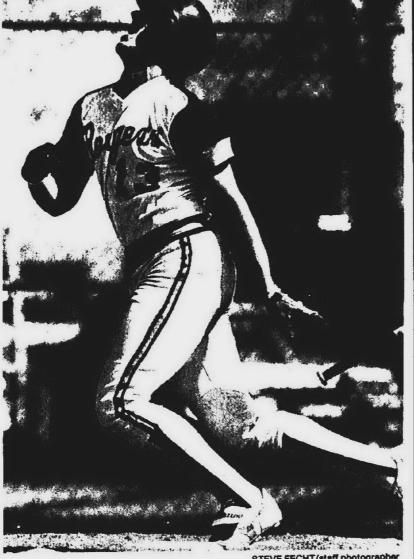

John Glenn's Cordell Crosby, Aaron Hughlett, Jerry Allen and Dan Liedel won the distance medley (880, 440, 1,320, mile) in 11:01.0, and Anson Stroman, Liedel and Steve Wiseley were first in the high jump at 17-3.

Other events in which Salem scored points were the two-mile relay (second), Alan Rye, Simms, Kevin Jones and LaRoche, 8:29.0; four-mile relay (third), Doug Vergari, Jones, Brian Grapentien and Billy Atwell, 19:22.7; discus relay (third), Jay Blaylock, Romolo Maura and Jeff Justice; shot put relay (third), Blaylock, Maura, Justice and Ryan Johnson; heavy man's relay (fifth), Blaylock, Maura, Justice and Johnson, 51.3; and low hurdle shuttle relay (fifth), Smith, Park, Jeff Armstrong and Chris Hill.

Canton was second in the high jump (17-0) and long jump (56-10) and fifth in the fourmile relay (19:43.5).

Split time

While most high school baseball teams were idle this week because of Easter vacation, Redford Bishop Borgess was busy breaking a three-game losing streak. The Spartans ended their skid by splitting a doubleheader with Southgate Aquinas Monday, losing the first game 12-1 and winning the second 10-0. For details on the games, please turn to Page 4D.

Michigan's Boles put to test during spring football drills

SCHEMBECHLER appeared to be completely at ease during his press conference after Saturday's Maize and Blue spring football game.

The old charmer toyed with media types during his post-game stint on the third level of the massive Michigan Stadium TV and radio deck.

Wearing a checkered sport coat, Schembechler was more content talking about the weather ("a beautiful day"), the unusually large crowd ("I can't remember a better turnout") and the lack of injuries ("we only had the two and they should be completely ready by the fall").

"Well, Michigan won again," said Bo jokingly in his annual opening spring game statement.

But Bo refused to say if anybody had won a job.

"I might not name my starting quarterback until five minutes before the Notre Dame game (Sept. 12 in Ann Arbor)," Bo said, even though junior Demetrius Brown of Miami, Fla., was far and away the best QB on the day.

BO ALSO feigned comment on senior walk-on Geof Bissell's four Bissell, the West Bloomfield native and Farmington Harrison grad, apparently has a steep ladder to climb.

"You have to understand that of our four or five top receivers, two of them weren't here today," said Schembechler, referring to last year's freshman sensation Greg McMurtry, out with the baseball team over the weekend, and junior flanker John Kolesar, out with a minor shoulder injury.

But Bo did concede: "Some of the 'other guys' (including Bissell) have done a good job us this spring -Chris Calloway (the top receiver on the day), Huemartin Robinson (a former running back) and Olatide Ogunfiditimi (whose name Schembechler pronounced perfectly)."

The next question pertained to the running backs situation and who

Former Westland John Glenn All-State runner Tony Boles is in a fierce battle with a pair of fellow freshman red-shirts, Allen Jefferson of Warren DeLaSalle and Tracy Williams of Sarasota, Fla.

AGAIN, BO was non-commital about who had won the job, even though Williams enjoyed the best afternoon (a long kickoff return and 88 yards rushing) and Jefferson appeared to be the odd man out (five carries, 10 yards).

Boles looked decent, rushing for 54 yards in 10 carries, including a 15-yard touchdown run for the Blues, who incidentally lost 20-17 and had to settle for the post-game reward, hot dogs instead of steaks.

Boles reminds some Michigan fans of Butch Woolfolk, the former all-America tailback whose trademark was outside speed and shifty moves.

Reporters pressed Bo about Williams, a virtual unknown since he arrived on the Ann Arbor campus last fall.

"He (Williams) is the least publicized by you guys because he's not from around here, but he's highly touted," Schembechler said. "He's a

Running the Marathon: Experience dims pain

HE DAY THAT would never arrive finally has. Patriot's Day has dawned and the 91st running of the Boston Marathon is hours away.

The payoff for all those winter training runs is at hand.

Runners gathering in hotel lobbies try to shake off pre-race jitters, wishing each other luck and hugging those who helped get them here.

Six-thousand strong, they head outside to board buses bound from downtown Boston to the hamlet of Hopkinton, 26 miles away.

For several hours they do their best to keep warm and calm in an overcrowded, Ben-Gay-scented high school gym.

A lucky group of Redford Road Runners head to Kit and Jerry McNab's. The McNabs are a Hopkinton couple who open their spacious home - more than 100 years old and full of antiques - to dozens of runners and friends. Americans, Australians, Japanese - all are treated to New England hospitality that doesn't quit.

JERRY IS busy keeping the bathrooms in working order. The hostessturned-musician is on her knees, accompanying a Dixieland pianist and trumpet player. Ever heard percussion played on a suitcase with shoe brushes? It's great.

Eleven-thirty rolls around and it's time to walk to the starting line.

Hopkinton Green is swarming with nervous runners, marathon officials, families and vendors. Shivering runners are shoulder to shoulder. their adrenalin racing as the countdown begins.

The gun sounds and a mass of bobbing heads surges down the narrow street to the roar of onlookers, hoots and howls. Twenty and thirty deep, seas of spectators line the streets, perched in trees, hanging out windows, taking pictures from cherry pickers.

ASHLAND, FRAMINGHAM and Natick - towns so old they almost sigh with weariness - have come alive. Cheering moms and dads, kids who squdil with delight when runners slap their outstretched hands, blue-haired seniors and bundled-up bables form a human tunnel.

Blaring from outdoor speakers is rock and roll that pounds into runners' souls and adds rhythm to their steps. There's live music too a Dixieland band atop a leasing company, a bluegrass group on somebody's lawn, and a bagpiper tucked in along the sidelines.

Fraternity guys, arms around their girlfriends, blast "Chariots of Fire" and Rocky's theme from their stereos while barbecuing lunch.

'Long about 12 miles, a dull roar can be heard in the distance. Runners are approaching Wellesley College, where students yell and cheer and scream for world-class athletes and the back-of-the-packers alike. There's eye contact and it makes you want to cry. These women have earned heaven.

IT'S THE HALFWAY point time to put the pedal to the mettle.

Just a few flat miles remain before the Heartbreak Hills ensue.

Looking up runners' names from a list of numbered entrants, onlookers are personalizing cheers to the delight of heartened runners.

From 16 miles it gets grueling. Some give up on the long, steep grades, choosing to walk. Others trudge along, and still others still feel strong.

Cheering at the 20-mile mark are Redford Road Runners so thick that Northville runner Larry Schlanser "thought I was in Detroit."

From 21 on, runners encourage themselves with the knowledge that it's all downhill. But it's getting painful. Bill Rodgers' words - "The toughest part comes at 23, when you know that heart is all you've got left" - are ringing true.

AT LEAST one runner, me, has some added help in the form of a Notre Dame singlet and shorts. "Go depast back who runs hard, but any-case one of the three could have goes. It just happened to be Williams to-day. Maybe that's because he got the ball more. I don't know."

BO, HOWEVER, is hopeful that all three will contribute in the future.

"We've got to have two or three tailbacks in our system, but Morris is the far and away best because of is the far and away best because or his blocking and understanding of picking up the blitzes," Schem-bechler said. "Tm not ready to com-mit to a back-up. I'll have to wait until the fall. Not any of them established themselves today. They'll be good players in a matter of time."

Back at the practice facility, I asked Boles about his so-called "ex-perience" and discovered that only two months with Bobby Knight could have been worse.

"They took all the running backs and tried to make us stand out." Boles said. "Every mistake we made was singled out. I guess it was to motivate us.

"I never went through anything like this in high school. It was rough. One time I called home and was ready to . . .

Like most U-M football players,

Boles learned that everything doesn't come up roses. There are thorns along the way.

When I confronted Jumbo Elliott. a massive 6-foot-7, 300-pound all-America offensive lineman, about Boles' experience, he simply shrugged it off by saying, "These guys (the running backs) weren't being picked on. Everybody goes through that. Those guys aren't treated different than anybody else." Whatever you say, Mr. Elliott.

Schwanz sharpens batting eye at WSU

By C.L. Meal staff writer

Kovin Schwans is a hitter. He knows what kind of pitch he ikes. He knows where he likes it.

And he knows he will seldom see it. "An inside fastball," Schwans said without hesitation when asked what was his pitch. "I crowd toward the plate so I can get it." So what does he see, mostly? "In-side breaking pitches," he said. And that's when they pitch to him. "I get pitched around a lot, so it's tough to get my pitch." Every baseball player has a pitch he can handle proficiently. That's no surprise. A good hitter can handle pitches aimed at tying him up, keepng him off balance.

SCHWANZ, A JUNIOR at Wayne State from Livonia, has proven himself to be a good hitter. So far.

Schwanz transferred to WSU after earning an associate's degree from Henry Ford Community College. His bat has been more than welcome; he leads the Tartars in hitting with a .372 average. He's second in runs batted in with 19 and is tied for the team leadership in home runs with three.

Schwanz has accomplished this while striking out just seven times, tied for the lowest total among regulars.

The Redford Bishop Borgess graduate describes himself as a line drive hitter, capable of hitting to all fields. It wasn't always so; he used to possess an inside-out swing, which resulted in a lot of shots to right field for the right-handed batter. He worked last summer changing that, learning to pull the ball more and to hit with power.

IT HASN'T made much difference in his average. Schwanz's hitting has earned him the third spot in WSU's batting order - the hitter's spot in his first full year with the Tartars. Schwanz came to WSU last year, but in the second game of the season he slid into home and broke his wrist. He was redshirted, which left him two full seasons of eligibility. This spring trip was very nearly a repeat performance. "It was the second game, again," recalled Schwanz. "We were playing the same team -Northeastern Illinois. And I slid into home again."

And once again, Schwanz got up with a sore wrist. He went back to his position in right field, but after another inning left the game, fearing the worst.

'You aren't kidding," he said. You can only redshirt one year. I couldn't miss another season.'

FORTUNATELY FOR BOTH Schwanz and WSU, the wrist was only sprained. He returned to action after missing just two games with his goals clearly defined.

"I want us to get a (NCAA Division II tournament) bid," he said. "I want to win the league. We have great potential. We don't have a weak spot in our lineup."

So much for team goals. What about his personal aims?

"I want to help the team get there," he said, then added, "I like being consistent, getting one or two hits a game. I hate being in a slump."

There haven't been too many slumps to battle. Which is one reason why Schwanz is drawing attention from pro scouts, a prospect that delights him.

"I'm hoping," he said of the possibility of playing pro baseball. "There's a chance."

And would he chase that dream? "Sure would," he answered. "Definitely. I'm still young. I've got my whole life to work."

Borgess bounces back; Wayne demolishes Ypsi

In the second game, Chris Finerty belted a three-run homer and baseball and struck out nine. He did not walk a batter during his stint.

In the first game, John Gadwood of Aquinas went 4-for-4 and knocked in five runs. He socked a homer, two doubles and a single.

For its production of "Brighton Beach Memoirs," the Theatre Guild of Livonia-Redford has extended its set to the floor of the 125-seat theater in Redford. The set recreates Neil Simon's boy-hood home, both inside and out - living room, dining room, bedrooms and even the front yard.

aday, April 23, 1987 O&E

HE TINY PLAYHOUSE of the Theatre Guild of Livonia-Redford will become even more intimate with the production of "Brighton Beach Memoirs," opening this weekend. The play, a Neil Simon comedy hit on Broadway a few seasons back, is the story of a Jewish family coping with life during the Great Depression. It is an autobiographical story of Simon's boyhood. Some of the action takes place in the front yard, where 15-year-old Eugene Jerome plays baseball and fantasizes about becoming a major league star. Assistant director Tom Hinks said the set has been extended beyond the stage to the floor of the 125-seat theater, where the "front yard" will be located.

"The audience will really feel they are participating," said Hinks of Plymouth, a computer programmer at Unisys.

THE ENTIRE STAGE is no

Guerra, a 10th grade student at Brother Rice High School in Birmingham, began acting at age 4. He is a veteran of some 25 school and theatrical productions, appearing with such groups as the Michigan Opera The-ater, the Detroit Repertory Theater, the Peanut Butter Players and the Lathrup Youth Theater.

This is the second time Guerra has appeared in "Brighton Beach Memoirs." His earlier appearance was during a school play.

"I like this because it is a realistic 15-year-old," Guerra said. "I can relate to him. He is a fun character."

GUERRA DEPICTS a Eugene who is both exasperating and endearing. He is a wiseacre, obsessed with sports and brimming with curiosity about female anatomy. But under Eugene's flippant demeanor is a youth who deeply cares about his struggling family. His narration fleshes out the dialogue and carries the story along. The object of Eugene's budding sexual interest in his dining room and bedroom," he added. "A great deal of the play takes place in the front yard. With the closeness of the theater, we are going to have some audience members practically on the same team with (Eugene)."

The comedy will be presented at 8 p.m. Fridays-Sat-urdays, May 1-2 and 8-9, at the Theatre Guild of Livo-nia-Redford playhouse on Beech Daly, south of Five Mile Road in Redford Township. Tickets are $6. For ticket information, call 522-8057.

"A love letter to the author's past" is how the theater group's publicity describes "Brighton Beach Memoirs." The play offers a series of vignettes about the Jerome family, who live in Brighton Beach, a somewhat poor section of Brooklyn. Times are very tough. Eugene, who is both the lead character and narrator, is played by 15-year-old Vito Guerra of Southfield.

cousin Nora, played by Kathleen L. Lietz of Redford. Nora is a pretty, star-struck teenager who faces an opportunity to join a Broadway play.

David Berg of Huntington Woods plays Jack, Eugene's father, working himself to exhaustion to earn enough money to support his family. Pat Varga of Warren is Kate, Eugene's harried, loving mother.

Johan Battle of Detroit plays Stanley, the elder son who is about to lose his job. Blanche, Kate's sister, a sickly widow, is played by Sue Delosier of Lincoln Park. Amy Rosenthal of Detroit portrays Laurie, Nora's kid sister. The director is Mattie Wolf of Berkley.

"We are aware of how poor the family is, but how tightly knit they are, always acting as a family unit," Hinks said

'Brighton Beach Memoirs'' concludes the Livonia-Redford group's 33rd season.

In this scene, Eugene gives his vote to Cousin Nora (Kathleen L. Lietz), who plans to audition for a Broadway show. The family's trials and tribulations take place in the De ridden 1930s.

T WAS A long-distance call from Baltimore, Md. and the news was not so good. Somehow, one of the large, etched-glass panels especially designed for the city's new Federal Reserve Bank had cracked on installation. Could the company in Farmington Hills, who had designed and executed the original panel, possibly make another? And could they rush it out to Baltimore right away? The building inspector was expected soon, it seemed, and the building could Hills couple whose striking, etched-glass designs can be seen in restaurants, public buildings, and private homes throughout the eastern United States these days.

"We learned the business through trial-and-error," said Tim Gillingham, explaining the couple's completely self-taught craftsmanship. "I broke a lot of glass; I think I have about 10 lifetimes of bad luck coming. But it's just something we developed. Patience is important, because working with glass is not like working with wood, where you can just shave off your mistakes. It's something you must be very accurate with - or else."

Another feature will be a whiteon-white quilt completed by members.

Author values Detroit's presence in her corner

OYCE CAROL Oates was back in Detroit last week after a too-long nine-year absence.

This is the city that made her the writer she is today, she told an audience of 200 Thursday in the Detroit Public Library Friends audi-Jorium. And the trip back was an emotional one.

Oates, along with her husband, Raymond Smith, took an afternoon to wander a few of their old neighborhoods.

"We worried about that we might find," Oates said, "but all of our houses looked the same. It was as though we had never left."

Detroit was the first real city she ever lived in, the Lockport, N.Y., na-Live said, "and it changed my way of Jooking at life."

The raw grit of the industrial city forced off the rose-colored glasses.

"I couldn't just write about family and friends," she said. "Detroit was any great subject - I had to deal with the fact that a city like Detroit is literally an essence. It gave me visions, perspective - and R still is capable of filling me with extraordinary excitement."

OATES' APPEARANCE last week was arranged by the DPL Friends, Detroit Women's Writers and the Bloomfield Township Library Kay Smith Memorial. The late journalist and president of Detroit Women Writers was a Bloomfield resident and Oates' good friend. In fact, Oates dedicated her novel, "Expensive People" to Smith.

"That book, for the most part, is based on stories Kay told me about the lives of wealthy, suburban people," Oates said. "The stories - all true - were outrageous, almost like tall tales, but there they were."

Oates delighted her audience with a series of humorous anecdotes, often self-deprecating (a happy surprise for those who came expecting a serious, academic, almost painfully shy author).

"I'm trying to change my image," she said after a joke came off well and the audience finally stopped laughing. "I'm tired of reading about how serious I am. I sound so dull."

Then she reeled off a short list of Detroit's major cultural centers: the Detroit Institute of Arts, the libraries, Wayne State University and, of course, the Kronk gym.

Another surprise - this tiny, fragile-looking literary giant is a boxing fan. Since she was a little girl, and after years of studying the sport and of coming to know prize fighters on a first-name basis, she has finally written a book on the subject.

But since boxing of one of the most violent sports, avid readers of her books say it comes as no surprise.

"The psychology of violence is fascinating to me," she said with a pause and a grin, "truly disgusting."

ETROIT IS the subject of yet another book, "The Pigeon Factory," written by John Richards with photographs by Ralph Norris, Detroiters both. Richards and Norris, colleagues at W.B. Doner Advertising Co. (remember the zoo ads? "My makeup! My makeup! . . .) worked together on a story for a monthly Detroit magazine on cemeteries, Richards said, "and we realized that we shared certain attitudes about Detroit.

"We're both from working-class, blue-collar backgrounds. Our thoughts about Detroit tended to be cynical, angry — yet there was something else, something deeper.

'We couldn't describe it until Ralph did it his way - with pictures - and I did it may way, with words."

Norris' accompanying photographs are stark, compelling, sad and almost completely devoid of human figures.

"An odd thing happened when I saw those pictures," Richards said. "Their stark, straight-forward grittiness forced my words to become much more fantastic."

"The Pigeon Factory," published by Cadmus Editions in San Francisco, is a short, quality paperback -

Two of the stories, "The Tomato Story," and "Legs" are so supremely silly, they defy description. We'll leave it at this: They are about a wife who first loses an ear to disease, then loses - no, disengages from - her legs ("My wife's legs, still attached to one another, were struggling to their feet by the stove

But not to worry, two of 11 isn't bad, and Richards redeems himself when he writes about fathers, as in "A Truthful Description" and the title story, "The Pigeon Factory."

The title story opens like this: "Our fathers were muscle and bone crafted by factories to fit machines. Their breath was dark exhaust like tar that polluted the food on their plates. They were elaborate contraptions designed to fit into the space beside steel and the blades that trimmed it. Their names were Scrapballer, Hooker, Fork Driver and General Laborer .... " Good reading at $6.95. Available at Borders and other bookstores.

Condo Queries column debuts

In response to readership needs, a new column, Condo Queries, written by attorney Robert Meisner, makes its debut today and will be a weekly feature in this section.

I am interested in investing and purchasing a condominium as rental property. I have located a complex perfect for my price range, location, etc. I am in the process of purchasing two units, but now I have discovered a clause in the bylaws saying you cannot rent a unit unless you have lived there for one year. This shocked me because three of the four units I have looked at were rental units. The condo association president claims no rentals for one year, but the management company says that is ridiculous. There are tons of rentals. I have hired a lawyer who claims to be an expert in condominiums and have asked whether or not the condos' bylaws will stack the law on their side in a courtroom. If my lawyer does not state that I would lose in a conflict, should I ignore the clause?

A. I would recommend that you follow your attorney's advice if, in fact, he is a knowledgable condominium lawyer in deciding what to do. The condominium statute does provide for reasonable restrictions in regard to the sale or lease of the unit.

It is this writer's opinion that a prohibition on the leasing of a unit only after the owner has resided in the unit for one year is reasonable and enforceable assuming that the association has been consistent in its enforcement policies.

However, each set of condominium documents must be reviewed with its own particular set of facts in order to reach a conclusion on this issue.

Robert M. Meisner is a Birmingham attorney specializing in condominiums, real estate and corporate law. Questions should be directed to him at 30200 Telegraph Road. Birmingham 48010. This column provides general information and should not be construed as legal opnion.

Etching careers in glass with class

While manufacturing mirrored tables for local clients, Tim had worked with top interior designers in the Detroit area, but when he came up with the relatively new idea of creating murals, doorlights, windowlights, and room dividers in etched glass, many of the designers were not familiar at all with the concept, he said.

"But, as they became more aware of the idea through interior design magazines and by seeing it applied in other cities, it slowly began to take hold.

The first etched-glass work executed by T. Gill was commissioned by the Excalibur bar and restaurant in Southfield in 1982 - a room divider featuring an abstract design suggestive of reeds and water, which separates the bar area from the dining crowd.

SINCE THEN, the Gillinghams, who work through referrals, have designed and put together hundreds of panels of the decorated glass and, in recent times, have seen profits rise steadily at a rate of about 10-15 percent per year, says Tim.

The couple's widespread clientele include restaurants in Florida and Chicago, apartment complexes in Atlanta, and private residences in Toronto, Indianapolis, and New York. Locally, in addition to the Excalibur, T. Gill has put together glass creations for nightclubs like Taboo in Detroit, and wall murals at the Federal Savings Building at 12 Mile Rd. and Northwestern.

They've also completed projects at a large number of homes in the area, including the Grosse Ile residence of businessman Heinz Prechter, and at the homes of musician, Earl Klugh, and TV/radio personality Sonya Friedman.

"People in the Detroit area, compared to some other places, actually prefer rather sophisticated design," said Tim. "In Florida, for instance, people always want something with that Florida 'feel' to it - birds and cranes and banana leaves, stuff like that. Here, people go for a kind of comtemporary abstract style. Orignially, it was very hard-line comtemporary; recently, it seems to have become a bit 'softer.'

ON AN INFORMAL tour of his workshop (located, since 1982, in a reconverted barn on Haggerty Rd. near 12 Mile) Tim pauses to visitor a new design idea he's recently worked "We're developing overlays that will be carved (through sandblasting) out of glass, and glued to another glass surface. It's a new application and it takes time, but it's starting to catch on." (A stylized rose about 6 inches in diameter takes about 4 hours to "carve," he said.)

Just off the workshop is the special, tightlyconstructed room, its floor almost ankle-deep in silica sand, where the designs are sandblasted into the glass.

"The sandblasting, of course, is definitely a health hazard," said Christine. "When you're operating at such high pressure, the sand is constantly bouncing back at you and filling the air. We have exhaust fans in the blast room, and when we're working, we use a respirator, an airfeed helmet that keeps fresh air inside the helmet - and we always wear gloves."

WITH SO MANY orders coming in and so much to do, why not hire help at T. Gill?

"That's really how we keep our quality up and our breakage down - by doing all the work ourselves," said Christine.

"At one time, we had seven or eight guys working for us, and several trucks on the road," said Tim. "It seemed great - you had all these people and all these trucks on the road. But it just got to be a real hassle because it was so hard training these people to do the job to our specifications. Now, we've cut back to what we can personally control.

"In the business, Christine does the designing and etching. My department is primarily sales, installation, construction, and coordinating projects. And I also do a lot of the etching."

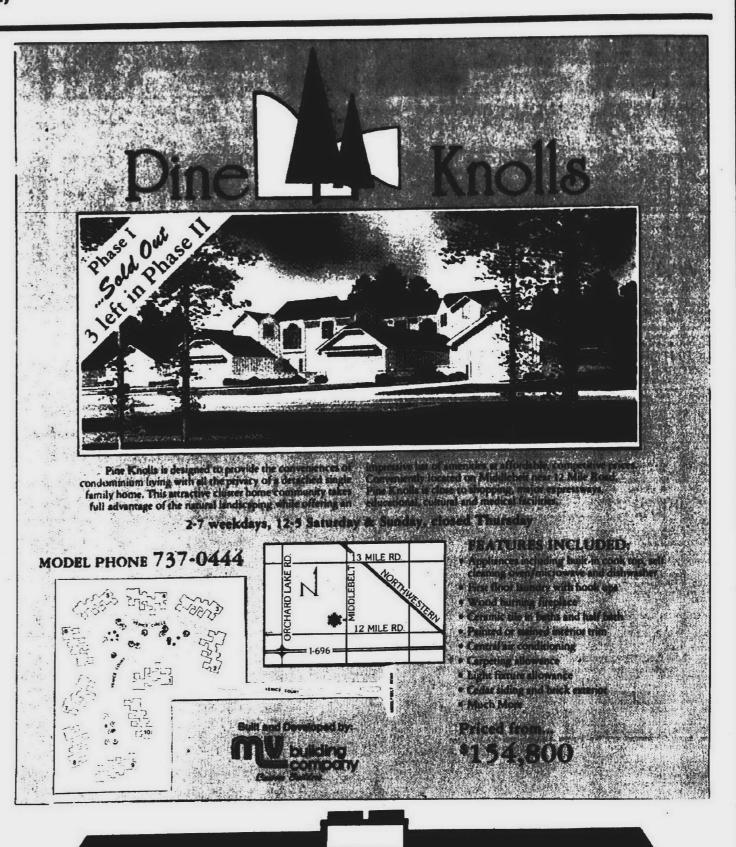

Both say that one of the most challenging jobs they've done was for a Florida restaurant owner who wanted a mural with an underwater theme.

"WE HAD TO DO a marine biology study to make sure the fish, the coral, the underwater scenes were what you'd find off the coast of Florida," said Tim. "It took us several years to produce, although we weren't working on a daily basis, of course. But we made eight or nine trips to Florida before it was finished. We'd go down and take measurements, coordinate the carpentry, the electricians. We'd come back here, cut all the glass, do the mural on the glass, and transport it."

Around Detroit, window and doorlight treatments have recently become a really hot item, said Tim, adding that T. Gill has done about 30 of them in the area.

Though he's not sure exactly why there's such an upsurge in their popularity lately, Tim theorizes that it has a lot to do with convenience.

"The etched glass gives privacy, creates a design, and still lets light through. And it's practically maintenance free. It's like washing any other window."

LCL INVITATIONAL

Budget problems last year forced the Livonia Cultural League to forego its annual purchase award invitational art show, but the event will definitely be held this year.

Under the chairmanship of Lucille McNamara, the show will be on exhibit in the Livonia City Hall from Monday, April 27 through Friday, May 15. Open to the public, the exhibit will feature the works of 75 Michigan artists. Traditionally, the LCL purchases the work of the first place winner. The art work then becomes part of a public collection permanently on display in the city's Fifth Floor Gallery and in offices in the City Hall.

Awards will be presented at a champagne re-ception preceding the opening of the art show.
