100 ticketed for violations in 'cruise-in'

staff writer

About 100 young people were ticketed for disorderly conduct and traffic violations during last weekend's "cruise-in," a large, weekly gathering of youth in downtown Plymouth that has the community up in arms.

Three Detroit youth joyriding in a stolen car were apprehended and one drunk driver arrested.

More than 50 were ticketed for misdemeanors including trespassing, alcohol possession and urinating in public, said Plymouth Police Chief Richard Myers.

The remainder were cited for traffic violations, such as unnecessary noise, speeding, impeding traffic and making prohibited turns.

Excluded from the totals are parking offenses.

ticketed were young people from Livonia, Westland and Northville, Myers said.

"That helped us regulate traffic flow to manageable numbers in a northbound direction, anyway," Myers said.

PLYMOUTH CITY attorney Ron Lowe has dealt with an "avalanche" of preliminary exams stemming from the cruise-ins.

Meijer plans store intownship Memorial Day activities

By Doug Funke staff writer

Meijer Inc., known for its large retail outlets in the metro area, hopes to establish a store in Plymouth Township.

Meijer, headquartered in Grand Rapids, has an option to purchase nearly 32 acres of vacant land at Haggerty and Schoolcraft roads.

"What we've decided is we could build another store here and service the area," said Brian Breslin, a vice president for Meijer. "We think there's a market to be serviced, a market that will respond."

THE RETAIL giant has offered to pay $2 million for the property subject to a rezoning from industrial to commercial use. The parcel is owned by the Iafrate Construction Co. in Warren. Zoning regulations, designed to promote orderly growth, determine how land may be used.

Meijer already has stores at Canton Center and Ford roads in Canton and at Eight Mile and Haggerty roads in Northville Township.

There are no plans to close the Canton store, opened in November 1974, or the Northville Township store, opened in July 1985, with the construction of a store in Plymouth Township, Bres-

THE PLYMOUTH Township Planning Commission will conduct a public hearing on Meijer's rezoning application, probably next month, then forward a recommendation to the township board.

The board will then rule on the request. James Anulewicz, planning director for the township, said he hasn't yet reached a conclusion on the application.

'At quick glance, there could be some very positive elements from it - upgrading of the area and removal of some negative land features." he

"Some aspects on the other side of the coin we'll want addressed from Meijer are would there be an impact on the residential area to the north, how they think it will be beneficial to us, traffic patterns, general upgrading of the site," Anulewicz said.

Meijer has submitted a site plan calling for a least 1,100 vehicles.

"Our stores generally offer 18 departments of general merchandise in addition to a full-line food store," Breslin said.

A CONSTRUCTION timetable hasn't yet been determined, he said.

Meijer projects that a new store would provide upwards of 400 jobs. Non-supervisory employees in 39 of 40 Meijer stores in Michigan are represented by the United Food & Commercial Work-Meijer also projects that property tax revenue in excess of $100,000 would be generated annually with a store on the site.

The vacant parcel now generates less than Iafrate Construction Co. has offered the property for sale because the township won't allow an asphalt, concrete recycling plant on the site. Iafrate bought the property from Unisys, formerly Burroughs, last year.

Puppets have message for disabled

By Diane Gale staff writer

Mark Riley loves to show off by popping wheelies in his "super-duper, swooped up cruiser.

He sits slumped over in his wheelchair and in a slow. labored voice the 11-year-old explains: "I'm not sick. I've got cerebral palsy. I can't walk, and I can't talk so good either. I go to school just like you do, but my bus has a lift on it.

WHEN ONE KID asks why he drools, the two-foot, red-headed, freckled puppet has a quick answer: "It's because my muscles don't work right."

at the school is tough. But Riley plans to change that by explaining why he's different than they are. Riley has the same problems and looks like a child

Dealing with the stares and isolation from other kids who was demoralized by the way other kids reacted to him on his first day in a school 10 years ago. Barbara Aiello, a Washington-based special educator, developed the puppet Mark Riley to take into the class to draw out the other kids' inhibitions. That was 10 Now the concept has spread across the country with a program called Meet "The Kids on the Block." Riley and a crew of other puppets with different physical and mental problems - also patterned after real kids have been making appearances ever since.

Canton resident Rhonda Estes has the heart, personality and energy to bring life to the local puppets.

She learned a group was trying to start up in Plymouth-Canton in August 1980 when she was attending a parent support group, and volunteers were being re-"I said I'll do it. I'll do it. I'll do anything to make life more acceptable for my child."

A TROUPE OF eight started the program. "It's easier for me to talk to people when they feel comfortable about my son and his disability," she said. Her son, Vincent, 8, is physically, mentally and visually impaired due to an automobile accident in 1979. He attends classes in Northville Public Schools.

"I get personal satisfaction just knowing the benefits I'm bringing to disabled children, as well as adults, so children can realize disabled children are basically the same as they are."

Even though she is at ease with the parts and dialogue, it wasn't always that way for Estes. When she was in high school and had a solo part in her choir, Estes remembers an uncomfortable pause when nothing would come out.

Working with the "handicapped" puppets has transformed the mother of three into a self-described ham. THAT STAGE FRIGHT is a long way from the dialogue she recites for the puppet Renaldo, who's blind. Her accent becomes rich with Hispanic r-rolls. "The puppets just take over," she said. "The puppets are very human."

But Estes is worried the program in Plymouth-Canton will die for lack of support from people willing to volunteer. The family is moving to Traverse City this spring and although she hopes to join the "Kids on the Block" program there, she's concerned if more people don't commit their time, the program could fail. For more information, call the school district at 451-6590.

Washtenaw County Probate Judge Judith Wood tomorrow will hear fi-nal testimony before ruling whether two youths should be tried as adults for the murder of a Canton Township

Wood is scheduled to hear from psychologists and psychiatrists in the case of two 16-year-olds from Ynsilanti Township.

The boys are charged in the shooting death of 13-year-old Mary Anne Hulbert, whose body was found in a Washtenaw County field last Janu-

The boys accuse each other of killing Hulbert, who thought she was pregnant by one of them. They told police they took Hulbert to a field where they had planned to shoot loaded rifles, scaring Hulbert enough to induce a miscarriage.

An autopsy showed Hulbert was not pregnant.

REPRESENTATIVES from the state Department of Corrections and the Department of Social Services described the treatment and facilities available to young offenders during the last portion of the Monday's court hearing.

In fielding questions from Wood and attorneys, Michael McKie of DSS said committed youths are sent to campus-like training camps.

"Our goal is to serve youth who've committed crimes and to try and let them know about taking responsiblity for their actions," McKie said.

While psychological, educational and other services are offered, the system isn't well equipped to handle serious offenders, he said.

The average stay at a training camp is 11-15 months, and at age 19, the state gives up jurisdiction of of-

"I don't think the juvenile system is set up to deal very well with these convicted of crimes like murder,

You cross that line when your behavior with an individual is very vio-lent. I don't think the juvenile sys-tem can handle that."

ANDREW SLADE, area probation supervisor for the Department of Corrections, said that while the adult system offers psychological counseling, it seldom is one-on-one.

Juveniles turned over to the Department of Corrections are given extensive academic, medical, aptitude and psychological tests, he said. Some 30 to 45 16-year-olds are in the Michigan prison system at present, Slade said. Because of the psychological pressures they're subjected to upon entering the system, some young offenders opt for placement in a pro-tective unit, he added.

ALTHOUGH THEY were seated six feet apart during the hearing, the youths' eyes never met.

One, dressed in a white T-shirt, grey cotton pants and untied Ree-boks, sat with his head in his hands or facing straight ahead. The other, wearing a white cotton jacket, hot pink shirt and faded jeans, on several occasions looked around the tiny courtroom, which was filled with members of the victim's family, his own family, sheriffs and the press.

The youths, who were unable to post $500,000 bond, are being held in separate facilities.

Normally, juvenile proceedings are closed to the press and public. Citing the seriousness of the case, Wood has admitted to her courtroom reporters who agree not to use the names of defendants or their fami-

There were three sessions with more than 200 students attending throughout the day.

Vocational instructors whose classes participated were Laurie Howe, Judy McKay, Maggie Nomec, Larry Deck, Bud Omiatek, Ica Pakeske, and Judy Jenkins.

Joe Dakoske, and Judy Jenkins.

Dan Chrenko, counselor, acted as moderator. He urged students to take control of their future and assume responsibility for their own career planning.

Chrenko asked students to use all the available services, such as the personnel team, instructors, vocational technicians, special educa-tion consultants, assessment evaluator, counseling and job placement.

Herb Spring, co-op coordinator from trade and industry, caught the students attention and lifted their heads with his full powerful voice when he proclaimed, "Your Career Starts Here," and presented the cold, hard facts of learning about the real world of work.

With student interaction, Spring listed what employers expect and look for, such as: honesty, punctuality, proper dress, courtesy, reliability. He then discussed what students are looking for: money, advancement, benefits, hours.

Spring explained the importance of confidentiality on the job and closed with this statement: "Your first job does not mean it's for life but treat it like it is."

Elizabeth Barker of the job placement division of the Community Education Center presented a session on "Resume Preparation." Each student received a packet with a step-by-step procedure for preparing rsumes.

Baker explained that the door is not closed when students graduate, but valuable resources are there to assist graduates.

"It is good to see the students respond enthusiastically to the team approach leading to career development," said Harold Gaertner, director of vocational education for Plymouth-Canton Community

How can a multiple car family minimize insurance costs?

No problem.

Auto-Owners gives families with two or more cars a reduced insurance rate. That makes their exceptional auto coverage and claims service even more attractive.

So if you're a multiple car family trying to minimize insurance costs—call your "no problem" Auto-Owners agent and find out how this discount can be "no problem" for you.

COMPETITION from well-structured city recreation programs and the notion that the county's star at-traction, Middle Rouge Parkway (commonly known as Hines) is still a cruising ground for aimless youth

"I don't know what it was like in the 70s," said Chiasson, who took the job in 1985.

"The whole idea is to bring back the park system to what it used to be," he said. "We have to create reasons for people to be here. I can't duplicate what the cities do — so I have to create bizarre things."

Probably the most bizarre was the first annual mud day, April 22. Co-sponsored by a Westland laundro-mat, the event invited kids of all ages to slosh in 200 tons of mud at the site of a former skating rink in to 3:30 p.m. each Saturday May

S'craft honors Livonia banker, Lansing doctor

Livonia Chamber of Commerce president Daniel Wollschlager and Lansing physician Steven Niergarth were named Distinguished Alumni during Schoolcraft College commencement ceremonies May 2.

Over 900 students received degrees from the Livonia-based community college this school year. Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara was the commencement Wollschlager, vice president of Michigan National Bank, studied business administration at Schoolcraft. He holds a bachelor's in busis administration from Western Michigan University and graduated from the University of Wisconsin Graduate School of Banking in 1984.

LIVONIA RESIDENT, Wollschlager is a Livonia Rotary Club member and has also been active with Burton Hollow Swim and Racquet Club.

"I am very proud of Schoolcraft and the role it plays in the academic area." Wollschlager said. "I'm also proud of the role it plays in the community, particularly through its career resource center.'

Niergarth, an orthopedic surgeon in residence at Lansing General Hospital, received associate's degrees in general studies and science from Schoolcraft. He holds a bachelor's in chemistry from Michigan State University and a doctor of osteopathy degree from the College of Osteopathic Medicine.

The distinguished alumni award is

'I am very proud of Schoolcraft and the role it plays in the academic area. I'm also proud of the role it plays in the community, particularly through its career resource center.'

- Daniel Wollschlager vice president, Michigan National Bank

Nearly two-thirds of this year's graduates received associate's degrees in applied science. Roughly 15 percent received associate's of arts degrees. Graduates also received associate's degrees in science, general studies and engineering. Students also received two- and one-year certificates of study.

Restaurant inspections drop of restaurants each year as required by state law, an informal survey of health departments shows.

Pood inspections differ from county to county in Michigan, and some health departments are more diligent than others, according to a survey by The Flint Journal.

"I think we're all facing financial problems," said Randall Johnson, medical director of the Marquette County Health Department. "I think every (health) department in the state feels there is not enough money for food service inspections."

MICHIGAN LAW requires a mini-mum of two unannounced inspections a year at each eating establishment. Health departments can ask that a restaurant be inspected annually if the restaurant has scored high on two previous inspections, said

"We have been getting into them, not all of them on a six-month frequency because we're understaffed," said Helwig, who says he also in-spects water wells, septic tanks and child care facilities for the county.

In Macomb County, inspectors visit about 60 percent of the 2,200 local establishments twice a year, said Elwin B. Coll, county environmental health supervisor. The rest are inspected annually, he said.

Johnson said a cutback in federal shared revenue has put pressure on

"There's some (restaurants) where inspections once a week wouldn't be sufficient, but other places where you wouldn't have to go every year," the Marquette County official said.

Eight Mile bid $3.7 million

Angelo Infrate Construction Co. of Warren is apparent low bidder at $3.7 million on a project to improve Eight Mile Road on the Oakland-Wayne counties border.

The Michigan Department of Transportation made the announcement after opening bids last week.

The project calls for regurfacing 2.4 miles of Eight Mile from Grand River to east of Telegraph Road, touching Farmington Hills, South-field, Livonia, Redford Township and northwest Detroit.

Curb, gutter, water, lighting and bridge work are included. Target completion date is August 1988, MDOT said.

Tests show no toxic threat from fire

By Wayne Peal staff writer

No contamination has been detected from a recent fire at a Romulus dump site, but county health officials continue testing.

Initial tests show no toxic compounds were released.

"Based on samples taken to date, we haven't seen anything," said David Derenzo of the county air pollution control division.

Hydrogen sulfide, carbon monoxide and cyanide were among the substances that failed to show up in initial tests.

"We thought there might be hydrogen sulfide because we'd heard there was a lot of tires and other rubber material buried there," Derenzo

The fire occurred two weeks ago. Air samples were taken May 3, the day of the fire and May 14-15. Test results are expected to be released by the end of the week.

Keep millage the same

N MONDAY, June 8, voters of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools will be asked to allow the district to collect the voter-authorized property tax rate.

The school district's ballot proposal asks voters' permission to continue levying a tax rate already approved by voters.

There will not be an increase in the tax rate. The tax base (state equalized valuation of property) will increase as it has increased almost every year for the past two decades.

So voters can look at the "Approval to Levy Authorized Millage" ballot proposition as being a millage renewal because that will be the practical result.

IF IT'S APPROVED, the school district will continue to levy the full voted-levy of 37 mills.

If it's defeated, the district will be forced, under the Headlee Amendment to the state constitution, to roll back its rate by 0.98 mills — from the approved

37 mills to 36.02 mills. The proposal's defeat will save property owners money, as will defeat of a millage renewal. The owner of an $80,000 home, for instance, would save $39.20 a year in school taxes under a

The rollback is required because property values this year have grown faster than the 1.9 percent increase in the consumer cost of living, depressed in metropolitan Detroit by lower gaso-

The only way the district can collect the full levy is to win voter approval.

Voters probably have saved at least 10 cents a gallon last year from the depressed gasoline prices. That's about $208 a year for a two-car household compared to the less than $40 which the continued 0.98 mills would cost.

FOR THE SCHOOL district, the rollback of 0.98 mills (98 cents per $1,000 SEV) would cause a revenue reduction of $1.2 million.

Meanwhile, Plymouth-Canton also will lose $1.5 million in state aid in the Together, the rollback and the state aid reduction will cause a revenue loss of $2.7 million. That's the equivalent of 2.5 mills.

A $1 million loss of revenue is enough to pay for about 35 teachers or 25 new buses. Or it could cover heat, lights, water and phone bills for 44 percent of the district for a year.

This coming year the district's total income will increase by 4.7 percent, but expenses will increase by 6 percent. (Wages alone will increase 5 percent plus increments for those eligible.)

If the Headline process is reversed, the district still would have to reduce its fund equity to balance operating dol-lars. If the Headlee rollback is implemented, the district's income would increase by only 2.3 percent, requiring a drastic erosion of fund equity.

If the rollback is approved, the school board most likely would request additional millage next year to make up for the lost equivalent of 2.5 mills.

BECAUSE OF the consequences involved, the Observer recommends voters sanction the decisions already made by previous voters.

The district has provided adequate information on the request.

The Observer believes that information justifies the need to collect the full

The Observer believes voting "yes" on this proposal makes as much sense as approving a millage renewal.

We urge our readers to support the authorized levy proposal. The polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. June 8. We especially urge all residents to vote. Remember, every vote counts.

Silent approval nourishes racism with the zealots

BOB MILES LIVES a few miles north of the Howell paper where I once worked. At the time, Miles said he wouldn't talk about his white supremacist views or the bombings of Pontiac school buses that landed him free room and board at a federal penetentiary.

Since Miles otherwise was not a very interesting subject, I never pursued an interview. I wish I had. Today he is hot

His notoriety would amuse an old re-altor friend of mine. The guy insisted that Miles saw shadows where there were none. Specifically, he said Miles was fearful of government surveillance, proof of which were the small planes that regularly circled his home in a flyspeck of a community called Coho-

WHAT MILES apparently didn't know was that the flight pattern for pi-lot training school at the nearby airport used his farmhouse as a turning point. Those sneaky feds were in fact fledgling student pilots.

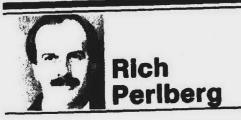

If the story is true, it may say something about right-wing paranoia. On the other hand, Miles was arrested earlier this month by the federal government and charged with sedition.

How serious should we take these small-minded purveyors of hate and racism? That's the question faced by newspapers when small bands of selfstyled neo-Nazis announce they will parade in town, as they did in Birmingham two weeks ago.

Do you ignore them, so they don't get the publicity they so desperately want? Or do you cover them because, after all, they are an unusual event in the community and it is important that readers know that their kind of poisoned thinking does not perish easily?

EXCEPT FOR the isolated violence they may provoke or initiate, the most radical of the white supremacists doesn't bother me as much as my secret fear that the reason they exist is be-cause they believe somewhere in the heart of decent white folks is a flicker of affection for their bile.

And why not? No one would pay much attention - other than bemusement if a bunch of young thugs walked through town saying disparaging things about Rotarians. Rotarians, to my knowledge, have little reason to fear prejudice. The same can't be said for blacks or Jews, the two main targets of white supremacists.

Once the Howell newspaper ran two front page stories on a convocation of Miles' colleagues, complete with a picture of a cross burning. The outrage from the community, which was well aware that Miles lived in their midst, was considerable. The chamber of commerce was shocked. How could we give the town such a poor image? Several ministers and a school of teachers wrote angry letters about the paper's lack of taste. A few months later, out of curiosity we checked at the same churches and schools to see how they had observed Martin Luther King's birthday. None had done a thing.

When speaking to the manager of the Symphony about payment, she inquired about Gregorian. She was very surprised to hear my disappointment. As a musician, I felt that Gregorian gave the orchestra an extra push to perform music at a professional level.

This was obviously not liked by many members. They felt as though he spent too much time criticizing the orchestra. As an onlooker, this would have been the impression. But as a musician, his frustration seemed perfectly under-

During a Feb. 7 dress rehearsal, about 10 members were not present. At the end of the rehearsal, Gregorian let the orchestra know of his frustrations. Many feelings were hurt.

The Plymouth Symphony performed Brahm's Second Symphony on Nov. 22, 1986. During the last movement, the or-chestra did not bother to pay attention to Leon for an important break in the music. He was upset about the destroyed entrance. Once again, feelings were hurt because of the fact that Gregorian wanted the Plymouth Symphony to sound professional.

As a member of the Plymouth Symphony, I feel that Leon Gregorian was dismissed for a variety of poor reasons. There have been numerous rehearsals where the orchestra was spoken to about not being prepared. It is a known fact that any ensemble cannot perform to its potential if rehearsal time is

The criticism was constructive. It was not meant to be taken personally, although many members did just that. Leon Gregorian came to make music with the Plymouth Symphony. His job was not a social one. His high level of musical understanding will be missed in the Plymouth and Canton communities.

I would like to comment on the current controversy over radar detectors. Radar detectors are purchased by individuals so they can exceed the posted speed limits without getting caught and

Many people rationalize the use of tectors at these detectors by saying things like "It in our state in our state speed so I don't drift up." Their views make it real

Thursday, May 21, 1987 U&E

Students had a lot to say at a recent bilingual education conference held in Plymouth.

The conference, "Bilingual Education and English as a Second Language in Michigan: Building on Our Strengths," was held Friday and Saturday, May 15-16. It was sponsored by Michigan Teachers of English to Speakers of Other Languages, Eastern Michigan University and Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

The conference included a number of educators from Michigan and other states talking about a variety of topics related to elementary, secondary, adult education and higher education. Students, however, also had things to say.

On Saturday afternoon, a group of students ages 10 to 13 from other countries talked about adjusting to life and schools in the U.S.

"We wanted to give teachers the perspective of the student at the student level." said Julie Lutz, conference co-chairwoman and project director for the ESL Center of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools. "Having students here makes everything real again.'

THE YOUNGSTERS on the panel talked about similarities and differences among schools in their native countries and in the U.S. (See related

A group of slightly older students also participated in the conference Saturday afternoon.

English as a second language students at Plymouth Salem High School have designed, embroidered, quilted and pieced a "Friendship Quilt" as a gift to their American classmates. Several of the students and teachers Maribeth Carroll and Sheila Norgren talked about their work on the quilt and how the project fit into their ESL (English as a second language) program.

Student participants on the "Living in the U.S.A." panel were from the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools and the Ann Arbor Public Schools. A variety of different language groups and countries were represented, although two children from Yugoslavia were on the panel.

"That's because they were fluent," Lutz said.

life in the U.S. varies widely. The Plymouth-Canton Community Schools program for children in grades one through six has some 56 students, Lutz said.

Neil, who came to the U.S. in February 1985, recently talked with a group of educators and others about life in the U.S. He and six other youngsters ages 10 to 13, from foreign countries, were among speakers at a bilingual education conference, held Friday and Saturday.

Most of the conference sessions were held at the Plymouth Hilton Inn, with several held at the Starkweather Center in Plymouth. The conference was sponsored by Michigan Teachers of English to Speakers of Other Languages, Eastern Michigan University and Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

DURING THE Saturday afternoon "Living in the U.S.A." session, the seven students talked about schools in their native countries and about their adjustment to U.S. schools. The youngsters were from the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools and Ann Arbor Public Schools.

Mary Anne Jaeger, who teaches English as a second language at Ann Arbor's Logan Elementary School, was the moderator for the panel discussion. She asked the students to talk about schools in their native countries, including the hours and days they went to school, the amount of homework they had and when they started studying a second lan-

The students also talked about discipline policies, class size, subjects studied and methods of learning in their native countries.

"What surprised me is the teaching here is more entertaining," said 11-year-old Tadej Accetto, who's from Yugoslavia. "It wasn't so se-appreciated a comment made by Da-new culture and learning English took some time and effort. "It's a great place to learn English here, and it's a great place to get a good education," said Colombia's Andres Concha, an 11-year-old fifth grader at Ann Arbor's Logan Elementary School. Nenad Slavkovic, 13, is enjoying his time in the U.S. Nenad's from

"I like it here," Nenad said. He'll be in the country for several more years and will then return to Yugoslavia; his father works for the Yugo auto manufacturer.

Not all of the adjustments the students had to make were in the classroom. For David Song, seeing the number of cars, the freeways and the tall buildings was surprising.

For Israel's Tal Rahav, 10, recess in the U.S. is quite a bit different.

'Here you don't eat at recess no matter how hungry you are," said Tal, a fourth grader at Ann Arbor's Logan Elementary School.

'Kind of the basic learning is the same," Tal said of U.S. and Israeli schools. "But you get to the answer in a different way. Also at home we don't have reading groups and here we have reading groups."

Reading

Program offers summertime fun

By Julie Brown staff writer

In the summer, many readers prefer lighter material.

Although some ambitious types choose to read "War and Peace," many other summertime readers look for lighter fare.

That's true not only of adults but also of younger readers. Students visiting the Dunning-Hough Library in Plymouth often look for fun things to read.

"They've been working on reports and things all year," said Mary Lou Curtin, children's and reference librarian.

During the summer, younger readers look for mysteries, science fiction and general fiction. They also choose non-fiction books on nature, camping or sports.

Those books are among those students ages 6 to 14 will read as part of this summer's reading program at the library.

THE PROGRAM'S theme this year is based on Michigan's sesquicentennial celebration.

"It should be fun," Curtin said. "I think the kids will enjoy it."

Registration for the summer reading program begins Monday, June 1. Registration must be completed in person at the library, 223 S. Main, Plymouth.

Students participating in the program must be residents of Plymouth, Plymouth Township or Canton Township.

"The rules are the same as last year," Curtin said. "That hasn't changed."

Those rules are:

• Children must read at their own reading level;

• Children must sign a contract saying how many books they will read in six weeks (at least three); • Children must give a report on at least one book: • Children must fulfill their contract in order to attend the awards party on Saturday, Aug. 1; • There will be separate registration for the Michigan products

Participants will begin reading on Monday, June 22. The kickoff program and "Liars and Tall Tales

From 1 to 2 p.m. Tuesday, July 14, Ming the Magnificent, a magician from Northville, will provide the entertainment. A program on Michigan wildlife will be 1-2 p.m. Tuesday, July 21.

Tuesday, July 28, is the last day to report on books. The awards party is scheduled for 1 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 1, for participants who have fulfilled their contracts.

Last year, 317 students signed up for the summer reading program.

"I have a feeling this year we're going to have even more," Curtin said. The program has been publicized through the library's quarterly newsletter, through newspapers and through materials sent to local elementary and middle schools. Last year, 166 students fulfilled their contracts. Becky Uhlmann was the top reader with 223 books. Participants must read books at their own grade level; students books to fulfill their contracts. The program is designed to encourage students to continue reading during the summer.

won't be allowed to use comic

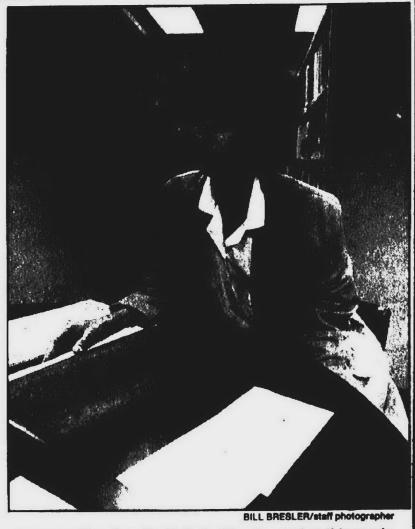

IF A STUDENT has enjoyed a book by a particular author, the librarians may suggest another book by that author or a book with a similar theme. The librarians are careful, however, not to push certain books too much if students aren't interested.

"You can turn kids off by being too pushy," Curtin said.

It's best if students come into the library to report on books on days other than Tuesdays when special programs are scheduled.

Students will reach into a jar and pick a question, such as "Tell us about your favorite part" or "Why finds the work rewarding.

"It's very satisfying. They learn quickly, on the whole.

"You see changes every day. It's very fulfilling. It's very-interesting also. You learn so much about people."

The recent spring conference drew approximately 120 participants, not including presenters.

Teachers, administrators, teacher's aides and parents attended the conference at the Plymouth Hilton Inn. Several conference sessions were held at the Starkweather Cener in Plymouth.

"We've been getting good evaluaflons," Lutz said. "People seem to be Fery happy with the variety."

moral perspectives

Rev. David Strong

We cannot solve our problems without God on Maple Road at Drake Road, I believe that everyone who travels to Europe should visit the site of a former concentration camp. I believe that everyone who travels to the Caribbean should visit Haiti or one of the other poverty-stricken countries. I believe that everyone should spend at least a few hours in an inner-city church in Detroit.

We must not forget the contrasts of good and evil, poverty and wealth. It is only in this experience that we can continue to ask, How can this world become one?

The hardest part of this question is that we must face the fact that in complex ways we all affect these problems. Poor, Third World countries are forced to export food in order to buy technology. We buy pineapples and sugar from a country where people starve.

Recently I have been reading about the Klaus Barbie trial now taking place in France. For three years during the second World War he ordered the roundup of Jews and others who were killed in the concentration camps. He is on trial. Many in France and in the United States fear that collaboration between Barble and French and with Americans after the world will come to light.

WHY DO WE need to know about these painful things? We need to know that the trouble of this world is more than just individual moral error. To grasp the transformation of the world which we seek we must understand the darkness that it must overcome. The biblical statement which comes to mind is, "For we wrestle not against flesh and blood. but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world."

When we face the enormous pain of the world we must either acknowledge that it is hopeless or that God alone has the power to over-come these things. God must be larg-er than the individual mistakes of famous people we read about in the

I BELIEVE that everyone should help us solve the vast gap between visit the holocaust Memorial Center the rich and the poor. Only God case give us resolve to prevent the de-struction of the world.

The current investigations into the private and public morality of our leaders must be weighed against the backdrop of vastly more moral is-sues. Two hundred years ago only a few understood the enormous evil of slavery. It is much easier to identify the person down the street who cheats or lies. Our current focus if upon little sins. We need to pay at tention to the Klaus Barbie case as it unfolds. We need to focus upon com-

We need to relate to people and governments in Central America. South America and Africa in ways that assist the development of the people. It is a difficult and complex task. Yet when we grapple with enormous problems and enormous sins we must affirm a God who is so great that he is able to transform ese problems.

J.B. PHILLIPS once wrote a book with the title, "Your God Is Teo Small." This phrase keeps coming to mind. This is our temptation: to focus upon small problems and exclude awareness of the world's ies. Our children need such a world awareness. We need to help them to understand a God who is not only able to deal with individual problems but who is transforming

The function of our religion is to elp us not only cope with individual roblems and affirm individual faith problems and affirm individual faith but to expand our vision to the world. Our God is too small if we do not seek God's healing for the world. We need not become "anxious" about such world problems if we trally believe that God is working in the entire mix of world greats as much as he is working within individual interests.

With such a vision we can agree with Racey Baseson Fundade, This is a great those to be officed to

CHRIS TRIOLA of St. Johns is a believer in Ask The Consultant. A clothing designer whose woven and knitted women's apparel had appeared in such local stores as Crowley's, Walton-Pierce, Clothes Friends of West Bloomfield and Carleton's Suits and Collectibles of Birmingham, Triola wanted to expand into national markets.

Thanks to financial advice from Grey & Trepeck and marketing advice from Neil Simon of Simon and Assobiates, Triola's goods now appear in a New York showroom that displays wares to buyers from stores around the country.

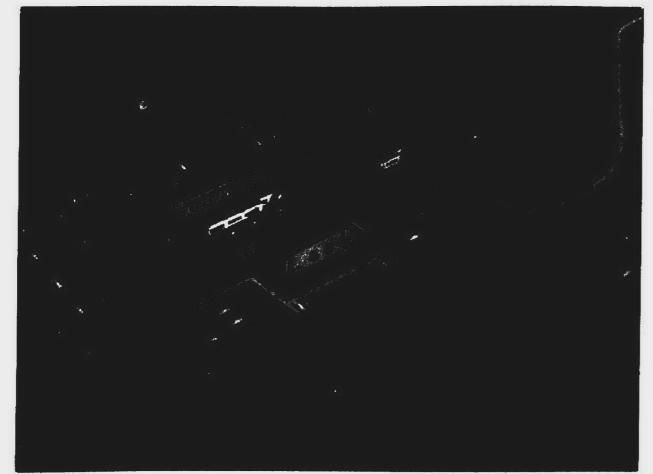

They've been very, very helpful to me," said Triola of Ask The Consultants. "Very much so. They've taken a real personal interest and have been very professional, too." Although Ask The Consultant plans to stay at 14 full-fledged members, each of whom serve on the board of directors, the group is looking to expand its ties to a wider range of consultants for clients. According to Milligan, the group is looking for help in high tech manufacturing, health care, public relations and the import-export business.

To that end, the group is sponsoring a cocktail evening for business experts who may be interested in forming an alliance in those and other areas. They will meet with interested business people 6-8 p.m. Tuesday, June 9, at the Machus Sly Fox in Birmingham.

Michigan National unveils new headquarters complex

By Tom Henderson staff writer

Michigan National Corp.'s new, $25-million headquarters at I-696 and Inkster roads in Farmington Hills will look more like a small college campus than an office complex.

The four, two-story buildings will be tucked into a heavily wooded site and set up against a wooded ravine and stream. Workers and visitors will reach the parking lot on a large, wooden bridge, with the four buildings grouped around two outdoor courtyards.

The complex, plans for which were unveiled at a press conference Tuesday, will include a fitness center and an outdoor running path.

"This is a holistic approach

What we were trying to capture here was the spirit of some of the and the historic sited of Monticello more traditional values of society (and) project a forward-looking attitude at the same time. We are delighted with it. It captures everything we wanted to capture and say with this building," said Mylod.

THE CAMPUS look and feel were no accident. The architects were Luckenbach/Ziegleman and Partners Inc. of Birmingham. Robert Ziegelman worked for years with architect Eero Saarinen, son of the famed architect Eliel Saarinen. Eero Saarinen designed the GM Tech Center in Warren and, with his father, designed many of the buildings in the toward supplying an environment Cranbrook complex in Bloomfield for our people," said Robert Mylod, Hills. Groundbreaking at the site began late in the winter, and occupancy is expected for the fall of 1988.

Michigan National Corp. is a multi-bank holding company with total assets of $7.9 billion, according to bank officials. Subsidiaries operate 243 branches and 540 automatic teller machines statewide. The corporation also owns a mortgage company with 30 offices outside the state of Michigan and overall employs about 7,000 people, including those of its Independence One Bank in Iowa and its Morris International investment firm in Minneapolis.

Ad agencies to fund professorship

By Tom Henderson staff writer

The Adcraft Club of Detroit is closing in on its goal of raising $280,000 to endow an advertising professorship at Wayne State University, but Dr. Edward Riordan, the chairman of the school's Department of Marketing, isn't about to sit back and relax.

The club, the largest advertising club in the country with 3,700 members, has raised some $230,000 of the goal it announced last fall, Riordan said. He said the campaign will continue through the summer, even if the goal is

"I want to use the summer to go to the agencies and see the guys who haven't given enough or who haven't given at all," Riordan said.

"We're doing it in a bad year, when all the auto companies are squeezing the ad agencies' commissions from 15 percent to 9. This (program) is coming out in absolutely the worst year possi-

RIORDAN, A RESIDENT of West Bloomfield, said the campaign is unique in the country.

"Here you have a bunch of guys who fight together every day, and here they are banding together for this. That's the fascinating part of it. And it's not a philanthropic organization, it's a social organization."

Adcraft Club members, with urging from Riordan and Thomas Adams, former board chairman of Campbell-Ewald and a past president of the club, joined in the endowment campaign as a way to support Wayne State and, ultimately, their own profession.

Riordan said the money raised will be invested, with the interest used to supplement existing school funds to go into the national marketplace and hire the best advertising professor available.

"Let's say we realize $15,000 from an interest-bearing account," Riordan said. "That makes you much more competitive when you go recruiting nationwide."

Nise business owner uses publicity to fullest

The smart entrepreneur will use publicity to the fullest advantage when carrying out the promotional activity of the small business. As mentioned last week, publicity is free and allows the firm to reach current and potential customer markets via the media.

Don't be fooled into thinking that successfully generating publicity as a business requires knowing some-one directly involved in the media; nothing could be further from the truth. When a firm can attract attention to itself (or its products and services) in an innovative or creative manner, publicity is sure to follow.

"Jumpin' the Jell-O" is one gimmick that turns up every so often and works every time if well organized by the sponsor. A car-stereo shop in Sacramento, Calif., came up with the idea, which involved offering prizes to anyone willing to dive into a 360-gailon vat of Jell-O and retrieve one of 60 marbles at the bottom of the vat.

Because teenage drivers represented one of the owner's principle target customer markets, the local rock radio stations became involved by announcing the event and then covering it live. More than 500 divers jumped at the chance to compete, causing the owner to hold a drawing to distribute the prizes. The amount of free radio and television coverage he received would have cost more than $10,000 if paid for via advertising.

Press releases sent to the key newspapers, magazines or tabloids is another means of publicizing prod-ucts and services. During the peak wedding-planning season, Wedding House of Wyandotte had its marketing firm create a press release focusing on the wedding-planning process while relating the story to its own product, Wedding in a Box.

One of the national tabloids (with a readership of 3.4 million) ran the release including ordering and price information. Demand for the box skyrocketed, and it cost Wedding House nothing to obtain this national

There are several publications available to assist the individual or firm interested in pursuing publicity as a means to promote themselves or their businesses. "The Unabashed Self-Promoter's Guide," written by Dr. Jeffrey Lant, is an excellent book, which discusses "what every man, woman, child and organization in America needs to know about getting ahead by exploiting the media."

Lant at 50 Follen Street, Suite 507, Cambridge, Mass. 02138. Another manual, "Promotional Gimmicks," prepared by the staff at Entrepreneur Magazine, is abvailable at the Start a Business Store, 2080 W. Big Beaver, Troy 48084 or by calling 649-8646.

'Motor City Magic'

Guitarist's sound spans golden oldies, newest charts,

Jazz guitarist Dennis Coffey of Farmington Hills began his musical career in metropolitan Detroit, where he played session guitar on many Motown record hits. After stints in Los Angeles and New York, Coffey returned to the Detroit area, performing in clubs and continuing as a recording artist. Coffey's newest album, "Motor City Magic," is No. 19 on the charts.

studio Los Angeles and nnis Coffey has covered it all.

Now a world-renowned jazz stylist, Coffey and his guitar have placed 19th on the charts with his new album "Motor City Magic." They're making the rounds of local clubs and radio stations, but the man and his instrument are no strangers to the metropolitan Virtually every Motown hit in the "Golden Age" featured the Farmington Hills guitarist. "I just turn on the oldies stations and hear

The education of a musician began in his teens, when the Mackenzie High School grad started to teach himself. "I learned a lot off the radio," Coffey said with a smile. It wasn't long before the radio resounded with his playing. "I played my first session at 15, and my first million seller was with Del Shannon. My first Motown session was 'Cloud Nine' by the Temptations."

AFTER PLAYING session guitar for years, Coffey moved from Motown to California and remained on the West Coast to do solo albums, TV and movie backgrounds. A New York stint ended in 1982, and the Detroit native came home. "I'd accomplished everything I wanted," Coffey said, "and I like a little bit of space around gold single and album awards. Now the ace sideman is co-running a studio of his own.

That's part of the story. The other half is that Coffey continues to play an active schedule of jazz appearances, both here and nationally. Still, Coffey admits that the road's tiresome, that he's living a deviant lifestyle for a musician.

"I suppose that's true," the quiet. almost professional-looking man behind the glasses said, nodding. "For some reason my lifestyle's always been fairly conservative."

"Conservative" means a home-in the suburbs, his wife, Kathy, and Michigan State University.

After all the R&B, pop tunes, why jazz? "I originally began with both a jazz product and an R&B product. The R&B got picked up. But you know, you start out blending in a session, man, but you start finding your identity in your own sound. When you develop your own sound, you get labeled a 'stylist,' and you're not in as much demand as an anonymous session man."

Renting a home in North Carolina sandhi

HERE I was, half way up the longest hill on Firetree Lane, changing bicycle gears and pumping furi-ously to make it to the top. Doug Raddatz and Dave Wernyss went by in a blur of wheels.

Beth Raddatz could have done the same, but she held back to ride with Katie Wemyss and me, both of us pedalling like mad downhill so we could make it uphill without getting off to walk. Micky and I had only brought one bike between us, so he was off somewhere taking pictures and waiting his turn at the handle-

The hills around Lake Sequoia are not really that steep but I am not used to riding bicycles through the North Carolina sandhills, so I did the three miles and then huffed and puffed my way home. 'Home' was a four-bedroom house on Lake Sequoia, which eight of us rented for a week: the Raddatzes, the Wemyss, the Joneses and the Enrights, all of Farmington Hills.

Nancy and Pat (officially Vince) Enright have bought property in Seven Lakes and some day hope to join the thousands of northerners who abandon smoke and snow for the sandhills of North Carolina.

Seven Lakes is one of several private residential communities within a half hour drive of Pinehurst. Many, like this one, have gone bankrupt at least once damming up lakes, creating golf courses, club houses and health clubs for buyers who build their private dream houses amid the stands of long-leaf pines. Everyone in Seven Lakes is either a southerner or a transplanted northerner who has left family and friends behind to create a new community, so everybody waved at us as they jogged past our deck or as we cycled around Firetree Lane.

One ride around the lake and we had waved to the occasional car driver, the walkers out for their morning constitutional, the gardeners planting their summer flowers and even the kids messing around in the gazebo beside the lake.

That first ride was all we needed to get the lay of the land. Firetree

Each property is fronted by a small wooden sign. Some bear just a name but most are more specific: 'Sarah Sea, Middletown, Connecticut.' Most of the owners are from New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Michigan, all the Great Lakes states.

Margaret and Bill Widman of West Bloomfield built a house on a point of land protruding into the lake three years ago and they can barely remember days when they didn't wake up to the lap of water and the smell of pines.

Jim and Carol Gunderson are from Zelienople, PA, but Carol was originally from Michigan, and her sister Ellen McMahon has only one more winter to go before she and her husband Dick move from West Bloomfield to Seven Lakes.

Not everybody who goes to Seven Lakes goes to retire. Travelers go to enjoy the 36 golf courses in the Pi-nehurst area, to browse the village of Pinehurst, to watch the train come in or have dinner at the Jefferson Inn in Southern Pines, or just to sit on their deck and look at the lake.

There are real-world places with shopping malls in Southern Pines and Aberdeen. Everybody stops sooner or later, on the way into Pinehurst, for a beef and brie saudwich at Market Place or to browse the craft shops next door.

There are important things to do in Pinehurst, other than golfing the famous golf courses; things like stopping for tea and tuna salad at the Womens Exchange, the oldest building in town, across the street from the Village Chapel.

My dream was always to the three miles around also found on my bike. The hardy among went beyond Firetree, and on another three miles past the country chi and the tiny white non-denomination church, to the IGA and the discount clothing store on Highway 211.

But people like me were astisfied to watch the flowers rioting through the pine trees and pedalling like mandownhill so we wouldn't have a walk up.

Salem sends 3 to state

Plymouth Salem qualified three individuals and one relay team for state competition in the Class A boys regional at Eastern Michigan University Saturday.

Plymouth Canton's Tyrone Reeves will compete in two individual events May 30 at the state meet in Alma. The Chiefs' Roger Trice also qualified, as did the 400meter relay team.

Salem's Brian Neuhardt was third in the 400 dash (only the top two are automatic qualifiers), but he met the qualifying standard when he completed the race in 49.9.

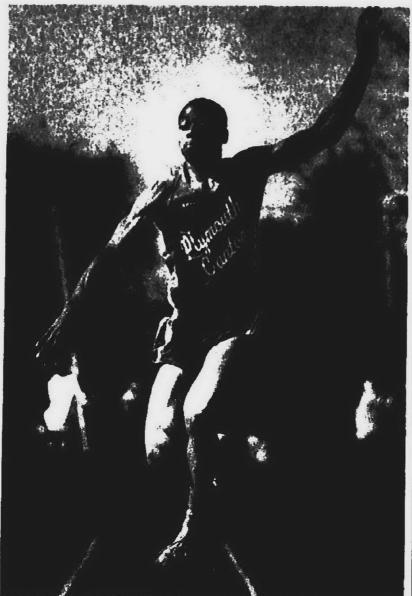

Jay Blaylock was second in the discus with a toss of 154-614, and the Rocks' Sean Hunter participated in some high-caliber high jump competition that also involved Reeves and Trice.

WHILE ANN Arbor Huron's Franklin Gay won the event at 23-64, Reeves was runner-up at 22-8, Hunter fourth at 21-11 and Trice fifth at 21-3.

"Some kids jumped 19 feet at other regionals and qualified for state, and the five kids our regional is sending to state are all over 21," Salem coach Gary Balconi said. "It was a very tough regional, and I feel real good about our kids' performances.'

Reeves also tied for second place in the 100 dash with Wayne Memorial's Tony Robertson and Westland John Glenn's Marcus Lowe all with 11.1 times.

Salem's 1,600 relay team of Shawn Simms, Chris Hill, J.P. LaRoche and Neuhardt will represent the Rocks at state after finishing third with a 3:25.0 time. Canton's 400 relay foursome was sec-(Simms, Hill, Bowie and Neuhardt) fourth and the 400 foursome (Hunter, Greg Pahl, LaMar Crayton and Hill) fifth.

Besides the ones going to state, Canton's Brian Carney was fifth in the 200 dash and Jay Swiecki eighth in the 1,600 run. The Chiefs also placed in the 3,200 relay

Miller soars 5½ feet to reach state meet

Plymouth Canton's Angle Miller won the regional championship in the high jump competition Saturday in Eastern Michigan University's Rynearson Stadium.

Miller, who won the event at 5-6 and jumped five inches higher than her closest competitor, was the only girl from Canton or Plymouth Salem to qualify for the Class A state meet May 30 at Alma.

Canton's Janet Armstrong was third in the high jump (5-1). The Chiefs also scored points in the 400meter relay. Kristy Brugar, Sherri Emery, Heather Miller and Yolanda Horton ran a 52.9 race and tied for fifth place.

The Chiefs also placed seventh in the 800 relay (Horton, Brugar, Heather Miller and Tricia Carney) at 1:51.9 and the 1,600 relay (Angle Miller, Marne Smith, Amy Van Buhler and Carney) at 4:17.2.

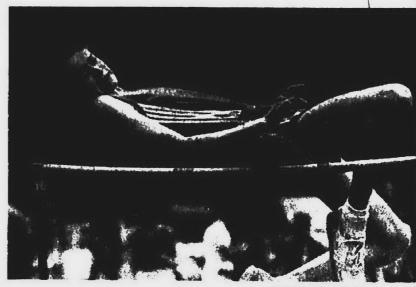

CANTON'S FOURSOME of Lori Penland, Sherry Figurski, Melissa Jasnowski and Kristine Marquard was eighth in the 3,200 relay with a 10:31.5 time.

Shelley Bohlen had Salem's lone individual place, finishing sixth in the shot put with a distance of 33-0.

The Rocks fared well in the 800 relay as Lee Zelek, Kristen Hostynski, Jenny Smith and Dena Head placed fourth with a 1:51.3 time.

Salem's Laurie Santo, Zelek, 3,200 relay (10:22.9).

Smith and Head were sixth in the 400 relay (10:22.9), and Traci Thomas, Lisa Mickey, Amy Hobgood and Kim Mishler finished sixth in the

Salem alive in tourney

Jill Estey and her Plymouth Canton soccer teammates had plenty to cheer about Wednesday night as the Rocks routed Brighton 5-0 at Centennial Educational Park. Salem advances to the regional final at 2 p.m. Saturday at Lansing Waverly High School. The Rocks will play the survivor of the contest pitting the Kalamazoo Central and Grand Haven district winners. Michelle Minton scored two goals, and Estey had four assists in Wednesday's game.

Skaters on a roll in Canton

By Dan O'Meara staff writer

The best roller skaters in Michigan will compete this weekend in the state championships at the Skating Station in Canton.

The four-day event, which begins Friday and continues through Monday, is the first step toward qualifying for national competition and will feature contestants from as young as 3 years up to 60.

The types of competition will include school figures (compulsory), singles (freestyle), dance (couples dance skating) and pairs (couples doing freestyle-type moves such as lifts, jumps and spins), according to Mike Dunn, manager of the Skating Station, 8611 Ronda Drive.

"It's very much like you see in ice skating competition, only it's more difficult to do on roller skates," said Dunn of the pairs skating.

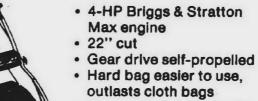

"(The pairs skating) is more exciting to watch, the more glamourous event," he added, "but the people who go round in circles will argue their skills are just as good.

"That takes a lot of skill, too; there's less room for error in the school figures."

There will still be an 18 regular-season game limit, but — most importantly - teams will be restricted to three matches a week.

Some may oppose the three-games-per-week plan, but I don't. Earlier this season, rainouts and the scheduling of state tournament games forced Livonia Churchill and Livonia Franklin to play each other on consecutive days. Plymouth Canton played seven games in an eight-day stretch. That, to me, is severely hazardous to the stude

Another noteworthy change in boys soccer: The council voted to change the state tournament threedivision classification from A, B-C and D to A, B and C-D. Class C Detroit Country Day should like that.

Plymouth Conton capitalised on appealing circus and a pair of deathles in a big second leading that quarted the Chiefe by a 16-7 victory over North Parentingles in the first games of a headed! Grable-baseder Printsy.

Coach Fred Crissey's team has shioned a 18-5 record and is 6-3 in the Western Division of the Wes Lakes Activities Association, despite playing without a handful of regu-lars at various points in the campaign.

"I'm really pleased with these kids," Crissey said. "It shows some integrity when you can take two to integrity when you can take two to four starters out of the lineup and still play, which we've been doing."

In the first game against North, the Chiefs pulled away with a six-run second inning in which the Raiders committed five errors.

CANTON THEN reaped a harvest of runs when Ron Balog and Ed Bar-delli hit two-run doubles in the in-ning to put the Chiefs on top 7-0. Derek Darkowski went the six-in-

Marion, who tied Tim Dowd for the team lead in home runs with five apiece, was two-for-three and also had an RBI single.

: Todd Robinson scored Salem's winning run in the second inning with a steal of home plate. He got on with a single, stole second and went to third when the Stevenson throw to second resulted in an error.

The right-handed Marion's opposite-field homer came in the third after Jerry Sumner had singled and Dowd was hit by a pitch.

Dowd also scored on a passed ball in the seventh, extending his runsscored total to 29. He has 27 RBL too, even though he hasn't played in all 20 games for the 17-3 Rocks.

Craig Hawley was the winning pitcher, upping his record to 4-0. He scattered four hits over seven innings, struck out six and walked four.

SALEM 9-5, W.L. WESTERN 3-3: Besides being the winning pitcher, Marion went four-for-four and had five RBI in the Rocks' opening-game victory Friday at Western.

Marion's bases-loaded double in the fourth inning broke open a close game and gave Salem a 7-3 lead. He also put the Rocks ahead with a runproducing single in the first inning and drove in an insurance run in the

"I'd say he and (Westland John Glenn's) Clint Straub are the best two juniors I've seen any place," Salem coach John Gravlin said. "Both are outstanding pitchers; both are butstanding hitters.

"Straub is probably a little faster (in terms of foot speed), but Todd is bigger and stronger."

Western scored all of its runs in the bottom of the third inning to tie 6-3, but Salem pulled ahead in the top half of the next frame.

BRAD WRIGHT WALKED with one out and scored the go-ahead run on Tom Henig's double. Steve Woodward got on with an error, and Dowd walked to load the bases with Marion coming to bat.

Skaters go for the gold in Canton

Each discipline is then divided in different age groups, beginning with the primaries for young children and rising to the world-class level. The skaters in the latter category eventually hope to land a spot on the United States team that will compete at the World Championships in

But, first, the top five skaters in each age group will advance to the Great Lakes Regional in Indiana during the Fourth of July week. The region also takes in skaters from Indiana, Ohio, Illingis and Wisconsin.

The top three in each region go on to the national meet, the Great Lakes being just one of nine regional competitions in the U.S.

The quality of skaters in Michigan makes it "one of the strongest states in the country," Dunn said. "We have good programs, good instructors and a good state organization that is very well organized."

The state organization, which is part of the U.S. Amateur Federation of Roller Skating, "runs good com-petitions throughout the year, so that when it comes time for the state and are ready for it," he said.

Sheridan wins 1st

Sheridan Square opened its Garden City Men's Baseball League season by blasting the Dearborn Heights Angels, 9-1, Sunday at Garden City Park. The Garden City-based team benefitted from Steve Wells' three-run homer in the first - Wells finished with two hits and four RBI - and Craig Zube's three hits and three RBI.

Mark Vyse was the winning pitcher. He struck out nine, allowed four hits and walked two. The second game of the double-header was called because of darkness with the two teams deadlocked at 3-3 after

Aggies rout St. Florian

Maryann Kick drove in four runs two with a triple, and Dawn West went 3-for-3 and knocked in three runs to pace Redford St. Agatha's 20-2 softball trouncing of Hamtramck

St. Florian Monday at St. Agatha.
Kick finished with two hits in helping make Aggie pitcher Maureen Michaels a winner. Michaels allowed just two hits and one walk in the game, ended by a five-inning mercy rule. St. Agatha is 9-7 overall, 8-5 in the Catholic C-D League.

softball

He's grazing, about 20 yards away, and doesn't even know I'm there. I can easily count the tines on his sym-metrical rack; eight on each side.

With my heart pounding wildly I raise my how, set the sights on a deadly neck shot and release the arrow. Thurang.

My arrow sails directly into a tree branch just feet from my target and years off into the brush. My trophy hears the alarming noise, snorts, and darts off into a nearby swamp while my stomach knots up and my eyes begin to burn.

fore opening day. For crying out loud, opening day for archera is still more than three months away. I hope I start sleeping again soon.
THIS WHOLE THING started Saturday night when I attended the Commemorative Bucks of Michigan's annual awards dinner at the Multi-Lakes Conservation Association clubbouse in Commerce.
There were descent of trouby racks.

There were dozens of trophy racks on display including Craig Calderone's (typical) 14-pointer which set an all-time state record — and undoubtedly inspired my nightmare. Calderone bagged this monster in Jackson County on Nov. 6, 1986 with a bow and arrow. It was his 27th

The dinner was held for the purpose of presenting plaques and commemorative belt buckles to the hunters who shot the higgest deer, bear and elk last year in Michigan.

CBM is a non-profit organization, formed in 1981 for the purpose of recognizing and recording Michigan's trophy whitetail deer, bear and "I was down at the Outdoorama (on big buck night) in the winter of 1986," said West Bloomfield's Paul Jalon, co-founder and president of CBM. "There were some nice racks (present), and when people asked about state records no one knew what they were. I kind of realized then that there were no records kept on that information. I got together with a couple of my friends, Bob Kowalkowski and John Noga, to see if we could do something about it."

What they did was form CBM.

The main goals of CBM are to recognize Michigan's trophy hig game animals and hunters and to promote hig game hunting in Michigan.

"A lot of people (outside the state) don't think we have any hig bucks here in Michigan," said Jalon. "Now we can show them that we do have trophy animals."

trophy animals."
CBM USES the same measuring systems as the nationally recognized Boone and Crockett Club (firearms) and Pope and Young Club (archery) although CBM's minimum scores are slightly lower.

The Pope and Young Club requires a minimum score of 125 points for typical (symmetrical) racks and 150 points for non-typical racks. CBM requires 115 points typical and 140 non-typical.

The Boone and Crockett Club requires a minimum of 170 typical and Dennis Draper bagged the largest one in Otsego County and scored a 272.6 while the second largest was bagged in Montmorency County by Redford's Gerald Manus who scored 207.6.

Official CBM measurers live throughout the state and anyone wishing to enter their buck into the CBM recognition program can have it measured free of charge.

Chris Inch does it again for Farmington

Farmington had five individual champions, including a double winner in Chris Inch, and captured third place in the Class A track and field regional at Southfield High School Saturday.

Inch, the Falcons' All-American distance runner, won the 1,600- and 3.200-meter run

He finished 12 seconds ahead of Birmingham Seaholm's Paul Dain in the 1,600 with a 4:16.6 time. The same was true of his performance in the 3,200, in which he posted a

In addition, the Falcons' Andrew Holliday captured the pole vault (12-7), Ed Sudzina was the best in the shot put (48-6), Brandon London jumped 6-3 to win the high jump and Al Stebbins was pushed by team-mate London to win the 800 run in LONDON WAS SECOND in the 800 (1:56.78), and he also teamed up with Ron Smedley, Mark Langdon and Stebbins to give the Falcons first place in the 3,200 relay. The Farmington foursome, in posting an 8:02.75 time, was nearly five seconds better than runner-up Birmingham Brother Rice.

All of the regional winners and runners-up will advance to the Class A state meet May 30 at Alma.

Besides the state qualifiers, the Falcons' Mark Weintraub was seventh in the 100 dash (11.49), Matt Walter sixth in the 1,600 run (4:34.88) and Smedley sixth in the 800 run Farmington's 800 relay team placed fourth (1:33.21), and the 400 foursome was fifth (45.55).

Southfield won the meet with 111 points, and Redford Bishop Borgess was second with 97. The Falcons scored 89 points, but the field dropped off after that to fourthplace Brother Rice with 49.

The tourism industry is asking votiff support for a petition drive to re-duire that schools' summer vacation be extended past Labor Day week-

"It would have a great deal of impact on family travel. Tourism is Michigan's second largest industry," said Fred Wazolek, executive direc-for of the Say Yes to Michigan Tourism Committee.

Caregivers are elderly women bout the frail elderly these days. Who are the frail elderly, and who cares for them?

Mrs. T., Eastern Reader

Dear Mrs. T.:

The term "frail elderly" refers primarily to older people who are disabled and unable to look after themselves. The majority live in the community.

Who their caregivers are was the subject of a report entitled "Caregivers of the Frail Elderly: A National Profile," based on the data from a national longterm care sur-

The major finding: More than onethird of the caregivers are over age 65 themselves. Along with being considered in the "older" category, the caregivers rated their own health as fair to poor and have incomes in the poor to near-poor range.

Other findings: The majority of caregivers are female; almost threequarters of them live with the care recipient; and 80 percent provide care seven days a week.

As you can see, Mrs. T., the job of the caregiver is a difficult one.

My mother suffered a stroke last year, and since that time she has been in a nursing home.

My reason for writing is to ask you why the staff at the nursing home insist that mother be placed in a chair and put through an exercise routine twice a day.

My mother wants to stay in bed where she is comfortable. I don't know why the staff go to all this trouble — as I doubt if she will ever walk again. Your comments, please. Miss K., Detroit,

Dear Miss K.:

Even though it is doubtful that your mother ever will walk again, an exercise (rehabilitation) program is essential for her general well-being.

Post-stroke and other bedridden patients benefit in many ways from rehabilitation. Their joints remain flexible; pressure sores are prevented; muscle strength is maintained; the circulatory system is stimulated; and their mental outlook is im-

To improve your mother's health even further, you can encourage her to take an active part in her exercise

Beauty spots in Michigan will be in focus during the sesquicentenial. Right in in our own backyard is the Ambassador Bridge, shown here at sunsef.

Sesqui-summer: Say 'yes' to fun

By Iris Sanderson Jones special writer

THEN THE FUR traders paddled down Lake Michigan centuries ago, they could not have imagined an explosion of sailboats making patches of color on Grand Traverse Bay 150 years later.

Picture the pioneers of 1837 standing on the sidelines with thousands of travelers, watching the canoe flotilla, the wagon train, the bicycles in the Tour de Michigan and all the other summer events designed to celebrate Michigans 150th birthday.

the state during this birthday year.

MICHIGAN MAY BE the only state that celebrates its birthday twice. It started celebrating its sesquicentennial in June 1986, 150 years after the state constitution was written and Michigan was supposedly admitted to the union. Birthday celebrations didn't start in earnest however, until January 1987, 150 years after statehood was formally grant-

That means Michigan has been ringing horns and lighting firecrackers for almost a year, but the state birthday celebrations explode into a frenzy of activity this summer.

A year-long Water Festival will color Great Lakes shorelines, the 11,037 inland lakes and the state rivers and streams.

The Family Reunion is expected to attract former residents to picnics and parades statewide. The Smithsonian Folklife Festival, Michigan on the Mall, will move from Washington to East Lansing in August. And every community in Michigan's 83 counties will break out the band

for some kind of local celebra-

NONE OF US REALLY care any more that statehood was delayed six months because of political shenanigans. Politics was just as tangled in 1836 as it is now. Michigan and Ohio both claimed the site of Toledo; Congress refused to give Michigan statehood until the conflict was resolved. President Andrew Jackson suggested a compromise: Ohio would get Toledo: Michigan would get the Upper Peninsula.

Michigan said no the first time the offer was made, but finally agreed and became a state on Jan. 26, 1837. Exactly 150 years later, on Jan. 26, 1987, people of "the wolverine state" celebrated with a bang.

There was a 26-gun dawn salute in Sault Ste. Marie, the state's oldest city, fireworks in 83 counties, a re-enactment of the lighting of the capital" in Lansing, sesquicentennial balls everywhere and the first of hundreds of birthday events began.

MICHIGAN HAS 3,140 miles of shoreline on four of the five Great Lakes, and more registered boats than any other state, so a 365-day Michigan Water Festival made sense. Nobody said the water couldn't be frozen, so the festival started on ice, with ice fishing, snowmobiling and winter festivals statewide.

Skiing was also part of the party. Michigan practically invented organized skiing: the nation's first ski club, at Ishpeming, became the United States Ski Association early in the 20th century; one of the nation's first ski resorts was established at Caberfae, near Cadillac, in 1937; and snowmaking machines were both patented and developed here in the state.

The water festival reaches its peak this summer. A statewide canoe flotilla will carry thousands of paddlers down state lakes and streams on the weekends of June 13. The flotilla was inspired by Michigan canoers Verlen and Valerie Kruger who really know how to travel: they launched a 21,000-mile canoe trip from the Arctic to the tip of Cape Horn during this sesquicentennial

IF YOU CAMP, boat or fish, you can use some Michigan facilities free, no licenses required, on June 6 or 7.

The Sesquicentennial Wagon Train will also be on the move, circling mid-Michigan, June 15-27. Sherwood Forest Campground

1987 Interlochen Arts Festival at the National Music Camp. This year is the camp's 60th season, and to celebrate this milestone, a special gala concert is set for July 25. President Ronald Reagan and the governors of all 50 states have been invited to Kresge Auditorium to hear the World Youth Symphony Orchestra play under Lorin Maazel's ba-grades three through college levels will travel to Interlochen's 1,200-acre campus from virtually all of the 50 states and some 25 or so foreign countries from June 21 through Aug. 17. These young artists will study music, the visual arts, dance and drama and the result will be over 400 arts events open to the public.

Leading off the special concerts this summer is the United States Marine Band which will give a free concert in the Interlochen Bowl June 24 at 8 p.m. Called "The President's Own," the band is the oldest symphonic military band in the United States, having served under 39 of 40 American presidents and performed in Philadelphia when it was still the nation's capital.

ON JUNE 26 at 8 p.m., Canadian sass returns to Kresge with the arrival of the Canadian Brass. Whether with orchestra or in recital - from the China Wall to Carnegie Hall - the Brass has emerged as the premier classical brass ensemble in the world. The Brass's blend of musicality, comedy and wit has sold out the house at Interlochen for the last four years. Reserved seat tickets are $14, $12 and $10.

June 30 marks the arrival of the Mendelssohn String Quartet, hailed by the New York Times as "one of the very best," in Corson Auditorium at 8 p.m. Winner of the Young Concert Artists' International Auditions in 1981, the Mendelssohn has rapidly established a reputation as one of the finest, most exciting quartets of its generation. Reserved seat tickets are $8.

THE ONLY PIANO duo ever to capture top honors in the Munich International Music Competition, Anthony and Joseph Paratore will be making their first Interlochen appearance July 2 at 8 p.m. in Corson Auditorium. Reserved seat tickets are $8.

What famous musical group sings a song whose first note is a sneeze or another in which various animals sing counterpoint?

Who else but the King's Singers, acknowledged the world over as one of the leading practitioners of male close-harmony singing. The Singers will bring their special blend of exquisitely sung music and rousing good fun to Kresge Auditorium July 7 at 8 p.m. Reserved seat tickets are $14, $12

Swing with the good "vibes" of jazz musician Lionel Hampton July 10, at 8 p.m. in Kresge Auditorium. It's hard to think of the vibraphone without thinking of Lionel Hampton. With his flamboyant personality and flair for showmanship, he was a favorite performer with the Benny Goodman Quartet. Later, he formed his own big band with the likes of Cat Anderson, Illinois Jacquet and Quincy Jones and became one of the most long-lived and consistently popular musicians in jazz. Reserved seat tickets for Hampton and his orchestra are $12, $10 and $8.

Thoughts from an artist colony: magic endures

HIS IS my last day of two exhibarating, fruitful weeks at an artist colony some seven hours drive from Detroit, and I'm sitting here at a desk in my tower room (tomorrow it will be someone's else's) thinking about all of this.

Paul, the composer, is again at his grand piano in the music room just across the brick courtyard from my open windows. He is here to work on an opera-without-words, and the music - contemplative, meandering notes just a'birthin' - carries with Sometimes it so soft it can barely be heard. Then suddenly it comes across fine and sure and I know he's onto to something. It's a keeper - a passage he hears first in his head, then transfers to the keys, then finally on to paper for posterity.

It occurs to me that he works as a writer does, except that he hears, rather than sees, his first wavery efforts. Kitty-corner from my windows, I hear the comforting sounds of clattering typewriters. They seem chocolate cake for dinner tonight.

ing a music of their own.

IN THE STUDIO pext to where Paul plays, a visual artist works in her skylighted, whitewashed room creating enormous, exuberant epic studies. The one she works on today is complete with floating, highfinned Cadillacs and a menacing King Kong.

In the main house across the sculptured yard, five more writers work - on novels, on poetry collections, on esoteric academic projects, on short stories. One of them may be down in the kitchen baking a double-

Across a violet-strewn meadow another artist works. She is off by herself, away from us, but is protected by an angel - a weather-beaten but sacred angel rescued from a church before it was torn down.

My room is in a wing off by itself (except for the office) and though I call it the "tower room," it is just a room at the top of a winding stairs. The "King Kong" artist sleeps across the hall, but she is in her studio at daybreak and the lights are still glowing through the skylight long after I have turned my own lamp off. I am, for all intents, alone up here.

I HAVE A LOFT bed. It, and my three windows, make my room unique. Four ladder-steps up at night are somehow easier to manage than four steps down in the morning, but there's a lighter-than-air feeling once you're there. It becomes an important bed, and you are somehow more important for being in it.

One of the poets has a room with a secret door leading up twisting rickety steps to a cupola, where he can sit when it is warm and view the world from a different vantage.

The purpose of a colony is to provide a quiet, nurturing place for artists and writers to work. The project I am working on - a long-term, often exasperating project - seems to take on a life of its own. I became a better editor here. I seem to be able to recognize, finally, its strengths and its weaknesses. I can't ask for more than that. It's what I came

We are pretty much on our own and work undisturbed until dinner time, or pace the 40 acres of woods. prairie and river, or walk the mile into town - a sort of Disneyland version of Grosse Pointe.

THERE ARE 12 of us here and we quickly became bosom pals, thrust together to try and make our work better, to perfect our craft - though no one has asked us to. Some have impressive credits already and only need the quiet times and not the midnight talks. Some appear to have no real home, preferring to wander from colony to colony, and then others - the majority, I'd say - are like me: a still-struggling, first-time colony resident.

The residents come from all over - from the east and west coasts, from the north and south. One warm and generous poet comes from Ghana via India and England.

The amazing thing is that the work we all came to do somehow gets

I'll carry the magic of this place with me long after I get home.

I MISSED RELAYING information about some worthwhile events while I was gone including the an-nouncement that Gary Gildner and Alice Fulton will be the writers-inresidence at the ninth annual Bay de Noc Writers Conference in Escanaba from June 15-20. Larry Leffel, conference coordinator, is looking for two writers outside of fiction and poetry (children's lit, sci-fi, non-fiction, etc.) to assist during the last days of the conference. Those chosen will receive a $50 conference scholarship and honorarium of at least $250. Contact Leffel at Bay de Noc Community Collegek, Escanaba 49829.

Q. It appears we have an explosive situation in our condominium. Within the last 18 months, a new coowner purchased a unit and had a live-in girlfriend, drinking parties, loud arguments and is belligerent towards neighbors, etc. The latest development is that the offender has thrown the girlfriend and her belongings out the door and onto the lawn. Since she has left, the offending co-owner has taken up with what leaves little doubt to be a homosexual arrangement with a man of a different race. The neighbors, who are either widows or divorcees, have become frightened of this issue and wonder "how this very bad problem can be dealt with by the board of the

A. The board of directors cannot, of course, determine the morality and/or sexual habits of members of the association through their police powers. The board can legitimately enforce the condominium restrictions including single-family residence requirements of the restrictions and/or of the local zoning ordinance, if applicable.

If the co-owner does not adhere to the single-family residential requirements, action can be taken by the association. In any event, however, the association does have the inherent authority to preclude co-owners and/or residents from engaging in activity which interferes with the enjoyment of other co-owners, including excessive noice, commotion and the like, depending upon its restrictions and/or rules and regula-

While this is avery sensitive issue, we suggest that your board of directors look into it carefully, consult with an attorney concerning its rights and remedies and take whatever action, if any, it deems appropriate in accordance with its restrictions and the advice it received. Thousands of watercraft, from barkentines and schooners to canoes and freighters, will glide into West Bay at Traverse City during the Parade of Sail on July 25, in conjunction with the annual meeting of the National Governor's

The Water Festival will go on all summer in the hundreds of Michigan waterside communities that traditionally celebrate during the summer. It will spice up the annual Chicago-Mackinac sailboat race July 18 and Port Huron-Mackinac sailboat race July 25. Festivals will not, of course, be limited to the water. All of Michigan traditional festivals will be in full bloom.

Not all the state celebrations will occur in Michigan. The Smithsonian Folklife Festival, which traditionally highlights a single state, will spotlight Michigan June 24-28 and July 1-5 with "Michigan on the Mall" in Washington, D.C.

of them will celebrate Folklife Day in museums statewide Oct. 3.

GOVERNOR JAMES J. Blanchard is personally inviting outstaters to the Family Reunion. As he put it, "If you live in Michigan, if you ever lived in Michigan, if you wish you lived in Michigan, come on home."

If your friends and relatives haven't received a personal letter from him yet, that means that nobody sent in their name, so send it in yourself to P.O. Box 33159, Detroit, MI 48232.

Another major reunion is going on in Michigan this year. Interlochen National Music Camp is celebrating its 60th anniversary as well as the 25th anniversary of the Interlochen Arts Academy in 1987. Interlochen alumni are especially encouraged to come back, anytime during the year, but especially during the special weekend of July 25, which coincides with the Parade of Sail in Traverse City.

SESQUICENTENNIAL celebrations go on all year in Michigan, but the big bang will be on July 4

Almost 100 folklife artists will when everything seems to come to carry the festival from Washington a head. Michigan will raise the 26to East Lansing Aug. 20-30. Some star statehood flag in all 83 counties. Picnic and Parade Day will take place on that Fourth-of-July weekend statewide, with great community picnics to lure you 'home."

Tour de Michigan a 10-day world class bicycle race will travel from the Mackinac Bridge to Detroit August 20-30, with more than 200 world-class professional and amateur teams from both the U.S. and other countries

What all this birthday hoopla means is that you can find many ways to play in Michigan this year. if you are more interested in the historical aspect of the sesquicentennial, you can enjoy that too.

LET'S LOOK BACK. 150 years ago, the world outside a Michigan window was wilderness. The first settlers built cabins and cut tiny patches in the wilderness, eventually creating small farms. Sesquicentennial farms have been designated throughout the state and many are open for touring.

Those 19th century cabins clustered together and became settlements. Tradesmen began catering to farmers from outlying areas and small businesses began - well diggers, leather makers who produced shoes for the families as well as belts for the mills . . . men who built wagons and repaired broken wheels . . . blacksmiths who shod horses, made nails and other things that farmers need.

The Historical Society of Michigan has identified 11 Michigan businesses that are at least 150 years old. Some of them are inns, so you can stay in the Botsford Inn. Farmington Hills the National House Inn, Marshall; or the Old Tavern Inn, Niles.

HENRY FORD Museum and Greenfield Village, Dearborn, one of the top 10 tourist attractions in the U.S., shows you those early days in living history. It has also created a new exhibit called The Automobile in American Life which will open in November.

The most lasting result of the sesquicentennial will be the dramatic $43 million five-story Heritage Museum, library and archives complex, already under construction in Lansing.

Chamber music lovers will want to be in Corson Auditorium July 15 at 8 a.m. when the Emerson String Quartet makes its first appearance at interlocken. This young technically brilliant quartet has received kudes from all the major music critics and has appeared on virtually every major series in North America. Reserved seat tickets are $8.

In the early 1980s Ricky Skaggs decided to go against the pop and crossover trend in country music and play the kind of sound that he liked best, namely old-time country music. He became one of the best-loved musicians in the traditionalist movement and this year won a movement and this year won a Grammy for Best Country Instrumental Performance. Reserved seat tickets are $12, $10 and $8.

One of the greatest soul and country singers of our age, Ray Charles, will make his first Interlochen appearance in Kresge Auditorium Aug. 12 at 8 p.m. Known the world over for his renditions of "Georgia On My Mind," "I Can't Stop Loving You" and "Hit the Road, Jack," Charles has been the recipient of more major awards and honors than almost any other popular singer and has influenced some of the greatest pop artists of our age including James Brown, Eric Burdon, Aretha Franklin and Stevie Wonder. Reserved seat tickets for Charles, the Realettes and the Ray Charles Orchestra are $14, $12 and $10.

The camp's talented young artists are kept busy with an amazing performance schedule throughout the summer. This year the High School Division will present the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta "Ruddigore" July 30 and Aug. 1; the popular musical "Guys and Dolis" Aug. 7, 9, 12 and 14; and Shakespeare's wonderful comedy, "A Midsummer Night's Dream" Aug. 8, 11 and 13. briefly speaking

• WILDLIFE FESTIVAL

Livenia wildlife artist Bob Perrish will be among the exhibitors from all over the Midest pating in the Michigan Great Lakes Wildlife Festival in Clare this weekend.

In 1986, Perrish was selected as "Duck's Unlimited Carver of the Year," took best of show at the Mid-Atlantic Decoy Competition and placed in the top five at the Wood Carving Champion-

VISIONS COMPETITION

"Transforming Visions" is the theme for a juried competition for two- and three-dimensional art which expresses visions of war being changed into visions of world peace.

Awards totaling $1,000 will be given to winning artists. The competition is an official event of the Michigan Sesquicentennial.

Entry applications are available from Swords into Plowshares Peace Center, 45 E. Adams, Detroit 48226. For more information, call 965-
