7 candidates vying for city commission

By Doug Funke staff writer

All four incumbents whose terms are expiring, plus a former commissioner, have filed nominating petitions to seek election to the Plymouth City Commission.

Two unsuccessful candidates in the 1985 election have also decided to try again.

An August primary election isn't needed because less than nine candidates filed for the four seats up for grabs.

In November's general election, the top three finishers will win four-year terms, the fourth-place finisher, a two-year term.

Filing petitions were: Mary Childs, 64, a substitute teacher.

 Donald Keller Jr., 38, a marketing researcher for Detroit Edison Co.

• Dennis W. Bila, 46, a mathematics professor at Washtenaw Community Col-

CANDIDATES have until 4 p.m. Friday to withdraw from the ballot.

Childs, Keller, Bila and Jabara are incumbents.

Childs won a four-year term in the 1983 election. A former mayor, she served on the city commission 1975-81.

Keller won a two-year term with a fourth-place finish in the 1985 election. Bila was appointed to serve the remainder of Mary Ellen McKercher's term in August 1985 when she resigned.

Wehmeyer's term in June 1986 when Wehmeyer resigned.

Loiselle has served on the planning commission since completing two terms on the city commission from 1979 to 1985.

CITY CHARTER limits city commissioners to two consecutive terms.

"I enjoy being involved," Loiselle said. "I feel like I get things accomplished. I feel like I make a difference. Local government is one of the few areas that affects so many areas of our life - like police, fire and trash pick-up." Green and Morrow both sought seats on the city commission in the 1985 election.

"I'm not satisfied with the candidates that have filed so far," Green said. "Specifically, it's the commission's failure to develop a plan of action not only in land use but development and stick with it."

"I think all citizens ought to contribute Jabara was appointed to finish Mark something," Morrow said. "I'm retired so I can spend a full-time job being a commis-

"I think I've been effective in the job. I still think there's work to be done to make citizens part of the process." CITING THE cruising problems, Keller said: "There are still issues I'd like to see resolved." Bila said he believes he brings a moderating position to the commission table.

"The concern I've had is to provide moderation in whatever we do. I think my biggest concern . . . is pressure from growth going on around us.

use plan, and adopts ordinances. Commissioners are paid $10 per meeting.

For Canton artist, work is like play

For Canton's Sharon Lee Dillenbeck, work is like play.

Mornings at 8:30, she unlocks the door at D&M Studios quarters in Plymouth's Old Village that she shares with fellow artist and business partner Bladen McClelland.

All day long, young artists, paint kits in hand, come and go from the old white house on Mill Street. At newspaper-covered tables. Dillenbeck's students experiment with watercolors, tempras and textures. On paper plates they create their own palettes.

"I feel excited when I walk in elected to the Plymouth Community Arts Council board.

'We paint along with the children, and provide them with the mechanics to understand how a particular medium works, and provide progressive instruction.

"We feel art is a universal gift. All children have it. You have to encourage them and make them feel like a star. Otherwise you kill the joy and cut their creativity

PASTELS AND OIL paintings by Dillenbeck and McClelland brighten the pegboarded walls in the 600square-foot studio.

In the collage of color are Plymouth scenes, European waterfronts and city squares, clowns, and kids.

As the summer, and students, progress more and more of the pieces will be replaced with the work of budding artists, said Dillenbeck, whose 4-year-old daughter Kristen is enrolled in the "Rem-

brandt" class for 5- and 6-year-

Condo project for downtown takes new twist

By Doug Funke staff writer

The Wilcox House condominium project overlooking Kellogg Park in Plymouth - much talked about but never built - has taken a new twist.

Jack Wilcox, owner of the land where the proposed six-story structure would arise, says he won't renew an exclusive sales option with a development team that's failed to break ground for a year and a half.

Wilcox said he was disappointed by a lack of progress from the Wilcox Development Associates.

"Henry Graper said any developer who knew what he was doing would be finished by now. I totally agree," Wilcox said.

"This group has had the best of intentions but this is the first time they have been down this path."

While not closing the door entirely on future dealings with Wilcox Development Associates, a five-man consortium including himself, Wilcox intends to look elsewhere.

"I'M HOPING a new entity can take faster action," he said. "I have dates with potential developers." Wilcox declined to elaborate.

Angelo Plakas, a lawyer and spokesman for the Wilcox Development Associates, said the group isn't ready yet to throw in the towel.

"We have some hopes for it. All of us, including Jack, would like to see that come to fruition.

"We just didn't get enough presales to get the mortgage we needed," Plakas continued. "Whether it wasn't marketed properly or the price was too high, I don't know. Had I known six or seven months ago, it probably would have been going."

Jerome Delaney, who marketed the project for Weir, Manuel, Snyder and Ranke Inc., said 12 units had been sold when Wilcox Development Associates decided to take it off the market two months ago.

INDIVIDUAL units had been priced from $160,900 to $249,900.

"The way I looked at it, the financing source required too many presales — 50 percent," Delaney said.
"I thought 25 was good for that product in this area."

Most condominium projects are financed and built in phases, with construction and sale of one segment used to finance the next, Delaney said. That strategy isn't feasible with a single, six-story building on a 31/2-acre site.

Some customers want to see a model before they commit to a housing purchase, he added.

Wilcox, a lifelong Plymouth resident, said he's "embarrassed" by the condition of the family house on the site. It was built in 1901.

However, he doesn't expect to make major improvements.

"Number one, I don't have any money. It's all gone into the ven-ture," he said. If it appears it will be some time before development occurs. Wilcox said he would try to touch up some of the worst places.

A COMPLETE job would cost about $10,000, not including preliminary work on the roof, eavestroughs and gutters, Wilcox said. There are no property maintenance laws on the books in Plymouth, said Kenneth West, city engi-"I don't know of any ordinances he's in violation of presently." West said. Wilcox said he wants to stay close to any project built on the site rather than just sell the land and bail out because he's concerned about growth in the community.

"My reason for being part of a venture group was not financial motivation, but to make sure what is developed here is in the best interest of Plymouth." Wilcox's property, land and building, now has an assessed valuation theoretically, half of market value - of just more than $200,000, said a spokeswoman for the city treasurer's office.

New cruiser controls are called success

staff writer

Limiting traffic on Main Street to one lane in each direction last weekend to provide better access for emergency vehicles was termed a rousing success by Plymouth city officials.

Seven police hires who spent their first weekend on duty also gave a good accounting of themselves, said Police Chief Richard Myers.

"They functioned superbly," Myers said. "We told them not to go out there and set any records this weekend, to get to know the system, become acquainted with Main Street and each other.

Everybody that was on duty worked very well

With the center lanes of Main Street limited to emergency vehicles, five police cars were able to get to a burglary-in-progress call within minutes after it was received Friday night, Myers said.

THAT PROBABLY wouldn't have been possible earlier when cruisers clogged all four lanes of Main and fewer officers were assigned to crowd

"It provided us with an excellent, safe area for police officers to work in," said Paul Sincock, assistant to the city manager. "It helped reduce noise generally caused by cruising."

Power named to U-M board

By Susan Rosiek staff writer

Creating a stronger bond between business and higher education will be a primary goal of newly appointed University of Michigan Regent Philip H. Power.

Power, chairman of the board of Suburban Communications Inc., parent company of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, was appointed Wednesday to the U-M Board of Regents by Gov. James Blanchard.

The 49-year-old newspaper publisher will fill the unexpired term of his late wife, Sarah. The eight regents serve eight-year terms. He would have to decide in 1990 whether to seek re-election.

not seek the U-M appointment. "The governor called and asked if I would be interested in serving. My immediate response was to think about it. It's a challenging job; it consumes a lot of time. I wanted to be sure I had the time to devote to it and the physical and emotional ener-

Schoolcraft is site of ethnic celebration

By Wayne Peal staff writer

Nearly 5,000 Finnish-Americans expected to descend upon west-card Wayne County next weekend for Firmfest-USA '87.

The event will be held at Schoolcraft College, June 25-28.

Concerts, folk dancing, plays, lectures and exhibits are scheduled. dunes will participate in opening ceremonies at 5 p.m. Thursday, June

"WE HOPE it's something everyone can enjoy," local coordinator Roy Jurva of Redford Township

A juhannus, meaning mid-summer festival, with a kokko, meaning bonfire, and sauna, no translation necessary, will also be featured.

"A juhannus is a mid-summer festival, literally it describes a day when the sun never sets," Jurva said. Though it celebrates Finnish culture, the event is open to all people. It's no mere ethnic festival, either. Panel discussions of the Finnish religious and cultural heritage are also planned. The role of Finns in the U.S. auto industry and the history of Finnish-American diplomatic relations are among discussion topics.

Softball games, a track meet and a golf outing are planned. A visit to Cranbrook Academy is also planned. The Bloomfield Hills academy was designed by Finnish architects Eliel and Eero Saarinen.

The event coincides with the 70th anniversary of Finland's independence from the USSR and Michigan's sesquicentennial. Tributes to both occasions will be offered. Gov. James Blanchard and Finnish Labor Minister Urpo Leppanen are among the VIPs invited to attend.

Finnish language religious services will be held at Bethlehem Lutheran Church in Livonia, St. John's American Lutheran Church of Farmington, Emannuel Lutheran Church and Apostolic Lutheran Church, Southfield.

Northwest Detroit contains the largest concentration of Finns in lower Michigan.

"ONE OF the reasons this area was chosen was because of its large Finnish population," Jurva said.

Finnish and Finnish-American films will be shown. Finnish-made goods also will be on sale.

The Detroit/Livonia Finnfest is the fourth of its kind. Previous festivals have been held in Minneapolis, Berkeley, Calif., Massachusetts and Hancock in the Upper Pennisula. It is directed by the Suomi Seura (Finland Society).

Golf tourney benefits Our Lady of Providence

The Our Lady of Providence Cen-ter Golf Tournament will be held June 27 at Mission Hills Golf Course

"It started out to be just a fun thing," said Russell Neumann, co-owner of the Lile Neumann Insurance Agency in Royal Oak, and one of the organizers of the tournament.

We wanted to get some friends together, play some golf and have some dinner and some drinks. Then, as things grew, someone got the idea to use the outing as a way to raise money for charity."

PICKING Our Lady of Providence Center as the recipient of the group's good will was the easy part, said

All of the friends became better acquainted with the center for developmentally disabled young girls because of one of their buddles.

Larry Wichman of Canton, an advertising and production manager for Business News Publishing Co. of Troy, and wife, Susan, had taken a young woman at the center to their home to live.

We brought Paula into our home full-time in 1985," said Wichman, a member of the center's board of di'We are delighted with the golf tournament and hope it takes root to become an annual thing."

Besides Neumann and Wichman, others organizing the tournament include Fred Chapman and Fred Gazel of Troy, Dick Hunt of Huntington Woods, John Michalak of Clawson, Bill Fain of Warren, Cliff Smith of Livonia, Jim Samoni of Birmingham, and Tim O'Connor of Royal

They already have sold out the 90some spots for the charity tournament, even though none had ever organized a golf tournament before.

"It's been a learning process," said Chapman, sales office manager at DeVlieg Machine Co., Royal Oak. "But so far it's working."

THE GROUP hopes to raise more than $2,000 for Sister Theresa Tamburo, director of Our Lady of Provi-

"We've contacted several businesses and friends who have donated various prizes in an effort to ensure the tournament's success," said Neumann. "We have prizes ranging from golf balls to a set of custom-made

Sister Tamburo said the center's 65 staff members provide a variety of educational and counseling services for the young women at a cost of about $100 a day.

We could use about 10 golf tournaments," Sister Tamburo added. "More and more we are relying on grants and gifts. We are delighted with the golf tournament and hope it take root to become an annual thing."

The center was founded in 1957 and is licensed to provide residential care for 100 people.

SEMTA had planned to spend $19 million on major bus routes, a $2.6 million increase over last year. Transportation credits given to member muncipalities were to have decreased by $613,200. Both figures may be slightly altered to reflect SEMTA's final share.

SEMTA budgets need to be rati-fied by a two-thirds majority. But because three of Detroit's four representatives were absent, the budget needed to be approved by all 10 members in attendance. By law, SEMTA needed to approve the budg-et by July 1. That fact didn't go un-noticed by Macomb County delegate

TRAINING MENTORS

Youth Development is a diversion program, in cooperation with the Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Canton Township police departments and Growth Works, for juvenile first-time offenders. The program is designed for both the youth and his/her parents as an alternative to the juvenile court system.

Growth Works trains volunteers to work on a weekly basis with the youth. The training covers communi-cation skills, empathy listening skills, building and bonding relation-ships, alcohol and substance abuse, decision making, consequences of behavior, parenting skills, and crisis intervention. Training sessions totaling about 20 hours is open to all in-terested people willing to contenit to at least six months of about three hours per week. Nankin Transit fares increase

By Todd Bahnelder staff writer

Cuthocks in federal and state funding have forced the Nankin Transit Commission to double its dial-a-ride force and could mean an end of the service to area residents by next March.

But Charles Hunter, NTC executive director, has pledged to keep the system operating at the current level "until we run out of money."

The fare for a one-way trip will go from 75 cents to $1.50 beginning Wednesday, July 1.

The latest blow for the small bus service — which serves Westland, Garden City, Canton Township and Wayne — came last month when the heast Michigan Transportation Authority informed the NTC that it was withdrawing its $400,000 contri-bution for the fiscal year starting July 1.

The SEMTA move was the result of that organization's budget crunch, tile system won't be able to operate Hunter said.

HE SAID SEMTA money amount-ed to 45 percent of the NTC budget. The NTC director said the timing of SEMTA's decision was almost as bad as the move itself.

had as the move itself.

"They didn't give us enough time to go to the city or the community and raise additional money," he said. The federal government has discontinued funding for small bus services as well, according to Hunter.

For the next eight months the NTC system, which provides local mass transportation for the elderly, handicanned and others will run primari-capped and others, will run primarily on money collected through the fare boxes and from state gas and weight taxes. Hunter said no cutbacks in service are planned though.

"The last time we faced a crisis (October 1983), we cut back our service. If we make any further cuts,

The NTC will continue to operate 13 mini buses and won't discontinue any of its current routes, Hunter

He said the system serves 425 rid-

The NTC director said there will be some "minor reductions" in the program's administrative cost to ensure that the service stays operational as long as possible.

NTC BUSES have serviced at 750,000 riders since the system was introduced in 1976.

Hunter said a last-ditch effort will be made during the next sight months to save the dial-a-ride Aprice, but he said he didn't see much hope given the tight budget the West-land City Council approved this

"We're going to talk to the only, but barring a miracle, I don's que how we can continue with things the way they are how," be said. .

Local sites absent from EPA audit

No western Wayne County sites were included in the reportedly bogus asbestos inspections criticized in a recent Environmental Protection Agency audit, an EPA spokes-

The audit blasted inspection efforts in Wayne County as a whole. It concluded that 36 of 41 Wayne County inspections were "not bona fide," in some cases because asbestos was removed before the inspector's visit.

None of the reportedly bogus inspections occurred in Livonia, Westland, Garden City, Plymouth or Red-ford, Canton or Plymouth townships, EPA Audit Manager Lee Stevens

"None were in that area," he said. "They were primarily in Detroit."

The audit covered 1985-6 inspections of asbestos manufacturing and fabricating plants, asbestos-containing buildings scheduled for demolition, sites where machinery is sprayed with asbestos-containing fire retardants and asbestos disposal

Asbestos removal was required in chools and other public buildings in 1970s, after it was discovered to a cancer causing agent. It was a cancer causing agent. It was nee heavily used as a fire-preven-ion coating and in sound-deadening naterial.

Widespread mismanagement of asbestos-removal programs in Mich-Jan and Illinois was uncovered by Rep. James Florio, D-N.J., called Detroit and Chicago-area inspections

"According to the audit, people ho work or live near asbestos disosal facilities or buildings containing asbestos that will be demolished or renovated may well be exposed to ancer-causing asbestos fibers," Flo-Tho said in releasing the audit. Inspections were inadequate, the audit said, because: • Inspectors didn't or only parsially observed removal efforts from specific sites. • Removal notices weren't filed

In time to schedule inspections. • State and local inspectors used nadequate inspection checklists. • State did too little or were too ate in correcting deficiencies at asstos manufacturing or fabricating plants. The audit reported 32 of 37 putstate inspections were inademate. No sites were mentioned by

Senate OKs 3 education budget bills

THE SCHOOL AID bill, adopted 25-0, calls for $606.9 million in general fund money — the state's main checking account — and $2.38 billion in total spending for Michigan's kindergarten through 12th grade

That is $35.5 million higher than the level for this fiscal year. It is $29.5 million over Gov. James J. Blanchard's recommendation.

The community college bill passed 34-2, totals $198.8 million in state spending. That's up $11.4 million from current levels and $2 million from Blanchard's recomm

The Department of Education budget bill, passed 31-6, would provide $45 million in general fund money and $56.1 million in total spending, once federal funds are added. The general fund portion is up $7.7 million from current spending and $7.6 million from Blanehard's proposal.

In other action, the Senate passed, 36-1, and sent to Blanchard a bill to require the Bureau of State Lottery to find out if winners owed the state money before it awarded a prize of more than $5,000. The prize would be used to pay any liability

Babies have a special place at Oakwood

The most special place for a new baby is in the loving arms of its parents. We can't replace the personal care given by a mother and father. But we can give babies very special attention at Oakwood Hospital's Women and Children's Health Care Center.

Our expert group of physicians and nurses is specially trained in the care of expectant mothers and newborns, delivering more than 4,000 babies a year. And, for high-risk babies and mothers who need much closer attention, highly skilled neonatologists and obstetricians are on duty 24 hours a day.

In addition, we offer a range of services for expectant mothers - from prenatal testing and exercise classes to a birthing room that feels like home. And we haven't forgotten the little things, either — like classes for fathers in the fine art of changing diapers and gourmet dinners for brand new parents who want to celebrate in a special way.

Our care extends to women of other ages, too. We're concerned about general wellness - whether you're a grandmother, a teenager or anywhere in between.

For more information about our services - including tours, brochures or classes - call Oakwood Hospital's Women and Children's Health Care Center, 593-7694. We'd like to show you what special care is all about.

For a physician specializing in women and children's health care, call our physician referral service at 1-800-543-WELL.

Out of dust rises THINCHE creative plan

celek assistant managing editor

Just this week, in Monday's the Observer reported on a creative solution to handle a very practical

. Over the years, buildings in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools have been storing equipment and furniture — but too good to throw away.

Probably every school building in Michigan has places where deaks, tables, old maps and books, and other equipment is stored. Most principals are protective of the tampayers' investment and will store analysing of value. Some principals, plainly put, are pack rats who store junk that no longer has value to the district.

THE PROBLEM is that building space, especially vacated classrooms, is 490 valuable to be used to store wornout furniture and equipment.

That kind of storage is an inefficient puse of space and only delays the inevitable - eventually, the unused items ~ Central administrators, board members and most principals know this.

The problem is not disagreement whether the material must go but how to get rid of it.

A few years ago one principal, obviously fed up with the collection of junk in his building, decided to hold a rummage sale and sell desks, tables, etc. to parents and other residents. The money was to have been used for some project, now forgotten, at the school.

The central administration or school board, or both, canceled the planned sale because they felt the money earned by the sale should not go solely to that

The problem is that the unwanted property didn't really belong to that school but to the district at-large. All taxpayers bought the furniture when new, and so all taxpayers should somehow benefit from its disposal.

REATIVITY is the byproduct of ten is shifted from one building to another over its lifetime. Should the only mefactor be the school where the furniture ended up when it was wern out? School buildings serving growing subdivisions have to use every available inch of space for students. A school serving an established neighborhood may have room to store junk. Should the money go to a declining enrollment building to buy furniture or supplies when the rising enrollment building likely will be quite short of furniture

IN ANY EVENT, the school board decided that it was incorrect for any single school to receive sole benefit from the sale of unwanted equipment, furniture and supplies.

Addressing the issue of equity, though, did not provide an answer for how to empty out the storage areas.

Just recently an interesting solution was proposed.

This week the school board announced that to get rid of old books, obsolete equipment, and other unused odds and ends that the district would conduct garage sales on an ongoing basis.

The school board voted to open a garage sale center at the gym in the Starkweather Community Education Center on Holbrook in Old Village. Up for sale will be such items as used desks, hand tools, arc welding equipment, machinery and books.

The grand opening has been set for 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday, Aug. 12, 13 — red letter days for garage salers. After the opening, regular business hours will be from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. each Tuesday. Special hours will be 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Sept. 10-12, during the Plymouth Fall Festival.

Congratulations are due to the board and administration on this one. The plan certainly is a creative approach to levelling off the growing mountain of junk spread across the district. It's like getting stuck with a lemon and making

'Macho' news: tax bills delayed

I HAD TWO choices at 3 p.m. Tednesday.

In the Farnum Building, a Senateyouse conference committee was tak-ing up the 65 mph speed limit/radar detector controversy for the second time. The Lansing rat pack would be covering that like a bad smell.

In the fourth-floor stratosphere of the Capitol, the House Taxation Committee was pondering $378 million of our income and property tax money. I opted for the money story.

REP. MAXINE Berman, D-Southfield, was one of the early arrivals, and we got to talking about the radar detector issue.

"Macho," she said. Macho male types were the ones agitated about Gov. Jim Blanchard's proposal to outlaw Fuzz Busters because they feel some need to

Well, you can bet I jumped down her throat for that sexist remark, yesskree, Bob. If I dared make a similar statement about a group of females, I would be builtle-sized before I bit the office exit. But a woman figures the can scoff at "macho" males with impusity.

for owning one, though they can't cite a reason. They argue that the Fuzz Buster itself isn't evil — just its misuse.

Bull roar! And cow pies!

WHAT LAW-ABIDING driver cares if the cops are around?

When cops are on an emergency run, they use strens and lights, and you can pull over and let them by. You don't need a Fuzz Buster.

If you need to call a cop, you can't do it on a Fuzz Buster. The only use of a Fuzz Buster is to let speeders know when the cops are around so they can ease up. Anyway, the Legislature finally passed a 65 mph speed limit for rural freeways without trying to ban Fuzz

EVERYONE, absolutely everyone, had an opinion about Lou Gordon. And whether you loved him or hated him (there was no in-between) you watched Slotted in prime time twice a week against the best the networks could muster, Lou teamed with his wife, Jackie, and consistently carried the highest ratings. He received thousands of letters every week from a public that was either adoring or hating him, depending on the subject.

All the time Jackie was at his side sometimes launching a kick underneath the desk to keep him in line. Recently, I had the pleasure of eating lunch with Jackie, who now works with Jacobsons.

Her eyes lit up, she laughed and regaled us with stories about an era long past — the night the show was taken off the air; his battle with the telephone company that brought thousands to a public hearing at Oakland Community College; and how he cared, really cared.

Critics turn green over policy

I AM A SOMEWHAT bemused observer (or am I an eccentric observer, I never have figured that out) of the flap about the number of out-of-state students attending the University of Michi-

University officials defend the fact that 36 percent of its students are not from Michigan. Such an admissions pol-icy promotes diversity, upholds the uni-versity's high standards and brings in better than $8,000 a pop, which is better than triple the triffien pold by in-state than triple the tuition paid by in-state Critics, including some publicity-seeking lawmakers (pardon the redun-dancy), say that's a lot of ivery tower equine manure. It's a smooty attitude, they say, for a public institution to block admission to the sons and daughters of in-state taxpayers (and voters).

THIS IS not the first time (nor shall it he the last) that those who see the world through mains and blue filters have m accused of being alightly caught up th themselves. Remainbur a few years ago when a othall coach, who was then losing games at Michigan State but who now loses games with the Detroit Lions, caused a riff when he referred to Wolverines as arrogant asses?

Many Michigan fans were outraged at such petulance but they were not all that offended by the allegation of arrogance. Of course they were arrogant;

they had a right to be.

Anyway, this is one of the most serious legislative discussions since people wondered why the state and the university were so closely associated with an animal, the Wolverine, that cannot be found anywhere in Michigan. It is with some smugness (arrogance?) that I ask, how many Spartans or Tartars have you found in your latest demographic survey?

Likewise, I fail to get xenophobic about the New Yorkers, Ohioans and other foreigners feeding the Ann Arbor economy. Look at it this way: it's one of the few arenas where imports are making money for us.

MAYBE MY indifference to this squabble is due to the 17 years that separate my infant son from his first college tuition. My area of financial concern focuses on day care, the opposite end of the spectrum.

In that regard, munch on this: Instate tuition for the University of Michigan is about $2,400. If you live is a $150,000 home, your public school property taxes are at least $3,000. People squawk about the cost of public eduçation, yet those fees pale next to the nearly $5,000 I pay in day care. And though it is a very fine day care center, it teaches my boy nothing about French or computers. Obviously, my next step is to enroll my baby at the University of Michigan. He'd get a good education with a dose of arrogance and I would save $50 a week - unless he gets rejected in favor of some out-of-state baby.

Having heard about the Detroit Catholic Church's Archdiocese's decision to move out of beautiful St. John Seminary in Plymouth Township further convinces me of the need of a "cultural-commerical corridor" between our two progressive and vital communities.

Why don't the administrations of both Northville and Plymouth Township get together to discuss common interests of the area and the possibilities of cooperative or joint ventures in developing the "Twin Cities Corridor." St. John's could house a museum and cultural facility, or a concert hall or community activities center.

Couple this with the elimination of the old institutions — abandoned, blighted buildings on Sheldon Road — and in their place developing a commercial park, or possibly a large hotel, shopping mall and luxury condominiums and the possibilities and potential are endless.

Nearby Spinnaker Center and Executive Park and soon-to-be High Tech area in Plymouth will make that area a hub of activity and a real boost to our tax base, and still fairly remote to the majority of our housing developments, thereby not causing residential area traffic or other problems that go with busy commercial centers. Let's go for

Cutting budget not punitive

To the editor:

I was at the school board office awaiting the results of the school board election.

There were only a few people in the room at the time. Those in the room were anxiously waiting to see if the Headlee issue was going to pass. The totals began coming in, in favor of the "NO" vote.

School board members Dean Swartzweiter and Roland Thomas, who were just re-elected, were sharing their disappointment that the citizens did not want the increase. In a comment between the two, it was said that if the citizens wanted a cut, they'd give them a cut. This came from someone that we just entrusted with our votes?

With that remark, I don't feel confident that the board will try sincerely to budget in a satisfactory manner. The people filling school board positions should be competent to handle the tax-payers money to the best of their ability, not by threatening to take things away before they have even had a chance to work out a solution.

Yes, the board is who decides where the cuts should be made, but they need to keep in mind that they are representing the people and need to make sound decisions.

Last year, just three days after the last miliage increase, the board voted themselves a raise. Other then that, what else was done with the rest of that increase?

I would encourage and challenge all concerned citizens to make an effort to find out how your tax dollar is being spent.

Soccer tourney a big success

To the editor:

I would like to take a moment to urge the Plymouth-Canton community to recognize the outstanding effort put forth by Phil LaJoy, Stan Luke and the entire Canton Soccer Club along with the Canton Parks and Recreation Department and Canton Department of Public Works in staging their fifth annual invitational soccer tournament over the Memorial Day weekend.

LaJoy coordinated the influx and participation of more than 200 teams from all over Michigan and its neighboring states, and I am certain that several thousand people including players and parents left that weekenit with the image of Canton that we all hope to portray. Without exception, varitile coaches praised the organization of the tournament and the hospitality of the community and expressed their eagerness to return in 1988.

That LaJoy, Luke and many others donated their entire holiday weekend to the enjoyment of our visitors and, indeed, as they do throughout the year, our own soccer players, is a measure of their devotion and commitment to Canton Township and its residents. My thanks to all of you.

Signs, signs, everywhere signs

By Julie Brown staff writer

HIS TIME of year, they seem to be everywhere. The chirping cicadas show up only once every 17 years. Construction signs, however, seem to pop up every year, joining the regular year-round variety of road signs.

Orange-and-black signs are used for construction or maintenance operations; those colors are used to distinguish the signs from regular

"They're a reflectorized material that would allow them to show up day and night," said John Kanillopoolos, supervisor of the reflective systems unit for the Michigan Department of Transportation. -

The construction signs are used to alert motorists to any number of potential dangers. The signs cover such areas as lane closings, low shoulders, construction or detours ahead or street closings. Signs are also used to warn motorists to be prepared to stop or to watch out

'Most drivers drive the same road day after day," Kanillopoolos said. That routine can mean that motorists don't always notice changes; using a different color helps those signs stand out.

THESE DAYS, signs are also more likely to use pictorial images rather than words.

"We're doing more of that because of the different languages that are being spoken," he said. We want something they can see in a glance and recognize. We try to keep them very simple, easy to understand."

Placing signs along Michigan's highways and byways can be tricky. It's important not to have signs with conflicting messages.

Although some messages do need to be repeated, it's important not to have the signs too close together, he said.

"That is a concern we always watch for."

Road signs aren't the only signs that compete for the motorist's attention; billboards, some with flashing lights or other special effects, also send out their messages to passers-by. We are competing with other things that are taking the motorist's attention away from the signs," Kanillopoolos said. The road signs are designed with that factor in mind; some have backgrounds or other features designed to make them more noticeable. SOME MOTORISTS who are involved in accidents may claim there wasn't a sign warning them of a potential danger. That claim is also made for speed limit signs. For that reason, records are kept of what road signs are posted.

"Those things we try to keep track of, especially on construction."

Information on the meaning of road signs is provided for driver's education instructors. A Michigan motorist renewing his or her driver's license will answer some questions about road signs and what the signs mean.

"It takes a while," Kanillopoolos said. "Education is a long, slow process sometimes."

Information on road signs and what they mean is included in the "What Every Driver Must Know" booklet, available at secretary of state's offices.

Motorists participating in the study seemed to know the meaning of most of the other signs fairly well, Kanillopoolos said.

AMONG THE signs being used this year in construction and maintenance areas are the "smiling face" signs. Those signs show a frowning face at the beginning of a construction area; as the motorist drives through the area, the frown on the series of signs gradually turns into a smile.

At the end of the construction area, the sign shows a cheerful, smiling face.

The signs caused a bit of a flap a while back. Some federal highway administrators questioned the use of the signs.

"They felt we should have stuck exactly with the manual. They didn't want us to use them on the projects." That manual indicates hational standards for roadway where traffic is affected during weekends or holidays.

Motorists traveling with children found the signs helpful in keeping the kids occupied, Kanillopoolos

Some 300 people wrote letters supporting use of the signs, he said. There weren't complaints about the signs being a waste of taxpayer

"Really, they weren't very expensive and we felt they were doing the job they were intended to

It's up to motorists to know what various road signs mean and to be able to handle a car accordingly.

"Driving is a privilege," Kanillo-poolos said. "It's not a right that Unlike some drivers, Kanillopoolos doesn't have much trouble with road signs. His job means that he knows just what the signs mean.

"I know the signs probably a little more than most people do."

"It's been quite a changing thing. It grows on you. We've been planning it for quite some time."

The Martins are making plans, thinking about how to provide for Jennifer's future. Jeff Martin would be glad if his daughter followed in his footsteps and became an engineer; a nuclear physicist would be OK too.

"Just like our parents have taught us, to aim high."

Martin took some time off after Jennifer was born. He used a week of vacation time, planning to return to work this week "with lots of pho-

After Jennifer was born, Janice Martin joked that it would be a good idea to adopt the couple's next child.

The Martins don't have any special plans for Father's Day. They'll probably spend it with the grandfa-

Jennifer's name was the topic of some discussion prior to her arrival.

"Actually, we had Amanda picked out until the car ride to the hospital," Janice Martin said. They'd been concerned that Jennifer might be a bit too common of a name, but decided to go with it. The couple's daughter will be called Jenny.

Jennifer's middle name, Christina, was chosen in honor of Jeff Martin's

The Martins read some books on what to expect during pregnancy and delivery. The books they read also include information on newborn care.

Baby Jennifer's yawn doesn't go unnoticed by her dad, Jeff Martin of Canton.

Janice Martin read some of the books she'd used in nursing school. Her sister-in-law, a pediatric nurse at Mott Children's Hospital in Ann Arbor, provided the couple with information "and lots of advice on the phone," she said.

THE CANTON couple also received information from their doctor on newborn care.

moral perspectives

Rev. David Strong

Fatherhood means love, understanding

FATHERS, FATHER'S DAY: men's real work, the building of a What do the words mean? All of us have a father. Each of us has a different view of what fathers are. Conservatives define fatherhood by the admonition to honor and obey your father. They believe that fathers set the laws. Sons and daughters are to obey the rules or face punishment. They like to quote a letter by Ricardo Montalban to his son. "As long as you live in this house you will follow the rules . . . I am not your pal, I am your father . . . You will do in this house as I say.'

A quite different approach begins with the fact that Jesus called God father. He used a word that literally means "DADA." Jesus shocked the conservatives by suggesting that our relationship to God is like that of a baby to a parent. The word stresses intimacy and immediacy. The story Jesus told that best defines father-hood is the parable of the prodigal son. The focus is upon the father's attitude toward two very different sons. This image of a father is not one of rules or of punishments. It is a father who loves, forgives and with both of his sons seeks their love in return. The theme of the story is to show two contrasting ways in which sons respond to the love and acceptance of their father.

THE TRAGEDY of the conservative view of fatherhood is that it coincides with destructive, cultural views of fatherhood. The current image of the male is that it is important to have children but not to father

According to Marc Fasteau, in his book "The Male Machine," "The image of a lawyer, businessman, or age of a lawyer, businessman, or even a professor wheeling a baby carriage around in public is still jarring. Men who spend a lot of time taking care of their children — washing, dressing, feeding, teaching, comforting and playing with them — aren't doing quite what they should be." He adds; "It is a diversion from successful career." There are few models available today for rewarding relationship between fathers and their children. The images still suggest that worned care for babies and children. Mes build their careers and the closed they get to fathering may be with their dog.

The traditional, cultural role of fathers making rules and meting out punishments no longer works. Neither the children nor the father believes he has this authority.

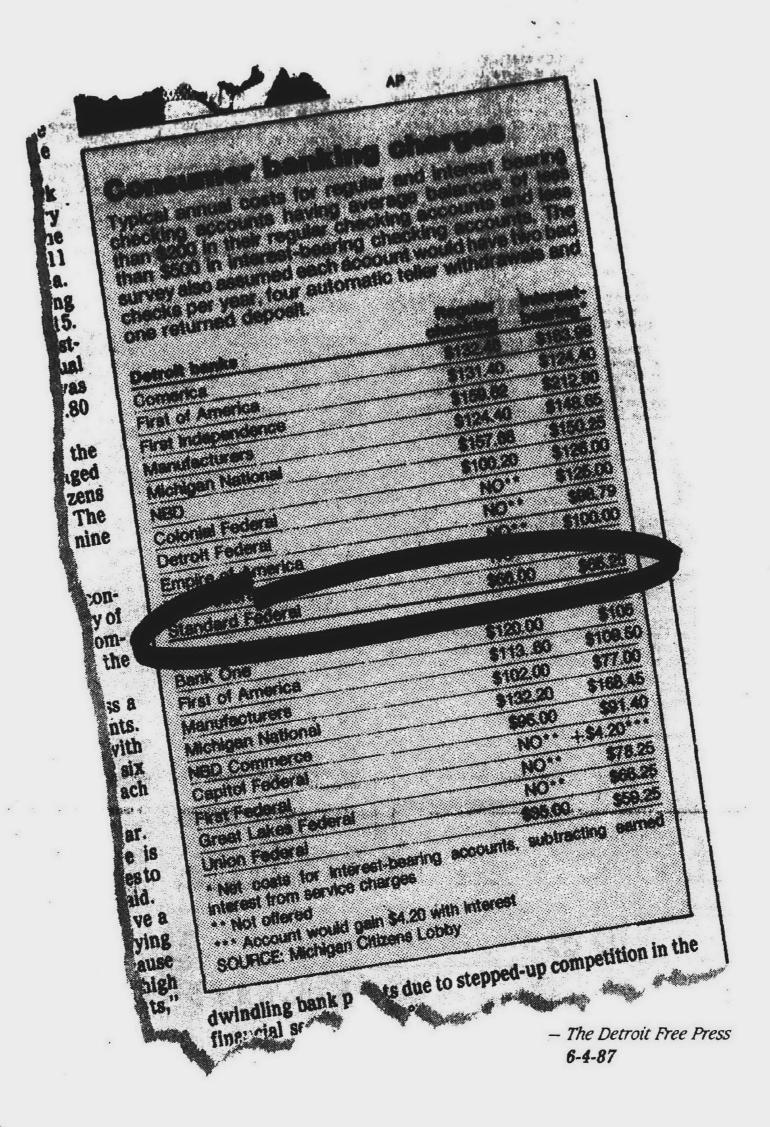

I BELIEVE that most fathers want to be close to their children. Many lack the sense of how to do this. I believe that first and of most importance is our love for our chidlren. Fathers are parents as much as mothers are parents.

I find that one important eleme of fatherhood is to set up expectations for my children. I tell them that I expect them to do the best and seek the highest goals in their lives. I try to live out in my own life what teach them. I encourage my childre by telling them that when they are motivated from within themselves know that they will do well. I want them to become increasingly independent, but I also let them know that I am always here to suppo

Fathers need to do some spirits and emotional evaluation of their own lives before they pass their un-lovely characteristics on to their children. We know that many of fathers have become victims of our own toughness and competition. It this what it means to be a father?

Hopefully Fathers' Day will be time to rethink what it means to be father. Men and women alike need to assist in the changes that will make us men more like the father in the story of the prodigal son.

Big jump seen for auto leasing

By Mary Rodrique staff writer

Consumer auto leasing is expected to jump a whopping 50 percent over the next two years, according to the June issue of Ward's Auto Dealer

That would bring consumer leasing to 30 percent of all automobile deliveries

"The biggest thing is that the federal tax law has changed, making it more advantageous to lease. The trend will continue," said Bob Saks, owner of Bob Saks Oldsmobile in Farmington Hills.

Saks described a program which now offers a loaded Cutlass Ciera on a four-year lease for $195 a month. "The monthly payment to own the same car would be $300 plus a 10 percent down payment," he said.

The tax incentives are not specifically geared to make leasing more attractive. They just make buying a new car less appealing.

Effective Dec. 31, 1985, the investment tax credit was eliminated. That means those buying a new auto lose the standard deduction of 10 percent of the purchase price. This deduction was valid only for those claiming their vehicle for business most of the car buying public - loss of interest deduction for people who borrow money and then deduct the interest paid on the auto loan.

"These changes would make leasing more advantageous," said Ron Tank, an accountant with the Detroit firm of Herman & McLean.

George Kousaris, leasing manager for Action Olds in Livonia, testifies to the new trend. His dealership leased 10 to 20 cars a month last

Leases can be had for as little as a year and as long as five years, with terms more advantageous on longer

"Ten years ago you could drive a car for $1,200 a year," Kousaris said. "Now you can't do that. The average cost of a midsize car is about $12,000 and they depreciate rapidly."

He said consumers can save $80 to $100 a month by leasing as opposed to buying a new vehicle on a payment schedule. And there is the advantage of no down payment on a leased car, he added. "Insurance premiums don't reflect much difference (between buying and leasing)," he said. "Except that you need full coverage."

Mike Schrieber, sales manager of Bill Brown Ford in Livonia, doubts

The second tax change impacts that auto leasing will replace consumer buying in the near future.

"I've been hearing this same prediction for the last five years," he said. "Leasing is gaining popularity, but there is still a belief that if you own your own car, you are better off. "The consumer has to pick the right option for their circumstances," said Schrieber.

Bob Mosteiko, business manager of Fox Hills Chrysler Plymouth, says the biggest problem today is that if the consumer is unfamiliar with leasing, he or she is leery and doesn't consider it a serious option.

"A car goes down in value every month," said Mosteiko. "Say you take $10,000 out of the bank to buy a new car and let it dwindle away. It's ludicrous.'

At the end of the leasing period, the customer has two options: to buy the car for a residual value (determined when the contract is drawn) or walk away from it. Results of the annual Detroit Auto Show survey show that buying is still the favorite option with consumers. Fifty-five percent of those polled said they might purchase a new car in 1987, down from 62 percent in 1986. Conversely, 11 percent indicated they were leasing a car, up from 8 percent a year ago.

PIG can be a PAL if you have tax shelter loss articles discussing the Tax Reform Act of 1906 and tax insee expected to be generated this year by the tax shelters we bought in earlier years.

Last week's analysis of passive activity losses (PALs) and passive incomes and passive income genera-tors (PIGs) showed that tax shelters can still be valuable.

Last week we discussed PALs and PIGs. Here are some examples to clarify the concepts.

A simple illustration:

Say you participate in two "passive activities" — that is, a business in which you do not materially participate. In 1987, the first one generates a passive

Here is the arithmetic:

Passive loss $17,000 Less passive income . ($11,000) Unusable loss . . . $ 6,000

Transitional rule complications:

The transitional rules, which allow you to write off part of your passive losses, are as fol-

65% of your passive losses would be allowed (35% disallowed) to reduce non-passive income. However, this is not as simple as

The law requires you to add our passive losses and passive income before you arrive at the amount of tax loss disallowed. Here is an example.

Say in 1987 you have a passive loss of $20,000 and a passive income of $7,000. If you make the following calculation you would passive loss $20,000 65% allowed in 1987 . . 13,00 passive loss disallowed . . 7,000 unusable passive income . . . 0

The correct way to make the calculation is:

passive loss $20,000
Less passive income 7,000
Net passive loss 13,000
65% allowed in 1987 8,450
Unusable passive loss 4,580

ugh not neces most economical strategy, your safest strategy might still be to match the passive loss with the passive income to avoid the wasted passive loss.

A further complication:

It seems clear that if you are able to generate $4,550 of passive income, then your worries will be over.

Right? Wrong. The $8,450 passive loss that you used to reduce your active income (salary) is treated as investment interest expense. So you not only "used up" your investment interest loss, which otherwise could have been used to shelter your investment in-come, but this amount is also treated as a fax preference item and could trigger an Alternative Minimum Tax.

Educational seminar: "Your Investments, Your Taxes and Tax Reform." The seminar, sponsored by Observer & Eccentric Newspapers and Coordinated Financial Planning, will be held 7-9:30 p.m. Tuesday, July 21, in the Baldwin Public Library, 300 W. Merrill, Birmingham.

Picking the right stock is more important than timing as to when the stock market will start its next major move down?

I'm fully invested at the present time and have done very well, but I want to protect my gains and not see them melt away when the stock market starts going down — as it always does.

I would not care to venture a guess as to when the stock market will make a major decline.

Furthermore, I would add that I really don't care when it goes down. As you have said in your question the stock market always goes down.

But you seem to have forgotten the most important part — that after the stock market goes down, it always goes up. Even more important, the stock market always goes up a lot more than it goes down.

The last major drop in stock market prices that most of us saw was in the 1970s. That drop in the market was 45 percent. That's a substantial and a scary drop.

HOWEVER, WHEN the stock market recovered, it set a record on the upside as it always does. The advance to 2400 was 128 percent from the previous high. It was up well over 300 percent, if you measure from the low to the high.

A check of major stock market cycles, which occur two or three times in the average lifetime, will show you that the same thing always happens. The down move is always substantially outpaced by the subsequent up move.

A great many people try to get out at the top of the market and hold their cash until it hits bottom. That's today's investor Thomas E. O'Hara of the National Association of Investors Corp.

when they want to get back in. The reasoning makes the height of good sense. The logic is irrefutable.

The only problem is that practically no one is able to do it success-

A study made by two professors at Calgary University and paid for by Salomon Borthers shows that over the past 50 years, the investor who bought good stocks and held them through up and down markets did better than the investor who tried to move in and out of stocks and in and out of favored industries.

THE PROFESSORS found that. just to break even after paying commissions and taxes, the investor who tried to catch all the changes had to be right 70 percent of the time. Very few of us are good enough to be right more than 70 percent of the time.

The practice of being fully invested all of the time in good securities has been followed by investment clubs. Records of their earnings only go back 26 years, but they substantiate the findings of the Calgary study. The records seem to suggest that it is much more important to pick the stocks you invest in carefully than to try to get in and out of the market at its lows and highs.

You will have times when you look pretty bad, but at the end of the line, you are more likely to be at the top of the heap if you forget about market timing.

Yesh's background is in art and industrial design. He and Fisher attended Wayne State University and found themselves continually bumping into one another before they teamed up officially.

"ADVERTISING is more than selling," Yesh said. "It's total communications. Whether it be on a screen, in technical manuals, a reference manual, a product introduction piece." Yesh likes to talk about the "profile of an idea" and walked through the initial stages of concept development. At the first client meeting, Yesh asks his "thousand questions."

"Where will the material be used? What type of clients? What is the sell nature? What is the size, scope, length of time, budget?

"How many directions can you go? What type of penetration? Who are tions, for different feels. Something terials?

"I went from an active life to a dormant one," she said.

Cajoled by Janiga to try out for the polka program, a nervous Janek auditioned for WCAR program director David Johnson. "I was home about an hour and they called me and asked, 'How about tomorrow morning?'"

THE CRACK of dawn the Tuesday after Memorial Day 1984 found Janek sitting in the station's Garden City parking lot for about 20 minutes wondering, "Oh, my God, what am I doing here?" Figuring she had gone too far to retreat, she walked into the studio and with shaking hands picked out that morning's records. Randy Carr, then the program's engineer, tried to make things easier by making her laugh. "It worked. I even came back the next day."

Since then, she's been answering the phones, talking to regular callers and newcomers, offering on-the-air congratulations for every occasion from births to selling the most Knights of Columbus raf-

Her on-the-air style has more in common with an old-fashioned talk over the backyard fence than with the glib chatter of pop music DJs.

Almost a family feeling has grown up among her coterie of regular listeners, many of them older women. If a regular hasn't called in a while, Janek dedicates a polka to them, wishing them well. Fans give her small homemade presents. 'For instance, there's Rita. I

WHEN SHE grew up in the pre-dominantly Polish neighborhood surrounding St. Hedwig Roman Catholic Church in Detroit during the Depression, English was a sec-ond language and polkas were the dance of choice.

"It's inborn," said Janek of her unabashed love for polkas. "I was dancing when I was a tot. My Aunt Helen taught me to dance."

But by the time she was working her way through St. Hedwig's high school as a waitress in a Stouffer's restaurant on Woodward, the wider world was already beckoning.

During the last years of high school, teachers exhorted the students to concentrate on their English language skills to make it easier to enter the working world. As they worked on assimilating, they put behind themselves appreciably portions of their ethnic upbringing.

Pitchers set tone for honor team

By Dan O'Mears staff writer

t's a fact of girls fast-pitch softball that every successful team boasts one truly outstanding pitcher.

Thus, it requires no explanation why the pitchers on the 1987 All-Observer team - Shelly Malone and Kim Berrie - hail from Garden City and Plymouth Salem.

Those schools enjoyed the most success among Observerland ballclubs, and the teams' respective aces played vital roles.

With Malone on the mound, Garden City won its first 29 games, captured the Northwest Suburban League title and reached the semifinals of the state tournament. For Salem. Berrie won 17 of 18 decisions as the Rocks posted a 21-3 record, including a 16-0 slate in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

Having enjoyed that kind of success. it is no surprise the Cougars spectively. and Rocks dominated the honor

all-area softball

quad, putting players in six of the 10 first-team positions with three berths apiece.

Malone is joined by infielder Mikey Gorak and outfielder Karen Sandman; Berrie's teammates on the elite squad are first baseman Denice Tackett and infielder Marcie Walk-

Livonia Franklin, runner-up to Salem in the WLAA, placed two players on the first team, Farmington Mercy and Redford Union one each.

As a footnote to the selection of Malone and Berrie as first-team pitchers, Franklin and Mercy - the teams following Garden City and Salem in terms of overall success produced the second-team hurlers in Patty Wixson and Amy Edward, re-

The individual accomplishments of those players whom area coaches voted to the All-Observer first team are listed below.

SHELLY MALONE, pitcher, Garden City: A senior who compiled a 17-1 record. Majone broke every school record for pitching. She posted a 1.18 earned run average, allowing 20 earned runs in 119 innings, and struck out 90 batters for coach Barry Patterson's ballclub. Opponents managed just 63 hits and 39 walks while she was on the mound.

For her career, Maione, who was 39-0 the last two years before losing a 2-0 decision to East Detroit in the semifinal game, had a 58-4 record with 329 strikeouts and a 1.33 ERA.

The Cougars' most valuable player the last three years, she also was a good hitter with a .408 batting average, 14 runs batted in and one home run. Her career average was .345.

"Along with being a good hitter, Shelly is one of the toughest competitors I have ever coached," Patterson said. "She possesses excellent knowledge of the game and is one of the best fielding pitch-

KIM BERRIE, pitcher, Plymouth Salem: If Malone overpowered opposing hitters, then Berrie's asset was her control, a statement supported by the fact she walked just 30 batters, threw only four wild pitches and didn't hit anybody.

She struck out 50 and finished with a 1.30 ERA (22 earned runs in 118 innings). Berrie, a junior, started 19 games, faced 469 batters and allowed 96 hits. Her only defeat was a 1-0 loss to South Lyon, which also boasted an exceptional pitching talent in Andrea Nelson, in a predistrict qualifying game.

NICKI FRASER, catcher, Farmington Mercy: In addition to Edward's pitching, Fraser, another junior, was a reason the Marins advanced to the regional final before being eliminated by Garden City.

Fraser, a three-year starter, hit .383 from the No. 9 spot in the Mercy betting order, stole 16 bases and had five RBI. She made 131 putouts and had a .960 fielding percentage.

"Nicki is an outstanding defensive catcher who will, nine times out of 10, beat the runner down to first with the back-up," coach Suzanne Brown said. "She is a great bunter with exceptional speed on the base paths."

DENICE TACKETT, first ba outh Salem: Tackett was a "true power hitter" in the words of coach Rob Willette.

keeping them in every game, it was an awesome hitting attack, led by individuals such as Tackett, that usually turned games into routs and gave Salem's ace pitcher plenty of room to work with.

Tackett was Salem's RBI leader four consecutive years and finished her varsity career with more than 150. As a senior. she drove in 46 runs.

The Rocks' clean-up hitter, Tackett hit 524 and had eight home runs. She collected 19 extra-base hits, which included seven three-baggers, in 63 plate appearances. And, for being a power hitter, she struck only five times.

MARCIE WALKER, Infleider, Plymouth Salem: As the No. 2 hitter in the Salem lineup, Walker's job was to get on base, which she did to the tune of a .400 batting average. She walked five times and struck out just once.

Walker, a senior who also sacrificed successfully on eight occasions and had 12 RBI, played the hot-corner position, which enabled her to use a good backhand move and strong throwing arm.

MIKEY GORAK, Infleider, Garden City: Gorak's selection to the All-Observer team is evidence of another softball truth: All successful teams are strong up the middle. With Malone on the mound, Gorak at shortstop and Karen Sandman in center field, the Cougars possessed that quality.

Gorak hit .392 In her senior year and drove in 25 runs. Her team-leading 16 extra-base hits included three homers, five triples and eight doubles. She also walked 21 times and stole 17 bases.

"Mikey is a super hitter with good power," Patterson said. "Mikey has been a source of motivation for our team with her constant enthusiasm and aggressive-

Gorak, who was named Most Dedicated Female Athlete in Garden City's Class of '87, had a career batting average of .335, scored 87 runs, received 72 walks and stole 39 bases.

MARIA VASSELIOU, Infleider, Livonia Franklin: With her .406 batting average and 23 RBI, Vasseliou helped lead the Patriots to the WLAA's Western Division championship (9-0) and a 13-2 record against league competition.

She completed her four-year varsity career with an average on the plus side of 400 after hitting .413 and .450 the previous two years, respectively. Vassellou, selected as her school's Most Outstanding Female Athlete, committed only four errors and had a fielding percentage of

'Maria has the ability to hit and field for any college she chooses to go to," Franklin coach Joe Epstein said. "I, for one, and Franklin as a whole will miss her pres-

MOUS for coining the phrase, "It's a beautiful day, let's play three."

The Hall of Famer was only kidding of course, knowing it was impossible to play three games strictly under the sun in the friendly confines of Chicago's Wrigley Field.

Annually, the Michigan High School Athletic Association's baseball committee tries to top Banks's wishes by crying, "Let's play four." Yes, the MHSAA tries to jam four state championship (Class D,C,B and A) games all in one day, but it rarely works. Conforming to starting times of 10 a.m., noon, 3 p.m. and 5:30 p.m. is just about impossible, taking into consideration that a lot of ballgames run longer than scheduled.

"They have to be played all at one site," pleaded baseball committee member Frank Sumbera, the successful head coach at Grosse Pointe North. "We've suggested starting the Class D game at 9 a.m."

Not a bad idea, but Sumbera doesn't like the suggestion of dividing the championship games into two

"This is a baseball festival," he said. "People come here to watch all four games."

THAT MAY BE TRUE, but is this a "baseball festival" for the coaches, or the fans and players?

It got utterly ridiculous Saturday when the start of the Class A title game between Redford Catholic Central and Midland Dow, originally scheduled for 5:30 p.m. at Michigan State's Kobs Field, was changed to 7:45 p.m. at Lansing's Municipal

Whalers select area player

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

For Adam Burt, Rome could have been built in the time it seem to take for him to be drafted Saturday. And on its second coat of paint.

The 6-foot 2-inch defenseman from Westland was brushed over for awhile in the National Hockey League Entry Draft at Joe Louis Arena. Waiting over two hours, he was finally picked by the Hartford Whalers late in the second round, the 39th player chosen overall. The selection was surprising in that Burt was pegged by many secuts to go in the first round.

Also, it was a Caspar Weinberger draft with defense a high priority. Defensemen went in wholesale quantities (11 were picked in the first round). But Burt went unclaimed until Hartford called his name.

AND MORE THAN who eventually tabbed the talented defenseman was who didn't. The Detroit Red Wings had two chances but opted for two other blueliners instead, Yves Racine of Longueuil of the Quebec

Hartford bound

Major Junior Hockey League and Gordon Kruppke of the Western Hockey League's Prince Albert

Even chants of "Burt, Burt" from the crowd didn't sway the Wings. Burt wasn't noticeably miffed about being passed over in the first round and by the hometown team, quickly putting on a Whalers jersey.

"Wherever you get picked is really irrelevant," said Burt, who was the second U.S.-born player taken, not the first as predicted. "What you do with the opportunity is what matters. It all comes down to what you do in training camp."

HARTFORD CERTAINLY jumped on the opportunity to draft Burt, who is known as a homestead

"I was surprised he was available in the second round," said Emile Francis, president and general manager of the Whalers. "Central Scouting had him rated No. 12."

Scouting reports lauded Burt for his ability to clear the front of the net and his aggressiveness. He's not exactly another Bobby Orr offensively, having four goals and 27 assists playing for North Bay of the Ontario Hockey League this season.

He's considered steady, but certainly not flashy by any means.

European ball right move for Shasky

taff writer

A year ago, John Shasky's future was uncertain. The 6-foot-11 Birmingham Brother Rice graduate had blossomed into a solid college bas-hethall player at the University of

But that guaranteed him nothing in the world of pro baskethall. Be-fore the National Baskethall Association draft, Shasky was projected as a second-to-fourth round pick. He didn't know when he'd be chosen. He didn't know by whom. And in a sport in which second-round selections rarely make the team — Shasky didn't know what his chances es rarely make the team -

Dne thing he did know: He wanted toplay in the NBA.

That's why, after a good showing in the summer pro league in Los Angeles and in the Utah Jazz rookie camp (he was picked by Utah in the third round of last June's draft), Shasky decided to - play in France?

AT FIRST GLANCE, it might seem ludicrous that, after a very promising rookie camp, Shasky de-cided to forego signing a lucrative NBA contract with Utah to play with a team in Cholet, France. But his thinking was actually quite sound.

"I played better than a lot of rookies (at the Utah camp)," he acknowledged. "Some people said I was doing really well. But as I got more and more into it, I talked to some of the guys and I could see they had 14 veterans under contract, and they hadn't signed their first-round draft choice (Dell Curry) yet."

Shasky is just four classes short of gaining his bachelor's degree in marketing from Minnesota. That type of academic preparation made it easy for him to outline his career choices. He figured he could:

· Give it his best shot with Utah, knowing they could carry only 12 players and that they had traded Adrian Dantley to Detroit for Kelly Tripucka and back-up center Kent Benson (Shasky's position); • Play in the Continental Basketball Association (CBA), a junior league for NBA have-nots, where pay is minimal but there's a chance to catch on with an NBA team;

 Go to France and play for Cholet, where he would get paid $55,000 an apartment and car to use.

"I didn't think my chances were that great (at Utah)," said Shasky. "And in the CBA you're not going to make any money. I had a sure thing in Europe, and the team was stable."

IT SEEMED Shasky's decision was a good one. After his team moved up from Division II to Divi-sion I (France's best), it struggled through a poor first half of the sea-

Playing an American game in a foreign land was "really different," Shasky said. "I'd say (French basketball) is a step above college basketball but a step below the NBA.

"It's just as physical there, but it's more mechanical than here. Players aren't as creative. They don't have the influence of playground basket, ball that they have here."

Cholet provided Shasky with what he sought. "It helped me career-wise. I got some money put away, so if I have to I can afford to play in the

Appliance salvages à victory

-Walter's Appliance salvaged one victory during a weekend of play in Livonia Collegiate Base-ball League.

The Adray Kings, a Class A team, swept Walter's in their three-game series. But Walter's did manage to beat Tom Holzer Ford of Northville in a game played Friday at Livonia's Ford Field, 12-2.

Scott Curd was the winning pitcher for Walter's, allowing just four hits and one walk over six Mhings. He fanned five.

Dan Kopitzke took the loss for Fem Holzer. Scott Papich and Mike Rudin

Esch went 3-for-3 for Walter's, who mounted a 13-hit attack. Papich also drove in three runs. But Walter's was no match for the older and more experienced Kings in the first game on Friday,

Jim Rousseau went 3-for-4 for the winners to help give Kings pitcher Dan Zang the win.

Rudin went 2-for-2 and Chris Sizler belted a two-run homer in a losing cause. Pitcher Don Baker took the loss.

ON SUNDAY, the Kings swept Walter's, 12-1 and 8-6. Both games were played at Ford Field. -Walter's nearly pulled off an upset in the nightcap, scoring three times in the seventh inning ty pull ahead 6-5. Rudin's two-run igle ignited the surge. Keith Kucharczyk also scored on a wild mich. But the Kings' Jim Ross tripled in a run in the bottom of the seventh and Dean Fracassi won it with a two-run homer.

Fracassi also clubbed a tworun homer in the second inning after Rousseau had belted one out in the first.

Zang was the winning pitcher and John Knittel took the loss.

"He didn't fit into the banger mold," said David McNab, chief scout of the Whalers. "He's not an offensive player. He's just a solid two-way defenseman. "We're thrilled to have him."

AT BURT'S AGE (18), he'll have at least one more year in juniors. Defensemen usually take longer than

With another year in juniors likely, Burt might try out for the U.S. Olympic team. "I'm going to leave that up to the Hartford Whalers' front office," he said. That wait at least won't seem as long as the one Sat-

Burt's family, including his brother, Noah, and sister, Laura, from Westland, waited nervously for his name to be called. His father, Harry Burt, was particularly on

"It's hard," said Harry Burt, a bit disappointed that Detroit didn't take his son. "It's so up and down, waiting them to call his name."

Friends started the chant when Detroit's turn came up in the second round.

"I WAS TOLD before (the draft) that I probably wouldn't be going to Detroit," said Burt, "so I guess I was ready for it. "I thought it was neat with everyone yelling. I got some chills up my back. "You have a lot of things going through you're mind. You wonder, 'Is this team going to draft me?' or 'How would I like going to this team?

The defenseman picked ahead of Burt by Detroit in the second round is noted for similar qualities. Kruppke is also labeled as a stay-at-home type who plays an ag-

Burt even had the edge offensively. Kruppke had two goals and 10 assists in 49 games with Prince Albert.

Burt had 31 points in 57 games with North Bay. Neil Smith, director of scouting for the Wings, said they debated between Kruppke and Burt. But Kruppke, he said, was rated higher on their list. "The sentiment was there (in the crowd) to draft him," said Smith. "You try to draft a player by his ability, not his birthplace."

Smith added they probably would've taken Burt with their second pick in the second round they received from Philadelphia, the 41st selection overall.

ALL OF WHICH, of course, is moot. Burt was certainly glad to be drafted by Hartford, which had the fourth-best overall record in the regular season. Playing in the NHL has been a goal of his since playing Mite hockey as a 7-year-old in Redford.

And it became reality after his name was announced and official after a handshake by former Red Wing great Gordie Howe, now assistant to the chairman of the Whalers.

"I met him once when I really young," said Burt, whose father worked at Olympia Stadium when Howe played. "But I don't remember it."

KAREN SANDMAN, outfielder, Garden City: An excellent fielder and good filtter, she was instrumental in Garden City being the solid ballclub that it was. She hit .387, collecting 36 hits in 93 atbats, and had a .935 fielding percentage. Sandman, who also was noted for her bunting ability and had 13 stolen bases. was named to the coaches' All-State first

'Karen is an exceptional outfielder with a strong, accurate throwing arm and great speed," Patterson sald. "Karen has been a real stabilizing force for the past free seasons.'

- For her career, the senior hit .348, cored 87 runs and stole 26 bases.

CHERIE MASCARELLO, outflelder, Livonia Franklin: The Patriots also were strong up the middle, the Wixson-Vasseliou-Mascarello combination being the strength of Franklin's team. Another center fielder, Mascarello had an errorless season while making 21 putouts and four assists en route to a 1.000 percentage in the field.

At the plate, she batted .333 and led the Patriots in RBI for the second straight year with 29 RBI. Nearly half of her hits went for extra bases as she collected five doubles, three triples and one homer.

"In my opinion, Cherie has been one of the best outfielders in the Observerland area for the past three years," Epstein aid. "She has the best reflexes of any fielder I've ever had. She ranks with some of the best in the state.

'Cherie's batting power and great outfield skills will help to make her an asset to any college she plays for," he added.

ANDREA ROEDDING, outfielder, Redford Union: Roedding joins Tackett as the other power hitter on the All-Observer team. She had the highest batting average of the honored players at .529, and she clouted six home runs in addition to three triples.

She also had 29 RBI and only two strikeouts in 92 at-bats. She was 38-for-38 in stolen base attempts.

Roedding, the Panthers' MVP, led her am in nine categories: runs (36), hits (36), average, times on base (61), onthe percentage (.663), RBI, triples, homers and stolen bases. "Andrea is one of the finest studentathletes I've had the privilege to associate with." Redford Union coach Gary DeRoche said. "Her speed helps her cover the outfield as well as anyone.

"It's hard to say what's going to happen. Everybody's been asking me what I'm going to do. I don't know. I hope I'm playing in the NBA."

Sculptor's work corners the earth

Barr is concerned about global issues and believes art can help unify humanity.

Thursday June 18 1987 OSE

An example of structurist relief by David Barr. This and other similar pieces are on display at the Donald Morris Gallery of Birmingham. Hours of the exhibit can be found elsewhere on this page.

AVID BARR MAY return to Wales, Alaska this sum-

He is hoping the leaders of that Eskimo village, population 137, will allow him to place a sculpture there.

Barr wants to build two sculptures in Anchorage then ship them to villages on either side of the Bering Straits - in Wales, the other, on the Soviet side of the Straits, in Mys Peek, Chukotskiy, Poluostrov. The two frozen settlements are the geographically the closest America and the Soviet Union get.

"It is the hardest, harshest part of the world I've ever been in," said

While the village leaders in Wales haven't decided on the project, neither have they decided in Mys Peek. Barr has enlisted U.S. Sen. Carl Levin to help get permission from village and Soviet authorities.

The pieces, to be made of redwood and entitled "Artic Arc," will resemble an incomplete bridge and extended hand, and will align to the summer solstices.

Artic Art is the latest of Barr's project dealing with borders, and the latest work of "global art."

The largest such project was called "Four Corners," a nine-year effort that Barr undertook unfunded and without grants. Barr envisioned a tetrahedron inside the earth, and he marked with small, marble tetrahedrons the four points of the image in Greenland, New Guinea, Easter Island and southern Africa.

It was a huge project and had a large impact on the artist. But he said he is vaguely annoyed by people who say it is his best work.

BARR DOES MUCH more than global pieces. There are two other aspects of his work: large sculpture, like those that dot the rural landscape surrounding his home in Novi; and smaller pieces, called reliefs.

A selection of reliefs shows through June 30 at the Donald Mor- only do what I do. ris Gallery in Birmingham. Barr has spent more than a year creating the trude." eliefs for the show

Barr, 47, was born in Detroit has taught art at Macomb Community College since 1965. He is a structurist, and geo-structurist. He said he is interested natural patterns, in the relationship between color, form, space, light and time.

IN THE GLOBAL projects, Barr has worked with vastly different audiences. Four Corners took him to the earth's four corners and he dealt with politicians and tribesman and

There are these wild swings of who you deal with," he said. Barr said he tries to be open and honest, and has learned people op posed to his projects will walk away from them, while supportive people will lend a hand.

People told him he could never get government approval from New Guinea and Greenland. He did.

In New Guinea, young, natives asked him about break dancing. In Wales, Alaska, the young people are tuned in but locked out, he said.

"The young people walk the beaches - and down, up and down. up and down — wearing Walkmans," Barr said. The young people have nothing to do. Barr said he is concerned about global issues, and believes art can help to unify humanity. Since he completed Four Corners, he has stayed in touch with people he met on various continents. Art, he said, transcends politics.

That, to me, in a troubled time, is a very important concept," he said.

HE HAS LATELY been exploring the themes of borders with the Artic Art project, and another, called Sunsweep, along the United States and Canadian border, and another along the United States-Mexican border, which Barr has called "a border of suffering."

Barr said the global projects raise ethical problems.

He said he has wondered if he shouldn't instead be bringing food to these people. "But in the end. I can a Artist David Barr with "Structurist Sculpture Number 9." The piece (above) and several others sit among the five acres that surrounds Barr's home in Novi. Barr attended Wayne State University and has taught at Macomb Community College since 1965. He works in three mediums: large sculpture like those that dot the land around his home; global, like the "Four Corners" project that took him around the world; and smaller reliefs, like those featured at the Donald Morris Gallery this month.

David Barr's reliefs are showing through June 30 at the Donald Morris Gallery, 105 Townsend, Birmingham.

Barr, who lives in Novi, has been working on the reliefs for over a year. He works with colorform-light-time-space to translate what he sees as "nature's shifting realities."

The work is layered, multicolored and seems both orderly and disjointed. All that is the intention of the artist, who celebrates nature's profound patterns.

"I invent passionate flowers, crystals, landscapes, which do not presume to compete with nature but which endeavor to achieve a parallelism to nature - as an airplane is to a bird," Barr writes Besides reliefs, Barr does large sculptures, and even larger, global condo queries

Q. I have just moved to this area and have been told that attorneys are not necessarily to be present at the closing. What is your recommendation as to the use of an attorney in a residential real estate purchase?

A. It is this writer's recommendation that an attorney experienced in real estate matters can be of assistance to a prospective purchaser of residential real estate and should be called upon to assist the purchaser before any purchase agreement is signed.

There is a general misconception that an attorney is only needed for the "closing" of the real estate transaction. Rather, an attorney can be of great assistance in making sure that the purchase agreement, which reflects the terms of the sale, has properly protected the purchaser. Any purchase agreement signed by purchaser should have a provision which provides that it is subject to review by purchaser's attorney within a specified period of time, inter alia.

The attorney can also be of help in working with the mortgage company for the purchaser and insuring that the closing is in accordance with the terms of the purchase agreement.

Robert M. Meisner is a Birmingham attorney specializing in condominiums, real estate and corporate law. Questions should be directed to him at 30200 Telegraph Road, Suite 467, Bingham Farms 48010. This column provides general information and should not be construed as legal

Softer point of view

About the nicest compliment folks can pay artist/photographer Jim Wesley is to say they like the soft, ethereal quality of his photographs. Wesley works hard to achieve that effect when he shoots what he calls "historic still life." Nor does the Livonia artist "manufacture" any of his settings. "They're just as you would see them. In fact, people are always telling me, after reading the identifying label on the picture, 'Oh, I've been there four or five times, but I never saw that," meaning the way Wesley has it pictured. An exhibition of his photographs in what he describes as "museum justified" - all with white matting and silver frames — is now open for public viewing at Baker Street Interiors, 16320 Middlebelt, Livonia through the end of the month, during regular business hours.

Food and refreshments will be offered.

O ARTIST-IN-RESIDENCE SOUGHT

The Marygrove College Department of Dance (resident company of Dance Detroit) is offering a one-year artist-in-residence faculty appointment for a professional performer and teacher in modern, ballet or jazz.

Additional courses may be open in introduction to dance, composition, improvisation, ethnic dance, history of dance, or dance production.

Candidates for the appointment must be experienced in choreograsuch activities as auditions and student advising. The compensation is negotiable. The position, which is effective Aug. 15, may be renewed for a second year. Applications, resumes and three letters of recommendation must be submitted by Aug. 1 to Penny Goldboldo, chair, dance department, Marygrove College, 8425 W. McNichola, Detroit 48221. For more information, call 862-8000.

ight Opera's 'Desert Song' at Marquis

Return again to the sands of Morocco and the sounds of Sigmund Romberg when the Light Opera of Michigan presents "The Desert Song" at the historic Marquis Theater in Northville beginning this weekend.

Artistic director David Pulice announces a stellar cast headed by baritone Mark Vondrak as the Red Shadow; Penny Kindraka as Margot Vonvalet; Mark Byars as Captain Fontaine; Jeffrey Woolley as Bennie; Ruth Lapeyre as Susan; David Jackson as Sid El Kar; and Windy Bloom as Clementina.

Musical conductor will be Southfield resident

Vondrak is a frequent soloists in the metropolitan area in both state and oratorio and is a favorite performer with Michigan Opera Theater. In this production, he lends his commanding stage presence and vocal strengths to the challenging dual role of the dashing Red Shadow and meek Pierre Birabeau.

Kindraka, who performs with several regional opera companies and most recently with the Toledo Opera, brings to life the role of Margot Bonvalet with her sparkling voice and effervescent personality.

BYARS WAS LAST seen in Light Opera of Michigan's production of "Iolanthe" as the stuffy but delightful Lord Mountararat. Byars is a frequent performer at the Marquis in both musical comedy and opera.

Woolley debuts with the Light Opera of Michigan in the role of Bennie, bringing to the company a wealth of musical theater experience. Leading roles include Tony in "West Side Story," Hero in "Forum" and Mottel in "Fiddler on the Roof. Last Christmas, he appeared in the Greenfield Village production of "Babes in Toyland."

Jackson, a Michigan native, returns to the Detroit area from Colorado to sing the role of Sid El Kar. He has been featured with such groups as the Colorado Opera Festival, Colorado Music Theatre Festival, Birmingham, Ala., Civic Opera and Denver Chamber Orchestra. He has also been a Colorado district Metropolitan, San Francisco. Denver Lyric Opera winner and was a finalist in the prestigious Mobil Oil Meistersinger Competition with the Graz Opera in Austria.

Bloom, in the role of Clementina, also performs in the MOT Overture to Opera program. Her extensive repertoire includes a lead in the recent production of Leonard Bernstein's "Mass" at the Michigan Theater in Ann Arbor.

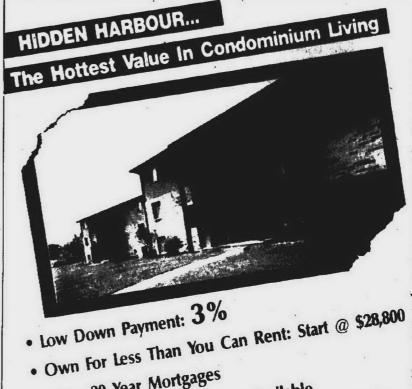

Performance dates and times are as follows: Saturday, June 20, and Friday, June 26, and Saturday, June 27, 8 p.m.; Sundays, June 21 and 28 at 2:30 p.m. Tickets are $10 and $9 for senior citizens and students. They are available from Marquis Stores, 135 E. Main, Northville. Orders can be charged on VISA, MasterCard or American Express by calling 349-8110 or 349-0868. Tickets may also be purchased at the door. The theater is air-conditioned.

SPLENDID ISOLATION

If you're country folks - please read on.

If you're country folks - please read on.

The location is a half hour north of Rochester and a mile west of Rochester Road. The sets is reached by winding, tree lined country roads. The setting is truly magnificent; over 20 acres of mature caks, maples, cherries and pines rooted on severely ravined terrain. Literally hundreds of acres of like natural beauty completely surrounds and obscures the house area from outside view. Deer, grouse, fox, wood ducks - even bluebirds are in residence or transient, and are seen regularly. There is no lawn; the adjoining grounds remain in the natural state.

The house is 4 years old, its style is country chalet; custom designed, sited and built by Dick Hamill of Grand Ledge, in the style of his Schuse Mountain designs. Perched on a ridge, it has great views from all sides - a wet land (great pond site) from one angle, and dense woods from all others. The exterior is coder in its entirity; board and betten siding and hand split roof shakes. The three car detached garage is of identical construction.

The home interior is truly rustic. Walls are solid wood detached garage is of identical construction.

The home interior is truly rustic. Walls are solid wood paneled and rough plastered. Doors are custom built of solid cedar with unique wooden herdware. All cellings are beamed, about half with T&G plants supported by massive solid cedar beams, posts and shaped bracing. The great room has a soaring cethedral celling, with open stairway to the second level balcony. It opens onto a screened porch which is also accessible by French doors from the dining room. The other side cries out for a multi-level deck, which has not yet been designed. The future deck can be reached by French doors from the master bedroom. The kitchen is decidely country. On the upper level is a large bath and two bedrooms, one with its own balcony. The lower family room opens on one side to a covered brick patio and has unrestricted visibility from the other. The workshop area, completely exposed, is ideally situated for a 4th bedroom or large office.

The catch to all this is the price, as you might expect. The site preparation, wide drive, in ground power and phone lines and the house itself was expensive. Still, the asking price of $239,000 is reasonable, considering land and building costs today and the quality Dick Hamili built into the house itself. If you're interested further in this one-of-a-kind home; please call 1-828-6949 for additional information or an appointment. We love this place and would be pleased to show you around. Thanks.

More Space...

Notice the spaciousness of the Ingleside. The full living space, the generous storage space, the private patio or balcony, attached garage and the lush rolling terrain. Aldingbrooke residents strive for this space, so each Aldingbrooke unit is designed with their needs in mind.

More Lifestyle...

Aldingbrooke is more than an apartment - it's a community. A clubhouse with pool, tennis courts, walking/jogging trails, library, billiards and other activities galore. Aldingbrooke residents demand more than just a place to live, they demand a lifestyle - and Aldingbrooke

More Value...

Compare the Aldingbrooke community. The gracious 1,680 square foot Ingleside residence shown here is only $.55 per square foot. Where else could you get so much for one of the lowest costs per square foot around? We invite you to tour all of the beautiful 1, 2 and 3 bedroom terrace homes of Aldingbrooke.
