Beating the heat

How hot was it? It was so hot that . . .

By Doug Funke
staff writer

How 'bout this weather?
We're talkin' some serious "hot" so far this week.
So hot that the telephone lines to the community education department at the Plymouth-Canton schools were jammed with calls inquiring about open swim hours at the pool.
So hot that not one person could be seen hanging around the fountain in Kellogg Park in the middle of the afternoon.
So hot that Detroit Edison Co. reported a single-hour record for electricity consumption in its service area.

Come on, folks. You don't have to sit around the house and listen to your hard-earned money go out the window — so to speak — via the air conditioner or fan.
Give those appliances a rest and go:
• Swimming.
The Plymouth Canton High School Pool hosts open swimming 7:30-9 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 3-5 p.m. Sunday through Aug. 2.
Fees are 75 cents for students and $1 for adults each session. A maximum family rate of $2 is available 4-5 p.m. Sundays.

Kensington Metropark, Kent Lake Road Exit off I-96, offers two beaches, plus a petting farm, hiking trails of varying lengths, a nature center and picnic areas.
A daily entry permit is $2, a season pass $10.
• Ice skating.
Open skating is available 6-7 p.m. Wednesday, 6-9 p.m. Friday, 1-3 p.m. Saturday and 2-4 p.m. Sunday. The fee is 75 cents Wednesdays, $1 at all other times.

Hotel acts to upgrade fire protection

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

Fire will pose less danger for patrons of the Plymouth Hilton, thanks to a $150,000 sprinkler system.
"Due to the many fires in the country in hotels and motels, the Hilton decided to update their system," said Plymouth Township Fire Chief Larry Groth.
"Only about 15 percent was sprinkled when the hotel was built."
Local fire codes require newly constructed, one-story buildings to be sprinkled if they are more than 12,000 square feet in size. Existing buildings don't have to be sprinkled unless they are adding on or renovating more than half the facility.
The upgrading — also to include $50,000 in electric smoke detectors — will place the Hilton among the area's safer buildings in terms of fire protection.
Without sprinkler systems are the Plymouth Cultural Center (which seats up to 1,500) and parts of the Mayflower Hotel, including the Meeting House, lobbies, restaurants, bar and some guest rooms.

CANTON FACILITIES without sprinkler systems include the Knights Inn, Canton Recreation Center, Bali Hall and the Canton Historical Museum.
All of the above-mentioned facilities comply with area fire codes.
Kentucky-based Columbia Sussex Inc., which owns the Hilton and about 40 other hotels and motels east of the Mississippi, has yet to experience a major fire.
"We want to keep that track record," said William Shields, Columbia Sussex Inc. project engineer.
"We just feel it's very important from the customer's view to feel safe in our buildings. Second, this means our insurance premiums will be lower."
The Plymouth Hilton, where a $3 million renovation is being completed, is following a nationwide trend, said Jamie Haines, public affairs and education director with the National Fire Protection Association.
"This (retrofitting existing buildings with sprinklers) is happening more and more. States are becoming

Harvey residents protest speeders

By Doug Funke
staff writer

A more intense enforcement of traffic laws on Harvey Street was promised Monday by police and city of Plymouth administrators.
About 10 people who live in the area appeared at the city commission meeting to relate stories about speeding motorists and fears for the safety of children and property.
Harvey, immediately west of Main Street, has developed into a major north-south thoroughfare in recent years.
Residents called for a greater police presence and the installation of stop signs to slow speeding motorists.

Officials said yes to the former request and we'll see to the latter.
"IT'S SOMETHING we have to put effort into," said police chief Richard Myers of directed patrols. "If they perceive it's that bad, it's a problem."
"I'm very sensitive to what they're saying about little kids — I have two myself — but you also have parental responsibility," Myers added. "Harvey is not a typical residential street. It's a major street."
The speed limit on Harvey is 25 mph.
"We're in the process of putting counters out to determine if traffic is heavy enough for stop signs," said

Counselor helps transsexuals cope

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

With a little urging, Dr. Don Brown will pull remembrances of success stories from an envelope in his desk. They're photographs of well-adjusted transsexuals — individuals he's counseled before, during and after sex changes.
Included are a white sailor, black model, a blind woman, a Brooke Shields look-alike and a 250-pound, 6-foot-4 mother who at 56 is going to college and becoming a man.
Brown is the director of counseling at the University of Michigan-Dearborn. Married and the father of two, the Canton resident is a licensed psychologist and a certified sex therapist.
"Of the approximately 40 cases I've dealt with, only one seems to be unhappy," said Brown. "The transsexual, who brings many personal problems to the operation or doesn't have the capacity for psychological intimacy, will find that a sex change is not the panacea for a perfect life."
BROWN WAS playing trombone for the U.S. Army in the mid-1940s when he met "several homosexuals who were treated very badly. I thought you shouldn't treat any human being in such a demeaning manner," said Brown.

On the GI bill at the University of Michigan, Brown earned degrees in sociology and counseling and wrote his doctoral dissertation on homosexuality. He studied human sexuality at Indiana University and the Masters and Johnson Institute in St. Louis, Mo.
Transsexuals face staggering problems, said Brown, his office adorned with his children's artwork and a photo collage of "hard-core porn places in Detroit done by my human sexuality students."
"Once they go through a sex change they lose their jobs. When a male becomes a female, she takes on all the double standards and discriminatory practices that accompany being a woman: lower wages, difficulty in getting into professional schools, poorer jobs and a lack of upward mobility."
"Often, transsexuals are rejected by their families and children. They have to get divorced and develop a

Some school workers still without contracts

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

With the first day of school little more than a month away, Plymouth-Canton transportation workers and educational aides still are without a contract.

Talks won't get under way until the first week of August, said Walter Bartnick, administrative assistant for employee relations for Plymouth-Canton schools.

Affected are 146 educational aides and 65 bus drivers and mechanics, whose two-year contracts expired June 30.

Teachers and other employees will work under terms of contracts good through June 1988.

ENROLLMENT will be up this fall, said Norm Kee, assistant superintendent for employee relations.

"We expect 100 more students this year than last," Kee said. Despite the increase, hiring in the district will be minimal. Nor will the opening of a new school, Hoben Elementary, mean a surge of new hires, he added.

Police seek man who bolted

By Diane Gale
staff writer

Local police are seeking a 22-year-old Plymouth Township man who fled into a wooded field after a Canton police officer arrested him for traffic violations and drunk driving.

At 11:30 p.m. Saturday, an officer stopped a speeding white Pontiac Sunbird traveling north on Haggerty toward Warren at an estimated 65 to 70 mph, a police report said.

At Warren the driver ran a red light traveling about 50 mph on the wrong side of Haggerty.

The driver told the officer he was taking his friend, a 21-year-old Livonia woman, to the hospital for treatment of a head injury.

The officer saw a large knot on the woman's head and called an emergency rescue unit, which took her to Oakwood Canton Health Center.

THE DRIVER GOT out of the car and appeared to be drunk, the police

'Most openings will be filled internally with people returning from leaves' and transfers.

— Norm Kee
assistant superintendent

"Most openings will be filled internally with people returning from leaves' and transfers," Kee said.

"The problem is people think that because we're opening a new school, it means we have that many openings for new hires," Kee said. "That's not the case. The transfer process will create openings someplace in the district, but not necessarily at Hoben."

There will be opportunities "for aides and people who come on as custodial help and bus drivers," he added. "Generally, people start out subbing in those areas. The things we've had this year we filled with last year's substitutes."

Other possible openings will be in specialty areas. The district is hiring a chemistry teacher, school nurse, part-time math teacher, special education teachers and a part-time French Spanish teacher.

"We hired 70 additional people in the teaching ranks alone last year. This year, it's somewhat sparse in terms of hiring, mainly because of less turn-around. Fewer people are moving out of state. But a lot of things could happen," Kee said.

Entry-level Plymouth-Canton teachers with bachelors degrees are paid $19,631. Those starting with master's degrees earn $21,476. School nurses follow the same salary schedule.

report said. The officer said he saw beer cans on the floor of the car and smelled intoxicants on the man's breath.

The man said he had never gotten a driver's license and was without a car registration. Police believe the name he gave was fictitious.

Another Canton officer arrived and administered a Breathalyzer test, which registered a .18 blood-alcohol count. In Michigan .10 blood alcohol level is considered legally drunk.

The driver was patted down for weapons, arrested and handcuffed with his hands behind his back.

"Just as he was handcuffed he bolted and ran to the nearby woods (north of Koppernick on Haggerty)," said Dave Boljesic, Canton police information officer.

The officers chased him, but were unable to spot him in the brush, he said.

Shortly afterward, police received a phone call from security guards at Stoneybrooke Apartments, on Joy Road east of Haggerty, who reported seeing a handcuffed man running through the area.

Police believe they know the man's identity and expect to make an arrest, Boljesic said.

"We feel very confident we'll have no problem apprehending him," he said.

One of the officers who chased the man fell into a ditch and was treated at Oakwood Hospital for an injured wrist.

Detroit-suburb viewpoint needed

IT'S ALL too easy to get emotional about the 20th anniversary of the Detroit riot.

Since the res were put out and the smoke disappeared, most whites have abandoned Detroit and its problems in spirit as well as body.

But the anniversary coverage by the metropolitan media is an excellent opportunity to reflect on the causes of the riot and — more importantly — what to do in the future.

While many rears won't admit it, political and business leaders have to reiterate the need for a positive and effective Detroit-suburban relationship.

It's too easy for Mayor Coleman Young and his supporters to decry the perceived negative publicity about Detroit and its problems. It makes for good headlines and 30-second sound bites on local TV stations (of which two are in Southfield and one in downtown Detroit).

What many suburbanites fail to realize is that Young is addressing mainly his constituents of about 700,000 to 800,000 blacks in Detroit while his comments are relayed at the same time to more than 3 million whites by daily newspapers and TV stations.

IT'S ALL too easy for suburbanites to narrow their focus to their own niche of the world and ignore the regional problems surrounding them.

While we admit that most of the problem is attitude, leaders must admit that Detroit isn't just a city with a largely black population surrounded by mostly white suburbs.

Detroit is a region from the viewpoints of geography, economics, recreation and education.

The regional reality of life in this area was dictated when the Ice Age's glaciers melted and created the combination of land masses, rivers, and flood plains in what is now southeast Michigan.

The federally funded freeways that either led to (or merely followed) the flight of white middleclass families from Detroit to the suburbs in the 1950s and 1960s can also be used for black Detroiters to get job opportunities in

Leonard Poger

Southfield, Warren and Dearborn.

While many will deny it, racial attitudes still prevail when families decide where to buy homes or rent apartments. Those same attitudes also prevail when job-seekers look for employment.

While Detroit boosters applauded the move of Little Caesars Enterprises Inc. from Farmington Hills to the deteriorating section of Woodward Avenue north of Grand Circus Park, no one has asked the company's suburban employees if they liked the announced move.

BUT WHILE suburbanites take part in the Detroit-bashing, they turn the other cheek and claim they are "Detroiters" when the Tigers win a World Series or the Red Wings advance through the Stanley Cup playoffs.

They enjoy the Detroit Symphony concerts, ethnic festivals, Grand Prix races, Detroit Institute of Arts, Wayne State University theater productions, and Thanksgiving parades.

Other joys enjoyed by adults and children are visits to the Fisher Building, the General Motors headquarters' main floor showroom of cars across the street, and Tiger Stadium — still the best place in America to see a baseball game in the fresh air and seeing real grass.

The relationship of Detroit and its suburbs resembles a young couple abandoning aging parents suffering from health problems.

We hope that leaders will avoid the easy temptation to jump on Detroit for its social problems while ignoring the benefits of living in a region with diverse opportunities for jobs, recreation, entertainment and education.

Leonard Poger is the editor of the Westland and Garden City Observers.

Inkster thanks metro area police

To the Editor:

The community of Inkster is in a state of shock and mourning. Feelings of disbelief, anger, fear, guilt, sorrow and faith are shared.

Some crimes have their victims — other crimes are said to be victimless. The loss of our three police officers — Ira Parker, Daniel Dubiel and Clay Hoover — has produced nothing but victims. There are three dead men. There are the bereft families of our dead officers. There are the members of our police and fire departments, as well as members of our administration who are expressing outrage at this senseless crime.

The officers were buried — their grief at an end. Behind them they leave families whose losses we cannot begin to fathom. Eight children with one on the way are left fatherless. We will try to comfort them, wondering if our comfort rings hollow. Their physical needs will be met, we swear it.

This tragedy and the resultant loss will be remembered city, county, state and nationally as one of the most horrific crimes against our law enforcement community — our police officers.

Most of our citizens knew at least one of the officers and many shared childhoods and churches with them.

The co-workers of our officers may be the ones most needing our understanding. For them this tragedy will have its daily reminders. Besides their personal sorrow they must learn to cope with possible feelings of guilt, helplessness and a desire for revenge, as well as the conflicts of their need for a macho image and their fears.

To the officers of the police and fire departments we must extend more than just our sympathy. They and their families are victims and as such they must be encouraged to accept the trained professional help that has been organized by the National Organization for Victim Assistance. This loss has brought us all closer together, and as a community, we are here for each other, as we comfort the families of our fallen officers, the friends and the neighbors they have left behind.

Finally, on behalf of the administration and the citizens of Inkster, I commend and thank the entire law enforcement community for support services to our police department. From Kenneth Walton, the director of the Detroit Area FBI; the director of State Police, Col. Richie Davis; director of the State Crime Laboratory, Robert Ficano; sheriff of Wayne County, and Police Chief William Hart, for making Detroit's resources available to us, and the 17 bordering community members of our Police Mutual Aid Pact and every police department in the metropolitan area and beyond who will be thanking individually.

Betty G. Miller,
Mayor of Inkster.

whole new peer and support group. It's a pretty gutsy step to give up everything that they have."

Many transsexuals confront financial problems, added Brown.

"Surgery for a male becoming a female costs about $30,000. To go from being female to male costs about $80,000-$100,000." Michigan is among the few states where insurance covers the surgery. Hutzel and Harper are the only area hospitals that perform the operations, Brown said.

BROWN, A big man with a warm personality and ready smile, leads support group meetings for transsexuals. He also counsels faculty and students — by appointment and in emergencies — who are grappling with problems ranging from divorce to sexual dysfunction.

Among the happy endings have crept some tragic ones.

"One of my cases was a suicide," he said.

"This was a 50-year-old man with no hope for sex reassignment and no support group. It was a sad affair."

Ignorance, fear and social stigmas can make life difficult for the sexually different, Brown said.

"People assume they have some choice. They have no more choice than most of us do growing up heterosexual. No one knows why someone is homosexual, transsexual, or a transvestite. There are several areas of theories — genetics, hormones, environment, or some interaction of the three," he said.

"Research in the whole sex area, until Masters and Johnson, was not of good quality. Eventually we will be able to explain more. At present, the level of scientific sophistication necessary to do so doesn't exist."

Brown advises family and friends of homosexuals and transsexuals to be loving, kind, supportive and helpful.

"They haven't chosen to be that way. Fate somehow gave them that role to play."

"Not everyone had healthy, loving parents. People grow up with all sorts of orientations, attitudes and handicaps."

"There's a basic rule in therapy: Judge not that ye be judged. Let he without sin cast the first stone."

more aggressive in their efforts."

It pays off, Haines added.

By the end of 1988, all Marriott buildings will feature sprinkler systems. And within five years, the chain will have "fully recovered in insurance savings the cost of sprinkler installation," Haines said.

Canton Fire Marshal Art Winkel quotes just about the same figure.

"For insurance purposes, the amount of savings on a sprinkler system will pay for itself in five to seven years," he said.

GROUND HAS been broken for a Canton Marriott that will be fully sprinkled, said Winkel.

Sprinkler systems have been a godsend to the hotel industry, said Haines.

"The death rate per fire in unsprinkled hotels and motels is more than twice the rate in those that are sprinkled."

"According to our statistics, there has never been a fire fatality in a building with sprinklers in full operation," she said.

"The average property damage per fire in unsprinkled hotels is five times as high as those in sprinkled hotels," Haines said.

The National Fire Protection Association is based in Massachusetts. "which I'm proud to say is the first state in the country to pass legislation requiring retrofitting and installation of sprinklers in all high-rise buildings," Haines said.

Services held for Wehmeyer

Tuesday at the First Presbyterian Church of Plymouth. The Rev. Philip Rodgers Magee officiated. Burial was in Forest Hills Cemetery, Ann Arbor.

Mr. Wehmeyer won election to a four-year term to the city commission in November 1977 and a two-year term in November 1981. City charter prohibits commissioners from serving more than two consecutive terms.

Mayor William L. Robinson appointed Wehmeyer to serve the balance of the term of Eldon "Bud" Martin on Feb. 3, 1986, when Martin resigned.

WEHMEYER, in ill health, resigned May 31, 1986, and moved to Dearborn so he could be closer to his job at Ford Motor Co. He was supervisor of the climate control division at retirement.

"He and I were very close friends," said Mayor William L. Robinson. "He was a very active commissioner — not laid back, let someone else do it and vote yes. He contributed a real service to our community."

meier on the commission for several years.

"He was a gentleman that was very concerned about his community," she said. "Whenever he made a decision, he thought it out very well. We always looked to him for expertise on engineering."

"His family and roots were really in Plymouth. He was well thought of in this community. You couldn't have had a finer person representing the community," Childs said.

MR. WEHMEYER perhaps best illustrated his approach to public office with the comment "The most important thing, I think, is you have to listen," when appointed to finish Martin's term.

Mr. Wehmeyer lived in the Plymouth community from 1953 to 1986.

He was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Plymouth where he served as a deacon, elder and choir member.

He also was a past president of the Plymouth Y board and past president of the Detroit chapter of the American Association of Heating and Air-Conditioning Engineers.

Mr. Wehmeyer is survived by his wife, Joan of Dearborn; daughters, household trash to the curb with no thought to its next stop.

As landfills burgeon with refuse, Americans turn their backs, close their eyes and continue their pattern of consumption and disposal.

According to Maurice Roach, director of planning for Wayne County Office of Public Services, the county can only accommodate solid waste about another 10 years.

Roach, a Plymouth Township resident, defines solid waste as "anything (trash) is put out on the curb."

In an effort to educate Wayne County residents about recycling, Roach met this spring with Cathy Prince and Nery White, local members of the League of Women Voters (LWV), to write a proposal to be used by the Wayne County Solid Waste Committee.

AN APPLICATION to the state Clean Michigan Fund for an educational grant of $50,000 was mailed in April.

If received, the grant would be used for an outreach educational effort with all 43 local communities in Wayne County. It will include 430 presentations on recycling to legislative aides, public interest groups and jail service clubs.

"I don't know how far we can go," said Roach. "We're a consumptive society. We're talking a change in lifestyle. The problem won't go away. It's the 'Noin my backyard' syndrome. Look at the incident with the (New York) urbage barge."

Both the Canton Library, 1150 Canton Center Road south of Proctor, and Dunning-Hough, 223 S. Main, are air-conditioned.

"When people come in, they're wilted," said Pat Thomas, library director at Dunning-Hough. "It's nice and comfortable in here. We've had a hot summer. Circulation is up. Maybe it's related."

Claire McLaughlin, reference librarian in Canton, said employees there seem especially busy on Mondays.

"Parents with their children come in and spend a lot of time sitting around. It's nice to see them help with toddlers picking up books and playing with toys and puppets," she said.

The Canton Library is open 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday and Saturday. Dunning-Hough is open 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday.

"Tell your readers to get a good book and curl up in a corner in the library," Thomas said.

Don't have to, Pat. You just did.

Hotel packages appeal to locals

Here's a sampling of some weekend getaways in western Wayne and Oakland counties:

FARMINGTON/FARMINGTON HILLS

● Botsford Inn — The Botsford Inn resumes its Historic Hiatus package, beginning the first weekend in September. For $150, couples receive two nights' lodging, flowers, a fruit basket and tickets to either Greenfield Village or Henry Ford Museum, Dearborn as well as tickets to either Cranbrook Institute of Science or Cranbrook Academy of the Arts, Bloomfield Hills. The package runs through April.

"Though it's primarily a weekend package, we will try to accommodate people at other times of the week, too," hotel spokeswoman Angel Davis said.

The hotel is at 28000 Grand River, near Eight Mile.

● Holiday Inn of Farmington Hills — Rooms for up to four people are available for $55, weekends.

"We're a Holidome so we have a variety of activities," director of sales Andrea Miller said.

Activities include an indoor and outdoor pool, sauna, whirlpool, exercise room, game room and miniature golf.

The hotel is at 38123 10 Mile, south of the I-275/I-696 interchange.

LIVONIA

● Holiday Inn West — The hotel's Holidome Package, $137.20 for two nights, includes breakfast and dinner for two, a pair of free in-room movies and two free boxes of popcorn. Children aren't charged for the room or meals, when accompanied by an adult.

The Holidome includes an indoor pool, whirlpool, sauna, putting green and game room, reservation manager Lynn Saloom said.

NOVI

● Novi Hilton — In addition to reduced weekend rates, the Hilton offers several packages geared to couples. Its $98-a-night Celebrate Package includes champagne and breakfast for two.

"This is especially good for newlyweds or people celebrating their anniversary," reservations manager Renee Prost said.

Its Rainbow Package, $144 for two nights, includes a fruit-basket, wine and cheese.

The hotel's $100-a-night Friday Feast Package, available Fridays only, includes a $40 credit for dinner at the hotel restaurant.

An indoor pool, sauna, whirlpool and exercise room are available.

The hotel is at 21111 Haggerty, north of 8 Mile, west of I-275.

● Sheraton Oaks — Rooms are available for $50 and weekend night, with 50 percent off breakfast for two the next morning. A $79.95 Friday night package includes a $21 coupon for dinner for two at the hotel restaurant. A similarly-priced Saturday package substitutes two tickets to Sunday brunch.

Indoor and outdoor pools, a sauna, whirlpool, exercise room and racquetball court are available.

PLYMOUTH

● Plymouth Hilton — The Interlude Package, $68 for two, includes breakfast for two and a welcome gift. Rooms can be rented for $59 a night for up to nine nights through its Summer 59 Package, provided guests stay at least one Saturday night.

An indoor pool, whirlpool, sauna, exercise room and game room are also offered.

The hotel is at 14707 Northville Road, south of Five Mile.

● Mayflower Hotel — The Mayflower offers a Greenfield Village package, including Saturday breakfast or Sunday brunch for $79.95 per couple for one night or $133 for two nights. Its one-night Love Boat package includes an in-room whirlpool for $85 a couple.

"There 150 shops nearby and there's all kinds of activities downtown, including street dances in Kellogg Park," said Scott Lorenz, whose family owns the hotel.

The Mayflower is at 827 W. Ann Arbor Trail in downtown Plymouth.

BIRMINGHAM

● Barclay Inn — A continental breakfast, coffee, tea and cookies served in the evening, and a morning newspaper, are included in the hotel's weekend package for $39 and $69, (double occupancy) depending on room location.

The hotel is on Hunter just south of Maple.

BLOOMFIELD HILLS

● Kingsley Inn — The hotel's Bed and Breakfast Club gives guests "a place to get away and not have to worry about things at home," said Garret Bagnik, reservations clerk.

A Friday, Saturday or Sunday night stay in the west wing of the hotel costs $64. Breakfast is another $5. Rooms in the main building are $59, or $64 with breakfast.

"You get a mix of people," Bagnik said. "A lot of people might stay in a hotel because they don't have air conditioning or a pool at home."

ROCHESTER

● Meadow Brook Hall — Gatsby Getaway takes guests back to the 1920s through a two-day combination of films, tours and receptions in the former Dodge family manor home.

The three-day visit costs between $150-$175 (depending on rooms available) and includes all meals, walking tours of the house and grounds, and refreshments. Guests arrive at 2 p.m. the first day and leave by 9:30 a.m. the third day.

Eleven Dodge family bedrooms are available on a first-come first-serve basis. Others stay in staff bedrooms in the house.

The weekday tours are offered primarily in January and February. A few getaways may be scheduled this fall and in spring 1988.

SOUTHFIELD

● The Michigan Inn — Out-of-towners like no-frills rooms. The locals enjoy being pampered.

The Michigan Inn has weekend specials for both.

"It all goes with the flow, of what's going on in the area. At one time our package included a trip to Greenfield Village. But in the past few years people started looking for low-cost rental rooms and didn't want any type of special package," said Beverly Floreno, reservations manager. "The people from the area who want to spend a night in a hotel want the package. They like to treat themselves, get away from home and lounge around the pool."

"They plan on spending time in the hotel and not leaving."

The hotel shaves $41 off the cost of a double or single occupancy room, adds champagne, a free beverage and breakfast or brunch and calls the offer "Elegant Encounter." The cost for the package on a Friday or Saturday is $85.

The hotel also includes an indoor-outdoor pool, sauna, exercise room, tennis courts and putting green.

The Michigan Inn is at 16400 J.L. Hudson Drive.

● Southfield Hilton — The hotel's Summer Leisure Plan, a $59 per night getaway, includes a continental breakfast and use of the hotel's outdoor pool, tennis courts and game room. A gift shop and two restaurants also are available.

Guests must stay Saturday night, but may extend the visit to Sunday or Friday night, to receive the budget rate.

● Berkshire Hotel — "Make a Memory" package appeals to locals, especially honeymooners, according to Russ Mecklenburg, reservations clerk.

The hotel doesn't have a swimming pool (a sauna will open this fall) but includes a continental breakfast and terry cloth robe in every room. Tea is served from 4-6 p.m., daily, adding a European flavor to the 109-room facility.

Weekend packages include a one-night stay and dinner for $79, two-night stay and one dinner for $129 and two-night stay with two dinners for $149.

The hotel is on Telegraph just north of Civic Center drive.

TROY

● Guest Quarters — "We get quite a few people who live close by coming for the weekend," said Kim Fillmore reservation clerk. "It's a nice place to stay because they aren't just basic rooms. They're suites."

Rooms include a living room with sofa bed, bedroom, bath, wet bar, two remote-control televisions and three telephones.

The hotel also includes a pool, sauna, whirlpool and weight room.

Through July, a Friday or Saturday night stay costs $69 and includes lodging in a suite, two-hour cocktail reception and a full breakfast.

After July add $20.

The hotel is on Crooks near Long Lake.

● Troy Hilton — Guests can get away for $69 a night on Fridays and Saturdays, and receive a complementary bottle of champagne, a $20 gift certificate for use in the hotel restaurant and use of the facility's pool and sauna.

"Summer 59," another weekend package, offers a continental breakfast for $59. Guests must stay a Saturday night to receive the bargain rate.

The hotel also offers pool parties on Friday and Saturday nights through the summer. Guests pay no cover charge.

The Mayflower Hotel at 827 Ann Arbor Trail in downtown Plymouth offers a Greenfield Village package, including Saturday breakfast or Sunday brunch for $79.95 per couple for one night or $133 for two nights.

Alaska would be nice. But you can't afford the trip.

How about getting away from it all by staying close to home?

"The feedback we've been getting is that various attractions in the travel business are having an excellent year. But that also indicates that people in this area are getting out and about around here more," said John Colling, communications manager for the Southeast Michigan Travel Association, Troy.

"You don't have to go too far to have a good time."

Many area hotels offer reduced rates for "getaway" weekends that include meals, refreshments and recreational facilities such as tennis courts and swimming pools. (For a list of area hotels offering getaway packages, see story elsewhere on this page.)

"We do sometimes keep them in the metro area, but generally people come in and ask what's going on in this (11 county) area," Colling explained.

City may go to court over encroachment

By Doug Funke
staff writer

Plymouth city officials may take the owners of the Westchester Square Shops annex to court unless they pay $3,500 and resurface part of a city-owned parking lot next to their annex.

A survey has determined that the 9,500-square-foot annex on Forest Street encroaches on city land by 3 1/4 feet at one end and six inches at the other, said Ken West, city engineer.

The encroachment wasn't discovered until the foundation was in place, West said.

The city's leverage is that Deborah and Dennis Pennington, Westchester Square owners, never obtained a certificate of occupancy before opening the annex, West said.

A judge could force vacation of the premises if the city were to force the issue.

"I would anticipate they're going to follow through forthwith," West said. "We want it taken care of as soon as possible."

West said he doesn't know who's responsible for the physical encroachment or how the annex, which houses several small, specialty shops, opened without an occupancy permit.

The encroachment of 166 square feet equals the size of one parking space. The city demanded $3,500 for each parking space less than the minimum required by local law.

Resurfacing of the parking lot was requested because contractors used city property to store equipment and supplies while building the annex, West said. The paving cost is estimated at $4,700.

The Penningtons Monday declined to comment on the city's requirements or why they allowed tenants into the annex without an occupancy permit.

They said they're still trying to determine how the encroachment occurred.

Two outdoor sign applications from tenants in the annex have been put on hold until the Penningtons obtain an occupancy permit, West said. The Westchester Square annex made news May 6 when a fire accidentally ignited during a soldering operation. Structural damage at the time was estimated at $75,000.

Construction costs of the annex were estimated by the Penningtons on permit applications at $300,000.

County considers sending delinquents out-of-state

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Wayne County could save money by shipping hardened juvenile offenders out-of-state, county commission chairman Arthur Carter said Tuesday.

The proposal adds a new twist to a long-running debate about youth crime.

Glen Mills Schools, a privately owned Pennsylvania correctional facility, has offered to take some of the county's juvenile criminals, he said.

Per day costs, Carter said, would be below those in the county's newly proposed youth camp.

GLEN MILLS Schools would charge $73.50 a day for the students, he said, compared with an estimated $93 per day for the proposed youth camp. Potential savings could reach $750,000 a year, Carter said.

The program wouldn't replace the proposed county youth home but provide a limited alternative.

"Their program is geared toward gang leaders, they don't want followers," said Commissioner Susan Heintz, R-Northville Township, who attended a presentation on the school Tuesday. "They stress discipline."

As many as 50 Wayne County youngsters could be accepted, Heintz said, though the state Department of Social Service would have to approve of the program.

FOUNDED IN 1826, the school abolished lock-ups a decade ago.

"The open system was developed to emphasize dignity and respect," according to a school brochure.

It handles youths arrested for arson and other crimes, as well as youths who display suicidal, psychotic or other forms of self-destructive behavior.

In addition to working toward a high school equivalency diploma, students can participate in vocational education, sports and guided social activities.

Details were revealed at a special meeting of the county commission's health and human services committee on Tuesday afternoon.

A spokesman for the county executive's office said he wasn't familiar with the program details.

"Other than the fact that it's in Pennsylvania, there's not much else we've heard about it," deputy county executive Michael Duggan said.

Carter and several other commissioners have sought to make youth crime a top county priority this year — especially after recommendations for stepped-up programs from the county's Youth at Risk Task Force.

The county executive's office, however, has opposed introducing new county programming until a settlement is reached on a $60 million health care debt sought by the state.

Glen Mills is open to males ages 14-18 who have been referred through juvenile court officers or social service agencies, according to school literature.

Current space at the county youth home is inadequate, Carter said.

County gets disposal site

Wayne County declared war on freeway trash in April, now, they have a place to put it.

Waste Management of North America, Inc., is donating space for 5,000 cubic yards of trash at its Woodland Meadows landfill, Canton Township.

The offer translates to $25,000 in free disposal, County Executive Edward McNamara said.

The county collects an estimated 35 cubic yards of freeway litter a day.

Excellence in school on tap

Minnesota Gov. Rudy Perpich will be featured at a forum on educational excellence at Oakland Community College's Orchard Ridge campus, Farmington Hills, on Tuesday, July 28 at 5:30 p.m.

Perpich, who has spearheaded efforts in Minnesota to provide more choice to parents and students within the public school system, will describe his program.

In each of the last two years, the Minnesota Legislature has written into law specific choice options for public school students and their parents.

Perpich's appearance is sponsored by the Metropolitan Affairs Corporation, a regional affairs coalition that published the report, "Dialogue for Change: Options for Restructuring K-12 Education." That report emphasized the role of greater choice in driving educational excellence.

Opening remarks will be made by Robert Larson, president of the Taubman Co., and Chuck Muer, president of the C.A. Muer Corp. and chairman of the Metropolitan Affairs Commission education committee.

The forum will be held in the Wallace Smith Theatre. The Orchard Ridge campus is at 1-696 and Orchard Lake Road.

Washington's army fights overwhelming odds

July 4, 1754: With drums beating, colors flying, Col. George Washington's defeated, little army marched out of the barricade Washington had called Fort Necessity.

July 3 from dawn to dusk the Virginians and a small contingent of Marylanders and South Carolinians had bravely fought on and on against overwhelming odds. There were probably at least 900 well-armed French assisted by a hundred or more Indians against fewer than 500 poorly equipped British. There were no Indians with Washington. At times the fire on both sides was nearly stopped by the incessant rain, which fell all day. Fort Necessity, poorly placed at the bottom of a hollow, was soon mired in muck.

Where were Chief Half King, Chief Monakatocha, Silverheels, and all the other Indians Washington had cultivated so assiduously? The truth is that when the chips were down, they ran away. Not one Indian at Necessity raised his bow, or fired a shot in defense of the British. Why?

HIS OLD "friend" Half King told Conrad Weiser, a prominent scout and trader, that Washington was good-natured but inexperienced, and treated the Indians as his "slaves." Half King added that too much time had been lost in building "that little thing upon the meadow." Privately, it was understood that Half King thought of the French as traitors and the British he called "fools." He added that the "thing" in the meadow could be raked from the hills on either side. And so it was. Some of the interior of the fort was visible from the surrounding hills at all times. The young man from Virginia showed poor judgment in this situation.

The Indians usually preferred to wait and see who would win and then make a show of fighting on the side of the victor. Probably they would have preferred to have the contestants knock each other out, and then the Indian would try to reclaim the territory that he had, for centuries, regarded as his homeland.

This philosophy is not unknown today. It is called pragmatic realism. This viewpoint led the Indian to fight a guerrilla war. He much preferred fighting from ambush. It was and

Tonquish tales

sometimes still is, expedient and safer. How long do you think the Afghans would last against the communists if they did not use American Indian tactics. The same can be said of the forces in Central America, in Africa and elsewhere. But we must return to the fort where we see a Frenchman bearing a white flag approaching the center barricade.

AT EIGHT o'clock on the evening of the third this tired looking Frenchman called: "Voulez-vous parler?"

"No," Washington said, "No parley." The 22-year-old colonel knew an advantage when he saw one and so he kept up his bluff. But the truth was that about a third of his men were dead or seriously wounded and unable to fight. Most of the horses had been stolen or killed and most of the cattle were slaughtered.

Their powder was damp — it had rained all day. Food was low. There were only two bags of flour and a little bacon to feed 300 men. Their muskets were fouled and there were only two screws in the entire force to remove the wet charges. Yet this courageous Washington had the intestinal fortitude to give a resounding "NO" to the invitation to parley.

At this time of the evening the two opposing forces could barely see each other through the heavy veil of mist and rain. And there were another kind of mist that clouded the scene for more than half of the participants. Douglas Freeman in his study of Washington states: "In some fashion, soon after dark, the soldiers got into the rum supply that had been forwarded for presents to the Indians and for issue to men on hard duty."

The wet and chilled soldiers, facing what most of them must have considered to be sure death, anesthetized themselves to the extent that at least half of them were drunk and most of the others were feeling no pain. At this stage they were, as Freeman states, "undependable." Washington must have been aware of this, but he made no comment about their condition.

WHY WOULD the the French, who clearly had the advantage, want a parley? Washington was suspicious of their motives and assumed that it was a trick of some sort.

Part of the answer may be found in the journal of their leader, the man from Michigan named Coulon deVilliers. (This Journal may be found in New York Colonial Documents, Vol. 10).

Villiers states his reasons as follows: "As we had been wet all day by the rain, as the soldiers were very tired, as the savages said that they would leave us the next morning, and as there was a report that drums and the firing of cannon had been heard in the distance, I proposed to M. Le Mercier to offer the English a conference." He adds that their ammunition was falling short, and he thought that the resolute enemy might suddenly attack him enmasse.

Eventually Washington, after two refusals, consented to parley. The terms were rather lenient. Jacob VanBraan, Washington's French translator, handled the negotiations.

From the language it was discerned that the French sought revenge for the death of one of their officers, Jumonville brother of Coulon, and were probably trying to get Washington to acknowledge that Jumonville's death was not an accident. There were six other stipulations in the articles of surrender including the following:

1.) Retire from the area with all their forces and never again seek to occupy territory west of the mountains. 2.) They could take all their belongings with them except munitions and artillery. 3.) They would receive the honors of war and be permitted to march out "with drum beating and one small cannon."

4.) As soon as Commander Washington signed this paper the British were to strike their colors. 5.) They were to leave at daybreak. 6.) They could put their possessions in a cache until they could send draft animals for them, and they could leave a guard. They must liberate the men taken when Jumonville was killed and the two captains were to be left as hostages until the French prisoners were liberated.

Washington nominated Van Braan and Capt. Robert Stobo. They were both young, unmarried and unattached, and perhaps for strategic reasons, the best candidates for the risk of the hostage position. Van Braan could make himself understood as he spoke French, and Stobo, with a keen love of adventure and a strong loyalty for the Virginians, might make an excellent double agent. And so he was.

This brings us to where we left off last July 2 when this column introduced Captian Stobo and his pipe of Madeira. His incredible adventures with the French deserve a chapter or two of their own, so we will leave Stobo until next time.

Bill targets AIDS-infected blood donors

By Wayne Peal
Staff writer

Anyone who knowingly sells or donates AIDS-tainted blood should face criminal charges, a local lawmaker said.

Rep. Lyn Banks, R-Livonia, said she'll introduce legislation this fall to make willful donation of AIDS-tainted blood a felony.

"This is a life-saving measure," Banks said. "Society has a right to protect itself."

Banks, whose is serving her second term in the House of Representatives, cited the example of a former Grand Rapids resident who was charged with attempted murder this month after knowingly selling his AIDS-infected blood to a Los Angeles plasma center.

Speed limit veto blasted

Because Michigan lawmakers refused to outlaw radar detectors, Gov. James Blanchard became the first governor to veto a bill increasing the speed limit on rural interstate highways on July 1.

Thirty-five other states have already raised their speed limits to 65 miles per hour.

"After the legislature finally rejected a radar detector ban, we find it hard to believe that Gov. Blanchard would be compelled to derail this legislation because of an unrelated issue," said Janice Lee, president of the Radio Association Defending Airwave Rights (RADAR).

RADAR is an advocacy group for radar detector owners and the businesses that make and sell the devices.

In vetoing the bill, Blanchard wrote in his veto message that it did not contain "adequate safety measures. As I have said on many occasions, the use of radar detectors is dangerous and harms our efforts both on and off the highways to protect citizens."

Blanchard said he is optimistic the legislature will send him speed limit legislation containing radar detector restrictions and stricter penalties for speeders.

"I still believe we can work that out. And I believe we can do it by the fall," he said.

Meanwhile, RADAR is urging lawmakers to override the governor's veto.

They wanted to prosecute but they found they didn't have anything on the books," Banks said. Despite the lack of a specific law, the 29-year-old donor was charged with attempted murder.

The California Legislature is debating a law calling for jail sentences of up to six years for offenders.

BANKES SAID she considered drafting legislation earlier this year, even before the California case developed.

"I don't care what your personal belief about AIDS is, we can't afford to encourage this kind of behavior," Banks said.

Red Cross officials, however, fear the law will discourage all blood donations.

"I don't think it's necessary," said Dr. A.W. Shafer, director of Red Cross blood services for southeastern Michigan. "It has the potential for creating a lot of mischief."

Wellness Networks, Inc., the organization that runs the statewide AIDS hotline discourages people in at-risk groups from donating blood.

executive director Scott Walton said. "We spend a lot of effort telling people in at-risk groups not to donate blood, organs or sperm," Walton said. "Education is far more important than legislation," he said. "Up front education about the real risk and danger from AIDS is needed."

Screening methods introduced in the four years since AIDS was first identified have substantially reduced the risk of infection from blood transfusions, Shafer said.

AIDS-related contamination was discovered in 106 of more than 500,000 area blood donations since screening began, Shafer said. All contaminated samples were destroyed.

"I would say that is a very, very small percentage," he said.

UNDER RED Cross policy, brochures describing groups facing high AIDS risks are given to potential donors. Donors are then asked several questions by Red Cross staff members to determine whether they are in an at-risk group. If so, they're discouraged from donating, Shafer said.

As a final precaution, donors are asked to authorize transfusion of their blood by having a confidential bar code sticker attached to their donor record card. Donors are also given a piece of paper containing a Red Cross telephone number to take home.

That way they can think it over and call us back if they feel there will be any problem," he said.

All blood donations are tested for presence of AIDS related antibodies, Shafer said. If the antibodies appear to be present, the sample is tested twice more.

"We'll destroy it if the antibodies come up in either test," he said. Despite testing, Shafer said there was a small possibility a contaminated sample might be transfused if antibodies take much longer than expected to materialize.

"There's always a risk," he said. "But it's not very likely."

Donating blood, he added, poses no risk.

"I know there are people out there who think you can contract AIDS by donating blood, but it's just not true," Shafer said.

On-stage presentations and roving entertainers will appear throughout the day.

Box lunches will be provided by the Michigan Office of Services to the Aging, the Detroit Area Agency on Aging and the Seniors Alliance.

The picnic is free to all seniors living in the county. Advance registration is required. Tickets are available at nutrition centers throughout the county. Seniors can call 467-3450 for ticket information.

The picnic begins at 11 a.m. and runs through 3:30 p.m.

County readies for papal visit

Wayne County is purchasing a $30,000 mobile home and a $26,680 radio communication system in preparation for the September visit of Pope John Paul II.

The mobile home will be converted into a mobile communications center, county officials said, and will be used during the pope's visit as well as future visits from other dignitaries.

It could also be used in hostage situations, such as that which led to the slaying of three Inkster police officers, county officials said.

The mobile home will be purchased from Peterson & Son Inc., Lapeer. The radio system will be purchased from Global Wulfsberg Systems, Irvine, Calif.

One group interested in the purchase is the Michigan chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union, which has filed Freedom of Information requests seeking to learn how much public money is being committed to the pope's visit.

Howard Simon, ACLU executive director, said his organization doesn't oppose use of public funds for security and traffic control. But he said public money shouldn't be used to build altars, flowers or other decorations.

"The ACLU is not opposed to the pope's visit," Simon said. "But the issue here is how do we celebrate it?"

The pope arrives in Detroit on the evening of Sept. 18 and leaves the following evening. During his time in southeast Michigan, the pontiff is to deliver a speech in Polish and English in Hamtramck, an address on social justice in Detroit's downtown Hart Plaza and celebrate Mass at the Pontiac Silverdome.

The FOI requests have gone to several departments in the city of Detroit, the Wayne County Sheriff's Office and the Detroit and Hamtramck boards of education.

Brenda Marshall of the Detroit Archdiocese's Papal Visit Office said the church doesn't plan to use public money for anything other than security.

"The architects who designed the altars donated their services and some of the building materials have been donated," she said. "And there will be a special collection in the parishes in the fall to help us pay the costs."

"We're also looking at donations from companies who have offered to contribute."

Pets of the week

Ginger, a 4-year-old mixed breed German shepherd, and Tasha, a 4-year-old domestic shorthair cat, need homes. Ginger (Control No. 187834) has been spayed, is housebroken and good with other animals but not children. She was put up for adoption after her owner died. Tasha (Control No. 187810) is good with children but not other animals. She was placed for adoption because her owner is moving. To adopt these pets or others or to check for lost pets, call the Westland Kindness Center of the Michigan Humane Society 721-7300. The center is at 37255 Marquette, Westland.

Libertarians aim to win spot on November ballot

A Libertarian Party spokeswoman has charged the state Legislature with "playing games" with petition signature requirements to keep the party off the ballot in November.

"They seem to change the requirement for every election," said Virginia Cropsey, an attorney and active Libertarian.

Sixteen thousand valid petition signatures are required for ballot access in Michigan, but the party is "shooting for around 21,000 signatures," Cropsey said.

The party has until Oct. 15 to collect the signatures.

"A bill passed the House and is now in the Senate to increase the signature requirement," Cropsey said. "We're going to sweat it out before the (Legislature) is back in session. We have limited resources."

MEMBERSHIP IN the third largest political party in the country is pegged at a scant 200 in Michigan, according to Emily Saldette, secretary of the Libertarian Party of Michigan.

"But the petition drive is generating a lot of interest in the party itself," Saldette said. "Our petitioners get about 20 requests per week for more information about the party."

Libertarians advocate a non-interventionist foreign policy, a laissez-faire economic system, and decriminalization of all consensual behavior, or victimless crimes.

THE PETITION drive began

April 15. The Libertarians hope to reach their goal before the national convention in Seattle the first week of September.

Judy Shultz, Oakland County ballot drive coordinator, organized metro Detroit area petition efforts over the Fourth of July holiday weekend, including a picnic for tri-county petitioners at her Rochester home.

The party's annual picnic was held Sunday, July 12, at Independence Park in Oakland County.

"We've been collecting steadily for two months," Saldette said. "We have about 4,640 signatures. The national party is committed to getting Michigan on the ballot. They've offered financial backing."

"Michigan is considered only a moderately difficult state."

The games celebrate the area's Scottish heritage.

Rotary battles Third World polio deaths

BY THE END of this day 750 children in the world will contract polio and another 75 will die from this highly contagious viral disease.

Tomorrow another 75 children will die and another 750 will be stricken.

One by one, day by day, children die. By the end of the year almost 30,000 children worldwide will die of polio and another 275,000 youngsters will be added to those who have the crippling disease.

In America this devastating disease is all but forgotten as polio vaccine has all but wiped out polio amongst our young. But in the Third World polio continues to afflict tens of thousands of children year after year.

The deaths reach tragic proportions when you realize that a few drops of vaccine can protect a child against polio for life. And the cost of that life-saving protection is only 12 cents a child.

BECAUSE OF THE senseless tragedy of such large numbers of children dying and being crippled each year needlessly, Rotary International has taken on a far-reaching project called 2000 PolioPlus.

The goal is to immunize all children worldwide against polio by the year 2000. The program already has started in some countries through the assistance of UNICEF and the World Health Organization. Once all children are immunized, polio will virtually be eliminated.

In 1974 the World Health Organization began an Expanded Program on Immunization with the goal of worldwide child immunization by 1990. It is this effort into which Rotary is integrating its resources.

PolioPlus will provide polio vaccines necessary for five years to any approved national or regional immunization program. Rotarians also will perform important volunteer activities including planning and evaluation, social mobilization and immunization.

The "Plus" portion of the campaign's name comes in because the effort involves not just polio but providing immunizations against five other vaccine-preventable diseases: measles, diphtheria, tuberculosis, whooping cough and tetanus.

TO MAKE this commitment possible, Rotary International has launched a campaign to raise a minimum of $120 million from Rotarians and friends of Rotary.

As a service club, Rotary's involvement is important because it has more than 1.2 million members in some 22,000 clubs in 160 different countries. This international reach makes such an effort possible. But 2000 PolioPlus is not solely a Rotary project — the goal will be reached with the involvement of many groups, agencies and individuals.

In this area, the Canton and Plymouth Rotary clubs are becoming involved in PolioPlus and within the next year will be spreading the word in the community about what should and can be done.

At the Plymouth Fall Festival, for instance, an information booth will be open each day so residents can pick up literature on PolioPlus and learn about the role of the Plymouth Rotary Foundation in this effort. Later in the fall a communitywide auction will be held as a fund-raiser.

More activities will be announced by both clubs in the next couple of years. All money raised here will go to Rotary International for its joint effort with the World Health Organization.

As stated earlier, that program already has started. Through PolioPlus Mexico conducted two national days of immunization in 1985 and 11 million of Mexico's 12.5 million children received polio vaccine. In Paraguay a PolioPlus grant of $206,500 went to immunize 702,000 children in September and November 1985. PolioPlus provided $2.11 million to immunize 15 million Turkish children over the next five years. By October 1985 more than 80 percent of Turkish children had been immunized.

One by one, polio is being eliminated in parts of the world. One by one, children are being protected against polio. One by one, polio will be eliminated and five other childhood diseases brought under control.

One by one, we can help.

'Michigan' flag restored for 150th

WHAT DID the American flag look like once Michigan was admitted into the Union 150 years ago? That was something which, I confess, I had never wondered about until this year.

Sure, I knew that ours was the 26th state, doubling the original 13 that won independence from Great Britain. But it's all I can do to remember how the 50 stars are arranged on the blue field of today's flag, let alone figure out how 26 stars were arranged back in 1837.

THE ANSWER is that the stars were arranged in one "great star," as flag experts phrase it.

There were five small stars in each point in a 1-2-2 pattern, and one in the middle. It was America's official flag from 1837 until Florida signed up in 1845.

You can see a replica in every county building of the state. All 148 state legislators and all 20 members of the congressional delegation have one apiece, thanks to Michigan Bell. (Thank me, too — Ma Bell socked me $2.50 one day for a call from Livonia to Detroit.)

In Oakland County, you can call Virginia DeBenham Rogers at 858-0415 or 858-0730 if you'd like to arrange to use the replica at your civic function. As cultural affairs director, she's the lady to see about sesquicentennial stuff.

THE ONLY known original 26-star flag was discovered 20 years ago in the Florida State Museum. It was believed to be the gift of a Maine woman.

Florida graciously donated it to Michigan State University.

It's a biggie — 12 by 14 feet. The proportions are wrong because the right one-third was so ragged from wear that it was cut off.

Val Berryman, MSU Museum curator, said the flag's history is shrouded in mystery. Because of its size, it probably flew over a state capitol building or military installation.

Tim Richard

But it never flew over Michigan, Berryman believes.

BELL COUGHED up $10,000 of what used to be partly my money for restoration of the 26-star flag. The money was channeled through the YES 150 Foundation, fund-raising arm of the Michigan Sesquicentennial Commission.

Actually, said Berryman, the 150-year-old flag was in remarkably good condition because it was made of loosely woven wool, and the stars are of linen.

It didn't crumble like silk flags. Many Civil War flags are in much worse condition.

The MSU folks removed some crude earlier repairs and added a muslin backing to the larger stars to provide support and prevent further damage.

The original is on display in the rotunda of the State Capitol Building in Lansing. Looks pretty good.

GEN. GEORGE Washington once explained the colors and symbolism in the U.S. flag:

"We take the star from Heaven, the red from our mother country, separating by white stripes, thus showing that we have separated from her, and the white stripes shall go down to posterity representing liberty."

CHICKEN

"YES, THE POPE SHOW AS YOU CALL IT WILL BE IN THE DETROIT AREA ON SEPTEMBER 19TH. NO, YOUNG MAN, TWISTED SISTER WILL NOT BE WARMING UP THE AUDIENCE!!!"

Athletics can be agony

NOTHING EXISTS in this column of any social significance.

Some folks think this column is only full of heavy-duty social commentary.

At times some space for confessions of little importance must be provided. Well, actually I've little choice. In the last few months I've been uncovered, literally, in my attempts to be a power athlete.

Many of us have experienced this ridiculous penchant. You know the one, about being super amateur athletes.

What has developed is a generation, maybe even two or three, of marathon runners, walkers, swimmers, bikers, body builders and triathletes. Well, the list is endless. But you get the drift.

I was bitten about six or seven years ago during one of my bouts with cigarettes and weight — too much of both, of course.

Swimming seemed just the right approach. I loved to swim as a kid. So why not as an adult? For years now I've spent hours, countless, tedious hours stroking, gasping, spitting and swallowing.

ONE TIME I even swam across an eight-mile-long lake. At the time, I talked like it was some sacred experience. Meeting with my karma and all that nonsense. Actually, it was one of the most pathetic attempts at long-distance swimming — ever.

I've run, yes, I've run. Lord, how I hate running. Loins aching, feet throbbing, sweat dripping.

A silly impulse once led me to believe that I could "easily" compete in a 10-kilometer race. For the uninitiated, that's a tad over six miles.

Well, let's put it this way. I found out why Hills is in the name Bloomfield Hills. I also came in dead last. Believe me, it was not a religious experience.

Sounds familiar, doesn't it? Sure I see all of you out there hobbling up and down subdivision streets, entering 10-kilometer races despite multiple stress fractures, jumping in those cold pool waters early in the morning, falling off bicycles onto hardened asphalt.

THIS ISN'T a country striving for better health, this is a nation of suicidal maniacs.

The cruelest cut of all came at the recent corporate challenge cup competition in Livonia. Smugly I watched the runners. Wait till the swimming, I thought, these guys won't have a chance against this finely tuned body.

Crouched in my best diving posture, I leaped into the water and careened through the pool. Suddenly, I realized my trunks were wrapped around my knees. Instinctively, I stopped to pull them up. Then I started laughing, hysterically; then our team lost.

So much for super swimmer.

And a word for those of you who had respectable scores at the recent Livonia Chamber of Commerce Golf tourney at Western Country Club in Redford Township. Remember, respectable will never get you a first place.

But a 154 will almost always win you the last-place prize. Believe it.

An old story

Racism is all too familiar theme

RACISM SHOULD be as ridiculous a concept as the idea that the world is flat. The same incredulous textbook chapter that tells of people fearing the edge of the earth should also contain a few paragraphs about the unenlightened time when people were judged by the color of their skin.

That's the way it should be. But it isn't.

A woman from Detroit said she and her fiancé wanted to buy a home in Birmingham or Bloomfield Hills. But, she claims, her real estate agent steered her only to homes in Southfield and Lathrup Village. The prospective home buyer is black.

That not insignificant factor is the reason she feels she was steered away from the predominantly white Birmingham and Bloomfield communities.

The real estate firm said differently. It said the home buyer wanted more house than her money could buy in the Birmingham school district, which was her target area. They say their agent has a strong record of selling homes in the Birmingham and Bloomfield areas to minorities. A federal court will hear the case.

The suit is important to the parties, of course. Regardless of its merits, it is most significant because it could be filed in the first place. No one would seriously consider a complaint that someone was denied housing because he was a Rotarian, sold shoes, or had blue eyes. But a complaint that alleges racism is believable because, sadly, it is far from unprecedented.

ALMOST LOST in this woman's complaint is the irony of her belief that she was being steered to Lathrup Village. This is a settlement that within easy memory boasted that it was a "restricted" community. Signs leading into town made it clear that Lathrup did not want blacks or Jews to become residents. This same community is now described in federal court as a place where minorities are dumped. It's not a fair statement, but some people nonetheless must be churning in their graves.

The burden of bigotry is not light. In Southfield, some members of the police department worry that exams are being weighted in favor of minorities. The department has only two blacks — one of those is fighting a discharge — and the city has been actively recruiting women and minorities.

The news staffs at this paper have discussed whether a person's race should be included in the description of criminal suspects at large. Some feel that mentioning skin color is as essential as hair color, age and height. Others feel that the description is too vague to be of use and can encourage racial stereotyping.

Oddly enough, I've spoken before community groups who sincerely felt that the skin color of suspects were listed in stories when, in fact, they were not. A police officer in a Wayne County community told an editor that we might as well print the race; if we didn't, he said, most readers would assume the culprit was black.

That's a harsh statement, and I'm not saying that it's true. I'm not saying it is false, either. But it would be a lot easier to discount such stories if there was no such thing as housing discrimination suits. Or if the only way to learn about racism was to read ancient history books.

Rebel yacht club took sails out of pomposity

JUST AS FLEECY clouds floating against a summer sky sometimes seem to form identifiable shapes, so did wisps of fog rising recently from Grand Traverse Bay momentarily offer the ghost-like image of a vessel heading for port.

Doggone, thought I, 'tis the good ship "Z," its compass awry, seeking a safe harbor as flagship of the Tonquish Creek Yacht Club. When I next saw Steve Redfern, fourth and final commodore of that fun-loving club, I couldn't help but relate the experience and it led us down the path of gleeful reminiscence.

If you were around these parts in the early '70s, you may remember that, as Bob Talbert wrote in his Detroit Free Press column, "the make-believe yacht club gained unbelievable publicity and mail from all over the world . . . requests for membership poured in, along with a lot of other strange things since it is the name of the sewer that runs under Plymouth."

through bifocals
Fred Delaney

THE TCYC was a beauty of a "put-on." If there was a serious side, it was to deflate pomposity and gnaw at the roots of bigotry and hypocrisy by generating a laugh in the face of all those who are too self-righteous and who suffer from a self-inflated ego.

Prime instigators were two Roberts, Delaney the lawyer and Dwyer the politician, non-conformists, who were inspired by the fact that Delaney owned a 14-year-old scow anchored on the Detroit River.

Dwyer, who is a sales representative for a Lansing printing firm, recalls that for no particular reason they named it the "Z" for Zolton Ferency. Delaney died last November and can't be reached for confirmation. Anyway, because he owned something that sailed, Delaney automatically became the initial commodore. No other member was allowed to have a boat.

After a year, Dwyer — then 2nd District Democratic chairman — succeeded his buddy as top dog, the commodore's rank then passing to Les Howes, who has moved to Arizona, and finally to Redfern, now manager of marketing and sales promotion in the Intergroup Division of D'Arcy, Masius, Benton & Bowles in Bloomfield Hills.

AT ITS PEAK, this one-ship entity had more than 1,000 female and male members and each Commodore's Ball was a roaring success, sometimes with an unusual decor. On one occasion the feature was a large block of ice with an artistic arrangement of wires, springs, beer cans and fish frozen inside. Dress was usually semi-sewer formal.

If you know the writings of O. Henry, then you know that this genius of the pen had what William Lyon Phelps once called "a fear and hatred of conventionality." That's why Redfern and I chuckled that O. Henry, whose real name was William Sydney Porter, might have fallen in love with the TCYC just because it became common practice to hold the New Year's Eve party in March.

The idea of this thing was born, appropriately, in a section of Plymouth's Mayflower Hotel called the First Landing over several servings of grog. Delaney filed the necessary papers in Lansing to see to it that the club was legally chartered by the state of Michigan.

Steve, whose first designation was as cabin boy and treasurer, still proudly carries membership card No. 10. Somewhere over the years I lost No. 21.

The moment of whimsy that spawned the original idea also produced the grandiose plan of seeking a multimillion-dollar federal grant to dredge out the Rouge River at its Tonquish tributary to connect southeastern Michigan's inland areas with the St. Lawrence Seaway, thus linking us directly with worldwide ocean traffic.

IT WAS TAKEN so seriously that one protesting citizen complained the proposed canal would interrupt street traffic, but the quick-thinking Delaney immediately promised her aqueducts that would permit the boats to go over the cars.

As you can see, we didn't get the money. In due time the frivolity ran its course and now memories of the laughs also include this closing line from a poem learned long ago: "And for years and years fond hearts have been waiting for the ship that never returned."

Salemite offers answer for cruise

To the editor:

Well, Plymouth always has been known for rolling up the sidewalks but now Main Street? I am a 37-year-old Salem Township resident who was appalled to see downtown Plymouth all cordoned off by adults due to the pressure from kids on weekends.

Most of these kids just want to "cruise" and be with their friends. I am sure there are a few bad apples who've now spoiled a fun time for all. They won't go away, even as adults.

If these kids really want to apply some pressure, boycott the Plymouth area for about three weeks. Then return for one week spending only silver dollars obtained from a bank.

I would be curious to see if the financial impact is enough to warrant barricades and uniformed manpower. Somehow money surely plays a role.

Too bad some adults lose their memories but gain a weakness for letting the youth call the shots. Why should the youth be responsible for themselves and their peers in the real world, when they can pressure the adults to do it for them?

Oh well, once the youth have to spend their silver dollars on taxes, they will probably lose their memories, too.

Diane Dunlap,

Education's role is not only K-12

To the editor:

I would like to commend you on your very informative and positive editorial on adult and community education. Few outside the field of education seem to grasp the vital and important role of this area of education.

You clearly proved with facts that this area of education has played a vital role in combatting illiteracy, in developing linkages with business and industry, in designing job training programs, in retraining of workers, in providing adult high school completion and even in offering "fun and frills" classes that promote better use of leisure time.

Your understanding that improving the lives of adults improves the lives of children is on target, and so is your vision that education should provide everyone, regardless of age, with an opportunity to continue to grow in many directions: academic, personal, job-related and enrichment.

Learning does not begin at age five when children enter school and it does not end when they leave our K-12 system. Lifelong learning is no longer a choice; it is a necessity. It can even be a pleasure. We must prepare our citizenry with necessary new skills and continue to enhance the quality of our lives through constructive leisure pursuits. Adult and community education can and does provide programs and services to meet these needs, plus anything else the community and its residents need and want.

Your vision of education, which includes adult and community education as an important entity, is the vision of the future.

Reader sad city is overbuilding

To the editor:

Having just come from a Planning Commission meeting in which I spoke out in frustrated anger and left with frustrated emotions, I am now left with a sinking feeling for the city of Plymouth. I feel anxious over the imminent demise of this beautiful city as we once knew it.

We are collectively watching a city lose the personality and character we all once took so much pride in and also took for granted. We were unique, close in yet remote, quaint but paradoxically progressive.

We like to snicker at Canton for its lack of trees, its stockade fences, its lack of character and unification. Novi seems that way too. Northville is cute, but my how that race track must bring in some undesirables plus look how much they have to do for the State. We felt that we stood above the league of the Livonias, Farmington Hills, and Redfords. We would never make the mistakes that Birmingham did. Non-residents could feel our pride. We had that degree of integrity that the Franklins and Saugatucks of Michigan have. We would never compromise our charm in pursuit of the almighty dollar.

I can't crusade; I can only look on in sadness as we build to the sidewalks and railroad tracks. We can't seem to build fast enough or fill in enough vacant areas to house transient inhabitants in apartment buildings that often times resemble the projects of World War II.

In closing a word of warning, be sure to check how that vacant lot is zoned near you or that house a couple of doors down. It does have historical merit; but it hasn't been painted lately, let's talk about it, and then it can succumb to the wreckers ball.

Also, to those of you out-of-towners who do not empathize and have money to invest, there is a nice piece of property across from the Penn Theater. I'm not sure how it is zoned; it's a park now but I'm sure the city can find a way to facilitate your needs.

Skies aren't so friendly for smokers

HOUSE

SMOKING BAN — By a vote of 198 for and 193 against, the House amended the fiscal 1988 Department of Transportation appropriations bill to ban smoking on airline flights of two hours or less. The bill (HR 2890) was sent to the Senate.

Sponsor Richard Durbin, D-Ill., said smoking poses a health hazard "to the non-smoker who must sit in the company of someone smoking."

Opponent Harold Rogers, R-Ky., said a ban would jeopardize flight safety by forcing some passengers to smoke surreptitiously in airplane bathrooms.

Members voting yes wanted to ban smoking on flights of up to two hours.

Voting yes: Carl Persell, R-Plymouth, Dennis Hertel, D-Harper Woods, Sander Levin, D-Southfield, William Broomfield, R-Birmingham. Voting no: William Ford, D-Taylor.

SPENDING CUT — The House voted 218 for and 166 against to cut most spending categories of the fiscal 1988 Department of Transportation appropriations bill by 2 percent, lowering its price tag to about $11 billion.

Supporter Bill Frenzel, R-Minn., said "if this House cannot even vote for a 2-percent cut... we have flown the white flag and are unworthy of the job that our constituents entrusted to us."

Opponent Norman Mineta, D-Calif., said the cut would imperil airline safety by reducing Federal Aviation Agency spending by $90 million during the fiscal year.

Roll Call Report

Members voting yes supported the spending cut.

Voting yes: Persell, Broomfield. Voting no: Hertel, Ford, Levin.

HIGHWAY PROJECTS — By a vote of 177 for and 217 against, the House rejected an amendment to delete $20.4 million in appropriations for five highway demonstration projects in four states.

The appropriations had not been fully authorized, critics said.

The disputed spending would benefit California Rt. 113 near Davis, the Blount Island Bridge in Jacksonville, Fla., U.S. Highway 101 near Monterey, Calif., mountain roads between Paintsville and Prestonburg, Ky., and the Queens River Bridge on Washington's Olympic Peninsula.

Amendment sponsor Alex McMillan, R-N.C., said questionable new spending should be halted in deference to the national debt.

Opponent William Lehman, D-Fla., said Appropriations Committee members "are not feathering our nests with these highway demonstration projects."

Members voting yes opposed the $20.4 million outlay.

SENATE

PERSIAN GULF POLICY — The

Senate failed, on a vote of 53 for and 40 against, to achieve the two-thirds majority needed to break a filibuster in behalf of President Reagan's plan to protect Kuwaiti oil tankers in the Persian Gulf.

By sustaining their filibuster, administration supporters blocked likely approval of a measure urging Reagan to delay putting the tankers under protection of the American flag and U.S. warships.

Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., said a majority of the Senate sees the policy as "one more dangerous step toward conflict with Iran."

Robert Dole, R-Kan., said "to undo (the operation) or delay it would further erode our credibility in that part of the world."

Voting yes: Carl Levin, Donald Riegle.

WINDFALL PROFITS REPEAL — The Senate voted 58 for and 40 against to include repeal of the windfall profits tax in pending trade reform legislation. The 1,000-page bill (SB 1420) remained in debate.

The tax is triggered when domestic crude prices reach $19 per barrel or higher. It took effect in 1980 to recapture a portion of high oil company profits resulting from federal deregulation of domestic oil prices. It generated $78 billion for the treasury between 1980-85.

Supporter Alan Simpson, R-Wyo., called the tax "a cruel disincentive to investment in oil production."

Repeal opponent Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, complained that "time and time again, the Congress... has rolled over and played dead for the oil industry."

Senators voting yes wanted to repeal the windfall profits tax in advance of its scheduled 1991 demise. Voting no: Levin, Riegle.

Wayne State courses target working men, women

The Wayne State University Labor School is taking registrations through Sept. 14 for its two-year educational program designed for working men and women.

The school, sponsored by the WSU Labor Studies Center, is a non-credit program, but graduates who wish to pursue a college career are automatically admitted to Wayne State without entrance requirements, exams or grades.

Tuition for the WSU Labor School is $100 per year and the program is approved for reimbursement by many company paid tuition plans. Scholarships are also available.

Among the courses included in the curriculum are effective reading and writing skills, labor history, new technology, sociology and economics. The school also focuses on issues and problems workers face in a changing work environment. Communication techniques and analytical skills are taught to students who wish to develop their leadership potential.

"WE ARE looking at a larger number of worker-students entering this unique educational experience," said Geraldine Hill, coordinator for the school.

"More and more workers are learning to critically evaluate how the system impacts upon them at the workplace and in their everyday lives," she said.

More than 2,000 worker-students from over 60 international union and labor organizations have graduated during the 21-year history of the labor school.

"This is a definite plus for the school because after working all day, these worker-students make a special sacrifice to come to class to get a better understanding of society as a whole and labor's contributions," Hill said.

"MANY OF our graduates have gone on to receive advanced degrees at Wayne State and other institutions."

The labor school became part of the WSU College of Urban, Labor and Metropolitan Affairs in 1986. The school was originally a part of the WSU Institute of Labor and Industrial Relations.

First-year students must attend a half-day orientation session Sept. 19 in the General Lectures Building on the WSU campus.

To accommodate all students, the labor school offers morning and evening classes on the Wayne State and University of Michigan-Dearborn campuses and at Local 735 in Canton.

For more information, call Geraldine Hill at 577-2191.

Many of our ARM loan customers have saved a lot of money in mortgage interest costs over the past few years. And, at present interest rates, borrowers are finding our ARM loans to be an even better bargain. The first-year interest rate on our 15-year ARM is now only 7.25% compared to much higher rates on fixed-rate loans. What's more, with the 2% annual and 6% lifetime interest rate caps that we have placed on our ARM loans, you'll pay less interest and have greater principal reduction over at least the first four years of your loan.

The lower initial interest rates on our ARM loans result in lower initial monthly payments. And, the lower monthly payments mean that it will be easier for you to qualify for the loan that you need to buy or refinance your home.

So, come to any Standard Federal branch office and learn more about our ARM loans. We'll help you find the loan that is just right for you.

*All annual percentage rates are calculated based on a 2% loan discount fee, a loan amount of $50,000.00, a 20% down payment, and monthly principal and interest payments of $450.43 for the 15-year loan and $349.61 for the 30-year loan. These estimated annual percentage rates are subject to increase or decrease on an annual basis after the loan is closed based on the formula set forth in the loan contract.

Denial is a common reaction among participants in the Plymouth Family Service program, according to staff members Jon Linden (left), Judith Darlington and David Breeden.

"All of these people are in some degree of denial," said David Breeden, Plymouth Family Service director.

Denial: It's the first obstacle to overcome

By Julie Brown
staff writer

Denial is something Jon Linden and Judith Darlington know a great deal about.

Linden and Darlington are substance abuse specialists with Plymouth Family Service. They're working with people in the agency's Phase II program, designed for second- and third-time drunken driving offenders.

"You can't really treat the person without first breaking through the denial system," Linden said.

The program includes educational films and other materials used to make offenders more aware of the disease process of alcoholism.

"All of these people are in some degree of denial," said David Breeden, Plymouth Family Service director.

The 10-week program began in mid-May. Participants meet once a week for 1½ hours.

THE PHASE II program is for men and women; 11 people finished the program, with the final session held last week.

"That's basically our limit," Darlington said of the 11 men and women.

A second Phase II group started meeting Thursdays earlier this month; that group will also meet for 10 weeks.

Initial screening for the program is done by the 35th District Court, which serves the Plymouth/Canton/Northville area. Probation officers there may make a referral to the Plymouth Family Service program.

Not all of those referred to the program end up participating, Breeden said. Following an evaluation, some offenders are referred to other sources of help, such as an inpatient program or a more intensive outpatient program.

For some offenders, the degree of denial is so great "that they would be disruptive," Breeden said.

For a number of years, Plymouth Family Service has offered an educational series for substance abusers. That six-week program meets for two hours a week and includes an exit interview.

The Phase II program is designed primarily for second- and third-time offenders.

"We've decided to expand our services and offer something for the second and third offenders," Darlington said.

SOME OF those coming into the program were resentful at the program's beginning, Linden said. Over time, however, they've become less so.

Linden, Darlington and Breeden don't think the Phase II program would raise the wrath of such groups as Mothers Against Drunk Driving and others advocating "get-tough" measures.

"I don't believe the intent of those groups is jail, really," Linden said.

Programs such as Phase II are a "useful tool that now is at the disposal of the court," Breeden said.

Phase II sessions are held at the Plymouth Family Service office. At the program's conclusion, each participant goes through an individual interview.

None of them were thrilled with the idea of attending the sessions.

Canton residents Jeff, 27, Pat, 38, and Patty, 35, are among those who participated in the Phase II program at Plymouth Family Service. The 10-week program, primarily for second- and third-time drunken driving offenders, ended with last week's session. A second group began meeting earlier this month.

"I thought it was going to be horrible," Patty said of the program. "I was almost in tears the first time I had to come here. Just scared, didn't know anything about what they were going to do."

Pat's feelings were similar: "Just 10 weeks of my time at $20 a visit."

Jeff didn't care for the idea of sitting in a room full of strangers and discussing his situation.

"To me, it didn't seem right." After going through the 10-week program and "maybe even making a few friends along the way," he feels differently.

"It was nothing like I thought it would be. Pure hell, I guess. Nobody likes being made to go somewhere on your own time."

JEFF WAS ordered by the court to choose a program or one would be chosen for him. He chose the Plymouth Family Service program, in part because it's close to home.

At the program's start, people were reluctant to talk about their problems. By the second or third weekly session, "people start to loosen up a little bit," Jeff said.

Patty also was feeling better by the second or third session. It took Pat a bit longer, not until the fourth session or so.

Patty had restricted use of her driver's license, allowing her to drive to Phase II meetings and to a few other places. Jeff's driver's license had been reinstated by the time the program started in mid-

The program includes educational materials designed to make participants more aware of the disease process of alcoholism, Jon Linden said.

Making a few friends along the way

'After they put the facts in front of you, you just can't deny it to yourself any more.'

May; he's been able to drive to the sessions.

Pat, however, had to be dropped off at the meetings, held at the Plymouth Family Service office on Wing in Plymouth.

"I have to let my daughter drive my car. She's loving it and I'm hating it."

The three — who are currently working at various jobs — were glad to finish up with the Phase II program last week. Pat plans to continue with Alcoholics Anonymous sessions.

"I'm going at least three times a week," Jeff will also go to AA meetings.

"I'll keep going. Probation's going to force me to continue to go for awhile."

PATTY'S HOPING to keep from drinking in the future.

"I'm going to abstain. Definitely try." She found the Phase II program to be beneficial.

"After they put the facts in front of you, you just can't deny it to yourself any more."

Jeff agreed with that assessment.

"It's a real education. The facts are presented. There's no lie, and it's not about it."

For Jeff, paying for each Phase II session he attended made a difference.

"Sure, it makes a difference, especially at $20 a session. That's another 200 bucks you can add to your ticket."

Both Pat and Patty have performed community service work, such as washing police cars and picking up trash along the roads. One man Pat has worked with on community service is 18 years old.

"He's definitely an alcoholic." She's in favor of measures to force young people to learn about their alcohol abuse problems, through AA or classes.

"Hit them in the purse, where it hurts," Pat said.

ALTHOUGH PAT wasn't thrilled about doing the community service, she found it preferable to the alternative — a stint in jail.

"You bet that makes a big difference."

It's been just about a year since Jeff's arrest. He'd like to put it all behind him but just hasn't been able to do so.

"It just hangs there, and I'm still not done with it. That's aggravation enough right there."

The three would encourage others going into alcohol awareness programs to approach each session with an open mind.

"I'd tell them to keep an open mind and be honest with yourself. You can deceive others, but you can't lie to yourself, she said.

It's important not to view programs such as Phase II merely as something you're required to do, Jeff said.

"I think the more you participate, the more you get out of it. Ask questions."

The three area residents agree it's difficult to deal with people who try to push drinks on them. Just like anyone else, they need encouragement and acceptance from those around them.

"A little pat on the back every once in a while," Pat said.

The Phase II program is primarily for second- and third-time offenders. "We've decided to expand our services and offer something for the second and third offender," Judith Darlington said.

Adjusting to a new life

"It's not a beginning-to-end treatment," Breeden said. Participants may continue with other sources of help, such as Alcoholics Anonymous meetings.

Those participating in the program are working, Linden said. They haven't reached the point of losing their jobs and have had few outside influences on their drinking other than the court system.

"At this point, everything's still perceived as bad luck," Linden said.

The Phase II program is currently for individual offenders, although family members may become involved in the future.

Some of the participants have to be driven to Phase II sessions by friends or family members, others have restricted use of a driver's license, allowing them to drive to sessions.

People who live or work in Plymouth or Plymouth Township are eligible for a sliding scale charge for the program. Others pay $20 per session, plus a $66 final evaluation fee, for a total of $266.

"There's a sense of responsibility there," Breeden said. Usually, the participants are paying for the program sessions themselves, rather than relying on health insurance.

David Breeden is the director of Plymouth Family Service.

Scouts enjoy opportunities

Plymouth-Canton Girl Scouts are among those participating in "Wider Opportunities" special travel and participation experiences this summer.

"Wider Opportunities" programs allow Cadette and Senior Girl Scouts to explore careers related to aviation, horses, the arts, nautical navigation and other areas. Girls can learn about archaeology, ecology, animal husbandry, marine biology and other areas.

A total of 11 girls from the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council have been accepted for the "Wider Opportunities" programs. Girls from Plymouth-Canton are:

● Kimberly Babut of Plymouth will travel to Wisconsin to learn about careers in both the nautical world and in aviation. She will attend "Wisconsin Waves and Wings" in Appleton, Wis. In addition to exploring the intricacies of an airport, she will enjoy sailing, canoeing, wind surfing and snorkeling.

● Elizabeth Bain of Plymouth will learn about traditional ballads, square dancing and the folklore behind songs and dances. Bain will attend "Hootenanny and Hoedown" at Girl Scout National Center West, a 14,000-acre site bordered by the Big Horn National Forest near Ten Sleep, Wyo. She will get plenty of practice playing such instruments as the banjo, guitar, dulcimer, recorder, fiddle and harmonica.

● Elizabeth Cohen of Canton will explore the history of the North Carolina coast at "Castles in the Sand." She will travel north to the site of the first American colony — a colony whose mysterious disappearance puzzles historians to this day — and will explore marine life at the Marine Resource Center.

● Valerie Gildhaus and Heather Schlacter, both of Plymouth, will go on a "Safari Texas-Style." They will spend 10 days in a fun-filled outdoor awareness program on the Y.O. Ranch, one of the largest exotic game ranches in the U.S. Their program will include orienteering and animal study of endangered species done while riding the Texas range and backpacking through rugged territory.

The Huron Valley Girl Scout Council, a United Way agency, serves more than 12,000 girls and adults in Livingston, Washtenaw, western Wayne and northern Monroe counties.

Award honors achievement

Holly Tucker of Plymouth Township, daughter of Thomas and Barbara Tucker, has earned Girl Scout's highest honor, the Girl Scout Gold Award.

Tucker is a 1987 graduate of Plymouth Salem High School. She will attend Michigan State University this fall.

Tucker was among eight outstanding young women in the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council to receive the award at a spring ceremony held in Ann Arbor State Sen. Lana Pollack was the keynote speaker.

Tucker, a longtime Girl Scout, was excited about receiving the Gold Award; she was also relieved about having completed the award requirements.

"It was exciting," she said. "It's a lot of work."

As part of the work for her award, Tucker and several other Girl Scouts ran a day camp for Plymouth-Canton-Northville youngsters.

THE GOLD AWARD is the highest achievement in Girl Scouting. It represents hard work and accomplishment in the areas of leadership, community service, career planning and personal development.

The plan for fulfilling the requirements of the award is created by the Girl Scout herself and is carried out through close cooperation between the girl and her adviser.

The Gold Award recognizes a Girl Scout's commitment to excellence as she develops skills and values to meet current and future challenges. To earn the award, each girl must complete a challenge in a community service project and take part in a review board interview to evaluate her work.

Tucker and her parents were excited about her receiving the Gold Award. Receiving the award wasn't however, a surprise for Tucker; she knew about it prior to the spring ceremony in Ann Arbor.

"It's not so much winning," Tucker said. "You have to earn it. It's not a surprise or anything."

The full-scale duplication of the Old Testament Tabernacle at United Memorial Gardens in Plymouth is the only one of its type in the country.

Old Testament Tabernacle relives biblical history

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

WHEN ED WENSLEY decided to construct this building, he didn't look in the phone book for an architect.

The owner of United Memorial Gardens Inc. in Plymouth just let his fingers do the walking in the Good Book. The blueprint for the Old Testament Tabernacle was in the Bible.

By consulting the best designer of all, Wensley has reproduced the Old Testament Tabernacle in its original size. The full-scale replica is the only one of its kind in the country.

And anyone interested in biblical history would find the display to his/her interest.

"People can learn how God dwelt with his people during biblical times," said Wensley, who took eight months to construct the tabernacle.

CHURCH GROUPS and Sunday school classes have come in droves to hear the story behind the Old Testament Tabernacle. Wensley estimates 139 groups have visited thus far.

The tabernacle was officially dedicated June 28.

Wensley got the idea to build the structure two years ago. Since many Sunday school teachers build small-scale models of the tabernacle for classes, he figured a life-sized attraction would be an excellent learning tool.

The building, which covers an area 45 feet long by 15 feet wide and 15 feet high, is divided into two parts: the Holy Place and the Holy of the Holies.

Included in the Holy of the Holies is the Ark of the Covenant, considered the most important single item in the biblical tabernacle. It features the 10 Commandments, Aaron's rod and the Stone Tablets of Law.

THE MERCY Seat sits on top of the covenant with two cherubim figures. They were carved out of African mahogany by woodcarver John Rocus of Ann Arbor.

Only the High Priest was allowed in the Holy of the Holies during biblical times.

In the Holy Place is the Table of Showbread, the Altar of Incense and the Golden Candlestick.

Outside the building, in the outer court, is the Brazen Altar. It's where animals were offered for sacrifice in exchange of forgiveness for sin.

The original Old Testament Tabernacle was built around 1600 to 1400 B.C. For 40 years, the tabernacle was used while Israelites traveled from Egypt to the Promised Land.

The tabernacle is also considered to have been the first place God dwelled on earth.

OF COURSE, original materials weren't used in the replica. For that, 2,400 pounds of pure gold, 8,400 pounds of silver and 8,000 pounds of brass would've been needed.

Wensley said the two cherubim were the most difficult to make, mainly because there were no pictures of what they looked like.

The tabernacle is one of many biblical features at United Memorial Gardens.

Included is a quaint chapel modeled after the Pioneer Chapel in Gatlinburg, Tenn. Two wedding ceremonies have taken place there. Replicas of the Eyes of Christ sculpture and da Vinci's "Last Supper" painting are also on display.

"People don't like to talk about a cemetery, hear about a cemetery or read about a cemetery," Wensley said. "We're trying to build this up so people will come out and visit the cemetery. We are trying to develop this into a tourist attraction in Michigan."

United Memorial Gardens offers guided tours of the Old Testament Tabernacle along with other displays on the grounds. The tours are free. For more information, call 622-8902.

We need to map a course, not drift

I SAIL WITH the wind As a fair-weather sailor with a minimum of time available at any one time, I seldom sail a course directed by compass or destination. I seek the best wind and sail accordingly.

The TV hearings from Washington D.C., suggest a similar style by our government. Lt. Col. North wanted to obey his superiors. Admiral Poin-dexter wanted to do the best for his Congress wants to fulfill the will of the public. Everyone is seeking the best wind and sails accordingly.

Sailing with the wind is all right for a few hours on a sailboat in a protected bay. "Sailing with the wind" is no way to run this country in the midst of a troubled world.

THE AMERICAN people had been baited to follow the televised hearings in Washington. It was supposed to be the quest for the truth. Lt. Col. North would tell us what had actually happened in the sale of arms to Iran and the use of the profits from those sales. The assumption was that learning the truth would also identify those who were right and those who were wrong. Television would be the medium of revelation.

There is no reason to believe that Lt. Col. North and Admiral Poin-dexter have told us lies. But the truth of their testimony has not added anything to our national quest for meaning and purpose. Their testimony has not sorted out national rights and wrongs. They were asked the wrong questions.

U.S. Sen. Paul Simon from Illinois is right. When Ronald Reagan was running for president seven years ago and asked, "Are you better off than you were four years ago?", that was really the wrong question. Sen. Simon insists that Reagan should have asked: "Are your children and your grandchildren going to be better off because of what we're doing right now?" Lt. Col. North, Admiral Poin-dexter and all others associated with the sale of arms to Iran and the use of profits for Contra aid should be called upon to describe their goals and objectives for the nation and how their actions supported them. One's ultimate purpose and destination is just as important as the route one chooses to reach it.

THEODORE WHITE writes in his book, "America in Search of Itself," that Ronald Reagan and his crew "have set a course which may be the most perilous in modern American politics." He also notes that at the beginning of Reagan's second year, "There is no way of telling whether we are on a true bearing or steaming with compass demagnetized."

The old testament of the Babylonian Captivity includes the scene in the book of Jeremiah (Jeremiah 28ff), where Hananiah predicts the end to the Babylonian bondage. Jeremiah would like it to be so, but knows that an end to their bondage in Babylon would not purify their purpose as God's people. Hananiah was raising the wrong issues. Their ultimate questions should not be freedom and liberty, but purpose and responsibility.

The vast array of participants in our national drama, 1987 style, have all been sincere. They believe they are telling the truth. But they have been pursuing the answers to the wrong questions. Finding out where they have been is one thing. Learning where they wanted to go is quite another issue. Deciding where we ought to go as a people of the world is still another.

Precautions prevent break-ins

Q. We're planning an extended family vacation this summer. What precautions can we take to prevent a break-in while we're away?

J.S.,
Birmingham,

A. The first step is to check your security devices. You may want to add deadbolt locks to outside doors and additional locks to all basement and first-floor windows — particularly sliding glass windows and patio doors which are very susceptible to burglars.

Next, don't advertise that the house is unoccupied. Try to create the appearance of normal living conditions. This can be achieved by:

- 1) Canceling all deliveries, such as mail and newspapers or arranging for a neighbor to collect them daily.
- 2) Using timers to turn lights on at staggered hours in different areas of the house.

- 3) Leaving a car parked in the driveway rather than in the garage. Or invite a neighbor to use your driveway while you're away.

- 4) Arranging for someone to cut the lawn (or shovel snow in winter) and to remove all litter from the area.

- 5) Giving a house key to a friend or neighbor with a copy of your plans in case you need to be contacted or access to your home is necessary.

- 6) Not publicizing travel plans in local papers or discussing the trip in public areas where you might be overheard. Remember, small children delight in passing around all the details of your exciting plans.

- 7) Storing jewelry, credit cards, bank books and other valuables in a safe-deposit box.

Finally, notify local police about your absence and ask them to check your property on a regular basis. Then relax and enjoy your vacation knowing you've taken every precaution to safeguard your home in your absence.

The Consumer Mailbag answers your questions. Address mail to The Consumer Mailbag, Concern Detroit, 1025 Shelby, Detroit, 48226.

Promise was a burden

Dear Jo:

A few weeks ago you discussed the plight of a woman whose parents wanted her to promise them that she will never put them in a nursing home. I agree with your answer that her parents should consider the implications of such a request and not expect 24-hour nursing care from a family member.

My reason for writing is to tell you what happened to my parents who made just such a promise to my dying grandfather. He asked that they look after grandmother; he actually made them swear that they would.

Grandmother's health went soon after she was widowed. She depended on my parents to such an extent that their later years were dedicated to the whims and well-being of a sick old lady. They never had time for any fun. They never went anywhere — not on a vacation trip — not even to a movie.

When they were no longer able to cope with her care, they did the best they could to the detriment of their own health and to the neglect of grandma's. My mother died first, then my father. It was at that time that we placed grandma in a nursing home — where she lives today, getting good care.

A. Jolayne
Farrell

When I asked why they had sacrificed their later years in order to care for grandma, their reply was — they promised.

I feel a great deal of resentment toward my grandfather for demanding such a promise from his son and wife — my parents. I lost them far too soon, and for what?

You don't have to print my letter if you don't want to — I feel better just writing down how I feel.

Mrs. J.P.,
Angry Daughter

Dear Mrs. P.:

I think it is important that I print your letter as it provides a great deal of "food for thought" on the subject of extracting unrealistic promises from one's children. Thank you for your very honest letter.

Dear Jo:

Is it true that the first things to "go" as one ages are the feet?

MS. E.D.,
Eastern Reader

Dear Ms. D.

To look upon the changes associated with the aging process from the standpoint of things "going" is quite a different approach.

Generally, changes can be attributed to a person's genetic makeup, diet, environment and/or lifestyle. So far, no single body part (or parts) has the reputation of "going" first.

Toshiba import ban pushed by vets' group

By Mary Rodrigue
staff writer

An import ban on Toshiba Corp. products would please a local veteran's group that has been calling for a national boycott of Toshiba goods for the past two months.

The Detroit chapter of the Military Order of World Wars, a fraternal order of retired and active-duty commissioned officers from all branches of the U.S. armed forces, adopted a resolution in May pledging its 180 members observe the boycott.

Their crusade was backed in a big way when the U.S. Senate voted June 30 to ban imports for two to five years in response to Toshiba selling sensitive high-tech equipment to the Soviet Union.

The Japanese maker of computer and related goods is accused of selling the Soviets milling machinery that could enable submarines and surface ships to run with quieter propellers, thereby evading detection.

In Japan, the controversial sale has resulted in the arrest of several executives and the resignation of others, including the chairman and president of the parent company Toshiba Corp. and president of Toshiba Machine, the subsidiary accused of wrongdoing. Government-imposed sanctions are expected to cost the corporation $36 million.

HERE THE IMPORT ban awaits U.S. House of Representative action and would also have to be supported by President Reagan.

"We were the first local to propose a boycott," said

Carl G. Yarling Jr. of Livonia, commander of the metro Detroit chapter.

"I think the action of the Senate is excellent. That's what we were driving at. I hope the House will use common sense."

"One of my staff officers heard (U.S. Navy) Secretary John Lehman's address (to the National Press Club in Washington) regarding the sale of milling machinery to Russia."

"Since that time, according to the account by Secretary Lehman, Russian submarines have been detected offshore of the East Coast of the United States without intelligence agencies' prior knowledge of their departure from Russia."

"The Detroit chapter believes that the action of Toshiba, contrary to agreements between the United States and Japan, should not go unanswered," said Yarling, a retired Army lieutenant colonel.

THE DETROIT chapter forwarded its resolution to be presented during the national convention of Military Order of World Wars in Tucson, Ariz. in August. There are 153 chapters and 20,000 members nationally, Yarling said.

The resolution also calls for all Toshiba consumer goods to be eliminated from the shelves of all Army, Air Force and Navy exchanges.

"I hope it will be an effective boycott," Yarling said. "But there isn't much we can do about it until after the national conference."

A random survey of local consumer outlets for Toshiba's line of goods, ranging from computers to household appliances, netted little awareness of the boycott.

Carl G. Yarling Jr.

"There's no boycott of Toshiba products," said the manager of the ABC Warehouse in Troy. "In fact, we have people asking for Toshiba products."

Randy Hartman, a salesman for Walter's Home Appliance in Livonia, said there is no plan to stop selling Toshiba products.

"A few people are calling questioning us, but it hasn't been that drastic," Hartman said. "Toshiba makes magnetron tubes for almost all microwave ovens, picture tubes for televisions, and the best TVs and stereo equipment. Their products are rated very high."

TERRY McMANN, marketing director for Sys-Tec Computers, a consulting firm based in Livonia, was not aware of the boycott.

"I don't think anyone here knows anything about it," said a saleswoman in another computer electronics store.

"In my opinion we haven't experienced any dropoff (in sales) of Toshiba," said a salesman for ABC Warehouse in Redford Township.

Several salespeople commented that Toshiba produces a fine line of goods.

Toshiba has 4,000 employees in the United States, according to Paul Wexler, vice president of Toshiba's telecommunications division in Irvine, Calif.

"It's pretty hard to say what effect it will have," said Wexler. "Right now we're like a moving target. The main thing, to the extent that there is a ban, there will be a number of repercussions. And eventually that will hurt the consumer."

"I hope that type of recognition gets some clarity. It's hard to say much more right now."

Toshiba sales in the U.S. total $2 billion annually.

Toshiba America chairman Nobuo Ishizaka has publicly said that an import ban would cut off more than $1 billion worth of equipment and could lead to layoffs of Toshiba employees in the U.S.

Burger wars get new twist — home delivery

By Lynn Waldamith
special writer

A new contender in the burger wars is expanding to the northwest suburbs with a new strategy: making fast food even faster.

The Ann Arbor-based Burger Fresh Inc. announced it will open six outlets in September: three in Livonia, one in Farmington and two in Farmington Hills.

What makes Burger Fresh different from McDonald's, Burger King or the other major franchises is that it guarantees its customers free home delivery within 30 minutes. While the concept of home delivery has been around for a long time for pizza, the "Domino's" approach has never been attempted with America's most popular fast food: the hamburger.

"I would say that the success of Domino's has been an added motivation," said Jim Gulberg, Burger Fresh vice president of franchising and marketing.

"Certainly nobody should take anything away from Tom Monaghan and what he's done. He was the first to do it, and we have nothing but great respect for Domino's. However, we've actually perfected something that's more difficult to do."

BURGER FRESH president and founder Nick Vlides owned and operated more than a dozen restaurants before he started Burger Fresh in December 1985. Although the first eight BF outlets (two in Ann Arbor and six in Florida) were sit-down operations, Vlides and his partners concluded that the "on-street" hamburger market is saturated, and so all future BF outlets will feature home delivery service only.

"The big franchisers — McDonald's, Burger King, Wendy's, Hardy's — have all test marketed delivery already and would be doing it if they could, but they can't," Gulberg said. "They're stuck in the on-street market because they found, among other things, that you can't service the front and back of your house at the same time. You cannot do delivery out of a sit-down. So actually, they're victims of their own success."

Gross sales during Burger Fresh's first year of operation totaled more than $500,000. With the help of an aggressive marketing and advertising program, Gulberg believes Burger Fresh will follow the example set by Domino's and become national in scope.

"We will be in all 50 states," he said. "Our corporate goal is to have 5,000 stores in 10 years."

BUT HOW CAN Burger Fresh compete with the golden arches and other enormous hamburger franchises? Gulberg claims Burger Fresh is not competing because it has entered the field of home delivery.

He insists the question should be: How will they compete with Burger Fresh once it becomes national in scope?

"As long as they (major burger franchises) are in the on-street market and we are in delivery, we are not going to have any problem in competing with them at all because we are offering a service that they don't."

Burger Fresh requires a $5 minimum order, but Gulberg claims the average order is $10. He said BF offers quality and convenience in the same price range as McDonald's or Burger King.

THE FRESH Burger, priced at $1.73, is Burger Fresh's most popular item. Other menu offerings include the Big Fresh Burger, fresh fries, the Steamed Veggie Entree, soup, salad and RC cola.

The franchise decided to offer RC instead of Coca Cola or Pepsi in order to be different from the other hamburger franchises. Gulberg said RC's lower cost was an added incentive, he admitted.

Industrial expo shelved

By E. Dale Lee
special writer

They all agreed it was a grand idea, but organizers of the first Western Wayne Industrial Alliance Expo have postponed plans for a fall show.

Carol Skinner, a partner with the Livonia-based Skinner & Associates trade-show management firm, said community leaders from Wayne, Westland, Romulus and Inkster have scuttled the hoped-for Oct. 28-29 industrial expo until fall 1988 because there's not enough time to organize it.

"It was a wise decision," Skinner said. "If you can't do it up first class, you shouldn't do it."

"First-year shows are always tug and pull. Immediate response from local businesses hasn't been strong enough to warrant a fall show."

Joyce Wheeler of the Westland Chamber of Commerce endorses the concept of a multi-community industrial expo because of the area's abundance of firms whose business involves the plastics, tool-and-die or automotive-aftermarket industries.

'First-year shows are always tug and pull. Immediate response from local businesses hasn't been strong enough to warrant a fall show.'

— Carol Skinner

"Too often, companies do the same thing all the time to attract business," Wheeler said. "At an expo, only one sale or the development of one new prospect — plus the chance to network with new people — pays for the time spent."

SCOTT VELDHIJS, economic development coordinator in Westland, said representatives from each of the four municipalities that belong to the alliance believe the expo will work if planners get busy now for next year.

"We tried to sell booth space, but there didn't seem to be enough immediate interest to move ahead with it," Veldhuis said. "At some point we had to say 'yes' or 'no' to an expo for this fall, and we've decided we want to do it right or not at all. We were bummed out about it, but we'll look forward, not back."

The alliance, an informal ad hoc panel formed six months ago to address economic development and mutual interests of the four communities, wanted 56 booths sold at a cost of $400 to $500 per booth.

To break even, organizers had to sell 40 booths. Only six firms committed when the alliance shelved the 1987 show.

ALLIANCE representatives all have backgrounds in planning or in economic/community development. They include Westland's Veldhuis, Lillian Randolph of Inkster, John Said of Romulus and Wilbur Young of Wayne.

Veldhuis plans to convince industrial leaders in the region that an expo would be a terrific place to meet new suppliers and customers, many from corporations outside the area that are searching for new contacts.

Retirement: a balancing act

Everyone faces retirement with a different personal perspective, but if there's a common thread of concern that seems to affect recent retirees, it's money.

Basically, it's a question of balance. Knowing what your income and expenses are and how much discretionary income you have left allows you to make informed budgeting decisions.

If you are nearing retirement, you're probably wondering how your financial needs will change. Some experts estimate an individual household needs 70 to 75 percent of current income to live comfortably in retirement. But your individual expenses and circumstances will determine what you need. Many of your expenses will remain the same.

If you rent a home or still have a mortgage, the monthly payments continue. Even if your mortgage is paid off, you must still contend with utility costs, real estate taxes, water and sewer bills and homeowner's insurance.

Some expenses will decrease. You will no longer have to maintain a business wardrobe, pay for commuter costs and daily lunches. But at this age, many people are faced with increased medical expenses — for doctors, dentists, prescriptions and other health-care costs. And you'll probably see an increase in leisure activity expenses as you take advantage of your free time to pursue the interests you never had quite enough time for when you were working.

TAX REFORM will prove to be beneficial for the majority of older people, particularly those with low and middle incomes. The new law eliminates the extra personal exemption that could previously be claimed by individuals who were 65 and older or blind. But as a substitute of sorts, taxpayers who are 65 and older or blind and do not itemize can claim an extra standard deduction of $750 for each single individual and $600 for each married individual or surviving spouse.

Beginning in 1987, those who do itemize face a reduction in the amount of medical expenses that are deductible. Starting with your 1987 return, medical expenses are deductible to the extent they exceed 7½ percent of your adjusted gross income, compared to 5 percent under the old law.

How to figure out your real mutual fund return

Part III

Some time ago I published several columns on the techniques of figuring out investment returns. Today I will concentrate on calculating the return on your mutual fund investment.

Myths of NAV and yield

The greatest frustration most people feel arises when they try to calculate the rate of return by using the net asset value (NAV) — a figure easily available from the business pages of any daily newspaper. NAV is nothing more than the total value of assets of a fund divided by the total shares outstanding on a given day. This figure does not take into account any dividends or capital gains distributed over a given time frame and therefore should not be used in any meaningful rate calculation.

Mutual funds also regularly publish current yield. This figure, too, should not be used, since it only reflects current dividends and does not measure any increase or decrease in the value of shares themselves.

So what's the real rate of return?

What you need is a figure that combines both the NAV and the finances and you

yield. Unfortunately, nowhere is this figure published. But take heart. I will present here a fairly simple way of making this calculation.

In this example I will make the following assumptions:

- On Feb. 28, 1986, you owned several shares of ABC mutual fund. This is a back-load fund which means that you don't pay initial sales charges when you invest in it.

- Several times in 1986 you buy ABC fund shares.

- During the year the fund declares cash dividends and makes capital gains distribution. Capital gains are reinvested in the fund.

- You wish to calculate the rate of return on this fund for 1986.

How to calculate the return

The step by step calculation of the rate of return received in 1986 by investing in ABC funds is presented in the accompanying chart.

Summing Up

Although an oversimplification, the chart's calculation will give you an approximate rate of return for your investment. You can, of course, improve upon it, if you feel up to it.

Have fun with rate calculation on your own mutual fund investing.

Educational Seminar: "Your Investments, Your Taxes and Tax Reform," sponsored by the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers and Coordinated Financial Planning, will be 7-9:30 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 17, at the Kingsley Inn, 1475 N. Woodward, Bloomfield Hills.

Sid Mittra, Ph.D., is a professor of management at Oakland University and president of Coordinated Financial Planning.

Step by step Calculation

Actual steps

1. Beginning Value
Beginning shares plus initial investment purchased on 3/1/86 multiplied by share price (NAV)

57.843 (50.000 + 7.843) x $12.75
= $737.50

2. Ending Value
Total shares owned on 12/31/86 times NAV

90.604 x $17.13
= 1,552.05

3. New Investment
Add new investment values

$50 + $100 + $200 + $100
= $450

4. Cash Distributions
Add all dividend and capital gains distributions received in cash

$10 + $15 = $25

Rate of return =  $\frac{\text{ending value} + \text{cash (Div. + Cap. Gains)} - \text{new inv.}/2}{\text{beginning value} + \text{new investment}/2} - 1 \times 100$
=  $\frac{1,552.05 + 25 - 450/2}{737.50 + 450/2} - 1 \times 100 = (1.405 - 1) \times 100$

ROI for 10 months = 40.47 percent

Rate of return for 12 months = 40.47 x 12/10 = 48.56 percent

* This simplification averages your new investment for the year. Redemptions can also be treated this way.

Effective persuasion will bring you increased sales

What brand of toothpaste do you use? How did you happen to pick that particular brand? Was it the low price that attracted you to it? The approval of your dentist? Its flavor?

Whatever the reason you give, chances are that you probably wouldn't list advertising as a major factor influencing your choice. But if you think about it, how would you have known about this brand if it had never been advertised?

When it comes to offering similar products and services in an increasingly complex marketplace, persuasion becomes a key advertising objective.

Persuasion means to induce someone to adopt a certain attitude or behavior by argument or pleading, or to win someone over to your way of thinking.

MANY WOULD like to believe that they are unaffected by the persuasive attempts of advertising. But reality proves otherwise.

Each day we are exposed to more than 2,000 different ads featuring any and every type of product and service imaginable. Given the size and magnitude of the industry, would advertisers spend so much time, money and effort if they didn't know that persuasion in advertising works?

When a firm is interested in persuading a target audience through its advertising efforts, the advertising message should work to create desire and stimulate possible trial for the product or service under consideration.

Of equal importance is the person or group used to present the message (the communicator). People you like, or who are like you, or who seem to be acting naturally rather than playing roles are people whose endorsements add credibility to the product or service being offered for sale.

AS AN example, would you believe the endorsement of a celebrated athlete used to endorse cigarettes? This leads to the importance of knowing as much as possible about the audience to whom persuasive advertising will be directed.

The character traits and past experiences of the audience are personality factors that affect how the audience will perceive and respond to the communicator and his or her message.

Finding out about a firm's target audience involves no more than having a good understanding of the current and potential customers the firm now serves or would like to serve in the future.

ONCE AN audience has been persuaded to buy a particular product or service, or actually prefer it, then the reminding objective in advertising may be most suitable.

buying behavior — by keeping cues in front of the target audience.

Even though an audience may have been sold once, twice or three times, they are still open to competitive influences. Reminding them of their past satisfaction may keep them from "straying" to competitors of similar products or services.

Mary DiPaolo is the owner of MarkeTrends, a Farmington Hills-based business consulting firm. She is also producer and host of the cable television series, "Focus: The Small Business Environment."

Zippy cast Costume changes are quick ones

By Cathie Breidenbach
special writer

VELCRO IS THE CAST'S secret weapon in the Rochester Collegiate Summer Stock production of "Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat."

Twenty-five seconds is the longest time the 18 cast members have to change costumes. And they change often — from Biblical robes to such unlikely garb as tuxedos, claddiggers, and even an Elvis Presley get-up.

Each of Joseph's 11 brothers makes eight costume changes. During their frantic backstage transformation, they bless the ingenuity of Velcro.

The players is a group of 25 Rochester-area students who attend the University of Michigan, Michigan State University, Oakland University and Hope College. They will present "Joseph" at 8:15 p.m. Thursday-Saturday, at Stevenson High School in Sterling Heights. It will be the third summer production for the group, following sell-out performances last year of "Grease" and of "Godspell" in 1985.

"JOSEPH AND the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat" is a contemporary opera based on a tale of sibling rivalry straight out of Genesis. Business manager John Barry says the group chose "Joseph" because of its good music and its storyline appropriate for families.

The work by Andrew Lloyd Webber ("Cats," "Evita") and Tim Rice ("Jesus Christ Superstar") is based on the familiar Old Testament story of Joseph, the 11th of 12 boys, who is cast off by his jealous brothers and becomes a slave in Egypt.

Joseph rises to power by dint of sheer cleverness and by his gift for interpreting the Pharaoh's dreams. When the Pharaoh has a perplexing nightmare, Joseph tells him the dream foretells famine in Egypt and recommends he store grain during prosperous harvests and ration it during the prophesied lean years.

Pharaoh puts Joseph in charge of the task, and in his travels to administer grain distribution, Joseph returns to his homeland of Canaan. After so many years, his brothers don't recognize him and Joseph has a chance to get back at them for the rotten tricks they played on him when he was a boy.

"Joseph" is labeled an opera because it has no spoken lines. Everything is sung. Stephanie Glotes, a recent graduate of Interlochen Arts Academy, sings the storyline. John R. Jones, a junior at Michigan State, plays Joseph.

Every member of the 'Joseph' student cast and crew works during the day at summer jobs.

JONES HAS played in all three productions of the collegiate company and is a charter member of the group. Director Patricia Powell, a senior at Michigan State, is also a charter member of the summer stock company and was elected by members to direct this year's production.

Technical and music director of "Joseph" is John Deierlein, a student at Michigan State. He directed the successful runs of "Godspell" and "Grease."

Other featured performers include Richard Dean Jones, Jason Krauss, Ron Melnik, Mark Robertson and Rick Woodman, as well as Jill Arquette, Chris Banyai, Dave Beerer, Jill Blazis, Katie Kenny, John Krause, Trina Light, Brian O'Donnell, Greg Sobosky, Chris Stepnitz, Rich Savanto and Tania Velinsky.

In past years, the group performed in the 230-seat Avon Playhouse. This summer the schools are using the Avon playhouse, and the group has incorporated in order to stage "Joseph" in the larger, 600-seat Performing Arts Center at Stevenson High School on Dodge Park, one block south of Utica Road in Sterling Heights.

Tickets at $5 are available at the door.

EVERY MEMBER of the "Joseph" student cast and crew works during the day at summer jobs. They wait tables, do graphic arts and typing, bag groceries, load trucks, cut grass. One works for a car company, another for the National Bank of Detroit, yet another for K mart. After full 9 to 5 day, the troupe meets for evenings a week for four hours of rehearsal. Around 11 p.m. when rehearsal breaks up, the group adjourns to one or another of the members' homes to party.

Why do these college students spend hours rehearsing every week on top of the demands of their day-time jobs? Why did they elect to go out on a financial limb and take out a loan to fund their newly incorporated summer stock company?

Because they're talented performers who love the music, the foot lights, the applause and, as their business manager admits, with a glint in his eye that contradicts the businesslike reserve of his statement, "The social aspects of the group are very good."

Movies theme composer's concert program

DAN DEAN/staff photographer

John Addison chats about the movie and TV music he has scored. Some of these hits will be on his program at Meadow Brook Music Festival.

By Ethel Simmons
staff writer

British composer John Addison will conduct several of his own pieces, everything from music for "Tom Jones" to "Murder She Wrote," in a Detroit Symphony Orchestra Pops Concert at Meadow Brook Music Festival.

The concert will be at 8:30 p.m. Saturday July 25 at Baldwin Pavilion on the Oakland University campus in Rochester Hills. Along with the music will be film clips from great motion pictures which Addison has scored from his Hollywood friends.

"For the movie Tom Jones, I scored the opening sequence with harpsichord and out-of-time piano," Addison said. "This work and several others by him have been arranged especially for the concert."

The theme from "Murder She Wrote," I rearranged for symphony orchestra," he said. Addison got the job doing the music for the popular TV show's pilot from the producer with whom he had worked before.

HE WAS BUSY working on the TV miniseries "Ellis Island" when "Murder She Wrote" went into production and he didn't continue work on the series. But whenever he watches the mystery show starring Angela Lansbury, he has "a satisfying sensation" from hearing his music, Addison said. "I get a little lolly (lollipop) — that's a British expression."

The slim composer talked while sitting in one of the air-conditioned offices at Meadow Brook Hall, after lunch in the mansion's public dining room. His arms were folded across his chest, his light blue eyes concentrated as he spoke. Addison's British accent gave his speech an extra force.

Two more of his compositions, from the movies "A Bridge Too Far" and "Swashbuckler," will be performed by the DSO Pops. The program also includes music from other great film composers.

Addison had been a successful composer in England in the 1960s, as part of the decade of films that included "Tom Jones" and "Saturday Night and Sunday Morning." Recalling those great days of movie making, he said, "At the end of the 60s, it sort of petered out. The industry had collapsed."

When he discovered American composers were scoring British films, he decided, "If you can't beat 'em, join 'em," and came to the United States in 1975. He had been asked to do a Walt Disney film, "Ride a Wild Pony," which he could have done in England. After doing this movie, he waited eight months for his next American film, "Swashbuckler."

HE REMEMBERS it was rough getting started, even though, "I arrived with an Oscar (for 'Tom Jones') and an academy nomination for 'Sleuth.' Of 'Swashbuckler' he said, "The film was a bomb but Universal Studios thought it would be an answer to all the Errol Flynn movies, so they put up the money, so I could make a nice album."

preview

In 1977, he composed the music for "A Bridge Too Far." The war movie about British paratroopers in 1944 was directed by Sir Richard Attenborough and featured 14 major stars. During World War II, Addison was in the 11th Army Division. "Had we been called up, I might not have ended up writing the music, or being here today," he said.

Other composers whose works will be heard in the Meadow Brook concert include Korngold, Rota, Newman, Waxman and Holdridge. Addison is using Henry Mancini's arrangement for a medley of music (from Fellini films and "The Godfather") by Italian composer Nino Rota.

"I live in Hollywood, where I see Mancini," Addison said. He asked and received permission to use Mancini's arrangement, as long as it wasn't at the same time Mancini would be presenting the music. As it turns out, Mancini will be at Meadow Brook on Friday night, with Johnny Mathis. Luckily the medley isn't on Mancini's program that night, Addison learned.

Allen Cohen, producer of the "Music from Great Motion Pictures" concert, said, "We were delighted and honored that a man of John Addison's stature is guest conductor for one of our film concerts."

ADDISON GAVE the first movie pops concert at Meadow Brook back in 1980, when he was asked by Stuart Hyke, festival director. A similar concert has been presented at the festival every year since.

Addison personally selected all the film clips that will be used on Saturday night's program. "I'm not going to say what film clips will be used, or where it's a surprise bonus — like a lollipop for the audience," he said.

Partners create Hickory Hoovies

By Ethel Simmons
staff writer

Two graduates of Bloomfield Hills high schools are in partnership in Hickory Hoovies, a family restaurant which opened this summer at Keatington Village in Lake Orion.

Charles Gegenheimer, a graduate of Lahser High School, and David Hoover, a graduate of Andover, run the new restaurant in an old barn, formerly Bob's General Store. Each of the men's parents is still living in Bloomfield Hills.

In the late 1970s, Gegenheimer was a manager at the Pontiac Silverdome, and Hoover a chef there. "We both have stayed in the restaurant business," Gegenheimer said. "We got together in catering."

About a year and a half ago, the two started Epicurean Concepts.

Continuing to run their catering operation, they opened Hickory Hoovies in April. The restaurant name, Hickory Hoovies, is taken from the hickory wood they use for barbecuing, and from Hoover's name.

"My partner is an excellent chef," Gegenheimer said. In their partnership, "I do the foods, and David does everything else."

The restaurant food is "pure hickory smoked." Specialties are barbecue, and Philadelphia Hoagies (Gegenheimer is from Philadelphia). Most items on the menu are around $4-$5. Most expensive is a full rack of barbecued ribs at $9.95. Kiddies' meals are available for $2.

The partners recently held a county music festival geared toward families and children at Hickory Hoovies.

The Boston Pops orchestra is now more than 100 years old. It had all that time to gain popularity. Any further progress in that respect seem to be limited by the size of the human race. This was evident last week when the Meadow Brook grounds were filled to capacity.

Other attractions draw large audiences, to be sure. James Gallway and the Chieftains, a week earlier, for instance. But that was not subject to the test of bad weather as the Pops was.

There were ominous weather signs from the outset. Later, when it started pouring, the lawn became dotted with umbrellas, but only a few opted to leave. The pavilion was sold-out, so there was no shelter available.

Another disappointment was that John Williams, the celebrated regular conductor of this orchestra, had to cancel due to a virus infection. He was replaced by the energetic John Mauceri, who has conducted the Pops on previous occasions and who is very active in the operatic field.

Avigdor Zaromp

Mauceri repeatedly expressed sympathy for those out in the rain and tried to cheer them up with his quips.

This "Boston Pops Espanade Orchestra" consists largely of Boston area musicians who are not from the Boston Symphony Orchestra. The other Boston Pops is made up of Boston Symphony Orchestra musicians minus the principals who tour as the Boston Symphony Players.

This orchestra's more classical elements seem to have been pushed to the sidelines. This was evident even in the couple of classical selections on this program, especially in the suite from Bizet's "Carmen." There was some musicianship, to be sure, but it seemed to be the reverse of past combinations of music and entertainment.

Music by John Williams is, naturally a prime ingredient on any Boston Pops program. While there were several Williams selections on the originally scheduled program, there were only two selections on the revised one.

Among other delightful favorites were such goodies as Bernstein's "Candide" Overture, selections from "My Fair Lady," the theme from the "Pink Panther" by Mancini and more.

The response was enthusiastic under the adverse circumstances. At one point Mauceri was joking about the feat of clapping while holding an umbrella in one hand. While there was little one could do about the raging storm, there was at least the attempt to neutralize it by playing louder.

Following the end of the scheduled program, Mauceri and the orchestra responded to the overwhelming cheers with several encores. The last of these, according to Mauceri, was dedicated to a "suburb of Detroit," "New York, New York."

Now, at last, I should be able to attend some of the attractive New York events, which were painfully out of reach in the past.

Semkow to conduct at Meadow Brook

Popular guest conductor Jerzy Semkow, a rare summer festival guest appearance by renowned pianist Shura Cherkassky, and the Detroit Symphony Orchestra's return to Meadow Brook following last week's tour of the Upper Peninsula make the Thursday and Sunday concert extra special events.

Maestro Semkow joins the Detroit Symphony for two weeks as guest conductor with the orchestra at Meadow Brook.

Semkow is music advisor and principal conductor of the Rochester Philharmonic and a favorite with Detroit audiences. He will conduct Rachmaninov's famous and popular Second Symphony.

Rachmaninov attempted this symphony 10 years after the debacle of his First Symphony, which plunged him into a depression so profound that only a long series of treatments including hypnosis made him able to compose again.

It was another 30 years before he returned to the symphonic form. It is an expansive, highly romantic work, which is often performed in edited versions. Maestro Semkow will conduct the Detroit Symphony in the unedited form.

Amish poultry

Only Amish-raised chickens and ducks are served at the Kingsley Inn in Bloomfield Hills.

Chef Dennis Lindinger said the restaurant made the switch about a year ago when "A salesman from the company came by with samples, and we all fell in love with the Amish-raised chicken." Lindinger orders about 500 chicken breasts every two days.

The poultry, raised on Amish farmyards of northern Indiana, is all free-range, grain-fed, without additives. "It's a much juicier white meat — as juicy as dark — and has a richer flavor, especially the stock," Lindinger said.

Elks top Salem to win 18th

Adam Kocik fired four innings of one-hit baseball and the Canton Elks struck for five runs in the fourth inning — three scoring on Chris Sisler's home run — to spark a 7-3 triumph over the Salem Elks Tuesday in a Redford Adray Connie Mack League game.

Kocik faced just 15 batters in earning the victory, Canton's league-record 18th in 19 outings. He walked one and struck out three. Derek Darkowski relieved, surrendering one run, no hits and one walk. He struck out four. Shane Smith hurled the final inning and was touched for two runs on two hits and a walk.

Steve Johnson drove in two runs and Vince Fox had two hits for Canton.

On Saturday, Canton swept Livonia Stevenson 8-2 and 13-3 to clinch the league title. In the opener, Tim Dowd doubled and Steve Waite followed with a home run to put Canton in control in the first inning.

THE WINNERS added five runs in the fourth, with Dowd doubling in two, Sisler bringing in one on a ground out, and Todd Kenyon singling in two more. A double by Kevin Learned and three walks got Canton its final run in the fifth.

Dowd finished with three hits in three trips, with two RBI and two runs scored. Chris Kennedy was the winning pitcher, allowing two runs on one hit and four walks in 5½ innings, striking out four. Darkowski pitched the last 1½ innings, giving up two hits and a walk while fanning three.

Craiger clinches share of league championship

Craiger clinched a share of the Plymouth-Canton Babe Ruth Baseball League championship with victories over Twist 'N Shake and the Knights in its last two games.

Craiger downed Twist 'N Shake 8-5 last Friday and whipped the Knights 14-2 Monday. Aiming for its fourth straight title, Craiger holds a two-game lead with two games left.

Craiger plays both teams again Friday and Monday, respectively. Both games will be at 6 p.m. at Flodin Park.

In the rout of the Knights, Craiger jumped on opposing pitching for 19 hits, being led by Mark Barrette's 4-for-5 performance. Frank Learned and Mitch MacDonald were 3-for-4.

Craiger trailed Twist 'N Shake 3-1 after two innings when Al Araquil sent a three-run homer over the center-field fence.

Twist 'N Shake, however, came

Churchill netter is champion

Carrie Cunningham is certainly acting older than her age these days. The nationally-ranked 15-year-old, who will be a sophomore at Churchill High School this fall, conquered a field of older and more experienced tennis players Saturday to win the Western Penn National Amateur Clay Court Championships in Mount Lebanon, Pa.

The youngest player ever to win the event, Cunningham defeated University of Georgia sophomore Stacey Schefflin, 6-2, 6-1, in the women's singles final. Cunningham became the second area player to win the title in as many years. Plymouth Salem grad and University of Wisconsin netter Chris Gilles captured the crown a year ago.

Seeded No. 5, Cunningham defeated top seed Elizabeth Alexander in the semifinals, 6-1, 6-1.

Cunningham, who used the tournament as a tuneup for this week's USTA Girls 18's Clay Court Championships in River Forest, Ill., was elated with the result.

"I GOT A DOZEN roses and that was really nice," said Cunningham, who carried her surprise gift on the plane with her from Pittsburgh to Chicago. "It's hard to say if this is one of my biggest wins because it was a lot different than a junior tournament."

"Elizabeth was tough. She is a very good player. I'd have to say it was tougher than my final match because she (Schefflin) seemed more nervous."

Cunningham said she was able to withstand the hot temperatures and boots. It may have been July, but there's always snow in the Arctic Circle.

Nanisivik marathon tough, but rewarding experience

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Ron Gluskin not only survived his participation in the Midnight Sun Marathon but would welcome the opportunity to do it again.

The Bloomfield Township man was one of 85 runners, most from North America, who ventured inside the Arctic Circle to the tiny mining town of Nanisivik for a unique race across the frozen, mountainous terrain of Canada's extreme north.

The 55-year-old Gluskin is well accustomed to the rigors of running, but nonetheless expected it to be a grueling experience. And it was. But it was so different from any other run that it was easy to look past the difficulty.

"I really enjoyed this race," he said. "I was so keyed for it that I just enjoyed it. It was hard, but it was worth it."

"USUALLY, WHEN I get about 12 miles out during a race, I say 'why am I doing this? I don't need to do this.' But I didn't this time; I was just enjoying it too much."

Gluskin found running on permafrost easier than asphalt and cement, but what made this marathon so demanding was the unending hills the runners had to ascend and descend.

"You're almost always going up or down," he said. "There's hardly any flat land, very little horizontal running to give yourself a chance to catch your breath."

"Let's put it this way: You can never train for that kind of run. You're in country where there's been a lot of upheaval from the glaciers, and it's all rolling.

"THEY'VE NAMED it the world's toughest marathon, and I believe it is," Gluskin added.

The marathon began at 25 meters above sea level in the town of Arctic Bay and, as the elevation increased, was divided into three sections.

The first was the Pain In The —, where the hills started and the course rose to 284 meters. Next was Marathoner Madness, which consisted of more hills and an increase in elevation to 530 meters.

The run concluded with The Crunch, which Gluskin said was aptly named. Over the final six miles, the runners make their descent to Nanisivik and an elevation of just two meters, all the while negotiating three more hills.

"THIS WHOLE thing is hills, and the worst part is at the end," Gluskin said. "Nobody made it through The Crunch without doing some walking."

The runners did get a break in terms of the weather. The temperature stayed around 40 degrees, and there was no cold wind blowing in off the bay, sparing the runners potentially freezing conditions.

Gluskin, who did better than expected and surpassed his goal of finishing in four hours, found the run different from others in so far as the solitude he experienced out on the barren, frozen soil of the Northwest Territory.

At a distance of 480 miles north of the Arctic Circle,

State Games need better organization

registered showed up, and four of six girls squads. In the open divisions, only six of eight mens teams and three of six womens teams played.

A BIRMINGHAM OPEN division team coached by John Frendo was a last-minute cancellation, Bara said. The rest of the no-shows (other than the Salem boys) were Detroit teams, a development that left Bara seething.

"There were no communication problems at all," Bara insisted. Teams, especially the ones in Detroit, were very irresponsible.

Sam Washington, who runs the renowned St. Cecilia's league, drew most of Bara's wrath. "He gave me his word all along," said Bara of Washington. "I worked with him for three months. Basically, he pulled a big number on us."

"(Washington) doesn't have the kids' interest in mind. I have no respect for the man at all."

Both Brodie and Thomann thought the tournament's organization was weak (indeed, Brodie insisted he had no idea when, where, or whom his team was to play), but neither thought Bara was to blame.

"It was a bad scene, and I'd like to leave it at that," said Thomann. "It was almost an impossible job that (Bara) had to do, given his resources."

"I think (the games) are going through growing pains. There's room for it to improve and to be something really good."

BRODIE SIMPLY said, "(Bara) was trying to run a lot of different things. I'm not ripping him."

In fairness to Bara and the southeast region, competition in other sports went much smoother. And compared with the problems faced in other regions — such as the west, which, according to Bara, had nearly zero participation — the southeast was a resounding success.

Thomann's description of the Great Lakes Games suffering "growing pains" is accurate. Perhaps by next year, most of the wrinkles (which included publicity and financial, as well as organizational) can be smoothed. Bara won't be around to witness it, however — that he promised.

Question is, even if the organizational catastrophes of this year are corrected, will it matter? These games are supposed to be for the kids, but do the kids care?

Seems to me we'd be just as well off without them. Kids have enough sporting events to choose from, during both school and summer-time.

What more do they need? And we certainly don't need the gigantic organizational headache of trying to put on a statewide summertime sports festival that apparently interests so few.

Runner enjoyed unique marathon

Gluskin and his fellow marathoners were above the treeline. The scene was devoid of any natural landmarks, making it often times impossible to judge distances.

FURTHERMORE, Gluskin expected to see some kind of flora growing in the region, but was surprised to find virtually none. An occasional tiny flower sprouting between stones is all that grows there.

Besides the Terry Fox Memorial at the 16-mile mark, the only indicators as to how far the runners were into the race were the water jugs placed at one-mile intervals.

"In retrospect, it seemed to make the miles go a little faster, not knowing where you were at," said Gluskin, adding the view was gorgeous despite the lack of greenery. "It's a stark beauty, that's probably the best way to describe it."

"We were strung out so much that most of the time you were running by yourself," he said. "(In more conventional runs) you have people all along the way giving you water, ice, oranges. But there's nobody there; you don't see any people."

"DURING THE race, I wanted to stretch a little, but there was nothing to lean against, no posts, no signs," he added. "You're out in the middle of nowhere. You hear the wind, and that's it."

In addition to the main event, there were other aspects to Gluskin's adventure.

huge mine, which is the source of Nanisivik's existence. They also went dog sledding on Arctic Bay, an experience Gluskin rated his most memorable.

"I've never done anything like that before, and to go out on the ice in July and have a bunch of dogs pulling you is so unique and different," he said. "They just take off; they yip-yap and they go!"

BESIDES THE dogs, some seals that emerged from the ice to sun themselves and a wolf that had been to the taxidermist and mounted in the mess hall, Gluskin had no other encounters with animals. Sorry, no polar bears.

Inside the mine, where lead and zinc are extracted, it was 40 degrees below zero. Gluskin estimated it to be a mile wide and 1 1/4 miles deep, straight into the mountain instead of down into the earth. As an indication of its size, the runners were chauffeured around in a motor vehicle.

"They could almost build a city in there," he said. "A small town would be no trouble."

Gluskin, being accustomed to a day-night cycle, also had to get used to the constant sunshine in the Land of the Midnight Sun.

"FRIDAY MORNING, I wanted to get up at 6 o'clock and run," he said. "When I woke up, it was light out, and I thought 'darn, I overslept.' I looked at my watch, and it was only 3 o'clock. So I went back to sleep, and then I did oversleep."

While Nanisivik is populated by the miners, who come from all parts of Canada and sign up for yearlong stints, about 350 Eskimos live in Arctic Bay. Though the town consists mainly of a couple stores and pre-fab housing, the Eskimos have cable TV and, surprisingly, are Detroit Tiger fans.

Many of the Eskimos were gone at the time, traveling to their hunting grounds about 60 miles away.

"They're out in the elements," Gluskin said. "They have to live off the land."

"THEY CAN'T build a fire because there's no trees, no wood. That's why they eat raw meat. But, if I had to guess in this day and age, they probably take propane (gas) with them."

"They were very friendly," he added. "They spoke very good English. But there wasn't a lot of time to do that much mixing, and again there wasn't that many of them around."

Though his trip was relatively brief, Gluskin was struck by the contrast upon returning to a more traditional way of life.

"I got off the plane (in Montreal), and the heat, the diesel fuel and the noise hit me," he said. "I'd been away a few days, and it felt like weeks."

"WE HAD none of that up there — and I knew I was home."

Gluskin runs in a different marathon every year, and the organizer of the Nanisivik run, "Arctic Joe" Whormsley of Toronto, is planning a 10K race for the North Pole next year. If he pulls it off, the participants will run on the polar ice cap and travel through all 24 time zones.

vision championship. Detroit St. Cecilia, behind the leadership of former U of M stars Antoine Joubert and Gary Grant, finished third in the men's tournament.
Flint's Lori Byrd pumped in 18 points to lead the Flint Peacock Lounge to a 68-57 decision over De-

IN SATURDAY'S volleyball competition the only O&E area entry was Birmingham Marian.

Marian entered the six-team tournament with just three players from last year's Class A runner-up squad

The Mustangs finished the competition in fifth place. The top four qualified for the finals in Marquette.

"I don't have anything near the team I had last year," said Marian coach Ron Hebert. "Last year I had a once-in-a-lifetime team. This team will have to work real hard and develop."

Wolverines stay unbeaten

The Wolverines remained the only unbeaten team in the Midwest Summer Hockey League, while the Lakers continued their slide with their fourth straight defeat.

Despite having to settle for a 6-6 tie Sunday with the Spartans, the Wolverines rebounded with a convincing 10-4 win over the Broncos Monday, putting their Bakes Conference-leading record at 5-0-2.

The Lakers, who began the season atop the Eagle Conference, fell to 3-4 after being trounced Sunday by the Broncos, 14-4.

The Bakes standings are: Wolverines, Broncos, 3-2-1; Falcons, 3-3-0; and Huskies, 1-4-1. The Eagle standings are: Wildcats, 4-2-0; Spartans, 3-2-1; Lakers, Bulldogs, 0-5-1.

BRONCOS 14, LAKERS 4: Andrew Roy and Leif Gustafson scored four goals apiece to pace the winners.

Roy, who also had three assists, scored twice in the first period as the Broncos took a 3-1 lead, and he added two more during an eight-goal second period.

Larry Bshara scored two goals for the Lakers.

hockey

WILDCATS 4, FALCONS 2: John Smith's third-period goal extended the Wildcats' lead to 3-1 and gave the winners some breathing room down the stretch.

Mike Stahley scored two goals and had one assist, and Smith assisted on two goals. Canton's J.P. LaRoche, who returned from a midget hockey camp in Colorado for his first MSHL action, recorded three assists.

WOLVERINES 6, SPARTANS 6: Mark Ottenbreit's goal with two minutes remaining enabled the Spartans to tie the Wolverines, who held a 5-3 lead entering the final period.

Ottenbreit and Rick DeSana knotted the score in the third period before Scott Wolter put the Wolverines in front 6-5.

Dennis Ryan paced the Wolverines with three goals and one assist, and Wolter had two goals. Ottenbreit's two goals topped the Spartans.

HUSKIES 3, BULLDOGS 2: The Bulldogs went up 3-2 on a goal by Craig Johnson in the third period, but Dan Noade scored with 4:51 to play and forced the tie.

Sean Skinner had two assists and Noade one for the Huskies, who have improved their record to 1-4-1.

WOLVERINES 10, BRONCOS 4: Wolter scored three goals, Scott Haller and Ryan two apiece for the Wolverines, who led 2-1 after one period and decided the issue with a five-goal second stanza.

Stefan Martenson, a Swedish player, contributed a goal and three assists to the victory. Haller two assists, Wolter and Ryan one assist each. Gustafson had a goal and two assists to lead the Broncos.

Jeff Markham and Jeff Savitsky, dividing time in goal for the winners, were credited with outstanding defensive play.

Auto job market dwindling

The auto job market, once the uncontested leader in opportunities for college graduates, has taken a back seat to the service sector for the first time in recent years.

"This is a major sign in not only the changing strengths of the job market but the entire national economy," said John Crusoe, director of Placement Services at Wayne State University.

Manufacturing-related jobs have given way to the service sector of the economy. Engineers aren't in demand the way they used to be, with jobs like sales managers bumping them out of popularity.

Checking the recruiting score-board at the WSU placement office, associate placement director Bob Thomas of Rochester notes that the Big Three automakers might more aptly be called the Little Three in terms of job recruiting on campus. "General Motors won't be recruiting at all this fall, and employment needs at Ford and Chrysler appear to be way down," he said.

The hot names in the recruiting field these days are such staid accounting and consulting firms as Touche Ross & Co., Arthur Andersen, and Plante and Moran.

More than 500 recruiters from all professions visit the WSU campus each year. But that trend is changing, too.

Innovative job fairs where employers can host one huge recruiting program in one place are increasingly in vogue this year — mostly for economic reasons and as a better and more efficient drawing card for collegiate job seekers.

THE FIRST such affair in WSU history will be March 25, in cooperation with Eastern Michigan University. The Michigan Collegiate Job Fair to be held on Oakland Community College's Orchard Ridge campus in Farmington Hills is targeted for 200 employers and more than 2,000 graduate job seekers.

Business administration graduates are having the best luck finding jobs, according to Crusoe. Other high demand fields include nursing, pharmacy and allied health professions.

Engineers and others involved in the manufacturing sector of industry are limping along, moving toward last place in terms of job prospects.

Engineering recruiting has slumped 47 percent in the same time period that business and liberal arts majors (primarily service sector employment) has gained. Recruiting for business jobs has jumped 30 percent over the past two years with a staggering 21 percent gain in recruiting for liberal arts graduates, according to Crusoe.

Looking to the future, Crusoe sees little change in the job mix of opportunities. We're becoming more and more a service-oriented economy and the manufacturing sector won't soon regain its status in the job market, he said.

His advice to students planning a career?

Go where the action is in such fields as marketing, management, selling and merchandising. If you're determined to be an engineer, Crusoe warns the competition for the reduced jobs in that field will be fierce and maintains that auto industry recruiting may never regain the front seat position it once enjoyed on college campuses.

Tax reform could change vacation plans

If you are a vacation home landlord or renter, last year's federal tax changes could play a significant role in your summer vacation plans.

People who plan to rent a vacation home this year may find it more costly, as some landlords increase rents to make up for write-offs lost under the Tax Reform Act. Full mortgage interest and property taxes on second homes will still be deductible if the home is used for personal enjoyment only, according to the Price Waterhouse Guide to the New Tax Law.

If the home is rented out, however, stricter rules may apply. The list below highlights the latest changes under the new law. If you own or are considering buying or renting a vacation home, research the specific changes or consult a tax professional.

- Deductible losses on rented vacation homes are capped at $25,000; this cap is reduced for taxpayers with adjusted gross income over $100,000 a year.

- Losses are not deductible within the $25,000 cap unless you actively participate in managing the property. Active participation means you must have at least a 10 percent ownership stake in the vacation home and be involved in management decisions. To the IRS, management decisions include approving tenants, establishing rental terms and approving expenditures.

- Mortgage interest is deductible only on first and second homes. The IRS will treat the interest on any other residence as personal, which is not deductible.

- The real estate depreciation period has been extended from 19 years to 27½ years. In addition, you must now use the straight line method of depreciation instead of the accelerated method.

If you rent out your home for less than 15 days during the year, a special provision exists which can sometimes work to your advantage, according to the Price Waterhouse guide.

The rule states you may not take any deductions except mortgage interest and property taxes. But the rental income you collect is not taxable.

Rouge effort wins award

It's a long way from the Rouge River to the Rose Garden, but three men who led last year's inaugural Rouge Rescue '86 made the trip this week.

Friends of the Rouge President James Murray, former executive director Bruce Monson and Ross Roberts, general marketing manager of Ford Division, Ford Motor Co., received a national "Take Pride in America" award Tuesday during ceremonies at the White House.

Ford has been one of the event's primary corporate sponsors.

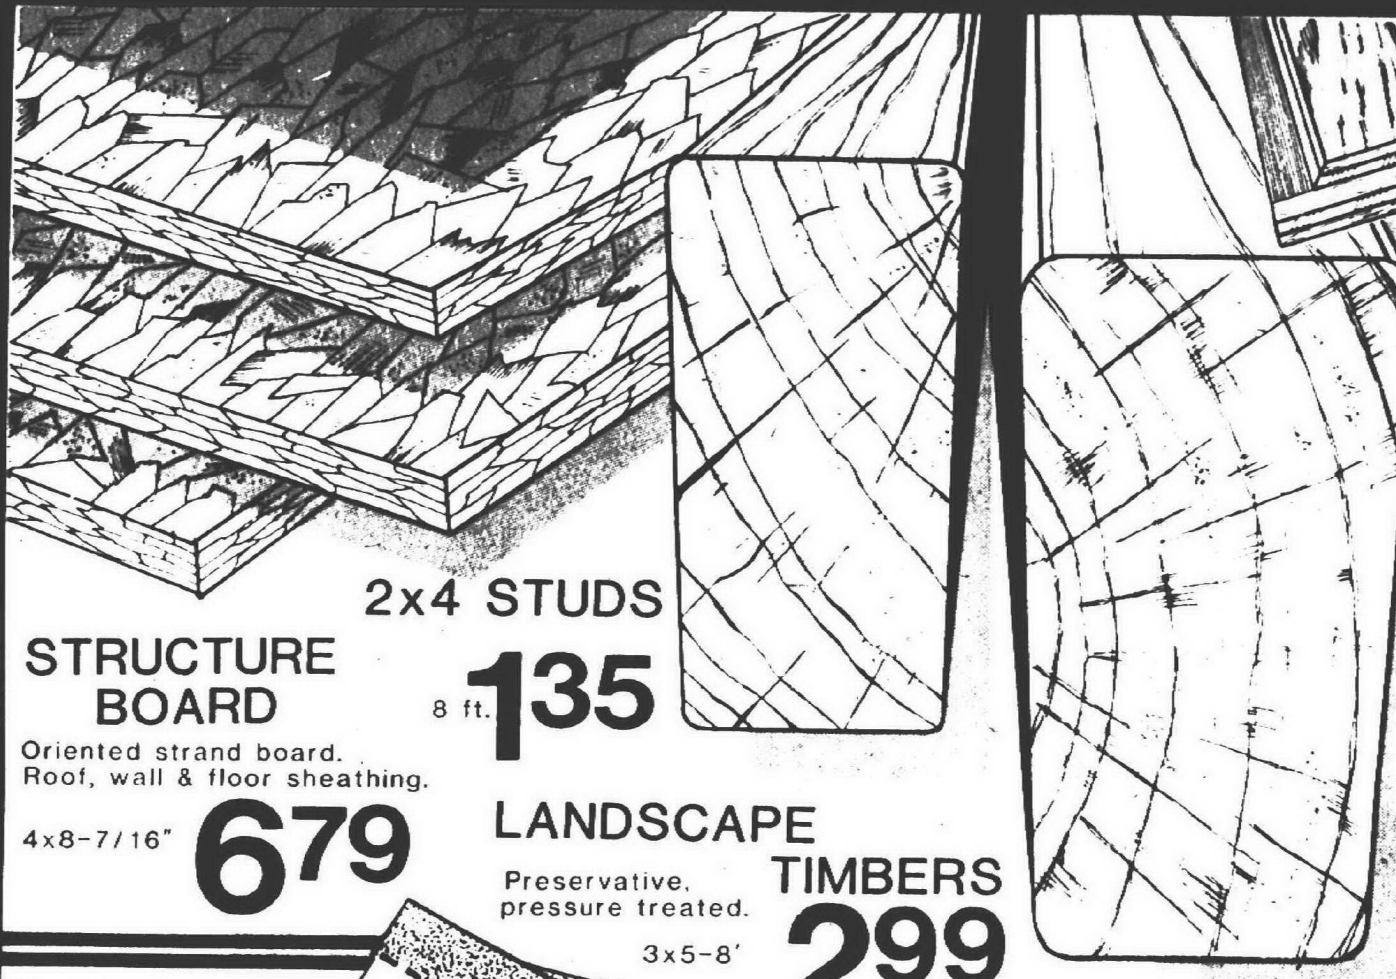

The initial Rouge Rescue was one of 38 community action programs honored out of a field of 500 nominees.

President Ronald Reagan and Vice President George Bush were scheduled to participate in the ceremony.

The awards program is sponsored by the U.S. Department of Interior.

The windows of the great room, at left, facing Lake Michigan, offer a selection of wonderful views any time of the day. The one from the deck of the library loft where the telescope is located is generally outstanding. Above, Emma and Michael Minasian take a breather on the landing, halfway to the beach. The house, designed by their son, Ted, is more than 41 feet at its highest point.

Second home Family uses northern retreat year 'round

The window by the driveway entrance illustrates the care Ted Manasian took with details. The painting by Detroit artist Zubei Kachadourian is a family favorite.

ASOON AS THE FLINT signs are behind them going north on U.S. 75, Michael Minasian's headache disappears. A feeling of peace begins to unknot the muscles and cool the brain as the magic of northern Michigan slowly invades the body like a tonic, washing away cares and worries.

His wife, Emma, said, "I stop making my daily list of things to do."

By the time, they head west out of Harbor Springs on the dirt road that leads to the vacation home they built on Lake Michigan three years ago, they are relaxed, ready to walk along the beach and enjoy the magnificent sunset.

They have a choice of views. The house, four levels, almost 42 feet high, designed by their son, Ted, 29, a civil engineer, is on a ridge high above the lake. One of the most breathtaking views is from the balcony of the third level library loft. One of the most relaxing is from a chair on the second level deck off the great room. From any of the many windows on the lake side of the house, there's a show-stopper view of lake, sky, sunset, beach and trees.

"Depending on where the sunset's going to be,

lifestyles: upstate

we're always running from one level to another for the best view," Emma Minasian said.

The couple and children have been coming to the Harbor Springs area for vacations for more than 25 years. For a long time they had a chalet in the woods. Then a real estate agent called Minasian about this lot and he put down the receiver and headed north to see it and it was love at first sight. Coincidentally, their neighbor in Bloomfield Hills has a home nearby.

THEY WAITED more than a decade to build their beautiful home until they were sure their three daughters, Teryl, Brooke (Mrs. Gar Hoplamazian) and Kim and son, Ted, would be living in the area to enjoy it with them. Two grandchildren, Marin, 3, and Garo, 1½, Hoplamazian, whom Emma Minasian calls "the light of our lives," are the newest members of the family to enjoy vacations there.

"We come up for two or three days at the most. We're staying for a week for the first time this summer. Sometimes there are 15 phone calls a day between Ted and Michael. Terry and Kim often come up together. This house is used year around. The kids come for skiing. And I love it when the lake is rough." Later she said, "I could never live up here full time. We have a large family and there's something going on all the time."

Once the parents saw their young people were going to settle in the metropolitan area, they told Ted to go ahead with his plans. He recently took over Minasian Development Co. of Farmington Hills from his father who continues as a consultant. For Ted, who is used to designing and building office buildings, it was a special treat.

"I told Ted I wanted something gothic, I love gothic. And he said, do you mind if I design it?" said Emma.

Admitting that the 3,300-square-foot home is a long way from gothic, she said, "It sort of grew on me, it feels like what should be here."

Humanities conscious Kaplan met council challenge

Suzanne Kaplan humanities post ends

By Barbara Ziomba
special writer

LOOKING BACK on her seven years as member of the Michigan Council for the Humanities, its former chairperson, Suzanne Kaplan views these years as a time of change and growth both for the organization and for herself.

An educator at Schoolcraft Community College in Livonia, Kaplan, of Oak Park, is committed to the program she helped design and establish in 1975 at Schoolcraft — namely the Academic Options program.

The theory behind the program is to educate people to be self-learners, self-starters, and most important, perpetual learners.

Rather than segment education into rigid pigeonholes, the student learns how to increase his or her capacity for critical thinking and analysis and to adapt this skill to other areas.

THIS PHILOSOPHY OF education parallels the work of the Michigan Council for Humanities (MCH), a non-profit organization founded in 1974 to promote public humanities programs throughout Michigan.

Underpinning the council's operation are the RFP's — requests for proposals — that attest to the council's dual function as a channel for receiving federal revenue and advising those seeking funding for humanities projects.

Kaplan's program is also structured to accept proposals from students for humanistic, interdisciplinary projects in return for college credits.

The humanities is a complex, confusing area to categorize, noted Kaplan. "That is our biggest challenge. If you could define it, half of our job would be over. I talked with a friend of mine who is the vice president for marketing for Campbell-Ewald (an advertising agency), and he advised me to get rid of the term humanities since nobody knows what it is," she said with a laugh.

PLUNGING INTO THE question, she offered an overview of the area. "It is both a field of study and the way one approaches it. It also is the cultural aspect of society — that kind of legacy passed on from generation to generation — that culminates in some sense of what it means to be human."

Also, while each field could be studied as a separate discipline, it is the close association — a holistic association — that illustrates how the humanities is the sum of all its parts.

Mirroring this complexity, the MCH's guidelines for those submitted proposals have changed since its founding. At that time, the council's standards were limited to the study of human values and their impact on public policy.

This interpretation excluded the more traditional features of the field. Now, the guidelines specify that disciplines such as history, literature, the social sciences and other area of study be included, Kaplan noted.

Even the council's members echo the rich diversity of the humanities. Labor leaders, business people and educators are some of the backgrounds represented among the 25 citizen volunteers.

"EVALUATION PROPOSALS is done as a team. We separate into small groups to read and critique the proposals," explained Kaplan. A well-written proposal is crucial to the success of securing funding. "If it doesn't make sense, it won't be approved."

This year, the people of Michigan are involved in observing three historic anniversaries: the bicentennial of the U. S. Constitution, the sesquicentennial of Michigan statehood, and the bicentennial of the Northwest Ordinance, which provided the legal basis for expanding the new United States and helped shape a midwestern region.

The conjunction of these three events led the MCH to designate as its theme for 1987 "The Making of Michigan." As such, the council sought ideas that examined relationships between community experience and the Michigan heritage. One of the projects was "The Constitution in a Changing America," presented by Henry Ford Museum in Greenfield Village.

Another will take place the weekend of July 30 in Grand Haven where three days of festivities will focus on Great Lakes history with heavy emphasis on family-oriented activities.

"It's a day trip worth taking," commented Kaplan on the three-day festival, entitled "Celebrate! Great Lakes," which will open Thursday, July 30 and end on Saturday, Aug. 1. The event will take place at Grand Haven's Waterfront Park in conjunction with the community's annual Coast Guard festival.

One of the highlights will be a "hook-to-cook" demonstration on sport fishing followed by a fish fry. There will also be tour of a Great Lake research vessel and of a 21-foot Mackinac sailing schooner. Also on hand will be strolling musicians, folk dancing and storytelling, lectures and dramatists and environmental exhibits.

Oral histories seem to be popular among those submitting proposals. Observed Kaplan, "We get a lot of projects relating to collective memories of old people and passing those memories on to children. We have a program called HISTOP (History Through Our Pictures) in which this kind of exchange takes place between the young and the old."

Humanities council chairwoman marks change and growth

The MCH also sponsors a speakers bureau as part of its "Making of Michigan" initiative. The bureau consists of humanities scholars from the fields of law, political science, constitutional history and other disciplines.

The years since Kaplan joined the council have been a period of re-trenchment for the organization. "When these state councils were first organized, they were primarily regnant institutions set up to receive federal monies and disperse them to non-profit organizations throughout the state."

"After eight or nine years, people became aware we existed and started coming to us for funding, and then we started running out of money. When I first joined the council, we had more money than we knew what to do with."

TO SOLVE THE problem, the council turned to an area where it had little experience — that of fund-raising. Kaplan said, "We now have a development committee, we're establishing friends and alumni organizations and we've submitted our own proposals with major foundations around the state, such as the Kellogg and Kresge foundations, so we're learning."

That's where the personal satisfaction comes in for Kaplan. The shift in the MCH's priority gave her the opportunity to increase her management skills and develop techniques in areas such as long-range planning.

The MCH's new chairperson is John Wright, director of special projects at Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village in Dearborn. While her term has ended, Kaplan will continue to serve the council since the organization keeps former chairpersons as a means of providing internal continuity.

Meanwhile, spreading the word on the Academic Options program has top priority with the effervescent educator. Her dedication to the project is such that she would like to see "200 people lining up at the door to take the course. Everyone who's taken it loves it."

Double Cross

Writer targets younger readers

GILBERT B. CROSS is an English language and literature professor at Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti. He is also a former British subject. He is also a novelist.

But before you get the idea that Professor Cross must be as stuffy as the above description suggests he is, let me tell you that his novels are a far cry from the academic world Cross lives in.

He likes espionage — juicy spy stuff — and his three published adult thrillers, "The Drakov Memoranda," "The Catenary Exchange," and "Berlin Fugue" are out-and-out thrillers.

So when he took to writing novels for children (something he says he was sure he could never do), what else could they be but mysteries? His latest children's book, "Terror Train" (Atheneum, Hardbound, $11.95), is a sequel to "Mystery at Loon Lake," the first in the Jeff and Nguyen series.

In "Terror Train," Jeff Glover and his adopted Vietnamese brother, Vo Nguyen, ride the Amtrak "Empire Builder" from Chicago to Portland,

Mona Grigg

Oregon to spend Christmas with their mother, a concert violinist on tour.

THEIR DAD, a train buff (and slightly scatterbrained writer who says very British things like "The point is, lads..." and "Drat!" though there's no mention of his not being American), is sidelined the night before the trip when 8-year-old Rodney comes down with German measles, conveniently leaving the two boys to their own resources.

They cross paths almost immediately with the mysterious Mr. Kurtz and his assistant, the thoroughly unlikeable Nicholas Drake. Later, they share a dining table with Mrs. Agnes Larkin, a pushy, nosy old woman who just happens to be a mystery writer.

"Jack the Kipper," said Nguyen. "Eh?" said Mrs. Larkin. "Jack the Kipper, saw it on TV." "Ripper, boy. Jack the Ripper. Priceless! For heaven's sake, have you heard of Palmer the Poisoner, John Reginald Halliday Christie, Hague the Acid Bath Murderer?"

NGUYEN SHOOK his head, fixing his eyes on the table cloth. "The poor boy looks in his menu. Thinks of kippers for breakfast and confuses Jack with a salted fish."

And the plot thickens. It's no surprise that Nicholas Drake is the bad guy, but there are other surprises along the way that make for fun reading — even for an adult.

condo queries

Robert M. Meisner

Q. One of the purchasers in our condominium wants to refinance but says that the bank requires FNMA approval and that our condominium documents don't provide for same. Is there any liability on the board of directors if FNMA approval is not possible?

A. In discussing this matter with other experienced condominium association practitioners from around the country, it is the general consensus that the law is moving in the direction of requiring that directors of condominium associations take whatever reasonable means are necessary in order to ensure that the investments of their co-owners are protected.

Incident to that may well be the obligation on the part of the association board to ensure that the documents of the condominium comply with secondary mortgage lending requirements so as to allow for more favorable financing or refinancing of the condominium units.

There may also be an obligation on the part of the directors to update the condominium documents to insure that they are in accordance with changes and/or modifications to the condominium law either by statutory or judicial interpretation. It is imperative, therefore, that a competent condominium association attorney review the condominium documents with the board of directors with these factors in mind.

Q. Could you expand upon your answer in a recent edition to the benefits of converting to condominiums from apartments?

A. It is obviously impossible to detail all of the potential benefits attributable to a developer through a condominium conversion from apartments. Generally speaking, however, it gives the developer an opportunity to liquidate the apartment at a greater profit than would be the case if he sold the apartment complex as a whole.

Moreover, depending upon the composition of the buildings, i.e. townhouses vs. apartments, the project may be better suited for individual ownership than that of an apartment complex owned by a landlord.

Definitions bring basics into focus

IT WAS 11 p.m. when my wife and I finally sat down to relax and watch the news before retiring for the evening. It had been a sticky hot day and it felt good to just sit as the fan pulled in the cool night air.

"Oh," Sandy said, as she flipped through the channels, "these are the Iran/Contra hearings — let's watch 'em." "OK," I groaned with relief as I nestled into my chair. Maybe it was the drone-like whirr of the fan that hypnotized us. Or perhaps the stolid line of questioning (upset by occasional flares of temper) that held our attention. Whatever it was, we watched and watched. Finally, at 2:45 a.m., I snapped out of my trance and interrupted counsel, Congress and SPAN and asked "What are they talking about?" My wife, without even looking at me, said, "I don't know either, but isn't it interesting?"

If you could find the spiral notebook I used in my government class, you would find page after page of drawings occasionally interrupted with notes pertaining to government class. I also remember a rush of relief when I received my grade. I got a "C" somehow. The only thing that bothered me was that a "C" means average. And if my knowledge of government is average, then this country is in a lot of trouble.

Sometimes when I mention a term or medium etc. my students give me the same look that I'm sure my government teacher saw on my face. So let's look at some basic terms and definitions:

Blender: The adhesive used to hold particles of pigment together in paint. In watercolor — gum arabic, a water-soluble glue; in oil-based oil; in tempera-egg yolk or whole egg in pastels — gum arabic; in acrylics — a liquid plastic.

Camel hair: any of a number of soft hair watercolor brushes made of squirrel, badger, goat, fish (skunk), etc. (True camel hair is unsuited for brushes).

Cagille: a textured illustration board available in several different stipples finishes, used to make half-tone effects through line reproduction.

Fugitive pigment: said of color that is not stable but changes chemically under different circumstances, usually fading.

Oil pastels: oil colors in stick form used alone, dipped in turpentine, or with thinner and brushes; no fixative needed.
