PACESETTER: The Plymouth Community Fund/ United Way announced this week that local auto dealers are involved in a Pacesetter campaign in connection with the general fund-raising drive that will kick off at a luncheon

Wednesday, Sept. 16. The first of the auto dealers to be announced as a Pacesetter is Bob Jeannotte Pontiac. His employees learned more about the Plymouth Community Fund at a presentation this week.

"We anticipate that some friendly competition will be generated among the area auto dealers as a result of their willingness to become involved in the Pacesetter campaign," said Kriss Rautio, business division co-chair of the general drive. "Not all of the auto dealers have had an opportunity to respond to the invitation to be a Pacesetter but additional involvement is anticipated."

The Plymouth Community Fund/United Way was established in 1944 by a group of individuals who realized that needs existed in the community. Community Fund agencies include Plymouth Salvation Army, Senior Citizens Club of Plymouth, Visiting Nurses Association of Metropolitan Detroit, Plymouth Community Family YMCA, Michigas Cance Foundation, Plymouth Dental Fund, Plymouth Family Service, Plymouth Opportunity House, American Red Cross, Big Brothers/Big Sisters, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, First Step, Growth Works and Plymouth Community Council on Aging.

30TH YEAR: The Livonia Youth Symphony, which includes a number of Canton and Plymouth musicians, will begin its 30th season Saturday, Sept. 19

With more than 150 young musicians from 35 different communities in southeast Michigan, the youth symphony will assemble at Livonia Churchill High for its first rehearsal.

The symphony has three orchestras: Chamber, conducted by Attila Farkas; Concert. conducted by Yues Cohen; and Strings, conducted by Sara Garrett. This will be Garrett's first season with the youth symphony. An Ann Arbor resident, she has a master's degree in music education from the University of Oregon and has taught strings since 1970.

Concerts for 1987-88 include Pease Auditorium at Eastern Michigan University on Feb. 21 and Orchestra Hall on May 15. There are openings in all three orchestras. Auditions will be 5-9 p.m. Monday, Sept. 14, at Faith Lutheran Church in Livonia. To schedule an audition, call 455-1487 or 349-1894.

MD MONEY-MAKER: Laura Fallon, Omnicom sales supervisor, announces that the cablevision company will be participating in a campaign to support the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Current subscribers will be able to receive free installation of their choice of any of the premium channels for a donation of $5 or more to the MDA. With a $5 donation the customer could save $10 off the upgrade installation fee. The offer expires Sept. 8. For information, call 459-8320.

Last year Omnicom participated in the MDA campaign and also donated to the Plymouth Salvation Army and to several soup kitchens in the Hamtramck area.

Regardless, it soon will be time to get back to the formal business of learning

Teachers in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools are to report Monday.

Tuesday is opening day for most students. Time for a fresh start, the opportunity to see old friends and make new ones

Students in grades one through 12 are to show up for a half day of orientation on Tuesday. Wednesday is the first full day of classes.

Kindergarteners will start Wednesday.

BUSES WILL RUN Tuesday according to regular morning schedules. Students in grades K-2 who live at least one mile from school are eligible for busing. The criterion is 11/2 miles for everyone else.

Special transportation needs are considered on an individual basis.

The state of the string instructional program in the Plymouth-Canton school district has some people sing-

In a letter to the newspaper, Janita Hauk, a former string instructor of Plymouth for 17 years, said that she is very concerned that the string program is in what she terms a 'phase-out" mode.

Hauk taught beginning string players for one hour daily last year but had to reluctantly retire at year's end due to her husband's ill health. The Hauks are now living in "The task at hand is to guide school administrators, school board members and the general public to recognize that the arts are not frills but are necessary to the cognitive, psychomotor and effective develop-

For 17 seasons, she performed as a first violinist with the Plymouth Symphony and was a member of the Plymouth String Trio.

"There are so few parents involved in the string program that there are not enough people to get out and bat for it," she said.

"When something is spiraling down, it just continues. There were 150-180 beginning students in 1981. There seems to be no top priority in saving this program.

Hauk said that the string program encountered logistic and time problems three years ago when middle school students who were enrolled in the string program were bused to Plymouth Canton High School an

Substitutes given pay

Plymouth-Canton Community Schools this year will rise to $48 from $45 per day.

Administrators proposed the increase to keep the district competitive with surrounding school districts.

Plymouth-Canton last year spent about $315,000 for substitute teachers, said Superintendent John M. Hoben. The raise is expected to cost an additional $25,000 this year.

"What we're trying to do is stay competitive to get subs and quality subs," said Norm Kee, assistant superintendent for personnel. "Even $5 a day makes a difference when you're subbing."

On average, 35-40 of the 800 permanent teachers here are absent on a given day, he said. Occasionally, with flu epidemics and in-service training, up to 100 can be absent.

Long-term disability, such as maternity leaves, also can run up the substitute teacher bill. Substitutes Last year, substitutes were paid at earn $53 per day after 10 days in the

"Our illness rate is quite good," Kee said, basing that opinion on conversations with administrators from neighboring districts.

Local absences are reported and substitutes found through a central telephone number at the central administrative offices. Efforts are made to accommodate requests of principals and prospective subs.

Some do it because they figure it's an opportunity to get employ-ment," Kee said. "Others have trained and, although they can't do it full-time for one reason or another, they want to keep at it."

An annual workshop for substitute teachers sponsored by the district was held earlier this week. The focus was discipline.

With Hauk's departure, Michael Endres, the only remaining full-time string teacher, has total responsibility for the program

Endres, who has taught 24 years in the Plymouth-Canton school district and is CEP orchestra director, said that over the last 10 years the administration has changed its approach regarding string instruction at the middle school

Whereas band instruction is given at the home middle school, string students must be bused to CEP where he is located, Endres said.

Despite the inconvenience and small size of the orchestra, Endres said that his string students continue to earn high ratings in district competitions

Although beginning string instruction is offered first in the sixth grade, Endres said statistics support the fact that students are more developmentally ready at grade five, or better yet, at grade four to begin string instruction.

Hauk,

In fact, some of the park's busiest Saturdays are yet to come. Upcoming events range from a diaper derby to a marathon training run.

Saturday is the WNIC/Wayne County Parks $100,000 Family Free Day. Events will include a beach volleyball demonstration, power-tanning contest, diaper derby, toddler trot, big-wheel grand prix and parade at the Nankin Mills Picnic area on Ann Arbor Trail and Hines Drive.

The grand prize winner of WNIC's secret slogan contest will be selected from among some 300 entries. Winner of the power-tanning contest will receive an all-expense-paid trip for two to Acapulco.

A DIAPER DERBY will start at 12:30 p.m. followed by a toddler trot for those age 2 and under at 12:45. A Big Wheel grand prix is scheduled for kids of all ages at 1 p.m. (youngsters will be divided into divisions by ages). A parade at 1:30 p.m. will feature WNIC disc jockey Jim Harper and his kazoo band and the Fred Hill Haberdasher Precision Briefcase Drill Team.

The $100,000 drawing will be held at 2:30 p.m. Beach volleyball demonstrations will begin at 11 a.m. and continue throughout the day.

If it rains, all activities will be held Sunday.

On Sept. 5, the parks department will host the Gone Fishing Contest 7-10 p.m. at Newburgh Lake. Grandparents and their grandchildren may participate in the derby, which cele-brates grandparents day. Prizes will parks department, 261-1990.

Summer may be winding down but be awarded. Registration will be accepted the day of the derby or in advance by calling 261-1990.

Farther east along the parkway at the Nankin Mills site, the Westland Sesquicentennial Committee will feature a two-day celebration featuring a variety of picnics, a parade, five-mile run and square dancing.

On Sept. 12 the March of Dimes will hold a bike race in the park. On that same day Parent to Parent for Prevention, a Livonia-based drug prevention group will hold a rally for parents and students at the Nankin Mills Picnic site.

On Sept. 19 the Livonia Family YMCA will host a 10K run at 9 a.m. at Nankin Mills. At noon that day farther east at Merriman Hollow, the Wayne-Westland Special Olympics will hold a bikeathon fund-ra-

On Sept. 26, a 20-mile marathon training run will be held. On that day the park will be closed from Outer Drive to Haggerty Road to accommodate the runners. The area from Ann Arbor Trail to Haggerty will be closed until noon.

On that same day, St. Jude's Re-search Hospital will hold a bikeathon from noon to 3 p.m. at Helm's Haven on Hines Drive, east of Telegraph.

On Oct. 9 the parks department will host nursery school olympics for 3- and 4-year-olds at the Warrendale Picnic site on Hines Drive, east of Telegraph. Youngsters will compete in marshmallow shot-put, paperplate discus and miniature-miniature golf events.

For more information on any of the events, call Vic Chiasson at the

Parks chief glad despite budget woes

staff writer

When R Eric Reickel was wooed by William Lucas in 1984 to head the Wayne County Department of Parks and Recreation, he had hopes of a $7-million or $8-million budget by now: Instead, his first budget of $2.5 million has suffered through two five-percent cuts since than and is projected at just $2.28 million for

There is a hiring freeze in effect and his staff has fallen from 48 to 44. Facilities like picnic tables, park penches and trash barrels remain woefully inadequate for the 4,200acre parks system.

Consider: In 1962, the park system had 4,000 picnic tables. Today it has 550. Then, it had 900 park benches. Today, there are none. Then, there were 2,000 trash barrels. Today, there are 100.

Yet Reickel, who had a budget of nearly $8 million when he headed the Oakland County Department of Parks and Recreation, said he is glad he left his old position for his current post and would do it over

Area officials and park users say that under him, the parks are cleaner than they were in the early 80s. The restrooms are again usable, rowdyism in the parks (particularly Hines) no longer makes headlines, and innovative new programs (such as closing Hines Drive to traffic on Saturdays) have drawn rave reviews and big crowds.

just blowing smoke," said Reickel. Part of the reason is he is still sure he is the right person to bring the park system back to past respectability and to the point where it was decades ago as one of the best park systems in the nation.

A major reason he has no regrets is that he is a Wayne County native, PART OF THE REASON is his remembers the park system fondly ing forward, budget or not.

'Hindsight is 20-20." said Reickel. When I came here, it was with the intention of improving the quality of life in Wayne County. I don't feel I've failed. The quality of life is better. But I've gone as far as I can as an administrator. I need more support. People (in county government) need to realize what the park system has to offer.

'But I don't regret the move. No way. I was right to leave Oakland County and to come here. I only hope

I'll be able to continue what I started

Reickel said Lucas told him a millage for the parks was a possibility The current administration is dead set against a millage

"(Edward) McNamara's record in Livonia proves he is very pro parks Yet his hands are tied because of the budget," said Reickel. The present administration isn't interested in a millage, though I still think we need an outside source of funding

"Mr. McNamara has been very

Yet slowly things continue to improve in the parks

Reickel credits his director of recreation. Vic Chiasson, with many of the program improvements. Hines Drive is closed to traffic on Saturday mornings six months a year and is filled then with runners, bikers and picnickers

In Hines Park. company picnics are up substantially Last weekend there was a horse rally by the sheriff's department. This weekend there will be a power-tanning competition as part of a $100,000 give-away promotion by radio station WNIC

Two beach volleyball courts are under construction across from Nankin Mills, and in late September. 1 000 runners will run 20 miles in the park as part of their training program for the Free Press International Marathon And a new 18-hole golf course will be built soon in western Wayne County

There's continually more and more activities, but this is where we get a Catch 22." said Reickel, who believes his budget should be at least $5 million "We've attracted more people but that generates more garbage and the need for more comfort I tell you one minute Stations that we don't have any money to do things, then I tell you the next about all the things we're doing.

I'd like to have the road shoulders groomed once a week I'd like more picnic tables and more comfort stations But it's a hell of a lot better than it was three years ago

Parks system's future debated

staff writer

Wayne County's park system needs money, a recent task force report said, but how much it intends to raise could determine park use for decades to come.

A first-ever park tax, user fees and park entry fees are among the fund-raising ideas suggested by the county's special parks task force.

"Quite frankly the county parks system needs money to bring it up to par," Livonia parks director Ronald Reinke said.

Other officials said the financing debate will seal the parks' fate as Active or passive recreation units.

"The question is always what to do about the parks," county commissioner Susan Heintz, R-Northville Towship, said. "Should they be places where you have softball diamonds or just places you walk through?

There currently isn't a county for shrinking transfers from the county's general operating budget.

"WHEN THE general fund gets squeezed, the parks fee! the pinch," said Reinke, a task force member.

But while no one wants to return to the overgrown lawns and youth gangs of several years ago, not everyone is happy with all task force recommendations.

"I think they're going to have a hard time selling a parks millage," Heintz said. "I think that's especially true in western Wayne. Here, people like to take a good, long look at tax increases.

Heintz, who represents Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Livonia, served as task force chairwoman last year before being elected to the county commission.

Likewise, a recommendation that would transfer two county parks to Redford Township is considered a mixed blessing by township officials.

'We've been interested in Bell Creek for years, but we aren't interested in Lola Valley at all," Supervisor James Kelly said. "Bell Creek is parks we already have. We don't vate county parks.

have the equipment to handle a hillier park like Lola Valley.'

Bell Creek, in the Inkster Road Five Mile area and Lola Valley, on a winding flood plain between Five and Six Mile roads, are both recommended for transfer.

County park use has been up in past years, after an early 1980s low because of unkempt fields and teen

"I know I've talked to several people who said they've just gone back to using the parks," said Westland Department of Public Service director Ralph Tack, also a task force member. "And there's a good, professional staff out there that's bringing the people back.'

Local officials said they didn't see their parks competing for use with county parks.

"I don't see them as a competitor at all," Reinke said. "They have things we don't. They have bike trails and the ability to close the park just for riders. They also have a parks tax. The parks system com- lake system for inland fishing. We petes with other county departments simply can't provide those kind of

"As far as charging tolls to enter parks. I don't think that's possible on Hines Drive," Reinke said. "There's just too many entrances.

THE TASK FORCE report estimated Hines Park toll gates could add as much as $200,000 annually to the park system. Entrance fees at Elizabeth park, Trenton, were estimated to add another $75,000.

Additional long-term sources such as golf courses and wave pools should also be considered. he added.

"The golf courses are a big revenue producer for us in Livonia," Reinke said.

(Part III)

Whether at home watching my own children and their friends in past years, or watching kindergarpresent, I don't think I have ever seen children happier or more at ease than while swinging

Up and down, up and down, sometimes trying to go higher than anyone else, sometimes simply shutting out the world around them; this is the place one sees the most smiles during play.

Simple swings can be constructed with rope and tire or rope and board. In fact, these seem to be the envy of those who do not have them as the child can go higher and whirl around laster than on most swing sets. You must, of course, have, for this type, a suitable tree or wooden structure from which to hang the rope.

Ordinary swing sets serve the same purpose; a place where children can take time to think, to dream and to sing or chant (one can often hear them singing or chanting rhymes to the rhythm of the swing).

ART, DRAMA AND music, as well as having aesthetic value for children, play an important role as stress relievers. They serve to calm the aggressive, bring out the shy and provide a happy atmosphere for all.

I have many times, seen a little face light up during the singing of a favorite song. I have also witnessed a bully being calmed by the singing of his favorite song.

Singing to your child in early infancy and with him later on can help to establish a closeness, one he can think about during the times he has to be away from you during the day or evening hours.

Taking your children to free concerts in the park during the summer months is an invaluable experience. They can sit, lie or move about while they are listening to the music.

Many types of musical recordings for young children are available in stores and in libraries. I often use classical selections in the kindergarten (those geared to the listening pleasure of the young child). I play them during snack and relaxation time and sometimes even as background music for work or play activities. The children love the record ings and will often remind me to your child? If so, in what way? but them on.

I know personally, how much children enjoy music and drama when young men and women come back to talk with me about their role in the kindergarten operetta (some telling teners on the playground, past and me that they still have part of the costume stashed away somewhere).

> This past spring some tender and nostalgic memories were enjoyed by my first Cinderella (1975), and me, when she returned to her kindergarten room to see "Cinderella 1987. After the performance, we hugged, shed some tears, then had cookies and lemonade, just as we had 12

THE CARING FOR a pet should be a part of a child's life. To love and care for a live animal is a happy way to learn responsibility and is a great stress reliever.

For several years we had Bernard, a lovable Basset hound who followed our boys everywhere he could, lavishing them with affections. He would run to the fence, wagging his tail and whimpering until he saw his own children (sometimes at an incredible distance).

He was a pillow by the fireplace, a play companion for not only our own but for all of the children in the neighborhood, and someone to hug when troubled. He was always there for them and that was important.

Children who are very allergic to certain pets could have other types to care for, which would not bother their allergies. Even though these usually cannot be hugged, they are still living creatures and something to care and be responsible for.

ONE WINTER, I conducted a survey among my kindergarten parents, concerning the effects of T.V. on the young child. I asked the parents if they would give me their point of view on the following questions: (1) Do you influence your child's

T.V. viewing? If so, in what way? (2) Do you feel there is too much T.V. violence during children's viewing hours? If so, have you ever writ-

By Diane Gale staff writer

A man described as in his late 30s attacked a clerk at Quik Pik in Canton early this week.

The man was walking across the parking area of the party store on Joy about 4:30 a.m. Aug. 24, a Canton Police report said. She said he was nude except for shoes, socks and a white jersey.

The man apparently was masturbating as he was walking. The clerk tried to lock the door but the man pushed it open, a police report said. He pushed the clerk against a counter and spoke obscenities.

WHEN THE CLERK told the man the manager was in the back room he ran eastbound into a nearby woods. Before leaving, he wiped the door, window and door handle.

The man had a bushy mustache, a one or two day beard, about 5 feet 6 inches tall, 135 pounds, reddish hair and blue eyes.

The clerk suffered a three-inch scrape on her wrist, the report said. Anyone with information about the case is asked to Canton Police at 397-3000.

In a separate incident, two Canton men were arrested for drug charges at 1:40 a.m. Aug. 21.

Both men were arraigned in Westland's Out Wayne County Circuit Court before Judge Michael Russell of 24th District Court.

Russell entered a plea of not guilty for each. Bond was set at $1,500, Boljesic said.

A preliminary examination to determine if there's enough evidence to hold a trial is scheduled for Aug. 31 in 35th District Court.

In another incident, a burglary was reported at the B & N Party Store on Lilley and Ford. The police report listed $7,000 worth of merchandise was stolen sometime between 5 p.m. Aug. 21 and 1 p.m. Aug. 22. The business was closed at the

The owner of the motel where three Inkster police officers were shot to death said Tuesday he was engaged in a gun battle with a suspect in the slayings shortly after the officers were shot.

Security tight for family's hearing

Tight security and piqued interests greeted the principals gathered Tuesday for the preliminary examination of family members charged in the July 9 slayings of three Inkster police officers.

The exam for defendants Alberta Easter, 69, and her sons, Roy Lemons Jr., 47, and William Lemons, 43, is expected to last through today (Thursday). The preliminary exam for a third son, George Lemons, 45, was delayed until at least Tuesday, Sept. 8, for medical reasons.

Regular court watchers, and others who said they came out just for this case, began gathering in the corridor outside a basement courtroom in the Frank Murphy Hall of Justice in downtown Detroit shortly after 7 a.m., two hours before the scheduled start of the hearing.

To get to the courtroom, they had to pass through airport-style metal detectors set up in the lobby of the reason the hearing was moved from 22nd District Court, Inkster, to Detroit Recorder's Court.

SEVERAL FRIENDS and family members of the dead officers -Clay Hoover and Daniel Dubiel, both of Westland, and Sgt. Ira Parker of Inkster - attended the hearing but declined to comment on the proceed-

Jeffries Freeway improvements aim for fall finish

painting of bridge overpasses along the I-96 Jeffries Freeway in western Wayne County will be completed by the end of October, according to a spokesman for the metro district office of the state Department of Problems developed on the freeway, constructed in the mid-1970s, because of the type of steel used.

"It's called rusty steel because it's supposed to rust to a point and then form a protective area," said Al Williams, chief engineer of the metro district office, located in Southfield. "The problem developed sooner than anticipated in areas down low exposed to salt spray.

Excessive rusting of the pin and hanger, part of the bridge's expansion system, necessitated replace-

We inspect each year to prevent this from becoming a serious problem," said Williams, who added that the type of steel used, popular since the 1960s, has been discontinued.

Other problem areas caused by rusty steel include I-275 in Romulus and I-275 at Eight Mile Road as well as Eight Mile Road at the John C Lodge Freeway

The Good News:

Chevy Astros are selling as fast as we can build them.

The Bad News:

We can't quite build them fast enough.

Chevrolet wishes to apologize for the popularity of its Astro passenger van. Because, quite frankly, people like the Astro so much, it can sometimes be tough to find one.

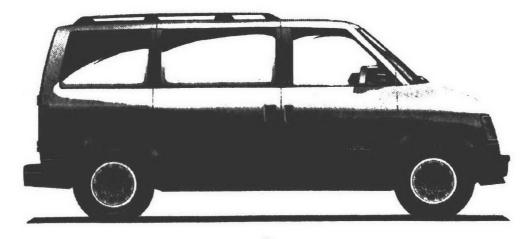

Maybe if Ford or Dodge had a van with Astro's torque, power and towing capacity, things would be a bit easier. Or perhaps if there were a compact van outside GM that could carry as much, the demand for Astros wouldn't be as great. Or just maybe if, after all this time, Ford or Dodge had made swing-out rear doors standard on their vans too, there would be an alternative to Astro

But until that happens-if it happens-Astro will continue to be very, very popular. Which means we'll continue trying to keep up with the demand.

So if you find that you have to wait a bit for your Astro. we apologize. Just keep telling yourself you're not really waiting. You're merely investing some of your time into what could be the best compact van available today.

Best-backed Chevy ever. 6-year 60,000mile powertrain warranty and 6 years or 100,000 miles of outer-body rust-through protection. Solid proof of the quality built into every new Chevy

State prisons 'bottom of barrel' — Welborn

Pick any prison issue you want sites, management, construction, philosphy. Sen. Jack Welborn probably will dissent from the prevailing thinking in the state Department of

"I've not found any that are worse," said Welborn, a Republican from Kalamazoo who chairs the Senate committee that handle prison legislation. He bases that on visits to prison systems in five other states and two foreign countries.

He knows people in Plymouth and Northville townships of western Wayne County and in central Oakland County oppose more prisons in their backyards

"There are more communities that want prisons than there are prisons to build. Many are in the Upit, but we don't build prisons for the convenience of visitors.

ONE TOWN in Welborn's district Ionia -- loves prisons. It has five and has been a prison site for 110

Mayor Fred Thwaites says his city associates prisons with jobs and economic growth.

One story in the history books is that when Michigan was organizing as a state, the cities were divvying up the institutions. Kalamazoo took the insane asylum, as mental hospitals were called, and Marshall thought it would be the state capital.

Jackson won a draw over Ann Arbor and elected the prison over the university on the theory that a prison would mean more jobs.

"lonia grew up with them," said Welborn "It was a prison town beper Peninsula, many in northern fore the modern era with its probration point.

"I introduced and we passed a bill that the people (near a proposed prison site) should have the right of referendum. There are too many shotgun marriages

MICHIGAN HAS been on a prisonbuilding binge in the last five years, and at times it has had to release inmates early because of overcrowding. But to Welborn that's not the big

"Overcrowding is not the No. 1 problem. Lack of management, lack of real tough discipline, is the No. 1 problem. The No. 2 problem is overcrowding," he said on WXYZ's 'Spotlight on News" program and an off-camera interview.

The philosophy of the five-member Corrections Commission, which sets prison policy and hires the di-rector, is that "being in prison is punishment enough," he said. "And the rights we give prisoners — their own radio and TV and typewriter Other states cannot believe we do that "We need a work ethic and a discipline ethic

"Guards say the prisoners run Jackson and allow the staff to operate," Welborn went on. "(Other) prisoners don't like what's happening because, remember, 85 percent of 'em are going to be back on the streets some time They'd like a tighter ship than what we've been running."

WELBORN CAME back from a March visit to Georgia advocating a boot camp"-type of prison with three months of military drills and hard labor. He has introduced a bill to set up one in Michigan.

"I've seen prisons in Taiwan and Japan. They have tough discipline, but they're humane. I've visited prisons in Georgia, Ohio and Indiana Ours are the bottom of the barrel " cle around and around the smoking fort. The waters of the nearby creek run red with the blood of the wounded men. Slaughtered horses and cattle are strewn nearby. It has rained for nine days and the survivors stand knee-deep in the muck. What a pitiful sight!

Today is July 4, 1754 and we are witnesses to the fall of Washington's Fort Necessity on the plain called the "Great Meadows." It is midway between the two Pennsylvania mountains - Laurel Hill and Chestnut Ridge

Across the meadow in the northwest corner is the opening of a trail, which runs toward Duquesne (Pittsburg). Nearby we see the French collecting the loot and the two hostages, Captain Robert Stobo and Captain Jacob VanBraam.

You may recall that VanBraam walked with Washington last year all the way to Fort LeBoeuf near Lake Erie. And Stobo entered the pages of history when he joined Washington on June 9, 1754. (See Tonquish Tales, Observer, July 23)

THESE TWO gentlemen, Stobo and VanBraam, were delegated by Washington to be hostages under the terms of the peace parley with the

We see them now being moved out along the trail toward Pittsburg, some 70 miles toward the west.

Tomorrow a fresh wind will clear the valley of the acrid smoke but it will never remove from Washington's mind the memory of today's defeat. Nor will he ever forget the two

Of this bitter time Douglas Freeman in his biography of Washington wrote: "Eighteen years later, in days still darker, George was to write of the anniversary of the capitulation - 'I did not let the 3rd . pass off without a grateful remembrance of the escape we had . . The same Providence that protected us will, I hope, continue His mercies

Before we research the incredible life and the amazing adventures of Captain Stobo, whose military career extends for seven long years and whose adventures made him an international figure, let's look back for one last time at Washington and his pathetic little army.

(Tonquish Tales will not attempt to review the entire career of George Washington. In placing these foundation stones for Michigan's Sesquicentennial history, the prima-

There are more than 2,000 books and articles about Washington in the Library of Congress. Various historians have struggled with this subject and have met with varying degrees of success. Some lack authenticity and even simple honesty, and so I would advise interested readers who wish to explore this subject in more depth than is allowable in a brief newspaper column to read for themselves "George Washington" by Douglas Southall Freeman, and James T. Flexner's series of books "The Father of Our Country." For a lighter touch read "George Washington's Expense Account" by Marvin Kitman.

The books I have reviewed in preparation for this column are listed on page 180 of "Tonquish Tales, Volume II." You may find this book at your local library or bookstore, including The Little Professor on the Park in Plymouth, Bookstore-on-the-Main in Northville, Book Connections at Twelve-Oaks Mall, and at all 17 Borders Bookstores.)

He demanded of the victorious French and was granted "the honors of war." This meant that these poor, battered Virginians were allowed to march away with drums beating and a flag flying in the breeze. They also were allowed to keep their guns and enough ammunition for one protective round against any enemies they might meet along the traii.

These war-weary men carried about 70 wounded on their backs and left behind about 100 dead or wounded beyond help. The French prevented the Indians, who came rushing into the valley seeking loot, from further depredations.

According to Freeman it was 'close to 10 o'clock that 4th of July when the survivors march out" of what was left of the so-called fort. They stepped to the "beat of the drum with colors flying.'

That night they had only covered about three miles from the fallen fort when they dropped from exhaustion. They were too weary to carry their wounded another step Only Washington on his weatherbeaten gray horse toiled on to Williamsburg to report to the governor of their losses.

Indeed, they lost a battle but fortunately they did not lose the war Washington's blunders were grievous and costly but not much has ever been made of them because he was only 23-years-old and a complete novice trusted with responsibilities beyond his experience or capacity.

He was a fast learner and his future success saved this country from foreign domination

And before long we will hear the drums of Chief Pontiac's warriors who begin a long and almost successful seige of our home place. The seige of Detroit takes place in 1763. Before we meet these events head-on we will walk with Stobo to his imprisonment at Fort Duquesne. What a clever fellow he is' The French will not imprison him for long, or

However, authorities do seem to generally agree that his wealth permitted him to bring ten servants. some in very fancy uniforms, to the seige of Fort Necessity. He also was able to pay for his own army of about 100 troops, fully-equipped with guns, uniforms and ammunition.

JOA TO YOU AND ME.

O&E Thursday, August 27, 1987

Your neighbors need, can get help

Susan Roslek assistant managing editor

most won't learn how to get it from this or any other newspa-

The only way they can get the needed help is through you or friends, relatives or neighbors.

The reason is the people are illiterate and can't read this editorial - or anything else in any publication.

While the federal government has no problem in providing $100 million to South American freedom fighters, local educational agencies have to resort to car washes or candy sales to fight another type of freedom battle.

That battle is for American adults who are functionally illiterate and can't get ahead in the work world or socially.

They can't read job postings at their plants or offices. They can't comprehend important safety warnings on newly installed equipment. They can't understand what President

Ronald Reagan or their local city council or school board is doing for them or to them. IN MANY cases, those people without reading skills are skillful in not exposing their problems to others, either coworkers or relatives.

On the job, a person who can't read will look at a work order and call over a co-worker to "clarify" it.

In a restaurant, non-reading adults will fumble with a shirt pocket or purse and then announce to a nearby relative that they left their glasses at home and could someone please read the menu for

The reasons for the adults' problems are many and varied - but they are all history now.

What has to be done is to find an effective program where they can get

One local group is the Western Wayne County Literacy Council, which held a modest fund-raiser last week that will

HE PEOPLE who need help the continue this week at a Ford-Wildwood

'Donations are welcome at the door," said a council announcement two weeks

WHILE THE Pentagon's generals and admirals don't have to embarrass themselves by panhandling for money in public, the literacy council and other related groups don't have the same federal government support for a national problem.

The money problem is only one frustration in the battle to eliminate adult illiteracy.

Another frustration is the public's general unawareness of the scope of the problem.

Surveys show that about 25 million adults are functionally illiterate, or unable to read at a fifth-grade level.

Another 35 million are estimated to be unable to read at a ninth-grade level.

The literacy council was created five years ago using one approach. While there are other ways to fight the problem, the council has recruited volunteers who have donated about 3,600 hours working with adults. The council schedules volunteers to work one-on-one with adults, using phonetically -based materials. THE COUNCIL is based in Garden

City's Cambridge Adult/Community Education Center, 28901 Cambridge, behind Garden City High School.

When they gain the needed reading skills, those adults can get a better job, improve their productivity and performance in their current position, read to their children and/or continue their education.

Volunteers may contact the literacy council at 427-6644.

Whether the students want to read the U.S. Constitution, understand their paycheck stubs, or merely want to read the sports sections of newspapers, reading skills will help them improve the quality of their lives.

Clean up the rust belt with vacation dollars

MMM, MMM, Mmm, Michigan as just one big industrial park.

Now that's kind of an interesting perspective state commerce director Doug Ross has envisioned.

Frankly, driving around western Wayne and Oakland counties, it's easy to see why he feels that way. If light industrial buildings aren't being built on somebody's old farm acreage, an office complex or two is filling in the space.

Rarely has Michigan experienced such a sustained economic upturn. It sure feels good.

But most of Michigan really isn't an industrial park. Rather it's a tourist mecca waiting to happen, a resource that could, if properly cultivated, be the number-one industry in the state. Right now tourism is one of the state's major industries, bringing in more than $13 billion annually and employing better than a quarter of a million people.

CERTAINLY, NOTHING to be sneezed at. Ross employee John Savich, director of the Michigan Travel Bureau, has done a great job with the resources at hand. He believes in his cause, bringing more tourists' dollars into the state.

vative ideas to spread the word.

But much, much more has to be done. Building Michigan into a giant industrial park guarantees obsolescence. We should have learned that through our many years love affair with the automobile industry. The economic ups are nice, but the downs are nothing short of horrifying for many people - especially blue-collar workers who often find themselves firmly stuck in the unemployment line. The big bucks earned in the good times are quickly eaten away for those folks.

Let's face it. Tourism is a much more stable industry.

like Michigan could actually benefit. . With proper marketing, the Michigan tourist industry has a potential world-wide market.

• Michigan tourism has yet to be fully developed. By concentrating on tourism, the state has a built-in growth potential, unlike some of the other rust built industries.

STRANGE AS it seems, thousands of Michigan residents have yet to travel north of Flint. Millions outside of Michigan have yet to hear about what this state has to offer.

But a down side does exist.

Underdeveloped air travel service is a big disadvantage. Flying north of Grand Rapids is incredibly inconvenient and unbelievably expensive. Even a city as well-defined as Traverse City has inadequate terminal and runway space to handle major jet service.

Forget it, when it comes to flying to the upper peninsula, the real hidden gem in Michigan tourism. You could fly to California cheaper and more quickly.

The potential exists to treble the bucks and the employment provided by tourism. So, Doug, how about a little more attention on the tourist front? Michigan needs it.

_ocal is our beat twice every week

THIS STARTED as a note to the editorial staffers. But as I focused on my reasons for praising their outstanding effort in localizing coverage of the terrible crash of Northwest Flight 255, I thought you, our reader, might also appreciate my comments.

As you know, we are non-daily newspapers. We specialize in you, your family, your friends and community. Even though we publish but twice a week, we have deadlines every day.

The fateful events of last week illustrated so clearly just how professional our staff is in coping with deadline stress. The story of the Northwest Airlines disaster was succinct. It was comprehensive.

THIS INFORMATION was collected and packaged in a little more than three hours. This is a fact that can be especially appreciated by our colleagues on competing daily newspapers.

Anyone who has ever tried to collect information during any kind of mishap understands how difficult it is to get accurate information quickly. This catastrophe defies comparison.

Yet the Observer & Eccentric Newspaper staffers got the information, generated a graphic illustration to make clear the location and met delivery deadlines at the post office.

And for each edition thereafter that's 12 deadlines in 12 hours, they worked tirelessly to update the story at every angle.

THIS WAS no small task. Whenever a tragedy of this magnitude occurs, media from across the county swamp the scene. There is a tendency on the part of emergency officials to play favorites with major media representatives. This is offset at the same time by officials who feel they can show no favoritism. In short, getting information is a nightmare. But this newspaper's staffers got it. And you benefited.

Most importantly, you benefited because they understand our role in your lives. You expect a little more from us. You expect a little sensitivity. If someone from your neighborhood was on that plane you expect us to provide the information in caring, respectfully accu-

THESE STAFFERS feel very strongly about their responsibilities as community journalists. I think their subsequent stories stood as worthy as that very first edition. As a reader you should feel proud that this same high professional standard is used week in and week out to bring you news of your community.

The things we deal with on a regular basis are not quite so dramatic as events of last week. But they are important to you, your friends and your community. Our staffers work this way every week. I'm proud of that. I'm proud of them.

John Reddy is vice president of editorial operations for Suburban Community Corp., the parent company of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

Reporters are intrusive, but there are good reasons

BACK IN THE heyday of Chicago journalism a young rewrite man took a story for a police reporter about a 2year-old who died after eating a Christmas tree ornament. Even though it was Christmas Eve, the cub knew the paper demanded quotes from families in such

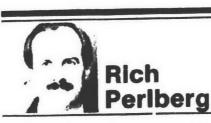

He made the phone call, talked to the distraught parents and filed the story. His crusty desk chief threw it back at

'What color was the ornament?" he demanded. Dutifully, the rewrite man called the parents once more.

HAPPILY, SUCH stories are more legend than fact these days. Despite a myriad of complaints, the American press is generally far more responsible than at most previous times in the nation's history.

Still, the vision that many people have of a reporter sticking a microphone into a grieving parent's face is not totally inaccurate. Why is this?

The answer can be found in the fact that there are so many reporters out there. As the victims from Sunday's airline crash slowly became known, large numbers of reporters were suddenly unleashed on grieving families. Those who lost a loved one could expect a call from the Eccentric, the Detroit Free Press, the Detroit News, the Oakland Press, the Daily News, the wire services and numerous television stations.

Most of these people behave sensibly and courteously, but if even one person was boorish or rude - or perceived to be so - then that is the impression that will be left with most of those involved.

IF THAT is understood, the question still remains: Are these interviews necessary? Is there really anything that important to come from these stories? After all, the families are grieving. We all assume that.

As one who has made such calls, and who hates every minute of it, I can defend the process.

For one thing, many families do appreciate the chance to talk about their loved ones and to have a more complete story told. It is cold reporting to just say that John Doe, 33, lived in Birmingham and worked in Southfield. It is far more to say he was a loving father, devoted family man, Little League baseball coach and avid gardener.

When a close family member dies, most people want the attributes of his or her life to be shared with the reading public who otherwise will read only the black-and-white details of the death. To get this more complete portrait, it usually requires talking with close family members and friends.

There is another reason for these stories. Although it should be obvious, we all need to be reminded of the very human stories behind these often numbing tragedies.

As pervasive as the Northwest airline crash has been this week, in a few weeks it will be a faint memory for many of us. New stories, new disasters, will compete for our attention. Stories that touch the human loss help us remember longer that there are many people who cannot forget.

Older students of this column, if any, will recall that Sept. 1 that year brought messages such as this over the world's news wires, and I quote from an International News Service dispatch:

WHEREVER THERE WAS a radio two days later, Sunday the 3rd, it was tuned to hear the worldwide broadcast of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain announcing in his distinctive English accent that the British Empire was now at war with Germany. It was stiflingly hot and humid in Michigan that Sunday, just like so many this summer. I know because I had to wear a suit that afternoon for a wedding in Chesaning.

Three of us who had lived together as fraternity brothers at Ann Arbor were in the wedding party in this little town nestled between Owosso and Saginaw and best known for its picturesque "Showboat," still an annual attraction that many of you undoubtedly have at-

We were there for the best of all reasons: it was the bride's hometown. The wedding took place in the home of meat-packer Farmer Peat.

Pearl Harbor still was an unsuspected two years and three months away, but the Chamberlain broadcast did give us pause in the realization that the storm clouds of war were increasing all around the globe.

I had not endeared myself at all to the mother of the bride the previous evening when over-indulgence with old buddies had led me to misidentify some of the table gee-gaws as salt and pepper shakers during a lovely dinner in her home. I do think I told her I enjoyed

This was long before air conditioning became a household must and as the guests awaited the bride's descent down a curving staircase, all were perspiring profusely

Whether the bride's mother ever was able to recall much of the actual cenemony I know not. What I do remember vividly is that after being escorted to her place of traditional honor she took a look around and with aghast exclaimed to all, "My God, he's wearing a green

A report given on Peace Pole status

To the editor:

(An open letter to the mayor, city manager and city commissioners.)

We hope the following facts concerning the status of the Peace Pole in communities across the country might assist you in reaching a decision to allow Plymouth's Peace Pole to remain permanently in Kellogg Park.

This information was obtained from the Peace Pole Project Team, (Route 1, Box 253, East Jordan, Mich. 49727) which keeps detailed records of all Peace Pole "plantings" worldwide.

• There are over 60,000 Peace Poles in Japan. The first and original Peace Pole was placed there after WWII as a memorial to the Hiroshima and Nagasaki bombings.

• The U.S. has over 1,000 Peace

Virtually every state in the union has at least one.

• Michigan has 108; Ohio has over

• The governor of Utah recently requested enough Peace Poles for Salt Lake City so that every major language would be represented.

• Over 200 city halls in the U.S. have Peace Poles on their front lawns.

 In Flint a Peace Pole was dedicated along with a Japanese garden to honor Flint's sister city, and the city gave another Peace Pole to the attending Japanese delegation to bring back to Japan.

• Charlevoix has seven Peace Poles within the city limits, including one next to the Veterans' Memorial and one in front of the Chamber of Commerce.

 In Lansing the State Sesquicentennial Commission endorsed the Peace Pole as an "official sesquicentennial project" and the chairman of the historical commission presided at the dedication on the banks of the Grand River. Marcel Marceau was a speaker at the ceremony. He captured this headline in the news account of the event: "Marcel Marceau Breaks Silence For Peace!"

• Detroit's oldest church, First Methodist, has a Peace Pole in its front

• Christ Church Cranbrook, Bloomfield Hills, has had a Peace Pole and surrounding Peace Garden for two

The Peace Pole is a gift to the city of Plymouth. It is not meant to represent a political party, a religious group, or an ideology. It is meant to symbolize every person's hope for peace: in families, communities, nations and the world. It is meant to remind every citizen of his or her responsibility to work for a peaceful world in whatever way be or

Praises reporting on drunk drivers

To the editor:

I wanted to thank the Observer again for its article on Plymouth Family Service's Phase II Program for drinking and driving offenders arrested for the second and third time.

Your staff writer, Julie Brown, did a good job capturing in the article the essence of our program and the issues involved. It was good to share with the community, through your article, this issue and our attempts to be a part of addressing it.

However, the community also should be aware that the Plymouth Community Fund has made it possible for Plymouth

Family Service to develop this program and other related services for substance abuse problems.

Plymouth Family Service has been a Community Fund agency for almost 25 years, and has enjoyed, through the vears, continuous support for various programming needs from the Plymouth Community Fund. We would not be able to do many of our activities without the Community Fund.

Thank you again for the fine article by your paper.

Plant closing laws won't save jobs — Blanchard

staff writer

Laws to regulate plant closings won't work - at least not as well as a joint government-business team effort to save America's machine tool industry

That was Gov. James J. Blanchard's message this week as he toured three cities to announce Michigan had landed an office in Anh Arbor to fund generic research for individual companies that can't afford to do it alone

"I think advanced notice for plant closings, which those bills incorporate, is reasonable and a good thing," Blanchard said.

"THOSE BILLS would not have stopped the recent plant closings we've seen in the Midwest," the gov-legislative bill by Rep. Perry Bullard. D-Ann Arbor, and a congressional bill by U.S. Rep. John Conyers, D-Detroit General Motors plant closings were the target of a weekend UAW rally in Dearborn, not far from where Blanchard spoke in Greenfield Village

"Even in the case of General Motors, they have given us a year, two years, in some cases three years advance notice. Most of those bills ask six months advance notice.

The key is what do you do about it? Where do you draw the line between trying to save something that is uncompetitive, isn't going to make it, and isn't needed and finding new opportunities training workers and managers for new jobs in new loca-

"That's something this country hasn't done very well, something we in Michigan are working very hard to improve," said Blanchard, who then turned to his announcement of the National Center for Manufacturing Sciences

"Without brain power, we will be nothing," said Blanchard. Michigan firms employ more than 130,000 in machinery manufacturing. The state has more than 15 percent of the nation's metalcutting tool jobs and 23 percent of the tool and die jobs.

THE IDEA was born in 1985 at a machine tool builders conference.

The Defense Department recognized the industry as vital to U.S. economic and strategic base.

Because the companies couldn't organize for product research without running afoul of anti-trust laws, they decided to engage in generic, scientific research.

Peter Plastrik, who heads the Michigan Strategic Fund for Blanchard, described the center as "an industry-led consortium to create and finance an R&D agenda to make U.S. firms internationally competitive."

30-Year ARM

Before you buy or refinance your home, consider the advantages of our Adjustable Rate Mortgage (ARM).

Many of our ARM loan customers have saved a lot of money in mortgage interest costs over the past few years. And, at present interest rates, borrowers are finding our ARM loans to be an even better bargain. The first-year interest rate on our 15-year ARM is now only 7.25% compared to much higher rates on fixedrate loans. What's more, with the 2% annual and 6% lifetime interest rate caps that we have placed on our ARM loans, you'll pay less interest and have greater principal reduction over at least the first four years of vour loan.

The lower initial interest rates on our ARM loans result in lower initial monthly payments. And, the lower monthly payments mean that it will be easier for you to qualify for the loan that you need to buy or refinance your home.

So, come to any Standard Federal branch office and learn more about our ARM loans. We'll help you find the loan that is just right for you.

*All annual percentage rates are calculated based on a 2% loan discount fee, a loan amount of $50,000.00, a 20% down payment, and monthly principal and interest payments of $456.43 for the 15-year loan and $349.61 for the 30-year loan. It's thumbs up for symphony grant

By Julie Brown staff writer

Those involved in Plymouth Symphony Orchestra activities got some good news in recent days.

The local symphony received a $13,000 staffing grant from the Michigan Council for the Arts. The grant will allow the organization to hire a full-time general manager.

The symphony's grant is for the total amount requested.
"Most of the time, granting

"Most of the time, granting agencies don't do that," said Kiyo Morse, president of the Plymouth Symphony Society board of directors. "Of course, we're all ecstatic."

The general manager's primary responsibility will be raising funds, Morse said. He or she will also have other responsibilities related to the orchestra and its management, including business and personnel concerns.

PLANS ARE to finish putting together a job description and post the position in September, said Morse, a Plymouth Township resident. Those involved in the process hope Whave their decision made by some time in October.

"We'll probably put it in one of the national magazines." The position will also be posted through music management programs in colleges and universities, she said. Most likely, those who are interested will be from the local area.

The salary for the position would be the full $13,000. Ideally, the salary will increase next year, provided the general manager is successful in raising funds, she said.

The general manager will need to be organized and efficient, the board president said, and will also need to have some knowledge of music. The manager will need to get along with others and work with orchestra personnel.

The person hired will also need to have some poise and maturity and be able to deal with corporate representatives in raising funds, Morse said.

"So they've got to have some presence too."

The person hired for the position will work out of a local office. A two-room office at 9430 S. Main in Plymouth has been donated for the symphony's use by Dr. Roger Bookwalter, a local orthodontist, and his associates.

Having the office space donated has been a tremendous help in allowing the symphony to centralize its operations, Morse said.

THE SYMPHONY currently has several paid orchestra management people. A personnel manager, librarian and operations manager work on a "very part-time" basis. The musicians and conductor are paid on a per-service basis, including rehearsals and performances.

The local symphony is now in its 42nd season, Morse said. It has some 70 to 75 musicians; Russell Reed is the conductor.

Those involved in symphony activities hope to increase the salaries paid, said Morse, who is director of the Steppingstone Center for the Potentially Gifted, a school for first through eighth graders in Northville.

"That's just the next step that we have to work on."

The Plymouth Symphony Orchestra's salaries will never reach the level of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra or other big-city orchestras, she said.

"This is a community orchestra.

The symphony has received grants from the Michigan Council for the Arts in the past. This is the largest MCA grant ever received by the local symphony, Morse said.

"We were very happy. It just solved so many problems."

DURING THE past five years, the orchestra has gone through transitions, she said. Receiving the grant and having the office space donated have helped the organization pull things together.

"We're starting to do the things we had planned."

Starting in September, plans are to have the symphony's office staffed at least three mornings a week, said Morse, who has played the second violin for 11 years. This is her third year on the board of directors.

The orchestra is helped considerably in raising funds by the efforts of the Plymouth Symphony League. Typically, the league raises $15,000 each year to donate to the orchestra.

"They're our primary source of financial support."

Symphony gets grant

During the last fiscal year, the Plymouth Symphony League donated about $26,000 to the orchestra, Morse said. The league worked under the leadership of Sue Decker during that fiscal year, which ran from July to the end of June.

"They just outdid themselves," Morse said of the league's efforts in raising funds to support the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra.

Another local arts organization, the Plymouth Community Arts Council, also received a grant from the Michigan Council for the Arts.

THAT SUPPORT grant is for $6,400, "for which we are eternally grateful," said Pat McCombs, PCAC president.

The grant money will be allocated among various PCAC programs, McCombs said. The Plymouth Community Arts Council is involved in a number of local arts activities, including an Artists and Craftsmen Show to be held during the upcoming Plymouth Fall Festi-

The most-recent grant is the third one the Plymouth Community Arts Council has received from the Michigan Council for the Arts, McCombs said. Previous MCA grants allocated to the local arts council have been for $5,000 and $5.700

ON THIS ROUTE, the train goes behind a remote dumping ground for stolen automobiles in Detroit, passes the Detroit Race Course where you can see some thoroughbreds in action and stops near Middlebelt Road to let off some rail cars.

And occasionally there are breaks in the routine - the automobiles that try to beat the train at crossings and the kids who throw rocks or bottles or play chicken.

But that's as exciting as it gets. On a clear summer day, the ride is very

For those who work on the railroad, there's a definite love affair with the train. Many have had family - for many generations who've worked for the railroad.

Jim Horner, 39, of Livonia oversees operations at the Rougemere rail yard. He started working on the Al Markell of Plymouth doesn't railroad as an 18-year-old in Walbridge, Ohio.

Just the sounds of a freight train fascinate him.

"At night, it's just spooky," said Horner, whose father, grandfather and great-grandfather were em-

"You figure up until 10 years ago. everything was shipped by train. Food, perishables . . everything was shipped by rail. I think why people get so enthused about trains is because they are a part of history.

ROD GODSEY, 36, of Redford Township couldn't care less about the history at the moment. His main concern as yardmaster at Rougemere is supervising which cars go where.

It's not an easy job. Godsey sits in a wooden tower high above where he can keep tabs on the multitude of box cars and engines in the yard. He works frantically at times trying to keep everything in order. His job might be second in difficulty only to an air traffic controller's.

'Yeah. sometimes it's like that," Godsey said. "In one move, you can tie it all up or loosen it all up." On this particular run, Godsey has helped line up 18 cars. Only three box cars are filled with cereal. The others are empties that will be refilled in Plymouth or Wixom.

Once the ride starts, so do the stories. Calkins recalls one night when the train hit a pedestrian behind DRC in Livonia.

'We found him four cars down," Calkins said. "His clothes were all ripped, and he was bleeding from the forehead. I said, 'Hey let me call for some help. He said, 'Naw.' He dust-ed himself off and started walking

Recently a teenager in Novi, apparently playing chicken, was struck

At any rate, Himes said CSX Transportation, which has offices in Livonia, sends representatives to area schools to warn kids about the sometimes fatal results of playing around railroad tracks. He believes education is the key

"Kids don't realize the danger that is involved," he said. "The safety of everyone could be involved, especially when a train is carrying flammables.

Something as simple as throwing a rock at a passing train or placing large objects on the track can cause serious damage to both the occupants and the products on board.

We've had rocks thrown at us, bottles thrown at us," said Himes, who worked as an engineer before being promoted to foreman. "We've had guys who've had eyes put out." Himes said the company has few

In Detroit, however, it's a different story. One stretch of track in the city has the dubious distinction of being labeled the "Ho Chi Minh Trail.

TEENAGERS LURKING around the tracks aren't the only ones who cause dangerous problems for the railroads, however. Drivers who ignore signal crossings are playing their own brand of chicken. Trains at full speed normally don't have time to stop for cars trying to make it through the passing.

"We usually don't stop until after we've struck an object." Himes said We have to worry about the safety of the people on the train, plus the commodities that it's carrying

Another problem is theft from the rail cars. Break-ins usually occur while the train is awaiting clearance from the control tower in the railroad yard, according to Himes, Each rail yard has its own security force that tries to prevent thievery

The Rev. Donald Lintelman has accepted the position of pastor at Nativity United Church of Christ in Livonia

Lintelman will begin serving as pastor Sept. 6.

Lintelman served as pastor at the Community United Church in Erie, Pa, since 1979, and was chaplain at the Sarah Reed Retirement Center. Before 1979, he was an executive director at the YMCA, a district director of the Boy Scouts, and a pastor at a United Methodist church. Lintelman was born in Pittsburgh.

Lintelman, ordained by the United Methodist Church, has a master's of theology degree from Wesley Seminary in Washington, D.C. He has completed post-graduate work in counseling and has finished a twoyear course of study in pastoral The Rev. Donald Lintelman Lintelman and his wife, Joan, have three children.

New pastor joins Papal visit raises hard questions

Most people agree that it will cost $1 million to have the pope visit De-

Some are saying that this is a bargain considering the publicity and media attention generated by the papal visit. Others are saying that this money could better serve the community by keeping archdiocesan schools open

Contributions to cover the expenses are being received from a variety of sources. Offerings in archdiocesan churches, special appeals to selected contributors, corporate gifts et al are being used to raise the necessary funds. Archdiocesan officials are confident the money will be

Critics of the $1 million expenditure for the papal visit say that the schools need the money. Declining revenues have caused the closing of a number of archdiocesan schools in recent years. The money spent on educating youth would have a longer-term effect than a one-time papal

No one would want to dispute the media effect the papal visit has generated. And generally a pleasant one ties are always more enjoyable news than gruesome murders and profligate community life.

Displacing news items, however, is not the same as improving public life. The net effect of the papal visit has yet to be determined

NO ONE would want to dispute the continuing financial needs of our public and private schools. The very nature of our support systems for public and private schools insures austere and unadorned programs

More money for education has always been considered salutary. Money, however, does not always translate into programs. Diocesan officials have stated that additional funds would not change official decisions to close selected diocesan schools.

Discussions on the cost of papal visits have not been limited to Detroit. Phoenix wants to turn a stadium into a cathedral, Miami wants to build a 100-foot cross and San Francisco has to provide a tarpaulin to protect the playing field at Candlestick Park.

As a member of the religious fammoral perspectives Rev. Lloyd

ily. I have followed the discussions much we have to do in our public life with interest. The explanations used by both sides to support their positions are compelling ones. Choosing between the kind of abstract symbolism that a papal visit exhibits and the practical features of teaching children how to read and write is more involved than first imagined.

The discussions, however, have been only for effect. No one believes that the papal visit will be canceled and the funds saved transferred to diocesan schools.

THE IRONY is that a great portion of the money required for the papal visit to Detroit will be spent on security and media needs. Spending large sums of money to protect religious leaders and promote their presence is surely a sign of how to make our communities experience peace and good order.

We want the papal visit to go well. It can be a time of refreshing and remembering the ultimate values of our life together And when the papal visit is over we will have to attend to those practical issues that often prevent the ultimate values from ever being realized. Teaching children how to read and write is not something our community can afford to neglect. Perhaps the next papal visit will then not require massive expenditures for security and promotion.

The Rev. Lloyd D. Buss is the pastor of the Abiding Presence Lutheran Church in Rochester

Video interviews help companies hire

By Carolyn Carman special writer

When you're called for your next job interview, smile

You just might be in front of a camera Videotaped interviews performed by the Corporate Interviewing Network are the latest method used by employers to screen candidates for jobs. The advantages of video interviewing are many, says

Steven Opperthauser, president of CIN The Corporate Interviewing Network dramatically

reduces the cost per hire because employers can now reduce the number of people brought in for on-site interviews." Opperthauser said.

Local companies using videotaped interviews include Federal-Mogul's World Headquarters, CBS Fox Video, Warner-Lambert, Parke-Davis, Eastern Michigan University, General Motors Tech Center and GMI Engineering and Management Institute. The companies seeking candidates will contact us and give us the names of candidates they have screened by resume." Opperthauser said. "They give us a list of questions they want asked, and we schedule and conduct the interviews in our office and send the taped interview on to the company. Management can then review the interviews at its convenience and decide who will be brought in for on-

The savings can be substantial. Victor Rutana of Warner-Lambert/Parke-Davis said using CIC saved $3,000-$5,000 in filling a personnel supervisor position.

OPPERTHAUSER says the average cost per hire for management level personnel now exceeds $15,000, according to the Employment Management Association. This includes everything from recruiters' fees to airfare and lodging expenses

The videotaped interview is also a good tool for search committees.

We do a lot of work for universities and municipalities, and the videotape eliminates some of the steps when considering all of the candidates," he said.

Another benefit for companies is they can review the tape again and again if they so desire. For the job candidate there is flexibility in schedu-

Video interviews can cut the cost of hiring a new person because fewer people need to be interviewed in person, according to Steven Opperthauser.

ling Interviews can be scheduled for evenings or weekends eliminating the need to take time from their cur-

Opperthauser says the process is fair because each candidate for a particular job is asked the same set of "The questions are made up by the employer but we have an Employer Guidelines booklet which is a compendium of interviewer's questions," he said. "The questions are also screened through Equal Employment Opportunity Commission guidelines. CIN DOES NOT edit interviews. The camera, camouflaged behind a plant, runs non-stop until the end of the

This is the same idea as an in-person interview. You couldn't say to an interviewer. Forget I said that and be able to eliminate an answer." Opperthauser said.

Nor are interviewees prompted or told how to dress. 'There's no coaching primarily so the client can see them as their true selves. Employers like to see what people wear. If a person were to come in to interview for an executive position wearing a polyester suit, the client would take that into consideration. Opperthauser was going to use CIN himself when he was seeking a job in 1985. Instead, after talking to the then owner, he decided to go into partnership with the

The Southfield-based operation is located at 25160 Lahser Road where Opperthauser has a 990 square-foot suite of offices. There are three other employees, an interviewer, an office manager and an account executive, he said.

CIN generally conducts about 10 to 20 interviews a week. The videotaped interviews are available in 20and 40-minute formats. The 20-minute interview costs a company $50 and the 40-minute interviews $100.

The company boasts about 300 accounts nationwide. including Arthur D. Little accounting firm in Chicago and the Mariott Corp. in Rockwell, Md.

Opperthauser says CIN fills all types and levels of employment positions.

The positions we place vary," he said. "We have placed secretaries, internal auditors and deans for colleges and universities.

Vacant lots have become scarce - and expensive

Price of vacant lots rising as the supply is dwindling

By Philip A. Sherman special writer

The law of supply and demand has tightened its grip on the land market. Specifically, land on which single-family houses can be built.

Commonly called lots, they measure an average of 90-by-120 feet - wide enough for a house and maybe an attached garage.

In the Farmington Hills area, that lot costs an average of $50,000

Want trees? Add another $10,000.

That's according to Jerry Edwards, a broker for Century 21 of Michigan, who said lots are increasing in price from Birmingham to Plymouth. So few undeveloped prime parcels of land are available that buyers with big bank accounts have, and are, boosting prices into the mid five- and sixfigure realms.

It's not just happening here. "U.S. Housing Markets," published by Lomas and Nettleton, America's largest independent mortgage banker, also sees the escalating lot price trend in places such as California, Chicago and Northfolk, Va.

In the Detroit area for mid-1986 to mid-1987, "Housing Markets" says prices increased 15 percent, which pushed the average singlefamily lot cost to $30,000 to

For comparison purposes, the same report says Boston prices rose 20 percent during the same time period, pegging the typical lot cost at $85,000 to $100,000.

THIS ASSUMES that you can find a lot to buy. Rick Chrzanowski, owner of Appleridge Construction in Plymouth, said lot prices aren't a problem because there aren't any lots left in Plymouth.

"In Plymouth, you can just about write your own price if you've got a lot," Chrzanowski said. "I don't think there are any lots left in Plymouth Township, and maybe just a few pieces left in Canton Township." A year ago, he said the average price was in the $40,000 range, today, it's in the $50,000

"I know of one lot in Plymouth that changed hands, without a sign going up, for $65,000," Chrzanowski added.

When asked why lots move so quickly for so much, Dennis Dickstein, president of the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan, dusted off an old joke:

"Location, location and . . . location.

"Prices are climbing in some areas faster than others due to availability of choice," Dickstein said. Buyers who want to live in the Birmingham or Bloomfield Hills area will have their choices of lots

"But if they say, 'I want to live in the city of Bloomfield Hills,' then they're dealing with a diminishing supply and they'll pay for that address," Dickstein said. For the first time, he's seen lakefront lots going for $350,000 to $400,000. "And then people tear down the houses on those lots to build new ones."

ONE OAKLAND County builder who asked not to be named agreed with Dickstein. "Location is very important - proximity to transportation, the school district and the availability of land. Availability can vary tremendously in the area, but let me put it this way. It's expensive. Very expensive. There's nothing cheap anymore."

The esthetic qualities of the lot play second to location. "Even a tree brings a premium," said Barb Cohoe, community manager for The Brody Group, a Troy builder. "They all want wooded, and they want big."

Plymouth builder Chrzanowski added lots that will allow construction of walk-out basements to the list of buyer requests.

But one large real estate agency doesn't see lot price hikes as the main reason for increases in prices of existing houses.

'We think it's almost entirely due to interest rates," said Bill Barrett, senior vice president of Real Estate One. "Sales were up in January through March, and they dropped in April due to the interest

The market came back in June, and we're already ahead in July. We've got more listings, and homes are staying on the market a reasonable length of time as opposed to last summer when it was frantic."

Airline deregulation brings mixed benefits

By Philip A. Sherman special writer

Among its benefits, airline deregulation was intended to help the average airline passenger with lower fares and more choices of carriers. But just how friendly are the friendly skies when stories about late departures, missed connections and niissing luggage abound?

Check with Brent Garback. Garback, president of Total Travel Management of Birmingham, was asked by state Rep. Curtis Hertel, D-Detroit, to lead a citizens' task force, which opened public hearings Aug. 18 in Grand Rapids. Before it's through, Garback's air show will have held seven open forums, the last two on Sept. 14 in Detroit and Sept. 16 in Lansing.

The 12-member task force is charged with "studying the impact of deregulation on consumers and assessing the overall economic impact as a consequence," he said. Findings will be presented by Dec. 31 to the House Transportation Comsure of the consumer benefit, if any, of airline deregulation," Garback

"Airline consumers appear to be in a better position today, with 12 asterisks after that statement," Garback said. "Is it really better? Did you know when airlines offer a $29 seat special, they really only need to offer one seat at that price?"

Garback also said that when an airline says a seat is non-refundable, "they mean non-refundable or we'll come and seize your child. And how about false imprisonment? When they put you on a plane and let you sit on the runway for 45 minutes?"

"DEREGULATION WAS supposed to generate more air carriers and more choices for the consumer. Instead, we've gone from 30 carriers to six, and we've moved from an oligopoly to a monopoly. Even if another carrier comes in and wants to offer a service, they can't find gate space," Garbeck said.

At its July 31 pre-tour meeting, mittee. "At this point, we are not the task force discussed several issues it thinks could be contributing to consumer air traffic problems. On at least one of those issues - the Aviation Trust Fund - Garbeck and the airlines are in agreement.

"Every airline ticket sold has an 8 percent tax that is paid to the government," said Jim Lundy, manager of public relations for Delt 'There's a $5 billion surplus in that fund. The tax is supposed to fund improvements for airports and airways. That money has never been spent.'

Lundy said the money instead is being used to lower the country's budget deficit. Lundy and others in the airline industry are not critical of deregulation so much as they are critical of an overworked air traffic control system.

We think one of the benefits of deregulation is that it's taken air travel and put it within economic reach of a much greater segment of the population," Lundy said. "Before

September offers a taste of autumn A.L. PRICE

By Raymond E. Bullock

Astronomical events for the month of September include the start of autumn, the southernmost position of the moon in 186 years, a rare occultation (covering) of the Flerades by the moon, and an eclipse et the sun which, alas, will not be visible from North America.

The length of the day decreases by one hour and 21 minutes in September On Sept 1, sunrise is at 6.57 a m., and sunset is at 8 07 p.m. This allows for a possible 13 hours and 10 minutes of sunlight. On Sept. 30, these times are 7.27 a.m. and 7:16 p.m., respectively, allowing 11 hours and 49 minutes of sunlight.

Face south southwest on the evering of Sept. 1, and locate the moon. The star to the west (right) of the moon is Antares, the orange-red heart" of Scorpius the scorpion. Above and to the left of Antares is the planet Saturn, Saturn, Antares, and the moon form a large triangle. The moon is within the "teapot" of Sagittarius on Sept. 2. The moon will be full on Sept. 7. It may surprise many to learn that this is not the "Harvest Moon" The Harvest Moon is the full moon that occurs closest to the beginning of au-

This year autumn begins on the Sept. 23, which is 16 days away from Sept 7 The next full moon, on Oct. 7, is only 14 days from the beginning of autumn, so October full moon is the Harvest Moon.

LOOK EAST about two hours after sunset on Sept. 9, and you'll see Jupiter, looking like a bright star, below and to the left of the moon. Do the same thing on the Sept. 10, and notice how far the moon has moved from one night to the next. You should be able to predict where the moon will be the following night. Sept. 11.

The moon will pass through the Pleiades (PLEE a dees) star cluster on the evening of Sept. 12. occulting (covering) a number of stars over the course of several hours. This is the best Pleiades occultation we will see this year. The moon and Pleiades will rise about two hours after sunset, with occultations beginning around 11 p.m., and lasting through 2:30 a.m. on the morning of Sept. 13.

You have to be patient watching occultations; the moon moves slowly as it passes between the earth and the stars, covering and uncovering the Pleiades. Best views will be with a low power telescope or binoculars. (For detailed information on the oc-

skywatch

cultation see the September issue of Sky & Telescope magazine, page

For people who get up before the sun, look for the moon, high in the south, on the morning of Sept. 13. To the left of the moon are the Pleiades, which the moon occulted earlier in the morning. Below and to the right of the moon is Aldebaran, the "eye' of Taurus the Bull.

The moon is approaching last quarter phase on the morning of Sept. 14. The moon is still in Taurus, forming a large triangle with Aldebaran and the Pleiades.

THE MOON moves into the constellation of Gemini the Twins and, on the morning of Sept. 17, is just to the south (right) of Pollux, one of the two stars marking the "heads" of the twins. The other star, Castor, is above Pollux. Look again on the morning of Sept. 18, and notice how much the moon has moved in one

On Sept. 20, the star Regulus, the "heart" of Leo the Lion, is just below the crescent moon in the east.

New moon occurs at 11:08 p.m. on the evening of Sept. 22. The moon is exactly between the earth and the sun and is not visible. Because the moon is exactly between Earth and sun, an eclipse of the sun occurs but, since the sun is not visible in our sky at 11:08 p.m., the eclipse is not visible. It is visible to people in Asia and the South Pacific.

Autumn officially begins at 9:45 a.m. on Sept. 23. But what is it that determines that precise moment? It's a combination of the earth's orbit and its tilt.

THE EARTH IS divided into a northern hemisphere and a southern hemisphere by an imaginary line called the equator. If this equator is extended out into space it cuts the sky into a northern and southern hemisphere, but now the imaginary line is called the celestial equator.

Because our earth is tilted 231/2 degrees, the sun can appear to be 2312 degrees above the celestial equator or 2312 degrees below it. When the sun is at its highest point in the sky north of the celestial equator, in June when the days are long and warm, we have summer. When the sun is at its lowest, in December when the days are short and cold, we

Behind the bands: 'Saturday Night Live'

By Ethel Simmons staff writer

WENTY-THREE-YEAR-OLD John Zonars is back in town, staying with his family in Birmingham. again where he works on the TV comedy hit "Saturday Night Live."

On "SNL," Zonars works behind the scenes as liaison between the bands that appear on the show and the program's staff. One of the reasons Zonars gets along so well with the bands is that he's a rock musician himself.

Zonars plays electric guitar with the band Pyramid, which will be headlining Friday at St. Andrews Hall in Detroit. Doors open at 9 p.m., and the band Boyhood will open for Pyramid.

We went for the top. We went for St. Andrew's Hall," he said. "It's one If the best venues for bands such as ourselves. It holds 1,500 people."

With Pyramid, Zonars is promoter, manager and musical direc-Dr, as well as lead guitar player. He works closely with his partner, Dar-Jus Gueramy of Midland. "He is basically the source of the band's mate-Tial. He write all the songs. I'm reponsible for the arrangement of the pyramid material, which Darius writes." Zonars said.

Other band members include Christopher Crump of West Bloomfield, bass guitarist, who along with Zonars and Gueramy form the nucleus of the group; Eric Hoenicke of Midland, drummer; Anastasia Brown of Midland, keyboard player, and Jerry Roland of Royal Oak.

THIS IS the fifth year for the band, which Zonars and Gueramy formed five years ago at Albion College. It's Zonars' third season for

In an interview at his home last week, the dark-eyed musician spoke enthusiastically about his participa-Mon in the TV show. "It's a great gig. I love it. I couldn't have asked for a Inore suitable job for myself. I have what you might call a Yuppie vein. It allows for me to emphasize any ousiness talent I have.

Zonars first joined "SNL" on a col-Jege internship. "I chanced into an internship with 'Saturday Night Live' and went through a series of "Ittle promotions," he said. "I was asked back for the second season and for the third season."

When Zonars returns to New York this fall, he will be joined by bandmates Gueramy and Crump of Darius Productions (Gueramy is president). "We will all move back together. We want to get a loft in Soho," he said.

Zonars will continue playing with the band, along with his "SNL" job. His schedule is hectic. "There are times when I work 80 hours a week

Earlier this year, Cohen worked on another Meadow Brook concert that offered "Music from the Great Motion Pictures." John Addison conducted the Detroit Symphony Pops orchestra For this concert, film clips were used instead of slides.

Besides his responsibilities at Meadow Brook, Cohen also works for Telarc Corp "One of the leading recording companies manufacturing compact discs," he said. Cohen does artist and repertoire consulting for Telarc and helped with the recent CD "Roundup," with Erich Kunzul conducting the Cincinnati Pops and Frankie Laine on the vocals, and with another disc released last week. 'Star Tracks II" again features Kunzul and the Cincinnati Pops.

Before joining Telarc, Cohen worked for two record labels as regional sales manager and promotion manager in the Midwest. He spent about 13 years, up to 1985, in classical record retailing with Discount Records in Birmingham

In 1983, Stuart Hyke, managing director of the Meadow Brook Music Festival, asked Cohen to serve on an advisory board, giving suggestions to Sir Neville Marriner, at that time artistic director of Meadow Brook

WHEN HYKE decided to stage a concert of music from great motion pictures in 1984, he called upon Cohen. "This was the first one to use laser lights," he recalled

In 1985, Cohen commissioned a special arrangement from "Wuthering Heights" (1939), and in 1986, he presented a couple of world premieres, one of "Sahara Suite" (1943), composed by Miklos Roxsa for a Humphrey Bogart film, and "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn" (1939), composed by Franz Waxman for a Mickey Rooney film.

Pianist prepares for Juilliard study

By Avigdor Zaromp special writer

The talent and potential of pianist David Strickland are very evident to hose who know him. While studying Wayne State University, Strickand had to overcome various financial obstacles in his determined quest for a fulfilling musical career. But whatever shortage there was in financial assets was made up in other ways.

Strickland had two important things going for him during these years. One of those is his own tremendous talent, without which everything else in his chosen career would be moot. The other was his teacher, Mischa Kottler, a recogmized authority in piano performance for many years. Internationally amed artists such as Ruth Laredo and Cynthia Raim are two of his many disciples.

Strickland has reached an important crossroad in his life. He is going to continue his studies at the prestigious Juilliard School of Music. Moving to New York, far from his support base, will involve even more financial challenges.

review

FOR EXAMPLE, he will be without his own piano and will have to rely on the instruments at the school. As part of an effort to raise money toward his education at Juilliard, Strickland gave a special recital at the Metropolitan United Methodist Church in Detroit earlier this month.

In Congress, Contra aid issue will not die

After facing nearly 60 roll call votes on the House and Senate floors between 1982-86, and spending much of 1987 in the thick of the Iran-contra hearings, the issue now has been thrust into maneuvering between the White House and Congress over a newly-floated Central American peace proposal.

President Reagan reportedly will ask Congress to approve $150 million in new military support for the Nicaraguan insurgents, to take effect after Sept. 30

His bid appears especially provocative because, for the first time, lawmakers would debate Contra funding at a time when their words and votes could change the course of ongoing peace talks.

A CURRENT $100-million appropriation for the rebels is due to expire about Sept. 30. Central American heads of state have set Nov. 7 as a target for negotiating a cease-fire in Nicaragua, the key building block of their plan to pacify the entire re-

Reagan has given only lukewarm support to the proposal, but says that out of deference to it, he will withhold his bid for new aid, at least until he can better determine how the regional peace plan effects American security.

But in Congress, foes of the Contras as well as their most ardent backers are troubled by the president's hesitant endorsement

Opponents fear he will waylay the negotiations and cite the resulting collapse to justify more military aid, while supporters worry about a potential sellout of the Contras.

WHILE REAGAN has lost many more Contra roll calls than he has won, he has extracted $127 million in military and non-lethal aid from Congress plus untold Contra millions appropriated secretly to the CIA early in his first Administration.

His major defeats have come with ations bill (HJ Res 492). congressional adoption of amendments by Rep. Edward P Boland, D-Mass., to ban Contra aid or restrict its uses. Boland has offered at least five such amendments, beginning with one in late 1982 that drew unanimous Republican and Democratic denunciation of the Contra policy.

What follows are descriptions of ban on military aid and most forms

Roll Call Report

key Contra aid amendments faced by lawmakers between 1982-86, each selected as perhaps the most definitive test of sentiment in its respec-

1. BOLAND 1 - On Dec. 8, 1982, the House amended the fiscal 1983 defense appropriations bill (HR 7355) to include the first Congressional limits on Contra aid. The amendment by Rep. Edward P. Boland, D-Mass., banned spending to "overthrow" Nicaragua's Marxist

The vote was a unanimous 411-0. Republicans and conservative Democrats who usually back Reagan's foreign policy supported Boland I as the less harmful of two pending anti-Contra proposals.

A yes vote was to rein in the Contras. Voting yes: Carl Pursell, R-Ply., Dennis Hertel, D-Harper Woods, William Ford, D-Taylor, William Broomfield, R-Birmingham.

Not voting: Sander Levin, D-South-

2. BOLAND II - The House approved this Boland amendment, 221 and 205 against, on July 28, 1983. while Contra activities were officially covert. It required Reagan to suspend the CIA operation until Congress allowed resumption.

It was attached to HR 2760 but later deleted in parliamentary maneuvering.

A yes vote was to suspend the Contra operation. Voting yes: Democrats Hertel, Ford, Levin.

Voting no: Republicans Pursell, Broomfield.

3. BOLAND III - On May 24, 1984, by a vote of 241 for and 177 against, the House adopted Boland's motion to knock $21 million in Contra aid out of a fiscal 1984 appropri-

The removal took hold and the bill became law without Contra money. Voting yes to delete the aid: Pursell, Hertel, Ford, Levin. Voting no: Broomfield.

4. BOLAND IV - Boland failed June 12, 1985, to continue an existing of non-military aid By a vote of 196 for and 232 against, the House defeated his amendment to HR 2577 and cleared the way for $27 million in non-lethal aid that later was sent to the Contras.

A yes vote was to continue blocking the aid. Voting yes: Democrats Hertel, Ford, Levin.

Voting no: Republicans Pursell, Broomfield

5. EDWARDS - On June 25, 1986, the House approved $100 million in military and non-lethal aid to the Contras as proposed by Rep. Mickey Edwards, R-Okla., in fiscal 1987. The tally was 221 for and 209 against.

A yes vote was in support of Contra aid. Voting yes: Republicans Pursell, Broomfield.

Voting no: Democrats Hertel, Ford, Levin.

SENATE

TABLING DODD - The Senate's first roll call on the issue occurred Dec. 18, 1982, when it voted 56 for and 38 against to table (kill) a tough anti-Contra amendment by Sen. Christopher Dodd, D-Conn. Proposed to HJ Res 631, it sought to prohibit American aid to rebel forces in Central America during the last eight months of fiscal 1983

A yes vote endorsed the Contra operation. Voting yes: Levin.

INOUYE - By a vote of 42 for and 57 against, the Senate rejected an amendment by Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, to spend $6 million resettling the Contras while banning fiscal 1985 spending by intelligence agencies to support their insurgency. The vote occurred on Oct. 3. 1984, during debate on HJ Res

A yes vote opposed the Contras. Voting yes: Levin.

LUGAR - By a vote of 53 for and 47 against, the Senate on March 27, 1986, approved language by Sen. Richard G. Lugar, R-Ind., to provide $100 million in Contra aid to be first released in July 1986. This occurred during debate on SJ Res 283. The money later was provided through HR 5052 (see Edwards above).

Chiefs take aim at school's first winning season

By Dan O'Meara staff writer

The only thing standing between Plymouth Canton and a winning football record is the belief it can be done.

Otherwise, the Chiefs are in possession of the talent and physical tools needed to accomplish that goal, according to coach Bob Khoenle.

Canton has never been above 500 in its 14-year history, and Khoenle would like nothing more than to see the Chiefs break that negative tradition.

The team posted a 3-6 mark last year - Khoenle's first as head coach - but he saw the beginnings of a change in attitude. When the going got tough, the team maintained its focus.

"WE DIDN'T win as much as we thought we could have," Khoenle said, "but everybody was going in the same direction — and that's what was so fun about it."

"The record doesn't indicate it, but we really improved a lot; it was a fun year. Maybe the kids sensed that and picked up on it."

Having seen signs of progress and heartened by indications of a deeper commitment, Khoenle said he hopes the current group of Chiefs believe in themselves and are ready to do what no other Canton ballclub has done.

'The kids don't know what it takes to win," he said. "They have never seen a team before them win and seen what it takes to do that. It's not that they can't, because they're very capable.

"AS LONG as I've been at this school, we've had the talent, but we've never been able to win. The difference between our being successful and not being successful is the attitude.

football

Another reason to be optimistic is that Canton will be a senior-dominated team with plenty of veterans from a squad that often played well, but lost a number of close

The Chiefs have a good supply of running backs, led by senior tricaptain Roger Trice, the leading rusher a year ago. Trice (6-0, 180), an all-division player, has 4.5 speed as well as great hands for pass receiving.

Senior Joel Riggs (5-10, 155) replaces Tony Boucher at the other halfback in Canton's Wing-T offense, and senior Scott Browne (6-0, 180), another of the tri-captains, takes over at fullback after excelling on the Chiefs' stingy defense

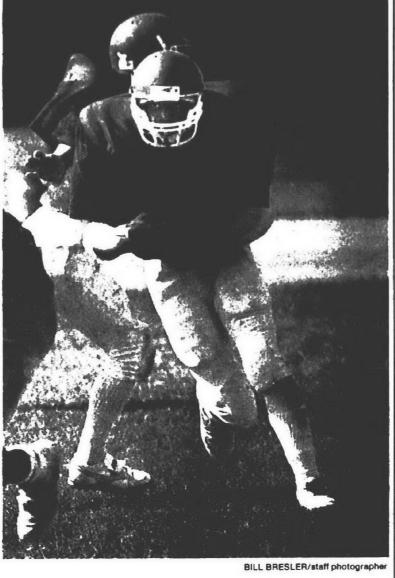

"WE HAVE good halfback depth and speed, and we're going to make good use of it," said Khoenle, adding that halfbacks Wilt Watkins, Kevin Stackpoole and Jim Young and fullback Brian Detrich will provide much of that backfield

"I really think we've got good kids and talent. What concerns me and the coaching staff is the mental approach. I think we got it started last year, and I hope it keens on ' The Chiefs have a quarterback with experience in senior Neil' Hubert (5-10, 165), who started the last four games of '86. "He can run and throw real well," Khoenle said, "and that's how we're going to use him - rolling and throwing.

THE THIRD tri-captain, senior

Senior co-captain Roger Trice spearheads a group of speedy running backs in Plymouth Canton's camp.

Jim Crews (6-1, 220), anchors the offensive line from his tackle posi-

Senior Mike Flynn (6-3, 220) could give the Chiefs a pair of bookend tackles if he were to start on the other side. But he is a key defensive player, and Khoenle would prefer to limit the number of players going both ways.

Therefore, seniors John Cole (6-0, 180) and Jim Patterson (5-11, 185) and juniors Bruce Hermanson (6-0, 180) and Bob Quinn (5-11, 175) also are tackle candidates.

Senior Jerry French (6-0, 260), another regular on defense last year, is one of half a dozen players who will start the season as twoway players, doubling as the cen-

COLE, SENIOR lettermen Glen Allen (5-11, 180) and Dave Feierfeil (5-11, 175) and junior Bill Thams are the guard prospects.

Ed Bardelli (5-9, 150) will be the wide receiver with senior Jeff Simmons (6-1, 160) and junior Mark Barrette (6-2, 170) giving him a rest so he can concentrate on de-

Sports auction Sparky's baby

Y NOW, it should be apparent that Sparky Anderson could sell anything to anybody around Detroit.

His believability had been stretched to its limit early this baseball season when he proclaimed, with a straight face, that this Detroit Tiger team was his best ever. This he said when the Tigers were languishing in fifth place, out of sight of first and far below .500.

Now that Sparky has validated what seemed a rash statement, he could probably sell pencils to a blind man. Or obstructed-view Tiger tickets to Mike Ilitch.

Which is what puzzles me about Saturday's one-time-only sports auction at North Farmington High School.

Anderson put this thing together. It was his brainchild and his tireless efforts that made it possible. No one else associated with Detroit could have accomplished it (with the possible exception of Lee Iacocca).

SO WHY BRING in all these other guys - Ernie Harwell, Paul Carey, Jim Northrup, Larry Osterman, Al Ackerman, Joe Falls, Jerry Green, Mitch Albom, Bill Bonds, Dick Purtan, Steve Garagiola - to do the auctioneering? It's a job Anderson was born for.

"I have so much stuff, it's embarrassing," the Tiger manager said. "I contacted everybody I knew. I just got off the phone with Joe Morgan. He's sending me his World Series bat and his all-star bat.

"It's gone beyond anything I ever thought.

What Anderson was thinking about when he devised this money-making scheme for Henry Ford Hospital's Children's Hospital was an autograph session. While managing the Cincinnati Reds (where Morgan was his starting second baseman), Anderson used to pay regular visits to the city's Children's Hospital.

Last spring, he started thinking about doing the same thing in Detroit. When he visited a friend, Hank Simonvic, a Detroit storeowner, and found out Simonvic's grandson was hospitalized, Anderson was spurred into action.

Risak

His first idea for a fund-raiser was an autograph session, which seemed good but too ordinary for a major moneymaker. Then Anderson thought about running five autograph sessions at once at different

THAT PLAN evolved into something entirely different early one morning in a Seattle hotel room. Why not have an auction of rare sports memorabilia?

"I know a lot of people," Anderson said. "I could start writing them, contact them (about contributing

A foundation was established for an annual fund-raising event for the hospital. Loads of people got involved in collecting items to auction off. Among the more unique:

twofold. Roth, an assistant professional at Birmingham Country Club, is having one of his best summers ever.

The 1975 Plymouth Salem High School graduate won the Yamaha Classic and played well at the Michigan Match Play tournament, where he made the quarterfinals before falling to Jay Horton in 19 holes. He made it past local qualifying for the U.S. Open and is in the running for the prestigious Michigan Player of the Year crown.

By winning the Match Play title, Roth qualified for the second annual Michigan Bell $18,000 'Skins' Showdown this weekend at the Grand Traverse Resort's "Bear" course.

He will be joining Michigan Open champion Jack Seltzer, Michigan Match Play champion Bob Makoski, and the Michigan PGA champion for 18 holes of serious golf. The four players will vie for an average of $1,000 per hole.

ROTH ADMITTEDLY has been thinking about the possibilities of a big pay day at the "Bear". He is definitely looking forward to the chal-

HE OPTED for assistant pro jobs in Michigan, where he has worked at Wabeek Country Club in Bloomfield Hills and the Tam O-Shanter Country Club in West Bloomfield. He is now in his second fling with the Birmingham Country Club.

"Carl (Patron, the head pro at the Birmingham CC) has treated me nothing but good," said Roth. "It's nice to work for a head pro who wants you to do good. It was important for me to get fixed in my mind during this past winter what I could do and not do at the club.

"I wanted a little more playing time this year and that's why I asked for that instead of a raise," he said. "Before the season started, my goal was to be one of the four players to get into the 'Skins' game.'

Roth, an average hitter with an "improved" iron game, believes the key for success at the 'Skins' Showdown will be patience.

"You can't really force it in that type of situation," he said. "If you've got the ability to play, the good players will come out in the wash. You just have to try not to get too up or too down.

"It's exciting to play for that kind of money," he said. "This is kind of like the Super Bowl of Michigan

Ex-Glenn coach gets new job on U-M staff

When the Fighting Irish of Notre Dame march into Michigan Stadium Saturday, Sept. 12, Lloyd Carr will see a familiar face or two.

Carr, the former Westland John Glenn High coach recently elevated to defensive coordinator for the University of Michigan football team. will try to devise a plan to stymie new quarterback Terry Andrysiak all-American flanker Tim Brown and their accomplices.

"I tried to recruit Terry (out of Allen Park Cabrini) to U-M and I know him very well," said Carr. "I have great respect for his ability.

Carr, who came to U-M from Illi nois in 1980, has been given more responsibility on coach Bo Schem bechler's staff this season.

"Two thoughts come to mind about Notre Dame," Carr said. "First, they were ranked first or sec ond in the nation in total offense.

"The second thing is Tim Brown. We know he's a guy you've got to contain. You can't totally stop him. but you can't let him beat you with big plays.

CARR, WHO coached the defensive backs the past seven years, will be more involved with the entire defensive scheme. He will concentrate on the linebackers.

'My job will be to coordinate onthe-field practices and game plans. said the 42-year-old assistant. "It's a great challenge and I'm really excit-

"In the secondary, you're more involved in perimeter running plays but now there's a greater emphasis on passing. Working with the linebackers gets you more involved in the total aspects of the game.'

Although Carr's job has changed. one person remains a fixture - Bo.

"The thing about our staff is that everybody works as a unit," Carr said. "We'll make changes and adjust each week, but Bo is still the head coach. There's no question in anybody's mind. Our responsibility is to have a defense that's successful."

The latter has become the standard for the Raiders, especially when one considers only crosstown rival Farmington Harrison scored more than two touchdowns against them.

Ten days ago. St. Mary's College decided to keep its basketball program. On Monday, Frank Anthonis, the college's first-year president, found someone to fill his athletic director and coaching position.

Now all that need be done is find a way to keep the players.

The college announced Tuesday that Glen Donahue, a Southfield resident and formerly the coach at Highland Park Community College, was chosen to replace Rich Zalenski, who abruptly resigned Aug. 11 to take the head coaching position at Bristol (Tenn.) College

We had to have someone who could step right in and do the job," said Anthonis of his decision to hire Donahue. "Glen fit the bill. I am really pleased I was able to get him.

The recommendations coming back through all my calling were that Donahue's a good man and a good coach."

THAT'S WHAT the St. Mary's program will need to survive Zalenski's departure. When he left, Zalenski predicted the Eagle program would collapse. He then apparently aided its demise by recruiting St. Mary's Zalenski interviewed for the Bristol position the weekend of Aug. 8-9, driving a St. Mary's van and taking four Eagle players with him. Last week, Theo Pearson, an Eagle starter the past two seasons, returned from Bristol with a team roster Zalenski had printed that included the names of eight St. Mary's play-

"We obviously have to get out and recruit some players between now and the start of the season," the 52year-old Donahue said of his first task. "We have to recruit enough players to be a respectable team. We'll be a solid program - now, tomorrow and forever

Asked who would be back for St. Mary's, Donahue said, "Who knows? I guess that verdict is out until Sept. 9, when classes start. I have not talked to all the players yet."

DONAHUE SAID he had spoken with and received commitments from six players: Jerome Washburn, James Butcher, James Lakes, Safaa Qasawa and freshman recruit Denny Butcher. Of the six, only Qasawa was a starter a year ago.

Donahue left Highland Park CC to become a part-time assistant under Don Sicko at University of Detroit last year. He compiled a 401-205 record in 19 seasons at Highland Park CC, and his 1984-85 team was ranked No. 1 in the NJCAA during the season.

Donahue was one of three finalists for the position. Another was Oakland University assistant coach Bob Lees. Anthonis listed several reasons for hiring Donahue, including his extensive experience in recruiting the area as well as his coaching success. Money, too, was a factor. Donahue has retired from his teaching post at Highland Park CC

Does exercise help improve your skin?

Dear Myrna: Does exercise improve your skin? I am a vain woman who loves to exercise. It seems that my skin is looking better lately. Is this my imagination?

- Marcie L.

To begin on a personal note: I do think exercise has helped to enhance my "skin" although I do give my skin lots of loving care.

Precisely how exercise affects your skin is still unknown. We can presume that the increased circulation resulting from aerobic activity may, by bringing more nutrients to the skin, enable the skin to better maintain and repair itself.

By assuming when a woman improves her overall level of fitness. she improves her skin as well. In general, people who exercise are likely to eat healthier foods, drink less alcohol, not smoke and take fewer necessary drugs.

This in itself is a criteria for healthier skin. Your skin is an organ and like all other parts it becomes a barometer for our health.

Being a regular exerciser, you may have noticed the salty residue that remains on your face after you have had your sweaty workout Always rinse your face immediately after exercise if at all possible. After rinsing, treat your thirsty skin to a good moisturizer, not just

That fact that your skin looks prettier now may not just be your imagination. The benefits of exercise are certainly multifaceted

(Myrna Partrich, co-owner of The Workout Company Inc. of Bloomfield Township, is happy to answer any questions readers may have regarding exercise. Your signed letters may be sent to Sports Department, Myrna Partrich, 1225 Bowers, Birmingham. Mich. 48012.)

Writer grew up an outdoorsman

HE MOST DISCOURAGING aspect of a recent trip into the Upper Peninsula was the lack of free time to do the things an outdoorsman is expected to do when traveling to the northern section of the state fish, hike. explore and simply enjoy the outdoors

I was only gone for four days, two of which were spent on the road. driving to and from Marquette, and two spent covering local athletes as they participated in the Great Lakes State Games In those two days of travel, however, and a few scattered hours of leisure time, I was reacquainted with the northern half of the state

First, let me explain something I was raised by an avid outdoorsman My dad was never a big fan of professional sports. He didn't take us to baseball or football games But he'd jump at a chance to take one or all three of his sons on a hunting or fishing trip. He used these trips to motivate us to do well in school If we maintained good grades we were rewarded with a week-long trip up north. If we let our grades slip we'd have to stay home and study Needless to say we worked hard at being good students and made many, many trips together up north.

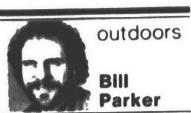

ALMOST FROM the time I was old enough to walk. I was taught about woodsmanship, gun safety, fishing tactics and all the other things needed to survive in the outdoors. I could identify poison ivy before I knew what a tulip was: and I could recite the the 10 Commandments of Gun Safety before I knew Three Blind Mice.

My family moved from a jungle in Detroit - I was actually "mugged" by a 14-year-old when I was 6 - to a country atmosphere in Lake Orion surrounded by lakes and acres of

As youngsters, my brothers and I hunted, fished and trapped. Sportsmanship was mandatory and we never took more from nature than what we planned to use As I grew older my interests turned toward athletic competition. Although I never lost my enthusiasm for the outdoors I didn't participate as avidly as I had I moved to Arizona for three years and didn't hunt or fish at all. In 1985 I returned to Michigan, but until my recent trip to Marquette I hadn't been up north in almost five years

My hunting and fishing experiences. since returning to Michigan, were centered around the southeastern section of the state I'd almost forgotten what what northern Michigan was all about

ON THIS particular trip things just seemed to appeal to my senses a little more than what I had ever remembered The air seemed fresher and the colors seemed brighter Even car-killed skunks didn't seemi to smell as bad as they usually do

I've never seen an elk in the wild. so on the trip home I detoured down M-32 through Gaylord. Johannesburg. Vienna and Atlanta - the heart of Michigan's elk country. The thought of sighting a magnificent bull in velvet brought a chill to my stomach Watching the backs of every field, in my mind. I must have spotted 30 elk. I wanted to see one so bad At 40-mph every stump, fence post and low hanging branch looked like an elk to me. On second glance I realized none were

I didn't see an abundance of wildlife, although I was constantly on the lookout Three young deer, sporting their beautiful golden brown summer coats, made a cameo appearance just south of Atlanta A few minutes later a mother turkey caused an enjoyable three-car traffic jam as she holdly walked her three chicks across the road

I TOOK a couple of hours near sundown one evening and drove out the Pesheke River Grade, west of Marquette, to the area where the Department of Natural Resources planted moose. The Pesheke River winds back and forth across the road, which is actually more of a narrow, shoulderiess paved trail With dark green pines in the background, beautiful whife birch trees along the bank of the river and the white-capped Pesheke in the foreground, each crossing offered a beautiful majestic view

SC stays strong under Teeters By C.J. Risak staff writer

Community college coaches face a continuous struggle, season after season: rebuilding. A team must be refurbished almost every year, givthe talent he recruits.

That is, unless the incoming athlete happens to be headed for Schoolcraft College to play volleyball under Tom Teeters' tutelage.

North boasts solid defense

John Krol (5-10, 170), will be opposite Cohen (6-2, 205) at the other outside spot

The secondary is an experienced bunch led by seniors Ryan Meador (5-10, 155) and Warren Johnson (5-7, 150), both returning starters at cornerback

Mike Filipovich (6-2, 185), a hardhitting junior, becomes the monster, and senior Venoy Hill (6-0, 160), a transfer from Redford Bishop Borgess, will play free safety.

Chad Henry, a wide receiver who is expected to help make the Raiders a strong passing team, started a safety last year, but is sidelined with a broken collarbone.

HE IS expected to be out for three weeks, but O'Leary would like to reduce the number of two-way players

I'm hesitant because we can't afford to lose him as a receiver or kicker." O'Leary said.

Senior Mike Sinanis (5-5, 160) returns at nose guard, and senior Mike Temple (5-10, 195) returns at tackle. Zaim Cummalaj (6-1, 210), a junior whom O'Leary is very high on, is expected to start at the other tackle.

"We're adequate but we're not big," O'Leary said. "But we've never been big, so that doesn't concern me.

"I'LL SAY this: This team hits as hard as any team I've had. In practice, they're very physical; they like contact.

The big question mark on offense is the line where North must replace all five interior players and the tight end. Furthermore, the Raiders could end up with an all-junior line instead of an all-senior unit like they had

"That's going to be our big challenge." O'Leary said. "We have to come up with some linemen. We back into service.

any playing experience, so whoever we put in there will be rookies."

Either senior Tim Gonterman (5-10, 185) or junior Jerry Hakala (6-0, 185) will be the center, and juniors Rvan Sevburn (5-9, 180) and Jeff Jacobs (5-9, 185) are slated to be the CUMMALAJ IS expected to man one of the tackles, and either junior Tim Hamilton (5-11, 200) or senior Craig Barany (6-0, 205) will start on the other side.

"It's critical as far as our offense is concerned, because everywhere else we're pretty well set," O'Leary said. "They have to make a lot of progress and come through for us if we're going to move the football."

North should be able to pass the ball as well as anyone with senior Scott Simon (6-0, 175) back at quarterback. He started seven games, completed 48 percent of his passes. threw for more than 700 yards and was voted to the all-division team. Recently, he fared well in the annual summer passing league at Wayne

Simon seldom carried the ball last year since he was the only experienced quarterback North had, but O'Leary has full confidence in Filipovich as a back-up and might run the option at times this fall.

HENRY (6-2, 175), another all-division player, caught 27 passes -the fourth best, single-season effort in school history - for 374 yards and one TD, but could miss the first

He broke his collarbone at a summer football camp and, on the first day of preseason practice, broke it again diving to catch a pass. Therefore, O'Leary isn't going to rush him

Joe Sturtz takes part in agility drills during a Raider practice session. The junior linebacker spearheads a veteran defense.

Henry can still help the team with his kicking, however. He made three of six field goals from 52, 41 and 36 yards and was 6-of-9 in extra points.

"He kicks the ball regularly down inside the 10-yard line, and he gives us great range on field goals, O'Leary said. "Any time we get inside the 40, we're a threat to score three points.

AS A RECEIVER, Henry is backed up by senior Todd Gesund (5-11, 165), who has 4.5 speed and great hands, according to O'Leary, who added "We're fortunate to have the Lixury of a back-up who is equally as good.

Meador returns to the swingback position, and Cohen gained experience at tight end and steps into a starting role this year.

Based on what we did this summer and the people we have coming who, combined, can carry the load."

back, I would say (passing) would be the strength of our offense," O'Leary

"I'm not saying our running game is poor, but I think we have a good passing game.

"THE DIFFERENCE is last year we had a great running back. We knew we could run the ball. This year it will be spread out over a few more people.

Selzer, who is now on scholarship at Michigan State, set school records for carries (206) and yards gained (1,311) and scored all but one of North's 17 touchdowns rushing.

"It's going to be a big loss." O'Leary said. "It would be foolish to tell you anything different when he was the best running back in the history of the school.

"But I think we have some kids

ANDERSON CALLED in a lot of favors for this deal. On each road trip, he contacted the general manager of the team the Tigers were vis- ter of understatement, said of the iting and gave him a list of what he wanted from whom. He also spoke with people connected with other sports teams to add to the collection.

"We've got 140 bats from every major star in the league." Anderson said. "We went into Boston and I got Dwight Evans' and Wade Boggs' jerseys, with autographed balls and bats to match. We got a Dwight Gooden bat.

'We got (football) jerseys from Joe Montana, John Elway, Dan Marino, Phil Sims and Marcus Allen. We Smith, and two signed by Bobby

And what was the hardest single auction item to secure? "Wayne Gretzky's jersey," Anderson answered. "It's very hard to get anything of his. (Red Wings' coach) Jacques Demers got it for me."

IN WHAT Anderson called "the best idea I came up with," 200 autographed posters featuring the head - Anderson, Demers, Darryl Rogers and Chuck Daly - will be sold Eight hundred others - unsigned will also be available at a lesser

Gonzalez recently returned from the Pan American Games in Indianapolis. He was starting for the Mexican National Team, which lost the bronze medal game to Puerto Rico Saturday night, 102-100 The 6-foot-7 forward didn't play much because of a sore knee, which limited his playing time. He scored only two points

My knee has been bothering me because I've been playing so much," he said. "Right now I'm just resting and relaxing, taking some ultra-sound treatments at a sports medicine place.

Why is he playing for Mexico?

"I'M AN AMERICAN citizen, but I was born in Matehuala in the state of San Luis Potosi, it's about an hour north of Mexico City," Gonzalez explained. "They (the national team) had been calling me to play for them for a few years."

Gonzalez's birthplace made him eligible to play for the Mexican Nationals (Rob's father Paul was also born in Mexico, but later moved his family to the States.)

After graduating from high school, Gonzalez spent two years at Michigan State, where he was a member of the Spartans' 1979 NCAA National Championship team. Many of Gonzalez's teammates went on to NBA fame and fortune, including Earvin Johnson, Jay Vincent and Greg Keiser

Gonzalez then transferred to Colorado, where he finished his collegiate career.

Ironically, while in Indy, Gonzalez and his old coach at MSU, Jud Heathcote, got together for lunch. Heathcote was serving as an assistant under Louisville's Denny Crum for the U.S. team.

"I always had a good relationship with him." Gonzalez said "I played at State," but I just needed a change. I was glad to see

AFTER HIS STINT at Colorado, Gonzalez was drafted by the Pistons, but soon found himself playing professionally in France. He also played a year in Argentina before going to the F C Club of Barcelona, Spain.

"I went to Spain because the money was a lot better," Gonzalez said.

Next week he'll return to Spain and play for another team, Athletico of Madrid. When the season ends, Gonzalez will go and play in Puerto Rico.

"I like visiting other countries and it's a way to continue playing," he said "And while I'm playing I'm investing my money Living aboard has not been much of an adjustment for Gonzalez "I studied the languages in high school I've picked that up. Gonand college zalez said. I speak fluently so it makes it easy to communicate The way of living is more laid back in Spain Everybody is not in a big rush You can develop a lot of relationships People are genuinely concerned There's nothing wrong with the US It's just different life

GONZALEZ PLANS to play again for Mexico next April in a pre-Olympic tourna-ment in Uruguay He said the Mexicans have a legitimate shot at qualifying for the Olympics later on in the year in Seoul Ko-

We should have won the bronze at down in Indy." Gonzalez said. We led Puerto Rico by seven points late in the game and couldn't hold on I think we have a good shot We beat Canada in the Pan Ams by 12 points

Gonzalez said he was surprised by Brazil's victory over the favored U.S. squad in the gold medal final Earlier in the Pan Ams, Gonzalez scored seven points against the US in a lopsided defeat

The U.S., other than David Robinson (of Navy), didn't have a big team this time," Gonzalez said "They usually have the more big people They didn't have anybody like a Sam Perkins or Waymon Tisdale. I was surprised they left off guys like Rony Seikaly (of Syracuse) and J.R. Reid (of North Carolina) That was good for teams like Brazil because they weren't as physical.

I thought the U.S. got pushed around. particularly under the boards. International ball is different than college. They let you play underneath internationally, but college is more of a finesse game.

Nicole Drake, a member of the Plymouth Canton girls swim team, finished second in the 1,500-meter freestyle in the Junior Nationals Swim Meet in Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Drake also was fourth in the 800 freestyle and 13th in the 400 freestyle. In the process, she just missed matching the Senior National standard by .40 in the 1;500 and one second in the 800.

Drake, who also swims for the Livonia Spartan team, was among nearly 1,200 swimmers from states east of the Mississippi to compete in the Hall of Fame Pool.

From 1973-75, Carr was the head coach at Glenn. In 1975 he earned Regional Class A Coach-of-the-Year honors for an 8-1 season.

"We lost a tough game to Livonia Franklin that year and they went on to win the state championship the first year of the playoffs," recalls Carr. "I still think about that loss, but my years at Glenn were some of the happiest I've experienced. I get great enjoyment out of seeing them continue to have a fine program. I'm very close with coach (Chuck) Gor-

Carr left Glenn to join Eastern Michigan University's staff (1976-77) before hooking up with Moeller at Illinois (1978-79).

At Friday's breakfast gathering, Schembechler told the media he would have "second thoughts" about getting into college coaching today, particularly in light of the numerous problems that confront football staffs (agents, unsavory figures, steroids and drugs).

"YOU HAVE to love coaching and working with young men," Carr said. "I'm sure if Bo had to do it over again that he'd still coach. He loves the relationship with young men too

Marian Tyler (above) saw Marian McPeek do lacemarking in Ann Arbor 18 years ago and decided she had to learn how to do the handwork. Tyler of Canton is now vice president of the Great Lakes Lace Group, one of the largest and most active in the U.S. At the left, Arthur Finney, a stamp collector, and his daughter. was originally set for last year when the lacers were observing their 10th anniversary. However, a printing glitch surfaced and the dedication was deferred to ensure that the finished product would capture the delicate beauty of the lacemaker's craft. It took a year to make the proper adjustments. The Postal Service explained that the lacemaking project was part of a continuing joint effort with the Bureau of Engraving and Printing aimed at developing consistently high quality stamp design and production.

Early efforts, Tyler noted, were disap-pointing. "They told us the stamp looked like a plate of white spaghetti" instead of the spidery and delicate lace patterns.

The final effort was the use of an offsetintaglio method. Technically it calls for two offset shades of blue ink to be used in the printing. One was used for the lettering; the second was applied to the vignette portion in two separate "coats." By applying the ink twice, through two different screen patterns, an unusually rich and even tone was achieved. The white "lace" then was printed over the blue background by the intaglio, or "engraved" method.

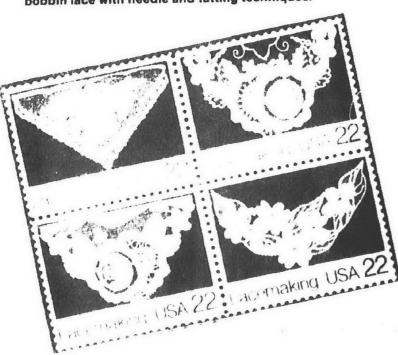

The Postal Service believes that this is the first time that a stamp or stamps have been manufactured with white, intaglio printing over a dark, offset-printed background.

"We were notified that it would be done in time for our 11th anniversary but we didn't know up until two weeks before the convention whether or not the stamps would really be ready," Tyler said.

"But the net result," she smiled, " was well worth waiting for.'

book break Mona Grigg

Zibby Oneal emerges elect Grigg as writer for all ages

ECENTLY ZIBBY Oneal Ann Arbor's highly acclaimed Young Adult novelist. spent on afternoon with a group of writers talking about the mystical. magical downright difficult process of moving characters from the imagination onto the print-

Where do I get my ideas? I think the ideas get me, she said laughing as she described her answers to the questions most often asked of her (She writes with a pencil though she's slowly graduating to a pen, she says. She doesn't like what happens to her words when she tries typing

Something haunts me, in a sense, and begins to take over Then it's just like any job - you've got to sit down and turn out the pages and eventually you may have something that's worth

Harder to describe, Oneal says, is "the thing that is really rather mysterious about writing the way you'll suddenly get a sentence, just like a present, and it will tell you what you need to know about where you're heading.

"Who knows where that comes from? I think it comes from just having primed the pumpline, but it feels very much like - manna Writers talk about the characters suddenly taking over When it happens you think. How can this happen? I'm in total charge here. Well, you're not in not charge. And it's a good thing. If you are in complete control nothing is going to happen the writing will be totally dead Ideally, you keep control of the material, but still allow it the freedom to run

Oneal is the author of "The Language of Goldfish." A Formal Feeling," and last year's "In Summer Light," called "A beautiful piece of literature by Kirkus Review.

In another glowing review of the book. Publisher's Weekly said. "The story is filled with wonders. Oneal's exquisite prose leaves also the indelible memory of what the word art' means."

Still. Oneal says she spent the better part of a year working on another book - writing and tossing out, writing and tossing. It was her first attempt at an "adult" novel, where the focus was on the problems of adults as seen through adult eyes and Oneal says, it simply never worked

There were teenagers in the novel, and they kept trying to take over. It was their voices I was hearing, their concerns, and in the end I just had to give up. she said.

"I think there is something to be said for finding a place where your voice is comfortable I realized that I simply wasn't comfortable dealing with adult characters in depth."

While Oneal admires adult works in which young people are the central characters - like Hemingway's Nick Adams stories, "The Catcher in the Rye A Member of the Wedding and To Kill a Mockingbird," she thinks that nowadays it would be almost impossible to write a novel about a teenager that wouldn't find its

There was no Young Adult category when those early books were written, and Oneal sometimes wishes it were so today

way into the Young Adult rather than the adult

And if adults haven't caught on to Oneal's work, it may be because the packaging and the marketing of her books suggest that they are strictly for kids. Not long ago I spent some time with a writer from New York and we began listing our favorite writers (the usual bookpeople pastime). Zibby Oneal was at the top of her Young Adult list, and when I told her I would be meeting Oneal this summer you would have thought I'd said Hemingway had arisen and was coming to Ann Arbor

My friend was literally awestruck, and her reaction amazed me I began reading Oneal and before I'd finished a few pages. I could understand why my friend Rachel was a fan There are no tricks, no cliches, no condescension in Oneal's works. She writes with great insight and clarity - and elegance

Here is Kate Brewer, the 17-year-old protagonist in "In Summer Light" - daughter of a famous but fading painter and an artist in her own right until her father's neglect and insensitivity served to stifle her. Mrs. Hilmer laid down her dustcloth and squinted up at the painting The cat, the chair, the child - all dissolving in the painting's light Don't you see. Mrs. Hilmer? The objects don't really matter here They could be anything - grapes and bottles.

"I don't see how. If was grapes and bottles, it wouldn't be a picture of you

'It isn't a picture of me. Kate said

"Looks that way to me, said Mrs Hilmer, and Kate only nodded, because of course it had looked that way to her, too, once Until she had begun to see what it was really meant to be, she thought the painting was her portrait.

"She could remember clearly the day she discovered that this was not so She had heard ther father) talking to a visitor, standing beneath the painting as Mrs. Hilmer now stood. If you look closely at the cat, he said, or the chair, or the figure on the chair, you can see that, as objects. they don't really matter. They are colors occu-

This had baffled Kate. She hadn't guessed that in the hours she posed for him she was only a color filling space. In fact, she had imagined that, when he had finished, she would call the painting. 'Kate' He had called it 'The Studio.

Oh, these Michigan writers' But I've said that before, haven't I?

riencing roof leaks, basement leaks and deteriorated pavement. We have asked the developed to repair these items under a warranty, but the developer has refused to do so, saying that he has other pressing matters. What is our recourse as the board of directors?

The board of directors of a condominium association generally has the responsibility to ensure that the common areas of the condominium for which the association is responsible for the maintenance, repair and replacement - are properly constructed and maintained.

If the developer is legally responsible to the association for defective construction regarding common elements, the association has a responsibility to examine the propriety of instituting legal proceedings, if necessary, to seek recovery from the developer for damages sustained by the association because of the de-

The legal theories upon which these claims can be pursued depend, of course, upon the facts of the case, including the representations or omissions of material facts made by the developer The board should consult with legal counsel immediately concerning its rights and what course of action can be undertaken to attempt to reasonably resolve the outstanding disputes

My condominium wishes to preclude anyone from moving into the condominium under the age of 25. 1 have told them that that is not enforceable in this state and is discriminatory. Do you have any com-

Generally speaking, the Elliott Larsen Civil Rights Act precludes discrimination on the basis of age except for "senior citizen housing." and it would appear, therefore, that a blanket restriction on any person residing in a condominium under the age of 25 would be suspect as being in violation of the Civil Rights law.

Such provisions might also cause problems with respect to the marketability of units by those who wish to sell them. You should obtain an opinion from legal counsel as to the propriety of such restriction and whether it might invite litigation to be brought by individuals or the Civil Rights Commission against the association and its directors

Sell. Don't just list.

There's a big difference between listing your home with a Realtor and actually selling it. Because one doesn't necessarily lead to the other. That's why your best bet for a quick sale is to go with a proven track record. List with Real Estate One, Michigan's largest home seller for over 17 years.

- Since 1970, Real Estate One has consistently sold more homes
   each year than any other Realtor in the state of Michigan.
- Real Estate One is the largest real estate advertiser in metro and suburban newspapers.
- In 1986, Real Estate One held 30% more open houses than any other Realtor in the Detroit area.

- Over 800 full-time sales associates have first-hand contact with many thousands of ready-to-buy buyers.
- As a member of 13 Boards of REALTORS<sub>®</sub> and all of the metro multiple listing services, Real Estate One attracts additional buyers locally and nationally.
- Local ownership and continuous' growth for over 50 years gives Real Estate One the experience to draw upon for the routine, unexpected and unusual.
- Full Service: Specialized
   Mortgage Services, Equity Loan
   Program, AMERINET Referral
   Service, Corporate Relocation and Transferee Program.

Don't put it off. List with Real Estate One today and we'll sell your home!
