EXTRA MILER: Hard work has paid off for Fiegel Elementary School teacher Barbara Overholt. A 14-year veteran with Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, Overholt was bestowed with the district's Extra Miler award by the board of education at its Monday meeting.

"Barb's genuine concern for quality education has been evident to us since she taught our oldest son nine years ago," wrote Priscilla Blanzy in a nominating letter. Her extracurricular activities, such as the one-room schoolhouse at Greenfield Village, field trips, family picnics and her boundless energy organizing a special play for the children to present" are evidence of Overholt's belief that a wellbalanced education involves exposure to the outside world.

Overholt, also nominated by other parents and staff, received an Extra Miler certificate and a voucher for brunch for two at the Mayflower Hotel.

COMEDY BENEFIT: A special comedy benefit, An Evening of Comedy starring Norm Stulz will be held beginning at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 5, in the Mayflower Meeting House, Plymouth.

The performance by Stulz, "Michigan's Premier Storyteller," will be a benefit to aid heart patient Robert Sharon, a hopeful heart transplant candidate. Sharon, 37, is married with two children. His sister, William Decker Realty in Plymouth. Tickets at $8 each are available at Decker Realty on Main Street between Wing and Ann Arbor Road, or by calling 455-8604. There will be a cash bar so persons attending the benefit must be 21 or older.

Stulz has performed at the Comedy Store in Los Angeles, on the CBS Morning Show, at Mark Ridley's Comedy Castle, Ann Arbor's Main Street Comedy Store, at the Premier Center and throughout the Midwest and South. He has worked with Dick Purtan at the benefit for the slain Inkster police officers. He also has worked with Pat Paulsen. Rich Hall, Louis Nye, Dave Coulier and Mike Binder.

NETWORK: Local business people have an opportunity to meet, mingle and make new contacts at the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce Business Extension from 5-7 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 21, at Karl's Restaurant, 9979 N.

Territorial. The charge for the Business Extension, open to the general public, is $5 for members and $7 for nonmembers. Hors d'oeuvres and a cash bar are provided. Park and ride transportation will be available on the city's doubledecker bus, which will depart from the Plymouth Cultural Center at 5 p.m. and 5:30 p.m., and return at 6:30 p.m. and 7 p.m. For reservations or information call the Chamber at 453-1540.

ALL STARS: Three Plymouth Canton High students - Tricia Miller, Linda Potvin and Nicole Vachow - and Julie Genrich of Plymouth Salem High School have been selected as members of the 1987-88 Mid American Pom Pon All Star Team.

The team is composed of 80 pom pon girls representing 33 high schools from the Midwest and were selected from more than 1,000 applicants. The all star team will perform at the 1987 Michigan Thanksgiving Day Parade Nov. 26, at halftime of a Detroit Pistons or Detroit Lions game, and on a Florida performance tour Jan. 4-9, including a half-hour stage show at Epcot, Disney World and Sea World.

Schools study asbestos lawsuit change

By M.B. Dillon

staff writer

Plymouth-Canton Community Schools must decide by Dec. 1 whether to remain in a federal or Michigan class action lawsuit regarding asbestos in school buildings.

Asbestos, which has been identified as a carcinogen, was sprayed on ceilings as a fire retardant when Central Middle School was built in 1920. Asbestos covers pipes in boiler rooms in most of the district's 19 school buildings.

(At a cost of $200,000, the district removed asbestos from the middle school last summer. Asbestos in the other buildings is wrapped and is believed to pose no danger, say district officials.)

ABOUT 60 school districts across the country are charging asbestos manufacturers and distributors with negligence, breach of warranty, misrepresentation and conspiracy.

They are seeking reimbursement for money spent on finding, removing and wrapping asbestos.

Local school officials are thinking about remaining with the federal lawsuit, filed in 1983 in Pennsylva-

So far we have stayed with the federal overall class action suit," based on advice from school district attorney Richard Kroopnick, said Ray Hoedel, Plymouth-Canton associate superintendent for finance.

We have a call into our Lansing attorney to see if he has other advice for us Kroopnick favors the federal lawsuit for two reasons.

"Our principal reason for recommending the federal forum is the cost to the school district of participating in the Wayne County case,' said Kroopnick.

Unlike districts in the federal lawsuit, those suing in circuit court will be billed during litigation. Those in the federal lawsuit will pay attorneys fees only if they win.

Also, Kroopnick said, the size of the federal lawsuit "provides considerably more leverage for settlement purposes than would be present in any of the state proceedings.

Given the "enormity of this national problem," no one anticipates a windfall for districts should they be successful, say Kroopnick and Hoedel.

When you spread damages among the nation as a whole, I don't think the companies have that kind of money," said Hoedel.

PLYMOUTH-CANTON schools will sue on their own, should future inspections reveal that "we had asbestos quite extensively in all our buildings," added Hoedel.

Hoedel doubts that possibility Asbestos for Plymouth-Canton has not been an overwhelming concern like in some districts that have a great deal of asbestos.

"To our knowledge, based on three inspections by outside parties, Central was the only one that had asbestos (warranting concern), and that was removed this past summer. said Hoedel

The pipes are completely encapsulated. Eventually, we might want to tackle that one, but it takes a special company to do that type of

The federal government is offering grant money to some districts for asbestos removal - now mandated by law

Plymouth-Canton, because it is financially healthy, doesn't qualify for a grant, said Hoedel.

No one from the public spoke during a hearing prior to adoption of the spending plan.

Some figures were changed during budget workshops but the bottom line remained the same.

More money was allocated to the police department and planning department, less to general operations than was originally proposed by Supervisor Maurice Breen.

The '88 general fund budget is about 31/2 percent greater than the '87 budget. That partially reflects four additional employees, Breen

SAT scores drop from 1986 levels at CEP

More Plymouth-Canton students took the tests in 1987 than did in 1986

Juniors and seniors from Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem high schools averaged 19.1 on the American College Test (ACT), compared with a Michigan average of 18.8 and a national average of 18.7.

PLYMOUTH-CANTON students taking the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) last spring outperformed the Michigan and national averages in math. On the SAT verbal test, they topped the national average but scored below the average for the SAT math score averages were 532 for Plymouth-Canton; 513 in Michigan and 476 nationally.

SAT verbal scores averaged 455 for Plymouth-Canton; 459 in Michigan and 430 nationally.

The SAT scores were down from Plymouth-Canton scores a year ago, when students averaged 471 on the verbal test and 554 on the math test. This year's ACT score average was lower than last year's 19.6, said district community relations director Richard Egli.

The ACT is an achievement test, the results of which are required by a majority of Michigan colleges and universities for admission.

The SAT is an aptitude test used by educational institutions as an indicator of how well students will perform in college. The SAT has come under attack recently from critics who claim it is a poor indicator of how students do in college and that it asks biased questions.

Statewide, "the ACT test is taken by five times the number of high school students (65 percent) because the ACT is used by the State Board of Education to determine eligibility for State of Michigan Competitive Scholarships," said Ned Hubbell of the State Board of Education.

"The SAT was taken by 15 percent of the state's graduating high school

IN 1987, 400 of 625 Plymouth-Canton students took the ACT, up about 6 percent from 1986. Just under 200 students took the SAT in 1987. The scores of students from Canton and Salem high schools were nearly identical. "That gives you an idea of how similar an education is available at both buildings," said Egli. "That may be the most important thing in looking at the scores." Part of the reason Plymouth-Canton scores are lower may be "the fact that a lot more kids are taking it now. That affects the scores. Someone (a school official) said to me the scores may be a greater indication of genes than intelligence," said

Egli.
"If a district wants to be elitist, they exclude kids they know won't do well. We encourage anybody to take either one.'

Court upholds murder case retrial order

Former township resident's case improperly prosecuted

staff writer

Dr. Charles Fisher, formerly of Canton Township, will be tried a second time for the murder of his wife as a result of a Michigan Supreme Court decision.

Wayne County prosecutors had hoped to have reinstated the guilty verdict handed down in a 1986 jury trial before Wayne Circuit Judge Claudia House Morcom

After Fisher was convicted of first degree murder, a crime punishable by mandatory life in prison, Morcom set aside the verdict and ordered a new trial. The newly elected judge based her decision on what she termed "improper conduct" by Wayne County assistant prosecutor Doug Baker

Unsuccessful in the Michigan Court of Appeals, prosecutors petitioned the state Supreme Court for a review of Morcom's ruling. All seven Supreme Court justices voted last week to deny prosecutors the right to appeal the verdicts of trial judges unless "clear legal errors" can be shown, said Timothy Baughman, chief of appeals for the prosecutor's office. That means Morcom's order for a new trial stands.

FISHER REMAINS free on 10 percent of a $250,000 bond and is believed to be in Missouri, where his

was bound and gagged during what police and prosecutors theorize was staged break-in at the Fishers' Thornwood home

Mercado-Fisher, a registered nurse, was working for a medical temporary help agency and seeking a graduate degree in transcultural nursing at Wayne State University at the time of her death.

The couple was having marital problems, and Mercado-Fisher wanted a divorce, according to testi-

Fisher was consumed with jealousy over an affair he thought his wife was having with her cousin. Baker argued.

Fisher, who was working as a microbiologist at the Veteran's Administration Hospital in Ann Arbor, said he and his wife were knocked unconscious by intruders who bound, gagged and robbed them. He told police he was able to free himself and eventually his wife, whose head was wrapped in duct tape. Baker maintained that Fisher staged the attack, and then tried to save his wife in an effort to appear to be her rescuer. Fisher hoped this would dissuade his wife from divorcing him but the plan went awry,

Mercado-Fisher died five days after the assault

FISHER'S SECOND trial is expected to be heard by Wayne Circuit Judge Thomas Foley, probably around the first of the year.

Baker, a trial attorney with the prosecutors' repeat offender bureau. will again try the case.

Baker anticipates a two-to-threeweek trial requiring "the expenditure of a tremendous amount of re-

Finding witnesses and bringing back witnesses is going to occupy the time of the court, staff, prosecutors, defense attorneys and the police department

While additional evidence will be of help, "delays almost always work to prejudice the prosecution," added

Memories grow dull and people scatter and die. It gets harder and harder to put the case together. And it becomes easier to impeach witnesses because there's a record of everything they said years earlier."

MORCOM HAS declined to elaborate on her decision.

According to the prosecutor, Morcom said Baker "created error" in his closing arguments by quoting from a Carl Sandburg poem.

It was a quote from his trilogy about Abraham Lincoln. Entitled the Prairie Years, it was about Lincoln as a young man," said Baker.

The part I used said something like. He looked into the dark woods and saw distant lights and tall rain-

I took that passage to mean that Lincoln was an optimist. He was in a dark woods, yet he saw hope. That was his character.

"I'm not trying to put Ella Marie on a pedestal, but she was struggling to get independence of Fisher,

The marriage was suffocating her and she was trying to prove herself, follow her interest in the field of nursing.

She was trying to reach out and see a better life for herself. She was in a miserable situation but saw a distant light and rainbows.

LEGISLATION is being introduced that would expand prosecutors' right to appeal. Baughman and Baker said.

We are working hard to get the law changed, said Baughman "I would criticize a system that doesn't allow the review of trial judges' decisions by anybody. I don't know why setting aside a verdict should be unreviewable

The Supreme Court agrees with us in principle, but under existing law, we don't have that option. Hopefully it's forthcoming," said Baker.

Fisher's court-appointed attorney could not be reached for comment.

EVEN IF all available CDBG money were applied to the Ridge paving, it would pay only for about one quarter mile, one lane in each direction, projected James Anulewicz, planning director for the township.

Still, that would be enough for Oak Haven residents to have a paved route south to N. Territorial. Oak Haven residents haven't been clamoring for the Ridge paving, Anulewicz added, because a major east/ west road just south of the trailer court - Italyard Street - allows paved access from Ridge to Becl..

That road was developed by Robert DeMattia is part of his Metro West Technology Park. One advantage of waiting until next year to do the paving is the possibility of getting more CDBG and/or county money to expand the project. Both are definite possibilities, Anulewicz said.

IT'S BEEN difficult for township officials to qualify projects for CDBG money, Anulewicz said. "One of the problems we've got . . . and it's kind of a fortunate thing, is we don't have easy numbers under census tracts as to low or moderate income" population areas, he said. The trailer courts, Oak Haven and Plymouth Hills, would qualify, he added. While not a certainty because the township board can always change priorities, Anulewicz said he believes Ridge eventually will be paved to some extent using CDBG dollars.

Up to now, the township board has decided against applying general fund money to road paving projects.

big change in indigent care

By Wayne Pool staff writer

A new indigent health care program could save Wayne County millions of dollars each year, local county commissioners said

Local commissioners are lining up behind the proposed indigent. D-Redford Township, also praised care program, a major part of county executive Edward McNamara's plan to eliminate McNamara's proposal would pay off the county's $180 million accumulated debt with bond issues. Fee increases and selected new taxes would pay for the bonds Health care payments for indigent county residents need to be capped. McNamara said, to keep the county from slipping back into debt.

"If we didn't have the problem of indigent health care, we would not have financial problems. McNamara said Thursday, in announcing his debt-reduction plan (See related article for full details on the plan.)

The health care program most county indigents, while the county partially pays hospital costs. The current system discourages patients from having routine ailments treated, McNamara said, because they must obtain a health care voucher from a state Department of Social Services office before visiting the doctor.

Because of that, he said, indigents frequently receive no treatment until the ailment worsens, requiring county-paid hospitalization

The voucher system would be replaced by identification cards that would provide immediate access to doctor's offices and clinics.

"I'm really pleased with the proposal," commissioner Susan Heintz, R-Northville Township.

Heintz suggested a similar proposal in a report she presented to fellow commissioners this summer

Commissioner Richard Manning.

This looks like a good idea Manning said. Whether it will fly with (state) legislators. I don't know. But I've backed an HMO for a long time

THE PLAN would also eliminate major county health care payments for indigents that are ineligi ble for the state's general assistance program. Patients receiving care under the smaller costlier resident county hospitalization program would be included in the proposed HMO. The county, however, would no longer reimburse hospitals for their care. The program is directed toward substance abuse patients and street people.

We need commitments from hospitals to provide this care and we think we'll be getting them. McNamara said.

It is the second time in three years county officials have sought an indigent health care agreement with the state

A 1984 agreement capped the state's health care payment at $19.5 million. It was assumed at the time total health care costs wouldn't rise above $32 million McNamara, who took office this year, said the county is currently paying more than $30 million itself for indigent health care.

The new plan would cap county payments at $22.5 million next year and $15.5 million in 1989 and beyond.

Community effort launched this Mayflower

(Part One)

The time seemed right in the late 1920s when Plymouth businessmen mounted a drive to raise money to build a hotel in the community, although later events made some wonder whether they had a white elethant on their hands.

The nation had recovered from the business recession of 1920-21. By 1923, there was a rising tide of national prosperity, a boom in construction and real estate, and increased stock market activity.

The scandals of the Harding administration were being forgotten. The Republican administration of alvin Coolidge favored business, reducing taxes and cutting government expenditures. Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon, himself a millionaire, had repealed the publicty clause relating to income tax re-

THE OUTLOOK was bright for business in Michigan.

Since 1917, the state had been headed by pro-business Republican governors. Both the Ambassador Bridge and the tunnel to Canada were under construction. The Detroit News radio station, WWJ, was programs

The automobile industry was booming Between 1920 and 1925. the annual output of cars doubled By 1924, there was one automobile for every seven persons in the U.S. Starting in 1925, Eddie Stinson began building quality passenger planes in his new plant in Northville.

On the local scene, Henry Ford had helped the Plymouth economy in the early 1920s by building a number of his "village industry" plants in the area, including one at Wilcox Pond and another at Phoenix Lake, both employing local help.

And the Pere Marquette Railroad was still a vital part of the local economy - train crews laid over here and some of the engineers, firemen and brakemen where sure to choose the new hotel over the older hostelries near the depot.

The old Plymouth Hotel, at the corner of Main Street and Ann Arbor Trail, was past its prime (it would be torn down in the 1930s). And the Dai-Manufacturing Company, the area's chief industrial firm at the time, was beginning to feel the need for better accommodations in which past and present Sam Hudson to house its business visitors. Some who came to call on the Daisy plant on Union Street came from countries as far away as China and Japan.

WHETHER IT was Daisy executives, the Plymouth Rotary Club or the Chamber of Commerce that first promoted the idea of a new hotel is not clear

Ralph Lorenz believes that Ed Hough and Charley Bennett of Daisy got the ball rolling. But the late Carl Shear (Buick dealer and one-time Mayor of Plymouth) said the Rotary Club sparked the proposal.

Shear, one of the original directors of the Hotel Corp., wrote a paper in which he said. "It was the problem that Rotary was having in finding places to meet that started the talk of a hotel. Every time a group got together, before they broke up conversation would invariably turn to the building a of a new hotel. Their thinking being that a new modern hotel would not only be a meeting place for the different civic groups. but that it would attract many people to Plymouth, not only helping ousiness but the town as well.

At one of those group meetings. Ed Hough made the suggestion that we hire a professional to come to Plymouth and make a survey of the community and give us a report as to whether it would be possible to build a hotel that would be self-supporting. After some discussion on the cost of the survey, the group decided to pay for it out of their own pockets.

We then hired the Hockenbury System Inc. to make this survey. The report they gave was that we could support a hotel of 50 rooms and six stores. We then made arrangements

A committee of seven, chaired by Ed Hough, was appointed to investigate and propose a project. Not surprisingly. Hough's committee recommended that the Chamber back the idea of a new hotel.

Both Lee and Hough were charter members of the Plymouth Rotary Club (formed in 1924), lending credence to Shear's story. And Hough was executive vice president of Daisy, supporting Lorenz's story. At any rate, the Chamber of Commerce, the Rotary Club, the Kiwanis Club and local businessmen in general espoused the proposal that a hotel be built

Defendants shut down TV, news cameras

By Tim Richard staff writer

A convict and a man accused of murder used powers granted them by the Michigan Supreme Court to shut down news cameras in two Oakland circuit courts.

TV cameras are as popular as a pay toilet in a diarrhea ward," said Rochester attorney Robert F. Wick. who represented the convict.

'At this point," said Channel 7 reporter Erik Smith, "my assessment is that this whole thing is futile."

"THIS THING" was a Supreme Court experiment allowing TV cameras, newspaper still cameras and tape recorders in Oakland courts if the people to be photographed don't object

Practically everyone objected. The experiment began Thursday, and by noon it was clear that any action film would come from corridor interviews, not courtroom

In Circuit Judge John N. O'Brien's second-floor courtroom. Tony Marsh, through attorney David Girard, objected to any film or tape coverage of anyone involved in his murder-sodomy case.

Court rules allowed no counter-argument and gave the judge no discretion. "It is so ordered," O'Brien ruled.

So Al Allen, his Channel 2 cameraman and photographer Doug Baumann of the Oakland Press packed

MARSH IS charged with strangling to death and sodomizing Pamela Lamoreaux, whose body was discovered in Lower Straits Lake, her bloody clothing scattered on the beach of the Commerce Township

As Marsh, shackled, stood under guard in the jury box, Girard and assistant prosecutor Joyce F. Todd argued three pre-trial motions before O'Brien. The judge:

· Withheld ruling on Marsh's request for a change in location of the

• Granted his request that, if he takes the stand himself, the prosecution may not interrogate him on his three previous convictions.

• Denied Girard's motion to dismiss the case.

Todd said in an interview following the hearing that if Marsh is convicted for a fourth time, he faces a mandatory life sentence.

FOR DECADES Michigan court rules have prohibited news cameras and tape recorders in courtrooms. although reporters may take notes, artists may sketch, and spectators may watch.

Michigan Supreme Court administrative order 87-4

In August the high court decided 4-3 to lift the ban effective Feb. 1, and later decided to experiment with an Oct. 15 date in six counties - Oakland, Grand Traverse, Ingham, Marquette and Wexford.

But the high court set up two hurdles, even after the broadcaster or newspaper has obtained the judge's permission to film:

First, the defendant, prosecution and crime victim must all consent to electronic and film coverage. In the Marsh hearing, the defendant was able to shut it down.

Second, an individual witness may object. That occurred in Judge Robert Templin's fourth-floor circuit courtroom, where Sammy Baker, who is serving a sentence for criminal sexual conduct in Kinross state prison, was having a hearing because his case was remanded from the Court of Appeals.

A probation officer testifying in the Baker hearing had no objection to being filmed by Channel 7, but evervone else said no

CAMERAMAN Earl Wilson took some footage of two women spectators in the courtroom, but they asked him not to use it. So Wilson taped an audio note to the station's editors not to use the shot Channel 7's Smith was unsure what the Sonny Baker hearing was about. "We came to make some pictures in court. I don't know what case it was," he said.

Smith added that some people asked that their names not be used

That, however, cannot be prevented because names of people involved in circuit and district court cases. along with their testimony, are matters of public record under the state constitution

CHANNEL 2 took some inconsequential footage in a divorce case before O'Brien

'The husband's attorney forgot to object," said attorney Michael Friedman of Troy who was representing the wife.

"Victims don't want their stress on TV," said Friedman, who expected that nearly everyone would object to being filmed People are not going to be real pleased.

Capacitors replaced

AP - Consumers Power Co. says it has removed pole-mounted capacitors containing hazardous polychlo-rinated biphenyls 14 months ahead of a U.S. Environmental Protection Agency deadline. Rann C. Lincoln Jr., vice president for distribution operations, said completing the capacitor phaseout was part of an effort to minimize use of PCBs in Consumer Power's distribution system. Research in the late 1960s indicated that the compounds, used in various products including electrical equipment cooling oils, were possible cancer-causing agents.

Consumers Power began an accelerated capacitor replacement program in 1983. By Aug. 1, it replaced about 11,000 pole-mounted capacitors containing PCBs in its 27,800 square-mile overhead electric power system, at a cost of about $10 mil-

Day starts with cups of hot java

Don't even attempt a conversation until I've had my first cup.

It's an eye-opener

It's a warmer-upper Adults (over the age of 18) drink an average of 2.3 cups per day. I need that just to

I know of few kitchen cupboards that don't hold coffee in some form: ground, whole bean or powdered.

Whether you purchase it from Colombia. Brazil, Jamaica or Hawaii, the coffee in cans is a combination of beans from two or more regions. It's a good bet, however, that most coffee purchased is a mixture of Arabica and Robusta beans. These start out as a nondescript green bean whose aroma and taste are exposed during a roasting process. when heat causes them to expand like popcorn kernels, changing their color and bringing their characteristic flavor and aroma to the surface

We can thank a certain Mullah (a Mahometan priest) from the Middle East for our caffeine addition. He was told by shepherds that each time his goats ate the berries of a certain shrub they would remain awake, jumping the whole night. Sound familiar? The Mullah made himself a potent brew and, needless to say, spent the whole night in a state of delicious intoxification, which did not affect his intellectual capacities.

THIS WAS BACK in the 15th century. Since then, word has passed down and the demand for coffee steadily increased Coffee was hardly known in Europe before the 17th century. Travelers, who had acquired a taste for the awakening brew. brought it first to Italy in 1615 and then to Paris in 1645. By 1670, coffee was highly prized and the demand was so great that it was rare and the price was as steep as a solid gold Europiccola coffeemaker.

Like wine, coffee gives its greatest production in the plains, but the best qualities come from the higher altitudes of the torrid zone, especially mountain-grown varieties that are difficult to reap and transport.

roasted coffees are sometimes processed with a small amount of sugar molasses to "coat" the berries and give them better color and helps prevent the loss of aroma?

After roasting, coffee loses much of its aroma, so true modern-day coffee aficionados are now looking to gourmet coffee shops to roast whole beans "on the spot" and in small amounts (exceeding $10 per pound) to assure the best tastes and aromas. Having just cashed a paycheck, yours truly ventured out to one of these beaneries to see if it really did make a difference. To the basic coffee drinker, a great cup of coffee is something to behold, savor and sip appreciatively. I find the difference somewhat notable, like the difference between sipping cognac and brandy, but in all honesty, the true secret to a great cup of coffee is really in the brewing.

FIRST OFF, match the grind of coffee to the method. Percolators should use a regular grind, while automatic electric, drip and filter-cone coffeemakers should use drip grinds. Vacuum coffeemakers should use a fine grind. Espressomakers should always use the finest grind available, almost

The best measure is approximately 2 level tablespoons to 6 ounces of freshly drawn water that has been brought to a boil. Too much coffee makes a bitter brew, too little coffee a weak brew. I can't really say too much about percolators and automatic-drip makers because they really boil the brew or fail to heat enough to extend through what should be an eight-minute brewing cycle.

Specialty brews appeal

NCE YOU TRY this kind of coffee you are hooked forever," says Monica George of the Merchant of Vino specialty stores

The "kind of coffee" to which George refers is the specialty coffee. These fragrant, robust coffees bear exotic names from faraway. They are the Blue Mountain coffee from Jamaica and the Kona from Hawaii.

Other coffees beg to caress the palate with such unusual flavors as Bavarian chocolate, vanilla, mocha-java and orange brandy.

Is gourmet coffee simply another yuppie fad? Or are these enthusiasts onto something truly wonder-

"Coffee isn't a yuppie thing at all," said George, a Southfield resident. "A good cup of coffee is a neces-

Some coffee drinkers require only that their morning brew be strong and hot. These people might be perfectly content with a wide range of supermarket

But sales of specialty, or gourmet coffees also are perking.

"We've always sold a lot of coffee," George said. Everybody is buying beans.

The Merchant of Vino, with stores in Birmingham, Troy and Southfield, sells wines, cheeses and other specialty items. Also sold are "50 to 60" varieties of coffee beans, said George, daughter of owners Ed and Juliette Jonna.

LIKE MOST specialty shops, the Merchants of Vino stores its coffee beans in bins. Although the beans may be ground on the premises, purists insist on buying beans and grinding them as they are used, to ensure maximum freshness Among the most popular varieties are the 100 percent Colombian coffee, the Jamaican Blue Mountain and Kona from the big island of Hawaii. Merchant of Vino also combines different varieties to create its own special blends, many of which are named after family members and celebrity customers.

Here's best way to make good coffee

Is there anything more tantalizing than the fragrance of freshbrewed coffee?

But even the most expensive, top-quality coffee can be ruined by improper brewing. Here are a few suggestions from coffee retailers, to ensure best results:

• Use quality coffee that is fresh roasted. If possible, start with whole coffee beans. Grind only as much as you need. Freeze unused coffee in a dry, airtight container so it doesn't become stale.

 Use the correct grind and filter for your type of coffee maker. The coarseness of the grind will affect the taste of the coffee. Generally, the longer the brewing time, the coarser the grind. Faster brewing will require a fine grind.

· Make sure the coffee maker is clean and free of oil or residue. Always use fresh cold water in making coffee. Properly made coffee is best served within 30 minutes after being made. Never reheat coffee after it has cooled, as this will destroy the taste. If coffee must be made in advance, use a thermos.

Different blends created many places in the world

Once upon a time, coffee drinkers had little choice but to buy prepackaged coffee in tins or sealed bags from their local supermar-

Today, gourmet coffee is a hot-ticket item in specialty and bulkfood stores. Shoppers may select from dozens of varieties or blends of coffee from South America, the West Indies, Hawaii, Asia and the East Indian islands.

Many specialty coffee beans are stored in bins. Smell the tantalizing aroma. Note the various shades, ranging from the light brown of mild roasts to the very dark espresso bean.

Selections are a matter of personal taste. Sampling the different varieties can be a tasteful adven-

The following varieties and descriptions were culled from marketing booklets published by several coffee companies. Many varieties are blended to create interesting tastes.

COLOMBIAN: One of the most popular varieties, with a full-bodied taste and rich aroma. Colombian is frequently blended with other beans.

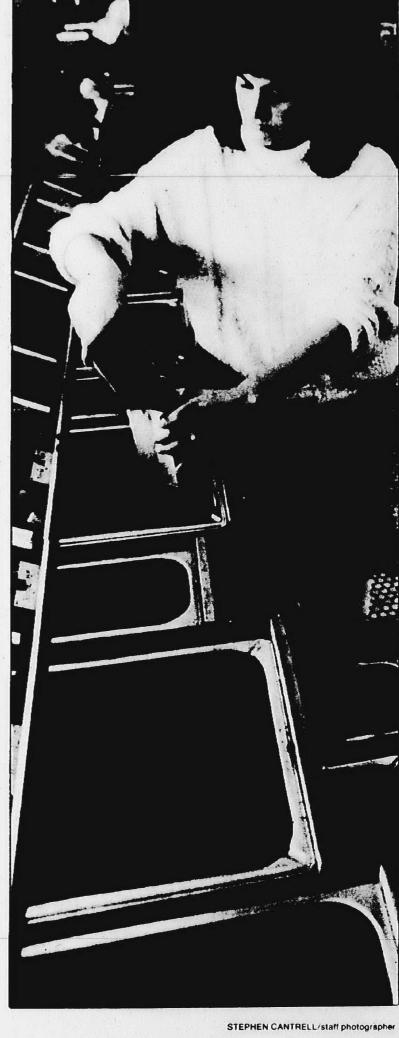

HAWAIIAN KONA: Although it is expensive because of limited production, Hawaiian Kona is in great demand. This coffee often is grown on soil rich HAITIAN: Mellow and smooth, mildly sweet flavor with moderate acidity. JAMAICAN BLUE MOUNTAIN: This is one of the world's rarest, and most expensive coffees. It is mellow, aromatic, mildly acid and full-bodied. INDONESIAN JAVA: Full-bodied, very rich.

KENYAN: Grown on slopes near Mount Kilimanjaro. It is mild and aromatic. Some people enjoy drinking coffee flavored with vanilla, chocolate, cinnamon and other flavors.

Confectionately Yours is her baby

By Mary Rodrique staff writer

Even though the shop is closed Mondays, Lorrie's Confectionately Yours in Livonia's Laurel Commons shopping center attracts a trickle of customers.

A woman raving about brioche is glad to hear she can special order the small popovers, which proprieter Lorrie Leonard describes as "a breakfast roll, more eggy than a croissant."

Unfortunately, none are in the oven this day. A construction worker looking for coffee is in luck. A couple of other potential pastry buyers are politely turned away.

And so it went one recent Monday morning. At 9 a.m., Leonard had already been on the job since 4 a.m. Cheesecakes and a few cookie trays were in the counter display, which would be brimming with tortes, fresh fruit tarts, chocolate mousse cups and eclairs by 8 a.m. Tuesday.

"It's just something I've always wanted to do. I enjoy baking," said Leonard, who opened shop in the plaza at Six Mile Road east of Newburgh Road in

Although she has had no formal training as a pastry chef, some of Leonard's fondest early memories are of her mom in the kitchen of their Redford Township home baking pies and other treats for the family, which includes 10 children.

"SHE DID EVERYTHING from scratch. And she used the best ingredients, like real butter," said Leonard, who has carried on the tradition. "We use butter, whipped cream, fresh fruits and a high-quality chocolate here," she said. Leonard came to her new career in a roundabout way. After completing early schooling at St. Valentine's in Redford and high school at Mercy in Farmington Hills, she received a degree in nursing from Grand Valley State College in Grand Rapids. After several years as a registered nurse in neonatal intensive care at Children's Hospital and Grace Hospital in Detroit, she decided to realize the nagging dream.

One has nothing to do with the other. I had always wanted to go into business. A lot of people assume that because I left nursing I must've hated it. That's not true. I don't think I'll stay out of it forever. I don't know. I'll just wait and see.

According to botanists, there are two main varieties of coffee bean. The less abundant but superior type is the arabica bean, generally used for specialty coffee. The more plentiful but harsher robusta bean goes into instant and less costly brands.

Premium coffee beans are grown at high altitudes - often on the slopes of mountains - and thrive on rich soil and a mild climate. Each coffee tree yields only a few handpicked berries, whose seeds become coffee beans.

SANDRA BENSON of Bloomfield Hills knows her beans. She's a buyer for the American Bulk Food chain. which has around a dozen stores, including outlets in Livonia, Rochester. Troy and St. Clair Shores. The firm is based in Dearborn.

"People can buy a few ounces and try it out," said Benson. She cited freshness, economy and variety as good advantages in reasons for buying coffee in bulk.

Specialty stores sell coffee in quantities as small as a quarter-pound. Prices for upscale varieties may range from around $4 per pound for house blends to $14 and up per pound for the rare, coveted Jamaican Blue Mountain variety. Many decaffeinated blends also are Steven Saxton, marketing director for a firm which sells a Swedish brand, puts in a plug for proper roasting and grinding.

Taste doesn't depend on where it's grown," said Saxton of Berge International Group in Berkley. "It depends on the bean and the roasting.

Luxus brand coffee uses beans grown in the usual coffee-growing nations and shipped to Sweden for very rapid roasting, grinding and packaging. Why Sweden?

Coffee is the number-one drink in Sweden," said Saxton, a Ferndale, resident. The Swedish buyers are very quality conscious. They have been drinking this kind of high-quality coffee for decades. Over here, we have coffee ranging from gourmet to no-brand, and they all sell.

either 100 percent Colombian, or a blend of several varieties. Saxton said the coffee is roasted, ground and packaged in foil during a 24hour period, for maximum freshness. Match up meal with microwave can be timesaving, attractive and flavorful

Just match the right cut of meat with the right micro-cooking technique to get tender, juicy results every time, says Better Homes and Gardens Step-by-Step Microwave Cook

The best meats to micro-cook are the less tender beef cuts, such as chuck pot roasts, stew meat or rolled rump roasts. Small cuts of lamb, pork and harn also work well, as do some sausages, ground meats and bacon Large pieces (over 3 lbs.) and cuts that are usually broiled cook best conventionally

When selecting meat to cook in the microwave, choose pieces that are even in shape, size and thickness When pieces are not the same thickness, the thinner, less dense parts cook faster. Trim off thick areas or tuck under thin portions.

It's a good idea to trim off any fat, because it attracts microwaves and may cause meat near it to overcook. Bones have the opposite effect, they shield microwaves. Meat near large bones may cook slower. Prevent the meat from undercooking by removing large bones or turning the meat

In meat micro-cooking, the highest power setting isn't necessarily the best. High power works well for ground meats, bacon, sausages and small cuts of ham and lamb. Other cuts of beef and pork, though, are more tender and evenly done if cooked on lower power levels.

Lower power levels also come in handy for thawing meats. The medium-low or defrost settings will defrost meats quickly.

When it comes to covering up meats, follow these guidelines. Cover most meats loosely with waxed paper during cooking to prevent spattering. One exception to this rule is pork. It should be tightly covered with plastic wrap or a lid so it cooks evenly to the well-done stage. Cover high-fat meats, such as bacon or sausages with microwave-safe paper towels to absorb grease. If cooking a high-fat meat for longer than five minutes, choose a baking dish that can withstand the high temperature

Microwave-cooked meats don't brown as well as conventionally cooked meats. A special microwave browning dish can be used to brown meats. Larger cuts can be brushed with soy sauce or Kitchen Bouquet for a rich brown color.

To check when micro-cooked meats are done, begin at the minimum cooking time and follow the doneness guidelines Check the meat's color, pork and ground beef should have no pink remaining, then check for tenderness; finally, with large cuts, use a temperature probe or microwave thermometer to test for the correct temperature (check the meat in several places to make sure it is done throughout).

To prevent some meat portions from cooking before others, turn over large cuts, rearrange pieces or stir mixtures, according to recipe directions. If thinner portions of meat do finish cooking before the rest. shield them with small pieces of foil so they won't overcook (check the owner's manual first to see whether foil can be used in the microwave

One final hint: When checking the meat, there may be a lot of liquid accumulating in the baking dish These juices lengthen the cooking time, so spoon them off occasionally

BUT HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE CAN HAVE A DRAMATIC EFFECT ON YOUR LIFE.

High blood pressure, or hypertension, is a disease. A potentially dangerous disease. It can lead to heart disease and stroke. As many as one in four American adults has high blood pressure. But because it is virtually symptom free, as many as 17 million adults have an increased risk of heart disease without knowing it.

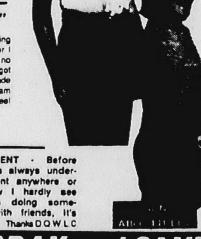

But there is a simple, painless procedure to find out if you have it. Get it checked. Today. And keep it checked. It may be the best thing you ever did for yourself. You never know.

The best-made coffee is from a basic drip method that calls for the grounds being placed in a thin, paper filter After fresh water is brought to a boil, allow the bubbling to subside for a few seconds. Moisten the grounds with a few tablespoons of the hot water and allow the grounds to "mellow" and release their flavor and aroma

Then, fill the filter with water, using a small spoon to swirl the grounds into the hot water. This process is called infusion, the blending of the coffee flavors and aromas into the water. Other methods that produce a great cup of coffee include vacuum pots (similar to drip makers that still allow the true infusion process to happen, and one of my favorites, the plunger pots like the French Melnoir, which allow the infusion process to happen and then a plunger with a sieve is pressed through the brew, separating the glorious concoction from the grounds

FOR PERFECT coffee, earthenware or glass pots should be used since contact with metal lowers the quality of the drink significantly Yours truly enjoys the use of the Chemex coffeepot and filtering system to make a no-fail brew that not only wakens the dead but sends an indescribable aroma throughout the kitchen when prepared.

If you are a coffee lover, don't be afraid to experiment in the wonderland of beans and blends. No matter what, it is unlikely that your consumption will match Voltaire's reputed 72 cups a day or the "bathtubsized" cup favored by Teddy Roosevelt - who spoke softly and carried a big mug. Bon Appetit!

Since men isito rime turn 183

Of course turning 18 isn't a crime at all. However, turning 18 without registering with Selective Service is.

That's why we need your help. We need parents to tell their sons to register with Selective Service within a month of turning 18. And we need teachers, friends, employers and others who can influence these young men to reinforce the message. Why? Because, for one reason, it's the law. But in addition to risking prosecution by not registering, your son or young friend is disqualifying himself from eligibility for federal student loans, federal employment and job training programs.

America's future security depends upon today's young men registering with Selective Service on time. Having a complete registration list saves our country six vital weeks in mobilizing its manpower should Congress ever declare a national emergency.

All of today's 18-year-olds and all of tomorrow's 18-year-olds must be informed about the registration requirement. You can help. Ask a young man you know if he is registered

PROFESSIONAL QUALIFICATIONS

Did you know that becoming certified as a chiropractor requires a minimum of six years of highly specialized college training?

Today's Doctor of Chiropractic must complete 4,485 hours of classroom instruction and pass a rigid chiropractic board examination before earning a license. In most states, continuing educational seminars must be compléted for annual license renewal.

PERSONAL BACKGROUND

In addition, I have completed courses in Physiotherapy Nutrition, and Acupuncture; and hold a Bachelor of Science degree in Human Biology from the National of Chiropractic, and a Bachelor of Science in Biology/Physiology from Eastern Michigan University. Post-graduate studies included Applied Kinesiology and Sacro-Occipital Technique. While in college, I received Honors for Exemplary Academic Achievement. In 1984-86 I was honored to be named to the FCER Boston Marathon Team. To further my continuing education. I have received special training since college in Scoliosis from Dr. Mawhiney, and Pierce-Stillwagen Technique from Dr. Pierce. And, I have visited a number of other Chiropractic clinics to study their methods and procedures including: Drs. Tickel and Fyler Clinic in Oswego, Illinois, and Dr. Kendall at the Baypointe Clinic in Walled Lake.

Additionally, I devote three days every month attending a nationwide seminar in Chicago, Illinois, to stay current on the latest Chiropractic advances.

This is the kind of training and professionalism I offer you. If you have hesitated visiting a chiropractor, perhaps you didn't know that chiropractors go to such great lengths to continue their education and provide you with the latest techniques and the most qualified service. So, you see, what you don't know, can't help you. Call me today and let me help you.

Did you know that the symptoms most commonly treated by chiropractors are:

FATIGUE

In persons with arthritis, fatigue is the first symptom to come and the last to leave. Several events combine

When joints are irritated, the surrounding muscles are strained. You feel this strain both as an ache and as a tiredness. Also, painful joints disburb sleep, and lack of rest leads to undue fatigue the following day. In addition. the person with arthritis, finding that he or she cannot take on responsibilities previously done without difficulty, often becomes depressed, which leads to a state of tension and more fatigue.

Finally, inflammation causes the body to produce substances known as prostaglandins and leukotrienes. These compounds act not only on joints. but hamper the activities of a variety of tissues. The result is a general sense of fatigue and weakness.

No drug treatment exists to control fatigue. Forcing oneself to exercise will not help, as the need for rest is too strong. The best approach is to accept that the problem will remain and adjust your schedule to accommodate it.

Canton tops rival Rocks

Plymouth Canton made it two v tories in a row over rival Plymouth Salem in girls swimming Thursday. The Chiefs monopolized the firstplace spot on the awards podium, winning all but one event in a 100-72

Nicole Drake and Cassie Cummins had the maximum two individual victories and a relay win for Canton, 4-0 in the Western Lakes and 4-2

Drake won the 200- and 100-yard freestyles in 2 03.78 and 58.14, respectively. Cummins won the individual medley and butterfly in 2 19.1 and 1.05.5, respectively

While Drake swam the opening leg of the 400 freestyle relay, Cummins closed it out with a successful anchor leg. Danielle Dickinson and Kelly Rische combined with Drake and Cummins for a 4:00.3 perform-

Rische also had three firsts, including two in relays, and Dickinson was a winner in the 50 freestyle, posting a personal best of 27.28.

RISCHE captured the 500 freestyle (5.51.1), and Jean McLenaghan, Val Gildhaus, Rische and Kristy Brugar teamed up for a winning time of 2.03.5 in the 200 medley relay.

In addition to her part in the relay. McLenaghan gave the Chiefs a first place in the backstroke (1:09.1), and Amy VanBuhler won the diving competition with a 158.5 score.

Salem's lone victory came in the breaststroke where Erin Olson prevailed with a 1:15.9 time.

It was a well-rounded team performance." Canton coach Hooker Wellman said. "Our front swimmers did a real good job, and our depth swimmers did OK.

While some of the Canton times were slower than Wellman would have liked, he was impressed by the Salem team.

"SALEM really pushed our kids," he said. "The score doesn't reflect how close it was. The score could have been a lot closer, but we won the close (races)

They swam real well, better than I thought they would. Their kids are much improved."

The Chiefs have to swim against Farmington Harrison, Livonia Franklin and Westland John Glenn, but a big meet with Livonia Churchill looms on the horizon for the conclusion of the dual-meet schedule Thursday, Nov. 12.

We're working toward that and the league meet," Wellman said, "but we've got a lot of work to do between now and then."

Salem nips Farmington

By Dan O'Meara staff writer

Since the two teams spent a week together at camp last summer, the Plymouth Salem and Farmington boys cross country teams have been friendly rivals.

That spirit of sportmanship remained Thursday, but the mood and competition was very serious as their long-awaited showdown for first place in the Lakes Division ar-

In a classic contest deserving of its pre-meet billing, the Rocks edged the previously unbeaten Falcons when a sixth-man tie breaker was needed to decide the issue.

Salem's Al Rye made the difference after the meet ended in a 28-28 stalemate. Rye, who was No. 6 across the finish line for the Rocks and 10th overall, finished ahead of Farmington's fifth runner.

With one division meet left on the schedule. Salem leads the Lakes circuit with a 4-0 mark and is 5-2 overall. The defending Western Lakes champion Falcons are 3-1 and 6-1.

We felt we could run right with them." Salem coach Geoff Baker said. "There's been years when we should not have been on the same course with them, but this year we were ready

Rye suffers from an asthmatic condition and hasn't been able to run to the top of his ability this season, Baker said, but he had a big impact Tnursday.

'He's a senior and, when it comes right down to it, he knew what he had to do, and he went out and did it." Baker said

Over the last 200 yards, Rye overtook Farmington's Rob Holloway and finished with a 17:57 time. Holloway, running in his first meet since hurting his back a week ago, came across five seconds later (18:02). Rye also held off the Falcons' Paul Brandt (18:07) and Greg Endres (18:10), who were 12th and 13th, respectively.

'He's got a great kick and when he went by (Holloway) I knew he had him for good," said Baker of Rye.

"We ran well up front, but our fifth man just didn't make it," said Farmington coach Jerry Young, adding Holloway wasn't ready after missing a week.

"We knew if they ran well they had a shot at beating us, and they did an exceptional job. They've got six good kids, and they'll be tough to beat (in the upcoming WLAA meet)."

After losing to Doug Vergari in the Redford Union and Schoolcraft invitationals, Farmington's Brandon London defeated his Salem opponent for the first time this season. He ran an exceptional race, according to Young, and took individual honors with a 16:32 time, which was only two seconds off the winning time of 16:30 turned in by WLW's

Brian Grosso at the RU Invitational. Vergari was second (16:40) and teammate Bill Atwell third (17:08). but the Falcons were in good shape

boys cross country

after taking three of the next four

Farmington's Matt Walter finished fourth (17:14), Brad Moore fifth (17:16) and Steve Quenneville seventh (17.41), with Salem's Brendon Masterson slipping into the No. 6 position at 17:28.

But the key to the Rocks winning meet was the consecutive finishes by Dave Hamway (17:45), Scott Stryker (17:51) and then Rye in the Nos. 8-10

"For us to beat them," Young said, we had to break that group up and we didn't - and they got us.

Though most of the Falcons ran their best times on the difficult Cass Benton course and six were under 18 minutes, one-and-a-half minutes separated Farmington's first and fifth runners, which was too great a spread, Young said. "I knew, when I heard Rob (Holloway) had hurt his back, it would go down to the wire." Baker said. "I knew we had a chance. Our guys kept pulling along and finally we

"All the guys knew each other, so we were running against friends out there. From the camp experience, we knew we could run with them, because we did it all week long.

The Rocks, who bounced back from early-season losses to Plymouth Canton and Walled Lake Western, can lock up the division title with a win over Livonia Stevenson Thursday, but Baker said they aren't taking that meet for granted.

About the time you start overlooking someone, they come in and take all your hard work away. Baker said.

"(The Salem runners) have stood by my words all year. I told them they could and they're going out and doing it. The Rocks also finished second at the Ypsilanti Invitational on Saturday, Oct. 10. Vergari was second (16:35), Atwell 16th (17:21), Stryker 19th (17:36). Hamway 29th (17:47) and Rye 32nd (17:54).

Dearborn won the team title, and a Gibraltar Carlson runner won the individual race with a 16:20 time.

FRANKLIN 28, CANTON 28: What worked to Salem's advantage worked against the Chiefs in this Western Division meet.

Canton's hopes for gaining a share of the title were dashed Thursday when Livonia Franklin won a sixthman tie breaker.

The Chiefs slipped to 2-2 in the division and 6-2 overall, while the Patriots remained unbeaten in the Western loop (4-0) and went to 6-0 overall.

Hard-luck Chiefs beaten by Churchill in overtime

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

Don't expect Bob Khoenle to load up the team bus and head to Las Vegas in the near future

Plymouth Canton is definitely on the low ebb of a losing streak. And Livonia Churchill certainly was glad to take advantage of the Chiefs' woes, winning 14-7 in overtime Friday in a Western Lakes Western Division football game.

Canton's misfortune turned into Churchill's good fortune. The win puts the Chargers (4-3 overall, 3-2 division) in a tie for second place in the Western Division.

Pairings for the playoffs won't be decided until Monday.

"IT'S AN incentive win more than anything," said Churchill coach Herb Osterland. "We were beaten pretty bad last week by Harrison."

Churchill's game-winning touchdown came on a broken play as Charger quarterback John Tracy hooked up with Jason Belaire for a 3-yard pass in the end zone. Tracy, who was almost brought down, elud-

football

ed a couple of tackles and rolled out

There, by himself, was Belaire. The Chiefs' turn in overtime ended after they fumbled the ball on fourth-and-4.

It was the third straight loss for Canton (2-5 overall, 1-4 Western Division), which came on the heels of a 9-6 setback to Livonia Franklin the previous week. The way the Chiefs have let games slip away recently is what makes Khoenle want to eat his hat in frustration.

"That's all we do is lose the tough ones," said Khoenle, whose team's last win came against Northville in overtime. "We can't push it in when we have to Maybe we don't have that killer instinct."

But Churchill apparently did in

Throughout the game, though, both Canton and Churchill were like two overly polite gentlemen at an entrance. They couldn't make up their minds who should go in first to CHURCHILL LOOKED impressive on its first drive, going 43 yards in nine plays for a touchdown. Halfback Kyle Percin scored on 1-yard run in the first quarter.

Canton did likewise on the ensuing possession. Neil Hubert went in from the 2 on a quarterback keeper early in the second quarter to tie the score.

From there, both offenses still moved the ball but couldn't find the end zone. Each team certainly had its chances, especially in the fourth Canton's Bill Thams recovered a fumble on Churchill's 31. After five plays, the drive ended on Mike Krejcar's attempt at a 39-yard field goal, which hooked to the left.

Spartans defeat Salem, share title

What Livonia Stevenson and Westland John Glenn needed to do to make it to the Western Lakes Activities Association football championship game, they did - in style.

The Spartans had to beat visiting Plymouth Salem Friday to remain tied for the Lakes Division title. The Rockets played Walled Lake Central on the road Friday, facing the same objective.

Both accomplished what they had to, and left little doubt they deserved their spot atop the division. Stevenson routed Salem 34-7; Glenn walloped winless Central 42-0.

Their wins, combined with North Farmington's triumph over Farmington Saturday, left Stevenson, Glenn and North at 4-1. The tiebreaker formula favors Glenn, which has the highest state playoff point total, to meet Farmington Harrison in Friday's WLAA title tilt.

The Lakes Division team hosts the game, which means Glenn and Harrison would meet at 7:30 p.m. Friday at Glenn.

STEVENSON'S VICTORY was ignited by an offense that was clicking on all cylinders - and junior tailback Rob Chanke took full advantage of it. Chanko scored all five Spartan touchdowns. rushing for 228 yards on 13 carries.

THE SPARTANS closed to within a point on Chanko's first big play of the evening, a 50-yard scoring jaunt early in the second quarter. The extra point kick failed, leaving Salem up by a point. But before the half. Chanko struck again, this time grabbing Joe Carter's 13-yard scoring toss. A

Despite the lopsided score, Salem (4-3 overall, 2-3 in the WLAA) wasn't overmatched - at least not statistically. The Rocks gained 267 yards rushing on 56 carries Bowie had 77 on 14 attempts), but quarterback Steve Holt completed just one-of-six passes for 12 yards. They lost one

Stevenson (5-2 overall) gained 351 yards, with Carter completing three-of-four passes for 40 yards (one intercepted) and Nick Petouhoff gaining 61 yards on 10 carries. The Spartans also lost two fumbles.

Canton girls near perfect dual-meet mark

Plymouth Canton is one meet from the Western Division championship and a perfect dual-meet record after clobbering Livonia Franklin 17-45 in girls cross country Thurs-

The Chiefs are 3-0 in the division and 8-0 overall. They conclude their dual-meet schedule Thursday when they run against Livonia Churchill at Cass Benton Park. Canton overpowered the Patriots, 2-2 and,

3-4, by taking the top three places and six of the first seven.

The Chiefs were well on their way when Linda Schendel (20:26), Cindy Spessard (20:27 and Lori Penland (20:28) finished within two seconds of each other to give Canton the Nos.

Fourth-place Tina Koons (20:51) broke up the Canton pack before Cathy McCabe (21:08), Missy Jasnowski (21 26) and Sherry Figurski (21.45) put a lock on the victory when they gave the Chiefs the Nos. 5-7 places.

The Patriots had only three runners among the top 10 as Canton's Sherry Sweeney, with a ninth-place time of 22:05, slipped between Joyce Compton and Dawn Harrison.

FARMINGTON 26, SALEM 29: Farmington's girls cross country team has been living dangerously this season, but the bottom line is the Falcons keep surviving.

They won yet another close meet in Lakes Division competition Thursday when they turned back a good Plymouth Salem squad 26-29 at Cass Benton Park.

Farmington has now beaten Livonia Stevenson and the Rocks by three points each and Walled Lake Central by one. The Falcons are 4-0 in the division, 7-0 overall.

The Rocks had the top runner in Jenny Sample. She covered the course in 21:12 to edge Farmington's Amy Trunk, who was second at 21:16.

The Falcons strengthened their position as Bonnie Stecker and Jennifer Kiel finished in front of and behind Salem's Kim Mishler Stecker was third (21:27), Mishler fourth (21:34) and Kiel fifth (21:45)

It didn't look like we had any problem, but (Shannon) Donnelly and (Traci) Thomas came on near the end," Farmington coach John Barrett said. "The fact we had three of the top five gave us a little edge."

Salem's Donnelly moved into the No. 6 spot (22.02) and Thomas finished in eighth place (22:43) to keep the Rocks within two points, 17-19. Farmington's Margaret Martin broke up the combination by finishing seventh

'That's going to be a very competitive conference race . . . Canton has to be the one to beat, because they've got the best times on paper.'

Madonna avenges loss

What Jerry Abraham hopes to accomplish as coach of Madonna College's first-year volleyball team is progress. His grade so far: so far, so good.

Madonna swept Henry Ford Community College, a team that earlier this year beat it, in three games Thursday 15-5, 15-9, 15-2, Judy Edelbrock, Rosanne Krach and Mona Ali each collected seven kills in the match.

The defensive work of Annette Bono and Vicki Petrouneas and the setting of Joy Pitrone also contributed to the victory, which raised Madonna's record to 12-7 "We played very well and served aggressively," said Abraham.

The win helped offset one that got away, when Madonna blew a 12-4 lead in the pivotal third game and lost to University of Michigan-Dearborn 7-15, Pitrone served 11 aces in the second game for Madonna, and Marie Cervantes had 11 kills and Rhonda Saad had seven in the match. "We sort of let it fall away," Abraham said of the final game collapse. 'But we're making a lot of progress. We're really playing well and I'm happy with our progress to this point. Madonna plays at Concordia today

The rivalry between neighboring school districts - Plymouth and Livonia - has become a joke. One district sits in the penthouse, while the other wallows in the outhouse.

THE ONCE-proud rivalry between Bentley and Salem has degenerated into something that is hard to explain to outsiders.

On Tuesday, Livonia school board members may want to wheel over to Churchi ll and take note. Yes, this is a long-standing invitation to Joe Laura, Richard McKnight, Marjorie Roach, Carol Strom, Pat Tancill, Pat Sari and Richard Thorderson.

Newman's Churchill kids work hard and they never quit, but something is missing when they step out on the floor against Salem or Canton

These girls are sorely lacking the fundamentals, the kind of training needed to survive against the Salems, Cantons, Ladywoods and Mercvs. The fundamentals should be available at an earlier age

Newman can't see things getting any better as long as the school board, the people we're inviting to Tuesday night's game, continue to take a non-competitive approach.

What these people on the board have told Newman indirectly is that middle school sports is an evil. Competition for seventh and eighth graders is harmful. Those formative years, say the school board members, should be used as a "time for exploration." We all know this time can be explored in a variety of ways hanging out at Westland Mall skate boarding down the street or becoming an MTV addict.

NEWMAN, an energetic young coach, can only find coaching basketball in his district frustrating particularly after watching his freshman team get trounced 66-6 and his junior varsity team unable to . score a single basket by halftime

Salem soccer team gets revenge, 3-1

Salem soccer coach Ken Johnson put the whip to his players Tuesday and, like a thoroughbred on the back stretch, they responded with a rejuvenating victory-Wednesday.

After being upset by Farmington Harrison 2-1 Monday, the Rocks bounced back and avenged that defeat, taking a 3-1 win from the Hawks in a Western Lakes crossover

Johnson had planned to give his charges the day off Tuesday but put them through a tough, two-hour workout instead.

I told them this was one game we had to win," Johnson said, emphasizing the fact the Rocks are in the back stretch of their season with the district tournament set to begin to-

We had to show a B Division team we were a quality team. One upset was OK, but two in a row sistent with other games in which would have been terrible. We came out fired up."

Salem's Gary Balconi scored his team-leading 12th goal to give the Rocks, a 1-0 halftime lead. Mike Ulaszek's assist set up the scoring opportunity. Balconi also has 12 assists and Denny Reynolds eight goals.

The Rocks made it 2-0 when Jeff Gold scored off Ulaszek's deflected header. On a corner kick, Ulaszek knocked the ball out to the edge of the penalty area where Gold hit a low, hard liner toward the goal.

The Hawks got on the scoreboard when Craig Bailey nailed a penalty kick. Salem goalie Dave O'Malley was called for interference when he dove at Bailey's feet in an attempt to prevent a shot.

With two minutes left in the game, freshman Joe Tippman scored an insurance goal (and his first varsity goal) off a pass from Pat Hayes. Hayes sent the ball through, and Tippman, who was just inside the midfield line, caught up to the ball going through on the run.

After Tippman beat the goalkeeper who came out to try and break his momentum, he had a clear shot at the goal, taking the ball right up to the goalmouth before knocking

Salem finished 7-2-2 in the league and is 11-3-2 overall. The Rocks play the winner of Monday's Plymouth Canton-Ann Arbor Pioneer game on Wednesday at Centennial Education-

"A loss would have been devastating, two losses to the same team, and the team knew that," Johnson said. "And the other team knew they could beat us "

Johnson was very complimentary toward the Hawks, who are 5-5-1 in the league and 8-5-2 overall

"I told Harrison coach Glenn Bruehan at Thursday's league meeting. You guys can go all the way." Johnson said. "I think they can after the way they played us, and Stevenson only beat them 1-0."

CANTON 2, N. FARMINGTON 2: The Raiders let a 2-0 halftime lead slip away as the Chiefs made a second-half comeback Wednesday in another WLAA crossover game.

Senior captain Brett Wills scored on a penalty kick, and Todd Menko, with an assist from Alastair Riddock, gave North its 2-0 lead on a deflected corner kick.

The teams played 17 minutes of the second half before Canton averted a shutout with Kris Kilpelainen's goal. Steve Marshall got the tying goal two minutes later at 25:00. Marhsall and Kilpelainen assisted on each other's goals. North coach Cathy Cole, whose team finished the regular season 2-7-2 in the league and 4-7-2 overall, was disappointed in her team being unable to hold the lead.

"I really feel we should have been the winner by the momentum we had," she said.

Canton coach Mike Morgan said the game followed the pattern con-

'Velvet' morbidly fascinating

Morbid fascination manifests itself in many ways, from slowing down on the highway to check out why the ambulances and police cars are there to watching something like Blue Velvet This 1986 movie attracted much attention for its macabre sexual content.

Dennis Hopper excels in a role almost too unsettling to watch for two pours. When he starts to inhale nitrous oxide the faint of heart may want to call the whole thing off.

Isahella Rossellini plays the woman caught in Hopper's web of obsession and deception. Like Hopper, she turns in a memorable performance. You'll also know why Rossellini raised a few eyebrows by wearing a plue velvet gown to the Oscars that year Nice PR move.

The movie was directed by David Lynch whose credits include "Elephant Man" and the very strange but riveting cult classic, "Eraserhead."

Available for rent, the film also is showing this month on Showtime and The Movie Channel. It's worth seeing but it's not for children or the squeamish.

ANOTHER MOVIE that the oh-sodelicate may wish to fast forward through some scenes is "The Fly." Jett Goldblum plays another of his high-strung, smart aleck characters, this time a scientist who starts out studying molecular transportation and ends up learning more than he wanted about entomology.

The 1958 black-and-white version with Vincent Price wasn't quite like this. Price was at his hammy best, and the film was '50s movie technol.ogy at its-campiest. Remember the scenes in which Al Hedison, his head superimposed onto the body of the fly, squeaked "Help me! Help me!" It was good for a chuckle (Perhaps that's why Hedison later changed his first name to David)

Here's one for the next trivia night. The screenplay for the 1958 version was written by James Clavell, who, as you know, later went on to write 'Shogun.'

The 1986 version isn't quite like that Goldblum does a gory job of showing a man plummeting into animal-like behavior, his body doing things over which he has no control. However, you have to look past scenes such as the one in which the scientist fly regurgitates his food.

GEENA DAVIS plays a journalist who attempts to carry on a romance with Goldblum. It's a sticky situation. The end leaves open the question of whether she is carrying the offspring of her liaison with the illfated but high-flying scientist. Obviously a product of the current mania for setting up sequels. What's next? "Son of Fly"? "The Fly Papers"? "I Was a Swatter for Go ahead, give "The Fly" a whirl.

It isn't great art, but it's pretty well

Last week Second Runs featured "Hoosiers," a flawed but engrossing sports movie. If you didn't run right out and rent it (and why wouldn't you?) you're out of luck this week. A legal dispute surrounding the ownership of rights to "Hoosiers" and "Platoon" has resulted in a federal court injunction ordering "Hoosiers" removed from stores and delaying the rental release of "Platoon.

That's all folk

Inside

Do folk singers have a place in today's high-tech world? Apparently so, judging by the popularity of contemporary folk pop performers such as Suzanne Vega, Josh White Jr. and Borkowski and Rosochacki. For more on the folk scene, turn to Page 3D.

Many recreation departments have stopped sponsoring touch (or flag) football because of insurance costs, but adult leagues still thrive in Detroit, Royal Oak, Birmingham and Plymouth.

As the middle school footballers leaves the field after a recent practice at Plymouth Central Middle School, the lights come on and the Plymouth Parks and Recreation Department's open league is under way. Open means teams from all over the metro area are eligible for the league, which plays Tuesdays, Thursdays and Sundays. This night, one team is worried about getting its heads handed to them throughout the course of the

The Ford Climate Control team of Plymouth has played once in its brief history, a 40-0 win. But tonight they play what may very well be the best touch football team in the United States, Standard Paper of De-

Divorce a harsh test for friendships

By Janice Brunson staff writer

Most couples who divorce find themselves divvying up more than just assets and children. Friends, too, must also be divvied.

"Friendships that couples have established together become a real problem area," said Dr. LaVere Burdette, a marriage counselor in Southfield.

"The disappointment and sadness over the loss of mutual friends is one of the most difficult things people have to deal with," said Burdette, adding the issue usually surfaces early during divorce coun-

The situation is further complicated by the anger and grief that friends feel over the loss of an intact couple.

'It is not just family members who are affected. Friends, too, suffer," she said.

Those who have experienced divorce say the end of a marriage is a harsh test for friendship. Often, 'People are afraid divorce is contagious.'

Your traveling taster visits area eateries and rates them on a 100point scale. Up to 30 points are awarded for ambiance, which includes general atmosphere and service; 55 points for food; and 15 points for price/value rating. A total of 59 points or less indicates a restaurant is not recommended; 60-74 points signify from passing to good; 75-89 points designate very good with some extraordinary features; and 90-100 points show that a very special dining experience awaits you.

MEXICO INN, 910 S. Wayne Road, Westland (728-8010), was recommended by reader Ms. F.P. of Westland. The restaurant is decorated with Mexican hats and hanging grape clusters, which create an informal relaxed atmosphere for dining. This family-owned eatery shows the extra care and attention of the owners - from the clean surroundings to the very gracious waitresses.

There is a wholesome crowd of families and casually attired groups, and people seem to enjoy themselves here. Reservations are available, although we walked in and were seated at once without reservations. Dinner took an hour. Lunch is served on Wednesday through Saturday, and dinner is served every night of the week. GENERAL ATMOSPHERE 15 points maximum. Points awarded - 13.

In addition to being a good-will ambassador for the restaurant, our waitress offered a number of helpful dinner suggestions. She was unusally pleasant, and her attention to our needs was good. The pace of our meal was fast but not hurried. On the one occasion when we asked for more water, she brought us a pitcher for the table

Unfortunately, our appetizer, chips, salsa and drink stayed on the table until dessert arrived. On the other hand, we received clean silverware with each course. SERVICE -15 points maximum. Points awarded Portions are quite large here, and we surprised our waitress when we ordered appetizers. She was correct when she told us that there would be plenty of food left for doggy bags. The small super nachos ($5.25) were enough for dinner for one or almost two. They were crisp, loaded with fresh vegetables, beans and meat. It was not just a mishmash of ingredients; you could taste the food, and it was good.

Warm chips and salsa sauce are served, and the salsa is spicy but not so hot that your taste buds are destroyed. We sampled the margaritas (special that night, two for $4.50) and found them to be strong and much better than average. BEFORE THE ENTREE - 15 points maximum. Points awarded - 14.

One of the house specials is the wet burrito ($6.50). It was a delight, with rich tomato flavor and plenty of cheese on top. The accompanying rice and beans also were quite appealing. The No. 2 combination plate $6.95) provided a sampling of other Mexican dishes: a taco that had a tasty shell and fresh ingredients; a tinga which was spicy and unusual with a great guacamole topping. After eating these and getting filled, we had difficulty even trying the burrito and enchilada, but both tasted very good, even reheated the next day. Folk music has always had an intrinsic value to society through its expression of thoughts and ideas of love, liberty and pacifism. As such, folk music is both entertainment and communication

Performers such as Peter, Paul and Mary, Joni Mitchell, Buffy Sainte-Marie, the Weavers and Arlo Guthrie used acoustic guitars in their simplicity to illustrate their hopes of a better world.

But do folk singers have a place in a high-tech world where young men and women put their stock in the market rather than peace protests? Apparently so in the minds of folk pop performers of the 1950s and 60s who still do occasional tours, who see a renewed interest in this age-old genre

In fact, contemporary folk pop performers such as Suzanne Vega, Romanovsky and Phillips, Josh White Jr. and Borkowski and Rosochacki are bringing new vitality to the music industry.

"I FEEL that folk music is on the increase though it may not be felt as such because if you listen to most of the secular radio stations, you're not hearing it," says

"It's always a simpler music for one to play and sing for oneself or with others even if you're professional

"Also there's something in the music that's 'by the people, of the people and for the people' that people at stressed times need to hear. You may hear it in a different vein, you may hear it with electric music because it is what they are saying to the people, so it doesn't have to be with an acoustic guitar.

White said that as a means of communication, folk music is "what keeps us alive, touching and knowing that we love one another. It is a 'people' music, and as long as there are people, there will be folk music.

DAVE FIGLIN, founder of The Ark in Ann Arbor, says that folk music is "a form of music that has gone through several generations in a locale and taken on aspects of that locale in words and music so you can identify the locale.

It's not composed music, and even if it had been composed, there are variations of that piece depending on what part of what country you go to.

He is quick to point out that singers such as Joni Mitchell, Peter, Paul and Mary and the other popular folk pop singers of the 1950s and '60s are not actually considered true folk singers.

Having been in business in the Ann Arbor area for the past 22 years, the Ark is probably the most frequented and popular area outlet for folk, jazz and bluegrass musicians. There are also nights where local unknown musicians have their own time on stage to perform before live audiences.

ANOTHER OUTLET for internationally recognized folk performers is Southfield's Folktown in the Southfield Civic Center. Now in its eighth season. Folktown features both local and internationally recognized per-

Floating a loan can sink student in long run

By Philip A. Sherman staff writer

Robert Spann, 26, is an admissions counselor at Livonia's Madonna Col-

A sociology business graduate of the college, Spann said he does everything he can to help students finance college degrees without taking out loans.

That's part of his job. It's also part of his personal philosophy.

Spann's barely into the second year of a 10-year race to repay his own student loan, a $10,000 note that got him through school. With interest, the loan will cost him $17,000 if he takes a decade to return what he borrowed; he hopes to repay it faster and chop his debt load to about $14,000.

"It's my responsibility, and I don't try to get around it. You borrow something, you give it back," Spann said. "I write out that monthly check like clockwork."

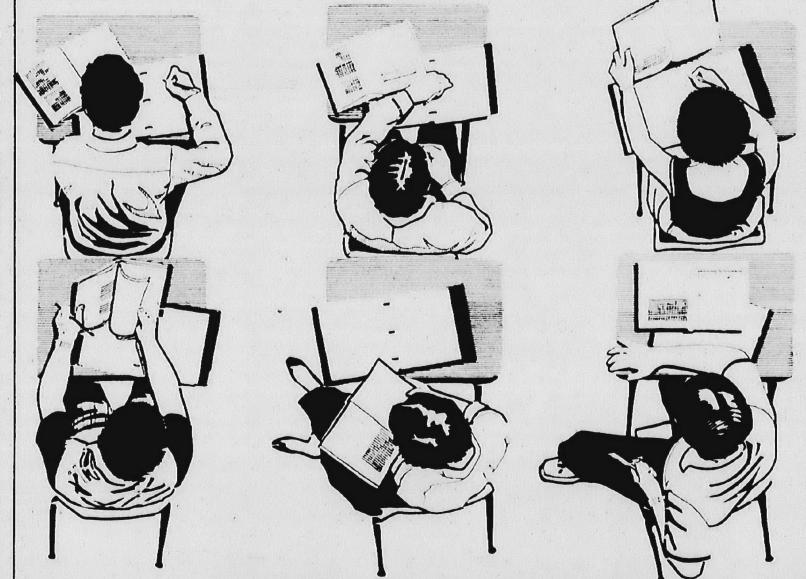

SPANN'S LUCKY, even with monthly loan payments of about $150. He's lucky because by today's standards, his degree - which he considers an investment - didn't re-'ally drive him too far into debt.

Monumental debt is something many college students live with while in school and continue to live with after graduation due to the higher cost of higher education.

For most the choice is simple: Sign up for a loan or stay off cam-

According to a College Board Publications study "Trends In Student Aid: 1980-1986," it costs more than $10,000 to finance an undergraduate degree at a typical university. Some of the more popular schools cost up to $5,000 annually, according to an article in Moving Up, a magazine for college men, with the price doubling per year - for a private school.

And that's not necessarily so for the so-called "sure-ticket" degrees.

University of Michigan (for May or August 1985 graduates) indicates the average undergraduate who sought and received a student loan graduated with a degree and a $6,134 debt.

THE MOST RECENT study by the according to Harvey Grotrian, director of the school's financial aid department. Grotrian said that figure increases to $9,378 for graduate students and $25,027 for dentists. Diane Samples of the university's medical school said graduates carry an average debt load of $30,000 when they leave

And in the can-you-top-this category, Katherine Gottschalk, director of financial aid for U-M's law school, said $32,000 is the average debt for law school students. But Gottschalk added this year was special. One student broke student loan records with a $51,000 tab That's why Spann, the Madonna them require students to have 30 to 35 grade point averages, but a lot lege offers when I talk to them.

SPANN IS concerned that debt loads bouid be unmanageable especially since most loan payments commence six months after the student graduates. He tound himself in the position of not having a job six months after graduation, but still facing his payment book. Spann said. he had to renegotiate the loan with the lending institution to lessen the burden until he was hired, part time and then full time, by Madonna

We also have a computer here that we use to check students eligibility for loans Spann said If students come in early, say at the beginning of the summer before they start school. Spann said 'they'll know within five minutes of they're eligible for a particular type of loan. If not, they we got the summer to start working for the coming year. he added

Other options Spann offered are work study programs and working through school.

If none of those options work, Spann helps students with loans but encourages them to borrow only what they need and resist the temptation to overextend themselves.

death and taxes, falling in love and establishing emotional relationships can and will happen. However, when it happens in the workplace, an inevitable whirlwind of gossip arises. Are they living together, will they marry, are they both free to marry, is there a good objection to their marrying? People will begin to think of them in terms of a love affair rather than in terms of how well they're doing their jobs. If the romance seems too hot to cool down, there will be talk and criticism. If they don't marry, more talk. If one of them is still married to another, the talk turns to scandal, Usually one executive then has to leave, usually the woman.

If all of these negatives I've listed don't dissuade you from acting on your attraction to a co-worker then evidently your career does not mean as much to you as you say it does.

Mike Jolly is Standard's defensive back; he last played for Green Bay, yes, that Green Bay, the Packers, in the days between strikes. Before that, he starred at Michigan.

The No. 1 quarterback, Dave Zelmanski, played baseball at Wayne State. Keith Cockrell, a receiver, played at Columbia (and never mind they have the longest losing streak in college football). Joe Brauer, the backup quarterback, once pitched briefly for the Detroit Tigers. Mike Wilson, a blocker, was a defensive tackle at U-M (and made news recently when the Tigers named him, a black man, as their comptroller). Bob Maxwell, their kicker, kicked for Western Michigan in football and blocked shots as a goalie in hockey. Guard Dave Nelson played college hockey. Dan MacLean was a guard at Illinois and now is an assistant coach at Detroit Country Day. Keith Carroll, owner of Canton Sports, pitched in college.

The head coach, Tom Gable, played college football at the University of Detroit. Talk about a tough football team!

About all Climate Control coach Steve Ciucci can brag about is that his quarterback once was on a fraternity team at Tri-State College, which is in Angola (not the one in Africa, the one in Indiana).

"It should be fun," said Ciucci, sounding like a coach. Hey, they put their pants on one at a time, too. Those expensive pants, the nice blue ones with the red and white racing stripes up the side, to match the jerseys, to match the hats, to match the jackets, to match the travel bags.

So what if Climate is in mismatched

ACTUALLY CLIMATE does OK. Jolly is hurt from the Green Bay tournament; so is the No. 1 QB and the kicker, so Standard fields a weak team Standard also takes a 28-0 lead at the half and wins 38-6, though Climate plays better than expected.

Standard is a precision drill team, not a football squad. They run a ton of set plays, and their backup quarterback flings the ball 50 yards in the air, on a line, to monster ends who look like World Cup sprinters. All of it is football - the crisp weather, whistles blowing, the air full of such patter as "huddle up, huddle up'." "they're bunched in the middle," "the flat' the flat' in the flat!," "nice D, strong D, way to go D!," "good wheels," and "bend, don't break.

One way to enjoy fall in Michigan: Taking in the sunset over Port Huron at Port Austin.

Golden Michigan

Fall a busy time for state's tourism

OTHER STREETS

Michigan has risen to eighth place among the nation's most popular travel destinations

Fall's a good time to get out the rod and reel at spots such as Highland Recreation

By Iris Jones special writer

Q: While my friends are all jogging and biking and running through life, I would like to enjoy a lazy weekend in Michigan sometime before Thanksgiving. No tourist stuff; we just want to explore, take some pictures, taste a little wine, maybe go fishing. Any ideas?

Plymouth

A: Give me three hours to answer your question, and we might scratch the surface of fall in Michigan!

If you only have Saturday and Sunday, limit yourself to a half day's drive, which rules out the Upper Peninsula. Book ahead in color sea-

Check a resort close to home such as the St. Clair Inn in St. Clair, only an hour's drive away. You can get a room in the historic inn or a more rustic apartment in their annex next

WATCH THE SHIPS go by on the St. Clair River. Take a tiny car ferry across to the Canadian side and return via the Bluewater Bridge. Find the night life you need in Port Huron.

Or go to the top of the Thumb and try Port Austin's Garfield Inn, built in 1830 and beautifully restored. President James A. Garfield once made a speech supporting Ulysses S. Grant from the balcony.

The Garfield is on the national list of historic places, but its real value is to people just like you, people who like to meander. The bathrooms are down the hall, but they are just as beautiful as the bedrooms with their four-poster beds. Explore the lake area by day, join the crowd at the huge mahogany bar and in the lovely dining room at night.

If the Garfield is full, try the Lake Street Manor across the street. Both will cost you about $65 a night for two, including breakfast.

IF THAT'S too pricey, head west for one of the dozens of bed-andbreakfast places on the Leelanau Peninsula and down the shoreline of Lake Michigan.

Or head northwest for the Terrace Inn run by Pat and Mary Lou Barbour in the famous Bay View colony just outside of Petoskey. You will find yourself amid three-story Victorian houses with gingerbread

The inn has just received permission to stay open all winter for the first time. Summer activities are over but you will find lots of exploring to do in the Petoskey Harbor Springs area. The inn costs $50 a night for two.

Q: Is it too late to fish in Lake

A: I spent a lot of time talking to fishing boat captains in Grand Haven recently, and they all told me the same thing. Some of the best fishing is late October and early November as long as you don't want to catch the big ones.

There are not so many other boats to contend with. What you are catching is really next year's salmon, so they are only four or five pounds instead of the 10- and 15-pounders you could catch in summer.

That's the good news. The bad news, according to Joe Wolff of Brandy Two out of Manistee and president of the Michigan Charter Boat Association, the weather is so unpredictable in fall that it may stop you from going out.

"We missed 12 charter days in August because of the weather, and so far I've missed a full week in October." Wolff said. "The fish are out there, but we can't tell you even a day ahead whether the weather will allow us to go out IF YOU DON'T want to take that chance. Wolff recommends river fishing, which is available in some places year-round. You can catch steelhead in the rivers too, they stay in the rivers all winter.

Capt. Emil Dean's James R sails the rivers of western Michgian late into the fall. Dick Rang's drift boat operates all winter in the AuSable River. So does Chuck Knipchild's covered riverboat on the St. Joseph

The walleve are running in Lake Erie, the St. Clair River and Saginaw Bay through October.

Of course, we're not talking a string on the end of a pole here. we're talking money. The average big charter boat on one of the Great Lakes will cost you $70 to $90 a person a day, with a four-person minimum. River fishing, such as walleye fishing on Lake St. Clair, will cost $40 to $50 a day.

Port Austin's Garfield Inn, built in 1830, is on the national list of historic places.

The state has risen to eighth place among the nation's most popular travel destinations, according to the U.S. Travel Data Center. The first seven, in order, are: California, Florida, New York, Texas, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Illinois.

So join with all the out-of-state tourists and plug into some of the things going on in Michigan this fall:

• Frost the pumpkin in style. Grand Traverse Resort Village in Acme is offering a Halloween package that includes a Halloween ball, supervised trick-or-treat activities for the kids, breakfast or lunch on Saturday, plus Sunday brunch and a dinner one evening, all for $100 to $120 per person for two nights.

• Play a little music. An Old

When you decide you need the help of a professional designer, let me tell you what to look for.

Most furniture stores have a designer service available. When you purchase furnishings from that particular establishment, the help of a designer is a service given at no extra charge.

There are many freelance designers who work in different ways, i.e., the designer can take you to any furniture store and work with their lines or work with their own catalogues and use a warehouse to receive and deliver to you. There are also designers who will shop with you and just charge a fee, which can range from $50 an hour and up. Any of the aforementioned can

Here are some pointers for you to consid-

Firstly, you must have a rapport with your decorator. The chemistry must be there for both of you to get the best job done. It's important to be honest with your decorator. At this point in time, your decorator must be your best friend.

If you have a budget, tell the decorator what it is. Don't spend endless hours looking at pieces which are not within your budget. Expect to go a little over budget. It always happens. It is impossible to stay right to the doilar. In my experience, I find completing a room at a time the best way to go when you have a fixed sum to work with. If you do a little bit here and there throughout the house, no room is finished. You have spent money and it will not show.

Beware of the designer who looks at your furnishings and very loftily states, "It all must go." There is no reason to dispose of any piece that you love and that has value for you. A god designer can work around and/or include a piece or two which you want to keep.

Be wary of the designer who claims to work at 10 percent above cost. No one can be in business and work that close and give you recourse should there be a problem. Freight and delivery is costly. That is something the designer absorbs in the cost of the

A. Any store that carries bedding will have coordinated sheets, coverlet, duster and pillow shams. Select one with a lot of white background. Any pattern with yellow or vellow and pink will be good as long as the background is dominant.

Buy an extra sheet and make a pair of lean tiebacks. Use a wood pole, which you will cover with a fabric to fill in the center, using your tiebacks on either end. Make the header above the pocket for rod four to five to five inches high. To hold the tieback in place, make a simple holder of the material four inches wide. Make a streamer of the same fabric three feet in length, four inches wide. Then loop it through the holder, tie into a bow and let the streamer hang from

Their 'gallery-in-a-barn' offers furniture bargains

special writer

HEN DONALD and Cyma Carn gave up their lease at Northwood Center in Royal Oak a few years ago and closed the doors to Charles Furniture, a venerable 30-year-old business, it was like "giving up my baby," Cyma Carn said.

Actually it was more like putting it down for a long nap. Though the Northwood showroom was closed, the Carns looked around their huge warehouse on Harrison Street in Royal Oak and began to envision "a fine-furniture-gallery-in-a-barn."

They took off an entire year and, with the help of one lone employee, restocked and refurbished the warehouse, including carpeted floors and better lighting. And during that year Cyma Carn made several extended buying trips to major furniture centers like New York, North Carolina and San Francisco something she still does routinely to keep up with the trends. In fact, she just got back from North Carolina

When the Carns were ready to open to the public again, in May 1984, they called all of their former employees back, and couldn't believe their good fortune when most of them accepted. They now employ five salespeople, as well as several office staff. Donald Carn takes care of the administrative duties, freeing Cyma to "be the creative one," she said.

"I always ask him what he thinks when I'm considering something out of the ordinary. Then if he says he doesn't like it, I know I'm right and I go ahead and do it." She winks at her husband of 33 years, and he grins back. The staff nods in straight-faced assent. They are used to Cyma's brand of humor often a little startling to the newcomer. "I should have been in show business," she said. "I'm such a ham. But I found furniture in-

YES, WELL - SEE Cyma in the Yellow Pages ad. Pure Cyma, arms outstretched, enveloping the showroom, the business, the world. She loves people, she'll tell you, and people seem to love her. See Cyma work with a young couple enamored with a puffy peach and seafoam living room set. They want it. She knows they want it. This is their third trip back. "What can I do?" she said. "Would it help if I held it for you for two weeks? A month?

She doesn't push. The policy is cash and carry, she says, the only way they can sell it as inexpensively as they do. They'll take major credit cards, but The young couple leaves with a little more time and Cyma is happy that they're happy

"You hear this a lot, I know," she said, "but we are all like a family here. We care about each other, and we have long-standing relationships with our customers. It's fun to come to work. I'm miserable when I'm not here. Carn says keeping their store in the low-rent warehouse district allows them to offer everything a top gallery would offer - from top-name merchandise (like Bernhardt, Cashet, Hickory Hill, Crestline furniture, Ross Lighting and James crystal) to interior decorating assistance to after-purchase repair - and still keep the prices comparable to a mid-price furniture

Still, it took a while for shoppers to find them, Carn said, hidden as they are on a side street off of Main between 10 and 11 Mile Roads.

"When we first opened we just kind of wandered around here waiting for customers. People have to be creative to find us. It's like a scavenger hunt. They hunt for clues and then they find us and get the prize. Now our customers come from Bloomfield and Birmingham and Troy - from all over, really - and our business comes through word-of-mouth as much as any-

Other bargains out there

October is a traditional furniture sale month. The careful shopper can find bargains even in the quality furniture stores and galleries. Every store needs to move discontinued and scratched floor merchandise, as well as special order cancellations. Some stores tag furnishings while still on the showroom floor; others move it to special clearance centers or back rooms.

Stewart Glenn co-owner Jim Oakley says to watch out for sales that may not be true sales. "Don't be taken in by 'percentage-off' discounts at stores that seem to have sales all the time. Some mark-downs reflect inflated retail prices." Oakley said.

You can avoid that by getting to know the store so that you're aware of legitimate sales." Oakley says to ask the reason why something is marked down. "Don't be afraid to say, 'What's wrong with it?' Especially if the mark-down seems too good to be true.

Q. My jewelry has outgrown my jewelry box. How can I deal with all the new bulky items?

A. It's a sign of them times. Jewelry is fashionable, and we have much more of it than ever before. Not only that, we still have every piece we ever owned. Right?

A basic organizing principle is to organize before increasing space. There are several ways to approach

1. Weed out and dispose of junk jewelry. Move anything you don't wear regularly to a box in a drawer. If it's still too crowded, hang bulky necklaces and bracelets from a freestanding guest towel rack or on hooks, belt or tie racks in your clos-

2. Divide jewelry by summer or winter and keep out only that season's items. Or divide into a "gold" (and associated colors) box and a "silver" (and related colors) box, for easy choices. Costume trinkets can be divided from the real thing.

3. Remove everything into a temporary holding box and replace picces into your jewelry box only after wearing them. After a certain time, say three months to a year, discard anything left in the holding box.

A word of advice: Never store precious gems in a jewelry box in an obvious place. Even if you have an alarm system, burglars can "smash and grab" and be gone before the police arrive. Also, service or repair people can quickly peruse obvious places while "passing through." Seldom-worn valuable jewelry should be kept in a safe deposit box.

Aldingbrooke

Superlative Living In The Hills of West Bloomfield

NEW lavishly large 1, 2 and 3 bedroom terrace, ranch dwellings of unsurpassed size that are utterly extraordinary - up to 2,800 square feet and every amenity: private entries, attached garages, fireplaces, cathedral ceilings, designer kitchens with separate breakfast areas, master bedroom suites with dressing area, double vanities, double closets and walk in closets too, in-residence laundry and storage, full carpeting, central air conditioning, patio or balcony

Truly resort-like recreational facilities include: oversized pool in a spectacular wooded setting, a manor-home like clubhouse - ideal for private parties - tennis courts and, of course, a 24-hour manned gatehouse with package reception services. There is even a private lending library. All on over 130 incomparable private acres for estate-

Unquestionably the standard for beauty and luxury. For their size, design and breathtaking setting, YOU MUST SEE the 1, 2 and 3 bedroom terrace homes of ALDINGBROOKE.

Travel Maple Road to Drake Road; turn north and drive through the woods, to the summit of the hill, and enter ALDINGBROOKE through the manned gatehouse on your left.

Writing a classified ad that gets results—whether it be for real estate, employment, the personals, transportation, or merchandise— is easy if you follow the guidelines below.

1 Sive the reader specific What would you like to know about the item, service or job you are advertising? Be sure to add details such as color size condition brand name age condition brand hame age, features and penefits. Be accurated both trembellish your ad with misleading information. Stick to the facts and reap the

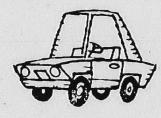

2. Include the price. Don't buyer's time. If you advertise the price of the item or service you offer, the people who respond. to your ad will be those who are genuinely interested. Surveys show that readers are more. interested in those items and services they know are within their price range

3. Avoid abbreviations. Don't make a potential customer work too hard! Although you may be tempted to cut down on the cost of your ad by using abbreviations; surveys indicate that many people don t as Elicieat in kitcheni or WSW iwhite side walli tires and won t take the time to figure them out. A confused reader is a disinterested reader. Get the most for your money and use omplete words.

4. Include phone number and specify hours. Be sure to let potential customers know when and where to call. Surveys show that even if a person is very interested in your item or service he or she will not call back after the first attempt. Stay near the phone during the hours you indicate you will be available. Don't risk missing a

5. Run on consecutive days. Your ad will not get results if people don't see it! Therefore, it is important to set up a consistent and consecutive ad schedule with your telephone salesperson or outside sales

Criteria for picking a financial planner

ECAUSE ANY planner you choose will be helping you make important decisions about your financial future, you have the right to expect certain standards of performance from your financial planning professional.

There are literally thousands of people who can serve your financial planning needs, but which one is best for you and your particular needs? The following suggestions offer some guidance to help you find a planner that is right for you.

• Interview at least three financial planners before selecting one. Start by asking for recommendations from your friends or business associates who have used a financial planner.

• Examine the planner's background. Look for a degree in accounting, economics, business administration or finance. For added assurance, choose someone with a financial planning designation, which means that the practitioner has met certain educational and expertise requirements, passed a series of exams, agreed to adhere to a code of ethics and made a commitment to on-going professional development.

• Check for regular involvement in continuing education activities and membership in professional financial

• Find out how the planner is compensated for his or her services. Those who receive commissions should be willing to reveal how much they earn from the financial products they sell. Be wary of a bias toward one product over any others. You should be presented with a variety of investment choices and not just those from which a planner will earn a commission

As with the selection of any professional, such as a doctor, lawyer or accountant, choosing a financial planner requires a certain amount of research and a degree of caution. Because the financial planning field is largely unregulated, the task of finding a competent planner rests with the consumer.

Do your homework and ask questions if you don't understand some thing. By finding the right financial planner, you can be assured of receiving accurate information appropriate to your needs. And it can mark your first step on the road to financial seindependence by the American public, will be celebrated nationwide from Oct. 18-24. Leading professional and educational organizations in the financial services industry are participating. "Your Financial Bill of Rights" is the theme of the 1987 Financial Independence Week, commemorating the bicentennial of the signing of the U.S. Constitution In conjunction with the theme, the kick-off event for Financial Independence Week will be held in Philadelphia on Independence Mall.

Financial Independence Week inaugurated in 1986, is dedicated to informing the American public that through sound and thoughtful planning and the use of basic financial techniques, such as saving and investing, they can achieve a level of financial security that will improve their overall lives.

Financial planning practitioners play a key role in helping consumers who seek assistance with their financial situation. Through a logical, step-by-step process. planners and their clients can achieve financial goals such as a comfortable retirement, sending children to college, purchasing a home and reducing tax liabilities.

Financial goals

Objectives and strategies

How a financial planner fits in TITH THE INCREASED interest by Americans in achieving economic security, financial planning has gained respect among consumers. Many people at all income levels are identifying a need to plan their future and are seeking advice from a financial planning professional.

Financial planners are trained professionals who can analyze your financial circumstances and develop a comprehensive plan. Planners employ a series of objective strategies and make specific recommendations to help you achieve your short-range needs and long-range financial goals.

Qualified planners are financial generalists who can pro vide you with information on a variety of financial products and alternatives appropriate to your personal situation. Other professionals, specializing in areas such as stocks or tax shelters, also are available to you, but financial planners are best equipped to help understand the "big picture."

THE PLANNER YOU choose may work independently. with an association, in a small firm or with a large financial services industry. Regardless of their business situation, planners are trained in all areas of financial planning and can provide you with sound professional advice.

The first step in developing a financial plan requires the planner to examine your financial situation by conducting personal interviews and a lengthy questionnaire. Among the areas the planner will review are your assets, liabilities, sources of income, real estate, net worth, cash flow, investments, family status, tax bracket - anything that will affect your financial future. The entire plan is based on these reponses.

The planner then identifies your career and financial goals. which can include saving for your children's college education, preserving your family estate, building equity in your home, making investments, minimizing your taxes and providing for a comfortable retirement.

WITH THESE GOALS in mind, the planner also evaluates other factors, such as whether you have too much or too little insurance, if there are tax-saving strategies you can consider and what your best alternatives are for invest-

From all the information collected, the planner will develop a comprehensive long-term personal financial plan, taking into account changes in the inflation rate and interest rates, changes in tax laws and new investment opportunities.

From this point, planners can take varying roles. Some advisers, known as fee-only planners, will present you with the information, leaving specific investments, savings plans, and tax strategies to be implemented by specialists. Commission-only planners, who do not charge for the development of a plan, make their income from your purchase of financial products recommended in the plan. Others combine a fee with commissions from products.

Whatever type of planner you choose, your financial advisor whould review and update your financial plan at least once a year. Changes in your job situation or family status, as well as the overall economy, could make a difference in how your financial plan works.

National consumer survey uncovers American pessimism

N uncharacteristic cloud of pessimism has been sighted on Americans' financial horizon, as people express insecurity about their longer-term financial and economic well-being, according to a new nationwide opinion survey conducted for the International Association for Financial Planning — the 24,000-member professional organization of the financial planning industry.

"Though one out of two Americans, without regard to income, are confident for the rest of 1987 about being able to meet their bills and having money left over," says Charles Lefkowitz, IAFP chairman, "Americans do feel their financial futures have been 'mortgaged.' By a margin of 4-3, Americans feel future generations are going to be 'worse off' and, by a margin of 2-1, Americans say their net worth is 'short of' where they want to be."

These are among the central findings of the IAPP's survey of what lurks behind consumers' attitudes toward their finances and those who provide financial planning services.

Key questions also addressed in the survey are: Who's likely to be more concerned today with family income, finances and cash flow — husband or wife? Do Americans feel their children in the future will face worse financial opportunities? Is asset-building for vacations, second houses or sharp cars really what middle-income Americans are concerned about? Do higher income Americans want to build, first and foremost, a larger estate and inheritance for their heirs?

Key survey findings are: Women are markedly less optimistic than men about their finances; a major fear of Americans is that they will outlive their retirement funds; the public and higher income Americans are down on the new tax law saying it's harder now to save; virtually all Americans generally share the same long-term goals of retirement, financial security and saving for a child's education - regardless of income; Americans are not risktakers when it comes to their savings and investments; there's a vast potential market for financial planners who are cited as the professional choice among those who believe a professional should manage their finances; and the public overwhelmingly feels planners should be regulated by the federal government.

The study, "Americans Cope with Their Finances: A Consumer Survey," is part of a larger, six-part nationwide IAFP public information program including a 1987 IAFP Economic Forecast to provide consumers with a financial planning tool and semiannual Natinal Financial Planning Index — a rule of thumb for consumers to measure how easy or hard it is to meet their financial needs.

The yearlong information program and consumer survey are designed to help inform the American public about where and how to go for help and to provide new information to IAFP members nationwide about what consumers need and want when it comes to their finances.

Four main areas are explored by the public opinion research: Curent Financial Attitudes, Future Economic and Financial Goals, Opinions about Providers of Financial Advice and a Savings and Investment Profile.

The survey polled 1,014 Americans among two discreet groups — a scientific random sample representative of the population as a whole and an oversample of higher income households with annual incomes of $50,000 or more. It was conducted for the IAFP in February by Reichman Research of New York and San Francisco.

CURRENT FINANCIAL ATTITUDES:

While the public expresses a general sense of economic well-being, "We believe longer-term pessimism is associated with underlying economic and household concerns, which rise in the country to a brooding sense of a 'mortgaged future,' " says Lefkowitz.

Both the public in general and higher-income Americans say the three top economic problems facing the country are unemployment, the U.S. budget deficit and the trade deficit. And people say "worries about our economy" are behind a major U.S. fear that 40 percent of Americans have — that they will outlive their retirement dollars. In fact, Americans say the single largest reason for this (13 percent) is "economy's effect on savings."

The American public rates the budget deficit as the second most pressing economic problem — and they are hypocritical about this: Americans say they are budget-conscious, with six out of the 10 saying they have a budget and seven out of 10 saying they stick to it. At the same time, some 25 percent say they overspend their budgets.

FUTURE GOALS:

Somewhat surprisingly, Americans told researchers that their long-term financial goals were very similar: virtually everyone, regardless of income, has three top goals — having enough for retirement (59 percent of the general public, 68 percent higher income), financial security (73 percent/78 percent) and saving for their children's education (48 percent/54 percent).

Retirement, however, is the single most often cited long-term financial concern of both higher income Americans and the public in general.

Interestingly, retirement concerns are volunteered 45 percent more frequently among higher income people. Current users of financial planning are 35 percent more likely to volunteer "saving for retirement" as a key goal than those who have never used a planner.

When it comes to meeting long-term financial goals, people's level of confidence lacks breadth and depth — less than one-third of Americans say they are "very confident," and fewer than one-half (45 percent) of all higher income Americans say they are "very confident."

ATTITUDES TOWARD AND USE OF FINANCIAL PLANNING:

An enormous potential market exists for financial planners. The survey found 13 percent of the public and 22 percent of higher-income respondents saying they presently use financial planners and almost as many say they are "likely to use" as currently use. In total, 80 percent of the public say they have "never used" a planner.

Regulation of financial planners is a concern the American public overwhelmingly shares with the IAFP which has led a national effort to secure greater federal regulation since 1985. While Americans are largely confused and unsure about if and how planners are regulated, there is not confusion among Americans whether they should be. By a 2-1 margin, the public expresses a preference for regulation of financial planners by the federal government according to a national standard.

3. Do you also sell products in addition to the planning services?

The sale of products, in addition to planning services, creates a potential conflict of interest situation. Avoid financial planners who tout their products as the solution to all financial problems. However, plans frequently go unheeded if the financial planner lacks the capacity to implement the plan. Implementation requires the sale of some products.

4. If you sell me a product that is recommended in the financial plan, how will you be compensated?

It is important that all compensation factors (fees, commissions, etc.) be fully and clearly disclosed to you before entering into an agreement with a financial consultant.

5. Will your commission on the sale of the product be used to offset the fee for the financial plan?

cloud your objectivity. Retain your right to buy any recommended products from sellers other than the financial planner. Resist the tendency to get a "bargain" by buying through the financial planner. Planning is a separate and distinct process from prouduct sales, and should not be blurred by mixing the two.

6. What resources, people and facilities do you have at your disposal to assist in the analysis of my financial affairs and the development of my financial nlan?

Broad financial planning requires wide and varied knowledge and expertise. One person cannot be an expert in all areas covered. Back-up personnel, processing equipment, and financial resources are vital to successful planning questions that you may raise?

8. After my financial plan has been developed, delivered and implemented, what follow-up services can I expect?

The financial consultant should continue to work with you to update, monitor, revise and review your plan as necessary. Depending on your needs and situation, follow-up may be held monthly to annually.

9. How will you be compensated for the development of my financial plan, and for follow-up services.

Disclosure of fees for planning and follow-up should be full, detailed and clear before entering into an agreement with a financial adviser.

10. In what ways will you assist me in the actual implementation of my financial plan?

Many plans fail because the financial planner doesn't help beyond the initial plan development. Clients hesitate to implement plans on their own initiative. The financial planner should be involved in implementation - usually with additional compensa-

11. Should you become unavailable to service my account, who will be assigned to work with me?

Continunity is important to the ongoing success of the plan and its implementation. The financial planning firm should be able to assure continuity of service despite personnel changes.

12. What are your liabilities for the recommendations you provide me?

You should know exactly how strongly your financial adviser is willing and able to stand behind the recommendations provided, and the extent of liability and responsibility he or she will assume.

13. What recourse do I have if your recommendations are in error?

You should know what course of legal action, or ethical action through the financial consultant's professional organization, is open to recover losses in the case of malpractice, negligence, or malfeasance on the part of the financial planner. 14. Are you financially bonded?

Financial bonding is required by law

tance when a financial adviser has direct access to your money.

15. What are your educational credentials and business experience?
