FRIDAY TREATS: Friday night will be trick or treat night in downtown Plymouth. As part of the Great Pumpkin Caper observed in recent years, merchants downtown will be passing out treats to children from 5:30 to 7 p.m. Friday. Most merchants will be standing by their front doors with treats, and many will be dressed in costumes. About 70 stores will be participating.

LOVE BASKETS: The Salvation Army in cooperation with Omnicom Cablevision and the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce is making plans for its fourth annual "Baskets Filled With Love" food drive/telethon to be held on Saturday, Dec. 5.

As part of the telethon there will be special videotaping sessions for local talent who wish to perform in the telethon. If you sing, dance, do magic tricks or have other talents, join the sessions 6-9:30 p.m. Thursdays, Nov. 5 and 12, and 11:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturdays, Nov. 14 and 21. Other taping sessions may be arranged on request. To schedule your time, call telethon chairman Pete Smith at 459-7335 or program director Maria Holmes at 459-7321.

BID FOR LESSONS: One of the featured items up for bid at this Friday's Plymouth Rotary PolioPlus Auction will be a day of golf at Washtenaw Country Club with a playing lesson from Randy Erskine, former University of Michigan golfer, former touring PGA pro, five-time winner of the Michigan PGA and the pro at Washtenaw. The day of golf, dinner and lessons, donated by Dale Knab of Wiltse's Pharmacy, is valued at about $350. The auction will begin with a viewing and cocktails at 6:30 p.m. and the auction at 7 p.m. in the Mayflower Meeting House. Admission is free. Proceeds from the sale of items at the auction will go toward the Rotary International PolioPlus project which seeks to inoculate all children worldwide against polio by the year 2000. A 1977 Cadillac Eldorado also will be auctioned HEART OF GOLD: Lowanda J. Jarvis of Plymouth was among those recently attending a Heart of Gold Award Council meeting to plan for the 1988 awards program. The program, which honors outstanding volunteers, is sponsored by the Heart of Gold Award Council and the Women for United Foundation. Any tricounty resident can be nominated for making contributions to child and family care, retirees and senior citizens, church, culture and educational activities, health care or involvement in citizen groups. Nominations are being accepted through Nov. 2. For information, call United Foundation at 226-9200.

HELPING TRAVELERS: Ruth Howlin of Plymouth was among the Travelers Aid volunteers who recently were honored for their efforts at a recognition event at Automobile Club Headquarters in Dearborn.

Travelers Aid Society of Detroit is a United Foundation agency, which provides emergency assistance for persons in any crisis caused by or related to mobility, including the handicapped, elderly, children traveling alone and the homeless Howlin and other volunteers are stationed at Metropolitan Detroit Airport, the Greyhound Bus Terminal, and the society's main office at 211 W. Congress, Detroit. Anyone interested in volunteering may call Kathleen Polidore at 962-6740.

THE PROPERTY OF THE PARTY OF TH Teachers get 14-percent raise

staff writer

Marking a drastic departure from 1982 when Plymouth-Canton teachers went on strike, a new two-year contract has been approved nearly a year before the current one expires. The agreement grants 7-percent pay increases for 1988-1989 and 1989-1990 It brings the starting salary for a beginning teacher to $23,794 from $22,237, in the first year of the con-

For teachers at the top of the scale, reached after they put in 11 vears and earn a master's degree, the salary is $43,000. That goes up to $46,403 in the contract's first year, said Norm Kee, assistant superintendent for employee relations.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT came at a Monday night press conference called by chief negotiators for the Plymouth-Canton Education Association and Plymouth-Canton Board of

The board of education unanimously approved the contract during Monday's meeting.

The 819-member teachers' union ratified the pact Thursday. The exact vote was unavailable but the margin was overwhelming, union officials said.

This is the third time the district has reached an early agreement with its teachers

The contract reflects a meeting of the minds over class size, something administrators and teachers have clashed over in the past.

While no maximum class size was agreed to, "the district is trying to ensure classes are as balanced as much as possible," said union representative Tom Cotner.

Classes will be averaged to the extent possible, so that all have the same number of students. At the elementary level, an aide will be added once classes reach 34 students.

ALSO PART of the new contract is a teacher evaluation procedure that places more responsibility on building principals.

"It takes what's been done and makes it standard. Things are spelled out in terms of time," said union negotiator Maryann Ligato.

"I believe this will help improve instruction and increase due process for teachers.

The settlement provides vision benefits for the first time, and improves employees' long-term disability package.

The district picks up the full tab for teachers' health benefits. The agreement wouldn't have happened without the superintendent getting it started, said Cotner. 'I think everyone can look at Plymouth now and see how to handle a labor contract."

Fire can be unpredictable, experienced firefighters say.

Milford tragedy won't affect programs at local fire halls

By Doug Funke staff writer

Even though three volunteers from other departments were killed in a training accident last weekend in Milford, supervisors here say they have no plans to muzzle their volunteer firefighters. Volunteers, who are paid on a per-run basis, out-number full-time regulars 20-8 in the city of Plymouth and 18-16 in Plymouth Township.

Canton Township, with 31 regulars

pected to be hired next year, has no in good health, with no felony con-

we assume we do things safely. We give 'em pretty good training and feel comfortable what they can do."

VOLUNTEERS IN both communivictions and a clean driving record. City volunteers must live within the city limits, township volunteers within four miles of one of the two Trained volunteers in both the city "I can see no change, no reason for and township work side-by-side with change," said Plymouth Township regulars. All volunteers are sum-Capt. Fred Knupp. "Like everybody, moned to all structure fires in both communities.

Responses are better during nonwork hours. As many as 15 will show up evenings or early-morning, as on the payroll now and six more ex- ties must be at least 18 years of age, few as a half-dozen at other times, Knupp and Matthews said.

Township volunteers aren't allowed on the scene of a fire until they've completed 66 hours of state certified training, a state certified driving course and learned in-house procedures and operations, Knupp

Additionally, all township volunteers are required to attend two three-hour internal training sessions per month.

Ban on hunting is likely

By Doug Funke staff writer

Hunting by firearm would be banned totally within Plymouth Township limits - except on land owned by a conservation club - if the township board adopts the recommendation of a committee especially formed to consider the issue.

The committee, consisting of a representative of the township board, the state Department of Natural Resources and the Michigan State Police, reached that conclusion after a public hearing last week, said Smith Horton, a township trustee and committee member

"It was an easy consensus. There was no disagreement," Horton said.

ESTHER HULSING, township clerk, said she will place the issue on the township board agenda as soon as she gets official word on the recommendation from DNR.

The township board likely will go along with the recommendation. It would take three to four weeks before such a measure could take effect due to posting and notice requirements, she added.

Now, hunting by firearm is allowed in the township only west of a line from Ann Arbor Road to Ridge Road to M-14 to Beck Road excluding two mobile home courts.

Hunting is allowed from Oct. 19 to March 1 and only with a shotgun using shot no larger than Number 6, most effective against small game. Permission is needed to hunt on private property.

James Anulewicz, township planning director, spoke during the hearing in favor of a firearm hunting

'We are certainly not against hunting per se, but we have an area in transition . . . and in that sense the community would like to see modifications made before the fact rather than have an accident." Anulewicz said.

Horton concurred.

"I've been up and down township roads dozens of times. I think we're getting too built up out there. It's getting risky," Horton said.

May is new warden at Scott prison

By Diane Gale staff writer

Lloyd W. May, warden of Phoenix Correctional Facility, will simply walk next door to start his new job at the state's prototype regional prison. Sunday, May takes over the warden spot at Scott Correctional Facility.

Scott and Phoenix are next to each other north of Five Mile and west of Beck. Western Wayne Correctional Facility is across the street on Five Mile in Plymouth Township.

Scott is a 500-bed prison facility housing maximum, medium and minimum security prisoners - the first in the state to jail prisoners from the region, including Wayne County communities.

The newly built facility for men began receiving prisoners in December 1986.

MAY WILL FILL the vacancy created by John Jabe who was appointed in May to serve as warden at the State Prison of Southern Michigan at Jackson. Jimmy Stegall, acting Scott warden, will return to his duties as deputy warden.

'I've been observing it from afar but it seems like it is gelling together as planned," May said. Any new programs or changes would be developed after he has time to study the current system, May said. May's successor at Phoenix hasn't been named, according to the Department of Corrections. William Overton, Phoenix deputy warden, will serve temporarily until someone is appointed, May said. May's "lengthy experience in administration with the department makes him most suitable for the Scott post," said Robert Brown Jr., state corrections director. Please turn to Page 2

Teachers get a raise

Expedited bargaining began last spring at the behest of Superintendent John Hoben.

The message we're awfully anxious to get across to the community is that the chief union officials and chief board officers will be pulling together for the next three years,

THE PAY INCREASE of 14 percent over two years places Plymouth-Canton "pretty much in line" with what other area districts are receiving, officials said.

"The average raise has been 4.1 percent over the last five years.

When you take into consideration the two 7 percent raises, it raises it to 4.8 percent. All state settlements now are averaging between 6.5 and 5 percent," Hoben said.

Compared to those in other Wayne County districts, Plymouth-Canton's pay scale ranks above average.

Hoben said, "I feel this is a fair and equitable settlement which maintains the positive progress which we've experienced in the last five years. I am pleased with the professional way in which both bargaining teams approached the issues and solved the problems.

The contract takes effect in August and expires in August 1990.

FEELINGS AMONG the paraprofessionals, or educational aides, aren't as positive in Plymouth-Can-

They've filed an unfair labor practice charge against the district, and are in the process of selecting a fact-

We would like to see as cooperative an attitude from the district as we've seen with the teachers," said Ligato.

But for the first year, volunteers in the city serve mainly as "go-fers," he added.

City volunteers must attend monthly three-hour, in-house training sessions.

What do volunteers study during the state training course? Basically, they learn breathing apparatus, placement of ladders, fire hoses, fire ventilation, basic fire chemistry," Matthews said. There are now no state certifica-

Community group takes old Geer School to heart

staff writer

If Geer School had a heart, its cockles would be warm right now.

The abandoned, old-fashioned school house has been adopted by a community group that's attempting to restore the building to its 1880

It's hoped that by the fall of 1989. Plymouth-Canton students once again will spend school days in the one-room, red-brick school that losed in 1982.

Thus far, the group has raised about $25,000 of the $100,000 needed to revamp the building inside and

THE LAST $500 came in Sunday when the Geer School Committee hosted a Plymouth Historic Home Tour. The Plymouth branch of the Association of American University Women co-sponsored the event.

Buses transported folks to Plymouth landmarks including the Charles Bennett House on Main Street, Pumpkin Hill Home on Adams Street, the Cass and Margaret Hough House and, of course, Geer School.

Good weather kept spirits up but crowds were down.

We were a little bit discouraged

The last class to attend Geer held its own fund-raiser during the tour.

They took it upon themselves to sell hot and cold cider, homemade cookies and Indian corn at the school," said Keough. The students, who numbered "10 at the most," raised more than $150.

The cookies, shaped like a miniature Geer School, were made with cutters crafted by local tinsmith Bob Horwood. Horwood's first wife (now deceased) was a teacher at Geer. Anyone interested in buying one of the $15 cookie cutters may order one by calling Keough at 455-2548.

THE RESTORATION effort is coming along "slowly, but surely, I guess," said Elaine Kirchgatter, another committee member.

"It's never as much or as fast as we would like it. We're kind of nickeling and diming it."

There's enough money now to go ahead with the first phase of restoration. Passers-by soon will notice the roof and windows being replaced, the building's addition being removed, and cracked bricks and mortar being repaired.

Other fund-raising projects are in the works, said Kirchgatter.

For a quarter, students soon will be able to buy pencils imprinted with the words "Cheer for Geer.

County school chiefs: Say no to tax shift

By Woyne Pool staff writer

Shifting school financing from property to sales taxes won't work, a spokesman for 34 Wayne County public school superintendents said Monday.

Speaking on behalf of his colleagues, Northville Schools Superintendent George Bell urged state school board members to reject a tax shift. Bell's comments were made at a public forum held by the state Board of Education at Wayne State University.

"As a group, we cannot support an erosion of local property tax base," Bell told state board members and members of the Michigan School Finance Commission. "The (stock market) scene of the past few weeks clearly shows the local property tax is the most reliable and stable source of revenue."

Bell is chairman of the Wayne County Association of School Administrators. His comments were directed at the Harden Commission Report. A state study group, it has called for increasing "educational" opportunity" among Michigan public school students. Cutting local property taxes and replacing the lost money with a statewide sales tax increase would go a long way toward closing spending gaps between rich and poor districts, commission members said. (For details of Harden Commission recommendations, see related story.)

A major weakness, Bell said, is that property tax payments can be deducted from federal income tax returns while sales taxes cannot

"It is unlikely that we will solve state problems by sending more money to Washington," he said.

Harden recommendations would be to cut home owner property taxes to 18 mills. Though voters could raise the tax rate, Bell said he doubted whether they would. Districts would not be allowed to seek tax increases unless they contributed some of their current tax revenue to a statewide pool.

"We cannot support a proposal which is based upon the belief that several districts, particularly out-of-formula districts, will vote to increase millage above the 18-mill level," Bell said.

Out-of-formula districts receive no direct state aid. Instead, they receive state support for special education and other state-ordered programs. Bell criticized the Harden Commission report for failing to address these programs.

"Special, vocational, and intermediate school district funding are also essential components of a quality educational program in Michigan and must be addressed in any funding proposal," he said.

Rather than change the formula, Bell said legislators should give more money to schools. State support for local schools has fallen from 50 percent to to 36 percent in the past 15 years, he said.

"The current state aid formula is sound if it were adequately funded," Bell said. "Simply put, in-formula school districts need additional state funds if the equality gap is to be reduced."

State government could do more to help schools by eliminating government waste, tightening assessment procedures and restricting tax increment financing authorities, Bell said.

Several speakers at Monday's information session on the Harden report also criticized TIFAs (Tax Increment Financing Authority). The state-approved tax districts, designed to promote business development, divert tax money from schools and local governments to road, utility, sewer and other improvements within the district.

A constitutional amendment is needed to implement any change in school financing State school board members will decide whether to seek a ballot proposal calling for the City resident said amendment. Several speak

co-chairman, former Michigan
State University president Edgar

Participants: Community activists including representatives from the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce, New Detroit, Michigan Farm Bureau and state League of Women Voters, as well as school groups, legislators and journalists.

• Philosophy: Committee members said Michigan needs equality of "educational opportunity," ensuring every student has access to a quality education.

 Recommendations for state officials The state legislature and board of education should define basic educational requirements for all students, establish performance standards for students, require districts to provide annual plans for educational improvement and to involve other community leaders in the process and declare educational bankruptcy in districts failing to meet those standards. The last proposal would have state officials running local schools, as receivers run financially bankrupt cities and businesses.

The state Department of Education would create an extension service to develop and imtlement innovative school programs.

Recommendations for local schools Schools should be more autonomous free to develop and implement their own programs with minimal district interference. Larger districts should offer parents their choice of schools altering the concept of "neighborhood schools". This, committee members said, would foster competition among schools, providing better education.

• Financing recommendations. The legislature should create a $200 million trust fund to finance new education programs. Making per-pupil spending more equal would involve a constitutional amendment calling for a two-cent sales and use tax increase a flat 23-mill tax on businesses and industries, a flat 18-mill tax on residences and farms, cutting the current maximum tax limit from 50 mills to 38 mills. (A mill equals $1 per $1,000 of assessed valuation.) Energy payments would be exempted from the sales tax increase.

Districts couldn't seek tax increases unless they contributed to a statewide pool. Either either all commercial, industrial and utility tax revenue or property tax revenue in excess of state-mandate perpupil spending figures would be contributed. The money would be distributed to other districts, augmenting poorer districts budgets.

Senate looks at school financing

By Tim Richard staff writer

The Republican-led state Senate will move promptly on school funding reform, said John Engler, majority leader.

"We'll be able to lay something on the table in a few weeks," said the Michigan Legislature's top GOP spokesman.

"There will be a significant amount of property tax relief," he said, defining "significant" in the 20 percent ballpark.

THE SENATE version is likely to meld proposals by the Harden Commission and Republican plans offered by Sen. Rudy Nichols, Sen. Dan DeGrow and House leaders.

So it's likely to contain: school operating property tax cuts replaced

So it's likely to contain: school operating property tax cuts replaced by a 1-2 percent increase in the sales tax (for voters to approve), some form of statewide collection of business property taxes, and a spending floor of $3,000 per pupil in every school district.

Engler also recognizes the wariness of suburban districts in the high technology belt stretching from Rochester to Ann Arbor. Most of those districts get no state aid, and so the state can't cut their budgets in a recession.

"There'll have to be adequate guarantees," said Engler, of Mount Pleasant, during an interview in the Observer & Eccentric's Livonia office. "We can't pass it if it has such consequences."

HOUSE SPEAKER Gary Owen, the Legislature's top Democrat, is less enthused about the school finance reform, stressing its complexity and the desire of every interest group for a voice.

"I think Ed Harden's commission did a tremendous job," said the Ypsilanti lawmaker, referring to the State Board of Education's 36-member commission, which reported Sept. 22.

But Owen said the final version had "very lukewarm support from business, opposition from the labor unions and teachers union." Without broad and enthusiastic support, reform will be a problem, he said in an interview on WXYZ-TV's "Spotlight on News" program.

"I don't think just a tax shift is the answer. We need more revenue in K
12. We need to deal with the fact that, in Willow Run in my district, we spend $2,000 less, or thereabouts, than two miles away in Ann Arbor. And that's "primarily in program offerings and amenities."

LIKE ENGLER, Owen sees great disparity between school districts.

Like Engler, Owen wants to raise the floor for poor districts without lowering the ceiling on affluent dis-

But they appear to part company on the need for more revenue. 'We'll be able to lay something on the table in a few weeks.'

— John Engler GOP leader

"The governor, John and Engler and I have agreed in principle to appoint a task force to look into all of the quality education components, all of us appointing four people to that, and to look into the possibility of a "bankrupt school districts act."

ENGLER'S STYLE, as head of a 38-member body, is to move quickly, with a fixed calendar and deadlines, on major legislation.

It gives his party control of the agenda, generates more news, and makes the other side look pokey and unresponsive.

Owen said he has referred the Harden proposals to a special House committee composed of taxation chairman Lyn Johndahl of Lansing, education chairman William Keith of Garden City and others.

"We haven't given up yet," the speaker said. "It's radical surgery. We'r talking about some major, major changes.

"It's pretty difficult to take on all those interest groups at one time."

ONE PRESSURE Engler faces that Owen doesn't is the farm depression.

"The bottom has fallen out of the farm economy," said Engler, whose district includes Gratiot County, where farm assessments plummeted 35 percent in one year, according to the State Tax Commission.

"And ther's no immediate prosect for a rebound," Engler added. "Today's costs of production are such that, even when you factor in minimal governmental payments, you can't cover double-digit interest rates" at which many farmers borrowed to acquire land in the '70s.

Farm groups have spearheaded the proposal to levy school taxes on industry — particularly nuclear power plants — statewide rather than district by district.

ENGLER RECENTLY returned from a trip to China, a nation of one billion that "now is an agricultural exporter where a few years ago they couldn't feed their people."

"We're kidding ourselves if we think we can afford high dropout rates. We can't afford the social costs of dropouts, either in the social welfare system or the criminal justice system.

Monday Griffin, speaking at a city council study session concerning the fate of the Tri-City Program, recommended the formation of a task force made up of area cities to study implementation of a new program The council had approved the administration's plan for changing the Westland-based program to a residents-only effort in August

Griffin said Monday the task force would "look at broadening the scope of the refined program."

Others at the study session suggested holding a group consultation with the representatives from Wayne and Garden City, the two other paying members of the former Tri-City program, before the formation of a task force.

About 30 people, including Wayne Mayor Patrick Norton, several Westland council members and candidates, representatives from the Wayne-Westland and Livonia school districts and state Rep. Justine Barns, D-Westland, attended the meeting in Bailey Center.

GRIFFIN admitted there was some merit to claims by Tri-City supporters that by limiting the program to Westland residents only, the city would be limiting the quality of the program.

"To have a successful program, you need the participation of oth-

Ann Boolin, representing the Conference of Western Wayne, said a properly run multicommunity program would provide better chances to tap into county and state resources and money.

But council members attending the session said any new program would have to address the issue that forced last summer's changes perceived inequities in who foots the bill for the program.

City officials were upset that Westland contributed more than 60 percent of Tri-City's $73,000 budget last year while only 204 local residents were enrolled among the nearly 500 clients.

Under the previous arrangement. Wayne and Garden City contributed the remaining 40 percent of the program's budget

House explodes self-help road fee bill 2-1

By Tim Richard staff writer

State lawmakers Tuesday dyna mited a key building block in suburbia's attempt to fund new local road construction.

The House of Representatives bombed, 2-1, enabling legislation that would have given counties with Gov. James Blanchard's administrahigh economic growth the power to levy "impact fees" on developers of commercial, industrial and apartment projects

'I'm very disappointed,' said John Grubba, managing director of the Oakland County Road Commission He has been selling the idea since returning from a national convention 112 years ago.

We intend to pursue it. It took six Webb of Hazel Park. times in South Carolina," Grubba

tion, the second-term lawmaker

Why did an essentially self-help bill for Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, Genesee and Kent counties bomb nearly 2-12

Pressure from house builders, polities and lack of enthusiasm from tion seemed to be the answers.

"If Oakland folks don't convince Republicans Democrat Berman began noting few Republicans outside the Oakland delegation supported her House Bill 4722. Here's how area representatives voted

GROUPS BACKING the bill were the Michigan Municipal League and many commercial-industrial devel-

Onposed were the Michigan Association of Homebuilders and many residential real estate firms, whose argument was summed up by Redford's Bennett

They say impact fees will add 1-2 percent to the price of a house. Use the 2 percent figure 'cause that's more likely. That will add $1,600 to the price of an $80,000 home.

About 80 percent of people can't qualify for purchase (of new homes) This will disqualify many prospective buyers. There will be stagnation, less housing, less jobs.

Berman countered it would be better to amortize the fee into a 30-year mortgage than to charge the public

We can't have development without roads," she said. "It (impact fees) isn't a new and off-the-wall idea It's been used elsewhere.

But like many critics of the bill. Berman said in a corridor interview she prefers a statewide gasoline tax increase - a measure Gov. Blanchard opposes

It would be a true user fee. Tourists would be paying it. But we didn't have that option today," she said.

THE BILL, if enacted, would have allowed county road authorities to prepare a five-year plan designating a development district. The elected county board of commissioners would have to approve the fees under an amendment sponsored by Rep. Sparks of Troy

Almost all discussion of the idea had been in terms of industrial, commercial, office and hotel areas where vast amounts of job-related traffic are generated on two-lane county roads.

Fees could have been applied only to new projects, not existing ones.

The Gracious Alternative

Someone you love is growing older and needs just a bit more support than he or she can get in their current living situation. A nursing home isn't the answer. Normal activities like eating and dressing aren't a problem. But you would be happier knowing someone was there to provide gentle encouragement and firm support when needed, in a non-institutional atmosphere.

The answer is The Plymouth Inn, a magnificent residence for seniors who want their independence but need some supervision as well. Consider some of the many advantages:

- · Spacious mini-suites for those who desire extra comfort and privacy.
- Deluxe semi-private accomodations, richly appointed, with private lavatories and showers.

- Easily accessible via 1-96 and 1-275; only 30 minutes from both downtown Detroit and the northern suburbs, including Farmington Hills, Birmingham and West Bloomfield.
- Tranquil landscaped grounds and lovely common areas.
- · Three delicious meals served in our central dining room by a friendly, attentive staff of professionals.
- Extensive, varied social programs and recreational opportunities.
- · Game room, chapel, beauty parlor and lounges, all designed with the special needs of our residents in mind.

The Plymouth Inn welcomes your inspection visit. When you see what we have to offer we think you will agree that

Voters to decide

Tax issues, council on ballot

UESDAY voters in the city of Plymouth and Plymouth Township will be voting on a millage for the Plymouth District

Township voters also will decide the outcome of two other millage requests - one for an outdoor swimming pool, the other for a second township park

City voters also will elect four people to the Plymouth City Commission. The candidates are incumbents Dennis Bila, Mary Childs, James Jabara and Donald Keller: the challengers are Gregory Green. Ronald Loiselle and Jean Morrow. The three receiving the most votes will be elected to four-year terms; the candidate with the fourth highest number of votes will receive a two-year term.

THE LIBRARY BOARD is asking for an increase of 0.4 mill (40 cents per $1,000 state equalized valuation). The library now operates with 0.8 mili (80 cents per $1,000 SEV).

If approved, the 0.4 mill increase would cost the owner of a home worth $100,000 an additional $20 a year.

The ballot issue proposed by resident Jane McCourt seeks up to 2 mills ($2 per $1,000 SEV) for one year to build a swimming pool in Plymouth Township Park, Ann Arbor Trail at McClumpha. That proposal would cost an additional $100 a year for the owner of a $100,000

The third ballot issue, proposed by a group led by Loraine Potochick, seeks 3.5 mills ($3.50 per $1,000 SEV) for two years to buy a 31-acre parcel at Haggerty and Schoolcraft for a township park. Meijer Inc. has a purchase option on the property and wants to build a shopping center there. If the park proposal passes, the cost would be an additional $175 for the owner of a $100,000

THE PARK proposal was primarily motivated by a desire to halt plans for the shopping center and not by a desire for a park.

The Observer believes the park proposal was hastily conceived. Evidence is lacking to establish that there is a need for a 24-acre park in the township or that Schoolcraft-Haggerty is the

In addition, development of the 24 acres would increase the tax base. Using the site as a park would remove the 24 acres from the tax rolls.

We urge residents to vote NO on the park tax. The proposal for the swimming pool also is vague. The logic of 2 mills for one year is unclear. A smaller levy for a longer term may have made more sense.

The Observer has no problem with government building an outdoor swimming pool if residents

LOOKING AT THE field of incumbents. Bila. Jabara and Childs have demonstrated their qualifications by their performance.

Bila has demonstrated leadership as a commissioner and does his homework before showing up for meetings. Bila offers a perspective worth listening to. He has earned re-election.

Childs and Jabara are veterans in city government who know the city well. Both are skillful legislators adept at dealing with the public. Childs especially has strong communication skills. Both build on the city's strong points with their positive approach to leadership.

Jabara, as a developer with projects in town. has conflicts of interest but declares those conflicts and abstains from voting. He should, however, also refrain from discussion and let his development partners do the talking.

To the editor:

In response to Mary K. Williams letter to the editor Oct. 15.

There are a few of us with children attending Allen School that are sympathetic to Mary K. Williams and her battle with the school board over the large classes at Farrand.

My daughter is in first grade at Allen and there are 31 pupils in her class. There are 31 and 29 in the other first grade classes. The principal has asked for support for the teachers of the students in both first and fifth grade, and he has made minimal progress.

We are presently working on a letter to the school board stating our concerns with the enrollment. This problem will not go away, so it is time to begin to think of our children. Are there any other schools in the Plymouth Canton district with class sizes too large? It's time to address this problem.

Tamara Milazzo.

Keep pastoral life in place

To the editor:

You accuse Plymouth residents of apathy in your editorial of Oct. 22.

The good people in my neighborhood have drawn up petitions and attended city commission meetings to prohibit downtown expansion into homes up Ann Arbor Trail to the west. We are given to believe that it was to no avail. We see that a few business leaders have the power to impose their wishes on residents.

People try their hardest to communicate their views, to make it clear that we want our taxes used to enhance our community, to mandate our feelings that we love the smalltown, bucolic flavor of Plymouth. The city commission turns a deaf ear That makes me angry and makes me wish for an entirely new

We are far from apathetic. We care, but we are looking for an entirely different lifestyle than those in city government are creating on our behalf. Certainly there are areas of town that need improvement (Wing at Forest, southeast corner, cinderblock building) but, by and large, I prefer to see development else-

I THINK it is wonderful that Jane McCourt has presented and budgeted plans for a township pool. I hope the city can use it as well. I like the idea of my tax money opening the library on Friday and Sunday and buying varied and updated titles. I wonder why the commission has not considered using some of our dollars on families, a pool and toddler pool, lighted tennis courts.

Police and firefighters call our house constantly for programs that should be provided for in our city budget or county plans. These are things that other cities with our capabilities did long ago with past, well-planned spending.

The summer parks program was one step in the right direction. I am grateful to Marilyn Young for initiating that and thank all involved. Many, many more names tumble through my head as people who give and do and speak for the good of Plymouth. I am sure there are good intentions and good people on the present commission, too. I DO FEEL that they are on a path, full-speed toward expansion of the downtown area, forgetting or placing on a secondary agenda plans for a YMCA, for example, using land around our city. I feel strongly that we will destroy the pastoral nature of Plymouth if we bow to building ter. after new building downtown.

I am not as well informed as I should be to write on city affairs. Even so, I wanted to express my concerns and fears so you might know that most of us care very much. We do feel that most of our much. We do feel that most of our words fall on a new, downtown, must not pass

I, for one, have waited a long time To the editor: for this Nov. 3 election and plan to say my piece in ballot form.

Recently the national organization Neighbor To Neighbor held a meeting in the Plymouth-Livonia area concerning the issue of peace in Central America - specifically the giving of aid to the Contras.

While indicating support for peace, he has not stated his position on the president's upcoming proposal for $270 million dollar aid to the

As a frequent reader of your newspaper I was disappointed at your

Since the organization was formed in this area six weeks ago, over 1,600 handwritten letters have been mailed to Rep. Pursell voicing the opinions of his constituents. This kind of outpouring from this community should not be ignored by the newspaper that specifically represents them.

I will look forward to reading further accounts of their mission in your newspaper, as well as advertisements for their gatherings. Thank you for your time in this mat-

Law's gun bill

State Rep. Gerald Law, R.-Plymouth, a member of House Judiciary Committee, has lent his name as a sponsor of House Bill No. 4531, adopted in the Senate as Senate Bill

The bill would prohibit all local government in the state of Michigan from enacting firearms regulation beyond the level of control provided by existing state laws. Clearly in urban communities around the state existing state handgun regulation is failing to address the problem of handgun violence.

Each community in our state deserves the right to protect its citizens using locally adopted ordinances addressing the particular needs and problems that are threatening the safety of the public in that community.

The language of the bill is so broad that it threatens to deprive local communities of any control over any firearms. The bill states that local units of government may make no law regarding pistols or other firearms that is stricter than state

The Anti-Handgun Association urges Rep. Law to remove his name from this bill and work to keep this bill off the floor of the House.

The problem of handguns and shooting in Detroit and other Southeastern Michigan urban areas continues to grow, and local governments are trying to deal with the problem through local ordinances.

For the state Legislature to remove the only local method of addressing the handgun problem and then criticize local governments' inaction on this problem is hypocritical. AHA believes this is the real issue at hand, not the right to bear arms or any other constitutional is-

Love letters Lighting a Devil's Night fuse

IF YOU DON'T like love letters, turn the page because that's what this is. Sort of It's also about Devil's Night and an anniversary.

Presumably you don't have to be reminded that it's tomorrow's date that has earned the Devil's Night designation, there having been considerable publicity warning of dunderheads who brighten the pre-Halloween sky by going aobut burning down abandoned houses and the like.

On the same date more than three decades ago, Mother Goose and I lit a different fuse. Instead of burning down a home, we started building one. It was the day we were wed.

Some of our closest friends have chuckled over this coincidence through the years and my mate has helped the laughs along by revealing that on the day in question I knocked on her door and said. "They're going to throw the switch at 3 o'clock; is that OK?"

Please understand, the mood was light. The euphoria of romance was heightened by the fact that we were in Las Vegas, having deliberately picked that particular Saturday and site to hear wedding bells

However, then as now, Oct. 30 fell in the middle of the football season. On the "first things first" theory, we were married on schedule, but I did leave a 3 a.m. wake-up call.

Lest you guffaw in error, the reason was that only by pre-dawn departure were we able to drive to Los Angeles and be in our Coliseum seats in time for the kickoff between the Los Angeles Rams and Detroit Lions - with my bride adorned in Honolulu blue and silver and a tiny stuffed lion pinned to her shoulder.

Was it worth it? Of course, the Lions winning a close battle on a fourth down touchdown by Leon

Or do you mean, was the marriage worth it?

When I started using the term Mother Goose in print I don't recall. But I think it was in defiance of guys who speak of their wives as "my old lady," "the war department" or just as "the missus.'

These many years later the memory bank is crammed with recollections, some sad, some joyous. The road has taken many turns, but always together. The stars that once were in her eyes have been replaced by pain, and there are many who wonder why she should suffer when I'm the one who should have been afflicted. There is no answer.

When I started using the term Mother Goose in print I don't recall. But I think it was in defiance of guys who speak of their wives as "my old lady," "the war department" or just as "the missus.

Probably the greatest pride is in the two goslings born of this lady, both of whom are now married adults, and the grandchild generation that has followed. Long after we both are gone. our mark will remain

A wife is a jill-of-all trades, and I'm sure that as the years have rolled by many a hope and dream have been packed away in concealed disappointment like a snapshot album that is never opened. Concern for the family has been foremost. One way or another, the fragile moments have been survived because that has been her strength as wife and mother.

To observe the recent Sweetest Day, I drove Mother Goose past a couple of jewelers' shops and a florist's because she's a mite gimpy and finds walking difficult. But at least doing something nice was in my mind. I'm not a poet and am not much good with conversational bon-bons, but I did find a card that says what's in my heart.

Many other husbands may find this symbolic

"I may not put my love in words too often through the year, And maybe I don't say enough to make my feelings clear; But, even so, I'm sure you know that each day all year through, My greatest happiness in life depends on loving you."

If that doesn't light the Devil's Night fuse again, nothing will.

Cowboys' always there

The leaves were raked and piled, but the best efforts failed to start even a smouldering fire.

"It's too wet," I said Sunday "Nothing can burn in this weather."

I went inside to find out how wrong I could be. My wife told me of the horrible story she had heard on the radio: something had gone wrong at a practice fire in Milford, three volunteer fire fighters had died.

It was stunning news. I have never lived in Milford, but I know it well. Although chambers of commerce boast of the uniqueness of their towns, the Milfords of the world share many traits with the community where I grew up and with many where I have since worked and lived.

ONE OF THOSE common threads is the volunteer fire department. It takes a large city to support a fulltime fire department. Outstate, the people who pump gas, farm crops, tool factories and otherwise perform hard manual labor are the backbone of volunteer fire departments. Statewide, three of every four fire fighters is a volunteer.

As a youngster, we called these guys cowboys because of the way they drove their cars to fires with red lights swirling from their dashes or atop their old Fords and Chevvies. But we said so more with admiration than ridicule. These guys were brave, some would say foolhardy. and they were dependable. When the siren sounded, you knew Del and Frank and Larry would respond immediately and would do what the rest of us would not do - volunteer to fight fires.

Volunteers chafe at the idea that full-time firefighters are professionals. That implies, they believe, that volunteer departments are somehow nonprofessional They volunteer their time, they argue, but their experience makes them as competent a firefighter as anyone.

Nonetheless, it also is true that small towns would be hard pressed to field a full department if they demanded stringent training for each

FOR A STORY, I once went on a training session with volunteer firefighters. We were led inside a smoke-filled cinder block building You could not see more than a foot ahead except for a lurid glow in the basement where the fire had been set. You could not breath except for a mask filled by a life-giving air

On the top floor where the smoke lessened somewhat, we were al lowed to take our masks off. I didn't put mine back on securely and started hacking and coughing as we walked downstairs

The instructor noticed my distress and quickly ushered me out a side door where to my surprise it was bright and sunny. I had thought the whole world was made of gloomy smoke.

I was somewhat embarrassed that I could not complete the drill. But volunteer firefighters waiting their turned rushed to me to see if I was all right. There was no joking, no teasing, no remarks about a green reporter who didn't have the right stuff to be a firefighter.

Instead, they recognized the best you can hope for in a burning building is a tenuous grip on safety. Yet they are willing to do it - voluntari-

It's back to school for student teacher

By Julie Brown staff writer

Nancy Morin is spending plenty of time at Allen Elementary School in Plymouth Township these days.

Morin, a 23-year-old senior at Eastern Michigan University, is doing her student teaching at Allen. It's not the first time she's been at the school, however, Morin was a student at Allen in her younger days.

She's doing her student teaching with Margaret Kidston, a secondgrade teacher. Kidston was Morin's kindergarten teacher during the 1969-70 school year.

Some of the second graders in Kidston's current class have seen the class picture that includes both Kidston and Morin in their younger days. To those students, the 1969-70 school year was a long, long time ago.

"It makes you feel 100 years old,

Morin said with a laugh. Kidston, a Plymouth resident, remembers having Morin in class as a student. She remembers Morin's four brothers and has also, more recently, seen Morin on the EMU campus. Kidston is pursuing her master's degree at EMU

"She has a very fine way of keeping her assessment of the students very current." Morin has a positive attitude and gives the youngsters plenty of encouragement, the veteran teacher said

Morin's favorite part of student teaching is seeing the students succeed and improve.

They just eat up that positive reinforcement

Morin, the daughter of Kenneth and Patricia Lindensmith of Plymouth, grew up in Plymouth. She at tended East and Central middle schools and graduated from Plymouth Canton High School in 1982. Morin went to Schoolcraft College for about a year, taking general classes. She then transferred to

She considered getting a business degree and came close to completing the requirements for that degree. Morin realized that she needed to work at something she would enjoy, so she switched to education.

"I'm just having a terrific time." The Plymouth resident will graduate in December with a bachelor's degree and will be certified to teach kindergarten through eighth grade.

THIS IS Kidston's 24th year teaching in the local school district. She started teaching at Smith Elementary School in Plymouth, following her 1958 graduation from Albion College with a bachelor's degree in educa-

Kidston taught at Smith for three years and then took seven years off to have a family. She was asked by Thomas Workman, who was then the principal at Allen, to come to Allen and teach kindergarten half time.

This is Kidston's 21st year teaching at Allen. Although she has had other student teachers in her classroom, this is the first time a former student of hers has returned as a student teacher.

Kidston, a 1954 Plymouth High School graduate, remembers starting out as a new teacher. Having grown up in Plymouth was helpful for her. She knew what local resources were available and could find people to speak on various subjects to her classes

Safety is essential for trick or treaters

Halloween's a time for hobgoblins, high jinks and happiness. It's important, however, to celebrate Halloween safely.

Local law enforcement officials advise parents to take precautions when sending children out trick or treating. Youngsters should wear light-colored clothing, reflectorized clothing adds an extra measure of

It's a good idea for trick or treaters to carry flashlights. Youngsters shouldn't wear masks that could impair their vision, said Richard Myers, Plymouth police

It's best for children younger than 12 to be accompanied by an adult, he said. For older children, it's best to travel in groups if an adult isn't out with the trick or treaters.

"The old adage there's safety in numbers certainly is true."

Hours established for trick or treating in Plymouth are 5:30 to 8 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 31.

IT'S ALSO important to confine trick or treating to familiar homes and neighborhoods, said Officer David Boljesic of Canton Township's Public Safety Department. Even in familiar neighborhoods, young children shouldn't go out alone Private parties, held in homes, schools, churches or community centers, are a good Halloween entertainment option, Boljesic said. Youngsters who do go trick or treating should stay in well-lit

"We have had very little problem in this area in the past," the Canton officer said.

In Plymouth Township, the hours of 6 to 8 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 31, have been established for trick or treating. Carl Berry, Plymouth Township police chief, agreed it's important for an adult to accompany trick or treaters, particularly for children younger than 12.

A child who chooses to wear a store-bought mask should remove that mask when crossing streets "because it does restrict vision," Berry said. Children need to be particularly careful when crossing

It's a good idea for a young trick or treater to have a paper with family names, address and telephone number pinned to his or her costume or in a pocket, he said.

Local police officials plan beefed-up patrols for Halloween and for Devil's Night, Oct. 30. Devil's Night and Halloween haven't, however. presented major problems for local police in past years.

PLYMOUTH TOWNSHIP has "liquid light" necklaces available for $1 each at the township treasurer's office. The fluorescent green necklaces are designed to make trick or treaters more visible.

Children also need to be careful about eating candy that's suspicious looking.

"Kids should go with their instincts." Plymouth's Myers said. If something looks suspicious, it's best to throw it away.

When trick or treaters return home, parents should check their candy for signs of tampering, local law enforcement officials said. Children shouldn't start eating candy while they're still out trick or

"We're in the age of product tampering anyway," Myers said. Any candy that appears to have been tampered with should be dis-

"If it has been opened, they should dispose of it," Berry said. "In these times, it's wise to do it just to be safe."

It's also best to throw away fruit or homemade candy items from homes where the givers are strangers, Canton's Boljesic said.

Candy screening will be available on Halloween at three local McDonald's restaurants. Screening will be done at:

· McDonald's of Plymouth, 220 W. Ann Arbor Road, from 6 to 10 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 31;

• McDonald's of Canton, 44900 Ford Road, from 7 to 9 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 31;

• McDonald's of Canton, 40241 Michigan Ave., from 7 to 9 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 31.

CHILDREN NEED to be aware of the dangers they face, law enforcement officials agree.

"The parents are the key element in this," Myers said. Parents need to present safety information in a straightforward, non-threaten-

"I think they can cope with it rather well," the Plymouth police chief said.

Canton Township's Boljesic agreed. He has spoken at a number of local elementary schools and has found children capable of handling safety information.

"Kids can grasp quite a bit more than we sometimes give them credit for." Children shouldn't become paranoid, but they do need to understand the dangers they face, Boljesic said.

"It's unfortunate, but it's true." Fire safety is also something to consider when it's time to celebrate Halloween. It's important to choose costumes made of materials that aren't flammable.

Parents can also talk with their children about what to do if a costume does catch fire. Children should "stop, drop and roll" rather than running.

Children aren't the only ones who need to be careful on Halloween; drivers should also be extra careful. A maximum speed limit of 15 miles per hour is recommended in residential areas, Berry said. Drivers need to be careful on all

"Be especially alert for children."

Local police officials plan beefed-up patrols for Halloween and for Devil's Night, Oct. 30. Devil's Night and Halloween haven't, however, presented major problems for local police in past years.

Enforcement actions will have to be taken in cases involving property destruction, Berry said. He doesn't anticipate much trouble in that area.

"The kids in this area are pretty

Parents need to be aware of what their children are doing, Myers said. "We're certainly not against people having fun. We're against people breaking the law."

Learning about teaching

"So that helped a great deal.

Kidston didn't find it difficult to have Morin come into the classroom as a student teacher Teachers look forward and not backward, she said. They're accustomed to accepting people on their own terms as they

"You take a person at their worth at that time." There isn't much time in a busy classroom to make comparisons, Kidston added

Kidston also has taught hundreds of students in the years since Morin was in her classroom. "Your memory kind of dims too on some particulars. THIS YEAR, Kidston's class includes 28 second graders, 19 boys and nine girls. "So it's a very fast-action room.

Kidston said The second graders are busy this year, building on the skills in reading and other areas that they've acquired in first grade. Units on dinoyoungsters

Morin also did her pre-student teaching at Allen Elementary School That took about half a day one day a week and involved more observing and less hands-on work.

Morin decided to return to Allen to do her student teaching She enjoys teaching second grade and would like to teach in the Plymouth-Canton district after her December graduation if a job is available.

Morin wasn't particularly nervous on the first day of school this year. she was curious to see how things would go

'And it's worked out really well Everything really worked out well."

Coming into a classroom at the start of a school year is easier for a student teacher than coming in at the start of the second semester. Kidston said. By the start of the second semester, so many things are already established in a classroom.

MORIN WAS well-prepared to do saurs, amphibians and reptiles are her student teaching. Kidston added. particular favorites among the The veteran teacher remembers signing her own contract after her college graduation and hopes Morin will be able to teach in the Plymouth-Canton district.

"She should not be a carbon copy or a duplicate of me. She's quite creative in her own right.

In addition to doing her student teaching. Morin works as a waitress at the Bill Knapp's Restaurant on Ann Arbor Road in Plymouth Planning her May 1988 wedding is also keeping her busy.

Morin has difficulty calling Kidston by her first name. She still uses Mrs. Kidston.

Kidston uses "Miss Morin" when peaking to Morin in front of the students, but uses "Nancy" at other times. The teachers try to avoid using their first names in front of the students

'It's different but it's fun " the student teacher said of her classroom responsibilities. We have a great time.

church bulletin

St. Matthew Lutheran Church in Westland recently had a special anniversary service and celebration for Corinne Lehman Lehman is celebrating her 20th anniversary as organist and choir director.

A reception followed the 8 am

With the help of Lehman, the music program at St. Matthew Lutheran has grown in her 20-year tenure. When she started, Lehman directed four choirs and played the organ at all of the worship services.

The Senior Choir has grown from 12 to 40 voices. There are also five Bell Choirs directed by Shirley Luckwald and two Christian Day School Choirs directed by Esther Schilicker, Barb Hinck and Chris Behmiander. There is also a chamber choir directed by Paul Lehman. son of Corrine Lehman

Lehman organized the first Christmas concert in 1968, which has since become an annual event. She's also been involved in taking the choir to Venoy Continuing Care Nursing Home each December

Lehman started training on the organ when she was 8 She received her training from Erich Von Behren. who is the minister of music at St. Lorenz Lutheran Church in Franken-

The Sunday worship service included the singing of Lehman's favorite hymns, "We Thank You, God. For Music," "Praise to The Lord." "My Hope is Built on Nothing Less." "Light High the Cross." "Beautiful Savior," and "O, Jesus, Grant Me Hope and Comfort."

There is really no telling where the stock market will be by the time this column is printed Nor can I forecast the precise nature of events in the Persian Gulf However, one thing will more than likely remain the same. Whether the disasters are on Wall Street or on the high seas we will no doubt still be living in what one of my friends calls a "no-fault world '

Even as children we were citizens of this no-fault world. "I didn't mean it," "I couldn't help it," or "She made me do it" were only some of our variations of the no-fault theme. Strictly speaking, no-fault is translated to mean "not my fault." That leaves an opening for blaming someone else or chalking up the incident at hand to something like natural causes.

We have all heard how someone's little brother or sister "made me do it," and more than likely we have heard the equally believable explanation, "It fell off the table all by itself." Even in adult life no-fault is wonderful because it avoids the pain of personal responsibility and the aggravation of behavioral change.

In the adult world this seems to work well for tobacco companies who want us to believe that the link between cigarettes and cancer is purely coincidental. It is equally handy for unions who want to blame bad administration for the ills of a corporation or for administrators who prefer to place the blame at the feet of the union. The no-fault approach lets shoddy teaching off the hook as easily as it offers lazy students an excuse for the last three

NO-FAULT MENTALITY is glibly agile at ignoring connections. Of course the national deficit has nothing to do with the market falling off! And the billions of dollars poured into the building of more weaponry has no connection with the deficit being what it is. Our problems in the Persian Gulf are totally separate from the image we set up for ourselves when the Shah was running Iran to our benefit. And, yes, the Iranians play the no-fault game as well as we do For them we are the ball guys. But that is the way it is with no-fault - the perspective is so different depending on which side of the fence encloses your back yard.

Unfortunately the adult world of no-fault offers much more frightening consequences than the child's version. We are no longer talking missing cookies and broken windows. We are talking missing people and shattered lives. And wherever no-fault exists motivation for change usually does not. Ask the widows of Nicaragua or El Salvador. Listen te the human tragedies from Vietnam Witness the senior citizens of out own streets whose needs take a back seat to other priorities of a high-tech

Connections between the things I like to do and someone else's loss are never popular. Those kinds of admissions carry a challenge to uncomfortable change. Such awareness may even call us to own our mistakes - not an easy thing for people who grew up believing that the vase fell off the table by itself.

Whether the issue is a tumbling stock market, an attack by a hostile nation, or something as relatively innocent as junk along the freeways; things do not happen by themselves. We are all a part of the connection, and the cry that it is all our brother's fault is just as ridiculous in the adult world as it was when the cookies disappeared and we were 5.

Greenfield Construction tunnels to success

By Philip A. Sherman staff writer

Angelo DiPonio is able to look back on 50 years in the construction business because his mother packed him good lunches.

Thursday, October 29, 1987 O&E

She used to pack me such good lunches, and I had so much respect for her that I knew I couldn't let her down," DiPonio said. That's when he was in his late teens, digging basements by hand for contractors.

That was 50 years ago this year. Today, from behind a semicircular desk in a paneled office on Merriman in Livonia, DiPonio, 70, still steers his business. This year the Greenfield Construction Co., the name of DiPonio's enterprise, should gross $40 million, according to vice president Roger Van Omen.

Greenfield Construction specializes in tunnels - tunnels for people to walk through, tunnels for refuse to flow through on its way to treatment plants, tunnels for run-off water to travel through so it can get to a river DiPonio has five tunnels under way in Houston, totaling 11 miles of boring through sand, silt and bedrock

Van Omen estimates they've built 120 miles of tunnel over the years, with most projects averaging two miles. A two-mile tunnel doesn't sound like any big deal until DiPonio or Van Omen trot out facts on tunnel

Don't try this at home, but to start a tunnel, dig a vertical shaft. Van Omen said most are 30 to 80 feet deep and serve as the only access to the tunnel. Through that shaft go workers and machinery that either will grind horizontally through bedrock or ooze through silt, enemy of tunnelers. Silt is the stuff that hangs between clay and sand with a grain size large enough to absorb and trap water.

SILT IS dangerous. Van Omen said

it's called "unexpected ground." meaning core drillings didn't indicate its presence. Recently in Houston, Van Omen said a team was drilling and hit a wet sandy vein when they were expecting firm drilling. 'At that depth it runs like water. Before the operator could do anything it was pouring in around him and his machine. He bailed out and the tunnel filled up with sand for 600 feet." The operator made it safely out of the tunnel.

But they aren't always that lucky. In 1971, Greenfield Construction was one of four companies working on an intake tunnel that would draw water from the lake just north of Port Huron to a treatment plan in De-

Van Omen said the tunnel went five miles under Lake Huron. As his crews were lining the tunnel close to shore, Van Omen said "another contractor drilled a hole to our tunnel while we were ventilating.

Van Omen said methane gas which is highly combustible pulled into our tunnel. The other contractor did some welding and the sparks caused an explosion. The force was like being in a gun barrel without a slug. Our people were propelled down the tunnel." Van Omen said about 21 of his workers died in the blast along with some city inspectors working on the project. The tunnel was completed, however, and Van Omen estimates it's been in use for about 15 years.

THAT'S THE risk end. In general, as tunnels are dug they're lined with timber and reinforced every four feet until the underground avenue is completed. It's then filled with a liner, usually concrete.

By the time it's done, Van Omen said the average tunnel will have a diameter of about 100 inches - just under 81/2 feet. Partially due to the fact that tunneling is an extremely high risk business, Van Omen said your basic medium tunnel going through relatively soft ground will cost approximately $5 million per

Greenfield Construction also does above-ground construction, such as the facelift of the Detroit Zoo entrance at a cost of $12 million, Van Omen said. They're also lowering the Lodge freeway so it will fit under the new, enlarged version of Cobo Hall's banquet, campaign and meeting facilities.

The company DiPonio built has 300 employees and is involved in about $80 million in construction. Van Omen said. It's survived and prospered because a few simple rules are carved in bedrock

Van Omen said Greenfield Construction can either make or lose millions by the way it judges jobs. The key is not to get two or three bad jobs in a row," he said. That means careful up-front analysis of the job prior to a work agreement.

It also means being "an organized guy," in DiPonio's words. "I keep schedules, and I found out a long time ago what makes a person fail giving up. I've never given up on a project. We have a reputation of being respected in our industry.

'I also had the good fortune of having to learn this business from the ground floor up by physically being involved," DiPonio said, noting he worked in the same business with his father. Part of their work has involved building houses and when Di-Ponio put an employee in charge of the project he told him:

'If you want to learn to be a house builder, go to the site, pick up trash, pick up lumber and find out how carpenters build houses. If you don't know how to do something, you can't tell another what to do

Angelo DiPonio celebrates 50 years in the construction indus-

Schostak: develop, market, manage

By E. Dale Lee special writer

Robert, David and Mark Schostak all sit in company chairs today, but as children their father says they all had a misconception about the family business

"They thought we were in the sign business because our company's signs were all over the place," said Jerome Schostak, chairman of Schostak Brothers & Co., the Southfield-based commercial and industrial real estate broker, developer and manager celebrating its 65th year in

"Other companies made mistakes," Schostak said. "We didn't run to the Sun Belt to get burned. We stayed here in the Snow Belt . . . and we're doing well."

Schostak prefers ownership to producing a development for someone else.

"I-look at real estate as a product, and we build to own," he said. "We take care of the development so it stays in good shape and appreciates (in value).

"By essentially building to keep, we're producing a stable of mature developments for revenue generation and equity. For us, development for our uses is a good investment."

Schostak Brothers also has an edge on competitors because of competitors' inability to sustain shortterm losses for long-term gains.

"As small business owners, we'll bend over backwards to bring back a quality employee, but I object to a government mandate telling me I have to bring somebody back," said David Willett, president of the Lansing-based Small Business Association of Michigan and publisher of the Associated Newspapers, a group of weeklies in Wayne.

'How do you operate a small business while that employee's gone? In small business, every employee is critical," Willett said. "Being against parental leave is kind of like being against motherhood.

"But look at it this way: When you're riding instead of walking, you create a burden. Somebody has to pay for that, and if parental leave is government imposed, the consumer ultimately will bear the

I just want to know where this bank of replacement workers will come from. Who will take a job knowing that he or she will be on the street soon?

Dick Francis, a former SBAM president and now director of merchant banking for Carleton Ward & Co., a Bingham Farms-based mergers and acquisitions firm, said small business "could be destroyed if this becomes law.

"Small business has a history of accommodation of quality workers; if people do their jobs well, we're all too happy to take them back," he said.

"But I oppose mandated parental leave vigorously because of the economic burden it would place on small business.

"The proposal is too rigid, would add to the employment rolls and could open up companies to wrongful discharge lawsuits. Small business has done its job by being flexible and responding individually to employees' needs."

JUDITH TREPECK, managing partner of Birmingham-based Grey & Trepeck, a financial services company, calls the parental leave concept "absurd.

employees the opportunity to take parental leave. I resent the government getting involved here. Business owners should be able to handle implementation by themselves.

Trepeck said she would support parental leave if its limit were "six or eight weeks.

Workers can take time off at their leisure, knowing their jobs will be waiting," Holforty said. "It will be hard for employers to find competent replacements willing to accept uncertain conditions of employment, unemployment benefits surely will escalate and valuable time will be lost training workers who probably won't stay very long."

HOLFORTY doesn't endorse parental leave. She said it would give undue protection to marginal employees.

Employers always will take a quality worker back, no matter what, but this proposal puts employers at the mercy of employees because the job must be waiting," she said. bright idea does not a profit make

Remember the "new" Coke? When the new formula was uncorked in April 1985, the Coca-Cola Co thought it knew what it was doing to get where it wanted to be as an organization. But it failed miserably with the introduction of its new product.

One of Coca-Cola's biggest planning-related mistakes was that it did not stop to consider the psychological impact of meddling with a 99-year-old soft drink After, all Coca-Cola ranks right up there with motherhood, apple pie, and baseball

The second mistake was that Coca-Cola relied too much on the results of taste tests conducted among 190,000 consumers, the majority of whom claimed to prefer the new formula.

WHILE IMPORTANT when evaluating the appeal of new foods and beverages, taste testing represents just one element of the marketing mix besides such factors as pricing, packaging and promotion.

As a result, the effects of these other marketing mix elements, once implemented, can convince testers that even glue tastes great. In the "new" Coke case, it appears as though the company was more interested in putting the opportunity before the plan - and as a result the opportunity turned out to be a wrong one to act upon. Rather than planning their work and then working their plan, Coca-Cola worked the opportunity, and it didn't work out right.

A LESSER known but equally devastating example of improper planning relates to the scheme of two investors to create a new advertising medium known as On-Line Media Inc. To take advantage of supermarket shoppers trapped in checkout lines, the company planned to mount closed-circuit television monitors over cash registers and play 612-minute reels of silent commercials.

The purpose was to shift the demand from network television advertising to On-Line media adver-

The original concept may have been a good one, but it was littered with bungled attempts by the principals to do too much too fast without any concrete plan to guide their efforts. The resulting losses speak for themselves; over a three-year period. On-Line went from an $18.7 million enterprise to one worth just over $30,000

THE TWO principal investors left in the rubble of On-Line remain optimistic even today even though they don't speak to

One of the investors is now interested in pursuing the marketability of coat hangers that adjust to fit different-sized men's suits; the other is considering several alternatives. True entrepreneurs, but truly questionable if they allow past history regarding their lack of planning skills to repeat itself.

Prosperity demands extreme cars

The last known assault on the alltime pole-sitting record was made in the spring of 1960 by a team from Royal Oak Dondero High School. who attempted to remain parked in the same spot at the Totem Pole Drive-In for 18 hours without getting

The feat demanded ordering a new Big Chief burger every 20 minutes or so to comply with the unwritten criteria used for eviction or loitering charges by management Managers, of course, were under the delusion they were running a restaurant rather than providing the southernmost anchor point of the Woodward cruising strip. Nobody knew exactly who held the existing polesitting record, but it was rumored to be a team from Highland Park. which was evicted in mid-afternoon after the security guard started checking the Cokes for melted ice.

But even a kid from Woodward Avenue, where cruising had once reached this state of finesse, has to be impressed by Friday night in Goteborg, a town in Sweden that is soul sister to Flint, but where they make Volvos instead of Buicks. Swedish scenery is, in fact, much like northern Michigan, which makes it the last place someone from, say, Sault Ste. Marie would care to go for a break. But the scenery was only the beginning. Nearing Goteborg recently, we passed a 1953 Cadillac convertible on the way into town the first hint we were entering an automotive Brigadoon. Lost in the 1950s. Not just the 1950s, but borrow-mama's-car, cruising-Woodward 1950s, right in the home of the passive airbag and Joan Claybrook's favorite car

Later that hight we stood outside our hotel and gaped at the slow procession of American chrome coming down the main drag 57 Chryslers. portholed Buicks, Pontiac GTOs Big, old American cars with fins and radios with tubes

THEN COMES this Buick Wildeat convertible, a truly monstrous machine, driven by a Swedish kid who somehow had mastered the classic Totem Pole slouch: left hand out the window holding onto the door, right hand on the wheel forehead even with the top of the wheel. A near 10: point slouch. And he's got three girls in the back seat, all looking straight ahead, while his buddy is beating time on the passenger-side door to Chuck Berry

It turns out that cruising in big. old American cars is a genuine phe nomenon in Sweden today. Some of the cars can be traced back to leavings of American servicemen stationed in Europe Others are scrounged in the United States and imported in any case, they are expensive, difficult to maintain and scarce - the ideal foundations of a

In some ways, it's a parallel to the recurring bouts of nostalgia middleaged Americans sometimes succumb to in the form of joining hot-rod clubs or maybe buying one of the minor-league collectible cars from the

But in Sweden, this cruising is an eerie kind of nostalgia about an era that never was, at least not around downtown Trollhattan It's some wistful thinking about the American Dream, with Swedish youth looking for a zany contrast to the common sense that permeates Swedish life and politics. There are some parallels to today's Sweden and the Amer- editor of Popular Science.

and cruising Stable periods in the economy and subsequent boredon seem to beget excesses in behavior

The irony is that today's Swedish teenagers still understand the joke the craziness American auto de signers in the late 1950s managed to express with some of the most outra geous industrial design that ever rolled down the road From the dis tance of a couple of decades, with car designers settled in a pseudo modern rut the wild excesses of the

Given this premise, that economic success begets tailfins, one could ar gue that Japan is ripe for a hanker ing to own cars with bumps on the fenders. In fact, Japanese collectors are moving into the US nostaigle market as well, going after 1958 Imperials as if they were Manhattan office buildings. But, unfortunately the fin cars going to Japan are likel to end up in some collector's ware house. It's tough to imagine a Japa nese businessman mastering the To

E FELL IN LOVE at 13, and in the next eight years, adolescent fascination blossomed into a serious commitment. David Jacobson, 21, who plays the title role of Eugene Morris Jerome in "Biloxi Blues" at the Birmingham Theatre, was smitten with acting before he made his debut in the eighthgrade play. "I can remember sitting behind the curtain opening night realizing that's what I wanted to do,"

He experienced a similar reaction a few years later when he first saw 'Biloxi Blues" the third night it played in New York. It was love at first sight but not for the role of Eugene, author Neil Simon's alter ego.

"I fell in love with Arnold," Jacobson said. "I knew I wanted to play Arnold someday. I like Eugene but I loved Arnold."

He played Arnold last year with the national touring company of "Biloxi Blues." At the same time, he was the understudy for the role of Eugene.

"I saw myself as Arnold. I developed Arnold and Eugene side by side. But I loved Arnold so much and I was trying so hard for him, I didn't have as much fun,"Jacobson said.

"THEY'RE TWO different sides of me. Arnold is stronger while Eugene wants to be a pleaser. He wants to be liked. They're opposite sides of the same coin.

Playing the relaxed Eugene instead of the intense, highly principled Arnold has its benefits. "I'm very happy to be playing Eugene I've loosened up on stage, instead of pushing every minute to give a good performance.

As a teenager fascinated by theater, Jacobson would stay with his father in New York City, managing to see three plays a weekend. Afterward, he'd make his way backstage to speak with the actors.

As an undergraduate drama student at New York University's Tisch School of the Arts for two years, he helped start the university's theater company, the Spectrum Group. He's participated in Circle in the Square.

'I wasn't auditioning. I wanted to concentrate on my training." Jacobson said. While signing up for his junior-year classes, he was directed by a friend to a casting director who was visiting the school. " I sat down and talked with him. I felt we connected. They called me back four times. It was for a movie. School was just starting and I said to them: 'I'm going to lose a lot of money unless you make your decision.' And they said, 'You have it.'

David Jacobson is Eugene Morris Jerome, an aspiring writer and World War II Army trainee, in the comedy hit "Biloxi Blues" at the Birmingham Theatre. He plays a character who is, in reality, a young Neil Simon, in the second play in Simon's poignant and comic autobiographical trilogy. Action takes place in and around an Army barracks in Biloxi, Miss., and in Gulfport. "Biloxi Blues" continues a nine-week run through Sunday, Dec. 20, at the Birmingham Theatre.

"Biloxi Blues" is the second play in Simon's autobiographical trilogy. We find Eugene Morris Jerome, very ably played by David Jacobson, far from Brighton Beach and the 1930s Depression. We meet the budding writer on a train headed for basic training in the deep South. Eugene is carrying a notebook and scribbling about his fellow soldiers aboard the train, and we follow his growth from

Lawmakers wrestle with auto tests

AP - One of the Michigan Legislature's least favorite programs, auto emissions testing in the Detroit area, is up for renewal or an early death in the state Senate.

And so far, the threat of federal penalties is keeping the program hanging on by a thread

The chamber voted last Thursday to extend the anti-pollution program for another year. But one lawmaker said he may continue his campaign to kill it this year despite threatened federal penalties that could block new industrial construction in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties.

"There may be a second chance" to dump the testing program when a budget bill to finance it is considered, said Sen. Rudy Nichols, R-Waterford.

"A lot of legislators aren't that concerned because it doesn't affect their districts."

Another senator, however, said elimination of the program would almost certainly result in federal penalties, which could block planned factory construction in Ecorse, Detroit and Auburn Hills and cost thousands of jobs.

Sen. Christopher Dingell, D-Southgate, said the state could suffer the loss of highway, sewage treat-ment and air and water pollution control money. And he said the federal Environmental Protection Agency is required to impose the sanctions if Michigan doesn't continue the testing program.

On an 18-15 vote, the Senate approved an amendment to continue the testing program until Dec. 31, 1988. The original bill, sponsored by Nichols, sought to restore the original expiration date of Dec. 31 this

Attorney General Frank Kelley had ruled that the original expiration date had been improperly drafted, and struck it down.

Dingell tried to get the bill sent back to committee, and Sen. William Faust, D-Westland, sponsored the amendment to extend the program for a year. The Senate will have another chance to alter the bill next

Under the 1980 testing program, motorists in the three-county area must have yearly tailpipe inspections - and correct defective ex-- before they can buy license plates. The program was ordered because the area violated federal Clean Air Act guidelines for certain

"I don't think it is helping with the health of the people of southeast Michigan," said Sen. Richard Fessier, R-Commerce. "Let's eliminate it - let's get rid of it. It's time this Legislature stood up to the federal government and said our program has no validity," he

The resolution (SJ Res 194) was a much diluted version of an attempt to invoke the War Powers Act in response to the policy. That would have brought American forces home from the gulf after 90 days unless Congress voted to extend their duty

As passed and sent to the House the watered-down measure requires President Reagan to report on his policy to Congress within 30 days. After another 30 days Congress would vote on the policy

When you buy holiday cards from a organization that struggles against a disease or a social problem, you become a part of that struggle.

Buying a charitable card puts you in the fight against asthma, diabetes, cancer or arthritis, to name just a few. Or you help the fight against alcoholism and drugs or you support attempts to improve the lot of disturbed kids, youngsters with learning problems or those in a hospital.

A charitable card does double duty. It's enveloped with love and sealed with warm wishes for holidays that are merry. It carries the additional message that you care enough to want to make the world a little brighter.

We printed as many cards today as we could get on in one page. Other cards will be published as space permits.

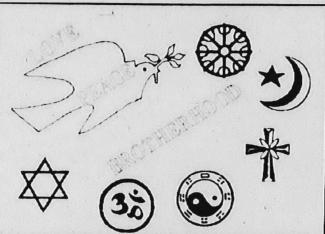

Duplicate cards from charitable organizations are on display in books in the Observer & Eccentric offices. Buyers may ask for the books during regular office hours and peruse them at leisure to make their selection. It's a long-standing O&E tradition.

Another tradition is Holiday Card Sale Day, a joint venture between The Birmingham Eccentric and The Community House. The non-profit organizations provide the cards and a salesman. The Community House provides tables for display and plenty of time to select cards. Holiday Card Sale Day runs from 10

What is an INTRAOCULAR LENS?

An intraocular lens is a small, chemically inert piece of plastic which is surgically implanted inside the eye to restore vision once a cataract has been removed.

Today, nearly every patient also has an IOL implanted Once it is implanted, the lens is permanent. OLs can be implanted in patients of all ages, however cataract surgery is primarily a procedure that is performed on persons 55 years old and

The tiny highly polished plastic IOL measures only 6mm (14") in diameter and has two loops off the side which helps the surgeon affix the proper placement of the IOL in its permanent position

Prior to surgery, an ultrasound instrument known as an 'A-scan' measures the eye to determine the correct power to make the IOL With the correct power lens, many cataract patients enjoy the freedom of limited eyeglass use or low powered glasses following their surgery

For more information on intraocular lens, or other eye care information, please contact The Coburn Clinic

Years ago, visual rehabilitation following cataract surgery could only be accomplished by using thick cataract glasses or a contact lens. If a cataract was removed from only one eye, those thick glasses created an optical imbalance between the two eyes If a contact lens was selected it usually was ineffective since it could not compensate for the increased astigmatism that frequently followed in early cataract surgery. House 65 speed bill contains 'ticket tax'

A House-passed 65 mph freeway speed limit bill faces an uncertain future in the Michigan Senate becouse it contains the controversial $5"ticket tax"

""It makes no sense to link the number of tickets to the number of police officers," objected Rep. M.L. Mickey Knight, R. Muskegon.

He echoed arguments of Republican senators who refused to adopt Gov. James J. Blanchard's proposed $5 surcharge on all tickets for moving violations as a method of raising revenue to hire more state police troopers.

BUT A WEARY majority of the House, which has voted on various forms of the bill six times, was eager Tuesday to get the issue out of the way.

The bill was adopted 72-34 and sent back to the Senate for concurrence on the ticket tax

Area representatives supporting it were Democrats Justine Barns of Westland, James Kosteva of Canton and Wilfred Webb of Hazel Park, and Republicans Lyn Bankes of Livonia, W.V. Brotherton of Farmington, Mat Dunaskiss of Lake Orion, David Honigman of West Bloomfield, Gerald Law of Plymouth Township, Judith Miller of Birmingham and Gordon Sparks of Troy.

Opposed were Democrats John Bennett of Redford and Maxine Berman of Southfield, neither of whom spoke during floor debate. Absent was William Keith, D-Garden City.

THE BILL was repaired from last week, when metropolitan area lawmakers charged it discriminated against their areas in the areas of penalty points.

"The compromise will set the same penalties for driving over the speed limit regardless of whether the speed limit is 55 or 65," said Democratic floor leader Lewis Dodak of Montrose.

The new schedule of violations,

- 81-85, three points, $40
- 86 and up, four points, $50

The higher speed limit will apply to only 720 miles of rural interstate freeways of Michign's 1,700 miles of limited access highways. Dodak said. Trucks and buses still will be lim-

THE "TICKET TAX" is expected to yield $6 million = 1.2 million tickets issued in 1986 times $5 each.

The revenue will go into a special highway safety fund, to be doled out by a small group of state officials rather than the Legislature.

That irritated Rep. John Maynard, D-St. Clair Shores, who told fellow lawmakers, "You take the heat (for the tax), and they take the glory (spending the money)."

Contra opposition

Group pressures Pursell

By Mary Rodrique staff writer

Continued U.S. aid for Nicaraguan contra rebels may be in limbo in Washington, but the issue is stirring passion closer to home.

A grass roots effort to convince legislators of constituent support for the Central American peace initiative and opposition to further contra aid has signalled out U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, to get its message across.

"In the upcoming vote, we want Congressman Pursell to represent the majority of Americans who oppose further aid to the contras," said Plymouth Neighbor to Neighbor organizer Caren Gardner.

She noted that the most recent Harris poll pegged 68 percent of American people opposed to continued aid for the contras. Gardner characterized the contra rebels as "a U.S. financed army plagued by divided leadership and an atrocious record of human rights violations."

Fifty Neighbor to Neighbor supporters met last week in Livonia at Newburgh United Methodist Church to discuss strategy and further action. Friday a group representative met privately with Pursell.

While Pursell has publicly stated support for the Central American peace plan and hopes for more positive relations in the region, Gardner claims he has not responded to hundreds of personal handwritten letters from Plymouth and Livonia voters. Hundreds of additional letters have come from Jackson and surrounding towns within Pursell's district the said.

"We have responded to every letter we have received," countered Gary Cates, based in the congressman's Ann Arbor district office. Cates noted that the Reagan Administration has not formally requested a vote for aid.

Costa Rican President Oscar Arias Sanchez for his 10 point peace plan is the latest nail in the coffin for more contra aid, according to other insid-

A Washington based congressional aide said the chairman of the House foreign affairs committee (U.S. Rep. Dante Fasell, a Florida Democrat and contra aid supporter) believes the aid package is in such bad shape now that it would be soundly defeat-

"There is a peace treaty — a cease fire — that ends Nov 7. Reagan won't ask (for more aid) until after the cease fire, that would look bad. But (the vote will come) before Thanksgiving, that's my best guess," said Tom Joyce, press secretary to Congressman William Ford, D-Taylor.

Joyce said Ford has 'no role in'the foreign affairs committee. He's just one of 435 members of Congress. And he's (voted) consistently against (contra aid) as well." Ford's district includes Westland, Garden City, Canton Township and southern Livo-

U.S. Rep. Sander Levin, a Southfield Democrat whose district includes Redford Township, was unavailable for comment. Levin has voted against contra aid.

Levin aide Noan Gelfond said the latest appropriation for the Nicaraguan rebels — $100 million — expired in September. The administration will ask for $270 million in new support.

Andy Fisk, a People to People spokesman, said the group decided to concentrate on Pursell because "there is going to be intense pressure from the administration on this vote and we want to make sure that we have the swing votes sound."

He acknowledged that Pursell endorsed the Arias peace plan early this year and that the congressman voted for a moratorium on the contra aid package last March.

"When the call from the president comes, we want to make sure that Pursell will say I'm going to vote no because I have 1,700 letters on my desk from constituents."

People to People has also targeted U.S. Rep. Paul Henry, a 5th district Republican from the Grand Rapids area. Nationally, the organization has members in eight states targeting a handful of representatives and senators believed to be key swing votes necessary for a sound defeat on contra aid.

Canton girls breeze past WLAA competition

By Dan O'Mears staff writer

Plymouth Canton was favored to win its first Western Lakes girls cross country championship Tuesday, and the Chiefs certainly lived up to pre-meet expectations.

Canton placed five runners among the top 19 finishers and won the meet going away. The Chiefs compiled a 52-point team score and bettered runner-up Farmington by 34 points.

"I knew if we ran as well as we could, we were going to win the meet today," Canton coach George Przygodski said. "Everybody was just ready, hungry and ran well."

Walled Lake Central's Colleen Yuhn took individual honors with a 19:32 time, but the Canton parade began with Lori Penland, who was second in 20:17. Of the top 10, three were Chiefs, with Lynda Schendel taking sixth place (20:35) and Cindy Spessard ninth (20:49).

Canton's top five crossed the line within 1:18 of each other. Sherry Figurski was 16th (21:33) and Adrienne

George Przygodski Canton girls coach

THE LATTER played an important role, filling in for teammate Cathy McCabe, who was ill and unable to compete. Garrow's performance was a reflection of the depth the Chiefs have, Przygodski said.

Our practices are so competitive because of that," he said. "It's our depth that pulls and pushes us, and that's probably one of the keys to our success.

"When we work hard, it's very competitive," he added. "I tell the kids to run easy, and I might as well be talking to the wall. They don't go easy on each other. The Chiefs retained their competitive edge throughout the season, pointing for the league meet and Saturday's regional. Along the way, Canton won the Western Division with a 5-0 record and won all nine dual meets.

'I'm just really happy for the kids," Przygodski said. "The season gets a little bit long, but when you have something like this to work toward suddenly the season gets short again

AND THIS year's title might not be a one-time thing. The Chiefs could be back a year from now to defend their crown since six of their top eight runners will return for the

"I think we'll be up there again," Przygodski said. "We'll have as good a nucleus as anybody coming back."

Farmington, the Lakes Division champion, was led by fifth-place Bonnie Stecker and No. 10 Amy Trunk, but the Falcons couldn't match the overall strength of their Western Division counterpart.

We mixed it up a little better. Farmington coach John Barrett said, referring to his team's battle with Canton at the Redford Union Invita-

Livonia Stevenson, spurred on by Karen Kuphal (seventh), Jennifer Daniel (12th) and Carrie Creehan. (13th), finished fourth behind Walled Lake Central. Plymouth Salem was fifth as Jenny Sample took 11th place and Kim Mishler 18th.

Stevenson, 16-0-2, will face a decent Southfield team in the regional final at 2 p.m. Saturday in Brighton. The Blue Jays, 16-2-1 following a 3-0 win Wednesday over Trenton, knocked off Catholic Central in the district final.

Stevenson junior Pete Galea scored the winning goal with only 2:33 to play, driving the ball home with a header. On a play in front of the Salem net, Mel Karfis hit the ball first, and the rebound came back to Galea for the deciding score.

Salem, Canton conclude season with grid rivalry

By Dan O'Meara staff writer

Plymouth Salem set out eight weeks ago to make the 1987 football season a watershed year.

Now the Rocks, who were 3-6 the last three years, are one game from a 6-3 finish and turning that record completely around

The only team standing in Salem's way is cross-campus foe Plymouth Canton, which has not beaten the Rocks in four previous meetings but hopes to stop the Rocks from accomplishing their goal.

The teams close out the season at win over Farmington Saturday. 7:30 p.m. Friday at Centennial Educational Park in a game between natural rivals due to the proximity of the schools.

"EVERYBODY says he's too slow and can't run," Moshimer said. "All he does is run and pile up yards. So if people let him run, we're willing to let him run.

Khoenle knows the Chiefs will have their hands full trying to keep the Salem horses in the corral.

"The wishbone is hard to defense, because there aren't many teams that run it anymore, for one thing," he said. "It's a big challenge, because you have to defend a broad front and can't have many break-

Canton's offense has struggled for much of the season. Things might have been different for the Chiefs, who played a lot of close games, had they been able to take advantage of more scoring opportunities.

"In all the close games we lost, we had a chance to score and win them," Khoenle said. "We just don't seem to be able to kick it in when we have to.

"IT CONCERNS you in a game like this, because if a team that runs the wishbone gets ahead they can run the ball and grind it out.

"Of course, we'd like to get ahead of them and make them do things they don't like to do," he added.

Salem has shown it can throw the ball when it needs to, but defense has been Canton's strong point and is responsible for the Chiefs playing so many teams tough.

Ocelots avenge loss in tourney

A measure of revenge was all Schoolcraft College's volleyball team needed to get mentally ready for the invitational tournament it hosted Saturday.

The Lady Ocelots accomplished their goal, avenging an earlier loss this season to Southwestern Michigan Community College and, in so doing, capturing the tournament.

SC and Southwestern met in the finals, and the Lady Ocelots proved very accomodating hosts. They spotted their foes an 8-1 lead in the first game of their best-of-three match and an 8-0 advantage in the second. Both times SC rallied, however, to win 15-13, 15-11.

The victory over Southwestern in the final capped a perfect tournament for the Lady Ocelots. All told, they played 10 games and won them

SC advanced to the finals by beating University of Michigan-Dearborn 15-6, 15-8 in the semifinals. In pool volleyball

play, the Lady Ocelots whipped Henry Ford CC 15-8, 15-2; Madonna College 15-4, 15-7; and Lansing CC 15-1.

But it was the win over Southwestern, which entered the tourney ranked fifth in the NJCAA, that was most satisfying. SC, No. 5 in the NJCAA, should now jump up a spot. Eastern Arizona CC is No. 1, followed by Mesa (Ariz.) CC and Belleview (Ill.) CC.

Once again, Jill Ehlert was the leading force behind the Lady Ocelot triumph. The sophomore outside hitter collected 38 kills in 61 attacks with just three errors (.574 kill average), two solo blocks and four block assists, and 37 digs.

But Ehlert got lots of help, particularly from Tina Osantowski (22 kills in 51 attacks), Nikki Stubbs (16 kills in 46 attacks, 59 kill assists in 132 attempts) and Chris Paciero (eight service aces).

ON TUESDAY, SC kept its momentum going as it rolled over the University of Windsor 15-7, 15-5, 15-5 at SC. The victory raised the Lady Ocelots' record to 30-7 overall; they are 21-3 against junior college Ehlert again sparkled with 13 kills in 23 attacks without an error (.535 kill average). She also had two solo blocks and 17 digs.

Stubbs contributed five kills in 10 attacks (one error), 13 kill assists and one block assist, while Paciero had five kills in 16 attacks (three errors), 10 kill assists and two service aces. Marla Evans chipped in with five kills in 14 attacks (two errors) and nine digs,

Chiefs win title outright; Rocks whip Farmington

Plymouth Canton clinched its third straight Western Division championship by trouncing Livonia Franklin 66-38 Tuesday in girls basketball.

'Anytime you accomplish the feat of winning three straight championships you have to feel good about it and proud about the achievement of the girls in the program," said Canton coach Rob Neu. The Chiefs also won their 11th straight game for their longest winning

Karen Boluch led Canton, which outscored Franklin in all four quarters, with 16 points. Sue Ferko added 13 and Heather Miller chipped in with 11.

Rose O'Bey paced Franklin, 4-5 overall and 6-8 in the WLAA, with 18 points and Cathy Cruz had 10.

They've got a real strong team," said Franklin coach Dan Freeman. "They shoot very well, and they have some big girls and rebound well.

With the win, the Chiefs improved to 12-4 overall and stand 9-0 in the division.

SALEM 68, FARMINGTON 35: Dena Head scored 30 points Tuesday, carrying visiting Plymouth Salem to victory over the Falcons.

The Rocks jumped ahead 23-8 after the first quarter and increased the lead to 46-15 at the half. Jill Estey added 14 for the winners, which improved to 15-1 overall, 9-0 in the Lakes Division of the WLAA. "We played them better this time," said Farmington coach Diana Fair. "They scored 103 on us last time. We played a little bit better half-court defense, but their running game killed us."

The Falcons slipped to 4-11, 0-9 in the league.

LADYWOOD 46, MARIAN 40: Karen Finnegan scored all nine of her points in the fourth quarter Tuesday night leading visiting Livonia Ladywood to an 18-4 spurt and a 46-40 victory over Catholic League Central Division pacesetter Birmingham Marian.

The victory closes the gap in the Central Division race. Marian falls to 8-1 and Ladywood improved to 7-2 with one league game remaining for each team.

girls basketball

We just went through the motions in the first three quarters," said Ladywood coach Ed Cavanaugh. "Then something happened that I can't explain. We played the best defense we've played all year. It was an important win for us because we've been unconsistent at times this

Marian, which was paced by Kathy Phillips and Jennifer Shasky with 12 points each, led 12-8 after the first quarter and 25-18 at the half. The Blazers finally got burning in the third quarter but were still outscored 11-

GLENN 63, N. FARMINGTON 52: Westland John Glenn trailed 34-20 at the half, but came back strong in the third and fourth quarters to earn an 11-point victory Tuesday over visiting North Farmington.

"It was like deja vu against them," said Glenn coach Pat Bennett, whose team had to battle from behind to earn a victory the first time when the two teams met. "We were down by as many as 18 points. We didn't play very good basketball. In the third quarter we took charge. We were more aggressive. We didn't allow them

Beth Wilson paced the winners, who outscored North 18-6 in the third quarter and 25-12 in the fourth, with 24 points. Denise Gumke added 14 points and 17 rebounds and Cheryl Hawley meshed in 10 points.

North, 7-8 overall and 3-6 in the Lakes Division of Western Lakes Activities Association, was led by Suzi Butcher with 17 and Donna O'Brien and Vikki Seamonds with 11 each

With the win the Rockets improve to 11-4 overall and 7-2 in the Lakes

SC gets hot too late in year

For the third consecutive game, Schoolcraft College's men's soccer team blanked its opponent. It's an impressive streak, but it only makes the realization that it's too little, too late that much more painful.

Had SC recovered from injuries and started playing like this a few games earlier, it would be in the hunt for another region title. Instead, the Ocelots are stuck with a hopeful wait-'til-next-year attitude.

Their victim Saturday was Lakeland CC, which had beaten SC earlier this season. But in that meeting, Paul Burrill had not played. He was all the Ocelots needed this time, scoring twice in the second half for a 2-0 victory.

Burrill's first goal came at the 65 minute mark, with Torin Gniewek assisting. His second clinched it 10 minutes later, with Lee Hunt getting the assist.

Keeper Colin Jex was tested once in the opening half, and he made the save. Lakeland, with the wind against it in the second half, never threatened.

SC, now 4-2-1, hosts Cuyahoga Met ro CC at 1 p.m. Saturday.

SC'S WOMENS TEAM got a strong performance from Amy Weber in the goal, and that was just enough to earn the Lady Ocelots a 1-0 triumph over visiting Xavier University Sunday.

Rivals clash on gridiron

Canton's last three games have been decided by 14 points. A blowout win over Willow Run in the opener and losses to Western Lakes champion Westland John Glenn and runner-up Farmington Harrison are the only games decided by more than a touchdown.

They play a very aggressive style of defense where they blitz the linebackers a lot. Moshimer said. They come at you hard, which gives you problems.

'ANY TIME you blitz you're taking a gamble," he added. "When you do, if you hit the wrong spot, it can be a big play (for the offense). With the triple option, we think we have a chance of busting the big play.

Moshimer was concerned about his defense, particularly the secondary, when Churchill threw the ball successfully and was tied 21-21 with the Rocks at halftime Salem shut down the Chargers in the second half, how

We're going to work real hard on our defense. Moshimer said. "We feel we can move the ballswell enough, the question is whether we can stop them.

The playoff system, a computer ranking based on the number of victories and opponents' victories, currently finds Westland John Glenn (7-1) and Redford Catholic Central (7-1) both looking from the outside in Region IV. • Both teams first must get past their respective opponents in the season finale to have any kind of a shot. Glenn must defeat rival Wayne Memorial (6-2) and CC must top Southgate Aquinas (6-2) for the Catholic League's A-B Division championship. No easy

• Sterling Heights (8-0) and Dearborn Fordson (8-0) are "locks" on two of the four spots. Sterling Heights, tops at 113 000 on the computer, could lose at 2-6 Mount Clemens and still get in Fordson, 110.00, could lose at Melvindale (5-3) and still make it. Both teams, however, should finish the year • The teams with an inside track for the other two spots are once-beaten Detroit Chadsey (95.5) and Utica Eisenhower (93.875). Chadsey will be a virtual lock if it defeats 7-1 Detroit Cass Tech in the Public School League championship, but that is no guarantee. And Eisenhower should get the other spot if it beats 7-1 Sterling Heights Stevenson (another Region IV team), which is no cinch. • Catholic Central, fourth this week on the computer at 94.75, and Glenn sixth at 92.625, will both be rooting for Cass Tech and Sterling Heights Stevenson to win this week to have a chance at one of the two final spots. Both CC and Glenn have a slight edge over two other once-beaten teams, Port Huron Northern (91.750) and Berkley (93.750). Port Huron Northern winds up the season at Warren Cousino (5-3) and Berkley travels to Oak Park

What does this all mean? Both CC and Glenn have to help themselves and then get some help. Glenn has a slight edge over CC, but it will all depend on bonus points and whether Glenn's or CC's opponents do better this weekend.

AND WHERE DOES once-beaten North Farmington fit into the picture in Class A Region III? To earn a shot, the Raiders must first defeat Clarkston. 6-2) Saturday at home. That's no lock-cinch.

The odds are stacked against the Raiders, who are behind Warren Lincoln (8-0), which wraps up the season against Warren Fitzgerald (0-8). Ferndale (7-1), which finishes against Hazel Park (3-5), Birmingham Brother Rice (7-1), which plays Class C Orchard Lake St. Mary's (7-1); Cass Tech, which takes on Chadsey (see above); and Grosse Pointe South (7-1), which must lose to rival Grosse Pointe North (6-2). North must also get help from Royal Oak Kimball (3-5), which plays another Region III challenger, Royal Oak Dondero

Falcons repeat as league champs ::

By Dan O'Mears staff writer

has been the previous three years with the Falcons taking their fourth straight league crown at Schoolcraft College

Farmington was the not the runaway winner it has been in other league meets. The Falcons edged Walled Lake Central by two points.

Plymouth Salem, the only team to beat Farmington in the dual-meet season and the Lakes Division champion, was third (100), Plymouth Canton finished fourth (102) and Western Division champ Livonia Franklin took fifth (130) (See complete scoring summary on statistical page.)

We came into this not knowing what we were going to do," Farmington coach Jerry Young said Other years we'd come into the conference meet knowing we were going to win it. Today we knew we were in a dogfight."

BRANDON LONDON finished lower than expected, but was still the Falcons' top runner with a 10thplace effort. Teammate Matt Walter was 12th, Brad Moore 17th, Rob Holloway 22nd and Ron Smedley 24th.

The latter held the key to Farmington's repeat performance. Steve Quenneville didn't run because of a knee injury, and Smedley was running his first varsity race after missing much of the season with either an injury or illness.

Young was counting on either him. Greg Endres or Eric Crawford to balance the team in the No. 5 spot. Smedley responded by running 50 seconds faster (17:32) than he previously had and leaving just 17 seconds between Farmington's Nos. 1-5 runners

"I told them 'One of you guys has to do it, or we're not going to win it." Young said. "(Smedley) ran his heart out and saved the day.

"One of them had to stay with Holloway, two of them did and we were alright. That was the depth we needed without Brandon doing what he can do up front.

LONDON WAS CLOCKED at 17:15, Walter 17:18, Moore 17:24 and Holloway 17:28 with Smedley finishing off the victory. The Falcons underscored the word team in that London didn't have his best of days. But enough of the others did and the Falcons prevailed once more.

We had kids come in and pick up for Brandon, who just could not get his wheels going," Young said.

"Unfortunately, London had a hard day - and the other kids supported him. Salem had their troubles, too. So did we but we were able to hold together better they than

The Rocks, who were led by thirdplace Doug Vergari and bolstered by Bill Atwell in 13th and Brendon Masterson in 19th, had hoped to have five men in the low 17:30s, but it didn't work out that way. Salem's Nos 4-5 were 31st and 34th

"It was nice to come in having beaten them in the dual, but a meet like this is up for grabs," Salem coach Geoff Baker said. "If one guy runs bad it can blow your whole

Education needed to safeguard resources

DUCATION is the bottom line. If we want to preserve our natural resources for our children, grandchildren and our grandchildren's children the general public needs to be educated about the dangers facing our natural resources and the environment in which we live. Changes need to be made drastic turnabouts in our thinking and our way of life. But without education many changes will either come too late or not at all. Our natural resources are not on the list of top priorities of most legislators.

Look at the mistakes we've already made Look at the extinct and endangered species lists of both plants and animals. Look at the problems we have with solid and hazardous waste disposal. Look at pollution and the de-teriorated conditions of our air, land and water. Look at the accelerated rate of eutrophication (aging) in many lakes right here in southeastern Michigan - in our own backyards. These are all man-made problems that didn't have to be. There's even a hole in the ozone that scientists can't decide if we created or not. When will we learn?

DR. GORDON GUYER, director of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, got me thinking about some of these problems Monday night while addressing a group of citizens concerned about some of these same issues, at the Community House in Birmingham.

Guyer, a former entomologist (insect scientist) with Michigan State University, has been a longtime leader among the world's environmentalists. He was part of the research team at Michigan State University that explored the effects of pesticides in the Great Lakes food chain. And it was through the work of this research team that it was discovered that contaminants like DDT eventually find their way into the lakes up through the food chain and finally into the bodies of birds, mammals and humans. He was also instrumental in pushing through landmark legislation that eliminated the use of many contaminating pesticides.

IN MONDAY'S PROGRAM, sponsored by the Paul H. Young Chapter of Trout Unlimited, Guyer gave an hourlong talk about the use of pesticides, the problems caused by ariel-born toxins and some of the other major environmental issues facing this great state. Guyer summarized his talk by saying, "The most important issue is education.

Right now there are no required programs . in grade school and high school about the environment, and it's as important as sex education as far as I'm concerned.

If people care we can accomplish some very, very significant changes. But people who are not educated (about the problems) have no reason to care. They don't understand Some parts of the world, out of necessity, still have common use of many of the chemicals that got us into trouble."

The two major environmental problems facing Michigan are the problems of solid waste disposal and hazardous waste disposal. Guyer is concerned with both.

"THERE IS NO WAY we can continue to put solid waste in land fills the way we have over the past 15 years," said Guyer. "We need to come up with a program which combines recycling, compost, incineration and

On the hazardous waste problem Guyer admitted Michigan has some very serious problems and feels the best way to attack these problems is to initiate educational programs for industry in order to raise the ethics of environmental quality.

We need to find ways to find money, and encourage legislation to put a high priority on our natural resources," said Guyer.

With rapidly changing industry Guyer feels Michigan will move from an industrial boom economy to an economy more dependent on small businesses and tourism. To do this we need to have a quality environment.

"The future and the quality of our environment lies with the DNR and other people who care," said Guyer. "In that respect the DNR is the most important agency in the state.'

Guyer pointed to the Moose Lift operation, which reintroduced moose to the Upper Peninsula, the recent planting of grayling in the AuSable and other rivers and the experimentation with planting Sichuan pheasants in several areas of the state, as positive steps taken by the DNR to increase the quality and variety of our natural resources.

'And the only reason these projects came to be was because people care," said Guyer.

The DNR has extended the enrollment deadline for the Michigan Environmental Youth Awards Program to Nov. 6.

The program is an environmental education initiative administered by the DNR's Office of Public Information. The Youth Awards Program encourages young people with an adult sponsor to organize a project that focuses on preservation and conservation of Michigan's natural resources.

Pesticide use will be the topic of discussion at a two-day educational conference titled "Pesticides: Benefits, Risks and Alternatives," Dec. 3-4 at Michigan State University's Kellogg Center in East Lansing.

The conference is designed to increase the public's awareness and understanding of safe pesticide use through the dissemination of the most accurate and current information available and to promote alternatives to chemical pest management in Michigan.

Registration fee is $35. For more information, contact Barry-Griffin at (517) 373-1087 or Dr. Michael Kamrin at (517) 353-

THINKING ABOUT A

FREE ADVICE --No Problems

When you get ready to redecorate, you want the right materials: the right primer, the right type of paint, maybe an exact color match, the right wallpaper, and possibly some extras like buckets, paste, brushes, rollers, dropcloths, and so on. What you don't want are problems.

So be sure to ask for our absolutely free advice before you decorate. Your work could go a lot smoother that way.

Hawks win their 2nd state title

The Livonia Y Hawks girls under-19 soccer team grabbed its second consecutive state championship with a 3-1 victory last weekend over their nemesis, the Livonia Crusaders.

It was the third time the two teams had met this season with the Hawks winning twice. The other game ended in a tie.

The Crusaders jumped out to a 1-0 halftime lead in Saturday's match, but the Hawks stormed back for three unanswered goals.

Amy Trunk's goal, a header off a cross from Jennie Schuerman, tied the score. Carrie Maier then tallied the game-winner on an assist from

Dana Dugan. Dugan then added an insurance goal to secure the win. The Hawks, who won the National Invitational Tournament with a 1-0 win over the Crusaders, are coached by Paul Dugan and Bob Paul.

Other members of the team include Patricia Boyle, Brooke Gillespie, Rosemary Hally, Margaret Kopmeyer, Chris Lamb, Yolanda Marino, Jennifer Misaros, Kim Montgomery, Mary Pelloni, Emily Riemer, Jodi Smalec, Julie Stabnick, Sara Wasinger and Lisa Yderstad.

Mike Yderstadt is the team manager and Judy Hamilton the trainer.

Lions stay on roll with 2 victories

The Plymouth-Canton Lions' junior varsity and varsity football teams continued their successful ways Sunday against the Ann Arbor East Eagles.

The junior varsity charged to a 22-7 victory, and the varsity stayed on a roll after its 25-0 win the week before with a 24-6 triumph

Brett Magyar started the scoring for the JVs with a two-point safety. Pat Martinez scored two touchdowns and Scott Wilson one. Mike Isbell and Dan Bonnett also ran for extra

In the varsity game, Steve Hohl scored three TDs for the Lions, including a 24-yarder to get his team started. Boyd Rudy accounted for the other TD.

The freshman squad suffered a 7-6 loss. Jim Beesley scored his team's lone TD, but the Lions failed to make the extra point.

The Lions are on the road Sunday for their final game of the season, playing the Belleville Cougars.

Churchill takes swim invitational

Livonia Churchill captured eight of 11 events Saturday to win the Western Wayne Girls Swim Invitational at Belleville.

Churchill scored a team-high 391 points. Rounding out the field was Plymouth Salem (285), Belleville (181), Westland John Glenn (151) and Livonia Franklin (70).

'We won a two-foot trophy and we were pretty excited," said first-year coach Larry Hein. "It was good preparation for our (WLAA) league meet, which comes up in two weeks (Nov. 13-15).

"We thought there was a good chance we could win it. It looks like our team is starting to blossom."

Audra Martin, Cathy Ankenbrandt and Katie Hamann each figured in three first place finishes for the victorious Chargers

Martin captured the 200-yard individual medley (2:12.2) and 100 butterfly (59.7). Ankenbrandt added firsts in the 50 and 100 freestyles with times of 26.25 and 57.6, respec-Gvely. Hamann, meanwhile, took the 200 and 500 freestyles in 2:04.18 and 5:25.3, respectively

Glenn's Mary Lawson captured the 100 backstroke (1:08.7), while Salem's Erip Olson won the 100 breaststroke (1:12.7).

Contemporary Arboretum nurtures past

Shown here is the exterior of the Maple model, the largest of the three models in the Arboretum development. Plenty of windows and open planning take full advantage of the natural beauty of the sife.

Jo Hulce (above) stands in the kitchen of the Beech model. Below, she is shown with her two partners in the Arboretum development, Richard Cherkasky and John Shekerjian of John Richards Development Corp. of Birmingham, in the living room of the Beech model.

T TOOK JO Hulce about five years to finally decide what to do with the property adjacent to the historic farmhouse where she lives on McClumpha Road in Plymouth Township.

After 32 years and "a lot of good times," a decision was in order, but difficult to make nonetheless. She took her time, she said, because it was a special piece of property. Hulce, a former school board member and prominent in the arts community, and her husband moved to the area from Dearborn because "we wanted to raise our children in the country.

It was country living at its finest, she recalls with a grin. The farmhouse, long since restored beyond its original expectations, was home to-four Huice children .- but more than that. It was the hub that centered activities that went hand in hand with living in the country.

THOSE WERE THE days when the 4-H clubs were active, Hulce noted. The family had horses and the children raised their own farm animals.

Adjacent to the rambling farmhouse was a mature forest of beech and maple, an ideal place for scouting overnights and picnics galore. Smack-dab in the center was a clearing that served as a baseball diamond, she recalled.

'The woods has never been timbered," said Hulce, a longtime advocate of preservation. "Except for maybe a small boy with a hatchet," she added with a pixielike grin.

It is that 16 acres that Hulce finally decided to part with, but not just to anyone or to any kind of development.

"I spent a long time looking for a good developer," she said, "one who would be interested in preserving the land as much as I was."

SHE FINALLY FOUND who she was looking for in the John Richards Development Corp. of Birmingham. The two partners in John Richards had developed Pinehurst at 14 Mile and Lahser, and I liked what I saw," Hulce said. She invited them out to her site and the three eventually became partners in the development they call "Arboretum."

The development of 25 homes, on McClumpha south of Ann Arbor Road, takes advantage of the cluster zoning option that allows for random placement of the homes to take advantage of the beauty of the

"It is a shining example" of the cluster zoning option, commented township planner James D. Anu-

The architect was David Schaff of Plymouth

The development, nestled in the woods, features two- and threebedroom one- and two-story models that take full advantage of the view the site offers.

"The design is very unique for Plymouth," Hulce notes. "It's country contemporary whereas most of the Plymouth area is more New Englandy.'

The developers plan to include a commons/picnic area, expand a nature pond and re-do tennis courts that have been Hulce-home land-

But more importantly to Huice. nature trails will be developed throughout the development where special attention will be given to the wild flower plantings that abound in the woods. Green-thumb enthusiast that she is, she envisions "having a hand" in carrying out those plans

Very few of the trees have been cut down to create Arboretum, Hulce notes with pride. Wherever possible, they have been moved, she said.

Remember the baseball diamond that was was once in the center of the woods? Some of those trees were moved to that area that has since become a boulevard area in the center of the development.

If Ma Nature was looking for a house, she'd to 'e Arboretum.

Models are openfrom 1-6 p.m. Monday through Friday and from noon to 5 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

Entrance to the 2,500-square-foot Maple model shows the open stairway to the second floor where an optional loft area or third bedroom is located. The second story is open to the great room below.

By Mary Jane Doerr special writer

The Light Opera of Michigan opened its 1987-88 season with a new name, Opera Lite; a new location, the Smith Theater on the Orchard Ridge Campus of Oakland Community College; and a spirited production of the Gilbert and Sullivan musical, Pirates of Penzance

The operetta is delightful, with strong voices in the lead, Ruth Lepeyre as Mabel and David Troiana as Frederic. Trojano's beautiful lyric tenor voice showed the wear of competing in the Metropolitian Opera Auditions the weekend of Oct. 17-18, but he managed to sing and act the role with expertise.

David Jackson stole the show with his tongue-twisting lyrics that just came faster and faster. As the Major-General Stanley, he was pompous, silly and funny.

Lepeyre has been working with Opera Lite for a year now but this is the first production where she has been used in the cast. The difficult singing of Mabel's role was no challenge for Lepeyre's agile soprano voice. She handled the heights with ease and grace, as well carrying out the humorous antics the role re-

"Pirates of Penzance" might well be a dry-docked "H.M.S. Pinafore," the stories are so similar. The opera takes place on the rocky coast of Cornwall where a group of pirates are celebrating Frederic's 21st birthday. Ruth, sung by Rosemay DiDomiuzio, is a middle-aged nurse who loves him, but he does not know if he shares her affection

review

Enter the daughters of the Major-General, who are immediately seized by the pirates for future wives, which is not what the Major-General had in mind for them.

The satire on British society continues amid the humor, dancing and zestful music.

Mark Byars was commanding as the Pirate King, and Terry Burcher showed off his bass voice as the Sergeant of Police

David Pulice directed the production with his usual skill and Don Daniels conducted a more than adequate orchestra. The simple but versatile sets were designed by Marnon Construction, Robert A. Janes and members of the cast. Costumes were by UMGASS and Suzanne Wernette.

The production is scheduled for 8 p.m. Friday-Saturday, Oct. 30-31 and 2 p.m. Sunday. For ticket information, call the Smith Theater box off-

Check bulb storage temperature

Correct storage is important if you want to enjoy the beauty of your bulbs again next year.

I'm afraid it's a little late for the caladium since we have had some light frost, but if you wish, you may try to salvage some of them. Caladium tubers should be stored with some soil attached after they have been left to dry for a week or so in a warm, dry area. Store the same as dahlias, but at 60 degrees.

Dahlia stems should be cut off to 4-6 inches. Dig tubers carefully, hose off soil and dry upside down in a shady area for a few hours. If the storage area (35-40 degrees) is very dry, cover the tubers with a slightly moistened packing material and sprinkle with water occasionally to prevent shriveling. Wait until spring to divide the dahlias. The bud growth will tell you where to divide.

Tuberous begonias can withstand a light frost, but dig them soon. Leave about 4 inches of top growth attached and dry for several days in the sun, until the stem stubs detach

After digging the rhizomes of the calla lily, shake off the loose soil; let the plants dry slightly before removing the top growth. Both tuberous begonias and calla lilies should be stored the same as dahlias, with tuberous begonias needing temperatures of 45-60 degrees. Keep the packing dry.

Canna stems should be cut off at ground level and the rhizones dried upside-down for a few weeks. They should then be placed in a warm, airy room where they can continue to dry. Store (45-55 degrees) with the soil attached. The roots must be kept dry during storage. Packing material is optional.

Dig gladiolus corms anytime after the foliage begins to yellow, but before a hard freeze. Leave a growth of 1 inch on the corms, shake off loose soil and dry in the sun for a few hours, then place in an airy location for two to three weeks. Remove old corms from the base of the new. large corms and cut the tops to within 1/2 inch of the corm. Place them in mesh bags or in shallow flats with screen wire bottoms. Store in a well ventilated area (35-45 degrees). The temperature should never drop below freezing.

Doing color by eye

WISH I was smart. You know the type - every class in high school seemed to be a snap for them. Then in college, they would study a little, play a lot and then ace every class they took. To justify my inconsistent grades, I would think to myself, "Maybe those smart guys aren't as happy as I am."

I still follow that line of rationalization when it comes to my being overweight. I'll ask myself, "Are thin people r-e-a-l-l-y happy?" Early on I learned to just be satisfied with being cute, charming and artistic Humility is also one of my good points. Which is why I say, "A little more humility and I'll be perfect."

Well, anyway, academics were always work for me and art was always fun. So early in my college days. I learned to offset every academic class with an art-oriented class just to keep my grade average up. And keeping my grade average up was very important during the late '60s, because if your grade point dropped too low, boys would find ourselves in the army.

ONCE AGAIN THE world of art proved beneficial. I remember when had to take a physical at Fort Wayne. The man who weighed and measured my height said, "Congratulations, son.

Puzzled, I asked, why. "Well," he continued, "you're just 10 pounds under being too heavy and just one inch under being too tall."

My sarcastic reply to that was, Thanks a lot. I guess that just makes me about the biggest and slowest moving target out there,

Needless to say, that physical inspired me to new heights in academic achievement. But studying, reading and memorizing was still laborious to me. For some reason, I always correlated memorizing interesting things like color combinations with boring things like the hardness scale in geology.

For the most part, I still struggle with quoting color basics. I have no trouble making the colors I want, but to tell you beforehand what colbly be compared to the musician who can play anything by ear, but struggles to write or read music wonder if that would be called "Doing color by eye?"

I am always impressed when I ask either one of my two oil paint teach ers a questions about color. Sue Rothemel teaches our oil classes and Carmen Enriquez teaches portraits in oil and our watercolor classe-When you ask either one of them color question, they answer, "We mix this with that and add 20 per cent of this with a touch more that" to which I always say, "Umm I knew that. Look for the unusual

All photographers like to have their egos stroked with the "oohs" and "aahs" of appreciative viewers. This not only means that the photographs were well received but serves as an incentive to make you want take more pictures.

How can you improve your photographs and get positive acclaim? One good way is to be on the lookout for the unusual, which, most often, is right there in front of you

What needs to be done is to develop your skills in seeing the unusual and then producing the image on film. Listed below are some things to look for that will help you capture that something different on film light shot can transform your subject into an unusual, dramatic silhouette. A shadow cast by an early, morning or late afternoon sun can add that extra touch.

How about an unusual cloud for mation or perhaps an approaching thunderstorm? A photographer with a keen eye can isolate a small detail or a striking pattern to produce a photograph of unusual quality.

Even using backgrounds effectively can add important impact to your shot. Keep your eyes open for an exciting splash of color, it may be that final ingredient for that special shot. Don't overlook reflections and pay close attention to careful framing and composition. All of these will creatively can add the unusual to your pictures, too. Slow shutter speeds can blur the action and give a misty, dreamlike appearance to subjects such as flowing water.

FAST SHUTTER speeds will, of course, freeze the action at its peak. Remember that your aperture controls depth-of-field and that, in turn, can be used to get an unusual look in your picture.

Even candid shots will capture that unusual, fleeting expression that is so elusive in posed portraits.

For you vacationers, put your traveler's vision in gear and be on the lookout for the unusual. An obscure street scene or other out-ofhe-way image will add impact and interest to your travel photographs.

In summary, it's okay to deviate from the normal in your photography Being a little unusual in your photographic thinking will reward you with pictures you'll be proud of 1987. Monte Nagler

Painter/professor to display work

The most recent paintings of Harold Linton of Southfield, a professor of architecture at Lawrence Institute of Technology, will be on display at the I. Irving Feldman Galleries in West Bloomfield through Nov.

The exhibit, at 6917 Orchard Lake Road, is open to the public at no charge. Gallery hours are Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5

Linton's exhibit, "Between Matter and Spirit," includes 14 large canvasses that explore color relationships and arrangements. These arrangements reflect many of the pat-

Striving to make an abstract statement that emphasizes rhythm spatial interval and color structure, Linton mixes and layers thousands of colors to achieve his goal.

Linton is a prolific artist whose work has appeared in numerous galleries throughout the country. He is the author of a nationally distributed textbook called "Color Model Environments," and also the author of a book called "Color in Architectural Illustration," due to be published

Our Town' exhibitor

Art work created by Redford artist Ruthann Platt will be on display at the "Our Town" art exhibition and sale, a juried show featuring Michigan artists and their interpretations of "Our Town," any hometown and its meaning to them. Platt's work is a watercolor, "Floral Array." Platt had two watercolors in last year's show. The exhibition opens today at the Community House, 380 S. Bates, Birmingham and continues through Sunday. An artist's reception and awards ceremony at 2 p.m. Sunday will climax the show, which will close at 5 p.m. For more information, call 644-

SELL HOME YOURSELF?

I'm sure you've heard it said. "Why should I sell my nome through a REALTOR?" can sell it myself and save a lot of money. "Right?" Wrong!

This kind of thinking usually turns out to be financially unwise. The prospects will usually start by mentally deducting the commission and then start regotating from there. On the average, a homeowner saves little or no money when he sells his own home. In fact, the opposite is often true. A lot of time is wasted showing homes to unqualified curiosity seekers and many possible sales are lost because the owner did not possess the experience to financially structure a viable sales in today's fast-changing money market.

As a private seller you're at a great disadvantage in the intricate areas of financing, negotiating and protecting yourself from all sorts of do-tryourself pitfalls. You've got a lot invested in your home. It makes sense to list it with a REALTOR. He'll sell it for you — without hitches — for the best price and in the shortest amount of time.

condo queries Robert M.

Q. My management company has presented a contract to us for review. We have an attorney on the board, but he has had no experience in representing condo associations. The management company said it is a standard contract. What should we do?

Meisner

A The management contract is probably the most important contract that the association will be called upon to review and sign. The management company usually has substantial reponsibility in regard to the successful operation of the association. There have also been situations where management companies have a change in ownership or have gone out of business and left associations "high and dry." Accordingly, the management agreement should be carefully reviewed by legal counsel who, presumably, has experience in dealing with the problems incident to management companies vis-a-vis condo asso-

The attorney on your board was correct in not getting involved in assisting the association in such legal review, since he may find himself in a potential conflict of interest. Outside counsel should be sought

Q. We are having trouble raising funds for our advisory committee since the developer does not want to fund it. We want to hire an attorney and accountant. Do you have any suggestions?

the condominium documents should be funded by association monies in order to help prepare itself for the turning over of control of the association to the co-owners.

Indicate to the developer that he since he is in control of the condominium association, has a fiduciary duty to insure that the advisory committee is properly funded so as to make intelligent decisions in behalf of the co-owners.

Each home site in Oakbrooke of West Bloomfield is in a "Land Condominium. This feature permits the ownership of a detached home, without the responsibility for such things as lawn care, snow and trash removal; all of which are handled by the Association. The owner also enjoys the use of the private grounds adjoining each house, plus the open space area, and access to Simpson Lake.

The overall architectural theme of Oakbrooke is one of warm elevations to blend as one community. Accents of traditional, contemporary, or tudor styles will allow each purchaser to design their own residence.

Let us earn your trust.

66 It's almost unbelievable that Marguerite Kalis could list our home on Wednesday and get three offers the following Monday, and especially an offer that we couldn't refuse! "

66 During the months that Mary Marinelli had my listing, she took a very personal interest in the house, even after I had taken the house off of the market pending purchase by my employer. Mary remembered the house and when the market in Dearborn Heights improved, she called me with several potential buyers. This added several thousand dollars to the net selling price of the house!"

66 From the time my condo was listed to the final closing date, Joan Felts kept me well informed and handled the showings and eventual paperwork very professionally and effectively. I know there was a lot of extra effort on Joan's part because I had tried to sell the condo on my own.

66...The final selling price was a pleasant surprise!

66 We have dealt with a lot of realtors on both the buying and selling end, and John O'Brien was the most professional we've ever encountered?

66 We would like to thank Anne Lubbe for the fine job done in helping us sell our house. When negotiations began. Anne rolled up her sleeves and went to work. She looked out for our interests in all aspects of the selling process.

66 As an added plus, her friendly smile and terrific personality were a great pleasure to us! "

66I highly recommend both Mike and Brita Kralevic to anyone who is in need of a real estate person. They both were such a great help to me in preparing the house for sale as well as the actual sale. They made sure the closing went smoothly and right on time as scheduled. They were both there for any questions I had and were always very courteous.

661 can't say enough good things about them. As my husband had to go ahead for his job, and I was left with selling the house, I was a bundle of nerves, but they certainly stepped in and helped me.

66 I felt very fortunate to have them as my agents!! ??

66 I would like to commend the efforts of Mike and Adele Brown in handling the sale of my house. Mike and Adele demonstrated professionalism in handling prospective buyers. promptness in returning phone calls. and they were very knowledgeable about the current housing market. In addition, they always projected a very positive attitude and had a pleasant disposition. 99

66 We want to thank Joyce Johnson and Kathy Barker for an outstanding job of selling our home and finding us a new one!

66 Despite our difficult circumstances they were confident about helping us, and they knew the answers to our questions. They both have an excellent awareness of the real estate market as well as the intracacies of financing a home."

66Real Estate One should be proud of Chris Sharp and Ralph Hodgdon. They were not only concerned with the success of the sale; they also concerned themselves with how the seller was going to come out after the closing. "

66 We just recently sold our home in Taylor and we couldn't have had a more cooperative, helpful and concientious young man than Ted Domski. He knows the real estate business well. We can't praise him enough. 99

66 The selling of a home is an emotional experience.The professionalism and personal concern demonstrated by Cynthia Drobot and Real Estate One towards my wife and I was greatly appreciated. "

66 After a long and unsuccessful attempt at selling our home we were very discouraged with realtors but decided to give Real Estate One and Pat Bean a try. On October 14th she came out to discuss our needs and immediately went to work. By October 30th we had a workable purchase agreement in hand! "

66 We found Karl (Korky) Schneider to be always helpful and at our beck and call-whenever we needed him. He was very patient when we were impatient. And was always willing to go out of his way to do special favors such as running to Michigan National Bank to argue with the manager about paperwork, running to the attorney's office, etc.99

Flowers hold special message for bereaved

By C.L. Rugenstein special writer

HOUGH MEMORIAL donations in the name of a deceased friend or relative are the trend today, floral tributes still play an important part in extending sympathy and support to be eaved families.

"Flowers are a visual expression of love and respect," said Bud Lipinski, vice president of floral wire service Industry Development Services. "Most families do want flowers at a funeral — they just don't want to be inundated with them."

Lipinski speaks from 40 years experience coordinating floral tributes for the funerals of notables like Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, Colonel Sanders and Elvis Presley.

Flowers create a background of warmth and beauty, Lipinski feels, which adds to the dignity and consolation of the funeral service. They also help a family deal with the reality of death by the comfort generated by friends' thoughtfulness.

Lipinski recalled an incident related to him by a local funeral director, in which flowers played an important part in helping a wife deal with the death of her husband.

"IT WAS AN UNEXPECTED death, a construction accident," Lipinski said. "The wife was so distraught she wouldn't allow anything in the room with her husband, not even an American flag."

When she arrived later, however, and saw the bareness of the room, she called a florist and ordered flowers herself, also allowing the funeral director to bring back floral tributes already sent

"There's a lot of anger when a death is unexpected," Lipinski explained. "At those times it's very difficult to work with a family. But after they begin to realize what's happening, they begin to change their minds about a lot of things."

Lasting Distress

Effects of bereavement haunt many

OST AMERICANS
tend to think that after the death of a loved one, survivors suffer a relatively short period of grief and then "get over it" with the passage of months or years.

University of Michigan researchers dispute such beliefs.

A study by Camille B. Wortman and Darrin R. Lehman of the U-M Institute for Social Ressearch revealed that accidental death of a child or spouse inflicts psychic pain on survivors that is more serious — and longer-lasting — than is commonly believed.

They found that the effects of bereavement haunt many survivors for as long as seven years after a fatal accident.

Wortman and Lehman interviewed 40 individuals who had lost a spouse in a motor vehicle crash and 54 parents who similarly lost a child, matching each group with a control sample. Their research was supported by the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety.

BOTH SPOUSES and parents, interviewed four to seven years after their loss, usually had not "worked through" the loss or otherwise come to grips with it.

Death of a spouse or child is one of the most stressful events that a person can experience during the course of his or her life, the U-M researchers note. Death of a spouse appeared to be even more traumatic than that of a child, possibly because a spouse's death also eliminates a source of support.

Sudden accidental death can result in survivors experiencing symptoms beyond the expected grief and sense of loss. The U-M study showed that they suffered variously from diminished well-being, anxiety, alienation from friends and relatives, deterioration in job performance and income. Divorce (in a parent group) and death rates were increased.

Employment effects were evident. Among surviving spouses, only 36 percent were still working at the same job when interviewed, compared to 55 percent of the control group. Among parents, only 38 percent continued to hold the same job, compared with 68 percent of the control group.

EIGHT OF THE 54 parents interviewed had been divorced since their child's death. In the control group only one divorce was recorded.

A large percentage of the respondents (from 30 to 85 percent, depending on the question) continued to dwell on the accident or what they might have done to prevent it. They appeared unable to accept/resolve or find any meaning in the loss.

It is possible, the researchers suggest, that many people continue the psychological work of mourning their deceased loved ones for the rest of their lives.

"OUR DATA CLEARLY indicate that, following the traumatic loss of one's spouse or child, lasting distress is a normative response to the situation, not a sign of individual coping failure," Wortman and Lehman explain

Americans, the U-M researchers say, generally consider expressions of grief for more than a short time after a loss to be unusual and inappropriate. "We feel that the expression of distress four to seven years later is all the more remarkable in light of the implicit social pressures to be recovered from the loss."

Psychological theory holds that most bereaved people not only recover from the loss but "work through" their grief so as to free themselves from the former attachment

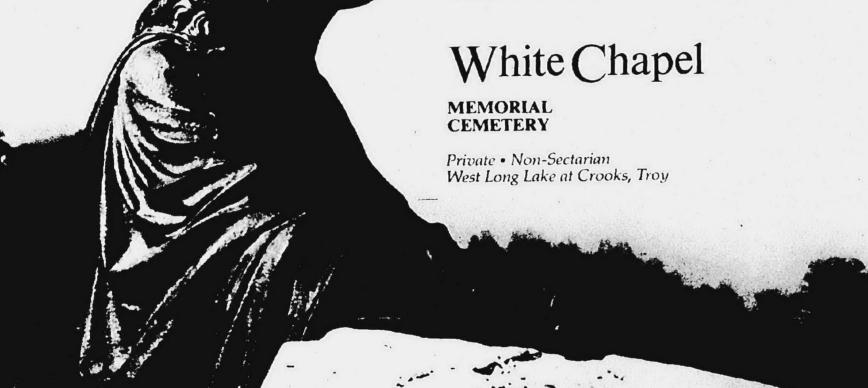

"OUR RESULTS," Wortman and Lehman say, "provide little support for either of these views. This study provides evidence that experiencing a sudden, unexpected loss can result in enduring difficulties."

Sixty-seven percent of the spouses and 53 percent of the parents told the U-M researchers that they have not made any sense of the tragedy at all or rationalized any meaning in the death

Using national norms to assess psychological well-being. Wortman and Lehman found that bereaved spouses were virtually indistinguishable from psychatric outpatients on six of nine measures.

Longer-range studies, they add, will be needed to see whether their respondents "will gradually show some improvement or whether they will continue to exhibit the same amount of distress for the rest of their lives."

SOS — signaling help for survivors

By Mary Rodrique staff writer

UICIDE DOES more than take a single life. It can shatter a family, rock a community to its core, leave co-workers and friends feeling guilty.

According to mental health care workers, it differs from accidental death or death from natural causes in many ways.

"For one thing, it's very violent," said Mary Leonhardi, coordinator of the Survivors of Suicide (SOS) groups in metro Detroit.

"OVER HALF ARE

(accomplished) with guns. It's very sudden. Families can interpret it as a rejection. Police may even consider (survivors) perpetrators at first, treating the death like a homicide." SOS was created more than a decade ago to offer help to survivors, left to cope with probably the most traumatic experience of a lifetime.

In 1974 while he was director of the suicide prevention center in Detroit's Herman Keifer Hospital, Dr. Bruce Danto began tracking phone calls from survivors.

"He decided to try and respond to their difficulties by asking volunteers who manned the crisis phones to work with him," said Leonhardi, who joined the venture in 1978.

THAT CORE GROUP evolved into five SOS groups, led exclusively by volunteers. A professional leader, with a master's degree in the human services field, steers the weekly, free sessions. A survivor acts as group coleader.

"It's a very individual thing," said Leonhardi. "Some (survivors) need one session. Others might come back weekly for two years. It usually depends on how long after the death they join the group.

"And after the first year, they come as much to help others as to get help themselves."

Typically, survivors are left with tremendous feelings of guilt, and the unresolved question of why the act was committed — in many cases when things appeared to be getting better after a difficult time.

"Survivors often find that three to six months after the death is the hardest time," said Leonhardi. "People expect them to be getting on with their life by then. There's pressure to move on. But the grief is still there."

Most SOS groups attract spouses and parents of the victim — often the hardest hit emotionally — but participants include everyone from siblings to friends to co-workers.

"Our philosophy is that grief is a normal process for people to go through. It's not sick. There are things unique to suicide that make it difficult," said Leo. hardi.

"People band together to get and give help from one another."

SOS is part of the Neighborhood Service Organization Emergency Telephone Service/Suicide Prevention Center. Groups meet in various locations across the metro area, including Westland, Dearborn and Southfield. Those interested in obtaining more information can call 224-7000 anytime.

2 years and the hurt is still there

By Mary Rodrique staff writer

RUCE KLIMEK seemed an unlikely candidate for suicide.

The athletic 23-year-old Livonia native had a good job in Dallas, a college degree from the University of Michigan and the love of a big family and friends.

He had just passed three of four parts of a grueling certified public accounting examination and had joined a church group in his new hometown — a large, bustling city in Texas.

The last weekend of his life, he paid his phone bill and apartment rent and phoned a friend in Wyandotte, telling her that he was looking forward to his parents scheduled visit in less than two weeks.

Because he was always conscientious and work oriented, co-workers were concerned the following Wednesday morning when he didn't show up for work or call in sick. A friend went to check, and discovered the tragedy. He had fatally shot himself inside his apartment. The date was March 5, 1985.

Two and a half years later, Mary Klimek still grieves for her son, the third of five children.

"WE DON'T QUITE understand it yet," said Mrs. Klimek, a substitute teacher in the South Redford School district. "He kept a lot to himself.

"I was not educated at all about suicide. I was not familiar with the signs. Even if I had known, I don't think he showed any (warning)."

At first she searched for help at grief seminars and with a Livonia church group she found was geared toward helping widows and widowers cope.

"It didn't serve our needs," she

Through a grief seminar, she found a woman whose husband had committed suicide. The woman told her about SOS — the Survivors of Suicide group. Finding that group in mid-June 1985 was like hooking onto a life raft.

"At first I went twice a week. It really helped me to talk about my feelings with others who felt the same way. They understood. We're in the same boat," she said.

"Two years later, you're still not normal. In some respects, I'll be stronger. But I don't think I'll ever get the same enjoyment out of life."

On the positive side, Mrs. Klimek is glad she and her husband were able to be supportive of each other.

Through group meetings, she has learned that many families are torn apart by suicide, pointing blame, seeking divorce.

THE OTHER CHILDREN are now closer. She overhears her 21-year-old son telling his 24-year-old sister that he loves her. She sees them being more sensitive to others. One son attended a few SOS meetings with her this year because he was worried about a friend he thought might be considering suicide.

"I definitely needed" (the support group)," Mrs. Klimek said. "Friends, even close relatives, don't want to talk about it anymore."

The worst days are special occasions, like the same birthdate she and Bruce and a daughter all shared, as well as holidays and anniversaries.

Currently Mrs. Klimek is assistant group leader of the survivors group that meets at Westland Convalescent Center. She attends the weekly meeting sometimes with her husband, but most of the time alone.

The Klimek family has established a scholarship fund in Bruce's memory at his alma mater, the University of Michigan-Dearborn campus. The first scholarship was just awarded.

"We've gone on by trying to help people any way we can," Mrs. Klimek said.

"Two years later, you're still not normal. In some respects, i'll be stronger. But I don't think i'll ever get the same enjoyment out of the "

A will is the only way to make sure that everyone in your family is taken care in the way you want them to be when death comes. Deciding who gets what ahead of time and then documenting that in a will eliminates a lot of family arguments later.

5 reasons why you shouldn't delay in making out a will state Planning and postmortem planning fall under the category of uncomfortable topics for most people. Many of us avoid making a will or setting a plan for disposition of assets upon our deaths for two simple reasons. One, we are uneasy with the thought that someday we will die; and, two, we feel that our estates are too small to justify the time and expense involved in the will preparation process.

Regardless of the size of your estate or your philosophy on death, estate planning and postmortem planning involve everything that you have worked for during your life — and ensure that your wishes will be followed should you become incapacitated or die. According to industry experts, there are five important reasons why making a will is an essential process — you can choose your donees, minimize taxes, appoint a guardian, name an executor and establish a place of residence.

• In the absence of a will, up to one-half of a married individual's property usually will be distributed to the surviving spouse, with the remainder passing to their children. However, even though this distribution of property may not be consistent with your wishes, you have no recourse. By failing to prepare a will, you have abdicated the right to select your beneficiaries, and what and how much each beneficiary is to receive.

Decision making

Pre-planning

To avoid family problems, let your wishes be known

By Mary Rodrique staff writer

TRAGEDY the magnitude of Flight 255 brings home the fragility of human life, but people are still hesitant to discuss their own mortality.

"Spouses need to know each other's (funeral) wishes. Parents should tell their children what church and even particular minister they want," said Richard Goodnuff, Redford Township funeral director.

Goodnuff, owner of Goodnuff-Burnham Funeral Home, assisted at the temporary morgue set up in an airport hangar after the Aug. 16 Northwest Airlines disaster in Detroit that took 154 lives.

"I think the crash brought that out. People need to verbalize what they want," he said.

BUT EVEN FUNERAL directors can get tongue-tied on the subject of death.

"Last February, I attended a funeral directors conference in Phoenix. There in the Phoenix area, representatives go door to door (selling prepaid funeral packages)," Goodnuff said.

"I don't think people in the Midwest are quite ready for that approach yet. I can't see going up to a 40-year-old man working on his lawn and ask if he's thought about the type of funeral he wants. But in the west and in the south, it's a very acceptable practice."

Locally, the market for prepaid funeral packages falls into two categories, Goodnuff said.

"The majority have a family member dying and because death is imminent, they come in to set up arrangements and pay for the funeral," he said.

"Others, usually people in their 60s, have wishes they want fulfilled. Maybe they don't have children. They choose the type of service, minister, and put the money for the funeral in a special account."

GENERALLY, FULL services, excluding cemetery plot, cost $2,700 to-day. In accordance with Michigan law, that money goes into an escr-)w account. The price cannot change for the buyer of a prepaid funeral. The funeral director collects interest on the money until it's withdrawn for the service.

"The same price structure applies whether it's an at need (present) or pre-need (future) funeral, in accordance with Federal Trade Commission regulation," said Goodnuff.

Making out a will essential

• A properly prepared will can help to alleviate any tax liability that might be levied against your estate. Taxable estates valued at less than $600,000 are exempt from federal estate tax, but so-called "hidden resources" — life insurance policies naming the decedent as the insured, or qualified retirement plan benefits and IRAs — can swell the estate's value, oftentimes making it subject to federal estate taxation. Trusts and other techniques available through your will can lessen this tax burden.

• If you have children, perhaps your greatest concern is who would take care of them if both you and your spouse were to die unexpectedly. A will can be used to name a guardian, someone whom you trust to care for your children's best interests. Courts generally will accomodate the wishes of the parents in cases where a specific guardian is named.

• Without a will, you will have no say in who carries out the administration of your estate. If no will exists, the court will appoint an administrator. However, the court could appoint a creditor (they sometimes qualify for this position), which would not necessarily be in the best interests of your estate. By naming an executor in your will, you can ensure that a trustworthy person of your selection will handle the administration of your estate.

• Finally, for tax and other reasons, you may want to establish a particular state as your state of residence. For example, if you have moved frequently, or have homes in more than one state, each state could claim you as a resident and subject the estate to multiple probate proceedings and overlapping claims to state death or inheritance taxes. To minimize this risk, indicate clearly in your will which state you claim as a place of residence.

Experts agree that many of us simply fail to recognize the importance of a will. If we die without a will, we can unknowingly leave a myriad of problems for our loved ones, and we greatly reduce the chances that our undocumented intentions will be carried out. The solution for everyone — no matter what the size of your estate — is to have your will prepared now and alleviate some of the uncertainties and problems that could arise later.

"I don't know if it leaves (the buyer) better off," he added. "For some people, it's probably better to make their wishes known to loved ones and then invest the money themselves.

"But definitely let your wishes be known."

Flowers speak when words fail

special writer

LOWERS CAN speak for people at a funeral when they want to express their feelings, but are at a loss how to

This is the way Judy Yoyanovich. manager of public relations for Florist Transworld Delivery Association (FTD), looks at the floral arrangements at funeral homes. She feels the same about flowers sent to the home.

"Giving flowers is an indication that someone cares," said Yovanovich, speaking from the FTD international headquarters in Southfield. People often feel that flowers are a softening influence at a hard time. Conversation is not that easy. People are not sure what to say."

At that point they can talk about the flowers.

A tremendous variety of blooms is available to the public today partly because flowers not in season in one part of the country can be obtained from another. It is also because greenhouses are growing flowers all year around and additional blooms are coming here from South America. They also are imported from such countries as Holland, France and FREQUENTLY SEEN at funeral homes today are arrangements in baskets, vases and dishes. A fireside basket made of wicker, rattan or reed-like ferns might hold carnations. chrysanthemums and daisies. Sometimes it can be tipped on its side to accommodate tall gladioli.

A traditional vase selection might include only one kind of flower or a mixed arrangement, perhaps roses, carnations and gladioli. Low bowl dish gardens containing green plants flowering plant added for a touch of Lilies are now available for these bouquets along with Gerbera daisies, iris and other bulb flowers.

More and more exotic beauties are holding their heads high among the traditional blossoms, pointed out Yovanovich, a resident of Farmington Hills. Want a tall flower that looks like a bird? Pick a bird of paradise, orange with tints of purple. Anthurium, usually red, pink or white, has a heart-shaped glossy leaf and white spikes curving down. The Fugi chrysanthemum is also large with long, stringy petals of white, yellow, bronze or lavender. The velvety flowers of the liatris turn up atop a long skinny green spike of a stem.

ONE OF THE smaller, more delicate posies is alstromaria, or Persian lily. It has a fantastic array of colors.

Another kind of floral tribute may be paid by an organization or lodge to a former member. In these the flowers are blended to form the emblem of the organization.

Bouquets sent to the home are usually smaller and more low key than those to a funeral home. Scaled to the home atmosphere are dish gardens and small bouquets for vases.

Yovanovich advised consulting a florist when flowers are to be sent out of town.

"Different floral tributes are used in different parts of the country," she said. "By consulting, one can learn what is most acceptable in a region. The florist can often ask the florist in the other community about the most appropriate arrangement. Each florist in the FTD network has a selection guide with a map showing what types of floral pieces are most popular in other sections of the country.

Most families want flowers

The unexpected death of rock'n'roll star Elvis Presley brought to mind another of Lipinski's experiences, illustrating the importance of flowers to grieving people.

HE HAD VOLUNTEERED to help coordinate and arrange flowers at Graceland and at the service.

"There were funeral directors there from all over the country," Lip-inksi recalled, "and over 3,300 plus floral arrangements, with more coming in the day after the funeral."

The Presley family made an announcement after the funeral that anyone who wanted a flower as a memento could come to the mausoleum the next day.

There were 27 florists out there passing flowers out to people," Lipinski said. "And would you believe, all those flowers were gone in four

Lipinski feels that some people resent being told how to express their sympathy, and want to be free to choose to send flowers, a card or donation, bring in a meal to the bereaved family — or do all of that.

But his choice is still flowers, "dedicated to the alleviation of grief."

"Flowers do not wither and die in the mind of the bereaved," he said.
