A Plymouth city police prisoner died last month of a drug overdose while in custody.

Matthew Anderson, 23, of Detroit died of cocaine intoxication, according to Dr. John Hain, a resident Wayne County medical examiner who conducted the autopsy.

"It would have to have been recently taken, within hours," Hain said of the drug. "Cocaine deter-iorates rapidly in the blood. There was a high level.

'The toxic effect of cocaine is primarily on the heart - abnormal conduction of electrical impulses," Hain said.

ANDERSON, pronounced dead at 8:07 p.m. Feb. 14, had been in continuous custody of Plymouth township and city police for almost 41 hours.

Plymouth Township police arrested Anderson at 2:41 a.m. Feb. 13 while following up on a disturbance at the Hillcrest Club Apartments.

Balloonist hopes to land Olympics

The Winter Olympics so impressed hot air balloonist Scott Lorenz that the Plymouth hotelier plans to work to make this area a future Olympic site.

After seeing it in person, I want to be on the committee to bring the Summer Olympics to Detroit I'd like to work with the Detroit convention bureau doing whatever they'd want me to do," said Lorenz, general manager of the Mayflower Hotel.

Detroit could do it. We have all the venues for the Summer Olym-

World exposure would do wonders for Detroit, said Lorenz, who competed in exhibition races not affiliated with the Olympics.

There are spinoffs. Under the world spotlight, people would see that Detroit is a great place to open up a hotel, or a business. You never know how, but it'll happen."

A MICHIGAN Olympics would bolster tourism, too, he said.

Not that Detroit isn't already world famous, but it certainly could use a shot in the arm. We need something like this to shake our negative image," said Lorenz

Lorenz and crew finished in the top 25 percent of a field of more than 100 balloonists from 10 countries in multi-race competition. All hoped the International Olympic Committee was watching, seriously considering elevating hot air ballooning to a demonstration sport in future Olympics Planes were racing around pylons as recently as the 1960s. And let's face it. People love it," said Lorenz, whose crew included Nick Schultz of Plymouth, Jim Ryder of Northville and Joe Crowther of Crystal Falls.

Olympic highlights, for Lorenz, were many ABC-TV featured his Mavflower balloon - sitting on scenic Lake Louise, framed by the Canadian Rockies - in a two-minute spot broadcast around the world.

Albertan strangers made Lorenz feel incredibly welcome.

They let all the kids out of school to watch the balloons fly overhead," said Lorenz, holding a snapshot of dozens of children gazing upward from a school yard.

'They've never seen balloons up there.

Two days in a row, Lorenz flew 75. miles, departing from Calgary and flying over the Olympic torch before closing ceremonies.

Historical Museum hosts quilt exhibit

This quilt bears what was known as the "log cabin" pattern.

By Susan Buck staff writer

Quilts are one of women's earliest

Quits also are an important and colorful part of American textile and social history.

Examples date from as early as Quilting was an integral part of a woman's life, both as a domestic art and a reason for social gathering.

Now until June, the Plymouth Historical Museum at Main and Church is presenting a special quilt exhibit featuring 45 quilts dating from 1841-1930

Various patterns include pieced Autograph quilts, appliqued Kentucky Rose and Morninglory patterns as well as Mosaic patterns quilted around paper

"We were first going to do quilts and coverlets but ended up having so many quilts that people offered us that we decided just to go with quilts," said Beth Stewart, the museum's exhibit designer and director.

Stewart spoke of America's early

"Cloth was so expensive that women saved every scrap. As time went on, quilting bees became a reason for women to gather. Young girls, in the early 19th century, were expected to have at least 13 unstuffed quilts by the time they were married," said Stewart.

Stuffing was the most expensive. An invitation to a quilting bee where women would come and help stuff the cotton covering often was construed as an announcement of an upcoming wedding, like a forerunner to a bridal shower, said Stewart.

A party often followed the quilting

"Many a young man and woman met after 'Aunt Nellie's' quilting bee," said Stewart.

She also mentioned an Amish quilt that is on display. "Amish women were so plain in everything else but they really got expressive in their quilts," Stewart said.

The museum, 155 S. Main, Plymouth, is open to the public 1-4 p.m. Thursday, Saturday and Sunday. Admission is $1 for adults, 50 cents for ages 11-17 and 25 cents for ages 5-10.

$2.07 million awarded in negligence settlement

By M.B. Dillor staff writer

A Plymouth Township couple whose son suffered brain damage at birth has been awarded $2.07 million in an out-of-court settlement reached Friday with three physicians and St. Mary Hospital.

Todd Boonstra, born in September 1973, is severely mentally and emotionally impaired as a result of collective malpractice and negligence, said Beverly Hires, Southfield attorney who represented Richard and Judy Boonstra, Todd's parents.

Named in the suit were Drs. Harry Tarpinian, Harvey Stein and William Rubinoff. Tarpinian, who formerly practiced in Farmington, no longer is on staff at St. Mary.

Stein and Rubinoff still work at the Livonia hospital. They have offices in Farmington and Farmington Hills, respectively.

A JURY TRIAL was to have begun in April before Wayne Circuit Judge Charles Farmer.

"A series of inexcusable commissions and omissions demonstrated that standard medical procedures were not followed during and after Todd's birth," said Hires, who also is a registered nurse.

The case involved a "tragedy of errors which began when Mrs. Boonstra's pregnancy was allowed to continue two and a half weeks past her due date.

"Doctors were negligent in failing to evaluate the baby's large size, which precluded a safe vaginal delivery," said Hires.

Instead of performing a Caesarean section, doctors induced labor and used forceps to deliver the "Hospital records indicate that there was a hemorrhagic rash and swelling on Todd's face and head at birth," said Hires.

Now a 10th grader in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, Boonstra has undergone nine brain operations. He functions at the mental level of a second grader, Hires said.

A trust fund is being established for the youth, to be used to provide counseling, education and cover medical costs.

A HOSPITAL SPOKESMAN confirmed that Todd Boonstra was born there in September 1973 but declined to comment further.

"As far as a statement, I don't know what we can say. It was 14 years ago," said Julie Sproul, director of community relations for the hospital.

"Todd Boonstra was born here, that's a fact. But we really can't comment further because this was settled out of court."

The Boonstras also have declined comment.

Apply this month for $500 arts scholarship

Applications for the Margaret E. Wilson Scholarship for the Performing Arts will be accepted through March 31.

The single award of $500 is available each spring for a person pursuing a career in dance, drama or music. Applicants are judged on the basis of talent rather than on financial need.

The scholarship was established in 1983 by friends of Margaret E. Wilson to honor her many contributions to the quality of life in the Plymouth area. The scholarship is administered by the Plymouth Community Arts Council.

This year's co-chairwomen are Judy Slade and Pam Anderson. Both are members of the Plymouth Community Arts Council.

The scholarship competition is open to any graduating senior or graduate of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools who has been accepted into an appropriate professional program.

APPLICANTS ARE asked to provide:

• A written paragraph describing goals, aspirations and career plans.

• A letter of acceptance from an accredited program, teacher or coach.

• Two letters of recommendation from people closely associated with the applicant's talents.

• A tape not to exceed 10 minutes and to include more than one selection. Live auditions in dance and drama are acceptable.

e An interview and performance will be required for finalists.

Applications are available in school counseling offices and at the office of the Plymouth Community Arts Council, 332 S. Main St. in Plymouth.

Completed forms should be returned to the PCAC office by March 31. The office is open from 9 a.m. to noon Monday through Friday. For more information, call 455-5260. Continued from Page 1

Fisher testimony continues

The Dearborn victims home was ransacked and items listed as missing included a Minolta camera, a blue nylon gym bag, a gold chain and cross, rolled change and two camera lenses, according to a Dearborn Police report.

Police have testified the Fisher home did not appear to be ransacked. A stack of money in a dresser drawer was left and a camera in a closet also was undisturbed. Canton police reported.

WAYNE COUNTY assistant prosecutor Michael Reynolds said he objected "to counsel trying Dearborn case without giving a reason.

Asking the jury not to think about the Dearborn case is like asking them to deny a "ringing bell," Reynolds told Wayne Circuit Judge Thomas Foley in the jury's absence.

Neaton also questioned the detective on why he didn't link the Fisher case to seven breaking and entering reports filed by Thornwood residents in August and September 1984.

The detective testified he didn't believe there were enough similarities between the cases with duct tape by burglars. He said he was knocked unconscious by a blow to the head. When he regained consciousness. Fisher said, he found his wife lying face down on the floor with her face wrapped with duct tape and a blanket over her.

Reynolds maintains Fisher staged the burglary in a desperate shot at stopping Mercado Fisher from pursuing an affair he believed she was having with her cousin who lives in Germany. She had plane tickets to depart for Germany a few days after she was attacked.

Democrats are trying to double their pleasure and double their fun when the state caucuses are held March 26

We're doubling the number of caucus sites to attract more people. said Marc Livernois of the state Democratic Party, who added that there will be 16 sites in western Wayne County communities served by the Observer Newspapers.

State Democratic chairman Richard Wiener has vowed that his party's unity will be in contrast to January's muddled GOP state conven-

Intraparty warfare marked the state GOP's first-in-the-nation presidential delegate process, showing you can't trust the Republicans to govern this state or this nation, Michigan Democrats will vote from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. Saturday, March 26, in some 577 caucus locations on their preference for the presidential nomination.

The results will be made public by about 6 p.m., said Livernois

Later on, district conventions and the party central committee will pick Michigan's 150 delegates to the Democratic national convention. The delegation will be selected in a three-tier process.

They will be divided up based on the support each candidate receives at the March 26 caucuses, when Michigan Democrats will be able to cast straw ballots at one of 575 locations across the state.

Proposed legislation requiring competency testing for all high school students in Michigan faces an uphill battle, based on comments Monday during a public hearing in Westland before members of a state House Education Subcommittee.

Area educators expressed concern about the value of such testing and strongly opposed state involvement in district matters such as testing.

The bill, introduced for a third time this legislative session by state Rep. Nick Smith, R-Addison, would require students to demonstrate competency in math, science and English through state-prepared or approved exams before receiving 'endorsed " high school diplomas. Those unable to pass the exams would receive remedial instruction and retesting. Students who graduate without passing the tests would receive certificates of completion.

"There is no quick fix in improving the quality of education. Competency testing will have no major impact on improving the system," said Dennis O'Neill superintendent of Wayne-Westland schools.

O'Neill also expressed concern about students who "don't test well," special education students and the increasing number of those now entering school who are from "singleparent families, who are poor or who do not speak English as a first lan-

"OUR RESPONSIBILITY is to educate each student regardless of their circumstances," O'Neill said.

Wayne-Westland schools offer graduation diplomas with six different designations based on grade point average. Students also receive 'competency printouts," a complete history of classes, grades and accomplishments, according to O'Neill.

Lynn Ehrle, an educator of 30 years who teaches at Wayne Memorial High School, said "competency tests do not focus on the critical issues of education, survival skills. If you're poor in math skills, you're poor in the pocketbook," he said.

We must equip students with the necessary skills to go out into the world and survive," Ehrle said, adding he took a personal day off from work to attend the hearing because "teacher input on this issue is absolutely essential."

Michael Homes, assistant superintendent of instruction for Plymouth-Canton schools, testified on behalf of the Michigan Association for Improved School Legislation (MAISL), a lobbying group that represents 10 school districts in Wayne County.

"Attitudes, effective communicalion, critical thinking . . . I don't think competency tests measure such things. There is need for a very clear statement of purpose here," Homes said. His biggest concern with the proposed legislation is loss of local control by districts if testing is mandated by the state, he said.

SUPERINTENDENT Michael Shibler of Clarenville schools in Livonia also opposes state, involvement in the testing. Otherwise, he endorses the proposed legislation.

Clarenceville schools initiated required competency testing in reading, grammar and math three years ago. The test is administered in ninth grade to both regular and special education students. Students new to the district are made aware of the requirement at the time of enrollment.

The graduating class of 1988 is the first to complete the exams. Those who pass, graduate and later are told by employers that skill levels are below average, remain eligible indefinitely to attend remedial classes at Clarenceville schools, Shibler told subcommittee members.

Of the 600 graduating students who have been tested, only two have failed to pass, one regular student and one in special education, according to Shibler.

"The purpose of education is to provide students with lifelong skills so that they become lifelong learners," Shibler said, adding the district uses the exams to identify students in need of remedial instruction. "The key to any successful testing program is providing remedia-

MONDAY'S HEARING was chaired by state Rep. Nate Jonker, D-Clio, who opened the session with a question. "What do we expect from our high school graduates? I think the answer is there are a good number of expectations."

Jonker, a former educator who opposes the bill, offered an alternative four-part plan called the "personal student portfolio" which involves long-range planning and goal setting by students and parents.

State reps. Justine Barns, D-Westland, and Lyn Bankes, R-Livonia, subcommittee members, questioned those who testified.

"Will students who do not pass the test be branded with a so-called scarlet letter?" Bankes asked, expressing concern about unfair competition for employment and increased student dropout rates as a result of testing.

Barns questioned how much school time is already devoted to required

Richard Bauch, a retired Ford employee whose three sons graduated from Wayne-Westland schools during the 1970s was the only non-educator to testify.

"Maybe we should study students who are successful and see what our best have that makes them successful." he said.

Over 80 persons testified at last week's on competency testing in Flint. A third and final hearing is scheduled next week in Lansing.

Bill Kenner learned scuba diving at age 65

Since then he has averaged 30 dives per year, mostly into the cold depths of the Great Lakes, he was earned diving certifications from three accrediting agencies, he was an officer of the Great Lakes Aquanauts diving club, and he is currently representing the public and the Michigan Skin Divers Council on the state's Underwater Salvage

At age 75, the Westland resident is still fascinated with scuba diving and the Great Lakes

I am proud of being able to dive with younger people and share in the enjoyment of this wonderful sport,"

Kenner strongly favors scuba diving in the Great Lakes. "Besides the fresh water and lack of such nuisances as sea urchins, our lakes are fascinating because of the many geological and archeological sights. The shipwrecks are the big attraction."

Every year an estimated 40,000 divers swim the waters of the Great Lakes, many in search of shipwrecks. The cold, fresh waters are a natural preservative for sunken ships. Of 6,000 wrecks thought to lie at the bottom, only 400 to 500 ships have been located.

Kenner has explored 35 to 40 wrecks and keeps a notebook filled with news clippings about each ship. The really interesting wrecks are

Those wrecks are a part of Michigan's heritage," Kenner said. "The looters are stealing our history.'

According to Kenner, the passage of state Public Act 184 in 1980 has given underwater preservation a big boost. The law allows the state of Michigan to establish underwater preserves and rules for governing them. To date, there are five designated preserves (see map).

Before the act passed, any wreck was open for divers to loot," said Kenner "Now, no one can remove any artifacts from the preserve's shipwrecks or bottomland without a

THE MICHIGAN Legislature is in the process of revising PA 184 to further increase protection of wrecks within the state's waters.

The new bill allows higher penalties for people caught looting sunken ships and increases the amount of area available for establishing preserves from 5 percent to 10 percent of all of the bottomlands owned by the state," said Kenner. He expects the bill will be passed soon.

Kenner noted the new bill neglects the issue of enforcement. "There is no money for policing the preserves. It is up to the communities adjoining the preserves and the diving community to enforce the legislation.

At 75, Bill Kenner still loves diving to visit Great Lakes shipwrecks. Kenner learned to scuba dive at 65 at nearby Churchill High. The former physical therapist is one of the oldest active divers in Michigan.

Support for proposed federal legislation calling for a statue of a female veteran at the Vietnam Veterans Memorial in Washington, D.C., is gathering momentum, according to U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, who co-sponsored the bill late House Bill 3528, set for hearings by members of the Health Committee on House Administration and the Subcommittee on Libraries and Memorials, has beer endorsed by 93 representatives, according to Pursell who said the number represents fairly strong" support.

The statue is something female veterans deserve. It is something they have earned Their contribution was nothing less that that of men who served." Pursell added.

The bill authorizes the Secretary of the Interior to select a site for a statue that "recognizes and honors women of the armer forces of the U.S. who served in the Vietnam War." An estimated 10,000 women, the majority of whom were nurses, served in Vietnam.

A similar bill in the U.S. Senate is also scheduled for sommittee hearings this month.

Vietnam-era fenale veterans in Michigan, many of whom are active in the Vietnam Wimen's Memorial Project organization that supports building a statue, all the bills timely and appropriate

"POPULAR SIPPORT for the project is growing" said Barb Lilly. coordinator of the Memorial Project in Michigan, adding "we need the national recognition this statue represents.

Barbara Lauscher, a Michigan native who served one tour of duty as a nurse in Vienam during the late 1960s, is "sureit will happen. Support for the staue is there. This is a chance to shor that women have also dedicated lives and time to the military.

"THE STATUE needs to go up. It's time for military women to be recognized I'm not a feminist. I'm just tired of no recognition," said Marcum who is now a pediatric nurse for Visiting Home Nurses.

Pursell's proposed legislation is the latest step in a long battle for recognition by female veterans. An earlier proposal for a statue in the Washington memorial was rejected last fall by the federal Commission of Fine Arts, an advisory group on public structures.

Commission members rejected the proposal, according to Lilly of the Memorial Project, because it represented a "special interest

"Women should not be considered special interest. The Vietnam Memorial is dedicated to men and women," Lilly said, adding the memorial sits on federal land that has been dedicated to honoring all Vietnam

Job fair set for college seniors County targets land

Agreement would provide 235 acres

By Wayne Poel staff writer

Wayne County commissioners are expected to vote March 10 on adding 235 acres to county-owned property in Northville Township.

Commissioners will decide whether to pay the state $1.8 million over two years to obtain title to the land

The county seeks to develop its Northville Township land holdings to eliminate past debt and expand county tax revenue. Acquiring the 235 additional acres is expected to make adjacent county-owned land more marketable, county executive's staff members said.

THE LAND acquisition inched closer Thursday when the commission's economic development and ways and means committee both agreed to pass the issue on the the full commission.

Under the agreement, the county would pay the state $1.8 million, potentially from the property's sale or lease, for on-site buildings. In return, the county would receive title to the land. The state would retain 18 acres and one building

The emphasis is on development If the county failed to market the property within two years, it would revert to the state. The state would be paid before the county could draw any revenue from the land

The sale price is slightly less than $7,660 per acre. Some commissioners called the price a bargain

The county would be wise to jump on it," commissioner Milton Mack, D-Wayne said.

Others, however, wanted more information on the going rate for Northville Township land

County and township officials are expected to provide assessment projections before the March 10 commission meeting. Though it isn't on the tax rolls as yet, the county hired a private firm to assess the property as recently as last year, officials County economic development director DeWitt Henry said the land should pay for itself - and potentially turn a profit for the county. Henry said he doubted the county would have to dip into its general operating budget to acquire the land. Commissioner Susan Heintz, R-Northville Township, said she was pleased the agreement had moved out of committee

'WE'RE LOOKING forward to that property being added to the tax rolls," said Heintz, a former Northville Township supervisor. The county sued the state in mid-1986 to acquire the land. The case is assigned to Wayne County Circuit

Judge Kaye Tertzag If commissioners agree, the county would end its suit by entering into a consent judgment with the state on

County commissioners held off approving the agreement two weeks ago. At that time, commissioners expressed concern about how the property would be developed. County executive's staff members said they sought a joint public/private partnership to develop all 1,040 acres of county-owned land. The land once housed the Plymouth Child Development Center, a state-operated home for mentally impaired children

Issue of regional import

TARTING next week the Observer Newspapers will begin a series of stories on the impact of group homes in western Wayne County communities.

The development of group homes is one of those issues which cross municipal boundaries The state institutions closed down were regional facilities and the group homes which replaced them are located throughout that same region.

While the Observer in Plymouth and Canton in past years has reported on group homes in these two communities, we now feel it would be helpful to take a look back at group homes here and in neighboring municipalities. Hopefully what develops will be a broader outlook for our readers. on the group phenomenon.

STORIES WILL look at the history of group homes and the controversies which have surround their location in residential areas.

How many group homes are there in our communities and in nearby towns? Where are they located? Are there any patterns relating to site location" How has the law changed regarding group homes and the placement of the developmentally disabled:

What impact, if any have group homes had on property values in western Wayne County? What does the research point to and what do area governmental officials and neighbors have to say?

What about the advocacy groups for the developmentally disabled, such as Association for Retarded Citizens (ARC) and Wayne Community Laving Services? What do the advocacy groups have to say about group homes and other forms of alternative living arrangements. What about parents who have a developmentally disabled child or adult living at home? How long are the waiting lists and what are the alternatives for

IN PLYMOUTH-CANTON the experience with group homes has been a story of mixed results.

It is not coincidental that during the same period of time that group homes have been located in residential neighborhoods, the historic prejudice of negative expectation for children and adults with mental retardation has begun to be meaningfully altered.

ago when Plymouth Opportunity Center located at Wing and Deer. Opportunity Center was in place here long before there was any talk of closing down Wayne County Child Development Center. Over the years the experience has been very positive as center residents have blended very well with townsfolks.

Despite those positive beginnings, however, there still were negative reactions when the first group home per se was located in the city. Likewise Plymouth Township reacted negatively, at first, when announcements were made of group home sites.

In Canton, also, the results have been mixed. In general, initial news has been greeted negatively and then fears quieted as time passed. At one particular site the negative reaction was very intense and lasted much longer, while at another site the initial negative reaction was of short duration and the experience has been quite positive

THINGS I WISH I would have said.

You know those times. You get in a discussion with somebody and only afterward do you come up with the pithy phrases that would have made psychological mincemeat out of your opponent:

Or after speaking at a forum. while driving home in the car, you have this insatiable urge to turn around, run back in the auditorium and tell the audience, long since gone, the most important part of your message.

It happens to us all. And most of the time, we never have the opportunity to say, "This is really the most important thing to remember."

It happened to me this weekend. But luckily, being a columnist, I at least have an opportunity to symbolically turn around the car and say 'Hey, now listen."

IT'S ESPECIALLY important because I was asked to be on this panel by a former student of mine, Tim Johnson, who now works at a public relations firm. But you do kind of build up a loyalty toward old stu-

Asks critic to reconsider

Recently a letter was published from Jerry Raymor which discussed a trip I was making at school board expense. I feel I have to reply first because some of his statements are inaccurate and some are incomplete but more important because he uses these as arguments to urge a "no" vote on the millage which could do serious harm to children's educa-

People serving in public office are natural targets for criticism. I expect those who disagree with my decisions or my actions to speak out, whether well informed or not. It is tragic, however, when those who dislike me or what I do attempt to hold money for the education of children hostage to those views.

As to the facts, my travel costs were less than half the amount stated in his letter and I never go first class. I stayed in the hotel chosen by the convention for delegates from Michigan and received the reduced rate that all did.

This was the national meeting of the American Association of School Administrators where approximately 12,000 educators and 8,000 board members meet to address the criti-cal issues and new ideas confronting education. I felt honored and hoped the Plymouth-Canton community would feel pride that I was invited to give a paper on the policy foundation of our Outcome-based Education. It is considered one of the more effective ways of organizing education.

My only regret is that more of our board could not go and participate. I could only get to about 12 of the some 170 sessions. Many boards including several from this area brought three, four, five or all board members so they could have people in many more meetings. Many new ideas are being tried out across the nation and this is a good place to learn of them. The approximately one half of

1 percent of our budget spent on staff development is probably much too small and should be twice or more that amount. Much of the dynamic new research on learning was not discovered until two or three years go and some problems like AIDS were not even known to exist 10 years ago. We must do more to help keep our staff current for their vital jobs. In the same 10 years I have served on this board, this is the second time I have taken a trip at board expense outside the state. I think I should apologize for doing this so seldom, not for doing it this time.

I hope Mr. Raymor will consider these facts, reconsider his position, and support the millage

Clarifying bill's purpose

I was very happy to read that the Observer & Eccentric is supporting provisions in Representative Hollister's "patient advocate" bill which prohibit the withdrawal of food and water and protect the fetus of an unconscious patient.

I do believe, however, that both the editorial and news article by Tim Richard reflected some misunderstanding concerning the effects of this legislation.

In two separate places in Richard's article the "right to die" bill is incorrectly described as affecting terminally ill patients. Later, an exact wording is given in which the reader is informed that the bill affects "patients unable to participate in making decisions." It is, of course, quite possible for a patient to be unable to participate in medical decision making and not be terminally ill. It is also possible for a patient to be terminal and able to participate in such decision making. This is why the protective provisions are so important. A helpless, uncon-scious person who is not dying would be left in a very vulnerable position without these provisions.

Also, it is curious that the case of Clifford Culham is used as an example of the need to pass this legislation. Culham, although terminally ill, was conscious and able to make the decision to request withdrawal of his ventilator. Representative Hollis-ter's bill would not have applied in Culham's case.

Nevertheless, pro-lifers such as myself support the protective amendments introduced by Rep. Ciaramitaro just as you do. We are grateful for your endorsement.

Visitors see real Jackson prison

THIS ISN'T A love story, although one of the characters so suffered from the separation from the person he called his girlfriend that he began mutilating himself.

The jilted lover was a male prisoner at the state prison in Jackson. So was his "girlfriend."

The story was told by the director of psychology at what you must know by now is the largest walled prison in the world. His audience included about 14 guests of Bernard Friedman, judge of the 48th District Court in Bloomfield Hills.

Friedman, who was recently named to a federal judgeship, began hosting prison tours about five years ago when he learned that police officers in his court had never seen the prison where many of their clients eventually reside. As a former assistant Wayne County prosecutor, Friedman had made a prison tour a high priority. He thought the cops should do likewise.

THE TOUR has grown beyond the police. This year's contingent included probation workers, news people, a school board member, attorneys and one man who said his interest was more personal than most. His West Bloomfield home was burglarized Jan. 3. No one was home at the time, but the fear motivated him to install an extensive alarm system that the family must bypass if they wish to go to the kitchen for a drink of water during the night.

"I guess we all live in prisons of a sort," he said.

If you get to choose your prison, take the home in West Bloomfield. The cell blocks in Jackson are everything you might imagine and worse. The cells aren't like cages, they are cages: a line of 50 stacked five deep and staring across a wide wall at a similar tier of cells. The cells are the size of a modest walk-in closet. Nearly half the space seems taken up by a bed. A corner is filled by a sink and a very public toilet. There is

In the reception cell block, a prisoner may be housed from 10 days to several months awaiting permanent assignment. About 75 percent of that time is spent in this cramped cell.

DEPENDING ON the prisoner's crime and his jailhouse behavior, he will get more freedom once he is permanently assigned. But it is still a very rough life. Witness the man who tried to mutilate himself. Or the man who clung to the bars of the fifth tier, encouraged by other inmates to make good on his threat to drop 40 feet to the concrete floor be-

The psychologist who told us these stories is one of a staff of 36 (if all positions are filled) who tend to a prison population of about 6,000. Don't expect miracles.

The work affects the psychologists. Our speaker came to Jackson as an opponent of capital punishment. His opinion has changed and his new view is buttressed by the recent murder of two prison guards, one a woman who was also brutally

When the announcement of the second murder was made, the prisoners cheered and some pointed at other guards and said, 'You're next," said the psychologist.

In two hours we had completed the same tour but had not seen the same things. Some thought the living conditions were a horrible way to treat human beings, most of whom will return soon to the free world. Others thought the treatment in many cases was far too liberal.

Friedman said the reaction was not unusual: the tour evokes varied and unpredictable reactions. It also helps a handful of people a year better understand that there are no easy solutions to crime and punishment.

SOMETIMES it's hard to communicate. Conversations can be misunderstood. Not everyone can express their thoughts in writing Raw fear, however, tears right through all communication barriers. Everyone understands what it's like to be afraid. We instantly can sense fear in each other and animals can sense fear in us, a fact which demonstrates how clear and powerful fear is as a form of communication.

Let me tell you where I'm going with this I went to an educational meeting on AIDS a couple weeks ago in Birmingham's Community House. It was an opportunity to get the latest information on the disease, since the speaker was Susan McCreedy, from the state Office on AIDS Edu-

ABOUT a dozen people showed up. McCreedy, 29, in a blue business suit, started to deliver what turned out to be an excellent presentation on 'AIDS 101," as she referred to her talk. She was blunt, which was refreshing this is how the disease spreads: these are common misconceptions about AIDS, condoms are only good if you use them; no, unfortunately, a cure is not on the horizon.

One of our photographers, Stephen Cantrell, was taking pictures during the meeting. He took several pictures, stopped by my seat and quietly asked me to get the name of a woman two rows in front of me, because he'd taken a picture of her.

I waited for a couple of minutes, since I didn't want to interrupt the presentation. But while McCreedy was having trouble loading a videotape into a VCR. I walked over to the woman, introduced myself and asked for her name so we could identify her in the photograph.

She looked up at me, stunned. "I don't want my name in the paper with a picture showing I was here," she said. I asked a couple on the other side of the room if I could call them the next day for their impressions of the presentation. They politely but firmly declined. I looked up, and two other people who had been staring at me averted their eves. It was obvious no one wanted to let the community know they went to an AIDS meeting, even if it was just to get information.

I WENT to our Birmingham office the next morning, wondering if my editor was going to believe people were too stigmatized to talk to me, but I didn't have to worry about the explanation. Before I could say anything, she asked me if Cantrell had taken photos last night and whether or not the people in the pictures could be identified. I answered yes to both questions.

She then told me about a phone conversation she'd just ended. A woman from the Community House had called to let us know two people had complained about Cantrell's presence at the meeting. They apparently thought it was tactless to maybe it was the person two tables have a photographer at an AIDS seminar because it made audience members uncomfortable. Since we wanted to be sensitive to the community, we didn't run any of Cantrell's photos.

What we had there was a roomful of people disabled by fear.

FEAR IS a healthy emotion with which to scrutinize AIDS, but it has served its purpose. I am afraid of AIDS. I don't know of anyone who isn't. But being afraid of it isn't going to change anything.

One of the startling facts McCreedy told her audience was that for every reported case of AIDS, 25-50 go unreported. That means it is likely everyone reading this column has been on an elevator with someone who has AIDS. Or than all of us.

over in the restaurant. How about the clerk at the department store?

That kind of thinking can scare us right into inactivity, a death warrant for all of us. The people who went to that AIDS meeting in the Community House should be proud of themselves. They were out there trying to find out more about the disease so they could help themselves, their friends or members of their commu-

We need more people like that, because that's how we'll beat AIDS. It's fine to be afraid of AIDS, but don't let that fear immobilize you. Anyone who would conclude that only AIDS victims attend AIDS meetings probably doesn't know much about the disease.

And that person is at greater risk

S'craft to disarm safety staff

By Wayne Peal staff writer

> Schoolcraft College public safety officers will soon be required to leave their weapons at home. Saying they believed the move would increase campus safety, Schoolcraft trustees voted 5-2 against arming public safety workers, during a special meeting Saturday. Trustees, however, didn't set a date for their motion to go into effect. New guidelines on the use of force are also expected.

There's been little comment from officers at this point, according to the college's public safety director.

They haven't expressed too much feeling about it, but there are some concerns," said Lt. William Baumgartner, who oversees the 12-officer force. "The college is certainly a reCollege says no to guns but patrols may expand Schoolcraft public safety officers have been armed since the college opened in 1964. Trustees, however, said they couldn't recall any incident in the college's 24-year history in which a public safety worker was forced to draw a weapon.

Schoolcraft president Richard

McDowell told board members the college's insurance carrier informed him premiums would be reduced if the officers weren't armed McDowell, however, said savings could be offset by increased patrols.

special education from Eastern Michigan University Lubowicki's had various jobs in education.

She's getting used to a new job

She's also done a great deal of community work, including organizing a food cooperative and serving as cultural enrichment chairwoman at Steppingstone.

I've always been on my own, every job I've had. I do enjoy that." She's able to work without a great deal of direction.

Lubowicki's new job offers flexibility. She works primarily from 9 am to 3 30 pm or so; she doesn't have to worry about day care. Lubowicki has also worked some weekends and has taken work home with

These days, Lubowicki is concentrating on getting organized in her new job. The Plymouth Symphony Orchestra has existed for more than 40 years, it's been within the last year the symphony has set up the office on Main Street.

THAT MEANS Lubowicki is work ing on getting organized, people are bringing in files and other materials they've had stored at their homes

Lubowicki hasn't worked for pay since her son was born.

"So it's getting used to a whole new routine. It's a whole different ball game from teaching." She still enjoys doing various "mom-type" activities

Lubowicki also enjoys working on crafts projects. She described herself as a "jack of all trades, master of none" in the crafts area. Antiques are also something she's interested Lubowicki isn't unfamiliar with the Plymouth-Canton community. She and her husband lived in Northville Township briefly, and then moved to Livonia. 'I'm familiar with Plymouth."

Moving to this area isn't an option; Lubowicki's husband works in Flint, so a move to Plymouth or Canton is out of the question.

Lubowicki would like to see the long-term basis."

The symphony has performed in such communities as Novi, Brighton and Ypsilanti. She'd like to make people from surrounding areas more aware of the Plymouth Symphony

SHE'S ENJOYED attending PSO concerts and was particularly impressed with the Christmas concert.

My kids come to all the concerts and they enjoy them too." Lubowicki enjoys listening to classical music and to other kinds of music.

A message from Oakwood's Cardiology Center

Four weeks ago, Charlie Mitchell thought his playing days were over

Charlie was lucky. Because when his heart attack occurred, his teammates recognized the symptoms and immediately rushed him to Oakwood Hospital's Emergency Room. Their quick response and Oakwood's fully equipped, 24-hour emergency room are two factors in Charlie's speedy recovery.

Many people wait too long before seeking medical treatment.

A delay can cause additional damage to the heart...even death. Oakwood Hospital is just minutes away, and we can do a world of good. For 30 years, Oakwood's cardiologists have been dedicated to the treatment of cardiovascular disease. Our treatment capabilities are state of the art, ranging from drug therapy to the latest surgical techniques. Treatment options include the use of anticoagulant drugs - like streptokinase - that destroy blood clots in the arteries. But, because everyone is different, the treatment is determined on a patient-by-patient basis. And Oakwood's cardiology experts individualize the care each patient receives as well as the treatment program.

> Oakwood is also devoted to the patient's follow-up care, with education courses and monitoring that help lead patients back to full, active lives even after a heart attack. So don't delay.

TREATMENT FOR GLAUCOMA Glaucoma is the result of abnormally high fluid pressure within the eye, which can cause damage to the optic nerve and ultimately result in visual loss. The two main types of glaucoma are: chronic and acute (or narrow angle).

The chronic type is treated with daily use of eyedrops and/or pills to reduce eye pressure. When pressure cannot be controlled with medication, Argon laser treatment can be performed which opens tiny fluid channels within the eye, thereby lowering pressure.

Laser eye surgery eliminates the need to make an incision on the eye. The incidence of infection and other complications are greatly minimized. Laser P treatment is performed in the doctor's office and there is minimal or no discomfort present. Vision after laser may be blurred, but clears within 24 hours. Patients can resume their normal activities immediately after

In acute glaucoma, where pressure can suddenly rise to dangerously high levels, medication is given immediately to lower pressure. An Argon or YAG laser "iridotomy" is then performed which creates an opening in the colored iris of the eye to allow fluid passage. A laser iridotomy can also be performed in patients with narrow angles to prevent a future attack of acute glaucoma.

Only regular eye examinations can diagnose glaucoma. Early detection is essential in the preservation of valuable eyesight.

For more information on this and other eye diseases, please contact The Coburn Clinic.

Synagogue in Livonia to mark Purim holiday

The Livonia Jewish Congregation will present "Purim Brunch" at 1! a.m. Sunday. March 13, at the Shul, 31840 W. Seven Mile, corner of

All children should be dressed in costumes. Prizes will be awarded for the best costumes

The Jewish Feast of Purim coincides each year with the 14th of Adar on the Hebrew calendar. In a leap year on the Hebrew calendar (seven times in 19 years), a 13th month is added. It follows Adar and is designated as Adar II.

This ensures that Passover is always celebrated in the spring.

Purim recalls the plot of Haman to exterminate the Jews of Persia and commemorates the day when the Jews, through the intervention of Mordecai and Queen Esther, narrowly escaped the fate planned by Haman.

"It commemorates the physical survival of Judiasm," said the Rabbi Martin Gordon, who's been at the Livonia Jewish Congregation for 21 years. "This is a time when a villain set out to destroy the Jewish peo-

JEWS GATHER in the synagogue on the eve of Purim and listen to the events portrayed in the Book of Esther, which is read from a special scroll called a megillah. Whenever Haman's name is mentioned, children make a loud noise with graggers (noisemakers) to express their condemnation of the villain.

After the reading, sweets are passed around. Specially baked for the holiday are three-cornered pies known as hamantashen.

Traditionally, gifts of food known as shelakhmones are sent to friends on Purim and charitable contributions are made to the poor.

Among traditional Jews, it is cus tomary to fast on the day before the Feast of Purim in remembrance of the fast ordered by Queen Esther. Gordon remembers the celebrations that took place while he was in school in New York.

"They had plays and mock up songs and skits to celebrate Purim." Gordon said. "We dressed in costumes as Queen Esther had to disguise herself to hide that she was a Jew. Her real name was Haddasah."

THE HISTORY of Purim is described in the Biblical Book of Esther as a plot by Haman the Agagite to destroy the Jews of Persia during the reign of King Ahasuerus. Mordecai learned of the plot and told it to Queen Esther and she told the king. When the truth was known, the men who plotted against the king were both hanged. The incident was recorded.

Then, King Ahasuerus promoted Haman, the Agagite. All bowed down before Haman as the king commanded. But Mordecai did not.

To get revenge, when Haman discovered that Mordecai was a Jew, he decided to plot to destroy all the Jews in the kingdom of Ahasuerus.

The king had originally agreed to Haman's plot. Queen Esther began to fast as a result.

When the king saw Esther on the third day of her fast, he offered her any wish she desired. Queen Esther asked that the king and Haman come to a feast that she had prepared.

THAT NIGHT, the king asked for the record book that told of great deeds. He discovered the story of Mordecai having saved him from a servant's plot.

Asking Haman how a man who pleased the king should be honored, the king took Haman's advice and told him to do this honor to Mordecai, the Jew, who sat in the king's

The roll of the dice takes away from life

Is life a gamble? Some would claim so; others would insist so.

Life is whatever chance forces you or allows you to have and be.

In this view of life, the emphasis is on chance. Fortunes of life would rise not out of diligence and effort, but out of every fortuitous experience that life itself might have. It isn't what you earn or produce; it's what you are unlucky or lucky enough to have and be.

By this definition, there are obviously many lucky people. Equally true would be the observation that there are many unlucky people. And in between are all those who exist in the varying stages from one to the Surprisingly so - and perhaps not so surprisingly - those who are luckier than others are less inclined to attribute their good fortune to chance. Industry, diligence, sacrifice, etc., are usually claimed as primary causes for fortune and fame. The lack of these are also usually listed as the reason for the plight of the unlucky ones.

The unlucky ones would disagree.

THEY MIGHT admit some deficit of character and effort, but would never agree with the implication that one's place in the scheme of life is related to one's own effort or the lack there of. Being in the right place at the right time will explain success to the unlucky ones more often than anything else.

Is life a gamble? Of course not. And we do a great disservice to suggest or allow people to believe in any way that it is. Leadership in public service and order should be more careful in shaping values and re-

Life is a gift. It is a gifted opportunity and a responsibility. Given breath and form in the process of birth, we are set in the midst of all creation.

The world is in our care. It will serve us as we choose. Our Judeo-Christian heritage is quite clear about all of this. And was it not a priority of our nation's judgment of life that "all people are created equal." It is a judgment that simply insists that color and class shall never serve as a prejudice of life. It is a judgment that clearly rejects the suggestion that life is a gamble. We surely meet formidable foes in our journey of life. We might even suggest sometimes that "the odds" are against us. But then we would turn life into a gamble and rejecting the very responsibility we have to care for this earth with all the powers of justice and righteousness that we command. IT IS TRULY ironic that at this city and state, we are in danger of denying the very resources that could be used for their rebirth of responsibility and stewardship. To rely on the lottery and casino gambling for the generation of basic moment in the journey of life for our l ivelihood is the very denial of the basic gift of life. A recent spokesperson said that "he would make a pact with the dev-il himself if it would bring jobs to Detroit." Gambling certainly will do that. Unfortunately, the jobs it will bring will never bring life.

To regard life as a gamble means that one has already killed the gift that life has provided.

Vigorous exercise can be fatal to bad heart

First of two articles

In his provocative and controversial book. The Exercise Myth," Dr. Henry Solomon argues that vigorous exercise cannot prevent heart disease it can even be dangerous.

One can be healthy without being physically fit, he said, and one can be fit and still develop fatal heart disease

Such was the case with Jim Fixx. the running guru who collapsed and died during a run. It was subsequently learned that Fixx smoked ciga rettes and was overweight in his younger years, that he had a strong family history of heart disease this father died of a second heart attach at the age of 43), and that he developed symptoms of chest pain a short time before his death symptoms second article. he chose to ignore.

Yet, Fixx's death was a shock

So was the recent death of "Pistol Pete" Maravich, who collapsed while playing a pickup game of basketball An autopsy on Maravich, who was just 40, revealed that his heart had no left coronary artery a rare finding Fixx, on the other hand, had severe heart disease.

REPORTS OF exercise-related cardiovascular complications have appeared in both the medical literature and the popular press, suggesting that strenuous physical activity may actually bring on heart attack or sudden death in some persons

Consequently, four important questions regarding the value of exercise have recently emerged

(1) Is exercise risky? (2) Does the benefit of regular exercise outweigh the risk?

(3) Why do complications occur in apparently healthy" adults? (4) Can the individual "at risk" be accurately identified? They will be explored in this and a

Americans now running, some number of them could be expected by chance to die during exercise - just and sleeping.

The critical question is Does strenuous exercise temporarily increase the risk of cardiovascular complications as compared to less vigorous activity?

Unfortunately, the answer appears to be "yes"

Exercise-related cardiovascular complications are extremely rare in to those of us who have been led to the general population. A landmark study in 1982 reported only one jogging death per year for every 7,620 joggers in Rhode Island, corresponding to an hourly death rate for jogging of 1 per 396,000 hours.

Nevertheless, this rate was almost eight times the hourly death rate of 1 in 3 million hours for non-vigorous as some die while eating, reading activity. The higher rate suggests a casual relation between jogging and

In fact, it appears that people who die during exercise often have some form of cardiovascular disease. Indeed, heart disease appears to be the major killer of conditioned runners age 40 years and older who die while

It's never too late to exercise

My husband and I plan to join an exercise group at the Y. I really do wonder if it "pays" to start a program of regular physcial activity at our age - early 70s.

As a gerontologist, what do you think - is too late?

Mrs. R.S..

Dear Mrs S

It is never too late to start a regular program of physical activity for anyone no matter what age he or she is So often age is used as a poor excuse not to exercise.

Before you and your husband join the exercise group, you both should have a complete physical checkup.

We Educate Your Children To The Best Degree Possible.

What degree of success will your children achieve? Intellectually, morally, physically, emotionally?

The answer will depend on the degree to which you are willing to help them.

If you are truly concerned, an important way to help is to ensure they attend a school dedicated to developing their full potential, a school like one of the independent Michigan schools listed below

Why an independent school rather than a public or parochial school? It's simply a matter of degree.

• The degree of attention. A low student/teacher ratio ensures individualized instruction, careful guidance and monitoring of a child's progress.

• The degree of care and concern. Independent schools are committed to education in the broadest sense, cultivating not only academic achievement but also nurturing students' moral, physical and emotional wellbeing in a secure academic environment. Individual attention also allows teachers to recognize problems quickly and provide the care and support needed.

• The degree of freedom. At an independent school students are not regimented, not impeded by the system. They are allowed to build upon their own strengths, and are encouraged to work to the best of their abilities.

• The college degree. Preparation for higher education is stressed at each stage of student development. A firm foundation in the fundamentals —including science, history, literature, foreign languages and computer science-paves the way for success in college and career.

How to choose a school.

Parents are cordially invited to visit individual schools where they can compare programs and absorb the different atmospheres. We're sure that with 20 diverse schools, you'll find one ideally suited to your family's needs. Bill aims to regulate employee drug tests

By Philip A. Sherman taff writer

Firefights over drug abuse no onger are limited to the streets of Detroit and its suburbs. In many ways an even hotter battle is raging 85 miles west of metro Detroit in the corridors of the state Capitol.

The issue is whether a law should be passed spelling out an employer's employee for traces of drug abuse. Such a law does not exist, said Susan Schlaybaugh, aide to state Rep Victor Krause, R-Rockford.

At the moment, there's nothing, Civil Liberties Union, the United Auto Workers and a Troy attorney who wrote a book on employee drug testing, state that it should not be done at all

Krause has introduced House Bill 5006, "a bill to regulate employer drug screening policies and drug detection tests." The bill is wedged in the House Labor Committee, and reported out. "The Democrats will eventually, a bill will make it through absolutely nothing, on the books that need such a bill to find out who's spells out how they do it, what types abusing legal controlled substances, of labs they use. We feel that if we're illegal drugs or both, Schlaybaugh going to do it, let's do it right," she said Safety on the job, rising insursaid Others, such as the American ance costs and substandard productivity are the three main reasons businesses would like to enforce drug testing.

The question of whether employers have the right to test employees bill as Schlaybaugh said, is expected to die even though it has support.

Those employers believe they

Under Krause's bill, an employer presented with evidence of a positive

He (Krause) feels employers

What an employee does off the job is none of the employer's busisaid Mark Brewer, the ACLU's labor attorney

Brewer said the bill goes too far when it grants employers complete authority over an employee with a positive drug test. "I think that's part of the problem. When somebody loses their job (for testing positive). we call it industrial capital punishment They may never get another job again.

The UAW, in a policy statement adopted in September 1986, also is against drug testing and instead advocates treatment, emphasizing an individual's presumption of inno-

Both organizations say drug tests are inaccurate enough of the time to falsely accuse an innocent person by returning a "false positive" test result "The tests are highly inaccurate and the technology is unreliable." Brewer said. "Even reputable labs that have been in business for years have very high error rates.

BUT KEN STOCKTON, a spokesman for Southfield's Metric Medical Labs, one of Michigan's largest independent companies that does employee drug abuse tests, disagreed. He said a preliminary test called EMIT, which can screen for up to 10 drugs, is 94 percent to 97 percent accurate (see related story).

Brewer also said there is no correlation between a test result and an individual's ability to do a job. Beyond that, it is the invasion of privacy and personal humiliation that Brewer said are offensive.

"Did you know somebody has to watch you urinate from less than six inches away? It's uncivilized and unnecessary," he said. Krause's bill also specifies that "certain" employees could be forced to take a drug test, which Brewer sees as a broadbased attempt to force all prospective or current employees into a drug test turning due process upside down."

Lab test application is key

By Philip A. Sherman staff writer

Fears concerning inaccurate drug tests are unfounded, according to a representative of one of Michigan's largest independent labs that tests employee urine samples for traces of drugs.

Further, Ken Stockton said it isn't the job of Metric Medical Labs in Southfield to determine how those results are used.

"Our responsibility is to take a specimen, do the test as ordered and provide a result. How that result is applied is in someone else's hands," he said. "All it says is that at suchand-such a time, this urine specimen from John Doe showed this."

. He said the tests are highly accurate

"On a first pass we do a test called EMIT (Enzyme Multiplied Immunoassay Technique). It can screen for 1-10 different drugs. The chemicals and equipment used are proven

Our responsibility is to take a specimen, do the test as ordered and provide a result. How that result is applied is in someone else's hands.'

-- Ken Stockton

and provide a result of 94 percent to 97 percent accuracy," Stockton said. He said Metric Medical Labs would not report a positive test with-out running the EMIT procedure twice. The test costs between $20 and $30, Stockton said. If further testing is needed, Stockton said the second phase is a procedure called thin-layer chromotography, which is a "broad spectrum test. You're screening for hundreds" of drugs, he said. But Stockton said this test is "very subjective" and sometimes unreliable because "there is room for human error." Results can vary depending on the analyst reading the test results, Stockton said.

The third test, gas chromotography-mass spectrometry, is very accurate and leaves little room for error, Stockton said. "When you are throwing that much technology at a specimen, you are coming close to 100 percent accuracy," he added.

But Stockton admitted some cold medications will show up as drugs of abuse. "Some of the technology is not sophisticated enough to say 'Oh. that's Nuprin and not cocaine," Stockton said.

"It is crucial for the person administering a test that the applicant be interviewed in a comprehensive way and asked to list every single medication the person is on. The control for the problem is that interview," Stockton said.

College financial aid counseling debated

By Kevin S. Merrill staff-writer

A new cottage industry in American secondary education - private counseling services - is drawing guarded praise as a surrogate for the overworked school counselor.

But the industry, with its promises of effective career guidance and access to millions of dollars in financial aid for college-bound students, is also drawing cynical rebukes for its commercialization and profitmaking enticements.

"If students do their homework, it's probably not necessary to go through these organizations," said Tim Ross of the California Aid Commission, which authored a study three years ago that concluded computer matching of students with financial aid sources was Still, with the average four-year cost of a public college education approaching $27,000, parents and students sometimes see no option but to use the services as part of an overall plan to finance education. Even harsh critics emphasize that no two of these organizations are alike. Many companies offer access to financial aid resources only as an aside and rely primarly on counseling the student and family.

This counseling generally includes aptitude and "self-assessment" testing, which can gauge the student's intellectual and personality strengths. The results are formulated to provide direction as to what college or vocational program to enter, as well as what schools to consider.

Drug bill provisions outlined

The Pre-employment and Employment Drug Testing Regulation Act as sponsored by state Rep. Victor Krause, R-Rockford, includes the following provisions:

· An employer may require, as a condition of employment or as a condition of continued employment, that employees, return-toservice employees, or applicants for employment submit to a drug detection test. ~

 The employer must provide advance notice to applicants and return-to-service employees before a drug detection test is administered; and inform present employees of the employer's drug detection policies in writing not less than 60 days before a drug testing program begins.

 In conducting a drug detection test, an employer shall ensure, to the extent feasible, that the drug detection test only measures, and that the employer's records only reflect, information regarding drugs or controlled substances in the body. This subsection shall not apply if the drug detection test is administered in conjunction with a general physical examination.

• The employer must pay the costs of all drug detection tests. A sample that tests positive must be saved by the lab for no less than 90 days. And confirmation of an initial, positive screening test must be confirmed by a subsequent gas chromatography-mass spectrometry drug detection test.

• Those tested have the right to rebut or explain the results of any drug detection results. The determination as to whether explanation is satisfactory shall be made solely by the employer

 A copy of any positive drug test results and all reports and the name of the lab used and test performed must be provided by the employer upon written request by the employee.

 Drug detection test specimens and drug detection test results shall be encoded to protect the identity of the person to be tested. An employer shall maintain adequate records of all detection tests conducted in order to establish a chain of custody. · A person alleging a violation of this act may bring an action for injunctive relief or damages or

His Livonia-based company promises five sources of aid to students based on a computer search by Academic Guidance Services, a multimillion dollar company, which claims to have a $3-billion data bank. AGS has granted a license, for a one-time fee plus annual computer maintenance costs, to Boyce and hundreds like him across the country to market the AGS computer bank to students looking for financial aid. The license grants the people running the businesses access to the computer, but does not represent any type of accreditation.

Krause asked.

BOYCE, AN adjunct professor of business and finance at Schoolcraft College, said "there's going to be a certain number of students that aren't successful" finding financial aid Just how high that percentage is and how tailored the five aid referrals are is at the heart of the financial aid services debate.

Gary Klotz, a Troy attorney, said laws already exist that grant employees certain rights outlined in Krause's bill "In my opinion, we don't need any of them (drug testing laws)," he said. Trust allows you to minimize estate taxes

First of two parts

Skillful financial planners can use several sophisticated tools to avoid federal estate and gift taxes. Among these are the many types of non-revocable trusts. The accompanying table presents a summary of these tools. In this two-part article we will briefly discuss some of these tools.

The key issues

The avoidance of federal estate tax issue revolves around two key factors the estate tax exemption limit of $600,000 and unlimited marital deduction. The law offers a credit that allows every person to give away during lifetime or leave after death up to $600,000 free of federal gift or estate taxes.

The second feature is even more generous. It states that a person can leave an unlimited amount of assets to the surviving spouse free of federal estate taxes.

These two provisions of the law allow parents to pass an estate up to $1.5 million without federal estate taxes via the use of a testamentary trust known as a bypass or family

Bypass trust

A bypass or family trust is created as a testamentary trust (one that goes into effect upon someone's death). Upon death, the assets are reallocated in such a way that no estate taxes would be due either upon the first or the second death. An illustration should make this clear.

Suppose John and Betty Jones own $1.5 million. $800,000 of which is in John's name and the balance is owned by Betty. If John's assets are transferred to Betty upon John's death, no estate taxes would be due because of unlimited marital deduction. However, upon Betty's death, only $600,000 would pass estate-tax free, thereby subjecting the balance to estate taxes.

The Joneses adopt an alternative strategy to avoid estate taxes. John modifies his will to create a bypass trust. Upon John's death, $600,000 worth of assets will be transferred into the bypass trust, while the remaining $200,000 would be directly received by Betty.

The situation would now be as follows. Assets received by Betty would qualify for marital deduction and would escape estate taxes Assts transferred into the bypass trust would not qualify for marital deduction, still they would escape estate taxes because John was entitled to a $600,000 estate tax exemption

John could arrange for Betty to receive part (up to 5 percent or $5,000) of the trust's principal. In $800,000 would pass free of federal estate taxes.

The story would be repeated upon Betty's death. Betty would not have a marital deduction but would be entitled to the $600,000 estate tax credit. Assuming that Betty's estate was still at $600,000 ($400,000 of her own assets plus $200,000 received from John), the entire asset would pass to her beneficiaries tax free.

ADVERTISEMENT FOR BIDS SANITARY SEWER TELEVISION INSPECTION CITY OF PLYMOUTH, MICHIGAN

The City of Plymouth, Michigan, will open sealed bids on Tuesday, March 29. 1988, at 10 00 a.m. E.S.T., in the Commission Chamber at 201 S. Main Street, Plymouth, Michigan, for:

Television inspection of 15,125 lineal feet of sanitary sewers

Plans and specifications may be obtained at the office of the City Engineer. A certified check, cashier's check or bid bond in an amount not less than five percent (5%) of the bid must accompany the proposal.

The Commission reserves the right to accept or reject any or all bids and waive any irregularities. Sealed bids may be mailed or personally delivered to:

> Linda Langmesser Deputy City Clerk 201 S. Main St. Plymouth, Michigan 48170

Envelopes should be plainly marked: Sealed Bid: Sanitary Sewer Television Inspection For Opening: Tuesday, March 29, 1988

Publish February 29 and March 3, 1988

NOTICE - 1988 - CITY OF PLYMOUTH BOARD OF REVIEW SESSION

The Board of Review for the City of Plymouth will meet in the City Commission Chambers of the Municipal Building at 201 S. Main Street on:

> TUESDAY, MARCH 8, 1988 FROM 12:00 NOON TO 6:00 P.M. WEDNESDAY, MARCH 8, 1988 FROM 3:00 P.M. TO 9:00 P.M.

The Board of Review is held on an annual basis, the first Tuesday after the first Monday in March, in compliance with Michigan State Law. The meetings provide an opportunity for taxpayers to present protests or suggestions relative to assessed values on local property.

A WRITTEN PETITION MUST BE SUBMITTED TO THE CITY ASSESSOR'S OFFICE BY MARCH 7, 1988. Petition forms can be obtained at the Office of the City Assessor located on the first floor of the Municipal building. The Board of Review meeting will be held by "APPOINTMENT ONLY" after a written petition is submitted. Appointments will be scheduled February 22nd thru March

Any PLYMOUTH RESIDENT (or his/her agent) must make a personal appearance before the Board of Review. For NON-RESIDENTS who own property located in Plymouth, a written petition will be considered.

In the City of Plymouth local assessments will be increased for the year of 1988: Residential + 12.3%; Commercial + 16.5%; Industrial and Personal Property will reflect no change. We are anticipating that on all local assessments the State Equalized Valuation and the TENTATIVE FACTOR to be 1.00.

WILLIAM S. GRAHAM. City Clerk

Salem cage star selects Tennessee

Salem basketball star Dena Head decided where she wants to play college ball, making defending national champion Tennessee her choice.

Head considered all aspects of 3 schools

By Dan O'Meara

staff writer

Plymouth Salem girls basketball standout Dena Head. winner of the 1988 Miss Basketball Award, will play her college basketball at the University of Tennessee

After narrowing her final choices to Ohio State, Iowa and the Volunteers. Head said she spent "a lot of time" doing "a lot of hard thinking" before accepting UT's offer of a full athletic scholarship.

She has cast her lot with a program that is among the national leaders in the women's game. The Vols won the national championship last year and, under coach Pat Head Summitt, have been to the Final Four in either the AIAW or NCAA tournaments eight of the last 11 years.

But a good basketball program was not the only thing Head was looking for when selecting a school. An excellent student who plans to follow a pre-med curriculum, she was concerned as much about the academic side.

"I FELT I could get everything I needed from that program and be happy at the same time," Head said. All three had an equal amount to offer me, and it was a hard decision.

'(The basketball team) might be ranked No. 1, but basketball was not the only reason," she said. "What matters is what happens when basketball is done and life goes on. Education should come first.

Head said she considered the "full package" at each school, and that included three things: the basketball program, the campus atmosphere and whether she thought she would be happy at the school and the coach.

In Summitt, she will be playing for a coach with an international reputation, having coached the United States women's team to the Olympic gold medal in the Los Angeles Game of 1984.

But the coach alone was not what sold her on UT. Again, it was the total package the school, in Knoxville, Tenn., had to offer.

"It's not just a matter of who's there or what's there." Head said. "It has to be all of those things combined.

"THAT SHE IS a great coach is demonstrated by her record and her success in the Olympics. Where her team is every year is a positive.

Two former Michigan high school stars, Daedra Charles of Detroit DePorres and Tonya Edwards of Flint Northwestern, are current members of the UT squad, which boasts a 25-2 record.

Head, a prep All-American, takes a realistic approach to her future as a college player. She hopes eventually to be a key contributor at UT, but she has no illusions about wowing the competition right away.

How well someone fits in all depends on the particular individual," she said. "If you can learn the program and excel, you're going to get that playing time.

"If I go in and need time to develop and adjust, so be it. I'll accept that.

When you get to college, the players are of equal ability and better." she added. "That will be the fun part, accepting that challenge."

HEAD HAS given a verbal commitment to Tennessee but can't sign a letter of intent until women's basketball players can do so on April 12. Coming to a decision also meant contacting the coaches at OSU and Iowa to tell them she wouldn't be attending their schools.

"I think they were disappointed, but that comes with the coaching territory," Head said. "There were question of why and if I would consider changing my mind, but then they must move on and go to the next player."

The 5-foot-101/2 Head averaged 28.6 points her senior year at Salem and led the Rocks to a 25-2 record and a second straight appearance in the Class A semifinals. During her four-year varsity career, Salem had a combined record of 89-12

One of only a handful of players statewide to score more than 2,000 career points, she averaged 101/2 as a freshman, 151/2 the next year and 251/4 as a junior. She also averaged 13 rebounds, 51/2 steals, 61/2 assists and three blocked shots last season.

CC's Heaton, Krueger state wrestling champs

By Jim Toth staff writer

Redford Catholic Central's wrestling team proved last weekend that its season-long ranking as the state's No 1 Class A team is no fluke

Competing against the state's finest last weekend at the 41st annual Michigan High School Athletic Association Lower Peninsula Individual Wrestling Finals at Battle Creek's Kellogg Center Arena, the Shamrocks placed four wrestlers in the finals and emerged as one of only two schools with more than one champion (the other was Milford Lakeland).

"I couldn't be more pleased for the kids," CC coach Mike Rodriguez said "Sure it would have been nice to have a few more champions, but I can't be disappointed. This is a very close knit team and they know how much hard work each has put in and the sacrifices they have had to Catholic Central's bookends, heavyweight Toby Heaton and 198pound Lee Krueger, proved invincible during the tourney by winning all four of their respective matches. Two other finalists, Matt Helm at 126 and Brendon Rock at 138, settled for runner-up showings, Chris Rodriguez at 145 finished fourth and Chris Lemanski came in fifth at 167.

OTHER PLACINGS by area wrestlers included a fifth by Wayne's Brian Hunt at 105 and North Farmington's Zaim Cummalaj at 198 and sixth by Rob Matigian of Westland John Glenn at 132.

Heaton got the finals off to a favorable start for the Shamrocks as he battled Clio's Scott Brotherton for more than five minutes before sticking his opponent and claiming his second straight state title.

"I wasn't worried when I was down 2-0," said the defending champion Heaton, who improved his season mark to 60-1. "I've gone into overtime before, so it doesn't bother me when I'm down. "But I could hear him breathing real hard and I knew he was tired I knew if I kept on him, I'd get him."

Heaton had little trouble in his first two matches as he scored a technical fall over Mark Jennings of Royal Oak Dondero and blanked

Rich Loren of Davison, 10-0. His third win came over Helios Tenaglia of Berkley

"I FEEL GOOD," Heaton said. "I'm usually not overwhelmed by pressure, but if I would have lost, I would have had to explain it for the next six months. This is payday for

It was payday for Krueger in another way as the Shamrock junior avenged his only two losses of the season by downing Brett Keir of Krueger entered the tournament with a 53-2-1 record, with both losses coming to Keir.

"We talked about that going in and overconfident and think you're easy." Rodriguez said.

Krueger held the advantage from the beginning as he led 5-1 after two periods and "kept concentrating," as he put it, until the final whistle.

"I HADN'T BEEN concentrating in some of my matches and haven't been shooting as much," said Krueger, who also posted wins over Doug Calo of Royal Oak Kimball, Cummalaj and Mike Naklicki of Traverse City. "I felt I had just as good a chance as he did, and with me being here twice before, I think that helped. This is something I have dreamed about since I was a little

Lee Krueger 198-pound champion

Helm and Rock weren't as fortunate as their teammates as they fell one win short of a championship.

Helm, who sports a 54-3 ledger, opened with a pin of Rockford's Chris Doty in 32 seconds. He followed with a 10-4 decision over Chris Snooks of Birmingham Brother Rice and turned back Scott Brown of Novi before losing in the finals to Jeff Bedard of Kimball, 7-3.

Rock, who has a 37-7 record, was pinned at 2:42 of the finals by Jamie Boyd of Mt. Pleasant. Prior to that, Rock had beaten Tyrone Sexton of Niles, Jim McDonald of Midland Dow and George Alvarado of East Another CC placer was Rodriguez, who settled for fourth with a 5-2 loss said that he (Keir) might be a little to Dave Prain of Hartland. Rodriguez had started the tourney with two wins, a 3-2 decision over Aaron Frazee of Portage Northern and 6-3 count over Rob Whitman of Davison. His next match was a loss to eventual champion Torrae Jackson of Lansing Eastern.

> LEMANSKI EARNED THE Shamrocks final placing when he defeated John Honey of Holland, 5-1. Lemanski had recorded wins over Chuck Palm of Lakeshore and Ervin Milton of Lansing Sexton before losing to eventual runner-up Shane Camera of Rochester.

Livonia Franklin advanced into Thursday's Class A regional hockey semifinals, defeating Grosse Pointe South 4-3 Monday in overtime in the first round at Wyandotte's Yack Arena

The semifinal game against Grosse Pointe North begins at 6 tonight at Yack Arena Franklin is 16-7 overall

B.J. Wilson's goal at 6.23 of the overtime period won the game for the Patriots Chris Berger and Paul Cramer collected assists on Wilson's

Franklin trailed 3-1 entering the third period, but two goals by Brian Stover sent the game into overtime. Stover's first goal, coming at 7.26 of the third period, was assisted by Chuck Olschanski and Rob Ingersoll. His second goal came with only one minute remaining, with Dave Henrikson and Mike Zajdel drawing the assists

After a scoreless first period, Rodney Goin, Jim Ryszewski and Bill Huintington scored second-period goals for South. The Blue Devils led 2-0 before Olschanski scored for Franklin at 3.31 of the second period Zajdel and Stover got the assists on Olschanski's goal will host the division's Michigan Amateur Hockey Association championships this weekend

The tournament will feature eight of the state's top Midget teams and will be played over four days, beginning Thursday, at the Plymouth Cultural Center and Ice Arena

The Plymouth representative won the Little Caesars Hockey League crown with a 19-2-0 record and recently added the District IV title.

Because it is the host team, Plymouth was guaranteed a place in the tournament, but it certainly didn't have to back into the field.

Plymouth earned the right to compete for the state title by beating Southfield in the district. Plymouth lost 5-3 to Southfield but survived the losers' bracket and defeated Southfield in back-to-back games, 2-1 and 4-1, to win the championship.

Churchill takes volleyball crown

By Steve Kowalski staff writer

While the rest of Livonia Churchill's volleyball team celebrated the Western Lakes Conference championship Saturday at center court, Alison Merner sat on the bench, too sore to join her teammates

But make no mistake, Merner was a key figure Saturday in Churchill's first-ever WLAA tournament championship held at Walled Lake Cen-

Merner had 24 kills throughout the all-day tourney and in the championship match against North Farmington, recorded six more before suffering an ankle injury Churchill led North Farmington 6-0 in Game No. 1 of the championship before Merner left with the injury. The Chargers went on to win the match 15-4, 15-8, convincing themselves they could win without Merner although they'd rather have her in the lineup

"WE THOUGHT it might be over. but we decided to win it for her," said Churchill's Missy Donahue, who made seven of eight dig attempts in Game No. 2. "Coach (Mike Hughes) told us we had more than a chance to win, but we didn't know if we could

Reserve Julie Rieder filled in capably for Churchill, serving 10 points in the championship match. To get to the final round, Churchill finished second at 5-1 in its pool and then defeated state-ranked Livonia Stevenson in the semifinals, 15-3, 14-16 and 15-8, by serving 14 aces.

North Farmington, which began the day losing to Stevenson in the opening match, placed second in its pool and beat Walled Lake Central in the semifinals.

By the time both teams got to the final round, they were exhausted, both Hughes and North coach Sandra Lubieniecki said

"OUR MATCH with Stevenson is an inter-city kind of match that is very emotional, and North's match with Walled Lake Central was very intense," Hughes said. "In a way the championship was an emotional letdown for both teams. Overall, though, it was a nice day. I like those kind of days.'

Said Lubieniecki, whose team finished the regular season at 30-9: "We ran out of gas. We played well all day long but the schedule wore us down. We played matches one after the other without having much time to rest. The legs were starting to go against Central (in the semis)."

Chiefs win pre-district

Plymouth Canton's volleyball coach Allie Suffety knows the importance of a sound defense

The Chiefs played well on defense to Belleville 15-8, 12-15, 15-10 in a Class A pre-district game Monday

We did a good job defensively," Suffety said. "We let down in the second game, but we played exceptionally well in the other

Susan Ferko and Carrie Pyhtila were the stars for Canton Ferko made six kills in 10 attempts, while Pyhtila had four kills in six

The Chiefs evened their record

Missy Bosscawen and Suzi Butcher were North's top hitters, collecting 26 kills throughout the tourney. Donna O'Brien had 23 kills and Debbie Weintraub had 26 service points.

One of the better serving performances of the day for Churchill came in a 15-1, 15-4 sweep of Farmington Harrison during pool play. Rosemary Hally had eight points serving against Harrison. "Rosemary's good serving gave me an indication that we'd do well." Hughes said

DEFENSE WAS critical for Churchill in its three-game win over Stevenson Setter Sandy Brow had 17 digs in the Stevenson match, along with seven service points. Merner collected seven kills for Churchill, now 30-8 overall. The Chargers took commanding 12-2 and 10-2 leads in the first and third games, respectively, against Stevenson.

"That's been the character of our team," said Stevenson coach Lee Cagle. "It seems like in every game we've played this year, we've allowed the other team to put together a four- or five-point streak. We get into a panic mode and aren't able to shut it off with a simple sideout."

The Spartans, who dropped to 34-5 on the year, did have some respectable individual performances turned in by middle-hitter Sue Zatorski (46 kills), Laura Brown (16 service aces), Rocky Cibor (39 assists), Trisha Kosikowski (141 sets.

But the day belonged to rival Churchill.

Rocks get best of Rats

Plymouth Salem gymnastics coach Kathi Kinsella could not conduct business as usual while coaching her team to victory. Kinsella was sick and unable to jump around to the different events trying to inspire her girls. But, even without her providing incentive, the Rocks managed to beat Ann Arbor Huron Monday. Salem scored 125.45 and Huron 124.75 in a "strange

"The Ann Arbor gym was a very strange place to hold a meet," Kinsella said. "The gym had a dome roof and everything echoed." Amy Pastori led the way for Salem by tying for first in the floor exercise (8.15) and the balance beam (8.15). She also tied for second on the uneven

Debbie Popp and Sharon Way also had good nights for Salem. Popp finished second in the vault (8.2), tied for third on the beam (7.65) and placed fourth in floor exercise (8.15). While Way tied with Popp on beam, she also finished third in floor exercise (8.26), qualifying for the regional.

Dana Holda also made a big contribution by placing first on the vault (8.3) and third on the bars (7.6) for Salem, which finished the dual-meet season 9-2.

Area clubs compete for title

The meet begins Friday at the Orchard Ridge Campus of Oakland Community College and will continue through Sunday

Cramer, who led the Raiders to a fourth-place finish in the Class A meet last fall and is 0 8 shy of making the Olympic Time Trials, is one of several quality swimmers the MSSA will enter in the senior competition.

Like Cramer, Mercy High School star Roberta Orr. Janet Caraher. Kelly Sheridan and Maureen Lee have qualified for the junior nationals, placed among the top six in league and state meets and set high school records during their careers.

THE STINGRAYS, who also captured the combined (boys and girls) long-course title last August, will defend their crown against area rivals such as the Livonia Spartans Aquatic Club, Clarenceville Swim Club, Oakland Live Y'ers and Birmingham Blue Dolphins

The similarities between the teams and the roads they've traveled to get where they are extend beyond the fact they have passed the test

Both ballelubs had to deal with trying circumstances during the regular season, both have overcome un favorable odds that made them decided underdogs entering the tournament and both have diverse wellbalanced teams

In the case of North, the Haiders were dealt an émotional setback on Jan 26 when teammate Matthew Leiter, a reserve forward, died following a loss to Westland John

Both teams have grown accustomed to the underdog role, and the fact both have made it to the championship round makes for the most extraordinary final matchup in the brief history of the WLAA.

The difficulty an oddsmaker would have is determining which of them becomes the underdog now. Based upon the records of the opponents they've beaten in the playoffs.

Elliott played a key role in Salem's win over WLC, having missed the two games the Rocks lost to the Vikings during the regular season. He had a career-high 21 points, surpassing the 18 he had against Southfield in early December

He's one of those players who's hungry. Brodie said. He's one we look to as a floor leader right now.

Obviously, we don't have any kids who dominate, but we have a lot who are really close," Negoshian said. That's the difference in making up for our lack of size.

REBOUNDING WAS a key against Glenn in the semis as North held the Rockets to one shot most of the night Ratajski had nine rebounds, 6-foot Shelton seven and 5-11 Hill five.

There's no question Ratajski has stepped to the forefront," Negoshian said, but the forwards have done

Considering their size, there's not much more mileage we can get out of those kids. That's just hard work.

Chiefs fight back, nip rival

Livonia Churchill in the rubber game between the Western Division basketball rivals

The Chiefs used a 22-point third quarter to overtake the Chargers for a 54-52 victory in the Western Lakes playoffs last Saturday at Plymouth Salem.

Churchill doubled the score on Canton in the first quarter after Steve Ditchoff hit three three-point field goals to stake the Chargers to a 20-10 lead.

The Chiefs regrouped enough to climb within seven points at halftime, 30-23, and they outscored Churchill by eight in the third period to take the lead, 45-44. Mitch Fyke had 10 of his team-leading 14 points in the second half, including 6-of-6 free-throw shooting, to lead Canton's comeback effort. Brian Paupore had eight of his 12 points in the last half.

The Chiefs, who will play Farmington Hills Harrison for fifth place in the Western Lakes at 4 p.m. Saturday at Salem, were 10-of-12 at the line in the second half, and Fyke was 8-of-10 for the game.

Jason Belaire, who downed 10 of 11 free-throw attempts, scored a game-high 16 points for Churchill, Brad Wylie 14 and Ditchoff 12.

Plymouth Salem won each time it played North Farmington during the regular season, but that won't mean anything Saturday night

What happened in the past will be of little consequence when the defending champion Rocks and the Raiders play for the Western Lake basketball championship. Tipoff scheduled for 8 p.m. at Salem.

The reason for that is due to the fact both teams appear to be playing at much higher levels than at any time during the 1987-88 season.

They're as hungry as we are, and they believe in themselves," Salen coach Bob Brodie said. "They've won big ballgames back-to-back, and their confidence level is up '

The Rocks won the first game between the two 69-60 at Salem and the second 84-65 at North Todd Marion scored a game-high 23 points in each for the winners.

"THAT OMEN of playing a team a third time - I don't believe in it, said Brodie, adding he overheard his players talking amongst themselves about not being overconfident after whipping Lakes Division champ Walled Lake Central in last Saturday's semifinals.

The thing we have to remember is that we haven't won anything yet. We need one more game to make it all count.

While point guard Matt Hoffman is North's leading scorer, senior Kurt Dudek had high-point honors in both, games with Salem, scoring 17 and 19, respectively.

The Raiders were down by 12 points at halftime in the first meet ing but battled back to within 54-52 Keith Smith scored six of his 11 points early in the fourth quarter to spark Salem to the victory.

Scott Hale also had 11 points for the Rocks and Pat Rzepecki 10. Hoffman added 15 for North, and John Shelton and Bill Green had 10

When the teams met again, Saleni made six three-point shots in the first half and the Raiders four as the Rocks shot ahead 47-38 at halftime Bill Anderson scored 16 points and Jeff Elliott 10 for Salem.

"THE SCORE of the first two games was not real indicative," Bro die said. "They were close games until the end when they were forced to foul and we spread the score with free throws.'

North coach Tom Negoshian said it's a matter of positive thinking for the Raiders, who were expected to lose their last three games but didn't. If a team can win once under those circumstances, it can do so a second time and so on, he said. "I just have to believe the kids re ally believe, and they're the ones who count at this point," Negoshian said. "It makes no difference what it says in the paper or what other people say. If you believe, you can overcome a lot of obstacles and become successful.' An emotional obstacle the Raiders overcame was the death of a team mate, Matthew Leiter, after a game in late January That says a lot about their resiliency." Negoshian said. "That's what being young is all about, believing in what you can accomplish.'

SC'S STRUGGLES started with Wetzel's resignation and continued throughout the season with players lost for a variety of reasons. Andy Grazulis quit in preseason after Wetzel left, Mike Sullivan left to concentrate on his studies, Deon Frederick became academically ineligible, and Mark Claiborne departed after a disagreement with Bogataj (he later returned, but never played again).

All four were potential starters. Bogataj was forced to replace them with walk-ons. Of the players left him, only Hawley, Ladion Tait, Brad Ridgeway and Andy Stephens had high school experience. Guards Williams and Greg Good, forward Mike Wiktor and center Gary Strunk had never played in high school.

The almost constant changeover in personnel made a difficult job tougher for Bogataj. He said his staff, assistants Chris Theodore and Chris Woodman, were major factors in the team's perseverance.

"To put the whole thing in a nutshell," said Bogataj, "we wanted to get through this year. Now we know what it takes to succeed in our conference."

As Michael, the older brother, Douglas John Spangler also turns in a fine performance. His Michael is as real as your wisecracking, nextdoor neighbor and, throughout the play, remains an empathetic character, despite the potential for violence which seems to lurk just beneath his attractive, comic surface.

The vivacious and animated Summer Walters is endearing as Janet, the sister who tries to escape the problems at home by immersing herself in schoolwork and popularity Younger, sister, Carol (through whose eyes, in several flashbacks, we see the past), is played by Kristie Hass with touching vulnerability. She also displays an uncanny knack for seeming to physically transform her adult character into a confused.

hurting child in just a moment's time, without benefit of costume or makeup change

IN A SMALL role, Debra Jackson-Burns does a good job as the children's abused, terrorized mother, who manages to keep her dignity always, no matter what happens.

As John Smith, the tortured alcoholic. Jeff Hedeen completes the cast. His highly complex character, sometimes resembling a madman, is wonderfully realized here, seemingly consumed by a dark and terrible anger that often appears about to manifest itself, even when he is not drinking

Though an intense drama, "Speak No Evil' contains many light moments. Actually, much of the play is laugh-out-loud funny. Brown has woven in the comic touches expertly, so they are a natural part of the fabric of the play and don't have the feel of something awkwardly tacked glorified disc jockey," who plays the sounds of the big band era and presents a visual show for the audience Only Illusion offers live onstage entertainers and authentic sound of no less than 15 of the oldtime greats - Miller, Goodman, Dorsey, James, Lombardo, Barnett, Kyser, Shaw, And we have about 55-60 songs. Best said.

I HAVE THREE to four saxophones, three horns, two trombones stand-up bass, guitar, piano, drums, vocalist and director," Best said Members of the band are in uniform - blue blazer, gray slacks, white shirt and red tie.

There are real instruments, most of which he said don't work. "If someone makes a squeak with one. we'll kind of joke and stop and all stand around and say, 'Did you make

The idea for Illusion came to Best three years ago when he and his wife were attending a wedding reception. The disc jockey was so loud that you could honestly feel the air pressure pushing on your body from the speakers of his equipment. And there was no way you could talk to the person next to you, let alone say, 'Pass the salt.'

On the way home that night, Best said they were listening to CKLW and the big band sound. "I said, 'Now that's what people ought to play at these weddings and reunions and stuff like that - music that's soft and pretty and that's played at a volume (so) that the people can talk at the tables and enjoy themselves because that's where the party is - at some person, a DJ, is making a lot of

When his wife then said that he'd have to have a gimmick because there are millions of disc lockeys." Best replied that if he was going to be one, he guessed he'd show slides on the wall of all the big band lead-

'And she kind of said, 'that wasn't very exciting.

Then it just hit me within two seconds. I said, 'I know I can go out and get 15 or 20 friends and acquaintances to get up there and pantomime or mimic or lip sync, what have you, the big band sound." He'd also go out and get real instruments that were broken, build bandstands and have mirrored balls turning and the lights running up and down, and the group would all wear uniforms "Then one of us would be a disc jockey and play that great sound, but the people in the audience would have something to look at

IN ILLUSION, the piano player is the disc jockey, working the audio equipment.

Of course, a person in the audience who really wants to make the illusion as real as possible won't look for the equipment or what the pianist is sometimes doing off to the side. And the person will forget that members of Illusion have such reallife occupations as teacher, newspaper writer, stockbroker or naturalist at a nature center. The person should simply enjoy the show.

Best considers the group's vocalist, Andrea Wojack, "a knockout. I don't know what we would do with-the tables, not up on the stand where out her," he said. "And when you're five feet away from her or 15 feet away from the band you can't tell

She's incredible In addition to Best and Harper Woods resident Wojack, regular members of Illusion include Don Myers of Troy, George Preston of Plymouth, Ken Boldig of Rochester, Monroe Walker of Detroit, Clark Landon of Rochester, Dick Turnquist of Livonia, Peter Smith of Northville, John Polson of Redford, John Gosney of Wixom, Martha Hindes of St. Clair Shores, Best's son, Bob, of Fair Haven, Don Lax of Inkster, Wayne Whitlark of Westland and Dave Powers of Detroit.

Best noted how difficult it is for Dave Powers, a professional drummer, to pretend to play drums. 'And when he's done, we almost have to carry him of the stage because it's much harder to play but stop short of actually hitting. The guy really wears himself out."

For those who can't afford a real big band but can spend a little more than what a disc jockey requests, Illusion might be the answer.

Absolutely marbleless

By Janice Brunson staff writer

ARBLE, ACCORDING to master craftsman Jeff Steinke, 40, contains motion, a thickening and winnowing of veins that simulates motion much like that of moving Poetic talk, especially for the husky Steinke who resembles a linebacker or a woodsman, but when it comes to marble, or more specifically, marbling, Steinke thinks in strictly poetic terms.

Majestic pillars in the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club, a massive fronting on McBryde's Footwear in Somerset Mall, window pillars in La Rocca Bella in Birmingham's Piccadilly Square or decorative edges in Hills home illustrate Steinke's marble poetry.

Stunning examples of faux marble or marbling are so realistic and alive as to be mistaken for the real

'We create a picture," Steinke said of marbling, "a picture of marble's natural flow. It takes years to learn the feel (of the craft)."

Steinke takes wood, cement, drywall or any surface that can be sealed and applies a three-stage paint process using high quality oils and finely honed camel hair brushes to simulate the exact look of genuine, expensive marble.

The only way to tell the difference between it and the real thing, he said, is by touch. Marble is cold and smooth as glass. Wood, drywall or cement is pocked.

STEINKE'S CRAFT is something of a rarity, not that it is practiced but how it is practiced, in the old style when craftsmen apprenticed for years to learn their trade, taking Sam Valenti's $2 million Bloomfield immense pride in the finished handi-started working for Steinke's father in 1951 when the elder Steinke founded Steinke Painting Contractors. Jeff Steinke took over the business in 1976 and Frank staved on.

The old man proved to be a stroke of good fortune.

Beginning in the mid-1970s Steinke said he began hearing stories about a new wall finish being applied by painters on the east and west coasts. It resembled marble. As the stories grew, so did Steinke's cu-

It was Frank who satisfied the younger's man inquisitiveness.

"It isn't new," Frank offered, referring to the marbling process. "I did it 50 years ago." Thus began Steinke's apprenticeship.

FOR OPTIMUM results, marbling must be applied by hand, a laborious process that is time consuming and requires a master craftsman, according to Steinke.

During his apprenticeship with Frank, Steinke attended marbling school in New York City, hoping to learn a quicker application than the tedious hand method where each vein is carefully fashioned. He studied six days and learned to marblize with squares of visquine or cotton cloth and pieces of sponge.

Upon his return to Michigan he demonstrated the process for Frank. The old man immediately burst into what Steinke described as "long and hard laughter. He called it finger playing," effectively ending any further thought about a quicker method.

"I had to check to see if there was a faster technique. There isn't," Steinke admits, although examples of what Steinke derisively calls the "sponge and rag" method abound. "I can tell in a minute how it was applied."

When work is done poorly, Steinke takes umbrage at it being called marbling. "It gives the whole craft a bad name."

So far as Steinke knows, he and Frank are the only master marbling craftsmen in the metropolitan area. Since he does not want the old style to die, he is currently apprenticing a younger man.

FAUX MARBLING that is applied well can fool the most discerning connoisseur, providing an illusion of the real thing at a fraction of the cost. A marble counter measuring 20 feet by five feet costs approximately "The Marxes were there with some of their work, and I was amazed with what they did. I wanted to bring them here so that we could train people living in our area in their techniques."

Faux (pronounced "fo", which is a polite French word for "fake") veneers were discovered in early Chinese, Egyptian and African cultures, Ida Marx explained. During her own career as an art historian,

In addition to The Finishing School, the Marxes work as consultants in decorative painting and conserving antiques.

The Marxes have restored a number of buildings listed in the National Historic Register, as well as some private commissions

Oakway scholarship winners shine

By Mary Jane Doers special writer

The Oakway Symphony Orchestra has been conducting its "Artists of Tomorrow competition for the last 10 years. Each year it is always amazing to witness the talent that emerges from these competitions

Last month 32 musicians competed for three prizes and the opportunity to perform with the orchestra. Last Sunday afternoon, in the pleasant surroundings of Kresge Hall at Madonna College in Livonia, three of these winners were presented to the

IT WAS NOT THAT his selections were totally unfamiliar. They are very well known, which only made rendition of two opera arias, his performance more outstanding Of course the ornamentation in "Comfort Ye" and "Every Valley" vary with each performance, but Traver made each note in his trills and turns clear. Combining vocalists and instrumentalists in one competition is a little like comparing apples and oranges in this reviewer's opinion. But in this case, musicianship was the emphasis. That is not to say that the second- and third-place winners were any less qualified. Both Laura Dahl, a pianist and second-place winner, and James Wilson, a cellist and third-place winner, displayed not only talent but also that intrinsic quality of being able to excite the au-

Laura Dahl, also of U-M, gave a very appealing performance of Schumann's "Concerto in A minor. The only thing lacking was it ended movements. She won the $400 Arts Foundation of Michigan award

In the absence of program notes Oakway's vice president David Wassenar gave an engaging commentary before each number about both the artists and the selections

Unfortunately, the other thirdplace winner. Kristine Schreiber, a clarinetist who also attended the University of Michigan, was not present to perform the scheduled Debussy "Premiere Rhapsodie."

The next Oakway concert will be Sunday, March 27, at Harrison High School in Farmington and features the spectacular "Balshazzar's Feast," by William Walton.

Realism still calls for some basic rules

Last week a group from our Artifacts Art Club went down to the Detroit Institute of Art. We "oohed" and "aahed" all over the place - until, at last, we entered one little room. It was full of paintings that could be at best be described as 'childlike.'

I have alredy confessed that art history was not my bag, but I don't have a clue as to what you would call the style in which these paint-

Now don't take me wrong. I love impressionism and most other "isms." And a painting doesn't need to be realistic to turn my head. But I room. When we walked through, you could hear a pin drop. Nobody knew what to say

Finally, Mike Sennet, a very softspoken, super-realistic artist, muttered as he turned toward me, "I think I've been workin' too hard at this art business." It took me about 20 minutes to recover from that one

If what was in that room was good, it did appear that we have all been "working" too hard at this art business

But most of us try to follow the rules in art and most of the time the still more basics about realism and I would like to mention three more to-

NO AMOUNT of detail can offset poor structure. Structure, with little detail is, however, acceptable and even refreshing.

When I am teaching my anatomy students. I must say the words structure, proportion and alignment" over and over. Nothing, be it a building, a basket, an elephant or a flower can exist without structure. So likewise is proper structure the requirement for a rendering of anything. Structure is the supporting ar-

It's the bone beneath the muscle in its bolder state and the tiny rib in the butterflies wings in its delicacy.

I find it is best when developing a sketch to start with short straight strokes even in the gesture. Then, after a quick gesture, check for correct proportion and alignment. Proportion means how one feature compares to the whole. In anatomy, it is useful to use head heights. A head height is the distance from the chin to the top of the head.

There are, for example, two head heights in the upper leg bone. One and a half heads in the upper arm.

One head from the elbow to the wrist and etc. The whole body can be kept in general proportion just by counting head heights.

But could rendering a bird be that different? Not at all. Measure the beak of the bird and compare that length to the size of the foot lengths in its beak. So you see, there is no mystery in proportion. You do the same thing whether you measure with a ruler or if the ruler is in your head. How high is the handle of a basket? Is it as high as the basket is wide or long? So proportion is always comparing one feature to the
