Public hearing set on new city budget

By Doug Funke staff writer

Plymouth city commissioners have taken their whacks at the 1988-89 municipal budget proposed by city manager Henry Graper. Now taxpayers will have their chance at a public hearing scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

Monday at city hall, 201 S. Main. A slightly revised spending plan calling for general fund expenditures and revenues of $5.7 million resulted from a budget workshop last week involving city commissioners and administrators

A tax rate of $17.05 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation (half of a property's market value) has been proposed.

Even though that tax rate is lower than the current rate, residential tax bills would increase by about 6 percent on average due to an increase in property values.

CITY SERVICES would continue at the same level as last year, Graper said. Major budget revenue projections in-

- Property taxes $3 million.
- State shared revenues $896,000 · Administration fees, including accounting charge-backs from local water and sewer accounts, reimbursement from the downtown development authority and state gas and weight taxes - $505,000.

- Recreation/cultural center user fees $496,000.
- Loan proceeds $220,000.
- District court fines $120,000.

MAJOR expenditure projections include:

 Administration, including loan disbursements, fringe benefits for all municipal employees, accounting charge-backs for administrative services, and the city manager's office - $1.4 million.

- Police department $997,000 Department of public services --$965,000
- Cultural center/recreation department - $782,000. • Fire department - $437,000.
- Maintenance of city property -

Water, sewer project on tap for township

By Doug Funke staff writer

Plymouth Township public works officials have prepared a six-year capital spending plan that would pump $3.2 million into local water and sewer systems and a new DPW storage building.

The township board already has given the go-ahead to four of the seven projects proposed for this year.

Those are:

 A water main along Ridge Road from Joy to Ann Arbor Road $160,000.

· A meter pit and pressure reducing station at Joy and Ridge $65,000

· Piping and valve work at the meter pit connection - $16,000. A 675-foot sanitary sewer line along Five Mile Road west of Lake-

wood Drive - $46,000

ACQUISITION of land and construction of a DPW storage building at an estimated cost of $690,000 also are on the drawing board for this year but have yet to be approved.

So, too, is installation of a 900-foot water main along Joy east of Ridge to service a new subdivision planned for that area.

School budget studied

By Doug Funke staff writer

Every time Plymouth-Canton school administrators get updated information while putting together a budget for the 1988-89 academic year, the financial picture gets bleaker and bleaker.

That's the word from Raymond Hoedel, associate superintendent for business

Hoedel and his staff were busy grinding out numbers earlier this week preparing for a school board workshop on the budget scheduled for 6:15 p.m. Thursday.

It could be a lengthy meeting. In addition to looking at spending cuts that could exceed $3 million, the school board probably will decide whether to ask taxpayers for more money one more time before implementing the cuts.

THE STUDY SESSION will take place in the board offices at 454 Harvey in downtown Plymouth.

The board already has authorized layoff notices to 74 teachers. That would reduce the payroll next year by $1.8 million, said Norm Kee, assistant superintendent for employee relations.

Last month, administrators presented an '88-89 spending plan calling for cuts of $4.7 million from cur-

A seminarian at St. John Provincial Seminary in Plymouth Township faces trial on sex charges involving a 15-year-old boy.

Joseph Shawnee Skelton Jr., 25, of Detroit was arraigned April 11 in Plymouth's 35th District Court on one count of third degree criminal sexual conduct. The warrant cited oral sex in the

A plea of not guilty was entered by Judge John McDonald and Skelton was released on $15,000

Accompanied by his father, Skelton voluntarily turned himself in to police after an investigation began, said Chip Snyder, Plymouth Township deputy police chief.

A PRELIMINARY examination to determine if there is enough evidence to hold a trial was waived by Skelton. The Wayne Circuit Court trial date has not been set.

"The person in question resigned from the seminary early (in the investigation) until the matter is resolved," said the Rev. Robert Byrne, St. John

Police said the alleged incident occurred in late March in the seminary dormitory.

The seminarian reportedly drove the boy home, Snyder said. That's when the mother noticed the boy was upset and asked what was wrong, he said. "Once the matter is resolved we can look at the situation again depending on the outcome," said Byrne responding to a question on whether the seminarian will return to priesthood preparation. The 40-year-old seminary on Five Mile just east of Sheldon will close this summer.

SKELTON HAD TWO more years of study as a seminarian before he would be considered for priesthood, Byrne said. It takes at least five years of study in a seminary after receiving a bachelor's degree before a candidate is considered for priesthood, he added.

'We have such a lengthy period of preparation to give people a lot of time for us to look them over and for them to know themselves better," Byrne said.

He said the long preparation period is important because it gives the individuals and those evaluating them time to learn about personalities.

The longtime Plymouth resident is a "Meals on Wheels" volunteer with Out-Wayne County Human Services Inc.

"I'm service-oriented, I have to admit that to begin with," Ackerman told a passenger en route to the first stop.

"It's very rewarding, because you get to know the people. They're all very pleasant and very appreciative. Some are very sad. I don't ever get any complaints. Most of them are women, but you always enjoy the

The 75-year-old Beard is happy to be off the Meals on Wheels waiting list.

"I'M SATISFIED. I can't say enough for the women who bring the meals. They're the nicest people. The majority of the meals taste nice. There's a good variety," said Beard, who can't cook — doctor's orders.

"They don't want me by the stove since my back operation. I have a brace so that I can walk," said Beard, a recovered cancer patient.

After a little visit, Ackerman made her way to Alex Riddell's apartment.

"He'll be sitting in his chair," said Ackerman.

Sure enough. A seated Riddell greeted his visitors, delighted to receive his barbecued chicken, au gratin potatoes and broccoli.

How is Meals on Wheels cooking?
"I'm not losing any weight, you can see that," said Riddell, a 77-year-old diabetic.

"I can't complain."

Ackerman said she's met her share of characters as a volunteer.

School civil rights policy put in writing

The Plymouth-Canton Community Schools has developed a written policy on civil rights after state auditors criticized the district's previously informal practices.

More commercial development could be added on Schoolcraft College's western Livonia campus.

Schoolcraft trustees are considering developing an additional 735 college-owned acres in the I-275/ Haggerty area.

The property is less than a quarter-mile south of Seven Mile Crossing, the college's first public/private development.

Seven Mile Crossing, developed in conjunction with Duke Associates of Indianapolis, recorded another milestone this week when ground was cleared for a second office building. The 15.6-acre development will eventually contain at least two office buildings, a restaurant and a hotel or third office building, a Duke spokesman said.

DEVELOPMENT ON the additional 735 acres is at "a very, very preliminary stage," said Kenneth Lindner, Lindner, a former Schoolcraft vice president is overseeing development on the college's be-

As many as five additional office buildings could be built, he said, but development plans haven't yet been adopted.

"Everything's in the talking stage right now," Lindner said. We haven't even approached the city about it because we don't have all our information in line."

Preliminary studies, Lindner added, have shown that one build-ing could be built along Haggerty, four others along 1-275.

Schoolcraft trustees authorized Lindner to meet with Duke Associates this week to discuss the additional development. A contract between the college and developer could be signed next month, he

ANY CONTRACT would be subject to trustees' approval. Schoolcraft would also need rezoning approval from the city before development could begin.

A public hearing on the development was held last week. Among those attending was John White, executive director of the Livonia Chamber of Commerce.

"It should help the people of Livonia by adding something to the tax rolls," White said. "I think the property will be developed carefully, they'll phase it in."

Duke officials downplayed this week's meeting. "We've been meeting a lot with Schoolcraft people,' Ernest Maddock. "Especially because Seven Mile Crossing is ahead

About half the space in the first building has been leased, Maddock said. The four-building development is expected to be completed in 1990, he added.

A decision on whether to build a hotel or third office building is ex-

Rapid progress on Seven Mile Crossing (above) may have convinced Schoolcraft College officials to seek additional devel-

Lawmakers fight for police school

Western Wayne County legislators say they will continue to work with law enforcement officials to establish a regional police officers training facility in Garden City.

The Western Wayne County Police Chiefs Association wants a regional training academy at the Schoolcraft College Radcliff Center in Garden

However, the Michigan Law Enforcement Officers Training Council has a moratorium on new academies because of funding problems, which have resulted in understaffing, according to state Sen. William Faust.

Faust said that western Wayne County and downriver lawmakers along with college officials and law enforcement officers believe this academy could be achieved by shifting resource to the western Wayne location.

The out-Wayne County legislative caucus was expected to meet Wednesday to discuss the academy. according to a spokesman in Faust's Schoolcraft officials have said the academy could be created with minimal cost.

THERE WOULD be a one-time $13,000 facilities cost, primarily involving renovating a college locker room, according to Edwynna Coplai. Coplai, an associate professor in-charge of the Radcliff Center, has been working with the chiefs on the college's behalf.

Staffing would cost some $35,000

We definitely need this kind of facility in our area to enhance the ability of western Wayne County and downriver police departments to attract and train high-quality recruits in a timely fashion. This is important to the department's increased efforts to fight crime." Faust said. He pointed out that the western Wayne and downriver area is one of the most populous in the state, and its lack of a police officers training academy prohibits participation and advice by local police chiefs. Livonia Police Chief William Crayk, a member of the Western Wayne County Police Chiefs Association, said the goal of the new academy is to supply the metropolitan area with more officer candidates.

CRAYK, WHO sits on Schoolcraft's preservice academy advisory committee, said there are regional academies in Oakland and Macomb

Schoolcraft College, at the request of the police chiefs representing western Wayne County and the Downriver Mutual Aid Task Force, is preparing a proposal for the Michigan Law Enforcement Officers Training Council. The college and police chiefs would like to present the proposal to the council for approval by fall and begin the first academy in the spring summer

County begins health program

Wayne County has launched the beginning of Phase I of a new indigent health care program.

Under the preadmission review program, the county hopes to gain control over its costs for indigent health care by requiring hospitals to verify a person's county eligibility and obtain county approval prior to admission. The county expects to save up to $2 million.

"For the first time, we will be able to monitor our costs and review hospital bills before they are paid," county Executive Edward McNamara said.

"No longer will the county be billed after the patient is discharged. This program will end the confusion over who is eligible and who is not, and who is going to pay the bills."

THE PREADMISSION review program is the first step toward the complete reorganization of the coun-. ty's indigent health care program, which is slated to begin in October 1988. This reorganization plan was made possible by the legislation that was passed in Lansing last Decem-

ate as follows:

BEGINNING THIS week, hospitals will be required to call a designated contact person to determine if a patient is eligible for treatment under the county's program.

Plymouth Y director to leave post

When Janet Luce began as director of the Plymouth Community Family Y, she had little time to settle into the job.

When I started we had one small room, one desk, one file cabinet and no programming." Luce said. "They told me to have a program in two weeks. I worked day and night and got a program out."

Now, 14 years later, Luce has called it quits as executive director of the Y. She is getting married next week and moving to Flint. Her last day on the job is Friday.

We have gone from a budget of $27,000 to one of $150,000," Luce said. "Each year we have grown and progressed. We've done a fantastic job considering we don't have a building.

Handling the day-to-day pressures associated with work as an executive director was one of the most enjoyable aspects of the job, Luce said

"THE FUN of pulling things together, making things happen liked that deadline pressure."

The lack of a facility to house the karate, gymnastics, aerobics and other programs has been her biggest disappointment.

But even without a building. Luce said the Y has become a part of the Plymouth, Canton and Northville communities through the variety of programs offered.

Last year, 3,500 people participated in programs while the Y had 730 members.

She is pleased with her role in starting the Plymouth Run, scheduled this year for June 19. The run, now in its ninth year, attracts hundreds of participants.

The Y now hosts an annual auction and is a participant in the Fall Festival.

She also points to her work in obtaining $90,000 in federal grants for the Y and her efforts in starting the Senior Citizen Club and outreach programs for older resi-

Luce earned a bachelor's degree in recreation from Eastern Michigan University.

After the wedding, Luce said she plans to step into the slow lane and enjoy the outdoors with her husband, Jim Williams.

"I might volunteer but I doubt if I'll work again," she said.

And Luce still thinks this area needs a building for the Y.

"The timing is right, the population base is there. We have the interest. We don't have a lot of businesses to help us, like Livonia. We'll need more community participation to make a building come into being."

And that's the message she would like to leave to the commu-

Area lawmakers split along party lines as the state House of Representatives gave 68 to 36 approval to the spending outline of an $800 million bond issue.

The fly in Gov. James Blanchard's ointment is a provision to use part of the money for "economic development.

"It's unthinkable that we pass an economic development provision but fail to provide meaningful guidelines for spending those funds," said Rep. W.V. (Sandy) Brotherton, R.Farmington "The governor wants to use long-term borrowing to solve shortterm budget problems - bad public

tion could be trusted with such a large pool of economic development funds

We've had a recent example in this town of the administration's economic development with a close friend of the governor getting a $20 million contract for a state building to lease to the state when it's acknowledged the state can build it for $12 million," said Rep Donald Van Singel R-Grant

Van Singel was referring to a 20year. $24.5 million contract won by Blanchard friend and supporter Joel Ferguson and Sam Eyde, two Lansing developers, to build a 113,864square foot, five-story building to house the Lottery Bureau and Department of Corrections. Surprisingly, many people don't real ize that Michigan Lottery revenues help the state's public schools. The following

Q: What happens to Lottery revenues?

A: Since 1981, revenues from all Michigan Lottery games have been earmarked for the state School Aid Fund to help support kindergarten-12th grade

Q: How much does the Lottery

A: To date, the Lottery has provided approximately $2.9 billion to the state! In the last fiscal year, the Lottery's contribution exceeded $407 million

Q: Why haven't my taxes gone down as a result of the Lottery contribution?

A: The annual state budget for support of elementary and secondary education is continually increasing. So, while your taxes may not have decreased, maintaining the same level of education funding without Lottess revenues during the past two years alone would have cost the average Michigan household another $250 more in the form of direct taxes.

Q: Does the Lottery provide this money to the individual schools?

A: No. Lottery revenues are turned over to the Michigan Department of Education for distribution to individual school districts according to terms of the School Aid Formula developed by the legislature. Thus, the Lottery has no control over, or exact knowledge of, how its contribution might figure in allocations to individual school districts

Q: On what does the Department of Education base its allocation of these dollars?

A: According to the department, allocation of the School Aid Fund is based on local support for education. School districts which have a high local tax base are considered to be "out of formula" and receive a lesser share of funding than districts with lower tax bases. So aid per pupil and per school varies throughout

Q: Who should I contact if I want more information on my school's share of the fund?

A: For more information on your area, you can contact your local school board office or write to the Michigan State Board of Education, 608 W. Allegan, P.O. Box 30008, Lansing, MI 48909.

For submitting the question leading to this column, 50 tickets for the current instant game, "Cash Explosion," have been set to Dorothy Culi of East Tawas

Local lawmakers support bill to protect shipwrecks

Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes in the week ending April 15. HOUSE

PROTECT SHIPWRECKS - By a vote of 340 for and 64 against, the House passed and sent to the White House a bill (S 858) to protect valuable shipwrecks from random encroachment by sport divers, commercial salvagers and archeologists.

The bill assigns states title to historic shipwrecks submerged within three miles of shore or embedded in coral reefs. It gives states power to control access and determine allocation of any discovered treasure. Federal courts could no longer assert jurisdiction under admi-

Between 5 and 10 percent of the estimated 50,000 abandoned shipwrecks off U.S. shores are thought to be of significant historic or commercial value.

Supporter Walter Jones, D-N.C., said "only states can balance the legitimate interests of all groups interested

Opponent Jack Fields, R-Texas, said "the real goal of this legislation is to severely restrict, if not prohibit, access to these vessels."

Members voting yes wanted state rather than admiralty law to determine access to certain historic shipwrecks. Voting yes was Carl Pursell, R-2, Dennis Hertel, D-14, William Ford, D-15, Sander Levin, D-17, and William Broomfield, R-18.

ACCESS TO WRECKS - By a vote of 134 for and 268 against, the House rejected an amendment to S 858 (above) requiring states to allow sport divers and commercial salvagers access to shipwrecks under state

Sponsor Norman Shumway, R-Calif., said that without his amendment states would "throw a wet blanket on the private sector incentive to go out and discover

Opponent Jack Brooks, D-Texas, called the amendment redundant because the legislation already assured states would provide "reasonable access" to their

MEXICO AND DRUGS - By a vote of 63 for and 27 against, the Senate approved and sent to the House a resolution (SJ Res 268) ordering a cut in U.S. foreign aid and other economic benefits to Mexico on grounds Mexico is lagging in support of American anti-drug efforts.

The vote nullifies a recent administraton certification that Mexico is "fully cooperating" with the war on drugs and thus eligible for full American aid.

Sponsor Pete Wilson, R-Calif., called the State Department's certification "a travesty . . . that should get a Pulitzer Prize for euphemism."

Opponent Alan Simpson, R-Wyo., said the resolution would impair our relations with Mexico, further hampering the ability of the Drug Enforcement Administration to operate efficiently in Mexico."

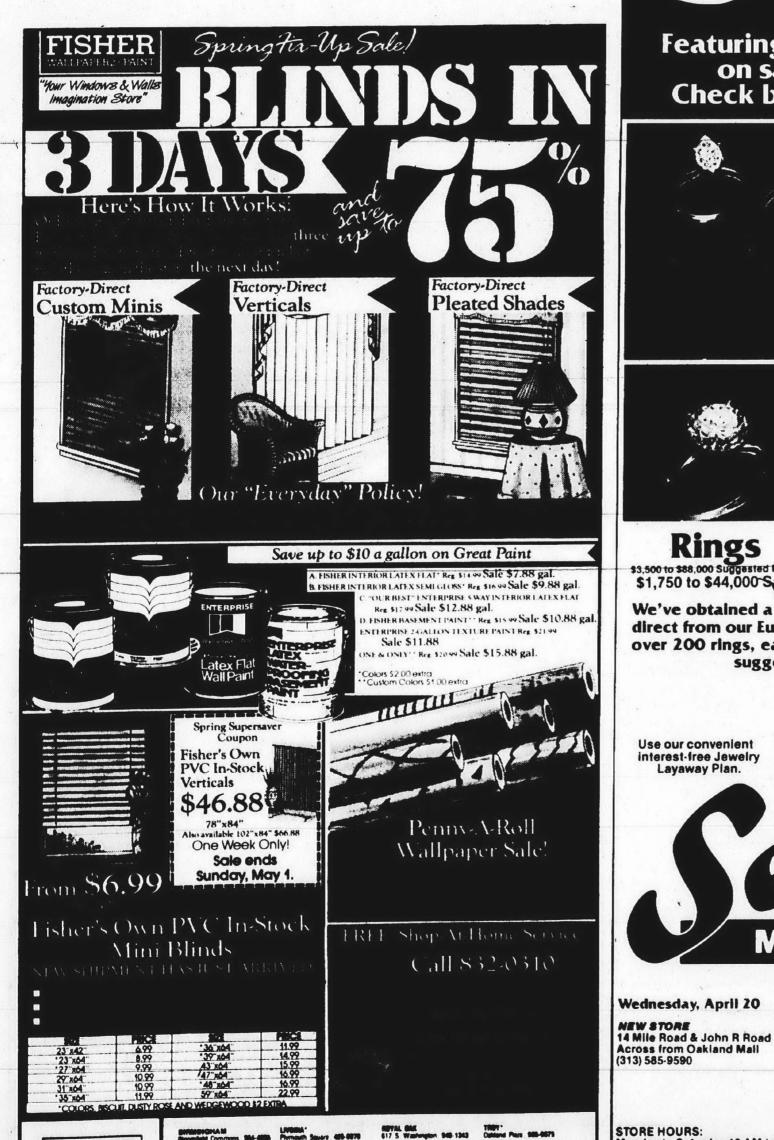

Senators voting yes wanted to penalize Mexico for its reported failings in the war aganst drugs. Carl Levin voted no, and Donald Riegle voted yes.

BUDGET RESOLUTION - By a vote of 69 for and 26 against, the Senate approved a fiscal 1989 budget calling for $1.1 trillion in total federal spending, no new taxes, an annual deficit of $136 billion, defense spending of $294 billion and non-entitlement domestic spending of $185 billion.

Senators put the fiscal blueprint in violation of the 1987 "budget summit" accord between Capitol Hill and the White House, by adding $2.6 billion to anti-drug programs. The two branches must revise their agreement if the money is to be appropriated.

Another controversial feature of the budget plan (S Con Res 113) is its use of administration economic projections that are much more optimistic than those of congress's own budget office. The Senate's $136 billion deficit would be $172 billion using congressional projec-

Tax abatements may be a less popular business-attraction tool these days But local communities have hardly abandoned abatements.

While several western Wayne communities granted no new industrial tax breaks last year, others continued to use them. And while some communities are looking at ways to tighten future tax breaks, few have ruled out using, them alto-

All local communities have used tax breaks in the past, some to assist new businesses, others to help renovate existing firms.

But while tax breaks were commonly granted statewide during the 1979-83 recession, they're generally granted less frequently now.

Detroit recently blocked a tax abatement sought for the General Motors Poletown Assembly Plant. Orion Township has also sued to halt additional abatements on its sevenyear-old GM plant.

Locally, Redford Township, Garden City and Plymouth granted no new tax abatements last year.

"WE'VE GRANTED only two overall — one for GM Diesel Allison, the other for a Beech-Daly project the last about three years ago,' said Redford Township Treasurer Robert Brang Jr.

Plymouth has granted 21 abatements, most under a now-abandoned state law for commercial properties.

The city has also granted five abatements for industrial projects, and officials would consider granting others, treasurer Kenneth Way 'On one hand, everyone wants to see economic growth. The question is whether abatements make a community more desirable for an investor.'

"I think they'd still be willing to listen to a request, but it would have to be a quality project," Way said.

Garden City has granted 18 abatements, all but four for industrial projects. The city has tightened its criteria to meet new state guidelines, clerk Ronald Showalter said.

The state Legislature created industrial abatements in 1974 and added commercial abatements five years later. Both programs sought to expand the state tax base and provide jobs, but state and local officials began to lose faith in them after surveys revealed tax breaks ranked below other factors in determining new plant sites.

The remaining industrial abatements slice new businesses' property taxes in half or freeze tax rates at current levels for redeveloping businesses. Abatements can last up to 12

Meeting

Working together makes sense

OMETIMES THE SIMPLEST ideas make the most sense, both economic and intellectual

David Artley, president of the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education, has proposed a meeting with other governmental officials to discuss common problems and concerns.

This idea of getting together with the people who spend your tax dollars is sound.

And while this meeting may not solve all of the oncerns, it is a step in the right direction.

Artley said it best when he indicated the intent of the meeting was to accomplish goals for the greater community

The purpose of the meeting is to sit down and talk about joint interests," Artley said about the Wednesday, May 4, meeting, "It's not a matter of debating and deciding. It's a matter of looking for common direction.

What difference does it make if representaives of the schools and city or township get

Some sort of cooperative recreational effort involving the schools and local government is a natural. The schools have some excellent recreational facilities and sites but are busy with their main role of educating students.

Cities and townships have the knowledge and employees to put on the programs but often lack the facilities. Why spend the money for park land Artley said it best when he indicated the intent of the meeting was to accomplish goals for the 'greater community.'

and recreational facilities when the schools have those items available ready to be tapped?

When these different groups work together, residents of all ages benefit.

BUT WORKING together has not always been

Disagreements about land and recreational use, for example, have strained relations between the schools and Plymouth Township.

The debate concerns school-owned land next to Plymouth Township Park. The district wants to hold on to it while the township would like the land to expand the park.

That disagreement just illustrates the need for even more discussion and review.

Besides the joint recreation authority, the agenda for this meeting includes discussion of sale and purchase of property, and joint warehouse and purchasing.

The only concern we have about the meeting is the size of the guest list. Inviting all elected officials of the schools, city and townships may hinder discussion.

Perhaps starting out with a smaller group say the top elected officials and/or administrators - would be a better way to go.

Then, once some sort of groundwork has been established, an annual joint meeting of the local elected bodies could be conducted to set policy and direction.

But even with that small concern, Artley's idea is an excellent one that should become an integral part of providing services to taxpayers.

Speak out about church

To the editor:

Recently Plymouth residents discovered that Our Lady of Good Counsel Church has begun to purchase residential property in the neighborhood adjacent to the church.

Concerned about the future of their neighborhood, many Plymouth homeowners met with OLGC's pastor and lay representatives to discuss the manner in which the property was purchased and the purposes for which it would be used. Plymouth residents and OLGC parishioners may find OLGC's posture at the meeting very revealing, if not disturbing.

The meeting began with a prayer for guidance led by the OLGC pastor and observations about mutual understanding and OLGC wanting to be a "good neighbor." From the point of view of OLGC's neighbors, the tenor and substance of the "dialogue" which followed were very disap-

As part of his introductory remarks, the OLGC pastor confirmed that OLGC had purchased property on Arthur Street by presenting itself to the seller as a "corporation" whose "chief executive officer was out of the country." Area homeowners, OLGC's "neighbors," discovered later, by chance, that the corporation in question was the church and the absent CEO was the pastor who was in Rome. This less than forthright purchase of the property was then overshadowed by the pastor's defense of the way OLGC presented itself to the seller as "truth-

OLGC's neighbors were told property was being purchased to meet the needs of the parish. For over one-half hour, area homeowners tried to have these needs identified. We were initially and repeatedly told that OLGC did not know what its needs would be. Later we were told OLGC did not wish to share what its needs were. Finally after considerable time and repeated questioning. OLGC indicated needs for additional parking and office space.

Many of OGLC's neighboring homeowners expressed great concern about the impact which the destruction of homes, the spread of asphalt parking, and the conversion of homes to offices, would have upon the quality of life and property values in their neighborhood. The adamant response of OLGC was that the church has "a right to purchase property" and grow, and that it will Soon the pastor reminded "OLGC's neighbors" that he had agreed to meet for one hour and time was was up. When one OLGC neighbor requested another meeting within a few weeks, the pastor responded that he would take it "under advisement."

As they came away from the meeting, area homeowners, OLGC's "neighbors," knew they were, in fact, dealing with a corporation, not a church and certainly not a "good neighbor," and with a very determined CEO.

OLGC's neighboring homeowners need the assistance of all Plymouth residents and OLGC parishioners if we are to save our neighborhood of homes from the corporation. Please voice your concern to OLGC and the Plymouth City Council. There are alternatives to destroying homes and damaging a neighborhood.

Cut out the 'little extras'

To the Editor:

The Plymouth Canton Schools Administration is trying to intimidate the community by laying off 74 teachers to make up a $1.8 million shortage in next year's budget.

With the threat of the layoffs, the administration is grabbing this community by the throat.

This old math teacher has done some seventh grade arithmetic, using the school's own figures. The budget is about $56 million. They have to cut $2 million out of that. That is like saying I have a grocery cart with $56 worth of items in it. I find I don't have enough money, and I have to put back $2 worth. My $2 in cuts should come out of the little extras, not out of the nutritious food. Those 74 teachers, at about $24,000 each, represent $1,776,00, or 98.6 percent of the cuts.

A quixotic figure calls it quits

WE ARE relieved to hear that Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson is quitting. His decision to practice with a private law firm is best for all concerned.

For too many years the residents of Oakland County, specifically, and southeastern Michigan, in general, have had to live with a prosecutor whose shotgun-style approach to justice did nothing to improve a volatile crime situation. An opportunist of the first degree, Patterson umped on every populist bandwagon in a blatant appeal to the emotional, if not hysterical side of our collective human psyches.

HE ATTACKED problems close to the heart. many times problems of great public concern. but walked away with simplistic solutions that only served to confuse the situation even more.

If nothing else, he can always be credited with a knack for grabbing the most attention for issues with little real opposition, all the time pandering to the needs and the wants of both the printed and electronic news media.

Few times could Brooks Patterson be accused

His quixotic crusade for capital punishment did nothing more than stir emotions already rubbed raw by the startling crime figures in metropolitan Detroit.

He used the busing issue as a major stepping stone to public prominence. And for those who remember those incendiary years of protest, busing was an issue with few sympathizers and even fewer advocates.

Instead of relying on sound legal advice and past court decisions, he pandered to the public's emotions that only recently had been bruised by a riot of unimaginable proportions.

He jumped into the parole and mandatory sentencing crusade to great applause from the masses. After all, every reasonable person wants dangerous criminals off the street.

But recent studies show that tougher sentencing actually makes the situation worse. Because of crowding, we now have the revolving door type of prison system that Patterson publicly de-do use capital punishment have just as much crime, sometimes more, than the states that haven't availed themselves of the death penalty. And certainly his crusade on X-rated book-

Military establishment's unwarranted

THE PEACE MOVEMENT was born by war shattering the innocence of youth, but it was fed as much by rebellion as by idealism.

When the peace sign - fingers spread in a "V" - flashed between long-haired youths, it was recognition that they both belonged to "The Movement." It was a time for causes and not being part of one became once nations wanted to assert their cause for concern.

Though suckled on cause, youths were nurtured by capitalism. Eventually aging peaceniks were led into a dichotomous existence, caught between a comfortable, peaceful life and the rabble-rousing yearning to make peace with one another.

OH. NO. I shuddered as I spotted the two trucks hauling new cars on I-

The one ahead of me was hauling Plymouth Sundances — all either black or red. The truck in the lead was hauling sporty Ford products -all but one either black or red.

Before telling you why black and red are such groaner colors, I have to bring up a highway subject that most of you are familiar with.

INTIMIDATION driving, I call it. The syndrome has several signs:

Most obvious, the intimidation driver follows another car by a quarter of a car length, even at 70 mph. He (or she) edges to the left side of the pavement and tries to loom large in your side-view mirror.

If you ease right, the intimidation driver starts passing before your car is half-way across the white line.

Intimidation drivers often pass on the right, darting in front of other vehicles with less than a half-car length of room. They absolutely never use turn signals to indicate lane changes.

The wildest intimidation driver I ever saw was on I-696 at Orchard Lake Road. He passed me on the right using the exit ramp as a passing lane

Speeding, tailgating, reckless lane-switching, passing on the right every intimidation driver breaks three or four laws 20 times an hour.

Richard

THEY HAVE certain common characteristics besides discourtesy and disregard for safety

• The syndrome is at its worst in southeastern Michigan. Toledo and Windsor. Rarely did I see it around Boston, Baltimore and Philadephia

• 40-50 percent of intimidation drivers are in black or very dark blue cars or vans

• 40 percent are in bright red cars

• 10-20 percent are in other color vehicles

Thus, the sight of two haulers loaded to the gills with black and red cars was cause for a groan. The market - hence the syndrome seems to be expanding

NOT ALL drivers of black and red cars are intimidators, of course. And not all drivers of silver, gray, powder blue, white, yellow, tan and brown vehicles are good boys and

YEARS AGO I learned a good trick Flick on your headlights, and the tailgater will think you hit your brakes and back off. It doesn't work any more. The tailgaters of the late 80s are too crafty and too brazen.

Fellow sufferers have suggested tossing a handful of little candies of nuts into the air and hoping it scares the bejeesus out of the tailgater when it hits his (her) windshield. That is too dangerous to endorse. I reserve the right to change my mind if the current crop of freeway shootings turns out to have been per-

A community mourns death

THE NEWS OF SENSELESS KILLINGS fills newspapers every day. But sadly, the impact such tragedies have on many people is over and done with in the time it takes to consume breakfast

With another day comes another death and another set of family members left behind. There's another paragraph or two in the papers, maybe.

These tragedies come in many different forms.

Perhaps a youth is shot to death over a pair of shoes or a silk shirt. Maybe death walks through an apartment door and viciously attacks a trusting nurse.

Many times in recent memory. however, death has arrived inside the convenience stores owned by hard-working Chaldeans. Someone comes in for cash or a bottle of wine and blows somebody away.

AGAIN, SOMEBODY is left behind to pick up the pieces of shattered lives.

But the Chaldeans - who adhere to traditional values - aren't the kind of people who pore over murder accounts the same way they do baseball box scores or classified ads in the morning paper.

Months and years after their loved

RABBI DANIEL B. Syme taught a always right, then a second rule of lesson to some Oakland County eductors last week. He also made his mother proud. But there's nothing new about that. Sonia Syme was proud of her son Rich even before the day 19 years ago Periberg that she started a program in Detroit

Nearly two decades later the program has moved to the corner of Drake and Walnut Lake roads in West Bloomfield, the new home of Temple Israel where her husband, M. Robert Syme is rabbi.

Last week's Institute on Judaism, the second at the new site, drew 147 teachers, counselors and principals from 12 Oakland County schools. They learned about Jewish tradition and culture and were urged to be sensitive to the beliefs of all children in their classes.

About half the educators were from Farmington, Bloomfield Hills or West Bloomfield schools.

TEACHERS ARE also in a unique position to act on a third tenet of Syme's faith, which says that "saving a life takes precedence over virtually everything else." This is particularly true, he said, in an era when teenage suicide is on the increase and when drug abuse, alcohol abuse and promiscuous sex can carry death sentences. Teens who commit suicide almost always cry out for help ahead of

Families seek a smooth blend

By Ariene Funke special writer

Step-families rarely blend as smoothly as did the characters on the old Brady Bunch television show.

But hard work, understanding, time and a little luck can smooth the inevitable friction.

That was the message of Troy social worker Ernie Bruce, who counsels troubled families. Bruce spoke during a workshop recently sponsored by the Greater Detroit Cooperative Nursery Council at North Congregational Church, Southfield.

"It takes a lot of muscle," said Bruce, 38, who is married and the father of four children ranging in age from 3-12 years. "You're marrying a package with all the demands that come into play. It isn't something that can be glossed over easily."

BRUCE IS a counselor with the Lamphere school district in Madison Heights. He also is a consultant to the cooperative nursery council and has given talks to the Parents Without Partners group.

"In 60-70 percent of the families I see, there has been a divorce and a reconstituted family," Bruce said. "They come in all shapes and sizes."

A blended, or reconstituted family occurs in a marriage where one or both partners have children from a previous union.

On the Brady Bunch, dad (actor Robert Reed) married mom (actress Florence Henderson). Both are good looking. Both are widowed. He has three sons, she has three daughters. They all live happily ever after.

Bruce's workshop was one of about a dozen offered on such topics as effective communication, coping with children's stress, discipline and preparing children for kindergarten.

"DISAPPOINTMENT sets in,"
Bruce said. "The magic doesn't happen. There is a period of time when you will see kids hope to get their parents back. It's a fantasy.
The kid ene't pull if off.

The kid can't pull if off.
"Even if they would remarry, it wouldn't be the same."

Bruce's folksy style, laced with humor, made the dozen people in his workshop relaxed and comfortable. Some were birth parents, others step-parents.

They spoke of coping with children who refuse to do school work, wear heavy makeup or exessively funky clothes and who defy house rules.

"If it was wonderful, we wouldn't be here," one woman said.
One woman, a step-parent, described herself as an "uninvolved-involved party," expected to understand, without being told, her role in her blended family.

ANOTHER expressed feelings of dismay over being cast as a "heavy." A third said she felt "deeply disappointed" when she couldn't feel deep love for her stepchild.

"This kid has a 14-year history that predates you, and always will," Bruce said. "That's a blast of reality. The biological parent has more power, and you're pulling at some strings that wor.'t give."

Bill Ogilvie, 28, and his 29-year-old wife Peggy have a "yours, mine and ours" family.

The Ogilvies of Melvidale have been married six month and are expecting their first child in a few months. He has a 6-year-old son from a previous marriage and she has a 5-year-old son.

Although the Ogilvies feel they can form loving bonds with their children, who are very young, there has been some friction over discipline.

"The hardest thing has been getting used to them individually and treating them fairly," Peggy Ogilvie said.

ALTHOUGH the partners may have a good relationship, children from a prior marriage can drive a wedge, Bruce said.

"It's the whole family unit that must address the problem, or it isn't going to work," Bruce said.

It may be unrealistic to expect love, but parents and step-parents have the right to have respect and civility.

"Our relationships are shaped by our own interactions," Bruce said. "Love is sacred. You shouldn't give it away too quickly."

Warning that there are no quick, easy answers, Bruce offered some tips to ease the way. The suggestions apply to both biological and step-parents:

 Parents have to have honest communication, otherwise the relationship is fraught with problems.

LAST YEAR, the Miller Woods including Evelyn Edgar, Herb Conant, Bev Dobel, harlotte Gaffield, Beverly McAninch. Jean Kee. Penny Wright and Duris Chatterley - decided to form the Friends group. The group was formed to provide greater protection or the woods.

Miller Woods is a climax forest of beech and maple trees with an assortment of wild flowers and shrubs. So it's going to stay pretty much like this. Kemnitz said. Among those visiting the site are a number of school children.

They love it, they really love it," said Doris Chatterley, a Friends board member. "I think a lot of them have never been out in the woods be-

We do name the flowers, because they like to know what they are." Kemnitz said

During those nature walks, guides also identify the various trees and shrubs and talk about how plants were used by the Indians in years In addition to those tours, training is offered for teachers who would like to bring their own student groups out to the site

We try to encourage the Plymouth teachers with our teacher workshops," Kemnitz said.

IN ADDITION to the Friends of the Miller Woods, others have helped out at the site. Boy Scouts, including some working on Eagle Scout projects, and garden club members are among those who've donated their time and talents.

Chatterley and Kemnitz, both Plymouth Township residents, are among those who'd like to see the Miller Woods site stay as it is.

"Of course. I'm a nature lover," Chatterley said. She and her husband have tried to teach their children about the importance of preserving

Those active in the Friends organization are hoping area residents will attend the guided walks, scheduled for Saturday, April 23, and Sunday, May 1.

It depends on the weather, Chatterley said. Pleasant weather conditions mean people are more likely to attend.

Those attending the walks at Miller Woods should dress appropriately; walking shoes are recommended.

Every spring, we do the public walks," Kemnitz said. "A lot of people like to come back, and then we get some new ones

Bruce sees an increased awareness among school officials, which he finds encouraging. Although a step-parent may find the going easier when children are quite young, "that doesn't mean problems aren't going to happen.

"We have become oversensitized about the psychological welfare of children," Bruce added. "Children need love and guidance. They won't let the step-parent get too close. It threatens the relationship with the biological parent."

Volunteers at, Plymouth's adult day center were recently honored during a breakfast, held during National Volunteer Week, April 17-23.

Dianne Wilder of Canton, Kay Walker of Plymouth and Walburga Hunt of Plymouth have been with the center since it started operating last year. Wilder and Hunt have talent in the areas of crafts projects and sewing. Walker helps out at the center, and is involved with board games and cards each week.

The center is operated by Plymouth Family Service, affiliated with Child and Family Service of Washtenaw Inc. It is based at St. John's Episcopal Church on Sheldon Road in Plymouth Township. The center provides day care for area older

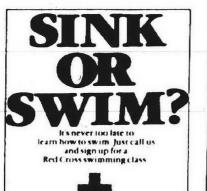

Other volunteers honored at the breakfast include Gerry Briegel of Redford, Pat Gish of Northville and Bernice Russian of Canton. The three women have many musical talents. Briegel is a Sweet Adelines member; Russian plays the organ for a local church each Sunday. Gish has worked with seniors for about 20 years, including caring for her mother for more than 10 years.

Visual hallucinations and apparitions are not uncommonly reported. Over the centuries many types of strange or unexpected visual experiences have been documented. Recently the captain of a commercial aircraft reported the appearance of an object many times greater than the size of the Boeing 747 jetcraft he was flying. Strangely enough his co-pilots could not "see" what he claimed to see in the sky on a dark night over the Pacific Ocean. Was it an unidentified flying object, or was it something inside his eyes?

see at Miller Woods.

Strange objects appearing in one's vision are frequently experienced by older adults. These are usually caused by floaters, or thickened "globs" within the eye that cast a shadow on the retina, which may appear as a spider web or shadows in the field of vision.

Another cause of abnormal visions is cataracts. Within the tiny aspirin-sized lens of the eyes imperfections can develop. These imperfections may not materialize until nightfall when the pupil opens wide, and light passes through cloudy areas of the lens of the eye. In the daytime vision may be perfect. But at night, under certain lighting conditions, these imperfections within the eyes may appear as visions or ghosts. A recent report confirms that many people over the years reported seeing ghosts, but upon undergoing an eye examination, actually had cataracts! The ghosts disappeared when their cataracts were removed.

Now all adults don't see ghosts. But any diminished ability to see, or any strange visual disturbances should be checked out. A complete medical eye examination will do the trick. Call our eye center today for an appointment.

Shop for your birthing center the way you shop for your nursery.

Getting ready for a new baby is a big job. You could spend hours comparing each stroller, looking for just the right crib, or picking out the best carseat. When it comes to the type of birthing experience you want for your baby, you have just as many choices. And you should be just as careful when deciding on a birthing option and a hospital.

That's why Annapolis Hospital invites you to do some "comparative shopping" at our newly renovated Birthing Center. We offer you a natural childbirth in the warm, home-like setting of our new birthing rooms, as well as the traditional delivery room option. Both offer you complete comfort and care.

And small touches, like a gourmet dinner for new parents and liberal visiting hours for siblings and grandparents, will help you celebrate the occasion. Annapolis also offers you a range of prenatal educational programs, from an early pregnancy class, to natural childbirth preparation classes.

Take a stroll through our Birthing Center today. The choices we give you are beyond compare.

For more information or a personalized tour, call the Program Information Center at 467-4570, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., weekdays.

Retiring

Pastor wraps up 27 years at St. Paul

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

TS"

ON

The brown shoes on the Rev. Dr. William Whitledge's feet are comfortably worn.

They would have to be. A shiny, new pair of Oxfords wouldn't exactly fit his on-the-go lifestyle at St. Paul Presbyterian Church U.S.A., where he has been pastor since 1961.

But now Whitledge plans to retire in September, when he and his wife, Virginia, will make their new home

In Livonia, Whitledge's 27 years as pastor of the 1,500-member church has certainly been marked by active community involvement. While ministering to the needs of such a large parish is more than enough to keep the average preacher busy, Whitledge has tried to take his role as a pastor a step further.

He's served two years as chairman of the board of the Livonia YMCA, has been a member of the Livonia Chamber of Commerce and has served as a Protestant chaplain at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia and for the Livonia Fire Department.

'Our Presbyterian background calls for us to be involved in the community," said Whitledge, who grew up in Henderson, Ky. "I don't think you can preach without knowing where the people come from, their concerns and their problems."

WAR ON OBSCENITY

In his new film, "A Winnable War." James Dobson will discuss his 14-month term on the Attorney General's Commission on Ponography and what citizens can do to combat pornography on a local level.

The film will be shown at 6.30 p.m. Sunday. April 24. at First United Methodist Church, 45201 N. Territorial, Plymouth.

The one-hour release from Focus on the Family Films reveals the mounting evidence of pornography's destructive effect on the family Dobson further explains the many ways - commercially and legally in which the tide is turning against illicit materials. He dispels the popular notion that hard-core pornography is protected by the First Amendment and notes that the U.S. Justice Department is committed to fighting obscenity. While emphasizing that the fight against pornography is a "winnable war." Dobson said that concerned citizens must become more involved in the campaign

Dobson, a licensed psychologist and author of nine best-selling books on parenting and marriage, is founder and president of Focus on the Family, a non-profit pro-family organization based in California. His 30-minute radio program, "Focus on the Family," is broadcast daily on more than 1.000 stations across North America.

Consumer knowledge: Do you know your rights?

"Consumers buy service.

That's the theme of the seventh annual National Consumers Week next week, April 24-30. Hundreds of public and private organizations across the country will be using the observance to highlight programs, events and publications which give consumer the information and assistance they need to get the best value for their money in the marketplace.

It's also a good time for consumers to test their consumer knowledge and skills. Ask yourself if the following statements are true or false. (1) You must either pay cash or write a check payable to the post office for collect-on-delivery (COD) orders delivered by the U.S. Postal Service. (2) Once a charge is listed on your credit card bill and you receive it in the mail, you must pay the bill, even if the charge is in error or the quality of the merchandise is not as you expected. (3) Telephone sales personnel are under no obligation to send you written materials about an offer.

(4) Cable television shopping programs can substitute comparable goods, if the item you ordered is unavaila-

(5) When you order by mail, the company has 30 days in which to ship your complete order

(6) All home improvement contractors must be licensed and bonded

(7) You have three days to change your mind, when you sign a home improvement contract in your home. (8) If your luggage is lost or damaged during flight, the airline is required to pay you no less than $1,250 per

(9) All used cars must come with at least a limited warranty

(10) The federal government requires that all long distance telephone companies carry service to all areas of the country

How well do you think you did? Here's the answers: (1) False. Postal regulations were recently changed so that, if you receive a purchase by COD through the U.S. Postal Service, you may pay cash or by check made out to the mailer rather than the post office. Then, if there's a problem with the merchandise, you can immediately stop payment on the check before it is received and cashed (2) False. If you report to the card issuer in writing and within 60 days, any billing error on your credit cared, you can withhold payment of the disputed portion of your bill. The card issuer has 90 days or two billing cycles, whichever comes first, to get back to you with a decision

If you have a problem with the quality of the item, you must make an effort to resolve the dispute with the merchant first before notifying the card issuer

(3) True. But neither are you under an obligation to buy something on which you have no written information. Ask for written details and look for restrictions or conditions you were not told about on the telephone. This also will help you avoid con artists who really have nothing to sell and who just want access to your credit card accounts

(4) True. If you're thinking about making purchases through a television shopping program, be sure to ask when you place your order whether the company reserves the right to substitute comparable goods. You might also want to ask about the company's cancellation and refund policy.

(5) False. If you order by mail, your order must be shipped within 30 days after the company receives your complete order, unless another period is agreed upon when placing the order or it is stated in an advertisement. If your order is delayed, a notice of delay should be sent to you within the promised shipping period, along with an option to cancel the order.

(6) False. Check with your state, county or city housing authority to see if licensing and/or bonding is required of contractors in your area. If so, make sure the contractor you choose is properly licensed and bonded.

FRIDAY ONLY, APRIL 22
GET READY FOR SOME HEAVY-DUTY

(7) True. When you sign a non-emergency home improvement contract in your home in the presence of the contractor or his representative, you have a three-day cooling off period in which to change your mind. You must also be told about your cancellation rights and be provided with cancellation forms.

(8) False. If your luggage is lost or damaged in flight, you are entitled to the fair market value of your belongs up to $1,250 per passenger for checked baggage and $400 per passenger for unchecked baggage.

(9) False, especially if you buy from a private individual. But if you buy your used car from a dealer, look for the "buyer's guide" which must be displayed in the window. It explains who must pay for repairs after the purchase and what kind, if any, warranty is on the car.

(10) False. Not all long distance carriers provide service to all areas. Be sure to compare companies and choose the carrier that provides service to areas you call frequently.

These questions and answers are based in large part on information contained in the "Consumer's Resource Handbook," a where-to-go, how-to-do-it question and complaint manual for consumers.

The handbook lists more than 2,000 resources consumers can write or call when they have questions and complaints about products and services. It's free from the Consumer Information Center, Pueblo. Colo. 81009.

"By the yard, it's very hard, inch by inch makes it a cinch" - this might be the motto of this month's profiled couple, Joan and John Mears of Canton Township. At 29, both already realize the need to plan and prepare for the future. Their questions and our analysis revolves around the best strategies for them to ensure their future financial se-

FAMILY FINANCES

'I was lucky and made some good stock investments in my early 20s, so I thought it was the way to go. But I have to admit that Oct. 19 was a sobering experience.'

— John Mears

With two incomes, they have been able to build a nest egg and buy a modest house. John is a truck mechanic earning $24,000 per year. Joan is in the data processing department of one of the auto companies and earns $34,000. Both feel secure in their positions and expect regular raises in income.

"WE'D LIKE to buy a larger home within two-three years and begin a family at that time," Joan said.

Will she continue working after the birth of a child?

"Yes. My mother lives nearby and has indicated a willingness to help out with child care. Since I have the larger income, we realize it is needed if we're to reach our financial goals."

Their employers provide good medical benefits and adequate profection against income loss due to disability. A review of their auto and homeowners coverage shows no problems except that they might want to increase their deductibles to lower their premiums.

A MAJOR PLUS for them is their saving habits. Though they don't feel they are denying themselves, they understand the value of saving a part of each of their paychecks. Ever since they were married three years ago, they have been putting $250 per month into a stock mutual fund account. The account has grown well during that time despite the Oct. 19 stock market crash. Joan has been putting 3 percent of her income into an employer-sponsored 401(k) savings plan, and her employer makes a contribution of 50 cents for each dollar she puts into the plan.

Most of their cash reserves were used when they bought their house last fall and appliances for it. Some purchases for the house were charged on credit cards, and they are still paying off these bills.

They are somewhat confused as to the next steps to take.

"WE HAD BEEN saving for the house for so long as our primary goal. Now that we've settled in, we wonder whether we should pay down the mortgage as fast as possible, pay off other debts or try to invest more

Attorney Alan Ferrara, a partner in the firm of Couzens, Lansky, Fealk, Ellis, Roeder & Lazer in Southfield, covers some of the ba-

"Joan's only life insurance is through her employer where she has a benefit of twice her annual income. If she died, this amount would not enable John to maintain his standard of living for very long," Ferrara said.

"For a nominal cost, she can buy additional coverage of three times her income from her employer. She should do this immediately. She can also place $50,000 coverage on John at the same time, and she should take advantage of this opportunity. When they start a family, their entire insurance program should be reviewed once again.

Ferrara also notes the lack of wills. "Though the probability of death at their ages is remote, this is nevertheless an important gap to close. Should the unlikely occur, wills would help ensure that their final wishes would be fulfilled."

DAN BOYCE, a certified financial planner with the Center for Financial Planning in Birmingham, reviewed their investment plans. "First of all, they need to increase their cash reserves to approximately $5,000. A good rule of thumb is to have at least two months of expenses available in banks or money market funds for emergencies.

The next step is to pay off the charge accounts. "The interest rates typically range from 14 to 21 percent, which is expensive money," he said. "Paying them off is equivalent to finding an investment that has a yield of 14 to 21 percent - guaranteed. Also, with the phasing out of deductions on consumer interest, Uncle Sam won't be sharing in the cost of this interest much longer.'

THEY NEED to review the balance of their portfolio. Since most of their money is going into the stock market, they are exposed to substantial loss if the market tumbles again. John agrees.

"I was lucky and made some good stock investments in my early 20s, so I thought it was the way to go. But I have to admit that Oct. 19 was a sobering experience." Boyce suggests diversifying assets into less volatile areas for better balance, especially if some of this money is earmarked for the future move into a larger house.

John and Joan are on the right track. By starting their planning young, saving a portion of their income, and seeking professional advice, they will be able to build a bright financial future for themselves and for their future family.

The Bottom Line

Financial strengths

- Two wage earners with steady employment.
- Good benefits at work.
- Retirement savings started at young age.
- Adequate auto, homeowners, and disability insurance.
- Spending patterns have built-in monthly savings.

Financial weaknesses

- No clear idea of how to proceed financially.
- No wills are in place.
- Joan's life insurance may be inadequate. Emergency reserve needs supplementing.
- Too high a percentage of investments in stock

Ousted execs battle for leasing business

By Janice Brunson staff writer

When a deal is concluded at Encore International Inc. in Bloomfield Hills, a bell rings to mark the event. If anticipated profits on the deal are high, the bell rings repeatedly, meaning lunch usually is a bit longer than normal.

Of late, there's been lots of bell ringing and many extended lunch hours, according to vice president Frank Chartier who, with Lloyd Marks, Dennis Grice and Gary Smith, founded Encore last August.

'We determine what is needed tomorrow. anticipate those needs and respond quickly. But what made money yesterday does not necessarily make money today. - Frank Chartier

Recently, Chartler, Marks, Grice and Smith were praised as "a team with unparalleled experience in the acquisition, resale, leasing, financing and remarketing of new and used capital equipment" in a business column in the Wall Street Journal.

THE FOUR men gained this "unparalleled experience" from years of employment with CMI Corp., where each was in a management position. CMI is one of the nation's largest computer leasers, and when

Chartier and the others launched their business, CMI filed suit against

Last May, Chartier, Marks, Grice and Smith were set to buy all of CMI's stock. Instead, the company was sold to Torchmark Corp., which ordered all four to resign.

Torchmarck then sold CMI to a fierce competitor, Continental Information Systems Corp. Many of Encore's 60 employees are former CMI employees who chose to resign from the company rather than work for a former competitor

"INNOVATION" IS one reason Chartier gives for the apparent sucample.

Encore buys manufactured goods then leases the goods to the manufacturer's customers who are otherwise unable or unwilling to purchase the products.

Encore has entered into vendor lease agreements with manufacturers of office equipment and furniture, trucks and store fixtures. Encore is also looking to acquire other companies with "sizeable lease portfolios that match our nitch in the industry.

"Structuring a program whereby a user can lease rather than purchase is innovative," a unique concept within the industry, Chartier said.

ANOTHER RECENT deal that gave rise to much bell ringing in the office was a $12 million sale of three large processing computer units to replace an older system. To complete this deal, Encore purchased the older system and will now resell it to a third party

The Big E Home Equity Line of Credit

You don't pay a penny!

Closing costs on other Home Equity Lines of Credit can add up to hundreds of dollars. But at the Big E, we pay your closing costs on lines up to $100,000, saving you as much as $600° or more! Plus, you pay no application fee.

Enjoy a guaranteed rate cap.

The current Big E Home Equity Line of Credit rate is 10.50% Annual Percentage Rate. Plus, with the Big E's guaranteed rate cap, you'll never pay more than 5% over the rate in effect at the time you close.

And more...

You can pay off your other higher cost loans and charges. Plus you may still be able to deduct 100% of your home equity interest. See your tax advisor for details. Besides that, you'll have a revolving line of credit, so as you pay off your loan, that money again becomes available to you.

Come to your nearest Empire of America office to receive a free estimate of how much you'll be able to borrow. And once you apply you'll have an answer on approving your credit within 24 hours. Start saving now.

I'm old enough to bore the kids with reminiscences of a childhood before television, garage door openers, microwave cooking, rock and roll and radar speed traps. I confess I retain a mild paranoia about the microchip society that sometimes finds me pondering the loss of privacy to databanks when I shove my cash card in the bank slot.

Today, of course, we live with a near-complete breakdown of efficient law enforcement save in the area of enforcing speed limits, where the accuracy and stealth of a radar gun builds an instant and near-

Michael Valentine invented the ly irrefutable case against the speed-

VALENTINE MAKES a plausible case that radar detectors partially counter the lack of due process inherent in radar speed control with a device in private hands that gives the individual at least some information about who is watching him.

At least that's one perspective, although the police officer parked under the 1-75 overpass suffering eyestrain from studying his rear-view mirror might think otherwise.

Valentine would seem to be stretching the point, until you note that at least a few states are now issuing speeding tickets based on robot traffic surveillance from video cameras. The cameras merely record the license number of the offending car and put the burden of proof on the car's owner to show he wasn't the one who was driving.

IN ANY CASE, Valentine is one of those incredibly bright and rich Silicon Valley types who are so facile with high technology they make inventing something as sophisticated as the Escort seem like coloring

In fact, he didn't invent the radar detector - which is basically a radio receiver that picks up the frequencies of police radar guns - but he did develop special circuitry that made it work well enough to irritate the police

His former company, Cincinnati Microwave, was formed as a mailorder house to sell his radar detectors. Valentine thought that direct mail would allow him to keep his costs low and it would allow him to offer lengthy trial periods - which he thought would be necessary to convince skeptical potential custom-boom in radar detectors enhanced by the national 55-mph speed limit. Today the market for radar detectors is estimated to top $300 million By the time he sold his share in the company. Valentine was rich enough to retire very, very early.

HE WASN'T finished yet, though Valentine Research recently turned out another automotive gizmo called the G-analyst. It's a remarkable piece of technology that uses some of the innards of the navigation system of a nuclear submarine to detect how fast a car is braking, cornering and accelerating.

It's a fascinating device, and Valentine had hopes it would improve drivers' skills, hence reduce accidents. It also seemed to be another good candidate for mail order. But pointing for the G-analyst, especially compared to the demand for the radar detectors according to Valen-

SOME OF his best customers so far, ironically, have been local police departments who are using the G-analyst to do research in how skid marks correlate to vehicle speed in

- Johnny Trudell

Johnny Trudell is co-producer of the jazz series. His big band kicked off opening night at the Bloomfield Hills hotel.

The Marcus Belgrave Sextet was the second week's attraction on the new "Musical Monday Nights at the Kingsley" series offering live entertainment. Big bands or smaller musical groups play for listening and dancing in the Kingsley Grand Ballroom, which has a sunken marble dance floor.

BENEFIT CONCERT hosted by the Kingsley Inn on a Monday night several months ago has turned into "Musical Monday Nights," a weekly concert series in the Grand Ballroom of the Bloomfield Hills hotel.

The evenings are devoted mostly to the music of big band jazz, such as the Austin-Moro Big Band with vocalist Danny Aszenso, who appeared last week, or the Jimmy Wilkins Orchestra with a vocalist, coming up next Monday.

"We get a cross section of people." said bandleader Johnny Trudell, who with Phil Wooldridge is co-producing the Monday events for the Kingsley. There have been people who are 20-

"Big band jazz - that's the primary focus," Trudell stressed. "It's for listening and dancing." Good, local, smaller groups, such as the Jack Brokensha Quartet, who played last Monday, also are being booked in. The Marcus Belgrave Sextet headlined the second of "Musical Monday 300 people or a little bit better than that. On opening night, I would assume we had better than 200 people, which wasn't a bad turnout, considering that's the first one we had," Trudell said.

THE FIRST "Musical Monday Night" on March 21 featured Trudell's orchestra with guest vocalist Ortheia Barnes. (The orchestra has been together for more than 20 years and has played at nightclubs and all the big venues of the are forming at the Montreux-Detroit International Jazz Festival.)

Inspiration for that first night and the nights that follow occurred a few months earlier. Involved in a benefit concert were Trudell; Phil Wooldridge, a promoter who handles such entertainers as the Spinners; Layla Zawideh, director of marketing for the Kingsley; and Jerry Zawideh, the hotel's director of food and bever-

Because the night was successful, the planners thought: Wouldn't it be nice if we could do it every Monday

Trudell and Wooldridge began talking with the owners of the Kingsley Inn - the Zawideh famiabout putting on Monday night concerts. A lot of purposes came to mind. For example, one was to build business in the Kingsley's restaurant and another was to supply an entertainment atmosphere on an off-night at the hotel, which is Monday night.

THEY ALSO wanted to showcase local talent.

We have so much entertainment coming in (to the Detroit area) from the outside. There's a lot of national entertainment here all the time. The local people suffer because of liquor laws and things like that. Young talent just doesn't have a place to work and be exposed to the general public," Trudell said.

'So that's how it all came about. Phil and I actually produce the concerts for them (the Kingsley). We're actually doing the booking and arranging the contracts.

We handle any staging of lighting or anything like that. There's not a lot of technical work that goes into it."

"Musical Monday Nights" is not music and dinner, per se.

"People can have dinner in the restaurant in the hotel. There is no dinner really served in that room or any food served there. It's strictly beverage. They can come and dance and listen to the music."

In the room, people can get light snacks, however.

Music for "Musical Monday Nights" at the Kingsley begins at open at 7 p.m. Admission is $7 per ADMISSION IS really inexpensive, he said, considering nearly three hours of music are presented ("three good sets"). The Zawideh family wanted to keep the cost low so that people would return again and again.

Another concert date set is the Brookside Jazz Ensemble, May 2.

Local personalities have been featured as master of ceremonies at the series, including CKLW morning-music-man Jay Roberts (who was the all-night radio voice of WJR for 29 years) and Gene Elzy, music director of WJR.

"Hopefully, we can create enough interest," Trudell said, believing the concerts are the only such type of musical event regularly scheduled on a Monday night in the Detroit area.

"It's local entertainment at this point. We're not stressing any national acts." Sometime in the future, though, he hopes "Musical Monday Nights" will be able to bring in nationally known acts from time to time.

"As we go through this for several weeks, we'll get a better handle on what they (the listeners) want, whether it be dancing or listening,'

Even though only five nights of Musical Monday Nights" have been presented so far, the response that Trudell has heard has been

"They'll definitely get their money's worth if they come out," he

review

By Rob McCabe

The reecent Academy Award ceremonies are still fresh in many of our minds, which makes the musical revue "An Evening with Oscar" especially timely.

Director/producer Michael J. Klier and his company, Theatre Arts Productions Ltd., present this musical tribute to Academy-Award-winning songs, at the Novi Hilton. Klier has assembled some excellent performers for the heartfelt tribute to that ever-elusive gold statuette.

Singers Nancy Kolton, Kathy Blanchard and Paul Marquis are all consummate performers, whether performing as a trio or doing solos. Kolton, a TAP Ltd., regular, has a voice that can be both powerful and yet tender, as when she sings "With a Song in My Heart." She can be brassy, seductive and playful, which is what makes a great singer.

Soprano Kathy Blanchard is a cute, petite redhead whose voice runs the gamut from gentle, as shown in her rendition of "Three Coins in the Fountain," to a smoldering sexiness when performing "Take My Breath Away" from "Top Gun." Blanchard is equally at home sharing the stage with her fellow performers, yet I wish there were more solos for all the performers to sing.

TENOR PAUL MARQUIS' voice has a brilliant clarity in his solos, including "When You Wish Upon a Star" from Walt Disney's "Pinocchio." He is equally at home singing duets or trios, even though paired with such volatile performers as Kolton and Blanchard.

Accompanist "Rebecca" is, as always, the life glue that holds the entire production together. With her expertise, she manages to keep the show flowing from start to finish. All the performers are energetic, trying to get the audience involved in singalongs. In the "Name That Tune"

Win with Michigan National investment opportunities.

Selecting the right investment opportunity is as easy as flipping a coin – but only if you do it at Michigan National Bank.

Win by controlling the interest rate.

The high-yield investment opportunities at Michigan National put you in charge right from the start. You control the amount you earn by the amount you deposit. The more you deposit, the more you earn. Both the Michigan National MoneyMaster Certificate of Deposit and the Money Market Account offer this unique feature.

Our MoneyMaster CD goes a step further. It also provides a higher interest rate for a longer deposit. So, although there is an interest penalty for early withdrawal on CDs, there are great rates for both larger and longer deposits.

Win with security and opportunity.

Along with control, Michigan National investments offer security and opportunity.

You have the security of knowing your investment is insured to the federal maximum. Your money is safe while it's earning interest.

And you have the opportunity to lock into a guaranteed high rate with our Money Market CD. Or invest in our Money Market Account and gain a high rate and 24-hour card access to your money. You can even write up to three checks per month against the account.

Win every way.

Whether you choose the MoneyMaster CD, the Money Market Account, or both, you have control, security and opportunity on Stop by any Michigan National branch or phone 1-800-CALL-MNB for more information and current rates. You'll find heads you win, tails you win.

Super start gains Canton top ranking

soccer

The state's No. 1 ranking in girls soccer still belongs to a team within the Plymouth-Canton school district

It simply has switched schools in the last

Plymouth Canton, undefeated in its first four games, reaped a huge reward from its fantastic start by taking over the top spot in the weekly poll, replacing cross-campus rival Plymouth Salem.

The Chiefs, who have allowed only one goal - that coming in their 2-1 victory a week ago against defending state champion Salem, smothered Walled Lake Central 15-0 for their latest victory Monday.

Canton coach Don Smith said the honor of being the top-ranked team in Michigan is "very flattering," but he emphasized that the season is still too young to get too excit-

The Chiefs play Livonia Stevenson on Wednesday and Northville Friday. Both have good teams and were expected to test Canton, Smith said.

"We'll see how we end up after this week," he said. "I'd much rather see it at the end of the season than now.

We're doing a pretty good job. There are a lot of teams out there, but I feel we're competitive.

'We've done fairly well so far, but I'd like to see the girls get it down the line some-

The Chiefs tried to hold down the scoring against Central, Smith said, resulting in the goals being distributed between 11 players. Julie Stabnick paced Canton with three goals, and Tricia Greenhalge, the stopper on defense, and Michelle Lonigro had two and Molly Menard. The assist total was also well distributed, with Meath, Jenny Russell and Jenny Steinhebel having two apiece. Rice, Fortier, Erin Morgan, Ayana Nash, Shankie and Jones assisted on one goal each.

Goalkeeper Jen Saul recorded her third shutout of the young season, too. The Chiefs, who also have beaten Brighton and Walled Lake Western, have outscored their four opponents 26-1.

SALEM 1, NORTHVILLE 1: Sarah Hayes scored 15 minutes into the second half and enabled the Rocks to tie the host team Monday. The Mustangs led 1-0 at halftime.

Salem, ranked No. 4 in the state this week, is 1-1-2 after four games, and quality opponents have been ready for the Rocks. Furthermore, coach Ken Johnson said the increased physical play this season is hard on his smaller outfit.

"It's bang, bang, bang, and everyone seems bigger this year," he said. "(His players) don't have time to settle down and play good soccer. They're always fighting the li-

Defender Maria Wordhouse had to come out of the game Monday after being hit in the face with an elbow while going for the ball. Forward Jill Estey reinjured a sprained ankle, though it wasn't so serious that she had to leave the game, Johnson

He is hopeful the Rocks will do better as the season progresses and the temperature gets increasingly warmer. He said the team has practiced on warm afternoons and played games on cold nights.

"I think bigger players do better in cold," he said. "It seems, at key positions, we have delicate players.

"(The tie) doesn't look good on the record, but we've played good teams. We'll do OK."

Plymouth Canton was swinging for the fences and reaching the opposite side Monday.

Kevin Learned and Mike Sulak hit home runs, and three pitchers combined on a seven-hitter as the Chiefs defeated North Farmington 6-2 Monday in a Western Lakes crossover game.

The host Raiders had taken a 2-0 lead in the homer, but only Canton, 2-0, scored after that, coming from behind with the help of Learned and Learned hit a solo homer for the Chiefs, who led 3-1 after four innings, and Sulak, who pitched the last 11/3 innings and got a save, hit a two-run shot to make it 6-2 in the sixth.

Pats pitcher hurls 4-hitter to beat Salem

By Steve Kowalski staff writer

A year ago, Ed Gruenwald's afterschool activity involved washing

This spring, Gruenwald, a senior pitcher at Livonia Franklin, would rather mop up on opposing hitters. He got off to a good start Monday, tossing a four-hitter at visting Plymouth Salem as the Patriots upset the Rocks, 4-2.

Franklin evened its overall record at 2-2 and Salem fell to 1-1. Both teams are 1-1 in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

Gruenwald played on Franklin's junior varsity team in 1986, but as a junior decided to wash cars parttime. On the mound, he doesn't consider himself an overpowering pitcher. In fact, Gruenwald might have trouble breaking a car's windshield.

'I don't have much speed on the ball," said Gruenwald. "I have a curve ball that drops, a curve that slides to the side and kind of a fast ball, if you want to call it that."

Rocks' hitters, including standout Todd Marion, might have called some of Gruenwald's junk a four-letter word. Marion, who has verbally committed to play next year at the University of Michigan, reached base once in three trips to the plate. Gruenwald struck out seven Salem batters and walked one.

"I WAS SIX feet ahead of the ball," said Marion, who hit the ball on the ground all three appearances.

Said Franklin coach Gerry Cullin: "Ed keeps that 'deuce' around the plate all day, and the batters will beat it in the ground or pop it up."

Salem starter Fidell Cashero also pitched well, allowing only three hits before leaving with two outs in the

hander struck out 14 batters. But lack of control and poor fielding cost him in the fifth inning, when Franklin scored three runs to take a 3-2

Cashero walked the first two Franklin batters, Mick Minard and Steve Olson in the fifth. Minard scored the Patriots' first run and Olson advanced to third when Joe Ransley laid down a sacrifice bunt and second baseman Steve Woodard could not handle Cashero's throw to

Tim Napier, who had three RBI, brought home both Olson and Ransley with a line drive single to left field. All told, Franklin manufac-tured three fifth-inning runs on two walks, two hits, two sacrifice bunts and two Salem errors. Napier knocked in an insurance run in the sixth, driving home Olson, who had

Salem coach John Gravlin compared Cashero's performance to Marion's no-hitter he threw last Friday in a win over Northville.

"I HAILED Marion on Friday for doing such a good job and he (Cashero) did an almost comparable job," said Gravlin. "Cashero pitched well enough today to beat anyone in the state. We just didn't come to play behind him and that was a shame for this kid. We had some opportunities but nobody stepped to the forefront. Nobody.

Some fielding blunders by Franklin gave Salem a 2-0 lead after 41/2

High School, scoring 42 points. Plymouth Salem was second with 38. See statistical summary. Other area schools in the 12-team field included Redford Catholic Central, fifth place, 29; Livonia Stevenson, sixth, 22; Livonia Franklin, seventh, 15; Plymouth Canton, 10th, 10. Wayne, meanwhile, won the shuttle hurdle relay at the prestigious Mansfield (Ohio) Relays, a meet that attracted more than 150 schools from the Midwest and Ontario. Running legs of 110 meters each, seniors Steve Hearndon, Corey Wilsofi, Julio Desir and junior Wendell Smith recorded a first-place time of Hearndon added a sixth in the 300 intermediate hurdles (38.8) and Wilson was sixth in the 110 high hurdles (14.6). Hearndon was running second in the 300 hurdles before tripping, eventually falling four places back.

"Steve had the second best preliminary time and I thought he would get first until that last hurdle," said Wayne coach Joe Grasley.

Wayne also added a ninth in the 400 relay, as Hearndon, Wilson, senior Tony Robertson and junior Tom Faison were clocked in 43.8.

MEANWHILE, GLENN placed in 11 of 14 events to gain the Elks

The Rockets captured two events and finished second in three others. The team of Kevin Wilson, Gino Crenshaw, Andy Dobbins and Marcus Lowe took the 800-meter relay in 1:33.32. The Rockets got some help when Detroit Cody's quartet was disqualified for passing the baton out of the exchange zone.

Glenn, however, won against both Salem and Cody in the 400 relay, as Lowe, Crenshaw, Dobbins and Steve Valetti were clocked in 44.1.

"I didn't know if we'd score enough in the field events because some of our kids couldn't go because they were taking the ACT test," said Glenn second-year coach Richard Gordon. "But the kids did an excellent job. It was our first real test and we ran six sophomores. I was really pleased with their effort along with some of our veterans."

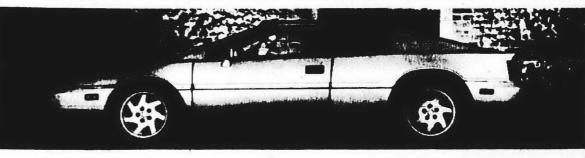

Individually, sophomore Dave Ryan cleared 5 feet, 10 inches to help Glenn gain second in the high jump relay. Ryan and teammate Matt Maybouer, another sophomore, each ran legs of 4:50.0 (1,600 meters each) to help give the Rockets sec-ond behind Plymouth Canton in the 6,400 relay. The Rockets also took second behind Cody in the 1,600 re-

THERE WAS ALSO a bit of nostaigia going for Gordon.

I went to Thurston and grew up in Redford and I told the team that I never lost a meet when I was there and I never lost a meet there when I coached at Cherry Hill," he said. "I guess that was an omen. It was quite a meet for our program."

Stevenson grabbed the shot put relay as Nick Petouhoff, Joe Shymanski, Dan Gutekunst and Mike Nettie combined for 184-64

Salem captured the discus relay with Jay Blaylock, who tossed an individual bests of 158-7, combining with Romolo Maura and Kurt Feller for a first place total of 405-10.

In fact, that was the last event, and Salem's victory vaulted the Rocks from fourth to second place.

prehensive," Salem coach Gary Bal-coni said. "I knew the kids would run hard, but it was our first meet and I wasn't sure how we would match up. What's really nice is we scored in 11 of the 13 events. The kids showed a real nice balance.

'We kicked and scratched, and when they added it up we were right there," he added

In the long jump relay, Salem's Lamar Crayton had an individual best of 21-4, but Franklin's Gary Hudgins, Jeff Dudek and Roy Hall enjoyed a team best of 59-2%.

Canton's 6,400 relay team of Al Byrnes, Brian Beash, Bob Beebe and Jay Swiecki ran 19:03:02 to win that

Doubles key for Salem

By Steve Kowalski staff writer

Finding the right combinations in doubles play this year could be the answer to a successful season for the Plymouth Salem boys tennis team. 'We stand a chance to do well," Salem coach Judy Braun said. "We should have decent doubles teams if we can get them in the right combination.

"They have to function as one unit. When matching doubles partners, it's important to look at the style of the players and their personalities."

As of now, juniors Scott Hobbs and Matt Lore make up the No. 1 doubles team, with half of last year's No. 1 outfit, Bob Breach, having graduated. Sophomore Ryan Bannan and junior Chris Marschak have been named No.

2 doubles, and freshman Ryan Fitzpatrick and junior Jeff Elliott are on the The Rocks finished 8-3 in dual-meet action in 1987 and should be strong at

No. 1 singles, where junior Rich Cundiff returns. Also returning at No. 4 singles is senior Jeff Stomber. Junior Wade Gerard will fill a void at No. 3 singles, where Ted Hanosh graduated.

BRAUN ALSO must replace last year's No. 2 singles player Mark Rearick,

Captains this year are Hobbs and Gerard, but in terms of improvement, Cundiff is the player to look out for, Braun said

"Rich has worked very hard to get where he is," she said. "He's gone from No. 4 singles to get to No. 1. That's definitely the improvement I want to

staff writer

A pair of Redford Catholic Central basketball stars signed national letters of intent Tuesday night with Saginaw Valley State University.

Bill Vitti and Brian Dugas, both first-team All-Observer selections last winter, signed with the Division II school from the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference.

Vitti, a 6-foot-5 post player, averaged 14.7 points, 11.2 rebounds and 4.2 blocked shots per game for CC, which lost in the Class A regional finals to eventual state champion Detroit Cooley. Dugas, a 6-3 shooting guard, poured in 20.4 points and 6.5 rebounds a game.

The two visited the Cardinals' campus Friday and decided they'll be roommates and teammates next

"I really liked it; the guys are great up there and Coach (Bob) Pratt keeps track of his players and their classes," said Dugas, a 4.0 student at CC who will major in sports medi-

A HANDFUL OF Division I schools recruited Vitti, but none offered a scholarship. Central Michigan, Eastern Michigan, Kent State and Akron were among the schools that showed an interest in Vitti.

The center played with his back to the basket at CC, and Division I schools weren't convinced he could are potential starters next season.

do so at their level.

"Division I schools thought I was too small; they wanted me to play a small forward position," said Vitti, who plans to major in business management. "At Saginaw Valley, I'll get a chance to post up, and I like that. They told me I'll have a pretty good chance - if not to start - to play right away next year."

Pratt compared Vitti to 6-6 Herb Schoepke, Saginaw Valley's leading scorer and rebounder last year as a sophomore.

Bill can catch the ball and dunk it," Pratt said. "Both Dugas and Vitti Brian is a Steve Alford type. He's very smart and adept at scoring."

Along with playing time, another attraction to the Division II school was a 4,000-seat basketball arena that will open next January inside a new $18.7 million athletic complex

"I was real impressed with the coaches and the new arena," Vitti

A year ago, few people gave Dugas a chance of even playing college basketball. But he became one of the Catholic League's best players this year, and he considered offers from Wayne State, John Carroll and Al bion before settling on Saginaw Val-

DUGAS ALSO was accepted aca demically at Notre Dame but thought his chances of walking on the basketball team in South Bend were slim at best.

"I didn't know if I wanted to go to Notre Dame and give up basketball."

Dugas said. "There was nothing guaranteed, and I wanted a guaran-

Monroe nips Wayne trackmen

Even though he was the losing coach, Wayne Memorial's Joe Grasley called it "the greatest high school track meet I've ever been associated with in my 22 years."

On Tuesday, host Monroe rallied to score a 66-64 victory over the Zebras, who lost for the first time in three dual meets.

"By the time we got down to the 1,600 relay, we had nothing left," Grasley said. "We had hoped to get them earlier."

Tim Pitcher was the hero for Monroe, winning the 800 and 1,600-meter runs in 1:59.1 and 4:30.2, respectively. He also anchored the winning 1,600 and 3,200 relay squads.

Not to be outdone was Wayne's Tony Robertson, who set a school of 10.71, breaking the mark held since 1969 by Ernie Righetti. Robertson also won the 200 dash (22.8) and anchored the winning 400 relay team that also included Tom Faison, Dave Rodriguez and Corey Wilson (44.1).

Steve Hearndon also figured in three firsts for Wayne. He won the 400 run (50.4) and 300 intermediate track hurdles (41.2), while teaming up with Faison, Rodriguez and Wilson to grab first in the 800 relay in 1:32.1.

Wilson and Hearndon went onetwo in the 110 high hurdles with times of 14.4 and 14.9, respectively. Wendell Smith cleared 6 feet, 4 inches to win the high jump for Wayne, while teammate Shawn Wallace added a first in the shot put (42-But a heroic effort was turned in by Wayne's Derrick Allen, who took second in the 800 (2:00.0) and 3,200 (9:55.1), along with a third in the 1,600 (4:32.6). "There were a lot of great performances," Grasley said. "The kids should feel high about them."

WESTLAND JOHN GLENN won another classic finish Tuesday, pulling out a 69-68 boys track victory over host Livonia Churchill.

Glenn trailed 68-64 before winning the meet's final event, the 1,600 relay as Larry Zimba, Carl Lowe, David Ryan and Steve Wiseley outdueled the Chargers with a time of 3:33.8. (Churchill's time was 3:34.6).

The Rockets held a slight edge throughout the 1,600 relay before Wise ley, the anchor, held off the hard-charging Jason Belaire of Churchill, who had earlier won the high jump (6-0), 110 meter hurdles (15.1) and 300 intermed

"It was a good race and overall there were some good performances," said Churchill coach Fred Price. "Even though we lost, it's fun to compete in those kind of meets."

Glenn individual winners included Marcus Lowe in the 200 (23.4) and 400 dashes (53.8); Joe Zella, long jump (20-44); Andy Dobbins, 100 dash (11.4); Jerry Allen, 1,600 run (4:40.9); Zimba, 800 run (2:03.7); Jeff Graham, shot put (50-1/2)

Churchill's Don Montgomery captured the 3,200 run in 10:23.4 and also teamed up with Jim King, Chris Sapanski and Matt Sweeney to win the 3,200 relay in 9:04.7. The Chargers also won the 800 re lay, as Mike Lyskawa, Chris Muzo, Jim Shryock and Andy Abela were clocked in

Studies show fat genes play role in producing pounds

I am an unhappy, "pleasingly plump," 24-year-old female. I've always been chubby. My parents are both heavy. I've heard about fat genes. Is this true? Will I always be fat?

Over the past five years, doctors who research the causes of overweight have come to believe that biochemistry plays a significant role in producing excess pounds. In fact, we all start life with a genetic program, that dictates whether we will head toward heaviness

Researchers have observed that children in families where parents are overweight are about seven to eight times more likely to become fat than children who have grown up with parents of normal weight.

But until recently, doctors had disagreed on whether heredity or family eating and exercise patterns were to blame. Two publicized studies helped convince a number of experts that in many cases genetics plays the larger part.

One study, published in 1985, revealed that 540 adults who had been adopted strongly resembled their biological parents, when it came to weight, rather than the parents who raised them.

Also interesting enough, the adopted women appeared to resemble their biological mothers most strongly. This shows that parents, particularly mothers, pass along their weight genes to their children, especially daughters.

The second study revealed that identical twins, who have the same genetic makeup, tend to be similar in weight. Fraternal twins, who may differ genetically, have a much wider weight variation.

I know what you must be thinking by now . . . "Oh boy, am I in

But does the fact that you have one or more overweight parents mean that you have a fat future no matter what? I promise you, no! Genes are not the only fat factors you have to consider.

The human body is amazing and you have the ability to control about 50 to 75 pounds of your body weight. So let's control it. You know the story, so I'll make it short: Diet and exercise! Diet as in changing your way of eating for life! Exercise as in becoming a

Focus on wildfire prevention

E HAD BEEN tubing down Arizona's Great Salt River for about two hours when we decided to stop on a sandy bank for a quick refreshment.

We hadn't been off the river five minutes when we saw a thick stream of smoke billowing from the top of the small ledge we were sitting beneath. When we found the source of the smoke the fire was still contained in a 30-foot circle.

Three young men were beating the flames with large branches. Less than 100-yards away, the four-wheel drive truck which had carried the trio to the river bank sat burried to the axles in sand.

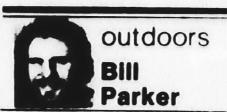

The wind was blowing parallel to the truck so the fire wasn't headed directly toward the vehicle. But the flames weren't too far away either. A quick wind burst in the wrong direction and that truck would have been history.

The three men, my friend and I worked frantically shoveling dirt and moving fallen branches, trying to contain the fire and keep the flames away from the truck. Our efforts were futile. After a few short minutes the fire was raging out of control, engulfing grass, bushes and entire trees in a matter of seconds.

Moments later a fire truck arrived on the scene. We were orderd back to the river and away from the "danger area." There was nothing more

WE RETURNED TO our tubes and watched the smoke from a distance. That night we heard a report that more than 200 acres of state park had gone up in smoke in that blaze. We never heard a thing about a truck blowing up. They were lucky.

Althjough this fire burned thousands of mile away, the threat of such a fire is never so high in Michigan as it is right now. With dead leaves and grass drying in fields and forests, the potential for such a fire is great. Later in the spring, when leaves fill the trees and green grass covers the forest floors, fires won't burn as quickly and fire fighters will have a much better chance of con-

Debris burning is the number one cause of wildfires in the state," said Art Sutton, Fire Prevention Specialist with the Department of Natural Resources. "The wind blows stuff out of a barrel or someone gets four or five piles of leaves and grass burning, the wind kicks up and the fires get out of control. A lot of the time it's just careless-

Leisurely pace ensures victory in half-marathon

By C.J. Risak staff writer

On a near-perfect day for running. Paul Aufdemberge's conservative pace" was much more than the rest of the field could handle in the 12th annual West Bloomfield Half-Marathon Sunday Aufdemberge pulled away after eight miles of the 13.1-mile race and won easily in one hour, 11 minutes and 39 seconds. Finishing second was Dale Hart in 1 12 46.

The pace was well off the race record of 1:08:54, set by Craig Fuller of Canton in 1986. And the reason was the nearly perfect conditions.

It was bright and sunny, with temperatures in the mid-60s - great running weather, right? Well, almost. Winds from the south-southwest gusted from 20 to 30 miles-perhour, making it less than ideal for

"IT WAS REAL windy out there." admitted runner-up Hart, a Detroit resident

The wind didn't bother the winner quite as much, however - which may explain why Aufdemberge fin-

"It was pretty windy at times, but guess I can't complain," said the Detroit native. "It wasn't too bad because there are so many turns in the course, and the last four miles or so were mostly with the wind.

"I felt pretty steady the whole way," he added. "It was a conservative pace. I opened up a little gap at about four miles, then pulled away at about eight miles. It was nice to run a bit relaxed the last few miles."

Hart, who finished nearly two minutes ahead of third-place David Welker of Fenton (1:14:36), tried to keep pace with Aufdemberge but couldn't. "He pulled away from me at eight miles, and I couldn't catch him after that," said Hart.

LEADING THE WOMEN was Diane East of Butler, Pa., a 1974 graduate of Royal Oak Kimball. East finished in 1:25:30, 54th overall. Second among women was Michelle Gillispie of Roseville in 1:27:27, 70th overall.

The wind proved bothersome for East, too. "I felt like it just stood me up at times," she said. "At least there were a lot of turns, which gave

It was a satisfying win for East, who had entertained Olympic aspirations. She was entered to run the Olympic Trials' marathon in Pittsburgh two weeks after the West Bloomfield run, which she wanted to use as a tune-up. But a knee injury ruined her training schedule.

I've only been training for 54 weeks," she said, "so I'm happy winning. I didn't really feel too good. It was tough out there.

As far as the Olympic Trials are concerned. East is still considering running, although she realizes she probably won't do very well. "I'll go and run, but I'll probably only go half way," she said.

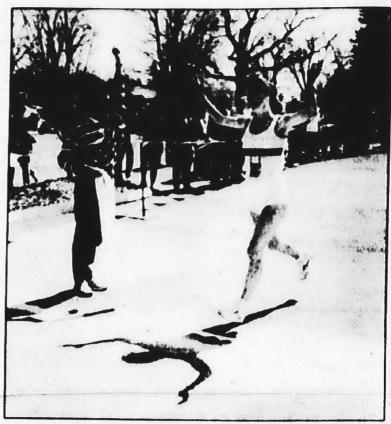

LEADING FINISHERS from the Observer & Eccentric area among the 759 entries were Scott Baker of Birmingham, 10th (1:17:56); Tom Mountain of Farmington Hills, 12th (118:35); David Kanners of Rochester, 15th (1:19 06); Tim Emmett of Redford, 18th (1:19:28); Ed Barron of Birmingham, 23rd (1:21:07); and Bill Jones of West Bloomfield, 27th (1:21:48)

Doug Kurtis of Northville, one of the top runners in the nation, ran the easy race he said he would and finished 29th in 1:22:06. Kurtis is preparing for the Olympic Trials'

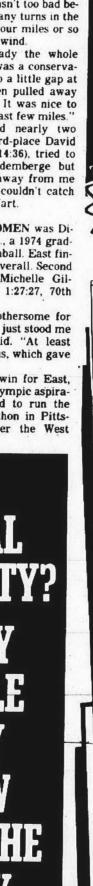

Award winners in each age group were, for the men: 18 and under, Nick Plaxton of West Bloomfield (1:24:01); 19-29, Aufdemberge; 30-39, Greg Hellar of Trenton (1:18:57); 40-49, Kanners; 50-59, Gene Reck of Franklin (1:30:26); 60 and over, Chuck Davey of Birmingham (1:32:01)

For the women: 17 and under, Wendy Cousino of West Bloomfield (1:54:40); 19-29, Gillispie; 30-39, East; 40-49, Charlene Catalina of Port Huron (1:28:14); and 50 and over, Janey Hayden of Port Huron (1:48:12)

The top team finisher was Ellis Boal and Marilyn Morehead of Detroit (3:10:11 combined time).

Diane East, who left her female compatriots far behind, raises her hands in triumph after crossing the finish line.

• SPARTAN SPARKS

Michigan State's baseball team entered yesterday's double-header at University of Michigan in hot pursuit of the Wolverines for the Big Ten lead. MSU was 9-3 in league play, 24-8 overall, one of its best starts ever. U-M - a perennial conference leader - was 31-7 overall, 11-1 in the league.

Two reasons for the Spartans' success are pitchers Rick Rozman. a senior from Livonia (Stevenson), and Keith Hubbell, a freshman from Detroit (Redford Bishop Bor-Rozman led the Big Ten in earned run average through last week with a 1.20 mark. His ERA is now 1.23 after his 4-1 six-hit, complete game victory at Northwestern Saturday. Rozman struck out two and walked none. He is 2-1 in Big Ten play and 4-2 overall, with a team-best 2.90 ERA and three complete games.

Hubbell is making a mark in his first year as a Spartan. He is 3-0 overall with a 1.84 ERA, including an 11-0 shutout against Niagara. In 143 innings, Hubbell has surrendered three earned runs on 12 hits and 10 walks, while fanning 13.

• WOLVERINE SLUGGERS

U-M has also gotten some strong support from local sources. Tom Brock, a senior outfielder from Garden City, clubbed three homers 12-16 overall, 4-6 in the Big Ten. in the Wolverines' four-game sweep at Purdue last weekend. Entering yesterday's double-header. Brock was batting .350 with six homers and 32 runs batted in.

Redford Catholic Central gradualso contributed in a big way for U-M. Haeger is hitting .330 with three homers and 26 RBI. His third homer of the season came in Satur- 31 of 35 games. He's hitting .317 day's 11-0 blanking of Purdue, with seven doubles, two homers Haeger is second on the team in and 18 RBI. Missouri was 28-7 game-winning hits with four.

• RIOUX STILL ROLLING

Jennifer Rioux, a senior at Wake Forest from Livonia (Ladywood) keeps improving on what has al ready been a very good year.

Injuries have plagued Rioux throughout her running career, but she's made the most of her last season at Wake Forest. She was an All-American in cross country last fall, and then won the Atlantic Coast Conference 1,500-meter indoor track title.

On April 2, Rioux added another title to her collection by winning the 1,500-meter race at the Duke Invitational in a school-record 4:23.16, six seconds better than the previous mark and just off the NCAA qualifying standard.

• ARCHER EXPANDS

Kim Archer has concluded her highly successful basketball career at MSU, finishing as one of the Spartans' all-time greats. But that wasn't enough for the multitalented senior from Livonia (Bentley); she now has added softball to her collegiate career.

Archer was a Class A all-stater for Bentley in softball, and it's apparent she hasn't lost anything. Last week against Iowa, she collected six hits in 16 at-bats, with three triples, five runs scored and four runs batted in.

She's hitting .356 for the season and leads the team in hits (31) and runs scored (16). She's tied for the team lead in RBI with 12. MSU is

Milles sculpture given a fresh look

The timing was perfect. The Orpheus Fountain, with eight sculptures by Carl Milles, was reinstalled on the plaza of the Cranbrook Academy of Art Museum in time for the arrival of the Swedish king and queen earlier this week.

The magnificent fountain was removed during the construction of the Albert and Peggy de Salle Auditorium beneath the plaza. The fountain, installed in 1938, was rededicated March 31 to complete the several years of work on the addition and improvements to the

At the time the fountain was removed in 1985, it was apparent that interior iron support rods needed to replaced and iron and calcium build-up on the exterior surfaces removed as well. The sculptures were send to Washington University Technology Association in September 1987, and the work was completed under the direction of Phoebe Weil, taking care to maintain the look of the original patina as much as possible.

ALSO COINCIDING with the visit of King Carl XVI Gustaf and Queen Silvia are exhibits in the museum - 30 pastel drawings and other works by Olga Milles organized by Millesgarden of Sweden and "Faces of Swedish Design," which closes this weekend. The later, organized by Svensk Form, the Swedish Society of Crafts and Design, presents an overview of Swedish design in the '80s.

Olga and Carl Milles, husband and wife, who lived and worked at Cranbrook in the '30s and '40s, left as much a mark on the educational community as they did in their native Sweden. Sculptures by Carl Milles can be found throughout the complex, in the gardens, along the walkways and by the buildings.

NONE, HOWEVER, is better known or more readily recognized and appreciated than the Orpheus

Tribute to Milles is also paid in the permanent exhibit, "The Cranbrook Collection" at the museum. This exhibit highlights the achievements of the faculty and students since Cranbrook Academy of Art began in the 1920 as the dream of George and Ellen Scripps Booth. Among the artists they brought to their Bloomfield Hills community were Harry Bertoia, Eero Saarinen, Maija Grotell, Marianne Stengell, Marshall Fredericks and Milles.

For Redstone the painter, color leads the way

By Brian Lysaght staff writer

There is a room with a skylight in Louis Redstone's home, and it is in that room that he paints

The natural light that shines in his studio shows off colors in the best way possible and is important to his painting, he says. Colors fascinate Redstone, and this becomes clear in

Colors, he says, give joy and make one feel good, even on the gravest of days

He paints for another reason because it gives joy to others. Redmas cards featuring one of his watercolors. They are popular items. At a party last year celebrating his firm's 50th year in business, he gave away 1,000 copies of a painting he made in Paris 50 years before. The demand was great for that picture.

current showing of his watercolors, the first in 10 years. The show opened at Royal Oak's CADE Gallery Saturday with a reception and runs through May 4.

The paintings, which date from about 1960 to 1988, show Redstone's preference for color over form. This de-emphasis on form is even more brilliant colors he put on paper one interesting considering Redstone's

"This is not an escape but a complete freedom of action," he said.

He began his training as a painter THAT IS ALSO A reason for the when he was studying architecture at the University of Michigan. Redstone, who was born in Poland and came to America in 1923, was required to take course study in art as part of his architecture studies.

him in his painting, which is much inspired by nature.

'There isn't any abstraction that you don't find in nature," he said.

He graduated with an architecture degree in 1929. He continued painting, and working in other mediums. He studied sculpture but found it required more time than he could of-

He likes the liquidity of watercolors and the pace."It is a medium you really have to do fast and you can't correct it." With a smile he says that after 40 years of painting he can now make a painting in 10 minutes that he likes

He paints each weekend and sometimes works summer evenings when the days are long.

THROUGH HIS successful career as a designer of buildings, his interest has been in mixing art and architecture. He has included sculpture in many buildings, and has written five books with Ruth, his wife. One was titled "Art and Architecture," and another was a survey of public art throughout the world.

He says it wasn't easy to get the works together for this show. Friends like artist Carol Wald helped, and in the end he says he is happy with the works selected.

Jun Kaneko works, thinks in large dimension

JERRY ZOLYNSKY/staff photographs

Jun Kaneko, standing with some of his large even grander scale, once he solves the many ceramics on display at Hilberry Gallery of Bir- problems that will accompany such a pioneermingham, is already thinking of working on an ing effort.

By Corinne Abatt staff writer

It's easy to guess that Jun Kaneko began his art career as a painter. Sure, he was head of the ceramics department at Cranbrook Academy of Art, 1979-86 and he's an internationally recognized ceramics artist, but there remains. happily, a strong element of painting in his work.

His show at Hilberry Gallery. 555 S. Woodward, Birmingham, brings his large freestanding sculptural pieces to this area as a body of work for the first time. The several largest pieces, cylindrical in shape, and more than 6 feet tall, weigh 750-800 pounds. They are made of slabs of clay joined together and then flipped upside down. "An important part of the piece is how it sits on the floor. Flipping is the tricky part," he said. They are painted, glazed and kiln-fired; firing for the big ones may take a week or more.

HIS MOVE to Omaha, Nebraska in 1986 came as a result of his involvement in a large project there. It was he who told people there that Omaha could be a place for

Now Omaha has 60,000 square feet of well-equipped studio space for artists who come to work for a period of time. Kaneko said his studio is separate from that. He built his own kiln which can accomodate up to four of his large pieces at one

Already his thoughts have turned to an even larger 10-by-6-foot work, which he will build once he gets the myriad of problems solved which accompany such a large undertaking.

"I've already found a kiln in Phoenix, Arizona. It's a beehive kiln in a big brick yard and it's a second one that's not being used."

Kaneko said that while the forms are beautiful just as they are, as a painter, he can't resist embellishing them with color and design. Only one in the Hilberry show is a plain color. He still uses the combination of types of deep charcoal color side by side — one mixture accepts the high glass finish and the other with a high metallic content rejects it and comes out of the kiln with a matt finish that looks like bituminous coal - and another ric forms is still very much in evidence. All translate very well to the large form.

KANEKO'S USE use of the spi

One wall of the smaller gallery is covered by the large 30-square mural which he did just before he left Cranbrook. Each square has seven rows of nine solid blue circles which bleed slightly onto the white surface. It is a strong piece of work with compelling optical properties. This, like the freestanding works in the other gallery, creates a complete environment.

Kaneko said that because of health problems he may have to consider relocating in a warmer climate. Certainly this artist, who continues to be of of the leaders in his field, should be encouraged to work under the most optimum conditions possible.

The large wall piece and several of the large freestanding pieces were in an exhibit in Korea. He has had several one-artist shows since he left here and has been in group shows including "Contemporary Japanese Ceramics" which was in

Japan and Texas. Hours at Hilberry Gallery are 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Sat-left Livonia some eight years ago because he knew he wanted to be a and he knew New York was the place to go. Well, now he is a a published, acclaimed and the funny thing, he says, is that he could have lived anywhere to write the book he wrote.

Sure he lives in New York — actually Jersey City and is married to a New Yorker, but if there's a Big Apple literary scene, he isn't in it. He doesn't even know those people, he says, and doesn't see any need to.

Banta's book "No Ceiling But Heaven St. Martin's Press, hardbound, $13.95), is the 33-year-old janitor's first published effort - aside from a short story he'd written in college (He earned a journalism degree at Wayne State but tried "only alf-heartedly" to find a job where he could use it. He discovered along the way that fiction was his love.)

About his success as a novelist, Banta says. Twe been working at writing since I was 18 with no real success until now, but I feel so lucky. People go along for a lifetime waiting for what happened to me. But it was my luck to find a terrific editor who believes in me and works with me and never pressures me

book break Mona Grigg

BANTA'S MANUSCRIPT was rejected by several publishers before Maritn's picked it up. "They never questioned my ability as a writ-Banta said, "but it was too offthe-beaten-path. None of them knew what to do with it." Finally, Banta's brother-in-law told him to send it to Michael Dehnenny, an editor he knew at St. Martin's. Michael kept it for a long time and I'd just about given up when he called and said he like it a lot and they wanted to publish it." A year later, with a few minor revisions, 'No Ceiling But Heaven" was in

The story takes place in and around Detroit - Livonia, in fact, though the town is never named. The first-person parrator is Johnny, the 30-year-old slightly retarded twin to the volatile, dangerous Bobby.

This is a family in trouble right from the start: "Jesus, how Bobby and Daddy used to fight, just like two animals that were trapped in the same cage. Momma would hold her mouth and say, 'Oh, please, Bobby. He is your father. Then Momma would send me out of the room at times because I would be crying and shaking again.

Johnny, "Momma's pure little angel from Heaven," recites with simple innocence the events leading to Bobby's exile after an attempted murder, his mother's shadowy retreat into her Bible and finally into madness his father's battle with cancer and the bottle and his own emergence into understanding and self-worth

'It's all right, son,' said Daddy, and his voice was all husky and low. My ear was on his chest, and I could hear his voice in there, rumbling softly. All we can do in this life is our best. All we can do is our best. John, you can't be hurt too bad, son because you got to keep trying.

tell you about my daddy. That night. and what he did for me. That is the thing that I will always remember about him. He held my head to him and talked to me when I didn't think that he could ever do that.

Johnny finally finds his calling as a house painter ("Painting gives me this feeling of yes, this is happy no. If a guy did this on TV it wouldn't seem retarded . . I'm not scared and I can't be scared because I know what I'm doing at painting. Painting is sleeping with no bad dreams") and finds new friends in Louis, his boss, and his irrepressible Aunt Maggie, there to care for him as his father lies dving

The novel ends triumphantly in a last act of redemption as Johnny and Bobby secretly conspire to give Willy his dreamed-about Viking funeral. Banta, already deep into his second novel, is basking in better-thanexpected reviews, including a favorable mention in the sought-after New York Times Book Review. But let's not forget to mention Hal and Mary Banta, Mykal's parents and "Midwestern publicist" who still live in the house where Mykal grew up and couln't be more proud.

condo queries Robert M. Melsner

Q. I read your column constantly but have not seen this question ed. I am 40, married, with two children and I earn $75,000 per year. We have been considering the purchase of a condominium in Florida that we could rent now until we retire, probably in 13 years. I have read under the new tax law that investors can use up to $25,000 a year in tax losses from rental income that they actively managed to offset other income.

My questions are: (I) What does "actively manage" mean?; (2) Can we legally rent the condominium to relatives, i.e. mother-in-law, uncle, etc.; (3) If we don't rent for a month or so, even though you are advertising or you have a real estate manager trying to rent, can that lost income be deducted as a loss?; (4) What are the items that can make up the $25,000 in tax losses; and (5) since we don't currently have any deductions, would this be a way to reduce my income and still have something of increasing value for the future?

A. Even after the recent Tax Reform Act, a rental condominium remains one of the most tax-wise investments for a person in a situation such as yours. In addition to the inflation protection, equity build-up and leverage that is provided by a debt-financed real estate investment, the federal income tax laws encouraing middle income taxpayers to own and rent out condomini-

Taxpayers with adjusted gross incomes of $100,000 or less may claim a tax loss from real estate rental of up to $25,000 against other income on their tax returns. This $25,000 limit is phased out at the rate of 50 cents on the dollar for taxpayers with adjusted gross incomes in excess of $100,000. To be eligible for this $25,000 exclusion, you must be an "active participant" with respect to the condominium rental.

An "active participant" is an individual who owns at least 10 percent of the condominium (and not as a limited partner) and who makes management decisions regarding the condominium rental, such as approving new tenants, setting rental rates, approving capital and repair expendititures and other such matters.

In addition, to claim the tax loss, you and your relatives can only use the condominium for the greater of (1) 14 days or (2) 10 percent of the days actually rented at a fair market rental during the year. Use by relatives who pay a fair rental does not count for this purpose. If the above requirements are met, you may claim a loss up to $25,000 from the condominium rental against other income.

If the requirements are not satisfied, you may deduct expenses only to extent of rental income in the following order: (1) The first expenses that must be claimed against the rental property are those that would normally be deductible whether or not this was a rental activity such as real estate taxes and interest expense; (2) Other cash expenditures such as insurance, repairs, condominium assessments and management company fees are deductible; (3)Those that adjust the income tax basis of the property downward such as depreciation and the amortization of the mortgage points.

During periods that the property is available for rental but is not actually rented, you will not be be able to deduct any "lost rental income." Your expenses during this period will be allowed as deductible costs subject to the above rules, but you cannot also deduct the economic loss of your condominium being vacant.

Since other "passive activity losses" can only be used to offset income from passive activities (not including dividend and interest income), the tax law still encourages middle income individuals to purchase and rent out condominiums that they may ultimately use as retirement homes. If the investment makes economic sense, the current tax laws may enhance your overall return on this retirement investment.

You should, however, confirm with your tax consultant as to the tax ramifications of any investment will make to you. (Special thanks to the CPA firm of Plante & Moran who assisted me in preparing this answer.)

EXTRA LAND BONUS

EXTRA LAND BONUS

You own a home which sits on a very large piece of land — over five acree. Now, you want to sell the house but wonder if you would be better off selling the property as one unit or subdividing the land into smaller lots and selling the house with one tot and the other lots separately. Where do you go from here?

Before you make your decision, check with an experienced Realtor who can arrange for a marketing and engineering analysis for the highest and best use for your property. This analysis will include a study of the location, zoning, builder and consumer demand, comparable sales, site access, topography, and availability of utilities. Then you'll know how much it will cost to transform the raw land, into saleable lots and the value of the finished lots. Then,
you can compare these figures with the present valuation of the total property as one unit. It's always best to have all the factual and financial information before you make a major real estate decision.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at KENNELLY REALTY - 19500 Middlebelt - Ste. 201 E., Livonia, Mi 48152 - 471-0404. We're here to help!

Getting bogged down in cranberries

ing in the wilderness is helping to produce Canada's cranberries. Using modern equipment, much of which they make themselves, the Iroquois Cranberry Growers, Mohawks of the Gibson Band, work in a marsh in mid-Ontario near Bala.

9E | # 1F

The growing area was selected for its ideal peat bottom and its acid pH, in which cranberries thrive. Area residents and tourists who want to buy the cranberries drive along a narrow gravel road from a highway to the bogs a few miles from the In-

These cranberry plants are vastly better than the wild variety the Indians in Canada and Massachusetts picked long before European settlers

The berries grow in clusters on upright branches. Branches are pruned regularly. The beds vary in length to fit the irrigation system.

THOMAS "BUD" Rennie has been manager of the project since its start. The project has grown from a half-acre cultivated in 1968 to today's 42 acres.

The 1987 crop yield was about 700,000 pounds, compared to the first harvest of 5,000 pounds in 1974. Some cranberries go to Toronto, weeder's guide Earl while others go to England and Ger-

Aronson

Cranberry bogs are also located in Quebec, British Columbia and Nova Scotia.

Last year, just a week before harvest (in time for Canada's October Thanksgiving Day), Rennie and I walked in heavy rain from the new processing plant to the bog. Rennie reached into a cranberry bed and picked a cluster of the plump, tart, bright red berries for me to taste.

The plants will yield indefinitely - 100 years - as long as they are kept healthy and weed-free," said Rennie, whose father, William, was one of the project's originators.

At harvest time, the beds are covered with a foot of water, directed from a reservoir and from dams built by the Indians. Beaters shaped like revolving wheels whip the berries from the 4-inch tall plants. Workers use wide wooden paddles to churn the water, pushing the floating berries into the corners of each bed.

the berries and dump them into hoppers for carting to the cleaning. sorting and processing plant.

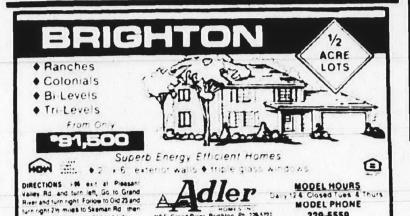

AT THE PROCESSING plant, the cranberries pass through a degrasser to clear debris, go on to gas dryers, and then into mills for removal of soft or damaged berries. Grading and inspection follow.

We can control the water table of the beds — to flood, irrigate or drain," Rennie explained. "We flood only for harvesting, then drain and flood again in December to protect low-growing plants against Ontario's severe cold that could destroy them In spring, beds are drained again."

"We ship fresh berries to processors, and we have our own presses for making juice," Rennie said. This is the first year we are making juice concentrate." (When using the concentrate, add three parts water, apple or other juice.)

The plants survive well under water. Periodically, in winter, sand is spread on the bog ice. With spring melting, the sand sinks to the bottom, controlling weeds, insect eggs and diseases while strengthening plant roots. Runners spread.

NBD's new Bi-Weekly Mortgage

- · Cuts 9 years off a 30-year loan.
- Reduces interest costs 35%*
- · Builds equity almost twice as fast.

What does Bi-Weekly mean, exactly? And how does this new mortgage work? Bi-Weekly simply means you make your house payment every other week. Instead of writing out one large check once a month, you pay half every two weeks. So, rather than making 12 big monthly payments a year, you make 26 small ones every two weeks. The two extra payments make the difference, cutting about 9 years off the life of your mortgage.

The last 9 years are free? Right. This mortgage gives ou the low payments of a 30-year mortgage, and is fully paid off in just 21 years. In that sense, NBD's new Bi-Weekly combines the best Natures of 15- and 30-year fixed rate mortgages. Because NBD requires just 10% down, the Bi-Weekly Mortgage is perfect for first-time iomeowners.

Suppose I sell my home 7 years from now...will I have more equity in it? Yes. With the NBD Bi-Weekly Mortgage, you build equity in your home almost twice as fast as a conventional 30-year mortgage. So when you sell your home...or if you want to use the equity in it for any purpose...the equity will be nearly double what it would have been otherwise.

And if I keep my home for the full 21 years...how much will I save? About 35%, For many home buyers in this area, that could mean sixty to seventy-five thousand dollars. To find out how much you would save, check the table below, NBD's new Bi-Weekly Mortgage sounds interesting. But I need more details. Just call or visit one of the NBD Mortgage Company offices listed below. Our homeomortgage specialists will get you the information to get started right away.

Three Cities Art Club winners were: Andrea DeZell of Plymouth (left), best of show, for an oil painting, "The Englishman;" Florence Hirschmann of Plymouth, first-place for an oil, "Kings Landing," and also the popular opinion vote; Lucille McKenzie of Plymouth, first place in mixed media for a watercolor, "Flash of Color;" and Janice Sparks of S. Lyon, best use of color for a watercolor, "A Memory."

Art show winners

Seventeen artists had their works on exhibit during the recent Three Cities Art Club juried spring show. The club, organized in 1956, is one of the oldest art groups in the area. The name comes from the cities of Plymouth, Northville and Livonia, but membership has expanded to include artists from other neighboring commun-

Art show judge was Marilyn Finkel, professor of art history and chairman of the art department at Oakland Community College.

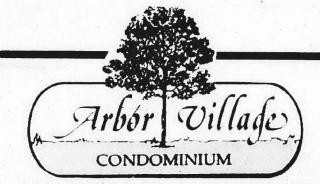

In addition to the top winners, pictured above, others who were given awards were:

Oils - Kay Fill, second place, "Summer Place"; Florence Hirschmann, third, "Lilacs and Tulips." Honorable mentions went to Yolanda Menchaca, "Royal Daisies," and Jane Clinton, 'Navet

Mixed media - Phyllis Ryden, second place, a pastel, "Sheer Bliss"; and Jean Bologna, third, a print. "Manatees." Honorable mentions went to: Bologna, "In Splendor"; Dorothy Koliba, a water color, "Fresh Each Season"; Lucille McKenzie, water color, "Fantasy Flower"; and Janice Sparks, a water color, "Good Afternoon."

Other exhibitors included Wallace Bilyear, Judy Gibbs, Okema Lee, Nicanor Lopez, Betty Manthey, Jean Ritchey and Donna Wood.

With the art show out of the way, the group will concentrate its efforts on its Attic and Art Sale, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, at 15252 Maxwell, on the southeast corner of Five Mile, west of Haggerty.

West Bloomfield's Best.

Enter Aldingbrooke through a private gate and you've entered a world that abounds with "more" of everything.

More Space...Up to 2,800 Square Feet.

Note the spaciousness of each of Aldingbrooke's 9 floor plans

The full living space, the generous storage space, the private patio or balcony, attached garages and the lush rolling terrain. Aldingbrooke residents demand spaciousness-so each Aldingbrooke unit is designed with their needs in mind.

More Community...130 Acres.

Aldingbrooke is more than an apartment—it's a community.

A clubhouse with pool, tennis courts, walking/jogging trials, library, billiards and other activities galore. Aldingbrooke residents demand more than just a place to live, they demand a lifestyle-and Aldingbrooke provides it.
