School views

Not all of the 15 candidates running for the Plymouth Board of Education plan to attend a candidates night Tuesday.

Eleven of the hopefuls have told the League of Women Voters of Northville, Plymouth, Canton and Novi they plan to present their views. The forum is scheduled at 7:30 p.m. at Plymouth Canton High School, 8415 Canton Center at Joy.

Two seats are open on the school board. The terms are four years each. The election is June

Spending plan

Current members of the Plymouth-Canton school board will meet at 6 p.m. Tuesday at Plymouth Canton High to formally adopt the budget and tax rate for the 1988-89 school year.

A tax rate of $34.17 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation (half of market value) has been proposed for operations and $2.60 per $1,000 of SEV for debt retirement

Revenues have been projected at $53.6 million and expenditures of $55.3 million. The difference - $1.7 million - would come from fund balance.

Extra Miler

Lynne Fountain-Gronvall, a first-grade teacher at Isbister Elementary School, was presented with an Extra Miler Award last week by the school board for outstanding efforts in the classroom.

Fountain-Gronvall, who started teaching in the district three years ago, was honored for stimulating students to grow socially, emotionally and academically.

"Lynne is a born teacher," trustee E.J. McClendon said of her learning environment and energy level.

Wage rage

The Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce doesn't like some legislative happenings in both Lansing and Washington,

The legislation concerns raising the minimum wage. The two pieces of legislation are similar and would raise the wage rate from $3.35 an hour now to $5 ($5.05 in the federal law) over a four-year period.

The chamber said it is opposed to wage provisions mandated by the government. "Wages should be determined in the marketplace based on supply and demand, instead of politics," the chamber said. In addition, the laws would have a negative influence on job creation, according to the chamber.

If Mayor Karl Gansler II has his way, downtown Plymouth will look less cluttered in the years ahead.

"My main concern is sign pollution, especially on Main Street," he Gansler made the point of wanting to take a hard look at the city's sign ordinance when named mayor last fall by his colleagues on the city commission.

THE PLANNING commission will review the current sign ordinance, conduct public hearings and then forward a recommendation to the city commission. The city commission could be in a position to enact more stringent standards by the end of summer.

"We'll be looking at the size of signs, height of signs and number of signs," said Douglas Miller, chairman of the planning commission.

"I think there's a good deal of community support for this," Miller said. "We have the potential of getting into sign pollution."

Existing signs probably wouldn't have to comply immediately with new standards, said Ron Lowe, city

"Customarily, it's grandfathered in," he said. "You'd wait until business changes hands and then phase them out.

GANSLER SAID his goal is to have fewer and smaller signs throughout the city by the year 2000.

"I know most people in business have seven years to write a sign off (for tax purposes)," he said. "If it's done in a positive manner, not trying to shove down anyone's throat . . . asking those with existing signs to please come into compliance by 2000, I'm guessing 98 percent will comply," Gansler said. "I know for a fact . . . if I counted the words on signs from Farmer Jack to Ann Arbor Trail, there's no way anyone could read all the words on all those signs," he said.

Marge Grzena, Budgetel Motel manager, said employees screen customers to reduce potential problems. "You have to be 21 to rent a room. A lot of time parents rent a room for their children. Notices are being sent to the schools that if there are any damages, the parents will be responsible."

But only 27 percent indicated they would be willing to volunteer their time to help clean up the river.

However, that number still represents a substantial pool of possible helpers.

"Having organized a number of volunteer fund-raising campaigns. 27 percent would be encouraging." Jakeway said.

Last year, more than 2,000 people turned out at 22 sites to clean up the river and its banks. Nineteen cars. two motorcycles and 75 grocery carts were among the items hauled out of the Rouge.

AN OVERWHELMING majority of those surveyed - almost 91 percent - strongly agreed or agreed somewhat with the statement, "The Rouge River is an important natural

More than 90 percent of people surveyed in the Observer & Eccentric circulation area agree that the Rouge River must be cleaned up.

And most people surveyed believe the Rouge can be cleaned up. Sixtyfour percent said it will be very likely or somewhat likely cleanup efforts on the Rouge will be successful.

School candidates tell role on board series examining the views of the candidates running for the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education The election is Monday.

If elected, how would you see your role on the board of education?

Richard W. Sumpter - If elected my role or duty would be to be as informed as possible so as to make intelligent decisions regarding the education of the students of this community Secondary to be a protector of the tax dollars entrusted to the trustees of the Plymouth Canton school board.

Janet C. Drass - Working with the administration, teachers and the community to provide all students with the opportunity to obtain a quality education at a funding level that is acceptable to the community.

Kent A. Jensen - My role on the board of education is to use my talents, abilities, education, and experience to provide my children and those of my neighbors the best educational opportunities within the restraints of available finances. It has been my experience that "team titude of team work, not just between board members, but among board members, employees, students, and the community needs to be strengthened I would like to champion this team work concept

Annette J. Remsburg - I will seek to energetically represent the electorate as accurately as possible by promoting communication with board members through opinionaires and surveys - such as the one I conducted to provide an informed public comment to the board in deciding the June 13 ballot issue. I am also prepared to research the issues and come prepared to all meetings ready to listen, discuss and decide

Mary M. Roberson - As a college instructor. I can see how our students should be prepared academically for a successful entry to college and then a career. As a parent, I can see how children should be given every opportunity and encouragement to become socially responsible, physically capable, creatively open to new ideas and emotionally secure and self-confident. As one who has lived in many different states. I can gardless of that child's abilities or interests. There is a valuable place in society for each person. As educators, we must make sure that each child has the best opportunity to find that place.

Lester W. Walker - As a present board member, my fundamental responsibility is attending to the policies required for daily running of the school district. I see my role as much more It encompasses establishing the direction and vision for the district and includes final accountability for the quality of education being achieved for every student. Key to this is representing all citizens of the community by maintaining open and receptive channels of communication through which their concerns and priorities become an essential part of the decisionmaking process. Equally important to my role is encouraging direct citizen involvement and promoting employee satisfaction.

Leon R. Watkins - If elected, my primary responsibility will be to assure that our kids continue to receive the highest standard of education possible. I need to learn more about the strengths of this system and work to maintain and improve

Mark Beauchese - My role on the board of education would be that of a communicator. In any school system there is a communications gap between the schools and the community. Citizens committees would be a way to help bridge this gap. This area has many civic-minded individuals with the credentials necessary to help keep the board aware of the feelings of the community and help the community better understand the situation in the schools. Our current financial problems are only a manifestation of this deeper need, a need for improved communication. Everyone needs to be involved, after all, they're our kids.

Milan Emanuele - The role of the board of education, as well as my role, is to provide responsible, quality education. That is the key word, "responsible." My first and continued goal is to carry out the will of the voters and to be an active voice of the community. The community's interest has not been well served in the past few years. The community has found a deaf ear with the board The tide in the community has turned, they want not only to be informed after decisions have been unilaterally made, but they want to be active participants through their representatives.

John E. Thomas - A school board member is an elected representative. He should therefore act and do as his/her judgment best directs and as the citizens of the community require. In addition, I would analogize the board of education as functioning similar to a board of directors in a corporation. This requires that the board set policies and give direction and not become involved in the dayto-day function of the system.

Barbara G. Graham - I would like to become a liaison between the board and the community. I think the community should be informed regarding issues before the board. The present situation seems to make public the decisions made by the board after the fact.

Frank Riley - My role would be one of a concerned parent, alert taxmember who will bring these needed perspectives to the decision-making

Mary Dahn - As a voice of conservatives in the district.

E.J. McCleadon - Much as I have done in the past, that is to try to study all the issues which come before us with clear focus on the classroom as our number one priority and a continuous effort to innovate for improvement.

Allen C. Kinsler - The role of the school board trustee closely resembles that of a member of the board of directors for a business concern. The first duty is to set objectives and goals for the administration to carry out. The second duty is to oversee the program administration to assure that it meets the expectations of the board. A third requirement is to budget the taxpayers' funds to meet the requirements for quality education, and provide for improvements. The board may have to make disagreeable decisions, but they must answer to only two groups taxpayers and students.

> Schoolcraft trustees approved a $23.2 million operating budget Wednesday for the college's new fiscal year, which begins July 1.

S'craft adopts

budget, tax rate

Trustees also set the area's community college tax rate at 2.174

The tax rate translates to $81 for people living in homes with a market value of $75,000. It will be assessed on 1988 tax bills for property owners in the college service district, which includes the Livonia, Wayne-Westland, Clarenceville, Garden City, Plymouth-Canton and Northville public school districts, as well as a small portion of the Novi public school district.

THE BUDGET breaks down to roughly $7,200 per student. In comparison, Livonia Schools spends $3,855 per student, Garden City $3,846 and Plymouth-Canton

There are 3,228 students currently enrolled at Schoolcraft

Schoolcraft will receive $9.56 million in local tax revenue, tuition and state support makes up the rest of the budget.

The 1988-89 operating budget is a 5.07 percent increase over last year's budget.

The tax rate includes the 2.114 mills for general operations recommended last week and 0.06 mills to pay off past bond issues. A mill equals $1 per every $1,000 of assessed property valuation.

Trustees also approved a $850,000 bond issue for telecommunication services. The bond issue will allow Schoolcraft to have a "digital" telecommunications system, business services vice president Adelard Raby

The tax rate translates to $81 for people living in homes with a market value of $75,000. It will be assessed on 1988 tax bills.

"Over time, it could lead to telephone registration for students," Raby said. "It also allows us to send video pictures throughout campus as well as to homes."

Schoolcraft will support the sixyear bond issue through the general operating budget. Taxes won't be increased to pay for the bonds, Raby said. The bond issue is expected to cost Schoolcraft a combined $209,000 in interest payments. Bonds will be issued by Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit, low bidder on the project.

Schoolcraft added an automated telephone answering service and telephone link to security guards' radios a few years ago, Raby said, but those two projects were much smaller scale, costing a combined

OTHER APPROVED budgets include $1.73 million for auxiliary services, including the campus bookstore and cafeteria, slightly more than $1 million in state grants for mandated programs and $657,323 for designated programs, like the learning assistance center. Building maintenance will receive $525,000 from the general fund budget. Another $400,000 will be transferred out of the general operating budget for equipment maintenance and replacement. The college will use $786,462 to pay off its bonded debt and something else as well. McDowell will receive a $2,000 pay raise and $7,500 merit bonus for his accomplishments this past school year. His salary for the coming school year will be $72,000.

S'craft chief draws praise, raise

Trustees also added a year to McDowell's contract, extending the three-year pact to June 30, 1991. They also agreed to buy out McDowell's previous military and civilian retirement benefits over the next four years.

Positive comments outnumbered criticisms by a 2-1 margin in an 18item evaluation released Wednesday night by trustees.

Really, we had a hard time coming up with any negative comments at all," board president Mary Breen said.

Positive comments were so positive, and criticisms so slight, that one trustee jokingly alleged McDowell prepared the evaluation

"Well, now we know what you think," trustee Wendell Smith said to McDowell.

munity college presidents in a na-tionwide poll of his peers, Breen said, and is in line for additional national honors.

Among Schoolcraft trustees, McDowell drew praise for his involvement in statewide community college issues.

His activities include membership on the Michigan Education Trust board of directors. In that role, McDowell helps direct the new state program guaranteeing tuition for children whose parents invest in the

In addition to his Schoolcraft duties, McDowell is president of the Livonia Chamber of Commerce and will soon become president of the Livonia Rotary Club. Trustees praised McDowell for "(involving) the college with the community" but urged him to "balance community and college priorities."

"It's a concern, but we feel he'll do a good job with all the posts," Breen said. "He's very organized."

One year ago, McDowell earned a 6.6 ranking on a 7 point scale, but trustees scrapped the numerical ranking system this year.

Instead, they listed McDowell's strengths and "additional thoughts" on a single evaluation sheet.

PROGRESSION IN OSTEOARTHRITIS OF THE KNEE

If you have arthritis of the knee, you may feel depresa Since this arthritis results from aging, you expect that as time goes on, you will wear out the joint even more. You foresee a future of decreased mobility and an eventual need for knee replacement surgery with its attendant risk and possible fallure. Such thinking, while logical, does not fit experience.

First, excessive wear may be confined to a few areas of the knee joint. Enough damage has occurred to cause you pain, but the rest of the knee cartilage may be intact. In this case, your arthritis will stabilize and you can anticipate little further

Second, treatment presently available can control your pain. Aspirin and similar drugs, in conjunction with joint injection, makes it possible for you to work and continue activities such as gardening, recreational walking, and shopping for a far longer period than possible if you undertook no therapy.

A diagnosis of osteoarthritis of the knee may mean you need to slow down. However, you can and should continue to consider that you will be an active participant in life about you, and that you can undertake the adventures you have

Kirk Taylor, co-owner and manager of the Nino Salvaggio Strawberry Hills vegetable market, adjusts a display of artichokes and asparagus in his Farmington Hills store.

Spring vegetables that have class

By Anne Lehmann special writer

Two vegetables leave me heady with delight each spring - asparagus and artichokes.

These curious vegetables have a lot in common. Both were first grown in the Mediterranean region, discovered by the ancient Roman elite. They are ultra delicate and perishable, low in calories and rich in vitamins. Their peak seasons fall in the spring. California is chief supplier. They may be eaten hot and

They are thought to be elegant vegetables, more likely to be served when dining as opposed to just plain

Happily, these vegetables are in bountiful supply and consumers can enjoy what has turned out to be a good year for these crops.

"The volume is high and the prices are low," says Kirk Taylor, co-owner and manager of the Nino Salvaggio Strawberry Hills fruit and vegetable market in Farmington Hills. "People are more interested in nutrition nowadays, and as a result, there has been an increased demand for these, like all vegetables."

Artichokes, otherwise known as 'green globes," are a member of the thistle family, easy to prepare and versatile. When shopping for artichokes. "Look for a compact green head, with tightly closed leaves," writes Joe Carcione in his book "The Greengrocer." "A good test for freshness," he suggests, "is to rub one artichoke against another . . . fresh ones are crisp and will sing or squeak."

If you find the thorns objectionable, take heart. Taylor says a thornless, meatier variety of artichoke soon will make its way to market

Interestingly, this vegetable was considered a delicacy by the ancient Romans who preserved them in vinegar and brine. When Catherine de Medici left Florence to become Queen of France, she took along her kitchen staff and an ample supply of artichokes. It is said that this marked the beginning of French haute cuisine

When preparing artichokes, dip them, upside down, into a bowl of water. Cut off the stem, and remove the tough or discolored outer leaves. Trim the prickly tips of the leaves, individually, or use a sharp knife and cut off a bit less than a third of the vegetable.

Place the artichokes right side up in a pan filled with two or three inches of water and steam boil for 20-40 minutes, until tender. To microwave, put four artichokes into a non-metallic dish with 1/2 cup of water, cover and microwave on high for 13-16 minutes, turning twice. Add some lemon juice to the water to prevent discoloration during cooking. Allow for one artichoke per per-portion that so many people tend to toss. "They are a wonderful flavor enhancer for things like soups and stews." she notes. Carcione's advice for buying asparagus is to "look for firm, straight stalks with tips that are well-formed and tightly closed. They should be green for about two-thirds of the length." Though well-known cooks like

James Beard have encouraged

shoppers to go for the "slim and succulent stalks," Strawberry Hills' Taylor says thicker stalks are just as good, if not better. "Thicker asparagus will be just as tender but will have better flavor," he comments. Julia Child and Simone Beck write in their "Mastering the Art of French Cooking" that the best way to prepare asparagus is to "peel it, tie it in bundles, plunge it into a very large kettle of rapidly boiling, salted water, boil it slowly until it is just tender and drain immediately." "The trick," Carcione says, "is to cook it al dente." To microwave, place 1 pound of spears in a non-metallic dish, with tips toward the center. Add 3-4 tablespoons of water and microwave on high for 4-6 minutes, turning once. Let stand, covered, a few minutes until tender. Generally 6-10 medium stalks equal

Because of their growing popularity, these vegetables have been alloted several pages in many of today's best-selling cookbooks. As you will see from the following sampling of recipes, these vegetables are wellplaced in creative hands.

Cook asparagus and artichokes

4 large fresh artichokes, or 2 packages of frozen artichoke hearts (do not substitute canned artichokes) 4 tablespoons butter

1 tablespoon flour 2 cups chicken stock

1 cup heavy cream

l tablespoon minced parsley 1 teaspoon lemon juice

1/2 teaspoon salt 1/4 teaspoon white pepper 's cup pine nuts (for garnish)

In a large enameled or stainlesssteel pan, bring 2 quarts of water to a boil. Trim the stem ends of the artichokes and wash them well. Salt the water and add the artichokes.

Cover the pan and simmer for 35 to 45 minutes, until the artichokes are cooked and a knife point can pierce the stem with no resistance, or boil according to package directions if using frozen artichokes.

Drain the artichokes upside down in a colander, and let them cool until they are easy to handle. Pull the leaves off the heart, and scrape the hairy choke away and discard. With a spoon, scrape the bottom of the artichoke leaves to get the edible meat off. Place the hearts and scrapings in a blender or food processor fitted with a steel blade and puree them until smooth, adding a little of the stock if necessary.

In a saucepan, melt the butter and add the flour, stirring over low heat for 2 minutes to cook the flour.

Wanted for summer: potato salad recipes

The Memorial Day holiday tra-ditionally introduces the season of picnics and hot-weather outdoor parties.

From now to September, picnic hampers are filled and buffet tables spread with a bevy of favorite summer dishes. One of the staples to accompany the main course is salad, including potato salad.

If you have a favorite potato salad recipe, we'd like you to tell us about it. Maybe it has an extra-special spice or similar ingredient that gives it zing. Or maybe it's a way you have of using the potatoes or another vegetable that adds to the appearance and taste.

Send your recipe by Friday, June 10, to: Taste, the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150. After selecting the most interesting possibilities, we'll test 'em and

Our taste-off crew will vote for the ones they like best. The winning recipes will be published in Taste, with prizes for first and second place.

So many ways to enjoy fresh spinach

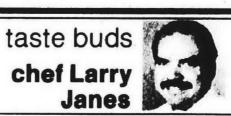

You have to understand that I'm not a big television addict. Sure, I can tell you what happened in last week's episode of "L.A. Law" or "St. Elsewhere," but with the exception of our local broadcast of Tiger baseball, television is a rarely enjoyed com-

So, lo and behold, there I found myself sitting one cloudy, rainy overcast Saturday morning, sipping my coffee and taking notes about all the food commercials kids are bombarded with. Right off the bat, I can personally attest to what seems to be more frequent

Are the cartoons shorter or are our future Americans being subliminally coerced into buying "Fruity Marshmallow Krispies" and packaged drink mixes that actually show the maker pouring a full cup of sugar into the iced container with a big happy smile on its face? Even my old friend Popeye (who, thank goodness, still likes spinach) succumbed to the presweetened food industry by allowing commercials touting the goodness of cookies that make you laugh. (Cousin Omar used to make brownies that did that!)

MUCH OF THE crop is grown in California, but you'll find it doing its best in cool climates because it has a tendency to go to seed when the daily temperature reaches 80 degrees or more. Yours truly planted spinach in the garden more than six weeks ago (early April), and I now have a healthy crop that should be ready to harvest in the coming weeks.

Back in 1979, more than three-quarters of the spinach crop harvested was immediately processed by canning, freezing and babyfood making. Today, more of us are consuming fresh spinach in salads, soups and pasta so only 60 percent is processed, with the remainder going to market as a fresh product.

Spinach leaves should be washed thoroughly before using. Not that they're overly dirty or contaminated, but soil has a tendency to cling to the leaves, especially during rain and watering. I recommend placing the fresh leaves in a sink full of cold water to soak for a few minutes to loosen the dirt particles and then run the leaves under cool water individually to remove any excess traces

Remove the stems and place on paper towel to dry. Store, wrapped in paper towels, in the crisper of your refrigerator until ready to use.

Tossed in a salad, they add a dark contrast to other greens but I enjoy them steamed in a little wine vinegar. A favorite way of preparation is using finely chopped spinach in vegetable casseroles, lasagnas and soups, a great way to hide nutritious vegetables for the youngsters who would sooner die than eat something

You'll be seeing fresh spinach real soon in the markets (if you haven't seen it already), so try these recipes for a different approach in cooking something fresh and healthy.

Don't try to conquer the whole problem in a short time, just get started. Choose physical activities that suit your lifestyle. Exercise is not meant to be punishment for overeating. Exercise will not only help your weight control but can help suppress your appetite; is a natural relaxant; relieves emotions such as tension, anger, boredom and depression, and helps improve the quality of sleep.

Meal skipping can be hazardous to so you'll eat less. Eating soup gives your diet, especially if you find that when the next meal comes along, you're ravenous and overeat. Or you haven't eaten all day, your energy level and resistance is low and you're tempted by the fastest thing your can get into your mouth no matter what it is. Don't skip meals. Eating several low-calorie mini meals is a better solution rather than overeating at one meal.

TO STOP YOUR stomach from growling, try unbuttered, unsalted popcorn, unsweetened ready-to-eat cereals such as shredded wheat or puffed cereals, or vegetables sticks. Choose a fresh fruit that takes longer to eat such as an apple, pear or before you overconsume. A glass of water before eating will aid as a nocalorie filler-upper and helps digestion. During the winter when a drink of ice water doesn't fit, drink hot water with a slice of lemon or a squirt of lemon juice.

Choose calorie-trimming foods to help in your weight-loss program. Choose an apple over applesauce, baked potato over french fries, yogurt over sour cream, hard rolls over white bread, wine spritzer over wine, a thin layer of low-calorie jam instead of syrup on pancakes or french toast. These will all add up to fewer calories.

Saute vegetables in a small amount of bouillon or stock rather than oil. Substitute fruit cobbler for double crust pie or choose a graham cracker crust pie, which is generally fiber when eating cereal, bread or baked snacks. A bran muffin, especially homemade, is more filling than a doughnut. Don't spend so much time in the kitchen so you're not tempted.

When eating out in a restaurant don't blow the diet. Choose food carefully that will fit into you plan. Eat something such as a piece of fruit or a raw vegetable before you leave home. Don't start out famished or skip lunch because you know you're going out. Go easy on the alcohol, which tends to stimulate the

Chiefs erase hurt with district crown

staff writer

Funny thing how adversity can sometimes end up being a blessing in disguise later.

It was a major disappointment for Plymouth Canton's girls soccer team when the Chiefs, despite having the best record in the Western Lakes, didn't qualify for the championship under a new format that emphasized divisional play.

But, if that was the low point of the season for No. 5-rated Canton, then Saturday's district final at Concordia College certainly was the high point.

Those earlier frustrations were forgotten after the Chiefs, 13-2-1, won their first postseason tournament by eliminating defending state champion Plymouth Salem 3-2.

IN SO DOING, Canton not only defeated the Rocks a second time in one season but beat Salem by the same score with which it had lost last year's district title.

More importantly, as far as coach Don Smith was now concerned, the Chiefs avoided a third meeting with the Rocks by sitting out the league final. The third time is always the charm, as they say,

"I was really worried about winning our division and having to see them three times in a row," said Smith, who received the water-bucket treatment from his players after-

"In a sense, I'm glad we didn't see them (in the league final). Even though I think we got ripped off, this is sort of a payback."

The Chiefs play Brighton on the road in a first-round regional game Wednesday. The Rocks, who were outplayed much of the second half and thwarted by a stubborn Canton defense in the late going, finish 10-3-4.

"WE WERE WELL beaten," Salem coach Ken Johnson said. "They were better today, quicker to the ball. They were fired up.

"But good luck to them; they're a strong team. I think they can go a long ways. This year it's their turn

Junior forward Julie Stabnick scored the only goal of the second half and, though it came early (31:18), it held up as the gamewinner thanks to Canton's tireless defend-Stabnick, teammate Shannon Meath and two opponents chased a loose ball into the Salem end. Meath won the foot race and fired a shot from the left.

SALEM GOALKEEPER Ellen Schnackel made a diving stop, but before she could control it Stabnick was there to kick in the net after a shot." Stabmck said. This tile lowed Shannon's shot and it was there.

I wanted to put my foot on it hard low and in the goal.

For three quarters of the second half the Chiefs controlled the ball in Salem's and The offense thereby served as an effective defense, keeping the ball away from the Rocks and their high-scoring duo of J. Fig. tey and Michelle Minton, both of 7 both a wee. scoreless.

Salem, however, began to oress with time running out, but a defense tod by someon Lagran Stoecklein held fast.

Whether it was a save by young Jan Sant. a perfect header in front of the good one; timely clearance kick, the Chiefs always came up with the right play.

STOECKLEIN, THE Only Canton a thiele to play all 80 minutes, keyed the tensionfilled effort all the while thinking:

Fleat, a don't let them score. We tried so ne a c keep their from scoring

"After we got the lead, we figured we had netter suly a little more with our defense, irreause their offense is so good," she said. The game was only 142 minutes old when Cantro opened the scoring on Jenny Steinhe-95 5 go. , winning a close-quarters scram-

Once again, Plymouth and Canton will be well-represented in the district phase of the state baseball tournament.

Salem and Canton advanced by winning predistrict games Friday, but both took opposite paths to Saturday's semifinals at Walled Lake Western.

In a game played at Salem, the Rocks used the long ball to deny the Warriors the opportunity to play in their own district tournament.

Salem batters cranked three solo home runs and came from behind to post a 4-3 victory, which raised the team's season record to 18-7.

Meanwhile, on the Canton diamond, the Chiefs supported Jeff Kugelman's four-hit pitching with 14 hits and demolished West Bloomfield 20-4.

Canton, which now boasts an 18-5 record, will play Bloomfield Hills Lahser at 10 a.m. Saturday at WLW. In the opposite bracket, Salem meets the survivor of the Novi-Northville predistrict game at noon.

The final, which offers a possible rematch of last year's Canton-Salem duel, is scheduled for 2 p.m. The Rocks, 8-1 winners in that game, are the defending district champs.

SALEM 4, W.L. WESTERN 3:The Rocks rallied from a 3-1 deficit with three runs in the bottom of the sixth inning.

Mike Howard and Todd Marion, who was unable to pitch because of soreness in his right elbow but was still able to swing the bat, tied the game with solo homers. It was Marion's sixth of the year.

Mike Stout, who had a home run to tie the game in the second, doubled off the fence in center field and scored the winning run. Dennis Hanson's pinch-hit, bunt single sent Stout, who had two of Salem's five hits, to third, and Eric Sheehan's groundout sent him to the plate. Stout's horner "was the longest one I've ever seen hit at Salem." said coach John Gravlin, adding "it bounced off the other side of the creek. Fidell Cashero started and pitched 5% innings, but Bob Files came on to get the win

Files, 4-1, retired everybody he faced; however, an error on the catcher allowed Western to score the tying run. With runners at the corners, Files got the third out on strikes, but the lead runner came home when the catcher dropped the ball. Cashero scattered seven hits, struck out eight and walked one. Gravlin expects Marion to be "fine and dandy" and ready to pitch in the district tournament.

CANTON 20, W. BLOOMFIELD 4: Derek Humphries had the most hits. Mike Culver had the biggest hit and Jeff Kugelman was a hit.

Humphries led Canton's awesome offensive attack by going 3-for-3, scoring three runs and driving in four runs.

Culver's two-run homer in the bottom of the first broke a 2-2 tie and put the Chiefs

In that inning, Humphries followed a walk to Joel Riggs with an RBI triple, and he scored on Kevin Learned's double. Culver stepped to the plate and hit his sixth homer of the season to signal the rout was on.

Kugelman, a junior left-hander, improved his record to 5-0. No opposing batter had more than one hit, and he struck out four and walked the same in four innings.

Todd Marion heads with the hooms stretch during his home-run trot. He slugged the sprin-1-tyin t nomer in Salem's 4-3 predis-

Plymouth Canton has done it

The Chiefs have won the dualmeet championship in Western Division girls track and field for the fourth consecutive year.

Canton, 5-0 in the division and 6-0 overall, will attempt to achieve its season-long goal of capturing the Western Lakes Activities Association crown today when the entire league meets at Northville. Field events and running preliminaries begin at 3 p.m. The finals are scheduled to start at 6 p.m. "A lot of credit has to go to this senior class," Przygodski said. "We have a great bunch of senior athletes who filled in as youngsters and continued their leadership for the four years they were here. The Chiefs withheld their top relay foursomes but still had enough to punch to knock out the Mustangs. Tonya Walaskay led sweeps in the 100- and 300-meter hurdles, and Angie Miller and Susan Ferko also won two events.

Miller led a another sweep in the 200 dash, and a fourth occurred in the 400 sprint in which Tricia Carney broke Miller's school record. Carney ran 1:00.1 to eclipse her teammate's time of 1:00.6, which Miller set last year in the conference Figurski finished in 2:24.9. Miller's record has stood for three years, having run 2:26.8 as a freshman.

Walaskay won the 100 hurdles in 17.3 and the 300 race in 52.0. Bobbi Conville was second and Amanda Bell third in the shorter event, and it was Bell and Melinda Yergin finishing second and third in the longer Miller won the high jump at 5-6 and the 200 dash in 27.7. Heather Spencer and Walaskay completed the sweep of the high jump, and Heather Meyer and Lisa Korinik followed Carney in the 400.

Ferko threw the shot put 29 feet, 7 inches and the discus 90 feet, 3 inches. With the Chiefs winning all but two individual events, Canton's Lori Penland captured the 1,600 run in 5:37.0 and Missy Jasnowski the 3,200 race in 12:35.0.

JOHN GLENN 86%, SALEM 41 1/2: The Rocks ended the dual-meet season on a positive note Thursday, taking their first victory in their last opportunity.

Jennifer Harris won three events, and Shelley Bohlen, in addition to winning the shot put, set a school record in the discus.

the discus with a winning throw of 122-5. She set the old mark of 121-8 earlier this season. Bohlen powered the shot put a distance of 35-71/2. Salem's Rima Zayed won the 100 and 200 dashes, posting 13.7 and 27.8 times. Amy Hobgood took the 400 race in 1:06.6 and Traci Thomas the 800 run in 2:29.2.

Hobgood and Thomas, running the lead-off and anchor legs, helped the Rocks win the 3,200 relay. They combined with Wendy Harless and Kim Mishler for an 11:02.1 time. Bohlen, Mishler and Hobgood teamed with Jenny Smith to win the 1,600 in 4:33.0. Smith also anchored a winning performance in the 800 re-lay, in which Kim Ploucha, Nikki Wygonik and Vikki Neuhardt preceded her and Salem ran a 1:52.4 race.

Farmington High celebrated a division championship in girls track and field Wednesday after dusting off Walled Lake Central 78-52 and completing an unbeaten dual-meet season.

The Falcons, led by double winners Kristi Devine and Jennifer Kiel, finished 5-0 in the Lakes Division and 6-0 overall. It is the first such title Farmington has won under third-year coach Bruce Brown.

"I thought we'd be OK," Brown said of his preseason impression. "but I didn't realize we could do this.

High tech is hair today

By Charlene Mitchell and Lorraine McClish staff writers

Gone are the days when those of us who were bored with our looks had to search endlessly through piles of magazines for the perfect hairdo. It may seem too good to believe, but there's help for those pointless conversations with our hairdressers that never seem to produce the desired end result.

Trying to tell a stylist how you want to look ends up with the stylist interpreting something altogether different. It's called lack of communication.

So much for the hairdo that didn't work. High tech is here to save the day and the "do."

New computer imaging systems have made their way to Michigan -New Image Salon System, manufactured in California, and Global Image Maker. They're doing wonders for the salon business

Vickey Weston, owner of the Beautyworks in Southfield, called New Image the biggest revolution to hit the beauty industry since the blow

This system takes the guess work out of coloring and styling," Weston said. "It bridges the communication gap between client and stylist."

Seeing yourself on the computer gives you a third-person objective look," said Carol Gill, owner of the Mane Connection in Farmington Hills. "It also is somewhat of curity to the person who has had a bad experience with a home perm or home coloring. What you see in the picture is what you're going to get."

GILL'S SALON is the only one in the state to feature Global Image, a style of computer first used by plastic surgeons to show their patients what they would look like after sur-

What the computers do is allow clients to see themselves with a variety of hair colors and hairstyles. Men can even see what they look like with a beard and mustache

For instance, a short-haired, curly blonde can select a long, straight style in an auburn color. It may look awful on her, but at least she knows that before she puts dye on her hair or straightens her natural curls.

"It's sort of like having a crystal ball," said Gail Perlmutter, a manicurist at Beautyworks, who is sporting a soft new look herself. "It lets you know ahead of time if you're going to like what the stylist is sug-

"It's sort of like trying on a lot of different wigs," Weston said. "You keep going until you find what's

The biggest help is not only finding out what you like, but what styles don't look good. The cost is $40 for the one-hour consultation and four color photographs.

THE NEW IMAGE Salon System was introduced to Michigan hairdressers at a salon show, held in Novi several months ago. While many salon owners feel it is too expensive - $22,000 for the multipart system - others feel it's nothing more than a flash-in-the-pan gim-

Daniel Soller, owner of Daniel J Salon in Farmington Hills and who is looking at the possibility of installing the system, sees where a stylist could really have fun with the com-Buter in reality, most styles aren't going to work with most

"For sure, the computer images aren't workable on all hair, but how else is a person to know without first selecting the style," said Weston. "It is up to a trained hairdresser to say to the client 'No, your hair is too thin or too coarse for that one.'

Stephanie Cuddy operates the Global Image Maker at the Mane Connection. She is a hairstylist part artist and part computer technician. She has 80 models to flash on the computer screen, each with different shaped faces wearing styles that flatter their particular facial contours and include the nuances of highlights, streaking and shading.

The client has her picture taken on a split screen. It remains as is on the left side of the screen, while Cuddy works with the picture on the right, erasing the client's hair and the background and then superimposing four different hairstyles.

The four pictures are printed and belong to the client. The charge is $25, but if the client chooses to get With New Image, the client selects her hair cut, styled or permed in one the hairstyles he or she likes from a of the styles, she gets $10 off the

"THE PICTURES are put to good use," Gill said. "They are shown to husbands, friends and relatives to get opinions before the client makes up his or her mind.

"For every picture that has left the shop, we've gotten at least two or three calls from whomever those pictures were shown to. They've been our best advertisement.'

Computers are popping up all over in the beauty industry. LeLook Salon in Bloomfield Hills invested in a colorizing computer system so that clients never have to worry about their hair color solution being altered each time they come in for a touch-

"It has assisted us in finding the perfect hair color matches or changes for our clients," said LeLook owner Tony Colorite.

In this age of computers, it seems almost anything can be done with the touch of a button. Just decide what you want to look like and pres-It may not always be adaptable, but at least you can get a glimpse of what you might look like if you were to go ahead with the their mid and late 30s who are dismayed by the alarming rate at which their hair is graying. 'We've (hair dressers) become the stress reducers of the 1980s," Palazzolo-Shaw quipped. "But for most of us, gray hair tends to be very aging. While graying hair is of relative-

The Stingrays could be the Darrell Evans of Detroit rock 'n' roll.

They've been around a lot longer than the average local group And some might have mistakenly written

But the Stingrays contend they can still belt them out with the best. Seldom does a local group manage to stay together for seven years. The Stingrays have. On top of that, members say, the band has only begun to hit its peak

"I think we are better than we ever were," said Allen Liggett, guitarist of the Stingrays. "I don't know what's around the corner for us. When we try to do a new number, it amazes us the stuff we come up

Confidence, certainly, is not a commodity lacking in the Stingrays' camp. Then again, to weather seven years around the relatively stagnant Detroit music scene, being self-assured is a callus of the trade.

The Stingrays have seen both the good and the bad. In 1981, the band went straight from Scott Dailey's garage to instant local fame.

Then around 1984-85, the club scene began to shrivel and radio support was non-existent. Things improved a bit with the release of "The Heart is the Hunter" in 1985.

THE STINGRAYS hit a lull. Three bass players came and went during the period, and disbanding seemed

But Bruce Bedford, Dailey and Liggett managed to keep their sanity and stay together. Things have begun to pick up lately, especially with the addition of bass player Peter Lewton of Birmingham. The Stingrays, naturally, are optimistic.

Creating their new-found euphoria is the recent release of "Your Touch," a four-song EP. The disc is a change of pace from local offerings.

The songs range from reggae rhythms to synthesized funk pop. The Stingrays' latest effort, more than anything, reflects the group's maturing as songwriters.

"BEFORE, EVERY song was fast op," said Dailey, who lives in West Bloomfield "It was very simple, girls, cars - stuff like that. It has developed into different subject matter and different musical con-

Now it borders on anything from political to reggae in content We can make them dance. We can make them think

But what they think sometimes has been a problem. Like a lot of bands, members of the Stingrays have found the Detroit music scene frustrating at times.

A lack of radio support and too few clubs to play are byproducts of indifference on the home front Each member has his own theory

"CHICAGO AND Minneapolis are white-collar towns. Detroit is a bluecollar, industrial city." Liggett said. "It makes a world of difference People, it seems, in white-collar areas are more receptive to creativi-

People here work in the auto industry, machine shops. They want their daily dose of rock 'n' roll like you eat cereal in the morning. They are not willing to go to a club here and spend a few bucks."

"Part of it is radio," added Bedford, drummer for the group. "They keep pounding this stuff into people's heads. They play the same music over and over.

ALL FAMILIAR complaints, for sure. If anyone had a right to moan and groan about the lack of activity it would be the Stingrays. In seven years, the group has played numerous clubs and produced decent records, and nary a nibble from a record company.

Members are not bitter about it. Little has been heard from the few bands that were signed, Dailey said.

Instead of wallowing in self-pity the band plans to continue working on new material. After all, it's their attitude that has kept them together.

'We're not complaining." Liggett said. "That's not going to do you any good. We're just concerned about

FREIGHT TRAIN HEART

— Jimmy Barnes

It's hard to believe an album that sounds a little like Terence Trent D'Arby, AC/DC, Journey, Bob Seger and Sammy Hagar. But somehow

Jimmy Barnes pulls it all off.
On "Freight Train Heart" (Geffen) it's quite apparent the Australian hard rocker wants to appeal to the masses with his Sybil-like singing ability. These numbers are certainly not by any means rip-offs of the above mentioned artists. More than anything, it's a testament to Barnes versatility as a singer.

The Scottish-born Barnes grew up on Wilson Pickett, Otis Redding and Little Richard. That can certainly be heard in the soulful rendition of "Too Much Ain't Enough Love." He tackles this number in hard-driving style of Terence Trent D'Arby.

This song also has had a considerable amount of airplay. It's certainly lot of varied commidities. well deserved.

By contrast, "Lessons of Love" borders on the heavy metal. He screams like he's running down a hallway on fire on this number. It should come as no surprise that Barnes replaced Bon Scott in an Australian band named Fraternity. Scott went on to perform with AC/DC.

You want ballads? Well there's some of those here as well. "I'm Still On Your Side" moves in the slow, story-telling fashion much like a Seger tune. "Waitin' For the Heartache" takes a sugar rock, Journeyesque approach. That shouldn't be a surprise, either, considering Neal Schon plays lead guitar on the number.

"Do or Die" is another tune in the hard-rock tradition, which Barnes is particularly adept at. Overall, this freight train carries a

THE BLANKS - The Blanks

Seldom do political albums really pack any punch. Often they are only full of angry words spewed out to snarling guitar lines. The message often far outweighs the music.

But the self-titled album by the Blanks says what it has to say, and for once, it's enjoyable to listen to. 'The Blanks' goes the distance with reggae rhythms, ska and some rather jazzy piano numbers.

One of the attractive features of this album is that it's strictly Detroit in subject matter. Bill Boyer, drummer and pianist for the Blanks. grew up in the Bloomfield-Birmingham area but now lives in Detroit.

The problems that cross the citysuburban lines are dealt with poignantly. These are not snotty suburbanites trying to be fashionably radi-cal. The Blanks grapple with issues of their generation.

"Just Living," a slow reggae number, describes the insecurity, the fear of striking out on your own "Amidst the Ruins" captures life as it is in the inner-city.

THE BLANKS use simple lyrics and melodies to convey those feelings. That is, perhaps, the group's strongest asset.

"Salvation Radio," which centers on the lifeless state of the Detroit airwaves, is simple and to the point What happened to my radio station last night?/Research pronounced it dead/Research said they are right/ And they won't be misled."

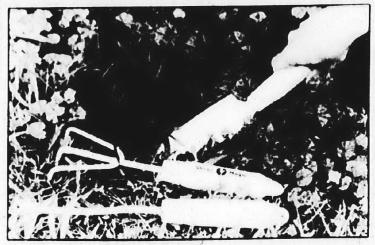

The Blanks display considerable depth as well on this album. Joan Bort handles some of the vocal duties rather well with her choir-like voice. Boyer's piano playing is one of the highlights of the album. The musical highlights, though, are in tune with messages being put public years into a puff of brown curls that remain to this day.

Elizabeth Taylor selected yet another response, enhancing her gray with teased strands of bleached streaks in otherwise-black hair.

Palazzolo-Shaw offers still another option, one that artfully combines all of these responses.

"Camouflaged color" is Palazzolo-Shaw's solution, a complex coloring scheme that "lifts up" natural color, bringing to it "new life" by adding an array of "innumerable" shades. She has refined camouflaging into a personal style after seeing a form of it demonstrated by two Austrians at a styling show in New York City in 1971.

"I call camouflaging new, because not many people are doing it. But I've been doing it 17 years, perfecting it in my own way.

The process blends natural hair color with multiple shades that Palazzolo-Shaw dubs "glows." Highlighted (lifted color) and lowlighted (deposited color) tones produce "indecipherable shading."

'If someone says "You're looking great" (after a camouflage treatment) but can't pinpoint why, it's done well."

- Felicia Palazzolo-Shaw Nino Salon in Troy

The impression is natural, multiple shades finely blended with natural tones, she said.

"The most natural-looking hair is like a child's, with all sorts of tones and shades. If someone says 'you're looking great' (after a camouflage treatment) but can't pinpoint why, it's done well."

THE PROCESS, which starts at $45, takes about an hour.

Beginning with the hair line at the face, fine layers are brought forward one at a time, separated by two-inch strips of foil. Alternate layers are colored. Coloring solutions vary in strength, depending on how much peroxide has been added to each. The amount of peroxide determines the final color.

The layers that are colored vary in shade from one another. The untreated layers remain natural in color but are treated with a conditioner during the coloring. The hair is brought forward to avoid the patched or spotty look common to better-known methods such as weaving or frosting, she said. Camouflaging must be repeated three to four times a year. Touchups, a toner applied to wet hair for one minute, are necessary every six to eight weeks. They begin at $25. 'Camouflaging looks natural enough so that when regrowth starts, it doesn't show."

Many of the salon's customers vacation four months of the winter away from Michigan. Many go the entire period without a touch-up, she arrive only after multiple stops at other salons, she said. They often need treatment for hair that is damaged and made brassy from previous weaving or coloring processes, she CAMOUFLAGING, in Palazzolo-Shaw's opinion, is a natural for clients of the '80s who have neither the time nor the inclination to visit salons weekly. "It fits today's woman who is looking for something fast and easy. Hair dressers have to keep abreast of the

She demonstrates the process whenever possible — at a luncheon for Birmingham's Brother Rice High School, at styling shows for the International Hair Exchange and in a video production for the Clairol Presidential Color Team.

She also trains apprentices, fully licensed beauticians who study one year with Palazzolo-Shaw learning camouflage and other techiques.

for the future of home electronics.

This high-tech amalgam of America's two favorite home entertainment mediums in the 1980s - videocassettes and compact discs - is ready to take the world by storm, according to John O'Brien.

And if it does, O'Brien will be there leading the charge.

O'Brien is the chairman and president of LaserLand, an 18-month-old Colorado-based company, which is betting the shiny, eight-, 12- and 20inch discs will be the next step in the audio video revolution

So, just what is this marvel?

Without dazzling you with a lot of technological mumbo jumbo, a laser disc is essentially a compact disc with pictures. Using the same basic idea behind the musical compact disc, laser discs contain the same types of movies, concerts and how-to

The difference in the two products is in picture, sound, durability and price Laser discs win on all four counts

A laser disc - played through disc player, conventional television, stereo amplifier and speakers - will give you a high-resolution picture (about twice as sharp as broadcast television) and digitally recorded sound track (the same as a compact disc player).

It is scratch resistant and should last, oh, about 600 years, according to O'Brien planned port of call. Just under 1,000 miles southwest it was our most ambitious passage to date.

The sailing directions describe the run to Panama as "a passage in which boisterous conditions can be predicted with near certainty during the months of January, February and March.

The first two days were short hops to Long Island and then to Acklins Island. At both islands we were able to anchor for the night. On Jan. 7, we sailed out of Jamaica Bay, Acklins Island with 870 miles of "boisterous" sailing ahead of us.

Our path would take us due south 130 miles to the Windward Passage between Hispaniolo and Cuba, then southwest direct to Panama. When we left Acklins we were well provisioned for the eight-day sail, but had no idea of what was to come.

Immediately after rounding Castle Island we were treated to our first taste of the boisterous conditions. Keema buried her starboard rail and started to beat her way through the 10- to 12-foot seas that would be normal for the majority of

With winds of 30 knots our main problem was keeping her under control. A double reef in the main and a storm jib was all we needed to keep up maximum speed. It was not comfortable but we were making great time, once again peanut butter and jelly sandwiches would be the main fare.

As we raced south one problem started to concern me. The trade winds were more southerly than easterly, and we were having a difficult time holding our course of 172 degrees. Normally on a long passage a few degrees of variance rarely presents a problem, adjustments can be made on subsequent days. However, while sailing through the Windward Passage unfriendly shores are lurking on either side. We had no desire to stop in either Haiti or Cuba. Through the day and night I made every effort to keep Keema on course and safely away from Cuban

Unfortunately, the sea gods don't always cooperate, and that night several violent squalls pushed us far-

Too close to Cuba

The morning of Jan. 8 dawned clear and gorgeous; Keema was making good time, a couple of flying fish were in the cockpit and Cuba was looming proudly eight miles to the west. Our problem was we were legally obligated to stay 12 miles offshore to remain in international waters. I wasn't overly concerned. Cuba's southeastern tip is sparsely populated, and if we kept our course and speed we could save a few miles and regain international waters by mid-afternoon. Once again the weather let me down, the only time in the entire passage to Panama that the wind died was that morning. I decided to motor until we were out of Cuban waters or until the winds returned.

During the morning we slipped by Cabo Maisi and saw few signs of activity. One fishing boat did pass us but the crew seemed indifferent to our presence. However, that afternoon after we had rounded the point and were quite close to being in international waters again I spotted a patrol boat, coming toward us.

Betsy and I were playing cribbage when I saw the boat and told her. At first she thought I was kidding, but quickly realized that I was quite serious. We put away the cards and waited

It only took a few minutes before Cuban Patrol Boat No. 585 was circling us. I smiled, gave my best casual friendly American wave, but saw no smiles in return. The captain started asking questions over his loudspeaker, the only problem was we don't speak Spanish and apparently they didn't speak English. I understood stop! I dropped sails put the engine in neutral and waited. The time was 3:34 p.m. There were eight men aboard No. 585, none in uniform and all inspecting us closely.

We did our best to explain that we Cristobal Panama was our next were en route to Panama. After much discussion among themselves they motioned for us to follow them. We tried to play dumb and pointed south toward Panama. They made it quite clear we were going to make an escorted visit to Cuba.

Betsy and I looked at each other. "Is this really happening to us," we wondered. We had actually kidded about such an encounter a few days before, but it didn't seem the least bit humorous now. We proceeded to follow the patrol boat. They would run about a mile or so ahead, stop and wait for us to catch up and then repeat the process.

At first we assumed their base would be quite close but darkness set in, and they made no moves toward shores. We had been following for more than four hours, the entire time contemplating what they were going to do to us. The Soviets had shot down a Korean airliner for the equivalent air violation. Would we be arrested, our boat impounded? We'd heard stories of corrupt captains robbing pleasure boats, then sinking ship and crew. Our hidden shotgun would be no match for the heavily armed patrol boat. We continued to follow as our anxiety heightened.

Under tow

At about 8:10 p.m. we spotted the lights of another boat, and it became apparent that we were going to a rendezvous. The boat was a Cuban fishing trawler. The patrol boat halted and now all three boats were idling in the darkness. After much conversation between the two Cuban boats, they both turned spotlights on us. We had no idea why they needed another boat and, of course, our imaginations were leaping wildly toward the worst-case scenario. I was mentally admonishing myself for allowing us to be in this situation. Once again the captain of the patrol boat started speaking to us.

They wanted us to take a line from the trawler, we were to be towed. At this point we were both very nervous. I told Betsy to get on the radio and try to contact the U.S. Naval Base at Guantanamo. I wanted someone to know our situation.

While Betsy sent out a mayday, I tried to stall and avoid the two boats. Twelve Cubans were shouting in Spanish, gesturing with their ropes and trying to maneuver their steel boats in close enough to snag Keema's fiberglass body. When it became obvious they were losing patience with me I accepted the tow line, secured it to our bow and resigned to being towed.

Our little convoy took off at 9 knots. Keema was straining as she was towed well past hull speed. I was expecting the cleats to be ripped right out of her bow, but she held.

A total feeling of helplessness engulfed us as we realized we were toally at their mercy.

After about 30 minutes the patrol oat pulled ahead of us and disappeared into the darkness. Betsy was down below still trying to contact the U.S. base, and I was thinking of ways to escape. As foolish as it seems in retrospect I thought we had a chance against the trawler if we made a break. I crawled up to the bow and signalled to the trawler to slow down feigning a problem with the cleats. When they slowed and the tow line went slack I uncleated it and pitched it over and started our race to escape.

Nautical tag

When I told Betsy what I had done her months of tan left her face and a terrified look took its place.

We killed our lights, took down our radar reflector and headed south at full speed. For the next 45 minutes we engaged in a deadly game of nautical tag. We were not fast enough to clearly get away, but they were not nimble enough to lasso us. Everytime they would pull alongside of us screaming and trying to cut us off, I would make a looping circle behind them and continue south. We couldn't shake them, but they couldn't stop us. My plan was to extend this stalemate into international waters, where hopefully they

Things were a bit scary for Betsy Marti (pictured here) and her husband, Paul Marti, when they became involved in a chase with a Cuban patrol boat off the shores of Cuba. would give up and let us go. Unfor- crawled over every bit of Keema, tunately it was not to be, I soon saw what I dreaded, the return of the patrol boat. There was no choice now. I smiled, took the tow rope again and sat back. The convoy proceeded back toward Cuba; this time the patrol boat stayed with us. After two more hours we approached the entrance lights to a 'Don't worry. Tomorrow you clean." harbor. Once inside I could see several more patrol boats, a few fishing boats and a crowd of people milling around the docks. We were ordered to tie up to a docked fishing boat, and, of course, we cooperated.

After we were secured, we cut our engine, sat as calmly as we could and waited. At this point the entire crowd of Cubans came aboard the fishing boat we were tied to. About 50 to 60 people lined the edge of the boat an arm's length away from us, staring at Keema and crew and quietly talking among themselves. No one said anything to us or attempted to board Keema.

in Cuba

After what seemed an eternity, a Cuban sergeant (Frank we found out later) who spoke English broke the silence. He told us not to be afraid. 'As long as we had nothing to hide,' he said, "we had nothing to fear." The Cubans, he said, had nothing against Americans, it was only the United States government they disagreed with. Frank told us we were waiting for the fumigation team to arrive. Until then no one could come aboard to start the investigation. It was 1:30 a.m.

More people continued to arrive, including a three-person medical unit. However it took over an hour for the fumigation team to arrive. As soon as an elderly Oriental man arrived with what looked liked a weed sprayer and a tank, about 15 people immediately crowded aboard Keema, all in combat boats. They and after satisfying their curiosity they allowed the fumigator to do his thing. What a force. He sprayed a milky substance all over the cabin sole, and the entire topsides of the boat. Whatever it was it had the consistency of 10W 30 oil, stunk like rotting tomatoes and made a terrible mess of our home. Frank said,

The medical team went into action next. They wanted blood samples. I protested. Frank said, "We have laws, don't be nervous, if you have nothing to hide." The three pseudo doctors proceeded to lance our fingers and squeezed a few drops of blood onto slides. They held the slides up to the light, put the slides in a napkin, pocketed them and left. Our blood was red; I assume we passed the test.

Next the head honcho came aboard, putting on rubber gloves. He ripped the first pair, but kept his composure as he called for a second pair and then began the search. For 21/2 hours he went through every item we had.

Meticulously inspecting each one — every drawer, every nook, every cranny was searched. His aides seemed delighted. Many of the items they had apparently never been before. Aluminum foil was a big hit as well as an ultra slim calculator. One assistant photographed everything - passports, title to boat, all the flags we had aboard, including the one from the Paint Creek Yacht Club in Rochester, the engine, the toilet, our bunks, the stove - all the time keeping a very serious look. He spread out the contents of Betsy's wallet including photographs of all her nieces and nephews and photographed it. Oh, yes, we were photographed. I smiled.

By now I was past being afraid, and the whole affair was starting to seem comical.

There was a moment of silence when our shotgun was found. I ex-plained it was for pirates, They the investigation. Finally, when the chief officer satisfied himself that we were not smugglers or CIA agents, he sat down on our settee, signalled for his typewriter and began his interrogation. Frank interpreted.

Questioning

Why did we come to Cuba? Had we been here before? Did we have relatives in Cuba? What pictures were in our camera? The questions continued until he gave us a piece of paper each and told us to independently write our own versions of how it was we were in Cuban waters. We did so. We were given a receipt for our shotgun and the two rolls of film they took.

When it appeared they were wrapping things up, I asked when they thought we could leave. Three maybe four days, Frank said as soon as the investigation was completed. I started to protest and Frank, of course, said, "Don't be afraid, if you have nothing to hide."

At 5:40 p.m. the entire group said good night to us and left. Frank reminded us there was a guard stationed by the boat for our protection. A young Cuban sat next to Keema, his AK47 cradled in his arms.

Betsy and I surveyed our totally filthy boat and without a word started to clean up. She scrubbed inside while I worked outside. At 6:45 exhausted and frustrated we tried to

I didn't sleep for long. At 8:15 another officer was pounding on our deck. We were to move so the fishing boat could pull out. We were told to anchor about 100 yards offshore. He escorted us to the anchorage, then appeared satisfied. However, they left. At least now we would have a bit more privacy. At 10:30 another officer and a young man came aboard, they wanted to see my engine. Why, I have no idea. They inspected it, took serial numbers and horsepower, thanked me and left.

We made ourselves some breakfast and tried to accept the fact that we were stuck for at least three It was not and we were bored, but we tried not to complain to each other. "Make the best of it, get some sleep, do some chores," I thought.

No one came near us for the rest of the morning or early afternoon. Around 4 p.m. a smiling officer we did not recognize rowed out to see us. At first we could not understand what he wanted, until we realized he was asking us if we wanted to go out to sea.

I was elated. "Yes! Yes! Of course. come aboard." He filled out a Zarpee for us, which is a clearance from a port and told us we could leave. Betsy and I were all smiles.

It was now dark and the winds were picking up pretty good. The officer asked us if we wanted to wait and leave in the morning. No, thanks, we were getting out before someone changed their mind. At 8:40 p.m. we were led out by another patrol boat through a narrow passage and into open water.

They waved goodbye and I shouted "Adios amigos." Betsy gave me that will you please shut up look and we were off.

Although we didn't need to motor, we motored and sailed at top speed until we were at least 20 miles offshore. Finally I cut the engine, looked at Betsy, and we both started laughing. "Well you did tell me there would be some adventure on this trip," Betsy said.

Ease cottage burden

Q. We have a family lake cabin which I enjoy, but all those trips cause lots of work. How can I simplify things?

A. Those who have cottages, boats, camping, skiing or other frequent 'get away" places are truly blessed. Like anything else, however, nothing is perfect. While it's great to get away regularly, facilitating such trips requires careful planning or the effort may not be worth the reward. Here are some tips to ease the burden

Designate a wardrobe specifically for your vacation spot. Keep as much as possible there or packed in your bags at home, then when it's time to leave again, little repacking remains. When you return, launder or clean out as needed and repack immediately

Regardless of how tired you are on your arrival there and on your return, involve everyone in the unpacking process right away. The laundry may be delayed until tomorrow, but consider the trip incomplete until every last item is out of vehicle(s) and returned to its proper place. This requires stamina and self-discipline at an unwelcome time, but otherwise one person may get stuck with the job that could take the whole time to recoup — just in time to leave again.

Keep a separate divider titled "Cottage" (or other appropriate name) in a 3-by-5-inch card file reminder box. The most important item behind this divider is a checklist of items to take each time. As extra reminders come up, drop notes behind that divider. Names and numbers of people in that vicinity, color samples, measurements, or other miscellaneous references can also be collected there. Keeping a reminder box at your cabin with a closing checklist, etc., can also be handy.

Try to transport as little as possible back and forth. If you carry cold food, however, a large cooler is a logical collection place for miscellaneous items to be included next time

Our cottage sports the sign: "Equal Opportunity Kitchen." Each person is expected to contribute. Youngsters are assigned cleanup duties. Having guests bring their own sheets and towels cuts laundry. Meals are definitely not gourmet. Let dad and the kids entirely plan, cook and clean up some of the meals. Use paper plates, cups, etc. Mark drinking glasses for reuse and establish holding spots for them. Heartily accept offers from guests to bring prepared food. Eat out as much as you can possibly afford. (This is Mom's outing, too — remember?)

Vacations can be wonderful or not - partly depending on careful planning and a spirit of family cooperation.

Illuminating ideas for flattering rooms

LOOKS like an inquisitive alien. It has three parts: podlike base, long skinny neck and one unblinking light-emitting eye. Sitting on a table, a highdesign halogen lamp is passive and helpful - if a bit snoopy

The new halogen light bulb makes its predecessor, the incandescent bulb invented by Thomas Edison, seem bald and elderly. Because of its adaptable size, halogen has revolutionized lighting design.

But making halogen lamps do tricks is only part of the fun of modern lighting. Today's lighting isn't so much about bulb and fixtures as it is about drama

The source of light often is hidden. but the effects are breathtaking.

Lighting designers wash home interiors with carefully selected splashes of light - from a living room's soft glow to a workspace's no-nonsense brilliance. But light design, though a subtle art, is a specialized one. It takes a delicate balance of light-blending to make rooms inviting as well as functional.

PART OF THE drama of home lighting involves the way it illuminates inhabitants. If you're doing your taxes on the rug or reading, you need a high light level. But if you're enjoying an intimate evening at home, you can use lighting to create a softer effect that flatters everyone in the room

How intense the light in your house should be depends on whether you are trying to see or be seen. If the mood is romance or simply an A torchiere is a standing lamp in

There are five major factors in avoidance of harshness, stage lighting experts have tips on using light to enhance your appearance.

Strong directional lighting is the least flattering," says Dr. Roibin Huber, a lecturer in theater arts. If you take a spotlight and aim straight down on a person, it's going to make every indentation on the face stand

Huber suggests using multidirectional and diffused lighting (lighting from many different angles) to soften and flatten out facial lines.

"Don't be afraid to use pink bulbs," he advises. "They can be very effective. Pink makes skin look warmer. It gives the illusion of a

You can also paint a wall a warm tone and bounce light off it to keep your skin looking summery. But watch out if you have a blue or green wall. "Avoid bouncing light off a cool color," says Huber. "It might not be as flattering.

According to Huber, one type of fixture that helps create complimentary lighting is the wall sconce. Mounted at eye level, it washes the wall with light

"IT CREATES A glowing wall with indirect lighting. You come into a room with the walls lit. It creates back lighting, silhouette lighting. The end result is much more flatter-

Huber advises investing in good indirect lighting sources such as sconces, torchieres and spotlights, which can be directed against walls.

which the light source is aimed up-

The professor of theater arts also suggests buying switches that can dim or brighten light sources.

"It's worth every bit of your money to get fixtures that either have internal dimmers or to buy dimmers for them. That's the only way you can select the right intensity for all times with diffused light."

Low voltage track lighting has been around for over 20 years but its popularity surged during the last five years. It offers a concentrated, narrow lighting pattern ideal for focusing on a room's special fea-

Track or recessed accent lighting can range from a narrow pencil beam directed at a specific object to a broad spotlight washing over an entire wall.

Use it to create special effects. Spotlight wall hangings and art objects. Place a floor "can" light so it shines into the branches of a ficus or potted palm.

Skylights work magic in small dark spaces. They splash rooms with natural light, making them warm, bright and inviting. Have a dark, stuffy attic you'd like to transform? A skylight may be the answer.

It doesn't matter if you have a sloped or flat roof, thick roofing tiles or asphalt shingles.

The number of skylight designs and features have been going through the roof, along with skylight

NEW ON THE MARKET are fully assembled, ready-to-use skylights that reduce installation time and human error. And there's an attic over the room you want to light, a contractor or carpenter can install a light shaft. It will direct daylight from the rooftop skylight into the location you desire.

The right lighting displays a new bathroom at its best and also adds to its safety and convenience

Convert all bathroom fixtures to fluorescent to improve the room's lighting quality and reduce electricity costs

"For applying makeup or shaving, two lamps or fixtures at about eye level, 36 to 40 inches apart, will evenly light both sides of your face," says Changing Times magazine. This arrangement is more flattering than the light over the mirror in most bathrooms.

A halogen bulb consumes approximately half the power of incandescent light and can last seven times as long. It will produce a crisp white light more sunlike than any other type of artificial lighting.

Without a big bulb to house, halogen task lights bob and sway with light that appears to come from little more than a stretch of wire. A slender, reedlike halogen torchiere can provide enough power to wash a room with high-noonlike brightness.

Sound too good to be true? OK, here are the disadvantages of halogen: It's expensive (at least at first in the long run, it's economical); the bulbs get - ouch! - hot. Even if the bulbs are cool, handle halogen with care: the oil from your fingertips can destroy the bulb.

MOWING

An average lawn of 8,000-10,000 square feet needs about 40 hours of maintenance a year, according to Professional Lawn Care Association experts, much of it mowing and trimming.

Mowing is a significant shock to turfgrass, so stress must be minim-

Don't cut grass too low. The higher the grass, the deeper and stronger the grass roots. Heights of 2-3 inches, especially in drought and heat, are better than 1-1 14 inches. By raising cutting height 11/3 of an inch. the ability of grass to perform photosynthesis is increased. That 11/2-inch means an extra 300 square feet of leaf surface for every 1,000 square feet of lawn.

Mower blades must be sharp. Grass should be sliced neatly, not shredded. Reel mowers cut a uniform height because of their horizontal cutter-bar design. However, most homeowners use rotary mowers.

directions each time you mow, especially with rotary mowers.

Don't catch and remove too many clippings. If grass is mown while very long, you may have little choice but to catch or to rake. Keep in mind that it's important to prevent clumps from smothering grass. Timely mowing can eliminate the need to remove clippings.

One plant of Kentucky bluegrass can produce 3 feet of growth in an average season; that's 5 tons of clippings per acre in a year. These clippings provide one extra fertilization a year when left in place after every mowing to decay naturally and to nourish the soil.

WATERING

Factors in healthy lawn development

Watering plus rainfall should total 1-2 inches a week. Water deeply into the grass root zone. Avoid lighter amounts or more frequent waterings because such practice improperly trains grass roots to remain near the surface when they dry out.

Maintain a regular watering program all season. Watering in the morning is better than at night because it discourages diseases. Watering soon after mowing is good if there isn't enough rainfall.

A healthy lawn needs correct soil conditions to compete with weeds. If you haven't had your soil analyzed for years, it's a good idea to check soil pH and nutrient conditions.
