Solo judge

Judge James Garber of 35th District Court will run unopposed in November's general election. Only Garber had filed for the six-year term by the May 31 deadline.

This will be the Plymouth Township resident's third term. It's the second time Garber has been unopposed.

Garber, 54, earns a state-set salary of $88,000.

Besides Plymouth, the local court serves Plymouth Township, Canton Township, Northville and Northville Township.

Pops time

The orchestras of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools will present their annual pops concert at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, in the Canton High School Little Theater, 8415 Canton Center.

This year's performance has a European flavor, according to orchestra director H. Michael Endres. Music of Sweden, France, Spain, England and Austria will be featured at the show along with some United States tunes.

Solo and orchestra performances are scheduled. Orchestra members will be in costume that identifies in some way with the music performed.

The concert will be hosted by the Centennial Education Park National Honor Society. A reception will follow the performance.

And all of this entertainment has a tantalizing price — it's free.

Flag update

John Johnstone has some new flags, thanks to John Miller, a local car salesman, and Eldon "Bud" Martin, a former Plymouth mayor.

About a dozen small flags, most of European countries, were stolen from in front of Johnstone's house last month. He visited most of those countries after receiving the flags as a gift from a grandson.

"The two got together and the next thing I know, I've got replacements. It's wonderful," Johnstone said of the pair's efforts.

Miller said he makes a point of driving to work past Johnstone's house because seeing the flags makes him feel good. "I just think he needed to have his flags back, pure and simple."

Grad time

The largest graduating class ever to earn diplomas in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools is gearing up for Sunday, June 12.

That's when the 1,289 seniors will receive their diplomas at graduation ceremonies. Because of the large number of students, each senior was limited to five tickets so some large families may be scrambling to find some extra guests.

Both graduations are at Hill Auditorium in Ann Arbor. Plymouth-Canton High School students will be the first to hear "Pomp and Circumstance" as they collect diplomas starting at 5:30 p.m.

The ceremony at Plymouth-Canton Community Schools will receive special attention starting at 8 p.m.

Both ceremonies will have the same theme: "Celebrating the Future." The graduation is the main party. The ceremony at 8 p.m. will be a special event.

Group works to support override

By M.B. Dillon

A citizens' millage committee has resurfaced in hopes of convincing voters to allow the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education to levy higher operating taxes.

The district is authorized to levy a maximum property tax rate of $37 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation (half of market value). But a law known as the Headlee Amendment mandates that the operating tax rate be lowered when SEV rises beyond the rate of inflation.

In an election Monday, June 13, the district is asking voters to override the Headlee Amendment. If the Headlee override fails, $34.17 per $1,000 of SEV will be levied. If the override passes, a rate of $37 per $1,000 in SEV will be levied.

"By September, the true effects will be embedded in our school system, and we'll have to live with them," committee member Thomas Publiski said. "We're not talking about dollars and cents, but the quality of education. What's going to happen when that child comes out of the school system?"

THE MILLAGE committee was formed before the district last went to the voters with a tax increase request in March. The measure failed despite the efforts of the 100-member group.

This time around, the committee has a working nucleus of 10 and a budget of $800. Money was donated

Total school millage	39.02	39.6	36.77
School tax bill	$1,951	$2,218	$2,059

*reflects average 12% increase in residential property values by support groups, teachers, transportation workers, community members, parents and businesses.

The committee is distributing fact sheets, making phone calls and encouraging parents' groups to support the override.

"Now our goal is to override Headlee," committee member John Lore said. "We haven't had an aggressive campaign, simply because of time."

THE GROUP'S fact sheet emphasized that the Headlee override request is for one year only. It said defeating the millage would mean:

- Forty-nine teaching posts would be cut.
- Elementary buildings would be closed weekdays for all activities beginning at 5 p.m.
- Kindergarten would be cut.
- Class size would increase.
- Participation fees would be charged for extracurricular activities.

• Cuts would be made in special education, alternative education, classroom supplies, student testing, administrative, clerical and custodial support.

• The high school attendance office would be eliminated. Cuts would be made in alternative education and community education.

THE DISTRICT faces a projected cut in state aid of some $5 million for the budget year 1988-89.

"Even if we override Headlee, we still won't get as much as last year, so we're faced with that dilemma," Lore said.

"It's very difficult to explain to people that even though they are paying more in taxes, the district still is getting less money," said

Sewer plan set for 3-way agreement

By Doug Funke
staff writer

A consortium representing Canton, Plymouth and Northville townships last week reached agreement to send sewage to a treatment plant operated by the Ypsilanti Community Utility Authority near Willow Run Airport.

Currently, the townships send sewage to a Detroit treatment plant.

All three township boards now are expected to give their individual blessings to the agreement after which the consortium, known as the Western Townships Utilities Authority, will formally ratify and sign the agreement.

The pact calls for the townships to tie into the Ypsilanti system by Jan. 1, 1993.

Ypsilanti's relatively new treatment facility currently is operating at less than half of its capacity, said Maurice Breen, Plymouth supervisor and chairman of the consortium.

Northville stand to gain several benefits by switching to Ypsilanti.

"Basically, flooding basements with crap shouldn't happen any more," said James Poole, Canton supervisor. "It will give Detroit more capacity. If water is returned to the Rouge River clean (from the Ypsilanti treatment plant), it will flush out the river."

"Eventually our rates will be better than Detroit because it (Ypsilanti) is a much more efficient operation," Poole said.

The consortium was formed and started looking at alternatives to Detroit a couple of years ago. Local officials objected to the cost and benefits of improvements proposed for the metro Detroit system, Breen said.

APPROVAL FROM the state Water Resources Commission for a discharge permit into the Rouge at the Ypsilanti treatment plant is expected sometime this summer.

State to study need for signal

By Doug Funke
staff writer

The state transportation department will decide after a study whether to install a traffic signal at the Ann Arbor Road-Canton Center Road intersection in Plymouth Township.

A fatal traffic accident there May 3 prompted several people in the area to request some safety improvements.

"It's very dangerous. It's just awful," said Judith Zachary, who lives on Mellowood Court. "Since we have lived in the neighborhood 12 years, there's been an accident at that intersection at least once a month."

"We'd like to have a light put up there and if we can't get a traffic light at least lower the speed limit," Zachary said.

The state's study will include a 24-hour machine count, an eight-hour manual turning count, a backup and delay review and a look at accidents at the intersection.

"YOU HAVE TO make a judgment," said Desi Strakovits, field operations engineer for the transportation department.

"Are you making the intersection better, worse or very little difference?" he said. "A traffic signal, by its very presence, will generate a certain amount of accidents."

Tax plan draws fire from CBE

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

A Citizens for Better Education initiative in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools will lose at the June 13 election.

The school district is asking voters to raise the tax rate to levy approximately $37 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation. If the override fails, the district will be limited to a rate of $34.17 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation.

The district is asking voters to override the Headlee Amendment to allow the district to raise the tax rate to $37 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation.

committee member Carol Davis, a former Plymouth-Canton school board member.

"People don't buy it. We have to do something at the state level. And I don't think they'll do anything until they hear from a lot of people."

Although we were disappointed about the loss of the March 1988 proposal, we were empathetic and sympathetic to the state's cause somewhere it has to end, Lore said. "We're being hit year after year."

BEFORE (IN March) we didn't know what would happen. Now we know the what-ifs, said Richard Egan, district community relations director.

"People don't understand it. I don't think they ever will. How can they be so stupid? This growth and less money, said Carl J. Rundo, president of the Plymouth-Canton teachers' union. "You have to determine the cost of quality, and what it means to you. The quality of education affects all of us, but that's hard to show."

ACROSS THE state and the country, millages are losing, Lore said.

"It's a trend. People are saying, 'We're going to lash out. It's the last place we can go.' Unfortunately, the results are tragic."

"When you talk about the budget you're looking at program cuts because the fat has been cut out," Davis said. "The excess is just not there as in some other school districts."

"One of the things teachers are most concerned about is what happens next year, and the following year," Rundo said.

"What's going to happen?" she asked. "Is the school district going to dry up and blow away? It's scary."

Plan draws fire from second group consider backing a second candidate but isn't ready to say who Daskalakis said.

ONE OF the reasons we're coming out against the millage this time is that we really are not pleased with the cuts they're planning to make," said Daskalakis. CBE is spreading the word by going door-to-door, speaking at churches, making phone calls and through mailings.

"We're very hopeful that there are other areas that they're not looking at. They're going directly to the teacher-classroom ratio, one of their big complaints in the past, and a reason they've needed more money. I was under the assumption we needed all the teachers we had."

I would think it's counterproductive to let any of them go. The same with the educational aides. We were flabbergasted to see that they're getting cut. If we don't need them, they should never have been on the payroll."

SCHOOL OFFICIALS say cuts in state aid of about $5 million and the legal necessity of lowering the operating tax rate to partially offset soaring property values have left Plymouth-Canton schools in a financial jam.

If the override passes, the district will be able to levy the authorized property tax rate of $37 per $1,000 of state equalized value, or half of market value. Revenue would be more than $2 million in cuts, the district says.

Daskalakis said CBE has requested but not yet received financial information from the district. But it seems that eliminating field trips and the school radio station might be good ways to save money, she said.

CBE has protested at school board hearings the showing of R-rated movies in classrooms, and the teaching of witchcraft and the occult. The manner in which the board handled the issue is another reason CBE is fighting the over-

"WE DON'T feel as though we've been treated satisfactorily by the school board. To turn around and ask us for money is inappropriate," said Daskalakis. Established in Plymouth-Canton, CBE now has sister chapters organizing in South Lyon, Saginaw and Lansing.

"We take our stands based on the fact we know (R-rated movies, witchcraft and the occult) are wrong. Other individuals agree with us. I'm not sure it's because of the scriptures, or because of their own codes of decency," added Daskalakis, a Plymouth Township jeweler.

Programs targeted for cuts include alternative and special education, something CBE also objects to.

"We've always stressed the desire to teach all students — the handicapped, talented and gifted — so that all students would receive an equal education, even if some students need an aide to obtain that," Daskalakis said.

CBE wants to elect two new school board members "who can get all the facts and figures necessary to make wise decisions because they'll be on the inside. We don't want to give the incumbents money when they've already put us in a deficit situation," she said.

Sewer plan set for 3-way OK

After that, engineering plans can be prepared, financing arrangement completed and construction started.

"Until we had agreement with Ypsilanti and a discharge permit, it didn't make sense to spend millions of dollars," said Robert Law, secretary and legal adviser to the consortium.

Breen has projected — and admittedly on the high side — that it will cost the consortium $100 million to build a system to send sewage to Ypsilanti.

"We're starting to get to the point where there is a real project with real dollars," he said.

A bond issue and a surcharge on water bills are possible ways of financing the work. Specifics haven't yet been determined.

The switch from Detroit to Ypslanti could occur before 1993, Breen said. The earliest he projected was fall of 1989.

Even though the townships have a contract with Detroit through at least 2000, they could sell or lease sewage disposal capacity to other suburbs still using Detroit's treatment plant, Breen suggested.

State to study need for new traffic signal

A decision is expected by the middle of July.

"It all depends on how busy our field crews are," Strakovits said.

Ann Arbor Road is a two-lane paved street at Canton Center Road. There is a flare right turn lane on westbound Ann Arbor Road to northbound Canton Center.

Canton Center south of Ann Arbor is a gravel road with one lane in each direction. Canton Center north of Ann Arbor is paved leading directly into a subdivision.

THE SPEED LIMIT on Ann Arbor Road is 45 miles per hour east of McClumpha Road and 55 miles per hour west of McClumpha.

Traffic counts made at the intersection last fall during peak drive time hours weren't definitive in indicating the need for a signal, said Rod Arroyo, a traffic consultant.

"It appears volumes are right on the line — a borderline case," he said of that variable.

Other factors, such as traffic counts throughout the day, sight lines in the intersection and accident reports, also must be considered, Arroyo said.

That study commissioned by the township didn't delve into those areas.

Carl Berry, township police chief, declined to comment on the intersection pending completion of the state's study.

His department's accident reports wouldn't include accidents investigated by county sheriff's deputies and state police.

Candidate pulls out of township race

Only one of 15 Plymouth Township candidates who had filed nominating petitions for various township offices withdrew by Friday's deadline.

Lorraine Halmekangas, deputy clerk to Esther Hulsing the past three years, decided against challenging Hulsing in the August primary.

"I just felt it would have been a sticky situation had I gone through with it," Halmekangas said.

She added that she didn't feel pressured by Hulsing to withdraw.

"We had quite a lengthy conversation. It was an emotional one on both our parts," Halmekangas said.

"I want to publicly thank all of the wonderful people who supported me with words of encouragement and for their many hours of work."

Halmekangas had filed her petitions to oppose Hulsing on the May 31 deadline.

Hulsing, with no opposition in the primary or general election, would appear to be a shoo-in for another four-year term.

The winners in the Aug. 2 Republican Primary for supervisor and treasurer plus the best four finishers among the eight trustee candidates also would appear to have a lock on election in November.

No Democratic challengers filed in any of those races.

Maurice Breen, incumbent supervisor, faces a battle from James Irvine, a lawyer and trustee the past four years, and Jerry Raymor, a systems analyst for Ford Motor Co.

Mary Brooks, incumbent treasurer, will be challenged by Patricia J. Pashukewich, president of PAMAR, a family-owned property management company.

The eight candidates for trustee are:

- Andrew R. Pruner, incumbent and a Wayne County sheriff's deputy.

- Smith Horton, incumbent and a Ford Motor Co. executive.

- Abe Munfakh, incumbent and vice president/consulting engineer with the firm of Ayres, Lewis, Norris & May.

- Ron Griffith, dean of educational services at Schoolcraft College.

- Joseph LeBlanc, a self-employed computer consultant.

- John Stewart, a lawyer.

- Gregory Williams, president of Key Marketing.

- Cameron Miller, a law clerk.

The supervisor, clerk and treasurer positions are full time, the trustee seats part time.

Sun shines brightly for Rouge's volunteers

By Marie Chestney and Wayne Peal staff writers

Area 'friends' help to clean their river be by doing this we can bring it back.

The sun shone Saturday for the Rouge River and all its friends.

After two years of damp and drizzly weather, Saturday's third annual volunteer river cleanup was greeted by beautiful blue skies.

"It's nice to finally see the sun," said Wayne County public works director James Murray, an instrumental figure in organizing Rouge Rescue 88 and its two predecessors.

An estimated 2,900 people, most from Wayne and Oakland counties, participated.

Volunteers cleared debris from the heavily polluted river, as well as breaking up an estimated 50 log jams.

Automobile parts, shopping carts, a mini bike, hundreds of pounds of shingles and at least one television set were among the items pulled from the Rouge.

The volunteer cleanup began two years ago amid great fanfare. For some, Saturday's third annual effort was a test of the event's staying power. Heavy turnouts at sites in Livonia, Plymouth and Canton Township answered any questions of diminished volunteer interest.

"WHAT WE have now is a hard core of people we can count on," Murray said. "I think it (the cleanup) is a perpetual responsibility and it's one that will continue."

Sunny skies were a major plus, but they weren't the only reason volunteers showed up.

Friends of the Rouge, the volunteer agency sponsoring the event, said it began reaping benefits from its high school and junior high classroom projects.

Many of the 125 workers at the Holliday Park cleanup site were Livonia Churchill High School students. And they worked hard, Friends members said.

"You can't pay people to work like this," said Churchill science teacher John Covert. "They all know they're doing something important."

In Canton, dozens of Canton and Salem students showed up, some still groggy from the previous evening's prom.

"I'VE GOT one kid who said he'll be here on about an hour's sleep," said Salem teacher Bill Gretzinger. "Another said he's coming even if he has to wear his tux."

For some students, volunteering was a chance to grab some last minute extra credit, for others it was a labor of love.

"Once people know about how bad it (the Rouge) is with pollution, they want to do something," said Salem student Mike Miller, who attended a recent student congress in Detroit on Rouge pollution. "I've learned plenty about the Rouge. Last year, I probably wouldn't have even been out here."

School spirit extended to middle school and elementary students.

In Plymouth, members of a Isbister School second third grade class volunteered their time.

"There's a lot of competition from weekend baseball games and soccer games, but we made a pledge to do something for the community and this seemed like the logical thing to do," said their teacher, Kathy Harenda.

Families also donated their time.

"We used to come here often," said Westland resident Joyce Matavia, who brought her children, Brian and Pam, with her. "We were here a couple of years ago and we were appalled at how bad it is. May-

The Rouge's restoration as a safe waterway is faces a long controversial future. Friends of the Rouge members acknowledge it will take more than 20 years to bring Rouge River health hazards under some degree of control. Meanwhile, officials in many area communities have spoken out against the estimated $900 million in public works projects needed to restore the river, calling them too costly.

Saturday's volunteers, however, cast their own votes on the future of the river.

"You know," said Friends of the Rouge member Lillian Dean, "I think this thing is really catching on."

Staff photos by Bill Bresler and John Stormzand

Bob St. John of Canton Township, left, gingerly made his way across the the Rouge under the Sheldon Road Bridge, pulling log with him as he went. Organizers said about 2,900 people attended cleanup events throughout the Wayne and Oakland county area. Local sites included Levan Knolls, the Holliday Nature Preserve and Nankin Mills recreation area. Volunteers from Livonia, Westland, Plymouth, Redford, Canton and Plymouth townships participated.

The Rouge Rescue was a family affair for Gayle Wofford of Westland, who was accompanied by her daughter, Jill.

Bar license revocation under LCC advisement

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

After Plymouth Township recommended revoking the liquor license of the Plymouth Saloon, Michigan Liquor Control Commission officials said the commission would hold a hearing in six weeks to uphold or deny the revocation.

Fourteen weeks went by. But Thursday a show cause hearing finally was held. LCC commissioners took the case under advisement.

After holding hearings in February, the township board voted to revoke the license on grounds that the bar on General Drive has become a public nuisance.

A Canton woman was killed near the bar in December 1986 when the car in which she was riding was struck head-on by a car driven by an underage Westland woman who'd been drinking at the bar. The woman is serving a five-year manslaughter term in connection with the incident.

State law states the LCC must uphold the recommendation of a local community as long as due process rights were granted at a hearing.

Squaring off Thursday were Richard Rubin, assistant attorney general assigned to the LCC, and Norman Farhat, attorney for and a board member of Var-Ken Inc. which owns the bar.

FARHAT ARGUED the LCC shouldn't even accept jurisdiction of this matter because they (Plymouth Township officials) haven't followed the provisions of their own ordinance.

The local ordinance says, "following a hearing by the board, the township board shall submit to the licensee and the LCC notice as to its findings and its determination."

"We haven't received anything from the board, or any written statement as to its findings," Farhat said. How can we even proceed when they've not even complied with their own ordinance?"

John Stewart, special prosecutor for Plymouth Township, told LCC commissioners that township clerk Esther Hulsing did send notice to the Plymouthrock.

The township's resolution "specifically addressed the sale of alcohol to minors, excessive consumption and the lack of current legal status of the corporation," Stewart said.

Var-Ken was dissolved in May 1987 after its officers failed to file annual reports with the state.

RUBIN ARGUED that the township ordinance is irrelevant as far as the LCC is concerned.

"What are we doing? Waiting until the last minute and then throwing a bunch of stuff in? If Mr. Farhat is playing games, that's one thing," said Rubin. "It seems like if he had a problem, he should have brought it up before today."

"The commission's function is to determine solely whether due process has been extended. If someone is unhappy with that, then go somewhere else, like court," Rubin said.

The matter is in court. Farhat sued the township in Ingham County Circuit Court after it failed to renew the Rock's liquor license. Ingham Circuit Judge Thomas Brown granted the Plymouthrock an injunction permitting the bar to stay open pending a Wednesday, June 15 hearing.

"I don't know what (Farhat) wants, except he doesn't want the license revoked, and he doesn't want the community's input," Rubin said. "But we're not talking about candy and soda pop. We're talking about dangerous mind-altering substances."

LCC Commissioners Maxine Perry and Wallace Warner withheld a decision, asking Rubin and Farhat to submit briefs within two weeks.

PETER ELEFTERIO, Plymouthrock owner, said, "We're being treated fairly by everyone except the township. The Plymouthrock still serves liquor and we're open. The township has done a good job of making us look like we're not."

Plymouthrock manager Jacqueline Shaff said business has "been affected a lot. The township police hang around a lot, and people are afraid to leave."

"If someone is too slovenly to drive home, a manager will find them a driver and follow them home," she added. "We've been doing that a lot, and we did it prior to this."

Local road altercations few

By Susan Buck
staff writer

In some Oakland communities, traffic altercations, provoked by offensive gestures, tailgating and other violations of driver etiquette are becoming a deadly contest of wills and wheels.

Some police in those communities report seeing an increase in the number of guns used, although the number of people actually shot are few. Not a week goes by without a bat swung or a bottle thrown, they said.

But that has not spilled over into the Plymouth-Canton area, local law enforcement officials said.

Four incidents involving gunplay on the highway were reported to police in northwest Oakland County suburbs earlier this year.

"I CAN'T remember any situations with guns," said Canton Public Safety officer Dave Boljesic. "A minimal amount of accidents result in fist fights and even fewer result in verbal altercations. Most people realize that once an accident happens there's nothing they can do about it. I guess people are better behaved on the west side."

Boljesic said that cities like Southfield and Troy have a lot more daytime traffic.

"Troy has a daytime population that is in the hundreds of thousands," he said.

Likewise these situations are rare in both Plymouth and Plymouth Township.

"That kind of thing usually happens on freeways," said Plymouth Police Chief Richard Myers. "We don't have any freeways running through Plymouth. It can happen in an isolated case anywhere, but it usually happens on the freeway. It doesn't take much to provoke altercations that result in fist fights or car chases.

EVEN SO, Plymouth Township Police Chief Carl Berry notes these situations are unlikely.

"We don't have that problem here," he said.

Police suggest that motorists adopt a mature approach to potential problems by ignoring hostile or offensive gestures from other drivers. Seek a well-lit establishment — such as a gas station or store — if you are threatened, they say.

Drivers should keep safety in mind by not doing anything to further provoke these people.

If possible, get the license plate number and a description of the vehicle. Report it to the police as soon as possible.

Heat from fire damages plant

Heat from a brush fire behind Wycoff Steel Corp. on General Drive Wednesday popped out about 20 Plexiglass windows at the factory, according to Larry Groth, Plymouth Township fire chief.

Damage was estimated at $1,000. No one in the plant and no firefighters were injured.

Groth suspects that a spark from a passing train ignited tall, dry grass behind the factory. Firefighters from the township and city responded at about 2:40 p.m. Some tended to hot spots for about two hours.

Township firefighters later Wednesday afternoon doused a fire in a wood shed at a house on North Territorial.

The fire, with one point of origin, was described as suspicious by Groth.

"It's under investigation," he said. "Samples were taken to the crime lab."

Wayne County seeks advance tax renewal

By Wayne Peal
Staff writer

Wayne County voters will be asked to renew the county's 1-mill general operating tax in the Aug. 2 primary — two years before the tax expires.

The tax raises an estimated $20.4 million each year, according to the county office of management and budget. It expires in 1990.

County commissioners voted to put the issue on the Aug. 2 primary ballot to avoid having to call a special election next year.

"If we don't do it now, we'll have to do it next year and that will cost money," said commissioner Susan Heintz, R-Northville Township.

Commissioners are still debating whether to seek a new tax of up to 2 mills to add jail space and anti-crime programs, though it is doubtful the tax increase proposal will also appear on the primary ballot.

THE GENERAL operating tax finances county services, including the jail, juvenile court, public and mental health programs, parks and recreation, job training, senior citizen services and health care for needy county residents.

The general operating tax translates to $37.50 a year for people living in residences with a market value of $75,000.

The tax was last renewed during the 1984 state primary. In a change, commissioners seek 10-year approval this time.

COMMISSIONERS HAVE long

'If we don't do it now, we'll have to do it next year and that will cost money.'

— Susan Heintz

conceded that the 1-mill levy was inadequate to relieve crowded conditions at the county jail.

They tabled, however, a proposal from commissioner George Cushingberry, D-Detroit, that would ask voters for 2 additional mills for "the construction and operation of jail and juvenile justice facilities and for related criminal justice purposes."

Commissioners generally decided against a jail tax recommendation until the county's ad hoc task force on jail space files its report.

The report is due Sept. 15, commission chairman Arthur Carter, D-Detroit, said, giving commissioners time to place the tax increase proposal on the Nov. 8 presidential election ballot.

Carter suggested he would meet individually with other commissioners to discuss the proposal.

Commissioner Bernard Kilpatrick, D-Detroit, suggested a 1-mill jail tax, but withdrew his motion after Cushingberry said it would take at least $38 million in new taxes to finance proposed anti-crime programs.

As drafted by Cushingberry, the proposal would boost county mental health programs as well as increase jail space.

The issue was referred, without endorsement, from the commission's Committee on Health and Human Services, where it will return.

If your kids are in their teens—

YOU NEED TO READ THIS (FOR THEM)

When your teen is talking party

Plan in advance. Check party plans with your teenager and know the guest list. If you agree with who is invited, you can curb the "open party" situation.

Set a time limit. Set a definite start and ending; not too long. Consider daytime parties as an alternative to evening ones or plan an activity such as swimming, skating or renting movies.

Agree to rules ahead of time. These might include:

- No drugs, including alcohol
- No smoking
- No leaving the party and then returning
- No gate crashers allowed
- Lights should be left on
- Some rooms in your house are off limits

Know your responsibilities. The responsible adult at a teenagers party is visible and AWARE. Remember IT IS ILLEGAL TO SERVE DRUGS, INCLUDING ALCOHOL, TO MINORS. You are legally responsible for anything that may happen to a minor who has been served drugs or alcohol in YOUR home.

Invite another parent or couple over. Other adults are company for you during a long evening and can be of help with problems. Also, if parents have driven teenagers to your house, you might consider inviting them in to meet you, however briefly.

Call the host. Before giving consent that your teenager be allowed to attend a party, make sure of the basic rules, such as parental supervision and that no alcohol will be allowed.

Check the party plans beforehand with your teenager. Know where your child is going and with whom. When taking your teenager to a party, wait to see that he or she is inside the house. If you don't know the host parents, introduce yourself.

Make it easy for your teenager to leave a party. If there is drinking or drug use or any reason that your teenager wishes to leave a party, make an arrangement that your child can call you (or a designated adult) who will come. Urge your teenager NEVER to ride home with a driver who has been drinking. You might have an understanding that there will be no punishments or restrictions for a call letting you know that things are getting out of hand.

Be up to greet your teenager when he or she comes home from a party.

Q. Are the police ever called to assist parents when their child's party has gotten out of hand?

A. Yes. Most problems arise at parties involving high school age children and usually in situations where parents are absent. The two major problems at these parties are uninvited guests and the consumption of alcohol.

Q. What are parents' responsibilities when their child has a party in their home?

A. Most parents are ignorant of the law in this regard. Many have called the police department to inquire about their responsibilities. Parents should know that there are criminal charges that can be brought for serving alcohol to minors and for risking injury to minors. Penalties of up to one year in prison, fines ranging up to $1,000, or both, may result if a parent is caught allowing minors to consume alcohol.

Q. What advice should be given to parents who want to allow their child to have a party?

A. First there must be parental supervision. Parents are legally responsible for what happens to minors in their home. Second, do not allow alcoholic beverages to be served. Limit the number of guests and let the party be "by invitation only." A word-of-mouth general invitation brings party crashers.

Make cholesterol a subject close to your heart...

Cholesterol and your heart

How much do you know about cholesterol—that fatty substance found in your body tissues and blood? Did you know, for instance, that significant amounts of it come from the foods you eat and the rest is produced by your body? Or that high total cholesterol levels can lead to heart disease and heart attacks?

Cholesterol tests

One thing you should know is your blood cholesterol level. You can get your cholesterol level tested now through June 25 at McAuley Urgent Care in the McAuley Health Building in Canton. It's so easy. It takes just five minutes, and the cost is only $5 ($4 with this ad).

Nutritionists and other health professionals from St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor will be on hand to explain the results of your test and to suggest ways for becoming more "heart healthy."

Bring the family

High cholesterol levels tend to run in families, so it's a good idea to have everyone tested. Stop in during any of the dates and times listed below.

Help a cyclist battle MS

KAREN POPYK has three Irish setters, a penchant for running and a date to ride a bicycle for 150 miles next weekend.

Popyk, a Birmingham resident for 14 1/2 years, is one of about 500 people registered for a June 11-12 bike tour designed to raise money in the fight against multiple sclerosis.

She should be a familiar figure to those in the Birmingham area since she regularly jogs. But runners tend to blend into the streetscape and it is likely that a lot of people who live and work in Birmingham were unaware of her regular jaunts.

The number who know her has grown a lot in recent weeks. It's a nice story.

POPYK KNOWS a veterinarian (here's where the setters come in) who is in remission from multiple sclerosis, a terrible disease that often takes its toll on young adults. For Popyk, a healthy woman who taught for four years, the chance to raise money to combat the disease seemed a natural.

It's one thing to write a check, it's quite another to commit yourself and your time to a cause. That is what Popyk has done.

Signup sheet in hand, Popyk has probed her running course, ducking into the businesses and restaurants that line the Woodward Avenue and Maple Road areas of her routes. She is looking for people to pledge any amount — from a penny to a dollar or more — for every mile she rides on the bike tour.

The response has been sensational. "They are really generous. I am just overwhelmed," she said recently.

SHE STARTED with a minimum goal to raise $3,000, but her real aim was a $4,000 peak. She's a cinch to make it. Last week she announced she was well over the $3,000 mark and just a pledge or two away from $4,000. (There is a prize structure that awards everything from T-shirts to VCRs and compact disc players depending on the amount raised. If Popyk reaches $4,000 she will win a fancy bike. She says she will donate it to charity, she already has a bike.)

It's one thing to write a check; it's quite another to commit yourself and your time to a cause. That is what Popyk has done.

Rich Perlberg

The bike tour starts June 11 at Schoolcraft College in Livonia and travels to Holt in the Lansing area for an overnight stay in a junior high school gym. There, the tour meets similar bikers who started the morning in Grand Rapids. The next day, the combined tour bikes to Jackson. Those interested in pledging can call the MS Hotline at 967-2211 or call toll free at 1-800-247-7382.

Popyk is trying to think of ways to say thank you to all those who pledged for her. She might be riding in a T-shirt that bears the names of all her sponsors. That might be a very large T-shirt.

There is only a slight problem. The fund raising has taken time away from her exercise regimen. She wants to be sure she completes the 150 miles, even if the heat is as suffocating as it was last week.

"I've got to get in shape," she said. "I can't let all these people down." She won't. She hasn't.

Planning

Dream began here 50 years ago

"You gotta have a dream. If you don't have a dream, How you gonna have a dream come true?"

Bloody Mary's South Pacific song might well be the theme song of city planners everywhere, and of Plymouth in particular.

Anticipating the future is the essence of city planning, and Plymouth has been doing it for 50 years. By ordinance on Feb. 7, 1938, when Henry Hondorp was mayor, the city established a planning commission as an advisory group to make recommendations on planning and zoning to the city commission.

The city had a population of less than 5,000, and the appointment of a planning commission for a town so small may have surprised many.

Perhaps proximity to the University of Michigan and its experts in city planning was an influencing factor. True or not, the new committee began its duties by hearing a talk on city planning by the University's H.C. Whittemore, an expert on the subject.

DURING ITS first year, the commission made plans for neighborhood playgrounds, studied city parks, and recommended that a consultant be employed. Plymouth's first city planning consultant, T. Glenn Phillips, was hired on July 20, 1938.

A zoning ordinance delineating commercial and other zones was passed in 1939. An official city map was produced. Plans were approved for planting Kellogg, Centennial and Central Parks. Regulations for the subdivision of land were adopted.

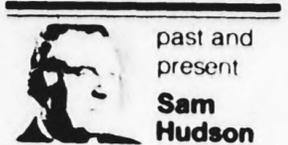

A study of major thoroughfares within the corporate limits was made. Building set-back lines were established. At the recommendation of the planning commission, the city commission acquired property to build a public parking lot at the rear of the Main Street stores.

During the 1940s, the planning commission recommended that the name of Centennial Park be changed to Bradner Park and that a park site be sought at Main and Wing Streets.

Plans were completed envisioning a civic center around City Hall to include school buildings, churches, the library, an auditorium, a community house and parking lots.

THE REGULATION of advertising signs in the commercial district was studied. In the mid-1940s, the planning commission recommended a new sanitary sewer for the south end of the city and the erection of a new water tank. On the planning commission's recommendation, the city commission purchased two acres of land within the city limits for a site for a municipal hospital. (This idea was dropped after St. Mary Hospital came into being in Livonia.)

W. C. Johnson of Waring and Johnson followed Phillips as planning consultant to the city. In the 1950s, a revised zoning ordinance was adopted. Speaking of zoning, Sidney D. Strong, who chaired the planning commission for many years, had this to say: "Because of Plymouth's peculiar layout of streets and railroads, it is difficult to fit it with a satisfactory system of zoning classifications. Therefore the zoning map is more controversial than the text of the or-past and present Sam Hudson

Long-range planning in the mid-1950s included acquisition of the Christian Science Church next to city hall and of land for park purposes along Tonquish Creek west of Harvey Street between Penniman and Ann Arbor Trail. The church site was acquired with the thought that someday the city hall would have to be enlarged. (Actually, a new one was built in 1963-64.)

ALSO IN the 1950s, the planning commission dealt with the height of buildings in the commercial and industrial areas. Consideration was given to vacating unused alleys. Two subdivisions were approved and the city commission approved the planning commission's principal of a central business district.

A feasibility study determined the property in the city in the most critical need of redevelopment was approximately 17 acres on the west side of South Mill Street between Ann Arbor Trail and Amelia Street. Although zoned for industrial use, it contained many substandard residential houses.

The major accomplishment during the 1965-66 fiscal year was the drafting of a central business district plan designed to strengthen the city's business climate.

'I object' to Headlee vote

To the editor:

It seems something less than democratic when a handful of elected officials can continue to badger and coerce a majority of their constituents.

I refer of course to the school board and its decision to hold yet another millage election on June 13. Let any millage pass by one or two votes and it is the will of the people. Let it be defeated by any amount of votes and the voters didn't understand the issues and should be given another chance.

It is pure unadulterated fodder.

First the Headlee waiver goes down to defeat, a subsequent attempt for a new millage fails, now another attempt for a Headlee waiver.

In between these attempts, the board and administration serve up the required propaganda in their zeal to extort the additional monies they are looking for. Monies I would like to believe they want for education, but am convinced is for the continued growth of the mini-empires school systems have been building for the last 20-25 years.

Frankly, as I look around our communities, new growth is everywhere. Property values in Canton have gone up by some 15 percent to 16 percent, therefore, the amount of new revenue to the schools should be substantial.

The propaganda which was designed for maximum effect had us getting rid of teachers and charging for school athletics — very effective. How many parents would get excited if instead they cut heavily into the administration? Such as one principal for two or three schools? How many local governments have a community relations office? Why do the schools need one and how many people work in it?

Electives are a nice luxury, but do we really need them? Basic education is what we as taxpayers are required to fund. It was the electives and other special programs that were the beginning of these mini-empires.

I, for one, think our school systems are in need of major overhauls; they must get back to the basics of education, they must stop being land barons, emperors and things other than educators. Has anyone on your news staff taken the time to compare the growth of the administration to the growth of the student body? Has anyone compared the administration's budget today as a percentage of the total budget to the same figures 20 years ago?

How about the explosive growth of the special programs offered in schools today? Is the taxpayer responsible to train tomorrow's disc jockeys?

Community newspapers, by virtue of their content, profess to be guardians of the public's interest. Over the years I have lived in Canton it has been a rare occurrence when you have opposed a millage increase, in my opinion you are as responsible for the state of the school system as the current and prior boards and administrators.

The time has come for the community newspapers to dig into this school system, to inform the taxpayer of their findings and let them pressure the school board into correcting what we perceive to be wrong from your findings.

Furthermore, the taxpayers should oust the incumbents on this school board and find some independent thinkers. Someone who will not be representatives of the administration, but rather represent the people who have elected them. Let that read all of the views of all of the people. After all we are footing the bills.

In 1975 the year my wife and I purchased our home, our property taxes equaled 30 percent of our principal and interest. In 1987 it hit 61 percent, over a 100-percent increase in 12 years. Now in the 13th year they want more. I object. Let them clean house and find it in the budget. It has to be there.

Jim Kronberg, Canton

Where were the strings?

To the editor:

I attended the Plymouth Community Arts Council awards ceremony May 3. It included performances by the honors chorus and the honors band, of which I was a member. Both groups executed their musical qualities with much flair and spirit, and the obit was likewise pleasing.

Since I am in an unusual situation, I also play the cello with the middle school orchestra, I would like to approach an aspect of the performances. As I recall, there was not one stringed instrument to be heard at this performing arts concert, and I assume "performing arts" includes stringed instruments.

I understand it was the first ceremony to present the awards and for exceptional musicians to be heard, but there are some outstanding performers who are string players.

The middle school orchestra consists of sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth graders from each of the five middle schools. Our orchestra just finished a recruiting program. We visited each middle school to encourage future sixth graders to join orchestra. I think a performing arts concert that does not include an orchestra is missing a very important dimension of the musical world.

It should also display the opportunities available for young children in a musical sense. Each member of my orchestra has the ability and talent to be in an honors orchestra, and I think the whole middle school orchestra should have been able to perform the same evening.

GOP delegates predict calm, unified convention

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Attending the Republican National Convention will be exciting, area delegates say, but it probably won't be as exciting as January's local conventions.

There, moderate and conservative factions split over the delegate selection process. Feuding spilled over into the Livonia-Plymouth area as the Wayne 2nd District sent two sets of delegates to the state convention.

But ruffled feathers have been plucked, at least for Daniel Piercecchi and Arthur Sippola, two Livonia men who will be among those casting ballots at the Aug. 15-19 national GOP convention in New Orleans.

"I ASSUME that everything's back on track, at least as far as the Wayne 2nd is concerned," Piercecchi said. "I know we're ready to work hard for the vice president."

Presidential politics played a large role in the GOP's January foibles, with supporters of television evangelist Pat Robertson and some followers of U.S. Rep. Jack Kemp holding conventions separately from Vice President George Bush's supporters. A group of conservative Republicans also bolted January's state party convention.

Withdrawals by Kemp and Robertson and their subsequent endorsements of Bush may have gone a long way to smooth over lingering bitterness.

Piercecchi, a Bush district delegate, and Sippola, an at-large Kemp delegate who "stayed in" during the state convention, say they are looking forward to a campaign season that is more of a family affair than family feud.

"I like Jack Kemp, but I was a Republican long before I was a Kemp supporter," said Sippola, a bank vice president and national convention delegate for Ronald Reagan in 1980. "There are a few scars, sure, but at least we're behaving like ladies and gentlemen. That wasn't the case in January."

That kind of talk could warm the hearts of Bush campaign staffers, perplexed by polls showing their man trailing probable Democratic Party presidential nominee Michael Dukakis by as many as 13 percentage points.

DESPITE THE polls, or perhaps because of them, even those who walked out of the state convention are lining up behind the vice president, albeit reluctantly.

"I still feel Pat Robertson was the best candidate, but when the choice is George Bush or Michael Dukakis, that's an easy choice to make," said 15th District chairman David Thompson.

Thompson, a Saline minister, heads up the state's most solid Robertson delegation. All 15th district delegates were pledged to the evangelist and cable broadcasting executive. The 15th District includes Garden City, Westland, Canton Township and southern Livonia.

Thompson said his inclination is to cast his convention ballot for Robertson, unless instructed otherwise. "Really, it's up for Pat to say," Thompson said. "But I haven't heard anything yet."

Even though some Robertson supporters may challenge for seats in New Orleans, Thompson views the situation as a battle already lost.

"Any chance of a fair hearing on Michigan delegates — there's no such thing," he said.

A credentials fight will not bother Thompson. He was selected as a delegate both during the main GOP state convention and the so-called "rump" convention held by those who walked off the convention floor.

Despite the movement toward Bush, Thompson said he still sees it the other way around — a sign that troubled waters have not entirely been calmed.

"I was selected during the Bush/Abraham convention," he said, referring to state party leader Spencer Abraham. "And the legitimate convention"

'I assume that everything's back on track, at least as far as the Wayne 2nd is concerned. I know we're ready to work hard for the vice president.'

THE BUSINESS OF ARTHRITIS

If you have arthritis, you are in a position similar to that of a business man. You want to manage your affairs so that at the least you minimize losses, i.e. keep as low as possible the debts of pain and impairment. You hope to turn a profit, i.e. keep in your credit ledger, the responsibilities and goals that were in your inventory before your arthritis occurred.

In the arthritis business, the most difficult judgements involve decisions of activity and rest. Daily, you must determine whether to continue your activities in the face of the risk of fatigue, pain, and limited movement. Or, is it in your best interest to cut energy losses and stop for the day?

Furthermore, opportunities will arise to expand your activities. Can your budget of stamina, already tight, expand, or can effort, originally earmarked elsewhere, be diverted to the task?

You will make mistakes; no one has perfect judgement. But taking on the responsibility of managing your affairs in a business-like manner, will likely reward you with a profitable way of life.

Men, if you're about to turn 18, it's time to register with Selective Service at any U.S. Post Office.

It's quick. It's easy. And it's the law.

Preserving strawberries can be a snap

I just couldn't resist. I visited the farmers market last Saturday and walked away with not just one, but two flats of strawberries. I mean, at only $6.50 per flat, how could I resist? On the way home, my mind was running as rampant as a Cuisinart looking at a 5-pound hunk of cheese.

What would I do with all those berries?

I could begin a shortcake marathon and once again renew my membership to Weight Watchers.

I thought about making 15 gallons of my famous strawberry daquiris but then I remembered how I feel the next morning.

I finally decided to "put them up."

(Editor's note: This is a fair warning about what to expect for Christmas '88!)

NOW I do know that fall is the ideal time for preserving. I also know that in the fall, I'm so bogged down with freezing zucchini, making tomato sauce, canning peaches, drying apples on top of raking leaves and batten down the hatches for winter that I'm glad to get one thing done before the actual preserving season begins.

So what's needed to preserve those precious preserves?

The following will be a short primer on preserving.

First off, from Mama's no fault "watch me do it" school of preserving, I remember her telling me to always start with slightly underripe and firm berries for maximum flavor and to ensure a good age. Never, she did mean, NEVER make double batches because the sugar could burn or that balance of pectin-to-sugar-to-acid could throw the whole pot off if allowed to boil longer than needed for larger quantities. Last but not least, follow the prescribed cooking times because even though the preserves look thin in the pan, they thicken up when allowed to cool.

With that knowledge and a case of screw-top jars and a six-pack under my belt, I began looking for equipment.

ALL THAT was needed was a heavy bottomed saucepan for even cooking, a soup ladle, a large wide pot to boil the jars in (those big corn pots will do) and some jars with rubber-edged flat lids and separate ring bands. PLEASE NOTE: the rubber rings on the lids will not seal a second time around.

Next I remember Mama preparing the empty jars. Those days, our idea of a dishwasher was whom ever's turn it was. These days, you can wash and sanitize the jars with one setting while the preserves are being made. If you prefer, you can bring the jars in a large pot to boil until you are ready to use them. Cover the rings and lids in a small saucepot with water, bring to a boil, then turn off. Invert the jars onto a cooling rack or clean towel just before filling. Fill one jar with the boiling preserves, wipe the rim and threads of the jar with a clean towel, set a lid in place and screw on the ring. Repeat with the remaining jars.

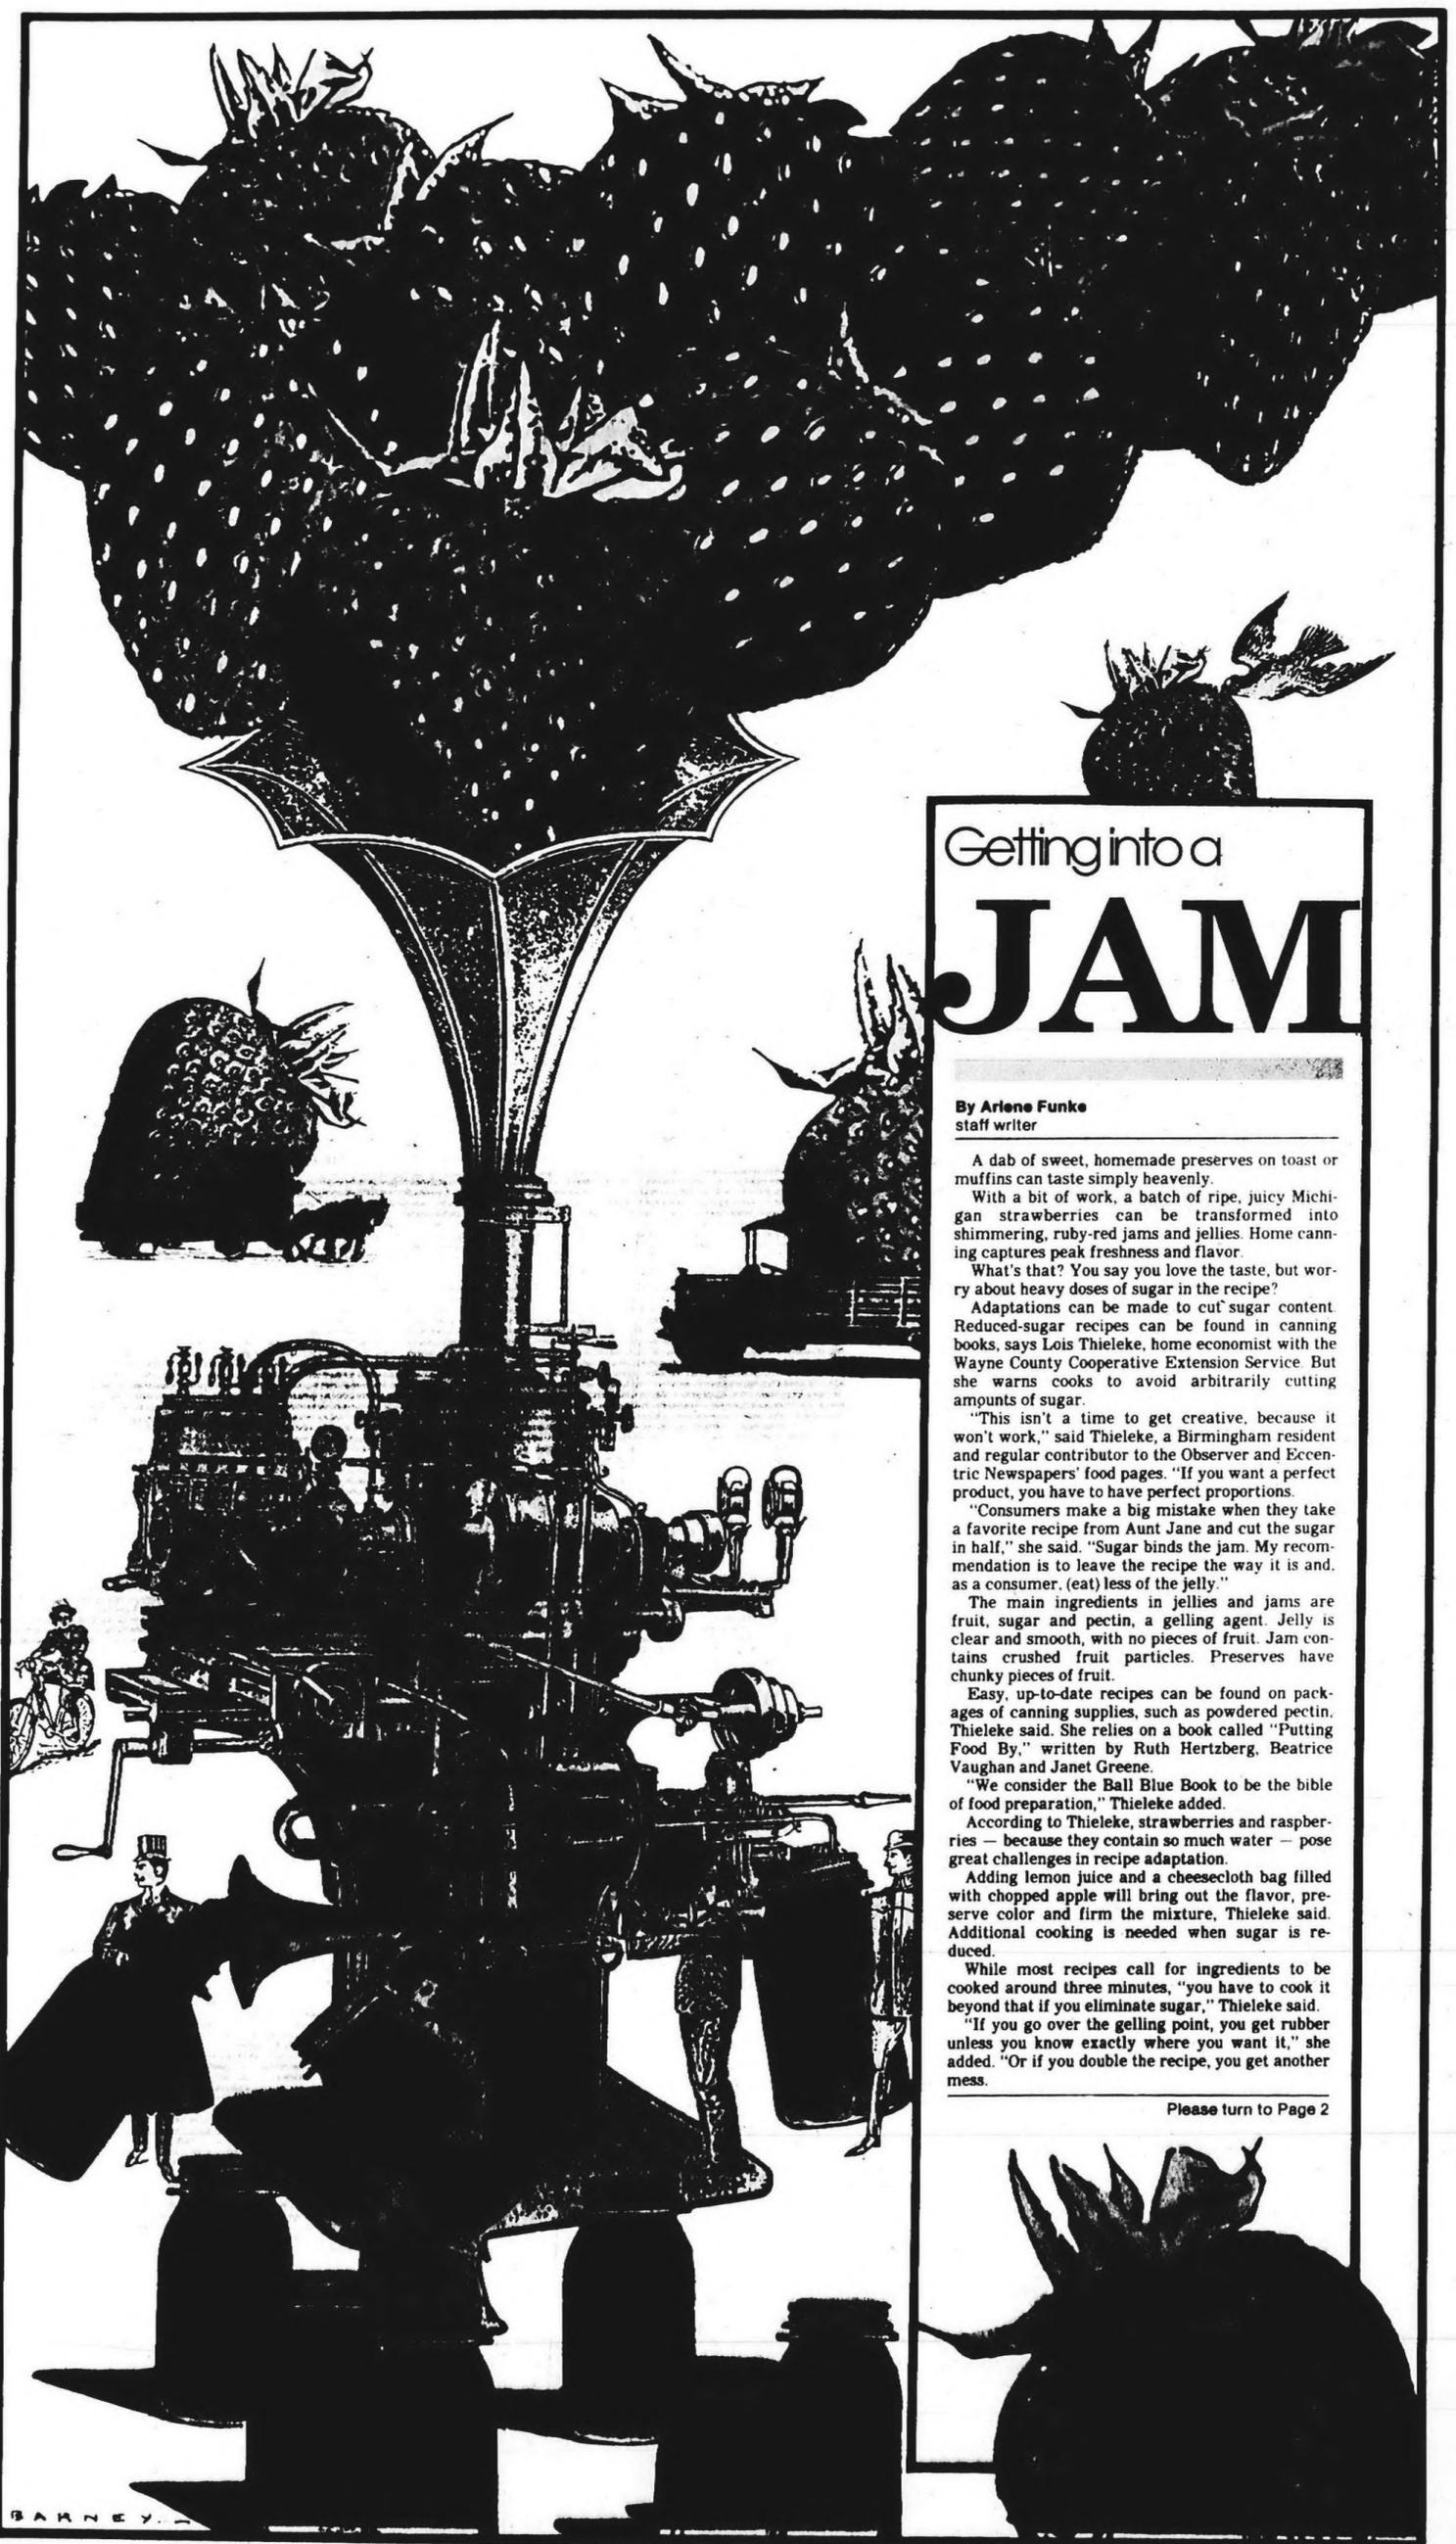

Now the jars are ready to be processed in a water bath. Place them in the large, deep corn pot (or whatever) and cover with water by at least one inch. Boil for the time noted in each recipe, when finished, cool to room temperature.

TO TEST for a tight seal, press the center of the lid; if it stays down, the seal is made, but if it pops up, place the jar in the fridge and use within a reasonable amount of time. Finally, label the jars and store in a cool, dry place.

Trust me, it's worth it. Hey, look at it this way, part of your Christmas shopping will already be done!

Bon Appetit!

Getting into a JAM

By Arlene Funke
staff writer

A dab of sweet, homemade preserves on toast or muffins can taste simply heavenly.

With a bit of work, a batch of ripe, juicy Michigan strawberries can be transformed into shimmering, ruby-red jams and jellies. Home canning captures peak freshness and flavor.

What's that? You say you love the taste, but worry about heavy doses of sugar in the recipe?

Adaptations can be made to cut sugar content. Reduced-sugar recipes can be found in canning books, says Lois Thieleke, home economist with the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service. But she warns cooks to avoid arbitrarily cutting amounts of sugar.

"This isn't a time to get creative, because it won't work," said Thieleke, a Birmingham resident and regular contributor to the Observer and Eccentric Newspapers' food pages. "If you want a perfect product, you have to have perfect proportions."

"Consumers make a big mistake when they take a favorite recipe from Aunt Jane and cut the sugar in half," she said. "Sugar binds the jam. My recommendation is to leave the recipe the way it is and, as a consumer, (eat) less of the jelly."

The main ingredients in jellies and jams are fruit, sugar and pectin, a gelling agent. Jelly is clear and smooth, with no pieces of fruit. Jam contains crushed fruit particles. Preserves have chunky pieces of fruit.

Easy, up-to-date recipes can be found on packages of canning supplies, such as powdered pectin. Thieleke said. She relies on a book called "Putting Food By," written by Ruth Hertzberg, Beatrice Vaughan and Janet Greene.

"We consider the Ball Blue Book to be the bible of food preparation," Thieleke added.

According to Thieleke, strawberries and raspberries — because they contain so much water — pose great challenges in recipe adaptation.

Adding lemon juice and a cheesecloth bag filled with chopped apple will bring out the flavor, preserve color and firm the mixture, Thieleke said. Additional cooking is needed when sugar is reduced.

While most recipes call for ingredients to be cooked around three minutes, "you have to cook it beyond that if you eliminate sugar," Thieleke said.

"If you go over the gelling point, you get rubber unless you know exactly where you want it," she added. "Or if you double the recipe, you get another mess."

You have to stir constantly and test it so you know it gets to the boiling point. You don't answer the phone or run next door.

Reducing sugar will yield fewer jars of jelly. Lemon juice will bring out the flavor and help preserve the bright color. Thieleke recommends adding one tablespoon lemon juice to each 1 1/2 quarts of strawberries.

Cut pieces of Granny Smith apples, added while the jelly is cooking, will produce a firmer consistency. The apple, which contains pectin, should be tied in a piece of cheesecloth, or you will have applesauce," Thieleke said.

Thieleke draws on personal experience and 11 years of service with the cooperative extension service. She was hired to teach food safety after dozens of people contracted food poisoning at a popular Oakland County Mexican restaurant. The culprit was improperly home-canned sauce ingredients.

With the advent of the growing season, Thieleke will be available to speak at garden clubs and farmers' markets in Oakland County.

Both the Wayne County and Oakland County cooperative extension services have people on staff to answer questions about procedures and food safety. In Wayne County, call 721-6550. In Oakland County, call 858-0897. Hours are 8:30-5 p.m. weekdays.

According to Thieleke, most problems with home-preserved jelly occur when cooks try to double the recipe. The delicate balance between ingredients, cooking times, etc. becomes upset. The mixture fails to gel properly.

"The minute you start (doubling), you will have trouble," Thieleke said.

Thieleke cans jams and jellies, including her favorite strawberry-rhubarb and peach flavors. When her four sons were growing up, the goodies didn't last long. Now, Thieleke gives many of her jellies away as gifts. Despite her expertise, Thieleke recalls a few flops, including a tomato conserve with lemon, which bombed.

She tells callers, distraught because the jelly is runny, to call it ice cream topping or pancake syrup. Chances are it will taste just fine.

Picking is worth effort

By Arlene Funke
Staff writer

Picking your own strawberries can be hard work, but the rewards are fresh and plentiful.

Michigan's strawberry season is a scant monthlong. Depending on the weather, the berries are ripe in early June. Most are gone by July 4th, according to growers.

Western Wayne County has a high concentration of strawberry farms. Michigan-style is U-pick, which means customers provide the labor. Many farms are small, family-run operations, which advertise by word-of-mouth. Customers can follow posted signs.

"We plant early varieties," said Doris Rowe of Rowe's Produce Farm, a 35-acre spread in Belleville, an area known for its predominance in U-pick strawberry farms. "They look real nice."

THIS YEAR'S Belleville Strawberry Festival, which salutes the popular berry, will be June 17-19.

Rowe attributes the area's successful strawberry production to high ground and sandy soil. Growth has been slowed somewhat this season by dry weather and nighttime temperatures in the 40s, she said.

"Wear old clothes and come and enjoy yourself," Rowe said. "We have brochures and supervision in the field for people who haven't picked before. You can drive right to the field."

The Rowe farm, which later will sell sweet corn, tomatoes, beans, melons and fresh peas, sells its strawberries by the pound (one pound equals 1 1/2 quarts of berries). Customers who buy $25 or more of berries receive a free 64-page strawberry cookbook.

Following are some tips and suggestions from farmers. Also included is a partial list of U-pick strawberry farms, culled from "Michigan Country Carousel," a publication available from county cooperative extension services.

- Call ahead before driving out to a U-pick farm. Growers can give hours of operation and picking conditions.
- Confirm prices and if containers are provided. Many growers sell by the quart (1 1/2 pounds). A price of 75 cents per quart would average out to 50 cents per pound.
- Pick in the morning, when weather is cooler. Wear protective shoes and a hat to shield skin from the hot sun. Old clothes, preferably long sleeves and long pants, will protect against insects.

- Children must be supervised. Always check to see what ages are permitted.
- Pick only red berries. Berries with white tips are immature and won't ripen after they're picked.
- Don't squeeze berries, as that will damage the fruit. Leave cap or stem connected.
- Protect berries from direct sunlight. Refrigerate berries and don't wash until time of use. Remove stem after berry is washed so water doesn't seep into the center of the berry.

Have a strawberry jamboree

Celebrate Michigan's bountiful strawberry harvest with these jam and jelly recipes.

SUGAR FREE FREEZER JAM

1 Tb. lemon juice
2 Tb. water
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1 1/2 tsp. cornstarch
2 cups sliced strawberries
1 tsp. cinnamon or nutmeg

Combine lemon juice, water, gelatin and cornstarch in a saucepan. Heat, stirring constantly until gelatin and cornstarch are dissolved. Add sliced (or chopped) berries and cinnamon or nutmeg. Heat to boiling over medium heat, stirring constantly. Boil three minutes. Remove from heat. Pour into hot jars and cover. Let stand until cool. Store in refrigerator. Use within one to two weeks. (Recipe courtesy Cooperative Extension Service.)

MICROWAVE STRAWBERRY JAM

4 cups strawberries, crushed

1 Tb. lemon juice
1/4 cup powdered pectin
3 cups sugar
1/2 tsp. ground coriander (optional)

Combine strawberries, lemon juice and pectin in a 3-quart microwave safe bowl. Cover with plastic wrap or waxed paper and bring to a boil in microwave oven on high setting (about 7 minutes). Remove from oven and stir. Cover and cook 3 minutes in microwave oven and add remaining ingredients. Return uncovered mixture to oven and cook until jam sheets from spoon (about 1 minute). Skim foam. Pour into hot jars, leaving 1/4 inch head space. Adjust caps. Process 10 minutes in a boiling water bath. DO NOT ATTEMPT TO PROCESS IN MICROWAVE OVEN. Yield - 4 eight-ounce jars. NOTE: Microwave ovens don't replace processing jars and spreads in a boiling water bath. They are used to shorten preparation time. (Recipe from Ball Blue Book.)

LOW-SUGAR STRAWBERRY FRUIT SPREAD

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1/4 cup water
3 cups sliced fresh strawberries
3 Tb. sugar
2 Tb. water
1 1/2 Tb. lemon juice

Soften gelatin in 1/4 cup water. Set aside. Combine remaining ingredients in medium saucepan. Bring to boil. Reduce heat and simmer uncovered 8 minutes, stirring frequently. Remove from heat and add gelatin mixture, stirring until gelatin is dissolved. Cool to room temperature. Pour strawberry mixture into sterilized glass jars. Cover tightly. Refrigerate at least 4-6 hours or until mixture is thoroughly chilled. Store in refrigerator up to 1 month. Yield - 3 half pints (about 7 calories per

SPRING JAM

3 cups shredded fresh pineapple
2 cups cut fresh rhubarb
4 cups hulled washed strawberries dash of salt
1/2 cups sugar

Put pineapple in large preserving kettle and cook without added liquid 10 minutes. Add rhubarb, berries and salt. Cook 20 minutes. Add sugar, bring to boil and boil rapidly, stirring frequently, 25 to 30 minutes or until thick. Skim off foam and pour into hot, sterilized jars. Seal with hot paraffin, cover with lids and store in cool place. Yield - 6 half-pint jars. (Recipe courtesy of Belleville Area Chamber of Commerce.)

Calling all salad makers

They're coming in from the kitchens of Redford Township to Bloomfield Hills and several communities in between. Cooks are sharing their favorite recipe or in some cases, several favorite yet distinctly different recipes, for potato salad.

The season of picnics and outdoor barbecues is here - at long last. And we asked our readers last week to share a favorite potato salad recipe.

From now through September, picnic baskets and picnic tables brimming with summer foods will include that old-time summer favorite.

If you have a favorite potato salad recipe, we'd still like to hear from you. Whether mixed with mayonnaise or a homemade special dressing, chock full of crunchy vegetables or basically potato, laden with special herbs or other ingredients, let us know what gives your salad its special zing.

Send your recipe by Friday, June 10, to Taste, Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150. After selecting the most interesting possibilities, we'll test them and taste them.

Our taste-off crew will vote for the ones they like best. The winning recipes will be published in Taste, with prizes for first and second place.

Rouge cash campaign begins

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Those who worked on this year's Rouge Rescue had something their predecessors didn't — knowledge of just how much it would take to restore the heavily polluted river.

"It's going to take money," long-time cleanup booster James Murray told area elected officials Friday, during a conference at the University of Michigan-Dearborn.

Murray, Wayne County director of public works, understated matters considerably.

It will take at least $900 million to clean the Rouge River over the next 20 years, according to a recently completed remedial action plan drafted by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments.

THE REPORT — and those who attended the conference — discussed projects ranging from installation of large sewer interceptors to divert wastes from the river, as well as reducing overflow pollution deposits from outdated combined sewers. What was unspoken was how the competition for state and federal financing may shift the volunteer cleanup's emphasis.

In the past, Rouge Rescue supporters stressed the cleanup as a way to help the river "heal itself" by removing log jams and other impediments to a smoothly flowing Rouge.

But the event's public relations aspect is increasingly coming to the fore.

"What's nice is that people are showing interest," said Denise Radtke, an aide to U.S. Congressman Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth. "People want state aid and federal aid, but it helps if they themselves show interest."

Nor was the political aspect of the Rouge cleanup lost on state Sen. Lana Pollack, D-Ann Arbor, one of the announced challengers to Pursell's Livonia/Plymouth area seat.

Rouge boosters desire to have state and federal sources pick up 40 percent of cleanup costs "sounds very reasonable," Pollack said.

It will take at least $900 million to clean the Rouge River over the next 20 years, according to a recently completed remedial action plan drafted by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments.

Federal and state officials, however, told Rouge boosters that they'll have to work hard for any aid they receive.

"THE ROUGE is going to have to prove its projects are the best," said Kenneth Fenner, regional Environmental Protection Agency water quality chief.

Rouge projects will have to fight for financing alongside other state and federal projects, Fenner said.

In a setback, a federal grant proposal for non-point pollution — runoff from ground, roof and parking lots — was deleted from the budget now before President Reagan.

The Rouge would "be a prime candidate" for non-point grants, if they ever became available, Fenner said.

Rouge boosters expect to receive $133 million in federal construction grants for Wayne and Oakland sewer interceptor improvements, as well as a new Detroit pumping station.

Michigan also stands to receive a $365 million federal start-up grant for a low interest loan program, if the state provides a matching $75 million.

State legislators, including Rep. James Kosteva, D-Canton, said the matching $75 million could be taken from a proposed $800 million bond issue that could face voters in November.

The bond issue would be used for various water and toxic waste cleanup projects, among other projects, Kosteva said.

Meanwhile, EPA officials advised Rouge communities to form a single drainage district, arguing it would improve their chances of receiving federal financing.

clarification

Per student spending figures reported May 30 for Schoolcraft College were based on spring term enrollment figures. Based upon an average of spring, winter and fall terms, Schoolcraft spends about $3,580 per student, roughly akin to per student spending in the Livonia, Garden City and Plymouth-Canton school districts.

Canton crushes No. 1-rated ballclub

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

So that's the best in the state? Well, Plymouth Canton didn't exactly stand there in awe, looking at its shoelaces.

The Chiefs just plain beat up on Kalamazoo Central — the No. 1-ranked team in Class A — Saturday in the Region 1 girls soccer final at Okemos High School, 4-0. The loss was the Maroon Giants' first of the season.

Canton, 15-2-1, will meet Northville at 6 p.m. Wednesday in a state semifinal match at Okemos. The Chiefs lost to the Mustangs 1-0 during the regular season.

Against Kalamazoo Central, 16-1, Canton was on the attack from the opening whistle. If there was a ball to be won, the Chiefs won it. If there was a tackle to be made, Canton made it. Midfield was sovereign territory for the Chiefs.

SHANNON MEATH, Jenny Russell, Lynne

Nichols and Tricia Greenhalge all scored goals for the Chiefs. Michelle Fortier, substituting for the injured Jen Saul (bruised shoulder), picked up the shutout in the Canton net.

"We've played a lot of No. 1 teams in our area," said Canton coach Don Smith. "Granted, they're a tough team, but we're accustomed to that type of play."

Canton not only is accustomed to it Saturday, the Chiefs patented the play. For 39 minutes of the first half, the Chiefs peppered the Maroon Giants goal with shots.

But it wasn't until Meath took a pass in front of the net from Renee Rice and knocked it in with one minute left in the half before Canton scored its first goal. Ayana Nash, who played a strong game up front, engineered the scoring play by controlling a loose ball in the corner and feeding it to Rice.

"That sort of perked us up, you might say," Smith said.

YEAH, LIKE A STRONG cup of coffee in the morning Canton struck for two quick goals in the opening minutes of the second half.

Russell started the offensive rampage, taking a pass from Meath and sending the ball into the net to give Canton a two-goal advantage.

Russell then set up Nichols a few minutes later. Nichols took the pass and blasted a low, hard shot into the corner of the goal from just inside the penalty area.

With a three-goal lead, Canton didn't sit back. Instead, the Chiefs attacked with even more tenacity.

"They really scrap," Smith said. "They want to keep scoring and scoring. They just keep moving."

GREENHALGE PROVIDED the last move for the Chiefs, sending a low shot into the corner of the Kalamazoo Central net. Candi Jones assisted on Canton's fourth tally of the match.

Previous to Greenhalge's goal, Michelle Longrio had a goal called back on an offside whistle.

Fortier had to deal with a few tricky corner kicks. But with Canton's taut backline, the Maroon Giants weren't able to penetrate for many good shots.

The day didn't start off well for Canton. The match started 20 minutes late as a result of one of the team's buses breaking down. Team members then piled into a van driven by an assistant coach.

Also, Friday night was prom night at Plymouth Canton High School. Smith was a tad concerned how his team would come out for Saturday's game.

"I WAS A LITTLE worried about that; you bet your boots I was," he said. "I told them 'I can't tell you not to go. Just exercise a little caution.'"

With the way things turned out Saturday, there might be prom nights all the way to the state championship.

Cashero lifts Rocks to title

By Dan O'Meara staff writer

Fidell Cashero has been considered the No. 2 pitcher on Plymouth Salem's staff the last two years.

But he was Numero Uno all the way Saturday in the Walled Lake Western district tournament.

The senior left-hander pitched a two-hitter in the opener and came back to earn a save in the championship game as the Rocks won their second straight district title.

Cashero was overpowering in the first game, striking out 13 batters, in Salem's 3-0 defeat of Novi. In the seventh inning of the final, he relieved starter and winner Bob Files to nail down a 6-4 win over Plymouth Canton.

"HE HAS BEEN in the shadow of Todd Marion," Salem coach John Gravlin said, "but it doesn't look like he has to stand in that shadow anymore."

In fact, I would say those shadows are probably overlapping now, with Todd not able to pitch."

The Rocks, 21-8, pulled off the two-game sweep without Marion, the team's ace. Due to the continuing soreness in his right elbow, he not only didn't pitch but couldn't play his usual outfield position, though he was the designated hitter in both games.

It's doubtful whether Marion will be able to pitch in the regional tournament Saturday at the Centennial Educational Park complex.

In first-round games, Salem faces Westland John Glenn, the Western Lakes champion, and Taylor Kennedy plays Redford Catholic Central. Both games start at 11 a.m. The final is slated for 1:30 p.m. on the Salem diamond.

"IT WAS REALLY frustrating, sitting on the bench all day," Marion said. "I was so looking forward to pitching today, but that's life and you have to live with it."

"I'm going to give it a lot of rest the next few days and see how it goes. It's been 2½ weeks since I pitched, so I'm getting anxious to get out there again."

But the Rocks are blessed with pitching depth, and they won't have to take a back seat to the other district winners with Cashero leading the way.

After a shaky start, Files went 6½ innings and left after walking two in the seventh. Cashero got his 14th strikeout of the day against Ed Hanna but then hit Ron Groh to load the bases. He extracted himself from the tight spot by getting Ed Bardelli to hit into a game-ending groundout.

Cashero relished the opportunity, recalling that he had "lost to Canton two times and wanted to stick it to them," he said. "I didn't get to do what I wanted to earlier in the season, so I'm glad I could today."

IN THE NOVI game, Cashero got the first seven outs on strikeouts. After Dave Skown's two-out triple in the first inning, he didn't allow another hit until Skown singled in the sixth. That was all the offense for the Wildcats, 16-10.

Novi had a second-and-third situation with one out in the sixth, but Cashero struck out losing pitcher Bernie Fornwald and Doug Justus to end it. He walked the first two batters in the seventh but stopped the Wildcats right there.

"Usually, that's what happens," said Cashero, who has battled occasional control problems during his career. "In the last inning, I was real excited and wanted to get out of it."

"Coach said to let the team make the plays, and I wasn't worried about getting the strikeouts after that. I was trying too hard and it wasn't

THOMAS ARNETT/staff photographer

Fidell Cashero was the key to Salem's district tournament success, pitching a two-hitter in the first game and earning a save while clinching the championship.

necessary."

Cashero gave the premier performance on what was a day dominated by strong pitching. Even the losing pitchers in every game did well.

CANTON'S CHRIS Kennedy went the distance in the final, scattering eight hits, but the Chiefs reverted to making the defensive mistakes that were a problem early in the year. Canton committed seven errors, including four in the fourth when the Rocks upped their lead to 5-2.

"When they make seven errors behind you and you only end up losing 6-4, that tells you something about guts," said Canton coach Fred Crissey of Kennedy's pitching.

"If somebody had made seven errors when I was pitching, the cork would have been pulled. I would have lost it."

"I can't think of a worse defensive effort out of a Canton ballclub," he added, "but we do battle. The kids never stop."

Salem catcher Chris Michalek was 3-for-4 and scored the go-ahead run on an outfield error. Steve Woodard, who had two hits, delivered a bases-loaded single for one RBI.

FILES WAS NEARLY knocked out in the first inning when Canton, 22-7, sent eight men to the plate. Derek Humphries had an RBI single and Bardelli an RBI walk for a 2-1 lead, but the Chiefs failed to do greater damage with the bases full.

Files settled down and hung around until Cashero was called out again, allowing only one hit in the next three innings and six total. He struck out seven and walked six.

"Had he not had that bad inning, I'm sure we wouldn't have had to relieve for him," Gravlin said. "He threw over 100 pitches and, for a reliever by trade, that's way too much."

Joel Riggs had two hits and scored twice for the Chiefs, and Mike Culver belted a solo home run.

Mike Stout had two hits and scored the winning run against Novi on an error. The Rocks added two insurance runs in the sixth, one on Brad Wright's lead-off homer.

MIKE SULAK BAFLED Bloomfield Hills Lahser in the opener, tossing a 3-hitter and striking out 10. He, too, was outstanding on the mound.

The Knights, 14-13, loaded the bases with two out in the second, but Sulak got out of that with a groundout. Lahser had the tying runs on base in the last of the seventh, but Sulak ended the game with a ground-er to third and a strikeout.

"We were struggling early and had a little tournament-itis," said Crissey, marveling at Sulak's complete game, "and he just shut the door when he had to."

Riggs, who was on base every time up, and Learned scored the decisive runs in the first inning when the Lahser first baseman made an error on a ball that would have ended the inning.

Fred Crissey, the only varsity baseball coach in Canton history, has guided the Chiefs to 300 victories in the last 15 years.

No. 300

Crissey attains another milestone as prep coach

By Dan O'Meara staff writer

Under ordinary circumstances, Plymouth Canton's baseball game at Walled Lake Central would have been just another late-season makeup date.

But there was nothing ordinary about the game except for the fact the Chiefs won 16-5, which leads to the unique aspect of this particular contest.

Winning has become the norm at Canton under longtime coach Fred Crissey, and his current group of players presented him with his 300th career victory last Wednesday.

Crissey, in fact, is the only coach the Chiefs have had in the school's 16-year existence.

HE BEGAN CALLING the shots in 1973 when Canton played a JV schedule, and he became the varsity coach the following season, compiling a 300-89 record heading into Saturday's district tournament.

"The thing you have to remember is that it's not mine," Crissey said. "My name goes on it, but it's like Sparky Anderson winning the '84 pennant. A lot of other people are involved."

"It belongs to all the kids who've been in the program, the parents who have supported us over the years."

A key to Canton's amazing success has been the continuity in the coaching staff. Obviously, the fact Crissey has directed the program all along is the biggest reason, but he prefers to acknowledge the contribution of his assistant coaches, of whom there have been few others as well.

baseball

Dave Racer has been Crissey's varsity assistant for the last 10 years, and John Gravlin, now the varsity coach at Plymouth Salem, Mark LaPointe and Frank Gable have served either as JV or freshman coach.

"There's been a consistency of organization, rules and technique," Crissey said. "That really makes a difference. The kids are never confused."

CRISSEY'S VARSITY record averages out to an impressively consistent 20-5 per season. The Chiefs dominated the old Western Six Conference and have won three division titles and one league championship since joining the Western Lakes Activities Association.

Crissey's teams, before the latest weekend action, have won five districts, three regionals and been to the state final once in 1982. The '75 ballclub was 23-4 and ranked No. 1 in the state during the regular season.

"Everyone that beat us has gone on to win the state, so I guess we're good luck in that regard," Crissey said.

And, of course, there have been many talented ballplayers passing through the ranks, and Crissey stopped to reminisce last week about those individuals who contributed along the way.

Hawk trackmen add new twist to athletic success

By Brad Emorys staff writer

There was a time when the Farmington Harrison boys track team couldn't fill every event.

But times have changed as the Hawks came full circle Wednesday at Livonia Church, winning their first-ever Western Lakes Activities Association meet. Six statistical records were set.

At least on this night, Harrison was more than just a football school.

Harrison's Adam Yaverski, an All-Area running back, showed his prowess on the track, tying the W.L.A.A. record in the 200-meter dash (22.5). He also placed second behind Western's John Glenn's Marcus Lowe in the 100-meter dash (1:10).

Yaverski also anchored Harrison's 3,200-meter relay (8:04.3) and 1,600 relay (3:28.0).

Coach Harrison is an all-around athlete. He has coached every body who has ever been a senior captain here. He was waiting for both Yaverski and Pate for Salem all day. We were hoping we had to beat them.

Coach Harrison was peaking when he was in every event. We were hoping we had to beat them.

BUT HARRISON rested easy. Well, he was the most successful, wrapping up the meet before the final event had begun.

The Hawks scored 97 points with Salem gaining second with 74. Church in the Western Division dual meet championship finished third with 52.

Mercy tracksters 3rd

Farmington Mercy had two second places and finished third in the Catholic League portion of the Operation Friendship track and field meet Saturday, May 28.

Kathleen Gerick was runnerup in the 1,600-meter run with a 5:29.0 time and was in the second-place 3,200 relay team. Noelle Gates, Carrie Walton, Heather Sullivan and Gerick, who had a 2:25.0 split time, ran 10:04.0.

Walton also was third in the 3,200 run at 12:17.0, and Charese Sanders took third in the shot put with a throw of 35 feet 4 1/2 inches.

Walton, a freshman who was the team's leading scorer with 73 1/2 points, was named the Martins' most valuable athlete. She was Mercy's only individual champion in the Catholic League meet.

Gerick, another freshman, was second in points scored with 72 1/2. Sophomore Jeanette Turner was named most improved.

Turner went from the low 90s to 105-6 in the discus and increased her shot put distance from the mid 20s to 31-0.

and LaMar Crayton were clocked in 44.5. The Rocks scored high in the other three relays, also taking a second, third and fifth.

After the field events I told our kids that if we could nickel and dime them all over, we'd have some change left for dinner. Salem coach Gary Balconi said, "We were glad to have the heat because we're the type of team that uses people all over. I'm proud of everybody."

All told, four meet records fell, two were tied and another was established.

ONE OF the most impressive performances was turned in by Walled Lake Western junior Brian Grasso, who clipped the 3,200 record by almost eight seconds in 9:25.5. He also won the 1,600 in 4:21.4.

But the talk of the track was Harrison.

Farmington Harrison won it on depth and good performances. Glenn coach Richard Gordon said, "It's an extremely tough meet. You can't take anything away from them."

Churchill coach Fred Price, whose team defeated Harrison by a point in a dual meet last week, also lauded the newly crowned champions.

"I'm impressed by Harrison," he said. "They had a nice meet and they scored heavy. They earned it."

Maybe we had a letdown after our big win over them. And it's a big win now since they are the league champions.

Harrison is the league champion for sure. And this time it came in track, not in football.

John Stormzand/staff photographer Roger Trice of Canton is the Western Lakes champion in the long jump. He leaped 21-8, one foot farther than Brian Soeder of Harrison.

Chiefs give Crissey 300th victory

There was Brian Stemberger, the first all-stater in '75, and Tommy Close, the first Canton player to sign a pro contract, the following year. Stemberger, a shortstop who became a pitcher in college, played at Eastern Michigan and spent five years with the Toronto Blue Jays. Close, a catcher, was a fourth-round pick of the Kansas City Royals in the '76 draft and used his bonus money to earn a computer science degree in the offseason.

AND THERE WAS Scott Collins, a two-time all-stater who earned All-Big Eight honors at Missouri; Brian James, an All-Big Ten pitcher at Michigan State and, most recently, Steve Waite, who just finished his freshman season at EMU.

"But I remember a lot of guys that people never heard of," Crissey said, "guys that didn't start but were an integral part of the ballclub." (His wife) Janice and I get a tremendous charge out of going to weddings and seeing (former players) down the line who've made it in life, who are contributing to society."

As a prep athlete himself, Crissey was an all-state pitcher at St. Benedict High School in Highland Park and later returned to coach five years there.

Crissey won a baseball scholarship to the University of Detroit and pitched four years for the Titans. Afterward he was drafted — by the U.S. Army. He had signed with the old Brooklyn Dodgers and was playing in their minor league system at the time

Having been in the Marine Corps officers program while in college, he was scooped up by that branch of the military instead. However, he spent most of the next three years playing baseball for a service team in San Diego.

AFTERWARD, CRISSEY began his teaching and coaching career that eventually took him to Plymouth/Canton. He teaches English and social studies at Central Middle School.

"If it hadn't been for baseball, I wouldn't have gotten an education," he said. "It was due to the fact I was able to play baseball that I got into a university situation."

Becoming a teacher-coach provided him with the opportunity to reciprocate and help the next generation of ballplayers. As Crissey said, "Then it was payback time."

"I think it's one of the few things you can do as an adult to make a contribution to kids," he said. "In coaching, you're dealing with highly motivated, goal-oriented kids who are looking to achieve."

Canton will undoubtedly continue to have successful baseball teams since Crissey has no plans to leave coaching, but he downplays his role in the program.

"We've built a real solid program here with a lot of people," he said.

"And if I were to walk out of here tomorrow, there wouldn't be a lot of difference."

AS FOR WEDNESDAY'S game, the Chiefs were certainly motivated to win No. 300 for their coach, scoring the last 10 runs to expand a 6-5 lead.

Ed Bardelli was 3-for-4, knocked in four runs and scored three. Scott Browne hit a two-run homer. Kevin Learned was 2-for-2 with two RBI and Mike Culver's two hits and three RBI included a two-run double.

The Chiefs gave winning pitcher Bob Ford a 6-0 lead, though the Vikings closed to within a run before Ed Hanna entered in relief. Hanna pitched the last five innings, struck out six and walked two for a save.

SOCCER MEETING

Plymouth Canton's boys soccer team will have an organizational meeting at 6 p.m. Tuesday, June 14, in the lobby of Canton High School.

The meeting is open to all boys in grades 9-12 who are interested in playing soccer next fall. For information, call coach Mike Morgan at 929-6107.

SKATING HOPEFUL

Ron Miller of Plymouth was among a group of 21 elite roller skaters competing in the U.S. Roller Skating World Outdoor Trials last month at the Olympic Training Center in Colorado Springs, Colo.

The top six men and women will go on to compete in a second competition in July, and four will be chosen to compete in the World Championships in Milan, Italy, in September.

Miller, 22, has competed in four national championship events, with one gold medal, two silvers and one bronze. He has competed in speed roller skating for 13 years and is a member of the Riverside Striders.

Miller is the son of Shirley Miller and a graduate of East Aurora High School in Aurora, Ill.

SOCCER TRYOUTS

The Plymouth Kicks will conduct tryouts for its 1977 boys soccer team on Monday, June 6, and Tuesday, June 7, at 6:30 p.m. The tryouts will take place at the Burroughs Field (Plymouth and Haggerty). For information, call Jim Duffy at 455-4804 or Tony Derhake at 459-7057.

Plymouth boys wanting to try out for the Plymouth Kicks 1979 soccer team should call Duane Warden at 459-2838.

Canton Soccer Club is accepting registration for the '88 fall season through Friday, July 1. A first-time youth registrant must bring a copy of his/her birth certificate.

Registration fees are: $20 per Pee Wee (under 8) or adult player; $30 per Great Lakes Travel player (includes $10 uniform charge); $30 per Premier player; $70 maximum fee per family (adult players and uniform charge excluded).

Registration will take place at the Canton Parks and Recreation Department from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, until Friday, July 1, or at the Canton Township Hall on Saturday, June 11, and Saturday, June 18, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Canton Soccer Club will have tryouts for its Little Caesars Premier teams for the 1988-89 fall/spring season, according to the following schedule:

1978 boys: June 6, 8 and 10, Griffin Park; 1977 boys: June 7, CRC No. 3; 1976 boys: June 13, 14 and 15, CRC No. 8; 1977-78 girls: June 14 and 16, CRC No. 9; under-19 girls: June 7 and 9, Flodin Field. All tryout times are 6-8 p.m.

For information call Roscoe Nash Jr. (459-0578), Jerry Parent (455-5139) or Don Kearney (397-8220).

Tryouts for the Plymouth under-19 girls select team will be 6-8 p.m. Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, June 12-14, at the Hines Park soccer field.

The team will participate in the II-litch Division of the Little Caesars League and a number of tournaments, also. For information call coach John Boots at 344-0831 or Roy Larner at 455-1227.

Plymouth Soccer Club will have tryouts for its 1977-78 Little Caesars Premier team 6-8 p.m. on Monday and Tuesday, June 13 and 14, at East Middle School. For information call Karen Majeo at 453-2254 or Scott Rezahek at 455-7948.

Tryouts for the Plymouth Soccer Club's 1975-76 and 1973-74 girls Little Caesars Premier teams will be 6-8 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday, June 15 and 16, at East Middle School. For information call Marilyn Goff at 459-1804 or Frank Carey at 459-0824.

TENNIS TOURNAY

The Third Annual Singles Tennis Tournament, sponsored by the Canton Parks and Recreation Department, will be played July 8-10 on the Plymouth Canton High School tennis courts.

Tennis players who want to participate should call Kristen Harrison of the Parks and Recreation Department at 397-5110.

GOLF SCRAMBLE

The Eighth Annual Canton "Scrambles" Golf Tournament is scheduled for 11 a.m. Sunday, June 19, at Fellows Creek Golf Course.

The fee is $54 per three-person team. The deadline for entering is Thursday, June 16. The tournament is open to all area golfers.

Awards will be given to the top three teams as well as the winners of the longest-drive and closest-to-the-pin contests. For information, call 397-5110 between 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Checks should be made payable to Canton Township.

TITANS STOPPED

All University of Detroit's baseball team needed was one win in its final two games, and it would qualify for the NCAA tournament. It didn't happen.

Evansville swept a doubleheader from the Titans on the final day of the Midwestern Collegiate Conference tournament, sending them to the sidelines with a final-season record of 31-24.

Still, it was a solid season for U-D. Several local players helped make it so, including junior pitcher Mark Coburn from Canton. The lefthander was one of the Titans most effective pitchers, compiling a 6-1 mark with a 3.74 earned run average. His final win of the season came in U-D's MCC tournament opener, a 7-6 victory over Evansville.

Two other starters who enjoyed solid seasons were freshman first baseman Lance Sullivan of Westland (Livonia Churchill) and sophomore shortstop Dennis Bushart of Redford (Union).

Sullivan batted 294 with 13 doubles, three triples, three home runs and 40 runs batted in. Bushart hit 250 with six doubles, three triples, three homers and 31 RBI and was strong in the field, making 15 errors in 52 games for a .944 fielding average.

Some part-time players made big-time contributions for U-D. Catchers Dwayne Bennett, a junior from Canton, and Mike Stefanski, a freshman from Redford (Union), played well. Bennett batted 340 with three doubles and 11 RBI in 29 games, while Stefanski hit 286 with two doubles and 11 RBI in 32 games.

Other local contributors: freshman infielder Rick Tavormina of Westland (John Glenn), 239 one-homers, nine RBI sophomore right-handed pitcher Pat Miller of Redford (Union), 3-2 record with a 7.13 ERA.

NOTABLES

Denice Tackett, a freshman on U-D's softball team, was named to the All-MCC tournament second team. The Lady Titans won the MCC tourney title with three straight wins, earning their second-straight league championship. They finished with a 29-16 record.

Norm Dickson, a sophomore from Livonia (Redford Catholic Central), and Dan Janssen, a senior from Redford (Union), helped U-D's golf team enjoy a fine spring.

Communities: Landfill deadline 'impossible'

By Janice Brunson
staff writer

City officials in three suburban communities have yet to move on a proposal that prohibits the use of Wayne County landfills if trash levels in the communities are not cut 75 percent by Jan. 1, 1991.

Officials from Plymouth, Livonia and Redford Township say plans to reduce trash levels are "on hold" or are not "in full swing" because solutions are complicated, costly and time consuming.

"This is not something you do overnight. We all know the problems and the approaches to the problems. The real question is, are the communities in Wayne County going to be able to meet the target date?" asked supervisor Maurice Breen of Plymouth Township.

Under the proposal, unveiled this spring by Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara, communities must adopt plans to cut solid waste trash levels by 1991 to continue use of county landfills. Communities must implement plans by 2000.

"Nobody disagrees with the proposal. But without new incinerators and unless recycle markets are developed, it's impossible to meet," Breen said.

Township trustees have assigned a committee to look into the issue but aside from that, "we have done nothing more," Breen said.

COMPLICATING THE ISSUE "all the cards really haven't fallen yet," according to Robert Beckley, director of Livonia Public Service, referring to possible expansion of existing area landfill sites by Wayne County and the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

"We are looking at various options to reduce solid waste, such as a small incinerator within city limits," Beckley said. But until county and state plans are known, "we're not really in full swing" in solving the issue.

Livonia contracted last year with a private firm, Waste Management, for trash disposal. The company, which Beckley said has no recycling programs, hauls the city's trash 10 miles to a landfill site in Van Buren.

Currently, Wayne County generates half of the total trash accumulated in Michigan, some 17 tons a day, according to Robert Line, municipal manager for Browning Ferris Industries in Livonia.

Browning Ferris, an international firm that collects and disposes of trash, uses two area landfill sites, one in South Lyon and another in Salem.

"Solutions are not easy, and they rank right up there in popularity with prisons," said Line who has been in the trash disposal business for 15 years.

Until new facilities are developed — landfill sites, waste energy plants, recycling markets and incinerators — area communities will be unable to comply with McNamara's proposal, according to Line.

"THERE NEEDS to be a mix of solutions. But they take time and nobody wants landfills or incinerators in their communities. Recycle markets are the least volatile solution but they cost money to develop and there has to be a market for them," Line said.

Browning Ferris provides trash disposal for Garden City and has a contract with Redford Township until 1999, according to Leo Snage, director of Redford Public Service. The 11 years remaining in the contract buys Redford Township time.

"We're not overly involved with (the issue of reducing) solid waste at this time. We're not under any major pressures. We're not at the panic stage," Snage said, adding the issue is not under consideration by township officials.

Westland and Garden City are also free of immediate concern, according to Arthur Waitala, director of public service for Westland, and Jon Austin, Garden City Manager.

Both communities are part of the five-community Central Wayne County Sanitation Authority, which recently resumed incinerator operations. The authority burns 500 tons of trash daily and magnetically separates some 400 long tons of metal each month from the burned debris for recycling.

"We have more than met McNamara's criteria," Waitala said, estimating trash levels in Westland and Garden City have been reduced more than 75 percent with incineration.

AN ADDITIONAL 300 tons of solid waste could be incinerated daily by the authority if an unused incinerator at the facility were refurbished at an estimated cost of $5.5 million, according to Rich Bauser, authority executive director.

The cost, he said, is minor compared to the cost of building a new facility.

Bauser believes area communities can meet McNamara's proposals providing existing disposal facilities are expanded or new facilities are built.

But burning, recycling and the like are only part of the solution. Public participation is essential, he said, citing the effort by Americans during World War II when tin cans were cleaned and flattened for reuse in the war effort.

Canton Township is using an $11,100 grant from the Clean Michigan Fund to educate the public about recycling and to establish a recycling center, according to the Kim Scherschling of the township.

The center, which will be operated by an Ann Arbor-based recycling firm, will dispose of glass, newspaper, cement and landscape debris.

ADVERTISING

There are two basic types of advertisements in The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers:

DISPLAY

These ads are found in the main sections of the paper and are billed at a column-inch rate. We will provide layout, typesetting, and copywriting if you need it, at no additional charge.

Photos and additional artwork are available for a fee.

Our representatives will be happy to visit your place of business and discuss a marketing strategy with you, along with information pertaining to deadlines, contract rates, research data, and upcoming special supplements. Our display telephones are:

644-1100 in Oakland
591-2300 in Wayne

Monica DiCola heads our Retail Advertising department in Oakland (644-1100 ext. 348) and Mark Lewis is our Wayne County Retail Manager (591-2300 ext. 469).

CLASSIFIED

These ads are found in the Classified sections of the papers and are placed in columns under the appropriate classification for the item that is to be bought or sold. They are billed at a line rate. Our Classified telephone lines are open daily from 8:00 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday and from 8:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m. Friday. Call:

644-1070 in Oakland
591-0900 in Wayne
852-3222 in Rochester/Rochester Hills

Our computerized classified phone system will route your call to one of our ad takers. We suggest that you jot down what you would like to say before calling and have your Visa or Mastercard ready if you plan to use one of them.

Classified ads are also available in display format for Real Estate and Automotive clients and are billed at an inch rate. To arrange for a classified display ad call:

644-1100 in Oakland
591-2300 in Wayne

Jack Padley manages our Classified department (591-2300 ext. 487).

Dick Brady directs all advertising and promotion for The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers; 591-2300 ext. 400.

EDITORIAL

Ever wonder who to call when you have a question or comment about what you've read in your hometown newspaper?

Perhaps you've wondered how to let us know about news or photo tips?

All news tips should be called to the community editor at the telephone number listed below. If you receive no answer, call The Observer, 591-2305 or The Eccentric, 644-1101.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editorials are published every Thursday. The lead editorial is written by the community editor. Editorials printed below the lead are written by a member of the editorial department. To reach the community editor, call the number listed. To reach the county editorial staff, call the appropriate number. All letters to the editor must be legibly written and signed. Please restrict letters to 300 words. We reserve the right to condense any letter and may refuse publication.

CLUB AND FASHION SHOW NOTICES

Notices of club activities appear in the Thursday Suburban Life section. All notices must be written legibly and received by 5 p.m. Monday to be included in Thursday's paper. If you have questions, please call the appropriate Suburban Life editor.

BUSINESS NEWS

591-2300 Ext. 325

The business section is published Thursdays. In addition to the story coverage and columns, the section contains several calendars: BUSINESS PEOPLE covers promotions, internal awards and retirements for anyone living or working in our circulation area. We will print photographs if space permits. DATEBOOK covers upcoming meetings and courses of interest to business people. MARKETPLACE briefly covers new businesses, new products and other business-related items. Submit items for these in writing by 5:00 p.m. Monday. For these calendars, call Barry Jensen (ext. 325). For all other items, call Marilyn Fitchett, 591-2300.

WEDDINGS, ENGAGEMENTS, ANNIVERSARIES

We publish photographs and announcements of weddings, engagements and major anniversaries of local residents or former local residents. These appear as soon as possible, depending upon available space. Forms for announcing these events are available from any of our local offices, or you may model your announcement on an example you've read in the newspaper. The best reproduction can be made from a 5" x 7" black and white photo, but others will do. Please avoid regular or color Polaroid pictures.

PHOTOGRAPHS

Reprints of photographs that appear in the paper are not available. However, if a photograph is used and not needed for our files, it will be made available to the first person calling in. Such photographs will be held in any of our offices for two months, awaiting pickup. To inquire about a photograph, please call the editor who ran the picture, i.e.: Sports, Suburban Life, Entertainment, Creative Living, News.

RELIGION

Religious news is published Thursdays. The religion calendar is published on these pages. Calendar deadline is Monday noon. All material must be in writing. For more information, call your local suburban life editor.

OBITUARIES

We publish obituaries of local residents and former local residents. Most obituary information is received from area funeral homes. If a local funeral home is not involved, please call the community editor at the appropriate telephone number. All obituaries appear at the discretion of the community editor. Obituaries are printed without charge.

CREATIVE LIVING

News of the arts appears every Thursday. Deadline for notices of gallery shows (which must be legibly written) is 5:00 p.m. Monday. For more information, call the appropriate Creative Living editor.

ENTERTAINMENT

591-2300 Ext. 305

Entertainment pages appear Thursday and include feature stories, theater and other entertainment reviews, TABLE TALK restaurant news column, and the UPCOMING calendar, which deadlines each Thursday (for items to appear the following Thursday). Submit all information to Ethel Simmons, entertainment editor.

MOVIE REVIEWS

591-2300 Ext. 302

All questions about movie reviews, which appear every Monday in our STREET SCENE section, should be directed to Sue Mason.

STEPHEN CANTRELL/staff photographer

Livonia resident Carrie Cunningham, a nationally ranked junior, concentrates as she swings at the ball.

By Janice Brunson
staff writer

In 1973, Billie Jean King and Bobby Riggs staged a tennis spectacular in the Houston Astrodome, a theatrical match that pitted female athlete against male in a test of wit and athletic prowess.

The event caught the attention of the nation. At the same time, Chris Evert and Jimmy Connors became two of the first Americans to rank tops in worldwide tennis competition, capturing the hearts of Americans who readily identify with winners.

Seemingly overnight, tennis became the athletic sensation of the era, the premiere physical endeavor undertaken by both the talented and the not so talented, the young and the old, male and female.

The early 1970s were a heady time, the glory years in the world of tennis when interest in and devotion to the game peaked in the United States, according to area tennis buffs.

California, Florida and, surprisingly enough, Michigan became acknowledged national centers for the sport, producing on the average more world-class tennis champions than other parts of the country, according to these same buffs.

In addition, countless amateurs flocked to tennis clubs springing up in Palm Beach, Santa Monica and the Bloomfields, whiling away long hours thumping tennis balls back and forth.

"INTEREST PEAKED in the 1970s, at least the first part of the 1970s," according to Leon Crimmins who

DOWNSWING

Tennis bounces with trends manages one of the last remaining clubs in the area devoted exclusively to tennis, Centaur Racquet Club in West Bloomfield.

By the late 1970s, however, interest in the sport started to wane, settling into a steady level of participation the past decade, Crimmins said. He has been in the business seven years, both in Michigan and elsewhere.

Rick DuRei, manager of the Grand Slam Tennis Club sponsored since 1973 by the Livonia YMCA said business has been "quite slow" until recently, even though it is one of only a very few clubs in southwestern Wayne County.

Business has picked up enough the past two years to consider expanding the club's five indoor and six outdoor courts, DuRei added.

Franklin Racquet Club in Southfield, the largest and possibly oldest tennis club in Oakland County, reflects changing trends in tennis interest.

When construction began in 1969, four indoor courts were planned. Before construction was completed, four additional courts had already been added in response to customer demand.

By 1976, the year tennis buffs agree interest peaked, Franklin boasted 20 courts, each filled 100 percent to capacity, according to Joseph Chalmers who joined the staff the following year.

But by 1977, "people were tiring of indoor tennis. Like all fads, interest waned and the sport declined," Chalmers said.

THE EARLY 1980s saw club owners targeting new markets, tennis players interested in honing playing technique and competing in amateur tournaments.

"This segment of the market is now the backbone of the business," Chalmers said, especially cultivation of the young player who it is hoped will become tomorrow's devoted fan.

Clubs also expanded into other revenue-producing areas. Racquet ball courts appeared briefly, "a bright flame that quickly burned out," Chalmers said, followed by health fitness centers and other sports facilities.

Some clubs, like Bloomfield Tennis House in Troy, failed to survive the transition. A few, like Centaur, survived without diversifying facilities.

"Considering our climate, this area has remained one of the hot beds of tennis in the country," said Crimmins, adding the game is particularly popular in West Bloomfield. "We have high, high interest."

Most clubs, however, survived by offering a wider variety of activity, moving from exclusively tennis clubs to multi-sport centers.

Beverly Hills Racquet and Health Club is a case in point.

"WE'VE ALWAYS been on the cutting edge of change," said manager Tom McCarthy who has been with the club since it opened in 1973. "I've seen all the changes."

Beverly Hills, once a club with a dozen special synthetic-clay courts, is now an 85,000-square-foot enclosed facility offering both tennis and racquet ball, a fitness center, basketball and track.

"People do more than one thing now. They enjoy a variety of activities. Things aren't so faddish. Clubs had to diversify."

As clubs expanded, membership changed, appealing to a wider segment of the population than the typically upscale tennis player who enjoys exercising in a relaxed

Spas send soothing sensations melting away chills, anxieties

By Bill Casper
staff writer

Spring has finally delivered us from cold man winter's unrelenting grip. But let's dare to ponder the unthinkable — and you may never fear the frozen earth again.

Imagine a dark, mid-December's night. The crisp air is easy to breathe and see against a black backdrop. There's an eerie, yet tranquil stillness as a light snow silently falls.

Everyone in the neighborhood is deep in hibernation. Except you. You're outside on an enclosed patio behind your house, wearing nothing save a bathing suit, maybe less.

THE FROSTY AIR reddens your face, but it does not sting your nose or bite your ears. You're floating, comfortably warm and totally relaxed — immersed to your neck in a

"It's very relaxing and helps relieve tension and soreness from your body."

— John Wilkie
spa owner

large pool of hot, bubbling water that is pulsating and swirling around you as crystal flakes of white powder melt on contact.

You may not be alone. You may have a friend, or two or six sharing this exhilarating, potentially X-rated, experience.

All you need is a hot tub, a.k.a. spa, and this Hollywood fantasy becomes real — except on the West Coast where snow is but a rumor.

This soothing, sensual, almost sinful California-style leisure is becoming increasingly popular in warmer climes as much for its sheer pleasure as for its therapeutic value the year round, inside or outside.

Just ask a portable spa owner.

"It's the next best thing to a couple of martinis," said John Wilkie, 44, an architect living in Grosse Ile. "It's very relaxing and helps relieve tension and soreness from your body. My wife and two sons (ages 15 and 21) enjoy using spas in hotels while we're on vacation and they urged me to buy one. I did some research and bought a Hot Springs Spa for about $4,500.

"We had it installed inside our home two or three months ago and we all use it at least once a day," he said. "It's a beautiful piece of equipment, complete with a lounge chair and massager. We can move it anywhere we want it. It's easy to operate and maintain."

OR ASK A retailer.

"Spas can prolong life," claims Allen Brody, director of sales and marketing for California Comfort Spa and Sauna Co., with retail outlets in Southfield, Rochester and Ann Arbor. "The reason they gained popularity in California is because of the testimonials by doctors of their therapeutic benefits. People over 60 use them for therapy."

"The normal spa can seat an average of four to six persons and they're easy to install anywhere, inside or outside," he said. "Some people use them all year round, some only use them during the summer, others only during the winter."

But it's taken a little longer for these fountain-of-youth spas to catch on outside of California.

People think it's too cold to use spas in cold weather, but there's

Funny Farm B PG 105 min

A cute comedy about New Yorker Chevy Chase who moves to the country to write a book. Anything that goes wrong does. Its a little long but will keep you smiling. Reviewed by Cathy Guyer.

Jack's Back B R 92 minutes

A modern-day Jack the ripper stalks Los Angeles in this riveting mystery. It's an old story with interesting original twists that will shock and surprise you until the unexpected ending. Reviewed by Cathy Guyer.

Big A PG 98 minutes

A shy 12-year-old boy's wish is granted when he wakes up one morning in a man's body. In this appealing comedy Tom Hanks skillfully captures the innocent, childlike qualities and gestures of a 12-year-old trying to live in an adult world. Reviewed by Cathy Guyer.

"Bitou Blues" B- (PG-13) 105 minutes

Eugene Jerome Matthew Broderick learns about life — Army and otherwise — in this nice period piece set in a Biloxi, Mississippi boot camp 1945. Good performance by Christopher Walken as tough-but-sensitive sergeant whipping raw recruits into shape.

"Casual Sex" (C) (R)

Changing social and sexual attitudes is the advertised topic of this film whose title should sell a few tickets.

"Colors" F (R) 120 minutes

Trite racially offensive film about veteran cop (Robert Duvall) and young cop (Sean Penn) in Los Angeles battling with gangs.

"Crocodile Dundee II" (C) (PG) 110 minutes

Dundee (Paul Hogan) is "experiencing" New York while living with journalist Sue (Linda Kozlowski). They get involved with Colombian drug dealers but Dundee saves the day and winks Sue off to Australia. It's cute, but not like the original! Reviewed by Jennifer Morse.

"Dominick & Eugene" (A+) (PG-13) 105 minutes

A totally absorbing story of brotherly love. Tom Hulce puts in an Academy-Award performance as the "slow" brother who works on a garbage truck to help put his twin, Ray Liotta, through medical school. You'll laugh, you'll cry, you'll love it.

"The Fox and the Hound" (A) (G) 80 minutes

Animated Disney film about unusual friendship between young fox and hunting hound. An array of talking forest creatures make this a typical, enjoyable Disney film.

Grading the movies

A+	Top marks - sure to please
A	Close behind - excellent
A-	Still in running for top honors

"Friday the 13th, Part VII - The New Blood" (C) (R)

Jason is back for number seven — the question is whether that is good luck for him, the audience or the producers, who continue to rake it in with this series.

"Good Morning Vietnam" (A) (R) 120 minutes

Non-stop Robin Williams at his very best as Armed Forces Radio DJ in Vietnam.

"The Last Emperor" (A) (PG-13) 125 minutes

Bernardo Bertolucci's stunning presentation of the epic tale of China's last emperor, Pu Yi. A fascinating story of survival through two world wars and Mao's Communist takeover of mainland China.

"The Manchurian Candidate" (R) (PG-13)

Based on a story by noted Sci-Fi writer Isaac Asimov.

They may not make movies like they used to, but they do re-release the old ones. This 1962 all-star espionage thriller features Frank Sinatra, Laurence Harvey, Angela Lansbury and Janet Leigh. Worth the trip to your local film house.

"Milagro Beanfield War" (C) (R)

Robert Redford returns to the director's chair in this story of a courageous New Mexican farmer. With Ruben Blades, Richard Bradford, Sonia Braga and Daniel Stern.

"Moonstruck" (A+) (PG) 102 minutes

Cher as a 37-year-old Italian widow in Brooklyn about to remarry. She's terrific, and Nicolas Cage, Vincent Gardenia and Danny Aiello are great in this pure distillation of the American ethnic shtick.

"Nightfall" (C) (PG-13)

Based on a story by noted Sci-Fi writer Isaac Asimov.

"Rambo III" (C+) (R) 100 minutes

Who sez they don't make 'B' movies anymore? They do but with 'A' budgets. Stallone's macho heroics, destroying Russians in Afghanistan are mistimed for release now as Soviets pull out. But not bad for what it is.

"Salsa" (C) (PG)

If the son of La Bamba meets the daughter of Dirty Dancing.

"School Daze" (D) (R) 120 minutes

Director/Writer Spike Lee ("She's Got to Have It") tries to do it all in two hours with a comic-spoof-satire-musical mockery of black college life.

"The Seventh Sign" (C) (R)

Demi Moore and Jurgen Prochnow in a occult, apocalyptic thriller.

atmosphere while socializing with friends.

Racquet ball appeals to more ordinary people because it's cheaper and easier, according to Chalmers. "It's a purely jock endeavor. There is no social aspect at all. People tend to get sweaty."

Those interested in self improvement, people Chalmers said are ambitious, competitive and on the move up, enjoy the "fixed venue" of physical fitness centers, aerobic exercise and weight lifting.

Members are also older, according to McCarthy, who said low impact, synthetic-clay courts were installed at Beverly Hills for the 50- and 60-year-old player.

"As baby boomers age, so does the tennis population. People are finding they can play well into their 60s."

There are also more younger players. Clubs are more family oriented and cater to the younger set.

BEVERLY HILLS, again aiming for the "cutting edge" of change, recently installed Future Force, physical fitness facilities scaled down in size to fit youth ages 6 to 14 years.

"It's a whole new trend, acquainting kids with fitness," said McCarthy, adding the club has long included "tennis to fitness, music, and aerobics" in its program.

Nearly all clubs offer junior tennis programs for 3 to 18 year olds, individualized training and coaching from which world class athletes and tomorrow's tennis stars emerge.

Over 300 youths are active in the Franklin club program. Beverly Hills has some 200 members, including current state high school champion Elizabeth Nau of Bloomfield Hills.

Centaur's program has produced top-ranking amateurs like Amy Frazier, 16, of Rochester, Carrie Cunningham, 16, of Livonia and Kori Davidson, 14, of Farmington Hills. All three rank in the top five nationally for their age groups.

Juniors need not be members of clubs to participate in the programs. Otherwise, participation is by membership or as the guest of a member.

Fees vary from club to club, depending on the type of membership and use. Franklin Racquet Club and the YMCA's Tennis Club charge both membership fees and monthly dues. Franklin's one-time membership fee ranges from $300 to $500. The Y charges $70 annually, which entitles the user to any Y activity.

Monthly dues are normally prorated for additional family members. An individual membership at Centaur is $75 monthly, $135 for two and $175 for a family of four.

Beverly Hills charges $53 monthly for a single full-service membership or $21 monthly for a tennis membership, plus fees of $6 to $19 an hour for court use, depending on the time of day.

Tina Marcaccio (left), keyboards; Randy Martin, bass and vocals; Ramsey Gouda, vocals and guitar; Tom Campbell, drums and vocals; and Marty Heger, saxophone and vocals, all work to make The Difference sound different.

Bass sends accountant flying on stage with acclaimed group

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

By day, Randy Martin makes sure his No. 2 lead pencil jibes with the numbers he's laying down on his calculator.

By night, Martin makes sure his bass lines are in tune with the numbers being put forth by The Difference. Except, on stage he doesn't wear a suit and tie. Nor does he sit still for eight hours like he does on his job as an accountant.

Frankly, with bass in hand, the man is out of control. Martin prowls the stage with head bobbing up and down, rhythmically thudding his bass and singing along the way. He's a show by himself.

"I think about all the girls I used to date and I get angry," said Martin of Bloomfield Hills about his endless supply of movements.

Yet Martin is only one of five highly energetic and very talented members of a group whose musical virtuoso has garnered national attention. The Ann-Arbor based band recently won best college band honors in an MTV competition.

Also The Difference was picked in the top-20 out of 2,000 nationwide in Musician magazine's "Best Unsigned Band" competition.

The group's strength lies purely in its musicianship and stage presence.

A LOUD, pulsating beat by drummer Tom Campbell opens every number, leaving audience members to believe the Starship Enterprise is about to land. The rest of the band members follow suit.

Vocals are interspersed amid a series of grueling solos. Tina Marcaccio, keyboards; Marty Heger, saxophone and guitar; Ramsey Gouda, guitar; Campbell and Martin go their own directions but somehow still manage to keep the tightness.

"I think it's all about the chemistry between the five of us that works," said Campbell, a graduate student at the University of Michigan. "We've all played in different bands with some great musicians. But just because you have five good musicians doesn't mean its going to work."

The Difference clicked from the onset. The band formed two years ago in a week's time through a series of mutual friends at U-M.

The Difference gained instant notoriety around Ann Arbor with its high-powered music fortified with elements of funk, jazz, pop, reggae and rock. The group has been a regular at Rick's American Cafe and at The Blind Pig.

Both places have small, dance floors. People still cram them to move to the music. Band members, though, are quick to refute the notion they're strictly American Bandstand fodder.

"We want to be listened to, not just heard," said Marcaccio, a music student at U-M.

"Dance bands are conventional," Campbell added. "We're less conventional, less typical."

NO KIDDING. At a recent show at Rick's Cafe, the band followed a Sex Pistolish rendition of "Hello Daddy" with a swinging bebop number and then a reggae-laced tune.

Creativity, originality, musical content and performance is where the band scored high marks with the judges in the MTV competition at Daytona Beach, Fla. The Difference outshined collegiate bands and a number of bands from Boston, Atlanta and New York.

The contest booty included $5,000 in cash and a $5,000 scholarship along with all-expense paid recording sessions at Nola Studios in New York. The competition was co-sponsored by Energizer batteries.

"We got to meet Jacko, the 'Oy' guy," Campbell said. "We ate pepperoni and played football all day."

The latest coup, the top-20 rating in the Musician magazine competition, if anything lends further validity to the band's deft musicianship. "It confirms what we already believe," Gouda said.

If the Difference make the top-10, the group will be included on a Warner Brothers-produced compact disc.

With the latest events, a record deal would seem inevitable, especially with the national attention of late.

The Difference, though, isn't intent to sit back and wait. The band will head to New York this week to record an album. Already six of the band's songs are on a cassette, "The Difference."

With things happening at such a rapid clip, the band had to take May off to settle down.

"It's so hard for a band to get to the stage where we are now," Heger said. "There's 1,000 bands in each city. It's important that we all have a focused effort."

SCENES FROM THE SOUTHSIDE — Bruce Hornsby And The Range

Some people want to believe that Bruce Hornsby is rock music's latest savior, with his piano mastery and word weaving. Perhaps a new-age Dylan/Elton combination. Perhaps not.

But even though Hornsby's RCA followup to the huge hit "The Way It Is" doesn't quite match up to that album, it is by no means dismissible.

Hornsby bridges the jazz, pop, rock and classical realms with his virtuoso playing. And the songs — mostly little musical tales about life in the heartland — require a careful listen and reflection, quite unlike most of today's assembly line record industry.

The problem with this set is many of the songs sound too much alike, with Hornsby's homogenized singing and dominant piano up front, lending little variety to the mid-tempo offerings.

There's plenty of outstanding music, but little emotion. Only on "Defenders Of The Flag," the seventh of nine tracks, does the electric guitar plow through the slickness.

Elsewhere, there's Hornsby's blue-collar anthem "The Valley Road," the syncopated, quirky "The Old Playground," and a pale remake of Huey Lewis' "Jacob's Ladder." Actually, Bruce and John Hornsby wrote the tune, not Lewis, who incidentally, guests on "Scenes From The Southside."

The visual imagery of Hornsby's lyrics is evident throughout. On "Look Out Any Window," the singer croons: "There's a man working on a boat, pulling lines from the water. Just trying to stay afloat, filling the net is getting harder."

That is a verse to make rock poets proud. His piano playing ain't bad either.

But Hornsby will need to be less predictable on his next albums to reach "legend" status. Doing away with guitar consultants and drum programmers also wouldn't hurt.

THIS IS OUR ART — Soup Dragons

Yes, they are from Europe. And, yes, they wear the tag of new music.

But low and behold, The Soup Dragons really have something to offer. "This Is Our Art" (Sire) has an abundance of energy, life if you will. Yes, this album is alive, unlike some of the synthesized ooze that arrives DOA from across the Atlantic.

The Soup Dragons take pop and stretch its boundries like cheap elastic. This Scottish quartet goes on the offensive early with thrash rocker "Kingdom Chairs" and the equally raunchy sounding "Great Empty Space."

This group takes the hard rock route often, establishing a raw edge with "Passion Protein." But the Soup Dragons are merely flexing muscle here.

The group's strength lies in sweet acoustic, melodic offerings. Lead singer Sean Dickson and guitarist

Jim McCulloch team up for a Mamas and Papas sound in "The Majestic Head," "Turning Stone" and "On Overhead Walkways" are both excellent pop tunes, both featuring a free and easy beat.

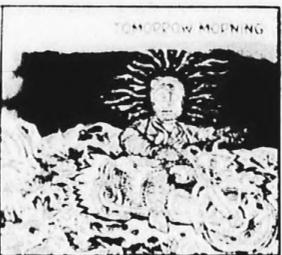

And there's more than a touch of '60s sentimentality here and there, especially in the tamborine rattling of "Vacate My Space." Dickson adds a few "bops de bops" for good measure.

The Soup Dragons don't make the mistake of sounding totally like a '60s nostalgia trip. Instead, they're able to take the raw energy culled from the '70s punk movement and accent it with a dash of the '60s. The end result is a new sound.

The writing here is fresh as well. Dickson does an excellent job, avoiding cliches. "Soft As Your Face," in addition to having a good melody, has a nice flow to it.

— Larry O'Connor

TOMORROW MORNING — Tracy Lee & The Leonards

Creativity is certainly not a problem in the Tracy Lee & The Leonards camp. This group features one of the area's finest songwriters in Dick Siegel and vocalists in Tracy Lee Komarmy.

Together, along with the excellent guitar work of George Bedard, drumming of Richard Dishman and bass work of Dan Bilich, the Leonards are able to harness their creative impulses into a neat package "Tomorrow Morning" (Boo Kay).

Fun is the key word here. Tracy Lee and company delve into such silliness as lost poodles and wanting to fly.

Komarmy leads the way with her well-honed vocals. She can sound like the daughter of Patsy Cline as she does in "Chevrolet" and then go to a child-like whisper as she does in "Fleecie (Where Are You?)."

Siegel puts his trademark of humorous, concise writing on such pop gems as "Tomorrow Morning," "I Wanna Fly," and "Let Me Touch Your Dress." George Bedard highlights each tune with his deft guitar work.

"I Wanna Fly," for example, has all the elements of a very well-crafted pop song. It's well written and overall just well performed. Komarmy sings with passion while Bedard takes the number an extra step with his guitar work. He provides the hook just when one's ready to bite.

This group shows quite a bit of depth as well. Singing about cars is hardly breaking any new ground, but the way Tracy Lee & The Leonards tackle the subject in the rockabilly "Chevrolet" makes you feel you're along for the ride.

Tracy Lee & The Leonards also straddle the line between the quirky and the outright weird. "Fleecie (Where Are You?)" falls into the strange category. But stretching the limits is what it's all about.

And few do a better job of it than Tracy Lee & The Leonards. — Larry O'Connor

Computer games

Lucasfilm Ltd.'s forthcoming "Willow" fantasy may be this summer's enchanting cinematic experience. Mindscape lets moviegoers continue the film's magic and mystery with "Willow The Computer Game."

Willow, to be released by MGM, is an adventure-fantasy based on an original story by George Lucas.

The film, executive produced by Lucas ("Star Wars" and " Raiders of the Lost Ark") and directed by Ron Howard ("Splash" and "Cocoon") follows the exploits of Willow, an unlikely hero in a battle that takes him beyond the peace of his village into a world filled with giant Daikinis, little brownies and mythical fairies.

Good triumphs over evil in the game, which closely follows the film's storyline.

Mindscape's advanced graphics transform selected movie scenes into a film adventure for personal computers. As a player you can reset the game and create new maps, new scenes, new spells — virtually a new game.

"Willow The Computer Game" is an adventure game with arcade sequences to bring players a refreshing new fantasy experience.

Hot tub testimonials sizzle

nothing better than sitting in 20-degree weather in a spa with water heated to a toasty 104 degrees, Brody said.

Sure, they feel great and help you live longer. But how much?

Average price — $4,500. If you want a Cadillac spa, you could pay as much as $8,000, Brody says.

Add another $45 to $60 a month in average operational costs to enjoy a fully insulated spa used outside during the winter, Brody said. Monthly operational costs are a bit less if used only during the summer or indoors because less use of the heater is required to maintain the desired temperature, he said.

OPERATIONAL COSTS can be cut considerably with a quality spa, Brody says.

The lesson to be learned — do your homework and shop around for the best buy.

Spas are more popular here among the more mature and not nearly as prevalent in other parts of the country as they are out west.

The typical buyers are married couples, who are at least 30 years old, with grown children, living on a combined income of $30,000-plus a year, retailers say. Very few spas are sold to younger singles, they say.

"They have other expenses," says Bud Hurlbutt, a sales representative at Heat 'N Sweep spas and hot tubs in Plymouth. "Most spas are bought by established married couples, who have an ache or two and a few extra bucks now that the children have grown."

"Unfortunately, spas are still considered a rich man's toy, but they're not," said Brody. "I'd say they're about as popular here as they were about 10 years ago in California."

"But spas will become more popular here after more and more testimonials by physicians are printed about their therapeutic benefit," he said. "In my opinion, more than 80 percent of all Californians, with at least a $30,000 annual income, will own portable spas within five years."

"They will become that popular here in about 10 years," Brody said. "The industry is still in its infancy, but spas are not a fad. They're here to stay. They will soon be built in some newly constructed houses."

Spas began to surface in California as early as 1960, but portable versions of the their forerunner, the now archaic redwood hot tubs, did not become popular for home use until the late 1970s, he said.

Today, the manufacture and re-tailing of portable spas is big business in California, where sales are flourishing, he said.

By John Dingman
AP Newsfeatures

Many photographers like myself work in a temporary darkroom that must be set up and taken down each time it's used. Storage space is limited, but supplies are needed.

One of the most-economical ways to buy paper is in packages of 250 sheets or more. But if you need more than one different grade of paper — and most photographers do — then storage can be a problem.

Most negatives do fine on No. 2 and No. 3 paper, but there are times when anything from a No. 1 to a No. 5 is needed. Five boxes of paper take up a lot of storage space.

I use a lot of variable contrast paper, for both storage and cost reasons. Kodak Polycontrast and Ilford Multigrade II have produced decent results. But neither compares with the new Ilford Multigrade III.

Ilford Multigrade III works like other variable contrast papers. You expose it in your enlarger in the usual way. However, with Multigrade III, colored filters are used to change the light and the contrast. The filters produce contrasts from Grade 0 through Grade 5 in half steps. Most of the time, I use a No. 2 to No. 3 1/4 filter. It's relatively easy to learn how to gauge what is needed by inspecting the negative.

ON THOSE OCCASIONS when the negative is less than perfect, it's a camera angles

joy just to switch filters to get the desired contrast grade.

And, if you have an enlarger with a color head, you can easily dial in the equivalent of the gelatin filter.

I have worked up a little chart for the side of the enlarger, giving the settings for the various contrast grades.

Ilford Multigrade III produces some of the whitest whites and blackest blacks of any paper I have used, including graded papers.

With the proper grade filtration, the prints just leap out — great for prints for my personal use, and, more important, for the engraver who does my church magazine.

Exposure times are short, even with the filters in the enlarger, and except for the top of the scale, a change in filtration does not change exposure.

Ilford Multigrade III is a fast-developing paper. If you use the special Multigrade developer, the image snaps up in about 10 seconds, and the print reaches full development in about 60 seconds.

You don't have to use Multigrade developer — any good developer will work. But others are slower in the tray, about 30 seconds for the image to appear, and about two minutes to reach full development. Not critical, but if you are making a lot of prints, it can add up.

ALTHOUGH Multigrade III is intended primarily for use in automatic developing machines, my tests were 95 percent successful in the sort of trays most of us use at home.

I did some printing at a commercial darkroom with a Kodak processor and the results were not any better — just quicker in time, mostly in drying.

There is a side benefit to Multigrade III and the other variable contrast papers. In a pinch, you can make prints from color negatives. The results are not as good as with Kodak Panalure, and you will have to fuss around to find a contrast grade that will work with your enlarger. However, it will work, and you can process under a safelight, something you cannot do with Panalure.

The Riverside Inn, a bed and breakfast in Leland, offers a scenic waterway view.

MICKY JONES

Traverse reveals state's treasures

By Iris Sanderson Jones
contributing travel editor

I am driving north on M-22, a two-lane road that follows the west arm of Grand Traverse Bay from Traverse City to the end of the Leelanau Peninsula and then turns south again, along Lake Michigan, to the Sleeping Bear National Lakeshore. They call this thrust of land the "little finger" because it pokes up in the northwest quadrant of the mitten-shaped Lower Peninsula.

Through the trees that border the road, I can see sailboats fluttering like white butterflies as they move up and down the bay from Traverse City to the open water of Lake Michigan, just as paddle wheelers did a century ago when this was the lumbering capital of Michigan.

NOW IT'S the cherry capital of Michigan. In spring, the cherry blossoms leave a glory of pink and white litter on the summer cottages, craft shops, farmyards and wineries that make a very low-rise skyline on both sides of the road.

If you want high-rise hotels and championship golf courses, you don't stay on the Leelanau; you stay in Traverse City or at the Grand Traverse Resort two miles beyond in Acme. The Leelanau Peninsula is another kind of natural and human landscape: villages tucked into tiny bays, inland lakes surrounded by summer cottages, fresh fruit and vegetables sold at the side of the road.

There are condominiums at The Homestead in Glen Arbor and a few low-rise hotels like the Leland Lodge in Leland. Otherwise, the Leelanau is cottage, bed-and-breakfast and roadside lodge country. There are a dozen private homes that offer bed-and-breakfast in Northport. The Jolli Lodge and the Riverside Inn are highly recommended in Leland.

It is only about 60 miles up one side of the Leelanau Peninsula and down the other, but if you drive too fast you'll miss everything. For example, you will zoom right past the tall ship Malabar, which offers bed-and-breakfast cabins and shared toilets just out of Traverse City.

The interesting part of the Leelanau Peninsula begins with a sign set in a bed of yellow flowers: Suttons Bay, Founded 1854. Turn the corner and you will find one blue and one yellow antique shop on either side of the Suttons Bay Hose House and the nearby sidewalk cafe.

FOLLOW THE restored buildings on the main street past the stripped awnings and the balloons tied to car antennae and then turn right to the beach. There you will find the village hall and the town library in restored houses set by the sea.

Hattie's Grill has the best fresh fish in town. Krys Dahlberg has moved the Epicure from a downtown building to her home, but the food is still wonderful. Ask about buying canned cherries to take home with you from the local canning factory and whether Chip Stulen is still handcrafting boats at Faering Design.

The main stop I make on my rare trips up this side of the Leelanau is at the Tamarack Craftsmen Gallery, one of the finest galleries in the Midwest, in the tiny village of Omena. David and Sally Viskochil could have opened the Tamarack in Detroit or Chicago, but they prefer the end of the one block of "downtown" Omena, down the hill from Leelanau Wine Cellars, across M-22 from the sand beach and up the sidewalk from Omena Country Store. Ask to see Lynn Spitz-Nagel's soft sculpture or Craig Cary's crazy furniture.

Leave town slowly, past the historic white clapboard church and with at least a brief stop at the gambling casino and craft shop on the Peshawbestown Indian Reservation.

Before you get into the town of Northport, you will pass a small sign to Bea Bowen's Plum Lane Inn, a very simple private home up a long country lane. Bea is the one who recognized a simple fact: Northport might not be big enough to support many hotels, but it could certainly use a bed-and-breakfast association.

BOATERS WON'T have to wade through the parking lot to get to the shops and restaurants of Northport this year as they often do; Lake Michigan dropped 20 inches so there is more beach than usual all up and down the Lake Michigan shoreline.

M-22 turns south at Northport but other roads lead on past North Country Gardens Bakery and Tea Room; and the North Shore Inn, bed-and-breakfast accommodations on the lake, to Grand Traverse Lighthouse. If you won't be staying long enough to justify the state park fees, park just short of the entrance and walk in.

And then go on to the Happy Hour, on M 22 between Northport and Leland. That's where all the local folks go for hamburgers, beer and the purest martini in the area. Even if you don't like mahogany bars, pool tables and country bar food, you should stop just to see the No Smoking section: two chairs on either side of a video game table.

Leland was built where the river runs into the lake. The Indians called it "Mich-mi-go-bing," the place where the canoes run up the river because there is no beach. Lelanders call the restored waterside area Fisherman's, because the shops are built in old fishermen's shacks below the waterfall spanned by The Cove Restaurant and Falling Waters hotel. Ferries to North and South Manitou islands leave from Leland.

The best fish in the northwest is in Leland. Buy the whitefish or the smoked chub from Carlson's Inn Fish-Town and eat it on the dock. Or go to the Bluebird Restaurant and Bar, where they lightly bread and saute the fish the way fishermen have always done it. If you were smart enough to reserve ahead, or lucky enough to get bed and breakfast at the Riverside Inn.

IF YOU ARE going back to Traverse City, M-304 shortcuts back around Lake Leelanau to Suttons Bay. Good Harbor Vineyards, which makes the popular Trillium wine, is on this route; so is Booshydel Vineyard. Mawby's is in Suttons Bay. (The best wine in the area is probably from Grand Traverse Vineyard on the Old Mission Peninsula, which divides the east and west arms of Grand Traverse Bay at Traverse City).

If you are on your way south there are still a few of those wonderful little things to do on your way. Stop at Manitou Farm Market and Bakery two miles south of Leland on M-22. If you missed the Happy Hour, try Art's Bar in Glen Arbor. If you love flowers, stop at a florist shop called the Wildflower in Glen Arbor and order a beautiful arrangement of fresh wildflowers in a basket. Have dinner at La Becasse in Burdickville.

Best of all, saved for the last, is Sleeping Bear National Lakeshore. According to Chippewa Indian Legend, a mother bear and two cubs swam across Lake Michigan 10,000 years ago while fleeing from a forest fire on the other side of the lake. Momma bear made land and became the Sleeping Bear Dune, waiting forever for her cubs. The cubs didn't make it; look offshore and you will see them out there in the shape of North and South Manitou islands.

If you have any energy left after doing that, mosey-and-poke down M-22 through the Leelanau, you can use it at the Sleeping Bear National Lakeshore. Canoe the Platte River. Climb the great dune along with all the other big and little kids and slide down. Stroll the wooden walkways over the great mountains of sand.

There are all kinds of things to do on the way home. Stop at Presscraft Papers near Benzonia; that's where Gwen Frostic hand-prints her wonderful handmade papers. Take a 24-hour break at the couples rooms created by Kirk Lorenz at the Brookside Inn, Beulah or the Hotel Frankfort, Frankfort. Visit the Platte River Fish Hatchery. Detour for an overnight at Interlochen National Music Camp. Take the ferry to Wisconsin from Ludington.

On second thought, maybe you should just contact the Michigan Travel Bureau at (800) 5432-YES for a list.

'The interesting part of the Leelanau Peninsula begins with a sign set in a bed of yellow flowers: Suttons Bay, Founded 1854.'

Omena Bay Country Store remains a reminder of the past in 'downtown' Omena.

Sand wall stirs mirage

By Iris Sanderson Jones
staff writer

Come on, get out of the car. There it is in front of you, a great golden wall of sand, the biggest sand beach you have ever seen, tipped at a 45 degree angle and leading straight up to a summer blue sky.

So you've got other places to go, other things to do, get on your feet and get out off the car. This is the Dune Climb at Sleeping Bear Dunes National Lakeshore; people all over the country come here to do this.

Ten feet into the Great Wall of Sand you take off your shoes. "Is the sand hot?" "New, it's OK." Your feet sink in and sand squeezes between your toes. A third of the way up you slow down, look back and say, "Do I really want to do this?"

You have seen movies of the last man on earth climbing desert dunes. This is it, leg muscles straining, eyes focused on the base of sand and sand shimmering at the top edge against the blue.

An Arab should come over that ridge on a camel, but no, it's a kid, two kids, in red T-shirts and caps. They climbed over the mountain to see what they could see, and what they saw was more sand.

"What are you sitting down for?"

"The sand's getting hot."

"Yeah, let's run!"

"Are you kidding?"

The pinnacle! Where's the pinnacle? Where's the lake? You're on a plateau of sand. Beyond that, trees.

"The lake is a mile and a half away, you know. You want to go to the lake?"

"You must be kidding!"

Turn around and head down. Now you are the figure heading over the lip of sand, staring down like Lawrence of Arabia at seagulls making soaring bird shadows over the dunes.

"Sit down."

"No, you can't slide that way."

"Run!"

"Hey!"

So there you go running, waving your arms, leaping into the air, galloping faster and faster, straight down the hill. Don't slow down or you will fall flat on your face in the sand.

You arrive at the bottom, back at your shoes, laughing like a maniac.

"Was that fun?"

"Yeah!"

Aren't you glad you got out of the car?

Dorothy Lehmkuhl

Q I am fairly well organized but my husband is a disaster. He won't let me throw anything away, leaves a trail wherever he goes, and generally sabotages my efforts. Help!

A I only have one suggestion. Repeat after me: "Oh God, Grant me the Strength to change what I can, the Serenity to accept what I cannot change, and the Wisdom to know the difference."

Seriously, there are millions of Odd Couples out there, and it's not always the man who is at fault. The husband of one of my students jokingly told her, "It's either the 'Organizing for Success' class, or Obedience School!"

Communication is the best way to solve any problem. First, don't "assume" he "should" know how irritating his habits are to you. Maybe he simply doesn't understand the impact of his habits. Even if he does, give him an "I Message." Pick a good time for discussion and calmly, unemotionally and without accusation factually state (1) what he is doing and (2) how it affects you. For instance: "When you refuse to dispose of anything, our house becomes overloaded and it frustrates me because cleaning is next to impossible."

Important: Do not offer a solution. It is imperative that you stop at that point and allow him the integrity of solving the problem. If he doesn't respond, you might ask what he thinks could be done, but DON'T call him names, put him down, get angry or otherwise sabotage open communication.

Chances are he won't change, but you might offer him Don Aslett's book, "Clutter's Last Stand" (Writer's Digest Books) — 276 pages of why and how to de-junk. Also, don't forget to show him this column regularly.

To straighten up, establish one place for his items. These can be placed in a large basket in a handy spot like the laundry room, entry closet floor, hidden corner, etc. While ridding surfaces of clutter, this provides a collection place where he can find his belongings.

While chancy, you might cycle his things out. Store away items you know he will never want for a length of time (say 3 months a year). If he hasn't needed them by then, pitch them. (Do this at your own risk and don't blame me if you get caught!) It's much better to get his approval in advance and, in doing so, you may slowly convince him he can't keep everything.

Try negotiation. If you find picking up after him irritating, ask for a "deal" whereby he will do one of your unpleasant tasks in return. This might soothe emotions.

Scenic sites challenge builder

By Corinne Abalt
staff writer

It's challenge that keeps Herman Frankel, West Bloomfield builder-developer, coming back for more. He's done most of the things young, aspiring members of his profession dream about — shopping centers, condos, elegant single family residences, even a state-of-the-art senior residence and nursing care facility. So what else is there?

Well, there are a lot of beautiful building sites around Mirror Lake, south off Pontiac Trail, west of Orchard Lake, not flat, mind you, but rolling terrain with lots of trees and wonderful views. To Frankel, that represents the kind of a challenge he loves. And that's how Woodcliff on the Lake, with an eventual 46 single family homes and 70 (most detached) condos, came into being.

One of the streets is appropriately named Panorama Court, another is Oak Hollow. The office is at 4969 Oak Hollow. The homes run about 3,600 square feet.

The two models, the Villa and the Regent, furnished by interior designer Dick Talbot, show that Frankel has modified and changed the floor plan he used in many other developments. The high volume ceiling which he used for so long has been changed.

In the Regent, the great room ceiling is high but not as much as before, and the ceiling for the dining area is slightly lower for a cozier look. The overall effect, however, is one of space and more space. That's due in part to the living room door walls which open on to a deck and a lake or ravine view beyond. This model also has a library and large well-appointed kitchen.

The Regent's master suite, with room size walk-in closets, separate mirrored dressing area leading to the master bath with Jacuzzi Whirlpool tub, is on the first (entry) level along with second bedroom with private bath. On the lower level is a spacious activity area, wet bar, powder room and space for additional bedrooms and bath.

The Villa, with dramatic great room with wood burning fireplace and library, is furnished in a black and white contemporary look in sharp contrast to the more eclectic Regent. This one, too, has a library, luxurious master bedroom suite with walk-out deck, wood burning fireplace and Jacuzzi whirlpool tub that overlooks the lake and wooded site. It also has large walk-in closets, two more bedrooms.

Exteriors are fieldstone and stained cedar siding. Two and three car garages are attached. Price range is $315,000-400,000. The models are open noon to 6 p.m. every day but Thursday.

Showcase house is aglow with ideas

Last week I visited the Designers Showcase House in Grosse Pointe. I regret the invitation had not been extended earlier enabling me to urge you to see this fabulous house as well as the equally fabulous job of interior design.

The showcase house on Washington Road was built for Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Harmon Booth. The home was designed by Detroit architect Marcus R. Burrows in 1922. The facade is English Renaissance. The main entrance hall and front stairway are constructed of black marble. The stone door surrounds are from Count Franco Artemis' home in Madea, Italy. The 16th century fireplace in the Great Room came from "Throne Room" at Hamilton Palace in Scotland, while the William and Mary paneling in the library came from Standish Hall in Lancashire, England, dating to circa 1695.

The present owners purchased the home in 1985. They are interested in architectural history and restoration which is evident by what has been done to the home.

FAUX FINISHES, wall glazing and stenciling and trompe l'oeil make each room outstanding. The crown moldings look like marble while the floor stenciling gives the flavor of an area rug.

I adored the corner study. The lavender gray walls give the room a look of quiet sophistication. The marble top table desk is contemporary and just the right touch for the fine antique pieces and English chintz upholstery.

Most of the rooms are traditional with just enough contemporary to give an eclectic feel.

The 44-foot-long living room has two sectional sofas, one facing east, the other west. Each is flanked by a pair of designing ways

Eve Garvin

Louis XVI chairs. While the sofa style is contemporary, the damask fabric is traditional.

The master suite is a sunshine yellow — with a linen print from Brunswick and Fils to make your spirit soar. Two French Bergere chairs in a pink and white check flank the fireplace.

This lovely old glows — each room is a showcase in and of itself.

Remember to watch for the Junior League Showcase House next year.

Now is the time to clear out those closets, attics, basements and garages and make some quick cash in the process.

How do you plan a garage sale?

It's easy!

Just follow these simple guidelines:

- 1. Gather together the items you have for sale. Sort them into appropriate categories and price them fairly.
2. Place a classified advertisement in The Observer & Eccentric by calling one of the numbers below.
3. Hang signs throughout your neighborhood alerting residents to the upcoming sale.
4. Decide what to do with all the money you'll have after your sale!
