So what? The Los Angeles Lakers beat our Detroit Pistons. Well, if we can't beat them on the court we can steal some of their business Film business that is Celluloid. Movie stars.

Last week, the star was a 1989 Pontiac Bonneville zipping around the city of Plymouth and Plymouth Township. And the car and driver were not just out for a cruise.

Crews were filming a commercial at various sites Thursday. The car was at Hough Park, a house on Lighthouse Court and downtown.

And that's not all. A few weeks ago, Home Box Office was in town filming scenes for their political satire show "Tanner." Filming was done in Old Village and on Blunk

So look for Plymouth next time you watch HBO or the commercial networks. As for the Pistons, we'll get 'em next year.

Flagging spirits

The Plymouth Beautification Commission has a goal. They want everyone in town to have Old Glory waving in front of their homes.

With that in mind, the commission is selling American flags. To show your patriotic spirit and to help the commission beautify Plymouth, stop by the Farmers' Market Saturdays or City Hall during the week to buy the Stars and Stripes.

Out on a limb

The weather may not be cooperating but 160 Plymouth residents are taking advantage of a cool city program.

Those residents are looking for shade and the city is helping provide it. Plymouth's tree planting program is in swing even though the drought has delayed planting until more favorable weather conditions develop.

For $25, residents can have a tree, usually a maple, planted on the boulevard. The Department of Public Works has the information on the program.

Straight talk

A nonprofit drug and alcohol treatment center based in Plymouth wants people to get teed off — on the golf course.

The first annual Straight Benefit Golf Classic is scheduled for 11 a.m. Saturday, July 16, at Fox Hills Country Club, 8768 N. Territorial. The event is sponsored by the parent booster club of Straight.

The cost is $150 per golfer. That includes lunch, greens fee, cart and dinner. A dinner-only ticket is $50. Prizes will be awarded.

The organization provides a family-oriented drug rehabilitation program for drug abusers 12-21 years old. For more information about the golf outing or program, call 453-2610.

School time

It's not just students who look forward to summer vacation. Teachers and administrators also enjoy some time off during the

Have you spotted Andy Pruner's car top around town? The Plymouth Township trustee and Wayne County sheriff may be among the first Plymouth Township candidates to get his campaign rolling.

But behind the scenes, 14 other camps also are gearing up for the Aug. 2 primary.

A group of parents, armed with petitions, are going to show up at tonight's school board meeting to tell district officials they don't want Begindergarten to end.

The program, designed for youngsters who developmentally aren't quite ready for kindergarten, was eliminated when the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools was forced to cut its budget by more than $2

"I can't believe they would make this kind of a cut," said Pam Nuttall, one of the parents involved in the petition drive. "I think there are other making cuts."

The cuts were instituted May 31, about two weeks before voters were asked to approve a Headlee over-

That measure, which failed on the June 13 ballot, would have allowed the school board to set a higher operating tax rate for district residents. The district had planned to restore the programs it eliminated if the override was approved.

"WE PUT it on a ballot and people said leave the cuts there," said school board president David Artley. "I don't want to see Begindergarten gone, as a personal comment, but I had to make some choices because that's our legal obligation."

Nuttall said she expects the board to tell petitioners there is no money for the program, but, she said, "I can't believe they can't find the funds somewhere.

Nuttall said the course offerings at the district's high schools "look like a community college catalog." "If we had the money to offer them, I think it would be great. Unfortunately we don't," she said. "We spent a lot of time looking at alternatives," Artley said. And he said while he would be open to considering changes, different cuts would probably offend a different

"I'm sure we are going to hear from a variety of groups," he said. "There's a lot of cuts that we made."

Nuttall criticized the district for what she called "wavering" on its stance toward eliminating Begindergarten. She said officials at one point said they were cutting Begindergarten and later said they would only make the classes larger.

"I JUST figured it was a tactic to get the yes vote," Nuttall said.

Artley denied the board ever changed its mind about cutting the program.

officers from the cities of Westland, Wayne, Romulus, Northville, Northville Township and the Michigan State Police who work to combat commercial auto theft.

ONE OF the suspects, a 22-year-old, is wanted on two felony auto theft charges in Detroit, and on one Pontiac felony auto theft charge. He was expected to be arraigned on those charges early this week and on the latest offense by the end of the week, said WWAT Lt. Chris Hogan.

Operating a chop shop is an offense punishable by up to five years in prison and $10,000 in fines. The other suspects, 17 and 22, also were taken into custody and face possible charges of operating a chop shop.

We think we got someone who is a major auto theft operator, based on the existing warrants and based on our investigation," said Hogan. "There was absolutely nothing in the store. It was empty.

"But in the back area, behind the wall through a garage door were all these car parts cut up," Hogan said. "They easily had $130,000 worth of cars in there, literally from floor to ceiling."

Jones Auto Parts has been in business "at least since April 2," when its lease went into effect, Hogan said.

Griffith plans to spend about $2,000 on the campaign.

I plan to drop literature at homes, hopefully at 100 percent of them. That's roughly 8,000 homes,

Griffith said this year's large field has more to do with a trustee's job opening up than an interest in unseating someone.

I THINK when one of the trustees indicated his position to run for supervisor, that that created more interest on the part of some of the other candidates and on the part of the other trustees," he said.

Board finalizes details for state tuition plan

AP - Michigan's prepaid college tuition program will start by accepting all applicants for five days, with the price tag to enroll a newborn set at $6,800, a state board has decided.

Applications for the Aug 1-5 open enrollment period will go out in about two weeks, said Richard Cole. president of the Michigan Education

Cole's comments came last Mon-day during a MET Board of Directors meeting at Schoolcraft College Livonia Schoolcraft president Richard McDowell is a board member

More than 40,000 people already have expressed interest in the program. Cole added

"THE REAL significance for the state is that a whole generation of Michigan children will grow up with the knowledge that the only thing they have to worry about is doing their best school work in order to go to college," he said.

What the parents are doing is eliminating the possibility of being affected by any future tuition increase. They're buying four years of college for the cost of three right now, and it will be a better deal as time goes by

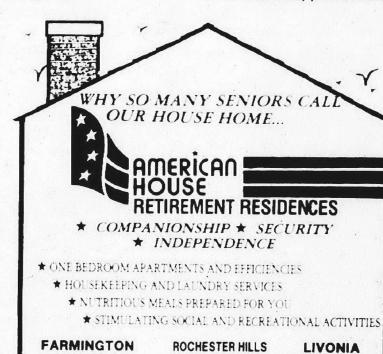

Under the MET plan - first proposed by Gov James Blanchard in his 1986 State of the State address parents will give a lump sum to the state for their child's education. The state will invest it, then later use the interest and principal to pay the child's tuition at one of 15 state universities or 29 community colleges

The money will be invested by the state treasurer's office and the MET board decided Monday that 75 percent should go into long-term, fixedinterest tax-free annuities. Cole

The remainder will be invested. as is the case with state retirement fund in the stock market under the supervision of the state treasurer.

Cole said after the open enrollment ends, applicants will be put on a list and will be offered spots in the program on a first-come firstserved basis. Entry will be restricted to guard MET's financial health.

THE COST will be about $6,860 for a newborn and increase for each year of a child's age because the fund will have less time to earn interest on the money paid in, he said.

Attitudes change about trains

Pere Marquette officials are and other names and the Commerkindly disposed toward Plymouth. and Plymouth people, most kindly disposed toward the Pere Marquette. are always ready to show their appreciation for what they are doing or Plymouth," reported the Plymouth Mail in March 1916.

A similar warm regard was shown 45 years earlier when the two railroads criss-crossed at Plymouth. The village's 975 inhabitants and civic leaders were euphoric about the prospects. Not one, but two railroads that was sure to be good for business and local employment.

Plymouth was now on the map as a railroad terminal. Residents were no longer restricted to horse and wagon when they traveled to Detroit or Lansing, or to Holly on the north and Monroe on the south.

The north south line built its station near the Daisy Air Rifle plant, behind what is now Danny's Super-cial Hotel, north and west of the station, also catered to railroad men

BY 1916, Plymouth was a lively railroad center. Its facilities were surpassed by those in Detroit, Grand Rapids and Saginaw, but were imposing for a village the size of Plymouth. More than 100 residents, all working in the community, were on the Pere Marquette's payroll. Thirty men were employed in the roundhouse, nine in the depot and freight house, and 40 as section men.

Loyal liverymen benefited from the railroad. In the 1870's the Frank B. Park Livery on Penniman Avenue picked up arrivals at the station for the ride back to the center of town. Park was followed by Harry Robinson who operated a dray and omnibus line from the same location in

As many as 50 men were employed in the roundhouse during the 1920s. After the advent of the diesel engine, however, there were big layoffs. By the early 1950s, the force at the roundhouse had been cut to 10.

PLYMOUTH'S ATTITUDE toward the railroads began to change from one of being "kindly disposed" to an adversarial one as passenger service to and from Plymouth began to deteriorate. At one Restaurants sprang up adjacent to time, 18 passenger trains had rolled in and out of Plymouth four ways Street just north of the north south every 24 hours. Those who depended station. At least two opened near the on commuter service to and from other station By 1916, Jake Streng's Detroit as late as the 1950s were restaurant opposite the station was a dismayed when the trains they had local landmark, drawing people on long used were removed from the

And as passenger trains dwindled Frank Pierce also had a restauto none, the length and number of trant, just east of the station. There freight trains grew prodigiously. Motorists who drove to work began to fume as they had to wait as slow-The nearby Hotel Victor (later moving freight trains crept by one of called the Anderine, then the Nelson the eight crossings in the city.

past and present

Sam Hudson

The temper of the times was indicated by a report in the Plymouth Mail that the municipal judge fined C&O officials $5,065 during the year 1966 on charges of blocking the crossing for more than the five minutes permitted by ordinance.

The north-south depot closed sometime prior to 1918. The eastwest one has not been used as a passenger station since 1972. The Osbornes bought it from the C&O in 1987 and it is now used as a retail outlet, as is the old Freight House.

BUT THE railroad crossing problem remains with us. Perhaps the closet the city commission came to a commitment on a grade separation was in the early 1950s. At that time, it was estimated that a grade separation at the Main Street crossing would cost $500,000 and that the city would have to pay 85 percent of that cost. An estimate made in the 1960s put the figure at $1.5 to $2 million. And as the years go by, the cost and the obstacles to getting the job done, continue to escalate.

Meantime, the attitude of the citizens of Plymouth toward the railroad that encircles them has drifted from one of benevolence in the early years to today's notion that the railroad is a necessary evil. True, the freight it delivers and picks up from area plants helps the local economy and jobs, but its lack of passenger service, its noisy train whistles, and the delays it creates at various automobile crossings leaves much to be warnings that children are growing up earlier Because of peer pressure, or access to drugs, or the breakdown of the Donna Reed family, or any of a number of Psychology Today reasons, youngsters are being accelerated through adolescence.

The teen years are something we should all go through once and then never visit again. I would not want to be 16 again, and I know few who would But I know many who can remember the aches and joys of youth far more vividly than what happened last month or last week.

Bob Greene is one of those, but he had help. The Chicago columnist has written a book, "Be True to Your School," culled from a diary he kept in 1964, which overlapped his junior and senior years in a Columbus. Ohio, suburban high school.

His account is neither earthshaking nor surprising, but it is very familiar. As Birmingham author Dutch Leonard said, if you don't find yourself in this book, you never went to high school.

Early in the book, Greene talks about the trauma and joy of being a varsity athlete. He lettered in tennis. order as football or basketball, but it did allow him to wear a coveted letter sweater

As a varsity athlete, he could slip on his white warmup jacket and walk onto the court; the spotlight was on him Adult male teachers treated him differently after he lettered, so did other varsity athletes. There was a bond, a camaraderie that you can't know unless you experience it.

Greene said there was nothing that made him feel as good as being a varsity athlete.

I believe him, especially when I think of some young men at Birmingham Seaholm. The varsity baseball team won the state baseball championship last weekend in improbable fashion. They were not expected to be a factor. They have never won a title, and they finished second in their own league.

In the first five games of the seven-game, single-elimination tournament, they won on their final at bat. In any one of those innings, one fewer hit, one fewer sacrifice, one fewer run and the season could have ended without anyone knowing what might have been.

After sweating out an 11-9 championship win Saturday, the Maples Rich Peribera rightly celebrated along with their coach, Don Sackett, who has coached for this moment for 25 years.

They were not the only area champions. Canton won the girls state soccer title. Livonia Ladywood won the girls state volleyball crown Catholic Central in Redford Town ship won the state wrestling crown and was runner up for the state tennis title. Southfield won the state track crown. Brother Rice, Cranbrook and Country Day all took ten-

And there were countless other teams who won big games, studentathletes who made one big play. achieved individual success, or like Greene merely basked in the glory of strolling onto the playing field for a moment in the sun.

Happily, girls as well as boys are now given this chance for athletic achievement. These youngsters will all do more important things in their lives, but there will be few things they treasure as long or as well.

Ford joins river cleanup

To the editor:

The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers are to be commended for their outstanding coverage of "Rouge Rescue 88." Saving this marvelous resource is imperative, for all of the reasons mentioned in your several articles.

One person interviewed in your May 30 issue said: "We've got to get the corporate sponsors involved" and with that statement, Ford Motor Co. enthusiastically agrees. For three years, Ford has been the primary corporate sponsor of the Rouge cleanup programs.

During this time, Ford has donated in excess of $300,000 to the cleanup effort. Also, each year several hundred Ford employees have been given one day away from their jobs, to participate in a "work day on the Rouge." They will continue that activity again this year, on July

Thanks to party crew

To the editor:

May I use this medium to address the parents/guardians and friends of the 1988 Plymouth Salem and Canton graduates?

To all those, who in some way, gave assistance to the all-night graduation party - thank you, thank you, thank you. Without the generous donations of time, materials and money, the party would not have been successful.

There were numerous contributions of an outstanding nature, and I cannot list them all, but I would-like to publicly recognize the committee chairpersons who magnificently organized the party through this past year: Nancy Lee, decorations; Mary Jane Weidenbach, finance; Cookie

Rogers and Betty cole, entertainment; Barbara McBride and Shirley Peters, food, Sandy Mueller and Connie Roessler, prizes; K.C. Mueller and Carol Petersons, chaperones; Mona Kolachi, publicity; and Klo Phillippi and Bev Easton, tickets.

A special thank you is due to members of the CEP staff - especially Ruth Kacic and Pat Fitzpatrick who coordinated the planning, Dan McGuire and the maintenance staff who gave us every help possible, and the security staff who ensured a smooth, trouble-free night.

Nearly 1,000 graduates attended the festivities and many conveyed their appreciation to various committee members. These young adults were well behaved, polite, happy, enthusiastic, and finally tired. The older adults who spent the evening with them exhibited the same emotions and behavior except they were very border In my business, a lot of interesting people are interviewed. This one wrote a book, that one's on television. Sometimes you run across folks who can make an elephant out of chicken liver pate. Occasionally, we're lucky enough to come across someone who has a feeling for food. Definitely the artist's touch. And so. this week, I find myself, as usual. writing a column that bridges the culinary cultures of both Windsor and Detroit.

Being a free-lance writer in both Canada and the United States, I seldom come across a subject or person who ideally fits into both genres. But this is International Freedom Festival week, with the Unted States and Canada celebrating a friendship that spans the Ambassador Bridge. I was proud to interview a man with an international reputation, Joe DeLauro.

Windsor folks might know Joe DeLauro as the founding father of the visual arts (Fine Arts Department) at the University of Windsor. He has sculpted the fountain figure for the Hiram Walker Gardens. He also will be remembered for his bronze portraits of Father LeBel, then president of Assumption University.

FOLKS FROM the states know DeLauro as an artist and sculptor, whose works are seen at the Detroit Public Library and St. Scholastica's, and as an instructor at Marygrove. I know DeLaura as a great "comfort" cook.

A recent interview at his home Canton found DeLauro and wife sipping coffee in a comfortable kitchen. No Cuisinart. No Jenn-Aire range. No fancy Wustoph-Trident cutlery. Just great cooks that herald from an Italian heritage, transplanted from New Haven, Conn.

When asked for a sampling of his favorite recipes, the retired artist wished he could photocopy his mind. Nothing much on paper, he responded, but many fond recipes and tales of growing up in an Italian neighborhood. Seems that Mamma Delauro was born in Malfi, Italy, a southern coastal city rich in culture and know for its seafood cuisine.

I sampled one of the dishes De-Lauro fondly remembers his mamma used to prepare. Simple, elegant, yet easy. "You start with a little olive oil in the bottom of a large pot," he recalled. "How much oil?" I butted in. "Just enough to cover the bottom" was his seasoned reply.

Then you take two or three large cloves of garlic and smash them, adding them to the simmering oil. Savor the aroma. "Chop in an onion and throw in two or three lobsters" was the next recalled direction. This was sounding too good to be true. "Put the top on the pan and cook the lobsters till just bout pink." C'mon Joe, "How long?" was my

"TILL JUST BOUT pink" came the reply, with a twinkle in his eye. "Then smash up the contents of a couple a cans of plum tomatoes and throw them in." What was this, an Italian bouillabaisse? I asked. No way, this was the way Mamma cooked was his pat answer.

While the lobsters cook in the tomato sauce, cook up a big pot of spaghetti in some boiling water, was the next remembered step. At this point, he noted you could remove the lid from the pot so the sauce would "thicken up a little."

"Add a little fresh chopped basil, drain the pasta and add it to the lobster and sauce." I was writing as frantically as I could. I wiped the corner of my mouth, trying not to sound too hungry as I jotted the culinary notes. "OK, Joe," I asked, "medium heat?"

Prizeworthy potato salads

By Ethel Simmons staff writer

A recipe for lemon-tangy Molded Potato Salad, submitted by Ann P. Miller of Redford, was judged the winner from among more than 50 entries received in the Observer & Eccentric's Potato Salad Contest.

For her winning entry, Miller will receive a $25 gift certificate for a ham from the HoneyBaked Ham Co. In a phone conversation after winning the prize, Miller said she selected the recipe for the contest, "Because it was different, and you could make it ahead and serve it the next

The recipe was one of several she entered in the contest, all from the spiral-bound cookbook "Sharing Recipes with Leukemia Research Life Inc.," which she compiled. The Molded Potato Salad is one of the many recipes she contributed to the cookbook, which includes recipes by everyone from area residents to First Lady Nancy Reagan.

Twenty-one O&E employees, mostly from the editorial department, gathered to sample six entries, along with ham, during a Potato Salad Taste-Off buffet luncheon in the Livonia newsroom.

A PANEL of Taste judges, including Taste Buds columnist Larry Janes, had narrowed the entries down to six salads. Chef Janes made up a batch of each, according to the reader's recipe, and these were tasted at the lunch.

Of the tasters, more than half voted (by secret ballot) for the Molded Potato Salad as their favorite. Second place was awarded to Doris Van Doorn of Rochester Hills for her zesty Potato Salad recipe, clearly the judges' favored runner-up. Van Doorn will receive a cooking-related

Some of the comments about the prize-winning Molded Potato Salad (although no one specifically mentioned the lemon accent) were: "Very tasty - like the spices." "Sweet, creamy and different from traditional potato salad." "It has a nice, sweet tang added to traditional flavor." "It has a sweet distinctive taste." "Bacon adds taste."

Jointons on the runner-up included: "This had a rich potato taste. The carrots and other seasonings only enhance it. This is potato salad." "Lots of potatoes and other good stuff, and it tastes good." "It tastes the most like my own."

Besides the winning recipes, three other potato salads were named as honorable mentions. These include Make-Ahead Potato Salad - Southern Style, from Suzi Shepard of West Bloomfield; Potato Salad, from Virginia Watson of Birmingham, and Christmas Potato Salad from Judi Alessandri of Livonia

ONE OF THE SIX salads Janes made up for the tasting was not eligible for the contest because it did not contain potatoes. Just for fun (and because the reader who submitted it said her guests thought it was potatoes), Cold Cauliflower Nivernais, from Sally Matthews of Bloomfield Hills, was served at the buffet.

"I got the recipe from somewhere else," Miller said of the Molded Potato Salad. "I made it for the first time for the contest." She made it again for a family cookout on Father's Day. She also made one for the O&E photographer to picture her with. The ingredients go into a ring mold, and the recipe serves 8-10. "For a large group, you can do a double batch," Miller said. "Keep one on the table and one in the fridge, to replenish the table. Or use a large mold if it's to be eaten now."

The "Sharing Recipes" cookbook, which was her idea as a fund-raiser for Lukemia Research Life, has sold some 2,200 copies since it was published in 1985. Anyone interested in obtaining a copy may contact Miller at 532-3064.

Miller is planning a second cookbook, "Sharing Recipes II." She will include "recipes for low-cholesterol my husband (James) has to watch his cholesterol, microwave recipes and children's recipes."

Miller baby sits every day with Christopher, 5, and Scott, 2, sons of daughter Betty Fryer of Westland. Another daughter, Carol Rachoza of Detroit, is a cook at Gest Omelette in Redford and has two daughters. Son James, who lives in Waterford, has van Doorn of Rochester Hills, the second-prize winner, could not be reached by phone. Her son Jason said, "She is in New Mexico, studying Indian history. She is taking a class at a college and staying 10 days on an Indian Reservation."

Many recipes adaptable to microwave cooking

AP - Microwave cooking is touted as a new way of cooking, and indeed it is. But you don't have to give up all your favorite recipes. Many can be adapted for quick cooking in your microwave.

Look for a microwave recipe similar to the one you want to adapt. For instance, to adapt a recipe calling for 1 pound of ground beef, look for a similar microwave recipe. For best results, choose foods that cook well in moist heat: chicken, fish, ground meat, vegetables, sauces and soups. To ensure uniform cooking, make sure pieces are as equal in shape and size as possible.

For soups, vegetables, fruits and main dishes, decrease or omit any fat used to prevent sticking. Foods don't tend to stick to the cooking dish in moist microwave heat.

You can reduce the liquid used in cooking beverages, soups, vegetables, fruits and main dishes by about one-third because there's much less evaporation in microwave cooking. Keep an eye on the food as it cooks and be ready to add a bit of liquid, if needed.

It's best not to tamper with ingredient proportions in baked products and candy. If a recipe fails in the microwave, go back to the conventional cooking directions.

Milk best way to get calcium

Who needs calcium? We all do. Everyone, regardless of age, sex or lifestyle, needs calcium every day for good health. Without calcium you run the risk of "them bones, them bones, them thin bones.

Teeth and bones contain 99 percent of the calcium in our bodies. The other 1 percent is involved in helping the body process function

IF YOUR body is not receiving enough calcium, it robs the bones to make sure your blood has enough. Your body can't make its own calcium, so it's up to you to eat calciumrich foods.

Infants and children need calcium to build strong bones and teeth. Teenagers need calcium because their bones are increasing in size. Adults need calcium to help the heart, muscles and nerves function, as well as to have healthy teeth and

Research is currently under way looking for the possible link between blood pressure and calcium.

Statistics report one out of every four American women is or will be an osteoporosis victim. Very low calcium intake over many years may result in this weakened bone condi-

MILK AND dairy products are the primary sources of calcium. The easiest way to get the calcium needed is to drink two glasses of milk and eat a variety of foods daily.

The other challenge is to increase the calcium intake without increasing calories.

Low-fat and skim milk have more calcium and less calories than whole milk. Boost the calcium by adding nonfat dry milk or fluid skim milk to meatloaf, sauces, casseroles and stews. Prepare canned soups with milk instead of water.

For a moist, juicy hamburger, add um Nonfat dry milk also may be added to mayonnaise for salad dressings, dips and sandwich spreads

Drink a cup of cocoa instead of the extra cup of coffee or tea. Use lowfat yogurt in muffins, breads or salad dressings. Of course, yogurt itself has lots of calcium, so it makes a great snack.

Ricotta cheese (made with skim milk), natural swiss, cheddar, gruyere, gouda, colby and muenster are all good calcium cheeses that may be added to salads, sandwiches or topping for casseroles.

SECONDARY CALCIUM sources are some foods from the meat, fruits and vegetable and grain groups.

Canned salmon, sardines, smelt, herring steaks and mackerel are all calcium containers. But you have to eat the bones from these canned fish no bones, no calcium. Stay away from those packed in oil.

Tofu (soybean curd) can also be a source of calcium. Calcium sulfate should be listed on the label. Nuts contain small amounts of calcium, but be careful of the fat.

MOST FRUITS and vegetables are poor sources of calcium. However, some of the leafy greens contain moderate amounts. It's possible to toss a calcium salad by using the right vegetables.

Start with a cup of chopped mus-tard greens, add broccoli florets, shredded turnip greens, collards, kale and watercress. This would be a low-calorie, high-calcium, nutritious salad, but hold the dressing. Greens can also be added to soups, stews and spaghetti sauce.

Most breads and grains are also poor sources of calcium. Using yogurt, evaporated milk or nonfat dry milk to make products such as cornbread, pancakes, muffins or breads will give them more calcium but certainly not enough. Read bread labels to see if calcium has been added

BASIL AND MINT MAYONAISSE

This pretty pale green mayonnaise is excellent in a shrimp or poached chicken salad. Also delicious on cold poached salmon, halibut or sole. For lunch, spread it on a sandwich of sliced tomatoes, lettuce and toasted Makes about 2 cups

2 egg yolks, room temperature l egg, room temperature 25 tablespoons fresh lemon juice

teaspoon salt

1 cup packed fresh basil leaves 2 tablespoons packed fresh mint leaves

I teaspoon grated lemon peel I garlic clove, crushed

Blend yolks, egg, 1 tablespoon lemon juice and salt in processor until creamy. With machine running gradually add oil in thin steady stream and process until mixture thickens Add basil, mint, lemon peel and garlic and blend until herbs are finely chopped, stopping occasionally to scrape down sides of bowl. Gradually blend in remaining lemon juice Cover and refrigerate until ready to use. (Can be prepared up to two days ahead)

An article, "Shortcuts with Style" by Abby Mandel in the July issue of Bon Appetit magazine, contains the following recipe

PEACHES AND CREAM SOUP

Enhanced with the tang of sour cream and the honeylike sweetness of Muscat wine, this delectable soup is a sophisticated starter for brunch or lunch. Best served the day it is Makes about 4 cups

5 very ripe unpeeled peaches, pitted and cut into 1-inch pieces

2 tablespoons sugar o cep sour cream 's cup Muscat or other sweet wine

4 cup milk 2 teaspoons vanilla

peach slices fresh mint sprigs

Using the steel blade of a food processor, process 5 peaches and sugar until smooth, stopping as necessary to scrape down sides of work bowl about 2 minutes. Add sour cream and wine and mix until smooth, 5 seconds

Strain peach mixture through fine mesh strainer if desired. Transfer to medium bowl Stir in milk and vanilla Cover and chill at least 4 and up to 8 hours before serving.

Ladle soup into bowls Garnish with peach slices and mint sprigs

Try deviled eggs featuring sardines

This recipe is from an article "Gourmet's Menus - a Smorgasbord" in the June issue of Gourmet

Eleven million people in the U.S. have diabetes. But almost half of them don't know it.

Untreated, diabetes can lead to heart disease, kidney disease, blindness and gangrene.

And for 150,000 people each year, it leads to death.

That's why you should be aware of the symptoms of diabetes: blurred vision, excessive thirst and frequent urination are just some of the warning signs. Because the sooner you find out if you have diabetes, the more likely you are to get it under control, before complications set in.

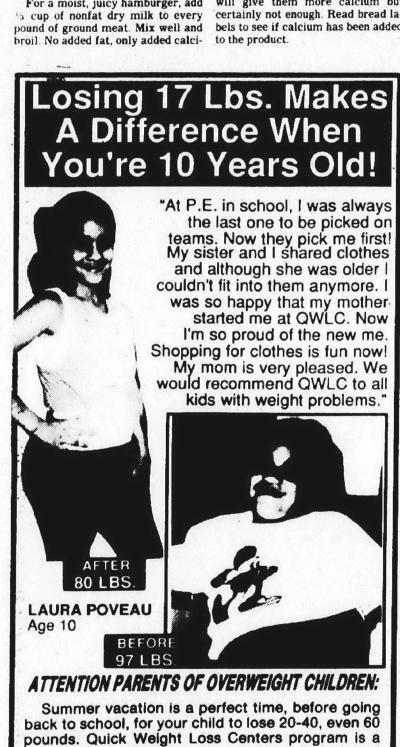

Finding out you have diabetes can be scary. But not finding out can be fatal.

PREVENT ARTHRITIS?

Arthritis results from one or more of the following injury, aging, heradity, infection, auto-immunity, and joint irritation. There is little from this list that you can control except injury. By being careful in your choice of recreation, and lucky in your ability to avoid mishaps, you may help bring your joints to a long and troublefree life. Otherwise, what brings on arthritis is beyond your control to correct or prevent

But your intervention is important. Repeated use when combined with moderate stress helps ligaments keep their strength, muscles to maintain their tone, and joint cartilage to preserve its integrity.

What constitutes "moderate stress?" The answer comes from your knowledge of the activities that you can undertake without causing undue and prolonged pain to your muscles and joints. In practice, undertaking moderate stress means walking, swimming, blking, or jogging as far and long as you are capable of doing. By going to your full measure, you do not wear out your joints, but preserve their state of health. At the same time, you have done what you can reasonably expect from yourself to prevent arthritis.

MY EDWARD HAS one of the best-recognized names among Observerland high school softball players.

And while much has been written about the Farmington Hills Mercy star's diamond exploits in recent seasons, neither readers nor opponents have heard the last of her.

Edward, who highlights the 1988 All-Observer softball team, is only a junior and will have one more year to add to her already impressive pitching and hitting statistics.

Mercy and Westland John Glenn had the area's most successful teams and, not surprisingly, produced half of the 10 players on the honor squad.

The Western Lakes Activities Association champion Rockets put three players on the team - catcher Brenda Coots, first baseman Denise Gumke and infielder Lolita Burgess while Edward is joined by teammate Kerry Sayers, an outfielder and another of four juniors on the

Amy Edward, junior, Our Lady of Mercy: Edward, one of the area's domi nant pitchers for two years, just might be the best all-round player in Observerland. n addition to being an excellent pitcher, she also hits the ball extremely well. Edward was 25-9-1 last season and has compiled a three-year pitching record of 55-19-1 for the Marlins, who have won district championships the last two years. She pitched 219 innings in 1988 and recorded 167 strikeouts, 67 walks and a 715 with 78 hits, 32 extra-base hits (21 doubles, eight triples, three home runs) and 47 RBI. She struck out just twice.

(Edward) is one of those players who comes along once in a coach's career, Mercy coach Suzanne Brown said. "I was just lucky to have her come as a freshman and in my first year of coaching.

"I can honestly say that Mercy's success in the past three years can mostly be attributed to Arny Edward

Kristen Wasil, senior, Garden City: Wasii followed in the footsteps of former Cougar star Shelly Malone and compiled an 18-8 record with six shutouts when it was her turn to be the team's top pitcher last season

Wasil, who posted a 32-11 career ecord, struck out 165 and walked 42 in 175 innings last season. Opponents managed just 1.44 runs against her per game.

In her career, she had 258 strikeouts, 90 walks and a 1.61 ERA. Wasil hit .273, scored 25 runs and had 17 RBI as a sen-

Kris is an excellent defensive pitcher with great control," Garden City coach Barry Patterson said. "The one quality I admired most about Kris was that when the game was on the line, she was always at her best.

Brenda Coots, senior, John Glenn: Coots was one of the mainstays in a potent Rocket lineup, hitting .466 in 24 games, tying teammate Beth Wilson for most hits (35) and leading the team in runs scored with 46. Coots, who earned a softball scholar ship to Wayne State, also had 11 extrabase hits (three homers, four doubles, four triples) and 36 RBI. From her catching position, she made 68 putouts and 10

(Coots) is a very aggressive catcher with a strong arm," Glenn coach Linda Jimenez said. "She hits for power, yet can bunt for a base hit. It will be very tough to replace her next year."

Denise Gumke, senior, John Glenn: Gumke hit 303 last season and had 25 RBI. She had her best game against Lakes Division co-champion Plymouth Salem when she hit two triples.

Gumke, a tricaptain for the league champs, scored 22 runs, hit six doubles, walked 18 times and struck out just seven times in 66 at-bats. She also made 103 putouts and made her only errors while playing second base.

'Denise is very coachable, is well-liked by her teammates and is a very hard worker," Jimenez said.

Lisa Manning, senior, Stevenson: Manning, a second baseman and an infield selection on the All-Area team hit 407 with 24 hits in 59 plate appearances.

She scored 20 runs, slugged one home run and a pair of triples and knocked in 12 runs. She also stole five bases and struckout three times.

'As a leadoff hitter, Lisa was aggressive, determined and extremely intense, Stevenson coach Pat Solarz said.

"Lisa's season highlight was our victory over John Glenn when she had a home run, a triple and a flawless defensive

Ann Mundinger, junior, Salem: Mundinger had to carry much of the hitting load after the Rocks graduated several outstanding hitters from their 1987 team, and she responded with a .446 average, 20 RBI and 20 runs scored.

She also had three triples and six doubles, and she never struck out. Playing shortstop for the first time, she made 43 putouts and assisted on 95 other plays. She is a three-year starter and two-time all-league player

'Ann hits the ball hard and is very consistent," Salem coach Rob Willette said. 'She has a strong arm and is very good defensively

Todd Marion fouls off a pitch during the all-star um. Marion distinguished himself on the baseball game, sponsored by the Michigan mound as opposed to at the plate. Baseball Coaches Association, at Tiger Stadi-

Marion stars in relief for East All-Star unit

staff writer

Todd Marion is more accustomed to watching other players pitch from the mound at Tiger Stadium.

The Plymouth Salem baseball star has seen that background view from the center-fielder camera countless times during telecasts of Detroit Tigers games. In Thursday's annual high school all-star contest, however, Marion was the man standing on top of pitcher's mound. The University of Michigan recruit pitched two perfect innings in relief, but he was unable to affect the Marion was called on to work the eighth and ninth innings after the West All-Stars (the team representing the out-state area) scored seven runs in the seventh and beat the East (the team made up of city and suburban players) 8-4.

"IT WAS WEIRD out there with the familiar stands, the seats, behind home plate," said Marion, who was joined on the East squad by Redford Catholic Central infielder Kevin Rogers. "I felt like I was on TV. It was an experience. Marion, who made his Tiger Stadium pitching debut, would have impressed the viewers if the game had been He retired the top of the West in order on a groundout, popout and strikeout in the eighth. It was virtually the same in the ninth - an infield liner to second and two outfield flyouts.

Marion's late-game pitching stint eased the disappointment over two unsuccessful times at bat early in the game

He started in left field - Rogers opened and played five innings at second - and struck out when he came up against Matt Bauer (Saginaw Nouvel Catholic Central) in the second and Dan Brown (Dexter) in the fourth.

baseball

"When you pitch well, you tend to forget the strikeouts," Marion said. "It's always good to end on a good note.

"I CAN FORGET about the at-bats and say I pitched pretty well. That made my day."

Rogers, who assisted on two putouts, had a day similar to Marion, grounding out to second and short in his two at-bats.

He still enjoyed the opportunity to play at Tiger Stadium, though it didn't top winning the Class A title his junior year as far as high school thrills are concerned.

"I did but I wish I would have hit a little better," he said. "I played the field well, I thought. "It's tough competition when you've got 18 of the best guys on each team. And it's not a win-or-lose situation.

It was fun facing some of the top pitchers. "I played five innings and couldn't ask for much more," he added. "I had my chances."

MARION, WHO has hit .400-plus with power the last two seasons at Salem, also was philosophical about his plate appearances. "That's life. Everyone out there can throw," he said.

"We struck out 16 times as a team today, so I don't feel too bad.

"Everybody here has the same dream - to hit one in the upper deck.

"I was a little anxious. I was looking for the fastball over the plate, but I didn't see that pitch.

Teeters begins task of rebuilding SC team

By C.J. Risak staff writer

In almost anyone's view, the 1987 campaign was highly successful for Schoolcraft College's volleyball team.

Pardon SC coach Tom Teeters if he doesn't entirely share that sentiment.

Teeters wouldn't call last year dismal or disappointing, not with a 37-9 match record and an Eastern Conference title. But after reaching the NJCAA tournament the two previous seasons, failing to do so - the Lady Ocelots were knocked out of tournament consideration by Southwestern Michigan CC in the Region XII finals - does not spell success to him.

Now Teeters is faced with the task of rebuilding the team. Gone are four players who shared three starting positions, including NJCAA All-American Jill Ehlert, who has accepted a scholarship to play at University of Toledo.

The SC coach has not been idle. He has seven newcomers to mold into what he hopes will be another conference champion.

THE RECRUITS are typical of Teeters: The most talented are short by volleyball standards, and the tallest have untapped po-

"I'm pleased with the top talent," was his assessment of his recruiting class. "I would have liked to have picked up more depth and more height. But I've never had (height) here, so I should be used to it."

volleyball

At the top of Teeter's class is Wayne Memorial graduate Jo Ann Kolnitys, a 5-foot-9 all-Observer performer who's talented enough to play anywhere. Kolnitys was a setter and middle blocker for the Zebras. Teeters plans on trying her at both those positions and outside hitter.

"She did a good job at both for Wayne," he said. "She led her team in kills and sets. I'm looking at her as a starter. She'll go wherever we can get some points, or where we need her the most."

Kolnitys' stature as the biggest recruit signed this year by Teeters can't be proven until the start of the '88 campaign. But there can be no argument as to who the smallest recruit is.

ALISHA LOVE earns that distinction without argument. Love stands merely 5-1, and Teeters admitted that may be stretching it. But her ability is unquestioned.

Love graduated from Detroit Henry Ford in 1984, got married and had two children. Although she hasn't played regularly as a member of a team since, she did stay in volleyball shape by competing in tournaments and at SC's Sunday Health Club

Her size is a detriment, but Love's other qualities make her another possible starter.

"She has a 30-inch vertical jump," said Teeters. "She's definitely the fastest person on the team, and she's also the strongest kid per pound on the team.

"She could be an outside hitter. That's her strong suit right now. We're going to work her at setter, too. She's the most exciting new player we have."

THERE WERE two areas Teeters targeted for improvement through recruiting serving and outside hitting. "I think we'll improve in the speed of our attack with Jo Ann," he said. "I'm hoping we can get some good attacking from our taller players."

Walter's blasts LCBL opponent

An 11-hit barrage carried Walter's Appliance to a 12-4 victory Wednesday over Wendy's of Ann Arbor in a Livonia Collegiate Baseball League game at Ford Field

Mickey Katschor went 3-for-3 with an RBI double to pace Walter's. which evened its LCBL record at 7-7 Steve Owens contributed two hits and three RBI, while Ed Shepler and Mark Wolter each collected a pair of hits and two RBI

Joe Mackiewicz, the winning pitcher, worked all seven innings. He struck out seven, walked four and scattered eight hits

baseball

In a game played Wednesday at Plymouth Salem High, Tom Holzer Ford bumped off second place Hines Park Lincoln-Mercury, 13-9, as catcher Kevin Ritter belted a pair of two-run homers. The blasts came in the third and fourth innings.

Bob Tatro added a solo homer as in the fourth. Keith Dutkiewicz added two hits and knocked in three runs, while Paul Newitt also collect-

DAN HILLIARD, the winning pitcher, allowed one run in 45 innings of relief. He also helped his own cause with a two-run single in the fourth Hilliard ended a Hines Park threat in the bottom of the seventh when he fanned his sixth batter of the night with the bases loaded.

Dan Niemiec belted a grand slam homer in the second and Chris Sisler Hines Park, which slipped to 9-5

First place Little Caesars of Livonia wiped out South Lyon Londo, 13-5, as Steve Malgay contributed two hits and three RBI in the second game of a doubleheader at Ford

Chris Kloc, the Caesars starter, picked up with win with relief help from Stevel Witt, who gave up just one hit during his stint on the mound.

Caesars entered weekend action with a 12-2 record.

Marion atones with good pitching

Darin Dreasky of Flint Carman-Ainsworth, who was named MVP for the West, realized the dream of which Marion spoke, and it was especially noteworthy because of the pitcher who threw him the gopherball - Steve Avery of Taylor Kennedy, the No. 3 pick in the recent Major League draft

The one-out, first-inning shot gave the West a 1 0 lead that held up until the fourth when Craig Mayes of Warren, the MVP on the East, but the first of two doubles to drive in the tving run

THE EAST CUT the deficit in half when Avery, who pitched three innings, allowed three hits, struck out four and walked one, slammed the ball over the head of center fielder Steve Buerkle (Linden) for a two-run triple.

Avery, trying for an inside-the-park homer, scored on the play but as the result of a throwing

Chris Galloway (Jackson) pitched two innings and got the victory. Prior to the decisive seventh inning, the East had runners at second and third with no outs in the sixth, but Galloway pitched out

When it's 90° outside, life can be a beach

Surviving sand, surf

Monday, June 27, 1988 O&E

By Doug Funke staff writer

Let's go to the beach!

Yeah The hot sun, warm sand, cool lake. Blue sky, gentle breezes

Screaming seagulls. Girls watching guys and guys eyeing girls. Great tans. Slim bodies.

Harried parents chasing after tod-

The little ones afraid to step into the water. The preteens who don't want to come out.

You see and hear it all at the beach.

But how to survive all the excite-

It all depends on where you're coming from. Not distance, silly, but LET'S FACE it. A group of young singles will have different needs than parents chaperoning their own kids or a school group.

There are needs, then there are

Everyone, regardless of age, needs suntan lotion. No ifs, ands or buts about it. There's no argument any more about the need to protect skin from massive doses of direct sunlight.

You don't see many people lathering up with baby oil or drawing sun's rays to their bodies with foil-like reflectors anymore.

But the most important thing young singles seem to need at the beach is a healthy libido. They'll tell you that, themselves, in so many

"YOU NEED girls," said Rich Ka-

'You need binoculars for scoping out girls," said Brian Day.

And - surprise, surprise, surprise groups of girls seem to set up for the day close to groups of guys.

Which brings us to other necessi-

You gotta look cool as well as be cool.

So, bring your sunglasses. Preferably, the mirrored aviator type so you can look out but others can't look in, said Steve Peters.

Of course, sunglasses also protect the eyes, right kids?

Speaking of cool, let's not forget the cooler. Loaded to the gills with pop, juice, lemonade, iced tea - or whatever.

Beer, wine and liquor generally aren't allowed at public beaches

BECAUSE YOU must be at least 21 to drink alcoholic beverages legally, and you want to be clear-headed if you swim, it's best to chill out by leaving the sauce — unless it's of the barbecue variety - at home.

"A radio is also a must. The larger and louder absolutely the better," said Paul Wrona, a lifeguard at Kensington Metropark.

Unless you plan-to spend all day on a beach towel/blanket or in the water, other diversions must be nique might not get the desired results in a suburban singles bar.

Food, surprisingly, doesn't seem to be a big priority item for the singles

And what of mom and dad?

THEY KNOW the most important ingredient for their survival is pa-

Adults with kids tend to prefer shade to the sun, a lawn chair to a blanket and reading material to a Frisbee.

Munchies and food are important. Crowds aren't.

"For kids, you need enough food to keep everyone happy all the time," said lifeguard Wrona. "That's all

Karlos Barney

But sand toys are even more important, maintained Ray Beardem. 'Without (sand) tools, it's almost a waste of time to come out here for them," Beardem said of his daughter and her little classmates. "They put that before food '

Kids can be fickle, so a sense of humor often helps.

If you just want to swim or soak up the rays, go to any beach - or backvard pool for that matter.

If you want more, consider a place like Kensington Metropark, easily accessible to Oakland and Wayne County residents via I-96.

A daily vehicle permit for $2 or an annual permit for $10 will get you into the 4,350-acre park. The facility is open year-around 6 a.m. to 10 p.m.

You can launch your own boat in Kent Lake, rent a rowboat, peddleboat or sailboat. Or even hitch a ride on the park's own Island Queen pad-

Speed limit on the lake is 10 miles per hour. Water skiing is prohibited. Fish for bass, walleye, bluegill and crappies. Make sure, however, that you bring your fishing license.

The nature center is open 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily during the summer. Exhibits have included the food chain in nature and hands-on offerings in which people can get a real "feel" for nature.

NATURALISTS, available to answer questions, periodically host special programs. The center is the gateway for four nature trails ranging from 1/2 to 21/4 miles in length. Deer, chipmunks, squirrels, birds, fish and a variety of plant life can be observed during a quiet walk. The farm center, open 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., includes a large barn, a poultry house and, of course, animals. The center is home to cows, horses, sheep, goats, pigs, chickens, roosters, ducks and rabbits.

Some animal always seems to be tending to a newborn on the farm.

You want activity with a little more movement?

Hiking and biking trails can take vou into all kinds of interesting nooks and crannies.

KENSINGTON has a challenging golf course and no leagues to limit walk-on play.

'Classic' is race for anybody

By Tom Henderson staff writer

Running without racing is like always practicing softball without ever playing a game. Yet, many runners do exactly that. They plod through the neighborhood day after day, by themselves, but for one reason or another never think of entering races, which is where the fun is.

Maybe they don't know about races and never thought about entering them. Maybe they think races are just for the sleek, flat-bellies who used to run track in high school or

Are you new to running, or a veteran jogger who has never pinned on a number at a race and run with a crowd? Want to see what racing is all about? Then do we have a race for you!

The annual Redford Roadrunner Classic, run the last Saturday in July, is the ideal race to enter if you've never run one before. At five miles, the distance is manageable. The race is superbly organized. It is on a flat, easy course. There is a wonderful dance and party after.

What do you get for your money? A race (or two races, for the hearty), a muscle shirt, dinner after the run. plenty of beer or pop, and a dance in the parking lot of Veteran's Park, adjacent to the Livonia YMCA.

So now you're sold on the idea that the race gives you value for your buck. But you're not so sure that you can go five miles.

If you're the least bit in shape - if you own a pair of running shoes and have actually gone out a few times to do a mile or two around the block then you can use the accompanying chart as a crash course to prepare you for the test of your first

You can measure off miles through your neighborhood with your car odometer, or you can go run at a local high school track, which is a quarter mile around.

DON'T WORRY about the schedule not having any runs as long as the five miles you'll do on race day. The adrenaline of your first race, the crowd of fellow runners, and organized aid stations along the way will be more than enough to get you through.

Be careful, though. Nearly all novice races start off too fast. It isn't till the second mile or so that they realize they are running far faster than usual. That gets you into oxygen

Single men spend more money

(AP) - When it comes to clothing, it turns out that single men buy more than sir. le women.

But they're buying a lot of it for the women, not themselves, researchers have found. Men also spend more than women on eating out, entertainment, alcoholic beverages, tobacco and cars.

Single women, on the other hand, spend more of their income on housing, food eaten at home, health care and reading material.

Those are among the findings reported recently by American Demographics magazine. American Demographics, published by Dow Jones & Company, concentrates on population and marketing. The report is based on a study of spending by singles in 1984 and 1985.

WHILE THE study of spending by single people reported that the males spend more on clothing - on average - the difference rests entirely with men aged 55 to 64.

"Men aged 55 to 64 spent $1,128 a year on apparel and services in 1984-85, compared with the $682 a year spent by the women in that group," said Stephanie Shipp, who heads the analysis branch of the Bureau of Labor Statistics' division of consumer expenditure surveys.

"Much of that difference can be accounted for by men's purchasing of apparel as gifts," she wrote. "Almost 25 percent of the apparel budget of men goes toward gifts, compared with 14 percent of the apparel budget of women. "More than half of the men's apparel gift purchases are for jewelry more on health than men in their age and watches - and women are the likely recipients of many of those WOMEN OUTSPENT men on apparel in all other age groups, but the one deviation was enough to pull average clothing spending for all single men above that of single women, $735 to $657, Shipp found.

STREET BEATS

Frank Funaro (left), Eric Ambel, Manny Caiati and Scott Kempner of the Del-Lords will bring their hard rocking sound to Saint Andrew's Hall on Thursday.

The Del-Lords won't compromise

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

ramed

Sure, there are plenty of up-and-coming bands with high ideals and integrity.

But wave a beer sponsorship deal in front of their noses so they get a whiff of megabucks, and integrity goes faster than hot air out of a balloon. The Del-Lords had their chance at Miller Time.

They turned it down. Del-Lords is a band on a mission. The New York-based group brings their slice-of-life, American pie brand of rock 'n' roll into town Thursday at Saint Andrew's Hall.

The band is touring in support of its latest album, "Based On A True Story" (Enigma), which has drawn rave reviews from critics.

The Del-Lords were founded by Scott Kempner and Manny Caiati in 1981. The group released two albums before their latest offering, "Frontier Days" (Enigma/EMI America) and "Johnny Comes Marching Home" (Enigma/EMI America).

Recently, Kempner talked about the group's recent success, why it turned down a beer sponsorship and the late '80s music scene.

"Based on a True Story" has received a lot of rave reviews. Yet you really haven't been able to crack commercial radio. How frustrating is that?

"We got on 150 more stations with "Judas Kiss" than we did on the other two albums combined. For me, it's just kind of starting. We're not yet at the point of frustration."

How do you think growing up in New York influ-

"I really think I'm one of those guys . . . no matter where I'm at, I know I'm from New York. I think that's in the music. Even though I might not be writing directly about New York, I think there's a specific amount energy of growing up there in the music, a high-level of intensity if you will. It's a thing you bring with you growing up in What inspired you to write the song "Chevenne" (an urban boy's romantic view of the wild West)?

"It's the grass-is-greener thing, you know. When life gets bad, you always think of change. Like somewhere there's got to be a better place, especially growing up in New York. The guy writing that song is probably hearing the neighbors fighting, and he realizes he has neighbors on top of him, to the right of him, to the left of him and below him. He's had to live this way his whole life, and the only escape has been this electronic device, the TV

"I think the Cheyenne in that song is from TV shows like 'Sky King' and 'The Long Ranger.' I think when I wrote that song I was in a younger head. I've since been to all those towns, and I know it's not where cowboys ride on the plains. It was power of myth more than anything."

What inspired you to turn down the beer sponsorship deal (Miller Beer wanted to use "True Love" in one of their commercial jingles)?

"I can't pretend that we didn't really need the money or anything. Also, I can't pretend to find it to be a big noble cause, but we turned it down. It's a personal crusade. My music is a very personal thing. I've never been a guy to do things on a grand scale. I don't like my songs to be anthems.

"I don't live my life to be a symbol of righteousness. I do have certain values and things that mean a lot to me, though. I guess I've been spoiled by growing up in the '60s. It was a time of really high ideals and believing in the power of youth and the power of forming a brand new utopian community. The rock and roll was our grapevine. That was our jungle drum, our telephone if you will. Perhaps I was a little too idealistic to believe in this, but I feel that the music had something to do with the war in Vietnam ending when it did.

"I'm surprised people my age (34) today don't retain those type of ideals . . . I don't think getting in bed with a corporation is conducive with making fair, representational music of an era.

How do you survive in this business and still keep your idealism?

What we consider survival, others consider starving. We're not eating steaks every day, but now we can afford a pizza every day. We don't have a boss. We're doing what we want to do. Every day when we go to work, we work on our own dream. We're 10 times more optimistic than a guy waking up to a job where he is trapped.

"For some people, it's matter of greed. Like the problem with radio. Several new music stations popped in New York, and they were doing well. But they weren't doing as well as stations playing the classic rock thing. The end result, guys who own those (new music) stations instead of being satisfied with making $1 million, because the guy down the street is making $1.8 million, they want to make that $1.8 million too."

Do you think that type of conviction is lacking in bands today?

"I think the music sounds like scared music. Too many bands are looking to follow an already successful formula. I think rock and roll, even at its worst, will always reflect what's going on around us. I think right now music is a microcosm of today's society. With the stock market crash ... and the national debt, things are on shaky bottom. I think the music reflects that.

"The surest formula for success in the '60s was originality. You don't have radio stations clamoring over one another to play something new. Instead they're clamoring over one another to play Jethro Tull for the second decade in a row. Who needed it the first time?

"I finally realized I'm not a part of this society. I want to be a part of it, but only on my terms. And a band like the Del-Lords doesn't fit in. We are our own private enterprise, our own little

STAY ON THESE ROADS

This is Pop music with a capital 'P' from a band, a-ha, that otherwise avoids capital letters. "Stay on these roads" (Warner Brothers) is the third album from aha, which you may recall, scored big with the single "Take On Me" in 1985. If you do remember that upbeat tune you get a pretty good idea of this latest offering.

The band's press release tells us that one in four households in a-ha's native Norway has a copy of the album "Hunting High and Low" from whence "Take On Me" came. That's exposure. Pal Waaktaar, Mags, and Norten Harket make catchy, melodic music and even have cover-boy good looks.

A press release says that a-ha is "a group that's already defined what pop music for the 1990s is all about."
That statement is — shall we say generous. Very generous. "Stay on these roads" isn't definid much of anything. It's thin on sinstance and leaves you wanting.

The a-ha sound is heavy on synthesizer riffs and heavy on falsetto vocals, both of which can get annoying. It's like The Archies meet tech-cliches and adolescent love affairs.

Social problems are dealt with in a subtle, yet poignant way. "Cherry Tree,"a guitar-sparked number, is about the loneliness that comes with being illiterate. Child abuse ("What's The Matter Here?") and alcoholism ("Don't Talk") also take turns in the spotlight.

The group perhaps might be guilty of sermonizing at times, like Merchant does in "Gun Shy." The anti-While it's easy to get carried away with the lyrics, musicianship certainly isn't lacking. The deft guitar work of Robert Buck lays the foundation for many of the songs. From the sparse piano number, "Verdi Cries." to the mandolin-rich "City of Angels," 10,000 Maniacs cook.

And the group certainly knows how to entertain as the quirky, yet very enjoyable "Like the Weather" would attest. No heavy social issue here, just a well-performed pop number. Hey, and they even throw in a cover of Cat Steven's "Peace

WHY ALL this fuss about a great black and white beast? The giant panda was recorded in the Shijing. the Book of Songs, 1,000 years ago. but it is only 120 years since the western world discovered the bear and went panda-crazy. In those days. the great 'explorers' were naturalists like Pere Armand David of France, who brought home the first exciting description of pandas from the mountains of central China.

Kermit and Theodore Roosevelt Jr went east with their hunting rifles in 1928 and brought the first panda skin back to America; it went to the Field Museum in Chicago.

Chicago also got the first live panda when Ruth Harkness brought Su-Lin and later Me-Mei to the Brookfield Zoo in the late 1930s. Her rival Floyd Tangier Smith captured six of the great mythical beasts, one of which ended up in the St. Louis Zoo.

Everybody wanted the giant panda. The Bronx Zoo got Pandora, who created a sensation at the 1939 New York World's Fair, later Madame Chiang Kai-shek gave the Bronx Zoo Pan-dee and Pand-dah as thanks for

Climb every mountain

Birmingham woman scales new heights atop McKinley

By Dave Varga staff writer

Waiting for her group's chance to scale Mount McKinley last month, Sue (Murray) Dunaway was not very confident she'd reach the summit.

Only one man had ascended the highest peak in North America from this more difficult West Rib this year, and the last time a guided group reached the summit from that side was in 1982.

Then, there were the two Swiss men at base camp who hadn't made

"As we left base camp the news was not good," said the Birmingham native after she returned. "It was real depressing to me to see these big strong Austrian men who didn't make it to the summit.

This was to be Dunaway's second real mountain climb. An outdoorsy type who did a lot of camping with her parents as a child, the 28-yearold had just recently taken up climbing. A couple years back she scaled a smaller Grand Teton in Wyoming and then took an ice climbing course in Colorado.

Sue Dunaway climbed higher than she'd ever gone before.

NOW, SHE was part of a six-man and two-woman team determined to tackle the West Rib, something as few as a hundred people had ever done. No one in her group, including the three guides, had ever achieved the summit from that angle.

Each carried backpacks, with 70 pounds worth of food and equipment. hey prepared to brave temperatures of 40 degrees below zero; winds that can blow 100 miles per hour and altitude changes that can kill a person who goes up too fast or has the wrong body chemistry, Dunaway said.

They traveled 20 or 25 miles up the mountain, and they traveled most of that distance two times carrying half their equipment up to a higher camp, then climbing back down to sleep and then going back

Their days consisted of getting up around 8 or 9 a.m. and working on breakfast until about noon. It took that long to cook their pancakes and sausage over one burner, then tediously melt snow into water for the day's drinks.

From there, they climbed for about six hours, sometimes straight They would be roped together in her.

groups of two or three, in case one fell. I was surprised at the amount of ice climbing," Dunaway said. "I had a couple nights where I wondered if I endangered any of the other climbers.

FOR THE NEXT few hours they would set up camp, picking a relatively flat spot, then stomping out the snow to make it even flatter. They would put poles in the ground and rope off the camp area, Dunaway said, to make sure they knew where they could walk safely, without sliding thousands of yards down the mountain.

Dinner was cooked from about 9 p.m. to midnight, including melting more snow for water. For the first week or so, they carried frozen meat and vegetables, which made their load heavier but contributed to better stamina than freeze dried meals would have, she said. "We're pretty sure that's what helped us," Dunaway said.

A few days later, they found and ate some steaks that the Swiss climbers had cached in the snow with a sign offering them to whoever wanted them. "That was probably foolish because we didn't know how long they were there or if they had thawed," she said.

They slept about eight hours a night. During her first night on the mountain Dunaway said she was the most exhausted, partly because they hadn't used any food supplies yet. After that, she said, she got stronger and eventually lost 10 or 12 pounds, becoming "rock solid," she said.

After 18 days of climbing, they set their highest camp at 17,200 feet and set their sights on the 20,320 foot

They left camp at noon. At about 18,000 feet the other woman climber needed to be given a drug to help regulate her breathing and she dropped back with another climber.

"WHEN WE hit 19,500 feet, that was my wall," Dunaway said. "It just hit me all of a sudden. I couldn't swallow. The air was real dry or something."

She developed a cough and was becoming dehydrated. After some fluids, Dunaway was able to continue.

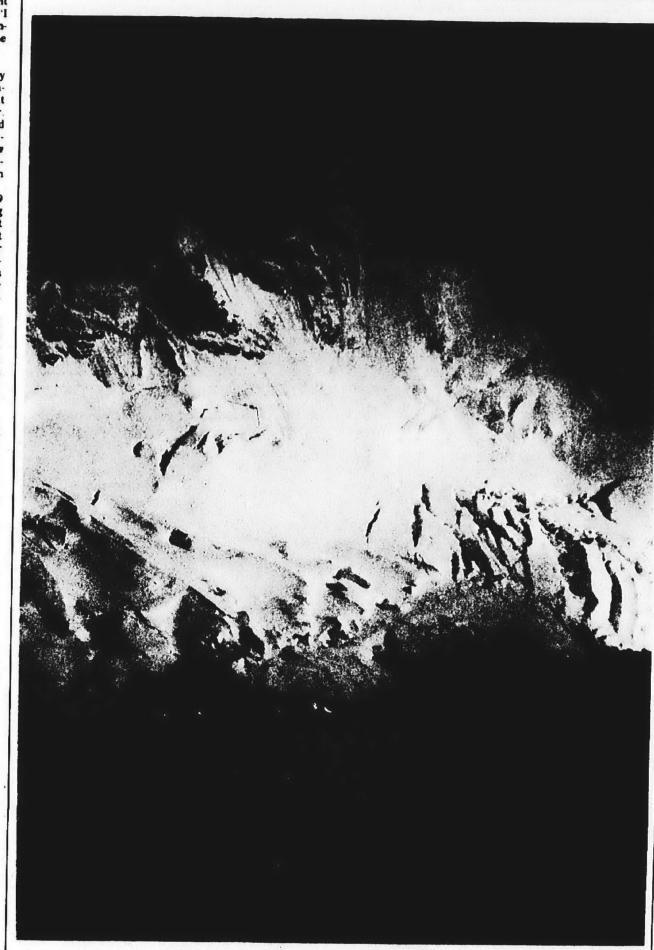

As they neared the summit, they had heard a radio report about a group having "trouble" on the mountain. Soon after, they saw a pair of climbing spikes called crampons hanging from a pole stuck in the snow. They figured someone had

"I was so numb at that point. We about it. Why would someone leave their crampons?" Dunaway said.

After getting off the mountain, they read that a woman had collapsed there just a day before they arrived. Since she couldn't be resuscitated and she couldn't be carried and the mountain is too dangerous for a helicopter rescue, she died

WHEN DUNWAY'S husband, Craig, and other family members heard a local radio report about an unnamed woman dying on Mount McKinley, they made some quick telephone calls.

"I told my family, 'No news is good news. If you ever hear about a death, remember they contact the family first," she said. That didn't stop Craig from calling the ranger cluded. up ice covered couloirs or gorges. station until they found out it wasn't

For the climb, each member of Dunaway's group packed 70 pounds of equipment to help brave possible temperatures of 40 degrees below zero and winds up to 100 miles per hour.

Dunaway's group beat the odds. They all made it to the top of the mountain, took their fantastic, top of the world photos from the peak and climbed back down to camp by 1:30 a.m. Three days later they were back at base camp.

"It was the hardest thing I've ever done - but the best," Dunaway con-

The main reason they made the ascent was the weather - there were 18 of 21 "beautiful days," Dunaway said.

"I don't remember being cold, not really. It got probably to 35 or 40 below, as advertised. I think it's because there was no wind.

"Wind was never a problem. We were probably the luckiest group to ever climb the mountain." In addition to luck, Dunaway was also prepared. She studied books and articles about climbing and the psychology of survival; worked on weight machines, tread mills, bicycles and running; and she got a second job to pay for the $2,000 in equipment.

AFTER SHE got home, Dunaway's mother repenned a version of Willie Nelson's popular "Mama's Don't Let Your Babies Grow Up To about climbers.

The song epitomized her family's pride and fear about Dunaway's obsession with mountain climbing.

Would she do it again?

"On one hand it was too good an experience not to. But I don't know if I'm going to top this. It's in my blood and I know I'm going to want to.'

Toledo: little town by the Maumee grows up

Toledo's expanding skyline is one clue that there's a lot more to do on weekend nights in the Midwestern city than there used to be.

Editor's note: Yes, yes, we told you about the great American renaissance of Toledo on these pages last week. But the longer we look at the "Glass City," the more excitement we uncover. Besides, where can you go for so much fun on less than a tank of gas?

So sit back, relax and enjoy "Toledo - the Sequel," which we offer below. For an update on the Toledo Zoo panda exhibit, please turn to Page 5D.

By Iris Sanderson Jones contributing travel editor

The regular Friday night Rally by the River is in full swing, with cheerful crowds flowing across the grassy slopes, sipping beer from paper cups and listening to live music from the Promenade Park stage.

Where am I? Downtown, on the the bank of the Maumee River, in the heart of Toledo, Ohio. It is only an hour's drive from most parts of metro Detroit, but when was the last time you were here? Some people say that we ignore Toledo because of Michigan chauvinism. We don't recognize the city because it is across the state line in Ohio. Others say we're still mad because we wanted Toledo to be part of Michigan and we got the Upper Peninsula instead. Whatever the reason, you missing an interesting, modestly priced day trip or weekend if you don't put Toledo on your schedule of things to do this summer.

IF YOU haven't been to Toledo for a while, you'll be amazed at the new waterfront. The sailboats still go by on the Maumee River, but now they anchor offshore within earshot of the Rally music.

Those once rundown riverside streets have been totally rebuilt between the High Level and Martin Luther King Jr. Memorial (Cherry Street) bridges.

The main attraction is Portside, one of those waterfront food-shopplay places that the Rouse Company has built all over America.

IF YOU want to do a low-budget overnight trip for two to Toledo this summer, three manageable hotels are downtown beside the river. The newest is the charming high-rise Radisson, connected to one end of the Sea Gate convention center, the Holiday Inn Riverview is connected to the other end.

The former Hotel Sofitel, which has been taken over by Marriott, is a block away connected to Portside.

Weekday rate for a nice room at the Radisson is $79 for two. Weekends you can get it for $59. An alternative to chain hotels is the Mansion View bed-and-breakdowntown. A five-story mansion built in 1887, so far it only has one bedroom available ($55 per night, double occupancy, including continental breakfast), but it will have three by mid-summer and five by hotels.

Bathrooms are in the room, not down the hall.

The address is 2035 Collingwood Blvd., Toledo 43620. Or telephone (419) 244-5676 or 478-8800. It is on the corner of US-24 (Telegraph Road in Detroit) and Collingwood, the street of old mansions and beautiful churches in Toledo's Old West End.

ADMISSION IS free for the Rally by the River and a call to the Eventsline, (419) 241-1111, will tell you who is playing and when. Previous concerts have featured oldies rock by the Turtles and local groups like the Haircuts.

You don't see picnic baskets at the Rally. Organizers stamp your hand when you enter to prove you are 21 years old; only then can you buy large paper cups of beer for $1.50 each. There are a few food vendors, but most people go out for food after early-evening concerts. Most people move next door to the casual restaurants at Portside. But if you want to do the shirtand-tie bit, try Ricardo's on the lower level of the nearby Owens Illinois building, with a great view of the river. Or an intimate dinner at The Wine Cellar. Or an expensive but tasty feast at the Boody House (live jazz is downstairs in Digby's). Post-Rally music can also be found at Theos Taverna or Greek Village. All of the above are on or near Summit, within a block or so of the Rally site. If you want to get out of town a bit, a Comedy Club is in South Toledo; or try Looma Linda's, a rowdy Mexican joint near the airport, where people stand in line for the famous margueritas. Other local hangouts include Kelsey's, Nick and Jimmy's and Arnie's on the west side.

OUR WHOLE color scheme may evolve from the pattern of a fabric or a wallpaper you fall in love with. Two or three appealing prints may suggest two or three entirely different color schemes

Or you might begin at the end, with the mental image of a particular color range, and search until find a pattern you like

The size of the room and the furniture shape your formal choice. Scale and mood are almost as important as the color.

Great bold prints can overpower a small room, but can be strikingly beautiful in a large one. Of course, you can't get into too much trouble going for patterns that are small, but the effect will be extremely dull.

For scale's sake, you should, before your final selection, see a sample length in the room and on the furniture it will be used to cover. When you have narrowed the field down to two or three alternative color schemes, spreading them out on the furniture makes your decision almost obvious.

THERE IS no established formula or rule of thumb for mixing patterns, stripes, mini prints and solid colors. I enjoy seeing the same print repeated again and again walls, upholstery and draperies.

In using a print on upholstery, i.e. chintz, I would use it again on the windows and another upholstered chair. From there, a stripe, check, plaid or mini print for your smaller pieces, solid for your larger scale.

Variety of texture makes a tremendous difference in the total effect of decorating scheme. The effect of texture is subtle.

Q. I can't afford central air and about die when it gets so hot. Is there a way to organize for heat waves?

A. Yes, it's important to plan ahead for heat - otherwise, you won't have what you need when you need it. Since I'm originally from the Southwest, I've dealt with extreme heat and will share some of the little things that help me:

First, don't on oppressive days. People in the tropics take afternoon "siestas" for a reason - it's too darned hot to work.

Remember that heat rises and cool air descends. Do heavy physical activity or work in higher areas early while it's still cooler and, if possible, "hide out" on a shady patio or in a basement to do quieter tasks later in the day. If your basement is dank, invest in a dehumidifier and "mildew stop" packets (from the hardware store) to enhance the atmosphere.

RETAIN MIDDAY temperatures some 15 degrees cooler by closing things down early and keeping hot air out.

Using the "cool and dark" method, shut tight all doors, windows, shades and curtains by around 7 or 8 a.m., leaving a few windows on the shady side slightly open for ventilation. Then throw open your windows at night to cool off for the next day. (A simple guide is to close doors and windows when inside air is cooler, open when outside air is cooler.) Keep off all lights, ovens or other heat-producing elements. Window air conditioning units can be lifesavers. Keep fans running; moving air has a cooling effect. Try installing a ceiling fan in your office or living area.

An attic fan in an upper/central hallway will make sleeping cooler by drawing hot air up and out through the roof and bringing cooler night air in through the windows. Also, it may be cooler to sleep down on the floor than up on the bed or with your head to the foot of the bed for better cross-ventilation

KEEP BODY heat down by wearing light-colored, loose-fitting clothing made of cotton, not polyester. Dark colors attract heat. Wear a brimmed straw hat to escape the sun's rays, yet allow heat to escape up through the hat.

Since calories heat the body, eat light, cool foods like fruits and veggies that need no cooking, and drink plenty of water - not alcohol. Curtail physical activity. If you lack a pool, several cool baths or showers followed by body or baby powder will keep you more comfortable.

Do your driving early or late and spend the day's peak heat in treed parks or air conditioned offices, movies, malls, libraries, etc. Park in the shade when possible, leaving windows slightly open. Protect your front car seat and steering wheel with paper shades.

On your return, open doors wide to air out the vehicle and stand back to avoid that first blast of heat before getting in. Never leave a child or pet alone in the car - it could kill them.

If you are repeatedly caught being miserable, plan ahead. Plant fast growing shade trees on the south side of your building. Invest in the right clothes, room darkening shades, fans, or other equipment that can keep you cooler. Better yet, go jump in the

HAT TO do with all those wedding and graduation pictures: those wonderful snaps of glorious vacation days; the photo of the new baby in the family; or treasures rescued from old family

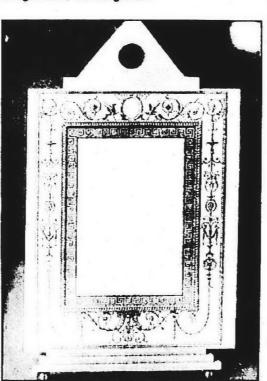

The answer is to group them all together on a cloth-draped table near the sofa or in the bedroom. Of course, photographs are also nice grouped on top of the grand piano, matching the subject to the frame Or, showcase them throughout the house in frames to match the interior styles of your rooms.

It's the latest decorating trend, and the more frames you have, the better the look. Here are some ideas. but as one shop has commercially already determined - frames are unlimited
