Damage was estimated at $100,000 to the Postiff Farmhouse on Lilley Road. Arson is suspected. The fire also caused another $93,000 in damage to contents inside the building.

Historic house fire blamed on arsonists

By Doug Funke
staff writer

The historic Postiff Farmhouse on Lilley Road between Ann Arbor and Joy roads, one of the oldest structures in Plymouth Township at more than 100 years, was torched by one or more arsonists last weekend, according to Fire Chief Larry Groth.

Damage to the rambling wood-frame structure was estimated at $100,000 by Groth — virtually a total loss. The chief pegged additional damage to furnishings and other contents at $93,000.

Burn patterns on the floor of a utility/storage room at the western end of the house led to the arson conclusion, Groth said. Rubble from the house has been sent to the state police crime lab for analysis.

The owners of the house, Frank and Pam Taylor, were on vacation when the blaze was reported at 12:37 a.m. Sunday.

ELEVEN PLYMOUTH firefighters and five pieces of firefighting equipment — "everything we own," according to Groth — responded.

"Upon arrival, the area in back was totally involved," Groth said. "Flames were coming out of windows and doors."

'We're very fortunate we weren't in the house at the time.'

— Ram Taylor

Assistance from the Canton Fire Department under the mutual aid pact was requested due to the magnitude of the blaze, Groth said. Canton supplied five firefighters, a pumper and a rescue vehicle.

The Taylors have lived in the house 3½ years. Her family hasn't experienced any problems with neighbors that would result in an arson, Pam said.

"We're very fortunate we weren't in the house at the time," she said.

The family hadn't decided on temporary living arrangements as of Tuesday. The house isn't habitable now.

FIREFIGHTERS and investigators remained on the scene until nearly 1 p.m. Sunday. The smell of smoke could still be detected in the area nearly three days after the blaze was reported.

One firefighter was injured. He cut a finger on glass and needed stitches, Groth said. Erik Mayernek, a township police officer investigating the fire, said a lead has developed but no suspects. "But there's a lot of questions to be answered yet," he added.

There was evidence of a breaking and entering at the house, but Mayernek declined to elaborate.

Groth predicted that the investigation would be a long one based mainly on the size of the house and the time it will take to sift through the rubble.

Colleen Stanley, a neighbor of the Taylors, said her initial thought was to run to the house and rescue Pam and her children. "Then reality hit — they're not there," Stanley said.

The fire spread quickly, Stanley said, adding that she was concerned about the fire spreading with the drought conditions. "I was ready to start watering my house down," Stanley said.

Executive order produces savings

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

An executive order issued by Plymouth-Canton Schools Superintendent John Hoben has resulted in a savings of more than $282,230 for the district.

That's good news in light of June's defeated millage proposal, which prompted teacher layoffs and the cutting of $4.4 million from next year's $55 million budget.

Hoben asked for a 10-percent reduction in "all possible non-salary accounts" effective from April through June.

The move enabled the district to increase its fund balance from about $3.9 million in April to roughly $4.3 million as of last week.

Included in the fund balance is unallocated cash, inventory and accounts receivable.

The fund balance now equals approximately what it was a year ago.

The Plymouth-Canton Board of Education amended its budget Monday to reflect the change.

Hoben said he asked building administrators in April "to reduce their budgets by 10 percent for the balance of the year."

"I ASKED them to live with it for the rest of the year, unless there was an emergency, in which case expenditures would be OK'd by me," Hoben said. "We picked up enough to increase the fund balance from $3.9 million to $4.3 million."

Hoben said the practice isn't new.

"We've done it in the past," he said. "The board was aware I was doing it. I told them in executive (closed) session I was going to do it. But the auditors felt it should be anointed (in a budget amendment)."

Some of the biggest savings were realized in these areas and amounts:

- Block grant allocations, $29,313
- maintenance, $35,000
- Staff development, $23,000
- Textbooks, secondary schools, $20,132
- Board contingency, $15,000
- Adult education, $15,850
- Custodial supplies, $10,050
- Contracted services equipment, $12,000
- Transportation garage, $10,000
- Vocational education, $9,474, and
- Textbooks, elementary, $9,019.

Trustee Roland Thomas said, "It seems to me that we should, in our policy, enable the superintendent to make executive cutbacks in emergency situations without coming to our board."

A district court judge will decide next month whether to dismiss a trespassing charge against a parishioner of Our Lady of Good Counsel Catholic Church.

And if Judge James Garber rules against that request, Cecile T. Jean will demand a jury trial, said her lawyer Robert Roether.

That's what developed following a pre-trial conference Tuesday in 35th District Court.

"I think there's some legal questions whether you can bring a trespass charge against a church member for attending a church meeting," Roether said.

Jean, 44, was arrested by city of Plymouth police May 9 after she refused to leave the parish grounds when she wasn't admitted to a meeting.

THE REV. Richard Perfetto, pastor of the parish, signed the complaint.

Jean also was ticketed for obstructing a police officer when police carried her off the property.

Jean was barred from the May meeting because she had been disruptive at past meetings, said a spokesman for the Archdiocese of Detroit.

Jean denies the disruption charge and said Tuesday that she's been to two parish meetings since her arrest.

"What this boils down to is does a priest or any minister for that matter have authority to stand at the door of any meeting on church property to pick and choose who he wants to attend those meetings?" Jean said.

"So it's just not me who's personally affected," she added.

New board member faces challenge

Barbara Graham is afraid an undesired reputation is preceding her as she takes a seat among the other members of the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education.

While she is glad to have been supported in her campaign by the Citizens for Better Education, she is expressing concern that some people are characterizing her as a rabble-rouser.

"I'm not an ogre," Graham said during a recent interview. She is firm, though, in her stance against some of the teaching materials used in the district.

Graham wasn't pleased when she heard about "Gundella the witch" making an appearance in the district several years ago. "I thought what a waste of taxpayer's money," she said.

And Graham said she feels the same about some of the R-rated movies shown to district students.

"THEY SAY these are teaching materials and that they are for a group of students who would be able to understand it," Graham said. But she described one as being "raunchy" and said another was full of "gutter language."

"I'm a little bit more selective in my own home," she said.

Graham, 53, shares that home with her husband, Lloyd, a machine repairman. It has been a while since her four children all lived at home, and by now she has adjusted to having an empty nest.

Graham misses first meeting

Barbara Graham, elected to a four-year term on the Plymouth-Canton school board last month, was a no-show at the board's annual organizational meeting Tuesday.

"I'm surprised she wasn't here," said David Artley, board president. "I know she was aware of the meeting."

Superintendent John M. Hoben said Graham didn't contact his office with word that she'd miss the meeting.

Graham, the top vote-getter in the June 13 election, was sworn in by Hoben June 27. She couldn't be reached for comment.

All other six board members attended the meeting.

Artley was re-elected board president by unanimous consent. Other officers for the upcoming year, also chosen by unanimous consent, are Dean Swartzwelder, vice president; Roland Thomas, secretary; and Marilyn Schwinn, treasurer.

Parade shows spirit

Sunny skies and warm temperatures greeted both parade participants and viewers Monday in downtown Plymouth.

And even a wrong-way driver who wandered onto the parade route looking for Livonia did not dampen the holiday mood.

The annual Fourth of July Parade sponsored by the Plymouth Jaycees stepped into view with plenty of patriotism and a good deal of political posturing.

With township elections and other political campaigns heating up for the August primary, candidates decided to strut their stuff and mingle with the masses that lined the parade route.

But there was plenty of entertainment for those too young or unconcerned about political dreams.

The Plymouth Fife and Drum Corps and the Michigan Scottish Pipes and Drums provided the musical numbers during the parade.

Antique cars and fire trucks showed off their owners' restoration efforts.

The Plymouth Salem Rockettes and Canton Chiefettes displayed their championship routines during the parade.

For laughs, the Redford Jaycees presented their Lawnmower Drill team. And Fred Hill's drill team toted briefcases and sported suits during their performance.

All of this was under the watchful eye of "Uncle" Chuck Gurdau, grand marshal of the parade.

About the only damper on the holiday activities was the cancellation of the fireworks display. Dry weather caused promoters to forego the pyrotechnics because of the fear of grass fires.

Cash and lottery tickets were reported stolen last weekend from two safes at the Cloverdale store on Forest Street in downtown Plymouth.

The break-in occurred between 11:30 p.m. Sunday and 5 a.m. Monday.

Police declined to disclose how much money was stolen.

The intruders apparently got in through an overhead door, police reports indicate. However, there were no signs of forced entry, said Michael Gardner, police commander.

The safes were cut open with a torch, police accounts indicate.

"There's a couple of leads we're working on," Gardner added, declining further comment.

Democratic primary will decide sheriff's race

Bruce Kennedy

Pictures of Bruce Kennedy and Richard Novak, candidates for Wayne County Sheriff, were inadvertently switched in Monday's Observer. The profiles and photographs are being rerun in their entirety.

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Bruce Kennedy was there, the day Robert Ficano was sworn in as Wayne County sheriff and Richard Novak as undersheriff.

Now, he's running against both men.

Kennedy, Grosse Pointe police chief, is one of three men running in the Aug. 2 Democratic primary.

The 62-year-old Kennedy isn't well-known to western Wayne County voters. But he is well-known to area law enforcement officials. He is president of the Wayne County Association of Chiefs of Police.

"I have the ability to mend fences," Kennedy said. "Local law enforcement and the sheriff don't get along. They haven't gotten along for years."

KENNEDY and his wife, Italia, live in Grosse Pointe Park. They have four grown children.

Kennedy holds a bachelor's degree in police administration and a master's in sociology, both from Wayne State.

Ficano's lack of prior police experience rubs Kennedy and, he said, his fellow chiefs, the wrong way.

"We're the only county I know of that doesn't have a professional law enforcement administrator at the helm," he said. "It's properly a law enforcement function and I think that's where it belongs and so do the police chiefs of Wayne County. I think I speak for them as their president."

Ficano's 1986 try for county executive didn't impress Kennedy, either. "The guy was appointed sheriff when (former Sheriff William) Lucas left. Shortly thereafter, he turns around and runs for county executive."

Kennedy, a 25-year Detroit police force veteran, is kinder in his assessment of his fellow challenger Novak, though he said he asked his longtime acquaintance to "get out of the race."

"I think Dick is a fine guy. But I think Dick's running out of revenge and I don't think that's a platform."

IF POLITICS is Ficano's strong suit, it's an acknowledged weakness for political newcomer Kennedy.

"I'm a little bit out of my comfort zone as a politician. I don't know all the angles and we've probably got a staff that doesn't know all the angles," he said. "But everyone of them is a friend and everyone of them feels strongly that I would make a good sheriff. And they feel strongly we don't have a good sheriff."

challenger

Kennedy's campaign expects to spend $50,000-60,000. "That's all we've got."

On jail issues, Kennedy favors privatization — vigorously opposed by Ficano — and opposes triple bunking of county jail prisoners — an idea favored by Ficano and other challenger Richard Novak.

Hiring a private company to build and operate a jail for misdemeanor offenders is "an idea whose time has come," Kennedy said.

KENNEDY indicated he opposes the proposed 1-mill jail tax, in part,

Richard Novak

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Richard "Dick" Novak is talking tough — tough on crime, tough on punishment and tough on Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano, his former boss.

Ficano isn't tough enough on crime issues, Novak said. That's why the former undersheriff is one of two men challenging Ficano in the Aug. 2 Democratic primary.

"My attitude is, let's try to pull this together. But he always had to check with somebody whether it's politically astute to do it," Novak said.

Novak, 60, is retired from the sheriff's department. He is also a former U.S. Marine. Novak and his wife, Linda, are Livonia residents. The couple have three grown children.

Novak, a 37-year department veteran, was made undersheriff when Ficano, then deputy county clerk, became sheriff. The move was seen in police circles as an effort to boost Ficano's standing in the law enforcement community.

Last year, however, Ficano dismissed Novak as undersheriff, saying it was a "mutual agreement" conducted without animosity, calling it a sign of good management to change personnel periodically.

While Novak put the move down to "politics" at the time, it's clear it still bothers him.

"I FELT at the beginning we would do all right," Novak said. "I told him: 'Bob you're going to be like a son to me. I'm going to teach you everything I know and introduce you to everybody I know. Everything I do is going to benefit the organization, and you're going to be the sheriff forever.' After he got elected it was like a whole different ballgame."

Ficano's candidacy for county executive, coming midway through his first elected term as sheriff, also rankled Novak.

"The first thing I offer is a person who wants the job, who isn't using it as a stepping stone," Novak said.

But if Novak is tough in his assessment of his former boss, he said he'd be even tougher in dealing with crime issues.

The answer to space limitations at the county jail is a matter of forcing legislators to allow for three prisoners to be housed in a cell, Novak said.

"I'd go to every policeman and every crime victim with petitions and tell them to get 20 signatures, and I'd take the whole bundle and drop it before the state Legislature," he said.

Nor does he have much patience with efforts to improve prisoner living conditions.

"I GOT these people who just got through killing my mother, raping my sister, robbing my dad, and I've got to give them the best there is," he said. "And I've got to do it because the courts say I've got to. Let's get it out in the open."

Engaging in conversation, Novak clearly relishes his reputation as a no-nonsense "cop's cop" — a reputation, he said, the incumbent lacks.

"He's not one of the troops, he's not one of the guys, he doesn't even try," Novak said.

Better coordination of department services, especially prisoner runs, heads the list of improvements Novak said he would make if elected. Giving "special deputy" status to the county's retired police chiefs, mak-

Retraining turns layoff from 7-Up into a blessing

By Wayne Peal

Lena Myers-Harrell never thought she'd have to return to school.

But then, the Livonia resident believed she'd always have a job at the Seven-Up bottling plant in nearby Redford Township.

Both illusions were shattered earlier this year, when the plant was sold and workers dismissed without notice.

"It was a shock, especially after working there 15 years," she recalled.

But Myers-Harrell, participant in a Schoolcraft College job retraining program, now views the incident as a beginning, rather than an end.

"REALLY, THIS is the start of a new life for me," said Myers-Harrell, an optical technician in-training at First Optometry, Livonia. "I'm lucky."

Myers-Harrell is one of about 25 students taking advantage of the state-sponsored job program.

College classes and on-the-job training are offered through the Michigan Job Opportunity Bank, a new state program designed to benefit workers who lose their jobs through plant closings or massive layoffs.

Myers-Harrell is one of 12 students enrolled in the optical program. Other students are pursuing new careers in insurance underwriting and automotive repair and maintenance, through the program.

Unlike other community college programs, Job Opportunity Bank classes are accelerated. New job skills are taught in eight to 12 weeks.

"THE OBJECT is to get students into the marketplace as rapidly as possible," said Bruce Sweet, Schoolcraft business and industrial services director.

up costs for students who qualify. Sweet said. Students who didn't lose their jobs through plant closing or layoff are also welcome, he said, but aren't eligible for M-JOB aid.

While the college lists job prospects as good-to-excellent in all three fields, new jobs aren't guaranteed. And for some workers, especially UAW workers, salaries will be far below what they used to receive.

Myers-Harrell, however, couldn't be happier with the way the program has helped her so far.

"I only had an eighth-grade education, so I was a little nervous about going back to class," she said. "But my instructor and the people here (at First Optical) couldn't have been nicer."

By her estimate, she's talked at least two former co-workers into also signing up for the program.

"I told them it was a new opportunity they just couldn't refuse," she said.

Likewise, her brief return to the classroom has given her the will to continue.

"After this," she said, "I'm going on for my GED (high school equivalency diploma)."

Brickley seeks new term

Michigan Supreme Court Justice James H. Brickley will seek re-election in the Nov. 8 general election.

Brickley, 59, named to the court in December 1982 by Gov. William G. Milliken to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of Chief Justice Mary Coleman. He was elected to fill the unexpired portion of Coleman's term in November 1984.

A Detroit native, Brickley received his law degree from the University of Detroit. He also holds a master's in public administrative law from New York University.

Brickley served as the state's lieutenant governor 1971-75 and 1979-83. In between terms, he served as president of Eastern Michigan University.

He was a special agent for the FBI for four years before entering private law practice in 1959. He was elected to the Detroit Common Council in 1961.

Brickley was chief assistant prosecutor for Wayne County 1967-69

Retiring attorney lived the American dream

By Tom Henderson
staff writer

When George Cross started working as an attorney for Wayne County, he figured he'd keep the job a year or two, gain some experience and contacts, then go back to his private practice.

Twenty-eight years later, Cross, a Livonia resident for 24 years, is about to retire — not from his private practice, but as an attorney for the county.

He started off defending the county hospital against malpractice suits. He has been the county's corporation counsel, and served on the retirement board. Currently he is liaison between the county board of commissioners and other units of government, including the federal government, cities, neighboring counties and the state of Michigan.

"I fell in love with being at the seat of decision making and power," he said simply.

He said another thing simply — simple advice his immigrant father lived by and passed on to his children for them to live by.

"He always told me to do $11 worth of work for $10 pay, so the boss will always think you're doing a good job. Never do $10 worth of work for $10 pay. And that's the way I've worked my whole career."

HACHIK HACHIKIAN'S story is the classic story of the hard-working immigrant who starts at the bottom and whose children end up at the top. Stereotypical and, yet, incredible.

Hachikian, an Armenian from Turkey, arrived on Ellis Island in 1912, three years before the Turkish massacres wiped out his entire family.

(Cross was born Hachik Hachikian, too, but his father, figuring things would be easier for him, changed his name to Cross when he enrolled him in school. It was more translation than change. Hachikian in Armenian means a small church cross.)

CROSS' MOTHER, Nevart, lost her family and the family's substantial wealth during the massacres, too. She was still in Turkey when a mutual friend introduced her by mail to Hachikian, who was living in New York City. The two exchanged photos and letters. Without having ever met, they decided to marry.

Because of immigration quotas, she couldn't come straight to the United States. Instead, she arrived in Havana, Cuba, on a Wednesday in 1925, where she was met by Hachikian. They were married on Saturday and were married until Hachikian died several months short of their 50th anniversary.

Could Hachikian, working as a valet at a New York hotel, or his future wife, sending letters from Turkey to a man she never met, ever have imagined the opportunities America would offer their children?

Could they, in 1937, when Hachik lost his job after 25 years at the Commodore Hotel because of the Depression, even fantasize about opportunity? And when they moved to Detroit in '37 and Hachik bought a lease to manage the People's Hotel on Cass, a low-rent, low-class hotel for down-on-their-lucks, could they dream, yet, of such success for their children?

Yet, the older son, George, ended up defending judges and politicians as the chief attorney for one of the largest counties in the nation. The other, Gregory, became a pre-eminent Naval surgeon, so well known in his field that he assisted in the attempt to save President John F. Kennedy and today is medical director of Maryview Hospital in Portsmouth, Va.

"Always do $11 worth of work for $10 pay."

GEORGE CROSS is part of another er American stereotype, the kid who came back from World War II, thankful to be alive and determined to make up for lost time.

Cross's law class of 1951 at the University of Detroit was filled with such veterans. It was filled, too, with talent. The class is legendary at the Jesuit school.

"I'm probably one of the least successful of my classmates," Cross said, with only some exaggeration.

Consider a partial list of classmates: Michigan Attorney General Frank Kelley; former Wayne County Prosecutor William Cahalan; Wayne County circuit judges John Gillis, James Mies and John Kirwah, and others who went on to pre-eminent corporate practice.

"We all thought 'Jeez, we've wasted a lot of time. We better get moving,'" Cross said. "The war gave us a purpose once we came back. We knew there was a seriousness to life and we buckled down."

CROSS BEGINS his retirement Aug. 1. He said he will continue in government service by representing other counties on a contractual basis.

"I had planned to work minimal hours, but I don't know if I'm going to be able to do that. I might end up being busier," he said.

Cross isn't yet 62. So why retire?

"This will sound foolish. Right after Christmas, I was talking with my wife (Ginny) about whether we should keep the house now that the kids are grown and gone. We decided the kids' college was paid for, the weddings were paid for, the house was paid for, the cars were paid for. I said, 'Why the heck do I need more than two summer suits and two winter suits?'"

"It was more of a joke at first, but the conversation snowballed. We decided we could live on a reduced income, visit our son in Texas, spend the winters in Florida. I've put in my work."

AND SO retirement looms. His friends are throwing a bash for him Aug. 12 at St. John's Armenian

Church in Southfield. For information on attending, call Alford Bricker at 965-4407.

"What do you mean, retiring? He's always been retired," joked Bricker, a long-time friend who served with Cross on the retirement board.

"I miss him already, to tell you the truth," Lenora Hall, Cross' secretary since 1978, said about his upcoming retirement. "I can't praise him enough. He's warm, kind, considerate, a real genuine person. He's just a great guy. I can't find the words to express it. He's a friend."

CROSS HAD his share of big cases over the years. One case, where he was upheld on appeal and which resulted in a change in state law, was in the late '70s, when he sued the state over its refusal to turn over $8 million in revenue.

Possibly the biggest case involved a suit by county jail inmates in 1974 alleging inhumane and overcrowded facilities.

"I did something I thought would ruin my career," Cross said.

He did what you never do — chew out in public the chief justice of the Michigan Supreme Court. A newspaper executive in the early stages of the suit invited Justice Thomas Kavanagh to tour the jail. Since it seemed obvious to Cross that the case would end up before the Supreme Court, he thought it improper for Kavanagh to tour the facility, and grossly improper to comment on the jail.

"He said it was abominable," Cross said of the jail. "I raised holy hell about it. Later, in oral arguments before the Supreme Court, boy, did G. Mennen Williams eat me up. He chewed me up over it."

Never mind that Williams had come to Cross' wedding years earlier. Never mind, either, that Cross ultimately lost the case. He did what he was supposed to do: make the best argument as strongly as possible.

"That case was the reason we now have a new jail," Cross said.

CROSS HAS a regret or two. For one thing, he would have liked a judgeship.

"I was considered for a couple of bench appointments, but I guess I didn't have the political pull."

For another, though he is licensed to practice before the U.S. Supreme Court, and filed briefs there over the years, he never got to make oral arguments before the court.

"I'm sorry now my briefs did so well," he joked.

BUT MOSTLY there is the satisfaction of knowing he worked hard, well and honestly.

"I've always maintained a high level of integrity. Lawyers do a lot to get black eyes, and I didn't want to add to that," he said.

There has been a lot of which to be proud. Of daughter Chris, in public relations at Michigan Bell, and son Marc, general manager of a Ford dealership in San Antonio, Texas (both graduates of Livonia Stevenson High School). Of a wife who, he brags, when he married her was the youngest (26) chief pharmacist of any hospital in the state and who has been active for years as a counselor for Livonia Youth Assistance.

Of the gavel he got from President Reagan for his tenure in 1981-82 as president of the National Association of County Civil Attorneys. Of helping found and serving as president of the Wayne County Government Bar Association. Of the upcoming resolution by the state Legislature honoring him.

"I'm very pleased people haven't forgotten me," Cross said. "I've been extremely blessed. There have been very few problems in my life. And almost everybody I've ever worked with has made me look good."

Kennedy: Job needs a pro

because the privatization issue wasn't more fully explored.

"A tax increase should only be a 'last ditch' effort if all other options proved futile, he added.

"Let the private sector build a facility to house misdemeanants. There's enough felons in Wayne County to keep the sheriff and his staff busy forever."

Triple bunking, he said, is "a bad scene."

"I'm not a bleeding heart but to put three people in a space that's built for one is not humane. That's a Band-Aid approach by the sheriff to get more publicity."

Kennedy said beating the entrenched incumbent is an uphill battle, but said he's dedicating his candidacy to his son, John F., a Detroit police officer and other young officers.

"My conscience would bother me if I didn't take a shot. If I can see a situation I can rectify, I'm morally bound to do it," he said.

Novak talks tough on crime

ing them special ad hoc advisers, is another Novak suggestion.

Novak gives lukewarm support to the county's proposed jail tax, saying triple bunking remains the best option.

"As far as I'm concerned, we should look at additional bodies we should put in (the jail)," he said.

Though a longtime supporter of Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara, Novak didn't gain his endorsement. That went to Ficano. Novak, however, was offered a job as head of Metro Airport Security but declined to pursue the sheriff's post.

Geer School

Effort needs community help

HISTORY IS A SUBJECT most students find boring. After all, most of the learning comes from textbooks filled with dates and names and very little of the excitement and atmosphere associated with important events from the past.

However, that could change with a lot of help from the community.

The Geer School Preservation Committee has reached the halfway point in its $100,000 fund-raising drive.

And they need your help.

The preservation committee needs people willing to donate money. They need people to donate time. They need people to donate items from the turn of the century to outfit the school.

This is certainly a worthwhile cause and will provide students in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools with the opportunity to live and breathe history, not just read about it.

This is certainly a worthwhile cause and will provide students in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools with the opportunity to live and breathe history, not just read about it.

Supporters are trying to refurbish the 1880 schoolhouse and open up the building for students.

PLANS CALL for every fifth-grade class to spend five days at Geer soaking up life in the late 1880s.

Students will learn all about discipline, games, chores, cleanliness, farming and all other aspects of life during that period.

For example, they'll learn that a "dunce cap" was part of the classroom experience in the 1880s. And that teachers, who were almost always women, could not marry or keep company with men during the term of their employment.

Now is the time for the community to throw its support behind this unique educational opportunity.

Geer supporters are attempting to get more businesses involved with the program. They need some large donations to reach their goal and open up the school for the 1989-90 school year.

But the community can also help. Residents with any Geer-related items or objects used during that time period are asked to donate those things to the Geer committee.

And volunteers are always needed to help restore the school at Ann Arbor Trail and Gotfredson.

Those interested in presenting a slice of American history to fifth-grade students by working on the Geer project should call Kate Otto, chairwoman of the preservation committee, 455-6868.

Sheriff's race

Ficano merits support Aug. 2

ROBERT FICANO has done a good job as sheriff of Wayne County.

He's innovative, well-spoken and has done a credible job of managing his budget.

We recommend his re-election on Tuesday, Aug. 2.

When soliciting feedback on his performance from other county officials and police personnel, we heard many more positive than negative comments.

Ficano, 36, has been a competent administrator and has demonstrated that he can cooperate with the county executive — although he's nobody's patsy.

UNLIKE THE law enforcement professionals seeking the job, Ficano is someone who sees the bigger picture, not just the arresting and jailing. He has the vision, imagination and political savvy it takes to accomplish the difficult tasks that face the sheriff's department.

Those who have criticized him for being too political need to realize that politics is an ever-increasing part of the job. It's going to take someone with a knowledge of the political process — at the county and state levels — to get things done.

On balance, Ficano is the best candidate for the job.

If elected, however, we urge Ficano to stay the course — at least for the next four years. It will take dedicated, hardworking and innovative politicians to solve the county's jail crisis. And although no one can expect Ficano to remain in the job forever, we would urge him to serve out his entire four-year term before embarking on another campaign.

VOTERS SHOULD remember that the race for Wayne County sheriff will be over in the August primary. The winner of the Democratic primary has no opposition in the November general election. Voters who intend to have a say in who will be the next county sheriff must vote Aug. 2 and select from among the three Democrats on the ballot.

Unlike many other races in which incumbents are running unopposed, this race offers voters three capable candidates — Ficano, the incumbent, and challengers Richard Novak and Grosse Pointe Police Chief Bruce Kennedy.

Kennedy, 62, has an extensive background in law enforcement. He is a 25-year veteran of the Detroit Police Department. He holds a bachelor's degree in police administration and a master's in sociology, both from Wayne State University. He is president of the Wayne County Association of Chiefs of Police. He has a fine working relationship with local police chiefs.

Ficano is someone who sees the bigger picture not just the arresting and jailing. He has the vision, imagination and political savvy it takes to accomplish the difficult tasks that face the sheriff's department.

NOVAK, 60, lives in Livonia and is retired after 37 years with the sheriff's department. He is a tough-talking, no-nonsense man. He served as undersheriff in the Ficano administration.

Ficano, a Livonia resident, holds a law degree from the University of Detroit and a bachelor's degree in political science from Michigan State. He was a deputy county clerk when he was appointed to fill the vacant sheriff's post in 1983-84. He was elected to his first full term in 1985.

Ficano has the experience, vision and skills to lead the department over the next four years. We urge voters to support Ficano in the Aug. 2 primary election.

LITTLE LEAGUE

Recalls highlight problem of government's apathy

RECALL movements used to drive me nuts.

Not anymore.

Oh, I'm not particularly enamored by them, mind you. Rather I look upon them as a curiosity of the last decade or so where doubt and suspicion have replaced blind support and patriotism.

Not all bad.

Unfortunately, a lot of good leaders are lost with those who unrelentingly suck from the public trough.

At present, the Detroit suburbs are experiencing a spate of recalls. The most recent was in West Bloomfield where a group called Organizations United to Save Our Township forced a recall election of several township officials. The group was, let's say, more than mildly upset with the way the once rural suburb has been transformed into a burgeoning, traffic-ridden landscape.

Officially, they lost the election by a narrow margin, 27 votes. But the only person to survive the public barrage was township trustee Raymond Holland. The supervisor, the clerk and another trustee all found reasons to resign before the election.

Now Oakland County's newest city, Rochester Hills, faces the same wrenching experience. A group is circulating petitions in that far northern suburb to recall the mayor and four council members.

We can only blame ourselves for the instability that has grown.

The fast pace of development is the spark that also is feeding this recall fire.

Anyone who admires our democratic system has to experience some mixed emotions over this ongoing and ever-growing trend. On the one hand we yearn for stable government. But, on the other, we abhor the vacuum created by governments that face little, if any, opposition.

We all see the consequences when government officials go about their business unfettered by the yoke of a loyal and resolute opposition.

One can only conclude that absolute power does absolutely corrupt.

But we can only blame ourselves for the instability that has grown. Far too few individuals care to participate in governing this country, particularly at the local level where the decisions made have a real effect on our lives.

Election turnouts in suburban political contests are nothing short of abysmal. Many times it will be 4 or 5 percent of the electorate who pass a millage or elect a city's chief executive.

Steve Barnaby

Although the West Bloomfield recall was touted as a bitter election with a high degree of public interest, only 14 percent of the electorate cast a ballot.

Now that's pitiful.

You have only to look around to see like examples of disinterest. Repeatedly, public officials, from school board members to congressional incumbents, run unopposed.

The majority of the electorate chooses to turn its head in benign disinterest.

So if for no other reason, until reason once again prevails, let's hoist one for the recall aficionados.

You and I may sometimes think they are off the wall. But at least they care enough to get out and do something about a government that doesn't pay enough attention to those who don't pay attention at all.

Can you say you care that much?

Chase ruling was narrow

Thank you for this opportunity of offering your readers a more balanced understanding of this important court decision.

Carole M. Stanyar,
Plymouth

To the editor:

I am writing regarding your recent article on local police reaction to the United States Supreme Court's decision in Michigan vs. Chesternut. I am Michael Chesternut's attorney. I argued his case before the Supreme Court. I am a Plymouth resident.

To the extent your article suggests to the reader that the court's opinion somehow frees up police to chase after people on public streets, it is not accurate. By way of background, the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office advocated for far greater police discretion in the police-citizen confrontation. They argued that a police officer should be able to do anything he wishes to a citizen, regardless of how intimidating or how offensive, so long as he refrains from actually stopping the person. That view was explicitly rejected by seven members of the court.

The actual holding of this case was that Michael Chesternut was not really "chased" at all by the officers; rather, they simply followed him to continue their investigation. In concluding that Mr. Chesternut's constitutional rights had not been infringed, they suggested that their ruling would be different given a more aggressive police chase, for example, where police use their flashers or sirens, where they direct the person to halt, or where they interfere in some way with his freedom of movement.

Alter school swim rules

To the editor:

I am writing in response to the letter published in the Opinion section of the June 23 edition titled, "Swim rule sinks student."

I too will be entering the high school as a freshman and also strongly disagree with the swim requirement for graduation. I just don't think there is a point to it, for why should I waste my time on a swimming class when I have a valid swimmer's card and could be taking a class more educational? I could have signed up for a number of different classes that interested me, but no, if I don't take this waste-of-time swimming class I won't graduate. Then they say that you can take it over the summer. Well, I'm sorry, but I have more important things to do this summer than wake up at 7:30 a.m. and pay $65 to take a swimming class.

I understand the importance of knowing how to swim and am not saying that it should be taken out of graduation requirements. But I do think that the rule should be changed

Put brakes on car insurance

To the editor:

Michigan's largest auto insurance company is giving us alternatives: either pass proposed legislation that would restrict the rights of auto accident victims to recover non-economic damages or they will raise rates for bodily injury coverage by 20 percent.

They claim they have losses which justify the rate increase; however, the data they have presented to a house insurance subcommittee was based on reserves set up for eventual damages that might have to be paid, not on actual court decisions or payouts.

I agree with the position of Michigan Citizens Lobby urging a two-year moratorium be put on both insurance rate increases and legislative changes. Let this giant of the insurance industry prove by facts — not projection — it is suffering losses as a result of court decisions in favor of innocent victims of auto accidents.

Billy ball

Batting a little English around

INDIRECTLY, it was George Steinbrenner who stimulated one of the more academic discussions in which the Happy Hour Heroes with whom I occasionally associate engaged recently.

He did it by relieving Billy Martin of his managerial duties with the New York Yankees for the fifth time.

This display of authority by the principal owner of the Yankees did not bring about anything so plebeian as a mere rehash of Martin's antics on and off the playing field. Oh, no, not with my group.

It was Richard P. Marshall Jr., vice president for special program development with the Meadowbrook Insurance Group, who showed up from his Southfield office just in time to steer the scholars into an academic vein by asking whether Martin should now be referred to as an "ex" manager or "former" manager.

THE GREAT unwashed public considers them interchangeable, but our research turned up exceptions. At least of choice.

For instance, three passers-by who had been elected to public office at one time or another were asked in turn whether they preferred to be mentioned as ex-mayor, ex-legislator, ex-commissioner or as former mayor, etc.

They were unanimous in favor of the word "former," one going so far as to specify that there is a finality, even stigma, to "ex." That got support from one of our crewcut members who cautioned, "Just remember, there is no such thing as an ex-Marine."

A DICTIONARY was unearthed from some vault unknown to the bartender. Inasmuch as among Marshall's proclivities is a punchout to keep the floor when he has it, he read aloud one of the definitions: "ex through bifocals

Fred DeLano

"ex" fit while "former" would not, but was hushed.

MEANWHILE, THE lady in our midst grabbed the dictionary and after a few moments exclaimed in glee, "Aha. I knew I was right. Ex can be a noun or preposition as well as a prefix. Listen to this:

"Noun. Informal. A person who formerly occupied some position, as a former spouse or beau. Example — She has been dating her ex again. (Short for ex-wife, ex-fiance, etc."

She answered a query (as to whether she was seeing her own ex again) with a look of scorn and excused herself.

Someone asked Marshall if he knew how many ex-managers and/or former managers Steinbrenner is still paying, but the guy couldn't say. The meeting adjourned after deciding the next serious topic would be counting barber shops that still offer a shave.

keeping up with government

Looking for information about state government? The League of Women Voters has a toll-free telephone service (1-800-292-5823) that may be helpful.

The league's Citizen Information Center in Lansing offers to help people find out about such things as pending legislation, the state constitution, election laws, voting regulations or tax information.

The telephone is answered from 10:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. weekdays.

The telephone service is paid for by the league's education fund. The League of Women Voters is a non-profit organization that works to keep voters interested and informed about governmental issues.

Committees

'Tis season for joint sessions

BOB GEAKE is a clean-living sort who avoids caffeine, alcohol and tobacco.

So it was a surprise to see the senator from Northville looking a little haggard and groggy one afternoon last week in his State Capitol office.

"I had a conference committee meeting at 8 o'clock this morning. This year I'm on four conference committees — mental health, social services, higher education and corrections," said Geake, a Republican member of the Senate Appropriations Committee.

IT'S THAT season. Whenever the House and Senate pass different versions of a bill, it goes to a joint conference committee.

That generates a lot of work for Geake and other members of the appropriations committees, which write the bills that spend the state's $6 billion general fund budget.

Senate Majority Leader John Engler of Mount Pleasant picks two Republicans and a Democrat, and House Speaker Gary Owen of Ypsilanti appoints two Democrats and a Republican.

In one day last week, eight conference committees were named.

But the state must have a budget, so the appropriations conference committees are going great guns. Geake, along with Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills, and Doug Cruce, R-Troy, are getting a workout.

"The conference committee sets its own schedule. It doesn't have to meet at all," Geake explained. When that happens, a bill simply dies.

"THE RULES say the conference committee should discuss only items of difference," Geake went on. "Actually, it often makes other amendments."

He added that makes them extremely powerful. But oddly, they are rarely covered by the media.

We trotted off in separate directions, planning to see each other later in the afternoon.

Around 2:30, I was on the fourth floor in the higher education conference committee, expecting to see Geake there, but he wasn't through with his corrections conference yet, so Sen. Bill Sederburg, R-East Lansing, started without him. The place was packed with university lobbyists. Jim Mitzelfeld of the Associated Press and I were the only civilians in the place.

"I WISH we could do like Rex Humbard (evangelist) and have people come forward and relinquish some of their largesse," Sederburg began whimsically.

No response. No one wanted to resolve the money dispute by agreeing to take a smaller appropriation.

'The rules say the conference committee should discuss only items of difference. Actually, it often makes other amendments.'

— Sen. Robert Geake

Tim Richard

Sederburg proposed funding each of the 15 state colleges and universities at 90 percent of the bill's level.

Again, no takers.

Rep. Morris Hood, D-Detroit, launched into a discourse against double-digit tuition increases. Oakland University spokesman John DeCarlo said theirs was only 8 or 9 percent, and Bill Lobenherz said Wayne State's was 8 percent after several years of zero increases. The Michigan State and Michigan spokesmen sheepishly talked about 10-12 percent increases. It was fun to see them squirm.

NEXT, HOOD raised questions about how hard faculty members, particularly at MSU, work.

"Sen. Geake would be very supportive of your comments," Sederburg said. "I know the standard answer the universities will give — 55 hours a week. Do you think we could get a study done for $20,000? It would be nice if one of the universities would volunteer to do it."

There was some palaver about how difficult it was to compare universities because some (U-M) use lots of graduate teaching assistants while others (OU) use professors to teach undergraduate courses, and each university has different ways of allocating financial aid.

The meeting recessed until the next day without resolving anything. I was left with several pages of notes but nothing I could distill into a news story.

Multiplying this process by four, I could see why Bob Geake looked a little tired.

Vacation's a time for learning

THOMAS ARNETT

By Julie Brown
staff writer

Dan Shasko and Tim Cross aren't spending their summer vacation just loafing around.

Dan, a 10-year-old student at Miller Elementary School, and Tim, an 11-year-old student at Field Elementary School, were among those who participated in last week's "Science Sampler Day Camp."

The camp, held at Hulsing Elementary School in Canton, was offered by the Living Science Foundation in cooperation with Plymouth-Canton Community Education.

"We're doing a lot of projects, recess and lunch and all that," said Tim, who will start fifth grade this fall. Tim enjoyed the color wheel project the students worked on one day at camp; he liked mixing the different colors of dye to see what he could come up with.

"It's very, very, very fun." Making new friends was another thing Tim enjoyed about the camp.

FELLOW CAMPER Dan Shasko also enjoyed his week at camp. He liked making extra-large bubbles; he used straws to make a frame and then dipped the frame in a soapy solution, getting some help from the wind in making bubbles.

"It's fun," said Dan, who will be a fifth grader this fall.

The "Science Sampler Day Camp" is designed to mix fun with learning, said Lillian Banta, team leader for the Living Science Foundation.

"We also want them to enjoy camp. We work at both."

The mother of one of last week's campers told Banta her child described the camp as "awesome."

"I guess that's the highest rating you can get," Banta said.

The camp, held Monday, June 27, through Friday, July 1, included a variety of activities. The camp was for children ages 5 to 12.

"And they're divided by age groups." Camp staffers try to make sure activities are appropriate for each age group, Banta said.

Last week's camp included 30 children, divided into four groups of seven or eight each. They learned about science with the help of four teenage counselors, Banta, and three other Living Science Foundation interpreters.

Each day at last week's camp was based on a different theme. On the first day of camp, students learned about biology. They studied living things, and learned how various animals are grouped.

"Also, we studied plants."

STUDENTS MADE leaf rubbings and learned about tree rings; they also enjoyed the visit of live animals to the classrooms at Hulsing.

On the second day, "Dinosaur Day," students made fossil casts from plaster of Paris. They used bark, leaves, "whatever they found" to make those fossil casts, Banta said.

Students made a paper cut-out of a flying reptile, and also made di-

Kitchen band stars at ice cream social

THE MUSICAL entertainment was top-notch at last week's ice cream social, held at the Plymouth adult day center. The company at the event was also first-rate.

The get-together, held the afternoon of Monday, June 27, featured the considerable talents of the Canton Seniors Kitchen Band. Band members presented a variety of musical numbers during the ice cream social.

The center, housed at St. John's Episcopal Church in Plymouth Township, provides respite care for older adults. It is operated by Plymouth Family Service, a Plymouth Community Fund agency.

Members of the Canton Seniors

Kitchen Band weren't the only performers featured; some of the center's clients presented several musical numbers during the ice cream social.

THE CLIENTS, known for the day as the Plymouth Respite Rhythmaires, rehearsed for about 2½ months, preparing for their performance day.

"We were so happy and they were so pleased with themselves," said Mary Mauro, site manager at the center. Members of the Plymouth Respite Rhythmaires were a bit nervous about their performance.

"We had such a nice turnout and such support too," Mauro said.

The ice cream social was held for center clients, family members, volunteers, staffers from Plymouth Family Service/Child and Family Service of Washtenaw and others.

"We just wanted to get everybody together," Mauro said.

A holiday get-together was held last year at the center just before Christmas. Last week's get-together was held "to see how far we've come," she said.

The center at St. John's Episcopal Church now has 24 clients, 13 of

The facility provides respite care during the day, operating from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. It began operating last October and provides a place where family members can drop off an older relative during the day.

The service is primarily for adults age 60 and older; some younger clients also use the service, although they are required to pay a daily rate. Other clients are asked to make donations on a sliding-scale basis.

Post, auxiliary well-represented

A group of 17 members of the Mayflower-Lt. Gamble Post No. 6695, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Auxiliary recently traveled to Sault Ste. Marie, Mich. Post and auxiliary members attended the 61st annual convention of the VFW in that northern Michigan community.

Business sessions were conducted by Marjorie Moore, state president from Warren. Betty Butler, past national president from Cranford, N.J., was the national representative.

Lorraine Nelson and Robert Nelson, president and commander of Mayflower-Lt. Gamble Post and Auxiliary, had the honor of being named all-state president and all-state commander.

Lorraine Nelson had more honor roll points than any other president in Michigan. Both brought home many plaques and citations for the work done by various committees.

Five women from Post No. 6695 marched behind Alice Fisher of Plymouth, president of the 4th District Ladies Auxiliary, in the parade.

nosaur puppets. They learned about the differences between dinosaurs and reptiles, and how animals have adapted to their environments.

The third day, "Physics Is Fun Day," included a variety of experiments. Students made color wheels, learning how colors mix.

In one experiment, a flame was held under a cola bottle with a balloon fitted over the top; the balloon filled up as the bottle was heated.

On Thursday, June 30, the students enjoyed "Safari Day." They learned about Australia and the Amazon.

"You've got a rain forest and you've got a very dry country, for the most part," Banta said.

On that day, students made monkey masks and participated in other activities. They enjoyed the visit of live animals to the classrooms.

THE FINAL day at camp was "Air and Space Day." It included use of a planetarium, an inflatable dome designed to show stars and teach campers about constellations.

Students also made space suits, cutting the suits out of sheets of paper. Students learned about astronauts and what equipment astronauts need when they're in space.

"We talk about weightlessness out in space, anything to do with astronauts," she said.

A laser disc was used to show pictures on a TV screen of the planets and of the Apollo mission.

Students learned about the ways in which a star is different from a planet.

"We spend quite a lot of time on Earth," Banta said.

The students learned about how the Earth's atmosphere is just right for living creatures; Earth dwellers don't have to lose much sleep worrying about being hit by a meteor.

"But if we lived on Mercury, we'd have a heck of a time."

Chris Lamar, 5, watches hot air rise to fill a balloon.

One question students were asked to answer was "What is the star closest to Earth?"

That question can be a tough one for the students to answer, Banta has found.

"Sometimes it takes them a long time to come up with the sun."

Scouts earn Gold Award

Plymouth-Canton Girl Scouts are among those who have earned the Gold Award, Girl Scouting's highest honor.

This year, 12 outstanding young women received the award at a Huron Valley Girl Scout Council reception, held at the Women's City Club in Ann Arbor.

Heather Schlachter of Plymouth and Judith Barnett, Julie Carlson and Heather Ann Greifenberg, all of Canton, earned the Gold Award.

The award represents a year's worth of hard work and accomplishment in leadership, community service, career planning and personal development.

The plan for fulfilling the requirements of the award is created by the Girl Scout and is carried out through close cooperation between the girl and her adviser. The Gold Award recognizes a Girl Scout's commitment to excellence as she develops skills and values to meet challenges in life.

TO EARN the award, each girl must complete a challenge in a community service project and take part in a review board interview, held to evaluate her work.

Heather Schlachter, the daughter of Paul and Nola Schlachter, has been a Girl Scout for eight years. For her community service project, Schlachter planned two special Girl Scout events for girls who were moving up to a new program level.

She planned the program, held committee meetings, processed registrations, made name tags and certificates, and saw that things went smoothly at the events. Schlachter will be a senior at Plymouth-Canton High School this fall.

Judith Barnett, the daughter of Daniel and Carol Barnett, has been a Girl Scout for 11 years. For her community service project, she spent many weekends at West Trails Nursing Home, helping to transport, feed and comfort the residents.

Barnett organized Halloween and Christmas parties, in addition to wrapping gifts, playing games and offering companionship. She will be a senior at Ladywood High School this fall.

Julie Carlson, the daughter of Dennis and Debbie Carlson, has been a Girl Scout for nine years. For her community service project, Carlson planned and carried out an afternoon of fun and games for children ages 3-12 at the Summer Fest.

CARLSON RESEARCHED games that would interest and challenge children, obtained equipment and awards, and coordinated the work of volunteers needed to run the games. She will be a sophomore at Plymouth Salem High School in the fall.

Heather Ann Greifenberg, the daughter of Herbert and Carol Greifenberg, has been a Girl Scout for nine years. For her community service project, she volunteered at a Scout day camp for girls from Plymouth, Canton and Northville.

Greifenberg was the leader of a patrol of 20 girls ages 9-11. That involved planning all aspects of a week's worth of activities, and encouraging the girls to learn about and appreciate wildlife. She will be a senior at Plymouth Salem High School in the fall.

The Huron Valley Girl Scout Council, a United Way agency, serves more than 12,000 girls and adults in western Wayne, Washtenaw, Livingston and Monroe counties.

State to have 'closed' primary

In 1992 Michigan voters again will get to vote in a presidential primary under a bill headed to Gov. James Blanchard's desk.

The state House voted 96-0 last Wednesday to give final legislative approval to a Senate-passed bill calling for a primary to be held on the third Tuesday beginning in March 1992.

"Better? Absolutely," said Rep. Maxine Berman, D-Southfield, who chairs the House Elections Committee. "The other system is not popular at all. This will enhance voter turnout."

The measure has the support of Republican and Democratic party leaders in the state and is expected to gain Blanchard's signature.

All area lawmakers voted yes except two who missed the vote: James Kosteva, D-Canton, and Gerald Law, R-Plymouth.

UNLIKE THE last presidential primary in Michigan which was open, future primaries will require voters to state 30 days in advance whether they want to vote in the Republican or Democratic primary. Independents who refuse to state their preference won't be allowed to vote.

Michigan's 1976 primary marked the last time both major parties participated in an open primary. Republicans used a primary in 1980, but the Legislature voted to eliminate it in 1983.

The Associated Press contributed to this story.

Political activism alive in Catholic church

By Amy Rosa
staff writer

Political activism can mean anything from marching in a protest to going to jail for a cause, to writing a newspaper column on a social injustice. It means many things to many people — and nowhere is it more evident than in our own back yard.

Among the well-known and not-so-well-known activists are a number of Roman Catholics, who continue a long history of political involvement.

Prominent among them is the Rev. William Cunningham, 58, whose role in the political arena is to "feed babies and create jobs," which he does as director of "Focus Hope," a human rights organization servicing Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties.

AS DIRECTOR of Focus Hope for 20 years and pastor of the Church of Madonna in Detroit for 19 years, Cunningham has been particularly close to the social problems of Detroit's inner city — namely poverty among black single mothers and lack of jobs for young black males.

"We shouldn't have to be feeding babies — if black males had the jobs they need, it would be their delight to feed them," Cunningham said. "But the jobs aren't there, and the males can't live up to their responsibilities."

Racial injustice is the reason Cunningham cites as to why blacks can't find jobs to provide for their families. "The problem is not lack of jobs, it is the lack of preparation for the jobs that can support a family — black men and women have been kept out of those kinds of jobs."

Besides sponsoring the nation's largest food program for poverty-level single mothers and senior citizens, Focus Hope runs several machinist and production training programs for black males and others, that offer a way out for many when there was none.

"Apartheid is as striking in America as it is in South Africa," he said.

Although Cunningham thinks the Catholic Church "speaks well" when it comes to human rights issues, he feels there are still not enough Catholics participating when it counts. "It should be part of the system to express ourselves, but still do something about it."

WHILE CUNNINGHAM works on the social injustices of the neighborhoods, the Rev. Robert Schaden, 52, rallies for world peace from his ministry at the Newman House, serving Schoolcraft College in Livonia.

Schaden was the founder and has been the campus minister there for 20 years. His direct involvement with the house's Peace Resource Center for all that time has given him an outlet through which he locally makes known his position on this international issue.

"Catholics are having less conflict about speaking their minds, but any kind of leadership which challenges people to the truth is never popular."

As far as being a political activist goes, Schaden said he is "pretty low key," delving mostly in talks, an occasional march, visits to local support groups and a moral perspective column that runs in the Observer & Eccentric. "But if I'm giving a speech to a college campus, it won't be long before you know where I stand on nuclear arms."

"Anyone who is a leader hasn't any choice but to be a political activist," he said, admitting he believes only in a non-violent breaking of rules — civil disobedience. "I haven't gone to jail, but I support those who have."

One local individual who was arrested for a cause is internationally known Bishop Thomas Gumbleton, regional leader for 18 parishes in the Detroit area, and pastor of St. Leo Church in Detroit. He was jailed in May 1987 for trespassing at a nuclear test site in Nevada.

THOUGH HE admits some people have called his methods "radical," he insists he is not a political activist, but rather a "moral" activist. "Anything I get involved in is a moral issue."

Gumbleton just returned from a demonstration in New York City's Central Park where he addressed a crowd of 100,000 on nuclear arms and is making plans to attend a Boston event this month in July promoting world peace.

Later in August he'll travel to El Salvador to raise money to bring back 10,000 exiles still living out of the country, who were forced to leave in the early 1980s.

Finding a cause to support or an issue to protest against is never a problem, he said. "I choose whatever seems to be the most grave at the time — so many of the things are interrelated."

An example is the arms race as it relates to hunger, he said. "In the last six years our government spent $6 trillion dollars on nuclear weapons — that's unbelievable. Think what we could have done if we spent that on food for the hungry."

Though Gumbleton carries out his moral activism here and abroad, he said individuals who strive for social justice at home are just as important.

Take Sandy Abraham, a Livonia mother, member of Gumbleton's church, and volunteer at the Newman House's Peace Resource Center. She helps organize speakers and participates in occasional marches for nuclear disarmament. "I feel that as a Catholic, I have to stand up for what's right — I don't see how I can't become involved. We have to end the violence in the world."

As Schaden put it there are many people in many ways that take their place among political activists. "The point is to get out and do it."

moral perspectives

Rev. Robert Schaden

Freedom was amiss in one recent event

Just three weeks ago a group of concerned American veterans were stopped at the border in Laredo, Texas.

During a number of months, they had collected some 32 tons of humanitarian aid. They attempted to leave United States June 15 on their way to deliver their cargo to the people of Nicaragua. Customs officials said, "no," and they were prevented from leaving the country. It seems that their action would compromise the trade embargo in force with that country.

Just three days ago we celebrated Independence Day. The idea of it all is so much bigger than a day can commemorate or a few fire crackers can shout about. The concept of independence as it is spelled out in the declaration is even greater than what can be contained within the borders of this great nation. It is not only about the rights belonging to all women and men it is about rights that can never be legitimately claimed by any one group of people over another.

As the inheritors of this gift of independence we not only have much to celebrate on behalf of ourselves, but we have a few things to contemplate on behalf of the many who live outside our borders.

When John Hancock signed the now famous declaration he was a hero with those early Americans. It may have been interesting to have read of the event in a British newspaper. Perhaps he would have been depicted in somewhat the same light as revolution in Central American in our time.

HAD ANYONE asked the British loyalists in the days of colonial America why they supported tyranny, they might likely have replied that the Crown was the legitimate government and as such should not be questioned. Indeed the leaders in London would have suggested that charges of tyranny were greatly exaggerated.

In fact, they were doing nothing more than protecting the interest of dear old England while at the same time attempting to free those poor colonists from the influence of the terrible revolutionaries in America.

The landscape of colonial America looked very different from Valley Forge than from an English tea room. Many pages of history have been written between the events of 1776 and the episode at the border in Laredo, Texas.

However, the truth of Independence Hall remains the same: No one group of people can legitimately claim a right to run the lives of another group of people without their say-so. This was true when the British attempted to determine the course of events in America.

It is true when the super powers of the 20th century impose their wills on smaller nations whose resources happen to meet their fancy. It is true when Moscow attempts to take over Afghanistan, and it is true when Washington presumes to know what is best for Central America.

We cannot have it both ways. We cannot light fire crackers in memory of a declaration and at the same time supply fire power to have our will imposed on people south of our borders because it meets our national purposes. The message of Independence Hall rings rather hollow unless those who wave the Star-Spangled Banners are willing to apply its truth to our time and the independence of people whose rights are as sacred as our own.

Many of our wars have been fought from the conviction that unless we protect the liberty of others, our own liberty is at risk. We can hardly claim to be protecting the liberty of anyone when food and medicine and means of transportation, all of which we hold so dear for ourselves are not allowed to our brothers and sisters over the border.

The Rev. Robert Schaden is with Newman House Campus Ministry at Schoolcraft College.

New skin cream helps wrinkles

Dear Jo:
Is the new skin cream Retin-A a cure for wrinkles?
Mrs. D.T., Regular Reader

Although the skin cream tretinoin (marketed as Retin-A) is not touted as a cure for wrinkles, its skin-rejuvenating effects are cause for excitement in both the fields of dermatology and gerontology.

This prescription drug is not a new discovery. It has been around since the late 1960s and is primarily used in the treatment of acne.

While being treated with Retin-A for acne, many older patients reported that the cream not only cleared up their acne, but it also smoothed out some wrinkles and reduces areas of blotchiness.

THE JOURNAL of the American Medical Association published the results of a study on Retin-A done by Dr. Jonathan Weiss and his colleagues at the University of Michigan.

Thirty subjects, aged 35 to 70, applied Retin-A to one arm and a placebo cream to the other once a day. After four months, all of the Retin-A treated arms had fewer wrinkles and rosier skin.

Fifteen people also applied the drug to their faces. The results were similar though somewhat less significant. The treated skin apparently grew new tissue to replace sun-damaged cells. Although the improvement to the skin was quite subtle, it was definitely an improvement.

The U-M study is just the beginning. Larger, longer-term studies are under way. Some questions that will have to be answered are: How long will the cream continue to improve the skin? What happens if it is used for years? And what happens if it is discontinued?

THE CREAM must be prescribed by a doctor and used under medical supervision because there can be side-effects. This drug is not advised for use in women who are, or may become, pregnant.

There is hope that Retin-A may affect the incidence of skin cancer. Some studies on animals and humans suggest that it may retard potentially cancerous skin growth. If this potential benefit is confirmed, the efforts will be "miraculous."

The cost of Retin-A is comparatively low — about $25 for a two to three months' supply.

It is important to note that the skin changes are subtle and hence may not satisfy the public for long. Nevertheless, it is exciting to know that the skin does respond to this product, and eventually it may be the basis for all skin care. Then, who knows? Maybe there will be a cure for wrinkles.

To some, that is the fountain of youth.

State to track birth defect kids

The state Department of Public Health will be responsible for locating children with birth defects and referring them for appropriate treatment under a bill approved by the Michigan Legislature and sent to the governor's desk.

State Rep. David Honigman, R-

West Bloomfield, sponsor of House Bill 4007, said the tracking system would lead to prompt referrals of children and families to vital diagnostic and treatment services.

Public health officials estimate 5 percent of babies are born with major birth defects.

"Early intervention is so valuable in these cases. An effective system that identifies, tracks and follows up on children could make a dramatic difference in thousands of lives," Honigman said.

"For example, a tracking system would allow health and social service agencies to be aware when a child was born with defects linked to a mother's alcohol or drug use," he added.

The legislation, if signed by Gov. James J. Blanchard, would take effect immediately.

College pushes export increase

By Anne Fracassa
special writer

Madonna College wants to increase the exportation of products and services from metropolitan Detroit.

Through a grant from the U.S. Department of Education, the college will start with faculty training, development of videotapes, films and course books and education in international business — all designed to augment the college's class offerings.

"We need to train our students to think globally," said Charlotte Neuhauser, dean of the college's Division of Business and Computer Systems.

"Many of our students need to think globally because they tend to focus only on local, regional or national arenas of the business world. They aren't aware of the potentials of doing business on an international level."

"American businesses are now realizing the advantages of exporting their products and services and our students' need to be educated in that realm."

Neuhauser said her department plans to not only incorporate international business and strategies into the department's business curriculum, but will also strive to increase international knowledge throughout the Detroit business community.

The college will receive $89,281 over a two-year period from the federal government. The first installment is $55,000. Both installments must be matched by the college either by fund-raising, donations or from the college fund.

Initially, five faculty members from Neuhauser's department will be involved in restructuring of classes they teach to include international business concepts and strategies.

Those faculty members include Gary Fisher (who teaches management), James Luke (economics), Donald Blouin (computers) and Reginald Sobczak (marketing). The fifth teacher, for accounting, has not been named.

Faculty members will participate in international courses, seminars, workshops and development of five workshops to strengthen their backgrounds in international business.

Initial training will begin in September, preparation of class materials will take place during the winter term, and teaching will be started in September 1989.

"They will be the core team, training and developing the material that will be used in all principal business classes required at the college," she said. "With nearly 75 percent of (Madonna's) students required to take at least one of the introductory courses, we'll be able to effectively expose them to the concepts."

All Madonna students are required to take at least one introductory accounting, management, marketing, computer or economics class. If the program is effective, Neuhauser expects the college to eventually test all students in international competency and knowledge.

"I would like to see the college adopt an international business competency much like the current competency test it has for math and English."

Two new classes will be added to the curriculum: business management and government policy — international social, economic and political contexts; and export and trade policies and procedures.

The second part of the program involves development of an export education program, directly involving the business community. The department plans to work closely with the Livonia Chamber of Commerce and the Department of Jobs and Economic Development of Wayne County.

"This will include a series of five workshops geared toward business executives who may be interested in exploring export activities for their product or service," Neuhauser said.

John White, executive director of the Livonia Chamber of Commerce, said his group's involvement will be minimal at the start of the program but will increase as the program progresses.

"Right now our basic job is to let the business community know the college is gearing classes, workshops and the trip overseas," he said. "We will be setting up the meetings and one-on-one relationships between our business executives and those overseas."

White said long-term goals include adding a department within the chamber to provide exporting services and advice.

"With the world market so open and inviting, we have to help our businesses through exportation," he said. "No one can just sell in Livonia or in Michigan any longer. To survive, you've just got to export."

The workshops will be incorporated into the program during the 1988 fall term.

An export education certificate program will be established, providing six semester hours of credit for those business executives completing the workshops.

The college's business lecture series, focusing on the international economy and its relationship to U.S. exporting, will explore possibilities of exportation and whether the business is suited for profit internationally during four lectures.

The lecture series, scheduled for the 1989 fall term, is open to business representatives, students, faculty and the public at no charge.

"Many business executives running companies that are considered small- or medium-sized don't realize the amount of potential in doing business on a global scale," she said. "It could be viable for these companies because there is already a substantial increase in global marketing and sales."

Neuhauser will also take a trade mission to Brussels and London during the 1989 spring term. The mission's primary objective is for the executives to meet a counterpart in Belgium and England. She hopes to entice about 50 area executives, faculty and students to attend.

The trip is co-sponsored by the college, the Livonia chamber and the Wayne County Department of Jobs and Economic Development.

"They will be able to talk and possibly set up networking to spark exporting," she said. "The trip will also include a meeting with the heads of the common market in both Brussels and London to discuss trade possibilities."

Neuhauser hopes to continue the program well after the grant money is exhausted.

"We will be producing 10 video recordings to the material used in class," she said. "This will provide for additional training and hopefully we'll not only make those tapes available to the business community but also to other universities throughout the nation."

"Only through these steps can we strengthen the linkages and joint ventures between the business community and the college."

Cross Pac-Man with Dr. Spock and you might get something resembling Lundin Laboratories' latest product.

The Southfield-based publisher of industrial software enters the home market with Family Care, a program offering medical advice to parents and caregivers.

Focusing on medical problems common to children from newborns to teens, the software is offered by mail order and through a growing number of dealerships. It's the brainchild of the firm's president, Roman Lundin.

"I looked at developing a program for adults, but it was easiest to do pediatrics. An adult will tell you what's wrong with them. Doctors handling children have to formulate their thinking. Kids don't talk like adults," Lundin said.

When he first had the idea in 1984, he began looking for pediatricians to work on the project. Through a network of referrals he linked up with a trio of pediatricians — Dr. Joyce Guior Wolf, Dr. Jay W. Eastman and Dr. Ruben Kurnetz. All three teach at Wayne State University's College of Medicine, in the department of pediatrics, medicine and are associated with William Beaumont Hospital, Royal Oak.

Each section of the program was developed by one of the pediatricians and reviewed by the other two. The software took three years to develop.

Wolf, whose private practice is in Birmingham, said they tried to map out the kinds of questions parents frequently ask a pediatrician over the phone. "The software) deals with things parents can understand. It deals with symptoms," Wolf said.

When recommending action, the program takes a conservative

Housing starts still hinge on anticipating consumer needs

By Louise Okrutsky
staff writer

After 43 years developing housing, some of the problems remain the same for a firm like Robertson Co. Community Developer of Bloomfield Hills.

Projects still hinge on the basics of the business — anticipation of consumer needs and desires as well as some ability to forecast the next area in demand. Zoning and building restrictions can have businesses and local governments at loggerheads.

In some ways it may have been easier in 1945, when Paul Robertson Sr. and his brother, Covert, each kicked in $4,000 for some neglected lots in what was then the outer suburbs.

From that initial investment grew Robertson Co. Community Developers. The firm's latest project involves wetland development and golf course management.

Fresh out of the Navy, Paul Robertson Sr. joined his brother in investing in 100 lots on Elwood Street east of Coolidge in Berkeley.

"That was the end. That was as far as any development went in this town," Paul Robertson Jr. said.

THE YOUNGER Robertson is president of the firm created by his father and uncle. The original partnership endured until 1955, when Covert moved to California. The senior Robertson retired from the business last year.

Platted in the 1920s, the lots remained undeveloped during the Depression and war years. Sold for back taxes, the 40-foot lots went for some $200 apiece. The brothers split the property to form some 150 50-foot lots.

"It was an opportunity that popped up. We had an idea in mind that we were building for servicemen," the elder Robertson said.

The senior Robertson built for a housing market of his peers.

"We were always building for my father's generation," Robertson Jr. said.

As Robertson Sr. recalls, the houses proved easier to sell than build.

"After the war it was very difficult to get materials. You had to wait weeks. I remember driving to Plymouth for 100 2-by-4-by-8's, the most common kind of lumber."

WAITING BECAME a fact of business life.

"You had to wait six weeks for everything," Robertson Sr. said. "That was probably fortunate. The lumber was very green. Sometimes it would turn black. We used to call it skunk spruce."

"By the time we roughed the house the lathe was there and the 2-by-4s had air dried in position." Those new houses were surrounded by older houses, which often were in disrepair. To keep the value of their investment, the brothers would approach owners of some of the older houses.

"We'd ask them, 'If we give you 10 gallons of paint, would you paint your house?' And they would."

IT WASN'T difficult to sell a new home at a time when former servicemen were anxious for family housing.

Housing starts hinge on anticipating needs

"When we were building, there'd be no signs on the house," Robertson Sr. said. "Otherwise we'd be besieged by phone calls. Once every four or five months we'd go out on a Sunday afternoon and stick an open house sign on the corner. We'd sit in the houses all afternoon. If we didn't sell a half dozen in an afternoon, we weren't doing our thing."

The two-bedroom, 900-square-foot houses sold for $6,000-$7,000. Eventually they built three-bedroom houses when families began growing.

By 1950, the kind of lots they had been using grew scarce. They picked Troy as their next area.

"It was a natural extension of the Birmingham side," Robertson Sr. said.

CHOOSING THE next location involved educated second guessing.

"You have to figure where the traffic's going to go and where people want to go," Robertson Sr. said.

"You know why Birmingham-Bloomfield area attracted moneyed people? Golf courses. Not any kind of golf courses. Private golf courses. There are 10-15 golf courses in Bloomfield Township," he said.

In 1951, the brothers figured people wanted to go somewhere in the Birmingham area. They began building homes in the Pine Hills subdivision on Wattles at Adams in Troy. That land first came to Robertson Sr.'s notice when he took part in a church picnic held on the property.

BUT THE area and its zoning regulations and sewage facilities were still focused on a rural lifestyle.

"Troy wanted you to have two acres to a lot. When we finished we had one unit to an acre. We had 89 acres and 89 lots."

Sewers weren't installed until 1957.

"A lot of bonds issued to build sewers had gone belly up. It was a very difficult job to get sewers financed," he said.

Four builders and a nearby Roman Catholic convent contributed money toward the construction of the first leg of the Evergreen interceptor. Under the arrangement, they didn't pay any tapping fees for several years until the city had repaid the debt.

"We were just paying our tapping fees in advance," Robertson Sr. said.

CONSUMER TRENDS gradually changed. The "Leave It to Beaver" style families for whom the firm originally had built were evolving. Empty nesters were rattling around in those big family houses. In the late '60s/early '70s, the company, under the urging of the elder Robertson, began to consider condominiums as the wave of its future.

Marketing appeals began to talk about lifestyles instead of room for the children to grow.

"There's more to selling real estate than just putting a house on it," the younger Robertson said. "We're buying a lifestyle. They didn't want to take another leaf. We're selling lifestyle. We still feel that way today."

WHILE THE sales pitch remains the same, the listeners are younger.

"They used to be 54. Maybe five years younger or five years older," Robertson said.

Now, the market includes younger two-career couples and one-child families. They've found they have neither the time nor the inclination to tend to a big home and a large yard.

They've also become more demanding. Consumers respond to such amenities as golf courses, tennis courts, jogging trails and bike paths.

ON THE way toward building this condo community, local, state and federal regulations can change the shape of the developers' original plans. Wetlands regulations can change the face of a development.

"We have some grave legal concerns about developers and landholders rights. Wetlands can be considered confiscation without compensation," Robertson Jr. said.

The firm's newest 433-unit condominium project, The Heathers in Bloomfield Hills, involved extensive reworking to accommodate wetlands. Robertson Jr. gives high marks to local government for allowing him to arrange the condos to fit in 433 units as he planned.

SINCE THE firm built on an old gravel pit on Square Lake Road between Squirrel and Opdyke, it hadn't expected to become involved in wetlands regulations. But a waterway running through the property was seen by the Department of Natural Resources as a protected wetlands.

"A lot of crazy things get designated as wetlands. You could have a completely dry area, and it could be a forested wetlands," Robertson Jr. said.

His company ended up hiring a consultant to build another swamp on the property to replace a small part of the wetland that was filled up for the project's golf course. The course, which will become a private club open to non-residents, evolved into a more difficult exercise for duffers.

After working with the swampy area, the marketing strategy now designates it an enhanced wetlands. Buyers are charged a premium for lots overlooking it.

Local ordinances protecting natural areas, according to the younger Robertson, sometimes can be a product of an attitude that has been around for as long as his company.

"I'm never opposed to creative ordinances but when they try to use it as a method to stop development, it's what I call the suburban syndrome. Now that I'm here, let's close the door on everyone else."

All you do is sign in and just say ah

stance. Symptoms of serious medical problems are mentioned first, and parents are advised to seek medical help immediately.

"We're dealing with an unknown group of people with an unknown degree of knowledge. Emergency questions are addressed first," Wolf said.

"We needed to be conservative. We don't know who the user is, what level of common sense, what level intelligence they have. We can't assume these things," she said.

A CONSERVATIVE approach also serves as the first line of defense against litigation. Several lawyers examined the program before Lundin put it on the market. "We didn't want a product that endangers anyone," he said. "Obviously we're concerned about liability; it's a medical product. The lawyers said that they don't see we created special dangers to consumers."

"The lawyers have said that no doctor/patient relationship was created," Wolf said. Legally, the program can be viewed in the same light as any advice manual, such as Dr. Benjamin Spock's baby books.

"We tried to reduce liability by making the software simple to use," Wolf said. The program takes users through a series of questions with "yes" or "no" answers. It can be used by the novice as well as the more experienced personal computer owner.

Answers are straightforward. Unlike similar programs used for industry, Family Care limits itself to exact answers. For example, users won't find answers which indicate there is a 75 per cent chance their child may have a certain disease or condition.

"It was written originally to be a directive and safe as it possibly can be," Wolf said.

Response to the program has been wider than originally anticipated.

"We thought mostly upper income people would buy it, but we were wrong," Lundin said. Audiences range in annual family income from $20,000 to over $100,000, according to Lundin. In addition to parents, the software's been purchased by day care centers, elementary schools and summer camps.

PART OF THE program's broad appeal lies in Lundin's pricing strategy. When it was originally released in test markets, the software sold for $180. That price was cut to $99 when the program didn't sell as anticipated. It became apparent that it was more profitable to sell the software at the lower price.

The software is available for Macintosh and IBM personal computers.

"Software's like books. Some take 10 years to write, some take five months, but they both sell at the same price," Lundin said.

Lundin advertised the software in about six magazines geared toward parents or computer owners, including Working Parents and Rodale's Children magazines.

Although the software is available through mail order, Lundin's working to make it available to software dealerships. "People have to look at it first," he said. "They feel more comfortable when they purchase it in a store."

"We're working with several distributors but it's a long process to establish good relationships," he said.

Family Care is available in English in 56 countries. "Frequently people (in non-English speaking countries) with medical knowledge and those who are affluent do speak English," Wolf said.

Missionary groups have purchased it but Lundin admits there are some drawbacks to using the program overseas. In cases of minor complaints, the software recommends over-the-counter medicines. In most cases these products are unavailable outside the United States and Canada.

Translating the software into other languages brings other problems into play. "Translation is difficult because the translator needs to have medical knowledge and be familiar with English language medical terms," Wolf said.

Mail and phone orders carry a 30-day money back guarantee. Phone orders can be taken at 1-800-426-8426.

"We've had a few returns from people who didn't have children and from doctors — people who wanted to take a look at the software," Lundin said.

In addition buyers who register are eligible for free updated programs incorporating new medical findings, according to Lundin.

"We're working on a second version which includes improvements and suggestions from customers," he said.

Papers rarely know who will succeed at GM

When the Detroit Free Press announced Elmer Johnson, then executive vice president, "The Next Chairman at GM" a year or so ago, the story demonstrated the hazards of predicting the next chairman of GM in a news story.

The only thing you know for sure about who is going to be the next chairman at GM is that no past GM chairman ever had a story about himself predicting he would be chairman.

In fact, there is considerable evidence that a large picture of yourself on the cover of a magazine predicting you are going to be the next chairman of an auto company is a good way to get your boss mad enough to make some other guy chairman.

THIS IS KNOWN as the Lee

lacocca syndrome. In fact, it wasn't so long ago that a front-page story about a big shakeup coming at GM management provoked such strong denials that you started to think GM had started some kind of Japanese-style system of guaranteed employment.

Which is one reason why I generally try to avoid putting in writing who I think are the hot candidates for high executive positions.

Regardless, GM did announce a big shakeup last week, and aside from the rush of mothers going for the scissors and scrapbook, it provokes a mixture of curiosity, envy and a bit of wonder at how this company larger than most countries undergoes a change of power.

I tend to react to these announcements of personnel shifts in stages.

auto talk
Dan McCosh

FIRST, I get a twinge by noticing there are two guys on the organization chart who are younger than I am. Three are shorter than I am, and all are richer.

Three guys are named Smith, and GM reminds you that they aren't related. There are five names I've never heard before, and three have titles I never heard of either.

All this aside, I notice for the first time in years, there seems to be a noticeable effort to move hard-core engineering types up the corporate ladder. Robert J. Eaton, formerly vice president, technical staffs, who survived the EDS wars, lands a job as head of GM of Europe, while his old post is taken by Donald J. Runkle, who survived the advent of electronics at Buick.

BUT THE dominance of financial types, followed by those steeped in the arcane art of manufacturing and material management, which has prevailed under the Smith reign, remains. Relatively few divisional general managers are at or near the top these days — probably the most noticeable change in the old line of succession.

The recurring cliché about top management is that the chairman is a financial type, while the corporate president can be something else. This precludes Robert Stempel getting moved to the chairmanship, but most of the newspaper speculation seems to lean toward that happening anyway.

I note that the worst job on the list went to William E. Hoglund, who used to have it easy running Pontiac, then was promoted to head up the Buick-Olds-Cadillac group, now gets automotive components and a new power products and defense group.

THIS IS A tough job mainly because ever since Robert Stempel was made president, he's been making speeches about how GM's supply operations must be made profitable or else. "Or else" jobs are tough.

Second-worse job is inherited by J.T. Battenberg III, as group executive, BOC, since nobody at GM understands what the triple-letter car groups are supposed to do, but everybody blames them for what goes wrong.

Johnson, of course, resigned last week to go back to the private practice of law. He was the last of a series of outside managers that GM chairman Roger Smith recruited in an effort to enliven the GM bureaucracy.

Government lives on income taxes

In a two-part article we will put our complex tax system into proper perspective.

The purpose of income tax

A brief overview of the purpose and history of the federal income tax system will provide a basis for understanding the current tax laws.

Income taxes are levied to provide the government with the income necessary to meet the needs of its people. The government must not only provide for defense, but must also attempt to address many of the social problems facing the nation.

Pollution, decay of the inner cities, inadequate educational facilities and conservation of scarce resources are just some of the major social problems facing governments today. Income tax is a primary source of revenue to meet these needs.

While a simple, fair and equitable levy of income taxes against all citizens is certainly a worthwhile goal, tax rules, laws and regulations are extremely complex. There are three primary reasons for this:

1. The sources of personal income are complex, and any attempt to tax that income is bound to be complex.

2. Income tax is used not only to provide revenue to the government but also to encourage certain forms of economic activity (home ownership, savings, other forms of investment).

3. Large special interest groups lobby to receive preferential tax treatment.

Within this complex environment, the current tax laws have evolved.

Income tax history

The 16th Amendment to the Constitution, passed in 1913, authorized the U.S. government to collect income taxes. The first permanent income tax in the United States became effective March 1, 1913.

The initial rates were modest, maximum federal income tax rates increased dramatically from 1930 to 1945. These rates remained high until Congress markedly lowered income tax rates beginning in 1981.

Recent tax reforms, the 1981 Economic Recovery Tax Act, the Tax Equity and Fiscal Responsibility Act of 1982, and the Tax Reform Act of 1986 have combined to reduce individual and corporate tax rates significantly to levels not seen since the Hoover administration.

Next week: More on tax laws.

Don't make employees baby-sit

I've seen it occur at four businesses within the past two weeks. What is it? Female business owners using employees to "baby-sit" for minor children on site.

In an age when quality day care is often difficult to find among working mothers, employees are becoming the new breed of caregivers for women who own and operate their own business.

Although this may be convenient, many facts should be considered before a business owner turns an employee into an on-site caregiver.

Depending on the nature and extent of operation, it may be inappropriate to consider on-site care for one or more of the owner's children.

BUT PRACTICAL considerations

focus: small business

are associated with taking care of children, such as safety, security and feeding/sleep schedules. Business owners must be aware that baby-sitting is and should be a full-time job.

"At our store, all of the employees share the work involved with watching their baby," one part-time employee said. "But it gets too crazy when no one can remember when the baby was fed or when it last slept once we get busy doing our regular work, not to mention that the mother is hardly ever around to help when she said she would."

Another consideration involves payment for baby-sitting services.

"If they're too cheap to pay for the help or won't offer anything, why should I break my neck to help them out when they ask?" said another employee at one of the better retail outlets operating in Oakland County.

"LOOK AT this place. Money has been poured into everything except when it comes to getting quality care for their kids. Although there are periods when I could watch the kids without too many interruptions, I didn't want this job just so I'd be come their on-call nanny."

Next week we will discuss what can be done to make on-site day care a mutually beneficial arrangement for both employees and business owners.

Pets of the week

These five cute kittens — one is hiding under the handle of the basket — need good homes. They already have good names — Herman, Smokey, Tigger, Simon and Ember — and they range in age 6-12 weeks. The puppy (below), an 8-week-old spaniel, is named Max. These pets and others are available at the Humane Society of Southeastern Michigan. To adopt one of these animals, call 421-3878.

House OKs control of bus system

Control over public transportation in Detroit and three suburban counties would be handed over to the region's four most powerful elected officials, under a bill approved by the state House of Representatives.

The House voted 78-20 last week to replace the current 15-member Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority board with a four-member commission made up of Detroit Mayor Coleman Young, Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara, Oakland County Executive Daniel T. Murphy and Macomb County board chairman Mark Steenbergh.

It's essentially the same bill drafted two years ago by Sen. Richard Fessler, R-Union Lake. That bill was passed in the Senate but died in House committee.

THE BILL was vigorously opposed by lawmakers from four counties — Washtenaw, Livingston, St. Clair and Monroe.

They are currently represented by two members of the SEMTA board, which sets policy for the seven-county region.

AMONG AREA lawmakers, only Rep. James Kosteva, D-Canton, opposed the measure. Rep. Justine Barns, D-Westland, did not vote.

Kosteva agreed with opponents that removing the four small counties meant "they no longer would have a voice in transportation policy."

Kosteva added, "I've always been a strong advocate of a single, regional transportation authority. This reorganization would put that further and further away, by encouraging each entity to set up its own transportation system."

The bill's sponsor was Rep. Curtis Hertel, D-Detroit, chairman of the House Transportation Committee. He said the current SEMTA board has been unable to effectively deal with the region's transportation problems.

Hertel said the board is unresponsive to the needs of the people because its members are appointed rather than elected.

He said the public will be able to put pressure on Young, Murphy, McNamara and Steenbergh to force politicians to improve the tri-county area's bus system.

The so-called Big Four initiated the legislation.

In an appearance before the House Transportation Committee, they argued the new setup would make it easier for SEMTA to lobby for state and federal funding and consider possible tax increases to add buses, light rail and possibly a future Detroit-area subway.

UNDER THE proposed SEMTA

reorganization, each of the four leaders would have one vote on a Regional Transit Coordinating Council. But all policy decisions would require a unanimous vote of the RTCC.

SEMTA operations, meanwhile, would be split into two parts. Detroit buses would be controlled by the city, and the suburbs would remain in what is now SEMTA.

The counties of Monroe, Livingston, Washtenaw and St. Clair, which now account for only about 2 percent of the system's ridership, would be allowed to stay in SEMTA, contract for bus service or withdraw completely from the seven-county compact established by the Legislature in 1977.

Despite pledges from the Big Four that they will not reduce bus service or cut off the flow of federal funds to outlying counties, officials in the area said they remain skeptical because the promises are not included in the legislation.

Two attempts to amend the bill to give the four outlying counties one vote on the RTCC were narrowly defeated.

That amendment was supported by Democrats Justine Barns of Westland, Kosteva of Canton, and Berman of Southfield plus Republican Gerald Law of Plymouth.

The Associated Press contributed to this story.

OBSERVERLAND TEAMS were shut out of the state baseball finals for the first time in recent memory, but the area continued its tradition of producing quality players.

There were several outstanding individual efforts in 1988.

The Observer Sports Staff, however, broke tradition this season, choosing its own All-Area squad instead of conducting a coaches meeting.

Area coaches had plenty of input in selecting the area's top players. But the final decisions for first and second team were left up to yours truly.

The Observer sports staff took into consideration many factors including All-State, All-Region and All-Conference teams. We also wanted a cross section of representatives, big and small schools, parochial and public.

The multipositional player (combination pitcher/fielder) was also given strong consideration.

Players from the area's better teams also received high marks.

A SPECIAL MENTION list, in addition to an honorable mention list, was also added to the 1988 All-Area team. Those players receiving Special Mention were nominated either by their coaches or by the sports staff.

The first team is made up of five players from the Western Lakes Activities Association, three from the Catholic League, and two from the Northwest Suburban League. The other member is the area's lone first-team All-Stater (Michigan High School Baseball Coaches Association), Wayne High's Mike Heard.

Presenting the 1988 All-Area Baseball Squad.

FIRST TEAM

PITCHERS

Clint Staub, Westland John Glenn: The senior, bound for Western Michigan University in the fall, compiled a three-year pitching record of 23-3, including a 10-2 mark with a 1.40 ERA this season.

Straub also helped the Rockets to three straight Western Lakes Activities Association titles.

This season he also led Glenn in a number of offensive categories including batting average (.387).

The right-hander was named All-WLAA, All-Region and second-team All-State. He was an All-Observer and Class A All-State pick as a quarterback in football.

THOMAS ARNETT/staff photographer

Kevin Learned was named to the All-Observer baseball team after hitting .459 and leading Plymouth Canton to a 22-7 record.

Fidell Cashero, Plymouth Salem: The 6-foot-4, 220-pound left-hander finished his senior year with a 6-2 record with a 1.70 ERA. He fanned 80 batters in 50 1/3 innings, losing only to Glenn in the regional and Livonia Franklin in the season opener.

Cashero struck out 14 in the loss to Franklin and beat Straub and Glenn during the regular season, 3-2.

"He can throw the hard stuff," said one area coach. "He can be a very imposing figure on the mound."

CATCHER

Steve Coffell, Redford Bishop Borgess: The All-Catholic League choice was the Spartans' team captain and MVP.

The 5-foot-9, 150-pound senior batted .409 with 54 hits in 132 at-bats, including 40 RBI, 12 doubles, one triple and two homers. He also scored 22 runs.

"The best catcher I've ever coached," said Borgess coach Mike George. "Steve did everything we asked of him and more. He's also a very good receiver."

INFELDERS

Kevin Rogers, Redford Catholic Central: Super smooth in the field, the Shamrock shortstop was also dangerous with the bat, collecting 39 hits in 106 at-bats for a .368 average. He also knocked in 18 runs.

Rogers participated in the Michigan High School Baseball Coaches Association All-Star Game held recently at Tiger Stadium. He was also an All-Region II selection.

World Cup soccer:
renewed inspiration

START SAVING your pennies and bottle deposits. Travel surely will be hard to come by, and will be expensive, too.

We're not talking about a World Series, which the Tigers may be headed toward. Nor even an NBA or NHL championship, which could be less than a year away for the Pistons and Red Wings.

And I wouldn't even mention the Lions and Super Bowl in the same sentence without adding something about the next century.

Nah, that stuff's strictly minor league compared to the World Cup. And the World Cup is coming to the U.S.

Americans love to hear about all those TVs tuned in around the world to the Super Bowl or World Series. But Americans should understand, most of those foreigners who tune in don't really understand what's going on. It's a spectacle, they're watching to see what it is that everybody else is watching.

The opposite is true at World Cup time. American watch because every other country on this globe makes such a big deal over it. It is, without rival, the most anticipated and attention-riveting sporting event in the world.

OF COURSE, that's not the attitude Americans have displayed toward soccer. When the U.S. was granted the privilege of hosting the 1994 World Cup Monday, the country we beat out was — can you imagine? — Morocco. The vote was 10 to seven, with No. 3 Brazil getting two ballots.

What an embarrassment it would have been if FIFA, soccer's worldwide governing body, had chosen Morocco — a country with two stadiums with more than 40,000 seats and a promise to build nine more — over the U.S.

C.J.
Risak

But it might have come to that. According to newspaper reports, the main flaw in naming the U.S. as host was our lack of both tradition and apparent interest in soccer.

Considering the number of youths currently playing the game — it is said to be the most popular age-group sport in the country, surpassing Little League baseball — interest shouldn't be a problem. Certainly not by 1994.

"By the time the World Cup arrives," noted Wally Barrett, Southfield's boys soccer coach, "the kids playing now will be six years older. They'll be fans, and they'll want to buy tickets."

"This could be what gets America on its feet again in soccer."

DON'T EXPECT too much too soon, however. It's been a long time since the U.S. has done anything of note in international soccer. The last time we played in the World Cup was 1950; that was the year we shocked England 1-0.

Since then, we've been no-shows come tournament time (which is every four years, by the way). This is the first-ever World Cup staged in the U.S., and it guarantees us a spot in the final field of 24.

And yet, no matter how our national team fares ("If we could win a game, or even tie a couple, it would be fantastic," said Barrett), the effects that the World Cup has — before and after — will be far-reaching.

"It has the potential to have a tremendous impact," said Gary Parsons, Oakland University's mens soccer coach. "I think it will lead to the re-establishment of pro outdoor soccer in this country. I think that will be the first concrete effect we'll see. And it will be incentive for investors to get on the bandwagon early."

Currently, there are a couple of minor outdoor soccer leagues, the most prominent of which is the American Soccer League, located on the east coast. Still, its players "play for part-time money," said Parsons.

A NATIONWIDE pro league could spring up in the next few years, particularly if interest in the U.S. Olympic team and the national team, combined with the World Cup, snowballs.

"It's really going to awaken some marketing people," predicted Parsons. "They'll start seeing soccer as a marketable tool, and they'll want to use soccer to market their products."

Of course, there will be other on-the-field effects. "I think it will give kids role models," said Mike Morgan, Plymouth Canton's boys coach. "Right now, they don't have anyone to look up to, if they're going to copy a style of play."

This All-Area team does it all

As a junior, Rogers played second base for the state champion Shamrocks.

Rick Rutledge, Redford Union: The senior first baseman came on strong during journey play, finishing with a .362 average (.29 for .80), including four homers.

Rutledge was an All-Region II selection and All-Northwest Suburban League pick. He helped pace the Panthers to their second straight NSL title and a 20-win season.

Jeremy Krol, Garden City: The senior co-captain was a three-year starter both as a shortstop and pitcher as the Cougars compiled an overall record of 52-18 record, including an 18-5 mark this year.

This season, the All-Region II and All-NSL pick collected 32 hits in 80 at-bats for a .400 average. He also knocked in 23 runs and scored 22.

As a pitcher, Krol posted a 5-1 record with a 1.79 ERA, fanning 42 batters in 43 innings. His three-year record is 7-3.

Kevin Learned, Plymouth Canton: The senior second baseman collected 34 hits in 74 at-bats for a .459 average. He also drove in 26 runs and scored 25. He had eight doubles and two homers.

The All-WLAA pick was also an excellent hit-and-run specialist, according to coach Fred Chissey, whose team finished with a 22-7 record.

Defensively, Learned made only three errors with 24 putouts and 46 assists.

OUTFIELDERS

Mike Heard, Wayne Memorial: The senior center fielder did it all for the Zephyrs, who captured the Wolverine A League crown.

Heard finished with a .417 average (30 hits in 72 at-bats), to go along with 21 RBI, five homers, five triples and four doubles. He also scored 25 runs. Heard had five game-winning hits.

The All-Region II and All-Wolverine A

baseball

choice was also a solid defensive performer, maybe the best pure outfielder in Observerland.

Todd Marion, Plymouth Salem: Bound for the University of Michigan, Marion was the area's biggest name player.

Although sidelined part of the year with a sore elbow, he still managed to post a 4-2 pitching record with a 1.02 ERA. The All-WLAA pick struck out 57 batters in 41 innings, walking only 14. Marion had a no-hitter and allowed just two hits in a loss to Glenn.

Offensively, Marion batted .406 with 28 hits in 69 at-bats. He slammed six homers and collected 34 RBI. He walked 22 times, 10 intentionally.

Dave Houghtby, Livonia Stevenson: When he wasn't pitching, the senior played outfield effectively.

He batted .432 with 32 hits in 74 at-bats. He had 15 RBI, scored 25 runs, and doubled six times.

As a pitcher, Houghtby won four straight starts before losing to Redford Catholic Central in the districts.

Houghtby, an All-WLAA choice, was voted the Spartans' Team MVP.

UTILITY

John Gotts, Redford Catholic Central: The senior was the Shamrocks' most versatile performer, playing catcher and third base. He also pitched in eight games.

Gotts batted .361 his senior year with 39 hits in 108 at-bats. He knocked in 30 runs and had eight extra base hits, including two homers and six doubles. Gotts was a contact hitter who struck out only five times.

Gotts was an All-Central Division choice and first-team All-Region II pick as a designated hitter.

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

Fidell Cashero, noted for his blazing fastball, was the area's premier left-handed pitcher, chalking up 80 strikeouts in 50 1/2 innings.

Late comeback carries Georgetown to victory

Vince Turri knocked in the game-winning run as Georgetown Realty came from behind to nip Dairy Junction Express 12-11 in the Plymouth-Canton Babe Ruth League Thursday, June 30.

With two outs in the seventh inning, Turri drove a two-base hit into right field, scoring Bill Talbot with the tying-breaking run.

Eric Brook kept Georgetown in the game by going 4-for-4, which included a two-run homer. Jeff Baumgarten and Tom Garis, the winning pitcher after three innings of relief, added two hits apiece.

Jeff Coleman belted a grand slam for the Express, Marc Pennebaker also hit a home run and Don Williams collected three hits.

Craig kept up its hot hitting Wednesday, June 29, with 13 hits in its 16-7 victory over Twist 'N Shake that extended its league-leading record to 10-1.

Steve Aumann paced the Craiger offense with three hits in five plate appearances and four RBI. Jason Swoops was 3-for-4 and Kevin Goff also drove in four runs while going 2-for-4.

The hitting attack was supported by Scott Kapla, who was 2-for-3, and Mitch MacDonald, who went 2-for-4.

Eddy Gundry and Jeff Paulak had three hits apiece for Twist 'N Shake.

Learned's bat gets Elks a win

Kevin Learned's timely hitting helped the Plymouth-Canton Elks defeat Ypsilanti 12-5 and extend its Redford Connie Mack League record to 9-3 Thursday, June 30.

Learned smacked a two-run double in the fourth inning as the Elks jumped in front 3-0.

His run-producing double in the fifth assisted in a come-from-behind effort that saw the Elks erase a 5-3 deficit and take a 7-5 lead.

In the fourth inning, Learned knocked in Ron Groh, who had reached on an error, and Mike Culver, who drew a walk. He went to third on an error that allowed Greg Dimitroff to get on base and stole home.

Ypsilanti scored all of its runs in the bottom of the inning on a bases-loaded single, a bases-loaded walk and another single.

The Elks responded with four runs

baseball

in the next inning, however. The runs came on a bases-loaded walk to Culver, a fielder's choice by Jeff Kugelmann, a balk and Learned's second two-base hit.

The Elks put the game out of reach in the sixth, scoring four runs on RBI walks to Dimitroff, Gene Sisler, Chris Kennedy and Mikio Tanaka, a wild pitch and Dan Niemiec's single.

Scott Browne was the winning pitcher in relief, going the last four innings and holding Ypsilanti scoreless. He limited the opposition to two hits and struck out two.

Brian Paupore started and allowed one hit through three innings.

Stevenson coach quits

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Jim George, who produced six straight winning seasons as Livonia Stevenson's baseball coach, has stepped down.

The 45-year-old George informed Stevenson athletic director Roger Frayer of his intentions last month. He made his final decision after meeting with Frayer and Stevenson principal Dr. Dale Collier.

"I wanted to spend more time doing something else," George said. "I have quite a few family obligations. It was a time commitment thing."

George has coached football, basketball and baseball for nearly 23 years. He was the JV boys and varsity girls basketball coach at Stevenson prior to succeeding Larry Ruzsas as the school's head baseball coach.

During his six years, George captured one Class A district title and added a Lakes Division crown in the Western Lakes Activities Association. The Spartans finished 13-10 in 1988.

Frayer said George's move took him somewhat by surprise.

"I had no inkling that he had that sort of idea," said the Stevenson AD. "I told Jim to think about before he made it official, but he came back and made it official."

FRAYER SAID George "will be missed."

"He did very good job and he did an awful lot of good things for the program," Frayer said. "He's been competitive when it's been hard to be competitive because of the situation with Livonia baseball. It isn't the best."

"The teams under Jim George always acted like gentlemen. He was always well organized. He also had some great individual ballplayers."

George, who lives in Farmington Hills with his wife and three children, is convinced he made the right move.

"I've put my boat in the water and I'm going fishing more or less," said George, a social studies teacher at Stevenson. "Something may come up at another time or another place. I guess I'm young enough to get back into it, but I'm ready to spend some time doing something else."

George's most memorable moment with the Spartans came in the first round of the 1985 regional at Plymouth Salem.

HIS SON, Ken, playing for Farmington Harrison, doubled in two runs in the bottom of the seventh to beat Stevenson in an emotional father-son confrontation, 4-3. The young George, who is a junior guard on the Albion College basketball team, called it "the greatest thrill of my life."

Hawks lead local tourney romp

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Livonia teams fared well at the annual Wolverine Soccer Tournament during the Fourth of July weekend at Schoolcraft College, led by coach Paul Dugan of the Livonia Hawks, perhaps the most successful coach ever in the nine-year history of the tournament.

His team downed the rival Livonia Crusaders, 1-0, for the under-19 girls crown.

It was Dugan's seventh Wolverine crown. He has won once at under-12, and twice each in under-19, under-16 and under-14.

Patty Boyle scored on a cross from Jennifer Misaros during the second half to settle a closely contested battle.

"It took us more than a half to get going, but I always expect a close game with the Crusaders," said Dugan, whose team has defeated its close rival four times this season.

Dugan, who also coaches at Ladywood High School, can now set his sights on the Midwest Regionals, July 16-18 in Lawrence, Ind. where the Hawks will represent the Michigan State Youth Soccer Association.

"I THINK OUR chances are good if we get a few breaks there," said Dugan, who has visions of sending his club to the Nationals, July 30-31, in Philadelphia, Pa.

Meanwhile, the under-17 boys final was not decided until overtime as Livonia United, coached by Tom Montroy and Schoolcraft College's Van Dimitriou, defeated the Motor City Raiders of Utica, 4-3.

It was the third meeting between the two clubs with United finishing the year with a 2-1 edge.

LaMarr Peters of Birmingham Brother Rice High tallied the game-winning goal in second five-minute overtime, taking a pass from Jim Harkins. He finished as the team's top scorer in tourney play with seven.

United also features several outstanding area high school boys including Derek Williford, Derek Montroy and Bob Dimitriou, all of Livonia Stevens; Brian Thiel, Steve McCaul, Brian Derkins and Harkins, all of Redford Catholic Central; Khalid Zeidan and Terry Flowers, Livonia Churchill; and Jeff Tutor, Plymouth Canton.

IN ONE OF the most lopsided finals, the '74 Michigan Hawks, a Livonia-Farmington Hills-based club, roared past the West Carrollton (Ohio) Express, 4-0, for the under-14 girls crown.

It was the third straight tournament win for the state cup-champion Hawks, who outscored their opponents 23-1 in five games. (The Hawks, coached by Tom Coyne, will also compete in the Midwest Regional.)

Midfielder Patty Shea led the Hawks' goal scorers with eight. She was joined on the midfield by teammates Ragen Coyne, Kim Phillips, Kara Nance, Suzanne White and Julie Dugan. Scoring punch also came from forwards Shannon Wilkinson, Kristen Westveer, Lisa Grace, Natalie Neaton and Dana Pososki.

Lisa Thomas paced a stout Hawks' defense that also included Tracy Morrell, Bridget Bradley, Kim Popyk and Julie Dwyer. They allowed just one shot on net in the final.

Goalies Kris McGough and Catherine Donkers combined for four shutouts. McGough is unscored upon in three tourneys.

MEANWHILE, the Livonia Youth Soccer Club

'77 Wings, coached by Rick Hamers, captured six straight en route to the under-11 boys title, capped by 2-1 victory over the Livonia Wolves.

In the under-10 boys, the Livonia Y '78 Wolves followed up a win at the Canton Tournament over Memorial weekend by defeating the London, Ontario Youth for the Wolverine crown on Sunday, 3-0.

The '78 Wolves, coached by Stan Varga, capped off a 17-0 season by winning five straight in the Wolverine.

Members of the under-10 champions included Scott Babinski, Jeff Backus, Kevin Flynn, Steve Ingrassia, Michael Monson, Bryan Stramecki, Peter Varga, Brian Zawislak, Eric Curl, Justin Hoener, Joe Kosiba, Jason O'Beirne, Jeff Tomlinson, David Venning, Jim Grewe, Ronald Mashni, Chris Kennedy and Robert Vega.

In the final match of the day played under sweltering conditions, Sport Club 124 of Mount Clemens, outscored Vardar III '76 in a shootout, 4-2, to gain a one-goal victory.

TROY SOCCER teams won 3 championships and were runners-up in two others.

Area communities sent 130 teams to the tournament to compete in 13 divisions: 9 for boys and 4 for girls.

In the under-13 boys division, the Troy Turbos captured the crown with a 1-0 triumph over the Livonia '75 Wolves, despite being outshot 17-2.

World Cup a soccer inspiration

Van Dimitriou, Schoolcraft College's mens coach, concurred. "There will be a greater identification with the current crop of players," he said. "After the 1986 World Cup, I had players coming to practice saying, 'I saw this play,' or 'I saw that player do this.'"

"Now, kids may have a chance to see a World Cup game, and it will be an experience they'll never forget."

IT'S CERTAIN to be a month-long spectacle. Twelve cities are to be selected to host the 54-match tournament.

The closest to Detroit? How about Ann Arbor? Parsons thinks it's plausible, particularly since the groundskeeper at Kansas City's Arrowhead Stadium proved it's possible to put grass over artificial turf (all World Cup games must be played on grass fields).

That would make University of Michigan Stadium's 100,000-plus seating capacity attractive. Chicago is the closest other Midwestern city being considered.

None of the sites has been determined yet, but any city selected is bound to make money. Which is why it probably makes sense to start saving now.

It's going to be expensive, but with literally the whole world watching, it'll be worth it.

Right at home: Herdoiza Top Gun

By Marty Budner
staff writer

Talk about a home court advantage. Steve Herdoiza, who grew up as a member of the Bloomfield Open Hunt Club, brushed back five opponents en route to the championship of the second annual Top Gun Tournament on the familiar BOH grounds. Jenny Klitch defended her crown after defeating Susan Sommerville in a rematch of last year's championship.

Herdoiza, seeded No. 4 in the 30-player men's draw, defeated Mark Woldmoe from Indianapolis in straight sets, 6-3, 6-2. Herdoiza advanced to the championship match with a straight set victory over top-seeded Brian Page and Woldmoe eliminated Southfield resident David Drew in his semifinal match.

"It was one of the best tournaments I ever played in," said Herdoiza, a 1987 graduate of Bloomfield Hills Lahser High School. "There were a lot of people cheering for me, and my family and friends got to see me play, so, from that viewpoint, it was great."

"I was satisfied with my play. I hadn't played in a tournament since I was in the NCAA's about a month ago. I had been working on a few things, like my serves and volleys. It was great to see they were falling into place for me."

"I had planned on playing in this tournament since last summer," he said. "And playing as well

tennis

as I did made it that much more special."

HERDOIZA FINISHED as runner up in the Michigan High School Athletic Association (MHSAA) Class A state championships his senior year at Lahser. He went on to Northwestern University where he completed his freshman year this spring.

He played most of the season at No. 2 singles, although he did get some time at No. 1 singles. Herdoiza finished the 1988 season with a 32-4 record, went undefeated in Big 10 play and was the only Wildcat to qualify for the NCAA tournament where he was eliminated in the first round.

"I didn't expect that big of a jump (from high school to college)," said Herdoiza. "It was tough at the beginning and I didn't do too well in the fall. But things really picked up for me in 1988."

"It's just the fact you're really with quality players every day that really helps your own game," he said.

Despite the absence of Luke Jensen from the men's field and Carrie Cunningham from the women's field (both had unforeseen commitments in other tournaments), organizers were happy with the new invitational format which eliminated a number of qualifying matches.

Play got under way Friday this year and the field eventually was reduced to eight players by Sunday. The total purse was $7,500.

Craig Wittus, an Andover graduate who won last year's inaugural tournament, lost to Woldmoe in his quarterfinal match-up. The other quarterfinal winners were Drew (Southfield) over Brian Veillette (Rochester); Herdoiza over Scott Appledorn, and Page over Mark Mees.

In the women's division, Klitch defeated Sommerville, 6-1, 6-2. Klitch took Candy Kopetzki in the semifinals and Sommerville eliminated top-seeded Susan Mascarin in the other semifinal.

The 16-person women's draw included local players Missy Heuston from Birmingham, and Kristen Ashare and Nicole Rival from Bloomfield Hills. Former Troy high star Mary Jo Collona also participated.

MEN'S TOURNAMENT RESULTS

Quarterfinals: Mark Woldmoe def. Craig Wittus, 7-5, 6-4; David Drew def. Brian Veillette, 6-4, 6-4; Steve Herdoiza def. Scott Appledorn, 6-7 (7-5), 6-3, 6-2; Brian Page def. Mark Mees, 6-4, 6-1. Semifinals: Woldmoe def. Drew, 3-6, 6-4, 6-1; Herdoiza def. Page, 6-4, 6-4. Championship: Herdoiza def. Woldmoe, 6-3, 6-2.

WOMEN'S TOURNAMENT RESULTS

Quarterfinals: Jenny Klitch def. Mary Pat Donovan, 6-2, 6-1; Candy Kopetzki def. Nicole Rival, 6-3, 6-1; Susan Sommerville def. Lisa LeBold, 6-2, 6-3; Susan Mascarin def. Stephanie Lightvogt, 6-2, 6-3. Semifinals: Klitch def. Kopetzki, 6-2, 7-6 (7-3); Sommerville def. Mascarin, 7-6 (7-5), 3-6, 6-4. Championship: Klitch def. Sommerville, 6-1, 6-2.

Olympic hopes dashed by loss

By Brad Emone
staff writer

Kermit Fitzpatrick's amateur boxing days appear to be over. The super-heavyweight from the Livonia Boxing Club lost in his bid to advance in the U.S. Olympic Trials Tuesday, losing a unanimous 5-0 decision to Robert Salters, a marine from Camp Lejeune, N.C. The Trials are being held this week at Diablo Valley Junior College in Pleasanton, Calif.

Fitzpatrick made a better showing in his second meeting against Salters. The two had met in the U.S. Amateur Boxing Championships April 1 with Salters knocking down the 26-year-old state trooper from Highland Park twice on standing eight-counts.

"He fought much better than the last time," said Livonia Boxing Club coach Paul Soucy. "He boxed more instead of trying to brawl. But Salters had too much height (6 feet, 4 inches, 235 pounds) and he had a good jab. Kermit got in some good shots, but he (Salters) was hard to overcome."

Soucy said he was not thrilled with the computer draw, which paired the U.S. Amateur finalists in the first round.

"I don't have much to say about it," Soucy said. "I think Kermit's amateur career is just about over. He just wants to go home and collect himself."

The top two finishers in the Trials advance to the U.S. Olympic Box-offs, July 16-17 in Las Vegas, Nev.

Four years ago, another Livonia Boxing Club member, Livonian Craig Payne, lost a 3-2 decision in the finals of the Box-offs against Tyrell Biggs, who went on to take the gold medal at the 1984 Los Angeles Games.

Proper conditioning makes better athlete

Preparing yourself to play tennis or to participate in any vigorous activity requires time and conditioning.

Since your heart is a muscle and needs exercise to be strong, each day your schedule should include some type of exercise.

Let's look at some concepts and ideas to consider before you walk on the tennis courts and play.

- Try to avoid eating solid foods at least two hours before a match. Bring a container of water to the courts with you, but not food.
- Any serious tennis player should jump rope at least 10 minutes each day. Jump rope on a soft, flat surface. Jumping on cement is not good for the knee or ankles.
- Your legs are your second heart; your heart is your body's computer.
- Playing table tennis will help your timing and reflex reaction time.
- Do not play heavy wrist sports like badminton or racquetball. Many tennis elbow problems can occur when mixing tennis and wrist-action sports.
- If using a tennis backboard to warmup before a match, do not work on ground strokes unless you can stand at least 39 feet from the backboard. Backboards should be used basically for reflex work, half-volleys and volleys.
- To improve and evaluate your tennis strokes and rhythm, swing your different strokes in front of a mirror to help evaluate how your legs and body really work and look.
- Have your coach, professional or friend videotape your strokes. If the taping person is a professional, have him analyze your strengths and areas of needed improvement.
- Sliding, quick-step running and slip-step fundamental movement off the court will be the key to immediate success in tennis movement.
- Never start stretching before you jog or warmup the body for at least three minutes. For years, the records clearly show that most injuries occur at the start of activity when the body is not warmed up or at the end of activity when the body has been overworked.

Whether your thing is tennis, jogging, fast-walking, swimming, racquetball, squash or soccer, do it now! There are many things you can trade in each year, but your heart and body are not one of them.

(Don Brown, sanctioned by the United States Professional Tennis Association, is organizing a novice tennis tournament slated for July 11-13 at the Bloomfield Hills Cranbrook courts. The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers are helping to sponsor the event.)

You, too, can be a singer on stage

By Anne S. Meyers
special writer

A red-faced, 21-year-old man takes the microphone at Carlos Murphy's in Southfield. The music to his selected song comes on and the crackly voice of the young man kicks in.

It may be one of the worst Billy Joel/Elvis Presley imitations ever heard, but the singer's friends begin to cheer from their nearby table.

Little by little his confidence builds. He turns his collar up, begins to dance, and the nervous crackling in his voice is replaced with melodramatic and melodious force. Suddenly, the song is over.

His friends yell for an encore, but he'll have to wait his turn behind the next lineup of singing patrons.

Attention, shower singers, highway crooners and all others who delight in belting out their favorite tunes. The scene just described occurs weekly in Southfield, Rochester, Westland, Ann Arbor, Ferndale and Warren.

Closet crooners are invited to bring their singing talents to these portable recording studios. A lyric sheet, microphone, music and backing vocals are provided, along with a great deal of encouragement from other patrons, and a very convincing emcee. Each singer is given a free tape recording of his or her performance.

The idea was brought to local bars/restaurants by Star Trax, a Southfield-based company. Marc Schechter, co-owner of Star Trax, had seen similar operations in Chicago and was impressed with how the patrons really enjoyed themselves.

"People see the lyrics, and it spurs them on to sing," said Schechter. "We hand out song sheets, and we have the lyrics to over 400 songs." Seeing lyrics to their favorite songs is what convinces many people to sing, Schechter said.

NOT EVERYONE can sing like Pavarotti, but the idea behind Star Trax is for the patrons to have fun and to be entertained.

"Some have great voices," said Schechter. "But a lot of them think they can sing and they can't. Others just come in groups, get drunk and just sing for the fun of it."

Some of the most-requested songs, Schechter said, are old-time favorites. "These include 'Mack the Knife' and 'Under the Boardwalk.'"

In line with taking the singing quality lightly, Star Trax has some tips for singers, posted on a sign at the stage. The sign reads: How to Become a Star: 1) Choose a song, 2) Get drunk, 3) Look over lyrics, 4) Get drunk, 5) Belt it out, 6) Take home recording (it's free), 7) Call a cab, and 8) Come back next week with your friends.

You, too, can become a singing star on stage

Schechter worked for his partner's videotaping company three years while a student at the University of Michigan. His partner, Jeff Schoenberg, has a successful business videotaping special events such as weddings, birthday parties, and bar/bat mitzvahs.

A RECENT GRADUATE of University of Michigan in accounting and finance, Schechter decided to try his own business with Schoenberg as a partner.

The first Star Trax appearance was at Pizza Uno's in Ann Arbor. "It was a Tuesday night and there were about 10 people there," said Schechter. "Six weeks later we packed the upstairs with a line out the door."

"Now we are in Carlos Murphy's in Southfield on Wednesday and Thursday, Carlos Murphy's in Warren on Friday and Saturday and Mountain Jack's in Ann Arbor on Wednesday," said Schechter. "These five nights are great, but by December I hope to be doing 20 nights a week. (This week Star Trax announced it also is at Grandy's in Westland on Friday, Daytona's in Rochester on Tuesday - Teen Night - and Bootleggers in Ferndale on Tuesday.) "This is really something new. People come out and have a great time, and they get something free - a cassette tape of their performance," Schechter said.

Some people enjoy Star Trax so much that they come back after some practice. "We get regulars," he said. On the other hand, "We get some people who joke about, 'Oh, I don't want to hear this (the tape) in the morning.'"

THERE ARE singers who go up in groups and choreograph their dance routines to the Temptations. All this adds to the fun of Star Trax.

The company is paid a flat fee by the bar as though it was the house band. Schechter is hoping his next venture will bring videotaping to Star Trax.

Schechter enjoys his work and thinks this is great entrepreneurial experience. Star Trax also is available for party rentals.

Windsor.

There's so much to like.

There's a foreign country that's, oh, 30 or 40 minutes from your home. It's a place with Old World charm, friendly people and lots to see and do. We're talking about Windsor, of course.

Windsor is, among other things, The World Capital of Waterfront Restaurants, with more of them than Newport Beach, California. Enjoy lunch or dinner at places like Caroline's on the River (formerly Brock Street Barge), just minutes from downtown.

When it's time for another trip to Boblo Island, why not take the boat from Amherstburg? Just a 5-minute ride, so you spend less time on the water, more time in the park.

And if you're looking for native Indian and Eskimo crafts, you'll like The Great Canadian Trading Post. With stone carvings, fur hats and boots, snowshoes, handcrafted jewelry, beadwork and much more.

It's so easy to find the things you like. Just say...

The lobby of the Fox Theater.

A return to glory

By Brian Lysaght
staff writer

EDWARD FOX won the race to build a better movie house.

The film mogul's crowning glory was a 5,000-seat movie palace on Woodward Avenue called the Fox Theater. It opened September 21, 1928.

Fox and Detroit architect C. Howard Crane wrapped the building in jewels, dressed it in marble and gold leaf, and called the style "Hindu Temple."

This was an era when bigger and better was best, and Fox was building movie houses around the country. Detroit had the Capitol, the Michigan, and several more theaters that invited people to watch movies and shows in grand style.

But none was as grand as the $10 million Fox. William Fox, Crane and a host of Detroit heavies attended the grand opening on Sept. 21, 1928 — the day singer Al Jolson married his third wife, 19-year-old Ruby Keeler and the day 1,500 people died in a Florida hurricane.

"The Fox is the largest amusement auditorium in the city, seating 6,000 persons, and its monogrammed, medallion tapestry red chairs were filled for the premiere with men and women representative of the professional, business and industrial life," reported the Detroit Free Press the following day.

'I think it's the grandest building people today will ever get into. That's why it's so important to save.'

— Ray Shepardson

The entertainment consisted of newsreels, a film and a "Neapolitan Festival" with a Fox orchestra, choir and the 32 Fox Tillerette dancers ("foremost exponents of unified rhythm").

BUT THE MOVIE palace era ceased soon after for Fox. His wife, who had helped decorate the Detroit theater, died, and the stock market crashed on Black Tuesday of October 1929.

Fox lost his fortune, but business was good for movie houses through the 1930s and 1940s, with movies and stage shows. Jack Benny, Kate Smith and Benny Goodman played the Fox, and a 21st anniversary show in 1949 featured Louis Armstrong and Liberace.

In 1951, Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis packed 'em in and played six shows a day. Then came Elvis Presley and the Motown reviews in the 1960s, and harder times and horror films for part of the 1970s. The 1980s brought new owners and new wave rock bands.

For most of 1988, the Fox has been getting washed, polished, re-cast and repaired, part of new owner Mike Illitch's plan to make the strip of Woodward Little Caesar corporate headquarters, and a viable theater district.

The theater is expected to be finished by year's end.

Illitch-owned Olympia Arenas hired Ray Shepardson and Sonya Winner to head the project. They have done theater restoration work in Portland, Ore.; Seattle, Wash.; and St. Louis. But this one, said Shepardson, is different. It's bigger and grander than the others, and is to be restored almost entirely.

"I think it's the grandest building people today will ever get into. That's why it's so important to save," he said.

The Fox has been purchased and renovated before, but never on this scale. Little Caesar International will move its headquarters and 250 employees to the 10-story Fox building above the theater, and there are plans to build an enclosed mall between the Fox and neighboring State theaters, and construction has begun next door on an 1,100 car parking garage.

Even the neglected gem across the street, the Elwood Bar, is getting spruced up.

Shepardson calls Little Caesar founder Mike Illitch's decision to move his pizza business downtown "miraculous, absolutely miraculous, and gutsy."

SUPPORTERS HOPE the move will pump life into a section of Woodward between Grand Circus Park and the Cultural Center.

Shepardson said the theater is a mix of middle eastern, Mexican,

Ray Shepardson is directing a cast of hundreds on the renovation of Detroit's bejeweled Fox Theater. The restoration should be completed this year.

Indian and Oriental influences.

"The stagehands call it Cambodian Gothic," he said with a laugh.

The lobby's Greek columns, large leaded glass chandeliers, terrazo floor leading to marble stairs.

The auditorium itself is hailed as innovative in theater design, for wider seats, more leg room and good sight lines. The acoustics are excellent, Shepardson said.

Spokeswoman Chris Kelly said Olympia Arenas hopes to have 250 shows a year at the revamped Fox, pop, jazz, comedy music and Broadway-type shows.

The ceiling, with its sharp reds, blues and golds, is fascinating. It follows a big top motif. Shepardson said it was modeled after a tent for the Arabian nights.

The ceiling sculpture is rich in sculpture. Many are bejeweled — inlaid with colored glass. There is a larger-than-life elephant's head and dozens of ceramic tassels along the tent's edge. There are lions, snakes complete with red tongues — all rendered with incredible attention to detail.

The ceiling stenciling, partially damaged by a leaky roof, was copied and replaced. About 80 percent of the work is being done by Detroit area artists and disadvantaged youths, he said.

"Yes, Virginia there are plenty of quality artists in the country," Shepardson said.

In September, October and November all the finisher are to come in, plumbing and plastering and roof will be done, Shepardson said.

Then it's show time.

Sonya Winner applies linseed oil to the cleaned surface of the ceiling.

City Hall show

Barbara Demgen, Livonia Public Schools art teacher, will be featured in a one-woman art exhibit in the Livonia City Hall lobby through the month of July. The exhibit is part of an ongoing project sponsored by the city's arts commission to showcase the talents of area artists in all media. Demgen, who had a similar show at Livonia's historical Greenmead last summer, works in acrylics, oil, watercolor and drawing media. In the forefront is a watercolor of the diner on display at the Henry Ford Museum. In the background is an oil. Both will be on display.

Watercolor a cool summer project

WHEN I think of summer, I think of our swimming pool, but there are a few things that the owner's manual never warned us about. We knew we would spend money on chemicals but the potato chip and pop bill caught us unaware.

Everyone, whether invited or not, leaves the swimming pool starved, so we feed them. Everyone leaves behind at least one pair of underwear, usually one sock and a towel. That is why the Purple Heart organization loves our fall donation of sundries.

And everyone loves the free suntan lotion.

Here are some questions that any pool owner could at sometime ask:

Who are those kids in our pool?

Whose swimsuit is that hanging over the tub?

Could someone dive down there and get Uncle Bob's upper plate?

Are we out of chlorine already?

I didn't invite them! Didn't you invite them?

But really we do enjoy our pool and the guests it attracts in the heat of summer.

When I think of summer and artwork, I naturally think of watercolor.

It is a wonderful medium for location work, and if you work on the porch or patio, there is no odor, as in oils, to contend with. Remember to buy a larger watercolor palette with many wells in it.

Make your selection of watercolors in tubes. Then squeeze a good portion of one tube into one well of the palette.

One color per well and then smooth the paint with a toothpick or rap on the palette to make each color settle into each well.

IN ABOUT A DAY, the colors begin to jell, and you have a great palette for studio or travel. If you buy a palette, make sure it has a cover to protect your colors from getting dirty.

If you don't want to buy a palette, use ice trays or mini-ice trays to hold the colors and a white plate to mix your colors.

One great part about watercolor in the summer is that you only need a few brushes. Many of our watercolor students believe you only need one brush.

It is called a black squirrel pointed mop by Raphael. This brush tapers to a pin point for details and flattens out to a beautiful wide stroke for washes.

Along with this versatile brush, I like to carry a script liner and a few Beaux Arts brushes by Grumacher.

Many companies make all-synthetic brushes and mixtures of sable and synthetics. Many years ago the synthetics were terrible.

One reason brushes made of hair work so well is that each individual hair tapers, holding onto the paint better. The early synthetic fibers were straight and consequently dumped all of its color the second the brush hit the paper.

Well, somehow manufacturers now taper the synthetic fibers and they work quite well, especially the synthetic/hair mixtures.

Always ask what percentage of real hair a brush contains. Some displays of brushes that are really cheap say, "A mixture of pure sable and synthetics."

But I think it's like one hair stuck in a synthetic brush or maybe even two hairs. Sable Essence is a nice brush. It is a mixture of 40 percent sable and 60 percent synthetic.

SO WHAT DO YOU paint on? Well, a few years ago you could simply reply: "Watercolor paper, of course."

But now there are other wonderful artifacts

surfaces for the watercolorist to enjoy. Most companies package their brand of watercolor paper in blocks.

A block is a pad of paper with its edges sealed all the way around and is, in a sense, already stretched. Blocks are, without a doubt, the most popular way to buy watercolor paper.

Although I most often use a block,

I also enjoy painting on Crescent's watercolor board. This is a beautiful lightly textured acid-free rag paper mounted to a heavy board.

Speaking of boards, there are several illustration boards that are great for watercolor. Crescent's 100 Cold Press is a heavy board with an acid-free, all-rag paper that has an ivory color.

Women artists focus of class

By Arlene Funke
special writer

Michelle Reska of Livonia was stunned to learn about the rich legacy of unheralded female artists.

"It was an eye-opener," said Reska, a 21-year-old senior majoring in commercial art and journalism at Madonna College.

Reska is one of eight Madonna students who took a "Women in Art" course, then produced an exhibit in which they copied a favorite female artist's work.

The exhibit was on display in the exhibit gallery in the Madonna College library wing.

The students reproduced the works of such diverse women artists as American landscape painter Georgia O'Keeffe, German artist Kathe Kollwitz, whose work reflects a strong anti-war stance, and Canadian nature artist Emily Carr.

Reska, a graduate of Mercy High School in Farmington Hills, chose to copy "Le Passage," by surrealist artist Kay Sage

The painting, in soft blues and grays, has a haunting, lonely quality.

"It depicts the back of a girl looking out into a vast plain of emptiness," Reska said. "I feel like her, sometimes, lonely. I can relate to her."

The challenge, Reska said, was in finding information about women artists. Many were largely ignored by art historians, and little written material was available about them.

"THEY WEREN'T THOUGHT OF as much and not much was written about them," Reska said.

The class, which recently completed its inaugural semester, and the exhibit were conceived by Madonna art professor Loretta Hubley.

"It used to be history books didn't include any women artists," said Hubley, 37, of Ann Arbor on staff at Madonna for nine years.

"When I was in school they didn't talk (about women)," she added. "You had to identify with men for self-survival. I wanted to have a class dedicated to women artists."

According to Hubley, some early female artists signed their fathers' or teachers' names to their pictures because "they could sell the painting better."

One enterprising French artist donned men's clothing to gain entry to males-only horse shows so she could do research for her work.

In the final analysis, art overcomes prejudice, Hubley said.

"They treat you, in the end, by what you do, not how you look," Hubley said. "That isn't true in the business world."

Hubley spent almost one year researching books that included women artists, both well-known and obscure. The course used many slides of women artists' paintings, sculpture and photography.

THE SMALL CLASS OF eight students, including one male, combined artistic techniques with historical perspective. They studied the bodies of work of such artists as Georgia O'Keeffe, acclaimed for the purity, harmony and femininity of her desert landscapes and floral scenes, impressionist Mary Cassatt and surrealist Kay Sage.

Also studied were the memorable photographs of World War II-era Life magazine photographer Margaret Bourke-White and of photographer Diane Arbus, who specialized in shots of bizarre, offbeat characters.

"Their fantasies are different," Hubley said of the female perspective expressed in art.

"The students were surprised," she added. "They didn't know about all those women artists. Many were unaware of (the existence of) discrimination. It's important for them to be able to understand the difficulties."

The students chose the focus of the exhibit.

"Each student decided to make a perfect copy, rather than an interpretation," Hubley said.

condo queries

Robert M. Meisner

Q. We are having a problem with one of our employees who believes that she is being discriminated against on the basis of her marital status and age. She is the assistant bookkeeper at our condominium and is upset with having to take orders from the head manager.

A. Condominium associates are subject to the same obligations and responsibilities as any other corporation in Michigan. The Equal Employment Opportunity Act provides for certain protections in regard to employees, particularly on the bases of race, age, marital status, etc.

You are well advised to check with your association attorney to ascertain whether he has the expertise to deal with employment law issues.

There are obviously things that you must do to ensure that there is no discriminatory practice toward employees, and you should not in any way retaliate against an employee because he has threatened to or, in fact, has filed a Civil Rights complaint. That, in itself, is a violation of the Civil Rights Act.

This is a serious potential problem that could result in extraordinary liability of the association.

Q. I have been the president of a 14-member condominium project for approximately two years. When I got on the board I was well liked. Now I feel like an outcast. Is this an unusual feeling based on your experience, and what can I do about it?

A. Unfortunately people who become members of the board, even if they are acting in good faith and prudently in behalf of the members of the association, sometimes become extraordinarily frustrated at the lack of appreciation and acceptance by certain members of the association of their efforts.

True, if the board is imprudent, autocratic and negligent, the members of the association should act accordingly with board members, including seeking their removal.

On the other hand, anyone who becomes a member of the board of directors should be cognizant of the thankless job that they, many times, will inherit and should not expect accolades from their members.

briefly speaking

CONCERT SERIES

Livonia's Music Under the Stars series continues tonight (Thursday) with the big band sound of the Down River Band. The concert is held in Civic Center Park, Five Mile and Farmington roads. Lawn chairs are suggested. The music begins at 7:30 p.m.

Next week, the series will feature another big band sound, that of the Saxophone Symphony. The series is sponsored by the Livonia Arts Commission.

REDFORD SERIES

The first in a series of summer concerts under the stars, co-sponsored by the Redford Township Parks and Recreation Department and the Redford Jaycees, will feature the Redford Civic Symphony with popular vocalists Kate Patterson, Peggy and Carl Jones and Ted Gomulka. The concert, which begins at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, July 12 at Capitol Park, has a "Singing Down Broadway" theme. Lawn chairs are suggested. The orchestra will be under the direction of John Gajec.

SUMMER ARTS FESTIVAL

The Michigan Guild of Artists and Artisans will present the 18th annual Summer Arts Festival Wednesday, July 20 through Saturday, July 23, in downtown Ann Arbor. Hours are from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday and 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday. The guild's festival features 540 of the finest artists from all over the country.

The Summer Arts Festival is the largest of the three fairs that comprise the "Ann Arbor Art Fair." The three art festivals jointly attract over 500,000 visitors to Ann Arbor during the four days.

FIVE SENSES

Special activities during the Ann Arbor Arts Festival will be offered by the Ann Arbor Hands-On Museum for children ages 5-10 while parents browse at the art fair.

Art show winners announced

Exhibitors at the recent Livonia Arts Commission's annual Arts and Crafts Festival at Greenmead did more than sell their wares to the thousands of people who visited the historic site in Livonia during the two-day event.

The artists and craftspeople, numbering well over 200, also competed among themselves in their respective categories for $2,000 in prize money the commission gave out.

Winners were selected by a three-member panel of judges, headed by Jean Gralley, a former Livonia Arts Commission member, who is professional illustrator/writer living in Livonia. Assisting were Roger Czerszyne, a 20-year veteran art teacher with the Wayne Westland Community Schools, and Sue Price, past president of the Michigan Art Education Association, who has been active in the state art scene in a number of other elective positions.

This is the first year the arts commission has offered cash prizes, to exhibitors. It was done as an incentive to attract fine artists who normally shy away from festivals of this type because of low sales.

Winners received $250, a rosette and a certificate. Honorable mentions came with a rosette and certificate.

Winners in the various categories are:

POTTERY: First prize, Larry and Becky Rotter; with an honorable mention for Andrei Ritter.

BASKETS: First, Anne Brogen; honorable mentions to Keith Rife, Barbara Fair, Kathy Eaton, Cheryl Stevens and Stelle Greene.

FINE ARTS: Theresa Politowicz, first; K.G. Miracle, honorable mention.

WOOD: First, Sam Tocco; Brian Driscoll, Maurice Teeter, Dave Alger, honorable mentions.

METAL AND JEWELRY: First, Martha Lindquist; Steve Anderson, honorable mention.

GLASS: First, Jennie Madden; Dorothy Denner, honorable mention.

TEXTILES: First, Dorothy Slavin; Inez Houchins and M. Beth Chamberlin, honorable mentions.

FOR INNOVATION: David Bushre, honorable mention for computer art.

Children may participate in supervised hands-on science activities 1:30-4:30 p.m. all four days. Cost per session is $10. Preregistration is necessary. Focus of the activities will be a science safari.

Weekend demonstrations for the month of July will explore the world of sensory perception and the role our five senses play in it. Visitors will be able to sniff mystery smells, identify sounds and map their tongues for sweet, sour and bitter. Demonstrations are held at 1 p.m. and 3 p.m. Saturdays and 2 p.m. and 4 p.m. Sundays.

Weeklong summer classes are also being offered. For more information, call 995-5439.

PHOTO CONTEST

Amateur photographers may participate in the photography contest and exhibit being sponsored by Livonia Mall July 18-24. Grand prize will be $500. Either color or black and white entries will be accepted. Prints must be 8-by-10 or larger, mounted and matted. There is no limit on the number of photographs an individual may submit.

...and the option to convert to a Fixed Rate Mortgage later.

With a Convertible Adjustable Rate Mortgage from NBD, you start with the guaranteed low rates of an Adjustable Rate Mortgage for the first year. Then, any time during the next four years, you can convert to a fixed rate mortgage — quickly, easily.

Take advantage of low rates now...

The NBD Convertible A.R.M. gives you interest rates significantly below current fixed rate mortgages of comparable term. Here's how it works: Your rate is set on the day your completed application is received and it's good for one year from your closing date. Then every 12 months your rate will be adjusted up or down with the market. If interest rates go down, your mortgage payments go down accordingly. If interest rates continue to rise, your payments will increase. However, to protect you from any large changes, NBD guarantees that your A.R.M. will never go up more than two percentage points annually or more than six percentage points over the initial rate for the life of your loan.

...Lock in a fixed rate later for only $100.

If rates go down, or you want the security of a fixed rate mortgage, just notify our NBD Mortgage Office and they will convert your A.R.M. to a Fixed Rate Mortgage quickly, easily, and at a cost of only $100. You can even do it through the mail! There are no title searches, no waiting, and you can convert any month between the 13th and 60th month of your loan.
