Play time

The Talented and Gifted students in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools will hit the stage this week to make some money for their educational program.

TAG students in the fifth through seventh grades will perform the musical "Free to Be You and Me" three times this week. Thirty-two students have been readying for the play.

The first performance is set for 1 p.m. Wednesday, at the Little Theater at Canton High School, 8415 Canton Center. This is a benefit performance for senior citizens.

The money-making shows are scheduled 7:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday at the Little Theater. Tickets are $2 and are available by calling 459-5554.

The production also is being supported by a Michigan Department of Education grant.

Maybe the local chamber of commerce knows something everyone else doesn't. It certainly appears they might.

The chamber has scheduled their annual Golf Classic '88 and included a rain date.

Now during this drought, including a rain date makes as much sense as screen doors on a submarine. But sure enough, the rains have returned and golfers may have to put their umbrellas

The Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce's Golf Classic '88 has been teed up for Tuesday, Sept. 13, at Fox Hills Country Club. The rain date is one week later.

Check-in starts at 9:15 a.m. with tee times beginning at 10:30 a.m. Individual tickets are $90 while those for dinner only are $40. A sponsor can spend $350 for the event and that gets the donor two tickets, cart rental, meals, refreshments, shirt and publicity.

For more information about the event, call the chamber, 453-

Ballot time

The Tuesday, Aug. 2, election is just around the corner.

And the Plymouth Township clerk's office is already handing out absentee ballots.

The office has sent out applications to 1,021 residents.

More than $50 actual ballots have been sent and 247 were completed and are waiting to be counted, according to a apokerwoman for the cler's offices.

Townships OK wastewater plan

By M.B. Dillon staff writer

An inadequate sewage system has long been a problem for Canton, Plymouth and Northville townships, worsening pollution and crimping development.

It won't be for long, in the wake of an agreement signed Friday with an Ypsilanti wastewater authority.

Under what is being lauded as a historic accord, the townships will send wastewater to the Ypsilanti Community Utilities Authority. The communities, which formed the Western Townships Utilities Authority, now are serviced by Detroit. Their agreement with YCUA has been nearly two years in the making. While exact figures aren't yet available, the system, expected to be operational by 1993, will cost each community roughly $20 million, officials said.

MAURICE BREEN and James Poole, supervisors of Plymouth Township and Canton Township respectively, have no qualms about the project. "First, this gives the best value for any dollars we will have to expend,"

"Second, this provides the best utilization of the rated capacity at the Ypsilanti plant, while reducing demand on the Detroit plant," he said. "And third, this will go a long way towards improving the environment by cleaning up the water quality in the Huron and Rouge Rivers."

'This will go a long way towards improving the environment by cleaning up the water quality in the Huron and Rouge Rivers.'

— James Poole Canton Township supervisor

"I'm truly proud of the fact that we've managed to work this out," said Breen, WTUA chairman. "Sometimes it seemed as if we'd never make it. But the respective staffs have done excellent work to make this possible. It's the best solution for all parties concerned."

IT IS hoped construction will begin in some three months. Before it can start, however, engineering studies and the bid process must be completed, financing arranged, and a discharge permit obtained from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources. A sewer line to be built along Michigan Avenue will link the communities to the YCUA facility next to Willow Run Airport. The six-year-old YCUA plant was honored this month by the Chicago office of Environmental Protection Agency as the best operated wastewater treatment plant in the sixstate Great Lakes region.

"THIS CONCEPT of providing service here satisfies the need for (all communities)," said Eldon Ahles, director of YCUA. "WTUA certainly has the need for sewerage capacity, and we have a need for a greater utilization of our plant."

YCUA currently serves Ypsilanti and Ypsilanti Township, and parts of Augusta, Pittsfield and Superior townships. Even after WTUA comes on board, "we still will have enough capacity left for 15 to 20 percent growth," Ahles said.

Ypsilanti has plenty of capacity,

Canton engineer Tom Casari said. "If we project what is available, I don't think Canton will have any capacity problem for a long time. If, down the road, there's a lot of increased growth in the member communities, that could alter things," he

WHILE COSTS still are being worked out, YCUA anticipates making a profit under the arrangement money to be returned to users.

'We anticipate our profit will be in reduced operational costs of about 20 percent," Ahles said.
All users will be charged the same amount, he said. A key environmental benefit will be the returning of treated water to the Rouge River, Poole said. "Plans are to bring water back, and put it in the Rouge Valley. So you have an environmental asset that's a benefit to the whole state,"

2 candidates have missed half of votes

By Doug Funke staff writer

Two candidates seeking public office in Plymouth Township haven't voted in half of the local municipal elections in which they were eligible to participate since 1984.

According to township records, Cameron Miller, a candidate for trustee, didn't vote in three of six local elections during that period.

Jerry Raymor, a candidate for su-pervisor, missed two of four elections since he registered to vote Feb.

Candidates often profess an interest in and desire to serve the community when seeking public office. A voting record is one way to measure that interest.

SIX LOCAL elections have been conducted in the township during the last four years:

 November 1987 — special election with ballot proposals for property tax increases for parkland purchase, an outdoor pool and the library district.

 November 1985 — special election with a tax hike proposal for police and fire services and millage for the library district.

• September 1985 - special election with ballot proposals to establish library district and to select library board trustees.

• July 1985 — special election with ballot proposal for police and fire levy. • November 1984 - general election with local, state and federal offices contested. • August 1984 - primary election with local, state and federal offices contested.

Miller, according to township records, missed the September and July 1985 elections and the August 1984 primary.

"I WISH I could give you a legitimate excuse, but I don't remember what was going on," Miller said. "I don't think it's indicative of my normal voting record and interest in the community

Raymor, records indicated, didn't vote in the November and July 1985 elections.

"I probably wasn't aware of those elections, and I was busy putting my house together," Raymor said. "I should have found out what was happening in the community but I didn't.

"I am interested in the issues or else I wouldn't be getting involved in what I'm getting involved in," he said. "I think citizens know I'm con-

THE OTHER two candidates for supervisor - James Irvine and Maurice Breen - voted in all six elections.

Of the two candidates dueling for treasurer, Mary Brooks voted in all six while Patricia Pashukewicz participated in five, missing the September 1985 election.

Esther Hulsing, running unop-posed for clerk, voted in all six.

Five candidates for trustee - Ron Griffith, Gregory Williams, Andrew R. Pruner, Smith Horton and Abe Munfakh - voted in all six elections. John Stewart, a candidate for trustee, voted in all five elections since registering to vote Aug. 7, Jospeh LeBlanc, also a candidate for trustee, has voted in three of four elections since becoming a regis-tered voter March 27, 1985. He missed the September 1985 ballot.

township problems

Eight Republicans are running for the Plymouth Township Board of Trustees.

The top four vote-getters in the Tuesday, Aug. 2 election are almost assured of serving on the board because of the lack of any Democratic challengers.

This is the second of three parts. What are the two major prob-lems in the township and how would you deal with them as a trus-

SMITH HORTON - Two major problems facing the township are solid waste disposal and development planning. In the next five years, landfill sites in southeastern Michigan will be filled to capacity. In order to avoid the crisis that some large eastern cities are presently experiencing, Plymouth Township, in concert with other neighboring communities, needs to establish long-term solid waste disposal planning, including alternatives to find fills such as recycling and incineration.

As for development planning, the township has for many years followed a well-conceived master plan which emphasizes high quality residential property with a harmonious balance of residential, commercial and industrial zoning. I intend continuing to protect the integrity of the master development plan and the present planning pro-

ABE A. MUNFAKH - The two major problems over the next four years are as follows:

Maintaining quality of life in Plymouth Township: I pledge to work to ensure that our outstanding quality of life is preserved. I will support a planning process that will provide low-density, highquality development with emphasis on open space and preservation and enhancement of the township's natural resources. I pledge to work to insure that all services to our residents will continue to be provided within the constraints of our present budget. I will work to insure that the tax rate will not be increased. I will continue to make those difficult management decisions as to expenditures and programs undertaken by the community. Solid waste disposal: There will be continued pressure concerning the disposal of solid waste and rubbish in Plymouth Township. Landfills are filling up and disappearing quickly. The problem of solid waste will be confronting the board during this upcoming term. My solution is to work with our surrounding communities to provide a common source for disposal. A possible solution is to work with the Western Township Utility Authority in a manner similar to the sewage disposal.

JOSEPH H. LEBLANC - I do not believe that we have any major problems in the township at this time. The two largest concerns that face the township now are maintaining our community as the best in the area, and controlling our taxes so as not to price anyone, espe-cially the elderly, out of the town-

Plymouth Township is one of the most desirous areas to live and work in. We must keep this atmosphere by allowing steady, con-trolled growth of both residential and business areas. We must not allow an unfavorable business cli-mate to develop while keeping the lid on unrestrained rezoning of

A steady guard must always be kept at all levels of government to make sure that tax dollars are being spent wisely. No govern-ment, including the township, should raise taxes without a clear voice from the public giving their approval for the increa

CAMERON A. MILLER - 1. Community relations. The people in this township simply do not realize just how little of their tax bill goes to the township. Currently township residents pay approximately 5 mills to the township, 82 percent of their tax bill goes to the school system. The township gets only about twice as much of their tax bill as Schoolcraft College does. We are paying much more in taxes to Wayne County than to the township. To remedy this problem all of the community papers and the high school radio station should be informed of all of the activities of the township.

2. Monitoring the growth in the township. Plymouth Township is in the position of having both a strong established and rapidly expanding tax base. Because of this we can afford to be selective with the type and location of any construction. I believe to insure our level of quality of life we must in force such selectivity.

ANDREW R. PRUNER - Solid waste disposal has been declared a crisis locally and nationally. I support the concept of reducing reliance on landfills by adopting alternate methods of disposal such as recycling and incineration. The township board must continue to work toward a reasonable conclu-

I have supported the plan to improve our sanitary waste treatment process. By eliminating reliance on Detroit and moving our treatment program to Ypsilanti treatment plant, which recently won awards for the best managed plant, we ensure our environment for the future and clean up the Rouge River at the same time.

JOHN C. STEWART — Planned growth and services. The supervisor and planner should prepare a recommendation regarding each proposal for new development. I will work closely with the citizens and the planning commission in order to evaluate growth in the township. Secondly, we should be aware that with increased growth, there will be an increase in the need for services, e.g., police, fire, and DPW. We all want the best services for our tax dollars.

RON GRIFFITH - I do not believe that Plymouth Township has us problems that are not managed properly under the cur-rent leadership. The future may, however, present us with at least one serious problem — solid waste disposal. It is my opinion that the locally elected officials must soon consider alternatives to the ever increasing costs of landfill dump-ing. My logic leads me to believe that we must seriously consider such alternatives as waste recycling and clean waste incineration.

GREGORY WILLIAMS - As co-chair of the township Taxpayer Survey Committee I reviewed approximately 2,500 returned questionnaires. I agree with the overwhelming percentage of the residents who feel that traffic control quality of development and environmental issues such as waste and sewer management are very important concerns.

Candidates identify Wayne County balances books ended Thursday, county executive Edward McNamara said

A $169 million bond and loan package is expected to balance county books after long years of red ink.

For the first time since 1974 Wayne County is not in a financial deficit." McNamara said. "With the help of a lot of hard working dedicated people we have moved out of the red and into the black.

Wayne County's long days of debt hard administration produced Thursday's agreement.

Bonds and an interest-free state loan were issued under an agreement signed by McNamara and state treasurer Robert Bowman.

Thursday's complex agreement includes more than $103.8 million in county bonds, issued by Wall Street investment firm Goldman, Sachs & Co. Of the money raised, $81 million was immediately turned over to the state, primarily to pay past county health care bills.

THE COUNTY will pay $11.9 million per year over the next 14 years

In addition, the county will receive a $65.8 million loan from the state's Emergency Loan Board to cover additional debt. That loan will be interest free as long as the county maintains a balanced budget. If not, the state will demand 10 percent annual interest.

The agreement was the last step of a three-part plan designed to remove and repay county debt.

In December, McNamara obtained a series of measures from the state designed to pay off the bonds. That package included a tax on parking at Metro Airport and a fourcent-a-pack increase in the state's cigarette tax. The new taxes are expected to raise $16 million annually.

modified the way it pays for health care services to the needy

A new health care card for needy county residents is expected to save the county $17 million a year in health care payments.

Health care for needy county residents had long been considered a major reason for Wayne County's massive debt.

Health care cards are being be issued to each county resident eligible for General Assistance through state welfare programs.

The service will be provided by four contractors, under separate contracts with the county.

Elks hosting drug awareness program

Wednesday's meeting, expected to draw from all sections of the community, is intended to increase awareness of the drug problem, said John O'Connor, Plymouth Elks program chair-

The network should include all aspects of the community schools, parents, youth, religious institutions, business and industry, law enforcement, government, service organizations, media, health care, legislators, and other concerned citizens," said

"IN ORDER to reduce the demand for drugs in this country, adults have to make a statement," he said. "Their presence at community meetings, planning activities and social events that are drug-free will create awareness. Awareness is the bridge from ignorance to action."

The campaign has set aside the week of Oct. 23-30 as Red Ribbon Week. "It is our hope that many people in Michigan will wear and display a red ribbon that week," said O'Connor.

"The objective of the campaign is to establish a parent/community organization in as many communities in the state as possible, to plan Red Ribbon Week prevention programs and activities," he added. "As citizens of the state of Michigan, we have the right to live in drug-free families, live in drug-free communities, learn in drug-free schools, work in drugfree places, and drive on drugfree highways."

Disaster drill tests county hazardous teams' skills

The calls started coming into the police dispatcher about 9:45 a.m.

ATLANTA - They may have wanted Jesse Jackson in the No. 2 spot, but his Michigan supporters are as the vice presidential running mate of Michael Dukakis.

'He's going to do justice to the ticket and the party. He'll play a very important role," said Patricia Hough, Jackson alternate from Westland, choosing her words care-

Bentsen's age, 67, may make the Texan more palatable, Moore said, because he is less likely to follow Dukakis as a presidential nominee, the way Nixon followed Eisenhower, Johnson followed Kennedy and Mondale followed Carter. Bentsen has reached as high as he's going to go," Moore said. "Let's hope nothing happens to Mike Dukakis.

"I URGED Bentsen's people to bring staff and that he come to Michigan right away," said U.S. Rep. Sander Levin, D-Southfield, a Dukakis supporter. Although Levin's 17th Congressional District has a strong Jackson contingent, Levin sees Bentsen as a plus on the ticket.

"On issues like welfare, reform, trade and health care, Bentsen's an asset.' The vice presidential nominee, unlike Dukakis, supports aid to the Nicaraguan contras, President Reagan's 1981 tax cuts, the MX missile, the B-1 bomber, research for the Strategic Defense Initiative ("Star Wars"), school prayer and the oil-import fee.

will go. That's the word from leaders of both the Dukakis and Jackson camps for 1992.

Superdelegates are members of Congress and top party officials who are picked as national convention ready to accept Sen. Lloyd Bentsen delegates by virtue of their public office. In Michigan, they tended to be overwhelmingly for Dukakis although Jackson won a 2-1 victory in the March caucus votes among rankand-file Democrats.

"This was not just a Michigan problem," said U.S. Rep. John Conyers, D-Detroit, a Jackson supporter. "Jesse Jackson won 13 states. Last night (Wednesday's convention balloting,) he won four."

TOP PARTY leaders agreed to cast an 80-80 tie vote on the conven-

We made a decision to go in with an even vote," said Joel Ferguson, the Michigan State University trustee who is Jackson's chief in Michigan. "Jesse wanted to use the super delegates as an educational thing.'

Ferguson denied rumors that Jackson delegates ever planned to walk out.

Conyers, however, said he was 'highly ticked off that I couldn't get my friends (other members of Congress) to toss us a few delegates votes . . . What harm would there be in 82-80 (Jackson victory) in a state where Jackson won 2-1?" he asked. "We (blacks) are going to be asked to pull the most faithful part of the Democratic constituency.' Conyers said he did in fact walk out. But Jackson spokesman Ferguson said, "It's not a walkout as far as we're concerned."

CONYERS TOLD the full Michigan caucus a few minutes later that party rules in 1992 would be amended to reduce the proportion of uncommitted superdelegates from more than 15 percent to less than 10 percent. Winner-take-all systems in six states also will go, Conyers said. Dukakis chief Dennis Hertel, rep-

Residents need increased role

HE PRESIDENT OF the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education has listed his priorities for the upcoming school year. And at the top of the list is improving

That is a good choice to lead the agenda for the 1988-89 school year.

It's clear that president David Artley realizes there is a serious communications gap that must be addressed in order for the schools to function more effectively in the communities they serve.

The school board and administration may have taken some steps to improve communication but there remains a large void separating taxpayers from their educational leaders.

Artley, who is serving a second year as president, said he wants more community involvement in school affairs.

He mentioned creating citizen advisory committees as a possible way to help bridge this communication gap.

THAT MOVE is a strong step in the right direction.

Several of the 15 candidates for school board mentioned the absence of opportunities to get involved in educational affairs. And these candidates had an active interest in the schools. What about those residents not as involved with the schools?

A cross-section of the community could be selected to serve on these committees. The groups should include residents who don't have children in the schools and representatives of the business

Committees could study school finances, programs and services to see if there can be any cuts made without sacrificing educational qualifrom their educational leaders.

HOPEFULLY, ARTLEY realizes how much of a gap exists and how the school board often compounds the problem through its decisions.

For example, the school board recently decided to give Superintendent John Hoben a raise after a glowing review

After all, the associate superintendent and assistants received no salary increase.

We would like to hold Artley to his goal of improving communications. When his second term is up, we would like to write an editorial praising how far the schools have come in improving communications to residents.

We want to see all residents of the community satisfied with the direction of education in the Plymouth-Canton community and the corresponding spending plans decided by the school

The Gold Rush gateway

Plymouth visited Chagres on the Isthmus of Panama in 1850, on his way to California during the gold rush days, the town had about 500 inhabitants.

With five others, Kellogg hired two natives to carry the party to Gorgona, a distance of 45 miles. They paid $8 each. Part of the trip was by canoe. On the way they met a man from Missouri who sold coffee.

After being drenched by a down-pour of rain, Kellogg noted in his diary: "I bathed myself in Brandy to prevent taking cold and was glad to pay 24 cents to sleep under a canvas on the ground. My host here was a

The city of Panama is one of the oldest white settlements in continental America, but Kellogg was not impressed with it. He described the place as miserably laid out and as the most filthy noisome place I ever visited.

Although the inhabitants were a mixed population, Americans transacted the principal part of Panama's business.

I have seen, as many as from 10 to 20 families containing in all 100 or 150 persons residing in one house," wrote Kellogg. "Panama may truly be said to be a fair index of the fallen grandeur of that once proud and haughty nation of old Spain.

Panama was then a province of Colombia (then called New Granada). Under a treaty signed with Columbia in 1846, the U.S. received permission to transport across the Isthmus. In return, the U.S. guaranteed the sovereignty of Colombia on the Isthmus, the neck of land that O'Sullivan, founder and editor of "The United States Magazine and Democratic Review," had written that it was "the manifest destiny (of the U.S.) to overspread the continent allotted by Providence for the free development of our multiplying millions.

A few months later, the term appeared in a speech made in Congress on January 3, 1846 by Massachusetts' representative Robert C Winthrop. During a debate, Winthrop referred to "the right of our manifest destiny to spread over the whole continent.

By following that precept, successive administrations have seen to it that the area of the U.S. has more than quadrupled in the two centuries since the Constitution was adopted. Dems pitch imported Tiger caps

ATLANTA - On Morning I of the convention, the Michigan delegation received a shipment of Detroit Tiger baseball caps from owner Tom Monaghan.

By afternoon I, most had disappeared. They weren't seen for the rest of the convention. The caps turned out to be "Made in Taiwan ROC

Many Democrats, supporters of restricting imports, visibly wrinkled their noses when they read the label.

"It was a screwup. It was corrected," said Don Tucker, 18th Congressional District alternate.

OVER LUNCH a suburban Democratic official and I made confessions to each other.

We favor rapid rail transit - subway, if you will - for southeastern Michigan. It's not a popular position in the suburbs.

We made the joint confessions after riding MARTA, the metropolitan Atlanta rapid transit line, from the Lenox Square area on the outskirts of town to the convention center.

It's a fantastic trip. Cool. Smooth. No jostling. Six short stops before reaching the Five Points station in midtown. It beats cars. It beats buses. It's cheap — just 85 cents. You can't even park for that kind of MARTA has a north-south and an east-west line. They intersect at five Points, and you can transfer free.

A Michigan delegate could take the north-south line from Atlanta Airport all the way to the Terrace Garden Inn in the northeast suburbs in one, straight, half-hour shot

The stations are clean. There are cops and surveillance cameras. Actually, if you were a crook, it would be a bad place to snatch purses because there's no place to hide and no route to get away.

I won't reveal who the Democratic official was who confessed to favoring rapid transit. She might want to be re-elected.

Another MARTA fan is Vicki Goldbaum, mayor pro-tem of Southfield. But she is less enthused about bringing it to southeastern Michigan unless it has an east-west line like Atlanta's. Goldbaum objects that the plans offered by SEMTA always have had a radial pattern.

NO ONE CALLS Atlanta "the most European city in America," but in a way it's true.

It is super-extremely difficult to find a drinking fountain in Atlanta, be it downtown, in public buildings or the malls. That's the way it is on the Continent, where folks apparently don't consume much water.

But the best business seemed to be round buttons that said "5%." That refers to the proportion of women in Congress, according to the Equal Rights Amendment supporters who were selling them like hotcakes.

In sheer number of stands, the Jesse Jackson souvenir items had the biggest supply through not necessarily the highest volumes of sales. A post card with the No. 2 presidential contender's picture had a $1 asking

Another attention-getter was a button that said, "Die Yuppie Scum."

"But I'd rather bring in (Jim) Hightower," she said. Hightower is the Texas state official who reportedly originated many anti-George Bush jokes such as: "Bush was born on third base, but he thinks he hit a triple."

Louis L. Miller, a Jackson delegate from the 18th Congressional District, would run Bentsen "outstate more than in the urban areas. Maybe Oakland County, too," said the Farmington Hills businessman.

shouted "no" when Bentsen was nominated by acclimation, without a roll call, Miller said Dukakis' selection of the Texan "shows sensitivity Madison Heights and Dukakis deleto the farm issue because of the drought. Bentsen, being from a farm state, can be beneficial."

"BENTSEN WILL help us with the business community, where a lot of times Democrats have some problems," said Ron Thayer of West Bloomfield as he emerged beaming from the Omni Center door.

Thayer is an executive assistant to the governor and was a Dukakis delegate from the 18th District. He rated Dukakis' acceptance speech 'A-plus. He said all the right things."

'Who said he (Dukakis) can't give a good speech?" said Joel Ferguson, an East Lansing developer and chairman of the Jackson forces in Michigan. Dukakis has a reputation as a calculating, managerial type Although many Jackson delegates lacking charisma, but Ferguson found the speech "first class."

DEMOCRATS, WHO joke about their own lateness, were exactly on time according to the minute-byminute published script, which had Dukakis coming on at 10:09 p.m. and finishing a few minutes into the 11 o'clock news.

Emphasizing the origins of his Greek immigrant parents, the Massachusetts governor and lawyer said, 'We're going to win because we are the party that ground, no expanse of ocean, no barrier of language, no distinction of race or creed or color can weaken its hold on the human heart.

"I know because I am a product of that dream."

Striving for inspiration rather than specifics, Dukakis said, "As president, I'm going to be setting goals for our country; not goals for our government working alone; I mean goals for our people working

Answer to a sticky question

Mention Walt Disney and immediately you conjure up thoughts of magical kingdoms, Mickey Mouse and theme parks. Ask most high schoolers who was Mark Twain or Louisa May Alcott and you will hear about famous writers who will be long remembered.

Even Ray Kroc, founder of Happy Meals at McDonalds, has had his name bantered about in the children's Hall of Fame. So who invented ice cream novelties? Those chocolate coated bars of ice cream mounted on wooden sticks that we all grew up with was concocted by none other than Chris Nelson Chris Nelson? So here I sit, in front of my word processor on one of those 97 plus degree days, sweat dripping from my brow, tapping away at the keyboard with one hand while trying to cool my thoughts with an original Eskimo Pie in the other. Everyday, kids get icy-cold tongue-tingling happiness in the form of something so plain as a frozen square of ice cream, dipped in chocolate and shoved onto a stick. "Somebody invented that?" you ask. Yes, marrying chocolate candy to ice cream was a simple idea, but it wasn't easy to accomplish. As a young school teacher, Chris Nelson spent months experimenting to find a way to make hot chocolate stick to cold ice cream. When he launched the Eskimo Pie craze that swept the nation 67 years ago, in 1921, he started the ice cream industry on a business boom that has never ceased - the business of ice cream novelties.

WHEN HE finally succeeded, he introduced the product as the "I-scream bar." One year later, renamed Eskimo Pie, it was a na-

This ingenious marriage of chocolate candy and ice cream pulled the dairy industry out of the depression of 1921 and helped rejuvenate the economies of several foreign countries. It helped build ice cream, previously a strictly summertime business, into year-round prosperity. He taught North Americans to eat ice cream in cold weather. Within four months of its initial unveiling in Omaha Neb., rights to make it and distribute Eskimo Pies were sold to 2,700 manufacturers across the country.

They were anxious to pay between $500 and $1000 dollars plus a 10-cent per dozen royalty on Eskimo Pies sold. And this was back in 1921. Imagine what it would cost to-

And if that discovery wasn't enough, old Chris Nelson took out an ad for which he penned the slogan. "I scream. You scream. We all scream for I-Scream Bars." It wasn't long before that slogan made a hit on the record charts.

Chris Nelson's discovery of the first ice cream bar, little did he know, had a worldwide economic impact. The cocoa bean growing countries of South America and the chocolate producing countries like Switzerland and Holland had all been in the throes of economic depression when prosperity hit them as makers of Eskimo Pies vastly increased

Discover simple pleasure making ice cream at home

By Anne R. Lehmann special writer

IF YOU'RE A stay-at-home ice cream eater, all it takes is a little effort to make ice cream that puts even premium store-bought varieties to shame.

Judy Neil of Livonia and Nancy Bayer of Farmington Hills are homemakers, professional caterers and owners of the newly opened Gourmet Connection in Birmingham.

They have been making ice cream for as long as they can remember. Bayer recalls childhood days of using an old fashioned hand-cranked machine, ice, salt and lots of work. She continues the tradition with her children, now grown. "Making ice cream was something fun for the family to do together," she said.

Neil's memories of making the sweet frozen confection focus more on the payoff rather than the process. "You can't compare the taste of homemade ice cream to the commercially produced kind," Neil said. "Even the premium ice creams, which are good, aren't as fresh, rich or flavorful. That's why it really pays to make your own.

Making ice cream is not difficult, the two women agree, but the process requires some patience and care. The freshest, most wholesome ingredients and the right cooking process are key to success, Bayer said. You must start off with heavy cream that is not ultra-pasteurized.

The trick is first cooking the custard - the mixture of heavy cream, vanilla bean, egg yolks and sugar - which function as the base for most flavors.

"The best ice creams are usually cooked into a custard first," said Neil, "but one should be careful not to scorch the ingredients or scramble the eggs in the hot cream." Ideally the custard should be cooked in the right type of pan, a copper double boiler with a Heavy gauge metal is acceptable, Neil said, but she suggests staying away from aluminum pots. "Aluminum will discolor the custard and will give off a metallic flavor." Once the custard is cooled, the mixture is ready for the ice cream maker, the last step in the process. Within an hour, grab a spoon and dig in.

Developing ice cream flavors as well as ice cream-based desserts has been a big part of the fun of ice cream making. "I've taken liberties with recipes, mixing parts of one with another, and have come up with some really different flavors," Bayer said.

One of their simplest summer flavors is old fashioned strawberry. With this flavorful fruit in abundance at this time of year, this recipe calls for berries which are pureed as well as chunked . "You get big bites of fruit and flavor throughout," Neil said.

Black Russian, which one might call an adult flavor, is another favorite. Devised in winter, Neil recalls, we put a "little antifreeze into it," namely coffee-liqueur and vodka.

How much does one ice cream making session generate? "It depends on the size of the ice cream making machine," said Bayer, "but generally, a quart, which, by the way, never lasts yery long."

As far as the sinful caloric content of ice cream made with heavy cream is concerned, Neil said, "If you're going to go to the trouble of making ice cream, do it right with heavy cream. Just eat less.

S'craft classes get down to basics

By Mary Rodrique staff writer

Some summer enrichment programs focus on the arts, others on sports. At Schoolcraft, the College for Kids program gets down to the basics, like readin', writin' and 'rith-

Enhancing math, English and just plain study skills are the crux of the curriculum, open to middle school and high school students on the Livonia campus.

And kids are coming from Garden City, Livonia, Canton Township and all points in between to soak it up.

Although College for Kids is not a new program, "it's more comprehensive this year," according to Sirkka Gudan, director of the college's learning assistance center. There are classes in algebra, basic math, study skill enhancement, English, science, music, art and fitness. And it's likely the curriculum will be extended to include elementary students next summer "because we're getting so many calls from parents," she said.

maintaining their progress to be ready for fall semester. We're finding two types of students (enrolled) in the programs - one was shaky last year but did advance to the next grade, the other is previewing what is to come and wants to do well in the fall."

Schoolcraft's learning assistance center provides free tutoring for college students. There are computers to practice skills and a videotape library with several TV monitors to play back classroom lectures.

This month, the center is a hub of activity for College for Kids students who concentrate on their weak points in the laboratory setting.

Classes began July 11 and run for two or three weeks, in two hour sessions Monday through Thursday. Approximately 150 students are involved, according to Noreen Thomas, assistant dean of continuing education. They're from the entire college geographic district, plus Farmington, she said.

Monday's lesson was on writing dialogue.

"It's very hard to do," Stockton said. "Everyone has her own pattern of speech. Good writers use all of their senses. With dialogue, keep the character's personality the same."

To accomplish that goal, two students role played the main characters, with the teacher furiously scribbling their exchange on a blackboard. The dialogue will be finetuned later.

Other lessons focus on sentence structure, paragraph structuring, and creating an outline.

With 17 students, the class is at maximum size for the type of individual attention the program promises participating students.

SO MANY students were interested in the learning skills enhancement class that it had to be divided into two sessions, one for middle school and the other for high school students, according to instructor Madeline Frederick.

She teaches the sixth to ninth graders how to study more efficiently. Donna Reynolds is in charge of the high school session.

"Study skills are the cornerstone of learning," Frederick said. "If you can't organize your thoughts, you won't develop the critical reading skills necessary to learn.'

Newspapers are used daily to enhance reading skills, to help students differentiate between facts and opinions, she said.

The class also includes tips on note taking, how to read textbooks more efficiently, time management and vocabulary enrichment.

Like its counterpart, Adventures in Learning for talented and gifted youth, the College for Kids program is part of Schoolcraft's continuing education services. While meant to enhance academic skills, it also encourages students to reach their full potential. There is no college credit for participation.

Pocatello power

Slavin comes out swinging as pro

By Dan O'Meara staff writer

If a ballplayer's ascent to the major leagues is a steady but gradual climb, Dave Slavin has a firm grip on the rope

The former Plymouth Salem star is making his professional baseball debut this summer, playing for the Pocatello (Idaho) Giants in the San Francisco farm system.

Slavin, who was drafted in the 19th round last spring after completing his college eligibility at the University of Missouri, hit the ground running. He already has made his presence known with the organization's rookie ballclub.

The 6-foot-1, 215-pound catcher is among the top hitters in the Pioneer League and is leading the team with a .430 average.

"I'm hot right now," Slavin said. "It's just something that happened. Sometimes you're hot, and sometimes you're not.'

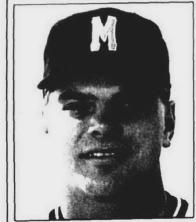

IN HIS FIRST 27 games, he also had 24 runs batted in, and he made his one home run count. It was a two-run blast, during a three-hit night, against Idaho Falls that gave the Giants an 8-7 victory.

Slavin, who is the cleanup batter, didn't waste any time after reporting in early June. In his first three games, he had seven hits and 10 RBI. "I couldn't be happier," he said. "I know some others who are struggling, and I know how they feel. "It's made (the adjustment) a lot easier. Plus, I know I'm going to play every day." Slavin, who received a $1,000 signing bonus and gets the standard rookie-league salary of $700 a month, was the third of three catchers the Giants selected in the latest club's other rookie team at Everett,

WITH THE QUICK start Slavin is enjoying, it's reasonable to speculate about how fast he might ascend the minor league ladder.

'You can move up in a second if the right people see you," he said. "Some front-office people were in town, and I had a pretty good series when they were here.'

Slavin is hoping for the call that sends him to San Jose, Calif., or Clinton, Iowa, where the Giants have Class A teams before the season ends in late August.

But he knows his chance to advance depends on his continued success now that he's reached the level of sport where business decisions are as much a factor.

"They tell you, if you don't move up with this organization, there's always the chance you can with anothhe said. "But I know there's er," room here.

can't really ask them what the deal

Slavin already has demonstrated his ability to hit, but his biggest asset is that he's a well-rounded catcher, according to Todd Thomas, the scout who signed him. The added plus is the fact Slavin bats left-handed.

"Catchers usually don't get to the major leagues because they can hit," said Thomas, noting players like Matt Nokes and Ted Simmons are exceptions and others like Johnny Bench developed as hitters along the

"If he gets to the big leagues, it will be because he can catch and throw. He gets rid of the ball well. And, everybody always wants lefthanded power, especially from a

Though the pay is low, it's the opportunity to make a career out of baseball that causes young players like Slavin to accept such drawbacks as well as the challenge of playing.

"They try to put it in your head that you have the chance to make more money than you ever will," he said. "They say they can call up 25 guys who will play for free just to get that chance.

"THEY TELL US we're the guys your head this is a job. They just say who've been scouted, who've got the Slavin compares the life of a minor leaguer to that of a college student. And he hasn't had any trouble adjusting to one notorious aspect of the minor leagues - long bus rides after his many journeys while at

"It's almost like college except you don't have to study," said Slavin, who usually rises at noon each day and arrives at the ballpark at 3:30 p.m. for the standard 7 p.m. start.

The Pocatello team recently returned from its longest trip of the season, a six-hour ride to Helena, Mont., followed by another seven hours on the road to Medicine Hat, Alberta.

In four seasons at Missouri - the '83 graduate of Salem was redshirted one year - Slavin hit .303 with eight homers and 72 RBI. He also had five game-winning hits. In his final season, he hit .299 with three homers and 31 RBI.

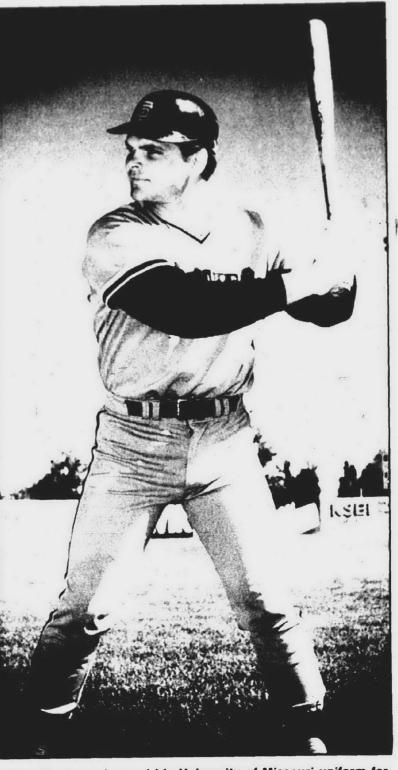

While he has stayed on track hitting-wise as a pro, he has had to adjust to using wooden bats again, and the job of catching is different.

"EVERYBODY THROWS hard; everybody throws at least 88 (mph),' he said of rookie league pitchers. "They're probably the hardest guys to catch, because they're young guys throwing hard and kinda wild."

With a degree in computer science to fall back on in the event baseball doesn't work out and no other commitments holding him down, the time was right for Slavin to endure the short-term hardships of a minor leaguer for a chance to realize a

"It wasn't really a gamble for me to come out here and play," he said. "I was done with school, and there was no reason I couldn't give it a

"That's all I wanted - the chance to play — and I'm getting it."

Dave Slavin exchanged his University of Missouri uniform for that of the San Francisco Giants farm team at Pocatello, Idaho. Slavin is hitting .430 to lead the minor league ballclub.

Bulldogs rebound in MSHL

The Buildogs bounced back from their only loss to date with a pair of Metro Summer Hockey League victories last week, extending their victory total to a league-leading seven.

The Bulldogs, the Bakes Conference leaders with a 7-1 record, claimed a hard-fought, 7-5 decision from the Spartans on Wednesday and bucked the Broncos 13-6 on Thursday.

The unbeaten Huskies, who outslugged the Bulldogs 10-7 last Monday to improve their Eagle Conference mark to 6-0-1, were idle the remainder of the week.

BULLDOGS 7, SPARTANS 5:

hockey

Doug Smith scored one of his three goals in the opening period, which proved decisive when the Bulldogs took a 3-1 lead. Each team netted two goals in each of the remaining periods.

The Spartans trailed 6-5 when Smith accomplished his hat track with 51/2 minutes left in the game, giving the Bulldogs a two-goal the winners. Rickey Gostenik scored two goals, and Tim Pilut had a goal and one assist for the Spartans.

BULLDOGS 13, BRONCOS 6: Don Rugg and Dennis Ephlin powered the Bulldogs' offense with three goals and two assists apiece.

Doug Smith remained on a hot streak with two goals, and Stash Pientack added a goal and four as-Gordie Wilson notched a pair of goals and Mike Freeman three assists for the Broncos.

Observerland sends 5 to annual all-star contest

staff writer

Without asking, it's safe to say that five Observerland players are thrilled to be playing in Saturday's Michigan High School Football Coaches Association East-West All-Star Game at Spartan Stadium in East Lansing.

Preparations for the game began last Thursday and will continue right up until the 1 p.m. kickoff on Satur-

The chosen few - Jay Blaylock of Plymouth Salem, Chris Cox of Farmington Harrison, Jeff Graham of Westland John Glenn, Erik Knuth of Redford Catholic Central and Mike Nettie of Livonia Stevenson will represent the East squad, which holds a 4-3 edge in the series.

But what makes these guys, just out of high school, tick? Is there more to life than football?

These subjects were posed to each of the five players, enabling you to get a closer and personal look: 1. Future plans; 2. background on family; 3. greatest moment as a high school football player; 4. hobbies; 5. favorite football player; 6. summer job; 7. choice for President of the U.S.

The answers were not conventional by any means. They varied and proved to be refreshing. Here's a closer look.

Little Caesars maintains grip

Steve Looney singled in Art George with the game-winning run in the bottom of the seventh inning Wednesday, lifting first-place Little Caesars to a 4-3 victory over Walter's Appliance in a Livonia Collegiate Baseball League game at Ford Field.

The win kept Caesars (21-5) two games in front of second-place Tom Holzer Ford of Farmington Hills.

George, a Thurston High product and freshman standout at the University of Evansville this season, reached first to lead off the inning when he was hit by Walter's reliever Dave Knapp. George went to second on a stolen base and took third on Shawn Uzarski's bunt single. Derrick Dowling then was intentionally walked to load the bases, setting the stage for Looney, who came through in the clutch.

In the top of the seventh, Walter's rallied for a 3-3 tie when Caesars reliever Rob Jamula balked home Keith Opalach from third.

Jamula, who took over for starter Steve Witt, was the winning pitcher. Knapp, who relieved Mark Wolter, suffered the loss.

Uzarski led Caesars with two hits, including a solo homer in the third John Knittel, who played at Livonia Churchill before moving on to Kalamazoo College, went 3-for-3 in a losing cause. John Stoitsiadis added two hits as Walter's fell to 12-13-1.

TOM HOLZER FORD broke open a close game Wednesday in the second half of a twin bill at Ford Field, scoring eight times in the sixth to beat last place South Lyon Londo,

The game was halted after six innings because of the 10-run mercy rule.

Five different Holzer players collected two hits apiece including Paul Newitt, Rick Tavormina, Scott Peterson, Keith Dutkiewicz and Kev-

Holzer took advantage of four Londo errors and a slew of passed balls and wild pitches.

Bill Bragg (1-1), the Holzer starter, worked four innings to pick up the win. He allowed two runs on four hits, while striking out four. Dan Hilliard worked the fifth and the sixth innings, fanning four of the seven batters he faced.

HINES PARK Lincoln-Mercury of Plymouth-Canton fell to 12-14 on the year as Wendy's of Ann Arbor (10-15) kept its slim playoff hopes alive for the fourth and final spot, scoring a 5-4 win Wednesday at Huron High School.

Wendy's prevailed despite blowing a 4-1 advantage through six innings. Hines Park rallied to tie the game in the seventh on three solo homers.

Jerry Sumner led off the inning with a round-tripper and Tony Aiken (his sixth of the year) and Tim Dowd followed with solo shots, each with two out.

But Wendy's rebounded in the bottom of the inning, scoring the winning run on a wild pitch by Bob Files, who took over for Bill Barber.

Todd Marion worked four innings, allowing three runs before giving way to Barber, the former Westland John Glenn standout, who worked the fifth and the sixth. Barber then allowed a lead-off single in the seventh before being pulled for Files.

Barber was charged with the loss.

The Plymouth-Canton Elks had to settle for a tie Thursday in the Redford Connie Mack League, but they remained in the chase for a possible playoff

The Elks and Ypsilanti No. 1 were deadlocked 6-6 when the game was stopped at 8 p.m. due to a two-hour time limit at Livonia's Ford Field.

Plymouth-Canton, however, got a break when first-place Redford Union was upset 3-2 by Ypsilanti No. 2 Thursday.

RU remained atop the standings with a 13-3-1 record while the Elks and Ypsilanti No. 1 were tied for second at 14-4-1.

The Elks were scheduled to face RU in a showdown Saturday and will finish the regular season Tuesday at Ypsilanti No. 1. RU had three games eft to play, including a doubleheader with Livonia Stevens

Going

it

By Peggy Aulino

Monday, July 25, 1988 O&F.

At 5 p.m., the television in her office is turned on so she can see what the competition is doing. The day's top story is the weather — the temperature in Detroit reached 101 degrees, breaking a record.

Content at seeing what stories the other stations chose to start off their newscasts, she switches to Channel 4. Then she settles in front of the makeup mirror that's propped on her desk. Between applying mascara and twisting her brown hair around a curling iron, she reaches for a paper cup full of Coke and takes a sip.

"People always assume we have someone to do our hair and makeup," she said. "I just throw it on at the lest minute."

The last minute is approaching, but Margie Reedy doesn't dwell on the fact that her face is about to be beamed into thousands of living rooms.

This has not been a typical day. For one thing, she had time for a lunch break.

"There have been some times when, at 5:20, I'm in the editing booth putting on my makeup with one hand and writing scripts with the other," she said. On this day, with a few minutes to go before she's

On this day, with a few minutes to go before sne's due on the set, Reedy shows no signs of being in a hurry or having any jitters.

"I THINK if I got nervous every day I would be in big trouble," Reedy said. Instead, she casually strolls from her office to the studio and takes a seat next to co-anchor Emery King. They each shuffle around some papers and chat about nothing in particular.

But when the floor director says "standby," spines are straightened and smiles wiped off faces. It's 5:30 — showtime, folks.

Reedy, a Birmingham resident, wears two hats at WDIV-TV. She's part anchor, part reporter. Her work day usually starts around 9 or 10 a.m. and lasts until she signs off at 6 p.m.

On this particular day, she was at Detroit City Hall at 10:30 a.m. The assignment was covering a public hearing on a proposed pension increase for elected officials.

Reedy is a general assignment reporter; she doesn't know from day to day where the editors will send her. Before this morning, she said, she knew "not a thing" about the pension debate.

"That's one of the most difficult things about this job; you are constantly thrown into different situations," Reedy said. Before sundown, she becomes somewhat of an expert on the pension issue.

Reedy sits through the meeting, scribbling notes on a yellow legal pad. When there's a break in the action, she motions for the cameraman to follow her into the hallway. There, she corners some of the people who've been testifying before council.

ONE MAN answers her questions authoritatively, but when the interview is over, he turns from a source into a fan.

"It's nice to see you in person," he told Reedy, offering a big smile. "You come into our home, and we feel like we know you."

There are pros and cons to being highly recognizable, Reedy said. "It's like you're automatically a friend," she said, but instant friendships can be disconcerting at times.

Bill Bresler/staff photographer come a long way since her early days at an TV ing the notoriety of her business in stride.

Channel 4 reporter/anchor Margie Reedy has station in an "itty bitty Texas town." But she's tak-

"They make no bones about commenting on your hair, your makeup," Reedy said. "They always tell you you look better in person."

One time Reedy had to wear glasses on the air because she was having problems with her contact lenses. When the show was over, she answered a phone only to hear: "Tell Margie Reedy to get those glasses off."

"They do feel, I guess, like you are part of their family, so they'll say anything to you," she said.

Reedy was born in Chicago in 1957 and moved to Texas with her family as a teenager. She earned a degree from Southwest Texas State University, said in her best Lone Star state accent. She started out majoring in English and drama.

"I thought, it's all very interesting, but I'm going to starve," she recalled.

So she went into journalism and followed the advice of a professor who told her she belonged in broadcasting. Reedy cut her teeth in the business in a "little bitty west Texas" town.

"WHEN I started out I had one polyester suit.
Thank God, I only worked weekends and could keep changing the looks of that suit," she said.

Reedy landed the job in Detroit four years ago, and now she owns more than one suit. In fact, her contract includes a wardrobe allowance.

"Every day, when you go to work, you have to look nice. It's not like you can slide," she said. The clothing allowance "makes it a lot easier in the morning when you are going through the closet trying to figure out what to wear."

Having to look one's best and be ready for anything are not the only challenges Reedy's job presents. Like it or not, her public position has affected her personal life.

She tries to watch out for herself "like any single woman does," but she's not just any single woman. She has found some men are too intimidated to ask her out, and others want to date her so they can have a celebrity on their arm.

"You just need somebody who is confident in himself," she said.

Reedy turned 30 last November and that "was kind of tough." It forced her to do some re-evaluating.
"When I was a kid I always thought that when I

"When I was a kid, I always thought that when I was 30 I would have everything together — the job, the husband, the kids," Reedy said. "When that wasn't all there, it made me reassess things."

Marrying and having children are "definitely in the plan," but "I guess I just pushed it back a little bit," she said.

DURING THE 5:30 news, lots of friendly banter goes on. The viewing audience is privy to some of it; the rest is the harmless horsing around that occurs between co-workers.

between co-workers.

Reedy has to hang around after completing her anchor duties to do the pension increase story during the

6 p.m. news. After that, her work day is done. She'll leave the office for her house in the suburbs and tend to her two dogs. Later, she might relax in front of the television. She doesn't watch all that much TV, but two of her favorite programs are "Moonlighting" and "L.A. Law."

"All the yuppie shows. What can I say?" Reedy

Georgia bound? Don't miss Clayton

By Iris Sanderson Jones contributing travel editor

Q: I want to take a mountain vacation somewhere in the southeast with a group of six friends. Can you recommend a place where we can enjoy the mountains, visit craft shops and maybe do a little river rafting?

A: You can enjoy mountain vacations in several of the southeastern states that border the Appalachian Mountain chain — West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, North and South Carolina, Georgia.

I've stayed in a cottage in Pine Mountain State Park in Kentucky, explored the Smokies around Gatlinburg, Tenn., and driven through the mountains near Asheville, N.C. I would happily recommend any of them.

My most recent mountain venture was into the mountains of northeastern Georgia. I stayed in Clayton in Rabun County at the very northeastern corner of the state near the borders of North and South Carolina.

I was in Georgia for other reasons, so I rented a car in Atlanta and drove north to Clayton, with several tourist stops along the

Mountain rivers offer adventure

I visited the gold mining town of Dahlonega and the village of Helen, a mountain town that has been con- nies on both levels. You can rent a verted into a Bavarian alpine village. I didn't get to Cleveland, Ga., room for a two-day weekend, less but I understand that Babyland General Hospital, home of the Cabbage Patch dolls, is highly recommended.

This is very civilized country in all the important tourist ways - good beds, accessible restaurants, McDonalds. Nobody smokes a corn cob pipe on the corner any more, but you can still buy those handmade cotton bonnets-at Rabun Gap Crafts and 100 other roadside craft shops.

I considered several places in northeast Georgia before I settled on Rabun County and Clayton. I considered Unicoi State Park near Helen, Mountain Top Lodge near Dahlonega, a 100-year-old hotel called Glen-Ella Springs in Clarkesville and Laprade's in Clarkesville.

I CHOSE Rabun County around Clayton because it was a little more remote than the others and gave me access to the adjoining states. Rabun Gap is the place where a young English teacher called Eliot Wigginton created the Foxfire books by sending his students into the hills to learn the skills of mountain people

There are lots of things to do in the mountains, but most people go there to relax, enjoy the mountains and re-affirm life.

How you do that might be determined by your accommodations. There are lots of roadside motels, but the really interesting accommodations are tucked away and take a little finding.

I stayed at the English Manor Inn on U.S.-76 East, a mile from Clayton. It is neither English, nor a manor, nor a traditional inn, but it would be a great gathering place for a small group. English Thornwell was an Atlanta stockbroker when he bought an old stone house on a hill surrounded by trees. One by one he built five large wood or rock 'manor houses' on the top of the hill and downhill in the trees behind.

He and his wife Susan live in Rabun County now, hosting overnight guests, but specializing in small groups who want their own "house".

Each house has a large living/dining area and kitchen, with several bedrooms and wrap-around balcowhole house for about $100 per bedmidweek. Or you can just rent a room at the inn at the top of the hill. These places are modern, not woodsy, but in a nice setting.

One of the highlights of the English Manor Inn is a series of murder mystery weekends. Susan does the cooking (great stuff). Figure about $100 per person for two nights, four meals, all beverages and the murder mystery fun. Call (404) 782-5780.

IF YOU prefer bed-and-breakfast style accommodations, I saw two in Rabun County. York House is a white clapboard two-story house set off by itself between a grassy hill and a grove of trees. It costs about $55 for two on weekends. It's a couple of miles north of Clayton, just outside Mountain City. Call (404) 746

You can also rent a cabin or pitch a tent in Black Rock Mountain Park near Mountain City. Call toll-free (800) 5GA-PARK for Georgia state park information.

I also toured one of the most interesting bed-and-breakfasts I've seen, the Old Barn Inn on Lake Rabun. An old barn once connected with a grand home was gutted and rebuilt as a private home by Weyman and Theda Evans. She has a marvelous touch with decorating and provides a very beautiful and homey setting for adults only. About $50 a night for two. Call (404) 782-5094.

Also on Lake Rabun is the Lake Rabun Hotel, known as the jewel of north Georgia. It is a small inexpensive two-story log inn, with bath-rooms down the hall and a lobby full of rhododendrom furniture. This is definitely not for those who want a modern setting, but enthusiasts love it primarily because of the homey, meet-your-neighbor feeling. Call (404) 782-4946.

You can, of course, also stay in good roadside inns like the the Commodores Motor Inn or the Stonebrook Inn, Clayton, or the Best Western or Dillard House Inn, Dillard.

The Dillard House is a must stop for cars and tour buses; they serve their popular all-you-can-eat lunch and dinner to thousands of fans. You'd better be hungry; it is reminiscent of the chicken dinner you get in

Cliff at forefront of reggae revival

By Brian Lysaght staff writer

What began for reggae star Jimmy Cliff as an overdue holiday in 1986-87 in Zaire led to a recording session across the river in Congo.

Hanging out in African clubs and writing some songs, the Jamaican musician began rehearsing with Zairian bands. They went to the Congo to find a four-track recording stu-

The sessions' tapes were reworked and two tracks, featuring the Africa International Band of Zaire and Grand Zico Band of Zaire, landed on Cliff's latest album, "Hanging Fire."

Cliff said he has long been fascinated with African music, and although he has toured the continent extensively, he hadn't recorded before with African groups.

"I've always wanted to do some kind of collaboration, Africa being the place where I have my biggest audience," said Cliff in a recent telephone conversation.

LONGHOUSE — Longhouse

This is a debut album from this bly unfair, Herman has a voice that New York-based band that is really a conglomeration of people directed by the band founder, Lisa Herman. Herman said she brought together the best background vocalists she could find. The band formed in 1985 and played clubs until it scored a big label (Warner Bros.) contract.

Herman wrote or co-wrote the disc's 10 songs and arranged them all. She sings lead vocals, she sings background vocals, and she plays piano and an occasional guitar. This is a vocalist album from a vocalist group. Herman seems to have picked her singers well. The sound is very full, not with clanging guitars or synthesizer riffs, but with terrific vocal harmonies. The background singers sometimes seem to have a life of their own repeating, following and echoing the lead vocal. A couple of tunes here are sung a cappella. Although the comparison is proba-recalls Joni Mitchell, perhaps equally quirky. It can get grating at times, but not when taken in moderation.

Her songwriting seems a bit more uneven. On the album, side one seems much more interesting than side two. The first side features a humorous tune, called "Don't Remember," that argues the advantages of amnesia in dealing with broken ro-

Ranking Roger comes with a formidable heritage. He is the ex-lead singer of two excellent bands - The English Beat and General Public. Of course, he shared those duties in each band with the marvelous Dave Wakeling. Having such a strong background can be both a blessing and a curse. Obviously, a blessing is that he has enough of a reputation to justify the release of a solo record. But along with that comes the curse of constant comparisons.

With this record, "Radical Departure" (I.R.S.), he has assembled a bunch of musicians around him who do not create in accordance with the LP title. Even within the terms of Roger's previous experience, this is not a radical departure although there is a radical difference.

The overall feel from this record is closer to General Public than English Beat, but with one drawback the strength of the songs. Roger's distinctive, mellow vocals still shine through, but the canvas they're painted on is more like cardboard. Where General Public was oil painting, this is more like water colors.

The songs on the album give cursory nod to a variety of styles, ranging from reggae ("Smashing Down Another Door"), guitar-pop ("Your Problems") and lightweight dance ("In Love With You").

On "Mono Gone to Stereo," he complains about the pace of life and modernization. "Society today is just getting more deranged/Everything point to individuality/You buy a new car you get a computer."

As you can see, Roger's lyrics are very awkward almost to the point of being embarrassing. Take this cringe-inducing example from "I Told You." "Today they'll ask you your name/Tomorrow they'll give you a number/Keep your head, you know what I mean/or you could end up a statistic in a magazine."

With this example, Roger's resume is an inaccurate street sign to where he's working now.

BRIAN WILSON — Brian Wilson

Brian Wilson came down from his room, walked to town and here's what he found - violence in the movies, violence on TV and loneliness in a crowded bar.

His solution: "Love and Mercy," leadoff track on the first solo album of his quarter-century old career. After a long, harrowing absence, dotted with personal demons and a severely blocked muse, Mr. Good Vibrations is back.

The concerns are new - check the subtle anti-child abuse message in the otherwise fluffy "Little Children." But the sound is pleasingly fa-

"Children" taps Wilson's long running fixation with Phil Spector's Wall of Sound" production. "Love and Mercy" as well as other tracks, including "Baby Let Your Hair Grow Long" and the oddball opus "Rio Grande," could have easily fit on any late 1960s Beach Boys album. (The record company Sire takes great pains to draw comparisons with "Pet Sounds" the group's Wilson-inspired 1966 masterpiece.) That overstates the case a bit. But for those of us who grew up loving such late Beach Boys/Wilson classics as "Heroes and Villains," "I Can Hear Music" or the haunting "Caroline, No," the album is a welcome return for a vital musician.

For those who rooted these long years for a full return of Wilson's creative powers, the album is a tri-

Whether this is a fresh start that re-establishes Wilson as a major pop guru or merely a fitting final farewell remains to be seen. Those weaned on today's harsher, more cynical pop music may find Wilson's sunny benedictions the aural equivalent of a lava lamp. That's their outlook. Those of us who knew Wilson when should be more than content to bask in the album's glow.

After all, sunset can be just as warm as sunrise.

Kremlin, the game

Ever wondered what it would be like to be a Soviet party chief?

You can find out through "Kremlin." It's a board game that the Avalon Hill Game Co. is billing as "a satirical look into how the Russian Politburo works.'

The object of the game is to be the player controlling an effective party chief for three years. It's a game of political maneuvering for the player to get his man on top and keep him

The winner is usually the player who correctly gauges when to reveal his influence over the other seven members of the Politburo in a successful grab for power.

The game is for three to six "sneaky" players ages 12 years and up. Its suggested retail price is $20 and it's available at better game and gift outlets. For more information, call (301) 254-9200.

High tech matchmaking: It's not all it's cracked up to be

By Amy Rosa

Meeting the opposite sex may not be easy, but there sure are a lot of ways to do it. Singles bars, personal ads, health clubs, blind dates - you

There are all kinds of opportunities out there to find a mate, Right?

Although the ways are many, more and more adults of the dating world are throwing up their arms at today's singles scene, complaining that traditional methods just don't work any more, that the well has run

So they're venturing into non-traditional territory to get dates - one of which is a dating service.

But what are these dating services like? Are they better than the old standbys? Can they really help you find your Prince Charming?

Of the people who have experienced them (and you better believe they were hard to come by), some said they were great, some did not. One thing they all said was not to use their last name.

Although the memberships of these clubs are on the rise, the numbers of those willing to admit they've joined hasn't. Regardless of our liberal age, there is still a stigma attached to dating services.

"They try to sell you on the idea that you don't have to be a weirdo to use it," said Brian, a 29-year-old marketing engineer from Birmingham. Brian shares a house with two other bachelors, and said they are all the target of direct mail advertisments from area dating services.

"THEY TELL you things like 'we people, it's just that you're not meeting the right kind of people," he said. "The forms they send out really strike me as cold. I just wish I would get off their lists."

While Brian admits he has never responded to the mail, there are others who have. In the metro area, there are at least 10 dating services to choose from, falling into two basic categories - places that match you up and places that let you do the choosing.

Tim, a 31-year-old metro Detroit reporter, enrolled in a Southfield dating club called Interactions several years ago. He thought he would be set up with the girl of his dreams.

After filling out mounds of paperwork, including applications and psychological tests, Tim was presented with a list of women, supposedly hand picked to match his personality. After getting up the nerve, he called one of the names - little did he know he was setting up the worst date of his life.

"We weren't even close to being compatible - it was a joke." Realizing he wasn't cut out for dating services, Tim told the people at Interactions he wanted out. Their response?

"Less than thrilled," Tim said, remembering the second pile of paperwork he had to do, this time to get out of the club. Finally, Interactions released him from his $750-a-year membership, but not without a lengthy fight.

"They didn't want to let me go for anything."

the course when dealing with some

TALES OF outrageous fees and high pressure selling seem par for know it's not that you can't meet dating services. Take the case of Tom, a 36-year-old advertising salesman working in one of Detroit's suburbs.

Tom was living in Allen Park eight years ago when he thought about joining a dating service with a friend. Although his story is not a recent one, his experience very well

It happened in a club that's still in operation. He declined to say which

Tom and a friend wanted to learn more about the club, so they talked one of its representatives into coming to their home to fill them in. They were told that club personnel would match them up with women, based on psychological profiles, and that before deciding to keep a date they would receive her picture in the

"It all sounded good until they brought up how much it was going to cost," he said. (A one-year membership at that time went for $750.) Then when we told her we weren't going to do it because of the money, she acted real offended and said we led her on to believe we wanted to join . . . Well, we did, just not for that much money."

Tom said the "salesman" left in a huff, trying to make them feel guilty because she came all the way out to their house.

"It's like selling vacuum cleaners. You don't walk out without making a

IF DATING services were charging $750 eight years ago, one can only imagine what they're charging now. Don't count on finding out unless you convince them you really want to join; services go out of the way to hide the fees until they feel vestment" is all the assistant manayou're snagged for good - and they'll never talk money over the

Some people don't mind paying a big price to join the services, especially if they're reaping the benefits the advertising promises

Sue, a 31-year-old divorcee from Southfield, joined the nationally know video dating service, Great Expectations, two months ago. GE. which boasts of more than 5,000 marriages in its marketing video tape, is regarded by all to be the most expensive and exclusive club around.

"The fees are meant to be an in-ger would say.

Sue is an attractive design director for an architectural firm and makes a salary in excess of $50,000. She said she is looking for someone with a similar background. Her chances, she said, are best at a place like GE, where she can view profiles, pictures and video tapes of men before agreeing to go out with them.

Every time she goes to the club, Sue sees in her profile little notes and cards from others who want to meet her and, at times, " has too many to choose from," as she put it. "I'm definitely getting my money's worth," she said.

Mark (not his real name) feels the same way. He is a handsome 41year-old private investigator who said he, too, receives more date offers than he knows what to do with. What Mark likes most about GE is the caliber of people the club draws, he said.

"IT'S HARD to find the right woman," he said, adding that he still goes out with the first woman he dated nine months ago. He also is continuing to use his membership privileges - he's a lifetime member. In fact, Mark is having so much fun he wants to remain "single for a

Sounds nice, but not everyone has such luck with dating services.

Consider the case of a West Bloomfield man who was recently turned away from an area dating service because he was obese.

"They said he 'unmarketable,' " commented a friend, who along with the man asked that her name not be used. Both declined to name the service.

Are we to believe dating services are only for the pretty and well-todo? Apparently, not just anyone who can afford them gets a shot. It seems some services may be as choosy about picking clients as their clients are about picking dates.

Dating services obviously work for some people, or they wouldn't be in business. But then it should come as no surprise to know that the only club members we were able to talk to from GE were the carefully chosen Sue and Mark.

Thinking clearly among clutter

Q. Some people don't think I'm well organized because I don't keep things very neat, but I can always find what I need. Am I organized or not?

A. There are three types of people: 1) Those who are neat and have few organizing problems, 2) those who are cluttered but still effective, and 3) those who are disorganized and are bothered by their chaos. People in the latter category are usually the ones who come to me for help.

My dictionary describes organization as an "orderly manner of arrangement or procedure." In fact, what comprises "orderly manner" to one may seem like chaos to another. What is or not organized is a a grey area open to personal control over their environment, while others maintain a mess around them but know where everything is.

The importance of organization comes into play when it impacts your (or other's) life. If you constantly waste time looking for things, miss deadlines or are confused about what to do next, you need to modify your habits.

There is no need to be embarrassed by what outsiders think. What is important is what you think, and if you are embarrassed by being caught in a mess you need to either 1) use better self discipline or 2) lower your

The opinions of those with whom you live and work are important, however, if your disorder is an irritant to them

I would never judge a person by how neat they are (often referred to as a person's "style"). Some highly talented people simply don't have the aptitudes for neatness, yet they manage their lives successfully.

Many famous people have been interviewed on this subject: Lee Iacocca, William F. Buckley and Napoleon Bonapart evidently maintained stacks on their desks, while Alexander Haig, Leonard Bernstein and Connie Chung share extraordinary selfdiscipline in maintaining almost perfect

The key to organization is in your head, not in your surroundings. If you can think clearly amid a bit of clutter and remember where everything is while not infringing on other's rights, then you are probably doing orry about others' opin ions. If your lack of neatness is a source of irritation to you or someone else, however, or if it is impeding your progress, you need to get your act together.

OUR HANDWRITING gives a hint to the reader of what kind of person you are. The way you arrange and decorate your home is a natural expression of your individual style.

Again, just as the tone of your voice conveys to the listener how you are feeling today, your eyes may reveal to the observer, so the manner in which you choose your surroundings allow insight into your character.

Your style might be borrowed partly from another person's way of doing things, simply because you admire their way of life. There is no harm in that provided that you do not let your own ideas on design and decorating take a back seat. This is an important thing to remember whether you are working with a designer or are doing the job yourself.

Actually no style comes entirely new: pretty much everything we look at and hear is a derivative of something earlier. This pertains not only to interior design but music and art as well.

What then is quality (difficult to define) which we name as style? For me it is something that abides while fads and trends fade into oblivion.

Fashion passes, style remains.

Q. I am redoing my staircase and upper landing and hall. What can I do that is different in the way of carpeting?

A. You may try doing your stairs in one carpet and the riser to compliment in a pattern. Commercial carpet comes in some interesting patterns. Check with any of your favorite floor covering stores. Besides being interesting, they are wonderful for wear.

Fannie Mae rules affect lending

AP — Are you itching to be a "3BR, 2½ BA, LR with FPL, lge. yard, sep. gar., $130,000," but fear you'll look more like a "2BR, 1BA, condo, $67,000" to a lender?

In other words, is it time for you to move to a bigger house, but the bank might disagree? Well, start packing. Though mortgage lenders have become flinty fingered, you needn't toe their

The mortgage news for 1988 is that lenders like light debt. They think twice about pushing home buyers to their financial limits in this lowinflation era. Compared with 1981, you need 20 percent more residual income - what's left after paying housing expenses, taxes and longterm debts - to get a low-interest Veterans Administration loan today.

Whether you agree that prudence is best or are determined to stretch your credit, before shopping for a loan you'd best know how lenders will evaluate your application, says Changing

The rules, such as they are, come primarily from Fannie Mae - the Federal National Mortgage Association. To make its mortgage pools attractive to investors, Fannie Mae wants loans to conform to its standards, and that limits the flexibility of original lenders: They either write loans as Fannie Mae specifies or risk being un-

FANNIE MAE MEASURES your borrowing power as a ratio of your projected housing expense to your gross household income. For a $90,000 fixed-interest loan on a $100,000 house, the magic numbers are 28 percent and 36 percent. That is, monthly mortgage interest and principal payments plus homeowners insurance and property taxes should total no more than 28 percent of your gross monthly income. In addition, your monthly house payment plus other long-term debts with 10 or more monthly payments still outstanding should total no more than 36 percent of gross income.

Income is what you and your spouse earn in before-tax wages. And it's pay for work you have been doing for a year or longer, not the extra job you took a few weeks ago. Other income, such as bonuses, commissions and overtime, must be averaged over two years to be considered wages. Count alimony and child-support payments as income if the payments will continue at least three years from the date of your loan application.

Not all loans get the straight 28-36 once-over. To qualify for certain adjustable-rate mortgages (ARMs) - ones that might deliver especially steep rate hikes in future years - you must meet stricter requirements. Here we're talking about ARMs that represent more than 80 percent of the value of the home, extend beyond 15 years and rely on a so-called 2-6 cap, which allows a maximum increase of 2 percentage points in any one year and 6 points over the life of the loan.

In these cases Fannie Mae bases its calcula-

Shop for the best mortgage rates. They often vary widely within an area. The interest rate on a loan is just as important as the loan amount itself when qualifying for a mortgage.

tions on the maximum rate that can go into effect after the first year. So if you are considering such an ARM with an 8 percent initial rate and a 2-percentage-point maximum increase per year, Fannie Mae (and thus very likely your lender) will analyze the loan based on a 10 per-

FANNIE MAE ALSO HAS tightened up on mortgages with down payments of less than 10 percent of the purchase price. Today, these loans are held to stricter 25 percent and 33 percent standards. For a $92,000 loan on that same $100,000 house, your home payment should equal no more than one-quarter of your gross monthly income and your long-term debt no more than 33 percent.

Of loans Fannie Mae buys, 30-40 percent exceed the guidelines because other factors can tip the scales your way. It's a plus if you have a good credit history, make a substantial down payment, possess liquid assets equal to at least three months of monthly home payments or have in the past paid a large proportion of your income for rent or toward a mortgage. In such cases the 28 percent guideline can drift upward to 30 percent or even beyond.

Now that you know the guidelines, here's how to increase your borrowing power. First, analyze your monthly bills. Remember that lenders doing business with Fannie Mae will probably want your home expenses plus long-term bills to fit the 36 percent-of-income ratio. If you are over the ratio, consider selling assets such as mutual fund shares to pay off debts.

Shop for the best mortgage rates. They often vary widely within an area. The interest rate on a loan is just as important as the loan amount itself when qualifying for a mortgage.

Adjust your down payment to meet your needs. If you have the cash or enough equity in an existing home, you can minimize your mortgage loan by making a down payment of 25 percent or more. Don't ignore the impact of points, either. Each point equals 1 percent of the loan and they are paid when you take out your loan.

WHEN BORROWING THE maximum amount, adjustable-rate mortgages are enticing. The one-year ARM will usually buy you the most house because initial rates and monthly payments are lowest. At last report, 30-year fixedrate loans averaged 10.85 percent, compared with 8.05 percent for one-year ARMs.

What you give up with an ARM is peace of mind. You're subject to the ups and downs of interest rates, and the ups can make life miserable. Balancing out the uncertainty somewhat are lower initial rates that give some rate-hike protection in early years.

One popular option these days, according to the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp. is the convertible ARM, which allows borrowers to switch from an adjustable-rate to a fixed-rate mortgage. If the cost is the same, you should always pick a convertible ARM over a non-convertible one. However, there typically are costs connected with the convertible ARMs (conversion fees and interest rate formulas that take effect if you convert), so it takes study to determine which of two ARMs is the best deal.

The mortgage news for 1988 is that lenders like light debt. They think twice about pushing home buyers to their financial limits in this low-inflation

A 'wonderful range' of ideas at Homearama

Homearama - Summer, a group of 18 newly designed, decorated and landscaped houses priced from $250,000 to $525,000, will be open to the public from Aug. 4 through Aug. 28, in the new Autumn Ridge Subdivision on the west side of Orchard Lake Road just north of Walnut Lake

In this summer edition of the sixth annual showcase of "new idea" homes by the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan, the contemporary mood prevails. Fifteen of the builders describe their houses as being contemporary or a variation of that architectural style.

The other three houses are described as colonial, French colonial and Tudor, with contemporary flair. Each house is the product of a different team of BASM builders, architects, interior designers and

"WE HAVE A WONDERFUL range of ideas and innovations this year," said Herbert Lawson, president of BASM and of Herbert Lawson Inc. of Southfield.

"The setting, with over $7 million worth of sparkling new homes, can only be described as spectacular," said Lawson.

Dennis P. Dickstein, chairman of 1988 HOMEARAMA - Summer for BASM, announced that later hours on weekdays and longer hours on weekends have been set for the public's convenience: 7-11 p.m. Mondays through Fridays, and 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays.

Dickstein is president of Ralph Manuel Associates of Birmingham, and immediate past president of
