Straight on

Hot weather and some hot scores mixed together recently at Fox Hills Country Club where 67 golfers participated in a benefit for Straight Inc. of Plymouth.

Straight's first golf classic raised more than $16,000 for the non-profit drug and alcohol treatment center. The money will be used for ongoing efforts to prevent substance abuse in young people.

The money was raised through golf fees, corporate sponsors and a special dinner. Mike Weger, a former Detroit Lion, delivered the keynote speech. The event was sponsored by Straight's parent booster club.

Breen topped spending for local primary

By M.B. Dillon staff writer

Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen spent more ($13,650) than any other local candidate on last week's primary, according to Wayne County election commission records.

Breen, re-elected by just over 200 votes, listed total receipts of $20,774. Gross receipts from a fund-raiser on Super Bowl Sunday at the Plymouth Hilton, attended by 120 people, were $13,565. Among Breen's expenditures were $2,092 for room rental and food at the Hilton, and $450 for fly swatters imprinted with Breen's

Among the contributors to Breen's campaign were developer Joseph Ruggirello, $1,000; developer R.A. DeMattia, $750; builder Frank Moceri, $400; Plante & Moran partner Kenneth Kunkel, $350; builder James Bonadeo, $250; Detroit law firm Dickinson, Wright, Moon, Van Dusen and Freeman, $300; Jack Doheny Supplies Inc., $400; assessors Glenn Shaw Jr. & Associates, $300; and Birmingham real estate consultant Steve Gordon, $300.

Also contributing to Breen's reelection bid were the Plymouth law firm of Draugelis, Ashton, Scully, Haynes, MacLean and Pollard, $150; Plymouth-Canton schools Superintendent John M. Hoben, $75; Michael Bailey, an engineer with Dietrich, Bailey and Associates; $250; developer Marcello Scappaticci, $150; Plymouth Township Police Chief Carl and Lucy Berry, $75; Bokos & Plakas, P.C. of Westland, $375; Don Massey Cadillac, $250; and Ralph Lorenz, $150.

Also Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Tillman of Computer Time, $450; United Earth Sanitation Co. of South Lyon, $350; Mr. and Mrs. Kal Jabara, $100; Plymouth Township Planning Director James Anulewicz, $75; Bruce Patterson, $75; state Rep. There is no limit on the amount contributors may donate to candidates in local elections, according to officials.

JERRY L. RAYMOR, who came up third in the supervisor's race, listed campaign contributions of $1,201. Raymor's money came from just two sources: himself ($309), and Citizens for Better Education, a citizens' group opposed to controversial teaching materials in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

Raymor, a project manger for Ford Motor Co., was assessed $30 for filing three days late with the county. The deadline was July 22.

PLYMOUTH TOWNSHIP trustee James Irvine, who collected 1,301 votes to Breen's 1,523 according to unofficial totals, reported receipts of $4,401 and expenditures of $3,860.

LCC pulls license, but bar stays open

Related story, 2A

By M.B. Dillon staff writer

The Michigan Liquor Control Commission has revoked the liquor license of the Plymouthrock Saloon. Commissioners Maxine Perry and Wallace Warner signed the order Thursday, LCC officials said Friday.

But because of action taken by attorneys for the Plymouthrock and the LCC, the liquor commission is barred from enforcing or implementing the revocation.

Plymouth Township last February asked the LCC to revoke the license on grounds that the bar has become a public nuisance.

In anticipation of the license revocation, Plymouthrock attorney NorNext hearing Aug. 31 man Farhat Tuesday sought and obtained a restraining order in Ingham County Circuit Court. The order, signed by Judge James Kallman, prohibited the LCC from revoking the license pending a Sept. 21 hear-

But the attorney general's office the next day went to court on behalf of the LCC. Kallman modified his earlier decision, ruling that the LCC 19. could revoke but take no action to remove the license pending an Aug.

'Isn't that nice? It's only the 5th of August," Plymouth Township prosecutor John Stewart said, upon learning of the revocation.

gued the Rock's license should be revoked in show cause hearings before the Plymouth Township Board. During the hearings, five minors testified they were served alcohol at the bar last winter without having to furnish identification. Hearings on those violations have been scheduled by the LCC for Sept.

A 10-page complaint Farhat filed in Ingham Circuit Court charges, in

• "Plymouth Township has not only failed to comply with its ordinance, but there is no foundation to determine a violation of the ordinance.' • "The decision of the LCC to follow the request of the township board is contrary to law and not supported by the facts."

• "The township board has no legal right to determine an abatement of a public nuisance."

· "The action of the township board was arbitrary and capricious and therefore unconstitutional.

• "The action of the township board deprives (the bar) of its property without due process."

• "The plaintiff has invested thousands of dollars in its business, which is inherently dependent on the issuance of these licenses and permits and without which is worth-

• "The procedures followed at (February's) hearings were so inherently biased and unfair as to be unconscionable to enforce by the taking of property.'

Farhat, who said he believes the Michigan Supreme Court should, and may, revamp the state's liquor laws, is asking the court to determine that the "board did not comply with its ordinance and that the request for revocation was unauthorized and should not be accepted by the LCC."

Farhat also is asking that the township ordinance be declared unconstitutional because "it confers arbitrary and capricious action on the board, since the ordinance has no standards or guidelines in setting forth grounds for a determination of a public nuisance."

Political ban?

Group is bounced from fall festival

By Doug Funke staff writer

A group opposed to controversial teaching materials in the community has been bounced from its booth at Plymouth Fall Festival because it engages in political activity.

Citizens for Better Education, founded in 1985, was voted out last week by the festival's board of directors. CBE had been approved for a booth in May.

"When we approved them in May, their application stated they would be using money for a newsletter and to further research into educational materials," said Ken Holmes, president of the festival board.

"We since have discovered money was used to finance campaign litera-ture for political candidates," he

NOTHING IN in the bylaws of the festival board would disqualify a po-litical organization from having a booth due to its political nature.

"We don't specifically ban political groups. We don't ban Estimos, either," Holmes said. "Through the history of the festival — to my knowledge — we have not allowed a political booth."

Diane Daskalakis, CBE chairworp an, concedes that the group has tak-en political stands in local school elections and, most recently, in the Plymouth Township primary. However, she's rankled that a fe tival board member encouraged CBE to apply for a booth, the appli-

The first in what is expected to be several public hearings on changes proposed for Plymouth's sign ordinance has been scheduled for Wednesday by the city planning commission. The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. at city hall, 201 S. Main.

"The new ordinance would encourage the use of smaller, lower ground signs and eliminate the use of larger, higher pole signs," said Douglas Miller, planning commission chairman.

The eighth moon occurs in mid-autumn on the lunar calendar, in September in the solar calendar.

The character eight, marked under the toad's throat, confers invincibility and longevity, according to Chinese folklore.

This toad has the character for eight traced under its throat, so it belongs by right to the eighth moon. It has the power to deflect arrows with its mailcoat skin . . . a common belief is that the toad is indestructible and lives forever," wrote John Marney in the Journal of the American Oriental Society.

but Pursell criticizes that move. "On this issue, she's dead wrong. It's going nowhere. She did it for effect," Pursell said.

Pollack, however, sees it differ-

Pollack's bill was introduced June 9 the day President Reagan vetoed a ing provision. It requires 60 days notice to Michigan workers facing plant closings or large-scale layoffs. Though Pollack's bill remains before the Legislature, it isn't certain it will receive action.

Pursell, a seven-term incumbent, and Pollack, a two-term state senator, are competing in a district that includes Plymouth Township, Plymouth and northern Livonia.

Meanwhile, the issue isn't an issue in the nearby 15th District, home of Rep. William Ford, the plant-closing bill's original sponsor.

Ford, D-Taylor, said President Reagan's decision not to veto the bill this time is "not based on a change

'He realized he didn't have enough votes to sustain a veto the second time around, and he's trying to save George Bush's skin," Ford said. "He wants to get this issue out of the public's mind long before November elections.'

Burl Adkins, a Republican facing Ford in the November race, said advance notice is "good to have. It's just unfortunate it has to go through the legal process.'

The 15th District includes southern Livonia, Westland, Garden City and Canton.

It is more of an issue in the 17th District. Incumbent Rep. Sander Levin, D-

Southfield, supported the plant-clos-ing bill and called Pollack's efforts 'most appropriate.' "A lot of people, some Democrats

but mostly Republicans, got on board in the last few months when it became overwhelmingly clear this was popular with the public," Levin

But Dennis Flessland, his GOP challenger, expressed fears plantclosing notice "will put U.S. industry at a competitive disadvantage in world markets.

The district includes Redford Township.

Pursell said Pollack's bill "is a real mistake for Michigan. It would put us in a real bind with neighboring states as far as getting new businesses to locate here. We should be

Currently, only Minnesota and Massachusetts have similar laws.

POLLACK SAID she introduced the bill on the same day President Reagan vetoed massive federal trade legislation because it included the advance notice provision. He opposed it on the grounds it should be voluntary

When the bill recently passed the U.S. House and Senate a second time, Reagan called it bad legislation but last week he let it become law without signing it.

Pollack said she introduced state legislation "to protect Michigan workers. They don't care how they hear they are losing jobs, by federal law, state law or a considerate employer. They just want notice.

While Pursell voted to support federal legislation this year, he voted against similar legislation in

"Pursell is on the right side now but where was he before? If it's right today, why was it wrong before?' Pollack asked

Combine that with the intense summer storms of recent days and you can imagine how complicated our service restoration efforts have become Be assured that Detroit Edison is working 24 hours a day, calling in every available employe, to restore power safely to everyone as fast as possible.

We know how difficult this has been for our customers whose electrical service has been knocked out. That's why all of our crews have been working around the clock, in long shifts, trying to restore power to the greatest number of people in the shortest time possible. Our crews work on a priority basis in areas where danger exists. Power is restored first to hospitals, police, fire departments

Panama does not hesitate to aid in swindling the unsuspecting who rely on him as one whose duty it is to proect him and his rights.

Young Collins Kellogg, the Plymouth resident who went to California during the Gold Rush days, was implying that America's representative in Panama was in cahoots with the shifty steamship firm that carried him from the Isthmus to San Fran-

The ship's name was "Clarissa. The travelers signing up for the trip were told that the passenger list would not number more than 100. They later found that 140 were aboard. They were also told that sufficient provisions for the 90-day trip, and a physician would be aboard.

THE PROVISIONS were not sufficient for a voyage of 45 days. Not only was there no physician; there was not even medicine for ordinary sickness. "Add to this," Kellogg wrote in his diary, "the abuse of a captain who was a fit subject of an insane asylum. The above is but one instance of many of a similar nature to which thousands can attest." Somehow the ship made it to California, sighting the coast off Monterey about three days before arriving in San Francisco harbor. It was now near the end of June, 1850. Kellogg had left Plymouth on March 7 and Panama City on April 24. The closing entry in his manuscript is a lyrical, if somewhat overblown, tribute to the Golden State.

"Here was something to dispel the monotony incident to a long sea voy-

Even the American Consul at age, where no exercise for mind or body are found except a reflection on the great and wonderful works of nature, as displayed by a view of the world of waters overhung by the stupendous canopy of heaven, studded with worlds innumerable and shining with a more than diamond brilliancy," he wrote, without pausing to catch his breath.

We had seen many fish of various kinds and sea fowls in abundance, but these did not interest like a view of the mountains, forests and plains covered with roaming animals and the waters of the Bay, covered with a greater variety of birds and vessels which spoke plainly of the residence of man. We received a pilot on board and passed through the straight (sic), or as it is styled, the Golden Gate, which indeed is a beautiful sight, and anchored in fair view of the city at 10 a.m.on Sunday.

THE MANUSCRIPT covering Kellogg's 8,000-mile journey from Plymouth to San Francisco ends there. Unfortunately, we have no idea what he did in California and whether he found gold. If he did, it is safe to assume that he did not strike it rich.

Because, by May 1856, Collins Kellogg was back in Plymouth, operating a drug store in the Main Street business block facing the park. If he made his fortune, it was there. But not for long; on May 5, 1856, Kellogg's drug store was one of the many business establishments that were destroyed by the fire wiped out almost the entire block.

Among those who made the voyage overland were two other Plymouth youths, Micheal Conner and David Fralick. Not much is known of Fralick, who died on the way to the coast, but Mike Conner figures prominently in the history of Plymouth. He was elected village president no less than 10 times in the span of 23 years from 1868 to 1891.

Conner was 20 in 1848 when gold was discovered at Sutter's Mill. A few years later, he and Fralick went to Ohio to join a wagen train of prospectors on their way to California. Conner dug for gold for four years, but, like most others, never made his fortune there

In 1856, the year of the Main Street fire, Conner returned to his mother's farm in Plymouth, traveling back on a sailing ship by way of Cape Horn at the southern tip of South America. When he was 27, he bought a hardware store at the corner of Main and Sutton from Henry Bennett.

Like Collins Kellogg, Conner had had a taste of fortune hunting and adventure and was ready to settle down. Conner's hardware store was to be a landmark at that corner for the next 87 years.

Medicine helps duffers

IN MY long-ago childhood, a usual Saturday night dinner guest was an "Aunt Nettie," fortunately not a blood relative. She worked as secretary to the richest man in our little town, but suffered terribly from migraine headaches. What a pity that medical knowledge hadn't progressed to the point it has today, or at least as I see it emphasized by headache specialist Dr. Ronald S. Bennett.

The Farmington Hills doctor's specialized neurological practice has led him to open clinics in Redford and Dearborn, and it was because of a dear friend named Marda Benson, an educational executive of quite some note in her younger days, that I became a captive audience in listening to tapes of his technical dis-

Only then did I learn that those beastly migraines can be hereditary, which prompted me to say I'm glad 'Aunt Nettie" was not a blood relative. Dr. Bennett says that even those who are afflicted can be treated and taught relaxation techniques for relief.

I have read that headaches are one of mankind's oldest complaints, that ancients even drilled holes in skulls with stone instruments to cure them by letting the "evil spirits" out. I think that was the process used upon me the first night I over-imbibed as a University of Michigan freshman 7,000 years ago.

Please understand, this is not meant to scoff at Dr. Bennett or his profession. More likely, it's an admission that there's truth in the old saying, "A little knowledge is a dangerous thing." You see, as I sit here typing this, I know I have beaten the odds in many ways. If you think you have a symptom of a disease, please go to a physician. But I was born with one. Maybe several. Most interesting medically is the fact that I am that one in a million-plus people born with the heart on the wrong side of the body who live to age 70 and beyond. My righteous discipline keeps me in the ball game. After I cross the finish line, the cadaver will go the U. of M. Medical School.

Because I search for a reason to laugh in every situation, and because memory lapses are common topics among my peers, let me steal a yarn from Judd Arnett who used this in

Many kinds of lettuce to choose

Not so long ago, when you and I were little kids, before the days of McDLTs, radicchio and Boston bibb, Mamma would venture to the store and look for large, solid heads of iceberg lettuce. Occasionally, she would notice some different, expensive varieties folks would call romaine and leaf.

Nowadays, a trip to the produce section has us choosing not just between the old standards but also some tasty varieties like buttehead, mache, purple leaf, escarole and endive.

Today, lettuce can be seen not just in a salad but topped on burgers, stuffed in pita, tossed with taco ingredients, made into soups and used as a garnish on everything from cottage cheese to shrimp cocktails.

It is believed that the growing of lettuce may date back as far as 4,500 B.C., because depictions of lettucelike leaves were found in ancient Egyptian tombs.

THE ANCIENT Greeks and Romans had a high esteem for lettuce, as evidenced by, 1., Hippocrates' praise for its medicinal value and, 2., the erection of an altar and statue in honor of lettuce by Augustus Caesar, who believed that it had brought about a cure from an illness.

Columbus brought lettuce seeds with him on his second voyage to the Caribbean, where the early cultivation of this crop led to the development of a Puerto Rican variety that was grown later by the first colonists. The first lettuce planted in California and the West Coast was brought there by Spanish padres.

However, commercial lettuce production did not get underway till the early 1900s in what is now California, the "lettuce capitol" of the world. The rapid growth of lettuce production is due largely to the development of refrigerated railroad cars and storage facilities that made it possible to destribute the fresh vegetable across the country.

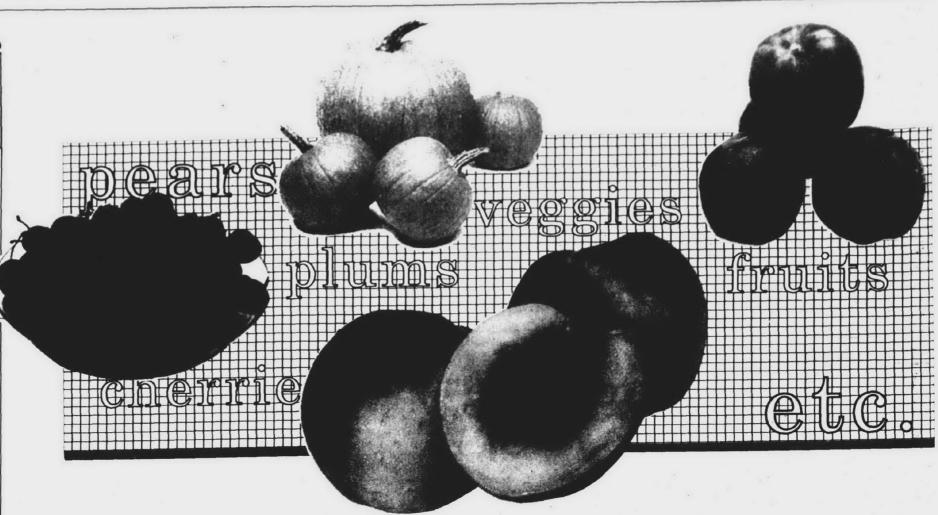

Lettuce requires a cool, mild weather for optimal growth. It can be grown in warm weather in as little as 60 days or during the winter months, for up to 120 days. Lettuce is processed immediately for shipment simply by packing in boxes (usually uone right in the fields) and then trucked to refrigerated coolers for storage before shipping.

It is processed to a very limited extent, mainly because it can't be frozen or heated without becoming limp and loosing much of its appeal.

IF YOU'RE LOOKING to purchase the best lettuce, look for good quality that is clean, crisp and tender. The heads should be fairly firm to firm, and free from a rusty appearance, which can cause quick decay.

All types of lettuce have a high water content (94-96 percent) and are exceptionally low in calories. A one pound head has about 56 calories.

The darker the green in color, the richer the lettuce is likely to be in nutrients. A darker color will mean a greater amount of iron and vitamin A and more folic acid than other types.

Summertime: master canner saves the best

By Geri Rinschler special writer

T'S DIFFICULT to say right now how the canning season of '88 will be affected by the lack of rain. But one thing is for sure, it will be educational.

If you've already begun to put up any fruits or early summer vegetables, you've undoubtedly noticed that the frequently irrigated crops are ripening ahead of schedule.

Some early vegetable plants may have dried up in their early growth stages and may arrive late since many optimistic farmers planted a second early crop. The good news is that the crops being harvested now are generally sweet and full of flavor.

Sound confusing? If you've recently been bitten by the canning bug or are a veteran canner, don't fret. Your friends and family will be enjoying summer fruits and veggies into the winter.

with some careful planning, advice from a master gardener-master canner and some tried-and-true recipes, you'll be well on your way to stacking the pantry shelves with fruit conserves, fruit butter and jam.

BEFORE THE FIRST official canning jar was patented by John Mason in 1858, fruits were preserved with sugar.

As Mrs. Beeton comments in her famous cookbook, "Mrs. Beeton's Book of Household Management" (1861, Exeter Books, New York): "Fruit is a most important item in the economy of health; the epicurean can scarcely be said to have any luxuries without it; therefore, as it is so invaluable, when we cannot have it fresh, we must have it preserved."

That certainly isn't the case in the 1980s, with exotic and domestic fruit being transported through the air daily. During a summer with a normal amount of rainfall, economy often plays an important role for many who preserve fruits and vegetables.

A more compelling reason to can or preserve is that foods grown locally are generally harvested at the height of their flavor and freshness and often sold the same day at farmers' markets and roadside stands, a luxury which commercial food outlets can't provide.

Although fruit preserving may not be as complex as low acid and high acid vegetable canning, it's not a subject to be taken lightly. A simple blend of sun-kissed peaches and plum sauce or the mixture of berries, raisins and nuts simmered into a spicy conserve can add a sophisticated culinary touch to any repast. But fruit preserving, like all other culinary techniques, varies from cook to cook as proportions vary from cookbook to cookbook.

SO WHAT BETTER way to locate the best techniques and recipes around than by consulting someone who has mastered the subject.

DUANE BURLESON

See recipes, 28:

Barbara June of Troy, a master gardener-master canner, ladles a batch of jam into jars.

Barbara June began her gardening career as a young girl living on the east side. Before moving to Troy more than a year ago, with her husband and two young children, she decided to increase her knowledge on the science of food preservation through a master canner program given by the Cooperative Extension Service of Michigan State University in Mt. Clemens.

"I needed to learn more about food preservation for two reasons," she said. "My family loves eating fruits and vegetables. When I freeze and can, I don't have to worry about running to the grocery store at all hours of the day, I can start a sauce at nine in the evening, because I have the ingredients on hand."

The other, equally important reason is, "This way I can also control the amount of sugar my family eats."

These salad days bring on delicious ways with greens

By Michele MacWilliams special writer

For as long as man has existed on this earth, we have included green leafy vegetables in our diet. Salads have been around for centuries, accompanying meat and grains, or on their own as a main course.

We all know that salads are good for us. They provide fiber and are an important source of many different vitamins and minerals. Best of all, green, leafy vegetables are low in calories. But especially now, during this long, hot summer, we may begin to grow tired of the same old lettuce-tomato-cucumber-crouton type salad. So after all these centuries, what can we do to spice up the old traditional salad?

Many things, says Chef Milos Cihelka of the Golden Mushroom restaurant in Southfield. The chef personally dislikes traditional head or iceberg lettuce, deeming it too sweet and bland. He also says leaf lettuce is not suitable for salads; it is better of lining plates or used as a

Instead, Chef Milos prefers bibb lettuce, Belgian endive or chicory. These greens have more body and taste, although some people may not like their somewhat strong, slightly bitter flavor. These people, he says, may prefer Boston lettuce or butter lettuce.

See recipes on 2B.

FOR THE particularly adventuresome, arugula is an Italian green which looks like radish leaves. A trendy salad ingredient, arugula—or roquette as the French call it—has a very pungent taste and aroma.
Chef Milos admits that this vegetable takes some getting used to. However, it is gaining popularity with food trend followers.

Radicchio, an Italian lettuce that resembles red cabbage but is actually much more tender, is also an interesting salad addition. With a taste similar to that of Belgian endive, it is now grown in the U.S.

is now grown in the U.S.

All this greenery, the chef says, is usually available at the Eastern Market in Detroit. We also checked a local Great Scott! supermarket and found its produce section stocked with Belgian endive, escarole, chicory, romaine, red leaf lettuce, hydroponic butter lettuce, fresh spinach, bibb lettuce and radicchio. The store also offered other interesting salad ingredients, such as sweet red peppers, china peas, bok choy, celery, cabbage and dried tomatoes.

But traveling to the supermarket

But traveling to the supermarket isn't necessary if you know what to pick right in your own backyard. Chef Milos says another popular and pretty salad addition is the edible flower. He recommends trying nasturtiums, impatiens, dandelions and squash flowers. Some flowers are not edible and the chef suggests steering clear of other varieties besides those he mentioned.

If you're a gardener, planting some mache, or corn salad, in autumn can make for an interesting salad right into the winter. Mache is characterized by its small leaves that can be harvested even after the snow falls.

HERBS CAN BE good in salads, too. A fresh sprig of basil, parsley or tarragon adds aroma as well as flavor.

Another salad ingredient gaining in popularity is the dried cherry. Chef Milos plumps them first in boiling water before adding the tars fruit to his Golden Mushroom house salad. Dried cherries can be found in many supermarkets and are a trendy new item used by many restaurants in the Traverse City area during its summertime cherry festival.

ing its summertime cherry festival.

Executive chef Michael Hanna of the Michigan Inn in Southfield uses number of unusual ingredients for salads in his Benchmark and Bistrestaurants. Among his favorites Belgian endive, sun-dried tomatoe and fiddlehead ferns.

This year especially, she will ask to taste the fruit before buying any large quantities, to check for flavor as well as for wateriness. Besides buying fruit for conserves, jams and butters, June freezes berries, melon balls, and sliced peaches and plums to keep on hand for salads and baking all year long.

For these fruits, she usually rinses and sorts out the berries, removes the skin, then places them in rows on a cookie sheet. She stores them in the upright freezer. June uses ascorplying the same technique. When fruits are frozen, she moves them to heavy, plastic freezer bags.

On her freezer shelves they will be accompanied by cauliflower, broccoli, beets, green beans, corn, cabbage, tomatoes, apples, pears and sauces. This is enough to keep June busy a few days a week during the high growth season.

Preserving fruit is by far more fun than freezing, according to June. When shopping for fruits, June is partial to a few varieties. "I only poach or use Clapp pears for canning and making fruit butter. Crest Haven is my favorite peach. They can be found throughout Romeo. I like the fall raspberries better than the July berries because they're easier to handle."

When making a jam or jelly, it's best to test for jell. Barbara June, master canner, recommends the sheet test. During canning season, she keeps a clean tablespoon in the refrigerator.

LOOK FOR the jam to be translucent. It should be thick enough to

To be extra sure, take the refrigerated spoon and hold horizontally 8-10 inches above the pot while cooking. After a minute or two, a few drops will form on the spoon and move together to form a sheet. It is

Although many jam and conserve recipes don't specify cooking the filled jars in a hot water bath, June recommends doing so.

This way, I know that the bacteria has been cooked out and I have peace of mind when giving them as gifts for the holidays." This is also necessary when you don't use paraffin as a sealing agent. 'I was very concerned about having hot wax on the stove when my children were young because wax burns so easily.

TO PREPARE a water bath, use an enamel-coated canning pot. After packing hot sterilized jam jars and leaving the amount of head space required by the recipe, fill the canner halfway with water. Bring it to a simmer over medium heat.

Set the jars in the canning rack, lowering the filled rack into the simmering water. Fold in the handles. Make sure the jars are covered with about one inch of water. Cover, bring to a boil and process according Remove and drain. Allow to rest and cool according to the recipe.

'Never use old lids, buy new ones each year," June said. She prefers either Mason or Ball wide-mouth jars

There are not very many new cookbooks to recommend as good sources for information on technique. "The Blue Book," published by the Ball Corp., is sold in stores where canning equipment is found. Or write the Ball Corp., Consumer Products Division, 345 S. High Street, Munsey, Ind. 47302.

The book "Preserving," the Good Cook, Time-Life Series, 1981, still available at local book stores, explains technique excellently. Since it is seven years old, you may need to butter you may want to remove the check recommendations on presexcess layer from the top surface sure-canning and hot water bath with a spoon. This usually will cause canning for meats and vegetables.

Organize a no-fuss picnic

Summer is a favorite season for rior before adding hot food many reasons, one being picnics at the lake, local parks or backyard. Summer is a time for friends and family to gather together in the sunshine, warm air, listen to ball games, sounds of children playing and good food packed in a picnic basket. Make a picnic a moveable feast without the fuss.

Picnics need to be well organized so you have everything you need and that no one goes home with food poisoning. Make a checklist of food and equipment you'll need for the occasion. If possible, pack two baskets, one for food and one for beverages. The reason being the beverage basket will be opened more frequently on a very hot day, and this will warm the other foods.

Never leave the food in the sun. Keep the basket closed and well cooled with ice. Use foil wrappedover newspapers for insulation. Label the food packages so everything need not be opened before using.

CONSIDER BUYING freezable ice packets. Use them and/or plenty of ice cubes to keep food well chilled. You can never have too much ice on a hot day. If you're using a vacuum bottle for cold foods, chill it before adding food. For hot foods, use boiling water to heat inte-

MAKE CLEANUP easy. Moisten paper towels, washcloths or dishcloths with water and store in a plastic bag. When sticky fingers appear you'll be ready. Remember to take along a first aid kit, sunscreen, aspirin and bug repellent. Picnics have a way of making these supplies neces-

If sandwiches are on the menu, pack all the components separately and assemble at the picnic area. This eliminates soggy bread. Pack the dressings for lettuce salads separately. For a moveable Mexican feast, cube leftover meatloaf, pack tortilla chips, shredded cheese, lettuce, tomatoes and hot sauce. Everyone makes his or her own lunch.

For a simple dessert, freeze grapes in plastic bags. When you're ready to leave for the picnic pack the frozen grapes. Serve them; they will still be chilled and delicious. Make giant-size cookies for picnics. Cookies satisfy that sweet craving without becoming a melted mess.

QUICK BREADS made with fresh fruits are also easy to take along. Bake an extra loaf next time you make banana, nut, rhubarb, with cream cheese, sliced cheese or fresh fruit with no mess.

Let your refrigerator brew the iced tea while you are at work or asleep. Place teabags in a jar or pitcher, fill with cold water. Cover and refrigerate at least 8 hours or overnight. Remove teabags and it's ready to serve - no fuss. For a picnic, freeze the beverages in large plastic containers. The frozen liquids will help keep the other items cold.

ELIMINATE THE mess of buttering corn on the cob at the picnic. Fill a large quart jar with hot water, add 2 sticks of butter. Let this stand in the sun to melt. When the butter melts, put a cob in the jar and pull out slowly. The butter will float on the top of the water and coats the corn perfectly.

For easy side dishes and not pots to wash, place frozen vegetables in foil, top with favorite seasoning and strawberry or blueberry quick seal tightly. Cook on the grill, turn breads. These can be served along occasionally. Serve in the foil.

Picnics vary from peanut butter and jelly sandwiches to cheese and champagne. Choose foods that are easy to handle with the least amount of drag-along equipment. It is simpler to prepare the food at home, and pack it in a basket than flip hamburgers or baste chicken on a

No matter what you plan to eat, exercise caution especially when using grills. Be careful of leftovers if there is no ice left and it's still very warm. Two hours out of refrigeration or cooking temperature is long enough for any food. Don't take chances eating the leftovers. They aren't worth a trip to the hospital.

Summer is meant to be enjoyed, whether you are cooking and eating indoors or outdoors. Make foods that are simple but delicious. Nobody wants to spend time in a hot kitchen cooking or cleaning. Picnics should be casual, free-spirited and relaxed,

Craig Stockard of the Lakers protects the puck from Mark Issel of the Wildcats, but Issel and Company came out on top in Thursday's MSHL playoff game, 6-4. The Wildcats will play the Spartans in the Bakes Conference semifinal at 8:30 p.m. Monday at the Plymouth Ice Arena. The other semi is slated for 7 p.m. Monday; the league final 7 p.m. Wednesday.

Upsets mark hockey playoffs

Upsets remain the rule in the Metro Summer Hockey League playoffs. Last Monday the Spartans, 3-8 during the regular season, sent the Bulldogs, the first-place finisher in the Bakes Division at 9-2, to the sidelines with an 11-7 thumping.

On Wednesday at the Plymouth Ice Arena, it was the Wolverines turn. During the regular season, they had managed just one win (in the final game) and a tie in the Eagle Conference. Their opponent was the first-place Huskies, 9-1-1 during

The result was hardly predictable. The Wolverines skated to a 4-1 lead after one period and stayed in front throughout, posting a 9-6 upset.

THE VICTORY means both fourth-place teams have reached the league semifinals, while the regular-season champs are out of the playoffs. On Thursday in the second Bakes Conference semifinal, the third-place finishing Wildcats upended the second-place Lakers 6-4 at Wayne Ice Arena.

The second Eagle Conference semi, matching the second-place Falcons and third-place Broncos, two goals apiece. Kelth Pietlia was the most pro ductive, adding three assists. Matt Wiljanen had one assist to go with his two goals; Jim Storm was the other multiple scorer.

Joe Ahmet collected three goals and an assist and Mike Kneiding added a goal and two assists for the Huskies. Both will be seniors at Livonia Churchill this fall.

THE WILDCATS battled back from a 3-1 deficit after one period to beat the Lakers, and they did it in a 1:20 span of the second period. In that time, the Wildcats scored four unanswered goals - two by Mike Jorgensen, who also assisted on Challenge Cup Aug. 13-14.

was last night. A Bronco win would mean the top another. Jorgensen finished with three goals and Tim Olschanski added a goal and two assists In the Wolverines upset, three players scored and Sean Flynn got three assists for the Wildcats. Rob McDonald paced the Lakers with two goals and two assists.

The Wildcats, who now have won six of their last seven games, play the Spartans in the Bakes Conference final at 8:30 p.m. Monday at the Plymouth Ice Arena. The Eagle Conference final will be at 7 p.m., with the Wolverines meeting the Broncos-Falcons victor.

The winners will meet in the league championship game at 7 p.m. Wednesday at Plymouth. The league champ will then travel to Chicago to meet the Windy City Summer Hockey League playoff winner in the two-game, most-goals Summer

SVSC lineup includes many ex-area stars

By C.J. Risak staff writer

Northern Michigan's first football season in the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference was an auspicious one. The Wildcats went unbeaten in four conference games, posted a 10-2 overall record and reached the NCAA Division II semifinals where they lost 13-7 to Portland State.

So what does coach Herb Grenke have planned for an encore? "Our goal," he said at Wednesday's GLI-AC football-volleyball media day, "is to be the most improved team in the country.

Using last year as a yardstick might make improvement seem like a lofty aspiration. But consider this: NMU returns 16 starters who earned mention on the all-GLIAC team last

AMONG THOSE returning is the conference player-of-the-year, senior tailback Steve Avery, who rushed for 1,300 yards and scored 12 touchdowns. Also back are six members of the all-GLIAC first-team defense.

Everything considered, it's little wonder NMU is a heavy favorite to repeat as champion. The Wildcats earned five of six possible first-place votes in the coaches' preseason balloting. Hillsdale was picked to finish second and got the only other first-place vote. Grand Valley State and Saginaw Valley State tied for third, with Ferris State fifth and Wayne State sixth.

Although NMU has a devastating lineup returning, other league members also have some all-GLIAC performers coming back. SVSU's offensive line will be anchored by 6-foot, 250-pound senior guard Doug Mac, a Wayne Memorial grad and two-time

THE CARDINALS will need the strong blocking provided by Mac, sophomore Don McAnelly (6-2, 240), from Troy Athens, who returns at center, and sophomore Rick Forsythe (6-2, 242), from Redford Catholic Central, who returns at guard. SVSU must break in a new quarterback and replace the third and fourth best rushers in the GLIAC in

football

There are seven returnees on defense, including part-time starter Mike Korzetki (6-4, 240), a senior defensive tackle from Wayne Memorial. Brian Tiller (5-8, 165), a sophomore from Plymouth Salem, is slated as a possible starter at strong safety after filling the cornerback position a year ago.

The kicking game is in the hands of senior Chris Piazza (Westland John Glenn). Piazza connected on 16of-17 extra points and six-of-12 field goals, scoring 34 points in '87.

WAYNE STATE finished dead last in the GLIAC a year ago, winless in four games. The Tartars plan to im-prove, with a stronger defense anchored by senior defensive tackle Tony Beaune (6-5, 248) of Livonia Stevenson, a second-team all-GLIAC member last year, and senior noseguard Marty Altounian (6-0, 240) of Livonia Bentley, honorable mention all-league in '87.

coach Joe Horn of Beaune. "I think he can be one of the best in the league. He's beginning to think there's no one around who can block

"He's a great talent," said WSU

As for Altounian, Horn said, "Marty's just an excellent player. He's really coming into his own.'

The line and a strong secondary will carry the defense. The linebacking was weak a year ago and might not be much better. Which means senior cornerback Craig Pasini (Rochester) will see plenty of action. Pasini is filling his third position in three years; he's also played strong

"PASINI'S A potential all-conference player," said Horn. "Corner-back should be his best position. He can cover.'

On offense, WSU has its quarterback, junior Mike Grennier, returning (unlike four of the six other GLI-AC teams). One of his main targets will be diminutive senior wide re-

Mercy rule gets lots of NABF use

By C.J. Risak staff writer

Without doubt, Adray Appliance was the class of the Detroit Adray Baseball League this summer. Appliance finished 30-5, 10 wins ahead of the second-place finisher, and followed that by sweeping through the playoffs with three straight victo-

And yet, as impressive as that record is, Appliance is an underdog a big underdog - entering the All-American Amateur Baseball Association (AAABA) regional that starts Wednesday at Ford Field.

The reason is simple: Johnny's Auto Sales of Baltimore is coming to

This is no minor league operation. Johnny's is the defending AAABA national champion. Its roster usually consists of players who get drafted by major league teams.

"THEY ARE a big-time organization," said Stu Rose, who coaches Appliance with Bob Atkins.

Rose also coaches baseball at Redford Union, where Atkins is the athletic director

'Most of (Johnny's) kids will be drafted. They were in scouting us last weekend - that's the kind of budget they've got. They've played about 76 games this summer, which means they will have played about twice as many as everyone else."

The team's general manager is Walter Youse, who also serves as chief scout and director of player personnel for the Milwaukee

pitcher and nine left-handed

HE'LL FIND out quickly enough. Appliance and Johnny's meet in the regional opener at 5 p.m. Wednesday at Ford Field. The third team in the double-elimination tournament is Jammers from Columbus, Ohio. The Jammers drew a first-round bye; they'll play the Appliance-Johnny's winner at 2 p.m. Thursday at Ford.

The loser of game No. 1 will then meet the loser of game No. 2 at approximately 5:30 p.m., with one team being eliminated. The final round will begin at 2 p.m. Friday.

The regional champion earns a trip to Johnstown, Pa., for the AAA-BA national tournament.

ALTHOUGH THE odds may be stacked against his team, Rose likes Appliance's chances. 'Our team's forte is hitting," he said. "We can really hit the ball. We have good batting averages from the

No. 1 batter to the No. 9.

"Plus, we've got a great double-play combination in (shortstop) Dennis Bushart (from University of Detroit and Redford Union) and (second baseman) Jim Givens (Kent State). They can turn almost any ground ball into a double play."

Leading the attack is third baseman Greg D'Alexander (Arkansas), who has been the team's most consistent long-ball threat. He led Appliance in homers and runs batted in Joe Mackiewicz was the winning pitcher as Walter's beat Macomb 17-1 in the first round of the NABF tournament.

Appliance has underdog role

Close games were the exception as the mercy rule got a lot of use in the early rounds of the National Amateur Baseball Federation tournament at Livonia's Ford Field last

Three of the first four games were lopsided contests, with the two Livonia Collegiate Baseball League entries, Walter's Home Appliance and Tom Holzer Ford, coming away unscathed.

Those two teams, the only unbeaten ballclubs after four games, played at 5:30 p.m. Friday, but the storm that dumped heavy rain on the metro area forced postponement of the game.

Walter's and Holzer Ford were to resume play at 11 a.m. Saturday, with Walter's holding a 2-0 lead in the top of the second inning.

Brian Smolinski and John Knittel opened the bottom half of the first inning with back-to-back singles for Walter's, and both eventually scored. Smolinski raced home on a wild pitch, and Rick Karcher's double knocked in Knittel.

WALTER'S STARTED the tournament Thursday with a 17-1 trouncing of Macomb. The only tight game among the first four was a 5-3 victory by Detroit Re-naissance over Brecksville (Ohio) later Thursday. Holser Ford, which drew a first-round bye, thumped Renaissance 15-4 Friday, and Macomb knocked Brecksville out of the tournament with a 17-7 shellacking Friday.

hitter over four innings to earn the victory for Holzer Ford, 25-10. He struck out five and walked none before Bill Bragg came on and worked the last three, allowing three hits and four runs.

Holzer Ford's 15-hit attack included a trio of three-hit perfor-mances. Kevin Ritter and Rick Tavormina were 3-for-4 and Paul Newitt 3-for-5. All three had two RBI, also.

In addition, Steve Hirschman was 2-for-5 and Keith Dutkiewicz 2-for-4. Both had one RBI.

Walter's broke open its game with Macomb when it sent 15 batters to the plate and scored nine runs in the fifth inning, boosting its lead to 14-1.

DERRICK DOWLING was 5-for-5 as Walter's collected 12 hits. Knittel and Tony Aiken, who had a double and a triple, had two hits apiece, and Micky Katschor reached base five times — three by walk, once with a hit and once by Winning pitcher Joe Mackiewicz went five innings and scattered five hits. He walked three and struck out the same. Rob Knapp worked two innings of relief.

Walter's benefitted from 11 walks and four Macomb errors.

ceiver David Lee (5-7, 140), of Garden City, who caught 23 passes for 314 yards and two TDs last season.

'He's a microdot," said Horn, "and probably weighs 140 pounds soaking wet. But he's got to be watched. He's a tremendous compet-

Also back is junior tight end John Jessing (6-5, 230), from Troy Athens, who had nine catches for 100 yards and a touchdown in '87, and junior Chuck Crespi (6-2, 230), from Livonia and Redford Catholic Central, who moves from starting guard to center.

AT GRAND VALLEY, the defensive leader will be undersized (6-1, 225), overachieving senior defensive end Scott Taylor of Birmingham Groves. Taylor was a second-team choice last year and was named GLIAC defensive player of the week after recording three sacks against Ferris State. He led the Lakers with nine sacks.

"Scott Taylor has tremendous tenacity," said GVSU coach Tom Beck. "He's really undersized as a defensive end, but he's willing to do all the things necessary to get the job

In the secondary, senior Mike Slazinski (6-4, 195), of Farmington Hills and Southfield-Lathrup, moves from free to strong safety. In '87, he totaled 54 tackles, two interceptions and a fumble recovery. Older brother John (5-10. 165), also a senior, will play wide receiver for the Lakers. John caught six passes for 106 yards and a TD last year.

On the offensive line, second-team all-GLIAC center Tom Mitchell (6-2, 240), from Birmingham Brother Rice, returns to solidify the situation. "He's an undersized individual, not real strong or big, but he gets the job done," said Beck. "He's very in-

FERRIS STATE had some sparkling individuals a year ago, but there wasn't much to show for it. The Bulldogs finished 4-7 overall and 2-3 in the GLIAC under Keith Otterbein (a Southfield-Lathrup grad). Improvement might be difficult; there are several holes to fill.

Senior Brian Schremp (6-1, 260), also from S-L, hopes to fill one position regularly. An assortment of injuries have sidelined Schremp over the past two years, but Otterbein was counting on him to start on the offensive line this season.

To strengthen the offensive backfield, Otterbein switched sophomore Delbert Littlejohn (5-9, 165), a Rochester Adams grad, from defensive back (one interception in '87), Otterbein called Littlejohn "a nifty little runner, not very big but elusive."

At least placekicking shouldn't be a problem for FSU. Sophomore Tony Svaluto, from Westland John Glenn, scored 33 points in '87, making all 12 extra-point tries and seven-of-12 field goals.

APPLIANCE MAY need plenty of hitting and defense because, as Rose described it, "Pitching is our weakest area."

This assessment comes even though Appliance boasts the Adray League's most valuable pitcher in Ryan Raymond from U-D. Raymond is 8-1 (with one win coming in the playoffs) as a short reliever.

Appliance's top two starters are right-hander Mike Ericson (5-0 for the season) and left-hander Don Lindsey.

The team picked up Bill Bates, a righthander from EMU who played at Adray Photo this summer, to help strengthen its mound corps.

Appliance also added John Timko, from Birmingham Brother Rice and Western Michigan, who played with the Westland Hawks, and Mickey Smerek, from Eastern Michigan. Smerek played with Photo and was the league's top hitter.

Both will play outfield and fill in as designated hitter. Appliance can add one more player to its roster before the region opener.

THE JAMMERS look to be the weakest entry in the three-team field. The Columbus representative is usually made up of Ohio State players, but the Jammers are mostly high school graduates.

Which means Johnny's and Appliance should be the two teams battling for the championship.

"Johnny's is the clear-cut favorite on paper, but Detroit has a proud tradition," Rose said. "If our pitching is solid, we have an excellent chance of coming out of here because our hitting and defense are both strong."

One thing is certain: Livonia baseball fans will be treated to the kind of quality baseball usually reserved for the Johnstown tournament. On the list of areas producing the most AAABA national championships, Baltimore ranks first and Detroit is

When you're an Observer & Eccentric carrier, we give you a polar bear—

Dave and Jason Steinert of Westland enjoy an evening snack at the Zoo

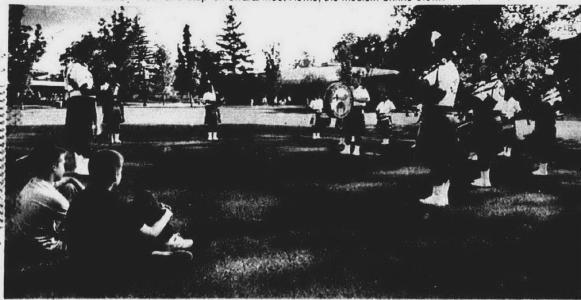

John Cichosz of Redford and Dean Erickson of Livonia have front-row seats for the Moslem Shrine Highlanders

Here we come, ready or not!

nd a giraffe, and a tiger, and all the other wonderful animals at the Detroit Zoo--they're yours for a night--Carrier Night. Not only do our carriers get to treat their families to an evening at the Zoo, they also have a chance to win some really neat prizes throughout the year; including a 10-speed bike. How do you get in on all this fun? Well, if you're between 11 and 14 years old, you can call one of these numbers and apply for your own route:

Picassos of plaster

By Debbie Wallis Landau special writer

Monday, August 8, 1988 O&E

Lots of us get the urge to create something artistic. Lots of us also have two left hands.

At Plaster Playhouse, the novice can feel just as proud and accomplished as the person born with a paint brush and palette in his hand. "We want people to have fun when they come to us," Rochelle Fishman said. "That's the whole purpose of our business . . . a relaxed, no pressure setting where people can experiment with color and design and fell productive.'

The main players at the Playhouse are the partners - Fishman, 36, and Judee Herman, 42. The West Bloomfield residents have succeeded in turning their Bloomfield Township recreation center into a no fail form of instant gratification.

For a $1 painting fee, the cost of a decorative object - from as little as $3 - and an unrestricted imagination, anyone can create a cherished keepsake or personalized present.

The Playhouse's long rectangular room showcases a diversified selection of plastercraft molds, ranging from funky sports memorabilia to sophisticated silhouettes of art deco ladies.

If the California Raisin craze has captured you, you'll find replicas of those figures. Alf aficionados will likewise be satisified.

Cylinders adaptable as vases or striking decorative pieces, piggy banks in the personae of bears and somber-eyed, mysterious looking Pierrots in six different styles are also available.

WHETHER whimsical, practical or comical, the pieces are all ready to paint. And that's where the fun

Visitors don paint-flecked smocks, find a seat at one of the rainbow streaked tables and dip into a myriad of paints. Whimsy guides the strokes.

"The paints are all water based, and that means you can paint and repaint an object until you've achieved the desired look," Fishman said. "The old masters did that. It's not a revolutionary technique, but it makes for a totally non-frustrating adventure.'

Unhappy with your color? Try one of the metallic sheens or go outrageous with stripes and polka dots.

Herman likes to show off the delicious looking cherry sundaes customers have left on display. One's traditional, another went underground with some not-to-be-believed colors of ice cream and whipped

"It's fascinating to see the different renditions of the same object," Herman said. "You can't tell if a kid or an adult did most of them . . . look at these Pierrots (one in pastel pink and green colors, another in dramatic blacks and silvers).

"A lot of adults who come in here say 'I've never made anything in my life'. Then they walk out of here with something that goes on permanent display in their living room."

The Playhouse is attracting a clientele as varied as the people in the neighboring communities. Professionals who want some creative "alone time," mothers with a little free time who want to produce an individualized gift, school children who become comfortable with arts and crafts in an environment which demands only that they enjoy themselves.

"WE'VE HAD quite a few young students referred to us by teachers who wanted to help them refine hand-to-eye coordination and fine motor skills," Fishman said. "In a way, it's a form of therapy, but it's so recreational the academic is taken out of it.

The desire for people to have unqualified fun and bring out the best in themselves was one of the many shared objectives that brought the Plaster Playhouse

Fishman has more than a decade of teaching experience - at Beth Jacobs School in Birmingham behind her. She also wanted to some day launch her own business and opened Plaster Playhouse last Oc-

"From the beginning, I had a gut feeling, a special intuition that this idea would take off," she said. "This has truly been the realization of a personal cupational therapist who soon turned those skills into a thriving personal business. With her husband, she formed a company which provides mobile medical testing to business and industry.

"Rochelle is a fantastic motivator and a great salesperson," said Herman. "With her wealth of teaching experience . . . she's aware of what children and adults need to feel good about themselves. She understands that motivation has to be encour-

"I HAVE a strong retail management background and have always worked in service-oriented settings, so working with the public was a natural for both of Fishman and Herman recently expanded their seven-day-a-week operation to kick off Playnight at the Playhouse the first and third Saturday nights of the month. The first Saturday is for older children and teenagers; the third Saturday is for adults.

The spring and summer have brought an increase in daytime visitors and as a result, the partners have formed alliances with local day camps. But birthday parties continue to be both a moneymaker and an appealing alternative to the hamburger and pizza palace circuit.

The party paraphenalia is set up neatly at tables in the rear of the store, and the guests get to paint a special object to take home with them.

"It's hectic, but they have a great time and we've been fortunate to have excellent people working for Fishman and Herman plan to open a second Playhouse by Sept. 1. Where they'll go from there is only as limited as their imaginations.

The Plaster Playhouse is at 6455 Inkster Road at Maple, Bloomfield Township. Its hours at 10 a.m.-6 p.m. daily. For more information, call

Ray may have sat there, but from the looks of the wall at the Plaster Playhouse, so did Robyn, Jordan, Karen and quite a few others.

VAIL, COLO. - They were built as ski resorts. Vail, Beaver Creek, Aspen, Winter Park. People all over the country associate their names with skiing. The young people who work here in the Vail Valley all have some variation of the same story they came to the Rockies to ski, found a job and stayed.

Skiing is such an important word here, in fact, that most of us don't associate places like Vail with summer. Think about that — gorgeous mountains with green forests, peaked skylines and pale green meadows covered with summer flowers and dotted with mountain streams. If you have only been to Vail and Beaver Creek in ski season, you have missed one of the most interesting summer resorts in the Rockies. When the sun shines down the mountain slopes, you will see the same vil-lage skylines that skiers see in winter, but the streets are full of flower rdens and tourists sit in dozens of little outdoor cafes along the village

Aristobrats march to their own techno-beat

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

The Aristobrats go where few Detroit area bands have gone before: To study the galaxy of dance music with today's utmost modern technology

Yes, The Aristobrats are riding the starship technodance enterprise.

Samples and computer programming replace riffs and chords in the techno-dance man's vernacular. Geez, and remember when just a guitar and a drum kit used to do the trick

Techno-dance music has been criticized, especially in rock and roll circles. It's said to be too sterilized, too impersonalized.

Of course, the Aristobrats beg to differ. They make their case for microchip music known.

"I think the technology in the last few years has brought it out of that," said John Vitale, lead singer and guitar player for the three-member group. "Like with drum lines. With the new technology, you can edit and tailor them to your liking.

"With this new technology, we can make a new sound so the drum can never sound the same. Where as a rock band live would sound the same. I would question how someone in a rock band would criticize us for that."

'WE DON'T see it as selling out to technology," added John Hughes of Livonia, who is in charge of keyboards and programming for the group. "We see it as a . . it's our job to entertain the people who watch

Members of The Aristobrats appear to be doing their jobs. The group has already packaged a first-rate demo tape and plays the major venues in the area. Plus. there's dates in Chicago at the Cabaret Metro and The Avalon Club.

The group fancies itself as staunch purveyors of the Euro-sound. Others along the same line would be English dance bands like DePeche Mode, Erasure and the

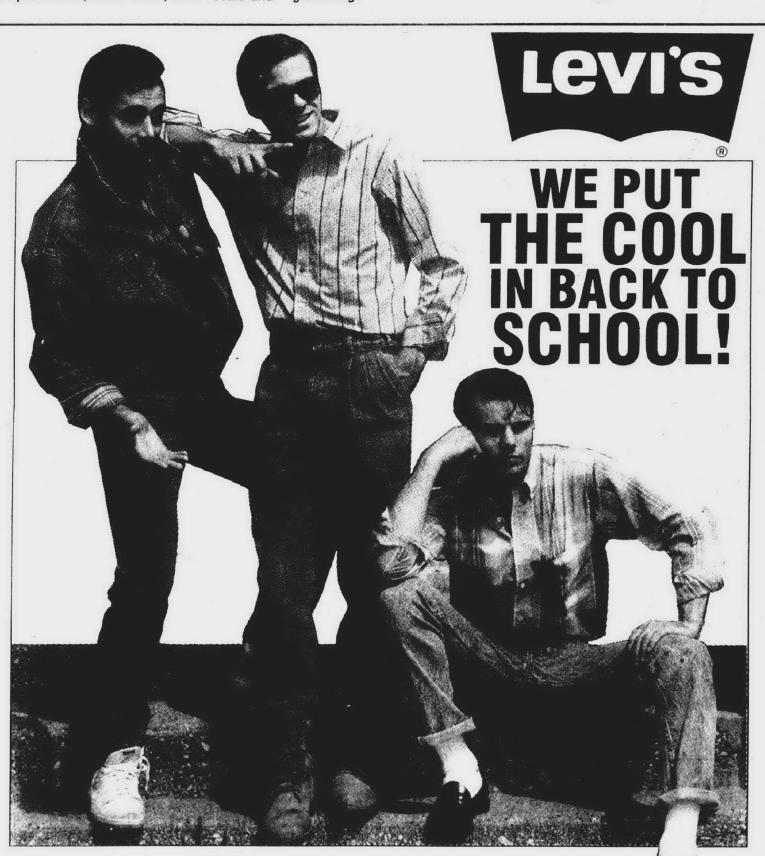

In the Detroit area, though, that type of music is seldom heard. Nuts and bolts rock and roll is the style

The Aristobrats look upon it as just another challenge. One problem for the group is finding places to play in this area. Aside from Saint Andrew's Hall, Taboo and Todd's, there are few dance clubs.

"It's sort of good in a way because there is nobody else doing this type of music." said Hughes, a graduate of Redford Catholic Central High School. "So you get a lot of attention. You do have a lot of people in Detroit who like the European sound, which no one is capitaliz-

What's all the fuss about? Siggi, drummer of the newly pegged next-big-thing Sugarcubes, doesn't sound too

Forget that his group has a lot at stake, playing before American audiences for the first time. Forget the wave of raves the Sugarcubes have received in the United Kingdom, including a No. 1 independent hit with Forget the Sex Pistols, who came to the U.S. with the same type of hype, only to die out by the time they hit Los Angeles. Forget that the Sugarcubes have had little radio airplay, except on college stations.

If the Sugarcubes fail to keep their current upward momentum in the states, well then so be it.

"There's no worry," said Siggi, whose group will perform Tuesday at Saint Andrew's Hall in Detroit. 'There's pressure, but we try not to think about it.

We're just here to play. 'I don't think it will make a big difference. Things will go well. But if they don't go down so well, we don't have any special expectations . . . We'll just go back to SPOKEN LIKE a true Icelandic, whose laid-back approach is a stark contrast to the cold, volcanic region where they hail from.

With or without mass acceptance in the United States, The Sugarcubes will survive. The band already is a success in England where the music weekly Melody Maker

Theirs is a contrast in sounds. "Life's Too Good," (Elektra) the Sugarcubes first album, captures the bold spirit of punk along with experimental futuristic technotion WORB-FM in Farmington Hills. "They're No. 2 on our play list. Everybody loves them.

'I helped push them in the beginning, but everybody started requesting them so it took care of itself."

The Sugarcubes have found that to be true wherever they play. Even Siggi is a bit taken aback by the group's instant success. "It's a nice accident so to speak," he said. "The band was never formed in the sense of becoming a big success and getting a major record deal. We were just amusing ourselves. That might be where the Sugarcubes' strength lies. Before the punk movement, the music scene in Iceland was dormant. There was only one government-operated radio station, which played very little pop music. Siggi remembers listening to American black music on Armed Forces Radio from a nearby NATO base.

ALL OF which later fueled the creative outburst of the punk movement.

"Punk took on its own phase in Iceland," Siggi said. 'Bands weren't really playing punk as such. The punk movement inspired people to do it and bands were springing up all over the place. That was very good.'

The latest music explosion is certainly welcomed. Siggi said the people of Iceland spend most of their time working during the week. Once the weekend hits, it's party time.

But of all the bands that have emerged, some are writing songs in English to impress the A&R folks abroad. The Sugarcubes haven't done that. All the group's songs are written in Icelandic and later translated into English.

Siggi said most of the songs will be performed in English on this tour. But some Icelandic lyrics will be tossed in for good measure, he added.

He said the Sugarcubes want to gain a little notoriety on this tour and "raise some mayhem." The sound of the band will continue to evolve.

"We haven't defined it yet," he said. "I hope we don't.'

The Sugarcubes will perform on Tuesday at Saint Andrew's Hall, 431 E. Congress, Detroit. For more information, call 961-6358.

REVIEWS

LOVELY — The Primitives

Way back in those heady days of the early 1980s, a new category of music was invented - power pop.

In the wake of punk rock's aggressiveness came bands who were undoubtedly influenced by punk but this definition. presented themselves with a clean and nicer image.

This agreeable face of punk was much more acceptable to the mass public, the mass media and the staid record industry moguls. The latter was happy that they could appeal to the new wave market while not upsetting the existing hierarchy. The definition of a power-pop song was catchy, guitar-based, short and fast (Does anybody remember "Turning Japanese" by The Vapors?).

The Primitives' debut LP, "Lovely" (RCA/BMG), readily abides by Keeping this in mind, along with the fact that they have a female lead vocalist, makes comparison with Blondie too obvious. This is an easy reference point for those who are unfamiliar with The Primitives. But lead vocalist, Tracey Tracey, is a lot more subtle and atmospheric than the gracious 45-year-old Ms. Harry. The album starts off on a strong note with the U.K. hit "Crash" an infectious slice of pop music which will have you singing the "naa-nanaa-na-na" chorus after a couple of listens. Actually, a number of their songs are liberally sprinkled with a variety of "Hey-ye-hey-hey's," and, of course, the ever popular "Sha-la-la-la's."

To be fair, though, "Crash," does have some excellent biting and unsentimental lines: "So shut, shut your mouth/Cos I'm not listening anyhow/I've had enough, enough of you/ enough to last a lifetime through."

Beyond this, the highlights include the catchy and driving "Nothing Left to Say," the moody Cocteau Twinsish "Ocean Blue" and the melodic
"Don't Want Anything to Change."
With only one dud, the strange curryflavored "Shadow" and a few bland non-entity songs, this makes for an entertaining introduction to The Primitives.

Of course, there are probably two chances of hearing it on the radio, around here - slim and none.

A European garden spider, a bull frog and koala bears are winners of sorts. Actually, they're the subjects of art works which won Cranbrook Institute of Science's Wildlife Art Awards for high school students.

Thirty-three pieces of art, including the three winning works, are on display at the institute through Aug.

After the exhibit closes at Cranbrook, it will begin a year-long tour of museums and cultural sites throughout Michigan.

The exhibition is open to the public and costs nothing beyond the regular museum charge of $3 for adults and $2 for children. For information, call 645-3230.

Vail and Beaver Creek are 10 miles apart on Interstate-70. Vail has been there for a quarter century and offers a busy village life - shops, restaurants, clubs, etc. Most of the activity seems to go on there in summer. There are good golf courses in both places.

Beaver Creek is newer, has an older and slightly more upscale population, and is considerably quieter. Gerald Ford and many other famous people have homes at Beaver Creek.

Beaver Creek also offers a fourbedroom log house, called Trapper's Cabin, high in the woods atop a mountain. It rents for $300 per person per night, with a four-person minimum, including gourmet meals.

T-shirts may replace ski clothes in summer, but there is still a lot of activity going on, and you will still notice the altitude here between the 8,000- and 10,000-foot level, so don't push yourself too hard.

HORSEBACK riding is popular. Try riding up the mountain with a group for lunch or dinner at Beano's in Beaver Creek.

Another new attraction at Beaver Creek is the Orvis Flyfishing School. Three-day clinics include sessions on equipment and casting as well as actual fly fishing in ponds and rivers. Fees are $460 without lodging, $536 per person with lodging at the Inn at Beaver Creek.

The newest and most popular sport in the area is mountain biking at Vail. Ride the gondola up and ride marked trails around the top of the mountain, or ride down the 7.5-mile gravel road for a 2,000-foot drop back into the town of Vail.

A NOTE ON THE WEATHER: Unlike Detroit, the weather is fairly predictable in Vail/Beaver Creek. You can't get up too early because it is usually clear and sunny during the first half of the day.

It storms nearly every day for a short time, starting about 2 p.m. The gondola at Vail and the lift at Beaver Creek are often forced to close briefly. It usually clears by late afternoon, and sunsets are wonderful.

GETTING THERE: Fly into Denver. I flew Continental, but United and Northwest also fly non-stop from Detroit to Denver. Other airlines have connecting flights, so check your travel agent. I flew Continental Express from Denver to Vail, but I'm not sure that's the best way. They have a bad reputation for losing luggage and the ride can be rocky. You can ride an airport van from Denver to Vail for $25 and get two hours of glorious viewing. (Call toll-free (800) 222-2112 for van information.)

PLAYTIME: If you are looking for fine dining, you'll find it at Alfredo's in the Westin Hotel, West Vail, or the Wildflower Inn in the Lodge at Vail. Blu's in Vail comes highly recommended. So does Mirabelle at Beaver Creek.

If you want to know about the best buys in any resort town, you ask the people who work there, and Vail is no exception. Most of them can't afford to eat or drink in either resort area, so they have discovered the nearby attractions.

They drive down U.S. 24 to the nearby town of Minturn, especially to The Saloon for margaritas and Mexican food, and the Minturn Country Club, where you cook your own seafood or steaks on an open grill. Chilli Willy's is also a hot spot.

There's a great little Mexican dive called The Reno a little further down U.S. 24 in Red Cliff. Redcliff is a beautiful 40-minute drive over Battle Mountains Pass, but take it easy on the beer because the mountain road home requires attentive driv-

Bridge Street in downtown Vail is bustling with tourists during the summer season. T-shirts and flowers replace ski clothes and snow and outdoor cafes are the in place as opposed to the fireplaces in the ski lodges.

The Gashouse in Edwards, one exit west of Beaver Creek on I-70, serves 50-cent beer, baby back ribs and good cheap steaks. If you want to drink closer to home, you'll find the locals in Rug's Pub or the Holein-the-Wall in Avon, at Drinkwater Park in the Village Hall at Beaver Creek (run, like everything around here, by a former ski bum.)

THE MUSIC hounds go to various places in the village at Vail. Pepi's Restaurant and Bar, very popular for lunch and dinner, is also one of the big hangouts when the musicians come out at night.

It is a little noisier behind the bar at Cyrano's, where a rock band plays to a loyal crowd ($3 cover). The "Friday Afternoon Club," known around here as the FAC, is also popular at Cyrano's.

You will find folk music across the street in The Club, described to me by a resort employee as "sort of a grungy bar to locals" and by another as a "place to let your hair down and get away from the tourists." You'll find the local dancers at the Bridge Street Shuffle.

Vandetti's and Hong Kong are also popular music bars, as are the Club Altitude in the Doubletree Hotel ("rowdy and lots of dancing") and Bogie's at the Marriott. The best piano bar in town is Mickey's at the Lodge at Vail.

For information about the area, call these toll free (800) numbers: Vail reservations, 525-3875; Beaver Creek reservations, 525-2257.

There may not be an ocean in sight, but that doesn't bother the folks in Vail. They still find a way to ride their surfboards in Gore Creek.

16th Street Mall: 'Heart and soul' of Denver

By Iris Sanderson Jones contributing travel editor

Q: We will have a three- or four-hour layover at the airport in Denver. Is it worth going into the city and what should we do.

Farmington Hills

A: Denver is one of those cities that you can explore in a few hours, so you should definitely plan to take either the bus or a taxi into the city. Go to the 16th Street Mall, where the most interesting part of the city seems to be contained within a single mile.

Free buses run up and down the mall, so you can loiter at one end or the other, depending on the time of day and your interests. At one end of the mall you will find the Colorado State Capitol, Colorado History Museum, Denver Art Museum and the U.S. Mint, all clustered around Civic Center Park.

At the other end is the historical district and a lot of restaurants, bars and shopping.

Eight years ago there were only three downtown buildings more than 20 stories high. Today the skyline is high with office buildings, many of them built with Canadian oil money. Oil is a magic word, but when the price drops it can devastate a city. Denver is second only to Houston as far as its depressed economy is concerned. That means that one in four offices are empty and the hotels, which seem to have very high rack rates, are eager enough to negotiate for your business.

IF YOU have a daytime layover and decide to do a little touring start with the state capitol. It's golden dome hovers above Civic Center Park. The 13th step leading up to the state house door is exactly one mile above sea level; that's why they call Denver the mile-call the Front Range from Pikes Peak to Wyoming. Everything in Denver seems to be either downtown or near the Front Range.

From the Capitol steps you can see what Coloradons

According to a local, foothills are from 7,000 to 10,000 feet, and then the Front Range rises above that. Once you break the Front Range, you are into about a dozen

If you don't have time for too much touring, see the Indian exhibit at the Denver Art Museum. It was the first museum to seriously collect Indian art. It doesn't have Indian pots, it has the "best" Indian pots.

The free 20-minute mint tour is popular, and they have a good gift shop. And the Denver Convention and Visitors Bureau is right there at Colfax and Bannock, near the park, so pick up a walking map and other information.

If you start walking northwest on the 16th Street Mall, you will be following the first grid of streets in Denver. They were laid out to give a full view of the mountains, but have messed up the map ever since.

Turn right at Tremont Street for the Museum of Western Art and to have a quick look at the historic Brown Palace Hotel, with its beautiful atrium. Stop for a drink

IF IT'S lunch time, you will find all the mall folk eating and drinking at Paramount Cafe, built into the lobby of an old movie house. If its late afternoon cocktail time, they'll be next door at Marlowe's, which Cosmopolitan Magazine named as one of the best 10 bars in the U.S.

If you are inclined to shop, or your layover is too late for touring, you might want to tackle the other end of the 16th Street Mall, where you will find Skylline Park, Tabor Center, Writers Square, Larimar Square, all full of food, drink and shopping.

You will also find the old restored Tivoli, a 19th century brewery converted to dining, film and fashion. You might also find something you like at the Denver Center for the Performing Arts.

Ways to expand dining areas

F YOU find your dining room is not geared to entertaining as many as you would like, consider using your foyer or entrance hall. Depending on the size of your entrance hall can be transformed into an attractive dining area.

A permanent circular skirted table with glass top can be the answer by adding chairs when needed. If you lack the space for that, a bridge table and chairs can be brought in when needed. Dining in the kitchen is intimate and a warm environment.

When you are creating a dining area within a room that serves another function, you should pay attention to the furniture you choose. You should not in any way compete or create an unharmonious feeling.

IF YOU HAVE a living-dining room combination, be certain that the dining pieces are of the same period. Although you can digress from that rule if you want to produce an eclectic look. An example would be a contemporary table with traditional chairs. Far East would be another period that would work well with the contemporary. Upholstery on your dining chairs should complement the fabric used in the Certain materials are perfect for limited space. Glass is a wonderful example because of its see through quality. Glass combined with metal or light work works well because the glass gives an open look and creates an airy feeling.

Always remember that materials with a shiny surface and those of neutral color will tend to recede and therefore appear to take up less space.

Self-discipline key to memory

Q. I was mortified last week when a policeman came to my door to ask why I had driven away from a service station without paying for gas. I wasn't even aware I had done it until he told me! How could I be so forgetful?

A. There are different types of memory. Some people have musical memory but can't retain numbers; some find learning foreign languages a snap but forget their children's names; others can quote sports statistics from years back but can't remember birthdays or anniversaries. Occasionally we all forget if we've taken our medicine, where we left our keys, or that we put the newspaper away in the refrigerator.

Those who concentrate easily find it difficult to understand how others can be so "scatterbrained". Those who have difficulty focusing, however, know it is the scourge of their life, and realize it's next to impossible to be organized when their thinking is so distracted.

The reason for forgetfulness is usually the same: Being engrossed in thoughts elsewhere instead of concentrating on the tasks at hand. It all boils down to the fact that we remember what we are most interested in.

What can be done? Practice self-discipline. Force yourself to abandon the luxury of dwelling on distant thoughts and confine your thinking, as much as possible, to the immediate. Learn to play checklist games with yourself to assure you've completed each task before allowing yourself to move on to the next. While this is not easy, with determination you can improve your plight. Most importantly, don't get "down on yourself" for being so forgetful. No doubt you are a talented person with an active mind who has higher thought levels than paying attention to seemingly inconsequential details. (As this incident points out, however, some details do have serious consequences.)

It is essential to recognize each of us has talents unique unto ourselves. Instead of feeling guilty, remind yourself you are capable of success in other unique areas.
P.S. Yes, the service station attendant had noticed this woman seemed consumed in thought and believed she made an honest

Barden Woods

Home builder Tobocman tries condos

Picture an exclusive condominium development nestled in an established, estate-like neighborhood in one of Michigan's most exclusive neighborhoods. Envision Barden Woods.

Designed by Birmingham architect Irving Tobocman, Barden Woods is tucked away in Bloomfield Hills, just a short distance from the Bloomfield Open Hunt Club, the Bloomfield Hills Country Club and Cranbrook Schools.

West of Woodward, east of Vaughan and south of Long Lake Road, Barden Woods was designed to appeal to professional couples or empty nesters who are looking for an uncomplicated lifestyle in one of Michigan's most prestigious communities. Barden Woods is surrounded by elegant, single-family residences on tree-lined streets.

THAT ONLY 17 units were built on the five-acre parcel reflects the exclusivity associated with Barden

The units are not mass produced or apartment-like, but have the same qualities many of Tobocman's clients look for when he designs a home exclusively for them.

"The only difference between these condominiums and a home is that the units are attached," Tobocman said. "We utilized the same detailing, space allocation and use of materials that we would in a home. We wanted to eliminate any association with an apartment or condomi-

We make a conscious effort not to do anything that is 'in' or trendy,' Tobocman said. "We do not practice 'fashion' architecture. We don't do mini skirts," he joked as he compared his business to the women's fashion industry.

The buildings Tobocman designed 25 years ago look as fresh and contemporary today as when they were

'Most people can't tell the difference between a building we designed today, and one we did 20 years ago,' Tobocman said. "That's a compliment. That's our goal when we design any development."

THOSE FAMILIAR with Tobocman's style will be pleasantly surprised at the traditional tone of the Barden Woods exterior.

The exterior strays from Tobocman's usual classic contemporary design, due to strict codes established by the Bloomfield Hills Planning Commission.

The commission was uncomfortable with the contemporary design Tobocman originally proposed for Barden Woods.

A compromise, consistent with the established neighborhood, was reached with a Georgian facade of red bricks, pillars, and shutters.

THE DEVELOPMENT features two floor plans - a one-story ranch or two-story townhouse ranging in size from 2,100 to 2,800 square feet Lawrence firm for particularly that and $289,000 to $379,000 in price. The ranch style homes are clustered four units to a building and share an entrance, lobby and elevator.

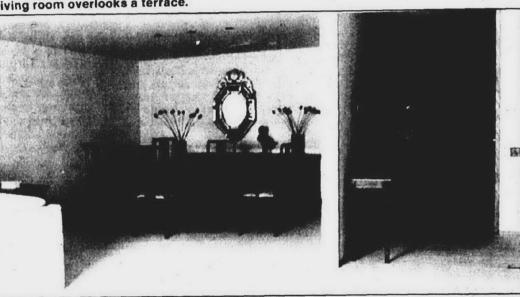

The townhouses are joined at the end of these clusters, and each has a front entrance of its own. Parking is underground with elevators to every floor.

Each unit has two bedrooms with classic contemporary residential a full bathroom attached, plus a and commercial environments since powder room. The townhouse has an upstairs den. The majority of units feature the "Tobocman Kitchen," a corridor-like space that opens into a breakfast area at one end.

Check energy-saving features in the home

a new construction or a resale, find out what energy-saving features it has and write them down, specifying the benefits of each, advises the Birmingham-Bloomfield Board of Realtors. One way to start is to check with your focal utility representative and, if it's a new home, the builder.

Reviewing some basic information about energy efficient features can help you ask the right questions and understand the answers you get.

The ability of a material to slow down or resist the transfer of heat is measured as its "R-value." Insulation is installed in floors, ceilings and walls. Fiberglass (blown or poured; in batting or blanket form), rock wool, cellulose and plastic foam are the materials most often used. The higher their R-value, the more resistance they have to heat transfer, making the home more energy

Normally, you can't see insulation, but you can do your homework by talking to the builder to find out if the home has good insulation. Find out if the attic has adequate insulation. Since heat rises, a well insulated attic could be a big money saver during the winter months.

TAKE A GOOD LOOK at the doors, windows and other openings to see whether they are sealed, caulked or weather-stripped. Some weather-tight homes have polyethylene vapor retarder on the heated sides of walls, ceilings and floors. Such features protect the home from uncomfortable drafts and dampness, making the heating/cooling system more efficient in any season.

Check the material of the doors-particularly at entrances to the house. Heat can escape when they are closed, not only around the edges but also through the door itself. The best doors for insulation are constructed of two strong metal sheets on the outside bonded around a core of urethane foam. Some doors are equipped with gaskets like a refrigerator door. When they are closed, the gasket seals against outside air.

Reviewing some basic information about energy efficient features can help you ask the right questions and understand the answers you get.

Glass, which conducts heat rapidly, is responsible for a great deal of heat transfer. Some houses have double- or triple-paned windows with wood frames or "thermal breaks" in the frames to prevent the heat loss that occurs with aluminum frames. Low-E windows are double-paned windows with special coating that reflect warmth back into the home. Or, conversely, low-E windows will reflect away from the home, reducing air conditioning costs.

IF A HOME HAS a central heating/cooling system, outside ducts that are sealed and wrapped with insulation will greatly contribute to its efficiency. Zonal heating is a great energy saver. Each room is equipped with its own wall or baseboard heater so that rooms may be heated individually, according to the occupants' needs. Another highly efficient system is the electric heat pump. Operating on the same principle as a refrigerator, heat pumps extract and pump warm air into the home during winter and reverse the process in

About 19 percent of a home's total energy consumption goes to heating water. Energy-efficient water heaters are well insulated and near usage areas. Even greater savings are realized with heat-pump water heaters or solar water-heating systems.

Check any appliances being sold with a home. Most of the large ones have energy-efficient ratings.

Ideas galore

Visitors at Homearama-Summer, now under way in West Bloomfield, can get ideas on two fronts - inside and outside of the 18 homes now open daily for viewing in Autumn Ridge subdivision, Orchard Lake at Walnut Lake Road. Above, the interior design of the living room of 4,000-square-foot French colonial Windsor model, by Rembrandt Construction. At the right, wrapped bamboo wall units from the Interlude Group of American Drew at Charles Furniture in Royal Oak complement the living-dining room area of the contemporary 3,400-square-foot Michael Anthony. Furniture in most of the homes will be for sale on Aug. 28, the closing day of the Homearama.

A FIRST PROPERTY COMMUNITY

"During my first week at Franklin Park Towers, I found my apartment spacious, the service excellent and ... my neighbor, Dave."

"It didn't take long to feel at home at Franklin Park. My apartment is bigger than most I had looked at, and the Southfield location is close to shopping, entertainment and major highways. After the boxes were unpacked and most everything put away, it was off to the fitness center ... that's where I met Dave!"
