Art supporters

A bunch of Good Joes and Janes, figuratively speaking, are on the Plymouth Township Board of Trustees.

They came through for the arts last week by agreeing to shell out up to $2,000 to transport senior citizens to a 1988-89 travelogue series sponsored by the Plymouth Kiwanis.

But that's not all. The township board also answered the call for financial help from the Plymouth Community Chorus to the tune of $35.

Run some

Tired of seeing all those healthy bodies running down the streets raising money for worthwhile organizations?

Do you want to get in on the act but find yourself cringing when looking at the skin-tight athletic wear now being sported by runners?

Well, toss away those fears and enter the 1988 Fun Run sponsored by Fred Hill Haberdashers.

So far, more than 50 people have paid their $25 entry fee to participate in the run, Thursday, Sept. 15, in downtown Plymouth. Money raised will go for the Plymouth Community United Way.

But this race is something different. No fast running is allowed. Anyone weighing less than 175 pounds must carry to offset their unfair advantage.

The winner will be chosen by raffle, regardless of position of finish.

Anyone interested in becoming an official sponsor can pay $25 for that honor. For more information, call 459-3733.

Van plan

Tuesday will be a real moving experience for Child and Family Services of Washtenaw.

The organization, which provides service to Plymouth and Canton residents through Plymouth Family Service and Plymouth Adult Day Care, will receive a courtesy van for senior citizen programs.

The van is being donated by Independence For Life, a private non-profit organization formed by Michigan National Bank.

The 15-passenger van, equipped with a wheelchair lift, will primarily be used to drive seniors to medical and health services.

"Providing seniors with reliable transportation to meet their special needs has been, until today, an unfulfilled goal," said Ann Harris, transportation supervisor of child and family services.

The official presentation is set for 10 a.m. Tuesday at the Plymouth Cultural Center, 525 Farmer.

Double duty

The Educational Excellence Foundation at the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools is a little richer.

Wakely Associates Inc., who has handled work at the new Hoben Elementary School and renovation work at Central Middle School, decided to put a little back into the school system. The company donated $1,000 for the foundation.

Read on

Residents looking for something to do the week of Aug. 21-27 should head to the library.

The Plymouth-Canton Community Schools has established that seven-day period as "Read Better Week." The week was declared to encourage those people unable to read to seek assistance in learning this necessary skill.

For more information about literacy, call 451-4545.

War memorial proposed for city

By Doug Funke
staff writer

A memorial to local soldiers killed in action during the Vietnam and Korean wars has been proposed for Plymouth.

A group of about a half dozen who live, work or belong to service clubs in the community wants to erect a 6-by-12-foot memorial in Kellogg Park.

City officials are studying the plan.

"It would have to go before the mayor and city commission for their approval," said Henry Graper, city manager.

The city apparently doesn't have a formal policy for placing monuments on public land, he added.

GRAPER SUGGESTED that a Vietnam/Korean memorial — if approved — would be better placed near the Plymouth Rock memorial nearby rather than in the main part of Kellogg Park.

The Plymouth Rock memorial commemorates soldiers killed in action during the Spanish-American War, Civil War, World War I and World War II.

A small group of people recently incorporated as the Plymouth Vietnam Veterans Association, a non-profit organization, to promote the memorial.

The process started to crystallize after a group of Vietnam veterans marched in the community's Fourth of July Parade, said John Pappas, a PVVA member.

After watching a movie about the national Vietnam memorial, Pappas, a Vietnam veteran, came downtown to see what kind of monument Plymouth had.

There was none, he discovered.

"WE SHOULD NEVER forget any soldier who ever fights and dies for this country," he said.

"Vietnam and Korea were police actions. I never want to see young people of this country ever go 10,000 miles to fight for anyone else's cause," he said.

For now, the PVVA is reluctant to talk about specifics of the memorial's design.

"There's nothing militaristic about it," Pappas said.

The PVVA so far has identified seven Plymouth residents who were killed in action during the Vietnam War.

They are James Patrick Eckles, James Thomas Fields, Richard Allen Larrick, Richard Loren Nowry, Hugh Henry Sarah, Harry Franklin Zalesny Jr. and Harry E. Baker Jr.

There may be others, Pappas concedes. No Korean War dead have been identified yet.

THE MONUMENT would cost about $6,000, said Cindy O'Day, another PVVA member.

Two major fund-raisers — a banquet with a nationally prominent guest speaker and a dance over Veterans Day weekend in November — have been discussed, she said.

"We're looking for private contributions, corporate contributions," O'Day said. "We'd like this to be from the people."

The PVVA hopes to dedicate a Vietnam memorial next Fourth of July, O'Day said.

The city commission isn't expected to take action on the memorial request before its Tuesday, Sept. 6, meeting.

Company may return offices to Plymouth

By Doug Funke
staff writer

An insurance company that left Plymouth Township for Livonia in 1981 has its sights set on a 60-acre parcel bounded by Haggerty, Five Mile Road, I-275 and M-14 in the township as its corporate headquarters of the future.

American Community Mutual Insurance Co. has an option to buy the property in the northeast corner of the township.

The offer hinges upon a rezoning of the land from residential to office — granted last week by the township board — and approval by the board of a planned unit development agreement.

A PUD allows a developer leeway in some building requirements in exchange for preserving environmental qualities unique to a site.

"AMERICAN COMMUNITY isn't willing to make a commitment that they're going to move in one year, three years or five years," said its architect, Frank Pierron of Lindhout Associates.

"They're going through an evaluation process now," Pierron said. "I think we'll know more after the first of the year."

That parcel, plus about 18 adjacent acres, is now owned by Top of Plymouth. Marcello Scappaticci, a prominent builder in Plymouth, is a principal in that co-partnership.

Scappaticci intends to build an office on the land he'll retain after selling to American Community, Pierron said.

American Community has about 500 employees housed in a 100,000-square-foot building next to Schoolcraft College at Haggerty and Seven Mile Road, Pierron said.

"IN ESSENCE this was a we-better-get-some-land-in-case-we-get-in-trouble thing," he said of American Community taking an option on the Plymouth property.

Pierron speculated that American Community would want a building on the order of 200,000 square feet. He projected development costs of such a structure at $12-15 million.

An office complex would with a market value of $12 million would generate more than $334,000 in property tax revenue in a year — assuming current tax rates.

James Anulewicz, township planning director, recommended in favor of the rezoning from residential to office.

More than 200,000 expected at festival

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

McGruff the friendly crime-fighting dog, accomplished Polish chefs, 15 community groups, 44 restaurants, dozens of artisans, merchants and entertainers, and 11,000 chickens are lined up to make the 33rd annual Plymouth Fall Festival a smash to remember.

Food, fun, games, arts and crafts, antiques and free entertainment will be featured in this year's fest, set for Thursday-Sunday, Sept. 8-11, in downtown Plymouth.

Paul Sincok, festival publicity manager and Plymouth's assistant to the city manager, is fired up about this year's extravaganza, expected to draw more than 200,000.

"IT'S AN event that draws people together in the true sense of community," Sincok said. "It's a good way to see a whole lot of people you don't see from year to year. And it's a good way to help the local non-profit organizations earn some financial backing."

For many of the participating civic groups, the non-profit Fall Festival is the major fund-raiser — in some cases the only fund-raiser — held each year, Sincok said.

"One of the new things this year will be the Knights of Columbus' coney dogs. That will be a new adventure," Sincok said.

"The Rotary chicken dinner barbecue is always a biggie. That's the thing that started the Fall Festival. We're certainly looking forward to that event."

The "Head Chicken" (chef) this year will be Doug Swatosh of Doug's Standard gas station, Sincok said.

"Chicken Sunday" is set for noon

What goes around comes around — students will start class Aug. 30

Summer's haze and steamy heat still may be with us, but have you noticed notebooks and backpacks, school shoes and clothes are arriving in area stores by the truckload?

If you're thinking the first day of school can't be too far off, you're right.

Tuesday, Aug. 30, marks the opening of school for Plymouth-Canton students in grades one through 12. It shouldn't be too painful. Students will attend for just a half-day (morning) session.

Teachers will be welcomed back Monday, Aug. 29. Kindergartners will make their academic debuts during morning and afternoon sessions Wednesday, Aug. 31 — the first full day of school for the rest of the student body.

SOMETIME THIS week, parents can expect to receive a newsletter in the mail detailing bus routes and other back-to-school information, said Richard Egli, community relations director for Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

To qualify for bus transportation, students in grades three through 12 must live more than a mile and a half away from school. Students in kindergarten through second grade must live more than one mile away from school to ride the bus.

Questions can be addressed to Ginie Murdoch, pupil accountant, 451-3137. Residents soon will be mailed a catalog describing this year's community education classes, added Egli.

SCHOOL HOURS vary from building to building.

At Allen, classes will be in session from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Bird's hours will be from 8:45 a.m. to 3:15 p.m.

Young class takes it to art

By Julie Brown
staff writer

Catherine Graves wouldn't mind taking the word "talent" out of the dictionary and replacing it with "interest."

Graves, an art instructor, isn't big on the concept of people being born with an abundance of artistic talent. She believes people are born with potential for developing abilities in different areas.

Labels of talented or not-so-talented can end up doing children more harm than good.

"It in some ways restricts them," said Graves, a Canton resident. Children should be freer to experience what they're truly interested in, she said.

Graves is the instructor for a watercolor workshop, offered this summer by the Plymouth Community Arts Council. The class, for students ages 7 to 10, met Monday through Friday last week.

"With watercolor, there's so much technique to learn that I can teach them something new every day," Graves likes to teach enough technique so that children can paint comfortably on their own "and not struggle with the medium."

WATERCOLOR CAN be a tightly controlled medium, and can also be used expressively, she said. In her classes, Graves encourages expressive use of the medium.

Students in last week's class learned a variety of watercolor techniques. Those techniques can include wax relief, stenciling and masking off areas with such materials as tape or rubber cement.

Another technique, wet-into-wet, involves saturating the paper so that the paint permeates the surface.

"Children especially like that."

Last week's class included 12 students. Class size is limited, Graves said, so that each student can receive individual attention.

"I love this age group, 7 to 10." She's found students that age are open to new ideas in art classes.

"They get excited when they do it well." Children in art classes aren't as inhibited as adults are.

"So they're especially good candidates for learning a medium like this."

The Plymouth Community Arts Council offered another watercolor class for children earlier this summer. Graves also taught that class; it proved to be popular, so an additional class was planned.

"We had a really good response to the first one," Graves said. "That's very meaningful."

LAST WEEK'S class included all new students, rather than those who had taken the earlier class. Among those enjoying the class were Brandon and Trevor Anulewicz, 8-year-old twins from Plymouth.

"I like it. It's real fun," Brandon said of the class. His brother agreed.

"I enjoy going out places where we can paint different things," Trevor said.

During the Wednesday, Aug. 10, class session, Brandon, Trevor and the other students were painting at Tonquish Creek. Trevor was working on a painting of trees.

The boys were learning lots of things in the class, "so we can paint better," Trevor said. "It's fun."

The twins are also taking another art class this summer; in that class, they work on drawing.

"We really like art a lot," Brandon said.

Graves, instructor for the PCAC's watercolor workshop, was amazed at what the students were able to come up with.

"And they're all interested. They're all here because they're interested."

In her classes, she's not all that concerned about turning students into Picassos or Rembrandts.

"That's entirely up to them," said Graves, who is a graduate student in fine arts at Michigan State University.

She's working on a master of fine arts degree in painting and a master of arts degree in art history at MSU.

It's important for kids to have structure, she said, but it's also important for parents to listen to their children. Parents need to help children become active in areas they're interested in.

Graves and her husband have two children, ages 13 and 15.

"They're not especially interested in art." Their daughter is interested in theater, dance and drama. Their son is interested in mechanical-type things, such as getting engines to work.

"So they have their own areas of interest. I never really tried to push art on them."

PTPOA to seek donations

A telemarketing firm representing the Plymouth Township Police Officers Association will solicit contributions from businesses in the township today through Sept. 2.

Money initially collected will be used to produce a crime prevention booklet, said Bob Smith, secretary/treasurer of the PTPOA.

Funds solicited by Telco will go for causes determined by the police union and not for general police operations, said Chief Carl Berry.

"I don't want people to think the police department itself is out there soliciting funds," Berry said. "Whether they donate to the group or not, there will not be an increase or decrease in service either way."

People with questions or complaints may contact Berry, 453-3869.

carrier of the month Plymouth

Jeff Stoddard, a Central Middle School student, has been selected as the Carrier of the Month by the Plymouth Observer.

The eighth grade student enjoys math and shop while in school. Baseball card collecting tops Stoddard's list of hobbies. He is the son of Russ and Kathy Stoddard and has a brother, Brad.

A newspaper route allows Jeff to meet a variety of people and to talk with them. A route also has taught him to be more responsible in handling money.

One year later, Flight 255 claims drag on

It may be another full year before the survivors of Flight 255 victims settle claims against Northwest Airlines and the plane's manufacturer.

"The question is the percentage of fault between McDonnell Douglas (manufacturer) and Northwest," said Richard F. Schaden, an attorney for the estates of several victims.

Schaden, of the Birmingham firm of Schaden, Heldman, Lampert, Katzman and Tiecher, said Northwest points to structural failure, but the manufacturer blames pilot error in failing to extend the wing flaps, causing the crash on Sunday, Aug. 16, 1987, which claimed 156 lives.

"In a multi-district litigation like this, the (U.S.) Court of Appeals appoints a five-man committee to consolidate it," said the Birmingham attorney, who is part of the panel along with lawyers from Washington, Denver and Phoenix. He was reached last week in his firm's Denver office.

A TRIAL is set for next summer before U.S. District Judge Julian

Cook in Detroit.

"In a case like this, two years is not out of the ballpark (for settlement)," Schaden said.

Some six of the 154 claims have been settled, he said.

"None of mine are settled," he said.

The airlines declined to reveal terms of the settled claims.

Schaden pointed to a Rand Corp. study which showed that for a salary-earning male the average award is some $400,000-plus, while for a non-salary-earning woman it is some $200,000-plus.

"That's old data. The numbers are higher today," he said, pointing to one $7 million award in the Dallas airport crash of several years ago.

A PUBLIC vigil will be held starting at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday, the first anniversary, almost to the minute, of the second-worst crash in U.S. history and the worst in Michigan history.

The vigil will be held on the embankment of Middlebelt Road under the I-94 freeway where the jetliner came down. Northbound Middlebelt will be closed at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday to accommodate the service.

Participants should tie a red cloth or red ribbon on the driver's side mirror as a sign to parking attendants.

Parking will be available in the Budget Rent-A-Car lot on Merriman Road near the airport.

SOME SURVIVORS have adjusted, but Schaden said, "The Surowitzes are having a terrible time."

Joanne Surowitz, then 18, was to start at Michigan State University in fall 1987. When the crash occurred, the West Bloomfield High graduate was on her way to the West Coast to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Surowitz, who had moved there.

Families who lost a breadwinner are have a "pretty gruesome time," Schaden said.

While survivors of some victims are willing to discuss their difficulties, others are not.

An upset father of another area victim said, "I don't want to discuss it. It's very difficult. Your call is ill-advised. Newspapers are better served by not making such a call."

BESIDES THE Surowitz case, Schaden is handling the cases of:

• Kenneth Bell, 28, of Canton Township. A General Motors employee, he was on his way to a testing facility in Mesa, Ariz.

• The Briggs family of Scottsdale, Ariz. — Don, 43, his wife, Sharon, 42, and children, Matthew, 13, and Megan, 8. Mr. Briggs was a GM employee who formerly worked in Warren. Mrs. Briggs has a mother in Southfield. They had vacationed at Walloon Lake.

Other victims who were residents or former residents of the area were:

• Eric Mazade, of Grosse Pointe Park, who spent 23 of his 24 years in Franklin Village and whose parents are now in Florida.

• The Thorell family of Glendale, Ariz. — Larry, 33, his wife, Laura, 28, and daughter, Krista, 1. Larry Thorell was from Troy and worked on flight controls for a commercial airline. Laura Thorell had just attended a 10-year Rochester Adams High reunion.

• Stuart Stoner, 31, free-lance marketing consultant from Bloomfield Township.

• Lawrence Sills, 33, family doctor from Scottsdale, Ariz., on his way back to his family after working in a northern Michigan summer camp. He was raised in Franklin, and family members live in the area.

• Robert W. Gaines, 70, retired engineer from Rochester Hills, on his way to Phoenix to visit a friend with whom he had worked at Ford Motor Co.

• Harry Brown, 51, Canton Township resident for 10 years. He was on a business trip and had just visited his injured daughter in a hospital.

• Carol Cohen, 25, formerly of Canton, working in Phoenix and engaged to basketball star Nick Vanos, 24.

• Wayne Mickelson, 43, of Scottsdale, Ariz., and one son, Daniel, 18. The senior Mickelson grew up in Rochester Hills and moved to Arizona some five years earlier. They were returning after a fishing trip to East Jordan.

Drive-ins fade away

IT WAS sheer luck — and lots of warm weather — that encouraged a trip to the drive-in movies this summer.

We didn't pick one of several northern Oakland County theaters, such as the Waterford, Miracle Mile in Bloomfield Township or the Comstock in Farmington Hills. Instead, we went to the now-defunct Grand River Drive-In at the corner of Grand River and M-102 in Farmington Hills.

Like many people, we hadn't been to a drive-in theater in years, and found it wasn't much less expensive than going to an indoor theater. There were obvious regulars, from groups of noisy adolescents who needed a weekly meeting place, to family movie-goers who were having "tailgate" parties with barbecues and the works.

There's something about a drive-in theater that's more comfortable. It lets you slouch in your seat a little, eat what you please, talk without disturbing anyone else, and simply be yourself. Just about all ages and types of people like the movies, too.

WE DIDN'T know it then, and never would have guessed that this summer would be our last trip to the Grand River Drive-In. All three screens drew a good crowd, which, you can bet, came from throughout the Detroit area. It was one of the few drive-ins left.

The big screens of the Grand River were torn down two weeks ago, to make way for a shopping mall that will, most likely, bring larger profits and even better traffic. Owner Tom Goldberg said his father began operating the Farmington-area drive-in in 1947, when drive-ins peaked in popularity. The retail developer for the 33 acres in Farmington Hills also demolished the Gratiot in Roseville and the Bel Air in Detroit for similar ventures in recent years.

I have no quarrel with building new shopping centers. But with the demolition of the Grand River Drive-In, an era has truly passed in the Farmington area.

FOR SOME, it leaves memories of adolescent dates or carloads of friends who could always head for the drive-in when they needed "somewhere to go." It harkens back to the days of drive-in restaurants — which are also disappearing.

For neighbors, perhaps the weekly caravan of cars trooping in and out of the bumpy, narrow drive after dark was a nuisance. But for others, that may have been a regular, comfortable sound.

That will now be replaced with a more steady, daily traffic flow, as the flavor of the neighborhood changes.

Apparently, the peak era of the drive-ins is long gone. But I wonder about the people who regularly spent their Saturdays enjoying the outdoor movies.

It's time the teens found a new hangout, and, I guess, the Grand River Drive-In "tailgaters" will just have to look for a football game.

Prize is a cleaner earth

To the editor:

Paper drives were big stuff when I was growing up. Twice a year kids in each class competed to see who could bring in the most newspapers. I no longer remember what our fourth grade class got for winning one year, but I do remember the delicious thrill we had knowing that we beat out the big guys — the seventh graders. Recycling was a word I never encountered. All I knew was that my school community was collecting papers and my responsibility was to participate.

I'm participating once again. Twice a month or so we take bundled newspapers, aluminum cans, glass and plastic bottles to the recycling center on Eton Street. I'm not a marcher or a protestor; I vote but I don't campaign. But seeing all the garbage we put out week after week finally got to me. I had to do a small part in keeping the earth clean.

I told a few people about my efforts. "Yeah, that's great," they commented. "But where do you keep the stuff before you haul it in?" Yes. Where do you keep it indeed? If we faces, a placid expression of pseudo-tranquility that denotes brains of aspic. When this child conjures up a scream from Hell and others turn to glare in its direction, these parents smile, weakly, as if to say: "Ahhhhh. Babykins is expressing him(hers)self. Expression is one of our most human qualities here on Spaceship Earth and we all should join hands, close our eyes, feel the energy and share the experience. Isn't Babykins precious?"

No. Babykins in an annoyance. And it leaves those staring at Babykins with the distinct impression that The Parents didn't want to be alone in their misery, so they trundled junior or junorette out to irritate the rest of us.

Children wait for a variety of reasons. Parents who try to teach their children good manners are to be commended for trying, let alone succeeding. These are the parents you rarely see, because if their children start screaming at movie theaters, they'll take the child out to the lobby until the child calms down.

They'll take the child out of the restaurant until he or she calms down, instead of becoming a spectacle and ruining everyone else's meal.

They'll try to calm a child by reading him or her a story in a doctor's office, instead of pretending they can't hear that glass-shattering whine.

Philip Sherman

Am I getting through?

These children, who have harnessed the scream from Hell, usually grow up to be ill-mannered, florid adults devoid of courtesy. You've seen them, too.

We sat one row away from one such adult when Cats played the Fisher Theater. He had one of those nice, wet, rolling, sticky tuberculous coughs that wouldn't stop. And he didn't move throughout the performance. We thought we were sitting in the Robitussin Test Section, Placebo Division.

So, parents, particularly the two who let their child scream like a banshee for two hours Sunday at the Hillside, cut it out.

No one is amused. In case you didn't notice, there was a table of four a few feet away from you; next to us, as a matter of fact. They had two young children with them. These children were being children, but they were quiet and well-behaved. They were a pleasure.

It can be done.

pressed into service, we will continue our trips to Eton. My 4-year-old holds his finger on the twine while I knot the papers into bundles. Last week he finished a bottle of juice from a deli and said, "Here Mom, let's save this for the recycling center."

Every trip we make means a cleaner earth for him and his offspring. Perhaps his generation will, by dint of necessity, invent that recycling truck. Our grade school prize for the most recycled newspapers might have been an ice cream or a night without homework. Today the stakes are higher. The prize is now our very earth.

Sen. Geake's volunteering is appreciated

To the editor:

We were very pleased to see the positive recognition accorded Sen. Robert Geake of Northville in Tim Richard's recent column (Meetings Dog the Path of Weary Legislators, July 7, 1988). Not only a hard working legislator committed to public service in his many roles in Lansing, we also know him to be a devoted community service volunteer.

In his "spare time," the Senator is a well-known and familiar face as a volunteer Board Member at Youth Living Centers, Inc., where he spends many hours each month working to provide direly needed services to youth and families of our community. Over the several years that we have known him, Bob Geake has always been a strong advocate for children's and family services and a dear friend to the mentally ill in both Lansing as a legislator and as a citizen in the community.

Sen. Geake well deserves the recognition of your newspaper, and we would do well to recognize more the hard work of our legislators both on and off the job on a regular basis. Bob Geake is one of many in public service jobs committed to efficient government as well as community service and volunteerism. We are

McNamara seeks control of county jail

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Wayne County's ongoing jail controversy enters a new phase this week with county Executive Edward McNamara expected to go to court today to take control of the jail.

For McNamara and his aides, the move is another step in a long-running process consolidating county functions under the executive branch.

For Sheriff Robert Ficano, however, the move is a "power grab" that violates state statutes and the county charter — both of which give jail running authority to sheriffs.

McNAMARA IS expected to file a motion seeking control this week before chief Wayne County Circuit Judge Richard Kaufman. Kaufman is another principal player in the jail controversy, having ordered the county to add more jail space under a 1971 inmate lawsuit.

McNamara will file the motion for control as part of that lawsuit. In it, he will allege the executive's office can do a better job of running the jail than the sheriff's branch.

The motion will be filed "because conditions at the jail haven't improved" and because of sheriff's department cost overruns, specifically involving overtime payments to jail guard, deputy county executive Michael Duggan said.

"We had a jail monitor looking into the 1971 lawsuit and his report found conditions in the jail were similar to those that existed 17 years ago — you still had prisoners sleeping on the floor," Duggan said.

"Plus, there's the issue of cost overruns. The difference is we were spending $3.7 million for jails in 1971. We're spending $35 million now."

FICANO, HOWEVER, said his hands have been tied by tight budgeting instituted by the McNamara Administration to relieve the county's massive debt.

"It's like a baseball game when you only put six or seven players on the field instead of nine," Ficano said. "We're understaffed and yet they complain."

McNamara's action comes just two weeks after county voters approved a new 1-mill tax to expand the county jail and youth home, as well as to build a new jail.

It will be up to Kaufman to decide which man is right.

CONTROL OVER the current jail isn't the only issue at stake. Supervision over jail expansion projects, as well as the future of McNamara's proposed county corrections department could also be decided.

Going to court, Duggan said, was the swiftest action that could be taken.

"We could have gone to the state Legislature for changes, but this is an election year," he said. "If pressure was brought to bear by the sheriff, it could take two or more years to resolve the issue and we can't wait that long."

FICANO, HOWEVER, said he believed legislators were cool to the proposal.

"I think they've tried it and been rebuffed," he said.

Ficano apparently found an ally in county commission chairman Arthur Carter, D-Detroit.

"Our system of checks and balances is being usurped by an overly ambitious executive staff," Carter said Thursday. "This is nothing more than an ill-advised power grab by the executive office staff and as chairman I will take whatever action may be necessary to prevent it from happening."

IT WAS unfair to blame the jail's problems on Ficano, the president of the deputies' union said.

"To simply blame this on the sheriff isn't right," AFSCME Local 502 president Don Cox said. "When it comes to the budget, Bob Ficano is nothing more than a lobbyist. He can't do anything until the commission and executive give him the money."

Jail guards are apprehensive about the proposed changes, Cox said.

"We've had some private assurances, but we'd like to see Ed McNamara stand up in court and say there will be no changes in our collective bargaining agreement," Cox said. "I want to be able to go back to my people and tell them there won't be any change in their career path. If not, we'll fight."

During the tax increase campaign,

McNamara said his department should supervise design and construction details. Ficano, however, said those duties properly belong to the sheriff.

Likewise, McNamara has proposed changing state law, if necessary, to place the jails under control of an executive-appointed corrections director rather than the elected sheriff. McNamara has argued Wayne County's jail system is as large as several state prison systems — generally administered by a governor-appointed corrections director.

IN PART, the problem stems from changes wrought by the county's 1980 charter.

That document created the county executive's branch. Previously, executive functions had been shared by a number of elected officials and boards.

Tickets for the Michigan Lottery's "Lotto" game went on sale August 14, 1984, with the first drawing conducted on August 25. The following talks about the evolution of the game during its first four years.

Q: How does the current Super Lotto game differ from the original Lotto game?

A: Players in the current game are challenged to match six, five or four numbers from a field of 44. In the original game, the field was comprised of 40 numbers.

Q: Why was the change made?

A: At one point, Lotto and Super Lotto were offered at the same time, but with different Jackpots. Besides confusion between the two games, Super Lotto consistently out-did Lotto, indicating a clear player preference for the Super Lotto game.

Q: How is the Super Lotto Jackpot determined?

A: Like other parimutuel games, Super Lotto prize pools are based on the amount played for each drawing. The 25 cents of every sales dollar assigned to the Jackpot prize pool forms an investment in which all the principal and interest combine to pay winners a much larger total over a 20-year period. Players who match five of the winning numbers share the second prize pools comprised of 8 cents of each dollar spent on tickets. The third prize pool, shared by all who match four numbers, is paid from 13 cents of each dollar.

Q: Is there a minimum Jackpot prize in the game?

A: Super Lotto has a minimum Jackpot of $1.5 million compared to $1 million in the original game. A "rollover" when no one matches all six winning numbers — keeps the Jackpot growing until it is won.

Q: What have been the average Super Lotto Jackpot shares?

A: Through late July, 1988, the average Super Lotto Jackpot share was over $3.9 million.

Q: What was the largest Super Lotto Jackpot?

A: On January 20, 1988, a Jackpot of nearly $29 million was hit by five players, with each receiving nearly $5.8 million.

Q: What have been the average second and third prize shares in the Super Lotto game?

A: As of late July, 1988, the average Second Prize share was $2,515, while the average Third Prize share was about $90.

Larry Janes' neighbors on Lathers Street in Livonia show off the dishes they brought to the annual block party recently. There were family casseroles, zucchini muffins, fruit salads, taco salads, meatballs and Kentucky butter cake. The party, originally scheduled for a few hours, lasted into the evening.

Perfect recipe for a summer day

By Larry Janes
staff writer

THE RECIPE was simple. Start with a mixture of cheerful neighbors and 2 dozen kids. Mix in plates of appetizers, bowls of salads, a combination of casseroles and hordes of desserts.

Pour in a couple of kegs of beer, wine, soft drinks and about 5 gallons of lemonade. Top it all off with a gorgeous Sunday afternoon and evening and what do you get? The Lathers Street Block Party.

And a party it was. Block parties were invented a long time ago, way back when neighbors had to hitch up the horses to the buggy and journey down a dirt road to help raise a barn, hoist a beam or celebrate a harvest. Today, block parties are becoming the fashionable way to meet new neighbors and rekindle friendships, many of which have endured two, three and four decades.

This year's Lathers Street Block Party in Livonia was no different. Big Wheels, trikes and bikes replaced the horses. Patio umbrellas and picnic tables were scattered about, each brimming with old and young at heart.

FOLKS YOUNG AND old tried their skills at old-fashioned games like sack races and water-balloon tosses. Youngsters were rewarded with small gifts of bubbles, stickers and coloring books. Those a bit older were rewarded with tales of who was the first to build on the block, sprinkled with memories of how it used to be way back when the Ira Wilson dairy farm still encompassed what is now the Wilson Acres Subdivision — long before rows of neatly groomed and well-built three-bedroom brick ranches filled the area.

The block party was originally scheduled to last a few hours, but residents stayed well into the night, enjoying a great summer's eve under the stars. This special party even found the neighbors welcoming back old friends and neighbors who had recently moved away. As I walked from group to group, I could overhear memories of when and how the first oak trees, now towering over the homes, were planted and nursed into the mammoths of today.

Ah, but the common bond that seemed to bring young and old together — as it has in the past and still does — was the endless array of great food that filled the tabletops. Trays of hot Spanakopita (spinach phyllo appetizers) and bowls of munchies were passed. The beer flowed about as fast as the appetizers.

After the kids worked up a hearty appetite, hot dogs were thrown on the grill, and just before the dinner bell rang, everyone raised plates of goodies and cups of cheer for the annual group mugshot. A series of pictures was taken (to ensure that hopefully no one had their eyes closed). Then a flurry of activity took place as each participant removed the foil or plastic wrap that covered their homemade treasures.

When all the kids were fed, the adults sat down. Between mouthfuls, you could hear nothing but raves about, "Who made the manicotti?" and, "How can I get a recipe for the poppy seed bread?" Plates were brimming with the family casseroles, zucchini muffins, fruit salads, taco salads, meatballs and Kentucky butter cake. Needless to say, no one needed to be coaxed to return for seconds.

Larry Janes, with help from Christopher Don, 4 (left), and Jeffrey Janes, 2, starts grilling hot dogs on the big kettle barbecue. Children and grownups alike enjoyed getting together with their neighbors as well as some friends who used to live on the block.

Spinach pie whets partytime appetites

WIL AND PATTY KREITMEYER'S
SPANAKOPITA PHYLLO
APPETIZERS

2 bunches green onions (whites only) chopped
3 cloves garlic
3 (10-ounce) packages frozen spinach, defrosted
½ cup lemon juice
tops of the green onions chopped

3 eggs
16 ounces ricotta cheese
8 ounces feta cheese, crumbled
2 teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons paprika
1 pound phyllo dough (cut into strips)

Place a small amount of oil in a skillet and saute the whites of the green onions with the garlic till soft.

AFTER EVERYONE settled down, plates of homemade "turtles" and Hello Dolly Bars were proudly displayed (even though Diane and Frank dropped a few), and the kids were treated with a visit from the Penguin Ice Cream lady. (I'm sure we helped make her quota for the evening.)

After an occasional belch and loosening of a belt buckle, it was time for the adults to try their skill at the water balloon toss and sack races. Those who lost the water balloon toss were grateful for the cool dousing as the sun began to set and four more cases of beer were brought out for the adults — all this while the kids listened to stories and played lawn games.

After a fun afternoon of food and frolic, those with little kids rounded up their Big Wheels and bikes and were observed stopping off for a quick nightcap at other homes down the block. Those who stuck around continued to party hearty, occasionally breaking the ranks to pick up some trash or stow a few empties.

By the time the evening ended, there was nary a piece of trash to be found. What was left over was a box-ful of potholders and Tupperware lids, some still waiting to be claimed as this article goes to press. Even more important, however, than the leftover lids and empty kegs was the feeling of camaraderie and friendship.

Yours truly went out the next morning to survey the yard before a welcome sprinkling of rain, and the feeling of warmth and enjoyment by all who attended was still prevalent. The barbecue has been long since been put away, the lawn chairs folded and stashed neatly in the garage, but the cheerful waves from newfound neighbors and smiles from friends on the block can still be felt. And they will be felt for a long time to come.

SO WHEN WAS was the last time you gathered with your friends and neighbors for a little fun and reminiscing?

There's still a lot of summer left, you have nothing to lose and many friendships to gain. "What would I bring?" you ask. Here's a smattering of recipes supplied by the folks on Lathers street. All the recipes have been tested and approved by the hearty partiers on Lathers.

He's not beefing about tender steak

Not being a big fancier of beef, I can count on one hand the number of times I've eaten steak in the last year.

Now bear in mind, I'm no Cybill Shepherd so when I was invited to lunch last week at MacKinnon's of Northville to try a few steaks and meet cattle rancher Mel Coleman, the founder and president of Coleman's Natural Beef, I accepted with eyebrows raised, ready to publicly announce that I could not noticeably discern Coleman's Natural Beef from regular beef. (Remember Shepherd's role tout-ing beef, and then a magazine announcing that she never eats the stuff?)

As they say down on the ranch, "Boy, was I wrong on that one!" So in walks Mel Coleman, fresh from a stint on the J.P. McCarthy show, praising his natural beef, followed by a marketing rep from Allied Provision, the sole wholesale supplier of Coleman's beef to this area. Mel was decked out in typical (?) cattleman's duds, complete with a 10-gallon hat, western-cut shirt with the Coleman brand, Levi dress slacks and cowboy boots.

OTHER DINERS, with their initial looks and glances, may have taste buds

chef Larry

been wondering if Coleman left his horse hitched to the big clock in the center of downtown Northville. I received a handshake that would have brought Mike Tyson to his knees, definite proof of his fourth-generation cattle-ranching background.

Seems that Coleman has been cattle ranching on "just a little backyard ranch of 250,000 acres" 31 miles east of the Continental Divide in a little town called Saguache, Colo., all his life, just like his pappy did and his grandpappy before him.

Coleman can be credited by cattle industry executives and food retailers with starting an important trend in cattle production that will definitely restore consumers' confidence in beef as a healthy food. Seems that Coleman, back in 1978, started what is today the nation's largest production of meat raised without drugs, hormones, antibiotics, growth stimulants or other chemical substances.

As Coleman says himself, "diddy squat is added to the cattle before butchering."

"Alright, Mel, tell me honestly," I said, while downing my salad and anticipating just another broiled steak, "What do you do when your cattle get sick and they have to be treated?"

"We seclude 'em, treat 'em and sell them to other ranchers" was his reply. "Our families didn't believe much in medicine, our mother said she'd rather pay the grocer than the doctor. We were the same with the cattle."

JUST THEN, the waitress brought us our steaks. I thought it real interesting that Coleman opted for a club sandwich while the

Barbecue meals can be different

I know, it seems like summer just started. But don't concede the balance of the season just because August has arrived. We still have one-third of the summer left to enjoy.

Let's continue to use the suitcase of energy we packed on the first of June and leave the end-of-summer blahs in the attic.

One of my favorite things to do in August is have friends and relatives over for a good old-fashioned barbecue.

I like to serve meals which really show off what variety there is for barbecues. Hamburgers and chicken are great on a grill and make a wonderful meal, but it is more fun to be different. And different does not mean expensive or difficult.

THERE ARE no limits to the items you can barbecue. Have you tried corn on the cob? Leave the corn in the husk, but remove the silk, and soak in ice water for 20 or 30 minutes. The soaking moistens the husk so it won't burn. Barbecue on all sides until the husk is brown, and serve. The corn is crispy and wonderful.

Also, any vegetables can be barbecued and come out tasting superb. Experiment — try zucchini, peppers, tomatoes, potatoes — picked right from the garden or from the produce department. The possibilities are endless.

For entrees try a turkey cutlet or any type of fish. Salmon, tuna and halibut are fantastic grilled and the flavor is outstanding. Fish that is filleted can also be barbecued by wrapping it in foil and placing it on the grill.

TURKEY CUTLETS WITH SAUCY ONION RELISH
1 tablespoon plus 1 teaspoon olive oil
1 cup chopped onion
2 tablespoons reduced-calorie apricot preserves (16 calories per tablespoon)
2 tablespoons barbecue sauce
1 teaspoon cider vinegar
2 tablespoons thawed frozen orange juice concentrate
1/4 teaspoon freshly ground pepper
4 (5-ounce) turkey cutlets 1/4 inch thick

Salmon, tuna and halibut are fantastic grilled and the flavor is outstanding.

Preheat barbecue. To prepare relish, in small saucepan, over medium heat, heat 2 teaspoons olive oil. Add onion; cover and cook until very soft, about 10 minutes. Stir in preserves, barbecue sauce and vinegar. Remove from heat, cover and keep warm. When fire is medium-hot, in small cup, with pastry brush, blend orange juice concentrate, pepper and remaining oil. Brush half of mixture evenly over one side of turkey cutlets. Place turkey on grill, brushed side down. Brush remaining mixture evenly on top of turkey. Grill 3-4 minutes on each side, or just until browned and cooked through. Serve each cutlet with 1/4 of the warm onion relish.

GRILLED TOMATOES PROVENCALE

2 medium-sized ripe tomatoes
1 tablespoon minced fresh parsley
2 teaspoons olive oil
1 garlic clove, minced
1 teaspoon minced fresh oregano or 1/4 teaspoon dried

Preheat barbecue. Spray a 9-inch square metal baking pan with non-stick cooking spray. Cut each tomato in half crosswise. Squeeze halves slightly, remove some of the seeds. In small food processor, or with mortar and pestle, crush remaining ingredients. With small spatula, spread 1/4 of the mixture evenly over each tomato, pressing mixture down into tomato. Place tomatoes in prepared pan, cut side up. When fire is medium-hot, grill tomatoes 12 minutes or until hot. Makes 4 servings.

rest of us had a platter of unadorned beef, no sauce to accentuate the taste, set down before us. This was no plain old beef. It wasn't even certified Black Angus. What it was was great. Literally fork tender, with no gristle.

It looked like a steak, was colored like a steak (no artificial colors here) but most of all tasted like a juicy cut of prime aged beef with a more mellow flavor. Not that good steaks taste artificial, but these steaks had a unique, subtle flavor all their own.

So I asked the gentleman rancher, since he has been doing this for the last 10 years, what took so long? He responded that since his "little ranch" (a mere 250,000 acres) can handle only about 10,000 head of cattle, he first introduced his brand of natural beef slowly, so as not to completely deplete his herd. He started marketing it on the West Coast and only last month granted the first wholesale distribution to Allied Provision, with headquarters at Detroit's Eastern Market.

Since its introduction here in metropolitan Detroit, in addition to MacKinnon's, you can sample Coleman Natural Beef at the Hyatt Regency Dearborn, the Midyown Cafe in Birmingham, the Omni Hotel in Detroit, the Guest Quarters Hotel in Troy and McCarty's in Mount Clemens. A recent trip to the Hyatt had me sampling a Chateaubriand done up royally, complete with Coleman Beef, that had my dinner guest (who eats meat five days a week) raving.

Coleman Beef is U.S.D.A. Choice approved beef. Coleman was proud to display a gold medal won in Europe last year for quality food production.

DOES ALL THIS hoopla about Coleman Natural Beef and Cybill Shepherd not eating commercial beef mean that all commercial beef is bad? Coleman is quick to point out that commercial beef is a great product and that his natural beef is simply an alternative for folks out there who are worried about additives, fat and chemical residues, or who are looking for better-quality beef.

Be on the lookout for other major suppliers who claim they have "natural beef," because Coleman is the only rancher who currently raises beef naturally from "conception to consumption" so that he has complete, ultimate control over what happens to his product.

Look for it appearing in major Farmer Jack stores soon, if not already, and at your favorite restaurants listed above. You won't be disappointed. Bon Appetit!

Rabbit tastes and cooks like chicken

AP — Today you don't have to be a hunter to enjoy the distinctive taste of wild game; many wild species are being farm-raised. Like most game, rabbit is low in fat and calories and contains little cholesterol. Look for it in the meat case or frozen food aisle of your supermarket, or contact your local game farm. Rabbit is similar to chicken in flavor and cooking method. Many of the seasonings and sauces you use with chicken also are delicious with rabbit.

RABBIT WITH CREAMY WINE SAUCE
One 1 1/2-2-pound domestic rabbit

2 slices bacon
1 cup bias-sliced celery
1 medium onion, sliced
2 cloves garlic, minced
1/2 cup dry white wine
1/2 cup chicken broth
1 teaspoon dried oregano, crushed
1/4 teaspoon dried marjoram, crushed
1 bay leaf
1/2 cup whipping cream
2 tablespoons snipped parsley

Cut across the rabbit just behind the front legs and just in front of the back legs. Cut through the backbone to halve the pieces with front and back legs attached, making 5 pieces total. Rinse and pat dry.

In a 10-inch skillet cook bacon until crisp and brown. Remove; drain on paper towels, reserving drippings in skillet. Crumble bacon and set aside.

Cook rabbit in pan drippings for 10 minutes, turning once to brown evenly. Remove rabbit, reserving drippings. Cook celery, onion and garlic in drippings until tender. Slowly add wine, broth, oregano, marjoram and bay leaf. Bring to boiling, scraping up the brown bits. Add rabbit. Reduce heat; simmer, covered, 45 minutes or until rabbit is tender and easily pierced with a fork. Turn once during cooking. Transfer rabbit and vegetables to platter; keep warm.

Measure pan juices; reserve 3/4 cup. Return to skillet. Add cream. Bring to boiling. Reduce heat to medium; cook and stir about 6 minutes or until cream thickens slightly. Pour sauce over rabbit. Sprinkle with bacon and parsley. Makes 4 servings.

Woo the one you love with fruit, vegetables

You have all heard, I am sure, that the way to a man's heart is through his stomach. Or, as French novelist Honore de Balzac put it: "Men become passionately attached to women who know how to cosset them with delicate tidbits."

One poor reader recently told me that she could not woo her beloved with food because he was so health conscious, and he was always on a diet.

So, feed him fruit and vegetables. In Culpeper's Complete Herbal, 1652, Nicholas Culpeper says: "The decoction of asparagus boiled in wine, and being taken after fasting stirreth up bodily lust in man or woman, whatever some have written to the contrary."

Try this modern version of his prescription.

TIPS AND WINE

Cook one package of frozen asparagus in 1/4 cup of Traminer wine or cooking sherry. Drain and serve with his eggs in the morning.

Oops, he doesn't eat eggs, too much cholesterol? Then try this: Mix together 1/4 cup olive oil (no cholesterol here) 1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, and 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard. Add salt and pepper to taste.

Arrange the cooked asparagus in a serving dish. Pour the dressing on the tips and chill overnight. Serve it to him with his dry toast.

THIS TIME of year is wonderful for aphrodisiac cooking, because — once again — fresh, vine-ripened tomatoes are available.

Tomatoes originated in the Peru-Ecuador-Bolivia area of South America. Cultivated species of this kitchen witch

succulent fruit were grown in Mexico and Central and South America before Columbus.

The first variety of tomatoes to reach Europe was yellow, and was known in Italy in 1554 as the "pomi d'oro," or apple of gold.

Before 1600, both red and yellow tomatoes were cultivated in gardens in England, France, Spain and Italy and were called "love apples" because of their aphrodisiac qualities.

I believe it is a culinary sin to put a fresh tomato in the refrigerator. It destroys the aroma, which is what really makes the difference in home-grown tomatoes, and the imported kind — picked green and shipped from who knows where.

Pick your tomatoes ripe (or buy them at a roadside stand, if you're not a gardener). Wash them and serve them to the one you love in one of the following ways:

GRILLED TOMATOES

Cut tomatoes into halves, or thick slices. Brush the top with butter or oil and sprinkle lightly with seasoned bread crumbs. Grill at low heat.

If his diet allows it, you may wish to remove them from the oven a few minutes before they are done and top them with cheese. Put them back in the oven long enough to melt the cheese.

TOMATO SALAD

Seal tomatoes and remove the skins. Slice or quarter them. Lay them on a folded cloth and season them with salt. Allow them to rest there for 30 minutes to drain their liquid.

Arrange on a salad dish. Season with oil, vinegar and pepper.

Then sprinkle with any number of various domestic herbs, such as tarragon, basil or fennel seed.

I like to serve these with very thin slices of mild onion.

STACKED TOMATOES

Cut each tomato into three slices. Spread chicken salad, tuna salad or egg salad on the slices.

Layer the tomatoes, using three slices per portion. Place on lettuce and garnish with parsley.

Throughout the ages, spinach has been believed to maintain strength and restore virility. It is an excellent source of vitamins, iron and other minerals necessary for sexual vigor.

The following recipe is so good, that even people who don't like spinach eat second helpings.

Serve it as you would pizza, hot — with a salad — for lunch or dinner.

Fix it as a late-night snack or eat it cold for breakfast. (If you've never eaten cold pizza for breakfast, at least once in your lifetime, you haven't lived to the fullest.)

SPINACH SQUARES

2 eggs, beaten
1/2 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
2 packages frozen chopped spinach
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon salt
1 pound Monterey Jack cheese (shredded)

Thaw spinach, and squeeze out all the water. Mix egg and milk together. Blend flour, salt and flour and add to the egg and milk mixture. Add the spinach and cheese and stir well.

Spread in a well-greased 9x13-inch pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 40-45 minutes.

When cooking ordinary vegetables such as corn, peas, carrots or green beans, try pepping them up a bit by adding chopped pimiento.

Not only do they look more appetizing, but they put a gleam in the eye as well.

In the Middle Ages, monks were forbidden to partake of pimiento because of its "lust-provoking" qualities.

If all else fails, this recipe for eggplant, using tomatoes, onions and pimiento — as well as a little garlic — will make any man stand up and take notice.

WEST INDIES EGGPLANT

Peel one large eggplant and soak it for one hour in cold, salted water. Remove from the water and dry well.

Slice into 1/4-inch slices. Dust with flour and brown lightly in oil.

Saute one finely chopped onion and add one clove garlic. In a bowl, combine the onion and garlic with one eight-ounce can of tomato sauce.

Mix in the following ingredients

1/2 cup water
2 teaspoons chopped pimiento
1/2 teaspoon basil
1 teaspoon chopped chives

Arrange eggplant slices in a greased casserole dish, and cover with the tomato sauce mixture.

Top with either cheese or dry seasoned bread crumbs dotted with butter.

Bake in a 350-degree oven for 35 minutes

Tips help streamline dinnertime

AP — Families are rediscovering the pleasure of sharing a home-cooked meal at the end of a busy day. These tips will help you streamline dinner preparation.

SHOP AND STOCK

• Post your grocery list on the refrigerator. When you notice a staple running low or use the last of an item, add it to the list. Encourage your family to do this also.

• Take advantage of quick-fix items such as cooked meats, chopped vegetables, and deli salads at your grocery store.

• Keep supplied with staples such as eggs, fruits, spices and vegetables. It's easier to run to the cupboard or refrigerator than to the store.

• Buy ingredients as near to the form your recipe calls for as possible. For instance, choose canned boneless skinless pink salmon instead of regular canned salmon. Other ready-to-use ingredients: boneless chicken breasts, frozen cubed cooked chicken, shredded cheese.

• As you unpack groceries, clean greens and chop vegetables. Store in plastic bags in the refrigerator. You can even make up your favorite greens combination for tossed salad.

SUPPER HELPERS

• Make meals a family affair. The spouse who gets home first can start dinner or organize your kitchen so you can share cooking tasks.

• Kids can set the table, pour milk, tear lettuce for a tossed salad, or clean vegetables while you cook. This is a good chance to talk over their day, too.

FAST-COOKING TIPS

• Before you leave in the morning, slice or chop vegetables, meat, or cheese or other dinner ingredients and store them in the refrigerator.

• Get a head start on main-dish or fruit salads by storing cans of meats, vegetables and fruits in your refrigerator. That way they're already chilled when you're ready to use them.

• Chill salads and desserts in a hurry by placing them in the freezer for 20 minutes.

• Make turning on the oven or broiler your first cooking step so the appliance will be preheated when you need it.

• Overlap preparation steps. While waiting for water to boil or meat to brown, start chopping vegetables, opening cans, or mixing a filling.

• Measure milk, oil, or other liquids in a large glass measuring cup. Then, rather than using a mixing bowl, add the other ingredients to the liquid in the measuring cup and stir together.

Wolverines complete playoff miracle

THOMAS ARNETT/staff photographer

Leif Gustafson suffered a gash over his right eye when he was slammed into the boards while chasing the puck into one corner of the rink. Gustafson stayed in the game, however, and helped lead the Wolverines to an overtime victory in the MSHL championship game.

The hype and hysteria didn't rival a Soviet Union-United States hockey game, and the world wasn't glued to its TV sets for an Olympic telecast.

But Al Michaels still would have asked "Do you believe in miracles?" after the Wolverines won the Metro Summer Hockey League championship Wednesday.

The Wolverines, who came from nowhere a few weeks ago to finish on top, completed their Cinderella season by trimming the Wildcats 9-8 in two overtimes at the Plymouth Ice Arena.

Coach Dave Cyplik, whose team was 0-9-1 before winning its last four games — including three in the post-season, had a simple answer to Michaels' would-be question.

"Yeah, I always have," he said. "Anything can happen in the playoffs."

"THIS IS AN awesome feeling. All those guys have got a lot of courage to come back from the kind of regular season we had and win the whole thing."

The championship game was truly that. The see-saw battle was the most exciting of the five MSHL finals to date, according to longtime observers of the league.

Sean Skinner of Livonia finally ended the lengthy contest with the game-winning goal at 2:26 of the second 10-minute overtime.

Skinner, a 1987 graduate of Stevenson High who played last season for the Redford Royals, shot the puck past his former Junior A teammate, Wildcats goalie Doug Abraham.

Coming up on the left wing, Skinner found himself alone on that side after a centering pass by Livonia's Matt Wiljanen found its way through traffic. He got behind the defensemen before they could recover and went 1-on-1 with Abraham.

"I had the same shot in the second period," said Skinner, who had two goals and three assists on the night. "After I missed the first time I was mad."

"I DID A fake and went too wide; I didn't do it quick enough. The second time I took the shot."

"It happened so quick I really didn't have time to think," he added. "I thought: 'Yeah, I'm past that guy; now I've got a shot.'"

Skinner's goal ended what had been a fantastic overtime duel between Abraham and his Wolverines counterpart, Ron Evina. Both goalies made spectacular saves, sometimes several in succession as they survived wild scrambles in front of their respective nets.

"Goaltending was the key in overtime," Wildcats player/coach Alan Carnes said.

"Their goalie kept them in the game, and our goalie kept us in the game. That's why the overtime lasted so long."

While the Wolverines celebrated a hard-earned victory, which made it all the more enjoyable, it was a hard loss for the Wildcats.

"Real hard — because everybody was trying so hard," Carnes said. "The goal they scored was not that good of a goal, a long shot. Overtime always ends like that — not on a very nice goal."

THE WOLVERINES jumped in front 2-0 when Leif Gustafson, who had a big impact after joining the team at mid-season along with John Krzesimowski, and Jim Storm scored 13 seconds apart. But it was apparent what kind of game was in store when Mark Isel and Mike Jorgensen rallied the Wildcats.

The tug-of-war was definitely on. "I always believed, but I had that burning in my stomach from the drop of the puck," Cyplik said. "I'm probably getting an ulcer."

Gustafson put the Wolverines on top 3-2 after one period, but the Wildcats accounted for five of the eight second-period goals and led 7-6 on Sean Flynn's short-handed score.

The Wildcats rallied to tie three times early in the period, and Dan Lambert gave them their first lead, 6-5. Then, Flynn turned a defensive situation into an offensive plus when he beat Evina with 2:12 remaining.

The Wolverines, however, took their turn in the third period, and the Wildcats were not so fortunate the next time.

Auto engineer eyes 2nd speed record

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Few people can claim to have set a land-speed record while sitting behind the wheel of an automobile.

Furthermore, not many would have the courage to attempt the feat.

But, if all goes well this week, Karl Staggemeier will be party to two such records.

The 29-year-old Farmington resident and his partner Gary Eaker are making their second visit to the Bonneville Salt Flats this week, hoping to set a five-mile course record in the C-Production Class.

When the General Motors aerodynamics engineers first traveled to the remote site near the Utah-Nevada border in July, their sole purpose was to test their 1988 Pontiac Trans-Am on the vast expanse of salt.

IT WAS MERELY by accident they happened to break the three-mile record, Stag-gemeier said, as they shattered the existing mark by 23 miles per hour with a 213.9 mph run.

"Personally, we didn't look on it as much of an accomplishment, because the car wasn't running well," he said. "We went out there to see how the car would run."

"We thought we should have been up around 225, but we did what we set out to accomplish."

That included becoming licensed, something the Bureau of Land Management, which is charged with the care of the unique natural preserve, requires of every first-time driver.

The purpose, of course, is "to make sure you and the car are up to the task safely," Staggemeier said.

But their main intent all along was to prepare for the August record attempt. Getting a three-mile record was nice, but the five-mile performances are considered the true standards.

STAGGEMEIER AND Eaker, who conduct wind tunnel experiments at the GM Tech Center in Warren, hope to reach 250 mph, "which would make it the fastest production car in the world regardless of class," according to Staggemeier.

The current records for the production-class vehicles are 219 mph in A, 218 in B and 217 in C. The addition of nitrous oxide to the fuel mixture could result in a speed of 270 mph.

"That," Staggemeier said, "would be the fastest speed for a passenger car bar none."

Other cars with super-charged engines have traveled 250 mph, and the fastest recorded speed on salt was 623 by the rocket-powered Blue Flame. But cars such as the one Staggemeier and Eaker operate must remain a likeness of the original models produced by the factories.

"We have to use engines similar to the kind that come in the car," Staggemeier said. "We can't put a big block Chevrolet in our Trans-Am."

Blue Max Racing of Charlotte, N.C., offered to build two engines when the duo embarked on its expanded hobby. Staggemeier describes them as "NASCAR-Winston type engines but a little bigger." Engine displacement is used to divide cars into one of the production classes, and the Staggemeier-Eaker team has a 369 cubic-inch, small-block Pontiac four barrel.

"IT'S PRETTY MUCH a stock-car motor but a little healthier," Staggemeier said.

The idea to get involved in speed racing was a natural offshoot from the job Staggemeier and Eaker, 32, of Utica do every day of the week.

"We're both car nuts," Staggemeier said. "I had a series of hot rods in high school, and this is the next extension of that."

Livedoti guides Olivet grid team

By C.J. Risk
staff writer

Transition? Rebuilding? What's that?

For this football season at least, those terms have no meaning to the majority of the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association teams. When the team that has dominated the league for the past decade (winning seven titles) returns 12 starters, it's safe to assume it will be picked to repeat.

Hope College does (return a dozen starters and is picked to repeat). But the Flying Dutchmen share the favorite's role with Albion, which has 14 starters coming back. And three of the five other MIAA teams have more starters returning than either of the favorites.

Leaving Olivet, which was chosen to finish fifth (out of six) under new coach Dominic Livedoti. A year ago, Livedoti was preparing West Bloomfield's high school team for a new season. A star at wide receiver for Olivet 25 years ago, he has no illusions regarding the task confronting him.

BUT THAT doesn't dampen his enthusiasm.

"I hope that, at Olivet, we can put some fun back in the game and get some confidence back," he said at Thursday's MIAA media day at Hope College in Holland.

football

However, Livedoti refused to set concrete goals for himself or his team.

"Prediction-wise, I'd like to say we'll be in every ball game," he said.

He doesn't have a lot to begin his tenure with. Of the potential starters, few are from the suburban Detroit area, which should provide Livedoti's recruiting base. That will change.

Four members of Livedoti's first recruiting class are from West Bloomfield: defensive back Chris Alexander, tight end Mark Fritz, linebacker Tom Lamb and quarterback/defensive back Dan Shrewsbury.

Others who could help down the line are offensive tackle Eric Chatfield, from Rochester (Adams), and quarterback Mark Murray, from Farmington Hills (Harrison), who transferred from Wayne State.

WHATEVER LIVEDOTI accomplishes this season could be impressive, considering what he's up against.

For starters, the Comets play just one of their first five games at home.

VanWagoner returns to coaching at Churchill

By Brad Emons
Staff writer

The revolving door for girls basketball coaches at Livonia Churchill High School was apparently stopped with the expected appointment of former Plymouth Canton boys coach Dave VanWagoner.

The 34-year-old VanWagoner will be reinterviewed and will probably sign a contract before the week ends, according to Churchill principal Bill MacFarland, who confirmed that no Livonia School District employee had applied for the position during the required posting period.

"I fully expect that it will be him and in all likelihood it's a reality," said MacFarland on Tuesday. "But until Mr. VanWagoner and I meet and he signs a contract, it's not official."

Churchill athletic director Larry Joiner, vacationing in upper Michigan, recommended VanWagoner for the job. VanWagoner was also a candidate for the Churchill varsity boys job, but that job was awarded to Fred Price, who is now in his second stint as coach.

"DAVE IS A very experienced coach who has also coached girls basketball," Joiner said. "He's very knowledgeable and a good basketball person. I was tickled to hear he wanted to get back into it. I'm happy he's going to be there because he was the person we were looking for to give us good leadership."

It was only in May when Todd Kleinow, a former standout player at Michigan Tech, was appointed to succeed Tim Newman as the school's coach. But late last month Kleinow stepped down unexpectedly to take a coaching and teaching position in Durham, N.C., after the Livonia Public Schools had offered him only a part-time teaching position. (Last year he taught science part time at Riley Junior High.)

In Kleinow's last official act as coach, he took the Churchill girls to a summer team camp in July.

VanWagoner will become the school's fifth girls basketball coach within a span of four years.

VanWagoner is also a former Observerland Coach of the Year (1983-84). He was 42-40 in four years as Canton's varsity boys coach, his most successful season being '83-84 when the Chiefs went 17-5 and captured the WLAAC crown.

All told, VanWagoner coached 11 years at Canton and has spent the past two seasons coaching seventh and eighth-grade girls basketball at Lowell Middle School in Plymouth-Canton.

Why would VanWagoner want to take on a struggling program?

"I SCOUTED one year for Plymouth Salem (under Fred Thomann), and I saw what it takes to run a successful program," VanWagoner said. "I've been waiting a year and a half for some opportunity to coach and my phone rang last Tuesday (Aug. 2) and Larry (Joiner) asked me to think about it."

"I applied for the boys job at Churchill and they had my resume. We talked a couple of times and I decided I wanted to do it. It's close to my home and my school where I teach."

THE HIGH TURNOVER can be attributed to the district's lack of support for inter-scholastic sports at the seventh and eighth-grade levels.

Last year under Newman, a former Observerland Coach of the Year (at Livonia Franklin), Churchill finished 2-19 and had the dubious honor of snapping Farmington Harrison's 99-game losing streak during the Western Lakes Activities Association's post-season playoffs.

Dutchmen hoping for grid repeat

And then there's the rest of the MIAA. Four of the five other schools have their quarterbacks returning.

Only Adrian, which lost all-MIAA performer Bruce Crosthwaite (from Adams), will break in a new quarterback.

That's one reason why Albion rates as a co-favorite. The Britons were third a year ago (3-2 in the MIAA, 5-4 overall) and have Jan Firek, the second-best passer in the league, among 14 starters coming back. They lost all-MIAA running back Steve Pente, but there is still plenty of talent.

Defense concerns coach Pete Schmidt.

"Defensively, we fell off a little last year," he said. "If we get our defense back to where we were a couple of years ago, we'll do OK."

One player Schmidt is counting on is senior linebacker Steve Freier (6-foot-2, 220), from Garden City. An all-MIAA second-team selection in '87, Freier tied for second among the Brits in tackles with 75.

The secondary is talented and deep, with sophomore Scott Bissell (6-0, 180), from West Bloomfield (Farmington Harrison), a possible starter. He had two interceptions last season.

NOTHING IS certain, of course. Alma coach Phil Brooks has either 16 or 18 starters back from a team that was 2-3 in the MIAA, 5-4 overall in '87. One of the question marks, a player coming off an injury, is a key to the Scots' chances.

Junior defensive tackle Evan Vlaeminck (6-3, 235), from West Bloomfield, tore up his knee in the fourth game last year.

"If you had asked me in December, I would have said I didn't think he'd play football again," Brooks said.

But Vlaeminck has worked hard at rehabilitation and could start.

Should his comeback be successful, he'll line up with a talented neighbor — senior linebacker/defensive end Brian Hood (6-1, 215), from Farmington Hills (North Farmington). Hood was a second-team all-MIAA choice last season.

"He's a key player for us," Brooks said of Hood. "It would take an act of God to keep him out. He's something."

Brooks called the offensive line an area of concern, with some good and some bad. Three linemen are gone, but three with experience return, including junior tackle Aidan Lysaght (6-5, 245) from Birmingham Groves.

IT HARDLY seems right. Adrian finished second behind Hope a year ago with a 4-1 mark and was 7-2 overall. The Bulldogs have 22 seniors returning, "the most we've had in a long time," according to coach Ron Labadie. Among them are 16 starters.

So why are they picked to finish no better than third in the coach's poll? Well, the main reasons have already been listed — a strong league, returning quarterbacks everywhere else in the MIAA, and the loss of some key people, like Crosthwaite.

"There's no question about it," Labadie said. "The people we lost were our leaders. We have seniors, but many have not been asked to fill leadership roles before."

A key to success for Adrian will be sophomore quarterback Pete Mazzoni (6-3, 195), from Livonia Stevenson.

"I've been very fortunate in my six years here in that I've had two quarterbacks step in and do the job for three years each," Labadie said. "Mazzoni is a good one, and hopefully he'll be another to last three years."

The difference between Adrian and Hope (5-0 in the league, 6-3 overall) is who is returning. Among the Dutchmen starters coming back is the MIAA's No. 1 passer, Mark Hahn. The defensive backfield, however, will have to be rebuilt; only sophomore cornerback Jim Myers (6-1, 175), from Rochester, returns. Myers intercepted two passes in '87.

WHICH LEAVES perennial cellar-dweller Kalamazoo College. Returning after a four-year hiatus as coach is Ed Baker to attempt and reverse that trend. He'll have the experience, certainly; 20 starters are back.

Of course, that's from a team that went 0-5 in the MIAA and 1-8 overall. Yet the prospects seem bright, if not this year (there are only 10 seniors) then in the near future.

The sophomore class is particularly strong. Two returning starters, defensive back John Knittel (5-11, 170) and linebacker Jim Naif (6-0, 200), both from Livonia Churchill, are sophomores. Starting linebacker Eric Wills (6-0, 220), from Southfield, is a junior.

"We never finished last when we were picked to finish there," said Baker, who was the school's director of the career development center for the past four years. "We have some difference-makers in our sophomore class. I like to think Kalamazoo College will be better than expected this year."

Of course, that's what every MIAA coach is saying.

Open tennis results

Plymouth's Brian Schmidt and Livonia's Tanya Berner survived stiff competition to win the boys and girls 13-15 singles championships in the Canton Junior Tennis Open.

Their age group was the most competitive based on the number of entries in the Aug. 4-6 tournament. Nearly half of the 76 participants were boys and girls in the 13-15 division.

Schmidt defeated K.C. Kirkpatrick of Plymouth, who was a champion in the Canton Singles Tournament in June, 6-4, 6-4.

Berner, who intends to play for the Livonia Franklin girls team, defeated another Livonian, Kris Anderson, 6-2, 6-1. The runnerup plays for Churchill High School.

In earlier matches, Schmidt defeated Neil Dixon, 6-0, 6-1; Adam Majewski, 6-1, 6-0; and Ryan Polkowski, 6-1, 2-0. Berner eliminated Kim Baldwin, 6-1, 6-2; Kelly Kirkpatrick, 6-2, 6-1; Wendy Shiek, and Marilyn Onisko, 7-6, 7-5.

Steve Schmidt, a varsity player at Canton High, won the boys 16-18 title over his friend and high school teammate, Jim Gallagher, 6-4, 6-4.

Schmidt had to win four matches to get to the final, but his closest match before meeting Gallagher was in the opener in which he defeated Mark Rearick, 6-1, 6-3.

Plymouth's Missy Smith, the No. 1 singles player on the Salem girls team, defeated another Plymouth resident, Lynn Horvath, for the 16-18 championship in a hard-fought final, 2-6, 7-6, 6-2.

Horvath played No. 1 singles for Canton last year and will be a freshman at Western Michigan University this fall.

Brad Smith of Northville captured the boys 10-12 title, beating Plymouth's Kristofer Dusbiber in the final, 6-2, 6-0. Magdalena Persu of Ypsilanti topped Plymouth's Melissa Kowalis, 6-1, 6-0, in the girls 10-12 championship match.

Gallagher and Janet Turner of Plymouth received the tournament's male and female sportman-ship awards.

Wolverines edge 'Cats

WILJANEN FORCED a 7-7 tie, and the Wolverines capitalized on their next power-play opportunity. With Isell off for two minutes, Scott Bolinger managed to put the puck between the post and Abraham's skate.

The Wildcats, avoiding further damage, survived a 5-on-3 dilemma while Lambert and Charlie Olshanski occupied the box. And then Flynn, with an assist from Carnes, notched the tying goal that sent it into overtime at 4:47.

"I'm right-handed," said Carnes, who was on the left side. "But I pulled (the puck) around behind me and slid it across to Flynn. The defenseman and goalie thought I was going to shoot and followed me."

Though the Wildcats came back to tie, the successful power play was crucial for the Wolverines, according to Cyplik.

"When we had the opportunities to capitalize we did, and that's what put us over the top," he said. "The power play turned the momentum for us and carried us through the rest of the game."

The Wolverines were scheduled to represent the MSHL in the annual two-game, most-goals series with the champion of the Windy City Hockey League last weekend in Chicago. The Wolverines drafted Carnes and Isell for the series.

THE ANEMIA OF ARTHRITIS

The fact that all anemia is not the result of a low iron intake, is particularly true if, in addition to your anemia, you have arthritis.

Anemia may be the result of blood loss from the irritating effect of your arthritis medication on your stomach. While coated aspirin is free from this effect, other arthritis drugs are capable of aggravating the stomach to the point of bleeding. In such a case, the best treatment is not to add an iron pill to your regimen, but to stop the offending drug.

You may have anemia because of the arthritis. For instance, one effect of rheumatoid arthritis is to slow the production of red blood cells, despite the body having available sufficient iron and other elements for their production. This type of anemia is called: "normochromic-normocytic."

The only therapy is to control the underlying arthritis.

Like many aspects of arthritis, dealing with an arthritis-associated anemia is not obvious or easy. Most likely your physician will have to study your anemia thoroughly before recommending treatment: a prescription for iron may not be part of his therapy.

Johnny's Auto pounds Adray Appliance

By Brad Emons
Staff writer

Sixteen teams from across the country, including Livonia Little Caesars, will be in Johnstown, Pa., today vying for the coveted All-American Amateur Baseball Association title.

But Adray Appliance, the Detroit Adray League champion coached by Bob Atkins, will not be among them.

Friday at Livonia's Ford Field, Appliance lost its bid for a trip, falling to defending AAABA champion Johnny's Auto Sales of Baltimore, Md., in the finals of the regionals, 11-1.

Appliance, which featured three area players — all from the University of Detroit — will stay home with a 33-10 record.

Johnny's will move on with a 63-10 mark.

ATKINS, the longtime manager of Appliance who led the Detroit entry to the AAABA title in 1978 and a second place finish with a Livonia franchise team in 1988, said, "I thought this was going to be our year."

He cited two breakdowns which led to the defeat against the six-time AAABA champions.

"Two things in the playoffs that happened consistently that didn't happen during the regular season was that we left men on base (10 in the final) and we didn't play good defense," Atkins said. "We just couldn't play over our mistakes."

Appliance loaded the bases with no outs in the first inning against Johnny's starter Darren Ritter, but managed only one run.

That seemed to be the beginning of the end for Appliance as Johnny's went on to score four times in the fourth off losing pitcher Mike Erickson (Michigan State), who gave up back-to-back homers to catcher Mike Couture (two runs) and Jeff Benson. Jeff McCoy added a solo shot in the eighth and the game ended in the top of the ninth when the University of Maryland's Louis Holcomb singled home Benson.

IF THERE was an MVP of the tourney, it was Ritter, who pitched four scoreless innings in Wednesday's 10-7 win over Appliance in the regional opener before coming back with one day's rest to toss a complete game (six hitter) in the title game. The 6-foot-5, 210-pound right-hander will be a junior this fall at UM-Baltimore.

"He threw only 56 to 60 pitches the first night and he's got a good, strong arm," said Johnny's field manager, Norm Gilden. "We knew he could come back if we needed him."

Ritter walked only four in the final, drawing praise from Atkins.

"Their kid did a tremendous job and my guys just couldn't spot their pitches," he said. "But our kids did a helluva job. We knew we were short on pitching all year long."

Appliance, who picked up University of Michigan lefty Ross Powell for the tournament from their league rival Adray Sound, forced Johnny's to the limit in the double-elimination tourney by winning the first game on Friday, 6-2.

POWELL, who drove in Wednesday from the Cape Cod (Mass.) League, tossed a five-hitter and struck out nine.

Mickey Smerek, a pickup from the Adray Photo team, knocked in three runs, including a two-run homer in the eighth. Greg D'Alexander (University of Arkansas) also contributed two hits, including a solo homer in the fourth to hand Johnny's ace Paul Creek (Georgia Tech) the loss.

"We beat their best pitcher," Atkins said. "I thought we had them right where we wanted in the final."

But Johnny's came back strong.

"You may beat us once, but this ballclub never quits," Gilden said. "We have good team speed, excellent pitching and can hit the long ball. They can explode at any time."

But Johnny's general manager, Walter Youse, the East Coast scouting supervisor for the Milwaukee Brewers, was concerned after being beaten by Appliance.

"THEY'RE A GOOD club and it's a shame we had travel here 600 miles to battle them," he said. "Both teams should be going to Johnstown and I'd rate them close to one-two there."

Based on a rotating system, teams either gain an automatic bid to Johnstown by winning their league playoffs or have to qualify through a regional tourney.

This year it just so happened that Livonia Caesars gained the automatic bid, while Appliance, Johnny's and the Columbus Jammers had to qualify at Ford Field.

On opening night, Couture (Clemson University) hit a grand slam off Appliance reliever Bill Bates in the fifth, breaking up a 1-1 deadlock to give Johnny's a 10-7 triumph.

On Thursday, Johnny's whipped Columbus, 15-5, as Benson (North Carolina State) broke the game open with a grand slam in another mercy-shortened game (eight innings).

Appliance then eliminated the Jammers, 10-0, as Walled Lake Western alum Mike Gabriele hurled a three-hit shutout (over seven innings). Smerek (Eastern Michigan) contributed a homer, triple and double.

OF THE LOCAL PLAYERS, Appliance shortstop Dennis Bushart (Redford Union High and U-D) went 1-for-11 for the tourney. Appliance first baseman Lance Sullivan (Livonia Churchill High and U-D) was 1-for-5 and catcher Mike Stefanski (RU and U-D) went 3-for-15.

Oakview best softball team in tournament

Oakview Party Store wrapped up a successful softball season by defeating the Rebels 15-7 to win the Annual Canton Parks and Recreation Department's post-season tournament.

Manager Chris Drake's team scored 10 runs during a big fifth inning to break open a close game en route to its second victory over the defending champion Rebels.

Oakview was led by Ric Anger's two-run, fifth-inning triple and Randy Brooks' home run.

Having lost earlier to the Rebels, Oakview advanced to the final with victories over Macks Machine 18-14, Omnicom 8-2, the Furnace Man 21-1 and the Rebels 14-3.

Until losing two straight to Oakview, the Rebels were unbeaten with wins over St. Michael I, Welduction, Gingell and Oakview, 14-13.

For the tournament, Oakview was paced by the hitting of Anger, Don Schlamb, Brooks and Drake.

Oakview also won the White League regular-season title with a 12-2 record.

Just because charity begins at home doesn't mean it should end there.

Nobody is suggesting that we should solve the problems of the world at the expense of our own families.

But, when we give less to charitable causes than we spend on frozen dinners and designer jeans, something is out of balance.

Suppose that, instead of the one or two percent most of us are giving now, we all raised our contribution level to five percent. Based on current income figures, we'd generate more than $175 billion for the causes we say we care about. The homeless. The environment. Religion. And the arts. Just to name a few.

So look at your own giving. And see if you can't find a way to do just a little more.

That minor change in your family budget could be the start of some major changes in your family's world.

A 'Bounty-ful' visit

The residents of Pitcairn Island rolled out the red carpet for solo sailor Paul Marti, who has been attempting to sail around the world. Marti spent several days with the descendants of the mutineers of the H.M.S. Bounty.

The look: Pale face fans tans as 'in' fad

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

Pale is in, the fashion magazines say. But while that's true for high fashion models, it's not exactly the case for the general public.

Sure, folks these days are smearing on more sunscreens and heeding health warnings to limit exposure to the sun. But for most of us, it is less a matter of fashion, and more tied to that old '80s mainstay fad — the pursuit of good health.

IF PALE was really in, as suggested in some recent magazine and newspaper articles heralding the trend, you'd figure Luigi Cutraro would have spotted it. He's the manager of the trendy Taboo Nightclub in Detroit.

Yet, "most of my customers, they got suntans," Cutraro said. "I know they talk about skin cancer and all that — they don't care. They're all waiting six... seven months to get a tan."

But if you're a model getting work in New York City, "you don't want a tan," said Cathie Verdun, assistant agent with John Casablancas Model and Talent Management in Troy.

"In New York they want a natural look and no tan whatsoever," she said.

For example, Verdun said one model represented by the agency had gotten a little sun from playing softball.

"They said stop playing softball — just don't go in the sun. That's the strict rules from New York."

"I DO think that over the past three years that (pale) look has been very in," said Trish Daman, talent and casting director for the Productions Plus modeling agency of West Bloomfield.

"But it kind of seems to vary," Daman said. "Paulina (a top model), she's very pale."

But another top model is quite tanned, Daman said.

"It depends on what type of model they are." Generally, she said, high fashion models tend to be pale, while those doing auto shows tend to be more tanned.

"It's cute to have a little bit of color," Daman said. "But to have a golden brown dark tan, you're going too far. I think we're all trying to gear ourselves to be more natural and more health conscious, period."

SHE EQUATED the trend toward paleness with the increase in no-smoking laws and other health-related trends.

TV newscasters are one group of professionals who traditionally go for some degree of tanning to avoid looking pale under bright studio lights.

Mort Crim, WDIV-TV news anchorman, said reports on the dangers of overexposure to the sun have caused people in his profession to be more careful about time spent outdoors.

"Obviously, I'm concerned like everyone else who is a sun worshipper," said Crim, who enjoys fishing, tennis and other outdoor activities. "What I have started to do is to use a suntanning lotion with a high protective factor."

"I think that everyone I know, friends of mine in other cities and other professions, are being more prudent."

Deede Hassinger, a former Estee Lauder representative, is the cosmetics representative for Jaboson's Livonia store. The trend toward paleness, she said, "isn't something for the reason that they like the pale look. Women are becoming more sophisticated about the cancer-causing agents in the sun."

BUT MORE than that, "it's the aging factor of the sun," she said.

Eighty percent of skin aging has been found to be caused by the sun's ultraviolet light, Hassinger said.

Today, "having that bronzed look is not as important," she said.

That "healthy" tanned look is becoming passe and being a pale face is coming in to its own as people recognize the potential damage — skin cancer and premature aging — too much sun can cause.

Cars reign supreme at Gilmore farm

By Iris Sanderson Jones
contributing travel editor

You've probably never seen a 1948 Tucker Torpedo, the car featured in the new motion picture "Tucker: The Man and His Dream." They only made 50 of them and at least half of those were on location during the making of the movie.

There is a Tucker not too far away. It's one of the 120 rare classic cars displayed at the Gilmore Classic Car Club of America Museums in Hickory Corners, 15 miles northwest of Kalamazoo.

It is hard to miss the beautiful red barns scattered across a field and between tall trees on M-43 at Hickory Road. But at first glance you might think that you are seeing just another picture postcard from southwest Michigan — rolls of hay in a golden field and red barns under a blue Michigan sky.

Get closer, especially on a festive day when the Concours or the Red Barn Spectacular are in full swing, and you will see that this particular

MICKY JONES

It's cars like this 1932 Rolls Royce Gurney Nutting drophead coupe that are more well known than their favorite haunt, the Gilmore Car-Classic Car Club of America Museums near Kalamazoo.

"farm" has an unusual number of Rolls Royce, Duesenberg and Cadillac cars scattered around the meadows.

The site holds two museums — the Gilmore Classic Car Museum and the Classic Car Club of America Museum. Insiders love it. Most of the rest of us don't know the museum is there.

Why is it there?

Donald and Genevieve Gilmore established the Gilmore Classic Car Museum during the 1960s because of Donald's interest in antique cars.

Genevieve, now age 94, is the daughter of Dr. E.W. Upjohn, founder of the Upjohn Co., and board member of 13 of the 14 auto companies that once produced cars in Kalamazoo. Upjohn was the owner of Kalamazoo's first automobile, an 1899 Locomobile Steamer.

IN 1962, Gilmore and a few cronies were restoring a 1920 Pierce-Arrow touring car on the driveway of Gilmore's summer home at Gull Lake, not far from the present museum. Summer dragged into winter and the car was finally finished under a tent, warmed only by a kerosene heater.

Gilmore, then chairman of the board at the Upjohn Co., bought three nearby farms, totaling 280 acres, and started scouring the countryside for barns. Initially, the site was just a place to work on his cars and assemble his collection.

If you have been to other car museums, you may think that you don't have to see this one. Don't miss it.

It doesn't have the numbers of the Henry Ford Museum collection, but it includes 120 of the rarest and most expensive cars ever built for American business aristocracy. Many of them are one-of-a-kind. Most were collected by Gilmore, who died in 1979.

Let's set the scene at Hickory Corners. Several beautiful buildings, most of them barn red, are scattered across 90 acres of clipped green grass.

Look around and you will see a paved oval track, a railroad signal tower and an antique bus depot. A red London double-decker bus may be parked outside the depot.

Gilmore's Rolls Royce collection, which ranges from a 1910 Silver Ghost to a 1938 Phantom 111, is housed in the Carriage House, along with his Packards, built from 1905 to 1956 and highlighted by a 1930 Packard 740 Phaeton.

Gilmore's Rolls Royce collection . . . ranges from a 1910 Silver Ghost to a 1938 Phantom 111.

THE TWO-story Campagna Barn was found 30 miles away on the Todd Farms. It was built in 1897 when Todd supplied peppermint and spearmint oil to a young gum manufacturer called P.J. Wrigley. Gilmore dismantled and rebuilt it on his farm.

Today, the Campagna Barn contains the Kalamazoo Room, with three historic Checker Cabs, ranging from 1922 to 1982, a 1917 Roamer Touring Car and a prototype of a Checker Reconnaissance Jeep.

Former Upjohn employee and classic car collector Norman Knight, director of the non-profit Gilmore Classic Car Museum, brought the Classic Car Club of America (CCCA) onto the site four years ago.

Until 1987, the Campagna Barn was the museum home of CCCA. In 1987, the club moved into a 'new' barn, actually a magnificent old peg barn found near Hickory Corners, dismantled and rebuilt on the museum site.

It contains two floors of CCCA cars, including a 1939 Delahaye convertible by Chapron Model 135 M, 1926 Wills Sainte Claire T-6 phaeton, 1937 Cord 812 Beverly Sedan and a 1930 Packard Speedster Sedan Model 734. And a 1948 Tucker Torpedo.

CCCA held its first Concours, The Duessenberg Experience, in 1987, and its second, the Rolls Royce Bentley Experience, in 1988. Some of the Concours winners have been on display at the museums this summer.

Old cars are fun, but there are a few other things that you shouldn't miss at the Gilmore. There is a horse-drawn fire engine, a replica of the Wright Brothers "Kitty Hawk" and a horse-drawn carriage. The most fun, for movie buffs of the right age, might be the movie set from Walt Disney's "The Gnome Mobile."

GILMORE-Classic Car Club Museums is at 6865 Hickory Road, Hickory Corners, Mich. 49060. It's 15 miles northeast of Kalamazoo on M-43, or follow the signs 15 miles north and west from the Galesburg exit of I-94. Admission, which covers everything inside the gates, is $3 for adults, free for children under 12. For information, call (616) 671-5089.

It is open from 1-5 p.m. daily through Labor Day, thereafter from 1-5 p.m. on weekends only through mid-October. You will see about 500 antique cars on the property Sept. 13, when the Antique Automobile Club of America stops for the day during its annual Glidden Tour.

If you have never been caught in a traffic jam of antique cars, this may be your chance!

Pale face replaces tanned look as the 'in' skin for the 1980s

"THE PALE look has been in for about five years now," said Fred Moye, spokesman for the Tanfaster Sun Tanning Centers scattered throughout metro Detroit.

Moye said his industry, which enjoyed explosive growth over the past 10 years, now predicts around 30 percent growth over the next five years. But this slowdown in growth for tanning centers is probably more due to business cycles.

"People who seek a very pale look are very fashion conscious," Moye said. "To the extent that it (the trend) affects the general population, I have to question that."

"The general population still wants to go out on the beach and get a tan."

The American Dermatology Society reports that skin cancers are due more to burning, than tanning, Moye said.

"An Australian study showed that skin cancer is 10 times as prevalent

'It's cute to have a little bit of color. But to have a golden brown dark tan, you're going too far.'

— Trish Daman
Productions Plus

among office workers in Sydney, who go out and get burned on the weekend than with cowboys in the outback," he said.

LIKEWISE, THE American Cancer Society said repeated sunburns are particularly risky. More than 500,000 new cases of skin cancer are reported every year — a number expected to double over the next 25 years, the society said, amid reports that the ozone layer that filters the sun's ultraviolet light is being depleted.

The society suggests that people who expose themselves to the sun apply sunscreens with a sun protection factor of 15 or more and limit exposure between 11 a.m. and 2 p.m., when sun rays are strongest.

In recent years, Jacobson's has been selling more sunscreen products and products that protect hair from sun damage, Hassinger said.

And self-action tanning creams, which when applied evenly simulate a tan, "are much more popular, they can sometimes sell out," she said.

The pale look may be big in New York. But around here, "women wear colorful skirts and shorts in the summer and they don't want these white sticks hanging out," Hassinger said.

STREET BEATS

Cinecyde doesn't crave stardom

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

So you want to be a rock'n'roll star? Well, that's not why Gary Reichel of Cinecyde took to writing songs.

"I think most bands take a pathetic attitude toward success," said Reichel, lead singer of the Detroit area band. "Success to them means stardom and stardom, for the most part, is pathetic."

For Reichel and Cinecyde, the issue has never been how fast they can get signed by a major record label or how many shows can they cram into a week. Writing the best songs possible has always been first and foremost.

Artistic integrity is hardly an uncharted platform. Many local or national bands contend their music is first and foremost. But when the record company man comes calling, those ideals start falling.

Cinecyde appears to play more than lip service. The band has been together for 10 years, a testament in itself to commitment.

Yet the group plays very few shows. One can count on one hand the number of gigs Cinecyde has performed this year.

Yet with the spate of playing dates, Cinecyde manages to harness a tightness that bands playing four times a week would be hard to match.

On stage, there is no posing or gesturing. The music is presented in a straightforward, high-energy manner.

THE SOUND may be either melodic or hard edged. One couldn't classify Cinecyde as a prototype punk band or a leather-clad hard rock outfit. The answer lies somewhere in between.

Cinecyde will release a new album, "Who Goes There?," in September. Also the four-member group is featured on the Reichel-produced "Folk Songs from the Twilight Zone."

Don't expect any full-fledged pandering to record executives or program directors with the new products.

Reichel said he doesn't like the music industry, doesn't believe in it. His is not a cynical point of view, he contends, but more one of reality.

And he believes that attitude is what has kept the band together for 10 years.

"There was a real push in the mid-'70s. The attitude was 'if you don't like it, do it yourself,'" Reichel said. "There was an American underground if you will. That was inspiring to see little bands in out-of-the-way places, making records on their own."

Cinecyde formed in 1978, at the height of the punk movement. The group took on that raw, guttural sound in the beginning.

The line-up has stayed mainly the same. Bassist Chris Girard joined the group in 1982. Other members include Jim Olenski on guitar and Rodger Wesch of Farmington Hills on drums.

BUT OVER the course of 10 years, the sound has changed somewhat. Song topics haven't. Pain, politics and life is what Cinecyde still sings about.

Cinecyde's first single in 1978 was "Gutless Radio." Today, there's self-explanatory songs like "Chemical Warfare," "Confederate Flag" and "Industrial Gray."

"I feel like it is something I have thought through," said Reichel, who is the chief songwriter for the group. "I'm not going to just sing 'ban the bomb,' because it's a bigger issue than that."

"Songs are like cartoons. They're not really an answer. They're meant to push in the right direction and make you think about it."

In times when apartheid in South Africa is the in thing to write about, Cinecyde has a song like "Confederate Flag." The song questions the use of a symbol of slavery, which is still used by state governments in this country.

Where anti-nuke stances are commonplace in rock'n'roll circles, Cinecyde sings about chemical warfare, which can have equally devastating effects.

Those two songs, however, won't be featured on the upcoming album. Reichel said they will be included on another album to be released next year.

In more than 10 years of writing and performing, the energy is still there.

"I doesn't strike me as relevant," he said about the band's longevity. "Being together for 10 years, people tend to latch on to it. But it's always new to us. It keeps evolving."

MUSIC NOTES

Submitted for your approval, an album that encompasses both originality and vitality. An album that is for the people, by the people of the Detroit music scene.

You're entering another dimension in sight and sound. You've just entered "Folk Songs from the Twilight Zone."

Yes, it's here. An album that has the Rod Serling seal of approval. "Folk Songs from the Twilight Zone" features this area's top local musical acts — both known and unknown.

The disc, produced by Gary Reichel, was officially launched with a three-band blowout at Paycheck's Lounge in Ham Town. Cinecyde, Shouting Club and 3-D Invisibles filled the bill.

And those who arrived early were privy to a short but sweet set by True Blue Hearts.

Also on the long-awaited Tremor release are Orange Roughies, Volebeats, Sleep, Va-Voom, Hysteria, Narcotics, Junk Monkeys, Jerry Vile and Bootsy X.

Already, cuts from "Folk Songs from the Twilight Zone" have received airplay on CJAM-FM, WDET-FM, WDTR-FM and WORB-FM.

And, geez, if that wasn't enough local music to keep you smiling, we have Scott Campbell's latest project in our hands.

"Detroit Music Scene Vol. 4" features Beer on the Penguin, Before or After, Scott Campbell, The Difference, Funhouse, Hippodrome, The Hypnotics, Anton James, Jugglers and Thieves and See Dick Run.

An album release concert marathon will take place at 9 p.m. Friday, Aug. 19, at Saint Andrew's Hall in Detroit. Nine bands will perform, including Treehouse Beggars of Toronto, Beer on the Penguin, See Dick Run, Before or After, Funhouse, Scott Campbell, Hippodrome and Jugglers and Thieves. Tickets are $5.

But one of the more eye-catching summertime releases has to be Karen Monster's self-titled EP.

Apparently, our queen of scream has spared no expense in producing her latest effort. She has a full-page advertisement in Fun Magazine along with smaller ads in the Metro Times and national rock and roll digest Spin magazine promoting it.

Monster wouldn't give monetary figures for the production of the five-song EP except to say "it cost a piggy bank and a half."

Featured on the slick production are five of Monster's top tunes, such as "I Hate Love," "Get Off My Train," "Diggin' My Own Grave," "Second Thoughts" and "I Got It Right" (What? No "I Want a Pony"?).

Monster does little to shed her rough rocker image.

"It's clean enough to be commercial and dirty enough to satisfy me," she said.

The main purpose of the EP wasn't to spur interest from record labels, Monster said.

"If the big labels want it, they can find me. It's easy," she said. "I did it more for me."

Well, well now. That's the attitude. Anyhow, Monster plans to tour the East Coast collegiate circuit in late September and early October in support of the album.

RADIO COMPLAINT NO. 1,267: Your Street Beats writer nearly flipped his car coming home on I-94 from Ann Arbor Drunk? No. He was in new music nirvana. Featured on WLLZ-FM's "Wheels in Motion" was nearly a half-hour of The Smiths. While nice, it's also sad.

Shows like "Wheels in Motion" and WRIF-FM's "Sonic Rendezvous" allow us to be fed new music by the spoonful. But why does this type of music have to be segregated to late Sunday nights?

Forget that The Smiths can sell out the Fox Theatre and The Cure or DePeeche Mode could easily pack Joe Louis Arena. Late Sunday nights is where they belong, right next to the preachers and talk show host geeks.

Just give us that old time rock and roll. You know, the kind of music that soothes the soul and program directors play into the ground. So, please, continue to relive those care-free days by continually replaying the music of your generation.

Because, thanks to you, we certainly don't know the music of our generation. Unless we stay up late on Sunday nights.

— Larry O'Connor

REVIEWS

LEAD ME ON — Amy Grant

Needless to say, the Jim and Tammy Bakkers and the Rev. Jimmy Swaggarts have left more than a few people a trifle cynical about the area of organized religion.

Amid the chaos, Amy Grant's faith is still strong as "Lead Me On" (A&M) leads us to believe. Not that the talented Christian singer glosses over the recent events. She addresses them up front in "What About Love."

Sings Grant emphatically: "Something's wrong in heaven tonight/You can almost hear them crying/Angels to the left, angels to the right singing, What about love?"

Grant is one of few Christian artists who has been able to garner mass appeal. One reason is that her music is very contemporary and very fresh. Whether it is the bursting-with-life title track "Lead Me On" to the soft piano piece "If These Walls Could Speak," Grant is an exceptional talent in any music circle.

Perhaps another reason is that

A BELL IS A CUP . . . — Wire

Once upon a music career, Wire was considered a very hip band.

They were the forerunners of the guitar and keyboard sound, which Simple Minds have stolen . . . er used effectively, although Wire was never as bombastic.

Being that as it may, they never really garnered more than a strong cult following. So, in the time-honored tradition of cult bands, they broke up in the early 1980s. Now here we are, 1988, the year of the repeat (just check movie listings) and what do we have? Yes, Wire has re-formed.

A testament to how much music has progressed (?!?) since then is that this new Wire LP, the strangely titled, "A Bell Is a Cup Until It Is Struck" (Enigma), still only achieve cult status.

Of course, what else do you expect of an album with Mr. Ed on the cover.

Any old Wire fans will be happy with this album as it offers no radical change in sound from previous LPs.

— Larry O'Connor

The songs are still built with layers of guitar and keyboard sound effects with Colin Newman's dispassionate understated vocals. The lyrics are like in-jokes. They probably mean a lot to somebody, but generally go over people's heads.

Some would even venture to say they're boringly pretentious. Witness the following: "Dressed pints demon shrinks/Bread drunk dead-drinks/Stretch clubs models box/Draw skin black shocks."

Naturally, you now completely understand why a lyric sheet is thoughtfully provided. The music is somewhat reminiscent of Bowie's low period, so that can't be all bad.

If the abstract lyrics don't upset you, then a little hard working listening to this LP should pay off. Of course, the only commercial radio station that might play this around here is WDET's "Dimensions Show" at 10 p.m. on Sundays.

— Cormac Wright

I KNOW RAY HARMAN — Something Happens!

Sometimes it pays to scour the import bins at your local record outlet. You never know what you might find.

Not too many people in this country know of the Irish band Something Happens! — yet. The Dublin-based band has an upcoming album, produced by Tommy Ramone, in the fall and is featured on a soundtrack for the movie, "The Courier."

For the time being, though, we'll have to settle for Something Happens! live EP, "I Know Ray Harman" (Virgin).

Something Happens! is one of a long list of bands from Ireland poised to make it big. They're in line with Hothouse Flowers, In Tua Nua and Cactus World News. Of course, the biggest pitfall for many an Irish band is the ever-dreadful "Next U2" tag.

Sorry, the only thing Something Happens! has in common with Bono and Co. is an Irish passport. If anything, there's a natural urge here to compare this four-man outfit to R.E.M. as murky sounding guitars prevail.

At the same time, though, Something Happens! manages to bring a spark to their music that even the boys from Athens, Ga., would be hard pressed to duplicate. And you can understand Something Happens! lyrics.

For instance the taut rocker, "Seven Days 'Til 4 a.m.," moves along cautiously. Further added to the intensity is the volcanic guitar bursts that punctuate the number. Indeed, this group lives up to its name. You wait for something to happen.

Yet Something Happens! real strength is in the melodic guitar department. "Promised" is simple in that regard. But a combination of Tom Dunne's vocals and an endless stream of melodic guitar make this a gem.

— Larry O'Connor

Something old

If you're into recapturing the past, then the place to be Aug. 26-28 is Ypsilanti.

Ypsilanti? You bet. The community is holding its 10th annual Heritage Festival and has a slew of activities planned to showcase one of the state's oldest communities.

There'll be the usual arts and crafts exhibits, pancake breakfast, spaghetti dinner and chicken barbeque, beer tent and parade. But there'll be some unusual stuff like appearances by the "aristocrats of the high wire," the Wallenda-Zoppe Family, a rubber ducky flotation race, and riverboat millionaire's party.

For more about the festival, call the Ypsilanti Visitors and Convention Bureau at 482-4920.

Fun and games

Nothing to do this Saturday night? Why not head over to the Waterford Oaks Court Games Complex for "College Night" from 5-9 p.m.

It's one of a series of new mixers parties at the complex. The parties are designed to provide social interaction and a chance to use the court games complex. For College Night, guests can wear a sweatshirt or T-shirt from their favorite school or alma mater.

Cost is $5 per person which includes a meal and use of all court games. Pre-registration is necessary.

The Waterford Court Games Complex is on Scott Lake Road, between Watkins Lake Road and Dixie Highway, in Waterford Township. It features eight tennis courts, platform tennis, volleyball, shuffleboard and horseshoe courts.

For information, call 858-5433.

Bottle bonanza

Old fruit jars that required cast iron closures? Pickle jars from before Heinz had even one variety? Flasks that can cost up to $40,700? Bottles in the shape of fish, barrels, log cabins, Indian queens and ears of corn?

Yes, all that and more will be on display when the Metro-Detroit Antique Bottle Club opens its 15th annual show and sale Sunday, Aug. 28, at the Holiday Inn West in Livonia.

Some 80 national dealers will offer their wares, while 16 collectors will set up displays showing a wide variety of glass and pottery.

Show hours will be 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and admission will be $2. The Holiday Inn West is at 1-275 and Six Mile Road in Livonia.

The King

Ray Maas and his six-piece show troupe, Sierra, will revive the fond memories and sentimental moments of the King of Rock'n'roll, Elvis Presley, when they appear Friday and Saturday, Aug. 19-20, at Livonia Mall, Middlebelt at Seven Mile Road, Livonia.

"The Elvis Illusion" will be staged at 2 and 7 p.m. Friday and 2 and 6 p.m. Saturday.

Dressing for success divorce style

(AP) — Nowhere is it more important to dress for success than in divorce court.

"Most likely, you'd consider long and hard when presenting the right visual image during an interview with a prospective employer," matrimonial lawyer Norman M. Sheresky wrote in an article in the current issue of Harper's Bazaar. "You should approach your day in day in court with the same resolve."

"At least as much, and maybe more, could be at stake. Your ability to leave a favorable impression with the bench can strongly influence the result."

Sheresky, former president of the New York chapter of the American Academy of Matrimonial Lawyers, said judges in divorce cases exercise enormous discretion in making financial awards.

"Consequently," Sheresky wrote, "it would behoove the divorcing client to dress to please the person in whose hands her economic future lies."

Your situation dictates your dress style. If you are rich, dress accordingly.

years of age, single or married, parent or non-parent.

(3) Entries must include the name, address and telephone number of the contestant. They can be mailed to

(4) Employees of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, Guest Quar-

Coppola captures 1940s in 'Tucker'

"Tucker: The Man and His Dream" (A) (PG).

Excellent production that really looks like the '40s. Soft-focus filters and lots of dusty old shots make this story of Ypsilanti machine tool shop owner Preston Tucker (Jeff Bridges) and his dream of the car of the future. Bridges, Joan Allen as Mrs. Tucker and Martin Landau as the financial adviser deliver fine performances. Entire supporting cast adds to production. Too bad Mr. Tucker tried to take on the Big Three.

"Mac and Me" (a) (PG).

A young boy in a wheelchair and a kidnapped alien.

"Young Guns" (D) (R) 90 minutes.

This film wouldn't have been so long and boring if they'd cut the slo-mo footage. It added absolutely nothing to this dull and dumb story of Billy the Kid (Emilio Estevez) leading a gang of young outcasts to avenge the murder of their mentor (Terrence Stamp). The evil Mr. Murphy (Jack Palance) caused all the trouble. Despite help from Charlie Sheen and others, this is a loser. Maybe they can redo it after the writer's strike is settled.

"A Handful of Dust" (C) (PG) 110 minutes.

A boring story of marital problems between Tony (James Wilby) and Brenda (Christine Scott Thomas). Brenda has an affair and Tony goes to South America. Cameo appearances by Angelica Huston and Sir Alec Guinness are the only bright spots. Reviewed by Jennifer Morris.

SPECIAL SCREENING:

A rare opportunity to see "Angele" (1934), "The Baker's Wife" (1938) and "Marius" (1931), three films from Marcel Pagnol, author of the "Jean de Florette/Manon des Sources" saga. Shown at the Detroit Film Theater (Detroit Institute of Arts) in the above order on Friday and Saturday (7 and 9:30 p.m.) and Sunday (5 p.m.), Aug. 19-20. STILL PLAYING:

"Bambi" (A) (G) 70 minutes.

Short but good animated story of young fawn growing up. Great for kids, and for adults on a nostalgia trip.

"Big" (A) (PG) 95 minutes.

A shy 12-year-old boy's wish is granted when he wakes up one morning in a man's body. Tom Hanks skillfully captures the innocent,

"Big Business" (A-) (PG) 95 minutes.

Mistaken identity is comedy's strong suit and that's what Bette Midler, Bette Midler, Lily Tomlin and Lily Tomlin do so well in this story of two sets of twins mixed at birth. Technically super production but pace falters occasionally.

"Big Top Pee-wee" (B) (PG) 80 minutes.

Kids and Pee-wee Herman fans will love this - talking farm animals, dumb jokes, a circus and Pee-wee in love. Reviewed by Kathy Guyer.

"The Blob" (D) (R) 90 minutes.

This remake just doesn't cut it. Horror film fans may love this blob with an '80s touch, but too much blood and guts and too little story. But don't worry, Kevin Dillon and Shawnee Smith save the day. Reviewed by Jennifer Morris.

"Bull Durham" (A-) (R) 105 minutes.

Wonderfully wacky, but slightly overdone summer in the minor leagues. Veteran catcher Crash Davis (Kevin Costner) is brought in to steady hotshot young pitcher Nuke LaLoosh (Tim Robbins). Susan Sarandon and Jenny Robertson complicate matters. Film is as explicit as possible while remaining an "R."

"Caddyshack II" (*).

All-star cast starring Jackie Mason, Robert Stack, Dyan Cannon, Dina Merrill, Randy Quaid, Chevy Chase and Dan Aykroyd in sequel to 1980 hit.

"Cocktail" (C-) (R) 110 minutes.

Adolescent fantasy, populated with overdone, soapy melodrama about a high concept bartender, Brian Flanagan (Tom Cruise) and assorted "chickies" led by Jordan Mooney (Elisabeth Shue). Some clever lines by Bryan Brown but only Cruise addicts will sail on this one.

"Coming to America" (B-) (R) 120 minutes.

Hollywood and sexist view of Africa, but Prince Akeem (Eddie Murphy) rebels against an arranged marriage and visits New York City to find his own bride. The good news is Murphy plays a character instead of playing Eddie Murphy and has some touching scenes with his American girl, Lisa (Shari Headly). The bad news is, despite some funny stuff, there's too much adolescent humor.

"Crocodile Dundee II" (C) (PG) 110 minutes.

Dundee (Paul Hogan) is "experiencing" New York while living with journalist Sue (Linda Kozlowski). They get involved with Colombian drug dealers, but Dundee saves the day and whisks Sue off to Australia. It's cute, but not like the original. Reviewed by Jennifer Morse.

"The Dead Pool" (B-) (R) 95 minutes.

Clint Eastwood is back in Dirty Harry's fifth adventure. This time its multiple celebrity deaths. Action-packed with quite a few bloody scenes. Dirty Harry fans will appreciate their hero's usual endurance.

"Die Hard" (*) (R).

Bruce Willis and Bonnie Bedelia in story of hostages trapped in L.A. building seized by terrorists on Christmas Eve.

"Eat the Rich" (Z) (R) 86 minutes.

An absolutely ridiculous British satire that is exaggerated beyond any sense. British accents are so thick that about half the movie is incomprehensible. The other half is disgustingly dumb.

"A Fish Called Wanda" (A) (R) 110 minutes.

Jeff Bridges (right) portrays innovative car designer Preston Tucker, Joan Allen is his wife and Martin Landau his friend and associate Abe Krantz in Paramount Pictures' "Tucker: The Man and His Dream."

A very funny film with the whackiest gang in town. Principals include Jamie Lee Curtis as Wanda the Wonderful, jewel thief extraordinaire. Among her colleagues are Kevin Kline in an absolutely inspired performance as a berserk American in London. John Cleese is a proper barrister, but... The whole thing is beyond words. The only solution is to see the movie.

"High Season" (B) (R) 100 minutes.

Greek setting for photographer Katherine (Jacqueline Bisset), trying to preserve "the past." Each character in this Greek tragedy has their own reasons for what they do. Interesting. Reviewed by Jennifer Morse.

"License to Drive" (*) (PG-13).

Corey Haim and Corey Feldman star in a teenage film about driving and so forth.

"The Manchurian Candidate" (B+) (PG-13).

They may not make movies like they used to, but they do re-release the old ones. This 1962 all-star espionage thriller features Frank Sinatra, Laurence Harvey, Angela Lansbury and Janet Leigh. Worth the trip to your local film house.

"Midnight Run" (F) (R) 115 minutes.

An absolute disappointment, wasting two acting talents in weak script. Bounty hunter Jack Walsh (Robert DeNiro) suffers through overly familiar chase scenes, the FBI and the Mob to bring accountant-embellisher Jonathan Mardukas (Charles Grodin) back to L.A.

"Monkey Shines" (C) (R) 100 minutes.

George Romero escapes the zombies and lightens up on the gore. The film seems to be a horrific appeal to anti-vivisection, but comes across more like an elongated "Creep Show" story. Reviewed by Brian Nichols.

It's off the beaten path so to speak, so Pitcairn Island residents, mostly descendants of the mutineers of the H.M.S. Bounty, treat their visitors like royalty. Despite being on remote island, the residents do have some modern conveniences — VCRs to watch tapes of "I Love Lucy" and "Gilligan's Island."

Pitcairn proves to be 'bounty-ful' stop

Editor's Note: Street Scene has been publishing Paul Marti's journal entries as he attempts to sail around the world. However, Street Scene received word that the circumnavigation would not be completed. Within a few weeks of receiving his letter from Pitcairn Island, we learned that our voyager was on his way home; his boat, Keema, was lost on a reef off Fiji. Not wanting to leave our readers hanging, we are publishing Marti's stories about his journey to Pitcairn Island and French Polynesia and then a final chapter, an account of the wreck of the Keema.

Eleven hundred miles west of Rapa Nui lies the isolated British possession of Pitcairn Island.

Measuring only two miles long by a mile wide, Pitcairn is one of the smallest inhabited islands of the South Pacific. As any lover of sea lore knows, what makes Pitcairn Island special is its unique history.

My head was filled with tales of H.M.S. Bounty as I weighed anchor and departed Easter Island on Feb. 22.

With any luck Pitcairn Island could be reached in 10 days. After my fast and successful passage to Easter Island, I was quite optimistic as I sailed Keema out of the waters of Hanga Roa Bay.

Good fortune was not to be mine on this leg.

In an area of the Pacific where 80 percent of the winds come from the east, I encountered seven straight days of westerlies and calms. Most non-sailors assume that storms are the most difficult aspect of blue water cruising.

However, I think most cruisers would agree that calms or light winds are much more frustrating. During the first week of the passage I could just cover 350 miles. Every night I was becalmed, I dropped all sails and let Keema peacefully drift on a mirror like sea.

The highlight of the first week occurred on the second night out. About an hour before dusk Keema was encircled by a school of dolphins. Frequently pairs of dolphins come to investigate Keema; usually they disappeared after a few minutes.

THIS TIME, however, the school numbering several hundred decided to stay and play. For the next four hours the dolphins escorted Keema, jumping, doing acrobatic stunts and thoroughly entertaining me while they stayed within arms reach.

I took several pictures in the fading light hoping to share the feeling with friends back home.

After a full week of light air, my fortunes shifted with the wind. The trades returned and Keema's sails stretched taut as we heeled slightly and returned to a proper pace.

During the next six days the winds continued strong and several storms kept me changing sails. Keema handled it all quite well and we covered the remaining 800 miles in excellent time.

On March 5, just after midday, an irregular shape appeared on the horizon. It was my first sighting of Pitcairn Island, 36 miles to the west. Shortly after, the winds died and I elected to use some of my precious fuel. It took six hours of motoring before Keema arrived in Bounty Bay.

Before I ever set foot on land I received a hint of the warm welcome that awaited me. It was early evening as I approached Bounty Bay and I noticed several lights were flashing. I went below and flicked my mast light off and on several times. Sure enough all the lights ashore started blinking hellos to me.

Like Easter Island, Pitcairn is lacking a protected anchorage. That night I dropped anchor in 50 feet of calm water and went to sleep, greatly excited about getting ashore the next day.

UNFORTUNATELY, the winds shifted during the night and quite suddenly things turned ugly. At 4 a.m. I decided it was time to move to a better anchorage or go on shore to wait out the weather.

Islanders welcome is 'royal'

As I was preparing to go on deck I felt Keema rise on a large wave and heard a loud crack forward. Once on deck, I realized that the wave had picked Keema's bow up quite high and the force on the anchor chain split the bow roller and was ripping my bowsprit in two.

It took two hours of the hardest work of my sailing career to free the anchor and extricate Keema from a lethal situation. Had we remained much longer we would have ended our voyage on the rocky shores of Pitcairn Island.

Just after first light, as I was struggling to complete my work forward, two islanders came out in their long boat and gave me directions to a safer anchorage.

They also told me that when the seas calmed a bit they would come out to Keema and bring me ashore. Two hours later, totally exhausted, I was reanchored at Tedside and collapsed in my booth.

The islanders didn't come for me that day. I later learned that they had tried frequently to call me by VHF radio. It was then that I realized that my radio was inoperable.

At seven the next morning as I sat in the cabin reading, I heard a distinctly British accent calling out to the crew of the Keema. Brian Young and Dave Brown in the community boat were wondering if I would like to "come have a look about?"

I HAD already packed a day bag and quickly closed Keema up and joined them. Thus began the finest two days of my adventure.

Brian and Dave welcomed me to Pitcairn in a very casual way, as if I had just stepped next door to a friend's home.

I immediately felt comfortable with both of them. The ride to shore was an adventure in itself. Tedside anchorage is almost two miles from the landing place.

Pitcairn is the peak of an underwater mountain and has no protective reef. With no beached or natural landing places and sheer cliffs using up hundreds of feet from the surf the island is quite intimidating.

In order to reach the one accessible landing area we had to first pass through the surf line. The long boat we rode in is a modern 20-foot inflatable with a outboard. My knuckles were white as I held onto the safety lines while Brian and Dave seemed to enjoy the wild ride through the giant swells.

Once ashore, their boat was hoisted safely out of the water. While we were securing the boat I noticed no signs of habitation near the shore line. With the work completed, Brian motioned for me to hop on the back of his three wheeled Honda (the workhouse of island transportation, each family having one). We started up the dirt track towards Adamstown.

There are no paved roads nor automobiles on Pitcairn. The island lacks any flat terrain and is all densely covered with tropical vegetation.

BRIAN DROVE me directly to his home where his wife, Kere, and two children, Timothy and Annetta, were just starting their day.

At this point, unlike other countries, I had gone through no formal procedures. I was not asked for my passport, boat papers or Zorpee (clearance from previous port). Everything was quite casual.

The first question I was asked was whether I preferred coffee, tea or chocolate with my breakfast. I took chocolate. As if I were one of the family I sat down to a feast of bacon, eggs, potatoes, toast and watermelon. It was during breakfast that I found out that Brian was the elected island magistrate.

It wasn't until later that day that he casually said "oh, you'd probably like to have your passport stamped, wouldn't you?" It took a while to find the stamp; the kids had been playing with it. After breakfast Brian took me on a three-wheeled tour of the island.

Today there are 54 people living on Pitcairn Island. All but a couple of them are direct descendants of the mutineers.

The mutiny on H.M.S. Bounty took place in 1789 and the mutineers landed at Pitcairn in 1790. Since then, except during two brief interruptions, the island has been continuously inhabited by the Bounty descendants.

Virtually everyone I met was either a Brown, Christian, Young or Warren. During my brief visit, I met all but two of the islanders. Those two were quite ill and sent their regards. As Brian showed me around everyone was most anxious to say hello.

MINE WAS the first yacht to call in several months and I was treated like visiting royalty. People were most anxious to hear of my travels and future plans. I, on the other hand, was full of questions about life in Pitcairn. Everyone I met invited me to stay and talk, and of course share a bite to eat. I ate more in my two days ashore than in the previous week of sailing.

All the people insisted on giving me a gift of food for my next passage. When I left Pitcairn my store of gifts included two huge stalks of bananas, six squash, six mammoth cucumbers, two watermelons, two dozen potatoes, one dozen apples (from New Zealand, obviously a cherished item), three onions, one dozen carrots, one dozen peppers and one monster zucchini.

Eventually I had to refuse more for lack of refrigeration. I knew it would go to waste. I have never seen such spontaneous generosity.

Both evenings ashore I was treated to meals that were truly feasts. The only favor I could do in return was to deliver some mail and a few packages to my next stop, Mangareva.

The encounter that epitomizes the islanders warmth occurred when Warren Christian, the elder Christian on the island brought me a gift.

The day before he had asked if I would deliver a letter and a small package. When he brought the items he also gave me a commemorative envelope with a rare Pitcairn Island stamp on it. He signed his name and asked "Would you please accept this as a gift from me for your kind favor?"

ALL THE people are extremely proud of their heritage. They pointed out to me that they are the only British territory that receives no subsidies from the mother country. They will be celebrating 200 years of independence in 1990 and see no need for outside help now.

Outside contact is minimal, with supply ships calling twice a year. Other than supply ships the odd yacht like myself and very infrequently a cruise ship, no ships make it a regular port of call.

They do have radio/telephone communications via New Zealand and Brian Young is a ham radio operator and keeps touch with other hams around the world.

Evidence of outside influence was apparent while I was having lunch at Brian's home. As we ate Timothy (age 10) turned on the VCR, they have no television stations but most islanders have recently acquired VCR's. They receive tapes from friends around the world. During lunch we watched "I Love Lucy" and "Gilligan's Island." American culture has reached this remote outpost of civilization.

Having been raised in and around Detroit and growing up with the diversity of life in America, I was quite curious about how the people lived on this lonely island.

It was quite apparent that the Pitcairners live as one large extended family. Although they have laws to govern themselves, mutual respect keeps the island running smoothly.

There is an island court that convenes, if necessary. The last time court was held was in 1967. The economic system is based on bartering, and community work is divided up among the families.

THE PEOPLE do acquire foreign currency through world wide sales of the island's postage stamps plus sale of hand crafted items to visitors. The currency is used to purchase manufactured goods from New Zealand. The people are always looking to purchase needed items from anyone visiting. I sold Dave Brown some SCUBA gear he was in need of and was paid in U.S. currency.

The children have their own school where students attend until the age of 14. I spent a few hours talking with the 12 students in their one room school house.

Their teacher is a New Zealander who contracted for two years and also doubles as New Zealand representative to the island. All the students seemed pleased to have a visitor and I told them about Rochester High School with its 1,800 students. They couldn't quite imagine a school that large.

I asked the students if they would be interested in writing letters to some Rochester students and possibly developing pen-pals.

They all responded with positive enthusiasm. The following letter is somewhat typical of the 12 I received for exchange:

Sheri Christian

P.O. Box 1
Pitcairn Island
South Pacific Ocean
Dear Friend,

We have just had a visit from Paul who has asked us to write. On Pitcairn there are around 50 people, there are only 13 children, 12 at school. The youngest is 1 years old and the oldest will be 90 next year. I live here on this small island and was born here too. I like swimming and other sports. I have three sisters. Their names are Jackie, Raelene and Darlene. Jackie is at New Zealand for college. I am in grade seven.

For transport we walk and use three wheel, four wheel and two wheel Honda motor bikes. We also have two tractors and one bulldozer.

Your friend,
Sheri Christian

AFTER THE fourth form (9th grade) mandatory education is finished and students who would like to continue their education must go to New Zealand for further studies.

Sheri Christian's mother, Betty, told me that as a parent it was the most difficult decision on the island. Since most students do not return, to encourage further education almost certainly means permanent separation.

Today the island population is quite stable and has been since the early 70s.

None of the people I met voiced any discontent with island life. The impression I received was that they felt blessed with the richness of their island and the sense of community they have developed. I couldn't help but feeling I was visiting a nearly utopian society.

The decision to leave Pitcairn was a difficult one. I would have preferred to spend more time but the weather was deteriorating and prudence suggested it was time to depart.

Shortly after dawn on March 9 I stowed my anchor and set sail for French Polynesia.

Visiting Pitcairn is a unique experience and I feel privileged with these special people. As Pitcairn Island slowly faded into the horizon I sailed Keema west with a bounty of fond memories.

Dorothy Lehmkuhl

Q. I am a working woman with a family and constantly feel tired. How can I find more energy?

A. If you are physically and mentally healthy, then fatigue can be equated to weight. If you eat fewer calories than you burn, you will lose weight. If you get less rest (and nutrition) then you expend in energy, you will be tired.

Be sure you are physically fit. Eat properly, wear comfortable shoes, and get regular physical check-ups. Discuss your lethargy with your doctor, perhaps you just need more vitamins.

How's your morale? Anxiety and depression can be draining. If you are feeling stressed or disheartened most of the time, concentrate on getting your emotions in order. Regular exercise will help, but don't train for marathons. A moderate exercise program should be adequate for now.

Take breaks during the day before you get exhausted and get enough sleep at night. That sounds simple but you may be listening to the wrong people who insist only a few hours rest is adequate. You may need more. If you are too tense to sleep when you can, study relaxation methods such as concentrating on a single word like "one," or listening to relaxation tapes. Avoid pills and alcohol.

Give yourself credit for what you do and don't be overly responsible for serving others' needs. Assess what you do and quit doing some of it. Don't be too stubborn to give up anything (unless you want to remain tired). Ask yourself if what you are doing today will be remembered a month or a year from now? Starving or abandoning your children would impact your life, but if your home is not so neat, you don't entertain, or you miss a meeting, it may not matter.

Learn to work smart by planning ahead. The busier you are the more important planning is. Enlist as much help as you can from your husband, teach your kids to lend a hand as they grow. Hire as much work done as you can afford. Block out time for yourself every day, making sure your R&R really does leave you relaxed and rested, not even more exhausted.

Most importantly, remember that a consistent weariness should not be a normal state of being.

YOU CAN double the function of the bedroom by choosing furniture selectively. Apart from the beds you can go in any direction for the other pieces. What you select depends upon your needs and needless to say the size of your room.

A writing table and chair are a nice addition to a bedroom. In place of matching night stands, use one night table and place a writing table and chair parallel to the bed. A love seat, chaise or chair and ottoman combined with a table and lamp create a nice sitting room ambience and a place for relaxation away from the rest of the house.

Book shelves whether built in or free standing flanking the bed is an interesting look.

Santa Fe touch

Step inside this kitchen and you feel you're in Santa Fe. That's the whole idea, according to the Armstrong interior designers who created it. The furniture and accessories reflect the rich Native American and Spanish heritage of Santa Fe so popular today in home design.

Balloting to determine public's favorite house

Hot weather has not melted the public's enthusiasm to see the latest in new houses at Homearama-Summer in West Bloomfield, where "The People's Choice" poll will again determine the public's favorite homes, according to Herbert Lawson, president of the sponsoring Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan.

To be taken the weekend of Aug. 13 and 14, the poll is a repeat of the one that created so much interest at Homearama-Spring in Clinton Township in June.

LAWSON POINTED OUT that new home sales were up 8.4 percent nationally in June (U.S. Dept. of Commerce, Aug. 3), bearing out his earlier statements of a continuing strong housing market and large attendance at Homearama-Summer.

"We were either very wise or very lucky in moving our hours to evenings-only during the week, 7 p.m. to 11 p.m., which escapes the heat of the day," said Dennis P. Dickstein, chairman of the event for BASM.

Daytime viewing is also available at Homearama-Summer from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays. It runs seven days a week through Aug. 28.

The People's Choice poll will be taken by giving a ballot to each person when he or she arrives at Homearama and asking them to deposit it in a ballot box on the way out.

The 18 "new idea" houses of Homearama, each built by a different team of builders, architects, interior designers and landscapers, are in the Autumn Ridge subdivision. They are valued at $250,000 to $525,000.

Parking for Homearama is in the free, paved lot of West Bloomfield High School, on the east side of Orchard Lake Road north of Walnut Lake Road. Complimentary shuttle bus service is provided to the Homearama site.

Homearama admission price is $4 per person, which includes an extensive plan book covering all homes.

Graining by smoke

A furniture decorating technique used on painted pieces in the 19th century was called "smoke-graining."

A candle was held close to a freshly painted, tacky surface and moved in circles. The heat and soot from the candle made a smoky cloud pattern in the paint. It remained when the paint hardened.

"Smoke-grained" furniture was popular in New England in the early 1800s. Such a finish in good condition adds much to the value of a piece.

Plank down

To make a work area for you and a changing table for the baby, top a grouping of bookcases, filing cabinets or chests of drawers with a long plank or flush door.

"During my first week at Franklin Park Towers, I found my apartment spacious, the service excellent and ... my neighbor, Dave."

"It didn't take long to feel at home at Franklin Park. My apartment is bigger than most I had looked at, and the Southfield location is close to shopping, entertainment and major highways. After the boxes were unpacked and most everything put away, it was off to the fitness center that's where I met Dave!"
