Election forum

Area residents have their choice if they want to hear the two candidates running in the 2nd U.S. Congressional District.

The Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce along with the Northville and Livonia chambers is sponsoring a candidate forum between incumbent Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, and Democratic challenger Lana Pollack.

The forum is scheduled for Wednesday, Nov. 2, at the Plymouth Hilton. Registration starts at 11:30 a.m. followed by a noon lunch. The cost is $15 per person.

The candidates will have 15 minutes each to discuss the issues. Those attending the lunch will have 15 minutes to ask questions. For more information, call 453-1540.

Those people willing to travel and save some money can head to Ann Arbor.

The Washtenaw County League of Women Voters is sponsoring a candidate forum 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 18, at Ann Arbor City Hall, 100 N. Fifth Avenue.

The winner is. . .

Well, the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce is not quite ready to announce the winners of the first Business People of the Year award.

The chamber received 15 nominees for the honors. Three categories were established to honor outstanding business leaders in the commercial/industrial, professional and retail areas.

A committee will study the nomination forms and other information about the individuals before making a decision.

Winners will be announced at the chamber's annual dinner at 7 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 27, in the Mayflower Meeting House. The cost is $25 per person.

The award also is sponsored by the Plymouth Observer.

The dedication of an eternal flame will highlight a 24-hour vigil this weekend at the "Michigan Remembers" POW-MIA Memorial on the east wall of the chapel at Oakland Hills Memorial Gardens in Novi.

The cemetery is at 12 Mile and Novi roads.

The eternal flame will be dedicated in ceremonies at 5 p.m. Friday. The vigil will close with ceremonies at 5 p.m. Saturday. The event will feature speakers, special music and a military flyover.

The vigil and eternal flame dedication are part of National POW-MIA Recognition Day.

Seventy-four servicemen from Michigan are still missing and unaccounted for in the aftermath of the Vietnam War.

Rotarian first

Sandy Miley, owner/manager of the Fox Hills Country Club, has become the first woman to join the Plymouth Rotary Club.

Miley, who signed on about three weeks ago, was nominated by Herman Theodor, an educator. Plymouth Rotary, a service club, has contributed upwards of $25,000 to local causes during the last year, including the community fund, the fire and drum corps and the historical museum.

Company to get site plan extension

By Doug Funke
staff writer

Plymouth city officials are willing to give Stahl Manufacturing more time to submit site plans for a parking lot even though the company has taken more than two months and residents near the factory continue to complain about litter, water drainage and traffic.

A meeting with Stahl representatives will be held this week in an effort to get Stahl to develop a specific timetable for submitting site plans, city manager Henry Graper said.

Projects include expanding, paving and screening the parking lot, plus interior renovations. A main frame computer also will be bought.

Stahl sent a letter to Graper last week outlining eight improvements at the plant on Junction but saying nothing about when they will begin.

PROJECTS INCLUDE expanding, paving and screening the parking lot, plus interior renovations like new offices, lavatories and a cafeteria. A main frame computer also will be bought.

"As you can see these are aggressive plans which will require substantial capital as well as time," wrote Roland E. Lartigue, executive vice president and general manager for Stahl.

"Our intent is to complete all these projects within 36 months. Our contractor . . . will be contacting you shortly to review our site plan and address timing for specific projects."

THOSE GENERALITIES aren't good enough, Graper said.

"If they don't present or come up with a timetable, I'll take it up with the city attorney," Graper said. "I think they've had an ample opportunity to develop a site plan."

The city manager didn't say exactly when Stahl will exhaust all of his patience.

FILES IN the city engineering department indicate that municipal officials have made numerous contacts with Stahl in an effort to resolve problems there since July 1.

Those contacts include at least two meetings, a letter and a violation notice.

Drive starts to roll United Way launches its campaign

Just as the leaves can be expected to turn colors each autumn, the annual Plymouth Community United Way campaign drive will arrive on schedule this week.

The event, which begins Wednesday and runs through Oct. 31, raised about $434,000 last year. The money is dispersed to 16 local social service agencies as well as 25 agencies throughout Michigan and the United States.

As usual, the fund raising will focus on having employers urge their workers to make contributions.

"We ask that the businesses encourage their employees to use payroll deductions," said Minnie Johnson, this year's campaign chair. "When you can take a little out of each pay, at the end you really have contributed more than you realize."

The Plymouth Community United Way is employing a new technique for this year's drive. It adopted a "loan executive program" to take the idea of volunteerism a step further.

"WE WENT into businesses and asked them to give us some of their executives to assist us in the campaign," said Johnson. She said

Fun run to benefit agency

Crossing the finish line first doesn't necessarily mean you'll win the Fred Hill Haberdashers Fun Run. How you dress, rather than the quality of your running shoes, could determine if you go home with a prize.

And whatever you do, don't run fast.

It's "a bit of a put-on and a bit of a spoof," said race organizer Fred Hill, but he also said it's "going to be a hoot."

The course of the race, which will benefit the Plymouth Community United Way, is "a touch more than a half mile," Hill said.

It starts 7 p.m. Thursday at Kellogg Park. Racers will go up Union to Church across to Main then back to the park.

Since it's such "a grueling course" there will be a rest stop with snacks, Hill said. Items such as pop and Twinkies will be offered in the parking lot behind city hall.

First-, second- and third-place winners will be determined by a raffle drawing.

Participants, both male and female, must wear a coat, shirt and tie in addition to running shorts and sneakers. No fast running is allowed. And anyone who weighs less

Fund-raiser could help Y get new home

By Doug Funke
staff writer

The Plymouth Community YMCA — which for years has dreamed about building a facility to serve its programs — could be close to buying property and launching a fund-raising drive, according to Darryl Dooley, board president.

A site has been identified in Plymouth Township, Dooley said, but only one of two owners of the property under consideration has been contacted for preliminary talks.

Dooley declined to identify the site or the owners so as not to jeopardize negotiations. Still, he's optimistic.

"I'm sure that once we're able to sit down and talk with them, they'll sell us the property," Dooley said.

The YMCA is looking for a site of 12-13 acres to allow for growth.

THE YMCA currently has offices in a house on Union Street in the city of Plymouth. Almost all of its programs are offered in local schools or locations specific to an activity like dance studios or driving ranges.

A long-range plan prepared for the YMCA about five years ago called for a three-phase construction process, Dooley said.

Phase I would include a swimming pool, office space and meeting rooms. Phase II a gymnasium and Phase III support wings like a weight room and sauna.

Land acquisition and construction costs back then were estimated at $2.5-3 million, Dooley said. He expects it will cost more now.

The YMCA has enough money on hand now to buy an option on property and make a down payment, Dooley said.

"IF EVERYTHING went well and we started fund-raising right after the new year, after three, four or five months, we would be able to break ground," he said. "I feel confident within the next year we will have a ground-breaking somewhere in the community."

Dooley isn't counting on direct financial assistance from YMCA headquarters.

"The national Y helps in locating builders, fund raising and advice in directions to go," he said. "They don't really provide money to us."

Businesses, corporations and foundations will be targeted.

No fund raising for a new building will take place during the annual fall community fund appeal, he said.

DOOLEY BELIEVES people will support a drive for a YMCA facility.

"We have now people moving in all the time calling for services we can't provide," he said.

"A YMCA is much different from a school millage. At the YMCA, they can see what we do with programs. We have an excellent aerobics class, an excellent karate program . . . an excellent swim program."

Where money goes in a school budget isn't always so obvious, Dooley said.

Railroad crossing will get an overhaul

By Doug Funke
staff writer

Improvements are in store for the heavily used railroad crossing at Main Street in Plymouth.

That's the word from Michael Donohue, roadmaster for CSX Transportation, and Ken Vogras, DPW director for the city.

The project most likely will be tackled in early October and could be finished in a day or two, Donohue said.

The crossing will be blocked and traffic rerouted during construction.

"We'll dig it all out underneath, put down new ties, stones, rail — the Stahl managers indicated that they didn't know they needed a permit when they initially expanded a gravel parking lot on the property this summer, said Ken West, city engineer.

New owners acquired the company last fall, consolidated operations and moved more workers to Plymouth. Some 400 work there now, Lartigue said.

CITY OFFICIALS earlier this month were prepared to threaten Stahl with a court injunction to close the parking lot.

However, Lartigue staved off that move by notifying the city that personnel changes had been made at the factory and the company would become more responsive.

"We're committed to putting together a site plan and meet with representatives of the neighborhood to go over the site plan," Lartigue said. "Our intent is to provide progress to Plymouth."

Lartigue referred questions about the company's site plan to its consultant, Schonsheck Inc. of Novi, who couldn't be reached for comment.

whole ball of wax there," Donohue said.

It's not going to be a rubberized crossing, it's not going to be a steel crossing but it will probably make it 75 percent better than it is now," Vogras said.

THE RAILROAD will pay for all of the work.

K M Ludwig, an engineering administrator for CSX, said the improvements will be made as part of a general maintenance schedule.

Vogras, however, attributed action on the crossing to personal efforts by Donohue working with city officials on local railroad problems.

CSX last week was to remove a small section of track no longer used near Farmer Street. The railroad wanted to do the Main Street crossing at the same time.

However, Vogras wouldn't have it with Fall Festival this weekend and thousands of visitors expected to pour into town.

"I SAID I want it done as soon as the festival is over," Vogras said. "He (Donohue) has no problem with that. No problem whatsoever."

So look for work to go early next month.

Health center building addition

By Diane Gale
staff writer

A $2 million addition is being built next to the Oakwood Canton Health Center.

The addition at Canton Center and Warren is expected to be completed by early spring 1989. It will include a 20,000-square-foot office building as well as private and special physical care facilities.

"We were feeling the pinch of the walls, because we were growing so much, but also because we were developing more programs and bringing in additional practitioners," said Kathleen Keen, Oakwood associate administrator for ambulatory services.

The old and new buildings will be joined by a weather-protective walkway.

The existing location provides Canton's only 24-hour emergency center. Between 17,000 and 18,000 emergency patients are seen annually, Keen said. Many of the injuries involve heart attacks and car accidents.

Critical cases handled by rescue teams often are taken to other hospitals, she added.

The new building also includes a laboratory and X-ray department.

Nammography services, with special low-dose radiation X-rays of breasts for cancer detection, also are provided. This procedure is becoming "more and more important in detecting breast cancer," Keen said.

The existing building also has a physical and speech therapy department, as well as audiology and family practitioners. The family practices are "one of the reasons we are bursting out of our seams," Keen added. They will be moved to the new building.

GENERAL SURGERY and plastic surgery are conducted in the existing location. Physical medicine — usually done in conjunction with rehabilitation — is used for muscle problems and stroke victims.

A variety of community health programs — such as cardiopulmonary resuscitation classes and living with diabetes — will continue in the existing building. New programs, such as coping with cancer, are under design, Keen said.

UW campaign starts about 20 area executives "from various organizations" are donating a minimum of eight hours per week of their time on the campaign.

This year's financial goal will be announced at a kick-off dinner, set for 7 p.m. Wednesday, at the Mayflower Meeting House. There will be a cash bar 6:30-7 p.m.

Johnson, who is a vice president at National Bank of Detroit in Plymouth Township, said chairing the campaign "keeps you on your toes."

"The enthusiasm of all the people involved is encouraging, and it makes you do the best you can," she said. "Then, of course, it is a worthy cause. You have to believe in it to make it successful, and I think everyone involved does believe in the principle of the Plymouth Community United Way."

Local agencies supported by the local arm of the United Way include the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council, Growth Works, which offers programs for juvenile offenders, the Plymouth Community Family YMCA, and Opportunity House, a residence for mentally handicapped adults.

Statewide, the campaign funds support agencies such as the Kidney Foundation, the Children's Leukemia Foundation, the Heart Association and the Arthritis Foundation.

than 175 pounds must carry a briefcase "to offset their unfair advantage," Hill said.

Participants can sign up individually or in teams of four. There will be special awards for the most creative individual and team.

"One can interpret the word 'creative' any way they want to," said Hill.

Hill is no stranger to unusual events. He created the Precision Briefcase Drill team, a group of businessmen that marches in parades wearing dark suits and carrying briefcases instead of rifles.

About 100 people had signed up for the race as of late last week.

"For such a crazy idea, it's been received quite well," Hill said.

The entry fee is $25 per runner or $75 for a team. Registration will take place in Kellogg Park from 6:15-6:45 p.m. Thursday.

Asked if there is a contingency plan in the event of rain, Hill said: "I presume what we will do is get wet."

Festival goers find a lot to shout about at bingo

By Julie Brown
staff writer

For Mary Brooks, working as Plymouth Township's treasurer involves, among other things, collecting tax assessments.

Thursday night, Brooks wasn't wearing her township treasurer's hat. Instead, she and fellow members of the Plymouth Business and Professional Women were giving out prize money to bingo winners.

A total of $2,000 was awarded during the Thursday night bingo, held in The Gathering in downtown Plymouth. The event was held during the Plymouth Fall Festival.

Bingo was just one of many activities. The festival also featured entertainment, the Artists and Craftsmen Show sponsored by the Plymouth Community Arts Council, the Plymouth Symphony League's Antique Mart, kids rides, food booths, and meals served by service organizations.

Plymouth Business and Professional Women members like to be a part of the festival and bingo, Brooks said.

"It's a lot of fun," she said. "They have such nice expressions on their faces. It gives you a good feeling."

Bingo proceeds support the BPW's scholarship and education fund. Financial assistance is provided for women from Plymouth and the surrounding area.

This is the third year Plymouth BPW members have sponsored bingo. Thursday's event included 10 regular and four jackpot games. The largest prize awarded was $500.

Plymouth BPW members weren't taking it easy during the bingo games. Brooks and fellow club member Sally Bailey were busy calling the numbers.

Other BPW members were selling bingo cards, handing out prize money or selling chips and pop. Club members also sold the daubers used to mark bingo cards. About 30 club members helped out, said Cindy Fullerton, Plymouth BPW president.

"We're having a wonderful time," said Fullerton, who works as an account executive at Harris/Lanier. "It's fun, it's really fun."

SHE AND THE others were impressed with the several hundred people who turned out.

"We may have a few more people than we did last year," Fullerton said. "We have quite a few dedicated bingo players. Some of them are playing about 20 cards."

Some players brought their good luck charms with them.

"Everything ran very, very smoothly. I know that we'll be back next year," Brooks said.

Tom Roth buys snacks from Plymouth BPW member Donna Paz. Some 30 club members helped out during the Thursday night bingo.

Defense rests in Machacek murder trial

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

The prosecution and defense rested their cases in the murder trial of Christopher Machacek in Washtenaw County Circuit Court Friday.

Machacek, 18, is one of two Ypsilanti Township youths charged with open murder in the December 1986 shooting death of Mary Anne Hulbert, 13, of Canton Township.

Steven Stamper, also 18, is scheduled to stand trial beginning Monday, Sept. 19. Judge Henry Conlin is hearing both trials. The youths, both 16 when Hulbert was killed, were ordered to be tried as adults by a Washtenaw County juvenile judge.

HULBERT'S BODY was found in a Superior Township field Jan. 7, 1987, by hunters. According to testimony, the Stevenson Junior High School seventh-grader thought she was pregnant by Machacek. An autopsy showed she'd been shot seven times, and that she was not pregnant.

After prosecutor Robert Cooper called 30-some witnesses in nine days, defense attorney Richard Dignon called to the stand two friends of Stamper's Friday.

Noel Collette Goble, 17, testified that she was Stamper's girlfriend in the fall of 1986. Asked whether "there came a time when something happened between you two," Goble said, "Yes. He wrapped a cord around my neck. He was trying to choke me."

"He wanted me to have sex with him and I refused."

Hulbert had had relationships with both defendants.

JAMIE ALAN Barksdale of Canton testified that he was partying with Machacek and Stamper on Jan. 2 or 3 of 1987 when the topic of Hulbert's murder arose.

"Chris said he had nothing to do with the shooting of the girl," testified Barksdale. "He said he'd been threatened. He said Stamper told him if he tried to stop it, he'd shoot him, too."

Barksdale, asked by Dignon how Stamper reacted to Machacek's statement, said, "Steve agreed Chris didn't shoot her. Stamper's behavior that day 'was normal. He didn't act no different,'" Barksdale testified.

Barksdale said he didn't go to police with the information until June, 1988 "because I just didn't want to get involved."

Barksdale reiterated his answer when pressed by the prosecutor about why he waited so long to come forward.

ANGELIA DUNCAN, 18, befriended Machacek while both were housed in the Washtenaw County Juvenile Detention Center.

Duncan, crying, testified that she couldn't remember telling police in May and June of 1987 that Machacek admitted killing Hulbert. Judge Conlin — asked by Cooper to let the jury listen to a tape of Duncan's statement to police — refused, saying Duncan was under oath and was either lying or telling the truth.

Duncan testified that Machacek told her Hulbert "got shot because they thought she was pregnant." At the time of the incident, "They was high and stuff," Duncan said.

Machacek said he was Hulbert's boyfriend at the time, said Duncan.

MICHAEL STRADNIEKS, a friend of Machacek's, testified that he parted with the defendant on New Year's Eve.

"He seemed perfectly normal, the same as always," said Stradnieks.

Hulbert's pregnancy was talked about at the party, testified Stradnieks.

A friend "asked Chris if he got her pregnant. He said no, it was some other boyfriend who got her pregnant."

Stradnieks said he remembered partying and smoking joints with Stamper and Machacek at a friend's house the night of Dec. 30. He said "there was a song on the radio. I remember Steve was singing it to Amy" (a friend.)

Stradnieks said he remembered Machacek riding over to his house on his moped a few days later. "He had hickeys on his neck and wanted to check them out. He looked in the mirror and said, 'Oh my God, my neck is really messed up.' While Machacek was there, he was called home, where the police were waiting for him, testified Stradnieks.

SGT. TIMOTHY Shibata of the Michigan State Police testified that two fingerprints, both Stamper's, were lifted from the scope area of a 22 caliber semi-automatic rifle recovered from Stamper's house.

The weapon could have been cleaned before it was examined, said Shibata, an expert witness.

Charles Barna, a laboratory scientist with the state police, testified that fabric found at the scene matched that of the ski coat Hulbert was wearing Dec. 30.

A third expert witness testified that a bullet recovered from Hulbert's body "could have been and probably was fired by the (Stamper's) semi-automatic."

Cartridge cases found near Hulbert's body were the same brand as cartridges taken from Stamper's closet, testified Detective Lieutenant David Balash.

Near-silence fell over the courtroom as jurors were handed Hulbert's clothing, Stamper's rifle and photos of Hulbert's body for examination.

Dignon said that for his client, a verdict of accessory after the fact "will be victory."

Machacek and Stamper are being held without bond in Washtenaw County Jail.

Defendant says companion killed 13-year-old girl

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

A taped statement made to sheriffs by Christopher Machacek, on trial charged with murdering a 13-year-old Canton Township girl, was played for the jury last week in the courtroom of Washtenaw Circuit Judge Henry Conlin. This is a summary of that tape.

Machacek, 18, is one of two Ypsilanti Township youths charged with open murder in the death of Mary Anne Hulbert Dec. 30, 1986. Stamper, also 18, is scheduled to stand trial beginning Monday, Sept. 19.

Machacek, shortly before his arrest Jan. 7, 1987, told Washtenaw County sheriffs that Steve Stamper killed Hulbert. Stamper, also 18, is scheduled to stand trial beginning Monday, Sept. 19.

Machacek, who did not take the stand, told sheriffs that he and Stamper picked Hulbert up in Stamper's Ford Bronco after she called them the afternoon of Dec. 30.

On the tape, Machacek said the three drove to a field in Superior Township where "Stamper told her to take off her clothes." When she refused, "he hit her with his fist. He chipped her tooth or something like that. She cried and then she said, 'OK, I'll take my clothes off.'

"I didn't know what to do," Machacek said.

STAMPER BLINDFOLDED Hulbert and made her stand against a tree with her hands tied behind her back, Machacek said.

"Stamper said, 'I got something for you.' Then he shot her like six or seven times, and she fell down. I'm like, 'What are you doing, man?'"

"She was making noises and stuff, and I was tripping out," said Machacek. "I helped him pull her in the bushes by her feet. Then I told him to take me home."

Machacek said he stayed in the truck during the shooting.

"Stamper went and washed his truck."

"Why didn't you try to intervene to stop it?" sheriffs asked Machacek.

"I WAS scared," answered Machacek. "I thought he was trying to scare the shit out of her, but I guess not."

"Did you fear for your own life?" Machacek was asked.

"I don't know," Machacek said. Stamper didn't say why he killed her but had said in the past he wondered "how it would feel to kill someone," Machacek said.

According to juvenile court testimony, Hulbert thought she was pregnant by Machacek. The youths intended to scare Hulbert, inducing a miscarriage by firing rifles into the air, they said.

On the way home from the shooting, Stamper said, "I never killed nobody before," Machacek said.

"He was praying and stuff, saying 'I hope God forgives me.'"

Asked whether there had been any discussion about killing Hulbert before the shooting, Machacek said he remembered Stamper "joking around about killing her" saying "we ought to get rid of her, or we should kill her probably."

Machacek said neither he nor Stamper had been smoking or taking drugs that day.

THE DEFENSE had argued that the tape should be ruled inadmissible. Attorney Richard Dignon said Machacek and Stamper should have been turned over immediately to juvenile court authorities, as both were 16 at the time of the killing. Also, Machacek was denied his Miranda rights, Dignon argued.

The taped statement differs from the explanation Machacek first offered. Machacek decided to make a second statement after he was told his story would be compared with Stamper's for truth, testified Detective Michael Fulcher.

At first, Machacek told officers that Hulbert had been dropped off at her boyfriend's house in Westland. Machacek said he hadn't seen her since, Fulcher testified.

Fewer students enter S'craft nurse program

By Mary Rodrigue
staff writer

Not so long ago, there was a waiting list of students anxious to get into Schoolcraft College's two-year nursing program.

Today, 87 students are enrolled in the Livonia community college's nursing program, which has slots for 93 students.

"And I'm sure we'll lose some through attrition. That's normal," said Sandra Florek, director of institutional advancement.

The figures are "not terrible," Florek said, "but I remember when there was a long waiting list."

Schoolcraft's shrinking nursing program is part of a national trend, she said.

"It's a predominantly female field, salaries are not outstanding, but the hours, pressure and responsibility are outstanding," Florek said. "We expect a lot out of (nurses)."

Florek said the associate degree in nursing program is possibly the most rigorous program at Schoolcraft. Students are expected to complete a course load heavy on science requirements in addition to clinical training.

"You could have a patient die, and then be expected to go back to class," she said.

Students train by working on patients in hospitals or in clinics under the guidance of a nursing instructor. They are not paid for their work.

Students who obtain an associate's degree may then take the same state examination to become a registered nurse as students graduating from four-year institutions.

"Pinning (becoming an RN) is more exciting than obtaining their degree," Florek said.

"There is a lot of camaraderie that develops over the two years."

The state test is given twice a year and then students must wait a few months for the results.

Florek said the two-year program, compared to the four, varies little in substance.

"Four-year programs are heavier in liberal arts and some additional clinical work, but not much," she said.

But a national movement is seeking to downgrade the two-year nursing program.

"They want the four-year nurses to be called professionals and the two-year (nursing graduates) technical nurses," Florek said.

"Community colleges are very much against this. We're now facing a shortage of health care practitioners."

At Madonna College, a traditional four-year school known for its nursing program, 600 nursing students are enrolled this year. Half of those students are already registered nurses, according to spokeswoman Marilyn McConnell.

"Most hospitals require a BSN (bachelor of science degree in nursing) for supervisory personnel. They come back to school so they can be promoted," she said.

Schoolcraft's shrinking nursing program is part of a national trend, college officials said.

Conservation group plans sighting-in days this fall

Western Wayne County Conservation Association, which this year celebrates its golden anniversary, announces the annual sighting-in days at its ranges located at 6700 Napier Road, Plymouth Township, just west of Plymouth, between North Territorial Road and Five Mile Road.

Beginning Monday, Oct. 17, and continuing through Monday, Nov. 14, the ranges will be open to the public from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily.

Sighting-in days at WWCCA have become a tradition with hunters in southeast Michigan since they began over 25 years ago. A $5 fee to defray the costs of targets, benches, sand bags, spotting scopes and range and parking lot upkeep is necessary. In return shooters will be offered expert assistance to help them zero-in their firearms, make adjustments to their sights/scopes and generally prepare their firearms for use in the coming hunting seasons.

The foremost concern of the trained range officers is safety. Many of the range officers on duty will be NRA certified firearms instructors. Some NRA Class C and Class B coaches will also be on duty.

Rifles and shotguns may be sighted-in seven days a week. Hand guns may only be sighted in on weekends. Shooters must provide their own ammunition, preferably the same kind with which they will hunt.

Shooters are urged to dress in clothing similar to that in which they will hunt. These two tips will help in zeroing in their firearms. Generally mid-week days are less crowded than weekend days.

Local reps list travel expenses

AP — Michigan's Congressional delegation traveled the world from Argentina to Zimbabwe since 1987, on official trips that cost the government nearly $150,000.

Rep. Sander Levin, D-Southfield, was the area's most heavily traveled Congressman. Levin ranked fourth among the state's 18-member delegation with a trip to six countries costing $14,310.09. Levin's district includes Redford Township.

Reps. William Ford, D-Taylor, and Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, also traveled abroad during their current terms. Both reported travel expenses of less than $10,000. Ford's district includes Westland, Garden City, Canton Township and southern Livonia. Pursell's district includes northern Livonia, Plymouth and Plymouth Township.

Levin reported a trip to France, Italy, the Netherlands, Nigeria, Morocco and Portugal as part of a Congressional investigation into drug abuse prevention.

CONGRESSMEN MET with government officials at each stop, Levin said. "We worked from 7 a.m. sometimes to 9 at night," he said.

"We also looked at the relationship of drug abuse to AIDS," Levin said.

Ford reported an August 1987 trip to Great Britain, $6,100.66.

Pursell reported a January 1988 trip to China and Hong Kong, $1,379.40.

Rep. George Crockett, D-Detroit, was the state's most active congressional globetrotter according to reports of foreign travel expenses published in the Congressional Record.

Crockett has traveled to 16 countries or overseas colonies, two of them twice, since January 1987. The trips cost the public $40,469.10, according to the reports.

Rep. Guy Vander Jagt, a Luther, Mich., Republican, was the second most-seasoned traveler among the Michigan delegation, with visits to 13 countries costing $31,398.36. Rep. Howard Wolpe, a Lansing, Mich., Democrat, was third, with trips to six countries costing $20,846.41.

TRAVEL RECORDS are published irregularly by each House committee, sometimes up to six months after the close of the quarter covered. The 1988 records were incomplete.

Crockett and Wolpe are members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee; Vander Jagt is a member of the House Ways and Means Committee, which handles foreign trade legislation. Levin was part of a special delegation.

The three local congressmen were among 12 Michigan representatives reporting foreign travel since January 1987, at a total cost of $148,881.03, according to reports. Six state congressmen reported no foreign travel over the same period.

Take titles, please

Following other national trends that have carried us back to the Dark Ages — kicking and screaming — a decision has been made at two news publications that is simply prehistoric.

Just when I thought we could call ourselves progressive, the Atlanta Journal and Atlanta Constitution announced they will begin using "courtesy titles" once again. Although the papers are not main sources of news here in Michigan, the change should still be a concern.

This has been a pet peeve of mine since I started reading newspapers, even before I started writing for them.

Courtesy titles label a news source on second reference, usually with a Mr., Mrs., Ms. or Miss. The Observer & Eccentric and most other modern papers treat everyone equally on second reference — by using last names only.

Exceptions are sometimes made in obituaries in respect to the deceased.

THE ATLANTA newspapers are taking this step backward, as most other publications are moving ahead, by ridding themselves of this ball-and-chain tradition. While Atlanta officials boast about their city's revival and urban progress, that is not reflected at their two metro newspapers where this anti-progress stance is being taken.

Bill Kovach, editor of the Journal and Constitution, arrived in his present position from the New York Times where courtesy names on second reference have always been a tradition.

"For some time, we have been troubled by the limited use of courtesy titles in our news columns," he said in a front-page editor's note, announcing the change.

It troubles me that Kovach (or shall I say, Mr. Kovach) would force a label on his news sources.

The proper "courtesy" calls for treating all news sources equally. Using such titles is not only stodgy and out-of-date but creates choppy sentences that are difficult to read. A "Mr." or "Ms." interjected throughout a news or feature story simply interrupts the reader.

IT ALSO interrupts a more important flow in our society toward treating men and women equally in the eyes of readers. This change is not only a step backward for everyone, it is truly a giant leap in that direction for womankind.

Women being interviewed must decide whether to define their marital status — which may be totally irrelevant to the story — or to label themselves as "Ms." which in many readers' eyes plants them firmly in the throes of radical feminism.

Those who have earned the title of "doctor," either in medical or academic worlds, will have that referred to in a news story when appropriate.

As a reader, I expect my newspapers to give me the "courtesy" of good writing, a good mix of news and not to use titles on second reference for those they interview.

Labor of love

Man finds no other way

MY WIFE made a tiny conversational slip the other day — but it was so telling it made my head snap.

When asked by new acquaintances what she did for a living, her response was breezy and pointed: "I'm a mother. And I do artwork on the side."

That was a major breakthrough for Terry, a former illustrator for The Detroit News. Her usual response would have been: "I'm an artist. I work out of the house."

But Terry — like thousands of other professional women — has discovered a curious pleasure and fulfillment in putting her career on hold to nurture our 1-year-old son, Nicholas.

For Terry, it is more a labor of love than a sacrifice.

IT WASN'T an easy choice, and it's been a difficult adjustment. Terry, however, wouldn't have it any other way. Neither would Nicholas.

Try explaining that to the parents who put their careers above everything else — everything, that is, but the prospects of a good, feisty debate over day care.

They resent parents like Terry and me, who dare to suggest that shuttling infants to day-care centers might be less than the best for the kids.

Parents like us are branded as backward, ultraconservative, antifeminist yahoos who proclaim "barefoot, pregnant and in the kitchen" as a verse from the gospel according to Phyllis Schlafly.

Sometimes, when Nicholas totters around, shaking his fist and chortling in his own dialect of Mandarin Chinese, I wonder what he'd say to those cynics.

He, after all, has a full-time mother.

I don't condemn day-care centers or those who use them. To some, child care is an absolute economic necessity.

But so many of us have sold out to a materialistic society in which only two-income families can supposedly make it, and in which "making it" is measured by our own quests for fulfillment — or worse, by our inventories of personal possessions.

NO ONE EVER said a single-in-

come family could afford to live at the same level as a working couple. Our home is a good example of that. It lacks the usual electronics. We don't own a VCR. We don't even have a color TV.

Nicholas, our most precious possession, doesn't seem to mind. There's no lack of love, security or attention, his three most desperate needs.

If making career No. 1 and children No. 2 is supposed to be so attractive, why do my female colleagues say they, too, plan to buck the trend and be there for their future kids?

They're savvy, professional journalists with potential, yet they don't seem to mind the thought of putting off plans until after their kids' formative years.

It's called back to basics.

It's probably too traditional a lifestyle for yuppies. But it's good enough for Terry and me — and for the child we vowed to thoroughly love.

Bill Kole is a reporter for the Rochester Eccentric.

Terry — like thousands of other professional women — has discovered a curious pleasure and fulfillment in putting her career on hold to nurture our 1-year-old son, Nicholas.

Story added to confusion

To the editor:

A recent front-page article appeared in your newspaper that I would like to comment on. The subject of the article was school administrator pay increases. The article provided the names and salaries for each of the administrators. My comments are as follows:

1. Revealing the names of the employees was very improper. The range of a salary for a position and the increases available for job performance should be available records. But to publish a specific name with their salary is very improper. What an individual earns is a private matter that should not be revealed and published without their permission. These people are not elected officials; they are private individuals.

2. The article inflames the school budget controversy. The public still does not understand the relationship between a 12 percent property tax increase, a school budget cut and layoffs, and salary increases for all the administrators. The normal reaction to seeing all these names and the money being spent is "Who are all these bums and how can we pay them more money in the face of budget cuts?" Now the administrator group will have to justify their existence and their pay, an unwarranted and time-consuming exercise. All this article did was to make the situation worse, increase the confusion, and inflame emotions.

3. The administration group is a bargain. When you compare the job responsibilities and personal qualifications of one of these people to their counterparts in business, you will find that they are grossly underpaid and overworked. My wife is responsible for an operation that runs 70 hours per week, 52 weeks a year, with a salary staff of over 100. Her counterpart at the Ford Motor Co. would earn a base salary 28 percent greater, be paid a bonus equal to half her 1987 base, and have two company cars available for her use. She stays in education rather than business because of her personal commitment to improving the quality of people's lives through education.

I believe your newspaper has a responsibility to provide balanced reporting on controversial issues and to respect the privacy of individuals. This article did neither.

Terry L. Stroom,
Plymouth

School budget was creative

To the editor:

I would like to thank the Plymouth Canton School Board for approving such generous pay increases for the school staff and administrators. This effort enables Gallimore Elementary School's budget to be cut by 33 percent, and now my child gets to have 34 children in his fifth-grade class.

I would also like to thank Dr. Hoben for setting such a fine example by accepting his generous pay increases during this critical financial crisis facing Plymouth Canton Schools. It seems to me that the administration can increase class sizes, lay off teachers, cut budgets, books, supplies, materials, extracurricular activities, and have plenty left over for salary increases. I find this very creative budgeting.

Were all these increases planned in anticipation of the recent millage issue passing? Believe me, this is no way to get further millages passed.

My sympathies to the students of Plymouth-Canton schools who are being short-changed by budget cuts and overcrowded classrooms.

My plea to the Plymouth Canton Taxpayers, it's time for recall.

D. Wilhelm,

Hearings set on master plan for county parks

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Wayne County residents will have their say on future plans for the county park system during a pair of public hearings this week.

County officials recently completed a 10-year park system master plan. The plan concludes user fees or a new county recreation tax may be necessary to restore county parks.

County Executive Edward McNamara is expected to release the park master plan today.

Hearings will occur from 7-9:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Wayne County Building, 600 Randolph, Detroit, and from 7-9:30 p.m. Thursday at the Wayne County Intermediate Schools, 33500 Van Born, Wayne.

THE MASTER plan's release marks completion of a two-year study on the county park system. It includes results of a survey of 1,200 county residents.

"We discovered people were concerned about four issues," executive's office representative Barbara Rickert said. "They were concerned the grass would be cut, that comfort stations would be operating, that there would be more picnic tables and that there would be adequate security."

County residents gave favorable marks to the park system, the survey indicated, though less than half those surveyed had used a county park within the past year.

The county also received advice from park professionals, including state parks and Huron Clinton Metroparks representatives as well as recreation department staff members from 39 county communities.

Park professionals ranked user fees, a county tax and transfers from the county's general operating budget in order of preference for increased park financing.

A 0.5-MILL tax is being considered, though county officials said no decision had been made on any of the three financing alternatives. A 0.5-mill tax would equal $18.75 per year for people living in houses with a market value of $75,000.

It would take at least $4.9 million over the next five years to restore and expand the county park system, the plan concluded. Of that, $1.7 million would be earmarked for golf course work. The rest go toward adding new picnic tables and restoring comfort stations at Hines Park, improving the Elizabeth Park river walk and resurfacing county tennis courts, among other projects.

Less than half of all park materials were judged to be in good condition, according to a recent inventory.

COUNTY PARKS suffered cutbacks in recent years as the county strove to balance its budget.

Park budgets decreased from $3.28 million in early 1970s to an estimated $2.28 million today.

Holiday Nature Preserve is one of the Wayne County Parks major holdings. A 10-year master plan for the park system is expected to be released today. Public hearings will be held Tuesday and Thursday. In addition to the Holiday Preserve, the park system also maintains Hines, Bell Creek and Elizabeth parks, as well as Warren Valley Golf Course.

A 1987 survey showed that the system's number of picnic tables decreased to 550 from an estimated 4,000 in 1962. The system lost 900 park benches and an estimated 1,900 trash barrels over the same period.

AREA COUNTY parks include the Middle and Lower Rouge parkways, Bell Creek Park, Lola Valley Park and the William P. Holliday Forest and Wildlife Preserve.

Program focuses on coping with cancer

A patient education program designed to help people cope with cancer will be 7-9 p.m. Tuesdays, starting Sept. 20, at Ward Presbyterian Church, 17000 Farmington Road, Livonia.

The objectives of the program are to increase understanding of cancer and a patient's control of his/her life while decreasing anxiety about the disease. The "I Can Cope" cancer series is sponsored by the American Cancer Society and will include guest speakers to discuss diet, medicine, treatment and other community professionals.

The program is open to the public. There is no fee, but class size is limited. For more information or to register, call 422-1826.

A SORE TAILBONE

A sore tailbone, or coccydynia in medical jargon, is an annoyance. If you have the condition, you know what a pain it is every time you try something as otherwise simple as sitting in a chair. Your doctor feels almost as badly. For there is no medication, injection, or message that has even a mediocre record of success as therapy.

The tailbone, or coccyx, is the end part of the spine. The coccyx has a slight curve, a rounded end, and lies just above the rectum. All these characteristics make the bone vulnerable to injury, particularly from a fall, or after a prolonged ride on a bumpy object such as a horse or motorcycle.

Most of us have suffered episodes of coccydynia, however in those instances where the pain remains, there is little explanation as to why. X-ray usually shows nothing and is helpful only to ally concern over a tumor or fracture. Blood tests are of no value. Heat helps, and a "donut," or innertube, is useful for sitting. Your best ally is time, as experience shows that after a variable period of weeks to months, the problem clears on its own.

Don't forget the hot summer of '88.

U-M Regent Baker survives challenge

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Deane Baker had a rare experience for an incumbent Republican on the University of Michigan Board of Regents. He was almost dumped for renomination Saturday by the GOP state convention.

"Were the election held Friday night, I might have won it," said Alan May, the Bloomfield Hills lawyer who almost upset Baker, a 16-year veteran of the U-M governing board. "This business surfaced on the floor the next day."

By "this business," May meant a typed and photocopied statement from a religious right group called Michigan Committee for Freedom alleging May was soft on abortion — an issue that barely surfaces in U-M board business.

"People who are pro-life don't think of the impact of the position. They vote their hearts, their consciences, and in my opinion it's almost impossible to transcend that issue in this party," May shrugged after the convention.

He conceded the U-M nomination to Baker, who had an 879-638 lead with 90 percent of the vote tallied in the tightest battle of the convention in Detroit's Cobo Hall.

Deane Baker
U-M regent

MAY HAD potent help from another Republican on the U-M board, Neal Nielsen, a Brighton attorney.

Nielsen, nominating May against his fellow regent, said May "has the ability to work within an eight-member board . . . to achieve consensus as opposed to arbitrariness. We need a change."

Baker called it "incomprehensible that any Republican would cooperate with the Democrats to unseat a respected, 16-year incumbent with a proven vote-getting record."

Baker said a Democratic regent (who he declined to identify) joined Nielsen in the dumping effort because Democrats don't like Baker's habit of issuing position papers and "forcing them to take public stands on issues." Among other issues, Baker said he was successful in winning support of a motion protecting "academic freedom" of U-M scholars to work on Strategic Defense Initiative research.

STATE SEN. R. Robert Geake, R-Northville, made Baker's nominating speech and read letters of praising Baker from President Ronald Reagan and former President Gerald Ford.

Harry Vyerser, a top conservative spokesman and former Pat-Robertson-for-president leader, backed Baker, charging that "too many liberal professors are pushing out their quack ideology and calling it education." Vyerser praised Baker as a regent who "makes waves."

Rep. Paul Hillegonds, R-Holland, the rising minority leader in the Michigan House, made a seconding speech saying Baker "deserves this nomination."

In decades no Republican officeholder has been denied renomination by a state convention, although Democrats have dumped incumbents.

STANDARD PROCEDURE would have been for Baker to be nominated unopposed for the first U-M position. Then the two newcomers — May and East Lansing attorney Cliff Taylor — would have fought it out for the second position.

But Taylor, realizing he had the most support, announced a week ago he would seek the first slot, leaving Baker to scramble against May for the second slot.

May, a former 18th Congressional District GOP chairman and former chairman of the state Civil Rights Commission, tried not to appear bitter at the abortion issue that he felt beat him.

The only relevancy of abortion at U-M, said May, would be in "disseminating abortion information under the guise of birth control" and using fetuses in research. He said he opposed both measures.

THE PARTY'S 1,900 delegates met Friday night and Saturday to fill out the top of the state ticket — two nominees each for the State Board of Education, U-M regents, Michigan State University Board of Trustees, Wayne State University Board of Governors and state Supreme Court.

In the only other contested race, Lansing attorney Edward Liebler won a nomination to the MSU board 894-818 over Dee Cook of Decker-ville.

The convention didn't write a platform but took positions on five issues.

Delegates opposed, 1,376 to 325, legislation that would require employers to provide unpaid parental leave. Such a bill is being sponsored by state Rep. Mary Brown, D-Kalamazoo, who is facing a major reelection fight over the issue. Republicans generally called it an anti-business measure that would discourage employers from hiring women of child-bearing age.

Republicans favored:

• Aiding the Nicaraguan freedom fighters, 1,622 to 87.

• Proposal A on the Nov. 8 ballot banning Medicaid-paid abortions, 1,464 to 268.

• Allowing tax credits for working parents to pay for child care, 1,617 to 114.

• Encouraging parental choice of public schools for their children and competition between schools, 1,345 to 399.

GOP picks rest of state ticket

Here is the Michigan Republican state ticket, as nominated Saturday by the GOP state convention in Detroit:

• State Board of Education — former 14-year member Barbara Dumouchelle, Grosse Ile housewife and former teacher who lost the post in 1986; and Marilyn Lundy, Grosse Pointe, president of a social services organization operating Head Start and job-training programs. Two incumbent Republicans — including Norman Stockmeyer of Westland — declined to seek re-election.

• U-M Board of Regents — Clifford Taylor and incumbent Deane Baker (see other story on this page).

• Michigan State University Board of Trustees — incumbent Tom Reed, DeWitt, general manager of the Michigan Livestock Exchange, and Edward Liebler, Lansing attorney and veterinarian.

• Wayne State University Board of Governors — incumbent Richard Van Dusen, Bloomfield Hills attorney, former legislator and former assistant secretary of Housing and Urban Development; and Hattie Massey, director of a community school program in Detroit.

• State Supreme Court — incumbent Justice James H. Brickley, former lieutenant governor who was appointed to the post; and Richard Johnston, Macomb County lawyer and former probate judge. (Court nominees are picked by party conventions but run on the non-partisan ballot.)

All terms are eight years. In 1980, the GOP won both State Board of Education slots but split all others with the Democrats.

taste buds

chef Larry Janes

It's peachy memories of cottage

I love harvest time.

Giant tomatoes, zucchini that could be considered a lethal weapon, apples with taste sensations of sweetness, tartness and a little in between, and my favorite fall treat, fresh peaches.

While growing up, the Janes gang had a small cottage just off Point Pelee, and the only way to get there was via the tomato and peach growing regions of Ontario.

We would stop for bushels of the beauties on our way in and Momma would spend cloudy, cool, overcast days putting up a batch of preserves or doing some canning so that we could enjoy the succulent flavor of peaches all year round.

Ah, those were the days.

THE PEACH is the fruit of a tree bearing the same name. Botanically, a peach is classified as a drupe — a fruit whose seed is contained in a hard pit or stone surrounded by soft, pulpy flesh with a thin skin.

As the genus name prunus suggests, peaches are close relatives of the apricot, almond, cherry and plum.

Peaches are round, with a yellow skin, and are edible fresh, though the skin may have areas of red. The edible flesh is either soft or quite firm.

Peaches are classified as freestone or clingstone, according to how difficult it is to remove the pit from the fruit.

PROBABLY THE best-known freestone variety is the Elberta. Other well-known freestones include the Hale, Redhaven, Hiley, Halehaven and Jubilee. Clingstone peach varieties include the Fortuna, Plaoor, Johnson and Sims.

Peaches hailed from China, where they were written about nearly 4,000 years ago. The peach then spread its wings to Persia (now Iran) and eventually throughout Europe.

Cortes can be credited for bringing the peach to Mexico, from where the Indians can be credited for bringing it to the Southern states area.

Most people think peaches and nectarines are alike. Hardly. I won a bet in a bar once when another food writer tried to tell me that a nectarine was nothing more than fuzzless peach. That is true. The nectarine is similar to the peach, but it has no fuzz. Close observation will tell anyone that a nectarine is smaller, has a more pronounced aroma and has a flavor all its own.

In all honesty, some peaches have been known to mutate into nectarines (and vice versa), but do you really care?

Peaches are harvested when they are ripe but still very firm. Since peaches mature unevenly, it may be necessary to make two more pickings off a tree, depending on the variety, crop, weather and market.

It is important that the fruit not be picked too soon. Quality increases only while the fruit is on the tree. Both fruit color and firmness are used as guides for picking ripe fruits.

PEACHES ARE picked by hand for sale as fresh fruit. With increased labor costs, mechanical shakers and catching frames have

Buyer selects holiday gourmet goodies

By Larry Janes
special writer

DO YOU ENJOY grocery shopping? When it comes down to actual taste differences, can you really tell the difference between Maxwell House coffee compared to Chase and Sanborn?

Now, imagine having the job (more like career) of choosing the right foods at the right price for selling to folks like me. Can you anticipate my buying needs?

Are you aware of the latest trends in foodstuffs? And most importantly, can you make the decision to buy Brand X over Brand Z and have reasons why?

Add to all this the responsibility of attending one of the major buying shows at the McCormick Place Convention Center in Chicago, where you will spend a minimum of three days walking more than 17 miles, visiting different booths and talking with various manufacturers.

DURING THIS TIME you will sample about 4½ pounds of assorted chocolates; approximately 3½ gallons of different ice cream, cones and frozen confections; about 32 different blends of coffees and teas, and enough toothpicks with cheese and meat products to feed the Detroit Lions, not to mention the 400 or so other food retailers who want you to try everything they offer as well. Everything. Have you ever enjoyed chocolate-dipped pretzels at 8:45 a.m.?

One might feel sorry for Pam Kosteva, owner and chief purchasing agent for the Cheese and Wine Barn of Plymouth. I mean, having to try all that food... but Kosteva loves it.

You would never guess by looking at her svelte figure that she recently returned from a whirlwind three-day stint at the Windy City's annual Fancy Food and Confection Show. "This is how my holiday season starts," says Kosteva. "What we order in July and August will be the main staples for the upcoming holiday season."

Kosteva hopes these orders she's making now will turn into orders for the many thousands of gift baskets her shop will fill in the next few months. "Imagine buying for 2,500 gift baskets and stocking the shelves of the shop," she adds.

So what can we, the consumer, look for in this year's gourmet food section?

Kosteva thinks the chocolate trend has pretty much followed its course for 1988. This year the emphasis was definitely on the "upgrading of junk food," says Kosteva. Look for more of a healthy twist in snack items like real "cheese straws," blue corn chips and natural-flavored popcorns and other "bag-in-hand" related items.

ANOTHER TREND for '88 will be the growing importance of breakfast items. Forget the prepackaging. These will be gourmet-all-the-way box mixes that will have today's yuppies preparing the likes of Swedish pancakes, Belgian waffles, old-fashioned baking powder biscuits and healthy-type muffins.

The trend to produce "homemade comfort foods" will shy away from using individually purchased ingredients, and you will notice a definite influx of prepared "gourmet box-mixes" that have the preparer simply adding eggs and milk.

The Cheese and Wine Barn will offer a larger selection of private-label items such as salad dressings, jams, preserves, desserts and cakes. Look for beautiful gift-boxed liqueur cakes with mouth-watering descriptions like "chocolate rum dazzle" and "Amaretto/black Russian."

These "impulse boxed" items will be the perfect host/hostess gift and could easily fit comfortably into a basket filled with assorted cheeses and wine.

While at the food show, Kosteva noticed a big push to "Santa Fe labeling." This year, anything and everything from the Southwest will be a big seller, says Kosteva. "If it has a cactus on it and heralds from west of the Rockies and south of Denver, it will be on store shelves this winter."

AND IF ALL of this isn't enough to jingle the change loose from your wallets, just wait till you see what's in store for the coffee and tea industry come 1989.

Kosteva claims the emphasis will focus more on coffee and how to make it and make it quick. Look for individual bags of coffee, similar to teabags so that you can brew yourself just one great cup at a time. In addition, coffee will be processed in flavor-sealed packets that have just the right amount measured out and hermetically sealed for freshness.

For tea lovers, look for finer, pricey tea selections, similar to vineyard wines. Finer teas will not only hail from specific countries, now you will be able to choose from which tea-growing field and hill the tea was grown. Add to this different "pickings," which will serve as vintages. Ah, I can see the price rising faster than the credit limit on my plastic money.

Baskets hold bread, pastry of old country

By Nechama Bakst
special writer

To their suppliers, they're the "picky packers," particular to the nth degree about the quality of the merchandise they use. To their customers, they're a pair of astute businesswomen who make up customized gift baskets and deliver the goods.

But if you ask Delphine Kryza and Rosemarie Fabian, co-owners of deRos Delicacies in Redford, they're just two cousins who are doing something they enjoy and making a go of it.

Five years ago, Kryza was a bookkeeper and "hated it." The idea of working with gift baskets was born after she sent a sympathy basket filled with breads and pastries to a friend and realized that this was something people really appreciated.

"When you bite into the bread," Kryza said, "you reminisce: 'We had this when Mama was around.'"

Actually the memories of Kryza's childhood are filled with images of her grandmother, a gentle, caring woman who came from Poland and made European breads and coffee cakes "in high roasting pans."

"WHEN PEOPLE CAME, she always shared with them," Kryza said. "It's ironic that here I am working with bread again."

Kryza started the business by herself in her own home and was joined about two and a half years later by Fabian. They moved into the store on Five Mile Road last November.

The breads are not baked in the store. At 6:30 each morning, freshly baked breads and pastries are deliv-been used with success when the fruit is destined for the cannery, or when the fruit is picked as "hard ripe" for shipping purposes.

Following harvesting, many growers will hydrocool their peaches to remove the field heat. This rapid cooling of the fruit to retard ripening, deterioration of quality and the growth of rot organisms.

In hydrocooling, peaches are usually drenched in ice water or sprayed, which usually includes a germicidal agent. Therefore, it's best to wash thoroughly before eating a store-bought peach.

ing a store-bought peach

IF YOU'RE planning to do a little canning this season, look for peaches that are fairly firm or just becoming slightly soft. The skin color between the red areas should be creamy.

Any peaches that have a greenish tint to them are underripe, and in all likelihood will not ripen properly. Very soft peaches are overripe and have pale tan spots, which expand in a circle and gradually turn darker in color.

Now's the time to pick a fresh load of great peaches at the market. Bon appetit!

BAKED PEACHES

6 large whole peaches
1 Tbsp. butter, melted dash nutmeg
1/2 cup water
1 cup sugar
1 lemon, juice and rind
1/2 cup white wine, brandy or rum

Peel peaches, place in a covered glass baking dish. Combine butter, nutmeg, water, sugar, lemon juice and rum. Mix well and pour over peaches. Grate the rind of the lemon over top and bake at 400 degrees until peaches are tender, about 30 minutes. Great hot or cold.

A LUSCIOUS PEACH DESSERT

Good enough for company
3 Tbsp. butter, softened
1 1/4 cups sugar
2 eggs, separated grated rind of 1 lemon
1/2 cup milk
1 cup flour
1 Tbsp. baking powder
dash salt
10 large peaches, peeled and sliced
1 Tbsp. lemon juice

Cream butter and 1/4 cup sugar until light. Stir in egg yolks and lemon rind, mix well. Alternately stir in milk and flour, baking powder and salt. Mix well. Set aside. Fill the bottom of a 13x9-inch greased baking dish with peach slices. Sprinkle with 1/4 cup of sugar and lemon juice. Pour batter over peaches. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes. Meanwhile, prepare meringue by beating egg whites until foamy. Gradually beat in 1/4 cup sugar and beat until stiff peaks are formed. Top dessert with meringue and brown at 350 degrees for 12 minutes. Serve warm.

FROZEN PEACH DAQUIRI

1 can (6 ounces) frozen daquiri mix
1 1/2 cups light rum
6 fresh peaches, quartered and seeded
1 cup crushed ice

Combine all ingredients in a blender and blend until smooth and thick. Pour into a glass and garnish with a fresh peach slice. Enjoy.

POULET AU PECHE

Chicken with peaches
4 large chicken breasts, split salt and flour to taste
4 Tbsp. peanut oil
6 Tbsp. brown sugar
2 Tbsp. butter
4 fresh large peaches, halved
1/2 cup peach schnapps
1 cup toasted almonds

Lightly salt and flour the chicken breasts. Fry chicken over medium heat in peanut oil until nicely browned and almost cooked. Remove chicken and set aside. Pour off all the oil in the pan and add the brown sugar and butter. Simmer until smooth. Add chicken and place half a peach on each chicken. Add peach schnapps and baste chicken with liquid while simmering for 5 minutes. Sprinkle with toasted almonds.

Baskets hold bread and pastries ered by European bakers who are the best. Kryza and Fabian could find

Now the baskets — laid out the night before on a long table in the back room of the quaint little store and spread with colorful linens — are ready to be filled.

By 9 a.m., full of fresh-from-the-oven breads and pastries, the baskets are on the way to their prospective recipients.

They're delivered by drivers hired by the store or, "If we have one going downtown and one to West Bloomfield, and all the drivers are busy, we'll try and do it ourselves," Fabian said.

"I don't think the two of us could have been in another business that has so much exposure to all walks of life," Kryza said. "Our customers have become our friends."

ABOUT 300 BASKETS a month are sent for sympathy, birthdays, holidays, anniversaries and other occasions.

In fact, "Each basket tells a story," Kryza said. For instance, someone sent a basket to the fire chief in Riverview. "It was red-hot and he loved it. Now he orders baskets."

These are favorite family recipes from Delphine Kryza and Rosemarie Fabian of deRos Delicacies in Redford.

AUNT STEFIE'S FAVORITE EGG BREAD

1 package dry yeast
1/4 cup warm water
1 tablespoon sugar
6 egg yolks
1/2 cup sugar
1 1/2 cup scalded milk
1 pound butter
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons vanilla
7 cups flour
1 1/2 cup raisins (optional)

Blend yeast, warm water and one tablespoon sugar. Beat eggs well. Still beating on medium, add 1/2 cup sugar. Scald milk, add butter to melt in milk. After cooled, add salt and

She was especially touched by an incident which took place in a Northville nursing home on Paczke (pronounce punch-kee) Day two years ago. Traditionally, on the Tuesday before Lent, it's a Polish custom to eat paczke, a doughnut fried in deep oil and then sprinkled with cinnamon and sugar.

The store had delivered some paczke to the nursing home, and the manager went from room to room distributing pieces of cake to the nursing home residents.

In one room, a Polish-American man sat mute and motionless. Recently bereaved, he was grief-stricken and refused to be consoled.

"When he saw that paczki, he gave a big smile for the first time, and told a story" about his native Poland where peasant and aristocrat alike had to wait in line at the bakery for paczki, Kryza said happily. "It was the paczki that started it all."

Stories like these are what keep the two deRos Delicacies owners going, Kryza said. In fact, their business was at first named Love Baskets because each basket was a labor of love.

EVERY BASKET IS custom-made to fit an occasion, and even the person to whom it's being sent is taken into consideration when the basket is designed.

The linen, chosen with infinite care, is sewn on a sewing machine in the back room of the store by Kryza or Fabian, and a coordinating bow is tied around the handle.

"We're very fussy," Kryza said seriously. "Every piece has to be ironed." Some of the linens have such unusual prints they can be framed or made into a pillow, Fabian said.

The two women will even go to such lengths as painting the baskets if they feel they can't get the right look any other way.

In fact, one sample basket in a rich navy blue did match surprisingly well with the exquisitely patterned navy and burgundy napkin the cousins had aptly named "Bird in Flight."

Fabian and Kryza scour the area for unusual items to include in their gift baskets. A basket designated for children, for instance, may include a book and gift set featuring a storybook with a coordinating stuffed animal called "the Velveteen Bear."

They are also in the process of ordering specialty items like gourmet coffees, and "nutty" items like honey nut butter.

BASKETS START AT $30, and standard sizes are small, medium and large. Choices are endless, however, depending on how much bread and cake and what kind of specialty items are included.

A lot of the store's business comes from other businesses, Fabian said. Doctors and lawyers may send baskets to thank other professionals for referrals, and the same is true for real-estate developers, mortgage companies and even chambers of commerce.

Fabian said the baskets have also been used as centerpieces for parties, although these are usually considerably smaller than the standard basket.

A standard medium basket will include one cinnamon raisin bread, one loaf of potato rye bread, two danish, one cheese and one apple, a Bavarian pretzel, two walnut rolls, one Indian pie, two large apricot kolachke, nine little kolachke and one bear claw.

Kryza said if her grandmother could see her today, she would probably shake her head and say in her sweet way, "Kziewdzynka (child), what wonderful things you're doing."

2 tablespoons water
1 tablespoon sugar

Brush glaze over bread before putting in oven. Place in hot 450 degree oven for 10 minutes, then reduce to 350 degrees and bake for 20 to 25 minutes until well browned. Brush again with glaze three minutes before taking out of oven.

AUNT HELEN'S POLISH COFFEE CAKE

2 1/2 cups milk
1 1/2 cups sugar
1/2 pound margarine
5 eggs beaten
1/2 pound or 1 1/2 cups raisins
10 cups flour
3 cakes yeast
1/2 cups lukewarm water (dissolve the yeast in this water)

Scald milk. Add sugar and margarine. Blend well. Cool to lukewarm. Add beaten eggs and yeast. Add flour and mix well. Add raisins and mix well. Let mixture rise till double, about 1 1/2 hours. Spoon into four greased loaf pans half full. Let rise in pan, about 30 minutes.

Brush with beaten egg. Sprinkle with topping.

Topping

2/3 cup flour
2/3 cup sugar
6 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/4 cup nuts if desired

Mix all ingredients so well blended. Sprinkle on top of cake. Bake 350 degrees for 35 minutes till cake tester comes out clean.

Freezes well. Makes four loaves. Delicious toasted.

1 egg yolk

Check temperatures with thermometer

AP — When it's hot, it's hot — or maybe it's not hot enough. For best cooking results, use a thermometer to check food temperatures. There are different kinds to serve different cooking needs.

CANDY

Both temperature and degree of doneness (soft ball, hard crack) are marked on a candy thermometer. Some include deep-frying markings as well.

Test your candy thermometer for accuracy before each use by submerging the tip in boiling water. If the thermometer registers above or below 212 degrees, add or subtract the same number of degrees from the recipe temperature and cook to that temperature. For example, if the thermometer reads 214 degrees, cook the candy 2 degrees higher than the recipe states. If it reads 209 degrees, cook candy to a temperature 3 degrees lower than your recipe requires.

MEAT

carve a roast, use a meat thermometer to be sure the meat is cooked to the doneness you prefer. This thermometer indicates the temperature for different meats and their levels of doneness. Some thermometers are inserted in the center of the largest muscle of the meat before cooking; others plug into the meat for just a moment for an instant reading.

OVEN HEAT

When cakes or cookies burn, it may be a signal that the oven temperature is running higher than the setting. Use an oven thermometer to verify.

REFRIGERATOR

Check your refrigerator and freezer temperature with a refrigerator thermometer. Your refrigerator should be set at about 40 degrees and the temperature in your freezer should be below zero.

Suffering from the symptoms of not having a doctor? Fill this easy, painless prescription:

Do you have any of these symptoms?

- ✓ Haven't had a physical in a long time and need one
- ✓ No family doctor and don't know any specialists
- ✓ Concerns about preventing a major illness
- ✓ Resorting to "home remedies" when you get sick
- ✓ New to the area and need a doctor
- ✓ Frequent visits to urgent care facilities or emergency rooms

If so, you probably suffer from "acute no-doctor-itis." But don't worry. The cure is easy. Just pick up the phone and call McAuley Referral Line. Based on your preferences, we can refer you to one or more of over 300 general doctors and specialists at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital and Mercywood in Ann Arbor—many with offices in Canton, Plymouth and throughout western Wayne County.

You can also call McAuley Referral Line for information on any of the programs and services available from Catherine McAuley Health Center. All of this helpful information—right at your fingertips!

Loving care will yield a garden of plenty

As you know, this column only appears once a month. All year long, I planned to devote my September column to the joys of making homemade pickles: sweet pickles, dill pickles, half-dones, bread and butters, slippery jacks.

But this morning, something happened that inspired me to write on a different subject. The pickles will have to wait until next year.

Well, I can best describe it as a religious experience.

Yes, today I had a religious experience. I went out in my garden and discovered six new squash hiding under the leaves there. They were not yet ripe enough to pick, but they soon will be.

I PICKED SDME crisp cucumbers off my fence, and gathered the luscious red tomatoes that hung on the vine. I pulled up an onion and cut a couple of stalks of celery.

I went into the house and made a delightful salad, sprinkled it with herbs and seasoned it with homemade cider vinegar.

Then I carried it out onto my back porch, where I sat down and ate it. I did not recite a formal grace. There was no need.

God (if that's what you wish to call the divine intelligence who oversees this universe) knew the thoughts and emotions that filled my being.

In this moment, I was in perfect communication with nature. I was thrilled by every bite of that salad. For it was proof to me that there is a Divine Being who, if we cooperate and do our part, will provide for us.

EACH PRECIOUS morsel was a miracle wrought by a power much greater than I, and yet I too had a part in cultivating this crop.

There once was a gardener who grew prize roses. These were enormous in size, beautiful to look at, and kitchen witch

their fragrance was delightful to inhale.

People came from far and wide to view this man's garden.

One day, a minister came, from a local church. After viewing these magnificent flowers, he said to the gardener: "Isn't it wonderful what you and the Lord have done together?"

The gardener agreed but added this thought, "Yes, it is, Reverend," he said, "but you sure ought to see this garden when I leave it to the Lord alone."

There is a message here for all of us. We are given much to work with, but it takes work and cooperation on our part to get the best out of these blessings.

DIAMONDS HAVE to be mined, cut and polished before they can glisten in your crown. This is true in all the things we do.

Many of us are blessed with children, but it is after the children are born that the true labor begins. They must be loved, tended, guided and shaped like tender sprouts in the garden — not left to grow wild among the weeds.

If you buy a new car, you must continue to make the payments, or it will be taken from you. You must change the oil and lubricate it, or it will not give you good service.

Nothing comes to us without some effort on our part: "God helps those who help themselves."

It takes a lot of work and a whole lot of faith. But if you do the best you can with what you have to work with, nature will help things along, and you will reap a bountiful harvest.

And now it's time to celebrate. Why wait until November to give thanks?

SUGGESTED MENU FOR A SEPTEMBER HARVEST FEAST

iced tomato soup
cole slaw
crown pork roast mashed potatoes (no instant ones, please) various fresh vegetables cranberry relish corn relish, and/or pickles zucchini bread
homemade apple pie (served with cheese or ice cream)

CROWN ROAST OF PORK

Have the butcher shape two or more sections of pork roast into a "crown." Cover the exposed ends of bone with cubes of bread or salt pork. (Remove these and replace with paper "pants" before serving.)

Place the roast on a rack in an open roasting pan. You may fill the center with bread stuffing, if desired.

Roast in a 350-degree oven approximately 40 minutes per pound. Add no water, and do not baste.

To serve: If stuffing is not used, fill the center with mashed potatoes, sweet potatoes or buttered vegetables. Decorate the crown with "pants" and garnish with parsley and spiced apples, if desired.

Allow 2-3 ribs per person

DELICIOUS COLE SLAW

1 small head of cabbage (shredded)
1 cup vinegar
1 teaspoon celery seed
1/4 cup onion (chopped or shredded)
1/4 cup red pepper or pimento (chopped or shredded)
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon mustard
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups green pepper (chopped or shredded)

Heat sugar and vinegar over slow heat. Stir until sugar dissolves. Cool mixture and add mustard, salt, celery seed, onion and pepper. Mix and pour over the cabbage. Flavor improves if allowed to stand.

ICED TOMATO SOUP

16 ounces tomato juice (homemade or canned)
1 cup cream (or non-dairy frozen creamer)
2 tablespoons sherry
2 teaspoons brown sugar
salt and pepper

Mix all the ingredients together in a bowl. Chill several hours. To serve: Garnish with thin slices of orange and/or chopped parsley.

OLD-FASHIONED APPLE PIE

8-10 large tart apples
1 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon salt
pastry for a two-crust pie
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 tablespoons butter or margarine

Peel and slice the apples. Line a 9-inch pie pan with pastry.

Mix flour, sugar and spices and toss apples in mixture until evenly covered. Place mixture in pie pan. Dot with butter or margarine.

Cut slits in the top crust with fork tines and place it over the apples. Pinch the edges of top and bottom crusts together and trim.

Brush the top with milk and sprinkle lightly with sugar. Bake at 425 degrees for about 45 minutes or until apples are tender.

Spareribs pairs with sauerkraut

SAUERKRAUT, NOODLES AND SOUR CREAM

5 pounds pork spareribs, the ribs not separated
1 tablespoon paprika
2 1/4 cups distilled white vinegar (this amount of vinegar is required to tenderize and steam the meat as it cooks)
1/2 pound spinach noodles
2 tablespoons caraway seeds
1/2 stick (1/4 cup) unsalted butter, softened a 1-pound package sauerkraut, rinsed and drained well
1/2 cup sour cream

Sprinkle the spareribs with the paprika and salt and pepper to taste and bake them meaty side up in one layer in a large shallow baking pan in the middle of a preheated 350 degree F. oven for 20 minutes. Turn the ribs meaty side down, pour 1/2 cup of the vinegar over them, and bake the ribs, covered with foil, basting them with 1-1/2 cups of the remaining vinegar, 1/2 cup at a time, every 20 minutes, for 1 hour and 20 minutes.

While the ribs are baking, in a large saucepan of boiling salted water cook the noodles until they are al dente, drain them, and in a 2-quart shallow baking dish toss them with the caraway seeds and the butter until they are coated well with the butter. Stir in the sauerkraut and the sour cream. Arrange the cooked ribs meaty side up on the noodle mixture, baste them with the remaining 1/4 cup vinegar, and bake the dish, covered, in the middle of the 350 degree F. oven for 20 to 30 minutes, or until the noodle mixture is heated through. Serves 4 to 6.

Buckwheat is back: to your good health

AP — Buckwheat, a pioneer staple, is making a comeback as the value of grains is recognized as a source of complex carbohydrates, vitamins and fiber.

Unroasted buckwheat kernels, called groats, are sold whole or ground as grits and flour. The roasted kernels are called kasha and are sold whole or ground. Use nutty-flavored kasha as you would rice in side dishes or oatmeal in cereal and baked goods. Look for kasha with the cooked cereals in the supermarket or in health food stores.

APPLE BUCKWHEAT MUFFINS

1 cup apple cider or juice
3/4 cup finely ground uncooked kasha
1 egg
1/4 cup cooking oil
1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour

1/2 cup packed brown sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon ground ginger
1 cup finely chopped peeled apple

In a mixing bowl pour cider over kasha; let stand 5 minutes. Add egg and oil; mix well. Stir together flour, brown sugar, baking powder, soda, salt, cinnamon and ginger. Add to kasha mixture, stirring just until moistened. Fold in apple. Fill greased or paper-bake-cup-lined muffin cups 3/4 full. Bake in a 400-degree oven for 20 to 25 minutes. Serve warm. Makes 12 to 15.

IMAGINE DYING FROM A DISEASE YOU NEVER KNEW YOU HAD.

Eleven million people in the U.S. have diabetes. But almost half of them don't know it.

Untreated, diabetes can lead to heart disease, kidney disease, blindness and gangrene.

And for 150,000 people each year, it leads to death.

That's why you should be aware of the symptoms of diabetes: blurred vision, excessive thirst and frequent urination are just some of the warning signs. Because the sooner you find out if you have diabetes, the more likely you are to get it under control, before complications set in.

Finding out you have diabetes can be scary. But not finding out can be fatal.

FIGHT SOME OF THE WORST DISEASES OF OUR TIME. Support the American Diabetes Association.

Cost of drought trickles down to school cafeterias

By Tom Henderson
staff writer

There's a trickle-down theory to the drought of '88 — it didn't trickle much water down to plant roots, but it's already trickled down higher prices to school kids who buy their lunches at area school cafeterias.

And it's trickled its way down to higher prices for food-service directors when they buy such lunch staples as green beans, corn, peas and flour.

Because of reductions in harvests, the federal government has notified the Michigan Department of Education that green beans, peas and corn will no longer be available under the U.S. surplus commodity program. Schools that wish to serve such foods must now buy them on the open market. Available supplies of dairy goods have been reduced 20 percent.

"We had a price increase in the works, but the drought gave it the rary lowering of meat prices. But schools can't stockpile meat the way they can cases of corn, and Howard expects sharp price increases by meat suppliers after the first of the year.

"We're really at the mercy of the market," he said.

Elementary students in Livonia are paying $1.30 a lunch, up from $1.25. Middle and high school students are paying $1.60, up 10 cents. The system feeds between 6,000 and 7,000 students a day.

"We'll hold those prices unless we have some extreme increases, which I don't anticipate at this point," he said.

MARJORIE HARRINGTON, food director of the Wayne Westland Public Schools, said flour prices are up dramatically, from $7.25 for a 50-pound bag last school year to $8.50 currently.

Lunch prices are up 10 cents to $1.20 for elementary students and $1.50 for others. Harrington said the increase is only partially due to higher food prices, with higher labor costs and fringe benefits also responsible.

She said higher lunch prices during the year would be highly unlikely, even if the district pays more for meat later on. She said the food program runs on a budget of about $2 million a year and is supposed to be self-supporting once federal and state aid is factored in, but that the district general fund can be used to make up any shortfalls.

The district feeds about 8,500 students a day, she said.

The Plymouth-Canton schools' food program is managed by the Marriott Corp., which means that Marriott's clout with suppliers helps keep prices down. "We get Marriott's prices," said director Verna Hill.

She said the program was able to purchase green beans and corn on the open market after the government announced those staples had been eliminated from the commodity program.

Elementary students pay $1.30 a meal and older students pay $1.60, both up 30 cents a day, an increase that was budgeted before the drought. But because of the drought, more lunch increases might be in store later in the year.

"We have a mid-year budget review," said Hill. "If we're doing fine, prices could go down. If not, they could go up."

The district feeds about 4,000 students a day.

S'craft offers hypnotherapy seminar for professionals

Hypnotherapy for professionals is the focus of a Schoolcraft College continuing education services class beginning Monday, Sept. 19.

The course is designed to teach basic techniques of hypnosis and hypnotherapy to members of the health and education professions.

Lectures and demonstrations include class participation. The 10-week course costs $350.

Additional information is available by calling 591-6400, Ext. 409. Schoolcraft is at 18600 Haggerty, Livonia.

final push," said Lori Adkins, director of food services for the South Redford schools, which feed up to 1,200 students a day. Elementary students pay $1.20 for lunch this year, with older students paying $1.25, an across-the-board increase of 10 cents.

"We don't yet know how many local school districts will have to raise prices, but we do believe the districts will have to compensate for the increased costs," said Roger Lynas, superintendent of the food distribution program for the state Department of Education.

THE LIVONIA SCHOOLS anticipated the shortage of corn and bought enough for the school year early in the summer, when the first reports of possible shortages came out.

"You get lucky once in a while," said Mike Howard, director of food services for the Livonia public schools. He bought 350 cases of corn when the price had risen just 45 cents a case. According to Howard it has now risen $3.50 a case over pre-drought prices.

There are six 112-ounce cans in a case.

"My biggest concern is ground beef, beef and chicken," said Howard. Farmers began slaughtering livestock when feed prices increased, which resulted in a tempo-

Defeat offers lesson for Chiefs to learn

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Both teams had something to learn from Thursday's Plymouth Canton-Birmingham Marian girls basketball game.

How well they heed those messages will be revealed in the weeks ahead, but it was Marian that avoided having a demerit on its record this night.

In an early-season showdown between unbeaten teams, the defending Catholic League champion Mustangs came from behind to post a 43-40 victory on Canton's floor.

No. 2-ranked Marian, 3-0, was in danger of being knocked out early. The fast-starting Chiefs, rated No. 9 in Class A, raced to an 11-0 lead before the Mustangs got it together.

"I think we learned a good lesson," said Marian senior Jennifer Shasky, who was held to seven points. "I don't think we were as ready for this one as we should have been mentally."

"WE WERE lucky to be able to get back in it. We had people come off the bench who really did it for us."

Carin Graat was one of those players, getting the Mustangs started with their first two field goals, and point guard Patty Boyle, who led the team with 15 points, "kept us in the game with her jumper," Marian coach Mary Lillie said.

"They really keyed on Jennifer, and that left others open."

Naturally, the Chiefs, 2-1, had something to lament after letting a great start go for naught. The first quarter had all the makings of a rout, but just having the lead isn't enough, Canton coach Rob Neu said.

"Basketball is four quarters," he said.

basketball

"This is a great lesson for us to learn from and build on."

"You've got 32 minutes to play, and good teams continue to play regardless of the score and situation."

"We had our chances to put them away and didn't do it," he said. "That's what we have to learn from this game."

Junior center Susan Ferko scored six of her team-leading 15 points and Amanda Bell hit a 3-pointer as the Chiefs ran the court and built their early lead.

MARIAN'S SHOOTING percentage was zip in the first quarter, its three points coming on free throws.

But the game took a decided turn when the Mustangs went to a full-court press late in the opening period. Canton's offense was never the same as Marian effectively slowed down the Chiefs and forced a lot of turnovers.

"Defense is the biggest asset we have," Shasky said. "It's what gets us through every game."

"We're not a tall team without (6-foot-3 former all-stater) Kathy Phillips; we're small but we play defense and let the offense come."

Marian managed to pull even at 19-19 on an outside shot by Boyle midway in the third quarter. Canton, however, quickly scored four points and was poised to make another run.

Jenny Russell's pass across the lane led to Stacey Thompson's layup, and Ferko scored off the rebound when Thompson missed the ensuing free throw.

BUT THE Mustangs answered just as promptly. Sarah Callahan's layup and Shasky's three-point play gave Marian its first lead, 24-23. The Mustangs were never behind after Hazel Olden made it 26-25.

"We started off horribly; we were in shock they were so aggressive," Lillie said. "We knew we could get back in the game. You have to take your time and do what you can. That was a plus."

Canton, which suffered a lopsided loss to the Mustangs last year, made a final stab at victory. Trailing 41-34 with under two minutes to play, the Chiefs forced some timely turnovers and got it down to three, 41-38, on Ferko's basket with 43 seconds left.

But Canton also had some costly turnovers in there that wasted valuable time and negated the benefit of their defensive efforts. From a statistical standpoint, the

basketball

Plymouth Salem coach Fred Thomann, still adjusting to life after Dena Head, already found out Thursday what it's like without this year's top player, Jill Estey.

Salem played much of the third quarter with prized point guard Estey on the bench in foul trouble, but pulled out a 38-26 win over host Farmington Hills Mercy.

The victory improved the Rocks record to 2-1. It was the season opener for Mercy, a team that must rebuild after losing four starters to graduation.

"We got Estey out of the game, but weren't mentally prepared to take care of the opportunity," said Mercy coach Larry Baker.

Salem's major loss to graduation was Head, last year's Miss Basketball. Estey has taken on more responsibility this year, but Thursday night she struggled and, with 3:41 remaining in the third quarter, left with her fourth foul.

AT THE TIME of Estey's departure, Salem led 31-19, but when she returned to start the final quarter, the lead ballooned to 36-21.

Teri King's 3-point shot at the buzzer gave the Rocks momentum heading into the fourth quarter. Salem managed to maintain its composure without Estey, an encouraging sign for Thomann, who would rather have Estey on the court than next to him on the bench. Reserve guard Jenny Burtka played in Estey's absence.

"The team is getting better and that's a pleasure to see," said Thomann. "And Teri King had probably the best game of her career. The 3-pointer was a big turning point, because they really had to play fabulous ball in the fourth quarter to beat us."

"Jill didn't have a great individual night scoring-wise (with eight points), but she made some great passes for scores and delivered some on the money that didn't go for scores."

In a far-from-typical shooting performance, Estey made just five of 14 shots from the field, and dished out four assists. She and King shared Salem scoring honors with eight each.

As a team, Salem made just 17 of 58 from the field for 29 percent.

MERCY PLAYED a box-and-one defense designed to stop Estey and might not have had enough strength late in the game to get the job done offensively.

Rockets follow textbook in beating Canton, 27-0

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

Westland John Glenn's "The Textbook Manual to Football" won't make the New York Times best-seller list. But for John Glenn coach Chuck Gordon, it's quality reading.

The Rockets added another chapter to their methodical, step-by-step process of winning football games Friday, beating visiting Plymouth Canton, 27-0, in a non-league contest.

In coaches' talk, John Glenn (2-0) executed well. In laymen's terms, the Rockets merely blew the Chiefs (0-2) away.

"We just ran some basic football," Gordon said. "We were getting some yards, so we just stuck with it. There was nothing fancy about it."

Handing the ball off to tailback Bryant Satterlee to run up the middle 29 times certainly doesn't make for whirlwind novels. But it was enough to get the job done.

Satterlee scored on touchdown runs of 2 and 5 yards while racking up 174 yards in 29 carries. He was certainly no Rudolf Nureyev, burling through the middle of the Canton defensive line like it was paper-mache.

But the Rockets also showed an uncanny knack of completing passes when needed. Quarterback Eric Stover was eight-of-13 for 108 yards, including a 5-yard TD strike to Greg Anderson in the second quarter.

EVEN THE kicking department

got in on the act. Kicker Wes Taylor connected for field goals of 37 and 23 yards. Taylor's 37-yard boot in the second quarter hit the crossbar and bounced over for three points.

"They're just strong, powerful," said Bob Khoenle, whose team was a mere footnote in the John Glenn text. "Maybe it's their weight program."

Maybe. The Rockets' offensive line was strong, especially in the second half. They opened some gaping holes that Satterlee and his family could've gone through. Satterlee gained 101 of his 174 yards in the final two quarters.

Canton, though, didn't help matters any. The Chiefs had an assortment of 15-yard penalties to nullify a couple of drives.

And three interceptions thrown by Chief quarterbacks only made things worse. The three errant passes led to a touchdown and two field goals for John Glenn. The second interception — caught by Stover and thrown by junior quarterback Jason Dembny — proved costly.

17-0 with 12 seconds left in the first half.

The Chiefs didn't recover in the second half. Khoenle switched to sophomore Karl Wukie at quarterback. But no strategic move was going to stop John Glenn in the final 24 minutes.

The Rockets' first drive of the third quarter was the most impressive. John Glenn went 73 yards in nine plays as Satterlee scored on a 5-yard run to make it 24-0.

WITH SATTERLEE accounting for 174 of Glenn's 215 yards on the ground, the Rockets' offense would appear one-dimensional. Not so, said the author of John Glenn attack.

"No, not necessarily," Gordon said. "We'll take what they give us. Tonight, we were able to do some things with him."

Canton was in the giving mood. In two games this season, the Chiefs have only scored three points. The offense showed some flashes of prosperity, especially when fullback Jim Young carried the ball. (Young had 49 yards in 10 carries.)

Wukie displayed some moxie in the second half, throwing for two first downs on Canton's last drive of the game. But it was of little consolation to a Chief team who is banking on a group of young, inexperienced players.

Salem whips Western, awaits Lakes rematch

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Plymouth Salem coach Tom Moshimer is looking forward to Friday's football game with Livonia Stevenson — and well he should be.

Moshimer's ballclub is off to a 2-0 record into the Lakes Division opener at Centennial Educational Park.

Furthermore, the Rocks have every reason to be optimistic about their future after the way they dominated Walled Lake Western 29-0 last Friday night.

Salem, in its wishbone offense, punished the Warriors with a grinding ground game and thoroughly choked the opposition with an outstanding defensive show.

"I feel good about this team," Moshimer said, "but we've got some big games to play yet."

AND THE NEXT one will be significant for a reason other than the fact the Rocks hope to maintain their winning streak against division foes. Stevenson, a defending Lakes tri-champion, routed Salem 34-7 last season.

"That team thrashed us last year," Moshimer said. "Our goal will be to atone for that game. That was embarrassing."

"Defensively, we gave up the big play, but I think our defense will come to play (this time). I think we can play with anybody on our schedule."

There were no big plays against the '88 Salem defense Friday. Western didn't get a first down until late in the first half, and the second didn't come until the final play of the third quarter — with the game already out of reach at 23-0.

The Warriors didn't advance the ball past the Salem 47-yard line until the final period.

Defensive linemen Brad Vladu and Joe Roza led a charge that sacked Warrior quarterback Shoane Scannell for a minus-41 yards. Western had only 33 yards at halftime, and half of that came on John Engott's 16-yard run when the Rocks were laying off in the final seconds.

"DEFENSIVELY, WE played magnificently," Moshimer said. "It was one of the finest we've had in a while."

"Yards-wise, it wasn't because we gave up yards in prevent situations. But when the chips were on the line we came through every time."

The Rocks established their ground attack and lead with a successful opening series. Putting together a textbook drive, Salem went 70 yards in 14 plays, running every time, and used up 6:27 of the clock.

Junior quarterback Ryan Johnson scored the first touchdown with a 16-yard run off left tackle, and his only pass completion went 12 yards to Brian Burlison for the second and a 14-0 halftime lead.

Johnson rammed through the Warrior defense for 80 of his game-high 86 rushing yards and had 16 of his 18 attempts in the first half. Back-up quarterback Rob Kowalski had 80 yards, 75 coming on a spectacular scoring run with :04 remaining in the game.

Fullback Pat Bowie, who carried on the first four plays before the Warriors started leaving Johnson free, chipped in 47 yards. Halfback Steve Burlison, who scored the third TD on a 6-yard burst in the third quarter, added 42 as the Rocks rolled up 281 yards on the ground.

"That is the wishbone offense," Moshimer said. "That's what it's supposed to be."

"WE'LL DO THIS every week. Our objective always is to establish the fullback. If they're not going to take him away, I'm a patient man."

Salem slams door on Ypsi

Ypsilanti served as a confidence builder for Plymouth Salem's girls swimming team Thursday.

The Rocks got off to a roaring start in their season debut as they trounced the Braves 135-34 in the Salem pool.

Erin Olson set a school record in the breaststroke and also won the 200-yard freestyle. The new standard in the breast is now 1:12.7, and she won the freestyle race in 2:12.1.

Sarah Andrews and Nicole Bosse had an individual victory each and also were on successful relay teams.

Andrews took her solo win in the butterfly touching out at 1:08.4, and Bosse's win occurred in the 50 freestyle in which she sprinted home in 27.4.

TRISH HILL, Amy Hobgood, Andrews and JoJo Wiklund equaled a winning foursome in the medley relay, combining on a 2:11.5 effort. Dawn Shiek, Bosse, Jody Thomas and Tammy Hickey proved the same in the freestyle relay, which they won with a 4:07.6 performance.

swimming

Jenny Syria is expected to lead the team in diving and make that a solid event for the Rocks, and she supported that assessment by scoring 159.25 points to take first place.

Other winning swims saw Salem's Stacie Anderson capture the 100 freestyle in 1:01.8. Megan Andrews the 500 free in 6:20.1 and Carrie Vanderweele the backstroke in 1:13.7.

"We're looking good so far," Salem coach Chuck Olson said. "Hopefully, we can get some momentum going into the conference."

I think there's seven teams that have a chance to win, and we'd like to think we're one of them.

The Rocks have no dual meets this week but will be host for the Western Lakes Activities Association Relays at 1:30 p.m. Saturday. The Plymouth and Canton Rotary Clubs will sponsor the event again.

Growing up fast

Rocks rally twice to claim 2-1 victories

The Plymouth Salem boys soccer team may have come of age with a pair of come-from-behind victories last week.

On Wednesday, the host Rocks toppled Livonia Franklin in a physical battle, 2-1, as Joe Tippman scored the game-winner from Greg Christenson in the 56th minute of play.

Franklin's Bob Hayes opened the first-half scoring on a penalty kick, but Salem knotted the score at 1-1 when sophomore Brad Fisch found the net on an assist from junior Matt Gold.

Salem outshot the Patriots, who lost their opener, 22-3.

"We made a couple of defensive mistakes that cost us a couple of goals," said Franklin first-year coach Frantz Lamarre.

On Thursday, the young Rocks scored twice in the second half to beat visiting Birmingham Brother Rice, 2-1.

"Rice had just won the Country Day Tournament, and we didn't know if we could beat them because we have such a young team," said Salem coach Ken Johnson, whose team is 3-2 overall.

Rice's Jim Roosevelt scored in the 30th minute to give the Warriors a 1-0 halftime advantage.

Olson then took a cross from senior Donovan Nichols in the 70th minute to win it for Salem.

impressively Wednesday, as John Gentile scored a pair of first-half goals to beat visiting Plymouth Canton.

The veteran Chargers roared out to a 3-0 lead at intermission on goals by James Shryock (from Brady Ericson) and Gentile twice (from Darin Bodin and Chris Muso).

After the Chargers had their lead cut to 3-1 in the second half, Bodin wrapped it up with a goal from Phil Todino.

"All the kids are a year older and hopefully we'll get a little more scoring," said Churchill coach John Neff.

The Chargers, always strong defensively, were led by stopper T.J. Flowers.

FRANKLIN 5, HOWELL 0: The Patriots dominated their non-league opponent Friday as Keith Kolodisick scored once in each half against the host Highlanders.

Livonia Franklin (1-1) stormed out to a 3-0 halftime advantage on goals by Kolodisick, Ed Stiberg and Bob Hayes. Kolodisick and Thiel then closed out the scoring in the second half for the Patriots.

Franklin's defense kept Howell from registering a shot on net.

REDFORD UNION 3, NOVI 3: On Wednesday, the Panthers couldn't hold a 2-0 halftime lead as the visiting Wildcats stormed back for the tie.

Co-captain Erik Coulter capitalized on a penalty kick and Gary Luyben knocked in Brian MacDonald's corner kick to account for the 2-0 RU advantage after the first 40 minutes of play.

In the second half, Mark Payment scored from Coulter, but by that time the Wildcats had knotted things.

Only some sparkling goaltending by Steve Nowak kept Novi from stealing the win.

On Friday, host Northville dumped the Panthers, 6-0. RU is now 0-1-2 on the season.

SOUTH LYON 7, GARDEN CITY 3: On Thursday, Cougar coach George Vella benched three starters for missing practice as the visiting Lions took advantage of their absence, gaining the non-league win at GC Junior High.

"Our inexperienced showed," said Vella, whose team dropped to 0-2. "But sometimes you have to do that (suspend players). I know it's going to get their attention."

The Cougars trailed by only one at the half, 3-2, as Jim Crosby and Dan Horvath each tallied goals.

Early in the second half, South Lyon went up 4-2, but GC cut the lead to one on penalty kick by Kevin Adkins.

South Lyon, however, proceeded to tally three unanswered goals to win going away.

NOTRE DAME 7, THURSTON 0: Unbeaten Harper Woods Notre Dame (3-0) taught Redford Thurston a hard lesson Thursday, blanking the host Eagles (1-1).

"They controlled the ball well and we did exactly what they wanted us to do, and that was chase the ball," said Thurston coach Ron Predmesky, whose team was outshot 28-12.

Despite the loss, goalie Jamie Dalewski kept it from being a total wipeout.

We'll let the fullback move us all the way down field."

After Johnson, letting the contain man fly past him on the option, stepped inside and won a foot race to the end-zone corner at 5:33 in the first quarter, Salem's lead stood at 7-0 until late in the second.

The Rocks, who had a 10-1 advantage in first-half first downs, all but decided the game when Johnson passed to Burlison with 1:21 left before halftime.

Salem picked up a bonus two points at the start of third quarter. The ball rolled through the legs of Western punter Eric Franz, and Salem's Chris Forsythe tackled him in the end zone for a safety.

Johnson, who was 1-of-4 passing, had his last attempt intercepted, but the Rocks got the ball back at the Western 41. Steve Burlison dashed 23 yards on first down and scored five plays later.

The contest was set to go into the book as a 23-0 victory until Kowalski stirred the crowd with his late run. He was stopped twice but managed to break the sure tackles each time.

"OFFENSIVELY, WE played real well and, defensively, it was a great game," Moshimer said. "But I don't coach defense, so I can't take credit for it. All I do is run the (offensive) scout team."

Moshimer credited assistants Jim Jarvey, Tom Garrett and Tom Alles for the job they did preparing the defense.

Rockets scold Canton

"We've got a lot of young kids," Khoenle said. "They'll have to grow up and mature in a hurry. They're tough kids. They'll be back to play next week."

Friday's shutout of Canton can only enhance the Rockets standing as a well-rounded team. The Rockets held the Chiefs to 84 yards in total offense.

John Glenn need only to place a bookmark where they left off against Canton.

Mercy shot a miserable 23 percent from the field on 9-of-39 shooting. Amy Edward was the lone bright spot offensively, scoring eight points, including three baskets from the perimeter. Mercy point guard Jenny Clinton did a fine job defensively against Estey but was just 1-of-15 from the field, finishing with four points.

Mercy outscored Salem 5-2 in the final quarter, but the Marlins weren't able to catch the Rocks, who missed all 12 of their fourth-quarter shots.

"What we feel good about is we helped create a poor shooting environment for Estey," Baker said. "But we're disappointed in our shooting. We were guilty of some poor shots and suffered a lack of confidence and that snowballed."

"It's easy for me to contribute the mistakes to first-game jitters, but whether we can rebound for the next game is the challenge."

Estey, who is considering scholarship offers from Michigan, Illinois and Notre Dame, among others, had a feeling before the game that this wasn't her day.

basketball

"I COULD FEEL it in warm-ups," she said. "I was so pumped up that I was bricking everything. I wasn't getting enough arc on the ball and, toward the end of the game, it was straight on."

"They were guarding me tight, but we played awesome as a team. I was happy their shots went in because mine weren't."

The Rocks outrebounded the Marlins 33-22, with Lydia White grabbing a game-high 11 and scoring six points. Lee Albrect collected eight rebounds for Mercy and also finished with six points.

A lack of rebounding hurt Mercy several times in the first half when Salem was able to get more than one shot per possession. Salem led 22-16 at halftime.

"I told my players the first day of practice that boxing out on rebounds has got to be a given," Baker said. "We have to box out because of our lack of size."

RU coach takes college job

By Brad Emons
staff writer

The lure of coaching in the collegiate ranks has prompted Redford Union High baseball coach Stu Rose to make a job change.

Rose, who spent the past eight years as RU's varsity coach, was named last week to lead the baseball program at Henry Ford Community College, succeeding Rodger George, who left in August to take over as head coach at Wayne State University.

"There was an opening there (at Henry Ford) and the timing seemed to be right," Rose said. "They contacted me and it was an opportunity I couldn't pass up."

"I also liked the fact that I can recruit my own team. Even though we had been successful at RU, the numbers were down and that was the frustrating part. We had only 19 players on the varsity and only 39 in the program this season, whereas when I started out (in 1981) we had a total of 77 kids try out."

At RU, Rose captured a pair of Northwest Suburban League championships (1987-88) and a Class A district crown (1986). His best record in '88 when the Panthers went 20-5. Rose's eight-year record was 130-76.

ROSE SAID he'll miss RU.

"Another group has left, but I'll be leaving a group of younger kids," he said. "You always want to see those kids, the ones coming up, through the program and that's what makes it tough for me to leave."

"And I really had a good association with the RU coaching staff. Guys like Jim Gibbons (the head football coach) and Bob Ouellette (the cross country coach) were good to me."

Joining Rose's staff at Henry Ford CC will be longtime RU assistant and friend Glenn Murdock. Also expected to join the coaching staff is Ron Hellier, the former Livonia Franklin coach who is now a high school athletic director for the Chippewa Valley Schools.

The three worked together during summer sandlot seasons coaching the Livonia Adray club, four-time playoff champions of the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League.

Rose also served under Bob Atkins (RU's former athletic director) with the Adray Appliance club, which captured the Detroit Adray League title this summer.

"The summer coaching has helped a lot," Rose said, "and I really enjoy the college-age group. I think this is going to be a great challenge."

ALTHOUGH ROSE was burdened with a late start in recruiting, he has worked diligently in trying to put together a team for next spring.

"I'm worried about this year, to be honest, because recruiting in September is tough," he said. "But I hope to monopolize on Observerland kids. I know most of the coaches in the area and I hope they can feed us."

Rose has already received several commitments from area players including former Westland John Glenn ace Bill Barber, a left-handed pitcher who was sidelined most of his freshman season at Michigan State because of academic woes.

A pair of first-team All-Observer picks are also committed to Henry Ford, including RU first baseman Rick Rutledge and Livonia Stevenson outfielder/pitcher Dave Houghtby.

Rose also has two catchers in the fold: Dave Crespi, a second-team All-Area pick from Redford St. Agatha, and Doug Florn, an All-Wolverine A League choice from Wayne Memorial.

Three other second-team All-Area picks have committed including Joe Jentzer, a pitcher/infielder from Livonia Clarenceville, Dave Abner, a pitcher from Wayne, and Todd Fracassi, an infielder from Stevenson.

ROSE ALSO SAID that former RU players Joe Lezotte and Kevin Walker are enrolled in school, along with Tim Napier, an infielder from Livonia Franklin, and Ron Wojewski, an infielder from Wayne.

Fall tryouts were also announced by the new Henry Ford coach. Players should report for practice at 1 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 24 at the school's field.

As for Rose's replacement at RU, no successor will be named until a new athletic director is hired. Atkins, who spent 30 years in the RU School District, resigned late last month to take a similar position with the Walled Lake Schools.

JV coach Craig Sylvester is a possible replacement for Rose. He could have the inside track, although he is not employed by the RU Schools. Sylvester is a police officer in Garden City.

Chiefs fail to hold lead over Marian big factor was free throws. The Chiefs were only 7-of-20 at the line, Marian 10-of-20.

"We began to try to protect our lead as opposed to just continuing to play," Neu said of the effect of Marian's press.

"IT'S A matter of getting people to the right spot, meeting the pass and seeing the court before putting the ball on the floor."

Neu, however, was philosophical about the loss since it comes early in the season and the Chiefs can use it as a learning experience.

"It's difficult to face a team with a lot of athletic ability that plays a lot of defenses," he said. "As the season wears on, our recognition will improve."

Candi Jones, who was charged with guarding Shasky in the low post, added nine points for Canton, and Marian's Trina Govan contributed six points.

The Mustangs, Class A quarterfinalists last year, are getting along quite well without Phillips, who is on scholarship at Penn State. With three starters back — Shasky, Shelly Young and Olden — and a top reserve like Boyle moving up, Marian also has beaten Saginaw and Detroit DePorres.

"We've got a good nucleus back," Lillie said. "We knew we had kids who could play. We just have to rebound better (to make up for the loss of Phillips at center)."

Canton runners coast

Plymouth Canton's girls cross-country team literally ran away from the rest of the field Thursday, winning the six-team Ypsilanti Invitational in a landslide.

It was the season-opening meet for all teams.

Canton captured five of the top nine places and finished with 24 points, outdistancing second-place Livonia Stevenson, which had 52. Monroe placed third with 61, followed by Temperance Bedford, 93; Ypsilanti, 128; and Plymouth Salem, 136.

"It was a good meet for us; we're going to be OK," said Canton coach George Przygodski.

Linda Schendel owned Canton's best time at the meet, placing second in 21:17. The Chiefs' Cathy McCabe came in third at 21:21, followed by teammate Lori Penland in fourth at 21:27.

Sixth place belonged to Canton's Kris Marquard, who clocked 21:35, and placing ninth was Missy Jasnowski, another Canton runner, in 21:52.

Hawks win tournament

The Michigan Hawks, an under-19 girls soccer team, capped off a successful summer by winning the Omega Sports Labor Day Shootout in Greensboro, N.C.

Goalkeeper Brooke Gillespie of Troy was flawless as the Hawks outscored their four opponents 19-0. The Hawks defeated the Martinsville (Va.) Speed 11-0, the Greensboro Express 4-0, the Braddock Road (Va.) Fury 2-0 and the Raleigh (N.C.) Spartans 2-0.

The Hawks received balanced scoring as 10 players participated in the offense, led by Shannon Meath of Canton with five goals.

Other members of the team are Susan Gibson, Carrie Maier, Jennifer Misaros and Amy Trunk, Farmington; Erin Morgan and Julie Stabnick, Plymouth; Patty Boyle, Bonnie Boyle, Liz Brooks and Jacki Silagyi, Troy; Natalka Litkewycz, Brighton; Margaret Kopmeyer, Bloomfield Hills; Lisa Yderstad, Detroit; and Caerlillon Thomas, East Lansing.

Salem eyes repeat in Lakes Division

By Steve Kowalski
staff writer

Three of its top runners graduated, but plenty of experience returns to Plymouth Salem's boys cross country team, which aims to repeat as Lakes Division champion in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

The Rocks were 5-2 last year and finished third at the WLAA meet. Salem finished 15th in Class A and was second at regionals. The Rocks also finished second at the Schoolcraft College Invitational.

Tricaptains Scott Stryker, Bob Anzivino and Scott Neuhardt are back. Stryker will run No. 1 followed by juniors Dave Hamway and Brendon Masterson.

The Rocks will miss graduated all-stater Doug Vergari, a school-record holder, and the Nos. 2 and 4 runners, Bill Atwell and Al Rye, respectively.

Other top returnees are senior Matt Stacey, juniors Samiar Bha-

sar, Frank Cipolla and Todd Visnaw and sophomore Brian Zeigler.

FIRST-YEAR runners abound for Salem and include juniors Sean Speakman and Mike Barretta and sophomores John Thomas and Mike Patterson.

Winning will take a team effort. "We must run together (pack run)," Salem coach Geoff Baker said. "We have good potential if we stay injury free."

"It's hard to say who's good this year in the WLAA. Farmington, Canton and Walled Lake Western look good, and I hope to be there, also. We just have to see what happens."

In the 1960s, wigs and wiglets were the rage when it came to jazzing up hair. Now it's hair weaving and extensions. Synthetic fibers are being braided, twisted and attached to real hair to add fullness and length. For more on the 1980s version of hair pieces, please see Page 6D.

Finding that fortune spinning the 'wheel'

By Tom Henderson
staff writer

Words might be their game, but they were his living. What chance did they have, those housewives who would be his competition to spin the Wheel of Fortune? He'd leave them spinning their wheels.

The big day began with attention to details. Leaving as little to chance as possible, having studied the angles and the psychology, he knew a simple mastery of words would not be enough.

He would be TELEGENIC. This was, after all, (or would be, when he passed the tryout) TEE-VEE. All surface, no substance. Flash and sizzle. A medium with which he had no small familiarity. After all, he'd made the local TV news in 1954 when he'd been one of the first school kids in the country to get a polio shot; then, there was the appearance on the Justice Colt show on Channel 9 in 1956; and the time in 1969 when his mother had picked him out of a crowd shot on CBS of an anti-war rally at Michigan State.

So, he got up half an hour early to iron a blue shirt, blue being a prime TV color. And then there was the extra close shave. And the extra application of hair conditioner so he could get those long strands in the back to curl, telegenically.

It was overkill, of course, like a shark on a guppy, like the Twins against the Tigers. Experience, telegenesis AND word mastery. Vanna, he thought as he walked out the door, here I come. Pat, step aside.

THE LINE OF contestants snaked in a long line toward a ballroom at the Omni Hotel downtown. Along the way, he'd seen an article in the Free Press on how to pass the Wheel tryout. It confirmed what he knew — they weren't looking for puzzle players, they were looking for attitude, enthusiasm, the GOOD LOOK.

His competition was about what he'd expected, mostly housewives and a few men in polyester. The Wheel of Fortune folks had scheduled about 400 people for tryouts on this swing through town. Many had won their tryout by beating long odds, getting through jammed lines at WCZY radio as part of a promotion.

"I had it on re-dial, but I still had to dial the 1 myself," said one woman behind me in line. Everyone seemed to be a radio contest regular; they traded tips and stories of busy signals. Thank God for push-button phones.

There were about 135 of them in this session, and they were seated on chairs in rows. Some glib guy named Harv

B&Bs can be businessman's 'home'

By Iris Sanderson Jones
contributing travel editor

Q: I travel all over Michigan on business. My expense account won't cover top hotels and I am really tired of roadside motels. Do bed and breakfast places make any sense for business travelers. My husband says no, but we stay in them on vacation, so why not?

L.K.,
Redford

Q: Where should we stay when we visit our daughter at Kalamazoo College in Kalamazoo?

Troy

A: I can answer both questions with two words: Hall House.

Hall House is a beautiful old home, converted to a bed and breakfast accommodation near both Kalamazoo College and downtown Kalamazoo.

Like most of the downtown B & B's in Kalamazoo, and other city settings, Hall House caters to business travelers. Their guests fall into three categories — business men and women headed for the offices of the Upjohn Co., teachers and parents interested in one of the city's two universities and vacation travelers.

Madeline Heubel and her husband Peter O'Brien are good examples of travelers who used Hall House for more than just a vacation. Madeline was originally from Birmingham, Peter from Grand Rapids.

Owner Pat O'Connor caters to people on business trips at her bed and breakfast, Hall House, on Thompson Street in Kalamazoo.

"Moon Over Parador" (C) PG-13 104 minutes.

Director Paul Mazursky ("Bob and Carol" and "Unmarried Woman") is so busy playing Jack Noah's mother that there's nobody left to tend the store. Despite some funny stuff, this comedy falls flat as Noah is forced to impersonate the late and unlamented dictator of Parador, so police Chief Strausmann (Raul Julia) can maintain control. Sonia Braga appears as the dictator's mistress, but neither she nor stilted cameos by Sammy Davis Jr., Charo, Jonathan Winters and Fernando Rey get this dud off the ground.

SPECIAL PRESENTATION:

The Detroit Film Theatre presents Errol Morris' "The Thin Blue Line" (1988). A senseless murder is reconstructed as the filmmaker becomes actively involved in solving the crime. At the Detroit Institute of Arts at 7 and 9:30 p.m. Friday-Saturday, Sept. 16-17, and at 1, 4 and 7 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 18.

STILL PLAYING:

"Bagdad Cafe" (B) PG 91 minutes.

Except for a confusing opening, this is a wonderful comedy about friendship, love and understanding. Jasmine (Marianne Sägebrecht) leaves her husband in the middle of the Mojave Desert and winds up in Bagdad where she rents a room from Brenda (C.C. Pounder), who has kicked her husband out. The two women, who start out with nothing in common, form strong bonds. Jack Palance also appears. Reviewed by Jennifer Morse.

"Bambi" (A) (G) 70 minutes.

Short but good animated story of young fawn growing up. Great for kids, and for adults on a nostalgia trip.

"Betrayed" (A) (R) 115 minutes.

In the best Costa-Gavras ("Z" and "Missing") tradition, this tense film combines political thrills and personal poignancy. FBI agent, Cathy Weaver (Debra Winger) goes undercover to track murderers of controversial radio talk-show host. However, loosely based on the murder of Denver broadcaster, Al Berg, and the subsequent expose of white supremacist groups, this film will make you nervous about fascism and about personal involvement versus commitment as Winger becomes emotionally attached to the man she's investigating, Gary Simmons, (Tom Berenger).

"Big" (A) (PG) 95 minutes.

A shy 12-year-old boy's wish is granted when he wakes up one morning in a man's body. Tom Hanks skillfully captures the innocent, childlike qualities and gestures of a 12-year-old trying to live in an adult world. Reviewed by Cathy Guyer.

"The Blob" (D) (R) 90 minutes.

"Bull Durham" (A-) (R) 105 minutes.

"Clean and Sober" (C-) (R)

Maudlin soap opera has Daryl

the movies

Dan Greenberg

Poynter (Michael Keaton) on the lam and hiding out in a 21-day detoxification program. So-so PR for your local chemical dependency center.

"Cocktail" (C-) (R) 110 minutes.

Adolescent fantasy, populated with overdone, soapy melodrama about a high concept bartender, Brian Flanagan (Tom Cruise) and assorted "chickies" led by Jordan Mooney (Elisabeth Shue). Some clever lines by Bryan Brown but only Cruise addicts will sail on this one.

"Coming to America" (B-) (R) 120 minutes.

"Die Hard" (*) (R).

"A Fish Called Wanda" (A) (R) 110 minutes.

A very funny film with the whackiest gang in town. Principals include Jamie Lee Curtis as Wanda the Wonderful, jewel thief extraordinaire. Among her colleagues are Kevin Kline in an absolutely inspired performance as a berserk American in London. John Cleese is a proper bar-rister, but... The whole thing is beyond words. The only solution is go see the movie.

"Hero and the Terror" (B) (R) 100 minutes.

Cop Danny O'Brien (Chuck Norris) nabbed killer Simon Moon (Jack O'Halloran) three years ago and now O'Brien's worst nightmare comes true — Simon escapes. Hero must come to terms with his fear and catch the Terror once more. This time around Danny has his girl Kay (Brynn Thayer) and unborn child to protect. Chuck Norris does well in this suspense thriller as tough guy with a tender side. Reviewed by Jennifer Morse.

"Hot to Trot" (*) (PG)

Comedy about insecure stockbroker and his friend, Don, the talking horse.

"The Last Temptation of Christ" (B-) (R) 164 minutes.

Controversial portrayal of Christ as a disturbed person who struggles with his duality and tries to reject his divinity. Well-photographed and has fine acting, but choppy editing in complex rendition makes this one questionable.

"Mac and Me" (*) (PG).

A young boy in a wheelchair and a kidnapped alien.

"Married to the Mob" (B) (R) 110 minutes.

Enjoyable and cute film; as Angela (Michelle Pfeiffer) is widowed when mob boss Tony "The Tiger" Russo (Dean Stockwell) ices her hit-man hubby, Frankie (Alec Baldwin). She figures that's her ticket out of the mob but Tony wants her and so does FBI agent, Mike Downey (Matthew Modine), in more than one way. Reviewed by Jennifer Morse.

"Midnight Run" (F) (R) 115 minutes.

An absolute disappointment, wasting two acting talents in weak script. Bounty hunter Jack Walsh (Robert DeNiro) suffers through overly familiar chase scenes, the FBI and the Mob to bring accountant-embezzler Johathan Marduleas (Charles Grodin) back to L.A. Reviewed by Jennifer Morse.

"Nightmare on Elm Street Part 4 — The Dream Master" (C) (R) 90 minutes.

Looks like Freddie's power is weakening and so's the series. Storyline is developed, but the expected suspense and gore is lacking. Even "Nightmare" fans will be disappointed. Reviewed by Jennifer Morse.

"Pascali's Island" (A-) (PG-13) 101 minutes.

Excellent photography and fine characterizations in this classic portrayal of loyal civil servant forgotten by home office. For 20 years, Basil Pascali (Ben Kingsley — "Ghandi"), faithful servant of the Ottoman Empire, has reported to Constantinople from his station on the Greek Island of Nisi. No one answers. British adventurer Anthony Bowles (Charles Dance) is catalyst for tragedy as Pascali searches for meaning in his life.

"Stealing Home" (C+) (PG-13) 100 minutes.

Convoluted story of failure in the heartland of America's privileged class, the well-to-do. Billy Wyatt (Mark Harmon with help from William McNamara and Thacher Goodwin as the 10- and 16-year-old Billys) must disperse cremated ashes of best friend, Katie Chandler (Jodi Foster). Motivation for so much failure is weak. Goodwin and McNamara have more screen time than Harmon and much-needed poignancy is missing.

"Tucker: The Man and His Dream" (A) (PG)

Excellent production that really looks like the '40s. Soft-focus filters and lots of dusty old shots make this story of Ypsilanti machine tool shop owner, Preston Tucker (Jeff Bridges), and his dream of the car of the future. Bridges, Joan Allen as Mrs. Tucker and Martin Landau as his financial adviser deliver fine performances. Entire supporting cast adds to production. Too bad Mr. Tucker tried to take on the Big Three.

"Who Framed Roger Rabbit" (A-) (PG) 110 minutes.

Pure entertainment in this technically amazing combination of live action and animation. Private eye Eddie Valiant (Bob Hoskins) saves the day by helping Roger Rabbit beat a bum rap. Hoskins' acting is super in a tough situation where he had to work with blank walls and imagine cartoon characters, which "Young Guns" (D) (R) 90 minutes.

This film wouldn't have been so long and boring if they'd cut the slo-mo footage. It added absolutely nothing to this dull and dumb story of Billy the Kid (Emilio Estevez) leading a gang of young outcasts out to avenge murder of their mentor (Terrence Stamp). The evil Mr. Murphy (Jack Palance) caused all the trouble. Despite help from Charlie Sheen, and others, this is a loser. Maybe they can redo it after the writer's strike is settled.

Businessmen discover B&Bs

Peter stayed at Hall House while interviewing for a job on the staff of Kalamazoo College. He will teach political science at the college this semester.

Madeline, who had been living in Berlin, Germany, made Hall House her headquarters when she was exploring jobs in hospital administration. She is now assistant to the chief executive officer of Branch County Medical Center in Coldwater.

Madeline's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Heubel of Birmingham, have also stayed at Hall House while visiting their daughter.

It is easy to think about bed and breakfast establishments as week-end accommodations. Few of us think of the advantages of the B & B as a business accommodation.

IT IS absolutely no use, of course, to anyone who wants the services that a hotel can provide — restaurants, bars, laundry and other services on the premises.

Bed and breakfast homes provide breakfast, sometimes just a home-baked continental breakfast. You must find your other meals elsewhere.

The advantage is that the B & B gives you the comfort and intimacy of a private home. You sleep in the kind of bedroom you wish you had at home. You can sit at night in the parlor, beside the fireplace, with other guests, or stay to yourself, as you wish. How you use a B & B depends on your priorities.

Hall House owners Pam and Terry O'Connor understand business travelers. They were both working at the Upjohn Co. when they decided that they would like to own and restore a beautiful old house in a historic district.

Terry still works at Upjohn, but

Pam finds it a full-time business running a B & B that caters to business guests. Many Michigan B & B's are empty midweek and busy with vacationers on weekends, which is the opposite of most hotels, which cater to business travelers midweek and are empty on weekends.

A B & B like Hall House is busy all week.

How do you find a bed and breakfast suitable to the business traveler? Get listings of Michigan bed and breakfast accommodations by calling the state tourist office toll-free at (800) 5432-YES, or write to Lake Bed and Breakfast, 405 Stuart Ave., Kalamazoo, Mich. 49007.

Identify the places in your area of interest that are open year-round. Seasonal places are not much good to you. If you can't find a B & B, call the local tourist bureau before you give up. Not all places are listed.

Polish Muslims polka bit of fun

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

The task sounded simple. Seek and find the Polish Muslims and interview them.

Sure, we know where they hide. Drive along I-75, get a whiff of kielbasa and cabbage cooking and follow your nose. That leads you to the streets of Jos. Campau and Caniff in Hamtramck.

But, ah, these Polish Muslims are a tricky lot. They stay undercover during the day, only a six-pack of beer and an offer of a few free games of bowling can lure them out.

No, this would take some ingenuity. In order to capture and interview the Polish Muslims, you must think like the Polish Muslims, you must dress like a Polish Muslim and you must eat like a Polish Muslim.

This calls for a couple of Stroh's, a plate full of pierogis and a fresh pair of white socks. On this day, the Polish Muslims are scheduled to perform at the Hamtramck Festival.

Even parking the car on Caniff has to be done carefully. The youth who is collecting $2 in the lot looks like an operative.

Especially after the Hamtramck police made the kid empty his pockets and find he's been pocketing money on the sly. This, more than likely, is one of many fund-raising activities the Polish Muslims incorporate, perhaps to pay for bleach used to keep their white socks bright.

AFTER WALKING down tree-lined Sobieski Street, we come upon the Polish Muslims' hideout — a two-story home with the door open. We're soon face to face with Dave Uchalik, a well-known, card-carrying Polish Muslim.

"Hi. Come on in," Uchalik said. "Can I get you a beer?"

With that out of the way, the information comes fast and furious. The Polish Muslims are a parody rock 'n' roll band. They have been performing locally for more than six years.

The band formed out of the nucleus of two since-departed rock 'n' roll outfits, Reruns and the Cheaters. It seems the Reruns equipment was stolen and members of both groups banded together for a benefit show in order to buy some new gear.

One night, Uchalik was sitting at Lili's 21 with some of his fellow band mates. It was then they decided to join forces and call themselves the Polish Muslims.

"Maybe we had too much beer," said Uchalik, recalling the moment.

The mode of operation would be simple: Play a mixed bag of covers and parodies, poke a little fun at their Polish heritage, and have a good time. And, by no means, was it to be taken seriously.

With that, the band has been a success.

A string of local parody hits have followed like "Love Polka No. 9," "Bowling U.S.A.," and "Dance to the Polka." Their single, "Love Polka No. 9"/"Bowling U.S.A." sold extremely well.

NOW THERE'S a shot at national attention. The Polish Muslims will be featured on the Restless Records compilation, "Polka Is Now," due out in October.

"Who knows?" Uchalik said. "Maybe the pipe dream of ours of making it nationally might happen."

With that would come all the doubt about artistic integrity, whether or not to sell out or gasp leave Hamtramck. Geez, would they be called upon to write original material? Would they have to tour for Amnesty International? Vexing questions indeed.

Concerns, though, are put aside as the band gets ready to perform at the Hamtramck Festival. This is the homecoming. This is akin to Springsteen playing at the Meadowlands in New Jersey or U2 playing the R.D.S. in Dublin.

And like the aforementioned performers, the Polish Muslims speak to the people about their problems, their concerns. Which is why the opening chords of the Rolling Stones number "I Can't Get No Satisfaction" are met with Uchalik singing "I Can't Get No Trash Collection." There is a reported work slow down by the city's sanitation workers, so people in Hamtramck are knee deep in garbage.

Heartfelt, the number gets people out of the Las Vegas tents and clapping rhythmically. Uchalik sings the numbers dressed in a beige workshirt with a U.A.W. patch on the sleeve, brown pants, bowling shoes and, yes, white socks.

THE FESTIVAL atmosphere is further enhanced by stinging renditions of "Love Polka No. 9" and "Dance to the Polka." So enthused is the crowd that a man no less than 70 jumps on stage and dances with Polish Muslim lead singer Crystal Gaynor.

Seriously, though, the hour-long show is a triumph for many reasons. The Polish Muslims are able to keep their performances fresh, which is a herculean task for a band that plays mainly parodies and covers.

One reason is that they are able to throw so many diverse elements. One song could be sung in the sweet, soulful voice of Crystal Gaynor, followed by another by the raw-edged vocals of Uchalik. All told, the Polish Muslims have four different people singing lead during a show.

Another factor in the band's success stems simply from not overdoing it.

"We change the repertoire a lot," said Al Phife of Birmingham, who plays bass. "Maybe not getting together often helps keep us fresh."

The Polish Muslims will give a free concert from 5-8 p.m. Friday, Sept. 16, at Fairlane Town Center in Dearborn. Also, the band will perform on Saturday, Sept. 17, at Paycheck's Lounge in Hamtramck.

REVIEWS

FOLKWAYS: A VISION SHARED — various artists

Folk music is not bland and wimpy, as some think.

Then again, that opinion is understandable. When many think "folk music," they hear sappy John Denver or the old fogey style of Burl Ives.

But folk music at its best is a rough-and-tumble, gritty, often thoughtful music.

Lately, its best practitioners have included Bob Dylan, on selected recordings, and Bruce Springsteen, on his fine 1982 album "Nebraska."

And both contribute songs to a new collection album, "Folkways: A Vision Shared." It's a tribute to the premiere folksingers of the '30s and '40s, Woody Guthrie and Leadbelly (Huddie Ledbetter).

Guthrie was the ultimate anti-yuppie. He hated company yes-men, who sacrificed personal dignity and the dignity of others for a buck.

More than that, he was a gifted songwriter, best known for "This Land Is Your Land." Like early Dylan, Guthrie often grafted his own words onto traditional folk melodies with wit and a poetic touch.

The music of Guthrie and Leadbelly is re-created on this album by Dylan, Springsteen, John Mellencamp, U2 and others who donated their performances to the project. Proceeds will allow the Library of Congress to buy Folkways Records, which has documented the music of Guthrie, Leadbelly and others.

Highlights include Dylan singing "Pretty Boy Floyd" backed on guitar and harmonica, Springsteen's version of "I Ain't Got No Home" and Mellencamp's raspy "Do Re Mi."

U2 stays true to the spirit of Guthrie's "Jesus Christ," even with drums and electric guitars.

It's a listenable collection throughout, and no less than a folk and rock classic.

Director Jonathon Demme is one of the hippest cats in Tinseltown. His credits include "Stop Making Sense," the Talking Heads concert movie; "Melvin and Howard," the strange story of the guy who met Howard Hughes; and "Something Wild" about the suit-and-tie guy who goes for a ride with adventurous woman.

It follows that the sound track from Demme's latest film, "Married to the Mob," is equally hip. The lineup includes New Order, Sinead O'Connor, Ziggy Marley and Tom Tom Club.

These days most movie sound tracks are loaded with excess. They have become another vehicle for marketing the film or capitalizing on the movie's success, and often feature rotten outtakes from rotten bands or gimmicky rejuvenated oldies.

The "Married to the Mob" sound track (Reprise) is better than most, though. Especially strong are O'Connor's "Jump in the River," Chris Isaak's "Suspicion," and Brian Eno's "You Don't Miss Your Water."

Also included is a female singer named Lazarus, a New York City taxi driver Demme met in a snowstorm, and a Haitian band called The Voodooist Corporation.

There is some fat here, and some stuff that was rescued from the scrap heap. Debbie Harry of Blondie fame offers an uninspired version of the Castaways' hit, "Liar, Liar." It doesn't match the original.

Having not seen the movie though, this soundtrack, like most others leaves the listener somewhat unsatisfied.

DETROIT MUSIC SCENE VOL. 1 — various artists

The main idea behind compilation albums is to offer a potpourri of what's out there. They are of particular value locally, mainly because if you like a band's single, chances are you'll investigate further.

In that sense, "Detroit Music Scene Vol. 1" is a success. Here we get a good mix of Detroit rock 'n' roll talent. Included are local music heavyweights like See Dick Run, Beer on the Penguin, The Difference and Funhouse. Also, we get the recent works of groups who are just starting out or who keep a rather low-profile like Hippodrome, Anton James and Jugglers and Thieves.

The end result, if anything, is quite encouraging. There's an actual attempt by some of the bands to break the strait-ahead, ram-bam, nuts and bolts rock 'n' roll mentality born out of the era of MC 5 and Iggy and the Stooges. Remember folks, MC 5 and Iggy were unique 15 years ago because their sound at the time was new.

That's not to say there's not some derivative stuff here. The Edge-like guitar riffs and the Euro-dance sound has been tried before fellas.

Also, there are some technical blemishes as well. Scott Campbell's "Come Home (With Me)" sounds a bit muddled. Chrissy McColl's ethereal voice never seems to mesh with the snarling guitar tracks in Jugglers and Thieves' "Springtime."

Yet there are some pleasant surprises. Anton James futuristic pop-styled number "Can't Let On" reflects an artist with definite promise. The same can be said for Hippodrome whose "Autumn Colors" will stand the test of time.

The Difference's funk-soaked "Lonely One" will get the wallflowers dancing. And with their croissant approach to songwriting (light and airy), See Dick Run's "They Were So Young" will definitely hang on your ear.

This album, in general, will impress more than disappoint.

I am woman

Oakland Community College will offer a special seminar for women Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 10-11, on its Orchard Ridge campus in Farmington Hills.

"The Emerging Woman" offers a new approach to feminine psychology and is being led by Mary Elizabeth Marlow, international women's lecturer, counselor and author of "Handbook for the Emerging Woman."

The seminar will be from 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday and 1 to 6 p.m. Sunday. The fee is $110.

To register or for more information, call Robert Krajenke at 435-0890 or 893-8955.

A peewee

If you're into wearing your suits a tad too small, donning a touch of rouge and lipstick, slicking back your hair with Vitalis and talking with a falsetto voice, then Wonderland Mall in Livonia wants to hear from you.

The mall is sponsoring a Pee Wee Herman look alike contest at 7 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 15.

Contestants are required to dress like Pee Wee Herman. They will walk down a runway and have a chance to impersonate the "dapper" comedian. A microphone also will be available for those wanting to do a vocal impersonation.

The winners will receive Wonderland gift certificates and gifts donated by mall merchants.

The mall is at Plymouth and Middlebelt roads in Livonia.

came out to explain the rules, crack a few jokes and put them at ease. He was no Pat Sajak, but for a Tuesday afternoon in Detroit, he was pretty darn charismatic.

First, they filled out forms similar to job applications. He was jammed against a wall in the back, in a dim corner. He peeked at the form of the woman next to him. She was 23, from Dearborn, a housewife with one child "and one on the way," she wrote. A mismatch, he thought again; a man against girls. A writer against housewives in this war of words.

And then he noticed next to the word "education," she'd written "State University of New York, 2 years." And where it asked for course of study, she'd written "Russian."

RUSSIAN? The little housewife was a studier of Russian? A linguist? This, he thought, was not a good omen.

They passed out the tests, alternating down the rows, one person getting a pink test, the person on either side a yellow test. Two different tests to cut down on the cheating. The rules were simple: There were 15 sample Wheel of Fortune puzzles, with a smattering of letters filled in, none of them vowels. The puzzles were in categories — phrases, people or things — and they would have five minutes to do as many as possible.

It took him less than five seconds to convert T—B—R to Teddy Bear and less than a minute into the test, he had three more, Richard Pryor, Woody Allen and Merry Go-Round. Then came Here Today, Gone Tomorrow, and two more. At two minutes, he'd done seven. Ahead of schedule. A breeze.

At three minutes, he'd still done seven. And at four. And when the whistle went at five? Still seven. He'd choked badly, begun to panic, the lover of tests no longer loving this one.

He glanced over at the linguist's sheet. She had 13 done. And as he watched, she filled in another, the answer suddenly came to her. The Russian linguist was a cheater, but she'd done 14. Ahead of him, one woman whispered an answer to another and she filled her sheet in late, too.

"Who got 15?" a woman near him kept asking those around her. None, thankfully. At least there was that.

"Did you get 'corn on the cob?'" asked another woman. Corn on the cob? Corn on the cob? C-N—TH—C— wasn't "chin in the cup?" Oh-oh. ("Chin in the cup?" you ask. Don't. It made sense at the time.) He was down from seven to six.

A MAN AND a woman behind him traded answers. "At least I got 'penny pincher,'" said the man. Penny pincher? Of course. The writer had got the penny part of it. But he thought it was a proper name: Penny. He kept trying to think of the Penny who starred in Laverne and Shirley, a show he once took pride in having never seen. Wasn't there a Penny in that? P-N—R went the clue. Penny Pincher? Penny Pankler? What was her name?

Marshall? Oh.

"I got Big Dipper," someone said. Another, of course. TH—B—D—R the puzzle had said. Culturally hip, the writer had first tried "the boy dancer," but it didn't seem to have the ring of cliché to it. How about "the big dunker" like Kareem or Wilt Chamberlain? It fit, but it didn't seem like much of a phrase, either.

Chamberlain's nickname was the Big Dipper. Ach! Why hadn't he made that connection? The boy dancer? Nice guess. Put your chin in your cup.

After a few minutes, Harv and assistants Suzy and Barb came back with graded tests. But first, let's have fun! Let's raffle off Wheel of Fortune Hats! (APPLAUSE, LOUD OOOOHS.) Let's raffle off Wheel of Fortune games! (LOUDER APPLAUSE, OOOOZIER OOOOHS.) Let's raffle off a Wheel of Fortune pencil and note pad! (LOUD LAUGHTER.)

It was a mismatch, all right. The linguist, the housewife and a couple of guys in polyester had kicked his butt. Eight was passing. They called out the names of the 30 who passed. One at a time they stood, victorious, while the rest applauded. The linguist stood. The other cheater stood.

For one heart-stopping second they called out his first name, paused as he began to stand, and called out a last name that wasn't close to his.

THE 30 WERE invited to stay, to do the fun stuff. Like spinning a mock Wheel wheel. Like clapping in fake earnestness when the person next to you did well at something. Like showing sunny personalities. Like BEING TELEGENIC, showing off their curls, their blue shirts.

Everyone else got the bum's rush. Forty minutes after they'd walked in, the losers slunk out.

"It looks so easy when you're sitting home on your couch, doesn't it?" someone asked.

He took solace. There is more than one way to spin a wheel. Harv said they'd be back in two years. Or, he said, if you're ever in California on vacation or business, write us and we'll give you a tryout. Maybe it'd be in a room with better lighting, where they could see his smile, his hair, his shirt, his TOTAL TV PRESENCE, where he could get close to 60 yards to anyone in charge. And maybe, just maybe, out in California where the weather is nicer, there wouldn't be so many people with nothing to do but sit around watching TV, getting good at game shows.

Till then, he was TH—B-G—L-S-R. (The bug laser?)

Things you wish your parents had told you

By Amy Rosa
staff writer

As a grown-up, do you now wish your parents had told you something about life during your childhood that you could have really used?

Did you ever hear the classic "Don't cross your eyes, they'll stay like that," or "Make sure you wear a clean pair of underwear because you might get into an accident and have to go to the hospital?"

Instead, do you wish they had told you the prime lending rate would rise considerably, so buy a house now, or never join a record club that offers 10 albums for a penny, because the albums you get stink, and they send you one every month C.O.D. whether you want one or not?

Well, even if they had known of those two bits of wisdom, chances are they wouldn't have told you anyway. Why? "Because I never listened to anything my parents told me when I was growing up," as one 25-year-old Troy hair dresser said.

A random and terribly unscientific survey of folks out and about the metro area confirmed the fact that many children simply don't listen to their parents' advice.

But now that the up-and-coming yuppies are older and wiser, a lot of them wish they had been told certain things, or just wish they had paid better attention to what was said.

"I wish they had told me that men are jerks!" said Lori Ballard, a 22-year-old sales clerk in Southfield.

WHEN ASKED if she was referring to anyone in particular, she said, "My boyfriend." Then, after a pause, she said dreamily, "I don't know why I still see him — I guess I'm in love."

Mike Clark, 29, of Birmingham,

'I should have been told not to get involved with a women who wears more than one earring in one ear' wishes he too had been given some advice for his love life. "I should have been told not to get involved with a women who wears more than one earring in one ear," he said laughing, but completely serious.

"They are semi-wild types. You know, chic, off-the-wall. They expect too much out of you," he explained, but declined to reveal more about the jewelry-lobed lady who helped form his opinion.

Cathy McGillacuddy, a 22-year-old cashier from Lathrup Village, said she wished her parents had told her the truth about a favorite pet's demise — an incident that plagued her for nearly two weeks of her childhood.

"When I was 10, my cat had to be put to sleep because it was biting people. But my parents told me it ran away," Cathy explained. "I really wish they would have let me know about it, because I used to look for it all the time — what a lot of wasted energy."

Cathy's parents brought her a new cat two weeks later, she said.

Steven Odums, 22 and a student at Oakland Community College in Rochester, said he wished he had listened better when his mother told him not to go into the army.

"She told me, but I didn't listen," he said of his three years in the service. "Boy, I wish would have, because now I'd be a lot farther along in college. Oh well, you live and you learn."

JEFF BLAKESLEE, a 20-year-old video store clerk in Southfield, said he would have liked some input from his parents on financing college. "I wish they had told me I had to pay for school before it came time to go," said the MSU student who admitted to blowing summer savings before he was hit with the tab. "I guess each thought the other was going to foot the bill."

The most popular piece of advice folks complained was lacking from their childhoods was, of course, the old adage "Life isn't fair."

"Well it isn't," said Charles Johnson, 20, of Beverly Hills. "Sometimes things just don't go your way and you have to handle them. I guess no one can really tell you that, you have to learn it for yourself."

So there you have it. Maybe the advice you wished you had gotten, couldn't have been relayed anyway. And even if it could have, would you have listened?

My father always told me that if I ate the crust on my toast (which I despised more than lima beans), it would put hair on my chest. Why?

Oh well, as it turned out, I acquired a taste for toast crust and never did develop chest hair. But don't ever tell your kid that one. They might not take it so well.

By Sue Mason
staff writer

Cher does it.

So does Julie Brown of MTV.

And ditto for Bon Jovi, Terrence

Trent D'Arby and Sheri Wagner.

Sheri Wagner? Yep, Sheri Wagner.

She may not be a big-name rock star or an Academy Award-winning actress, but Wagner has long hair just like them.

We're not talking about long hair that takes years to grow. We're talking about the six-hour variety — monofibre hair extensions.

All it takes is up to six hours of your time, the synthetic hair fibers — which are braided into human hair — and a dab of heat from a sealer that looks like a 21st century glue gun.

Anyone can have the tresses of their dreams, thanks to Simon Forbes, who developed the process in London, England, in 1981.

"I NEVER had long hair and I really wanted it, so it didn't take any convincing to have it done," Wagner said.

By blending strands of blond, golden blond, medium brown and orange — yes, orange — fibers, extensions were made to match Wagner's ash blonde, shoulder-length hair.

Karen Broderick, like Wagner, always wanted long hair and had her wish come true with hair extensions.

"My hair only grew so far and that was it," she said. "I've gotten a lot of compliments and it's great because I can pull it up in a ponytail or whatever I want."

HAIR EXTENSIONS can be as simple as a tail at the nape of the neck or longer bangs, or as complex as a full head of hair. They can be used to add highlights without chemical treatment or to fill out a bobbed haircut.

"Extensions are like the '80s version of wigs," stylist Mikel Mullany said. "They're like the wigs that were big in the '60s, but with those wigs you covered the head. With extensions, you add to the head."

Mullany ought to know. His blonde hair is shoulder-length, thanks to monofibre extensions.

MULLANY, Peter Soronen, Gary Gabriel Kish and Mario Direzzi have been dressing up people's tresses with extensions at Heidi's Salon at Twelve Oaks in Novi for some two months. The salon is one of several in the Detroit metropolitan area that offer extensions and the only one dealing in monofibre extensions, Mullany said.

"It's reminiscent of the switches and wiglets of the '60s, except you don't have to come in to have them done," Kish said.

The four aren't shy about the work they do. They think they're the best at hair extensions.

"If it's done poorly, it won't last and your hair becomes matted," said Kish, who has had extensions added to his jet-black hair. Synthetic royal blue and black fibers were used for his new tresses.

KISH LIKES the monofibre process because of the extensions' durability and maintenance. They last as long as it takes your hair to grow, roughly three to five months. They don't require much more care than permed hair.

Kish has had other extensions.

These include a process in which the human hair is tightly braided, then strips of hair are stitched to the braid.

"That lasted two weeks; my scalp felt like it was crawling with bugs," Kish said. "That's the nice thing about this process. You can keep your scalp clean.

"Monofibre is the only thing to do hair extensions. It's easy to care for."

THE PROCESS is simple. Various colors of synthetic fibers are brushed together until they produce the appropriate hair color. They are then braided with small sections of the real hair close to the scalp. A few strands are wrapped around the upper end of the attachment and then crimped with a heat sealer to lock the extension in place.

Sheri Wagner always wanted long hair but the longest her locks would grow was shoulder length. Now she's sporting long curly tresses, thanks to the monofibre hair weaving process.

It looks like a high tech glue gun, but in actuality it's an electric iron that seals the woven monofibre braid in place.

In some respects, monofibre hair is better than human hair. It can be treated like its natural counterpart. You can do the same things to it that you would do to human hair, except use a metal curling iron on it. That could end up melting it.

And it may well be the epitome of wash-and-wear hair. The fibers can be curled by twisting the extensions, then wrapping them around permanent rods and briefly applying intense heat. The end result is a curl that even water can't remove.

"It doesn't hurt the hair at all, except for the one inch the extensions are attached to," Mullany said. "It's crimped, but that washes out with water."

MULLANY PICKED up the skills during beauty school. The first salon he worked for wasn't interested in doing hair extensions, but Heidi's Al Haddad was.

"It's another way of accessorizing hair and it's for stylists who want to be considered artists," Haddad said. "They deal with the same medium — hair — but another dimension. It's like an art form."

And like quality art, hair extensions can be expensive. The salon charges anywhere from $15 for a few extensions up to $325 for a full head extension.

"People ask me how long it took to grow hair and when I tell them two hours . . . yeah, they stop and look," Mullany said.

Discovering the North Country's best kept secrets

By Larry Jane
special writer

Psssst . . . wanna know some of the best kept secrets of the North Country?

We all know (or have heard) how great the food is at Tapawingo, The Rowe and the Jordan Inn. For years, word has traveled south, heralding the tastes offered at Bowers Harbor Inn. Even the mess of smelt at the Bluebird in Leland has a warm spot hiding in many a "fudgie" heart.

Ah, but what about the as-yet "undiscovered" little bistros and hideaways? Those neat little places you hear talked about while sitting around campfires or while watching the sunset on Lake Michigan?

Barely 10 hours back from a glorious 10-day vacation to the land of Mackinaw Island Fudge, I have mixed emotions about writing this column for fear that the places I'm about to mention will turn into frenzied stops for people in station wagons, wearing plaid bermuda shorts with Instamatic cameras strapped around their necks.

Promise me that if you do clip this article, don't share it with anyone, especially with folks slathered with sun block carrying giant inner tubes that resemble Shamu.

First off, even before we get into all the great foods and restaurants, if you have been wondering what Kirk Lorenz, long gone of the Mayflower in Plymouth, has been up to, drop — repeat drop — the kids off at gram and gramps and head for the Brookside Inn in Beulah or the old Frankfort Hotel in Frankfort.

KIRK HAS taken the old, staid notion of the quaint bed and breakfast joint and turned it into a sensuous lovers' retreat with rooms the likes of which I have never seen. Giant, four poster beds in plush carpeted rooms overflowing with pillows, stuffed animals, a fireplace, an in-room sauna and private jacuzzi. Showers are big enough for two (get the idea?), all with amenities like blow dryers, makeup mirrors and heat lamps.

Kirk has taken the B&B idea one stop further and calls it his "B&B&D — bed, breakfast and dinner."

And speaking of dinner, old favorites from Plymouth include "that house salad" and the ever-loving scrod wrapped in lettuce leaves. But if you're looking for a real treat, pass on the menus and tell the waitress you want the "stone dinner." Great for the health conscious diner, but a gourmet treat for anyone, it's a combination of veal tenderloin, shrimp and boneless chicken, cooked as you like it because you're the cook. Right in front of your plate is a 700-degree block of granite.

If you haven't been to the Traverse City Zoo lately, do yourself a favor and check it out. All the animals are native to Michigan. But, in all honesty, what turned out to be the treat of the day was lunch at a place called Sydney's, just west of Milliken's in downtown T.C.

This is an old-time diner complete with a soda bar and '50s jukebox. The homemade pasta primavera was out of this world but my mouth was watering for a Reuben. What a treat!

Speaking of T.C., after slaving over a hot grill every evening and doing the gamut of hot dogs, burgers and grilled fish, we just couldn't resist a trip into what was rated as the best pizzeria in Traverse.

IT'S CALLED "Thatsa Pizza" and there are locations all around from Central Lake to God knows where. This is pizza like pizza used to be. Real handmade dough with real toppings and baked in a real pizza oven. No conveyor belts and speed modes here, just good, traditional pizza.

A visit to the Suttons Bay Art Fair had us lunching at Boones and savoring a great bowl of homemade soup and the best burgers and onion rings around.

Another favorite burger joint in Traverse is Slenders, the old bastion of a bar. Pictures of the original fudgies and deer heads are scattered around the walls. This is a place you can throw your peanut shells on the floor and not feel guilty. Aunt Phyllis and Uncle Ray introduced me to Slenders, and trips up north wouldn't be complete without a stop for at least one cold one.

Not to be missed is a visit to Folgarelli's, the Italian grocery in Traverse that had me filling carts with the likes of marinated artichokes and olives, cheeses that turn an ordinary burger into heaven and accouterments that had our neighbors at the campground whispering "are those people camping?"

And now, for the piece de resistance, the best of our discoveries, the places that you must swear on Aunt Marie's old family cookbook that you will never divulge its locations . . .

After an arduous climb on the Sleeping Bear Dunes, we were headed back to our campsite when we noticed a small traffic jam outside of what was this quaint little restaurant in a boondocky old town called Empire.

LURED BY the cars, we had stumbled on the Cafe Emporium. Breakfast with real homemade cinnamon rolls. Lunch with the likes of a gazpacho I have never tasted and croissants brimming with seafoods and salads. Dinner with a chilled or poached orange roughy and a broiled whitefish that was as close to perfection as it comes.

And last but not least, we were told to look for the "Stone Circle" on Saturday night. Get there at dusk was the word to the wise. Now you have to understand that I don't usually give up my sunsets on Lake Michigan too readily.

It was a short ride down a dusty road to an old homestead that had, way out back by the woods, a whispering fire, surrounded by small boulders of stone.

We brought along a cooler of pop for the kids and a thermos of Southern Comfort Manhattans for the adults and we were served the most imaginative array of folk music, poetry and storytelling that I had ever experienced.

This was shades of Max Ellison, the late poet laureate of the north, complete with a Joni Mitchell-type folksinger and a few very talented folks who could spin old legends into colorful mind videos.

It all starts at dusk, only on Saturday and it only goes through Labor Day.

But promise me, you won't tell a soul . . .

Time management tips

Q. I read and enjoy your column, but need more help. How can I get a better grasp of the whole time management and organizing picture?

A. Many people really don't know where to start getting organized. Education is the key, of course, and there are many ways to go about learning more.

There are innumerable books concerning this topic. Some of my favorites are several years old, but classics (to me). Stephanie Winston's "Getting Organized" and "The Organized Executive" deal particularly with the greatest bane of most peoples lives — paperwork — and are very helpful.

Two goal setting and time management books I prefer are "How to Control Your Time In Your Life" by Dr. Dru Scott. "Ordering Your Private World" by Gordon MacDonald is another excellent work.

Other good books include "Time In, Time Out, Time Enough" by Ann Arbor's Pat Matarka; four books by Don Aslett including "Clutter's Last Stand," "Working Smart" by Michael Leboeuf, "Sidetracked Home Executives" by Pam Young and Peggy Jones, plus many more, including my "36 Hot Tips" booklet.

Motivational audio cassette tapes are another resource that can be played in your car or on a Walkman while doing boring work or exercising. Three big producers of these tapes are Nightengale-Conant of Chicago, the Zig Zigar Corp. of Dallas and Success Motivation of Waco, Texas.

WORKSHOPS AND seminars offer other opportunities to learn how to better control your life. Many companies sponsor time-management seminars or enroll their employees in local community adult education classes or public seminars commonly held in hotels. If your employer doesn't use these valuable tools, perhaps you could convince him or her these learning experiences would benefit your company.

If you aren't company sponsored, your life can still be vastly improved by enrolling on your own. There is a wide selection of help available, from one-time seminars to full semester courses, taught by highly qualified instructors. (I will be teaching my "Organizing for Success" series at Schoolcraft College CES, Southfield Comm. Ed., Birmingham Memorial.) Now is the time to enroll in fall classes so watch for brochures or call your local community adult education center.

Robert M. Melsner

Q. I am sick and tired of putting up with our association who refuses to spend money on necessary items such as landscaping and building improvements. The association board, which is comprised of affluent individuals, say that we should be big enough to spend our own money in regard to some of these common area problems since that is the "gentlemanly thing to do." What is your response?

A. The board of directors, besides being sexist, may also have a poor command of what their legal responsibilities are in regard to running the association. The fact that they feel that there are not enough moneys available does not necessarily mean that they have a right to abdicate their responsibilities of maintenance. They have the inherent power to raise the assessments so that the condominium association is properly maintained. If the condominium is in any so-called affluent area, that is even more reason why the board should be ensuring that the maintenance levels of care and responsibility are suitable to the expectations of the homeowners.

Q. We are buying a house and are concerned about ensuring that the premises are turned over in good condition. We are going to have the house inspected but want to protect ourselves between the time of the inspection and closing. What can be done?

A. Be sure that your purchase agreement contains a provision that the seller must maintain the premises in good condition, that he will ensure that everything is in working and operable order at the time of the closing and that the house is turned over in "broom clean condition." You should also provide for a provision in the purchase agreement that allows you to inspect the premises immediately before closing. With these protections and a possible escrowing of moneys in the event that the condition of the premises changes, that should protect your interests; however, you should consult with an attorney for further regards.

This group's selective with a capital S

By Joan Boram
special writer

Location! Location! Location! If we've heard it once, we've heard it a thousand times, "location" is the "big three" of real estate.

But would you really like living in a tent in front of the Taz Mahal?

So there is more than location, after all.

The Selective Group thinks so, too. "Northville, Novi, and Plymouth are wonderful locations," said spokeswoman Ellen Whitefield, "but Selective has added an additional 'big three' that enhance location, and these are: Quality, commitment to the buyer and environmental sensitivity."

"When people see that you're building 100 houses, they take it for granted that you're not going to do anything you don't have to do, and that they won't have any choices in what they get in the way of finishes, hardware, etc."

"We don't operate that way. In Timber Ridge (Novi), for example, we added gorgeous signage, a top-quality brick wall, immaculate landscaping and a beautiful entranceway. We didn't have to do any of that, but we want to be proud of our projects and we want our buyers to enjoy their decision from the time they turn off the road into the subdivision."

DURING THE EARLY stages of the Timber Ridge development, company officials decided that the 100-year-old barn that already existed on the site conveyed the exact charm and feelings that they wanted the project to offer. Extensive renovation resulted in a sales center that is both unique in appearance and communicates through its spacious and luxurious surroundings the image of Timber Ridge.

The barn is more than a sales center: it is home to the display area that is a part of every Selective subdivision. There is a whole wall of bathroom tiles; a hardware display; six or eight different handles in five or six different finishes; six different cabinet styles, an infinite amount of color choices.

"We believe in giving choices," said Whitefield. "It takes a lot more out of our internal organization, but it seems unfair that a person should make a major purchase like a house and not be able to choose what knobs they get on their kitchen cabinets. This way, people come in with their designers, or they look at the several models we have available, and they see what can be done."

Timber Ridge has kept intact as much as possible the natural wooded area on which it sits. The meandering creek and breathtaking ravines have all been left undisturbed. In addition, a large stand of trees comprising a small forest was left untouched in the middle of the subdivision to provide natural beauty and a place for quiet escape by the residents.

'When people see that you're building 100 houses, they take it for granted that you're not going to do anything you don't have to do, and that they won't have any choices in what they get in the way of finishes, hardware, etc. We don't operate that way.' — Ellen Whitefield
Selective Group

Homes at Timber Ridge start at $205,000. They feature dual-glazed wood casement windows and doorways, masonry fireplaces, gourmet kitchens, luxurious bedroom suites, and 2 1/2 car garages. Phase II of the development will open soon.

"PEOPLE WANT to be able to walk into town," said Whitefield. "Look at Birmingham: that's what makes it so great — people can walk around. We're saying that our St. Lawrence condos are in the heart of Northville. That's our big selling point — leave the car in the driveway and walk to restaurants, the fabric store, the florist."

"When we started St. Lawrence, we looked at who we were selling to, and we found our buyers were mostly single professionals or empty nesters. These are people who eat out a lot. They don't have children around, and they want to be able to leave the car at home and enjoy the luxury of walking into town."

St. Lawrence Estates is a cluster home community situated on the former grazing area used by the horses at Northville Downs. Prices start at $139,000. Styles include first floor ranch or two-story. There are vaulted or raised ceilings in many living areas and master bedrooms.

What's next for The Selective Group?

"We've just started developing a piece of property in Plymouth, called Woodlore North," said Whitefield. We're just putting the road in. We put up our signs, probably prematurely, and I've had almost 300 phone calls. This is a new luxury development for the second or third time buyer. When available, prices will start at $229,000. Reservations will be taken in October.

'... we want to be proud of our projects ...'
