Suspect is charged in man's death

A 22-year-old Plymouth Township man was charged with first-degree murder yesterday after a body of another township man was found Tuesday behind Forest Laundry Cleaners on Ann Arbor Road.

Patrick Dennis was remanded to the Wayne County Jail without bond following arraignment in 35th District Court.

Dennis stood mute. Judge James Garber entered a plea of not guilty. Dennis, who told police he is unemployed, asked for a court-appointed lawyer.

Preliminary examination, a hearing to determine if there is enough evidence to hold a trial, is scheduled for Oct. 17.

The victim was identified as Kevin Kenny, 23, of Plymouth Township. Police were still doing a background check to learn more about Kenny, said Carl Berry, police chief.

Kenny's body was discovered by a passer-by at about 3:20 p.m. Tuesday, Berry said.

"Suspicious circumstances, a wound to the chest, led us to believe it was a homicide," Berry said. "It looks like a stabbing."

Police are awaiting an autopsy re-

Patrick Dennis is led to his arraignment by a Plymouth Township officer.

Fire officials weren't called in chemical spill

Officials at Ford's Sheldon Road Plant never notified Plymouth Township's fire department of a chemical problem in the plant Friday while the incident was in progress.

"There was nothing that would indicate to us we should call the fire department," said Tom Jeppesen, personnel services manager at the plant. "There were no injuries, no illnesses, no fires, no explosion."

Fire chief Larry Groth and Charles VanVleck, deputy emergency preparedness director for the township, said they know of no laws that require immediate notification to fire departments of chemical spills.

HOWEVER, BOTH men stressed the importance of calling the fire department in any potential emergency.

"From our standpoint, common sense dictates they call," Groth said.

VanVleck echoed: "Firefighters can decide whether it's major or minor and will make sure it's not a threat to workers and the area."

It wasn't until a local television station telephoned police about goings-on at Ford — apparently nearly an hour after a liquid cleaning solvent vaporized — that public safety officials learned of the situation.

Groth said he dispatched all available township fire apparatus to the plant.

The incident occurred at about 10:30 a.m., Jeppesen said. The plant was evacuated about 10 minutes later, he said.

Firefighters were dispatched at 11:23 a.m.

"When we arrived, everything was normal," Groth said last week.

Ford intends to file a report with the township after completing an investigation, Jeppesen said. The company already has reported the incident to state and county agencies, he added.

The solvent — trichloroethylene — is used to degrease radiator cores. The cause of the vaporization still is under investigation, Jeppesen said.

Law says roads, school finance are top issues

By M.B. Dillon

State Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, is seeking re-election to a fourth two-year term because "I enjoy serving the government. With my background in education, business and my work experience I have to admit I really enjoy working with legislators and constituents."

"We're able to solve constituents problems and clear up a lot of things. I get a lot of satisfaction doing that."

"I think I do a good job with the work I do, representing local officials on any concerns they have. (Because I commute to Lansing) I'm home every night to get phone calls from constituents."

Law is proudest of his achievements dealing with prisons. A successful fight led to a new prison being located in Detroit, not the targeted 36th District.

LAW CITED caps on prison population and tighter security levels among his other prison-related successes. Three state prisons are in the district.

Law introduced a bill he expects to pass soon that deals with restricting companies claiming to upgrade poor credit ratings for a fee. Another bill headed for passage would make unavailable to the public information about which videos people rent, Law said.

Stempien says schools, health care are priorities

By M.B. Dillon

Livonia attorney Jeanne Stempien said she is running for state representative "because I think I could accomplish more (than incumbent Gerald Law, R-Plymouth) in terms of being an effective legislator."

"Being a trial attorney I have developed skills in advocacy I feel would serve me well. I'm often in situations that call for problem-solving on the spot. I've learned to think on my feet."

Stempien said she is creative, a skill that would assist her in drafting and passing legislation.

"I don't think the current legislator has distinguished himself with creative legislation. I could be more creative, and give this area more leadership in resolving problems," Stempien said.

The candidate said she would like to serve on the education, appropriations and health care committees.

"Being a member of the majority party is an advantage in getting good committee assignments," she said.

STEMPIEN FAVORS "getting away from relying solely on the property tax" to fund education. "I think we need changes."

Quality education must be available across the state, she said.

"I think kids, whether they're in schools in St. Joe, Benton Harbor or

Activities mark crime prevention month

Plymouth Township's Police Department intends to embrace crime prevention month this October in a big way.

A host of free activities including an open house, crime prevention seminars and an anti-theft vehicle window etching program are on the docket.

"We think citizens should be made aware of what's going on in the community and how to adequately defend themselves from crime," said officer Robert Smith. "Crime prevention isn't just the police department or business. It's everyone's responsibility."

The local lineup:

- Wednesday, Oct. 12 — Home security seminar, 7 p.m., township hall, 42350 Ann Arbor Road.
- "This will help residents learn good, basic crime prevention tips on home security," Smith said. "Crime prevention doesn't have to be expensive."
- Tuesday, Oct. 18 — Neighborhood watch program, 7 p.m., township hall.
- "This is generally geared toward people interested in starting a program," Smith said. "We only have a few that are active."
- Saturday, Oct. 22 — Vehicle identification etching program and police open house, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., police parking lot, 42350 Ann Arbor Road.

In cooperation with the Automobile Association of American, community service officers will etch vehicle identification number on car and truck windows to discourage thieves.

Car thieves aren't as likely to break a window to steal a vehicle because its value would be diminished on the underground market, Smith said.

"This program works," he said. "You're hitting them in the pocket-book, really."

The department also will host an open house that day and officers will be available to fingerprint children for family records.

- Monday, Oct. 24 — Check and credit card fraud seminar, 8 a.m., township hall. Reservations requested by phoning 453-3869.
- "This is a good program for management and employees," Smith said. The early-morning start was designed to accommodate as many retailers as possible.
- Wednesday, Oct. 26 — Youth protection seminar for parents, 7 p.m., township hall.
- Parents will learn what to tell their children about staying safe in an increasingly dangerous world and especially how to act toward strangers.

Kenny's body was found less than 100 yards from what police believe was the murder scene — a garage on Corinne, Berry said. Dennis was living in the house on the property, owned by his grandmother.

Dennis admitted to police that he and Kenny met at the Plymouthrock Saloon. Several hours after Kenny's body was discovered, a witness came forward with information placing Dennis and Kenny together early Tuesday morning at a location police are unwilling to disclose, said Berry. He declined comment on motive.

Police obtained a search warrant for the house and garage early Wednesday morning and eventually arrested Dennis based on evidence turned up at the scene, Berry said.

Dennis was arrested about 12 hours after Kenny's body was found.

A murder weapon hadn't been found as of yesterday afternoon, Berry said.

Library watch

CHILDREN'S CORNER — Halloween films will be presented 10:30-10:55 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 22, for ages 3-8 and 1:30-2:15 p.m. for ages 7-10. No registration is required for either showing. However, seating will be on a first-come, first-served basis until the room is full. Parents are required to remain in the library during the 10:30 a.m. showing. Kaleidoscope presents games, stories, magic and science experiments of interest to the elementary school age child. Two program dates are set. Both programs start at 4 p.m. and end at 4:45 p.m. Registration is required and runs Oct. 3-8.

NEW FAX SERVICE — Library patrons can fax materials from the library to other locations, or receive faxed information from other sites. The charge for this service is $3 for the first page and $1 for each additional page. For further information, call the Library, 453-0750.

REMEMBER THOSE CAMP-BELL SOUP LABELS — The Plymouth Library will again join the Campbell Soup Company's Labels for Education Program. The official date for collection of labels will be October through March. The staff appreciates those who have helped make this program a success.

ATTENTION SENIORS — If you think you might enjoy campus life on a short-term basis, maybe you should come in and browse the Library's new Fall/Winter '88 "Elderhostel Catalog." Elderhostel is a non-profit educational organization composed of a network of more than 700 colleges, universities and educational centers. Programs are one or more weeks in duration and hostellers live on campus and take non-credit courses.

LIBRARY SERVICES THROUGHOUT THE COMMUNITY — Service to nursing and retirement homes.

- Friends of the library.
- Cassette tapes for the blind and physically handicapped.
- The Arts Council art rental gallery operates 1 a.m. to 8 p.m. Wednesdays, upstairs at the library.
- Plymouth-Northville Lions Club collects eye glasses and hearing aids at the Library.

LIBRARY HOURS — 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday-Thursday, 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday-Saturday, 1-5 p.m. Sunday.

BEST SELLERS ON RESERVE — 453-0750 — "Spock's World," Diane Duane; "Demon Lord of Karanda," David Eddings; "Libra," Don DeLillo; "Love in the Time of Cholera," Gabriel G. Marquez; "The Shell Seekers," Susan Isaacs; "A Thief of Time," Tony Hillerman; "Chaos," James Gleick; "Firefighters," Dennis Smith.

AT HIGH concentrations the solvent causes unconsciousness and may cause damage to the liver, as well as other internal organs, according to Emanuel Ferruzzi, industrial hygienist with Michigan Department of Public Health, administering the Michigan Occupational Safety and Health Act.

Prolonged exposure causes headaches and drowsiness. These toxic level effects are outlined in "Dangerous Properties of Industrial Materials" — a reference commonly used in industrial hygiene.

"At low exposure it shouldn't provide a problem," Ferruzzi said. "No one knows the exact concentration level, because the company evacuated when employees started getting sick."

Fun to the core

Village festival celebrates apple time

Recipes for their use have been dominating the food pages. People are lining up to help farmers pick them. Apples — sweet ones, sour ones and a variety that fall somewhere between the extremes — have arrived.

Their presence was celebrated Saturday at the Old Village Apple Festival. Fruit from the Plymouth Orchards was available for consumption as was cider and doughnuts.

But the celebration wasn't limited to apple-related activities. Hayrides and pony rides were available, crafts and antiques were on display and there was entertainment galore.

The performers ranged from a jazz singer to the Centennial Polish Dancers to a local rock group. In between the featured acts, clowns, jugglers and comedians helped entertain the masses.

A goods and services auction was also held. Proceeds from the event, which was held along Farmer, Starkweather, Mill, Division and Liberty streets, will go toward beautification projects in the Old Village.

Woman says trip to Third World will open her eyes

DURING THE TRIP, delegation members will attend teas, dinners and receptions with the most influential, educated women of the host countries. They will attend briefings from embassy officials.

In Nepal, a tiny country tucked into the towering Himalaya mountains, they are slated to have an audience with the queen. They also have been invited to meet a princess in neighboring Bhutan, where the literacy rate is around 12 percent.

Delegation members are likely to see the aftermath of recent, devastating floods and mudslides in Bangladesh, a poor and densely populated nation east of India.

Odum is one of 18 women taking part in the three-week trip. Betty Lennox, a retired government official and freelance food stylist (prepares food for photography), is the only other local member of the group.

"Our purpose is to get to know women in other parts of the world," said Lennox, who has taken part in three previous delegations. "We try to be very neutral. We never bring up politics."

"I'm excited," Odum said. "I'm a bit apprehensive, too, because I don't know what to expect."

Odum's soft, musical voice betrays her South Carolina upbringing. Her husband, William, chairman of Ford Motor Credit Co., hails from San Diego, Calif. They have been Plymouth residents since 1988.

The couple have three grown children and one grandson. Son, Vince, 29, lives in Southfield. Susan, 23, lives in Canton. The youngest, 17-year-old Joyce, attends college in New York City.

'I find that you can bridge the differences very easily by asking a lady about what she does. If she has children, that gives you a lot to talk about.'

—Jo Ellen Odum

ODUM HAS devoted much energy to the Plymouth Community Arts Council and has been active in fund raising for the Plymouth Symphony. When her children were younger she was a Boy Scouts den mother and a Girl Scout leader. She recently served as a deacon for the First United Presbyterian Church in Plymouth.

Lennox, a longtime member of the U.S. Delegation for Friendship Among Women, recommended Odum submit her application to the group. She cited Odum's penchant for community service.

"She is very kind and interested in people," Lennox said. "I think she will be a very good addition to the group."

In addition, Odum brings the skills of a person who is comfortable meeting other people — in her case, corporate wives — from abroad. This occurs as a result of accompanying her husband to business and social functions that bring together people from Norway, England, Switzerland and other countries.

Odum recalls one especially enjoyable time when several wives from abroad, visiting locally while their husbands attended a business conference, insisted on coming to Plymouth to shop.

"They invited themselves because they had heard about Plymouth," Odum said. "I find that you can bridge the differences very easily by asking a lady about what she does. If she has children, that gives you a lot to talk about."

ODUM'S TRIP, as a member of the delegation, cost $6,600. Each woman is expected to finance her own travel expenses.

The U.S. Delegation for Friendship Among Women was founded in 1971 by Betty Lennox's sister, Mary Pomeroy of Minnesota. The organization is non-profit and tax-exempt and is sanctioned by the U.S. State Department, Lennox said.

Previous delegations have been to such far-flung locations as Africa, Egypt, Iran (before the revolution) and South America. Trips are taken at 12-18-month intervals.

Currently, 65 women are members of the organization as a result of having been a member of one or more delegations. Members include attorneys, government workers, educators and volunteers. Their ages range from the 30s to 70s, Lennox said.

Plymouth students Olympic winners

Students from 18 area Catholic grade schools competed Sept. 27 in the annual Bishop Borgess High Scholastic Olympics in Redford.

Following the competition, which involved testing of 380 student participants, awards were presented in eight categories.

Winners were:

• Computers — Dawn Mincel of St. Albert the Great school in Dearborn Heights, first place; Joseph Tylnski of St. Linus school in Dearborn Heights, second; and Burke Jenkins, Divine Child school in Dearborn, third.

• Current Events — Lisa Lenaghan of St. Michael school in Livonia, first; Pete Jackson of St. Michael, second; and Jessica Metzger of Our Lady of Good Counsel in Plymouth, third.

• English — Lisa Sikorski of St. Raphael in Garden City, first; Richard Byczek of Saints Peter and Paul in Detroit, second; and Christine Mifsud of St. Linus, third.

• Math — Peter Lee of St. Michael, first; Mark West of St. Edith in Livonia, second; and Sean Giszicki of Saints Peter and Paul, third.

• Religion — R. Joseph Ernst of St. Mary in Wayne, first; Charlie Fox of St. Valentine in Redford, second; and Aaron Henderson of Divine Child, third.

• Science — Carl Adams of Our Lady of Good Counsel, first; Brian Sample of St. Raphael, second; and Jason Porter of Our Lady of Grace in Dearborn Heights, third.

• Social Studies — Tony Randazzo of Our Lady of Good Counsel, first; Jeff Swan of St. Michael, second; and Robert Muir of St. Raphael, third.

St. Michael school won first place overall for most points.

Law says schools, roads top issues

Law estimates that "14 or 15 of the 100 or 150 bills" he's introduced have become law.

THE THREE ISSUES Law ranks as most important are school financing reform, cleaning up the environment and funding for transportation and roads.

Law voted for the last legislative proposal, which would switch educational funding to a sales-tax-based system.

"I don't think we have the solution to this issue," said Law. "We'll run some ballot proposal in March, but I don't think it'll pass. Basically it will come to giving $500 million more to education."

"My argument is that our contribution from the general fund has been embarrassing."

The Department of Social Services and the Department of Corrections have received more money, and "education has gotten lost in the process. Schools have lost real dollars," he said.

"More money will have to go into education. We'll get results at the back end (as fewer people end up in the correctional and welfare systems)."

ATTACKING ENVIRONMENTAL issues has required "all-out war with the Michigan Department of Natural Resources," said Law. A new sewer plan that will send wastewater from the district to Ypsilanti was a great accomplishment, "because we couldn't grow without it. It took two years to get a discharge permit" from the DNR, even though the present system pollutes the Rouge, Law said.

Residents are frustrated with how little gas and weight tax revenue is returned to the community, Law said.

"I would favor a change in the (reimbursement) formula, to give townships more authority in paving roads and helping out with our transportation problems," he said.

"When roads don't get paved, citizens get very mad. Local officials just take the blunt of criticism, and they can't do much of anything."

REGARDING TUITION rollbacks requested by Gov. James Blanchard, Law said "leaning on the university is good, one time."

But schools "can't hold back forever." Legislative funding of higher education has been inadequate, and tuition rates in Michigan are among the highest in the country, Law said.

"Our appropriation is embarrassing," he added. "When the increases don't even meet the rate of inflation, that's embarrassing."

"We're going to set up a study to see how universities are run. We'll have to make a policy on who is going to run universities," Law said.

Constitutionally in Michigan, universities are independently run. "But if you're going to tell them what to charge, you're controlling the process."

Law is vice chairman of the House committee on state affairs and a member of the judiciary, insurance and public health committees. A Plymouth Township trustee from 1978 to 1983, he worked for Ford Motor Co. before entering public service. He is a member of the local Chamber of Commerce and historical society, the Kiwanis club, the Trailwood Homeowners Association, Knights of Columbus and Our Lady of Good Counsel Catholic Church.

Law holds a master's degree in business administration from the University of Detroit and is a graduate of the Wayne State Law School.

A Plymouth Township resident, he and his wife, Chris, have two daughters.

The 36th district includes the city of Plymouth, Plymouth Township, parts of Canton Township, the city of Northville and Northville Township.

Stempien targets school finance

Plymouth, all have to have at least the opportunity to receive a quality education. That benefits every single one of us, because that's the future.

"We're going to have to shift the tax base," Stempien said. "I'm not particularly thrilled with funding education solely with sales tax revenue, but income tax isn't going to fly. There's no sense putting something out that's doomed to fail."

The legislative proposal to cap property taxes and increase sales tax "is a step in the right direction" that would require fine tuning, she said.

COLLEGE TUITION rollbacks mandated by Gov. James Blanchard were warranted, Stempien said.

"I think tuition raises of 20-22 percent are too big a leap. I don't disagree with having them come back somewhat."

"I'd like to see state aid maintained or increased for higher levels of education, and the same with K-12. (Education determines) our future social atmosphere and economic base."

IN CLEANING UP the environment, "the Legislature has to take a leadership role," Stempien said.

"There has to be a coordinated effort. Business and industry can't take care of it on their own." Stempien favors a comprehensive plan utilizing a bond issue paid for over a number of years. "Otherwise, if we go by year by year, it's not going to be enough."

The fact that the state is moving toward more diversification in its industrial base is a good sign that potentially means more revenue, she added.

Stempien would oppose more loopholes in the Open Meetings Act.

"My philosophy comes from being an attorney. One of the ways we safeguard objectivity by those who are decision makers and affect our lives is by ensuring that the decisions are public. That's the only way the public can participate."

Personnel and contractual issues should be handled in closed session, she said.

IN ADDITION to educational financing and cleaning up the environment, revamping the health care system to meet the needs of the elderly is one of her top three priorities, she said.

Stempien would focus on "health insurance care, particularly nursing home care." Long-term nursing home care is a problem for large numbers of the elderly and widows, and will be for persons who are underemployed now, Stempien said.

The answer may lie with "the private sector. To accomplish that, I envision some sort of incentive to employers to make that provision."

Endowments or annuities could be established and allowed to grow over a long period of time, she said.

Stempien, who specializes in civil trial work, has worked at all levels of the Michigan court system and the federal district court. She has been an assistant attorney general representing the Michigan Department of Transportation, and worked for the Detroit firm of Joselyn, Rowe, Jamieson & Grinnan.

From 1967-69, Stempien taught in Taylor public schools. She was appointed to the Schoolcraft College board of trustees and was elected to a four-year term in 1987. Stempien served as representative to SEMCOG in 1987-88 and is a Democratic precinct delegate.

The candidate graduated magna cum laude from Detroit College of Law in 1980. She earned a bachelor of arts degree from the University of Michigan in 1967.

Stempien is a member of the State Bar of Michigan, the Women Lawyers Association of Michigan, the American Trial Lawyers Association, the Michigan Trial Lawyer's Association, the Advocate Bar Association and the Livonia Bar Association.

She also belongs to the Chamber of Commerce of Northville, the University of Michigan Alumni Association, Our Lady of Victory Church.

Dukakis talks drug policy in area stop

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

A western Wayne County incinerator figured into the 1988 presidential campaign Monday as Democratic Party nominee Michael Dukakis outlined his position on illegal drugs.

Dukakis dumped an estimated $650,000 of confiscated cocaine into the Central Wayne County Sanitation Authority incinerator in Dearborn Heights while telling an audience of enthusiastic high school students he'd fight hard in the war on drugs.

"It's not just a question of just saying no, it's a lot more than that," Dukakis said.

The incinerator serves Westland and Garden City, among other Wayne County communities.

The appearance gave Dukakis the opportunity to counteract GOP charges that he's soft on crime.

Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano, who introduced Dukakis, said the Massachusetts governor was plenty tough.

"THERE'S A lot of buzz words going around, but Michael Dukakis is an effective crime fighter," Ficano said. "As a governor, he knows how to set priorities and administer the funding needed to carry them out. If you look, crime has gone down since he's been governor."

Audience members were drawn from a number of Wayne County school districts, Dukakis staff members said, including Livonia, Wayne-Westland and Garden City.

The war on drugs has been a central theme to both presidential campaigns this fall. It was the second time a Dukakis family member carried the anti-drug message to western Wayne County. The candidate's wife, Kitty, spoke out against illegal drug use during a Sept. 6 appearance at Westland John Glenn High School.

While the candidate's wife was also warmly received, her husband's speech was more impressive, according to Westland John Glenn student Kristin Beeny, who attended both events.

"He's going to win," she said.

TO ELIMINATE the flow of illegal drugs, Dukakis said he would: double the number of federal drug enforcement agents; campaign for more and earlier drug education; call a hemispheric summit with Latin American nations; and appoint a federal drug czar to serve as a liaison between the White House and Congress.

The increased drug enforcement agents "would pay for themselves," allowed Dukakis to burn an estimated $650,000 in confiscated drugs in an area incinerator.

Dukakis, said, as drug dealers confiscated assets are turned over to the government. A similar program, already in place in Wayne County, would serve as a national model, he said.

While the multi-nation summit would also focus on other issues, the drug trade "would be right at the top," Dukakis said.

Drug education should start as early as the first grade, Dukakis said.

"Half of our kids in this country are experimenting with drugs and alcohol in junior high school not high school," he said.

tial opponent, Vice President George Bush.

"Everytime he's been given an assignment in the war against drugs he's failed," Dukakis said of Bush.

Dukakis called the Reagan Administration's South Florida drug task force a failure and chided the administration for dealing with Panamanian dictator Manuel Noriega.

Rouge seeks state money

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

A federal grant last week gave the area's Super Sewer project a major boost, but it's not the only outside financing the massive sewer project expects to receive.

"We're still looking for money from the state bond issue," county public works director James Murray said. "That's absolutely critical."

A $660 million bond issue for environmental projects will face voters during the Nov. 8 general election.

While Murray said he was uncertain how much money the Super Sewer and other Rouge River restoration projects would receive, some estimates have placed that figure as high as $4.5 million.

"THE FEDERAL grant will help us bring 'dry time' pollution under control," Murray said. "but we're still looking for money for the CSOs."

CSOs, combined sewer overflows, dump raw sewage into the river during heavy rains as the outmoded combined sewers take on water.

The North Huron Valley/Rouge River "super sewer" is a 15-mile interceptor that will help transport waste from Livonia, Westland, Garden City, Plymouth and Redford Township to the Detroit Treatment plant.

Bids for Super Sewer work are expected to be sent out this winter,

— James Murray county DPW director

Murray said. Ground breaking is expected to occur next spring. The project is expected to be completed by mid-1993.

Plymouth and Canton townships are part of another sewer project and will ship waste to Ypsilanti for treatment.

UNLIKE THE Super Sewer, that project was turned down for federal financing last week. Murray said the townships' rejection won't hurt the Super Sewer project, but added the townships must soon begin cutting down on waste they currently ship to Detroit.

The Super Sewer project received a $34.7 million federal Environmental Protection Agency grant last week to help build the Super Sewer.

County officials have also begun inspecting for leaks and illegal sewer connections, Murray said, though that project isn't financed under the federal grant.

Individual communities, including Livonia and Westland, are inspecting their local systems, Murray added.

Voters are asked to register for '92

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

The 1988 presidential election is still six weeks away but the state elections division is already thinking about 1992.

Regardless of who they vote for this fall, voters will be given cards asking them to declare a party preference for the state's 1992 presidential primary.

Cards are being printed, elections officials said, and will soon be distributed to all state polling places.

"This is a first step," state elections director Chris Thomas said. "But we're going to have access to a large number of voters over the next four years, and we'd like to have them participate in the primary."

Voters can also declare a party preference at any Michigan Secretary of State office or by sending a signed letter to their local clerk's office.

Voters have a long time to make up their minds. The last day to register for the primary is Feb. 17, 1992. Voters won't be eligible to vote in the primary unless they declare a party preference.

The presidential primary, Michigan's first in 20 years, will be held March 17, 1992.

IN ANOTHER change, voters who register for this fall's election will be asked to provide their driver's license number as well as name and address.

The new policy, mandated by law, is designed to help the state election division create countywide voter files.

Voter files are currently maintained solely by individual cities and townships. The large number of files makes it difficult for election inspectors to check whether a voter is registered in more than one community. Countywide files, they believe, will prove much more effective in tracking voters.

Questions linger as to how effective the new program will be.

While the new state law requires voters to provide the information, there are no sanctions against voters who withhold.

Voters without driver's licenses will be asked to provide the number contained on their Michigan Department of State personal identification card.

"We're looking for voters to provide the information voluntarily," Thomas said. "We believe the overwhelming majority of voters will."

The last day to register for the Nov. 3 election is Tuesday, Oct. 11.

Parents, legislators debate dorm drink bill

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Area parents and students faced off with state legislators last week over a bill that would aid students in selecting alcohol-free roommates.

In a 2½ hours of committee testimony, the merits of the legislation were debated on whether to allow students to formally request dorm assignments with non-drinking roommates.

The state's public universities and private colleges are opposed to the legislation.

"I wouldn't be able to live in an environment where alcohol is present," said Eric Worley, a West Bloomfield High School senior who has applied to University of Michigan and Michigan State University.

Although some of the legislative committee members were sympathetic to the student plea, state Rep. Judith Miller, R-Birmingham, expressed reservations.

"I'M NOT SURE the checkoff will be sufficient information," said Miller.

Responding to arguments from colleges that students can request reassignment if they find a roommate objectionable, Worley said: "I shouldn't have to go through that hassle." He repeated the word "hassle" in arguing that colleges should solicit the information from incoming students.

"The box (check-off box) would increase the odds," said Worley.

The legislation, sponsored by Rep. David Honigman, R-West Bloomfield, has a tough road to follow toward passage.

"It's obvious we don't have the votes to move this bill," said Rep. Burton Leland, D-Detroit, of House Bill 5858. Leland is chairman of the House Colleges and Universities Committee.

"But this chairperson feels good about this bill and wants you (colleges) to take it seriously," he said.

HONIGMAN'S bill would require 15 state universities and 44 private colleges to "inquire of each student who is assigned housing if the student prefers a roommate who does not use alcohol."

The bill was pushed by representatives of Maple Grove Youth Treatment Center in West Bloomfield, Oakland County students and parents and U.S. District Judge Bernard Friedman, who handled many alcohol-related cases in his previous post as 48th District Court Judge.

Opposed were university and private college spokesmen. They doubted the questionnaire would be answered honestly and feared the liability for lawsuits they might incur as a result.

Without being reported out of committee, Honigman's bill is dead for this session of the Legislature. If re-elected on Nov. 8, he will reintroduce it next session if universities are unresponsive.

"If all 59 Michigan colleges send me a letter and say they'll have this on their housing application forms in 1989, I'd withdraw the legislation," he said. "I don't think they will."

Eric Worley's mother, Dinah, joined the debate.

"I don't think any young person should have the pressure of dealing with a roommate who uses alcohol or drugs," she said.

A UNIVERSITY of Michigan sophomore, Deborah Berne of West Bloomfield, told of the trouble she had as a freshman finding a roommate who did not use alcohol.

"I did not feel safe" without a guarantee that I would be in a chemical-free room, she said. "The only personal question U-M asks (incoming freshmen) is, 'Are you a smoker?'"

"If I had had the option (to request a non-drinking roommate), I would have used it."

She and her mother, Birmingham Eccentric editor Judith Berne, said that only four of several thousand incoming U-M freshmen in 1987 voluntarily asked for a non-drinking roommate. Two were males. The third was a female who later withdrew her application — leaving Deborah Berne unmatched.

"I hate that this has to be legislated," said Berne. "But it would be simple to duplicate the current smoking question on the housing application."

HONIGMAN SAID his bill addresses "a health question. That's outside the realm of university autonomy."

He added that colleges already accommodate the handicapped, and chemical dependency is a form of handicap.

"The issue is not alcohol and drugs on campus or in dorms," said Judge Friedman. "This issue is student preference in college housing."

Friedman displayed college housing applications where resident students could request "introverted — extraverted," "early riser — night owl" and "messy — neat" roommates.

"There should be a mechanism," he said, for students recovering from alcoholism or drugs to request chemical-free rooms.

BART MERKLE, representing Grand Valley State University, said "a majority of colleges are moving in that direction" of making room assignments. "We are adding that question," he told Honigman.

Merkle said universities have mechanisms to identify and help students with problems. He questioned the accuracy of forms filled out by incoming students with parents looking over their shoulders at home — or even filling out the form for the student.

Dr. Glenn Stevens, representing the council of 15 state university presidents, said Honigman's questionnaire would open "a Pandora's box" of liability problems if students submitted false applications about their drinking intentions.

"We have made a good faith effort . . . n. The programs don't need to be mandated . . . though the rate of change might not be to everyone's liking."

Band conducting fund-raisers

The Plymouth Centennial Educational Park Marching Band and the Plymouth-Canton Music Boosters are involved in several fund-raisers to help defray costs for the December 1988 Orange Bowl Parade trip.

Small groups from the band will perform for service organizations in the community throughout the fall. During October, band members and boosters will sell $5 Domino's Pizza coupons. Each person donating $5 to the band will receive a coupon for $5 off their next pizza purchase (carry-out or delivery), and the band will receive $3 from Domino's Pizza for each coupon sold. The coupons can be used through the end of December.

On Oct. 20, the boosters are sponsoring a theater benefit at the Marquis Theatre in Northville. The evening's production will be the musical "Shenandoah." Hors d'oeuvres will be served 7-7:45 p.m., and the curtain will go up at 8 p.m. Tickets for the evening are $12.50 per person. Anyone interested in attending the benefit should call Judy Lore, 453-5181.

The November fund-raiser will be a candy bar sale with a 50-cent Burger King Coupon on the wrapper.

The cost for each band member for this trip will be $520. Band members and the booster group hope to reduce the amount each student must pay through these fund-raisers. Because no student will be denied the trip for financial reasons "scholarship" money must also be raised through the fund-raisers and donations.

Chili Day to aid child heart patients

The Porterhouse Meat Market, 1058 S. Main, is sponsoring a "Chili Tasting Day" Oct. 8 to benefit the Ticker Club of Children's Hospital of Michigan.

All donations will buy much needed equipment and supplies for children with heart defects, according to Jack Trabue, The Porterhouse Meat Market owner.

We will be serving award-winning "Fire on the Mountain" chili, created by our chefs Walt and Claire Hunter of Canton. The Hunters have won numerous chili cook offs to help support the Kidney Foundation.

The Hunters will be available from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. The chili will be served until it runs out, Trabue said.

Trabue says he became involved with the Ticker Club after his daughter, Lindsay, underwent open heart surgery when she was five months old. She's 13 months now and "doing fantastic," Trabue said.

"The operation saved her life and could not have been possible without the support of groups like the Ticker Club," he said.

How to tell Observer about your club event

Faced with the prospect of writing your first press release in the near future? Don't despair. Don't disparage your fellow club members for giving you the task.

Arm yourself with a paper and pen or typewriter and answer the following questions. You'll be well on your way to providing us with the necessary information.

- What is the event?
- Who's sponsoring it?
- Who are the participants?
- When is it taking place?
- Where is it occurring?
- At what time is the event scheduled?
- Why is this event taking place?
- Where can people buy tickets?
- How much is admission?
- Who can the public call for further information?

Send the information to the Observer: Newspapers, 489 S. Main, Plymouth 48170.

Please provide the Observer with the name and telephone number of a person with whom we can verify the information.

If you are submitting a photo for our consideration, please keep in mind that black and white pictures reproduce the best. Snapshots of large groups don't reproduce well and aren't considered suitable for publication.

More active special ed campaign planned

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Comparing this fall's special education millage campaign with the unsuccessful primary try last August, school officials said, isn't like comparing apples with oranges.

It's more like comparing apples with watermelons.

Wayne County Intermediate Schools still seeks a 1-mill tax increase, but it will do so more aggressively.

Everything is being done on a larger scale this time around to match the larger number of voters expected to cast ballots.

Unlike the low key August campaign, intermediate schools officials are now actively courting union and chamber of commerce endorsements. Campaign "events," including a walkathon, are planned to boost media coverage.

This time, too, the emphasis is on benefits to the local schools.

"All the money goes directly for the education of children," associate superintendent James Greiner said. Success or failure could rest on how well the campaign educates voters about special education issues.

"WE'RE AWARE that on Nov. 8 it's going to be an entirely different population going to the polls," special education consultant Kathryn Mathey said. "People are just not going to know what the special education issue is all about. We're trying to get that basic information out."

That basic information, Mathey said, involves charge backs paid by local school districts for "low incidence" special education programs.

The programs, conducted at regional centers throughout the county, serve students with severe disabilities, ranging from paralysis to autism.

The county 1-mill special education tax, approved by voters in 1974, is no longer adequate to completely finance the highly specialized centers, intermediate schools officials said.

The result is that individual districts are billed for services rendered to their students. The services, school officials said, don't come cheaply.

Bills for the 1986-87 school year are expected to be delivered soon. Expected bills for area districts include: Livonia, $478,826; Wayne-Westland, $389,225; Plymouth-Canton, $259,852; Redford Union, $252,492; Garden City, $174,029; and South Redford, $123,731.

The current 1-mill tax can fully finance services for about 3,500 of the county's 6,000 "low incidence" students, Greiner said. At that, it provides no money for the county's other 29,000 handicapped students. These students are served within their local school districts.

The millage request failed 110,376-103,355 in the Aug. 2 primary. Intermediate school officials blame the defeat on failure of key voters to turn out.

"Last time, we dealt with the people who were most intimately involved with special education," Greiner said. "The problem was those people weren't around. Teachers weren't teaching, and the parents weren't home."

The Wayne County Association of School Boards, parent organization for the county's 34 individual school boards, endorsed the millage request last week.

In August, the intermediate schools sought individual superintendents' support. Few superintendents, however, were publicly willing to take the lead in supporting a tax increase.

"The superintendents asked this office to have our board put the issue on the ballot," Greiner said. "Therefore, they were the key people. That organization was totally in favor of the millage; however, the politics of living made some people become a little less enthusiastic."

Who, what, why of ballot proposal:

For the second time this year, Wayne County voters are being asked to support a tax increase for special education programs. The request failed in August. Here is vital information concerning the request.

Who is seeking the tax increase?
The Wayne County Intermediate Schools seeks the increase. The intermediate schools oversees special education in each of the county's 34 public school districts.

What is being sought?
The district seeks a 1-mill increase, doubling the county's special education tax. The increase translates to an additional $37.50 a year for homeowners living in houses with a market value of $75,000.

Where are special education programs held?

Every public school district holds its own classes for students with "high incidence" handicaps, including mental retardation and common physical disabilities. The proposed increase primarily would benefit students with "low incidence" disabilities, including more severe retardation as well as complex physical and emotional disabilities. These students are educated at regional centers within individual school districts. Livonia, Wayne-Westland, Garden City, Redford Union and South Redford are among districts providing space for regional centers.

When will voters decide the issue?
The tax increase will appear on the Tuesday, Nov. 8 general election ballot.

How much money will be raised and how will it be distributed?

Approval will raise an estimated $23 million, including a $3 million state grant that would be available if the millage passed, district officials said. Of that, $9 million would eliminate the need for charging individual schools for center programs. The remaining $13 million would probably be used to supplement each district's individual programs, at least in the first year or so, school officials said. There is a possibility the money would be held in escrow to guard against future increases in program costs. Intermediate school officials estimate the new millage would fully cover center program costs through the mid-1990s. At that time, another millage would be sought or additional charge backs would begin.

College scores match national average

Michigan's 1988 composite American College Test (ACT) score matched the national average, the first time in 15 years Michigan students didn't top the national average.

The score, 18.8, matched last year's state score. State scores have fluctuated between 18.8 and 18.9 for the past five years. Michigan's highest score, 19.6, was recorded in 1974.

Scores were released recently by the Michigan State Board of Education.

ACT test scores are used to determine students' eligibility for most midwestern colleges.

Michigan's students exceeded the national average in the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT), a similar test more commonly used by eastern colleges.

The Michigan average on the verbal portion of the test was 457. The national average was 428. The Michigan mathematics average was 513. The national average was 476.

The ACT test is taken by four times as many Michigan high school students as the SAT, according to state board statistics.

Social Security has new toll-free number

The Social Security Administration has made calling easier in metropolitan Detroit by installing a toll-free telephone number and extending calling hours five days a week.

Calls may be made free by dialing 1-800-234-5772 between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. Monday-Friday. An operator will answer the call.

At all other times, a recorded message may be left. It will be answered during the next working hours or at a time specified by the caller.

The new number and extended hours are for those who need to change address, obtain records or earnings or make appointments.

No bagging, burning?

State considers new leaf removal policy

By Janice Brunson
staff writer

Autumn in Michigan, a glorious riot of color when trees sparkle golden, eventually dropping leaves to signal the coming of winter.

It is the leaf-dropping part of this scenario that concerns environmental advisers to Gov. James Blanchard. If their recommendations are eventually enacted into law, leaves may take on new meaning to Michiganders.

Burning leaves anywhere in the state will become a memory of autumn past and city dwellers may well see the last of bagging leaves for disposal in landfills.

The governor's environmental advisers are urging an end to both practices. They hope to see legislation in place by 1995 that requires leaves be composted for use in fertilizer and other commercial products.

"It's not immediate. It's an idea, something we have discussed and recommended, and intend to pursue. The governor hasn't decided yet whether it's something he wants," said Dave Dempsey, an environmental adviser to Blanchard.

THE COST of constructing new composting facilities could be funded by the state, Dempsey said, if voters approve a $660 million request on November's ballot for environmental protection in Michigan. Of the total amount, $150 million is aimed at solid waste management, with two-thirds of that to be in grants for recycling and compost projects.

"Every little bit helps," said George Sills, superintendent of public services for the Livonia Department of Public Works.

During a vacation this summer, Sills visited with sanitation workers in Philadelphia who told him their city's trash is now hauled to West Virginia because there is no room left for trash disposal in Pennsylvania.

Michigan is faced with a similar situation, according to Dempsey who said, "We're running out of space in landfills. If we conserve, it will prevent taking our trash 500 miles away."

Last year, Livonians raked 55,000 cubic yards of leaves curbside. Sanitation workers vacuumed up the leaves and deposited them into a city-owned landfill located one mile from downtown. The landfill, used exclusively for unbagged leaves, has a capacity of 1.5 million cubic yards. Last year's leaves will eventually shrink down to 15,000 cubic yards which, if piled in a line six feet high, would stretch a full mile.

"We're kind of selfish. We keep it for ourselves," Sills said of the landfill. Still, "A good part of it has already been filled."

LIVONIA IS ONE of very few communities in western Wayne County to separate leaves from other trash for natural decomposition.

In Canton and Plymouth townships, residents bag leaves with other trash for weekly pickup by Canton Waste Recycling. In Plymouth, it poses "tremendous problems," increasing autumn collections from eight to 80 bags at many households, according to Dave Denski, owner of Canton Recycling.

Unlike Canton where most homes are newer, many subdivisions in Plymouth are older and on larger lots with mature trees, he said.

Refuse collected by Canton Recycling is deposited at Arbor Hills Landfill in Northville which is owned by Browning-Ferris Industries.

"We see an impact during leaf season. There's an increase in bulkiness. It's lighter and fluffier. Volume is larger for a short period. The peak period is about two weeks," said Dan Nelson, district manager for Browning-Ferris.

The firm receives refuse from some 300 clients in a five-county area who daily deposit 10,000 cubic yards of refuse in the Arbor Hills landfill.

No effort is made to separate leaves from other trash. All of it is shredded and compacted, reducing three cubic yards to one, and then buried.

"This is a future ski hill," Nelson quipped of the result. Arbor Hills has room enough to be used another 13 years.

Both Nelson and Denski support composting, echoing Sills of Livonia: "Every little bit helps."

DENSKI, HOWEVER, said composting "is not going to save money. It's going to cost." He is already paying increased rates to deposit refuse at Arbor Hills, a $1 per yard increase, from $4.60 to $5.40, effective Oct. 1.

Nelson said the increase is partly due to a new state law requiring that landfills be monitored for 30 years once they are no longer in use.

Regardless of cost, "composting is a start" in solving the disposal problem, he said, adding that leaves comprise 15 percent of the total amount of waste generated in the area.

In 1980, leaves and grass cuttings constituted 30 percent of all waste incinerated at the Central Wayne County Sanitation Authority in Dearborn Heights, according to executive director Rich Bauser.

While the figure is lower today because of mulching machines, "Incoming waste is higher six months of the year because of grass and leaves," Bauser said.

The cities of Westland and Garden City transport all refuse to the Authority. Leaves and grass cuttings are bagged with other trash and they are incinerated together.

Leaves and grass complicated incineration because "99 percent of it is wet. The leaves dry out but the grass matts. It's like a telephone book. It doesn't burn well," he said.

Collecting leaves and grass separately and disposing of them by composting would be "very beneficial," Bauser concluded.

Grant creates Heritage Farm

Wayne County Intermediate Schools has received a $25,000 grant to develop a "heritage farm" at the Wayne County Education and Service Center, Wayne.

The farm will provide day camps and field trips for school and senior citizens groups. It will feature a hands-on museum for farm equipment and historic relics. An on-site windmill will also be restored.

Focus:HOPE walk for justice set for Sunday

Focus:HOPE will hold its 13th annual "Walk for Justice" 1:30 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 8, at its industry Mall complex, Oakman, between Linwood and Rosa Parks, Detroit.

The eight-mile walk is described as "a visible demonstration of human rights and integration."

Organizers say the walk recalls the non-violent marches of Dr. Martin Luther King.

Participants are asked to raise pledges for Focus:HOPE food, job and senior citizen programs. Contributions are tax-deductible.

Sponsor forms are available by calling 883-7440.

In addition to walkers, Focus:HOPE also seeks volunteers to organize neighborhood, church or social groups, serve as walk marshals, paint signs, serve food and drivers vans to transport walkers.

Love match Shelter joins campaign to find homes for dogs

By Janice Brunson
staff writer

After months of talking about getting a dog, Rose Ann Marr of Westland and daughter Rachel Manspeaker, 16, took the big step Oct. 1, the first day of Adopt-A-Dog Month.

"We were lucky. We fell in love immediately," said Marr of the tiny fluff of buff-colored fur with a short curled tail they instantly spotted at the Michigan Humane Society in Westland.

The family purchased the dog for $30 and christened it Quincy. The animal is one of an average of seven cats and dogs that are adopted daily at the Westland facility.

Quincy is a 10-week-old male puppy of "mixed cocker and Labrador ancestry with the eyes of a cocker and the face of a lab." He is already devoted to his new owners.

"If he's napping and we get up and walk out of the room, he wakes up every time and trots right after us," Marr said, smiling in recall at his "adorable" antics.

Adopt-A-Dog Month is a national campaign aimed at finding homes for the estimated 13 million dogs that are annually lost or abandoned and end up in animal shelters throughout the country.

More than 800 animal shelters, including the Westland shelter, participate in the campaign.

"WE DON'T like to give out the bad news," said Kathy Blauet, manager of the Westland facility, in reference to the number of dogs processed annually at the shelter that never find homes.

"We like to emphasize the good news," she said. Still, Blauet concedes that last year an estimated 14,000 animals from western Wayne County were processed, including approximately 700 wild animals. Of the remaining 13,300, nearly half were dogs. The remainder were cats. Homes were found for an estimated 4,000 or 30 percent of the animals. The remainder were destroyed.

The number of homeless animals that are adopted in Wayne County is slightly higher than elsewhere in the country. Nationally, only 3.5 million or 27 percent of the total number of dogs that were processed in shelters eventually found homes. Those not adopted, were destroyed.

"That's why we put such emphasis on spaying and neutering, to cut down on the number of unwanted animals," Blauet said.

Quincy, for example, will be spayed at six months of age. Marr has already paid a $25 spaying fee to the Westland Humane Society.

And the good news is that in the seven years Adopt-A-Dog Month has been promoted, more than one-half million dogs have been adopted during October alone.

month receives a "doggie bag" full of treats and gifts from Tuffy's Dog Food, Jerky Treats Dog Snacks and Meaty Bone Dog Biscuits, including a letter of congratulations, a dog skills training booklet and an entry form for the 1989 Poster Dog Contest.

The contest carries a first-place award of $5,000, $1,000 for second place and $500 for third. Four additional finalists receive a one-year supply of Meaty Bone Dog Biscuits and Jerky Treats. The shelters from which the dogs were adopted receive matching cash grants.

Steve Breakstone and his German shepherd named Dixie are this year's winners. Breakstone, who adopted Dixie as a walking partner in a two-year odyssey across America, wrote a winning 100-word essay on why Dixie should represent the homeless dogs of America.

An old English sheep dog, a shepherd-collie mix and a pair of beagles owned by young, identical twin brothers were also finalists.

The deadline for this year's contest is Jan. 31, 1989. In addition to the essay, entrants must submit a photo of dog and owner together. Entry forms may be obtained from the Westland Humane Society, 37255 Marquette in Westland, or by writing Poster Dog Contest, 211 East Ontario Street, Suite 1300, Chicago, IL 60611.

36th District

Stempien demonstrates ability

IN THE RACE for the House of Representatives in the 36th District, two very qualified and capable candidates are vying for your vote in November.

Incumbent Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, is battling Democratic challenger Jeanne Stempien of Northville Township.

While Law has served competently since being elected in 1982, it's time for a change.

Stempien has the credentials, experience and energy to do a more effective job for the district, which includes the city of Plymouth, Plymouth Township and part of Canton Township.

An attorney, she has a clear grasp of the issues and is capable of leading the fight for solutions to the school finance and environmental concerns important to residents of the district.

We believe Stempien could do a better job in pushing legislation to the governor's desk.

On the local level, Law has effectively communicated and followed through on local concerns, something Stempien should emulate if elected. And Stempien also must keep an eye on the prisons to make sure population caps and guidelines are followed.

But this area deserves a more effective voice in Lansing, someone willing to stand up and take more of a leadership role in the House.

Stempien, who is on the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees, lists a wide variety of political and community involvement on her resume.

Jeanne Stempien deserves to add representative of the 36th District to that resume in November.

Joint effort

Taxpayers win in compromise

COMMUNICATION logs another victory.

Open discussions and joint efforts were responsible for making winners out of Plymouth-Canton school board members, Canton officials and, best of all, taxpayers.

The Canton board is buying 9.5 acres of land from the school district and stalling residential development on the site.

The two-year campaign to save Barchester Park in Carriage Hills and Willow Creek subdivisions was shepherded by residents who presented township officials with facts on why the land is best used as a park. They left their emotions at home and won the battle armed with professionalism and fortitude.

School and township subcommittees hammered out a purchase agreement calling for three appraisals. The plan cleared the Canton board and is expected to be approved by the school board.

The compromise was especially refreshing since the two bodies have been known to quarrel in the past.

More of this kind of joint effort is warranted and is a harbinger of good news for taxpayers in Plymouth, Canton and Plymouth Township.

Special ed

Millage hike is sound policy

THE REASONS why Wayne County voters should approve an additional 1 mill for special education on Tuesday, Nov. 8, are as clear now as they were in August, when the issue first appeared before voters.

• The original 1-mill special education tax, approved by voters in 1974, is no longer adequate.

• The proposed 1-mill increase, however, won't just benefit special education students. It will benefit every child attending public schools in Wayne County.

Under the original format, the Wayne County Intermediate Schools was supposed to pay for "low incidence" special education programs benefiting children with disabilities ranging from autism to paralysis to severe emotional problems. Individual school districts weren't supposed to be billed for these programs. But they now are.

These expensive, but entirely necessary, county special education programs are becoming an ever-larger burden on local school district budgets. Here's what local school districts expect to pay in the coming year: Livonia, $478,826; Wayne-Westland, $389,225; Plymouth-Canton, $259,852; Redford Union, $252,492; Garden City, $174,029 and South Redford, $123,731.

Remember, this money must be taken away from other classroom programs. It's a burden even for the most financially secure school districts. In less secure districts, these "charge backs" stretch budgets to the breaking point.

The additional 1-mill will ease that burden for all districts, returning responsibility for the highly specialized county programs to the Wayne County Intermediate Schools — where it properly belongs.

We've heard concerns that the 1-mill might be too much to levy, at least initially. Yet we don't believe the intermediate schools is being irresponsible.

The 1-mill is just a maximum. The intermediate schools need not levy the full amount.

Regardless, more money is needed for special education. And the proposal would also make more money available for general classroom education.

That's a proposal that benefits everyone — one that should be supported on Tuesday, Nov. 8.

On election day

Vote 'yes' to ban casinos

THE WAYNE County "anti-casino" proposal isn't the kind of issue we normally like to see on the ballot.

At first glance, the proposal would seem to ban casinos in suburban Wayne County, if casinos were also banned in Detroit. But it faces a dubious future even if it were approved.

Many experts believe the county has no legal right to issue such an order. Others believe it's just sour grapes from pro-casino Detroit commissioners. Individual communities would be able to override it at will — by passing their own ordinances — even if the county ordinance succeeded at the polls.

Be that as it may, the issue will appear on the ballot, and it will give suburbanites a chance to voice their opinion on casinos.

For what it's worth, we believe casinos would be just as detrimental to Plymouth or Redford Township as they would be to Detroit.

And, for that reason, we urge voters to vote "Yes" on the casino ban on Tuesday, Nov. 8.

Give students chance to stay free of alcohol

THIS IS one Pandora's box that needs to be opened.

That's the thought that went through my mind when reading about the testimony given by several suburban students before the state legislature.

On one hand it was heart-rending as students made a plea for some very sane legislation to help them cope with a serious problem — alcoholism.

Joined by parents, U.S. District Judge Bernard Friedman and reinforced with support from a handful of legislators, the students poured out their hearts.

"I wouldn't be able to live in an environment where alcohol is present," admitted West Bloomfield High School student Eric Worley.

Worley was backed up by his mother who testified, "I don't think that a young person should have the pressure of dealing with a roommate who uses alcohol or drugs."

THEY ARE supporting legislation introduced by state Rep. David Honigman, R-West Bloomfield, that would allow students to check off on their registration form a preference for a non-drinking roommate.

Certainly, a simple enough request.

But the other side of the testimony, the opposition side, was, frankly, enough to turn your stomach.

A wavering state Rep. Judith Miller, R-Birmingham, withholds support, saying the checkoff wouldn't provide enough information.

A spokesman representing the state's 15 state universities testified the legislation would be a Pandora's box. The fear of liability seems to outweigh a concern for students.

The real Pandora's box is the one that shows that your children go away to college and are virtually unsupervised. Since the great social upheavals of the 1960s, college officials have about washed their hands of supervision.

Tour a campus once — the one to which you want to send your child. Oh, no, don't do it during parent orientation. And don't do it during the middle of the day.

GO AT night, on a weekend. Week nights can be as enlightening; weekends are just more graphic.

Certainly, many, many students study. Some students are mature enough to live away from home with little or no supervision. They can enjoy themselves without being destructive to themselves or others.

But many others, far more than you probably realize, are drunk. Many of those cutsey darlings you saw cheering on their team during the day are out-of-control drunks at night as are the guys they were cheering.

They drink on the streets, they drink in their dorms. They punch holes in the walls. They flood their dorms.

They drive when they're drunk, and some of them get killed because of it.

Partying at college is a norm, not an exception to the rule. And alcohol is a big part of the party scene.

Honigman's legislation certainly isn't a cure-all. But it's a beginning for the kids who want to stay straight. They deserve the legislature's support.

Give your legislator a call, and tell 'em how you feel.

Letters must be original copies and contain the signature and address of the sender. Limit letters to 300 words.

Intersection needs work

To the editor:

The accident that occurred the morning of Wednesday, Sept. 28, brought about this concern for the safety of both students attending the Plymouth Salem/Plymouth Canton high schools and the residents of the Westbrier II subdivisions.

When school is either starting in the a.m. or letting out at various intervals throughout the day, it's like a game of roulette trying to safely enter Joy Road from either the north or south side — stretching from Canton Center Road to McClumpha.

Havoc also occurs in the a.m. when students continue through the amber light going north on Canton Center Road onto westbound Joy Road jamming up the east bound traffic necessitating motorists to wait for the light to change two or three times. With exceptions, students won't give an inch to courtesy when it comes to driving etiquette. They fail to realize that while they are anxious to get to school on time, there are adults also trying to get to work on time . . . and safety. It is an extremely dangerous intersection.

This situation needs attention immediately before another serious accident occurs. On behalf of the students, adult school personnel and residents involved, I recommend time be put aside without further delay by persons responsible for resolving serious traffic problems such as this. The first step may be a monitoring system by the Plymouth Township/Canton Police Department during peak moving periods to personally see first-hand just how dangerous it is. We thank you in advance for anything that can be done to alleviate this situation.

Beverly Howarth,
Westbrier II Resident

Article erred on abortion

To the editor:

In your article of Sept. 22, 1988, "Abortion foes place money above emotion, Michigan voters were not given the facts about tax-funded abortions by Patrick Babcock, the director of the Michigan Department of Social Services."

Mr. Babcock, who is pro-choice, predicted several negative outcomes if Proposal A passes. His predictions were not based on fact and are unfounded. The facts are these:

• The annual cost to Michigan taxpayers is $6 million for 10,000 abortions; 98 percent of these are not medically necessary. Moreover, 10 percent of the women who use tax dollars for abortions have two or more abortions in the same year. In these instances, tax-funded abortions are used as a form of birth control.

These facts show that forcing taxpayers to pick up the tab for abortions is a bad policy that leads to serious abuses.

• In the 36 states that have stopped paying for abortions for Medicaid clients, 80 percent of the eligible women who were expected to seek abortions still obtained them using private funds, according to the U.S. Center for Disease Control. The other 20 percent used birth control to avoid pregnancy or carried their pregnancies to term.

Furthermore, no evidence of a rise in illegal, dangerous abortions was found.

• A careful study in Ohio and Georgia shows that ending the use of tax-funded abortions does not cause welfare costs to rise. "The evidence blows apart the economic arguments for public funding of abortions. Government funded abortions provide no cost-savings to the public," said Prof. Jacqueline Kasun, Ph.D., economist.

Michigan voters are most concerned about getting the facts to make an intelligent decision on Nov. 8. The facts support a vote on Proposal A to end tax-funded abortions.

Mary Anne Heinrich,
Livonia

Young voters aren't buying political pitch

IF YOU think that the tenor of the presidential campaign is superficial, sophomoric and too often devoid of substance, then you think the same way that many area high school students thought after watching the first Bush-Dukakis debate.

The ad lib and one-liners may have been carefully rehearsed and masterfully presented, but they didn't impress a lot of the youngsters.

"Make fun of each other. That's all they did," said Dennis Raimi, a Farmington High School senior. "Every time you turned to it, people (the audience) was laughing. What was this, a comedy?"

It's not supposed to be a comedy. It's supposed to be the process that selects the most powerful man in the world.

Nothing wrong with sharp, pointed wit and biting verbal exchanges. American political history is filled with gifted speakers. In the Capitol you will find historic markers detailing famous speeches on the floors of the House and the Senate. What speech from Mr. Bush or Mr. Dukakis do you expect to see similarly enshrined?

THE LEAGUE of Women Voters isn't too hopeful. This august group did not want to be part of a packaged display of sound bites and future commercials. The League hosts debates to educate the viewers, not to be unwitting partners in a political campaign. The leaders of the League have said no thanks. More power to them. The debates as planned by presidential advisers left something to be desired, according to a some of the younger potential voters.

It's not that they found the debates worthless — some thought Bush and Dukakis were able to define themselves. But the students were often turned off by what they saw as childish behavior.

"Because both became insulting to each other, they both lost some credibility," said Robert Hoff, a senior from Southfield-Lathrup High School.

Different students, of course, saw different debates. Sharon Braslaw, a junior at Southfield-Lathrup High, thought Bush was eluding questions, "using way too much rhetoric and talking in circles. A lot of his points were contradictory."

The ad lib and one-liners may have been carefully rehearsed and masterfully presented, but they didn't impress a lot of the youngsters.

Noelle Herbert, a junior at Bloomfield Hills Lahser High School, thought it was Dukakis who looked bad. "He was mean," she said. "he was just trying to show that he was strong, but he was rude."

For many students, the debate did not help clarify issues.

"They kind of avoided the questions and just went on attacking one another's position," said Angela Lang, also from Lahser High.

That's how the students saw it, and you have to assume that's how the candidates, or at least the people pulling their strings, want it.

The way the debate turned out was no accident. It was carefully orchestrated by each camp. There is probably polling evidence somewhere that says such an approach is the safest way to debate.

But the next generation of American voters isn't buying it.

Beware of politicians wearing Greek masks

THE ANCIENT Greeks performed their classic dramas with masks — a bearded, serious face for Agamemnon, a tortured female face of Medea, and so on.

So the 1988 presidential campaign, with its emphasis on image rather than substance, is far from original.

Like most of you, I'm repelled by the canned, image-manipulating, code word nature of modern presidential campaigns. So is the League of Women Voters, which washed its hands of the second Bush-Dukakis debate because of excessive manipulating of the format by the candidates' camps.

"Make fun of each other — it's all they did," said Farmington High government student Dennis Raimi in a reaction story after the first debate.

He was correct. One name of the game is to make your opponent look ridiculous — bumbling, like Jerry Ford — rather than to present the best way of dealing with Japanese trade restrictions or high interest rates.

THE JOB of covering presidential candidates must be one of the nastiest in journalism.

But local and state candidates — ah, that's different and fun.

A few years back, Dan Murphy, the Oakland County executive, made fun of the whole notion of packaging by saying he had so many sharp edges that no one could package him. "What you see is what you get," he would say.

Bill Ford, the congressman from southwestern Wayne County, is another unpackageable commodity. He has a labor point of view, and he is 100 percent consistent in presenting it.

Maybe it's because such local candidates can't afford media consultants to manufacture Greek masks. Anyway, my job is more fun than Sam Donaldson's.

THE PUBLIC is getting wise to the manipulations at the presidential level.

I quit paying much attention to presidential campaigns in 1976 when Jimmy Carter used "together" 7,000 or 8,000 times every speech. Clearly, someone with a poll had told his speech writer it was what folks wanted to hear.

In early summer of 1984, I researched several names making the gossip circuit for the Democratic candidate for vice president. Most intriguing was U.S. Rep. Geraldine Ferraro, from the Archie Bunker district of Queens.

The reference book showed her in a grey business suit lawyers typically wear in court. She had worked for the New York District Attorney's office as chief of a unit dealing with "special victims."

Ferraro had served on a House committee with the aforementioned Bill Ford, so I consulted him. Ford drew a picture of a businesslike pro who ran an efficient meeting, got the issues discussed and got the agenda items voted up or voted down, with no nonsense.

That, I figured, would be a fun candidate to hear.

AFTER BEING assigned her Greek mask by the Mondale campaign, Ferraro dropped the grey business suits and appeared in short-sleeved dresses, bright red or blue. She opened every speech gushing about how Fritz Mondale was so wonderful to put a woman on the ticket, as if we hadn't already guessed her gender.

What a waste of a candidate!

One of these years I'd like to sit down with the unmasked Geraldine Ferraro, buy her a beer and listen to her tell war stories about her work in the DA's office.

It would be far more educational and fun than watching a bunch of actors in Greek masks sing each other with long-rehearsed one-liners.

Issues motivate these women to form PAC

EXISTENCE OF a unique southeastern Michigan Political Action Committee, made up entirely of women, came to my attention a few days ago when Denise Radtke broke up a late afternoon cocktail get-together by saying she had to go home "to write checks for my PAC." It turns out she is treasurer of the group, called the Republican Women's Forum, and this week is disbursing approximately $4,000 among selected party candidates.

Besides Radtke, a Plymouth Township resident, other officers are Yvonne Strother of Rochester, president; Margaret Thoms of Birmingham, first vice president; Donna Rust, also of Birmingham, second vice president, and Mary Waterstone of Detroit, secretary.

To satisfy my curiosity, I met again with Radtke, and this time also with Dr. Ruth Reck of West Bloomfield, who is a member of the Forum's board of directors. The latter revealed that at the recent Republican national convention in New Orleans an official of Business Partners Inc., a national organization of GOP women, told her the Forum is through bifocals

the party's only PAC of its kind in the nation.

IT CONSISTS mainly of business and professional women from Oakland, Wayne, Macomb and Washtenaw counties and came into being in 1985 after an informal luncheon discussion at the Detroit Women's Economic Club. Before the year was over, the necessary papers had been filed with the Michigan Secretary of State, giving the Forum official status with 36 women as charter members.

The purpose, as defined in their manual, says the Forum "is an association of women dedicated to the support and implementation of the principles of the Republican Party, working among members and recruits to further political knowledge and education, to encourage active party participation, to be responsive to economic issues and legislation relating to women, and to encourage the candidacy for public office of qualified Republican women."

Radtke put it more simply: "We collect dues and hold fund-raisers to raise money to give to candidates of our choice, men as well as women."

THE MANUAL mentions that payment of dues ($25 annually) "presupposes current paid membership in the Republican Party at local, state or national levels." The Forum has grown to about 130 members, and if you're a woman who would like to join, either of my informants will be happy to receive a call at home: Radtke, 420-0912, or Reck, 661-4504.

By the way, Reck, who received her doctor of philosophy degree in physical chemistry from the University of Minnesota in 1964, has this week been royally honored. At a banquet Tuesday night in Minneapolis, she was presented the Minnesota Alumni Association's Outstanding Achievement Award for 1988. She is an environmental scientist with a major automotive company and is known internationally for her accomplishments.

In contrast to Radtke, who has been active in politics for roughly 30 years, Reck became a card-carrying member of the national GOP only eight years ago. She credits Ronna Romney as the person "who got me involved with the Forum."

State tax battle

GOP, Dems differ on tuition deductions

By Tim Richard
staff writer

House Democrats won a committee battle over exempting Michigan Education Trust benefits from state taxes. But a Republican who says she has a better idea said the fight isn't over.

Rep. Judith Miller, R-Birmingham, is pushing a broader bill that would allow Michigan income taxpayers to deduct up to $2,000 a year of college tuition payments from taxable income.

"My bill expands the deduction to persons who are paying as they go and persons who can't afford the $6,600 cost of getting into MET."

"But this whole thing has gotten involved in the election," said Miller.

THE HOUSE Taxation Committee last week:

• Reported out favorably a bill by Rep. Agnes Dobronski, D-De-born, to exempt MET benefits from state taxable income.

"This would make our guaranteed tuition program an even more attractive investment for the families of future Michigan college and university students," said Dobronski, whose co-sponsors are mostly Democrats, including Justice Barnes of Westland, Maxine Berman of Southfield and James Kosteva of Canton.

• Sent to a subcommittee Miller's bill to exempt all tuition from state taxes — whether to a public or private college and whether or not the tuition comes from a MET benefit.

Miller's bill is co-sponsored by Republicans Lynn Banks of Livonia, W.V. Brotherton of Farmington, Mat Dunaski of Lake Orion, David Honigman of West Bloomfield, Gerald Law of Plymouth and Gordon Sparks of Troy. It also has two area Democratic co-sponsors: John Bennett of Redford and William Keith of Garden City.

"THE CHAIRMAN (Lynn Jondahl, D-East Lansing) asked the subcommittee chairman (Berman) to give it a hearing but did not send Dobronski's bill to the subcommittee," Miller said.

State Treasurer Robert Bowman, architect of the MET program, told the panel he had no argument against the philosophy of Miller's bill but said it would cost the state $30 million to $30 million in revenue, Miller said.

Berman's subcommittee is to study "tax expenditures" — the invisible cost of reducing taxes for certain purposes as opposed to state spending.

Miller said Democrats are trying to make Dobronski look good politically because she faces a stiff re-election battle from former Rep. Bill Runco in Dearborn.

Miller said Dobronski's bill has yet to reach the House floor and may not be voted on this session.

UNDER MET, a parent or grandparent can prepay a newborn child's tuition by investing $6,600 now with the guarantee it will cover an estimated $22,000 worth of state college tuition 18 years later.

Alliance offers services to area senior citizens

The Senior Alliance, an area Agency on Aging that develops and administers services, offers 17 in-home, community and access services to an estimated 130,000 residents 60 years and older in 34 communities in southern and western Wayne County.

Funded by the federal Older Americans Act and the Older Michiganians Act, the alliance has a $3.5 million budget for fiscal year 1989.

Services include:

• Child and family services — adult day care and respite care, 962-5968.

• Citizens for Better Care — long term care and ombudsman services, 962-5968.

• City of Livonia — personal care and chore and homemaker services, 421-2000.

• Peoples Community Hospital Authority — health screening, 467-4600.

• Wayne County Office on Aging — telephone reassurance and adult day care, 467-3450.

Wayne County Office of Health and Community Services — home-delivered meals and congregate meals, 463-2525 or 1-800-851-1451.

• Wayne-Metropolitan Community Services Agency — minor home repair, 843-2550.

Get ready

Parents-to-be preparing for new challenges

By Julie Brown
staff writer

As a registered nurse, Joleen Re-barchik worked in pediatrics. Even so, she found having a baby of her own took some getting used to.

"When my son was born, to have one at home was completely different," said Rebarchik, a Wayne State University graduate and Canton resident. She found that taking care of a well baby at home was different from caring for sick children in a hospital.

Rebarchik and her husband, Michael, have one son, Jason, 6, a first grader at Hulsing Elementary School in Canton.

Joleen Rebarchik is an instructor for the Plymouth Childbirth Education Association; she has been working with that organization for about five years, having started as a Lamaze assistant. She now teaches a newborn care class and a Caesarean preparation class for parents-to-be.

THIS WEEK and last, Rebarchik taught a newborn care class for parents-to-be. That class was held at Geneva Presbyterian Church in Canton.

"I tell them that it's never going to be quite like they thought it would be." In the class, Rebarchik draws both on her professional background and on her experiences as a parent.

"I think mostly it's just what to do once you get home." During the two-session class, Rebarchik covered the basics of newborn care.

Choosing a pediatrician was among the topics Rebarchik covered during the session held the evening of Tuesday, Sept. 27.

"They're going to be your biggest source of accurate information."

Newborns need a pediatrician, or a family practice doctor, right away, she said. Parents should view looking for a pediatrician as a form of job interviewing; if after two or three months it's not working out, parents can change doctors.

Rebarchik talked about ways to track down other child care resources. Many magazines — some better than others — are published for parents. A variety of books on parenting, available at public libraries and bookstores, are also published.

The instructor talked about newborn procedures and newborn reflexes. She covered the basics of infant care, including holding, bathing, massaging, diapering and dressing.

DURING THE Tuesday, Sept. 27, class, several of the fathers-to-be practiced diapering a baby doll. Rebarchik has found that people in her classes can be nervous about caring for a child.

"But they do realize this is a doll. They still are a little bit leery." She's found that parents-to-be these days plan to share child care responsibilities; few fathers say "no way" to changing diapers.

"They're all willing to pitch in and help."

Many of the mothers-to-be in Rebarchik's classes are planning to return to work after their children are born; they have questions about day care and baby sitters. She provided information on those topics in the newborn care class.

She covered the basics of feeding infants. Many expectant parents have questions about breastfeeding and bottlefeeding, so Rebarchik answered those questions.

Other topics covered in the newborn care class included bringing a newborn home, dealing with illness, taking care of immunizations, and handling safety concerns. Rebarchik had some basic advice for the parents-to-be.

"Be patient with yourself and be willing to change. Parenthood is not automatically learned when the baby is born. It comes with experience."

PARENTS NEED to remember that each child is unique, she added. Children may walk, talk or reach other milestones at different ages.

"Rely on your common sense too." New parents get a lot of well-meaning advice, even while in line at Meijer's, new parents may get advice on how to keep a baby quiet.

Parents can listen to that advice, Rebarchik said, but don't necessarily have to agree with it.

(For more information on Plymouth Childbirth Education Association classes, call 459-7477.)

A doll is used for the bathing demonstration during the newborn care class. The class was held at Geneva Presbyterian Church in Canton.

Waiting for the big day

Kim and Mike Forster of Plymouth are looking forward to the arrival of their first child, due Dec. 16. That's not to say they aren't a bit apprehensive, however.

Mike Forster is "a little" nervous, more so about the delivery than about caring for their child. The Forsters were among those participating in a recent newborn care class, offered by the Plymouth Childbirth Education Association at Geneva Presbyterian Church in Canton.

"Pregnancy so far has been just wonderful," Kim Forster said. They've been talking with friends and family, sharing experiences with those who've already had children.

"It's kind of fun to talk about it and think about it," she said. "In a crazy kind of way, we're looking forward to all of this, 2 a.m. feedings."

Mike Forster's sister has two children and another one on the way. "She's expecting again, so that's kind of nice," he said. "Lots of cousins."

THIS WILL be the first grandchild for Kim Forster's parents. She's a registered nurse at Garden City Hospital. She works as a delivery room nurse, and knows something about what to expect in mid-December.

"A little bit. It's different, though, when it's happening to us. Then too, this is all new to Mike."

They've given some thought to their hopes for their child.

"Just to be happy," said Mike Forster, who works for an insurance company.

Project Home Safe helps children cope

By Julie Brown
staff writer

Norma Tims has both a personal and a professional interest in child care.

Tims and her husband, Steve, have four children, ages 8, 11, 14 and 17. They know that high-quality child care is essential.

As a certified home economist, Tims knows that child care's a pressing issue these days.

Tims, a Canton resident, is among Michigan home economists who have gone through training for Project Home Safe. She earned bachelor's and master's degrees in home economics and is a high school teacher in the Hamtramck Public Schools.

Project Home Safe is a national public service program developed by the American Home Economics Association (AHEA) and funded by the Whirlpool Foundation of Benton Harbor, Mich. It's designed to train latchkey children to behave safely and use their time productively.

IT'S BEEN just about a year since the project got under way. During the first year, AHEA training programs were offered in Michigan, Ohio, Arkansas, California and Washington, D.C. Training is starting in five additional states this fall. (See related story.)

Norma Tims attended Project Home Safe training sessions this spring at Marygrove College in Detroit.

"There were home economists from all over the state." Sessions were held on four Saturdays.

Michigan home economists looked at school-age child care issues, legislation and programs. As part of that training, home economists agreed to give a certain number of hours of community service.

Tims and Elizabeth Bilton-Gerard, a certified home economist from Dearborn, will offer a session on "Children in Self-Care." The course is for parents considering or involved in self-care for their children.

The session, offered through Plymouth-Canton Community Education, will be held from 7-9:30 p.m. Monday, Oct. 10, at Plymouth Canton High School. The $5 price includes a materials fee.

A second session, covering the same material, will be held from 7-9:30 p.m. Monday, Oct. 17, at Plymouth Canton High School. That session will be held, provided there's sufficient enrollment; early registration is advised. For registration information, call 451-6660.

"It's going to be fairly fast-paced," Tims said. "We have lots of handout materials for them."

DURING THE mini-session, participants will go over a checklist "which will help them assess their child's readiness for self-care."

There's no set age at which children are ready to be at home alone, she said. During the session, participants will talk about such factors as neighborhood support for children "as well as the child's needs and desires."

Generally, the home economists say no child younger than 10 should be considered for self-care, Tims said. Children age 10-13 or 14 "need to be evaluated for their readiness."

Some children may indicate they're ready for self-care when they're not, she said. Children may fear hampering parents' progress on the job.

Session participants will look at alternatives to self-care, and will talk about managing self-care for children who are ready. Parents will be given several activities to do with children; those activities are designed to reinforce behavior appropriate for children in self-care.

The home economists will talk about siblings in self-care and how to deal with the "Who's in charge?" issues. They'll discuss establishing rules for children.

Information on choosing care for school-age children will be provided. That's designed to help parents who decide their child isn't ready for self-care.

HOME ECONOMISTS tend to avoid using the term "latchkey," she said. That term dates back to the 19th century, when house keys on neck chains were worn by working class children on their own.

"Self-care gives it a better idea of what's actually occurring."

Self-care can be either long-term or short-term, she said. For many children, it's helpful to ease into self-care; an hour alone here or there gets children used to caring for themselves.

Doing that can also help parents assess a child's readiness for self-care.

This spring, Tims did a pilot program with fourth and fifth graders at Gallimore Elementary School in Canton. She found that not all children are ready for self-care.

"It was amazing what they didn't know." Many youngsters didn't know how to reach help in emergencies; they didn't know that 911 — which operates in neighboring communities, including Plymouth and Plymouth Township — doesn't work in Canton.

(Emergency numbers in Canton Township are 397-3350 for police and 981-1111 for fire.)

Parents-to-be face new challenges

Among those participating in the newborn care class are Tom and Michelle McNamara (left) and David and Laura Giove. The

"It sounds so cliché, but I guess that's true," she said.

Other couples participating in the newborn care class were also excited about becoming parents. One couple recently had their baby, and had to leave the Tuesday, Sept. 27, session early to get home. Others in the class were still waiting for the big day.

Tom and Michelle McNamara of Plymouth are expecting their first baby on Nov. 4 "or thereabouts," he said. "Hopefully earlier."

They're planning to go to Sinal Hospital, as are the Forsters. The McNamaras also participated in the newborn care class at Geneva Presbyterian Church.

"We're looking forward to it," said Tom McNamara, who works as an accounting supervisor for Premiere Video in Livonia. "Excited, that's for sure." His wife is a bit scared.

THEY'RE TAKING a Lamaze class at Sinal Hospital, said Michelle McNamara, who works at the University of Michigan as a telecommunications systems analyst. "Reading a lot of magazines" has also helped them get ready, she said.

"It's just starting to sink in reality," her husband said. Like the Forsters, the McNamaras hope their child will be happy. They're looking forward to getting settled in at home after the delivery.

This will be the first grandchild on both sides for the McNamaras.

"They might be even a little more nervous than we are," she said. Her parents are taking a class for grandparents at Sinal Hospital.

The McNamaras know that having a child means their lifestyle will change. They'll no longer be able to go out to eat on the spur of the moment.

"We're used to just doing whatever we want," Michelle McNamara said.

The parents-to-be know they'll need baby care supplies soon.

Calling all voters

Mary Kaminski, a League of Women Voters member, registers Doug Kee to vote. The League of Women Voters of Northville-Plymouth-Canton-Novl held a voter registration day Saturday, Oct. 1, at the Dunning-Hough Library in Plymouth. Another voter registration session will be held from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 8, at the Canton Public Library, 1150 S. Canton Center Road. People registered that day will be eligible to vote in this November's election.

Men, if you're about to turn 18, it's time to register with Selective Service at any U.S. Post Office.

It's quick. It's easy.
And it's the law.

Pastor adds personal touch

By Julie Brown
staff writer

When he was growing up, the Rev. Kenneth Gruebel felt so much joy, caring and vitality in the Scriptures. That wasn't always lived out in the life of the church, however.

Gruebel decided that if given the opportunity, he would bring "the human part of the Bible to people. And that's what I've tried to do."

Gruebel, a Canton resident, is the pastor at Geneva Presbyterian Church U.S.A. on Sheldon Road in Canton. He's been at that church for almost nine years.

"I was raised in the Presbyterian church," Gruebel takes the gospel seriously, but doesn't necessarily take himself seriously.

"I am a Christian and I enjoy being a Christian, and I am comfortable with that."

Congregation members expect their pastor to be a role model, "and I don't have any problems trying to live up to that expectation. I'm a very human human being."

HE DOESN'T believe in putting on airs or being pompous or overly pious.

"I just love what I do. It's a lot of fun."

Gruebel, 40, received a bachelor of arts degree from Grove City College in Grove City, Pa., and a master of divinity degree from Princeton Theological Seminary in New Jersey.

"I put myself through school painting houses." While in graduate school, Gruebel had a firm, painting by seminarians. He employed 10 to 12 of his classmates at different times.

"It was kind of fun. It taught me a great deal about the business world."

Gruebel's working on a doctor of ministry degree at Princeton. He came to Canton from the Community Church of East Williston in Long Island, N.Y., and was there for about seven years.

Geneva Presbyterian Church has about 400 members and will celebrate its 15th anniversary in April 1989. Gruebel's the second pastor there.

"I think actually this church is a perfect match for me." The church is a relaxed, caring one; it's flexible and highly participatory. People enjoy seeing each other, and put their faith into action in the community.

THE CHURCH was recently expanded, with the sanctuary doubled in size and five classrooms and a new parking lot added. Church members dedicated the building on Sept. 18; a Celtic cross of oak, made by member John Huber, was hung at the dedication.

Gruebel's responsibilities are varied. He does his share of teaching Bible study and other classes, including those on values clarification and marriage enrichment. Gruebel does some counseling and works on sermon preparation "which takes a couple days out of my week."

Gruebel enjoys being involved in teaching the ninth grade confirmation class.

"We really have a good time together. It's been an interesting part of my ministry." He does a number of community funerals for those who may or may not have had a church background.

"That's a difficult part of my ministry, but it's also a very rewarding part."

He's coordinator of the emergency chaplain program at Oakwood Canton Health Center. Gruebel and other clergy take turns being on call for that program; they assist during life-threatening emergencies.

As with funerals, the emergency chaplain work can be difficult.

"Those are real crisis periods sometimes for families and can be highly emotional." Dealing with issues of conflict that can arise in a church — as in any organization — is also difficult. There haven't been many of those at Geneva Presbyterian Church.

HIS CHURCH has a good mix of members, and includes a number of families, both two-parent and single-parent. The church has many single adults, including those who are widowed, divorced or never married. Many children and teenagers also worship at Geneva.

"We have a growing number of senior citizens." Construction is under way on a senior citizen housing complex at Ford and Sheldon roads in Canton; Gruebel anticipates that senior citizens could walk to church from that facility.

"It would be ideal for that."

Gruebel serves on the board for the Presbytery of Detroit. He's on the board of directors for the Community Federal Credit Union and for the Salvation Army in Plymouth.

His community involvement includes serving as chairman of the Housing Rehabilitation Committee in Canton and as a member of the Canton Community Block Grant advisory committee.

Work and community activities don't take up all of Gruebel's time — he also enjoys being with his family. His wife, Sue, works as a teacher for Garden City Continuing Education.

Their son, David, 15, is a sophomore at Plymouth Canton High School and a member of the Centennial Educational Park Marching Band. Their 8-year-old daughter, Melissa, a third grader at Gallimore Elementary School in Canton, enjoys dancing and soccer.

GRUEBEL TRIES to take Saturdays off to be with his family. He's usually able to unless he has a funeral or wedding. He also tries to reserve Wednesday and Friday nights to be with his family.

Gruebel is finishing his doctor of ministry degree at Princeton. He's completed his course work and is working on his thesis project; he's doing research on the nature of the pastor-congregation relationship.

That program required him to do some traveling to New Jersey, although he's able to do his thesis work here. The Princeton program is designed for professional clergy.

Gruebel's examining the expectations congregations have of pastors. He's looking at ways in which those expectations can be balanced with the needs of clergy.

Members of the clergy are in many ways the last of the general practitioners, he said. They serve as teachers, preachers, administrators, community organizers, bosses and employees.

"How do you balance those out so that the church can be an effective instrument?" Those roles need to be balanced so that pastors have some sense of ministry, he said.

The Rev. Kenneth Gruebel, a Canton resident and pastor at Geneva Presbyterian Church U.S.A., loves what he's doing. He's been at the Canton church for almost nine years.

Rev. David Strong

Divorce is a lonely way down the road

In recent months I have witnessed too many divorces. I have seen too many divisions among family members. Even in mid-America, alienation is on the march.

A year ago I gathered with a family around a hospital bed. A family member was dying. The family had all taken turns staying with this person. The woman died, surrounded by love.

Many are not so fortunate. There are old and ill people who face such a long crisis almost alone. They seem to belong to no one.

Alienation occurs when we are no longer special people connected to familiar places and familiar people.

Alienation occurs when we are shut out of the means of life.

We see this happening as a family goes through divorce. Homes are broken up. Children will not speak with one of their parents. Trust and openness are destroyed. Family members become isolated physically, emotionally and spiritually.

Karl Marx believed that the source of alienation was economic. He described it as the experience of "my means of life belong to someone else, my desires are the unattainable possession of someone else and an inhuman power rules over everything."

THIS CAN be true in a capitalistic and a socialistic society. We wonder why so many Americans will not vote for a president in November. It is largely because they believe that neither candidate will benefit their miserable lives. They feel outside mainstream society.

The ultimate source of alienation is not economic, but religious. It is God who proclaims that he will never desert us no matter what we do. It is God who reconciles differences.

God is the source of the power to belong and to reconcile.

The gradual destruction of the human spirit is described by the famous Czechoslovakian playwright, Vaclav Havel:

"It has something to do with the fact that we live in the first atheist civilization in human history. People have ceased to respect any so-called higher metaphysical values. . . . I am referring to whatever is, absolute, transcendental, suprahuman."

"These fundamental considerations once represented a support, a horizon for people, but now they have been lost. As soon as humanity declared itself to be the supreme ruler of the universe — at that movement, the world began to lose its human dimension."

Havel describes how he sees this alienation affecting the life of his people. He calls it "a state of permanent humiliation."

WHAT CAN change this?

Only belief in a God who cares will counteract such forces in the world. When I see people unwilling or unable to lead a broken relationship, I wonder: Do they believe in a God who forgives and leads broken lives?

Do they not understand that genuine reconciliation brings about a deeper love and understanding than was there before the rift? Will we not grasp the healing power that is available?

Reconciliation is difficult. It requires our most mature human capacities. It also requires a belief that deep down in the nature of life itself is God's ultimate power of healing.

The Rev. David Strong is pastor of St. Matthew's United Methodist Church in Livonia.

Paint his world with auto colors

By Janice Brunson
staff writer

Americans have renewed their love affair with the automobile, and the new relationship is finding expression through passionate colors that aim to stimulate, excite and intrigue.

Radiant red, Park Avenue green and olympic gold are among those colors predicted to coat the fleets of tomorrow with a new water-based paint that enhances tone.

"Americans do love the automobile. We're tied to it. And the excitement of the '50s and '60s is back," said Robert Daily, a color specialist with Du Pont Automotive Products in Troy.

Daily targets color trends and designs matching hues for automobile use. His skill, he said, is natural, based on an "innate interest in the subject" and honed through 22 years of experience.

Presently, Daily is pitching Du Pont's new line of 275 colors to auto executives in the U.S., Europe and Japan who are busy selecting colors for 1992 models.

Colors are always determined four to five years in advance of use, according to Daily, who holds a bachelor's degree in business.

Based on choices since 1984, auto colors through 1992 are certain.

"EXPRESSIVE" IS THE buzzword of color — lighter and brighter shades that can appear deeper and darker, depending upon the angle from which they are viewed.

"People treat their automobiles as a form of self-expression. (Auto) color is a way of expressing themselves that they might not use in other ways, like in the colors they wear," Daily said.

After an era in which ecology and economics dictated "compact, boxy auto designs" in "somber, grayed-off colors," "excitement and newness in color" has emerged.

"Reds are redder. Blues are bluer. Colors are truer and more saturated, cleaner and brighter than ever," Daily said.

Red is expected to slip into the top four on the preferred list of colors, next to white, which led in customer choice during 1987-88, and the perennial blue and gray that almost always top the list.

Green may even take on new life in the form of a neutral, gemstone shade called Park Avenue that contains a touch of yellow. "A whole generation has not seen much green. If we hit on the right shade, there could be a market for it," Daily said.

Yellow is expected to remain in last place. Less than 4 percent of new models will be painted yellow, and most of those will be sports cars. The color is thought to be unsuitable on larger cars.

Beyond 1992, Daily is looking at rich red-browns, a deep, raisiny color that is distinctive from the earth tones of yesteryear.

THE SHADE is the latest to be worn by mavens of fashion on the streets of Paris, Milan, London and New York City.

"This new area of brown is emerging. I saw it last year in Europe, and it is showing up in European fashion this year," Daily said.

It is from color trends set by the world's leading designers of high fashion that Daily plucks ideas for tomorrow's colors for automobiles.

DUANE BURLESON/staff photographer

Robert Daily is pitching Du Pont's new line of 275 colors to auto executives in the U.S., Europe and Japan for 1992 models.

He consults with leading designers and colorists in the fashion industry. He attends haute couture fashion shows. He scans monthly issues of Vogue and Elle.

While "the color of a coat on a runway in Paris" may be stunning, "it doesn't mean it will look good on a car," Daily "interprets the color and sophisticates it" for automotive use.

Presently, fashion designers are showing collections for next year's wear. Once the new look and color catches on in Europe, it takes a year to reach New York City and another to reach mainstream America, according to Daily. He carefully watches the progress, adopting shades he considers to be successful.

Once adopted, shades of new colors are developed into a "family," each family containing five color boards ranging from light to dark. A color may have as many as seven families.

In 1987, for example, red families included bittersweet, nightfire, dynasty and cranberry. The names are meant to invoke image. Bittersweet contains yellow tones; cranberry contains bright blue. Nightfire, considered the "trend" color, and dynasty, a jewel-tone red, are suitable for both flashy sports cars and sleek Cadillacs.

THE COLOR BOARDS are dispatched at day-long shows for executives of the Big 3 auto manufacturers in the U.S., a dozen manufacturers in Europe and 10 in Japan.

Most adopt new colors, changing existing stock by some 40 percent annually. U.S. reps favor trend colors. Europeans favor somber colors like those normally seen on the German-made Mercedes Benz. Japanese reps favor white. Some 70 percent of all autos sold in Japan are white.

"When I go there, it's like plain vanilla. I ask why. I'm told it's because white cars have better resale value in Japan," Daily said.

New colors are normally used by manufacturers for four to five years. Mid-life, the color is often given new life by adding newly colored interiors in contrasting shades.

The color shows are a service provided by Du Pont. Major competitors are Pennsylvania-based PPG Industries and German-based BASF/Inmont. Most manufacturers buy products each season from a variety of suppliers.

The auto-paint industry is in the midst of a "major step forward" with the recent introduction of water-based paint that can be cured at temperatures 25 to 50 degrees lower than former solvent-based paints, according to Daily.

The resulting look enhances esthetics, producing a two-toned appearance that is light and bright when viewed straight on, yet is deep and dark when viewed at an angle. The look accentuates auto design and "anything the finish can do to accentuate the design is good," Daily said.

Campbell taps Vlasic

By Philip A. Sherman
staff writer

The Campbell Soup Co.'s first priority, under new chairman Robert Vlasic of West Bloomfield, will be to stop a competitor from encroaching further into the company's soup business.

Vlasic, 62, is president of Vlasic Pickles, a Michigan company based in West Bloomfield that was acquired by Campbell. Until recently a member of Campbell's board, Vlasic has been selected to become the soup company's chairman. He formally will be installed in the position after a Nov. 18 election by board members.

"A substantial share of market is being invaded by the Raman Noodle concept," Vlasic said.

TWENTY-FIVE PERCENT of Campbell's business is based in its soup products, according to Vlasic. The Raman products he referred to are noodle-and-stock soups prepared by adding hot water.

Campbell already is combatting the "invasion" with a noodle-and-stock-flavored product of its own, which is being test-marketed in three areas nationwide, he said.

Campbell's product is expected to do well because it has fewer calories than its competitor, Vlasic said. He said it should be introduced in all markets early next year.

'Campbell is a very large, very well run company.'

BEYOND THAT, Vlasic, who built his own company from one original plant in Imlay City to six plants across the country, expects "nothing dramatic" to happen and no major changes to occur when he takes over as chairman.

"Campbell is a very large, very well run company," he said.

Vlasic will provide board leadership and communications with the company's major shareholders.

"The (Dorrance) family owns 60 percent of the shares. They want and will get a considerable amount of time and attention," Vlasic said.

CAMPBELL ENDED its fiscal year Aug. 31 with a $275 million profit, Vlasic said. The company, which Vlasic said will continue plans to acquire more food companies, already owns Pepperidge Farms, V-8,

Mrs. Paul's, Swanson, Juice Bowl, Prego, Le Menu and Vlasic.

Campbell's latest acquisition is a frozen-food business in the United Kingdom, Vlasic said.

The soup company, originally known for its jams and jellies, was founded in 1869 by Joseph Campbell and Abram Anderson. Its headquarters was and remains in New Jersey. Vlasic expects to make some 30 trips annually to his new job.

The Dorrance family came into the Campbell profile via John T. Dorrance, who held a doctorate from MIT. In 1899, at the age of 24, Dorrance perfected a process for canning soup in condensed form and also originated the idea of attaching placards to streetcars to promote the company's products.

CAMPBELL SOUP Co. went public in 1954. Of the top 15 companies in the food processing industry, Campbell ranked seventh as of 1985. RJR Nabisco led the list; Hershey Foods placed 15th.

Vlasic's own company ended its year with a $20 million pre-tax, pre-investment profit, he said.

"We have about a 35 share. Our business has grown dramatically over the years . . . by doing the basics and doing them just a little better than others."

Robert Logan
president and CEO

Logan succeeds Headlee as CEO

Robert Logan, who has nearly 40 years of business experience, was named president and chief executive officer of Alexander Hamilton Life Insurance Co. of America. He replaces Richard Headlee, now chairman of the Farmington Hills-based company.

The appointments were announced by Headlee and Edwin Hoffman, president and chief operating officer of the parent company, Household International, and chief executive officer of Household Financial Services.

Logan, 55, has managed Citibank Corp.'s international base in Europe, Canada, the South Pacific and the Eastern Bloc nations.

He formerly served as chairman of Samuel Montagu & Co. Ltd and was chief executive officer of Grindlay's Bank, PLC, a London-based firm with holdings in excess of $10 billion.

Logan and his wife, Susan Elizabeth Vokes, have three daughters. Headlee, 58, who underwent heart transplant surgery last October, became president of Alexander Hamilton Life in 1973. Appointed at a time when the company was unprofitable, Headlee positioned Hamilton within the industry by offering a range of innovative and competitive life insurance and annuity products.

Since then Hamilton assets have climbed from $142 million to an estimated $3 billion by year end. Investment income rose by 10 percent to $183.5 million in 1987 from $182.5 million a year earlier. Total insurance in force exceeded $17.2 billion in 1987, up $1.7 billion in one year. Insurance in force increased at an annualized rate of 14 percent in 1988.

HEADLEE TOLD this newspaper in an interview earlier this summer that his heart transplant and a subsequent bout with hepatitis influenced his decision to search for a successor.

"I had always aimed toward my early 60s for stepping into a new career in public service. Now, I'll just do it a little sooner," Headlee said.

Alexander Hamilton employs 650 full-time employees at its 150,000-square-foot headquarters, up from 128 in 1972. Its national sales network numbers 7,400 agents.

It is the nation's 93rd largest life insurance company in terms of assets, according to A.M. Best Co. of New Jersey. In Michigan, it ranks second. It also has earned Best's top financial rating, which reflects ability to meet financial commitments.

The strategy for continued growth includes plans to acquire insurance companies in the Southeast and on the West Coast. The company is planning to add a 70,000-square-foot, $7 million building to its 13 Mile Road campus to increase work space.

IN ADDITION, the company has sought out new investment opportunities, becoming a partner with R.A. DeMattis Co. of Plymouth in developing technology and industrial parks in western Wayne County.

Household International (NYSE) acquired Alexander Hamilton Life in 1977. Hamilton has since become an integral part of Household's Financial Services Subsidiary marketing life, accident, and specialty products through 1,200 Household Finance Corp. offices throughout the U.S., Canada and the United Kingdom.

Household International is a major provider of products for building, consumer and commercial-industrial markets.

In 1978, Headlee spearheaded passage of the Tax Limitation Amendment to the Michigan Constitution. A major political figure in Michigan, he ran unsuccessfully for governor in 1982 after winning the Republican nomination.

Sexy cars show power of the narcotics trade

When Maserati Rick's luck ran out on the night shift at Mt. Carmel Mercy Hospital, he left in the ultimate Bad Ride, a hastily assembled 280 SEL Mercedes coffin, followed in its last trip by lesser tokens of how badly crime pays — a string of Rolls Royces and a BMW or two.

This is not the kind of unsolicited testimony of which every auto manufacturer dreams. But part of the price of success in the drug business is keeping yourself outfitted in a costly car with that edge of uselessness that makes a statement about how much money can be had by side-tracking "the conventions of work or morality."

THE PRODUCERS of Miami Vice recognized the penchant of the drug lords for fast cars. The show generally does more to glamorize the life-style of the drug business than Perry Mason ever did for lawyers. Perhaps feeling a tad guilty, the producers try to pay lip service to status-symbol equality by equipping the show's vice cop with a synthetic Ferrari — ignoring the obvious, that a real cop driving a Ferrari is likely on the take.

But like it or not, the drug underground does buy expensive, hip cars that mock the heavily Rolexed yuppies struggling for another quick killing in real estate or on Wall Street.

A couple of months in the drug business and a 17-year-old has enough cash to join the late-night parade on Belle Isle. This lineup of new machinery materializes seemingly at random on summer nights, driven at a maddeningly slow walking pace, swimming in music from custom speakers so loud it cancels any effort at speech.

HUNKERED DOWN behind the wheels are the arrogant, hardened veterans of drug combat. Heavily customized Mercedes and BMWs, blacked-out Jeeps, lowered Japanese pickups and modified Corvettes back up along Jefferson before making the slow circuit past their lesser peers who are cooling out next to their own rumpled heaps after a week sweating at McDonalds.

It's a much-younger crowd that ruled the streets in the past, and their taste in cars reflects the heavily customized big Cadillacs and Lincolns of yesterday's pimp or numbers runner. The big cars are derided as "circus wagons." The new lords of the underworld drive the latest in upscale wheels from Europe and Japan.

ANYONE witnessing this grim spectacle might have second thoughts about the reality of the drug business and the simplistic solutions being offered, even by the national presidential candidates. In the trickle-down economics of the street, the money lands everywhere, not the least in the hands of new car dealers handing over keys to $60,000 cars in exchange for bags of cash.

STILL, THERE'S something particularly sinister about this parade of luxury cars that flaunts the drug traffic.

The truly insidious nature of the business doesn't seem to be the sickened junkie, willing to smash a car window for a briefcase, or even the acres of illegal agriculture where it all begins. More to the point is the money that flows so easily that even the best legitimate job could never compete, and it flows on the streets where even mean jobs are hard to find.

It was a truth Maserati Rick knew too well, even as he took the last ride to his grave.

Part II

The Investment Exam published last week helped you determine your mean or average score. This week we will use that score to identify those investment products that are appropriate for people with your risk profile.

The accompanying chart presents each investment product in the descending order of its riskiness. Your average score determines the riskiest investment you can afford to own. For instance, with an average score of five, you may own all the products listed in boxes marked one-five, but none included in boxes six-nine.

One word of caution: Investment management of risky business. Always investigate before you invest and, by all means, consult your financial planner who knows what's best for you.

RE: LOAN OFFICER EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES AT FIREMAN'S FUND

As the nation's third largest mortgage banker, we are embarking on an imaginative campaign to recruit and train Loan Officer candidates.

Mortgage banking offers a long-term career opportunity for hard working individuals with superior skills and motivation. On one hand it offers unlimited commission income based on personal achievement. On the other, Loan Officers are true "employees" of the corporation for tax purposes and participate fully in our industry-leading employee benefit package.

On Saturday morning, October 15, we'll begin conducting a 3 week "LOAN OFFICER CAREER COURSE"...to be held on Saturday mornings at 8:30 a.m. to 11:00 a.m. and Wednesday evenings at 6:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m. at our Farmington Hills headquarters. Our goal is to provide you with 18 hours of quality training and to acquaint you with the challenges and rewards of a Loan Officer career with FIREMAN'S FUND.

To reserve your space, please telephone 553-0772 no later than Thursday, October 13.

Fireman's Fund is an equal opportunity employer...M/F/H.

Yours truly,

Cost to producer will affect amount of goods sold

Analysing customer demand for a product helps business owners identify how customers feel about the product and whether there are substitutes.

Along with this type of analysis, decision makers must also consider the supply side. Customers may want some product, but if suppliers are unable or unwilling to provide it, then there is no market.

Supplier costs influence the quantity of products they are willing to offer during any period. As demand curves are used by sellers to identify the quantity demanded by customers at different prices, supply curves identify the quantity of product to be supplied at various possible prices.

Ultimately, only one quantity of goods will be offered by suppliers and bought accordingly. Along with a demand curve, the supply curve summarizes the attitudes and predicted behavior of sellers and buyers for a product in a given market.

AS DEMAND curves are typically downward-sloping, supply curves tend to slope upward. Suppliers are willing to offer greater quantities of product at higher prices. The logic here suggests that if a product's market price is high, suppliers will be anxious to produce more of the product even if it involves overtime or hiring additional workers.

Going one step further, suppliers of other products may switch their ## focus: small business

company resources (labor, farms and factories) to the product in greatest demand at the higher price. On the other hand, if a low price is being offered for the same product, suppliers will reduce its supply and focus attention on other items.

MARKET equilibrium occurs at the intersection between supply and demand when the curves are plotted on the same graph. This intersection, or equilibrium point, determines the size of the market and the market price.

Products with an inelastic demand will evidence an increase in total revenue as prices increase. But the best price is at the equilibrium point, the point where the quantity and price suppliers are willing to offer is equal to the quantity and price sellers are willing to accept. So demand is not the only determining factor of price level; cost must also be considered in terms of the supply curve.

The elasticity of demand and supply curves, and their interaction, help predict the nature of product competition a business owner is likely to experience. Along with the ability to identify a product market's size and price, analyzing supply and demand serve as excellent decision-making tools.

Mary DiPaolo is the owner of MarketTrends, a Farmington Hills-based business consulting firm. She is also producer and host of the cable television series, "Chamber Perspectives."

Shanker to speak

American Federation of Teachers President Albert Shanker will discuss education reform 2 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 18, at Henry Ford Community College, Dearborn.

The free lecture is open to the public.

Shanker, president of the nation's second largest teachers' union, will deliver the college's annual Walter Reuther Memorial Lecture.

Shanker and the 665,000-member AFT have long advocated raising teacher pay, testing teaching candidates and implementing tougher education standards, including a common core of democratic values.

Worker training offered

Free training for laid off General Motors workers remains available at Marygrove College, Detroit.

Dozens of openings remain in word processing and medical transcription classes, a college spokeswoman said.

Free tuition, books and supplies are available. Those who complete the course almost always receive new jobs, college special projects director Helen Kozlowski said.

Classes begin the first week of October. Additional information is available by calling 862-8000, Ext. 442. Marygrove is at 8425 W. McNichols, Detroit.

Wildlife can be depended on

MOST people maintain their possessions and behave consistently. At breakfast, for example, cereal is in a certain cupboard, fruit is on the counter in a basket, milk is in the refrigerator, and so on. Or we follow a routine upon arriving at work.

As long as everything stays the same, we pay little attention to anything because we have been conditioned to this consistency. However, if something should be out of place, that will make us stand up and notice.

PEOPLE WHO watch wildlife come to expect animals to do certain things, too.

Chickadees can be expected to be one of the first birds to discover a new feeder. Crab spiders lie in wait for an insect to land close enough for an attack.

And chipmunks are usually seen on the ground — or so I thought. My impression of this striped squirrel of campground fame was a busy, ground-dwelling rodent. It builds tunnels to underground chambers and stores food underground for the winter, so I thought it should be on the ground.

But during the past year, I have seen chipmunks in tree hollows 15 feet high. And just the other day, I watched one gather acorns from the branches of an oak about 20 feet up.

Timothy Nowicki

The branch it was feeding on was over water, and occasionally an acorn would fall. They sounded like little bullets entering the water.

I thought, too, of what might happen if the chipmunk accidentally slipped.

THIS CHIPMUNK was carrying at least three medium-sized acorns — one tucked into each side cheek pouch and one in front held by its incisors.

After each mouthful it scampered down the tree and bounced across the grass to its burrow. Here it would store the acorns until it awoke for a mid-winter snack.

Its behavior attracted my attention because it seemed out of place to me, though it looked as if the chipmunk had been doing it before.

Obviously this kind of behavior is not new to the animals, only to me. Watching wildlife can provide personal discoveries at any time.

what a difference
makes!

A Difference In Coverage. My old plan used to only cover me when I was sick. But Care Choices HMO covers me when I'm well, as well as when I'm not. That means most of the costs of routine medical care are covered, like doctor's office visits, physicals, immunizations and lab tests. They also cover pre-natal and well-baby care. And of course, hospitalization is covered, even more completely than with my old plan.

A Difference In Paperwork. I used to have to fill out a lot of claim forms with my old health plan. But Care Choices even covers the paperwork!

A Difference In Cost. Unexpected doctor bills used to sneak up on me. But with Care Choices, after a small co-pay, there are no doctor bills. Care Choices HMO even covers emergencies when I'm out of town. So, surprise out-of-pocket costs can't put the bite on me.

A Difference In The Way I Feel. It's no wonder I'm so confident. Some of the best doctors and hospitals in the area are part of Care Choices HMO, over 400 private practice physicians in all. And some of the most respected hospitals are included, like Catherine McAuley Health Center, Chelsea Community Hospital, Saline Community Hospital, and McPherson Hospital. Together they work in partnership with Care Choices to keep the costs down and the quality of care up. Find out what a difference my plan can make for you. Ask your employer about Care Choices Health Plans today. Or for more information, call 800-852-9780 or 313-489-6200.

'Average Joe'

He's a one-man band but just an ordinary guy

By Victor E. Swanson
special writer

WHAT SOME PEOPLE don't realize is, often, an entertainer can simply be an "average Joe."

That's especially true if the entertainer is one-man band Joe Tackett, who appears from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. every Tuesday and Wednesday during October at Carlos Murphy's restaurant, 29244 Northwestern Highway, Southfield.

Although he has opened concerts for such artists as Dolly Parton and Buddy Rich, Tackett really is an average Joe, as he showed himself to be during a recent interview at his home in Ferndale. He was dressed in a casual shirt, shorts and tennis shoes and sipped cherry-flavored pop.

"It's a real versatile show," Tackett said for openers. "I'm trying to pull all of my prior knowledge together." That knowledge includes playing a few years with a 1950s-type band called Rock's Gang and being part of a duo called a Couple of Jerks.

"It's still sort of experimental, because I'm using a synthesizer, which is computerized, and a drum machine. And I sound like a band," he said.

On stage, though, he doesn't sit at the synthesizer that would hide him from the audience, as most one-man bands do. He works the stage with a guitar of some type in hand all the time. And he plays the guitars and sings and jokes.

HE ADDED, "There are six, life-sized pictures of myself on stage that look like a band. It's done, of course, as a joke. . . . It helps fill up the stage and it gets people's attention. And I figure, if I'm going to sound like a band, why not look like one."

The music he performs is, usually, well-known.

Tackett said, "The bulk of my material is '60s, a lot of Beatles, Simon and Garfunkel, Kinks, Rolling Stones. And I do some '50s also, Elvis, Chuck Berry, Bill Haley." The 13-year veteran performer said that he does some familiar songs from the 1970s and 1980s, too, such as ones by Harry Chapin and Jim Croce.

— Joe Tackett

"Mainly, people — the audience I'm going for — are into having fun. I try to be that with people. . . . I'll do songs and try to get them to sing along or whistle or clap or anything. And when you can get a good audience doing that, it's just a ball, because it just gets bigger and bigger and you have people come on stage and sing and act like screwballs. It's a riot!"

From time to time, audiences get to hear some of Tackett's own works or some of his parodies. One parody is called "Wake Up Little Floozy." He has a song that's a take-off on "Puff the Magic Dragon."

"When I program this stuff, it takes roughly about eight hours per song to program," he said. "I have to play everything. . . . sit down and listen to a record and figure out the drumbeats, the bass, the piano and everything. I play keyboards well enough to program it."

TACKETT CONFESSED, "I'm not a 'keyboard player.'" Then he chuckled. "When I can get it at my leisure, I can get it right."

However, he has musical training on the piano. For instance, as a teenager, he had some piano lessons, and while at Macomb Community College, he took a piano class and studied classical guitar.

The mostly self-taught musician, who started with drums at age 9, said the classical guitar lessons he got at college really helped him get his finger work perfected. "Most people who teach themselves — finger picking — they don't do it the right way," he said.

At Macomb Community College, Tackett minored in music and in 1979 received a degree in applied science in Business Data Processing.

His computer background is somewhat helpful in a new project he's working on with friends for United Cable, which covers such communities as Troy, Rochester, Royal Oak and Ferndale.

He is hosting a public-access cable show called "Average Joe's Neighborhood," soon appearing weekly on Channel 52. Basically, it's a talk show hosted by a computer programmer named Joe (played by Tackett), who has a talking computer named P.C. Wisenheimer.

TACKETT WANTS the show to have a different topic each week and to be "heated — but not as bad as Morton Downey Jr." He said, "I want it to be a controversial show. I don't want to just play it safe."

For comedy relief in the show, Tackett's friend David Kilgore plays four regular roles — pesky neighbor, Joe's wife, Joe's cheerleader daughter and Joe's punk-rock son. Another friend — Paul Swiss — is the voice of P.C.

Besides working on the television show, Tackett is looking for a publisher for a book he wrote about how to be a rock performer.

He's searching for a manager for his musical career. He has written more than 250 of his own songs, some of which he wants to use in a show that could open for national acts appearing in the Detroit area.

"I'm sort of through traveling and all that stuff. I got married (October 1987). I've got a wonderful wife (Amanda). We've got a house we're trying to fix up, and we'd like to have some kids."

Although he wants to continue in show business, he knows a musical career is too uncertain to depend on when plans for the future call for a family, so he's also looking for work in the computer field.

Right now, Tackett also is appearing at Len's Place in Warren on Thursdays-Saturdays through October. In November and December, he will be at Carlos Murphy's every Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday.

"I try to give people a night to remember — that they did something, rather than just sitting on their butts and drinking and letting the music go in one ear and out the other." He said with a smile, "They go home and they can say, 'Boy, I had a good time tonight!'"

upcoming things to do

Deadline for the Upcoming calendar is one week ahead of publication. Items must be received by Thursday to be considered for publication the following Thursday. Send to: Ethel Simmons, Entertainment Editor, the Observer & Eccentric, 36251 Schoolcraft Road, Livonia 48150.

35TH SEASON
The Theatre Guild of Livonia-Redford opens its 35th season with "Home" by David Storey. The play is winner of the New York Critics Award for Best Play of the Year. Performances are at 8 p.m. Fridays-Saturdays, Oct. 14-15, 21-22, 28-29, at the playhouse in Redford. Tickets are $6 for adults and $5 for students and senior citizens. For reservations, call 427-1905.

ELVIS' FRIENDS
Elvis - Family of Friends of Michigan, a newly formed club for Elvis Presley fans, will meet 7 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 22, at Metro Hall in Redford. For information call Pat Patterson at 535-0866.

YOUNG MAGICIAN
Award-winning Magical Matt Jacobson, the nation's youngest professional magician, will perform at 1 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 22, at the Civic Center Library auditorium in Livonia. Jacobson has been seen on national and foreign television. His magic show includes two Harry Houdini effects and major Las Vegas-style illusions. The show is sponsored by the Livonia Arts Commission. Free tickets are available 3:30-5 p.m. Friday, Oct. 7, at the Civic Center Library. For more information call 421-2000, ext. 351.

ON STAGE
"The Elephant Man" by Bernard Pomerance, directed by Blair Vaughn Anderson, will be presented by the Oakland University, Center for the Arts, at 8 p.m. Fridays-Saturdays and 2 p.m. Sundays, Oct. 7-9, 14-16, at Verner Hall on campus in Rochester Hills. The play has been awarded three Tonys, three Obies, the Drama Desk Award and New York Drama Critics Circle Award. Tickets are $8 general admission, $4 seniors and children under 12, and $3 OU students. Call 370-3013 to reserve tickets.

RISING STAR
Folktown Coffeehouse presents the Detroit-area premiere performance of one of Canada's rising stars, Eileen McGann of Toronto. The concert will be held at 8 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 8, at Folktown's new site within the Southfield Civic Center. The new "concert hall" will be in the Marcotte Room on the East Side of the Civic Center. Patrons may park in the covered underground free parking lot, walk in the library basement entrance, turn right, and they are at the Marcotte Room. McGann is known for her treatment of traditional songs of the Celtic world (her father was Irish, her mother Welsh) and of her native Canada, and British. She is also a songwriter who blends elements of the traditional and contemporary, often with a feminist focus. Admission for this concert is $7. For more information, call 855-9848 from 6-9 p.m.

CHILDREN'S CONCERTS
Starting Oct. 9, a Childrens Concert Series, designed for the entire family, will be presented at Prock's Restaurant and Lounge in Clawson. The shows featuring music, magic and comedy will be presented at 4 p.m. every Sunday through Oct. 30. Veteran performers Ron Coden and Jeff Hobson will be featured. When performing for children, Hobson, who uses the stage name "Mr. Triz," provides comedy and magic. He also is the star of his own cable television show for children. Coden, who has a bachelor of science degree in education, was the star of the nationally syndicated television show "Hot Fudge." The show won many national awards for excellence in the field of children's television. Along with the Childrens Concert Series, Prock's will offer a full menu. Cover charge for the show is $3. For more information and reservations, call 280-2626.

Opera Lite

Broadway's most memorable melodies come alive again in Opera Lite's "Give My Regards to Broadway!" at 8 p.m. Fridays-Saturdays Oct. 7-8 and 14-15, and 2 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 16, at Adray Auditorium in Dearborn. "Give My Regards to Broadway, Part II" will be presented at 8 p.m. Fridays-Saturdays, Nov. 11-12, 18-19, and at 2 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 13. Cast members for both shows include Judith Zorn and Beverly Labuta of Bloomfield Hills, Chris Wehrli of Farmington and David Pulice of Southfield. Tickets for each show are $10 general admission, $8 for senior citizens. For reservations call 335-1377.

COMEDY IMPROV
Michael J. Gellman and Don DePollo, past directors of Second City

Theatre Company, along with Susan Sweetzer of Los Angeles' Comedy Store and the Improv, will lead an intensive training weekend of improvisation and comedy technique from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday-Sunday, Oct. 15-16, at the Actors Alliance Theatre Company in Southfield. Fees are $200 per student. For more information or to register by phone, call 643-1326 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mondays-Fridays.

HARVEST HOME

AVON PLAYERS

Avon Players Youth Theatre announces auditions for its show, "The Pale Pink Dragon," a musical fairy tale, from noon to 4 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 15, and 1-4 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 16, at the Avon Players Theatre in Rochester Hills. Auditions are open to all students in the seventh through 12th grades — junior and senior high school students. Students will be involved with all areas of the play's production. The play will be performed at the theater Thursday-Sunday, Dec. 8-11. Students are asked to pay a $5 membership fee to take part in the production. For more information, contact Muriel Gyde, director, at 731-3359, or Cricket Salswedel, producer, at 739-8140.

READERS THEATER

Second performance of the fall series of Readers Theater will be held at 4 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 16, in the DeRoy Studio Theater at the Jewish Community Center in West Bloomfield. A pre-theater wine bar will begin at 3:15 p.m. This program is under the sponsorship of the Institute for Retired Professionals at the Jewish Community Center and supported by an endowment from the Irwin and Sadie Cohn Fund. Tickets will be available at the door the day of the performance. There is an admission charge. For further information, call Readers Theater at 967-4030.

'SOMERSET STRUT'

Somerset Dinner Theatre continues "Somerset Strut" starring Phil Marcus Esser and featuring Barbara Bredius and Charlie Latimer at 7 p.m. for dinner, 9 p.m. showtime Fridays, and 6 and 8 p.m. for dinner, 8:30 and 10:30 p.m. showtime Saturdays. Ticket price of $29.50 per person includes a gourmet dinner at Sebastian's at Somerset Mall in Troy. For reservations, call 649-6629.

DIXIELAND MUSIC

"Original Dixieland" by Mike Karoub's "Little" Dixie Syncopators will be featured at the Woodbridge Tavern from 6:30-10:30 Thursday, Oct. 6, 13, 20 and 27 in Detroit. Musicians vary every week. Call 259-0578 for reservations.

WORLD PREMIERE

Detroit Center for the Performing Arts presents "The Golden Dawn," in the world premiere of an award-winning drama by Robert Schroeder and Jan Henson Dow, at 8 p.m. Friday, Oct. 7, to Saturday, Nov. 12, in Detroit. The play is about the inner sanctums of the secret, mystical society known as the Order of the Golden Dawn. For information, call 961-7925.

FOLK SINGER

The Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, in co-operation with the Traditional Irish Music Organization, will present one of Canada's leading folksingers, Scottish-born Margaret Christl, in concert at 8 p.m. Friday, Oct. 7, at Friendly Sons of St. Patrick's Hall in Warren. Her latest album "Lookin' Toward Home" in 1984 was voted Best Folk Album of the Year on the Canadian Charts, and her interpretation of "The Streets of Calgary" won her rave reviews across Canada and the United States. Christl will be accompanied by Detroit performer Jim Perkins, who will be featured at the Ark, Ann Arbor folk club, at 8 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 25. Dancing will follow Christl's performance, with music by Irish fiddler Mick Gavin and friends. Admission is $5 at the door. Proceeds benefit the East Side's oldest Irish club, the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick. For further information phone 937-3523 or 537-3489.

Tom Hinks of Plymouth (right) and Howard V. Egan of Highland rehearse a scene for the Theatre Guild of Livonia-Redford production of "Home" by David Storey, opening the theater's 35th season on Friday, Oct. 14.

Harvest dinner

An Autumn Harvest Dinner will be held Monday, Oct. 17, at Ches Raphael in Novi. The evening begins with a reception at 6:30 p.m., followed by dinner at 7:30. Wine will be served with various courses, which include a Roast Saddle of Michigan venison with chestnut stuffing, among others. Dinner is $75 per person. For reservations, call 348-5555.

1st runner-up

Edward Janos, executive chef of Ches Raphael, recently was named first runner-up in the American Gold Cup Bocuse D'or Competition held in Chicago. Janos was one of three Michigan chefs participating, along with nine other finalists from around the country. He took special honors for his original Oriental Lobster Gâteau and Lamb Variety Dish. Janos was awarded a trip to Lyon, France, where the International Competition takes place in January.

Yacht club

Polish Yacht Club Commodore G. Timothy Curtis reports that the Ivanhoe Cafe, home of the "yacht club," is in jeopardy of closing its doors, due to a lack of business in recent months. A Detroit landmark, the Ivanhoe Cafe features luncheon specials of corned beef, ribs, kielbasa with sauerkraut, perch and walleye, and perch dinners Friday evenings. For reservations call the Ivanhoe's "Big John" at 923-5355.

Japanese meal

Japanese culture and cuisine may be experienced at Cranbrook P.M.'s Mikado Dinner at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 19, at the Kyoto Japanese Steakhouse in Troy. Cost is $37.50 per person. For reservations, call 645-3635. The evening begins with Kyotosushi, Kappamaki hors d'oeuvres and rice wine. A cash bar will be available. Dinner in the wooden teppanyaki rooms will be prepared by authentic teppen chefs. The evening closes with the drinking of Japanese tea. Mrs. Nobuko Rooney will speak on Japanese cuisine and traditions throughout the evening.

Fiery chili takes first prize

Walt Hunter of Plymouth was named first-prize winner, for his Fire on the Mountain Chili, at the recent 10th annual Michigan Chili Cookoff before a sellout crowd at the Lark restaurant in West Bloomfield.

Hunter will represent Michigan at the World Cookoff on Sunday, Oct. 30, at the Tropic Gold Mine in California's Mojave Desert. Proceeds of the Michigan Cookoff will go for 10 $1,000 scholarships to deserving culinary arts students.

Another area resident, Greg Thom of Rochester Hills, representing the Grease Ball Chili Company, took the prize for Showmanship. Runners-up for the best chili were Roger King of Belleville, second place, and Tom Greiner of Northville, third place. Best Booth award went to Heinz Trampe of Hamilton, Ont.

FIRE ON THE MOUNTAIN CHILI

This recipe is guaranteed to satisfy and clean out any of your problems.

8 pounds beef top round
1.5 pounds pork sausage
1/4 cup butter
1 can of beer (any variety)
1 46-ounce can V8 vegetable juice
1 8-ounce jar jalapeno sauce
2 cans of RO-TEL tomatoes
2 large yellow onions

2 large green peppers
8 garlic cloves (minced)
1/2 cup fresh parsley (chopped real fine)
1 cup cabbage (chopped fine)
2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper (fresh ground)
7 teaspoons chili powder (heaping)
1 teaspoon cayenne (heaping)
4 teaspoons cumin
1/2 teaspoon anise seed
1 teaspoon oregano
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 teaspoon paprika
1 teaspoon Tabasco
4 tablespoons cooking oil

Cut up beef into 1/4 cubes and brown in oil. Brown sausage as well. Saute pepper, onion, and garlic in the butter. Add the meat to the veggies and add the tomato sauce, jalapenos and about half of the V8. Stir well. Add all the spices and the fresh parsley. Throw in anything else you haven't put in and cook a couple of hours or so. Makes about 2 gallons. Dig in.

Man seeking clues to riddle of Alzheimer's

By Jeff Counts
staff writer

When hundreds of people from around the nation attend an Alzheimer's conference starting Monday at Wayne State University, they will be learning about the memory-related disease with the help of a West Bloomfield biologist Harvey Altman.

He spends his days doing memory research with animals in the basement of Detroit's Lafayette Clinic with the goal of finding treatments for Alzheimer's, which affects nearly 2 million people over the age of 65.

But he's the director of the three-day conference that's designed for medical professionals and the public.

"The relatives of Alzheimer's patients need to learn more about the disease, and persons working in medicine need to learn more about the patients," he said.

Alzheimer's will become more prevalent in the future as the population starts to age, and when the baby boom generation hits 65, he said. About 5-7 percent of people 65 years or older have the disease, and that increases with each subsequent decade until it reaches about 20 percent for those in their 80s.

The over 65 age group is expected to increase from 26 million to more than 50 million in the next 40 years, and with it Alzheimer's will increase.

ALTMAN'S ROLE in finding a cure for Alzheimer's is that of animal researcher.

"We can test a drug for a company in less than a week," he said pointing to the clear plastic mazes through which white rats race.

Altman, a graduate of New York University, does research in memory loss with the animals. A New York native, he came to the Detroit area in 1980 and settled in West Bloomfield in a home on Cass Lake.

His research at the clinic includes working with older animals, who have the same problems as humans as they age.

"You take an older rat and he can't remember how to get through the maze," he said. "He'll just bang back and forth against the plastic."

While the disease has been around a long time, its diagnosis has just come recently, partly because in the past fewer people lived to age 65. Also, in the past it was not diagnosed correctly, he said, noting that it was usually thought to be senility.

He said researchers are starting to learn more about the disease, as it becomes more prevalent, and there's one school of thought that thinks it may not be one single disease, but a group of different ones.

AND AS THEY learn more, there are more possible treatments. But there's one controversial treatment for Alzheimer's patients that Altman expects to be a hot topic at the conference.

It's the use of human fetuses. "It's been found that fetus material injected into the brain of a patient can cause regeneration of the memory," he said. "But it brings up many moral and ethical concerns."

"Are women going to abort a child to save grandma or mom's memory?" he asked.

Speakers at the conference will deal with that issue, along with other public policy issues, Altman said.

One of those is payment for the care of Alzheimer's patients. He said most medical insurance plans don't cover the disease, and those that do are often too expensive.

He said that $74 billion was spent on Alzheimer's care in 1987, and said that that will increase in the future.

There are few places that care for Alzheimer's patients, and Altman said he's involved with setting up such a unit at the Peachwood Inn, a nursing home in Rochester Hills.

"WE'RE LOOKING AT ways to delay the process," he said. "We know they'll die within 10 years, but we're working on making their lives better."

He said relatives have a difficult time dealing with those afflicted because of the behavioral changes.

Those with the disease lose their memory for recent events first, but memory loss eventually becomes so bad that a patient can't remember the previous sentence in a conversation.

Other changes in behavior include the inability to concentrate, anxiety, irritability, agitation, withdrawal, or petulance.

In the final stages, victims tend to suffer from apathy, disorientation and the lack of concern about others' opinions. And often patients in their final months of life become incontinent.

The Detroit-area chapter of Alzheimer's Disease and Related Disorders Association is on W. 12 Mile Road in Southfield. The phone number is 557-8277.

Men, if you're about to turn 18, it's time to register with Selective Service at any U.S. Post Office.

Rocks no match for No. 1 Stevenson

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Livonia Stevenson demonstrated Wednesday that a wider gap apparently exists between No. 1 and 2 in the state Class A boys rankings.

The host Spartans overpowered upset-minded Plymouth Salem last night in a key Western Lakes Activities Association match, 3-0.

Salem had climbed into the No. 2 slot in the Coaches Association poll, which was released Monday after pulling off a string of upsets, including a 2-0 victory last week over state-ranked Livonia Churchill.

But Stevenson met the challenge head-on, whipping the younger and more inexperienced Rocks around like a bunch of rag dolls.

"We're not quite ready to be No. 2, but the kids naturally think they are," said Salem coach Ken Johnson, whose team fell to 7-3-1 overall. "We're a young team and it's a learning year. I've been surprised by some of the teams we've beaten, but it hasn't been a fluke."

It's no mistake that Stevenson, which has appeared in five of the last six Class A championship games, belongs on top.

THE SPARTANS, who ran their overall record to 8-0-1, dominated the final 70 minutes of play after the two teams sized each other up for the first 10.

"I told my team these guys were supposed to be the giant killers and that we had our honor to defend,"

soccer

said Stevenson coach Pete Scerri. "I don't care about being No. 1 because everybody is shooting at you all the time. I'd rather be the underdog, either No. 2 or 3."

"But we're a machine if we play like we did tonight. Nobody is going to penetrate us with guys playing back there (on defense) like (Kurt) Will (the stopper) and (Derek) Willford (the sweeper) did tonight."

The Spartans had more scoring opportunities, outshooting the Rocks 16-7.

Shane Millner opened the scoring with 10 minutes left in the first half on a pass from Marc Strayer. The play developed when Millner found himself all alone about 15 yards in front of the Salem net.

"Somebody didn't pick him up (Millner), but we have three sophomores back there (on defense) and that will happen," said the Salem coach.

And with the second half not even a minute old, Eric Schwedt snuck a high-bounding ball past Salem goalie Matt Tudor to make it 2-0.

It was only a minute later that Stevenson's Kurt Will missed a penalty shot, but at the 21-minute mark, Will redeemed himself, knocking home a shot on a throw-in from Schwedt.

And if it hadn't been for the play of Tudor, the score could have been much worse.

ALTHOUGH SALEM had moved up in the rankings, things didn't bode well for the Rocks after they tied a mediocre Walled Lake Western team on Monday, 2-2.

"This is the first time we haven't played well against a good team," Johnson said. "We've been averaging two goals a game against the good teams, but against a weaker team (like Western) I think we relaxed a little bit."

Against Stevenson, the Rocks took a pounding. Salem had 36 free kicks to Stevenson's 12.

"What we learned is that they (Stevenson) were a little tougher," Johnson said. "My young kids got to be more aggressive and stick up to them. Their seniors weren't going to let our young kids push them around. They were chopping on us right from the start."

Scerri said the key to his team's success is the players accepting their roles and working together.

"We've had some players not happy where they've been playing," he said. "But if they put these minds in there, they can play. Tonight they listened and wanted to play together. I think we've got it revved up the rest of the season."

"They learned that if we win, everybody wins. If we play as a unit, that's all you need."

Last event decides Canton fate

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Farmington Mercy swimmers will excuse coach Chuck McClune if his methods seem cruel.

McClune put the Marlins through two rigorous workouts Tuesday and, after all that, sent them out to swim a dual meet against unbeaten Plymouth Canton in the evening.

But, all is well that ends well for Mercy, rated No. 10 in Class A. The Marlins survived everything thrown at them and emerged with a down-to-the-wire, 45-38 victory.

Mercy is in the middle of what swim teams call "hell week" — a period of intensive midseason training — and McClune, due to a scheduling mixup, wasn't aware the Chiefs were on the horizon until last Friday.

"I thought we had 10 days when I could beat the girls up real bad and do some hard training," said McClune, who conducted a two-hour morning session and oversaw an additional 2½-hour practice in the afternoon.

"IT GAVE ME the opportunity to see how tough the girls could be. I wasn't going to change my schedule, so I thought we'd see how they could do on an hour's rest."

Canton coach Hooker Wellman tipped his hat to McClune, though he also would like to build his team's endurance except an excessive number of illnesses prevent it.

"He planned it real well," Wellman said. "He was able to get through both things; he got in a good workout and won the meet. If we were able to do it, we would have, but we have too many sick kids."

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

Cassie Cummins won two events for Canton, but the Chiefs were nosed out by Mercy in the team score, 45-38.

The Chiefs, 3-1, have a key Western Division dual meet Thursday with Northville, and competing against a team of Mercy's caliber was good preparation, according to Wellman.

"We just want to get healthy again," he said. "I'm not real disappointed. They're ranked in the state, and we didn't swim bad."

Certainly not. Canton might easily have won the meet since the out-

swimming

come was in doubt through the final event — the 400-yard freestyle relay.

THE MARLINS, 2-2, held a 38-35 edge before that race and needed second and third place on a 6-3-1 scoring system to maintain it. The Chiefs had to have, at least, a combination of first and third.

Mercy wrapped it up when Karen Neyer, Michelle McCaffrey, Polly Tenuta and Becky Wiquist finished first in 3:55.1. The Marlins captured third place, to boot, with Cindy Grush, Jenny Mison, Jennie Olmstead and Mary Quinn swimming 3:59.88.

Canton's Janet Roberts, Cassie Cummins, Kelly Rische and Nicole Drake were second in 3:59.2.

McClune selected his top freestyle relay based on those swimmers' practice performances as the Marlins upped their daily distances from 9,000 yards to 13,000 during hell week.

"The ones who are training well seem to be able to hold the (time) splits," he said. "They have to be able to handle the yardage, because (the Chiefs) have people like Drake who can really fly."

Drake and Cummins were their always reliable selves, winning two events apiece to keep the Chiefs in contention. Drake won the 200 and 500 freestyles in 1:59.76 and 5:17.96.

Chiefs capture boys title; Canton girls 2nd at RU

Not one member of Plymouth Canton's boys cross country team could finish higher than 10th at Tuesday's Redford Union Invitational at Cass Benton. But all of the Chiefs were in the top 40, and that was enough to give them the individual title.

The victory was particularly gratifying considering two Canton runners were out with injuries.

"The kids ran well," said Chief coach Jim Hayes. "I'm real proud of them. Switch a couple of places and you'd have a new winner."

"I have to give credit to Matt Boland. He's been our No. 7 guy, but with a couple of guys out he knew his place was important."

Boland came through, finishing 40th in 18:09. That helped Canton edge Plymouth Salem, 96 to 103. Dearborn placed third (104), with Walled Lake Western fourth (105), Novi fifth (110) and Farmington sixth (140).

Mike Ream led the Chiefs, placing 10th (17:09). Matt Hall was 12th (17:15), Brian Beach 13th (17:16) and Jim Gallagher 21st (17:36). Western's Brian Grasso was first overall in 15:26.52.

CANTON WASN'T quite up to the task of overtaking the state's fifth-ranked team, Dearborn Edsel Ford, in the girls portion of Monday's RU Invitational. Edsel Ford won with 62 points; the Chiefs, No. 8 in the state, were second with 81. Farmington was a distant third with 127.

"We wanted to see how we'd compare," said Canton coach George Przygodski. "They're good. We ran well, but not well enough."

Five Canton runners were among the top 22, led by Lori Penland in seventh (20:32). Kris Marquard was 14th (21:12), Lynda Schendel took 18th (21:20), Cindy Spessard finished 20th (21:30) and Cathy McCabe placed 22nd (21:35).

The overall winner was Edsel Ford's Meredith Saillant in 19:11.

Chiefs power past Pats

The inside game of Susan Ferko, Candi Jones and Jennie Clark was far too overpowering for Livonia Franklin Tuesday as Plymouth Canton coasted 69-33 in girls basketball.

The Chiefs improved to 9-1 overall and 4-0 in the Western Division. Franklin fell to 5-3 overall, 3-1 in the Western.

"We couldn't handle them inside," said Franklin coach Dan Freeman. "That killed us — their size. They move the ball well and find the open player."

Canton coach Rob Neu couldn't have agreed more.

"We had an exceptional night from our front line people," he said. "They created a lot of opportunities. They really did a nice job taking care of the ball inside, and they post pass as well as any team I've had."

basketball

Ferko finished with 20 points, Clark had 13 and Jones 10. Dawn Warner topped Franklin with 12.

The Patriots never had much of a chance. The scored just 14 first-half points, trailing 22-9 after one quarter and 42-14 at the half.

But it wasn't just Canton's inside offense that was impressive, according to Freeman.

"Along with Salem, they play the best man-to-man defense of anyone I've seen," he said. "They take you out of things you normally do."

Canton had a 32-20 rebounding edge and hit 49 percent (30-of-61) of its floor shots.

SALEM 72, FARMINGTON 19: Plymouth Salem thoroughly outclassed Farmington Tuesday on the Falcons' home court, never surrendering more than six points in a quarter.

Salem's record is 6-2 overall, 5-0 in the Lakes Division. Farmington dipped to 2-7 overall, 1-4 in the Lakes.

Jill Estey outscored Farmington herself, putting in 20 points. Teri King matched the Falcon total, scoring 19, and Sarah Ruete had 16. Erika Hatcher's six points topped Farmington.

Poor shooting ruined the Falcons. They hit just seven of 33 floor shots (13½ percent) and only five of 13 free throws (41 percent).

team proved anything Tuesday at Westland John Glenn, it was that a little inspiration can spread like a California brush fire.

And that's what carried the Raiders to a 68-57 triumph, ending a three-game losing streak against Glenn.

The player most responsible for North's intense play, most evident in its 27-18 fourth-quarter surge, was Donna O'Brien.

"Donna played inspired ball," Raider coach Greg Capling said, "which got the rest of the kids fired up."

That she did, O'Brien finished with 21 points (a career high) and 13 rebounds. Nine of her points came in the pivotal final quarter.

She got plenty of help. Eve Claar had 16 points and six steals, Kim Gurecki

girls basketball

netted 13 points and seven assists and Vikki Seamons tallied 10 points and 10 rebounds.

Sarah Morey and Janet Ternes scored 17 points apiece for Glenn. Christina Hoffman added 16.

What made the difference for North — besides O'Brien's leadership — was its teamwork.

"The kids know when we play together, as a team, we're going to win," Capling said. "(Glenn) kept pressing us in the fourth quarter, and we kept getting 3-on-2 or 3-on-1 breaks."

The 5-foot-6 Barnett went inside and outside to help hand the host Marlins.

The Raiders capitalized on most of those chances, which helps explain their 52 percent floor shooting (33-of-63).

North is now 6-3 overall and 2-2 in the Lakes Division. Glenn is also 2-2 in the Lakes, and is 3-3 overall.

LADYWOOD 48, MERCY 37: Yvonne Barnett tallied a game-high 20 points, propelling Livonia Ladywood past Farmington Hills Mercy Tuesday at Mercy.

their eighth defeat in nine games. Chris Laliberte and Sarah Adams each added eight points.

Ladywood is 5-3 overall and 2-1 in the Catholic League's Central Division.

Jenny Clinton and Joanne Stephens added 13 and 10 points, respectively, for Mercy.

Ladywood led 26-17 at intermission before Mercy cut the margin to 34-30 after three quarters. The Blazers then outscored their opponent 14-7 in the decisive fourth quarter.

"We executed better tonight, especially on offense in second quarter," said Ladywood first-year coach Ken Bechard. "We went to Yvonne in the low post. We got her open a lot on the weak side."

CHURCHILL 49, HARRISON 36:

Harrison looked better at Livonia Churchill Tuesday, but its record didn't reflect it as they lost for the ninth straight time.

"Harrison played real well," said Churchill coach Dave Van Wagoner. "I don't think I did a good job preparing my team for this basketball game."

The Hawks led 16-10 after one quarter, thanks to six Karen Najarian points. But Najarian managed just three more in the next three quarters to finish with a team-high nine. Darcy Pinali added eight.

The Chargers (4-5 overall) took control with a 14-3 second-quarter surge.

"I just think we started playing better," Van Wagoner said. "Our press became more effective."

Churchill was led by Lori Place with 14 points and seven assists and Joann Atkins with 13 points and seven rebounds.

S'craft squad doing fine despite its shortcomings

Just in case any doubts still lingered, please take note: This is not the same Schoolcraft College volleyball team that finished among the NJCAA's top five in two of the last three seasons. No, the personnel from those two top-caliber squads is gone.

The 1988 team is much shorter, less experienced — and better.

At least that's SC coach Tom Teeters' opinion. And since he coached the other two as well, his view has merit.

"This is my best team ever," Teeters said after the Lady Ocelots posted wins over NCAA Division II teams Hillsdale (15-8, 15-5, 4-15, 11-6) and Michigan Tech (12-15, 15-10, 15-8, 5-15, 15-7) Saturday at Hillsdale, then returned home to lash Oakland CC 15-4, 15-1, 15-11 Tuesday.

"It's the quickest and has the fastest attack and defense. It's also the shortest — our average height is 5-5 1/2."

WHATEVER HEIGHT disadvantages they face, the Lady Ocelots have learned to cope. Their win over Tech gave them a sweep against the two top teams in the highly regarded

volleyball

Great Lakes Conference. Two weeks ago, SC dumped Oakland University, the circuit's frontrunner.

Those impressive victories have earned SC a No. 4 ranking in the NJCAA poll. Defending champion San Jacinto (Texas) CC is No. 1.

In the victory over OCC — SC's 18th in 19 matches and third-straight in the Eastern Conference — hitting stars were Marla Evans (one of only three returnees) with five kills in 13 attacks with no errors and Kirstin Stelzer with seven kills in 11 attacks with three errors. Nikki Stubbs added three kills in three attacks with no errors.

Alisha Love served up seven aces in 23 attempts (two errors), and Laura Brown had two aces in 10 serves (no errors).

THE WIN at Hillsdale featured the strong hitting of Evans, Stubbs and Chris Paciero. Evans had 10 kills in 15 attacks with three errors (466 kill average). Stubbs finished with 16 kills in 31 attacks with four errors (.387) and Paciero contributed four kills in nine attacks with no errors (.444).

Paciero also had 21 assists in 51 sets with no errors, while Love served four aces in 21 attempts.

Teeters called the match against Tech "one of the best of the year. We're steadily improving."

The Lady Ocelots showed it with another solid attack. Paciero, a 5-4 outside hitter/setter, led in kill average with eight kills in 19 attacks and no errors (.444).

But there was much more. Like Stubbs, who totaled 22 kills in 46 attacks with six errors (.347); JoAnn Kolnits, 16 kills in 45 attacks with three errors (.288) and three service aces; and Sarah Heddie, two solo blocks, two block assists and two service aces.

SC hosts Henry Ford CC in an Eastern Conference match at 7 p.m. Thursday.

Ocelots retain lead

The outcome was everything Schoolcraft College mens soccer coach Van Dimitriou could hope for — well, almost.

The Ocelots did beat Cuyahoga Metro CC 2-0 Saturday at SC to maintain their hold on first place in Region 12. CMCC was rated as an outside threat for the region title, behind Macomb CC and SC.

And while the victory probably ended CMCC's championship hopes (2-1-1 in the region), it was still lacking something to Dimitriou.

"We had some golden (scoring) opportunities early," the Ocelot coach said, "and we didn't capitalize."

How many opportunities? The shots on goal pretty much summed it up: SC 15, CMCC 1.

"That gives an indication who was in control," Dimitriou noted.

Brian Thomas notched SC's first goal at the 20-minute mark, taking a Jason Potvin pass and putting it in the net from the 18-yard mark. The Ocelots' insurance marker came with 15 minutes remaining, with Todd Nichols and Thomas running a give-and-go play down the right side. Nichols finished it from six yards out — and with the goal, finished CMCC's hopes.

Pete Ritsema was instrumental in helping SC obtain its first league shutout this season. Ritsema played center midfield, stopper and forward — "He was all over the field," said Dimitriou. Defender Phil Neumaier was also outstanding. Chris Moore was in the net.

SC plays Saturday at 1 p.m. at Delta CC.

Marlins capture dual meet

Approaching the end of the dual-meet season, Farmington Mercy improved its overall record Monday to 3-1 with a 26-29 win over Livonia Ladywood at Cass Benton.

The Marlins, 2-1 in the Catholic League, finish the dual-meet season at 4:30 p.m. Monday against Harper Woods Regina at Cass Benton.

Ladywood's Maria Tandoc had the meet's best time, but Mercy runners claimed four of the next six positions.

Brigitte Dery had Mercy's best finish, clocking 21:50 for second place. Noelle Gates was third at 22:29.

Ladywood runners Danielle Dixon and Katie Farkas were fourth and fifth, respectively. Mercy's Sande Taylor (23:14) was sixth, followed by teammate Wendy Knight (23:15) in seventh and Carrie Goebel (23:38) in eighth.

COED VOLLEYBALL

A recreational coed volleyball league begins play Friday, Nov. 4, at West Middle School. The competition will last for 14 weeks and is limited to 16 teams.

The fee is $155 per team, plus $15 for each player who lives outside of the Plymouth-Canton School District. Returning teams can register through Wednesday, Oct. 12, and new teams from Thursday, Oct. 13, to Friday, Oct. 21.

Teams may register at the Canton Parks and Recreation Department or Plymouth Recreation Department. Call 397-5110 or 455-6620 for information.

FISHING DERBY

Canton Parks and Recreation Department is sponsoring its First Fishing Derby for Canton Township residents only Saturday, Oct. 22.

Boys and girls, age 15 and under, will fish the pond behind the Canton Township Administration Building for rainbow trout.

There will be six sessions, one every hour from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Participants should check-in 15 minutes before any of these times, but advance registration is required. Call 397-5110 to sign up.

Parents may assist their children, but no adults will be allowed to fish. Participants must supply their own gear and bait. First prize is a $100 savings bond for the largest fish caught.

SOCCER REGISTRATION

Canton Soccerdome is accepting team registrations for youth (boys and girls), adult (19-over and 30-over) and co-ed divisions.

Select, competitive and recreational classifications are available. The eight-game season costs $575. The season starts Saturday, Oct. 29.

Practice times are available beginning Monday, Oct. 24. For team and individual registration information, call 483-5624.

SOFTBALL TOURNEY

Canton Softball Center will sponsor its First Fall Tavern Tournament Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 15-16. The tournament is open to all tavern- and restaurant-sponsored teams.

The entry fee of $95 is due Thursday, Oct. 13. There will be men's and women's divisions. Call 483-5600 between noon and 8 p.m. to register.

Nicole Drake, as is nearly always the case, had the superior freestyle technique in the dual meet Tuesday. She won the 200- and 500-yard freestyle races in Farmington Mercy's pool. In the above photo, Drake is on her way to victory in the 200.

Marlin victory mars Chief record with 2:22.5 and 1:05.8 times.

AMY VAN BUHLER, the top diver in Observeland, scored 180.9 points to win that event, but that was Canton's only other first place. The Chiefs, however, had good swims from others, especially Kristy Brugar, who was runner-up in the IM and breaststroke.

"Brugar swam out of her mind," said Wellman, obviously impressed by her respective personal-best times of 2:26.56 and 1:16.5. "She's been doing that all year. She knows how important it is when we put her in that position, and she just goes nuts."

Four swimmers took one first place each for Mercy. Neyer won the 50 free (26.1), Liz DeMattia the butterfly (1:04.59), Wiquist the 100 free (58.6)

swimming

and Joan Huellmantel the breaststroke (1:13.18).

The Marlins also picked up substantial points in the relays with Katie Westhoff, Polly Tenuta, Katie Knipper and Huellmantel beginning the meet with a 200 medley victory (1:59.0).

A highlight for Mercy was diving, even though it earned just one point in that event. At least, the Marlins had some divers this time.

Mercy graduated Erica Campbell, who was seventh in the state, from last year's team, and the Marlins had to give points away in earlier meets with Birmingham Seaholm and Dearborn.

TEAM MEMBERS combed the Mercy hallways for prospective divers and found seven who were interested.

"The two who dove tonight (Leah Stutz and Amy Dombrowski) are freshmen with six years of gymnastics but no diving," McClune said.

"(One point) wasn't a big thing. But, in terms of morale, to the kids on the team, it brought them right up, having someone to cheer for instead of there being dead space during the diving time."

DEARBORN 43, MERCY 39: The Marlins dropped a close-scoring, non-league meet in the winner's pool on Thursday, Sept. 29.

Mercy's Becky Wiquist won the 200 freestyle (2:05.2), Liz DeMattia the butterfly (1:03.6) and Polly Tenuta the 500 freestyle (5:31.5).

The Marlins also were victorious in the freestyle relay, as Wiquist, Karen Neyer, Tenuta and Cindy Grush won that event.

Garden City AD headed for Hall

By Steve Kowalski
staff writer

Bill Pinnell, a longtime cross country and track coach at both Garden City and West High Schools, will be inducted into the Michigan High School Coaches Hall of Fame, Saturday, Nov. 26, at the Pontiac Silverdome.

The induction ceremonies begin at 3:30 p.m., between the Class A and

He was nominated in 1982 by Livonia Franklin athletic director George Lovich.

"Without a doubt, it was a surprise," Pinnell said. "I really do appreciate it (Lovich's nomination). I think every coach in the back of his mind, if he stays with it 25 years, hopes something like this will happen to him."

Pinnell began the boys cross country program at Garden City High School in 1957. He became the boys track coach at the school in 1962. When Garden City West opened in 1964, he was named athletic director where he continued his duties as both the boys cross country and track coach until the spring of 1982.

His boys track teams were 135-50 in 20 years. Pinnell also coached the girls track team at West from 1978 until 1982, winning 21 of 27 dual meets and three league crowns.

"From the time we started cross country at Garden City, we tried to keep continuity in the program," Pinnell said. "We had the regimen to have kids run in both the cross country and track and in the summer have them run 500 miles on their own to keep them interested."

PINNELL COMPILED a career dual-meet record of 169-25 in cross country, winning seven league titles.

Johnston lifts CC to victory

By Brad Emons and Steve Kowalski staff writers

Chris Johnston has become the chief cook and bottle washer for the Redford Catholic Central football team.

Johnston did a little of everything Saturday, leading the Shamrocks to their fifth straight win without a loss, a 23-7 triumph over Central Division foe Harper Woods Bishop Gallagher in a game played at Livonia Clarenceville.

The CC victory sets up another classic showdown Sunday against Birmingham Brother Rice, also unbeaten. The 44th annual Boys Bowl will be at 1:30 p.m. Sunday at Wisner Stadium in Pontiac.

Johnston, a two-way back, scored all three CC touchdowns and accounted for 174 all-purpose yards.

The senior opened the scoring on a 55-yard run on the second play from scrimmage. With 6:15 left in the same period, he caught a 17-yard TD pass from quarterback Scott Hancher, capping a 45-yard, seven-play drive.

CC led 16-0 at the half when Pete Elezovic booted a 28-yard field goal. A pass from Hancher to Sean O'Keefe set up the three-pointer with only two seconds left.

Johnston then opened the second half by intercepting a pass and returning it 27 yards. Elezovic added the extra point to make it 23-0.

Gallagher averted the shutout in the final minute when junior tailback Jesse Johnson, who rushed for 106 yards in 26 carries, scored on a 1-yard run.

Defensively, CC held the Lancers to 179 total yards as junior tackle Ryan Bell recorded six solo tackles and five assists, and strong safety Jim Gormley, seven solos and four assists. Defensive end Lou Yeager added a blocked punt and a fumble recovery.

CC had 185 yards total offense, 141 on the ground as senior fullback Lee Krueger led the Shamrocks in rushing with 67 yards in 13 carries.

ST. AGATHA 27, ST. MARY'S 8: Senior Matt Schick rushed for 129 yards in 29 carries and sophomore quarterback Brian Kutch figured in all four TDs Sunday at Redford St. Agatha won a C-Section game at Redford St. Mary's of Detroit.

The win gives the Aggies a 3-1 overall record. They are tied for first with Center Line St. Clement in the C-Section of the Catholic League's C-D Division at 2-0 each.

Agatha led 14-8 early in the second half when Kutch tossed a 36-yard TD pass to senior wide receiver Pat Cylkowski. The two also teamed up on a 5-yard TD pass. Kutch, who was five of eight for 82 yards, also added scoring runs of five and two yards.

Defensively, standouts for the Aggies were tackle Pat Wagner and end Mike Boyle.

Agatha outgained the Rustics (1-3, 0-2) in total yardage, 194-184.

While Schick led the Aggies, it was Brian Dubois pacing St. Mary's with ## football

over 100 yards rushing.

"Schick was just outstanding," said Agatha coach John Goddard. "The biggest thing with this team right now is that their attitude has been excellent. They're starting to believe in themselves."

Agatha returns to action Saturday night at Redford Union's Kraft Field to face 1-4 Waterford Our Lady of the Lakes, a 3-0 loser last week to Ann Arbor Gabriel Richard.

"Lakes is very young," said Goddard. "But Mike Boyd is one of the best coaches around. They'll be prepared. They battled Richard right down to the wire last week and should have won."

VESTABURG 23, LUTH. WESTLAND 26: Trailing 14-8 entering the fourth quarter, Vestaburg rallied with 15 points to win the non-conference game played Saturday at Lutheran Westland.

Both Vestaburg and Westland have identical 2-3 records.

Quarterback Chad Palmer and running back Steve Lott connected on scoring passes of 8 and 11 yards for Vestaburg. Vestaburg's Rob Haines rushed for 139 yards and a touchdown in 24 carries.

Lutheran Westland built a 14-8 halftime lead, scoring on a 1-yard run by Ed Heika and a 2-yard pass from Steve Aumann to sophomore David Gielow. Mike Hardies caught a 19-yard pass from Aumann in the fourth quarter for Westland's final points.

Westland was held to 78 yards rushing and 72 yards in the air.

ALLEN PARK 34, THURSTON 0: On Saturday, host Redford Thurston let Tri-River League opponent Allen Park pull away in the second half for the easy win.

The Jaguars improved to 3-2 overall, 3-1 in the Tri-River. Thurston remained winless in five games, including four played in the Tri-River.

Thurston trailed 6-0 at halftime, and before the second-half was a minute old, found itself down 14-0 after an 87-yard kick-off return by John Duda.

Duda scored two other times for Allen Park, returning a punt for 84 yards and racing 43 yards for a third score.

Thurston played without starting inside linebacker Steve Koss, who sprained an ankle in practice.

Allen Park shut down Thurston's passing game, allowing just 16 net yards and Thurston managed 124 yards on the ground. Jesse Weiker led the Eagles rushing attack with 40 yards in 20 carries, and Tim Wojcik carried seven times for 37 yards.

NOTRE DAME 31, BISHOP BORGESS 0: In a Central Division game played Saturday, Harper Woods Notre Dame (2-3, 1-1) blanked visiting Redford Bishop Borgess (1-4, 0-3) as Desjuan Reynolds paced the Irish with 103 yards rushing, including a 63-yard TD run in the third quarter.

Borgess, playing without starting fullback Mario Araquill (out with an injury), was held to just four first downs.

Jeff Miller and Dominic LaRocca each added 1-yard scoring runs for the winners, while Jeff Dixon connected on an 18-yard TD pass from John Springer.

Salem, CC in big games

By Dan O'Meara and Brad Emons staff writers

A DIVISION TITLE will be on the line in two key games involving Observerland football teams this week.

The process of determining the Western Lakes Activities Association's Lakes Division winner continues Friday night when unbeaten Westland John Glenn visits once-beaten Plymouth Salem.

It will be homecoming for the host Rocks, who need a victory to avoid elimination and keep alive their hopes of a tri-championship. A successful effort by the visiting Rockets would set up a dramatic showdown with North Farmington on the final Friday of division play.

In the Catholic League's Central Division, traditional rivals and perennial powers Redford Catholic Central and Birmingham Brother Rice do battle Sunday.

Much will be at stake when these teams — both 2-0 in the division and 5-0 overall — meet at 1:30 p.m. in Pontiac's Wisner Stadium. Rice is ranked No. 2 in the state, the Shamrocks No. 4.

CC and the Warriors also entertain serious playoff aspirations. Both could end up in postseason play as they did last year, but trying to qualify with a loss on the record is risky business.

The Shamrocks, runners-up in Class A last year, beat Rice 10-7 in double overtime during the regular season and again in a semifinal playoff game, 14-9. In fact, CC has won the last four meetings.

In other Friday encounters, Livonia Clarenceville and Bloomfield Hills Cranbrook square off in a key Metro Conference game, and Northwest Suburban League members Garden City and Redford Union collide at RU.

As for the prognosticators, Emons and O'Meara were 12-3 last week. Through five weeks of the season, O'Meara is 58-16 and Emons 53-21.

grid predictions

FRIDAY'S GAMES (all 7:30 p.m. unless noted)

Cranbrook at Clarenceville: Each team needs a win to stay in the race and remain within reach of league-leading Avondale, which has already beaten the Cranes. Cranbrook is 3-1 in the league and 4-1 overall, the Trojans 2-2 and 3-2. PICKS — Clarenceville is just as hot a team as the Cranes at this point, winning their last two games. O'Meara has had the most trouble trying to figure out the Trojans, whom he picked to lose the last two weeks. He's reluctant to do so again. Emons, who had had better luck with Clarenceville games, likes Cranbrook this week.

Thurston at Crestwood: The host Chargers are one of the Tri-River League leaders at 3-1, and they've lost only one game to date. Thurston is in last place and still searching for its first win. PICKS — Victory is to the Eagles what the butterfly of love was to '60s singer Bob Lind — elusive.

Garden City at Redford Union: Observerland's two representatives in the NSL collide this week, and it appears the field is tilted in favor of the host Panthers. Besides having the better record at 3-2 overall — the Cougars are 1-4 — RU has to be full of confidence after winning that 42-37 shootout at Jackson last week. PICKS — Joe Delfgaauw has another big day for the Panthers.

Wayne at Belleville: The Zebras have experienced their share of heartbreak, losing by a point to Monroe and a TD to Fordson and Lincoln Park. Wayne's 2-3 record belies the fact the Zebras are a good football team. The Tigers, 1-4 overall, are languishing at the bottom of the Wolverine A. PICKS — Wayne has plenty to cheer about this week.

Weld. John Glenn at Ply. Salem: Expect another bruising, low-scoring game this week between these Lakes contenders. Both teams emphasize defense, and it is defense that will determine this game. Salem can't afford a loss, but Glenn would still have the North game to right itself and create another three-way tie. On the other hand, if the Rockets win, it sets up a dramatic, winner-take-all showdown for the division title next week. PICKS — Glenn squeaks by.

Farmington at Liv. Stevenson: The winless Falcons have lost five straight, the Spartans four. One streak will end this week. Stevenson, which still hasn't recovered from its injury problems, has played all three Lakes contenders in successive weeks. Farmington scored its first TD in losing 22-7 to Walled Lake Central last Friday. PICKS — Stevenson gets well this week, if only on the scoreboard.

Liv. Churchill vs. W.L. Western at W.L. Central: Both teams are 1-2 in the Western Division, so they will be jockeying for position as the league season winds down. Both teams had tough non-league openers; both beat Canton in division play. PICKS — That yellow school bus will feel like a Cadillac to the happy Chargers following a win.

SATURDAY'S GAMES (all 1 p.m. unless noted)

Northville at Liv. Franklin: The Patriots, 2-1 and 3-2, are the only other team in the Western Division beside Harrison with a winning record. Franklin is shaping up as the next-best team in that loop and could take another step toward locking up second place. Northville has been somewhat of a disappointment but could surprise the Mustangs last week. PICKS — O'Meara says Franklin keeps rolling toward runner-up honors, but Emons is betting on a Northville victory.

Ply. Canton at Farm. Harrison: Unfortunately for the Chiefs, bad news follows on the heels of good. Canton registered its first win last week, and the Chiefs deserve applause for beating a good Northville team. That was the good. The bad news is Canton's next challenge is the No. 1-ranked team in Class B, undefeated Harrison, 5-0. PICKS — The Hawks need to win two games and guard against overconfidence to retain the Western Division title.

W.L. Central at N. Farmington: North chalked up a big victory last week when it beat Salem 13-7. Now the Raiders, playing the 1-4 Vikings, can catch their breath before attempting to clinch the division title next Friday at John Glenn. North coach Jim O'Leary said his team won't be looking past Central, however. PICKS — Overconfidence won't be a problem for the Raiders, who roll to their sixth straight win.

Lutheran Westland at St. Hedwig, 2 p.m.: Lutheran, 2-3, will have its hands full trying to contain St. Hedwig's Mike Stritzinger, who has rushed for 835 yards and nine TDs in five games. That kind of offense has carried the host team to a 4-1 record. PICKS — Westland gets crowned by the Knights.

Bishop Borgess vs. Bishop Gallagher, 7:30 p.m., at East Detroit Memorial Field: The Spartans are 0-2 in the Central Division and 1-4 overall, the Lancers 1-1 and 2-3. Both teams are coming off losses, but it was CC that beat up on Gallagher while Borgess was trounced by Notre Dame, 31-0. PICKS — O'Meara strayed from his roots when he picked against the Fighting Irish last week, but he can make up for that by taking Gallagher this week. Emons says that logic makes sense to him.

St. Agatha vs. Waterford Our Lady, 7:30 p.m., at RU's Kraft Field: The Aggies are 2-0 in the Catholic League's C-Section and could be thinking of a possible Silverdome appearance later this month. A victory this week over the 1-4 Lakes would put them closer to that goal. PICKS — Our Lady has produced some fine Class D teams, but that's in the past as far as this game goes.

SUNDAY'S GAME (1:30 p.m. at Pontiac Wisner Stadium)

Catholic Central vs. Brother Rice: Less than a TD usually separates these two rivals, and is the 44th annual Boys Bowl likely to be any different? Here's how evenly they stack up: CC averages 22 points per game, Rice 22½; CC allows six points per game, Rice 4½. The Warriors and Shamrocks have been the Boys Bowl participants since 1966, and Rice lead the series 14-12-1. But the Warriors haven't beaten CC since 1984. Coach Tom Mach is 8-6 against Rice's Al Faccasa. PICKS — It ends up being another squeaker, but O'Meara believes the Warriors are due. Emons says CC still has some good fortune remaining in its lucky Shamrock.

Steelers post 2 wins

The Plymouth-Canton Steelers won two of the three games Sunday in the Junior Football League.

The varsity team, coached by Jim Johnston and Ron Krueger, remained undefeated at 4-0, routing Ann Arbor West 26-7.

The freshman team kept pace with the varsity's success, winning 24-13 over West, and improving to 4-0. The junior varsity slipped to 2-2, falling to West, 6-0.

Jason Krueger scored twice, and Joe Herman and Rob McKinnon added one touchdown each for the varsity.

Krueger's TD run from 5 yards out opened the scoring. Herman's 14-yard run and two-point conversion gave the varsity a 14-0 lead. The final scores came from McKinnon (2 yards) and Krueger (29 yards).

Freshman players rushing for TDs were Randy Mack (7 yards), Mike Turri (3), Shaun Dyer (3) and Mike Brannan (47).

Rocks fall in rankings

Plymouth Salem dropped from the list of top 10 teams in Class A Region II playoff point rankings after losing to North Farmington, 13-7 in overtime, last Saturday.

The Rocks, 4-1, can get back in the picture by beating Westland John Glenn Friday night at Salem. The Rockets, 5-0, are fifth in Region III with an 88-point average.

Glenn trails Birmingham Brother Rice (102.4), North (94.4), Birmingham Seaholm (92.8) and Redford Catholic Central (89.6). The top four in each region qualify for the playoffs.

Farmington Harrison, 5-0, continues to lead Class B Region IV with a 94.4 rating. The Hawks will be host to Plymouth Canton on Saturday.

Spartans spank crosstown team

Livonia Stevenson stayed undefeated in boys soccer Monday, defeating host Livonia Franklin, 5-1, in Western Lakes Activities Association action.

The Spartans are 7-0-1 overall and the Patriots stumbled to 2-5-2.

Pete Galea scored twice for Stevenson. Galea's first goal gave the Spartans a 1-0 halftime lead.

Shane Miller and Kurt Will (penalty kick) notched one goal each for Stevenson and the other Spartans goal went in off a Franklin player. Craig Overaigis, recently brought up from the junior varsity, scored Franklin's lone goal, which made the score 3-1.

Eric Schwedt, Aaron Brown and Marc Strayer each contributed an assist for Stevenson.

The Spartans outshot the Patriots, 39-6, as Brad Burgess and Tim Duggan shared time in goal for Franklin.

"This was probably the worst we've played," Franklin coach Frantz LaMarre said. "We gave them too much credit. I think some of my players expected to lose before the game even started. When you play like that, you always pay the price."

RICE 4, REDFORD CC 3: Mark Ross scored the game-winner with only two minutes left Tuesday, giving host Birmingham Brother Rice the Central Division victory over Redford Catholic Central.

LaMar Peters tallied a pair of goals for Rice, now 6-1 in the Catholic League and 11-2 overall.

CC, which slipped to 2-3-1 in the division and 6-4-1 overall, enjoyed a 3-2 lead with 14 minutes to play on Steve McCaul's second goal of the game on a pass from Joe Nora.

But Rice's Pete Duggan tied it up on a rebound shot, setting the stage for Ross's heroics.

soccer

CC led 2-1 at halftime on penalty kick by Dana Orsucci at the 15-minute mark and a free kick by McCaul at the 30-minute mark (Orsucci assisted).

CC outshot the Warriors 11-8 in the first half, but the tide turned in the final 40 minutes as Rice collected 10 shots to the Shamrocks' two.

CHURCHILL 9, W.L. CENTRAL 1: In a Western Lakes Activities Association game played Monday, Darin Bodin scored the hat trick as Livonia Churchill (6-1-1) breezed to victory at Walled Lake Central.

The Chargers roared out to a 4-0 halftime lead and never looked back.

Other Churchill goal scorers included Chad Campau, Brady Ericson, Paul Kaliszewski, James Shryock, Phil Todino and Khaled Zeidan.

Zeidan and Gentile each added two assists.

DEARBORN 4, REDFORD UNION 1: The efforts of Brian MacDonald, who scored on a corner kick, along with senior captain Erik Coulter were not enough Monday as the visiting Panthers fell to 3-5-1 overall.

Host Dearborn jumped out to a 3-0 halftime advantage and cruised home for the Northwest Suburban League victory.

RU dropped to 2-3 in NSL play.

Hawks still rate in Class B

YOU WON'T FIND Farmington Harrison playing for the Western Lakes Activities Association boys soccer title later this month.

But the Class B state championship? That's a different matter.

It may seem contradictory that the Hawks, who have no chance in their own league, would be a contender for a bigger prize.

Harrison, despite a 4-6-1 record, is rated No. 5 in the latest statewide coaches poll. But, as paradoxical as it might appear, this is not without precedent.

We need only refer to the 1987 season when the Hawks, who finished as an also-ran in the rugged WLAA, were a Final Four team in Class B.

No doubt this year's high rating is based, to some extent, on that performance and the knowledge the Hawks compete against the best throughout the regular season.

"I THINK A lot of it is," Harrison coach Glenn Bruehan said. "People have been saying we have a pretty good Class B team."

"I don't think we're quite as good as last year, because we have more experienced players. Our seniors have been keeping us in there."

Two of those seniors are Thierry

Dan O'Meara

Bersot and Todd Whittemore, both holdovers from the team that went 5-5-1 in the WLAA and 12-6-2 overall. They expressed surprise at being ranked in the top 10 but can understand why they're there.

Like coaches around the state, they realize Harrison is the lone 'B' school in a Class A league, one that is undoubtedly the toughest in the state when it comes to soccer. The WLAA includes the Nos. 1 and 2 teams in Class A, Livonia Stevenson and Plymouth Salem.

"We've been playing a lot of 'A' teams, and that's going to prepare us for the 'B' tournament," Bersot said. "When we start playing 'B' teams, we'll be ready for them."

"If we work hard from here on, we should be ready by the time districts come around," Whittemore said.

BESIDES HAVING a lesser record, the Hawks are without three outstanding players who dominated the '87 team — former goalkeeper Gary Wegner, forward Craig Bailey and sweeper Peter Van Vliet, whose position Whittemore has taken over.

"Record-wise, with a few breaks, we would have been right where we were last year," Bruehan said. "I think we had all the breaks last year."

That fine line between the last and the present Harrison teams includes a pair of last-minute, 1-0 losses to Dearborn and Walled Lake Western.

The Dearborn game, in which the deciding goal was scored with 19 seconds remaining, may be the best gauge for the '88 ballclub. The Pioneers are rated No. 4 in the state, one spot ahead of the Hawks, who beat Dearborn 1-0 a year ago.

In the district tournament last year, Harrison beat three teams that had far superior records, a re-fection of the differences in regular-season competition.

Two of those vanquished foes, Ortonville-Brandon and Madison Heights Bishop Foley, are rated No. 2 and 3, respectively.

THE TEAM THAT handed the Hawks a semifinal loss on a cold, rainy night in Oxford last November, East Grand Rapids, is ranked sixth, and the defending state champion, Mount Clemens Lutheran North, eighth.

"We're playing much better, so I'm hoping we peak out for the districts," Bruehan said.

The Hawks still have enough veterans, which includes eight seniors, to pull it off. Ed Dayngel, a midfielder and tri-captain along with Bersot and Whittemore, is one.

Bruehan added that Whittemore has done an exceptional job of filling Van Vliet's shoes and has solidified the defense, which includes senior Chris Yoerg, sophomore Jay Boger and freshman Ben Pinsky.

Bruehan hopes his younger players will be experienced enough by the time district play starts the week of Monday, Oct. 24, to mesh with the veterans and make possible another impressive tournament run.

City rivals settle for 1-1 draw

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

An indecisive outcome — a euphemism for a tie — is always such a semimuddled, mixed-feeling affair.

Being that there's no clear winner and loser, each team can point to certain positives to soften the reality of its shortcomings.

Such was the case Monday when Farmington Harrison and North Farmington battled to a 1-1 draw in their 1988 soccer meeting.

The host Hawks could point to a defensive effort that stood its ground time and again, but they had to wonder where the offense had gone.

North had in its favor a relentless attack that, at least, prevented defeat; however, the Raiders might have asked what a full game played with that kind of offensive pressure would have produced.

THE RAIDERS, 0-6-3, dominated the second half like no team has, but the defense was nothing short of terrific for Harrison, 4-6-1.

Besides goalkeeper Grant Hubbard, the Hawks got big plays from Chris Yoerg and Matt Rippen, both on clearing kicks in front of the goal, and Jay Boger, who used his body to make another save.

"We were lucky to get away with one," Harrison sweeper Todd Whittemore said.

It was on an indirect kick resulting from a penalty that the Raiders eventually tied the score.

soccer

Tim McMinn angled the pass around his blockers and into the corner of the net with 14:59 left in the game.

"We went to the ball (in the second half)," said North coach Jim Duggan, comparing his team's play in the two halves. "That was a major difference, and we passed the ball to our own team."

"We didn't come to play in the first half and it cost us. The first half was the worst we've played all year."

THE RAIDERS had chances early in the game but didn't take advantage of the numerous times they had the ball in front of Harrison's net.

The play eventually shifted in favor of the Hawks, who led 1-0 at halftime on Rippen's goal at 4:55. Ben Pinsky fired a shot from the left side, which North goalie Roger Johnson stopped. But Rippen responded quickly with a rebound shot to the right, and Johnson was unable to get back in time.

Johnson was a lonesome player in the second half, however. The action stayed within the Harrison 20-yard line 90 percent of the time. Johnson didn't have to make a save in the first 32½ minutes. "He played well in the first half," Duggan said. "(The Hawks) could have scored a couple more when we played terribly. But that's true; we didn't need him in the second half."

After the Hawks held the first-half advantage in terms of pressing the attack, the offense all but disappeared in the last 40 minutes.

"We weren't as aggressive as we should have been," Harrison senior Thierry Bersot said. "We were just kicking the ball up and not making the sure pass."

HARRISON COACH Glenn Bruehan couldn't have been more satisfied with his team's Herculean effort on defense, even if the Raiders did get the tying goal.

"The indirect kick is a hard play to defend, because you have to give them 10 yards," he said. "It was a perfect play they scored on. If (McMinn) had hesitated at all, our man would have been on the ball."

Conversely, Harrison's lack of offense was all too obvious to Bruehan, who has taken steps to prevent such lapses by moving Bersot, the team's top offensive threat, from forward to midfielder.

"We've had a hard time finishing," he said. "We've relied on Bersot a lot."

"When he's up front, (the other players) go for the long ball and try to get it up there to Thierry, and I don't want them to rely on that. I want to get more players into the offense."

Western applies brakes to Salem soccer streak

Walled Lake Western, traditionally a doormat among Western Lakes soccer teams, stunned Plymouth Salem when it forced the Rocks into a 2-2 draw Monday at Salem.

"This league is funny this year," said Salem coach Ken Johnson after his team had its streak of five consecutive shutout victories ended. "We had trouble scoring."

Despite having 22 shots on goal to Western's six, the Rocks had to come from behind each time to stay even with the Warriors, 2-4-2 in the WLAA and 2-6-3 overall.

Salem, rated No. 2 in Class A, is 6-0-1 against league teams and 9-2-1 overall.

Tony Adler gave Western a 1-0 lead six minutes into the game, capitalizing on a Salem defensive mistake when the Rocks failed to properly control and clear the ball.

Matt Gold pulled Salem even at halftime, but the Warriors again took the lead in the 70th minute. Donovan Nichols' ninth goal of the season enabled the Rocks to tie. Billy Joker and Marc Lipke assisted on the Salem goals.

The tie doesn't directly affect Salem's situation in the Lakes Division since it was a crossover game and only division games count.

Robust senior trains for rowing tournament

By Carolyn Dellorco
staff writer

Emil Nielsen has rekindled an old passion, one that goes back to his youth in Svendborg, Denmark.

At 87 years of age, Nielsen has rediscovered rowing. And if the octogenarian let 60 years pass before taking up the oars again, not to worry.

The robust Nielsen looks and feels decades younger than his chronological age. "He didn't have to get back into shape," says his coach, Jack LeBlanc. "He never got out of shape."

Nielsen left Denmark at the age of 22 and settled in Detroit. A scalemaker and locksmith in the old country, he was a self-employed pipefitter until his retirement in 1967.

In Denmark he left behind two loves — his family of nine brothers and sisters and rowing. There he was a member of Svendborg Roklub, a community rowing club.

A year ago he resumed rowing after a chance meeting of LeBlanc at a social event. LeBlanc is a coach of the St. Mary's Preparatory school rowing team. When Nielsen learned there were rowers in the area, he was ecstatic. "I wish I would've found them 10 years ago," Nielsen said.

TODAY HE'S TRAINING under LeBlanc on Sylvan Lake three times a week for the September 1989 World's Veteran Club Tournament in Copenhagen in the 80 years and up category. The two have become fast friends.

"In the U.S. there's no one his age to row against," LeBlanc said, "but over there all they've got is water." LeBlanc, who competes in national and international events, said he knows of no one Nielsen's age competing in the U.S.

The equipment may have changed in 65 years but the technique has remained the same and Nielsen has lost none of it.

"He doesn't do much wrong," LeBlanc said. And the enthusiasm of his youth is still there. "Last time out he didn't want to come in. If my kids had his enthusiasm, they'd be champions," LeBlanc said. "He doesn't let cobwebs form on his backside."

While Nielsen gave up rowing on the water in the '20s, the rowing machine was always in use. He now has two, one in the basement and one in the spare room of his Sylvan Lake home. Nielsen has lived alone since the death of his wife in 1975. A son, now retired, lives in Ann Arbor. A daughter lives in Illinois.

The modest home also shows the products of Nielsen's other hobbies. An old wooden rowing scull from the '50s is being refinished in the basement. A stained-glass workshop occupies the dining room and another workbench for assorted projects crowds the kitchen.

"IF MY WIFE were alive, she'd kill me," Nielsen said.

The walls of each room are lined with professional-looking stained glass, needlepoint and oil paintings, all done by Nielsen since his retirement. He plans to exhibit Tiffanystyle lamps in a local show in November. Steel sculptures here and there and a copper Viking ship over the fireplace and utensils in front of it are also Nielsen's handiwork. All hobbies have been self-taught.

"If you let your hands go, the whole body goes," he's fond of saying. Books on art, nature and a variety of other subjects are stacked in corners. Deer antlers and golf trophies attest to other hobbies, although Nielsen admits an operation to remove spurs from his spine may have affected his golf game just a little.

He still golfs occasionally with his girlfriend, Shirley Sorensen of Novi, an attractive woman in her '70s. "You better say she's much younger," Nielsen said. "I tell her, 'Be good to this old man.'"

THE TWO HAVE known each other since 1925 when Nielsen and Sorensen's husband played on the same soccer team. Sorensen also lost her spouse in 1975. The pair belong to the same church and often dine and vacation together. They visited

$100,000 Artist wins National Parks award

By Corinne Abatt
staff writer

RITA MACH SKOCZEN, Rochester Hills painter, said she was "in total shock" when she heard her name called at a banquet at Jackson Lake Lodge (Wyo.) last month.

She had won the $100,000 grand prize in the Art for the Parks competition. Her painting was chosen from a field of 2,650 from all parts of the country as the best in depicting the essence and diversity of the National Park System.

"I didn't know anything when we (she and her husband, Gene) went there. It was totally a secret. All I knew was that I was one of a hundred finalists," she said, adding that she considered herself very fortunate to have made it that far. "I really thought the winner would be a park-type situation."

HER ACRYLIC painting, "Remembrance," showing a section of the Vietnam War Memorial with a single rose laid across it, is a decided departure from the expected herd of moose, single bald eagle soaring or big horned sheep against a mountain skyline. However, all of the judges said the impact of Skoczen's painting was overwhelming.

"I went to see the Memorial in Washington, D.C., three years ago," she said. "I was very interested in seeing it. Being a traditionalist, I wasn't sure I'd like it, but it had such an impact on me that I knew I was going to do something on it. I think it's the greatest memorial ever built."

Skoczen said she had several ideas for paintings, and threw all but the simplest out, sensing immediately that it was the one she must use.

"SELF-DETERMINED AND self-taught," Skoczen describes herself as "a very determined artist," more so possibly because her mother didn't believe in art education, so she only managed to study art for about a year and a half. Art has been an important part of her life since she was a child.

Skoczen, a realist, is perhaps best known in this area for her portraits, several of which were in a show at the Paint Creek Art Center earlier this year.

Her versatility, however, showed up when her painting of flowers won first prize in the 1985 Arts and Flowers competition at the Detroit Institute of Arts. She is a member of the Birmingham Society of Women Painters and is often

Skoczen hasn't given much thought to what she will do with the money, she said. Right now she is enjoying the wonder and excitement of being a winner in the first national competition she ever entered.

This Arts for the Parks contest, now in its second year, is the largest representational art contest in the world. The contest and the art works generated from the contest raise money for the maintenance and preservational of national parks.

Last year's winner was Richard Schmid of Evanston, Ill., whose painting was titled, "Mountain Stream."

Fanciful imagery to savor

By Corinne Abatt
staff writer

Ida Kohmeyer's art will make you smile. Guaranteed. Not a flat, complacent, bored smile, but one that starts from within and makes your whole face just kind of . . . relax.

Now in her early 70s, Kohmeyer is a veritable institution in her hometown of New Orleans. But her art travels far beyond that — to museums such as the Metropolitan Museum of Art, galleries, major corporate collections and just now to Robert Kidd Gallery of Birmingham.

"I've been trying to get her to have a show here for four or five years," said Ray Fleming, director, "but she never had any work available. Then, a while back when I talked to her, she said, 'Well, I do have seven paintings,' and I said, 'That's all I need.'"

The show of these plus some sculptures that are really an extension of her acrylics on canvas opens at Kidd Gallery tomorrow with a reception from 6-8 p.m., open to the public.

And while the attractive artist — who Fleming said sounds like a 30-year-old on the phone — may spend a great part of her non-painting time in her rose garden, she's far from your average garden-variety painter. She has a highly individual vision that allows her to refine symbols, ideas and concepts into an almost childlike expression.

IMAGES SEEM to float on her canvasses like those things that appear when you awaken from a quick, sound sleep — jagged arrows, pink and blue clouds, triangles with receding centers, vortexes and vaguely familiar outlines.

She has an alphabet of shapes and symbols that she keeps modifying and reusing. What could be a strawberry is roughly square in one painting, and may be rounded off in the next or elongated in still another.

Where a decade or so back she slotted each image into a place in a grid formation, these days she lets them float without structural confines, although they still seem to know their place. But they are far more free to arrange and rearrange themselves like organisms on a slide under a microscope.

Whether it is the influence of the colors of the roses in her garden or an inborn sense of color, Kohmeyer mixes rich, sensual backgrounds on which to place her cast of innate characters.

WHILE SHE grew up in affluent surroundings and excelled in just about everything she tried at Newcomb College, she wasn't content to remain a dilettante for long.

While raising a family, she completed her master's in art at Tulane and later went to Provincetown, Mass., to study with Hans Hofmann. She came under Mark Rothko's spell when he came to Newcomb in the late '50s.

In 1962 she was invited to do a sculpture for the New Orleans Central Business District. The result, "The Krewe of Poydras," five brightly painted, welded-steel sculptures, has given a new dimension and strong identification to the entire area.

Her paintings and sculpture will continue at Kidd Gallery through Nov. 5. Hours are 10:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday.

Texas soprano surprised to be in 'Baby Doe'

By Mary Jane Doerr
special writer

When soprano Cheryl Parrish sang Sophie in "Der Rosenkavalier" with Dame Kiri Te Kanawa at the San Francisco Opera in 1985, her manager called to ask her to sing with Luciano Pavarotti in a special "Live from Lincoln Center" broadcast.

"I thought he was joking," she said at the Michigan Opera Theatre's Detroit offices. "I think it was then that my parents finally caught on — maybe I was serious about this."

Parrish is in town for rehearsals of "Ballad of Baby Doe," which opens at the Fisher Theatre Friday.

HER CASUAL manner contrasts with her meticulous appearance. Fresh from doing "Naughty Marietta" in New York this month, she is now completely absorbed in this role, one she has never sung.

"I can't believe they really hired me to sing this thing," she said in a soft Texas drawl.

The stylish and thin Parrish has short, brownish blond hair. She plays the role of Elizabeth McCourt Tabor (Baby Doe), who was, by 19th century Colorado terms, a ravishing beauty.

"She wasn't beautiful by today's standards," said Parrish, who has been reading the firsthand accounts about Baby Doe. "She was reddish blond and very chunky with mystical blue eyes that penetrated everyone she looked at."

THE SCANDALOUS, turn-of-the-century story of Baby Doe and her lover/husband Horace Tabor is a legend out of the real West. It is told by American composer Douglas Moore in this opera, which premiered in Central City, the site of Baby Doe's first mine.

When her husband, Harvey Doe, left her by jumping a train, Baby Doe was forced to make her own way and went to Leadville, where she met Tabor. The opera picks up the action at this point and takes the story on through Tabor's death.

"When the opera premiered in 1958, there were rumors that Baby Doe's daughter, Elizabeth, showed up at the opera incognito," Parrish said. "But no one knows for sure."

TABOR SHOCKED Denver and Washington society when he divorced his wife, Augusta, and married Baby Doe. Their fortune lasted until the economic collapse of 1893.

William Jennings Bryan took up the cause of the Colorado silver miners, the issue of free coinage of silver, in his "Cross of Gold" speech in 1896, but lost the election. With his defeat, Tabor's wealth ended.

"In the opera, Baby Doe is frightened to have Tabor walk the streets of Leadville," Parrish said. "He was worth $53 million at the time of the opera. She was afraid he would be killed by one of the miners. In Leadville they had random shootings."

The authenticity of the opera's story also is shown by the reference to the Cornish people, who were brought to mining camps all over America for their skill in mapping mines.

"BABY DOE'S family was also wealthy, but had been wiped out twice by fire," Parrish said. "They were Irish immigrants who settled in Oshkosh, Wis. She married the son of the town's mayor who gave them the Colorado mine for a wedding gift. At 23, she was pregnant and yet she worked the Central City mine."

Baby Doe's life ended in tragedy. She was never able to get support to start up the Matchless Mine in Leadville after Tabor's death. She lived in abject poverty there and froze to death in 1935.

"This is the story of what happens when two underdogs get together," Parrish said. "But Baby Doe is not a spineless woman. Even though she was always the object of scorn she remained true to her husband's memory to the end of her life."

THE ROLE of Baby Doe is challenging in acting and vocal prowess. It features five exquisite soprano arias — the Willow, the Letter and the Silver arias, a duet with her mother, and a final aria, "Always through the Changing."

"The arias are written in the upper ranges, up to a high D, and Moore keeps you up there," Parrish said.

In July 1986, Opera News cited Parrish as one artist to "keep your eye on." The daughter of a Baptist minister who once toured the world with a rock gospel group, she is too absorbed by the Baby Doe story even to mention it.

"I wonder if I could get out to Colorado this year to visit the Tabor Opera House or the Matchless Mine," she said. "How deep is the snow out there in December?"

The houses that Lilliput built

By Sherry Kahan
special writer

Even though it is less than three inches tall, the small house calls out for attention. It is a replica of a home in England once lived in by the creator of Peter Rabbit, Flopsy, Mopsy, Cottontail and a host of other names of field and forest.

When she settled down in England's Lake District, Beatrix Potter picked an old house made of local stone and slate in which to write and illustrate her popular children's books.

When a British firm called Lilliput Lane began to make miniatures of old English dwellings, it settled on the Potter home as one of its collectors' items. Along with its many other buildings, Lilliput has come up with one of the more popular collectibles today.

The company has also begun to turn out a collection of German structures of the past and is contemplating the production of replicas of American buildings.

A REPRESENTATIVE of this thriving industry recently paid a visit to Georgia's Gift Gallery in Plymouth to talk about these miniatures.

President of the American outpost of Lilliput, Roger Fitness, worked with fine bone china and glass before joining Lilliput after its founding in 1982.

He picked up a replica of a German rathaus (city hall), and examined it. Much larger than the Potter home, it was notable for its red tile roof. These tiles were so small that they must have been made by someone with the hands of a surgeon and the eyes of a hawk.

"Every one of these tiny red tiles was cut by hand and then placed on the roof, one by one, by an artist using an instrument similar to the pick favored by dentists," said Fitness in an accent splendidly British. "It takes weeks for the artist to tile one of these roofs. Some have over 10,000 tiles."

Fitness knows that the popularity of these miniatures is due to the extraordinary detail with which the models are made. For example, each of the five front windows of the Beatrix Potter home has 12 miniscule panes of what looks like glass. The quarter-inch doors of a shed at the side of the house have wee latches.

A HOME IN YORK has leaded and mullioned windows that brought plenty of light inside for the spinners who worked in the house. A cottage found in the Lakeland countryside is whitewashed and has a wavy roof of heavy split stone, and a small Victorian dwelling in Westmorland added a conservatory at the side. A bright red Virginia creeper grows outside. In fact, most of the Lilliput buildings are surrounded with foliage.

Lilliput's collection of old homes, cottages, inns, pubs, churches, restaurants, mills and shops offer a useful study of the architecture as well as the building methods and styles of the British past.

The miniatures are constructed of material developed by artist David Tate, founder of the company. Made of amorphite, it consists of especially hard gypsum rock. It is breakable but less so than china because it is a hard, dense material.

What may be the best job in the company is the one that takes an employee and sometimes the president himself to byways and back country roads of Great Britain to look for buildings with the kind of charm that will attract collectors.

"They are often found in narrow lanes, or tucked in a corner somewhere," said Fitness, who has done some searching himself. "Usually they are beautifully maintained by owners, who are proud of owning a home that is hundreds of years old. Often the gardens are immaculate."

"The company asks permission to add the house to its collection, but it doesn't pay them. They are happy to have the piece done. But they don't want us to tell where it is. That would spoil their tranquility."

Secrecy is necessary because in six years the company has built up its English collectors club to about 15,000 members, making it one of the largest clubs involved in collectibles in a country that is extraordinarily craft minded. (There is also a club in Canada and a fast growing one in this country.) If these members started making pilgrimages to the original houses in their collections, it might well disturb the owner's tranquility.

After a building is selected, it is photographed in great detail. "Then the original models is sculpted in special wax we developed ourselves," explained Fitness. "With tiny, tiny tools, the artists carve the model from a hard block of wax. They have to get every last detail into the model because after the original model is done, there can't be any more detail. Then it must be scrutinized by members of the company. Each piece may have a different painter so they may vary slightly."

The English love these replicas of old treasured cottages and other buildings because they are part of their heritage, Fitness said. To Americans, they also have similar appeal.

Diane Gamble, who came from Mt. Clemens to Plymouth to talk to the English visitor, is one of them. "I have always loved English history and architecture. I love English anything. I love to read their history. These pieces are unique in their detail, entirely different," she remarked.

SHE ADDED A financial note. "If they have pieces that they retire, I bet that in two or three years they double or triple in value. The only way to get one then is to go through someone willing to sell."

At Georgia's Gift Gallery, the cost of the smallest Lilliput item is $21.50 for Bridge House, while the largest, more elaborate Tudor Court sells for $294.95.

The gallery is currently kicking off with the sale of a Christmas house called Deer Park Hall, said Michelle Suttle, who with her brother Livonian Michael McCarty owns the shop. Covered with snow, Deer Park Hall is a copy of a home made of oak and brick that is set in a herringbone pattern.

Tuning in to murmurings of a magical place

Mona Grigg is on vacation. Her column is being written by a colleague, Sarah Wolfe, a Livonia writer whose mystery-suspense novel, "Long Chain of Death," was published in 1987. She is currently at work on another book.

WHEN I was a graduate student at the University of Michigan's School of Library Science, a guest lecturer ventured the opinion that most librarians were people who had worked in some other profession first, and then, when they had failed or become disillusioned with it, had turned to librarianship.

The reason for this, he said, was that as children they had found libraries to be comfortable, safe havens to which they now, in the face of failure or unhappiness, wished to return.

I have no way of knowing whether his theories were supported by facts or merely opinion.

But in my case, it is certainly true that I had had a previous profession that I did not find altogether satisfactory. It is also true that the library I used in my childhood seemed like a warm retreat where a child was welcome to linger and explore.

WHEN I am asked how or why I became a writer, I try to give a meaningful answer, but in the back of my mind I know that the small town library with which I grew up has as much to do with it as anything.

The adult reading room was all pale oak and bright overhead lights. The stacks for adults were on two levels, with the second level overlooking the circulation desk and only an ancient iron grillework to keep the unwary from falling to the floor below.

The stairs to that redoubtable place were circular, the first circular stairs I had ever seen, and they creaked, as did the wooden floors.

BUT THOSE places were the province of adults, and it was only with a kind of awesome daring that a child ventured into them.

The children's reading room was in the back, behind the circulation desk, and it was paneled in dark walnut, like the refuge of some baronial book lover. Three walls were covered with books, while windows in the fourth wall overlooked the town park.

The tables were walnut, too, and the chairs — everything dark and warm as a summer night or a mother's hug.

I spent a great many hours in that library, exploring, reading, developing the sense I've had ever since that libraries are intriguing places where the wisdom of the ages, all the thoughts that anyone has ever expressed, all the stories that anyone has ever told, lie in wait to be discovered and discovered and discovered again by each new reader.

A WRITER friend shares similar recollections from her childhood, though her local library was quite different.

Hers was the McGregor Branch of the Detroit Public Library, a building she remembers as huge and glorious, having massive columns, echoing marble floors, rich dark oak, and room after room of books. Such a marvelous building could only have the purpose of containing extraordinary treasures.

Both of us understand completely the young Adso of Melk in "The Name of the Rose."

When he confronts the first library he has ever seen, he perceives it was a "place of long, centuries-old mur-

Plymouth Symphony conquers Russian Masterworks

By Mary Jane Doerr
special writer

The term "jolie de vivre" is not one that we usually apply to Russian music, but Saturday evening the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra did exactly that in its program of Russian Masterworks.

A vigorous and assertive orchestra, led by conductor Russell Reed, made its way through a tough evening of the light-hearted Kabalevsky "Overture to Colas Breugnot" and ## review

the exotic Rimsky-Korsakov "Scheherazade."

Only the Khachaturian "Cello Concerto" echoed the country's recent history of Stalin's political murders and World War II atrocities.

Detroit symphony cellist Debra Fayrolan performed the demanding-ly difficult Khachaturian concerto with intensity, playing the dark piece with alternately reflective pianissimo and forte. Very carefully, she varied the consistent repeats, always maintaining the melodic line until the musical fervor reached its height. Her style is deliberate and technical but not without substance or emotional empathy for the subject of her music.

HER INTERPRETATION never lacked for direction and purpose. She held the audience in persistent attention. A lesser artist would have lost the listener in what could have been a boring rendition of continuous repeated musical phrasing. Fayrolan knew how to utilize that quality in the work to bring about the musical appreciation for this unusual masterpiece.

While "jolie de vivre" could hardly be applied to the cello concerto, the orchestra's featured work of Rimsky-Korsakov's "Scheherazade" was lively. Once the concert-goer learns where to sit in the Plymouth-Salem Auditorium to best savor the full sound of the 90-piece ensemble, it is easily understood why Rimsky-Korsakov is the master of orchestration.

Definitely, the second movement, "The Tale of the Kalender Prince" was the most interesting with the solos in the orchestra from the principals in the flute, oboe, clarinet, horn, cello and violin.

Concertmaster Tapani Vrkola performed the solo of illustrious Saltana Scheherazade with a sweet sounding instrument. That clear pure sound is the way every violin should sound. Apparently the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra is endowing its principal chairs. Vrkola holds the Oliver H. Wagner Chair as concertmaster. Principal Violoncello Ingrid Shank holds the Charles W. Heidt Chair.

The Plymouth Symphony Orchestra has 29 violins for a total of 55 stringed instrumentalists to its total size of 80 instrumentalists. The result is a dominant blend of both strings and winds which showed off the "Scheherazade" to advantage during the final movement.

briefly speaking

FAMILY MAGIC SHOW

"The Magical Matt Jacobson Show" will be held at the Livonia Civic Center Library at 1 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 22. Tickets, which are free, are available at the library, on Five Mile. Because of limited seating in the library auditorium, admission will be by ticket only. There is a limit of four tickets per family. The event is sponsored by the Livonia Arts Commission. For more information, call 421-2000, Ext. 351.

PALETTE AND BRUSH EXHIBIT

The Palette and Brush Club annual fall art show will be held at the Livonia City Hall now through Friday, Oct. 28. The exhibit, in the City Hall lobby, is open to the public during normal business hours, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. There is no admission. The event is sponsored by the Livonia Arts Commission.

EMANUELE EXHIBIT

Madonna College Exhibit Gallery will present a photography exhibit by Art Emanuele, Observer & Eclectic photographer, now through Friday, Oct. 14. There is no admission charge. Gallery hours are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Friday, 1-4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

OUR TOWN EXHIBIT

Michigan comes alive this month at the juried Our Town art exhibition and sale opening Wednesday, Oct. 19, in the Community House in Birmingham. Approximately 250 works of art by 140 Michigan artists will be on display during the five-day exhibition. The event is open to the public and there is no admission charge. The Community House is located at 380 S. Bates.

ART GALLERY WALK

Oakland Community College is one of seven designated stops throughout the city on the Royal Oak Art Gallery Walk from 7-10 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 19. Potters from OCC's ceramics program, the largest in Michigan, will demonstrate the craft. In addition, there will be a fine arts and photography exhibit, and walkers will be able to tour various arts, dance and humanities classes.

There is no charge for the walk and refreshments will be served. Brochures with a map and details are available from the Royal Oak

GRAPHICS EXHIBIT

Eastern Michigan University will present the exhibit, "Design for the Public Good," through Wednesday, Oct. 26, in Ford Gallery on EMU's campus in Ypsilanti.

The 95-piece exhibit features exceptional graphic work relating to the advocacy of public causes, non-profit or public-spirited events and works designed to raise and promote non-profit and public institutions. The exhibit is free and open to the public. Ford Gallery, which is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, is in Ford Hall on EMU's campus.

PLATE ARTIST APPEARING

Sandra Kuck, plate artist, will make a guest appearance at Georgia's Gift Gallery, 575 Forest Avenue, Plymouth, on Saturday, Oct. 8. In addition to autographing her children's series, Kuck will show the limited-edition silk fan that is making its debut in the collectible market. There is no admission charge.

SISSON GALLERY

Sculpture by Aristotellis A. Kambouris, painting by Gary W. Wojdyla and painting and sculpture by Russell A. Rock will be featured in an exhibition in Sisson Gallery, Henry Ford Community College, Dearborn.

The gallery is in the MacKenzie Fine Arts Building.

In praise of libraries

muring, an imperceptible dialogue between one parchment and another, a living thing, a receptacle of powers not to be ruled by a human mind, a treasure of secrets emanated by many minds, surviving the death of those who had produced them or had been their conveyors."

FROM MY experience as both a librarian and a writer, I know now that libraries are that and much more.

There is hardly a question of fact or information that a good library cannot answer, or at least point the question in the proper direction to find an answer.

As a librarian, I have found answers to questions like: Have there been any studies done on the efficacy of raising self-esteem as a treatment for teen-age drug users? And: How much does a snow leopard weigh?

For my own writing, I have learned in my local library how to identify oneself over the phone to the keepers of one's numbered Swiss bank account, as well as how, when in the desert, to use the delicate shadings of the sand to determine which areas are soft or unstable and should be avoided.

TO PUT oneself in contact with art and the artist, libraries are special.

One can attend a concert and hear a performance, but one is limited to going at the time that the concert is given, and sitting in a hall full of other listeners and listening to whatever the artist chooses to perform.

One can indeed go to a gallery or a museum at one's own convenience and wander at one's own pace, skipping pieces of lesser interest and lingering before those found more fulfilling.

But one cannot take a genuine

Rembrandt or Klee or Brose home for further study and contemplation without significantly lightening one's pocketbook.

But any day of the week, one can take home a genuine Shakespeare or Clancy or Welty or Lynch. And keep it for three weeks!

IN MY local library I see parents bringing children in to select books, to take home. There are toys and games that can be borrowed. What fun! What a marvel!

But sometimes those parents are, in such a hurry that the children barely have time to settle in and find a good book, even less to begin to discover what a library can do for them.

Once or twice I have come around the corner of a bookshelf and found a parent reading to a child, as if the book is so good that neither of them can even wait to get home to read it. That's promising.

But what I like to see best of all is the child who has been given the time to wander and explore, to become familiar enough with this astonishing and wonderful place that he or she begins to hear that long, centuries-old murmuring, that imperceptible dialogue, and begins to sense that treasure of secrets.

NOW, WHEN I walk into a library, I sometimes go to the shelf and look for my own book.

If I don't find it, I'm pleased, because that means that someone is right now in the process of reading what I've written, a real communication between us, though we've probably never met.

If I do find it, I'm somewhat disappointed that it's there and not in circulation. But I shouldn't be, because, sitting on the shelf, my voice has now joined in the murmuring of that magical place.

IMAGINE DYING FROM A DISEASE YOU NEVER KNEW YOU HAD.

Eleven million people in the U.S. have diabetes. But almost half of them don't know it.

Untreated, diabetes can lead to heart disease, kidney disease, blindness and gangrene.

And for 150,000 people each year, it leads to death.

That's why you should be aware of the symptoms of diabetes: blurred vision, excessive thirst and frequent urination are just some of the warning signs. Because the sooner you find out if you have diabetes, the more likely you are to get it under control, before complications set in.

Finding out you have diabetes can be scary. But not finding out can be fatal.

The Green Hill difference!

Do you come home to an apartment or a 75-acre estate?

Most apartment living measures 600+ sq. ft. Ours measures over 3,000,000 sq. ft. Green Hill residents enjoy a gorgeous 75-acre estate setting of park and woodland, peace and tranquility. You're right next door to the I-275 corridor, just minutes away from I-96, a direct route to downtown Detroit. See our 1- and 2-bedroom luxury apartments, terrace residences and country townhouses on 9 Mile, 1 1/2 miles west of Farmington Road in Farmington Hills.
